Conferees Back Oil Import Cuts

Energy Bill Studied By Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of a House-Senate energy conference committee agreed at their first meeting Tuesday to back President Carter's goal of reducing U.S. reliance on foreign oil imports.

But conference leaders indicated wide differences in how to meet that goal and said they see a need for major compromises on tough issues.

"We're going to have some difficulties, but I'm sure that men of good will can work out their problems," said Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W.Va., picked by unanimous vote to head the panel of 25 House members and 18 senators.

Meanwhile, a Senate committee told Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger to sell more than $33,000 worth of stock he and his wife hold in an energy-related company. The panel said the holdings pose a possible conflict of interest.

The energy committee gave Schlesinger nine months to dispose of 2,100 shares of stock in the Newhall Land and Farming Company. The stock is worth about $33,600.

The unanimous committee vote followed Schlesinger's own disclosure to the panel that "there are some 90 producing wells, mostly natural gas" on 150,000 acres owned by the company.

The energy conference committee met for nearly four hours but reached no agreements and planned another session today.

The first issue before the conferees is the House proposal that would give utilities the authority to install home insulation and other energy-saving equipment at the request of consumers. The House bill also would allow utilities to make loans to consumers to pay for the cost of installation.

The Senate bill prohibits utilities from doing the work or loaning the money themselves. Several initial efforts at reaching a compromise were rejected by conferees.

"Compliant Mood" "We come into this conference in a compliant mood," said Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., speaking on behalf of Senate members of the panel.

The Senate rejected or modified most of President Carter's major energy recommendations, proposals that had been approved nearly intact by the House.

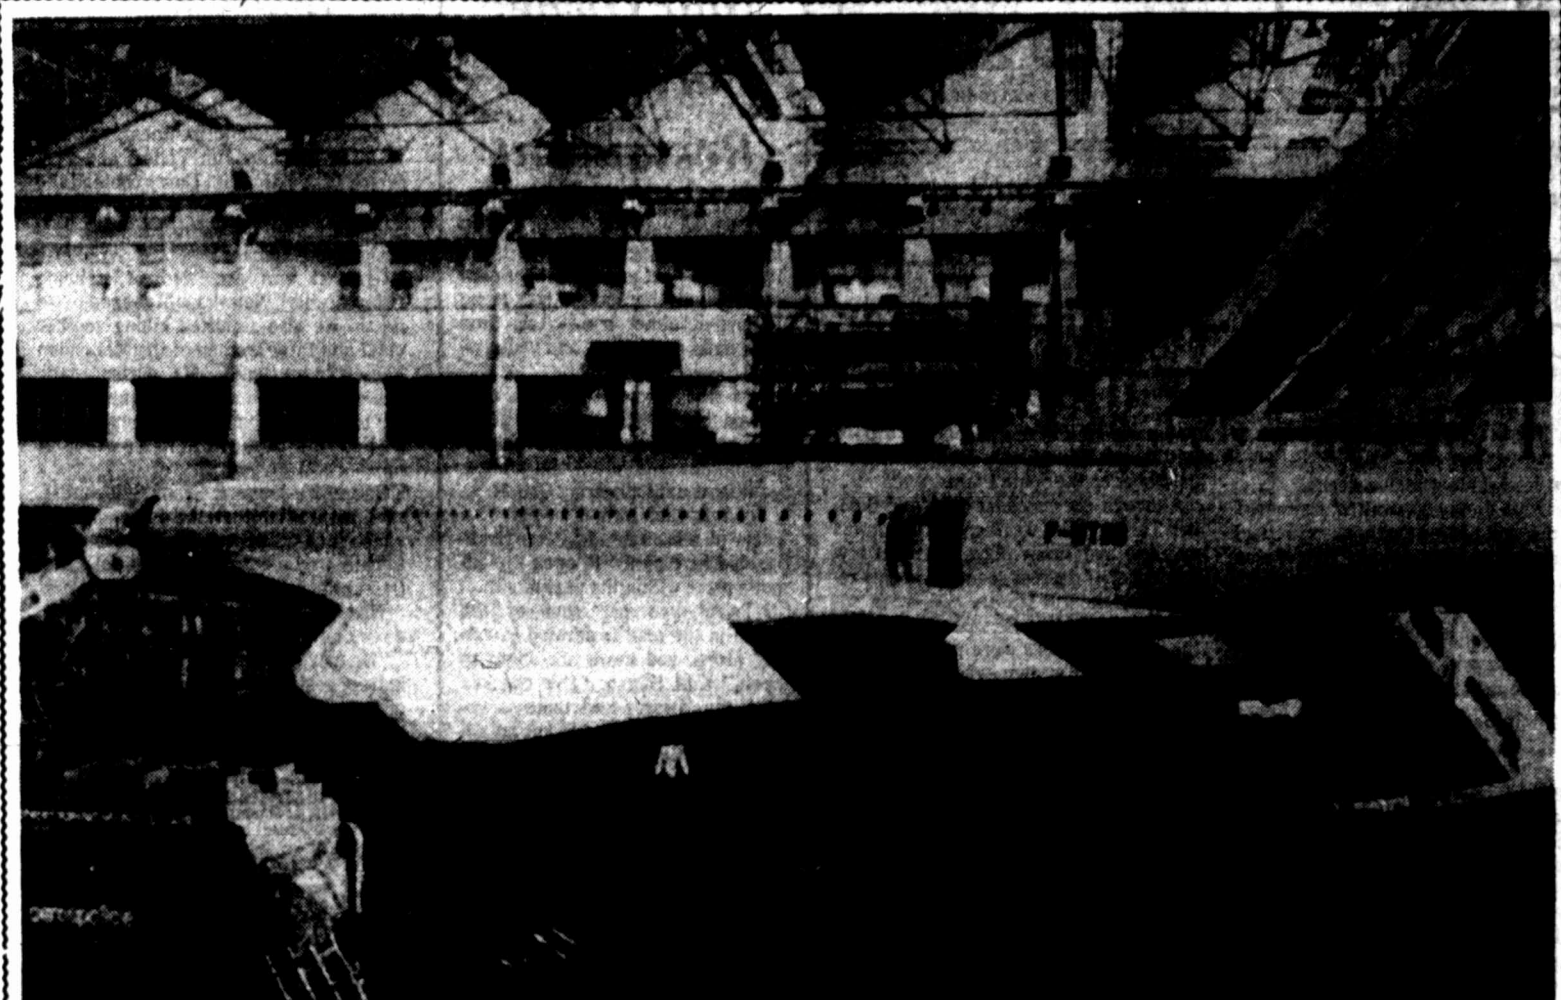

The committee met in the huge, high-ceilinged Caucus Room in the Russell Senate Office Building, scene of the 1973 Senate Watergate hearings.

As the panel began its work, President Carter declared that the reputations of both Congress and of this first-year domestic program hinge on the energy bill to come.

Passage Predicted Carter, in an Oval Office meeting with Rep. Thomas L. Ashley, D-Ohio, predicted that Congress eventually will enact the bulk of his energy program, despite numerous major setbacks in the Senate.

"I think what we do on energy will determine the success or failure of the year of congressional work, I think, in See ENERGY Page 14

FORD ALLOWANCE WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter has signed a bill increasing the annual staff allowance of former President Gerald Ford from $96,000 to $150,000 for a 30-month period, the White House announced Tuesday.

Concorde Lands In New York Today

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Concorde SST swoops into New York's sprawling Kennedy Airport for the first time today, with frustrated opponents biding their time but promising a court suit within a week. The test landing climaxes 15 years of development and a two-year legal battle with the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey and with homeowners near the airport who claim the Concorde is excessively noisy.

Officials of British Airways and Air France, eager to make a good first impression of the plane, scheduled an elaborate presentation for reporters. At about 10 a.m. CDT, Capt. Jean French will radio the tower: "Concorde Sierra Charlie ready."

and ask permission to land the controversial needle-nosed jet. The only passengers aboard during its record 3 1/2 hour flight from Toulouse, France, will be French, a pilot for the firm Aerospatiale that built the plane; pilots for the two airlines and a crew of 12. The U.S. Supreme Court Monday refused to postpone the test flights ordered by the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which found the Port Authority's 18-month ban against the Concorde tests discriminatory. The courts ruled that the Port Authority can still develop new noise standards — even ones that would ban the Concorde — as long as See CONCORDE Page 14

Senate Committee Hesitates About Making Panama Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee apparently has given up a plan to visit Panama as a group in its deliberations over the canal treaty. But some members still are expected to make the trip either singly or in small groups. Committee sources said after a closed-door meeting Tuesday that the panel did not act on a proposal by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, for the whole committee to visit Panama for "a first-hand look" at the canal's defenses. Some senators were said to have expressed concern that the entire committee traveling as an official group might offend the Panamanians or residents of the Canal Zone on an issue that already is very delicate. But Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., committee chairman, was quoted as saying he felt some committee members should visit Panama. The State Department will be asked to assess the diplomatic implications of sending senators in small groups or as part of a "task force" to study the canal treaty issues in Panama, sources said. Although an official mission remains in doubt, Sen. Richard Stone, D-Fla., said members of the committee "are being encouraged to go," especially senators who have never seen the Panama Canal. Meanwhile, the committee has invited the two U.S. treaty negotiators to testify on a statement issued last week by President Carter and Panamanian leader Omar Torrijos after the two men met in an effort to clear up confusion over the treaty's canal security provisions. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and former Ambassador Sol M. Linowitz were asked to testify today. The treaty must be ratified by a two-thirds vote of the Senate. Prospects for ratification have been threatened by concern that the pact denies U.S. rights to defend and have priority use of the canal after the year 2000, when it would be turned over to Panama. According to the White House, Carter and Torrijos agreed last Friday that the treaty gives both countries the right to defend the canal and would not preclude the United States from using whatever means necessary, including military action, to keep it open and neutral. They also agreed, the White House said, that U.S. ships would have expeditious passage at all times and would "go to the head of the line" during an emergency. Several senators say the clarifying statement was helpful but they believe its assurances should be written into the treaty itself, a move which probably would require renegotiation of the document with Panama. This concern was emphasized by Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., who noted that Torrijos had been quoted as saying he hadn't signed any new understanding with Carter. Hollings, an early backer of the treaty, said he was having trouble keeping up with reports of what its language supposedly means, and therefore had introduced amendments to make the provisions concerning U.S. rights a part of the document. "No sooner had we been told by Ambassador Linowitz that the clarifying language had been worked out by Panama's chief negotiator and approved by Gen. Torrijos than we received reports from Panama City that the general had not agreed to any right to this military action in the canal, stating: 'I haven't even signed an autograph'." Such uncertainty about an agreement that won't go into an effect for 23 more years makes it vital that the treaty itself contain the specifics, he said. At the White House, Deputy Press Secretary Rex Granum said anew that the administration is not in favor of amending the treaty because that would complicate the process unnecessarily. If the treaty is opened up for amendments, Granum said, Panama might want to make changes, too. Associate Press Secretary Jerrold Schecter said Panamanian leaders plan to make their own explanation of details of the Carter-Torrijos week.

Texas Skies Illuminated By Meteor

DOZENS of citizens in the Lubbock area Tuesday night reported seeing what they thought was a flaming aircraft over the city's northern and eastern reaches, but the head of Texas Tech's planetarium said the fiery spectacle was actually a meteor. Ron Johnston, planetarium director, said he is "90 per cent certain" the bright object that blazed across the sky about 8 p.m. was a bolide meteor. The Lubbock International Airport control tower reported several calls on the object as did Lubbock police. Some of the inquiries reportedly came as far away as Boy's Ranch near the Canadian River and Dickens to the east. Reese Air Force Base sent out several planes to search for possible plane wreckage, but spokesmen reported all of their aircraft safe and accounted for. Johnston said the greenish-blue object, See METEOR Page 14

Hijack Hostages Return Home

BONN, West Germany (AP) — West German commandos and the hijack hostages they rescued flew home to emotional welcomes Tuesday as the government announced the suicide of three terrorists whose freedom the hijackers had demanded. "The worst thing was shooting the pilot before our eyes. It was terrible," a bearded German in his 20s said of the five days during which he and 86 other hostages were held captive. He and others returning to Germany said pilot Juergen Schumann, the only hostage to die during the hijacking, was executed by the hijack leader in front of the passengers at South Yemen after he allegedly tried to escape and was brought back by Yemeni authorities. The pilot's body was dumped from the jet at the Mogadishu airport in Somalia, where commandos finally rescued the living hostages. Eighty of the passengers, many looking haggard and fatigued, stepped off a backup Lufthansa jet at Frankfurt International Airport and were led to a nearby canteen for reunions with relatives. Then they went to a large hangar to hold a memorial service for Schumann. Among the returnees were the only two American hostages — Christine Santiago, 44, and her 5-year-old son Leo. U.S. sources said Mrs. Santiago, who suffers from a heart condition, was hospitalized for a checkup and Leo was taken to an uncle's house. Lufthansa officials said six rescued hostages remained at Mogadishu, apparently unable to travel. The scene was more jubilant at the Bonn-Cologne airport, where another jet brought home about 80 members of the German commando squad. A brass band played the German anthem, crowds cheered and Interior Minister Werner Maihofer declared: "We are proud of you. We thank you in the name of the entire German people." Then the commandos, many in open neck shirts, rushed to embrace their wives and girlfriends. Acting with surgical precision in the predawn darkness at Mogadishu airport, the commandos stormed the hijacked Lufthansa 737 through emergency exits, rescued all 86 hostages aboard and killed three of the Arabic-speaking hijackers. The fourth, a woman, was seriously wounded. Hours after reporting the raid, German officials made the surprise announcement that three terrorists held in a German jail had killed themselves and a fourth had tried and failed. Officials said Andreas Baader, 34, and his mistress Gudrun Ensslin, 37, were found dead in their cells at the Stammheim maximum security prison near Stuttgart. Jan-Carl Raspe, 33, died in a hospital, and Irmgard Moeller, 30, was rushed to a hospital, they said. The four had been among 11 jailed German terrorists whose freedom was demanded by the Lufthansa hijackers along with two Arabs held in Turkey and $15 million in ransom. In the flurry of developments, there was no word on the fate of Hanns Martin Schleyer, the German industrialist kidnaped in Cologne Sept. 5. His kidnapers had vowed to kill him Sunday unless the hijackers' demands were met. Many of the freed hostages disembarking at Frankfurt airport still wore the tans they picked up on the holiday isle of Majorca before they were hijacked on the flight home. But most seemed exhausted and some emerged from the plane wrapped in airline blankets against the autumn chill. Several refused to talk to reporters. One woman who declined to give her name said Schumann, the 37-year-old pilot, left the plane to check for damage after making a rough landing at South Yemen. She said it was then he allegedly tried to escape and was brought back by Yemeni authorities. Another passenger said the hijack chief, who identified himself as Capt. Mahmoud, ordered the pilot to kneel and shouted: "Do you plead guilty or not guilty?" She said Schumann avoided a direct answer, and suddenly the hijacker shot him dead. A Finnish passenger interviewed by Swedish television said: "The kids screamed when the captain was shot before our eyes, but they soon calmed down... I thought this will be the end. City High Schools' Accreditation Seen

An official for the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools said Tuesday continued accreditation of Lubbock's five public high schools by his organization should be "no problem."

"We have found evidence of very good teaching here," said Dr. Kenneth Laycock, chairman of an 81-member committee that has spent the past two days inspecting Coronado, Dunbar, Estacado, Lubbock and Monterey high schools.

"The teachers are making a real attempt to reach the goals the Lubbock Independent School District has set — especially in terms of individualizing instruction for youngsters," Laycock said.

"I can say nothing but good things about the faculty. As for reaffirmation of accreditation by the Southern Association, that should be no problem."

Laycock's committee divided into three teams, one visiting Coronado and Dunbar, another Estacado and Lubbock High and another Monterey.

Each team instructed subcommittees to examine various academic departments.

Laycock, executive director of the Region XVI Education Service Center in Amarillo, will pull together the team reports into an overall evaluation of the city's high schools.

He hopes to have a comprehensive document ready in four to five weeks.

Visitation by the committee, composed of active and retired teachers and school administrators from various West Texas cities, is required by the Southern Association every 10 years.

If the evaluation is favorable, Lubbock high schools will retain their membership in the association.

Not only does that status carry prestige, but it also facilitates the transfer of high school credits for students who move out of Lubbock.

The visiting committee's report will serve as a check for the school system's self-evaluation, a campus-by-campus study that took place over the past two years.

With the committee's guidance and the district's own research, school officials will develop a five-year plan to address weaknesses here.

Laycock said the district's self-study was "very thorough and of great help" to the visiting committee.

The self-evaluation and the five-year plan are part of the district's effort toward renewed accreditation of all schools — not just the senior highs — by the Texas Education Agency.

Only the senior high schools are accredited by the Southern Association.

Indian Summer Will Continue

Warm days and cool nights are expected through Thursday as Indian Summer continues on the South Plains.

Although the calendar said mid-October Tuesday, the weather was warm (83 degrees) and sunny. The overnight low reading of 47 degrees seemed the only reminder of the true season.

National Weather Service officials said the mild conditions were due to a weak high pressure system which should remain in place over the area today.

A low pressure area is forecast to replace the high pressure over eastern New Mexico and northwestern Texas tonight and Thursday, with little change expected in the warm and dry conditions.

Fair nights and sunny days are forecast through Thursday, with southerly winds from 5 to 10 mph today. The mercury should climb to the low 80s today, falling to the middle 40s tonight. Thursday's high is expected to reach the 80s again.

The remainder of the state's weather was similar to that experienced by the South Plains, despite the cold front which finally broke up Tuesday after it pushed into the state and stalled.

By mid-afternoon, Waco reported an 88-degree reading under fair skies, while Dallas and Tyler had 86 with clear skies.

A full-grown sperm whale is from 40 to 80 feet long and can weigh up to 100,000 pounds.

Oceanographers Assail Pollution Regulations

LOS ANGELES (AP) — State and federal governments have enacted pollution regulations not because of sound scientific data but in reaction to an emotional public, oceanographers told a conference here.

"As I see it from the inside, much of our regulation is a result not of scientific-based considerations but efforts to please emotion-based beliefs held by the public," Athelstan Spilhaus, a consultant for the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, said Tuesday.

John D. Isaacs of the Institute of Marine Resources at the University of California at San Diego agreed.

"California is the most studied coast in the world, yet most of the things we do here in the way of regulations and policies are not very rational," Isaacs said.

The remarks were made at Oceans '77, a conference aimed at coordinating marine advances with public policy, education and law.

About 1,000 people are attending the sessions, sponsored by the Marine Technology Society and the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers.

Isaacs said regulators should look at the ocean's ability to deal with change.

For example, he said, much of the ocean food chain lives on waste.

"The ocean is good for reprocessing waste materials... There are wasted efforts and wasted money on waste treatment because that's material we take from the ocean and don't return to the ocean."

Spilhaus said regulations from the Environmental Protection Agency have affected such diverse areas as the price of lobster. The price of lobsters has risen, he said, because federal regulations causing improved waste treatment have resulted in less food for the lobsters, which normally get fattest near sewage pipes.

What is needed, Spilhaus said, is what he calls "ecobalance, a balance between economy and ecology."

Death By Injection Submitted To Court

AUSTIN (AP) — Lawyers for Kenneth Granviel of Fort Worth, who admitted killing seven persons in fits of sexual frenzy, will try Wednesday to persuade the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals that the new death by injection law is unconstitutional.

They contend the legislature unconstitutionally left the decision on which drug to inject to the state prison director and assert that injection could be "more cruel and barbarous" than electrocution.

Similar arguments will be raised by attorneys for another Fort Worth man, Billy Joe Battie, convicted of shooting a woman to death during a theft.

Granviel and Battie seek to have their sentences — which the court has stayed — reduced to life imprisonment.

State's attorney Jim Vollers and Fort Worth Dist. Atty. Tim Curry contend the new death penalty law is constitutional and was passed in an effort to make execution more humane.

Granviel was convicted of stabbing two-year-old Natasha McLendon to death. He also admitted killing another child and three women of the McLendon household on Oct. 7, 1974, during a rape and an attempted rape. He admitted killing two more women and raping a third on Feb. 8, 1975, the night he gave himself up.

One of his lawyers, Frank Sullivan III, says in a brief that the injection law, which took effect Aug. 29, is unconstitutionally vague because it does not name the substance to be injected.

That decision was left to Jim Estelle, director of the prison system.

"He may use any lethal substance from battery acid to sodium thiopental," Sullivan says.

Estelle chose to place the prisoner on a wheeled stretcher in the existing death chamber. A technician will insert a catheter in his arm, and the executioner will send sodium thiopental into the catheter from behind a wall.

Sullivan calls this "cruel and unusual" and says sodium thiopental could cause cold shivering, coughing, sneezing, heart arrhythmia and spasms of the larynx before death comes.

"From the time the needle is injected, what thoughts, feelings and pain will the condemned man suffer. It has been said that death by electrocution is instantaneous. It is undisputed that death by injection is not," he said.

The state's brief says the injection statute is analogous to electrocution laws that "have not prescribed the use of a chair, the amount of voltage, the volume of amperage, the place of attachments of electrodes, whether or not AC or DC shall be used, etc."

Mall Owner Bars Nude Restaurant

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A restaurateur whose eating house in a fashionable shopping mall didn't make it big as a beef and brew operation or a seafood house says he's going to give it a try — this time with nude performers and waitresses.

But the owners of the mall moved quickly Tuesday and got a temporary court injunction blocking the new restaurant and lounge — at least until a hearing Oct. 24.

John Rogan, former owner of a chain of restaurants in Pennsylvania, said he planned to open the all-nude place within the next month.

"Twenty-two per cent of the space in the mall is devoted to eating places and more are about to open," said Rogan. "I've checked with my lawyers and there is nothing in my lease to prevent an all-nude operation."

But Rouse Co., owners of the mall, went straight to Hillsborough Circuit Court, charging that Rogan broke his lease and seeking a temporary order to stop him from advertising a restaurant with nude dancers and waitresses.

A nude-operation "is not within our image as a community center," said mall spokesman Dick Bennett.

Germans Draw Praise For Hijack Reaction

By Associated Press

World leaders showered praise on the West German government while Germans celebrated in the streets Tuesday for the daring Entebbe-style rescue of 86 hostages from a hijacked Lufthansa jet in Somalia. A 10-year-old boy was glad to get his "mommy" back home.

"It was indeed a salvation in which all free men rejoice," said Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin, whose nation is the leading advocate of tough treatment for all terrorists.

"It's like New Year's Eve, like a birthday," exclaimed Paul Brod of West Germany whose beauty queen wife was among the hostages threatened with death by the four Arabic-speaking terrorists. Their young son Mike had waited outside the German Chancellery during the 4½-day ordeal with a sign around his neck pleading: "I want my mommy."

In Rome and Athens, hundreds of left-wing extremists demonstrated Tuesday glorifying the suicides of three anarchists in German jails and demanding "Death to Schmidt" for ordering the commando raid.

The Lufthansa hijacking raised a storm of protest over lax airport security measures and signaled what may be a new international policy not to buckle under air pirates' demands in exchange for hostages.

The president of the International Federation of Airline Pilot's Association urged the union's 64 member associations Tuesday to stage a worldwide 48-hour strike starting Oct. 25 to dramatize demands for more protection against hijackers. Others urged stronger deterrents.

"The death penalty should be introduced for terrorists who in cold blood play with innocent peoples' lives," said Capt. Kurt Ivarsson, head of the federation's Stockholm chapter.

Leaders of governments heartily congratulated West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt and his administration. In Washington, President Carter lauded the "courage of their decision" and said the commando raid "struck a blow" for every nation vulnerable to air terrorism.

French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing hailed the end of the hijack siege as "a victory for democracy" and Japanese Justice Minister Mitsuo Setoyama, whose government met the demands of Japanese hijackers two weeks ago, said the raid "showed how to prevent a hijacking."

U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim said: "This terrible ordeal underlines once more the necessity for governments to agree on effective measures against criminal terrorism, the taking of innocent hostages and the hijacking of civilian aircraft."

In Moscow, the government-controlled Tass News Agency blamed "right-wing forces" for the Lufthansa hijacking, accusing them of "working up hysteria" to undermine democratic forces.

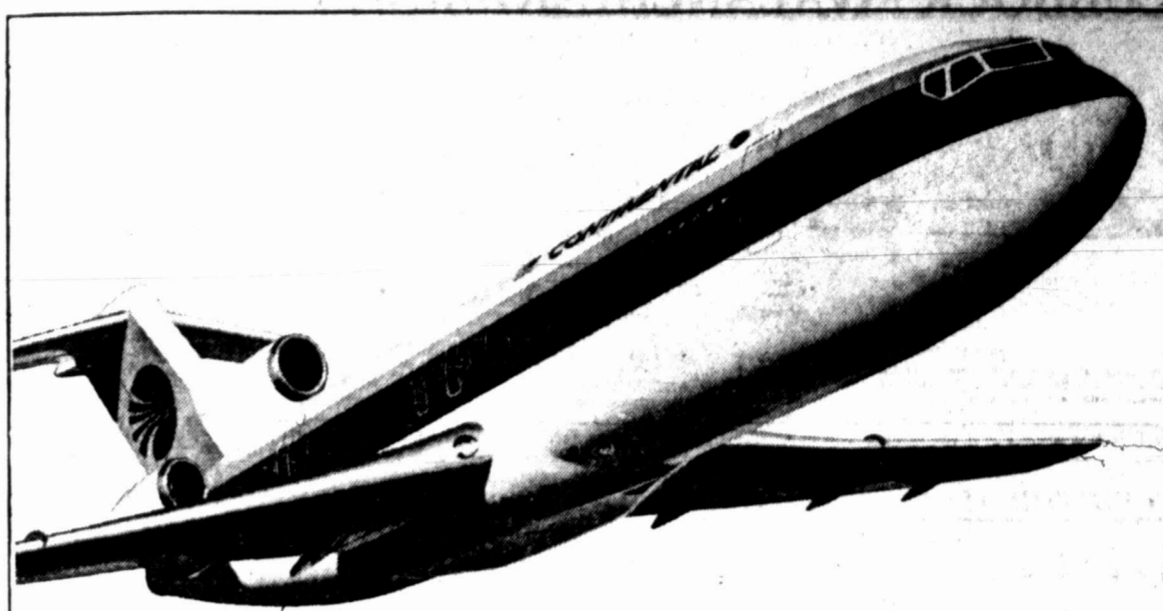

Riot police broke up a leftist demonstration outside the Athens Polytechnic after youths carrying signs proclaiming "Long Live Baader-Meinhof" assaulted an administration aide who told them to disperse. In Rome, extremists marched on the Lufthansa office off Via Veneto and a police guard fired a pistol shot into the air and scared them off.

West Germany had sought and received support from a half-dozen governments, including Somalia's Marxist regime, before ordering the commando squad on its nighttime rescue mission. Schmidt later sent personal telegrams thanking the leaders for their crucial striking.

"A wave of solidarity turned the world around," West German delegate Per Fischer told the Belgrade conference meeting to review the 1975 Helsinki accords on East-West security and cooperation.

"Something similar, or even worse can happen tomorrow, in our country or any other country," Fischer warned. "International society must defend itself energetically against this kind of pressure. When the kidnapers know they can't find support anywhere, they will perhaps abstain from their deeds."

Executives from some 60 airlines meeting in Manila applauded the West German government's handling of the Lufthansa hijacking and urged all governments to tighten security "even at the most unlikely airport."

Pilots To Strike For U.N. Action

LONDON (UPI) — European pilots, spearheaded by those in Britain and Scandinavia, said Tuesday they will join a 48-hour general strike next week to pressure the United Nations into taking action against hijackings.

U.S. pilots said they were "disgusted" with U.N. footdragging and appealed to President Carter to seek a special session of the General Assembly but made no immediate decision whether to take part in the protest.

Derry Pearce, president of the International Federation of Airline Pilots Association, said the group would "cease commercial takeoffs" for 48 hours beginning next Tuesday at noon (8 a.m. EDT).

In Washington, the U.S. Air Line Pilots Association denounced U.N. inaction but said it might be several days before it announces its position.

"We are disgusted with the failure of the United Nations to come up with a hijacking convention," a spokesman said.

"We are urging our State Department and the President to get the United Nations to hold a general assembly meeting to discuss the antihijacking convention."

The walkout was called in response to a five-day, 7,000-mile hijacking in which leftwing guerrillas killed the captain of a Lufthansa jetliner. West German commandos stormed the plane Tuesday, killing three of the four hijackers and freeing all 86 hostages.

The Scandinavian pilot associations, representing some 1,300 fliers in Sweden, Norway and Denmark, and the British organization immediately announced they would back the strike.

"The only thing that will stop it is if we can persuade the United Nations to sign and ratify the three conventions now before them outlawing hijackings," British Airline Pilots Association President Roy Hutchings said.

An estimated 55,000 pilots from 64 member countries have until Sunday to give a commitment to the walkout called by the IFALPA, but groups in Greece and Belgium quickly agreed to take part, and several others left little doubt they too would join in.

A spokesman for the Greek fliers said the decision to strike was unanimous. The Belgians backed up their vote with an appeal for "an urgent meeting at the United Nations."

In Paris, the French National Pilots Association called a meeting later in the day to reach a decision but officials said it was virtually certain they would back the action.

They pointed out a French pilot was killed only last Sunday by two gunmen who invaded an Air Djibouti airliner in the newly independent East African nation.

The West German union said it would announce its decision soon. Pilots in Portugal, Austria and Israel also indicated they would take part, and Canadian fliers said their support depended on the United Nations. Only the South Africans said they definitely would not join.

Passengers Recall Fear, Despair Of Hijacking

FRANKFURT, West Germany (UPI) — Stephan Roehll was never scared, but his mother, who read him stories to keep terror at bay, thought they would die.

The 86 men, women and children hostages were dozing in nightmarish sleep when three explosions signaled their deliverance by West German commandos from "five days in hell" at the mercy of German and Palestinian hijackers.

"Most people were dozing — sleep was never really possible," Georg Freiburg recalled. "Suddenly there were explosions and men came pouring into the plane."

They screamed out "Hinlegen! Hinlegen!" (Lie Down! Lie Down!) as the shooting began. In only a few minutes they were told to leave the plane.

The daring 7-minute German rescue came as most of the hostages had given up hope they would ever leave the hijacked Lufthansa jetliner alive after the pilot, Capt. Juergen Schumann, was killed in cold blood before their eyes.

"The captain was killed right in front of my eyes," said Mrs. Elisabeth Mueller, 51. "I fainted and when I came to, the body was being dragged down the aisle to the rear toilet."

"This was the worst moment," Freiburg said. "He was forced to kneel in the center of the aisle at the front of the plane. He was shot in front of us all, shot at the base of his skull."

"From that moment on we had no hope of being rescued."

The five-day, 7,000 mile hijacking began on a flight from Parma, Majorca.

Ten-year-old Stephan Roehll from Berlin gave this eyewitness account.

"We had just had our breakfast when two men waving pistols rushed through the plane. I did not know what this meant but my mother told me to sit quiet and read my book and that's what I did. My mother played games with me and told me stories. I was never scared."

TELLER 24

24-hour banking/7 days a week

One teller at our bank never takes a coffee break.

Plains National has one teller that never takes a coffee break. For that matter, this teller doesn't break for lunch, never calls in sick, and never misses a day of work. Not even Saturday or Sunday or holidays.

You guessed it. Teller 24 is a machine. But it can do everything a regular teller can do (cash a check, verify an account balance, transfer funds from savings to checking or vice versa) and it does it every day, 7 days a week, 365 days a year.

Next time you need cash on weekends, talk to Teller 24. The next time you need a bank, talk to Plains National.

AN EDITORIAL:

GOP--No Splinters Needed

IF WE READ the advance publicity correctly, an effort will be made Thursday night to form a "new" Republican Party wing in Lubbock County, or at least set the stage for further bickering in the organization.

With due respect for the feelings and political beliefs of all involved—on both sides of the fence—we will say that what appears about to happen is just about the last thing the GOP needs in these parts.

person got out and worked for the GOP cause, and candidates.

Then, in the wake of Watergate and a general apathy among voters in general, grassroots participation again waned.

As usual, the "party pros," as well as amateurs, moved back to the forefront, although it was still the money and backing of seasoned businessmen and others who kept the machinery oiled.

UNFORTUNATELY, THE seasoned businessmen and others who have a vital stake in what happens to the GOP party organization sort of left it to fend for itself, as far as the nuts and bolts operation was concerned.

As a result, personalities and petty power politics replaced an overall goal—that of enlarging the party base and fielding viable, winnable candidates at all levels.

This is still the situation today.

The much heralded Robbins affair is a matter that should be settled within the current party framework, and/or at the polls.

To be blunt about it, we feel that many persons will question the motives of anyone who seeks to splinter and thus weaken the Republican Party in this area. There is plenty room for Republicans of all shadings within the framework of a single organization and this should be the goal rather than one of petty personal politics.

Unity, not divisiveness, is the real need.

HOWEVER, IT was only during the Dwight Eisenhower campaign back in the 1950s and the Nixon Era that the average

AN EDITORIAL:

Some Wouldn't If They Could

IRRESPECTIVE OF what the governmental public relations flacks are saying to the contrary, the Labor Department's Congressionally anointed $1 billion youth unemployment and training program will not be a cure-all for persistent high rates of joblessness among America's young.

Between this month's inauguration and year's end, an estimated 8,000 young people are expected to be enrolled in the program.

Thousands of other jobless youths will be put to work in community improvement projects ranging from rehabilitation of public buildings to insulation and repair of low-cost housing.

CONTINUED HIGH levels of youth unemployment have produced renewed interest in proposals to establish a separate, lower minimum wage for teenage workers.

Supporters argue that a low wage is an incentive for employers to hire young, inexperienced workers. Other experts argue that time alone will cure the problem.

They point out that the last of the baby boom generation is entering adulthood and, consequently, the number of teenagers is starting to decline.

Whether population changes will solve the youth job problem is uncertain. What is certain is that there are no instant answers.

The best solution is a more vigorous economy, unshackled of government interference, that would create its own demand for more laborers based on real, not federally induced demand.

THE FEDERAL bureau of labor statistics reports that more than 3 million persons between the ages of 16 and 24 are unemployed. This group makes up less than 25 per cent of the nation's labor force, but accounts for nearly 50 per cent of the unemployed.

And while the overall unemployment rate last month was 6.9 per cent, among teenagers it was 18.1 per cent.

But such statistics understate the scope of the problem.

FOR ONE thing, the figures do not include the scores of youngsters who become discouraged and quit looking for work. Nor does it include those who want full-time jobs but find only part-time work and the tens of

HENRY J. TAYLOR:

Trans-Siberian Express
 Last Train Of Its Kind

EUROPE'S TRAINS are notoriously superior to ours, although it's hard to understand why. On the 1927 day—50 years ago—that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh flew the Atlantic, the United States had about 20,000 regularly scheduled intercity passenger trains. Today we have less than 400.

Aside from the Soviet Union, the passenger train mileage of eight European countries ranks ahead of the United States and, collectively, 26 European systems are 16 times as great as ours.

Agatha Christie is another fiction writer made famous the great Orient Express. But now it is gone with the wind. This leaves largely alone among very long-haul passenger trains the Trans-Siberian Express.

It is known to the Russians as the "Rossiya."

FUNDAMENTALLY, of course, this loss of our passenger trains is due to our airlines. During all of 1927 when Lindbergh flew the Atlantic, our entire airline industry carried only 140,000 passengers. Now it sells more than that many tickets a day.

In fact, aviation fuel use has grown to be about one quarter as immense as the gasoline used by all our cars and trucks. Meanwhile, the domestic airlines' costs of flying a given plane are rising, exclusive of fuel, at a six per cent annual rate. Travel agents, in turn, represent about 40 per cent of domestic travel and the costs for credit cards continues to rise.

Our airline companies, large and small, compete with one another. But not so in the U.S.S.R.

AEROFLOT, OWNED by the Soviet government, is the only airline. For domestic service, it hasn't even a timetable. Passengers can spend a whole day or night or two waiting at the airport for the departure announcement.

And, except in major cities, these airports defy description in a family newspaper. For one thing, they have only outdoor toilets.

Excepting the supersonic planes, Aeroflot ordinarily flies two-engine jets. These are ready for instant conversion into bombers. Many lack seat belts. There is no air conditioning.

THE TRANS-SIBERIAN Railroad is the longest in the world: 5,778 miles. The railroad was begun in 1891 at the time of Czar Alexander III and Czar Nicholas II turned the first shovel of earth in Vladivostok.

The long bridge over the Amur River (very close to China) was the last construction link, but that bridge is now gone. In 1916 a new one took its place.

The Trans-Siberian passes through Khabarovsk (named for the explorer who founded the city), important Itskuk, the capital of eastern Siberia, and Ulan-Ude, which straddles the border between the U.S.S.R. and Outer Mongolia.

The Trans-Siberian Express runs from Moscow to Vladivostok (83 stops) at an average speed of 37 miles per hour. The cars are green and the attendant (usually a woman) is called the "Petrovina."

IN THE SOVIET Union, railroad workers are a powerful identity in their own right. They are a privileged group, a nation within a nation answerable to its own hierarchy.

Russia has the world's widest railroad gauge and the cars are taller and wider than America's. The trains have two classes: "hard seats" (second class) and "soft seats" (first class).

The first-class compartments—deep-toned mahogany in a Victorian decor—have two beds along the wall, a catch-all net over each, and a small table with a tinsel shade. Red curtains hang at the window.

A shiny copper samovar, with pails of charcoal for fuel, stands in the passageway, the responsibility of the "Petrovina." This is the car's chief source of heat.

That's the way it is—even on the the Trans-Siberian Express.

ROWLAND EVANS & ROBERT NOVAK:

Red Light In Geneva

WASHINGTON—President Carter's iron determination to reconvene the Geneva Mideast peace conference before the end of this year has been subjected to secret and agonized warnings from Arab governments ever since Secretary of State Cyrus Vance's first journey of shuttle diplomacy last February.

These warnings, undisclosed until now, came principally from Syria, Lebanon and Jordan.

They were given to Vance before President Carter made his final decision to press on to Geneva in 1977—in short, at a time the Arabs felt they could still influence his plans and timing.

In February, Vance was told of this Arab fear that, much as the Arabs wanted a settlement with Israel, Carter was courting "an explosion" in the Middle East if he pushed or capjolted the parties to Geneva without the framework of an agreement.

ANDREW TULLY:

She's Got A Secret

WASHINGTON—Today I am in love with a 21-year-old coed at the University of Michigan named Susan VanHattum. If there were any justice in such matters, her face would appear on the next new postage stamp.

You say you never heard of Susan? Shame on you. She has upheld one of the few absolutely private acts of an American citizen—the right not to tell anybody, even a judge, how she voted.

Susan became involved in this showdown vital to all Americans through no fault of her own. What happened is that Ann Arbor's mayoral election last April 5 is being contested by Louis Belcher, who lost to Mayor Albert Wheeler by one vote.

The investigation centered on the votes of Susan and 19 other citizens who apparently cast their ballots illegally because they lived in townships within the city limits.

BUT, IN FACT, the 20 were issued voter registration cards by the city clerk's office at their addresses in the various communities, based on a reading of city maps that seemed to include them in the city. Moreover, none of the 20 has been charged with fraud.

However, counsel for Belcher cited two previous Michigan Supreme Court rulings, in 1929 and 1931, which held that persons who voted illegally could be forced to reveal the name of the candidate for whom they voted.

Susan and another woman, Diane Lazinsky, fourth were hauled into court and ordered to tell all or be confined "until you decide to unlock the prison gates with your answer."

THE SECRET ballot is as old as the Republic. As Susan explained, "The whole point of having the voting in the booths and all is so nobody would know."

Indeed, counsel for both candidates had agreed the 20 would not be asked how they voted but only whether they had voted and if so whether they had later been informed that they had voted illegally. Apparently, common sense was rejected by the loser's counsel.

I like Susan's explanation that she had been "raised to believe a vote was secret."

She was raised good, as Harry Truman would have put it in his grassroots style.

There are, of course, citizens who delight in ticking off the candidates they will support. That's their privilege. By doing so, most believe they will influence friends and families to vote "right."

But I never bought that one.

I CONSIDER MY vote a personal, private affair, one of the few things in this age of governmental snooping that I can legally keep to myself, protected by custom and practice that are inbred in our form of government.

This husbandly secrecy has long been a matter of chagrin for Molly, a fire-eating although practical and individualistic liberal.

"I don't know why you can't tell me how you voted," she says after every election. "I tell you." Bless her. But I really don't want to know what she does with her X.

In any case, I have protected my secrecy even when accused of lack of complete affection and even political cowardice.

There is, of course, a simple solution to that contretemps in Ann Arbor. If all those 20 voted, unaware they were doing so illegally, then throw out all their ballots.

Meanwhile, I proclaim this Susan V. Hattum Day, and let there be dancing in the streets.

THUS, ARAB leaders warned about this dangerous sequence of events if Carter does in fact persuade the four Arab states—Egypt, Syria, Jordan and Lebanon—to come together in Geneva with Israel (which agreed last Tuesday to attend).

First, virtually certain deadlock on the big unresolved issues—some kind of Palestinian state as demanded by both the Arab countries and the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO); final borders between Israel and its neighbors; and conditions of peace with Israel.

Second, a rise of Arab radicalism in Egypt and Syria as the hard issues fail to move toward resolution and the illusion that Geneva itself automatically will lead to settlement begins to fade.

Third, a renewal of PLO guerrilla warfare against Israel, with southern Lebanon once again becoming a bloody battleground between PLO nationalists and the shaky government of Lebanon.

UNDERLYING THESE Arab fears is that once the Geneva conference is reconvened, U.S. pressures on Israel will confront Carter with devastating political counterpressures here in the U.S., with Israel shielded by its agreement to go to Geneva.

Defenders of Carter argue that these volatile political ingredients would be as dangerous if Geneva is not reconvened.

But the Arabs strongly disagree.

The attainment of a new Geneva conference, they believe, is certain to have the effect of raising expectations far beyond their realistic level, and when the illusion of progress is pierced, the reaction will be devastating.

THESE ARAB fears may prove to have been overstated if, as Carter greatly hopes, the peace conference is convened and does in fact spark new momentum toward settling the real issues.

That is what the President and his advisers are counting on.

But even so, the Arab fears rejected by Carter carry a different kind of warning for the President.

Despite nine months of nonstop effort to settle the Arab-Israeli struggle, he has failed to gain the confidence of the Arabs.

They praise his objectives but are fearful of his tactics.

LAY HARRIS:

Of Talk, Smoke...

THOUGHT FOR Today: Luck is the corner where preparation meets opportunity.

OVERHEARD: Life is like a tube of tooth paste. Get it rolling right and you'll get the most out of it.

EVEN THE Big Guns in the state's political jockeying are wondering what this campaign's early start will mean.

Will the voters tire of it all, even before the "formal" race starts next January? Will would-be office-holders run out of money, and energy, before the primary showdowns, let alone the run-offs? Does an early announcement give someone an edge?

Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill was in the office earlier in the week. Some of those questions are on his mind.

"But, it seems that early campaigning is the way it is now," he philosophized. "And I am in the race for sure. The latest poll shows us just four points behind Gov. Briscoe. And we're going to win..."

WHATEVER ELSE, Hill talks like a man who believes he can hang on one of the most successful, and wealthy, campaigners of recent Texas history.

Although he will be expounding and expanding on them as the campaign develops, Hill says his three major priorities, as a candidate and as governor, are 1. The energy problem, 2. Crime, and 3. Higher education.

He thinks Gov. Briscoe is vulnerable on all three counts.

The busy attorney general, who probably would argue with the contention that he leans slightly to the left of center, is a guy who doesn't hesitate to state his position rather clearly. But, he also appears willing to listen, to objections and suggestions.

Before it's over, we think he, as well as those running for constable on up, will need to get down to nitty-gritty specifics on everything from spending on education to how they stand on the ERA and President Carter if they are to attract and hold the voters' attention, however. That goes for now as well as next year.

SLIDE ROAD Sam Says: Worry is today's mousee eating tomorrow's cheese.

DID YOU HEAR about the guy who was such a football nut, his business wound up in the hands of a receiver?

WE WONDER sometimes if parents, teachers and others who daily—and often accidentally—come in contact with tomorrow's generation realize the impact they have on it.

In an age where an Impression, an Image, Status have become the measuring rods for Success, what we adults think, say and do in the final analysis has much more effect than all the books every printed.

Granted that mores and morals have changed forever, and in some instances for the good, and that many outside forces are at work, we still believe that it is today's generation which by and large shapes tomorrow's.

Youngsters, from pre-teens to their twenties, still seek someone, something in which they can believe. They aren't easily fooled. And most of them, we believe, still respect authority.

The word "No" may not be a popular one. But it surely says something definite. Try using it occasionally. You might be surprised to learn your teenage son or daughter understands what you are saying. And respects you for it!

SOME HALLOWEEN masks this year are so ugly they look almost human.

THE OFFICE Philosopher says when the meek inherit the earth, if they are smart they will hire a lawyer and fight it.

ANOTHER ONE of those noble experiments, cracking the whip on smoking in public places, is underway in France.

This week, a tough new set of rules went into effect in the land of lovers and many parties, political that is. The upshot is that there hardly are many places left, except in the privacy of one's home, or the John, where one can get off a puff or two.

Already, where there's smoke, whether cigarette, cigar or pipe user, the fires of protest are building.

Actually, as in the case of prohibition in the U.S. and prostitution everywhere, smoking is something one can legislate against only to a point.

That point being in just how far the smokers, and non-smokers, will tolerate one another. The French experiment is the first major, nationwide effort, to our knowledge, to sharply curtail "the habit" in most public places.

WHAT'S HAPPENING in France is more typical of the attitude toward public smoking abroad than in the U.S.

While U.S. airline passengers are questioned on their "smoking or no smoking" seat preference, for the most part smoking is an individual thing in most other public places.

Frankly, we've seldom been asked, "Do you mind if I smoke?" And while we grant anyone who must light up that privilege, we also are aware that for many, the practice can intrude on a meal, conversation or just being there, especially if the quarters are cramped. Like in a plane, or a bomb shelter...

Seriously, the solution isn't in laws which for the most part can't be or won't be enforced. The answer is in two little words known to all. Common Courtesy.

Willa Mae Reed of 1824 E. 1st place remained in critical condition Tuesday with injuries suffered Oct. 4 in a two-car collision.

Repair work on Clovis Highway near Loop 289 will begin today, according to the state highway department. The work will necessitate closing one or more lanes of traffic and will require about a week to complete.

Contract Okayed By Water Panel

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Water Development Board Tuesday approved a $1,000 contract for fiscal 1978 for continued collection of microseismic data by Deskin H. Shurbet, director of the seismological observatory at Texas Tech University.

Approval of the contract had been requested by the Department of Water Resources staff.

Engineer C.R. Baskin said the studies are to monitor reservoir sites or potential sites for possible seismic activity, and that the new contract is to continue an ongoing program.

Court Ponders Robbery Sentence

District Judge Thomas L. Clinton Tuesday ordered a presentencing report compiled on a man found guilty of robbing a woman as she sat with her three small children in her car.

Donald Wayne Reed, 18, of 3421 E. Colgate St., had been convicted of aggravated robbery Monday by a jury in Clinton's 99th District Court.

The judge is expected to assess punishment after the report is completed.

The range of punishment for aggravated robbery is from five to 99 years or life imprisonment.

Reed is requesting probation.

The jury deliberated about an hour Monday before finding Reed guilty of the April 28 holdup of Mrs. Donna Howle.

The complainant identified Reed as a man who threatened her with a pistol while she and her three small children waited in the car for her husband.

The incident allegedly occurred in a supermarket parking lot at East 4th Street and Guava Avenue. Mrs. Howle said she and her family were en route to their residence east of Lubbock about 8:45 p.m. when they decided to buy She said her husband had gone into the store, while she stayed in the car with the children.

According to Mrs. Howle, her purse was stolen from the front seat of the car by a companion of the man she identified as Reed. She said the two men left the area on foot.

'Hot' Bale Ignites Cotton Blaze

A-J Correspondent

LEVELLAND—Damage was set at $28,000 Tuesday to 78 bales of cotton and a trailer, which burned Monday afternoon on Texas 385, about 9.5 miles south of the city.

Eddie Sanders, Levelland fire chief, said the fire began after a "hot" bale in the truck burst open.

The driver, James Spurgeon, was uninjured in the blaze, which took more than seven hours to get under control.

Sanders said the trailer was "entirely engulfed by flames" by the time units from Levelland, Sundown and Brownfield could respond.

The cotton and trailer was owned by R.D. McDonald, owner of Levelland Compress Co.

Tools, Equipment Worth Thousands Stolen Here

Burglars continued their costly assaults on Lubbock residents and businessmen, according to reports filed Tuesday, with more than $3,000 worth of items missing following two break-ins.

Owner Gene G. Nelson of 3402 41st St. said intruders struck his business at 3232 Slaton Highway sometime between 6 p.m. Monday and 8:15 a.m. Tuesday, hauling away equipment and tools valued at $6,767.

Nelson said the burglars also caused damage to the structure after trying unsuccessfully to enter an office window at which a rock had been thrown.

After prying the locks from two store-rooms, the intruders hauled away a spate of sophisticated equipment, oil, anti-freeze, magnesium wheels and an estimated $2,500 worth of tools.

About the same time, someone broke into Willie Light's pickup parked on a 6025 Ave. A parking lot. The Littlefield resident told police the burglars snatched a commercial radio valued at $1,200 in addition to an eight-track stereo unit and a CB radio.

late Monday or early Tuesday, reports indicated.

Two unsoled mobile homes were the targets of burglars Monday or Tuesday, Duane Harrod of 3401 78th Drive told police. Harrod said the intruders stole bedspreads and caused damage to the doors of the trailers, inflicting a $180 loss. The trailers were parked at 1405 N University Ave., Harrod said.

A $4,370 haul was made from a car belonging to Joe Sandoval at his 8202 Hartford Ave. residence early Monday afternoon. Mrs. Sandoval said she was approached by a salesman who left the area when she went inside her home about 11:45 a.m. When she returned to her car, a little more than an hour later, she discovered the loss.

Among the items reportedly taken were six rings, one of which was valued at $2,275, assorted clothing and $200 cash.

A visitor to Lubbock got a rude welcome Monday as he shopped at South Plains Mall.

Mike James Smith of Lovington, N.M., said that while he was gone from his pickup for about an hour, someone opened his unlocked door and made off with four saddles, as well as bridles, halters and bits. Smith said the incident will cost him $1,730.

residence after someone reportedly removed over $600 worth of paint equipment and tools Sunday.

Charles R. Ewings Jr. of 1101 E. Purdue St. reported the loss of a box containing several tools from the bed of his pickup parked at his home last week.

Two air nail guns, valued at a total $800, reportedly were stolen from a construction site in the 1100-block of N Avenue Q Monday. Bob Chapman said the theft occurred during a 20-minute coffee break.

Someone apparently was struck with the holiday spirit a bit early recently as they decided to steal $250 worth of Christmas decorations from the Circus Inn Motel at 101 Slaton Road. According to the manager, the artificial tree, lights and ornaments were in a basement storeroom.

Leonarda Saucedo told officers her back door was pried and both bedrooms in her 2719 E. Colgate St. home ransacked Monday. Reports indicated she named a suspect in connection with the burglary, which netted the break-in artist assorted children's clothes, two packages of pork chops and a jar containing several quarters and dimes.

Reports indicated she named a suspect in connection with the burglary, which netted the break-in artist assorted children's clothes, two packages of pork chops and a jar containing several quarters and dimes.

Tom W. Mixon told officers a named suspect made off with 56 pounds of steaks from a restaurant at 106 E. Broadway last summer, a potential feat worth nearly $200. Mixon said he recently had learned of the man's whereabouts and decided to file a complaint.

Rodney Davis of 1630 17th St. said someone stole a color television worth $800 from him sometime Monday.

A bike worth a reported $145 was stolen from William J. Pierson of 3804 30th St. The bike, stolen earlier this fall, was taken from a front porch. Pierson said.

Despite the late season, G.W. Simpson of 711 Vardo Lane said someone stole his $75 lawnmower from his carport Monday or Tuesday.

Carpet panels valued at $194 reportedly were stolen from a vehicle on a car lot at 4611 Ave. Q late Monday or early Tuesday.

Burglars also swiped a two-wheeled trailer worth an estimated $300 from the street in front of Robert Noble's 3102 45th St. residence. The theft occurred

Monday or early Tuesday, reports indicated.

According to Ebb N. Dodgion of 3817 51st St., No. 19, his apartment was burglarized and his $1,800 stereo was taken sometime during a 2 1/2-hour period Monday afternoon. Reports indicated entry was gained by breaking a window.

Joey M. Liston said whoever removed a screen and broke a window at his 5101 58th St. house Monday stole $900 worth of goods, including a television set, a pistol, ammunition and household goods.

Nine hundred dollars also was the value placed on property reportedly stolen from Mike Doyle Greenway of 5429 Ave. D sometime during the weekend. The complainant told police an assortment of tools was taken from his pickup parked at his home.

There were no apparent signs of forced entry to Anthony J. Greco's 3816 54th St.

Police called to the 314 Ave. V home of Ruben Cantu Monday found 100 pennies at the rear of the residence shortly after a break-in. According to the complainant, someone broke through a window and made off with three rings, a calculator, $8 in bills and about $12 worth of change. Officers later arrested a juvenile suspect and recovered the alleged stolen goods.

Lupe Garza of 1720 E. Auburn St. said whoever entered through her back yard gate and pried a door on her house Monday subsequently got away with her $300 television set.

According to Johnny Cliff Barne II of 6609 Ave. S, a $250 shotgun was stolen from his garage sometime during the weekend.

Charlie Perryman, manager of the Ladon Motel at 2419 E. Broadway, told police a .22-caliber revolver and about $21 cash was stolen from the office Monday. According to reports, the point of entry could not be determined.

Muleshoe Man Dies In Crash

MULESHOE (Special) — An 85-year-old Muleshoe man was dead at the scene of a two-car collision Tuesday about a mile east of here on U.S. 70.

Killed in the 11:40 a.m. mishap was Arthur Graves of Route 2, Muleshoe.

Jonathan Taylor of Lockney, who was in a 1977 pickup that was in collision with Graves' vehicle, was not injured.

The vehicles collided at the intersection of U.S. 70 and a Bailey County dirt road.

Graves' vehicle was struck broadside, Northcutt said.

Services for Graves are pending with Singleton-Elis Funeral Home.

He had been a Bailey County resident since 1949, after moving here from Boley, Okla. He was a retired farmer and a native of Brenham. Graves was a member of the Progress Second Baptist Church and a member of the Muleshoe Senior Citizen's Club.

He was a veteran of World War I as a member of the U.S. Army and had belonged to the American Legion, Post 405 where he served as sergeant-at-arms.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. L. Byrd and Mrs. Charlie T. Walker, both of Muleshoe; two sons, Henry of Friona and Eldridge of Muleshoe; 18 grandchildren and 49 great-grandchildren.

Chairman Will Not Seek Re-Election

A-J Correspondent

HOBBS, N.M. — Libby Donley of Hobbs, Lea County Democratic chairman, says she will not seek re-election to the post when the Lea County Democratic convention is held Oct. 25.

Lea Democrats will elect a chairman, vice chairman, treasurer and a secretary at their convention. Also up for election will be the voting members of the Democratic State Central Committee.

Lea County will be authorized five central committee members, instead of four as in the past because of the heavy voter turnout in Lea County in 1976.

A Hobbs businesswoman, Donley served as county coordinator for the Carter presidential campaign in 1976's primary. She has helped manage two statewide political campaigns in the past several years.

Suspect In Lubbock Slaying Commits Suicide In Jail

Lubbock County Sheriff's Department deputies said they did not find out until Tuesday that the man charged with an April murder here committed suicide in a New Mexico jail Saturday without ever having been arrested for the homicide.

According to Capt. J.B. Douglas, deputies were doing routine follow-up work regarding the whereabouts of Oscar Mesa Flores, who had been charged and later indicted with the April 23 murder of 17-year-old Joel Hernandez of 303 E. Tulane St.

During a Tuesday conversation, Douglas said, a woman acquaintance of the suspect told lawmen that Flores was dead.

After making several phone calls, Douglas said, he was able to confirm that Flores had hanged himself in his Roswell jail cell last weekend. He also said that although the 27-year-old prisoner had been wanted by Lubbock authorities for almost six months, they were not contacted by New Mexico lawmen, and only "by chance" learned of the death.

Sgt. Albert Hill of the Chaves County Sheriff's Department late Tuesday said the inmate's body was discovered by two jailers at 8:51 p.m. Saturday. Flores, who reportedly listed a Roswell address and no employer on his jail card, had been charged in Roswell Oct. 10 with larceny over $100 and burglary of a residence, and his bond set at $1,500.

Hill said a note was found in the cell occupied only by Flores, and the body was sent to his mother who lives in California.

The Chaves County authorities did not run Flores' name through a national computer system because, as explained by Hill, the suspect was arrested by officers of the Roswell Police Department.

The murder victim, Hernandez, was found lying face down in a field near Trotter Road, about two miles east of the Loop and south of E. 19th Street.

Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy, who ruled homicide at the scene, said the victim had suffered "seven or eight skull fractures." Most of the blows, LeCroy said, were confined to the face and head, although there were some apparent injuries to the man's forearm and hands.

Lubbock Passengers Find Skies Cheaper, Crowded

Passengers continued to climb aboard airplanes at the Lubbock International Airport in record numbers last month, as boardings climbed a whopping 70.3 per cent over September, 1976.

A total of 35,241 passengers took to the skies last month, compared with 20,689 who boarded planes in the same month last year.

The increase in boardings, apparently caused mainly by Southwest Airline's entrance into the Lubbock market and the reduced fares offered by Southwest and Continental, contributed to a 35.9 per cent increase in boardings over the same nine-month period last year. In 1976, 188,467 passengers were boarded, but the number increased to 256,239 this year.

This year's boardings have already surpassed the total for the entire 12 months of 1976, when 253,510 passengers were counted, and the airport experienced its biggest year in terms of passenger numbers.

Continental, with its reduced fares, registered the largest increase in passengers for September, compared with the same month in 1976. The airline reported a 30.9 per cent hike over last September, and a 7.2 per cent increase in passengers over the same nine months last year.

Braniff is maintaining the largest increase in passengers for the nine-month period, with a 12.5 per cent hike over the same period in 1976. However, the airline recorded no gain in passengers for the month.

Texas International, which initiated reduced fares for its passengers only this month, registered a modest gain of 1.4 per cent over 1976 and a 3.4 per cent decrease from September, 1976.

Southwest Airlines, which began operation here on May 20, boarded 11,723 passengers last month, bringing its total for the year to 51,979.

Chaparral Airlines, a commuter service headquartered in Abilene, enplaned 56 passengers last month, increasing its total for the year to 509.

tember, bringing its yearly total to 128.

The Airport Board will receive these figures at its monthly meeting at 7:30 p.m. today at the airport.

At the meeting, the board will be asked for the third consecutive month to allow Executive Limousine Service to operate at the facility.

The board refused to act on the request at its last meeting, and the owners of the novice company took the request to the City Council.

The council determined, however, that city ordinances dealt only with taxicabs, not limousines, and threw the ball back to the Airport Board.

The board will again be asked to grant the limousine service parking space in front of the terminal.

Other items on the eight-item agenda are routine, including a review of parking expansion at the airport and a progress report on work on the north-south runway.

Chemistry Professor Speaks At ENMU

PORTALES (Special)—The South Plains Section of the American Chemical Society and Eastern New Mexico University will present guest speaker Dr. Frank Lambert, professor in chemistry at Occidental College in Los Angeles Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Science Building.

"House Dust, Modern Art and Thermodynamics" will be the topic of Dr. Lambert's demonstration talk which is an interweaving of themes from chemistry, everyday living and modern art forms.

Dr. Lambert has had a number of research publications in this area with special interests in electro-organic chemistry and is the originator of the use of styrofoam for molecular models in organic chemistry.

Government Revamp Major New Mexico Issue

By ROBERT E. HUBER
A-J Correspondent

SANTA FE — The governor's revamped reorganization plan for state government will be a major topic of legislation in the coming session of the New Mexico Legislature, and some observers are predicting problems for the package.

At least 100 changes in the package will be proposed by the governor's office, and that leaves the door open to other proposed changes by lawmakers. If the entire organization plan has to be reshuffled through the legislature it could wipe out the project.

Some observers are saying Gov. Jerry Apodaca was lucky to get the package through the last session, and this year he will be a lame duck executive without as much clout.

But others point to previous lame duck governors and point out that they lacked little muscle in their final sessions. With as much emphasis on the reorganization of state government, the rest of the session will seem fairly drab.

An Albuquerque federal judge has blasted Congress for not setting down clear guidelines concerning the sovereignty issue between states and Indian nations.

U.S. Dist Judge Howard Bratton, after handing down a decision on the Mescalero Apache case against the State Revenue Bureau, said, "The whole area of state jurisdiction over non-Indians doing business with Indians on Indian lands deserves congressional review and enactment of definitive federal legislation."

Bratton said the issue — whether the state could tax contractors working on Indian land — existed only because of Congress' failure to enact governing legislation.

The chairman of the Mescalero Apache tribe near Ruidoso, Wendell Chino, last week said state and Indian leaders in New Mexico must sit down and iron out the state-Indian sovereignty issue before both sides get too polarized.

Chino, usually outspoken on the side of Indian sovereignty, said, "I think the attempt to tax Indian people probably is behind the whole issue. There has to be a basis for agreement on this before we get too polarized."

The Mescalero Apache leader said all New Mexico Indian leaders should be involved in such a meeting and would discuss any reasonable solution to the sovereignty problem.

Mayor-elect David Rusk of Albuquerque thinks he can serve as both a New Mexico legislator and the mayor of the state's largest city, and the attorney general says he can find no state law to contradict that premise.

Atty. Gen. Toney Anaya said he will hand down a formal opinion on the matter next week, but it's unknown if he will review Albuquerque's city charter which says, "The Mayor shall devote full time and attention to the performance of the duties of office and shall hold no other paid public or private employment."

New Mexico has received $200,000 for a one-year program of countering utility requests for rate hikes before the Public Service Commission. The money is divided $82,400 for the attorney general, $60,000 to the Energy Resources, and the remaining $47,600 to consumer groups selected by the two state agencies.

Heartline

HEARTLINE is a service for senior citizens of all ages. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. Senior citizens will receive prompt replies but a stamped, self-addressed envelope must be included with the request. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: I am 64 years old and have driven cars most of my life. One of my major expenses always has been the replacement of tires. Do you have any advice about how I can make my tires last longer? — P.R.

A. The care of your tires is one of the most important things you can do for your car. Properly balanced and inflated tires are not only safer, but your gas mileage will be much better. The following tips will help improve the performance of your tires.

- Have your tires rotated every 5,000 miles. This will even the tread wear.
- Make sure that your tires are always properly inflated.
- Avoid quick starts and stops. They cause heat build-up and smear the tread across the road.
- Do not drive fast around curves.
- Check regularly to see that your valve caps are securely fastened.
- You should never mix different types of tires on the same axle.
- If you are storing tires, store them in a cool, dry, sunless location. Also, stack them; do not hang or stand on end.

HEARTLINE: I hope you can settle the following question for a friend of mine and her husband. My friend's husband takes the position that he is doing her a favor by allowing her to draw on his Social Security, as she has never worked under the system. He contends that if he were single or widowed, he would receive the total sum of what both of their checks will amount to. Is he right, or is he only entitled to the portion he receives? — D.B.

A. While your friends are married, the wife is entitled to wife's benefits on her husband's work record. At age 62 she is entitled to 75 per cent of one-half her husband's unreduced benefits. If she should become divorced, she would be entitled to the same benefits if they were married for 20 years or more.

In the case of her husband dying, she would be entitled to widow's benefits, which at age 62 would be 82.9 per cent of her husband's benefit.

She is the one entitled to wife's benefits or widow's benefits. He cannot receive her benefits, only his own.

HEARTLINE: I was at my neighbor's house recently and I saw some information he had from the National Association of Older Americans. I had not heard of this group and he really didn't know much. Can you give me any information about it? — C.S.

A. The National Association of Older Americans is a group designed to aid older Americans regarding problems or questions. It publishes a monthly newsletter and offers a prescription drug plan that gives substantial savings on members' drug bills.

For a free brochure explaining the NAOA in detail, write "Heartline-NAOA," 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Iowa Farm Family Has Lots To Talk Over With Carter

Weekend Visit Set On Drought Area Swing

INDIANOLA, Iowa (AP) — Jimmy Carter will hear first-hand about farmers' headaches in this drought-choked federal disaster area when Woodrow Wilson Diehl gathers "some of the boys" for breakfast Saturday in the Diehl farmhouse.

"We have so many things to talk about," said Diehl, 64. "I'd like to talk about the cattle situation, the wheat situation, the drought, corn prices, energy. I hope I'm equal to the task."

Carter will be making his first Iowa Democratic party appearance since taking office when he kicks off a four-state swing with a fund-raising dinner in the state capital.

"Woody" Diehl and his 59-year-old wife, Mary, say they were advised Sunday that the President would be a guest Friday evening on their 1,600-acre farm, which lies on a dirt road about 12 miles south of Des Moines in drought-stricken Warren County.

Picture windows in the spacious farmhouse look out on a small pond and the rest of the "Marywood Farm." Eight full-time employees help operate the hog, cattle and crop farm, which has four grain silos and several barns and storage buildings.

Diehl said he usually gets up around six o'clock "with the chickens." But he said he'll make an exception this weekend for Carter, who is often up at 5 a.m.

Presidential visits are not new to the Diehls, who were hosts to President Lyndon Johnson for an afternoon in 1966. They describe that visit as a "madhouse" caused by the Johnson entourage and two buses of reporters.

"We know more what to expect this time," Diehl said. "It's a great honor. I just hope I can do him justice."

Diehl said he was undecided about how to vote when he received a phone call from Carter early in 1976. He later served as state chairman of Carter's agriculture committee during the presidential campaign.

He said he hopes to "get some time by myself with him" early Saturday morning before showing him around the farm.

Corn production at the Diehl farm is expected to drop from last year's total of 125,000 bushels to 10,000 bushels in 1977 due to the drought, according to Ted Diehl, 41, who manages the farm for his father. But the Diehls are not dissatisfied with Carter's efforts in agriculture.

"I know he has many problems," Woody said. "But I'm satisfied he's doing the best job he knows how. And I expect he'll be asking most of the questions this weekend."

By Reuters

CHICAGO — Live cattle futures closed unchanged to off 30 points Tuesday on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange led by August and October with only January equalling the previous day's settlement.

Volume was estimated at 7,838 turnover. Prices broke 42 points early in the trading to a four-week low on spillover selling from the pork pits in the wake of latest U. S. Department of Agriculture nitrate nitrite news.

The Agriculture Department announced that it would require more information from the meat industry showing how meat could be processed and prepared without nitrates.

Gains of 12 points were posted for a time on light arrivals and a firmer tone to cash cattle. Selling of deferred contracts reflected possibility of heavy placement on feed.

There have been nine deliveries against the October contract so far. Wholesale beef was unchanged at 65 1/2 cents per pound for all weights. Cash cattle were steady to 50 cents higher with the top at $43.50 per hundred-weight.

Slaughter was reported at 148,000 head. The six markets expect 16,700 head to arrive today.

Hog futures fell 72 points before ending 47 lower to 72 higher. August was down most with the nearby showing the best gain.

The contract was up 30 points to a new high of $43.10 early. Volume was 7,345 contracts.

Selling spilled over from the belly pit on the nitrate nitrite news. Support was generated by sharp discounts of futures to cash ahead of the last trading day in the spot contract on Thursday.

Wholesale hams were unchanged at 79 1/4 to 89 cents per pound. F.o.b. river points. Cash hogs were steady to $1.50 higher with the top at Indianapolis of $44.75 a seven-week high.

The six major terminals expect 26,500 head to arrive today. Slaughter was estimated at 304,000 head on Tuesday.

Pork belly (bacon) futures tumbled the daily limit of 200 points before closing 90-125 points lower led by March. Volume was 4,299 contracts.

The market reacted from Monday's sharp upturn and fell to week's lows on the USDA action and remained at lows the remainder of the session.

Support on the scale-down stimulated by reduced hog runs and higher prices coupled with generally firm cash bellies.

Wholesale bacon was up one-half cent to one-half cent lower at 46.12 to 54 cents per pound, highest in four weeks.

Energy Conferees Seek Compromise

the minds of the American people," Carter told Ashley.
Ashley predicted the final bill will be one that Carter "can take some pride in and we can as well. And we're going to do that."
Carter also met separately Tuesday with Sens. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., and Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas. On Monday night, he met with Long, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.
"Dealing" Denied
Deputy White House Press Secretary Rex Granum said Carter was "trying to clear up any misunderstanding before the conferees begin their work" but he denied that the President was trying his hand at "wheeling and dealing."

It was Long's panel that approved billions of dollars in energy tax incentives for the oil industry but rejected every energy tax proposed by the President. The rejected proposals called for taxes on crude oil, on industries and utilities that use natural gas and on cars that get poor gasoline mileage.
Both Long and administration officials hope some of these taxes can be revived by the conference committee.
Budget Problem
Earlier Tuesday, Carter told congress-sional leaders at a White House breakfast that largely because of the Finance Committee's action, the Senate version of the energy legislation could wreck his hopes of achieving a balanced federal budget.

According to participants, Carter said the energy tax incentives approved by the Senate panel and expected to win full Senate approval would create a budget deficit of $55 billion.
House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill told reporters optimism was expressed that a compromise could be drafted to continue price controls on natural gas as Carter wants

Compromise Seen

O'Neill said energy companies, who favor deregulation, might throw their support behind a compromise bill containing controls at the last minute rather than face the prospect of no bill and the continuation of existing price controls.
Carter wants to keep the controls while raising the price ceiling from $1.46 per thousand cubic feet to $1.75.
On the Schlesinger stock issue, the Senate Energy Committee gave the energy secretary until July 18 to dispose of his holdings. The firm, based in Valencia, Calif., owns land in that state's Sacramento Valley as well as in Texas and Louisiana.

Energy Holdings

In a Sept. 27 letter to the committee, Schlesinger disclosed that the firm has energy holdings and noted that "energy production represents a limited though respectable share of the company's activities."
The stocks are worth about $16.4 million on the New York Stock Exchange.
The committee voted after it was told by staff director Grenville Garside that Schlesinger "would be required to sell these shares under federal conflict-of-interest laws even if we didn't require him to sell them."
The panel also recommended unanimously that the Senate confirm President Carter's nominations of five individuals to serve in top energy department posts under Schlesinger.
The list includes John F. O'Leary, the former head of the Federal Energy Administration whom Carter has nominated to be deputy secretary of energy.

U.S. Tour Opened By Prince Charles

CHICAGO (AP) — Prince Charles, the heir apparent to the British throne, flew to Chicago on Tuesday as the first stop on a nine-day tour of cities in the nation's heartland.
The visit of Charles, the bachelor Prince of Wales whose royal title is a paragraph long but whose sense of humor, it is said, will put the shyest American at ease, has touched off a flurry of preparation in 10 midwestern, southern and western cities.
After a day and a half in Chicago, Prince Charles, 29, will visit Cleveland, St. Louis, Atlanta and Athens, Ga.; Charleston, S.C.; Houston, San Antonio, Los Angeles, and San Francisco.
The visit is the Prince's first to the United States since 1970, when he and his sister, Princess Anne, were the guests of former President Nixon. It is, according to British officials, a kind of belated tribute to the American Bicentennial.
Prince Charles opens his Chicago visit with an off-the-record press reception at the Drake Hotel, the 54-year-old dean of Chicago's North Side hotels.
The public's best opportunity to see him will come at 10 15 a.m. Wednesday at Daley Center when he will be welcomed by Mayor Michael A. Bilandic. Later, the Prince will visit the commodities trading floor at the Board of Trade building.

Trio Of Terrorists Commits Suicide In West German Jail

But a couple of minutes after the cold-blooded murder the terrorist said, "Now let's have a smoke."
Other passengers said Mahmoud changed moods constantly. "He was probably crazy," said a middle-aged man.

Recalling the raid, a woman passenger said: "I was luckily sitting at the emergency exit. I didn't hear a thing, not even a scratching or anything. Then somebody fell on top of us."
"All I heard was, 'Heads down!' Somebody was covering us with his body and all we hear was 'Heads down, don't be scared.'"
German officials, announcing the suicide of jailed terrorists, warned that German terrorists may now try another raid.

Officials said Baader and Raspe shot themselves in the head with pistols and Miss Ensslin hanged herself. Miss Moeller stabbed herself in the chest with a breadknife, but was out of danger, they said.

The officials said they did not know how the terrorists managed to get guns and knives into their cells. There was also no indication whether they killed themselves knowing the hijacking had failed, or whether they knew of the hijacking at all.
The terrorists reportedly were being held in solitary confinement under a new antiterrorist law to prevent them from communicating with one another.

The four were the core of the Red Army Faction, the ultraleftist group that kidnaped Schleyer and is popularly known as the Baader-Meinhof gang. Co-leader Ulrike Meinhof was found hanged in her cell in May, 1976.

Officials warned that the suicides could set off a new wave of terrorism. A joint statement by the Bonn government and major political parties said members of "a terrorist organization have pledged to further sharpening of their fanatical and

Renovation Slated At St. Mary's

St. Mary's of the Plains Hospital will shut down its emergency room for "about a month," beginning at 7 a.m. Saturday.
Sister Maureen, administrator of St. Mary's, said the emergency room will be closed for "renovation and expansion."
"Most of the construction already has been done," she said Tuesday. "But the builders have told us that we will have to close the emergency room in order to finish the job."
"We expect it will be closed for about a month."
Problems Foreseen
St. Mary's has one of two around-the-clock emergency rooms in Lubbock, and Sister Maureen's announcement of a temporary shutdown has many local health officials worried about where patients will go.

"I've heard of that," Stuart Haggard, coordinator of the Lubbock County Hospital District-operated Emergency Medical Service, said of the announcement.
"We're trying to find out the specifics on it right now."
During the shutdown period, EMS ambulances probably will have to rely more on the 24-hour Methodist Hospital emergency room.
"We really don't know at this point what is going to happen," George Brewer, Methodist administrator, said. "I haven't had too much time to think about it."
Both Haggard and Brewer indicated the announcement by St. Mary's is somewhat surprising.

Even Distribution Desired
They said they hope to find some way to evenly distribute the emergency room patient load among the various hospitals of the city while St. Mary's emergency room is closed.
Sister Maureen said she knew "for some time" that the emergency room eventually would have to be closed temporarily, but that a date only recently had been set.

She said St. Mary's has sent a notice of the closing to the hospital district and local hospitals. "I don't know" what the repercussions of the temporary shutdown might be, Sister Maureen said. "They haven't responded."
The closing of St. Mary's emergency room is a blow to the city's emergency services.

Prisoner Swap Bill Okayed By Committee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee Tuesday approved legislation opening the way home by Christmas for at least some of nearly 600 Americans in Mexican jails.
Chairman Peter Rodino, D-N.J., said he hoped the House would pass the "very humane and very necessary piece of action" without amendment before it adjourns next month.
The legislation would permit American prisoners in Mexican jails and Mexican prisoners in American jails to be transferred to facilities near their homes in their respective countries if they wish.

Their sentences could be commuted only with the agreement of the country which originally jailed them.
Rep. Joshua Eilberg, D-Pa., said, "We believe that it is essential that we promptly pass prisoner exchange legislation so that the 500 to 600 Americans presently in Mexican jails can be brought home by Christmas."
Eilberg, chairman of the Judiciary subcommittee which unanimously approved the bill last week, said most of the American prisoners in Mexican jails exist "under intolerable conditions, with no possibility of rehabilitation or reform."

Ten Americans imprisoned in Jalisco state penitentiary in Guadalajara, Mexico, sent word last week to American authorities that they were caught in a continuing battle between rival prison gangs and feared for their lives.
Rodino said he had received a telephone call Monday from former Wisconsin governor Patrick J. Lucey, now U.S. Ambassador to Mexico, "who requested we act expeditiously on this matter because of a potentially explosive situation."

FLIGHTS HALTED

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy halted flights of most of its 1,800 Phantom fighter-bombers and reconnaissance planes Tuesday until the aircraft can be inspected for cracks and corrosion in an assembly unit that controls flight stabilizers.

Concorde Landing Set In New York Today

as the new rules are applied fairly to all aircraft.
Carol Berman, leader of the Emergency Coalition to Stop the SST, said Tuesday opponents are resigned to the test landings, but plan to file suit within a week to prevent further Concorde landings anywhere in the U.S.

"We have no organized protest planned," said Mrs. Berman, who previously led mass drive-in protests at Kennedy that snarled airport traffic for miles.
"There will be some unorganized protests by individuals, I imagine, but no group effort. There will be no one lying in the runways," she said.

Mrs. Berman said the lawsuit, to be filed in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn, would name as defendants the Federal Aviation Administration and U.S. Transportation Secretary Brock Adams.
She said the planned suit would argue that the FAA failed to enact uniform noise standards for all U.S. airports as it was directed to do in 1969.

Norman Lornie, American Information Director for British Airways, said the plane that lands today is "exactly the same as the commercial flights which will be landing. It just won't carry any passengers."

He said the first commercial flights from London and Paris to New York were scheduled to begin Nov. 22.

"We're taking reservations now, but to tell the truth, there has not been a deluge of calls," he said. "It'll take several days for them to build up. But I believe Concorde will be commercially successful before long."

He said the first Concorde take-off from Kennedy was set for Thursday. The plane will lift off from the airfield, fly around and then return.

Waco Seeks Interest On Idle Half Million

WACO (AP) — For the past eight months, almost a half a million dollars two teenagers claim they found while digging on a South Texas farm has been sitting in a bank vault drawing no interest.
The City of Waco now says the fortune should be placed in an interest-bearing account.
Attorneys representing the city asked Monday that U.S. District Court Judge Jack Roberts direct the Citizens National Bank of Waco to put the $483,183 in such an account.
Joe Newton, executive vice president of the bank, said Tuesday that the money has been kept segregated and not considered part of the bank's assets since the cash came to the bank last February.
Asked if the bank would prefer the money in an account, Newton said, "It's not doing anybody any good just sitting in the vault."
The two youths, James Dean Bridges and Percy Arnold Garcia, had the money in the trunk of a new 1977 Thunderbird that the pair had purchased shortly before they were stopped on a traffic violation in Waco last January.
The youths told authorities they had found the money while digging the previous day on a Jim Wells County ranch owned by Bridges' father, James Hiroms. Bridges had taken the name of a stepfather.
Investigations by government agencies and one state grand jury failed to reveal any criminal activity in connection with the money.
Hiroms has never claimed the fortune.
State District Judge Bill Logue of Waco directed that the money be kept by the bank in such a way that it would not become commingled with other bank funds.
Logue's action came in anticipation of possible criminal proceedings in which the money would be needed as evidence.
Wiley W. Stem Jr., an attorney representing the city, said, however, that lawyers are now convinced there will be no criminal trials concerning the fortune.
He said the money could earn thousands of dollars in interest, which would go the party that eventually receives the funds, before courts finally determine ownership.
The Internal Revenue Service claims it should receive $337,705 of the money. The teenagers say they should get whatever is left.
However, McLennan County is seeking the money under an abandoned property theory. The State of Texas also claims part of the money.
Judge Roberts has set a pretrial hearing date for Feb. 1, 1978, in preparation of a trial to determine who will get what amount of the money.

Witness Says Victim Shot At Close Range

AMARILLO (AP) — An expert state witness stuck by his conclusion Tuesday that the slain young stepdaughter of millionaire murder defendant Cullen Davis was shot at close range.
"I would place the outer limit of muzzle to target at less than five feet," Frank Shiller, director of the Fort Worth Crime Lab, testified on cross-examination.
Defense lawyer Richard "Racehorse" Haynes suggested Shiller used a "wind gaging" approach to determine the range and said, "That's not a very scientific way... is it?"
Within Five Feet
Prosecutors objected to the question, and Haynes then asked, "It can't be more than five feet?"
"Not in my opinion," Shiller replied.
The testimony came amidst speculation that Shiller, who took the stand last Thursday, would be the final witness in the state's case against Davis for the slaying of Andrea Wilborn. However, there was no indication how long Shiller would remain on the stand.
The defendant's 12-year-old stepdaughter was one of two killed in a shooting spree at Davis' hilltop Fort Worth mansion Aug. 2, 1976.

knew whom he was shooting. It bloody well shows it was intentional. And it bloody well indicates the killer was looking that 12-year-old girl squarely in the eye when he shot her."
Testimony showed the bullet that killed the girl was recovered from the basement utility room where her body was found and that bullet is critical to the state's case.
Shiller testified the projectile was fired from the same .38 caliber pistol used to kill Farr and that it actually could be matched with three other identifiable bullets recovered from the mansion.
There were no eyewitnesses to the slaying of Andrea so that bullet was an essential factor in the state's circumstantial case linking Davis to the shootings.
The murder weapons never was found, but the defense has tried to tie two pistols that surfaced in the case to a Fort Worth man slain a year after the mansion shootings.

Wife Wounded
Davis' estranged wife Priscilla, 36, was wounded in the midnight gunfire and her lover Stan Farr, 30, was slain.
A young mansion visitor was crippled by a bullet in his spine.
Haynes sought among other things Tuesday to show that Shiller drew several of his "expert" conclusions before completing complex scientific tests on the victims' clothing.
Asked the importance of determining the exact distance from which Andrea was shot, Haynes told a reporter: "We are just showing they tailored the distance to fit their own configurations."
"Intentional" Shooting
When the same question was posed to prosecutors, volatile Tolly Wilson declared: "It bloody well shows the killer which appeared to flame and give off sparks, moved from the southwest to the northeast, about four degrees above the horizon. Johnston said he observed the object for nearly half a minute.

About 9:30 p.m. Tuesday the Associated Press reported the meteor had been spotted by residents in four states: Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana and Missouri.
There were conflicting reports throughout the Southwest, the AP said, as to whether the object was a meteor or meteorite, a flaming chunk which actually strikes the Earth.
A spokesman for the McDonald Observatory in Fort Davis told the AP "it's definitely a meteor. When one is that large and that bright, it's likely to have reached the ground intact."

Final Arguments Submitted In Hill Death Case

HOUSTON (UPI) — An attorney defending Ash Robinson told a civil court jury Tuesday the oil millionaire would never risk harm to his only grandson by sending a hired gunman to kill plastic surgeon Dr. John Hill.

W. Robert Brown made the remark in final arguments before the panel which must decide if Robinson, 79, bought Hill's murder in 1972 to avenge the death of Joan Robinson Hill, his daughter and the doctor's first wife.

A lawyer for Hill's survivors argued Robinson was the axis of the conspiracy and pleaded the family must be compensated for their loss, pain and suffering to the tune of $7.6 million.

"We're not talking about negligence," family lawyer Robert Wallis said. "We are talking about cold-blooded murder. It was right there in John Hill's home."

Hill was slain in the foyer of his colonial mansion while his son, Robert, and Myra lay bound and gagged. Hill was awaiting trial for murder in the mysterious death of Joan Hill at the time.

The State District Judge read a complex 47-count charge to the jury panel, then gave lawyers five hours for their final arguments in the eight-week-old trial.

The jury must decide if Robinson was a conspirator along with Lilla Paulus and Marcia McKittrick, both of whom are serving prison terms. No criminal charges were ever brought against Robinson.

"We came here to prove murder and we proved it," Wallis said. "There was a conspiracy. Those people were members of that conspiracy."

"What we are talking about in this case is justice — 100 per cent justice."

But Brown came back and repeated a refrain heard frequently in the complicated lawsuit — that the Hill family had failed to prove their case, that their case was based on the testimony of a convicted criminal.

"We are asking you (the jury) to fix fault," Brown said. "It was a sorry, sorry violent death."

"If you throw away all window dressing and trivial details, if you look at the gut issues ... the gut issue is a basic tracking match between Marcia McKittrick and Ash Robinson."

"You should measure what they prove to you as a yardstick of what they said they would prove to you. The only evidence comes from two sources — Marcia McKittrick and Ash Robinson."

"The risk she runs is going to jail for perjury. It's her statement that she's bound to and it's her statement that is suspect."

Brown's chief argument was that the killing of Hill was a robbery turned sour and that no hired killer would strike at a residence where three people would be present and later serve as witnesses.

Robinson has also maintained that gaining the care and custody of young Hill and healing their five-year estrangement has been an obsession with him.

"You know Ash Robinson did not participate in that conspiracy because you know he would not send an armed gunman into a residence with his grandson," Brown said.

Crystal City Gas Users May Get Federal Grant

LAREDO (AP) — A Laredo-Webb county Community Action Agency official said he expected approval today of a plan to begin distribution of a $310,000 grant to residents of Crystal City, where gas was shut off last month for nonpayment of a debt.

Conrado Cruz said the Crystal City council approved the plan Tuesday afternoon, and it was passed along to the Community Services Agency office in Dallas.

"They said they would forward it to Washington, and I talked with Mr. Robert Smith with the CSA in Washington," Cruz said. "They seem more or less ready to approve it, and I look for approval sometime tomorrow (Wednesday)."

Cruz's organization was selected by the federal CSA to administer the grant.

The money was authorized after Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. shut off gas to the South Texas city for nonpayment of some $750,000 in overdue bills.

The city had maintained that a rate increase that accounted for the arrearage was illegal, but it had been approved by the governing Texas Railroad Commission.

The plan proposed by Cruz and the Crystal City council is not meant as a final solution, but as a first step in helping residents defined as "poor" by federal poverty guidelines.

Top priority would be given purchase of hot plates and other small electric appliances to help those residents now forced to cook over outdoor fires.

The plan also provides for contracting with the Crystal City Independent School District to provide food for the poor.

Student Conduct Code Faces Action By Trustees

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Lubbock school officials have revised their policies on student discipline, spelling out for the first time youngsters' responsibilities and formally eliminating out-of-school suspension as a punishment.

The proposed policy changes, to be considered by the school board Thursday, also include a new behavior code and "due process" provisions for students accused of breaking school rules.

Most of the revisions represent things the Lubbock Independent School District has been enforcing all along, either by tradition or under other policies. Dr. E.C. Leslie, assistant superintendent for administration, said Tuesday.

They have been put into new form to make them "more understandable and give them all the weight of board policy," he said.

The only big changes involve assignment to Project Intercept, the district's new program for hard-to-manage students, and use of in-school suspensions.

The in-building suspension program, piloted at Estacado High last year and implemented in all 15 junior and senior high schools this term, establishes a special classroom in each school for students who otherwise would be sent home for a few days.

Students habitually truant, tardy or disruptive temporarily are assigned to the in-school suspension room where, under teacher supervision, they serve time working on their studies — without talking or mixing with friends.

The in-school suspension program has received considerable play in the local student press. Student opinion has been mixed, as evidenced in recent letters to the editor published in Coronado's newspaper, The Crest.

"I think that this business of a little room with just a desk in it is a bunch of bunk," wrote Billy Langwell. "For one thing, I have never been 'truant' before in my life, but for those who have been, putting them in a small room for three school days isn't going to do anything but make matters worse."

"I thought that this was supposed to be a building that taught the beautiful things about being free, but to me it looks like we're headed for our jail cells when we come to school," Langwell said.

That was followed up by letters from Jeff Johnson and Delane Butler.

"It is important that we learn not only the beautiful things about being free, but more importantly, the responsibilities that freedom brings," Johnson said.

"The in-school suspension program is simply punishment for students who knowingly break rules. If a student feels strongly enough about the punishment, he should have sense enough to stay out of major trouble," Johnson said.

Added Butler: "Detention-room haters think a punishment should not be uncomfortable. However, the rest of us know that the only way to keep a person from doing something is to punish him with an unpleasant reward, not a pleasant one."

School trustees will have their say on the subject when they meet Thursday at 7:15 a.m. in the district administration building, 1628 19th St.

School administrators long have been searching for alternatives to out-of-school suspensions, which they say may do more harm than good. Results of that search have been the in-school suspension program and Project Intercept, an alternative school set up in the district's administration annex.

Project Intercept, established by a criminal justice grant in cooperation with the Lubbock County Juvenile Probation Department, provides intensive counseling and supervision for students who otherwise would receive what used to be called a "long-term suspension."

The proposed policies to be considered Thursday by the school board state: "When a student fails to comply with reasonable rules of the school and other disciplinary measures have failed to change his behavior, he may be subject to in-building suspension or assignment to Project Intercept."

The proposal said minor infractions should be handled with "short-term in-building suspension," with Project Intercept reserved for "repeated violations or major offenses."

In either case, before any action is taken, the student must be advised of the charge and "allowed to give his version of the situation," the proposed policies say.

Assignments to Project Intercept will be decided by a committee composed of the director of pupil personnel, the secondary education director, the juvenile probation officer and the principal making the recommendation.

The proposed new policies outline a conduct code listing student "obligations": "To obey the rules of his school, to apply himself to the established course of study, to respect the authority of all teachers, to respect all school property, to conduct himself properly at school, in school buses and at all school functions, to refrain from disruption, demonstrations, violence and other forms of incitement, to go to and from school in an orderly manner and without delay, and to refrain from interference with other students..."

The proposal said grounds for suspension will include disrespect or disobedience of teachers, skipping class, damaging school property, fighting, gambling, hazing, carrying weapons or drugs on school property, smoking tobacco at school, violating city, state or federal laws, and "disrupting the educational process..."

Dealers' Deaths Still Unsolved

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Each time police dig up another grave in an effort to find the body of a New York diamond dealer who disappeared here last summer, critics want to know why they didn't dig deeper to solve a series of diamond dealer murders.

A badly burned, bullet-riddled body that officials found July 29 and buried shortly thereafter — without an investigation — is believed to be that of Abraham Shafizadeh, a diamond dealer who was carrying $250,000 in gems when he disappeared July 28.

Officials now are unable to locate the body after digging up four graves in the attempt. But this is only one of the many problems confronting authorities in the case.

Police also have not solved the killings of two other diamond brokers that occurred within months of each other in 1974. As a result, charges of police bungling and negligence are growing.

Unexplainedly: —Ballistics tests were never done after the 1974 killings, even though the two victims, both of whom carried gems, were gunned down in similar fashion, both with a .38-caliber revolver. The body believed to be Shafizadeh's also was shot with a .38.

—Key witnesses and suspects, later found by reporters, were not questioned.

—Shafizadeh's disappearance was never tied to the twin 1974 killings.

—Shafizadeh's brother, who rushed here from Chicago after his brother disappeared, was never told about the July 29 slaying.

—Shafizadeh's brother told authorities that the missing jeweler's fingerprints were on file with the Immigration and Naturalization Service in Washington because of his immigrant status. The fingerprint report has yet to show up here. Police deny a local published report that the wrong records were sent.

—Last week, Col. Enrique Lugo, in charge of the inquiry, sent a long-awaited report to the Puerto Rico Senate about the narcotics racket here. He first released the report Sept. 9, but it was rejected because it lacked full details on the island's organized crime activity. Lugo reportedly demurred at providing the information the first time around, claiming he would lose his life in underworld reprisals. There has been published speculation that the gem killings are mob-related.

—One day last week, one of the chief investigators said authorities were "closing in" on the killers. The next day, his boss said that was "absurd."

Reporters who have been sent here to track down the story say the confusion is typical of authorities' handling of the case.

What brought the reporters here from the U.S. mainland were reports that a body found here could be that of Shafizadeh, issued shortly after another diamond dealer was suffocated and found stuffed in a box in the diamond district in New York.

That incident also focused attention on what police have been doing — or have not been doing — to solve the series of killings.

Last Saturday, the extent of the local police's difficulties, including the supposedly elite group handling the investigation, became fully known.

It was then that Dr. Rafael Criado, chief pathologist of the Institute of Legal Medicine, interrupted his autopsy of a body thought to be Shafizadeh's and shouted: "We've got the wrong body!"

State Health Officials Report Disease-Bearing Ticks Here

By JIM BUSBY
Avalanche-Journal Staff

State health authorities today reported three additional infection-bearing ticks have been collected in Lubbock, and one expert terms the incidence of diseased knows of no other cases in the Lubbock area, but expressed concern that the disease — common to East Texas — has shown up in Lubbock for the first time.

Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever is a potentially fatal infection that spreads rap-which are in no danger of contracting symptoms of the disease — and other animals and may be transported in firewood, Evers said.

Authorities warn that the ticks move indoors during cooler weather and may live in "cracks and crevices" in homes for six months to a year.

A primary danger of infection comes when attached ticks are crushed or pulled from their human hosts, thus leaving mouth parts embedded in the host, Evers said. But in some cases the disease can be transmitted through the eyes and contaminated wounds.

Evers said the chemicals chlordane, malathion and Sevin may be used to exterminate ticks, but stressed that they should be used according to label instructions.

Persons with tick-infested pets should consult their veterinarians for information about reliable products with which to treat the animals.

Evers cautioned that medicines which might be appropriate for treatment of dogs could be fatal to other animals, such as cats.

He said the July Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever case was the first ever reported in Lubbock, but said the malady commonly occurs in East Texas.

Evers said the tick will "back right out" when dosed with a drop of oil which suffocates the insect by sealing external pores.

Once the tick has disengaged itself from its host, it may be picked up in a Kleenex and burned.

A laboratory worker at a Lubbock veterinary clinic said last week that he has noted "a little more than usual" incidence of ticks on dogs, but characterized this year's tick population as "nothing spectacular."

A local vet said she has observed "a lot more ticks this year than last" but said the incidence of ticks on dogs "seems like it's slacking off a little bit."

ticks "a matter of concern" to public health.

The three ticks — commonly known as "brown dog ticks" — bring to five the total found in Lubbock carrying Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever. Reports late last week indicated a Lubbock woman fell ill with the infection in July, but has since recovered.

Dr. Dean Evers, veterinary medical director of the state health department's Region 2 headquarters here, said he idly throughout the victim's body, affecting "just about all the organs," Evers said. But early treatment generally is effective in fighting the disease.

Symptoms of the infection include headaches, chills and "moderate to high fever" which "ordinarily persists for two to three weeks," according to one reference.

The disease usually requires hospitalization.

The ticks may be carried by dogs —

State Election Absentee Balloting Begins Today

Absentee balloting for the Nov. 8 Texas election will begin today and continue through Nov. 4.

Lubbock area voters will help to decide the fate of seven proposed state constitutional amendments in the election.

Citizens in the Panhandle and northern South Plains counties also will be choosing a successor to former State Sen. Max Sherman, who resigned his seat earlier this year to become president of West Texas State University in Canyon.

The first amendment would expand the current constitutional provisions for denying bail to persons accused of felonies. The second would enlarge the Court of Criminal Appeals from five to nine judges and allow it to meet in panels of three judges.

Another amendment would increase the Judicial Qualifications Commission from nine to 11 members, change its name to State Commission on Judicial Conduct and give it more power to investigate the conduct of judges, reprimand them and remove them from office.

The fourth amendment allows the legislature to pass laws providing for tax relief for historic sites, unique natural areas or other significant sources.

The fifth would allow the Veterans' Land Board to issue and sell $200 million more in bonds, and make the unmarried surviving spouse of a veteran who died in the line of duty eligible for the program.

A sixth amendment would allow collection of fees for producers of a particular commodity. These would be used for product promotion, research, education and administration.

The last amendment would allow such devices as automatic teller machines to be located away from bank buildings. It would make clear that such devices do not violate Texas' constitutional ban on branch banking.

Lubbock County citizens can cast absentee ballots in the county clerk's office at the courthouse downtown.

Pioneer Doctor Office New Museum Feature

By GERRY BURTON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The doctor's office, holding all the necessities for practicing medicine behind or above any drugstore in any small pioneer West Texas town, premieres Friday at The Museum of Texas Tech University.

Members of the West Texas Museum Association and their guests will preview the new exhibit at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

"We wanted to catch the spirit of a variety of offices," Patrick Butler, curator of history, said.

In part, exhibit builders are using the office Dr. Marvin Overton once used in the back of a Lubbock drug store; but where Dr. Overton had a rough wooden examining table, the exhibit has an imported one.

The exhibit, incorporating an office and a small operating area behind, is larger than that of Dr. Overton, whose place in South Plains history is recorded in the Peter Hurd mural in the old museum building now known as Holden Hall.

Butler spent much of the summer at the Smithsonian Institution researching the doctor office of the small town.

He found most of them to be similar to those West Texans recall, having a simple roll top desk, examining chair, operating theater, a number of medicine bottles, most times a dental drill.

Office furnishings came in from all over the area, with the help of the Medical Auxiliary and the sponsoring Heritage Projects Committee of the WTMA Women's Council.

A dentist's instrument cabinet once part of the office of Dr. W.R. Scofield of Bownfield will be added to a foot pedal drill and instruments from A.E. Gissell to form the dental segment of the family doctor picture.

Medical instruments came from H.H. Moncus of New Mexico, a folding operating table plus instruments from L.D. Rochelle and a heating pad from Mrs. T.J. Harris.

Every year when the list of America's Most Admired Women come out, I look for Mayva Cochran's name. Mayva is my best friend and if there's anyone who deserves the pride and respect of her homemaking peers, it's Mayva. She has a list of accomplishments that run up to your elbow, not the least being:

- * Measuring her windows for draperies and not having enough left over to slip-cover Connecticut.
- * Knowing, where her gas tank is and being able to pull into the self-service island.
- * Keeping a Boston fern alive for two weeks.
- * Painting her fireplace white without asking her husband.
- * Rearranging her bathroom.
- * Washing and cleaning her vegetables before storing them in the refrigerator.
- * Pouring her own patio without covering over her septic tank. (Couldn't you scream?)
- * Hanging a wall of adhesive paper without being put under sedation for excessive crying.

That last item alone should bring you to your feet applauding. I suppose somewhere out there is another woman who has hung wallpaper with no muss, no fuss, no paste, no pins, and no skill, but I've never met her.

With Mayva's success as my guide, I decided to paper a small wall over the kitchen sink that measured 42 by 23 inches. I cut my first strip and started to climb into the sink. The paper became alive. It drifted toward the curtains and stuck. I ripped it back. It caught on the ladder, stuck to my arm and pulled away all the hair up to my elbow. It stuck to itself and I climbed out of the sink to smooth it out.

I knew at that moment I would have to try a new approach. It would have to be picked up and shoved immediately into the wall with no time for measuring or hesitating.

I picked up the small piece of adhesive paper, slapped it to the wall. IT WAS A GIANT BUBBLE. Carefully, I began to press the bubble out into a permanent crease. When I got the crease out, the wallpaper was at an angle — I lifted it and started over again.

By dinner, I was still in the sink trying to pull the adhesive paper off the water spigot. They say saints need a miracle performed in their name. Mayva has a whole wall for proof of her canonization.

fall — a luxurious sand-colored suede jacket is double-breasted with bowed lapels, flapped patch pockets and yoke seam detailing. It is worn with winter white flannel pants. Tossed over the shoulders is a white heavy knit sweater, accented with white, blue and black cable stitching. Both ensembles are shown with soft silk and wool blend grandfather's top shirts.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Some "kind soul" sent me a recent column of yours in the mail, anonymously, of course. This is not the first time I have received an anonymous letter on this subject. I can remain silent no longer.

I know I have an unpleasant odor. I am aware that I have been offending people for years. It's an awful feeling but I've learned to live with it.

I have been to three physicians. They suggested various pills, soaps, deodorants, anti-perspirants and two baths daily. Nothing helps.

The last doctor made the most sense. He said about one person in 100 has a chemical condition that produces a body odor that nothing can be done about.

I wish my friends and co-workers with the delicate noses had to walk in my body for 24 hours. It would be interesting to see how well they could suffer the slings and arrows of my — Outrageous Fortune

Dear O.F.: I, too, checked with three doctors about the one in 100 theory and none of them had heard about it. This is not to say it isn't correct.

Two of my consultants mentioned an odor phobia. It seems that certain individuals who feel rejected by family or friends imagine they don't smell right. They go from doctor to doctor about the "problem." No doctor can smell the odor they insist is present and offensive. The next step is a psychiatrist.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a beautiful daughter who has a great deal of talent and an outstanding personality. I learned only recently that she is in love with another young woman.

I have tried to talk to her about it but she says she is very happy and doesn't want to discuss it any further. This is tearing me apart inside and I can't sleep at night. Being a self-supporting widow I must work and it is very difficult to keep going with all this strain on me.

Do you know of a good doctor in this city who can help my daughter get straightened out? — Desperate Mother In San Jose

Dear Mother: There is no way you can force a lesbian to get "straightened out" if she is happy with her lifestyle. Since you are the one who is having the sleepless nights, I suggest counseling to help you adjust to the situation. Also, consider inquiring about organizations and groups for parents of gays who feel as you do. Check with Community Referral in the phone book. From all reports, these groups have been immensely helpful to many. And good luck, dear.

Dear Ann: In spite of the vigorous campaigning against cigaret smoking, I read where the inhabitants of the United States are the heaviest cigart smokers in the world. About 600 million cigarets were smoked in our country last year at a cost of $13 billion. I'm writing to you since you have been one of the most anti-cigart people in the country. What do you make of it? — Baffled Benjie

Dear Baff: A lot of people think "the worst" will never happen to them — it's always "the other guy" who gets it. Then, of course, there are the addicts who are hooked and those who say, "Well, I have to die from something." To them I reply, "For your sake, I hope it's something else." Lung cancer is a terrible way to go.

Other Easts would duck. South would win, ruff his last club, cash dummy's last club, cash dummy's last trump and lead a second spade to East's ace.

East could then give his partner a spade ruff. Otherwise South would make six.

When North played in spades he always had to lose a spade and a diamond but a couple of North players were doubled at five spades for very good scores.

Those East-West pairs who sacrificed at six clubs came out near the top. They would lose a spade, two hearts and a diamond for minus 500 and near tops.

A few North-South pairs went to six. One went down one for a bottom, the others were lucky enough to get their opponents to seven clubs down 700.

ASK THE JACOBYS

A California reader wants to know if West's two-spade bid is forcing the partnership sequence: West, one spade. East, two clubs; West, two spades.

It is not forcing in standard American nor in many expert partnerships. On the other hand some players use the convention that a player who responds at the two level promises to bid again.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: We have a five-year-old who has sucked his thumb since he was a tiny baby. He is the only one of ours who did it. We were so hoping he would quit before he went to kindergarten this fall, but no soap. In fact, it seems worse.

Certain people, including family members, mention his thumbsucking every time they see him, and either scold or tease. To make matters worse, he has gotten pinworms a couple of times, which I blame on the habit.

Please don't tell me he didn't get enough love as an infant, because he got more love and attention than some of our older children. I've been alarmed, too, about some of his behavior lately. He picked up a kitten and actually threw it!

Clip 'n' Cook

- MEATBALL SOUP
- 1 lb. ground beef
 - 1/2 cup cracker crumbs
 - 1 egg, beaten
 - 2 tbsps. milk
 - 1 tsp. instant minced onion
 - 1/2 tsp. salt
 - 1/4 tsp. pepper
 - 1/4 cup salad oil
 - 1 can (16 oz.) stewed tomatoes
 - 1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
 - 1 cup water
 - 1 envelope onion soup mix
 - 1 tbsps. sugar
 - 1 can mixed vegetables
- Combine meat, crumbs, egg, milk, onion, salt and pepper, mix well. Shape into 1 1/2-inch balls. Brown in oil. Drain in large saucepan, combine tomatoes, tomato sauce, water, soup mix and sugar. Add vegetables and meatballs. Bring to boil; reduce heat and simmer, covered, 15 minutes.

- ALI BABA AND 40 THIEVES CHICKEN
- 1 1/2 lbs. chicken
 - 2 tbsps. flour (seasoned)
 - 1 stick butter
 - 15 fresh mushroom buttons
 - table wine
 - 40 whole peeled cloves of garlic
- In a bag, lightly flour chicken parts. Remove from the bag and brown in butter in a skillet for about 5 minutes on each side. Line casserole with foil, allowing enough to cover completely. Place chicken, mushrooms and all 40 cloves of garlic in the casserole, add some wine and seal it tightly (the secret!) Cook 2 hours at 300 degrees. When it's done, the cloves will be soft and buttery to be eaten with the mushrooms.

Do you have any suggestions or advice? — Mrs. M

My "thumbsucking" mail picks up about this time of year, so I'll give my general views, which haven't changed over the years.

Thumbsucking is a solace to many youngsters. If it doesn't stop by age 5 or 6, it may hang on a while after that. Why, after all, should the youngster forego an apparently harmless (to him) act that provides so much pleasure?

When it continues beyond age 6 or so, one should look for some source of loneliness or unhappiness that might be prolonging it. Scolding and teasing, even rewards, seldom work. There are legions of frustrated parents who can vouch for that.

School becomes a special problem, but usually peer pressure is enough to make the habit a "part time" activity — at home. It's the first step on the road to complete withdrawal.

Throwing the kitten (thank goodness they land on their feet) is another matter. A scolding is in order, perhaps even mild punishment in the form of denying of some privilege. It also could be a part of any resentment involved in the thumbsucking.

For the time being ignore the thumbsucking, keep him happy, and bide your time. This advice applies to the rest of the family as well.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What can be done about water in the ears? It happens after I shampoo in the shower. My family doctor looked into my ears and said they are "whistle clean." But I worry about it. — Mrs. L.K.

Wax (cerumen) is the usual cause. If your ears are "whistle clean" you might suspect a slight hump in the floor of the canal — enough to retain a little moisture.

Try a pledget of cotton at the ear opening to keep the water out. After showering, lie with the ear down and allow it to drain. Try a less forceful shower stream. It's more nuisance than harm.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible to have a nosebleed in both nostrils at the same time? And what might cause continuous nosebleeds? — R.L.

It is possible but not common to bleed from both nostrils. Ulceration or an injury, such as a blow, are the common causes of nosebleed. I think you mean frequent nosebleeds, not continuous. However, either could indicate a serious situation, leading to anemia.

One thinks of high blood pressure or some blood disorder involving the way blood clots. If you are using a blood-thinning medicine, that could be a factor, and you should have the dosage reevaluated by your doctor. That includes aspirin. In any event, it requires attention beyond a mere nose examination.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A friend and I were discussing the birth control pill in relation to menstruation. I said the pills prevent the cycle, but she said it only makes the cycle more regular. Please clear this up for us. — T.W.

The purpose of the birth control pill is to prevent ovulation. If a woman's periods were irregular before she began using the Pill, they will tend to become more regular. In fact, the hormones in the contraceptive pills are the same used by doctors in attempting to regulate menstruation.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Someone told me that aspirin is a mild barbiturate and is habit-forming. Is this true? — A.M.

Not true.

Are you bothered by ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Thosteson, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, for his booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

A DAILY MESSAGE FROM

The Newspaper Bible

II Peter 3:16B-18; I John 1:1-9

Some of his comments are not easy to understand, and there are people who are deliberately stupid, and always demand some unusual interpretation—they have twisted his letters around to mean something quite different from what he meant, just as they do the other parts of the Scripture—and the result is disaster for them.

17 I am warning you ahead of time, dear brothers, so that you can watch out and not be carried away by the mistakes of these wicked men, lest you yourselves become mixed up too.

18 But grow in spiritual strength and become better acquainted with our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. To Him be all glory and splendor, honor, both now and forevermore. Good-bye.

I JOHN Peter
CHAPTER 1

1 Christ was alive when the world began, yet I myself have seen Him with my own eyes and listened to Him speak. I have touched Him with my own hands. He is God's message of Life.

2 This one who is Life from God has been shown to us and we guarantee that we have seen Him; I am speaking of Christ, who is eternal Life. He was with the Father and then was shown to us.

3 Again I say, we are telling you about what we ourselves have actually seen and heard, so that you may share the fellowship and the joys we have with the Father and with Jesus Christ His Son.

4 And if you do as I say in this letter, then you, too, will be full of joy, and so will we.

5 This is the message God has given us to pass on to you: that God is Light and in Him is no darkness at all.

6 So if we say we are His friends, but go on living in spiritual darkness and sin, we are lying.

7 But if we are living in the light of God's presence, just as Christ does, then we have wonderful fellowship and joy with each other, and the blood of Jesus His Son cleanses us from every sin.

8 If we say that we have no sin, we are only fooling ourselves, and refusing to accept the truth.

9 But if we confess our sins to Him, He can be depended on to forgive us and to cleanse us from every wrong. [And it is perfectly proper for God to do this for us because Christ died to wash away our sins.]

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I read your column daily and have learned many short cuts. Now I have a problem:

My husband has to wear a dress shirt to work every day and after several washings (a lot, I suppose), the collar gets frayed, but only at the points.

The shirts are perfectly good except for this, but he cannot wear a frayed collar to work. It used to be that the neck band wore out first and we could sometimes turn the collar and make the shirt almost as good as new, but it wouldn't do any good to turn the collar in this case.

Maybe you or your readers could help? — I.J.B.

frayed, making it as near the original shape of the collar as possible. Trim seam slightly if needed.

Turn the collar, press and re-topstitch along original lines. If the plastic stay is to be used again, stitch in place (you may need to do this by hand), trimming to fit. Insert the collar back inside the stand and topstitch in place.

As I said, this may sound more complicated than it really is, but for a few minutes time you can extend the life of a shirt, especially if you catch it before the collar becomes really frayed.

And, at today's prices for those "gold nuggets," I think you'll agree it's time well spent. — Heloise

Dear Luv:

I'll tell you what I do for frayed collar points, though it may not be the perfect solution. If any of you other "shirt fixers" has a better one I sure would be interested in hearing about it (and I'll bet L.J.B. would, too).

It goes against the grain with all of us, if I know my readers, to toss out a perfectly good shirt with only the tips of the collar point showing wear, yet the shirt is completely unwearable in that condition when one is required to look his best.

The following procedure may sound a little involved at first, but it isn't difficult — it's more time-consuming than anything else.

There are usually two kinds or styles of collars on most shirts — either one-piece as on a sport shirt, or two-piece as on a dress shirt.

I will tell you what I do for the dress shirt-type collar as the one-piece collar would be handled in the same general way.

For a two-piece or "stand" collar, first remove the stitching where the collar and stand (or neckband) are joined together. (If the collar is one piece, remove stitching at the neck seam.)

Beginning at the edge of the collar remove the stitching only part way from each end as you don't need to remove the collar completely from the stand. Leave about two inches at center back. The stand itself will remain completely joined to the shirt at the neck seam.

Now each end of the collar part will be free from the stand or neckband. Remove the top stitching around the edge of the collar and take out the plastic stay. You may have to remove the stitching that holds the stay in place also, to allow the collar to be turned.

Now turn each end of the collar wrong side out and restitch the point where it is

HINTS FROM HIM

Dear Heloise:

If you have a beautiful but empty aquarium use it as a container for indoor plants.

Replace the fluorescent fixture in the cover with a light especially made for growing plants.

Your plants will flourish! — Harry

Dear Heloise:

When your refrigerator is so full you don't think you can get another thing in, place a cake rack across a bowl or similar item.

Don't do this throughout the refrigerator though, as you want the air to circulate, but it's a handy thing to remember "in a pinch." — Elaine McPhil

Dear Heloise:

My hint is to use a light-weight aluminum snow shovel for a dust pan when cleaning off the patio or carport.

Using ours, it was especially easy to clean our carport after the wind had blown all the leaves and dirt against a curbing. — Mrs. N.N.

THIS COLUMN is written for you...the homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise 235 E. 45th St., New York, N.Y. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

Head Of Agency Has Concept Of Ideal Model

By REBECCA MOREHOUSE
NEW YORK (WNS) — Eileen Ford makes this clarion declaration in her new book "I can truthfully say I'm a happy woman." The best known Ford this side of Detroit, she is the high-powered proponent of the Ford model agency, source of arrowy glamour girls for fashion magazines and television.

"I think I was born happy," she said. "I'm at peace with myself. I love my husband (Jerry Ford), my children, my home, my animals. Jerry is president of the agency, two of our three daughters and our son Billy work with us. God gave me four wonderful children, they're the delight of my life.

"I have a wonderful son-in-law and a grandson. I'm happy I still have my mother. I want to go on working. I see no reason to stop. After 30 years in this business, I don't have financial security. Did you ever put four kids through private school and college? It's unbelievable."

Her book is "Eileen Ford's Beauty Now And Forever, Secrets of Beauty After 35," published by Simon and Schuster. It gives advice on diet (including recipes), exercise, sex, makeup, hair care, plastic surgery, health and mental attitude.

"I'm telling women that it's never too late to take care of yourself, to find happiness," she said. "It's never too late to start to live. If you don't want to be alone, you don't have to be alone."

She has an unchanging concept of the ideal model.

"I've always like a clean-cut, clean-featured look. I'm very consistent about a girl I'd pick. I would never pick Farrah Fawcett-Majors, she's not my style. There is a different Ford look."

"The girl should be 5'7" to 5'9", weigh 110 to 120. She should have healthy hair, fine hair is hard to work with, wide-apart eyes, not deep-set, a regular nose, a long neck, a mouth not too thick or too thin; a narrow rib cage; good shoulders; long legs from knee to heel."

Ask her to name outstanding models and she comes up with Suy Parker, Jean Shrimpton, Jean Patchett, Sunny Harnett, Mary Jane Russell, Dovina and Candice Bergen.

"Candice was not one of the most enthusiastic models but she was one of the most beautiful and very professional. I admire her, she looks exactly what she is. Sunny Harnett still models a little."

"Their business starts to decline at around 35. They usually know when to quit, sometimes you have to suggest another field of endeavor. We have 125 models now, for fashion and beauty photography. We hardly do any fashion shows, but we have a good TV department."

"I urge everybody not to smoke," she said. "I was a heavy smoker but I quit because I didn't want my children to smoke. Models are tremendously disciplined, they have to be in tip-top shape. They go to exercise and dance classes, they're very energetic."

Ford models are paid $60 to $100 an hour or $300 to $1,000 a day. Quite worth staying in shape for.

Eileen Ford is as slender and energetic as any of them. She's at work at 7:45 a.m. Plans family meals. Gives three or four parties a week and plans them. Supervises a city and a country home. "I'm a one-man band." A New York magazine article on model agencies pictured her as the tigress of the lot. But today she is a pussycat.

"It's just what you can expect from a New York magazine, it's not there to write nice things but I cried and cried."

College Aims At Full Accreditation

A-J Correspondent

HOBBS, N.M. — The College of the Southwest in Hobbs has announced plans for a $2.6 million fund-raising campaign, which will be aimed at acquiring full accreditation for the private college by 1980.

Opening in late October, the campaign will be operated under a motto "Forward With Confidence."

Bruce Evans, CSW president, says that "since CSW receives no tax money from federal, state or local sources, the college must rely on its friends for support since tuition pays only about one-quarter of the college's educational costs." Evans adds this will be the most challenging campaign in CSW's 21-year history. Cecil L. Brown, president of United Chemical Corporation of New Mexico is general campaign chairman.

Brown says that $1.4 million of the total funds is slated for construction of student housing, library expansion and the proposed health-physical education-recreation center.

The remaining $1.2 million will be used for general operations, library acquisitions, financial aid, campus improvements and faculty development.

CSW is the only four-year, independent college within 100 miles of Hobbs and the only institution of its type in southeastern New Mexico. It was founded in 1956.

Doobie Brothers To Appear In Concert

PORTALES (Special) — The Doobie Brothers, voted the best rock group of 1976 by the American public, along with special guest, Crackin, will appear in concert at Eastern New Mexico University Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Physical Education Complex.

The Doobie Brothers, a group of seven talented musicians, has a long list of successful albums which include "Takin' It To The Streets," "The Best of The Doobies," which sold two million records, and their latest album "Lovin' On The Fault Line." Included in their albums have been their hit singles "China Grove," "Long Train Running," "Jesus Is Just Alright," and the biggest hit "Black Water," which has sold two million copies in the United States alone.

Tickets for Eastern's concert sponsored by the Associated Student Activities Board are $5 for ENMU students with an activity sticker and $7 for general admission. Tickets are available at the Campus Union Building and Southwest Sales in Portales. The Taco Box and Pot Luck in Clovis and at Hastings in Roswell.

Curry County To Receive $18,000

A-J Correspondent

CLOVIS — Curry County will receive $18,000, part of a $600,000 appropriation by the New Mexico Legislature as part of House Bill 2.

Distribution of the total appropriation was determined by the New Mexico Commission on Aging in Santa Fe based on the population of persons over 60 throughout the state.

Eighteen senior centers in the seven-county area of eastern New Mexico will receive a portion of the state funds. Local task forces determined the distribution of county allocations.

In Curry County, Texas will receive $3,500 to be used for a pilot program which will provide homemaker service. Grady will use $4,500 to start a new senior citizen program. Melrose will receive $6,500 for renovation of their multipurpose center. The Friendship Center in Clovis will receive $2,500 for programs, and Clovis will also receive $1,000 for its senior wheels program.

Other county allocations were Roosevelt, $9,600; De Baca, $2,400; Quay, $9,000; Harding, $4,200; and Union $4,800.

Ruby Goforth, coordinator for the Eastern Plains Area Agency on Aging will distribute the $49,200 to communities throughout the area.

Childress Plans Convention Center

A-J Correspondent

CHILDRESS—A convention center for Childress is in the planning stages, Mayor Glenn Buckley has announced.

The mayor explained that city officials were seeking a federal grant to build the structure, which would seat several thousand persons.

City Mgr. David Galligan said that a possible federal grant might be supplemented by sale of a portion of city-owned land near Childress and Baylor Lakes.

He explained that the city owns more than 2,600 acres in the lake areas and that little income is derived from rental of the land.

At a recent city council meeting, members proposed that voters be asked to approve the sale of a portion of the acreage, but for the city to retain the lakes as well as land adjoining them.

A committee, comprised of the entire city council, was named to study the proposal.

Galligan added that no definite site has been selected for the proposed convention center.

ENMU To Dedicate Golden Library

PORTALES (Special) — The library at Eastern New Mexico University will be dedicated as the Golden Library in recognition of ENMU President-Emeritus Floyd D. Golden and his wife Elsie during homecoming activities this weekend.

The dedication begins at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the library.

Dr. Golden was Eastern's first dean from 1934-1941 and was president from 1941 until his retirement in 1960. He is now president of Floyd D. Golden and Associates, an Amarillo building and construction consulting firm.

He was a coach, principal and superintendent of several Texas high schools and was Portales public school superintendent at the time of his appointment as dean at ENMU.

He has been a member of more than 40 educational committees and is a member of several Amarillo organizations.

The 44th annual homecoming activities begin Friday afternoon with queen coronation and conclude Saturday evening with a concert and student and alumni dances.

Cannon AFB Officer Reassigned

A-J Correspondent

CLOVIS — Col. Thomas J. Hickey, who has commanded the 27th Tactical Fighter Wing at Cannon Air Force Base since Aug. 6, 1976, will become director of personnel for the Tactical Air Command headquarters at Langley AFB, VA., Cannon officials have announced.

He is expected to assume his new duties in mid-November.

Col. Hickey arrived at Cannon in July of 1974 and served as deputy commander for operations and as wing vice commander before assuming command of the F111-D wing.

Hickey is a native of Council Bluffs, Iowa, and received his pilot wings with the Air Force in July, 1958. He flew 220 combat missions, 63 of which were over North Vietnam.

Registration is slated at 9:30 a.m.

The 19th District encompasses Big Spring, Lamesa, Levelland, Plainview, Littlefield, Crosbyton, Brownfield and Lubbock.

Naomi Lowery and Sid Lowery are district president and district commander, respectively.

BENEFITS RUNNING OUT

MESSAGE—My son is attending the University of Texas, going to school on his late father's Social Security Survivor's Benefits. He is due to graduate in January. The problem is that he will turn 22 in October and, according to his award certificate, he will lose his benefits then. I cannot afford to pay for his schooling and, although he works part-time, it isn't enough. Isn't there any way his benefits can be extended to his graduation?—Mrs. H.K., San Antonio.

SENATOR BENTSEN RESPONDS—Good news for your son. The Social Security Administration advised me that he is eligible for benefits through the end of the school term during which he turns 22. He needs to complete form SSA-1389, which is available at any Social Security office, to qualify for benefits through his graduation.

OVERSEAS ASSIGNMENT POLICY

MESSAGE—I am a civilian employee of the Navy, working in the Canal Zone. I have been here four years as a clerical worker and now the Navy is telling me that I will have to transfer back to the United States next year. They have a policy that overseas employees must return home after serving at a base for five years. I feel that this will place my home life in constant disrepair because we barely have enough time to set up housekeeping and then we have to move. What can be done to change this policy?—D.M., The Canal Zone.

SENATOR BENTSEN RESPONDS—Defense Department policy of rotating overseas workers was developed to solve some critical problem areas involving long-term service in other countries. It is intended, in part, to sharpen the skills of the workers by bringing them home to catch up with the latest technical advances in their areas of expertise. In addition, the Department feels a need to give its employees a first-hand exposure to American life and reduce the isolation and alienation that sometimes accompany work overseas.

Do you have a problem with government? MESSAGE TO WASHINGTON cuts through the red tape to get answers to your questions about Social Security, veterans' benefits, immigration matters and other problems you may have run into in your dealings with the federal government in Washington. Write MESSAGE TO WASHINGTON, c/o Senator Lloyd Bentsen, U.S. Senate, Washington, D.C. 20510. Inquiries to MESSAGE TO WASHINGTON are sometimes edited before publication, but the intent and substance of the inquiries are maintained.

The autograph party is open to the public at no charge.

Mrs. Naugatuck Departs CBS TV Series 'Maude'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mrs. Naugatuck has quietly packed up her little white lies and left "Maude."

"I had to leave 'Maude.' It really was getting too much like being at school and not enjoying it," said Hermione Baddeley, who played the Finlay's housekeeper on the CBS show for three years.

"The first two years I really enjoyed. The writers wrote all those marvelous little lies. Like, she was off to meet a sailor. She was a wild character," she said.

"Then new writers came in and sort of went to another premise. I became just an ordinary maid. I think they forgot I was in the series at all."

Miss Baddeley, once the queen of the London musical stage, told producer Norman Lear she would rather go than spend her time doing nothing more than bringing in the tea.

She leaves with mixed emotions: Surprised that they would release her so readily, yet relieved they did. And disappointed that no effort was made to spin Mrs. Naugatuck off into a series as Lear did before with Esther Rolle, who went from Florida in "Maude" to "Good Times."

"I was a teeny bit disappointed," she said. "Fred Silverman had suggested it before he left CBS for ABC and nothing was done about it."

"I would have loved to have done a series. People liked that character. I think in view of all the other people who've had a spinoff I should have had one."

Nevertheless, Miss Baddeley said she left "Maude" with only the warmest regards for Lear and the other people at the show. It was Lear who had asked her to come from London to take the part.

Miss Baddeley, now 68, reigned over the London stage for nearly half a century. George Bernard Shaw saw her when she was only 12 and sent her a note saying, "Change your name from Baddeley to Gooddeley." At 20 she was Noel Coward's first leading lady. Tennessee Williams wrote the part of Flora Goforth in "The Milk Train Doesn't Stop Here Anymore" for her.

Miss Baddeley has remained busy since leaving "Maude."

On "Little House on the Prairie" she played a prairie gypsy on the premiere episode for the season. Executive producer and star Michael Landon liked her so much that he had her written into a second upcoming episode.

'South Pacific' To Play Here

Civic Lubbock, Inc. will present Rogers and Hammerstein's "South Pacific" Friday and Saturday nights in the Civic Center theater.

The popular Broadway musical will be performed by a major cast of local and professional actors under the direction of Ric Brame. A full pit orchestra will be under the direction of Charlotte Greson. Choreography will be handled by Steve Mann.

The evening of total entertainment will be kicked off by a cocktail party in the fountain area of the Civic Center. Hot Polynesian hors d'oeuvres will be served and a cash bar will be provided.

"South Pacific" opened on Broadway on April 7, 1949, and was voted Best Musical of the '48-'49 season by the New York Drama Critics Circle. The show is a musical adaptation of James A. Michener's Pulitzer Prize winning book "Tales of the South Pacific."

The action of the play takes place on two South Pacific islands during a lull in the fighting of the war with Japan. The plot is formed by two romantic themes.

First is the love affair between Ensign Nellie Forbush (played by Janis Geddes), a high-spirited young nurse from Little Rock, and the gallant middle-aged French planter, Emile de Becque (played by professional actor Roberto Silvano).

The other romantic theme is that of the likeable young marine, Lt. Joseph Cable (portrayed by Evin Mirees), and the lovely Tonkinese girl, Liat (portrayed by Shannon Adams).

The varying moods of Nellie's romance with Emile de Becque are characterized by such familiar tunes as "I'm Gonna Wash That Man Right Outa My Hair," "A Wonderful Guy" and "Some Enchanted Evening."

The love affair between Lt. Cable and Liat is highlighted by the beautiful "Younger than Springtime" and the light-hearted "Happy Talk," sung by Liat's mother, the colorful Bloody Mary (played by Doreen Hutton), who also sings the popular hit "Bali Hai."

Other musical favorites include "There Is Nothin' Like a Dame," sung by the men's chorus and the wheeler-dealer seabebe Luther Billis (played by Tom Frances), "This Nearly Was Mine" and the hilarious "Honey Bun."

Supporting roles include: Chi-Chi Wong King and Jill Adams as de Becque's children, Ngana and Jeanine; Joy Dean Evans and Phil Caffey as Luther Billis' henchmen, Stewpot and Professor; Jack Wilson as Captain Brackett; Jim Hill as Commander Harbison; Lou Keay as Bloody Mary's assistant; and Janet Smith as Henriette.

Nurses are portrayed by Barbara Fore, Shirin Salzer, Martha Krueger, Gloria Wilson, Celeste Ward, Lynn Rowe, Leslie Thurman, Melissa Houser, Brenda Duncan, Ruth Boyd, Diane Caron and Susie Stephens.

Completing the cast are Steve Mann, Robert Dahl, John Packard, Jack Owens, Bert Boneta, Ricky Colorado and Phillip Morris as marines, sailors and seabees.

For reservations and ticket information, call the Civic Center box office.

REPTILES DWINDLING

During the Permian Age, which began about 270 million years ago, reptiles were the dominant form of life. Today, only three groups of amphibians exist — frogs, salamanders and daceilians; five groups of reptiles are extant, including turtles, lizards, snakes, crocodiles and the tuatara.

Presley's Significance Most Apparent In Death

By MARIAN FOX
MEMPHIS (AP) — He lived behind the walls of his Graceland estate in luxurious seclusion. Only a newspaper blurb or the cars lined along the mansion's curved drive told when he was home.

He rarely went out in daylight, aware he would stop traffic as he did several years ago when he and girlfriend Linda Thompson roared onto Elvis Presley boulevard on three-wheel motorcycles. If he wanted to see a movie, he rented a theater; if he wanted to ride a roller coaster, he rented the amusement park — but always at night.

Since Elvis Presley collapsed and died in his bathroom Aug. 16, thousands have come to snap pictures at Graceland's gates or walk the winding mile to the white-marble mausoleum at Forest Hill Cemetery, where he briefly was entombed.

Despite his fame, he caused the city little commotion while he lived. But Memphis is having a tougher time with his death. "When Elvis Presley died, I don't think anyone realized how much he meant to the world," D. Beecher Smith II, attorney for the estate, told city officials in September.

Protecting his home and grave is not easy. The family placed around-the-clock guards at the mausoleum at $200 a day after police arrested three men before dawn Aug. 29 for trespassing near the crypt.

One later was identified as a police informant who tipped authorities to a purported plot to steal and ransom Presley's body. Police later called it a hoax and a judge dismissed the charges.

Souvenir-hungry fans carry away cemetery grass, branches of the estate's trees, and chunks of the mansion's stone wall.

After the arrest of three more men for vandalism, Elvis's father, Vernon, pleaded with visitors not to damage Graceland. The trio was apprehended Sept. 12 near the Arkansas line with, police said, pieces of the metal musical notes which adorned the mansion gates.

"I'm begging the public not to ruin it," Presley said of the 13 3/4-acre estate. We'd like to keep Graceland intact and as pretty as possible.

Old Steamship Needs Berth, Owner Says

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The 300-foot-long Great White Steamship that started out as an elaborate valentine for his wife has become a boatload of trouble for land developer Hymie Singer.

Singer bought the S.S. Catalina for $70,000 at an auction earlier this year after the previous owner couldn't pay the docking fees.

But, Singer said in a recent telephone interview, he was forced by port officials to move his ship to a dock. Then his rent was raised, he almost lost the ship in a city auction, and now he can't find a new place for the boat.

Singer blames most of his troubles on the harbor authorities and bad publicity. His wife, Ruth, is convinced that news stories about their purchase of the steamer prompted the robbery at their home last April.

Harbor officials have also reported that Singer owes $13,000 in delinquent dock rental fees at the rate of $158 a day. He said he is considering suing the city for raising his rent.

"I wrote them a check for $15,000 or $16,000 and I marked it 'in protest' because I intend to dispute that," Singer said. "As far as I'm concerned I'm paid up to Dec. 10 for $132 a day. They raised the rent to $158 a day and I'm disputing that, too."

Singer charged that the city is "trying to make as much money from one boat in a dumpv dock as they did from the dock-works that went out of business there."

But meanwhile, he has nowhere to put the boat. "There are lots of places that want it — Oxnard, Santa Barbara — and they've been a lot more cooperative than the Los Angeles officials. But they just don't have a dock for a 300-foot ship," he said.

The Singers recently went on a land-buying trip to the small coastal town of Guadalupe, 90 miles north of Santa Barbara. At a news conference that Singer said was called by local businessmen, Singer said he wanted to build a home for his ship there. He talked of turning it into a museum or restaurant and making it part of a tourist spot. "That's where the ship is eventually going to be," he said recently. "But we're talking about years from now."

In the meantime, Singer's problem of what to do with his ship remains, and his dispute with the city over his rental rates could lead to another attempt to auction it if he doesn't pay the rates he considers exorbitant.

"The city will go broke before I do," he boasted. "I'm not going to sell it and I'm going to keep it in Southern California. That's where it belongs."

The family's concern for security and for the privacy of others with loved ones at Forest Hill prompted transfer of the bodies of Elvis and his mother, Gladys, to the Meditation Garden near the southern boundary of the wooded estate.

"We just want to bring Elvis home," Smith said. One Sunday night, escorted by 13 policemen, the bodies were transferred quietly to Graceland. Vernon said visitors would be allowed to see the graves but they would not permit them inside the mansion. Guards and closed-circuit television are to monitor the plots constantly.

If Elvis is at rest, a number of questions about him aren't. A carefully nurtured mystique surrounded him during much of his 22-year career. When he died, the foundation of his ivory tower was beginning to chip.

Three former bodyguards — Red and Sonny West and Dave Hebler — began promoting their book, "Elvis: What Happened?" It said Elvis was fascinated with firearms, subject to abrupt mood swings, and took drugs heavily.

Drug use reports raised a furor and the biggest question about his death. The official cause was heart disease. Medical examiner Dr. Jerry Francisco said Presley's heart was enlarged 1 1/2 to two times, there was vascular disease, and, most important, hardening of coronary arteries.

Dr. George Nichopoulos, Presley's personal physician and friend for 11 years, said, "He had a medication problem at times. He abused it accidentally but not on purpose."

Nichopoulos gave news interviews Aug. 24 and Aug. 31, promising a news conference with Francisco in September to release autopsy results. But he postponed it and stopped taking reporters' calls.

Francisco said there will be a conference, but that nothing new might be disclosed. Vernon Presley is to decide what results, if any, will be public.

Unexplained aspects of the 42-year-old life and death merely whet curiosity. Questions still arise: "Were Vernon and Elvis close?" "Why did Priscilla divorce Elvis?" "Did he party, hunt, fish, take trips to other countries?"

Friends say father and son were close. Vernon, 62, lived at Graceland until his 1960 marriage to Dee Stanley, then moved next door. Once a Mississippi sharecropper, he is executor of Elvis's estate.

Reports of Elvis's interests are mostly speculation. He kept horses and his enthusiasm for karate was publicized, as was his fondness for cars and motorcycles. That's about it.

His redoubtable manager, Col. Tom Parker, built the Presley legend like a Gypsy Rose Lee strip-tease: showing enough to let them know he had it, but not showing it all lest they drink up and go home.

Presley products are still making money. Selling briskly in Memphis are Elvis T-shirts, bumper stickers, buttons, copies of his will (at least 100 at $14 each), posters, records, license plates, books, and newspapers published the day he died.

Memphis is adjusting to tourists, traffic and commercialism, but nobody quite knows how to honor the legend's memory.

The ideas skip from splendid to simple: build two 16-story pyramids on the Mississippi River bluffs as the Elvis Presley Memorial Center; make his old recording studio, now an auto parts shop, a museum; erect a 25-foot $150,000 bronze statue or a $60,000 lifesize bronze. The only thing everyone agrees upon is that the man deserves a monument.

"The city of Memphis is indebted to Elvis Presley," one memorialist said. "He gave us a legend, a dream, a success story that millions cling to. We owe him something."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Whether intentionally or not, most persons are apt to misrepresent the actual facts and figures or the relationship existing between two persons and it is advisable that you and others act with scrupulous conscientiousness.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Steer clear of an argument between an official and an associate or you could get into trouble. Conditions may be tense for a while but lessen later. Be happy with kin and friends.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Do not get involved in an altercation between a coworker and an outsider or you could get into serious trouble. Get busy at work you like to do and accomplish a great deal.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't overspend where pleasure is concerned. Evening is best for working on a special hobby. A loved one thinks your judgment is poor so study important matter more carefully.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Use reason at home instead of losing your temper and you make conditions more ideal. Use ingenuity. Do some entertaining.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A personal worry could cause you to lose out on benefits in the outside world, if you permit. Be more sure of yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Try to get out of debt during day and don't commit yourself to further expenditures that are unwise. Give more thought to repair to property before you get into them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Both business and home conditions are apt to be annoying, but improve them via right methods. A new plan you have needs further study before putting in operation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Forget a personal worry and look at everything in the right perspective and you solve the problem wisely. Don't let a conniving person involve you in something you would regret later.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Occupy yourself with practical matters and don't permit an idle gossip to waste your valuable time. Once work is done, see friends.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Know what your partners expect of you and cooperate where feasible. Pay more attention to loved one.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Handle personal problems early before you go out for entertainment. Clear up that matter with one you are fond of.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Have a talk with an old friend but do not stir up any situation that could cause trouble, arguments. Be cooperative instead and reach fine accord.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will want to have a secure footing but will be so emotional that it will be necessary to learn to control temper early in life. Slant education along practical lines. Your child will do well in business, property matters. Give piano lessons that can discipline the mind.

"The stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you.

Heroin Hot Line Helps Addicts

HONG KONG (UPI) — A young heroin addict reaches for the phone and finally asks the question that fear had always stopped him from voicing: "How can I get help?"

The phone rings again. The poverty-stricken wife of an addict pleads for help.

A third call. A sobbing mother describes the addictive symptoms of her daughter.

At the receiving end of the calls are workers at Hong Kong's Drug Abuse Telephone Inquiry Center, a new "heroin hot line" which the originator says is the only service in the world that deals solely with the heroin problem.

Dr. Karl Stumpf of the Action Committee Against Narcotics organized the telephone service after discovering that "all the posters, leaflets, speeches, seminars and campaigns had not reduced the number of addicts here within the last five years."

"The idea of a hot line wasn't new since they are already in widespread use for alcoholics, the depressed and those contemplating suicide. But this is the first anywhere to focus on the heroin problem alone," he said.

Heroin addiction is the British colony's largest drug problem, Stumpf said. "Five years ago I would say there were 80,000 to 100,000 addicts in Hong Kong — a figure which is still true today."

It is estimated that four or five times that number of people who are relatives or friends of addicts are affected in some way.

Despite crackdowns by customs, the narcotics bureau and police, heroin is smuggled in from the "Golden Triangle" — the border areas of Laos, Thailand and Burma.

As a government spokesman put it, Hong Kong "is a paradise for users." Because the amount of heroin varies depending on the user, the price of supporting the habit ranges from $6 to $10 a day.

In a city such as New York, where the drug supply is less abundant, that figure can increase into the hundreds of dollars.

"At least we have contained the problem," Stumpf said. "In countries like Germany and the United States, the number of addicts has doubled or even tripled in the five-year period."

"The whole idea of a heroin hotline is to serve the addicts and those whose lives are affected by drug abuse," Stumpf said. "It is surprising to note the still existing lack of information among parents, teachers, social workers, doctors, the clergy and the public about narcotics, drug law enforcement, treatment facilities and drug abuse prevention."

The Action Committee accumulated all data available from government departments and voluntary agencies to provide information on questions about treatment facilities, laws, rehabilitation services, preventive methods, where to go, whom to ask, what to do and what not to do.

The easy to remember number is frequently flashed on television, announced on radio and printed on posters as part of the committee's drug abuse prevention and education program. In addition to Stumpf, two social workers and a clinical psychologist man the phones.

Stumpf and Fred Ting, acting commissioner for narcotics, said the assured confidentiality of the calls will be the major factor in motivating addicts to phone for help.

Ting said the number of addicts attending the detoxification centers for methadone treatment reached 6,031 before the telephone service started in September and he expected a considerable increase.

Stumpf, who has been helping addicts for 25 years, has no illusions that his latest undertaking will wipe out addiction here. "We can only hope to reach as many people as possible."

"Tens of thousands, young and old, endanger their health, their future, their jobs, their family life by being addicted to heroin," he said.

"They lead totally unproductive lives and at the same time drain away hundreds of millions of dollars from our economy, quite apart from the high cost of treatment and rehabilitation. They foster crime, corruption, moral and physical decay."

"But how society tackles this problem is a strong indication of how much we care," Stumpf said.

Marching Festival Set At Stadium

Twenty-three area junior and senior high school bands will take part in the "Marching Festival" Saturday in Jones Stadium, sponsored by Texas Tech's school.

Jim Toland, with Tech's Music Department, said the event would serve as a warm up for the upcoming University Interscholastic League competition Nov. 1-2 at Jones Stadium. UIL rules would be followed in the festival, he said.

The event will begin at 4 p.m. with the Littlefield Junior High School band and will end about 9 p.m. with the Big Spring High School band.

Toland said judging would be based on band maneuvers, one to four.

There will be four high school band directors judging performances — Verda Herrington of Austin Anderson, Tim Jones of Hamlin, Norvill Howell of Clovis, N.M., and J.W. King Jr. of Canyon.

Airline Promises Snowy Ski Slopes

DENVER (AP) — United Airlines is guaranteeing that there will be enough snow to ski on in the west this winter.

United Airlines president Bob McBride told a Denver news conference that the airline will fly skiers home at no cost under the plan if they find fewer than 50 per cent of the ski lifts in the area operating due to poor ski conditions.

Toland said the event is not a competition for top honors, but advice will be offered and criticism given.

Sponsoring the festival will be the Tech band, Kappa Kappa Psi Fraternity and Tau Beta Sigma sorority. Persons seeking information at the festival may go to the sorority and fraternity members who will be dressed in blue jerseys.

Admission to the public will be 25 cents, and high school band members can get in free if they wear their band uniforms.

Singer Bing Crosby Buried With Minimum Of Ceremony

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bing Crosby was buried in a misty hillside cemetery Tuesday after a simple church service preceded by the strains of such Crosby hits as "The Bells of St. Mary's" and "Too-Ra-Loo-Ra-Loo-Ral, That's an Irish Lullaby."

The Mass of the Resurrection was held in predawn darkness to avoid a crush of fans seeking to pay last tribute to one of the world's most famous entertainers, who died of a heart attack Friday in Spain at age 73.

About 35 relatives and associates, including Crosby's close friend Bob Hope, attended the 6 a.m. service in a small chapel at St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church in Westwood.

There were no fans outside on the foggy streets. When he lived at Holmby Hills, Crosby worshipped at the Spanish mission-style church. The quiet service there was in response to his wish for a simple funeral and burial.

Crosby's body, resting in an oak casket topped by a blanket of Sonia roses, was buried near a stone grotto in Holy Cross Cemetery beside his parents and first wife, Dixie Lee, who died of cancer in 1952.

The roses were the only adornment for the brief graveside ceremony, but carloads of flowers arrived later from admirers around the world.

The cemetery, in suburban Culver City, is not far from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios where Crosby made one of his earliest movies, "Going Hollywood," in 1934.

At sunset Monday, a torch was lit at the Memorial Coliseum in downtown Los Angeles. It had been lit only twice before — after the deaths of President John F. Kennedy and his brother, Robert.

The service early Tuesday for Crosby, a devout Roman Catholic, was conducted by the Rev. Ellwood Kieser.

Crosby's widow, Kathryn, led a responsive reading. "I think he died a contented man," Crosby's son, Phillip, said after the service. "He accomplished everything he set out to do, but he had a lot more to give. We lost him early."

Mrs. Crosby, her face steeled, entered the chapel 20 minutes before the service with her children: Harry, 19, Nathaniel, 15, and Mary Frances, 17. Also present were Crosby's sons by his first marriage, Gary, Dennis, Phillip and Lindsay; his brother, Bob Crosby, and his sister, Mary Rose Pool. His six sons were pallbearers.

Other mourners included such show business companions as Hope and his wife, Dolores; Rosemary Clooney, who sang with Crosby in his final concerts, and comedian Phil Harris. Some of Crosby's business associates, fishing companions and personal friends also attended.

TV Coverage Expected In Torres Trial

HOUSTON (UPI) — A judge Tuesday said he will permit television camera coverage of the trial of Joe Torres' parents on misdemeanor charges of resisting arrest.

The elder Joe Torres, 47, and his wife, Margaret, 42, were arrested outside a gameroom for allegedly interfering as police arrested a young Mexican-American man.

The incident occurred a few days after a Huntsville, Tex., jury rejected murder convictions for two fired officers accused of killing their son, Joe, 23. The Huntsville jury instead convicted officers Terry Denson and Stephen Orlando of negligent homicide — a misdemeanor — in Torres' beating and drowning May 6 after a bar-room drunk arrest.

County Criminal Court-at-Law Judge Charles Coussons said he thought permitting television broadcast of the parents' trial would be informative to the public.

"A court kind of works in a shell sometimes," Coussons said. "If it can be worked out, I think the public will enjoy it."

Defense lawyer Percy Foreman, who will present the Torres defense and claims that police attacked them rather than vice versa, welcomed broadcasting of the trial.

"As lazy as everybody is today, the only way the public is going to go to court is to bring it to them," Foreman said. "Every trial should be televised."

Lawyers for Denson and Orlando Monday requested a new trial on grounds evidence in the case did not support the reduced convictions and subsequent probationary sentences they received.

Mechanics Seminar Scheduled Tonight

An instructional seminar on fuel injection systems set tonight is open to all Lubbock and area mechanics, according to a spokesman for the seminar's sponsors.

Scheduled from 7:30 p.m. until 10:30 at National Distributing Co., 1012 17th St., the discussion will center on fuel injection systems and their applications on both domestic and foreign-manufactured motor vehicles, including farm tractors. Other elements of tuneup procedures also will be discussed.

The seminar will be conducted by John Quinlan of Houston, regional technical representative of the Robert Bosch Corp., who said that owners of fuel injection-equipped vehicles or persons otherwise involved in their servicing are welcome to attend. A question-and-answer period will be part of the session.

Sponsors of the seminar are the Lubbock chapter of the Independent Garagemen's Association and National Distributing Co. Further information is available by telephoning 744-1215.

Jaworski Predicting Probe Revelations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Keeping his witness list a secret, special counsel Leon Jaworski said Tuesday the House Ethics Committee's hearings on covert Korean lobbying will produce "revealing" testimony on "what the project ... really was."

But Jaworski said the hearings, scheduled to run from Wednesday through Friday, will not include any effort to name specific members of Congress who may be implicated, "because we're not at that point yet."

Others close to the months-long investigation said no further hearings are planned before January.

Although Jaworski refused to divulge his witness list, other sources said the first two will likely be Kim Sang Keun, the Korean Central Intelligence Agency's No. 2 Washington agent until he sought U.S. political asylum last fall, and Nan Elder, a Capitol Hill secretary who reportedly told investigators that Korean lobbyists tried unsuccessfully to give her boss, Rep. Larry Winn, R-Kan., an envelope stuffed with $100 bills in 1972 or 1973.

Other witnesses expected during the week include a former Korean CIA chief, a former Korean Washington embassy official and a longtime associate of Tong-sun Park, the millionaire rice dealer and former Washington socialite indicted by a federal grand jury as a ringleader of the alleged Capitol Hill bribery effort. Park has refused to leave Seoul.

The aim of this initial round of hearings appeared to be to lay out a blueprint of the alleged Korean government plan to influence U.S. policy in the 1970s by providing members of Congress with cash payoffs, fancy gifts, free travel and entertainment or various other favors.

"I think there's going to be evidence produced ... that is going to be very revealing and meaningful," Jaworski, the former Watergate special prosecutor, said in a phone interview before leaving his Houston law office to fly to Washington.

"It will be of considerable interest to the American people."

Right now, he said, "we have information that enables us to go forward, to show what the project or plan really was ... This (first phase of hearings) is going to indicate the tremendous pressure that was put on by the (Korean) government."

As for identifying any member of Congress who may be implicated in a bribery scandal, he said House rules prohibit the committee from taking testimony in open session if the testimony might defame anybody.

But he said that, after "reliable" evidence has been brought out and any member under suspicion is given a chance to defend himself privately, "then we can go ahead."

Yankees Rule Baseball World

Jackson Leads Final Victory 8-4

NEW YORK (AP) — Reggie Jackson smashed three home runs, tying a World Series record set by Babe Ruth 51 years ago, and powered the New York Yankees to baseball's World Championship Tuesday night with an 8-4 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Jackson, who played a major role in the season-long soap opera of the Yankees, brought the story to a fairy tale conclusion with a 2-run homer in the fourth, a 2-run homer in the fifth and a solo shot into the center field bleachers in the eighth.

Each homer came on the first pitch. It was the first time in World Series history anyone had hit three consecutive home runs.

Chris Chambliss also ripped a 2-run homer and Mike Torrez rode the long-ball attack to an easy, 9-hit victory as the Yankees nailed down their 21st world title and their first in 15 years.

The homers were the third, fourth and fifth of the World Series for Jackson — the Yankees' leading hitter with a .450 average — as the Yankees won the Series four games to two.

Jackson's 5 home runs were the most ever by one player in a World Series.

The first homer erased a 3-2 Dodgers lead and the second put the Yanks on top 7-3. The first two were virtually identical, low line drives into the lower right field stands, but the third was a towering drive that bounced into an unoccupied area of the bleachers and had the capacity crowd of 56,407 roaring its approval.

Jackson came out of the dugout and doffed his cap to set off yet another round of cheering by the nearly-hysterical crowd.

They were the kind of sudden, dramatic blows Yankees owner George Steinbrenner had in mind last November when he signed Jackson for $2.9 million, making him the most expensive commodity in baseball's first free agent auction.

Jackson had the kind of electricity Steinbrenner thought fitting for New York — a star quality the owner wanted for his club after it had been swept out of the World Series in four consecutive games by Cincinnati last October.

But Jackson hardly fit comfortably into the pinstripe picture of the Yankees. He feuded with Manager Billy Martin, catcher Thurman Munson, and others.

The controversy never seemed to quit. With Jackson battling a dreadful slump during the playoffs, Martin benched him during the fifth and final game of the American League series. But he came in as a pinch hitter and drove in a vital run

Dunbar, EHS Shifted To Panhandle League

Chances are the University Interscholastic League officials would not win a popularity contest in Lubbock.

Not right now, anyway. In a move Monday, which left a couple of local high school football coaches "shocked", the UIL realigned Dunbar and Estacado, the city's two Class AAA schools, into a different district. The changes came as the UIL made its biennial realignment of all classifications. Several West Texas districts were affected by the changes.

The moves will be effective next September, so for Dunbar and Estacado, it's no more District 3-AAA, for at least two years.

The move came as a result of Perryton being dropped from the AAA ranks into Class AA, based on its drop in enrollment. The loss of the Rangers left 1-AAA with only four teams, so Dunbar and Estacado were moved in.

"It makes me sick, but there's nothing we can do," Estacado coach Louis Kelley said, voicing definite disapproval to the move that now sends the Matadors and Panthers against the likes of Borger, Canyon, Dumas and Levelland.

"We had some good rivalries down here," Kelley pointed out. "And we certainly hate to give them up."

Kelley said that since there is nothing he can do, "we'll just accept it the best we can and pack our bags and head north for awhile."

Dunbar coach Van Jefferson was not as vocal as his counterpart.

Jefferson said he would "accept the move as best we can."

"I think the competition we have now is a little better, and we hate to give that up," Jefferson said. "Now that we know what's happening we are just ready to start competing against those people."

Both coaches said they disliked not being able to play present loop foes Lamesa, Snyder, Brownfield, Sweetwater and San Angelo Lake View.

Since 1967, Dunbar has been in District 3-AAA. Estacado joined the loop the following year.

Lubbock athletic director Pete Ragus said, "We were anticipating some changes, but not anticipating this particular change. But, with Perryton dropping to AA, we were the logical ones to move."

Ragus said the move will not seriously affect Estacado's or Dunbar's nondistrict slate. Traditionally the two play a schedule which includes contest with the local AAAA schools, Monterey, Lubbock High and Coronado.

A meeting between the Lubbock schools and the other members of 1-AAA has been set for Thursday morning in Canyon.

The realignments were felt throughout West Texas.

Districts 5-A and 2-B underwent the biggest changes. Anton, Ropesville and Forsan moved up to Class A, giving 5-A eight teams starting in 1978.

In 2-B, Anton and Ropesville departed, as did Meadow, which moved to District 3. Claude, which dropped from 2-A, was added to 2-B.

District 3-B remains with 12 teams thanks to Forsan leaving and Meadow moving in.

In six-man, District 5 was the big gainer as Trent moved to that loop from District 3 and both Lueders-Avoca and Weinert were shifted from 4 to 5. Higgins, which competed this year in 11-man ball, will join District 4 (Six-Man) next year.

The new cut offpoints are: Class B (129 and below); Class A (130-254); Class AA (255-579); Class AAA (580-1259) and Class AAAA (1260 and up). When the classes were realigned in 1976, the figures were: Six-Man, 75 and below; Class B, up to 124; Class A, 125-239; Class AA, 240-549; Class AAA, 550-1219 and Class AAAA, 1220 and up.

In 1978 all schools may play their first game on Sept. 7 and the last playing date prior to the playoffs is Nov. 18.

Seminole, a member of Class AAA for almost 20 years, is being dropped a level (to 5-AA), where it will compete with Denver City, Roosevelt, Tahoka, Cooper, Frenship, Post and Slaton.

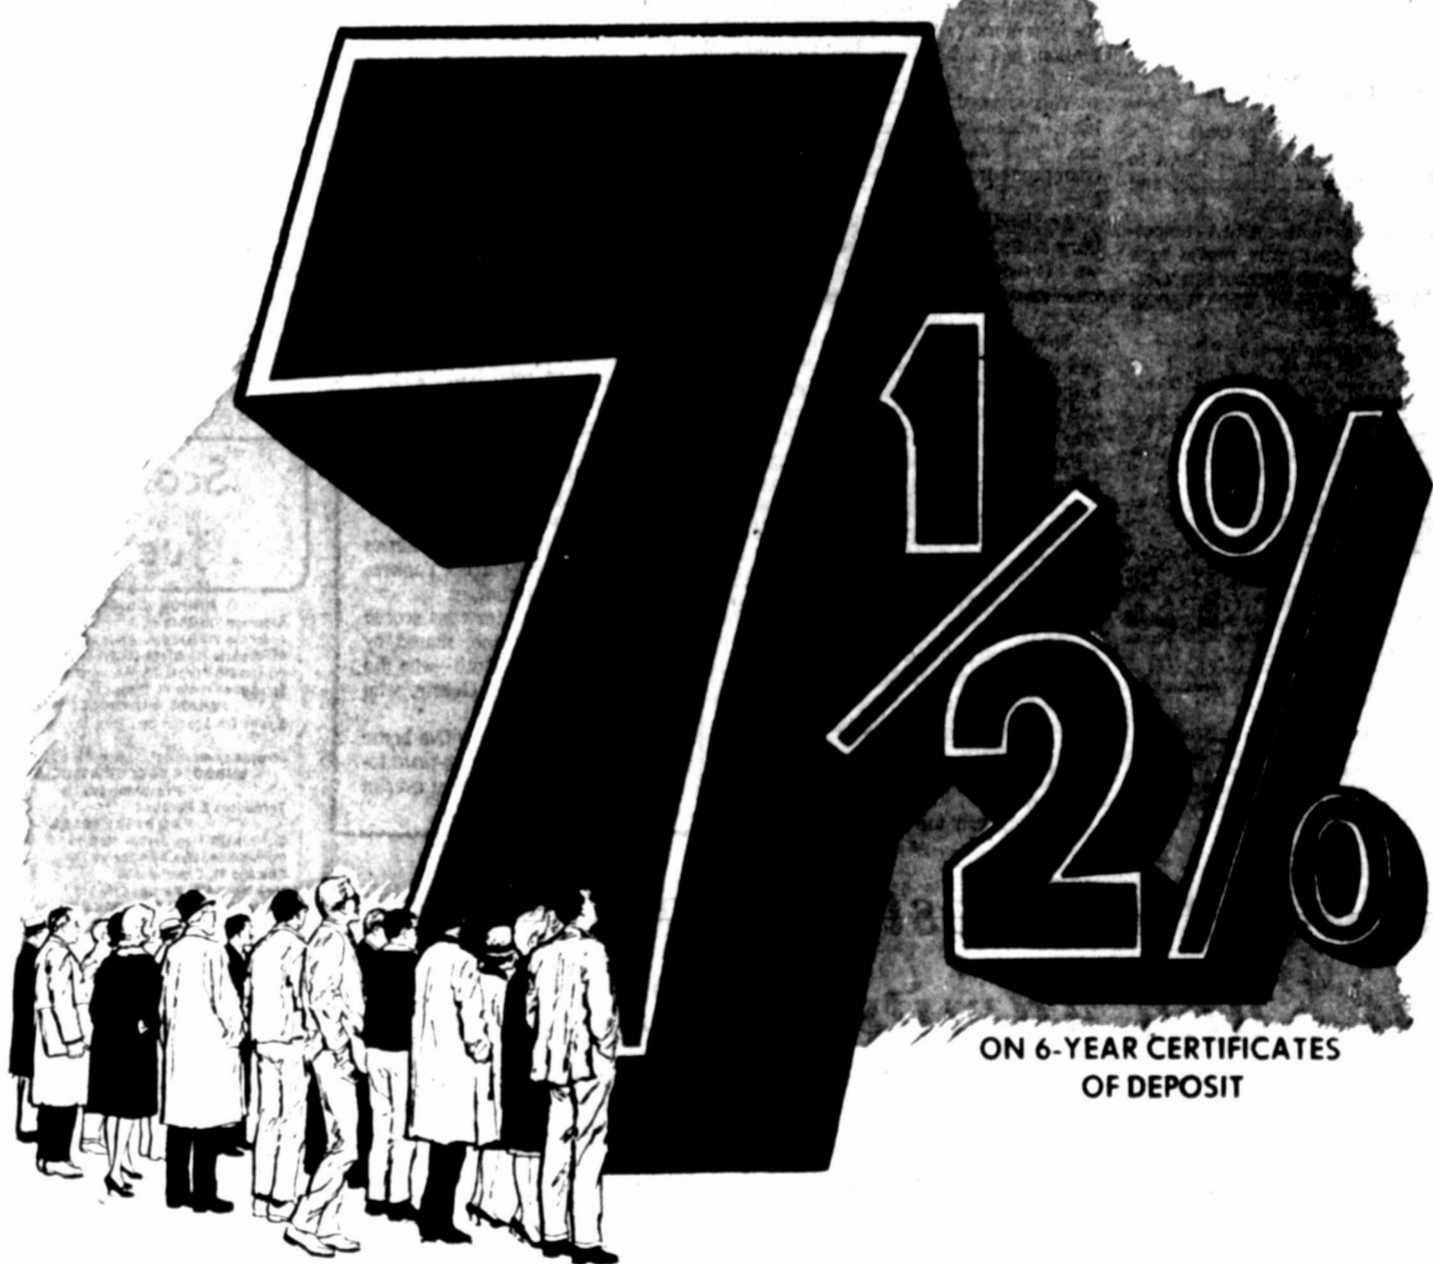

On the Class AAA level, Brownwood

Martin Gets Vote Of Support

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees gave Billy Martin a public pat on the back and a fat bonus Tuesday, temporarily removing the blade that had been hanging over the head of the beleaguered manager.

President Gabe Paul hauled Martin into a hastily called press conference hours before the sixth World Series game against the Los Angeles Dodgers to make the announcement.

"We hope this will put to rest the unfounded rumors that a change was about to be made," Paul said, reading from a prepared statement. "Billy's contract runs through the 1979 season."

Martin, attired in jeans and leather jacket and looking sleepy-eyed, also took the rostrum to read a reply.

"I am very pleased and happy after talking with Gabe Paul about this year, next year and '79," he said. He has two years to go on a three-year contract at $100,000 a year.

Since there was no reference to a new and extended contract, which Martin indicated he wanted, the assembled newsmen seemed at a loss to understand the significance of the impromptu press conference.

"What are you trying to tell us—that Billy is not going to be fired?" someone asked.

"Exactly," replied Paul.

There have been recurring rumors that Martin was going to get the axe at the end of this season, regardless of the Yankees' success, because of his obstinacy and frequent clashes not only with owner George Steinbrenner but also with key players, particularly the $2.9 million superstar, Reggie Jackson, signed personally by Steinbrenner before the start of the season.

The fiery manager, who previously had lost jobs at Minnesota, Detroit and Texas, almost came to blows with Jackson after yanking the right fielder in a nationally televised game in mid-June and Steinbrenner reportedly flew to Detroit to fire him on June 19.

Jackson joined catcher Thurman Munson, backup catcher Fran Healy and outfielder Lou Piniella in interceding with the owner on Martin's behalf. Martin's job was saved.

Realignment

Wichita Falls Hirschi, a AAAA competitor for the past four years, moves back into 4-AAA along with Burkburnett, Graham, Iowa Park, Mineral Wells, Vernon and Weatherford.

Districts affected by realignment:

CLASS AAA
1—Borger, Canyon, Dumas, Levelland, Dunbar (from 3-AAA); Estacado (from 3-AAA).

CLASS AA
1—Andrews, Fort Stockton, Monahans, Ooasis, Euler, Peccos
2—Brownfield, Lamesa, San Angelo Lake View, Snyder, Sweetwater.

CLASS A
1—Denver City, Cooper, Roosevelt, Post, Seminole (from 2-AAA); Slalom, Tahoka, Friendship
2—Anton (from 2-B), Forsan (from 3-B), O Donnell, Plains, Roper (from 2-B), Seagraves, Shallowater.

CLASS B
1—Amherst, Claude (from 2-A), Happy, Lubbock, Motley County, Nazareth, Silverton, Smiley, Sutton, Sutherland, Whittace
2—Sandi, Borden County, Garden City, Sterling City, Jayton, Klondike, Lorene, Meadow, New Home, Rippy, Dawson, Wilson.

SIX-AAA
1—Collin Center, Harlingen, Ira, Grady, Loda, Three Way, McCulley, Highland, Hobbs, Southland, Wellman, Whittaker, (lost Trent)
2—Patton Springs, Benjamin, Guthrie, Harrod, Higgins (from Class B), Vernon, Northside (also lost Leaders-Avalanche).

Baseball's Finest Season Seen But Kuhn Admits To Problems

NEW YORK (AP) — Bowie Kuhn, major league baseball's 6-foot-5 commissioner, isn't burying his head in the sand. Saying that 1977 was the national pastime's "finest season ever," Kuhn also acknowledged that "we do have some nagging problems."

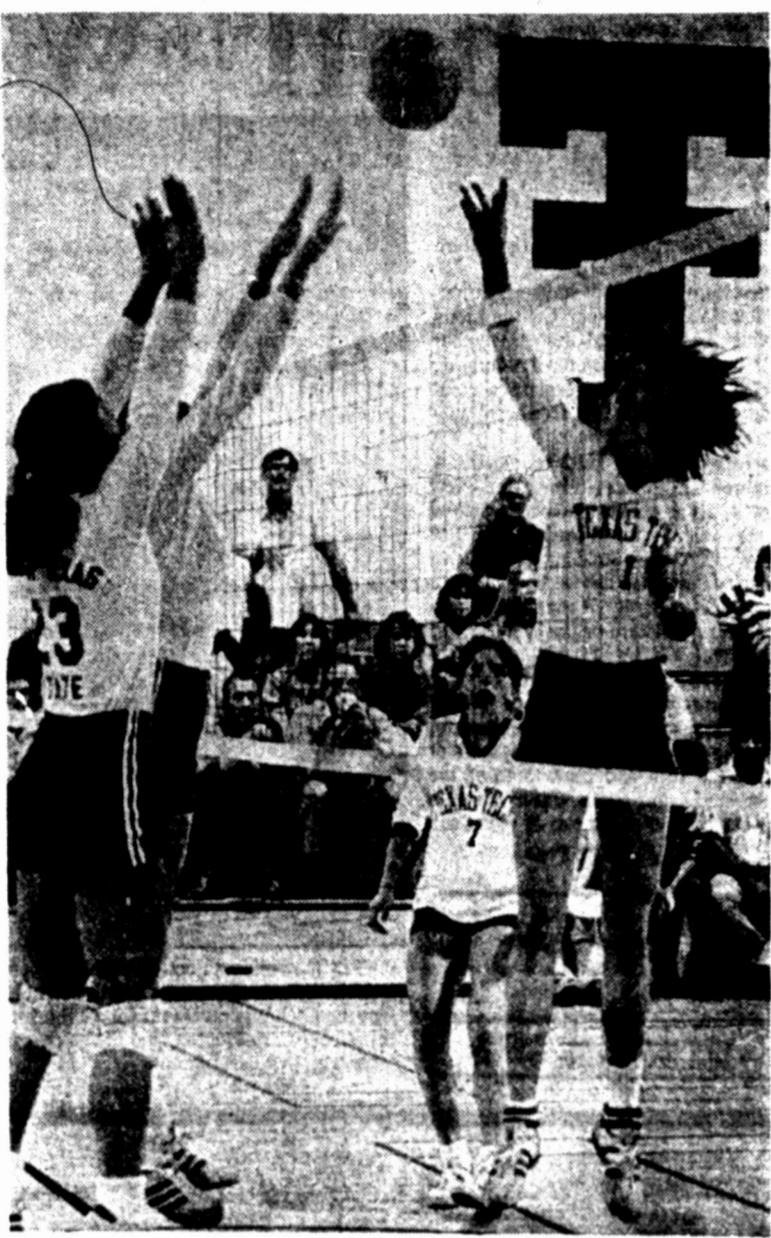

"Overall, the state of the game is very good," Kuhn said in an interview with The Associated Press. "Baseball's popularity is obviously growing. The attendance (up 21 per cent) has been great. We are generating new sources of revenue. The division races were quite good for a long time. The fans' interest was as high as we've ever seen it."

Then Kuhn ticked off baseball's major problems: 1. two teams in the San Francisco Bay Area; 2. The lack of a Washington franchise; 3. several underfinanced clubs.

The heaviest weight hanging on the leg of baseball is the fact that the Bay Area just isn't big enough or interested enough to support two major league teams. With overall baseball attendance setting all-time records, the Oakland A's ranked 26th and last with 495,578 paid fans, while the San Francisco Giants were 25th with 701,058.

"Our official position on the Bay Area problem is unchanged," Kuhn said. "There is little we can do until one team comes to us. Neither team has done that yet. But I'm more than willing to get involved."

Kuhn said he has been working behind the scenes in an effort to encourage some movement. He will say publicly that he doesn't expect the Giants to move. That leaves the Oakland A's, owned by Charlie Finley, Kuhn's most severe critic who lost a $3.5 million lawsuit against the commissioner earlier this year. The suit, challenging Kuhn's power to void Finley's sales of three of his top stars last year, is being appealed.

Hero Dismisses Past

NEW YORK (AP) — "Nothing can top this!"

Reggie Jackson, somewhat subdued for a man who had just hammered three screaming home runs in the final game of the World Series Tuesday night, stood in the champagne-drenched clubhouse of the New York Yankees—the center of attention, just as he always said he would be.

"This showed what kind of men we have, what kind of human beings we are," said Jackson between gulps of champagne from a bottle clutched in his hand.

"I really don't want to talk about everything that's happened this year," he went on. "It's dead. The Bible says that the weak man is he who can not stand adversity."

"There's a God out there someplace. I had tremendous odds against me and He helped me. This shows that everybody can get up no matter how far down you are."

Paraphrasing the words of Los Angeles manager Tom Lasorda, someone asked Jackson if there was a great Yankee in the sky? The slugging right fielder frowned.

"No. Don't make fun. I try to be a good Christian but I'm not perfect. I sin all the time."

Jackson, along with many other Yankees, seemed more relieved that the season had come to an end than overjoyed by the Yankees' first World Championship in 15 years.

But every so often, his elation showed through. "Nothing can top this," he repeated.

"Who's gonna hit three home runs in the deciding game of the World Series?"

Reggie Named Series MVP

NEW YORK (AP) — Reggie Jackson, whose five home runs set a World Series record, was named Most Valuable Player of the Series for his accomplishment Tuesday night.

Jackson, who will receive a car from a national magazine, became the first man in Series history to hit three consecutive home runs.

The only other man to hit three in a single game was the legendary Babe Ruth, who did it for the Yankees in 1926 and 1928, both times against the Cardinals in St. Louis.

Jackson's 25 total bases and 10 runs scored also set Series records. The previous marks of 24 total bases for a seven-game series was shared by Brooklyn's Duke Snider, who did it in 1952, and Lou Brock of St. Louis, who did it in 1958.

The record for a six-game Series was set in 1953 by current Yankees manager Billy Martin.

Previous record for runs scored in a Series was nine, shared by Yankee immortals Ruth—who did it in 1928—and Lou Gehrig, who did it in 1932.

In addition, Jackson's five home runs contributed to a two-team total of 17 homers—the most ever in a single World Series.

with a single late in the game. In the Series, Jackson and Martin went to it again after the second game when the right fielder questioned the manager's selection of Catfish Hunter as his second-game starter. The two men held a peace talk before the third game in Los Angeles and reached a truce in their private war.

Suddenly Jackson's bat came alive. Held without an extra-base hit through the playoffs, Jackson ripped a homer in the fourth game, won by New York, and another in Game 5, won by the Dodgers.

Before Game 6, the Yankees announced that Martin would be retained as manager, ending speculation that the continuing war with Jackson might cost the manager his job.

And when Game 6 began, Jackson took control. Suddenly Jackson's bat came alive. Held without an extra-base hit through the playoffs, Jackson ripped a homer in the fourth game, won by New York, and another in Game 5, won by the Dodgers.

Tech Claims VB Triumph

The Texas Tech women volleyballers had little trouble with West Texas State University here Tuesday night in the women's gym and defeated the Buffaloes 15-4, 15-5, 15-4.

Lisa Love hit 9 points for the Raiders who are now 26-10 on the year. The Raiders will travel to Canyon Thursday for a 7 p.m. meet match with the Buffs. It will be the third time this season for the two squads to meet.

Tuesday's match was Tech's last at home this season. Remaining are two out-of-town matches and the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women playoffs.

Scorecard Tuesday

Here, he permitted himself a slight smile. "I'm not."

"I hit the ball good in batting practice. Real good," Jackson said. "I knew they'd pitch me inside and I was just trying to keep the ball in the playing field. The first two home runs were on balls inside. They were trying to pitch me in all Series."

Jackson hit a two-run shot off Burt Hooton in the fourth inning, another two-run smash off Elias Sosa in the fifth and a monstrous 450-foot drive off Charley Hough in the eighth.

"I was thinking about a home run the last time," Jackson said. "But really, I was more or less thinking about a hit. I had a good swing at it — BINGO! I couldn't really believe it."

The end of the Yankees' tumultuous and divisive but ultimately The end of the Yankees' tumultuous and divisive but ultimately successful campaign also came as a relief to manager Billy Martin.

NEW YORK (AP) — "We lived by the long ball all season — and we died by it in the World Series," said Los Angeles Dodgers manager Tom Lasorda.

Lasorda and his players had just witnessed the greatest power display by a hitter in a World Series, watching Reggie Jackson crack three home runs Tuesday night to lead the New York Yankees to an 8-4 victory and the 1977 World Series title.

"It was a hell of a series and it was a hell of a game," said Lasorda. "But apparently our pitchers didn't throw the ball in the right spot. They were supposed to keep it low and they didn't."

Jackson, a one-man wrecking crew for the Yankees with a record five home runs in this Series, was the talk of the Dodgers clubhouse after the sixth game.

"That was the greatest performance that I've ever seen in a World Series," said Lasorda.

Steve Garvey was among the most impressed of the Dodgers.

"I have never seen anything like that in a championship game situation," the Dodgers first baseman said of Jackson's stunning performance.

"He beat us singlehandedly. And actually that's exactly what he did. He knocked in 5 runs and we only scored 4."

"I sure wish that I'd had a chance to talk to him at first base. But he didn't stay there long enough for conversation."

Jackson wasn't the only one who beat the Dodgers of course. Mike Torrez had something to do with it. The Yankees

After the Dodgers had scored 2 unearned runs in the first inning, Jackson opened the Yankees second by walking on 4 pitches. Chambliss followed with his home run into the right field bleachers, tying the score.

But Reggie Smith restored the Los Angeles lead with a third-inning homer. It was his third of the Series and the ninth for the Dodgers, tying the National League record set by the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1955 and tied by Milwaukee in 1957.

That made it 3-2 Dodgers, but Jackson took over at that point, with an awesome power show that rewrote the World Series record books.

His first homer followed a leadoff single by Munson in the fourth inning. The hit extended Munson's World Series hitting streak to 10 straight games — all 4 last year against Cincinnati and 6 this October.

In the fifth, Jackson connected again, tagging the first pitch with two out after Mickey Rivers had opened with a single and was forced on an attempted sacrifice.

Still, Jackson wasn't through. In the eighth, leading off, he hit a towering blast well back into the center field bleachers, far beyond the 417-foot sign, an area of the Stadium rarely reached.

Stirred by Jackson's heroics and by the Yankee victory, fans poured onto the field as Torrez got pinch hitter Lee Lacy on a pop to the mound for the final out.

Jackson barreled through the crowd, knocking over several fans en route to the dugout. Fans grabbed Willie Randolph's hat and bumped other Yankees players as police moved in to try and keep order.

But all they could do is watch as the fans raced around the diamond in joyous celebration. There were some scuffles, but there did not appear to be any major damage.

After Jackson's third home run, the deafening roar of the fans forced him out of the Yankees dugout to acknowledge the cheers for an accomplishment unparalleled in Series history. No man had ever hit more than 4 home runs in a Series and only the immortal Ruth had accomplished 3 in a single game — first in 1926 and again in 1928, both times in St. Louis.

Torrez carried the 5-run lead into the ninth, and with police ringing the stands down the right and left field lines to try to control the crowds, the sturdy right-hander went to work. He struck out Ron Cey leading off. Then, after singles by Steve Garvey and Dusty Baker, Rick Monday flied deep to Jackson at the right field wall.

That brought up pinch hitter Vic Davalillo, who bunted for a run to make it 8-4. Martin visited Torrez at the mound but stayed with his pitcher to face Lacy.

With firecrackers exploding in right field, Jackson came to the dugout to get his protective helmet. The field looked like an armed camp as police and Stadium guards struggled to maintain some semblance of order. Stadium security had been beefed up because of raucous New York fans that ran on the field and threw smoke bombs during Game 2 and because of a death threat received by Dodgers Garvey and Dave Lopes prior to the game.

There were more police than players in the dugouts as Lacy looped an easy pop to Torrez, ending the game.

The Dodgers scored first on a 2-run triple by Garvey in the first inning. But Chambliss' shot brought the Yankees back and after that it was Jackson's show with the exception of a sacrifice fly by Lou Piniella in the fourth inning.

When it was over, the fans claimed the field with a sea of bodies sweeping over the Stadium that was modernized at a cost of $100 million just two years ago.

It was the first World Championship in the new stadium and Jackson's power display made it one of the most memorable in the storied history of the Yankees.

Terrance Gatewood banged home 11 points for Estacado as the Matadors defeated Dunbar 15-11, 15-8 Tuesday night in a District 3-AAA volleyball contest.

Norma Luna was the high point scorer for the Panthers with 8 points.

The loss leaves Dunbar winless in loop play with an 0-6 mark. Estacado has a 4-2 district mark.

Led by Donna Hays' 11 points, Monterey defeated Levelland 15-0, 15-2 in the Levelland gym.

The win ends Monterey's won-loss mark at 11-11 for the year.

In junior varsity action, Monterey downed Levelland 15-0, 15-7 and Dunbar edged Estacado 15-6, 14-16, 15-5.

Allison Climbs Slope In Physical Comeback

By CARTER CROMWELL
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Sweating and puffing from recent exercise, Rodney Allison plopped down on the dressing-room bench.

"How many times did you go up the hill?" a trainer asked.

"Six," Allison replied.

"That's not enough," the other said.

"I know, but I'll do more. I'll get there," Allison answered.

By "getting there," Allison meant being ready to play when Texas Tech battles Texas in Austin on Oct. 29 in a key Southwest Conference game. Tech, of course, is strongly hoping he will "get there."

In the meantime, Allison is working to rehabilitate his left leg, in which he suffered a cracked fibula against Texas A & M Sept. 24. Rehab includes time in the whirlpool, on the stationary bicycle, doing toe raises and walking up and down the steep hill at the north end of Jones Stadium.

"I tried to go up the hill Monday," Allison said, "but I only did it twice before my leg started aching. I'll just do it as many times each day as I can, and I'll try to do more each day."

Allison had the cast removed from his leg last Wednesday, and the cracked bone was "almost healed" at the time. He was on crutches until giving them up last Saturday. Tuesday, he threw "40 to 50" passes during his workout.

He displayed a noticeable limp Tuesday but says he doesn't experience "a whole lot" of pain.

"It's kind of an ache more than anything else," he said. "And they've got it taped real heavily, so that makes it tougher to move around normally. It will throbb some after I work out, but that's to be expected for a while, I guess."

"If I can just get some motion back in it, I'll be all right. It's real stiff from the sprained ankle and from being in a cast. It's tough to get going in the morning, but, after I take a bath and soak the leg in hot water, it's a lot better."

He's been surprised at his overall condition. He hasn't gained any weight.

"In fact, I've lost two or three pounds. I'm in a lot better shape than I figured I'd be after the layoff."

The layoff is certain to affect his play for a while, but the question is: How much?

"It's got to hurt some. When I get into a game for the first time, I'll probably realize it. But, right now, I just have it in my mind that it's not going to affect me. I'm so anxious to play."

Standing on the sidelines hasn't been easy for the competitive Allison.

"It's been tough. I'm more nervous standing on the sidelines than I ever was when I was playing."

Allison still expects to be ready for the Texas game.

"I think I can play then. They say I can practice in six or seven days. It kind of depends on me. If there's any way possible, I'll play."

Bulls Acquire Hansen For Future Draft Pick

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Chicago Bulls acquired 6-5 guard Glen Hansen from New Orleans Tuesday, paying for him by giving the Jazz Chicago's fourth-round pick in next year's draft.

Hansen, who graduated from Louisiana State University in 1975, spent the past two years with the Kansas City Kings. He was picked up by New Orleans as a free agent during the summer.

WILLIE STEPHENS

Stephens' Back Injury Diagnosed As Bruise

Texas Tech cornerback Willie Stephens, who was forced out of the Red Raiders' game with Rice last Saturday night with a back injury, has been released from the hospital, and his injury has been diagnosed as a bad bruise.

Stephens said he was accidentally hit in the lower part of his back by Tech linebacker Don Kelly toward the conclusion of a play in the first half.

Dunbar's White Heads City Honors Checklist

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

It isn't everyday that old man opportunity comes a calling. No, siree.

"Old Op" pounded on Dunbar running-back Earnest White's hut last Thursday night and the 161-pound took advantage—full advantage—of his generosity.

White, who had rushed for only 13 yards on 16 tries this season prior to game with Lamesa, racked up 91 steps on 15 totes in the District 3-AAA contest at Lowrey Field.

White has been named the Avalanche-Journal's offensive back of the week as nominated by the local high school coaches.

Although White did not score a touchdown for the Panthers in their 7-6 win over Lamesa, he did manage to convert three runs into first downs for the Van Jefferson-coached team.

"We were pleased with the way he played," Jefferson said. "He came through for us the way we knew he could."

Before the Lamesa game, White had been used primarily on specialty teams.

However, when runningback Kenneth James was shifted to wingback to help generate more offense, White was inserted as starting tailback.

"He (White) does a great job blocking," Jefferson pointed out. "He is not one of those dancers or fakers; he just gets the ball and runs hard."

Also nominated for the award were

Randy Lusk of Coronado, Ernest Day of Lubbock High, Andy Young of Estacado (2 TDs), Kent Allison of Lubbock Christian High and Mark Halsell of Christ the King (147 yards rushing).

On the offensive line, Rudy Rodriguez copped the weekly honor. Rodriguez, a guard for Estacado, helped spring Mator backs for more than 240 yards rushing in their 21-6 win over Brownfield Saturday.

Along with Rodriguez, drawing praise were Carl Clawson of Coronado, Roy Reyna of Lubbock High, Daryl Thomas of Dunbar, Wes Blanchard of CTK and Shawn Williams of LCHS.

Heading the defensive backs is Williams of LCHS. Williams intercepted a pair of Crane aerials and also collected eight unassisted tackles in the 39-6 loss. Williams was also named the Eagles' top offensive lineman by coach George Harper after catching seven passes for 60 yards.

Johnny McCormick of Coronado, Chris Bigham of Lubbock High, Wayne Williams of Dunbar, Kenneth Davis of Estacado and Jatin Mehta of Christ the King were also nominated.

Bigham and Williams were the only defensive backs nominated to nab interceptions.

On the defensive line, Keith Hall of Coronado had seven unassisted tackles and the same number of assists to garner the linemen's honor.

Coach Don King praised Hall's performance in the Mustang's 21-7 win over Lubbock High. "He was all over the field for us," King said. "He just did a great job."

Also cited were Chris Smith of Lubbock High, John Bouillion of Christ the King, Jamie Hill of Lubbock Christian, Steve Wright of Estacado, and Vernon Gibson of Dunbar.

Campbell Disgusted With Play

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas' Earl Campbell gained 188 yards rushing—and set up the winning touchdown with a 28-yard sprint on a screen pass—against the quick, tough Arkansas defense and said he was "kinda disgusted" with his performance.

"I don't feel like I'm supposed to fumble like that," he said of two bobbles in Arkansas territory.

"I know that in his mind, his performance was marred by those fumbles," said Texas coach Fred Akers. "I don't think anyone else feels that way, but that's the mark of a great back, to be critical of himself."

Basking in Texas' 13-9 victory over previously unbeaten and eighth-ranked Arkansas, Akers said, "It was pretty obvious to everyone that Earl had an outstanding day—a super workhorse day."

It was obvious to The Associated Press panel that chose Campbell as the outstanding offensive player of the week in the Southwest Conference.

The honor is not new to Campbell, a 223-pound senior who could cap a record-breaking career at Texas with the Heisman Trophy, which goes to the top college player in the nation.

Campbell, a starter since he was a freshman, has won the AP's SWC award three times previously—once as a freshman against Arkansas and twice as a sophomore.

He missed four games last season with a leg injury but closed out the season with 131 yards rushing against—you guessed it—Arkansas.

He has had, in fact, an exceptional career against the Razorbacks, carrying 94 times for 511 yards.

"Campbell is outstanding," said Arkansas defensive tackle Dan Hampton. "A lot of times we'd just miss him at the line of scrimmage. It's unbelievable some of the cuts he made."

"I have played a lot of football," said Campbell, "and I hope to play a lot longer, but I want to say I have really enjoyed playing these games against Arkansas. They hit hard, but they are a good, clean football team."

His 188 yards raised his four-year total to 3,385 yards, breaking the record of Arkansas' Dicky Morton, who ran for 3,317 yards in three years.

Writer Plans To File Charges Against Cosell

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia Daily News columnist Stan Hochman said Tuesday that he will file a complaint in California this week charging ABC sports commentator Howard Cosell with assaulting him aboard a commercial jetliner.

Cosell has labeled the charge a joke, saying he merely gave Hochman "a friendly chuck under the chin."

The incident took place aboard an American Airlines jet just before a late night takeoff from Los Angeles to New York after Sunday's World Series baseball game.

According to Hochman, Cosell slapped him on the head "at least four times and maybe five" after a sarcastic verbal exchange between the two men.

"We looked at each other. . . I think I spoke first," Hochman said. "I said, 'It's a thrill to share this ride with you.' He said, 'Oh, how I wish I had your talent. Oh, how I wish I was making the money you're making.'"

Hochman said he retorted with, "I'd like to write home about this flight."

"By now he was standing along my seat. He reached over with his left hand and he slapped me hard at least four times and maybe five in the area of the top part of my ear and the temple," Hochman said.

Hochman, who was buckled in his seat, said Cosell began to walk away, but he grabbed his coat sleeve and said, "Howard you can't go around hitting people. The next time you lay a hand on me, I'm going to do something about it."

"Then I threw a half punch, half shove with my right hand, which glanced off his left hip," Hochman said Cosell then yelled, "Dregs of the earth. Dregs of the earth."

Plug in a Dumore grinder and see the difference.

Landry Uses Denver As Example

DALLAS (AP) — Oakland's 30-7 upset by Denver Sunday may have done more for Dallas Cowboy coach Tom Landry than it did for winning coach Red Miller.

Landry used the powerful Oakland Raiders Tuesday as a prime example of what can happen to the complacent on any Sunday in the National Football League.

"I was bragging on Oakland last week because I didn't think anybody could beat them. . . then they (Denver) did 30-7," said Landry.

Of course, Landry served up the example at his weekly press luncheon because the unbeaten Cowboys play the lowly Philadelphia Eagles on the road this week.

"We are not a solid team at this point. . . we just do good things at the right moment," said Landry of his young team which is one of three remaining with a spotless record in the National Football League.

Landry said, "Our record (5-0) is a lot better than I thought it would be. The changes we made to our defense have paid off. I'm still concerned about injuries in our offensive line."

"I am surprised we are unbeaten. We've played three contenders (Minnesota, St. Louis and Washington) and beaten them all."

Landry confessed, "I'm still wondering where we are. We have the potential to be a great team."

Landry's comments came after Philadelphia coach Dick Vermeil had told Dallas writers in a telephone hookup that, "I thought Dallas had a great team last year, but they are even better now. They have advanced to the point where they do what they want to do."

Landry said, "I don't think anybody in our division can catch the Cowboys. I can see them losing a game to somebody, but the way they are playing they would be tough to beat."

Landry, who heard the same thing from Washington coach George Allen, countered "They are just saying that so they hope we believe it. We are not playing exceptional football. For example, we gave Washington three fumbles and a blocked punt and still won. Washington had a lot of their horses out of there (injured) or we would have been in trouble."

Landry said he was hoping cornerback Aaron Kyle, who suffered a broken wrist in two places, could be back in two weeks.

"We'll put a cast on the wrist, but he is doubtful for the Philadelphia game," said Landry.

He said tight end Billy Joe DuPree will play against the Eagles although he has a torn rib cartilage.

Defenders Smith, Rivas Top Schoolboy List

By WALT McALEXANDER
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Despite all those lopsided scores rolled up last week, Friday was a good night for the defense. . . and, as usual, the 200-yard rushers.

Thus, standing at the top of The Avalanche-Journal's weekly honor roll list are three defensive stalwarts (two of whom double as kicking experts), two runningbacks and a quarterback whose air antics helped sink an undefeated team.

The two-way honorees are Borden County's Tim Smith and Dawson's Sammy Rivas, with Springlake-Earth's Tim May the other defensive standout. Larry Moore of Morton and Mike Jones of Petersburg ran wild and frenzied quarterback Doug Townsend pressed Post dizzy in keeping the Tigers unbeaten and preventing the Antelopes from remaining so. Smith, a two-way tackle, was in on 16 tackles, sacked the quarterback three times—including once for a safety—recovered two fumbles and kicked a 40-yard field goal in a 27-8 win over Wilson. Rivas, a linebacker, was in on 19 tackles and recovered two fumbles, punted seven times for a 42.1 norm and, with 11 seconds left, booted a 22-yard field goal to nip Klondike 3-0.

May, an offensive guard last year but now a fullback-linebacker, had 15 tackles, four assists, caused three fumbles and tipped one pass away. However, the 5-11, 180-pounder's effort was not enough as Vega prevailed 48-0.

Moore, who has 724 yards rushing on the year, carried 28 times for 227 yards in a 19-14 loss to Friona. He zipped 60 yards for one score and then bolted 68 yards to set up the other. And, from his linebacker berth, he had six tackles and seven assists.

Jones had another outstanding week, carrying 31 times for 250 yards and 2 TDs (36 and 15 yards) in a 22-6 win over Hale Center. In the second half alone he had 15 carries for 147 yards. Jones now has 220 carries for 1,358 yards in seven games this year and his tandem offense totals 1,584 yards.

Townsend managed only 8 yards rushing, but it was his passing that was a key in the 21-20 verdict over Post. He hit on 12 of 18 for 133 yards and two TDs.

Two others joined the "200-Yard Rushing Club" last week, with Joel Williams of Sudan carrying 16 times for 219 yards in a 33-8 win over Nazareth.

Darrell Dowd of Valley carried 20 times for 259 yards and three TDs in a 28-8 win over Happy. That runs membership in the "Club" to 18. However, Jones has accomplished the feat four times, as has Danny Clark of Lockney. Clifford Bailey of Tahoka has done it three times and both Jerry Lee of Motley County and Danny Murphy of Idalou twice each.

Jones has the top rushing figure on the South Plains, with Clark next at 1,255, followed by Lee at 1,221, Dowd at 1,218 and Bailey, who had played one less game, at 1,195.

Others having excellent outings last Friday include:

• Petersburg punter Ricky Juarez, a 5-7, 150-pounder who averaged 43.0 on his four punts, with one covering 56 yards. In 30 attempts this fall, he has a 42.0 average.

• Springlake-Earth's defense was aided by sophomore linebacker Rudy DeLeon (eight tackles, 10 assists), junior noseguard Keith Clayton (five tackles, seven assists, one sack) and junior tackle Bryon Vaughn (six tackles, eight assists, one sack).

• Crosbyton quarterback Chad Davis, who carried 16 times for 196 yards and one TD. He was also involved in the most unusual play of the night. Following a 16-yard gain, he was hit, the ball popped loose and Marvin Wiley grabbed it and completed the 63-yard touchdown play. Wiley also scored on runs of 43 and 13 yards in a 41-12 win over Ralls.

• Friona's Jeff Whiteside carried 17 times for 149 yards and one TD in the win over Morton.

• Whiteface QB David Pletz rushed for 155 yards and Gary Dunkerson for 144 more in addition to scoring twice from the 2 in a 12-8 win over Smyer.

• Murphy carried 15 times for 145 yards including TD runs of 70, 10, 33 and 6 yards and also ran over two point conversions in the 34-7 romp over Tulla.

• Clark managed 182 yards on 36 carries and scored on runs of 1 and 77 yards in a 23-19 loss to Floydada.

• Whirlwind linebacker Greg Jones had 18 tackles against Lockney.

• Dean Northcutt carried 27 times for 165 yards and Jeep Shanks 13 for 165 yards and Jeep Shanks 13 for 126 in Muleshoe's 18-7 win over Littlefield in which Shanks scored twice.

• Lee, who has 460 yards rushing the last two games, carried 251. • Lee, who has 460 yards rushing the last two games, carried for 251 in a 41-3 rout of Silverton, scoring on runs of 58, 4 and 5 yards.

• The Seagraves duo of Steve McCormick and Clarence Davis accounted for 218 of the teams' 354 ground yards in a 41-0 win over Shallowater. Davis carried 14 times for 115 yards and McCormick six times for 103 steps.

• Jal's Ricky Jennings averaged 12 yards on each of his 13 carries and broke for 93 yards and a TD that gave Jal a 13-6 win over Fort Sumner.

• Lorenzo's Greg Cunningham carried 27 times for 111 yards and scored on runs of 1 and 43 yards in a 26-0 win over Spur.

• Slaton's John Johnson had 16 carries for 149 yards and Brad Eblen 13 for 106 as the Tigers amassed 351 ground yards and 439 total yards in a 60-0 win over Denver City.

• Alex Perez had nine tackles and carried 20 times for 102 yards in Grady's 30-21 win over Cotton Center, which was paced by Ruben Gutierrez with 125 yards on 21 carries.

Farwell Faces Critical Stretch

The 1977 football season has passed the midway point, but for Van Whatley it's really only beginning.

Back in August, Whatley's Farwell Steers were picked to win the District 3-A crown and advance in the state playoffs. And the Steers were state ranked for the first five weeks of the season.

However, back-to-back losses to Shallowater (29-26) and Boys Ranch (15-8) ended the pollsters' love affair with the Steers.

Since then, however, Farwell has bounced back to whip Bovina 21-7 in its loop opener and faces a three-week, make-or-break schedule that includes Kress and Hart on the road and Vega at home.

Yet, Whatley remains optimistic, despite the fact "we haven't played everyone together at the same time this year." And it appears doubtful if that'll happen, as split end Kayle Watts is out with mononucleosis and will likely miss the rest of the regular season.

Quarterback Russ Jones, tabbed as a blue chipper in many circles before the season, missed the first four games with the same ailment and is "just now getting back into the groove of things. We have to rest him some during the games, and he's making a few mental errors because he's just not played that much. But he's getting better."

Tackle Rusty McFarland is still hobbled a bit by a bad knee and runningback Tim Norton has played despite an ankle injury.

Whatley feels Farwell's 4-2 record this year means more than the 6-0 mark of a year ago. "With all our woes, yes, I'm extremely pleased with the way the kids have performed."

"We should have beaten Boys Ranch. We just dropped the football. We dropped two passes in the end zone and two others which would have allowed us to get down close. Shallowater was just one of those deals where we couldn't get anything going and just couldn't stop them. Against Bovina, our defense was good, but we sputtered on offense."

"I feel like we've got one or two good games in us, if we can just get going and put it all together somehow."

Whatley said the passing game is presently where it was one week deep into the fall drills.

"We probably won't throw much the rest of the way. Russ is weak and we just can't consistently throw and catch it. And we just haven't been able to work on it because he's so weak. It's been a month or more since our receivers have been able to catch the ball like they need to."

"Really, it's now or never for us. Kress (this week's foe) has an outstanding team and looks to me like the best in the district. They're big, strong and physical, and it'll be very difficult for us to stop them. I feel we can move the ball a little, but stopping them, well . . .

"We have a little bit of momentum now and everyone's well enough so that we can play competitive. . . or at least I hope that's the case."

Port Neches Holds Lead In AAAA

By The Associated Press
Top-ranked Port Neches-Groves had a close call against rugged Vidor but still managed to join Gregory-Portland in Class AAA. Bellville in AA, Seagraves in A and Wheeler in B as the leaders in The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll.

PN-G emerged with a 14-12 victory and polled 13 first-place votes to hold a 165-156-point edge over runnerup Temple in the AAAA list this week.

It was the mildest week of upsets this season with only three of the top 50 ranked teams in all five classes losing.

LaPorte, ranked No. 9 in AAAA last week, lost to Pasadena Dobie 29-20 and was replaced in the top 10 by San Antonio Highlands, 6-0 as the No. 10 team.

Defending state champion San Antonio Churchill, 5-1, moved up one notch to ninth ahead of Highlands, which beat Churchill earlier this season.

Coaches Seek Future Tilts

Coaches over the South Plains are scrambling for games, both basketball for this winter and football for next fall, in anticipation of new realignments. Morton High School will host a JV boys and girls basketball tournament Jan. 5-7, 1978. Interested parties may contact coach Dan Smith or Charlie Adams at 266-5131 or 266-5736 or by writing them at 500 W. Buchanan, Morton, 79346.

Adams also needs varsity girls and JV girls games for Jan. 6 and Jan. 17 and would like to enter ninth grade or JV tournaments if any openings exist in the area.

At Hale Center, football coach Jackie Needham is seeking a game for Sept. 8, 1978. The Class A football coach can be reached at 839-2452.

Lubbock Christian High basketball coach Gary Bowe needs both boys and girls junior high games for Nov. 14, 17 and 28 as well as Dec. 1 and 8. Bowe can be reached at 792-3221.
