Blizzard Shuts Down Northeastern States

The Northeast from Pennsylvania to New Hampshire was paralyzed today by ton Edison Co. customers — more than a a blizzard that brought from I to 11/2 feet third of the total in the city - without of snow to the region, knocked out power in parts of Boston and disrupted virtually every facet of life for millions.

While the snow - steady, but less severe than on Monday - continued through the morning in the East, crippling transportation and business for a second day, people in the rest of the nation faced their own problems from a variety of storms.

The morning rush hour in Chicago was complicated by an unexpected snowfall that left 9 inches on the ground. Parts of Montana and North Dakota were struck by a blizzard which stranded travelers and made it feel like it was 45 below zero.

Oklahoma reported 6 inches of snow; lakeside areas of Wisconsin got from 6 to 12 inches; there were record low temperatures in other parts of the Midwest; cold and a forecast of possible snow in Georgia; and warnings of new outbreaks of torrential rains in northern California.

More than two dozen weather-related deaths were reported around the nation. Thousands of people in the East remained in hotels, hospitals, schools and emergency shelters where they took refuge Monday from the wind-driven snow which drifted to 6 feet and more. They were joined by hundreds of other families evacuated from low-lying coastal areas flooded during the morning by high The blackout in Boston left 75,000 Bosnearly $128 million in damages from the Ford Motor Co. to a teen-ager who has had 52 operations since being maimed in the explosion of a Ford Pinto's gas tank.

"This is probably the loudest noise that the jury has made in any civil suit in American jurisprudence," Mark Robinson, attorney for 18-year-old Richard Grimshaw of Orange, said after the verdict was returned Monday

A spokesman for Ford Motor Co. in Detroit termed the award "a staggering amount of money," but said the automaker would have no further comment on the verdict until the firm's lawyers had been consulted.

Under Monday's decision by an Orange County Superior Court jury, Grimshaw was awarded $125 million in punitive personal injury damages and $2.84 million in compensatory damages.

Since the May 1972 accident that burned 95 percent of his body, Grimshaw has undergone 52 operations and will have to undergo 20 more, Robinson said. The youth, who was 13

Grimshaw was a passenger in the car driven by 52-year-old Lily Gray of Anaheim, who died in the accident. The jury awarded her family $665,000 compensatory damages. No punitive damages were sought in her death.

Mrs. Gray was a neighbor of the Grimshaws, who at the time lived in Anaheim.

The entire passenger compartment of the 1972 Pinto ignited when it was hit from behind by another vehicle traveling about 35 mph on Interstate 15 near San Bernardino. Evidence at the seven-month trial indicated that because of faulty welding, the gas tank was punctured by the impact and that burning gas leaked inside the car. Robinson said three similar suits involving Pinto gas tanks have been filed, but that this was the first effort to obtain punitive damages. The highest compensatory damage award in the other suits was for $3.3 million in a 1975 Florida suit, Robinson said.

Powell indicated more money might be involved. Referring to the contingency funds, he said, "I don't know if they cover every penny of the program at this point." Powell also said he didn't know for certain if Carter's program would exclude alı tax benefits.

He said the program will be "a combination of grants and loans" available to individuals. But the press secretary declined to reveal any other details.

Between 1967 and 1975, Powell said, college costs have increased by about 71 percent, putting the average cost of tuition, room and board for each student attending private school at more than $4,-

For each student attending a public college or university, he said, the cost has climbed to about $2,000 a year. "For lower-and middle-income families," Powell said, "the ability to send their children to college is in jeopardy."

He called Carter's program a "response to the president's concern as well as concern expressed in Congress that middleincome families are not in a position to receive aid under existing programs."

The first word about Carter's upcoming announcement came from Democratic congressional leaders who had breakfast with the president at the White House. They declined to give details of the program.

If a first-month trend can be followed for the rest of the year, Lubbock stands a fighting chance of having a lower crime rate for 1978.

The bane of the brighter crime picture, however, was robbery. In December, 17 such incidents reportedly occurred in Lubbock; in January, the number rose to 25. Interestingly, 21 bandits used firearms or knives last month, compared with only seven during December.

Financially, there seemed to be less profit for holdup artists during January.

Reportedly taken during the 25 incidents was cash and goods totalling $5,846; the previous month saw $30,519 stolen.

There were fewer homicides and assaults in January.

Last month's one homicide within the city - the fatal shooting of a Lubbock man by a police officer - was referred directly to a grand jury. In December, four of the five reported incidents were cleared. Reported rapes were down slightly last month, with five victims talking to police, compared with six during December. In each month, all but two of the alleged incidents were cleared.

There was a negligible decrease in reported burglaries last month; however, the clearance rate rose significantly. Sixty-three of 331 such incidents were cleared in January, compared with 39 of 333 during the previous month. Financial loss to property owners was down during January - $160,581, compared with December's $170,823.

Thefts were down, but the amount of goods taken was worth more. In January, 554 reported thefts accounted for $208,816 in lost property. During the last month of 1977, the 613 reported incidents resulted in a total value of $148,834. The clearances for the two months were 144 and 169, respectively.

Also, there were more reported auto thefts last month — 62 — and 13 were recovered. During the previous month, 10 of 44 were recovered.

eos - a trend which continually is repeated. Jewelry is the next most highly favored property.

Another significant figure for Lubbockites was the 225 reports of criminal mis-chief made to police. Although that num-ber was lower than December's 267, the financial loss last month amounted to $42,226, compared with the earlier $38,-In January, 13 of the incidents were cleared, compared with 15 during De-

And in the canal treaty, congressional historians see a number of parallels with what probably was the most controversial one of all - the Treaty of Versailles that ended World War I and established the League of Nations.

In 1919, President Woodrow Wilson demanded Senate ratification of the Versailles pact as written — saying he want-ed "not an 'i' dotted, not a 't' crossed" that wasn't in the original document.

It was a precedent-setting treaty in that it would have done away with traditional U.S. isolationism in world affairs and made the country party to a multinational security pact for the first time.

The canal treaty also sets a precedent, Senate researchers say, as "the only con-troversial bilateral agreement involving cession of jurisdiction over U.S. territory considered vital to the national interest. Like Wilson, President Carter has urged Senate approval of the Panama Canal treaty as written, saying there is no need for amendments even though the Senate seems certain to make them. The amendments would clarify U.S. rights of canal access and defense after the year

Carter administration officials say the canal treaty also would have to be rene-gotiated or submitted to a second nationgotiated or submitted to a second national referendum in Panama if it were amended beyond the proposed changes already agreed to by Scnate leaders and a evident majority of members.

The Senate split into three factions over the Treaty of Versailles. A group of pro-Wilson Democrats urged approval without change; a bipartisan group led by Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, R-Mass, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, wanted it modified, and the so-called "bitter-endern" insisted and the so-called "bitter-enders" insisted that there be no treaty at all.

By JUAN J. WALTE WASHINGTON (UPI) - The State De-

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter III said Monday such an action 'would have serious implications for the protection of our own diplomats and for our ability to conduct foreign relations on the basis of reciprocity."

His statement was a reply to criticisms by Jaworski, special counsel of the House Ethics Committee, that the State Department was not cooperating with committee efforts to question former South Korean ambassador Kim Dong Jo in connection with the Tongsun Park influence-buying case.

Two doors away from the Golden Dragon, a young man named Bob Mayer stood beside his panel truck selling flowers to tourists and Chinatown residents.

"This is the best business has ever been," beamed Mayer, who said he has sold flowers in the neighborhood for five years. "I guess it's kind of surprising, but business is just real good."

Officer Vince Neeson, a San Francisco policeman for five years, said he has noticed a subtle passing of the gloom which followed the Golden Dragon shooting.

long ago discounted to an extent the shortrange effect of various polls, the latest findings should be enough to shake up even the most complacent of White House occupants. A year after taking office on the wings of euphoria and an extremely high rating of "confidence," Mr. Carter today finds himself on the negative side of the surveys. IN THE LATEST nationwide Harris poll, the President's overall job rating has sunk to a low of 49-47 percent negative. The ratings of his vice president and key members of his Cabinet also are down sharply,

Of all members of the Carter family, Sec. of State Cyrus Vance does best among key Cabinet members, but his marks are only 36 percent positive and 36 percent negative.

Most others are on the downside This is true in the case of U.S. Ambassador to the UN Andrew Young, whose current 38-28 negative nationwide rating compares with a 33-20 percent positive finding last March.

IT MUST OCCUR to President Carter and hose around him that the administration is

ALTHOUGH THE President's advisers doing something which is turning the majority of citizens off.

The claim that the President's first year was one of symbols rather than substance has much to substantiate. All too often, the White House could be found pushing labor legislation or the Equal Rights Amendment or some other special interest project.

Admittedly, one exception was in the area of energy. Yet, here, the President's solution was based more on an energy tax program rather than addressing the need to find real alternatives to the heavy reliance on foreign oil.

IN BRIEF, Mr. Carter has his work cut out for him this year.

How he, and Congress, do their jobs will determine to a great degree how the citizens of this nation do.

The polls say something. It's time someone in the White House started listening to what the majority of citizens think-on everything from the Panama Canal giveaway to what is happening to the dollar and the American

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Needed: Highway 114

BY PROVIDING Lubbock its rightful heritage, the State Highways and Public Transportation Commission could effect a 10.2 per cent fuel sav-ings on tens of thousands of trips between Lubbock and Dallas-Fort Worth each year, Completion of vital four-lane segments of SH

114 would cut 72 miles off the Lubbock-Dallas roundtrip in comparison with the route a majority of motorists now take.

Yet, in its recently adopted 20-year plan, the Highway Commission will be exasperatingly slow to upgrade this route.

In a time of dwindling domestic oil supplies, it has a duty to reassess the need for bringing the entire route up to modern standards from an energy conservation standpoint.

IT IS 353 MILES from Lubbock to Dallas via Abilene, according to the official state highway map. This is the route favored by most motorists because it is four-lane divided all the way. It is only 327 miles to Dallas from Lubbock over SH 114, and this could be whittled by 10 miles-to 317 miles-simply by straightening out a single "kink" in Wise County.

That would produce a 72-mile, or 10.2 per cent fuel savings, on each roundtrip diverted to the SH 114 is a through-highway designation that the Highway Commission put on the route —through Seymour, Jacksboro and Grapevine—a couple of years ago.

That designation was gratefully received but only about 112 miles of the highway currently is built to four-lane standards.

THIS HIGHWAY is Lubbock's only hope for getting tied into the mainstream of east-west country traffic, which is its right as the eighth-largest city in Texas.

The Highway Commission's "justification" for not bringing this road up to modern standards soon is that the traffic count is light and funds

You can't dispute the fact that there are twoane highways in the eastern part of Texas which have a higher traffic count.

A matter of equity is involved, however. State highway priorities must take into account the obligation to provide first-quality roads over the shortest routes between major population cen-As a matter of fact, they do-except for Lub-bock. Ours is the only major city in Texas which,

THE COMMISSION could improve our situation tremendously in one relatively inexpensive decision. That would be to extend the four-laning westward from Rhome to Jacksboro, shortening the route 10 miles in the process.

presence in Africa.

WASHINGTON-The growing importance of military factors in Soviet diplomacy has recently been underscored by the large number of trips taken by high-ranking Russian officers to key Soviet target areas and countries.

Since mid-November, Russian military delegations have visited at least eight countries in Africa and Asia and Cuba.

Except for brief accounts of the arrival ceremonies, Moscow has given no indication of the purpose of these visits but there is other evidence that they involve troop and arms movements and base arrangements.

A prime example of these military missions was Fleet Adm. Gorshkov's Dec. 17 to 23 visit to Havana where he met with Premier Fidel Castro and his brother, Raul Castro, the Cuban defense

FROM THE MAKE-UP of the delegation accompanying Gorshkov, deputy Soviet defense minister and commander in chief of the Soviet navy, U.S. intelligence experts are convinced that the trip centered around Soviet-Cuban involvement in Ethiopia and Angola.

On his way back to Moscow, Gorshkov visited both Angola and Ethiopia where Soviet supported Marxist governments are involved in active fighting forces opposed to these regimes. Immediately after the Gorshkov visit, Fidel's brother flew to Ethiopia to take personal charge of the more than 2,000 Cuban troops now in that The unprecedented use of Soviet warships to support Ethiopia and Cuban troops followed

 If you are a divorced parent and the question is how much support you and your divorced spouse contributed to the child, or

If you are a grandparent or some other person who contributed to the child's support in addition to the parent's contribution.

WHEN ALL THE support is in the form of cash, it's easy to figure out whether you contributed more than half of the dependent's support. But it's not easy at all when you or the dependent buy "capital items" such as a car, TV set, and similar products that the dependent can use for more than a year.

For the millions of you who may face this type of problem, the IRS in 1977 finally came up with some simple answers:

(1) IF YOU BOUGHT, say, a $150 set as a '77 Christmas present for your 12-year-old which is kept in the child's room you thereby contributed $150 to the child's support in '77 (in addition to the other support you gave).

You count this as support contributed by you, even if you bought the set on credit and didn't actually pay for it until 1978.

You did not give your son the auto, you merely let him use it. But you can count as support contributed by you any of the operating expenses twich you pay while your son is using the auto.

(3) IF YOU FURNISHED all the ordinary support for your child during the year—which to-taled $4,000—but your son also bought a $4,500 auto using personal funds which he had accumu-lated in his own bank account, you contributed less than half the $8,500 total support. But the one unusual thing I never expect to happen is to hear a member of the U.S. Conference of Mayors express satisfaction with a President's budget—even when it tops $500 billion.

In a press conference here, Mayor Lee Alexander of Syracuse, N.Y., president of the conference, has criticized President Carter's budget, saying a national urban policy cannot be developed until you "spend more money."

WELL NOW, I wonder, for people like Alexander, just how much "more" is more?
In his 1979 budget, Carter observes that "while a precise accounting is difficult," the Iederal government currently provides "a substantial amount" of assistance to urban areas through "a vast array" of programs.

In the President's 1979 budget, nearly 50 pages are filled with proposals calling for the expenditure of an estimated $16.1 billion on urban pro-

Outlay estimates in this category are recommended to increase to $20 billion in 1980. Am the kinds of things Carter wants to spend moon to help the cities are the following:

THE PRESIDENT also proposes spending millions through a working capital fund which would finance: a printing and reproduction service; a visual arts service; a central supply service; a communications service, and a data processing

Carter also urges federal financing for: a joint grants management fund; an urban extension program, and the Federal National Mortgage As-

It is this list of projects, the federal financing of which Alexander says mayors all over the country find "alarming," that they view as niggardly.

Fortunately, the idea that the way to solve the problems of the cities is to simply throw more federal dough at them, is an idea whose time appears to have passed.

FORTUNATELY, CARTER himself appears to be one of those leaning in this direction. In his

To the suggestion that a new federal urban policy "should not cost a great deal of money," Carter commented: "I agree."

If President Carter can resist what will be strong pressure to do otherwise, and actually formulate an urban policy based on making better use of the money that is already being spent—while at the same time encouraging state governments and the private sector to do more—he will have taken a long step down the right road to solving the problems of the cities.

Hong Kong In Need Of More Land

By PAUL LOONG
HONG KONG (UPI) — Hong Kong is so wealthy it can afford to buy almost everything it doesn't produce.

But the pea-sized British colony can neither buy nor produce what it needs most — more land for its 4.7 million people now crammed into 400 square miles of mostly unusable hillside lands.

The balance between land and people so far has been stabilized by expansion outward and upward — with the reclamation of 2,330 acres from the sea since 1945, and with high-rise apartment build-

Hong Kong must grow in order to survive, say business and government leaders, who also are worried by the fact that more than 75 percent of the land - more than 300 square miles - is leased from

The 99-year lease technically expires in 1997 but Peking has not said whether it wants the land back, perhaps because China is doing a thriving business in Hong Kong's booming and wealthy econ-

As the population continues to grow and the balance threatens to tip, the city fathers have cast their enterprising eyes what amounts to Hong Kong's version of the promised land.

Within sight of the city and an hour away oy ferry sits Lantau, the largest of the 236 islands that form the bulk of colony and with its 54.7 square miles twice

Largely because of its isolation from the rest of Hong Kong, Lantau's beauty has remained relatively unspoiled, with miles of deserted sandy beaches and numerous backpacking trails for outdoor

"It is remarkably like southern California in many ways," said one American

On still mornings when the harsh sea winds stop howling through the numer-ous pine stands, the peals of temple bells roll slowly down the steep valleys from monasteries high up in the mountains.

The isolated tranquility of Lantau may soon end for the 25,000 people on the island, who live by fishing and farming.

An automobile bridge or tunnel to the island, a new dock for bigger ferries, a new power plant for larger industries, and maybe even a new international airport, all are being considered for Lantau. Gov. Sir Murray MacLehose recently said a Special Committee on Land Production had recommended that "the government should bring forward its plans for the development of Lantau." "New intensive and conclusive investigations both by consulting engineers and the Public Works Department will there-fore start very shortly both on a fixed road crossing to Lantau and on the development potential of the north shore of the island," he said. A coal-fired power plant is to begin op-eration on Lantau by 1982. Other industrial plants are expected to settle in the island within the next decade.

There is also persistent talk of building Hong Kong's second international airport on Lantau to meet the expanded air traffic demands of the 1980s. Officials say so far the airport proposal is only being

Although the government has said it in-

Although the government has said it intends to preserve part of Lantau as a country park, already the face of the island is beginning to change.

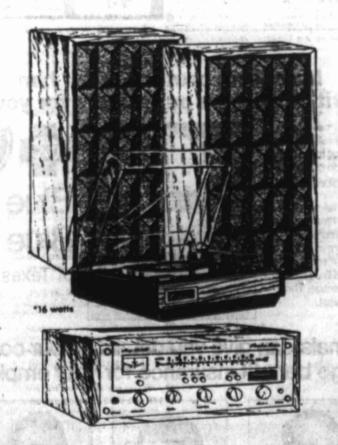

Roads are being widened in anticipation of an onslaught of auto traffic, a bigger ferry pier to handle more passengers will soon be built, and there are plans for sublic housing projects.

public housing projects.

If the city fathers and developers get their way — and it seems likely they will — Lantau may one day become Hong Kong city's look-alike.

Strikers Set Blockade In Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) - The La Salle Street financial district was blocked for more than an hour Monday by tractors and pickup trucks of striking farmers who pa-raded into the Loop in their battle for higher commodity prices.

"This is a street, not a parking lot," Central District Commander Paul V. McLaughlin shouted over a bullhorn to an estimated 100 farmers and their familes. "This is the financial district of Chicago."

The testy farmers ignored police warnings that the vehicles would be towed and emonstrators would be arrested if farmers refused to remove them from traffic lanes near the Board of Trade Building.

About 10 tractors - some chained together to hinder police towing units and numerous trucks and recreational vehicles clogged two blocks of traffic along La Salle and connecting side streets before the farmers withdrew

The farmers traveled in caravan from Springfield, Ill. to bring their quest 100 percent parity to Chicago. They also demonstrated, without incident, outside the Daley Civic Center.

Board of Trade President Robert K. Wilmouth told the farmers they were welcome to return later for a visit.

About 75 farmers appeared without incident in the Board of Trade visitors' gallery shortly after trading opened. A Board of Trade official said that group was friendly and curious as they watched trading pit activity immediately below the gallery deck.

At the Daley Center, the farmers parked their tractors in a single-file line along Randolph Street to avoid blocking traffic. Many of them milled around the lobby of the building, looking out onto the Picasso statue on the Daley Plaza, waiting for the rally to start.

Farm Strikers In Kansas Plan Crop Cut

SUBLETTE, Kan. (AP) - Farm strike supporters from southwest Kansas have adopted a resolution to cut their 1978 wheat crop by 50 percent.

About 75 strike supporters attended a meeting here Monday, unanimously adopting the motion, according to Ray-burn Powell, a Sublette area farmer and American Farm Movement supporters in Texas took similar action last week at a state meeting in Irving concerning Texas production.

How many farmers will participate in the action in Kansas and how much wheat acreage will be involved is un-known, Powell said, although he added he's convinced support for the policy will spread throughout grain-producing re-

Farmers would cut winter wheat production by plowing under a portion of the crop, which was planted last fall, or by letting livestock graze on the land.

Production of row crops, such as corn and grain sorghum, would be kept down by reducing the spring planting by 50 percent under the resolution.

The program approved Monday only applies to farmers in the southwest Kansas region, an area including all of 14 counties and parts of 10 others.

Bergland Airs Reserve Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) - Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland is trying to pump a little more life into one of his pet projects: a billion-bushel grain reserve plan he says can help boost market prices for wheat, com and other grain.

Bergland announced Monday that beginning March 1 farmers will be able to place some of their 1977 wheat, oats and barley directly into the federally supported reserve program without waiting for their current government crop loans to mature.

The "early entry" of corn and sorghum into the reserve will be announced later,

Under previous rules, farmers were reguired to wait nine months for the USDA loans to mature before extending them into three-year contracts which provide for the grain reserve.

The program is aimed at building a reserve of about 670 million bushels of corn and other feed grain and about 330 million bushels of wheat from the 1976 and 1977 harvests

Bergland contends that if farmers cooperate to the hilt in the program, it will help raise grain prices by removing the commodities from the open market.

As of Feb. 1, however, only 84.2 million bushels of wheat from the 1976 crop but no corn or other feed grain - were in reserve. No 1977-crop grain was included because of the nine-month rule which now will be suspended as of March 1. Bergland, who left late Monday for Europe, also was expected to announced a decision on the 1978 feed grain set-aside program. It was tentatively announced last fall that farmers will be required to set aside 10 percent of their cornland from production this year to qualify for federal price supports. A 20 percent set-aside program has already been announced for 1978. Officials said a feed grain decision could be announced today if it is cleared by the White House.

Bergland planned to be in Europe the remainder of this week for meetings in Paris of the Organization for Economic Cooperative Development.

The grain reserve program allows farmers to store grain for three years and to collect advance government payments to help them pay the cost of stockpiling it. These include 20 cents a bushel annually for wheat, corn, barley and sorghum and 15 cents for oats.

In return, farmers must hold their grain off the market until prices reach a minimum "release level" equal to 140 percent of the current loan rate for wheat and 125 percent for feed grains or until the three years are up.

The current loans for 1977 included $2.25 a bushel for wheat and $2 for corn. Thus, the release price would be $3.15 a bushel for wheat and $2.50 for corn. Last month, wheat at the farm averaged $2.54 a bushel and corn $1.96.

Honey Production Shows Sharp Drop

WASHINGTON (AP) - Honey production dropped sharply last year but beekeepers received top prices for what they did market, according to the Agriculture Department.

Production dropped 11 percent to about 176.3 million pounds from 198.7 million in 1976.

But the average price for all honey sold was 53 cents a pound, up from less than 50 cents in 1976. The previous high was 51 cents a pound in 1974 when production was 185,1 million pounds.

"The extended drought in California reduced honey production for the second consecutive year," the report said. "Colonies have been supplementally fed since last spring. The cold winter in Florida and New York (a year ago) put bees in poor condition for honey production. A dry year and early cool temperatures reduced the honey flow in North Dakota."

Avalanche-Journal Staff Volunteers of the Lubbock American Red Cross chapter have decided to get out ...not under fire," the chairman resume serving the local chapter for one more month, provided administrative problems are ironed out in that time.

More than 40 volunteers, who last week had opted to withhold their services from the local group, reaffirmed their allegiance and support for the local group during Monday's special membership-board meeting at the local office.

More than 90 of the volunteers, which include first aid team members and first aid instructors and instructor-trainers, had signed a petition last week which

"Due to the lack of support, direction, organization, cooperation, commitment and efficiency of the chapter manager. and the current executive board of the Lubbock County chapter, we hereby send notice that we withhold our services from the Lubbock County chapter."

At the 21/2 hour session, volunteers aired complaints which included the manner of purchase and distribution of first aid supplies, a feeling on the part of first aid teams of not being wanted at board meeetings and the inadequate recognition given first aid teams by the chapter manager (Joe Herber) for their work at public events.

"Our executive committee and our board of directors have worked hard to solve all the problems of the chapter," Ernest Knox, board chairman, said. "We expect no changes in the leadership of the Lubbock chapter at this time."

By PETER FINNEY Jr. METAIRIE, La. (UPI) - Those tiny, Chicken Fried Steak unprotected shrimp never had a chance. Baked Rotato or French Fries There they were, laying cold and wet in Salad Bar, Steak Toast the frying pan.

Poury Azimi stepped into the plexiglass booth. He picked up the blowtorch hanging on the wall and began to cook. Some call it welding food together.

Azimi prefers to call it art. The Iranian-born chef uses a blowtorch to cook the food at his new restaurant in suburban New Orleans. It takes less time than cooking in a heavy-duty microwave oven and, surprisingly, the finished product actually can be eaten. 'This wasn't my intention in life, but I decided this was what I like to do," Azimi said. "I take pleasure in cooking and in making sauces. It's challenging. It's like an art.

Azimi's blowtorch looks more like a flamethrower when he splashes wine into the custommade frying pan for some of his favorite sauces. He engineered the torch to produce up to 500 degrees of cooking heat - just enough to cook a medium rare filet in 20 seconds, a duckling a l'orange in 45 seconds and a spicy hot Shrimp Diablo in 15 seconds. 'It feels like hell," said the chef as his left hand, wrapped in a wet cloth towel, clutched the glowing-red panhandle. "It gets like a furnace in there. I normally have a chance to put the frying pan down and let things cool off for a bit. But on busy nights it does get hot." Azimi, 37, learned the unique art of blowtorch cooking in 1959 from Jean Gendron, a New York chef. Azimi worked with Gendron for two years, returned to Iran and then came to New Orleans in 1975 with an oriental import business in one hand and a blowtorch in "I used to make my shrimp much milder, but the people like it hotter here,' Azimi said. "They like everything hotter and spicier.'

about two months. After that they are too bent out of shape to use.
"I always put my left hand in a wet towel," Azimi said. "After about 15 to 20 seconds, the towel is practically dry. But I don't see any reason to be worried.

"I have to know how much heat to expose openly on the food. It's just a matter of split seconds. A split second too much and the food is burned." The propane blowtorch was 20 years in the making. Azimi waves the open flame over the pan like a musician's baton, pumping a floor pedal and gently squeezing a hand valve to adjust the flame from medium juicy to extra crispy. "There were quite a few times in the beginning when I burned the food," he said. "You have to have timing for each dish. My experience helps quite a bit. I hadn't cooked for eight years when I

Solons Opposed To Judicial Bill Peter Rodino, D-N.J., chairman of the WASHINGTON (AP) - The biggest judicial patronage bill ever is coming before the House amid cries that all of the 145 new federal judges it would create may not really be needed.

There is general agreement that new judges are needed to relieve the overworked courts. But there are differences over how many should be named and how they should be selected.

Republican Party Chairman Bill Brock took the occasion of the bill's appearance on today's House calendar to call again for a congressional investigation of the way in which the Carter administration fills patronage posts in the judiciary sys-But the push for the bill has come from the courts themselves, including a personal intervention by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, and from members of the House and Senate judiciary committees. And the House Judiciary Committee attached an amendment to its bill recommending that all the new judges be selected on merit rather than patronage - an amendment Rep. Charles F. Wiggins, R-Calif., calls "pure gloss." "We don't need all of them," the California Republican said. "But the question, 'do we need any of them,' the answer to that is clearly 'yes.' Since I can't amend the bill. I will have to vote for it as

There is no question the number of proposed judgeships has inflated. The original Senate version proposed only 75 new district judges. When it finally passed in May, the number had ballooned to 113.

Likewise, the original House version called for 81, but it came out of the full committee with 110.

Both bills would create 35 appellate judgeships. The 145 House total or the 148 proposed by the Senate would be the biggest bundle of federal judgeships ever created at one time. In part this is because it has been 10 years since Congress last considered judgeships.

"I don't believe anyone can state just how many judges we need," said Rep.

"We know there is a heavy backlog of cases in the courts," he said. "Cases are such that they are taking longer. They are more complex. They are more involved. And they take a lot of the judges' time.'

Rep. Charles Rose, D-N.C., chairman of the House's Policy Group of Information and Computers, is among those demanding modernization, particularly some of the computer aids to legal research which Congress and others already enjoy.

Heavy Snow Delays Start Of Trading

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market edged upward today after a late start at the New York exchanges because of a snowstorm. The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 2.78 at 771.40.

Gainers held a 4-3 lead over losers among New York Stock Ex-change-listed issues.

The NYSE and the American Stock Exchange, which closed two hours early Monday after the storm hit New York City, began trading today at 10 a.m. CST, an hour later than usual. But several New York-based bro-difficult to draw many conclusions about the market's mood. But they noted some positive developments in the recent economic news, including General Motors' report of a 17 percent rise in fourth quarter profits.

GM shares rose 1/4 to 58%. Volume on the Big Board totaled 4.25 million shares as of noontime. against 6.87 million at the same point Monday.

In Massachusetts, the governor declared a state of emergency, leading the Boston Stock Exchange to announce that it would be closed for the day. Winds from the storm knocked out electric service to most of the city for several hours.

Meanwhile, four of New York's five commodity exchanges decided to close because of the storm. The New York Cocoa Exchange, New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange, The Commodity Exchange Inc. and the New York Mercantile Exchange all closed for the day.

The fifth commodity market, the New York Cotton Exchange, on which cotton and orange juice futures are traded, said it would try to open at 10:30 a.m. EST, about an hour later than usual. More than 17 inches of snow had been dumped on New York by mid-morning and larger accumulations were reported in the suburbs. Most major highways in the area were closed or partially blocked by snow and mass transportation was delayed or, inc some cases, shute noting "our farmers are facing a very real financial crisis, that of decreasing prices and rapidly escalating costs," was one of 10 congressmen voicing his support in testimony before the House Agriculture

The House committee, scheduled to hear from 39 more Texans before concluding testimony on the farm problem on Valentine's Day, also heard on Monday from Haskell farmer Ken Lane, State Rep. Lyndon Olson, D-Waco, and offi-cials of the Lubbock-based National Grain Sorghum Producers Association.

"Serious damage has been and is being done in rural America," Lane said. "It will take years to repair. However, parity price will turn this trend around and begin to heal the scars in these rural areas.

'Money in the hands of agricultural producers changes hands approximately seven times, thus creating new jobs and new markets. Better markets and jobs will put this country back to work. Also, the U.S. budget may look better if we in rural America get a chance to pay more income tax."

"I am not a farmer and I cannot pretend to speak for the very real concerns for survival that our farmers have to day," Olson told the committee.

But he urged Congress to use "legisla-tive processes which will allow the free market system to work its way... govern-ment should not say what shall be, but rather how it is to be done in the market

Larry Abeldt, from Hope, Kansas, and executive vice president of the National Grain Sorghum Producers Association, said, "farmers must have a good, worka ble farm program in order to survive. ociation does not believe the new farm law is adequate, especially now in the way it is being administered. Properly executed, the bill could have been would have given additional protection to farmers, but is already evident this is not the administration's intent. Therefore, a more workable program must be mandated by Congress.

Bentsen, in a Senate speech, said, Over the past three weeks I have met with numerous farmers, ranchers and essmen from agricultural areas of Texas. These discussions have borne out what many of my collegues have become gly aware of in recent years: the American farmer is caught in the worst cost-price squeeze in modern times.

"Last year farmers in Texas had high crop yields," he continued. "This effi-ciency should have been rewarded with good profits. Instead, the low prices they received for their products, coupled with tremendous cost increases, pushed them further in debt. Their projections for this year's crops, based on the 1977 Farm Bill, once again show not only no profit but greater losses than last year."

The bill Bentsen is cosponsoring would increase target price incentives up to parity levels for an individual farmer, deending on the amount of land the farm-withdraws from production.

One victim of the travel delay was the Texas Tech basketball team, scheduled to play Southern Methodist University in Dallas tonight. The Raiders' originally were scheduled to leave Monday night. At noon today, they were still in Lubbock, hoping to get out on a 1:20 p.m.

The National Weather Service set a 40 percent chance for intermittent "light freezing drizzle and snow flurries" this afternoon, increasing to a 50 percent chance tonight. Wednesday's forecast called for a 40 from 39 to 32 degrees, but by late this morning the local reading had dropped to 31 degrees. As drizzle continued at Lubbock International Airport before noon, a Federal Aviation Administration source said cloud conditions were somewhat improved at the airport, but said he was uncertain whether flights approaching the city at that time would be able to land.

At one point this morning, visibility at Midland dropped to 1/8 of a mile. Amarillo reported 1/16 of a mile visibility. Today's top temperature should be in the upper 30s in Lubbock, weathermen say. But the overnight low is expected to hit the upper 20s, followed by a Wednesday high of about 30 degrees.

In one report this morning, the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation issued warnings of ice, snow and slush on some roadways and bridges. Reporting ice-covered roadways were Amarillo and Childress. Wichita Falls, Fort Worth and Lufkin reported icy bridges, and snow-covered roads were noted by Paris and Tyler.

Weather forecasters in the affected areas reportedly saw "no likelihood of improvement during the day."

Rainfall totals recorded in the South Plains area included .53 of an inch at Big Spring; .43 at Plainview; .31 at Crosbyton; .25 at Morton and Abernathy and .21

Recent Lubbock precipitation has brought the local totals to .75 of an inch. Totals through Feb. 6, 1977, in Lubbock, had reached only .24 of an inch.

East-southeasterly winds of 10-15 mph were expected to fan the Lubbock area this afternoon and tonight.

A mixture of sleet, light snow and freezing rain brought travelers advisories to the Dallas-Fort Worth area, and forecasters indicated precipitation would continue through Wednesday afternoon.

Light rainfall was reported south of a line from near Junction to near Austin early this morning, and while two inches of snow were said to be "quite common" over the eastern half of the Panhandle. the western Panhandle reported only traces of the white stuff.

Traffic Panel Denies Parking Ban Request

Avalanche-Journal Staff Alleged hooliganism by Monterey High School students was discussed for the second monthly meeting in a row by the Citizens' Traffic Commission.

the Emergency Operations Center at City Hall A resident of the Monterey High School area appeared before the commission and requested the aid of city officials to deal with the problem. The resident has lived in the same house near Monterey High School for 23 years, and said this year "was the worst ever" for hooliganism and a troublesome parking situation.

The resident said groups of Monterey students throw out debris from their lunches, beer cans, and and relieve themselves in the area residents' yards.

The resident said she has talked to various groups of students about the debris and blocking driveways. She added the problem has been worse than ever this

She requested no-parking signs along Hartford Avenue north from the 4500block of the side street. The area resident added that no-parking signs are already in place from the 4400-block south to the local high school grounds.

"The police are not anxious to help us and the school administration can't help us because this is on private property, she said. She added that when student cars park along Hartford Avenue, they block vision for residents backing onto the side street. The area resident said there also is a speeding problem on Hartford Avenue.

"The ironic note about the littering by the students is the fact that many of them write 'letters to the editor' on ecology," she concluded.

Commission members denied her request for no-parking signs on Hartford Avenue north of the 4500-block

The area resident requested that her name not be used by the news media because she feared retaliation by the students. She added that retaliation by the students in the past had taken the form of burning fences, throwing paint on homeowners' cars and other harassment which police and school officials have been unable to curb.

The commission also heard a citizen's plea for traffic control signs to protect the safety of small children in the 3100block of 81st Avenue. Robert Wilkes, who lives in the 3100-block of 81st Street, requested a stop or yield sign at the intersection of 81st Street and Gary Ave-

Wilkes, who is the father of three young children, said the speeding along 81st Street in front of his home was beginning to worry parents in the area. He added that many mothers run to check on their children every time they hear tires screeching on the pavement.

The Texas Tech University faculty member said he was amazed that there had not been any children injured due to the speeding and reckless driving on 81st

New Pact WASHINGTON (AP) - United Mine Workers President Arnold Miller met with regional union leaders today to try to sell them a proposed contract that could end the record 64-day-old coal The bargaining council, comprised of the UMW's district leaders, was called into session at union headquarters to go over terms of the tentative accord, which would boost wages and fringe benefits for miners by nearly 37 percent over three years.

The bargaining council must approve the agreement before it is submitted for rank and file approval, a process that could take an estimated 10 days.

Some members of the 39-man council reportedly were skeptical over the agreement, especially a provision that would discipline miners who participated in wildcat strikes, and may be reluctant to accept the new contract.

Initial reaction after announcement of the proposed settlement Monday was

"I think our miners are ready to go back to work, provided they get what they want," said Valerio Scarton of UMW District 2 in Western Pennsylvania. "If they don't, I'm sure they will stick it out some more.

The bargaining council is not a rubber stamp. In 1974, it ordered Miller to renegotiate portions of a proposed three-year accord, and then rejected the revised pact before approving it in a second vote.

The council is expected to take a particularly close look at reported union concessions concerning wildcat strikes.

Miller said the agreement would restore the miners' health benefits and improve their pension plan.

"If that's the case, it sounds like he may be sending down something that's pretty good," said George White, a miner from Lincoln City, W.Va. He called the top minimum wage boost - to just over $80 a day after three years - "one hell of President Carter has given no hint of leaning harder on Israel. A statement by the White House Sunday night said the U.S. role is to be "a friend of both sides."

However, reports are circulating that Carter will ask Congress to approve the sale of a squadron of F-5E light combat jets to Egypt.

"It's my belief that he is close to a decision," said Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., 'and I would like to see him delay it."

Once Congress is formally notified about a weapons deal, it has 30 days in which to exercise a veto. Javits said Congress should have a chance to consider the proposal without a deadline.

Sale of the short-range jets would be the first major weapons deal with Egypt and would raise the level of concern among Israel's supporters. But Sadat said he has chosen the path of peace and would never use them against Israel.

Aspirin Treats Strokes

LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB - I had a light stroke the first week in September. The doctor said it was a blood clot in the brain. It temporarily paralyzed the left side.

I got over the paralysis, but may balance is not good. The doctor told me to take three aspirins a day. Is this

I have lots of nose bleeds and have heard aspirin can cause nose bleeds. Do you think it does? What do you recommend to prevent blood clots?

DEAR READER - You must tell your doctor at once about your tendency to have nose bleeds. Aspirin is used in treating strokes and after heart attacks because of its action in preventing normal blood clotting. Aspirin in moderate amounts can proong normal clotting time.

The precautions in using aspirin are about the same as those we have followed in the past for using other anticlotting medicines. I might add here that the effectiveness of aspirin in preventing strokes and heart attacks is still under study and a final answer concerning its usefulness versus any harm it might cause has not been reached. Medicines that are effective in preventing clotting cannot be used or must be used with extreme caution in people who have a tendency to bleed from anywhere, the nose, the stomach, or the kidney as examples. And it is wise to avoid taking even one aspirin for at least a week before any surgery or a delivery.

To give you more information on aspirin and medications that you might buy without a prescription that contain aspirin I am sending you The Health Letter number 8-8, Aspirin and Related Medicines. Others who want this issue send 50 cents with a long. stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Regarding your column on zinc tablets, only one druggist out of six that I questioned said he knew where to get zinc sulfate. He tried, but the smallest he could abtain were 220 milligrams and he would need a prescription for any dose that large.

He also said zinc sulfate is used as an emetic. Is that so? Do yu know where 66 milligram zinc sulfate tablets may be obtained? Will they make

Space Plants Studied

By BRUCE NICHOLS HOUSTON (UPI) — Two University of Houston scientists suspect plants grownin the weightless environment of space might be more nutritious as food and useful as raw materials than if they were grown on Earth The space agency is giving Drs. Joe Cowles and Herbert William Scheld a chance to test the idea. They plan to design packages of young plants to be carried aboard two space shuttle flights, one in 1979 and another in 1981.

Cowles and Schled want to see whether young oats, peas and tree seedlings produce as much of a skeletal material called lignin when there is no gravity. Lignin is found in most plants and has no chemically nutritional value, although dieticians believe it performs useful physical functions in digestion. It also must be removed from trees to make paper.

"There are studies ... that indicate lignin is a gravity-mediated phenomenon. which means that gravity influences the production of this material." Cowles

"If that turns out to be true, then the question will be what happens to the energy that was going to lignin production. Is it being diverted (in space) into more

"One thing that we are looking at, too, is the effect of oxygen on the process of lignin production, with the possibility of growing plants in space under a lower oxygen concentration than we have on earth." Cowles said.

"I think it may be possible in a few years to grow plants in space. It's possible that one could produce a plant that would have more digestible materials and less fiber."

Cowles said there will be several plant experiments aboard early shuttle and Spacelab flights. He said there is a general shortage of knowledge about how plants respond to the orbital environ-

"The space shuttle era is really going to be the first opportunity for us to do much extensive observation," he said.

long-term plans. We're not going to generate forests in space at this time."

Cowles said tentative plans for the 1979 orbital flight test of the shuttle call for flying a 20-by-10-by-10-inch box containing about 100 pine seedlings, oats and

"At liftoff time, they (the seedlings) should be less than half an inch in height. During the flight, now proposed to be 11 days, they will reach a height of about four to five inches. That's normal.'

Upon return, Cowles and Scheld will examine the plants for lignin content.

"We will take sections of these tissues and use a lignin stain and simply determine where in the seedling the lignin (which climbs the stern) has approached.'

Officials Deny Bid For Smoking Area

By JEFF SOUTH Avalanche-Journal Staff Citing the school board's ban against tobacco on campus, Super-intendent Ed Irons and his Administrative Council have denied a re-quest that Monterey High School be allowed to designate an outdoor smoking area for students.

The proposal — backed by B.J. Randles, Monterey principal, as a solution to rampant smoking in school restrooms — would be "inconsistent" with Lubbock Independent School District policy, Irons said Monday.

"So long as we have a policy against students smoking at school, I can't see how we could establish an area at school for students to smoke," he said.

"Cigarette smoking is a definite health hazard. Designating a stu-dent smoking area would give the appearance we condone smoking,"

Judge Levies Fines For Eagle Kills

SAN ANTONIO(AP) - A federal judge has fined three West Texas men $6,000 for conspiring to hunt and kill golden eagles. The judge warned that future violators could go to jail.

Acknowledging the fines might be considered too lenient, U.S. District Judge John Wood Jr. warned Monday of "the maximum consequences" for others who violate the law protecting the eagles.

The defendants denied killing eagles or conspiring to hunt them. They said they had hunted from the air for predatory coyotes, bobcats and wild boars.

Wood said he thought the men might have been acquitted if they had claimed defense of their property rather than denying they killed the eagles. On Dec. 9, a federal court jury convicted the three men - Real County Commissioner Lanny Leinweber, former government predator trapper Andrew Allen and Real County ranch foreman Norman Pape - of conspiring to illegally hunt and kill the eagles.

Pape, 45, and Allen, 31, also were convicted of illegal airborne hunting and of killing eagles

District Attorney Henry Wade Monday said a grand jury would determine if the boy's father, Roy R. Racheck, 26, of Garland would be charged with murder. Rachek is accused of beating his son and rendering him medically dead.

An autopsy Monday by the Dallas County medical examiner showed cause of death as a skull fracture, probably caused by being thrown against a hard object, supporting the medical opinion that the boy already was dead.

Police in suburban Garland had said they would upgrade the attempted murder charge against the youth's father to murder. But Wade said a grand jury would determine the charge - probably this week - and would recommend a murder charge.

The child was admitted to Parkland Hospital Jan. 22 showing signs of a severe beating and was being kept alive only by the support systems.

The boy's mother, Kara Rachek, had asked District Judge Pat McClung to issue an injunction ending treatment and allowing Charles to die since doctors said he showed no brain activity.

"To me, the baby's dead, and nothing's gonna bring him back," she said at the hearing. "When he was on his way to the hospital his life was taken then.'

McClung, however, ruled the treatment must be continued because the child had the right to privacy and life until "his heart stops beating and he can't Sonny has lived with his father since he was 2. Phil was married at 17 and divorced at 18. Sonny's mother wasn't much good, but Sonny has a fierce loyalty to her, and for some strange reason, he doesn't like me. He has said some cruel ings to me, such as "You don't really ove my Dad, you just want his money, and "You're too young to know what love is," and "It's just a crush," and "You'll never take my mother's place." Meanwhile, I am very much in love with Phil and I know he loves me, but he keeps stalling the marriage because Son-ny is so hostile to me.

How long should it take a 15-year-old boy to adjust to a stepparent? I feel that I'm losing Phil. How can I win Sonny's trust and love and get Phil to marry me?

Dear Losing: Sorry, it's Phil's move not yours. If he loved you as you love him, he'd deal with Sonny. In the meantime, if the wedding is off because Phil's son doesn't like you, you are obviously No. 2 in a winner take all contest.

DEAR ABBY: My father (age 62) is having an affair with a young woman and the whole family knows about it. Everybody but my mother, that is.

This isn't the first time my father has been involved. If it were really a love affair I could understand it, but these girls are always much younger (about my age - 30) and they wouldn't look at my father if he didn't have money.

I just hate to see Dad make a fool of Mom this way. I considered typing Mom an anonymous letter, giving her Dad's current girlfriend's name and address and where she works. But I discussed it with my older brother and he said I shouldn't do it - it would only hurt Mom

Well, I think it would be doing Mom a great big favor. What is your opinion? Anonymous Daughter

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Your brother's dvice was good. Take it.

New York Great Place

By BETTY YARMON NEW YORK (WNS) - New York, the saying has it, is a nice place to visit even though you may not want to live there. And that is still a truism for tourism despite recent talk about how expensive the Big Apple has become. The 16,000,000 out-of-towners who come to New York every year have a mind-boggling variety of attractions from which to choose - attractions available at nominal fees, voluntary admissions, or absolutely free.

I discussed this recently with Bernhardt Denmark, president of Business Marketing Corp. for New York City, a new, private non-profit corporation funded by the city's public and private sectors which seek to attract new business and to retain and expand existing business.

Denmark explained that more cultural events are presented at no charge the year round in New York than in any other American city - with films, puppet shows, exhibitions, special concerts and story hours among the features for child-

Each of the city's five boroughs has its own thematic museums, and Manhattan's Metropolitan Museum of Art is the largest of its kind in the Western hemisphere, owning about three million objects encompassing all cultures and all periods of history. The Met is visited by pay as much or as little as they wish for

The Brooklyn Museum houses internationally acclaimed exhibits, including an Egyptology collection that has been called one of the world's finest even though Cairo is thousands of miles away. The new Staten Island Children's Museum presents ancient and modern cultures in a "please touch" environment. Other admission-free museums are the Museum of the City of New York, The Bronx Museum and the Queens Museum, the New York Historical Society, and in Harlem the Studio Museum, featuring the works of black artists. There are payas-you-wish policies at the American Museum of Natural History, the South Street Seaport Museum, both in Manhattan, and at the Cloisters, in Ft. Tryon Park in the Bronx.

The Museum of Modern Art, the Guggenheim Museum, and the Whitney Museum of American Art charge moderate fees. On Tuesdays, you pay as you wish at the Modern, and both the Guggenheim and Whitney are free Tuesday evenings. Beyond the museums, Madison Avenue features galleries that house museumquality sculpture, painting and artifacts, and browsers are welcome.

Many firms such as Citicorp, Lever Brothers, the New York Bank for Savings, and Union Carbide display art in the obbies of their office buildings. Those who prefer their art outdoors can enjoy Dubuffet's "Four Trees" in Chase Manhattan Plaza and marvel at Isamu Notuchi's giant red cube at the Marine Mid-land Building. Greenwich Village, still a distinctive neighborhood with a relaxed sphere, is the site of Picasso's colossal outdoor sculpture, "Sylvette."

In the summer, the New York Philharmonic, the Metropolitan Opera, the Shakespeare Festival, the Goldman-Guggenheim Band, the Harlem Cultural Festival, and other free open-air gs" are featured in the parks of all five boroughs.

The entertainment shopper will also find bargain-priced stage shows. Halfprice tickets are sold - on day of perormance only - at the Theatre Development Fund ticket booth at Broadway and 47th Street (Duffy Square), and also at 100 William Street.

In addition, 160 "off-off Broadway" theaters produce 500 plays and musicals a year. The average ticket price for these is $3, and today's off-off Broadway bargain may be tomorrow's Broadway smash hit, as happened with "Three-Penny Opera," "Hair," "A Chorus Line," "Bubbling Brown Sugar," and "Man of La Man-cha," to name a few.

The city's list of facilities, from archery zoological parks, is more than 100 ges long. Wildlife enthusiasts have five oos from which to choose. The largest is the world-famous 252-acre Bronx Zoo, admission-free Tuesday through Thursday. Adults pay a dollar Friday through

The city has sanctuaries for plants as well as animals. The internationally famous New York Botanical Gardens occupy 250 acres of native plant, rose, rock and herb gardens, and a virgin hemlock forest that has not been cut since Indian days. Special features of the Brooklyn Botanic Garden are a fragrance garden for the blind and an area for children to cultivate their own vegetables.

All in all, it's understandable that millions have decided New York is a nice place in which to live as well as to visit.

Jean Besse of Switzer-land, one of the world's great players, describes this fascinating grand slam from the Philip Morris European Cup. Here's how he sees four players of different ability tackling the hand.

The "average player" sees no problem. He runs all his trumps, then cashes the top clubs. By that time he hopes diamonds will break 3-3 or that one of the defenders will have erred by discarding a diamond. Down one. "No chance," he concludes.

The "theoretician" begins the same way, but he improves slightly on this line. When the 10-9 of diamonds drop under the king-queen, he employs the "Principle of Restricted Choice." He realizes that the A-8 of diamonds now constitute a finesse position against the jack, and that West is more likely to have started with 10-9 bare than the specifically J-10-9. So when he leads the third round of diamonds from dummy, he finesses the eight! The probabilities stand up and the grand slam comes home.

The "unlucky expert" looks deeper into the position. He foresees that, besides the obvious 3-3 diamond break, he can make the grand slam if the suit breaks 4.2 provided that the player with two diamonds has no more than two trumps. So, after drawing two rounds of trumps, declarer plays three rounds of diamonds, planning to ruff the fourth diamond in dummy. Unfortunately, the operation is a failure, for West ruffs the third diamond for down one.

The "technician" can virtually claim his contract via a dummy reversal. When the seven of trumps wins the first trick, he ruffs a heart. He then uses a trump and two minor suit entries for three more heart ruffs. He can then cross to dummy in either minor suit to draw the last trump and all the tricks roll in. "When I have 13 tricks laydown," he says,

Campus Smoking Area Denied

out the nuisance of other students smoking," Randles said. Randles' proposal was discussed by the school system's Administrative Council, composed of Irons and his top assistants.

"It was turned down as contrary to board policy," Irons said. "We realize the difficult job our schools have. They can't supervise every restroom every minute of the day. less, we don't believe a ing area would be consistent with the policies set by the school

Randles said he sympathizes with the position of the board and Administrative Council. "I don't mean to sound critical of them. I respect their decision. And as long as there is a rule against smoking, we're going to do everything we can to enforce it," he said.

Randles said he did not mean to suggest he condones smoking by his proposal to create student smoking areas.

Such areas, he noted, "would not be smoking lounges. They would be outdoors — not inside the school building." And, Randles said, only students who have their parents' permission would be allowed to smoke there. "We'd make sure every student who used the smoking area has written permission from his parents. We'd come down hard on students caught smoking on the patio without their parents' approval. Much of the problem in enforcing the existing no-smoking policy is that many parents do allow their children to smoke. Thus, the threat of getting caught at school is little deterrent, Randles said.

Monterey is by no means the on-ly school troubled by smokers. Throughout the city, high schools and even junior highs — report similar problems. Many students flock to the restrooms to smoke during the "pass" between class periods. On longer breaks, they often go outside to smoke on schoolgrounds, across the street from campus or in their cars.

"Passing periods are smoking periods," Randles said. Trying to catch smokers is difficult because students keep a lookout for teachers and administrators on patrol, the number of adult supervisors is so limited, and students must be caught "in the act" - not with just circumstantial evidence - to be disciplined, he said.

"As hard as we try, students who want to smoke are going to find a way to do it," Randles said.

Students caught smoking at Monterey receive three conduct marks, he said. When a student has totaled 12 marks, he must serve an in-school suspension, Randles said. Smoking in restrooms pollutes the air for students, especially those with asthma or allergies to smoke. Randles said. "It's so bad kids who do not smoke do not want to go to the restrooms during passing periods.

Bands of smokers in the restrooms also inflict vandalism there - something Randles said a designated smoking area would help re-

A survey of 358 Monterey students by The Mirror found that 25 percent smoke - and of those students, 60 percent do so at school. The survey suggested 74 percent of the students are opposed to smoking in the restrooms, and 59 percent favor a designated smoking

The Mirror received comments pro and con to the proposed smoking areas. Said one supporter: "There are so many people (in the restrooms now) standing and smoking that you can hardly get to the stalls, sinks or mirrors.

But another student said, "A smoking lounge would only encourage smoking, sort of give the school's approval of it."

Smoking problems have been discussed at other schools, too. One Coronado High student said recently in a letter to The Coronado Crest: "The opening of a smoking lounge would result in cleaner restrooms, less hassle and, in all probability, fewer tardies."

The Westerner World, the Lubbock High School paper, suggested an alternative to designated smoking areas - that students themselves establish "smoking and nonsmoking bathrooms."

Under that proposal, explained The Westerner's Inez Russell, 'Smokers can use the bathrooms in the science wing and those on the third floor. First- and secondfloor bathrooms are for those students who do not smoke.' The Lubbock school board unan imously reiterated its ban against students smoking on campus only

Statewide Races Grab Primary Spotlight

By GARTH JONES

ciated Press Writer Anyone who thought the U.S. Senate and governor races would hog the spotlight in the May 6 primaries had better take another look at the ballots. First glances indicate there will be at least five hotly contested statewide races in the Democratic primary and probably Even the Republicans will find an excuse to get excited over a GOP gubernatorial duel, not to mention half a dozen intra-party fights in the congressional races. Shortly before the filing deadline at 6 p.m. Monday an unexpected rough-and-tumble contest developed for a Texas Railroad Commission seat. Full results of the filings for the Democratic and Republican primaries May 6 may not be known for at least two days because mailed filing fees postmarked before 6 p.m. Monday will be accepted. Jerry Sadler, the former railroad commissioner and land commissioner with a reputation for upsetting political plans, decided Monday to get into the race for the two years remaining in the term of retired Railroad Commissioner Jim Langdon. His appearance broke up what had appeared to be a quiet campaign between Democrats John Poemer of Hondo, Gov. Dolph Briscoe's appointee, and Ray Lemmon, former state legislator from

Then, to add spice to the race, there were the filings of Jake Johnson, former San Antonio legislator and a bitter political enemy of Sadler, and Jack Strong, Longview, well-known and influential former state senator.

Just before the deadline, Republican James W. Lacy, Midland oil and gas producer, joined the contest.

The winner of the race will serve on the commission until Jan. 1, 1981. Sadler, 70, of Grapeland lost a hot runoff battle for the commission in 1976 with present commissioner Jon Newton. Sader led the field of eight candidates in the first primary although he said he spent only $900 for campaign expenses.

Railroad Commission Chairman Mack

Wallace got a last minute Democratic primary opponent with the filing by John Thomas Henderson of Austin.

Another filing surprise Monday was the late declaration of former state senator

Henry Grover of Houston to run as an independent in the U.S. Senate race in November. He will have to support the declaration with a petition containing thousands of signatures of voters who do not vote in the May 6 primary elections.

Otherwise the big time U.S. Senate race continues as it has been, with Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, slated to meet the winner of the Democratic duel between Rep. Bob Krueger, New Braunfels, and Joe Christie, former state insurance board chairman.

The governor's race remains a big time duel among Democrats Gov. Dolph Briscoe, Attorney John Hill and former Gov. Preston Smith with the winner to meet the survivor between Republicans Ray Hutchison, former state GOP chairman, and Dallas businessman Bill Clements. Statewide candidates filed with state Democratic and Republican headquarters included:

Governor - Democrats Ray Allen Mayo, San Juan; Preston Smith, Lubbock; John Hill, Austin; Dolph Briscoe, Uvalde, and Donald Beagle, Nederland. Republicans William Clements, Dallas; Ray Hutchison, Dallas, and Clarence mpson, Fort Worth.

Carol Burnett To End

Weekly Comedy Show By JERRY BUCK

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Carol Burnett wants you to know she is not retiring from television, just giving up her weekly comedy show on CBS. But what a show. "The Carol Burnett Show" is in its 11th season, making it the longest-running show currently in prime time. The star's husband and producer, Joe Hamilton, announced on Monday that the last show would be March 26. Miss Burnett, who could not be reached immediately for comment, said in a prepared statement that she wanted to be free of the demands of a weekly show and to replenish herself and look into other areas. The statement gave no other reasons for calling it quits. But industry observers had noted recently that the show was sagging in the ratings, that it apparently had run out of steam. The absence of former regular Harvey Korman, who left last year, is keenly felt.

and the insertion of Dick Van Dyke into the lineup in September somehow never worked. He left after about 10 shows. In an attempt to increase the show's audience, CBS last month switched it from its long-time Saturday-night berth to Sunday night, but for the week ending Jan. 29, it finished well down the list, in 44th place in the Nielsen ratings.

Miss Burnett joins two other women who voluntarily ended their comedy shows, also on CBS - Lucille Ball and her to continue the show, but added, "I still feel it's time to take a breather."

Miss Burnett said she would do some specials but would not consider another series for at least a year.

First up for her is a special based on the Erma Bombeck's book "The Grass Is Always Greener Over the Septic Tank. She will also be seen in the upcoming motion picture "The Wedding.

Threats To Carter Alleged In Charge

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - A 31-yearold man has been charged in a six-count indictment with writing letters threatening the life of President Carter.

The indictment by a federal grand jury Monday charged Phillip Henry Broadwell with sending the letters to the White House between Nov. 18 and Nov. 25 while he was an inmate at the U.S. Medical Center in Springfield, Mo.

Broadwell, who is being held in jail at Belleville, Ill., on an armed robbery charge and in connection with previous threats to the president, was transferred to the medical center in November for mental evaluation.

In the letters, Broadwell is alleged to have made such threats as: "I am going to kill you. I am a National Socialist. I believe in white power and I am going to shoot you down in cold blood."

Contested Races In Store For Lubbock Voters

Avalanche-Journal Staff
Last-minute filings, one race switch and a total drop-out leave Lubbock with a dozen contested races for local offices in this 1978 general election year.

They are the 19th Congressional District, 28th state Senatorial District, state representative Districts 75-A and 75-B, criminal district attorney, district clerk, county commissioner Pcts. 2 and 4, justices of the peace Pct. 1, Place 2, Pct. 2 and Pct. 4, and GOP county chairman. Current state Rep. Joe Robbins pulled out of his District 75-A race late Monday to make a foray into the 28th Senatorial District fray which already had five Democrats running.

Charles Smith, JP in Pct. 1, Place 2, gained and lost an opponent in 11th hour maneuverings for the May 6 Democratic primary. Charles H. Hutchinson of 3413 43rd St. filed to run against him. And Lee Page, who announced for the job two weeks ago, decided not to file, the county Democratic chairman said. Neither Hutchinson, 20, a theater man, nor Page, a former state representative candidate here, could be reached for comment on their political decisions.

Dean Krueger, an insurance salesman, and Ruth Schiermeyer, a GOP stalwart, both filed for Republican county chair-for control of the county Republican Par-

Krueger is one of a group extremely critical in recent months of current GOP chairman Mike Stevens and other party executive committee members.

Stevens had announced several months ago that he would run again for party chairman, solely as a "unit" candidate to hold together bickering factions.

He plans to resign, however, tonight. He had decided to do so because it had appeared in recent weeks that the party split had healed.

Stevens wants to run for city council. Mrs. Schiermeyer was expected to be appointed tonight as interim chairman, rough the May 6 primary. And party leaders had their fingers crossed she would go unopposed for a two-year term

Robbins' entrance into the 28th Senatorial District race came after former Lubbock Mayor Jim Granberry announced he would not seek the post as many persons expected him to do.

Granberry cited personal reasons for not running. Robbins has had many problems since state representative ever from Lubbock party leaders had said they would hunt a orimary opponent for him, although it became obvious recently that some of the dissatisfaction with him was waning.

A real estate broker, Nolan "Buzz" Robnett announced as a GOP primary contender for Robbins' job two weeks ago. And attorney Jack Chappell entered to make it a three-way race.

Some political observers looked on Robbins' race switch as a "graceful way out of an embarassing situation."

They reasoned this way: "Now Joe is saved the humiliation of not having run for re-election and being called a quitter, or the humiliation of running as an incumbent and getting beat in his own par-

Now, if he should win the senate seat. everything's great. And if he should lose it, people will say, 'Well, what do you expect in this Democratic country?'," the observers commented.

To which Robbins replied Monday "Bull, Ridiculous,"

"Who in their right minds would give up running for safe re-election to a House seat on one side of a city, in order to run for a multi-county senate district that stretches from north of Lubbock, south to Odessa and west to New Mexico?" he

A seat, he contended, citing a poll he said had showed "surprisingly little anti-Robbins votes.

The 43-year-old television newsman noted he had speculated several months ago about a possible senate bid. "It was not a spur-of-the-moment decision," he

Robbins said key senate campaign issues for him will be revising agricultural production taxation, to help farmers out of their financial crunch; creation of water imporatation authorities to bring water to dry West Texas, and 100 percent state financing of the public school Minimum Foundation Program, with state budget surpluses earmarked for that pur-

The school finance proposal will lower all citizens' taxes, he said, through reducing local tax burdens and preventing legislators from spending future state budget surpluses on new, perhaps unnecessary,programs.

Here is a list of how things stand locally, according to the Secretary of State's office and state and county Democratic, GOP and Raza Unida chairmen's offices. Raza Unida chairmen's offices closed

Jury Deliberation Opens In Houston Police Trial

HOUSTON (AP) - An all-Anglo federal court jury of seven men and five women will begin deliberations today in the trial of three former Houston policemen, accused of violating the civil rights of a young Mexican-American laborer who drowned while in police custody.

The jury, after almost three weeks of testimony, received the case at 6:54 p.m. Monday, but said they wanted to rest during the night after listening to some eight hours of final arguments and instructions from U.S. District Court Judge

In final arguments, defense attorney Bob Bennett, a former Harris County assistant district attorney, said the jury must not return a verdict, "On the whims of politics, or the pressure or the whim of a certain group of citizens. Truth will set you free and that is what Terry W. Den-

A state court jury in Huntsville, a town located about 70 miles north of Houston and the center of the Texas prison system, rejected the murder charge, convicted Orlando and Denson of negligent homicide, a misdemeanor, and gave them one-year probated sentences.

Two of the six officers allegedly involved in first the beating and then the drowning death of Torres have testified against the other policemen. Carless Elliott, a rookie officer at the

French Judge Kidnapped By Masked Men

LYON, France (AP) - Four masked men kidnapped Judge Noel Daix during the night as he walked home from a food store, leaving his broken glasses and groceries on the sidewalk, police said today. He was driven off in a car that was found later in the Saone River just north of this central French city, police said. They said nothing had been heard from the kidnappers. Police said the 54-year-old Daix, recently promoted from examining magistrate to president of a Lyon court, was a bachelor of fixed habits and movements. Two and a half years ago, Judge Francois Reynaud, known as "The Sheriff" because of his tough investigations of organized crime, was assassinated as he drove to his suburban Lyon home. But court officials said Daix had not handled any recent inquiry into major crime.

Meanwhile, negotiations were reported continuing with the abductors of Baron Edouard-Jean Empain, the Belgian industrialist kidnapped outside his Paris home Jan. 23. The newspaper France-Soir said the kidnappers had sent a a new photograph of Empain in which he appeared exhaust-

> Executive Sports Editor DALLAS - "Well, maybe we could have opened up on them a little bit earlier." deadpanned Gerald Myers, as he thought about his last encounter with SMU in relation to the one tonight.

Myers couldn't have waited much longer to salvage the last game, as guard Mike Edwards' jumper from the key was in the air at the buzzer for a 45-43 verdict in Lubbock three weeks ago tonight.

And, now, on the Mustangs' home court, the Raiders start into the most difficult stretch of the season, and Myers knows that it won't be any pleasure jour-

Throw-in will be at 7:30 p.m. Prior to the contest, the Texas Tech women will take on SMU.

With Texas and Arkansas holding a two-game edge over Tech, the Raiders are fighting to hang as high in the standings as possible, with an eye on the postseason tournament. SMU is fighting for the same thing, only in its case, fifth spot in the objective, that spot bringing a coveted home court for the first round.

And winning at home in the regular season is almost a must to land a high spot in the standings.

SMU coach Sonny Allen realizes this. We're 5-5, but in every game, we've been in it and could have won," admitted the SMU coach.

"We're playing pretty good. Arkansas and Texas only beat us by 1 and 2 points. And we're now playing pretty conconsis-tently. We're getting better guard play (from sophomores Phil Hale and Mark Davis), and we have four people inside that are playing well. "We just need to win some games."

And since the Raiders have beaten SMU seven straight times—the last six by 6 points or less-there could be a factor of revenge.

"The entire league is so even, that probably 80 percent of the games are decided in the last minute." And, with better play on the part of the Mustangs, Myers realizes his position, with A&M (on the road), Houston, Texas and Arkansas (on the road) ahead.

"SMU has settled on a lineup now, and the way they're playing, it's hard for us to match up with them. They always play well in Dallas, too."

The lineup which Allen has been using for the past two weeks has 6-10 T.J. Robinson and 6-7 Jeff Swanson at forwards, and 6-6 Reggie Franklin at the post. Hale and Davis work outside, Davis handling the point-guard duties.

This is a change from the game in Lub-bock, where 6-7 Joe Swedlund was opening at forward in place of Robinson. Even now, however, Allen rotates the four on an equal-time basis, and even as a reserve, Swedlund is hitting 10.6 points a game and scoring on 57 percent of his

"That lineup makes it harder for us," says Myers, "When we put (6-7) Mike Russell on Franklin, that forces us to use (6-9) Joe Baxter on T.J., and (6-5) Kent Williams on Swanson."

Russell got 23 points in Saturday night's game against Baylor, to continue to lead the team in scoring. Swanson is SMU's top man with a 12.8-point average, followed by Robinson with 11 per game way to the tournament. I imagine we could have the toughest schedule in the league the rest of the way."

Two more games will be played in the conference tonight, Houston (7-4) will visit Baylor (3-7), and Texas, tied for the conference lead with Arkansas at 10-1, will play at Rice (2-9).

What About NBA Fights?

By MICKEY HERSKOWITZ And STEVE PERKINS

Q. I have noticed a recent spate of articles that seem to defend Kareem Abdul-Jabber and Kermit Washington for their fighting episodes this season. The point seems to be that basketball players have always gotten into fights, but you hear more about it now because of TV. Do you agree with this? Also, I recall that Wilt Chamberlain once considered boxing as a pro. Did he ever get into a fight on the basketball

-Lyle Werzik, Omaha

Sports Tuesday, Feb. 7, 1978

A. Pro basketball does receive wider coverage than 10 or more years ago, true. But what was indefensible about the punches thrown by the two Lakers was the fact that in both cases the victims were not looking. Chamberlain, who is generally regarded as the strongest man ever to play the game, says he used his fists once in the heat of a game. Seven-foot Clyde Lovellette loosened two of Wilt's teeth with an elbow and they squared off. Chamberlain knocked him down with a left hand and the fight was over.

Chamberlain has no sympathy for sucker punchers. "You can kill a guy who's unprepared to get hit," he says. He also wonders if Kareem doesn't pick his spots. "I doubt if any player in the league shoves and pushes Kareem more than Wes Unseld," he adds. "But I bet you won't ever see Kareem turn around and slug Wes Unseld.

Q. In his book, "Shadow Box," George Plimpton tells how Howard Cosell refused to join a committee that was formed to get Muhammad Ali's boxing license restored during his draft troubles. Cosell said he was afraid someone would try to shoot him if he let the committee use his name. If this story is true, doesn't it show what a hypocrite Cosell was, since he claimed to be Ali's staunchest supporter?

-Perry Blume, Dayton, Ohio

A. The story is true, as far as it goes. Plimpton now regrets that he didn't explain the background of Cosell's rejection. Howard had been in the forefront of those deploring Ali's treatment, the denial of his right to due process by law. (He was stripped of his title before being tried, much less convicted of a crime.) After Ali refused to take the "one step forward" at the draft board in Houston, Cosell received a barrage of hate mail and death threats. His caution was not

Q. What ever happened to Hugh "Bones" Taylor, who player for the Redskins in the late '40s and early '50s? I know he served one year as head coach of the Oilers. I remember hearing on radio the game where he caught the 100th pass completion thrown by the great Sammy Baugh.

Texas Schools May Withdraw From Texoma

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

The Texoma Conference is facing a 3 and 2 count from its Texas members and

The Texoma Conference is facing a 3 and 2 count from its Texas members and indications appear the next pitch will be strike three and the end of the ball game as far as the three-year old league is concerned.

Reports from the Mextoplex area Sunday and Monday reveal that Texas Wesleyan and Dallas Baptist have followed the lead of Midwestern State University in officially pulling out of the TAC and have applied pressure on Lubbock Christian College and Wayland Baptist College to do the same.

"Yes, I've been getting those rumors, too," Bob Clindaniel, the Wayland Baptist cage coach who doubles as the TAC president, admitted Monday.

"The chances are that there will be a Texas League formed because of all the confusion that exists over the present Texoma Conference. It's hard for the fans to understand why winning the conference championship is not the major to understand why winning the conference championship is not the major objective. And that's bad."

The Texoma Conference was originally formed to allow church-supported schools in Texas and Oklahoma to compete with institutions of basically the same size and which had the same financial situation.

An exception was made to allow Midwestern to compete. But Oklahoma is in District 9 of the NAIA and Texas is in Districts 8 and 4, with the TAC members competing in District 8.

Therefore, winning the Texoma championship does not guarantee a team a berth in the national playoffs. Rather, it's how a team fares against teams within its zone of the NAIA that determines Playoff berths. Plus, both Districts have gone to relying on the Dunkel Ratings the past two years to help determine the playoff situation.

"I have mixed emotions about the move," Clindaniel said. "I've always liked the concept of the Texoma Conference, but it's not good that the conference iship doesn't mean anything

"The big thing that will hurt us is track. We have a good rivalry with Oklahoma Christian and that (no strong track powers in the Texas league) will be something we'll have to consider. But if the other schools withdraw, it will leave us in a very undesirable position if we remain in the TAC."

Clindaniel indicated that he felt the league would be completely restructured.

The TIAA (non-scholarship) league will have five members next year (Sul Ross, McMurry, Austin College, Tarleton and Trinity) and the winner will get an automatic spot in the playoffs.

And it's rumored that LeTourneau College of Longview and East Texas Baptist would like to join a conference. Therefore, if that duo teams up with Midwestern, Dallas Baptist, Texas Wesleyan and either-or-both LCC and Wayland, that league would have an automatic playoff spot for the wnner.

The two remaining playoff berths would be decided on basis of the Dunkel Ratings, which include all 15 District 8 schools which play basketball.

"The main thing most of the Texas school object to," explained LCC cage mentor Darrell Price, "is having to make two trips to Oklahoma, which is what the 1978-79 schedule calls for. And since we'll be playing home-and-away conrence series, that will constitute about 20 games. And we only had 29 sched-

"We at LCC felt something needed to be done for scheduling purposes, but cancelling 12 games at this late date might cause some difficulties. And it's not fair to the Oklahoma schools to put them in this bind, because they need to be Midwestern, back last fall, announced its intention of withdrawing from the onference and making a bid to go NCAA Division II. However, many schools across the nation compete in both Division II and the NAIA at the same time.

DBC cage coach-athletic director Steve Sherion would only say Monday that his school was "strongly considering that possiblity" and that "we're not ready release anything yet."

However, he did admit "I don't feel like it (the TAC) is helping us as far as the conference should. We don't get anything out of it publicity wise and it doesn't mean anything toward the playoffs, so I don't feel it's helping us that much."

TWC cage boss John Howerton said his school hadn't made an official decision, either, but like DBC was senously considering the more.

DBC was supposed to get a letter off to the conference office early this week informing them of their decision to withdraw," Howerton said. ther, but like DBC was seriously considering the move. "I understand "One of the main reasons we're trying to get a new Texas group formed is that by dropping down to four teams you lose your automatic berth in the play-offs. This is one of the keys to having a conference. Even though everyone is on the Dunkel, you like to haave a conference to be assurred of getting the winner there (the playoffs).

"To my way of thinking the Oklahoma schools will welcome this, too. There's a lot of travel and expense involved and next year you're talking about two and e trips to Oklahoma. We both can get games with teams closer to home that the fans know more about and can identify with better."

Larry Hays, the LCC baseball coach will assume the basketball duties next fall, felt "the Texoma is not really folding, we're just getting into a conference that fits us better. I don't think it would make any difference to baseball, any-

"The only affect it would have would be to give us more time to coach and ess time explaining what the Texoma has to do with the playoff procedure. ometimes I don't even understand that.

"But right now no decisions have been made and can't be made until we have a meeting. So things are only in the talking stages and something in that stage they get blown out of proportions. But I think this is something we're all ready

Since TWC and DBC will make the Lubbock-Plainview swing for games on Feb. 24-25, indications are that Midwestern will join the four schools either here or in Plainview that Saturday for a meeting to map out final plans.

Nazareth, Silverton Win Away From Titles

It's a good bet that Silverton's boys and Nazareth's girls will be the first to wrap up league championships and those 5-B squads can do that tonight.

But four other district crowns could find a wearer tonight: Sudan's girls in 6-B, Jayton's girls in 12-B, Whitharral's boys in 7-B and Shallowater's girls in 5-A. And, as usually happens at this late date, numerous other teams can inch closer to the throne room.

Silverton and Nazareth compete in a four-team league that goes on a straight schedule. Both teams are 4-0 and wins tonight would given them at least a twogame edge with just one contest remain-

Standing squarely behind the two is father Tom, himself a five-time state champ. (Three times he won the title as a lightweight, twice as a heavyweight.)

Tom, a member of the U.S. national team which toured Europe, pointed out he didn't want to sound like an overzealous father but "I like to think that Matt has a shot at the title this year. I think he can win it. I'm proud of my boys like any father should be, but I'm not arrogant in

No brag, just fact, he said.

In fact, Matt said that was one of the reasons he boxes. "When I got out of high school and realized I couldn't compete any longer, I had to do something," Matt said. "I looked around and decided boxing was a great sport to try. And anyway, I have the best coach around.

Tom said he taught his sons to box when they were kids, "but I didn't think they would go this far with it."

Although Matt doesn't sport a great won-loss mark (6-3), his father said the three setbacks were to top-notch boxers. 'He didn't look good in his first fight, but he has really come on strong," Tom said, pointing out that "my oldest boy" hasn't been fighting that long.
"He's fought people that have been in

Chaps Seek To Perfect New Role

PLAINVIEW (Special) - Lubbock Christian College will try to perfect its role as a giant killer when it takes on Wayland Baptist here tonight in an 8 p.m. Texoma Conference outing.

The Chaps are 3-18 on the year but have won two straight, dealing Eastern New Mexico University's playoff hopes a severe blow with that 54-51 win Saturday

And that led WBC mentor Bob Clindaniel to quip Monday, "We knew it would be tough, but it didn't help any when they beat ENMU . . . now they'll think they can play.' WBC, 9-14, still has an outside shot at have the other teams. "We haven't seem much of 'Big Mo' this year." Chaparral boss Darrell Price said, "but it stands to reason that we've got some momentum going. "I just feel like the kids have gained a little confidence. The big thing is in maturity. Our internal situation has settled down the last three weeks and that's helped us. The kids who are still with us are 'with us' and are really working hard.

"At this point in the season, we're just playing them one at a time. Wayland's in a desperate situation. They're a wellrounded club, but they don't hve any real outstanding individual. They're especially tough at home, even though they don't have much of an inside game."

And Clindaniel confirmed that. "LCC has some rebounding strength and that'll probably give us trouble because we're not strong on the boards and are getting only about 34 rebounds a game.

Sampy (Lamar, LCC's 6-3 freshman who is leading the team in scoring and rebounding) will probably give us a lot of trouble. But we've got to win if we want to get into the playoffs, there's no way around that," exclaimed Clindaniel. WBC, which leads 11-8 in this series, is basically a South Plains team. Toright's starters will be 6-7 Mike Hull of Hereford and 6-5 John Irving of Galveston at posts, with 6-3 Gene Strickland of Friona, 6-4 Carl Burson and 6-1 Bruce Kimball of Kermit at the guards and wings. WBC uses all 12 squad members, including 6-6 Cooper product Donnie Seale and 6-9 Bill Schneider at the posts. Strickland and Burson are both averaging 19 points a game. Price will counter with 6-3 Gary Norris and 6-1 Edwin Miles at the guards, Sampy, 6-7 Lowell Malker and 6-5 Mike Kah-

Both teams will be young tonight, as LCC starts three freshoen, a junior and a senior; Wayland three sophs, a junior and senior. 1

Price praised the effort of Kahler against ENMU All-America candidate Bob Kirkley last Saturday. "We talked about it for a long time before the game. It's just a matter of concentration. You can't shut him down all at once. I just told Mike he (Kirkley) was going to get some points, but that if we could hold him to around 20, we had a chance.

"I also told Mike he had to play the entire game without fouling out. Mike got three fouls and two were on shots I thought he blocked. But Mike denied Kirkley the ball and crowded him enough to make hit shoot 8 for 23 and only get 21 points (he came into the game as the No. 1 scorer in the nation with a 32.2 average) and we came out okay.

Now if that will only happen tonight.

'Dump Bowie' Outcry Dies Of Lonesomeness

Questions remained. Should multi-million dollar sports franchises enjoy immunity from regulation just because they are sports or should they face the same restraints applied to everyday businesses?

How much freedom should an owner such as Finley have in running his own property, in selling and buying talent as he sees fit? What are the individual rights of a man such as Blue, eager to take his wares elsewhere but by baseball laws condemned to labor with a downtrodden club with an employer for whom he has expressed deeepest scorn.

To what extent should the game take precedence for the game's sake over the human beings who make up its spokes?
The answer is contained in a few choice words of the Major League Agreement, the baseball constitution written and signed by the owners granting the commissioner powers to protect "the best interests of baseball."

It has been the cornerstone for the game since Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis took over as commissioner more than half a century ago after the Black Sox scandal.

At the time, Landis chided the owners as relinquishing the authority "to save you from yourselves."

In canceling Blue's deal to the Reds, Kuhn acted consistently with earlier decisions. Nineteen months ago he forbade Finley to sell Blue to the Yankess for $1.5 million and two other A's regulars — Joe Rudi and Rollie Fingers — to two other A's regulars — Joe Rudi and Rollie Fingers — to the Boston Red Sox for $1 million each. In each case, he ar-bitrarily stuck to his rule of thumb to disallow any deal involving a cash sale of more than $400,000.

No one can challenge Kuhn's bonesty or his nerve. In twice voiding the Blue deal, he offended two of the most influential personalities in baseball, Steinbrenner and Hows-

These are the only enterprises — including ranjor bustnesses and even the national government — without some system of checks and balances. There is no appeal.

Baseball, as Steinbrenner has suggested, should set up a sort of a Supreme Court, an inviolate panel of excutives and perhaps player representatives to reexamine and pass final approval on decisions of such a delicate nature. It would be best for the commissioner and best for baseball.

Lee came off the bench to score 25 points in Kentucky's 104-81 rout of Au-burn Monday night. He admitted after Southeastern Conference contest that, "If it would help, I'd be willing to start, but right now I'm happy doing what I'm doing

Hall is equally happy with the situation and has no plans of changing his starting lineup just to give the 6-foot-5 forward more playing time.

"With Lee doing so well at coming off the bench, I don't like to change the starting five — particularly if it's a set lineup," says Hall. "But I wouldn't hesitate to not start him and let him play 39

"I feel real comfortable coming off the bench," says Lee, who made 10 of 17 shots from the field. "My offense tonight was as good as I could ask for."

Lee's 13 first-half points helped the Wildcats to a 45-40 halftime margin. Then Rick Robey and Mike Phillips each scored 4 points in a 10-0 Kentucky spree that ruined any hopes of an Auburn upset on the Wildcats' home court.

"A team might beat them on the road. but nobody's going to beat them here" said Coach Bob Davis after his Tigers dropped to 8-11 and 4-7 in the SEC. "Nobody will touch them. I don't even know if anyone will come as close to them here

SEC clash at Nashville, where Vanderbilt trimmed Florida 59-57 in double overtime. It may have been the only contest in college basketball history which required 11 minutes for the playing of the final three seconds.

After Vanderbilt's Tommy Springer made two free throws, Ric Clarson inbounded for Florida. The final seconds ticked off and the Commodores rushed off the court to celebrate their victory.

But it was established that the timekee per had started the clock before the ball was touched in play. Vanderbilt was called back from the dressing room and the clock was reset at three seconds.

It mattered little, since the Gators

NEW GAME TIME

PROVIDENCE (AP) - The nationally televised game between North Carolina and Providence will begin at noon CST Sunday instead of 3 p.m., NBC officials say. He said Monday that he was also displeased by the fact that Nolan was limited to coaching one position under Stram. "Dick Nolan was brought in to coordinate the defense," said Mecom. "As time went on, that did not happen. The input was not there, as was the design when he was brought here." Stram had neither offensive nor defensive coordinators, but Nolan said that's the sort of organization he'll use.

He also said there might be some trades in the offing, but other than saying that nobody on the team is "untouchable," he wouldn't go into any details about possible personnel moves.

He did say that improving the team's defense was his first priority, mentioning that he'd like to employ the flex defense that Dallas has used so successfully and which he learned as an assistant under Tom Landry at Dallas. Mecom's dubbing of Nolan came just 11 days after the firing of Stram. He started with a list of a dozen possible replacements, talked to five of them and narrowed his choice to Nolan and Don Coryell, the coach who has expressed unhappiness with his job at St. Louis.

But, with the exception of Maravich, the big scorers in college have had trouble making it in the National Basketball Association, where shooting ability is only one of many necessary talents.

It was an experience Williams cherishes because, playing a point guard, he got to show he wasn't just a shooter.
