Hitler Threatens to Destroy Britain

SAYS SUCCESS OF NAZIS ASSURED

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Adolf Hitler addressed "one more appeal to reason in England" today, with a warning that "a world entire" would be destroyed if Britain continues to fight.

Churchill has already rejected any offer of a peace parley by the axis powers, having stated so flatly in a broadcast to the empire Sunday.

How the Word of Hitler Stands Up

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Since his rise to power in 1933 Adolf Hitler has made most of his important pronouncements before the reichstag. Included were these: May 18, 1933—"There is but one great task before the world; namely, to secure the peace of the world."

Jan. 30, 1934—"The assertion that Germany plans to violate Austria is absurd and incapable of proof."

May 21, 1935—"Pledging participation in arms limitation pacts and proposing mutual non-aggression agreements: 'We believe that if the people of the world unite jointly in destroying all their fire, gas and explosive bombs, this would be cheaper than destroying each other.'"

March 8, 1936—"Announcing remilitarization of the Rhineland: 'I believe I can consider with today the fight for German equality as concluded. x x x I can assure you that nothing certainly nothing in this world, can move us to renounce this sovereignty (over the Rhineland).'"

Jan. 30, 1937—"I hereby most solemnly withdraw the German signature form that declaration (the Treaty of Versailles) forced upon a weak government against its better knowledge."

Feb. 20, 1938—"Germany has no quarrel whatsoever with England—aside from our colonial desire. There will be an increasing demand for those colonial possessions."

Jan. 30, 1939—"There is no doubt that a war against the Italy of today for no matter what motive, will call Germany to the side of her friend."

April 28, 1939—"Denouncing British-German naval pact and non-aggression agreement with Poland and answering President Roosevelt's request for non-aggression assurances: 'I have not taken steps that violated foreign rights but merely have restored the rights violated 20 years ago.'"

September 1, 1939—"I am putting on the lifeline and I shall take it off only in victory or death."

Oct. 6, 1939—"Proposing a broad conference to bring about disarmament and new economic treaties: 'The most important condition for a real revival of economic life in and outside Europe is the establishment of unconditionally guaranteed peace and a sense of security on the part of individual nations.'"

Italiaq Cruiser Is Sunk by the British

LONDON, July 19 (AP)—The Italian light cruiser Bartolomeo Colleoni was sunk in the Mediterranean off the Greek island of Crete in battle this morning with the Australian cruiser Sydney and a small destroyer force, the British admiralty reported.

A British destroyer rescued 250 men from the Italian boat, one of the fastest warships in the world, with a normal complement of 500. The Sydney and her destroyer escort tackled both the Bartolomeo Colleoni and another cruiser northwest of Crete. The second cruiser was destroyed, according to the report of Captain J. A. Collins of the Sydney.

Nomination of FDR Accepted in Talk To Chicago Delegates

CHICAGO, July 19 (AP)—President Roosevelt, deciding that in a time of "public danger" he could not turn his "back upon a call to service," accepted today a third term nomination from a democratic convention which amid boos and cheers chose Secretary Henry A. Wallace for his running mate.

While fully 20,000 persons sat in a midnight hush in Chicago Stadium, the president told them by radio from the White House that "only the people themselves can draft a president."

"If such a draft be made upon me, I say in the utmost simplicity I will with God's help continue to serve with the best of my ability and with the fullness of my strength," he said.

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—A slip of the tongue caused President Roosevelt, in his acceptance speech last night, to refer to Henry Wallace, his new running mate, as nominee for "President of the United States," instead of Vice President.

During his speech to the Chicago convention, the chief executive interpolated a reference to Wallace which, according to a transcription of the broadcast, was as follows: "To you, delegates to this convention, I express my gratitude for the selection of Henry Wallace for the high office of president of the United States. His first hand knowledge of the problems of government in every sphere of life and in every part of the nation—and indeed in the whole world—qualifies him without reservation."

He said all the needs of human society had not been met, and more needed to be done. But, he added, "progress along free lines is gravely endangered by what is happening to other continents."

Then he continued in a grave tone: "Our government passes to other hands next January—untried hands, inexperienced hands—we can merely hope and pray that they will not substitute appeasement and compromise with those who seek to destroy all democracies everywhere."

Mrs. Roosevelt sat on the speaker's stand listening intently. Once she closed her eyes for a long time. Friends have said she did not want her husband to run, that her personal wish was to retire to the quiet of the Hudson Valley.

She had sat through the long and emotion-laden session, when she yelled bitterly, "we want a democrat" for vice president, referring to the fact that Secretary of Agriculture Wallace was a republican until 1928.

And she had seen Paul V. McNutt of Indiana turn aside a tremendous ovation when McNutt did not vote for him for vice president. She had watched other delegates vote lustily for Speaker William B. Bankhead for that post, only to yield up the nomination to Wallace on the first roll call.

Wallace, 627 and a fraction votes, Bankhead got 329, and McNutt, in spite of the effort he made to hold off support—even to the extent of turning the bulk of his Indiana delegations to Wallace—got 66 and a fraction votes. The others were scattered among ten candidates.

The delegates had been convinced that only by choosing Wallace—the president's choice—could they induce Mr. Roosevelt to accept first place on the tradition-breaking ticket. In the end, they gave a surface appearance of unanimity to the nomination by adopting a motion to make it unanimous.

But "noes" rang out plainly when Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky, the convention chairman, put the motion. His decision was that it had been carried by more than two-thirds of the delegates.

After President Roosevelt's address, the convention adjourned sine die at 12:05 a. m. CST. The dramatic peak of the evening was reached when McNutt, who had instructed that his name not be placed in nomination, shouldered his way to the speaker's stand.

He had leaped from his seat and started for the platform when Don Welch, an Oklahoma delegate, offered his name. The crowd was going wild.

McNutt clutched Barkley's arm with a hand that trembled. They (See DEMO PARTY, page 4)

Vice Presidential Fight Not The First One for Wallace

By OVID A. MARTIN. CHICAGO, July 19 (AP)—The democratic convention scene that preceded the vice presidential nomination of Henry A. Wallace was as stormy as some of the controversies which have swirled about the secretary of agriculture since he entered the cabinet in 1933. It was a modest appearing, professor-like son of the corn belt who heard boos as well as cheers echo through the convention hall at the mention of his name. He has heard them both before.

Friends said his new role came to him as a surprise—that when he came here as a delegate from his native Iowa, he had no inkling that he would be nominated as President Roosevelt's own choice. Iowa delegates, however, had been planning to offer his name.

Wallace may have a heavy share of the democrats' national campaigning. Definite plans await his formal notification of nomination, at a date to be set.

Associates said the secretary probably would concentrate speech-making in a pivotal midwestern and far western agricultural states. He has as his republican opponent, Senator Charles McNary of Oregon, a man whom Wallace himself has praised as a "true friend" of farmers. McNary in turn described the democratic nominee as a "good friend and an excellent choice."

Government farm policies which Wallace has administered have brought both praise and criticism. In the public mind his name has been associated with crop control programs, under which farmers received production and received more than $3,500,000,000 in government subsidies since 1933.

These programs brought from critics the charges that Wallace was attempting to establish a "regulated agriculture. Wallace contended that the programs were "democratic" in spirit and administration, and were designed to put farmers on a place of economic equality with industry and labor.

Wallace will be 52 years old on October 7. He holds a cabinet post occupied by his father, Henry Cantwell Wallace, under republican Presidents Harding and Coolidge. The present secretary originally was a republican.

Wallace has few interests outside his work. His recreation is limited to walks, throwing boomerang and an occasional visit to a corn field where he can "get the feel of the blades again." He and Mrs. Wallace, the former Ilo Browne of Indianola, Iowa, take little part in capital social activities.

Demand for Oil By England Is Made in Nation

HOUSTON, July 19 (AP)—Houston oil circles today hailed definite indications that the long-awaited war demand for oil and its products is arriving and revealed a reported plan of the British government to import American petroleum products to hidden storage bases in England as soon as the fog season begins late in August or early September.

Several oil company executives here said they had received definite inquiries, particularly for aviation gasoline, from sources representing the British government.

They said these were bona fide inquiries and not of the caliber of those made at the beginning of the war, which were attributed to speculators.

While the executives could give no figures as to the amount of oil England intends to buy, they said the representatives were seeking sizeable quantities. They said they did not know how England would transport the oil across the Atlantic.

Oil men said they noted a picking up of oil movements as far back as May, when England began taking some oil, chiefly aviation gasoline. In May England took 148,665 barrels of aviation gasoline and shipments have been increasing each month, it was said.

Mexico to Build Pipeline to Sell Oil to Japanese

MEXICO CITY, July 19 (AP)—Mexico was reported today to have virtually completed negotiations for construction of an oil pipeline to facilitate sale of petroleum to Japan, but the deal was said to be bogging on the objection of the United States department to participation of a New York construction firm.

The pipeline would run across the Isthmus of Tehuantepec from Puerto Mexico on the Gulf of Mexico to the Pacific port of Salinas Cruz. It would carry 40,000 barrels of oil daily from the Gulf fields, for sale principally to Japan, but also for a Mexican drive to open up markets on South America's west coast.

This would put Mexico in direct competition with California oil wells. Washington's attitude appeared to present a definite hitch in the plan. The state department is said to frown on participation of the American company because of the present unstable character of Japanese-American relations.

For this reason, informed quarters are uncertain whether the contract eventually will be signed.

Interpreting the War

By DeWitt MacKenzie
Associated Press Staff Writer

It isn't by mere coincidence that Spain raises a cry for the return of Gibraltar at a moment when the fate of Europe paces the shore of the English Channel, awaiting the zero hour for the Nazi blitzkrieg against Britain.

Spanish Generalissimo Franco's declaration that he expects to get this famous rock—"key to the Mediterranean"—isn't just another side-effort to extract gains from the Hitlerian blow at the English. It represents in fact a vital part of the battle for Britain.

That battle isn't as simple as its name might indicate. It takes in a lot more territory than this pin-head island. Actually the conflict is divided into two interlocking phases—the direct German assault on England, and the battle of the Mediterranean, which is Mussolini's pigeon.

General Franco naturally wants to regain this world's most noted fortress which his country lost to the British in 1704. But the inspiration to go after it springs from the Berlin-Rome axis. He is speaking one word for himself, and two for Messrs. Hitler and Mussolini.

From the axis standpoint it is imperative either that Hitler make a short job of crushing England by bombing and invasion, or that Britain's hold on the Mediterranean be broken.

Continued British domination of this sea spells probable strangulation of Italy through blockade. It also means that Mussolini can't reach the open Atlantic through the long and narrow Straits of Gibraltar to help his ally in the attack on England.

The rock could be besieged and captured only with the aid of Spain—if at all.

It is true that if Hitler can make a quick conquest of England—smash that country utterly by bombing and invasion—the battle of the Mediterranean probably will be automatically resolved without further argument.

But if the Fuehrer falls in this lightning victory—then he not only will want the help of his ally to pursue the attack but, what is more to the point, Italy likely will be in grave danger of defeat.

Therefore, the logical axis strategy would seem to be to try to crack Britain's grip on the Mediterranean either before or simultaneously with the attempted invasion of Britain.

Thus it is far from strange that Franco should choose this crucial moment to start proclaiming his determination to regain the much-publicized rock and that 200,000 workers should pass a "Madrid shouting, 'Gibraltar! Spanish!'"

Actually the Spanish chieftain is in no position to carry out an attack against Gibraltar on his own.

His country is still suffering too greatly from the shock of the civil war to engage in another conflict on a big scale.

So if an attempt is made to shatter the padlock of the Straits it undoubtedly will be largely an Italo-German affair staged under the auspices and hospitality of friend Franco. It has been reported that German troops already are in Spain, ready for eventualities. This hasn't been confirmed, but the report isn't surprising.

A siege of Gibraltar presumably would be an affair of considerable duration. It would be engineered largely through artillery bombardment from Spanish territory, and heavy bombing by planes using the Spanish bases. This would be calculated to render it impossible for the British to maintain the fine, deep harbor as a naval base.

The promontory on which the natural fortress stands is connected with the Spanish mainland by an isthmus which is neutral territory. This isthmus lies so low that the huge, grey marble rock looks like an island 1439 feet above the surface of the water. It is 2 3/4 miles long and 3/4 of a mile wide.

Gibraltar is, of course, heavily fortified and its interior is like that of a man of war. It will take a lot of hammering to crack it. The Spaniards besieged it from 1779 to 1783 and finally had to quit. That's a long time ago, though, and modern machinery of war is much more powerful.

Candidates Blast Away as Campaign Is Nearing the End

By The Associated Press.

It's a day and night of "trail crossing" in the Texas gubernatorial campaign.

Harry Hines and Jerry Sadler visit Abilene while James E. Ferguson goes to Houston tonight to speak where Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel drew a huge crowd last night.

Gov. O'Daniel, meanwhile, will be carrying his campaign to Corpus Christi.

Hines speaks at Priddy, Cross Plains, Abilene and Buffalo Gap. Ernest O. Thompson goes to Elkhart, Terrell, Sulphur Springs and Greenville—the latter where O'Daniel was heard Monday night.

Jerry Sadler will be at Plainview, Lubbock, Snyder, Sweetwater and Abilene.

O'Daniel told a Houston crowd—which he looked over and estimated at 50,000 to 60,000—that "I'm not out making these trips around the state to stir up votes, but to keep

BAHAMAS GLAD ABOUT WINDSOR; NOT GLAD ABOUT OTHER NEWS

The harbor of Nassau. Some of the many cays of the Bahamas are seen in the upper left corner.

BY THOMAS J. B. WENNER
NEA Service Special Correspondent

NASSAU, The Bahamas. — The normally placid and courteous Bahaman is not so placid these days. He is trying hard to remain courteous.

Most exciting — and welcome — news in years for the islands was appointment of the Duke of Windsor as governor and commander-in-chief. Nearly everyone here predicts a big lift for the archipelago's social life and an even bigger boost for tourist trade from the U. S.

But the annexation talk is another matter. If Britain meets the fate of France, these closest of all British possessions off United States shores may go on the colonial "block."

Reports circulated here that plans before the U. S. Congress envisage a "deal" for cession of the Bahamas in consideration of outstanding war debt payments.

This riles Bahamians. Persons long resident in New Providence Island, center of economic and political activity, consider the Bahamas "most pro-British and anti-American of all British outposts in this hemisphere."

The general attitude is pretty well summed up by this statement made to me by a gentleman of long and reputable standing in the archipelago:

"In the first place we don't recognize the justness of the war debt claims. The United States got into the last war very late. She was lucky not to lose more soldiers in France, trying to help stop 'Jerry' from over-running Europe.

"Second, the Washington government is expected to live up to its New Deal principles. So far President Roosevelt has maintained an anti-imperialist policy in the West Indies and the Caribbean.

"Third, our large colored population would not stand for it. You couldn't get a baker's dozen to vote for any such proposal today, the war situation notwithstanding."

In the final analysis, our islands are not for sale. Britain does not turn over the inhabitants of her colonies to the highest foreign bidder. If Britain loses out in Europe the story may be different. But she hasn't lost the war yet."

Strategically, the islands are important. Nassau, the capital, is two hours flying time from Florida. Bimini, nearest island of the group, is less than 40 minutes by air from Miami. The islands stretch for more than 600 miles from Haiti to Florida. Even the passage to the Caribbean between Puerto Rico and the Dominican Republic might be jeopardized from easternmost points in the Bahamas.

Congress has taken steps to bolster present defenses in the Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico and Cuba. Americans could feel safer if the Bahaman group were also brought inside the defense line.

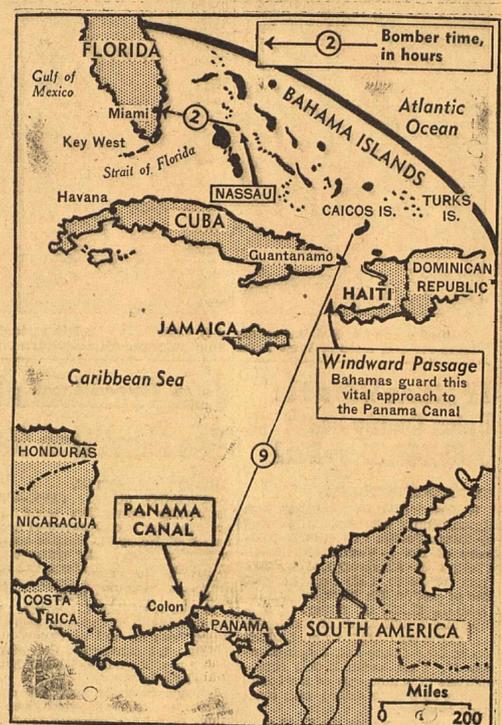

HOW has the war affected the Bahamas? On the surface, very little. Life goes on in just about the same leisurely manner it has for centuries. But underneath the gloss of affluent tourists gaiety and native legarey is a deep (if somewhat masked) official British gloom.

Tourists trade has fallen off considerably. Ship schedules have been sharply curtailed. The hope here is that virtual stoppage of European travel—plus the attraction of Edward and Wally — will bring increasing numbers of American tourists.

Patriotic fervor runs high. The islands have contributed 20,000 pounds to imperial defense, and a wartime insular "defense army" has been formed.

There is talk of fifth column activity, but there appears to be little menace in the islands. The population is approximately nine-tenths colored, and the natives have fared well under British rule.

Almost no German or Italian elements reside in the islands.

Map shows how Bahama Islands shield approaches to southern Florida, the Gulf of Mexico, the Caribbean Sea and Panama Canal.

But the inhabitants of the Bahamas know on which side their bread is buttered. The economic well-spring of the island has always been the United States. Bahaman imports from the United States far outdistance those of Great Britain and Canada combined; reciprocally, Americans are the islands' largest customers.

The islands buy a great deal from the U. S. but they require a lucrative American tourist trade to pay for their imports.

This may seem like a one-sided deal, but it is the sort of thing the U. S. will have to think more about if the Monroe Doctrine is to become more than a mouth-warming expression of American hopes.

Goal of Life Is Not to Escape From Suffering

BY R. A. WEAVER

I had heard of thee by the hearing of the ear, but now mine eye seeth thee; wherefore I abhor myself, and repent in dust and ashes. Job 42 5-6.

The Book of Job concludes upon a very optimistic note. Altho he suffered great trials and endured many afflictions, having lost health and wealth, he won out through the exercise of a faith that trusted in God even unto death. In the end he gained more than he lost, and came out victorious over doubt, fears, and weaknesses. At the beginning of his tragedies, Job was an upright man, obeying the commands of the Lord, and living a good life. But one thing he lacked where one of the signs of personal touch—the communion of the Spirit, and an understanding of God's love and Grace. Job had not really been born again, but his dark experiences brought him to this step in the path of life.

His problems and his dire straits were disclosed by his friends from four different angles: (1) As punishment for sin; (2) as discipline for the soul; (3) as something beyond explanation, and (4) the physical world is a place where physical laws operate, and the flesh is heir to imperfections, decay and death.

An important point to be considered in the discussion of the meaning of suffering may be expressed by asking this question: "Is the goal of life the escape from suffering?" The lives of all great teachers and leaders testify that it is not the goal of life. No great teacher has ever lived who was not meek and lowly at heart. This was the characteristic of the Christ. It is an unchallenged fact that no growth, no development, no improvement can be had without pain. This fact is seen in all things created, in all life and in all phases of truth. As we look abroad over the world of beings and things, we find that pain or disturbance of some sort is everywhere. Everywhere the creative impulse is aroused by a feeling of necessity or is accomplished by a sense of pain, and nothing new is given to the world without a conflict with the easy-going conservative element which would stem the tide of progress if it could. Whenever there is tension, uneasiness, pain, want, or desire, we may therefore know that it means one of two things. It is either (1) evolutionary, a sign that we are incomplete, and Creator seeks our perfection, or (2) it is some hurt which the Creator is trying to heal some temporary loss of equilibrium. The tension or impulse is a sign to us that we are to understand its meaning, and instead of opposing it, throw ourselves in line with the Creative or restorative power. It is not the aim and motive of the Christian to continually seek rest and deliverance from trials and sickness. Too much emphasis may be placed upon this phase of life to the exclusion of service and sacrifice. The way of the Cross still leads home. Christianity was bought with the blood of the Saints. The soldier of the Cross does not travel to heaven on flowery beds of ease; and the Christian who seeks to thus escape the stony path will never find the gate that is strait which leads to Beulah Land. Bearing the cross presages the wearing of the crown. Fellowship with Christ means also the fellowship of His suffering.

Groping through the darkness of doubt, and seeking the light of Divine Service, Job took on a new attitude of mind. Previously he lacked humility and meekness, he argued and wrangled over his rights and his merits. But through the operation of the Spirit of God he was illuminated within and saw God as He is. This wonderful experience caused him to be extremely humble and meek—he became a little child. His former position was repudiated, and seeing God, as he did, he minimized himself.

The story of Job illustrates to us elsewhere is cordially invited to attend. The teachers are Marvin Ulmer and W. I. Pratt. There is a singing service of fifteen minutes prior to the speaking.

That we may lack the true riches even in prosperity, and that the pearl of great price is after all the thing which everyone is seeking in his own way, regardless of his position in life. All that we see around us in this universe is transitory and impermanent. It is Reality that every soul seeks after. And until this is found, there is no real contentment, happiness or peace. Our possessions consist not in things, but in the eternal principles that are built into our lives. We are what we are. Those things that make for peace and joy are the things which abide and which we can take with us.

COWBOYS LOSE SECOND IN ROW TO HUBBERS

Lucas Defeated In Hurling Duel With Walt Gorski

LUBBOCK July 19 (Special)—The Lubbock Hubbers made it two in a row over the Midland Cowboys last night when big Walter Gorski outpitched Lefty Lucas, Midland's ace pitcher, to cop a 5-3 decision.

Lubbock got off two runs ahead in the third inning and were never caught. After the Cowboys had made two in the sixth to threaten the lead the Hubbers sewed it up in their half with three more runs. The Cowboys got one more in the seventh but Gorski clamped down then and shut them out in the last two frames.

Jenkins Loses to Armstrong

MUSTANG BOYS' CLUB COLUMN

Annual Mustang Bicycle Races next Friday. The time is six o'clock. The place is the "Old Fair Grounds" on the Rankin highway. The "big idea" is fun on wheels and plenty of it. The prizes will be free airplane rides with Little Geo. McEntire, ice cream and plenty of points. One group will be for boys 110 pounds and under, the other for boys over 110 pounds. There will be all kinds, shapes and sizes of boys and all kinds, shapes and sizes of bicycles. Boys should get their names on the entry list NOW.

The Mustangs are running about a five ring circus these fine summer days, concentrating on out-of-door activities. Their new 9 hole golf course at the club grounds has become famous in a weeks time. Even grown up friends are itching to play on same. Par is 28 for the 9 holes with a bottle of pop for a par score. The best record to date has been turned in by Otis Richmond with a neat 25.

Mustang water sports with a barf and a splash every Wednesday and Friday mornings and all for the price of a nickel, a half dime, plus membership card. All boys are working hard to pass the advanced swimmers test. Boys so doing will be permitted to fish with boats and ride behind a fast motor boat on a surf-board (aqua-plane), during the three day camping holiday next month.

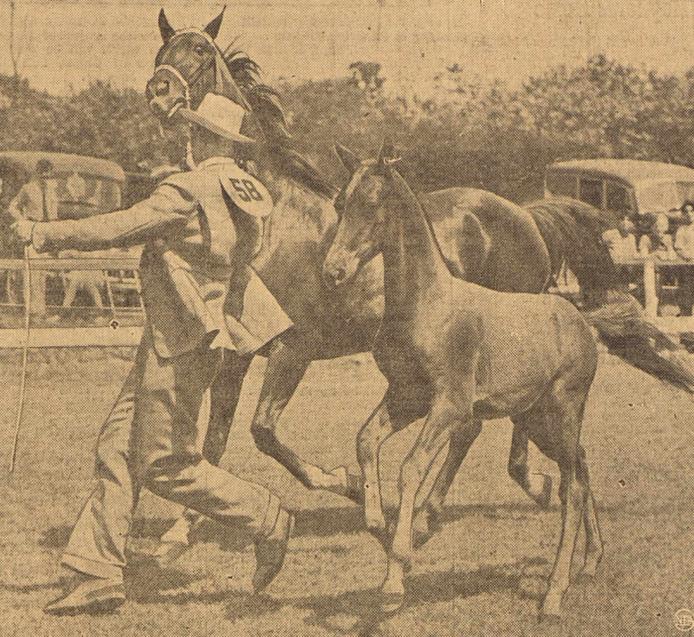

All Mustangs are working overtime to earn enough points to merit this free trip. Looks like over 100 boys will qualify.

Exceptional interest is being shown in the rifle shooting for NRA medals. Some excellent shots have been developed. Sergeant Reeves is devoting many hours of his time voluntarily to make this sport available and enjoyable. He holds some enviable shooting records and is a life member of the National Rifle Association. Competitive games are being played on Wednesday and Saturday nights. The most popular game is an original adaptation of that famous old game "Shinny". However the resourceful Broncos use old brooms instead of shiny sticks. Its almost too lively to be called a game. It should be called a "riot".

The Mustangs placed second in the "Softball" league, under-dog section of the first half of the season. City Taxi Cab team coped first place. Many Mustangs are playing on the All-Boys, Independent Junior hard ball teams. Bedford's team seems too tuff to tackle. Parkis team says they'll get their scalps or bust. Both of these teams claim that Stud Foster's team is a push over so big that they get in their own way.

Various new members continue to sign on the dotted line for the Mustang fun. Several Odessa boys have persuaded the club to let them join. They hitch hike over to join the gang from time to time. Some interesting and very original handicraft is being brought in daily. This is made at home. Some of the boys have been trapping or catching some interesting wild life—rattlesnakes, skunks, armadillos, prairie dogs, chicken hawks, tarantulas, quail or what have you. —NUFF SAID.

Protests Against Regime of Petain Increase in Paris

PARIS, July 19 (Via Berlin)—A rising chorus of protests at the new French regime of aged Marshal Philippe Petain is keeping stirred up politically.

"A new situation requires men," cried the newspaper Les Nouvelles De Paris, "we demand them."

The new publication La France Au Travail took the same stand. It directed sharp criticism at political pasts of ministers in Vichy's authoritarian government, especially Vice Premier Pierre Laval and called for delay in establishing a new constitution until the "situation" becomes stabilized.

Petain's government is understood to be negotiating with German authorities for a return to Paris of the temporary capital at Vichy.

In general, Parisian business returning to normal, although German military police have assumed rigid control of all highway traffic through French territory under occupation where only persons of special passes now may travel.

Reopening of Paris banks to ended a month-long financial paralysis of the city.

Detroit Takes American League Lead Again by Beating Boston

BY JUDSON BAILEY

Associated Press Sports Writer

The American league still is boiling over, like a pot of hot porridge, and there doesn't seem to be anything anyone can do about it. The Cleveland Indians stumbled into their fifth consecutive defeat yesterday, 9-6, at the hands of the ever dangerous New York Yankees. Four losses got 'em into first place, but five took 'em out.

Both the Boston Red Sox and Detroit Tigers had a chance to shoot into the lead, but when they finished battling each other at the end of 11 wild innings, it was Detroit who was on top, 10-8.

The Red Sox scored all their eight runs in the first three innings. Then the Tigers, using five pitchers, held them helpless the rest of the way.

Although they are in fourth place, the world champion Yankees are only four games behind the leaders. The amazing Washington Senators, who were in last place only last Sunday, chalked up their fifth triumph in a row with a 5-4 decision over the Chicago White Sox.

The streak to end all streaks, however, was the one the St. Louis Browns extended to 14 games, all losses, yesterday. This isn't a record, but it is one more defeat than the Browns ever had suffered in succession before. The 10-3 victory that the Philadelphia Athletics took from them was a combination of five-hit hurling by Johnny Babich and a 17-hit assault on five St. Louis slingers.

The National league program was abbreviated to two games and the Brooklyn Dodgers made the most of the idleness of the Cincinnati Reds by whipping the Chicago Cubs 7-4 to narrow the gap between first and second place to three games.

Carl Hubbell got the chance he wanted to work in a night game and handcuffed the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-1 on six hits.

Sports Roundup

BY EDDIE BRITZ

NEW YORK, July 19 (AP)—Sallies down tistic alleys: Don't be surprised if the Manassa Mauler is really through this time. That back injury he suffered in Detroit is no joke. . . . Mrs. Kate Jenkins said, "Lew's mistake was that he grew a little careless when he had Armstrong where he wanted him." (We musta missed that) . . . Hype Igoe, the old smartie, is still taking bows for publicly picking Maxie Bear to stop Galeite in eight and Armstrong to hit Jenkins in six. Johnny Ray, Billy Conn's manager, says if the pretty Pittsburgher doesn't weigh at least 180 for the Pastor fight, he (Ray) will eat all the coal in Pennsylvania, chunk by chunk.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Wilbur Wood, New York "Sun"—"Henry Armstrong isn't half the fighter he used to be and Lew Jenkins isn't half the fighter he was supposed to be."

Autumn's-in-the-air-note: In less than four weeks the New York "Jints" football club will head for training camp. . . . If the Dodgers win the pennant, they may play their world series "home games" in Yankee stadium, where about twice as many customers can buy tickets.

Ask the Cleveland Indians: Jimmy Dykes ain't kiddin'! When he starts to ribbin' his poison darts sure hit. Enemies of ol' Os Vitt!

Question (but no answer) Dept: Are the Dodgers dickering for a trawler to bring them back to town Sunday? . . . What American league club is interested in pitcher Frank Melton of Columbus? . . . And why aren't big league scouts camping on the doorstep of John Leonardo, pitcher for Du Pont in the Virginia Interscity league? All he's done is hurl five shutouts this season, the last four in succession.

Safe bet: That during his basketball coaching career out at Coffeyville, Kas., high school, Wendell Wilkie employed a "fire department" offense.

TENNIS TIDBIT

C. H. Deyoung of Halifax brought suit recently against a tennis club because its members were forever hammering balls into his yard, flattening his phlox and causing him "substantial discomfort and inconvenience." . . . The judge, evidently not a forehand fibert, awarded him $100.

talked earnestly; McNutt shook his head.

The instant Welch concluded, McNutt was at the lectern, his face pale. He shook his head while the cheers climbed up to lose themselves among the flag-draped steel rafters.

State standards came nodding past in a parade. The organ pealed. Barkley silenced it with a wave, and slided away with his big gavel.

Each rap brought a wave of cheers, McNutt waved for silence but got bedlam.

"Stay with 'em, Paul" and "go get it, Paul," urged the crowd. But he shook his head and strove again to be heard. He held his ground, and he and Barkley together fought down the noise.

"We cannot take chances now; a nation only gets one chance these days," McNutt shouted. "If it makes a mistake it is lost. We must have leaders who will keep this country safe and free."

"We have such a leader in Franklin Delano Roosevelt. I follow his wishes and I am here to support his choice for vice president."

Again the crowd yelled: "No—no." "I therefore ask emphatically that my name be withdrawn, and I pledge my enthusiastic support to the nominee who is being selected on this historic occasion," he concluded.

Texas Today

BY DAVE CHEAVES Associated Press Staff

Timid armadillos nibble at the roots of bunch grass and horned frogs squat under the scant shade of algerita bushes today on a knoll above Garcitas Creek, six miles north of Lavaca Bay, where 250 years ago France claimed and lost an empire in the new world.

The citizens of Texas today are poignantly aware of the troubles of France, and the fate of the western world are of grave concern.

These days torrential gulf rains beat down upon the crest of the little rounded hill in Victoria county, where, some historians say, the Sieur de la Salle planted the flag of France in 1685.

is delicate, fragile, and the brown unglazed and serviceable.

Only these crumbled potsherds—fragments of teacups and dinner plates, cooking vessels, water jugs—note that historic mound as the tangible heritage of France's lost cause on Texas soil.

The history books tell in detail the tragic story of La Salle. Briefly, his expedition inadvertently stumbled into Matagorda Bay through the treacherous shoals of Pass Cavallo.

FEMININE FANCIES

By Kathleen Eiland

Wonder why it is that a sunburn which it takes only an hour or two to acquire requires several weeks to erase?

On our first outing of the summer, we cautioned to wear a jacket to avoid sunburned arms, we airily waved aside the suggestion.

That was almost a month ago and we're still trying to get rid of the tan and the freckles that followed our ill-advised decision.

Technicolor in moving pictures has now reached the point of development where it is really lovely and natural enough to be effective.

Come to think of it, it is a pretty grand world to be living in—war or no war.

And speaking of moving pictures, we vote twice for the delightful technicolor animal pictures, fairy-tale tales that we really believe grown-ups enjoy as much as do the children in the audience.

Our idea of the ideal world is one in which it is just as easy to do the thing that we should do as it is to do the thing that we want to do.

but hardy Frenchman, his clothing in shreds, his flesh wasted by starvation, his exploring party decimated by disease, Indian arrows, and the tribulations of an unsuccessful journey.

Meanwhile, the little colony he left behind in a stockade on the Garcitas was not enjoying a life of ease.

The wreck of the supply ship Aimable on the bar of Pass Cavallo (some said through treachery) had virtually obliterated the expedition's supplies.

Joutel was a farmer of Rouen, and he tried to raise a garden with some seeds that survived the wreck. Some did not come up. The birds ate others. Some fell in salt-soaked soil.

Through it all, La Salle remained confident. He, and Joutel in his absence, devised means of keeping the men busy.

When LaSalle, with only a dragging remnant of his exploring party, returned overland from his second unsuccessful search for the Mississippi, he was pleased to find his people too busy at a dance to notice his return.

He knew there was only one hope of escape. He recognized the attempt to establish a colony apparently had failed, but he hoped he could salvage something from its ruins.

He took the chance, and set out on his last journey—the fatal journey, Joutel calls it—for it was then he was struck down from within his own ranks.

Quicksilver Thieves Are Said Arrested

ODESSA, July 19 (AP)—Sheriff Reeder Webb said today he had recovered five thermos jugs containing quicksilver valued at $1,700 and believed to have been stolen from meters of various West Texas oil wells.

Jeff Lee of Monahans, charged with theft of quicksilver from oil well meters, was free today on $1,000 bond and waived examining trial.

Inghams Return From California

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ingham returned Thursday from a two-weeks vacation trip to California. They were accompanied by their granddaughters, Viola Clyde Ingham of Monahans, and Sally Jo Carlock of Tucumcari, N. M.

The travelers went to San Francisco where they found the Fair very interesting. Mrs. Ingham said they visited in Los Angeles, saw relatives at San Bernardino and other places in the state, and made a trip to Catalina Island.

Troop Trains to Carry National Guards to Camp

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—Troop trains will rumble down American railroads next month, carrying 132,909 national guard and regular army officers and men to maneuvers in the four army areas.

While only a few thousand more than a third of the 305,000 troops will be transported by rail, it will take 466 special trains with 3,112 coaches and 1,324 baggage cars to carry them.

The rest of the troops will move by motor. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UP)—The University of Minnesota has conferred an honor degree upon a St. Paul woman, Laura E. Kohout, after 15 years steady attendance in night school.

Graduated with a Bachelor of Arts degree cum laude from the college of science, literature and the arts, she is the first woman in Minnesota and the second person ever to be graduated from the university's night school.

U. S. Monitor Station To Check Radio Spies

MILLIS, Mass. (UP)—The Federal government will establish a powerful monitor station to replace the obsolete station of the Communications Commission at Hingham.

President Roosevelt has signed a bill authorizing the spending of $30,000. The commission will occupy the old quarters of Station WBZ which is moving to Hull.

The new station will be equipped to detect spy stations and prevent relaying of information to foreign agents outside the country.

Summer Health Advice: Don't Get Mad, Keep Cool

CHICAGO, (UP)—"Moderation in all things—especially in summer"—that is the advice of an editorial in Hygeia, The Health Magazine, suggesting how to keep cool, comfortable and healthy during hot weather.

Don't overwork, overplay or overeat and avoid excess of alcoholic drinks. Along with warning against over-exposure to the sun, the article recommended light, loose clothing and a diet which includes plenty of fresh vegetables and fruits.

"Don't get 'mad,' keep cool," the editorial said.

German Reprisals Due Against Dutch

AMSTERDAM, (Via Berlin) July 19 (AP)—A German spokesman declared tonight that "authorities regret to be obligated to act" in connection with alleged mistreatment of Germans in the Dutch East and West Indies.

"East and West Indian authorities are responsible," he said. "They don't understand how Europeans in the colonies have to be treated and don't appreciate the good treatment (by Germany) of Dutch war prisoners."

The spokesman intimated that German action would be in the form of reprisals in Holland against certain persons well known in overseas possessions.

Garage Fire Sets Off Siren of Burning Auto

HAMILTON, Mont. (UP)—Dr. R. A. Cooley's automobile sounded its own fire alarm, enabling him to save his home from the flames.

Awakened by the persistent honking of an automobile horn, Cooley realized it came from his garage adjoining the house. He found the machine in flames but firemen were able to pull it outside before his residence caught fire.

Rallying Punches Felt on Market

NEW YORK, July 19 (AP)—The stock market again pulled its rallying punches today. Leading issues drifted over an irregularly lower course.

While dealings were inconsequential from the start, the ticker tape virtually came to a standstill when Hitler began his address to the German reichstag.

Traders saw further confirmation of their fears that the long-threatened smash at John Bull was in the offing. Both buyers and sellers remained in the do-nothing ranks, for the most part.

Business prospects still were the main market drop, brokers said, and accounted for the slackness of offerings in all departments. Transfers for the five hours approximated 250,000 shares.

Backward stocks included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Sperry, American Telephone, Kenecott, Phelps Dodge, Westinghouse, Union Carbide, Loft, S. S. Gypsum, Standard Oil of N. J. and Southern Railway.
