Nasty weather reducing voter turnout

weather apparently was cutting down the voter turnout today in the Massachusetts primary, the nation's first with all major Democratic candidates on the ballot.

HOME EDITION

Several election officials predicted many voters would stay home as freezing rain pelted some towns in the western and northeastern portions of the state and snow fell in some central

A snow storm also was cutting into the turnout in Vermont, where the voting was strictly a preferential poll with no delegates at stake. Delegates are chosen at the party conventions.

Massachusetts' secretary of state, Paul Guzzi, had predicted a turnout of between 35 and 40 per cent of the state's 2.8 million registered voters - up to about 1.1 million — as candidates battled for the state's 102 national convention delegates. Observers were hesitant to predict a finishing order in the Democratic race, where voters also have a "no preference" choice. Forty-three Republican delegates were at stake.

The focus was on the Democratic race in Massachusetts, with all eight major candidates on the ballot and no clear favorite to win. Both President Ford and and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan are on the GOP ballot, but neither campaigned in the state. Boston had a dusting of snow and blustery winds and temperatures barely above freezing. The failure of a major electric transmission line knocked out power to 20,000 customers in 12 western suburbs of Boston and interrupted balloting on voting machines, the Boston Edison Co. reported. Electricity was restored to six of the towns within two hours, but the others were expected to be out until the afternoon.

Poll openings varied from 6 a.m. to 10 a.m., but all must close by 8 p.m. On the Republican side, Ford's Massachusetts organization con-centrated on telephone canvassing and media advertising. Reagan's advertising for last week's New Hampshire primary also reached Bay State audiences.

Ford was unopposed in a simultaneous primary contest in Vermont today, and on the Democratic side, only Jimmy Carter, Sargent Shriver and Fred Harris were listed on the ballot.

pected to draw only a light turnout. And the snow storm cut into that as Vermont voters cast ballots in a presidential primary for the first time in 56 years.

"It's very, very slow," said Leo Carroll, voting inspector in the state's largest city, Burlington. In Mount Holly, Vt., selectman Carroll Tarbell said town officials decided to postpone the election because only about half a dozen voters turned out. They initially rescheduled it for Friday, and then changed it to Saturday. The town has 300 registered voters.

Three of the Democrats expected to be among the frontrunners in Massachusetts planned to be elsewhere on election day.

Carter, the former Georgia governor, wound up his Massachusetts campaign last week, and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace departed after staging a last campaign stand Monday night at the Orpheum theater. Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington spent the day in Massachussets before leaving for Florida, site of the next primary confrontation.

Wallace, a key figure in the election largely because of the busing issue which is particulary important in Boston and Springfield, was expected at least to double his 1972 primary showing of 7.4 per cent.

Carter won 15 of 17 delegates with 28.37 per cent in the fiveway field in New Hampshire a week ago - but Wallace, Jackson and Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp weren't in the

The memo provides the first evidence that Warren, who headed the investigation which concluded that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone in killing Kennedy, ever learned of the CIA plots to kill Castro. Rowley's memo was written in 1967, three years after the Warren commission published its conclusions.

Columnist Jack Anderson, who said he also has a copy of the memo, said Monday that Rowley mistakenly told Hoover that Warren also had learned from the source that Castro ordered Kennedy's death in retaliation for the attempts on his own life.

Anderson, a former partner of Pearson's, said the source had direct after-the-fact knowledge of the CIA plots but was only speculating when he told Warren about a possible Castro retaliation.

Rowley said only that, "We tried to do it (the memo) as was presented to us (by Warren).'

Anderson described the contents of the memo to The Associated Press in an interview Monday after the Las Vegas Sun reported that a secret report in the hands of the Senate committee documented that Castro had ordered Kennedy's assassination and probably that of his brother, Robert.

Gifford devoted 31 years making city better place to live, work

By DEBBIE PIERCE

R. H. "Rusty" Gifford thinks a "town worth living in is worth working for," and in his 31 years of Midland residency, he's put his philosophy to work countless times. Gifford's first association with Midland came in September 1941, right before the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. He was working for the Texas Department of Public Safety stationed at Pecos. His district then reached from the Midland County line to El Paso.

The spry, 65-year-old had always liked the looks of Midland and was only too happy to be transfered here as a motorcycle patrolman four years later. He commented, "Since everyone was in service then, I was the only patrolman from here to Van Horn. After eight months, Gifford resigned and assumed managership of a tire store located at the corner of Main and Texas Streets, the current site of Pryor Shoe Store.

"I'd been here less than two years when a bunch of us youngsters got together and decided we wanted a chance to run this town," he said. "We all agreed to run for the city council, but I was the only one elec-

Gifford announced his candidacy for mayor of Midland on his birthday in 1947. He was elected on the anniversary of his two-year's residency here and formally installed on his

Though Gifford only served one two-year term as mayor, several important changes took place during his term.

The city charter was changed to provide for a city manager-form of government, and the first city manager was hired, Gifford noted. R. C. "Bob" Hoppe was the first city manager back in 1947 but only served three months before he had to resign due to ill health. Fred Hogan took his place and served in that capacity until

Also during Gifford's term as mayor, one of the largest bond issues on record was approved by Midland voters by a 2 to 1 margin. The issue was for $1,260,000 for water and sewer improvements, street improvements, municipal buildings and drainage,

Gifford noted. He said, "The city was like a young kid then, about to burst at the seams. It wanted and needed to grow, so the people approved the large bond issue in 1947. You see, at the time, we only had four full-time firemen and 12 policemen serving the city."

Gifford's term also saw the retaking of Midland Regional Air Terminal from a bombadier training school established in June 1941. The school, the largest one in the world, was built at a cost of $5 million and operated as the Midland Army Air Force Base.

Gifford said the council in 1949 approved a resolution to accept the terms of a contract furnished by the U.S. government and re-took Army Airfield. Air Terminal was then incorporated into the city limits.

"It was before the time of required open meetings, but when I became mayor, I said I'd open all meetings except those concerning personnel matters," Gifford said. "I believe that, because the council is elected by the people, nothing should be hidden from them. We put everything on the top of the table to see what the people

During Gifford's term, the first comprehensive paving program was instituted. Gifford noted, "You know, people see the tangibles — fire trucks, police cars, street patching and so forth — and they think that's where their tax dollars are going. But they tend to forget the intangibles such as water lines that also cost the city

After Gifford's term as mayor expired, he served a number of years representing a tool company in the "oil patch." He returned to the city in 1960, though, as a police recruit in-

Chamber to offer map on West Texas area

ABILENE - Burvin Hines, of Arlington, chairman of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce tourist and travel development committee, has announced that the 1976 Bicentennial edition of the "Wonderful West Texas" Fun and Adventure Map will be released at the Dallas Sports and Vacation Show scheduled March 7-14.

The full color folder offers travel information on 69 attractions, towns, museums, colleges, and universities throughout West Texas and number keys each to a four-color travel map of the area for easy reference.

Hines said that "People traveling in West Texas and prospective visitors to the area, by using the map, can easily plan a complete vacation or a weekend outing. Many points of interest are shown which might easily be overlooked by the visitor. By using the Fun and Adventure Map, savings also can be made in travel time and Hines added that "Total distribution for the Fun and Adventure Map designed to sell West Texas as a prime travel destination will exceed 100,000 copies, and that distribution will include direct mailouts from the WTCC office, Texas Highway Department Information Centers, travel clubs, travel Shows and participants."

Free copies of the maps are available by contacting the WTCC Travel Department, P. O. Box 1561. Abilene, Texas 79604.

Attractions and areas of interest in Midland and vicinity, including the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, Library and Hall of Fame, and Midland College, are listed.

Zone change request runs into opposition

Nearly 25 persons filed into the council chamber at Midland City Hall Monday, most of them to hear testimony and voice their opposition to a zone change request before the city Planning and Zoning Commission.

The request, presented by W.M. Hickey, was for a zone change from single-family residence to another classification of single-family residence to allow construction of four houses on three lots in the 1400 block of W. Golf Course Road.

Hickey, owner of the lots, explained that each lot currently contains 11,000 square feet of space. If rezoned, the lots would each be 8,200 square feet. He said, "If lots aren't too small, the smaller lots are more desirable for most of the needs of people buying houses in Midland today.'

Hickey said the houses to be built hopefully would sell for $40,000 each. He said they would be a minimum of 1,800 square feet liveable space, have a rear-entry garage and a circular driveway in front.

Much of the opposition settled on the question of what type of structures Hickey would build, their compatibility with the structures currently at that location, the smallness of having four houses on three lots and the probable traffic the residences would create.

City planners then found out that two residents living within the specified area had not received notification of the public hearing.

Assistant City Atty. Scott Shelton reported two schools of thought exist in the law regarding such a situation - those residents within 200 feet of the property but not receiving notification, could attend the public hearing anyway and thereby waive their rights to notification, or the public hearing could be declared invalid and the issue taken up at a later date.

Hickey said he had no intentions of downgrading these lots and surrounding property, or of making anyone angry at him for proposing the change.

City planners agreed to go along with attorney Shelton's recommendation and decided to resume the hearing when the proper notification has been made.

In other action, the commission: - Approved a zone change request by D. Ray Bailey from single-family residence to commercial and local retail on three acres at FM 868 and Midkiff Road. The change was to allow an addition to the present Williams Feed and Supply of a grocery store and self-service gas

Captive's family issues appeal

By WILLIAM N. HEATH Associated Press Writer

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) - The family of kidnapped U.S. businessman William F. Niehous appealed to his captors to make an offer for his release, but there was no indication today that contact had been made.

Despite discovery of a car used in the kidnaping and unofficial reports that several of the kidnapers had been identified, police said late Monday that' their investigation was "at point zero."

Niehous, president of the Owens-Illinois glass manufacturing company's Venezuelan operations, was drugged and seized Friday night by seven gunmen whom police believe to be members of an ultra-left organization.

Aside from a 3,000-word communique sent to a Caracas newspaper on Saturday by self described "revolutionaries," there has been no word from the kidnapers. Police have declined to say whether they consider the communique, which accused Niehous of meddling in Venezuelan political and economic affairs, authentic.

Hearst defense winds up

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — After a last-minute pitch aimed at shattering the credibility of a government-produced film of Patricia Hearst as bank robber, the defense has rested its case with a stormy accusation of misconduct by the prosecution. U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr. was scheduled to open his rebuttal case today, amid speculation that the trial of the 22-year-old newspaper heiress could go to the jury by week's end.

THE PROSECUTOR declined to identify his first witness. He has indicated rebuttal would take about two days and hinted of a "surprise witness."

Defense attorneys F. Lee Bailey and Albert Johnson argued in vain Monday for dismissal of the indictments against Miss Hearst, alleging that the government had distorted a two-minute movie pieced together from bank surveillance photographs and used as the most critical evidence against her.

The defense said the prosecution cropped many of the photos so that they failed to show another participant in the robbery holding a gun on Miss Hearst.

BROWNING ANGRILY DENIED the allegation, and U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter quickly rejected the request for dismissal.

Chief defense counsel Bailey called 12 persons to the stand during 11 days of testimony, which was dominated by Miss Hearst's week-long recounting of her kidnaping and her subsequent saga of a 19-month ordeal of fear and torture inflicted by her terrorist captors

Miss Hearst said the Symbionese Liberation Army, which abducted her on Feb. 4, 1974, forced her under fear of death to take part in the bank robbery two months later. It made her a fugitive and left her terrified not only of the SLA but also of the FBI, she

The prosecution has sought to show Miss Hearst was an impressionable convert to the SLA and a willing participant in the robbery.

THE DEFENSE WRAPPED UP its case by showing jurors more than 50 photographs taken from the bank film that disclosed that now-dead SLA member Camilla Hall was clipped from much of the movie. Johnson introduced the 8-by10 inch pictures turned over to the defense on Feb. 25 and compared them with 5-by-7 prints offered by the government as evidence early in the case.

He then had the film shown again to the jury, pointing out that Miss Hall was basically out of sight except toward the end when she ran from the bank.

JOHNSON CALLED to the stand Vernon L. Kipping, an FBI agent who made the film from stills. He said the cropping of Miss Hall's image in the upper right corner was "inadvertent."

When I observed that Camilla Hall was not shown as fully as she should be, I produced another film depicting her fully," Kipping said. Johnson elicited from Kipping the news that the enlarged film of Miss Hall was not made available to the defense until the past weekend - more than two weeks after the government rested its main case. Kipping said it was "the first opportunity" he had had to make the film showing Miss Hall's

THE FBI AGENT disagreed with Johnson's suggestions that Miss Hall was pointing her carbine at Miss Hearst "I believe it's pointing more at the persons behind the counter than her," Kipping said.

Miss Hearst testified that slain SLA chieftain Donald "Cinque" DeFreeze told her just before the holdup that if she "messed up" in any way inside the bank she would be killed instantly. She contended that DeFreeze and the three other SLA bandits kept their weapons trained on her inside the bank, ready to open fire at any time.

AFTER JOHNSON had finished his examination of Kipping, the jury was excused while the defense argued for dismissal.

Johnson said Miss Hall's movements were a vital bit of evidence and that the government exhibited "misconduct" when it failed to alert the defense to its existence.

He accused the prosecution of wilfully ignoring U.S. Supreme Court decisions requiring the presentation "of exculpatory evidence in a timely man-

Browning, his voice rising in anger, said the government had not had the larger prints available until last week, at the request of the defense. The prosecutor, however, said the enlargements had very little bearing on the case.

"I DENY CATEGORICALLY that the photographs are exculpatory," Browning said. "They are clearly subject to the interpretation of the viewer.

He branded defense suggestions that Miss Hall had her weapon pointed at Miss Hearst as "bald asser-

Browning left open the possibility he might show the jury the blown-up film of Miss Hall in the bank. Before the film issue was raised, Bailey lost a bid to have a clinical psychologist who examined Miss Hearst for a total of 24 hours testify that some of the defendant's taped messages of SLA allegiance from the underground were written by her captors.

But, Abramowitz said, U.S. forces would not have the stabilizing effects he said they have now, particularly in South Korea.

Schieffer Plan ok'd

WASHINGTON (AP) - . The so-called "Schieffer Plan" for carving Tarrant County into single-member House districts will be used in this year's elections.

The U.S. Supreme Court Monday turned down Fort Worth lawyer Don Gladden's appeal of a three-judge federal court order enacting the compromise redistricting plan proposed by Rep. Tom Schieffer, D-Fort Worth.

Gladden claimed the Schieffer plan discriminated against minorities and deviated too far from the one-man, one-vote standard.

The Schieffer plan divides Tarrant County into nine single member districts, virtually guaranteeing election of the county's first black House member. It also gives Republicans a chance to elect one or two representatives. The delegation now is all-Democrat.

Schieffer's proposal saves all incumbents who saves all incumbents who are seeking re-election from being paired with other representatives.

The three-judge court's order of Feb. 19 also approved six sets of district boundaries enacted by the 1975 tegislature and com-promise lines for Nueces and Jefferson counties.

Salute to Elcor!

The Midland Wildcat Committee this afternoon is honoring officers and directors of another Midland-based company — Elcor Chemical Corp. — at a reception being held in the Petroleum Club.

This is a most worthy recognition and the host organization is due commendation for its thoughtful action in the matter.

At the same time, the officers and directors of Elcor, as well as all personnel of the firm, are due congratulations on this particular

But more than this even, they merit community-wide congratulations for having brought Elcor Chemical through a somewhat perilous period into the dividend-paying era.

Conditions and situations haven't always been ideal for Elcor, in fact they have been downright tough on occasion, but faith, determination, good management and just plain old hard work on the part of President and Chairman Roy E. Campbell and his loyal associates have been responsible for guiding Elcor through troubled waters and to the place where it once again ranks as a successful growth

Nixon's debriefing might go like this

WASHINGTON - Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said he hoped to debrief former President Richard Nixon upon his return from his trip to China. No one knows what Mr. Nixon will say, but this is how the debriefing

"Mr. President, what's going on in China now?"

"Henry, I have it on highest authority that Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping, whom you and President Ford met on your recent trip, was a member of the revisionist, imperialist, bourgeois clique that was trying to turn back the clock of Chairman Mao's Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution.'

"How do you know this?" "I saw it on a poster across from my hotel. It seems that Teng thought he could follow the capitalist-imperialist path of the ignoble traitors Liu Shao-chi and Lin Piao. But this running dog did not fool the masses.'

"That's very good, Mr. President, but did you get any feeling about who was in charge in China at the moment?"

"Chairman Mao Tse-tung is still the beloved leader of the proletariat. He has designated Hua Kuo-feng as acting premier because Hua is a dedicated Marxist-Leninist of the anti-Soviet school who has devoted his life to the heroic struggle for Communist revolution and socialist construction."

"Who told you this?" "Pat saw it on a wall poster when she visited a children's school outside of Peking. "What feeling did you get about their economy?

"Chairman Mao's Great Leap Forward continues in spite of efforts by feudal landlords to destroy the dictatorship of the proletariat. But the poison is being eradicated by the vigilance of the workers, the peasants and the soldiers."

"That's very good, Mr. President, but did you get any feeling that there was some sort of power struggle going on in the country?'

"I did hear of rightest winds blowing across the desert, trying to reverse the verdicts of Chairman Mao. But the masses, through the Central Committee, intend to deal with these capitalist-roaders as they have with the running dogs Liu Shaochi and Lin Piao." "Did you hear any names mentioned as to who was opposing Mao?" 'Confucius for one. I heard Confucius' writings were an example of the reactionary ideological weapons which the imperialists have used to achieve their goals of big power chauvinism." 'You saw that on a poster?"

"Chairman Mao personally told me that Confucius was the foremost peddler of degenerate capitalist

"Mr. President, was there any mention of China's relations with the Soviet Union? "Yes, there was. I was informed that the Soviet Socialist imperialists who betrayed the ideals of Marx and Lenin for their own bourgeois reasons are now intent on unbridled aggression and expansion abroad." 'Mao said that?"

"No, I saw it on a poster." "Did you see any evidence of a military buildup?"

"As Chairman Mao has said many times, every worker is a soldier and every soldier is a worker."

'I must say, Mr. President, you really learned a lot in eight days.' "Let a thousand flowers bloom."

"Did Mao say that?"

"No, Pat did. You know we lost our gardener at San Clemente.' "Well, thank you very much. You've been most helpful and we now have a much clearer picture as to what is going on in China.'

"The pleasure is all mine, Comrade."

Peking: 'Keep troops in Korea'

By JACK ANDERSON with LES

WASHINGTON - Mainland China, the most doctrinaire of all communist countries, has been sending the United States strong signals that it wants those "imperialist" U.S. troops to remain in South Korea.

There has been no miraculous change in old Chairman Mao Tsetung's devotion to world revolution. Rather, the Chinese are more apprehensive about a Soviet build-up than the American presence in Korea.

The Chinese view, as it has emerged from private discussions, is that the 43,000 U.S. troops should deter North Korea's recklessly ambitious Kim Il-sung from attacking

South Korea. If the United States should withdraw its troops, on the other hand, Kim might be tempted to try unifying Korea by force. This would give the Soviets an excuse to move heavily

More than a million Soviet soldiers already line the 4,150-mile border between Russia and China. A Soviet move into Korea would tighten the

The Korean peninsula is also a dagger pointing at the heart of Japan. A communist takeover in Korea. therefore, could upset the stability in Asia and push Japan into rearming. In the Chinese view, it would be far better to have a few thousand GIs in South Korea

The first clear signals from China were picked up by Sen. Charles Percy, R.-Ill., during a visit to Peking last August. Recalling his talks with Chinese Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua, Percy told us: "On the surface, he was for a unified Korea." But the Chinese let Percy and his colleagues know subtly that they "had no real objection" to the U.S. military presence in South Korea. "In broad terms, they do not object to U.S. forces in places where the Russians would move in." Percy explained. Another congressional delegation, led by Rep. John Anderson, R-Ill., came back with a similar feeling. An 'abrupt withdrawal" from South Korea, Anderson told us, "would worry the Chinese tremendously." The most recent congressional visitors to China, led by Rep. Margaret Heckler, R.-Mass., and Patsy Mink, D.-Hawaii, held long talks with top Chinese leaders in January

Ms. Mink put the South Korean question bluntly to the Chinese who, at first, replied with the usual polemic on "imperialism" and "intervention." But the line quietly switched as the conversation progressed.

According to two people who were present, the Chinese made clear they didn't want the United States to pull out of South Korea abruptly. Ms. Heckler, who was also present, felt the Chinese hints were much more veiled than this.

Meanwhile, members of the Chinese delegation in Washington have let U.S. policymakers know informally that they want the United States to stay in Korea. One U.S. official told us a Chinese diplomat informed him explicitly that China "is not concerned with the U.S. troops." "They have no objection at all," the official told us. "In fact, they even said we ought to expand our naval base at Diego Garcia." This it an Indian Ocean base, which the United States is building to counter Soviet naval expansion into these waters. Footnote: The delicate position of the Chinese surfaced last fall in the United Nations. A few weeks after the private assurance to the Percy group that a U.S. military presence was acceptable in South Korea, the Chinese foreign minister issued a public demand for a U.S. troop withdrawal. The purpose, of course, was to keep Kim Il-sung from turning to the Soviets for more support.

PIPELINE LEAK? There is concern that an earthquake or explosion could burst the Alaska pipeline, causing hundreds of thousands of barrels of crude oil to pour into Alaska's virgin wilderness. Yet an automatic system, which would shut down the pipeline's oil flow under abnormal conditions, has been eliminated from the construction

These plans were approved by the Interior Department and subjected to intense public scrutiny. Now they have been quietly changed. We have obtained copies of portions of the Alyeska consortium's revised plans, which show this important oil leak prevention system has been deleted. Alyeska officials told us the system was deleted because it is no longer necessary. They have a better system which has no need for automatic controls, they said. But Ray Smith, an environmental engineer who helped the Interior Department review the original plans, feels the deletion could mean massive oil spills in case of a break in the pipeline. Footnote: Interior officials insist the changes in the pipeline plans don't violate any of the environmental stipulations which Alyeska is required to follow.

That old-time 'TM,' yes, but not federally-funded

WASHINGTON - Since the nation's pedagogues have a devil of a time explaining why youngsters can't read, write and comprehend as they should - despite an educational spending boom - maybe they should go the New Jersey route and teach Transcendental Meditation in the public schools. For the benefit of those temporarily out of touch with the puberty set, Transcendental Meditation, or "TM," is a spiritual exercise promulgated by one Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, a Hindu monk of small physical proportion. It involves sitting still, meditating and doing nothing — which is what many on in Washington do anyway.

The Maharishi is a believing Hindu who also believes in making money. His clutch of organizations are said to do a $20 million-a-year business, and 600,000 meditators now populate the republic.

Anyhow, New Jersey got into the public prints because its Department of Education is being sued by the "Coalition for Religious Integrity" on charges of violating the constitutional doctrine of separation of church and state. How? Why by allowing TM to be taught in the New Jersey public schools and, heavens to Betsy, with federal money besides. True, the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare provided that sovereign state with $41,000 in Title III money, and that state turned around and spent it in an innovative way on TM courses for four high schools.

HEW, on learning of the lawsuit. claims it had no knowledge of how New Jersey was going to spend the money and therefore wasn't endorsing or un-endorsing TM.

Now the "Coalition for Religious Integrity" is the creation of the Americans United for Separation of Church and State - an outfit which used to fry Roman Catholics for breakfast and search under beds for the Pope before retiring.

It has mustered a half-dozen groups of parents, Christian clergy and religious libertarians for purposes of testing New Jersey's claim that TM is not religious in content.

"My Lord," says Albert J. Menendez, somehow forgetting he had invoked the deity, "TM involves initiation rituals, the Hindu Veda and mantra, offerings of fruits and flowers, and kneeling before a picture of a Hindu guru. It is clearly religious. "It's also trendy and a fad with many youngsters. I suppose the school systems had nothing better to do. But the state is prohibited from sponsoring or showing preferential or deferential treatment to any Irony of ironies: The principal litigant, Alan B. Malnak of Maplewood, N.J., and the Coalition's lawyer, Joseph Duffy, are practicing members of the Papal Plot, nominally an abomination to the Americans United, etc.

Now Charles Wilson, director of the state's education and research center, maintains the courses are given to determine if TM methods can help students improve their learning skills, deportment and aspirations. Some 500 students are enrolled, but regular teachers, not gurus, meet with the classes.

Orthodox practitioners of TM sit down twice a day, always maintaining a disciplined stillness, and silently repeat to themselves a specially select Sanskrit word or mantra. The True Believers vow that this exercise dissolves anxiety and leads a good soul to a happier, healthier and successful life. Amen.

TM is not to be trifled with. It has made the covers of the major magazines and its management gurus even acquired a college for the faith - the defunct Parsons College at Fairfield, Iowa.

Egads, TM is also taught in the Army and at other federal enterprises, and naturally prisoners are given regular doses.

The Coalition suing New Jersey, the school districts and HEW includes some religious folk who believe if the feds are going to dispense money to TM - which they claim is religious they should dispense it to all religious denominations.

If the Coalition loses its suit, maybe some religious organizations might apply for federal funds, citing TM's good luck. Can we look for Roman Catholics, Lutherans, Hebrews, Seventh-Day Adventists and Holy Rollers to line up for their federal funds?

"When he was told that he would be identified, he said that such a disclosure left him no choice but to commit suicide.

"In this instance, it was decided that the story could not be suppressed even in the face of Mr. Rees' threat," said Ken Johnson, executive editor of the Times Herald.

In its copyright story, the newspaper said that Rees passed petroleum industry secrets to the Russians and became a double agent agents told him they knew of his work for the Russians.

The Times Herald said Monday that Rees came to Dallas twice for interviews and voluntarily submitted to polygraph (lie detector) tests. During these contacts, he asked the newspaper to withhold the story and refrain from identifying him.

Johnson said that because of the interviews and polygraph tests Rees "was fully aware throughout our contact with him that we intended to identify him and to publish a full account of his espionage activities.'

The Times Herald said its story about Rees' spying activities was 'Once the basic information had been verified, Mr. Rees was contacted and asked for comment. He acknowledged during the telephone interview that he had been an agent for the Soviet government," the newspaper said.

Rees, a former engineer with the Mobil Oil Co., admitted taking money for industry information and that the Soviet Union also gave him a medal and a $5,000 pension, the Times

Violent crime rises in eight target cities

WASHINGTON (AP) - Violent WASHINGTON (AP) — At least two separate lobbying efforts are under way against a gun control bill that is nearing a final vote in the House Judiciary Committee.

The National Rifle Association and a trade industry group, the Sporting Arms and Ammunition Manufacturers Institute, are working against the legislation, but they have different lobbying strategies.

The Judiciary Committee could take final action to vote out a bill today, but efforts may be made to The cities are Atlanta, Baltimore, send the bill back to subcommittee for reconsideration Sources said the former head of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration. Donald Santarelli, was working for the manufacturer's institute in an attempt to force reconsideration of an amendment that would ban concealable handguns.

Santarelli could not be reached at his Washington law firm.

Richard Corrigan, a lobbyist for the NRA, said his organization wants the amendment to remain in the legislation to make it easier to defeat the entire handgun control proposal.

The amendment was proposed by Rep. Martin Russo, D-Ill., who complained at a news conference Monday that the NRA was spreading inaccurate information about his legislation.

He charged, for instance, that a list of handguns distributed by the NRA with a claim they would be banned under the Russo amendment, contained weapons manufacturers no longer were making and handguns that already are banned under a 1968 federal gun control law.

Russo said the NRA was engaging in "shabby tactics" in an effort "to kill the handgun legislation now being considered by the House Judiciary Committee.

Hours after Russo called his news conference, Rep. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, called his own to counter Russo. Symms was joined by the chief counsel of the NRA, Mike Parker.

Symms said the legislation was an assault on handgun ownership in America, "an assault on our crime has "considerably worsened" in eight cities that the Nixon administration chose for a multimilliondollar anticrime program in 1972, a government-funded study reported

Evaluators from the Mitre Corp., a private research firm, concluded that the "high impact anticrime program" failed to fulfill the Nixon administration's promise of a 5 per cent reduction in street crimes and burglary within two years in the

The report suggested that it was foolish for administration officials to launch the program with the claim that it would bring about an actual percentage reduction in the crime rate. The promised reductions were not "based on any empirical evidence that could be attained," the report

Political pressures to achieve the goal and to get specific projects started quickly hampered the program by discouraging adequate planning, the report said. But some cities were able to overcome the handicap, the researchers noted.

Though concluding that crime rates generally increased, the report said the increase might have been much greater if the program had not been in

The evaluators also concluded that the program gave officials in the eight cities valuable training in planning and carrying out crime-fighting

The evaluators said it's difficult to judge precisely what impact the program had on the cities' crime rates. They based their conclusions on FBI figures for crimes reported to police in those cities, but they cautioned that those statistics "are highly fallible as measures of crime." Most studies show that many crimes are never reported.

Based on the FBI figures for 1968 through 1974, the researchers found: -"Long-term, generally severe crime-rate increases in Atlanta and Portland.

-"Declining or generally stabilizing trends in Dallas and Denver" except for rape in Dallas and burglary in both cities. -An increase in murder rates in all cities except Dallas. -The burglary rate doubled in Portland but remained relatively low in Cleveland

Ford resented timing of trip

WASHINGTON (AP) -Presidential counselor Rogers Morton says President Ford resented the timing of Richard Nixon's recent trip to China, while Ford is repeating his intention not to debrief the former president.

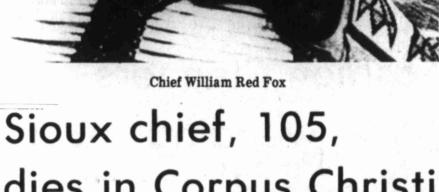

White House Press Secretary Ron

ch for oil in the Middle East is under way in Egypt, and optimism is running high after recent strikes in the Gulf of Suez.

Already producing a small oil surplus since the recovery of the Sinai oil—fields from Israel last year, Egypt has set a production tyarget of one million barries a day by 1980, of which about 700,000 would be for export. American and European oilmen here say it is probable that Egypt can meet that goal and perhaps even sur-

While this will undoubtedly be beneficial for the country's woeful economy, it hardly represents a bonanza that will bring Egypt the level of riches enjoyed by its Arab

One million barrels is slightly less than the normal daily production of, say, Abu Bhabi, which has only 235,000 people, as against Egypt's 38 million. It is less than half of Kuwait's normal output.

Only about half the money raised from the sale of Egyptian oil abroad would go to Egypt because the international companies prospecting here are working under agreements that require them to put up all the capital costs of exploration but allow them to expenses and a profit.

Petroleum Minister Ahmed Ezzedin Millal has said that Egypt expects to earn about $3509 million from oil exports this year and that earnings should increase to about $1.4 billion by the end of 1980 if the production target

But those figures must be measured against existing foreign debts estimated at $10 billion or more and an annual ballance-of-payments deficit of about $6 billion. "We can't say that the ol will resolve our problems," said a Cairo petroleum writer. "The common people have the habit of thinking we will be another Saudi Arabia. It's part of our problem that we can't fulfill those expectations."

Diplomatic analysts say that the current development of the oil industry here has political as well as economic significance. The government is expected to seek bids soon from potential prospectors to explore areas of the Sinai Peninsula that Egypt does not now control.

You can imagine the effort to get 30 agreements in 29 months," said Ibrahim Radwan proudly. He is agreements manager for Egyptian General Petroleum Co., a partner in every exploration and production

Among the companies that signed up to explore and paid more than $76 million in "signature bonuses" for the privilege were such American of giants as Mobil Oil Corp.

Agreement announced

PITTSBURGH (AP) - U.S. Steel Corp. says it has tentatively agreed to sell its interests in two South Texas uranium mining ventures to a Swiss company for $72 million.

U.S. Steel did not identify the prospective buyer in its brief announcement Monday, except to say the firm is owned by a group of Swiss

The nation's largest steelmaker has been a partner in the uranium operations with Atlantic Richfield Oil Co. (Arco), and Delco for about seven years. Arco owns 50 per cent of the operation, while Delco and U.S. Steel each own 25 per cent, a U.S. Steel spokesman said.

The spokesman said that the sale is subject to rights of first refusal by the other participants but it can be assumed they have given their tentative approval.

U.S. Steel said the $72 million sale price depends upon the buyer being satisfied as to reserves of uranium at the sites in the Gulf Coast region of Texas, costs of operation, production capability and preparation of a mutually satisfactory definitive

U.S. Steel did not give exact locations of the mines except to say they were near George West.

STERLING ACTIVITY

Magnatex Corp., Oil Division, Midland, will drill No. 1-96 Reed as a 1/2 mile southeast offset to the most northeasterly upper Cisco gas well in the Credo, East field of Sterling.

OILER COMPLETES

W. C. Blanks of Midland completed No. 1-20 R. T. Foster as an extension to Fusselman pay, 1½ mile southeast of the recent Fusselman oil reopener in the WAM, South field of Sterling County.

It was finaled to flow 289 barrels of 53.6-gravity oil per day, with gas-oil ratio measuring 4,464-1. Completion was on a 12-64-inch choke and perforations at 8,498-8,517 feet, which had been acidized with 500 gallons.

Drilled to 8,545 feet, it has 51/2-inch casing seated on bottom, and is plugged back to 8,525 feet.

It was staked as a stepout to Canyon gas production in the Conger field, and spots 990 feet from south and west lines of section 20, block 13, SPRR survey, six miles southwest of Sterling City.

And Krueger noted the Senate already has passed deregulation legislation, contrary to the House

"It's my judgment the Senate will again be willing, if a vote comes, to indicate its support for the principle of deregulation," he said.

Krueger early this year felt he was winning the fight for deregulation. But in a sudden parliamentary move, opponents of deregulation got behind an amendment by Rep. Neil Smith, D-Iowa, that lifted price controls from small independent producers but kept controls on major natural gas producing companies. Smith's amendment was approved 205 to 201.

Krueger has often stated that deregulation would add about $5 billion to consumers' natural gas bills. But this amount, he claims, is far less than would have to be spent on substitute fuels that would have to be used because continuing price controls hamper exploration and drilling for new gas supplies, creating gas shortages.

There has been no similar study on the consumer impact of the Smith amendment, although Krueger and his supporters claim it would keep 75 per cent of natural gas under federal price controls.

Krueger said one way the deregulation issue could be brought back to the House is for the Senate, when it takes up the Smith amendment, to substitute for it the decontrol legislation it already has approved. Once that is accomplished the Senate legislation would be returned to the House, which would be faced once more with voting for or against

The 24-hour potential test gauged 235 barrels of oil, gravity unreported, with gas-oil ratio measuring 4,880-1.

Production was through a 1-inch choke and perforations at 11,275-11,290 feet, after treating the pay with 25,000 gallons of acid.

It was completed last November as a gas well through the above perforations, for a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 2.7 million cubic feet of gas daily, with gas-liquid ratio measuring 8,648-1. Wellsite is $90 feet from north and 2,310 feet from west lines of section 13, block 2, MK&T survey, 10 miles northeast of Mc-Camey

South should ruff the diamond with the nine of trumps instead of the four. Then he leads a spade to dummy's king and lets the eight of hearts ride

IN DUMMY The finesse succeeds, and the lead stays in dummy - because South can play the four of hearts under dummy's eight. Declarer can thus continue with dummy's other heart to repeat the finesse. South picks up East's trumps without loss and scores

Incidentally, don't try the false safety play of leading out the ace of hearts before taking a trump finesse. This play works if West had the singleton queen of hearts, but loses if West has the singleton 6, 5, 3 or 2. The odds are thus 4 to 1 in favor of taking two trump finesses instead of playing the ace first and then taking just one weather last year was unusual Development Board. because it was "practically normal," a state expert reported Monday. For the first time in 15 years, George Bomar said, Texas' rainfall, as measured at 18 National Weather Service stations, "totalled within one inch of the normal statewide Except for Midland, annual rainfall amounts at the stations ranged from 80 to 125 per cent of normal, "a phenomenon of Texas weather seldom observed," Bomar said. The Midland-Odessa area measured 23.24 inches of rainfall for the year, the wettest year for that area in 34 years and 172 per cent of its normal amount of 13.51 inches, Bomar said.

He discussed last year's weather in the latest issue of "Water for Texas," Bomar, a hydrometeorologist, based his article on teletype reports of the National Weather Service and official publications of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

Temperatures across Texas averaged within two degrees of normal. Bomar said, "with only the coastal areas of Texas reporting slightly warmer weather than usual.' Amarillo showed the greatest range

- from a low of 3 to a high of 98 Dalhart and Perryton registered 1975's coldest temperature of minus 7 degrees in the second weekend in January. Falcon Dam reported the highest reading of 111 degrees—on Aug. 1. Although weather was "nearnormal" last year, Bomar said, some rainfall records were set. Hurricane Caroline, which struck the Mexican coast, triggered rains of 9.56 inches in Brownsville last August, the most for that city in that month in the 20th Century. Galveston's May total of 10.79 inches established a high-rainfall mark in the 105-year history of that station.

Weather extremes included the Dallas dry spell from August through November, when only 1.59 inches of rain fell, a dry-weather phenomenon unparalleled in the 63-year weather history of the area.

Brownsville also broke a 74-yearold record for dry weather by measuring only .71 inches of rain during the first four months of 1975.

cluded 17 inches of rainfall in Hardin County in less than 10 hours last June and a sudden cold front, followed by a "rapid warm-up," that resulted in cotton losses of up to $50 million in the South Plains in September. Snowfall also was near-normal except in the Panhandle, where total accumulations generally exceeded normal by three to seven inches. Among the higher totals was the 28.2 inches measured at Borger. Freezing weather first arrived on Sept. 25 at Lipscomb in the Panhandle, and the last spring freeze was at May 9.

Caroline was the only hurricane that affected Texas in 1975. It struck the Mexican coast near Santa Cruz with highest winds of 115 miles an hour, and Aug. 31 flooding caused by the hurricane damaged homes and businesses in Raymondville in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

The year, said Bomar, "will be remembered as an unusual year weatherwise in Texas-unusual in the sense that, on the average for the whole of the year, the weather was practically normal.'

MERIT MENTHOL

"Low tar, good taste."

Others have made the claim.

Philip Morris just made the cigarette.

MERIT. Only 9 mg. tar. One of the lowest tar levels in smoking_today.

Yet MERIT delivers astonishing flavor. Flavor verified by smokers all across the country.

If you're looking to become a low tar smoker, or don't particularly enjoy the taste of the low tar brand you smoke now—you'll be interested.

New 'Enriched Flavor' Discovery

By isolating certain "key" flavor ingredients of tobacco in cigarette smoke, ingredients that deliver taste way out of proportion to tar, researchers at Philip Morris have developed a way to pack extra flavor into tobacco without the usual increase in tar.

The discovery is called 'Enriched Flavor'. It's extra flavor. Natural flavor. Flavor that can't burn out, can't fade out, can't do anything but come through.

We packed 'Enriched Flavor' into MERIT. And began a series of extensive taste tests. The results were amazing.

Taste-Tested By People Like You

9 mg. tar MERIT was taste-tested against five current leading low tar cigarette brands ranging from 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar. Thousands of filter smokers were involved, smokers like yourself, all tested at

Even if the cigarette tested had 60% more tar than MERIT, a significant majority of all smokers tested reported new 'Enriched Flavor' MERIT delivered more taste.

Bulldogs greet March, Ector like lions, 11-6

R-T Sports Editor

ODESSA - Things were thoroughly fouled up here Monday. March came in like a lamb and Midland's Bulldogs came out like lions with a roaring 12hit blast to open the baseball season with an 11-6 victory over the Odessa Ector Eagles.

Junior Kevin Widner, a stickwielding pitcher, and Gary Merritt, a mayhem bent catcher, collected three hits each while Widner, somewhat surprisingly, went the distance in pitching an eight-hitter.

Widner's route-going effort proved a bonus for Coach Arlen Dickson, who may have a pitching-bare cupboard by the weekemd. The Bulldogs play five games in six days, which means Dickson will get a good look at his entire staff early.

Merritt knocked in the first of his four runs with a two run triple to right center following Shane Fletcher's single and an error on David Johnston's grounder.

Widner's second single and a hit batsman (Chris Gaddy) set it up for Johnston's two-run single in the third to make it 4-0.

A walk to Kevin Pearce, a force out, and Widner's double just inside third base made Gaddy's double into the left field corner good for two more in the fourth and then Fletcher singled home Gaddy before Fred Franco's two-run triple broke the ice for Ector and made it 7-2 going into the fifth.

Reserve clause fight just the beginning

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) - "I'm always optimistic we're going to reach agreement and have a baseball season," said American League President Lee MacPhail.

But today's second day of nonspring training still finds major league camps locked up and negotiations dragging on the reserve clause, which binds players to teams for life unless traded, sold or released.

And after Monday's five-hour negotiating session was over, Marvin Miller, executive director of the players association, talked ominously of what he called secondary issues that have been set aside for the reserve clause debate.

'They (owners) keep saying they see these things falling in line...but we have devoted so little time to these other matters, I always worry about what will develop when we dig in,"

AND MILLER said he didn't expect action by owners on the reserve issue until a threejudge federal panel rules on their appeal of a decision which enables unsigned players to become free agents as early as 1977. "Our feeling all along is you can't litigate and negotiate at the same time," said Miller. MacPhail denied that owners were delaying negotiations on the reserve rule until a court decision is handed down.

Arbitrator Peter Seitz ruled in December that players can become free agents one year after fulfilling contractual commitments.

MacPhail admitted that club owners don't feel they can live with the concept which guarantees a club a player's services for only two seasons, one under contract, the second playing out the option year.

But he said no decision has been made o whether a further legal challenge would be made, possibly to the Supreme Court, if the federal panel upholds Seitz as a U.S. District Court already has done.

MILLER SAID the Supreme Court never has taken up the reserve clause in the past and doubted it would accept a petition to review it now.

'If this is not modified, any player is eligible to become a free agent,' said MacPhail. "We cannot make an agreement unless we have something clubs can live and operate under."

John Gaherin, chief negotiator for the owners, said, "They (the players) have a problem with that (Seitz) decision. They have something that has to be given back, or a reasonable part has to be given back. The Seitz decision...is not a viable arrangement." Miller said he is willing to give the owners more control over players than the Seitz ruling, but "this year, we're stuck with it. For the future, we are negotiating their way.

"Up to now, what they're saying is give it (reserve rule) back and give it back retroactively ... stripping freedom from the players, which we don't think we could do legally," said Miller. "When we say that it would open us up to lawsuits, stripping players' rights away, they say,

'That's your problem.'"

GAHERIN MAINTAINED, "The players association is the exclusive bargaining agent...as such it has responsibility and authority to establish working conditions.

"They're saying they can't stand behind the possible legal attack of a dissident" Gaherin added. That's part of the risk of being a collective bargaining agent."

"I'm in pretty good shape for the Masters," Nicklaus said "I've got a few little things to wo on. There's still one club in my bag—the pitching wedge—I'm not completely happy with. Maltbie, the 1975 Rookie of the Year, and Masserio were at 276 and didn't get in the title chase in the last round. Masserio closed up with a final 87 and Maltbie shot a 70.

NAHI takes new look at athletic health

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) - Los Angeles Dodgers third baseman Ron Cey was thought to be overweight. The 5-foot-10, 185-pounder waddled on the basepaths and earned the nickname The Penguin.

Then Cey went through a testimony program at the National Athletic Health Institute here and found that his body contained only five per cent fat, far below that of any other baseball player tested so far. He also found he could make use of a greater amount of oxygen than similar athletes and that he is in remarkably

The program Cey went through is the first of what may soon be a multifaceted approach to athletic health—an approach that already has important implications not only for athletes but for all people: it may help to prevent heart attacks.

'I suppose you might say it's an additional health insurance policy against heart attacks," said Dr. Jack

Wilmore, executive director of the NAHI. "But really, it's nothing more than preventive medicine."

THIS INITIAL program offers a basic physical exam of the cardiovascular system, including an electrocardiogram under stress, muscular proficiency tests and a double weighing. In the latter, Cey was weighed first on a traditional scale and then weighed under water. Since fat is less dense than muscle, the underwater measurement can help determine what percentage of his body weight was fat.

Cey's results showed that he was not at all overweight.

"Most height-weight charts in doctors' offices are notoriously inaccurate," said Wilmore. "What really counts is the fatto-lean weight ratio.' The normal 30-year-old male has about 19 per cent fat. At 40 that increases to 22 to 26 per cent.

"Most baseball players are horribly out of shape," said Wilmore. "But we were surprised about all the Dodgers. Their organization has really pushed the idea of fitness, and almost all their players were in very good shape. "BUT CEY was the most remarkable, especially because of his nickname. He may waddle when he runs, but he isn't a bit overweight." In the future, NAHI hopes to do reaction time studies with baseball players, test the effects of amphetamines on such athletes as football players and investigate the nutritional aspects of sports-how diet affects performance. The first program undertaken when NAHI opened last July 1, however, was cardio-vascular testing and Wilmore said he hopes the program will help "change the consciousness of Americans about their conditions. People who become sedentary and put on weight, even just a little extra weight, don't remember how good they felt when they were younger and in good shape.

'But worse, the chance of heart attack is greatly increased in overweight people. When you consider that 54 per cent of all deaths in this country last year were related to cardio-vascular problems, you realize our concern.

THE INSTITUTE has thus far tested 125 Los Angeles Rams football players, all of the Dodgers, pro basketball's Los Angeles Lakers and some Los Angeles Kings hockey players. "We suggest minor modifications in their diets," he said. "We have found that when we recommend major changes in diets, most people

The institute charges about $200 for the series of tests. Wilmore said he is reluctant to charge more "because that might make it pretty hard on the pocketbook of the average man in the street—the man who probably needs this as much as anyone.'

The clinic now can handle about 20 persons a day, but he said he hopes to expand his clinic to serve 100 persons a day, although he is more interested in other medical agencies setting up a similar program.

Get tough' NCAA declares war on cheating

By DAN LAUCK

NEW YORK - Long ago, back when the NCAA was a two- or threeman operation, Walter Byers did the investigative work. Then Art Berstrom took it over, doing that along with interpreting rules for universities and coodinating bowl games and all-star games and doing a million other things. Gradually, though, the people in the NCAA office began to develop the feeling that there was a lot more cheating going on than they were hearing about.

So it was that Warren Brown, fresh spent a couple of years playing basketball, was sitting in the NCAA office in Kansas City that day in the spring of 1966. Bergstrom was explaining what the NCAA wanted, a full-time investigator. They wanted someone who was free of everything else, someone who could go out singlehandedly and clean up college athletics.

Brown was a bit shocked. He had been a physical education major at Kansas State, a basketball player. He had never planned on a career like that. He had nothing to prepare him.

"I remember sitting there and thinking I didn't want to get anybody mad at me," he said recently. "I didn't want to get anybody in trouble."

He got over that quickly. He discovered that the people in the office were right: There was a lot going on. Things which brown had never confronted: Changing entrance exams, buying clothes, providing new cars, cash payments. There was so much of it, in fact, that Brown could not keep up. Through the next eight years, he added three assistants. And, still, he knew they were not keeping

That's where he stood two years ago when the NCAA altered its pro-cedures and re-evaluated the entire enforcement program. The cheating, the NCAA decided, was growing a lot faster than Brown's staff. So the NCAA appropriated the money to dou-

IT'S A rather depressing discovery that Brown has made in the past year, since his staff doubled, but he has found that the more investigators he has the more cheating he is uncovering. "It doesn't make me think that there's more going on than I expected," Brown said, "because I ble the staff to eight. On Sept. 1 of this year, the staff will go to 10.

always knew there was more going on than we heard about. We're just hearing about more of it now. The more you're out, the more you hear. That's a simple fact."

He will, undoubtedly, find the same thing in September when he adds the next two investigators. "It'd be naive for me to think that we'd be on top of everything then," he said, "If I had one investigator per institution we wouldn't be on top of everything." For the first time, though, Brown thinks his staff is catching up. In the past year, they have eliminated the backlog of cases and they are handing out more and more penalites. And the penalites are getting tougher.. Recently, for example, Michigan State's football team was hit with a three-year probation. In the past, that would have been all. But the NCAA also cut Michigan State's football scholarships for next year from 30 to 20, and for the next year from 30 to 25. It also invoked the "show-cause" clause in its bylaws, demanding, in this case, that the university show why it should not prohibit one assistant coach from recruiting anywhere for three years, and show cause why it should not "sever all realtions with two representatives of its athletic interests," meaning alumni or backers.

"I think we have already proven that we have improved the effectiveness of our enforcement staff," said NCAA executive director Walter Byers, "and with the increased severity of the sanctions, I think you'll find in the next few years that people are going to get the message." THE MESSAGE which has been echoing for the last several years in college athletics -cheat or lose. The number of subscribers to that theory has been increasing. Brown, like Byers, refuses to believe the everybody-is-cheating line.

Yet, most any major-college coach will tell you - off the record, of course - that the cheating is so prevalent now that the NCAA can not catch up. "Cheating is not an easy thing to prove," one anonymous Southern coach told a wire service recently.

That, Brown concedes, is true. The NCAA has no subpoena power and no legal power. It can only ask questions.

Anyone who recruits in the name of a university, whether he is on the payroll or not, is a "representative of the university's athletic interests. The university is held accountable for anything it does. And the NCAA has on its books a rule which states that failure to supply requested information is, in itself, a violation. So if the alumnus doesn't hand over the canceled checks, the NCAA can punish the university. That pressure normally works.

There are cases where no records will show what happens. There won't be, for example, any proof of someone shaking hands with a football player and having a $100 bill in his hand at the time.

THAT'S WHERE the Southwest Conference took a new approach a couple of years ago. It initiated the use of polygraph tests. "We haven't used it often," says Southwest Conference commissioner Cliff Speegle. The polygraph test, obviously, would greatly alter the NCAA's investigative power. "We have considered using lie-detector tests-many times," Byers said, "and each time we have not added it to our enforcement procedures." Nor does he foresee its use. "Primarily," Byers said, "because it is not infallible and it's not admissible in court.'

season

Rogers, 6 feet 2, is well ahead of all scorers across the nation with his 36.3 point average. He's also made good on 169 of 200 free throw attempts.

He began the current season with three goals in mind: to play with a winning team, to get into postseason tournament play and to be among the top three scorers in the country.

"Winning is the most important thing. If our season was 5-17, the season would be rotten, no matter how much I scored," he said.

The University of Kansas had the star during the 1972-73 season but his "run and gun" style of offensive work just didn't fit in with the ball-controlminded Jayhawks.

Air service hearing set March 15

A hearing regarding air service by both Trans Regional Airlines and Chaparral Airlines from Midland-Odessa to Abilene has been scheduled at 10 a.m. March 15.

Examiner John G. Soule will hear the case in room 118 of the Stephen F. Austin Office Building, 1700 No. Congress Ave., Austin.
The consolidated hearing began with Chaparral's filing an application with the Texas Aeronautics Commission for a hearing Feb. 2 for service from Abilene to Midland-Odessa and from Abilene to Austin. Houston and Lubbock.

Trans Regional then filed with the TAC Feb. 17 for air service from Abilene to Midland-Odessa, and also from Abilene to Lubbock, Wichita Falls to Lubbock, Brownwood to Dallas-Fort Worth, Austin to Houston and Austin to Brownwood, Abilene and Wichita Falls.

Trans Regional's motion was also to consolidate for hearing its application with that of Chaparral
