"St. Joseph—Money—Markets—Men" is St. Joseph's new slogan. How do you like it?

At present prices for spring lamb the farmer who bred a few ewes hit a pretty good way of making money.

There are doubtless reckless drivers of automobiles, but careless pedestrians outnumber the former about 100 to 1.

It's a dull day when the city newspapers do not display their ignorance of live stock and market affairs in some way or other.

The race between heavy cattle and yearlings for market-dipping honors is now neck and neck, but with the latter the favorite in the betting.

It is constantly hinted in some quarters that the country assessor possibly had a hand in seeing a lot of hogs into the market hopper last week.

St. Joseph has her official slogan, but there's probably a lot of those who submitted slogans in the contest who think the committee that decided the winner was deficient in judgment.

Revising School Studies.

Let no one say that the schools have fallen into a rut and are able to see no possibility beyond their routine. There is a school in Oregon, in a rural village, where credits are given to the children for the "chores" they do at home, for milking the cow, feeding the chickens, chopping the firewood and similar tasks.

The Leading Drug at from SALIX, IOWA. Thinks There is Nothing in the World So Good as The NEAL CURE FOR THE DRINK HABIT

"I consider The Neal Cure the only combination of pure drugs that will deliver a man back to his home and happiness, free from the desire for any more alcoholic liquors. It did this for me, and, being a druggist, I know it will do it for others. I can truthfully say that it will cure positively and that it only requires about thirty doses of a pleasant internal medicine, with no hypodermic injections. The Neal Treatment is most wonderful. I think so well of the treatment I received at your place that I am going to bring my family to Excelsior Springs and go into business, and I want to advise anyone who needs a drink and drug cure to go there and take it, for, in conjunction with the wonderful natural waters there, your Institute is the best in the country to receive treatment. Give me name to anyone and I will give every influence to have their cure.—J. H. R."

ONE OF MAIN ACTORS

Like an Eerie Tale of Fiction, but It Was an Actual Occurrence.

By VICTOR RADCLIFFE.

Gray hairs?—yes, plenty of them, as you see. Came in a night, too. You have read of that in many an eerie tale of fiction. Let me tell you one where it was an actual occurrence. I am the man to tell it, for I was one of the main actors in the life drama—very nearly a tragedy.

I was young and foolish in those old days, especially so over the Gladden girls, Mary and Bertha. The latter was the younger sister, but I favored Mary. She was sweet, gentle, gracious. Bertha was just the reverse—rompish and a coquette. A lover's tiff with Mary caused an estrangement. She was only pained but silent. I resented what I called her indifference, and, like the sallow, self-poisoned being I was, set about making things worse, believing I was independent and smart.

Bertha was ready for any innocent frolic. I made up to her, and it pleased her feckle nature to boast that she had stolen her sister's suitor away. Perhaps she liked me, but when Rose Evans came along she changed her mind. Young Evans was a fine, manly fellow, but I was in such mood that discontent with my work, jealous, conceit and a miserable jealousy over Mary's calm, quiet ways combined to make me bitter and vengeful. Evans had come to work in the drafting department of the great Vaicun Iron works. He was bright, clever and accommodating, but the first time I saw him in Bertha's company, and noted the mischievous twinkling in her bright eyes, I marked him down for my worst enemy. I visited the Gladdens no more, and lined up with a rapid group, shirking my duty at the bank days and wasting my time nights.

I met Mary on the street one day, and she looked reproachfully at me, I fancied. I was in my usual ugly mood.

"Some Dark Night We'll Capture Evans."

however, I hung my head at a thought of how she must know about the bad company I was keeping, and slunk away without speaking to her. A very bad crowd it was, indeed—the worst of the reckless groups of loiterers about the town.

There was a young fellow named Dave Tompkins, who was a member of the reckless group I was training with. In some way he fathomed my feelings regarding the Gladdens. One evening when we were together he made the casual remark:

"I suppose you feel none too kindly towards that fellow Evans?"

"Kindly!" I snarled, in my very worst mood at the time, for I had been called down about my shiftless work at the bank that day by the cashier—"I hate him!"

"Then maybe you and I can do some business together?" intimated Tompkins, with a wicked laugh.

"What do you mean?" I inquired.

"Well," was the response, "he's an interloper. I happen to have heard how he cut in with the Gladden girls."

I made no reply but nursed my wrath darkly.

"Then, again, he blocked my plans. I was slated for the position he now fills, when he came along with his recommendations and cheek and got in ahead of me. I'll admit he's smart and steady, but if he was out of the way I'd get the job. The company knows I'm good at it; they couldn't find a more experienced man, so—will you help me give Evans a vacation?"

"How do you mean?" I asked.

It was a precious scheme that Tompkins proposed. When I look back at it I see how close I was to the brink of becoming a criminal. I shudder. He saw that I was reluctant to engage in any real criminal undertaking, so he made my share of it appear light and easy for me.

"Some good friends are willing to assist me in getting my rights," was the plausible way in which he put it. "All the details are arranged. Some dark night we'll capture Evans as he is leaving the works. You know he often stays over-time."

"What do you intend to do with him?" I inquired rather uneasily.

GIVES PHYSICIANS NEW IDEA

Experiment Seems to Disprove Notion About the Spreading of Nerve Disease Germs.

The power of a small glass partition to prevent the spread of infectious diseases has been known in the hospitals of Europe for several years, but is only becoming recognized in America. In the contagious wards of the Brooklyn children's hospital glass partitions about five feet high are placed between the beds. And the effect is really astonishing. In one bed may be a child with pneumonia, in the next one with scarlet fever, in the next one with measles. Cerebrospinal meningitis, diphtheria and other such diseases may be represented in the other beds, but since the installation of the glass partitions no child "catches" the disease that his neighbor has.

And yet the air circulates freely all around and above the glass partitions, and one would think that the germs would spread almost as easily as if these were not there. Yet experience has proved that this is not so.

Physicians are revising their views about the spread of contagious diseases through the air. Some are even ridiculing the fumigation of rooms. The suggestion is that most of the pathogenic germs die very quickly in the air; that persons must come fairly close to the patients and be in almost direct contact with them if they are to "catch" the disease.

HOT WEATHER IN THE ARCTIC

Stefansson's Men Suffered Tortures From Heat and the Swarms of Mosquitoes.

"July was intolerably hot. We had no thermometer, but I feel sure," says Stefansson, the explorer, in Harper's Magazine, writing of summer days in the Arctic, "that many a day the temperature must have been over 100 degrees in the sun, and sometimes for weeks on end there was not a cloud in the sky. At midnight the sun was found round and glistened with brambles, my hands and face cut and bleeding, and I was drenched to the skin. And my hair—turned white!"

I have a dim memory of coming back to the village. Some powerful influence drew me to the home where Evans lived. A light in a room I knew to be his led me to look in.

It was to view, tranquil and visible in all form and substance, the man I had murdered! Then the last shock, and I fell, crashing helplessly through the window.

When I came back to life, I lay on a couch. Bending over me, kindly and anxious, was Evans. He smiled sadly, and gently stroked my whitened hair, with the pathetic words:

"Poor, poor fellow!"

I lay like a man of stone until I learned how he had escaped. When thrown into the cupola bin, his clothing had caught on a tool hook. It was the effigy used to ridicule the political candidate that I had seen rolling down into that molten furnace, though it was Evans' own yell I had heard as the hopper opened beneath where he hung.

Rose Evans did something more than nurse me—she brought Mary Gladden to my bedside. You can realize that I was in a state of mind to drift forever out of the bad net I had got into. Full-grown man that I was, to the woman I truly loved I sobbed out my gratitude and my remorse.

NEW ARTIFICIAL HAIR IDEA

Frenchman Has Found That Spun Crystal Will Imitate Actually the Demand to Be Supplied.

France seems to be the land where most experiments for making artificial hair are carried on. Not long ago attempts were made to form wigs from certain fibrous plants, the same kind that have served to furnish material for rugs and blankets. By splitting fibers extremely fine and then treating them chemically it was possible to make an artificial hair. But the price was high and the results not satisfactory.

Now successful experiments have proven that it is possible to use spun crystal and reduce it to any shade and degree of fineness.

And the resemblance to the human hair is almost perfect. It is light, also, lustrous, and absolutely hygienic.

A German engineer has invented a way to transform ashes into marble of rare beauty and which will take the highest polish. But he absolutely refuses to reveal his secret, although several owners of large quarries have made him splendid offers for his secret.

His method seems simple as far as his apparatus is concerned. He has a small gas stove and a kettle. It is known, of course, that his process is a matter of chemical synthesis, and with these few implements and his secret he has been known to manufacture a medium sized slab of marble in half an hour.

Exciting Time.

Mrs. Jones ran out the back door and sped across the lot to the dividing line.

"Mrs. Beckett, oh, Mrs. Beckett, come out! Come out quick! There's something happening at Mrs. Newwed's across the street!"

"For the land sakes! What is it?" bubbled Mrs. Beckett, hurrying toward her neighbor.

"Well, I just can't make out," shrieked Mrs. Jones, "whether it's a baby or her first cake."—Judge.

NO EXCUSE FOR SKEPTICS

Truth of the United Doctors Claims Easily Investigated.

There are thousands of people in St. Joseph and Missouri who are living lives of misery and suffering terrible torture from diseases which they would willingly give untold wealth to have cured if they only could find some doctor who had the knowledge and skill to cure them. Sick people cannot be blamed for becoming skeptics after they have gone from doctor to doctor and paid out great sums of money for treatment only to be disappointed again and again.

But to such sick people who live within reach of St. Joseph there now comes a ray of hope. There is no longer any use for skepticism on the part of any one. The United Doctors who have their St. Joseph offices located at 729 Felix street, second floor, have made so many cures of deep-seated chronic and nervous diseases, that any one who is at all skeptical can soon become convinced that there is really a cure for him by calling on or writing to some of the cured patients who are glad to tell any sufferer how they were cured and certified by the United Doctors.

Every day letters are received by these specialists from cured patients. Some are testifying every day about a wonderful cure made by these specialists—and they are people who live here or near here; they are your neighbors or friends.

Parnell Mo., June 10, 1913. I can say that I have improved wonderfully under the United Doctors' treatment. In fact I have gained more in four months' treatment with them than I did in four years of treatment with other doctors. I have gained fifteen pounds in four months and look and feel better in every way. My trouble was catarrh of the bowels and kidneys and rheumatism. I had spent a great deal of money with many doctors without relief. But the United Doctors went at the case altogether different and I am improving under them almost from the start. I am highly pleased with their treatment and can gladly recommend other sufferers to them.

MRS. MATILDA KIELDER. People are coming from great distances to be examined, eight states being represented among the patients of the United Doctors, whose St. Joseph offices always present a busy appearance. The work of these specialists in the cure of chronic diseases is attracting wide attention. The following diseases are easily cured when the true underlying cause of the trouble is investigated and found, and the patient comes before it is too late: Diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys, blood, nerves and digestive organs, including rheumatism, epilepsy, colic, gallstones, catarrh, bronchial affections, constipation, weak nerves, wakefulness, loss of weight and decline in strength, diseases of women and diseases of men.—Adv.

NOT THE SAME UNCLE MERRY

Circumstances Had Made a Change in His Position, and He Wanted It to Be Understood.

At Sumter, N. C., there was a large crowd of colored people at the depot as the train pulled in. An old bald-headed Uncle Jerry had his head out of the coach set apart for colored passengers, and a man on the platform recognized him and called out:

"Hello, Misser Stivers! Is dat yo'?"

The old man looked straight at him but made no response.

"Hello, Misser Stivers!"

No response.

"Say, Misser Stivers, has yo' lostos yo' hearing?" persisted the man as he drew nearer.

"Boy, was yo' talkin' to me?" demanded the old man.

"Sartin. What's de matter?"

"Boy, does yo' want anything of me?"

"Why, how yo' talk! Reckon yo' has got de hoodoo."

"Does yo' evidently reckon yo' knows me?"

"Of co'se I know yo'. Yo' is ole man Stivers."

"When did yo' know me?"

"Las' fall. Why, I dun worked wid yo' fur three months."

"An' when yo' dun worked, wid me what was I a-doin'?"

"Drivin' dem mews fur Kurnel Johnson."

"Exactly sah. But I want yo' to understand dat dere is a heap o' difference atwixt drivin' dem mews fur Kurnel Johnson an' ridin' on de kivered kyars along wid white folks. I might a-knowned yo' last fall, sah, but if yo' desiar to permeate any alonged conversation wid me yo' introuge some responsible gen'l'm'n to introduce yo'."—Chicago Record-Herald.

This Ship's Cat Was Saved.

About twenty years ago, when I was resident in North China, the British squadron then in far-eastern waters was steaming out of the port of Chefoo when a little black cat fell overboard from H. M. S. Wanderer, writes a correspondent of the London Spectator.

At once the ship stopped, signaled to her consort "Cat overboard," and the entire squadron came to a standstill. A boat put off from the Wanderer and rescued puss, who was swimming for dear life after the ship.

The officer who told me the story said the sailors would have been furious if the little cat had not been saved, for not only was she a great pet, but they firmly believed that disaster would follow if a black cat was allowed to drown.

SADDLE WON FIANCE

How Miss Ethel Roosevelt Captured Future Husband.

Riding to the Hounds and to Polo Wins Heart of Young Doctor—Both Popular and Have Many Friends.

New York.—It was the most natural thing in the world for Miss Ethel Carew Roosevelt and Dr. Richard Derby, whose betrothal has been announced, to fall in love, because they are both in love with a good horse and ardently devoted to outdoor sports and exercises. So Miss Roosevelt, a superb horse woman, figuratively rode into the doctor's heart, and it was as a fine cavalier that he won her, most probably.

The intimate friends of the young pair needed no gift of prophecy to foretell months ago that Doctor Derby would ask, "Will you ride side by side with me through life?" and that Miss Roosevelt would answer, blushing, "Yes."

Besides being an admirable horseman, Doctor Derby is a Harvard man, was graduated in '03, and that gave him an advantage "in the running," as Miss Roosevelt herself might say. Certainly it did no harm that Doctor Derby could add a Harvard degree to his many virtues and accomplishments when he came to "ask papa."

In a word, the romance of Miss Roosevelt and Doctor Derby has been a romance of the saddle. They were very much in each other's society last summer and autumn at open air horse shows. Together they applauded the polo at the Meadow Brook and Rock away clubs and at the Piping Rock Country club at Locust Valley.

They rode to the Meadowbrook hounds during the past autumn, they laughed together at the gymkhana games at the Rockaway Hunt club on Labor day and at the Piping Rock Country club in October. And their friends, seeing how intensely interested Miss Roosevelt and Doctor Derby were in each other, made sure to invite them to the same house parties on Long Island—as everybody knows Propinquity and Cupid go hand in hand.

Her friends vow that Miss Roosevelt is a fine type of sweet American womanliness, the result of the ideal home atmosphere she has had. The lucky man who has won her seems worthy of her. There is nothing ing of the mollycoddle about Doctor Derby.

Miss Ethel Roosevelt.

His Harvard classmates thought so much of him that they made him first marshal of the class at the commencement of '03, and there is no higher honor his fellows can confer on a chap.

Doctor Derby was president of his class one year and was graduated with honors. He rowed in the varsity boat, and played half back on the eleven during his career at Harvard.

CANTEEN SAVES DEER'S LIFE

Motorcyclists Give Exhausted Animal a Drink, After Almost Running It Down.

Winsted, Conn.—Riding to Colbrook river on his motorcycle, E. C. Humphrey came upon a deer with its tongue hanging out and suffering from exhaustion.

The animal managed to keep ahead of his motorcycle in the road a distance of a quarter of a mile, but Humphrey said he was compelled to slacken speed several times to avoid hitting the deer, which finally fell into a ditch beside the road.

Humphrey gave the deer some stimulants from his emergency canteen, and after half an hour's rest it seemingly regained its strength and bounded away.

It is believed that the deer had been chased by dogs.

Hog Brings Record Price.

Cannonsburg, Pa.—Judge Charles V. Keeler of Winamac, Ind., left for home with a hog which he was forced to buy for $100 after it had swallowed a $200 watch the judge dropped. The jurist wanted the farmer owning the porker to kill the pig in order to get his timepiece, but the farmer refused.

20 MILLION MUMMIES FOUND

Thousands of the Best Preserved of These Egyptian Relics Are in the Museums of the World.

Cairo, Egypt.—It has been estimated that something like twenty million Egyptian mummies have been discovered. Thousands of those best preserved are now in the showcases of the various museums of the world, says the Christian Herald. In the tombs with the mummies were countless other objects. There were paintings on the walls, chairs and tables, jars containing the parts of the body which were removed when the mummy was prepared, mummy cases gaudily colored with funeral scenes and hieroglyphic inscriptions, and in the cases along with the mummies were papyrus. Beneath each mummy's head, like a cushion, was a little disk of clay or papyrus, covered with mythological pictures and with a stereotyped hymn. The disks, found in great numbers, are nearly alike, varying only slightly with the period from which they come.

"Hypoccephali" they are called, because they were placed beneath the head. Like the mummies, the objects found with them have been scattered abroad, and in the museum at Cairo any tourist may purchase as many of them as he will.

The inscriptions on the disks and the mummy cases, of course, could not at first be read, nor could the mythological pictures accompanying them be understood until the inscriptions could be read. However, in 1799 the famous Rosetta Stone was discovered, and Champollion, a French scholar, began the slow process of deciphering its hieroglyphic inscription with the aid of the accompanying Greek translation.

The process was so slow that it was not till 1841 that a grammar of the Egyptian language appeared. Then the progress in the study of the language was rapid and the strange hieroglyphics became as intelligible as an English newspaper.

WAY TO LIVE WITHOUT SLEEP

Harvard Professor Put Body to Rest at Will for Twenty Years While Brain Worked All Time.

Boston.—Experiments conducted at the state psychopathic hospital and confirmed by investigations in the psychological laboratory of Harvard university have demonstrated, in one instance at least, that sleep is unnecessary.

In order to carry on the experiments a special chair has been constructed which enables subjects to relax completely. Experiments were carried out by a Harvard professor, who has not slept for twenty years. Suffering from insomnia and threatened with insanity twenty years ago, this educator discovered by accident the art of resting without sleeping. He is now in good health. This is a "lost instinct" which Dr. Horton of the psychopathic hospital, and other eminent psychologists are striving to bring back to mankind.

This "twilight state" restores the bodily vigor in about half the time of sleep, while permitting the brain to put in twenty-four hours' work a day. It was said.

Dr. George Herbert Palmer, professor of philosophy, and Professor Munsterberg, head of the department of psychology, are personal friends of the sleepless educator, watching his case.

Dr. Horton admits that he has discovered the secret of the "lost instinct."

BEAUTY IS NOW INJECTED

Such is the Latest London Fad—Filling Out Neck Hollows—Cost Is From $250 to $500.

London.—Beauty by injection is the latest craze. The mode of the beautiful neck is responsible for a boom in beauty culture.

The present décolleté modes are making women flock to the beauty specialists in order to have hollows at the base of the neck, sometimes known as "salt-cellars," filled up. Evening bodices which are mere wisps of material and very décolleté are now worn in the daytime. By the injection of a new and secret composition all hollows can be perfectly filled.

The operation is so simple that a woman suffers no inconvenience. She can undergo it in the evening and yet go out the same evening without bearing any sign of the operation or fatigue. The composition used actually develops into tissue of flesh. It does not remain an artificial foreign matter under the skin.

The charge is from $250 to $500.

MAN IS CARRIED UP 100 FEET

Mechanic Is Given a Bad Scare When He Falls to Hear Signal to Let Go as Airship Starts.

London.—A mechanic holding a guy rope of the Gamma airship was carried into the air at Farnborough through not hearing an officer's signal to let go. Before then in the airship realized the man's position the Gamma was over 100 feet up. The craft was quickly lowered and the man, much shaken, released. The accident followed a cruise by the airship to Portsmouth and back.

WILL REBUILD NOAH'S ARK

Promoters of Floating Show to Use Idea of Bible Craft—Same Lines to Be Utilized.

New York.—A real Noah's Ark of approximately the same size as the original of the Old Testament, containing animals in great variety and capable of navigating any sea, is the unique plan of a company which has become public here. In reality the ship will be a huge marine circus.

The plans provide for a ship with a length of 525 feet, corresponding as nearly as may be to that of its prototype; a beam of 80 feet, a trifle less than the supposed width of Noah's ship, and a depth from awning-ridge to keel of a little more than fifty feet, or about the same as its original.

Her lines will be those of a first-class freighter of from 12,000 to 15,000 tons and, like several of the latest ships of its class, she will be fitted with oil engines in order that space and fuel may be economized and funnels dispensed with.

This will secure an uninterrupted view in the arena. In the lower hold, anti-roll tanks will be placed in position to lessen motion in heavy seas, and there will be oil reservoirs, machinery and engine-rooms, and storerooms in addition to watertight compartments, while a double skin, and bottom will make the ark practically unsinkable and unseizable.

The lowest deck will provide quarters for the various side shows, for an aquarium, aviary and hospital for man and beast, and a menagerie of splendid proportions from which there is to be a sloping roadway up to the arena deck for the use of the animals when a show is being given or for deck parades. The chief interest of the ship will be on the arena deck.

The deckhouses in which traveling performers will be accommodated will, when the ship is at sea, present no appearance of any peculiar character, but when the performance is to be given in port these houses will be pushed out until they overhang slightly and then there will be an available arena 350 feet by 125, surrounded by twelve tiers of seats and capable of seating upward of 7,500 persons. The incorporators say that they intend to begin building at once.

FINGER PRINTS DEATH KEY

Chauffeur Said to Have Confessed to Running Down Officer in Central Park.

New York.—The mystery of the killing of Policeman Peter Fitzsimmons by an automobile at night in Central Park four months ago was cleared, according to the police, by confession from Robert Rothelm, a 20-year-old chauffeur for Felix Isman, the theatrical manager.

Finger prints in blood on the body of the dead patrolman left by some one who had carried the body to the side of the driveway and tossed it into the undergrowth, served as a clue. Detectives worked quietly for months on the case before suspicion fell upon Rothelm, but before arresting him they ran down finger prints found on his automobile which, it was alleged, were identical with those on the policeman's body. When confronted with the evidence it is alleged Rothelm confessed.

DON'T NEED TO BE LABELED
Any Man of Sense Would Know That These Two Stories Were Merely Fables.

Once upon a time there was a beaten golfer who admitted that he had missed no short putts—and that his winning rival had "gobbed" no long ones; who confessed that he was on his game and that while beaten by the margin of 3 and 2, without great luck the count would have been 8 and 6.

Moral—They backed him up against a bunker and shot him at sunrise before he became more violent.

Once upon a time there was a fan who left the ball park and called out to a friend:

"Greatest game of the year, pal; they beat us 3 to 2; but if the ump hadn't slipped us a couple of close ones, the count would have been 3 to 0. They played better ball and won on the level."

Moral—They didn't even wait until sunrise to put this guy. Another ten minutes, and he might have been beyond all human control.—Grantland Rice, in Collier's Weekly.
