

Ray's 'Ritin'

By RAY MARTIN

We have just received a lengthy release from the American Medical Association on how to sunburn.

I had hardly realized that anyone needed instructions in order to sunburn. My thinking on the matter had been that one simply removed portions (or all) of his clothing and stood, lay or sat in the sun until the job was completed. But apparently AMA thinks instructions on the matter are needed.

My first experience in sunburn came when I was quite young and occurred one hot day in mid-summer while picking up potatoes that were being plowed up by Jack, our family horse, and my dad. I was wearing a pair of old cotton pants and a bob-tailed shirt, and in the stooping process, the two — the pants and shirt — separated for a distance of approximately two inches across my skinny spine and the sunburning process took place in accordance with the laws of nature. For a week I couldn't lean back against the rungs of the chair.

AMA gives these directions on how to get sunburned:

"Go to the beach or pool on the first hot day. Stay all day in the sun in your swim suit, particularly through the noon hour when the rays are most penetrating. Don't bother with protective lotions. It really is very easy to get a painful, almost crippling burn. If you stay out long enough, you can even get a deep third-degree burn."

Now the age of the strong sun-tan seems to have disappeared. When I was in my teens, the young man whose torso was a lighter shade than dark chocolate was considered downright anemic, sissy. In those days, my own skinny frame by June 15 was darker than burned-up pancake, and by mid-summer I had tanned myself clear out of the Caucasian race.

In those days, it was considered healthy — this turning oneself into a chocolate-skinned character. This was supposed to be the sort of a vitamin that you could store up, the vitamin (whatever it is) that sun contains. If you store up enough of it during the summer you wouldn't have a cold the following winter, even if you went wading in the snow barefooted.

I subscribed to that theory, and most of the boys (and some of the girls) got their color changed from white to off-black as soon as possible after school was out.

But now they have taken away this theory. What once everybody considered was healthy, the doctors say now does no practical good anyway, and you can get more of the sun-type vitamin from a can of tomato juice or something.

Anyway, this AMA article says "tanning has no physical value." It goes on to say, "Exposure to the sun is damaging to the skin. Sunlight speeds wrinkle and aging, and excessive exposure over a period of time can cause serious skin conditions. Physicians would prefer that their patients avoid exposure to the sun as much as possible."

So maybe Aunt Emma was right. Aunt Emma held that the

Crash Leaves One Dead, One Injured

One person was killed and another critically injured in a two-truck crash 5.5 miles north and one mile east of Muleshoe Tuesday at 1:15 p.m.

The crash occurred only 100 yards north of Bailey county at the intersection of two unpaved country roads.

Dead on arrival at West Plains Hospital in Muleshoe was Clarence Robinson, a Negro whose age is unknown. He was said to be around 30 years old.

Seriously injured was Charles Earl Moore, 56, Route 1 Muleshoe, driver of one of the pickups involved in the accident.

Escaping with bruises was Teodoro Echavarría, 26, driver of the other pickup truck. He was not taken to a hospital.

Moore suffered a broken vertebra, broken ribs and a collapsed right lung. Physicians at West Plains Hospital described his condition as critical.

Moore is paralyzed from the waist down and is in a severe state of shock, physicians said.

Moore and Robinson were driving a 1959 Chevrolet pickup owned by Kenneth Hanks of near Muleshoe. Both Moore and Robinson were thrown from the truck.

Echavarría was driving a 1956 Ford pickup, owned by his brother, Gregory Echavarría.

Highway Patrolman Carl Parker, Friona, who investigated the accident, said the crash occurred at a wide-open country road intersection and there were no obstructions to block the view.

The truck in which Moore and Robinson were riding was struck

Talent Shows Planned Here

With Muleshoe Jaycees as sponsors, monthly talent jamborees are to be staged here, it was announced this week by Pat Glover, Jaycee chairman of the program.

First event will be held Thursday, June 13 at 8 p.m. in the senior high school auditorium. Talent for this first show already has been lined up, Glover said. Prizes are to go to the winning individuals or acts, he explained.

The jamborees are to be staged each month with admission charge of $1 for adults and 75 cents for all school students. Preschool children will be admitted free.

A high-class show is planned for each event, Glover said, with the audience "getting its money's worth" at each show.

No advance ticket sales are planned, admission costs to be paid at the door for each month's jamboree.

Karen Jones Gets $2,000 Scholarship

Karen Jones, 1963 graduate of Muleshoe high school, has been named first place winner in the Chamber of Commerce, it was learned Thursday.

Karen will receive a $2,000 scholarship as a result. Previously she had been second place winner, receiving a $100 savings bond and a dictionary. However, the local Jaycee club was informed this week by Jake Massey, chairman of the state Jaycee award committee, that the first place winner had forfeited her prize; she has decided to attend a college outside Texas.

The scholarship is presented by the state Jaycees and Consumers Finance.

65 mph Winds Rake Muleshoe

Hard winds that reached a peak of 65 miles an hour, raked the Muleshoe area late Monday afternoon, flattened home television antennas, snapped tree limbs and smashed in several windows, but left only sprinkles of rain.

Hail again fell in some areas of Bailey county. Hardest hit, apparently, were farms in the Needmore community where more than one farmer reported cotton wiped out. Rains, in general, were light throughout the region.

The region west of Muleshoe received some rain and Clovis had what was described as "a good shower." While some crops were damaged by the rain and hard wind, except in the Needmore district, damage was slight.

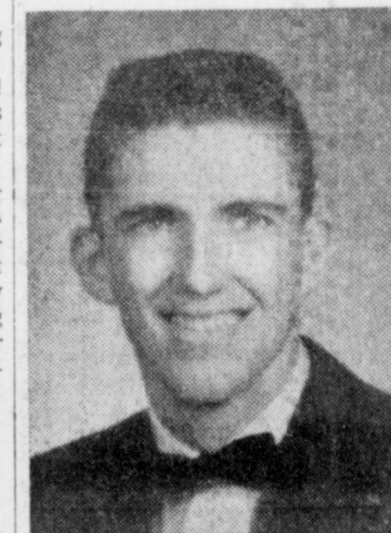

Some damage was reported again in the Bovina area, hard hit by heavy hail a week ago. A farm laborer near Clovis was injured by lightning, and winds did damage at Plainview. Littlefield had .10 inch of rain and light hail but no damage was reported.

Lions District Conclave Set

Muleshoe Lions club will be represented at the District 2-T-2 Lions club International convention in Lubbock June 7-9, it was announced Wednesday.

The Muleshoe club held its installation of officers at a ladies' night dinner Tuesday when Red Johnson became the new president.

M. Swain Rodgers, chairman of the district publicity committee said Lions are "expecting the largest group ever to assemble for a district meeting." A queen representing each Lions club in the district is to attend the convention.

FAVORITE — Rodney Blackwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Blackwood, 915 West Ave. D, was named sophomore class favorite in ceremonies at Lubbock Christian College, a 1961 graduate of Muleshoe High School. Blackwood is a pre-veterinary medicine major at LCC. This year he has served as president of the sophomore class and of Sigma Kappa Chi social club.

It's Beard Check-up Time Here

Muleshoe Jaycees will be out in numbers Saturday checking on facial foliage of Muleshoe folk, Dale Long, chairman of the beard-growing committee, said Thursday.

Every man in town who hasn't laid aside his razor by Saturday will be fined $1 — or else he can buy a shaving permit for $1.50.

Saturday will be the official starting time for the no-shaving contest which will wind up with presentation of beard awards at Muleshoe's annual Fourth of July Celebration at Benny Douglas field.

Already many men in Muleshoe have started their beards, and if the Jaycees can't see definite signs of hirsute growths by Saturday, the fine will be levied or a permit demanded.

Although the contest is sponsored by the Jaycees, the beard-growing program is for every man in town, Long explained. The $1 fine, incidentally, can be levied each day from June 3 until the contest is over, while the $1.50 shaving permit will be good throughout the period.

The Jaycees are not limiting the kind of beard men must grow; they can be mustaches, full beards, Van Dykes, lamb chops or what have you, but they must be sufficient to be recognizable.

On Wednesday, July 3, the contest will be judged when ESA sorority members will be the judges. That phase of the contest will take place on Piggly-Wiggly parking lot. Then on the following night, prizes will be awarded for the longest beard, the best looking beard and the ugliest.

Memorial Day Closing Set

Bailey county courthouse, banks, city hall, postoffice and most department stores in Muleshoe will be closed Thursday for Memorial day, it was revealed Wednesday after a check of businesses.

Some groceries will be open as usual, however.

The county courthouse will start its summer schedule this week — a five-day week. From now through August, the courthouse will be closed all day Saturday.

SWIM TIME AGAIN — Muleshoe's municipal pool opens this weekend, and one of the first to don a bathing suit and make ready for the big splash was Sherri Smith. Here she's shown waving at some of her friends on the other side of the pool. Beside her is the pool's manager, Louis Powers. (Journal Photo & Engraving)

Hereford Plans Pioneer Day

Hereford will be the scene tomorrow (Friday) of the Mid-Plains Pioneer Day to be observed at community center. Bailey county pioneers have been invited to attend.

The program will open at 9 o'clock with registration in charge of the Hereford B&PW club. Hereford high school girls will serve as greeters.

The Pioneer club is to serve coffee and doughnuts until 10 o'clock when the annual meeting is held with Fred Baird, president, in charge. The invocation is to be said by the Rev. Russell A. Winger, and the welcome address will be given by Mrs. Audrey Thompson, Hereford. The response is to be said by Mrs. Una Hutcheons, Amarillo.

In a business meeting slated to follow the general meetings, Mrs. Mary King will give the financial report, and officers for the new year will be elected.

The program will conclude with a basket lunch at noon at the community center.

Officers Nab Hot Check Artist, Sound Warning

Officers this week urged merchants to be cautious in accepting checks from strangers, especially those with double endorsements.

This caution was issued after two men were arrested here last week and lodged in the county jail after they allegedly had passed two forged and worthless checks to two Muleshoe groceries.

The third attempt to pass such a check, however, resulted in their arrest. The merchant became suspicious and called officers who picked up the two and filed charges of theft by false pretence against the pair. Officers termed the two "professional" hot check artists.

The two suspects, according to County Attorney Roger Gorrell, were arrested before they could make away with any money or merchandise which they had secured in the two check incidents here.

They pleaded guilty to the charge and were fined $50 by County Judge Glen Williams who also ordered the two to pay back all the money they had taken here. They also were handed a 60-day jail sentence.

A new and stricter hot check law is in the making by the state legislature, although the emergency clause has not been included in the new law. Thus it will be 90 days after adjournment of the legislature before it goes into effect. The new law will eliminate part of the red tape which now results before check violators can be brought to justice.

The Martins have a 2-year-old daughter, Dawn Michele Martin.

Youths Sought For Ball Team

All boys who live in the Muleshoe, Earth Lazbuddie, Friona Bovina, Farwell, Threeway, Sudan, and Bula area who wish to play American Legion Junior Baseball and whose birthday is after September 1, 1945 should go into the courthouse soon and sign up with Judge Joe Vaughn as the Competition play starts about June 1, and Coach Harold Freeman says he wants his team ready to go when the umpire shouts "PLAY BALL!" it was announced today.

The uniforms are in the cleaners being made ready. Muleshoe team will be opposing such teams as Littlefield, Levelland, Brownfield, Plainview and other towns who may have an American Legion Team this year. Competition is keen in this type baseball and any boy who feels he may have the making of a ball player will have opportunities here such as he may not get otherwise, since there are always baseball scouts attending American Legion Junior ball games and looking for promising boys, sponsors pointed out.

Coach Harold Freeman says he would like to start his boys working out right away in hope of having a successful season and a chance of going into the district playoff at the least.

Winners Picked In Golf Tourney

Hattie Ray Jones and Bill Thompson came out on top in the Muleshoe Country Club "Scotch Race Horse" tournament which ended late Tuesday. They wound up with a 44.

In total score, the winners were tied by Herb Griffiths and Mary Sweetman who also finished with a nine-hole total of 44, but the Jones-Thompson duo won the last hole with par 3 to take the event. Ending in third place were Ed Evans and Melzine Elliott.

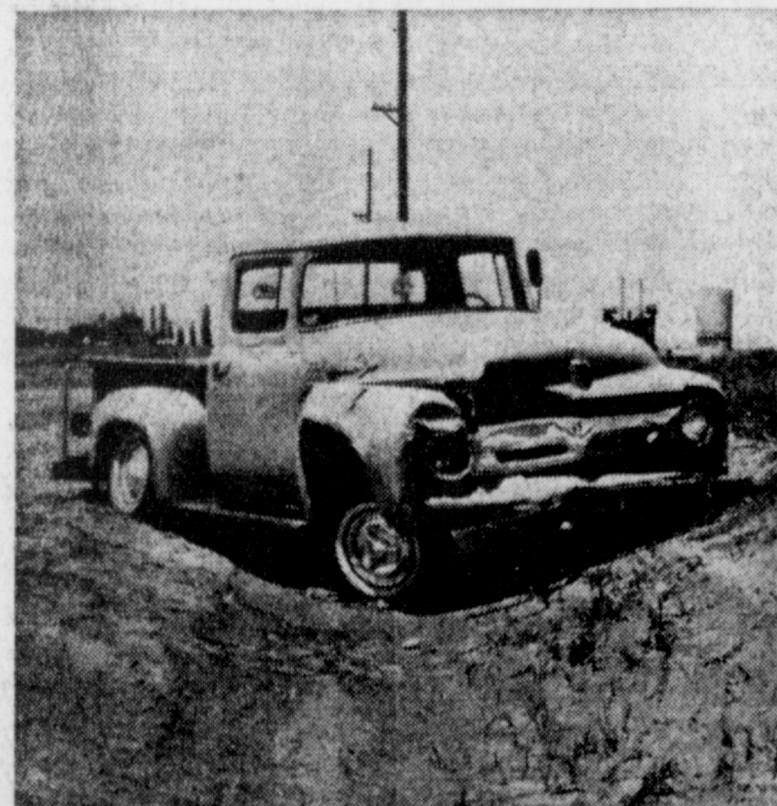

The tourney scoring is based on nine-hole scores with 10 entered in each round. The high score is eliminated each time.

The club is planning its annual Naomi St. Clair Memorial Day Tourney for the women, a 36-hole medal play meet which will start today (Thursday) and conclude Sunday. A men's tournament also is in progress today with 18 holes to be played today and 18 holes Sunday.

JENNY SLIPPER POINTS—

COOK OF THE WEEK
Marie Lenau — Mrs. Charles L. Lenau — has an excellent recipe for wild rice which we were told about and present this week to readers.

The credit, she says, from the note on her recipe card, goes to Arlene (Mrs. Bernard) Phelps' sister-in-law, Mrs. J. E. Birdwell from whom their recipe originated.

A vivacious mother and wife of a golfer and gun-enthusiast lumberman, Marie lives a busy life with son Paul, 13, who will be in the 8th grade next fall and who plans to attend Camp Trojan, near Colorado Springs this summer, and the Lenau daughters Pam and Lynn. Received her diploma last Friday from MHS, daughter Pam will attend Colorado State College, Fort Collins, Colo., next fall and plans to continue her third year summer work at the Muleshoe State Bank. Lynn, who will attend summer school at the University of Colorado, Boulder, Colo. this summer, has just returned home from her freshman year at SMU, Dallas, last Tuesday.

The president of the Muleshoe Art Association, member of MCC Ladies' Day association and an Episcopalian, and formerly P-T-A, boy and girl scouts, study club, et al, member, Marie is a good cook and interior decorator as is evidenced by her lovely home and family — thus we are proud to present her contribution to our recipe file.

WILD RICE CASSEROLE

2 eggs, beaten

1/2 lb. Cheddar cheese

1/2 cup salad oil

1 cup parsley, chopped (or 1 can dry parsley)
1 large onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
2 cups boiled wild rice (3-4 cup dried)
1 large can Carnation milk — salt and pepper to taste

Mix all ingredients, except cooked rice and milk which are added to mixture last. Bake in greased casserole for 30 minutes in 350 degree oven.

This recipe is good also when white rice is substituted for wild rice.

(Jenny Slipper Points: the new Uncle Ben's long grain and Wild Rice Mix package would be excellent in above casserole. We have tried this wild rice mix and it is delicious, and more economical on the budget than the real thing — wild rice, that is.)

NOTE: Now on display at Higginbotham-Bartlett and The Journals' offices are paintings by Muleshoe Art Association officers and committee chairmen. We are proud to recognize this, the second group of artists, who graciously exhibit their work with us in the aim of promoting art in the Muleshoe area.

These art association members also display their work at Paul's restaurant, in a continuous exhibit.

HURRAY! School's out and we mother's can relax (ha-ha) the stringent rush-to-school mornings and let's all have a Happy Summer. . . .

Some animals can grow, or regenerate, lost parts. A lobster that loses a claw can grow a new one. If a little flatworm is cut in two crossways, its head-half will grow a new tail, and its tail-half will grow a new head.

A pig can smell a truffle 20 feet away. When the discovery is made, the owner raps the pig's nose with a stick, lest it dig deeper and damage the tuber. A few kernels of corn will divert the animal's attention, and the owner will then scoop up the earth with a trowel-like utensil.

sun was a vicious thing. Accordingly when she went out in the sun she covered her head and face with a bonnet as big as a horseblanket, she wore long sleeves and high gloves, and covered her feet with her hightopped button shoes. Just to be sure that the sun didn't get through to her she carried a large umbrella.

I might add that Aunt Emma never did get to look like an old woman. By the time she was 60 she looked like an old man instead, and she was more wrinkled than a dried up gourd.

Now this AMA article that I've mentioned, says that some people can take a lot of sun and some can't. Dark-skinned, dark-haired, dark-eyed persons can take considerable sun without burning. On the other hand, redheads, blondes, blue-eyed, fair-skinned people need to be more wary. Now there is the understatement of the year. I remember Roll. He was redheaded, fair skinned, blue-eyed and he loved to swim. By the end of the first 20 minutes in the old swimming hole near Byars, he was as cooked as a half-done hamburger and was just about as attractive. By July he came down with aches and pains and wound up the summer as fair as when summer started since he had to spend the last six weeks or so nursing his aches.

But for those who still prefer to change the color of their skin,

AMA makes a few suggestions: First day expose skin to sun for 15 to 20 minutes — 15-20 minutes on the face and the same time on the back, turning often like a chunk of raw beef on a spit being barbecued. Second day increase the exposure and work up to half an hour or even 40 minutes by the fourth day. From that you can go on to toughen up your epidermis until it can take just about all the sun you want to give it without burning. But you still may be wrinkled as a prune by the time you are 60 when normally you wouldn't get wrinkled until you are 70.

I just thought all of this might be appropriate in view of the fact that the local swimming pool is opening this weekend and there doubtless will be several who will seek to change from white to brown in too short a time.

We always try to be of service in this department. And for those who would like to know the full particulars, I still have this AMA release on how to sunburn in its entire four pages. If interested just let me know.

Total solar eclipses, though fairly common, are not often easy to witness. The band of totality frequently passes over desolate places. In 1928 the dollar bill was shrunk from 7.4 by 3.1 inches to approximately 6.1 by 2.6 inches.

WANT-AD

One of a series of reports by this newspaper and the Print Advertising Association on the advantages of print media.

Don't you read before you buy?

Most people do. They count on advertising in print to give them the information they want on products that interest them—information on features . . . designs . . . and prices, for example. People not only read about products and services, they show ads to their family and friends; they clip coupons for information and samples; they tear out ads to take along when they go shopping.

When you add it all up, print advertising—the kind you read in the pages of this newspaper—makes sense. And because it measures up to the buying habits of most consumers, print makes sales. Most people read—and then buy. Don't you?

Law Is Proposed to Help Cotton Market

A bill introduced recently in the House of Representatives is aimed at giving cotton more competitive advantages over synthetics.

The proposal, H. R. 6196, was introduced by Harold D. Cooley, chairman of the House committee on agriculture. The proposal also aims at improving the competitive position of domestic mills against cheap imported cotton goods.

"Cotton now is in a life and death struggle," Rep. Cooley commented upon introducing the bill. A flood of cheap textiles is flowing in from abroad and synthetic fibers are making devastating inroads into markets where cotton never before has been seriously challenged.

"The bill I introduced today represents the broadest area of possible agreement I have been able to find. This is not exclusively my bill, but it simply represents my best effort to present the thinking developed in my search for a basis of unity among the producers, the trade and the mills, behind legislation which will deal effectively with the very serious problem that confronts cotton and the millions of people associated with cotton," he continued.

"There appears to be unanimity of opinion that the payment-in-kind section is the best approach to removing the two-price system with all its inequities. The mills and the Administration are in agreement on this.

"Moreover, there seems to be unanimous support for the crash research on the reduction of cotton production costs.

"I believe that the provision for protection of the smaller farms will receive very general support.

"However, differences developed among producers on a provision in an earlier draft of the bill that would have permitted producers to plant up to 30 percent above their acreage allotments, at world prices for the cotton produced on the extra acres, if such would not increase the stocks of the Commodity Credit Corporation. This provision has been omitted from the bill I have introduced.

"I reemphasize to all people associated with cotton the urgency of our situation. Cotton is losing its markets, and once lost they may never be regained. This is hurting everyone concerned with cotton. I am hopeful that the industry — producers, the mills and the trade — will develop solidarity behind the legislation to front."

A concise summary of the bill follows:

The Commodity Credit Corporation, under such rules and regulations as the Secretary may prescribe, would be authorized:

From the date of enactment, until August 1, 1964, to make payments through the issuance of payment-in-kind certificates to persons other than producers in such terms and conditions as the Secretary determines will eliminate inequities due to the differences in the cost of raw cotton between domestic and foreign users of cotton; and

For the period beginning August 1, 1964, and ending July 31, 1967, such payments-in-kind shall be made to persons other than producers in an amount as will make such cotton available for domestic use at a price which is not in excess of the price at which such cotton is made available for export.

Payments-in-kind also would be provided to make raw cotton inventory on the date of enactment at prices consistent with the purposes of the legislation.

Thus the Secretary of Agriculture would be given discretion in determining the level of payments-in-kind prior to August 1, 1964, but after that date and until July 31, 1967 he would be directed to make such payments in the amount necessary to make cotton available to American mills at the same price American cotton is offered for export at 8½ cents per pound lower than the price domestic mills must pay.

For the 1964, 1965 and 1966 crops of cotton, the Secretary may on up to the first 15 bales of each farmer's production increase the price support up to a level 10 percent in excess of the basic level of price support in effect for the remainder of the crop, but not in excess of the level of price support for the 1963 crop. This would be carried out through simultaneous purchase and sale or similar operations in order to keep such cotton to the maximum extent practicable in the normal commercial channels of trade. This will not involve any direct payments to farmers.

Research — The Secretary is authorized and directed to conduct a special cotton research program designed to reduce the cost of producing upland cotton at the earliest practicable date, using up to $10,000,000 annually for this purpose. The Secretary then would make such reductions in the level of price support as will reflect reductions in the costs of producing cotton.

Unrestricted Sales — beginning August 1, 1964, the Commodity Credit Corporation would be authorized to sell upland cotton for unrestricted use at not less than 105 percent of the current loan rate plus reasonable carrying charge.

Tibetans Learn Ancient Rites

By PATRICK MASSEY
LONDON (AP) — Floating across the lazy English countryside came the muffled chant of a hymn to the glory of Buddha.

It drifted down from a cedar-wood hut inside which sat a score of moon-faced Tibetan children facing a silk-clad shrine. Lustily they raised their voices at the bidding of a brown-robed lama.

The scene was enacted in a refugee camp not 60 miles from London — the kind of scene which up to a few years ago could not have been witnessed outside the distant vastness of Tibet.

The children and the lama were just a few of the thousands who fled Tibet in terror of Chinese Communist repression following the abortive uprising of 1959.

Struggling across remote Himalayan heights to safety, they brought with them customs and rituals which for centuries had been shrouded from foreigners.

Most of the fleeing Tibetans settled in refugee camps in northern India. From these camps, 22 children — 8 girls and 14 boys — were brought last February to a rural English sanctuary known as the Pestalozzi children's village.

Remain Isolated
The village, named after an 18th century Swiss educationalist, is run by a charitable trust dedicated to caring for the world's deprived children.

In addition to the Tibetans, the village now houses 65 refugee children embracing 15 nationalities.

But the cedar hut where the Tibetans live is set apart from other village buildings and shielded from view by grassy slopes and tall pine trees.

"They do not," says assistant warden Bill Mountain, "venture outside the camp."

The transition from Tibet to modern-day England appears to weigh lightly with the children. Aged between 5 and 13, many are too young to remember their homeland or the flight across the mountains.

Clad in jeans and thick woolen sweaters, they tumble shouting across the fields for boisterous games of football.

Though few can read English they lap up the pictures in English comic books. Of an afternoon they cluster fascinated round a television set to watch westerns and cartoon films.

"The other children in the village adore them," Mountain said. "They come to the hut as often as possible to help take care of the younger Tibetans.

"But no one is allowed to go near them between 9 o'clock and 11 o'clock in the morning. This is set aside for religious observances and instruction in the Tibetan language."

Grace to Lama
The religious teaching is strict and rigorously observed.

On entering the dining hall where the shrine is set the children drop to their knees and touch the floor with their foreheads.

Over the shrine are pictures of Buddha and the Priest-king Dalai Lama. Beside it is a table on which are placed a dish of rice, Tibetan money and seven silver bowls of water as offerings to Buddha.

When the company gathers to eat a hush falls over the children. At a word from the lama they raise aloft the platefuls of roast potato and pressed beef to chant a hymn of grace.

"On some subjects," Mountain says, "they are surprisingly advanced. History and geography for instance.

"They also are extremely keen on pottery and painting."

Waiting Game
The village trustees hope that eventually the Tibetan children will take their place in ordinary schools around the district, completing education to high school standards.

They came here with the blessing of the Dalai Lama who expressed a wish that subsequently the children would be trained as nurses, doctors, teachers and administrators.

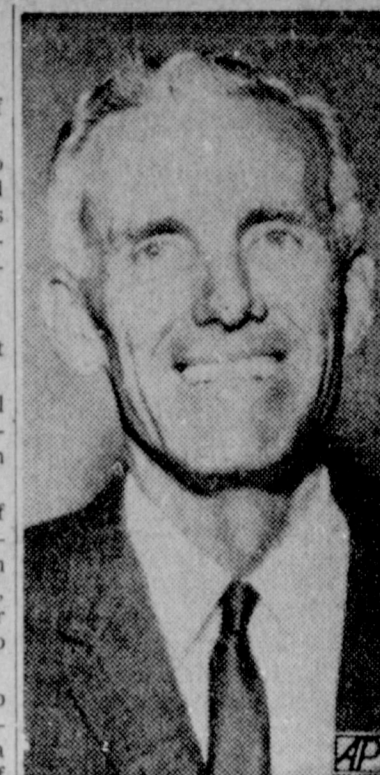

There is no longterm plan to assimilate them as British citizens. The adults in the party all regard they stay here as a temporary exile from their beloved Himalayan home.

"We are preparing," says 16-year-old Namgyal Drolka, "to return to Tibet when it is again free."

Weather Causes Much Replanting Of Cotton Acres

An estimated 30,000 to 60,000 acres of cotton will be replanted because of damaging rain, hail and winds this week, most of which occurred Tuesday, the Lubbock Cotton Exchange estimated.

The major hail damage was centered in the Parmer County area with surrounding counties of Castro, Bailey and Lamb also experiencing damage — the damaged area in Parmer County extends from Clays Corner (north of Muleshoe; a strip from about 5 to 10 miles wide running to north of Friona. Another damaged area is south of Sudan in Lamb County where it was estimated that 2,000 to 3,000 acres of cotton will have to be replanted — total amount of damage in these counties is estimated to be about 20,000 acres.

Parts of western and northern Lynn County, estimated to total about 30,000 acres will have to be replanted because of excessive washing and some hail. Other reported damage includes a small area in northeast Floyd County and around Smyer and Arnett in Hockley County.

Texan is Named U.S. Chaplain

WASHINGTON, D. C. —Chaplain (Capt.) James E. Reaves, a native of Canton, Texas, will become senior chaplain of the U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., in mid-May.

For the past four years he has served as head of the personnel branch in the Navy Chaplains Division here. At the academy he will relieve Chaplain (Vapt.) James W. Kelly, who has been assigned to the Office of the Chief of Chaplains here.

In his early schooling, Chaplain Reaves attended McMurry College in Abilene, then received Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Divinity degrees from Southern Methodist University. He was ordained a deacon in 1941 and an elder in 1942. His only civilian pastorate was at Eighth Street Methodist Church, New Orleans, 1939-42. In 1950 he gained the Master of Arts degree from Columbia University in the Navy's postgraduate study program.

Now a member of the Louisiana Methodist Conference, Chaplain Reaves entered the chaplaincy in September, 1942. Mrs. Reaves, the former Julia Catherine Efferson of Baton Rouge, La., has been selected to represent chaplains' wives at the Woman's Division of Christian Service national seminar in Seattle in August.

Hitler's Body

The Russians have finally opened up and talked about their capture of Berlin and the recovery of a body thought to have almost certainly been that of Adolph Hitler.

The Russian disclosures end eighteen years of official silence of Hitler's body. In the interval the Russians have even hinted that Hitler might have escaped to South America.

However, for some time the official United States and British investigations have been accepted as conclusive proof that Hitler shot himself and his mistress-wife, Eva Braun, as the Russians closed in on his bunker.

He had already provided for SS men to take the two bodies to the ground above and burn them with gasoline, an order which was duly carried out. The most interesting thing about the recent Russian revelations, if first reports are accurate, is that the Russians indicate they might have found the bodies in the bunker.

What is important is that the Russians now feel there is less danger of Hitler becoming a martyr to the German people than was the case in 1945.

Yugoslavia Again

We are now being told — the latest example was a report in the New York Times from Belgrade — that Yugoslavia is moving to better relations with the West. The recent visit of Secretary of State Dean Rusk to Yugoslavia offered the Yugoslav a chance to roll out the red carpet for their American guest and the government went out of its way to stress its eagerness to better relations with Washington.

Now what is the reason for this attitude in Belgrade? It results from the action of Congress, last year, in cutting off Yugoslavia's trade advantages (most-favored nation advantages). Congress decided that Yugoslavia and Poland, both communist countries, shouldn't enjoy most-favored nation treatment.

The interesting part of all this is to recall the howl that went up from the State Department. It was said that such a step would be ruinous to our relations with Yugoslavia, and would drive the Yugoslavs into the communist orbit (they're already communist!).

The emptiness of last year's State Department tizzy is apparent in the new Yugoslav attitude — of courting Washington in an effort to get the trade advantages back again. In short, the very action which so upset our State Department has brought a reversal of Yugoslavia's attitude.

Congressional action in cutting off the gravy train, because of our displeasure over frequent anti-Western pronouncements and actions, has bought about a change of heart in Belgrade. The Yugoslavs, who trade far more with the West than with the communists, know whether their bread is buttered when anyone gets down to tough talk.

Yarborough In Washington

Recently, I received from the White House a copy of a report to the President called "The Older American." It is a report from the Council on Aging, appointed by President Kennedy. The Council spent a year studying the growing problems of the aged. It fully endorses the President's program on medical care for the aged, under Social Security financing.

The Council warned that health care problems of our American people who are 65 and over come the higher premiums for good insurance coverage, any more than they can afford the hospital bills.

In 1961, 50 percent of the 18 million persons 65 and older, not in institutions, had a total income of less than $1,000 for the year. That means less than $82.33 a month. That won't pay for much insurance, and it won't pay many so many older people don't go to the hospital when they should. They don't want charity and they don't have the money to pay. More than 12 million of the 18 million Americans 65 and over have at least one chronic impaired health condition such as high blood pressure, arthritis, diabetes, heart disease or mental disorder. About 1,250,000 of them are invalid.

Many older citizens delay going to a doctor until it is too late. The gap between the care most older people need and their ability to pay is too broad. This gap must be closed.

In Texas, we have 773,000 people 65 and over. By 1970 there will be 968,000. This is already a serious problem and it is growing in Texas and elsewhere.

The President's Council on Aging includes some of the nation's leading authorities on problems of the aged, in the fields of health, housing and jobs. It includes Cabinet members from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the Treasury, Agriculture, Commerce and Labor.

The Council supports the President in his program for hospital care under Social Security as it also supports his programs on housing for the elderly and for plans have been put forward to help the aged, including practical and badly needed income tax relief from burdensome income taxes. I am supporting these programs. But health care for the aged is needed worst of all.

Other featured speakers will include Cliff (Baldi) Baldowski, editorial cartoonist for the Atlanta Constitution, who will tell his appraisal of a current issue as he sketches; Bishop F. Gerald Ennsley of Des Moines, Iowa, as the keynoter, and Bishop Gerald Kennedy of Los Angeles.

The gathering seeks to learn how best to develop racial inclusiveness in the Methodist Church.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm comes out in defense of small towns in his letter this week.

Dear editor: I have heard so much lately about the fear city people have that the farmer will disappear that it was a pleasure to read in a national magazine last night which a salesman earlier in the day wanted me to subscribe to but which I declined on the grounds that some magazines may disappear sooner than us farmers, that the city folks are now worrying over whether the small towns can survive.

As I understood it, the thinkers in the cities have decided that since towns depend on agriculture to survive, and since according to their figures agriculture is going under, the towns will follow.

In fact, some people are so worried about small towns that it wouldn't surprise me to learn somebody in Washington may come out before long with a sort of soil bank idea for town buildings. Leave every third building vacant and put it in the Vacant Building Bank.

Well, I'll tell you, I'm not worried about towns or farmers either. Now it's true that the percentage of farmers has declined, from 55 per cent of the total population 20 years ago to only 8 per cent today, but that's just a bunch of figures.

Take the automobile industry. The number of car makers has dwindled over 50 per cent in the last 40 years. There used to be 25 or 30 car makers, now there are only four or five. Us farmers with 8 per cent of the total population are giants compared with the car makers with about one-millionth of 1 per cent, and I'm surprised there aren't more people in Washington wringing their hands over this situation.

Car makers are like farmers. Just a few of us giants are surviving, but the results of our work spread far afield. For ex-

WASHINGTON NEWSLETTER FROM SENATOR JOHN TOWER
Committee Banking and Currency Labor and Public Welfare

Rejection of the Administration proposal for strict control on wheat growers, points the way toward more freedom throughout our national life.

It also should pave the way for a new Secretary of Agriculture.

The wheat growers have shown the way. It is my hope the rest of the nation will follow.

I took an active part in opposing the new program, which would have meant new and stringent regulations involving practically every bushel of wheat grown in the United States. I also opposed the Administration's feed grain bill passed last week by Congress, saying consideration of the measure should await the May 21 wheat referendum in order that Congress might have the benefit of the thinking of the nation's farmers before enacting the legislation.

Despite massive efforts by the Administration to brainwash our farm... into thinking that complete regimentation of the farm is the only way out of 30 years of agricultural turmoil caused by red-tape and bureaucratic bungling, the farmers have voted for freedom.

This places the farmer in the enviable position of pointing the way toward more freedom throughout our national life. The Administration party controls both houses of Congress. Let us hope they are not so bankrupt of ideas that the nation's farmers have to bear the brunt of their pet schemes rejected.

This proves, more than anything else, the need for ideas at the top of the Agriculture department that are in tune with ranchers. It proves the bankruptcy of the Liberal contention that federal regimentation is the answer to all ills. It should pave the way for a new Secretary of Agriculture.

Dual Grading of Beef in Effect Almost One Year

Dual grading, the new controversial system for grading beef carcasses, has now been in effect since July 1, 1962.

The system made available on a trial basis to the packing industry provides separate grades for two of the main factors that determine the value of a beef carcass, says Ed Uvacek, extension livestock marketing specialist, of Texas A&M College. These factors are the quality of palatability of the meat and the amount of trimmed retail cuts obtained from the carcass.

A look at how the new system is being accepted reveals that about one-half of the commercially produced beef from July 1, 1962 to February 28, 1963, was federally graded and 3 percent of this amount was graded under the dual specifications, says Uvacek. This was about 1 percent of the 10 billion pounds of beef produced in the U.S. during the period, he adds.

The specialist notes that the lower quality grading carcasses tended to have higher yield grade. He found that 86 percent of the Choice carcasses had yield grades of 2 or 3 while 95 percent of the Good and 96 percent of the Standard fell in this yield grade.

About 96 percent of all the beef dual graded was classified into the U.S. Choice or Good grades and nearly twice as much fell into the first grade as into the second.

Since dual grading has been used very little so far, an accurate picture of the system can't be shown but we can get an idea of how it operates, Uvacek points out. The most important aspect of the system is the effect it will have on prices and this is yet to be measured, he adds.

Lining draperies serves three purposes: protects drapery material from the sun, makes them hang better and they look better from the outside.

with a separate syringe. It is hoped that this vaccine will react much as an actual case of measles might. However, this is a question researchers have yet to answer.

Reactions are infrequent when the inactivated vaccine is administered, ordinarily in three monthly doses. The protective effects beyond six months, however, are unknown.

Another method is to administer live vaccine from one to three months after one or two doses of inactivated vaccine have been given. In this case, clinical reactions are sharply reduced and protection is increased over that of the inactivated vaccine alone.

Immunization is particularly recommended for children and those especially prone to develop serious complications.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

CHILDREN IN CAMP

It's a good idea to give written consent for necessary medical care if your child leaves home for a visit or a camping trip, or if you plan to be away for any length of time.

For example, a summer camp nurse may bring a boy into a hospital with an acute case of appendicitis. But the doctor may well hesitate to go ahead and operate without the parent's consent.

Is the doctor arbitrary, and is such permission just a legal technicality? No, he is well within his rights, though he may give first aid — but only for emergency treatment where a child's health or life may be at stake. He is likely to put off follow-up care until he can reach the child's parents. A relative or baby sitter generally cannot grant consent for a child's treatment.

Even an adult must request treatment and grant consent to medical care on his own before a doctor can give it to him. Children cannot do this.

By going to your doctor you show your willingness and consent to accept his treatment. Your consent is assumed also when you ask for a house call by the doctor, or if as a result of an accident you come to a hospital for emergency treatment. If you are unconscious, the doctor may well give you emergency care, yet later he should get your consent to further treatment.

Minors cannot consent to medical treatment, and except in dire emergencies their parents or guardians must give it for them. The consent should not be broadly or loosely phrased, but should be as specific as circumstances permit.

The principal reason for having the consent in writing is to avoid later misunderstandings. It is a protection both to the patient and physician.

(This newsfeature prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

A single-bar tierack can be turned into a fine storage place for folded paper bags. Simply fasten the rack inside lower cupboard door or some convenient location, and fold the bags over rack.

Having trouble toting deviled eggs to a picnic? Save the egg carton and replace in the sections, after you've placed the deviled halves together and wrapped with wax paper.

"ON STEAM" — An 85,000-barrel-a-day crude oil distillation unit officially went "on steam" at the Afreco Refinery at Atlantic Refining Company at Port Arthur, A. W. Kusch, right, refinery manager, points out details of a 100 foot-high distillation tower to V. W. Evans, left, pipe still operator, and J. T. Adams, general foreman. The new facility replaces a 63,000-barrel-a-day unit constructed in 1937, and permits shutdown of a 22,000-barrel-a-day unit at Atlantic's Philadelphia refinery. The new distillation unit, together with a 22,500-barrel-a-day catalytic hydrodesulfurization unit, which also went on steam, completes a "major modernization" program at the refinery, according to Kusch. AUSTIN — Measles is almost as much an accepted part of childhood as bumps, bruises and abrasions. Over 90 percent of children will at some time have clinically evident measles. Although the national death rate for measles in the U. S. is relatively low, its after effects in deafness and mental crippling can be serious.

Social Security Urges Accurate Wage Reports

About 13,500 employers across the country received personal visits last month from representatives of the Social Security Administration. These employers are those who have repeatedly filed incomplete or inaccurate reports of employee earnings for social security.

The 13,500 are a relatively small Strip" at 8:30 Friday.

Two great stars, with adventure as the common denominator, headline both "The Late Show" and "Million Dollar Movie". Friday night at 10:30 Cary Grant heads the cast of "The Last Outpost", story of a British secret service agent in the Far East, while Saturday night's movie at 10 stars Ronald Coleman with Basil Rathbone in "If I Were King", about Francois Villon, a poet in the reign of Louis XI who becomes the leader of the people in a battle against the Burgundian armies.

number compared with the 4,600,000 employers who report employment Administration every three months, John G. Hutton, social security district manager said. But the Social Security Administration is anxious to make sure that none of the millions of workers who contribute to social security loses his present and future protection because his employer makes mistakes in his reports.

Accurate employer reporting of social security account numbers permits earnings to be credited correctly for employees whose names are identical with thousands of others in the United States.

Hutton emphasized the importance of employers making accurate reports of each employee's name and social security account number. He said that there are, for example, more than 1,650,000 Smiths in the social security files, many of them with such common given names as John, Mary and Bill. The most common surnames are Smith, Johnson, Williams and Brown.

When a worker's wages are reported with an incorrect or incomplete account number, those wages cannot be credited to his social security account and the future benefits payable to him and his family may be reduced. Hutton said that only a few employers among the numerous business firms in the Lubbock social security district office's service area are among the 13,500 employers who file inaccurate or incomplete reports quarter after quarter.

The most frequently noted error is transposition of two digits in reporting the wage earner's social security number. The only sure way to prevent this mistake, Mr. Hutton said, is to insist that the employee show his social security card at the time of hire and accurately copy the number from the card itself.

Incomplete returns account for some of the errors. Given names are left out or the account number is missing in whole or in part.

In cases of continued incorrect reporting over a series of quarters, the employers are visited by representative of the social security district office who offer assistance in devising means to prevent future errors. In a small number of cases, it becomes necessary to report the employer's unwillingness to cooperate to the Internal Revenue Service which has the responsibility for making sure that proper tax returns are filed.

1965 Sugar Beet Restrictions To Be Established

The U.S. Department of Agriculture announced on May that acreage restrictions (proportionate shares) would not be established for the 1965 crop of sugarbeets.

The announcement was made concurrently with action taken by the Department which increased 1963 domestic sugar requirements to 10,400,000 tons.

On March 14, 1963, USDA announced that 1964 crop of sugarbeet plantings would not be restricted. At that time, it was observed that beet sugar production would have to exceed marketings sufficiently to create safe and reasonable stock levels before acreage restrictions could be reimposed.

The May 6 announcement establishing the 1963 requirements at 10,400,000 tons, with accompanying quotas for the beet area of 2,990,127 short tons, reemphasizes the need for additional beet stocks to permit the area to meet future marketing opportunities.

Spring and summer months always bring a rash of boating accidents.

Tragedy accompanies many of them. Others are just plain fun. Some are downright stupid! Accidents happen to large and SMALL BOATS ALIKE. Size does seem to matter. For instance on a Central Texas lake very recently a party of four were in a fast boat, having a wonderful time. The boat had lots of power in its outboard and the driver was "showing off" how he could take a short turn.

He made the turn, all right. But it was "over." As he whipped the boat around, the back end went down too far. He picked up so much water the boat was swamped before he knew what had happened. Fortunately another boat was nearby and rescued the four passengers. But they lost a lot of equipment.

One night I was loading my boat on the trailer. I had set the brakes on the car, but the ramp was wet and slick. When I started winching the boat onto the trailer the whole outfit — car, trailer and boat — started sliding back into the water. And it didn't stop! Boat, automobile and everything went into the water. The boat floated away but later was recovered. The trailer hitch broke loose and the car settled down atop the trailer.

It was a wierd looking sight, with twin beams from the burning headlights shining from the water. It was costly and it taught me a lesson. Now when I am loading a boat I always scotch the wheels of the automobile. Up on Lake-o'-Pines in East Texas recently three fishermen loaded their gear into a brand new 14-foot cartop boat which they had hauled 300 miles. The boat weighed 90 pounds. But 500 pounds of manpower got into the boat. When the motor started up, the front end scooped up water so fast it almost swamped the boat.

The man up front got in the middle seat and that helped some. But the boat generally was so unsteady they didn't enjoy their fishing too much. They learned this lesson: a cartop boat is fine, but don't sacrifice safety for convenience and weight. Two men can handle a 125 or 150 pound cartop boat almost as easily as a 90 pound boat. And the larger boat offers more comfort and more safety.

Another fellow I know was standing up while fishing out of a boat that was absolutely safe. The wind blew it against a tree with a resulting bump.

For some reason he jumped straight up — and into water well over his head. He held onto his rod and reel and climbed back into the boat without ever stopping movement, giving his two fishing buddies the biggest laugh of the day. But it taught all three a good lesson.

Another real danger in boating is going too fast in water where there might be some obstruction beneath the surface.

In some of the larger lakes, like Buchanan, there are huge rocks, some of them just under the water line. If you hit one of these rocks or an old log going too fast, you are certain to have trouble.

Despite all warnings, however, most of us still will be careless. Before the summer season is over there will be too many names in the obituary columns as the result of boating accidents.

So let me repeat: Be sure of your boat before you go out on the water; take strange waters easily and be sure you have approved life preservers. Preferably they should be worn, but at least they should be handy enough for every person to grab one in the event of an accident. Don't stand up in a boat unless you absolutely have to.

And above all — don't ride in any boat that is overpowered or overloaded. Both are dangerous!

Family chores can become fun if you allow children to submit sealed bids for each task. The job will be given to the lowest bidder.

SEEK BAN — Rep. Alonzo Jamison, left, of Denton, and Rep. Jim Coffen of Weatherford, are authors of a bill before the legislature in Austin, Tex., that would provide a fine and jail sentence for users or sellers of adding machines designed to calculate incorrectly. Jamison said a Denton merchant was approached by a salesman offering an adding machine which adds in the merchant's favor. (AP Photo) is going too fast in water where there might be some obstruction beneath the surface.

In some of the larger lakes, like Buchanan, there are huge rocks, some of them just under the water line. If you hit one of these rocks or an old log going too fast, you are certain to have trouble.

Despite all warnings, however, most of us still will be careless. Before the summer season is over there will be too many names in the obituary columns as the result of boating accidents.

So let me repeat: Be sure of your boat before you go out on the water; take strange waters easily and be sure you have approved life preservers. Preferably they should be worn, but at least they should be handy enough for every person to grab one in the event of an accident. Don't stand up in a boat unless you absolutely have to.

And above all — don't ride in any boat that is overpowered or overloaded. Both are dangerous!

Family chores can become fun if you allow children to submit sealed bids for each task. The job will be given to the lowest bidder.
