News from warring countries is subject to censorship. It may sometimes be misleading. It is the right and duty of every American citizen to do his own thinking, hold to his own beliefs, and not permit himself or his country to become a victim of emotionalism or propaganda.

Time for the Climax

Most people love a good mystery, but they like to reach the solution before the intricacies of the plot bore them to death.

Most of us have enjoyed the suspense of the third term issue. Everyone has ventured a qualified prediction, even if he had no more to go on than the number of prunes in the President's breakfast dish. But interest is beginning to thin, and irritation is likely to set in at any moment.

The fun of speculating is wearing out. The time is over-ripe for an announcement. The jokes are getting hollow, and the candidates who are waiting feverishly to try for their first term are getting sulky.

It is just about time for us to reach the climax, whether the answer is yes or no. We're going to have to know sooner or later anyway.

SO THEY SAY

Thrift and Temperance

There's not much wrong with what we are pleased to call the moral fiber of the nation, when the majority of New Year resolutions concern temperance, industry and thrift.

The Gallup poll last week revealed that one in every four Americans made at least one serious New Year resolution. In the combined vote of men and women, these resolutions were, in order of frequency: "Better myself in my business or job."

"Save more money." "Reduce smoking" or "stop smoking." "Reduce drinking" or "stop drinking." "Improve my character."

Among the resolutions offered by the men, the "stop drinking" or "reduce drinking" vow headed the list, with improvement in business a close second. Other popular resolutions for the men had to do with saving money, going to church more often, and the improving of dispositions.

Among the women thrift topped the list. A majority resolved to "save more money in 1940." The "go to church" resolution also was high among the women, as well as temperance vows in both drinking and smoking.

Not included in the list are several hundred land use planning groups now working in an organized fashion for better land use.

ever a time when there was more organized effort among farm folks than there is now.

To prove his point, he said preparation for the directory among county agricultural and home demonstration agents had resulted in the listing of 4,652 organizations of farm men and women in Texas on state, regional, county, and community levels.

Included in the total are 2,180 home demonstration clubs, 722 farmers' cooperative associations, 405 game management associations, 649 units of the Texas Agricultural Association, 101 Farmers' Leagues, 117 Grammes, 14 Farmers' Unions and 315 miscellaneous groups that do not fit into these classifications.

Not included in the list are several hundred land use planning groups now working in an organized fashion for better land use.

"We often hear the complaint that Texas farm people do not 'cotton' to organizations," Director H. H. Williamson commented. "We have heard this until we have come to believe it. I doubt if there was ever a time when there was more organized effort among farm folks than there is now."

SAILS AND MOTORS VIE AT BOAT SHOW

Forty-two foot "Eureka," with ridges under the hull at the bow designed to capture aerated water which produces cushion between water surface and boat bottom, thus reducing friction by acting as a "hall bearing."

SAILBOATS HAVE PLACE IN SHOW. AMONG some of the new construction ideas are more extensive soundproofing of engine compartments, insulation of cabin roofs, greater use of safety and flexible glass, and lighter and airier deck cabins. Predominant in inboard runabouts is the torpedo-built hull. An increased trend toward the navigation is the bubble sextant, widely used in air navigation, which requires no sea horizon but which substitutes a self-contained artificial horizon in the form of a bubble with which a heavenly body is brought into co-incident.

Diesel type engine is a feature of the boats this year. Thirty-five fully-rigged sailboats also are included among the 170 exhibits, testifying to the growing popularity of this kind of boating. A 37-foot auxiliary sloop, largest of her kind ever shown at Grand Central Palace, is the flagship of the sailboat flotilla.

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

BY BRUCE CATTON

WASHINGTON—Resentment over Great Britain's blockade tactics against American shipping is coming to the surface in Congress, and will boil over soon. There's a big mystery in final disposal of the Harry Bridges deportation case.

Assuming that Madam Secretary was going to turn Bridges loose, the politically astute thing would have been to do it immediately after Landis' finding came to her desk. Bridges is so well equipped with enemies that there would have been an uproar, but Landis would have been the central figure in it.

Coming on the heels of an expensive and irritating hold-up, such sales talk is apt to be effective. But the thing stayed on Secretary Perkins' desk. Now, if she accepts the Landis finding and cancels the warrant, it is Miss Perkins who will have to stand whatever cussing develops.

FORESEE CHANGE IN LABOR BOARD. KEEP your eye on those reports that the President is going to appoint J. Warren Madden of the Labor board to a federal judgeship. If they pan out, the President will have to name a new man to the Labor Board.

That, of course, wouldn't jibe with the administration's help-the-alies policy, and the bill will probably get frowned on. But the temper of Congress is such that

Texas Today

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After representatives in Congress of the infant Republic of Texas had met three times and the lusty young nation's legal code began to be a bit involved, the lawmakers decided to collect their work into a book. They called it: "The Laws of Texas—First, Second and Third Congresses."

Notwithstanding that it probably was the most ambitious collection of Texas laws up to that time and gave early promise of historical importance since it related a first-hand account of the young republic's founding, collectors of Texana concede that only one copy of the book is known to exist today. After a long "heirloomous" span, that single copy now rests in the library of John A. Cagle, principal of the Travis School at Greenville.

The congressmen published their reference work in 1838. There is no present record of the exact number of copies distributed. But regardless of its circulation, it was an ambitious volume, bound in leather and containing more than 700 pages. Because of its importance, it probably was distributed to all of the lawmakers, as well as to lawyers and government officials throughout the realm of the rising Lone Star.

With the mechanical difficulties involving printing of that era, actual publication of the book must have required months, perhaps a year of work. High price of paper and ink, and scarcity of skilled labor at the binding press, and other items of printing and craftsmanship must have brought the cost of the book to an astounding figure.

That the copies—with the single exception—disappeared so completely is a homily on the magnetism of the trash barrel at spring house cleaning time. Even more, probably, on the transient popular value of things historical.

The saga of Mr. Cagle's lone existing volume has been kept accurately. Its varied ownership literally seeps down the trunk and into the tap root of Texas political lore.

Anson Jones, last president of the Republic of Texas, is believed by Mr. Cagle to have been the first owner.

The Town Quack

To me the cactus always has been sort of a nuisance. It's thorny surfaces have never appealed to me as the sort of front yard shrubs for kids to play around. But, I read in the West Texas Today magazine a treatise on "The Cactus" by Dr. Cyrus N. Ray which provokes greater appreciation for that thorny plant.

TO ENDURE hardship, to withstand adversity, to live where all else had died, through desert's blazing heat, the sandstorm's fury, the gnawing of starved animals, through all of the violent moods of a changeable climate. Through long sieges of drought, and then flood, hail and cold, Nature's stern school had fitted for adversity a long procession of his forebears stretching back into the dim mists of antiquity.

A cactus seed lodged between two boulders atop a bare and lonesome hill, a little rain came and the seed slowly grew, other plants also sprouted but they took no thought for the morrow, and as the rains increased rooted shallowly and grew rankly and extravagantly, their opulent growths sprawled over the cactus until they almost hid the sun. Lush for the conclusion, more than 500 persons who aided in founding the republic are named. Following the republic's first 'Declaration of Independence' comes the Ordinances and Resolutions Passed by Provisional Governor Henry Smith and Lieutenant Governor James W. Robinson. The latter was also ex officio president of the general convention from November 19, 1835, to January 17, 1837.

The final and permanent Declaration of Independence made by delegates in general convention from November 19, 1835, to January 17, 1836. The final and permanent Declaration of Independence made by delegates in general convention at Washington-on-the-Brazos, March 2, 1836, then consumes five pages with 58 delegates being named. Next comes the constitution of the Republic of Texas—signed by the same 58 delegates. And to conclude come the laws and acts of the first three congresses. Thus, clad in the cowhide of its native realm, this final volume staves off the encroaching draperies of time's forgetfulness. Carefully cherished, it serves as one of the weather-beaten guide-post onto the lustrous land back down the trail of the rising Lone Star.

University Co-Eds Debunk Theories About High Cost of Purchasing Their Clothes

AUSTIN—Knocking for a thrifty loop theories of the high cost of "dressing an education" reports from 80 University of Texas co-eds proved that a wardrobe may cost only 19 cents a day.

One of the girls spent only $70 last year on clothes, or 19 cents a day, and the average was $230, reports from a home economics class of representative students show. A few daughters whose wardrobes cost "poor papa" $730 a year, however, spent for one coat three times the minimum total.

"Wise selections, excellent care of clothes, and a failure to heed fads and fashions make it possible for a co-ed to be well dressed on a small amount," Miss Lucy Rathbone, professor of home economics, explained.

The reports show that 11 per cent of the college girls spent less than $100, while 7 per cent go over the $400 mark. Fifty-nine per cent of the class spent less than the average $230, while 41 per cent go above, said Miss Rathbone.

A 13-year record of the average wardrobe expenditures for students in an advanced home economics class closely follows the American prosperity curve. Peak expenditure of $516 came in a boom year, 1927, and the low of $210 was hit in the depression year of 1933. Expenditures for a 13-year period follow:

Many Applicants Seek Places in Youth Orchestra to Be Organized by Stokowski

Application forms for the thousands of young men and women who have indicated they would seek jobs on Leopold Stokowski's All-American youth orchestra were sent today by the National Youth Administration to its state offices.

Applications should be filed immediately with National Youth Administration offices and preliminary auditions will be held under NYA auspices from January 15 to March 15. Administrator Aubrey Williams announced Regional and final auditions for the selection of the 109 members of the Stokowski orchestra will be held thereafter with agents of the famous conductor in charge.

Mr. Williams announced that the arrangements of the 51 State NYA offices for receiving applications and arranging for primary auditions would be assisted from Washington by Miss Margaret Valiant of the Washington NYA office and John Bitter, conductor of the Florida Symphony Orchestra of the Works Projects Administration.

Miss Valiant, from Como, Mississippi, studied piano, singing and theory of music for many years at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music and in Paris and Milan. She is an authority on American folk music. Mr. Bitter, who is from New York City, is a graduate of Curtis Institute of Music at Philadelphia, and has conducted extensively in the South and East.

REMEMBER—A LOAF OF MEAD'S fine BREAD

Mr. Stokowski plans to take part personally in the final selections of the youth who will be employed by him to make a good-will trip through Latin American countries this summer and fall to play modern music as well as classical music.

Administrator Williams disclosed that applications have been received in large numbers in many places, and auditions have already been started in New York City and Philadelphia. In some places it may be necessary to hold daily sessions to hear all the applicants. Local committees of qualified musicians are being formed to do the preliminary judging.

For the information of such judges, Mr. Williams sent to all State offices today a statement by Mr. Stokowski outlining his requirements for musicians. Mr. Stokowski said:

"General requirements of the players are that they be within an age range of about 16 to 25, with no restrictions regarding race, color, or sex. Great ability as orchestra players and a good technique is necessary. But even more important are beauty of tone, variety of tone color, good phrasing, musical feel, imagination, poetry.

"The players should concentrate especially on beauty of tone, good phrasing, and ability to play very loud and very soft. It would be taken for granted that they read music fluently, have a good ear and play in tune. Orchestral experience is valuable but not one of the most important requisites. Great talent is more important than experience."

Mr. Stokowski in explaining his central idea said:

"The idea of the All American Youth Orchestra is to create a musical organization which represents the whole of the United States and will be a messenger of beauty and good will to the Latin American countries. All over this country there are many wonderful players now from about 16 to 25 years old. We wish to give these talented young players opportunity to play in a modern symphony orchestra of 109 players, and we would like to have one or more representatives from each state. I feel confident that we can build up an orchestra that will be a unique expression of the vitality, enthusiasm and originality of American youth today."

Mr. Stokowski will hold his final auditions in April. The noted conductor will be entirely responsible for all arrangements incident to the tour itself.

The application form sent out today asks for the following information: name, address, place and date of birth, race, sex, instrument, musical experience, including period of time spent in symphony orchestra, band, dance orchestra, chamber music group, or solo work, musical recommendations from teachers, conductors or conservatories, whether the applicant has worked for NYA and whether he is in good health. Non-NYA youth as well as NYA workers are eligible, it was explained.

Farm Diversification Proves Aid to Man

SMILEY, Gonzales County Texas. (AP)—Lloyd Bell, of this small community pioneered in farm diversification and as a result Smiley markets more than 4,000,000 chickens a year.

It began back in 1916, but today it has become a big industry. Bell returning from a visit to California with 72 White Leghorn hens, promptly abandoned cotton farming and took up poultry raising.

Before long his neighbors had adopted the same idea, until farming was a thing of the past in Smiley and White Leghorns became the major cash crop.

Smiley's soil and climate are well adapted to poultry raising. As a consequence, each resident has from a half a dozen to three dozen poultry houses adjacent to his own home. In 1928 Bell had established a hatchery with a capacity of 52,000 eggs, and was quickly followed by the other residents of the community. Today restaurant chains as well as numerous jobbers are depending entirely on the Smiley production center for metropolitan supplies. One raiser, for example, supplies a restaurant chain with 2500 broilers a week.

In 1938 the Smiley community bought 472 carloads of feed for its chickens, which regularly number nearly 2,000,000 head. Although the White Leghorn is one of the most popular standard breeds, many growers have developed a hybrid stock, or a mixture of the leghorn and some heavier strain. The lat-

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. (UP)—The "eye for an eye" theory of justice doesn't work in Northampton. Andrew Ilnicki was fined $10.00 when he admitted stealing trapping equipment. He explained: "I buy $15 worth of traps, set them out, and two hours later they are gone. So I steal somebody else's—what else could I do?"

Industrialization of The State Is Studied

DENTON.—Dr. W. J. McConnell, president of North Texas State Teachers College, and Gilbert Wilson, instructor in chemistry at the college, discussed possibilities with Governor Lee O'Daniel last week for further industrialization of Texas through the products of chemurgic research.

President McConnell and Wilson, the NTSTC chemurgist, went to Austin at the invitation of the Governor, who according to capital city political commentators, is apparently in a mood to prosecute further his plan for industrialization of the Lone Star State.

The Denton Teachers College representative told the Governor what would be needed to carry out the farm chemurgic plan on a large scale, and listed other needs of the Teachers College, which Dr. McConnell said, had an enrollment of 3,014 students with no increase in classroom and laboratory facilities for the last 20 years. By the end of 1940 the enrollment will have doubled in the last six years, Dr. McConnell said, and without any new buildings.

At least $1,000,000 is needed for four major buildings and equipment, the NTSTC president said. The building would be devoted to science, education, physical education and music.

Work done by Gilbert Wilson, the Denton Teachers chemurgist, in sweet potato dehydration and castor plant development has already attracted wide attention throughout the nation. Among other opportuities awaiting chemurgic research investigation would be the uses of the soybean.

What financial plans the Governor might have for promotion of such a research program was not announced following his conference with the Teachers College officials.

This formula is immensely superior—tremendously in advance of more ordinary remedies, says Doctor

Pour yourself a teaspoon of Buckley's CANADIAN Mixture—let it lie on your tongue a moment then swallow slowly. Feel its quick powerful pungent action spread through throat, head and bronchial tubes. Acts like a flash. Right away it starts to loosen thick, choking phlegm and open up clogged bronchial tubes. Over 10 million bottles sold in cold windy Canada. A single sip will tell you why. TEXAS OUT-O'-DOORS

AUSTIN.—Despite the unseasonably hot weather which prevailed during most of the hunting season, more deer were killed in Texas during the 1939 hunting period than in 1938, early reports to the executive secretary of the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission indicate.

Hunting was slow during the early weeks of the season, the deer stay deep in the brush during the hot days. However, the cold wave which marked the closing week of the season brought on the best hunting Texas has known in many seasons and highways leading from the counties with heavy populations of deer were filled with motor cars bearing one or two bucks.

Every early report to the executive secretary from game wardens and game managers show their checks on the deer killed indicate as many bucks brought down this year as last and many of the reports show an increase in the kill.

Aggies Underdogs In Game Saturday With Baylor Bears

COLLEGE STATION.—One up and eleven to go for the Texas Aggie cage team, and like the football team, they are still undefeated and undefeated, however, that record is quite likely to go into the ash pile Saturday night, Jan. 13, when they meet the Baylor Bears in DeWane Field House on the campus here at 7:30 o'clock.

Although the Aggies won from TCU while Baylor was taking a last-minute licking from SMU, it does not hold that the Bears have an inferior team. In fact, Coach "Hub" McQuillan rates them among the top teams in the conference this season.

The Cadets have been held back somewhat by the overtime football season and Bill Dawson, center, and Bill Buchanan, guard, only reported for basketball this week in time for the TCU game. Both are ends on the football team and both played in the Sugar Bowl game on New Years Day.

Dead-Eye Gloria Jacobs New Annie Oakley

BY J. W. HAMILTON NEA Service Special Correspondent.

WOODLAND, Calif.—Gloria Jacobs visited a traveling carnival and her young friends persuaded her to shoot. The attendant at first declined to let the flaxen-haired applicant have a gun.

The dismayed attendant was finally told who his patron was and tried to induce Gloria to shoot an exhibition, but a crowd was gathering and she modestly slipped into it.

The National Rifle Association has informed Gloria Jacobs, comely 17-year-old Woodland High School girl, she is world champion with a .22 caliber pistol over the 25-yard course.

In a registered match in San Francisco she placed 29 slugs in the bull's-eye to score 299 points out of a possible 300.

Dead-Eye Gloria started when she was 12 and won her first medal the same year.

At Camp Perry, O., two years ago she won the civilian contest over a field of expert men and women.

The same year in Cincinnati she placed third in a national match competing against experienced men and women.

Miss Jacobs' father is a captain in the California Highway Patrol. An expert himself, he taught her, but she soon was teaching him.

When she set her world record it was the fifth or sixth shot that went outside the bull's-eye.

Gloria is not going to turn professional despite commercial offers. She shoots for the love of it.

DEAD-EYE HOME GIRL PLANS CAREER OF LEATHERCRAFT. NO one would take Gloria for a world champion. She looks like any other little home girl gayly walking home from school with girl companions.

Her national records for women are: 50-yard course with a .38 caliber pistol, 283 out of 300; 25-yard course with .38 caliber pistol, 291 out of 300; 25-yard course with .38 caliber pistol, 20 shots rapid fire, 182 out of 200; 25-yards with .38 caliber pistol, time fire, 195 out of 200.

In registered national matches she has bested two other records, but has not yet received notification of their acceptance by the rifle association.

She holds numerous California state titles.

MISS JACOBS STARTS AT 12, WINS MEDAL FIRST YEAR. AT 15 Miss Jacobs was state champion for women and held the title for two years.

She has dozens of trophies and nearly 200 medals.

At Camp Perry, O., two years ago she won the civilian contest over a field of expert men and women.

The same year in Cincinnati she placed third in a national match competing against experienced men and women.

When she is shooting, the strain on poker-faced Miss Jacobs is terrific.

When she set her world record it was the fifth or sixth shot that went outside the bull's-eye.

Goose hunting improved during the closing days of the season, but lack of watering and feeding places sent ducks on south earlier than usual and the duck season was mediocre.

FROU-FROU IS VICTIM OF WAR

Subdued Simplicity Marks the Paris Mode

Touches of whimsy have given way to beautiful lines, subdued trimmings, elegant fabrics.

Helene Yrander's housecoat (left) is a shining example of the restrained motif. Of pale lilac wool with embroidered waistcoat of gay rose, green and purple tweed, it has a full hem-line, slight train and long sleeves. The day dress (right) by Molyneux, is of black wool with a semi-fitted, unbelted waistline and light blue buttons to match the velvet scarf and toque.

The "covered up" evening ensemble is more popular than those which expose back, arms and shoulders. Smartly simple is the one by Molyneux (center) which includes a backless dress in periwinkle blue mousseline de soie and matching silk crepe. Notice the unique knuckle-length jacket.

Three Papers Read At Meeting of Fine Arts Club

Molders of American thought, as exemplified in the press, the radio, and the motion picture formed the theme of the program presented under direction of Mrs. J. Howard Hodge at the meeting of Fine Arts club with Mrs. L. G. Byerley, 1802 W. Wall, Wednesday afternoon.

Three papers were presented. Mrs. T. Paul Barron read a paper on "The Story of the Press," discussing the history of the newspaper from early days until the present time and showing how it molds American thought.

A paper on radio by Mrs. W. P. Trapnell was read by Mrs. E. H. Ellison, discussing this force in modern life.

Mrs. Hodge read the third paper dealing with the motion picture as a present-day factor in molding the thought of the public.

Members present were: Mmes. L. A. Absher, Elliott H. Barron, T. Paul Barron, Alden Donnelly, Ellison, Fred Fuhrman, O. J. Hubbard, Hodge, Geo. Kidd Jr., A. P. Shirey, Tom Sloan, R. C. Tucker, J. M. White, Fred Wilcox, E. Hazen Woods, Miss Lydia G. Watson, and the hostess.

FEMININE FANCIES

By Kathleen Eiland

The iron lung recently donated to Midland by Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Cowden is something for the town to be proud of. And for the average citizen to keep in mind in case of severe illness.

We applaud the decision of authorities to place it on display for a few weeks, so that Midland people can see the lung and how it works. It is now in the county museum in the basement of the courthouse and may be viewed from 2:30 o'clock until 5 o'clock on weekday afternoons. It is well worth going to the courthouse to see.

We've just been buying certain materials—which reminds us that our all-time favorite for draperies, especially for the informal rooms of the house, is just plain white. There's some quality of crispness, of daintiness, or just-rightness about white curtains fluttering before opened windows that cannot be excelled by the gay, bright-hued drapes, though we like them ever so much.

It is a sad commentary on the regard for law and order in our country that statistics show the most-arrested age group to be 19-year-old youths.

About the most encouraging thing about such a state of affairs is that the younger persons arrested are taken for property offenses more than for homicidal misdeeds.

Even so, there is sufficient food for thought in such data to make any parent grow grave and solemn (not to mention gray-haired) over the responsibility that rests on his shoulders.

The rapidity with which "time staggers on" is amazing when considered in the light of things we plan to do and don't get done.

Before we have our mind made up as to just what we want to do with flower beds and yard plans, we find it is approaching the hour to do them. Probably our vague but handsome dreams about beautiful flowers next summer will go the way of most dreams—and we'll content ourselves with watering the lawn in odd moments. Well, if we don't get those flowers planted this year, perhaps we will next. Never give up hoping! That's our motto.

Mexican Motif Is Chosen for Merinda Club Party

Tallies and score pads in Mexican design lent a note of gay coloring to appointments for the bridge party with which Mrs. E. R. Osburn honored members of the Merinda club at her home, 1607 W. Kansas, Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

Two tables of games occupied the group until one o'clock. High score in play went to Mrs. J. F. Sirdevan and second high to Mrs. Geo. Herring.

At the conclusion of play, the group motored to King's Drive-in where, in keeping with the motif of the party, a Mexican luncheon was served.

All club members were present including: Mmes. J. W. Bradberry, C. L. Bradshaw, E. H. Davidson, S. B. Roach, Sirdevan, W. W. Studdert, Ralph Troseth, Herring, and the hostess.

Black and White Are Favored in Party Appointments

Packages wrapped in black and white and tallies likewise in black and white lent an effective color note to appointments for the afternoon bridge with which Mrs. O. B. Holt entertained the Enigma club and a group of guests at her home, 101 North B street, Tuesday afternoon.

Four tables were laid for the games.

High score for club was held by Mrs. Frank Cowden, high for guest by Mrs. John Dublin, and cut by Mrs. George Glass.

Playing guests were: Mmes. Dublin, William Simpson, John B. Thomas, Russell Conkling, B. H. Blakeney, E. M. Whitaker.

Club members present were: Mmes. Ellis Cowden, Frank Cowden, Clyde Cowden, Glass, Chas. Goldsmith, Clarence Scharbauer, Allen Tolbert, Harry Tolbert, Henry Wolcott, Miss Lula Elkin, and the hostess.

A party plate was served at tea time.

Family Washing Delayed.

YORK, Pa. (UP)— Mrs. James Martin put the family clothes in the washing machine and snapped the switch on but the machine refused to run. A hastily summoned electrician found the motor missing. A boarder, was charged with larceny.

Although it is a bird, the New Zealand kiwi cannot fly. Its feathers are incomplete and have the appearance of coarse hair.

Now Many Wear FALSE TEETH

With More Comfort

PASTEETH, a pleasant alkaline (non-acid) powder, holds false teeth more firmly. To eat and talk in more comfort, just sprinkle a little PASTEETH on your plates. No gummy, goopy, pasty taste or feeling. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get PASTEETH at any drug store.

Mrs. J. A. McClurg Elected President Of Lucky Thirteen

Election of officers was the high point in the business meeting of Lucky Thirteen club held at the home of Mrs. H. S. Collings, 511 W. Louisiana, Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. J. A. McClurg was chosen president of the club for 1940; Mrs. J. C. Hudman, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. S. P. Hall, reporter.

Reports were heard for the year and dues were paid.

Home Replica Built as Gift Takes 7 Years

WASHINGTON, (UP)— Seven years of painstaking effort were needed by Dr. Lore A. Rogers, Department of Agriculture scientist, to build a reproduction for his wife of their 1906 "honeymoon cottage."

Dr. Rogers' spare time since 1932 has been spent in the basement of his present home in the District of Columbia, building the replica of the couple's first home in nearby Chevy Chase, Md. A miniature buzz saw and tools were used to cut 5,000 tiny cedar shingles, lilliputian floor beams, doors, windows and shutters, and other materials.

In December, 1939, the addition of several coats of white paint, green for the shutters, a miniature landscaping project complete with trees surrounded by a white-washed fence, and a Christmas wreath on the door constituted the finishing touches. On Christmas day Dr. Rogers presented the model to his wife.

Since the Rogers came to Washington in 1906, Dr. Rogers has become nationally known for his research work in the bureau of dairy industries. Much of his experimental equipment went into the stratosphere balloon in 1932 to determine bacterial conditions.

Corn Is Declared Bad "Soil Thief"

DALHART (AP).—Corn, dear to generations of southern folk and basic ingredient of Johnnycake and pone, is branded "one of the worst soil thieves in the wind-swept southern Great Plains" by the Soil Conservation Service.

Long recognized as a crop which does not resist the forces of wind or water erosion, corn, during the extended drought of the last several years has given evidence of permitting more soil losses than perhaps any other crop on the plains, say a statement from the SCS. Concrete evidence of erosion and loss of fertility on land planted to corn has been gathered the last three years on the John D. Casey farm, 10 miles northeast of Dalhart. In 1936 one of the fields developed hummocks or soil drifts as a result of wind erosion. Early in 1937, technicians of the Soil Conservation Service erosion control demonstration project at Dalhart aided the operator in leveling the field so it could be continued in cultivation. A strip crop pattern was used. 12 rows of corn being alternated with 24 rows of broom corn.

During the high winds in the winter of 1937-38, soil blown from the strips which had been planted to broom corn was caught and held by the dense broomcorn stubble. Actual measurements made in June, 1938, when the blow season had ended, revealed that the broomcorn strips averaged five inches higher than the corn strips from which soil had been lost to plow depth.

In 1939, the entire field was planted to broomcorn. Tests after the blow season showed that the areas which had been devoted to broomcorn in strips the previous year had accumulated 14 inches of soil. Broomcorn yields from the strips which had been planted to corn in 1937 were uniformly lower than production from the area planted to broom corn both years.

Tests showed the more eroded areas to have as much or more moisture than the less eroded land. This was expected since the lower elevation of the eroded areas resulted in the concentration of runoff water, Reynolds explains. This shows that the lower yield from the eroded areas cannot be ascribed to a lack of moisture, the agronomist believes.

Plant Hormone Seems to Hold Vital Chemical

PASADENA, Cal. (U.P.)—The discovery that a flowering hormone exists for plants has resulted in scientists at the California Institute of Technology launching a research effort to determine the chemical nature of this vital element. It has been established that in precisely the same manner that hormones from the endocrine or ductless glands of the human system control the entire growth and development of the human being, similar hormones control the growth, development and flowering of plants. It is the hormone that causes plants to flower that for the moment is most attracting the attention of the institute's scientists. The work is being carried on by Dr. James Bonner, assistant professor of plant physiology. In collaboration with Chicago research workers, an extensive investigation is being carried on especially with the flowers of cocklebur which are regarded as the ones most likely to reveal the chemical character of the flowering hormone. Thousands of the plants are being grown at the institute's experiment farm at Arcadia. As regards other plant life hormones it has been established that some influence the root, others the stem, and others the leaf. The one governing the flowering of a plant is looked upon as probably being

We, The Women

BY RUTH MILLETT.

NOTHING ages a woman faster than boredom. And that is a pity, because the woman who is bored is usually the one who thinks that her looks are the most important thing in life. If she wants to hang on to her attractiveness through the thirties, forties, fifties, sixties, she'd better get rid of the boredom. And find some thing that will put some sparkle and life into her face, and give her something besides gossip to talk about. It doesn't do any good for a pretty woman to kid herself into thinking that the years aren't changing her looks. They are—no matter how extravagantly she takes care of her beauty. So, the only thing she can do—is to get enough life and joy into her face to outweigh the wrinkles, to get kindness into her eyes to take the place of the dancing sparkle that is fading, and to be interesting now that "cuteness" no longer becomes her. Just filling idle hours with bridge playing, or sessions at her favorite the most vital one. "It seems like," Dr. Bonner said, "that every part of a plant has its growth substance. It seems possible that the time will come when the growth of plants can be regulated for their best production and maximum benefit to mankind."

beauty solons won't give her anything she needs.

MAKE THE YEARS WORK.

BUT getting interested in some kind of work, in new ideas, in helping others, in understanding the why of things, will let her chalk up each added year on the credit side of the ledger. In all the striving to stay physically young and attractive, women too often forget that the only way to keep the years from being a handicap is to put the years to work.

Disputed Wages Paid After 46-Year Lapse

MUSKEGON, Mich. (U.P.)—Forty-six years ago William Seitz, an Oceana county farm hand, walked out on a job in an argument over wages. He had been digging potatoes for four days and wanted $6, more than his fellow workers were getting.

An argument with his employer followed. "I'll take it out of your hide," Seitz said, but instead he walked away, forgetting the farmer and the quarrel with the passage of years.

The farmer, however, did not forget. Seitz, now 72, received a letter from him saying: "I am going to live my life for God, and I can't live it without getting you paid up."

This summer Seitz shook hands with his ex-employer, and settled for $5 and a talk about old times.

Device Warns of Danger From Radium Exposure

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The national bureau of standards has developed a device which flashes a warning to persons who are in danger of over-exposure to radium rays.

When exposure to radium radiation reaches the limit deemed safe by the bureau's experts, the device flashes a red light and emits a buzzing sound. The bureau pointed out that in hospitals where large quantities of radium are handled it is important to protect the technicians from over-exposure.

New Superintendent Of Hereford Group At Stock Show Named

FORT WORTH.—Jack Turner has ascended from herdsman's helper to livestock specialist since he was a youth in knee breeches a quarter of a century ago in Hillsboro.

Now at the age of 36, he is a veteran and yet one of the youngest men in the livestock industry. He will carry that experience to the Southwestern Exposition and Fair Stock Show in Fort Worth, March 8-17, when he assumes the duties of superintendent of the Hereford Department.

A son of John O. Turner, for many years a farm implement dealer in Hillsboro, Turner graduated from the Hillsboro High School and took his B. S. degree at Texas A&M College.

While in the teen age Turner was introduced to purebred cattle on the farm of Frank Scofield, veteran Shorthorn breeder at Hillsboro. He fed the animals and cleaned out the stables but all the while he was learning about cattle. He got his experience from the ground up.

Turner became interested in 4-H Club work in high school and was a member of the 4-H Club livestock judging team that represented Texas at a national contest in Atlanta, Ga. in 1920. From Atlanta the team of three boys went on a three-months trip to the English Royal Livestock Exposition in Derby, England.

His interest in livestock judging contests had only started when Turner entered Texas A&M College. He was a member there or the freshman, junior and senior teams. In 1925 his junior team won at the Fort Worth stock show and at the Oklahoma City show. Again that fall the team won at the American Royal Livestock Show in Kansas City.

Turner became a feeder for Harrisdale Farm, Fort Worth, in 1926. The following spring he exhibited the grand champion steer at the Fort Worth show. Later he became livestock specialist for the Missouri Pacific Railway and in 1929 returned to Harrisdale Farm as manager. Since 1933 he has been manager of Ellison Estate's Silver Creek Farm at Fort Worth. He was secretary of the Texas Hereford Association from 1934 to 1939.

Turner predicts that the best show in many years will be held in Fort Worth this year because improvements were evident in livestock shows last fall.

East Texas is one of the few places in the United States where eastern wild turkey still are found.
