Judge intimates that progress Has halted in Bailey County

Commissioners' court spokesman Says evaluations may be raised

In a speech before about 85 persons attending an open meeting on the library situation here, County Judge Glen Williams told the group—in essence—that progress in Bailey County had come to a halt and could not continue without a raise in tax evaluations. It is possible he may also have laid the ground work for a new major bond issue.

A loud, clear call for help was heard when the judge said "We must get together and decide what we want."

The Judge began his speech by saying "I'm for the library and have been for the library for nine years." He then proceeded to tell the group, in no uncertain terms, that the physical facilities of the county were in sad, sad shape, and that there was no money to support a library new or in the future without a raise in tax evaluation.

He asked, "Do the citizens of Bailey County want to bear the cost?" and then proceed to give the public an insight into the county's problems. He stated the great need for a new courthouse, voting places, jail, office space, records, etc.

In each instance he was totally correct. In closing the judge asked that the county make known its wishes and help the commission decide which facilities it wants or if it wants them all and how it wants to pay for them.

The commissioners' court has been unable to decide among itself what to do about the steadily growing problems of Bailey County. Things are growing progressively worse because of the lack of corrective action. The public seems to be dissatisfied.

The questions brought forth by the judge's speech are:

1. Does the answer lay in equalization of land evaluations in Bailey County?
 2. Does the answer lay in a general raise in land evaluations.
 3. Does the answer lay in a bond issue?
 4. Should Bailey County continue lacking the facilities and services of good government?
- The judge's speech was lacking in only one area. He asked the people to get together and decide what it wants the commissioners' court to do. However it did not set forth a plan for the gathering.
- Does the commission want a general meeting of all interested parties at its next regular meeting?
- Does it want voters to informally approach them on the street or over a cup of coffee?
- Does it want voters to write in?
- It is expected that the commissioners will follow-up the Judge's statements with a concise plan for the general public to make its wishes known to them. The plan will probably be made known by public statement through the press or at its next public meeting.

Chief speaker at the meeting was Charles Gholz, an executive of the Texas State Library, which has offered to assist in the establishment of a library here, if the county would meet certain requirements.

In detailing the $80,000 library assistance package offered the area, Gholz made it quite clear that a library was not a plaything. "A good library is a living, growing thing and it's expensive. You can't go about library in a half way manner," he commented.

The highlights of what Bailey County must do to obtain state assistance are:

1. Provide a headquarters building.
 2. Provide necessary utilities.
 3. Air Conditioning.
 4. Water and sanitary conveniences.
 5. Telephone.
 6. Janitor service.
 7. Shelving for books.
- The Texas State Library will provide for a period of two years:
1. A bookmobile and all expenses for its operation and upkeep.
 2. A well balanced stock of between 8-10,000 books.
 3. All other necessary supplies.
 4. A bookmobile librarian and her salary.
 5. A bookmobile driver and his salary.
 6. A clerk and his or her salary.
 7. Consultative and standby services.
- Gholz pointed out that the books See JUDGE, Page 5

Census Workers Now Counting School children in this area

County Studies Hi-way 84

Annual school census for the Muleshoe Independent School District is underway in Muleshoe and Bailey County this week. The census is taken each year at this time to determine the number of children living in the school district, according to Neal Dillman, superintendent of schools.

"A number of residents within the area do not understand the purpose of the census," commented Dillman. "But, it is simply to get an idea of the number of children who will be attending Muleshoe schools next year."

He added that all residents in the area are asked to cooperate with the workers making the house-to-house count of children. The census is required annually by state laws and parents are required to give information asked.

In taking the school census, workers are going from door-to-door within the city and throughout rural areas. The counting procedure is to continue until the end of January with reports to be tabulated in February.

Information obtained from the census is used by school trustees

Vegetables Conclave due

Theme of this year's annual vegetable growers conference scheduled to open Jan. 14 in Lubbock will be "Mechanization of Vegetable Production", according to J. K. Adams, county agent who will attend.

Meetings will open at 8:30 a. m. at 4004 Ave. A, Lubbock. A banquet will close the affair that night at 6:30 p. m. See WHEAT, Page 5

It was decided at the regular meeting of the County Commissioners' Court this week that Judge Glen Williams and possibly two or more other members of the governing body would attend the sixth annual Conference for County Judges and Commissioners at Texas A&M, Feb. 16-18.

The conference program will be based on information requests from county officials and will cover such items as tax policies, interpretations of laws, new laws, etc.

The major portion of the meeting was not held in the court house, but in the field. The meeting was moved to that area of Hi-Way 84 covered in those tracts of land have already been approved for purchase by the state hi-way department.

Purpose of the field trip, according to Judge Williams, was to study and observe details of improvements and other conditions which might affect the purchase price.

The number of tracts approved by the state for purchase still remains at nine. The state is still studying three others. Those three are the largest.

There has been no report from the state as to the delay. However, Judge Williams is planning a trip to Lubbock to confer with hi-way officials this week.

The field trip also covered that area of the county involved in the $196,000 land damage suit brought against the county as a co-defendant by J. B. McPherson, local farmer.

McPherson claims that dikes and roadways maintained by the county contributed to loss of his crops and heavy damage to his farm lands.

Splawn wins Last football Contest here

Hail to the king!! Kenneth Splawn today remains undisputed king of Muleshoe's football experts — and we have a lot of them.

Splawn has won the final segment of the Muleshoe Journal's Annual Football contest and will receive the $50 cash prize.

In the final contest it was necessary not only to guess the winners of five bowl games, but also by what score.

Splawn missed only one game. He picked Mississippi over Alabama. In the other four games he picked each winner correctly, and was off a total of only 10 points on their scores.

Runner up was Irene Splawn who also missed only one game — the same as her son. However, her total score was off by 23 points.

Water conservation elections Scheduled to be held Jan. 14

The ballot for the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District's Annual Election which Bailey County will vote on Jan. 14, will have an added question for the voters consideration.

The unusual question on the ballot will be for and against the annexation of more than 800 square miles of Swisher County to the District. The area is proposed for annexation includes all of Swisher County except the Palo Duro Canyon area on the Eastern boundary.

At the same time that people living within the bounds of the District are deciding this question, the people of Swisher County will also be voting for and against the annexation question.

On the 1964 ballot, the resident voters of Bailey County will be voting for two County Commissioner positions being held now by Lester Howard and Leldon Phillips. The names on the ballot for Commissioner's precinct four number two are D. O. Burelsmith and James P. (Jimmy) Wedel; and Lester Howard and W. L. (Willie) Welch.

The 1963 Committee for Bailey County made up of Doyle Davis, Lester Howard, Leon Lewis, Leldon Phillips and J. W. Witherspoon has issued 113 permits from January 1, 1963 to November, 1963. During this time, 108 wells have been drilled. The committeemen serve three-year terms

The group will elect three new directors and three new members of the credit committee as well as hear an illustrated talk on credit unions by Wayne Hilton, Texas Credit Union headquarters.

It was disclosed at a meeting of the directors Monday that shares in the local facility had grown more than two and one-half times during the past year and that loans had more than tripled.

Eight student nurses presented Caps in ceremony Monday night

Mrs. Marshal Head, R. N., course instructor, delivered the keynote address and was in charge of the capping.

Florence Nightingale, often called the mother of nursing, was used as a theme and some of her many accomplishments were cited. Born in Florence, Italy, the English humanitarian, war nurse, and hospital nursing reformer, spent most of her childhood in Lea Hurst, Berbyshire.

Under the influence of her mother, a philanthropic woman, her attention was directed to the condition of hospitals. She traveled on the Continent to study such institutions and trained in nursing at the Institute of Saint Vincent de Paul ("Servants of the Poor"), Paris and Kaiserwerth on the Rhine.

In 1853 she became superintendent of a hospital for governesses in London. Upon the outbreak of the Crimean War in 1854, and after having overcome all opposition put in her way, she set out for the front with 37 nurses.

Nursing departments were organized by her at Scutari and Balaklava. She succeeded by extraordinary ability in the face of difficulties. After the close of the war, she gave a testimonial fund for the founding of the Nightingale Home, at St. Thomas's Hospital for the training of nurses.

During the Indian Mutiny, the American Civil War, and the Franco-Prussian War she was consulted on camp hospitals, and received various government hon-

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

I wish to thank you for reporting worth while news that we as taxpayers appreciate.

How can we complain about insufferable irregularities elsewhere with a $12,000 'Hot Potato' in our county? Since no effort is being made to collect the $12,000 from farmers, I can only assume that our Bailey County Commissioners are playing big time politics with our tax monies. This being a big election year is not a time for indulgence in an inept unlawful practice.

I urge everyone to pay their poll tax so they can have a voice in our local, state and national government.

Sincerely yours,

Signed: Mrs. W. B. Kittrell

Richard Moore Escapes injury

The Richard Moore family, Lazbuddie, escaped injury Sunday when their car was in collision with another vehicle in Lubbock. Young Todd Moore was taken to Memorial Hospital to be checked as a precautionary measure, but was not injured, according to his father.

DIDN'T MAKE IT — A combination of brake failure and turning too short to avoid hitting a 1952 Buick driven by Rev. Don Boles, Muleshoe, resulted in the accident pictured above. The 1961 Chevrolet truck, owned by Clark Equipment and Supply Company, Moriarity, N.M., and driven by Vyrrel Chilton, was traveling west at the Intersection of American

Blvd. and First Street. Rev. Boles was in the intersection traveling north, when the brakes failed on the loaded truck. Chilton made a sharp turn north in effort to avoid collision and hit the car and the bed crashed into a power and light pole at the corner. (Journal Photos & Eng.aving)

WHY MINNESOTA'S RED RIVER VALLEY CERTIFIED SEED POTATOES?

NORTHERN GROWN:

Even before scientists told us why... Northern Grown Seed was recognized as the best performing wherever it was planted. It had the zip and punch to produce an Extra Good Crop. It didn't "run-out" as fast as others. It had a "Built-in Vigor" that brought forth hardy, clean potatoes in abundance. Long days and cool nights are a factor. Minnesota's Red River Valley is right up on the Canadian Border where full advantage of nature's favors of climate, soil and geography make it the best place in the nation for the production of good seed potatoes.

RED RIVER VALLEY:

The largest production area in Minnesota, includes eleven northwestern counties of the state. This area is the bottom of prehistoric Lake Agassiz—its glacial silt, rich in minerals, is a fine textured, black soil with varying admixtures of sand and clay on the eastern slopes of the Valley. The Red River Valley is recognized as one of the WORLD'S BEST POTATO RAISING SECTIONS. Ideal climate and growing conditions produce seed potatoes that are tops in vigor. Leading varieties are Irish Cobbler, Red Pontiac, Red LaSoda, Norlin, Kennebec, Russet Burbank as well as other.

KNOW-HOW:

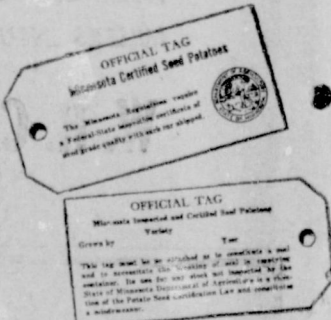

Minnesota's Red River Valley has been in the Seed Potato Business since the early days of farming in this great agricultural area. Over 40 years ago a pioneer thinker and doer in the Seed Potato Business set in motion one of the first Seed Potato Certification systems. This pioneer, dedicated to a rigid system, has developed an effective and recognized staff that knows Seed Potatoes. The growers of Minnesota's Red River Valley take great pride in the crops they produce... and in many instances the third generation is now carrying on the traditions of families who started the Seed Potato Industry in Minnesota. These are the people with the "know-how" that turn out Extra Quality Certified Seed Potatoes.

RELIABILITY:

It takes integrity with rigid attention to detail in our Foundation Lots, increased under expert care and supervision, inspected many times in the field by only the best inspectors... and finally bagged and shipped under the watchful eye and a written certificate of a State-Federal Precision Inspector. Such established and maintained "team work" builds a conscientious program of care, integrity and results... another important reason why Minnesota's Red River Valley has a front rank position in supplying Certified Seed Potatoes to the nation.

LOOK FOR THE BLUE TAG:

This official Blue Tag of inspection and certification on each bag of Minnesota Certified Seed Potatoes is your "Guardian of Trust." Each bag of Minnesota's Red River Valley Certified Seed Potatoes must carry this tag showing variety, name and address of the grower. In addition, most tags show the area in which the seed was grown to further assist you in your selection of the seed for your requirements.

WHEN YOU SHOULD BUY:

Generally there is always enough good seed potatoes available but do not be misled by acreages of certified seed plantings and stocks available that appear in many reports. Elimination by inspection, diversion and the demand by processors who have found premium quality to pay out better are factors influencing availability of Seed Stocks. Buy your seed early and be assured of getting what you want and need.

WHERE TO BUY:

Good Blue Tag Certified Seed Potatoes are available from your seed dealer, direct from the grower or through brokers and agents. Large buyers can deal directly with growers or brokers. A list of Minnesota's Red River Valley Certified Seed Potato Growers is available on request. Make your deals early!

New director likes objective

NEW YORK (AP) — The new director of Huntington Hartford's gallery of Modern Art says he is firmly convinced there is an opportunity for a new type of museum to make its mark in this center of the world.

He is Carl J. Weinhardt Jr., 36, a young man so far as museums are concerned, almost personable, and with a record of being an able administrator at the Minneapolis Institute of Art, where he had been director since 1960.

Fortunately his viewpoint coincides, at least in general principles, with that of Hartford, the businessman who built the striking new museum building at the edge of Columbus Circle which is scheduled to open in March.

Hartford is an art collector who frankly declares his distaste for blob-and-blob paintings, and who feels that abstract expressionism has been hogging the scene too long. His own collection concentrates on the more representational type of art. He prefers "that vital communication with reality" which he feels abstract art lacks.

He pointed out that of the four floors devoted to exhibitions, two will contain Hartford's permanent collection, and the others a series of special shows.

Asked whether an abstract example might find its way into one of the special shows, he replied, "It's hardly likely that we would plan a large show of de Kooning works, to name one example. But if an abstract expressionist painting happened to fit logically into the theme of a show, it would not be excluded."

Weinhardt said "We will emphasize the kinds of painting in which the means of visual communication are readily understandable."

The opening exhibition will present major paintings and drawings of the late Pavel Tchelitchew. He does not fall readily into a category or school, though some critics tend to group him with the surrealists.

"The Tchelitchew show is a perfect case in point," Weinhardt said, referring to neglected artists. "He has been forgotten since he died, and there has been no major show of his works in 21 years."

Later there will be an exhibition of the Pre-Raphaelites, including such figures, as Rossetti and Burne-Jones, which was assembled by the Herron Art Museum of Indianapolis. Weinhardt feels that since New York has relatively few major museums — in contrast with the many theaters to be found here — this city missed many of the good shows developed elsewhere in the country.

For the third show Weinhardt hopes to present a survey of American art from its beginnings, a theme which he had undertaken just before leaving Minneapolis, in "Four Centuries of American Art."

This is not Weinhardt's first experience in New York. He was on the staff of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, starting in 1955. A native of Indianapolis, he majored in economics at Harvard, where he was graduated with honors, and had had a fling in the real estate business before returning to Harvard for graduate study in art.

Perhaps it could be his background in economics that makes him "appalled at the vagaries of the art market," for he feels that the current interest in Impressionists, post-Impressionists and abstractionists has caused a freakish inflation of values.

and supplies would not be a gift. Such gifts are against state law. However, the state would, he stated, leave all books and equipment here until they are worn out.

A plan suggested by the state library to go into effect after two years of state library assistance is complete is:

1. The Texas state library will leave the entire book stock here.
2. Leave all supplies and equipment.
3. Leave the bookmobile until it can be replaced in the first independent year.

During the third year the state library will continue to assist the proposed Muleshoe library. It will provide:

1. Librarian's salary
2. Driver's salary
3. Clerk's salary.
4. Necessary supplies.
5. Processing of books.
6. Consultant service.

During the third year the county is expected to provide:

1. A total budget of $14,000 to be shared amongst the two or more participating counties on a pro-rata by population basis.
2. A probable apportionment of that budget would be:
 1. Purchase of bookmobile — $10,500.
 2. Gasoline, oil, etc — $800.
 3. Books and materials — $2,700.

Varieties which rated a premium price based on protein were Ottawa, Bison, Commanche, Triumph, Kaw, Early Blackhull and Caddo. Of these, Ottawa and Early Blackhull were poor in baking quality, and Triumph was only fair. Premium prices, based on Commanche, Triumph, Kaw, Karkof, and Early Blackhull. Again Ottawa, Early Blackhull and Triumph were not graded a "good" in baking quality.

Warrior and Rodco wheat rated discount prices on protein and sedimentation, but scored as "good" in quality wheat in actual baking tests. Bison, Commanche and Kaw were the only varieties in the 16 tested that rated premium prices based on both protein and sedimentation which also graded "good" in the baking tests.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm has encountered some statistics his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor:
If you can believe statistics, the farm population of the United States finally will get about to zero, and my theory will be borne out that the government will set up a preserve to protect the few last remaining farmers like it does the disappearing whooping cranes.

I thought it was bad enough when the percentage of farmers in this country dropped to 20 per cent, but then it fell to 15, then to 12, and according to the latest estimate only 19 per cent of the people of this country are now farmers.

Furthermore, I heard an expert on television last night predict that the figure will drop to 6 per cent in a few years, and that whereas each farmer now feeds 27 people in town, it won't be long before he's feeding 35.

I am not prepared to say that the farmers who have been moving to town are culls, as a friend of mine contends, because it's been my observation that most towns and cities had problems they couldn't handle long before farmers moved in. Town problems can't be blamed on ex-farmers anymore than Washington can be blamed for Congress. I have no figures on what percentage of Congressmen are ex-farmers.

But what this whole thing got me to thinking about was, I wonder how those 27 people in town depending on me are getting along? If there are 27 people in Muleshoe expecting me to grow enough to feed them in 1964, my advice to them is to start a garden quick.

I have joined President Johnson's economy drive and will have to reduce my 27 to say 2, and they may have slim pickings.
Yours faithfully,
J. A.

County home of Texas' oldest wildlife refuge

Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge is one of a chain of refuges in the Central Flyway administered by the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

It was established as a wintering area for migratory waterfowl. Located on the High Plains of West Texas at an elevation of 3,750 feet above sea level, this refuge supports tremendous populations of waterfowl throughout the winter. Established in October of 1935, it is the oldest National Wildlife Refuge in Texas.

The 5,800 acres of the refuge are broken by two caliche outcroppings — in the form of rim-rock — near the north and west annual rainfall are utilized for boundaries, with frequent prom-wildlife foods.

Over 3,000 acres of short-grass prairie on the refuge lakes during range lands, with scattered mesquite and reach their peak in winter, are under a managed grazing program. Livestock are exceeding 700,000 birds — by the late among several pastures found of December.

The three sink-type lakes have frequently visit the refuge for no outlets, depend entirely on run-short periods during spring and off for their water supply, and fall refuges. Pintails and blue-are periodically dry. When allowed to dry are the first of the lakes are full, 500 surface acreage, migrants, and are followed of water are available for winter later by American widgeons. ing waterfowl. A variety of grain — Millards, the predominant spears — and wheat that cracks during the winter, are the mature on the 17-inch average last ducks to arrive. Showers, scapes, buffleheads, and ruddy ducks are also common throughout the winter.

In addition to the large numbers of wintering ducks, another outstanding feature of Muleshoe Refuge is the winter population of lesser sandhill cranes. During their peak month of December, these beautiful birds sometimes number over 30,000.

They seldom deviate from their annual arrival on the refuge during the third week in September.

In the 6-month period that the cranes are away from their arctic breeding grounds, the Muleshoe population represents the largest concentration of this species in the United States.

October and November are usually the best months to observe migrating songbirds. Most of the 181 species which have been recorded on the refuge are present at that time.

Mourning doves, mockingbirds, and lark sparrows are prominent nesting birds. Many small birds can be seen in the shelterbelt planting which surrounds refuge headquarters.

A mild climate with an abundance of sunshine provides excellent opportunities for bird watching and photography.

Permission is not required for amateur photography on the refuge. The construction of blinds or special travel related to photography may be authorized by the refuge manager.

Refuge lakes are closed to boating, and fishing is permitted in one small lake during the summer months. No part of the refuge is open to hunting, and firearms are prohibited.

Approximately 10 miles of refuge roads are suitable for automobile travel. While driving, the visitor might watch for some of the species common to this area. Cottontails and jack rabbits are abundant, and scaled quail are common over most of the refuge.

Prairie dogs and burrowing owls may be seen, while many species of hawks frequent the area. During the winter, several golden eagles are residents. A coyote, badger, or skunk may sometimes venture out in the daytime. The refuge is 20 miles south of Muleshoe, Texas, on State highway 214. Visitors are welcome to travel refuge roads from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Evening picnics and overnight camping are permitted in the recreation area. Fires are permitted, but firewood is very scarce. Special arrangements may be made for large group picnics. Refuge headquarters can be reached by traveling west for 2 1/2 miles on a gravel road from Highway 214. Visitors may register here and obtain information about the refuge. Sequoia National Park, California, includes 32 groves of sequoia trees, largest and oldest living thing on earth.

Palmer, Nicklaus at new highs

By FRANK ECK
AP-Newsfeatures Sports Editor
As many as 30 pro golfers made a pretty good living touring the nation's fairways in 1963 but none came close to matching the gold dust twins, Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus.

Between them they won more than a quarter of a million dollars. Palmer collected $128,330 in official PGA wins by taking seven of 20 tournaments in which he participated. Nicklaus, a sophomore, won five events out of 24, and $100,030. Both were record highs.

Nicklaus actually won more than Palmer. He picked up $30,000 in the golf world series but this figure was not included, officially or unofficially, in his PGA earnings because the limited event is not PGA co-sponsored.

However, it remained for 43-year-old Jullie Boros to earn the PGA's title of player of the year. The former Connecticut pro from Mid Pines, N. C., won his second U. S. Open in a three-way playoff at famed Brookline. Boros previously scored in the 1952 Open. He ranked third in money won with $77,356 although he took only three of 23 events.

Nicklaus won two of the big three events. With a 285 he was the youngest ever to win the Masters. The 23-year-old former Open and Amateur ruler beat Tony Lemke, 29, by one shot and veterans Boros and Sam Snead by two strokes. The win was worth $25,000.

After failing to make the 36-hole cut in the Open, Nicklaus won the PGA crown with a 278 to become the fourth golfer to win three major United States titles. The others are Gene Sarazen, Byron Nelson and Ben Hogan. Dave Ragan was two shots back in the PGA.

Nicklaus joined Snead and Jack Burke as the only golfers to win the Masters and PGA in the same year.

Palmer won some choice events but the closest he came to a big plum was a tie in the Open. However, in the playoff, Boros shot 70, Jacky Cupit 73 and Arnie faded with 76.

In the golf world series at Akron, Nicklaus beat Boros by one stroke, Palmer by three and southpaw Bob Charles of New Zealand by seven.

The Canada Cup and International matches were played in France where Nicklaus won individual honors and teamed with Palmer to give the United States its fourth straight team title and sixth in 11 years.

The United States won the Ryder Cup matches from the British for the 12th time in 15 meetings, 7-3, at Atlanta. Gene Littler and Bob Goalby won both their singles matches.

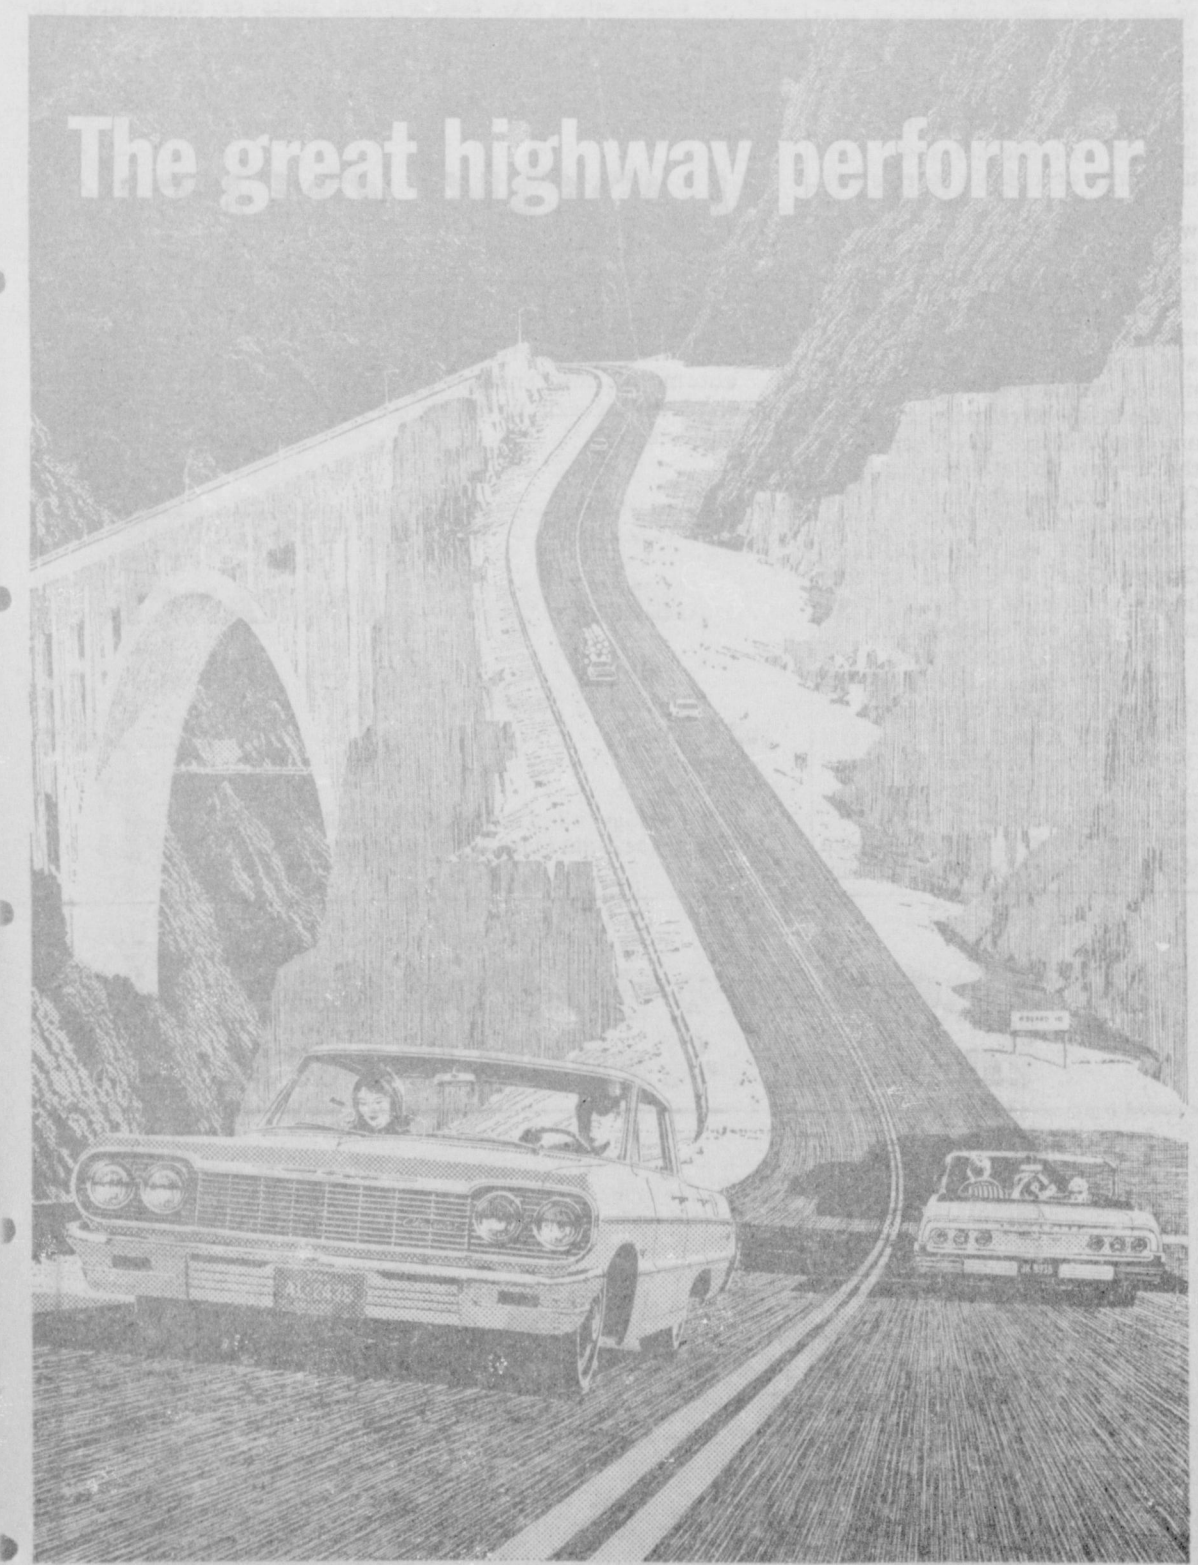

Deane Beman, 25, of Bethesda, Md., won his second U. S. Amateur title since 1960 by turning back Dick Sikos, 2 and 1. Sikos, representing Arkansas, won the NCAA crown.

Annemie Mickey Wright, 28, paced the women on tour far into third straight year and took her fourth Ladies PGA crown while setting a record with $21,259 50 in official winnings. Only 14 male golfers won more money than the San Diego native.

A pair of 70s in the last two rounds enable Miss Wright to conquer Mary Mills, 22, in the PGA. Miss Mills, from Gulf Hills, Miss., won the Ladies Open which Miss Wright skipped because of fatigue.

Mickey won a record 13 tournaments out of 28 while Kathy Whitworth, who is about as long off the tee as Miss Wright, captured 8 of 32 events and earned $25,858 officially.

Former tennis queen Alton Gibson turned pro but failed to earn any money in six tournaments.

'64 Jet-smooth Luxury Chevrolet

What does it take to make a car a great highway performer?

If the car happens to be a '64 Chevrolet, one thing only. A highway.

You'll find everything else already neatly packaged for you — on the car exactly as you pick it off the showroom floor.

There's a choice of seven engines — all the way up to a twin-carb high-compression 425-hp V8 — and four transmissions, including a finely honed 4-speed stick shift.*

And underlying it all — a bump-skimming Jet-smooth ride that helps keep the performance great even when the highway aren't so great.

THE GREAT HIGHWAY PERFORMERS Chevrolet • Chevelle • Chevy II • Corvair • Corvette
See them at your Chevrolet Showroom

What about special performance equipment? Professional driving skills? Forget them.

Nobody has to doctor or coax or soup up these Chevrolets to get the best out of them.

And that's really the test of a great highway performer: Just about anyone can get a kick out of driving one, just about anywhere, just as it comes out of the showroom.

Next time you're out your dealer's way, allow a few extra minutes to sample one of these highway performers on your own. A few are really all you'll need. That's enough time to do a lot of driving in a Chevrolet. *Optional at extra cost

Boll Weevil Program is To be held

LUBBOCK — Don Anderson, Chairman of the High Plains Boll Weevil Steering Committee, and Plains Cotton Growers Field Representative Ed Dean met January 3 in Austin with Texas Commissioner of Agriculture John White to discuss state participation in the boll weevil eradication program planned for the High Plains area.

Plains Cotton Growers is spearheading effort to initiate and all-out program to top the boll weevil before he makes deeper inroads on the High Plains.

Advising the commissioner of agriculture on the technical aspects of boll weevil problems and control at the meeting will be representatives of the Federal Plant Pest Control office at San Antonio, and the USDA Boll Weevil Research Laboratory at State College, Miss.

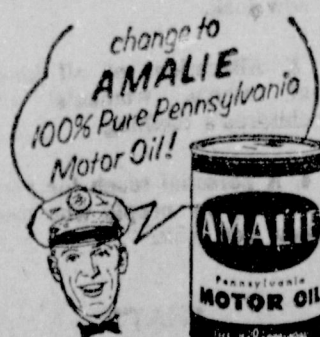

The meeting is preliminary to a meeting of the High Plains Area-wide Boll Weevil Committee scheduled later this month. The area-wide committee is made up of one member from each of the 23 counties in Plains Cotton Growers' territory, while the Steering Committee has thirteen members from the eastern edge of the High Plains where the weevil has already caused extensive damage.

Pitchers check the hitters: Dodgers make it unanimous

By FRANK ECK

AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

Pitching returned to the major leagues and the emphasis was carried into a startling World Series in which the Los Angeles Dodgers practically silenced the bats of the favored New York Yankees by taking the classic in four straight.

The strike zone was raised to shoulder height but the good hurlers such as Sandy Koufax, Whitey Ford, Warren Spahn, Camilo Pascual, Steve Barber and Juan Marichal.

Ten pitchers had 20 or more victories for the first time since 1951, and 23 pitchers allowed less than three earned runs per game. The American League had only four .300 hitters, the heavier hitting National League 11.

Koufax not only was top pitcher but the year's most outstanding athlete as well. He won 25 games, lost only five and struck out 15 Yankees to win the World Series opener, 5-2. He won the deciding game, 2-1, fanning eight. Each time he beat the redoubtable Ford with the winning run in the deciding game coming on an error.

Yankee first baseman Joe Pepitone couldn't find Clete Boyer's throw from third base because of a white-shirted background in a cloudless Los Angeles ball park. Koufax tossed a no-hitter at the Giants, set a southpaw shutout record with 11 snapped his own strikeout mark with 303 in 311 innings and had the best earned run (1.88) mark.

The Dodger southpaw won the Cy Young award and was his league's most valuable player besides being the Series hero.

The Yankees made only four runs in the classic. Johnny Podres won the second game, 4-1, and Don Drysdale won the third, 1-0. Other Dodger standouts were relief pitcher Ron Perranoski, who had a 16-3 mark for 69 appearances, and Tommy Davis who hit .326 to retain the NL batting crown.

The Dodgers swept a three-game St. Louis series and won their 11th flag by six games. For skipper Walt Alton it was his fourth flag and third Series win in 10 years.

Marichal of the Giants and Houston's Don Nottbart also joined Koufax with 25 wins. Milwaukee's Warren Spahn and Cincinnati's Jim Maloney won 23 and the Cubs' Dick Ellsworth 22. For Spahn it was his 13th season in 20-win society.

The Yankees made a shambles of the AL race, winning by 14 games. It was their fourth straight, three of which came under Ralph Houk who became the team's general manager in favor of Yogi Berra at season's end. Southpaw Ford led the AL in wins with 24. Behind him were young teammate Jim Bouton and Minnesota's Pascual with 21 and Baltimore's Barber and Boston's Bill Monbouquette with 20.

Mickey Mantle missed 96 games because of a broken bone in his foot but he hit .314. At season's end he underwent knee surgery.

Boston's Carl Yastrzemski captures the AL hitting title with .321 and young Gary Peters of the White Sox paced the hurlers with a 2.33 earned run mark.

Besides Berra, new managers were Gil Hodges in Washington, Charlie Dressen in Detroit and Hank Bauer in Baltimore.

The sport returned to one All-Star game and the NL won it,

5-3 in Cleveland.

Stan Musial retired at 42 in his 22nd year with the Cardinals and compiled a flock of hitting records while finishing a tremendous career with 331 in batting. He became a team vice president.

National League managers screamed while 96 balks were being called during the first 122 games as against only eight in the American League. But in May the one-second stop rule in the pitching motion was discarded.

There were numerous trades with a few players swapped twice within 12 months. The Dodgers returned Bill Skowron to the AL with Washington getting the slugger two months after he received a winning World Series share of $12,794.

Harmon Killebrew of the Twins retained the AL home run title with 45. In the NL, Hank Aaron of the Braves and Willie McCovey of the Giants solved stronger pitching for 44 homers each.

Duel beef grades Are cut back by Sec. Freeman

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has announced a decision against adopting the dual grading system for beef which was proposed April 10, 1962. At the same time, the secretary announced another proposal to modify the current official grade standards for beef.

The modification would retain the long-established grading system in its entirety, but would add a separate cutability designation as a part of the official USDA grade.

Secretary Freeman emphasizes that the decision was reached after careful consideration of the comment received during a one-year trial of the dual grading system which ended last June 30.

Many Insist On Conformation

The secretary said most of the comments supported the idea of identifying differences in the yield of salable meat from beef carcasses, but many livestock producers strongly opposed the omission of carcass conformation as a factor in determining quality grades. Some packers, even though they effectively used dual grading in merchandising beef, also pointed out the desirability of including a consideration of conformation with the quality grade in order to make carcasses more uniformly acceptable to retailers.

Under the new proposal, there would be no change in the evaluation of carcass quality and conformation. Quality would continue to be evaluated on the basis of marbling, color, texture, firmness, and maturity of lean, and conformation would still be evaluated on the basis of carcass thickness, and the relative development of the various parts of the carcass. Quality and conformation would be combined into single quality grades such as USDA Prime, Choice, Good, etc., just as they have been grades under the present official grade standards.

Cutability Designation

The only change is that a cutability designation also would be included as a part of the official USDA grade. It would be based on four carcass characteristics: over the rib eye muscle; 2) size over the rib eye muscle; 2) size of the rib eye; 3) amount of in-Put cranberries and orange quarters through coarse blade of food chopper. Stir in sugar; cover tightly and refrigerate. (Makes about 1 quart.) At serving time use the peaches cold or heat them in a skillet, in the oven or under the broiler; fill peach cavities with some of the cranberry mixture.  Note: To cook the shrimp you may use this method — wash in cold water and drain; add to 1 pint boiling water and 1-2 teaspoons salt in a saucepan. Simmer, covered, for several minutes, until all the shells turn pink and the flesh is opaque.
