Spring ahead early Sunday

WASHINGTON (AP) -Daylight Saving Time begins Sunday. Remember, it's spring ahead, fall back.

If you like to stroll, swat a tennis ball or water the garden in the evening, then come Sunday you'll have an extra hour of light to indulge in all your favorite pastimes. But if you're a farmer or like to jog before breakfast - well, sorry.

Either way, clocks move forward Sunday one hour for the six months of Daylight Saving Time (DST) from 2 a.m. Sunday to 2 a.m. Oct. 31. And, if you get confused on which direction to move the hands, just remember the saying, "Spring ahead, fall

The extra hour may come in handy for Congress as it grapples with proposals to change the system of six months of DST and six months of standard time. Earler this year, the Senate passed a bill to provide seven months of DST this year and next, from mid-March until mid-October. But inaction by the House Commerce Committee

A House commerce subcommittee has tentatively scheduled DST hearings for next month, but they could be delayed further because other types of legislation are deemed more important.

Until some sort of bill clears both houses of Congress, the nation remains on the pattern of six months of DST and six months of standard time each

The move to extend DST was begun in late 1973 during the peak of the energy crisis. Some advocates contended that longer evening daylight hours, when most persons are awake, can result in an energy savings.

But those opposing DST argue that less daylight in morning endangers school children and inconveniences farmers. They also said DST saved little, if any,

Fire kills Midlander

A Midland woman in her late 50s died early this morning possibly from smoke inhalation after her house at 2507 Culpepper St. caught fire, Midland firemen said.

Mrs. Dorothy Yates was found dead in her house which caught fire around 6:30 a.m., firemen said.

Fireman Leonard Mills, 38, was injured at the scene and was treated for a cut right arm shortly after 7 a.m. and then released, a Midland Memorial Hospital spokesman said. Six fire units responded to the two-alarm fire and fought the blaze for more than three hours, firemen said. Firemen said the house was not destroyed, but was very heavily damaged. A cigarette is believed to have ignited the fire which firemen believe began in the bedroom, they said.

Justice of the Peace John Biggs pronounced Mrs. Yates dead at the

Kissinger takes off for Africa

WASHINGTON (AP) - Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger departed today on a two-week trip to Africa with "an attitude of good will, an open mind and some concrete objectives" about achieving black majority rule in southern Africa. After a stopover in London to confer with special U.S. envoy L. Dean Brown about the crisis in Lebanon and to meet Anthony Crosland, the new British foreign secretary, Kissinger will head for Kenya, the first of seven countries on his itinerary. His other stops are Tanzania. Zambia, where he will confer with black leaders from Rhodesia, Zaire, Ghana, Liberia and Senegal. He will wind up in Nairobi to head the U.S. delegation at the U.N. conference on trade and development. Asked at Andrews Air Force Base if the United States will try to match Soviet efforts in Africa, Kissinger said, "We are not in Africa to match Soviet efforts. We are in Africa for our own purposes. And I will indicate what our purposes are and what specific steps we're prepared to

Once a proponent of a go-slow policy on the black-white issue, Kissinger emphasized at a news conference Thursday and in other recent statements that the United States supports the political aspirations of the black majorities in white-ruled Rhodesia and South Africa.

OPEC aims at oil hike

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) - The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries has asked its special economic commission to speed up its studies of extra charges on some types of crude oil, sources said today after a oneday meeting of OPEC oil ministers.

The meeting Thursday was called by Iraq and took place under maximum security conditions at a hotel on the edge of Geneva which the 13-nation organization took over for the meeting. Parts of the hotel were ringed with barbed wire, and no unauthorized persons were allowed on march against violence even before the courthouse bombing Thursday. Midland voters will provide the public schools with a full slate of trustees Saturday when they vote in the run-off election between candidates Ann Page and Steve Scott.

The race for Position 7 ended in a run-off after the regular election April 3 when none of the four candidates won a simply majority which is required for election. Mrs. Page garnered 2,182 votes and Scott took

The two other candidates, Betty Sheeler and Bob Parke, won 1,177 and 851 votes, respectively. All. were seeking the post vacated by retiring trustee C. Wallace Craig.

Saturday's run-off will be conducted from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. in the city's two high schools. Voting at Midland High School will be persons residing in election precincts 1, 3, 5, 6, 7, 9, 10, 12, 14, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25 and 27. Faye Smith will be election judge in that location.

Casting ballots at Lee High, under supervision of election judge James A. Butler, will be residents of precincts 4, 8, 11, 13, 15, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22 and 26.

Although voting site is determined by precincts, the election is at large. enabling residents throughout the cityto vote for all positions on the school board.

Don Furgeson, business manager for the Midland, Independent School District, said election results should be tabulated shortly after the polls close at 7 p.m. The election will be canvassed at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the board room of the school administration building. 702 N. N St. Final action of the current board will be approving the minutes of the April 6 meeting and canvassing the Saturday results.

Midland County Judge Barbara Culver then will swear in the winner of Saturday's run-off, as well as E. E. Runyan and David Grimes who were elected in the April 3 contest.

Runyan will replace 12-year trustee Gilbert C. Tompson who is retiring from Position 6, while Grimes will replace school board president James E. Winget Jr., who also is retiring, in

Book data available

Copies of every book or teaching system submitted to the Texas Education Agency for the 1976 state textbook adoption will be available to all interested area residents, beginning next Friday, at West Texas

Education Center. The facility, located on Pliska Drive at Midland Regional Air Terminal, is one of 20 regional education service centers across the state to display the materials. An estimated 400-500 sample books and other materials will be on file in the center library during regular business hours, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Friday. According to J. Henry Perry, Texas Education Agency textbook division director, all major national publishers are expected to submit text materials for the Texas adoption in selected elementary and secondary school subject areas. Books and comprehensive teaching systems which may include tapes, filmstrips and other materials will be studied in detail by members of the State Textbook Committee and their local advisors throughout the summer, Perry said. The 15-member committee, which includes public school administrators and teachers, will be appointed by the State Board of Education at its May 8 meeting in Austin.

A serfes of public hearings will be held in Austin to gather citizen viewpoints and opinion before the State Board adopts textbooks at its Nov. 13 meeting. The new materials will be available for students Sept. 1, in education and business," he added, "that will allow me to make a positive contribution to the education of our children.

In campaigning for Position 7, Mrs. Page and Scott had spent by Monday a combined total near $5,000. Mrs. Page had received $2,824.20 in campaign contributions and had spent $2,727.92. Scott's contributions totaled $1,971, with expenditures reaching $1,952.74. Both will be required to file financial statements regarding the campaign again 30 days after the Saturday election.

Farmers are tired of apologizing for needing a profit on products. Committee chairman Dick Yeager, a Vernon rancher, said, "We've been on the defensive too long.

Their concern was voiced during the opening day of the 58th annual West Texas Chamber convention.

Hereford farmer Donald Hicks said farmers pay $1.80 per cubic foot for natural gas, and grain is selling for less than it costs to produce. He noted there are "too many carryover loans" which cannot be paid "and it's getting heavier every year.'

STEPHENVILLE - Midland banker-rancher Clarence Scharbauer Jr. and Fort Worth cattleman and oilman Jay Pumphrey were honored here Thursday night at Tarleton State University's 10th annual Agricultural Appreciation Awards banquet.

Scharbauer donated two quarter horse stallions to TSU for use in a proposed degree program in horse production and management.

Dr. J. L. Tackett, dean of the school of agriculture and business at TSU, said Scharbauer and Pumphrey "have contributed significantly to Tarleton agriculture during the past two years through their involvement in the conception and development of the new program which we think will be important to the future of Tarleton. "Both gentlemen have spent many

Choate fills chamber post

B. L. Choate, district production manager of Gulf Gem and Minerals U.S., was elected Wednesday to the position on the Midland Chamber of Commerce vacated by director Cecil Bybee.

Directors approved Choate's election as recommended by the chamber executive committee. Choate will serve out the remainder of Bybee's two-year directorship.

Directors were told that 23 conventions had already been booked this year at the new Midland Hilton Hotel, which is expected to open June 3. Twelve conventions have been booked at the hotel for 1977 so far, according to chamber manager Fred Tyler.

W. H. "Bill" Collyns will assume the presidency of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at the group's convention this weekend in Del Rio.

The board was also informed by County Commissioner Durward Wright that the county is currently in the process of negotiating to obtain the American Legion Hall for library expansion purposes.

Uncommitted delegates ignored?

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Democratic national committeewoman Billie Carr says the media is ignoring "uncommitted delegates" in reporting on Texas' May 1 presidential primary but they will be "most important" at the national convention

Mrs. Carr, a liberal leader, also told a news conference Thursday that she has asked Secretary of State Mark White to check on "illegal ballots all over the state.

She said she had decided not to challenge the ballots in court prior to the primary because "it would not be in the best interest of the Democratic Party to tie the election up in litigations.

The ballots in many counties, she said, do not conform to the Texas Election Code

There are as many different ballots as there are counties," she said. "In Nueces County, the ballot is across instead of up and down. In Edinburg in the valley, it is in reverse order. In bastrop County they were told to vote for seven people instead of

She said she felt the media had ignored the "fairness doctrine" in Jimmy Carter and Sen. Henry reporting the primary. "As far as the media is concerned, uncommitted delegates don't exist.'

"We realize," she said, "that uncommitted has no face to put in the papers or on the TV screen and, therefore, may be a more difficult group to report about but the un-committed group certainly will be a most important block of votes at the Democratic National Convention."

She said uncommitted delegates rank third in numbers to those of Jackson.

She said uncommitted delegates will be on the primary ballot in 18 senatorial districts and that Carter delegates in nine districts were suggested by those advocating votes for uncommitted delegates.

'We (uncommitted delegates) are likely to be the swing vote at the convention," Mrs. Carr said.

She predicted the Texas delegation would be the "most liberalprogressive Texas has ever had."

Howdy, Legionnaires

Midland is host this weekend to the Sixteenth District Bicentennial Spring Convention of the American Legion and its Auxiliary.

The Woods W. Lynch Post No. 19 and Unit No. 19 are the official hosts to the session, which is due to be one of the largest and best ever. Midland Legionnaires and Auxiliary members have been diligent in planning the convention and in arranging for all the various activities.

They have invited one and all of their associates over this section of West Texas to attend the Midland meeting, and it appears from advance and early registrations that an unusually large number of them have accepted the bid. This is as it should be, assuring a good convention of fun, fellowship and business

The registration desk opened this afternoon and already a large crowd is on hand to join in the various functions, which will continue through Sunday noon.

This isn't the first American Legion convention held in the Tall City of Midland by any means. A number of them have been held here through the years, and always they have been highly successful and most enjoyable. This Bicentennial Spring Convention certainly will be no ex-how the Arab and the Jew can live in peace. There is no substitute for peace when it comes to the security of the Israeli people.

Their military forces have won brilliant successes in five wars provoked or started by their Arab neighbors. And yet today Israel is spending more for national defense than ever before, is more dependent upon the "iron lung" of American aid than ever, is opposing Arab military forces that are stronger than ever and is facing a climate of world opinion that is less sympathetic than ever.

The recent Arab riots in Galilee were symptomatic. They were the worst since the founding of the state of Israel in 1948.

The violence inside the boundaries of pre-1967 Israel came after a series of demonstrations, general strikes and riots on the West Bank of the Jordan River in the past few weeks - the worst since Israel seized the area from the Arabs nearly nine years ago.

The United Nations Security Council went into emergency session to debate Israel's administration of the occupied territories. The United States ambassador, William Scranton, President Tito.

The question in the Holy Land is criticized Israel for colonizing the occupied area.

The violence clearly reflects growing discontent and growing militancy among the Arabs. It will probably get worse. It won't go away by itself.

For the first time, the Israeli representatives at the United Nations have agreed to sit at the same table with representatives of the Palestinians, as they did at the Security Council recently.

But it will take even more dramatic initiatives for peace to prevent new outbreaks of violence and the inevitable recurrence of war in the Middle East. A nuclear confrontation becomes ever more likely as Israel seeks to maintain military superiority in the face of Arab economic, political and military gains.

"Step by step" diplomacy has reached an impasse. It is time to seek a comprehensive settlement to normalize relations between the Arab nations and Israel. In particular, the Arabs must recognize Israel. In return, Israel must be prepared to return the occupied territory, much of which should be demilitarized under international inspection and controls.

Brain power pays off for high schoolers

By KENNETH J. RABBEN

Thousands of high school pupils are advancing their college careers and using their academic skills each year to save themselves or their parents tuition money

Teen-agers are using their brain power to good advantage by taking and doing well on the College Entrance Examination Board's Advanced Placement (AP) program examinations. The number of pupils taking the tests has increased considerably these last two years as college costs have soared.

The 21-year-old AP program gives successful test takers the opportunity to receive college credit for high school courses, skip entry-level college courses for more advanced

There are 192 higher education institutions in 37 states offering sophomore or second-year college standing to high school pupils who have three or four full AP course credits, says Harlan Hanson who directs the board program. About 67,000 pupils took the program's examinations last year and even more are expected this year at the tests given in participating high schools in mid-May.

About 1,700 two- and four-year colleges and universities will give college credit, advanced placement or both this year to pupils who score well on the tests.

A Louisville, Ky., high school senior saved his parents $5,200 when he entered Michigan State University with 53 semester hour credits earned on AP exams. More than $700 was saved by a Watchung Hills, N.J., Regional High School pupil when the Pennsylvania State University accepted nine AP-earned credits.

Those who took last year's examinations could have saved an average $400 each in college costs and as a group, last fall's AP college freshmen could have saved an estimated $12 million, the board says. Each AP subject area examination costs $29.

"Students who take an AP course are offered more demanding work than is usually found in the average high school curricula. Because abler students are often far ahead of their classmates, they can be very bored with education at times.

'We think the program provides the intellectual challenge many students need and at the same time gives them the opportunity to shorten or broaden their college careers," Hanson ex-

One parent said, "I would strongly advise any student who feels qualified to take even one of the tests. The scholastic advantages are so rewarding and the financial savings so welcome that the cost involved becomes an investment rather than an expense.

Prospective college students also are enthusiastic about the program.

'An advanced placement course makes you work, makes you prepare yourself, because college is a whole new world where you learn how very little you know," said a senior who took the AP program.

A college student said, "These credits not only put me ahead of the game in math, but also in other areas where certain math courses are prerequisites to required courses. I am very thankful that I had the opportunity to get ahead through my high school Advanced Placement The report praises the Navy men

The AP program is a cooperative effort of secondary schools and higher education institutions based on the belief that some pupils can do collegelevel work in high school; that their achievement can be measured by examinations; and that this advanced preparation warrants recognition and-or college credit.

But even starting at a low level, the central point would be quickly perceived by Moscow and its Warsaw Pact allies in Eastern Europe: that the U.S. claims a direct and active mission in maintaining Yugoslavia's independence from Soviet interference after the death of Tito, now 84, has governed Yugoslavia since World War II. Following his break with Moscow in 1948, he left the Soviet bloc for nonaligned, Third World status.

The prospect of Soviet machinations after Tito is certain, in an effort to break that independence and destroy the fragile unity which has held the country together despite conflicting cultures and different languages. Thus, what the Ford administration is signaling Moscow by means of the current arms talks with Yugoslavia is to keep hands off, or risk counteraction by the West. This comports with the warning of State Department punselor Helmut Sonnenfeldt in his otherwise highly controversial session last December with U.S. diplomats in London: "We...have an interest which borders on the vital for us in continuing the independence of Yugoslavia from Soviet domination.'

U.S. arms for Yugoslavia said under consideration

The clue to President Ford's unannounced intention to resume serious arms sales to Yugoslavia is found in an almost hidden passage contained in the administration's justification of its far-flung arms deals (the "Security Assistance Program") submitted to Congress last month.

Referring to Yugoslavia's 'strategically important position in the heart of the Balkans," the statement praises its "independent politics" and non-alignment and asserts an American policy "to be as responsive as possible" to Belgrade's arms requests.

The new Security Assistance Program for the year starting on Oct. 1 includes $1.5 million for cash sales to Yugoslavia - an amount far greater than any military sales to Belgrade since the early 1960s. With negotiations for the TOW missile not completed, military experts here are uncertain what quantity the Yugoslavs want, both next year and in the longer run. But the expectation is that the eventual number of weapons (costing about $100,000 for each launcher with 15 missiles) would be designed to protect Yugoslavia from possible airborne invasion with air-lifted tanks, rather than defending the long and highly vulnerable plains along the border with Rumania. To reach that border. Soviet forces would have to penetrate and cross Rumania, which would almost certainly resist.

In fact, the tremendous effort now being made in Belgrade to assure military security against any Soviet move following Tito's departure is heavily weighted in the direction of localized defense.

The heart of this security system is a territorial "peoples' defense" which can mobilize more than 3 million Yugoslavs within 48 hours, armed and with specific targets to defend. U.S. officials say that the real test of Tito's fears over what will happen after he has departed the presidency is the fact that he has risked arming such an immense body of citizens against Soviet military intervention or Soviet-inspired uprisings inside Yugoslavia. There have been ominous signs lately of extraordinary Soviet interest in this peoples' defense. Russian diplomats have been observed inspecting and studying every aspect or soon may be paying $2 and more for a pound of coffee as a result of new increases at the wholesale level. The boost results from expectations of a coffee shortage caused by last summer's frost in Brazil.

$2-a-pound coffee forecast by expert

Les Hurt of the U.S. Department of Agriculture said wholesale prices for coffee are now running at $2.09 for a one-pound can. Retail prices, he said, "are changing so fast that it's hard to keep up with them.'

But Hurt noted that the "retail (price) very often runs below the wholesale level" because stores use coffee as a "loss leader" to entice customers. The difference is usually only a few cents.

Does that mean coffee for $2 and up at retail? "Yes," said Hurt, adding that it takes a couple of months for the wholesale price to be reflected on supermarket shelves.

The country's two largest coffee marketers - General Foods Corp. and Folger Coffee Co., a division of Procter & Gamble Co. - both announced increases at the wholesale level this week. General Foods said the price of green coffee beans has more than doubled since last July and that commodity costs represent 80 per cent of its manufacturing cost.

Hurt, who is with the sugar and tropical products division of the USDA's foreign agricultural service, also said the higher wholesale prices reflect higher prices for raw coffee

A pound of raw coffee beans currently is selling for about $1.25 to time last year. There is a 16 per cent loss in roasting, meaning, for example, that 100 pounds of raw beans purchased for $125 winds up as 84 pounds of roasted beans worth almost $1.50 per pound, not counting the cost of the roasting procedure. The cost of packing, distribution and marketing still must be added.

The present supply of coffee is adequate, although it is below last year's. Hurt said that estimated world coffee production for the 1975-76. crop year is just under 72 million bags; the 1974-75 production was a little more than 80 million bags. A bag is a little more than 132 pounds.

Prices for raw coffee beans have been rising steadily since last July when a severe frost struck Brazil, the world's biggest coffee producer.

The frost struck the crop that will be harvested this year, and people started buying coffee in expectation of a shortage. The current high prices, Hurt said, are "in anticipation of tight supplies."

Hurt, who just returned from a trip to Brazil, said the South American country produced 23 million bags of coffee in the 1975-76 crop year. The 1976-77 production had been expected to be about 28 million bags. Instead, Hurt said, estimated production is 91/2 or 10 million bags.

Civil war in Angola, which produces lower grade beans used in items such as instant coffee, and an earthquake in Guatemala, also have cut into worldwide coffee production, but the loss from these countries was less

More slain in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - More than 100 persons were killed during the night and more than 200 wounded in heavy artillery, rocket and mortar fire between a Moslem enclave in Beirut and Christian districts around it, police reported today.

They said some homes were destroyed in the Nabaa Moslem district and the adjacent Sin El-Fil and Dora quarters. More bodies were believed in the ruins, they reported. Fighting in the year-old civil war had tapered off Thursday, and only 27 killed and 46 wounded were reported. But hopes that the cease-fire agreed to last weekend was taking hold were badly shaken by the outbreak during Palestinian leader Abu Iyad, the second in command of Yasir Arafat's Al Fatah guerrilla organization, said the truce cannot take hold until the political stalemate between the leftist Lebanese Moslems and right-wing Christians is resolved.

He said the Higher Military Committee trying to put the cease-fire into effect "agrees on things, but they are not carried out on the battlefields. The problem now is Lebanese and related to a political solution.'

Nursery industry revolting

By TOM STEVENSON

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - There is a bit of a revolution. going on in the nursery industry. The change is in the be informed of what he must do to ensure the conmethod of growing trees and shrubs for sale to the tinued success of the plant.

It used to be they were grown in the field until large enough for the market and then were dug B&B (balled and burlapped) and sold. The idea was to get them back into the ground with the least possible disturbance to the root system.

Now, many, perhaps most, are being grown in containers. These container-grown plants may not survive for long unless the root systems are considerably roughed-up in the process of planting them

The prophecy has been made by James S. Wells, owner of Wells Nursery, Red Bank, N.J., that 'within the next 25 years at least 95 per cent of all nursery stock, no matter what type it may be or what size, will be propagated, raised and sold in con-

Wells has done a tremendous amount of study of growing plants in containers, and has visited many of the biggest and best nurseries throughout the world. He received the American Horticultural Society 1975 Commercial Citation for research and commercial production of rhododendrons and azaleas, and for his work with the International Plant Propagators Society.

One of the most important and, as yet, little understood problems that face container growers, retailers and the consumer, says Wells, is, how should these plants be treated when they are planted in the garden?

"If handled properly, they should continue to flourish. If handled improperly, the probabilities are they will die within two.or three years.

The well-grown container plant will have exploited most of the growing medium in the container in its most recent season of growth, says he.

"The root ball will be vigorous and complete; there will be a clearly visible surface of roots on the ball when it is removed from the can. From the growers point of view, this shows that the plant has fully exploited the can in which it has been growing, and he knows that this plant must now either be set out in its permanent position or moved into a bigger can.

"When the plant is sold to a retailer, he must be

"If the plant is removed carefully from its container and the root ball left undisturbed and placed in a larger can or placed into a hole in the garden, poor results will follow

"For the plant to grow as it should and for new roots to be able to thrust out into the new growing medium - whether in a larger can or in the customer's garden - loose roots must be disentangled from the root ball so they will be encouraged

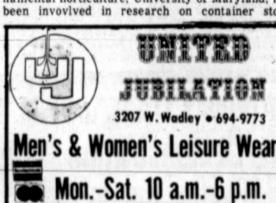

'This means that the customer has to be taught what to do. I believe that many of the problems of container-grown plants reported by both retailers and customers can be attributed directly to lack of understanding of this simple need.

"To put it into nursery terms, the ball must really be broken up, and if necessary, the root surface of the container ball should be scarred and scraped with a knife or vigorously banged and bounded on the ground to loosen the roots.

'If this is done, the plant will prosper. If it is not done, the plant will most likely die. It may not die immediately but will only live for two or three years. "The chances are that if this is not done or not done

Experts disagree on impact of housing decision and housing specialists differ about the significance of this week's Supreme Court decision on dispersing public housing into the suburbs, but they generally agree that another case scheduled for argument in the fall should clear up any doubts.

Both cases involve Chicago and its suburbs and raise the issue of what powers the federal government and the courts have in opening up suburbs to low-income housing now concentrated in poorer central cities.

The Supreme Court ruled Tuesday that federal courts have the power to require Chicago and the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to draft a plan to disperse new public housing units throughout the metropolitan area rather than only within the city limits. The case hinged on an earlier finding of past discrimination in the selection of sites and tenants in Chicago.

Those who give a broad interpretation to the Supreme Court ruling say the public housing discrimination found in Chicago is typical of most big cities. This view holds that HUD's response to the ruling is crucial to determining the case's significance.

The narrow interpretation is that HUD's powers are limited and Chicago circumstances are unique and thus the national impact of the decision would be limited.

But advocates of both views say any doubts should be cleared up by a case set for argument before the Supreme Court this fall. A developer has challenged the right of Arlington Heights, Ill., a Chicago suburb, to use zoning laws to exclude a low-income federally subsidized housing project if the effect is to maintain the virtually all-white character of the suburb.

Here, in question and answer form, is how analysts view the Tuesday

Mrs. Gautreaux and the other plaintiffs asked that the city and HUD be forced to draw up a metropolitanarea housing plan distributing public housing. The District Court refused. The Court of Appeals reversed the lower court and the Supreme Court, by a 8 to 0 vote, agreed with the ap-

Q. Does that mean the Chicago

on what the District Court and HUD do now. The court was not told it must impose a metropolitan remedy. The Supreme Court said only that such a remedy is within the lower court's power. With both sides able to appeal the lower court's eventual decision, it could take years for the case to be resolved.

A. That depends on whom you talk to. Edward Rutledge, special assistant to the staff director at the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, calls the Gautreaux case a landmark. Martin Sloane, general counsel for the National Committee Against Discrimination in Housing, says it can be a crucial factor in opening up the suburbs and thus better housing and job opportunities to minorities. Arthur Gang, associate general counsel at HUD, calls the issue involved a very narrow technical one but still one with a possibly broad impact. Jerome G. Rose, a professor of urban planning at Rutgers University, calls the decision a very limited one with little impact on the nation's suburbs.

Q. Why the divergence of opinion?
A. The answer depends basically on two questions. Is Chicago typical of other major cities as far as this case is concerned? Even if Chicago is typical, what can the federal government do about it? Q. What can the government do under the metropolitan approach?

A. Sloane thinks it can do plenty.

Under the 1974 Housing Act amendments, HUD can contract with builders on its own to put up lowincome projects wherever the agency determines. Before, HUD had to work through local authorities. The agency is required to some extent to consult with the local governments first, but Sloane feels there's nothing a local government can do to stop HUD.

Q. You mean the local governments are powerless?

A. They do have their zoning laws and could fight a HUD move on those grounds. But the possible success of such action is in dispute right now. Rose thinks the law prevents HUD from overcoming local resistance based on zoning laws. Sloane thinks discrimination. Q. So that will decide the issue once and for all?

A. Not necessarily. Even if the court rules in Arlington Heights' favor and undermines HUD's authority, the federal government has other low-income housing programs that involve federal money going to local housing authorities. HUD ladled out $2.55 billion to 3,000 local communities last year for such development projects and will spend $2.8 billion this year. HUD is supposed to require communities - cities and suburbs - receiving the funds to stipulate in advance what the lowincome housing needs of the communities are and how officials are responding. A court decision earlier this year involving Hartford, Conn., and its suburbs even blocked distribution of federal money to the suburbs on the grounds that HUD hadn't been tough

Cuban soldiers said remaining in Angola

WASHINGTON (AP) - U.S. intelligence analysts say most of the estimated 13,500 Cubans involved in the Angolan civil war remain in the African country, apparently to keep undisciplined pro-Marxist troops in line while the country's new leaders organize their regime.

But intelligence sources say there apparently has been no major movement of Cuban troops to help Rhodesian blacks hoping to seize control of the neighboring white-ruled country. Such action by the Cubans had been widely predicted after the victory for the Cuban-backed faction Cuban troops are said to control major Angolan ports and an air base near Luanda, the capital. Attention has been focused anew on Cuban and Soviet activities in Africa because of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's visit to seven African countries, including two that are helping Rhodesian nationalist guerrillas seeking to overthrow white rule in Rhodesia.

At a news conference Thursday, Kissinger again warned Cuba against embarking on military ventures against white supremacist regimes in Africa. And, as he has done before,

MAYER BACON 1 LB

APRIL 24, 1976

Kissinger implied that the Cubans are acting in Africa as agents of the Soviet Union.

According to recent intelligence information reaching Washington, the Cuban presence in Mozambique still has not become a major one. Mozambique is a main base area for Rhodesian guerrillas.

Earlier this month, U.S. intelligence estimated there were fewer than 100 Cubans in Mozambique.

Guerrilla activity has increased somewhat in Rhodesia, but it still is at a relatively low level. Some analysts have said it will be some time before the Rhodesian insurgents can be whipped into shape for significant military operations against the white forces of Rhodesia.

Kissinger will visit Tanzania and Zambia, which have provided support for the Rhodesian insurgents.

Tanzania is emerging as a significant base for training Rhodesian black nationalists and as a transmission point for supplies and military equipment provided by the Soviet Union for the Rhodesian nationalists.

The Communist Chinese are also said to be taking a direct hand in helping the Rhodesian nationalists.

The Los Angeles Times
WASHINGTON — A prototype

The compact car is being developed by Aerospace Corp. for the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration under a $2.3 million contract.

Richard W. Velde, LEAA administrator, said taxpayers are funding the development because Detroit automakers feel police departments do not buy enough cars to justify their making the investment. He said police purchases account for only 55,000 of the 10 million cars Detroit produces annually.

THE PROTOTYPE'S most significant change over standard police cruisers is that it is a compact, which Velde acknowledged police departments have traditionally shunned.

To overcome the disadvantages of a compact, the developers are investigating the construction of a specially configured body to meet police needs while maintaining a compact's weight. They also are putting together an engine with a dual mode of operation - an economy one for most police activity and a high performance one for emergency Velde said that simply switching to a compact would increase police gas mileage by one-third. The most significant variable, however, is the way in which police drive their cars, which Velde said "suggests the need for a driver education program" in police departments.

The prototype car project was born during the energy crisis, when police departments found their gasoline costs had about tripled. Velde said the cost of gasoline is second only to salaries in police budgets.

He estimated that police departments spend $1 billion a year to acquire, operate and maintain 160,000 vehicles across the country.

The car project's objective is to increase by 7.5 miles per gallon the police cruiser's gasoline consumption which Velde said would save about $250 million annually.

GREATER SAFETY would be achieved by sensing devices to alert drivers to such things as low tire pressure and abnormal engine temperatures, as well as a carbon monoxide monitor to give readings on fumes that seep into the car when it is idling or in slow-moving traffic.

Velde said officer performance inside the car would be improved by computerized equipment. The devices would eliminate the problem of officers' missing messages when they leave their cruiser and would decrease by at least 10 per cent the time it takes them to respond to calls for assistance.

Some 20 units of the prototype model will begin to be tested by the Dallas and New Orleans police departments this fall, Velde said. An additional $2 million for development of the improved vehicle is included in LEAA's proposed fiscal 1977

Although money has continued to come into the campaign with Jackson's victories, it has been flowing out just as fast, Kline said. In March $365,000 was raised and in April an estimated $400,000 will have been generated, he said. But still the campaign has been strapped, with Jackson limited to buying only $40,000 to $50,000 in television time for viewing in Western Pennsylvania starting Wednesday.

Unlike the Carter and Udall campaigns, however, the Jackson campaign has not had to start borrowing money against the candidate's personal assets, Kline nounced Thursday the resignation of Lt. Gen. Vernon Walters as CIA deputy director and the nomination of E. Henry Knoche, a civilian, as his replacement.

One source familiar with the change said Knoche's nomination reflects a new CIA emphasis on analysis of intelligence data and away from the type of clandestine operations that drew heavy criticism during hearings by House and Senate intelligence committees.

In testimony before those panels it was revealed that the CIA had conducted domestic spying operations, had been involved in plots to assassinate foreign leaders and had plotted such bizarre operations as a plan to make Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's beard fall out.

In response to criticism for such activities, CIA | team up for officials have insisted savings in our that the agency's prime mission was collecting fling. "dirty tricks."

Until recently, the agency's top officials have risen through the ranks of overseas operatives in the CIA's plans division, sometimes referred to as the "dirty tricks" department.

CIA Director George Bush's two predecessors, William E. Colby and Richard Helms, both came to the top from that background. On the other hand, Bush has a background in domestic politics and U.S. diplomacy. Thus, the agency's new leadership of Bush and Knoche represents a break from that tradition.

Another hallmark is that for the first time since the agency began in 1947, neither of the top two officials is a military

Oil foreman blames rig captain for disaster to 'Ocean Express'

tain of the ill-fated "Ocean Express" ignored a dire weather warning 12 hours before the rig sank in a gale off the Texas Gulf coast, an oil company foreman testified Thursday. Thirteen men died when their rescue capsule capsized 40 miles east of Corpus Christi as they fled the rig.

Eddie Melancon Jr. of Marathon Oil Co. said a company agent warned him by radio the morning of April 15 that winds could hit 45 miles an hour later in the day. The rig sank about 9 p.m.
But rig captain Pieter Van de Graaf

wouldn't even look at the report when Melancon handed it to him, scrawled on a sheet torn from his tally book,

"Pieter went by his own weather," Melancon told a board of somber Coast Guard officers in a thick Cajun accent.

The Broussard, La., drilling foreman said he learned of the forecast, which included predictions of 15-foot waves, when he made radio contact with his office in Lafayette,

"I went to Pieter and Pieter wasn't concerned," Melancon testified. "I said, 'We've got to worry about this. Maybe we ought to think about pulling into shallow water.' But Peiter didn't feel like moving it (the rig)."

Asked why Van de Graaf ignored the written report, Melancon said, "He didn't say anything, he just didn't

Van de Graaf testified Wednesday that he was relying on radio forecasts by the National Weather Service, which early that morning predicted winds of 15 miles an hour and seas up to six feet.

Later reports warned of increasing winds but weren't enough to justify pulling out, according to Van de Graaf, operations chief for Ocean Drilling and Exploration Co., which owned the rig.

Melancon said he didn't know the source of the Marathon forecast but believed it came from the company's private weather service. He said the slip of paper on which he wrote the forecast was lost in the rush to evacuate the sinking rig.

He testified on the second day of board of inquiry hearings. Melancon said that although Van de Graff was technically in command of the rig, he independently ordered the evacuation of the six Marathon employes on board.

Melancon said he asked his office to call to the Coast Guard. That brought the helicopter which eventually plucked Van de Graaf from the deck of the rig just before it sank.

The other men had already boarded rescue capsules and were bobbing through househigh seas.

"When Pieter found out they (the Coast Guard) were coming, he wasn't too happy. He was kind of teed off."

"I told him they weren't coming for ODECO, they were coming for Marathon," Melancon said in a voice stiff with emotion. "I heard him talk-ing to the Coast Guard and he told them, 'We're not sinking,' and I said, 'We're not sinking, but we're going

The drilling deck of the big offshore rig was at that time eight feet awash with waves, Melancon said.

He said the crew was supposed to practice evacuating in the rescue

Melancon said he'd been with the rig seven-days-on, seven-days-off for 21/2 months, he could recall only one complete drill.

He added that the Ocean Express had been taking water from an unknown source during her 33-mile move to the new location.

Melancon was caught inside the rescue capsule that flipped as it was being brought alongside a tug.

The men inside struggled to hold their heads above water in the darkness as waves outside rocked the water level inside the covered craft.

"It smelled horrible. It smelled of gas. A bunch of men were praying out loud," Melancon recalled.

"I found a small hole with my foot at the bottom of the capsule. I figured it was a hatch so I took one deep breath and dove. When I got to the surface I heard someone on the tug shout, 'Somebody's out."

PITTSBURGH - Jimmy Carter is throwing almost every bit of his time, manpower and money into the Pennsylvania primary where, his advisors believe, victory can all but assure his gaining the Democratic Party's 1976 presidential nomination.

Based on their own and other public opinion polls, the Carter forces see the vote here Tuesday as an opportunity to fatally damage the Presidential ambitions of their two chief opponents — Arizona Rep. Morris Udall and Washington Sen. Henry M. Jackson. At the same time, they hope to demonstrate Carter's appeal in the industrial northeast where the former Georgia governor so far has had little suc-

"The other candidates are talking about surviving," said Hamilton Jordan, Carter's national campaign manager, in a telephone interview from his Atlanta headquarters. "We're talking about winn-

EVEN WITHOUT a victory in Pennsylvania, Jordan claims that he can see Carter going into the convention with about 1,000 of the 1,505 delegate votes needed for nomination, a figure that would make Carter's candidacy hard to stop.

"If we win in Pennsylvania," Jordan said, "I can see 1,400 delegates" because of expected erosion of strength in the Udall and Jackson candidacies. Delegate strength of that dimension for Carter would make his nomination just about inevitable.

Carter himself sounded the optimistic keynote for his campaign when he arrived here Tuesday to launch an intensive eight-day home-stretch drive in Pennsylvania.

.. Pennsylvania has turned out to be strategically perhaps the most important primary of the whole year," he told 300 cheering supporters at a fund raiser. "If the people express themselves clearly on election day by going to the polls and voting of their own free will, I will come in first."

FOR CARTER strategists the main importance of the Pennsylvania primary is not in the struggle over the state's 178 convention delegates, a battle incidentally complicated by the arrangement of the ballot and the presence of uncommitted slates of delegates. Rather, the Carter campaign is focusing on winning the separate presidential preference contest, which is not binding on delegates, but where victory offers substantial psychological advantages.

"We've got a chance to regain the momentum we had in March after New Hampshire and Florida,"

It won't be easy, as Carter aides are the first to admit. They're up against the determined opposition of most of the state's important labor leaders and Democratic Party chieftains. And they also have to contend with the shadow candidacy of Minnesota's Sen. Hubert Humphrey who many Democrats here believe will emerge as the party's ultimate choice if Carter can be stopped.

There is some question whether the union leaders supporting Jackson and opposing Carter can deliver the rank and file votes. Union members who shook hands with Carter and with his supporter, Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., outside Pittsburgh's Homestead Steel plant Wednesday insisted they would make up on the 1938 flight, two legal contracts signed by their own minds on election day.

Carter has pointed out that Philadelphia's another HH in a Michigan Democratic mayor, Frank Rizzo, who is backing Sen. Jackson, supported Richard Nixon in 1972. "I'm glad he doesn't think I'm in the same league," Carter sum by a Los Angeles

CARTER WILL campaign for a day or two in Philadelphia, trying to cut into the undoubted edge Jackson enjoys in the state's largest city. But the Georgian is spending most of his time in the western and central part of the state where, helped by an endorsement from Pittsburgh's maverick Democratic Mayor Peter Flaherty, he hopes to overcome the plurality Jackson is expected to win in Philadelphia. Carter forces have built a relatively respectable organization of their own around the state, under the leadership of Tim Kraft, the architect of Carter's first big victory in January's Iowa caucuses.

KRAFT CAN CALL on a cadre of 40 or 50 staffers, seasoned by earlier primary and caucus battles to run more than 20 field offices spread around the state. This weekend a volunteer force of about 500 migrant Carter workers from Georgia and Florida are expected to pour into Pennsylvania to ring doorbells and make phone calls.

Despite the cutoff of federal matching funds, the Carter campaign has scraped together enough money to finance a $150,000 media campaign in the state. That is probably more than either Jackson or Udall will be able to spend in the state. And it is Carter's biggest expenditure for media since the crucial Florida battle against Alabama Gov. George Wallace in March where Carter spent about $250,000 on advertising, much of it on television.

PERHAPS THE MOST obvious indication of the importance the Carter organization puts on the contest here is Carter's own schedule. The Georgian spent only four days here prior to this week, and as recently as last week Kraft was counting on getting his candidate here for only three or four more days of Instead, the Carter organization decided to devote all or part of eight days to Pennsylvania, including Irving Trust Co. bank the weekend before the election. Carter has usually spent the weekends before primary elections resting at his home in Plains, Ga., on the theory that not much could be accomplished so late in the battle.

"We're obviously giving it our best shot," said Jordan. As for the weary candidate, he'll get a chance to piece of paper. rest on Wednesday - after the votes are counted.

HOW TO CONVINCE YOUR HUSBAND HE NEEDS A NEW HARDWICK GAS RANGE

- 1. Show him the price tag of $399.00. Mention that the down payment is low and payments can be easily arranged.
- 2. Remind your husband that there is no charge for normal installation of the range
- Appeal to his love of gadgetry. This range has a digital clock, TriTemp® burners with adjustable settings, program cooking oven controls, and chrome trim kit.
- 4. Point out the continuous cleaning oven. It cleans while it cooks. So you can spend less time in the kitchen, and more time with him.
- Bring up the choice of colors. Hardwick Ranges come in White, Avocado, Coppertone and Harvest Gold. Then let him select your favorite one. In a 30" or 36" width, according to the space you have available

Weather blamed for lots of bees

Washington Post WASHINGTON - You may have noticed lots of bees around this spring — so many of them, in fact, that people are complaining. They are flying inapartment windows, buzzing around garbage cans, even holding up baseball games — as they did last weekend in Cincinnati, when a small swarm took over the San Francisco Giants' dugout.

You can blame all this on the weather - and not. please, on the bees. They are just doing what they ordinarily would be doing a month from now.

Apiculturists, (folks more commonly known as beekeepers) say that the unusually warm spring has brought fruit trees and dandelions into bloom unseasonably early. So the little buzzers have built up the strength of their hives much sooner.

"Usually there'd be more foliage on trees and that would hide the bees' activity," says Cornell University's Roger Morse, one of the country's eading bee experts.

Elect ANN PAGE SCHOOL TRUSTEE

Rev. & Mrs. Robert B. Smith believe that while it is wise to have men dominant on our school board, it is also ad-visable to have a women's thinking on many problems. ANN PAGE has devoted much of her time researching programs and issues that face the Board and has at-tended numberous Board meetings.

NEW YORK - Protestant theological education in America is going through a crisis that raises serious questions about the future of the ministry.

Studies by outside sources and intense self-examination have brought out a number of facts and opinions about the quality and direction of the schools preparing men and women to serve their

Some complain that the mainstream seminaries have shut out all conservative, evangelical thought despite the fact that the more biblically oriented churches are growing, while more liberally inclined congregations are shrinking.

Others are concerned about the increased emphasis on instruction in social issues at the expense of courses in the Bible and theology.

The caliber of the ministerial candidate has declined, in the opinion of some who have studied theological education. Whereas the cream of the intellectual community sought service in the ministry 100 years ago, today there are many other fields open to bright would-be professionals.

A member of the clergy has sum-marized this view in a discussion of "Whatever Happened to Theology?" in Christianity and Crisis, a liberal

Christian journal of opinion The Rev. Wallace M. Alston Jr., pastor of Nassau Presbyterian Church in Princeton, N.J., said most seminaries have created the notion of religious professionalism within the clergy, training "professionals" in the ministry rather than educating people in theology and preparing them for discipleship. Seminaries have upgraded their degrees to give the religious professionals greater status while educating students "who have elected themselves out of serious con-frontation with the Bible and its languages, and the history of Christian thought as well," Alston

Van A. Harvey, chairman of the department of religious thought at the University of Pennsylvania, added that no discussions of the "chronic ill health of Protestant theology" since the 1960s go very far in explaining the "pervasive loss of vocation in so many of the relatively gifted and welltrained minds educated in our theological schools.' An extensive study of theological education was completed recently by the Rockefeller Foundation, which recommended that the leading independent seminaries place more emphasis on the study of religious traditions and less on generalized approaches to religion. The foundation concluded that the schools had lost a great deal of their intellectual impact by eliminating a number of required theological courses while promoting practical skills.

Singled out for scrutiny were the Yale, Harvard, Vanderbilt and Chicago divinity schools, Union Theological Seminary, the Graduate Theological Union of Berkeley and the Theological Department of the University of Notre Dame.

In its survey report the foundation said that seminaries cut or dropped required courses in church history. the Bible and theology over the last 50 years, replacing them with such subjects as psychology, social problems and community organization.

PORTLAND, Ore. — Two faculty members from Perkins School of Theology at Southern Methodist University, a Houston church's youth choir, and a Spanish-speaking task force from Texas and New Mexico will all have featured roles in the quadrennial General Conference meeting of the United Methodist

The meeting opens here next Tuesday, continuing through May 8. Among delegates to the quadrennial conclave will be Dr. Charles E. Lutrick, minister of the First United Methodist Church of Midland, Tex. He is one of four clergy delegates from the Northwest Texas Conference of the United Methodist denomination; they, in turn, are among the 492 clergymen from throughout the U. S. and elsewhere in the world who will be official representatives at the Portland gathering. An equal number of lay people also are to be official delegates to the conclave.

The clergy and lay delegates, forming the top law-making body of the United Methodist denomination, will act on issues ranging from needs of ethnic minority local churches to a multi-million dollar request to fight hunger, to a resolution calling on United Methodist members to observe two bicentennials- the first, that of the U.S. in the current year, and the second, that of their church in expected to present a resolution from the Methodist denomination's Bicentennial Committee declaring the 1976 U.S. Bicentennial ob-servances "will be no more than ceremonial unless they prompt fresh and positive commitments." draft resolution also looks toward the bicentennial of U.S. Methodism in 1984, which comes 200 years after the Christmas conference in 1784, when the Methodist Episcopal Church came into being in Baltimore, Md.

A Texas youth choir from Houston's Bellaire United Methodist Church will sing at the general conference meeting on May 1 during a morning worship service. Selected in a nationwide audition, the Houston ensemble is only one of two groups east of the Rocky Mountains selected to participate in the special service. In recent months, the young people have staged a series of money raising events in Houston to earn air fare to and from the Portland meeting. Finally, other Southwestern participants at the meeting include the Spanish-speaking delegates from the Texas and New Mexico-based Rio Grande Annual Conference of the denomination. The two delegates of this unit will be joined by an 11-member Spanish-speaking task force from the two-state region. "This task force will be a catalyst to assist our delegation in unusual cir-cumstances," points out Simon Nieto of Albuquerque, a member of the group. "We do not vote but we will be supportive, serving as diplomats and spokesmen for the Rio Grande Conference in committee meetings, in the different caucuses and in the various meetings that will go on everywhere." One team member described the Spanish-speaking Rio Grande Conference as a minority unit seeking improvement and "one of the ways to achieve it is to have a larger numerical representation at the Portland General Conference.

Participating in the Portland meeting will be the four resident bishops of Texas and New Mexico, although they will not have a vote as the official delegates will have. They include Bishop Alsie H. Carleton of Albuquerque, bishop of the Northwest Texas-New Mexico Area conferences of the United Methodist Church, as well as Bishop O. Eugene Slater of San Antonio, Bishop W. NEW YORK - The nation's Bicentennial has set off fireworks, parades and considerable flagwaving - and a special emphasis on prayer, confession and repentance.

Religious leaders of all faiths are appraising and reappraising where America stands spiritually 200 years after the Founding Fathers declared their independence and established a new country where the freedom of worship has been guaranteed to all.

most seriously a national emphasis on confession and repentance during the Bicentennial is the Rev. James W. Fraser, minister of education at the Church of the Covenant in Boston, who is working under the auspices of the Auburn Theological Seminary to help local churches study their own

"Why are so many churches in which most of the nation's elite - the so-called decision-makers - worship so fascinated with confession at this season?" Fraser asked in an article in Christianity and Crisis, a liberal nondenominational publication.

"When Gerald Ford attends his church this spring, he will hear - if they use the proposed Episcopal Te Deum for the Bicentennial - prayers for liberty in the nation, for social justice, for peace and for God's Festival leaders attend their own Presbyterian, Congregational or whatever churches, their own national denominational agencies will have provided similar prayers.

"But what is the function of these prayers? Do we really expect any of the executives of the White House or the CIA or Lockheed or Gulf to emerge from them with a resolve to change their lives and their practices so that they will stop doing the things they have been confessing?

"Or could it be that we have developed another ritual of humiliation, a way of paying requisite homage to past ideals so that we can all go on a little more comfortably 'moving with the times' - when we all know that the times don't really leave much room for liberty or peace and that, as several politicians will remind us over the summer, we can't really afford social justice contest. anymore?"

Speaking as a leader of the nation's largest Protestant body, Foy Valentine, executive secretary of the Christian Life Commission of the Southern Baptist Convention, raised a warning against "special perils that confront us," mainly the prospect of formation of "Christian" political parties and "the acceptance of a civil religion which renders to Caesar that which is God"s."

NEW YORK - A quiet, diplomatic effort is under way to unseathe ailing Carlo Gambino as boss of the Cosa Nostra's ruling commission and to consolidate New York's five weakened crime families into one powerful criminal organization.

Federal and police sources, as well as mob informants, said that the face of New York's Cosa Nostra has already changed dramatically because of repeated leadership changes. And, they claim, there is a carefully orchestrated campaign to win support among crime bosses all over the nation for an attempt to ease Gambino out of the top leadership post and restructure New York's mobs. There are four reasons for the campaign:

-The emergence of Carmine (Lillo) Galente, boss of the old Joseph Bonanno crime family, as a power in New York crime circles, with growing influence on a national level. -The illness and ineffectual leadership of Gambino, who has let the five families flounder while delegating leadership within his own family to two trusted aides.

-The continued turmoil within several New York crime families whose members are moving to new areas and whose rackets and territories are being challenged by black, Puerto Rican and Cuban criminal organizations that already dominate policy and narcotics rackets in the city. -The weakened state of federal, state and local police intelligence agencies in monitoring mob operations and a decline in the effectiveness of their informant systems because of a new danger that informants will be exposed publicly.

THE NEW POWER in the mob is the wiry, cigar-chewing Galente, 64, who took over leadership of the old Bonanno family two years ago after he was paroled from prison. Galente was once the feared underboss of Joseph Bonanno, who has been exiled to the West by other mob leaders. Galente dislikes Gambino but has stolen a page from Gambino's book by using diplomacy instead of force to solidify his position as a respected leader among his peers nationwide.

"Galente has been very, very busy," a federal source said. "He's done a lot of traveling and talked to a lot of people. He's got the unqualified support of his old boss, Bonanno; he's been winning over support from West Coast bosses; he's been in San Francisco, Nevada, Chicago and St. Louis, where he's communicated with bosses, and we know he's got support in Buffalo and Canada because of old alliances. He's even won support in Milwaukee and Colorado, particularly because of a really dumb, Gambino-supported move to take over power in Colorado.'

Galente's pitch to the national mob leaders, the federal source said, has been that Gambino should be replaced as chairman of the mob's ruling commission because he is ill with heart trouble, has become forgetful, and has failed in recent years to show the determined leadership and discipline he had previously displayed as de facto ruler of New York's five families.

Galente "wants to consolidate the city's five families under a central leadership, a council of bosses with him as its chairman," a federal source said. And he has strong support in that desire, the source said.

Galente, who was released from prison in January 1974, after serving 14 years of a 20-year sentence for conspiracy to sell narcotics, has been described by police as a man who was once a killer and who organized Canadian mobs.

IN PRISON, he reportedly expressed hatred for Gambino, but since his release he has displayed remarkable diplomacy and tact after seizing control of the Bonanno family in a bloodless coup. He has been observed in Miami, St. Louis, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Chicago, Las Vegas and Reno, where he was reportedly on vacation. Police suspect he used the trips to consolidate his previously warm relationship with crime leaders. Police note he was the first to recruit smuggled Sicilian Mafia members as family enforcers, thus strengthening the depleted ranks of a Bonanno family torn apart by years of gang wars and leadership changes.
Police believe he is destined to the respect he draws from his peers in the Cosa Nostra leadership. "Galente's idea is to stop encroachment by ethnic mobs on rackets and territories the families once controllthe source said. "He wants to become organized crime's most important leader because of his genius for organization, administration and enforcement of discipline as well as consolidate the families' strength in labor, like the Teamsters and waterfront, reassert control in narcotics, coordinate corruption and boost revenues for everyone.'

Federal and police sources said that if Galente succeeds there would be a central line of communication and cooperation from the West Coast through the South, Midwest, New York and Canada. "Organizationally, it could become the strongest mob since the days of Lucky Luciano," a police source said. "The question is whether the national leadership is willing to let that much power be concentrated in New York. Informants say he's building support and he's doing it with diplomacy, tact and reasoning, undermining and eroding Gambino's strength at the same time.

The biggest barrier to the Galente move is the still-powerful Gambino family, New York's largest. Gambino may be ill, but he is still revered by his peers. His two aides, Joseph N Gallo of Queens, family consiglieri (adviser), and Aniello (O'Neill) Dellacroce, jailed underboss, are strong Gambino supporters.

Police said that Dellacroce, who is to be paroled next month after serving time for tax evasion, would oppose any Galente takeover unless an accommodation was reached protecting Gambino's stature, perhaps as a retired Don-adviser. If there is no such accommodation, Dellacroce and Gallo have the firepower and allies to fight Galente, police sources said.

The other city crime families are not considered to be in a position to organize major opposition if the na-tion's crime leaders agree to the proposition. Of the three remaining city families, only the Thomas Luchese crime group, headed by Andino (Tommy Noto) Pappadio and his underboss Anthony (Tony Ducks) Corallo, remains well-organized and disciplined. Though small in numbers, it remains strong in influence in labor, government and the rackets.

The once-powerful and large Vito Genovese family, now headed by Frank (Funzi) Tieri, who is ill, is marking time, police sources said, and a number of its prominent members — including captains Anthony (Fat Tony) Salerno, Anthony (Tony Pro) Provenzano and Charles (The Blade) Tourine — have moved to Florida.

The Joseph Colombo family, a police source said, is now temporarily headed by Joseph Brancato, a close associate of the jailed crime captain Jonn (Sonny) Franzese. The family is badly fragmented. Its leadership has changed six times since Colombo was shot and permanently disabled in 1972, and there is little coordination among family factions.

Meanwhile, a large and powerful faction of the Gambino family, an enforcer group that formerly controlled gambling, loansharking, police cor-ruption and business infiltration in New Jersey's Bergen and Essex Counties, has moved to Florida. Its leader, Joseph Paterno, and his aides Amelio (the Count) DeLio and Joseph (Demus) Covallo are already under investigaiton in Florida for establishing major gambling and loanshark rackets. The movement of that group, once one of the most feared in the Gambino stable of enforcers, has weakened the power of the Gambino family in the New York-New Jersey area.

Federal sources said that the changing face of organized crime and the bid for a new power structure coincides with the decline in intelligence operations by the FBI, the Internal Revenue Service and state and local police.

"There is an awareness by the mob leadership that they are not being watched the way they used to be by federal and local agencies," a federal agent said. "They meet openly now in restaurants and social clubs and on the street. They travel from city to city and they don't worry about tails or surveillances the way they used to."

Police and federal agencies agree that there has been a decline nationally in what they term "strategic inelligence gathering"

I take some pride that, in each of the ten vears I have been Chairman of the Ap propriations committee, the Committee has provided less funds overall in enacted appropriation bills than the President's budget has requested. (In these bills, savings have totaled billions of dollars.) However, in overall spending provided in non-appropriation bills, Congress has frequently exceeded the President's budget.

What court reforms would you support for Texas? A Supreme Court candidate can not be expected to render fair and impartial decisions all matters which may come before him when he has compromised himself by ac cepting many thousands of dollars in campaign contributions from lawyers who regularly practice before him. The acceptance of such financial support creates a direct conflict of interest, and is totally inappropriate for a judicial officer. The Suprem Court is authorized to promulgate appropriate rules of ethics governing the con duct of both attorneys and court candidates

The Railroad Commission needs to exercise more supervision over the pipeline com-panies. Recent news stories indicate that the statewide average loss of gas in transit is 6%. to 7%. Gas utility companies should not be allowed to include "lost and unaccounted for gas" in the rate base. The Railroad Commission should have more engineers to in-spect the pipelines. This will help prevent aste as well as costly accidents. The Railroad Commission should sponsor studies and publish data about the buildings can be constructed or improved to conserve energy. This type of data will enable the consumer to see how the initial cost of some building materials compares with the long term cost of heating and cooling. For instance, with the high cost of fuel an investment in home insulation to save heat expense may yield a higher rate of return than any other investment a person The Railroad Commission must take the lead in encouraging the development of new sources of energy such as coal, lignite, and solar power to conserve the existing supplies

Edeation: B.A. & Law Degree University of Texas State law requires the Railroad Com-mission to regulate oil and gas production for the sole purpose of preventing physical waste both underground and above ground. If a gas well has no market for its production, the law requires that it be closed in until a market is provided. Commission regulations on waste of oil and gas in the air have been highly successful; today, less than 4 per cent of the gas produced with oil is vented. I believe the Commission should maintain a hard line on conservation. It should continue to promote research of recovery practices, such as the cooperative programs now underway with the University of Texas and Texas A&M. Energy conservation can also be fostered through exerting influence nationwide to encourage other states to sear-ch for and develop oil and gas, as well as other energy sources.

energy prices have evolved because of in-creased population, and wasteful use of energy by the American people. A classic example is how our cities light up the skyline for miles all night long, while most citizens are asleep.

The Railroad Commission is a regulatory body, and can exercise their authority in protecting our fuel reserves, and except for rate-setting they are mainly concerned with production rather than consumption of energy. We do need executive and legislative leadership who will work on legislation to encourage people to use less energy, and if that does not work, to control it mandatorily. Robert 'Bob' Wood 2220 North Sumner Pampa, Tx. 79065

Energy conservation needs to be on an individual basis - the Commission should join with industry in promotion of energy conservation - better construction and more efficient heating units. The use of natural gas has been restricted for use in some areas and other areas should be sought to reduce the consumption of natural gas Uwechue, who was Nigeria's first ambassador to Paris, left his country's service during the Biafran crisis to write about Africa. Last year, he organized a group of friends to purchase "Africa" from its parent company "Jeune Afrique," which publishes an equivalent magazine in French.

The group that had controlled both publications was dominated by French-speaking North Africans. "Being from North Africa, they didn't have quite the same degree of interest as I have in the entire politics of Africa," said Uwechue with expected diplomatic grace.

Next SST could run on hydrogen

By ANDREW WILSON The London Observer

LONDON - The Next supersonic airliner after Concorde might run on hyrdrogen instead of conventional hydrocarbon fuels.

This is disclosed in new proposals for the possible design of a second or third generation supersonic transport (SST) drawn up by Lockheed under a contract wiht the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administra-

The Proposals appear in the magazine of the International Civil Aviation Organization and show a long, thin aircraft, capable of carrying 234 passengers, with extended compartments for the hydrogen fuel before and behind the passenger arises from expected further increases in the price of aviation kerosene and coal-based substitutes when demand outstrips supply in about the year 2000.

According to Brewer, a hydrogen-fueled aircraft, designed to fly at 2.7 times the speed of sound (about 550 mph faster than Concorde), would offer a marked saving in direct operating costs compared with a plane using a synthetic hydrocarbon

Because it would be lighter than Concorde the plane would also have important environmental advantages: Less ground noise, reduction in noxious exhausts, particularly nitrogen oxides, which threaten to damage the ozone layer if emitted in large quanities.

The two biggest arguments against the use of hydrogen have been the capital cost of the manufacturing an distribution facilities, and the amount of energy required for its liquefaction.

Lindsey got rich on country humor

By DON FREEMAN Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD - "Say, did you hear about this ol" boy named Willard in my home town?" says George Lindsey, also known as Goober. "He was draggin a George Lindsey's Celebrity Weekend, an annual big chain down the street. Fella says to him, 'Why event in Montgomery, Ala., which includes a are you draggin' that chain?' And ol' Willard says, celebrity golf tournament, a big variety show, and a 'Ever try to push one?"

For a frog, there's more to life than just sitting on a lily pad counting your spots.

Life for a frog: not always what it's croaked up to be

By DAVID LARSEN The Los Angeles Times

SACRAMENTO - Life for a frog isn't always what

There's more to it than just sitting on a lily pad, counting your spots.

For one thing, there are those constant jumping competitions. Pressure, pressure, pressure.

"It gets to them after a while," explained Bill

For this reason he began Croaker College, an institution of higher learning for frogs. In its six years of existence, more than 150 graduates have jumped out into the world, their egos shining.

"It started in 1970 when I wrote the late Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller in Arkansas about the frog he was going to enter in the contest at Angels Camp," Steed recalled. "I told the governor I could teach his entry to be a positive thinker."

This occurred to Steed because he deals in recordings and literature on sleep learning.

"When we go to sleep, our screening defenses are down," he explained. "The subconscious accepts

After Rockefeller's frog arrived, Steed set about to hypnotize him and build his confidence.

"I told him his spots were as nice as anybody elses, and I kept repeating: You must win, you can win, you

And, on the day of the Calaveras County jumping competition, the governor's frog did win.

Since then the word has spread and bullfrogs by the dozen are sent to Steed to be brainwashed for the annual amphibian Olympics in May.

In the evening, Steed gently rubs their bellies, puts them under, and the autosuggestion begins.

'You are putting the forces of the great creative mind within you to work," a record intones.

The 58-year-old Steed knows well that people are always making remarks about the looks of frogs.

For instance, when presidential candidate Jimmy Carter recently was branded dishonest by former Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox, Carter's press secretary responded:

M-Cubs' seven homers stun Amarillo

Rain bearing clouds circled Cubs Stadium like Indians circling a wagon train and atmospheric violence hung so heavy, Midland Cubs General Manager Bill Rigney, Jr., wondered if it was worth going ahead with the game even if it was the Chamber of Commerce's Pack the Park Night.

As it turned out the only thing violent was the Cubs' bats as Midland rocketed seven home runs over the fence to beat Amarillo's Gold Sox, 17-12, to take a 2-1 edge in the six-game Texas League series.

And despite the weather, 2,229 fans showed up and enjoyed a hitting show that saw the two teams lash out 32 hits, nine homers, six triples and a couple of doubles in supplying more action than a slow pitch game or Tarzan with his loin cloth on fire.

THIRD BASEMAN Mike Umfleet crashed two wrong field homers, including a bases loaded wallop in the first inning while catcher Mike Gordon also chipped in with a pair of prodigous clouts against the wind that was the center of discussion in the dugout after the game.

Big Borden's night scheduled Saturday

CUB BRIEFS - Darrell Turner. who was beginning to wonder if it would ever be his turn to pitch, will make his Texas League debut for the Midland Cubs in tonight's 7:30 tilt at Cubs Stadium Turner, a righthander from Oocee, Fla., was 8-9 with Key West and 1-1 with Wichita last season...

Turner's mound opponent will be Mike Lentz, a lefthander from Seattle, Wash., who is 0-1 this year. Lentz last year was 5-3 for Walla Walla in the rookie league.

Saturday night is Borden's Night, featuring Elsie and Beauregard the famous milk producing cows, and free ice cream. On the mound Midland lefty Steve Hamrick, 2-0, will go against Amarillo's Juan Eichelberger, who hails from San Francisco. Eichelberger was 10-4 in the A California League and finished and will be Elementary School Day for fourth, fifth and sixth graders... The Midland Cubs Boosters Club will hold a picnic for Cubs players after the Sunday game at Hogan Park.....

LUBBOCK-Liz Norton, the KATHY JOHNSON led Midland efending state AAAA medalist, High with a 176 while Carrie Nixon blazed through the Meadowbrook golf course here Thursday with a five over par 78 to lead the Lee Rebels to a Region I AAAA girls golf championship.

Miss Norton won the medalist title by an easy 10 strokes over Amarillo Tascosa's Candy Conner, and the Lee team won the crown by another easy 19 strokes over Amarillo High's 716.

Lee and Amarillo High will advance to the state AAAA tournament in Austin May 6-8. Midland High finished fourth in the regionals with a 748 and will not be able to defend their state championship won last year.

Lee's Diane Robinson, the first day medalist leader, fell to a 96 Thursday and out of contention. Sheryl Guthrie had an 89 Thursday for a 178 two-day total while Elaine Roberts finished with a 191. Mis6 Norton's two-day winning score was 163.

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Unheralded Mark Vines of Southern Methodist registered the first shock the 61st Southwest Conference Tennis Championship Thursday when he ousted defending conference singles champion Ross Walker of Houston in the opening round, 6-1, 63.

Playing under bright sunshine, Vines took the lead early and never trailed as he became onf four unseeded players to reach Friday's singles semifinals. He will be going against Baylor's Danny Dobbs who defeated fourth-seeded Brice Alexander of Rice. 6-1, 6-0 in another stun-other semifinal will pit Texas A&M's Charles Emley, who stopped third-seeded Randy Crawford of Texas Christian 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, against Texas' Gary Plock. Plock downed second-seeded Buddy Bowman of Arkansas, 6-3, 6-1. In doubles competition, Walker and teammate Dan Valentinicic, the toprated 'duo, easily ad-vanced to the semifinals with a 6-1, 6-2 victory over Tom Grisak and Brian Sakey of Arkansas.

Walker and Valentinicic will play Crawford and Tut Bartzen of TCU

Gordon's first homer came after Earle Chew hit his first of two triples and cleared the right field fence at the 368 foot mark despite a badgering crosswind. His lead off homer in the sixth went even farther, clearing the corner in right center at about 390

THE 6-3, 216-pounder from Brockton, Mass., credited Coach Jose Ortiz with an assist. "He moved me up a little in the batter's box and it made a big difference.' Ortiz explained he also concentrated on getting Gordon to keep his shoulder pointed at the pitcher and wait a little longer, "When he pulled the shoulder out, his head went with it and he lost his bat speed." It was a slugfest from the word go and with the wind blowing the way it was, no one was surprised. Lefthander Bernie Beckman started, but showed the lack of work right from the beginning. Before he was lifted in the fourth during a four run rally, the lefty from Holland, via Auburndale, Fla., had thrown almost 100 pitches.

"WE DIDN'T make it any easier for him. We gave them about four extra outs when we let pop ups fall and then made a costly boot behind him, too,' Manager Denny Sommers said.

"I think having managed out in this wind before helped in a game like panic with your pitchers in a game like this and I was jockeying so I could get Junge (Gary) in to finish up.

Umfleet's grand slam got Midland off to a good start and Amarillo didn't pull even until the fourth when they scored four runs to make it 6-6.

Chew's second triple and a wild pitch gave Midland the lead 7-6 in the fourth, but then after two were out in the sixth, Don Reynolds and Rick Sweet hit successive triples and Chuck Baker smacked a two run homer as releiver Wayne Doland's arm began to tighten up. Doland finally got Don Alfano on a liner to short, but Amarillo had a 9-7 lead.

This is Bill's seventh year in pro ball and he has never played below the AA level.

At Goldfield Community High, Bill earned four letters each in baseball, basketball and track and wound up captaining each team. In 1966, he led the baseball team to second place in the Iowa state Fall Tournament.

Huisman played three years of varsity baseball at Kansas State and in 1969 he batted .373 to earn All Big Eight Conference first team and NCAA all-district second team honors at second base. In 1970, he hit .288 and was chosen first team on both the All Big Eight and NCAA All District teams, 1974.

Before signing with the Chicago Cubs organziation, he played semi pro ball for Ford Dodge Merchants in 1969 and helped lead the club to the Iowa state championship and a seventh place tie in the National Baseball Congress tournament at Wichita. He batted .474 in the NBC tourney and was named to the Ail-Iowa and NBC All-American first teams in addition to being named the state tournament's outstanding player.

Home run derby BASEBALL STANDINGS won by Midland Texas League in TL action

By The Associated Press

A wind gusting up to 40 miles per hour turned the Amarillo-Midland Texas League game into a home run derby Thursday, with Midland getting the most benefit out of nine circuit clouts.

Midland's Mike Umfleet socked two homers, one of them a grand slam in the first inning, as the Cubs outlasted Amarillo 17-12. Midland's Mike Gordon also got two homers, but he did it the hard way-to right field away from the prevailing wind

Other Texas League results had Jackson blanking Shreveport 2-0, Arkansas over Lafayette 4-3 in 11 innings and San Antonio edging El Paso 6-5.

Randy Hammon got his second victory in two decisions this year with a shutout over Shreveport. Lee lorg and Jim Dyer had Jackson's run-scoring hits.

El Paso trailed San Antonio 5-4 going into the ninth inning and the Sun Dodgers tied the game on an unearned run before the Brewers won it in the bottom half of the inning on back-to-back doubles by Terry Pyka and Dan Duran.

Mike Ramsey hit a two-run single in the 11th inning to cap a three-run rally as Arkansas downed Lafayette. Both teams were scoreless until the eighth inning, when each tallied one run. Then Lafayette's Rich Sanderlin got a bases-loaded single to give the Drillers a 3-1 lead in the top of the 11th before the Travelers' three-run rally.

Lee bombards Odessa in 5-4A baseball tilt

By BOB DILLON

Rusty Laughlin provided the muscle at the plate and pitcher Dick Schmidt silenced the Odessa High bats as the Midland Lee Rebels bombarded the Bronchos, 12-2, Thursday at the Lee diamond in a District 5-4A baseball game.

Laughlin, a senior second baseman, rapped two doubles and a homer to spark the 12-hit Rebel attack in the makeup game which was rained out last week

The victory moves the Rebs into a first place tie with Abilene in the second half of the 5-4A race with a 2-0

Schmidt worked six innings on the mound and gave up only one hit - a single by Mickey Cargile in the third inning, but the senior righthander walked three Bronchos in the sixth inning so Coach Ernie Johnson called upon Kenneth Nix to mop up in the seventh inning.

Spring posted an 8-6 victory over Odessa Permian in Odessa in the only other 5-4A action Thursday.

Lee travels to Abilene Saturday to take on Cooper while Midland plays co-leader Abilene in the Tall City.

The victory gives Lee a 14-10 season mark while Odessa is now 7-15 and 0-2 in loop play and the Bronchos take on San Angelo Saturday in their next outing. Lee scored all the runs it needed in the first inning when the Rebels jumped on starter Joe Alvarado for four runs.

1976 NFL schedule

DALLAS (AP) - The National Football League has handed the Dallas Cowboys their 1976 schedule and there are some things in it Coach Tom Landry doe's not like, but, overall, he expressed satisfaction with it Thursday.

"I see where were stuck with that Thursday Thanksgiving Day game again," Landry said upon checking the schedule. That game will be the third within the span of ten days in November and will have the Cowboys hosting the defending National Football Conference champions St. Louis Cardinalsat Texas Stadium.

The Cowboys also got a Monday night game with a bonus, the first appearance in Texas Stadium of O. J. Simpson of the Buffalo Bills and former Arkansas quarterback Joe Ferguson on Monday night, Nov. 15.

Within that ten day period, the Cowboys also will have an on-the-road date with the Atlanta Faicons.

"Thank goodness the Monday night game is at home instead of Buffalo," Landry said.

Five of the first eight games will be on the road including three straight at Seattle, New York (Giants) and St. Louis.

Four of the last games will be at home including the finale against former Cowboy Calvin Hill and the Washington Redskins on Dec. 12.

Reasor shoots sizzling 65 in New Orleans golf

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Mike Reasor looked up with a puzzled expression on his face.

'I don't know what's going on," he said, then offered a smile. "It's just starting to jell."

He paused a moment, obviously searching for words to explain the sudden turn-around in his golfing 'You just can't realize what a small difference there is in shooting 65 and 75. Just a couple of good shots as opposed to a couple of bad shots; a few putts going in. That's the difference in being three or four over and seven under.

This time Reasor, a bright, personable man undismayed by his eight long years of struggle on the pro golf tour, turned in a seven-under score, a brilliant 65 that staked him to a twostroke lead Thursday in the first round of the $175,000 New Orleans

'I've played pretty well the last few weeks," said Reasor, 34, most of whose previous fame came from his role as Arnold Palmer's caddy in the 1966 U.S. Open "I've even had a chance to win the last two weeks, and that's the first time in a long, long time.' It's never happened.

Reasor has yet to win in a tour career that began in 1969. He's never

Rankin captures 6-A golf crown

IRAAN-The Rankin Red Devils' golf team, which has won two striaght Class A state titles, nailed down the District 6-A crown again here Thursday with a team score of 933.

The Red Devils will again be in the playoffs, and their march to state will begin next weekend in the Lubbock regionals.

Rankin's Gary Varnadore won medalist honors with a 221 after a fine 72 on the last district circuit tournament. Teammate Russell Wimberley finished second in the medalist chase with a 228 while Iraan's Donnie O'Bannon was third with a 233. O'Bannon had the best round Thursday with a 68.

Other Rankin team members were Clarke Turner, 241; Tom Wimberley, 248; and; Andy Doege, 250.

Aeros resume playoff action

By The Associated Press

The Houston Aeros will have had only a two-day rest when they take on the San Diego Mariners tonight in the second game of their best-of-seven World Hockey Association semifinal series. That means they should be sharper than they were Wednesday

If that's true, the Mariners stand a strong chance of being nearly blasted out of the playoffs.

The defending WHA champion Aeros had a 15-day layoff while San Diego kept sharp taking a five-game series from Phoenix. Andre Lacroix, the Mariners' center, felt the long layoff would work to San Diego's

"We thought they'd be playing us cautiously, picking up our wings and waiting for us to make a mistake." Lacroix said. "Boy, did they surprise Houston exploded for six goals in the opening period, then held on for an 8-6 victory and a 1-0 lead in the series. "When you have an 8-2 lead, there's tendency to fall asleep," said

Houston Coach Bill Dineen. In the other United States Division semifinal. Indianapolis is at New England tonight. New England leads the series 2-1. Calgary is at Winnipeg for the opening of their best-of-seven Canadian Division finals tonight.

The Aeros are going after their third consecutive WHA cham-the money-winning list last year. In his first 12 tries this season he survived the cut only once.

But in his last two starts, in events in which the major stars were not playing, he finished seventh and 15th. And then, on a bright, warm, almost windless spring day with some of the game's greatest stars in the field, he unleashed a near-perfect effort that put him well clear of such standouts as Jack Nicklaus, Billy Casper, Hubert Green and Tom Watson.

Reasor hit every fairway on the 7,080.pa'w.P. R.P.D. Count-n.2; wp$82i8p,oMISSED ONLY ONE GREEN. He didn't come close to making a bogey and bagged his birdies in bunches— three in a row at one stretch, four in a row another

"I had an extremely good putting round," Reasor said. "And that's what you have to do to shoot a low

Casper, the defending champion, had second place alone until he bogeved the final hole and dropped to two shots off the pace and a tie at 67 with Wally Armstrong and Monty Kaser, like Reasor career nonwinners.

Nicklaus, the heavy pre-tourney favorite, shot a 68 that he called "sort of mediocre" and was tied with 10 others three strokes back.

"I threw away a lot of shots," Nicklaus said. "I'm not upset with a 68. It's not a bad round. But, in relation to the rest of the field, it's not a good one either. Green, a three-time winner this year and the runnerup in last week's Tournament of Champions; British Open champ Tom Watson and John Mahaffey, runnerup last week in Tallahassee, also were at 68. Others at that figure included David Graham, Lee Elder, Lyn Lott, Dick Lotz, Vic Regalado, Frank Conner and Bobby Wadkins.

Don January, the 46-year-old veteran who won the Tournament of Champions, was at 70. Ben Crenshaw, a two-time winner this year, had the flu and withdrew before the start of the round.

Reasor, 34, keyed his strong effort around his putting. He needed only 28 strokes on the greens and holed three long ones in the 30-40 foot range that he called "sea-goers." One of those came on his first hole.

He chipped to tap-in distance for birdie on the next hole and made it three in a row with an approach to six feet on the next hole.

His other birdie burst started with a 12-foot putt on his 11th hole. A six-iron shot to two feet for a duece was sandwiched between two more of those long putts to make it four in a row this time and he parred home routinely, just missing birdies on his last three holes.

BATTLE SCENE

Thank goodness for PE class and Robert Wilson

BY TED BATTLES

In the midst of a West Texas economic boom, Midland High's track program has been a pocket of depression the last few years, much to the distress of Coach Edwin Nixon.

In his 25 years here, Nixon has known the pinnacles of success and currently is experiencing the depths. Part of it is numbers, which has nothing to do with enrollment in this case. And part of it is in enticing athletes with regional potential to come out.

Midland's lone regional qualifier this spring is Robert Wilson, recruited as a sophomore from a PE class after having been discarded as a non prospect in junior high.

IN JUNIOR high, Nixon says, "Sometimes out of necessity programs are started late and the rosters are culled early. Both are factors that take a toll on the program. If you start late, it means a punishing schedule to prepare for the season in short a time, so you lose some kids before you really know anything about them.

Wilson was one of those. As is his custom with each incoming class, Nixon assembles the PE students who show some potential and explains the values and objectives of the crosscountry and track programs. Wilson

LIKE SWIMMING, it's a tough sport with no rug under which to sweep or hide poor preparation or poor performance.

Nixon contends one reason that El Paso has grown into a statewide power in cross country and track is the emphasis it places on participation and competition. 'Every Tuesday before a meet, they have freshman, sophomore and junior varsity qualifying meets to earn places in the meet later that week. "The competition is almost a guarantee of improved quality.

It might be that a series of duel meets between junior highs in the area would be more productive to the high school program by encouraging more youngsters to compete rather than limiting the program to the very few with the obvious talent.

NIXON CAN see better days ahead and one reason is football coach Jerry Hopkins. Different football coaches have different philosphies on off season programs and Midland High's new grid mentor is one who believes that track and football go hand-inhand, especially for the athletes who are in the "skill" positions.

One thing Ed is proud of is his track girls. "We started out with 15 and since it was our first year, the first day's workout was 110 yards in 55 seconds, walk 110 yards, for three laps. I lost three that first day. We finally wound up with four and three of them made it to regional, which is 75 per cent, not a bad percentage for anybody's program."

Working with the girls is a little different than with boys.

ONE GIRL missed a couple of days to go on a skiing trip and couldn't understand why she wasn't permitted to compete in the meet that weekend.

The Los Angeles Dodgers are on a winning streak—one in a row.

That may not sound like much, but it is for the Dodgers, who have had their problems this year. We had a good spring training and everybody worked hard but we haven't had any good pitching until the last two games," says Manager Walt Alston

The Dodgers, off to their worst start in many years, have only won three of 11 games so far, including Thursday night's 7-2 decision over the Houston Astros.

Sports in brief

TENNIS
STOCKHOLM — Guillermo Vilas of Argentina breezed past Karl Meiler of West Germany 6-4, 6-0 to gain aberth in the quarter-finals of the World Championship Tennis tournament.

DENVER — Brian Gottfried scored a 62, 6-2 victory over Billy Martin to move into the semifinals of the $64,000 Denver World Championship Tennis Tournament.

"It was just one of those games when everything went right," said Rowe. "It's hard to stop a team when that is happening.

The near-perfect game made up for Tuesday night's 127-103 loss to Golden

State in the series opener. "We were completely disorganized Tuesday night," said Detroit Coach Herb Brown. "We ran our offense tonight. That's all there is to it. You've got to out-execute people to win in this league. On defense, we saw on films we were giving them the driving lanes Tuesday night. We took them away in this game. We copied Golden State's defense, is what we

In another playoff game, the Cleveland Cavaliers beat the Washington Bullets 92-91 and took a 3-2 lead in their Eastern Conference semifinals. In tonight's action, the Boston Celtics, holding a 1-0 lead, host the Buffalo Braves in an Eastern semifinal series.

In the other Western Conference semifinal, the Phoenix Suns, leading 3-1, meet the SuperSonics Sunday in Seattle. Rowe scored 17 of his points in the opening period when the Pistons shot 74 per cent from the field but could take only a 39-37 lead. The Detroit forward had 13 points in the third quarter when his team built a 15point

Bob Lanier, the Pistons' muscular center; totaled 31 points, hitting 10 of 15 shots from the floor, mostly on outside jump shots. Rowe made 12 of points-all foul shots-in the second

Cavaliers 92, Bullets 91

Jim Cleamons laid in a rebound with one second left to give Cleveland its victory over Washington. The game, played before 21,312-the largest crowd ever to see an NBA playoff game and the biggest home crowd in Cleveland history— was close all the way. Neither team led by more than seven points at any time.

KANKAKEE, Ill. - There never has been a horse race like it.

The great American Horse Race will be the longest, with the most mounts, of all time - 3,500 miles across America.

It begins in Saratoga Springs, N.Y., on May 31 (Memorial Day) and finishes 99 days later in Sacramento, Calif., on Sept. 6 (Labor Day).

So far, 147 riders have entered. The purse is $50,000 - 10 prizes, with the winner receiving $25,000; second place $7,500, third place $4,000 and lesser amounts to $1,000 for the rider

Each day's elapsed time will be tallied up to determine the placing.

RIDERS ARE EXPECTED to average 46 miles a day during the 76 race days. There will be 23 rest days. Entries will be accepted through the end of April with a maximum of 250 riders. The race is the brainchild of Randy Scheiding, 32, of Kankakee, and Chuck Waggoner, 26, of nearby Shelbyville, Ill. "It was Randy's idea," Waggoner said at The Great American Horse Race headquarters - two rooms in the Howard Johnson Motel in Kankakee, 50 miles south of Chicago.

Waggoner went on: This race will give people a chance to see the country in a way it has not been seen in 100 years...'

Scheiding, a salesman for an outdoor advertising firm, and Waggoner, a salesman for an electronics firm, for four years had been kicking around the idea of chucking their-jobs and riding across America on horseback.

Five years ago Scheiding rode 800 miles from his home in Illinois to McPherson, Kan.

"It was the highlight of my life," Scheiding said. "The country moves so slow on horseback. You have a chance to become part of the land-scape. It's a feeling of freedom I had never experienced.

Over a couple of beers early last year Scheiding suggested to Waggoner, "Why not get a whole bunch of people to ride with us across the country on America's birthday?

We thought about that for awhile and then came up with the idea for

The Great American Horse Race," said Scheiding.

SCHEIDING BORROWED $1,430 and ran an ad in the March, 1975, issue of Western Horseman, saying of the proposed race: "The adventure of a lifetime for the common American who regards his horse as something special. Longest horse race in history. From New York to California. Entry fee: $500." Nearly 700 horsemen and horsewomen inquired about the ad. Many sent in $500.

Subscribers Bill Gerhardt, 46, and his wife, Ginny, 38, spotted the ad one night while relaxing after supper on their 17-acre ranch in Perris, Calif.

"It was like a dream come true," said Ginny. "Bill and I haven't had a vacation in years. We've just never had an opportunity to get away from home, what with our four young boys. But we made up our minds. This was it. Friends will stay at our place caring for our house, the family and our

As many women as men are entered. Youngest entry is 18. Oldest is Hub Crossett, 69, a horse trader of Huntingdon, Tenn.

Entries hail from 47 states and 10 foreign countries — Australia, Austria, Belgium, Canada, Denmark, England, France, Germany, Italy and Japan.

"It's a once-in-a-lifetime chance to do something really different," says entrant Dawn Wrobel, 22, a grad student from Northwestern. There are secretaries, nurses, farmers, a bellmaker from Kansas, businessmen, clerks, teachers, housewives and cowboys entered.

Norman Monarch, 36, of Bakersfield, Calif., a Southern Pacific engineer, is going. So is Valerie Briggs, 18, a country-western singer, and her mother Mary Lou Briggs, of Corvallis, Ore.

Dr. Wilfred J. Labarre, 49, a chiropractor from Epping, N.H., and Dr. Marian Molthan, 47, a pediatrician from Laveen, Ariz., are in. So is Les Carr, 45, president of Louis University, Lockport, Ill.

THREE MEN are even now riding from Pilot Butte, Sask., to Saratoga Springs, as a warmup.

Harlan Morrow, 45, who runs a dump truck in Lakeview, Ioa, pop. 1,100, and trains horses on the side, is quitting to make the race.

"My wife is going to work for the time being," said Morrow. "We figure I'm going to win the $25,000. No ques-Morrow has been riding three hours

According to the Guinness Book of World Records the longest horse race in history was in 1920, 1,200 miles in Portugal.

Police push slayer hunt

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) - Lawenforcement officers today pressed the search for a 1970 Green Chevrolet that could provide a clue to the murder of two youths and their grandparents whose bodies were found Thursday afternoon in a home in remote-area of Southwest San

The car was owned by Jesus Juarez, 56, one of the victims. The other victims were identified by police as his wife, Julia Juarez, 53, and their grandchildren, Phillip Moreno, 10, and Rachel, 9.

Their bodies were found in the Juarez home located in a small fishing park owned by the Juarez'. Juarez, his wife and the young girl were found in the living room of the house. They had not been tied. Juarez was shot twice in the head. Mrs. Juarez and young Rachel were shot once each in the head.

Phillips's body was found about 70 yards away from the house also shot once in the head.

Police officers said the youth apparently tried to flee, but the killer or killers caught up with him and shot him on the spot.

Investigators said the victims were shot with a .22 caliber weapon. Police Sgt. Lloyd Brown said the bodies were found about 1 p.m. by Ruben Moreno, 17, brother of the slain

Sgt. Brown said Phillip and Rachel had been living with their grandparents for some time. They were the children of Ruben Moreno Sr. and Juanita Juarez who are separted,

The plant would burn trees that could not be used for lumber and otherwise would go to waste.

tons of wood a year, said Beardsley.

"The loggers would use a chipharvester, a giant praying mantis on rubber tires that consumes a tree in about 30 seconds and blows small wood chips out its other end directly into 20-ton tractor trailer boxes, Beardsley said. Chipharvesters now are used in some pulp logging operations.

Nonetheless, Beardsley doesn't see wood as a permanent solution to the electrical industry's energy needs. Grooming the forests to make additional space to plant better trees, coupled with scientists' attempts to use wood fibers in manufacturing synthetics, eventually will make wood too expensive to burn, he speculated.

'We look at wood remaining a feasible fuel for only 30 years or so, Beardsley said. "It would be a shortterm bridge until technology is refined on solar energy and nuclear breeder reactors.

A site for the plant, which could go on line as early as 1983, has not been selected, but would have to be near a plentiful wood supply, said Beardsley. Many areas of the state have enough surplus trees within a 35-mile radius to support a plant the size Green Mountain Power plans, he said.

HOUSTON - Joe F. Callahan has been named chairman of the board and W. O. Keyes has been named president of Western Oceanic, Inc., wholly owned offshore drilling subsidiary of The Western Co. of North America. The announcement was made by H. E. Chiles, chairman and president of Western.

Callahan will serve as chief executive officer and Keyes will be chief operating officer, according to Callahan, who had previously been executive vice president of Western Oceanic, joined Western in 1970 and has served as vice president in charge of corporate planning.

Keyes, formerly senior vice president of Western Oceanic in charge of operations, joined the firm in 1969 and has progressed with its growth. Before joining western he operated a drilling engineering consulting firm, and worked with Mobil Oil Corp. some 10 years.

thirds of these capital and exploration expenditures are scheduled to be in the United States, primarily for exploration, development and production. This would indicate U.S. expenditures of almost $17 billion for these 22 companies alone. Frank N. Ikard, president of the

API, said in releasing the results of the survey: "Two points are of major imports. We are concerned about the grip which Middle Eastern nations have on our security and economy. We hope that others will come to share our concern. These expenditures are proof positive of the industry's efforts to help achieve a greater degree of energy selfsufficiency. "We hope also that these figures will quiet the allegations of uninformed critics that the industry is for some unexplained reason sulking in the corner instead of attempting to meet its obligations to the shareholders who own it and to the general public.

'A second point is equally important. As large as they are, these expenditures do not represent the size of investment needed to move toward reduced dependence on imported oil.

Taking into account the high rate of inflation in costs, the scheduled 1976 expenditures will result in little, if any, more actual development work than in the year 1975. These expenditures should and could be even larger, if the government would refashion its tax and economic policies so that more capital could be generated."

The API president also pointed out, "It is unrealistic to expect that these companies can continue to make such large capital outlays unless their earnings also increase." Ikard cited a 24 per cent decline in the companies' profits from 1974 to 1975.

He also referred to the virtual elimination of percentage depletion under the 1975 Tax Reduction Act and to price controls which were extended to include all crude oil prices under the 1975 Energy Policy and Conservation Act. The latter, API said, will prevent real prices from rising more than fractionally from now until 1979.

Normally, API added, such a price freeze would lead to a stagnation in capital expenditures such as occurred from 1957-67 when oil prices declined Amoco ups informants points to Detroit area persons and New Jersey Mafia figures as the persons who killed The Justice Department official said New Jersey Teamsters official "Tony Pro" Provenzano Anthony figures in the government investigation, the newspaper said. One Justice Department official, Richard Thornburgh, was quoted by the newspaper as saying, "We have a very viable theory as to the facts and circumstances surrounding the kidnaping and murder of Hoffa and as to who was responsible. But there is a difference between what we know and what we can prove in court.'

Hoffa was last seen in the company of several other men July 30 outside a restaurant in Bloomfield Township,

The story by the Free Press

Washington bureau quoted another unnamed federal source as saying that Charles "Chuckie" O'Brien played a major role in the events that led up to Hoffa's disappearance.

O'Brien is a Teamsters official who was raised by Hoffa from childhood and who was brought into union politics by Hoffa.

The Free Press quoted one Justice Department source as saying O'Brien might have been involved unwittingly in the Hoffa disappearance when he picked up Hoffa's killers at Detroit Metropolitan Airport the day they flew to Michigan to kill the ex-Teamsters boss. O'Brien might not have known why the men came to Michigan, the Justice Department source said.

O'Brien and Provenzano, who have steadfastly denied they know anything of Hoffa's disappearance, were not immediately available for comment.

The Free Press said the unnamed Justice Department official told it Hoffa might have been killed because some Teamsters and Mafia figures involved in the union feared he would return to power in the union.

He emphasized that investigators have no evidence" that current Teamsters boss Frank Fitzsimmons was involved in Hoffa's disap-

Officers report Soviet ships spying on carrier

ABOARD THE USS SARATOGA (AP) - A pack of Soviet ships are spying on the aircraft carrier Saratoga as she maneuvers in the Mediterranean a day away from Lebanon, U.S. officers report.

The officers say they have spotted at least five Soviet navy ships keeping tabs since the Saratoga steamed from Split, Yugoslavia, in early April for operations east of Crete. On Thursday, a Soviet intelligence-gathering ship moved to within 300 yards of the 80,000-ton carrier. "That's the closest we've seen one in a long while," said Rear Adm. Eugene J. Carroll Jr., commander of the 6th Fleet carrier task force. The Soviet ship looked like a tugboat except for its electronic gear. Dwarfed by the carrier, it kept pace for about an hour before changing course. At the same time, a Soviet destroyer could be seen on the Carroll asserted that a long planned joint exercise with the Turkish navy prought the Saratoga to the area 400 miles from war-wracked Lebanon. But the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda has linked the U.S. naval presence with the Lebanese civil war and warned against any U.S.

Barbara accepts ABC offer

NEW YORK (AP) - Barbara Walters, star of the "Today" show, says she is ending her long association with NBC to co-anchor ABC's evening news because "they made me an offer I couldn't refuse."

The ABC offer, which neither the network nor Miss Walters would disclose, reportedly was $1 million a year for five years.

But an NBC spokesman said Thursday that was only "the tip of the iceberg." NBC dropped out of the bidding, he said, because Miss Walters' agent was "dickering for ...a multimillion-dollar specials deal involving her own production company which would be formed to produce specials." Miss Walters, 43, started with NBC as a staff writer in 1961. She reportedly had been making more than $400,000 a year

Ford camp lays contingency plans for California

The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON - President Ford's campaign strategists have laid contingency plans for an emergency fund-raising drive and intensified barnstorming by the President in California if Ronald Reagan wins the

May 1 Texas primary by a landslide. As of now, the Ford organization expects to have only about $200,000 to spend campaigning against the former governor on his home turf - a figure that Norman Watts, the President's primary coordinator, says is 10 per cent of the sum needed for an allout statewide campaign.

Thus, looking beyond the crucial Texas race where the President is a self-described underdog, the campaign committee is planning in unusual detail. Mailing lists have already been prepared to send out an urgent plea for funds to finance a stepped up California effort should Ford lose Texas badly.

ROGERS C. B. MORTON, chairman of the Ford Campaign committee, has predicted a fairly even split of the 100 Texas delegates, 96 of whom will be elected May 1 and the rest appointed later, and Sen. John Tower (R-Texas), who is heading the President's campaign in the state, forecasts a Ford majority.

Nevertheless the Ford camp is concerned because this is the first contested GOP presidential primary in the state, and no one really knows what to expect.

In the past the highest vote in a Texas GOP primary has only been something over 100,000. The votes are expected to soar in the Ford-Reagan contest because of participation by "November Republicans," who normally vote in the Democratic primary in the spring, then cross over to vote for Republican candidates in the fall general election.

Robert Teeter, who heads the polling organization working for the Ford campaign, told a group of reporters Wednesday he would not be surprised if the vote in the upcoming GOP primary exceeded 400,000. He based that on estimates that Texas has

600,000 to 1 million "November

Republicans." Both the Ford and Reagan camps profess to believe they will be helped by the heavy "crossover" voting,

SOME FORD backers, including Tower, have predicted Reagan will be mathematically eliminated before California Republicans vote June 8.

Morton predicted the President will go to the GOP convention in Kansas City with 1,200 committed delegates. 70 more than required for the nomina-

Ford committee sources said Morton's estimate did not count California's delegation for the President, but assumed a fairly even split in Texas. a strong Ford win in the Oregon, Nevada and Idaho primaries, a majority in the Western convention states, in Ford's home state of Michigan, and virtually all of the 154 vote New York delegation, still formally uncommitted.

According to Watts' count, the President will have 500 assured delegates after next Tuesday's Pennsylvania primary, which Reagan did not enter.

Ford's campaign in the coming weeks will take into account two findings from polls the President's forces have taken in the early primary states:

-Voters in Republican primaries wait until election day is upon them before making up their minds whether to go for Ford or Reagan. Teeter, the Ford pollster, told reporters Wednesday that polls in New Hampshire, Florida, Illinois, and Wisconsin showed as many as 25 per cent of the voters made up their minds in the last week, and as many as nine per cent in the last 24 hours. Reagan's weekend television blitz before the North Carolina vote was widely credited with giving him his

-The President has consistently done better in the balloting in areas where he campaigned personally.

Thus. Ford has announced Wednesday that he will go into Texas for the better part of four days next week, leaving the state only hours before the polls open for the Saturday primary.

He has already campaigned in the state for two days and by the time he winds up, he will have hit "media centers" reaching virtually all of the scattered regular Texas Republicans.

His trip next week will take him to Tyler, Fort Worth, Houston, Waco, Dallas, Lubbock and Abilene.

visits to California, the last in the closing days before the primary.

A series of radio ads will begin running in the San Fernando Valley area of Los Angeles in the next few weeks seeking volunteers for the Ford campaign. The Ford campaign committee also is preparing to install telephone centers to solicit support for the Campaign officials blame the shor-

.In California, about $600,000 has been raised against a goal of $1

Early in the Ford-Reagan contest, officials of the Ford campaign organization discussed "letting California go" to Reagan. But that was before Reagan won North Carolina, when the Ford camp entertained hopes that Reagan might quit the race early. But then Reagan upset the incumbent in North Carolina, and began a frontal attack on Ford leadership and

Cadets charged

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) - Fifty cadets at the U.S. Military Academy have been charged with cheating on an electrical engineering examination and two others have resigned in one of the most serious scandals in the institution's 174-year history The academy said that all those involved in the case are second classmen, or juniors.

Previous reports had said 101 cadets were being investigated

The announcement said that the investigation cleared 49 cadets of involvement in 'unauthorized collaboration" on the take-home exam, in addition to the two cadets who resigned after admitting they violated the honor code, and the 50 who were chargèd.

The case recalled the biggest scandal to ever hit West Point - in 1951, when 37 football players and 53 other cadets resigned after they exchanged exam answers in an organized cheating scheme.

In 1973, 15 cadets resigned or were expelled after being convicted of passing answers on an ex-reported today. The informant said Bergman planned to see producer Dino DeLaurentiis in New York and then would go to Hollywood to talk to his American agent, Paul Cohner. Bergman, 58, is staying in a Paris

Other sources said the director is also considering making his headquarters in France or Italy. Cohner told the Swedish newspaper before his break with Sweden, had been scheduled to come to the United States to discuss plans for his next picture and for a joint project with the American Film Institute.

The agent said the picture, "The Eggs of the Snake," is to be shot in Europe but is to be financed by American money. Leaders of the Swedish theater world expressed sympathy with Bergman, and Bertil Bokstedt, manager of the Royal Opera, said his decision was an "unprecedented catastrophe for the cultural life of Sweden. "Ingmar Bergman is irreplaceable for Swedish films and theater," said Dr. Carl Ragner Gierow, permanent secretary of the Swedish Academy of Letters.

"The consequences for the Swedish film and cultural life are in-calculable," said Kenne Fant, head of the Swedish Films, which produced many of Bergman's films.

Bergman was arrested during a theater rehearsal Jan. 30 and was charged with tax fraud in connection with $750,000 from a Swiss company he owned. The charges were dropped, but the Socialist government is going ahead with claims for taxes on the Bergman, in a letter to the newspaper Expressen, announced Thursday that he could no longer live and work in Sweden. He said his treatment by the tax authorities made him realize that "anybody in this country, any time and in any way, can be attacked and humiliated by a special kind of bureacracy that grows like a galloping cancer."
