Cosmonauts Head For Space Lab

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union opened the third decade of the space age Sunday by launching two cosmonauts into space to link up with an orbiting space station.

Tass, the official news agency, said the Soyuz-25 spacecraft lifted off at dawn amid plumes of red smoke from the same launching pad at the Baikonur space center where the world's first satellite, the little Sputnik, was launched Oct. 4, 1957.

Flight Going Well

Twelve hours after blast-off, Moscow's evening television reported that the cosmonauts were well and were carrying out the flight plan.

The telecast showed spaceship commander Lt. Col. Vasily Kovalenok, 35, climbing aboard the rocket and saying, "We're heading up for a working mission, and we hope we fulfil our tasks.

"It's the beginning of the third decade of the space age, and it's going to be a working decade. There's a lot of work to be done."

Kovalenok and Flight Engineer Valery Ryumin, 38, both rookies in space, are to link up soon with Salyut-6, a space laboratory that was launched into orbit Sept. 29, Tass said.

Previous Lab Link-Up

They are the first team to be sent into space since the Soyuz-24 cosmonauts linked up with an earlier space lab, Salyut-5, last February. That flight lasted 19 days and included photography and scientific observations. Salyut-5 was destroyed by earth command Aug. 8 after 16 months in orbit.

There was no word on the precise tasks planned for the Soyuz-25 crew, but the cosmonauts stressed in a pre-flight news conference at Baikonur, televised Sunday night, that theirs is a "working" mission.

"Ours is a simple goal — to learn as much as possible about our earth so that we can contribute to making life on earth better," Kovalenok said.

Wetern experts had been predicting a Soviet space shot to mark the 60th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution, which falls on Nov. 7. The cosmonauts also carried into space a copy of the new Soviet constitution, adopted Friday amid massive national publicity.

Space Spectacular Seen

In addition to the "working" nature of the flight, Western experts are speculating that it will include some sort of a "space spectacular" like a spacewalk.

There was no official indication of how long the flight would last. The Soviet space endurance record is 63 days, set by Soyuz-18 in 1975. The U.S. record is 84 days.

Both cosmonats are Communist party members, and both, as seen in the televised news conference, fit the ruggedly handsome stereotype of space explorers.

Kovalenok, who has been training as a cosmonaut for 10 years and has taken part in the ground control of a number of earlier launches, has logged 1,600 flying hours as a military transport pilot and has been an instructor in paratroop training, Tass said.

Ryumin, whose background is in forestry, began his cosmonaut training just four years ago. Tass said he has taught himself to be a space equipment engineer of "great erudition and initiative."

Child Pornography Bill, Nuclear Plan Faced By Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate this week takes up a bill to curb child pornography and the House, facing a heavy calendar, is heading for another joust with President Carter over the nation's nuclear breeder reactor project.

Meanwhile, the President's energy program sits like a smoking hulk on the Senate sidelines while the Finance Committee tries to find a replacement for his recommended package of oil and natural gas taxes.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, continuing hearings on the Panama Canal trety, is calling 34 witnesses, with former secretaries of state Henry Kissinger and Dean Rusk expected to testify toward the end of the week.

Hearings On Appolatee

Senate Judiciary Committee members open hearings on Thursday on Carter's nomination of U.S. District Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. of Alabama to head the FBI.

The Senate pornography bill is designed to allow federal action against the sexual exploitation of children. The measure would make it a federal crime to use children younger than 16 in the production of pornographic materials or to transport a child across state lines for prostitution. Penalties would range up to a $15,000 fine and 15 years in prison.

Court Challenges Expected

The House has passed its own version of the legislation, and the chief concern of both houses is drafting a bill to withstand expected constitutional challenges in court.

On the subject of the nuclear breeder reactor program, Carter had urged Congress to scrap the project at Clinch River, Tenn., but a conference committee wants to keep the project roughly on schedule without starting construction.

The House must deal with an appropriations bill which contains $150 million for the program. House members could reject the appropriation and kill the project, but that is unlikely since the breeder was upheld by wide margins in earlier floor tests.

Other legislation before the House includes bills which would: create a $200 million fund to compensate for oil spill damages; levy a small fee on barge operators for waterway maintenance; and centralize the operation of the House itself under an administrator to be named by the speaker.

Last week the Senate Finance Committee killed Carter's proposed tax package for oil and natural gas fuels. The President sought the taxes to discourage consumption and prod industry to use as much coal as possible. The tax on crude oil also would have raised the price of a gallon f gasoline by seven cents.

Now the Finance Committee has decided to spend the week trying to develop an alternative. Several members are plugging for a system of oil industry incentive measures, including one calling for a $3 dollar per barrel tax credit on shale oil.

School Films Banned Following Protests

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

ACTING ON complaints by parents, Lubbock school officials have banned the showing of one "educational" film in local classrooms and put restrictions on the use of two other movies.

Removed from circulation among the city's public schools was "The Merry-Go-Round Horse," the story of a small boy who steals a horse. Parents had charged this film seems to suggest stealing is justified if a child wants something badly enough.

Also, school administrators placed restrictions on two other movies, "The Lottery" and "VD, The Hidden Epidemic." Those films now may be shown only to certain classes at specific grade levels.

Three Protests Rejected

School officials rejected parents' protest of three films in the "Guidance of the 70s" series. However, they said teachers will be urged to involve counselors in explaining and discussing the guidance films with students.

Some parents had complained that without adequate follow-up discussion, the guidance movies might encourage students to be responsible only to themselves, with disregard for their church and family values.

Committee Views Films

An ad hoc committee of parents, chaired by John Q. Warnick, judge of Lubbock County Court-at-law No. 2, viewed the films in question in April and eventually filed objections to the movies with school officials.

The films are available to schools in Lubbock and the surrounding South Plains area through the Region XVII Education Service Center media library.

Dr. E.C. Leslie, assistant superintendent for administration of Lubbock public schools, wrote Warnick a letter recently explaining the disposition of the movie protests.

"A committee of teachers, consultants and administrators were appointed to review each of the films which you asked to be removed from Lubbock Independent School District use in the classroom or that parental consent be given before they are shown to a child," Leslie told Warnick.

"These reviews took place during the first part of August, and recommendations were made to the Administrative Council (composed of Supt. Ed Irons and his top assistants) regarding the use of these films," Leslie said.

Guidelines Developed

Leslie said the council has developed the following guidelines:

—"The Merry-Go-Round Horse," previously shown occasionally in local elementary schools.

"This film should not be circulated within the Lubbock Independent School District," Leslie stated. "The (review) committee could find little or no value in the film, and alternate films of more value are available."

—"The Lottery," based on Shirley Jackson's short story of the same name. Parents said the movie is too violent and encourages children to challenge parental and religious values. School officials have stressed that "The Lottery" is used mostly in 11th-grade English classes, but parents noted it is available and sometimes shown in junior high.

Restricted Use Urged

Upon the review committee's recommendation, Leslie said, "This film ('The Lottery') should be restricted to use by 11th-grade English teachers who teach the short story presently in the state-adopted textbook."

—"VD, The Hidden Epidemic," a frank movie on venereal disease previously shown to some sex-segregated health classes at a few junior and senior high schools in Lubbock. Some parents felt the film too sexually explicit and cas-

Easing Of Controversy Over Canal Indicated

PANAMA CITY (AP) — The United States and Panama apparently have agreed not to squabble in public on the most controversial aspect of the new Panama Canal treaties — the question of U.S. intervention.

Although both governments are taking different postures on how much intervention would be permitted after the year 2000, neither party wants to reopen a discussion that could block ratification of the agreement.

Analysis

Thus, the two governments seem comfortable with a two-pronged answer. Yes, the United States has the right to defend the waterway's neutrality. No, it can not interfere in Panama's internal affairs.

Evidence that such an agreement had been reached surfaced Friday night when Romulo Escobar Bethancourt, Panama's chief treaty negotiator, addressed a lawyers' meeting here in a speech aired nationwide.

"Intervention has been discussed to the point of saturation," he said. "Nowhere does it appear that there is a special right for the United States to intervene in the internal affairs of our country."

In an interview with the French newsmagazine L'Express, Panamanian leader Gen. Omar Torrijos said the question of intervention is "not "clearly defined." He said the way the pact was written, it could "serve as the legal instrument for those tempted to intervene militarily. I personally only give it moral value," he added.

The question of whether the new treaties give the United States the right to intervene in Panama to protect the new canal surfaced in U.S. Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearings last week.

Object To "Intervention"

Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., released a confidential cable from the U.S. Embassy in Panama in which Panamanian treaty negotiator Carlos Lopez Guevera warned the United States against using the term "intervention" to describe American rights under the treaties.

Dole told the Committee he believed the cable proves the Panamanian government does not accept the U.S. interpretation that America has the right to decide on its own if military action is necessary to defend the canal.

Contradiction Seen

This, Dole said, would contradict what Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and U.S. negotiators Ellsworth Bunker and Sol Linowitz had led senators to believe in testimony before the committee.

But the U.S. State Department replied that the U.S. interpretation "is accurate" and that under the treaties, the United States retains the right to protect the canal's neutrality against an outside threat.

The State Department added, the pact "does not give the United States any right to intervene in the internal affairs of Panama, nor has it been our intention to seek or to exercise such a right."

Escobar strongly endorsed Friday the State Department letter to the Foreign Relations Committee, and his speech gave no hint of disagreement between the two countries.

Political observers here interpreted that to mean the two executive branches have worked out a common position to present to the U.S. Senate, which must ratify the controversial canal treaties. Panamanian voters will decide on the pact Oct. 23 in a national referendum.

Lopez Guevera, the Panamanian whose cable was quoted by Dole, said in a radio interview last week: "To be frank, they (the United States) do not need that neutrality pact to tell them whether or not they may intervene.

"They need it to show their Congress, in order to be able to tell their Congress, 'Look, we are turning the canal over to those Panamanians, but we still have the right to watch over them so they behave.' "

Train Passengers Hurt In Collision

LUDWIGSHAFEN, West Germany (AP) — An express train slammed into a local train Sunday near the station in this small south German town, injuring 25 persons, some seriously, rail officials said Sunday.

A spokesman for German Railways said the express engineer was apparently given the wrong signal, putting him on the same track as the local.

Union Official Denies More Power Targeted

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

THERE'S NOTHING new about the Labor Reform Act of 1977, an AFL-CIO regional director said here Sunday.

Nick Kurko, AFL-CIO Region 4 director, said the new legislation "is essentially a bill to give workers the rights given to them under the National Labor Relations Act passed in 1935."

Speaking to a meeting of the Hub Area Local of the American Postal Workers Union, Kurko said the bill is being "billed as Big Labor seeking more power. Nothing could be further from the truth," he said.

Forty-two years ago workers were guaranteed the right to join a union and form a union through the National Labor Relations Act, and employers were instructed they must bargain in good faith, Kurko said.

However, "after 40 years there are no remedies for those who broke the law," he said. Kurko quoted a federal judge as saying "there is no remedy to the courts to make the employer observe the law."

"After 40 years we've got some reform to give meaning to the act's original purpose," he said.

The Labor Reform Act would essentially put teeth into labor laws by making it unprofitable for an employer to violate the law, Kurko said.

For example, employers could lose federal contracts for three years if they were found to have willfully violated a final order of the National Labor Relations Board or of the court, if the law is passed in its original form.

Employes attempting to organize a union who are fired in violation of the law would be reimbursed at double their wage rate with no deduction for income received while off the job.

If an employer is found to have discharged an employe illegally for union activity, the NLRB can seek a court injunction preventing the company from discharging anyone else. "If they violate that, they can go to jail," Kurko said, noting no one has been sent to jail in the past 42 years.

For years, the way to discourage union activity has been to fire the people in-

Warm Readings Due To Return Late In Week

ANTIFREEZE and bulky sweaters might be foremost in the minds of Lubbock citizens today as temperatures are forecast to dip into the mid-40s tonight after an afternoon high in the lower 70s.

A slight chance of showers or thunderstorms still looms over the West Texas area. Winds from the north to northwest are expected to gust through the area at 15 to 20 miles per hour today.

A mid and high level moisture system moving southwest from the Pacific Ocean was blamed for the inkling of rain Lubbock saw Sunday afternoon, according to a National Weather Service spokesman.

Relief may be in sight this week, however, as a warming trend is expected to elevate mercury readings to the mid-70s in the northern portions of the Lone Star State by Friday.

1978 Maid Of Cotton Barely Made Pageant

By KAY BELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

AS BECKY BAILEY calmly thanked her parents for their support and the judges for awarding her the 1978 South Plains Maid of Cotton title Saturday night, one never would have suspected that this poised Texas Tech University coed almost didn't make it into the pageant.

"I wasn't planning to enter because I didn't think I had a chance," Miss Bailey said. "But my dear, sweet grandmother called the Chamber of Commerce and told them about me and had them send me an application."

But even after she received the application, Miss Bailey encountered another obstacle on her road to the crown. "I didn't turn in the application until the last day," Miss Bailey said with a laugh. "And then when I went to the office the next day for the preliminaries, they had lost my application. I had to run home and fill out another one."

In the end, however, the annual contest went her way. And Mrs. Grace Anderson's confidence in her granddaughter was shared by the judges as they chose Miss Bailey to represent the South Plains in the National Maid of Cotton Contest.

In less than 24 hours after receiving the title, Miss Bailey had already begun the multitude of preparation for the national contest held the last week in December in Memphis, Tenn.

She must be fitted with her all-cotton wardrobe which she will wear at the national competition, meet with beauty and fashion consultants and be tutored in the many facets of the cotton industry by Terry Stark, manager of the agricultural division of the Chamber of Commerce.

Excited About Duties

"I'm so excited about it all," Miss Bailey said. "I'm going to learn every phase of the cotton industry, from the seed to the finished products."

Miss Bailey feels this new information will make it easier for her to relate to the residents of the South Plains since everyone's life

DELAY RECOMMENDED

LONDON (AP) — The British government may delay Yale University from taking home a Gainsborough portrait for which the American school paid a record $787,000. A delay might allow the portrait to remain in Britain.

Mild Winter Predicted As Gas Shortage Nears

NEW YORK — Milder weather than last year's and sufficient supplies of residential heating fuels are predicted for the coming winter, but federal officials warn that it is only a temporary respite from the chilly effects of the energy crisis.

Natural gas shortages, which closed thousands of factories and schools last winter, helped persuade many business leaders and homeowners — especialy in the Midwest — to improve insulation, institute other conservation measures or seek alternate fuel sources.

For the few companies that made no preparations, the Department of Energy says, even a normal winter might provoke natural gas curtailments and factory shutdowns in some areas, principally California and the Southwest, all of the South and most of the Midwest and Middle Atlantic states.

Officials warn also that additional progress must be made if the country is to avoid drastic fuel shortages in the future.

Worldwide natural gas production has peaked, there won't always be such large inventories of heating oil, and coal production can't possibly meet the Carter administration's goals, industry and government experts say.

"We better get our house in order on the energy crisis," said Carla Hills, former secretary of Housing and Urban Development and current director of the Alliance to Save Energy, a non-partisan effort to promote energy conservation. "... The emergency is not tomorrow, it is a bit further down the road."

Since 1974, natural gas production has been on the decline, but the number of customers is still increasing — by one per cent in the first quarter of this year alone, says the American Gas Association.

Industry officials estimate that the same amount of gas produced last year, about 20 trillion cubic feet, will be produced this year. But by 1980, natural gas production is expected by industry and government analysts to be down to about 18.6 trillion cubic feet.

Meanwhile, the nation's supply of heating oil was at 241.8 million barrels late last month, well ahead of the 229.1 million barrels in inventory at this time last year.

The large amounts of heating oil on hand are attributed to the short-term oil glut caused in part by heavy industry purchases of foreign oil in advance of an anticipated price increase. Industry officials expect the glut to be over within a year.

Government experts believe that all of the currently proven reserves of natural gas will be produced by 1990 and all of the proven reserves of petroleum will be produced by 1985. From those years on, the nation will be depending on reserves that are only guessed at today.

America 's most abundant energy resource is coal, of which 665 million tons were produced last year. The most conservative estimate puts the amount of recoverable coal in the U.S., under current economic conditions, at 250 billion tons, enough coal for 500 years at today's consumption rate.

President Carter has called for the doubling of U.S. coal production by 1985, but many critics — including the General Accounting Office — believe that goal is unobtainable because of labor problems, anti-pollution regulations that restrict production, and the big capital investment that will be needed.

Many Americans worry about a repeat of last year's frigid winter and heavy snows, but government and private forecasters say they shouldn't.

"The odds are about 30-1 against a recurrence of the extreme weather we had last winter," said Joe Harrison, a forecaster the National Weather Service. However, he predicted a colder-than-normal winter for the Northeast and Midwest, and a milder-than-normal winter for the Southwest.

Mike Dore, a forecaster for the private National Weather Corp. of Newark, N.J., agreed with Harrison.

"Most of us are saying it will be colder than normal, but not extreme, east of the Rockies," he said.

Earlier this year, industry and government officials were predicting possible winter shortages of natural gas for homeowners as well as industry, even if the weather were not as severe as last year.

Several weeks ago, however, they began changing their minds. Federal Energy Administration officials attributed the improved outlook to the estimate of the same gas production in 1977 as in 1976, increased conservation activities — especially better insulation — and the switching of some large industrial users to other fuels for heat and power, chiefly oil and coal. All of that should offset the over-all increase in the number of natural gas customers, they said.

According to the Business Roundtable, an association of 180 major U.S. corporations, 40 trade associations report regularly to the federal government about their progress on conservation. Individual firms have reported energy savings between 1972 and 1976 of up to 28 per cent, with most in the 10-15 per cent range, the group said.

Thousands of companies, forced to close for a while last winter due to natural gas curtailments and warned of more shortage this year, have reported switching to other fuels or buying backup equipment that uses other fuels.

Most of the firms are switching to oil, in large supply because of that short-term glut, or to coal, favored by the Carter Administration. But many companies are looking at propane, the most common liquefied petroleum gas.

"Propane can play a limited but crucial role in aiding industrial facilities which may experience natural gas curtailments ...," said Mark Anton. president of a propane gas company and chairman of the FEA's LP-Gas Advisory Committee.

Earlier this year, for example, International Harvester used $500,000 of propane as a natural gas substitute for its truck plant in Fort Wayne, Ind. All three major automobile manufacturers are using propane to some extent, although American industry as a whole uses more than 10 times as much natural gas as propane.

Industries and homeowners, meanwhile are bombarding contractors with requests to install or improve insulation.

The cost of properly insulating a home can range upwards of $1,000, depending on the size of athe house, where it is located and how much insulation it already has. The government says there are 40 million single-family homes in the U.S. that are wasting energy because of inadequate insulation.

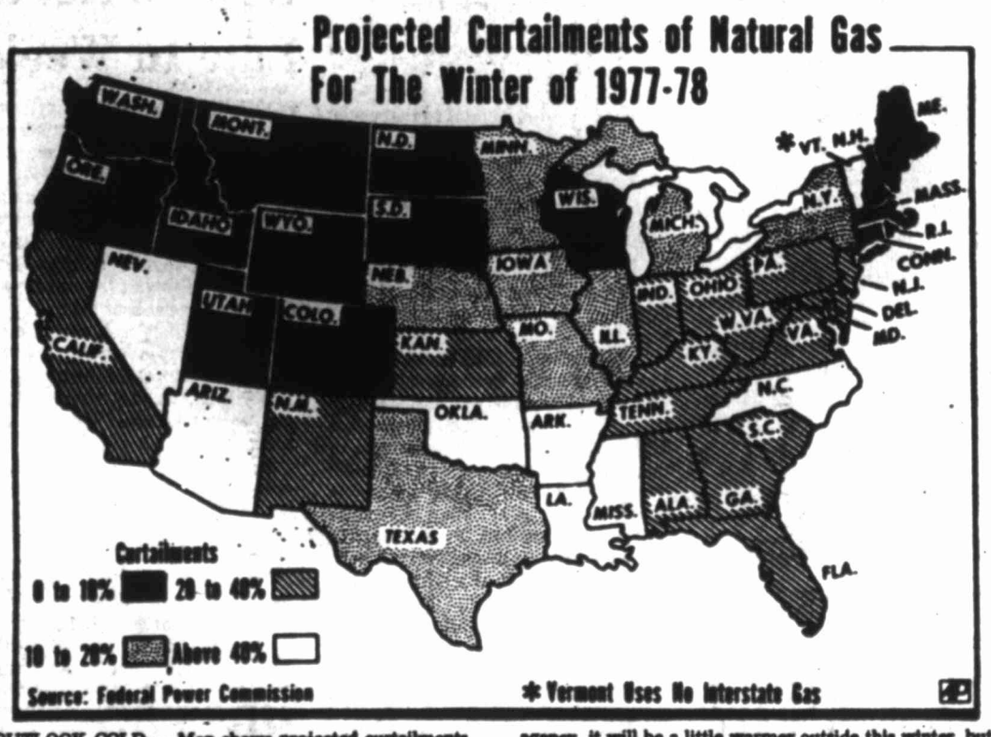
"We're being flooded," said Joe Koach, executive vice president of the National Insulation Contractors Assn., a group representing contractors who supply insulation for industry.

"We're all experiencing material shortages," Koach said. "Most of our members are getting only 85 per cent of last year's supplies. We don't think it is going to loosen up ... for a number of years."

Representatives of residential-insulation manufacturers said there is a three-month backlog of orders.

However, with most heating fuels in good supply and with predictions of milder weather, the outlook for the winter of 1977-78 is encouraging. That could contribute to the severity of the energy crisis in years to come, Mrs. Hills said.

"People are liable to get lulled into a false sense of security," she said. "... It might be partly our fault. When we call it a crisis or an emergency, that has a sort of presence about it. People waited and waited, and the shoe didn't drop. But it's going to, and it's going to drop hard.



OUTLOOK COLD — Map shows projected curtailments of natural gas by states this winter, according to figures of the Federal Power Commission. According to the agency, it will be a little warmer outside this winter, but a little cooler inside homes using natural gas for heat. (AP Wirephoto)

Deregulation Survives Filibuster

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd says his nose — and his knuckles — are skinned again, but if he had to do it over, he'd still crush the Senate filibuster against natural gas price deregulation.

"I had no choice," he said during the weekend. "I had tried everything else, and everything else had failed."

"I had to make the decision to save the bill."

The West Virginia Democrat said he opposes deregulation, but failure to stop the filibuster last Monday would have killed the bill and probably President Carter's national energy program as well.

After 13 days, he said the Senate was in "a bad mood" and would have voted to send the bill back to committee if Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., had moved to recommit it as he intended. "That would have killed the bill," Byrd said.

What Byrd did was invite Vice President Walter Mondale to perform his constitutional role as president of the Senate. In unprecedented rulings, Mondale threw out delaying amendments, declaring them "dilatory."

The leaders of the filibuster, Sens. James Abourezk, D-S.D., and Howard Metzenbaum, DOhio, and many of their supporters were left defeated and angry. They believed the administration was supporting their effort to prevent a substitute bill calling for deregulation of gas prices.

Mexican Leader Visits Spain's King

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo held a working breakfast Sunday with Premier Adolfo Suarez and a private lunch with King Juan Carlos and received the keys to city.

The events followed a royal banquet Saturday night at which socialist leader Felipe Gonzales and Communist chief Santiago Carrillo were among the 140 guests.

Raising his glass at the banquet, Lopez Portillo toasted Mexico and Spain and declared it "an historic privilege" to be the first incumbent Mexican president to visit Spain.

'1978 Winter Like 1977' Forecast In New Almanac

DUBLIN, N.H. (AP) — Abe Weatherwise, whose forecast of Western drought and Eastern blizzards were dead accurate for 1977, predicts a hard winter for the Northeast and occasional spells of cold, much snow and a late spring for the rest of the nation in the coming year.

The 186th edition of the Old Farmer's Almanac, released Sunday, also says drought in the Great Plains will continue but will be somewhat alleviated in the Far West by rain in November and January.

Predictions in the almanac, first distributed in 1792 by Robert B. Thomas, are made by a team of researchers under Abe's pseudonym. The book was first published to help farmers prepare for snowstorms, drought and other disasters, but nostalgia and a back-to-nature trend throughout the country have widened its circulation in recent years.

The newest forecast bodes ill for the country's energy crisis, despite the previously announced opinions of government and private forecasters that the coming winter will be relatively mild.

"The odds are about 30-1 against a recurrence of the extreme weather we had last winter," according to National Weather Service forecaster Joe Harrison. But he predicted a colder-than-normal winter for the Northeast and Midwest and a milder-than-normal winter for the Southwest.

The almanac's forecast for the Northeast: "Almost continuous subnormal temperatures and frequent snows from mid-January to mid-February, with a sub-zero spell following a major snowstorm near the end of January. This will gladden the hearts of ski-area operators but press the heating fuel supply."

A blizzard is predicted in New York and New Jersey at the end of January, a hot dry summer for most of the country, a wet spring for the South, frosts for Florida in December, a cool June for the Great Plains and a warmer-than-average winter for the Far West.

Judson Hale, editor of the venerable collection of trivia, planting tables, animal gestation charts, zodiac secrets and 16 regional weather forecasts, says he does not think the almanac has been merely lucky with its weather forecasts.

"If you consider weather haphazard, there is no point in going any further. There is a great order to the universe and it does not make sense that any part of it would be haphazard," Hale said.

Hale publishes the almanac from an 18th century house and two connecting barns in Dublin, near the Massachusetts border.

Early weather predictions were made using a complicated mathematical formula conceived by Thomas. But the almanac now employs a scientist formerly with the National Aeronautic and Space Administration who bases predictions on observations of spots on the sun.

Hale says the almanac's weather predictions had to be set in April to meet deadlines for the 3.5 million copies printed this year.

"And don't think making weather predictions 14 months in advance is easy. It's as if you threw a pail of black paint on a white wall, and before you did it you circled with a crayon on the wall where every drop would land," he said.

Last year, an unlucky employe who miscalculated the first day of spring was fired for his transgression.

The heart of the almanac is still the astrologial charts and 32 pages of elaborate weather tables which have been predicting weather up to a year in advance since 1792 with a claim of 75-80 per cent accuracy.

The almanac's weather forecasting techniques have yet to be taken seriously by professional meteorologists, but after the huge success of last year's forecast, Hale says he is a believer.

"We don't say this will definitely be the weather forecast," he said. "I came here as a skeptic 19 years ago, but now I see how the great pulse of the universe moves in precise fashion according to cycles."

Monk First Mideast Saint Canonized By Catholic Church

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Sharbel Makhlouf, a 19th Century Maronite monk to whom Lebanese Christians and Moslems pray for miraculous cures, was canonized as a Roman Catholic saint Sunday. Pope Paul VI called on him to "heal the wounds" of Lebanon's civil war.

St. Sharbel is the first saint from the Middle East to be canonized by the Catholic church since Popes began to proclaim saints in 973.

His tomb at Lebanon's Monastery of St. Maron de Annaya, where he spent the last 23 years of his life, has drawn pilgrims for decades. Hundreds of them are said to have been cured of ailments, including about 40 Moslems, some of whom then converted to Christianity.

Pope Paul prayed to St. Sharbel at the canonization mass to help Lebanon "overcome its present difficulties and heal the wounds still opened in the country" by the 1975-76 civil war between leftist Moslems and rightist Maronite Christians.

He said the new saint "was a paradoxical partisan of peace because he searched for it beyond the world, only through God in the summit of the mountain where he lived. His light has been shining with a growing brightness for all Christians."

A six-member Lebanese government delegation including former Christian President Charles Helou and four Moslems attended the mass at St. Peter's Basilica along with 21 members of Lebanon's parliament.

A ceremony was held at the same time at the monastery in Annaya, 40 miles northeast of Beirut. The father superior, Boulos Daher, reported five miracles in the area the night before, including a Moslem boy cured of paralysis from the waist down.

The Vatican has confirmed three miracles of the hundreds attributed to St. Sharbel. It says a woman recovered from throat cancer in 1966, a Roman Catholic nun was cured of a stomach ulcer in 1950 and a blacksmith regained his sight that same year — all after praying to him.

The Maronites are Christian Arabs who broke with the Roman Catholic church in the 7th century and returned to it five centuries later. Like other Eastern rites, they have proclaimed their own saints, but St. Sharbel was the first to be canonized by the Vatican.

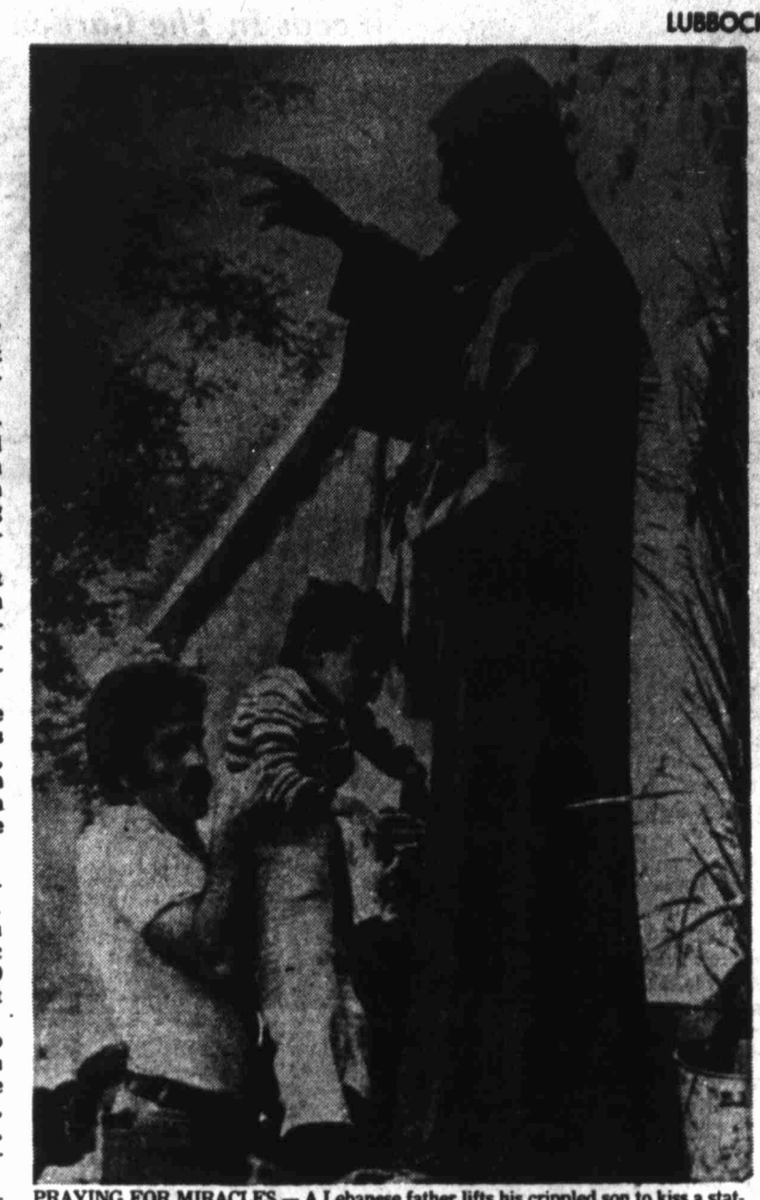
He was born at Beqa Kafra in 1828, entered the Monastery of Our Lady of Mayfoud 23 years later and was ordained a priest. He died at age 70 after spending his last years at Annaya as a hermit.

Mayberry Visits Dentist After Game

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Slugger John Mayberry of the Kansas City Royals had a troublesome tooth extracted following Saturday's 6-4 loss to the New York 1yankees in the fourth game of the American League playoffs.

Mayberry struck out twice and dropped an easy pop fly before being lifted midway through the game by Manager Whitey Herzog, who explained that the first baseman had been suffering from a toothache and became sick during the game.

Mayberry was expected to be available for today's decisive fifth game of the playoffs.



PRAYING FOR MIRACLES — A Lebanese father lifts his crippled son to kiss a statue of Sharbel Makhlouf, a 19th-Century Maronite monk to whom Lebanese Christians and Moslems alike pray for miraculous cures, in Annaya, Mount Lebanon. U.S. Peace Efforts In Mideast Aired

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — With a scotch-and-water tinkling in the glass in front of him, the American official sat in a half-deserted cafe, reconstructing for a small group of reporters one of the most intensive periods in recent American diplomatic history.

The high offical agreed to speak as openly as he could, on the condition that he not be identifed. But it can be assumed that the reporters would have not gathered except for a most senior American diplomat.

The official was central in the American effort to lay the groundwork of a Geneva conference on the Middle East — bargaining that began in the early days of President Carter's administration and moved closer toward completion in the last week, although there were numerous nearcollapses along the way.

The process started, he said, last February in a trip to the Middle East when the American team, led by Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, traveled to the Middle East to explore the various solutions.

At about this time, he explained, it was decided to establish an artificial deadline: Fall of 1977, which can be interpreted liberally to mean the first day of winter, Dec. 21.

During a second Vance trip, in August, both sides put forward their specific ideas, and the Americans decided that all the foreign ministers would gather in New York during the U.N. General Assembly to hammer out the ideas.

One incidental benefit of the process was that it gave the United Nations, which acted as kind of a neutral umbrella for the talks, a new importance. Although the U.N. was not directly involved in the talks, it supplied the arena for the contacts, something no other organization could do.

The big breakthrough, said the official, came in New York when the Israelis and the Arabs agreed on the basic format for Geneva: the Israelis facing one single Arab delegation, which would include Palestinian representations.

Which Palestinians will be the representatives is still to be determined, but the official considered that to be a lesser problem.

American mediators took a calculated risk when they joined with the Soviets last Saturday in a statement — it was suggested by the Americans and drafted by the Russians — that laid out some guidelines for a Geneva conference.

The Israelis — reacting sharply to the phrase "legitimate rights" for the Palestinians — rejected the statement. The Israeli lobby in the United States was cranked up to a high state of alarm in Washington and New York, where Carter was addressing the United Nations.

The American official said some reaction was expected, but not such an overreaction, and he ruefully admitted it was a tactical error not to have given Israel's supporters on Capitol Hill advance warning. But, the official said, the Soviets were going to enter the situation one way or the other. "We thought it would be better to have it happen in a positive way," he said.

"The big step was when all sides accepted the unified Arab delegation, because that accepted the Palestinian voice at the conference," the official said.

Two or three weeks earlier some Israelis had said there could never be such a presence at Geneva.

The exact working rules for the Palestinians have yet to be worked out, the official said, but the agenda for the conference and the working procedures, will be laid out in the next couple of weeks.

And what then?

The official said a Geneva conference would go on for months, with the actual negotiations taking place in committees which would deal with specific problems.

CD Funds--Cooperation Key

DOES A SEGMENT of the Lubbock community feel that the government owes it everything from a free lunch and breakfast to repair and upkeep of a private home?

Have we reached the point where "federal funds" conjure up a picture of personal handouts reaching into areas never before touched?

And has the more conservative, progressive and cooperative leadership of the Mexican-American community of Lubbock been supplanted by a more militant leadership which feels that "demand" is a better word than cooperation?

THOSE ARE legitimate questions, we feel, in view of the recent series of neighborhood meetings in which use of federal Community Development funds has been discussed.

All citizens—and particularly the responsible ones of the Mexican-American sector—have a major stake in the answers to the questions.

In the last of the neighborhood sessions, harsh criticism of the Lubbock City Council was coupled with demands that a goodly portion of $4.5 million in fourth-year Community Development funds be spent on upgrading private homes in eastern, northern and northwestern sections of the city.

"IT'S THE number one and our only priority," stated a spokesman for one neighborhood group.

The feeling, according to those who spoke and appeared in support, at the latest meetings, seems to be that it is the sole responsibility of the city to go into various sections of town, any town, and upgrade, without reservation, private dwellings.

We will not argue the point but that numerous homes in the affected areas need rehabilitation. In some instances, the answer is destruction and replacement.

But we take issue with the idea that other taxpayers' monies—federal or local—should arbitrarily be assigned to upgrading a private dwelling without repayment or some way of recovering said funds to be used again, if that is the purpose to which they are to be put.

UNLESS WE ARE to accept the thesis, and apparently there are more than a few who do, that it is the government's function to keep us in food, clothing and shelter, then such socialistic concepts are still alien to the American way of life as we understand it.

It should come as no shock to members of the Mexican-American community, or anyone else for that matter, that many of those citizens who supplied their money for those Community Development funds in the first place may have struggled long years—and fixed up their own homes at their own expense—in the process of earning enough to help others.

It should not offend anyone to be asked to repay legitimate loans, at low or no interest, used to fix up homes in order that others may in turn fix up theirs.

SOMEWHERE, WE seem to have gotten off the track in what we owe ourselves and what the government owes us.

And, for whatever it is worth, the more Uncle Sam and federal agencies get involved in handing out money, the more someone in Washington or at City Hall will expect to run the rest of our lives.

Lubbock has a long history of good race relations and of taking care of its own. It was the Mexican-American community and adequate housing that took top priority after the Lubbock Tornado.

LUBBOCK'S RECORD goes far back of that, however. And continues to this day.

Lubbock citizens—all citizens, not just Mexican-Americans or blacks—have elected a black woman and a Mexican-American to the school board, and a Mexican-American to the State Legislature.

This was done despite the fact the Anglo vote is still by far the dominant one, something those who make "demands" and pose threats of political reprisal seem to overlook.

In turn, the Mexican-American and Black community of Lubbock, under sound, progressive leadership of the past, has contributed much to the business, educational and cultural life of the community and in turn has received much.

In brief, the solution to our problems is not in polarizing differences, but in working them out. Too, we feel that if the nation continues to slip into the socialistic "cradle to grave" caretaker form of government espoused by some today, then all of us, Anglo, Mexican-American, Black—all of us—will in turn be enslaved.

That, in the final analysis is what is at stake. That, and a spirit of community cooperation which has marked Lubbock's history, for all citizens, since its inception.

Felon Under Glass

A NEW type of glass which some penologists view as "less brutal and threatening" to inmates than the traditional metal prison bars and screens was shown to an American Correctional Association convention in Milwaukee a few weeks ago.

The glass, a sandwich of four layers of glass and three of a special plastic material, is so strong its developer offered $1,000 to anyone who could get to it by breaking its imprisoning glass cell with a baseball bat. At the end of the meeting, the glass, surrounded by a number of broken bats, was still intact.

As a poet who presumably knew what he was talking about said long ago, stone walls do not a prison make nor iron bars a cage.

But if it's really true that picture windows can have a beneficial psychological effect on criminals by eliminating the depressing zoo aspect of prisons, we'd be for it.

We might even be tempted to say: "Here's

M. STANTON EVANS:

Good-Bye To Openness In Carter Administration

WASHINGTON—Jimmy Carter's professed desire for "openness" in public dialogue has been tested anew in the matter of Rhodesia, and once again found wanting.

Not long ago, a group of moderate black political leaders from Rhodesia were scheduled to visit the United States.

These leaders, headed by Sen. Chief Jeremiah Chirau, were supposed to address a luncheon meeting in the nation's capital, then hold a press conference to state their views on the Rhodesian situation.

The whole affair had to be canceled, however, because the U.S. State Department refused to grant visas to Chief Chirau and his party.

WHAT MAKES THE episode intriguing is the fact that Chirau and his group are indigenous black leaders in Rhodesia who favor majority rule, but adamantly oppose the guerrilla forces attacking the country from outside its borders.

The presence of Chief Chirau in the United States, moreover, might have focused attention on some little noted facets of the Rhodesian crisis:

For example, the fact that the so-called ZAPU-ZANU forces to whom we have geared our policy have doubtful claims to popular backing;

That they are staging an armed invasion of the country, equipped with Soviet and other Communist weapons;

That many indigenous blacks in Rhodesia want nothing to do with Marxist terror of which, indeed, they are the most frequent victims.

CHIEF CHIRAU IS president of the Council of Chiefs in Rhodesia and also head of the Zimbabwe United People's Organization, a group promoting black majority rule.

He claims to represent from 60 to 80 per cent of the Rhodesian black population, and while such claims are always open to question the prevalence of the tribal system in Rhodesia and his place of eminence in that system make his statements in this regard seem plausible.

Obviously, having such a man on American soil could prove a severe embarrassment to the African policy concocted by Carter and Andrew Young.

The notion that we shall somehow achieve "majority rule" by dealing with the ZAPU-ZANU terrorists is strongly contested by Chief Chirau.

STATE DEPARTMENT spokesman Richard Moose blandly asserts that the denial of visas to Chirau & Co. was not "political"—simply a matter of enforcing the total UN boycott of the Ian Smith regime.

But Sen. Chief Chirau is not a member of the Smith government (though he was a cabinet member in the past).

Moreover, it is noteworthy that other nations such as West Germany and Great Britain have admitted Chirau to their shores, on the apparent premise that UN dictates do not entirely supersede free speech. It remained for the Carter regime to make the opposite determination.

This view of the matter gains additional credence from the announced intent of the Carter government to cut off funding for the Rhodesian Information office in Washington, thereby effectively throttling this facility and denying U.S. citizens access to alternative views about the fighting in Southern Africa.

The crackdown on Chief Chirau is in exactly similar vein: Americans are to hear the official "third world" line about Rhodesia, and nothing more. So much for "openness" in Jimmy Carter's Washington.

Uninformed Voters, Labor Unions To Blame, He Says

Editor, Avalanche-Journal:

In your Oct. 2, 1977, editorial, "Public Pay—Squeeze Play," you are critical of state and federal salary levels.

Many people seem to have the idea that state and federal jobs are "cushy" plums and taxpayer rip-offs. When our elected officials establish new agencies, programs and institutions that are incredibly complex, demanding unique organization and staff expertise, few complain—because everyone wants his share of the federal and state pie.

But when qualified persons are hired to implement these programs, persons who are willing to withstand the daily frustrations of trying to make sense of bureaucratic nonsense, everyone resents the fact that these person are paid salaries in keeping with the educations and backgrounds required for such jobs. In such jobs in Lubbock, with two college degrees, one most likely starts at a salary much less than that of a bricklayer and ends his career much poorer than a plumber.

Labor unions—not government agencies—have caused inflation in every sector of our economy.

Yes, there are too many government agencies and too much waste. But the main problem is never addressed. We should elect representatives to Austin and Washington who believe in less centralized government and less regulation and there will be fewer federal and state salaries to pay.

People aren't clamoring to get public jobs because few have the needed qualifications, and those who do are not willing to forsake the goals-oriented satisfaction that is gained in private business in order to become an anonymous—but oft-chided cog in the "mean-machine." Nobody appreciates a good job done by a bureaucrat; nobody writes nice letters or gives merit raises to bureaucrats.

Elected officials and labor unions have joined hands to "equalize" this country and all this equality ends right here in Lubbock, Texas, in the hands of state and federal employes.

Mary Rooker, Lubbock.

The Brighter Side

Peering at the infant through the nursery window, he spotted the name-band on her wrist and exclaimed, "Look! She's still got her price tag on!"

First diner: "If my steak were any more rare, it would be extinct."

An advertising exec says he has just finished writing "Routes"—about a man spending his whole life trying to find the highway to St. Louis.

Q. "Wasn't it Mark Twain who first said, 'Familiarity breeds contempt'?"

A. No, Aesop gets earliest credit for that one. Twain said, "Familiarity breeds contempt—and children."

Remembering Watergate and Vietnam and Teapot Dome and whatever, is it any wonder Americans live in the present, tense.

Am sure you know that serendipity is what you call it when you find some sort of good fortune unexpectedly while looking for something else. These examples are a matter of record: A bank messenger in Oakland, Md., dropped a sackful of 9,000 pennies on the street and recovered 9,002.

Lightning struck a house in St. Louis, Mo., and the doorbell, which hadn't worked for a year, worked just fine thereafter. In Milwaukee, Wisc., a burglar was finally scared away from a home after opening a window that had been stuck tight for more than 15 years.

Lubbock Reader Sees Other Side On Public Worker Pay

Editor, Avalanche-Journal:

Your editorial on Sunday about Medical School employees transferring to the hospital district payroll was on target in regard to the way many federal and state agencies pay their workers, but it was wide of the mark to a considerable extent in another regard.

When you terminate the jobs of 100 people, you are going to force real sacrifice and hardship on many of them, even though you start them in a new job the next day. Let me illustrate what I mean.

Let us take one worker who has worked—as of Dec. 31, 1977, every day with little sick time. She has stored up sick leave against the day when she might have major surgery or a serious illness that would require a lot of time off the job. This stored sick leave would not cause her to lose income nor her job. As of Jan. 1, she will lose this sick leave time and if a major surgery or serious illness should occur soon then she would loose income and perhaps her job.

The second problem is stored "comp" time. She has worked many hours overtime when things were very busy and crowded. Tech does not pay overtime but does compensate for this overtime in time off in slack times. This accummulated time will be lost on Jan. 1, and thus she will not be paid for several long hours of real work.

The State retirement law states that after 10 years of work, the worker has a vested interest in retirement and may draw retirement for all the funds which have accumulated to his account. If he is fired, terminated, or quits before the 10 years have passed then he gets a refund of the money he put in and no retirement benefit. This really is a token amount. Now, our lady who will be terminated on Dec. 31 will lose her retirement by only six precious months.

Regardless of how much they have been paid and regardless of the fact that the benefits are too high, many of those 100 people will suffer severe loss as a result of this change. This is not fair treatment. It is little wonder that these 100 people have a strange feeling that those in power have a strong consideration for money and political procedure but no concern for 100 human beings who will be pawns in the trade off.

This is the common style of life today: Do whatever is necessary, expedient, popular, or fits the plan and forget that there are people involved.

Thank you for your interest in community affairs and for your watchful eye to a public interest. Thank you for your time.

Carl Hudson, Lubbock.

Friends of Library Have Kudos For Library Friends

Editor, Avalanche-Journal:

The Friends of the Library would like to take this opportunity to thank all of the media and the public for making our tenth annual book sale such a successful one.

The volume of books contributed was larger than ever and sales, at very low prices, surpassed expectations. We thank everyone who contributed to this worthy project.

As gifts, purchased with this money, are presented to the Library, they will be announced.

JAY HARRIS:

A World Apart...

CASABLANCA, MOROCCO—His name is Mustapha.

He is 58-years-old, and has been in the tourist-guide business for 21 years, he told us.

Educated in Casablanca, a devout Moslem, he obviously enjoys what he is doing. And in his position of contact, with visitors and those who play host, he is part of a rare middle class in this nation.

Nevertheless, Mustapha also represents much of the stolid acceptance and dreams which today beset many of those who live in the Third World.

As a man whose chore it is to see that visitors enjoy themselves and leave informed, entertained and happy, Mustapha does his job well.

HE IS A member of that elite group in all countries, particularly abroad, who make their living in opening doors and windows on another place, another time.

And as anyone who travels is aware, such a person can make or break a visit, even if one has the know-how and get-up-and-go to do it on one's own, which we often do.

Mustapha not only is a good guide, a storehouse of information and a man with a sense of humor, he is proud of the progress his nation has made in certain areas, and accepts the facts of life as lived under a monarchy.

Much of the life style of the average Moroccan, of course, is steeped in centuries-old custom and history, brought to this North African nation in ages past by the Berbers and Arabs. And before them, the Carthagenians, Romans and even the Vandals.

And as is the case in many tropical parts of the world, the overriding thought is that one need not hurry. "Make haste slowly..." And so be it.

CUSTOM AND thought do change, however.

And change is coming to Morocco, if not exemplified by the blue jeans which hang beside the traditional robes and veils, then in many other ways.

The streets of the cities are cluttered with small cars and hundreds of motorbikes. Younger women often are seen riding gaily along, in tight-fitting trousers and blouses.

Even marriage customs, which once decreed that parents arrange such things from start to finish, are crumbling. Today, Mustapha says, "the young get together, decide for themselves if they want one another," then "it is arranged."

The marriage itself is still a sacred happening, with many relatives and friends invited, sometimes 100 or more from each side of the family. And it is the man who pays.

IN A NATION which still frowns on blatant sex displays, hard liquor and too much show of affection in public, "it still counts to say the woman is a virgin," Mustapha intones.

As our bus rolled through the lush farmlands of eastern Morocco toward Fes, he also explained what happens if one desires a divorce, remarriage or gets caught playing musical beds.

Divorce is not only possible, but practiced. But, once divorced, according to our resident expert, one can not remarry the same person if twice divorced from him or her without first getting married to someone else, at least for a night. That's what the man said.

In olden times, adultery was punishable with 100 lashes across one's bare feet, an ordeal most did not survive. Today, the penalty, if pressed, can be a jail term or whatever local custom dictates.

IN ADDITION to these goodies, we also learned that Morocco's main commodity is phosphate, a major source of income.

And that the nation also exports dates, olives, cork, brass and silver goods, leather and wine. Tourism, as is the case in much of this part of the world, is one of the major industries.

We also learned that Arab women in many instances don't like to go to hospitals for fear they will get the wrong baby back. And that a Moroccan man may have up to four wives, six provided one is black, another brown. A King is entitled to a harem.

A trip to Mecca still rates as the journey of a lifetime to most Moslems and for those who make the trip there is a special salutation which forever after precedes their name.

MOROCCAN FOOD rates among the world's best, when prepared and served properly.

One dish in particular, known as couscous, or kush-kush, is especially appetizing and nourishing. A dinner all in one dish, it includes rice, beans, meat, various other vegetables and appropriate side dishes and drink. Moroccan wines are especially tasty.

Accomodations in the cities are more than adequate, with fine hotels, good food. But, to avoid the "tourist's plague" so common to many tropical countries, it is wise to buy bottled water.

Casablanca, Rabat, Fes, Tangier and Marrakesh are the major stopping off points, but rural areas offer a constantly changing panorama.

AS FOR THE people themselves, most are friendly, yet reserved.

The "hucksters" in the Casbahs carry the free enterprise system to its ultimate and then some. Bargaining is the name of the game.

Petty thievery is a profession in itself, and the Arab art of cunning and stretching a point is not unknown.

There is a compulsory educational system and in the cities, major inroads against illiteracy are being made. Birth control and women's lib are almost unheard of, and woman's place is where it has always been in the Arab world.

One day as we rode along, we asked Mustapha if he would like to leave all this and come to America. His simple but emotional answer: "Of course! Yes!" His homeland is worth a visit, regardless.

L.M. BOYD:

...Pass It On

Q. "Why don't ships use turn signals like cars do?"

A. It has been done. Twice, at least. A Dutch ship tried it first. Then in 1960, the U. S. Navy put huge arrow signals on the cargo vessel U. S. N. S. Golden Eagle. Each arrow had 28 100-watt bulbs in amber globes. They were mounted on the forward side of the flying bridge, visible to oncoming ships in a 120-degree arc. When the control switch in the wheelhouse was thrown, the appropriate arrow flashed for 30 seconds, or longer, if so set. Maybe it did little good, don't know. Why no ship since likewise has been so rigged is a mystery.

'Mighty Atom,' Greenstein, Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Joseph L. Greenstein, the 145-pound strongman who bit chains in half as vaudeville's "Mighty Atom," has died at the age of 84.

Greenstein, who had performed as recently as 1975, died Saturday at Kingsbrook Jewish Medical Center.

In his prime, besides chain-biting, Greenstein's act included pulling a 32-ton truck, holding back an airplane with his hair and bending steel bars over his body.

The 5-foot-4½-inch performer was listed in the Guinness Book of World Records for having the "world's strongest bite."

He was born in Poland and emigrated to the United States in 1911 after traveling through Eastern Europe and the Far East with a Russian wrestler.

Vandalism Hits West Lubbock; Burglars Plague Rest Of City

Damage in the thousands of dollars was inflicted on apartment dwellers in far West Lubbock, after vandals swept through at least one apartment complex early Sunday morning slashing at the tires of more than 60 vehicles.

Much of the damage was felt at the Frankford Square Apartments, 5802 24th St, where all but two cars in one parking lot were hit during the early morning raid.

Still other homeowners in various parts of the city reported substantial damage in reports too numerous to list.

Meanwhile, house and car burglars were disrupting the lives of citizens, while the break-in artists managed to cart away goods valued in tens of thousands of dollars.

At the largest such haul, burglars entered Tico Jean Lawrence's resident at 5431 Ave. H, sometime Saturday, making off with about $2,800 worth of goods.

Taken in the burglary were at least 15 turquoise rings, three other rings, including two with diamonds, a 35-mm camera, a television set and a coin collection. A one-gallon jar of pennies also was lifted by the thieves before the intruders made their get away, reports indicated.

Rayford Nichols of 2907 E. Baylor St., said he was out nearly $1,600 after burglars made off with 3 citizen band radios, four 8-track tape players, an AM/FM stereo and a watch worth $190. Nichols told police he believed three named suspects entered his home through a northeast bedroom window sometime Saturday.

In one of the strangest "armed" robberies of late, a 71-year-old Lubbock man told police he was robbed by a woman who bit his hand before fleeing with about $80 at 6:30 p.m. Saturday.

The victim told police he had advised his maid that a shotgun was missing from his home and the woman told him she might be able to help him get it back — for a price.

He and the woman reportedly drove to an east Lubbock location where they met with another woman who advised the man it would cost $15 to locate his shotgun.

As he reportedly "fingered" his wallet, the man told police the second woman grabbed his hand and bit it causing him to release his wallet and $80 with it. The woman reportedly then fled.

Larry Don Young of Dimmitt said someone took about $1,070 worth of tools and other items from his truck Friday or Saturday while it was parked in the 1600-block of 44th St.

Young said whoever broke into the cab of his truck made off with a CB radio, the tools, a tool box and an 8-track stereo unit.

James Rash of 1608 44th St. said the same burglars apparently broke in to his vehicle Saturday. The intruders reportedly snatched an attache case with specialized equipment valued at $300.

Yet another car burglary victim said he lost about $1,500 worth of merchandise sometime late Saturday or early Sunday.

Ishmael Garza Gutierrez of San Antonio said someone broke into his station wagon while he was playing with a band at a club near E. 4th Street and Redbud Avenue.

Gutierrez said burglars snatched six microphones, four cords, several textbooks and a brushed denim jacket, before leaving.

A 12-year-old Lubbock youth, who told officers he had had some trouble with a child at school, said he was shot with a BB-gun about 9:15 p.m. Saturday in the 2700-block of 7th Street. The youngster apparently was not injured seriously.

Cause Of Fatal Snyder Fire Still Undetermined

SNYDER (Special) — The president of a Snyder construction firm said Sunday he still hasn't determined what touched off a fire Saturday in a salt water storage tank in Kent County that left one man dead and two others severely burned.

Arrow Construction Company president Rod Waller said he believes the fire which erupted in the 16-by-16 tank was the result of gas igniting, but he indicated there is no way of knowing the exact cause.

The fire, which broke out inside the tank about noon Saturday, killed Roger Biddle, 22, who had been with the firm about two years, according to Waller.

The tank is located in Kent County, about 15 miles west of Jayton, said chief deputy Olen Cheyne of the sheriff's department.

Jerry Hill, 29, was in the tank with Biddle when the fire erupted. Hill was listed in critical condition late Sunday in the Burn Center at Dallas Parkland Hospital with burns over 93 per cent of his body.

Hermelondo Aguirre, 18, a helper who was standing in the entrance to the tank when the fire broke out, was listed in serious condition at the Dallas hospital.

Both Hill and Aguirre were rushed on a 55-mile emergency trip to Cogdell Memorial Hospital here in an employe's car following the fire. Both men later were transferred to Parkland Hospital.

Services for the Snyder native will be at 2 p.m. today in Faith Baptist Church here with the Rev. Buck Hatfield, pastor, officiating.

Burial will be in Hillside Memorial Gardens under the direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Biddle of Snyder; three sisters, Barbara Biddle and Janie Gaddis, both of Snyder, and Sue Allison of Odessa; his grandfather, Floyd Biddle of Sweetwater; and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Roberts of Fulton, Miss.

Linguists Struggle For Plain English In U.S. Courtrooms

By BECKY O'MALLEY
Pacific News Service

Imagine yourself a member of a jury, having sat through a long and complex criminal trial. The end is near, and the judge reads his instructions to the jury:

"You must not consider as evidence any statement of counsel made during the trial; however, if counsel for the parties have stipulated to any fact, or any fact has been admitted by counsel, you will regard that fact as being conclusively proved as to the party or parties making the stipulation or admission."

If you are like most American jurors, you haven't the faintest notion what he's talking about.

What the instruction really boils down to is: "Ordinarily, any statement made by the lawyers in this case is not evidence. However, if all the lawyers agree that some particular thing is true, you must accept it as the truth.

The latter, matter-of-fact statement is a revision of a common jury instruction written by Veda and Robert Charrow, a team of linguistic and legal researchers who have set out to turn legalese into plain English.

Their work on jury instructions is part of a larger project conducted at the Arlington, Va., Center for Applied Linguistics to study the effect of bureaucratese on communication failures in day-to-day life.

After testing a group of jurors on their understanding of standard, routine jury instructions, the Charrows concluded that the vast majority of jurors are probably much more baffled after the instruction than before.

In a short and uncomplicated trial, says Veda Charrow, a jury may hear 20 separate instructions, each up to 100 words long. In a more complex trial they might have to sit through six straight hours of instructions.

To make matters worse, jurors cannot have a written copy of the instructions, but must rely on what they can understand and remember from listening to one reading by the judge.

This imposes a "tremendous memory load" on jurors, say the Charrows. Even if they can understand the instructions, they probably can't remember them.

In testing the jurors, the Charrows used relatively short and frequently used instructions drawn from the list of California Bar Approved Jury Instructions. The jurors, who had been called for an actual case but had not yet done their stint in the courtroom, were asked to explain the instructions in their own words — thus enabling the researchers to detect what the jurors failed to understand.

For example, one of the most common and important instructions has to do with informing the jury that it must decide what really happened in the case it is considering, and that it must apply the law as the judge explains it.

The California Bar Approved Instruction reads:

"As jurors it is your exclusive duty to decide all questions of fact submitted to you and for that purpose to determine the effect and value of the evidence."

Yet even with this relatively simple instructions, 57 percent of the tested jurors couldn't even attempt to explain "exclusive duty," and another 29 percent tried and got it wrong. Ninety-one percent of the jurors omitted any mention of their duty's being to decide all questions of fact, which is traditionally considered the single most important job of a juror.

Wellman Girl Crowned At Harvest Fete

A-J Correspondent

BROWNFIELD — Before an estimated crowd of 1,000 people, Tammy McKenzie, 17, of Wellman was crowned Harvest Festival Queen Saturday night at the amphitheater in Coleman Park here.

Miss McKenzie, sponsored by the Cotton Boosters, won a $600 scholarship and trophy. She was crowned by last year's queen, Tammy Bailey.

First runner-up was Ann Anderson, 17, of Brownfield. The Jaycee-sponsored contestant won a $400 scholarship and trophy.

Tracy Jones, 17, of Brownfield, was crowned second runner-up and will receive a $300 scholarship in addition to her trophy. She was sponsored by the Rotary Club.

Other candidates, each of whom won a $200 scholarship, and their sponsors include Verr Dean Collier, Optimists; Gayla Moss, Noon Lions; Kelly Strickland, Kiwanis; Donna Swaringen, Evening Lions; and Rhonda Hansard, Demolays.

Paul Turner of Brownfield won the grand prize of a trip to Hawaii. Co-chairmen Dick Fletcher and Glenda Cameron drew for the winners.

Mabra Trial Jury Selection Continuing

Jury selection was to continue today in the David Mabra capital murder trial, with attorneys still seeking two jurors to round out the panel.

Two jurors were chosen during an all-day session Saturday, bringing the number of persons seated thus far to 10.

Mabra, 20, of Amarillo, is accused of the Oct. 21, 1975, shotgun slaying of convenience store clerk Edith Whitfield. The site of the alleged crime is Amarillo, but Mabra's trial was moved to Judge John McFall's 237th District Court here after a co-defendant received the death penalty from an Amarillo jury.

If Mabra is convicted of the capital charge, jurors will assess either the death penalty or life imprisonment, the only punishment options for capital murder.

Each side is allowed 15 peremptory challenges, or strikes of perspective jurors for no stated reasons. Through Saturday, the defense had used 10 such strikes and the state had used 7.

Begin Goes Home After Hospital Stay

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin has recovered from an inflammation of the membrane around his heart but will have to stay at home for several days, doctors said Sunday.

"The prime minister will chair the cabinet session Tuesday," a spokesman said, referring to the meeting that will decide Israel's acceptance or rejection of a U.S. working paper for renewing peace talks at Geneva.

Aside from that, the spokesman said Bagin will have to rest at his home in Jerusalem according to doctors orders "for several days and refrain from any other activites in these days."

The 64-year-old premier was hospitalized 10 days ago for exhaustion and was later diagnosed to be suffering from pericarditis, or inflammation of the membrane around the heart.

The disease usually follows heart attacks such as the one Begin suffered in March.

He was first hospitalized for treatment of pericarditis shortly after his Likud bloc won the May 17 election and doctors blamed overexertion for the attack.

SMALL TROOPERS — "A trooper had to weigh between 130 and 150 pounds to be in the cavalry," said Clayton Bedell, as he explained the uniform he was wearing. Bedell, a Sul Ross State University sophomore from Marfa, works at the Fort Davis National Historic Site.

Bugle Calls, Commands Still Heard In Fort Davis

BY JEFF W. HENDERSON
A-J Correspondent

A soft, cool breeze swept down cnto the grassy plain from across Sleeping Lion Mountain. The gentle wind rifled through our clothes, and it nudged the huge flag which was haning limply from a pol to our right.

The loud, metallic sound of a bugle pierced the air, sounding "Assembly and Adjutant's Call."

With clanking gear, the troopers moved to their desinated positions and came to attention.

"Guides, post," shoulted the Adjutant to the assembled men. "Bring your companies to parade rest."

The sounds were there; yet, that was all. We were standing on the eastern edge of the parade ground of the Fort Davis National Historic Site out in West Texas.

There had been no soldiers stationed at the fort since the post was officially abandoned in June 1891. But the sounds are still there, echoing off the cliffs of the rugged mountains which form the western boundary of the old post.

The vision of the troopers standing "Retreat" jumped about in our minds' eyes. And, when the regimental band struck up "Hail Columbia" and began marching the full length of the assembled troops, the mental image settled in. It was hard not to imagine the soldiers out there.

The simulated sounds came from a stereo system mounted in one of the houses of Officers Row. It was recorded by the National Park Service at Fort Sill, Okla., using the 77th and 97th Army Bands.

And, the sound system was on hand in 1965 when Fort Davis was officially dedicated by Lady Bird Johnson — the former "first lady."

The taped program lasts 15 minutes. It is a replica of a retreat held the first week of August 1875 when word was received of the death of former President Andrew Johnson. The "Orders of Mourning" are read to imaginary troops today as they were to real ones over 100 years ago.

Besides the sounds men, animals and equipment make in a military formation, the tape includes the music "Hail Columbia," "The Young Recruit," "Garryowne" and "The Star Spangled Banner."

"The Young Recruit" and "Garryown" were both popular marching tunes in the late 1800s. On the tape, "The Young Recruit" is played at a march cadence of 110 beats per minutes, while "Garryowen" was played at double time — 165 beats per minute.

The arrangment of the national anthem was written by Francis Scala, the director of the Marine Corps Band from 1855-1871. What you hear there on the parade ground sounds quite a bit different from the anthem we hear today.

It is interesting to note here that "The Star Spangled Banner" did not become the official national anthem until March 3, 1931, by Act of Congress, even if it was originally written in 1814.

Fort Davis was established in 1854 by Maj. Gen. Persifor F. Smith, commander of the U.S. Army's Department of Texas. He located the post in a box canyon near Limpia Creek in the Davis Mountains.

This site was chosen over several under consideration on the Rio Grande because of the availability of wood, grass and water. The new post as well as the mountain range was named for Jefferson Davis, then U.S. Secretary of War (Davis later became president of the Confederate State of America).

Lt. Col. Washington Seawell was in charge of building and commanding Fort Davis. He had six companies of the 8th U.S. Infantry under his command.

The original site marked by Smith was found to be unsuitable, but with distances as they were to await a change in orders, Seawell built the post on the location anyway. It was built inside the canyon.

The original post included 60 pine-slab structures which were not built to last. Col. Seawell had planned to build a more permanent structure of stone out on the plains at the entrance to the canyon.

The only permanent structures Seawell managed in seven years of occupation were six stone barracks in a line near the mouth of the canyon. The buildings were for the enlisted men.

The U.S. abandoned the post in 1861, with fort being occupied by Texas troops of the Confederate Army. When Sibley's Campaign in New Mexico failed in 1862, the fort was abandoned again. Apache Indians burned the wooden buildings and pulled down the stone structures.

In 1867, Lt. Col. Wesley Merritt, a brevet general during the Civil War who lead a massive raid through Mississippi and Louisiana in the early days of the war (John Wayne played the role in a movie), arrived at old Fort Davis with four troops of the 9th U.S. Cavalry.

The 9th Cavalry, along with the 10th which would occupy Fort Davis when the 9th was reassigned, was composed of all-black troopers. The companies were commanded by white officers. The Negro soldiers came to be known to the Comanches and Apaches as the "Buffalo Soldiers."

The Indians were finally defeated in West Texas in 1880. Col. Benjamin Grierson and elements of the 10th Cavalry defeated the Apaches under Chief Victorio in a battle near present-day Van Horn. The Apaches retreated into Mexico where they were finally captured or killed by Mexican soldiers.

When the Indian problems were over, the soldiers settled down to chasing Anglo and Mexican bandits back and forth across the Rio Grande.

Fort Davis was abandoned in 1891 after the railroad bypassed the post. The tracks were located through Alpine and Marfa, south of Fort Davis.

Now, during the summers at Fort Davis, the National Park Service features living demonstration exhibits. Of course, the historic site is open year round — demonstrations of a limited nature are scheduled on the weekends during the winter.

During alternate summers, there will be a young man dressed in an 1875 trooper's uniform at the fort. He will have a saddled horse and the equipment a trooper had to carry. As he explains the use of the equipment, he backgrounds the visitor on what a trooper's life was like at frontier Fort Davis.

In another part of the fort, one of the officer's kitchens has been rehabilitated, and there will be a yound woman dressed in the clothes of yesteryear demonstrating the cooking and housekeeping techniques of 1875.

The post commissary-quartermaster store is open, and the visitor can visit with Ralph Russell (a local Fort Davis school teacher). He has refurbished the store with samples of the types of good the soldiers could buy. Russell has worked at the fort for several summers.

Several of the old buildings have been reconstructed so the visitor can see what the old post looked like. When the fort was rebuilt originally back in 1867, it was discovered that adobe (dried mud and straw) made a good, cheap building material.

The National Park Service has rebuilt the barracks and the hospital, using adobe — a special kind. It has cement added to the mixture to make it last longer.

The old fort is located just to the north of present-day Fort Davis. Visitors from the south traveling U.S. 90 from San Antonio to El Paso can turn north at either Alpine or Marfa.

From U.S. 290, the most scenic drive to Fort Davis to turn south on Texas 17 at Balmorhea or on Texas 118 at Kent.

The fort is open daily from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. There is an admission fee.

The retreat ceremonies are played every hous, and its an experience to stand there on that huge parade ground and hear the horses and caissons and troopers and military band march from one end of the parade ground to the other. It's quite an experience.

Oxygen Stimulation For Aged Called Costly Waste Of Money

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new medical study says a costly "fountain of youth" oxygen technique for perking up mentally sluggish senior citizens probably produces no more stimulation than a couple of martinis.

The National Institute of Mental Health study says countless elderly Americans have paid hundreds of thousands of dollars during the 1970s to don masks, climb into chambers that look like iron lungs and breath pure oxygen in the belief it will revitalize their brain cells and reverse senility.

The NIMH study, to be published in the Archives of General Psychiatry, concludes that most such people have wasted their money.

Allen Raskin, leader of the NIMH study team, said a few of the 82 elderly persons who participated in the institute's testing of so-called "hyperbaric oxygenation" did show improvement on memory tests.

But so did a few persons who breathed air instead of oxygen for comparison purposes, Raskin said.

He said that, for most of the NIMH study patients — average age 72 — each twice-daily jolt of pure oxygen probably had about as much temporary stimulative effect as two martinis or so.

Dr. Robert Butler, director of the government's National Institute on Aging, recently complained to Consumers Digest about an article that appeared to be promoting oxygen treatment as a cure for memory loss and wrinkles.

He said the NIMH experiments found the treatment "to be nothing short of quackery and another fruitless attempt to discover a fountain of youth."

According to the the NIMH research team, oxygen treatment as an antidote to senility has become something of a vogue.

It found such treatment offered in well-established hospitals and health institutions in California, Florida, New York and other states. One facility was reportedly charging about $5,000 for two weeks of treatment.

In a 1969 New England Journal of Medicine article, the Buffalo researchers described their "highly significant" success with experiments involving 13 male patients, average age 68.

After breathing pure oxygen twice a day, 90 minutes each time, for 15 days the men did better on psychological tests than they had before the treatment, the Buffalo study said.

"Our work indicates ... that the psychological symptoms of gross senility can be markedly and reliably alleviated by intermittent oxygenation ...," it said.

Medical authorities estimate at least 1.5 million elderly Americans suffer the symptoms of brain debilitation it is supposed to relieve — forgetfulness, disorientation, impaired intellectual functioning, and moodiness often marked by depression and dramatic changes in behavior.

According to medical literature, oxygen treatment has produced some disturbing results.

A 197 report by New York City's Mount Sinai hospital said "many" Jewish patients, given oxygen treatment at family request, "developed paranoid ideas, such as that they were being gassed or were in execution chambers.

"It is true that all of them were Jewish," the report said. "However, none were refugees or had personal experience with concentration camps."

Tax Revenues Up To $358.2 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tax revenues collected by all governments were $26.8 billion higher for fiscal year 1975-76 than the previous year, reaching a total of $358.2 billion, the Commerce Department said Sunday.

About 56 per cent of the total was collected by the federal government, 25 per cent by state governments and 19 per cent by local governments.

Total revenues from all sources, including customs duties, tuition and government sales, were $572.6 billion. Total government expenditures in the fiscal year were $626.1 billion, up $68.7 billion from the previous year, the Commerce Department said.

Screeching OU-Texas Fans Scare Foreign Visitor

DALLAS (AP) — You're in a foreign city for the first time, off the beaten path because you know that's the best way to get to know the natives. Suddenly, those natives look like screaming savages and some of them are being herded up by hard-eyed, helmeted police.

Revolution?

Nope. It's just Texas-O.U. Weekend in Dallas. But to Nigerian tourist Allen Aroyewun it looked like the violent rise of the working class.

Aroyewun had booked his room at the downtown Baker Hotel several months in advance. His travel agents assured him it would be convenient and that Big D is relatively calm, even on the weekends.

"I got in early and it was crowded downtown, but nothing to be alarmed about," he said. "Someone told me it was going to be a football match. I understand about such matches. I smiled and asked if tickets could be obtained.

"The man started laughing. It seems I said a joke."

After a nap in his room, Aroyewun decided to go out for some Texas cooking. But the noise outside his window and doorway sounded like World War II. The frightened Nigerian swears the walls in his room were shaking.

"I am a man who has been to a lot of places and been through a lot of things," he explained. "But I have to tell you, I was scared. I didn't know what was happening. I ran to a window."

From that window the Nigerian saw lines of cars overflowing with drunken, screeching young people. Horns were blaring. The allegedly calm streets of Big D were choked with 50,000 people all chanting violent-sounding slogans.

"Hook 'em Horns?"

On that note, Aroyewun fled his room. Fighting his way through screaming men, women and children, he made his way to a policeman's side. No, the officer explained. There was no revolution. No war. It was just the buildup to a football game.

"Are they playing it here in the hotel?" Aroyewun asked.

The officer explained further about Texas-O.U. Weekend. And he suggested the Nigerian stay in the hotel. After his first glimpse at the activity outside his window, Aroyewun needed little persuasion.

Aroyewun wedged his way through the crowd, graciously declining many free drinks, and made it back to his room for a sleepless night. The next day he said he realized all the hooting was just good, clean fun — like the kindly policeman told him.

"Boomer Sooner," he said with a grin.

'Airsho' Ends With WWII Highlights

HARLINGEN (AP) — The Confederate Air Force wound up its four-day Airsho '77 Sunday — recreating for thousands of spectators the aerial highlights of World War II.

The annual air show drew spectators from around the world, many of them foreign journalists attracted by last year's re-creation of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima, Japan and its attendant controversy.

The U.S. State Department cautioned CAF officials after last year's show against simulating the mushroom-like cloud which concluded the program during a low-level flyover by retired Air Force Gen. Paul Tibbets — the pilot who dropped the A-bomb on Hiroshima Aug. 6, 1945.

Although there was no "cloud" during Saturday's performance, Tibbets' presence at the controls of a B-29 Superfortress at the end of the show couldn't fail but to produce recollections of the historic bombing.

The CAF maintains the world's largest collection of World War II military aircraft — each painted in its distinctive combat markings.

"We just had a job to do. All of those guys had a job to do and we did it," Tibbets explained. He said he and other CAF members traveled to Washington after last year's controversial program sparked a minor storm of protest from the Japanese. The group met with State Department officials and decided to dispense with the mushroom cloud effect as part of this year's show. Just prior to the program, however, CAF officials said there would be no reenactment at all of the Hiroshima bombing.

But Tibbets, now a Columbus, Ohio, aviation executive, talked freely of it. "Somebody got offended. I don't really know what it's all about. It doesn't matter. We didn't want to make a big deal of it. Hell, I think more of this old airplane here than that (mission)."

Tibbets said he hadn't flown a B-29 Superfortress in 27 years until last year "but it all came back just like I'd been flying it all along."

As the day-long program drew to a close, Tibbets and crew climbed into the Superfortress "Fifi," donned parachutes and the silver, four-engine B-29 clawed its way into the air.

The big bomber hurtled low over the ground — an explosive device was detonated on the ground to symbolize what the CAF said was the bombing of Japan — and Tibbets racked the B-29 over in a sharp, banking turn away from the blast.

"If the world is not allowed to fotget this holocaust, it is possible that future leaders of the world will find a way for all nations to live in peace for all time," the show's announcer said. "The world must never forget Aug. 6, 1945."

During the show, another hero of World War II — Marine Corps ace Greg "Pappy" Boyington — sat in a nearby hangar selling and autographing copies of his book "Baa Baa Black Sheep," upon which the television series of the same name is based.

Duchess At Home After Losing Baby

LONDON (UPI) — The Duchess of Kent was discharged from a hospital Sunday — four days after losing the baby she was expecting next February.

The Duke of Kent, who turned 42 Sunday, drove his wife home, cutting short an official visit to Iran last week to be with the Duchess when she was admitted to the hospital with complications to her pregnancy.

The duke and the duchess have three children.

Judge to Rule on Ex-Wife Testimony

HOUSTON (UPI) — A state district judge will rule Monday to what extent a former wife of Dr. John Hill can testify in defense of a $7.6 million wrongful death suit against oilman Ash Robinson.

Ann Kurth was the controversial woman whose testimony caused a mistrial in Hill's 1971 murder trial.

Hill was on trial for the death of his first wife, Joan Robinson Hill, when Mrs. Kurth, recently divorced from the plastic surgeon, blurted out some comments attorneys said violated provisions of husband-wife confidentiality.

Hill, awaiting a second trial on the same charge, was shot down in the foyer of his River Oaks mansion Sept. 24, 1972. His survivors claim Robinson paid $25,000 to have Hill killed to avenge the death of his daughter, a socially prominent horsewoman.

Mrs. Kurth who has since written "Prescription Murder," a book about her life with Hill, is expected to testify that Hill confessed killing Joan Hill and that he tried to kill her also.

The entire case was the subject of "Blood and Money," a book by reporter Tommy Thompson. Thompson's account ends with Hill's death.

Robinson's attorneys systematically have tried the dead doctor for the death of his first wife and repeatedly have tried to show Hill was an unsavory character. They also want to prove that his survivors could not expect future financial considerations from his income-earning ability, a key point of the lawsuit.

State District Judge Arthur Lesher will rule at 1 p.m. Monday to what extent Mrs. Kurth can testify in the lawsuit.

Outside of court Friday, Mrs. Kurth said she doubted if Hill was actually dead. She said she had read the autopsy report and viewed one of the photographs of the body.

"The photos show there are so many differences it's amazing. It was not John the way I remembered him looking. He had a thick jaw and neck and this man didn't. And the hairline is different, the teeth — there are just a number of striking differences," she told a reporter.

"I think there are so many discrepancies in the whole thing, coupled with peculiar things that have happened, scary things," she said.

She said she did not believe that Robinson had put out a murder contract on her, and said the oilman called her when the report was published.

"He called me at 6 o'clock the day that appeared in the paper and said, 'I didn't have a contract on John and I surely didn't have one out on you,'" she quoted Robinson as saying.

Davis Trial In Eighth Week With Defense Case Beginning

AMARILLO (UPI) — The murder trial of Fort Worth millionaire T. Cullen Davis begins its eighth week today.

Prosecutors, despite vigorous defense objections, were permitted Saturday to recreate two 1976 deposition hearings in which a teen-ager named the defendant as the man who shot her boyfriend.

Prosecutor Joe Shannon Jr. assumed the role of Beverly Bass, 19, as he sat in the witness chair and read portions of her October and December explanations of the August, 1976 assault on Gus Gavrel Jr., 22. Miss Bass attends Texas Tech University.

Prosecutors said they were offering portions of the sworn statements not previously introduced into evidence to rehabilitate the teen-ager's testimony before the jury.

"When the defense tries to impeach a witness on her prior inconsistent statements then we are entitled to offer her prior consistent statements," said Tarrant County District Attorney Tim Curry.

Defense lawyer Richard "Racehorse" Haynes objected, saying the depositions contained "self-serving hearsay."

"All they're trying to do is bolster the witness Bass," Haynes complained. "They can't offer the depositions without showing the witness was impeached by use of the depositibns. My recollection is she denied any impeachment..."

But District Judge George E. Dowlen allowed the depositions to be admitted and Shannon and Curry acted out the sessions in which Miss Bass gave investigators virtually identical accounts of the shooting of Gavrel.

At both deposition hearings the teenager said she and Gavrel did not recognize the "man in black" who beckoned them outside the Davis mansion until they reached a lighted walkway.

"Bubba, that's Cullen," she said, and then claimed the gunman turned without speaking and fired one shot at Gavrel.

Miss Bass fled to the street and flagged down a motorist who called police.

Davis, 44, is being tried for the murder of his stepdaughter, Andrea Wilborn, 12, whose body was found in the mansion basement.

Davis and his wife Priscilla were involved in a divorce suit, and a domestic relations judge had increased her alimony and ordered Davis to pay her legal fees the day before the shootings.

New Agency Will Absorb USIA In Carter Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is expected to propose this week creation of a new agency that would swallow up the U.S. Information Agency and guarantee that Voice of America policy pronouncements be clearly labeled, much like paid commercials.

Carter, about to send Congress his second government reorganization plan, wants to replace USIA — an offspring of the Cold War — with a new agency that also would take charge of cultural and educational exchange programs now administered by the State Department.

Carter's first such plan, to reorganize the Executive Office of the President, is expected to clear the 60-day hurdle within the next two weeks.

Reorganizers also have told Carter, who is under pressure to produce a comprehensive policy for dealing with urban ills, they are beginning to consider the wisdom of proposing a new Cabinet-level Department of Economic Development to work with communities and other local government units.

In a recent memo to Carter, a copy of which was obtained by The Associated Press, Acting Director James T. McIntyre Jr. of the Office of Management and Budget wrote:

"We are trying to compress our timetable on the local economic development project to meet (the White House) schedule for developing an urban strategy. Our recommendations could result in a new department or other major improvements and we believe this project can become a significant part of your new urban strategy."

The target date for completing the project had been next Feb. 24. But the effort to develop a broad urban policy was given high priority following recent complaints to the President by members of the Congressional Black Caucus and spokesmen for the urban poor.

The USIA reorganization plan, dealing with what OMB officials call "public diplomacy," will not give the Voice of America the separate, independent status some of its officials sought.

However, it will be granted what one reorganizer called "a strong presidential guarantee of its newsgathering and broadcasting autonomy."

Peter Szanton, OMB's associate director for reorganization studies, said in an interview that under the plan, the State Department would be required to request broadcast time "to produce clearly labeled statements of policy."

Otherwise, Szanton said, the Voice would be free to broadcast straight news reports free of propaganda.

Harrison Wellford, OMB's executive associate director for reorganization and management, acknowledged that some State Department officials balked at the proposal.

"It's a problem," he said, "of a marriage between the information functions (of USIA), which have in some minds the connotation of propaganda, and cultural exchange activities that have tended to be divorced from promoting government policy.

"We have attempted to put together a new agency that preserves the integrity of the cultural exchange activities and gets away from some of the negative images of USIA."

One of the final battles was over what to call the new agency, Wellford reported. He joked, "It's fascinated English teachers around the world, I suspect, but it doesn't have much more substance than that."

Since the Voice of America has yet to broadcast the new name, and Wellford would not reveal it, English teachers may have to wait a few days to find out what it is that should fascinate them.

Kuwait Grows In Wealth, Population

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Kuwait, a barren desert kingdom turned modern welfare state by oil, has the fastest growing population in the world, a new report shows.

The tax-free, Vermont-sized nation will double its population of 1.1 million within the decade, according to estimates compiled by the Environmental Fund based on figures from the United Nations and the U.S. Census Bureau.

Perched on the shores of the Persian Gulf and atop an estimated 15 per cent of the world's known oil reserves, Kuwait has an $11,000 per capita income — the highest in the world.

Only six nations produced more oil in 1975.

Kuwait's annual 6.1 per cent population growth is almost three times the rate of population growth worldwide and almost eight times the rate of population growth in the United States.

Women in Kuwait bear an average of 7.2 children in a lifetime, the second highest fertility rate in the world. American women bear an average of 1.8 children.

Kuwait's investment of millions of petro-dollars in domestic medical and housing facilities has paid off, figures showed. The population is young and apparently healthy, with its birth rate of 47 per 1,000 population among thehighest in the world and its death rate among the lowest.

Kuwait's population jumped 10 fold in the 27 year period since 1950, well ahead of the 59 per cent increase in the world's population.

While China and India are widely believed to have the fastest growing populations in the world, figures showed their growth rates only slightly ahead of the estimated 2.1 per cent annual growth rate in the world's population of 4.3 billion.

Kuwait and 39 other nations will double their populations before the turn of the century, while the population of the world will double by about 2010, the figures showed.

Pro-Laetrile Drive Attracts Birchers, Others

By EVANS WITT

WASHINGTON (AP) — The grassroots political movement that spurred state legislative support for Laetrile, the controversial cancer treatment, is spearheaded by John Birch Society members and by those who profit from the sale.

This year's sudden surge of activity on behalf of Laetrile — which has been around for decades — comes on the heels of a major U.S. government effort to stop trafficking in the substance, banned from importation or interstate commerce.

The lobbying blitz, aimed first at state legislatures and now at Congress, has been remarkably successful. With cancer victims among those flooding legislative offices, 11 states moved this year to join Alaska in legalizing Laetrile within their borders.

The federal government says there is no evidence that Laetrile is effective in treating cancer. Proponents of the substance, however, claiming it is remarkably effective, point to cancer victims who have improved after taking it.

They also claim Laetrile is a vitamin, not a drug, and thus is not subject to federal regulation.

The major national group supporting Laetrile is the Committee for Freedom of Choice in Cancer Therapy Inc., formed in 1972 to defend a physician accused of prescribing the illegal substance. The group, based in Los Altos, Calif., claims 40,000 members in more than 500 chapters.

The committee's president, Robert Bradford, and the man it was formed to defend, Dr. John Richardson, are members of the John Birch Society, perhaps the best-known organization on the far right of the political spectrum. Richardson was indicted on state charges in 1972 for prescribing Laetrile, but the charges were later dismissed.

Bradford, saying "We don't have any direct support" from the John Birch Society, estimates that 20 per cent of his group's members also are society members.

He adds that support for legalizing Laetrile comes from those of all political persuasions — liberal to conservative.

Bradford says financial support for the nationwide lobbying effort comes from many sources, but the sale of Laetrile, derived from apricot pits, is a major one.

Bradford admitted he personally profited from the sale of the substance but refused to say how much of the profits he kept and how much was given to the lobbying effort. He also refused to say what the total profits were.

However, if earlier sales are any indication, big money is involved.

For example, Bradford, Richardson and two others were convicted earlier this year in San Diego of smuggling Laetrile into the country. A federal grand jury indicted a total of 18 people whom the prosecutors said were the major Laetrile sources in this country.

Analysis

Evidence presented by the prosecution in the case showed that the defendants, including Bradford and Richardson, had made large amounts of money from Laetrile sales.

At one point, Richardson's bank account totaled $2.5 million while Bradford's account held $1.2 million, bank records in the case showed.

Bradford says he does not make an exorbitant profit on his sales; they are "not a rip-off," he said. Critics of the Laetrile movement have cited the expense of obtaining the illegal substance.

Since a U.S. District Court in Oklahoma City ruled last year that Laetrile could be imported on a case-by-case basis for terminal cancer victims, Bradford said prices have dropped with increasing sales.

And he claims success in legalizing Laetrile will hurt him financially.

"Once it's fully legal, then nobody has a hold on the market," Bradford said, claiming major drug companies are planning to manufacture and sell Laetrile if it is legalized.

Alaska, the first state to legalize Laetrile, did so in May last year. Indiana, Florida, Arizona, Nevada, Texas, Washington, Louisiana, New Hampshire, Oklahoma, Delaware and Oregon have followed suit.

Bradford's contention that Laetrile has attracted those of varying political views is supported by interviews with sponsors and backers of state bills to legalize the substance.

"We got support from a cross-section of the political spectrum. So you can't say it was a philosophical or party issue," said Dan Burton, a state representative from Indianapolis who authored Indiana's legalization bill. Burton said John Birch Society members were among those supporting his proposal.

A Hawaii state senator, Robert Anderson, with the support of the local chapter of the committee, unsuccessfully pressed for legalization in this year's session. Anderson is president of the American Opinion Bookstore, which he said is the education arm of the John Birch Society.

There also were reports that other rightwing groups, including the Young Americans for Freedom and Liberty Lobby, supported the Hawaiian effort.

The chairman of the committee in Ohio, which is pushing a bill in the state senate to legalize Laetrile, is Steven Michaelis of Hebron. He says he is a member of the John Birch Society.

Alma Dankowski, of St. Petersburg, vice president of the committee's Florida chapter, credited legislative lobbying by hundreds of Laetrile supporters in Tallahassee for approval of legalization. She said those who traveled to the state capital paid their own way.

"We had some support from the John Birch Society, but we're not affiliated with anyone," she said in a telephone interview.

Bradford said that the Los Altos headquarters of the committee provided expertise and advice where necessary to the state committees lobbying their legislature. But he emphasized that they relied on local citizens for most of the work.

"That was a tactical decision," he said.

In almost every state, the most dramatic testimonials in legislative hearings have come from cancer patients. Some say they have taken Laetrile and achieved miraculous remissions of tumors. Others have pleaded for a chance to take the drug in the hope of a cure that legal techniques have failed to provide.

Sides Coalesce On New 'Wilderness' Conflict

By LARRY SPRINGER
A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — There aren't many wild places left in the Wild West.

Not wild as in a rowdy bistro, mind you, but wild as in wilderness.

Texans struggled for decades to conquer the vast reaches of land between the Rio Grande and Canadian River.

The pioneering spirit prevailed as the East Texas forests began to fall to the ax, as the plow exposed the rich soils of the Blackland Prairie and, more recently, when the no-man's land of West Texas became the oil man's dream.

And there are quite a few folks who put a great deal of stock in this frontier heritage and who cannot understand the urgings of those who want to preserve wild places.

"For 200 years now we have been pulling this nation out of the wilderness to provide present and future generations with a better way of life," a timber industry newsletter complains. "But we seem to listen to environmental charlatans who would turn this nation back to wilderness."

There are two "wilderness" areas — by the official definition — in the state: Big Bend National Park and Guadalupe Mountains National Park.

A third wilderness is being "created" as the Big Thicket National Preserve.

The first two wilderness areas in West Texas moved through the federal bureaucracy rather smoothly. There were no major oil interests, timber or agricultural lands involved, it should be noted.

The Big Thicket Preserve, however, was quite another affair. Months of intense lobbying and emotional testimony split the state's congressional delegation, leaving both political and social scars in East Texas.

The preserve now is being put together out of primarily individually and corporate-owned lands. The timber industry, which never had much of an image problem in East Texas (being the lifeblood of much of the region), found itself being condemned in publications printed on the very paper it produced.

Since that time, major pulp and lumber companies have been rebuilding their public profile and attempting to put across their points of view in a less acid fashion.

Now comes the U.S. Forest Service with a list of 16 areas — 78,655 acres — of national forest and 2,414 acres of private lands for possible inclusion in a national inventory of potential wilderness areas.

National forests in Texas are spotty creatures, interwoven with tracts of private land which were not purchased when the forests were put together in the early 1900s. The private land proposed for wilderness purchase, for the most part, is surrounded by or adjacent to one of the state's four national forests.

As expected, wilderness advocates already have complained that the list is too limited, while timber interests and East Texas politicians have been quick to condemn the proposal.

It should be pointed out here that a good many of the wilderness advocates do not live in the affected region, where local opposition seems to stem from the impact wilderness designation will have on small logging outfits that make timber buys from the Forest Service.

There also is no small amount of hostility directed at the "city slicker environmentalists" who are trying to tell the rural folks what to do with "their forest."

Typical is the complaint of U.S. Rep. Charles Wilson of Lufkin, who argues that "right now, we need timber production, more than we need wilderness."

He reminds reporters of the Big Thicket Preserve and stresses "that 84,500 acres ought to be enough for anyone."

Last week, the new Asst. Secretary of Agriculture, M. Rupert Cutler, said the USFS wilderness area list is a "first cut," and said it does not mean the agency believes all the listed areas should be preserved as wilderness.

There is a certain "purity" criteria which the USFS has applied in the past for wilderness designation. Forest Service personnel point to the definition of wilderness, as outlined in the law, to defend their strict interpretation, noting that roads, gas wells, and so on compromise the forest and, therefore prohibit the USFS from protecting such poverty as wilderness.

They also point out that the law requires wilderness candidate land to be of 5,000 acres or more, or of a special character (a matter of discretion).

It appears that the Forest Service ultimately will support only those tracts in the national forests which substantially have been untouched by man as final candidates on its wilderness proposals to Congress.

This, environmental groups point out, severely limits the wilderness opportunities in Texas, since almost all of the state's forest were cut around the turn of the century and, at one time or another, have yielded under man's hand.

Wilderness advocates also complain that the USFS attitude ignores a basic fact: that left fallow, all lands will return to their natural state after several decades.

In any case, Congress ultimately will make the decision on wilderness designations.

And whether there will be a rerun of the Big Thicket bloodletting is uncertain. The major timber companies, still polishing their images after the last fight, may be less than enthusiastic about jumping into this scramble, especially when so little of their timber is harvested from the national forests.

Those who could be hit the hardest, the small loggers, likely will rely on the Texas Forestry Association for their lobbying pressure and may find some consolation in their congressional ally, Charles Wilson, who may exercise a personal privilege veto of the wilderness proposals.

But the Texas Committee on Natural Resources and other environmental groups are going to be applying a lot of their own brand of special interest pressure.

And it's a good bet that the lessons of the Big Thicket hassle will be applied skillfully by both sides.

EPA Could Take Over Fight On Texas' Worst Polluters

By LARRY SPRINGER
A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Attorney General John Hill, somewhat frustrated in his attempts to get at polluters through the state courts, now may be asking those alleged violators to explain their case to a federal judge.

It appears that within the next week or so, Hill's environmental protection division will have made all the necessary arrangements with the Environmental Protection Agency to use that federal agency resources in seeking legal remedies through the federal courts against the state's worst polluters.

Hill's initial attempt to go it on his own in state court was short-circuited by an Austin district judge who ruled that the attorney general may not sue another state agency — in this case, the now defunct Texas Water Quality Board — since by law he is a state agency's only authorized legal counsel.

Hill was suing the TWQB over its modification of an order issued to protect San Antonio's sole source of drinking water, the Edwards Aquifer.

Since the attorney general is prohibited from initiating pollution suits on his own cognizance, Hill appeared to be on high center after the ruling in the aquifer case.

But now it appears the gubernatorial hopeful may pursue polluters in the various federal courtrooms throughout the state — and with the full cooperation and technical expertise of the EPA.

High on Hill's list are likely to be those cities and industries which failed to meet the July deadline for meeting the standards set out in the federal Clean Water Act.

Hill's proposed lawsuits may offer the EPA a way around a sticky interagency dilemma — how to sue another federal entity without too much ruffling of the bureaucratic feathers.

Among the biggest water polluters listed on EPA's quarterly non-compliance report are U.S. Army facilities throughout Texas. And where they are not specifically listed, it is thought that many of the problems suffered by communities whose sewage disposal systems serve military installations are due in part, or completely, to the waste loads contributed by the military.

An example of this is the sewage system serving Fort Hood in Central Texas where the sheer volume of the sewage is overwhelming the civilian-operated plant and causing severe pollution of Nolan Creek in Bell County.,

By allowing Hill to sue the Army, EPA could avoid the embarassment of challenging the compliance of a sister agency. To a lay person, this wayward route may seem silly but such is the nature of bureaucratic protocol.

It should be noted that the attorney general's lawsuits in the past have not as a rule, sought damages from alleged violators (although some stiff fines have been levied). The tactic used by the AG'S office often has been that of filing a petition against a company or city, then of negotiation of an agreed settlement which is presented to the judge and "locked up" in an injunction.

Hill's longstanding dispute with the state's water quality agency has been over at what point a permit holder should be referred to the attorney general for legal action.

The water agency, weighed toward engineers and scientists, has been inclined in the past to work out compliance matters in a gentlemanly fashion, perhaps by placing violators under agency-issued compliance orders.

Hill, of course, has contended that compliance orders are fine — if they're in the form of an injunction which is binding on the permittee.

The former Water Quality Board refused to refer the City of Houston and its grossly overloaded sewage treatment system to Hill's office for action, opting instead for an agency-administered compliance schedule.

And frustrated over the WQB's action dividing the single Edwards Aquifer order into seven separate orders, each with varying restrictions on developments over the aquifer recharge zone, Hill attempted to force the agency to drop its modified order, only to find an Austin judge telling him he can't sue his own client.

Whether the federal courts will provide a useful vehicle for controlling flagrant polluters will have to be assessed in months to come.

Americans in Foreign Jails On Drug Raps

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In cheerless jails from Mexico to Thailand, more than 2,000 Americans are doing some very hard time for using, possessing or trafficking in drugs, a new State Department report says.

Some will spend, or have already spent, months — and even years — in prison without hearing formal charges. Pretrial solitary confinement is not uncommon. Neither is prison brutality.

In most cases, release on bail is impossible, because it is unheard of in many lands.

And such American legal rights as the one alloted phone call to a lawyer are usually just that: American legal rights.

U.S. laws do not protect Americans in foreign countries. And, contrary to common belief, there is little U.S. diplomatic and consular officials can do to help.

There are no U.S. government funds for bail, legal fees and other expenses to help Americans in jail abroad.

U.S. consular officials can contact the detainee's family and advise on hiring a local lawyer, but they cannot intervene in any way in local legal procedures.

It isn't worth the penalty.

In some countries — such as Turkey, Algeria, Iran and Singapore — involvement with drugs can even bring a death sentence.

All of these points, plus statistics on drug arrests and information on prison conditions overseas, are covered in the latest State Department report on the issue.

Lance Bank Claimed Big U.S. Depository

More than $1 million in federal savings deposits — an unusually large amount — was placed in Bert Lance's National Bank of Georgia earlier this year, Newsday, the Long Island, N.Y., newspaper reported Sunday.

In Calhoun, Ga., former Budget Director Lance questioned the accuracy of the story, while a Treasury Department spokesman in Washington said the funds it referred to did not belong to the government but were put on deposit at the bank by federal court-appointed bankruptcy referees.

Lance expressed surprise when reporters met him as he walked up the steps of the First United Methodist Church in Calhoun, Sunday morning.

"I know nothing in the world about it," he said. "I didn't have anything to do with the placement of any federal funds whatsoever. That was not within my purview."

Later in the day, after reading the Newsday story, he added: "I had a hard time comprehending the article.

"I haven't the slightest idea of what they're talking about ... I have no knowledge of it at all. And I'd make sure those facts are correct, if I were you."

Lance, who resigned as President Carter's budget director after public debate about the state of his financial affairs and past banking practices, is a major shareholder in the bank.

Deposits at the Georgia bank, the state's fifth largest, were made during the first quarter of 1977 — the period when Lance became budget director after serving as president of the Atlanta bank, Newsday said. They provided a financial boost for the bank at a time when it had been forced to write off $1.25 million in bad loans and to cut its stock dividend to zero, it said.

It said such large federal savings deposits are rare, and on March 31, Georgia's 63 other national banks had a combined total of $30,000 in federal savings deposits compared to $1.37 million at the National Bank of Georgia.

Joe Laitin, the Treasury's assistant secretary of public affairs, said records of the comptroller of the currency's office show the funds were deposited by bankruptcy referees appointed by federal District Court judges sitting in the Atlanta area.

Referees often are appointed to untangle financial affairs when a company goes into bankruptcy. While the sorting-out process is under way, the referee may place its assets in a bank account.

"This money does not belong to the federal government. It belongs to creditors," Laitin said.

But Newsday quoted Benjamin H. Carter, clerk for the federal District Court of Northern Georgia and keeper of records on all bankruptcy funds administered through the court, as saying only $43,610 in bankruptcy funds were deposited in savings at the National Bank of Georgia as of June 30, the same date the bank reported to the U.S. Comptroller that it held $1,062,000 in federal savings deposit, the newspaper said.

"I don't know where the problem is," Laitin said in response to this apparent discrepancy. "All I know is the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency reported that figure ($1.37 million). It was done through official channels."

Bank officials declined to discuss the newspaper report.

Head Named For Paducah Farm Office

A-J Correspondent

PADUCAH — Thomas P. Ebelen, 28, recently assumed duties as supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration office here, filling the vacancy left by the recent death of Milton F. Wilfong. Ebelen was sworn in by District Supervisor Bud Leslie of Vernon.

Ebelen has been assistant supervisor of the Clarksville office for the past five and one-half years. He was born in Japan where his father was stationed with the U.S. Air Force.

While still in college, Ebelen became a student FmHA trainee, working summers at San Benito, Lufkin, San Antonio, Jourdantown and Clarksville. He received his bachelor of arts degree from Stephen F. Austin State University in Nacogdoches with a major in agriculture and a second major in business.

Ebelan has been a Boy Scout worker, is a member of the Texas National Guard and worked with a voluntary organization of Teens Aid Retarded during high school and college and later as an adult adviser.

He and his wife, Thilda, have a daughter, Elizabeth, 4 1/2 years old.

China Escape Tunnel Shown American Visitors

By LOUIS D. BOCCARDI
Associated Press Writer

HUHEHOT, Inner Mongolia, China (AP) — The one-story tan brick building sits at the foot of Big Green Mountain 5.6 miles outside this capital city of the Inner Mongolian Autonomous Region.

Its sides plastered with slogans painted in red, it looks like so many other small buildings in China. Nothing to catch the eye.

But it sits atop the end of a civil defense tunnel that starts under another building in the capital and traces a concrete-walled escape route for the city's 500,000 residents.

A group of American visitors was driven through the tunnel and told that it is typical of civil defense efforts throughout China.

It was the only one we saw.

The ride started as we drove up to what looked like a garage. Our cars headed down a concrete ramp into a tunnel nine feet wide and 10 feet high.

The sides and vaulted ceiling are made of concrete and stone. At its thinnest, the roof of the tunnel is 10 feet below the surface, we were told.

Chao Teh-jung, chief of civil defense for Huhehot, said that the tunnel was built in two years (1971-73) by volunteer labor from the city. He said that communities or organizations in the city had each been assigned sections to dig out and build.

The only illumination comes from bare light bulbs strung along the wall every 100 feet or so.

During the 5.6-mile ride, we passed three circular turnarounds. Later we were told that 13 branch tunnels, for people and not vehicles, feed the tunnel we rode through. But we could not spot them. Chao said there are 104 underground rooms for latrines and storage but no food is stocked because it would spoil in the dampness.

There is no filtration system and the authorities envision using the tunnel to move people out of the city and into the mountains, not to keep them underground. Oxygen would go down in a natural draft, Chao said, but there are plans to install air pumps and filters.

Would this help in a nuclear attack? No, not this way, he said.

How long would it take to evacuate Huhehot?

"Twenty minutes," Chao said.

Had there ever been a test?

"No, we don't need one. Our people understand."

Huhehot, we were reminded, is part of the border area with the Soviet Union. Because of the Russians to the north, the security restrictions we found here were tighter than at any other stop in China. Only in Huhehot were we stopped from walking the streets without a Chinese escort.

And, Chao said, the tunnel is not finished. It stops now just short of the mountain.

It must go on right into the mountains, he said.

As we pulled away in a light rain, the interpreter was asked what the slogans on the building's walls say. The first one he read is from Chairman Mao: "Dig Tunnels deep...."

Ban, Restrictions Placed On Films

ual about sex and promiscuity. They said the movie lacks a moral framework.

Leslie said from now on, "This film may be shown only to sex-segregated classes at the high school level. The film is further restricted to the health education department and should be used only if other venereal disease films are not available which would meet the same unit objectives."

—The "Guidance of the 70s" films on "Self Esteem"; "Kids, Parents and Pressures"; and "Who's Responsible?" Parents said these films, shown at the secondary level here, teach children to rely too much on themselves, and not enough on their family and church, in deciding moral issues.

However, Leslie said, "These three films were evaluated (by the review committee) as excellent for use in guidance of students. The films are best suited for grades nine through 12, but they may also be used in the eighth grade.

"Teachers can handle discussions that follow these films but are encouraged to involve counselors in the follow-up discussions," Leslie said.

Leslie said the Education Service Center has been advised of the restrictions that the Lubbock school system has placed on certain films.

Since the recent publicity about the films, several area parents have screened the movies at the center. The Education Service Center is scheduled to host another "open house" Oct. 28 to allow parents to review the films and other media.

At the center's July 22 open house, a number of parents lauded the films in question, saying such movies as "The Lottery," "VD, The Hidden Epidemic," and the "Guidance of the 70s" series have much educational value.

TO THE RESCUE — A stranded cat named "Hutch" (who used to have a feline friend named "Starsky") found himself in a situation Sunday that his TV star namesake never would have allowed himself to get into. Unable to extricate himself from the high perch at 2707 Ave. T, the cat soon began to wail unhappily. That brought help in the form of one sturdy ladder and three loyal friends: (top to bottom) Robin Kumpf, 10, Cory Rodriguez, 11, and Rosio Manzanares, 3. The children swiftly rescued their pet... and probably advised him to stick to catching mice. (Staff photo by Norm Tindell)

Hunting Party Bags Wrong Killer Lion

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (UPI) — There was bloody evidence Sunday the massive hunting party that tracked down and killed a man-eating lion last month apparently bagged the wrong beast — two more villagers have been clawed to death.

Game wardens, police, soldiers and civilian volunteers are again searching the bush 30 miles west of this steamy Indian Ocean capital in an effort to find the real killer lion, the government newspaper Sunday News said.

Lion attacks in the past two months have killed 10 people in five villages around Kibaha, officials said.

1,000 Hunt Animal

The lion hunt by 1,000 persons early in September caught a 5 1/2-foot-long three-legged lion. The hunters said at the time it had probably turned to a human diet because it was unable to chase wild game.

But since two more people subsequently died in lion attacks, officials said Sunday they now assume the original man-eating lion is still on the loose.

Villagers in the area where the lion prowls have lost many head of their cattle as well, the Sunday News said, and the local populace is terrorized.

The hunt has covered rolling, brush-covered hill country studded with patches of dense forest along the main road from Dar Es Salaam to Zambia.

Witchcraft Blamed

Superstitious beliefs circulated among Tanzanian villagers are complicating the lion hunt, officials said.

The Sunday News said many villagers, and even some government officials, are convinced the man-eater is not an animal, but actually a woman who was turned into a lion by a witch doctor. Some villagers recruited for hunting parties have refused to join up because they will not interfere with witchcraft at work.

"Believe me or not," one village leader told the paper, "this thing is not real. There is a human being inside it.

"There are lions and lions," he said. "This one still killing people is a real woman." The official claimed he spotted the real man-killer during the previous lion hunt and pumped several bullets into it, "but I could not do the job."

The village leader said the woman-turned-lion closely resembles other lions, but does not roar.

ACCIDENT SCENE—Police Sunday were looking for a white over blue 1973 Pontiac, believed to belong to a Levelland man, which apparently made a U-turn in front of a car driven by Armando Narvaiz of 1111 E. Queens St., forcing Narvaiz's car off the road and injuring his wife Rachel Loera, 22, a passenger in the car. Mrs. Narvaiz was listed in satisfactory condition late Sunday in Methodist Hospital suffering from facial fractures. The accident occured near E. Cornell Street and Quirt Avenue. Witnesses said the blue and white vehicle, occupied by two black males believed to be in their 20s, sped south on Quirt Avenue following the accident. (Staff Photo by Norm Tindell)

Union Leader Heard By Postal Group

volved, Kurko said. "Up to 15 years later many of those people have not been paid back pay after the NLRB found they had been fired illegally."

Kurko said "there has been no inhibiting force in the law which stops companies from firing union organizers."

Under present law, one company has refused to grant a union contract after 10 years of negotiations and two favorable union elections, he said.

However, under the proposed legislation if the NLRB finds company has bargained in bad faith, the employer can be fined damages which will have to be paid as back wages to employes, Kurko said.

"I think this will have an impact on getting them to bargain in good faith."

The proposal also provides for an increase in membership from five to seven on the NLRB board, a measure aimed at speeding up the time required to get a decision from the board.

If a company does not appeal an NLRB decision within 30 days, the board will get court enforcement of its order under the 1977 act.

The new legislation, recently passed by the U.S. House, is expected to be taken up by the Senate in January or February.

Idi Amin Proposes 'Liberation Army'

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — President Idi Amin of Uganda observed the 15th anniversary of Ugandan independence Sunday with an appeal to black African nations to form a liberation army to fight against Rhodesia and South Africa.

Amin also threatened to renege on debts resulting from the collapse of the East African community that had joined Uganda with neighboring Kenya and Tanzania.

Amin's speech was broadcast by Radio Kampala, as in previous years, but the Ugandan dictator did not read the address himself.

Volunteer Forces Urged

"African countries should form volunteer liberation forces to fight the racist regimes in Rhodesia and South Africa," Amin said. "I call on the 'frontline' states to allow volunteer forces to pass through their countries to assist Zimbabweans (Rhodesians) to get their independence and to march through to the cape."

The "front-line" states — Zambia, Mozambique, Angola, Botswana and Tanzania — border Rhodesia and provide support for black guerrillas fighting against the white regime in Salisbury.

Amin did not elaborate on his proposal, which has been suggested in several quarters in the past but given little real chance because of conflicting national interests among the black African countries.

"Selfish Leaders" Blasted

The burly president-for-life said the collapse in Kuly of the East African community, which was formed 1967, was a "tragedy caused by selfish leaders." He charged Kenya and Tanzania grabbed all of the group's assets and said Uganda "has no liability to answer."

The community, which operated such things as a joint telephone and postal service and an airline, collapsed because of dissagreements among the three countries.

East African Airways went out of business and Tanzania closed its border with Kenya, blaming the Kenyans for causing the collapse of the airline.

Mrs. Gandhi Taunts Foe

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India's new government is trying to repair the political damage and fix the blame for the blunders surrounding former Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's arrest and quick release on corruption charges.

Mrs. Gandhi, after only 16 hours in custody last week, has resumed with new confidence and aggressiveness her speeches and taunts against the administration of Prime Minister Morarji Desai, her successor.

She appears to have turned her arrest and release into a political gain both against the government and critics within her Congress party, many of whom have rallied back to her support.

Many Indians are saying Desai's government has itself to blame, by mistiming the sensitive decision to prosecute a former prime minister, followed by mishandling of the arrest. Newspapers accuse the government of bungling the case at every step.

The government is being criticized for bringing Mrs. Gandhi to the magistrate's court without recording any of the evidence it said was available. And the High Court delayed admission of its appeal because somebody forgot to paste revenue stamps on the petition to cover court costs.

Reports circulated that the government case was sabotaged by Gandhi supporters who remained within the police and Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) after the Desai forces routed the Congress party in national elections last March.

1978 Maid Of Cotton Barely Made Pageant

is affected by cotton.

"My father owns a bookstore," Miss Bailey said, "and he buys all his books on the basis of the coming cotton crop. If it's going to be a bumper crop, then he buys more books. So my clothes and everything depend on cotton.

"I hope I can help in making people realize just how important it is to support cotton production here. If people will buy 100 per cent cotton clothes and other cotton related products then the cotton producers will be more prosperous and that will be reflected in other areas. It's a endless cycle."

Miss Bailey attributes her knowledge about the cotton industry to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Bailey of 3712 64th Drive. And she says she owes her winning the title to her parents and brother Roger, 16, and sister, Bonnie, 12.

"My family is really close," Miss Bailey said, "and they gave me so much support throughout the pageant. Bonnie even gave me a pep talk and Roger told me he was proud of me and that meant so much. My parents have high aspirations for me but they don't push. Whatever I want to do is fine and they give me all the help they can."

Miss Bailey's family will be out in full force at the national contest. Her grandmother already has called all the relatives living in nearby states and plane reservations are being made.

Miss Bailey said she will approach the national pageant in the same way she did the local one; she will be totally natural. "I was worried at first. I had only been in one other similar contest and I wondered if I should try to be the 'more sophisticated type,' she said, laughing. "But we (she and her mother) decided that just wasn't me so I just tried to take things as they came."

Miss Bailey said she considered memorizing her one-minute speech on "Cotton for All Reasons and Seasons" that was required of the top five finalists, but she was afraid if she missed one word she would forget the entire speech.

"I talked with several cotton farmers and the Dean of Agriculture at Tech and they helped me so much," she said. "I got so many facts and statistics. But when it came to the speech I just went on feelings and emotions."

Her spontaneity paid off. Though she will be working hard from now until the plane leaves for Memphis Dec. 26, she said she will continue to follow her own instincts as situations arise.

"I've learned that you can't worry too much about the future because it changes all the time," Miss Bailey said. "I know we've got a lot of work ahead but I think I can handle it. I just hope that I can do half the job that all the wonderful people who gave their time for the South Plains contest did."

885 Passengers Board Pacific Eclipse Ship

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A cruise ship pulled out of Los Angeles this weekend carrying 885 passengers who paid $765 to $1,715 each in order to view an eclipse of the sun from the lonely spot in the Pacific Ocean where the event will be most spectacular.

"I'm an eclipse freak," said Don Goldstein of Swarthmore, Pa., as he took a swig from his plastic cocktail glass at a bon voyage party Saturday aboard the TSS Fairsea.

The Fairsea will rendezvous 1,200 miles out at sea on Wednesday with its sister ship, TSS Fairwind, which left from Port Everglades, Fla., on Oct. 1. To make sure they are in the correct position, the Sitmar Cruises' ships will be receiving weather data from a U.S. satellite center in Redwood City.

Astronomers at the Hayden Planetarium in New York said the eclipse will be visible from the United States — the farther west the viewpoint the more total the eclipse. The moon will begin to cross the sun's disc at 3:44 p.m. CDT. It will reach mid-point at 4:19 p.m., and the eclipse will end at 4:52 p.m.

Weather permitting, Honolulu viewers will see a 70 per cent eclipse, Atlanta 26 per cent, Chicago 13 per cent and New York, 13 per cent.

The Hayden astronomers and eye specialists warned that looking directly at the sun for even a few seconds can cause permanent eye damage. One recommendation is to expose ordinary black and white photographic film to light near a window, not in direct sunlight, and have the film developed. The sun can be looked at through three thicknesses of the film.

Aboard the Fairsea, standard cruise ship entertainment — shuffleboard, card tournaments and the like — has been augmented with a series of lectures and seminars on astronomy, oceanography, anthropology and other subjects of interest to eclipse-watchers.

Canal Fuss May Ease

2,000 when full control of the 10-mile-wide Canal Zone would pass to the Panamanian republic. The second declare a permanent neutrality for the zone, enforced by a U.S.-Panama alliance.'

While the Carter Administration tries to convince the Senate that the treaties protect the best interests of the United States, the Panamanian government is telling its citizens their longtime dream of "complete liberation" is coming true.

The Panamanian government's basic message in its promotion campaign is that the Panama Canal treaties get the Americans out by the turn of the century, and the separate neutrality pact guarantees they won't come back.

Negotiators here also are saying the United States will never have to exercise its right of military intervention because Panama will never deny American ships or those of any other country access to the canal.

In his Express interview, Torrijos said: "It will be up to future generations to ensure the neutrality of the canal and to avoid all false pretexts for intervention. Panamanian public opinion is very sensitive on this point."

Black Nationalist Vows Trial For Smith

(Editor's Note: Is Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith a war criminal? Robert Mugabe, joint leader of Rhodesia's militant Patriotic Front, charges that he is. In an exclusive interview with UPI correspondent Erik Van Ees at his headquarters in Mozambique, Mugabe says Smith must be brought to trial for "atrocious acts" after black nationalists take over in Rhodesia.)

By ERIK VAN EES

MAPUTO, Mozambique (UPI) — Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith will be put on trial for war crimes when black nationalists assume power, according to Robert Mugabe, co-leader of the Patriotic Front, the dominant guerrilla group.

He accused the Rhodesian leader of having ordered his army to commit "atrocious acts ... brutal murders of civilians.

"Certainly he must be brought to trial. You cannot have rapport between the African and European (white) community unless those who have caused immense suffering ... are made answerable for their acts," he said.

Mugabe said he does not want the United States involved in negotiations to end the five-year guerrilla war and bring black majority rule to Rhodesia.

He said nationalists are wary of American involvement in a peace settlement for fear it would make Rhodesia part of an international power game.

"We will not accept the involvement of America if the idea is to try and fight Russia in our situation," he said.

Mugabe gave an exclusive interview to UPI on the balcony of his modest office in a Maputo suburb where his Zimbabwe African National Union occupies two adjoining second floor apartments in a rundown building. Wimbabwe is the African name for Rhodesia.

He said Smith would face unspecified charges but "the general settler (white) community, should be free to participate in any constitutional arrangement.

"And should they want to stand for election, surely they should be free to do so. Our concept of society is that it has to be nonracial with equal rights afforded to all."

He said a cease-fire in the guerrilla war would take place only when full agreement is reached between nationalists and Britain, the former colonial power in Rhodesia.

Mugabe said the Patriotic Front would agree to the latest Anglo-American peace proposals "provided they amount to full transference of power and ensure that the physical instruments of control are in our hands."

However, he took issue with the appointment of Lord Carver as an interim British commissioner to run Rhodesia during the transition to majority rule.

Lord Carver would wield "immense dictatorial powers, legislative, executive, military, administrative," he said. "The man is going to be one monstrous character in the whole situation and of course we can't accept that."

Mugabe was asked if there were any areas in Rhodesia where his guerrillas have complete control.

"Ah, yes, there are very many where the enemy cannot go," he said. "In order to attack he can of course still use his air force, but his infantry is almost grounded.

"We are now operating in some urban areas and by our own estimates we are operative in at least three-quarters of the country just now."

Western diplomatic sources in Lusaka, Zambia and Rhodesian nationalists in London predict Mugabe will be eased out of the joint leadership of the Patriotic Front in favor of his partner, Joshua Nkomo.

Mugabe refused to comment on the reports. But he did not appear too concerned about them.

He has the moral and military backing of the Soviet Union and an experienced army of guerrilla fighters. According to diplomats, he would remain a potent force in Rhodesian politics, even if he were edged out of a leadership role.

Recent reports from Rhodesia say Mugabe's group and Nkomo's Zambia-based Zimbabwe African Peoples Union have been fighting each other.

He denied the reports and said, "In fact there is greater agreement now, much closer than before."

Mysterious Prisoner Adds Legal Career

VACAVILLE, Calif. (UPI) — G. Daniel Walker's prison cell is equipped with a color television set, law books, FBI reports about his life of crime and a $900 electric typewriter with which he knocks out scripts for cops and robbers TV shows.

Walker is a jailhouse lawyer, and from his 6-by-11-foot cell at Vacaville State Prison he uses his legal talent to help other prisoners — and even guards — out of problems ranging from divorce to medical malpractice.

"I make time work for me," said Walker, who was convicted four years ago for a murder he says he did not commit. "Lawyers on the outside are too busy to handle the cases I do.

"They take long lunches and after work have two martinis and go home to their wives or mistresses. There are no martinis here, and there sure aren't any blondes or redheads."

Walker's personal history matches any script he concocts. A Korean War veteran, he was dubbed "the polite bandit" because he gave loot to charity, reportedly was recruited by the CIA, has friends in high places and created a kiddie cereal character.

According to an FBI profile, he is irresistible to women, smooth-talking, has excellent taste in clothes and food, reads voraciously and has an IQ of 140. The report quotes a top FBI agent as saying he is "a fine man, a good friend, but has this hangup for doing the unusual just for a lark."

Walker works in the prison law library, and Dr. Thomas Clanon, a psychiatrist and Vacaville superintendent, says: "He is a very brilliant guy. He has made himself an expert on the prison system from the inside, and sometimes it's a very good idea to listen to what he says."

FBI and CIA dossiers differ on whether Walker, a handsome, pipesmoking, bespectacled man, is 46 or 56 years old, and whether he was born in Manchuria or Toledo, Ohio. He declines to clarify the situation, saying, "I prefer to keep the mystery going."

Despite his legal expertise, Walker is no lawyer. He has a law degree but never took a bar exam. He does say, however, that his life of crime began in Ohio when, on his way to pick up his date for a country club party one night, he decided to stick up a liquor store for thrills.

"After that, there were many robberies in many, many states," he says. "I came from a well-to-do family, and my whole life was done up on thrills."

John Hill Chooses New Staff Members

AUSTIN (UPI) — Attorney General John Hill has named Nancy O'Bryant Puentes to replace Mary Jane Bode as head of his public information staff. Miss Bode is resigning to campaign for the legislative seat relinquished by Rep. Sarah Weddington, D-Austin, when she joined the U.S. Agriculture Department.

Hill also announced Ernest Stromberger will join his staff as a research specialist. Stromberger now is research director at the State Board of Insurance, but previously served as communications director for the State Bar of Texas and a Capitol reporter for the Dallas Times Herald.

No Soviet Response To U.S. Queries About Arms Sales

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Soviet Union has not responded to U.S. efforts to discuss mutual restraints on weapons sales to other countries, government sources say.

The sources said the question of formal discussions was brought up by Secretary of State Cyrus Vance last month, in meetings with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

Carter also discussed arms sales and his concern in general terms with Gromyko. There have been a series of contacts at lower levels as well, but sources said there has been no response from the Russians.

Carter announced policy guidelines last May that declared, "the United States must take steps to restrain its arms transfers" because a spiraling arms race threatened world peace.

He promised that sales for fiscal 1978, which started Oct. 1, would be reduced from those of the past 12 months, now estimated to be about $9.8 billion. The United States is the world's No. 1 arms supppier with much of the volume in the Middle East, particularly Israel.

Pending deals involve a $1.2 billion proposal to sell advanced warning radar planes to Iran, top-of-the-line F5 fighter planes to Saudi Arabia, and transport planes to Egypt.

The Soviet Union, No. 2 in worldwide sales, had a record $2.5 billion year in 1976, according to CIA estimates.

These sales, which military experts say involve more weapons than the United States could provide for the same money, gave the Russians a greater military role in Peru and also involved "unprecedented" support to Iraq.

State Department official Leslie Gelb, head of an interagency group to discuss the subject with the Russians, told defense contractors last June there were plans to open formal talks in late summer or early fall.

The subject was first brought up when Vance went to Moscow last March with proposals to set up "working groups" on several arms-related issues.

While there have been promising negotiations in some areas — such as limiting military activities in the Indian Ocean and banning chemical weapons — there have been no developments on this one.

Hydraulic Failure Causes Aircraft Collision On Ground

VAN NUYS, Calif. (UPI) — A four-engine turboprop transport plane rolled into a group of light aircraft, destroying one and damaging two others, at Van Nuys Airport Sunday, after it apparently lost hydraulic power on landing.

None of the four crewmen aboard the plane was injured.

The modified Boeing 337, known as a "pregnant guppy," struck the line of private planes when it was unable to reverse one engine.

Authorities said the power loss caused the plane to veer off the runway into the group of aircraft.

Death Given New Definition

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — A landmark decisiom by a county judge giving Wisconsin a modern legal definition of death has set off a move to write it into law books next year.

Senate President Pro Tem Fred A. Risser, D-Madison, said he will introduce a bill to expand the definition to include cessation of brain activity as well as failure of the heart and lungs.

Risser said he was prompted by a decision last month by Dane County Judge Robert Pekowsky,nwho ordered life support systems unplugged for an 18-year-old mental patient declared "clinically dead" by physicians. The youth's parents concurred with the judge's decision.

Until Pekowsky's ruling, common law in Wisconsin made death the point at which heart and lungs stopped. Pekowsky said modern technology and life support systems were so developed that definition no longer applies.

"I will accept and adopt total and irreversible cessation of total brain activity as death," the judge said.

Legal questions about the point at which a person is legally dead were first raised several years ago when doctors began transplants of hearts and other organs. Advances in technology allowing vatients like Karen Ann Quinlan to be kept almost indefinitely on respirators added to the debate.

More than a dozen states adopted brain death statutes, but Wisconsin's legislature was reluctant to tackle the issue. Only one bill has been considered — a brain death measure that passed the Senate 21-10 in 1971 but died when the Assembly adjourned.

One reason lawmakers were reluctant to act was the difficulty of defining death. Another was a fear defining death might pave the way for euthanasia, or so-called mercy killing of terminally ill patients.

"Death with dignity" legislation, under which a terminally ill patient could reject extraordinary life support measures, also was considered in Wisconsin in the 1971 session. The bill was killed 19-10 by the Senate.

A Senate committee was set up last session but both issues were quietly dropped after some opponents charged legislation might lead to relatives having respirators turned off for monetary or other selfish motives.

Pekowsky, lacking guidance from the legislature, looked to other states and their definitions of death as the cessation of brain activity. Since the early 1970s, this has been the trend.

Unless Risser's bill is enacted, however, Pekowsky's definition could be lost. The reason is his status as a county judge, whose opinions are not usually written and not formally published in legal books.

"The only copies are in his own files," said Risser. "Unfortunately, his decision does not have the weight of judicial precedent. It can be referred to in other cases, but only if an attorney knows about it. There's no place that it's formally published."

Risser said it was important to preserve the Pekowsky decision in state law because it will guide physicians in deciding when to shut off respirators and aid them in organ transplant cases.

"There is an increasing amount of donation of organs," he said. "It is necessary to keep the heart and lungs operating even after the body can't function normally so the organs can be saved for a transplant."

Five Cities Testing New Jury Call Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five cities are testing a new system to save jurors the frustration and personal expense of hanging around the courthouse day after day while waiting to serve at a trial.

The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration said Sunday the system could make jury duty less burdensome for citizens and could save money for local governments.

The agency is sponsoring the experiment, which began last year in Wayne County, Mich., and will go into operation soon in East Lansing and Macomb County, Mich., Allegheny County, Pa., and Boston. Wayne County includes Detroit and Allegheny County includes Pittsburgh. Philadelphia officials also are considering participating, the agency said.

As it operates in Detroit, each citizen who is summoned for jury duty spends only one day or the length of one trial at the courthouse.

If the potential juror is not selected for a trial on the day he reports for duty, he is released and won't be recalled for jury duty for a year.

Those who are chosen for a trial must serve until it ends, an average of three days in Wayne County. Then they, too, will be free of jury duty for a year.

"The new system has brought about much broader community representation on juries," the LEAA said. "Seven times as many citizens are summoned under the new system and 75 per cent of them actually serve, compared to 45 per cent under the old system."

Courts traditionally have summoned a pool of jurors for 30 days, requiring them to report to the courthouse daily and spend several hours waiting to see whether they will be called for a trial.

Many jurors say they lose money and suffer setbacks in their jobs because they are forced to leave work for so long. They also have complained of the boredom and frustration of the long periods of waiting in uncomfortable courthouse offices.

Wayne County courts have saved $288,000 in jury expenses in the first six months of the experiment, the LEAA said. The county pays jurors $15 a day, and the new system means jurors no longer have to be paid to report for duty on many days they aren't serving on a trial.

Doctors Define Death As When Brain Dies

CHICAGO (UPI) — A man is dead when his brain stops functioning and laws should reflect that definition, six New York doctors said in this week's Journal of the American Medical Association.

The article argues strongly for acceptance of brain death as the legal definition of human death. Some states still define death in other ways or fail to provide uniform definition, leading to complex legal questions about medical treatment.

"We are convinced that society now has sufficient philosophical certainty ... to use destruction of the brain as an indicator that the person has died," the team said.

"The purposes of this communication are to contribute to a resolution of the controversy and thereby to facilitate passage of statutes recognizing brain death ..."

The doctors who contributed to the article include representatives of the Montefiore Hospital and Albert Einstein College of Medicine; the Departments of Biology and Talmudic Law at Yeshiva University; the Institute of Society, Ethics and Life Sciences, and the New York City Health and Hospitals Corp.

"The principal reason for deciding that a person is dead should be based on a fundamental understanding of the nature of man," the doctors said.

"Without a brain, the body becomes the convenient medium in which the energy-requiring states of organs run down and the organs decay. These residual activities do not confer an iota of humanity or personality."

The doctors further reasoned:

The concept of death when the brain stops functioning is not at odds with either Orthodox Jewish or Roman Catholic dogma.

The Orthodox Jewish position allows a distinction between cell life and the total life of an individual. By that definition, "there is no religious imperative to continue to use a respirator ... in an otherwise dead patient."

In Roman Catholic thought, the primary concept of death is separation of the soul from the body. Since that event cannot be observed, theologians have accepted outward signs such as the end of heartbeats and breathing as marking death. But recent teaching holds that if such outward signs are admitted to show death, the underlying cause of brain death is an even more certain symptom of death.

Linguist Studies Apache Dialect

MESCALERO, N.M. (AP) — A German linguist working alongside Mescalero Apaches is trying to put their unwritten language on paper — a project she says could help save the culture of the 2,500-member tribe.

Whether she's preparing food for feasts celebrating the puberty rights of Indian maidens, or handling everyday chores like beadwork and basket making, Dr. Marie-Louise Liebe-Harkort listens.

She hopes to gather enough data to "write the grammar for Apaches to teach Apaches," and believes she will be more effective if she doesn't stand out as an observer.

Her way of studying is "not to stand around getting in the way observing, but to participate," she said.

Dr. Liebe-Harkort, who is fluent in Chinese, Japanese, German, English, French and Turkish, believes "words are a good physical form to hold a concept."

And she says if the "language is gone, the cultural contents are gone."

She said the tribe's language needs to be written. Many English words — "computer," for example, and "television" — have no Apache counterparts.

Her research at this point indicates there are 31 consonants in the Apache language, but that the sounds spelled f, v, th and p do not occur.

The linguist, who lives in nearby Ruidoso while working on the nearby reservation in south-central New Mexico, also said the Mescaleros have beliefs that make their form of communication different.

Dr. Liebe-Harkort said the Mescaleros revere the old, and don't ask direct questions. They consider it impolite to use direct eye contact while conversing.

They don't use a person's name while in the person's presence, and rarely say hello or goodbye.

"They have a much higher awareness, and silence is one way of communicating," she said.

She said an Apache often will reply, "I don't know" when asked a direct question by an Anglo.

But she said that's simply his way of saying, "you are being rude" and does not indicate the Indian's knowledge or intelligence.

Her research into the tribe's unwritten language is financed by a grant from the German Research Society (Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft). The grant is administered through the University of Keil.

Dr. Liebe Harkort also visits tribes in California and Arizona.

She is interested in "bringing together" various writers who have published workbooks for Apache school children as each book seemingly represents a different dialect.

Suharto Makes Mideast Stop

BEIRUT (UPI) — Indonesian President Suharto arrived in Riyadh Sunday for an official three-day visit to Saudi Arabia, the Saudi Press Agency said.

Suharto, on the first stop of a tour of several Middle Eastern countries, was received at the airport by Saudi Arabian King Khaled and Crown Prince Fahd.

Wing Commander Gives Others Chance To Shine

By GERRY BURTON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

It takes a lot of delegation in a $141 million facility like Reese Air Force Base with 2,800 employes and an annual production cost of $48 million.

Col. Charles E. Bishop, "a firm believer in the managerial philosophy of delegation," gives that opportunity to the "excellent supervisors" in every support arm of the 64th Flying Training Wing.

That is the way he gets the responsibility of the base from the Air Training Command: with freedom to do his thing and take the glory or the consequences.

"It's all in how you treat people," the Reese wing commander said. "Treated fairly and squarely, people will retain their self respect — their self worth. Give that to people and you get it back."

He gets it back in the satisfaction of a job well done, a pride in letting others achieve and time for the specific duties of a wing commander.

Bishop keeps abreast of how things go with the mission, but allows others the "chance to make decisions and feel good about it, produce and perform well."

His major task, as he sees it, is to "create an atmosphere, an environment that people want to work in, put out their best effort and achieve, be happy in that achievement, but always looking for other ways to do the job better."

That isn't always easy for a man, particularly a man at the top of the military business pinnacle, because the waves caused by problems dash first at the home front, often long before the effect is felt in the mission.

Bishop has help calming those waves while they still are ripples. It makes the rewards of command, for him, a much better thing, because they are shared.

At Reese, she has eased specific programs in the family-oriented areas and been on the spot in areas where being a woman makes it easier to discern "how goes it" with the Reese mission.

With the Bishops, life and business is a partnership made up of individuals doing their separate things for the common good.

Both have the satisfaction of being self-made achievers climbing the career ladder by opportunities seized and challenges met.

The Bishops met at the Pentagon where he was working out specifications for the air superiority fighter in the office of the assistant chief of staff and she was interpreting photographs for the Vietnam war effort as part of the Defense Intelligence Agency.

They waited seven years, for the right time in the lives of children by former marriages, for the right place in which to start a new life together.

At Reese, in the base chapel, they married shortly after he assumed command in May.

Plunging deep into Reese and Lubbock community responsibilities, they are sharing their honeymoon with West Texans, incurable romantics since pioneer times.

She attends his Civic Lubbock meetings. He makes it to her board meetings for the Lubbock Symphony Orchestra and many Reese functions.

Monday, they will be official hosts for the annual Reese open house, highlighted by the performances of the Air Force's Thunderbirds and the Navy Parachute Team. Gates open to the public at 10:30 a.m. and close at 4:30 p.m.

All day, visitors will see glimpses of the work Reese personnel do to help train pilots for the Air Force.

Since then he and the Air Force "have given each other a fair measure of worth."

He has had a series of exciting jobs — "flying fighters, teaching at the Air Force Academy, working with studies and analysis with the air staff in the Pentagon to help work out requirements for Air Force air-to-air weapons systems, and defending those requirements."

He couldn't ask anything more of the Air Force, which has helped with his education since high school. Without funds for college, he applied to West Point where his brother had gone and was accepted. Later, as a young captain, he earned his master's degree through an Air Force program.

Mrs. Bishop followed a similar pattern, though her career efforts were secondary for years to the assignments of a husband in the service.

Beginning with secretarial duties, she worked wherever and at whatever business-oriented job was available to a service wife.

Her work, analyzing aerial photographs, went on behind many security checks, including one door lock to which she alone had the combination.

At Reese, she listened to worries about base programs, which were sadly lacking in volunteers, and put her own beliefs to work — getting others to accept responsibilities by accepting them herself, first.

With a background as a symphony violinist, Mrs. Bishop spends time helping Lubbock Symphony Orchestra efforts, but no more than any of the many Reese civic responsibilities, from issuing dishes to newcomers until baggage catches up or crocheting in a group to get a craft circle going.

With all efforts, combined and alone, the Bishops already have made a place for themselves in the Reese and Lubbock communities, where they find the reception "super" and "o-verwhelming."

Discovery Tiff Dampens Columbus Day Festivities

By The Associated Press

Planned Columbus Day celebrations to honor the Italian explorer appeared to be fewer in number and smaller in scope throughout the nation on Monday than in the days when Christopher Columbus was considered the true discoverer of America.

No festivities were scheduled in many communities, except for the traditional Columbus Day department store sales. Residents also will know it's a holiday because there's no mail delivery, banks are closed and most government employes have the day off.

Parades were on tap in several larger cities and a scattering of Columbus Day events were being staged. But even in Columbus — the Ohio city named for the explorer — there wasn't much holiday activity in store. A concert and a marathon race were planned, but no parade.

A Miss Columbus beauty pageant was held during the weekend, with Nancy Lyn Patton, 20, of Columbus, Ind., selected as the winner among 14 contestants representing cities named Columbus.

Not all of them sponsored beauty contestants, but there are Columbuses in Georgia, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Mississippi, Montana, North Carolina, North Dakota, Nebraska, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Ohio, Texas and Wisconsin.

New Yorkers celebrate the occasion twice, with the Hispanic community commemorating the voyage Sunday with a Fifth Avenue parade and the Italian community holding its festivities on Monday. The second parade begins in front of the explorer's statue at Manhattan's Columbus Circle then follows Fifth Avenue.

In Hawaii, Columbus Day has been celebrated since 1971 as Discoverers Day to honor all explorers in the Atlantic and Pacific, including the Indians, Polynesian and British explorers as well as Columbus.

In recent years, more weight has been given to theories that the Vikings arrived in the new land long before Columbus did in 1492 and that Asian explorers earlier set foot on the continent in the Bering Strait area. And, of course, the Indians were here first.

Pat Bastiste, vice principal and former history teacher at Meamy Middle School in Seattle, says modern school children have turned Columbus' discovery of America almost into a myth.

"At the beginning of school I ould ask the students who discovered America ... A few would say Columbus, but most would say the Vikings, and some would say there were people here before Columbus came," she said.

Bruce Caron, history teacher at Jack Junior High School in Portland, Maine, said he teaches students that the Vikings probably landed first as well as the Asian explorers theory.

And teacher Jessie Ives of Zebulon Junior High School in Zebulon, N.C., says she teaches an entire unit on Asian, Scandanavian, Turkish, Phoenician and other possible early explorers of the continent before she gets into Columbus and other European explorers.

In New Orleans, however, school board spokeswoman Kathy Behrman says, "We still give old Chris his due" in classroom history lessons. "We are traditionalists."

Russians Doubt Myth Of Bermuda Triangle

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet research team has returned from the Bermuda Triangle, a patch of the Atlantic Ocean famous for ship and aircraft disasters, with the belief that "nothing supernatural" is responsible for the area's high accident rate.

The team manned the research ship Viktor Bugayev as part of the Soviet Union's contribution to Polymode, a five-nation scientific expedition to the area that began earlier this year.

"A close study of the structures under the ocean and the atmosphere of the area, it seems to me, will help to show that nothing supernatual is going on there," expedition leader E.I. Baranov told a correspondent of the Soviet youth newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda in Odessa.

He added that while the Soviet ship was in the triangle, "there were no unexplainnable phenomena either to our senses or in the natural surroundings."

Soviet scientists regularly throw cold water on the prospect of supernatural or unexplainable phenomena existing in the area. But there appears to be vast public interest in the Triangle in the Soviet Union and the area's history has been the subject of several television documentaries here.

A DAILY MESSAGE FROM The Newspaper Bible®

II Peter 1:10-21, 2:1, The Living Bible

10 So, dear brothers, work hard to prove that you really are among those God has called and chosen, and then you will never stumble or fall away.
11 And God will open wide the gates of heaven for you to enter into the eternal kingdom of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.
12 I plan to keep on reminding you of these things even though you already know them and are really getting along quite well!
13,14 But the Lord Jesus Christ has showed me that my days here on earth are numbered, and I am soon to die. As long as I am still here I intend to keep sending these reminders to you,
15 Hoping to impress them so clearly upon you that you will remember them long after I have gone.
16 For we have not been telling you fairy tales when we explained to you the power of our Lord Jesus Christ and His coming again. My own eyes have seen His splendor and His glory.
17,18 I was there on the holy mountain when He shone out with honor given Him by God His Father; I heard that glorious, majestic voice calling down from heaven, saying, "This is My much-loved Son; I am well pleased with Him."
19 So we have seen and proved that what the prophets said came true. You will do well to pay close attention to everything they have written, for, like lights shining into dark corners, their words help us to understand many things that otherwise would be dark and difficult. But when you consider the wonderful truth of the prophets' words, then the light will dawn in your souls and Christ the Morning Star will shine in your hearts.
20,21 For no prophecy recorded in Scripture was ever thought up by the prophet himself. It was the Holy Spirit within these godly men who gave them true messages from God.

CHAPTER 2

1 But there were false prophets, too, in those days, just as there will be false teachers among you. They will cleverly tell their lies about God, turning against even their Master who bought them; but theirs will be a swift and terrible end.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
AND OMAR SHARIF
(c) 1977 by Chicago Tribune

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠7 ♡KQ94 ◇KJ105 ♣8762
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1♡	Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—In support of hearts, your hand revalues to 12 points. Since you are a passed hand, you can get this information across to partner by making a non-forcing jump to three hearts. Had you not been a passed hand, you would probably have to respond two diamonds first and then raise hearts.
Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠J5 ♡QJ92 ◇Q1076 ♣KQ5
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1♠	Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—With 11 points in high cards, stoppers in the unbid suits and no particular fit for partner's suit, you have a perfect way to describe your hand—jump to two no trump. By a passed hand, this shows 11-12 points and is not forcing.
Q.3—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q72 ♡A109542 ♣9543
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1♣	1♡	2♣	3♡
4◇	4♡	6♣	?

What action do you take?
A.—Your length in partner's suit makes it highly likely that the opponents will fulfill their slam, so since the vulnerability is in your favor, you should plan to sacrifice in six hearts. Before doing so, however, we suggest you bid six diamonds as a lead-director. If the opponents venture on to a grand slam, we want to be sure that partner gets off to the diamond lead that defeats that contract.
Q.4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠KQJ63 ♡KQ952 ◇K5 ♣Q
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	2♣	Pass
2♡	Pass	4♣	Pass

What action do you take?
A.—All you need to know with this hand is how many aces partner holds, so wheel out the old Blackwood Convention. Depending on how many aces partner shows in response to your four no trump inquiry, you will place the final contract at an appropriate level.
Q.5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠1074 ♡A854 ◇AK72 ♣Q6
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1♣	Pass	1♡	Pass
2♣	Pass	2◇	Pass
3♣	Pass	?

What action do you take?
A.—A no trump game is ruled out by the apparent lack of a spade stopper, but that does not mean you should give up all hope of completing the rubber on this hand. You have a very good hand that merits one more try. In view of partner's continued bids in clubs, you have excellent support for him, and you should raise to four clubs.
Q.6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠K7 ♡Q106 ◇AQ105 ♣AQJ6
Your right-hand opponent opens the bidding with one diamond. What action do you take?
A.—Because of your shortage in major suits, a takeout double is out of the question. Nevertheless, there is a bid that describes your hand accurately—an overcall of one no trump. That describes a balanced hand at least as strong as a one no trump opening bid, and that is exactly what you have.
Q.7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠62 ♡Q95 ◇763 ♣K10852
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1♠	2◇	Pass	Pass
2♡	3◇	?

What action do you take?
A.—Pass. You have a hand with minimal support for either of partner's suits and only one known working card—the queen of hearts; the king of clubs is of doubtful value. Unless partner can voluntarily bid again, you are going nowhere.
Q.8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠10972 ♡K6 ◇10954 ♣Q84
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1♠	2◇	Pass	Pass
2♡	3◇	?

What action do you take?
A.—Superficially, this hand has the same strength as the one in the previous example. However, there is a world of difference in the offensive power of the two hands. Here you have four-card support for partner's first suit and the king in his second. It would be craven not to compete to three spades, and we wouldn't blame you if you tried four spades.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I read with disappointment your answer to "Jerry in Yonkers." So he hates work (most people do) and is satisfied to settle for meager wages so long as he can keep his car running, enjoy the open road, relax with a can of beer and a story by Faulkner. You told him this country wasn't built by the likes of him, then you marched forward to uphold the Protestant ethic — hard work, striving to get ahead, etc.

The way I see it, why work your tail off for a few more dollars? So you can go down to Florida or out to California and sit on your boat with your ulcers?

Why knock the primitive cultures? At least they know how to enjoy their leisure time. Hunting and gathering societies have fewer tensions than those who live in industrial societies.

Auden called our age "The Age of Anxiety." The films of our time, the poetry, TV, newspapers and nearly every aspect of our "civilized" world reflect that anxiety. This is progress? If it is, has "progress" made us happier? — Back To The Caves

Dear Friend: When you get Back to the Caves, say hello to the monkeys.

Your letter was one of hundreds I received saying the same thing. And most of them from the under-20 group — anti-establishment, anti-industry, anti-business, anti-money . . . and anti-work.

Many readers pointed out that I am luckier than most. I have a job I thoroughly enjoy and an opportunity to travel and meet interesting people. They are right. But I wonder if they know how hard I work at this job, and what it takes to put out 365 columns a year — for 22 years in a row.

Write to me in 1987, kids. You'll be surprised at how your ideas will have changed. Some of you will be bitter and envious of those who have "made it." Others will be mad at themselves for having let the early years of preparation slip by. And still others will be too full of beer to care.

Dear Ann: Six months ago our dear daughter died after a two-year illness. She and her husband were both 35. They had no children.

Yesterday our son-in-law told us he has a girlfriend. I am stunned. Am I wrong to feel he could not have cared much for his wife if he is seeing another woman so soon? Where is his respect for his deceased wife's memory? — Hillsdale

Dear Hillsdale: No one can decide for another how long he should mourn. You should be happy your son-in-law was able to recover from his loss within a few months. I hope you will tell him so.

• • •

Dear Ann Landers: You've said it before but will you please say it one more time — for the record? An awful lot of people in Middletown, N.Y., would be grateful to see it in print.

When the bridegroom backs out of the wedding at the last minute, should the bride return the shower and wedding gifts? A simple yes or no will do. Thank you. — A.S.A.P.

Dear A.S.A.P.: The answer is a simple yes.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY
DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What can you tell me about myasthenia gravis? For five months I have felt weak and have had no pep. Then it really got me down and left me with brain damage. My doctor won't believe me, but after living with it all this time, I know what I have. I still have a hurting in my chest and around the thymus gland. Is there anything he could have given me besides Elavil and Valium, which didn't help? — Mrs. R.C.

I guess the question you need answered is whether you have myasthenia gravis or not. Apparently your doctor doesn't think so.

First, let me describe it for you. It's a disorder in which nerve impulses are not properly transmitted to muscle fibers. The cause is thought to be a chemical defect at this point. The result is muscle weakness, evident first by a drooping of the eyelids, trouble in chewing and in speaking. Women are affected more than men. It's estimated that as many as one in 10,000 may have the disease.

It can be easily overlooked, and is sometimes mistaken for other causes of fatigue — psychoneurosis, laziness, and the like.

The point is that there needn't be any difference of opinion about its presence. Diagnosis is relatively simple. An injection of neostigmine gives a yes or no answer in from 10 to 30 minutes. Also, Tensilon by venous injection shows prompt improvement of muscle response in from 30 seconds to two minutes.

Have you received such tests? If you do have M.G. there are various drugs you can take by mouth to help. Also, corticosteroid injections are effective early in treatment. Finally, the thymus can be involved and removal can result in a cure.

I suggest you be tested for the disorder, if only to relieve your mind about it. You may be leaping to a diagnosis of your own with no justification.

• • •

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had a heart attack recently. My arms and jaws and chest hurt quite badly, and I've had pains in my upper arm when I reach for something. Is this a reaction from my heart attack? — P.J.

It could be a form of angina pectoris, which can follow a heart attack. How do you do with mild exercise or in cold weather? If you pain from either of those situations you can suspect angina. You should report these symptoms to your doctor. Medicine can relieve it. There is a type of post-coronary arm pain that is often relieved by aspirin or the like.

• • •

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to know if passing stool four or five times a day can be dangerous? — F.W.

Could be significant. It depends on whether the stool is formed, or loose and watery. Any pain with it? Any blood or mucus?

A diet high in bulk (roughage) as from excess fruits and vegetables would be one cause, and if you are a nervous person that should be considered. Anything that interferes with proper assimilation of food, such as a lack of hydrochloric acid in the stomach, could be the cause.

It should be investigated, in any event, because of some of the possibilities.

• • •

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My family doctor has prescribed zinc sulfate as a possible help for my arthritis. In my case, I cannot use other medicines for arthritis because I get severe stomach irritation from them. — J.S.

I was not familiar with the use of zinc for arthritis, but I did find a reference to results of a very limited study in which some improvement was noted. The sample was too small to be conclusive. Often the results of one limited study are not substantiated when larger samplings of patients are used. The important factor in your case is that you could not tolerate the other medicines. Chances are the zinc would be even more irritating than they were. Many medicines are constantly being tried.

• • •

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please explain for me what the term "non-specific" means, as in "non-specific prostatitis"? — P.H.

It means that no specific germ has been detected as a cause of the infection.

• • •

To learn the major categories of prostate trouble — symptoms, treatment, how to speed recovery — read Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "The Pesky Prostate." For a copy write to him, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:
My grocery store advertises three-legged fryers in their meat department each Thursday.

Are they manufacturing a chicken which someone has figured how to grow with three legs?

My old man and I have a bet on this. I say no and he says yes. I need that five bucks. Who's right? — Dosie and Fred Moore

Dear Couple:
Don't argue with one another. 'Taint worth it...

A three-legged chicken is when you buy chicken at a store and it has already been cut up into parts. Grocers nowadays often put three legs into a package of cut-up chicken because they have customers whose children just love chicken legs!

Thanks for sending the ad from your newspaper. You are one of many who sent them.

So the answer is, they are not growing three-legged chickens now, but I don't get into family arguments, so you and your husband should kiss and make up.

And that means I have thoroughly checked this out. — Heloise

HINTS FROM HIM
Dear Heloise:
I like to consider myself a sort of handyman around the house. We have a portable dishwasher that we have to hook up to the sink faucet.

However, getting enough pressure out of the faucet in order for the dishwasher to operate properly was always a problem.

So I took the aerator insert out of the faucet and the pressure seemed to increase considerably.

We find the dishwasher works better now and the dishes seem to come out cleaner. — Mr. T.B.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER
Dear Heloise:
It took twelve years to get my hint about nylon net Christmas decorations printed. I hope it won't be that long this time (for my hint to be in your column) or I won't be around to read it! — Frances McElwain

I could say, "better late than never," but that might sound a bit trite. Would you believe the post office lost your letter for twelve years? No?

In that case, I suppose I'd better tell the truth and admit things have been known to become buried around this office (especially on my desk!) But 12 years?

It's still a good hint! — Heloise

• • •

Dear Heloise:
Try crocheting a shopping bag with plastic strips from bread bags, etc. and add a handle on each side.

These also make wonderful bags for school books and are so colorful. Kids love them. — Aldea

• • •

Dear Heloise:
Here is a hint that could be helpful to someone with diminishing eyesight like mine.

I had trouble seeing the center fold on my sheets when making the bed, so I cut the little flower off the front of my girdle and sewed it on the center of the sheet. (Any similar flower would do.)

It works beautifully for I can feel rather than straining to see.

Then I thought, why not use a flower on the front of pants that have elastic waist bands?

No more measuring to see which is the front and which is the back. — Grandma

• • •

Dear Heloise:
My family doesn't care for food cooked in my slow cooker (though I have many friends who think the pots are great!).

So I tried using mine as a food warmer. I cook pot roasts, meatloafs or whatever and put them in the slow cooker to keep warm until everyone is home to eat.

Mashed potatoes and other vegetables will keep warm and fresh in it, also. — Bess

MRS. DONALD L. McCAIN

Saturday Rite Joins Couple

Carla Dean Marshall and Donald Leon McCain were united in marriage in a Saturday ceremony in Trinity Baptist Church. The Rev. Bob Utley officiated.

David McCain of Garland and Jana Marshall served the couple as honor attendants.

Parents of the bride are Albert Marshall of Paducah and Mrs. Eli Vickers. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Conway of Childress are parents of the bridegroom.

VARIED FLAVOR

To vary the flavor of beef pot-roasted with onion, celery and carrot, try adding dill or caraway seed.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

I was going to clean the house a few years back, but I thought, "What the heck. Might as well wait until the children are grown."

The other day my husband said to me, "When are you going to get rid of the potty seat with the ducks on it in the hall bathroom?"

"When the baby no longer needs it."

"The 'baby' is a sophomore at USC."

"He comes home on holidays, doesn't he?"

"Look," he said, "you're being unrealistic to hang onto all this junk. When I get home tonight, I want to see how strong you really are. Just close your eyes and start tossing."

I wanted to throw away my report cards from the first eight grades–I really did–but I rationalized if they ever fell into the wrong hands, I'd be ruined.

I toyed with the idea of discarding three maternity skirts with the cut-out fronts and the drawstrings, but the way my body was going, I figured it was only a matter of months before I could turn them around and wear them backwards.

I wavered over whether or not to toss out a signature of Imogene Coca on a cocktail napkin, a kitchen linen calendar from 1969, and a French fry basket that needed a handle.

On some things, there was no decision to be made...the melted candles, the rain-soaked Halloween masks, a single boot, and 35 used adhesive bows from Christmas packages...all would be saved.

Other things I wasn't so decisive about...the pre-hips bikini suit that would make wonderful coasters. The 15 navel bands (still in pre-soak) that would come in handy if one of the kids suffered from an umbilical hernia.

But I was ruthless. At the end of the day I was proud as I stood beside four neatly stacked boxes of junk!

My husband's eyes glistened when he saw it. "I told you you could do it," he said. "It's just a matter of being realistic and saying, 'I'm never going to use this again.' Wait a minute! Are those my golf scorecards from pre-Pearl Harbor? And the composition books from the first class I ever taught? Good Lord, woman, what are you doing with my loafers with the pennies in them? And my porkpie hat? And the picture of Gale Storm that came with my billfold and..."

Dentist Uses Soft Sounds To Control Patient Stress

BY GARY SEASE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — The shrill whir of Dr. Edward Strother's drill as he approaches a cavity is no more alarming than the cheery smile his receptionist flashes as a patient enters his southside office.

Even the news that a tooth must be pulled usually elicits no more than a "ho, hum".

Why all the calm in a dentist's office, usually reserved for vise-like grips on chair arms?

Strother's patients are hooked on audio tranquilizers he uses to aid in controlling stress and anxiety through self-hypnosis.

"People just psyche out and really enjoy it," said Strother. The dentist and two partners have incorporated Tranquility Inc. to market the audio tranquilizer.

His colleagues are a nationally recognized hypnotist and a recording specialist who develops cassette tapes that slip the patient into a blissful but alert state.

Strother shys away from using the term "hypnosis."

"I used it openly for years but backed off. People think you're a weirdo."

The audio tranquilizer, to be marketed soon by Semantodontics of Phoenix, Ariz., for $400 per unit, consists of a specially wired cassette recorder, six tapes and lightweight earphones that don't prevent the patient from hearing noises other than that of the tape.

"Dentists don't want to be bothered learning the techniques of hypnosis. What we're providing is a push-button device that they will buy and use," he said.

Strother still uses nitrous oxide, commonly known as laughing gas. But in virtually all of his work, the patient is fed only one-third of the gas that would be administered without the audio tranquilizer.

Adults hear soft music and then the soft, soothing voice of Hilda Tant, a hypnotist who instructs the patient in deep breathing exercises, stretching of muscles and explaining away the tension most persons feel in the dentist's chair.

"It's like having a couple of drinks," said Strother, who at 50 wears his hair over his ears and collar and could pass for a youthful 30.

"In most cases, by the time I'm ready to go to work, you're warm, relaxed and have a sense of well-being," he said. "Heck, I wouldn't be surprised that the dentists who use this thing might sit themselves down at the end of the day and listen to the tape."

While Strother says a few of his patients are not receptive to hypnosis and standard amounts of pain-killing gas must be given them, he says it works well for most.

"Once the patient is relaxed by a combination of the nitrous oxide and the tape, he doesn't give a flip," Strother said.

The audio tranquilizer was developed after a year's research by Strother, Mrs. Tant and Ed Boutwell, who owns a recording studio in Birmingham.

"I had found that the gas and the audio tranquilizer work reasonably well separately. Together, they are marvelous," Strother said. "Even in complicated cosmetic work where I have to take measurements, I can take the earphones off and the patient remains in the trance."

The painless session is a result of hypnotic suggestion in which Mrs. Tant gives a rational explanation for dental work. She assures the patient that pain can be felt only to the degree that a person wants to feel uncomfortable.

As the dental procedure nears its end, Strother swtiches the cassette player to "alert" and in two minutes Mrs. Tant is talking the patient out of the relaxed state.

"Certainly there's some pain involved in most dental procedures," Strother said. But as long as you take the fear and apprehension out of the environment, the dentist's work is going to be that much easier and the patient's visit more pleasant."

Oswald: "One of the real benefits derived from membership in the American Contract Bridge League is the monthly bulletin that includes a great deal of valuable bridge information."

Oswald: "The slam bid is a perfect one, but many players would lose it because West holds both the ace and jack of clubs."

Jim: "The winning player sees an extra chance. Maybe dummy's fourth diamond can be established. So he starts proceedings by discarding two diamonds on dummy's ace and king of hearts. Then he cashes the ace of diamonds, ruffs a diamond, enters dummy with the king of trumps over his own queen and ruffs another diamond. Everyone follows and he has a parking place for his six of clubs. If diamonds failed to break he could still try the club play."

Oswald: "Note Easley's bidding. South did not use Blackwood because he had a void suit."

pu ASK THE JACOBYS here

A California reader wants to know what the penalty is for a player who reminds partner during the bidding that there is a part score.

Bridge rules provide no penalty except that the offender's partner may be barred. Thus, if the bidding has gone one club-two-clubs-three clubs and the three-club bidder says, "We have 40 on score," the offender wants to bar his partner so the only penalty available is to stop playing with the culprit.

Clip 'n' Cook

PUMPKIN OAT MUFFINS

1 cup all-purpose flour
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
2 tsps. baking powder
1 tsp. pumpkin pie spice
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. baking soda
¾ cup home-cooked or canned pumpkin puree
1 egg, slightly beaten
¼ cup milk
¼ cup oil
1 cup oats
½ cup raisins
Topping, see below

Stir together the flour, sugar, baking powder, spice, salt and soda. Add combined pumpkin, egg, milk and oil; stir just until dry ingredients are moistened. Stir in oats and raisins. Fill greased, medium-size muffin cups ¾ full. Sprinkle with the Topping. Bake in a preheated 425-degree oven until golden brown — 18 to 20 minutes. Serve at once. Makes one dozen.

Topping: Mix together until crumbly 1/3 cup firmly packed brown sugar, 1 tbsp. butter (melted), 1 tbsp. flour and ¼ tsp. pumpkin pie spice.

Bakke Case Could Affect Many

BY BETTY YARMON

NEW YORK (WNS) — Does the developing national debate over affirmative action, goals and quotas affect you? Should you be interested in the so-called Bakke case, where the U.S. Supreme Court is preparing to hear the arguments of a white male named Allen Bakke who charges he was refused admission to the University of California Medical School at Davis while blacks with lesser credentials were admitted?

You certainly should be concerned. At stake are jobs in the private and public sector as well as opportunities in college and beyond, and that means millions of families in the long run can be touched in their pocketbooks.

At the heart of the debate is this problem: It's national policy to try to bring minority groups — blacks, Hispanics, American Indians, and others — into the mainstream of American life by ending years of patterns of discrimination against them. But in giving one person favored treatment, will this be at the expense of another, particularly if there aren't enough good jobs to go around and if the places in a university are limited? Aren't we then turning our backs on the traditional American policy of rewarding people on the basis of individual merit?

The issue is highly complicated, and the confusion over the terms used doesn't help. That's why a recent letter in the New York Times, which sought to curb the confusion, was so welcome when a prominent attorney defined some of the words that are at the core of the problem and that have been used loosely and imprecisely. The key definitions were these.

Goals — numerical targets for increasing the representation of qualified persons from groups previously discriminated against, with "timetables" for achieving these targets.

Affirmative Action — Failure to reach the set goals does not result in a governmental penalty so long as there are valid reasons for that failure and a good-faith effort has been made by the employer or university to meet them.

Quotas — in contrast to goals, these are numerical targets that must be met, either as a matter of established policy or in pain of governmental penalty, even if this requires hiring or admitting applicants less qualified than others.

Reverse Discrimination — often achieved through the imposition of quotas, this is the rejection of applicants with superior qualifications because they happen not to belong to groups being favored in compensation for past discrimination.

Certain types of affirmative action have been on the American scene since the late 1960s. They were devised in response to the belief that when a group — racial, ethnic, or other — has been handicapped by generations of second-class status and neglect, something more than removal of discriminatory barriers is needed to let its members catch up. Among them are these:

Targeted recruitment — a concerted effort is made to reach groups in the population who previously have been unrepresented in an institution or organization. In this way, it is hoped that opportunities will be shown to exist for suitable individuals, and applications will be encouraged.

Compensatory training — educational or job-training programs specifically designed to overcome the handicaps of inferior schooling or past discrimination on the job. The object is to help members of disadvantaged groups meet existing standards of admission or employment, the standards themselves presumed to be fair.

Modified admission standards — members of disadvantaged groups are accepted — as students, employees, etc. — even though they do not measure up to existing standards but do appear to be capable of catching up within a specified length of time. Often this procedure is coupled with compensatory training.

Modified standards of ability or performance — criteria for retention, promotion, or graduation — are changed on the grounds that existing critera inherently favor persons of some cultural backgrounds over others.

A complicated business? It certainly is. And what the Supreme Court decides in the Bakke case may well changed what is acceptable and what is not. Meanwhile, it's fast becoming one of the most debated issues of the day, and the more you learn about the terms used, the better prepared you will be to take part in it.

Sparks-Porch Plan Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Sparks announce the engagement of a daughter, Sharon Elaine, to Robert Lee Porch, son of Mrs. Louise Porch of Fort Worth.

The bride-elect is a student at Texas Tech University. The future bridegroom was graduated from Lubbock Christian College.

Business & Industrial Review

Mickie's Beauty Academy Now Accredited At National Level

This is explained as a distinct honor, indicative of the remarkable progress made by the school in its two years in business.

Note these other significant facts regarding Mickie's Beauty Academy, located on the southwest side of Monterey Center, phone 792-3359:

The academy can now honor Basic Educational Opportunity Grants.

The school is expanding, with 1,400 square feet being added to the already-expansive facility.

A new facial department is being added.

The public is invited to utilize services of the school, at school prices. (Call for appointment; patrons are welcome Tuesdays through Saturdays.)

Growth Documented

Mickie's Beauty Academy presently has the largest enrollment of its history, and Mickie Roper, owner, aptly points out that tremendous opportunities are unfolded for students taking advantages of the academy's instruction.

Enroll Any Day

Enrollment is available any day, and Mickie personally instructs, with her students said in wide demand in salons throughout the area.

A Vocational Program is underway, and public schools are invited to contact Mickie's Beauty Academy for full information.

Hair weaving is now offered as a distinct course (with Mickie emphasizing this is the only school in the area offering this.).

Students at the academy are encouraged to reach greatest proficiency, and special plaques are presented for banner achievements. Students are taught to create and design their own styles and cuts.

There is so much going for Mickie's Beauty Academy, including the heralded accreditation, that only a visit will properly convey what it has to offer one as either a student or customer.

"Won't you find out, now, for yourself?

Precision Tune In Lubbock Stresses 'Good Product At Reasonable Price'

Open since March, Precision Tune, 34th Street at Avenue Q in Lubbock, has apparently made quite a good name for itself. Customer response has been reported exceptionally good by the manager and local co-owner, Hank Tunnell.

Motor tune-up is the only business of the firm, Tunnell, an area native, emphasizes, with prices sure to appeal.

For a 4-cylinder auto, tune-up price is $25.50, for 6 cylinder, $27.50, and for 8 cylinder, $29.90, with these prices including parts and labor!

Involved are all-new Champion spark plugs, points and condensor, adjust timing and set carburetor plus (if needed) at no extra charge, replacement of P.C.V. valve, fuel filter, rotor cap, distributor cap and three spark plug wires.

Good, qualified mechanics are another pride of Tunnell who actively is on the job, with the clearly-marked, easy-to-find shop open from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m., Mondays through Fridays and until 5 p.m. Saturdays.

Appointments, though not absolutely necessary, are welcomed. Same-day service is the rule, and one usually has to wait only 45 minutes to one hour, Hank reveals.

Modern Equipment

Success Story

Precision Tune was founded in October 1976 in Beaumont by Bill Childs, who still is president of Precision Tune, Inc., of Beaumont. His first venture (in a vacant service station in Beaumont) has grown until he owns five shops in the Texas-Louisiana area including partnership in the Lubbock operation.

"It adds to a business that will have close to $1 million in gross sales when all the projected shops (eight or 10 more) are opened this year."

Childs says he got the idea for his tune-up shops from a 1974 report on automotive tune-up shops. Afer visiting a similar operation in California and researching the concept, he started his own business that has resulted in the noteworthy expansion.

Any doubts Childs had about generating interest in his project were dispelled this summer after International Entrepreneurs and Business Week magazine published articles on Precision Tune and the franchising of tune-up shops. Childs said he received inquiries from more than 150 persons as far away as Alaska and Canada.

High traffic, visibility and accessibility mark the Precision Tune operations, and the Lubbock facility is no exception.

"Meet Mank Tunnell and his staff, note their know-how, their modern equipment, and their devotion to service . . . and you'll discover why Precision Tune, in Lubbock, is recommended."

'Economical Entry Into Fall' Sure When Woolco Considered

It is so easy to move into fall at Woolco!

Cool fall weather already has made its introduction, so it is high time to complete the season's wardrobe.

Woolco has an excellent selection of newest fall fashion looks including great new jackets and coats for girls and ladies . . . and sweaters, pants, shirts and dresses. Of course, the newest styles in socks and hosiery are provided, together with a fantastic selection of gloves, mittens, hats and scarves.

Shop now also, for warm, stylish lounge wear and pajamas.

Hunting Needs

Another reminder:

Fall is hunting season, and Woolco is your hunting headquarters.

Select from rifles and shotguns for every hunter's needs, and ammunition for all guns sold. There is a vast selection of black powder handguns and rifles, kit form and assembled.

Apparel

Cold weather hunting wear is stocked in abundance. There is thermal underwear and down-filled water-repellent outer wear, boots and liners for those cold, damp duck blinds, too.

Rifle and shotgun scopes for everyone's budget are stocked, together with a great line of camping gear, camp stoves, lanterns, heaters, sleeping bags and cots, tents and back packs.

There is sporting goods for fall and winter sports, footballs in several sizes and price ranges, shoulder pads and helmets, and basketballs and backboards.

Fall is the beginning of the holiday season . . . and now is the proper time to select at Woolco from so much for each of the events.

MAE FOLEY CALLS ATTENTION TO ITEMS FOR SEASON

Then comes December and Christmas. Already available at Woolco is a great selection of toys (shop now while selection is complete). Arriving shortly will be Christmas cards, gift boxes and wrap, tags and seals, ribbons and bows.

Also wreaths and bows for home decorating.

Great gift ideas are presented throughout the store . . . such as jewelry and watches, clothing, bicycles and toys, records and tapes, calculators and typewriters, cologne and toilet articles for men and women . . . and new and exciting arrivals are noted daily.

Specific New Items For New Season, Low Woolco Prices Highlight Stock

Various new items at low Woolco prices are offered for the fall and winter season . . . at Woolco in Lubbock.

A wide selection of gift items is noted in the houseware, hardware and small appliances departments, for example.

Included are such new items as the "Fry Daddy", "Donut Factory", "Fry All", "Fast Frank" and even other items not listed.

Also offered is the television-advertised "Ronco Ice Cream Maker", the "Zoom Broom", "Tidie Drier", and the "Smokeless Ash Tray".

"We handle new items in such fine glassware lines as Libby, Anchor Hocking and J. G. Durand."

Also merchandised is the Ekco kitchen tool center. And Melmac dinnerware, imported china and Hull pottery.

"We stock a wide selection of Black & Decker shop equipment including drills, sanders, jigsaws, circular saws, etc., all of which make wonderful Christmas remembrances."

The tools at Woolco include such famous brands as K & S. This department also has a good selection of brackets, hooks, shelving and standards for the do-it-yourself builder.

Woolco's Christmas Shop will provide the holiday shopper with a wide selection of artifical Christmas trees, live trees, decorations, ornaments and light sets. The Christmas Shop is located at the east end of the big store (where the Garden Shop formerly was located). The Christmas Shop will display nativity sets, garlands and icicles, together with light sets from GE — both indoor and outdoor. The live trees should arrive by Dec. 1, and it is planned to have the Christmas Shop completed by Nov. 1 for our customers' convenience . . . at Woolco.

'SAVINGS ENABLED BY STORE'S BUYING POWER' — Emma Lou Fry, manager of the Outhouse Factory Outlet, 2425 34th St., is shown in an area of that store hinting of the concept wherein "recognized name" apparel is made available at appealing prices.

'Outhouse Factory Outlet Enabling Quality At Saving'

Brand names that are known and respected are featured. Fall wear presently dominates the stock, with new merchandise received every week.

And name-brand high fashion shirts, from $4.50 to $11.99.

Also there are jumpsuits and overalls, boys and girls sizes, 4 to 18.

Plus goose-down jackets and vests.

Bargain tables feature one with any item at $1.99, another with any item at $4.99 and another devoted to a group of jeans at $6.99.

Clearance on a group of men's jackets at $7.99 provides further saving opportunity.

Any member of the family can save at Outhouse Factory Outlet, Inc., the folks there want to prove. (Infants wear is not stocked, as an exception.)

Independantly Owned

The 34th Street store (the only Outhouse Factory Outlet, Inc. store in Lubbock) has been in its present location for one year. Mrs. Emma Lou (Louis) Fry, longtime area resident, is manager, and Jimmy Stennett is owner.

The Outhouse Factory Outlet started in Amarillo in 1974, and as the business grew it "became apparent that by buying in large quanities from various manufacturers, better quality and lower costs name brand goods could be obtained. So . . . satellite stores were established in Plainview, Lubbock and Wichita Falls, with each of these locally owned, although all buying was centrally done in Amarillo.

Volume Buying Power

Due to the early success of these stores, others went into business, and now there are more than 40 in a multi-state area.

Buying power has increased many times due to the expansion of the business, and the local management points out how opportunity thus has been provided for the customer to buy at factory direct prices.

The Outhouse Factory Outlet, Inc., store in Lubbock is open from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays, and both Master Charge and Visa purchases are welcomed.

Specific Values Told In Anniversary Sale Now At Tick Tock Clock Shop

During this sale, marking the big shop's second anniversary, one can save up to $200 on grandfather clocks, with appreciable savings on wall and mantle clocks.

What an opportunity for selecting and laying away for Christmas! Tick Tock Clock Shop (in Monterey Center) emphasizes there is no interest or carrying charges on layaway purchases there.

Also there is free delivery and set-up, and three-year warranty on all floor clocks!

Clock To Be Given

Look at these that are among the sale prices posted:

Wall Clocks

Ash School House No. HE210, strikes on hour and half-hour, regular $275, one only at $245;

Mantle Clocks

Grandfather Clocks

FARMERS INSURANCE GROUP DISTRICT OFFICE

Farmers Insurance Group Serving In City With Multiple Agents, Offices

"Homeowners insurance with 20 per cent discount for most homes!"

"Savings on auto insurance if you don't smoke!"

"Excellent savings opportunities through IRA."

These are among the reasons for knowing and utilizing the services of a Farmer Insurance Group independent agent in Lubbock.

"Anything in insurance" is the correct image of Farmers Insurance Group, Los Angeles based organization celebrating its 50th anniversary in 1978 and one that has been represented in Lubbock for over a quarter century.

Seven office locations are now utilized in Lubbock, with another under construction. These are located at 3323 83nd St. (the district office); 2221 34th St., 5106 Slide Road, 5602 Slide Road, 3534 34th St., 3409 50th St. and 4417 50th St.

Among the local Farmers Insurance Group agents are Jerry Rose, Jim White, Don Busby, Rick Dyer, Tom Malone, Gene Cribbs, Gary Jeter, Dick Heath, Alline Baxter;

Joe Schoenig, John Hatchett, Howard Havery, Lee Robertson, Lanny Harris, Don Freeman, Jere Smith, Presley Shofner and Philip Wilbanks. Bill Hatchett is district manager.

Each is thoroughly versed in the full spectrum of insurance services — auto, fire, life, truck, boat, commercial, liability and all.

IRA Outlined

Allowable savings contributions are 100 per cent tax sheltered.

Payments, less an expense charge, earn a high prevailing interest rate (currently 8 per cent) with 4 per cent guaranteed.

The proceeds guarantee a life income from the date one elects to retire, anytime between 59 1/2 and 70 1/2 years of age.

Funds continue to grow even when payments are suspended.

Payments can vary each year.

No current tax on the interest on your capital accumulation.

Systematic methods of savings;

Freedom from investment decisions;

And a further word to the wise:

"Don't renew your Homeowner's Insurance until you get all the facts about Farmer's Homeowners Package Policy; Farmer's designed it with you in mind to give you all the coverage you need, and at substantial savings."

'Better Hearing Aid Center' Holding One-Week Open House

Need hearing help, or suspect that you may?

Then, there is good news:

Open House is being conducted throughout this week, Oct. 10-15, at the Better Hearing Aid Center, No. 30, Redbud Square in Lubbock.

During this event, a full $50 deducation is arranged on custom all-in-the-ear aids.

Also . . . 10 per cent off is posted on all over-the-ear units and all accessories.

And . . . there is a free gift for everyone!

James O. Davidson, certified hearing aid audiologist, will be in the office throughout the week and invites all to come in for evaluation and to see the latest model aids available.

Davidson now has a most helpful program to assist one "after" purchase of the hearing aid, too. This C.A.R.E. program includes a video unit with a series of tapes that explains graphically how to enjoy and use one's aid to the fullest. It helps, among other things, in "learning how to listen," in adjustment of the aid, and even helpful hints on "attitudes."

Area Service

Other benefits also are provided at Better Hearing Aid Center. Davidson makes scheduled trips throughout the area, and those desiring service or consultation "near to home" are invited to check his ads appearing each Monday on these pages to learn of his current schedule.

Multi-Line Dealer

The Better Hearing Aid Center is a multi-line dealer, specializing in all-in-the-ear models, remember. Service and repairs on any make of hearing aid is expertly given, too.

In West Lubbock

"If you hear . . . but do not always understand . . . maybe all you need is the custom-made, all-in-the-ear hearing aid from Better Hearing Aid Center, Redbud Square (on Slide Road), phone 792-0507."

Learn about the convenience and utility of the tiny unit that fits all in the ear, helping nature help you hear better.

For hearing loss suitable to correction and improvement through amplification, a "Contour" hearing aid by Dahlberg offers a special kind of hearing help for mild, moderate or moderately-severe hearing impairment.

Starting with an exact impression of your own ear, a plastic shell is formed which duplicates the contours of your ear. Dahlberg's evaluation committee then analyzes your hearing loss supplied by your hearing aid specialist and selects the most suitable degree and type of amplification. Dahlberg's manufacturing staff then assembles the electronic components specified and makes your "Contour" to order winthin you own contoured shell . . . providing your personal hearing aid.

"Individually made to order for you, no two are alike.'

Davidson, a Lubbock resident since 1948 and an area native, is most sincere — and qualified — in his invitation to call 792-0507 or come by the center for professional assistance. He is most enthused, and rightly so, about the two custom-made, all-in-the-ear aids (1) the Miracle Ear and (2) the Contour all-in-the-ear model, both from Dahlberg.

Davidson and customers alike express enthusiasm for the related "Dahlberg consumer Protection Plan" in which a 30-day money-back privilege is afforded (with exception of custom made earmolds and dispensing fee).

Long-Established Policy

"See your doctor first, then see us," long has been the sensible suggestion of Davidson, multi-line dealer service 22 counties in Texas and eastern New Mexico, a policy initiated without prompting of goverment regulations.

Miracle Ear

"Our new variable compression settings enable fitting the hearing aid to your individual loss. We have numerous models, one of which will parallel your hearing loss.

"Mild nerve deafness? Then 'Miracle Ear' may be all you need to hear clearly again. It fits entirely in you ear and is ideal for the majority of persons who can still hear but have trouble understanding words.

"If you hear sounds but don't always understand words (a classic symptom of nerve impairment), our recommendation is Miracle Ear, developed and patented by Dahlberg Electronics, Inc."

Aids Electronically Tested

"Do not hesitate to visit or call (phone 792-0507, or residence phone 799-0333). Likely Jim Davidson, hearing aid audiologist, can help you, too."

'FOR FIREPLACE ACCESSORIES, CABINET HARDWARE AND MORE, SEE CHILDRESS'

Fireplace Screens, Tools, Accessories Included In Childress Hardware Stock

"One of these days you'll be glad you thought ahead in October — to the colder days sure to come."

Right now is the time to think Childress Hardware — for the best in Dearborn space heaters, gas logs, stoves, grates, logholders, fireplace sets, screens, radiant heaters, wood stoves, andirons, other fireplace accessories and heat-related needs.

Childress Hardware Store, at 902 Main St. in Lubbock, has a long, long record of stocking needed items — and the heating line is no exception.

Fireplace Accessories

A complete stock of accessories and major items is maintained, and one has only to see the wide selection grouped on the second level at Childress Hardware to recognize that here is the one-stop shopping center for winter heating needs.

Replacement Radiants

Even replacement radiants are stocked among the practical items for which Childress is known.

Then, too, Childress Hardware has a lot of other appropriate items for the season, things that one should be considering for Christmas plans!

Cast iron cook ware, Corning Ware, Stanley Tools, Revere Ware, Pyrex, power tools and other hardware items are sure to please someone on the Christmas list.

Tools For Builder

Whatever the job at hand, there is no reason for it being made more difficult by inadequate tools and equipment.

So — rely on the Fred Childress Hardware Store where again the finest builders' tools have been stocked.

Remember the old-fashioned hardware store, where one could buy just about anything from a box of nails to harness snap or a pulley wheel for the well?

The Fred Childress Hardware Store still retains that well-remembered atmosphere, while at the same time stocking the most up-to-date items offered by spaceage hardware suppliers.

No Newcomer

There has been a hardware store at this location, right across the street north of the courthouse, for more than 50 years, and the Childress name has been associated with the hardware business in Lubbock for nearly half a century. Old traditions of quality and services survive amid the attractive, modern displays.

Here you can purchase an old-fashioned sprinkling can or a lawn watering device that negotiates your yard; a well pulley (believe it or not there're still in demand) or a lamp chimney.

"And at inventory time we show more than 10,000 different items!"

Childress Hardware is a popular place with carpenters and craftsmen, who make it headquarters for nails of all sizes, as well as a wide range of other fastenings — capscrews, stove bolts, carriage bolts, machine screws, metal screws, wood screws and brass screws.

Then there's chain and rope in all sizes for anything from home to industrial or farm use.

Cabinet Hardware

Hand tools of all kinds are displayed and brands — Stanley, Crescent, Thorson, Nicholson, Bluegrass, Disston, Lufkin and Plumb — are those associated with quality and integrity in tool-making for generations.

Fred Childress Hardware also stocks one of the most extensive line of cabinet hardware in the city, with latest designs in hinges, pulls and latches attractively displayed. Here again brands such as Stylecraft, Christensen, Wicker-Stamey, Phylrich and Pfanstiel are indicative of top quality and design.

Availability, Freight Saving Explained By City Wholesaler

Selling wholesale only, the El Paso Wholesale Company in Lubbock is the city's complete wholesale firm.

Customers include grocery and hardware stores, auto supply houses, service stations, toy stores, sporting goods stores, etc.

Located at 206 23rd St., phone 747-1841, in Lubbock, the El Paso Wholesale Company Lubbock Division carries and stocks a full selection of hard line merchandise.

From time to time partial lists of the products have been published on these pages of the Avalanche-Journal, and readers have noted that the products and brand names are ones that can be appreciated, together with the completeness of this wholesale firm.

Freight Savings

Among the benefits area merchants find foremost at El Paso Wholesale Company Lubbock Division, aside from the selection, is the freight situation.

Doesn't it make sense that savings are enabled through the region by virture of the big-stock Lubbock warehouse that features faster, shorter delivery transport? Let this Lubbock wholesale firm prove it to your own benefit with products such as:

CB radios by Midland and Cobra ("we also have the Fuzzbuster"), guns and ammunition including Federal ammunition, Remington guns and ammunition, and Marlin guns.

Corning Ware and Pyrex;

Even new and popular toy items are stocked — such as skateboards.

Among the many appropriate items for young birthdays are toys, of course. Such as those by Tonka, Playskool, Marx, Mattel and many other top-name lines.

Among the electronics stocked are CB radios, Sony televisions, stereos and recorders; and General Electric radios, TVs and recorders.

Cameras and accessories are stocked in abundance and include the renowned names of Polaroid, Vivitar, Keystone and Kodak film.

Ray-O-Vac flashlights and batteries, Dupont Lucite paint, paint brushes and accessories, Dap products, step ladders, Red Devil paint equipment, Nelson sports socks, Chemold sports equipment, Champion gloves, golf and handball needs;

Diversified sports equipment such as bikes, hunting needs, Daisy BB guns; Cossman, Benjamin and Marksman BB guns;

Outers and Hoppes gun cleaning supplies, Remington guns and ammunition; Zebco and Garcia fishing equipment, complete fishing and terminal tackle camping equipment, Coleman products;

Regal frames, Cross pens, Zippo lighters;

Roller Derby skates, Ben Pearson archery equipment; Wilson, Spalding, MacGregor, Rawlings, Ram and A-Jay sporting equipment; General Sportscraft sport equipment and Nelson sporting items; Arnie golf shoes, Fraibil sport equipment, Puma shoes, Converse sport shoes, and more.

GAF film, Kodak film, Wiss scissors, Fiskars scissors, Tommie Tippie baby needs, Buckeye baby needs, Tintex liquid dye;

West Bend cook ware and appliances; Lerner sewing chests. Proctor ironing boards, Queens wire goods, Ekco bath accessories, Bearley and Detecto bath scales; Hamilton mirrors, Rubbermaid products, Daizy products, Popiel products; Sunbeam, Norelco, Ronson and Remington razors.

Then there are Northern appliances, Presto pressure cookers and appliances.

ANNIVERSARY EVENT MARKED BY SAVINGS, SELECTION — Young Esquire owner 'Marge' Helm (at right) and staffmember Alyne Taylor are pictured here with two young men modeling smart in-season jackets from the firm. Modeling is Mike Gilmore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gilmore and grandson of Mrs. Helm, sporting a Flitton jacket; while John Rankin, son of Mr. and Mrs. J.M. Rankin, displays a Mr. Chips jacket.

Young Esquire 9th Anniversary Marked By Week-Long Specials

These nine years, which have passed so fast, have been marked with mutual benefit to customer and ownership at Young Esquire, and "Marge" Helm, founder and still owner, is indeed appreciative of the friendships and trade that have made for the success story of Young Esquire.

Together with a most, most sincere "thank you", Young Esquire throughout this week is marking all fall merchandise at a full 25 per cent off in its Anniversary Event.

So . . . no only is father-son shopping for smart wearing apparel for each made easy at this beautiful, fully stocked store, but throughout this week, Oct. 10-15, a special price advantage prevails.

"May we have the pleasure of your visit this week?"

Name-brand merchandise at popular prices for both men and young men comprises the extensive stock at Young Esquire, and the approval and generous acceptance of an appreciated clientele has resulted in continuouis growth of Young Esquire. Men's wear through size 20 in regulars and longs is stocked, making the firm a great store for "the men in the family".

Notable on the racks in the modern, attractive, departmentalized store are men's items including leather and suede jackets, even ski jackets, slacks, sport coats, shirts, sweaters, belts and other accessories.

And there is so much for the young gentlemen, in a size range of 5-20.

For wardrobe selection for the new season and the impending holiday activities, one-stop shopping at Young Esquire can meet every boy's and young man's need.

History Unique

History of Young Esquire is quite an engaging success story, unique and interesting:

Young Esquire was established Oct. 2, 1968 as a result of affection for a young grandson and the frustrating attempts to help his mother with shopping for his wardrobe!

At that time he couldn't have cared less about the clothes he wore to Sunday School, nursery or to neighborhood birthday parties. The matter of being "in style" probably ran a poor second to the games, fun and ice cream when "dress-up" time came.

The responsibility for his appearance was taken more seriously by his mother, Mrs. Larry Gilmore, and his doting grandmother, "Marge" Helm, who became the owner and active manager of Young Esquire.

The wife of a successful Lubbock businessman, "Aunt Margie," as she is affectionately known by many, says the going into business was the farthest thing from her mind until shortly before establishing the highly successful Young Esquire.

"The repeated, frustrating shopping trips with Mrs. Gilmore for Mike and sister, Debbie, pointed up a glaring weakness in the Lubbock shopping scene," she recalls.

For Debbie, the situation was not bad. Many stores had considered the needs of the younger misses, and it is no big problem shopping for them, Mrs. Helm points out.

"Shopping for Mike was an appalling situation," she relates. "We went from store to store trying to find a selection of styles and sizes — to no avail. I finally said I guess I would just have to open up my own shop — and that's exactly what I did!"

Layaway purchases are invited, as are Master Charge and Visa transactions.

The Young Esquire is open from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

So — small wonder mothers depend on Young Esquire for school and other youth wear, always in a wide size range of youthful fashions. And don't forget that men's sizes are stocked, also.

Quaker Manor Residents Take Many Honors In South Plains Fair Exhibits

Planned activities are a vital part of the program at Quaker Manor, Inc., nursing facility with special care at 4403 74th St., phone 795-0868, in Lubbock.

If fact, so proficient have many of the residents become that significant awards including cash prizes were won at the just-concluded South Plains Fair.

To be specific, 19 ribbons were received, with two in art and 17 in craft items, with eight 1st Place awards.

To celebrate, a big Appreciation Party was given honoring the exhibitors Tuesday afternoon at Quaker Manor.

It all contributes to the facility's emphasis that "it costs no more to enjoy the best"!

Quaker Manor has multiple and evident benefits, with the residents of the facility served in exceptional manner.

Established about four years ago as a locally operated enterprise, Quaker Manor, Inc., has been quite well accepted, as indicated by its full occupancy and a waiting list.

Qualifying for old age assistance and welfare as an Extended Care Facility, Type 3, Quaker Manor provides 96 beds, and the exceptional care is correctly hinted by the large staff of 60 employees and the spacious facilities throughout.

Janell Burns, lifelong Lubbock resident with eight years experience in the nursing home field, is administrator.

Shirley Anderson, LVN, is director of nursing.

All residents must have doctors' referral, and all medications are by doctors' orders.

No extended contract period is involved, and residence can be for any length of time, in no instance necessarily permanent.

Spic & Span Cleaners Explains How Today's Clothing Needs Care By Pros

Luxurious clothing needs professional care.

This year there is a new surge in natural fibers.

Since the early 1970's when polyester and other easy-care products became popular, the natural fabrics have taken a back seat. But . . . garments in the natural fiber fabrics are back on the market in increasing numbers at this time.

Professionalism Important

These natural fiber garments are more expensive, and they will by all means need to be cared for by a professional drycleaner!

"When we speak of the natural fiber fabrics, we are refering to wool, silk, crepe, rayon, alpaca, camel hair, mohair, cashmere, angora, vicuna and many, many more. Some of these natual fibers are blended with each other or with some of the man-made fibers. All these must (and we stress the point) have professional care."

Hints In Buying:

When purchasing a new garment, do not buy in haste; check it carefully for fiber content, construction of workmanship, linings, color fastness, trims and care label. Beware of fabrics that look and feel like natural fibers but are not. Some will tend to be soft, lush to the touch and will resemble the real thing. Wools are showing in gabardine light crepe knits and in all manner of men's wear. The silk look is back; however some that look and feel like silk are often synthetic.

Along with these fabrics comes a more soft and feminine style . . . lots of gathers, ruffles and fuller skirts are in fashion, with a tendency to hang uneven at the hemline. Some have been sized heavily and after wearing or cleaning them a few times, the sizing will break down and the garment will lose its crispness and get out of shape.

Always buy from a reputable store and then have them cared for by a professional drycleaner.

Long On Scene

Chester and Janette Holder, owners of Spic & Span Cleaners, specialize in one thing only: "the dry cleaning industry".

They have been serving the people of Lubbock for some 28 years and are real pros in the drycleaning field.

Both are active workers in the business and they keep their minds alert for anything new that comes on the market. There are willing to pass on any information concerning the care of one's clothing.

Spic & Span Dry Cleaners are members of local, state and international associations. Chester serves as a board member for the state association, and Janette accompanies him to all sessions and training programs.

Two Plants

They have expanded their business by opening the new plant on 70th Street and Indiana Avenue which is very convenient to all you people who have migrated on south and west! They would like to say "thanks" to you who already have made their new plant a success, and they invite you who have not visited it to come by, look and give the new location a try.

"The original plant, at 2109 50th St., is going strong, so all you people who haved moved to this great city and who live in this vicinity, we invite you to patronize this plant.

"Remember . . . 'some bigger, none better; no brag, just facts'!

Lubbock Steel & Supply Considers Farmer With Quality-Economy Combo

"Don't wait a day longer!"

"That is, if you have no cotton trailers ready, Mr. Farmer. Or if you need more units than those you already have for the cotton harvest season that's here!"

So . . . check the advantages of the pre-cut cotton trailer kits, some partially pre-fab, at Lubbock Steel and Supply Co., 62nd Street at Quirt Avenue.

"Probably you saw our exhibit at the South Plains Fair and liked what you saw! Then, why wait; won't you give us a visit now at our big south Lubbock facility and profit from purchase of these products?"

Also:

Prices from 10 cents per pound up on random length tubing and pipe, angles, rounds, flats, etc., in both new and used material!

With an exceptionally large steel inventory, special prices are continued at Lubbock Steel and Supply to "move out" random lengths and even prime stock length material at this big, modern Lubbock firm.

"Serving the man on the land", Lubbock Steel and Supply was opened in January as a division of Lubbock American Iron and Metal, Inc.

Facilities have been constructed on a spacious 27-acre site (one-half mile from front to rear fence), with everything new, modern and conveniently arranged — from the 240-ft. overhead crane way to the new offices and storage areas.

Doug Williams, on the Lubbock steel scene for some 13 years, is manager. Heading the parent firm are other familiar names in the business: Bobby Jarvis as president, and Jack Williamson as vice president.

For one's steel needs, whatever the size order, large or small, Lubbock Steel & Supply wants to serve. If the needed material possibly might not be in stock, the firm usually has its own truck in Houston three times a week, and overnight delivery can be given on special items.

For rebar, meshwire, square and rectangular tubing, the cotton trailer wire in 8 ft. and 9 ft. rolls, and for the cotton trailer kits, Lubbock Steel & Supply comes through handsomely.

AID TO FARMER — Trailer wire and trailer kits — now when they are most needed for the cotton harvest — are priced at a figure to save the farmer who trades at Lubbock Steel & Supply, as hinted here by an exhibit at the just-concluded Fair.

Carter's Rating Drops Below 50 Per Cent For First Time

By LOUIS HARRIS

For the first time since he entered the White House, President Carter's positive rating from the American people has slipped below the 50 per cent mark. The latest Harris Survey of 1,536 adults nationwide shows that the public is split, 48 percent positive and 48 percent negative.

This marks the fifth month in a row that the President has dropped in his over-all job ratings. From a high-water mark of 69-27 percent positive last April, he slipped to 52-44 percent in August, then to his most recent rating in September — a drop of 21 points in all.

While presidents traditionally tend to lose ground after they have been in office for more than six months, these latest losses for President Carter appear to be both serious and greater than normal.

—In only one region of the country, the South, is Mr. Carter able to achieve better than a 50 percent rating. There he has a 52-34 per cent positive standing, down from 68-28 per cent in July. But in the East, he comes up with a 50-43 per cent negative rating, sharply down from a 59-38 per cent positive in July. In the West, which was candidate Jimmy Carter's weakest region in 1976, he is now given a 56-40 per cent negative rating, a complete turnabout from the 58-40 per cent positive marks given him in the region in July. In the Midwest, he receives a positive rating of 49-47 per cent, well off the previous 53-43 per cent positive standing.

If the South is excluded, President Carter now has a negative rating of 51-46 per cent in the country. Only the loyalty of his native region is keeping him from having a nationwide negative job rating.

As for other groups:

—Among blacks, President Carter is able to score no better than a 49-45 per cent positive rating, precipitously down from the 71-26 percent positive rating he received in July. This slippage is particularly significant, since he won the black vote by a thumping 86-14 percent in last year's presidential election. Clearly, disenchantment for the President has now set in among blacks.

—Among key religious groups, President Carter also appears to be in trouble. Among white Catholics, he receives a 50-47 per cent negative rating, sharply down from the 61-37 per cent positive score he had achieved. Among Jews, he receives 60-37 per cent negative marks, a complete turnaround 57-37 per cent positive rating he had in July. Catholics and Jews are the traditional bulwarks of any northern Democractic coalition. Ironically, among white Protestant, who tend to vote less Democractic nationally, he still has a 50-47 per cent positive rating, mainly on the strength of his showing in the South.

—Among union members, also one of the key elements in the traditional Democractic coalition, Mr. Carter's job rating has fallen to 54-44 per cent negative. AFL-CIO President George Meany has been critical of the Carter record to date, particularly on domestic economic affairs, and appears to be carrying his own members with him.

—People who classify themselves as independents, a group that has become pivotal in the country in recent years, have now turned negative on the President by a 54-44 per cent margin.

What President Carter has done during his eight months in office is to repeat what he did during the last few months of the Presidential campaign. In July 1976, he was 30 points ahead of Gerald Ford. In November, he was about even.

Jimmy Carter has more than three years left in office and there is every chance that he can turn around his current dangerously thin ratings. But things may get worse before they get better, and every sign now points to his soon getting negative marks from the American people on his performance. The last three presidents all had negative ratings for much of their time in the White House, so Mr. Carter will not be breaking new ground. The rapid decline in his overall job rating can only surprise those who thought he would be an exception to the rule.

CONFEDERATE STATES

Forty-two delegates from South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Florida met at Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 4, 1861, to establish the confederate States of America. The convention adopted a provisional constitution on Feb. 8 and the next day elected Jefferson Davis of Mississippi president and Alexander H. Stephens of Georgia vice president. A permanent constitution was adopted March 11 and on July 20, the seat of government was moved to Richmond, Va., where it remained throughout the Civil War.

Expert May Advise Living Together First

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — It's easier to get a marriage license than it is to get a driver's license, and that's one reason so many marriages fail, according to Frederick Humphrey, president of the American Association of Marriage and Family Counselors.

Humphrey, interviewed before the association's annual convention wound up Sunday, said he is almost to the point of advocating a mandatory period of living together before couples are allowed to marry, much as a would-be driver first obtains a learner's permit.

"Marriage is too easy," he said. "We let any fool go into it."

He said he realizes most Americans would balk at a compulsory stint of living together before marriage, but "I'm suggesting the day will come when we will not let people marry until they have lived together and proven they can do it.

"Increasingly, as a marriage and family counselor, as the father of three young adults, one of whom is married, and after having officiated as the undertaker at the deaths of thousands of marriages, I am very close to advocating it."

In addition to having the money for the license, Humphrey said, the only criteria for marriage are that partners be of the opposite sex, have no venereal disease, meet minimum age requirements (as low as 13 in some states) and have "functioning gonads, since if you're impotent or sterile the marriage can be invalidated."

"Now just compare that with what you have to do to drive an automobile," he said.

Humphrey, 50, has been married for 29 years. He has been a counselor for more than 16 years and a professor of human relations at the University of Connecticut for 12 years.

Most American marriages, he said, are unhappy. Aside from the one in three which end in divorce, millions of other marriages are held together only "for the kids" or in quiet desperation, he said.

And the situation isn't likely to change, he said, "as long as we resist family life and sex education classes in our schools ... as long as we treat marriage as a romantic institution and not the tough thing it is, and not as long as we devalue marriage and make it so easy to get into."

Despite the unhappiness he sees in most marriages, Humphrey said marriage is not a dying institution. In 1975, he said, 84 per cent of all families were composed of legally married husbands and wives.

Of those who divorce, 75 per cent of the women and 83 per cent of the men remarry within three years, he said, and a half to a third of those marriages last until one or both partners die.

Furr's CAFETERIAS

SUCCEED IN OUR MANAGER TRAINING PROGRAM

If you've ever lived in the Southwest you almost certainly know Furr's Cafeterias. Our quality cafeterias are located throughout Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Kansas, and Arkansas. What you may not know is that Furr's currently the nation's second largest publicly owned cafeteria chain.

Thinking about a career in management? We can offer you excellent opportunities for personal advancement in our aggressive, expanding company. If you have drive and enthusiasm, if you are willing to learn, you'll find success with us in the dynamic food service industry. To qualify for the training program, you should have a high school diploma or G.E.D. equivalent. College or vocational school background will be a plus. Leadership ability is a must, since a self-starter can motivate others. A neat, well-groomed appearance is essential.

Experience in food service is preferable, but not necessary due to our extensive training program. Experience in other professions should prove helpful to you. We seek individuals who require the minimum of supervision to get the job done right the first time.

Our manager trainees receive in-depth, on-the-job training in all phases of cafeteria operations. The management training program leads to appointment as an assistant manager and then cafeteria manager based on the quality of your overall performance. Top performers can quickly move into key management positions. New management positions are not a hollow promise -our growth ensures these opportunities. We expanded from 33 cafeterias in 1970 to 66 in 1976. By 1982 we plan to have over 100 units!

As you progress into management you may have the chance to relocate to some of the fine cities where we have cafeterias. You should be willing to accept these opportunities.

The starting salary for Manager Trainees will be based on your background and experience. The minimum starting salary is $175 a week. As your career progresses and your responsibilities grow, you can expect a rapid growth in earnings. Assistant managers earn from $11,400 to $18,000 per year. Cafeteria managers earn from $22,000 to $45,000 per year.

BENEFITS with your employment include group health insurance, retirement plan, special manager's life insurance program and manager and assistant manager receive free meals while on duty. Paid vacations are 1 week after 1 year service, 2 weeks after 3 years, 3 weeks after 10 years and 4 weeks after 15 years service.

Approved applicants will be on a 30-day probation period during training.

APPLY IN PERSON: Between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Mon., Tue., Wed. at:

HAPPINESS IS...

- Working with experienced nursing professionals who are interested in quality patient care.
- Knowing that because of low employee turnover you will work with experienced people you know.
- Being an individual not a number.
- And most important, knowing that you are satisfied with the patient care you have provided.

"A MATCHED PAIR!" of values. The exterior is as "clipped" and fresh looking as the interior!! Sparkling fresh!! Isolated master "suite" with cathedral ceiling with huge walk thru bath, "marble" and touches of "decorator" paper. Sunny playroom and three other generous bedrooms, 3 baths. Vacant for your inspection and quick occupancy. Hear the Mail and the Loop!! Patty 797-2620, Jackie 745-5725.

"A CREATIVE WOMAN" will see instantly what she wants to do with this elegant older home!! Well located on 57th. 3 bedrooms, separate living, den kitchen, fireplace — JUST waiting for your "magic touch" Marie 799-4578, Pat 799-2016

"SPARKLING NEW" PRICED, we think, under the market! 3 bedrooms, 1 1/2 baths, living den, refrigerated air, built ins, colorful carpeting! We only have 3 left to sell (and they're not built yet!!) — Next ones ine price will be higher! Bob 797-8681 Jan 799-5024.

"MOST MEN WANT" THE BEST of everything in comfortable living and protection for their families. Have you considered that both can be fulfilled by a townhome?? Specifically — we have a 3 bedroom with marble baths — 2 fireplaces — burglar alarm installation and a "no care" yard! Pool and party house shared by 10 families! Call Pat 799-2016, Cliatt, 799-4370.

"THE STYLING IS SURPASSED" only by the quality and functional plan. Marvelous older home, elegant in all respects including an apartment as cute as a 2 bedroom cottage! Settling the estate of a gracious lady. The apartment is rented — home is vacant. Austin stone trim and fence. Cliatt 799-4370, Marie 799-4578, Patty 797-2620

"SUPLEX!!" $325.00 a month! 2 bedrooms in med school area. Priced to sell! This is a terrific return! Margaret 799-6909, Bonnie 792-8364

"WANT A CHOICE??" We have 2 cottages with storm cellars and one will sell FHA for $13,000. Scoop! 106 North Ave. V has an FHA appraisal for 16,400. Jackie 745-5725 Marie 799-4578

"CHINTZ-CLAD" "Charm" enhanced with towering trees and spacious rooms! 2 bedrooms, living-den-cool patio afternoons, snug winter evenings! Bonnie 792-8364, Jackie 745-5725

"A DECORATOR'S HOME" Has been rented not as fresh as it could be but the bay window in the "quaint" dining room, two bedrooms and covered patio make it worth the money at $19,-950.00!! Margaret 799-6909, Bonnie 792-8364

PROTECT THE FINISH OF YOUR CAR—

POLYGLYCOAT

The revolutionary new protective sealant that is not a wax or polish and can only be applied by your new car dealer

GUARANTEED FOR THREE FULL YEARS — Your auto purchase today is a necessity. Buy with the future in mind...

POLYGLYCOAT PRESERVES! NO NEED TO EVER WAX YOUR CAR AGAIN!

Polyglycoat is a paint and chrome sealant finish — guaranteed to protect your car against fading, corrosion, oxydation, and loss of gloss for three years. Comprised of Dow 500, paraffin, silicone, with a kerosene base. Polyglycoat breaks through the tiny paint pores in the surface and penetrates 2-3 layers into the paint-sealing it and shielding it against the foreign elements that cause corrosion, rust, and loss of gloss.

Not only will Polyglycoat eliminate the need for waxing, but it will virtualy maintain your car's showroom finish, thereby enhancing resale potential.

It should be applied to all new cars and properly prepared used cars.

WE DARE TO COMPARE

NOT AS QUIET AS A LINCOLN CONTINENTAL
USES MORE GAS THAN A KAWASAKI 500
BUT—LESS THAN A TOYOTA CELICA
COST MORE THAN A SCHWINN BICYCLE
BUT—LESS THAN A V/W RABBIT
WON'T ACCELERATE AS FAST AS A PORSCHE 924
BUT—FASTER THAN A CHEVY CHEVETTE
WON'T STOP AS FAST AS A HIGHWAY PATROL
BUT—FASTER THAN A CHEVY VEGA
BUT—TIGHTER THAN AMC'S GREMLIN
LESS LUGGAGE SPACE THAN A GREYHOUND BUS
BUT—MORE THAN A DATSUN B210

COMPARE ALL THIS & THEN COMPARE QUALITY & PRICE — THE GLC ACTUALLY HAS MORE VALUE FOR THE DOLLARS THAN ANY OF ITS COMPETITORS.

GENERAL MOTORS NAMES RABBIT BEST OF FIVE ECONOMY CARS TESTED.

THE BUICK OPEL 5-CAR SHOWDOWN.

When General Motors comes right out there and says the Volkswagen Rabbit is the best car they tested, it must be true.

They're the biggest car company in the world, so they ought to know. Of the 5 cars GM tested, the Rabbit got the highest possible scores in all of these important categories.

1) Most interior room
2) Biggest trunk capacity
3) Least interior noise
4) Fewest needed maintenance stops
5) Best acceleration
6) Best hill climbing power
7) Best steering quickness

In short, the Rabbit won for just about every last thing you'd want a car to do: to hold lots of people and things, to go quietly like the wind, to handle superbly and to not need a lot of fussing over.

All in all, there is hardly anything you can ask of a car that the Rabbit can't deliver.

We are grateful to General Motors for proving what we suspected all along.

It takes a very big company to admit publicly that our car is better than their car.

And we want to take this opportunity to thank them publicly for saying so.

N.O. Longshoremen Win Strike Vote

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Cocky with having forced union leaders to recognize a wildcat strike against all cargo ships, longshoremen at the Port of New Orleans were waiting Sunday to see if workers at other ports were impressed enough to follow suit.

The strike has virtually closed the nation's second largest port for more than a week. Port officials have said it could cost the local economy as much as $2 million a day.

"When other ports see what we did here, they will call for a general strike," said Norris Plaisance, a member of the local union's central committee.

What the longshoremen did was defy pressure by the International Longshoremen's Association as well as orders from local union bosses.

The ILA called for a strike Oct. 14 when work contracts expired. But the strike was targeted only at ships carrying containerized cargo. New Orleans longshoremen went out on a general strike, however, the only dockworkers in the country to do so.

The ILA fears that automated ships carrying containerized cargo will cost jobs on the nation's waterfronts. But New Orleans longshoremen contend that containerized cargo is mainly a problem in New York, which handles the majority of containerized cargo in the nation, and that dockworkers there can take care of it themselves.

Individual longshoremen here have said they will strike until they get an acceptable work contract. Some

New Yorkers Still Protesting Concorde

NEW YORK (AP) — A drive-in protest against possible landings of the supersonic Concorde airliner at Kennedy Airport fizzled Sunday when only about 250 carloads of protesters converged on the airport in a steady drizzle.

Police said the autos in the caravan were not enough to tie up the airport beyond very small, minor traffic jams.

The demonstration, held despite a temporary U.S. Supreme Court order last week banning the landings until a hearing could be held, was the least effective of any anti-SST protest staged at Kennedy since the dispute over landing rights for the Anglo-French plane first surfaced.

As in past rallies the demonstrators — horns blowing, headlights on — crept slowly through the network of roads in and around the airport.

Some of the cars bore signs saying, "Stop the SST. We don't want our children to be deaf," and "Howard Beach will fight to the end."

Republican State Sen. Sheldon Farber of Queens organized a demonstration in front of the Air France terminal complete with picket signs directed at President Carter proclaiming, "We the people elected you, not the British and the French."

"What you have here," Farber said, "is a very powerful venting of frustration by a very stable section of our community ..."

The Supreme Court ban on landings will remain in effect until Friday, when the full court will determine if it has jurisdiction in the matter.

Concorde opponents argue that the plane is too noisy and would damage theenvironment. Carol Berman, spokeswoman for the Emergency Coalition to Stop the SST, said the residents' motorcade at Kennedy would be "a demonstration of what people power is all about."

Several of the organization's slow-moving motorcades in the past year have bogged down traffic at the airport for hours on Sunday afternoons, delaying travelers.

Norman Lornie, a spokesman for British Airways, said on the local television program "Meet the People" aired Sunday that he did not understand why the demonstrators would tie up airport motor traffic.

"You will hurt a lot of people who saved their nickles and dimes to go to Disney World," he said.

"It's unfortunate," said Mrs. Berman, also on the program, "but when people are desperate, they have to take desperate means."

She said the inconvenience of the demonstration to airline passengers would be "momentary," while the discomfort of the 500,000 people who live near the airport "is full time."

Lornie said Concorde opponents should not take "the way of a banana republic. I wish you would give us a trial. It's the people we care about ... Let the people judge for themselves."

Concorde backers have been battling for nearly two years to have the SST make test flights into and out of Kennedy so that the noise and environmental impact can be evaluated. The Concorde has been landing at Dulles Airport outside Washington for a year and a half, but the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, which runs Kennedy, banned the Concorde from landing there 19 months ago.

Last week, the port authority made three proposals for noise standards at the three major New York metropolitan area airports it operates — Kennedy, Newark and LaGuardia.

One would immediately impose federal noise standards, stricter than current standards, and give planes now using the airports until Dec. 31 to comply. Another calls for imposing federal standards but gives planes now using the airports until Jan. 1, 1985 to comply.

A third proposal, however, would delay imposition of federal standards until 1985 and provide a test period of at least three months for the Concorde at Kennedy to see if it could meet noise and other requirements.

The port authority set Oct. 17 for the start of public hearings on noise ceilings for planes using the airports.

Geritol Quintet Helping on Farm

DELHI, Minn. (AP) — They're known as the Geritol quintet, but the five old men who help farm Robert Starr's 2,100 acres are indispensable, Starr says.

"Without these five, it would be difficult if not impossible to get all the work done," he says. "These men can hold their own with any farm help."

Ed Hoover, 78, Arnold Schroeder, also 78, Floyd Anderson, 73, Rein Reek, also 73, and Bud Smith, 64, work about 10 days in the spring and another 10 in the fall on Starr's spread near here.

Each retired from farming several years ago, but as Reek says, "If I just sat around doing nothing it would drive me nuts. I like to keep busy."

FOREIGN FRUIT

John Endecott, governor of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, brought the first apple seed from England — the apple tree is not native to the western hemisphere — and apples soon became an important crop. In 1649 Endecott bought 200 acres of land, paying for them with 500 three-year-old apple trees he had raised.

Guthrie Jamboree To Finance Trip

A-J Correspondent

GUTHRIE — The junior and senior classes of Guthrie High School will sponsor a jamboree at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 22 in the high school auditorium.

Local and out-of-town talent will be featured. Willie Rushin of Paducah will serve as master of ceremonies.

Proceeds are to be used to pay expenses for the end-of-school trip to Hawaii for the two classes.

Heartline

(HEARTLINE is a service for senior citizens of all ages. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. Senior citizens will receive prompt replies but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.)

HEARTLINE: I'm going to be 65 soon, and will be going on Medicare at that time. I would like to get a health insurance policy to supplement Medicare, but I really do not know what to look for. Can you give me any advice? — R.S.

A. Heartline has compiled a list of helpful tips to use when buying health insurance. For your copy , write "Heartline — Health Insurance," 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. Please enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

HEARTLINE: I was in an automobile accident recently and suffered two broken ribs. While I was in the hospital, several X-rays were taken. I was under the impression that Medicare's Part B would pay for all the X-rays, but now I found it doesn't. Is there a reason for this? — G.B.

A. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare's publication entitled, "Your Medicare Handbook," states that Medicare will pay 100 per cent of "reasonable charges" for pathology and radiology services, not 100 per cent of the charges. There is a big difference when the word "reasonable is added.

Eighty or 100 per cent of "reasonable charges" does not mean 80 or 100 per cent of what the hospital charges. It means 80 or 100 per cent of what the Medicare carrier decides that the doctor should have charged.

For people on Medicare, Heartline has developed "Heatline's Guide to Medicare." This book has been completely updated and is written in easy-to-understand, question-and-answer form. It includes a complete explanation of Medicare's Part "A" and "B," an explanation of "reasonable charges," and a sample Medicare form with instructions on how to fill it out.

To order your copy, send $1.50 to "Heartline's Guide to Medicare," 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381.

HEARTLINE: I am 65-year-old widow and have been drawing my Social Security benefits for three years now. Each month when I receive my check, I take it to the bank to be deposited in my checking account. My bank is at the other end of town, though, and it sometimes is very inconvenient for me to get there. Is there anything I can do about this? — J.S.

A. Many banks and savings institutions offer a service that enables your checks to be sent directly to them and deposited in your account. Heartline feels this aids the elderly greatly. By arranging to have this done, you eliminate the risk of losing your Social Security check or having it stolen.

Call your bank and see if it offers this service. Many banks will automatically credit your account on the same day each month, regardless of whether your check arrives on time.

BIG PURCHASE

Over one-third of the present United States came by way of purchasing the territories of Louisiana and Alaska, in 1803 and 1867, respectively. The combined price for the two purchases, totaling approximately $22.5 million, averages out to a little over $15 per square mile.

Of course, you have to know what you're doing. You must have a system. My salesmen have it. Southwestern Bell showed us how to use a planned program of Long Distance calling to reach markets we've never reached before. And it's working!

For one thing, Long Distance creates an excellent selling atmosphere. Both the salesman and the prospect are in their own offices. So each feels comfortable and on equal ground. And there are fewer interruptions. The salesman is able to establish rapport, create interest, field questions, overcome objections, deliver a well thought out sales message and close the sale... all in a brief period of time.

Now each of my salesmen is using the telephone to bring in new customers. And since we can reach prospects anywhere by Long Distance, our market is expanding outward, and our profits upward.

The next time someone tells you "you can't sell by Long Distance," tell him to call Southwestern Bell toll free: 1-800-821-2121. Unless, of course, he's your competition.

Yanks Rally For Pennant In Ninth, 5-3

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Three outs from oblivion, the New York Yankees struck for three runs in the ninth inning on a rally fueled by Paul Blair's leadoff single and highlighted by Willie Randolph's sacrifice fly to defeat Kansas City 5-3 Sunday and capture their 31st American League pennant.

With the dramatic, come-from-behind victory, New York charged into the 1977 World Series against the Los Angeles Dodgers, beginning Tuesday night in New York.

Blair, in the lineup because of a controversial decision by Yankees Manager Billy Martin to bench slugger Reggie Jackson, touched off New York's last chance with a soft single to center against Dennis Leonard, who had come in at the start of the inning as the Royals tried to nail down their first-ever American League pennant.

Leonard, appearing in relief for only the second time all season, then walked pinch hitter Roy White and Royals Manager Whitey Herzog brought in left-hander Larry Gura to become the fifth Kansas City pitcher.

It was an ironic move because Gura is an ex-Yankee who is often maligned by Martin and had been knocked out by New York in the third inning a day before.

The move backfired when Mickey Rivers laced a single to right, scoring Blair with the tying run and sending White ST. LOUIS (AP) — Quarterback Roger Staubach lofted a 17-yard touchdown pass to Golden Richards with 6:53 remaining, climaxing an uphill struggle that led the Dallas Cowboys to a 30-24 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in a penalty-filled National Football League game Sunday.

A 5-yard penalty set the Cowboys back to the St. Louis 17 following the penalty. But Staubach, on the next play, looped his aerial into the right corner of the end zone over the outstretched arms of Lee Nelson to cap a Dallas comeback from a 24-16 deficit.

Immediately preceding Staubach's winning toss another interference call aided the Cowboys. This was a 42-yard call which set up Tmny Dorsett's 1-yard touchdown drive, pulling Dallas to 24-23.

Earlier, St. Louis opened its biggest lead of the game when tackle Charlie Davis lumbered 35 yards to the end zone with a Staubach fumble late in the third period.

Quarterback Jim Hart whipped a 60-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Mel Gray and Terry Metcalf bolted 63 yards for another St. Louis touchdown.

Dallas forged a 10-10 deadlock early in the second quarter on Dorsett's first of two touchdowns, a 77-yard dash in the second quarter but trailed by 17-13 at halftime.

The Cowboys, by winning, remained undefeated and cemented their lead in the National Conference East at 4-0. Their victory was their first in St. Louis since 1973 over the Cards, who fell to 1-3.

St. Louis, although penalized 166 yards, capitalized on a pass interference call to set up a Jim Bakken field goal of 32 yards in the opening minutes to grab a 3-0 lead.

Dallas' Charlie Waters then blocked a

Oilers Pound Steelers

HOUSTON (AP) — Pittsburgh lost quarterbacks Terry Bradshaw and Mike Kruczek to injuries and the AFC Central Division lead to Houston Sunday as the Oilers ran off a 27-10 victory that left Oiler Coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips with little sympathy for the Steelers.

"I couldn't really feel sorry for them," Phillips said after the victory that boosted Houston into the American Football Conference's Central Division top spot with a 3-1 record.

"We went up there without a punter two years ago and they didn't have any mercy on us."

Steeler Coach Chuck Noll said Kruczek's injury was much more serious than Bradshaw's.

"I tried to keep it (wrist injury) from Noll but it stiffened on me at halftime," Bradshaw said.

The Oilers, who also lost starting quarterback Dan Pastorini with a sprained ankle, hung on with defense in the first half and rallied to victory in the third quarter on Pastorini's 51-yard touchdown bomb to Billy Johnson.

Houston took the lead, 17-10, in the third quarter on Dan Pastorini's 51-yard touchdown bomb to Billy Johnson. The Oilers, who had lost nine of their last 10 games against the Steelers, had tied it 10-10 on Toni Fritsch's 27-yard field goal early in the third quarter. The Oilers went ahead moments later when Pastorini hit Johnson at the Steeler 15 after Johnson had beaten Steeler cornerback Mel Blount.

Houston iced the game early in the fourth quarter when Houston defender Greg Stemrick picked up a fumble by Dungy and ran 5 yards into the end zone.

Rocky Bleier fumbled and safety Mike Reinfeldt returned it 15 yards to set up an 18-yard field goal by Fritsch.

Pittsburgh struggled to a 10-7 halftime lead on a 1-yard plunge by Bleier and Roy Gerela's 27-yard field goal. Houston scored on a 44-yard halfback pass from Ronnie Coleman to Ken Burrough.

Houston's first half intereceptions, two of them in the Oiler end zone, kept the Oilers alive in the game. Stemrick intercepted Bradshaw's second pass of the game and ran it 18 yards out of the end zone.

Quarterback Mike Kruczek, who replaced Bradshaw in the third quarter, went out with a bruised shoulder on the first play of the fourth period and was replaced by Dungy, who is listed as a safety in the Steeler program.

Dungy, a rookie free agent from Minnesota, was intercepted twice in the final minutes by Reinfeldt. Reinfeldt returned

RACE HORSES BANNED

PORT-OF-SPAIN, Trinidad (AP) — The Trinidad and Tobago government has banned the importation of race horses due to an "outbreak of a highly contagious venereal disease in horses in certain countries." The countries were not identified in an official statement issued Wednesday.

NFL Roundup

Jones Directs Colts' Victory

By The Associated Press

Baltimore's brilliant Bert Jones tossed four touchdown passes to erase a 28-10 deficit and lead the explosive Baltimore Colts to a 45-28 victory over the Miami Dolphins Sunday in a battle of previously unbeaten National Football League powers.

Oakland, Denver and Dallas are the only other undefeated teams after four weeks of the NFL season.

Steelers quarterback Terry Bradshaw suffered a fractured left wrist in the second period of Pittsburgh's 27-10 loss to the Oilers, and his replacement, Mike Kruczek, suffered a shoulder separation on the first play of the fourth quarter. Rookie safety Tony Dungy had to finish the game at quarterback.

Houston's quarterback, Dan Pastorini, also didn't survive the rugged contest, spraining an ankle in the third quarter.

The Super Bowl champion Oakland Raiders posted their 17th consecutive victory by routing the error-plagued Cleveland Browns 26-10 as Errol Mann kicked four field goals and Mark van Eeghen rushed for 113 yards and scored twice.

Denver kept pace with Oakland atop the AFC West by beating the Kansas City Chiefs 23-7, while Dallas came from behind with two touchdowns in the final period to beat the St. Louis Cardinals 30-24.

The Minnesota Vikings outfought the Detroit Lions 14-7 in their NFC Central Division showdown as Fran Tarkenton completed 21 of 31 passes for 269 yards and two touchdowns and the Vikings' rugged defense dominated Detroit.

In other games, the Philadelphia Eagles beat the New York Giants 28-10, the New England Patriots blanked the Seattle Seahawks 31-0, the New York Jets defeated the Buffalo Bills 24-19, the Cincinnati Bengals topped the Green Bay Packers 17-7, the San Diego Chargers shut out the New Orleans Saints 14-0 and the Atlanta Falcons beat the San Francisco 49ers 7-0.

Los Angeles is at Chicago tonight.

Before the fans in Baltimore were settled in their seats, the score was 14-7 Miami. Baltimore's Lydell Mitchell scampered 64 yards on the first play from scrimmage, but Freddie Solomon responded by running back the ensuing kickoff 90 yards for a score. When Benny Malone broke loose on a 52-yard run, the Dolphins led 14-7 after just 2:19 of play.

Malone's second touchdown of the game, on a 66-yard run, made it 28-10 Miami with 9:23 left in the second quarter. Then Jones took command, pulling the Colts to within 28-24 at halftime with scoring tosses of three yards to Glenn Doughty and 19 yards to Raymond Chester.

In the third quarter, Jones put the Colts on top with scoring passes of 34 yards to Don McCauley and 5 yards to Doughty. Jones completed 18 of 30 passes for 205 yards, including seven in a row on the three scoring thrusts that put the Colts in front.

Minnesota grabbed a one-game lead over Detroit in the NFC Central as Tarkenton hit Sammy White with a 12-yard scoring pass and then hooked up with White on a 59-yard play — by way of Ahmad Rashad.

Tarkenton completed a short pass to Rashad, and just before he got tackled he flipped the ball to White, who outran the Detroit defenders for the score.

Mann converted three-pointers of 39, 28 and 27 yards on Oakland's first three possessins and Cleveland never caught up. The Raiders, 4-0, need one more victory to the NFL record of 18 straight set in 1933-34 by Chicago and tied by Chicago in 1941-42 and Miami in 1972-73.

Craig Morton completed 13 of 21 passes for 189 yards Jim Turner kicked three field goals as the Broncos moved out to a 4-0 start for the first time in their history.

Washington got a 44-yard field goal from Mike Moseley and a 6-yard TD run from Mike Thomas in the first period and held on to keep Tampa Bay winless. The Bucs did not make a third down conversion until the waning minutes and had to punt the ball 11 times.

Clark Gaines, who rushed for 94 yards, scored the winning touchdown for the Jets on a 17-yard sweep with two minutes left. It was the Bills' 14th straight regular-season loss and made Jim Ringo's record as head coach 0-13.

San Diego's defense, led by Fred Dean and Louie Kelcher, stifled the Saints, sacking quarterback Archie Manning seven times for a loss of 70 yards. Mike Fuller returned a punt 88 yards for a touchdown.

Alfred Jenkins caught a 39-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Scott Hunter for the only score of Atlanta's victory over the winless 49ers. In four games, Atlanta, 3-1, has allowed just 19 points.

Dallas Nips Cards

Metcalf then burst through a giant hole in the middle of the Dallas line and romped to his touchown, but Dorsett's long gallop produced a 10-10 tie for Dallas early in the second quarter.

Hart, harassed by a fierce Cowboy rush, found Gray open behind defender Mel Renfro to send the Cards back in front, 17-10, less than three minutes after Dorsett's first touchdown.

Herrera again split the uprights, narrowing St. Louis' edge to 17-16 midway through the third quarter.

Davis scored after defensive end John Zook stripped Staubach of the ball late in the third period. But the two pass interference penalties afterward set up the touchdown by Dorsett and Richards.

Houston

The Oiler defense, which ranks far behind the league-leading Pittsburgh steel curtain defense, asserted itself from the first quarter when Stemrick stopped the Steelers' first drive with his end zone interception.

Moments later Cliff Parsley punted to the Steeler seven and Houston's defense forced Pittsburgh to punt from the six after four plays.

Houston took over at its own 44 and on the first play Pastorini pitched to Coleman who threw to Burrough in the end zone on first down.

Pittsburgh drove to Houston's 14 on its next series but was forced to settle for Gerela's 27-yard field goal after the Oiler defense once again stopped the Steelers at the 10.

Pittsburgh turned an exchange of interceptions into a 10-7 halftime lead. Robert Brazile intercepted for Houston and returned it to the Steeler 30. But on Houston's second play, Blount picked off a Pastorini pass that led to Bleier's touchdown run.

Portales Blanks NMMI 26-0

PORTALES (Special) — Portales scored a touchdown in each quarter Saturday and defeated New Mexico Military Institute 26-0.

Paul Hatch scored first for the hometowners on a 1-yard run in the first quarter. In the second period, Ron Harman hit end Hap Velisle with an 11-yard TD pass and Portales held a 13-0 halftime lead.

Dodgers Prep For NY

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers turned to planning for the World Series today, while the Philadelphia Phillies surveyed the wreckage of a season that never fulfilled its promise.

The Dodgers won the National League pennant Saturday night by beating the Phillies 4-1, closing out the best-of-five league playoff in four games.

While Lasorda basked in a championship his first season as a manager, Phillies' boss Danny Ozark laid out his disappoint-ment. The Phillies after winning their second consecutive East Division title, had been confident they would go all the way.

"I'm hurt more by this loss than any other in by baseball career," Ozark said in the gloom of the Phillies' locker room. "I was very optimistic."

What needled Ozark and his team most was being beaten twice in their own ball park. The Phillies played .741 ball at home during the regular season, winning 60 of 81 games. So, when they split the first two games in Los Angeles, they couldn't conceal their joy.

The killer was the third game in the series, the first at home for the Phillies. They sailed into the ninth inning with a 5-3 lead, then got two quick outs in that last Dodgers' turn at bat. Los Angeles rallied for three runs and a 6-5 triumph.

"I felt that our guys would bounce back," Ozark said. "They generally do. We weren't tight. We lost because the other guy pitched a hell of a game.

THE FIGHT OF THE WEEK — Both benches cleared in the first inning of Sunday night's fifth game in the American League championship series after this exchange between New York Yankee third baseman Graig Nettles and Kansas City runner George Brett. The leg of Nettles catches Brett in the ribs (left) as the KC runner slides safely into third base. Brett came up swinging and teammates restrained the two third basemen. Oklahoma State Awaits Verdict

TULSA (AP) — Oklahoma State should find out this week what the formal penalty will be against its football program, Tulsa Daily World sports editor Bill Connors said in Sunday's paper.

About the only hope left for OSU officials and backers is a lawsuit arising from an NCAA probation against the Nevada-Las Vegas basketball program.

They hopefully wonder if Coach Jerry Tarkanian's lawsuit and a congressional investigation might prompt restraint by the NCAA on Tuesday when O-State makes what presumably is its last stand before an NCAA committee.

Like Las Vegas, the investigation of OSU was among the longest and most intensive in NCAA history. Unlike Las Vegas, no OSU coaches face a penalty.

But several OSU boosters have been charged with recruiting violations and ordered to remove themselves from all booster activities. One of the boosters has vowed to sue the NCAA and, like Tarkanian, may have grounds.

Some have speculated that the NCAA may be reluctant to impose major penalties on institutions and persons because of the action by Tarkanian and Congress.

But if NCAA does not soften its position on OSU, Tuesday will be a dark day in the history of Oklahoma State athletics.

The NCAA notified OSU last month of the tentative penalties. It is: 1. Two years probation, with sanctions that ban OSU from post-season bowl games and television appearances: 2. A loss of 10 scholarships next year and a loss of five scholarships the following year: 3. Terminating the eligibility of Mike Edwards, junior defensive end, and barring Jim Clark, sophomore lineman-wrestler, from participating in all NCAA post-season events.

This would be a major penalty. The scholarship loss would represent 25 per cent of OSU's two-year quota. NCAA rules permit 30 football scholarships to be awarded each year. OSU would be restricted to 20 scholarships the first year and 25 the second year.

The probation and Edward's ineligibility would be effective immediately. The probation would apparently end two years from the day it is publicly announced, which could be Wednesday.

OSU attorneys and authorities will have a final opportunity to defend the allegations, and argue for a lighter penalty at a meeting on Tuesday in Kansas City. But they don't plan much hope, and say the will be no legal action no matter what the outcome.

This will be the climax of an investigation that began two years ago. In August of 1976, the NCAA presented OSU with a list of 99 alleged infractions. OSU was granted two delays to answer the allegations.

Yankees Win AL Flag

dashing to third. Herzog went to his bullpen again, this time bringing in Mark Littell. It was Littell who fed a home run pitch to the Yankees Chris Chambliss which won the pennant for New York in the ninth inning of the fifth playoff game a year ago.

And the Yankees victimized him again this time.

Willie Randolph, the slender second baseman who learned his baseball on the sandlots of New York City, drilled a long fly ball to center field that scored White with what turned out to be the Yankees' winning run.

After Thurman Munson grounded out, Lou Piniella bounced what looked like a third-out grounder to Royals' third baseman George Brett, who had accounted for the first two Kansas City runs with his bat.

That made it 5-3 and reliever Sparky Lyle, hero of the Yankees' do-or-die victory Saturday, nailed down the pennant in the bottom of the ninth, getting pesky Freddie Patek to hit into a game-ending double play.

It was the perfect ending to the see-saw Yankees season that often resembled a soap-opera drama. The Yankees won it with high drama highlighted, naturally by Jackson, the benched slugger who had been fighting a 1-for-14 playoff slump that caused Martin to yank him out of what could have been New York's last game of the season.

Bird struck out Thurman Munson, the Yankees captain, but Piniella singled Randolph to third. Now, with the tying runs on base and a right-hander pitching, Martin sent Jackson up to pinch hit for Cliff Johnson.

With a perfect sense of the dramatic, Jackson looped a soft single to center, delivering the Yankees' second run and making it 3-2. With the tying run in scoring position, Herzog brought in left-hander Steve Mingori to pitch.

Mingori retired Graig Nettles on a long fly to right field and that brought up Chambliss, who ripped a shot up the middle. Second baseman Frank White made a diving, backhand stop and tossed to shortstop Patek, forcing Jackson and ending the Yankees rally.

Until then, the Royals had nursed a lead which Brett single-handedly provided in the first inning in the midst of what almost was a brawl at third base.

As Nettles stumbled back, there was contact between the two players, some angry words and then swings. Both benches and bullpens emptied, creating an immediate crush ofe bodies around third base as the pre-game tension spilled over.

But it was a typical baseball fight with much pulling and tugging and little other action. It ended pretty fast, considering the traffic jam that all the players had created at third base.

A moment later, Brett scored the Royals' second run on a groundout bye Al Cowens, and Kansas City had a quick 2-0 lead.

The Yankees nicked Splittorff for a run with two out in the third when Rivers singled, stole second and scored on Munson's single.

But that was to be the final run of the season for the Royals and the Yankees, it turned out, were not finished quite yet.

LOOKING FOR A HOLE — Texas Tech runningback Jimmy Williams looks for daylight as Arizona tacklers swarm in to stop the play. Williams carried six times for 11 yards as the Raiders, now 4-1, edged Arizona 32-26 in Tucson Saturday night. Raiders Make Narrow Escape

By CARTER CROMWELL
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Steve Sloan stood outside the Texas Tech dressing room at Arizona Stadium late Saturday night, wiped perspiration from his face and remarked with a hollow laugh, "I don't want to have to come back to Tucson again."

He was only half kidding.

His team had just survived a typically wild game with Arizona and prevailed 32-26, but the contest had taken many turns and hadn't been decided until Raider linebacker Mike Mock intercepted a Marc Lunsford pass in the end zone with 37 seconds remaining, stifling a late Wildcat drive that had reached the Tech 11-yard line.

The contest followed the pattern that recent Tech-Arizona games have set. Five of the last six games between the two have been high-scoring affairs. Tech won 35-10 in 1972, 31-17 in 1973 and 52-27 last year. Arizona took a 32-28 victory in the final seconds in 1975, the last game played in Tucson.

Saturday's game was very similar to the 1975 tilt, see-sawing constantly, but Arizona's late rally failed this time.

"I don't know what it is about games out there," Sloan said. "It must be in the food."

The game featured 11 fumbles — seven of them lost — two pass interceptions, a blocked field-goal attempt, three partially blocked punts, assorted mistakes and assorted fine plays.

Tucson had received nearly three inches of rain Thursday and Friday. Saturday's weather was fine, but the field hadn't had time to dry, so the players slipped often.

Offensively, the Raiders weren't always consistent, but Sloan was pleased with the performance of quarterbacks Tres Adami and Mark Johnson.

"I think both improved," he said. "They've gotten to play a little more, and experience is a real good teacher, of course.

"Adami threw better all last week, and he threw pretty well in the game. So did Johnson. Of course, they still need more experience, and they made some plays against Arizona that they wouldn't have if they'd had more playing time."

Adami, who started for the second week in a row, rushed 17 times for 64 yards and completed 10 of 17 passes for 151 yards. A screen pass to Mark Julian was converted into a 38-yard scoring play in the second half.

Johnson, who received a bruised thigh in the game, completed four of seven throws for 52 yards.

"Mark was on crutches after the game," Sloan said. "We'll just have to wait and see if he'll be able to play against Rice (this Saturday)."

Tech netted 171 yards rushing, and Sloan said Arizona was tougher to run against that he had expected. The Raiders totaled 374 yards against the Wildcats.

The Raiders got inside the Arizona 20 five times — four times to the 10 or closer — without pushing in for a touchdown. Bill Adams tied a school record with four field goals in the contest, and the visitors were once held on a fourth-and-goal try from the 2-yard line.

"We have to do better on our goal-line offense," Sloan said. "We've got kind of an inexperienced offensive team right now, and that makes a difference."

In addition to its inexperience at quarterback, the Raiders have a sophomore at quick tackle (Ken Walter), a soph squadman at quick guard (Larry Martin) and a junior at strong guard (Greg Mahoney) who wasn't a guard last season. All have moved in because of injuries to the original starters at their positions.

Tech got the ball at the Arizona 19 in the first quarter and eventually got a first-and-goal situation at the eight, but that was the time the Raiders were unable to get the ball in from the two.

"Normally, I would have kicked the field goal in that situation," Sloan said, "but their punter hadn't been doing too well, and I thought that, even if we didn't make it, we would leave them in bad field position and eventually get good field position back on an exchange of punts."

This proved to be correct. Arizona punted after four downs, punter Mark Engle booted a 34-yarder, and Tech's Mike Patterson returned 10 yards to the UA 30 to set up the Raiders' first touchdown march.

Defensively, the Raiders had streaks of very good play, but again revealed their tendency to give up the long play. The Wildcats managed only 20 net yards rushing against Tech and completed just nine of 21 passes. However, those nine completions accounted for 294 yards.

Arizona had pass completions of 71, 60 and 24 yards for touchdowns and another of 65 yards that moved the hosts to the Tech 23 in their final, futile march.

"We played good against the run, but not real good against the pass," Sloan said. "We had some breakdowns that can be blamed on coaching. I made some coaching mistakes in the game, but those can be corrected."

On Arizona's 71-and 24-yard touchdown passes in the second half, quarterback Lunsford appeared to be trapped both times, so the Tech defenders came up to help out on the tackle. Each time, Lunsford managed to break free and find receivers many yards in the open.

ACU Ties Javelinas To Halt Win Streak

By The Associated Press

Texas A&I's incredible fourth quarter rally Saturday night didn't save the nation's longest winning streak but it salvaged at least one Javelina goal.

A&I's 25-25 tie in Kingsville gave the defending small college national champions a chance at Oklahoma's 48 games without a loss. The tie with Abilene Christian snapped the 'Hogs victory string at 42.

The Javelinas and ACC came into the game ranked 1-2 in the NAIA.

"We whipped them good for three quarters," said ACC Coach Dewitt Jones.

In other LSC action, East Texas dropped Sam Houston 31-17, Angelo State blanked Stephen F. Austin 14-0, and Southwest Texas fell to Prairie View 19-7.

There's a heavy slate of LSC activity this week with Angelo State at Abilene Christian, Sam Houston at Southwest Texas, East Texas at Howard Payne, and S.F. Austin at Texas A&I.

CAUGHT BY A WESTERNER — Lubbock High strong safety Jimmy Garza (3) chases down Amarillo Caprock halfback Bobby Short during this first-half run Friday night. Westerners Remember Turnaround Of 1975

By TOM HALLIBURTON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Time now for a trivia question for Lubbock High football fans. Don't scratch the head and worry too much because it's not that hard.

When was the last time the fearless Westerners entered district play with a 1-4-1 record?

Altogether now, the answer was 1975 when the dormant Lubbocks perpetrated some craziness with a last-minute win at Hereford and an interception of a vital Monterey pass and suddenly the Westerners were taking their place in the class AAAA playoffs with the likes of Odessa Permian, El Paso Coronado and all the rest.

Of course, it's not a leadpipe cinch that LHS can do it again but coach Rusty Talbot's team begins the league slate with more momentum than that 1975 team had mustered. On that occasion, the Westerners had been blitzed 55-21 by Amarillo Caprock. This time, they finally clutched their first season victory, 23-6 over Caprock.

"I believe we have improved. The win definitely should give us some momentum. Had it been reversed and Caprock had won, then we wouldn't have any but we've got some momentum now," said coach Talbot.

The second-year coach noticed the gradual defensive improvement in recent weeks, which started in the second half of the 14-14 tie with Dunbar. The speedy Panthers led 14-0 at half then the Lubbocks locked their goalline door. Next week at Ector, LHS allowed the Eagles only 19 rushing yards in 14 tries during the first half. But Ector's speed soared free for three big plays after the half. And then there was the Caprock game...

"Our defense played good the whole night. They got past our 45-yard line once the whole game except for one time when we fumbled a punt," Talbot said.

After the offense cranked up the points in the fourth quarter, Lubbock realized it could throw the ball, too. A straight dropback pattern from Ricky Moreno to Jimmy Garza worked for one TD pass. Then Garza got on the throwing end of a reverse pass to Roger Young for another score.

"We felt we could hurt them passing," Talbot said. "They ran a lot of man-to-man coverage and we thought we could slip by them. Our kids were tickled to death because we looked good and won, too."

'Tough' 2-AAA District Begins Loop Schedule

By JIM FERGUSON
Avlanche-Journal Sports Staff

Mirror, mirror on the wall, who's the fairest of them all in District 2-AAA?

JOHN BLOCKER, Fort Stockton: "No doubt about it, Andrews. They've got all those starters back from last year. But I think there are four good teams around that could challenge them. I think Fort Stockton has as good a chance as anybody down here to win it. We have some kids who have worked awfully hard..are dedicated and want to change the image of a loser that we've gotten over the past few years."

Chalk a vote up for the Mustangs.

JERRY LARNED, Monahans: "Either Andrews or Fort Stockton have my Maybe Andrews has the edge, who knows. They (Andrews) have got some key people back but Fort Stockton has more depth it seems like. But I think anybody in this District is capable of beating anyone else. Pecosand Ector both have good shots too.

Score that one for both Andrews and Fort Stockton.

JERRY MILLSAPS, Pecos: "Andrews, they have a superior team. They have more starters back and the best quarterback in the district."

Short and sweet. Another point for Andrews.

RALPH JOHNSON, Odessa Ector: "I have to go with Andrews. Right now they are head and shoulders above everyone else, I think. Fort Stockton has a chance and Pecos could spoil things for some people. I think we are going to be the surpise team of the district, though."

Another vote for Andrews, fans.

CLAUDE CHAPPELL, Seminole: "I think it will be between Andrews and Fort Stockton. Those two should play for all the marbles. Monahans and Pecos are about equal. I think we have a slim chance to win it. Right now, though, we are on the same basis as everyone else is. We are unbeaten in district play and until anyone does beat us we have a chance."

TOMMY WATKINS, Andrews: Coach Watkins probably had the right idea. When he was contacted, his wife reported the coach was out on the lake doing some serious fishing.

Chances are he would cast a vote for his own club which brings the grand total of six votes for Fort Stockton and a single aye for Fort Stockton. But that isn't really surprising.

So far the chase down in 2-AAA has been an exciting one to say the least.

Of the six teams comprising the loop, three ended the regular season with unblemished 5-0 marks. Andrews had a pimple on its chin in the form of a 14-14 tie with Big Spring for a 4-0-1 mark.

Wildcats Searching For AAA Grid Title

By The Associated Press

Even though Gregory-Portland has won its first five games this season by lop-sided scores, and even though the Wildcats, ranked No. 1 in Class AAA, have advanced to the state playoffs eight consecutive years, Coach Ray Akins is wary of this week's district foe, Calallen.

"They're the team that could test us," he says, "They were fourth in our AAA district last year, but they beat the No. 1 team in District 27-AAAA. They're capable."

Gregory-Portland comes off a 40-0 victory over Tuloso-Midway. Elsewhere around the state, only five teams ranked in The Associated Press schoolboy poll lost, while eleven others were idle.

Akins has made liberal use of his reserves the first half of this season, but he says "I don't know if we're that good or if they teams we've played just haven't been any competition." The Wildcats, who haven't lost a home game since 1968, have beaten three AAAA squads along the way this year.

"This is the way it is every year," he says. "The valley teams usually just aren't that strong.

"If we just had one boy with some speed, we'd be a good football team. Fundamentally, I think we're strong on offense and defense, and we have a good kicking game."

Akins says the game against Calallen will be crucial. "Rockport has some speed, and you know, Beeville's no pushover, but I don't think those teams are as phsically strong as this Calallen team."

In Class AAAA, Port Neches-Groves, in its first week as No. 1, blanked Beaumont French 28-0. With the exception of No. 2 Temple, which was idle, all the ranked teams in AAAA won their games.

No. 4 Sherman, ranked No. 1 until it tied with Plano last week, edged Richardson Lake Highlands 29-27 and No. 9 San Antonio Churchill edged San Antonio Roosevelt 25-22.

Besides Gregory-Portland's shutout victory, the Class AAA ranked teams' scores were predictable with the exception of No. 5-rated Silsbee, which lost a district game 13-12 to Bridge City. Second-ranked Humble downed Aldine Carver 28-8 and No. 3 Mount Pleasant also remained unbeaten with a 33-7 win over Sulpher Springs.

Four Class AA teams, including top-rated Bellville, were idle. No. 2 Jacksboro thrashed Nocono 56-0 and in another shutout No. 5 Idalou beat Olton 36-0. No. 10 Elgin lost 18-16 to Cameron in a district encounter.

No. 7 Blooming Grove and No. 10 Farwell were the only Class A teams to lose their games. Edgewood beat Blooming Grove 16-6 and Boys Ranch overcame Farwell 15-8.

Top-ranked Seagraves beat Wink 49-6 while No. 2 Shelbyville and No. 3 Celina were among the five Class A ranked teams with open weeks.

In Class B, all ranked teams won except No. 9 Evant, which suffered a 26-18 district loss to Gorman. Six of the Top Ten recorded shutouts, including top-rated Wheeler with a 28-0 victory over Texline.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. Your articles are interesting, but mainly for people with large sums of money. Please explain certificates of deposit for those of us with only small amounts to invest.

A. I don't want to get "huffy" about it, but I deny this column is intended only for those with "large sums" of money.

Do you remember the old bedroom farce gag? The husband discovers a strange man hiding in his wife's bedroom closet. The "visitor" explains it all by saying: "Well, everybody's gotta be someplace.

Well, every spare dollar's "gotta be someplace" whether the total is $500 or $500,000 or $5 million. And the $500 is just as important to its owner as the other sums to their owners.

Savings certificates are time-savings deposits — a year, or two years, or six or seven years. In return for keeping the money tied up (instead of being subject to withdrawal at a moment's notice, the savings institution will pay you more than the day-to-day rate of 5 or 5 1/4 percent. There is no point in my detailing speicific certificate terms because savings institutions set their own terms and you must discuss them with the institution in which you intend to deposit your money.

On a straight income basis, today, the 7 1/2-3/4 percent rate obtainable on longer term certificates is hard to beat in the securities markets. And even if you can get, let's say, 8 3/4 percent on a preferred stock, the extra $10 a year obtainable from a $1,000 investment would hardly be worth commission costs and the added risk of market fluctuations.

But, if you are talking of $500 or $1,000 to be invested in hopes of growth, there is no reason it can't go into a small block of stock, with more shares to be added as money becomes available.

And finally, don't you worry about those $500,000 queries, to this column. These requests (and letters involving even larger amounts) should lead professional money managers (bank trust departments, investment advisors, mutual funds, etc.) to ask themselves: "How come these people are asking a newspaperman they don't even know?"

Some day, I may tell 'em.

Q. We have $11,000 in our savings account at 5 1/4 percent. We plan to retire next May at 62 and 60. Should we buy Savings Bonds? We have no stocks.

A. As much as I have dwelt on the virtues and benefits of Savings Bonds I can't see a switch of this money into these bonds if you plan to retire in about half a year.

E bonds would not provide any current retirement income, since they accrue interest at the rate of 6 percent, on a five-year average. There is no point to buying H bonds for a 6 percent payout when you can get more from Treasuries.

Finally, if you are retiring at ages 62 and 60, you both should have some solid, dividend-paying utility stocks and, at least, enjoy up to $100 per person dividend exclusion from income taxes.

Q. How much may I give my grandchildren free of gift taxes? I was told it is $30,000.

A. That $30,000 figure is no longer true. The revised tax law says $3,000 (three thousand dollars) a year to each.

Veep Lauds Family For Teaching Role

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Vice President Walter Mondale said the family is a better teacher of values than schools.

"The schools that make the best record are those that bring the families in," he told the National Association of State Boards of Education Saturday.

At a fund-raising cocktail party later, he said California leads all states in providing assistance for the elderly and dealing with problems of the environment and education.

Joints Stay Limber, Claims Jogger, 80

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — E.E. Tutor took up jogging at a time in life when many people are content to plop down in a rocking chair and nod off by the fireplace.

The former sawmill operator, merchant and farmer recently celebrated his 80th birthday by jogging his usual two-mile route on an isolated county road near his farm in Pontotoc County. It's a routine he started at the age of 77.

"I felt like a fellow my age who just sits down and does nothing just ain't no count," he said in a telephone interview. "He gets too fat and he ain't got good use of himself. So I just did it (started jogging) to keep my joints limber and I feel good. I look forward to it from one day to the next."

Tutor, who was born in the county on Sept. 13, 1897, said he has run a sawmill, operated a grocery and farmed during his life and now paints an occasional house to keep busy.

"I painted a house this week and I'm going to start painting again in the morning," he said. "I've worked hard all my life and it hasn't hurt me one bit in the world."

Tutor said he always figured he had gotten enough exercise from working until a nephew, Dr. Forest Tutor of Tupelo, a physician, got him interested in starting a jogging program.

"He's one of them sho-nuff joggers," he said of his nephew. "He jogs 25 miles a day sometimes. He's just 50 years old. He jogged 50 miles on his 50th birthday. He's as tough as a steer."

Tutor said he gets up before dawn seven days a week and usually starts his jog about 6 a.m. or "just a little before daylight." He runs a mile from his house down a county road "that don't have any traffic on it at all," then turns around and runs back.

"I don't try to see how quick I can make it," he added. "I just kind of go from a walk into a good jog. I try to make it so I feel kind of tired when I get back — but I could turn around and make the same trip again."

Tutor, who is 5-feet-8 and weighs 140 pounds, said he is in "perfect health. I hold my weight down. I watch my eating and hold it down that way too. I haven't had a headache in 30 years and hardly ever have a pain."

Tutor said his wife goes along with his jogging although, "She thinks I overdo it a little.

"But I just feel better when I make the trip," he added. "I'm ready for breakfast then. I'm hungry."

Hawaii Five-O Stays Near Top

HONOLULU (AP) — It is reassuring for a visitor to return to Hawaii and realize that Steve McGarrett is still combatting crime with firm hand and granite face.

Indeed, "Hawaii Five-O" is well into its 10th season on CBS and has weathered a wide assortment of mayhem, as well as backstage feuds, production headaches and rollercoaster ratings. Lately the show has soared in the audience surveys.

"We were one of the top 15 shows in last season," star Jack Lord points out. "Ten of the shows were ABC, four were CBS and only one was NBC. So it's not hard to see why CBS likes us."

Lord remains utterly protective of "Hawaii Five-O." You can feel the dominance of his personality when visiting the set. One recent sunswept day, the company was shooting the 14th show of the season at the idyllic Dillingham ranch on the windward side of Oahu. Amid surroundings that resembled a Kentucky horse farm, McGarrett was delving into a murder that involved a rich Hawaiian land owner — Eleanor Parker in a welcome return to acting — and her daughter, played by Lara Parker, no relation.

Filming continued at a deliberate pace, symptomatic of the no-nonsense attitude that Lord enforces. More than a few directors, producers and actors have failed to meet his standards and have hastened back to the mainland.

"Yes, I am tough," Lord confirmed. "That's the only way to survive 10 years in a series. I would prefer to say that I am firm. You can't be wishy-washy in this business. They go for the jugular. Show one small weakness, and they'll destroy you. (No identification of who "they" are.)

"You've got to be firm to last 10 years in television. I know, I've got the scars to show for it.

"But I'm not stupid; I never make unreasonable demands. And I get respect from actors from the way I insist that they be treated. They have always been put up at the Kahala Hilton, and they fly first-class on United Air Lines.

"I try to create an atmosphere of harmony under which all of us can work. There is no buddy system; everyone must pull his own load. No nepotism. Unlike other operations in Hollywood, you won't find any relatives on this show."

Lord has always held a tight rein on "Hawaii Five-O," more so since the death of the show's founder-producer, Leonard Freeman, midway in the series.

"Since Lenny died, I've run the show," said the actor, "and I've done the chores that he would have done. When we have problems, I sit down with the people at CBS and we resolve them like gentlemen.

"Money has never been a problem; I've always felt that the money would take care of itself. I've always lived by the deal I made, and I can't understand other television actors who don't.

"Scripts are always a problem. Sometimes I simply have to say, 'I can't do it,' and that means sending a writer on the next plane from Los Angeles. Occasionally there must be cast changes, as when an actor gets tired and isn't improving. The logistical problems are immense, too. There are no facilities for wardrobe and equipment rentals on the island."

After a decade on Oahu, Jack Lord is a confirmed Hawaiian — "this is my last home; they'll have to plant me here." But that doesn't necessarily mean he will end his days as Steve McGarrett. His contract ends with the 1977-78 season, when 240 hours will have been completed. What then?

"That's the question that everyone asks. When the time comes, I'll have to sit down with my wife and decide where we want to go."

Lord's co-star, James MacArthur, also has mixed feelings about whether he wants to continue with "Five-O." But both feel confident that CBS will want the series to remain. As MacArthur points out: "It wouldn't make much sense for the network to kill a winner."

TV Deceptions Face Actions, FTC Warns

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the Federal Trade Commission says his agency will move quickly against television advertisers who use deceptive sales pitches.

"Congress recently gave us new powers to get deceptive advertising off the air. We hope to use those powers aggressively in the future," Chairman Michael Pertschuk said.

He said the commission was concerned about advertising "aimed at the most vulnerable groups in our society, such as non-English-speaking persons, the elderly and children. We have a special concern for ads directed at children, particularly when they deal with food, because of the health implications involved."

"I'm not prepared to say that advertising directed to 2, 3 or 4 year old children is ever appropriate," Pertschuk said.

He singled out ads for toys "which show toys performing in a way that cannot be duplicated at home."

"In the past, the commission's enforcement of deceptive toy ads has been something of a joke" because advertisers could fight an FTC order through a lengthy appeals process, Pertschuk said.

Now, by going to court for preliminary injunctions against deceptive ads, "we can act as fast as our lawyers can write," he explained.

Pertschuk was interviewed in U.S. News & World Report.

O'Connor Adapts, Stars In NBC's 'Last Hurr

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Carroll O'Connor sets aside his Archie Bunker role next month to star in a two-hour television adaptation of "The Last Hurrah," in which Spencer Tracy starred two decades ago.

O'Connor is producing the NBC special and wrote the adaptation himself.

One is apt to jump to the conclusion that O'Connor chose "The Last Hurrah" as a means of disassociating himself from his Archie Bunker role in "All In The Family" which may leave the air after this, its eighth year.

Such was not the case. As O'Connor said, "Actors don't sit down and plot out their career moves. Things just happen."

Earlier this year producers Mike Wise and Frank Levy approached O'Connor with the project. Columbia Studios owned rights and was agreeable to having O'Connor star as Frank Skeffington, the charismatic machine politician mayor.

"The whole thing came out of the blue," O'Connor said. "Before I agreed, I asked to see the movie which was directed by John Ford.

"As a film 'The Last Harrah' wasn't successful. It followed the novel which was about talk. That's what they put on the screen, a lot of talk.

"I told Wise and Levy I couldn't do a remake with people sitting around talking. I said 'no' to the project unless a screenplay could be written with some action.

"I volunteered to write a scenario and if it looked good I'd follow up with a screenplay. And that's how it worked out.

"I changed Skeffington from a celibate widower to a man whose wife had left him, then died. He has a girlfriend, a relationship that's been going on 10 years."

The actor's production company, O'Connor-Becker Inc., owns "The Last Harrah" in conjunction with Columbia. It features a top cast, Burgess Meredith, Dana Andrews, Robert Brown and Mariette Hartley. It airs Nov. 16.

But no matter how brilliantly he performs in future comedy or drama, Carroll O'Connor will be forever associated with bumbling, bigoted Bunker, one of the few classic characters to emerge from television.

O'Connor is aware that Archie will be dragged into the lead paragraph of his obituaries if not engraved as part of his epitath. And he doesn't mind at all.

"I fell back on instinctive 'Archie' reactions more than once," O'Connor grinned. "A facial expression here, a vocal exclamation there, which were pure Archie. But it was no big problem.

"I haven't tried to get away from the image of Archie. I do other things because as an actor I like variety in my work.

"In the seven or eight years before his death I became a friend of Groucho Marx. I remember once he told me, 'You've got the best act in town' — meaning Archie Bunker. It was high praise coming from Groucho. And it changed a lot of my thinking."

"All In The Family" has made O'Connor rich and famous beyond all dreams. He doesn't make a practice of knocking his show, as do some stars.

Whether it will continue beyond its eighth year depends on negotiations between CBS and producer Norman Lear.

"The public doesn't realize that it isn't up to the actors," O'Connor said. "No matter how the cast feels about renewing the show, the decision will be made by the network and Lear.

"Some CBS brass may say let it go. Others might want another 24 episodes. Lear might say it would make just as much money going into syndication. He's so busy might welcome the chance to drop one of his shows.

"The money talk will take place between them. Not between the producers and the stars or the network and the stars.

"If they decide to go another year, they'll come to me, Jean (Stapleton) and the kids, all of whom may have other things planned."

O'Connor has very definite plans of his own. Foremost is a contract with CBS to produce and

Portuguese Were Here First, Discovery Theorist Says

BERKLEY, Mass. (UPI) — Dr. Manuel Luciano Da Silva believes that Portuguese navigators beat Christopher Columbus to the discovery of America by at least 20 years, and he says a piece of rock proves it.

"The time has come to revise the history books so that long neglected or completely overlooked early Portuguese navigators will finally get their due," he said.

Miguel was the son of Joao Corte Real, who discovered Newfoundland in 1472 and was rewarded for the achievement by being named governor of Terceira in the Azores Islands.

"The Azores were just like space stations, the base for new explorations," Da Silva said. He reasoned that if the Corte Reals could navigate 1,000 miles of uncharted Atlantic Ocean to the Azores and another 1,000 miles to Newfoundland, nothing could stop them from sailing down the North American coast.

"The Portuguese navigators to the New World were more preoccupied with discovery than writing about it," Da Silva said. "In fact they usually kept their discoveries top secret."

Some of those secrets, possibly obtained by Columbus through his marriage to the daughter of a Portuguese colonial governor, made his 1492 voyage to the West Indies possible, Da Silva explained.

"Columbus was honest enough to admit his nautical knowledge came from the Portuguese," Da Silva said. But Columbus thought he was in India and didn't know until later that he set foot on a New World.

Portugal's navigational secrets were so coveted by other nations seeking routes to the riches of India that Italian spies were on hand to record the return from North America of Joao's son, Gaspar Corte Real.

In 1501 he brought 51 American Indians to Lisbon, members of a friendly tribe that already showed physical evidence of possible intermingling with Europeans. Gaspar set sail on another North American voyage and never returned. His brother, Miguel cast off to look for him in 1502. He also vanished. Or did he?

Da Silva, 51, son of a Portuguese seaman, has crisscrossed the Atlantic 31 times, trying to block out modern conveniences like radios and imagine what it must have been like for the explorers he first heard about as a schoolchild.

He first visited the Dighton Rock on the banks of the Taunton River in 1948, while he was performing menial jobs in New York City to work his way through college.

He had heard several theories about the inscriptions on the rock, ranging from alleged pictographs by Indians, to the name of a Viking seaman, to the religious icons of the Phoenicians, to the "John loves Mary" scrawlings of modern day vandals.

Looking past what might be later or earlier editions, he saw what an earlier researcher had guessed was the date 1511, in a Portuguese style of numerals.

There were distinctive 45-degree angles marking the ends of the Portuguese Cross of the Order of Christ, and crude indentations resembling his homeland's coat of arms.

Best of all, there were at least six obvious letters of the name Miguel Cortes Real. It was the set of symbols Portuguese navigators were taught to carve at the academy founded by Prince Henry the Navigator, to claim their new lands.

Da Silva went back to Portugal, earned a medical specialists degree in internal medicine, set up a practice in Bristol, R.I., and spent all his spare time gathering proof for his theory.

"When I met my wife, she knew I had a 40-ton rock for a mistress," he said. "But she fell in love with it too. We did more research on our honeymoon."

WE GIVE THEM AWAY
In addition to all the delicious Mexican food items that we serve at Santa Fe-we also serve sopaipillas-and they're FREE!
Join us tonight for a super meal-cooked as only Santa Fe can.
Mon-Tues-Wed
