Ray's 'Ritin'

By RAY MARTIN

"For obvious reasons," writes H. T., "I can't afford for you to use my real name on this letter, so please just put it 'H. T.' and then I won't be murdered." (And those aren't even his initials, I hasten to explain, Ed.)

"But school will be opening in a few days, and how I dread it! It's not the work that bothers me, but it's the modern trend-no manners. I'll be greeted by several score of ill-mannered, yapping (always yapping!) boys and girls who won't even know the basic meaning of good manners," his letter says. "Of course there will be exceptions, but they will be the introverts, and I'll never know whether they actually have manners or whether they are just shy that manners—good or bad—won't show anyway."

"This is the age of poor manners. Actually I can't blame them for their poor manners; their parents have horrible manners, too, so how could little Joe or Sally know anything about manners? Mama and Papa scream at each other with demands and orders that sound like a holdover from the slave days. That's the modern trend. 'Get me this,' and 'Get me that.' As you once said in your column, the word 'please' seems to be obsolete, although I think it is still listed in the dictionary. But just wait until a new edition comes out and the word 'please' will have a little note after it" (obs).

And H. T. goes on with a few theories of his own. "I think," he continues, "that the present mess we are in is due to the lack of any good manners. Good manners are simply part of the Golden Rule, and without the Golden Rule, of course, there is no need for manners."

"And without the Golden Rule, there is no respect for anybody or anything. Authority means nothing to many people these days. Most people, for example, drive with one eye on the rear view mirror; if they can beat the speed limit without getting caught, well and good, and if they get caught, the patrolman was a meanie. That's the attitude these days. In fact I know one man who has his teenage son watch for hidden patrolmen while he revs up the old engine to 90 to 100 mph. No wonder Junior has so little respect for laws and for authority!"

"Three minutes after I meet my pupils for each class, they will be speaking of me as 'old man'—. If I attempt to enforce discipline and keep them from the constant shooting-off - their - big-mouths, I will be a meanie. Again, the parents are to blame for never stopping for one moment the constant flow of words coming from their offspring's mouths. Not too long ago we were invited over to a friend's house for a visit. And do you know what the hostess said when she was inviting us? She said, 'wait until after 9 o'clock so the kids will be in bed. We would never be able to talk with them still around—they just monopolize the conversation, bless their little pointed heads!'"

And here is another observation he made: "I think lots of the lack of manners these days come from television which the kids watch constantly when they are not actually talking themselves. TV has notoriously bad manners. In fact, I believe the mannerless orders which TV characters give to their underlings in the show are as bad as the mannerless commands of the modern parents. Take the quiz shows, for example: Frequently the contestants are seated and when one of them is eliminated, a man reaches over and shakes hands with his retiring female opponent. The reason for this horrible breach of manners is obvious: The man must stay 'on camera' and thus cannot rise to shake hands with the woman. Good manners are sacrificed for the benefit of the cameraman."

"There is one exception, however, and I believe this is the only exception in modern quiz shows: 'What's My Line' still has the men to rise before shaking hands with either another man or a woman. And the host, John Dailey, has superb manners a diamond among lumps of coal as compared with most TV hosts."

"But, as I was saying, with such horrible examples as most TV shows, it is small wonder that

First Appraisals on 84 Widening Are Completed

Tedious process of widening Killer 84 between Muleshoe and the Parmer county line, moved a slow step nearer actual construction work this week when the county-hired appraiser, Dan MacNaughton, filed the first of 73 appraisals he must file between now and September 15.

At the first of the week, he had filed 13 appraisals covering as many tracts of land. But he told County Judge Glen Williams that "appraisals will be coming in fast now," and he foresaw an early completion to the three-months' task of appraisal. MacNaughton is a professional appraiser from Plainview.

MacNaughton has covered all the tracts, involving 65 landowners, and has just about completed all his estimates.

Next step, after the appraisals are completed and have been accepted by the State Highway Department in Austin, will be the naming of a negotiator to contact the land owners along the strip. He will be the person who actually makes the offers to the landowners, based on a ceiling set by the appraiser's figure, and the deal will be consummated, and the state will pay half and the county half of the costs. If, however, the landowner asks more for his land than the appraiser's file shows the land is worth, two courses are open; either the county can pay its half, plus the additional amount asked by the landowner, or the entire matter can be taken into court. If the court finds that the owner is justified in the additional asking price, then the state and the county again will share equally.

Meantime, from Farwell came word that construction is to begin within two weeks on the widening of U. S. highway 84-70 from the Bailey county line to Farwell, and the contractor has set July 1, 1964, as the tentative completion date for the new four-lane highway.

Surveying by employees of the State Highway Department has been underway for some time, and the contractor is expected to move into the county by September 1, to begin grading and construction of structures.

Plans call for constructing two new additional lanes, and routing traffic over the old road before the present two-lane highway is rebuilt. "We expect to have the first two-lane section completed by the middle of the winter," said James Kerr, contractor, at a pre-construction meeting at Farwell Monday.

Attending the recent pre-construction meeting in addition to Kerr were O. L. Crain, district engineer with the State Highway Department, Lubbock; P. H. Bradley, resident engineer, Littlefield; County Judge Loyde Brewer, Lloyd Killough, Bovina.

Grade Enrolment Set for Friday

Muleshoe school buses will roll tomorrow for the first time this year when pupils from the first through the eighth grade enrol, Superintendent Neal Dillman has announced.

Elementary and junior high registration is slated to start at 8:30 Friday morning, ending at noon. School opens next Monday, Sept. 2.

Meantime, school officials again pointed to the fact that a child entering the first grade for the first time must present a birth certificate and also a signed statement from the doctor that the child has had a smallpox vaccination and has been inoculated for polio, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough.

The school said a baptismal certificate will be accepted temporarily to permit enrolling while the official birth certificate is being procured.

Another policy statement said if the child is in the process of taking his shots, this evidence will be accepted at enrolment time, provided the complete series of inoculations is done within a reasonable time.

The board's statement also pointed out that parents who are unable to pay for the vaccinations may take children to the West Plains hospital and shots will be given free of charge. The forms may be secured at the superintendent's office for use by all physicians.

The board's statement concluded: "Heretofore we have been lenient about giving extra time to get the shots, but this year and in the future, each beginner must have this requirement fulfilled or we will not enrol the child in school."

Luncheon to Honor Muleshoe Teachers

Muleshoe civic clubs and the chamber of commerce will honor Muleshoe's 100 school teachers today at a luncheon at the senior high school cafeteria, Bobby Airhart, Chamber president, announced.

Co-sponsoring the event with the Chamber of Commerce will be the Rotary Club, Lions Club and Muleshoe Jaycees. Roy Davis, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, will be master of ceremonies.

Speaker will be Dr. Paige Caruth, assistant dean of men at West Texas State University, Canyon, a native of the Texas Panhandle who has gained considerable fame for his dynamic talks throughout this area on education and educational trends.

Dr. Caruth has a bachelor's and master's degrees from West Texas State and he received his doctorate in education administration from Texas Tech.

For three years he was a teacher in the Kermit school. He's married, has three boys and a girl, and is president of the Amarillo unit of Phi Delta Kappa, an educational fraternity. He also is a member of the Rotary club.

Members of the committee from the Chamber are Lyndall Murray, chairman; Superintendent of Schools Neal Dillman; John Smith, school board president; Wayne Holcomb and Pat Glover.

All teachers in the system, including especially the new teachers, will be introduced, and gift kits will be presented each teacher or which will include local firms' advertising novelties and mementos.

3 Plead Guilty To Check Charges

Three persons have pleaded guilty in county court in separate charges of giving worthless checks, the county-district court blotter revealed Wednesday.

All were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Joe Vaughn who was sitting in for County Judge Glen Williams.

Arthur Wilkins pleaded guilty and was given 30 days and costs. O. C. Hall also pleaded guilty to giving a worthless check and was fined $39 and costs, and Mervil L. King pleaded guilty and was assessed a fine of $21.72 and costs.

Chamber to Survey Industrial Sites

Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce's industrial survey commission made plans at its meeting Wednesday morning for a survey, designed to locate all prospective industrial sites in this area.

The meeting was presided over by Jim Jennings, chairman.

A Park's a Chilly Place at 2 o'clock in the Morning

Some nights a sheriff doesn't get too much sleep.

Two Bailey county girls ran away from home Sunday—for a while.

The two girls, 12 and 14 years of age, left home at 9:30 Sunday night; at 2:30 Monday morning they were back in their own homes.

For the 12-year-old, it was not too happy an experience: she was tearful at 2 a.m. She didn't believe this business of running away from home was all it was cracked up to be.

The two wound up in the city park here at 2 a.m. They were with a couple of boys around 19-or maybe 20, 21. The boys met the girls and they sat in the park talking at 2 o'clock in the morning.

The girls' parents notified the sheriff that the girls were missing. He went hunting for the girls.

That's how Sheriff Dee Clements came to find them at 2 o'clock in the morning, sitting in the park, talking with two boys. The young girl cried. The older one didn't. But they both went along with the sheriff, back to their homes.

The sheriff told the two boys to wait right there in the park until he got back. He told them he was going to talk with the girls' families.

The boys were afraid to leave. They stayed and waited until the sheriff returned, with the 12-year-old girl's father who proceeded to tell the boys a few things.

The boys scampered away. The girl's father went home. Sheriff Dee Clements went home too and went to bed.

That's the way it happens sometimes at 2 o'clock in the morning when you are sheriff.

Pistol-Totin' Papa Pays $300 For Privilege

All this trouble wouldn't have happened if his family and her family would let them alone.

That's what a Negro man told County Judge Glen Williams Monday when the Negro was arraigned before the judge on a charge of carrying a pistol.

The man had been arrested earlier Monday by City Police Chief Carl Neely. He was brought before the judge that afternoon and told he could plead guilty or he could plead not guilty, and he was entitled to legal counsel, a trial by jury and all that if he wanted it.

The defendant waived trial, said he was ready to plead. Judge Williams asked for the particulars, and the police chief said he had received a call that a family-type fight was going on. He went to the fight and found the defendant.

Amarillo Man Wins Golf Tourney Here

Coming from behind for a story book finish, David Bonner, Amarillo, copped the top prize at Muleshoe Country Club's seventh invitational tournament Sunday.

Until the final round, Russell Haberer, the tourney medalist, had led, and Sunday morning had rolled up an impressive lead with a six-under-par 66 practically; to clinch the top honor.

Haberer was leading his closest opponent, Bonner, by five strokes when the championship flight gathered at the No. 1 tee for the final 18 holes. It was at that point that Haberer's game went to pieces. He blasted to five bogeys and three double bogeys to wind up with an 83-11 over par. Bonner had gone three over with a 75, but still won the tournament by two shots over runner-up Keith Jorde, Hereford. Haberer finished in third place.

Bonner's two round total was 146, two-over, and Jorde had a 148. Haberer wound up with a 149 for third place.

Russell's slow-up was an ironic twist for the tournament. He had copped the tourney medal with a 67, then turned in the brilliant 66 Sunday morning in a meet that saw par come with little more frequency than you'd expect an eagle.

The Muleshoe farmer took out opponents with remarkable ease during the Friday and Saturday rounds of match play.

And Sunday morning in the semi-finals, he fired seven birdies in compiling his 66. On the front nine of the semi-finals match, Haberer carded a four-under 32. Bonner was one-under in the semi-finals round, carding a 71.

Another Liquor Raid Nets Beer

A third liquor raid in as many weeks netted another supply of beer Sunday afternoon and left J. M. Stewart, a Muleshoe Negro, charged with possession of liquor for sale in dry territory.

The Sunday raid netted 17 bottles and cans of beer, all of it taken from Stewart's cafe. The raid was staged by city and county officers.

Arraigned before County Judge Glen Williams, Stewart pleaded guilty and was assessed a $100 fine, plus $26.85 in costs.

Pouncey is Named CC Paper's Editor

Carroll Pouncey, former manager of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce, was named editor of the Chamber of Commerce Executive Association's paper of West Texas at their annual meeting in Plainview last week, attended by the present Chamber manager, Roy Davis. Pouncey is now director of tourist and travel division of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce.

Davis is a member of the board of directors of the West Texas organization.

The Plainview meeting was highlighted by presentation of Manager of the Year award to E. O. Wedgeworth, who has been manager of the Pampa Chamber for 18 years.

The meeting was held in the Congress Inn at Plainview.

President of the Texas Farmers Union, Jay Naman, will be in this area next week for the first of four West Texas meetings, it was announced Wednesday by Leon Smith, Jr., of the Farmer County Farmers Union, past president of that county group.

Naman will speak at an ice-cream supper next Monday night, starting at 8 p.m. at Hub community center.

Smith said the supper is free but those in attendance are requested to bring a card table if interested in playing dominoes or cards.

He said the meeting—and the ice cream party—will be a family affair.

The following day—Tuesday Sept. 3, he will speak to a four-county rally (Randall, Armstrong, Potter and Carson) at a picnic supper at Tascosa high school cafeteria in Amarillo. The occasion will be the charter presentation for the Randall county group.

Thursday, Sept. 5, Naman will speak at the Crosby county annual meeting in the Pioneer Memorial building at Crosbyton when Alex Dickie, former Texas president of Farmers Union, also will speak. Dickie is now administrative assistant to Sen. Ralph Yarborough.

The West Texas series will conclude Friday, Sept. 6 with a 10 a.m. coffee meeting of the Yoakum County Farmers Union in the club room of the courthouse at Plains.

Rotary's Program Carried on Despite Language Difference, Area Head Says

Addressing the local Rotary club Tuesday, J.M. (Jimmy) Willson, Jr., Rotary governor of this area, linked Muleshoe Rotarians with more than a half million other business and professional men who belong to Rotary clubs in communities around the world.

"Rotary clubs are functioning in more than 11,500 communities in 129 countries," he said, "and despite the diversity of their languages, customs, and political and religious beliefs, they are working toward such mutually desired goals as community betterment, the promotion of high standards in business, and the advancement of world understanding."

Willson, a building supply merchant in Floydada, was in Muleshoe, making his official visit to the Rotary Club, one of the 45 in his district.

Ring Service is Read in Local Church

In a double ring ceremony read at 6 p.m. Monday, August 26 Miss Judy Kaye Thompson became the bride of Cecil Darv Hollis. The bride's father officiated for the service at the Church of Christ.

The bride is a graduate of Nederland High School and attended Abilene Christian College one year. The groom is a graduate of Lakeview High School of Rossville, Ga.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Thompson, 30 West 9th Street and Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Hollis, 104 Shelby Street, Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

Given in marriage by her brother, John, the bride wore a floor-length gown of silk organza featuring a bodice of Chantilly lace designed with a scalloped neckline and elbow length sleeves. The full skirt is highlighted with sprays of lace appliques. Small lace covered buttons extended from the neckline to the waist. A queen's crown of seed pearls and aurora crystals held her shoulder-length tiered veil of imported silk illusion. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses on a white ribbon.

Miss Beth Thompson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were: Cheryl Buffington, cousin of the bride; Carolyn Tadlock, college roommate of the bride; and Becky Hollis, sister of the groom. They carried single long-stemmed white roses and wore street-length dresses of petal pink brocade with scalloped necklines and sleeves and fitted bodices with full skirts. They wore petal pink veiled hats accented with pearls.

C. M. Hollis, father of the groom served as best man. Groomsmen were: Mike Capshaw, El Dorado, Ark.; Ronnie Anders, Baton Rouge, La.; and John Wayne Tuttle, Tulsa.

Rodney Blackwood and Don Lyles, Fort Worth, were ushers. Lana Wagon, flower girl, wore a petal pink dress with an overskirt accented with roses. The ring bearer was Stevie Whittington, Roscoe. He carried a white satin pillow trimmed in lace. The groom sang, "I Love You Truly," as a solo and the bride sang "I Pledge My Love." At the close of the ceremony, the bride and groom sang in unison, "The Wedding Prayer." Other music was by recording with the voices of the Acappella Chorus from Abilene Christian College.

A reception followed the ceremony in the home of the bride's parents.

For a wedding trip to Georgia and Tennessee, the bride wore a pale yellow suit with a wedding ring neckline and fitted bodice.

Her accessories were beige. She added a corsage of roses from the bridal bouquet.

The couple will make their home at 797 E.N. 13th Street, Abilene.

BUSINESS FLIGHT

On a recent business flight to San Antonio were T. B. Hicks, Muleshoe, Dr. J. C. Wilemon, Levelland, and Dr. Lundberg, Lubbock.

Paul Scott piloted the Comanche on the trip. While there, Scott visited friends who later came to Muleshoe and made local flight with Scott.

TRAINING
New students who are training at Muleshoe Flying Service are Mark Grimsley, Joe Smallwood, Rheata Peeler and Warner Lawson.

In the glider division of flying, new students are Don Steele and Morris Easley, Hereford pilots. Both trained Saturday and Sunday in the two-place glider taking instruction, then made their solo flights Sunday afternoon in the single place craft.

GLIDER PILOTS
Gerald Martin, Hereford, Sunday afternoon and took them brought his family to Muleshoe riding in the glider.

Martin was one of the first student to obtain a glider rating after the school of training opened here. He was instructed by a former Flying Service pilot, Harold Locke.

Walter Garland, Borger, also made glider flight recently. Garland stayed aloft for more than two hours and gained an altitude of 12,000 feet off a 3,000 foot tow.

It was Garland who amazed the airport officials in April 1962 when he was towed to 2,000 by Herb Griffiths in a Super Cub, cut loose from the tow plane and circled up-up-out of sight and after one hour and thirty minutes, he came back in view, settled on the airport runways with the skill of a professional, after having reached an altitude of 13,800 feet.

At the time, Garland had just completed his seventh instructional flight and was on a solo flight. Of that accomplishment, Griffiths commented, "I know if I had pulled that man another 100 feet higher, he would have gone into orbit."

Jack Little and Bill Wimberly flew to El Paso on business in the Comanche. The Little family accompanied them as far as Artesia, N.M. where they visited with relatives while the men continued on to El Paso. They left on Sunday and returned the next Wednesday.

TO DALHART

Clifford White and Ed Priest flew to Dalhart last Saturday, where they attended a wedding of friends.

White is a private pilot and Priest is in pilot training in Lubbock. Both are Texas Tech students.

DALLAS MEETING

Attending a Farm Bureau meeting in Dallas were Ed Little, Morris McKillip, Freddie Parkman and John Gregg. They made the trip in the Comanche with Ed Little as pilot.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Daniel and family flew to Conroe recently where they visited his brother, Edward Daniel from Vermont. Daniel made another flight in his Comanche to Corpus Christi for the Texas PGA tournament. Cecil Winegart accompanied Daniel on this flight and did some deep sea fishing while there.

MISS LENAUI HOME

Lynn Lenaui returned Friday by plane from Colorado Springs, Colo. where she attended both semesters of summer school. She was met in Amarillo by her mother, Mrs. Charies Lenaui.

only your local stores give instant delivery and service . . .

We don't believe you gain anything at all by driving long distances to shop at BIG CITY stores. Our local sources have merchandise that's just as good and costs no more.

But merely for the sake of argument, suppose you do save a few dollars on a time-consuming trip many miles from home. And suppose you don't even count the cost of gasoline and oil, car wear, parking fees, etc. Forget, too, if you like, the hazards of driving in today's heavy highway and city traffic.

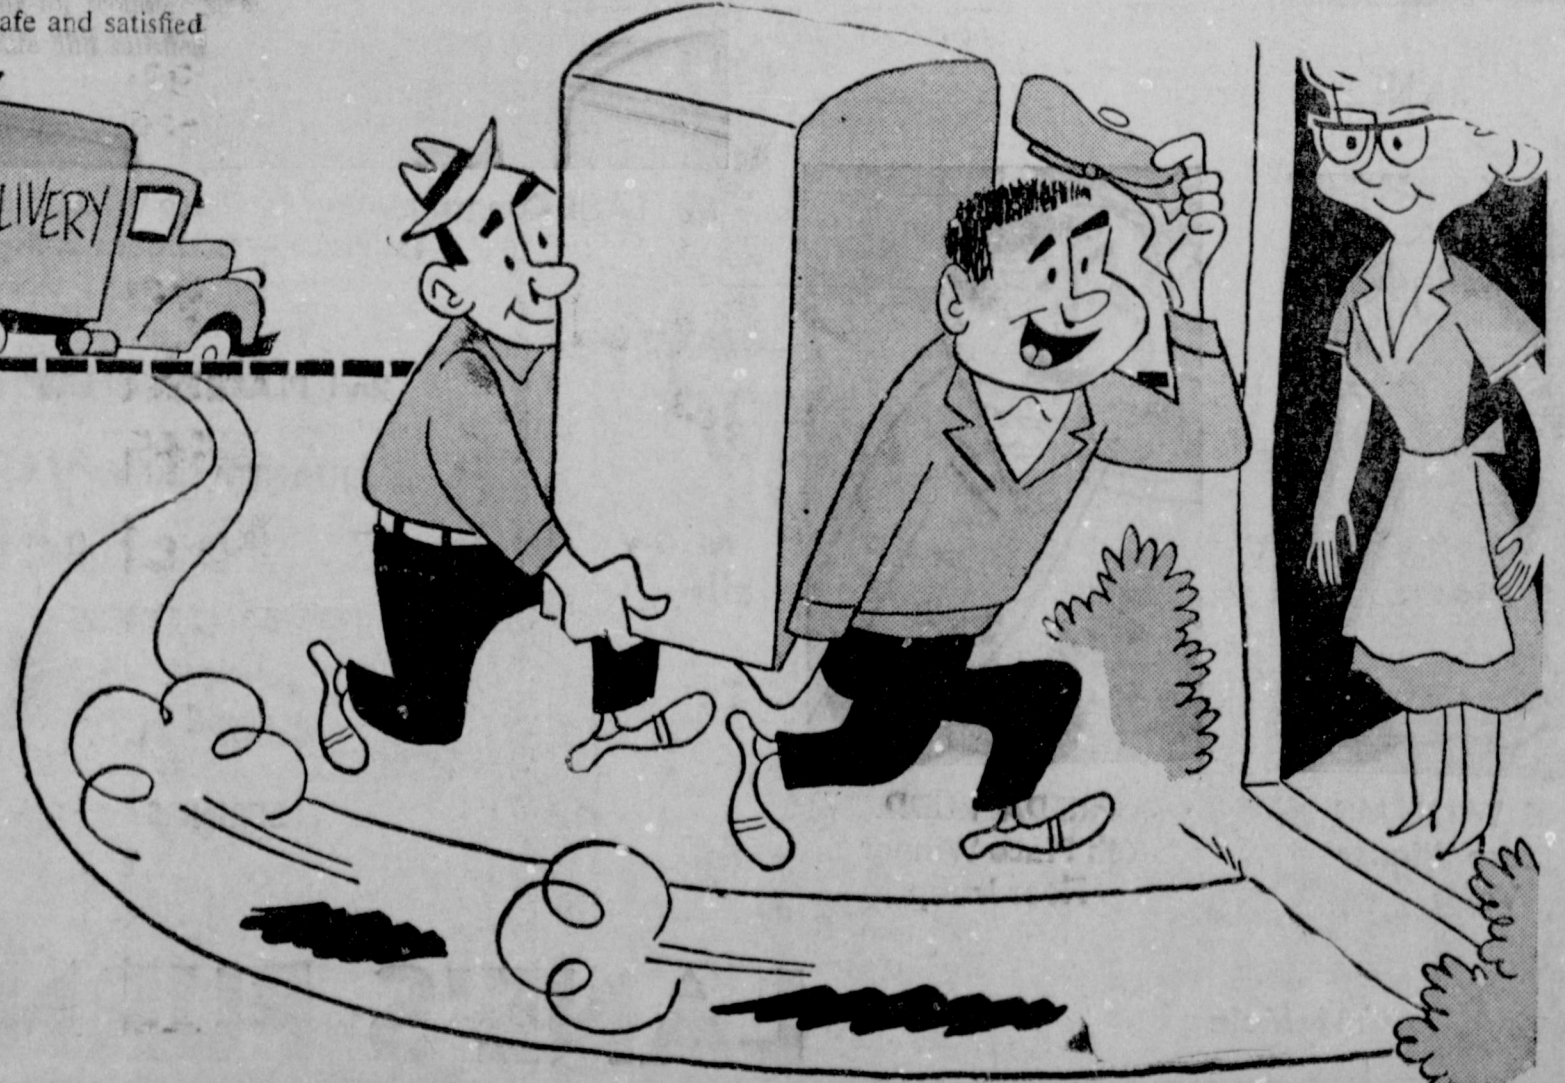

But don't overlook these things: What you buy here can be in your home in a few minutes — no waiting several days for delivery. And if the merchandise doesn't give full satisfaction, any needed service or adjustment of the purchase can be made without shipping the items back to the BIG CITY or being forced to make a second trip yourself.

Why drive scores of miles looking for trouble? Shop right around the corner and be safe and satisfied

Commissioner of Health

AUSTIN—These waning days of summer vacation are attracting more and more Texas parents and their children into the great outdoors for a final fling at fun in the sun before reopening of school begins to confine them to home.

It's a time of increased exposure to the hazards of accidents and sudden emergencies which inevitably come with accelerated outdoor activity.

Of the 68,000 people who die each year in Texas, some 10 percent die as a result of accidents. No doubt many are saved by prompt emergency care, but many more could be saved.

It is rather common to find that people throw all emergency calls, undertaking responsibility on the physician or the rescue squad which respond to phone themselves except to telephone for help. Sometimes they do not know what to do; other times they are too excited to think or act wisely.

The person telephoning for help should not rely upon the physician or ambulance attendant to give him advice; he should ask what to do until help arrives. In most cases, the telephone conversation need not be rushed; there is time for careful directions in cases of poisoning, heart attack, burns or head injury. Even though the caller has never had a course in first aid or has forgotten what he learned, he can still obtain directions that may save a life.

"Hurry cases" of first aid include cessation of breathing, severe bleeding and poisoning. In these cases a delay of even a few minutes may result in death. Rescue squads save extremely few people who have stopped breathing unless someone has given artificial respiration on the spot.

Teaching people to react promptly and efficiently in emergencies is one of the major goals of the "medical self-help" courses now being conducted around the state by local medical societies and state and local health departments and civil defense organizations.

Conceived originally as a tool for civil defense training against times of nuclear attack, the content of the courses also ideally equip people to cope with personal peacetime emergencies.

Further information on medical self-help courses can be acquired from local medical societies. Meanwhile the important rule to remember when summoning medical help or an ambulance in the event of serious injury or sudden illness is this: ask what first aid measures to take.

AUSTIN—Hay fever is neither caused by hay nor is it associated with fever, but the 10,000,000 Americans who suffer from it see the misery of stuffed running noses, watery inflamed eyes, sneezing, wheezing and general discomfort.

Hay fever can be caused by trees, grasses, molds, weeds and even disintegrated insects' bodies. But the greatest sinner—nation-wide—is the ragweed. In only five hours one ragweed plant can produce 8 million pollen grains that can be airborne over a distance of 75 miles.

In Texas some varieties of cedar trees are the principle offenders and in some areas of the State, there is no escaping drifting clouds of pollen sweeping across a city from rural areas nearby.

Of the four species of ragweed, three grow knee high, but the fourth—the giant ragweed—reaches head high. For some unknown reason, the giant ragweed's scientific name is Ambrosia trifida. Ambrosia, of course, means "pleasing to taste or smell." No hay fever sufferer would agree with that definition.

It may seem strange, but the ragweed pollination season begins earlier in the north than in the south. In parts of Canada ragweed starts pollinating in the latter part of July, whereas in South Texas it begins about the middle of September.

Reason for this phenomenon is that pollination occurs as the amount of sunlight becomes less. Thus the farther south the plants are, the later their pollination starts.

Why some of us become allergic to cedar pollen; others to ragweed, peanuts, molds or insects remains a mystery. But it is known that the allergic tendency is inherited.

Mild seasonal attacks can usually be treated effectively with simple medications prescribed by your doctor. More severe or persistent cases may require skin tests and desensitization against the offending substances, which differ from person to person.

If asthma or other complications occur, still other methods of treatment will be required. Your doctor can determine which treatment is best for the individual case.

There are also a number of personal measures one can take to avoid or ease the distressing symptoms. Try to keep doors and windows closed as much as possible during the susceptible period. Central air conditioning with filtration, although expensive, can provide gratifying relief.

He stumbled to a 75 in the finals round, but won.

The second best round of the day came in the championship consolation bracket, where another local golfer, Fluff Myers, caddied a 69 to walk away with the prize by seven shots over his closest foe.

Jorde, the tourney runner-up didn't touch par on either round Sunday. He fired consistent 74s in both the semi-finals and final round.

During the morning action, Bonner birdied No. 2 and No. 4, took a bogey on three-par No. 5, they parred the remaining 13 holes for his 71.

During the finals, he double-bogeyed the first hole, bogeyed the fifth, birdied the sixth then bogeyed the ninth to wind up the front nine holes with a three-over 39.

On the back nine, he scored birds on nine and 18, and had bogeys on 14 and 16 to end up with a 36 for his 75 total.

Six golfers made the cut Saturday for the final 36 holes of medal play for the tourney final. Some 23 players opened the field in the championship flight.

Scores of others in the big flight were Jim Green, Muleshoe, (151) John Renner, Friona (152) and Bernard Phelps, Muleshoe (158).

Runner-up in the championship consolation was Smiley Monroe of Morton with a five-over 77. Following in order were B. B. Lees of Portales (82), Wimpy Walker, Sulphur, Okla. (85), Jack Russell, Lubbock (85) and Choice Castle, Levelland (85).

The championship consolation flight played only 18 holes of medal play in the finals.

Ray's--

Junior learns no manners.

"This lack of manners is the modern world is a source of considerable concern to me—and to many other people with whom I have discussed this problem. If the trend continues, I don't know where it all will end. Perhaps it is an extreme selfish trend that is sweeping the country. What does it matter how we act toward others anyway? That sort of attitude. Maybe it has come about as a result of too much prosperity. Some of the erudite people, Junior will tell you, are also most successful financially. If Joe Doak, an uncouth, ill-mannered clunk can succeed (financially) why should Junior bother with manners, he figures.

And now, back to this school business. Maybe I'm a meany, maybe I'm old-fashioned, maybe I belong to another age, but in my classes, the pupils will say 'please' to me and I, in turn, will say 'please to them.'

"Some of the teachers themselves are guilty of this manners breach. Here's an example: The other day a teacher went with two teen-age pupils to a store to buy some school supplies. Among them two huge sheets of cardboard. When she approached the door she commanded, 'Open the door, Sally.' Of course if Sally had been properly trained in good manners she would automatically have opened the door in the first place for her laden-down teacher, but since she wasn't the least the teacher could have done would have been to have said 'please' to Sally. Of course in these days of poor manners, Sally probably would have fainted!"

Yarborough in Washington

By RALPH W. YARBROUGH
U. S. SENATOR FROM TEXAS

As a member of the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee and the Public Health Subcommittee, I have been deeply interested in programs for research into the causes and treatment of diseases that disable or kill millions of our people each year. As a member of the Public Health Subcommittee, I have voted during all of my six years in the Senate to increase that research into these diseases, including heart ailments, cancer, tuberculosis, the illnesses of the aged, arthritis, mental illness and diseases that strike at maternal and child health.

The Senate has recently voted a research fund covering ailments found at some time in almost every home in America, and I have been a staunch supporter of this research.

Grants from these funds go to almost every medical college in the country.

The Senate has voted $133 million to seek the causes and treatment of cancer, and of utmost importance, for development of better drugs for the cancer patient.

We voted $190 million to combat problems of the mentally afflicted and also voted $35 million for grants to states for their research into cancer and heart diseases, and for out-of-the-hospital services so the aged patients can get care in their home without going to a hospital.

We voted $114 million for research on arthritis, diabetes, rheumatic disorders, peptic ulcers and similar ailments; $88 million for research in the fields of neurology and blindness; $69 million for research into allergies and infectious diseases.

Since air pollution has been linked to lung ailment, I am especially interested in the $30 million approved to recruit and train key personnel for laboratory work in this field. The money will also be used in part to continue studies in control of water pollution in river basins over the United States. Also approved was $9 million for consumer protection carriers, milk and food service sanitation.

All of these are good programs, vital to the health of our nation. I support them.

Records to Aid Modern Students

One advantage this generation has over its elders is the stimulation (and the fun) study sessions can get from today's recordings.

In school and at home, recordings serve as a wonderful introduction to drama, poetry, novels, essays, language. Far from stuffy, they make for exciting listening for students and their parents. Most important, according to Dr. Arthur Luce Klein of Spoken Arts Records, they encourage further reading; reading because it is fun not because it is an assignment.

Consider just a few cases: excerpts from "Moby Dick" build up tremendous suspense, and a desire to know "what else happened?" Highly-endorsed Shakespearean condensations are performed by brilliant casts. They are exciting, understandable, and leave the listener wanting to read or reread the full versions.

Language records, in the modern series, cover the literature of the country, instead of stilted phrases. They are graded according to elementary, intermediate, and advanced study programs.

Emerson and Thoreau come alive when their wisdom is read by noted scholars. Emily Williams re-creates his stage triumph in readings from Dickens. Sir Michael Redgrave furnishes an ideal introduction to Chekhov with three amusing and touching short stories.

In the field of modern theater, Arthur Miller, the late Moss Hart, and Marc Blitzstein discuss their craft and read from their hits. Poetry from Virgil to Dorothy Parker gains new meaning.

There are entries for the very young back-to-schooler, too: nursery rhymes, Grimm's and Anderson's Fairy Tales, Kipling, Card, and a whole treasury of tales to be enjoyed over and over.

On the very scholarly level, complex topics become comprehensible when experts discourse on their fields: Dr. Edward Teller on relativity, Brian O'Doherty on art, Dr. Frank Baxter on poetry, Preston Slosson on history, and Jacques Barzun on "the care and feeding of the mind."

That last title might well sum up the goal of Spoken Arts and similar record producers. However, Dr. Klein points out, "We are interested in the care and feeding of the spirit, and the sense of humor, too!"

Cut the kernels from leftover cooked corn and heat with a little cream and some cooked finely-cut snap beans for a delightful fresh vegetable dish. Pass the pepper grinder!

Today's Meditation

AMONG THE KINGS

Among the many great kings, emperors, and rulers of history, there is one who seems to stand out above all others in glory. That king is Solomon, a monarch so great in wealth, power, and in wisdom that his kingdom seems a lovely vision from fairyland. The secret of his greatness lay in dream or vision which he once had from God. In the dream King Solomon asked God for the gift of wisdom that he might govern his people wisely. And God granted his wish, saying: "Behold I have done for thee accordingly to thy words, and have given thee a wise and understanding heart, in so much that there hath been no one like thee before thee, nor shall arise after thee." "And I will give thee riches, and wealth, and glory so that none of the kings before thee or after will be like thee." The Holy Bible speaks at length of the fabulous riches, glory, and earthly wisdom of Solomon. During his reign, Jerusalem abounded in gold, while silver was plentiful as stones. Kings and wise men came even from distant lands to hear his wisdom and to see his great riches. The famed queen of Sheba came, and was breathless with astonishment at the splendor of his kingdom. Solomon was a very good king, too, when he was young. He loved and honored God and built a most beautiful temple for Him in Jerusalem, the splendor of which shall be proclaimed to the end of time. But Solomon had too many of the good things of life these made him become soft and spineless. Finally he became so morally weak that he even permitted idolatry and other great evils to spread in his kingdom. This made God very angry and He rebuked Solomon, but Solomon would not listen. In the end, God sent him many troubles, sufferings, and Solomon died an unhappy man. We do hope that Solomon was truly sorry for his sins before he died and that God forgave him, for otherwise he could not have saved his soul. If Solomon did not get to heaven, what did it profit him to have been such a glorious earthly king? For as Christ said, "What does it profit a man, if he gain the whole world, but suffer the loss of his own soul?" Christ never wore a

DPS Now Uses TV to Monitor Traffic Scenes

AUSTIN — "Surprise, Mrs. Smith! You're on TV!"

This jolting punch line, used on a soap commercial currently in vogue on national TV, soon will be true for motorists driving through the Baytown-LaPorte Tunnel near Houston.

The Texas Highway Department announced today its Houston District is installing TV cameras in the tunnel as part of a lance system designed to improve the chances of keeping the tunnel accident-free.

But the tunnel project is actually only the forerunner of a much larger experiment in mass traffic control — the installation of a complex TV surveillance system on the Gulf Freeway between downtown Houston and the South Loop in early 1964.

Details of the TV setup on the Gulf Freeway will be determined to some extent by what Highway Department engineers learn from the workings of the Baytown Tunnel project.

The tunnel experimental TV control system is intended to more efficiently monitor traffic coming into and through the tunnel or provide quicker reports on accidents or any other stoppage of traffic within the tunnel; and to assist in insuring that no unauthorized vehicle, such as a truck carrying explosives, enters the tunnel.

Presently several guards are required to do this. If the TV one man can do it from a central control room where traffic activities picked up by cameras in the tunnel will be shown on monitor sets. The research project will cost an estimated $30,000.

The Gulf Freeway project will be similar in concept to traffic control systems in operation in Detroit, Chicago and New York City. First of its type to be jeweled crown on His head (though He wore a thorned one on the cross). He had no luxurious palace with countless servants. On the contrary. Yet He calls himself greater than Solomon. And He was right. For the glory of Solomon was as dust and ashes when compared to the divine glory of Christ. Yet, when we became children of God, this glory became our own. In all truth, therefore, speaking in spiritual way, we too are much greater than Solomon.

The Rev. Clifton Corcoran, Immaculate Conception Catholic Church launched anywhere in the Southwest, the Gulf Freeway experiment will have an ambitious objective: the solution to congested traffic in metropolitan areas during morning and evening "rush hours" through electronic control of traffic movement.

Preliminary research on the project will be started in September, the Highway Department said, and the test equipment will be installed sometime early next year.

From a master control room featuring a panel of control buttons, one man will be able to view the entire Gulf Freeway "corridor" and the more important access streets to it. Cameras throughout the whole area will pick up all traffic activity; relaying it to the control room where there will be one TV viewing screen, or monitor set, for each camera.

When a traffic jam or accident occurs, aid can be dispatched by radio control with police to the scene. The monitor watchman will know what happens as soon as it happens.

Various types of traffic control will be incorporated into the system. Each lane will have a two-unit sign mounted over it.

One unit will show the recommended speed to be driven in each lane, such as 50 mph when traffic in the lane is sparse, or a reduced speed when there is a traffic congestion. The other unit will flash an "X" when the lane is jammed or closed, advising drivers to switch to a lane not marked by an "X". This will help control the traffic stoppages now experienced on the freeway due to heavy traffic.

When test equipment is installed on the Gulf Freeway, a three-year observation period will follow. During this time, data will be gathered to help determine design needs for future expansion of the Gulf Freeway. Currently more than 100,000 vehicles travel the freeway each day, representing a traffic load far beyond the practical capacity of the six-lane facility.

The research aspects of the study will be conducted by the Texas Transportation Institute in cooperation with the Houston District of the Highway Department, and will be a cooperative project with the City of Houston and the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

Turn a fruit-flavored gelatin dessert into an 8-inch square cake pan and chill until set. Cube the gelatin right in the pan and then remove to dessert dishes. Top with whipped cream.

If a recipe calls for a cup of coarsely shredded raw carrots, you'll find that two large carrots (pared before shredding) will probably give this amount.

TIPS...

FROM THE OFFICE OF HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENT

By JEAN MARTIN THEFT INSURANCE

Burglary precautions amount to the best theft insurance at no additional cost to you.

Before you leave home for an evening, weekend or vacation, take time to protect your property against theft as much as possible.

Some precautions may seem trivial, but they are worthwhile when you consider that burglaries were committed last year at the rate of one every 36 seconds, day and night.

Here are some precautions that will discourage unwelcome guests while you're away:

1. Cancel milk, mail and newspaper deliveries. An accumulation of milk bottles and newspapers around your door is an admission that no one is home. Have the post office hold your mail while you're away, and be sure no store deliveries arrive during your absence.

2. Let the police department know your plans. Tell them when you're leaving and when you plan to return. If you're going to be away for more than a month, tell them where you may be reached and a key for your home obtained. Alert one of your neighbors, too. But don't carry the publicity too far. An item about your departure in the local paper could be a printed invitation to burglary.

3. Be sure all ladders and tools are put away. And if you plan to be gone more than a week, arrange to have your lawn mowed.

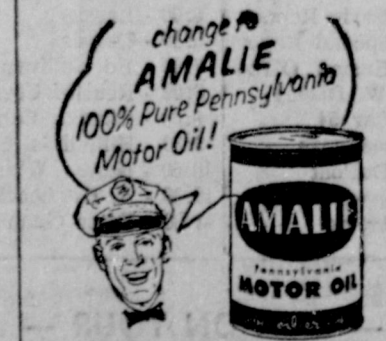

4. Leave shades and blinds as you normally would when you're home. Never close them completely. For extra precaution, leave one or two lamps connected to an automatic timer turn lights on an off regularly each evening, giving your home that "lived in" look.

5. Close the garage doors whenever you leave. An empty garage with open doors is a good sign you're out. And Don't forget to lock-up-doors and windows.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm takes a wide-gauge view of the test ban treaty this week.

Dear editor: Although Congress hasn't asked me for my opinion on the test ban treaty and I don't think I could get away from this Johnson grass farm at the moment anyway to testify—it's not that I have anything to do here, but when it comes to not doing anything, this is the place to have it happen, not in Washington—I have decided to go ahead state my views.

I did this after reading about the experts who have been testifying. The way I see it, when one group of scientists with all the facts says it's wise to sign the treaty, and another group with the same amount of facts says it isn't, this opens the door to anybody. What I mean is, if the same set of facts can lead to two exactly opposite views, facts are not as important as people claim and this allows me in, as I have about as few facts as anybody and half the time those I have are mis-placed. I don't know what this does to the old and respected saying that a man isn't entitled to an opinion till he has the facts. If facts are going to lead to confusion, a man might as well take the short cut and be confused without them.

But to get down to my opinion, I'm not sure of this, but it may be that some nuclear scientists want to keep on testing bombs for the same reason some kids want to keep on testing firecrackers. Firecracker is to shoot, a bomb is to explode. Everybody knows that. On the other hand, the testers claim they need to keep on testing to figure out a missile that'll destroy another missile before it lands. When you look at it that way, and try to picture the job of shooting down 1,000 missiles flying at us from Russia at 15,000 miles an hour in the middle of the night during a snow storm, your begin to see you're getting more facts than a man can handle.

I therefore want to go on record as being for the test ban treaty if it's safe, and against it if it's not, although safety is a word the scientists have just about neutralized out of the dictionary. In other words, to make myself clear, I'm in favor of the ban on one hand, and opposed to it on the other hand, recognizing that the facts may be that both my hands are tied anyway, probably behind my back. Yours faithfully J. A.

Write a Book? Takes Discipline' Writer Says

By VIVIAN BROWN AP Newsfeatures Writer

You've always wanted to write a book? Well, what's stopping you? Pretty, 20-year-old Charlotte Bingham of London has taken the giant step and written an autobiography "Coronet Among the Weeds."

Charlotte, who looks like Elizabeth Taylor, says: "Young people can write if they discipline themselves, and the best way is to have a job, and write in your spare time."

"Make a routine of it," Charlotte advises. "I wrote from 6:30 morning. There are many I in the evening until about 1 in the know, who have written books, also have jobs. That way they are not distracted and not buried."

Charlotte works as a secretary, "but I'm not very good." She has had 17 jobs. She wrote the book in four months while working at the war office.

She started writing at 8 years old. Her mother is French and Irish, a playwright and novelist; her Irish father, Lord Clannorris, is best known for his suspense stories written under the name John Bingham.

"You can't lock yourself in a room and become a writer. Your personality will close in on you. You need discipline unless you have an extraordinary character. A painter can see progress but to me writing is the most boring of the arts, nothing but words and paper," she says.

She doesn't believe she could have written this book if she'd gone to college.

"Life at a university doesn't reflect real life. You get too intellectual, a too closed point of view to maintain a creative urge. But it is rare for British girls to go to college, unless they want to become teachers, go into scientific work or are outstandingly clever. If you wanted to do something artistic, it would be a terrible waste if you didn't go to art school," she points out.

"Can't Eat Diplomas" She had envied her friends in universities. But then she asked what they did "to see what I was missing."

"They said 'we read a terrible lot of books,' and I said 'Well, I read a terrible lot of books.' They said 'Well, we met a terrible lot of people, and I said 'Well, I met a terrible lot of people in my 17 jobs,' and then I asked them whether they would send their daughters to the university. They said 'No, there was no advantage.'"

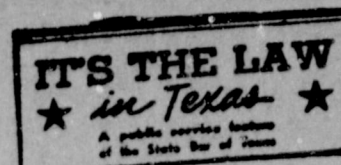

You must study shorthand and typing anyway, she says, to get a job, "so who not study it first as last?"

And British girls are marrying younger—"straightaway at 18 or come useful socially. Their husbands can't eat diplomas," she points out.

English girls usually go abroad for one year, learn a language, to cook, to do flower arrangements, to run a house, she says. Charlotte attended the Sorbonne in Paris, made her debut, and then began her jobs.

"My book is mostly stories of people I've met, not really an autobiography," she says. Some of her adventures are pretty sophisticated, and she describes her goal to find a superman. Like many young girls of 16, she had imagined she was in love with an older man.

She has written another book, plans to write a play and television comedy with her mother,

HABEAS CORPUS CORPUS DELICTI

Two legal phrases which are probably more misunderstood and other are "habeas corpus" and "corpus delicti."

The words "habeas corpus" are Latin for "you have the body."

They are commonly used in the legal profession to describe a writ or order signed by the judge directed to the sheriff or jailer holding a prisoner or to any person who is physically detaining another, and commanding him to produce the body (alive) of the prisoner (or person detained) before the judge.

The purpose of such an order is to allow the judge to determine whether the prisoner is being held lawfully or whether he should be set free.

The writ of habeas corpus prevents law enforcement officers from abusing the constitutional right of personal liberty and has been a jealously guarded privilege.

The words "corpus delicti" are Latin, and, liberally translated, mean the elements of the crime or wrongdoing. Laymen incorrectly interpret corpus delicti as meaning literally "the body," as in a murder case.

Speaking technically in a legal sense, corpus delicti is that which must be proved in every criminal case. Such proof must show that an unlawful act has been committed and that it has been committed by a human agency.

The mere finding of a dead body or a burning building does not mean that there is murder on the one hand or arson on the other. To prove murder, it must be shown that the death was unlawfully caused by a human agency. Contrary to popular belief murder can be proved even though the body cannot be found. In the case of the burning building, it must be shown that the building was unlawfully set on fire by a human agency.

To sum up then, habeas corpus is a writ designed to prevent the unlawful detention or imprisonment of any person. Corpus delicti, on the other hand, literally means the body of the crime, or, in general, the substance of crime.

53 Turning Out For WTSU Squad

CANYON, Football returns to the campus at West Texas State University as 53 candidates for the Buffalo squad turn out to meet head coach Joe Kerbel on September 1.

Two-a-day sessions will be held into the second week of drills until Kerbel feels the team has progressed far enough to cut back to one workout a day. The practice sessions will begin at 6:20 A. M. and 3:30 P. M.

Eighteen lettermen and a fair crop of from the frosh ranks will be included in the opening day group. The backfield, headed by "Pistol Pete" Pedro and Jerry Richardson will feature experienced starters at all positions. However, the line will be very thin in depth, especially at tackle where John Varnell is the only experienced man.

The squad will begin to assemble the middle of this week on campus. Physicals and equipment issue will take up Friday while Photo Day will see the team in full dress at Buffalo Bowl Saturday afternoon.

Kerbel and his staff will have 3 weeks to get the squad in shape for the season opener September 21 against Arlington State at Canyon. The Buffs head into the toughest schedule in the school's history this fall against such powers as North Texas State, Arizona State, Memphis State, University of Arizona, and New Mexico State to be faced on successive weekends.

"If we can stay healthy we could have a pretty good season," says Coach Kerbel. "However, with the schedule we face we will be lucky to break even. Every team we play is a real power and loaded with depth. But whatever the outcome, I can promise wide open and exciting football for our fans. We have some good boys and they like to play out style of football."

"and then I'll stop," she says, "and buy a small house with a garden in London."

state legislators are being invited to the September 9 meeting in Austin.

NEW REGIME— Commissioners of two brand-new state agencies were sworn into office, as well as the man who will take Attorney General Waggoner Carr's place on the State School Land Board, Judge Wilson Fox of Taylor. New commissioners are Loan Regulatory Commissioner Frank Miskell, and Parks and Wildlife Commissioners, Will Odum of Corsus Christi, and A. W. Mouraund of Johnson City. All four have been trying to keep up with new roles and heavy commission agency at the same time.

PARKS BOARD BOWS OUT—

State Parks Board held its last meeting just a few days before being replaced by the Parks and Wildlife Commission. But it could not transact any business since it couldn't get a quorum. Chairman Maurice E. Turner of Huntsville was there as well as Ed Kilman of Houston and Max Starcke of Austin. But Reese Martin of Beaumont was out of the state; Uvalde member Harry Hornby was ill, and J. Carter King of Albany was not available. Parks planner Elo J. Urvanovsky of Texas Tech was on hand present an estimated $400,000,000 plan for a model parks system— developed with a $70,000 legislative appropriation. But the board asked him to make his recommendations to the Parks and Wildlife Commission at some later date.

REHABILITATION RECORD SET—

J. W. Edgar, Commissioner of Education, claimed a new record for the Texas Vocational Rehabilitation program. He announced that a total of 3,566 disabled men and women were rehabilitated into productive jobs during the year ended on June 30. Edgar said 365 of these persons had been receiving public assistance payments totaling some $346,000 a year. He figured their new ability to be self-supporting now would save many thousands of dollars in federal and state assistance funds.

OLD FOLKS ASSURED OF INSURANCE—

New law assuring Texans 65 years of age and older the right to purchase health insurance now is in effect. First period of enrollment for the cooperative plan will be October 1-31. All licensed insurance agents in the state are eligible to give details about the plan.

SLOW DRIVING PROHIBITED

Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Department of Public Safety, issued a reminder that the new speed law specifically makes it a violation to drive a vehicle so slowly as to impede traffic. Minimum limits, as well as maximum limits, are being posted on the highways throughout the state.

YOUTH—Austin was stacked full of high school leaders as Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr held a conference on youth.

The 1,140 young people who attended were told how to prevent juvenile crime and school drop-outs. It is up to them to put the ideas into effect through high school organizations.

Central States News Views

IN THE FAMILY—Jubiel Wickheim of British Columbia dumps his brother, Ardiel, into the drink at Hayward, Wis., to win the log-rolling crown during the World Lumberjack Championships.

PRECIOUS CARGO—

The Soden twins inspect new tire introduced in Midwest by B. F. Goodrich with "Precious Cargo" service policy guaranteeing it against blowouts, punctures, fabric breaks and cuts for the life of the original tread.

GRAND STAND—

POLLUTION—

Some areas of the state have developed major water pollution problems and the new Texas Water Pollution Control Board has set out to cure them. Board will have a hearing on September 25-26 designed to protect the vast Ogallala formation, which supplies irrigation and municipal water in most of the Panhandle and South Plains. Expected to come from the hearing is an order prohibiting the use of open unlined surface pits for the disposal of salt water produced with oil and gas.

Parmer County Bureau Report

By RAYMOND EULER The administration's nonchalant attitude being publicly displayed that wheat farmers voted against all farm programs in defeating the completely unacceptable referendum offered is not helping the farm situation. Neither is it helping the farmers' opinions of those who say there will be no program for wheat because you said you didn't want one when you voted no in May. The peculiar "protective" attitude of the movie industry is spotlighted in a current advertisement in a daily paper that indicated what age persons should not be taken to see certain showings. This one was HUD. The classification was ADULT-Admission, Adults 75 cents—Children under 12 FREE.

Parmer County Bureau Report

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kube, of Farwell were in the office Friday, and we enjoyed visiting a few minutes with them. Kube recently retired as a local director of Farm Bureau. Linda Rector, Friona, and Jane County high school students attending the Farm Bureau Citizenship Seminar in Gainsville, will return home Saturday evening. We hope to have reports from them in the near future. District II Farm Bureau leaders will meet in Plainview Friday, August 29 in the Chamber of Commerce building at 1:30. This will be the meeting where policy development will be discussed. Problems that need attention in 1963 EB conventions will be aired and plans for getting grassroots opinions expressed in county conventions will be considered. You are welcome to attend this meeting, and you will be cordially received.

Parmer County Bureau Report

C. H. DeVaney, TFB President, and Ed McKay, TFB assistant legislative director, will be there, and you will enjoy hearing them. Jim Dixon, Legislative chairman and John Armstrong, policy development chairman, will probably be there with members of their committees.
