men Kill Pilot Of Big German Jet

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Hijackers killed the pilot of a West German airliner, forced it to land in Somalia today and threatened to blow up the plane with the 86 remaining hostages unless an extended ransom deadline is met, officials said.

A West German government spokesman said in Bonn the pilot was apparently shot dead before the Lufthansa Boeing 737 jet took off late Sunday from South Yemen. His body was dumped on the runway shortly after it landed without permission in Mogadishu, the Somali capital.

The four hijackers have demanded the release of 13 terrorists imprisoned in West Germany and Turkey and payment of $15 million. No effort to meet the demands was reported as the hijackers extended their deadline first to 10 a.m., EDT, then to 10:30 a.m., EDT, then to 8:30 p.m., EDT (3 a.m., Tuesday, in Somalia.)

The West German government let a Sunday deadline pass without any attempt at compliance. However, it sent negotiators to the airport in Mogadishu in an effort to save the hostages, who include a California woman with a heart condition and her 5-year-old son.

The American ambassador in Somalia said German and Somali negotiators convinced the hijackers to extend the deadline.

Armed soldiers surrounded the plane at a distance in front of the main terminal in the Somali capital — the jet's sixth stop since two Arabic-speaking men and two women commandeered it over the French Riviera last Thursday.

The West German government said it could not confirm beyond doubt that the dead man's body was that of the chief pilot, Juergen Schumann. But a spokesman said the dead man had a notebook containing the name Monika Schumann, the chief pilot's wife.

Monika Schumann, who has sons aged 11 and 7, told a German newspaper last week that her husband had expected his plane might be hijacked some day.

Motorists Stranded In Snow

An early autumn snowstorm, striking with midwinter ferocity, today marooned hundreds of motorists and knocked out power to thousands of homes in Pennsylvania. Travelers were stranded all the way from upstate New York to Great Smoky National Park in Tennessee and North Carolina.

But Texans were much more fortunate, with temperatures in the 80s today and forecasts that a weak cold front Tuesday will only drop the high readings to the 70s.

The New England storm system played its mischief in the form of gale warnings off the southern New England coast early today and rain and snow from New York state and Pennsylvania into the lower Great Lakes and upper Ohio Valley. The snow forced officials to close the entire 106-mile Skyline Drive in Virginia and U.S. 441 in Great Smoky Park.

Cars backed up for eight miles and snowplows were wheeled out to clear Interstate 80 and 81 near Hazleton, Pa.

About 3,100 persons were without power at Williamsport, Pa. Some schools closed in Williamsport, Scranton and Lewistown.

Meanwhile, Lubbock temperatures climbed from a tolerable 45 degrees — the low for the day — at 9 a.m. to 65 by midmorning. Winds were light this morning, but National Weather Service predictions called for breezes of 15-20 mph later today, changing from westerly to northeasterly readings of 10-15 mph tonight.

High today is expected to reach the low 80s for the Lubbock area. The passage of the weak front should keep the mercury in the mid-70s on Tuesday. Lows tonight should be in the low 40s.

Temperatures across Texas ranged from the 40s in the southwestern mountains and North Texas to the lower 60s along the coast and Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Clouds dotted the western reaches of the state this morning. Texas skies elsewhere were clear.

Fair skies and temperatures ranging from the mid-70s in North Texas to the 80s in South Texas and the upper 80s in the Big Bend country were forecast for the remainder of the day.

At 8:45 a.m. today most area towns recorded temperatures in the 40s. Plains noted a 39-degree reading and Big Spring, Matador and Morton showed readings in the 50s.

Arson Ring Suspects Held

A-J News Services

Massachusetts state police today began rounding up 33 persons secretly indicted in connection with an alleged multimillion-dollar arson-for-hire ring, which state Atty. Gen. Francis X. Bellotti called "a conspiracy to burn Suffolk County for profit."

At least 14 of the persons indicted by a Suffolk County grand jury last week were arrested in pre-dawn raids, including three public adjusters, a retired Chelsea fire captain, a retired state police detective and a lawyer.

Those arrested included Leo Weisentauner, retired captain of the Boston Fire Department arson squad; John Fothergill, a retired captain of the Chelsea Fire Department; and retired state policeman James DeFuria.

They were photographed and fingerprinted at the John D. McCormick state building, where Bellotti has offices.

Public adjusters are professional negotiators hired by property owners to obtain settlements from insurance companies.

Bellotti said the persons indicted were allegedly involved in "the largest arson ring ever detected."

In 120 indictments returned, the 33 persons were charged with crimes ranging from arson, fraud and conspiracy to manslaughter and murder in the burning of 24 pieces of property valued at $6 million, Bellotti said.

A four-month investigation uncovered corruption in the state fire marshal's office, the Boston police arson squad and the Boston and Chelsea fire departments, he said.

"The people involved cut across the entire social and economic spectrum," he said. He attributed corruption in the police and fire agencies to what he called the practice of using arson squads as "a dumping ground for retiring officers."

Three of the 13 persons arrested today were among those indicted for murder in connection with fatal tenement fires, officials said.

State police Sgt. John Regan, who headed the investigation and supervised 80 troopers who conducted the raids shortly after 5 a.m. today, said the alleged ring was responsible for 152 cases of arson at 89 locations. Most of the properties burned were deteriorating multiple-dwelling tenements that supposedly were being renovated.

Insurance companies reportedly paid out more than $2 million in fraudulent fire loss claims in Boston, suburban Revere and Chelsea, which is adjacent to Boston. Insurance industry spokesmen said the alleged arson operation was the largest of its kind in the country.

"In my opinion, the torches (people who set the fires) are the least culpable," said Asst. Atty. Gen. Stephen Delinsky, who began the investigation last June. "It's the people who put them in operation that are the most culpable."

About 100 witnesses testified before the grand jury, including members of the Boston Fire Department arson squad and the state Fire Marshal's office. The grand jury reportedly concentrated on a number of investigations conducted by those two agencies.

State Police Lt. James DeFuria, who was assigned to the fire marshal's office and participated in investigations which often determined whether insurance claims would be paid, retired the day after he testified.

High Court Clears Way For Concorde Landings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court cleared the way today for landings of the Concorde supersonic jetliner at New York's John F. Kennedy International Airport. An airline spokesman said the plane would be test-landed Wednesday and might begin daily flights Nov. 22.

British Airways and Air France said through spokesmen in New York that they would conduct a joint familiarization flight to Kennedy Airport Wednesday morning on a Concorde taking off from Paris.

The carriers said they hoped to begin daily service from London and Paris to Kennedy by Nov. 22.

The justices turned down, without comment, a request by the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey that they order a delay to all Concorde operations at JFK until a formal appeal could be filed with the court.

Today's action does not prevent the port authority from filing such an appeal. In the interim, however, it appears that commercial flights of the British-French airliner New York officials have fought against for nearly two years will begin serving the airport.

British Airways and Air France are the only airlines offering Concorde flights. To date, the only regularly scheduled Concorde flights to the United States have been landing at Dulles International Airport near Washington.

In other matters today, the Supreme Court

— Asked lawyers for both sides in the "reverse discrimination" case of Allan Bakke to submit written briefs discussing the effect of the 1964 Civil Rights Act on the case. It could be an indication the court may base its decision on the federal law rather than the Constitution.

— Refused to hear an appeal of the contempt-of-court conviction of Jerry Paul, a North Carolina lawyer who successfully defended Joan Little in a 1975 murder trial that attracted national attention. Miss Little stabbed her jailer when he allegedly tried to rape her.

— Let stand a lower court's order directing New York city officials to take specific actions to limit motor vehicle traffic and improve air quality in Manhattan.

On Sept. 29, the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New York rejected two requests by the port authority to overturn a federal trial court's ruling that Concorde operations at JFK could begin Oct. 20.

In its ruling, however, the appeals court said landings could begin "forthwith," and spokesmen for both airlines had said they intended to touch down the first of a series of test flights sometime in mid-October.

But after being asked by the port authority to temporarily postpone the effect of the appeals court ruling, the Supreme Court on Oct. 7 ordered that the landings be delayed while it considered the request.

In that request, port authority lawyer Patrick Falvey said the appeals court's ruling would cause irreparable harm because it would permit Concorde operations "before the authority has determined that such flights will not result in successful noise suits."

Falvey described JFK, situated in the New York borough of Queens, as "one of the busiest international airports in the world situated in a noise-sensitive community of almost 500,000 homeowners."

Mark White Quits Post

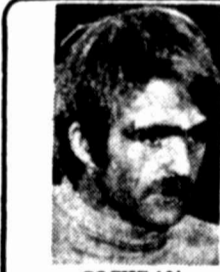

AUSTIN (UPI) — Secretary of State Mark White Jr. resigned that office today and announced he will seek the Democratic nomination for attorney general next year.

White, in a news conference on the Capitol lawn, sharply criticized his opponent in the attorney general race — former Speaker Price Daniel Jr. — and accused Daniel of attempting to use his father's reputation to win election to the statewide office. Price Daniel Sr. is a former governor and now a member of the Texas Supreme Court.

Dozens of White's employees left their offices and stood on the shaded lawn to applaud White's stinging criticisms.

"Texans deserve an attorney general who is qualified and determined to lead the way to justice for all, not one who just wants to satisfy a personal ambition by following in famous footsteps," White said.

Carter Bars Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is unwilling to accept any compromise energy bill that contains any form of natural gas deregulation, the chairman of the Senate energy committee said today.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said that as a result, there may be no natural gas legislation enacted this year.

"The administration is going to be very tough and I'm pleased," Jackson said in an interview.

House and Senate conferees begin work on Tuesday on hammering out a compromise energy bill. Jackson is the head of the Senate's team of conferees.

Although the House has passed Carter's debate that would deregulate gas prices after nine years. It was reluctantly supported by the administration at the time as preferable to the industry-backed deregulation bill that the Senate went on to pass.

Jackson's proposed compromise had been viewed as a possible middle ground for the House-Senate conferees to adopt. But Jackson said today that even this phased form of deregulation would probably be vetoed by the President.

He said he doesn't intend to even bring it up again.

The natural gas issue will be the last item the conferees consider.

Island Lures Young Cuban Exiles

By JUAN O. TAMAYO
NEW YORK (UPI) — Marta Martinez was weeping 8-year-old the day she left Fidel Castro's Cuba in 1962. She's now a doe-eyed 24-year-old beauty who wants to return to seek out the Latin heritage that still stirs her heart.

"The day we left Cuba was a grueling day. I cried a lot and when I got on the plane I knew I was not going — I mean I thought I was not going back," she says.

Marta is part of a swelling number of young Cuban exiles who grew up in America and now want to visit the island. Some are Castro sympathizers. Most are just plain homesick.

Some have drifted away from the fierce hatred of communism voiced by the great majority of the 800,000 Cubans in America, and still regard the island as home and Castro's government a reality that must be lived with.

A few have already gone back for a first-hand look at the 16-year-old Communist regime while others are anxiously sweating out the long process of getting Cuban visas.

Marta has yet to apply for a visa, but her dark eyes glow when she discusses the prospect of a flight to Cuba from New York — where she works for a suburban newspaper — to search for her heritage.

Her years in Cuba and in America have left her in a cultural limbo, "sort of like you don't belong to them, but you don't belong to the Americans. I've got to go back ... I still think of it as home, as roots."

Rene Rodriguez, a 27-year-old doctor, uses almost the same words to explain his burning desire to return to Havana after 15 years in Connecticut, Washington, D.C., and finally southern California.

"I'm too acclimated to the United States to say 'Yes, I'd like to go back to stay,' but it's not out of the question," he says. "I've got to find my roots. I feel sort of like Israel, asking myself 'where do I belong?'"

If he goes, Rene would take along his American girlfriend to "show her the island and tell her, 'This is what made me,'" he says.

Rene says he believes Castro "has done more good for Cuba than anyone before," but both he and Marta point up his alleged human rights violations as their key reservation about the Communist regime.

Two other Cubans who want to return but refused to be identified are pair of New Yorkers active in a pro-Castro magazine, Areito. Its Miami offices have been bombed more than once.

Both said the Vietnam War and civil rights movement of the 1960s — turbulent eras that disillusioned many young Americans — did the same for them and led them to reconsider the role of Castro in Cuba.

"Vietnam had much influence on me. It opened my eyes in the sense that the United States was backing a tyrannical government in the name of democracy," said Zenon, a 31-year-old social worker who grew up in Pittsburgh.

"Looking at the poverty that existed in this country and the lack of equality, it began to break the aura that the United States had of democratic equality, that everyone lived right," he said.

Maria, a 26-year-old sculptress, says she is a "socialist" who supports Castro's revolution and will go back for a visit in December "to see how the socialist system works. I want more information about it."

Asked if she was bothered by Castro's imprisonment of political dissidents, she said, "I have worked in this country's jails and there are political prisoners there, though no one mentions it."

Though most of these Cubans left the island as children too young to have any feelings either for or against Castro's revolution, one exile who chose to leave Cuba and later changed her mind was Lourdes Casals.

Lourdes, at 39 year of age regarded as the "godmother" of Areito magazine, left Cuba in a hurry in 1961 because she had been helping a student group actively trying to overthrow Castro.

But her anti-Castroism began to waver two years later during a brush with poverty in Africa, where one young black student told her, "If the devil himself will feed and clothe my people, I will follow the devil."

A psychology teacher at Rutgers University in New Jersey, she says she has slowly turned from a "typical liberal American academician," to a "socialist thinker" and a supporter of the Castro government in Cuba.

Son Wants Parents Evicted From Home

SEATTLE (AP) — Thomas Rhodes Jr. says he owns his parents' home and wants them evicted. But Thomas and Sarah Rhodes claim the home is legally theirs and their son "will have to throw us out."

The dispute has spilled over to neighbors in the quiet Green Lake area where the house is located. Petitions are circulating and there has been talk of violence if the elderly Rhodes are forced to move.

"I have lain in bed at nights and just wondered what he is mad at me for," said Sarah Rhodes. "I just don't quite understand it. If you can't trust your son, then who can you trust?"

Court records indicate the case dates back to 1968 when Thomas Jr., now 39, found the house for his parents. During that summer, the house was purchased for $19,000, the father putting up $1,000 and the son $2,000 as a down payment.

Records show all the legal papers for the house were signed by Thomas Rhodes Jr. and his wife, Julia. But the father has testified that it was actually he who signed the son's name and his wife who signed for the daughter-in-law.

Last year the son and daughter-in-law filed for divorce and listed the house as part of the community property settlement. Until then, the elderly Rhodes had been paying the son $140 a month for what they believed was a house payment.

Lawsuits subsequently were filed by father and son, each contending they owned the house. The father said he had signed the home over to the son so he would inherit it. The son claimed his parents were only acting as agents for him when he signed the papers.

On Sept. 30, the parents found an eviction notice on the door.

"My wife and I have been going through this nightmare for the past two years and all I want to do now is get the hell out of here," said the father. "Somehow this all got twisted around."

King County Superior Court Judge Robert Elston last month handed down a judgment giving the title to the son, plus court costs.

He found, among other things, that the father did in fact sign the son's name to the real-estate contract, but under his "own free will," and it shows the son as the legal owner.

MONTGOMERY WARD

A DAILY MESSAGE FROM The Newspaper Bible®

II Peter 3:14-16 The Living Bible

4 This will be their line of argument: "So Jesus promised to come back, did he? Then where is He? He'll never come! Why, as far back as anyone can remember everything has remained exactly as it was since the first day of creation."

5,6 They deliberately forget this fact: that God did destroy the world with a mighty flood, long after He had made the heavens by the word of His command, and had used the waters to form the earth and surround it.

7 And God has commanded that the earth and the heavens be stored away for a great bonfire at the judgment day, when all ungodly men will perish.

8 But don't forget this, dear friends, that a day or a thousand years from now is like tomorrow to the Lord.

9 He isn't really being slow about His promised return, even though it sometimes seems that way. But He is waiting, for the good reason that He is not willing that any should perish, and He is giving more time for sinners to repent.

10 The day of the Lord is surely coming, as unexpectedly as a thief, and then the heavens will pass away with a terrible noise and the heavenly bodies will disappear in fire, and the earth and everything on it will be burned up.

11 And so since everything around us is going to melt away, what holy, godly lives we should be living!

12 You should look forward to that day and hurry it along—the day when God will set the heavens on fire, and the heavenly bodies will melt and disappear in flames.

13 But we are looking forward to God's promise of new heavens and a new earth afterwards, where there will be only goodness.

14 Dear friends, while you are waiting for these things to happen and for Him to come, try hard to live without sinning; and be at peace with everyone so that He will be pleased with you when He returns.

15,16 And remember why He is waiting. He is giving us time to get His message of salvation out to others. Our wise and beloved brother Paul has talked about these same things in many of his letters.

Federal Reserve Has Distressing Economic News

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — The news from the monetary front is somewhat distressing. After big advances in the money supply in recent months, the Federal Reserve now feels it has overextended itself and must pull back.

Too much money chasing too few goods leads to inflation, you see, or maybe you don't. How can anyone today be convinced there is too much money? It's like saying we have too many bullets for the number of enemy.

But the monetary generals have studied this issue in depth, and the answer is a bit more complex than that. Inflation is a modern scourge. It is a foe that must always be watched. And to the Fed, the time to do so is now.

This of course suggests some belt-tightening, and is even encouraging some fifth columnists to pronounce the onset of a period of relative austerity, perhaps even recession. It wouldn't be the first time we have been led into recession.

The Fed's generalship has long been under fire by its critics who, among other things, maintain that any need for a pullback in the money supply at this time is primarily a consequence of the Fed's earlier mismanagement.

It is more the excesses of the Fed, they claim, than the excesses of the economy itself. They cite the realities: high unemployment, unused industrial capacity, capital-raising problems. All are hurt by a pullback.

The generals of fiscal policy also are being barraged by criticism, mainly because of budget deficits and a belief by some congressional officers that incendiary socio-economic problems are cooled by spraying them with money.

A feeling also exists, if you can judge from the dispatches by correspondents close to the fiscal battle, that uncertainty, procrastination and sometimes equivocation can be detected in those leading the fight for economic peace.

Some captains of industry, for instance, maintain that government officials involved with economic strategy are more concerned with appeasing than fighting foreign competition, which they say is flooding the United States with below-cost goods.

One of the most visible measures of this public displeasure with monetary and fiscal leadership is the stock market, where some big investors have almost ceased activity. That is the market's most severe criticism.

Reflecting this mood, the most popular indicator, the Dow Jones average of 30 blue chip industrial stocks, fell this week to its lowest level in almost two years, even though some sources claim many stocks are greatly undervalued.

Stocks cannot tolerate high interest rates because the latter not only raise production costs but drain away investment funds into higher paying debt issues, such as bonds.

But in every battle, it is said, there is hope; otherwise, why fight? The U.S.

Squid Considered Good Protein Source

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although the squid isn't the favorite dish of many Americans, it is considered a delicacy in many parts of the world.

Dr. Paul Singh of the University of California says Italians, Greeks, Spaniards, Portuguese, Chinese, Japanese, and South Americans have feasted on the economic condition is not as severely threatened by high interest rates as it might be, some observers say. Corporations and some consumers have wisely taken care of their financing needs for months to come, it is said, and thus won't have to borrow at the anticipated higher rates.

While to some degree this is so, few families ever pile up enough savings to cover the price of a house. They must borrow. High interest rates therefore could seriously weaken the home front, and even deny buyers the needed funds.

Battle-scarred veterans of previous monetary and fiscal battles maintain the situation these days is nothing new and that, in fact, we have faced the same dilemmas several times in the past decade.

The Fed, they say, has seldom been able to keep the money supply equated with the economy's growing needs. And the fiscal generals seldom have been able to maintain equilibrium between money taken in and money handed out.

Though weary and wary, they nevertheless have been sending communique after communique urging patience and confidence, but those receiving the messages seem to be saying that words cannot substitute for action in the war against inflation.

Oil Industry Tabbed As Villain

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — In order to wage the moral equivalent of war, you need the moral equivalent of an enemy. Without villains, there's no way to keep score.

So President Carter has fixed his sights for the new phase of his energy campaign, zeroing in on the oil industry he accuses of plotting history's biggest rip-off.

The issue may not be quite that simple, and the tactic may not gain congressional approval of the legislation he wants. But at least it will be more colorful now that he's settled on somebody to campaign against.

As is the case in time of war, there is potential war profiteering in the impending energy crisis, Carter said last Thursday. "This could develop with the passing months as the biggest ripoff in history."

He went on to suggest that only the enactment of his energy program will insure the American consumer against robbery by the oil and gas companies.

And that was just for openers in a campaign Carter said will take most of his time during the next few weeks. He'll be pushing his energy plan during a five-state swing later this month. Vice President Walter F. Mondale and Cabinet members are to be deployed to push the administration's energy cause.

The White House plans to summon political and business leaders to a series of energy conferences, hoping that kind of persuasion will put pressure on members of Congress — especially the balking Senate — to vote for the Carter package.

One White House aide said there are more than a few people in policy and image-making positions who would like nothing better than to take on the oil industry with tough talk and tougher programs.

They've been cautious so far, lest they get ahead of the President on the issue. Now Carter is ahead of them, speaking more harshly than his speechwriters would have dared propose.

Carter's real problem is in the Senate, which has stripped away the key elements of the energy program the House approved. His energy price and tax proposals are in grave trouble.

Carter used to blame the Senate, suggesting at one point that it was too responsive to lobbyists, and warning that it should look after its own reputation. Then he blamed lobbyists for all the trouble.

But none of that had the political punch of his slap at the industry itself. Furthermore, his challenges to Congress tended to make congressmen angry, which was counterproductive.

So in the new campaign, he speaks kindly of the people who will be voting on his energy bills. According to Carter, even his Senate opponents are working long and hard to come up with an acceptable energy package.

Carter will take part of the blame for past failures, and the American people will have to share it because they waste too much energy.

Nor is the whole problem the fault of the oil companies. Just enough of it to make them the prime administration target.

It's all there in the campaign textbook. Franklin D. Roosevelt denounced the "economic royalists" as he accepted his second presidential nomination. Theodore Roosevelt said that "malefactors of great wealth" were partially responsible for panic on Wall Street 70 years ago.

The candidate who declares in the springtime that he campaigns for his own programs, not against anybody else, often winds up denouncing his opponent in the fall.

When the crunch comes, it helps to have a target. And for Carter the crunch is approaching on energy, the crucial program of his first year in the White House.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

Quitters Never Win?

QUITE A NUMBER of state employees, including two on the staff of Sen. Peyton McKnight and the new chairman of the State Insurance Board, temporarily "retired" in August.

After collecting thousands of dollars in accrued sick leave and vacation pay, they went right back on the state payroll.

All were taking legal, albeit questionable, advantage of an over-generous fringe benefit package that taxpayers have endured in silence for far too long.

This one tantalizing loophole has been closed, but the whole sick leave-vacation-paid holiday policy needs to be tightened.

IN THE CASE of Hugh Yantis, who retired on Aug. 31 as director of the Texas Water Quality Board after his job was merged with another, he was appointed two days later to the Insurance Board post.

In the meantime, Yantis had taken a lump sum payment of $11,256, before taxes, for his accumulated sick leave and vacation time, according to news service reports.

His public information officer at the water board also quit his job, collected $2,691, then followed his old boss into the public information job at the Insurance Board.

One of Sen. McKnight's assistants collected $5,923 and the other took $3,384 in lump sum payments when they "quit" in August only to be rehired in October.

MCKNIGHT, WHO often talks about government extravagance and has his eye on higher office, said the two employees worked as private citizens on a "Peyton McKnight Day" in Tyler on Oct. 4.

Of their windfall acceptance of accrued benefits, he said "if it is something they are entitled to under the law, I am not going to quarrel with it."

Aye, there's the rub. The law needs to be changed—and the senate is one of two houses of the Legislature where the changes can be made.

In fact, it was because the Legislature changed the law this year to put an end to such lump sum payments that, according to Austin sources, many of the more than 3,100 employees who left their jobs in August did so. They collected $2.5 million in such payments.

STILL ON THE books are vacation, sick leave and holiday policies, however, that need to be shortened.

Instead of correcting the over-generosity of such fringe benefits as much as it should, however, the Legislature this year improved them by, for example, voting to pay the employees' share of Social Security taxes next year.

Sen. McKnight is our candidate for leading the fight to correct—and that means to reduce—these fringe benefit policies in the next Legislature.

James J. Kilpatrick:

Notes From A Traveling Man

LOS ANGELES—If the innkeepers of this country are listening, may the traveling man speak up?

All that a traveling man really wants on the road is a tender loving care, and it seems to be hard to come by.

The operative word is "care." Those of us who spend much of our lives at the mercy of desk clerks want someone to care if we are comfortable.

We want someone, somewhere in the hostelry, to care a whole lot.

Here and there one encounters the old TLC, but the here-and-there get fewer all the time.

A WANDERING journalist spent a couple of nights recently at the airport inn in Lincoln, Neb. Most inns owned by this particular company earn a rating of fair to good, but this one was having its problems.

The courtesy car had broken down three days before and no backup car had been provided.

The carpets, bedspreads and draperies had been chosen to achieve the most nauseous possible clash of colors.

The restaurant vended a piece of meat, uncertainly labeled, a filet mignon, that had not passed within two feet of the tenderloin.

It was not a happy stay.

The journalist wandered on to Las Vegas, where a vastly more dismal experience awaited him. This one was in Las Vegas and if a conservative moral may be drawn from the tale, it is this: Beware of bigness.

This particular one has some 2,000 rooms now and is about to add 600 more.

Don't say you weren't warned.

AN INDIFFERENT, unsmiling desk clerk assigned the visitor to a room that was said to be vacant and made up. Alas, it was not so.

By sheer luck, the newcomer did not intrude upon guests in bed or in the bathroom, but their clothes were scattered about and he retreated in confusion.

The second assignment was to a room manifestly too small.

The third assignment appeared to be satisfactory, and the journalist settled down to watch a football game on TV. The TV was not working that day.

It was at this point that the matter of caring—simple caring—began to assume importance. For it was evident that no one in this magnificent edifice cared a whit whether the guest had a working TV set, or not. A repair man might or might not drop by during the afternoon. No spare set would be shifted. Ho-hum.

An exiled grand duke, having been graduated cum laude from Haightness-School and made an assistant manager, was a model of coolth.

He offered still a fourth room, to which the journalist transported his baggage. It was now 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The fourth room was still a shambles, no one having troubled to clean it up.

THE BUFFETED journalist, worn down by the strain upon his adrenals, accepted yet a fifth room assignment. Here the TV set worked! And the sheets on the bed were dirty. There the journalist reposed, breathing purple maledictions upon the inn's very name.

This traveler wandered on to Los Angeles, seeking success in a hostelry that at one time ranked among the great establishments of the West. Alas, its $66 room came equipped with a three-legged luggage bench and a shabby chair.

So it goes.

What is lacking in too many hotels and motels is an elementary sense of concern—a sense of caring, really caring, about the needs of the traveling man.

Confirmed reservations have a way of getting rudely unconfirmed when a hotel has over-booked.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Kenneth May

Desert, Anyone?

WASTEFULNESS by the American public has caused the energy crisis and the oil companies are potential war profiteers in his "moral equivalent of war" fight to end the crisis, President Carter alleges.

In other words, we the people are draft dodgers in his war and the oil companies are deserters. Which makes all of us eligible for one of the President's amnesty programs.

Except for a special act of Congress, thousands of federal employees would have gotten paychecks this week only half as big as usual. It takes a special act of self-control not to observe that, for many of them, that would have made their pay about right.

MORE THAN 3,100 state employees quit their jobs in August, collected $2.5 million in built up "sick leave" and vacation pay and then—many of them—took their old jobs or new state jobs back, the AP reports.

Public employees at every level of government have been given sick leave, vacation and holiday packages which amount to a rip-off of the taxpayer.

From the Quote Wrack: "I don't even know what socialism is any more."—UN Ambassador Andrew Young, presumptuously saying the United States will support any government in the Caribbean which "feeds the people."

Holmes Alexander:

Is It Gonna Be Them Or Us?

WASHINGTON—If there were an Oscar award for International Idiocy, it would go by common consent of many good Americans to President Carter's director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, Paul Warnke.

I offer in evidence Warnke's statement of how the United States should react now that we are certain that the USSR has for years operated on the policy that a nuclear war is just like any other war—it can be won, it can be lost.

To this policy statement, Warnke has responded.

"IN MY VIEW this kind of thinking is on a level of abstraction which is unrealistic."

"It seems to me that instead of talking in those terms, we should indulge what I regard as the primitive aspects of Soviet nuclear doctrine, we ought to be trying to educate them into the real world of nuclear weapons, which is that nobody could possibly win."

The appalling part of this viewpoint is that of passivity, of patient forbearance, even condescension. It runs the whole gamut of USA-USSR relations.

If Warnke's appraisal of the world situation is a valid one, we should look down upon the Russian leaders as impractical persons who can only think in generalities, and a lesser race of men as we once looked upon the Indians, whom we have a white man's duty "to educate."

IN WARNKE'S OWN field, let us say, we should "educate" Russian scientists and marshals to believe that history is bunk.

It was not two claps of atomic thunder which ended World War II and held down American casualties.

Today, the explosives are a stage greater, nuclear instead of atomic, and the side which uses such weaponry ruthlessly is going to inflict un-speakable damage on its targets.

"To educate," meaning to impart such knowledge, however, is not what Warnke has in mind. He obviously means "to deceive," or to propagandize, the Russians into believing the theory once known as "two scorpions in a bottle."

Two nuclear powers would sting one another to death. This what Warnke means by a nuclear war "that nobody could possibly win."

One good and wise American Prof. Richard Pipes of Harvard, was so shaken by Warnke's testimony of faith in America's duty to teach the Russians about the vast nuclear arsenal and war machine they have built that he asks this:

"On what grounds does he, a Washington lawyer, presume to 'educate' the Soviet General Staff composed of professional soldiers who 30 years ago defeated the Wehrmacht...why does he

WHILE THE President's approach to the energy crisis is a negative one, there is a degree of truth in his allegation that Americans are wastefully extravagant in the way they burn fuel.

For example, did you ever stop to think about how much gasoline is used each day by people just driving to lunch?

In Lubbock alone, there must be at least 20,000 cars taking people from where they work to where they want to eat.

Let's see now, if they average only one gallon each at 57 cents a gallon, that's $11,400 a day.

In cities like Dallas and Houston, the amount of fuel burned up going to lunch would stagger the imagination.

Maybe our national energy policy should be focused on moving the restaurants instead of the people...

Duane Howell, returning from merry old England the other day, was on a British plane that was stacked up in traffic over New York for nearly an hour before—low on fuel—it flew on to Philadelphia, refueled and returned to New York.

Think of the fuel that's wasted every day by dozens of airliners circling each of several major airports practically around the clock...

It took the U.S. and Panama 14 years to agree on what to agree to in a new Panama Canal treaty. From the looks of things, it'll take another 14 years to agree on what they agreed to when they agreed.

BURNIS HENDERSON, bless her, has revived efforts to make Lubbock a little more attractive for all of us.

She wants "large vehicles" banned from parking in the front yards and streets of residential areas.

An earlier attempt to get travel trailers and other recreational vehicles out of sight was tabled a year or so ago by the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Mrs. Henderson wants any vehicle that requires a commercial drivers license to be covered by the parking prohibition.

ANOTHER APPROACH would be to ban any vehicle over a certain size from front-yard driveways and curbside parking, forcing owners to keep them in their back yards if they want to garage them at home.

Neither approach would affect pickup trucks which have campers on them, but each approach would have loopholes for certain types of vehicles which many neighbors find offensive.

One thing is certain: A neighborhood's appearance is spoiled by recreational vehicles which sit in the driveway week after week, month after month.

Maybe Mrs. Jerry Henderson can gather enough support to get some action where others have failed.

consider them children...why does he chastise...?

The controlled society of the USSR has for 20 years been drilling its docile population to evacuate cities to dig underground shelters and to work in subterranean factories.

If Warnke and other Carter policymakers have their way, the Americans will be prepared for World War III by cutting big weapons from the military budget and going their merry way on the theory that, at long last, war between major eneemies has been dissolved into harmless meetings at Geneva, the symbol-city of world peace.

What Americans ought to be learning is a wisdom far older than the nuclear science. It was enunciated by many ancients, and fairly recently by the philosopher Clausewitz.

This enduring knowledge simply says that war is a continuation of international politics. It is the ceaseless desire among nations to be Number One. If we have lost that desire, we have lost everything.

Quick-Fix Won't Fix Social Security Ills

ONE IDEA PILED on top of another for solving Social Security's financing ills has been highlighted in the headlines of recent months.

Some have been full-blown blueprints to take us from now through the next 75 years; others have called for merely a "quick-fix" payroll tax hike with solution of the long-range problems deferred for study.

Still others have been ingenious suggestions for putting the funds in better shape without raising taxes and risking damage to the economy.

Prospects for congressional action on the proposals have waxed and waned, lit up and dimmed, all through this session. Now, as adjournment nears, both houses of Congress are working to beat the deadline.

The job isn't easy.

OVER DECADES OF amendments, the Social Security law has become exceedingly complex, although the basic concept of Social Security remains simple.

During your working years, you pay Social Security taxes—a percentage of earnings into trust funds.

Then, in retirement, or in case of death or disability, payments are made from the funds to you, the worker and your dependents, or to your survivors.

The trust funds are not like a savings bank, with paid in dollars held for you and returned on retirement with interest added.

That kind of arrangement would require so huge a buildup of funds that the whole economy would be dislocated.

Instead, taxes are intended to bring in each year funds to pay benefits to those now on benefit rolls and to create just enough reserves to take care of contingencies. In effect, it's pay-as-you-go.

COLLECTION OF SS taxes began in January 1937, with the first monthly benefits paid in January 1940. For more than 40 years, the SS program has been self-supporting.

In almost every year until 1975, the system collected more than it paid out in benefits. The excess was invested in the interest-bearing U.S. securities and the interest was added to the trust funds—separate funds maintained in the U.S. Treasury.

At 1974's close, $45.9 billion had been accumulated in the two cash benefit trust funds.

BUT SINCE 1974, unemployment side by side with inflation has wiped out $4.7 billion in SS reserves. In '77 again, the system will go $6.6 billion in the red, slashing reserves to $35.6 billion.

Part of the shrinkage in reserves is due to lost SS taxes that would otherwise have been collected had jobs and underemployed workers been getting paychecks.

Part is due to galloping inflation and benefits to the 33 million on the rolls are automatically hiked to keep up with the cost of living.

Every 1 per cent increase in the inflation rate swells the annual benefit payout by about $666 million.

In addition, all benefit payments in the future will be permanently higher because of past inflation and because the interest earnings lost by the trust funds due to shrunken reserves cannot be regained.

HAD THE JOBLESS rate—now above 7 per cent—risen to no more than 5 per cent, a Social Security Administration study shows, the cash benefits trust funds would have grown by $25 billion between '75 and '81, instead of dwindling!

If nothing is done about replenishing these trust funds, reserves in the disability insurance trust fund will wash out in 1979.

The much older, larger Old-age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund will exhaust its reserves by 1983.

In the meantime, however, the contingency reserves in those funds are serving the purpose for which they were intended—to carry the program through temporary periods when income sinks below outgo.

NEVERTHELESS, IT is indisputable that the sooner balance is restored, the easier it will be to rebuild the reserves.

Each report about a deficit in the funds shakes the faith of younger workers in the program's payoff for them.

Each report erodes the sense of security among the elderly—and undermines the "psychic income" that has accompanied each monthly benefit check.

Tomorrow: Solutions to the problems.

MY ANSWER

By BILLY GRAHAM

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I know we are supposed to love people, but I find it very difficult to love certain people who are just too obnoxious. Surely there must be a limit to love, don't you think? — W. T.

DEAR W. T.: Yes, I know it is difficult to love some people. In fact, humanly speaking, it is often almost impossible. But let me suggest two things to help us grow in our love.

In the first place, realize that there were no limits to God's love. The world is in rebellion against God, and from a human standpoint there is no reason why God should not simply wipe us off the face of the earth. But God loves us anyway. God loves the very person we find so obnoxious, just as much as He loves us. The Apostle Paul said, "Very rarely will anyone die for a righteous man, though for a good man someone might possibly dare to die. But God demonstrates his love for us in this: While we were yet sinners, Christ died for us" (Romans 5:7-8).

New International Version). He also said, "Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ" (Philippians 2:5).

The other thing I suggest you do is pray that God will give you love for other people, and that He will give you opportunities to express that love. After all, love is fruit of the Holy Spirit's work within us. We do not have enough love within ourselves; only God can give us true love. Often I have found in dealing with people that I can really begin to love them only when I begin to understand their problems. On the surface they are very unattractive, but the more we deal with them the more we come to see that God loves them also, and He alone can meet their deepest needs.

I suggest you study the four Gospels and particularly look at how Jesus loved people, many of whom were unattractive or even outcasts. But He loved them all, and calls us to do likewise if we are His disciples.

Lawyer For Joan Little Says Allegations Probed

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The attorney for Joan Little, who escaped from her campus-like prison dormitory, says authorities had been investigating several allegations against her since last month.

Miss Little, who would have been eligible for parole next month from a seven-to-10-year sentence for burglary, is believed to have scaled a fence at the minimum security North Carolina Correction Center for women Saturday. She still was at large early today.

Miss Little, a black, was acquitted in 1975 of murder in the ice pick stabbing death of Beaufort County jailer Clarence Allegood, who was white. She argued that she had acted in self-defense after he sexually assaulted her. The trial drew national attention, and Miss Little became a cause celebre for feminists and civil rights activists.

Her attorney during the trial, Jerry Paul, said Raleigh police had been investigating several possible offenses both in and out of prison, but he declined to say what they were. Police said they were investigating another inmate's allegation that Miss Little had kept the $200 from a money order she had been asked to cash.

Miss Little, 22, had been in the prison's work release program with a job as an assistant to a Raleigh dentist. She was suspended from her job privileges and confined briefly last week after prison officials said she did not go to work at least one day when she was out of the prison, returned to the prison late and broke other rules.

Miss Little and her Raleigh attorney, David Best, denied the charges and appealed the work release suspension.

Paul said Miss Little was under pressure both inside and outside the prison because of her notoriety.

"In many ways, the public won't let the woman alone and let her be in peace," he said.

Singer Hit By Pie Says 'It Wasn't Fun'

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Uniformed policemen carefully checked media credentials over the weekend as Anita Bryant held a news conference a day after an assailant, who claimed he was a homosexual, plastered her with a fruit pie.

The singer, who has crusaded against laws which prohibit discrimination against homosexuals, was less than cheerful about the pie-throwing incident.

"It wasn't fun," she said, adding that the media in Des Moines, Iowa, where the incident occurred Friday, was apologetic.

"There are days when I wonder if it's worth it all. I'm just as chicken as anybody else. I would like to take care of just my own family and not be involved in this messy business," she said.

Body Of Crosby Flown To U.S.

By The Associated Press

The body of Bing Crosby was being flown home today in a dark brown coffin topped by a crucifix as fans, friends and family said prayers for him in memorial services on two continents.

Crosby's 19-year-old son Harry accompanied the casket on the commercial flight from Madrid, Spain, where the singer died Friday of a heart attack after a winning round of golf, his favorite pastime.

Crosby listed his age as 73, but baptismal records put it at 74.

After a stop in New York, the body was to be taken to Los Angeles for a funeral Tuesday with only family and close friends invited.

At New York's St. Patrick's Cathedral, Terence Cardinal Cooke planned to offer a Mass of the Resurrection today for the entertainer, a devout Roman Catholic.

A Mass was held Sunday at London's Westminster Cathedral, attended by 2,000 people. Canon Oliver Kelly called Crosby "a gentle soul who gave such pleasure with unaffected modesty to so many" and recalled that the singer attended mass there two weeks ago while in London for performances at the Palladium.

And in Hillsborough, Calif., where Crosby lived with his second wife, Kathryn, and their three children, his fellow parishioners at Our Lady of Angels Church remembered him with a prayer Sunday.

"Above all things he was a Christian man that never lost sight of God even though he was among the stars," the Rev. Gerald Barron reminded the early-morning congregation of 150.

Crosby's widow attended the Mass with son Nathaniel, 15, and daughter Mary Frances, 17, and said afterward in a telephone interview that the service was "very meaningful to the children and me."

Father Barron said Mrs. Crosby had asked that a special Mass also be said in Hillsborough on Tuesday.

In Madrid, Harry Crosby, who had flown to Spain on Saturday, was accompanied to the airport for his mission home by a group of American and Spanish friends and U.S. Embassy and Consular officials.

Also shipped home were the golf clubs Crosby used in the final match. He collapsed outside the clubhouse of the La Moraleja course after playing 18 holes with three Spanish professional golfers.

An autopsy performed during the weekend by Spanish medical authorities backed up the initial diagnosis that Crosby suffered a massive heart attack.

Tuesday's funeral services will be at St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church in Brentwood, a Los Angeles suburb. Crosby will be buried in a family plot at Holy Cross Cemetery near his parents and first wife, Dixie Lee, who died of cancer in 1952.

"He wanted only the children and myself," Kathryn Crosby said. "But I think there are those who worshipped him for 40 years who have a right to be there."

Mauri Foldars, Crosby's press agent, said several of Crosby's office employees would be invited, in addition to his four sons from his first marriage, his brother and his sister.

Sales Tax Returned To Lubbock

In keeping with generally higher city sales tax rebates across the state this month, the City of Lubbock will receive $471,325, compared to $185,020 for the same period last year.

Total rebates for 1977 here to date are $5,419,410, a gain of 22 percent over the $4,435,531 paid up to the same time in 1976.

The increase follows a general trend in which rebates to all Texas municipalities are 20.8 percent higher than last year, according to State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

He said cities that have the optional one-percent sales tax received $286.5 million to date this year, compared to $238.8 million for the same period last year.

"This is a pretty good indicator of the strength of the Texas economy, and from an economic standpoint, things couldn't look better for the state," Bullock said.

Checks totaling $24.8 million were mailed to the 880 Texas cities that have the sales tax. Houston received the largest amount, $5.3 million.

DR. LAMB

Limited Blockage Not Bad

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB—My husband had a heart bypass operation. They told us one artery was completely blocked, two were partially blocked. They only did the one artery that was completely blocked and never explained why they didn't do all three. Also I would like to know if there is cholesterol in veal liver?

DEAR READER—A limited amount of obstruction of an artery does not decrease the blood flow through it. As long as 70 per cent of the opening is still there the fatty cholesterol deposits won't make that much difference. There is a critical level of blockage that starts causing problems. The doctors probably felt on the basis of what they could see at the operation that a bypass around the partially blocked arteries would not significantly improve your husband's circulation to the heart.

You can improve his condition though by helping him eliminate or avoid obesity and having him on the proper diet. If he smokes he should stop. The success of many bypass operations depends on what kind of program a person follows after surgery. If the person persists in eating the wrong foods, being obese and smoking, the end result is not so good.

Yes, veal liver contains cholesterol, about 300 milligrams in a 100 gram (three-and-a-half ounce) portion of raw liver. That small serving alone will take up all the allowed cholesterol for the whole diet for one day. All forms of liver are moderately high in cholesterol content.

To help you with a diet plan I am sending you the Health Letter number 1-3, Diet, Preventing Atherosclerosis. It will give you the general principles you need to follow. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y., 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am 26 years old but the growth of hair on my chest is very scarce. There is more hair on the right half of my chest than on the left. Is there some way that more hair will develop on my left side or on my upper chest as a whole? Is there a chemical imbalance that may create this problem? Would cutting or shaving the hair I have create more?

The hair growth in other areas is adequate although not in large quantities even in the pubic region. I hope you can give me some advice to help.

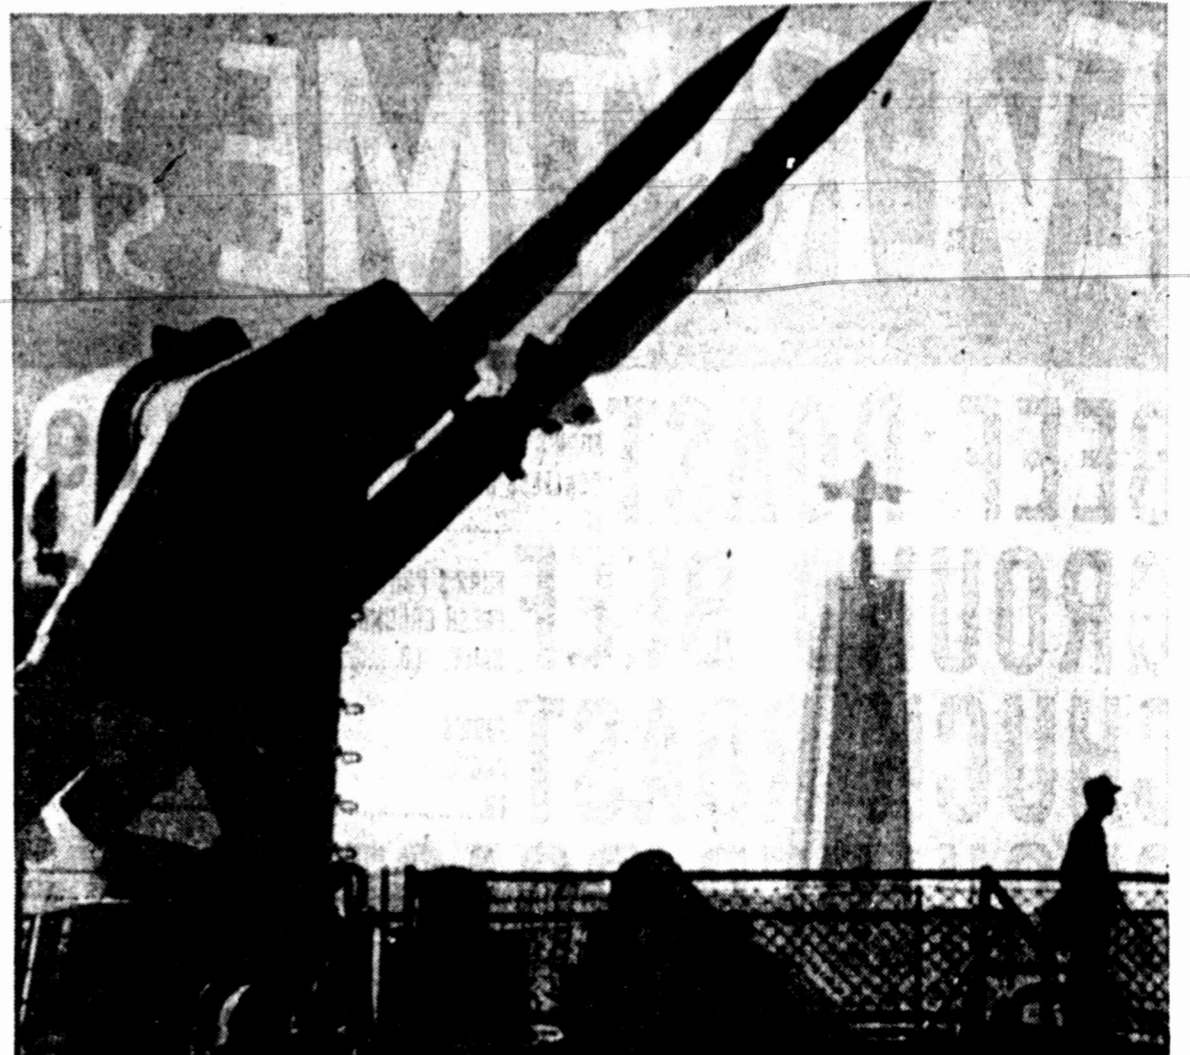

DEAR READER—The best advice I can give you is to forget about it. I suspect your friends don't even notice it.

Before you have hair on the body you have to have hair follicles. It is an inherited characteristic for some people to have fewer follicles than others.

A normal male in all respects may have little hair on the body. Some rare males are born with no significant amounts of hair anywhere, so hormones are not the answer.

Shaving your sparse hair will not help. It might cause your skin to itch but that is about all. What hair there is may be shorter and stiffer like a stubble but when it grows out it will be the same. Cutting hair does not affect its growth despite the old idea that it stimulates growth. I presume you have an adequate amount of hair on your head. Be glad you have it there rather than on your body.

Armed Bandits Kidnap Elephant

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Armed bandits have kidnaped the employe of an American company and are holding their victim for $1,500 in ransom in the southern Thai jungles, police sources said today.

The six-ton elephant — probably the world's largest kidnap victim — was used by Munford Inc. of Atlanta to haul rattan until the beast was abducted at gunpoint almost two weeks ago, the sources said.

According to still fragmentary reports, the elephant was used to pack rattan from the jungle to roads for transport to Bangkok, where it was used in making furniture.

Using an elephant in the rattan business is new, although Thais work hundreds of trained elephants, mostly in moving teak logs and other timber in the jungles.

The kidnaped beast, police said, was bought two months ago for $3,000. The company reportedly owns other elephants, but the kidnaped pachyderm is the largest.

The bandits, according to reports reaching Bangkok, chased off a security guard at a jungle camp owned by the firm and made off with the animal.

The camp was in Chumphol Province, 240 miles south of Bangkok. The province borders on Burma.

Police believe the elephant was taken to Burma, and Bangkok newspaper reports indicated the Burmese police have been alerted.

News reports quoted a company spokesman at Munford headquarters as saying Burmese police have promised to have the elephant back within days.

The reports said Burmese police claimed to know the members of the kidnap gang and were prepared to attack the jungle-based bandits if they refused to hand over the elephant.

No official complaint has been filed with Thai police, sources said, but officers said they have made themselves familiar with the case from other reports.

Little Lamb Gave Turkeys A Boost

CHICAGO (AP) — America's $501 million-a-year turkey industry has much to give thanks for in poetess Sarah Josepha Hale (1788-1879), a prominent magazine editor in the United States during the 1800s and author of the children's poem, "Mary Had a Little Lamb."

Mrs. Hale — who, as editor of "Godey's Lady's Book," helped shape the tastes of thousands of women in this country — is credited with persuading President Abraham Lincoln to declare Thanksgiving a national holiday, according to the World Book Encyclopedia.

After Lincoln's proclamation in 1863, which called for the last Thursday in November to be "a day of thanksgiving and praise..." each president, until 1938, declared that Thanksgiving be celebrated on the last Thursday in November. President Roosevelt made it one week earlier to help Christmas business. Finally in 1941, the fourth Thursday of November was declared Thanksgiving Day.

History Professor Makes Acting Debut

NEW YORK (AP) — Professor John Kouwenhoven gets that rare chance — to step back into time and "live" the history he once taught — thanks to the magic of television make-believe.

Dr. Kouwenhoven, professor emeritus of Barnard College, and an expert on American cultural history, was asked to serve as an advisor on the new fall television series of the Public Broadcasting Service, "The Best of Families."

Following the show's progress in person over a period of two years, he helped the producers at the Children's Television Workshop authenticate vital details of the 1880-1900 era treated in the dramatic series. The producers, in turn, drafted him as an actor. It's not a big role, but he will play a preacher in a brief but poignant scene at an 1883 wedding.

"My acting debut was kind of a joke," he laughs. "I think that Ethel Winant, the series' executive producer, thought that I had been hanging around the set for so long that it would be fun to get my face into the show like Hitchcock does in his movies. I play a minister and my line is predictable. 'Who giveth this woman to marry this man?'"

Carter Steps On Toes Of Nation's Industries

NEW YORK (AP) — In one momentous day President Carter got the steel companies off his back, and then stepped on the toes of that other symbol of industrial might, the nation's oil producers.

And in doing so he sent a shiver through all private enterprise, which has been campaigning for its very life against the mistaken notion that everything it takes in somehow swells the bank accounts of a favored few.

Some $50 billion, he said, would "go into the pockets of the oil companies themselves" if Congress rejected his program to continue regulating oil and gas prices.

But later the President's figures were shown to be quite literally in gross exaggeration. The President, it appears, made the same error so many others also make: He confused gross revenues with net income.

The truth is that petroleum and coal product companies, according to the President's own economic report to Congress this year, took in as profit during 1976 only eight cents or so for every dollar of sales.

Those profits went not to a few but to millions of investors. All the rest of revenues went for salaries, taxes, investment in facilities, transportation and general overhead.

No matter what their feelings about oil, therefore, there is consternation in the business community today because, in total contradiction of their efforts, they have been set apart from the total community. It is "them" against "we the people."

President John F. Kennedy did something of the sort back in 1962 when, after feeling he was double-crossed through a price increase by U.S. Steel chairman Roger Blough, he referred to his father's warning that businessmen are SOB's.

But there is a vast difference between Kennedy and Carter. Kennedy's remark was spontaneous; Carter's was calculated. Kennedy's remark was an eruption of hot emotion; Carter's considered remarks cut like cold steel.

What Carter said was the very thing that businessmen hoped they wouldn't hear from a President. They are fully aware of the impact of a president's remarks. "If he said it, it must be true." Or so some people will say.

The impact, therefore, is difficult to dispel. It is one thing to counter general misimpressions, even though much of the business community feels it is failing to do so, but another to take on a President.

The Business Roundtable, made up of the nation's top corporate chief executives, can advertise in the Reader's Digest for an entire year about the role of profits in creating jobs, and still achieve only limited success.

A few phrases from a President, particularly when the words used are "ripoff" and "profiteering" and "into the pockets" tends to undo all those efforts.

Food Fair Lacks U.S.

Exhibition

By BERNARD BRENNER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Well, Mr. President, it's this way.

The reason your Department of Agriculture didn't sponsor an American display at a big international food fair in Germany last summer is that trade experts decided they could get more sales promotion for their government dollar in other kinds of exhibitions.

The issue arose recently when Carter met with members of the Newspaper Farm Editors of America. Michael Carr, farm editor of the Decatur, Ill., newspaper and president of the group, reported that Illinois leaders had complained about the lack of national representation at the German fair.

A two-man agriculture team sent to promote Illinois farm product sales in Europe stopped at the fair, Carr said, and reported they found that the United States was about the only major nation which did not have a national display.

"... And they thought that was, in the eyes of many of these nations, a loss of face in some way," Carr noted.

"Do you think we ought to have a unified effort like that?" he asked.

"Yes, I do," replied Carter, scriawling a quick penciled note to himself on a pad.

"And I would just about guarantee you that the next time such an occasion arises, we will have a display there," he said.

Carter said he had not known about the failure to have an exhibit at the fair held in Cologne.

"I will contact (Secretary of Agriculture) Bob Bergland this afternoon and find out why we didn't," he promised.

The answer came to Bergland from Thomas R. Hughes, recently-appointed administrator of the Foreign Agricultural Service.

Hughes said the Cologne fair is one of a number of big international food exhibitions in which government sales promotion agencies participated heavily in earlier years. The Agriculture Department had an exhibit at every one of the Cologne fairs from 1955 through 1971, he said.

More recently, however, the official said that American farm commodity organizations promoting overseas sales have become less dependent on trade shows. And foreign buyers began showing more interest in building up direct commercial contacts with Americans than in going to "taste and see" exhibits.

As a result, Hughes said, the Agriculture Department shifted its emphasis to programs aimed only at foreign traders.

"Currently, our major trade efforts take place in the ballrooms of leading hotels (abroad) ... We are able to invite those traders with an interest in the products being shown and conduct a modest public relations program with total costs for the shows running about $25,000 to $40,000," he explained.

In contrast, the cost of operating a 10,000 square foot exhibit at the Cologne ANUGA fair would range from $200,000 to $250,000, he said.

"Based upon our experience ... we are very much of the opinion that such an amount of money will result in a greater amount of sales if expended on trade-only shows," Hughes added.

Because of these factors, Hughes said the Foreign Agricultural Service has cut its participation in big international food fairs to about two such shows a year.

The official said records indicate that in 1965, the service spent $215,583 for an exhibit at the Cologne fair and $235,410 for an exhibit at a similar fair in Brussels.

The two fairs led to estimated American farm product sales of about $3.4 million during the succeeding year.

In contrast, Hughes said the government sent $41,988 to conduct a trade-only meat and poultry exhibit in Tokyo in October, 1976. Sales resulting from the promotion over the succeeding year were estimated at $40 million, he said.

Doctor Helps Cancer Victims Adapt To Life

By CLARENCE M. ZAITZ
LA JOLLA, Calif. (UPI) — A cancer specialist says families and friends too often remind cancer patients, though unintentionally, that they are living on borrowed time.

He also says too much coddling and catering to a cancer patient can undermine the patient's self respect and destroy his will to live.

"There's a big difference," says Dr. Theodore Bernstein, "between learning to live with cancer and learning to die of it."

Bernstein, on the staff of Scripps Clinic and Research Foundation's Green Hospital here, has worked with cancer patients for 15 years.

His "living with cancer" philosophy, the doctor says, "makes things easier — but never easy."

Unfortunately, Bernstein says, "cancer forced to pronounce their condition terminal.

"While it may be well intentioned, the emphasis friends and family members put on a cancer patient's living life to its fullest measure often does little but remind the patient of the epilogue... for tomorrow you die."

that preserves a sense of order in which everything and everyone does not become secondary to the possibility, or even probability, of death."

Despite the sophisticated diagnostic facilities and advanced therapies available at Scripps, Bernstein said "we cannot accurately predict who will respond to a given therapy and who will not. We can recite treatment statistics — but that's a numbers game. Every patient is a series of one case."

Doctors find it difficult to treat patients who adopt this perspective because they become self-centered, irascible and difficult to treat and difficult to live with, Bernstein said.

What's needed, he says, is to develop a realistic adjustment. "One that acknowledges the fact of the person's illness but

He said what counts is the patient's willingness to believe he or she may be the one in two or 20 who will survive.

Positive thinking doesn't assure success, the doctor explains, but most physicians agree it's very important to the overall effectiveness of treatment and the value of life.

"We try to teach both the patient and the family how to live with this disease; how to support each other; how to avoid the awful feelings of guilt they often develop," Bernstein said.

Sometimes a spouse will begin to feel guilty because of harboring a desire for time away from the sick partner "time off from the constant demands of being loving and supportive." When this happens, Bernstein explains, the guilt itself can be as destructive as the cancer. Sometimes it pulls the family apart. Often it turns to secret resentment.

"We urge families to work out such feelings by participating in their patient's therapy, both at the hospital and at home," Bernstein said.

Hayakawa Blasts Rights Commission

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. S.I. Hayakawa, R-Calif., says the U.S. Civil Rights Commission is prying into "the private business of book publishing."

"Its intrusion should be halted," he said in a statement last week in which five other Republican senators joined.

They cited an Aug. 17 letter sent by the commission to several textbook publishers saying it was "investigating the nature, extent and impact of textbook biases."

According to the letter, the senators said, the study will be used for a commission report with recommendations to solve the problem of so-called textbook biases.

Hayakawa said the commission is asking textbook publishers to submit the guidelines they give their authors to ensure their texts are not racist or sexist so that it may print a "resource list" containing the information for distribution throughout the country.

"The publishers of America are meekly submitting to the commission their guidelines for producing officially approved books," he said. He predicted "further federal restrictions if textbook publishers do not defend their civil rights against the interference of the Civil Rights Commission."

"The next step will be for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to pressure schools to use only federally sanctioned textbooks," he said. "Otherwise, school districts will lose federal funds. It is only a matter of time."

Interest Revived In Blacksmithing

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's renewed interest in the old craft of blacksmithing, according to the National Geographic Society.

It points out, however, that the emphasis nowadays is on fine craftwork and not on horseshoes.

Pilots, business people, doctors and scientists are among those taking up the challenge of turning a chunk of iron into a thing of beauty, it says. In addition, more universities and art schools are offering courses in blacksmithing, and wrought iron objects are turning up in art galleries.

Air Freight Study Lists Top Cargo

WASHINGTON (AP) — The electronics industry has become the biggest single user of air freight, according to a survey by the Air Transport Association (ATA) on air cargo statistics of U.S.-scheduled airlines.

The ATA said the electronics industry was followed closely by producers of printed matter, machinery parts, cut flowers and wearing apparel.

Suspicious Rise On Mideast Deal

By United Press International
CAIRO, Egypt — Ihsan Abdel Kaddous, a respected Egyptian columnist, believes the two superpowers struck a secret deal in recent negotiations in Washington.

Writing in the magazine October, Kaddous said the Americans, bowing to Russian demands, reversed an earlier decision to supply weapons to Somalia, which is locked in a bitter conflict with the Marxist regime in neighboring Ethiopia.

In return, the Russians backed down from previous insistence that the Palestine Liberation Organization should be represented at the Geneva peace talks, Kaddous wrote.

Even worse, according to Kaddous, in a joint statement issued with the United States Oct. 1, Russia failed to call for total Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab lands, but merely urged withdrawal from "territories occupied" during the 1967 war.

JERUSALEM — Prime Minister Menachem Begin's health is causing concern in Israel and has raised the possibility that he may have to step down.

Doctors have ordered the 64-year-old former guerrilla chief to slow down considerably after his recent 11-day hospital stay, the third in eight months. But they doubt whether Begin would prove a better patient in the future than he had been in the past.

Begin suffered a near-fatal heart attack in March and then was hospitalized in May for pericarditis, an inflammation of the membrane around the heart. His latest relapse occurred at the height of the feverish negotiations to get the Geneva peace conference underway again.

DAMASCUS, Syria — In Syria and other Middle East countries it looks as if the cholera epidemic has passed its peak.

At least 70 deaths were reported in Syria and another 3,000 persons were stricken in the course of less than three months.

Not more than a dozen new cases are reported daily by any country in the area now and it looks like the disease is waning.

But the Moslem pilgrimage to Mecca, known as the Hajj, has yet to reach its peak and up to 3 million Moslems are expected to flock to the holy city this year.

A haunting reminder of the potential for disaster is the Hajj of 1892-93, when a cholera epidemic wiped out 50,000 persons.

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia — Indonesian President Suharto made Saudi Arabia the first stop in a seven-nation Middle East tour which began last week, his first since taking office in 1965.

Saudi Arabia and Indonesia are members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. So are three other countries on Suharto's itinerary — Kuwait, the United Arab Emirates and Qatar. The betting in diplomatic circles is that Suharto's talks covered oil prices, up for review at OPEC's next ministerial meeting in Caracas, Venezuela, in December.

Suharto also was reported to have secured a Saudi loan to help finance a $40 million aluminum plant in Indonesia.

TEL AVIV, Israel — Military sources say they expect a relatively quick renewal of the fighting between Christian rightists and Moslem leftists in southern Lebanon.

Israeli forces pulled out Sept. 26, but Christian leaders say the Moslems are bringing up reinforcements, ammunition and new weapons.

At the time of the cease-fire last month, Israeli leaders said their tanks and infantry would jump back into the fighting if Christian villages along the border are endangered.

BEIRUT, Lebanon — The Lebanese capital is slowly, but surely, reverting to its old form.

For one thing, the bar girls, if not all of the bars, are back.

The glitter of the Middle East's most celebrated fun spot was lost during the two-year nightmare of civil war.

But now — often in the shadow of spectacularly destroyed buildings — bars with names like "Kit-Kat" and "X-Bar" are opening and their populations of foreign girls with bleached hair and tight dresses is tending to foreign and Arab clients, just like the old days.

1978 Auto Sales Show Increase

DETROIT (AP) — Auto industry analysts say it's too early to gauge consumer reaction to the 1978 models, but the first sales figures seem to indicate they are getting a good reception.

The big three U.S. automakers reported the second highest sales ever for the Oct. 1-10 period, the first to reflect 1978-model sales by all four domestic carmakers.

Domestic sales for the period totaled 267,324, compared with 232,186 last year. Based on the daily rate — the industry yardstick for computing sales — this year's 33,416 trails only the 33,781 cars sold each day in early October, 1972.

Ford Motor Co. registered the highest gain — 25.3 per cent over year-ago figures. And the totals reflected only two days of 1978-model sales. Ford's new models went on sale Friday.

Only American Motors Corp., which started selling new models Sept. 19 compared with Oct. 1 last year, was below year-ago figures. Analysts said that's to be expected as buyers shift their attention to the latest model introductions.

Ford's big increase was partly attributed to the fact that a year ago, the No. 2 automaker was in the midst of a nationwide strike by the United Auto Workers. Ford had big stockpiles of autos to draw from at the time, however.

Ford sold 83,165 cars compared with 67,321 last year. A spokesman said more than a million customers had visited showrooms since the new models went on sale.

"This was a good introduction period in what we see as a good model year," said Bennett E. Bidwell, a Ford sales vice president. "There is movement toward the smaller, more fuel-efficient cars."

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. Partner has shown a minimum opening bid with six spades and four hearts—if he had a stronger hand, his first rebid would have been two hearts rather than two spades. You have already made a move toward game; now all you can do is take a preference to partner's first suit.

A.—You cannot tell how good partner's hand is. However, since he did not take preference to either of your suits, he almost surely has a six-card suit. You have a better than minimum opening bid with good controls, and your spade support is adequate in the light of partner's bidding. A raise to three spades is indicated.

What action do you take?

A.—Even though you have a minimum opening bid and East's overcall has made your queen of clubs a doubtful asset, you may never get another chance to safely introduce your diamond suit. Bid two diamonds. Odds are that partner has a fit for one of your suits, or a long, decent spade suit of his own, so the danger of competing on such scant values is not too great.

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West

1♠ Pass 2♥ Pass

3♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Because of the double fit and your controls in both minor suits, your hand has become very powerful and slam is a distinct possibility. You should alert partner to this fact by cue-bidding four clubs.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠5 ♥KJ9643 ○K1072 ♣83

Partner opens the bidding with one no trump. What do you respond?

A.—With your hand, you want to play in a heart game. Therefore, you should simply go ahead and bid four hearts. Don't make the mistake of bidding three hearts. That would show a hand that is slam-oriented or which would accept the alternative contract of three no trump. You are not interested in either of these possibilities.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South with 60 on score you hold:

♠AK73 ♥KQJ105 ♣AQ82

Your right-hand opponent opens the bidding with one heart. What action do you take?

A.—It might seem strange, looking at a hand with 22 points, but we suggest a simple overcall of two diamonds. Obviously, we would not consider this action without the 60 partial. Here, however, we would rule out a double or a cue-bid for two reasons. Because of our spade void, we would not like partner to insist on a contract in that strain, and in view of East's opening bid, it is unlikely that partner has enough to give us reasonable play for slam. Also, we might get a second chance to show our strength if either opponent elects to compete.

Q.7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠AK104 ♥KQ7 ○K5 ♣KQ84

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1♠ Pass 1♠ Pass

A.—Your hand is too strong for a mere one spade rebid. However, a jump to two spades would suggest a more unbalanced hand. Therefore, we recommend the descriptive rebid of two no trump. Partner can always check to see whether we have a spade suit enroute to three no trump if he so desires.

Q.8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AKQJ85 ♥984 ○7 ♣K83

The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North

1♠ Pass 2NT Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Bid three no trump. You are giving partner at least six tricks and he has promised a fair hand with his jump to two no trump. Despite the fact that you are unbalanced, we think that nine tricks might be easier to make than ten. In addition, with partner as declarer, his tenaces will be protected from a possibly damaging lead through.

The Slim Gourmet

By Barbara Gibbons

BY BARBARA GIBBONS
Who says pork is off-limits for the poundage-prone? Once upon a time the porker deserved his pudgy pound-provoking image, but today's pork is bred for leanness. Of course, many pork products are too calorie-laden for weight watchers: spareribs, sausage, bacon, lunchmeats. But lean loin roasts or chops are definitely permitted. Ditto "fresh ham roasts" or lean pork steaks...cut from the leg. Fat-trimmed lean pork from the loin is 857 calories a pound; from the leg, only 667 calories!

ORIENTAL-SEASONED ROAST PORK

lean pork loin roast (about 6 lbs.)
1/4 cup soy sauce
1/2 cup sherry wine (or unweetened pineapple juice)
1 tsp. garlic powder
1 tsp. powdered ground ginger
optional: 1 tsp. MSG

Have the butcher saw across the backbone of the pork loin roast so bone can be removed easily when you carve the roast. Trim and discard as much fat as possible, leaving just a thin covering for insulation. Place the roast fat-side up on a rack in a roasting pan. Insert a meat thermometer in the thickest part. Be sure it does not touch bone. Combine remaining ingredients and spoon over roast. Place the pan in a slow 325-degree oven and roast 2 and 1/4 to three and 1/2 hours, or until the meat thermometer registers 170. Allow about 35 to 40 minutes per pound. Baste with pan juices frequently. Each 4 oz. serving: 220 calories.

BONELESS POLYNESIAN PORK ROAST

Choose a lean pork loin. Have it trimmed of fat and bone, then rolled and tied. Arrange the roast on a rack in a roasting pan. Follow preceding recipe, substituting pineapple juice for the sherry wine. Roast, at 325 degrees, turning and basting frequently, three hours or longer. Insert a meat thermometer to check doneness. Roast is done when interior temperature reaches 170 degrees. Each 4 oz. serving: 220 calories.

BONELESS PORK ROAST, ITALIAN STYLE

pork loin, trimmed of fat and bone.

coarse-ground pepper
garlic powder, oregano, basil or mixed Italian seasonings optional: Tomato Velvet Sauce (recipe below)

Choose a lean pork loin. Have it trimmed of fat and bone, then rolled and tied. (Ask for the bones and fat.) Arrange the roast on a rack in a roasting pan, or skewer in rotisserie oven. Season liberally with onion salt, pepper, garlic and herbs.

Roast in a slow 325-degree oven, turning frequently. Check with meat thermometer; roast is done when interior temperature measures 170 degrees. Each 4 oz. serving of pork: 215 calories.

Don't discard pork bones! Always ask for the bones and fat when ordering a boneless roast. (By asking for the fat, you can see how many calories you've eliminated!) The bones can be used to make stock or broth. Cover the bones with salted water (1 tsp. salt to a quart of water). Simmer 2 to 3 hours. Skim fat. Freeze in pint jars. Pork broth is a delicious addition when making Italian-style tomato sauces. For a quick Italian TOMATO VELVET SAUCE, combine 1 pint pork broth with a 6-oz. can tomato paste. Season with garlic and oregano and simmer until thick. Serve over meat, vegetables or pasta. Serves four, 50 calories each.

McKuen Urges Information, Protection

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the second of four articles on the format of adoptive children and parents.

By ROD MCKUEN
NEW YORK (WNS) — For the record, what most of us want as individuals and as organizations attempting reform is the following:

(1) Those mothers who give their children away should be protected. They should continue to have assurance that this will be so until the child becomes an adult.

(2) Adoptive parents need protection and assurances, too.

Every child growing up has a love-hate relationship with his or her parents; it may only extend to the threat of running away from home when asked to clean up one's room. Nevertheless, adoptive parents do feel threatened — suppose a child had another set of parents to run to, good or bad.

(3) It stands to reason that at some age, probably 18, every adopted child or those children born out of wedlock should have access to their records.

(4) We don't believe information should be general and be given to anyone. Only that child who has become an adult and desires more knowledge of himself or herself. But the knowledge should be as complete and as extensive as possible.

(5) It should be against the law to destroy, tamper with, or give misinformation to the individual involved. The information should not be available to credit agencies, the United States government, or anyone other than that specific individual.

Unless you were born or brought up under anything but ordinary circumstances, it is impossible to understand how much some of us with no parents, one good parent, two bad parents, or even two exceptionally fine adoptive parents, need to know about our origins. Not to know and to be aware that something happened back there is to feel not only unwanted but also incomplete. To know, however painful the knowledge might be, is everything.

If I'd known how difficult reliving my life was going to be, I might not have written "Finding My Father."

It was not that I did not want to open any old wounds. The only wound I had had never healed. Certainly that was the reason I began looking for my father again after having given up the search so many years ago. No matter how medicinal the medicine of success, how comforting it has been to know that I was brought up, taken care of, and really loved by my mother, there was still that gap, which couldn't be filled until I knew something — anything — more about my father and myself.

What a connotation the word "bastard" has — unwanted, unintended, and, in a time when planned parenthood is all the rage, even unnecessary. But I have never looked in the mirror and thought of myself as a mistake nor have I, for a long time now, felt less a human being because of my dubious origins. Whatever my identity problems were, until her death six years ago, my mother was always able to solve them just by being there. She was a friend when I needed one, the truest counsel I ever had, a woman who would do anything to ensure I was brought up in the best way she knew. I never wanted for anything — especially love.

In my mid-teens, I discovered I'd been born out of wedlock. I began to seek information about my father. As I grew older, having looked in so many hundreds of directories and so many thousands of obituary columns, never finding a man who even spelled his name the same way I did, I finally despaired of ever learning who he was.

As my work — composing, writing, and performing — brought me more and more into the public eye, the questions I'd always asked my mother about my father seemed increasingly painful to her so I began to think to myself, "Why not respect her wishes and give up looking?" That was the least I owed her for trying all these years to make me a decent human being.

Even after her death and the terrible void left in my life, I no longer pursued that phantom of a man who may or may not have been named McKuen, who might or might not be still living, who could or could not have known about me and, if so, did or did not care.

Over the years, many stories and interviews have been printed about my origin, most of which I tried to keep from my mother. In that time, I've had perhaps two dozen "fathers" and "relatives" turn up who, once carefully checked, turned out to be pranksters or worse.

Toward the end of 1975 when I began to look again actively, my friends almost immediately began to ask why.

The "why" didn't merely address itself to my reasons for the search, but went on to include — Why expose yourself by bringing up the past? Why risk, by admitting to being a bastard, whatever security or, as some called it, celebrity, you've attained?

What some of my friends didn't know was that all my life I've been looking in obituary columns, telephone books, around corners, hoping to find the man who more than 40 years ago abandoned, was driven off, or didn't know about his expected child.

Every day of every year I've thought about my father, wondered if he were tall or short, intelligent or a man of common sense, beautiful to look at or plain, a criminal or barrister, a teacher or a bum, or a retired gentleman jingling a gold watch in his pocket, the reward of three-score years of faithful service to the same company.

Suppose he needed me? Suppose he were in trouble and I could help? Selfishly, I thought, wouldn't it be something after all these years to be able to help the man who helped to bring me into this world? I needed help too. I wanted to know who I was and what I was. It seems that everybody everywhere I went knew who I was but me.

In November, 1975, I met Dick Carlson, an Emmy Award-winning producer of documentaries. Dick involved me in a television special he was writing about people who were trying to find their relatives. In addition, he put me in touch with a firm of private detectives who would eventually help uncover a whole new world for me.

Because of the bureaucratic walls I ran into trying to open the files of so many years ago, one California senator, William Campbell, asked my help in drafting a new bill that, in California at least, would have made access to personal records a lot easier for the adopted and those who need to know their origins. It got all the way to the governor, only to be vetoed.

Sen. Campbell drafted yet another bill this year. It passed the senate floor in Sacramento as well as the California Assembly. It was referred to as the Rod McKuen Bill. I'm proud of that. I would have been prouder had the bill passed Gov. Brown again defeated it.

I don't believe that bastards are born. I know quite a few and it has taken most of them a great deal of effort to get there. Only liars and con artists are illegitimate. I try hard not to lie or put myself in a position where I have to question my motives. Still, like everyone else, I have my illegitimate days.

I live in California so it's particularly upsetting to me that the governor of this state vetoed two important bills among more than 1,000 that were waiting on his desk for attention during the summer and autumn of 1976.

In the summer he was away conducting a last-minute campaign to become the Democratic nominee for president.

Bill 4200, as proposed by Sen. Bill Campbell and passed by all the California committees of the Senate and Assembly, would have made it possible for an adoptee and a natural parent to meet each other, under supervision, if they both desired to do so. It posed no threat to adoptive parents, but Gov. Brown vetoed the bill because he said, "There is currently a court procedure that takes care of it" — tell this to Jerry Hulse, travel editor of the Los Angeles Times, who almost lost his wife because of the sealed records policy in California.

The "court procedure" in California, like those in most states, provides that you can find out your origins if there is a pressing reason. Presumably, to many judges this means you have to have a bottle of plasma hanging from your arm as you enter the courtroom. One thing is certain: the courts, adoption agencies and even the governor of the state continue to conspire against the Jerry Hulses of the world.

How many wives, like Jody Hulse, have husbands who work for major newspapers or other means for circumventing laws, the inadequacies and inequities, that will not only deprive them of their birthrights, but even kill them in the process? Few, probably.

There is no way of telling how many troubled children grow into troubled adults and, most importantly, do any of us know who we are? Is it any wonder that the teen-age suicide rate in America is up 250 per cent from seven years ago? The figures are only slightly less in Great Britain and Commonwealth countries.

Sen. David Roberti's Bill 1586 would have provided every Californian access to his file and dossier regardless of the agency involved. It is similar in scope to the national Access to Information law that came about because of Watergate. Roberti's bill has a curious history.

Early in December 1975 the governor's office was approached and told of the proposed legislation. He was asked if there was anything he, himself, would like included in the bill. The senator's office received no reply. At the end of December Roberti wrote the governor a letter. No response. On Feb. 4, 1976 another letter was sent with a draft of the bill. It too was ignored.

Finally on April 5 (by this time the bill was being much talked about in Sacramento) the Secretary of Agriculture and Services detailed the Brown administration's objections to the proposed legislation. Many had nothing to do with the bill at all. But despite any of the Brown administration's objections, 1586 breezed through both the Senate and Assembly easily. When it arrived on Brown's desk he refused to pass it on grounds that it would cost nearly four million dollars a year to implement.

Roberti countered with a new proposal that would have cut that amount in half. Brown's office then replied that their previous calculations had been wrong and the law, if passed, would cost California taxpayers nearly eight million dollars a year.

I don't know who the governor is protecting, but he shows very little human understanding for a man with a Jesuit background.

One wonders where America's most populous state's governor's priorities really are, if indeed they exist. While ignoring these two bills he signed into legislation a law "requiring doctors to take all reasonable steps to save a fetus that survives an abortion."

Zan Thompson, a syndicated columnist writing in the Los Angeles Times pointed out, "This is an appalling instance of skewed thinking. After the fetus has been scraped, dragged or perhaps removed by curettage — such a pretty word, curettage — presumably the doctor will pop it into a respirator, if it has a chance for a normal life. How can it — the 'it' is a baby — have a chance for a normal life? The woman has decided to get rid of it and the doctor has decided to perform the removal. Maybe by suction. Do you suppose it's something like a Plumber's Friend?"

But singling out Gov. Brown isn't quite fair. He can only be added to the list of those people many of us believed in, worked and voted for, who turned out sadly lacking in compassion. The previous governor of California, also a presidential candidate, closed and abolished scores of asylums and mental health centers in California, turning many patients loose to fend for themselves, and those still in the process of being cured to prey on others.

The Superior Court, prompted by the news and information media, is currently conducting an exhaustive investigation that has turned up more than a hundred deaths which cannot be accounted for. Indictments are being brought in slowly, and they may go all the way to Sacramento, the state's capital, and beyond.

It is no secret that our priorities in this country are somewhat confused. One of them should certainly be a federal law that makes it possible for every adult human being in this country to know his or her origins if he so wishes.

TOMORROW In the third installment of "The Cover-Up Continues," Rod McKuen tells about the people who are actively working to maintain secrecy no matter what the cost to the adoptee or homeless child.

At Wit's End...

BY ERMA BOMBECK

I take my marriage vows seriously. All that jazz about better or worse, richer or poorer, sickness and health, I've handled it all — until my husband developed blind spots on the tennis court.

His first attack hit about seven months ago. I hit a ball well inside the serving court when I heard him yell, "LONG!"

I placed my second serve which I watched clearly land on the line and he yelled, "WIDE!"

Naturally, I didn't want to upset him, so I waited until the end of the set (which he won) and led him off the court. "Be careful, dear," I advised gently. "There are two steps in front of you at 12 o'clock, then there are exactly 65 steps to the car with only one curb in between and I'll tell you about them."

"I am not blind," he said irritably, shaking his arm loose from mine. "Of course you're not," I condescended. But I was worried.

However, at home, his super vision returned. He noted a phone was off the hook just by looking through a wall, correctly predicted his son was wearing his underwear right through a pair of shorts, and took me to task for the dust on top of our seven-foot refrigerator.

That weekend, when we returned to the court for a rematch, his vision once again failed him. Lobs that landed on the line were called "out" or "in," depending on whose lobs they were. If I had so much as a shoelace that went over the serving line, he would call, "FOOT FAULT!"

A girlfriend of mine said her husband suffered from the same malady. "It's tennis elbow of the eye," she said.

"Are you serious?" I giggled. "It's not funny," she said. "It's painful as all get out. Comes from missing too many shots that are in."

"Surely we can't be talking about the same thing."

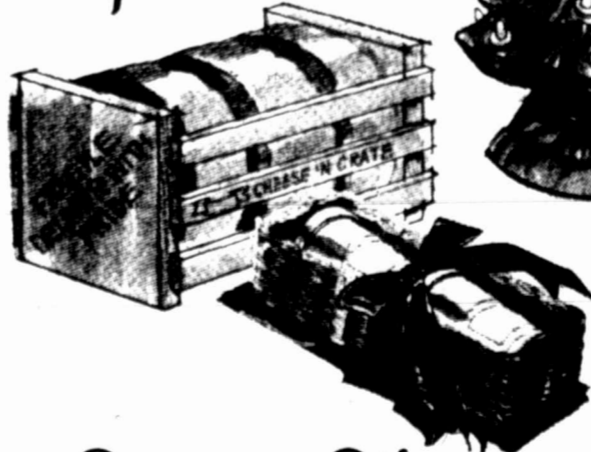

"Maybe not," she said. "Does your husband sometimes call it out before you even serve the ball? (I nodded.) Does he sometimes win an entire set without stepping a foot on the court? (Again I nodded.) Does his vision return when he is in the pro-shop? (Again I nodded.) There was a cure for it last year," she said. "Of course, I don't know what they call it this year."

'Football Widows' Get New Year's Respite

FOR YOUR WANT ADS CALL 762-8611

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for letting your readers know that next year the Rose Bowl game will be played on January 2. Since your column appeared, we've received countless calls asking for verification.

The "Never On Sunday" tradition in Pasadena dates back to 1883, when tournament officials were first faced with the problem of disrupting church services with a parade. Next year will mark the 13th time our festival has been held on January 2 instead of on New Year's Day. Perhaps your readers would like to know that the Rose Bowl game will be played on January 2 again in 1984, 1989, and 1995.

Forest W. Foster,
Pasadena Director of Public Relations, Tournament of Roses Assn.

Dear Forest: Thanks. The information will be helpful to those who wish to plan ahead.

DEAR ABBY: A woman wrote to say that her girlfriend never shaved her armpits or used a deodorant, and you suggested that the girl be told (nicely) that she offended. Why?

A simple anonymous note would solve the problem, and at the same time avoid embarrassment. We used this system in the government office where I worked, and it was very effective.

Dear L.: Effective perhaps, but I wouldn't advise anyone to do something I wouldn't do. Any anonymous notes smack of tackiness.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the woman asking if she could wear a white wedding dress though she had been raped prompts this letter.

I am a rape-crisis counselor. Please make your readers aware that there are rape-crisis centers across the country now. For those in small communities without such centers, there is probably a center in the nearest large city. If there is a crisis phone line in the victim's area, they will know where the nearest rape-crisis center is.

These centers are staffed with professional counselors as well as volunteers who have had special training in rape-victim counseling. They can offer emotional support and often can accompany the women to seek medical and legal help. Any rape-crisis center I have been in contact with has the highest code of confidentiality and counseling ethics.

After a woman has been humiliated, degraded, overpowered and even beaten, she is often made to believe that it is her fault that the incident occurred. Some carry the scars of their experience for years.

It is important for victims of sexual assault to know that such services are available. Also, it might inspire people in communities without such service to try to get one started.

Joan Mondale Says Women Included In Administration

NEW YORK (AP) — Joan Mondale, wife of the vice president, has defended the Carter administration's record in hiring women for jobs in government.

Speaking at a $100-a-plate dinner given in her honor by the National Women's Political Caucus, Mrs. Mondale said, "In this administration, women are really making a difference."

She said women have been included in all levels of the administration. "When I see that women are woven into the whole fabric of our government, I know we are making a difference — a difference for our government, a difference for our daughters."

She recalled a button feminists wore at the beginning of the decade that said, "Women make policy, not coffee."

"In Washington, it really is true," she said.

Mrs. Mondale also delivered a plug for the Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution. Three more states must ratify the amendment in the next year and a half before it becomes law.

"We have a big struggle ahead, but I'm optimistic. I think we're going to make it. We're going to make it because women need equal rights and men need equal rights," she said.

Mrs. Mondale thanked the caucus for "liberating political wives" to take an active part in politics.

"Thank you for pushing, pulling and prodding more women into leadership roles," she said. "Keep pushing, pulling and prodding. The administration is listening."

Proceeds from the dinner went to the caucus, to help elect women to office. The organization was established in 1970, and now has 300 state and local affiliates and 35,000 members.

Jamaica Split Over Castro

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Cuban President Fidel Castro said Sunday night he came to Jamaica not as a tourist but as a "revolutionary" and "brother" to strengthen ties between the Jamaican and Cuban peoples, separated by 90 miles of Caribbean sea.

Four hours after arriving here on a controversial six-day state visit boycotted by Jamaican opposition leaders, Castro was given the Order of Jamaica, the nation's highest award for foreigners. He delivered an emotional acceptance speech thanking this Caribbean nation for its "sentiments of love, sympathy and solidarity."

Castro praised Prime Minister Michael Manley, saying his visit would not have been possible "without the extraordinary effort made by comrade Manley to break the blockade and isolation of our homeland."

The Cuban leader said he wanted "to work for the deepening bonds of solidarity between the people of Jamaica and the people of Cuba."

During the ceremony, Manley accused "agents of imperialism" of trying to erect barriers between the two island nations. He praised Castro's "heroic and extraordinary services to his country and indeed the entire third world in the fight against colonialism, imperialism and neo-colonialism."

Governor General Florizel Glasspole placed around Castro's neck the gold and black medal dangling from a green silk ribbon as the small crowd at the King's House reception applauded loudly.

Castro arrived in Kingston during the afternoon for his first visit to Jamaica, greeting Manley with a warm bear hug as he strolled down the gangplank of the Cuban Navy training ship, Jose Marti.

Clad in green army fatigues, Castro was greeted dockside by a 21-gun salute and a Jamaican honor defense guard. He smiled and waved to Jamaican officials, diplomats including U.S. Ambassador Frederick Irving and hundreds of onlookers.

Several thousand persons lined the main thoroughfare in downtown Kingston, some shouting "Viva Cuba" and "Viva Castro," to catch a glimpse of Castro as the official entourage whisked by.

Castro is touring Jamaica at the invitation of Manley, who visited Cuba in 1975. Manley called the opposition Jamaica Labor party's boycott an "insult (to) one of the greatest leaders of the 20th century, who is a hero to the people of the Third World of all political persuasions."

Jamaican opposition leaders had denounced Castro's visit, calling the bearded Cuban president a "Communist dictator" with imperialist designs on the Caribbean.

After Manley's visit to Cuba, Castro sponsored several development projects in Jamaica, including a $2.7 million agricultural school on the outskirts of Kingston, a 400-unit housing project near Montego Bay and a series of irrigation dams in agricultural areas.

Jamaican opposition leaders say they are not opposed to Cuban trade or technical assistance. But, said one Jamaica Labor party official, "we want to be sure all these projects are not being used as camouflage for the sinister influence of Cuba in our internal affairs."

Manley honored his guest with the Order of Jamaica, the nation's highest award for foreigners. The prime minister said Castro "stands out as a giant in the struggle against imperialist intervention and aggression."

"All who fight for the right to independence and self-determination of all peoples remember the inglorious invasion of the Bay of Pigs and glory in the victory of the Cuban forces there," said Manley. "We salute the man responsible for that victory."

Castro replied that Manley's "extraordinary efforts" were "responsible for the excellent relations that exist today between the people of Jamaica and the people of Cuba."

"We come as friends," Castro said. "We come as revolutionaries and we come as brothers to work for the deepening bonds of solidarity between the people of Jamaica and the People of Cuba."

Castro and Manley were going to Montego Bay to speak at a rally honoring Jamaica's seven national heroes, one of them the prime minister's late father, Norman Manley.

The Labor party charged that the rally was not a national event, but a political gathering for Manley's People's National party. It said public funds were being "misused" to pay for it.

The Labor party made Manley's close relations with Castro one of the chief issues in the national election last December, but the voters did not heed its charge that the prime minister was leading Jamaica along the road to communism.

Mark White

judgment, who believes that governmental power should be preserved for the people instead of being used as a mere plaything for political games.

He said Daniel led the ill-fated effort two years ago to revise the state constitution, and said voters overwhelmingly rejected the document White branded as a power grab by the legislature. He conceded Daniel has an advantage in name identification, but said the credit for that belongs to his father.

"I think the voters of this state are fed up with cases of mistaken identity and they want to vote for the best candidate, not the best known name," White said.

White, who was appointed secretary of state in January of 1973 by Gov. Dolph Briscoe, handed his resignation to the governor about 10 minutes before the news conference.

He estimated it would cost at least $300,000 to campaign for the office, but told reporters "I don't have any totals on that" when asked how much money he had in his campaign treasury.

White said he thinks his work as secretary of state, assistant attorney general and as a private attorney make him the best qualified candidate to succeed Attorney General John Hill, who is leaving the office to run for governor.

President Urges Okay Of Panama Canal Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, stepping up his drive for ratification of the Panama Canal treaty, told a new blue-ribbon committee of treaty supporters today that the American people have not heard the truth about the pact.

"It's crucial to me that the American people know the facts about the treaty, which have so far not been successfully promulgated," Carter told the panel, which met with him in the White House.

The committee includes business and labor leaders, former military officers and members of past administrations who banded together specifically to support the treaty, under fire from foreign-policy conservatives.

Carter called winning Senate approval of the pact one of the most important and perhaps one of the most difficult tasks he faces.

"What you do," the President told members of the panel, "will have far-reaching impact" on the Western Hemisphere and perhaps on the entire world.

The head of the committee, Averill Harriman, one-time ambassador to Moscow who has served as a government envoy in many capacities, told Carter those seated around the Cabinet table represented only a cross-section of more than 100 persons who have joined the committee.

Harriman said the group continues to grow.

Members of the group organized the panel without official White House involvement, one aide said. But others said the committee grew out of a breakfast for "opinion leaders" held at the White House recently by a task force headed by Hamilton Jordan, a top presidential assistant.

The breakfast was one of several White House briefings for "opinion leaders" since Carter announced agreement on the pact earlier this year. More than 800 persons have attended the sessions, described by aides as an effort to "educate" people who will return to their home states carrying the administration's side of the treaty debate.

Members of the committee include Gen. Maxwell Taylor, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, George Ball, former undersecretary of state, AFL-CIO President George Meany, Mrs. Lyndon Johnson, former senator and ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, former Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, Chairman Irving Shapiro of E.I. Du Pont de Nemours Co., Chairman Robert Anderson of the Atlantic Richfield Co., and New York lawyer John J. McCloy.

The meeting followed a busy weekend at the White House. — The President's church services were disrupted Sunday by protesters against the neutron bomb. Carter told reporters at the White House when he returned from church that he considers the demonstrators "fine young people."

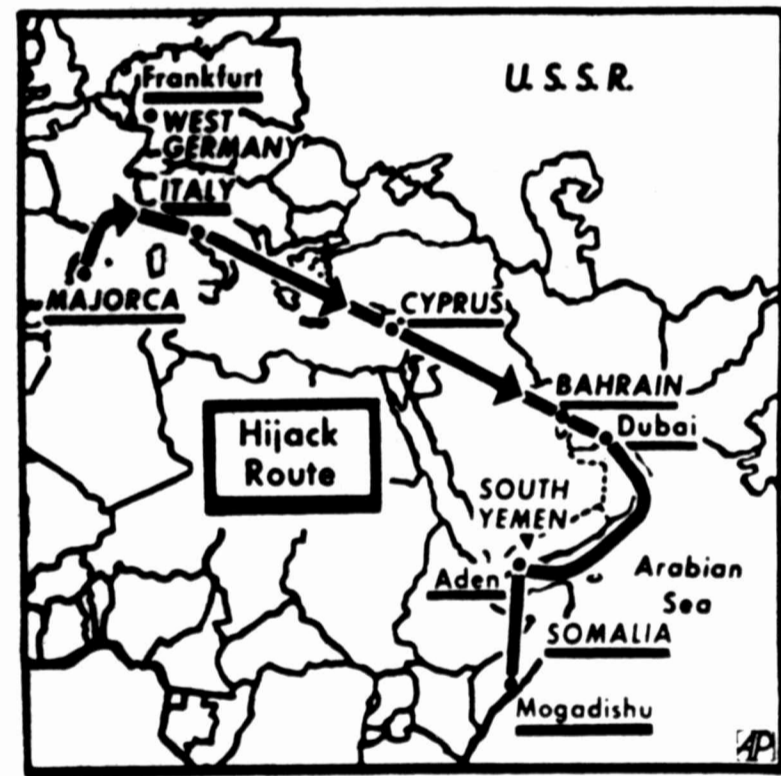

Without revealing whether he will decide against deploying the bomb, Carter said of the protesters: "I agree with their objective in eliminating nuclear weapons." But the President added that he thought the group was "mistaken in trying to disrupt the church services."

Carter said the Secret Service didn't think he was in danger during the demonstration, in which protesters were gassed, wrestled down in the pews and thrown out by church ushers. The President said he didn't think he was in any danger either.

The neutron bomb is a high-radiation, low-impact weapon, designed principally as a missile warhead. It emits a large amount of radiation, making it an effective killer. But its relatively small explosion leaves buildings intact.

— A knowledgeable administration official said Carter got a message from Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan in which Dayan denied characterizing their recent talks as "brutal" and said he found them pleasant and productive.

Israeli Ambassador Simcha Dinitz telephoned Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance with the personal message from Dayan and asked that it be brought to Carter's attention, according to the official, who declined to be identified.

Terrorists Murder Pilot Of Jetliner

Information Minister Abdi Qassim Falad told the plane landed in Mogadishu at 6:20 a.m., and very soon afterward the body of the pilot was slid down out of the plane.

A spokesman for the Somali embassy in Nairobi said the plane was being refueled and was expected to take off again later in the day. But the Somali news agency said the government formed a ministerial committee including the West German ambassador to negotiate with the hijackers.

"The Somali Democratic Republic is very much concerned with the safety of the passengers and will take all necessary steps in cooperation with the West German government for the safety of the passengers," the information minister said.

The kidnapers of West German industrialist Hanns Martin Schleyer also sent word that they would kill him if the hijackers' demands were not met by Sunday afternoon, but there was no indication today whether this threat had been carried out.

West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt continued to meet with his team of crisis advisers today. A spokesman said earlier the government was pursuing "all realistic possibilities" to free the hostages. The Turkish government said it would not consider freeing the two Palestinians unless West Germany released its 11 prisoners.

The Lufthansa Boeing 737 jetliner was hijacked Thursday on a flight from Majorca to West Germany by two Arabic-speaking men and two women armed with pistols and plastic explosives.

The 82 passengers include an American woman with heart trouble, Christine Maria Santiago, 44, of Santee, Calif., and her 5-year-old son, Leo. Another son reported that the State Department appealed for her release because of her health, but the hijackers refused after finding a two-day supply of heart medicine in her purse.

The plane's stop in Mogadishu was its sixth, after Rome, Nicosia, Bahrain, Dubai and Aden, the capital of South Yemen.

Arizona Border Boycott Opens

DOUGLAS, Ariz. (AP) — A boycott on businesses in Arizona border towns began today as an effort to urge federal investigation of an alien torture case.

About 1,500 persons demonstrated along the border here Sunday night to protest the acquittal of two Douglas-area brothers on charges of torturing three illegal Mexican aliens.

The demonstration remained peaceful.

Assault Case Jury Sought

AMERICUS, Ga. (UPI) — The man accused of slugging his sports car through the crowd at a Fourth of July weekend Ku Klux Klan rally in President Carter's hometown of Plains went on trial today on charges of aggravated assault.

Lillian Carter, the president's 79-year-old mother, is among those subpoenaed as defense witnesses.

Although about 30 persons were injured in the fracas, defendant Buddy Cochran was charged with eight counts of aggravated assault. Prosecutors said when he was indicted those eight represented area residents hurt in the July 2 incident.

Cochran, 30, has been free under $50,000 bond pending trial in the Sumter County Courthouse.

Jury selection began today. The Americus truck mechanic and a man who disrupted Klan rallies in Columbus, Ohio, have been making joint public appearances on behalf of anti-KKK organizations since Cochran was released on bond. In addition to the assault charges, Cochran faces damage suits from several of those injured.

Sumter County Sheriff Rundy Howard said Mrs. Carter was in the area of the rally, but "didn't see anything." He said the president's mother has been subpoenaed for "publicity purposes" by Cochran's lawyers.

The prosecution has subpoenaed several reporters.

While no Klansmen were injured when Cochran's Jaguar XKE sped into the speaker's platform at the church on the 50 mph, some reporters, including UPI's Matthew Quinn, and spectators were hospitalized.

although several persons carried signs that charged the jury was rigged and the judge biased in the case. Organizers of the demonstration, including Douglas City Councilman Frank Barraza, urged the crowd to boycott businesses in Douglas, Naco, Nogales and Yuma.

The boycott is being called to urge businessmen to push for a U.S. Justice Department investigation of the torture case Barraza said.

Patrick and Thomas Hanigan were acquitted by a Cochise County Superior Court jury about 10 days ago on charges of kidnapping, robbery, assault and conspiracy.

The brothers were named by three aliens, who said they were abducted at gunpoint, beaten, burned, threatened with castration and shot at after illegally crossing the border to look for work in the Douglas area in August 1976. The jury deliberated 18 hours after hearing three weeks of testimony in the case. The Hanigans' father, George, also had been charged in the case but died earlier this year.

A coalition of groups demanded a federal investigation following the Hanigans' acquittal.

Barraza also urged demonstrators to begin a letter-writing campaign to U.S. Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell, urging him to investigate the "obvious misuse of the American judicial system."

He told the gathering to "let the Justice Department know the concern is international, and doesn't just deal with Arizona."

Federal officials have said it is unlikely the federal government would intervene.

The Rev. William Gressman of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Tucson told the crowd that the days of the church staying out of civil issues is gone.

"Our president goes around saying that we will interfere in cases of injustice in other countries," Father Gressman said. "Why don't we begin at home?"

Cochise County Sheriff Jimmy Judd said the demonstration remained peaceful. Additional police and U.S. Customs agents patrolled the area.

San Antonio Blackout Blamed On Transmission Line Blaze

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — A fire in power plant transmission lines caused a two-hour electrical blackout Sunday night in the nation's 10th largest city.

A few persons were trapped in elevators by the blackout and several minor traffic accidents occurred because of the loss of signal lights.

But no deaths or injuries attributable to the blackout were reported, and no arrests were made in sporadic outbreaks of looting in parts of the South Texas city. Police and firemen quickly manned intersections when traffic signals went dead, lighting flares and directing traffic with flashlights, and most area hospitals used emergency generators to maintain life support systems.

Tom Berg, chairman of City Public Service, said the blackout was caused by a fire in transmission lines of the Calaveras Power Plant, located on the southern edge of the city, but cause of the fire was unknown.

Residents in the area of the power plant reported an explosion and sparks shooting from the overhead power lines leading from the plant. CPS officials did not confirm the reports of an explosion.

The blackout occurred at 7:05 p.m., and lights dimmed and then went out across the metropolitan area of 1 million residents.

CPS officials had told the news media last summer at the time of the New York power failure that San Antonio did not have to worry about such outages because of its regional network arrangements. They said, after power was restored Sunday night, the San Antonio blackout was caused by the transmission line difficulties and not by an overload such as occurred in New York.

"The whole thing was black," CPS general manager Jack Spruce said of the city. "There is no evidence of any problems inside the Calaveras plant."

Berg called for a special committee investigation of the power outage and how to prevent a future one. He said three of the affected power lines at the Calaveras plant wrapped themselves around relay circuits which could have prevented the power loss.

"Normally this should have been cleared by the relays," Berg said.

CPS restored electricity section by section, beginning at 8:37 p.m. on the north side and working through the downtown area. In some sections, overloads caused restoration to take longer.

Police chief Emil E. Peters said most residents responded to requests to stay home and no major law enforcement problems were encountered.

"We have some looting, but really nothing serious," Peters said. "We might get some calls in the morning."

Several of the city's radio stations which did not have emergency electrical generators went off the air until power was restored.

Four Bomb Protesters Released; One In Jail

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four demonstrators who disrupted a church service attended by President Carter by denouncing the neutron bomb are free on personal recognizance, while the fifth is continuing his protest in jail.

The three men and two women, ejected from Washington's First Baptist Church by ushers Sunday morning, were charged with "disturbing a religious congregation."

A sixth person who took part in the reading was not arrested.

Leaving the church, the President stopped briefly when another protester shouted for him to "veto the neutron bomb." Unruffled, Carter turned, asked, "What's that?" and then said, "They're fine young people."

Later, after returning to the White House, he told reporters: "I agree with their (the demonstrators) objective in eliminating nuclear weapons. (But) I think they were mistaken in trying to disrupt the church services."

"The Secret Service didn't feel I was in danger, and neither did I."

The neutron bomb is a high-radiation nuclear weapon designed to kill people while leaving buildings relatively intact.

Carter is considering deployment of the weapon as a deterrent against a possible Warsaw Pact invasion of Western Europe.

Critics of the neutron bomb say it is inhumane and would increase the chances of a nuclear confrontation. Carter aides have said the President will decide before the end of the year whether to produce and deploy it.

Carter, his wife Rosalynn, 9-year-old daughter Amy and a group of friends from Georgia, including Mrs. Carter's former Bible teacher, attended services at the church.

The President and his wife attended adult Bible class in the back balcony, then took their usual seats in the sixth pew on the right side of the 175-year-old stone-and-block church.

As Pastor Charles Trentham stepped to the pulpit to begin his sermon, the first of the demonstrators, dressed in slacks and a brown sweater, stood up and began to read the anti-bomb statement.

"Sisters and brothers," he said, "we address you lovingly... Did not Jesus mean what He said when He taught us to love our enemies? And did He not live what He said?"

"Christians cannot love their enemies and still threaten them with nuclear death."

At that point, an usher grabbed the protester, put his hand over the man's mouth, pulled him out of the pew and led him to the door.

A second protester, Elizabeth McAlister, a former Roman Catholic nun who married antiwar priest Philip Berrigan, stood in another pew across the aisle and continued the reading.

Miss McAlister was convicted in 1972 for smuggling mail to Berrigan while he was in prison. The government dropped more serious charges in the so-called "Harrisburg Seven" trial, including allegations that the defendants plotted to kidnap Henry Kissinger, then a presidential adviser.

An usher tried to take the statement out of her hand, then sat her down in the pew. She was not immediately removed from the church and was not arrested.

Another protester then stood up and continued the statement but was gagged by an usher, subdued and led to the door. Three other demonstrators, trying to read the statement, also were silenced and escorted from the church.

The President and his family sat unperturbed throughout the demonstration. Carter did not turn to look, and his Secret Service bodyguards made no move against the protesters.

After the disturbance, the Rev. Trentham began his sermon on aging and death, not mentioning the commotion.

Police identified the arrested demonstrators as Mary Catherine Lyons, Rosemary Maguire, Ladon Sheats and Jim McNeil, all of Baltimore, and Paul Hood of Philadelphia. All but Sheats were released on their own recognizance after booking.

The charge carries a maximum $100 fine, police said.

Miss McAlister told reporters outside the church that most of the worshippers turned and watched the demonstrators as they read their statement. "I would say there was some hostility," she said.

"They seemed to feel that this was a violation of the good order of the service, with no thought that nuclear weapons may be a violation of the good order of humanity," she said.

The protesters all were reported from the Atlantic Life Community, described by a spokesman as a coalition of East Coast groups opposed to nuclear weapons.

Georgia Firm Faces Strike

MARIETTA, Ga. (AP) — The nation's aerospace industry, already hit with two major strikes, now faces a third major job action.

Members of Local 709 of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers (IAM) voted Sunday to strike Lockheed-Georgia Co. at 12:01 a.m. Wednesday, when their contract expires. All 5,000 union workers are employed at the Lockheed plant in Marietta, outside Atlanta.

Some 24,000 workers went on strike Oct. 4 against the Boeing Co. in Seattle, Portland, Ore., Wichita, Kan., Cape Canaveral, Fla. and at scattered military bases. The next union-management talks are scheduled for Thursday in Seattle. The Boeing workers seek a 30 per cent wage increase over three years, while management is offering 9 per cent.

Another 14,500 workers have been on strike against Lockheed plants in California since last Monday. A federal mediation team starts hearing from both sides in the California strike on Tuesday.

Union officials in the Lockheed-Georgia negotiations say the main issue is seniority, just as it is in the California strike. Wages and benefits also were issues.

Lockheed is offering California workers a 9.5 per cent wage hike over three years, but the workers want a 12 per cent increase. Details of wage demands in Georgia are not known.

Lockheed officials say the company is trying to get some changes in the seniority system to avoid a chain reaction of bumping workers down the line from their jobs when the position of a senior worker is eliminated.

Explorers Cite Danger In Twigg's Cave

CUMBERLAND, Md. (AP) — Spelunkers call Twigg's Cave dangerous. The "mud cave" nearly swallowed two explorers two years ago and now a young spelunker is in the hospital after escaping the soft, deep recesses of the challenging cave.

James Wright Jr., 19, of Cumberland was brought out Sunday, nearly two days after being caught in a narrow passage inside the cave, 15 miles east of this western Maryland town.

Twigg's Cave is where Robert and Anita Mongold were trapped for 13 days two years ago. The cave has been charted, but experts consider it dangerous because of its narrow passage.

Rescuers had to contend with heavy rains and Wright's exhaustion during the two-day operation. He had to stand upright for 36 hours.

Wright was taken to Cumberland Memorial Hospital with cuts and bruises. He was placed in intensive care, but a hospital official said early today that the young spelunker "is doing fine."

Wright, who has nearly five years of spelunking experience, became trapped about 8 p.m. Friday in a narrow, muddy crevice about 1,500 feet from the cave's entrance. The walls of the crevice, easy to negotiate going down, were soft and difficult to scale coming back up, according to civil defense official Owen Morris.

Wright's companion, Steven Earnest, 22, of Frostburg, Md., did not climb down the crevice but was unable to pull Wright out.

National Speleological Society members gathered at the 110-foot entrance shaft Saturday, working in 15-member shifts to pass equipment and food from one person to another through the twisting tunnels and crevices down to the youth.

Executive Trapped In Vault By Bandit

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Rescuers passed heart pills and pumped oxygen through a pencil-size hole to sustain an executive trapped for nearly 90 minutes in a vault by a bandit today.

Eric Lampkin, 40, an executive with a security company, was accosted by a gunman in his office as he was counting money collected from pubs earlier in the day.

Flying Saucer Fans Convene In Desert

By RICHARD SALTUS and STEPHEN FOX

GIANT ROCK AIRPORT, Calif. (AP) — The World Series might have been taking place on Mars, for all they cared, those hundreds who plunked themselves down on this remote desert airstrip armed with pyramids, magnetometers and plenty of beer in case the UFOs should land.

Once an Indian spirit haunt, this bare patch of desert dominated by a monster boulder was the weekend site of the 1977 Annual UFO Space Convention.

The flying saucer faithful — and the merely curious — came from as far away as Texas, in private planes and in vehicles that included a sun-burnished Hudson Hornet with bleached cattle skulls displayed in its rear window.

Quick Action Sought On Health Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration wants quick congressional action to control hospital costs and warns that each day's delay is expensive to taxpayers.

The Carter legislation, proposed in April, would place a 9 per cent annual ceiling on hospital fee increases.

Since then, at least four congressional committees have considered the problem and three are still at work.

"To delay for even four months, until next February, would impose $2.88 billion in additional hospital bills on the American people — the equivalent of almost $14 for every adult and child in the nation," said Joseph A. Califano Jr., secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

Carter said his plan would save the government, health insurance companies and consumers about $2 billion in the fiscal year that began Oct. 1.

New hospitals, federal hospitals and hospitals that operate on a Health Maintenance Organization concept would be exempt from the ceiling.

The latest proposal, approved by a House health subcommittee headed by Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., went to the House Commerce Committee.

Rogers' bill would permit hospital revenues to go up 50 per cent more than the inflation rate, which probably would mean a 9 per cent ceiling the first year.

It would exempt psychiatric institutions and the following hospitals: those less than three years old, those receiving 75 per cent of their revenue from HMO's, and those in small towns with less than 4,000 admissions a year.

Hospital construction would be limited to $2.5 billion a year nationwide, with some exemptions.

Another bill, which has cleared the Senate Human Resources Committee, would keep Carter's 9 per cent annual limit on hospital fee increases. But there's also a two-year moratorium on hospital building or expansion, except where statewide plans provide for such development.

That bill, sponsored by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., must face Senate Finance Committee action. Califano urged the finance panel and the House Ways and Means health subcommittee, also working on the problem, to act quickly.

The meeting was staged by Jose and Doris Rodriguez, who met as rival rental car managers in nearby Palm Springs and were married at Giant Rock three months after Jose bought the airport last April Fool's Day.

The unpaved runway leading to the Rock, a seven-story-high rounded chunk of granite, had been the site of reported UFO sightings and previous conventions. Rodriguez thinks the huge Marine base at nearby Twentynine Palms may be the reason.

"There's a lot of movement there, and if I were traveling in outer space I would want to know about our military capabilities," said Rodriguez.

Not five miles distant, built by airport founder George Van Tassel, stands the white, dome-shaped Integretron. Containing what Van Tassel says is the world's largest electric armature, the "time machine" is designed to turn back the aging process in those who enter its magnetic influence, perhaps as early as next year.

North of here, in the Old Woman Mountains, scientists recently recovered a space visitor in the form of a large iron meteorite.

Held here for the first time in seven years after an influx of violent bikers turned the last meeting into a raucous shambles, the convention features self-styled UFO experts and a few "contacts" — people who claim to have personal flying saucer encounters.

Sitting amongst the sun-drenched crowd was E. G. Claypool, an elderly man whose briefcase sign proclaimed him to be an "Antigravity Specialist and Intergalactic Navigational Systems Analyst."

A surveyor for the Los Angeles City Engineer's Office, Claypool was distinguished by moustaches trained in curls, a chin beard twisted into an inverted question mark, and a battered straw hat turned up and fastened with a safety pin.

Claypool said he had never seen a UFO, but pointed out arrows on his briefcase labeled "Left," "Right," "Up" and "Down" because "once you get into space you can't tell one direction from another."

A complaint about government secrecy was sounded by Dave Talbot, a 25-year-old Bellflower painter who noted that President Carter is among those who have reported unexplained aerial phenomena.

"President Carter made a vow when he was elected that he would release all the information on UFOs, and he hasn't," said Talbot. "I think he should. Whatever the government has got, he should put it out."

State Bar Panel To Eye Advertising, Sunset Act

Lawyer advertising and the Sunset Act again will be the main topics of discussion during the State Bar of Texas board of directors meeting here Thursday through Saturday at the Hilton Inn.

Travis Shelton of Lubbock, president of the State Bar, said the lawyer advertising committee will report on the motion for rehearing filed with the U.S. Supreme Court by the Arizona State Bar on the advertising question.

The board will study proposed advertising guidelines for Texas lawyers to recommend to the Supreme Court of Texas for approval.

Any changes in the "Code of Professional Responsibility" must be made by the Supreme Court.

Lawyers were given limited rights to advertise their services by a June, 1977, ruling of the Supreme Court. At the September meeting, the board delayed making specific advertising guidelines for Texas lawyers until the outcome of the rehearing motion is known.

Also, the board will discuss the State Bar's progress in preparing its report for the Sunset Advisory Commission. The report, which is required by the commission and due Oct. 31, outlines all the activities of the State Bar during the past three years.

The State Bar is one of 26 agencies which will come up for review before the Texas Legislature in 1979 under the Sunset Act.

Passed by the 65th Legislature, the law requires each state agency to be reviewed. If the Legislature fails to pass an act renewing the agency, that agency will automatically become abolished on Sept. 1, 1979.

Other business includes a discussion on the status of the Law Center campaign and recent developments on an Internal Revenue Service ruling affecting contributions to the building fund.

The board also will hear committee and section reports and reports from board task forces.

Natural Gas Plentiful, Utility Head Claims

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — There's plenty of natural gas to be had in the world if prices and other regulatory obstacles were removed, says the head of the nation's largest gas distributor.

Joseph Rensch, president of Pacific Lighting Corp. of Los Angeles, said in an interview last week that the Southwest is in an ideal position to get gas from reserves in the Pacific Basin.

Rensch said studies by his firm have indicated there is more gas than oil in the world, with tremendous reserves found in Southeast Asia, Australia, Malaysia, South America and Alaska.

"Japan is our only real competition for it," he said. "It is too uneconomical for the European market because the transport is too much."

But getting the gas from those fields is a major undertaking, he said.

Rensch said his firm, whose subsidiary, Southern California Gas Co. serves 12 million customers, signed an agreement to import Indonesian gas in 1973, estimating construction of a receiving terminal might begin in 1979 and be in operation by 1982.

"Japanese interests signed for supplies from Indonesia three months after we did," Rensch said. "The Japanese have gone ahead with facilities and received first deliveries in July."

However, Pacific Lighting is still waiting for a decision from the Federal Power Commission and also needs approval from the State of California under legislation passed this year, he said.

"We are now five years behind, at best," he said.

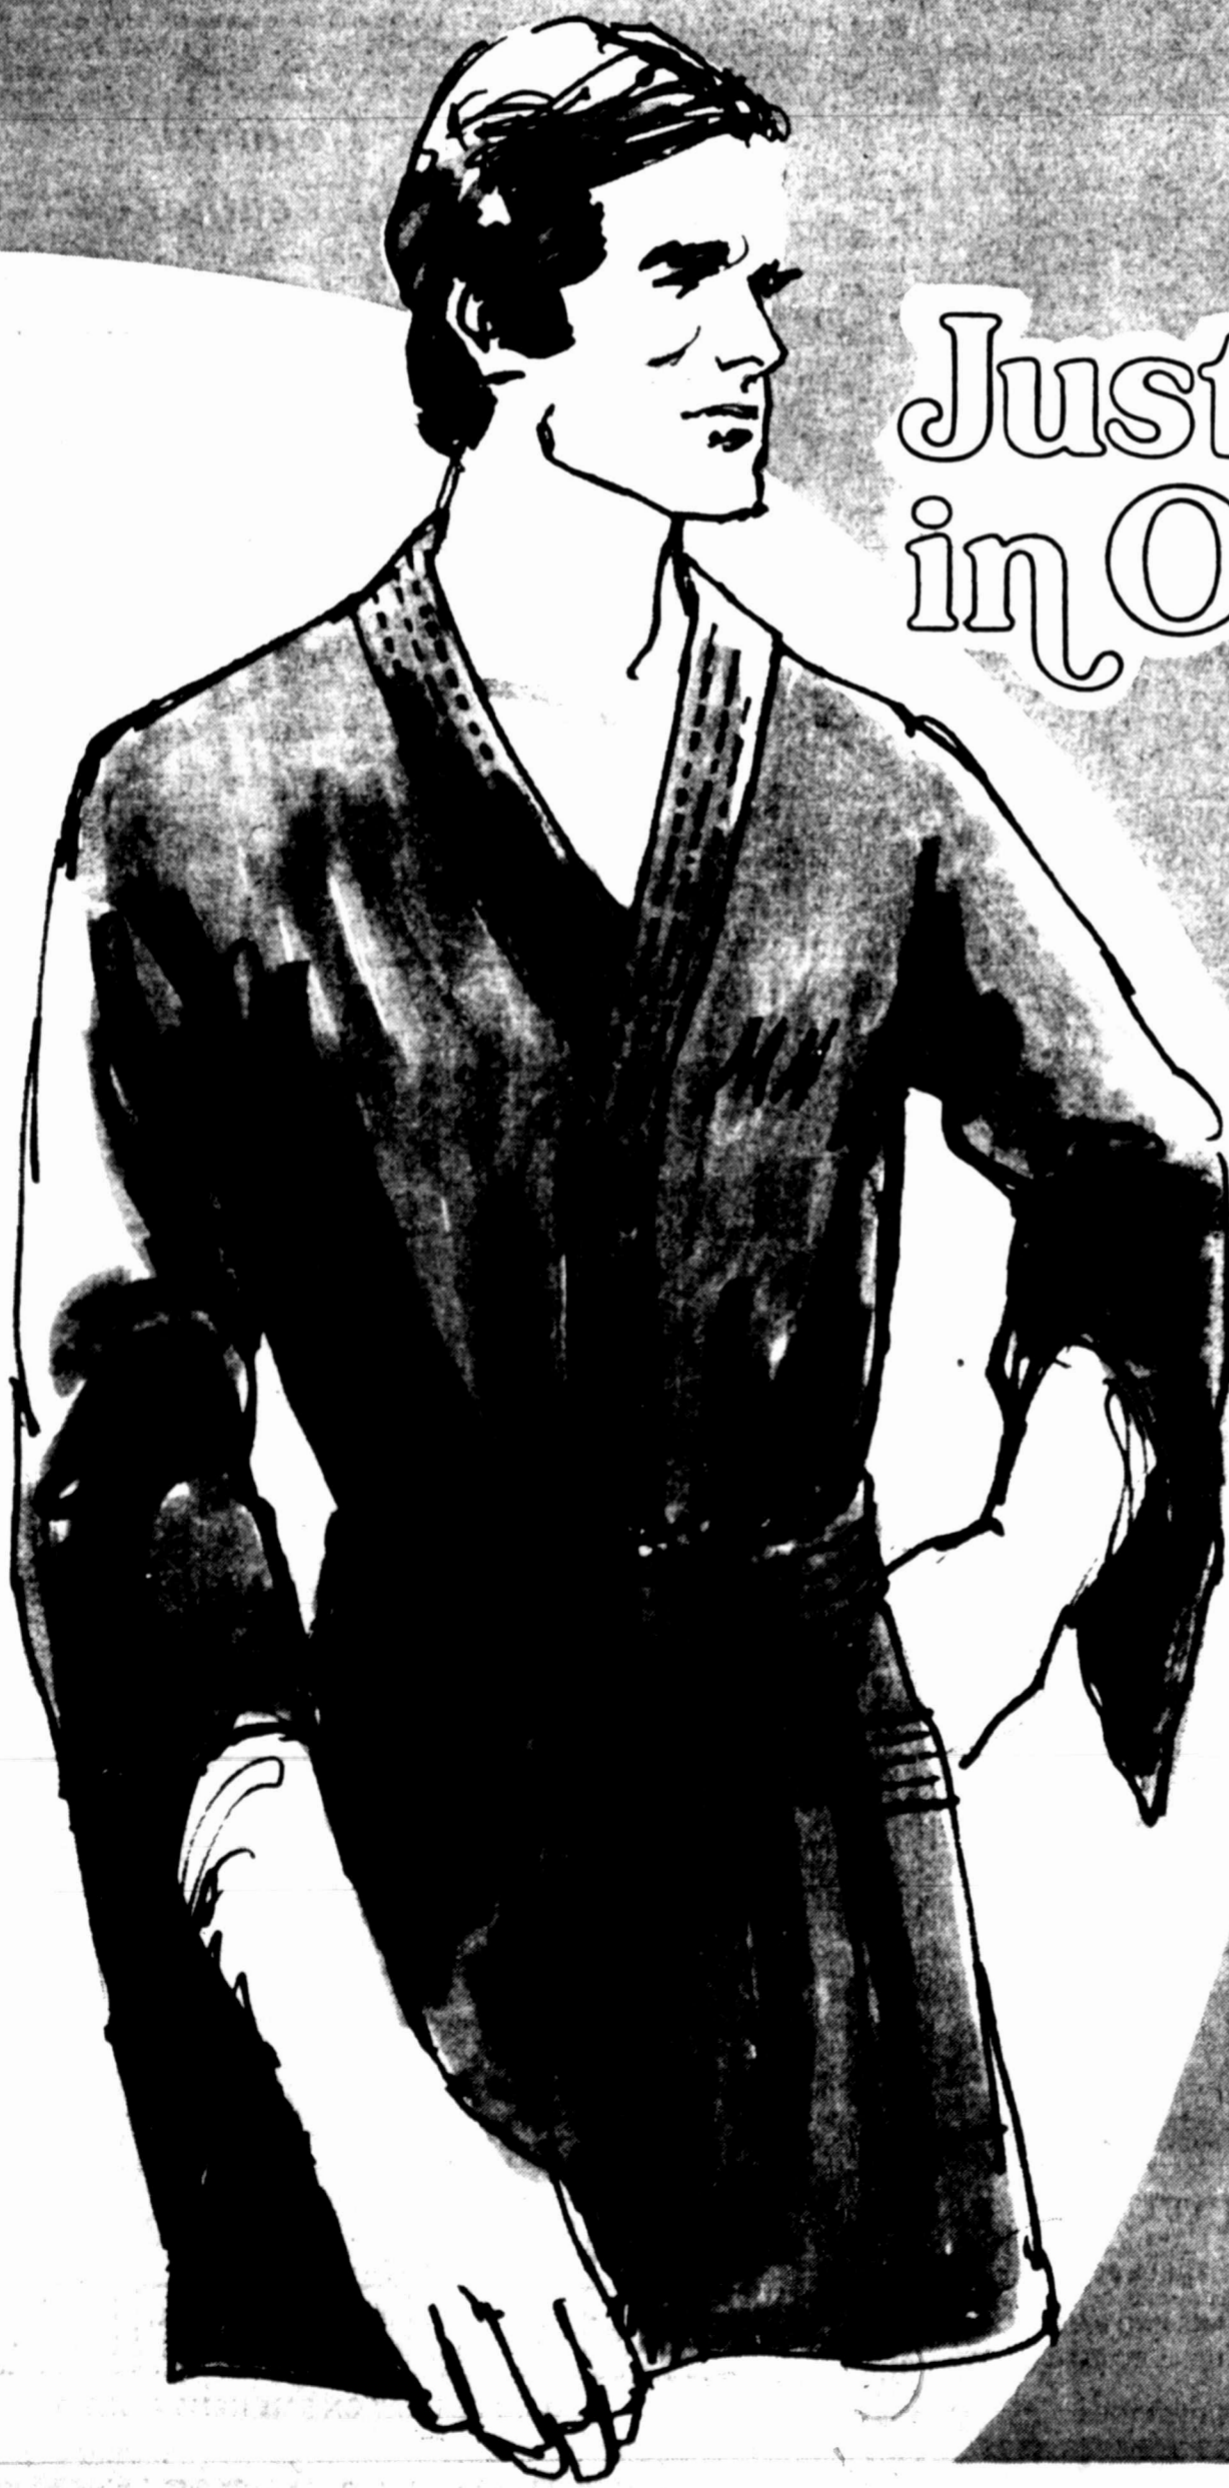

According to Rensch's figures, southern California is heavily dependent on natural gas, using it for 95 per cent of residential water heating, 92 per cent of home heating and 76 per cent of cooking. Like Arizona, southern California has had a declining supply of natural gas from traditional sources, down 27 per cent in the last seven years.

Pacific Lighting also is working on a coal gasification project in New Mexico, Rensch said, and plans to bring in gas from both the northern and southern parts of Alaska. However, he said the projects are embroiled in delays and becoming more expensive daily.

"We started out with a $400 million budget on the coal gasification plant. Now it's $1 billion. Each day we're delayed, the price goes up another $300,000."

Rensch said he expects a bill recently passed by the House which would allow the price of gas to go up will prevail over a Senate-passed measure that would deregulate the price of natural gas because it conforms to President Carter's energy plan.

The legislation would help increase gas supplies, but doesn't go far enough, Rensch said.

'Revival Meeting' Aids Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An old-fashioned revival meeting, called by their very own faith healer, Tom Lasorda, was credited with transforming the Dodger blues back into the Dodger Blue.

"This was the real 1977 Dodger team," said Steve Garvey after Lasorda preached fire and brimstone and the Dodger bats spoke firepower and base hits. The combination was pure salvation for the National League champions, who rapped out 13 hits, four for extra bases, to blast the New York Yankees 10-4 Sunday.

The World Series now hops back to the East Coast with the Yankees ahead world title.

Yankees Manager Billy Martin originally named Ed Figueroa, troubled by a sore finger the past few weeks, to be his starting pitcher for Game 6 Tuesday night. But Figueroa, not as ready to pitch as Martin said he was, balked, forcing Martin to switch to Mike Torrez, the third-game winner.

Lasorda will be going with a proven winner of his own, Burt Hooton, who stilted the New York bats on five hits in the second game at Yankee Stadium last Wednesday night.

On the verge of extinction Sunday, Lasorda turned preacher, telling his players in a pregame meeting that, win or lose, "I wouldn't trade this baseball team for any other team in the world."

Ron Cey, the Dodgers third baseman and the only regular without a hit or a run scored Sunday, was skeptical about the importance of the team meeting, but decided: "The results were there."

Those results included Steve Yeager's three-run homer in the fourth inning, Reggie Smith's two-run blast in the sixth and the sound, nine-hit pitching by Don Sutton.

"I normally don't believe in rah-rah pep meetings," said Yeager, who also contributed a fifth-inning sacrifice fly before leaving the game with strained ligaments in his knee. "But it evidently worked for some guys."

Yeager said he had two games left in his ailing knee. "I'll see you Wednesday night (after Game 7) in our clubhouse," Yeager told newsmen.

Garvey also expects to be in the winning clubhouse Wednesday night, but said it wouldn't be a bad idea to have another pregame revival meeting.

"At one point we were 7-0 after team meetings," said Garvey, who had a double and a single and scored a pair of runs. "I guess this makes us 8-0."

"We're human beings and human beings get tired mentally and depressed mentally. What Tom Lasorda did was he got everybody together and, again, told us of his feelings of warmth and affection for us. As human beings we can benefit from this."

"It got our feelings moving in the right direction."

That direction was evident immediately in Game 5. Dodger leadoff batter Davey Lopes socked a triple off the top of the left-field wall against Yankees starter Don Gullett, who started on Opening Day but did not figure in the decision. No. 2 batter Bill Russell smacked a single to left for a 1-0 lead.

Garvey stroked a double to right center in the fourth and came home on Dusty Baker's single to left, which Lou Piniella misplayed, allowing Baker to take second. That was New York's first error of the Series and it took just one batter for error No. 2, as third baseman Graig Nettles dropped Lee Lacy's ground ball. Yeager then followed with his second Series homer for a 5-0 lead.

"It was do or die today," said Yeager. "The homer gave us a big inning and took the pressure off the rest of the team. You saw the key to our game today. Davey Lopes and Bill Russell getting on base ahead of our big hitters like Smith, Cey and Garvey."

The Dodgers made it 8-0 in the fifth on RBI singles by Baker and Lee Lacy and Yeager's sacrifice fly.

"I'm glad to be going back to New York because we have a chance to win the Series," said Baker. "It's better than going home for the winter."

Baker credited the team meeting and the team's leadoff hitters in the Dodgers revival at the plate.

"We were just reminded that we're better than we've been playing, that we haven't been playing the way we played all year," Baker said.

"Russell and Lopes got things moving. When they're on base, the batters behind them see better pitches. It makes things easier for us. They ignite things for us."

Russell got the Dodgers believers in the dugout and the faithful of 55,955 in the stands up and clapping again with a single to right-center in the sixth. Smith, a victim of a rubber ball beaming from the stands at Yankee Stadium last Wednesday, sent a hard ball back into the stands for his second Series homer.

"If today's clubhouse atmosphere was

Cleveland Nips Houston 24-23

HOUSTON (AP) — Opponents of the Cleveland Browns are getting weary of seeing Don Cockroft show reruns — the ones where the 31-year old kicker rescues his team from the brink of disaster with a winning field goal in the final seconds.

After all, they showed that scene on national television three weeks ago when Cockroft beat New England in sudden death overtime.

But here that tired old plot was again Sunday as Cockroft split the uprights with a 30-yarder as time ran out in the game to give the Browns a 24-23 victory over the startled Houston Oilers.

The Oilers especially hated to see the replay since only moments earlier their kicker, Tony Fritsch, had booted through a 36-yard field goal for a 23-21 lead.

The loss also forced the Oilers to share the American Football Conference Central Division lead with the Browns, each with 3-2 records.

"The one on TV was no bigger than this one," said Cockroft, who became the Brown's No. 2 all-time scorer during the game. "You need to beat the people in your division."

Cockroft had six points for the game to boost his career total to 760 behind all-time Brown scorer Lou Groza with 1,349.

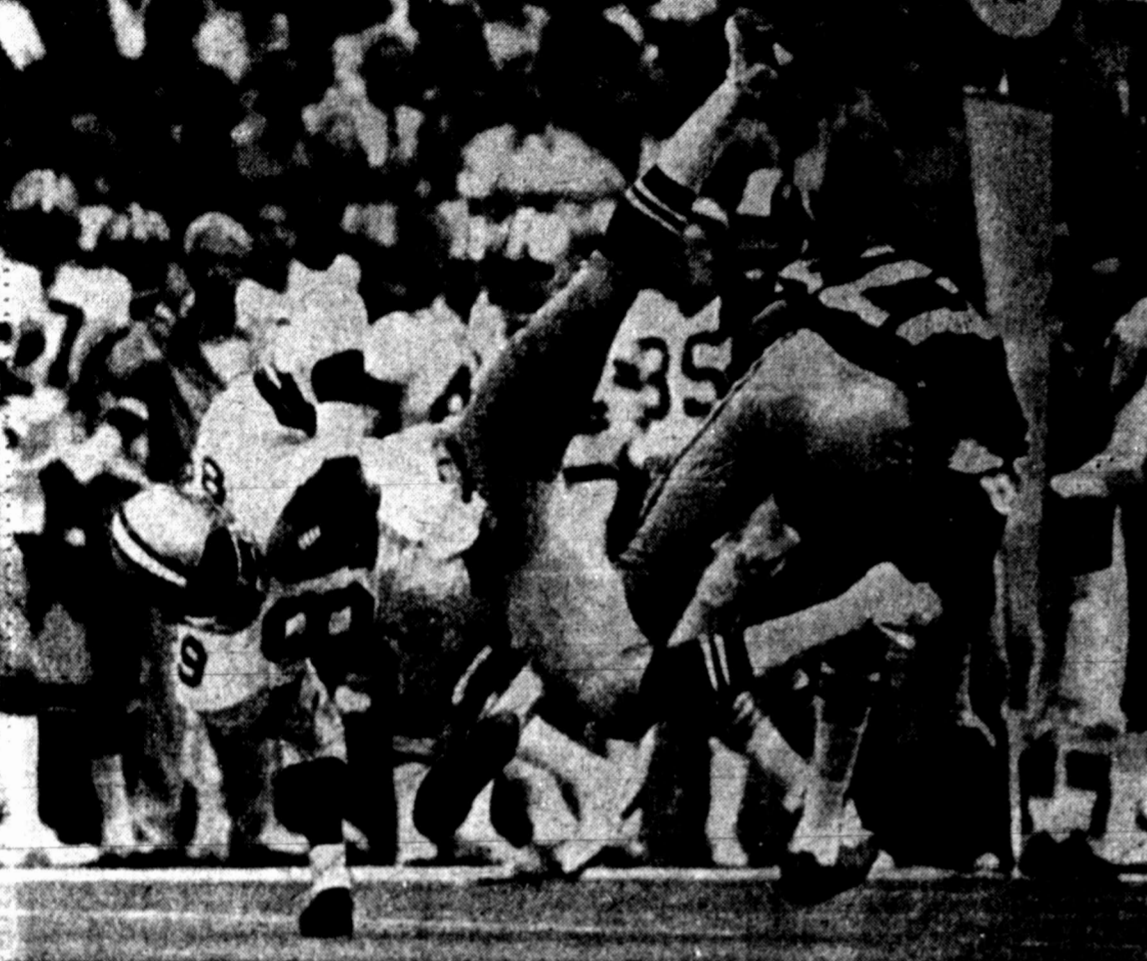

As for the clutch situations, Cockroft said: "When I'm called on in a late situation I just try to remember the basics of kicking."

It was a titanic climax for a wild game that pulsed from the start when Houston took a 10-0 lead in the first 3:41 on Billy Johnson's 87-yard punt return for a touchdown and Fritsch's 25-yard field goal.

The Browns then got the momentum when the defense picked off two passes from Oiler sub quarterback John Hadl, who filled in most of the game for injured starter Dan Pastorini, and turned them into touchdowns.

Destiny's Darlings?

THERE WAS A LOT of whooping and hollering at Texas Stadium late Sunday afternoon as the Dallas Cowboys chalked up another victory over their old rivals, the Washington Redskins. The 'Pokes have several good feuds going now with other NFL teams, but the Redskins still top the list.

It was a typical Dallas-Washington tussle in many respects. There were a lot of hard hits, some brief scuffles between the gladiators and many big plays. What was different was the obvious confidence of the Cowboys, even in the face of adversity.

This is a different kind of Dallas team, without question. The '77 Cowboys don't have the mechanical precision of the teams which went to Super Bowls V and VI, and they don't appear to be the rah-rah type of team that lost to Pittsburgh in the Big One just two years ago. The Dirty Dozen have come of age now, and they don't act like college sophomores.

What they do is win, with big plays on offense and a savage defense. And they are at their best when the chips are down in the fourth quarter. This may be the toughest Cowboy team — mentally as well as physically — of all time.

BUT IT IS A difficult team to understand. In the locker room before the Washington game, there was a surprisingly relaxed atmosphere. In previous years, the dressing room had the ominous atmosphere of a troop ship on D-Day in the hours before a duel with the Redskins. Not so Sunday morning.

D. D. Lewis, the veteran linebacker, was a little concerned about the lack of grim faces before the contest.

"I wish of Lee Roy (Jordan) would come by here before the game and get us fired up," Lewis remarked to a visitor. "We could use some of his spirit for this one."

Another pre-game visitor to Cowboy quarters was Sam Huff, the former New York Giant linebacker who now is in the broadcasting game. He asked Coach Tom Landry for a brief interview, and Landry broke tradition by agreeing. Sir Thomas doesn't like to take even five minutes away from his schedule on game day, but his association with Huff goes back a long way.

All in all, it was just another day at the office.

FOLLOWING THE DALLAS victory, the Cowboys and their coaches adopted the same low profile. One of the golden throats asked star safety Charlie Waters if he wasn't thinking of a 14-0 season and a Super Bowl. Charlie glared at the media person as if he would like to cram the microphone down his throat.

"No, we can't think like that. You get that attitude, and you are going to get beat! We won No. 5, now we have to think about No. 6. And the Super Bowl doesn't even exist, at this stage of the season."

Landry also disappointed the scribblers by not claiming either the NFC Eastern Division crown or a Super Bowl berth.

"There's a long way to go, at this point," Landry emphasized. "No team (meaning the Redskins and the Cardinals) is out of the race yet. There's just too much that can happen during the next couple of months."

Landry probably was referring to injuries, which have taken a heavy toll of

Kilmer Claims 1977 Cowboys Best Ever

DALLAS (AP) — Billy Kilmer has been through enough National Football League hand-to-hand combat to accurately assess an opponent and the Washington quarterback says the current edition of the Dallas Cowboys is the finest he's played against.

Kilmer, who was sacked five times and battered about like a rag doll in Sunday's 34-16 Cowboy victory over the Redskins, said frankly "This is the best Dallas team I've ever seen... and they sure proved it. We just lost to a great team."

Washington (3-2) fell two games behind the unbeaten Cowboys (5-0) in the National Conference Eastern Division and suffered numerous injuries in the rough-house battle, including a bruised left shoulder to Kilmer.

"It happened in the first half when I got kicked," said Kilmer matter-of-factly. "I got a shot at halftime and that kinda deadened it."

The Redskins lost runningbacks Bob Brunet and John Riggins to injuries in the first quarter. Brunet suffered a neck injury and Riggins was helped from the field with a bad knee.

Dallas cornerback Aaron Kyle (fractured wrist) and tight end Billy Joe Dupree (bruised ribs) also were knocked out of the game.

Washington coach George Allen agreed with Kilmer that the Cowboys are "the class of the division."

"I said this was one of the best Cowboy teams I've seen in the past four or five years and today's game does not change my opinion," said Allen.

Dallas coach Tom Landry said "I still

Odom, Monterey Look Forward To Loop Chase

By TOM HALLIBURTON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Throughout the off-season, Monterey football coach James Odom mentioned the Plainview Bulldogs frequently... in various assorted grunts and groans.
Odom possessed an elephant's type of memory every time the subject of Plainview was mentioned. Often times, no one needed to say a word. Odom would start harping about one thing or another related to Plainview.

For one thing, Monterey rescued a terribly narrow 13-7 win from the Bulldogs last year in Lowrey Field. For another, the game ended in a rather unpolite gang fight as both benches cleared and exchanged punches for more than your average three minute boxfight round. For another, Plainview coach George Kirk received the district's coach of the year honors after his team finished 5-5 overall while Odom's Plainsmen wound up 13-1. Get the picture?

Last week, Odom discussed the differences between this year's early season performance and last year's at Monterey. "We haven't played with the same enthusiasm as last year. We haven't been quite as aggressive," Odom said. "The incentive will be there this week, though."

And later in the conversation, the Monterey coach reiterated, "If we don't play more aggressively next Saturday, then I think there's something wrong."

But for now, the biggest difference from last year could be the number of injuries around Monterey. And of course, injuries led to inconsistency.

"We haven't gotten the consistency we would like because we haven't been able to keep the same 11 players out there. And along with injuries, we're a different type of team this year. We were a lot quicker but a lot smaller up front last year," Odom added.

One thing remains very similar to last year, though — a fellow named Reeves at quarterback. Or is Ron Reeves the same? Odom feels that Reeves has changed some. Too. The 14-year coaching veteran rates Reeves a better passer but doubts that his quarterback has been quite as accurate on his pitechouts.

Fate Kind To A&I; ACU Upset

By The Associated Press
Texas A&I lost a quarterback but remained unbeaten Saturday night. Fate wasn't as kind to Abilene Christian.

Reserve quarterback Elvis Hartsfield completed 10 of 18 passes for 140 yards and a touchdown after Martin Stroman reentered his right shoulder. A&I, the defending Lone Star Conference and small college national champions, whipped Stephen F. Austin 36-8.

ACU, ranked No. 2 in the NAIA polls behind the Javelinas, was ambushed 21-14 by Angelo State.

Angelo State, ranked No. 4, scored two touchdowns on a blocked punt and an interception return to stun ACU.

In other LSC games, tenth-ranked East Texas State downed Howard Payne 46-37 in a wild offensive show in Brownwood and Southwest Texas remained tied with Angelo and East Texas for the LSC lead with a 16-5 victory over Sam Houston. All three are at 2-0.

S.F. Austin was trailing only 15-8 after three quarters before the Javelinas rallied behind fullback Hughie Shaw who carried 103 yards rushing and Hartsfield.

Quarterback Terry Skinner became ETSU's all-time passing leader as he hit 18 of 33 for 280 yards and four touchdowns. HPU sophomore Craig Smith was just as effective as he threw for 302 yards, completing 23 of 35 passes.

Texas A&I is at Sam Houston while the East Texas-Abilene Christian game at Commerce takes the LSC spotlight. Howard Payne is at the Angelo State in the other league game.

"He didn't have any bad pitches last year. I think he's just gotten out of the groove. I think it's like anything else you do... you get in a certain groove. Right now, he's not in it. It's all in the delivery of the wrists and the follow-through. He will get better as the season progresses," said the coach.

Odom emphasizes the pitchouts this week because his offense must not give Plainview the ball deep in MHS territory with a fumble. Defensively, the goal centers around containing Plainview's speedy runners and preventing the big play.

And how about Monterey's backs? "They're doing a credible job. (Tailback Jeff) Harp has been injured but he's played well. He's a hard runner but a very quick starter. (Fullback Robby) McDaniel does a good job of blocking but balance has been his biggest problem. (Tailback Mike) Wooten is probably quicker than Harp on the straight-ahead runs," Odom said.

Much of the offensive load falls on Reeves' shoulders. The durable senior has rushed and passed for 983 of the 1569 total yards in Monterey's offense — nearly 63 per cent.

"The load is on the quarterback," the coach said. "It is in any good offense. You've got to start building your offense somewhere."

Holtz Says Hogs 'Stunned', 'Shocked' After Texas Loss

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — In one sentence, Arkansas coach Lou Holtz put the Razorbacks' 13-9 loss to Texas in perspective.

"This is the type of game that gnaws on you, but you can't let it," he told a news conference Sunday.

"As a football team, we played probably our finest football game," he said. "I don't come down here to make any alibis and I'm not happy about the way it turned out. You look at this pass or this play... nine million things. They drive you up the wall."

"I say this to you in all sincerity. I don't know what it takes, but whatever it is, you need a lot of it to be excited about football if you were a part of the University of Arkansas football team yesterday (Saturday)."

It was a game in which a 20-mile-an-hour wind was a dominant factor and each team kicked two field goals with the wind at its back in the first half.

It was a game in which Arkansas put together a 13-play drive against the wind in the third quarter to take a 9-6 lead.

And, it was a game in which Texas made 80 of its 334 yards against the wind on an eight-play drive that netted the winning touchdown with 4:31 to play.

It was a game filled with maybes and what-ifs.

Holtz said that after the game, his players were "stunned" and "shocked."

"I think they expected to win the football game and everybody looked at himself and said, 'It was my fault. I could have done this. I could have done that.'"

Holtz said during the taping of his television show that he would have done things differently had he known how the game was going to go.

"Such as?"

"A million things," he said. "I'd sell insurance."

He said that Arkansas played conservatively in the first and third quarters because of the wind. "The second quarter was wide open and the fourth quarter we were sitting on a lead, which I don't like to do," he said.

He said he told his team at the half that the Razorbacks would take the football at the start of the third quarter. He explained that the defense needed to recover a fumble or intercept a pass to give Arkansas field position because of the wind and the kicking of Russell Erxleben would keep the Razorbacks in a hole.

And, the defense responded.

and one at the UA 44 and Steve Little punted 56 yards into the end zone.

From there, Texas drove 80 yards for the game's only touchdown.

"Do you go for it on fourth and one leading 9-6, with the wind," Holtz said. "You kick the ball. Had I known we would get beat 13-9, we would have turned down the field goal (earlier) and went for it on fourth and two."

Had I known they were going to score, we would have went for it on fourth and one. Hindsight is 20-20."

Holtz said he was disappointed in the way Arkansas executed its passing game. Calagni completed six of 18 for 67 yards.

"We had people open. We didn't catch the ball. We didn't get it to them. That's nobody's fault."

Sloan Ponders Red Raider Injury List

By CARTER CROMWELL

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Steve Sloan looked concerned as he talked with writers late Saturday night. Earlier, his Texas Tech team had dispatched Rice by a 42-7 count, but Sloan was pondering his mounting injury list. Finally, attempting to point out a bright spot, a writer noted that Tech's situation is immeasurably better now than it was three weeks ago.

"Boy, you bet," Sloan concurred. "Things don't look nearly as bleak now as they did then."

Three weeks ago, the Raiders had suffered a significant 33-17 conference defeat at the hands of Texas A&M and had lost outstanding quarterback Rodney Adams to injury. The task then was to win their next three games that led up to this week's open date prior to the important battle with Texas Oct. 29. That has been accomplished.

"I tell you what. North Carolina was a good team," Sloan said. "That was a tough one (a 10-7 win). And then we had to go to Arizona, and that's like going to Russia."

The Raiders are now 5-1 for the season and 2-1 in SWC play. The open date is coming at a very opportune time for them because the injury toll has been high. The Tech staff hopes a number of players can recover in time to play against Texas.

Allison, of course, is a key figure. He is off crutches and has begun rehabilitation of his left leg, in which he suffered a cracked fibula against A&M. He is still expected to be able to perform versus the Longhorns.

Quarterbacks Mark Johnson and Tres Adams have been bothered by leg and ankle injuries. Adams reinjured the ankle he first hurt in fall drills and was operating about "about half-speed" Saturday, Sloan said.

Linebacker Mike Mock will miss several days of practice because of a pulled groin muscle. Strongside guard Greg Mahoney has a severely pulled hamstring and will miss at least a week. The guard position is very thin now because of injuries to Mahoney and original starters Greg Davis and Greg Wessels.

Sophomore cornerback Willie Stephens suffered a back injury against Rice. Sloan said Sunday that a vertebrae is "possibly" broken, but the seriousness of the injury is undetermined now. Stephens will be x-rayed again.

"Hopefully, we can get some people well during this time and improve some as a team. Because of our injuries, we're really lucky to have it now," Sloan said. "I think it's good to have an open date around the middle of the season. It gives you a chance to regroup."

Against Rice, Tech played well defensively, shutting the Owls off, except for their scoring drive at the beginning of the second half. Rice gained just 38 yards on the ground. The Owls completed 21 of 34 passes, but gained only 139 yards through the air. Most of their passes were in the flat to their backs and were only short gainers.

The defense set up two Tech scoring drives in the second half versus Rice by intercepting a pass and blocking a punt.

"The defense did well, overall," Sloan said. "We've only allowed 58 yards rushing in our last two games."

"Of course, we'll be severely tested when we play Texas," he added with a laugh, referring to UT's potent ground game spearheaded by Earl Campbell.

Offensively, the Raiders couldn't get moving early in the game, but had one touchdown drive midway through the second period and improved in the second half. Tech had 478 yards, 356 on the ground and 122 passing.

Early in the game, Tech had trouble getting the ball into the end zone, as it did against Arizona. Penalties also hampered the Raiders.

"Everything just happened," Sloan said. "We just couldn't score. We had penalties, and we missed a couple of field goals."

"A lot of it is because we're a much younger offensive team now than when we started," Johnson and Adams are inexperienced, and most of the line is, too. What was an all-senior line before the season is now composed of soph tackle Ken Walter, soph guard Larry Martin, junior guard Mahoney and seniors Dan Irons at tackle and Terry Anderson at center. Also, the line is smaller than it was at the start of the season.

The improvement of Johnson and Adams has been encouraging to the Tech staff, however. Johnson, who hobbled most of the week with a badly bruised thigh, came into the Rice game when Adams re-sprained his ankle on the second play. Johnson rushed 12 times for 120 yards and completed eight of 12 passes for 75 yards. He scored a touchdown and ran for a two-point conversion. His passing has been a surprise.

"I knew he had ability, but he's done more than I expected," Sloan said. "He's really helped us. He sparked that touchdown drive against North Carolina and then scored twice versus Arizona. He played well against Rice."

Adams rushed 11 times for 58 yards against the Owls and completed two of three passes for 30 yards.

"He did well considering that he was hampered by that ankle," Sloan said. "He's been bothered by that ankle all season, and it's really hurt his running."

"I think we've got a good one-two quarterback punch with Adams and Johnson in there."

The Raiders will not work out today and Tuesday, but will return to the practice field Wednesday.

SWC Sets 'Survival Battle'

By The Associated Press
Houston and Arkansas tangle in a Southwest Conference battle for survival Saturday while league co-leaders Texas A&M and Texas hit the road again after surviving games decided in the final minutes last week.

Second-ranked Texas knocked Arkansas' No. 8 ranked Razorbacks out of the unbeaten ranks 13-9 in a nationally televised shootout in the Ozarks.

Texas stayed unbeaten under new coach Fred Akers but it wasn't easy, and the Longhorns catch Southern Methodist in Dallas after the Mustangs shocked Houston 37-23 with a three-touchdown avalanche in the last four minutes.

The Texas Aggies, who survived a great Baylor rally to outlast the Bears 38-31, are at Houston to meet lowly Rice—a 42-7 loser to Texas Tech.

Texas and A&M are 2-0 while SMU and defending co-champion Texas Tech are 2-1.

King Back In Winners Circle

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—It took nearly one year, but Billie Jean King, the dean of women's tennis, returned to the winner's circle, taking both singles and doubles titles in the $75,000 women's professional tennis tournament.

King raced to a 1-6, 6-1, 6-0 victory over Australian Wendy Turnbull in the finals of the tourney Sunday.

It was her first triumph since her third knee operation last November and Mrs. King earned $14,000 for first place, while Miss Turnbull took home $7,000.

In doubles finals, Mrs. King teamed with Martina Navratilova to defeat Helen Gourlay Cawley and JoAnne Russell 6-1, 7-5. The winning team earned $4,600, while the losers got $2,300.

Miss Turnbull seemed to be headed to victory after easily taking the first set, but Mrs. King showed signs of coming on toward the end of the set. When Miss Turnbull's serve started to betray her, Mrs. King attacked and pulled away to a 3-0 lead. Then Miss Turnbull served two double faults in the fourth game, the second giving King the game.

"I've been coming here since 1966," Mrs. King said. "I remember in 1971 I won $100,000 on Oct. 2 or 3 right here. I had to win 19 tournaments that year to do that. Now it takes two or three. I'll always remember that day."

Mrs. King said Miss Turnbull has a "great future."

"Nobody runs better than Wendy. I wish I had her legs," added Mrs. King, who "iced" her knees after every match.

Miss Turnbull said she won the first set rather comfortably, but then lost her concentration.

"I lost my concentration and couldn't get it back," said Miss Turnbull. "When Billie Jean gets behind, she's a lot tougher and then she started hitting her forehand much better."

Mrs. King broke Miss Turnbull to open the final set, winning the final two points. She then ran off 17 straight points, while Miss Turnbull never came close to scoring one.

Miss Turnbull, still missing on her serve, double faulted again on game point and Mrs. King led 5-0. Miss Turnbull scored only four points the entire set.

The sixth-seeded Mrs. King, 33, of New York, has 19 Wimbledon and seven U.S. Open singles and doubles titles.

IRWIN BLASTS OUT OF TROUBLE — Texas Open winner Hale Irwin blasts out of a trap on the closing hole Sunday. Irwin parred the hole and won first place with a 14-under-par 266. (AP Laserphoto)

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Hale Irwin won $30,000, a golf tournament and a ton of respect from a fellow golf pro after his closing-round three-under-par 67 in the $150,000 Texas Open.

Irwin, battling Texan Miller Barber for the first place prize, paused on the 18th tee Sunday to offer encouragement to Carlton "Sluggo" White, a second-year pro fighting for his PGA players card.

White entered the Texas Open with $924.50 in earnings this year and needed to bring his winnings up to $7,000 or forfeit his card. Fifth place in the tournament would breathe life into his golf career, but a poorly hit wedge shot on the 17th hole resulted in a double bogey six that plummeted White from third to a fourth place tie with George Archer.

"I can't describe how bad I felt after making that double bogey," said an emotional White. "But Hale came over and patted me on the back and told me to forget it, that I still had a chance."

White then placed his tee shot at the treacherous 175-yard 18th hole about 10 feet below the pin. He two-putted for a par three and collected $6,600, thus assuring him of at least another year on the tour.

"I was really pulling for him," said Irwin, whose Texas Open title was his third tour win of the year and raised his season money-winning total to $221,455.

"We have a lot of Carlton Whites on the tour. Good players and gentlemen who face a this-week-or-no-week situation. It's one thing to play well for first and another to play for your career," Irwin said.

The former Colorado football player has played well in his last three tournaments, scoring in the 60s in 11 of the 12 tournament rounds. Barber bogeyed the final hole to finish with a 66-268 for second place. Last year Barber was the runnerup in Texas, losing to Butch Baird in a sudden death playoff.

Kite, with a closing one-over-par 71, wrapped up third place with a 270 total. Former U.S. Open champion Lou Graham finished fifth at 70-275.

Irwin's victory, sealed by consecutive birdie putts of 25 and 12 feet on the 14th and 15th holes, lifted his yearly earnings to $221,455, marking the third consecutive year his has topped the $200,000 mark.

Pete Jones Dies

BAYTOWN (AP) — Funeral services for former Texas A&M and Baylor assistant football coach A.E. "Pete" Jones, were scheduled for today. Jones, 74, died Saturday.

Jones was captain of the 1928 Baylor football team and a member of Baylor's all-time baseball team. He played briefly with Chattanooga and Dallas in the minor leagues.

Jones retired from coaching in 1953 and operated a chain of 14 convenience stores here.

Net Challenge

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — A pair of Texas college tennis standouts won an international challenge tournament against two members of Canada's Davis Cup team Sunday when Randy Crawford downed Canada's Rejean Genois 6-4, 6-7, 6-3 in the day's last match.

Harry Fritz of Canada had bested Tony Giammadia of Trinity University 6-2, 6-1, in the day's first match to even the Davis Cup style tournament at 2-2.

But Crawford, a Texas Christian University senior, captured the title for Texas with his defeat of Genois.

Jim McElreath

WINCHESTER, Ind. (AP) — Race driver Jim McElreath was fatally injured Sunday when his sprint car shot over the wall of the Winchester Speedway during a five-car pile-up early in a U.S. Auto Club twin feature.

McElreath, 23, of Arlington, Tex., was the son of Indianapolis 500 veteran and former California 500 champion Jim McElreath. The elder McElreath was serving as his son's crew chief in the pits Sunday.

McElreath was pronounced dead of massive head and neck injuries at Ball Memorial Hospital in nearby Muncie, officials said. He died about an hour and a half after the mishap.

Track officials said the accident happened during the third lap of the first 50-lap heat when driver Larry Moore of Dayton, Ohio, went into spin in front of four other drivers, including McElreath.

McElreath's car ran up another car's wheel and catapulted over the retaining rail of the high-banked, half-mile paved oval. The car flipped end-over-end before coming to rest against a tree, officials said.

6,000 View Class AA Shootout

By The Associated Press

Although almost twice the population of the South Texas town of Columbus showed up for Friday night's District 20-AA shootout between the hometown Cardinals and top-rated Bellville, Brahma coach Doyle Parker says his squad was not nervous.

In fact, Parker said, the team almost became a victim of relaxation before it pulled out a 28-14 win.

After Bellville took an early 7-0 lead, the No. 4-rated Cardinals took command and almost pulled off a major upset. "We got ahead and then I guess we relaxed a little bit," Parker said.

Across the state only three teams ranked in the AP poll were beaten. The standing room only crowd of 6,000 at Columbus watched the state's only contest between ranked teams.

"That crowd was the largest ever in Columbus (pop. 3,500)," Parker said. "There was a lot of enthusiasm on both sides."

The Brahmas trailed 8-7 at the half and the Cardinals added another six points midway through the third quarter. But Parker said his team regained its composure late in the game.

"It was like two different ball games, with them in control the first half and us in the second," Parker said.

Top-ranked Port Neches-Groves in AAAA edged Vidor 14-12 and second-ranked Temple beat Waco Richfield 20-10. No. 9-ranked LaPorte suffered a 29-20 setback to Pasadena Dobie in a 23-4A matchup.

No upsets were recorded in Class AAA. No. 1 Gregory-Portland had its closest call of the year, but overcame Calallen 28-8.

No. 2 Humble beat Houston King 21-7, while Mount Pleasant, rated third, managed only a 7-2 win over Jefferson. 15-10 fall to Laredo United. Second-rated Jacksboro blanked Bridgeport 48-0, while No. 7 Newton and No. 9 Slaton also recorded lopsided shutouts.

British Film Producer Plans 10 New Movies

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — They used to call him Lew Baby when he was an agent. When he became the savior of British television they knighted him and it was Sir Lew. Now by the grace of Elizabeth II, he's Lord Grade.

His real title is England's Mr. Show Business. Lew Grade is a bald, bespectacled Britisher with a wrong-side-of-the-tracks English accent and a healthy ego tempered by a self-deprecating sense of humor.

He came to Hollywood this week to announce grandiose plans to revitalize England's comatose film industry by pumping $97 million into 10 new movies all filled with major stars in the next two years.

Grade has come a long way since his days as a flesh peddler when, as head of England's largest talent agency, he represented Bob Hope in England and Europe. But he's still unproved as a filmmaker.

In the last couple of years Grade made six pictures. None were hits — "The Eagle Has Landed," "The Cassandra Crossing," "Voyage of the Damned," "The Domino Principle," "March or Die" and "Cross of Iron."

Grade says they failed to make it big because they were produced in partnership with American money men.

"They were nice people and I liked them," Grade said. "But I don't like partners. I'm used to making decisions myself. From now on I'm going on my own. And financing my own films."

He went on to say that he erred in making only action adventure movies. Future productions will include comedy, drama and love stories.

His production slate is more impressive than any two major studios combined.

Perhaps his most ambitious project is "The Lone Ranger," to be made in partnership with Jack Wrather. Grade explained that Wrather, like himself, makes instant decisions and is the exception to his aversion for partners.

"Double Feature," a comedy, will star George C. Scott.

Grade has hired his old client, Hope, to costar with Bing Crosby in "The Road to The Fountain of Youth."

"It's the funniest thing I ever heard in my life," Grade said, chuckling happily. "Bing and Bob find the fountain of youth all right. And it makes everybody younger — except Bob and Bing who drink the water and turn into King Kong and a baboon."

Grade has signed Gregory Peck and Laurence Olivier to star in "The Boys From Brazil" based on the current best-selling novel.

He's rounded up Charles Bronson and Jill Ireland for "Love and Bullets, Charlie," not to mention Roger Moore, Raquel Welch, David Niven and Telly Savalas for "The Athena Boodle."

Another triumph is combining Sweden's two most famous Bergmans in a movie for the first time — director Ingemar and actress Ingrid — for "Autumn Sonata."

He's signed television's "The Muppets" for a feature film and will convert another pair of best-selling novels to the screen, "The Golden Gate" and "Raise The Titanic."

"We will get the best talent available," he said. "And we'll shoot our films in Hollywood and on various locations around the world."

"People ask why I put big stars in my pictures," Grade said, "and I tell them that a great performer raises the performances of everyone else."

"I'm a great believer in names because they don't become stars by accident. It's because they've established themselves in performances. The thing to do is inspire them to attain the heights again."

Grade is a generous man who gives his stars and directors a percentage of the profits. It's not so much philanthropy as business acumen.

"I like to involve the actors, directors and producers financially," he said. "It gives them an incentive."

Grade, a dynamic and unpretentious man, ascribes his enormous success to his adherence to three tenets:

"Never run after a woman or a bus because another will be coming along."

"If you have to know now, the answer is 'no.'"

"The third one is 'Never for your beautiful face.' That takes a little explaining. I don't do anything for nothing. It means you gotta deliver."

Grade delivers. He has a reputation for doing business on a handshake. When he says he's going to make 10 movies for $97 million no one doubts him for a minute.

"I don't mind taking on the major studios," he said. "They buy a lot of properties and then fail to make them into pictures. I don't buy any properties I don't intend to bring to the screen."

"And I don't ask about the budget. I make a picture regardless of the cost."

Grade was silent a moment and then he said, "That $97 million figure isn't exactly accurate. I had a conference with Jack Wrather on 'The Lone Ranger' last night and I think the costs may go a lot higher."

Broadcast Proposal Shelved In House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Plans for broadcasting proceedings of the House have been shelved in the wake of a backlash against revision of House procedures and standards, Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill said.

After years of discussion and months of experimental closed-circuit televising of the House, a resolution to institute regular television and radio coverage and make it available to commercial broadcasters was expected to be approved by the House Rules Committee.

But last week the House batted down, 252 to 160, a special commission's recommendations for reform of House procedures and spending practices. The Rules Committee then held up action on the broadcasting resolution.

The speaker said the proposal probably will be sent to a subcommittee for further study.

"Do we want it? (House broadcasting)" O'Neill asked rhetorically and answered, "Yes."

Actor Began Career As Singer On Ted Mack's 'Amateur Hour'

By JAY SHARBUTT

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When Barry Gordon was only three years old, he climbed on a chair, sang "Cry" and won a preliminary round in "Ted Mack's Original Amateur Hour."

"That and the fact he lost in the finals to an Italian orphans' choir could have assured him lasting oblivion. But 25 years later, he's still in show biz, a regular on ABC's "Fish" series.

"I shouldn't have expected miracles," he laughed, explaining that the Mack effort began as a neighbor's gag. "If there were to be miracles, I would've gone into the Italian orphans' choir."

It's one of the ironies of acting that Gordon, son of an ex-radio announcer, plays a bumbling child psychologist in "Fish."

At 13, he played an object of concern to a child psychologist in "A Thousand Clowns." The kiddie shrink in the hit play was trying to take Gordon away from his happy-go-lucky uncle, played by Jason Robards.

But Gordon, who starred in both the Broadway and film version of "Clowns," seems to have grown up eminently well-adjusted, even though he was performing most of the years he was growing.

Born in Brookline, Mass., briefly raised in Albany, N.Y., his fledgling "Cry" led to other singing jobs on other major TV shows and then a hit record, "Nuttin' For Christmas," at age six.

That led to a Las Vegas stint in "Ken Murray's Blackouts" and a chat there with Sheldon Leonard of the "Make Room For Daddy" series. The chat led to his first acting job and a temporary farewell to singing.

Gordon said his family moved to Los Angeles, and while his father tried to get into radio here, he proceeded into acting, appearing in such TV shows as "Alfred Hitchcock" and the "GE Theater."

But after "Clowns," he had trouble finding work and had the child star blahs. And, he said, rather than rush into a bad movie and "take a giant step backward," he hit the books, then enrolled at UCLA.

He dropped out after a while to study guitar, write songs and make the rounds of record studios. He even cut one album. Alas, it was mellow music in an era of ear-shattering acid rock, and it didn't sell.

"I haven't really pushed it yet, but I'm supposed to start doing a bunch of talk shows soon, and that should help because it'll get my songs around a little bit," he said.

"What with people like Barry Manilow, Paul Williams and Neil Sedaka, I think music is moving into a phase where I might fit nicely now, if I do it just right."

Gordon, who lives in suburban Rancho Park with his wife, Lenni, and their 1-year-old son, Colin, grinned when asked for odds Colin in another two years will emulate Pop and start a career with "Cry."

"I don't know," he said in mock dismay. "I don't think I could handle it. I don't know how my parents did."

But Gordon, a surprisingly good guitarist and vocalist whose music is in the Kenny Rankin vein, hasn't given up on singing, even though he's succeeding as an actor again, getting good weekly exposure in "Fish."

New Baby Boom Predicted For Next 50 Years

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States may be on the brink of a new population expansion equal to the baby boom that followed World War II, Zero Population Growth says.

"At current fertility, legal and illegal immigration rates, our population will grow by 107 million people in the next 50 years," the group said in a recent statement.

It said studies show the number of women of childbearing age will increase 8 per cent in the next three years and surveys of birth expectations among all women suggest a rise in the birthrate.

"The large number of women born during the baby boom years 1946-61 are currently in their prime childbearing years," the group said. "If these women have an average of two children each, as surveys indicate they expect to have, the total fertility rate could increase to 2.1 by 1980," compared to the current level of 1.8.

If young women bear an average of two children, the group said. "The number of annual births could reach four million by 1980, approaching the 1957 peak of the post war baby boom when 4.3 million children were born."

The group urged the government to limit immigration and encourage "voluntary reduction of fertility rates" through family planning centers, contraceptives for teenagers, voluntary sterilization, and development of safer and more effective methods of contraceptives.

Three Performers Win Praise

By WILLIAM GLOVER
NEW YORK (AP) — Three fine performers wander through a bog of turgid dramaturgy in "The Night of the Tribades."
Giving their emotive all to the play that opened last week at the Helen Hayes Theater are Swedish film star Max Von Sydow in his Broadway debut, Bibi Andersson and Eileen Atkins.
Von Sydow and Miss Andersson, veterans both of many Ingmar Bergman movies, presumably were lured into the dreary event because the story concerns their late, great compatriot, August Strindberg.
Miss Atkins, who contributed greatly to creation of television's "Upstairs, Downstairs," presumably must have just wanted a chance to play a part in which she can look like Bette Davis in frowsy extremities.

"The Night of the Tribades" is the first stage effort of Per Olov Enquist, an otherwise more successful novelist.
He picks up the Strindberg career at a crucial moment in 1889 when the misogynic and paranoid genius was in fact breaking up with his first wife Siri and attempting financial comeback.

Enquist's scene is a rehearsal of the master's actual "The Stronger," and before you can say "skool!" more than once, we are all immersed in one of those play-within-a-play mazes.

Editor Tells Students U.S. Journalism Best

GREENCASTLE, Ind. (UPI) — Richard Leonard, editor of the Milwaukee Journal has told a college audience America has the "best journalism in the world."

Leonard, president of the professional journalists' society, Sigma Delta Chi, told a DePauw University audience in a weekend speech. "The free flow of news Americans take for granted just does not exist elsewhere in the world. The concept that the press serve the people rather than be a tool of government isn't known in most of the world."

"We've got a lot of critics. To listen to all these people you would never suspect the truth ... the United States has the best journalism in the world and it has never been better than it is right now."

Typing Course Could Have Saved Heroine In '79 Park Avenue'

By JOAN HANAUER
NEW YORK (UPI) — The virtue of the heroine in "79 Park Avenue" could have been saved by a simple typing course.

Not knowing how to type, she turns instead to the way girls earned money long before the invention of the secretarial pool and becomes one of New York's unhappiest hookers — and that's just the beginning.

NBC has taken Harold Robbins' "79 Park Avenue" and turned it into a six-hour television drama shown in two-hour segments last night, tonight and Tuesday.

The action, most of which involves the extremes of tawdry sex or adolescent romance complete with invisible violins, swirls around Lesley Ann Warren as Marja Pludjicki, who in a later episode adopts the name Marianne Morgan for professional purposes.

In the very first scene, the tenement reception after Marja's mother (Barbara Barrie) marries Peter Markevich (Albert Salmi) in 1935, the viewer can tell from the way Peter looks at Marja what's going to happen. It does.

But first Marja runs around with Ross

(Marc Singer), the no-good spoiled son of racketeer Ben Savitch (Eddie Constantine, who plays the role with a "Godfather" hoarseness to his voice).

She also has a romance with poor but honest Mike Koshko, who is studying to be a lawyer. Koshko is played by David Dukes, who was the Lassiter son who lost his arm in "Beacon Hill."

To earn money to pay her mother's hospital bills, Marja goes job-hunting.

Her skills are minimal, so she goes to work as a taxi dancer for Joker Martin (Jack Weston) at his dime-a-dance palace. Her virtue remains intact until her stepfather's assault, after which she stabs him. She goes to reform school rather than admit being raped. One reason for her shame is that while she has lost her virtue, honest Mike Koshko is holding on to his. Reform school starts her slide toward 79 Park Avenue.

POLYGLYCOAT PRESERVES! NO NEED TO EVER WAX YOUR CAR AGAIN!
Polyglycoat is a paint, and chrome sealant finish - guaranteed to protect your car against fading, corrosion, oxidation, and loss of gloss for three years. Composed of Dow 502, paraffin, silicone, with a Aerosone base. Polyglycoat breaks through the tiny paint pores in the surface and penetrates 2-3 layers into the paint-coating of and hardening it against the foreign elements that cause corrosion, rust, and faded-gloss. Not only Polyglycoat stimulate the need for waxing, but it will virtually maintain your car's showroom finish, thereby eliminating the need for waxing. If you should be required to oil your car and properly prepared used cars, Polyglycoat will keep them looking like new.

Concert Ends On Good Note

By WILLIAM D. KERNS

It was all pretty new to Lubbock, this 10:30 p.m. starting time for a major concert. The kickoff was held back to allow folks time to cross town after the Tech-Rice football game and, even so, the bash didn't really start until shortly after 11 p.m.

But the crowds came, predominantly blacks and Chicanos who had long awaited the chance to see rhythm and blues like that played by Tower Of Power and

C Average Required At School

NEWTON, N.C. (AP) — There will be no diplomas handed out to students in the Class of 1980 at Newton-Conover High School who do not have at least a C average, the school board has decided after hearing complaints about semi-literate graduates.

Last spring, 22 of the school's 187 graduating seniors received diplomas even though they had D averages. By 1980, the new rule will require what school officials call a straight-C average, meaning that a student with all C's except for one D would not qualify for a diploma. A's and B's only will offset D's.

William Zimbaum, chairman of the school board, said officials adopted the C average requirement because some graduating seniors could not perform at high school levels.

"We heard gripes from employers who were hiring high school graduates who couldn't read or write," Zimbaum said. "We want this to happen less frequently and one way is through the stiffer requirements."

But some national and state officials along with some local teachers say the plan will not make students work harder.

"I can't think of any high schools in the nation that have gone to a grade-point requirement," said H.T. Conner of the state Department of Public Instruction. "In a typical high school in North Carolina, this sort of thing would increase the number of students who don't get diplomas."

The policy affects students who are now sophomores and school officials said when sophomores' averages are computed for the grading period that just ended, those who need extra help will be identified. Officials say they will try to provide extra help for those not meeting the grade requirements.

The substitute certificates given to a student who did not meet the requirements for a diploma will specify that the student technically did not graduate, and some teachers feel that having only a certificate would hurt a student's chances of getting a job.

But Jerrold Ingle, principal of the high school, said he liked the new grade requirements.

"I think all the students will buckle down and meet the average. They're all certainly capable of it," he said.

Sweden Plans To Forgive Nations' Debts

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Sweden plans to forgive $200 million in debts it is owed by poor nations and has challenged the United States and other Western powers to do the same.

"We are undertaking this action in the firm hope that it will be followed by similar decisions of other countries," Ola Ulsten, minister for international development cooperation, told the General Assembly's Economic Committee recently.

Ulsten said his government would need the approval of parliament before writing off the $200 million in debts.

The announcement was welcomed by Third World delegates as a major breakthrough toward the creation of a new international economic order. One of the major demands by Third World nations has been for a moratorium on repayment of the estimated $200 billion they owe to Western governments and banks.

Many governments, such as Peru, Turkey and Egypt, have been forced to implement severe austerity measures to pay their debts, sparking civil disorders and rioting.

Ulsten said poor nations owe $20 billion — one-tenth of their total debt load — to the Western governments participating in the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development.

"If all donor countries joined in an action to cancel ... debts to the poorest, it would mean a nearly 20 per cent increase of aid to these countries," he said. "For the rich it would mean foregoing a mere 0.02 per cent of their gross national product."

Many U.N. delegates have predicted disastrous economic repercussions if Third World countries are allowed to drift into subsistence.

In a statement before the General Assembly, Foreign Minister Rujaratnam of Singapore predicted "a great depression — far more catastrophic than that of the 1930s — within the next few years," if industrialized and Third World countries cannot get together on creating a "sane world economy."

"We who are lucky enough to be born in countries of rich opportunities ... should now and then remind ourselves that our efforts to keep up our already extremely high living standards can in no way be compared with the vast burden of the vast majority of people in the underprivileged parts of the world," he said.

Flute Competition Set For May, 1978

NEW YORK (AP) — The Walter W. Naumburg Foundation says it will hold its first competition for flute in the United States in May 1978.

The foundation says "flutists of every nationality who reside in the United States and who are not under 17 years of age or over 30 years as of March 1, 1978, will be eligible."

First prize will be $2,500, a fully subsidized recital, and a commissioned work written specifically for the recital.

Carter Avoids Fight On Water Projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is backing away from another fight with Congress over the water projects he tried to kill earlier this year, a House member says.

Rep. Dan Marriott, R-Utah, who met with Carter along with other members of Congress from western states, said the President indicated he would consider pushing the projects to completion.

"The President said he did not intend to continue fighting with Congress over water projects," Marriott told reporters after the White House meeting. "He indicated he would consider expediting them to avoid inflation and other costs."

The decision marks Carter's final move in what has been a running battle with Congress since early spring over some members' pet projects — including dams, canals and irrigation systems in their home states.

At one point, Carter cited funding for the projects as a candidate for his first veto. But 10 of the projects were saved in a compromise with House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill.

Carter signed a $10-billion public works bill including the 10 projects during an August vacation in his hometown of Plains, Ga. But he said at the time: "I remain very concerned about these projects."

One administration official in Plains with the President added: "I wouldn't be surprised if you haven't heard the last of water projects, even for this year." He left open the possibility that the President would send Congress a recession and deferral message.

In such a message, Carter could have listed congressionally approved spending he wanted either to delay or delete from the budget. The move would have forced Congress to vote once more on any projects Carter included in the message.

The President's decision not to send any such message ends his contention with Congress over the issue at a time when he needs to build support for other initiatives, mainly his energy policy and ratification of the new Panama Canal treaty.

Today is Monday, Oct. 17, the 290th day of 1977 with 75 to follow.
The moon is approaching its first quarter.
The morning stars are Mercury, Jupiter, Venus, Mars and Saturn.
There are no evening stars.
Those born on this day are under the sign of Libra.

American actresses Jean Arthur and Rita Hayworth were born Oct. 17 — Miss Arthur in 1908 and Miss Hayworth in 1919.

On this day in history:
In 1777, at one of the great turning points of the Revolutionary War, British Gen. John Burgoyne surrendered his forces to the Americans at Saratoga, N.Y.

In 1931, bootlegger and racketeer Al Capone was convicted of income tax evasion in a Chicago court and sentenced to 11 years in prison.

In 1945, Juan Peron became dictator of Argentina and ran the country for 11 years until he was overthrown.

In 1975, American scientist James Rainwater and Danish scientists Aage

Bohr and Ben Motelson shared the Nobel Prize for physics.

A thought for the day: American humorist, artist and writer James Thurber said it this way: "Early to rise and early to bed makes a male healthy and wealthy and dead."

Lebanese Youths Pay Mental Price For War

BY NED TEMKO
BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — "We'll blow your brains halfway across Beirut," scowled the 13-year-old with a pistol cocked at his victim's head.

The boy fired, said a fellow militiaman, and joined the thousands of adolescent murderers who diminated a 19-month civil war that killed at least 25,000 Lebanese and Palestinians.

Youths comprised the overwhelming majority of Palestinian-Lebanese leftist and Lebanese rightist militias that fought in the war, which ended last November.

Now psychiatrists say Lebanon is beginning to pay the mental price for the war, and the adolescents may pay a good part of the bill.

Some small children traumatized by the daily shower of shellfire still stutter, wet their beds, squint and shake uncontrollably.

Adults, unable to sleep, ingest sizeable amounts of valium, lithium and other tranquilizers.

"It's their way of coping ... There's no war now. But there's no real law, no security, either," said Dr. Fuad Antun, a prominent Beirut psychiatrist.

The adolescents are a problem apart.

"We used to get the normal run of anxiety disorders during the war," said Dr. Amin Faris, a neurologist and colleague of Antun's at the teaching hospital of Beirut's American University.

The young child — and adult — disorders may pass once Lebanon's non-war is replaced with something more akin to peace, Lebanese psychiatrists agree. At least, they say, it is too early to tell.

But "the adolescents were the exception, during the war," said Faris. "I had teenagers, young kids, who were full-blown schizophrenics."

Faris was pressed into service by the hospital's psychiatric staff when many doctors fled Beirut.

The adolescents may face even greater problems now that the war is ended, said another prominent Lebanese psychiatrist, who asked to remain unidentified.

Deprived of the omnipotence of firearms, Lebanon's child killers will turn either criminal or neurotic in peacetime Beirut, the psychiatrist predicted.

He said the only other alternative was "rehabilitation." Ironically, the psychiatrist said "the overwhelming numbers of kids involved, the size of the problem" left only one potential tool for rehabilitation — a national military draft to allow "rehabilitation within the disciplined and organized life of the army."

"During the war, these adolescents found themselves in a situation totally foreign to their constitution," he said.

"Suddenly, they had authority, the authority of pistols and grenade launchers and machine-guns. . . They had financial independence from the looting.

"And most of all they had power, omnipotence almost, because they had the tool of fear. And everyone, absolutely everyone, was scared of these child executioners."

Lebanon's war-torn government has yet to replace the teen-age gunmen with alternative authority, psychiatrists interviewed agreed.

"We're still in a situation of insecurity, still in a vacuum," Faris said.

When "organized, official authority" returns, Faris' colleague said, "the kids can turn one of three ways, unless they are quickly and massively rehabilitated."

"They could turn to drugs. They could turn to psychotic, a social or antisocial behavior (crime). Or they could turn to a frustrated bottling-up — and anxiety reaction."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're not a general so don't treat the family like your personal army tomorrow. If you do, you could have a small but testy rebellion on your hands.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Extreme sensitivity where your pride is concerned could mar tomorrow. It may take only a sideways glance to reduce you to tears or anger.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Beware of well-meaning friends who try to steer you to bargains tomorrow. Their recommendations could be based on erroneous information.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Somewhere along the line you've stepped on the toes of one who exerts influence over your career. Tomorrow that person will be in a position to retaliate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You could be out of character tomorrow. You may look for the worst in others, rather than for their better qualities. It just isn't your style.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't permit yourself to be drawn into associations with those whose ideals and morals aren't up to your standards. This could taint you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Fortunately you're a rugged individualist. This will stand you in good stead tomorrow. Nobody will be behind you to give you a boost.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Coworkers must be treated with extreme tact tomorrow, particularly one you've had trouble with before.

Another storm may be brewing.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Make it a point tomorrow not to stick your nose into situations where you're neither involved or invited. You could be rebuffed or rebuked.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Avoid discussing what already is a sticky issue with your mate tomorrow. What was just simmering could turn into a real pot-boiler.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) As long as you're acting on your own volition, you'll be easy to get along with tomorrow. If you're ordered to do something, you'll become very balky.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Protect the tools of your trade and possessions tomorrow. An ounce of prevention could save you from the trauma of being ripped off.

Carter Requests Defense Review

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter has ordered a major attack on critical defense command and management problems which he said "have resisted change for many years."

In a recent memorandum to Defense Secretary Harold Brown, the President called for a "searching organizational review" and told Brown that "often, our own personal involvement will be needed" to get results.

Carter's order sets in motion still another in a series of efforts dating back about 30 years to make the giant, complex and often sluggish defense establishment function more effectively and economically in peace and war.

The most recent major attempt in that direction was made by the Nixon administration. It created a "blue ribbon defense panel" which recommended in 1970 a drastic overhaul of the defense leadership structure, both military and civilian.

But few of its fundamental proposals were adopted, apparently because the Nixon administration feared friction with the military and with elements in Congress while the Vietnam War was in progress.

In outlining key issues for study now, the White House "reorganization project staff" warned Carter he would face resistance from the military services and intense political pressures resulting from base closures and various consolidations.

The responsiveness — or the lack of it in crises — has been a major concern since the Vietnam War, and particularly since the North Korean seizure of the U.S. spy ship Pueblo in 1968 disclosed a virtual paralysis in the responses of military and civilian authorities.

"Serious questions persist about the effectiveness of the command structure for the conduct of war, for peacetime activities and for crisis management," said Carter's reorganization staff in a paper the President forwarded to Brown.

Among other things, the staff voiced concern about the capability of the Joint Chiefs of Staff "to provide guidance (to the President and the secretary of defense), to review contingency plans and to resolve differences between commands regarding forces." Without going into detail, the paper said that "several conflicts that were not easily resolved have occurred between the Readiness Command and other unified commanders over matters of contingency planning and the conduct of operations."

Carter's staff said a review should propose measures aimed at "simplifying the decision-making process" and reducing some military staffs with corresponding cuts in costs.

The White House staff also focused attention on the perennial problem of trimming down and simplifying the management structure, principally organized around the secretary of defense and his top civilian assistants.

The memorandum said that basic questions yet to be resolved include overlapping and duplication in staffs and, in effect, the growth in various bureaucratic practices which blur responsibility.

Brown has made some limited changes at the very top of the civilian organization in the Pentagon, but Carter obviously wants him to go further.

Another major area of concern to Carter involves management of about $36 billion, or about one-third of the Defense budget, in the area of what are called "support services." These include supply, maintenance, training, health care and base operations.

"There is much evidence that these functions are more expensive and less effective than they might be," Carter's staff told him.

The thrust of the reorganization staff's memo on this point appears aimed at the separate supply, training, medical and recruitment organizations maintained by the individual services. The staff apparently believes many of these should be consolidated.

"Each military service in the defense structure will work to protect its base of support activities," the staff memorandum said.

"The services' concern will be that reorganization of functions will impair readiness."

"Any changes in medical-health care delivery will arouse great concern and may meet resistance from retirees and dependents."

Califano Cites Waste Of Medicaid Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal and state governments are wasting $1 billion in tax money a year in ineligible Medicaid payments, says the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. said Sunday that 4.7 million ineligible claims totaling $229 million were paid between April and September 1976.

"Now, if you project that for a year — that is just federal dollars — that is almost half a billion dollars, and the states are matching those payments, that is another half billion dollars," Califano said.

"So just in terms of ineligible payments, we are throwing $1 billion a year away in this country."

The figures, taken from HEW's computerized review of Medicaid transactions, include payments to health care providers, such as doctors, and to recipients.

Califano commented on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers."

HEW has sent the 2,500 most serious cases to the states, which are beginning probes of doctors and pharmacists in their jurisdictions. More cases will be referred to states in the future, Califano said.

The department previously announced some of its specific findings. For instance, a doctor said he performed three tonsillectomies on the same patient last year. A pharmacist filed a claim for 120 pills a day for 204 consecutive days for one person.

Plane Crash Kills Two

DEWEY, Okla. (AP) — Two high school seniors, one of them a newly licensed airplane pilot, died when their single-engine plane crashed, officials said.

The victims were identified as Casey Cornelius, 18, of Bartlesville, who was the pilot of the plane, and Larry Lynn Lucas, 20, of Dewey. The plane they were in crashed in a pasture near this northeast Oklahoma town Sunday, authorities said.

Lucas, who served in the Marine Corps before returning to high school, was also a licensed pilot. Cornelius received his pilot's license last week.

The students, both enrolled at the Bartlesville Sooner High School aviation program, had checked out the plane from the school's hangar, apparently to make a short flight, Washington County sheriff's deputies said.

The Federal Aviation Administration is investigating the crash.

A nearby resident saw the plane crash and called firefighters. "The whole tail section of the plane was burning — both guys in the plane were dead when help showed up," one firefighter said.

Business & Industrial Review

EASY TO REACH — "For a shopping experience to be enjoyed, ski on down to Ski-Lubbock Sports! It is especially easy to reach for southwest Lubbock residents who can take Indiana Avenue through the Tech campus to 4th Street, turning right for a few blocks . . . and there it is, on the north side, across from the National Guard Armory. Ski-Lubbock Sports, 2918 4th St., is where the snow skiers meet."

Ski Fun '77 Begins With Qualified Assistance From Ski-Lubbock Sports

Once again, with fall in the air, Ski-Lubbock Sports, 2918 4th St., is fully stocked with beautiful ski clothing.

The new colors for the season are like a rainbow in fall fabrics, and Ski-Lubbock Sports is happy to present Roffe parkas and accessories. Demetre sweaters and Bogner apparel are new additions to their clothing lines this year, enriching the existing lines of Anha, Innsbruck, White Stag, Beonta and Profile — all great names in the world of ski apparel.

Many of these lines are shown here only at Ski-Lubbock Sports.

Co-owners Hoyle Moss and son, Steve H. Moss, each voice their pleasure in adding Roffe, Demetre and Bogner, lines that meet the quality and function test required of products carried by their Lubbock firm.

Chalet Atmosphere

Not only does Ski-Lubbock Sports constantly strive to provide finest in equipment and apparel, but it also works at making one's shopping more interesting. New interior remodeling has made better utilization of space and affords customers with the true mountain ski chalet atmosphere.

Ski-Lubbock Sports staffmembers are true professionals backed with training and experience in all phases of the business.

"It is here you get the facts, not the fast talk."

Quality Lines

Olin, Dynastar and Sarner comprise the quality ski lines, with Sarner added this year at Ski-Lubbock Sports. (Sarner offers colorful skis with varying degrees of flex and performance and names including the Skill, Kick and Ray.)

Olin is carried in depth in all models including the new Mark VI and the Mark IV. Dynastar is featured in Medalist, Freestyle, Laser, Pulsar and FPS models.

obtained from a packet of fast-forming microseran beads.

The Hanson boot, unlike most boots, provides separate thermal and foot form fitting systems. (Hanson introduces the Citation boot in white and flame red, and one must see this Citation to appreciate its lightweight one-piece molded construction and its many other features.)

Dolomite boots offer a lower foot profile, and the shell is of durable polyurethane construction, IOS standard solid configuration, and it is offered in three or four-buckle models. The Turbo, GTS and Espada are stocked in a full range of sizes and widths.

Fitting Specialists

Comfort and flex patterns are criteria in the selection of boots stocked, and Ski-Lubbock Sports recognized years ago that some feet were more difficult to fit than others. They set out to educate themselves in the art of boot fitting, and for the past two years have trained under the foremost boot fitter in the nation.

"Our purpose is to fit the boot to the foot and not to assume the foot is going to fit perfectly in all boots. Pronation and flat feet are common causes of problems, so if you have a boot problem, in many instances you can find relief from a good boot fitter."

"There you have a preview of Ski-Lubbock Sports for the 1977-78 season . . . the new lines, along with the accessories, true professionals with facts and not fast talk, certified ski mechanics on duty, a fully equipped repair facility, and personnel with a desire to serve you. If you haven't visited Ski-Lubbock Sports lately, why not treat yourself to a mountain chalet motif and a shopping thrill . . . now!"

Tuftwick's Warehouse Jubilee Sale Underway During October

"Heed this and profit accordingly . . . It is Warehouse Jubilee Sale time at Tuftwick Carpet Co., Slide Road and Brownfield Highway in Lubbock!"

Overstocked, the firm has directed all operations toward turning carpet into $$$ throughout remainder of October, its management emphasizes.

Actually, Tuftwick's fiscal year is ending, and inventory in an overstocked situation must be reduced.

This is explained to mean that 10,000 square yards of fine quality carpeting are being made available at savings of $3, $4 and even $5 per yard!

This statement becomes even more significant when it is recognized that involved are such lines as Philadelphia, Milliken, Columbia, Lees, Galaxy and other nationally known and respected lines.

It is a Warehouse Jubilee at Tuftwick Carpet! Don't miss it!

"Most folks likely recognize the tremendous pricing advantages at Tuftwick Carpet."

"But did you also realize there are many other factors also contributing to its record of service? Such as installation by what we believe the best carpet installers in the entire area. And a very large selection of materials and patterns always in stock. And a staff that is qualified and anxious to help, yet never 'pushy'."

Thoroughly in keeping with Tuftwick Carpet's record of maximum service, another significant forward step has been announced.

Now, a special Contract Department has been established to better serve in this phase of the firm's business.

Actually, contracting services long have been a part of Tuftwick's operation, but the currently-announced step makes for a greater scope of efficiency and customer service, it is believed.

Curtis Head, long associated with Tuftwick, is in charge of the department, and his background in the field enables his following through — from consultation to selection to installation and completion. He is qualified and happy to give advice, as he is most familiar with carpet specifications, with decorating and planning, all understandable with his three decades of experience.

Those connected with commercial, office, shop, restaurant, office buildings, etc., of any size will especially appreciate the benefits afforded by this distinct Tuftwick department. Of course, residence owners will continue to profit by its use, too.

There are very outstanding buys presently available at Tuftwick Carpet Co., Brownfield Highway at Slide Road in Lubbock.

There are full rolls at tremendous markdown prices, and there is a good selection of remnants "at our cost and below!"

The stock is exceptionally large . . . and the values unquestioned.

Sonotone-Lubbock Customer Tells Advantages Experienced

Life is richer when one hears as he or she should. Ask Bob Glasscock, if in doubt. Glasscock, 27, was fitted back in late 1973 with a Sonotone 36 Series hearing aid, and he is one of the most enthusiastic customers of Sonotone-Lubbock, 2318 Broadway.

"Not only has my aid been very satisfactory, but the service from Louise Bills, Ralph Huntington and staff has been real, real good," Bob emphasizes.

Now in his own business (TV and CB radio repair at 1517 E. Broadway), specializing in both sales and service, Glasscock reports his hearing aid has made for better business relationships, enabling him to converse and hear without undue problems.

"My hearing aid is comfortable, its efficiency actually has helped in my business. My friends know when I have it on, and I can understand how some make a fuss if I don't wear it."

Such is the every realistic testimonial of Glasscock, one of the many throughout the area whose life has been made richer because of the understanding, the quality products, the professional knowledge, and the desire to serve evident at Sonotone-Lubbock, 2318 Broadway, phone 782-5469.

A highly qualified staff serves at Sonotone-Lubbock, headed by Louise Bills, certified hearing aid audiologist who has been heaped for decades with honors from customer and manufacturer alike. Also on hand is Ralph Huntington, long familiar on the team at Sonotone-Lubbock, and newest staffmember Flo Miller.

No-Obligation Tests
 Louise, Ralph and Flo take personal interest in the people with whom they contact at both the business office and in the course of calls made within homes of the area.

"If you have not become acquainted with them, there is no reason to delay any longer!"

Individual hearing tests, at no obligation, personalized fitting, frequent checkups and the interested care of a Sonotone consultant is the service one can expect and appreciate without excep-

Holt's Shoes, In All-New Sunshine Square Store, Reveals Added Lines

"Surely you have discovered Holt's Shoes is in a new home!"

For happy feet and fashion Holt's Shoes has "come through" in every season, and now serves in its all-new home, 4519 50th St., in Sunshine Square.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Haire, owners and operators, served 10 years in a Holt's Monterey Center location, and they are understandably enthused about the new facility that is modern in every respect, designed for finest customer service.

The name is the same, the ownership is the same, but the address is new, furnishings are new, the store is larger, extremely convenient, and the stock has been appreciably expanded.

It is a pretty store, roomy and attractively arranged.

The fall and holiday selection has never been more enticing, more practical, more beautiful than now at the new Holt's.

There are many styles for young women in the 18-30 age group.

And what a selection of the famous Scholl lines, long at Holt's.

A good stock of little girls' and women's boots is noted.

There is an extremely good assortment of shoes for women and children, with some Hush Puppies for men.

And the labels need no introduction such as California Cobbies, Jumping Jacks, Dunham, Red Cross, Easy Street and Scholl.

Not only is the shoe presentation most complete at Holt's, but experienced shoe fitters round out the picture of service.

Expert fitting is assured, and this can be extremely important for the demands of the season's activities.

Both Visa and Master Charge transactions are welcomed.

Attention to style is as notable in children's shoes as in the women's department at Holt's Shoes.

"Won't you pay us a visit, soon, and share in our pride of the type establishment now afforded in Sunshine Square, 4519 50th Street. We think you'll like what you find, a Holt's with the same friendliness and consideration, but in all-new and functionally beautiful quarters, with an expanded stock from which to choose, ready for fall and holiday enjoyment."

NEW LOCATION, ADDED LINES, SAME FINE QUALITY — Mrs. Joe Haire of Holt's Shoes calls attention to the exciting Scholl line still a stand-by at Holt's, together with a new Revelations number, both indicative of the quality, fashion and comfort synonymous with offerings of the firm now in its new 4519 50th St. facility.

ASSURE FASHION RIGHTNESS — Staffmembers of Linda G's, exuding enthusiasm about the Anniversary Celebration underway there (that includes a special Clifton Wilhite show-

Banner Opportunities Afforded During Linda G's Anniversary

Anniversary Celebration time, underway at Linda G's, holds so very much in store for the fashion-conscious, the value-conscious, and for those planning exciting new-season and holiday wardrobes. The celebration involves distinct price advantages, presentation of an expanded line of new fall and holiday arrivals and a special trunk showing.

Special Prices
One special group of fall wear is marked at 30 per cent off.

White Showing
On Friday and Saturday (Oct. 21-22), Clifton Wilhite, the renowned designer and manufacturer of Clifton Wilhite special-occasion dresses, will be at Linda G's in person, showing his complete line of short and long cocktail dresses! What an opportunity to see these and select party, mother-of-the-bridal and presentation dresses. What an opportunity to see first-hand the creations of Wilhite's design, in fabrics and colors desired for those special events ahead.

(There still is plenty of time to order special-occasion dresses for the impending needs.)

So, don't overlook this opportunity at Linda G's, in Sunshine Square, 4515 50th St.

The Anniversary Event also presents great opportunity of seeing and selecting the all-new fall and holiday apparel that has arrived.

There is exquisite new lingerie for the holidays.

And leather coats, with and without real fur trim.

See the beautiful four-piece weekenders, and the gorgeous cardigan sweaters for everything in casual wear.

Could there be a better time and better way of making holiday and Christmas selections, even using layaway?

What fun it can be to select at Linda

Needs Of Every Season Considered At Maxey Home Improvement Center

For any building and hardware need, chances are that one-stop shopping at Maxey Home Improvement Center and the Maxey Lumber firm on the 100-block N. University Ave. will meet the need in selection, quality, service and economy.

Maxey makes special effort to stock the "hard to find" but needed items, with full attention of particular needs of the season.

Just now, attention is called to Geocel waterproofing, one of the most practical products one can imagine.

For Winterizing
This Geocel, available in cartridges, tubes, quarts and gallons, is a multiple-use product, great for sealing tree branches, concrete blocks, showers, basement concrete, camper and trailer tops, skylights, general caulking, etc. In winterizing home and recreational units, a supply of Geocel is heartily recommended. It is available in clear or white at Maxey Home Improvement Center.

Door Openers, Service
"Are you having trouble with CB units or other signals operating your garage door?"
"If so, a wise suggestion is to contact Maxey Home Improvement Center, 120 N. University Ave., phone 765-7736, and find out how conversion can be made at a nominal fee... ending this irksome problem. It is just that simple."

Also... if you do not have an electric garage door opener, isn't it time to think of securing one before winter's needs arise? Maxey Home Improvement Center stocks the Genie electric garage door opener in three models.

Many other items and services from this Lubbock firm can be of equal benefit.

For example, Maxey stocks the X-14 Instant Mildew Remover. Available in spray bottles, it required no scrubbing, no rubbing, no buffing on bath and shower.

All lighting fixtures, including swag lamps and more, are marked 30 per cent off, with some closeout items at a discount of 50 per cent and greater!

Peerless storm doors also come in for special attention at this time of year, with Maxey Home Improvement Center stocking several models. (You owe it to yourself to shop and compare the quality and prices before you buy.)

Storm doors from Maxey are installed for only $1 installation fee within the Lubbock city limits!

Skylight Selection
"Did you realize that skylights are stocked, in both single and double dome, in white or bronze, for residential or commercial use?"
This great way of "letting the sunshine

Uniqueness, Added Inventory Bonus At 'The Little Shoppe'

"Haven't I read that The Little Shoppe in Cactus Alley stocks rare miniatures by the thousands?"
"Someone told me that The Little Shoppe is a great place for finding unique gifts for most any situation."
"Doesn't The Little Shoppe cater to Sorority needs?"
"Why, it is a veritable 'lumber yard' of supplies for miniature buildings!"
Actually any of these statements hold true. For The Little Shoppe in Cactus Alley not only is a most, most unique shop, but it is many things to many people, stocking as hinted in the above observations.

For the hobbyist, for the collector, for the amateur or more advanced 'miniature' aficionado, The Little Shoppe has assembled the most complete selection of houses, furnishings, material and all — in all West Texas!
One can purchase a complete colonial home, a street of shops, even a greenhouse, or select the material such as a door selection, miniature vinyl floor covering, hardwood flooring, cabinet hardware, even instant shingles and floors for a "do it yourself" project!

PROVOCATIVE STOCK UNIQUE TO AREA — Norma Bartley of The Little Shoppe in Cactus Alley displays "instant shingles and floors" that are included in the "lumber supply" for miniature houses. Related accessories and kits are stocked in profusion as explained in the accompanying story.

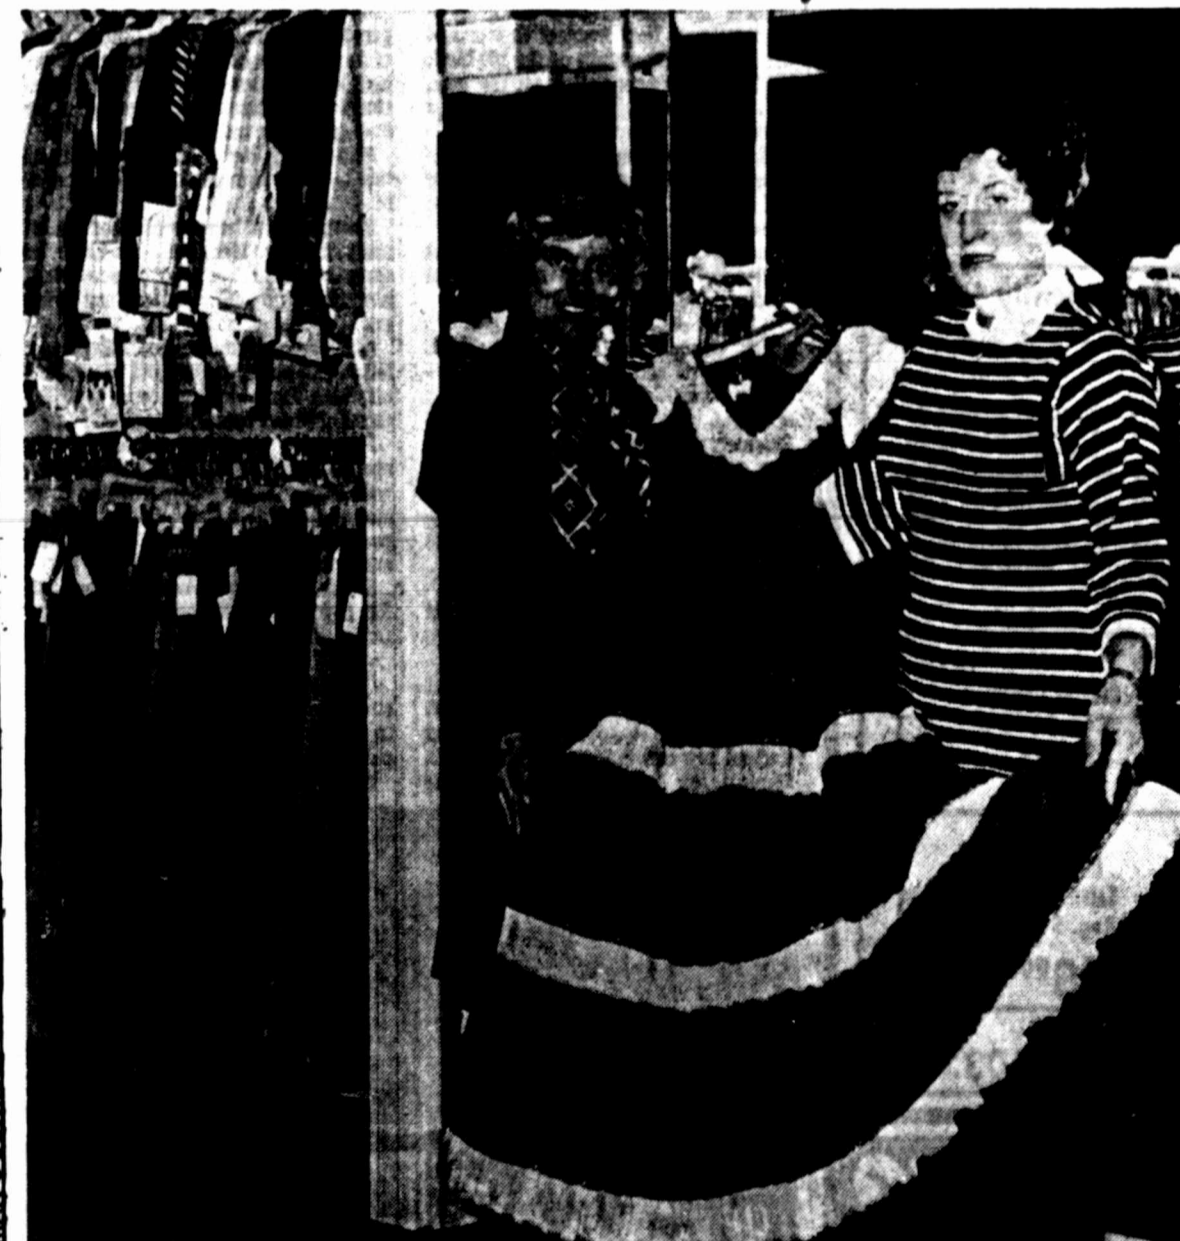

Collector Items
There are furnishings by the hundreds for every miniature room, all in intricate detail, perfect in scale and workmanship. Introduction to Lubbock of these fine miniatures, in abundant but selective stock by The Little Shoppe, has met with a response hardly believed possible. Hence, even more continually is added.
Owner Norma Bartley attends miniature shows throughout a multi-state area and makes significant purchases that include many new and exclusive lines.
With her knowledge of the field, and her interest in providing this area with all that is desired in miniatures, Norma has provided a fantastic collection right here on the South Plains... for all ages.
And there is much more in the shop. Such as those most unique wood carvings by Theresa Martin.
And sorority gifts by the hundreds.

many individually crafted.
See the original paintings in miniature, distinctive wood cutouts, initialed and dated pieces of miniature furniture, "minutiques" from England, and old favorites in miniatures from Chackman and Chrysnob, N. Y. and Colonial Craftsmen of New Jersey. Plus fine items from Clare-Bell brass works of Connecticut, and Sonia Masser Imports of California.
Then there are the musical creations from Harold Goldman of Oak Park, Mich., including heirloom quality instruments in miniature form, precisely and exquisitely detailed.
Also printer trays for the multiple uses now recognized for these popular but often hard-to-find items.
One cannot enumerate all that is The Little Shoppe. Pages could be written listing and describing the miniature copper cookware, the furnishing for every room of a miniature mansion, etc., but one can only comprehend the completeness of the stock through a personal visit.
The location: In Cactus Alley, 2610 Salem Ave., just south of the Brownfield Highway in Lubbock.
A new experience awaits upon discovery of The Little Shoppe with its stock, its friendliness and its welcome.

Gray's Boys & Girls Fashions Tells Sale, Added Stock For Anniversary

The Second Anniversary Sale event is underway this week at Gray's Boys & Girls Fashions, 50th Street at Salem Avenue, in Sunshine Square.
This underscores the continuing situation in which there simply is no better choice for your apparel, for infants through student size 20, including pre-teen, than at Gray's.
For this Anniversary event, discounts of 10 per cent to 25 per cent are posted on selected items of fall merchandise throughout the big stock.
The store is chock full of fall and holiday arrivals, and layaway for the holidays is encouraged at the sale prices!
Not only is apparel stocked, but there are such goodies as hand puppets, stuffed cuddly animals and more great for gifting.

It is pointed out, for those who may not have recognized the type store afforded by the Grays, that the shop initially was founded as a store carrying top quality apparel for toddlers to size 14 for both boys and girls. Now the stock has been appreciably expanded, with a tremendous selection in pre-teen sizes presented along with the smaller apparel.
The pre-teen selection for girls involves the complete wardrobe (with exception of shoes) with choices in tops, pants, long dresses, etc., even sleepwear. Plus accessories.
There are few stores that carry such a selection in this age range, and Gray's ALWAYS EXTENSIVE SELECTION — Kay Gray of Gray's Boys & Girls Fashions, 50th Street at Salem Avenue, joins with staffmember Frances Smith in displaying a gorgeous blue velvet dress from stock, available in several sizes including Size 1 made exclusively for the firm.

FASHION-WISE AND SUCCESSFUL — Key factors in the eight-year success story of Maxine's Accent most certainly include the three-generation capabilities within the same family at this Briercroft Center shop. Pictured center is owner Maxine Willingham, with daughter, Sharon Willingham, and mother, Mary McCollum, all of whom have been "on the team" since the store's inception.

Maxine's Accent Celebrating Eight-Year Mark With Savings

It is Anniversary Observance at Maxine's Accent, in Briercroft Shopping Center.

And for this anniversary, Maxine's not only is offering several racks of sale merchandise, but also is arranging storewide reductions of 20 percent on all current merchandise including new fall and holiday coats, sweaters, short and long dresses, sportswear, lingerie and ultra suedes.

Eight years ago in October, Dr. and Mrs. Willingham opened Maxine's Accent as a smart specialty store accenting the junior and young missy look, with the assistance of their three teenagers, Sharon, Doug and Sheila, and Maxine's mother, Mrs. Mary McCollum.

Last February the store was expanded to twice its original size and a beautiful new "designers room" was added. Here merchandise from top designers is displayed and privacy is afforded the discriminating customer looking for the uniqueness and even lines exclusive to Maxine's Accent.

(It is pointed out that 20 per cent reductions are effective for the designer salon apparel for these few days of the Anniversary Observance, too.)

The eight-year history of Maxine's Accent is quite a success story.

Accolades have included write-ups in national trade magazines as "an outstanding ladies' specialty store".

Signally Honored

Maxine has been honored in the 1974-75, 1975-76 and the 1977-78 editions of "Who's Who in American Women" as an outstanding retailer.

Referring to the shop's Anniversary observance, Maxine emphasizes:

"We've had a most enjoyable and rewarding eight years in ladies' junior apparel here in Lubbock and have met with tremendous response from not only Lubbock but from many of the surrounding cities.

"We are offering most exciting savings at this time in honor of this eighth year anniversary, and we hope our many friends and customers will be able to take advantage of them."

The storewide reductions (20 per cent off, remember) involve fall and early holiday lines, long dresses and short restaurant dresses, gauchos, beautiful mix and match sportswear for both juniors and misses, fall coats, sweaters, ultra suedes, party pajamas, lingerie and accessories.

Outstanding Labels

Some of the lines are Corinth Street, Collegian, Country Set, Lady Wrangler, Body English, Panther, Melissa Lane, Les Wilk, Lilli Ann, College Town, Victor Costa and many, many others.

Maxine's Accent has one of the most extensive selections of new long dresses and party pajamas, and these are marked at 20 per cent off, during the celebration, remember.

The capable staff at Maxine's includes her daughter, Sharon, who is assistant manager; her mother, Mary McCollum; Lue Ree McGee, Beth Pendley, Paula Marberry and part-time staffmember Poppy Burnette.

Maxine is the fashion coordinator each year for Miss Lubbock, and she also assists other pageant entries locally in their wardrobe rightness. She also has served as a consultant in the Dallas fashion seminars during markets.

Maxine has attended many different markets during the past year, including the Chicago market. She feels that the new lines selected at these several markets have helped earn Maxine's Accent the enviable reputation as a leader in a fashion-oriented community, with customers looking to it for new directions.

Everything, from the capable staff, the famous labels, the attractive decor, the management's devotion to rightness and leadership in fashion, and currently the storewide reductions on current merchandise, contribute to the true Maxine's Accent image.

FOR WINTER READINESS

For completeness, shop Childress Hardware, on the corner at 902 Main.

"One of these days you'll be glad you thought ahead in October — to the colder days sure to come."

A complete stock of accessories and major items is maintained, and one has only to see the wide selection grouped on the second level at Childress Hardware to recognize that here is the one-stop shopping center for winter heating needs.

Even replacement radiants are stocked among the practical items for which Childress is known.

Then, too, Childress Hardware has a lot of other appropriate items for the season, things that one should be considering for Christmas plans!

Cast iron cook ware, Corning Ware, Stanley Tools, Revere Ware, Pyrex, power tools and other hardware items are sure to please someone on the Christmas list.

Fabrication, Manufacturing Prove Valuable Fabit Services

For custom fabrication, the name to know and remember and depend upon is Fabit.

For wide versatility in custom fabrication, from simple to the most complicated demands, manufacturing of complete machines or parts in small quantities or in large production runs, Fabit Corporation, North Quirt at Loop 289, is the answer.

The unique services of the Lubbock-owned and operated firm include engineering and development of prototypes or production models, metal shearing, bending, hole punching, rolling, welding, shape cutting grinding, painting, assembly and wiring, etc.

Serving Today's Needs

The firm has been especially busy in fabricating for new plants and for plant expansions, with such needs as hand rails, walkways, ladders, stairs, etc., with each designed for utility and many to meet OSHA requirements.

The firm is especially well known for its manufacture of refuse containers for industry, home, business and municipalities, together with irrigation needs.

Friend To Irrigation

The irrigation program throughout the Southwest has been well served, and still is being greatly aided by Fabit aluminum water control gates, accessories and pipe couplers sold wholesale only to dealer distributors. It maintains a very good stock of Boone irrigation products.

The capabilities of the firm are many, even including shearing 12 ft. material and bending the same size.

A 225-ton press brake is one of the equipment items enabling Fabit Corp. to exercise such capabilities.

Correct and adequate machinery in the shop are prime items in the variety of quality-work turned out by Fabit Corp., enabling custom shearing, bending, channel and angle work, etc., for contractors and warehousing needs.

Trash container design and manufacture has been a key segment of the firm's capabilities and service, with several thousand units built for cities throughout the state and for firms in Lubbock. Apartments, restaurants, commercial establishments — all find the Fabit-made trash containers to be the utmost in quality.

More and more individuals, businesses and municipalities are finding that it makes good sense to "buy your refuse container directly from Fabit, the manufacturer, getting the best quality at the best price."

Stocks Parts

Fabit Corp. stocks parts and provides service for all its products, also.

Adherence to close tolerances is standard procedure at Fabit. With experienced management and the best machinery available, Fabit Corp. has the capability of precision fabrication work. Accurate, precise work is the rule and the result is better quality products that look better and work better. This highest quality costs no more!

In order to do this best possible job and maintain a high volume of production, Fabit Corp. is equipped with the best shear and press brakes available.

A five-ton bridge crane serves the entire 6,000 sq. ft. production area and helps speed the work and keep material handling costs down.

Fabit Corp. gives your work its undivided attention.

"Let Fabit prove its ability! Your work can be done with us for a quoted contract price or on an hourly basis.

"Also, inquiry is invited about our Refuse Division."

'78 Coachmen Fifth Wheel RV Units, Antifreeze Specials Now At Pharr's

"Do you envy those enjoying the fun and freedom that comes with ownership of a recreational vehicle (RV) that meets the needs and preferences of the owner?"

Then Pharr Trailer Sales should enter the picture!

Pharr Trailer Sales, 1702 Clovis Road, has a wide selection to offer at this time.

Whether the choice is from the Coachmen (No. 1 seller in the nation) mini-motor home, motor home, 5th wheel unit, travel trailers in all sizes, cab-over camper or even pop-ups; the Apollo motor home or the prestigious Silver Streak travel trailer, value and new convenience and luxury is assured.

Anti-Freeze Special
And whether one is interested in one of the exciting new '78 units, or if thinking of readying a present RV unit for the winter, Pharr has much to offer.

For example: Non-toxic antifreeze is specially priced at just $4.10 per gallon throughout October.

Storage
Pharr has enclosed storage available for RV units, too! And they will do a turnkey job in winterizing, if desired.

Unusual Warranty
In citing advantages of Coachmen, Pharr calls attention to its dealership network of over 500 dealers in the nation. Also it has the best warranty imaginable. For example, it is said to be the only manufacturer that offers warranty on all appliances and components, not just on the unit construction itself. Now, isn't this worth full consideration when selecting an RV?

"Staying out in front with Coachmen" seems a fact at Pharr Trailer Sales, phone 765-6088, located at the Clovis Highway-Avenue Q "Y", a firm that has built its business on servicing what it sells.

Fifth Wheels Shown
A special invitation is extended to view the new Coachman '78 QuinStar Fifth Wheels and the Cadet Fifth Wheels. (For home-style comfort, a fifth wheel is one of the finest recreation vehicles available, and the Coachmen is one of the finest fifth wheels!)

The raised upper bedroom of the fifth wheel offers unique RV luxury, and this year QuinStars, the 27 ft. DR and the 35 ft. FSDR, even offer a dressing room! On and on the features could be listed, including self-polishing GAF linoleum or optional 100 per cent nylon carpeting. Olefin and polyester upholstery, bath and kitchen area walls that wipe clean easily, and delightful decors available in lime, saffron, poppy or sable! The QuinStar is designed to let one relax and "enjoy yourself!"

"Top economy and unique fifth wheel comfort also are yours with a Coachman Cadet fifth wheel."
Durable, beautiful interiors provide home comforts without the chores! Choose from green, butterscotch, poppy and camel decors. Standard equipment includes stainless steel sink, six-cubic-foot three-way refrigerator, four-burner range and oven with lighted power hood, etc.

Trailers

And the Coachman '78 trailers are even more exciting than ever, designed for value-minded families who need top economy as well as dependable comfort and quality.

The 12 Coachman Cadet floorplans, developed through Coachman's considerate engineering, offer time-tested, livable designs for leisure.

Services All Lines

Pharr also is a service center, together with sales, it is a "first stop must" in readying one's present RV unit for a trouble-free winter ahead.

Harold Pharr calls special attention to the selection of parts and accessories stocked within the attractive showrooms. When planning a trip, or even when just completing one, a person could do well to check for needed accessories "while it is fresh on his or her mind" with Pharr most likely having the very item desired.

And the brand names need no introduction — such as Coleman air conditioning units, EZ Lift hitches, etc. A lot of little things are stocked, too, that can make a mighty big difference in comforts while on an outdoor vacation.

Pharr knows recreational units, and this modern Lubbock firm can help immeasurably in correct selection that will give pleasure for years to come. Ask the man who owns a Pharr unit.

Dallas Gets New Buying Guide

By DEBORAH WOOD
DALLAS (AP) — Dallas-area residents can find everything from a list of the city's most eligible bachelors to suggestions on where to find a reliable auto mechanic in a new shopping guide published by consumer advocate Sue Goldstein.

"The Underground Pages" is a sequel to "The Underground Shopper," a guide available in Dallas since 1972.

Miss Goldstein says her new guide "is written for those who like to live high on down-to-earth budgets or for those who are willing to pay the price for champagne extras."

The guide contains no advertising, and it compares quality and prices on such services as hairstylists, home and appliance repairs, funeral homes, pharmacies, caterers and party planners and psychics.

It also features several non-classified items offering the best and worst in restaurant service, a hot-hot line in Houston to call for a "sensual" conversation, and the price of a dozen long-stemmed roses at 10 different florists.

A special feature on the 12 most unique services identifies businesses catering to those who want to plan a creative funeral, have a practical joke commissioned, find a world traveling companion or have a letter of resignation written.

Under the heading "Medical Drugs" readers are offered a glossary of pharmacy terms, answers to questions regarding prescription drugs, a chart comparing prices of 10 most commonly prescribed drugs at nine pharmacies and a cross-section of services provided by area pharmacies.

The 1978 edition, which is the first for the "Pages," devotes substantial space to the subject of roaches and rats.

One feature lists some food establishments in the area that have received citations from the city health department for infractions including roach and rodent infestation and sale of contaminated food.

In another section, the guide tells you "what you never wanted to know about rats and exterminators and didn't care to ask," and recommends a few pest control services.

In addition to recommendations, the staff has included its choices for the most offensive billboards in the area, the 10 worst toilets in town and several sets of "Y's" to ponder.

The guide is available only for Dallas-Fort Worth, but is planned for other major cities, following the pattern of the shopper. The shopper is also published in Houston, Tulsa, Atlanta, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Boston and southeast Florida.

Firefighters Cope With 'Disaster'

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — A cloud of rich black smoke billowed over Capital City Airport recently and firemen raced to the aid of victims trapped inside two airplanes.

But the whole scene — including National Guard rescue helicopters, firetrucks, wildly burning jet fuel and the victims themselves — was a fake.

The extravaganza, featuring a cast of hundreds, was a training exercise to teach hospitals, firemen, police and emergency medical teams how to respond to a runway airline collision.

The two planes, which were supposed to be a Chicago-bound 727 and a turbo prop headed for Detroit, were positioned near the airport's real runways for the drill.

Two hundred fifty gallons of aviation fuel were ignited and smoke bombs were set off, sending columns of fire and black smoke hundreds of feet into the sky.

Airport firefighters dressed in protective silver suits raced to the scene and extinguished the flames with foam. Then, on cue, more than 50 victims strapped inside the two planes began screaming and moaning.

Firefighters and emergency medical teams arrived and began pulling the victims from the make-believe wreckage, placing them on stretchers and taking them to hospitals.

According to the script, 100 persons were supposed to have died in the collision, 45 were seriously injured, 20 had slight injuries and another 20 suffered from shock. Makeup and ketchup provided survivors with ghastly wounds.

One victim stumbled out of the plane and collapsed on the ground with all the style of a silent movie queen. Another, supposedly suffering from shock, fought with firemen and screamed, "I want my ball, I want my ball."

At one point, a few newsmen sneaked away from the drill observation area to interview victims and firemen. An airport security worker tried to shoo them back.

"But hey, if this was a real disaster, we'd really be here," one photographer protested.

"Yeah, I know," the guard shot back, "and that's exactly what I mean. Get out of here."

Businessman Warns Against Quibbling

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — Unethical conduct by multi-national corporations threatens the continued existence of free enterprise, says Fred T. Allen, chairman of Pitney Bowes.

Speaking at the recent World Trade Week Dinner here, Allen conceded the difficulties of defining ethical behavior on a global scale. Instead, he proposed a simple test: If an executive's actions can be defended publicly, they are probably above reproach.

"We cannot depend solely on codes of ethics that, when applied in an international context, may sometimes seem too general or specific to be practical," he said. "Drawing the fine line between right and wrong can often be reduced to quibbling. And codes can guide us, but they cannot make decisions for us."

Economists Still Differ About Minimum Wage

By WALTER MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — It started a quarter an hour 40 years ago, and now the minimum wage is about to go to $2.65, with economists and politicians still arguing among themselves over its real impact on the market.

The question that hasn't been answered yet is whether a higher minimum wage is justice or folly: a boon to the working poor or a menace to their jobs.

There is no shortage of studies, dissertations and analyses of that issue. They abound in the fine print of the congressional debate, on both sides.

Given the facts of life at the supermarket, the current minimum wage of $2.30 an hour doesn't add up to much of a living for anybody who makes it and no more. It adds up to $4,784 a year.

Even at the increased rate, the minimum will be lower than the government's poverty line for an urban family of four. The minimum wage earner would get $5,512. In 1978, the poverty level is expected to be about $6,200.

That would seem to make it all very simple: boost the rate and help the low-paid, unskilled worker. But there's more to it, for as the cost of unskilled labor goes up, so does the prospect that employers will decide to make do with fewer workers.

Economist Edward M. Gramlich assessed that risk in a paper published by the Brookings Institution.

"As the minimum wage is increased beyond its historical range of 40 to 50 per cent of the median wage, more and more workers confront the grab-bag combination of a higher wage but a reduced probability of having a job."

The younger worker, the worse it gets. Unemployment in September stood at 6.9 per cent of the labor force — but at 18.1 per cent for teen-agers, and at more than twice that for black teen-agers.

For all their differences on the broader question of minimum wage effects, the economists generally agree that it doesn't help the youthful job-seeker. He's more likely to be unable to find a job, or to lose one, than to get the higher hourly wage.

The liberal Republican Ripon Society likens it to attempts at healing by blood-letting.

"Political Washington is about to administer to young Americans a remedy just as pernicious as medieval bloodletting," the Ripon analysis said. For while the law can raise the wage, it can't raise worker productivity. And if the price of an hour's work exceeds the product, the job isn't likely to last.

By a single vote, the House rejected an amendment that would have set a special to any person's labor," said Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J.

But it is also unjust for somebody who wants to work to be earning nothing at all, for lack of a job.

But those aren't the only issues involved. The minimum wage is a factor in the welfare equation. If welfare pays better than work, the administration's reform package is not going to accomplish much.

The arguments will continue, on those and other points, even though the law is set for at least three years, and perhaps four. The House and the Senate agree that the rate should go to $2.65 an hour next year. The Senate bill would increase it in stages to $3.40 in 1981. The House version would raise the minimum to $3.05 in 1980. Congressional negotiators are working out the differences now.

For the economists, there's never a last word. If there was, it should be assigned to the First National Bank of Chicago, whose economic researchers report:

"Every few years, the United States goes through the ritual of adjusting minimum wage laws. And just as regularly, the business and labor communities engage in exaggerated discussions about either the dire consequences or marvelous benefits that can be expected...."

In fact, increases in the minimum wage have typically been quite modest, compared with increases in other wages or prices, and the results have been fairly innocuous."

wage rate, below the adult minimum, for workers under the age of 20. The Senate rejected four attempts to write in differentials so as to make it easier for young people to get or hold jobs.

Sponsors of the bill argued that there are better ways to generate work for unemployed youths. They also contended that cut rates for young workers would lead some employers to hire them instead of adults.

"It is unjust and discriminatory to assign a value less than the minimum wage

Americans Low On Activity

BOSTON (AP) — Many Americans may be leading such sedentary lives that they are "virtually motionless," moving about little more than if they remained in bed 24 hours a day, Dr. William Kannel, director of the famed Framingham Heart Study, said here recently.

Kannel said 16 percent of men and 21 percent of women in a group studied in Framingham achieved activity scores of 29 or less. He said that spending 24 hours in bed rates a score of 24.

Now known as the Boston University-Framingham Heart Study, the project has involved studying several thousand Framingham residents for 27 years, first under federal sponsorship and since 1971 under private auspices.

Kannel told a symposium on leisure time sponsored by the Massachusetts Medical Society that even in the group scoring the highest levels of activity, with scores higher than 36, few would qualify for a high level of physical fitness.
