County Sets Tax Levies

Bailey County commissioners have set tax levies for the 1963 tax year, County Judge Glen Williams announced Thursday. Levies are as follows:

County levy, 95 cents per $100 valuation.

Special road tax, 30 cents.

County-wide road tax ($250,000 bond program) reduced from 22 cents to 20 cents.

Road district No. 1-A, 40 cents.

Public School Week Attended By Hundreds

Hundreds of parents trekked to Muleshoe's five schools this week to meet Johnny's teachers, talk over any problems he may have, and to see elaborate displays.

It was all a part of Texas Public School Week when schools throughout the state hung out the special welcome mat for parents.

Neal Dillman, superintendent of Muleshoe schools summed it up like this: "It was most gratifying to the teachers and the administrators." He was referring to the exceptionally good turnout both Monday and Tuesday nights.

"We consider," he added, "that the attendance was especially good in view of the cold weather Monday night. We also had to buck a mild flu siege."

Although the event stretched through the week, Monday through Thursday, biggest attendance, of course, was at the night-time open house ceremonies. Junior and senior high schools staged their "at home" programs Monday night, while DeShazo, Richland Hills and Hill Top had open house on Tuesday night.

One of the big events at all schools was the science fair which each school presented. A home making fair was also a part of the senior high program.

The science displays were the most elaborate yet conducted. Winners in the various schools were as follows:

$2,500 In Premiums Is Offered

With well over 200 animals entered, this year's 17th annual Junior Livestock show, which opens tomorrow, may set a record, sponsors said Wednesday on the eve of the three-day show.

The event, to be held in the bus barn at the senior high school, is expected to draw hundreds of West Texas visitors with the high spot reached Friday afternoon when judging gets under way.

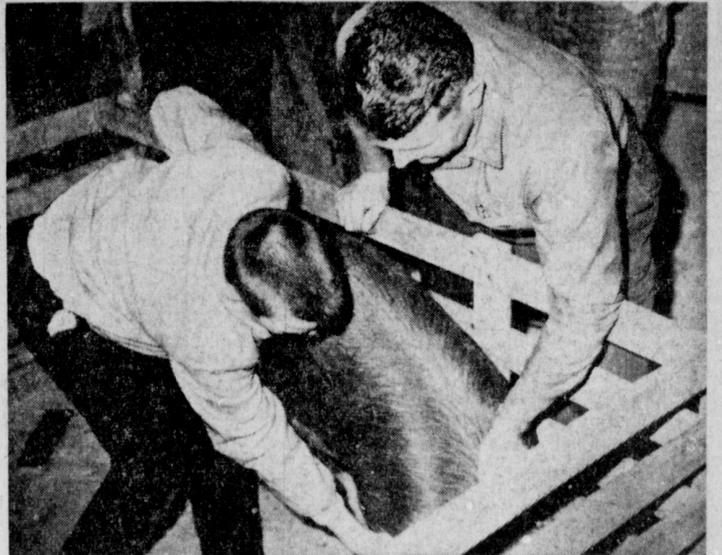

The show will stay open late Friday for the benefit of business people who will not be able to attend the show during the daytime. Show judge, J. A. Smallwood from West Texas State College, Canyon, will start his work at 3 p.m. Friday and will continue until all animals have been judged.

Pupils will have until Friday morning in which to complete their entries, but most livestock will arrive Thursday. The event is open to all 4-H and FFA boys and girls who attend schools in Bailey County. Entry fees for exhibitors are 50 cents on lambs, gilts, barrows and $1 on steers. Twenty-five hundred dollars in prize money will be paid the young exhibitors.

Admission is free.

On Wednesday noon, entries totaled: 12 barrows, 46 gilts, 33 calves and 26 lambs. The hog list included 14 Berkshires, 35 Durocs, 32 Hampshires, 30 Poland Chinas and one spotted Peo.

Ray's 'Ritin'

By RAY MARTIN

In these days when a revival of the ancient and honorable art of walking (which has been in the doldrums for several years) there are all kinds of stories of walking sprees by various and sundry folk. Seems that the center must be for 50 miles. Anyway, it's a part of the physical fitness program, which has been revived at the President's suggestion.

But there's the Muleshoe man who wrenched his shoulder last week while reaching down to change channels on his television set. Apparently that exercise is pretty vigorous, this changing of channels. Accordingly, his cohorts are considering taking up a collection to buy him a remote control for his TV and thus prevent a recurrence of this trouble.

Never did find out just what program he was changing FROM, although there have been times when I would have attacked the channel-changing nob with considerable vigor, especially to remove that certain soap commercial by the gal who already was pleased with the results she was getting for her "wash" (Wash, incidentally, is apparently a Yankee term for the southern and more dignified word "laundry" which we in this part of the country are quaint enough to hang onto.)

Got an unsolicited letter from a reader who discussed a recent column in this corner concerning English and grammar. She does not believe we will have any difficulty with area lines or with being unable to communicate with different parts of the country. Her reasoning is that we listen to the same TV shows the country-over and that TV will keep us

Road Appraiser Study Due By Commissioners

Bailey County commissioners may name an appraiser for Highway 84-70 tract-buying at their meeting next Monday, County Judge Glen Williams said Thursday.

Several state-approved appraisers have been contacted, and several others are "considering" submitting bids for the appraisal phase of the road-widening project, Judge Williams said. Maps of the 65 tracts involved in the widening program have been sent several appraisers.

Applicants must estimate the length of time it will require for them to complete their appraisals, and they almost must submit costs for the service.

The commissioners recently named the First National bank here as the official county depository for the next two years. The bank was picked for the complicated depository business of the county on a bid basis.

The commissioners also combined two election precincts — Baileyboro and Circleback — and named election officials. The

Three Seek Council Posts In Muleshoe

Three candidates seek positions on the Muleshoe city council, and four have filed for three positions to be open on the school board. Filing deadline for the school board was reached at 5 o'clock Wednesday, one month in advance of the school election slated for Saturday April 6.

Deadline for filing for city council position was reached last Saturday, and all three filings were made the day before.

Only one race is slated in the city election since the incumbent is unopposed in one precinct. Irvin St Clair, a councilman now, is unopposed for Place 3.

Candidates for Place 4 are James Jennings, a Muleshoe insurance man, and Woody Lambert, a cleaning firm operator. The city election is scheduled for April 2.

No new names were added this week to the list of candidates seeking school board positions. Candidates are Eugene Black Route 2; A. R. McGuire, W. E. (Jenks) Meyers and Claude V. Rilev, a Muleshoe drilling firm operator.

In the city races, W. M. Pool II did not seek re-election.

School board members whose terms expire this year are E. V. Bartlett, Murl Stevens and W. F. Bartley. Ralph Douglas, John Smith, Dr. R. B. Putman and Tim Green are hold-over members.

Mule Trackmen Finish Eighth

Running Water Draw 'All Set' For Study by Army Engineers

By RAY MARTIN

Rehearsals are over for Running Water Draw project, a six-county gully that snakes its way out of Curry county, N.M., and ends in a sometimes booming flood in Plainview.

Tuesday night, representatives of the six counties in which Running Water Draw long has been a problem child held their final dress rehearsal here.

On March 20, they will bundle their hopes into one big asking; they will present their lines to U. S. Army engineers from Fort Worth in a full-dress performance in Plainview, starting at 10 a.m.

The Tuesday night dinner meeting here at Paul's cafe was the final rehearsal for that big March 20 event, Flip Calhoun, Plainview, who has daddied the project from its inception, presided at the Muleshoe meeting which was held here as a "neutral" meeting ground for the Running Water backers.

Plans were laid for the well-prepared, six-copy presentation to the engineering brass when they come to Plainview.

It was decided at the meeting here that nine different phases of the program, which sponsors hope will end the Running Water rampages, will be presented.

They include: Results of the official survey, the conservation phases of the 100-mile-long project; financing; New Mexico's interests; benefits which the control program would offer farmers; recreational possibilities; multi-purpose storage possibilities; county commissioners' views (how the project would eliminate road flooding); and long-range benefits which would be derived from the control program.

The Army engineers are interested in the project as part of the expansive Brazos River Authority program which stretches practically throughout Texas and includes a number of streams in its overall program.

Actually the Running Water Draw, which normally is just a peaceful, dry gulch that cuts its way through the Canreek limestone centuries ago, does its great damage in Plainview where

County Sesame Growers to Meet

The prospect for making bonus profits growing Sesame on diverted feed grain land has caught the attention and interest of area farmers.

To explain the program and sign up sesame acreage for 1963 a special meeting has been scheduled for Muleshoe, Friday, March 15. Meeting time is 7:30 p.m. at the American Legion Building in Muleshoe. Robert L. Parker, Executive vice-president of Texas Sesame Growers, Inc., Paris, will be on hand to conduct the meeting.

Sesame, which is no stranger to Bailey and Parmer county farmers, is one of the substitute crops that can be grown on diverted feed grain acres without loss of the 29 cent per cwt. milo incentive payment. In addition, Sesame growers can collect 40 per cent of their normal feed grain retirement payment.

In terms of money, this means for example, that a farmer with a 4,000-pound base yield signing

Debate Team Wins at Tech

Muleshoe high school debaters, coached by Kerry Moore, took top honors at a Texas Tech debate tournament last weekend. Don Williams and Shirley Smallwood received "superior" rating for their work at the tournament, raking four straight wins with no losses.

The Muleshoe pair defeated Seminole, Snyder, Hereford and Austin of El Paso to come through the meet with a perfect score. The Muleshoe squad was one of three schools out of 28 participating, to receive "superior" rating. The other two schools, both large, were Midland and Monterey of Lubbock.

JENNY SLIPPER POINTS—

WE RAN across a short editorial comment recently in the Perryton newspaper which seems to strike home here in Muleshoe as well. Here it is:

"We know that there are people in the community who look upon so-called 'civic-workers' as people who do these civic jobs merely to boost their own ego and for some selfish reasons. Let them think so.

But let's not let the civic workers slack up because everybody's not with them.

"There never was a city or a community that made any progress without a hard core of dedicated men and women who will take off from their jobs and devote their time in an unselfish way towards community projects that benefit everybody."

Somehow, we think there is a timely message in this brief comment by Editor Harold Hudson in his Ochiltree County Herald for the people of Muleshoe as well as Perryton. (And Editor Hudson may be better qualified than most to speak on this subject — he was honored by the Perryton Chamber of Commerce as Perryton's "Man of the Year.") No one has worked harder to promote the growth and development of Perryton during the past decade his friends echo.

So — ORCHIDS to the men who have lately thrown their hats into the ring for serving us all as city councilmen and school board members.

AND orchids to the Library board members who are working so diligently to offer further betterment of our community.

AND also this week especially, orchids to our children's teachers — who not only held eye-opening and educating displays and open houses, but finished up six-weeks' grades for report cards, all in a four-day week. They will go to the Teacher's meet in Lubbock, thus no school Friday for the kiddos, but for them.

HAVE YOU noticed our downtown Muleshoe doesn't fly as many American flags as we used to? That, with just our town's name, is something our friends from out-of-town comment on — and we, too, do agree the flags add to our town's looks. Let's remember our patriotism and bring them out again!

COOK OF THE WEEK

We are pleased to have Jewel (Mrs. Lee) Pool's recipes this week. A touch of spring and pretty too, is the Mandarin Orange dessert-salad, though she adds that diet-watchers may have to take small servings!

MRS. JEWEL POOL'S Mandarin Orange Dessert-Salad

1 pkg. orange jello
1 cup hot water
1 pint orange sherbet
1/2 pint whipping cream
1 pkg. Phila. cream cheese
1 can Mandarin oranges
Dissolve jello in hot water, add juice from oranges, cool. Add orange sherbet, fold in whipped cream and softened cream cheese. Fold in orange sections and refrigerate.

"NEVER-FAIL" HOT ROLLS

As do all good cooks, Jewel makes wonderful hot rolls. This recipe, which is her husband's favorite, she credits to her sister-in-law, Mrs. Mattie Pool of Plainview.

2 1/2 cups scalded milk
1 yeast cake dissolved in 1/2 cup of the cooled scalded milk. Combine 1/2 cup Crisco, one-third cup sugar, and 2 tsp. salt.
Pour milk liquids over above mixture, then add 1 egg and 4 cups sifted flour.
Let rise double in bulk, refrigerate. Make into rolls, then let rise again. Bake at 400 degrees till browned. Makes 4 dozen medium sized rolls.

The Pools have just returned from their son Rorer's graduation from the Commonwealth College of Science, Houston; his major was military work.

They also visited with Ann and Bill Whittle in Texas City. The Whittles, former owners of the local Ben Franklin store, drove them to Galveston where they saw the filming of TV's Route 66, climbed of film stars and their two cars (that rhymes) and got production-man Robert McHarris' autograph too!

After visiting relatives in Bryan, Fort Worth and Dallas, the Pools picked up Sylvia, student at North Texas State College, Denton, and returned home after their ten-day jaunt. Sylvia was in her former roommate's (at Harbin Simmons) wedding Sunday in Friona and has returned to school.

AUTOGRAPHS also popped up in news from Peggy and Russell

Pat, as the girls casually mentioned, gave the Muleshoites a ride in his auto one night — and was pleased to send an autograph to Debbie Bryant, commenting that one of his four daughters is a Debbie too. GOOD FISHING was enjoyed by James Crane, Sam Damron and Dee Brown down at Falcon lake Tuesday through Sunday.

THANKS for the calls and ideas (but where are your recipes?) and especially thanks for the volunteered story of fashions that will be forthcoming in this column. Also for the little tid-bit (which the lady said her husband said sounded just like something that would happen in the local jail):
"Hey, warden!" called out a prisoner as a puddle of rainwater formed in his cell. "This pen leaks!"

DID YOU KNOW...

... THINGS may get confusing around the area with two James Jennings around town now. Jim (James R.), local insurance man, with a family history in Muleshoe dating back to early days of the town, was raised in Muleshoe. The new James (M) Jennings has been known as Jim and J. M. in his former hometowns of Plainview and Snyder, we wonder which will be the choice of his new friends here.

The Journal welcomes this new subscriber and his wife Allie to the Muleshoe area. They have purchased the D. O. Smith farm one mile west of the Progress Inn. J. M. and Allie moved in last week, coming from Plainview where he has had farming interests there the past 19 years.

As a part of the meeting, district I formed a Trustees Roundtable organization with Miss Peggy Stack, Amarillo, as chairman and Mrs. Gilbert Lamb Muleshoe, as vice-chairman.

A non-professional look at the problems facing public libraries, their boards, and Friends of Libraries, highlighted the one-day workshop.

Cornwell, Sour Lake, president, Trustees Round Table, Texas Library Association discussed, Texas as Trustees Around A Table. She told the group that many of their local library personnel problems may be solved in the near future by the influx to library work of older persons retired from other jobs. She explained the purpose of a trustees association as bringing together persons representing various libraries for the solving of mutual problems.

James L. Love, Dibolt, president of IOTL also spoke during the morning session.

The morning session adjourned at noon, and the group had lunch together at Wyatt's Cafeteria.

During the afternoon session, Mrs. Joe Harlan, Amarillo Friends of the Library group explained the purpose of this group and told that they could aid in obtaining larger budgets for local libraries by serving as a "benign pressure group" for additional appropriations from county or city governing bodies.

Other surrounding towns represented were: Dimmitt, Plainview, Pampa, Dumas, Olton, Brownfield, Tulia and Levelland.

The Rev. J. Frank Peery, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Muleshoe, will be guest speaker at the annual Girl Scout Court of Awards to be held March 14 at 8:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

Miss Mary Anderson of Lubbock, our district advisor, will show a film, titled, "This Is Girl Scouting."

The highlight of the evening will be the presentation of awards. We, the Girl Scouts of Muleshoe, invite the public to attend our Court of Awards. We hope to see you present on March 14.

Troop 80 met Friday with 11 girls present. The girls welcomed back Mrs. Harper. They finished their scrapbook covers. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Carl Bamert.

Girl Scout Troop 70 met and made plans for our coming banquet. Mothers were invited to meeting to plan what to bring. Girls discussed some ideas that will help us to help our community before we have our next special meeting.

Mrs. Ray Hardy was given the job of contacting mothers not present at meeting as to what they should bring to the banquet. Mrs. Sam Damron served refreshments to the girls and mothers.

Troop 376 met Thursday at the regular time. Fifteen girls were present and refreshments were served by Mrs. Ray. Games were played and songs were sung by the group.

TROOP 42 met Thursday, February 28 with 12 members present and one leader. Roxanna Patton went to Lubbock for leadership training of Senior Scouts. Refreshments were served by Judy Dodd and Ann Newson.

The group discussed a way they could help with the Girl Scout Fund Drive, then spent the remainder of the time working on their scrapbooks.

TROOP 162 met Friday with 14 members present.

Work was done on the cover of the scrapbook and plans were made for a fund drive and the Girl Scout Banquet.

LOCAL FLIGHT

Mr. and Mrs. Boone Allison and Carl Parker were aboard the Cherokee on a local flight Sunday. On another local flight, passengers were Loyd Willis, Birmingham, England and Roland Fletcher, Muleshoe.

JACK COX HOME

Morgan Locker flew to Dallas Monday morning to return Jack Cox home after he was dismissed from Baylor Hospital there.

Locker left Muleshoe early that morning and encountered a cold front moving swiftly southward. Hitting the front, Locker reported severe turbulence for a brief time. Flying on to Dallas, sleet and rain was falling.

After waiting for weather clearance, Cox was brought to the airport and boarded the plane. Jim Cox accompanied them on the homeward flight. Other members of the Cox family returned by car.

Returning they veered south of Mineral Wells to avoid hail falling there with the weather bureau reporting stone approximately 2 inches in diameter. They arrived here about 3:30 p.m.

DALLAS-AUSTIN

Ray Daniel made a recent business flight to Dallas and Austin. Daniel said his trip was uneventful except for scattered clouds which made the flight interesting, as it was necessary for him to change altitudes several times to stay either over or under the cloud deck or to avoid rain showers.

When Daniel was ready to leave Dallas, the ceiling was 600 feet and foggy. He obtained special clearance from the tower to take off. Leaving the runway Daniel climbed out and went through a break in the low lying clouds and flew to Austin above the cloud cover with smooth flying. He returned the following Wednesday.

PRIVATE SCHOOL

Classes began at Muleshoe Flying Service Monday night for Private Pilots. The ground school is taught by the FAA approved method, the Sanderson visual aid film system.

Enrolled are Ed Little, Delbert Garner, Bob Kelly, Bob Kimbrough, Don Sanders, Mrs. Bill Jim St. Clair, Mrs. Don Bryant, and Mrs. Jack Little.

NIGHT FLYER

A night flight proved to be full of useful experiences to Private pilot Ray Daniel.

Daniel checked out for night flying Friday, completing his final flight around 11 p.m. and accompanied by two local men, took off on a cross-country flight to Laredo. Between Junction and Cotulla, with radio in contact with Cotulla, Daniel decided to take a short cut to Laredo instead of flying on radio beam as they were being buffeted by strong cross winds on that route.

He set his heading and soon saw light of a town they assumed was Laredo. Lowering altitude they began their search of the ground below for the runway lights—there were no lights—no runway.

Daniel, realizing he was not over Laredo, leaned out his fuel on mixture control and throttled back in order to save fuel, which he figured to have 1 1/2 hours of fuel left. He immediately switched to emergency channel 121-5 although he did not declare an emergency, asked for an assist in determining his position. He called was answered by Laughlin AFB, Del Rio, and after some communication between them

Methodist Circle Program Given By Mrs. Don Sumrow

Mrs. Don Sumrow presented the program at the Woman's Society of Christian Service meeting held this week at First Methodist Church, in the Youth Chapel.

Her topic was, "New Frontiers in Home Missions." She was assisted by Mrs. Jan Wampler and Mrs. Arnold Prater. They presented their parts in the form of a dialogue, telling of the Spafford Home for girls in Kansas City, Missouri.

Mrs. Robert Hooten presided over the meeting and gave a poem from The Methodist Woman, as a call to worship.

Mrs. R. O. Gregory, Secretary of Student Work gave a report of activities during the year that has been done in her line of work. She told of the many fine things that they have accomplished by the M.Y.F. groups in the church.

Mrs. Mervin Wilterding, secretary of Local Church Activities, gave her report concerning the work done in her committee in serving meals to families in the church who had been bereaved.

and the plane, they suggested that he was over Eagle Pass.

Daniel climbed to an altitude of 7,500 feet and made contact with Cotulla radio, whereby Laredo omni was contacted and a triangular contact was established between the two stations and the craft.

Their position was soon definitely established and Daniel and his passengers continued their flight, landing at Laredo with still about an hour of fuel left.

Daniel said the experience was a beneficial one to his flying career — another thing he said he learned — Laredo airport is not at Eagle Pass!!!

Picking up Sam Damron who had been fishing there, they flew back to Muleshoe Sunday afternoon.

FRONTIER FROCK — Mistress of ceremonies, Cara Juan Schuster is decked out in a long dress complete with a plaid ruffled bustle. The black bonnet frames her face and she is wearing jewelry that was right in style when this type dress was the peak of feminine fashion.

SPORTY PAIR — Franklin Mann and Danny Ellis model sports wear from Cobb's. Franklin is wearing black slacks with a smart pullover of white with black trim. Danny steps along in black slacks with a gray and white striped sport shirt with the ever-popular button down collar.

CAREFREE COTTON — Ruth Roberts wears a practical wrinkle-free pima cotton shirtwaist dress from Anthony's. This frock can be worn with the open Italian collar or plain. Her earrings and necklace are a soft frosty white. Ruth is wearing white calf leather, pointed toe pumps, and her bag is also white calf leather.

VACATION SPANNER — Dorothy St. Clair is showing something new on the fashion scene—the Shift Dress. This style, known as the "Round Trip", is sleeveless for coolness, easy-on zippered front and can be cinched at the waist with a white leather tie belt or worn without the belt for the relaxed look. This casual is from St. Clair's.

WARDROBE LIMELIGHT — Sue DeVaney is wearing a knit from Italy, a three-piece fashion by Cadillac. The lean sculptured look is acquired in this off-white skirt and over blouse topped with a hot pink jacket. She is wearing a white cord velvet hat, white shoes and gloves, and is carrying a white beaded embroidered bag. This creation is from the Fashion Shop.

Latest Smart Styles On Front Street

A style show, "Front Street Fashion Parade" was presented Friday night in Richland Hills Cafeteria before a capacity crowd.

The setting for the stylish event was on Front Street of a pioneer town depicting the General Store complete with a board walk in front of the building. The store had an old-styled door with six colorful panes and a window painted to create the illusion of being curtained with white crisp curtains pulled back illuminating the bowl of fruit and bouquet on a table inside.

An old oaken bucket filled with moss and trailing fern stood beside the door on the board walk. A bright red pepper string and bags of peanuts hung from the eaves of the store porch and a lantern hung on the wall beside the door. To the right of the store stood a tall elm tree decked with leaves of green paper towering over green grass with daisies peeping through.

Cara Juan Schuster served as mistress of ceremonies. She spiced the program with bits of facts about Muleshoe through the years as models from Cobbs, Anthony's St. Clair's, and the Fashion Shop appeared on the stage sporting the very latest fashions in wearing apparel along with four models wearing clothes for the days of our forefathers.

Ramon Martin, providing background music at the organ, played such selections as "A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody," "Home On The Range," "Melody Of Love" and "Man In The Moon."

Models for Anthony's were Susan and Patty Murray, Mike Hunt, Sue Willman, Curtis Parker, Sandy Warner, and Ruth Roberts. For Cobb's were Lydia Alford, Danny Ellis, Barbara Evins, Alva Lee Peeler, Grace Prater, and Franklin Mann. For the Fashion Shop, models were Doris King, Sue DeVaney and Jeanette Wagnon. St. Clair models were the Irvin St. Clair's: Irvin, Dorothy, Pamela, Johnnie and Kelly. Old Fashion models were Vicky Young, Janell Turner, Rhonda Wagnon and Marie White.

Keeping the models in the spotlight can be attributed to the capable operation of the light by Mrs. J. Pat Wagnon.

Added attractions were a solo by Paul Durham and a reading, "Oh, Say Can You See" by Karen Jones.

The door prize was won by Elizabeth Harden. The old-fashioned clothes modeled consisted of a dressy tea and town dress worn by Janell Turner. The dress belonged to Janell's great-grandmother and was made in 1906. The dress was brown sateen with a deep lace, was trimmed in black lace and nipped at the waistline. She wore a cameo around her neck on black ribbon.

Marie White wore an old styled bathing suit, reminiscent of the days of the Ol' Swimming Hole remembered well by long-time residents of Muleshoe as a popular place for a cool dip in the summer time.

Rhonda Wagnon was attired in an original dress belonging to Mrs. A. S. Stovall's mother, made in 1899, just before the turn of the century. The dress was wool Challis trimmed in black tating and flowing into a train. A black velvet cummerbund flattered a tiny waist and the "Leg-O-Mutton" sleeves were met by long gloves.

Vicky Young modeled another of Mrs. Stovall's mother's dresses: a beautiful white embroidered material styled with a rounded neckline and full skirt. A parasol, a fashionable accessory at that time, matched the dress and was as frilly an item as the dress. She wore high button shoes, fourteen button each, in fact.

The show was sponsored by the Los Planos Study Club, with the proceeds, around $250, going to the Muleshoe Girl Scouts.

Muleshoe Rainbow Girls Plan Activities For March Slate

Muleshoe Rainbows met Tuesday night in Masonic Hall for a business hour and social.

Pam Seymore chose Rhonda Wagnon as her big sister. Initiation was held for the following: Jenda Nichols, Charlotte Daves, Joyce Puckett, and Jerri Ann Hardy.

Each of the girls will be responsible for selling $2 worth of baked food during the month of March.

Plans were made for a slumber party to be held in Masonic Hall on Friday, March 22. Those who plan to attend are to meet at the hall at 7:30 p.m. for a scavenger hunt for hosiery. They are asking that Muleshoe women save their old hosiery and have them ready to be picked up. All hosiery collected will be sent to hospitals where they are used to stuff cloth animals and for other purposes of this nature.

Wanda Harris told the group about her Faith project.

All Rainbow Girls are asked to be at Masonic Hall Thursday at 5:30 p.m. and bring baby's clothes to be given to a needy mother.

A salad supper is slated for 5:30 Monday, March 11. A workshop is to follow.

Those attending the Lubbock Rainbow Assembly last week were Mary Hunt, Bill Hunt, Karen Jones, Lindy Kerr, Phyllis Beavers, and Ernest Kerr. The group retained many new ideas for their work and meetings.

I can't go along with TV as an authority on grammar, however. Here are four errors which I picked off TV Sunday night: "... a bundle of checks, however, were found." ... "None of the other three occupants of the car were injured" ... "The weather will not be to everybody's liking, but it will be so varied that everybody eventually will get the kind they want." ... "He was the one that was injured most seriously."

This letter writer, who says her pet peeve is "aren't I?", says she would hate to hear every "old cowboy talk like Adlai Stevenson or some old sheep herder talk like JFK." The only thing I object about JFK's speech is that New England tendency to turn every word ending in "A" into "er," as, for example, Cuba for Cuba. The late Fred Allen used to say, "Tulser, Oklahomaer."

A communication from the state highway department tells of a "groved" road near San Antonio which the highway boys are trying out. Seems that the "grooves" keep the cars headed straight and thus cut down on the number of crashes.

Personally can't see anything new in "groved" roads. Has the department ever driven from Muleshoe to Farwell over "Killer 84?" That road is grooved, and how!

Speaking of roads, this newspaper recently urged the THD to put left turn signals at American and Main here in Muleshoe as a means of solving the rash of fender-bender crashes that occur in that corner.

One of the THD engineers dropped in the other day and said the department had the matter "under study," as a result of that editorial, but that no formal request for the change had been received from the City of Muleshoe.

He doubted that the left turn light will be installed since, he said, to make such a light workable, it would be necessary to eliminate all parking for half a block in all four directions.

While still on the subject of roads, was in Lubbock Saturday before last and in Amarillo this last Saturday. Couldn't keep from noticing how much nicer the expressway system was handled in Amarillo than in Lubbock. In the former city, the expressway feeds straight downtown Lubbock, and to reach it must travel over narrow streets that were built in 1915.

Fort Worth is another city that did a good job of feeding its big busy U. S. 80 right downtown. Took tearing out a lot of old buildings to create that downtown expressway, but it was built anyway. Dallas, too, has expressways that feed downtown.

Seem to be talking a lot today about highways, etc. But while on the subject, have been reading with much interest about the various experiments being carried on by the automobile manufacturers to eliminate the clumsy automobile steering wheel.

In fact, will predict that in another 25 years (at the latest) the steering wheel will be as obsolete as the Stanley Steamer. An article in last Sunday's "This Week," tells of several different tests that are being carried on with other types of controls. One is the "uncontrol" which steers, brakes and accelerates all with a "stick" shorter than a fountain pen.

Engineers contend that steering wheel is too slow, too bulky and too dangerous. The dangerous angle figures in accidents; many a driver has been killed by the rim of spokes of a steering wheel. Also the wheel "hides" the road.

But, with or without steering wheels, payments are going to come around awfully regularly!

Curry county, on the other hand, has little fear from flooding, but it sees great recreational and storage possibilities from the project. Clovis C-C Manager Bob Spencer told the meeting.

While not all spokesmen for the nine different parts of the Plainview presentation have been selected, Calhoun said several have been picked. For example, for the SCS, Amarillo, will discuss the conservation phase. Jack Driskill, Swisher county judge,

Family's Health Log Important, Service Says

Sooner or later, everyone needs a family health record, Dr. J. E. Peavy, state health commissioner, suggests you start yours now if you aren't already keeping one. Kept accurate and current, it can be of permanent value for the children's school records, for insurance data, and for your family doctor's use, the health official says.

A school note pad makes a good record book, but don't use it for anything else. And remember it has to be carefully kept if it is to be of full value.

You can start by jotting down the basic information you already have at hand concerning the injury and illness history of each member of your family.

Start it off with a brief listing of family history. Enter the date and place of birth of each person, and the place and date and cause of death of any deceased. Also enter pertinent information and the medical facts about each family member, such as the presence of chronic illness or physical handicap.

Next, start a section for date of immunizations, being sure to provide space for each member of the family. Allow room for entering dates of immunizations against whooping cough, polio, smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus, and typhoid fever. Don't forget to include the dates of booster shots.

In a section of general information list such things as the type of blood each member of

Plentiful Foods

COLLEGE STATION — Ever-popular eggs wear a new crown this March. They are featured among this month's 12 plentiful foods, reports the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Other March plentifuls for this area are potatoes, sweet potatoes, carrots, onions, cottage cheese, pork, canned and frozen red tart cherries, canned corn, peanuts and peanut products, rice and dry beans.

These items have been selected for special promotion because supplies exceed normal trade needs. A similar list is compiled each month by USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, in cooperation with growers and the food trade.

Eggs join the list, this month, because production is increasing seasonally and March prices are expected to be much lower, than in January. March is national "Egg Month" and also "Good Breakfast Month."

Pork is another newcomer to the list. The 1962 fall crop of pigs, up 5 percent from a year earlier, will be slaughtered from March through June and slaughter may be near a record for these months. Live pork prices already have lowered noticeably.

Consumers will find it in their interest to buy and serve plentiful foods often and generously, suggest Extension home economists. Economy and wider choice in selection for quality usually accompany abundance.

Young men and women are of the same age 60 years ago, about two inches taller than those. Their weight has increased on an average of 20 pounds.

Four Muleshoe Residents Aid in Sweetwater Snake Hunt

The Fifth Annual Sweetwater Snake Round-up sponsored by the Sweetwater Jaycees was held Friday, Saturday and Sunday of last week.

Those from Muleshoe who attended to rousy the 5,000 crawling serpents from their abodes were Ray Clayton, Claude Holmes, Jerrell R. Otwell and his son, Jerrell C. Otwell.

Registration was held each day at the Baker Hotel where they received their hunters' license and registration tags. They were given boxes, bags and sacks to bring the snakes back to the Nolan County Coliseum where they were all put into a fenced-off portion.

The hunters used gassing equipment to chase the rattlers out of crevices in the rock, from underneath things, and out of their holes.

Those bringing back the largest total weight for each day received $30.00 and trophy for first prize; and $25.00 and trophy for second prize.

Prizes for the longest snake each day was $75.00 and trophy; the smallest snake, $10.00 and trophy; and snake with most rattlers, $10.00 and trophy.

All snakes became the property of the Jaycees and some of the larger ones were made into snake steaks, served any time of the day. Twelve-year-old Jerrell Otwell was the only Muleshoe participant who "clared" eat any of the steaks Sunday noon. On their return to Muleshoe they stopped in Lubbock to eat chicken and during the course of the meal "Jerry" rubbed his stomach and told his father, "I think this snake is chasing that chicken."

Venom is to be extracted from the other snakes to be used in medicine and medical study.

IT'S FOR THE BIRDS

By MELVIN R. EVANS
 Refuge Manager, Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge

As the spring winds are beginning to blow in increasing intensity; the sun's rays are increasing, climatic temperatures and the days are getting longer. This results in farmers preparing their fields for next summer's crops.

At about this time each year the Lesser Sandhill Cranes of this area begin to migrate to their summer homes. These homes are located about 3,600 miles north of Northern Texas.

The main dates of this migration occur during a period around March 18 to the 20th. It will take these birds about 51 to 58 days to make the trip, and the length of their daily flights will vary from 62 to 70 miles.

MIGRATION PATTERNS

The migration path will take these birds northward somewhere between the Rocky Mountains and the Mississippi River. The exact flyway or flyways taken by the Cranes, that winter in the Muleshoe area, is unknown.

Banding programs which are presently being conducted may in the future give us this knowledge.

Following this flight path some of the birds will reach Alaska from the East, cross Alaska and the Bering Strait and nest in Siberia.

NESTING AREAS, NESTS

Nesting by these birds ranges from the south central portion of the Canadian provinces northward into the Arctic regions. The nest is usually placed in the longer standing grasses on either lowlands or the upland tundra.

They are usually in a poorly drained area or on a grass-grown shallow pond site. Nests built during the early part of the season are quite massive, but those constructed later in the summer may only consist of down-trodden vegetation. The nests are from 4 to 8 inches high, and the diameter varies from 28 to 48 inches.

The nests in some areas are but mere cavities in the sandy soil, thickly lined with dry grass, etc.

The nest usually contains two eggs. These eggs vary greatly in shape, but are generally long and slender. The coloration is quite varied, with green and brown colorations being predominate. The eggs are spotted with dark spots of varying sizes.

Both the male and the female incubate the eggs. The incubation period is not definitely known.

The material for this article was extracted from Lawrence H. Walkinshaw's "The Sandhill Cranes."

Australia's largest recorded hallstone, with a 12-inch circumference, fell in Bowenville on Jan. 26, 1953.

THINK YOU GOT HEART TROUBLE?

That Clickaty-Clack Heartbeat Could Result from Emotional Disturbances

AUSTIN — Pain and tenderness in the chest, accompanied by difficult breathing and irregular heart beats do not always point unerringly to organic heart disease; instead, these symptoms may indicate emotional disturbances.

Some nervous, tense, and anxious people, alarmed by increasing publicity on heart disease and its frequency, consider minor symptoms as warnings of serious heart trouble. Often organic heart disease has developed recently in a close relative or friend, or a family history of coronary disease may exist, both of which make a worried person even more heart-conscious. By unduly stressing his actual symptoms in complaints to his physician, such a patient may unintentionally mislead the physician to a diagnosis of organic heart disease when the problem is really psychosomatic in origin. This diagnosis only intensifies the patient's worry and may eventually produce actual functional complaints.

"Most persons experience occasional chest pain, but only a few ascribe it to heart disease," stated Dr. William L. Proudfit, of the Department of Cardiovascular Diseases of the Cleveland Clinic Foundation in Cleveland, Ohio, in an article in the February issue of the Texas State Journal of Medicine. The Ohio doctor further pointed out that anxious persons may report pains in the precordial region, located above the heart or stomach, occurring at any time but especially when the person is tired. However, if exertion is one cause, the pain begins after, rather than during, the activity. The pain may spread into the left arm or forearm and may be sharp or dull, sudden or gradual. The person is usually more comfortable lying down than standing still or sitting down. The pain may last anywhere from a few seconds to several days.

Different types of pain affect persons of differing emotional make-up. Stabbing chest pains bother tense patients, although short, momentary pains may also trouble them. "A dull aching in the precordial region is common with a person suffering from anxiety," Dr. Proudfit reported. Another frequent complaint is difficult or labored breathing, although the tense person is prone to sighing. Lightheadedness, numbness of the arms or legs, and sometimes pain in the precordial region often accompany dyspnea, the medical term for labored breathing. Difficulty in breathing following exertion is also a common complaint, although it rarely limits a person's activity.

Many people who wake at night to find they cannot breathe unless sitting or standing (a condition known as orthopnea) immediately fear heart disease, but Dr. Proudfit asserts that in many cases they are actually waking during a normal phase of respiratory activity during sleep. While sleeping, the respiratory activity occurs in cycles, beginning with a gradual decrease in intensity of respiratory movements. This decrease is followed by a total cessation of breathing movements which lasts from 5 to 40 seconds. This is known as the apneic phase of respiration. Afterwards, respiratory movements gradually increase until they reach a maximum and breathing becomes quite deep.

Persons with psychosomatic heart disturbances frequently complain of being aware of the heart's action. Palpitation either with or without tachycardia (excessive rapidity of the heart beat), is the most common complaint. In general, sufferers of tachycardia are tense.

"Fatigue may be a manifestation of organic heart disease, but more frequently it is caused by anxiety," writes Dr. Proudfit. Faintness and fainting may also occur, and the sufferer and his family often fear heart disease as the cause.

There are no cardiovascular signs that specifically point to nervous tension as the culprit in these cases, but there are signs which may indicate psychosomatic disturbances. Irregularities in heart beats, unstable blood pressure readings (normal readings when the patient is relaxed, high readings at other times), excessive sweating, coldness, and bluish discolorations of the extremities, reddish blue netlike mottling of the extremities, and innocent heart murmurs may all indicate emotional problems which show themselves in heart disturbances. Physicians may use electrocardiograms or roentgenograms (X-rays) to substantiate their suspicions of psychosomatic disturbances.

Dr. Proudfit emphasized that psychosomatic systems frequently coexist with organic heart disease, particularly in patients who have coronary artery disease; however, a careful evaluation of the patient's history enables the physician to differentiate psychosomatic from organic symptoms. Such persons should be encouraged to lead as normal a life as possible, even though organic heart disease may exist. "They should not be advised to take it easy," Dr. Proudfit stressed.

The physician can help the patient to resolve his fears and conflicts and explain, whenever possible, the nature and the cause of the symptoms.

SANDHILLS PHILOSOPHER

Sage is Worried: Venus Too Hot For Mortgaged Spaceship, He Fears

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm takes a dismal view of space exploration this week, but he may have his tongue in his cheek.

Dear editor:
As I understand it, scientists have now compiled a lot of information radioc back to earth by rocket which traveled ten million miles or so on its way to Venus, and while I don't want to brag, it sure does bear out some of my suspicions about outer space.

According to this information, Venus has a temperature of 800 degrees and winds that blow 200 miles a second.

This is what I've been talking about. I mean, what if we explore all the planets there are and still don't find one that has one-tenth the advantages of the one we've already got? I guess it's interesting to know that a weather forecast on Venus would read: High tomorrow 800 degrees, low 799, continued steam, wind out of the south-southwest at 200 miles a second, but I'm not sure it's worth what it cost.

What if we'd sent a rocket with pilots aboard out there and they circled the planet as close as they could without getting scorched and then came on back home? What this flight of ten million miles in a mortgaged rocket to find a planet that can't be lived on. You've got to remember that all this space exploration is being done on borrowed money, which is all right if we can ever find anything that justifies it, but this report from Venus ain't too encouraging.

Of course, there are millions more out there and if we keep looking long enough we may find something, but a man who mortgages one farm in order to buy another ain't necessarily making progress.

I'm not saying it's so, but the first man to land on the moon, after he gets over the exhilaration of being there and gets a chance to look the country over, may adopt as his new goal an ambition to be the first man to get back to earth.

On the other hand, if we weren't going in debt to explore space, we'd be going in debt to do something else. If people want to mortgage the earth in order to get title to an uninhabitable planet somewhere else, it's their business. Keep the thing going.
Yours faithfully,
J. A.

DIVISION OF ESTATES

The death of an intestate person (one who has made no will) may give rise to many problems regarding distribution of his separate estate. In the preceding column we investigated the manner of dividing the community estate upon the death of a husband or wife. Now we shall see that, where separate property is involved, a completely different set of rules applies in determining heirship and apportioning the estate among the rightful claimants.

It may be well to recall that the separate estate of a husband or wife includes property owned by either before marriage, and that which is acquired after marriage by gift or inheritance. Any other property acquired after marriage is presumed by law to be community property until the contrary is clearly proved.

Now, here is a general idea as to how your separate property will be divided if you do not make a will with contrary provisions prior to your death.

If your husband or wife survives and if, in addition, there are surviving children or descendants of previously deceased children, the children and their descendants immediately obtain a full (fee) title in two-thirds of the real estate involved. The surviving spouse receives a life interest in the remaining one-third of the real property, which passes on to the children and their descendants upon the death of the spouse.

The rule for distributing personal property — cash, stocks, bonds, furniture, or any other items not constituting real estate — is different. Here the surviving spouse gets full ownership of one-third, and the children and their descendants inherit the balance.

Now suppose your husband or wife survives, but there are no surviving children or their descendants. In this case the surviving spouse inherits all of the personal property involved.

With regard to real estate, the survivor obtains full title to one-half, and the other half is divided between your mother and father, if both survive you. If only one of them survives, he or she receives only half of this portion, and the other half (or one-fourth of the entire real estate) will be divided among your brothers and sisters (and their descendants) who survive. If there are no surviving brothers and sisters and their descendants, then the one surviving parent inherits the full one-half.

Where no parent survives, but there are brother and sisters and

FUGITIVE

In recent years, encouraged by easy travel, a number of people in trouble with law have skipped out and gone abroad. The law, or rather the lack of law, also serves to make such a trip attractive. For international extradition is rare, and world-wide extradition has not yet caught up with the jet age.

When a fugitive runs to another state, extradition is fairly easy: One governor asks the governor of the other state to send the fugitive back home for trial. After a short hearing, governor usually does this.

But when fugitives flee abroad, international treaty governs extradition. If our treaty with the foreign country fails to cover the offense, extradition may not be possible since each country may interpret treaties in its own way.

One rule most often applied is that of "double criminality" by which the offense must be a crime in both the requesting and the asylum nations. Many countries, especially underdeveloped ones, do not deal with the same kinds of "business crimes" that we do. Everywhere murder and robbery are crimes; but not violations of banking laws, or other kinds of business regulatory crimes. U.S. turned down the request for extradition.

Many countries do not extradite for political crimes, but may grant asylum. In one case Russia sought to get its hands on an escapee charged with murder and arson which occurred in connection with a political uprising. The U. S. turned down the request claiming the charge was "political in character."

In 1934 Germany sought to extradite a Jew for criminal trial. Again the U. S. refused because the Jew would not be likely to get a fair trial.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Vern Sanford TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association
AUSTIN — Some like it hot. Some like it cold.

Politicians seem to prefer the latter. So, candidates again will campaign from the freezing weather of January and February, right up to the heat of summer.

This preference on the part of when the Texas House of Representatives killed a bill by Rep. Howard Green of Fort Worth that would have moved the Spring voting dates to August and September.

Representative Green urged passage of his bill to bring the voting dates closer to the General Election and thus cut campaigning time in half. But the House would have none of it. Legislators decapitated the bill 97 to 44.

Opponents argued that August was vacation time, therefore a poor time to try to get out the voters.

Green countered with a reminder that absentee voting took care of that problem. But the House refused to concur. In fact members proved their almost total dislike for the bill by a most unusual move. They struck the enacting clause...

which was like severing a head and leaving only the body.

FIRST FILIBUSTER
Gov. John B. Connally's program on higher education has run into trouble in both houses of the legislature.

House State Affairs subcommittee, considering the bill to create a 25-member study committee on higher education, is holding up the measure in the lower chamber.

Sen. Andy Rogers of Childress delayed action on the bill for at least six days with a Senate filibuster.

House subcommittee and Senator Rogers both feel that other top officials, in addition to the governor, should have a say in selecting the 25 committee members. They propose that the governor name 15 committeemen, Lt. Gov. Preston Smith five, and Speaker Byron Tunnell, five.

Governor Connally, who still is recuperating from a hernia operation, believes he can get a better balanced committee if he names all members.

Rep. Bill Rapp of Raymondville, wants to simplify trespassing convictions.

He has introduced a bill that would allow a landowner to establish ownership simply by going into court and swearing he owns the land. But Rapp found few supporters when he appeared before the House Criminal Jurisprudence Committee.

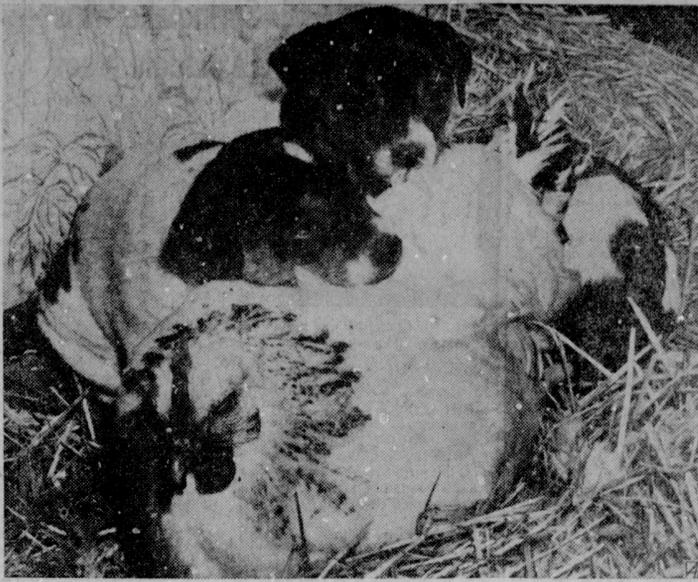

Rep. Travis Peeler of Corpus Christi backed him up "I know if no convictions in my area," he said. "It is so absurd to spend maybe $500 to establish title to get a $50 conviction, no one tries it."

Rapp told the committee, "I own no land, but I feel that a man who owns land should be able to keep me off if he doesn't want me on. People know they can get by with trespassing under the present law, so they trespass."

He said ranchers in his part of Texas are especially plagued with trespassing hunters.

Criminal jurisprudence committee agreed with Rapp that a man should be able to protect his land from hunters who might mistake cows for deer. But some were afraid that the bill could be used to establish title in an ownership dispute.

So the bill was sent to a subcommittee to have the wrinkles ironed out.

SENATE CHANGE PROPOSED
Big city legislators joined Rep. Tom Bass of Houston in a new effort to break up rural domination of the state senate.

Bass' resolution calling for a vote on a constitutional amendment that would cut out the limitation of one senator per district was signed by Reps. Herber Shutt, Chet Brooks and Charles Whitfield of Houston; V. E. Berry and Jake Johnson of San Antonio; Dick Morgan and George Macatee of Dallas, and Dave Finney of Fort Worth.

Under Bass' proposal, Harris County would get four state senators on the basis of qualified electors. But no one has suggested a solution to the constitutional limitation that restricts the senate to 31 members.

By the time Rep. Chet Brooks' bill to ban secret sessions by all state and local boards, commissions and councils passed the House of Representatives, it was little more than a legislative resolution in favor of open public meetings.

Brooks — news reporter on leave from the Houston Post — failed in his attempts to fight the exclusion of a penalty. So the way the bill now stands, if a citizen is barred from a meeting of elected governmental officials, he may seek an injunction against the barring group.

Rep. Charles Whitfield of Houston said, "Ordinarily, it takes eight or 10 days to get an injunction. Meanwhile the meeting is over."

COUNTY PARKS BILL PASSES
House of Representatives voted to give county commissioners authority to set speed limits in county parks and more regulations against littering.

Rep. James L. Lattimore of Corpus Christi was author of the bill. It now goes to the Senate.

A 14-MAN JURY?
House criminal jurisprudence committee praised a bill by Houston representative Paul Floyd and sent it to the House for a vote.

Bill provides for the selection of one or two alternate jurors, to be used in case regular jurors become ill.

Present law calls for only 12 men. Often this results in mistrials because a juror may become sick midway through a trial.

Under Floyd's bill, the 13th and-or 14 juror would sit through the entire trial and follow regular jury rules. But he would sit in on a verdict decision only if one of the regular dozen became incapacitated.

SDEC COMMITTEE NAMED
Gene Locke, head of the State Democratic Executive Committee, has named a finance committee chaired by C. C. Woodson, Brownwood publisher.

Atty. Gene McCullough of Harlingen will be vice-chairman. When the SDEC meets in Austin on March 16, the finance committee also will hold its session.

NEW LOAN TWIST
State Junior Bar Association has recommended a new approach to the Texas loan problem.

Proposal was made to the House Banking Committee by Charles Sowell, Houston attorney and chairman of the Junior Bar's legislative committee.

He recommended a measure that would regulate loans up to $1,500. Total charges would be Now, about 300 ducks call the Gross yard their home. Gross figures it has cost him about $725 for corn to feed the flock.

Said Mrs. Gross: "We've been wanting to stop this thing for a long time. But the ducks keep coming back with friends. What are you going to do? Let them starve?"

Yarbrough In Washington

President Kennedy has delivered a new message to Congress calling for action on a program of hospital care for our senior citizens.

There are 17½ million people in the United States today 65 years of age or over. More than 700,000 live in Texas. By 1980, the number of people more than 65 years of age will be 25 million in the nation, and even if the population rate of increase in Texas does not go up — as it probably will — 1¼ million in this age group will be in Texas in 1980.

I am a co-sponsor of the bill introduced in the 88th Congress to provide a program of hospital care for the aged. A similar bill failed to pass last year. I believe this bill is going to make more progress.

Let me review with you some tragic facts set out in the President's message to Congress:

Our senior citizens are sick more often and for longer periods of time than the rest of our population. Of every 100 persons aged 65 or over, 89 suffer some kind of chronic ailment; 28 have heart disease or high blood pressure; 27 have arthritis or rheumatism; 10 have impaired vision; 17 have hearing impairments; and 16 are hospitalized one or more times during the year.

These senior citizens require three times as many days of hospital care every year as persons under the age of 65 years. Yet, fellow Texans, only half of those who are 65 years and over have any kind of health insurance.

In an editorial on this new call for aid to the aged, one newspaper said:

"This country's callous neglect of its elderly citizens has long been a scandal and a shame. In a land which boasts of an 'economy of abundance, it seems almost unthinkable that workers who contributed to that economy should be allowed to spend their declining years in poverty, dependence and humiliation.' Fellow Texans, the newspaper could have added 'in pain and in misery.'"

Fellow Texans, too many of our older people face poverty and shame and inadequate care, or no care at all, when they get sick and the agony of pain grips their frail bodies.

A nation that prides itself on concern for the individual cannot turn its back on the needs of those who are growing old. A nation that can spend billions on an effort to get to the moon, can work out a Social Security insurance program for the aged, so they can have modest care. . . so they can have freedom from fear, freedom from want, freedom from hunger. . . things President Franklin D. Roosevelt talked about more than two decades ago.

Fellow Texans, here we are more than a score of years later, still searching for that freedom from want and fear and pain and hunger, still without adequate care for our old people. We, in Texas, one of the greatest, richest states in the nation or in the world, are among the bottom 10 states in the average amount we pay per month in old age pension checks.

Whatever glories, whatever our nation achieves, we owe in part to these senior citizens. As co-sponsor of the bill for health insurance for the aged, I intend to work to help meet that responsibility. This nation must have its other greatness. Only then will it be truly great.

"The Jolly Good Bunch of Builders" otherwise known as Kiwanians, met last Friday noon at the Onyx cafe for their weekly feed and speakfest. President A. J. Gardner presided.

The principal feature of the meeting was the passing of a resolution against the proposed Sales tax measure now pending in State legislature and the urging of cutting down on state expenditures.

Letters were written to the effect that the Kiwanis Club of Muleshoe stand emphatically opposed to all attempts to levy new taxes.

Also, during the meeting, Connie Gupton was appointed Bailey County executive for the Boy Scouts, now changing their affiliation from Roswell, N.M. to Lubbock.

The pleasant weather of the past week was interrupted sometime Sunday night when the mercury took a tumble of several degrees, and Muleshoe folks and this area generally arose that morning to witness the falling of sleet.

Throughout the morning there was sleet, snow and rain, enough to cover the ground and roof tops.

A play entitled "The Red-headed Stepchild" given at the High School Auditorium Friday night netted the Junior class $22.

The following letter was received by the county agent from one of the Western States:

Dear Mr. Sheep Company: I have your literature concerning your sheep company and I am quite interested in as much as, I am thinking I would like to get a sheep and go into the sheep business this summer.

I wonder if you have any sample sheep you would give away? Even a small one would be alright as I will have to keep it in my office until I can get some pasture for it, where I can put it out and have it pastured.

I would like a nice medium-weight all-wool sheep in stripes, if you have them one I can skin and make a Pendleton jacket out of later on.

When you skin a sheep, once is that the end of it, or can they be skinned regularly like a human being?

I have an old sheepskin in my office I have been living off of for twenty-seven years and I thought if I had a whole sheep I might do better.

I see by the papers that there is a lot of trouble these days about the tariff on wool; so, if you can pick out a sheep that isn't any tariff on the wool, it might save me cleaning it when it comes here. Does this tariff come back after you have once got rid of it?

And another thing, don't send me a U sheep because they have signs on the street here that say that you can't make a U turn and I couldn't get one of the office very well if I couldn't make it turn.

Write further particulars, Very respectfully, (Unsigned)

Peery Attends Church Meeting

The Rev. J. Frank Peery, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Muleshoe, was one of 120 delegates who attended a national adult school in Chicago sponsored by the Division of Temperance and General Welfare of the Methodist Board of Christian Social Concerns, with headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Mr. Peery represented the Northwest Texas Conference of the Methodist Church at the school as its chairman of Christian social concerns. The theme for the study and worship school was "Moral Man and Moral Society," the 1963-64 emphasis of the General Board of Christian Social Concerns.

This emphasis involved Methodists throughout the country in a study of the church's role in nurturing a moral life. The Chicago school trained leaders to carry on the year's program in their own annual conferences.
