Ray's 'Retin'

By RAY MARTIN
What's with this business of a small town? What's a small town got to offer that the big towns do not have?
Got to thinking about that the other day as I wandered around town. Here's the answer:
Walking from the office to the postoffice. Visiting for a few minutes with Lee Pool, and chatting for a minute with Bobby Airhart. Both conversations just started, inopportune. Dropping into a downtown store and visiting with three of the salesmen, all of whom called me by name. Then over at the postoffice, I find I'm a penny short for a postage due letter; Spencer lending me the penny out of his pocket. (Can you imagine a big town postmaster forking up a needed penny?)
Pat Boho handing me a Baptist Standard magazine. "Good stuff in this," he said, "suggest you take it home with you and read it?" He claimed he had already read a copy. "Even if you are a Methodist, it won't hurt you to read some Baptist literature." That sort of thing. That's small town, and I find it good.
Buck Wood telling me about how hot it was in Oklahoma City when he was in my former hometown recently on vacation. "Steamy, man!" was the way he put it.
Frank Ellis waving from the window of his "business" vehicle as he drives up to the postoffice. "How goes it, Ray?" he wanted to know.
Waving at the preacher, Frank Peery, dressed in un-clergy coveralls. Visiting a little later, too, with Father Corcoran, who always calls me "The Muleshoe Walter Winchell," or something along that line. I prefer to think it's a compliment.
Chatting for a few minutes with Gil Herndon, former Dallasite who stays in a small town "because I just like this business of walking down the street and speaking to everybody and have everybody speak to me." Glen, one of his small sons, incidentally, manages to pressure our office every morning until he sells at least one package of his doughnuts. "Sometimes," he said "people tip me."
Visiting with Buddy Ray, and we discuss downstate where we both once lived. "Awfully hot and dry down there now," he points out.
Rufus Gilbreath and yours truly stop and chat. Compliment him on how nicely he's got the green-stuff growing at his new home. "Give the credit to mama," he comes back. "She's the green thumb member of the family."
Going to Lions club at noon. Speaking to half the folk there and they in turn returning the greeting. Dodging hot rolls. Hearing Bill Moore getting all misty-eyed telling about the truly wonderful work which a student loan program at Canyon is doing. Bill is on the board. Two members of the club telling about their deno- (See RAY'S, page 7)

Lovelady's License Suspended 3 Months

Karl L. Lovelady, former county attorney here, has been barred from the practice of law for three months in a judgement filed in district court minutes here Tuesday by the Grievance committee of the State Bar of Texas for District No. 19.
The suspension starts August 15 and will end November 15.
The committee found "that the defendant is guilty of professional misconduct as an attorney at law..." citing three instances in particular in its four-page judgement.

Lovelady resigned as county attorney after being indicted by a district court grand jury last year on four counts. He was tried in February on a charge of theft but the trial ended Feb. 6 in a mistrial when the jury failed to agree. Since then he has been engaged in the private practice of law.
The grievance committee hearing was staged in Lubbock Nov. 3, 1962, but the suspension was not filed here until this week. The actual suspension judgement is dated August 7.

Under the rules of the law profession, the bar association acts as its own "policing organization" and it has the right to determine whether a member may or may not practice law. The Lubbock hearing came into the Lovelady trial at several points during Lovelady's trial here earlier this year when some of the same witnesses used at the trial also had appeared before the bar committee hearing in Lubbock. However, none of the attorney's actions as county attorney figured in the suspension order.
Lovelady signed consent to entry of the judgement by the grievance committee. The instrument is on file in Vol. 4, page 294-296 of the district court minutes.
The judgement said Lovelady had appeared before the grievance committee of the State bar last November, adding:
"It is, therefore, found by this committee that the defendant is guilty of professional misconduct as an attorney at law, in the following particulars:
"1. That on or about Feb. 13, 1962, in Bailey County, he was retained by O. B. Kincanon to represent him as his attorney in a lawsuit, and that he (Lovelady) agreed to represent... Kincanon and agreed to file a suit... for damages against Roscoe Fort Feb. 13, 1962, and he accepted a check from... Kincanon for $25 as a retainer therefore. Thereafter he repeatedly advised O. B. Kincanon that the suit had been filed. On Aug. 2, 1962, O. B. Kincanon died, and on Aug. 6, 1962, he advised his widow... that the suit had been filed and that Roscoe Fort had entered a denial therein and that he, said Karl L. Lovelady, had withdrawn from the suit. In truth and in fact, the suit had never been filed prior to the date of his conference with Mrs. Kincanon.
"2. That he, accepted employment as an attorney for Montgomery Ward of Fort Worth... to collect a judgement in favor of (See LOVELADY, page 7)

Muleshoe to Consolidate Its Campaigns in United Fund

Muleshoe will have a United Fund drive for various charitable organizations this fall instead of the usual individual campaigns.
This was decided at a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce when preliminary plans were laid and an organization meeting was set up. Pat Boho is acting chairman of the United Fund movement.
The organization meeting will be held Tuesday, August 20 in the community room of the Bailey County Electric Co-op, starting at 8 p.m. Boho announced.
Officers will be elected, campaign chairman appointed and other plans made for launching the united program as quickly as possible. Boho says budget and admission committee chairman will be named, a publicity chairman, constitution and by-laws chairman and the selection of board members. Directors will be named for staggered terms of one to three years.
Issues and problems also will be discussed.
Boho has sent a letter to a number of persons asking that they be thinking of possible board members and other officers for the new United Fund setup. In his letter he said, "Please send or call your list of five who have agreed to serve so they will be at the chamber office by Friday morning, August 16, and be sure your people know about the August 20 meeting.
"Your number 2 assignment will be: Please give your most careful thinking to the problem of leadership positions to be filled. Make one or more suggestions for each position and call me or Bobby Airhart (Chamber of Commerce president) by Wednesday, August 14, with your suggestions. It is imperative that we have a slate of officers to offer in nomination August 20.
"Your third assignment is to start thinking and talking United (See MULESHOE, page 7)

City, County Officers Raid 4 Homes, Get 195 Bottles of Beer

City and county law enforcement officers went liquor hunting Saturday afternoon, and they wound up with 195 quart bottles of beer and with two women in custody. Still on the loose is a Muleshoe man who was not at home when the officers paid his bootlegging establishment an unexpected visit.
The beer, most of it bearing the same brand label, is the kind which bootleggers peddle for $1 a quart, about one-third more than its usual cost in wet counties.
Taken into custody were two Spanish-American women whom officers say were operating on East 3rd and East 4th streets. Charged with possession of liquor for sale in dry areas were Maenula Alonzo, 602 East 3rd, and Esther Anguiano, 118 East 4th street.
Maenula Alonzo was arraigned before County Judge Glen Williams and pleaded guilty. She was assessed fines and costs totaling $176.85.
Esther Anguiano was still in jail at midweek.
Sheriff's officers said they still are seeking a man at whose home they gathered in a sizable part of the 195-bottle cache. Pending his arrest, name of the third person wanted in the bootleg roundup was not made public.
Officers said the raids went off without a hitch. Armed with search warrants issued by Justice of the Peace Joe Vaughn, the city and county officers descended on the three places in quick succession and gathered in the beer and left. Neither of the two women arrested offered any resistance, they said, after being shown search warrants.
Most of the beer was found stored in cabinets and in the refrigerator at the three houses raided, although part of the beer was found in an automobile outside one of the homes.
Search warrants had been issued for four residences in the downtown area, but beer was found at only three of the homes searched.
The beer was brought back to the courthouse in two automobiles and is being held by Sheriff Dee Clements until the cases against the three are disposed of.

Sunday Crashes Leave One Hurt; Three to Face Charges

Three Bailey County crashes Sunday sent one person to the hospital and "totaled out" three vehicles.
Two of the accidents occurred outside Muleshoe and were investigated by James Freeman, highway patrolman for Bailey county. The other crash took place in Muleshoe and was investigated by City Patrolman Bob Atkinson.
Involved in the first crash, which occurred at 12:50 a.m. Sunday, were two pickup trucks. One, a 1959 Chevrolet, was driven by Robert Eugene Lang, Rt. 3 Muleshoe, and the other, a 1962 Chevrolet pickup, was driven by Rita Faye Tarbert, 607 W. Hayes, Morton. The vehicles sideswiped each other at the Muleshoe Game refuge south of Muleshoe on SH 214.
Mrs. Tarbert received a severe leg laceration was rushed to a Morton hospital. Her husband, who was a passenger in the pickup Mrs. Tarbert was driving, escaped with a cut on the hand. Their pickup was badly damaged in the crash. The two were returning to Morton from their honeymoon.
Lang escaped injury. Freeman filed charges against Lang for failure to yield half the roadway. The road has recently been resurfaced from south of Needmore, and center stripe still is missing.
Freeman had just returned from investigating the crash near the refuge when he received word of another accident 3.7 miles northwest of Muleshoe on US 84-70.
Involved in that one-car accident was a 1956 Plymouth driven by Jesse Flores Castorena who lost control of the car. It left the highway, Freeman said, ran down the shoulder of the highway and then flipped over when it reentered the highway.
Castorena escaped injury but his automobile was demolished. The accident occurred at 3 a.m. Charges were filed in court here Monday against Castorena, charging him with traveling at an unsafe speed and with operating an automobile without a license.
Still another accident, this one occurring Sunday afternoon, resulted in heavy damage to an automobile and a pickup truck. The crash occurring on East American near the potato shed.

Watch for Midge, Adams Suggests

Midge, the tiny gnat-like insect that has been playing havoc with grain sorghum in some sections of West Texas, made its appearance in Bailey county this week.
J. K. Adams, county agent, said he found "30 midges in about 30 minutes" in a field in the West Camp community last Sunday.
"There is no rule to follow on spraying," Adams said, "and farmers will have to decide for themselves whether spraying is necessary." He recommended that farmers watch their fields carefully, and decide for themselves when it is time to spray.

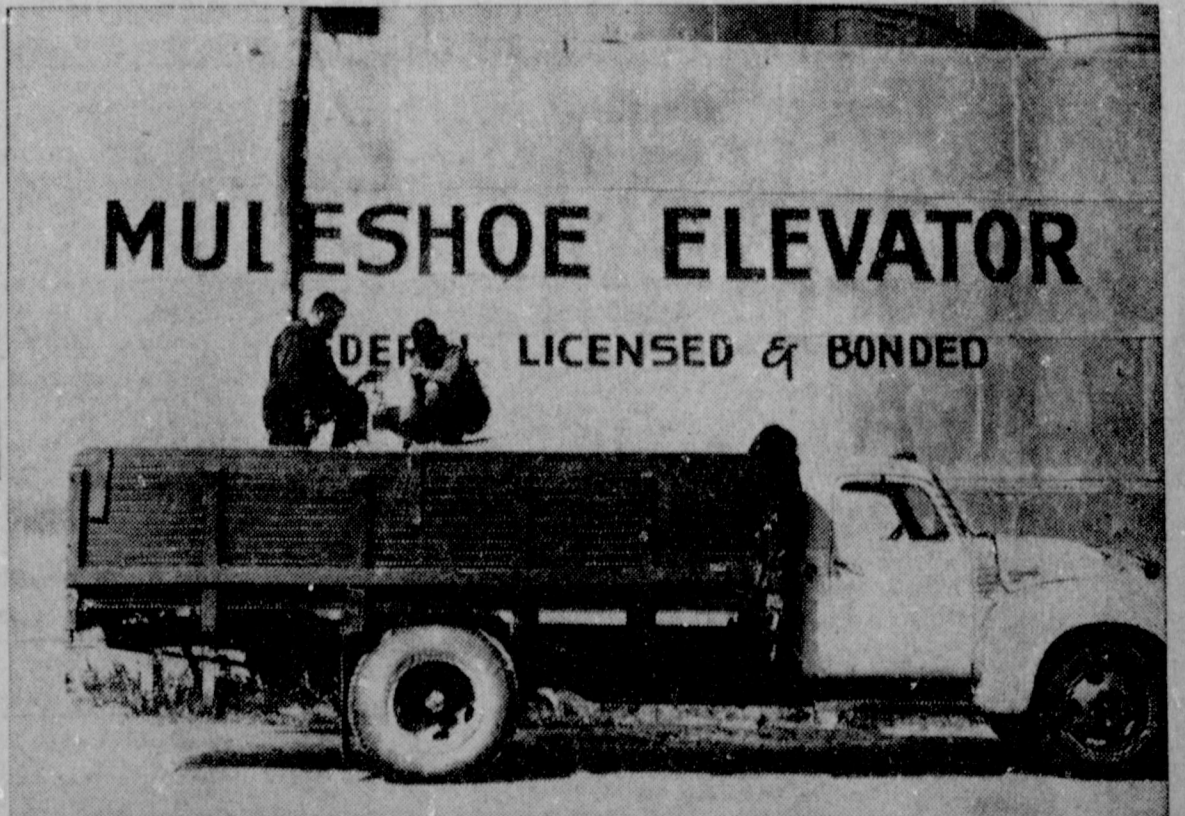

DE Due to Start 2nd Year in City School

Merchants and professional men are being sought to sponsor distributive education students for the coming school year as the schools start their second year of on-job training for senior high school pupils.
Last year's DE program was highly successful with more than two score of pupils taking part. Wayne Holcomb, who heads the program here, says sponsors are needed, and persons interested are asked to call him at the senior high school or at his home address. At the start of the program last year, 39 pupils signed up, along with 25 employers.
Distributive education is a combination school-work program for junior and senior pupils only. Their work-for-pay program is carefully supervised, and they are given credit in school for such projects, Holcomb explained. He personally visits each pupil and employer taking part in the program, and sees that both school and work activities are up to top standards.

The boys and girls enrolled in DE, must work for pay for a minimum of 15 hours a week. Holcomb says the sponsors prefer that the pupils work considerably more than the minimum number of hours. He says the department prefers that pupils put in two hours of work every school day, and they may also work on Saturdays. In school, a regular classroom period is devoted to DE study.
The youths may do any kind of lucrative work. Signed up last year were printing firms, service stations, drygoods stores, automobile parts houses, motor companies, groceries, insurance, cleaners, lumber, hardware and drug stores, as well as in professional services.
Holcomb urges that business and professional men who would like to have DE students in their year contact him as soon as possible so arrangements can be made to get the program off to a good start September 2, the opening day of school.

Her 10-day old baby escaped injury. All were brought to West Plains Hospital here by a Singleton ambulance.
Driver of the other car was Jenny Lynn Steinbeck, 16, Lazbuddie. She received numerous cuts and was taken to Green Memorial Hospital. Her mother, Mrs. Alford Steinbeck, was a passenger in Miss Steinbeck's car.
The accident was investigated by Carol Parker, patrolman from Farwell; Junior Trieter, a deputy sheriff at Farwell, and Garland Freeman, a deputy sheriff at Muleshoe.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Broyles, Milburn, Okla. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tice Hugg, Memphis, Texas. Both families are former residents of Muleshoe.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride was dressed in a gown of white silk peau de soie enhanced with scalloped appliques of Alencon lace medallions embroidered with seed pearls and crystals. The bride's gown was fashioned with a portrait neckline, fitted bodice, and long sleeves tapered to petal points over the hands. A wide chapel train fell from a fabric bow. Her elbow length veil was caught by a headpiece of taffeta calla lilies and pearls. She carried a bouquet of glamelias and baby coral roses which formed a crescent.

Mrs. Bob Hall, Midland, was matron of honor. Other attendants were Mrs. Jerry Smith, Muleshoe, and Miss Nina Gragg, Farmington. They wore street-length dresses of coral de-lustered satin, overlaid with coral's chintilly lace. The short-sleeved lace bodices topped the slim shirts with back pouf.

Their panels of de-lustered satin. Their circular veils of coral tulle were secured by matching satin roses. They carried a single baby coral rose with streamers.

Yarborough in Washington

By RALPH W. YARBOROUGH U.S. Senator from Texas

I am pleased to report this week the U. S. Senate passed by a record vote a bill to increase the pay of almost all the men and women in the armed forces. I am confident that the bill will become law.

This is the first general pay increase for members of our armed forces in five long years. This bill will help retain experienced officers and enlisted men. It will provide an increase in pay in the officer grades of an average of 13.8% and an increase in pay for the men in the enlisted grades averaging 16.6%.

These pay increases will offset in large part the expense of the increases by cutting down the high cost of constantly training new military personnel. The Defense Department is now spending a billion dollars a year to train and retrain personnel.

Texas also has a big stake in this bill. With 177,000 members of the armed forces in Texas, we have more servicemen than any state in the Union.

In the last fiscal year $721 Million was spent on the salaries of military personnel in Texas. Another $664 Million was spent in Texas in the last fiscal year on federal civilian salaries. Many of these were civilian jobs connected with the military. The military pay increase will total, nationwide, more than $1.2 Billion, and about $100 Million of that will be paid out in Texas.

Let us look at some other particulars of this bill.

A corporal, for example, would have his pay raised $35 a month, bringing him up to $205 a month. Certain personnel who were trainees with less than two years of service would not get an increase. Also if a man is in a Cold War, exposed-to-death-or-injury position, like those fighting in South Vietnam, he will get $55 a month more. If a man is sent overseas, and his family cannot go, he will draw $30 a month more for a separation-from-family situation.

Another group of people who have been discriminated against in the past, who received justice under this bill, are the personnel who retired prior to 1958. Under the last pay increase, the Cordiner Bill of 1958, those who had previously retired did not get an increase. They do receive their recomputation increase under this new bill, and I am particularly pleased at this. In my campaign for the Senate in 1958, I had a plank in my platform for the passage of a bill to recompute the pay of those retired before 1958. I am proud to report that this has been accomplished in the military pay act of 1963.

Thomas Reunion Is Annual Event

By MRS. LEATHA WEST

The annual Thomas Reunion, held at Quartz Mountain State Park near Altus, Okla., was a greater success this year than those of past years. There were seven of the senior clan and a good number of their children and grandchildren present to make a grand total of 97.

The reunion began August 2 with a variety of activities on the agenda, such as cooking and dining, sleeping out, conversational hours, bingo games, domino games, shows and gags to entertain the youngsters.

The conversational hours were of the main interest as brothers and sisters and their off spring chatted about times, old and new.

The reunion came to a close Sunday with an auction sale. The surplus canned food, etc. were auctioned and the funds received, along with the funds from our bingo games, took care of the expenses while there.

We organized the reunion as an annual event to be held on the anniversary of our parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Thomas. They lived in Muleshoe until their passing away in 1955. They raised eight children and 40 grandchildren, all still alive with the exception of two grandchildren who preceded them in death.

Our purpose for the organization was for the meeting of the family once a year to enjoy each other and our children without waiting for a death to bring us together.

In our decorum we state that if we had a death, we would

Negro's Drive for Rights Felt by Entire Nation

By RELMAN MORIN

Associated Press Staff Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—The Negro drive for full equality has reached the dimensions of a national convulsion.

It wracks the whole United States, not just the Southern states. It is breaching the invisible racial barriers of the North no less than the visible walls in the South, shattering the complacency of one region, defeating the slow-down strategy of the other. "Something's got a hold of me," the Negro is chanting. "We shall overcome," is his anthem.

His movement is in the streets, the courts, the halls of Congress. It touches schools and employment practices, a seat at a lunch counter and a home in a better neighborhood, the right to worship in any church, the right to sit in any public park and to read a book in any public library—in short, the rights of an American citizen and access to equal opportunity.

Starting as nonviolent, his campaign has engendered violence. The blood of both races has been spilled. No one can say whether more will flow, or where, or how much.

IN A MINORITY

We will advise our people not to use violence," said Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, at a news conference in Jackson, Miss. "The Negro can't win in a pitched battle with the whites. He's in the minority."

But can the Negro leaders control their followers, everywhere and at all times? Who, for example, speaks for Harlem, the giant Negro community in New York City? "How can anyone ask me to be nonviolent?" said a Negro war veteran. "That's like putting me back in the line in Korea and loading my rifle with blanks."

Violence begets violence and the possibility of a white counter-reaction has been noted by many observers. "If that happens," said Hodding Carter, editor of the Greenville, Miss., Delta-Democrat, "all hell will break loose." The hour seems late. Is it one minute to 12 now? If so, what raced the hands of the clock? The story is soon told.

TRUMAN'S ORDER

After World War II, the first important federal government action in race relations came when President Truman ordered the end of segregation in the armed forces. He also asked Congress for strong make a point to attend the funeral, so why not make it a gathering without a death.

Our reunion has certainly been a success and every year it gets better. Our parents raised us in a religious home and one point they stressed in our teaching was, "loving thy brother and sister." We know this would be pleasing to our parents and also feel it is pleasing in the sight of God.

It is our prayer every year that we might all meet from various points over the U. S. without a tragedy on the highways or on our camp grounds while we meet together. We have thus far been so blessed.

From the eight children there are five different denominations of religion, and though we do not have any religious ceremonies at our meeting, we are sure that prayers are in the hearts of all that God is with us.

When we part on Sunday it is with mixed emotions of happiness and sadness and of blessings and memories that will be held until civil rights legislation. It was not granted.

During President Eisenhower's second administration, Congress enacted civil rights bills in 1957 and 1960. Using these laws, the administration filed 10 suits on behalf of Negroes' voting rights in the South.

The historic year, however, in the long and anguished struggle over civil rights was 1954. The U.S. Supreme Court struck down, as unconstitutional, the doctrine of "separate-but-equal" in public schools. Segregation had been a legal fact for 58 years, based on a decision of the Supreme Court in 1896. Now, the court-ordered schools to be desegregated "with all deliberate speed."

Negroes and their white sympathizers exulted.

Mo violence exploded in Southern and border states.

LITTLE ROCK

A climactic point of this stage was Little Rock, Ark. The year was 1957. Exactly 80 years after the end of the reconstruction in the South, federal troops marched into a Southern city again. They used bayonets to disperse crowds around Central High School. And they escorted Negro children into classrooms.

Elsewhere in the South, however, the barriers remained. Oxford, Miss., and Tuscaloosa, Ala., were still to come.

At Oxford, two men died and scores were injured when a Negro, James H. Meredith, enrolled in the University of Mississippi. Again, federal troops marched, bivouacking on the campus. At Tuscaloosa, Gov. George C. Wallace stood in the doorway of a University of Alabama building when Justice Department officials attempted to enroll two Negroes, Vivian Malone and James Hood. A few hours later, he stepped aside when federalized units of the National Guard marched onto the campus. There was no violence.

NEGRO PUPILS

Today, nearly 10 years after the Supreme Court decision, figures compiled by the Southern Education Reporting Service indicate that about 257,000 Negro children are attending public elementary and high schools with white students in 17 Southern and border states and the District of Columbia.

Negro leaders say this is about 8 per cent of the school-age total. Apart from the schools, new sectors opened in the fight for civil rights.

In 1955 and 1956, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, headed by the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., boycotted segregated bus lines in Montgomery, Ala. They won.

The Justice Department has as-we can all meet again. We are happy to be together and sad that we are parting; it's over too soon. So you can see we feel thankful and want to give our thanks to the All-Mighty for our safe and joyous meeting.

I also want to encourage others to organize family reunions, if you want a week to remember, it would be the highlight of the year, as it is for all of us.

Those from Muleshoe who attended the reunion were J. L. Thomas, Ira H. Thomas, and Leatha West. Those from Norman, Okla., were Earl Thomas, Elbert Thomas, and Ellen Caldwell. The other two were Lawson Thomas, Omaha, Nebraska; and Alma Thomas, Oklahoma City, Okla.

sisted. Since 1961, it has filed 29 suits against officials for refusing to register qualified Negroes. About 50 per cent of these suits have been won.

The Southern Regional Council estimates there are 5,045,000 Negroes of voting age in 11 Southern and border states. About one-fourth, some 1,344,000, are registered.

MANY TACTICS

Many tactics have been used to discourage Negroes from registering — gerrymandering, intimidation, widely-spaced meetings of registration boards, throwing out Negro applications on technicalities.

In all probability, another factor has played a part in the Negro drive for equality, a subtle, unmeasurable factor—the new African nations.

The American Negro has seen African heads of state being received in the White House — and getting the red carpet treatment from Soviet Premier Khrushchev and other powerful leaders. He has seen African diplomats speaking from the rostrum of the United Nations.

This has been a source of pride and encouragement.

But it also is a two-edged sword. "An African in a robe and turban can go into a restaurant or a hotel where I can't go," said a Negro public relations man in Washington. "How silly can segregation be? How do you think this makes me feel?"

Then came another catalyst—Birmingham.

BIRMINGHAM DRAMA

For some reason, Birmingham appears to have dramatized the Negro struggle more than any other incident. "Birmingham engineered the revolution that began in the spring of 1963," Martin Ochs, editor of the Chattanooga Times, said in a recent speech at the University of Wisconsin.

Fear of violence and economic trouble has fostered a "mood of reconciliation" toward racial integration in the south, Ochs said.

In the North, Negro demands focus mainly on jobs and housing. Negro unemployment is high, more than double white unemployment. Labor unions have been accused of discriminating against Negroes. Negro leaders are demanding that a certain quota of Negroes shall be employed on given projects, and even in restaurants.

In New York City, to dramatize these and other demands, Negroes entered the offices of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and stayed for days in a sit-in. They staged another in the City Hall.

GROUPS UNITE

Another recent development has been a unifying move among seven Negro organizations, some of which had been sniping at each other. They were the NAACP, CORE, SCLC, "SNICK," the National Urban League, the National Council of Negro Women, and the Legal Defense and Education Fund of the NAACP, a separately incorporated organization.

The coalition takes the name Council for United Civil Rights Leadership.

Distinctly separate from these groups are the Black Muslims. They demand, not integration, but total segregation on their own terms. They want the federal government to set aside territory in which they propose to set up a Negro state.

In the vast, complicated and potentially dangerous picture of the racial struggle today, what are the positive sides? The principal ones would seem to be these:

To a greater degree than ever before, the problem is out in the open. More people, especially in the North but in the South, too, are aware of the intricacies and the injustices. More are thinking about it, seeking solutions.

Some degree of communication between the races is being restored in the South. Communications, Southerners say, generally tended to break down after the Supreme Court decision on the schools in 1954. Now, fitfully and with difficulty, Negroes and whites in some parts of the South are sitting down together again. One Southern newspaper publisher called such a meeting in his own plant — and deliberately placed the conference table where it could be seen through the window from the sidewalk.

HEADED BY JOHNSON

President Kennedy, in conferences with scores of Southern businessmen, clergymen and others, has sought means to desegregate many establishments. He set up a presidential committee on equal job opportunity, replacing two other such committees of the Eisenhower administration. It is headed by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Congress is hearing testimony on the President's package of civil rights legislation. On June 11, he asked Congress to "make a commitment it has not fully made in this century to the proposition that race has no place in American life or law." Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy told the House Judiciary Committee. "This bill before you today embodies that commitment."

While the Negroes are crying for rights, a Negro lawyer, Cora T. Walker, is making speeches sharply reminding them of their responsibilities.

Nearly 72 years ago, on Aug. 19, 1881, the New York Mail & Express published a pathetic little item. It said some Negro clergymen had met to discuss means of obtaining "better opportunities" for their people.

Today, the Negro drive is for fully equal opportunity, for everything America offers every citizen.

national beliefs, not exactly in keeping with their particular church's doctrines.

Waving at Nelda Merriott, back atop the roof of her house, sitting on a roof. (Never have been a town where everybody can see everything like in Muleshoe.)

Chatting with J. K. Adams, county agent and midge hunter. (Incidentally he finally managed to find some around West Camp.) We discuss colleges and their various merits. He has two kids who will be college-bound before too many years.

Sitting down with Mel Evans for a cup of coffee and asking how things are going down at the refuge which he manages. Later going to the refuge for a watermelon feast with Methodist Men and friend wives. Mel saying that many of the animals and insects which we consider bad are really blessings in disguise. That even goes for the coyote.

And the Church on Sunday, and visiting in the narthex afterward with scores of people. Visiting in the narthex, I think, is one of the great fellowship privileges of church attendance. Feel sorry for folks who are so eager to get to work on their Sunday roast that they don't have time for a bit of visiting after preaching services. Walking to church, incidentally, and having two or three persons stop and offer me a ride. Real small town hospitality.

Visiting over the fence with the neighbors, the J. E. McVickers. City Manager Albert Field out rounding up his kids, stopping by for a visit, talking about his recent vacation in California, visiting the wife's people. And the Field girls proudly showing off some Dutch clogs which they brought back as souvenirs of California — Dutch shoes, made in Japan, probably, and sold in California.

Dropping into a lumber yard for some board, which they agree to cut for me to specifications, my saw being on the dull side. Again small town hospitality.

Well, those are some of the things that go into the making of a small town. They are good things, all of them. I could go on for a long time, telling what life is like in the small town. Key word is friendliness. Muleshoe is that kind of a town. Most of the people live well, the friendly way.

However, he, the said Karl L. Lovelady, did not pay or remit to Montgomery Ward that portion of the amount of money collected from the said Frank L. Stegall despite repeated demands from Montgomery Ward for payment. . . . Said judgment was obtained on March 30, 1941, and was released on March 24, 1958, but payment to Montgomery Ward was not made by . . . Lovelady, but was finally made on Sept. 28, 1962, by one S. E. Lovelady in district court of Lamb county. . . . On March 9, 1957, in said cause there came on to be heard the defendant's motion for summary judgment to which had been filed in the papers of the cause and which motion was based upon the fact that the plaintiff's original petition which was prepared, signed and filed by . . . Lovelady, showed on its face that the said cause of action therein set out was barred by the statute of limitations of two years Said motion for summary judgment was granted and an order entered on March 15, 1957, by the district court of Lamb county, . . . to the effect that the plaintiff, the client of the said . . . Lovelady take nothing by the suit and that the defendant go hence with his costs without delay and that execution issue in behalf of the defendant for his costs.

(An informative opinion) DRIVING TEENAGE STYLE

Dallas, thinks the 8,000 traffic tickets issued to 1,716 Dallas drivers under 17 during the last 18 months is disgraceful. It is to be sure, Mrs. Elizabeth Blessing, of the city council, urges the adoption of a "parent-responsibility law" to curb violations by teenagers. Under the present state law, the main remedy is to turn the juveniles over to their parents. In too many cases, parents do nothing and the violations continue. There is a better answer. During the past few months most everywhere I've been in our town I lool up and there is a brown automobile with teenagers and one adult. This is "High School Driver Education." Fund to help us sell this to the community so all the benefits we know are possible will result."

As an introduction to his letter, Bobo said, "now that the difficult decision is made to have a United Fund in Muleshoe this year, we must proceed as rapidly as possible. We need to make this organization a reality in the immediate future."

The possibility of a United Fund drive has been under consideration for several years, but this is the first time an actual United Fund campaign has been decided for Muleshoe. . . . At the August 20 meeting, one of the important committees to be set up will be the budget and admissions group which will decide the amount to be sought in the overall campaign and the organizations will receive funds through the United Fund, it was pointed out.

FRANKLY SPEAKING

By REV. J. FRANK PEERY

June. Not all teenagers are bad drivers. However, numerous studies from over the nation show that drivers who have completed driver-education courses in high school have only half as many accidents and offenses as untrained or home-trained drivers of the same age group.

Our school system is to be commended for having this course available. It must be said that completion of the driver course does not guarantee freedom from accident or traffic violation but it goes many a mile in creating and developing safe-driving attitudes and skills.

"Action Program for Highway Safety," sponsored by President Kennedy's Committee for Traffic Safety recommends among many things that:

- 1. Driver education should be made available to any student in public and private secondary school systems.
- 2. Facilities for public school driver education should be made available for year-round driver training program for youth.
- 3. Youth serving agencies and organizations should explore means for providing traffic safety education and other related skills for youth.

Frankly Speaking—I personally know three kids, two redheads and a blonde who are already pre-enrolled in the high school driver education course. I doubt that they will touch the wheel of a car until they have completed the course and then some. I only wish my wife could have taken the course — or that I had, so I could have been a better teacher!

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm must need a rain, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor:

According to an article I ran across in a newspaper which a dry August wind blew across my front screen door and which I pulled off as fast as I could because it was stopping what breeze there was, a scientist claims that rain-making is now within the reach of man but before he goes any further we've got to have a sort of Rain Commission to decide where and when a rain should be produced, for legal protection.

Regardless of how dry it is in any given spot, he said, some farmer can always be found who doesn't want it to rain at this particular moment, he's still got a crop he's gathering and next week would be a better time.

Therefore, he claims, we need a National Rain Commission to decide when the majority need a rain, then turn it on, regardless.

This seems to me to be just another example of needless government spending. There's no need to set up a government bureau, I can handle this job on my own. It's a job for private enterprise.

If the government will stick to drought relief and turn all the rain over to me, and let me make a nominal charge, I will contract to make it rain everywhere. The secret is to take in enough area. It's volume that counts.

My charge would be one cent per acre for every acre that gets as much as one inch, and where's the farmer needing a rain who wouldn't pay a penny an acre for an inch?

I might not be able to please everybody, even a President can't do that, but I doubt if a week would go by when I didn't produce rain somewhere in the United States. Oh I know there'd be soreheads in drought areas complaining I was neglecting them, but sooner or later in any area where it has rained before, I could make it rain again. This is a big country and no man could be expected to get around to everybody every week. It's like tax relief, it takes time.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Vern Sanford TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Texas Youth Council's parole division will triple in the next six months or so. But the problem of trying to help "reform school" graduates become useful citizens is still great. Until September 1, five state parole officers are responsible for some 1,800 juvenile parolees spread out over 169 counties. That is a ratio of one parole officer to about 357 parolees, compared to national standards of one officer to 40 parolees. Staff will increase to 16 on September 1 — a ratio of one to 178. On March 1, 1964, when five more are added, ratio will be down to one parole officer to 119 parolees, spread over the Lone Star State. Biggest number of parolees is centered in big cities where the general rate of crime is always higher. More than a third of the paroled children are in Dallas, Harris and Bexar counties; another 288 in El Paso, Jefferson, Tarrant and Travis counties. About 154 are in Nueces, McLennan, Bell and Lubbock counties. But sizeable juvenile parole populations are centered in smaller counties, such as Cameron, Gray-of insurance. Some insurance company executives insisted the ceiling should be no more than 60 or 65 cents per $100. But one spokesman though the 90-cent per $100 rate was too low and recommended $1. Some loan companies said they now give credit insurance free. They feared the proposed rules might outlaw this practice. A second hearing with new proposed rules will be aired on September 10. MONEY MEN The Legislative Budget Board, lawmakers who make the Legislature's financial decisions between sessions, recommended $644,000 worth of state building to Gov. John Connally. Plans approved included one by the State Hospitals Board to equip a genetics lab and follow-up clinic on mental retardation in the State Psychiatric Institute at Houston; new dormitories for Gatesville School for Boys, Gainesville School for Girls and Crockett School for Negro Girls; and several prison system units. Authorization was recommended for $25,600 worth of partitioning to provide 23 new offices in Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr's department. But the board balked at Texas A&M University's request to spend some $100,000 on a home—exclusive of land and furnishings—for A&M President Earl Rudder, to replace the one destroyed by fire. A compromise recommendation of about $60,000 for a 4,500 square-foot home was the outcome. CITIES GROWTH FORMULA—About 200 city attorneys, city engineers and city councilmen gathered in Austin to hear a Texas

Keeler's Reward

Christine Keeler, the character who managed to lead a number of men astray, has — according to reliable estimates — now amassed something like $130,000 for her magazine story rights, a film, a newspaper serialization, and other rights. She is not charged anything by the police or law enforcement officials. On the contrary, she has assumed the pose of a celebrity, has opened new business ventures to capitalize on her "accomplishments" and seems to be on the way to fame and fortune. One of the men she lured has seen his career and reputation shattered, his future which was one of the brightest in Great Britain, badly impaired, and his social position wrecked. He lost his job, his royal privileges and his future — perhaps much of his happiness and well being. What kind of society is it, in which we live, that can so reward a character like Christine Keeler and so destroy men whom she lured into the trap? Way should she, who is primarily the cause of it all, become a celebrity of a sort, riding to riches on her deeds, while victims are so shattered? What a sad commentary it is on what people want to read, and what they want to see, that such a person becomes wealthy by such conduct while others, with whom she is at least equally guilty must pay the price! How repugnant it is to see the process in action, and hear so much about the Keeler financial rewards!

AUSTIN—About this time each year, thousands of Texas mothers suddenly realize that only a few more weeks remain until school begins. For those mothers who have for the first time this September the excitement is beginning to rise—and for mothers with no older children, a little bewilderment accompanies the excitement. Smart mothers have already had their child fully examined by a physician, as well as a dentist. Also the beginning-school child should have his hearing and eyes checked for any abnormality so that correction or glasses can be accomplished well in advance of school time. Also, for children just starting school, there is the problem of clothes, adjusting to new friends, discipline and surroundings. A thousand-and-one details crowd in on the parents. One detail often overlooked until the last minute is the need for a birth certificate for first-time students. Most school districts require proof-of-age for beginning students. Smart mothers send for their certificate copies early to avoid the rush of late August requests which pour into county clerks' offices as well as the State Health Department's Records and Statistics Section. Certified copies may usually be obtained from local county clerks and local registrars for a slight fee. If unable to obtain a copy locally, a request should be made to the State Health Department as early as possible. The State fee, established by law, is one dollar and fifty cents ($1.50). Most important aid for speedy service — aside from getting requests in early—is complete and correct information. Parents should include the child's name, his place of birth, date of birth, and the parents' name—including the mother's maiden name. A special corps of summer "searchers" who seek out the proper birth certificate from a special "school" index permits quick service even during the burden of late August requests. However, a week to 10 days should be allowed for mailing time and servicing. When mother gets the certified copy of Johnny's birth record she will have nothing to but get his clothes ready, have his teeth checked, see about his vaccination record, arrange car pools. . . . WASHINGTON NEWSLETTER FROM SENATOR JOHN TOWER

Committees Banking and Currency Labor and Public Welfare

The Congress continued to act in its usual desultory pace this past week. Actually the Congress isn't doing too much. Most of our major legislation is currently bottled up in committees, the House or Senate. This Congress has been referred to as the "stand still" Congress because very few bills of any major importance have passed both Houses of the Congress this session.

It looks very much like the bulk of the President's program is in serious trouble. I doubt very seriously if more than a fraction of the proposals sent down to Capital Hill from the White House will get action in this session of the Congress. Of course, one of the things that slows the pace of Congress, is the fact that two of the issues that we are compelled to handle now are highly controversial. I speak primarily of the legislation that has to do with the compulsory arbitration of the current rail dispute which will dissolve into a strike at the end of this month if some Congressional legislation is not passed. 2. The civil rights legislation which is currently being considered by the commerce committee.

It seems unlikely that any major legislation is going to be acted on until we are compelled to consider, as a result of Committee action, the civil rights legislation which the President has recommended. I have already discussed civil rights legislation with you and won't go into that now, but I did want to illustrate the reason for the slowness of this session. Of course, there is a great deal of reaction against the civil rights legislation of the President. Most of the southern senators are very much opposed to it, and the committee hearings are being dragged out and will be quite extensive.

For my own part, I have been confronted primarily this week with labor legislation, primarily with farm legislation. By the time you hear this report, the Senate will have already acted on a bill which would extend the life of Public Law 78 for another year. Public Law 78 is the law under which we admit Mexican Bracero laborers to work on our farms in Texas and, indeed, in other states throughout the Southwest.

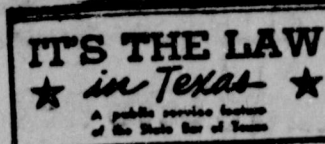

I personally favor the extension of Public Law 78 because I believe we need this source of farm labor. There is substantial opposition to it. The issue, I would say, right now is marginal, but you should know by this time how the issue has been resolved by the Senate. The extension of Public Law 78 has already been rejected by the House of Representatives, but if this bill is passed by the Senate, the House of Representatives will have another opportunity to pass on the life of Public Law 78. Being considered now in Migratory labor subcommittee, in which I am the ranking minority member, is a bill known as S. 527. S. 527 is a bill that deals with the domestic migratory farm laborers.

This bill as it is currently written would have the effect I think, of virtually nationalizing farm labor under the Secretary of Labor. The Secretary of Labor would have a great deal of discretion in how to administer farm labor problems.

He would be in power to recruit farm laborers, in effect, it would be virtually the national unionization of farm labor. He would have the power to determine whether or not there was adequate permanent residential farm labor they could use these domestic migrants.

I oppose this bill as do all farmers or I would say most of the farmers in our state. The cattlemen in our state are opposed to it. I think it would give Secretary of Labor too much power over farm labor. It is a bad piece of legislation, and it should be defeated. I imagine the subcommittee will complete action on it soon, and it will go to full committee and ultimately to the Senate floor.

MISTAKE AND FRAUD When you get the short end of a deal you may feel inclined to claim mistake or fraud to get out of the contract.

But courts are not inclined to correct your business mistakes unless they also find serious injustices. For to charge the other party with fraud is serious since fraud is a crime as well as a civil cause of action.

Our courts, therefore, demand more proof than usual in civil cases where one sues to get out of a contract on the grounds of fraud.

Suppose Smith and Black agree to do something in clear language, but Smith does not grasp the terms of a plain contract. This failure of Smith will not void the contract and our courts will complete action on it soon, and it will go to full committee and ultimately to the Senate floor.

will enforce its terms. But suppose instead Black well knew that Smith had made a mistake, and he still didn't explain it to Smith. Then if this can be proved, Black may have trouble enforcing his contract.

Both parties often make a mistake which may void the deal. In one case Raffles agreed to buy and Smith to sell goods arriving on a ship named the "Peerless." But it just so happened that two steamers had the same name. Raffles and Smith had in mind different steamers. No contract. Why? No meeting of the minds.

To induce the other party to agree through fraud makes the contract void. For a court to act in a fraud case one must prove five things:

(1) A false representation; (2) The speaker's knowledge of its falsity; (3) His intention to mislead the other party;

(4) The other's innocent reliance on the statement; and (5) Damage resulting from the deception.

Bailey County was well represented at the District II Dress Revue. Despite stiff competition both of the Bailey County representatives brought home Red Ribbons from the Lubbock meet last Tuesday.

Joyce Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Adams, was escorted by her brother Joe, as the narrator told the audience how now Joyce could wear her dress aboard a luxury liner to Hawaii.

Jill Wheeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wheeler, modeled her dress, as the narrator suggested that her outfit would be appropriate for sightseeing on Hawaii.

NOT HAWAII BUT TEXAS — Surfing is catching on as a sport along the Texas coast and here Patrice Ann Antonelli of Houston learns to balance on a surf board on Galveston Beach. The best time to try surfing is when the tide is high and the waves are running good. It looks easy but it takes a sense of balance and timing to stay on the 10-foot long boards. (AP Photo)
