Council approves voluntary plans for integration

By LINDA SCHAFFRINA

The Midland Council of Concerned Citizens Monday night approved six plans for voluntary desegregation of Midland's elementary schools, but then decided not to present them to the school board.

Representatives from 12 schools and a rural group voted by a seven to six margin not to submit the plans for consideration by the school board after being told by James P. Boldrick, the group's attorney, that working through the school board would hurt the council's chances of being accepted by U.S. District Judge D. W. Suttle as intervenors in the case.

The group has filed a motion to intervene but Judge Suttle has not ruled on it. Boldrick said submitting the plans as a group "would waive the intervention" but suggested a "disinterested party" such as the Human Relations Council could present the plans to the school board without revealing the source. The group rejected the option of trying to submit plans unofficially. Human Relations Council president Ted Kerr said he could not submit the plans without revealing their source. Joan Southerland said she believed it to be "just a little dishonest to try to play both ends against the middle" by trying to submit the plans anonymously.

The plans approved by the group. include four variations on the magnet school concept, a cultural center plan which would involve transporting children to a cultural center once or twice a week and a freedom of choice

In addition, at other Midland schools would "be opened to anyone from any neighborhood who wishes to attend them," under the plan.

The magnet school would be used for all special education programs and include programs for students with learning disabilities or other special problems and bright students.

Under the freedom of choice aspect of the plan, enrollment in any school would be "limited on a first come, first served basis so the capacity of each school will not be exceeded."

Transportation would be provided for all students living more than two miles from their school in both phases of the plan.

Boswell said the advantages of this program would be integration on a voluntary basis, use of all present school facilities, retention of neighborhood schools throughout the city. the establishment of enrollment limits for each school, special interest programs and the possibility of

Panel drives to complete tax revision

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ordinary taxpayers are winning more benefits than they are losing as a Senate-House panel puts together a compromise tax-revision bill.

The final score may be known late this week, when members of the conference committee expect to finish the bill and send it to the House and Senate for one last vote.

Most issues concerning individual taxpayers were settled during the first seven days of the conference. Chief among these is a $15-billion-ayear tax-cut extension through Dec.

Provisions generally affecting only taxpayers who earn more than $50,000 a year are the major points of contention remaining between the House and Senate conferees. There is some risk that if taxes on the rich are raised too sharply, the final bill could be in trouble in the Senate. But if too many tax shelters are left untouched, the measure could face rough going in the Meanwhile, President Ford issued a statement Monday calling on Congress to approve a tax bill that meets the needs of all Americans.

"Unfortunately, Congress has become ensnarled in rewriting of detailed provisions of the tax code and has failed to recognize the broad interests of the country." Ford asserted.

Here is a summary of the conference committee's work.

CHILD CARE - An expanded tax credit for child-care expenses is assured since such a provision was passed in both the House and Senate The only question is how much the credit will be

The House and Senate bills agree that the current child-care deduction should be replaced with a tax credit, which will benefit even those families that do not itemize deductions.

The maximum credit — subtracted directly from taxes owed - would be $400 a year for the care of one child and $800 for two or more. The credit would apply even if one or both

SICK PAY - The House wants to eliminate the current law that allows tax-free treatment of up to $100 a week that is paid a sick worker by the employer, and replace it with a tax exemption of up to $5,200 a year for permanently and totally disabled retirees under age 65. The Senate bill would keep sick pay for workers making $15,000 or less but phase it down between $15,000 and $20,000 and eliminate it above $20,000

PENSIONS - Present law allows a worker who has no other pension plan to exempt from current taxes up to $1,500 a year to be set aside in an Individual Retirement Account (IRA). No tax is paid until the money is withdrawn at retirement. The House voted to allow workers whose company pensions are inadequate to invest in an IRA on a limited basis. This would cost $502 million a year by 1981 and is not in the Senate bill

APPROVED

HOUSEWIVES' PENSIONS - A worker who qualifies for an IRA could set aside an additional $250 a year for his spouse who does not work outside the home

SIMPLIFICATION — To make taxpaying seem a little less complicated for 90 per cent of Americans, the bill would sharply reduce the number of tax-rate schedules and replace them with new tables that could be used by anyone with a taxable income up to $20,000.

RETIREMENT CREDIT - This highly complex provision would be replaced by a credit that would allow a person over 65 to subtract from taxes owed 15 per cent of the first $2,500 of annual income of any type. For a couple, the credit would be 15 per cent of up to $3,750.

BUSINESS IN HOME - The bill would make it more difficult for a person to reduce taxes by deducting a portion of the cost of maintaining a

MIG25 jet source of excitement

TOKYO (AP) - Experts have looked over the Soviet MIG25 fighter plane flown to Japan by a defecting Soviet air force pilot, Japanese officials reported today. But they refused to say whether American intelligence officers had looked at the plane, reportedly the hottest in the Soviet arsenal.

U.S. authorities refused to comment, referring all queries to Washington. But it was assumed the Americans would get a thorough examination of the plane before the Japanese government returned it to the Soviet Union.

The Kyodo news service quoted Japanese officials as saying the pilot who landed the plane Monday at a small airfield in Hakodate will be transferred to the United States on

But police and Foreign Ministry officials said they knew nothing of plans to transfer the pilot, and the U.S. Embassy refused comment. Police say the pilot has asked for political asylum in America

Police referred the pilot's case to the Hakodate prosecutor's office on six charges: violating Japan's immigration control law, firearms control law, and gunpowder law, intimidation, and two violations of the aviation law - flying too low and overrunning the runway

Police said the pilot fired a pistol into the air to keep startled airport workers away just after he screamed in for a surprise landing at the airfield in northern Japan. The MIG25 overshot the 6,700-foot runway by 800 feet and smashed two navigational antennas on the ground, they said.

In Washington, the State Department would say only that the matter of the pilot's request for asylum was under consideration

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said in Paris today that the United States "will probably grant asylum" to the pilot. "If we do not, you can assume I have been overruled," he said. Kissinger has been meeting with various European leaders on the brewing racial confrontation in southern Africa.

One Japanese source with good official connections said he heard that the plane might be moved by ship from Hakodate to the U.S. air base at Misawa, in northern Honshu, the main Japanese island.

Officials of the Japanese Defense Agency said they were primarily interested in the supersonic jet fighter's electronic firing control system. Experts from Tokyo and the Japanese Defense Force base at Chitose, near Hakodate, flew Monday to the Hakodate landing site.

Other Western embassies in Tokyo indicated keen desire to examine the plane. The British air attache was reported to have gone to Hakodate to try to get a close look at the craft.

The MIG25 has been kept largely under wraps by the Soviet Union, but it is believed to be Russia's most advanced jet fighter and capable of flying at 1,600 miles an hour.

The pilot of the plane was identified as Lt. Viktor I. Belenko, 29. Defense Agency officials said he was flown by police helicopter from Hakodate to an airbase at Chitose, near Sapporo, and then was taken by Japanese armed forces jet transport to the Iruma base

Fair shows Stanton good town

STANTON-As a general rule, I don't like carrying on over events after they're over because I don't think it's fair to taunt readers about what a great thing they missed.

But I can't fail to enthuse about the Martin County Fair in Stanton, which gave me an opportunity to see the heart of a great small town at work on handicrafts, animal husbandry. tractor pulling, and everything else that goes on in an agricultureoriented community that is proud of itself and with good reason.

In the first place, I like fairs, and I'm indebted to Bicentennialism for turning the clock back to the county extravaganza days. They give clever, skilled folks a chance to show off their hobbies and commercial products, they offer a long weekend of fun and enlightenment, and-perhaps most importantly—they provide an excuse for everybody in town (and a few outlanders) to rub shoulders at least once a year on a most pleasant basis.

The Martin Countians—and lots of neighbors from Midland and Big Spring, obviously—filled in countless slips for free prizes from motorcycles to a huge basket of Martin County produce, saw the latest (and earliest) goods and services of area firms, gawked at prize herefords and black anguses, squealed in delight at carnival rides, tapped toes to the tuneful background music of Don Tole's spiffy band from Big Spring, gobbled tons of hamburgers and tamales and burritos, and cheered for their favorite John Deere or International Harvester at the tractor pull. Frankly, I think they need some head-on. "matched" races to turn tractor pulls into a major spectator sport, but I wouldn't have believed how much weight one of those big dudes can pull. And the display of new tractors was stunning; some of them are bigger than a locomotive and probably cost more. (And they're a whale of a lot more adaptable.)

It was nice to meet the likes of Terry Neill, whose Stanton Reporter was just judged the best in the state in its category; George Glynn, native Martin Countian who's helping neighbors conserve land and water these days but was having a problem with untimely flooding at his two-yardsquare cotton-sorghum-oatlivestock-petroleum operation with some wayward irrigation rigs; and Richard Lewis, area farmer and brother of District Judge Glenn Lewis of San Angelo.

I encountered a new style in livestock display at Stanton, where they back-comb the steers' tails so they look as if they were carrying small baskets behind them. (But maybe it's an idea to keep young future farmers busy, because the back-combing has to be redone every time the animal lies down for a nap.) The only suggestion I'd make for next year is that they recruit more ladies for the food booths and think a little more positively about how much food they're going to sell. I starved out at both the downtown and the tractor pull consession

And, come to think of it, I'm not really talking about an event that's over and done, because good county fairs are much the same and we have another one coming up week after next in Ector County.

Kissinger prepared to practice more African shuttle diplomacy

PARIS (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger feels the way may be clear for him to undertake a new round of shuttle diplomacy, aimed this time at defusing the threat of a race war in southern Africa.

Kissinger said his three days of talks with South African Prime Minister John Vorster in Zurich, Switzerland, ended on a "fruitful" note. His next project is a trip to

The secretary went from Zurich Monday to London and Paris to discuss the situation in southern Africa with British officials and French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing. He sees West German officials in Bonn today and then returns to Washington. Kissinger told a news conference in Zurich that he and Vorster made enough progress on racial problems in Africa to warrant negotiations with black leaders. "I believe the basis for further negotiations exists, but some work remains to be done," he said.

The secretary sent William Schaufele, his chief aide for African affairs, to Tanzania, where the five black African presidents most concerned with the situation in southern Africa are meeting, along with representatives of the black nationalist movements in Rhodesia and South-West Africa, called Namibia by the United Nations. Kissinger expects the presidents to tell Schaufele they would welcome the secretary's arrival in Africa early next week to begin shuttling back and forth between them and Vorster.

Senior American officials in Kissinger's party estimated that the first stage of the shuttle may last two to three weeks. But a report today from the meeting in Tanzania said up until this morning the presidents had not discussed Kissinger's proposed visit. Observers at the conference believe they are not giving high priority to U.S. participation in diplomatic efforts to achieve black rule in southern Africa, the report said.

Kissinger said he and Vorster made progress in their talks on both Rhodesia and Namibia. But apparently the secretary's first target will be independence negotiations for Namibia, the former League of Nations mandate South Africa controls in defiance of United Nations

That issue involves "fewer parties and is at an earlier stage" of crisis than Rhodesia, Kissinger said, and "may lend itself to more rapid

With the presidential election two months from today, Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter is out stumping through the East for votes while President Ford, emphasizing his incumbency, is keeping a high profile in the White House.

Carter opened his battle Monday with a sharp attack on Ford, labeling him a latter-day Herbert Hoover and blaming the Republican party for a myriad of economic woes that Carter claims the Democrats will cure.

Ford stayed in the White House, bypassing the traditional Labor Day campaign start to take care of business, chide Congress for not completing work on a major tax-revision bill, give a television interview and prepare for his own campaign start Carter's running mate, Sen. Walter F. Mondale, spoke Monday at labor rallies in Ohio and California, He charged in a Barberton, Ohio, address that Ford's economic policies have 'betrayed" U.S. workers.

Carter, speaking from a podium bearing Roosevelt's portrait, said, 'This year, as in 1932, our nation is divided, our people are out of work and our national leaders do not lead." He recalled that in 1932, with the nation struggling in the grip of the Depression, Roosevelt defeated the incumbent Hoover. Carter described Hoover as "a decent and wellintentioned man who sincerely believed that our government could not or should not with bold action attack the terrible economic and social ills of our nation. He was leading a Republican party which lacked the strength and vision to bring us out of those dark days.

But Carter also promised to fight inflation and balance the U.S. budget. Carter assailed the Nixon and Ford administrations for budget deficits. inflation and unemployment. 'If our children are going to be used as pawns in desegregation, it should be as enjoyable as possible," Mrs. Southerland said.

The racially identifiable character of De Zavala and Washington would be changed in that Caucasian children would be at the school all day taking bilingual education, although it would be a different group during each period.

Garrett said DeZavala and Washington would be used for bilingual classes because of their proximity to the Carver Building.

The plan's presenters stressed that no schools would be closed under its implementation and that all elementary schools would share equally in participation. If, two-way busing is desired, Garrett suggested that special education or remedial programs could be incorporated at north or west side schools with voluntary enrollment. Four of these schools have unused rooms at present, he

The cultural center plan was accepted by an 11 to two margin.

Trailing only one point behind the cultural center plan in the final list was the freedom of choice plan.

Presented by Judy Bryant, the plan calls for students to list first and second preference for the schools in the district they would like to attend. The student is assigned to his first-choice school unless it is filled to capacity. If his first choice was not open, he would go to his second-choice school. Mrs. Bryant said the Garland school system has had this plan in effect for approximately five years and the plan survived a court challenge after it had been in effect for about two years. In answer to a question about the Art instruction, music appreciation and physical education would be offered as separate classes for grades one through six, Mrs. Kretchmar said, instrumental music instruction would begin at grade six and foreign language would be a regular enrichment program for grades one through Structured and nonstructured activites would be provided before and after the regular school day in an extended-day program. Such activities would include music, arts and crafts, ballet, gymnastics, drama and seasonal, noncontact sports.

Enrichment programs would be presented at least twice a month at the magnet school and include folk art, fine art, music and other programs as interest dictates. Resource rooms would be available for all grade levels and field trips would be used.

Staff at the magnet school would include academic and nonacademic principals, a teaching staff with a majority to hold masters degrees or at least 15 hours of graduate work, full-time teacher assistants who are certified teachers, full-time special education or therapy teachers and specialized teachers in music art and physical education.

Nurses, educational diagnostician, counselor and guidance associates, librarian and assistants and a consulting psychologist would be employed as needed.

Under the tri-campus proposal, Carver would be revamped to serve as an elementary school and Washington and De Zavala would be used, with additional students filling unused capacity at those two schools. Mrs. Kretchmar conceded that her capacity figures were based on school district projections of 25 to 30 students per teacher instead of the 14 to one ratio and the capacities might change if the new ratio were instituted. Total projected student involvement including present enrollment at Washington and De Zavala would be 1,775 students. Whether or not the entire enrollment at Washington and De Zavala would be included in the magnet program would be up to the school board, Mrs. Kretchmar said

Mrs. Kretchmar said one advantage of using Washington and De Zavala is that otherwise their enrollments, now below capacity, would be further decreased by participation in a magnet school and the low enrollment might force closing of the schools.

The Carver plan would use Carver only as a magnet school with a capacity of approximately 700 students. Transportation in this option, as in the other two, would be from the nearest non-magnet school outside a two-mile radius of the magnet school.

Carver is appropriate for a magnet school, Mrs. Kretchmar said, because it has two gymnasiums, an auditorium and laboratories.

Using Washington and De Zavala only would involve a total of 1,075 students, 490 in additional capacity. Racial breakdown would be approximately 50-50 in each school, she

The plan was approved by a nine to four margin.

In discussing the magnet concept, Gwen Spaugh pointed out that the tax rate increases approximately 1.7 cents per $100 of assessed value for each additional $100,000 spent. She expressed concern for the cost of magnet schools.

SALE OF HOME — A person 65 or older could exempt from taxes the first $35,000 of the selling price when he sells his home. The current taxfree limit is $20,000. LEGAL SERVICES - Just as employers' current contributions to group medical-insurance plans are tax exempt as far as the employe is concerned, the bill would exempt payments to buy group legal service plans for workers. REJECTED

TUITION — A Senate plan to allow an eventual tax credit of $250 a year for each student enrolled in college or vocational school was jettisoned at insistence of House conferees. Con-sideration of the $1.1-billion-a-year plan was promised for later this year, but prospects are doubtful. ENERGY — Senate provisions aimed at helping Americans save energy were stripped off and later consideration was promised. The key provision would have allowed a credit of up to $225 for purchase of home insulation and storm windows.

GARDENING — A House approved credit of up to $7 per family for pur-chase of garden tools was rejected.

Mrs. Kretchmar said the cost of the Richardson pacesetter plan, which could be lower in Midland, is $1,400 per student per year, compared to the present Midland expenditure of approximately $820 per student.

The council's fifth choice was a lottery plan in use in Wichita, Kan. Dean Wolf, who presented the plan, said that since the first year of implementation, the plan has worked on a completely voluntary basis.

School would be desegregated, if necessary, by a lottery draw each year. Involuntary transfer from the neighborhood school would be for one year only and the student would then be eliminated from future lotteries. Other children in the family could transfer to the new school also and be exempt from future lotteries.

Voluntary transfers would be encouraged by providing transportation for all voluntary transfers of children going from schools where they are in the majority to schools where they are in the minority.

The major attraction, however, Wolf said, would be after school activities provided only for those children attending their school on a voluntary transfer.

The structured activities, which could include additional educational or extracurricular activities, would be provided at each school but not available to these students normally assigned to that school. In order to participate the student would have to

The Wichita plan included a magnet school because one was already in existance but inclusion of a magnet school would be optional, Wolf said.

The advantages to the plan, Wolf said, would be that the majority of students would not be at all and no student would be involuntarily bussed more than one year.

A minimal number of busses would be involved but all children in any family could attend the same elementary school. As much as possible, transfer patterns should be among elementary schools feeding into the same junior high school, Wolf said. The sixth-rated plan was a magnet school plan presented by Jocelyne Jones. It, too, would use Carver to house the magnet school. Curriculum at the magnet school would include a diagnostic-type program, a program of parent involvement in formulation and implementation of school services and curricula and special programs as needed to provide the best education of all students. Suggested programs included individualized instruction, special programs for the culturally disadvantaged, programs of ethnic interest and art and music classes for gifted children.

The entire curriculum could be built around the self-paced learning concept, Mrs. Jones said.

Transportation would be provided for students living more than two miles from the school

The plan was approved by a 10 to

A seventh plan, presented by Boldrick, was rejected by the group. A variation of the magnet school plan, it called for creating an athletic league among eastside elementary schools and providing band programs for those schools to encourage transfers.

Under his plan, sixth grade would be included in the junior high school system and Carver opened as a fourth junior high school.

Boldrick said about four schools in the west side of the city would have to be closed. Ciro Sanchez, representing De Zavala as a non-voting observer, said he did not believe a completely voluntary plan would work and suggested setting a quota of magnet school enrollment for each existing elementary school to be filled voluntarily if possible but by involuntary means if necessary. Midland mayor Ernest Angelo alzo attended the meeting as an observer.

He did not participate. Carl Forest from the Burnet Elementary School delegation said he is presenting a plan to schools superintendent Dr. James H. Mailey this morning as an individual.

That plan calls for pairing the schools with the smallest percentage of minority enrollment with those with the largest percentage. For example, Washington and Bonham elementary schools and Crockett and Fannin elementary schools would be

Death takes no holiday over Labor Day weekend

By The Associated Press Taking no holiday, tragedy rode hard on Texas streets and highways through the Labor Day weekend.

Before the 78-hour period expired at midnight, there were reports of 44 traffic deaths - well over the 36 which state police experts had predicted. The count started at 6 p.m. Friday.

Altogether there were 58 violent deaths in the state during the ex-tended end-of-summer holiday, also including six homicides, two drownings and six from assorted

Texas Department of Public Safety Director Wilson Speir cited speed and drinking as key factors in the rash of motor vehicle fatalities. Defense at home changing

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government is requiring states and localities to limit their use of federal civil defense funds to preparations for nuclear attack rather than for natural disasters such as floods, hurricanes and tornadoes.

The new requirement is a change in emphasis from the approach instituted in May 1972 by then-Defense Secretary Melvin Laird, which called for dual civil defense planning covering both natural disasters and nuclear attacks.

Although matching funds to state and local civil defense agencies will be limited beginning Oct. 1 to preparation for enemy nuclear attack, federally supported civil defense equipment and personnel can be used when natural disaster strikes.

The dual approach is being de-emphasized to cut costs, as indicated by the Ford administration's proposal earlier this year for a $71-million civil defense budget, down $21 million from fiscal 1976.

However, the new policy is not expected to bring a significant cut in the amount of federal money going to the states, cities and counties to support civil defense organizations because Congress turned aside the administration request and appropriated $82.5 million in the new year.

Congress also has allocated $29.6 million, the same amount as in fiscal 1976, for 50-50 matching of state and local funds for civil defense programs for the new 1977 fiscal year

In addition to the $29.6 million to help pay salaries of some 6,000 state and local civil defense personnel, the civil defense agency has programmed nearly $10 million in matching funds for emergency operating centers, communications equipment and warning systems.

States and localities are expected to gear their disaster planning activity to the potential of enemy nuclear attack, with the knowledge that communication and warning facilities and personnel also can be used for peacetime rescue operations if natural disaster strikes. "It is a matter of emphasis," one official said. "We are going to insist, as we must under the law, that our (federal) money be used for nuclear attack preparedness, and that benefits in natural disasters flow from that, rather than the other way around." The civil defense program currently concentrates on "crisis relocation planning" for moving people from high-risk areas near military bases and cities that are prime targets for nuclear attack.

Another civil defense objective is to protect those persons who are not evacuated by providing "the best available shelter" where short warning time precludes relocation

Keepingparole analyses quiet necessary evil

AUSTIN (AP) — Paul Cromwell popped his hand against the thick file of a prison inmate who had been denied parole and declared that its contents- if revealed—could cause a murder.

'One reason he was denied was the protests in his file ... This man was sent up for literally beating a man to death ... If we were to tell him who they (the protesters) were, I would not want to be one of those people," said Cromwell, a member of the Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles.

This potential danger to persons who give the board written evaluations of prisoners, parolees and ex-convicts is the chief rationale for the law making most of the board's files secret.

But there's another side, raised by a Dallas Times Herald article suggesting that Joe D. Hicks, now jailed in Fort Worth under a federal conspiracy indictment, won a pardon for past felony convictions in 1972 with the aid of Odessa Dist. Atty. John Green. The Odessa American reported that Green had been Hicks' guest that year on a gambling trip to Las Green said in answer to questions that he might have written a letter to the pardons and parole board recommending a pardon for Hicks, who later was pardoned by then-Gov. Preston Smith.

"I could have and I could not have" written such a letter. Green said

Following the law, the pardons and parole board will not say whether there is such a letter in its files. "I think it ought to be a matter of record who recommended his pardon ... I just think the people ought to know who recommended him for a pardon," said John Sliney, city editor of the Odessa American. Sliney noted that five years before the pardon was granted, the Texas Department of Corrections classified Hicks' chances of rehabilitation as "very

Before recommending a pardon or parole to the governor, the board must seek the comments of the sentencing judge as well as the sheriff and district attorney of the county that sent a prisoner to Huntsville. And they are bound by law to give the board any information they might have about the person.

Hicks was never sent to prison from Odessa. He settled there and opened a bail bond business after his release from-prison, Sliney said.

Green, therefore, was not required to make any comment one way or another on Hicks' request for a

Under a 1967 law virtually everything in an inmate's or parolee's or ex-convict's file is confidential "and shall not be subject to public inspection."

Exceptions are what Cromwell calls "commitment information," such as name, county, sentence, offense, sentencing date and date of parole, if any. Also open to the public are the board's minutes, showing how each member voted on each case.

The reason the bulk of a file is confidential is not to protect the privacy of lawbreakers but the safety of those who evaluate them, Cromwell says.

These include parole officers both inside and outside the prison, district attorneys, sheriffs, judges, prison officials and private citizens who write letters concerning offenders.

"When we get positive letters there is no problem. But suppose a man asks for a pardon and the DA says he committed a heinous offense and the people don't want him back in the community...Suppose the man is not entirely rehabilitated. That district attorney's life and his family could be in danger," Cromwell

"In most instances, we are dealing with people who have violence in their background, who are capable of committing violent acts.

Americans are paying more attention to what goes into the food they eat these days, but supermarket shoppers still look for price and brand name before they check for ingredients or nutritional value.

That's one of the findings of a report by the consumer studies division of the Food and Drug Administration, which surveyed people in 1973 and again in 1975 to try to find out how much consumers know about food and nutrition.

Among the questions in the recently-released report was one asking people what they paid attention to when shopping for food.

Price was the item named most often. Almost three-fourths of those surveyed both in 1973 and 1975 said they looked at the cost of the item.

Brand name was second on the list, but it apparently is declining in importance. Fifty-eight per cent of those surveyed in 1973 and 54 per cent of those checked in 1975 said they paid attention to the brand name of a product.

The biggest change was in the number of people looking for some kind of date on the package — indicating either when the product was made or by when it should be used. Fifty-nine per cent of those questioned in 1975 said they paid attention to the date of manufacture or expiration, an increase of 16 percentage points from 1973.

Interest in nutritional value also increased. Only 27 per cent of those checked in 1973 said they looked for the calories, vitamins and minerals in a product; 41 per cent of the 1975 group said they paid attention to

Guam desires U.S. ties

AGANA, Guam (AP) -Guam residents have voted overwhelmingly to continue the island territory's close relationship with the United States and draft its own constitution.

Results of a Saturday referendum made available Monday showed that 10:221 of the 17,007 votes were in favor of improving portions of the Organic Act, by which the island has been governed since 1950.

A basic direction

Americans have witnessed in recent months the fiscal pitfalls into which a city can fall, as the saga of New York City unfolded.

Now Americans are seeing another illustration of big city decay in Detroit, Mich.

Detroit has been hit hard with a wave of terror by juvenile gangs and is taking a hard line on young renegades by imposing nightly curfews. It's showing no reluctance to throw youths in jail for acts of violence.

The imposing of curfews and the jailing of youths are things no city likes to impose on youths, but in this case it appears that Detroit had no other choice.

A hard line law enforcement attitude can produce results and Detroit's Mayor Coleman Young intends to pursue it by calling for more judges, a new jail, help from state police in surveillance and development of a civilian police reserve system.

The juvenile gangs of that city have brought this on themselves, and it is hoped that the strict law enforcement will put a stop to

Button plan sews up prevention of a war

(Art Buchwald was so disappointed he wasn't chosen as President Ford's running mate that he has decided to take a few weeks off. He left behind some of his all-time favorite columns.)

One of the things everyone has to worry about these days is the danger of an accidental war being set off with nuclear weapons. The best-selling book "Fail-Safe," by Eugene Burdick and Harvey Wheeler, deals with this problem when a group of American bombers have gone past their failsafe point and, because of some foulup in a little black box, the bombers haven't gotten the word to come back. They are scheduled to blow up Moscow. To show the Russians it's all an accident, the President of the United States blows up New York, even though his wife is there on a shopping trip.

But there is another school in Washington that insists there are so many safeguards on atomic weapons that even if someone wanted to fire one he wouldn't be able to do it.

Here is how this school sees it. In order to start a war, someone will have to push a button. To safeguard that no one will push the button accidentally, it is hidden every week in a different spot.

Only two people, both low-ranking military officers from different branches of the armed services, know the location of the button - but they don't know each other. Each has the authority to push the button when ordered to do so from higher up. But if both their thumbs are not on the button at the same time, it will not

Now let us suppose, by some stretch of the imagination, both men accidentally meet at the same location at the same time and both decide to push the button at the same time. This does not automatically start World War III. When the button is pushed, all it does is turn on a green light in the bombproof, radiation-shielded, underground shelter in a secret place near Chevenne. Wyo. The shelter is manned by an enlisted WAC and an enlisted WAVE, each of whom has a key to a white princess telephone. As soon as they see the green light, they dial a secret number in South Dakota and say, "Condition Green."

This information is passed on to the quartermaster of the base, who immediately tries to contact Washington. But since he doesn't have the area code number for Washington, he can't dial directly. So he sends the message by carrier pigeon. This is known as "Condition

As soon as the pigeon arrives in Washington, the secretary of defense is notified, and he in turn informs the President

But the President cannot give the signal to do anything without turning a switch and there are seven locks on the switch. Each member of the President's family has a key to one of the locks and the switch cannot be pulled unless all the locks are opened at the same time. Since the family is never in Washington all at the same time, it is virtually impossible for the President to pull the switch.

Therefore, the chances of an accidental or even an intentional war are remote and shouldn't give anyone any sleepless nights. If it weren't for all these safeguards, I'd be worried

HEMISPHERE REPORT:

Military fears Socialist Christians his effort to demolish the capitalist

By WILLIAM GIANDONI Copley News Service

Military governments in Latin America are taking ever more direct action against the spread of the Christians for Socialism movement.

That is what motivated the detentions of bishops and priests, including five from the United States, in Ecuador recently. That is what prompted earlier arrests and deportations of priests and lay missionaries in Argentina, Bolivia,

Chile and Paraguay. Although most Latin American heads of state profess to be Roman Catholics, and some even attend religious services regularly, they generally consider the "progressive" clergy among their enemies perhaps even more dangerous to stability of a government than the rural guerrillas or urban terrorists. The poor people in Latin America usually trust their parish priest, listen to his preachings and often act on the basis of his advice. Any message given them by a priest they know and respect has greater impact than the printed leaflet, the wall poster or the impassioned haranguing of a guerrilla leader who, more often than not, is a stranger to them and to their district. What is more, if the guerrilla or terrorist is being actively sought by authorities, the slum dweller or villager who stands around listening to his words can expect that, sooner or later, he may be interrogated by the army or by the police, and that can be

So the Marxists in Latin America, as well as in Europe and elsewhere, have worked over the years to win eloquent clergymen over to their side.

The Marxists learned their lesson in Cuba where Fidel Castro, although once a student in a Jesuit high school in Havana, quickly made enemies of the Catholic clergy. Since then, Latin Marxists changed their tactics. How they managed to win adepts among the Catholic clergy has not been documented. But that they did cannot be questioned Christians for Socialism surfaced, under that name, in April, 1971, in Santiago, Chile, just five months after President Salvador Allende's Socialist-Communist-Radical coalition government was inaugurated.

A group of 20 priests serving in the poorer districts of the Chilean capital announced that they were in favor of a "social system that reflects and more easily permits one to live the values of justice, solidarity, equality, fraternity and unity; values that are closer to man and to the Gospel. It seems to us that these values are better realized under Socialism.

Bishop Carlos Gonzalez of Talca. Chile, one of those who attended the recent pastoral conference in Riobamba, Ecuador, wrote more to the point in July, 1971.

First he explained that by the 'socialism'' he meant "a system based on social ownership of the means of production and in which the organized majority participates effectively in the conduct of the historic process..

He went on to say, "I believe it legitimate for a Christian to support the construction of socialism in

That was during the period that the Allende government was starting to confiscate foreign- and Chileanowned businesses and industries in economic structure and impose Marxist "Socialism" on Chile. Perhaps the bishop did not foresee the economic and social crisis that was to come in Chile

He had, however, observed what a dozen years of "socialism" did to Cuba. He and Bishop Fernando Ariztia, auxiliary bishop of Santiago. spent two weeks there in February, 1971. Later Ariztia warned Chileans against resisting the Marxist conquest of their country, saying that 'our people cannot pay the high price that Cuban Catholics paid for their opposition to the changes" wrought by the Cuban Communist dictatorship. "Christians ought not remain outside the margin of revolutionary process.' Ariztia was another of the Latin American bishops who was in the d to leave Ecuador recently.

The Socialism which Gonzalez advocated a few years ago presumably was nonviolent.

Later, though, younger proponents of Socialism for Christians began arguing "Christian love leads us to construct Socialism uy means of class struggle.

It is that advocacy of violence in favor of Marxist revolution that prompted the Vatican newspaper, L'Osservatore Romano, to condemn the Christians for Socialism movement more than a year ago. Christians for Socialism seemed to limit its activities primarily to Chile. until after Sept. 11, 1973, when the Chilean armed forces toppled the Marxist government

After that, many of its propagandists left the country and, they claim, have spread the word throughout the world, including the United States, Europe, Asia and Africa, as well as the rest of Latin America.

They are suspect wherever they go

NICK THIMMESCH

Presidential candidates getting set for the debates

WASHINGTON - President Ford can't wait for the first of his four debates with Jimmy Carter to begin. He relishes taking on Carter. He prepares for the face-to-face confrontations with the same enthusiasm he showed during midweek scrimmage when he starred on the University of Michigan football team. Gerald Ford is one of those otherwise stolid people whose competitive urges can be stirred, causing him to surprise the jaded. I remember Mr. Ford giving an excellent speech at the Helsinki conference one year ago: prompting international observers to remark they didn't know he was such an eloquent man. The same surprise was expressed by newsmen and others already fixed in their notions about Mr. Ford when they heard him give an A-1 acceptance speech at the Republican convention. Though he often appears quiet and unmoved, there is a resolution in Mr. Ford which can turn into strong desire, and that pays off.

What the President wants to do in these debates — and it was Mr. Ford who asked for them - is to come off as a man who knows his stuff, is in command and is doing a good job for the people. He believes he can perform so that Carter looks and sounds like a wobbler, a man who aspires, but isn't sure of his own views yet.

For six months during the Democratic primary season, Carter's Democratic opponents charged that he was "fuzzy" on the issues and, despite his piety, talked out of both sides of his mouth. But Carter survived that by winning primaries just on the basis of his intrepid and reassuring manner. And who could fault him?

Now, Mr. Ford and the Republicans, with an assist from the press, are pushing Carter to be clear on the issues, and so far it hasn't gone well for the Democratic nominee. In Iowa, he was cheered by his farm audience when he declared that he was against grain embargoes; the next day, it turned out he had told newspaper editors that there were certain situations where an embargo would be valid. Carter tried to use the word "pardon" instead of "amnesty" when speaking to American Legionnaires and got skewered for that the next day by Republican vicepresidential nominee Sen. Robert

Now he is in a semantic discussion over the abortion issue; and if he follows the track he's taking on that one, he'll be explaining his position until next Easter.

If, in that first debate, Carter hedges, is not entirely fluent and displays his uncertainty by fidgeting with his body, and if Mr. Ford comes off as solidly as he did at the convention, that 15-point lead Carter now enjoys could melt to nothing. In 1960 Kennedy looked better than Nixon in the crucial first debate and raised himself to vice-presidential level and then some. No matter that forensics professors and radio listeners concluded that Nixon bested Kennedy in the four debates. On television, with its scrutiny, Kennedy looked good enough in the first, and equal enough in the others, that he caught up with Nixon in the polls and eventually edged him out for the Presidency.

Carter maintains that the debates will not necessarily win or lose anything for Mr. Ford or himself, that the American people are the beneficiaries because they will be exposed to a good discussion of the Carter hopes to cram in enough in the next few weeks so that he can show he is at least equal to Mr. Ford in his knowledge of these issues. Carter can be an extremely disciplined man, though most of his 1976 political success has been with his soft-spoken style.

Unlike Mr. Ford, the Georgian prefers to absorb knowledge through intensive reading (so did Richard Nixon), and will bloc out a given period of time for concentrated reading rather than the group discussion Mr. Ford likes. Carter is said to have the ability to shut everything out of his mind except the matter he is focusing on. Thus, he refused to think about his possible vice-presidential choice until after the primary season was over. In 1960 it served Kennedy's purposes to get the public exposure in televised debates. In effect, Kennedy was an upstart, and Nixon was the established, experienced Vice President. Through performance, a bit of luck and circumstance (Nixon's make-up?) Kennedy "won."

Now, in 1976, an established and experienced President wants to debate for the purpose of displaying those plus qualities against a man with limited government experience whose views, philosophy and ability are somewhat in question. Both Kennedy and Mr. Ford wanted those debates because they were considerably behind in the polls.

The 1976 debates will be good for the republic, will help remove any residue of sour feeling hanging over from the 1972 outing and should put the winner of the verbal joust in the lead for the Presidency.

Teacher disputed add to country's school woes

By The Associated Press

After a Labor Day weekend marked by a busing protest and a school bombing, students returned to classes today in Louisville, Ky. In three other large cities, schools opened with new moves toward desegregation apparently meeting little opposition.

Officials in Milwaukee, St. Louis and Omaha, Neb., predicted a peaceful first day with no demonstrations anticipated as they tried out plans to improve the racial balance of their classrooms.

There was some protest around the country among teachers - but over contracts, not racial integration.

In Buffalo, N.Y, on Monday night, teachers defying court injunctions voted by a 2-1 margin to strike and said they would picket all schools today. Classes for the city's 54,000 public school pupils were to begin votes today, and strike deadlines were set for later this week in districts in Oregon, Tennessee and Rhode Island.

Teachers in Seattle and Tacoma, Wash., were scheduled to take strike

A National Education Association spokesman said there could be more trouble ahead because more teachers' contracts remained unsettled than usual.

"Tight money and all of the factors which led to a record number of teacher strikes for the 1975-76 school year are the same," said Terry Herndon, association executive director. "And the incredible number of unsettled contracts — some 2,200 could result in more strikes later if settlement is not reached.'

In Louisville, the FBI helped investigate a Monday morning bombing that caused minor damage at unoccupied Male High School. Police said they "could only assume" the blast was related to the opposition to courtordered busing that prompted three antibusing demonstrations in the past

The blast tore a radiator from a wall, ripped a hole about two feet in diameter in the floor and damaged walls and a ceiling.

Monday night, police arrested two juveniles and charged them with littering after they tried to set fire to a pile of automobile tires at an antibusing demonstration that drew 15 to 20 persons.

The arrests took place at the same spot where police used tear gas Sunday night to disperse 200 unruly antibusing demonstrators who had earlier taken part in a peaceful protest of about 800 persons.

Milwaukee's integration plan is based on voluntary transfers, and involves busing and transfer of about 6.600 of the 110,000 students in the city's 158 schools.

The district has established 19 specialty schools, designed to give students incentives to leave their neighborhoods to attend classes.

Milwaukee's school enrollment is about 34 per cent black, and about 90 per cent of the transferred students are black. Some 32,500 students will be attending racially integrated

The integration plan stems from a suit filed in the 1960s on behalf of a group of black and white children. A federal judge ruled that Milwaukee's schools were segregrated and ordered work on an integration plan.

In Omaha, where school busing began as the second phase of courtordered desegregation, all leaves and vacations for policemen were canceled temporarily.

Each bus was equipped with a twoway radio for communications in case problems arose, but school officials said that except for some opening-day confusion, they expected no problems busing more than 9,300 students in grades two through nine.

The district has 57,000 students, about 20 per cent of them black.

The 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ordered a two-part desegregation plan in mid-1975 after three years of litigation. The first part of the plan, faculty desegregation, took effect last fall.

A volunteer group, Concerned Citizens For Omaha, used various advertisements and "Let's Make It Work" bumper stickers over the summer in attempts to sell peaceful integration.

In St. Louis, public schools for the first time are trying a "MAGNET SCHOOL" plan that will operate like Milwaukee's. The city, with a population about half black and half white, has had limited busing in the past and no marked school integration protests in recent years.

In recent weeks, busing programs have gotten under way peacefully in Dallas and Dayton, Ohio. Schools reopen on Wednesday in Boston, where busing opponents have staged violent demonstrations during the past two years.

Americans have witnessed in recent months the fiscal pitfalls into which a city can fall, as the saga of New York City unfolded.

Now Americans are seeing another illustration of big city decay in Detroit, Mich.

Detroit has been hit hard with a wave of terror by juvenile gangs and is taking a hard line on young renegades by imposing nightly curfews. It's showing no reluctance to throw youths in jail for acts of violence

One of the things everyone has to worry about these days is the danger of an accidental war being set off with nuclear weapons. The best-selling book "Fail-Safe," by Eugene Burdick and Harvey Wheeler, deals with this problem when a group of American bombers have gone past their fail-safe point and, because of some foulup in a little black box, the bombers haven't gotten the word to come back. They are scheduled to blow up Moscow. To show the Russians it's all an accident, the President of the United States blows up New York, even though his wife is there on a shopping trip.

But there is another school in Washington that insists there are so many safeguards on atomic weapons that even if someone wanted to fire one he wouldn't be able to do it.

Here is how this school sees it. In order to start a war, someone will have to push a button. To safeguard that no one will push the button accidentally, it is hidden every week in a different spot.

Only two people, both low-ranking military officers from different branches of the armed services, know the location of the button - but they don't know each other. Each has the authority to push the button when ordered to do so from higher up. But if both their thumbs are not on the

of the imagination, both men accidentally meet at the same location at the same time and both decide to push the button at the same time. This does not automatically start World War III. When the button is pushed, all it does is turn on a green light in the bombproof, radiation-shielded, underground shelter in a secret place near Cheyenne, Wyo. The shelter is manned by an enlisted WAC and an enlisted WAVE, each of whom has a key to a white princess telephone. As soon as they see the green light, they dial a secret number in South Dakota and say, "Condition Green."

This information is passed on to the Military fears Socialist Christians

By WILLIAM GIANDONI Copley News Service

Military governments in Latin America are taking ever more direct action against the spread of the Christians for Socialism movement.

HEMISPHERE REPORT:

That is what motivated the detentions of bishops and priests, including five from the United States. in Ecuador recently. That is what prompted earlier arrests and deportations of priests and lay missionaries in Argentina, Bolivia, Chile and Paraguay.

Although most Latin American heads of state profess to be Roman Catholics, and some even attend religious services regularly, they generally consider the "progressive" clergy among their enemies perhaps even more dangerous to stability of a government than the rural guerrillas or urban terrorists. The poor people in Latin America usually trust their parish priest, listen to his preachings and often act on the basis of his advice. Any message given them by a priest they know and respect has greater impact than the printed leaflet, the wall poster or the impassioned haranguing of a guerrilla leader who, more often than not, is a stranger to them and to their district. What is more, if the guerrilla or terrorist is being actively sought by authorities, the slum dweller or villager who stands around listening to his words can expect that, sooner or later, he may be interrogated by the army or by the police, and that can be painful. So the Marxists in Latin America. as well as in Europe and elsewhere. have worked over the years to win eloquent clergymen over to their side.

The Marxists learned their lesson in Cuba where Fidel Castro, although once a student in a Jesuit high school in Havana, quickly made enemies of the Catholic clergy. Since then, Latin Marxists changed their tactics. How they managed to win adepts among the Catholic clergy has not been documented. But that they did cannot be questioned. Christians for Socialism surfaced. under that name, in April, 1971, in Santiago, Chile, just five months after President Salvador Allende's Socialist-Communist-Radical coalition government was inaugurated

A group of 20 priests serving in the poorer districts of the Chilean capital announced that they were in favor of 'social system that reflects and more easily permits one to live the values of justice, solidarity, equality, fraternity and unity; values that are closer to man and to the Gospel. It seems to us that these values are better realized under Socialism Bishop Carlos Gonzalez of Talca. Chile, one of those who attended the recent pastoral conference in Riobamba, Ecuador, wrote more to the point in July, 1971.

First he explained that by the "socialism" he meant "a system based on social ownership of the means of production and in which the organized majority participates effectively in the conduct of the historic process...

He went on to say, "I believe it legitimate for a Christian to support the construction of socialism in

That was during the period that the Allende government was starting to confiscate foreign- and Chileanowned businesses and industries in his effort to demolish the capitalist economic structure and impose Marxist "Socialism" on Chile.

Perhaps the bishop did not foresee the economic and social crisis that was to come in Chile.

He had, however, observed what a dozen years of "socialism" did to Cuba. He and Bishop Fernando Ariztia, auxiliary bishop of Santiago, spent two weeks there in February. 1971. Later Ariztia warned Chileans against resisting the Marxist conquest of their country, saying that our people cannot pay the high price that Cuban Catholics paid for their opposition to the changes" wrought by the Cuban Communist dictatorship. "Christians ought not remain outside the margin of revolutionary process.

Ariztia was another of the Latin American bishops who was invited to leave Ecuador recently.

The Socialism which Gonzalez advocated a few years ago presumably was nonviolent.

Later, though, younger proponents of Socialism for Christians began arguing "Christian love leads us to construct Socialism uy means of class struggle."

It is that advocacy of violence in favor of Marxist revolution that prompted the Vatican newspaper, L'Osservatore Romano, to condemn the Christians for Socialism movement more than a year ago. Christians for Socialism seemed to limit its activities primarily to Chile, until after Sept. 11, 1973, when the Chilean armed forces toppled the Marxist government.

After that, many of its propagandists left the country and, they claim, have spread the word throughout the world, including the United States, Europe, Asia and Africa, as well as the rest of Latin America.

They are suspect wherever they go.

Presidential candidates getting set for the debates

WASHINGTON - President Ford can't wait for the first of his four debates with Jimmy Carter to begin. He relishes taking on Carter. He prepares for the face-to-face confrontations with the same enthusiasm he showed during midweek scrimmage when he starred on the University of Michigan football team. Gerald Ford is one of those otherwise stolid people whose competitive urges can be stirred, causing him to surprise the jaded. I remember Mr. Ford giving an excellent speech at the Helsinki conference one year ago, prompting international observers to remark they didn't know he was such an eloquent man. The same surprise was expressed by newsmen and others already fixed in their notions about Mr. Ford when they heard him give an A-1 acceptance speech at the Republican convention. Though he often appears quiet and unmoved, there is a resolution in Mr. Ford which can turn into strong desire, and that pays off.

What the President wants to do in these debates - and it was Mr. Ford who asked for them - is to come off as a man who knows his stuff, is in command and is doing a good job for the people. He believes he can perform so that Carter looks and sounds like a wobbler, a man who aspires, but isn't sure of his own views yet.

For six months during the Democratic primary season, Carter's Democratic opponents charged that he was "fuzzy" on the issues and, despite his piety, talked out of both sides of his mouth. But Carter survived that by winning primaries just on the basis of his intrepid and reassuring manner. And who could

Now, Mr. Ford and the Republicans, with an assist from the press, are pushing Carter to be clear on the issues, and so far it hasn't gone well for the Democratic nominee. In Iowa, he was cheered by his farm audience when he declared that he was against grain embargoes; the next day, it turned out he had told newspaper editors that there were certain situations where an embargo would be valid. Carter tried to use the word "pardon" instead of "amnesty" when speaking to American Legionnaires and got skewered for that the next day by Republican vicepresidential nominee Sen. Robert

Now he is in a semantic discussion over the abortion issue; and if he follows the track he's taking on that one, he'll be explaining his position until next Easter.

If, in that first debate, Carter hedges, is not entirely fluent and displays his uncertainty by fidgeting with his body, and if Mr. Ford comes off as solidly as he did at the convention, that 15-point lead Carter now enjoys could melt to nothing.

In 1960 Kennedy looked better than Nixon in the crucial first debate and raised himself to vice-presidential level and then some. No matter that forensics professors and radio listeners concluded that Nixon bested Kennedy in the four debates. On television, with its scrutiny, Kennedy looked good enough in the first, and equal enough in the others, that he caught up with Nixon in the polls and eventually, edged him out for the Presidency.

Carter maintains that the debates will not necessarily win or lose anything for Mr. Ford or himself, that the American people are the beneficiaries because they will be exposed to a good discussion of the

his soft-spoken style. Unlike Mr. Ford, the Georgian prefers to absorb knowledge through intensive reading (so did Richard Nixon), and will bloc out a given period of time for concentrated reading rather than the group discussion Mr. Ford likes. Carter is said to have the ability to shut everything out of his mind except the matter he is focusing on. Thus, he refused to think about his possible vice-presidential choice until after the primary season was over.

In 1960 it served Kennedy's purposes to get the public exposure in televised debates. In effect, Kennedy was an upstart, and Nixon was the established, experienced Vice President. Through performance, a bit of luck and circumstance (Nixon's make-up?) Kennedy "won."

Now, in 1976, an established and experienced President wants to debate for the purpose of displaying those plus qualities against a man with limited government experience whose views, philosophy and ability are somewhat in question. Both Kennedy and Mr. Ford wanted those debates because they were considerably behind in the polls.

The 1976 debates will be good for the republic, will help remove any residue of sour feeling hanging over from the 1972 outing and should put the winner of the verbal joust in the lead for the Presidency.

Teacher disputed add to country's school woes

After a Labor Day weekend marked by a busing protest and a school bombing, students returned to classes today in Louisville, Ky. In three other large cities, schools opened with new moves toward desegregation apparently meeting little opposition.

Officials in Milwaukee, St. Louis and Omaha, Neb., predicted a peaceful first day with no demonstrations anticipated as they tried out plans to improve the racial balance of their classrooms. There was some protest around the country among teachers - but over contracts, not racial integration. In Buffalo, N.Y, on Monday night, teachers defying court injunctions voted by a 2-1 margin to strike and said they would picket all schools today. Classes for the city's 54,000 public school pupils were to begin votes today, and strike deadlines were set for later this week in districts in Oregon, Tennessee and Rhode Island.

A National Education Association spokesman said there could be more trouble ahead because more teachers' contracts remained unsettled than usual.

"Tight money and all of the factors which led to a record number of teacher strikes for the 1975-76 school year are the same," said Terry Herndon, association executive director. "And the incredible number of unsettled contracts — some 2,200 could result in more strikes later if settlement is not reached."

In Louisville, the FBI helped investigate a Monday morning bombing that caused minor damage at unoccupied Male High School. Police said they "could only assume" the blast was related to the opposition to courtordered busing that prompted three antibusing demonstrations in the past The blast tore a radiator from a wall, ripped a hole about two feet in diameter in the floor and damaged walls and a ceiling.

Monday night, police arrested two juveniles and charged them with littering after they tried to set fire to a pile of automobile tires at an antibusing demonstration that drew 15 to 20 persons.

The arrests took place at the same spot where police used tear gas Sunday night to disperse 200 unruly antibusing demonstrators who had earlier taken part in a peaceful protest of about 800 persons.

Milwaukee's integration plan is based on voluntary transfers, and involves busing and transfer of about 6,600 of the 110,000 students in the city's 158 schools.

The district has established 19 specialty schools, designed to give students incentives to leave their neighborhoods to attend classes.

Milwaukee's school enrollment is about 34 per cent black, and about 90 per cent of the transferred students are black. Some 32,500 students will be attending racially integrated schools.

The integration plan stems from a suit filed in the 1960s on behalf of a group of black and white children. A federal judge ruled that Milwaukee's schools were segregrated and ordered work on an integration plan.

In Omaha, where school busing began as the second phase of courtordered desegregation, all leaves and vacations for policemen were canceled temporarily.

Each bus was equipped with a twoway radio for communications in case problems arose, but school officials said that except for some opening-day confusion, they expected no problems busing more than 9,300 students in grades two through nine.

The district has 57,000 students, about 20 per cent of them black.

The 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ordered a two-part desegregation plan in mid-1975 after three years of litigation. The first part of the plan, faculty desegregation, took effect last fall.

A volunteer group, Concerned Citizens For Omaha, used various advertisements and "Let's Make It Work" bumper stickers over the summer in attempts to sell peaceful integration.

In St. Louis, public schools for the first time are trying a "MAGNET SCHOOL" plan that will operate like Milwaukee's. The city, with a popula-tion about half black and half white, has had limited busing in the past and no marked school integration protests in recent years.

In recent weeks, busing programs have gotten under way peacefully in Dallas and Dayton, Ohio. Schools reopen on Wednesday in Boston, where busing opponents have staged violent demonstrations during the past two years.

Midland finishes in basement

RUSSIA'S NATASHA Ch- Monday. Natasha will face Chris myreva is seen in a match in Evert in the next round of the U. which she defeated Kathy S. Tennis Open Story on Page 2-Kuykendall of the United States B.

The way they played, you'd have thought they were trying to beat a rainstorm or get out of town in a hurry. Actually, it was a little of both as the San Antonio Brewers beat the Midland Cubs, 6-2, under menacing-skies at Cubs Stadium Monday in an hour and 53 minutes.

The game dropped the curtain on the Texas League season, and if that sounded like a thud in the background, it was. The Cubs lost their last six in a row as the Brewers swept the final series, 5-0, to unceremoniously deposit the Cubs in the West Division basement.

In the process the Brewers accomplished the unlikely. Midland needed only one victory in the final five games to clinch third.

JEFF BYRD mowed down the Cubs in two hit fashion, one a home run in the seventh by Bill Huisman, who wound up with 10 for the year.

The Brewers jumped on Darrell Turner for seven hits with Bobby Thompson's wrong-field two-run homer to left in the seventh for the coupe de grace.

After it was over the players scattered to the four corners of the continent, even the Brewers, most of whom left from the Tall City for home rather than return to San Antonio. With a 5 p.m. starting time, most of the outward bound Cubs were on the road by 7:30 p.m. For some, it will be only a brief

League play begins in Arizona. Some will remain in Midland and for a few, Monday's final game here was a farewell and goodbye to the Tall City.

PITCHER STEVE Hamrick was typical of the players bound for the Instructional League. He flies out of Midland today for a few days in Ohio and will return to Midland this weekend and drive out to Scottsdale.

"We begin workouts next Tuesday, so we really don't have much time," advises Steve, who finished 11-11, but feels his altered pitching delivery made a big difference in the final month of the season.

"Because I started pitching dif-ferently, it was a strain on my shoulder, but I was getting the ball down better and I had more confidence."

OTHERS SCHEDULED for Arizona work are pitchers George "Heater" Riley, Darrell Turner and Chuck Rogers; infielders Scott Thompson and Duane Gustavson; and outfielder Joe Hernandez; and catcher Mike

Gordon. Keith Drumright, who reported at mid-season off the University of Oklahoma campus, was scheduled to go, but his trip may be aborted by a knee injury. A sore arm will also keep pitcher Wayne Doland, the Cubs biggest winner at 13-6, on the shelf, but then Wayne, from Hamburg, N.J., is scheduled to be wed in Denver this

Mike Umfleet and Earle Chew plan

Denny Sommers may pass up returning to Wisconsin for the winter, if he can find employment during the off season in Midland or Phoenix.

PITCHER GARY Junge returns to upstate New York where he will work for Kodak in Rochester and Bill Huisman, still uncertain as to whether he'll be back in baseball next

Bulldog backers

The Midland High School Bulldog Booster Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. today in the MHS Cafeteria to view the films of the 14-7 victory over Amarillo Tascosa.

A scouting report will be given on El Paso Eastwood, Midland's opponent in the Purple Pack's home opener in Memorial Stadium Friday. Eastwood beat Las Cruces, N.M., 31-0 last week in its opener.

The Midland High cross-country track team along with Coach Edwin Nixon will be introduced to the boosters, according to Booster Club President Gary Pearce.

Fight results

Outfielder Jose "Pepi" Ortiz plans to become a scout for the Chicago Cubs. "I will continue to play in the Puerto Rican League and scout for Chicago at the same time. In the summer, I would like to play in the Mexican League. I am going to Chicago to see Viedy Himsl, Chicago Cubs' farm director, to see if it can be arranaged."

For San Antonio, shortstop Wayne Pinkerton and Dan Thomas are slated for the Texas Rangers' Fall Instructional League in Florida while relief ace Bobby Cuellar reports to the parent Rangers immediately.

Dolphins, LA post 6-0 mark

By Associated Press

The records show that the Los Angeles Rams and Miami Dolphins finished the National Football League preseason with 6-0 records, and that the Philadelphia Eagles and Houston Oilers finished with exactly the reverse. But now-departed Miami quarterback Jim Del Gaizo put the statistics in perspective.
"I guess the record and 15 cents will get me a cup of coffee," he said Mon-day after the NFL had completed its final week of preseason play and he had been placed on nonrecall waivers.

"Sure I'm disappointed about not winning any preseason games," added Oilers Coach Bum Phillips, "but the season starts next week and that's what is impor-

The Dolphins closed their exhibition campaign with a 20-7 triumph over the New Orleans Saints Saturday night, with Bob Griese and 42year-old Earl Morrall do-

The Rams trimmed San Francisco 10-3 to keep their perfect record intact, with defensive back Monte Jackson scoring the only Los Angeles touchdown and intercepting a fourth-quarter pass to break up a 49ers drive. In the other Saturday night games, Dallas top-ped Houston 28-20 in overtime; Cincinnati downed Tampa Bay 24-13; Pitt-sburgh clubbed the New York Jets 41-6; Oakland beat Seattle 45-28, and San Diego trimmed the New York Giants 14-13.

New York Giants 14-13.

Second-period scoring runs by Don Calhoun and Ike Forte lifted the Patriots, 3-3, over the Eagles, 0-6.

If you don't live in Andrews or Rankin, the first weekend of area high school football action probably didn't set to well with Saturday morning

Midland area football grid powers just didn't fare too well last Friday. Only Andrews and Rankin managed to bring home the victory ribbons.

Andrews coach Tommy Watkins, who has a lot of faith in his ball club, got off to a strong start with a sound 21-6 victory over Big Spring.

That should go a long way in making the Mustangs fly this year. The only thing Watkins was worried about was early success.

"I know we can have a good team if we could win some early games," Watkins said before the season. "Our seniors have not been with a winning club, but we have some talent and they just need to be exposed to win-

IT WAS a junior that led the Mustang charge, and Watkins must feel pretty good at this point of the season. Quarterback Booger Brooks rushed for 193 yards, scored two touchdowns and passed for another to lead the Mustangs to victory over the AAAA Steers. That performance has earned him The Reporter-Telegram's player of the week honors.

Fullback Hilton Luckie had to score a fourth period touchdown to pull the game out of the fire for the Devils, even though Rankin outrushed Eldorado more than 100 yards.

Canadians whip Americans in Canada Cup play, 4-2

By The Associated Press

The danger signs are printed all over the statistic sheets for Team Canada. The players and coaches know it; now its up to them to settle down for tonight's Canada Cup contest against Sweden.

After routing Team USA in two pretournament exhibitions last week, the Canadian entry came out looking for more of the same at Montreal in Sunday night's encounter with the Americans.

They got it, to be sure, breezing to a 3-0 lead and outshooting USA 17-3 in a frenzied first period. Phil Esposito banked a shot in off defenseman Gary batted in a rebound and Bobby Hull swept a wrist shot past Pete LoPresti before the goalie could kick out his left leg

"Maybe this is a good thing," added

The Canadians managed a 4-2 triumph, spoiling a masterful performance by LoPresti and a gutty performance by his mates. But Potvin readily opined that the surprisingly difficult victory "showed us we're not going to be able to float through this fered a 27-7 loss to AA Ozona Friday.

The Owls also held a halftime lead of 7-0 when noseguard Britt Poynor blocked a Ozona punt attempt.

Maybe this week area squads will be in the lead at the final gun instead of just one half. Things just have to

Real Wind wins Ruidoso classic

Undefeated Real Wind became the first New Mexico bred quarter horse to ever win the $1 million All American Futurity Monday by beating Lord Winsalot to the wire in the world's richest horse race.

The two-year-old filly broke to the front about midway through the 440yard dash and sprinted to the wire in a time of 22.70 seconds to win by one and one-fourth lengths.

The victory earned $330,000 for her owners, two retired schoolteachers, J.D. and Elsie Kitchens of Fort Sumner, N.M.

Lord Winsalot finished second by a nose over a fast-closing Mr. Glory Oh.

Real Wind went off as a 3-2 betting favorite, despite coming out of the tenth gate that had never produced a winner in 17 previous All Americans. Lord Winsalot, owned by Jim Jay of Arkoma, Okla., was the second

Pearson unleashes full fury

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP) - David Pearson unleashed the full fury of his Mercury Monday and scored his first victory in the 27th annual Southern 500 stock car race to become the second driver in history to win the sport's "triple crown

Pearson, seemingly with power to spare when he took the lead for good with 56 miles remaining, beat Richard Petty's Dodge to the finish line by 2.85 seconds for his ninth win in 16 starts this season.

The only other driver to win in one season the Daytona 500, the World 600 and the Southern 500 is Lee Roy Yarbrough, who achieved the feat in Darrell Waltrip, driving a Chevrolet, was third closely behind Petty. Dave Marcis' Dodge was fourth in the same lap with the leaders, and Chevrolet driver Lennie Pond was fifth, one lap off the pace.

The 41-year-old grandfather started the 500 mile, 366-lap race from the pole, but only led four times for a total of 93 laps, including the final 45. He successfully held off charges by Waltrip, who was running second when Petty passed him on the fourth turn of the final lap.

The first few minutes of the Labor Day classic over the 1.366-mile Darlington International Raceway was witnessed by Democratic presidenial nominee Jimmy Carter and Republican vice presidential nominee Robert Dole.

The drivers got down to serious business in the grueling four-hour and nine minute race that saw 31 lead changes among 10 drivers.

Pearson's average speed was slowed to 120.534 miles per hour because of eight caution flags for 64 laps. The longest caution period of 28 laps came at the halfway point when Joe Frasson's Chevrolet plowed into the side of Skip Manning's Chevrolet, pinning Manning in the car for about 30 minutes. Manning, leader in the point race for the NASCAR rookie of the year title, had his feet caught in the wreckage. He suffered an ankle injury but a doctor said he had no broken bones. He was hospitalized in nearby Florence for observation.

Frasson suffered bruises and was treated at the field hospital at the

"It didn't bother me that I hadn't won this race until about 50 laps to go when I happened to say 'well, it is the Southern'. I've won the Rebel." Pearson told a news conference. He has won the Rebel 500 race in the spring here six times but a secondplace finish was his best in the favorite at 2-1, while Mr. Glory Oh owned by Dr. Ernest W. Carrigan Jr. of Pasadena, Tex., was the number three choice at 3-1.

Real Wind improved her record to 7-0-0 and upped her career earnings to $456,274, which places her in the No. 6 position on the list of quarter horse racing's all-time money winners. The All American was the final race of quarter horse racing's Triple Crown. Real Wind had won the second leg of the trio, the Rainbow Futurity. Veteran jockey Gary Sumpter was in the saddle, posting his first victory in the All American. Sumpter was in last year's $1 million race, but finished last on Watch A Native.

Sumpter, who looked more tired after the race than his horse, shook his head when asked about the ride. "It was fast," he said. Lord Winsalot, winner of the first jewel of the Triple Crown, the Kansas Futurity, picked up $138,000 for his second-place finish, while Mr. Glory Oh, the top qualifier in the All American trials, hauled in $64,000 for

The race, televised nationally by an independent network, drew a track record crowd of 16,600 and helped in attracting an all-time handle for a New Mexico track with $1,038,995. The handle for the All American was $220,882, which is the largest one-race handle in the history of New Mexico

Divine Liz, a filly owned by D.D. Ledford and Ted W. Wells of Alex, Okla., was fourth and received $45,000; Megahertz, owned by Larry Brumbaugh of Fort Worth, Tex., was fifth for $36,000; Louton's Angel owned by Charles R. Weik Jr. of San Antonio, Tex., was sixth for $34,000; Coming Forth, owned by J.L. Perkins of Houston, Tex., was seventh for $32,000; Pass Your Glass, owned by Joe McDermott of Madisonville, Tex., was eighth at $31,000; Topless Dancer, owned by R.E. Wise of Madisonville, was ninth for $29,000

The other horse that had qualified for the All American in time trials Aug. 24 was Comin' Easy, a colt owned by Rose Ranch of Hondo, N.M. Comin'Easy was scratched from the race because of soreness, but still will receive the $27,000 for tenth place.

Jan Kodes, who outlasted South African veteran Frew McMillan 6-4. 7-6, 2-6, 7-6 in an afternoon match. Third-seeded Guillermo Vilas and ninth-seeded Eddie Dibbs advanced

A's gain more ground

By The Associated Press

Not all of the Oakland A's are running away from owner Charlie Finley. The green-and-gold clad gladiators are running at a record pace and making a race of the American League West Division.

Winners of five straight division championships, the A's have been running ever since Finley brought up a player whose only function was as a pinch runner.

Since then, pitcher Catfish Hunter has run to the New York Yankees. slugger Reggie Jackson has run to the Baltimore Orioles and several other players say they have shoes, will travel once the season ends.

Monday night, however, the A's were running in circles, something they have been doing consistently this season. Oakland swiped seven bases in their 11-inning 2-1 victbory over the California Angeles to run their season total to 297. That crumbles the old American League mark of 288 set by the 1913 Washington Senators. The National League record is 347 set by the 1911 New York Giants.

The victory moved Oakland to within six games of the West Divisionleading Kansas City Royals, who suffered a 5-4 loss to Texas. The A's have picked up three full games on the Royals in their last eight games.

Claudell Washington delivered a pinch-hit double in the 11th for the A's and scored the winning run on Phil Garner's third straight single. Fingers, 11-9, picked up the victory 0-1, took the loss for the Angels.

Rangers 5, Royals 4

A run-scoring single by Toby Harrah capped a four-run ninth inning rally to boost Texas past Kansas City. With Roy Howell on first, Joe Lahoud and Juan Beniquez lined back-to-back two-out singles, scoring Howell. Dave Moates' pinch double off Doug Bird, 11-8, made it 4-4. Harrah's game-winning hit came off reliever Mark Littell.

The Royals set a season attendance mark Monday of 1,401,121, snapping the record set in 1955, the first year the A's played in Kansas City. Twins 3. White Sox 2

Craig Kusick's home run with two out in the ninth inning snapped a tie and lifted Minnesota to its victory over the Chicago White Sox. Twins reliever Bill Campbell hurled 123 innings to raise his record to 15-4, three short 9f the AL record for relief wins in a season and four shy of the major league mark. Kusick's game-winning homer came off Francisco Barrios, 3-8, who relieved Ken Kravec in the eighth. Brewers 3-2, Indians 2-3

Dan Thomas' clutch double in the opener and John Lowenstein's hustle in the nightcap enabled Cleveland and Milwaukee to split a doubleheader. In just his fourth major league game, Thomas's ninth-inning double scored Darrell Porter to snap a 2-2 tie.

In the second game, Lowenstein scored from second base on a while rookie reliever John Verhoeven, throwing error, lifting Cleveland to its victory. Lowenstein came homes when Brewers catcher Charlie Moore grabbed a topped ball in front of home plate and threw wide to first. Home plate was left unprotected as a Lowenstein sped all the way home.

Tigers 5, Orioles 4

Pinch hitter Ben Oglivie greeted reliever Tippy Martinez with a runscoring single to snap a 4-4 deadlock and give Detroit its come-frombehind victory. Baltimore jumped out to a 4-0 lead in the first inning when Reggie Jackson doubled home r two runs and Ken Singleton smashed a two-run homer.

Ron LeFlore doubled in the Detroit half of the first and scored on a sacrifice fly. LeFlore opened the eighth with another double, his third hit of the game, and scored on Mikckey Stanley's single. Rusty Staub's single, two walks and sacrifice flies by Alex Johnson and Bill Freehan preceded Oglivie's game-winning hit. Yankees 6, Red Sox 5 Graig Nettles' three-run homer paced New York past Boston as Doyle Alexander picked up his 11th victory in 19 decisions. Nettles' blast gave the Yanks a 6-0 lead before Boston routed Alexander and reliever Grant Jackson with two runs in the seventh and three more in the eighth. Cecil Cooper was robbed of a home

Dallas Cowboys' axe severs Johnson, Thomas

By The Associated Press

The comeback attempts of Duane Thomas and Ron Johnson, once two of the National Football League's premier running backs, apparently ended Monday when both were cut by the Dallas Cowboys

Both were victims of the NFL's 43man player limit as the teams administered their final cuts before Sunday's start of the regular season.

Besides Snow, the Rams cut nine players including defensive end Al Cowlings and defensive backs Bivian Lee and Al Clark. The Rams also traded rookie defensive end Leroy Jones to San Diego and rookie guard Dan Nugent to Washington for two future draft picks.

OTHER FAMILIAR names also were sliced. Among the casualties at Los Angeles was veteran wide Sained 6,289.

Thomas had hoped to rejoin the Cowboys where he first achieved NFL stardom six years ago. After two stormy seasons with the Cowboys, he drifted around the pro football map with brief but unproductive stops at New England, San Diego and Washington as well as in the World Football League.

AFTER THE demise of the WFL,

Thomas was signed as a free agent by the Cowboys, for whom he had gained 1,596 yards in two seasons, 1970 and 1971. But he was unable to crack the talented Dallas backfield this summer, gaining just 98 yards in 40 exhibition carries.

Johnson, twice a 1,000-yard manwith the New York Giants, suffered the same fate. He had signed with the Cowboys as a free agent after playing out his option with the Giants last

In other moves, Dallas waived three players, listed three others as injured reserve and swapped place kicker Toni Fritsch to San Diego for a future draft choice. Fritsch led all NFL kickers with 104 points last season.

AFTER GETTING Fritsch, the Chargers cut kicker Bruce Gossett as well as wide receiver Dwight McDonald and running back Glen Bonner. The Giants also switched kickers, including George Hunt among six players cut and acquiring placement man Joe Banelo from Green Bay for a future draft pick. Veteran center Bob Hyland was also cut and the Giants made a pair of trades, swapping backup tight end Jim O'Bradovich to San Francisco for

Khalilah Ali charges husband with desertion

CHICAGO (AP) — Khalilah Ali, wife of heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali, has filed for a divorce on grounds of mental cruelty and desertion, her attorney said Monday.

The attorney, David W. Williams of Los Angeles, confirmed details about the divorce action disclosed by an assistant to Mrs. Ali who declined to identify himself.

"I don't want to make a statement or be quoted on any of the details, but I can confirm the facts." Williams said in a telephone interview.

Mrs. Ali's assistant said the divorce suit was filed Thursday in Circuit Court in Chicago. He said Ali was served with legal papers Friday in Show Low, Ariz, where the heavyweight champion was training for a Sept. 28 bout against challenger Ken Norton in Yankee Stadium.

Williams said he was present in Arizona when the papers were served. Mrs. Ali's spokesman said Judge Robert L. Hunter issued a temporary restraining order prohibiting Ali from concealing or in any way disposing of the assets and properties of their marriage, including the purse in the title bout against Norton.

Circuit Court offices were closed Monday because of the Labor Day holiday, but Judge Hunter, reached by telephone, confirmed that the suit had been filed.

Vermeil discovers Eagles are far cry from UCLA

By DAVE BRADY The Washington Post

PHILADELPHIA - Everything has been coming up crabgrass for the Philadelphia Eagles.

They couldn't beat anyone last season except the New York Giants (5-9), San Francisco (5-9), and twice the Redskins (8-6)

Coach Mike McCormack was found wanting and the Eagles seized on the timeliness of UCLA's stunning upset of Ohio State in the Rose Bowl to hire Dick Vermeil as their new coach.

But Vermeil's knowledge of college talent could not help him because the Eagles had traded their first four

He had seen pro football from one of the better neighborhoods, having been an assistant under George Allen. Tommy Prothro and Chuck Knox with the Los Angeles Rams before becoming the big enchilada at UCLA, but he could not bring his knowledge of pro talent into play either.

OWNER LEONARD H. Tose did not et him a Larry Csonka, a Paul Warfield, a John Gilliam, a Calvin Hill, a John Riggins, a Jean Fugett, or a Ron Johnson from among the free agents. or trade for defensive help as did division champion St. Louis.

Tose was having his own problems. His estranged wife had gone to court after $50,000 she alleged he is in arrears in support payments.

WITH THE Eagles looking forward to playing the two-time Super Bowl Champion Pittsburgh Steelers in an exhibition at Veterans Stadium, and reaping the financial benefits, the city was startled by the mysterious "Legion flu."

Hurricane Belle combined to make it a 1-2 punch. Heavy rains and the flu scare held attendance to 16,823.

Vermeil is a scrawny little guy with a firm jaw line who makes no pretense at "cool." He scurries from group to group to give personal attention and lets the perspiration go un-

As a sort of justificiation of Vermeil's high-tempo approach, the Eagles cite one of the quality veterans, middle linebacker Bill

"I really think he's our man. He's a good man, a workaholic, and I think everybody is relating to him. Even with the discipline and the difficult practices he's throwing at us, the moaning and groaning is at a minimum. And pro football players are going to complain regardless of what kind of a situation they're in.'

THERE ARE some other class players on the squad: quarterback Mike Boryla, running backs Art Malone, Tom Sullivan, and James McAlister (from UCLA), tight end Young, wide receiver Harold Carmichael, center guy Morriss, guard Jerry Sisemore, safety Bill Bradley.

Then there is cornerback Kermit Alexander, trying to come back after a two-season layoff. The National Labor Relations Board recently ordered the Eagles to reinstate Alexander, ruling that he had been waived because he was the team's player representative.

Vermeil said Alexander has been handicapped by leg injuries since training camp opened and noted that the cornerback had 30 cubic centimeters of blood drained from his leg recently

"I don't think he's going to play at his age (35)," Vermeil said.

Manny Sistrunk, obtained from the Redskins in the deal for Lavender, is "our starting defense left tackle." Vermeil said.

OF JOHN WILBUR, former Redskins' guard who jumped to Hawaii of the World Football League before joining the Eagles. Vermeil said, "If we had 43 active players with the competitive spirit and character of Wilbur, no one would beat us, but he is behind Sisemore and nobody can play ahead of him.

Vermeil also gave running back Malone high marks: "He is the best blocker I have ever seen. He is going to splatter some linebackers.

The coach has not been "I thought we were beginning to put the pieces together," he said. "We have on defense, but not on of-

BECAUSE OF his immediate transition from UCLA, he was asked if he were contemplating a version of the quarterback option series and-or the shotgun formation while making over the squad the way he wants it.

Referring to a helicopter that landed on the playing field with fans from the sponsors of the of the Eagles' yearbook, the coach said with a bid for the support of Philadelphians, "On the East Coast, I have been impressed by the loyalty of the fans.

Pittsburgh

By The Associated Press

The Philadelphia Phillies don't appreciate trips down memory lane, especially detours into 1964. But the Pittsburgh Pirates enjoy reviving the past, particularly the last two Sep-

"We're a team that always excels in September," said Pittsburgh slugger Dave Parker after the Pirates raised their record to 7-1 this month with 62 and 5-1 victories over Philadelphia on Monday.

The Pirates, who won the National League East Division titles the past two years with sizzling Septembers. are threatening to bring the flag back to Pittsburgh again. They now trail first-place Philadelphia by 51/2 games after being a distant 151/2 games back on Aug. 24.

In 1974, the Pirates won 11 of their last 15 games to beat St. Louis by 11/2 games. In 1975, Pittsburgh turned a one-half game lead on Aug. 17 into a 61/2-game margin at the end of the season with a strong September.

September already has been the worst month of the year for the Phillies, who are 1-5 since the calendar dropped August. The suggestion has been raised that the 1976 Phillies are doing a good initation of the 1964 Phillies, who squandered an 11-game late-season lead and were beaten to the wire by St. Louis.

Last-Minute changes threaten offshore oil bill

By SPENCER RICH The Washington Post

SECTION

WASHINGTON - A bill overhauling the government's offshore oil leasing program for the Outer Continental Shelf is in grave peril on Capitol Hill because of a new batch of last-minute changes demanded by Interior Secretary Thomas Kleppe.

Bitterly opposed by the oil industry, the measure passed the Senate 67 to 19 last year and the House 247 to 140 this year. It would partially revise the existing cash-bidding system under which oil companies compete to obtain leases on the rich oil and gas resources in the sea-bed of the Outer Continental Shelf, which stretches from the three-mile limit to as far as 200 miles in some places.

At the same time, it would allow states a much larger say in whether to allow drilling off their shores, and give the government the right to conduct some exploratory drilling to find out just what it is selling when it puts ocean-bed tracts up for lease.

Rep. John Murphy (D-N.Y.) and Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), the two chief sponsors of the legislation, have already met and worked out a series of compromises between the House and Senate versions. All that remains is to have both chambers endorse the final version.

However, Kleppe on Aug. 26 sent up a batch of proposed amendments which spokesmen for both sponsors say would "gut almost every major provision of the bill."

Murphy fired off a letter (Sept. 2) to Kleppe saying Congress had already acceded to well over half of 53 previous amendments proposed by Kleppe, and the submission of a new batch "confirms my fear ... the Interior Department never really intended to work with Congress but rather only feigned cooperation in order to delay or stop passage." He concluded, "It's time to begin cooperating with Congress in good

Kleppe was also attacked by James Flug, of the Energy Action Committee, who said, "The administration once again is attempting to block legislation to revise and improve Outer Continental Shelf leasing procedures."

Flug said the new experimental leasing methods for part of the OCS would increase competition for leases, increase public revenues, and that other provisions would guard against antitrust violations by giant oil consortiums and force oil com-panies to show "due diligence" in pumping out the oil and gas once they obtain a lease, instead of holding it as a reserve while obtaining high prices for production from other sources.

Oil industry spokesmen have complained the bill contains cumbersome new procedures that would delay exploration and development and could eventually lead to creation of a government oil production operation offshore, although Jackson and Murphy both deny this.

The Outer Continental Shelf is believed to contain most of the potential oil and gas discoveries in the North American continent. Under the law, these resources are the property of the United States, which periodically puts tracts up for bidding. The company (or consortium) that is willing to pay the most for a tract gets the right to build offshore platforms and drill for oil and gas. The winning bid is sometimes as high as $30 million, $50 million — even greater. The company, once it starts producing from the tract, must pay the government, in addition, a royalty equal to one-sixth (16 2-3 per cent) the gross value of the oil or gas produced.

onshore sources, prospects are for a great enlargement of offshore leasing - not only in the Gulf of Mexico, but also in the waters off the East and West Coasts and off Alaska. The possibility of pollution in unspoiled shore areas has aroused substantial concern. There have also been charges that with rising prices of oil and gas, the current leasing system gives a bidding advantage to giant companies with enough money to outbid smaller firms, and also offers them the hope of a tremendous bonanza because the government doesn't get enough return on the minerals.

The bill is an attempt to address some of these problems. The compromise worked out by Jackson and Murphy contains these key provisions, according to Jackson aides:

Bidding. One third of the tracts would have to be leased by a method other than the current bonus bid-one sixth royalty system. For example, a tract might be leased to a company without any up-front cash bid, but merely on the basis of what per cent of its profits from the lease it is willing to pay the government. One company might be willing, for example, to give 50 per cent of its profits to the proposed leases in advance for potengovernment, another 55 per cent, a tial antitrust violations. third only 45 per cent. The one offering 55 per cent would be the winner. Flug said this would enable smaller companies, without the up-front cash to plunk down $40 or $50 million on a bonus bid, to obtain leases and also would give the government a higher return rate.

Gubernatorial Powers. Governors would set up regional advisory boards which could recommend to the Interior Department which sections off the shore should be kept free of drilling, lest environmental damage result. The secretary of Interior could ignore these recommendations but only if he believed it in the overriding national interest to seek oil and gas in those areas.

Exploratory drilling. The government would be empowered to hire private companies to perform exploratory drilling (not actual production) in certain areas, to find out what's there.

Antitrust review. The Justice Department and Federal Trade Com-

Pollution Liability. A firm with a lease would be responsible for cleanup costs and the first $35 million in damages from any oil spills from platforms, wells, tankers and pipelines. Damages beyond that would be paid by a fund built up from a 3-cent per barrel payment by leaseholders on all oil produced. This is modeled after several similar oilspill provisions already in effect, for example, in the Trans-Alaska Pipeline Authorization Law.

The bill also makes several other major changes in the leasing system. requiring companies to submit a plan of development once they hit oil or gas, and the secretary to prepare broad plans for leasing off all shores over the next five years.

Despite charges by Flug and the angry Murphy letter, an administration spokesman said the White House isn't sending out any veto signals yet. "We just want to improve the bill," he said. Even if opponents of the bill like Paul J. Fannin (R-Ariz.) are unable to block final enactment by Congress, many believe President Ford may

Environmentalists turn to potential users in western coal battle

By BILL RICHARDS

The Washington Post

BOISE, Idaho - When favorite son Sen. Frank Church swept the vote in Idaho's May 25 Democratic presidential primary, hardly anyone outside the state noticed the referendum tagged onto the ballot in three southwestern Idaho counties. The vote by the resident of Ada, Elmore and and Canyon counties against a proposal to build Idaho's first coal-fired power plant may in the long run bear more significance than Church's near-forgotten home state victory. The vote is only advisory - the Idaho Public Utilities Commission is still considering the power plant application - but all three counties soundly rejected a proposal by the state's biggest utility, the Idaho Power Co., to build its 500-megawatt Pioneer Power Plant 25 miles east of the state capitol here. The plant would use fuel from one of the big Western coal fields scheduled to open soon in Wyoming. The Idaho vote illustrates the disenchantment growing here and in a number of other still rural Western states toward plans by a host of major industries exploit the massive Western coal reserves through a series of power plants and synthetic fuel complexes.

In testimony for the Public Utilities Commission, Idaho Gov. Cecil D. Andrus compared the Idaho power plant with a "growth switch."

"If the switch is turned on," said Andrus, "you will be committing Idaho to a significant increase in population and industrial activity. Our prized standard of living, our very quality of life, would be jeopardized Sentiments like these, plus two major environmental decisions enacted this year, have caused a number of environmentalists and others opposed to a Western coal boom to shift their tactics significantly away from the prospective coal strippers toward those who plan to exploit Western of a group here called Citizens for in dolomite.

"The focus of our battle, at least for the time being, is going to be on specific projects," said Anthony Ruckel, an attorney for the Sierra Club's Denver regional office.

MITCHELL — Moore No. 1-X of a group here called Citizens for Alternatives to Pioneer (CAP), which claims 46,000 members. "They're going to learn that the people have ways of stopping them. It's going to happen again and again."

The coalition of opponents to the Idaho Power project that Messerly and others have assembled is a curious mixture. Members range from Messerly, mayor of the Snake River community of Glenns Ferry, which would be downwind from the proposed plant, to liberal-leaning activists, John Birchers, conservationists, high school students and ranchers.

Idaho Power contends it has a legal responsibility to match Idaho's growth rate with expansion of its power supply, now drawn mostly from hydroelectric sources. Without the Pioneer Plant, the company's experts say, the utility will not be able to meet its requirements after the

Messerly and his group charged that just the opposite is true. "They don't grow then we won't be doing as much growing either, electric rates will stay down and it will be a better place for everybody," said the CAP

The power plant's opponents say that despite its name and headquarters here, Idaho Power is decision" made by Kleppe after really owned by big Eastern banks, hearing arguments for and against insurance companies and stockholders, with most of its profits going to those outside the state.

Whoever controls the utility, there is little question that Idaho Power and those involved with the utility in the Pioneer project are able to flex their muscles when necessary. The utility plans to obtain most of its fuel for its proposed plant from a 14,902-acre federal coal lease in Eastern Wyoming owned by the Rosebud Coal Co. In two departmental memos dated Horton urged Interior Secretary case," Horton said. Thomas S. Kleppe that Rosebud not be granted the federal coal lease. The Interior Department has responsibility for leasing federal coal land. Horton noted that granting the federal lease to Rosebud would violate Interior criteria for such leases because plans to begin developing the lease would not take place within five years as required. Pioneer, which would take most of the coal from the lease holding probably would not be completed by that time.

Interior officials said. Horton also pointed out that no impact statement had been filed for the lease although such a statement is required under the National Environmental Policy Act.

In addition, the memos, which have not been made public, note that the lease would violate Section 2-C of the 1920 Mineral Leasing Act, which prohibits common carrier railroads from holding leases or permits for coal deposits on federal land.

The memos note that the Black Butte Coal Co., which was formed for the purpose of taking assignment of coal leases from Rosebud, is partially owned by the Union Pacific Railroad. In an interview, Horton said that the approval of the Rosebud lease was unprecedented and was a "personal the lease by Interior officials. Horton said the Interior Department's attorneys ruled that the Union Pacific Corp. - and not its subsidiary, the Union Pacific Railroad is the actual partner in Black Butte and therefore the railroad is not a direct participant or operator of the coal lease. The ruling was the first of its kind in favor of railroad holding company, Horton said.

He said that Idaho Power was able to produce a letter of intent from a Midwest utility to accept coal from March 8 and April 7 of this year from the Rosebud lease until the Pioneer Assistant Interior Secretary Jack plant is completed. "It was a unique

He said Idaho Power's fallback position enabled the utility to gain approval for the lease although the Rosebud lease is the only one of its size and kind ever to be approved under the Interior Department's short-term lease criteria. All 10 other leases approved under the criteria were for considerably smaller already developed coal mines. Horton

Despite Horton's objections. Interior granted Rosebud its lease in April of this year.

The fight over the Pioneer project is just one of several under way or planned by environmental groups in the Western coal states. The shift in emphasis to these local battles from broad regional court fights against strip mining in the coal fields was helped along, according to environmental officials, by two decisions this year - one claimed as a defeat and the other as a victory for environmentalists. One decision involved a suit by the Sierra Club and other environmental groups filed in 1973 to force the Interior Department to prepare a fullscale regional environmental impact statement before any coal could be mined on the government's vast Northern Plains coal holding.

East took the king of hearts and switched to the nine of clubs, a rather fortunate choice. South put in the ten, Most bridge players have excellent fortunate choice. South put in the ten, memories. They make the same lack of anything better to do West lack of anything better to do, West returned his low club, and East's eight forced out the jack.

Now, a couple of tricks too late. South began the spades. East took the ace of spades and returned the deuce of clubs, whereupon West took two club tricks to defeat the contract.

NO BLAME Nobody would blame South for taking the heart finesse at the first trick if he were playing in a match point tournament, where overtricks are just as important as making the contract. Since he was playing rubber bridge, however, he should see that the contract may be lost if he finesses but is unbeatable if he plays the ace.

After taking the ace of hearts at the first trick, declarer leads spades. He then has at least four spades, one heart, and four diamonds no matter how the defense proceeds.

Longest rubber walkout ending

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - The last of the Big Four tire makers has settled with the United Rubber Workers, raising hopes that the longest rubber strike in U.S. history could end this week.

B.F. Goodrich negotiators announced on Labor Day that after two days of intensive talks in Columbus with union bargainers they had reached tentative agreement on a new three-year contract.

URW President Peter Bommarito said he expected union locals to ratify the pact today and Wednesday. The strike, which began on April 21, was in its 140th day today.

The union initially called about 60,000 members out on strike against the major tire makers - Goodyear. Goodrich, Uniroyal and Firestone. Goodyear and Firestone settled last month, and their workers are back on the job. About 12,000 Uniroyal workers are set to vote on their new proposed contract.

Harold Fast, Goodrich labor relations director and chief negotiator, said the agreement follows the basic economic pattern for the tire and rubber industry established last month in Washington.

It calls for hourly wage increases of $1.35 over the life of the contract and includes a cost-of-living adjustment.

Fast said production at six plants - stalled by the walkout of more than 9,000 workers — could resume as early as Thursday. He predicted that tire prices would rise, but he would not speculate how much.

Cooler air moves into hot Dakotas

By The Associated Press

Cooler air moved into the northern Rockies and western parts of the Dakotas today following Labor Day's record breaking heat on the northern plains. The record high for September was broken Monday at Sioux Falls, S.D., with a reading of 104 and matched at Williston, N.D., at 101.

Thundershowers rumbled across Florida, the eastern half of the Gulf Coast and West Texas early today. A few showers splashed the Rockies. Skies were generally clear through the northern two-thirds of the Atlantic Coast states, the Ohio Valley, the upper and lower Mississippi Valley and the central plains. Partly cloudy to cloudy skies Early morning temperatures varied from 33 at Philipsburg, Pa., to 86 at Pierre, S.D.
