Daddy's Bedtime Story

Fluffy Graycat And Little Emily's Spools.

"Cuddle down, cuddle down," said daddy as Jack and Evelyn climbed into his arms. "If you want a story I will tell you about Fluffy Graycat."

"To begin with, Fluffy Graycat was in disgrace. He had been naughty. His little mistress was learning to sew. She had a nice new work-box in which were spools and balls of cotton.

"Though Fluffy had begged and begged, little Emily would never allow Fluffy Graycat to play with these. 'You must be a good little kitten and play with your ball,' Emily would say when Fluffy would jump up and beg for a spool to play with.

"Fluffy thought this was very selfish of Emily. 'Just as if I'd hurt her old spools!' he grumbled to himself. 'Spools are not meant for kittens to play with,' Fluffy's mother told him.

"If you want sport come to the barn with me and watch a mouse hole. 'But Fluffy did not wish to go out into the barn. He stayed right on the rug, sulkily watching Emily as she threaded her needle and began to sew.

"Emily, come here a minute! The little girl's mother called from upstairs, and Emily ran off in a hurry. This was the chance he had been looking for. Fluffy raised his head. This was the chance he had been looking for.

"First he unrolled the white thread, then he tried the black; then he opened up another spool and with his little paws twisted this thread with the others until he had made a fine tangle.

"He slipped the spools about over the floor and did not at first mind, though the threads wrapped around his paws and legs. In a little bit they were so twisted about his body that he could not walk, and then he roared over and tried to wriggle out of the tangle. But the more he wriggled, of course the more he was a prisoner.

"No one came for quite a long time. Then Emily tripped downstairs. When she saw what had happened she was at first very much provoked. 'Your naughty Fluffy Graycat!' she said. 'It serves you right for meddling with my things!'

"But Fluffy put on a very miserable face and meowed so pitifully that tender-hearted little Emily knelt down and with her little scissors cut the threads that bound him.

"Up jumped Fluffy, not minding in the least the little slap which his mistress gave him as a punishment for meddling with her box. He went right off to the barn, where old Mrs. Graycat was watching a mouse hole, and when he told her what had happened you may be sure she gave her son a scolding."

The same bill will be offered today and tomorrow.

PLAN STATE FARM BANK. Agricultural Institution for Wage Earners' Benefit.

Norman, Ok., June 19.—Under the initiative and referendum a measure will be submitted to the voters of Oklahoma on August 5 for the establishment of a state agricultural bank for the benefit of farmers.

"We are meeting with bitter opposition," said Prof. Berrigan, "as the interests that are entrenched in the business of living off the farmers by loaning money will not surrender that advantage without a great struggle.

"Actual necessity is the reason for the effort to initiate this bill in Oklahoma. In the United States, according to the last census reports, there are upward of $2,000,000,000 worth of farm mortgages, all due in from one to five years, with no possibility of payment in that time, but necessitating endless renewals, with the consequent commissions, bonuses and fees added to the interest rate, which, according to the census, is on the average about 8 per cent.

FATHER MAKES EARLY START

Every One in the Family Feared That the Breadwinner Would Be Late.

Mrs. T. awoke with a start, looked at the clock with alarm and bounced out of bed. The reliable old family clock showed that it was 5:10.

"Henry!" she called. "Get up. You've got to get that car at 5:25; it's 5:10!"

Henry rolled out of bed, cutting short a leave taking from the delightful realm that lies just between waking and sleeping.

Just then came a grumble and a series of movements in a little side room, and Mrs. T., busy with breakfast preparations, realized her son Chester was up and about.

The breakfast was hurriedly eaten, and Mr. T., with his lunch, hastened to the car line. Mrs. T. yawned and told Chester to go to the grocery for a fresh box of cereal for a guest's breakfast.

Twenty minutes later, with a clatter and bang, Chester reached the house again. "Mamma!" he shouted. "There wasn't a single store open—and it's awful dark!"

There came a second step on the veranda. The door opened and Mr. T. lurch in one hand and watch in the other, came in. Silently he held his chronometer before Mrs. T.'s bewildered eyes.

"I waited for a car that didn't come—then looked at my watch," explained Mr. T., with just a trace of sarcasm and weariness.

LOST STAGE COACH

Had Been Buried in the Sand Forty Years With Its $30,000 Treasure.

By SELINA LILLIAN HIGGINS. "You must not be discouraged, Abner," spoke Mrs. Waldron in her patient, sympathizing way.

"I'm not, mother," was the prompt but infinitely weary response. "It is not the loss of business, home and friends. What worries me is the fact that after all my sacrifices, I shall not be able to pay my creditors in full. It is a pretty heavy load for an old man like me to carry."

"Remember the promise: 'On whom God's hand resteth, hath God at his right hand.'"

Abner Waldron tried to smile bravely, kissed the dear old patient face of his helpmeet, and left the house for his accustomed stroll. It had ceased to seem like home for a week past, for it was scheduled to follow the rest of his possessions and go towards paying his debts.

He had done very well in a business way, until a smooth, smart city promoter had come to Albion. His father, James Waldron, the banker, had come to the little Michigan town 50 years since.

It was a Great, Lumbering, Old-Fashioned Vehicle.

Honore have driven happiness away from everybody who had anything to do with me."

Abner evaded meeting his neighbors, and took a lonely route out of town. He was soon among the sand hills. He wanted to think, plan out resignation for the present, contentment for the future. It was a great sand district about Albion, lying along the lake shore, air currents had piled up great yellow mountains of the shifting particles. One wind storm would obliterate this nature-building within an hour. Abner got in among the dunes, and sat down amid as lonely and desolate a scene as could well be imagined.

The bleak environment chilled him, but at the same time quieted. Alone and undisturbed, he reviewed all the past. He bravely faced the future. After all, it would be rest and peace after turmoil and strife. The small or children would be happy and comfortable, and the little farm might bring in enough to help him to pay eventually the debts that harassed his sensitive nature like a millstone about his neck.

A cheerful reaction took place in Abner's mind, as he reflected that after all his was not the worst condition in the world. He had a loyal, helpful wife and loving, obedient children. From a more comfortable attitude of mind his thoughts idly drifted, and he fell to dreaming over events in his past life. Then in a whimsical way a story of the long ago came to his memory.

His father had been well right up to the right among these treacherous sand hills nearly 40 years since. The event was the sensation of the hour through the whole district. James Waldron had removed his little country bank to Albion from Sankatuck in the next county. Over $30,000 in gold had been carried in locked iron boxes in an old stage coach. Its driver had lost his way among the sand hills, a great storm had come up, and he was blown from his seat against a rock and rendered insensible.

When I was a boy in Scotland I was fond of everything that was wild, and all my life I've been growing fonder and fonder of wild places and wild creatures, wrote John Muir in the Atlantic. Fortunately around my native town of Dunbar, by the stormy North sea, there was no lack of wildness, though most of the land lay in smooth cultivation.

Boycott on Subway Lines Causes Revocation of Offensive Rule in Berlin.

QUEER LEGACIES ON RECORD

Meant Much in the Old Days, Though They Seem Peculiar to the People of Today.

Ancient bequests for having bells rung and beacons lighted for the purpose of guiding travelers by night are quite numerous, which is hardly to be wondered at when one considers the apologies for roads and the absence of fences in the "good old days."

CAUSED TOURISTS A SHOCK

Pair Thought They Were Being Ambushed by Wild Animals, but It Was All Right.

Who says that adventure is dead? Only the other day a motorist and his wife were taking a turn through the forest of Fontainebleau when they got a "turn" of the sort they hardly bargained for.

BUYING BOOKS BY THE TITLE

Two Historic Examples to Show That This is by All Means a Dangerous Practice.

In the titles of books lie at times pitfalls for the unwary. An almost classic example was afforded by John Ruskin, when, in 1851, he wrote a short pamphlet on the text, "There shall be one fold and one shepherd."

URGES A MEAT DIET.

French Scientist Says Vegetables Do Not Meet People's Needs.

Paris, June 18.—Prof. Gautier of the Sorbonne has attacked vegetarianism with vigor in a lecture on the value of foodstuffs. Vegetarianism in no way responds, he says, to the needs, the requirements or the activities of European people. As a rule of life it is anything but desirable. It reduces the energy, weakens the will power and lessens the capacity of quick decision.

TO HIDE GUILLOTINE

Bill Is Before French Parliament to Abolish Publicity.

Spectacle of "Red Widow" and Her Victims in Streets of Paris Being Opposed by Many as Conducive to Crime.

Paris.—The death of criminals upon a guillotine set up in the street in full view of the public may soon be abolished in France. A bill for the repeal of the law providing for public executions of the death sentence is now pending in the chamber of deputies.

It is therefore probable that when the three—and possibly four—heads of the notorious bandits of the Bonnot band of outlaws are chopped off by the "Red Widow," as the French call the guillotine, the gory spectacle may be given in private. Should that be the case the motor bandits would be the first to "benefit" by the new law.

Public beheadings are intended to inspire awe. The would-be assassin is supposed to see the terrible end of fellows such as he and refrain from committing the deed.

The reverse of the picture is said by many to be true. The hardened criminal usually meets his doom in a way that inspires other of his stamp with the notion that he is a real hero. For public beheadings furnish occasion for the exhibition of a certain kind of bravado which has a strong appeal to the desperado type. Senator de Chamille, one of the leaders of the public beheading abolition movement, so says, adding that not only are such scenes disgusting beyond expression, but demoralizing in the extreme.

Beheadings now take place at sunrise. The condemned man is kept in ignorance of the date of his death until he is awakened to have his final toilet made for the knife. Until that moment he has hopes of executive clemency, it being the invariable rule to ask the president as a last resort to use his prerogative and show mercy.

The scene usually is in some street near the prison in which the man is confined. The narrower and more crooked that street, the better, since the authorities desire as few of the rabble as possible to see the blade fall. Scores of police and a large number of troops, on foot and a-horse, keep the crowd back and only the official newspaper men and prison chap are grouped about the base of the guillotine.

W. Several persons are beheaded they are brought out of the prison one at a time, the last to die not seeing the others meet their fate. The criminal is tied to a sort of block which pivots in the middle; he is given a push, he falls horizontal and the triangular blade descends. The head rolls into a basket on one side, the body is dumped into a similar but longer receptacle on the other. Then the carcass is carted away at a gallop while the headman's assistants wash the guillotine with huge sponges, which they wring out in pails of water.

They call this "making the widow's toilet for her next husband."

Much of this sickening sight as possible is hidden from the public, which remains passive, or becomes demonstrative according as to whether the man is an ordinary criminal, or "popular" or much disliked. If hated cries of "A mort!" and "Death to the murderer!" are heard as the knife falls.

Senator Chamille is against hiding the guillotine up a narrow street or blind alley. In a speech before the senate he said he favored abolition of the guillotine as a public exhibition, but until the government should make the necessary laws, behooving should take place in the broad open day and in the most crowded squares to be found. If the death is to be made public, said, then let it be really public. Have it where all may see it. He guarantees that if this rule be followed everybody would be so sickened at the sight there would be little opposition to private beheadings.

Bill in New Jersey Legislature Gives Heroic Remedy for Ills of Unemployment.

Trenton, N. J.—A bill in the legislature provides that after January 1, 1914, every municipality in the state shall provide work for every able-bodied citizen that applies to the overseer of the poor. The overseer shall "pay off" each night at the rate of $1.25 for eight hours' work, not in cash, but in provisions, fuel or clothing. Where there is no other work for such cases a town woodyard is to be established.

GENEVIEVE CLARK TO EUROPE

Daughter of Speaker Says She Will Not Lose Time in Learning How Governments Are Run.

New York—Miss Genevieve Clark, daughter of Speaker Champ Clark of the house of representatives, arrived here from Washington with her mother recently to meet Mrs. George B. M. Harvey, wife of the publisher, with whom she is going to Europe.

"I have seen in the papers that I am going to study the governments of Europe," said Miss Clark. "I am going for a pleasure trip, for I have just finished school and I want recreation, and I want to see Italy. But I don't intend to lose time in gaining new knowledge. I have no definite itinerary. Mrs. Harvey's daughter, who is nearly my own age, is in school in Rome and will join us on my 'Alice in Wonderland' trip. That's what I want it to be."

"What are your plans for the future—is it a specific work or is it marriage?"

The pretty dimples about the mouth came and the pretty face broke into a smile. "Maybe both; who knows? But one thing is sure; I have yet to meet a man like papa—my ideal. My present plan is to return after this trip and go to my mother's alma mater—the University of Missouri. I intend to specialize later on educational work to aid the mountain folk of Tennessee and Kentucky.

"These people have adhered so closely to the customs of their ancestors that some of their children, I am told, carry names that are entire biblical verses."

"But marriage—that is something that is indefinite as yet in your life?"

"Oh, yes, I suppose, as a girl of nineteen, I should be thinking of marriage, but I do not. You see co-education makes girls and boys remain longer in the family relation, so to speak. We are all like a lot of children, in a way. We chum with boys just as we do with our brothers, and romance is not lost but deferred, I should say."

BURIED TREASURE IS SOUGHT

Minneapolis Workmen Find Coins in Wrecking Aged House and May Discover a Fortune.

Minneapolis.—Buried treasure on the famous "Elder" Stewart property may be disclosed in the tearing down of the old frame buildings which have stood for decades in the heart of downtown Minneapolis. Workmen have found coins in the flooring so frequently that it is believed they have shaken from some place in the walls of the building.

"Elder" Stewart died in Minneapolis two years ago. He was an eccentric millionaire; for fifty years he had lived in a little white house on the corner of Fourth street and Hennepin avenue, proof against repeated attractive offers for his property. It was a most desirable business location. His shiny black coat and long white hair and his miserly living were familiar to the whole city. He lived alone in the little farmhouse structure, refusing to budge before the city's business life, attacking on all sides.

Now the buildings are being torn down and the finding of the coins leads to the belief the old "miser" had hidden part of his big fortune in the property. Some of the coins already found date back to colonial days and others are more recent.

MARRIAGE RULES ARE STRICT

Episcopal Prelate in Kansas Demands Physician's Certificate of Health and Other Formalities.

Salina, Kan.—Dean George Kinkoed of Christ's Cathedral (Episcopal) here has announced a set of rules to be followed in all weddings in which he officiates hereafter. They are:

Both principals must have been baptized.

Neither may have a divorced wife or husband living.

Some one known to the cathedral clergy must vouch for them.

They must vouch for at least two persons to act as witnesses.

Each must present a certificate signed by a reputable physician that they are free from disease and mentally normal.

Another rule is that bans must be published at least three times at services in the cathedral.

ELK GIVEN STATES

Thousands Needed by Government Agents on Preserves.

Herds Will Be Kept From Starving to Death and the Overcrowded Ranges Will Soon Be Replenished.

Denver.—The long-promised distribution of elk from Jackson's Hole and Yellowstone National Park has begun. Thousands of the animals are now being rounded up by cowboys on the overstocked range in Wyoming and Montana, and are being shipped by the carload to states that have sent in requests for them.

A carload of eighty elk, rounded up on the Yellowstone Park region and shipped from Gardiner, Mont., the northern gateway to the Yellowstone, arrived in Denver the other day on their way to Arizona. These elk will be turned out upon their new range in Arizona. They will be protected from hunters, under state laws, and will be given every opportunity to increase.

In the last few weeks herds of elk have been sent in this way to Pennsylvania, West Virginia, North Dakota, Washington, Oregon and California.

Only one of the Arizona consignments died en route. It is necessary to give the elk a rest every day. They are unloaded from all the cars and put into convenient corrals, and, after a few hours' rest, proceed on their journey. In this way the loss is comparatively small.

The government was forced to adopt this plan to prevent the elk in the west from going the way of the buffalo to extinction. Most of the elk in the Rocky mountains had ranged north until they reached the Jackson's Hole region south of Yellowstone Park. Here they congregated in vast herds. The number of elk in this region has been estimated at from 25,000 to 100,000 head, but C. D. Nowlin, former game commissioner of Wyoming who is now at the head of the work of transportation carried out by the government biological survey, estimates that the smaller number is nearer correct.

Last year congress appropriated a considerable sum for the care and feeding of the Jackson's Hole elk which were starving in the deep snows. Government employees, aided by ranchmen, carried hay to the elk ranges, especially in the early spring. Hundreds of calves, as well as older elk, were dying of starvation.

The lives of thousands of elk were saved by feeding, but it was soon demonstrated that this measure of relief was only a temporary expedient to keep up the work of feeding so it was determined to distribute the elk among the states that put in applications for herds and that were willing to pay the expenses of transportation and guarantee protection to the animals after arrival.

Many states have taken advantage of this offer. Probably 1,500 elk have been shipped, and this number will be trebled before the shipping season has ended.

The elk are rounded up in the deep snows and driven to Gardiner. Ranchmen, state game wardens, forest rangers and Yellowstone Park employees are assisting in the work. It is easy to round up the elk, which become "stalled" in the deep snows.

Under old conditions State Game Warden Hudson of Wyoming reported that nine out of ten elk calves born in the Jackson's Hole region died before they were four weeks old.

In all the government has appropriated close to $100,000 for elk protection. The appropriation is generally approved, as it will result in replenishing the depleted elk ranges of many states, and will give the fast disappearing elk of this country a new lease of life. In a few years states which have not had elk hunting for generations will be enabled to issue elk-hunting licenses for brief periods each year.

WOULD BAR PRETTY TEACHER

"Hoosier Schoolmaster" Believed Ugly Ones Also Should Be Outed and Happy Medium Sought.

Richmond, Ind.—"Don't hire teachers who are extremely pretty or who are extremely homely." Superintendent of Public Instruction C. O. Williams urged the township trustees at a meeting here recently. Mr. Williams asserted that since compulsory medical examination was required for school children, all teachers also should be forced to undergo medical examination, to determine their fitness for their work.

"Real pretty girls attract too much attention," the superintendent continued, "and so do the ugly teachers. A teacher's appearance should be such as not to draw attention to her, therefore the beautiful women should be avoided."

The trustees listened attentively, but took no action.

ATTENDED 6,240 BIRTHS.

New York.—Dr. R. G. Johnson, a physician at Laurel, Miss., probably holds the world's record for officiating at child births. While testifying in a civil action in the Jones county circuit court Dr. Johnson said he had been practicing for forty years, and that he had kept a record which showed that he had been the attending physician at 6,240 births.

This is an average of thirteen births a month for the forty years.
