Turbulent Presidential Campaign Closes With Many Claims

Both Parties Marshal Speakers For Eleventh Hour Broadcasts; Record Vote Expected Tomorrow

Big Interest In Congressional Race Is Which Party Will Control House Of Representatives; Leaders Of Campaigns Confident Of Victory

The turbulent 1940 presidential campaign came to the end of the trail today amid a tumult of rival claims, political oratory and urgent, last-minute appeals for votes. The crowded closing hours held little in keeping with the old tradition of a quiet election eve. Apart from the final messages which President Roosevelt and Wendell L. Willkie were to make to the electorate, both Democratic and Republican parties marshaled speakers for a series of eleventh hour broadcasts.

Mr. Roosevelt, back in New York where he will receive the returns tomorrow night at his Hyde Park home, set aside his day for campaigning among his Hudson Valley neighbors, very much as he did on the eve of the 1936 election.

His final message to the electorate will highlight the two hour nationwide radio program (NBC, CBS, MBS from 9 p. m. to 11 p. m. CST) arranged by the Democratic National Committee. Mr. Roosevelt will speak from Hyde Park shortly after 10 p. m. (CST). Henry A. Wallace, his partner on the ticket, also will make a final address.

At first it was thought Mr. Roosevelt might use the occasion for another major political address, but this belief was discounted after his session at Cleveland Saturday that he was then making his "final national address of the campaign."

Present expectations were that he would simply urge all eligible voters to exercise their franchise tomorrow.

Willkie Busy On Radio
Willkie, winding up his strenuous, marathon campaign, had three radio speaking engagements on his election eve schedule. The first was his closing speech to the women of America (CBS 2:15 p. m.). Then he will take to the air again (CBS 9:15 p. m.) with Senator McNary of Oregon, his running mate, and return to the networks for his last word in an hour long program (over all major chains) ending at midnight (CST).

Aides said the subject matter of Willkie's final addresses might depend on what Democratic orators had to say previously, or on other developments. For the most part, however, the Republican nominee was looking forward to a comparatively quiet day.

Election officials had no death of the usual contradictory forecast of victory. Although record-breaking

RR Commission Today Cancels Exemptions From 9 Shutdown Days

AUSTIN, Nov. 4 (AP)—A majority of the Texas Railroad Commission today cancelled exemptions from the nine oil production shutdown days in November for all except 36 fields, thereby slashing crude yield over the state an estimated 126,000 barrels daily.

Commissioner Jerry Sadler, who with Ernest O. Thompson, signed the order, said the action was taken to "prevent imminent physical waste" of oil. The order said: "It appears to the Commission that an emergency exists because of the imminent waste due to the production of oil in excess of market demand."

The order voided exemptions for a large number of fields, granted on pleas that the crude could be produced without waste and that a firm demand for it existed.

Midland Will Be On Its Toes Armistice

Midland will be the most wide-awake town of the state next Monday morning, if plans of the Woods W. Lynch Post No. 19 of the American Legion are completed and the volunteer "waker-uppers" function properly.

Legion officials plan to arouse every Midland resident in time to be at the Boy Scout Hall on West Illinois street for a free breakfast at 6:30 a. m. All are invited to the breakfast which will inaugurate Armistice Day observance here.

Down town stores will observe the holiday by closing.

In response to a call issued last week for volunteer "waker-uppers," between 15 and 20 persons notified Legion officials they would assist.

Fred Middleton, chairman of the committee, said, "However, many more volunteers are needed."

They should call Middleton at No. 30. "Waker-uppers" will meet at the Scout hall at 5 a. m. Monday.

Fire Chief Luther Tidwell told Middleton full support of the Midland Fire Department may be counted on in arousing citizens from slumber. Likewise, Midland ambulances will assist.

Pecos Simpson Sand Strike To Be Opened Today For Cleanout

By Frank Gardner
Opening of Taubert, McKee & Siemoneit No. 1 V. W. Crockett, North-east Pecos Ordovician strike, was slated for 11 a. m. today. The well has been shut in since Thursday.

Purpose of flowing it today is to clean out circulating mud. Shut-in pressure yesterday had nearly equalized, 1,200 pounds being reported on tubing and 1,100 on casing. C. J. Siemoneit said here that potential gauge won't be taken until Wednesday. When last opened the well flowed an estimated 100 barrels of 43-gravity oil hourly. It topped the Simpson, middle Ordovician, at 4,755 feet and is bottomed in that series at 5,357 feet. Sand pay was encountered from 5,270-80 and from 5,320-45 feet. Location is in section 4 1/2, block 3, H. & T. C. survey, about a mile and a half east of Imperial.

A quarter-mile northwest outpost to the Apco pool about ten miles further south in Pecos, Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 1 W. T. Shearer et ux, flowed into pits from 7 a. m. to 10 a. m. Sunday and showed 75 per cent basic sediment and sulphur water. Tubing pressure was 25 pounds and casing pressure 700. Owner has pulled tubing and will run packer to determine source of sulphur water. The water may be coming from leaky 5 1/2-inch casing cemented at 4,699, three feet in the Ellenburger, lower Ordovician. No. 1 Shearer has been acidized with 4,000 gallons in two-stage job at total depth of 4,731 feet in dolomite.

Culbertson & Irwin, Inc., of Midland No. 1 Mary Heiner, scheduled Ordovician test nine miles west and slightly south of the Apco pool, drilled to 520 feet in lime and is remaining hole preparatory to running 13-inch surface casing.

Roosevelt Returns To Hyde Park To Close Campaign

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 4 (AP)—President Roosevelt arrived home from Washington today for a final five-speech campaign among his neighbors in the Hudson Valley where he was born and reared and for a radio address to the nation at 10:10 p. m. (CST).

He arranged for the day a program almost identical with the one he followed on the final day before election in 1936, when he motored for miles up one side of the Hudson river and down the other, with brief, informal speeches along the way.

There were signs that the president, instead of making another major political address, might limit himself tonight largely to an appeal to all eligible voters to go to the polls tomorrow.

The president's own vote, and those of his family will be cast tomorrow in the little white frame hall in Hyde Park village, a mile and a half from the Roosevelt estate.

Tangier Zone May Be Placed At Disposal Of Axis In An Effort To Bottle Up British Mediterranean Fleet And Take Gibraltar

Pro-Axis Spain, in a possible forerunner to an attack on Britain's rock bastion of Gibraltar, seized absolute control of the so-called Tangier "international zone" on the north coast of Africa—southwest of Gibraltar.

Vitally important in the European war front, the Tangier zone commands the Atlantic approach to the Mediterranean Sea.

Write-In Fight Against McDonald Holds Attention

AUSTIN, Nov. 4 (AP)—Marked by internal party squabbles, the general election campaign in Texas, closing today, whipped up unusual interest in tomorrow's voting.

Normally Democratic by a heavy margin, party leaders claimed Texaco would land in the Democratic column as it always has with one exception since the Civil War.

Keen attention focused on the "write-in" fight against J. E. McDonald, Democratic nominee for Commissioner of Agriculture who endorsed the Willkie-McNary ticket.

Sharing interest were the efforts of no-third-term Democrats and Willkie Democrats, more active in campaigning for the Republican ticket than the Republican party itself.

Democratic claims spurred hectic campaigning by the no-third-term groups who centered their work in thickly populated centers and blanketed the state with radio appeals.

Predict Large Vote
The candidates opposing McDonald, W. N. (Bill) Corry of Keller and Tom Martin of Johnson City, plugged away with appeals to penalize the commissioner for his bolt. Agriculture groups throughout the state staged rallies for Corry and Martin tacked around South Texas.

Texaco counted 842,838 ballots in the last general election and competing parties freely predicted a bigger vote tomorrow. Absentee balloting most everywhere shattered that of four years ago, a possible indication of a big turn-out tomorrow.

McDonald, reiterating his advocacy of the Willkie-McNary "constructive" farm program, said many farmers had expressed appreciation of his stand.

"As the greatest agricultural state in the union, Texas should join in the procession of its sister states and have a major part in the victory of a national ticket dedicated to the restoration of a free and prosperous agriculture," he asserted.

WHOOZIT?

Mr. Whozit has had many years experience in the drug business, for that profession was the one he chose and educated himself in.

A product of Whitewright, Texas, he took his public school education there. Then attended Burleson College in Greenville for two years.

After leaving Burleson went to Fort Worth and studied pharmacy for a year and came out with his license.

He worked in drug stores while going to school. After getting his license, he came to Big Spring where he worked for 10 years.

In February of 1937 he moved to Midland and took over a pharmacy for himself. This particular store can rightfully claim to be one of the oldest in this part of the country, for it has been located in that same spot on North Main—for 33 years.

Mr. Whozit belongs to the chamber of commerce and the Lions Club. He is vice president of the West Texas Pharmaceutical Association.

He is a Mason and attends the Methodist Church.

There's nothing like variety to Mr. Whozit. After playing backfield on the Texas A. & M. football team, he went to the Chicago Academy and took his degree in commercial advertising art.

Now the operator of one of the outstanding filling stations in Midland, Mr. Whozit has worked for several oil companies. He began his career in that business as chief draftsman for the Big Lake Oil Co. From that job he went to the Humble Pipe Line Co. as gauger.

He moved to Midland about four months ago to follow his present work.

He was born in Menard, Texas, and attended both Texas University and Texas A. & M. After taking his degree from the Chicago Academy, he worked for a year on a Chicago newspaper.

He now only finds time to practice his art as a hobby. He is particularly interested in portrait work.

He is a member of the chamber of commerce and looks forward to taking part in other civic work. He belongs to the Baptist Church.

You will see more of Mr. Whozit and his co-workers on the Get-Acquainted page of The Reporter-Telegram later.

Yesterday's Mr. Whozits were D. Branch and C. H. Shepard.

One of Midland's foremost football fans, Mr. Whozit rarely misses a game, or a re-hash of any game the team has taken part in. You can figure him in on anything pertaining to the Bulldogs.

He was born in Woodward, Okla., and attended public schools in that city. His parents owned a grocery store, and after school he operated it with his father. Twelve years ago he entered the restaurant business and has been at it since then.

He started out in Wichita, Kansas where he handled two eating places. He moved to McCarney and operated three restaurants in that West Texas city during the boom.

Mr. Whozit came to Midland in 1937 and has had one of the most popular cafes in town since coming here.

Although football is his first love in the way of sports, he follows a golf ball for his active exercise. He is a pretty fair golfer, his friends at the Country Club will tell you.

He also belongs to the chamber of commerce.

Mr. Whozit and his co-workers will appear on the Get-Acquainted page of The Reporter-Telegram.

Remember Evangeline?

Once again the shadow of war hovers over the vast meadows stretching toward the sea in the basin of Minas, in the same Nova Scotia in which another war so ruthlessly parted a pair of lovers nearly 200 years ago. Every one who ever went to school will recognize Evangeline and Gabriel, the lovers of Longfellow's poem bearing the faithful girl's name.

Canadian officers, seeking a proving ground for artillery, looked longingly at the broad meadows by the sea. Eviction of 15 farms would have been necessary, all occupied by Acadian farmers much like those who surrounded Evangeline.

This "second expulsion of the Acadians" was protested, and the officers persuaded to seek another and undeveloped site. Probably they will do so, but it is odd that nearly 200 years after one war brought tragedy to a generation of unoffending Acadians, another war should again seek out their remote home to threaten their unoffending seclusion.

Germanizing the Dead

Probably the thing that will cause Nazism to fail in the end is a certain lack of that last saving grace, humor. We don't mean humor in the crude sense of ability to see a joke, but in the broad connotation of a certain sense of the fitness of things.

In Alsace, perennial shuttlecock of the German-French game, the Germans are now campaigning to "make the district German" once and for all. Alsatian men named Henri, for instance, have to change that name to Heinrich. But not only that. All tombstone inscriptions are also to be in German.

No Nazi will see anything wrong in that. But there are plenty of others left in the world who will, and it is more than possible that it is little stupidities, little obituaries, little callousness over the more tender parts of the spirit, which will some day stop the Nazis where the tanks and turrets failed to stop them.

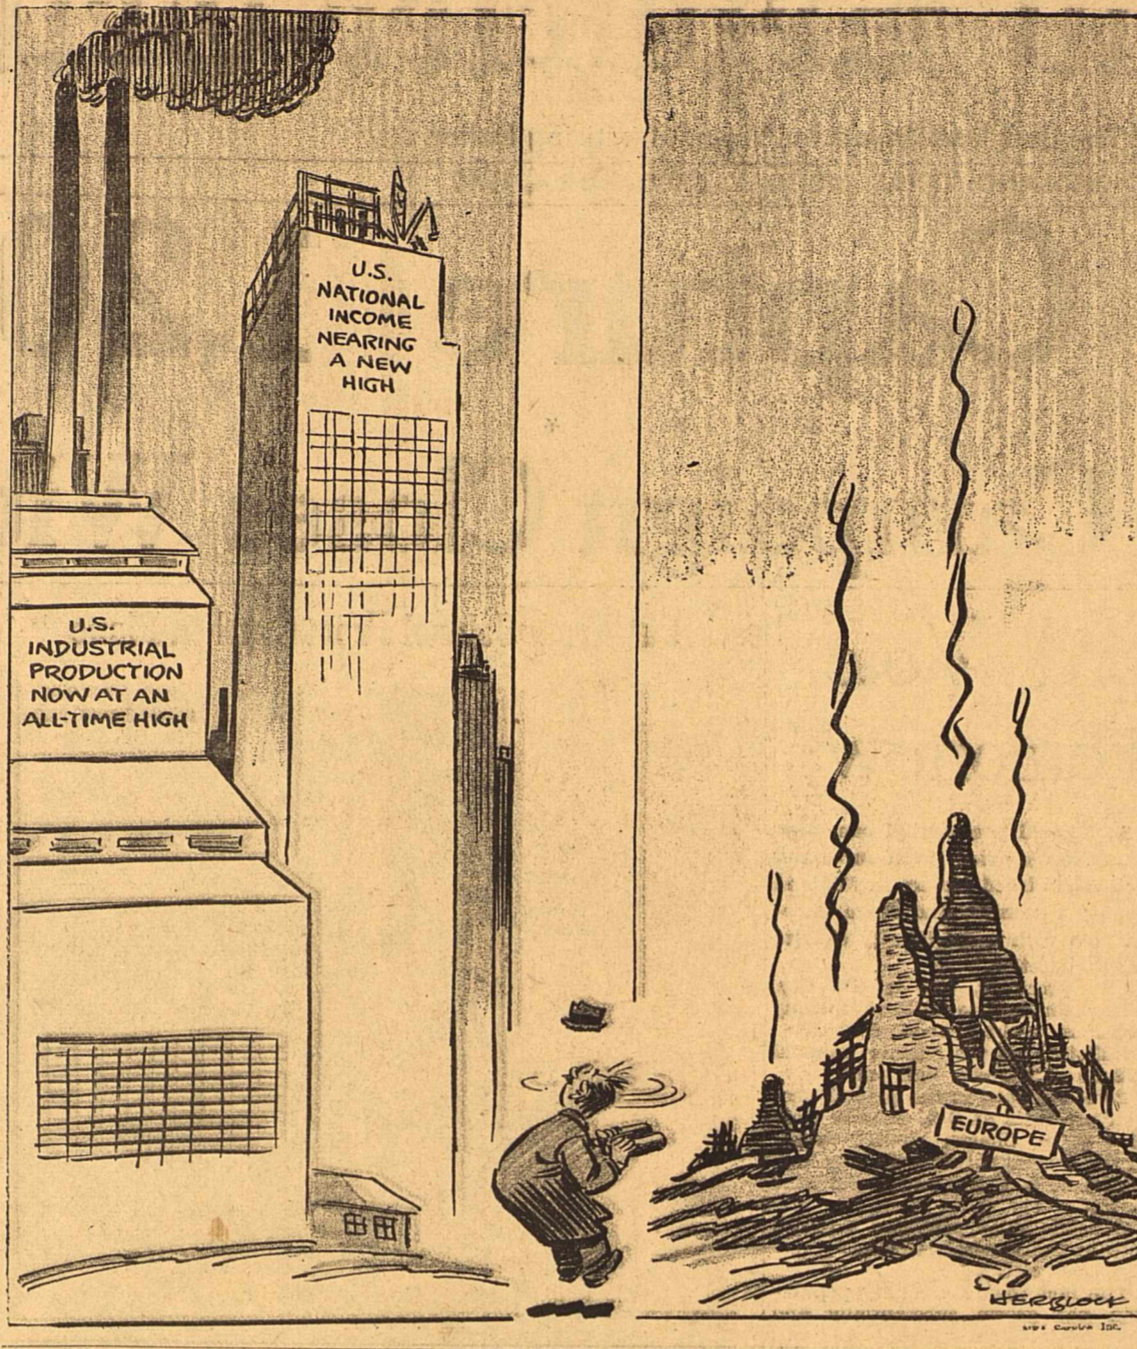

A Royal Zombie

All will remember that shuddery West Indian legend of the zombie—the dead charmed into a burden-bearing semblance of life without the consciousness that is life's essence.

We thought of it with a shudder the other day when a short dispatch described silent "King" Leopold of the Belgians, walking through the grounds of the Laeken Palace in Brussels, head bowed, like a man in a trance.

Here he lives, this man who once headed a proud and independent people, conferring daily with German generals and Belgian "officials"—a king without power, a sovereign without sovereignty, a man without a country. Not yet do we know enough for a historical verdict on his surrender—all we can do is mutely watch him pace the grounds of his palace prison, a royal zombie. In a Europe so overflowing with tragedy, he is only an episode, a fragment, a walking sigh.

While We've Been Looking the Other Way

● SERIAL STORY
GOAL TO GO
BY W. H. PEARS

Chapter I
AT three minutes of 10, Bill Mentor stripped off his white apron and dashed for the door of the drug store. Old Julius Peskin darted from the back room like a spider after a fly.

"So now, Mentor, you pick your own quitting time?" His dry, thin voice quivered. "You're paid to work from 4 until 10, not when the spirit moves you."

"But tonight's the first game of the season, Mr. Peskin. I'd like to see a few minutes of the last quarter." From nearly six feet up Bill watched the putty-colored bald spot on the little man's head turn crimson. "I've sweated out and—"

"Slap things up in a hurry," Peskin grumbled. "If it wasn't for the ill-will I'd gain around the school, I'd yank my son Walton off the team and put him in your place here."

"Yes, sir," Bill said, edging toward the door. "It's 10 o'clock now, Mr. Peskin."

Peskin looked satisfied at having gained his rightful time, even in talk. "Go ahead," he snapped.

"You... kissed me?"
"Oh..." Helen's cheeks flamed. "I didn't mean to, Bill. Honestly, I—I was excited and..."

Her voice was lost in wild cheering as Hart, West's fullback, bucked the line for five. The time-keeper signaled three minutes to play. The Benton boys looked tired. Straight, hard smashes would do it, Bill thought, trembling.

"Drive!" he prayed.

The mild fall wind struck icily across his hot forehead. He could almost feel the hard, taut leather in his big hands. If he could only be down there now, carrying the ball, or even running interference. Throwing himself in a sweet roll block, clearing the way for a West man to score. Boy!

The Benton line held. It was last down with three to go. Landis replaced Peskin with Calvert. Hart took the pass from center, faked a thrust at the line and gave the ball to Calvert, who flipped in backward to the left halfback. Instead of racing to the right for a clear shot at the end, the halfback hurried the pass away and it went straight into the hands of a Benton man.

A low moan swept the stands. The band was silent, the cheer-leader wilted and mute. Boos were heard as Benton froze to the ball for three plays, then punted out of danger. A moment later the time-keeper's pistol exploded.

Bill sliced between parked cars, skidded to a stop. Inside City Stadium he could hear the rising chant of a "Yea-a-a, team!" Applause splattered, followed by the abrupt silence that precedes play.

Running up the ramp, Bill caught a black glimpse of the scoreboard: VISITORS: 0; WEST: 0!

Down on the cleat chewed sward the West boys were in a huddle, their jerseys making a huge crimson blossom against the green turf.

"Bill, here I am," Helen Welch ran toward him, waving. Her chestnut curls were windblown and adorned with a crimson ribbon to match her short skirt, Slim, eager, she said, "I was afraid you wouldn't get here."

"Me, too," Bill said with a grin. "Jeepers, Helen there goes a pass!"

It was a wobbly, erratic heave from Peskin. A Benton man charged it to bat it aside, but with a desperate lunge the West end grabbed it. He was knocked out of bounds on the Benton 25.

A deafening roar went up from the crowd. The band crashed forth in pagan triumph. Crimson-skirted cheerleaders spun around like dervishes, pounding the air with their fists, chanting, "We want a touchdown!"

"Oh, Bill!" Helen's eyes shone as she joined her voice to the pandemonium. She danced up and down, grabbed Bill impulsively and kissed him. "Bill, Bill, they're going to do it!"

"Gee..." Bill stared at Helen, touching his fingers to his lips.

"That's what I thought."
"You can tell me, Buck."
He nodded, thumbing the bowl of his pipe. "Look, Bill, somebody used bad judgment tonight."
"Coach?"
Buck shrugged. "If he ordered that play... which I doubt. That was a big-time razzle-dazzle. With plenty of practice a high school team might click it off, but..."
"That's what I thought."
"Bill, I wouldn't say this to another human soul. It would sound pretty bad coming from a man who was refused the job of coaching West. But if that play had gone off, the whole west side would be raving about Landis tonight."
Bill frowned. "You mean he was grandstanding?"
"It's possible. But remember, the Benton line had held once and might again. Landis or Calvert quietly chose the spectacular rather than the sound way of trying for those yards."
"Buck, I heard Pat Hurly say we'd have won if you'd been coaching."
"Or, if you'd been calling the plays," Buck said softly. "Football needs boys like you, Bill. You've got the body and brains." Buck pressed his eyeballs with the tips of his fingers. "You lack only a father who can run off his share of the plays."
"Who taught me what I know?" Bill exploded. "And just let Landis boot a few more games..."

Buck dropped his hand to his son's shoulder. "We're not after another man's job, Bill."
"But, Buck, didn't the board say they might consider you?"
"Yes, they did." Eager glints jumped into Buck Mentor's eyes. "And I'd give my soul to tackle the job, Bill."

The War Today

By DeWitt MacKenzie.

Reports in Washington and London that Herr Hitler is preparing a fresh peace offensive may be apocryphal (Berlin denies them) but still are important as emphasizing that the war has passed the possibility of peace by agreement, barring some strange and wholly unexpected development.

Hard as it is to say, it's difficult to see how the conflict can be settled excepting by the total defeat of one side or the other. Europe just isn't big enough to hold both Adolf Hitler and Britain.

Should it prove to be true that the Fuehrer is indeed preparing peace terms it would, of course, be significant as indicating that he no longer feels confident he can smash England.

Reported terms provide that "the British empire undefeated and unconquered" should remain as it is. Europe, "being conquered by Germany," should be regarded as outside England's sphere of influence.

That would be a grand bargain for the Nazi leader. However, even if John Bull were willing to forego his oath to free his allies from German subjugation, he would seem to me to be inviting disaster to accept such terms.

Peace under an agreement like that couldn't be lasting. It would in reality represent a stalemate and war would blaze again.

Hitler has sworn time and again to destroy the British empire.

Only a fortnight ago British Premier Churchill declared this as his country's war-aim:

"We seek to beat the life and soul out of Hitler and Hitlerism—that alone."

That's what this war amounts to—a struggle between Hitler and the British empire. One or the other is going to disappear from the picture.

Anyway, while England has a tough row to hoe, the going just now seems to me to be considerably more promising than it was a while back. Making predictions in this mad war is like crossing Niagara Falls on a tight-rope, but I venture to say it's far from sure that Mussolini didn't confer a great boon on Britain when he lashed out at Greece.

Instead of achieving a blitzkrieg, as they expected, the Fascists have tossed priceless bases into England's lap, thereby going a long way towards nullifying their efforts.

If England can make capital out of this situation she may win the active support of Russia and Turkey. Meanwhile, Hitler is straining every nerve to pull these countries into his camp, and success would be a sad blow to Britain.

Dies Predicts 3,000 Will Be Indicted Soon

ORANGE, Nov. 4 (AP) — Rep. Dies (D-Texas), chairman of the House committee investigating un-American activities, predicted today 3,000 indictments would be returned throughout the nation against subversive groups within the next month.

The Texas said investigations of the committee would show "the Italian espionage and propaganda end of the story" more important than "the German end."

Dies said the committee had uncovered widespread activities of "Italian agents similar to evidence we recently obtained about German espionage which is now in the hands of the State Department and the Justice Department."

RECENTLY I completed a most enjoyable trip through Canada.

While I found a country that was seriously at war, I found a people who were neither worried nor panicky. They were working hard and fast at preparedness, but still taking their bridge seriously.

We entered Canada at Niagara Falls and were treated warmly and courteously by the Canadian officials. Our first stop was at Toronto, where I met some members of the Canadian Bridge League, which is affiliated with the American Contract Bridge League.

The subject of conversation on my part was the war, and on their part, what happened at Asbury Park this year.

While telling stories of famous hands, one of the Canadian boys said he had pulled off an old swindle, one I haven't seen work for a long time. Try it some time.

East saw that his hand might not be good enough to stop a game in hearts or spades, but certainly should defeat three no trump. If he bids clubs, the opponents would be warned of the no trump. So he bid one spade, hoping to lure South into no trumps because of strong spade stoppers.

That was exactly what happened. West duly opened a spade against three no trumps. East won with the ace and laid down five club tricks.

Three Big Games Of Week Will Aid In Developing "Who Is Who,"

By Hugh S. Fullerton Jr.
 NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—Minnesota plays Michigan next Saturday; the Texas Aggies encounter Southern Methodist and Stanford meets Washington. When these games are over the long-suffering football "experts" may have some real idea of who is who in the football world this season.

Minnesota and Michigan are the unbeaten and untied survivors of the titanic struggle for the Western Conference championship. The Texas Aggies and Stanford have equally perfect records and high ranking. SMU, unbeaten, has been tied once but figures to give the Aggies the battle of the season for Southwest Conference honors while Washington, defeated by Minnesota at the start of the season, is right behind Stanford in the Pacific Coast Conference race.

Ranking with these on the list of unbeaten and untied candidates for the mythical national title are Cornell, Georgetown, Boston College, Notre Dame and Tennessee. Penn State, Lafayette, and Hardin-Simmons also have clean slates and Texas Tech has only one tie against its record. They don't appear to rank quite as high as the others, however.

Seven Going Strong
 Pushing these leaders for sectional honors are reported teams that still are going strong. Among them are Pennsylvania and Fordham in the East; Nebraska, the undisputed Big Six conference leader; Mississippi, tied with Tennessee for first in the Southern conference and Duke and Clemson, rivals for the Southern conference crown.

Looking them over one section at a time, the prospects for continued success of the leaders are about like this:

EAST—Cornell has played the toughest schedule without a let-down. Columbia was a 27-0 victim for the Big Red team last Saturday and Yale will be lucky to do as well this week.

Penn State, remaining undefeated by beating South Carolina 12-0, encounters Syracuse. Lafayette 25-0 winner over Washington and Jefferson, faces Rutgers. Pennsylvania, which trounced previously unbeaten Navy 20-0, plays Harvard, which fought Princeton's favored team to a scoreless tie. Fordham downed North Carolina 14-0 and now tackles Purdue, 21-6 winner over Iowa.

Other Major Battles
 Other games of major importance this week include Columbia against Wisconsin, Holy Cross against Mississippi, Manhattan against Marquette, Pittsburgh against Carnegie Tech, Princeton against Dartmouth, which beat Sewanee 26-0, and Army against Brown.

MIDWEST—Being held to a 7-0 score by Army with a let-down for Notre Dame's fighting Irish and they'll probably be out to make up for that showing when they meet Navy this week.

The Western Conference race was reduced to a two-team affair when Minnesota edged out Northwestern 13-12. If they can get past Michigan the Gophers should have a clear road. Michigan has to play Northwestern later and the whole thing may wind up in a tangle. This week Northwestern faces Illinois, 13-6 victor of Wisconsin. Indiana, beaten 21-6 by Ohio State, meets Michigan State, 32-0 winner over Kansas State. Iowa plays Nebraska's Cornhuskers, who went to the top of the Big Six with a 13-0 win over Oklahoma.

Sooners-Jayhawks
 Oklahoma, tied with Missouri for second in their circuit, plays Kansas, beaten 33-7 by Villanova Friday. Missouri, which passed to a 33-0 decision over New York University, plays Colorado.

SOUTH—Tennessee, the South's only "major" unbeaten and untied team, showed power in bowling over Louisiana State 28-0 and takes a week off from major competition to play Southwestern of Memphis. Mississippi kept pace in the Southern Conference standings by beating Vanderbilt 13-7.

With these two on the sidelines next Saturday it's Alabama, impressive 25-0 winner over Kentucky, against Tulane, which knocked Clemson out of the unbeaten group, 13-0, in the biggest Southeastern game. Others are Georgia, 14-13 winner over Auburn, against Florida, Kentucky-Tech, L. S. U.—Mississippi State and Vanderbilt-Sewanee.

In the Southern Conference Duke, 47 victor over Georgia Tech, faces Davidson while Clemson tackles Auburn.

Texas and Bruins
SOUTHWEST—Preparing for this week's decisive encounter, Texas A&M rolled over Arkansas 17-0 while Southern Methodist outscored Texas 21-13. Rice, also unbeaten in the conference, beat Texas A. and I. 9-6 and may find it hard to stay in the running when it meets Arkansas. Texas and Baylor meet in the remaining game. Outside the conference, Hardin-Simmons plays Loyola of Los Angeles Friday night while Texas Tech is idle until next Monday.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN BIG SEVEN
 It's anyone's race since Utah knocked off Colorado 21-13 to go into a tie for the conference lead. The Utes

Bulldogs' Coach Is Gloomy Over Lamesa Contest

Two factors commanded attention today, spreading a veil of discouragement over the Midland Bulldogs as they prepared for their conference game Friday with the Lamesa Tornados abroad.

Coach Bud Taylor mused over the coming game in his office this morning, and drawled, "I won't be surprised if they beat us."

The reasons were that the Bulldogs suffered significant injury blows last week in their melee at Abilene, two regulars getting hurt, and that the fastest improving team in District 3-AA will be the Friday opponent.

Two Stellar Backs
 The Tornados, beaten 13 to 7 last week by Sweetwater, have two of the best backfield men in West Texas, players who can either pass or run, Taylor said. Lamesa was scouted Friday by Julius Johnson, assistant line mentor.

White, Lamesa end three years, was shifted to the backfield two weeks ago, and developed into an all-around threat. The other Tornado back is Reeves. Weight of the two teams is about the same.

Two Bulldogs Hurt
 Eidson, right guard, and Rehders, center, will not practice much this week although they will be in uniform. They may not see action against Lamesa, both sustaining knee injuries in the Abilene contest.

Some relief is seen in improvement of Wendell Williams, back, Bill Hall, guard, and Wilford Lester, right end, Williams was not injured Friday, and Hall and Lester didn't play.

Drill In Secret
 Coach Taylor scheduled a skull session at 12:30 p. m. today, after which a closed drill was in order at 2:30. He said that gates to the practice field would remain locked this week, and throughout preparation period next week for the Odessa contest.

The Bulldogs defeated Lamesa last year here, 33 to 26.

School District Races Remain In Disputed Muddle

By Harold V. Ratliff
 Associated Press Staff
 Fewer than half of the Texas school boy football districts had undisputed leaders today as the field rallied its defenses for crucial Armistice struggles.

The coming week-end, however, will trim the contenders out appreciably although no district championship can be clinched at this date.

Districts with undisputed leaders are:

District 3—Big Spring, District 8—Woodrow Wilson (Dallas), District 9—Stephenville, District 11—Tyler, District 12—Lufkin, District 13—Jeff Davis (Houston), District 15—Kerrville, District 16—Harlingen in the south zone.

Sandies vs. Bulldogs
 The big game of the week is Amarillo's tussle with the dark horse Plainview team in the Parhandle. Both are undefeated and untied along with Lubbock, which plays an inter-district game with Austin (El Paso).

Other districts with crucial games shape up like this:

District 2—Graham plays Quanah. These two are tied with Wichita Falls for the lead. Wichita Falls meets down-trodden Electra.

District 11—Tyler is the only unbeaten, untied team in conference play but the Lions meet a major menace in the Longview Lobos, who could give the leadership to Kilgore with a victory. Kilgore is unbeaten but has been tied.

Rest of the Picture
 In District 3 Big Spring plays thrice-beaten San Angelo next Monday while second-place Midland tackles Lamesa.

District 4 has Austin (El Paso) and El Paso High tied for the lead. El Paso High plays Bowie (El Paso) Friday.

In district 9 Stephenville awaits its final conference game with Brownwood which plays Brecken-play Wyoming Saturday while Colorado meets Missouri. Denver and Brigham Young, tied for third, play each other. Colorado State meets Utah State.

PACIFIC COASTS—Stanford had to stave off late rallies to beat U. C. L. A. 0-14 but was clearly the better team. Washington may prove a tougher customer. Other conference games this week end Oregon State, 19-13 surprise winner over California, against Washington State, which beat Idaho 26-0; U. C. L. A. against Oregon, victor over Montana 38-0; and California against Southern California.

 NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP) — Week's wash: While handing out the posties, don't pass up Coach Homer Norton whose Texas Aggies have won 17 in a row . . . Buck Shaw, Santa Clara coach, rates Michigan State a better defensive team than either U.C.L.A. or Stanford . . . What's this about Bill Ingram, former California U. and Navy coach, having a son tabbed for Stanford? . . . The champion Reds, who won 41 of their 100 victories by one run, broke the all-time record of 37 set by the world champion Cubs in 1907.

ridge this week. District 14 plods toward a climax when Port Arthur and Beaumont meet but this week-end Beaumont tackles Galveston and Port Arthur plays Conroe with neither of the leaders in any apparent danger.

In the north zone of district 16 undefeated Corpus Christi meets thrice-defeated Beville and Robstown tangle with Kingsville. In the south zone unbeaten Harlingen has a date with San Benito, which hasn't won a game of any kind all season.

A dozen teams remain undefeated and untied in the state, they being Amarillo, Lubbock, Plainview, Paris, Sherman, Masonic Home, Stephenville, Lufkin, Jeff Davis, Kerrville, Corpus Christi and Harlingen.

 Texas Aggies Engage Real Menace Saturday In S. M. U. Mustangs
 By Felix R. McKnight
 DALLAS, Nov. 4 (AP)—Week after week the bulls-eye for inspired football teams, icy Texas A&M, the sphinx of Southwest football, next Saturday meets the real menace of all this emotionally aroused opposition.

Since the timer's gun halted them on the Aggie goal line in the rain-spattered quagmire down on Kyle Field twelve months ago, Southern Methodist has molded its 1940 season around the Aggie game.

The Methodists lost that game of games, 6-2. It was the last genuine threat to the Aggies had before rolling on to an unbeaten season and the Sugar Bowl triumph.

Now, these two teams meet up again. The scene hasn't changed much. Both are unbeaten—the Aggies working on a string of seven straight victories. Poise has carried them through a few tight spots. Actually, there has been little cause for distress—until now.

Weeks ago the available 25,500 seats at Ownby oval in Dallas were sold out.

Just as a year ago, the Aggies are favored. Never have they been behind this season. Their line has beat back every man-sized threat. Their offense, from Jarrin' John Kimbrough on through Marion Pugh and his passing, Jim Thomson and his blocking, line backing and running; Derae Moser and Will Bill Conatser and their fancy punt returning, is about the most solid thing in the section.

Two Others Scheduled
 Two more conference games are scheduled. Rice, shaking from the shock after beating little Texas A. & L., 9-6, in the last two seconds, invades Fayetteville to play the Arkansas team that was great, except for fumbling, against the Aggies.

Texas, its dreams of a conference championship melting after two straight defeats, meets a good Baylor team at Austin—a Baylor team that caught Texas Christian with Kyle Gillespie at full blast for the first time this season and lost a tough 12-14 decision.

The Christians, expected to come back after the Tulsa beating and still far from out of the conference scramble with Gillespie ready to go, goes East for an intersectional date with Detroit—loser of its only game this season Saturday last to Tulsa.

Baugh Hurls Redskins Into Grid Spotlight
 CHICAGO, Nov. 4 (AP)—The Green Bay Packers' famed passing attack is showing signs of falling apart, but the Washington Redskins are ready to take up where the national champions left off.

The Packers blew plenty of scoring opportunities Sunday in bow into the Chicago Bears, 14 to 7, while the undefeated Redskins were racking up their seventh straight triumph, 37 to 10.

The Redskins connected for 14 of 16 passes in whipping Pittsburgh, leaving them needing only two victories to clinch the eastern division title. Sammy Baugh tossed two touchdown passes.

The Bears need only two wins to tie for the western title even should the Packers finish their schedule undefeated.
