Morale Low? You Can Boost It!

How much truth there may be in stories of low morale in army camps we don't know. General Marshall says morale was all right until people started debating about whether service should have been extended; then it fell. Naturally. Be all that as it may have been, these things seem obviously true:

1. If we are going to have any army at all, its morale should be tip-top.
2. If it isn't tip-top, nothing is gained by wringing hands and moaning about how bad it is.
3. General Lear is right when he says that any deficiency in morale in the army merely reflects low morale back home.
4. The way to improve morale is to improve morale. The army is doing its share. The young men in the army are the best in the world. They are OUR young men, Americans, and there are no better. Now how about your share?
5. Review in your mind exactly what you have done to help keep the boys' spirits up. If you haven't done one solitary thing, isn't it about time?

Now, starting from that basis, let us call attention to one thing that is being done. In Cleveland, there is being promoted a "Bundles From Home" movement. On a given day, people from all over the Cleveland area are going to gather together bundles for boys in the service whom they know, or even whom they don't know. They're going to mail them all at once; one or more camps of Ohio soldiers are going to get a sudden deluge of presents and remembrances from home that will show them that they aren't forgotten, that they and their service are appreciated.

A box of candy... a carton of cigarets... an article of clothing... a book of stamps... a package of razor blades... there are a thousand little remembrances that can be sent, either personally to a relative or friend, or impersonally to the troops in general, and they're all welcome. They will all tend to show the boys that they have not been cut off from America; that we at home, as well as they at camp, are all serving one cause—the cause of the country we love.

We have a hunch that this movement will spread. It's a game anybody can play; it doesn't take much money. Morale low at camp? Don't blame the boys. Don't blame the army. Don't blame the hard world in general. Accept your share of the blame—and do something!

Come Now, Harold!

Secretary Ickes' efforts to get gasoline consumption in the east cut down voluntarily in proportion to available supply are all right if they work. If they don't, something more stringent will have to be tried, and we suspect that some of the same people who now ridicule the voluntary effort as inadequate and call for something stronger will they cry dictatorship.

Honest Harold seems to be overreaching himself a bit, however, when he suggests that other parts of the country which have plenty of gasoline should pretend they have a shortage just so they can have the pleasure of suffering with the unfortunate east. If such gasoline as would be saved in other sections could be sent to relieve the shortage there, there might be something to the idea. But it can't. The problem is one of transportation, not supply.

Sacrifice, denial, even suffering for a purpose, because it is unavoidable, is one thing. But if one man in the office happens to have a pair of tight shoes, for all the others to take off their comfortable ones and don tight shoes, just to be sympathetic, or just to be miserable along with the unlucky one—that's pretty close to perverted.

No Zeppelins Today

The Civil Aeronautics Board has dismissed an application by a German company for authority to run a Zeppelin air service between Frankfurt and New Jersey or Florida.

It seems that Germany has gotten involved in some other matters since 1938 and has had but little time for Zeppelin lines. "For lack of prosecution," the application has at last been dismissed.

So now the German who is ambitious to do a little circulating around can take his choice of either a nice, long ride in the non-existent Volksauto or a pleasant journey to New Jersey or Florida in a non-existent Zeppelin.

Some folks won't get on their feet until their auto is stolen.

Rainey Declares Social Dangers Threaten Nation

AUSTIN (AP)—Socially disruptive forces which threaten democracy within America are a greater danger in the opinion of President Homer P. Rainey of the University of Texas than attack from outside the country.

Speaking to 700 summer school graduates Monday night, Rainey asserted:

"We cannot afford to permit the forces of totalitarianism to rule the world, and neither will we tolerate either brand of it—Fascism or Communism—to dominate our domestic life.

"If any of you have any complacency about the state of our Democracy I beseech you to open very roots of our Democracy. More than ever before it is true that at work that are striking at the very roots of our Democracy. More than ever before it is true that 'eternal vigilance is the price of our liberties.'"

Rainey urged a constant and unrelenting fight to preserve the citizen's civil liberties in the crisis of a national emergency, denying that the constitution either states or implies that "our freedom may be abridged in war time, or whenever the President may declare an emergency."

Detroit Transit Workers Vote On Representation

By The Associated Press.
Under Navy control, the strike-troubled Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company's Kearny, N. J., plant returned to work Tuesday on $493,000,000 of defense ships while transit workers, already back on their jobs, voted in Detroit on whether the AFL or CIO should represent them.

Resumption after 19 days of idleness of construction of warships and Maritime Commission vessels at Kearny followed an offer of the company Monday night to sell the entire business to the government. L. H. Korndorff, company president, suggested that would simplify matters since the Navy is running the establishment.

The Navy took charge of the Federal yard Sunday on orders from President Roosevelt after the company and CIO shipbuilders failed to reach agreement to end a strike. The hitch was a union demand for a contract clause requiring union members to pay their dues or lose their jobs, during the life of the contract.

Crude Production 3,900,000 Barrels

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—United States crude oil production amounted to 3,965,650 barrels daily in the week ended Aug. 23, an increase of 5,015 barrels a day over the preceding week, the Oil and Gas Journal reported Tuesday.

Kansas production was up 3,850 barrels daily to 254,550; Illinois, 17-165 to 378,955; Oklahoma, 6,650 to 424,850; Louisiana, 4,470 to 327,320; and Eastern fields, 250 to 111,250.

Texas production declined 4,500 barrels daily to 1,441,400; California 21,000 to 633,750; the Rocky Mountain states, 1,400 to 108,780; Michigan, 300 to 42,010; and East Texas, 250 to 369,600.

War Department Awards Contract

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $3,973,265 lump sum contract has been awarded by the War Department for construction of temporary buildings and facilities for establishment of an advanced Twin-Engine Flying School at Lubbock, Tex., to C. S. Lambie Corporation, Amarillo, Tex.; W. S. Moxx, Lubbock, and Holland Page, Austin, Tex.

The engineer corps, the department disclosed, Monday, negotiated a supplemental contract to an original lump sum contract awarded to Robert E. McKee, El Paso, totaling $7,555,565 for construction of barracks, mess halls, hangars and other buildings at the aviation mechanics school at Wichita Falls, Tex. The contract total was brought to $12,442,455 by Monday's award.

A supplement agreement also was made, the department announced, with Gulf Bithulitic Company, Houston, the Austin Road Company, Dallas, and the Texas Bithulitic Company, Dallas, for grading, drainage system and concrete paving at Ellington Field, Tex., at a cost of $1,877,793. The total contract is $2,942,219.

Nazis Sink Former United States Ship

LONDON (AP)—The former United States destroyer Hopewell, renamed the Bath and manned by a Norwegian crew in the service of Britain, has been sunk, the Royal Norwegian navy announced Tuesday. The only other detail disclosed was that an unspecified number of the crew was lost. It was the first of the former U. S. destroyers to be announced as lost.

Everyone in the service of mankind will go either forward or backward, and our high standard of service has kept us from slipping.

Riders Have No Choice Of Mounts

Saddle bronc riders at the seventh annual Midland Rodeo must ride the horse they draw. They have no choice of animals and must come out of the chute spurring the horses.

Because they must be scratching both shoulders of the horse at the start of the contest, many riders never stay aboard for many jumps.

Other rules make this event one of the most thrilling of the rodeo.

The management selects the horses for each day and the riders draw for their mounts. If a bronc rider draws a horse he once has ridden during the contest, he must draw again.

Contestants must ride as often, and on any horse, as judges deem necessary to determine the winner. Riding is done with a plain halter, one rein and saddle.

Must Spur Horse
Riders must not change hands on rein and reinhand must show daylight above horse's neck as rider leaves the chute. Riding rein and hand must be on same side.

After the horse leaves the chute, every thing the rider does is counted for or against him. The contestant must continue to spur his horse throughout the ride.

Bucking horse contests are timed and ten seconds is allowed each rider from the time the horse leaves the chute before the signal is given by the timer.

Among things which disqualify a rider are being bucked off, changing hands on rein, wrapping rein around hand, pulling leather, losing stirrup and failure to have spurs in horses shoulder at the start.

Visitor Here On Return From Manila

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Howard had as guests for the weekend his mother, Mrs. J. E. Howard of Fort Worth, his aunt, Miss Hazel Jones of Wichita Falls, and his sister-in-law, Mrs. J. P. Howard, and son of Manila, Philippine Islands.

Mrs. J. P. Howard and son arrived in New Orleans, July 12, after a trip by way of Honolulu and the Panama Canal Zone. She reports that conditions in the Philippines made it necessary for her to leave and bring her little boy home for a year. All American women and children are being evacuated.

The Russell Howards, who are making their home at 1910 W. Wall, arrived in Midland two weeks ago. He is manager of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. They report they like the town and especially have been enjoying the weather which, Mrs. Howard declares, is "so cool."

Midland Depicts Historical Past With Collection

By Ola Dublin Haynes

A determination to preserve the history of the cow country created the Midland County Museum in October of 1935. Then, as now, Midland was getting ready for a big rodeo.

More than 500 old pictures were collected, framed and hung in the courthouse basement. Some of them were made prior to the organization of the county in 1855. Practically all the pioneers were represented. The old ranches—LFDs, 3Ls, 5WLS, Quin Sabes, JALS, and Col. Slaughter's Lazy S were pictured. Lean and motley cattle shown in these photographs weren't the kind of relatives purebred Herefords of today would brag about.

More than 400 old timers found time to see the exhibit in four days crowded with parades, rodeos, and dances.

The first sotre, school, livery stable—an almost complete record was presented though no picture of the first courthouse has ever been found. The interest this collection brought to visitors increased the desire of sponsors to make the historical collection permanent.

Penalties For Museum

The commissioners court was asked for suggestions in financing the project, Donald Hurt laid down a dollar bill and the ball started rolling. County officials and employees gave a dollar and others helped though no drive for funds was made. Now the museum covers a fourth of a floor and 35 cases are filled with more than 10,000 items. A total of 8,575 persons registered during 1940. About $100 a year is realized from 25c fees paid by persons who want certain numbers on license plates. One county office exacted penalties for gossiping, griping, chewing tobacco, and even using the phone. This served as a constant reminder that the museum needed cash. Elliott Cowden made possible a lighting system by giving $100.

A muzzle loading shotgun which the late "Uncle Dave" Brunson remembered as being old when the Civil War broke out was the museum's first gift. There is a squirrel rifle owned by Sam Bass' cousin, a survivor of the Revolutionary and Civil wars which was converted from a flint lock into a musket fired by percussion. The collection is unique—it's almost the only one that doesn't boast the gun with which Pat Garrett killed Billy the Kid!

Miss Midland of 1898

Displays of china, glass and silver—several hundred pieces rare and old—came from England, France and Germany. Their value is enhanced with each night's bombing in the present war.

Old books, dating as far back as 1632, rare letters written long before postage stamps were used, and newspapers are displayed. An Ulster County (N. Y.) Gazette tells of the death and burial of George Washington. A London Times dated a few weeks later, gives the English reaction to this news and quotes the speeches made in Parliament.

Shown effectively are stamp collections, collections of coins as old as 1255, spinning wheels, cotton cards, carpenters' planes 150 years old, candle molds, wood from Texas' first capital at Washington-on-the-Brazos, charred wood from the Battleship Maine, and Indian artifacts.

Special effort is made to preserve the articles used by early day ranchers and their families. Side saddles, stamp irons and running irons, coffee and pepper mills, wooden churns, copper pots, wash bowls and pitchers, coal oil lamps, family albums with dauerotypes, totypes and those later family groups for which the glass plates have long since been destroyed. There are handmade sunbonnets, older than the invention of the sewing machine. A silk blouse given to the "Miss Midland" of the Cowboy Carnival and Pine Stock Show—Dec. 6 to 10, 1898—is a timely exhibit.

Midland prides itself on having a county museum before Texas has a state museum.

SMOKE ABATEMENT PROJECT CONVINCING IN ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS (UP)—St. Louis' tallest building is getting its first cleaning since its erection in 1926. The Southwestern Bell Tele-

Until this year, officials of the company say, they didn't believe it was worthwhile to clean the structure.

it to you, because watching it bewildered me. I asked a man standing near a few questions about the game, which he readily answered.

Then I asked, "Do you play much bridge out here?" The husky gentleman replied, "Well, you know this is a one-man country. I don't think bridge would be a healthy game to play here. Can you imagine what would happen if you trumped your partner's ace in this country?"

Maybe he was right—it shouldn't be healthy for you to trump your partner's ace; but I recall a hand in which the only way to defeat the contract was to trump your partner's ace.

After West won the opening lead, he continued with the ace of hearts. Looking at the dummy, East had the presence of mind to trump it in order to lead a diamond.

He saw that if West could not open the diamonds and establish a trick by force, then declarer would establish the clubs for diamond discards if West held no more than one club stopper. His reasoning proved to be correct.

Americans Now Are Interested In Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile (UP)—The Chilean-United States trade picture has undergone a revolutionary change during the last 18 months. American producers who formerly were not interested in the comparatively restricted Chilean market now are making efforts to sell their products here, while American purchases in Chile have more than doubled.

Lack of exchange, however, is causing difficulties for Chilean firms which wish to import from the United States. A favorable exchange rate is granted to firms importing "vital necessities," but they sometimes must wait many weeks before that exchange is made available.

Men To Train For State Police Force

AUSTIN (AP)—One hundred men, a majority of them from small towns, Tuesday prepared to start training Sept. 1 as members of the state police force.

Homebop Garrison, Jr., director of state police, announced Monday 60 recruits would study the new drivers' license law and become examiners while the remainder would undergo training as regular highway patrolmen.

Tabor and his wife, Baby Doe. It was in one of them that Baby Doe, once a famous beauty, died a hardened old woman.

Silver ore from the Matchless added more than $7,500,000 to the Tabor fortunes and after the mining machine died in 1890, Baby Doe moved to Leadville and lived on the property until her death.
