UMW, Company Agree On Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — The striking United Mine Workers union today reached a tentative contract agreement with a major independent coal producer, as Labor Secretary Ray Marshall began consulting with congressional leaders about "definitive" action to end the 77-day-old soft coal strike.

Administration officials and union leaders said they were hoping the tentative agreement with the Pittsburg and Midway Coal Co. would break the stalemate in the national strike by setting a pattern for the rest of the coal industry.

PM, which is owned by Gulf Oil Corp., is not a member of the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, which represents the large coal companies. BCOA members mine about half the nation's coal.

PM has 800 to 1,000 mine employees and six mines in Kentucky, Missouri and Kansas.

The tentative PM pact must be approved by the union's bargaining council and the union's membership. It was not immediately clear how long this will take.

If the contract is approved by the miners, PM could begin producing coal, helping to ease shortages in some areas. But more importantly, the tentative agreement is expected to intensify pressure on the BCOA and the UMW to come to terms.

The principal UMW negotiator in the PM talks was Thomas D. Gaston, a frequent critic of UMW President Arnold Miller. One source said Miller "was not involved" in the PM negotiations.

Merlin Breaux, Gulf Oil's vice president for industrial relations, said the tentative PM contract represented a compromise between what the UMW wanted and what BCOA wanted. The UMW's bargaining council had previously rejected a BCOA offer because the union objected to clauses imposing penalties on miners who go out on wildcat strikes.

Breaux said other coal companies have three alternatives: follow the PM contract pattern, continue negotiations with the UMW or stand by and let President Carter intervene.

Sources said the tentative PM contract does not provide fines for miners participating in wildcat strikes. Wages could rise a maximum of $2.40 an hour over three years, including cost-of-living allowances. UMW miners now average $7.80 an hour.

One source said the contract calls for PM to guarantee the health and pension benefits of miners and their dependents.

However, a second source said the contract was unclear on this point. The issue of benefits has been a key sticking point in the negotiations between the BCOA and the union.

The breakthrough in the PM contract came as administration officials were exploring the possibility of encouraging individual settlements between BCOA companies and local UMW units. The government could provide mediators for such an effort, for example, although this process would be time-consuming. Marshall, as he began his consultations with congressional leaders, said no decision has been made on what alternatives the administration might propose to Congress.

"We are just trying to get some idea what members of Congress are thinking," he said. Marshall indicated he wanted to find out how quickly Congress might act on any administration proposal.

Youth's Battle Stuns Experts

By JACK DOUGLAS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Burwin and Aurie Compton were told by doctors their 16-year-old son Kyle would never again speak or recognize them because of extensive brain damage he suffered in a tragic five-car accident on Slide Road last Sept. 4.

The Coronado High School track star, it seemed, was destined to be what has been termed a "living vegetable."

But no one told Kyle. "One-hundred and twenty-nine days after the surgery, I was working with his right arm," Mrs. Compton said. "I asked, 'Does that hurt?,' and he said, 'yes.'"

"It was barely above a whisper, but you could understand it plain enough." Kyle, a pole vaulter at CHS who dreamed of setting new records for the school, is mostly confined to a room in a nursing home shared with three elderly men.

The youth's voice is distorted. Questions directed at him have to be repeated and he is only partially lucid. Only now is he beginning to eat solid foods, and he is relearning how to use silverware.

But family, friends, doctors and the staff at Golden Age Nursing Home look at Kyle's situation and say, "It's a miracle."

The youth was listed in "very, very critical" condition at St. Mary's Hospital the morning after he was involved in a five-car accident in the rain-slick 3000-block of Slide Road which killed his friend and passenger at the time, Dirk Wesley Murphy, 18, of 5002 45th St.

Seven other persons were hospitalized, three seriously. Weeks later all survivors appeared to be recovering except for Kyle, who remained in critical condition.

Until Kyle spoke to his mother on Jan. 11, the diagnosis had been that he would most certainly remain in a coma the rest of his life, fed through a tube.

After the boy began responding, bowed heads and saddened faces were replaced with an air of hopeful anticipation. There appears to be a chance for Kyle, who had lived with his family at 4513 47th St.

The youth has gone from a low weight of 80 pounds to 150, five pounds more than before the mishap. The thick film that had covered Kyle's eyes is beginning to vanish, and a nurse, Vannoy Stoneman, said that several weeks ago the teen-ager's blank stare left for about five minutes.

"He had a personality look in his eyes and asked, 'Where are my parents?'"

Cyprus To Release Egyptian Soldiers

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The government said today it is releasing the surviving Egyptian commandos whose assault on a jetliner held by assassins of an influential Egyptian editor was foiled by Cypriot troops. But officials rejected Egypt's request that the captured terrorists be sent to Cairo.

A spokesman also said the Cyprus government, angered by the foreign military operation on its soil, has demanded that Egypt recall its military attaché from Nicosia.

Cypriot forces stopped the Egyptians' attempt to storm the plane at Larnaca Airport in a bloody battle Sunday night that left a reported 15 Egyptian commandos dead.

Interior Minister Christodoulos Benjamin told a news conference Cypriot, and not Egyptian, courts would try the two Arab terrorists, who began the two days of bloodshed Saturday in a Nicosia hotel by killing Cairo newspaper editor Youssef el-Sebei, a confidant of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

The pair, who seized hostages and took over the Cypriot jetliner after the killing, were formally charged with murder today. Benjamin said the four dozen Egyptian soldiers captured in the battle at the airport, 30 miles southeast of here, would be allowed to return home with their arms.

An Egyptian C-130 military transport arrived in Cyprus today to pick them up along with the bodies of their comrades. It was not known when they would leave. The C-130 that flew them to Cyprus Saturday was badly damaged in the battle.

Besides the 15 dead, the government said, 16 Egyptians were wounded, two were missing and 41 others had been held as "military prisoners." It said six Cypriot soldiers and a West German television cameraman also were wounded in the battle.

A Cypriot government spokesman said today President Spyros Kyprianou has demanded the recall of Col. Suleiman Hadad, military attaché at the Egyptian Embassy here.

The reason was not officially announced, but a Cyprus Airways pilot told a reporter that an Egyptian military attaché had ordered the assault in defiance of the Cypriot government. The source of the pilot's information was not known.

New Cold Front To Slow Thaw

A-J News Services
A new cold front pushed through the Lubbock area this morning, bringing gusty winds and postponing, at least until Tuesday, a warming trend for the South Plains.

Temperatures had climbed to 33 degrees shortly before noon, but winds gusting to 40 mph pushed the "chill factor" to near zero.

The cold front touched off some light snow in the Panhandle and South Plains as far south as Plainview.

The snow, however, had dissipated by noon and none was expected in the Lubbock area.

Today's high temperature was expected to reach the mid-30s, dropping tonight to the upper teens with light and variable winds. Tuesday's top readings may land near the 40-degree mark under clear skies and 10-18 mph winds.

Wind warnings were posted this morning for area lakes, and although water sports were scarcely appropriate — with or without winds — this morning's 20-degree low was mild indeed when compared to Sunday's reading of 2 degrees — Lubbock's coldest recorded Feb. 19.

That record was the third minimum temperature record in as many days.

Afternoon temperatures today were expected to range from the middle 30s in the Panhandle to the 60s in South Texas and the Big Bend, according to National Weather Service reports.

Morning temperatures fell between a 15-degree reading at Marfa and a 47-degree temperature at McAllen.

Candidates Eyed By Alliance

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff
The Citizens' Alliance for Successful Schools has warned politicians and public officials to keep their campaign rhetoric free of "inflammatory or provocative language" regarding school integration here.

In a statement adopted late Sunday, the group said it will "speak out forcefully" against candidates who use school integration as a "cheap political issue."

The alliance, formed last week to promote the "orderly and safe" implementation of an "integration plan for all Lubbock schools," also urged the news media to be "thorough and factual" in reporting and commenting on integration issues.

And the organization called on "business, professional and community leaders to make a public commitment of support to our efforts by both endorsing our positions and contributing time, influence and resources to our work."

About 100 members of the alliance — many of them representatives of various community groups interested in school issues — met Sunday at the First Unitarian Universalist Church.

After brief discussion, the organization adopted a statement:

"With a commitment to excellence in our public schools and in the belief that the forthcoming broadening of integration in all Lubbock public schools is an opportunity for improvement rather than a burden, the alliance calls upon various segments of the community...

"We urge all public officials, and most especially, all candidates for public office See POLITICIANS Page 12

Book Links Oswald, U-2 Incident

NEW YORK (AP) — Lee Harvey Oswald may have provided the Soviet Union with secret information about the American U-2 plane, enabling it to shoot down Francis Gary Powers' spy plane in 1960, according to a new book by author Edward Jay Epstein.

Epstein also says in his book, "Legend: The Secret World of Lee Harvey Oswald," that the FBI, anxious to support its finding that Oswald acted alone in the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, relied upon statements of a Russian defector who may have been a Soviet secret agent trying to dispel any connection between Oswald and Soviet intelligence.

And in an interview in the current issue of New York magazine, Epstein says that in 1962 a Soviet official attached to the United Nations duped former FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover into thinking he had defected as a Soviet secret police officer and fed Hoover false information about Russian activities, information that was passed on to the White House.

Epstein says Hoover believed that with the help of the official — code named "Fedora" — he could compete with the CIA, and that Hoover did not pass the information on to the CIA and refused to disclose "Fedora's" identity to the agency. Epstein says that from 1962 until 1977, "Fedora" provided the FBI with misleading information on a wide range of subjects.

Epstein said his book is based on information from present and former CIA, FBI and other officials.

In writing on Oswald and the U-2, Epstein says that while Oswald was a Marine radar controller at Atsugi Air Base in Japan in 1957, he frequently saw the U-2 take off and land and heard its high altitude requests for weather information on the radio.

Epstein suggests that Oswald provided Russia with information, either then or when he defected to the Soviet Union, that enabled them to knock down Powers' plane while it was flying over the Soviet Union. Oswald spent 2½ years in the Soviet Union, leaving the United States in 1959 and returning in 1962.

Epstein also says in his book that the FBI seized upon the statements of Yuri Nosenko, who defected in early 1964 shortly after Kennedy's assassination and told U.S. intelligence agents that Oswald had no ties to the Soviet secret police.

The documents included a judgment showing Lackey received a five-year probation sentence as a result of a burglary conviction, with that offense committed April 27, 1973.

Another judgment indicated Lackey was convicted of burglary with intent to commit rape as the result of a June 7, 1974, incident.

According to the records put before the jury by Lubbock Criminal District Attorney Alton Griffin, the defendant was assessed a five-year term for that offense on Jan. 9, 1975. The earlier five-year probation was revoked at the same time, and the two sentences were ordered to be served concurrently.

Lackey, 23, reportedly was released from the state penitentiary Feb. 17, 1977, a little more than five months before Miss Kumpf was brutally killed.

Immediately after introducing the conviction records, Griffin announced that the state rested its case in the punishment phase of Lackey's capital murder trial.

The defendant, a powerfully built construction worker, was found guilty of capital murder by the nine-man, three-woman jury in Tom Green County's 51st District court here.

It will be up to the same panel now to determine whether Lackey receives the death penalty or life imprisonment as a penalty for the crime. They are the only two options the jury will have.

In determining the penalty verdict, jurors will be asked to answer two questions: basically, they are whether the offense was committed deliberately and whether, beyond a reasonable doubt, there is a probability Lackey would commit future acts of violence constituting a continuing threat to society.

If both questions are answered affirmatively, Lackey will be assessed the death penalty. See JURY Page 12

Former A-J Newsman Dies Here

Charles C. Watson Jr., retired managing editor for The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal's afternoon editions, died at about 11 a.m. today after a lengthy illness.

Funeral services are pending at Sanders Funeral Home.

Watson, 71, was employed by the A-J for almost 44 years prior to his retirement in 1973. He died at the home of a friend.

Watson's career with the Lubbock newspaper began in 1929 when he joined the night staff as a reporter. He was named managing editor in 1947.

Following his retirement in August, 1973, Watson served on the Journalism faculty at Baylor University for two years.

Watson learned the newspaper business from his father, C.C. Watson Sr., who founded the first newspaper in Midland, the Midland Daily Telegram, and later owned the Belton Journal.

Watson worked in every department of newspaper journalism from the composing room to the newsroom. He was graduated from Midland schools and attended New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell and Baylor University.

He served in the U. S. Navy during World War II.

Prince Andrew Turns 18

LONDON (AP) — Prince Andrew celebrated his 18th birthday without a party and Buckingham Palace declined to say what presents he received. But one "gift" was a state allowance of about $39,000 annually. Now that he has turned 18, Andrew can begin drawing on the allowance. The prince spent his birthday Sunday in his Scottish boarding school, away from the press and his royal family.

Judy Carne Arrested Again

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — The "sock-it-to-me girl" of TV's old "Laugh-In" show has been arrested for a second time in a week — for investigation of auto theft and possession of a controlled substance.

Judy Carne, 38, and her ex-husband, Robert Augustus Bergmann, 31, were stopped in a car early Sunday morning for allegedly running a red light, according to police. A routine check of the car's license plates showed it was stolen Saturday, authorities said.

Miss Carne had some marijuana and "some kind of opium derivative" and Bergmann was carrying codeine for which he had no prescription, police said. Bail was set at $1,500 each. Miss Carne was arrested at her Los Angeles home last Monday after deputies found a plastic bag filled with powder and assorted narcotics paraphernalia. The powder turned out to be non-narcotic, but Miss Carne was booked on a misdemeanor charge of possessing less than an ounce of marijuana. Miss Carne also faces charges of drug abuse and illegal possession of a drug document in Ohio for allegedly trying to obtain a tranquilizer with a forged prescription.

Part Of Nixon's Book Leaked

NEW YORK (AP) — H.R. Haldeman's book leaked out and now part of former President Nixon's autobiography has become public — one sentence of it, that is. Nixon begins his book with, "I was born in the house my father built," according to the Feb. 27 issue of New York magazine. The magazine, which disclosed material from ex-Nixon aide Haldeman's then-unreleased book several weeks ago, did not say where it obtained the quote from the Nixon book, to be published in May.

Nixon was born in Yorba Linda, Calif., in 1913 and has lived in San Clemente since he resigned the presidency in August 1974.

New York compared what it said was the first sentence of the Nixon book with the openings of the autobiographies of former Presidents Eisenhower and Truman.

The Eisenhower book begins: "Starting off for West Point in June 1911, I traveled light." Truman's: "During the first weeks of Franklin D. Roosevelt's fourth administration, I saw what the long years in the presidency had done to him."

Friendly, But Not Too Friendly

DENVER (AP) — Telephone operators have their problems, too.

The Lighter Side Of Today's News

One official of Mountain Bell Co. says many operators look at themselves as "nobodies, as nameless, faceless non-persons."

That has changed under a 3-month-old "Operation Identification" program. Dial "O" and you may hear: "This is Suzanne. What city, please?" Or: "Operator Mary, may I help you?" But then there's "Number 108."

The natural warmth of that operator's voice so struck one of her callers that she found him waiting at the door of her home not long ago. Since then, "Number 108" hasn't given her full name.

Utility Official Promises Probe

WESTWOOD, Calif. (AP) — The lights go back on in Westwood today, but one state official promises to keep the heat on the electric company that provoked townsfolk to a self-imposed "blackout."

Most of the lumber town's 2,500 residents turned off their electricity Feb. 12 in protest of rate hikes.

Citing nearly 2,000 computer billing errors and sporadic meter reading by California-Pacific Utilities Co., public utilities commissioner Claire Dedrick said Sunday she would personally investigate the situation.

Mrs. Dedrick said she would bring the town's problems up at a Public Utilities Commission meeting in San Francisco on Wednesday, and planned to visit the mountain town within the next 10 days. She said she would ask officials of the utility to go along.

She said the company admitted to having overbilled, through computer error, 1,644 customers in Westwood and nearby Susanville and Chester, and another 335 customers near Needles in Southern California. The overbillings during the last 41 days totalled $14,412, she said.

She also said not all customers' meters had been read regularly, further complicating the billing.

The utility is asking the commission to boost its electric rates by about 8.5 percent. The four-member panel sets rates for all utilities in the state.

The week-long blackout dimmed streets in the town. Most people turned to candles, kerosene and oil lamps to light their homes. They heated bath water on wood stoves and let their hair dry without hot air.

Abortion Leaders Blame Church

CLEVELAND (AP) — Officials are checking for a possible link between the weekend firebombing of a Cleveland abortion clinic and a $200,000 fire at a Columbus abortion clinic last month.

Aurelia Elliott, 48, a worker at the Conger Women's Clinic, suffered chemical burns Saturday when a man entered the clinic and threw a bag at her. The bag, which hit her in the face, was believed to contain gasoline, police said.

The man also tossed a device which started the fire, causing $30,000 in damages to the clinic. The facility had only reopened Friday after being vandalized Wednesday night. In that incident, iodine was thrown on the walls and floors and telephone cords were cut. Damage was put at $500.

Two abortion rights leaders blamed the incident on the influence of the Roman Catholic Church. "From the pulpit we're being called murderers," said Carolyn Buell, executive director of the Preterm Clinic in Cleveland.

William Baird of New York City, founder of the Abortion Freedom League, said the situation will "turn into another Northern Ireland unless the Roman Catholics stop feeding the winds of hatred."

But the Rev. Frank Kosem, director of news for the Diocese of Cleveland, said violence goes against Catholicism and the pro-life movement. "At the same time, we have no control over people who do irrational things, but we can't condone them," Kosem said. "I am sorry this has happened. It is unfortunate."

Cleveland Battalion Fire Chief James Higginbotham said police are investigating a possible link between the two clinic attacks.

"I understand there was a similar deal in Columbus a few weeks ago and they are trying to see if there is a connection," said Higginbotham, who was at the fire scene. Investigators on the police arson and bomb squads could not be reached for comment.

The Columbus fire occurred last month at the Northwest Women's Center.

"The report never said arson, but when you have fire set in 10 different locations, it's apparent that somebody set the fire," said Mike McCoy, information officer for the Columbus Fire Department.

A pattern of attacks on abortion clinics across the country has emerged, said Christine Brim, public information director for the National Abortion Rights Action League in Washington.

Hartford 'Mourning' Collapsed Roof

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Area residents are "mourning" the death of a loved one — the collapsed roof of the Civic Center Coliseum.

Three University of Connecticut psychiatrists say people are taking the collapse so hard that they will formally research the reaction. They also are urging city officials to set up an information line to relieve fears about other roofs collapsing.

The 1,400-ton roof caved in Jan. 18 under the weight of ice and snow. No one was injured in the early morning disaster which did millions of dollars in damage and closed the facility, which was used for such events as hockey games, concerts and the circus.

The psychiatrists, Drs. Allan Tasman, David Goldberg and Mahlon Hale of the university's Health Center in Farmington, say they have found indications of a "stress wave" in the community, but they are refusing further public comment until their research is complete.

The Greater Hartford Chamber of Commerce is considering the doctors' suggestion to fund an information line for the calls coming in from people with fears about roofs collapsing on them.

Chamber spokesman Robin Hogan and civic center director Frank Russo said the doctors told city officials that the reaction studied in the Hartford area resembled that observed elsewhere after a catastrophe.

"They say we are now in a denial phase just like a person who has someone close to them die would be," said Russo.

Russo said the doctors also have noted signs of the second phase in the traditional reaction cycle to loss — anger. He said some politicians have already reached that stage.

"They (the doctors) also said that feelings of guilt are interfering with the denial phase for some persons, such as perhaps the architects, engineers and steel company executives," Russo said.

Following the anger stage of mourning comes grief and then the recovery stage.

City officials say they hope recovery will be speeded by plans to rebuild the roof.

"We even have a target date for when the new coliseum will be finished, and the doctors told us this is helpful in dealing with the blow to the community's self-esteem," said Russo.

Officials Accused Of Discrimination

HOUSTON (UPI) — Firefighters employed by the Port of Houston Authority have accused port officials of discrimination in granting hourly employees a large pay raise than they received.

Union official Ken Parker said a letter of protest was sent to the port officials.

The letter asked that the 8 percent pay raise granted the approximately 255 monthly employees be made retroactive to Oct. 1, and that there be a closer parity of pay between monthly and hourly employees.

In December, the port commission approved a 10.6 percent wage increase for its hourly employees. Last month commissioners agreed to make that pay raise retroactive to Oct. 1.

Parker said pay for the 34 firefighters ranges from $1,080 a month for hosemen to $1,482 for captains. City of Houston hosemen make $1,200 a month and those in jobs comparable to that of captain earn $2,117 a month, he said.

The Almanac TODAY IN HISTORY

By United Press International Today is Monday, Feb. 20, the 51st day of 1978 with 314 to follow. Today is Presidents' Day. The moon is approaching its full phase. The morning star is Mercury. The evening stars are Venus, Jupiter, Mars and Saturn. Those born on this day are under the sign of Pisces. American Revolutionary War hero William Prescott was born Feb. 20, 1726. On this day in history:

In 1809, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled the power of the federal government was no greater than that of any individual state of the Union.

In 1938, Anthony Eden resigned as British foreign secretary to protest the "appeasement" policy of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain toward Nazi Germany.

In 1962, American astronaut John Glenn landed safely after three orbits around the Earth in a spacecraft. In 1976, former President Richard Nixon and his wife left California for a private visit to China.

A thought for the day: At the battle of Bunker Hill on June 17, 1775, American Revolutionary War hero William Prescott said, "Don't fire until you see the whites of their eyes."

Poison Center Warns Of Plants

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Innocent-looking household items — everything from medicines to household cleansers, from houseplants to automobile antifreeze — can be deadly, particularly to children.

More than 100,000 cases of accidental poisoning are reported each year.

March 20 will mark the start of National Poison Prevention Week, the 16th annual observance designed to highlight the dangers of poison and to encourage local communities and agencies to sponsor educational programs on the subject.

The Council on Family Health says any non-food substance is a potential poison.

Authorities at New Hampshire's Mary Hitchcock Memorial Hospital, which operates one of the oldest poison-control centers in the country, warn that plants, indoor and outdoor, are the most common source of poison for children under 5. Soaps, detergents and cleansers come next, followed by aspirin.

You do not have to forego all greenery. Just be careful and selective. Store daffodil, hyacinth, narcissus and jonquil bulbs someplace children cannot reach. The bulbs can be mistaken for onions and are poisonous.

Special packaging already is required by law for some items, including products containing aspirin, certain types of liquid furniture polish, oil of wintergreen, narcotics and other dangerous drugs, drain and oven cleaners, lighter fluid, turpentine, windshield washer solutions, oral-dosage prescription drugs, paint solvents, drugs and dietary supplements containing iron, and antifreeze.

But so-called "childproof packages" are no guarantee of safety. The Poison Prevention Packaging Act requires that packages be made so it would be difficult for a child under 5 to obtain a toxic amount within a reasonable time.

This does not mean that young children would be unable to open the package. The law requires that aspirin, for example, be packaged in containers that would be difficult to open for 80 percent of those children tested. That means two children in 10 might be able to open the packages.

Statistics indicate that the hard-to-open packages have reduced deaths among children. In 1975, the latest year for which complete figures are available, there were 47 percent fewer fatalities among children from poisoning than there were in 1972, the year the safety packaging law took effect.

The law allows manufacturers to offer regulated products and prescription drugs in regular as well as child-resistant containers for people who do not want the special packaging.

Pesticides also need special precautions. Never transfer a pesticide or other poison like a cleanser into a container, such as a soft drink bottle, that would attract children.

The label should carry a registration number from the Environmental Protection Agency, guaranteeing it has been reviewed and found safe and effective; when used as directed. Older products may have a Department of Agriculture registration number.

The specific words on the label are important. DANGER-POISON is used to indicate the most toxic products. WARNING means the product is less toxic, but must be used with extreme care. CAUTION indicates the least harmful category of products.

Cabin Fever Hits South Dakota

SIoux FALLS, S.D. (AP) — It's called cabin fever by some, stir crazy by others.

But whatever it's called, it's struck many eastern South Dakota families during the last two months of freezing weather. Record-keepers for the National Weather Service say the last freezing or above-freezing temperatures in Sioux Falls, Huron and Aberdeen were posted 60 days ago.

The weather has given families a chance to spend more time together. But after the lengthy stretch of cold weather, the togetherness has been a bit much for some of those families not used to prolonged television and family conversation.

Deputy Chief Named For Defense Panel

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — Brig. Gen. R. Russell Barber of Canadian Forces has been appointed deputy chief of staff for plans and programs at the joint U.S.-Canadian command of the North American Air Defense Command.

Barber currently is deputy commander of NORAD's combat operations center within Cheyenne Mountain. He will be promoted to major general and assume his new duties March 1.

Succeeding Barber will be Col. B.R. Campbell, Canadian Forces, currently assigned to National Defense Headquarters at Ottawa, Canada, as director of air plans. He will be promoted to brigadier general July 1.

There aren't many statistics, but Dr. Bob Burke, an associate psychology professor at South Dakota State University, speculated that the record-breaking cold spell is producing symptoms similar to sensory deprivation.

In sensory deprivation, subjects are not allowed to utilize some or all of their senses. They sometimes experience hallucinations.

"It's not the heat or the cold per se," he explained. "Monotony is the key factor."

"Being cooped up in the house can produce all the elements of sensory deprivation," Burke suggested, indicating little or no research had ever been done on cabin fever.

Although there is a chance for hallucinations, irritability most often pops up from the depths of the latest cold spell.

"One hunch is that people are seeking some difference in their lives," Burke said. "A child is going to try to change behavior patterns. They may be seeking sensory variety and provoke anger from the parent."

"People feel confined," he continued. "They don't have as many choices. There aren't as many socialized ways to release hostility and tension."

And Burke said he may have seen a touch of cabin fever in his own family.

"Last weekend, I took my two kids sledding," he said. "They told me 'Daddy, this was great. Let's do this again.' The two weekends before that, we painted. The kids were nothing but under-

"Hello?" "Hi, it's me." "Marge! I was just thinking of calling you!" "That's funny, I was just thinking of calling you. How are you?" "How are you?" "Is there an echo in here? I called you first, you tell me." "Ha. Ha. Ha. I'm fine. That is, I think I'm fine." "What do you mean, you think you're fine?" "Well, it's a long story." "Tell it. Your stories are always a riot." "Well... at 9:30 this morning, our seventy-two-year-old neighbor, Mr. Phillips, brought over his new deluxe vacuum cleaner." "What?" "He wanted to demonstrate it, he said, so he emptied it all over my living room floor. Then he proceeds to vacuum not only the living room floor, but also the furniture and the walls, using about three hundred different attachments. 'How nice.' 'Well, you see, he only did half of everything. And since I don't clean as often as I should, everything was half clean. Now the story gets better.' 'I hope so.' 'You see, his vacuum cleaner has a special air freshener feature. You put it in reverse, fill it up with air freshener and let it rip.' 'Hmmm.' 'The only problem was, he had forgotten to empty the bag. So he hits the switch and the entire living room was immediately filled with this black, dirty cloud of dust. Not to mention the smell of perfumed air freshener! I mean, I think the man has lost his mind.' He says, 'This vacuum cleaner can handle anything!' and then takes off vacuuming everything in sight! Now, in the middle of all this, who should arrive but Jack, coming home for lunch! And what does he do? He goes into the closet and pulls out our vacuum cleaner, and the two of them begin comparing features!" "I don't believe it." "Then he challenges Mr. Phillips to a race to see who can vacuum up the mess first. And whoever wins gets the other guy's vacuum cleaner!" "Who won?" "Well, let me put it this way. Mr. Phillips has two vacuum cleaners. We have none." "Ha. Ha. Ha." "It's not funny." "Yes it is." "Here's the culprit now, Jack, do you want to talk to Fred?" He says no. Put Fred on. "Hello? Jack are you there? Jack? You-hoo, Jack???" "Yes, I'm here." "Marge tells me you gambled away the family vacuum cleaner." "Yeah, well it was close. I'm challenging the winner to a weight lifting contest tomorrow." "Who's the winner?" "Our neighbor. He's seventy-two years old. I'll tell you, Fred. I don't get any respect anymore." "Now where have I heard that?" "Suzie asked me to take out the garbage last night and I told her I'd already taken out the garbage, and you know what she says? 'Well, then go out and keep an eye on it.' 'Funny.' 'Yeah, I bought Jimmy a bat for his birthday and the first day he plays with it he lets it go.' 'No respect.' 'No respect at all. I'll tell you we're sending Alice to a private school now, you know.' 'Yes, I know.' 'It's so private, she won't even tell us where it is.' 'Ha. Ha. Ha.' 'Well, now I've lost the family vacuum cleaner and run out of old jokes, you tell me what's new with you.' 'Well, not one whole heck of a lot.' 'Then why are we talking?' 'One interesting thing did happen down at the plant. 'Are you going to tell me about it, or is this some kind of a test?' 'Last week one of the workers asked me if he could take some sawdust home.' 'Was he going to open a bar, or what?' 'So I say sure.' 'Maybe he had a new vacuum cleaner he wanted to test.' '... take all the sawdust you want...' 'Or make sawdust pancakes...' 'Are you listening?' 'Yeah, I'm listening.' 'So I say, 'Sure, take all the sawdust you want.' 'You already said that.' 'And I fill out a form authorizing him to remove the sawdust in a wheelbarrow past the security guard.' 'That was a dull story.' 'I'm not finished yet.' 'Well, hurry up.' 'So every day for a week this guy takes a wheelbarrow of sawdust out to his car.' 'Hurry up!' 'Until yesterday, one of his fellow workers came up to him and said, 'Hey, what's this with all the sawdust? Are you stealing it or what?' and the guy looks at him and says 'Heck no. I couldn't care less about this stupid sawdust. I'm stealing wheelbarrows.' 'Now that's funny.' 'I thought you'd like it.' 'Great gag.' 'You know, I have a neighbor like yours. He's an old guy, very lazy. Every day he sits out on his front porch rocking away watching the cars go by. And yesterday I was talking to him and I asked him if he ever got bored—just sitting there.' 'Yeah? So what?' And he said, 'No, I never get bored. Because I have a hobby.' I said, 'Hobby? You couldn't have a hobby. All you do is sit here all day. What's your hobby?' 'Bees,' he said. 'I raise bees. Well, I couldn't believe this. I said, 'Where's the beehive? I've never seen any beehive around here.' And he said, 'I keep my bees inside.' 'Inside?' I said, 'Let me see them.' So the old man took me inside and I said, 'Okay, where are your bees?' And he said, 'They're in the bedroom.' So we went into the bedroom and still no bees. So I said, 'Where are the bees?' And he said, 'I keep them in the closet.' You keep your bees in the closet?' I said. And he said, 'Yeah, I keep them in a jar in the closet.' 'But if you keep them in a jar, they'll die.' And he turned to me and said, 'Hey, look, I told you it was only a hobby.' 'Funny. That's pretty funny.' 'Hey, when are you people coming back here to visit us?' 'Never.' 'You old sour-puss.' 'You're coming here next time.' 'Not until you get a new vacuum cleaner.' 'It's bring your own vacuum cleaner, and we'll sweep the town.' 'Listen, Suzie is yelling in my ear to get off the phone and let her talk to Marge some more.' 'Okay.' 'Take it easy, Fred, and remember our invitation. If you don't come here, we'll never see you again.' 'Okay.' 'Bye.' 'Marge.' 'Yeah, hi.' 'How's your garden these days?' 'Everything is very hot and very dry here. But I'm managing to grow a strong and healthy batch of weeds.' 'Oh, good.' 'I mean they're some of the biggest weeds you've ever seen.' 'Terrific, you can use them in a salad. Or make weed sandwiches!' 'How's your garden?' 'Oh, it's okay. I just unleashed one entire carton of frozen lady bugs yesterday, so they should keep the predators away.' 'Frozen lady bugs?' 'Yeah, you can buy them frozen in cartons of several thousand, and you thaw them out and let them go. They drive away other insects.' 'I bet.' 'No, really, they're great. You should try them sometime.' 'Plain, or with butter sauce?' 'They did Freddie ever finish building his car?' 'Oh, yes, it's finished all right.' 'How does it look?' 'Oh, Suzie, it looks awful. I mean they did a terrific job, but it looks like a hot rod.' 'Oh, no.' 'Oh, yes. Fred hates it. He says he's going to pay to have it stolen some night.' 'He'll outgrow it.' 'I suppose so, but guess what the latest project is?' 'What?' 'They're building a gyrocopter.' 'A what?' 'Gyrocopter. It's a one man helicopter.' 'Isn't that dangerous?' 'What can we say? It belongs to the neighbors' kid.' 'The one with the big tool shop?' 'Right.' 'What do his parents think?' 'I don't think they know what it is.' 'Humm, Jack, have you ever heard of a gyrocopter?' He says... wait a minute...' 'Marge, did you say Freddie is building a gyrocopter?' 'Yes, Jack, why?' 'I want one. I've always wanted one. Will he let me ride in it?' 'Oh, you're impossible.' 'I'm serious. I've always wanted a gyrocopter.' 'Well, I'm sure Fred would be delighted if you came out here and got this one.' 'I will. Here's Suzie again.' 'Hi.' 'Your husband is crazy.' 'I know.' 'But also one of the most delightful people I've ever known.' 'Thanks.' 'What's happening in the old home town these days? Anything interesting?' 'Well, let me think... Peter and Corinne moved away.' 'Oh?' 'Yes, he's going to work in Wimmoco, Nevada, of all places.' 'Nice. How does Corinne feel about it?' 'Well, apparently it's only for a few years. He'll be working on a new project, then I guess they'll come back here or move somewhere else.' 'Have you talked to them since they left? How do they like it?' 'I haven't called them yet. They just moved a few days ago. The Blooms had a big going away party for them.' 'How nice.' 'Yes, it was nice, but you know what a problem I have remembering people's names?' 'Oh yes.' 'Well, this was terribly embarrassing, a man came up to me at the party and he was one of these guys I'd seen before in the neighborhood, and I should have remembered who he was, but didn't. And he was very nice and came up to me and said hello, and while he was holding my hand, Sally came by—you remember her—' 'Yes.' 'And I waved and said, 'Hi, Sally! How's your handsome husband these days?' And she gave me this strange look and said, 'You should know, you're holding hands with him.' 'You know, I did almost the same thing one time.' 'You did?' 'Yeah, Fred and I were given two tickets to a show, but we couldn't use them because we were going out for dinner that night. So thinking fast, I phoned these people down the street and said, 'We have been given two tickets for the show tonight, but we can't use them because of an unfortunate dinner engagement, would you like to have them?' And the gal says, 'Fine, we'd love to go, but we happen to be your unfortunate hosts!' 'You're kidding.' 'Bad, eh?' 'That's bad.' 'Well listen, kiddo, take care of yourself and please try to keep that husband of yours out of trouble.' 'You, too.' 'And make him buy you a new vacuum cleaner.' 'You better believe it. You take care, too. And I hope we'll see you guys sometime.' 'I hope you'll see us, too.' 'We had a fabulous time at your house last time we came out.' 'Well, you're invited any time.' 'No, you're invited here.' 'Okay, take it easy. We sure miss you.' 'We miss you, too.' 'Bye.' 'Bye.'

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

A Mom And Pop Break

PRESIDENT Carter's latest obvious understatement that the cost of a college education is becoming "an increasingly serious burden" to middle-income families was guaranteed the chorus of fervent amens it got from the burdened across the country. But whether the President's ideas for dealing with the situation will find similar instant favor is another politically charged matter.

THE HELP—any help—would be welcome for the families of the estimated 2 million students most immediately affected.

But possibly not quite as welcome as the alternative which the President is intent upon heading off at the congressional pass, i.e., a college tuition credit against taxes.

There is, however, some question whether the cost burden actually is increasing. A recent Congressional Budget Office study suggests that in terms of percentage of family income it actually decreased during the decade.

IT MIGHT thus be argued that a college education actually is becoming slightly less burdensome to the middle-income population. Try to argue that with a parent who signs the checks, tho, and you could get threatened with physical violence.

Along with income and college costs, everything else has gone up—particularly including taxes which hit middle-income families heavily.

These same folks, meanwhile, derive precious little benefit from most of the existing tax-funded education assistance programs.

All the aid is being funneled to the low-income and other disadvantaged segments of the population.

THE APPEAL of the credit is in its simplicity: it would require no specific appropriations and no new empire-building administrative machinery or accounting follow-up.

A tax credit, holding hands with a corresponding reduction in federal spending, would be something of recognizable value to every taxpaying parent...and to the credit, it is assumed, of the legislators responsible.

Whether it will be readily accepted by Congress and, more importantly, by the middle-income taxpayer is, of course, open to considerable question. After all, the bottom line which still is of most interest is the one we fill out every April 15.

What About 'Self-Determination' Of The People Who Eat The Oranges?

James J. Kilpatrick:

Old Virtues Missing In Action

WASHINGTON—The year's most fascinating non-fiction book turned up in the mail the other day.

Every editor in the country swears by this indispensable volume, and I commend it to a general readership with a grateful heart.

The work is the Statistical Abstract of the United States, 1977 edition, 1,048 pages, $11 in cloth, $8.50 in paper, and a bargain at any price.

This year's edition provokes a comment and raises a question. The comment is that the more things change, the more they change. And the question is, how did our government get so noisy?

This is the 98th edition of the Abstract. With every passing year, the editors compile a little more information.

This time around, they have provided us with a raft of statistics having to do with "new lifestyles and attitudes of the population."

The data will give you something to think about.

ILLEGITIMACY, for one thing, seems to have become epidemic. As recently as 1965, government statisticians counted 291,000 births to unmarried women, for a rate of 7.7 percent of all births.

Just ten years later, the numbers were 447,900 and 14.2 percent.

Fifty-eight percent of these births were to black mothers. Eleven thousand babies were born to mothers under the age of 15—double the number ten years ago.

For the first time, the Abstract offers some data on legal abortions. Between 1972 and 1974, these averaged 643,000 per year. (A more recent estimate for 1976 indicates more than a million abortions in that year.)

New York reported 624 abortions for every 1,000 live births. California's rate was 448 per 1,000 live births and Washington State's 412. In the country as a whole, one out of every four pregnancies now ends in abortion.

ABOUT 70 PERCENT of the abortions are performed upon married women. By coincidence, this is almost exactly the percentage of married women using contraceptives.

The Abstract's Table 90 reports in some detail on preferred methods of contraception. Among both white and black women, the pill is widely used.

Vasectomies have more than doubled among men of both races in the past eight years.

Syphilis has declined dramatically over the past decade, but the incidence of gonorrhea has more than tripled, from 325,000 reported cases in 1965 to one million in 1975.

Alcoholism is on the rise among men and women.

The number of unmarried couples living together has more than doubled in the past six years.

Some of the most startling social changes of the past decade have occurred in the area of public welfare.

BACK IN 1965, which was not so very long ago, total public expenditures on welfare were placed at $77.2 billion. The comparable figure for 1976 was $331.4 billion.

In 1965, we spent 11.7 percent of the gross national product on public welfare; now it is 20.6 percent.

In constant dollars (at the 1976 rate), we spent $664 per capita on welfare in 1965; we spent $1,514 a decade later.

The number of persons on welfare has greatly increased. In 1965, government agencies counted 1.1 million families with a total of 4.4 million recipients.

The figures have just about tripled since then. The number of persons classified as permanently disabled has jumped from 600,000 to 2 million.

Not surprisingly, these social changes have wrought remarkable changes in the federal budget.

IN 1965, WE WERE spending 41 percent of the total budget on defense. That had dropped to 24.6 percent by 1976. It has dropped a little bit more since then.

The big increase, manifestly, has gone into public welfare, health, education and Social Security payments.

Government at every level is taking a slowly increasing percentage of the people's wealth.

Most of these changes are generally if not precisely recognized. It is the swift rate of change that startles and dismays the casual reader.

Many of the old virtues—chastity, fidelity, continence, family responsibility—clearly are slipping away from the respected place they once occupied in the American ethos.

In their place we are getting different values—or non-values. None of this necessarily spells twilight for the American empire, but in terms of the old ways it is later than we think.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Miners Diners Club

HEADLINE: "Electric Butt Holder Patented." No, Virginia, it's not a solution to the farmers' losses.

The Neighborhood Terror had never seen a snowstorm like the latest one, but he was unimpressed. He thought it was just another government coverup.

Postmaster Gen. Benjamin F. Bailar resigned to become executive vice president of U.S. Gypsum Co. He was tired of hearing complaints by mail users that they had been gyped...

AS A HIGH SCHOOL sophomore last year, Dean Blumrosen was a starter in both football and basketball.

Despite his size—5 foot 9, 155 pounds—the son of Mr. and Mrs. J.R. Blumrosen was a fierce competitor.

He lived and breathed for sports. His dreams of athletic stardom were shattered, though, when he "tore up" a knee. Two operations to remove cartilage and repair the damage left him on crutches for months.

But young Blumrosen is a determined young man. A couple of months ago, he got off the crutches and started working out at the gym. Over his parents' objections, he was determined to enter the Golden Gloves.

"I've gotta prove something to myself," he said. He entered the tournament here—and won his division. It was a painfully costly victory. Blum-rosen somehow reinjured his knee, which became swollen and forced him back onto crutches. But he had proved what he had set out to prove, that a man can do whatever he sets his mind to do—not necessarily to win, but to compete and make a good account of himself.

It's a lesson that can serve a man well for a lifetime.

Despite elaborate security measures, contents of H.R. Haldeman's book about Watergate leaked out ahead of publication.

It would never have happened if The Plumbers had still been around to plug the leaks.

The Washington Post, which cracked open the story of the burglars who broke into the offices of the Democratic National Committee, somehow got its hands on excerpts from the new book.

My Neighbor Twice Removed says that how it did so would make interesting reading.

Haldeman speculates that Richard Nixon himself clumsily erased 18 1/2 minutes from one of the Watergate tapes. If so, it just proves that Nixon never learned how to cut through government red tape.

I'M SICK AND tired of my hard-earned taxes being used to keep coal miners fat and sassy while they're out on strike.

There's no way under God's Great Sun that it can be right for us working people to feed and clothe an able-bodied man—and his family—who refuses to work.

I've been at work every day this winter while the well-paid coal miners have been playing dominoes and terrorizing non-strikers after sitting down to three square meals a day bought with food stamps.

Far too little attention has been paid by the national news media to this rip-off of the taxpayers, but the facts seep into a story now and then.

"SEVERAL MINERS said they have manipulated their savings—putting them in a relative's name, for example—in order to qualify for food stamps," an Associated Press story out of Harlan, Ky., said the other day.

"Children of striking miners can qualify for school breakfasts and lunches during the strike," the story added.

A "special federal grant during the walkout" has guaranteed free medical care for the "poor" strikers and their families.

The Red Cross has chipped in "to help out miners who can't pay a fuel bill or meet food expenses," the story added, quoting a Red Cross "disaster" chairman as saying "we help anyone in trouble."

Well, the only trouble the miners are in is trouble of their own making and the only disaster is the disaster they're creating. They summarily rejected a settlement giving them an average weekly wage of $420.

Congress is guilty of gross robbery of the taxpayers when, as the AP story noted, the family of a striking miner "with food stamps...eats as well now as it does when there's a regular paycheck."

Paul Scott:

Foreign Policy In The Ditch

WASHINGTON—There is a lot more riding on the outcome of the historic Senate debate on the ratification of the Panama Canal treaties than control and use of the strategic waterway.

This is now being stressed by top-level administration officials in their private conversations with liberal senators who are privately pressing President Carter for changes in U.S. policy toward Communist China, Cuba, and Vietnam.

The lawmakers are being told that until the Panama Canal treaties are approved by the Senate the President can't run the risk of further alienating middle-of-the-road and conservative members of Congress and the general public by recognizing the Communist government in those countries.

One of the administration officials delivering this White House message on Capitol Hill is Leonard Woodcock, (who represents the U.S. in Peking) former head of the United Auto Workers.

BACK IN WASHINGTON to help lobby for ratification of the canal treaties, Woodcock reveals that the President will move to break relations with the Republic of Free China on Formosa and recognize Peking "once the Senate ratifies the Panama Canal treaties."

Should the Panama Canal treaties be rejected by the Senate, Woodcock warns, the President's prestige as a leader would be so damaged both abroad and at home that it would make it almost impossible for him to go ahead with his plans to radically change U.S. policy toward China.

That is the same story being given to the senators by Zbigniew Brzezinski, the President's chief foreign policy adviser and head of the National Security Council, the government's highest policy planning body.

It is Brzezinski's fear that rejection of the treaty would lead to the development of a strong mass political movement in the country that would influence Congress to block President Carter's plans for increased trade and diplomatic relations with China, Cuba, and Vietnam.

THIS FAR-REACHING significance of the Panama Canal battle is also recognized by opponents of the treaties but in a different context. Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., a leader of the opposition, puts it like this:

"If we hand over this territory in response to unreasonable demands at Panama and clamor of Marxist enemies, we will pass a watershed in our history. One more turning point will mark the decline of a great nation."

It is these differing views, perhaps more than anything else, that now divides the leading advocates and the opponents of the treaties. As pinpointed in a "Critical Issues" report of the Heritage Foundation, the Panama Canal battle boils down to this:

"In short, the struggle is between a majority of Americans sustained by values and psychology of achievement and an elite that holds contrary values and the psychology that believes that human problems are susceptible to solution by appeasement."

Sylvia Porter:

Dollar Is 'Doomed' To Repeat Pattern

IT WAS 30 YEARS ago that we entered the first "normal" business year in the U.S. following our victories in Europe and the Pacific and the end of World War II.

By this time in 1948, the blast-off in prices ignited by the abandonment of wartime price controls had subsided, consumer goods again were pouring into our marketplace, and America's goods-starved consumers were grabbing every big-ticket, small-ticket item they could find in our stores and dealer showrooms.

At the same time, the U.S. dollar was at its peak in prestige, the pivot around which all other currencies revolved.

BUT NOW, ON THIS 30th anniversary of the emergence of the post-World War II era, it is appropriate both to look back and forward.

Perhaps this perspective will help us in our search for solutions to inflation—the greatest economic evil and challenge of the closing half of the 20th century.

Q. How much has the U.S. dollar lost in buying power in our markets in the 30 years since 1948?

A. The dollar which bought 100 cents of goods and services in the marketplace of 1948 buys only about 38.9 cents of the same basket of goods and services now.

Q. In terms of prices, how much has the cost of living increased during this period?

A. The marketbasket for which you (or your parents) paid $100 in '48 costs you more than $257 in '78.

Q. HOW MUCH VALUE has the dollar lost since the escalation of the Vietnam conflict began in 1965 and distorted what had been a well-balanced economy into a society bloated by soaring inflation, then recession and high unemployment?

A. Just between 1965 and the end of '77, the buying power of the dollar crashed 49.5 per cent.

Q. What has been the record on inflation under the succeeding administrations—with both Republicans and Democrats in the White House?

To answer that, assume that the 1948 dollar bought 100 cents of goods and services in the marketplace in that first "normal" postwar year. Then the tale is:

"It is a clash between the assertion of national strength and pride versus a defeatist approach to foreign policy deeply rooted in the fear of global nuclear destruction..."

"The Panama Canal issue is both a symbol and symptom of what is right and what is wrong with the American nation."

"It places the country at that proverbial crossroads, the fork in the road that leads either down a path of continued retreat or the path to a reassertion of American will and determination, something that a majority of Americans understand better than most of our government officials."

Sylvia Porter:

Dollar Is 'Doomed' To Repeat Pattern

AT THE END of President Johnson's next term (1/65 to 1/69), the dollar was worth only 67.6 cents; by the end of President Nixon's term in office (1/69 to 8/74) it was worth only 48 cents.

By the end of President Ford's term (8/74 to 1/77) it was worth only 41 cents; and after one year of President Carter's term (1/77 to 1/78) it is worth only 38.9 cents.

Under President Johnson, our cost of living went up 14 per cent—and his refusal to admit that Vietnam was a war and to ask that it be financed as such set the stage for the blow-off later.

UNDER NIXON, DOUBLE disaster struck—runaway inflation side by side with surging joblessness and the deepest business slump of the entire post-World War II period.

Our cost of living in his aborted tenure skyrocketed 40.5 per cent.

Under Ford, the erosion amounted to 16.9 per cent.

And even in Carter's first 12 months, the erosion has come to 5.8 per cent.

The look back screams that we have failed to rise to the challenge, perhaps even to admit it. It warns us that unless we do tackle the problem, our dollar is doomed to repeat the pattern of all paper currencies during more than 6,000 years of recorded history—relentless loss of buying power ending in extinction.

Union Plans To Demand Pay Raises

CHICAGO (UPI) — Negotiators for U.S. Postal Service employees will demand pay raises of 9 to 15 percent and retention of a delivery schedule of six days a week for carriers in the next contract, union representatives decided Sunday night.

About 100 members of four of the six unions representing postal service employees drew up a list of demands during the third day of a four-day meeting. Representatives of the four will urge the other two to back the demands.

Grady Davis, a member of the executive board of the American Postal Workers O'Hare local, said postal workers will strike this spring if the government does not meet their contract demands by July, when the present contract expires. Nationwide contract talks are scheduled to begin in April.

The pay increase sought will "about equal the government's own projection of how much more it will cost a family of four to live this year," Davis said.

Among other demands are the right to refuse to work in unsafe working conditions, primarily due to unsafe equipment, and no mandatory overtime.

Postal workers also said they want a voice in the selection of the new postmaster general, Davis said. Former Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar was business-oriented and not very sympathetic to employees or the service they provide, Davis said. The new postmaster general should have at least five years of postal service experience, he said.

About 60,000 postal workers have been eliminated in the last few years, significantly cutting into the service's ability to deliver good service, Davis said.

Union members also said they wanted open contract negotiations and no trade-off clauses, "or selecting one to reject another," during the talks.

Leader Claims 'Conspiracy'

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Teamsters Union President Frank Fitzsimmons claims the federal government and businessmen are conspiring to eliminate organized labor in the nation.

"We're hoping the conspiracy between management, the manufacturers association, the chamber of commerce — the conspiracy between them and the government will fail in its try to do away with trade unionism," Fitzsimmons told reporters before speaking to 1,000 labor leaders from the Carolinas and Virginia in a closed meeting Saturday.

Fitzsimmons also claimed the U.S. Labor Department and the news media are working together to quash the Teamsters, partly through the government's suit against Fitzsimmons and several other trustees of the union's Central States Pension Fund.

The suit challenges the legality of the trustees' decision to borrow money against the pension fund.

"I will go into court and fully answer allegations with every confidence that my performance as a trustee has met the highest standards," he said. "I am confident that these standards will meet the test."

Fitzsimmons said the Teamsters Union has joined with the rest of "the legitimate trade union movement" in a campaign to organize the South. One such drive is underway in Greensboro, where Fitzsimmons said the Teamsters have been working for a year to organize workers at Overnite Transportation Co.

Carter Labeled Anti-Veteran

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (UPI) — The president of the Veterans of Foreign Wars has labeled President Carter and his administration as the most anti-veteran in American history.

"The president is attempting to reduce or eliminate entirely veterans' preference in Civil Service examinations," Dr. John Wasylik told reporters Saturday. "He is reducing the number of beds in Veterans Administration hospitals and the Vietnam veteran is not getting a break from this administration."

"We intend to be in the halls of Congress to fight this anti-veteran attitude of this administration."

Wasylik said he gave Carter low ratings when he became VFW president in August and he hasn't changed those views.

He also said Carter "misted the American people by stating we do not own the (Panama) canal." Wasylik said. "In 1903 and again in 1970, the Supreme Court ruled we do indeed own the canal. I know of no president who can override the Supreme Court."

More Americans Favor Egypt

NEW YORK (AP) — A majority of Americans feel that Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has done more than Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin or President Carter to achieve peace in the Mideast, according to a Newsweek-Gallup poll.

The poll, released Sunday, also showed that American support for Israel has declined since peace negotiations with Egypt began in November.

Of the 654 people interviewed by telephone last week, 33 percent said their sympathies were with Israel. A similar poll of 1,500 people in October showed 46 percent siding with Israel, the magazine reported.

Forty-five percent of those interviewed in the latest poll said they believed Egypt was most willing to compromise in an effort to achieve peace, while 26 percent said Israel was most flexible.

Asked to rate the performances of national leaders, 66 percent of those surveyed rated Sadat's efforts as "good" or "excellent." Carter received a 47 percent rating, Begin 41 percent, and Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan 30 percent.

Most of those surveyed also said they did not want the United States to put more pressure on Israel or Egypt to reach a settlement.

The peace talks have been stalled for several weeks because of disagreement over Israel's insistence that it keep settlements on occupied Arab lands and because of Arab demands for self-determination for Palestinians in lands now controlled by the Israelis.

TO HELP MINERS
DETROIT (AP) — Local 22 of the United Auto Workers is collecting food and clothing to send to striking West Virginia coal miners. UAW Local 22 President Frank Runnels said the local's 10,000 members will caravan the goods to the coalfields and join miner picket lines.

Elderly Mayor Learning Job

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Isabella Cannon, the 73-year-old widow who launched her successful run for mayor in tennis shoes, has settled into her $500 per month job, "working harder than I ever did in my life."

The five-foot tall, white-haired woman with a smiling face full of gentle wrinkles evoked little more than headlines and jokes when she appeared at a news conference last year in her tennis shoes to announce she was running for mayor.

Her supporters wore T-shirts that bore her emblem — a cannon with daisies popping out of the barrel. And she campaigned on the theme of citizen involvement in government and preservation of the city's neighborhoods.

Mrs. Cannon's opponent, Mayor Jyles Coggins, 56, a wealthy contractor seeking a second term, said he could not debate someone the age of his mother. Coggins, who was unable to campaign in the final weeks because of gall stone surgery, lost the November election by a 2-percentage-point margin.

Now, after two months in office, the retired librarian and widow of a foreign service officer says she has undergone a "tremendous learning process."

Her goal, she said, has been "to create a feeling of trust and a feeling that the office is open to citizens."

But her style has drawn criticism. A newspaper editorial recently took Mrs. Cannon to task for her casual approach to presiding over City Council meetings, which usually last five to six hours. The editorial said voters elected her as a way of expressing dissatisfaction with the "buzzsaw approach to running city council ... But they did not expect to go from buzzsaw approach to marshmallow in leadership styles, to trade abrasive domineering for disorganized permissiveness."

The mayor took note of the editorial by passing out marshmallows at the next council meeting. Most people in the audience did not realize the meaning of her gesture, she said, "but the people who knew just died laughing."

She admits the council meetings have developed into "a long, tedious, not very efficient process."

But, she said, "one thing I believe in very strongly is citizenship participation. People who come have a right to be heard. City government is the closest they ever get to democracy in action."

One of her chief concerns, she said, is the low pay for council members — $500 per month for mayor and $300 for council members. The pay scale implies the work is part-time, she said, but it is full time for her.

Mrs. Cannon said she is not dependent on the salary for her welfare but believes the low pay "excludes many people who would like to serve."

Coffee Firm Forecasts Drop In Retail Prices

By PHILIP GREER
And MYRON KANDEL

Barring another killing frost in Brazil this summer, coffee prices at the retail level will show a dramatic drop later this year. That's the forecast of Robert Wechsler who heads the Wechsler Coffee Corp., the largest industrial coffee roaster in North America.

Since the company sells some $150 million worth of coffee a year to restaurants, hotels, hospitals, vending machine operators, educational institutions and other big users, Wechsler can be counted on to keep a close eye on the prospects for the aromatic bean. Right now, he told us, coffee roasters are very bearish on the market — meaning they expect prices to go down. As a result, they're keeping their inventories of green beans low — the lowest in about 15 years, Wechsler said. That, ironically, serves to keep short-term prices up, since the roasters have to go into the market frequently to replenish their supplies

As a privately-held family company dealing with big customers, rather than with stores that sell coffee to individuals, Wechsler Coffee has tended to avoid the public spotlight over the years. But when we sought him out to get an insider's view of the coffee situation, Wechsler, a full-bearded, 49-year-old native New Yorker with a degree from Harvard and a year at Yale Drama School, was willing to talk about coffee prices past, present and future.

First off, he paid tribute to the "innate intelligence" of the American consumer, who, he said, called a halt to coffee purchases when prices really began getting out of hand last spring and summer. "It wasn't the threat of organized boycotts that forced prices down, but rather the actions of the American housewife," he said. "There seems to be an invisible barrier in people's minds. Nobody knows exactly where that is, but when it's reached, they stop buying."

When the frost struck in Brazil — which produces about a third of the world's coffee — in July 1975 coffee was selling in the U.S. for about $1.10 a pound at retail. But it wasn't until the fall of 1976, when prices topped the $2 mark and continued climbing, that there was any substantial slackening of demand, Wechsler said. Consumer resistance really developed last year as coffee prices approached the $4 mark in June. During two-week period last July, he noted, roastings were off by 30 percent from the year before. For 1977 as a whole, coffee production was down by about 25 percent.

Not surprisingly, that kind of drop in coffee consumption bothers Wechsler to no end, particularly since it comes on top of a sustained decline in per-capita coffee consumption in the U.S.

"I'm concerned that if prices stay too high too long, there will be a permanent loss of market," he said. "The decline in coffee drinking among young people — which in recent years has been hidden by the over-all growth in population — will be aggravated by high prices."

Noting accusations that coffee-producing countries have rigged the market by actively buying futures contracts in New York and London, Wechsler said such actions, as well as restricting shipments to produce high prices, are very short-sighted and serve to reduce consumption. "It would be much better to try to encourage more coffee-drinking," he added.

But Wechsler is optimistic over prospects for later in the year. "If there is no frost in Brazil," he said, "it's pretty certain that coffee prices from the producing countries will drop dramatically in the last quarter of this year."

Lawrence Gould, the company's vice president for coffee purchasing and manufacturing, noted that the frost season in Brazil takes place in July and August, when Antarctic winds sweep in from Argentina. "I keep watching the weather reports from Buenos Aires."

Actually, Gould added, "considering the world-wide rate of inflation and the depreciated value of the dollar, coffee is pretty fairly valued at this time."

Like oil, coffee prices are denominated in dollars, which please coffee-producing nations when the dollar is strong and makes them unhappy when it is weak, as at present.

Even though Wechsler is the third generation of his family to head the company his grandfather founded in New York in 1903 — his father, Abraham, is still active at 77 — he came to it rather late, after Korean War service as an Air Force intelligence officer and a number of years as an assistant producer in television he speaks proudly of his father's role as the "patriarch" of the coffee industry and of the fact that the company produces one out of every 50 cups of coffee drunk in this country and Canada.

Wechsler Coffee, which does about $200 million a year in sales, also sells hot chocolate, tea, soups, salad dressing, condiments, desserts and toppings and owns two radio stations in Syracuse, N.Y.

But its primary business remains coffee. It sells three grades, an all-Columbian premium blend, a hotel and restaurant blend and a vending blend. The quality of the coffee served in a restaurant isn't necessarily related to how expensive an establishment it is, Wechsler said, noting that many McDonald's outlets buy the premium blend, while some high-priced restaurants do not. "And the difference is only half a cent per cup," he added.

SOCIETY MEETS
BEREA, Ohio (AP) — Some 3,000 personnel and industrial relations professionals from across the country will meet in Washington, D.C., from June 28 to June 30 for the 30th annual Conference of the American Society for Personnel Administration, officials at headquarters here have announced.

HUMAN FLY — Carl Lang, 67, once known as the "human fly," fell 100 feet from a building in San Francisco in 1931. "I hollered to look out below because I knew I'd kill somebody if I landed on 'em," he recalls. (AP Laserphoto)

'Human Fly' Recalls Exploits

CENTRAL PARK, Wash. (AP) — Time was when anything over 10 feet tall would have been too much for Carl Lang to resist.

Now, the onetime "human fly" can fondly recall his exploits, but his feet are firmly planted on the ground.

The 67-year-old steeplejack lives today in this small community in southwestern Washington, but remembers well that day in San Francisco in 1931 when he fell from a 100-foot building. He was 21, the crowd was a happy one and the structure was inviting.

"I was climbing a 100-foot building during the Armistice Day celebration, just for show. There were probably 20,000 people packed into the square below. I did this all the time, climb buildings, made a lot of money at it," said Lang.

But this time, Lang slipped while trying to maneuver around an overhang, and found himself dangling.

"I had a lot of time to think and I hollered to look out down below because I knew I'd kill somebody if I landed on 'em," said Lang, recalling his descent.

"I had it all planned out, feet curled in, arms across my face because I knew if I landed on my head it'd pop like a pumpkin. They opened up a little square about 10 feet aside. That's where I lit.

"I was rum dumb and groggy, but I heard some old woman say, 'Is he dead?' A guy said, 'No, not yet,' and she said, 'Oh,' like she was thinking, that's too bad."

Lang said a newspaper headline the next day read, "Carl Lang, known as the human fly, falls 100 feet and lives."

"I didn't hurt too bad for about 30, 40 seconds, then I didn't know a guy could stand that much pain," Lang said.

He was hospitalized 90 days and never climbed another building.

But he scaled two 200-foot smokestacks in Klamath Falls, Ore., two years later, even after he fell in his apartment and had to wear casts again.

"Times was tough and the job paid $300 for eight hours work. I painted those with both legs in casts," he said.

He painted his last television tower on his 60th birthday.

"I had a lot of fun," he recalled, his wrinkled face cracking into a smile. "I've got pictures of me standing with my arms stretched out on top of a 210-foot smokestack. No more though, no sir."

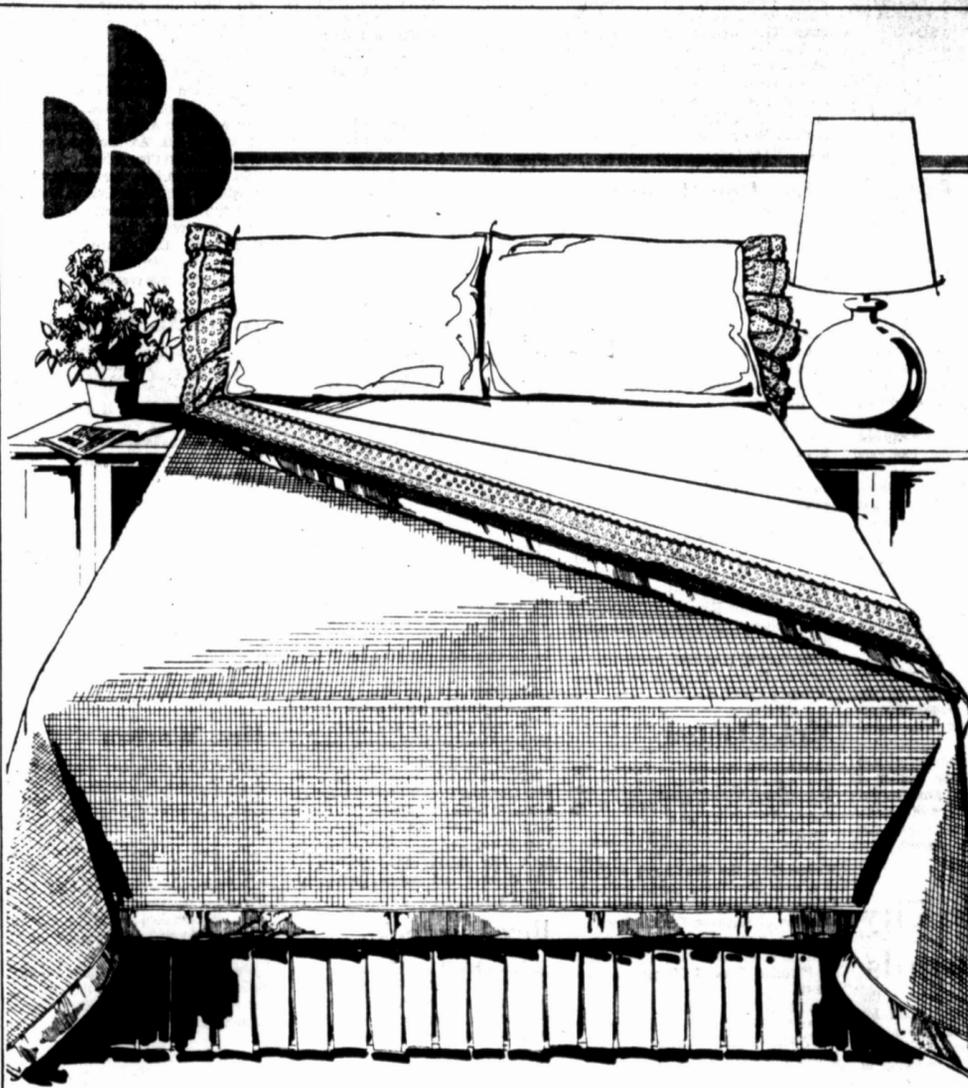

Future Gas Stations May Be Self-Service

NEW YORK (AP) — Tomorrow's gas station will be self-service, with big "pumpers," larger though fewer in number than those of today, and more appealing to the eye, believes William Olcott, chief editor, National Petroleum News.

Olcott sees hoses being positioned overhead and motorists reading gallons and prices on more sophisticated electronic readout displays.

Instead of cash, he expects that payment will be made through a type of credit card that also unlocks the pump to allow gasoline to flow.

Olcott also envisions more and more motorists doing their own tuneups and other work, using facilities rented at service stations.

Trial Attorneys Quiz Prospective Jurors

Attorneys were interviewing the 34th prospective juror in the Samuel Christopher Hawkins III capital murder case when they broke for lunch today.

They had questioned one other person during the morning — as the trial entered its second week — and that potential panelist was struck by prosecutors.

Local Students To Have Extra School Day

Lubbock Independent School District students will have to attend an extra day of classes, probably in late May, to make up for Friday's unscheduled snow-caked holiday.

"We do plan to make that day up," Supt. Ed Irons said of Friday's cancellation of classes due to heavy snow and icy streets. "We have to — unless we get a ruling from the Texas Education Agency."

By state law, each Texas school system must have 175 class days during the academic year. Because of Friday's surprise vacation, Lubbock would fall one day short of that requirement unless another teaching day is added.

Irons and his Administrative Council will formulate proposals for plugging an extra class day into the district's 1977-78 school calendar and present a recommendation to the school board, the superintendent said.

He said making up the holiday probably will result in an "extension of the school year by tacking on another day of class."

Under the original calendar, the last class day for the city's 32,000 public school students was to be May 25, a Thursday. That may be extended to May 26.

The addition of a class day also will affect the date for the last day of duty for Lubbock school teachers. They were supposed to get out May 27, a Saturday.

Republicans Set Meeting

The GOP congressional candidates will speak at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Republican Women of Lubbock County meeting to be held at 2701 19th St.

Appearing will be Jim Reese, former Odessa mayor; retired Air Force Lt. Col. Joe Hickox and George Bush, Midland oilman.

Each will make a brief talk and then answer questions.

The Republican women plan to have city council and school board candidates appear at their March 23 meeting.

Persons wishing more information on the session this week can contact Mrs. John R. (Callie) Chalk.

1939 Opera Album To Be Released

NEW YORK (AP) — The fifth in a series of Metropolitan Opera historic broadcasting recordings will soon be released featuring Lotte Lehman as the Marschallin in Richard Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier."

Anthony A. Bliss, executive director, said the recording, taken from the Jan. 7, 1939, radio broadcast, included a cast of Rise Stevens as Octavian, Emmanuel List as Baron Ochs, Marita Farrell as Sophie and Friederich Schorr as Von Faninal. The conductor is Artur Bodanzky.

The album is being produced by RCA records, under the auspices of the Metropolitan Opera Guild and Dario Soara, managing director, as a contribution to the opera fund. It is available to those who donate $100 or more to the Metropolitan Opera Fund.

At midday, there still was only one juror seated on the death penalty case which was transferred to Lubbock from Hutchinson County on a change of venue.

Hawkins, 34, is accused of stabbing a six-months-pregnant woman to death during an attempted aggravated rape.

Abbe Rodgers Hamilton, 19, was found in the bedroom of her Borger home May 3, 1977, bound hand and foot, and stabbed about ten times.

In a capital case, each side is allotted 15 strikes of a prospective juror for no stated reason. Through midday, the state had used a total of two and the defense, six of those pre-emptory challenges.

Jury selection was to continue at 1 p.m. in the 99th District Courtroom. Any new jurors seated will be immediately sequestered along with Larry Ray Lasiter, a 30-year-old Health Sciences Center Hospital nurse who was chosen Friday.

If Hawkins is convicted of the capital charge, he will face either life imprisonment or death, the only punishment options open to jurors under Texas capital murder law.

The meat company employee also stands indicted with capital murder in the death of a 12-year-old Amarillo girl and with the aggravated rape of a Hereford woman — crimes authorities say were committed by a suspect they dubbed the "traveling rapist."

Two From City To Get Awards

Dr. C.L. Kay, executive director of the Lubbock Christian College Center for Business and Economic Education, and daughter Denise will travel to Valley Forge, Pa., Wednesday as recipients of awards in the Freedoms Foundation national awards program.

Dr. Kay will accept an award on behalf of the center, which was selected in the college campus category for its series of interdisciplinary seminars and community education programs on American heritage and economic education.

Miss Kay, a graduate of Lubbock Christian High School and currently a student at Harding College in Searcy, Ark., will receive the 1977 principal award in the youth category for her public address, "American Patriotism."

The awards — both encased George Washington honor medals — will be presented on Washington's birthday.

Georgians Planning Carter Library

ATLANTA (AP) — Jimmy Carter has been president little more than a year, but his fellow Georgians already are laying groundwork for a presidential library. "Everybody wants it," said Charles Kirby, who serves with White House counsel Robert Lipshutz on the Carter Foundation for Governmental Affairs. Lipshutz said Atlanta, Americus and Plains have indicated interest in having the library.

National Archives officials are said to be nudging the White House to make a choice because it is easier to raise money for a library while a president is in office. Private money must be used to buy land and build the library; the government then would operate it.

Home Blaze Kills Six In Keene

KEENE (AP) — A pre-dawn fire in a rented mobile home in this North Central Texas community left three adults and three children dead Sunday.

"The trailer was rented to Paula Sifford," said Johnson County sheriff's investigator Bill Brinker.

Mrs. Sifford, 21, died in the blaze along with Bill Manly, 24, of Hot Springs, Ark.; Mrs. Sifford's son, Aaron, 1; Debbie Bryant, 20; her daughter, Felicia, 3; and Dianna Moore, 3.

Police Chief Don Beeson said all the female victims were from the Cleburne area in Johnson County about 30 miles south of Fort Worth.

Brinker said Dianna's mother, Shiela, and her 1-year-old son, Chris, escaped fire when Manly pushed them out the door and dashed back inside to help the others. Brinker said all of the victims were found in a back bedroom of the 10-by-55 trailer.

"Shiela Moore was staying there with her (Miss Sifford)," Brinker said. "Manly was Shiela's boyfriend. Debbie Bryant's car, we're told, got stuck in a ditch and she decided to spend the night."

Brinker said Mrs. Moore told him she and Manly were asleep on a living room couch when the fire woke him up.

"He went in and grabbed her son and showed both of them out the door," said Brinker. "Mrs. Moore said the fire started in a center bedroom where Debbie Bryant and her two children were sleeping."

"From what we can tell, there is considerable burned area in that bedroom. It looks like the fire might have burned through the floor and came up in the living room. Then, when Mrs. Moore opened the front door it created enough draft that caused the living room to burn badly."

Investigators said initial inspections indicated the fire may have started in a centrally-located water heater.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Use sharp or dangerous tools with the utmost care tomorrow. Make sure those around you do the same. Save your time off for an enjoyable vacation.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Find a private place to pursue a favorite hobby tomorrow. It's a fine time to do things that are low key, safe and sane.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Occasionally we all have a tough time leaving the starting blocks, but get a second wind before the finish line. Tomorrow will be that kind of a day for you. Don't despair.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Haste will really make waste tomorrow. The things that you concentrate on to the best of your ability are the only ones that will be gratifying.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Buyer's remorse will haunt you unless you use discrimination in purchasing tomorrow. Impulse could lead you to grab the first article you see.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Recall: Never let the sun go down on your wrath. Because you will have a short fuse tomorrow, apologize quickly if you explode at a friend's remarks.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Instinct is often valuable, but what you know to be right will be the best guide tomorrow. That whisper in your ear could be the voice of a mischievous leprechaun.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Guard zealously the possessions you prize tomorrow. A friend who borrows them may not have the same respect for them that you have.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) There's more than one way to skin a cat, as the old saying goes. Have another method in mind to promote valuable plans if your first one is suddenly blocked.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The only way to do things tomorrow will be the best and most efficacious way you know. Anything done otherwise may boomerang.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Pals and business will mix tomorrow, only if you do things according to Hoyle. It would be easy to be breezy and informal, but that could eventually cost money.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Before you make any binding commitments tomorrow, weigh all the ramifications. You could OK something not in your better interests.

Engineers Week Slated

National Engineers Week, proclaimed for Feb. 19-25 by President Carter, will be highlighted here by a dinner Thursday night at Hillcrest Country Club. Dr. Harvie Pruitt, president of Lubbock Christian College, will be guest speaker for the occasion, which is sponsored by the South Plains chapter of the Texas Society of Professional Engineers. Engineer of the Year and Student Engineer of the Year will be revealed at the dinner. These awards are made each year to individuals from the area who have made outstanding contributions to the engineering profession. Mayor Roy Bass recognized Engineers Week in a proclamation issued recently at a city council meeting. George Kirchoff, local chairman of this year's activities, and James W. King, president of the South Plains chapter, accepted the proclamation.

Solon Eyes Probe
Of Ship Workers

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Sen. Thomas McIntyre, a member of the House Armed Services Committee, says he will ask the federal government to investigate the health of shipyard workers who may have been exposed to dangerous levels of nuclear radiation.

"The magnitude of such a task is great, but the health of the shipyard workers comes first," the New Hampshire Democrat said.

The Boston Globe reported Sunday that shipyard employees who worked on the nation's first nuclear submarines have been found to be dying from cancer at a rate more than double the national average.

17 Different kinds of fruit trees can quickly be identified by examining their fruit.
18 A variety that produces delicious fruit never produces an inedible kind! And a tree producing an inedible kind can't produce what is good!
19 So the trees having the inedible fruit are chopped down and thrown on the fire.
20 Yes, the way to identify a tree or a person is by the kind of fruit produced.
21 Not all who talk like godly people are. They may refer to Me as 'Lord,' but still won't get to heaven. For the decisive question is whether they obey My Father in heaven.
22 At the Judgment: many will tell Me, 'Lord, Lord, we told others about You and used Your name to cast out demons and to do many other great miracles.'
23 But I will reply, 'You have never been Mine. Go away, for your deeds are evil.'
24 All who listen to My instructions and follow them are wise, like a man who builds his house on solid rock.
25 Though the rain comes in torrents, and the floods rise and the storm winds beat against his house, it won't collapse, for it is built on rock.
26 But those who hear My instructions and ignore them are foolish, like a man who builds his house on sand.
27 For when the rains and floods come, and storm winds beat against his house, it will fall with a mighty crash."
28 The crowds were amazed at Jesus' sermons.
29 For He taught as one who had great authority, and not as their Jewish leaders.

CHAPTER 8
1 Large crowds followed Jesus as He came down the hillside.
2 Look! A leper is approaching. He kneels before Him, worshipping. "Sir," the leper pleads, "if You want, You can heal me."
3 Jesus touches the man. "I want to," He says; "be healed." And instantly the leprosy disappears!
4 Then Jesus says to him, "Don't stop to talk to anyone; go right over to the priest to be examined; and take with you the offering required by Moses' law for lepers who are healed,—a public testimony of your cure."
5,6 When Jesus arrived in Capernaum, a Roman army captain came and pled with Him to come to his home and heal his servant boy who was in bed paralyzed and racked with pain.
7 "Yes," Jesus said, "I will come and heal him."
8,9 Then the officer said, "Sir, I am not worthy to have You in my home; [and it isn't necessary for You to come.]

Texas Oilmen Selected
To Construct Refinery

By G. MICHAEL HARMON
JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — A consortium of Texas oilmen and Alaskan natives has been picked by Gov. Jay Hammond to construct a world-scale refinery and petrochemical complex to be fueled by the state's royalty share of Prudhoe Bay oil.

Alaska's Republican governor announced his selection of Alaska Petrochemical Corp. (Alpetco) over three other royalty oil bidders in a statewide radio broadcast Sunday night.

Hammond said he picked Alpetco because the consortium best met a long list of administration prerequisites for the sale of about one billion barrels of royalty oil valued at up to $10 billion dollars at today's prices for use in an in-state processing facility.

But in a major warning, Hammond said he could not guarantee that Alpetco could succeed in its goal of constructing a $2.5 billion facility in Alaska which could compete with world market conditions on refined fuels and petrochemicals.

Hammond said, however, that he was willing to give Alpetco a chance because the firm had agreed to sign a contract which imposed no risks on the state even if the project failed.

In one major condition, Hammond said Alpetco had agreed to pay the same in-state price for Alaska's one-eighth royalty share of North Slope crude as is currently being paid by the major oil companies.

But most importantly, Hammond added, Alpetco had submitted to contract terms "that will insure that the state is fully protected from the risk of the venture."

The proposed contract also meets administration mandates for strict environmental standards, job training for Alaskans and a commitment to give preference hiring rights to Alaskans.

Hammond said he will submit the contract to the state's Royalty Oil and Gas Development Advisory Board today for its statutory approval. If the board endorses the contract as expected, it will be presented to the state Legislature for its okay.

Alpetco is a consortium of Alaska and Texas interests. Included are Alaska Interstate Co. of Anchorage, which owns Anchorage Natural Gas and Alaska Pipeline Co.; Alaska Consolidated Shipping Inc., a joint venture between six Alaska regional native corporations and Seatrain Lines Inc., a Texas-based refiner and shipper; and Barbour Oil Co. of Houston. Brown Root Inc. of Houston, an international construction firm, is the project manager.

The Alpetco proposal calls for using up to 150,000 barrels a day of the state's royalty oil to fuel a combination refinery and petrochemical plant, the location of which has yet to be decided.

The refinery would produce at least 30,000 barrels per day of fuel products for Alaska consumption, increasing in-state refinery capacity by nearly 50 per cent. It also would manufacture an estimated one billion pounds year of petrochemicals, primarily aromatics such as benzene and olefins such as ethylene and propylene.

Company officials have said the project would create more than 2,500 jobs during a five-year construction timetable and 1,500 permanent positions.

In complying with the state's insistence that it not be subjected to any risk, Hammond said the Alpetco contract includes provisions which require the firm to have firm commitments on financing and marketing within 18 months or loose the state's oil.

Once the firm meets the 18-month benchmarks, Hammond said it would begin receiving delivery on state royalty oil, but added that the state may reclaim the crude without loss if the project fails at any time in the future.

Hammond also said state negotiators had inserted a unique provision in the contract "to insure against a situation where the company starts the operation of the refinery and then comes to the state to advise that it can only continue if the state lowers the price for its oil, thereby putting pressure on the state to save those jobs and the local industry that has been created."

The crucial provision, Hammond explained, "says that any subsequent price reduction for this oil must be approved by a direct referendum vote of the people."

Hammond said he insisted on the provision because of his philosophical opposition to the sale of natural resources "just to provide subsidized benefits to special interests or a privileged few."

"I must say to you in all frankness that there remains some concern that this type of facility can be self-supporting," Hammond said. "Certainly, we are willing to make our oil available, but we are not willing to subsidize or otherwise prop up a new business enterprise which cannot stand on its own feet by using the people's resource wealth."

But Hammond said the referendum provision allows the people to make that decision.

In another unusual provision, Hammond said the contract calls for Alpetco to dedicate five percent of its net after-tax profits after 10 years to a so-called Alaska Endowment Fund for social, environmental and cultural work.

Alpetco proposed the fund as a way to give a tax deductible price premium to the state.

Hammond said the state faced two choices in the decision on the sale of its royalty share of Prudhoe Bay oil for fueling an in-state processing plant.

"We could say that such a refinery is an uncertainty and we should do nothing," Hammond said. "We would then continue to ship oil outside and receive the revenue from it."

"Or we can make a virtually risk-free commitment and try to achieve beneficial in-state processing of the oil at no price loss. The latter has been my choice since we lose little by making the effort and may achieve a great deal."

TEA Plans Workshop

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — A Texas Education Agency workshop on proposed policy changes in the education of handicapped children is scheduled March 9 in Lubbock.

The workshop is one of 20 regional programs scheduled Feb. 27-March 10 to be hosted by the state's education service centers.

Indian Statesman
Plans To Retire

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Jayaprakash Narayan, the 75-year-old elder statesman of the ruling Janata Party, announced Sunday he is retiring from public responsibilities because of failing health. But he said his "general advice and guidance, whatever its worth, will be available to all."

Narayan suffered a kidney failure after he was imprisoned in 1975 for organizing a passive resistance campaign against Prime Minister Indira Gandhi. He has held no official political posts for 20 years but has been an advisor or honorary director of numerous civic reform groups, foundations and schools.

Public and private school officials are expected to attend the workshops, along with representatives of parent groups and state agencies involved in education of the handicapped.

After gathering information and opinions from the parties affected by policy changes, the State Board of Education is expected to approve the final policy draft in May, says Don Partridge, associate commissioner for special education and special schools.

The hearing will be held at Lubbock-view Christian Church.

Senate Slates Early Vote On Canal Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today moved closer to its first vote on the proposed Panama Canal treaties as a leader of the opposition to ratification declared his intention to press for a test of strength on a procedural issue. But it probably will be at least a month before final Senate votes on the two treaties are taken. After a week-long recess, the Senate returned to another full day of debate on the treaties, and Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., took the floor to say he would try to reverse the order the Senate now is scheduled to vote on the treaties. Opponents of ratification want the Senate to vote first on the treaty turning control of the waterway over to Panama in the year 2000. But supporters of ratification, including the Senate's Democratic and Republican leaders, have scheduled consideration first of the treaty committing both the United States and Panama to keeping the canal neutral and open to all shipping. "We should decide first whether we should give away the canal to Panama," Allen said. "First things first. We should not put the cart before the horse."

A vote on Allen's proposal is expected to come before the end of the week. Supporters of ratification feel they would have a better chance to obtain the two-thirds majorities necessary for Senate approval if the first treaty considered is the one which establishes the U.S. right to intervene militarily, if necessary, to keep the waterway open. Congressional activity returns to normal on Tuesday with most interest centered on the canal debate and the resumption of efforts to reach a compromise on energy legislation.

With some members of Congress sounding more optimistic, Senate members of the energy conference committee, which has been deadlocked for months, are working on a proposal to break the stalemate over price controls on natural gas. "Hopefully, we might see a compromise this week or the week after," said Rep. Philip Sharp, D-Ind.

The House will take up on Wednesday a bill authorizing a $1.8 billion loan to the International Monetary Fund to aid countries with severe balance of payments problems stemming from oil price increases.

Another bill due for House action would authorize $250 million to repair potholes caused by rough winter weather. The Senate plans to go into secret session on Tuesday to discuss allegations that Gen. Omar Torrijos, the Panamanian leader, and members of his family have been involved in drug trafficking.

The allegations are contained in Drug Enforcement Administration reports turned over to the Senate Intelligence committee. The secret session was scheduled because some of the reports are classified.

The public was last barred from a Senate session on July 1 for the debate on the neutron bomb. Supporters of the treaties say they know of no hard evidence linking the Panamanian leader with drug trafficking. And they say the allegations are a peripheral issue with no direct bearing on the merits of the pact.

In another development, U.S. officials said Torrijos told them he would consider turning his brother over to the United States to face narcotics charges. The officials said Torrijos told them he thought such an action might enhance the treaties' chances.

Youth's Battle Stuns Experts

Wednesday morning, for the first time since the accident, Kyle sat in a wheelchair and watched the snow and passing cars.

Doctors are not sure how far the healing process will go, because they are unable to explain his present improvement.

But the neurologist who gave the Comptons a bleak diagnosis after removing a piece of Kyle's brain tissue for testing, said last week, "He's definitely making progress, and I expect him to continue (to improve)."

Mrs. Compton said she thought no one would believe her son had spoken to her "because I'm his mother."

"I was thrilled," said the father, remembering how he felt after learning of the breakthrough.

The neurologist said Kyle was not in a coma on Jan. 11 when he let his mother know she was hurting him while she tried to loosen a stiffened arm.

What the Comptons experienced the night of Sept. 4 most parents only see in nightmares. The accident occurred about 9:15 p.m. and they received a call from St. Mary's shortly before 10 p.m. after arriving home from a visit with friends.

The parents were told their son would not live more than a couple of hours.

Mrs. Compton said doctors were working to save Kyle's life when she and her husband arrived at the hospital. "We feel like the good Lord was behind those specialists," she said. "They didn't want to see if we had insurance or anything," the father added.

While there was an unknown amount of brain damage, Mr. and Mrs. Compton thought Kyle was responding the first few days after the accident because he would squeeze their hands.

But Kyle's grip became limp the morning of Sept. 11 and surgery to relieve swelling on three sides of the brain was performed. Part of the tissue was removed and later analyzed as mostly dead with the living portion deteriorating fast.

When the parents pressed the doctor for an opinion after the surgery, he said, "If he makes it, someone higher than I will have to get the credit."

"It was his professional opinion that there was just too much extensive damage," Compton said. "He said he (Kyle) wouldn't hear or talk...he just wouldn't function."

Six weeks after the accident, the family decided to take Kyle off the life-supporting equipment and "leave it up to Kyle and God."

Kyle's close friends still visit him two or three times a week, Mrs. Compton said, and there were times when the prayer chapel at Highland Baptist Church was "wall to wall" with young people praying for the teen-ager.

Compton said he never gave up hope. One night after he had come home from the hospital that faith was strengthened. "I just opened up the Bible and it just jumped out at me that in five months something was going to happen, and it seems like it is," the father said.

"I had this feeling he was going to make it and for some reason it was going to take five months."

Mrs. Compton was not so hopeful. "We thanked him (God) for sharing Kyle with us for 16 years and I'm afraid I was a little selfish and said 'take him home with you now.'"

Mrs. Compton said she met one of her son's girlfriends at the hospital one day who insisted Kyle was going to pull through. "She said our generation needs a nowadays miracle and Kyle's going to be it," the mother said.

Kyle has a long way to go before the Sept. 4 accident can be put on a back shelf and he is able to continue the goals he was hoping for before the accident. As a wall plaque hanging above his bed suggests: "Be patient. God isn't finished with me yet."

But with some help, this could be just the beginning of what may become a happy ending.

Politicians Warned By Citizens' Group

to avoid inflammatory or provocative language regarding school integration. As citizens, we should not be burdened with political campaigns which attempt to stir up trouble and fear.

"We urge all members of the mass media to use restraint in reporting and editorializing on any and all aspects of the integration process...We are convinced that reporting of the integration process can be done in a way which is thorough and factual without being uselessly melodramatic."

The only disagreement in the alliance concerned that part of the statement's preface specifying "integration in all Lubbock public schools." Some members objected, saying such wording may be too confining and definite.

Other members of the organization said, however, that systemwide integration must be the group's goal. The statement was passed overwhelmingly.

"There is no such thing as a partial integration plan," said alliance secretary Sam Trickey. A successful plan, he said, must involve every school.

U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward has ordered the desegregation of only nine of Lubbock's 22 "racially identifiable schools" — those with minority enrollment of more than 70 percent.

School officials, who have until April 1 to submit a plan for doing that, won't say whether their proposals will be confined to the nine schools in question or will involve the entire school district.

Three moderators were elected Sunday to chair the alliance. They are the Rev. Robert Nicholson, pastor of First Presbyterian Church; Harry Stokley Jr. and Bidal Aguerro.

The alliance organized several committees, to work with the school board, organize community meetings and study integration efforts of other school systems.

The group set its next meeting for March 5 at the Guadalupe Neighborhood Center, 102 Ave. P.

Five Killed At Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — A fire, believed started by a pet goat kicking over a portable electric heater, engulfed a small three-bedroom house in flames early today, killing a mother and four children she ran back inside the burning house to save.

Dead were Esther Garcia, 37, Faustino Garcia Jr., 12, Melda Garcia, 10, Veronica Garcia, 8, and Roxanne Garcia, 4.

Two other children, John Paul, 13, and Lora, 9, escaped. The father, Faustino "Joe" Garcia Sr., a truck driver, was working at the time. He was notified of the tragedy and was driving back to Houston from Laredo early today.

"They had a screened-in back porch, and that's where the fire was burning when we saw it," said Neil Slay, who lives about 175 feet west of the Garcia residence.

"It was just a matter of minutes before the house was completely engulfed in flames," said Mrs. Slay, who called the fire department at 1:23 a.m.

Egypt, Cyprus Hurl Charges

Airways DC-8 after a futile attempt to find refuge in the Arab world, surrendered to the plane crew as soon as the shooting started Sunday night.

The hostages and the four members of the plane crew were unhurt.

The Cypriot government issued a statement on behalf of the terrorists, who claimed to be Palestinians, saying they belonged to no organization.

The Palestine Liberation Organization, which had deplored Saturday's assassination, charged in Beirut, Lebanon, that the two acted for the intelligence service of Iraq, a hard-line Arab state opposed to Sadat's peace dialogue with Israel.

A pro-Libyan newspaper in Beirut said they had confessed they were ordered to kill Sebahi, chief editor of Egypt's semi-official Al-Ahram newspaper, by Iraq-based Palestinian renegade guerrilla Abu Nidal.

A Cypriot government spokesman said the plane that arrived today from Egypt also brought Butros Ghali, Egypt's minister of state for foreign affairs, and that Ghali immediately came to Nicosia and met with President Kyprianou.

An earlier report that Egyptian Foreign Minister Ibrahim Kamel was coming here was later denied.

Interior Minister Benjamin said the battle Sunday night was "one of the saddest incidents" in the history of the Cypriot republic. But he said Cyprus "continues to regard Egypt as a friendly country."

Kyprianou, who was at the airport Sunday and reportedly had to seek cover during the gunbattle, accused Egypt of violating his nation's sovereignty. But he said his government would do what it could to "restore normalcy" to its relations with Egypt.

The two terrorists were identified in court as Samir Mohamed Qatar, 28, a Jordanian citizen, and Zayed Hosni Ahmed Alali, 26, who carried a Kuwaiti passport.

Informants said Qatar was traveling on an Iraqi passport issued to Reyad Samir al-Ahad, 25.

Their 11 hostages were delegates from Egypt, the Palestine Liberation Organization, Syria, Somalia and Morocco to a meeting in Nicosia of the Afro-Asian Solidarity Organization. Sebahi was the secretary-general of the organization.

No Arab government would offer the killers refuge. After seven hours of flying around the Middle East, their plane landed early Sunday in the East African nation of Djibouti, where it was refueled 11 hours later after the terrorists agreed to fly back to Cyprus.

The Egyptian government said Prime Minister Mamdouh Salem telephoned Cypriot authorities Sunday morning to tell them Egypt was sending a commando force to help rescue the hostages.

But Militiades Christodoulou, a Cypriot spokesman, said Cairo informed his government "it was sending a plane with Egyptian ministers to take part in the negotiations."

"We told the Egyptian troops not to take any action, but they ran out of the plane and began firing indiscriminately," he said. "The National Guard opened fire to protect lives."

One of the pilots of the terrorists' plane, Marios Koutsofidis, said four Egyptians in a jeep "started firing through the door of the aircraft into the flight deck. Then one of the Cypriot security men threw a grenade into the jeep and killed all of them. Immediately, the Palestinians surrendered all their weapons to the crew."

George Batal, a Lebanese who had been seized briefly as a hostage Saturday, said the gunman told them: "Everyone who went to Israel with Sadat will die, including Sadat."

Sebahi was buried in Cairo Sunday, and thousands followed his coffin through the streets, shouting, "No more Palestine after today."

Area Wreck Kills Woman

A-J Correspondent

TULIA — A one-car accident early this morning on FM 145 resulted in the death of a Phoenix woman who had been visiting her parents in Silverton.

Mrs. Diana Aguilar, 23, was killed when her eastbound car went out of control and struck a concrete culvert on the left side of the road about three and one-half miles east of Claytonville.

The accident, which occurred about 2 a.m., went undiscovered until 7 a.m. Monday.

Also injured in the accident were two sisters, Thelma Davila, 21, and Irma Davila, 14, both of Silverton.

The women were returning to Silverton from Plainview.

Mrs. Aguilar had been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ramon L. Davila in Silverton, since Thursday.

Swisher County Justice of the Peace Sidney Hooper pronounced Mrs. Aguilar dead at the scene. The two other women were taken by Swisher ambulance for emergency treatment at Swisher Memorial Hospital in Tulia and then transferred to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo, where Irma is listed in serious condition and Thelma's condition was undetermined as of early Monday afternoon.

Jury Given Background On Lackey penalty if either or both answers are negative, he will receive life imprisonment.

Affirmative answers must be unanimous, but it would take only 10 members of the jury voting no to return a negative answer.

Observers were speculating that the life-or-death decision would go to the jury sometime late today or Tuesday.

Miss Kumpf's bloody and partially clad body — the throat slashed — was found lying at the edge of a cotton field south of Lubbock about 9:30 a.m.

According to witness accounts, screams were heard from the 23-year-old victim's 1001 Ave. W Lubbock residence before dawn. Evidence indicated a man smashed through the door of the apartment and abducted victim, carrying her away in a pickup truck.

Lackey was arrested Aug. 3 in an Amarillo motel, and the trial was subsequently moved here on a change of venue.

The jury deliberated an hour and 35 minutes before finding Lackey guilty.

The defendant was adjudged competent to stand trial by a separate jury here after a two-day hearing prior to the start of testimony in the current proceeding.

Today, after the state rested in the punishment phase, the defense began presenting some of the medical evidence which it had used during the competency hearing before the other jury.

David McBride, a San Angelo psychologist, told defense attorney Phil Brown there were indications Lackey suffered organic brain damage when he administered clinical tests to the defendant Feb. 4.

McBride also said the defendant views himself as an inadequate person and has severe emotional problems.

Among the problems, according to McBride, are indications of a sexual conflict or preoccupation.

The witness said the problem, in his opinion, could possibly be the result of "maternal deprivation."

McBride said Lackey registered a verbal score showing an intelligence quotient of 73. He registered a quotient of 104 on a performance scale, with an overall intelligence quotient of 86, McBride said.

The psychologist termed the verbal score as "borderline retardation." He said the performance score was average, and that the overall score was "dull normal."

Israeli Girls Given Way Out Of Draft

JERUSALEM (UPI) — The Israeli cabinet has approved an amendment allowing girls to get out of army service by a simple declaration that it goes against their religious background.

Previously, young women who hoped to avoid the draft of up to two years had to get the permission of an examining committee.

Although the law requires all men and women reaching 18 to be drafted, as many as half the girls are excused every year for reasons including poor education and criminal records.

The amendment approved Sunday was sponsored by the ultra-Orthodox Agudat Yisrael party, which supports Prime Minister Menachem Begin's coalition government.

County Experiences Rapid Growth Rate

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Houston Chamber of Commerce said Harris County is growing at a faster rate than had been expected with 200 more residents arriving each day.

The 1977 increase of 73,000 newcomers to the county was more than first expected and helped Houston replace Detroit as the fifth largest U.S. city last year, the chamber said.

A major factor for the population increase was the 75,000 new jobs in the city last year.

Since 1970, the amount of office space available in the city more than doubled to 49 million square feet, the chamber reported.

Screams For Help Lead Police To Rape Victim

POLICE SURVEILLANCE CONTINUES — An elderly recluse, Mary Regina Connor, 71, has kept police at bay for the 11th straight day from her Quincy, Mass., home, threatening to kill anyone who approached her home. Police said she is armed and believed to be a trained marksman. Police were called when neighbors complained Mrs. Connor threatened to shoot two youths over a dispute for snow shoveling fees. The house is viewed from an unmarked police car. (AP Laserphoto)

Police, responding to reports of a screaming woman, found a 35-year-old rape victim tied to her bed late Sunday.

According to reports, a neighbor told officers of screams of "Help me" coming from a 53rd Street apartment. After police themselves heard the cries, they entered the residence and found the woman tied to her bed.

The victim later said she had gotten home about 9:30 p.m. and, before she could turn on a light, was grabbed by the intruder and forced into the bedroom where she was bound and gagged. Reportedly, no weapon was held on the victim during the rape, and the assailant left the residence through the front door.

Reports also indicated the suspect took a television set and tape player from the apartment.

In other weekend incidents, police were called to an East Lubbock apartment complex about 8:30 p.m. Saturday and told by a 14-year-old girl that she had been raped.

The young girl said she had been in the kitchen preparing dinner when she heard a noise at the front door. She said that as she walked toward the front of the apartment she saw a man leaving the area. Moments later the same man kicked in the rear door, she said.

The young intruder, about 18-25 years of age, reportedly forced the girl into a nearby hallway, then into the living room.

When she struggled, the attacker reportedly threatened to kill her.

Following the rape, the victim said she hit the man with a wine bottle, then fled through the snow to a neighbor's house and called police.

Area lawmen today still were searching for a teen-age duo who made off with about $300 from a Lubbock County grocery store about 5 p.m. Sunday.

Elba Kirk, attendant at Ponderosa Enterprises, said the youngsters had been in and out of the 116th Street and S. Quirt Avenue store several times that day. When an argument erupted, reports indicated, one of the young men produced a .22-caliber pistol and demanded the money from the clerk.

The young bandits fled the scene in an older model black pickup with the cash and three checks, and authorities later learned that the license on the getaway vehicle reportedly had been stolen from a Slaton resident.

The robbers reportedly were of medium height and build and each had dirty blond hair.

A waitress at a local pizza parlor told officers someone stole her $477 diamond and ruby ring Sunday night.

Marcy Ann Mason said she laid the ring on a cash register to blow up a balloon, and when she returned, the jewelry was gone.

According to Ronald Allen Fitzwater of 2116 10th St., rear, whoever pried his front door during a one-hour period Sunday night made off with $20 worth of groceries and $50 worth of clothing.

A 21-year-old housewife told police her ex-boyfriend came to her apartment Saturday afternoon and started beating her.

The woman said he then demanded her money and left some time later with $40.

Virgil Thompson, 27, of 1515 Ave. C said he was sitting in Robert's Place, 1502 Ave. C, Sunday when a woman with whom he had argued earlier in the day walked over to him and stabbed him in the chest.

Thompson underwent surgery at St. Mary's Hospital Sunday and was listed in satisfactory condition today.

Burglars who broke into St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church, 2305 Main St., Sunday made off with three, 24-inch wrought iron candleholders, according to Father Joe Bixeman.

The intruders also caused about $500 damage to a religious statue, he said, and $5 damage to a clock that was overturned. The priest estimated the church's loss at $850.

Herbert Whitney of 322 Gordon Hall said he was at a Lubbock nightclub early Sunday when a man began making obscene gestures towards him. After a club bouncer was notified, Whitney said he stepped outside the building and onto the sidewalk. There the man allegedly produced a pocketknife and cut Whitney on the wrist.

Whitney, who ran from the scene, got a ride to Methodist Hospital where he was treated and released.

Merced Padron of 5637 Ave. B said a house guest may have been responsible for the theft of two guitars, his car and a CB radio. The theft occurred Saturday, according to reports. Padron's car later was recovered.

Another CB radio, this one worth $314, was reported stolen from Joe G. Davilla of 3064 Fordham Ave. Saturday.

Meanwhile, Joe Duran said he left his residence at 1028 E. 29th St. for just a few minutes Saturday and returned to find his $250 television missing.

Jess Bryant of Maleshoe returned to a parking lot at 1300 Ave. F Saturday after leaving his truck parked there two days. Bryant said his two-way radio valued at $350 had been ripped out of his truck and a window had been damaged to the value of $50.

A stuck car caused Eileen Hartmann of 1005 Ave. S double grief Friday night when burglars took advantage of her momentary absence and stole her purse. The victim said she lost her check book, a small amount of cash and her contact lenses.

ARRIVE IN MOSCOW

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A Vietnamese military delegation has arrived in Moscow to attend the 60th annual Soviet army and navy day, the Vietnam news agency reported Monday. The delegation is led by Lt. Gen. Tran Van Tra, the deputy chief of the general staff, the report said.

Candidate For State Treasurer Says Board Should Be Replaced

The state board that determines which banks will be depositories for state funds and how much interest those deposits will receive is too politicized and should be abolished, a candidate for state treasurer has charged.

Harry Ledbetter, campaigning in Lubbock recently, said the State Depository Board should be replaced with a board composed of "taxpayers instead of tax users."

"If taxpayers had been on the board, the state's money might not have been sitting idle all these years" in checking accounts, which draw no interest, he said.

The State Depository Board is composed of "two bureaucrats and a politician," Ledbetter said — the treasurer, a banking commissioner and a citizen who, Ledbetter said, is "really a state employee."

Ledbetter, 33, favors the creation of a "citizens' advisory and policy making board," whose members might be appointed by the governor.

He said that once the board is restructured, "good fiscal management" at the state level may be possible.

It's vital to raise the rate of return on state deposits, Ledbetter said. For the last four months, he said, more than $1 billion in state funds have garnered interest of only 6 1/2 percent, while money deposited by the University of Texas and Texas A&M earned 7 1/2 percent.

During those four months, the state "lost over $8 million because of idle funds invested at an inadequate interest rate," he said.

Ledbetter, an Austin business and financial consultant, has a master's degree in economics and business from Texas A&M. He has nine years of experience in state government finance with the Legislative Budget Board, the lieutenant governor's office, and the comptroller's office.

He faces current Treasurer Warren Harding and former Bexar County Auditor Charles Sanderson in the Democratic primary.

"Harding is an institution of the big city banking bunch," he charged, adding that the Ledbetter campaign wasn't receiving too much support from the state's bankers.

"As long as the treasurer kept the big bank group happy, nobody else has been able to raise enough money to threaten his candidacy," Ledbetter said.

"But in my campaign, I've been able to get the message across to a tremendous number of taxpayers that we need to clean house."

Ledbetter predicted he would win the support of the bankers when "I come up with a program and they know they're treated fairly."

"But when you're playing favorites, you get no respect from the whole system, and not even from within the banking community," he said.

Ledbetter is especially concerned with the influence of multi-bank holding companies in Texas which he calls "monopolistic."

"Banks are created to serve the local economy" by investing deposits locally, he said. However, many bank holding companies invest money in Europe because they get a better rate of return, he said.

Only multi-bank holding companies can get bank charters in Texas, Ledbetter claimed, and said those banks get most of the state's deposits.

"Most of the money is in six or seven banks," he said. "Two banks in Dallas last year had $80 million in state funds in a checking account," he said, although the state's daily bills came to only $44 million.

Fred Fielding Claims Proof

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The man identified as "Deep Throat" by H.R. Haldeman says he has proof he was out of the country when the secret informant gave key information about the Water-gate scandal.

Fred Fielding, who served as assistant to Presidential Counsel John Dean, told the Philadelphia Bulletin that even though he denied Haldeman's allegations immediately after they were made three weeks ago, he felt he had to prove that he was not "Deep Throat."

In his book, "Ends of Power," Haldeman, the former White House Chief of Staff, said he believes Fielding was "Deep Throat" and said former President Richard Nixon thought so too.

Sunday's Bulletin said Fielding showed a Bulletin reporter a passport, government expense vouchers and a presidential letter of introduction showing that he was on a five-day assignment in Latin America starting Jan. 23, 1974.

In his book, "All the President's Men," Washington Post reporters Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein refer to a critical meeting on Jan. 24, 1974, with "Deep Throat" in which the informant confirmed that both John Mitchell and Charles Colson were behind the Water-gate operation.

DR. LAMB

Limit Total Fat Intake

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.
 DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a woman 73 years old, 5 feet 8 and weigh 112 pounds. My cholesterol is 310. Since the test I have been living on a low cholesterol diet as much as possible. I take niacin, 100 mg three times a day, plus a daily vitamin, zinc, bone meal and once a day a water pill. The trouble is I must deny myself all the foods I like and still my cholesterol does not go down. My doctor says my body produces too much cholesterol. Can't anything be done other than what I'm already doing?

DEAR READER — One cholesterol test usually doesn't tell the whole story. In some people it does go up with stress, and the tests are different depending upon the laboratory procedure. The other interesting point is that in people in your age group the level of the cholesterol may not be so important as the number of larger versus smaller fat particles (lipoproteins) that contain the cholesterol. It may be that despite your high cholesterol level that most of it is in the smaller fat particles. In that case it isn't likely to harm you. More specialized tests are needed to make this determination.

Just limiting the cholesterol intake usually is not enough to decrease abnormally high levels. You need to limit the calories to a level to eliminate or prevent obesity. You must limit the total fat intake (all kinds, saturated and unsaturated) and particularly limit the saturated fat. I am sending you the Health Letter number 1-3 Diet, Preventing Atherosclerosis which summarizes the main features of the diet recommended by the Inter Society Commission for Heart Disease Resources to help prevent heart disease. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y., 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is there more than one estrogen hormone? And I've heard that men and women both have testosterone, is that true?

DEAR READER — There are many estrogenic substances. Your body normally produces three well-recognized estrogen compounds that are chemically different. Technically they are called estradiol, estrone and estriol and they do have slightly different actions.

Progesterone, the female hormone that dominates half of the menstrual cycle, is changed chemically to form the male hormone testosterone. The testosterone undergoes further changes to become estradiol, one of the estrogens. So testosterone really is a compound between the conversion of the female hormone progesterone to estrogen.

Yes, the ovaries and the testicles both form male and female hormones. The ratio as well as the amount is important in affecting secondary sexual characteristics.

That is not all. Progesterone, the female hormone, also undergoes changes to form important hormones, essential to life functions, from the adrenal cortex. And the adrenal cortex can become the main source of sex hormones. This is particularly important to women after the menopause; how much female and male hormones are produced by the cortex may determine whether a woman needs estrogen treatment or not.

Then there are many synthetic female hormones that are available that have similar or part of the action of the natural female hormones.

New Life Aids Tennis Champ

By MARGARET COURT

For many years as a tournament tennis player I thought my life had all the ingredients for happiness. I had a fine marriage, two lovely children, great success in my tennis career, financial security, everything. It all should have been very satisfying, and for years it was.

But the time finally came when it was not. As a teen-age student at St. Augustine's School, I had been playing tennis steadily for six or seven years, but I was debating whether or not to give it up. I had done well in the sport locally, but some people whose opinion I respected didn't approve of women taking part in athletics. It just wasn't ladylike they said.

One day the principal of the school stopped me on the path and asked why I wasn't on my way to tennis practice. I told her that I had almost decided to give it up.

"Now, Margaret," she said, suddenly becoming stern, "you're wrong about that. I've seen you play. With you, tennis is a gift. A gift from God. It would be ungrateful for you to throw it away."

Tennis a gift? I had never thought of it that way before. But never until then had I realized that God has a way of giving each person something special to use... and that He had given me tennis.

After that dedicated myself wholeheartedly to the game. My gift became my life. During the next 17 years, I played tennis all over the world. And the dedication paid off. I won championships at Wimbledon and Forest Hills several times, and other tournaments as well.

But year after year, as I kept on playing, even returning to competition after having two children, I began to feel a kind of emptiness somewhere deep inside me. I still considered my tennis ability a gift from God. I still attended Mass when I could. But the emptiness kept growing, sometimes making me impatient and irritable with my husband Barry and the children and jittery on the tennis court as well.

After we had our second baby in 1974, tennis was still so much a part of my life that I returned to play some more. In September, 1975, after touring Japan, I went home to Australia to rest. One day in Perth, I ran into an old friend, Ann Brinkworth. Ann was looking radiant, better than I'd ever seen her look.

"What's your secret, Ann?" I asked half-joking, half-serious. "Come with me tonight and I'll show you," she said, "I'm going to a prayer meeting."

Something in me resisted the idea of going with Ann, but something also seemed to be urging me to go. And when I did go, something unforeseen and almost indescribable happened. The room seemed to come alive with a warmth I'd never experienced before. When Ann and the others began praying and talking with Jesus Christ, it was as if He were right there with them, sitting with them as a friend. As the evening wore on, I began to feel His presence, too. I left the prayer meeting confused, yet filled with a kind of mounting excitement.

The meeting was only the beginning of that excitement. Late the next night, I got up out of bed and went into our daughter Marika's bedroom to check on her. Bending down, I kissed Marika.

Then, looking up, I saw something that made my heart give a violent leap. Above the door a beautiful woman seemed to be looking down at me, and I knew instantly that it was Our Lady, the mother of Jesus. One moment she was there, as real as I was. The next moment she was gone.

The next night I had another vision. This time I seemed to see a gate, again on Marika's wall. The gate kept opening and closing before me. Now, deeply moved, I prayed for an explanation.

The third night still another vision came, this time on my bedroom wall. I saw a window, and in the distance, a cross on a hill surrounded by glowing colors, by pinks and blues. What did these manifestations mean?

Though I wanted to tell Barry everything, I needed spiritual reassurance first, and so I went to our local priest. Father Miller urged me to read the Bible, something I had long neglected. He said understanding would come to me.

And slowly, as I read His word, I began to grasp what was happening. The visions, I realized, were confirming what I had felt so strongly in that prayer meeting: that Jesus Christ was real, that He was a Friend and Savior Who could help me and give me strength when I needed it. All I had to do was come to Him — come through His always open gate and believe in Him by keeping my eye upon the Cross. After years of being half-dead spiritually, I was being reborn into the Christian life.

The change in my life was profound and, oh, so beneficial. Knowing the Lord as I now did in a personal way had a calming effect on me. On the tennis court my nervousness and tension were gone. At home, where once I had been plagued by impatience with Barry and the children, the Lord replaced all that with understanding and tolerance. Where once I found it difficult to reach out to people — sometimes even in my own family — He gave me a deep and loving concern.

What does all this mean? To me it means that it's not enough merely to receive God's gifts or take them for granted. He wants and expects more from us than that. He wants us to know Him and love Him, because He knows that when we truly love Him we will be able to love ourselves and our neighbors.

I wish I had learned all this years ago. But, thanks to Him, I know it now. And, best of all, I've just begun to learn.

Ector Official Says Death Not Homicide

ODESSA (AP) — Citing a preliminary report from a Houston medical examiner, Ector County District Attorney John Green said Sunday the death of a county jail inmate can't be termed a homicide.

Larry Lozano died Jan. 22, sparking state and local investigations after allegations that he died from beatings he received at the hands of law officers.

Dr. Joseph Jachimczyk of Houston was brought into the case at Green's request as a consultant. Jachimczyk, however, said he has made no ruling in the case.

"I have not reached any conclusions," he said. "I've been reviewing everything and I don't know when the report will be ready."

Jachimczyk did say, however, one theory might be that Lozano suffocated as a result of restraining holds used by officers to subdue him when he reportedly became irrational in a padded isolation cell.

Green confirmed late last week he had received Jachimczyk's preliminary report but would not reveal its complete findings until after an inquest and grand jury review.

"The doctor in Houston has confirmed what we believed all along," he said. "He confirmed it was impossible to reach a conclusion it was homicide and Jachimczyk is considered to be one of the outstanding specialists in the world."

Ector County Sheriff Elton Faught said Lozano died from blows when he bashed his head repeatedly against cell bars. He maintains no officers beat Lozano, but merely tried to restrain him.

El Paso Medical Examiner Dr. Frederick Bornstein, commissioned by Lozano's family to conduct an independent autopsy after the death was initially ruled a suicide, stated the "mode of death was homicide."

Green said Jachimczyk had reported that most of Lozano's serious injuries appeared to be of the type that would be sustained by resistance and officers' attempts at restraint.

He said many of the victim's minor wounds were from broken glass inside the cell.

"For example, the 82 bruises that Bornstein said Lozano had on his body — about 50 of those bruises were cuts that Lozano had on his feet from cuts suffered when he stepped on the broken glass in his cell," said Green.

Justice of the Peace Virgil Lumpee, who ordered the inquest, said it would be delayed until March 6 to allow Texas Rangers ample time to conclude their investigation and give Jachimczyk time to finish the in-depth autopsy review.

Anita Bryant Flings Gauntlet At Atheist

EL PASO (AP) — Entertainer Anita Bryant brought her "Revive America Crusade" to deepest West Texas Sunday, assailing homosexuality and taking the opportunity to fling a gauntlet at the feet of a famous atheist.

Miss Bryant's familiar anti-gay stance was coupled with a plug for reinstatement of voluntary prayer in public schools.

Referring to atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair, Miss Bryant said, "Whereas one woman took prayer out of schools, the day has come when it may take one woman to put it back."

Speaking before a crowd of about 3,000 in the El Paso Civic Center, Miss Bryant encountered little attention from area homosexuals.

It was a quiet contrast to an earlier appearance in San Antonio, where some 75 placard-bearing demonstrators touched off at least one confrontation. No one was injured during the San Antonio appearance.

Her appearance was in tandem with

Law Officials Arrest Wilson

LIBERAL, Kan. (UPI) — Marc Wilson, 27, who escaped from the Seward County Jail Thursday night along with an inmate accused of murder, was arrested this morning after local residents arranged a meeting with law officials.

A sheriff's office spokesman said authorities were contacted and arrangements made for Wilson to meet authorities at a local residence about 2:30 a.m.

Wilson had been arrested earlier at a local motel on a warrant charging him with the armed robbery of a Midland motel. He was being held for Texas authorities when he and John Edwards, charged with murder, escaped about 7:45 p.m. Thursday.

The sheriff's office said Wilson now will be held in Seward County to face charges of aggravated battery against an officer, escaping custody and kidnapping. He is expected to be tried in Liberal before facing possible extradition to Texas.

Wilson and Edwards overpowered Sheriff Howard Smith Thursday and locked him in a cell. The two men separated after they ran from the jail, and officials say they believe Wilson stayed in Liberal.

Edwards allegedly stole a pickup after the escape, abandoned it and stole another car near Kismet. He was arrested at a road block near Meade some three hours after the escape.

Texas Faces Gas Danger

AUSTIN (AP) — Billions of feet of natural gas seeping out of antiquated pipelines in hundreds of Texas communities create the potential for a major disaster, but some persons in those communities aren't too concerned about the dangers.

The Dallas Times Herald Sunday said potential hazards from leaky lines that can't meet state and federal safety standards are depicted in Texas Railroad Commission records.

Joe Plotowski Jr., director of the commission's gas utilities division, said, "It's a miracle that we haven't had a major disaster yet... gas is funny. You can't see it. You can't smell it or taste it, but it's there and it's dangerous."

"The fact is that many of our systems were laid in the 1940s and 50s. They are not cathodically protected and they corrode. With a cold winter, the pressure increases, and they spring leaks."

Despite the dangers, some Texans tend to adopt an attitude similar to the one Californians have regarding earthquakes. A shopping center in Grangerland last month registered gas concentrations at the explosive level. Gas remained in the building for three days after the system was shut down and the building was evacuated.

"Why it's been leaking for 30 years and nothing blew up yet," remarked a service station attendant.

Plotowski said the East Texas town of Huntington, where three Texas Railroad Commission engineers worked all last week to patch 28 dangerous leaks, is far from the only potential disaster among Texas gas systems.

He said none of the city-owned gas supply systems inspected by his staff can meet safety standards. He said his crews have "barely scratched the surface" in trying to evaluate more than 1,500 public and private pipeline networks in the state.

Other potentially dangerous situations, according to commission records, include:

— The West Texas city of Menard, which is losing up to 60 percent of its gas, told the commission last October that "gas lines all over the city are leaking" and repairs are unable to stop all the leaks. Federal monies are to be used to solve the problem.

— In the West Texas town of Goldsmith, the gas lines are in such bad shape Mayor Richard Scott told the commission the situation was "extremely dangerous for the entire population." Federal funds are expected to be used there as well.

— Bay City lost 43 percent of its gas last year. Eleven safety violations were discovered in a September 1977 inspection.

— Fort Stockton's gas supplier, West Texas Gas Co., has asked the commission to investigate "excessive levels of lost and unaccounted for gas" in the city. The company said 157 million cubic feet — 22 percent of its supply — turned up missing in 1976.

A 1977 commission survey showed that 123 billion cubic feet of natural gas was lost or unaccounted for in Texas in 1975. Only 15 of 65 distribution companies surveyed had lost less than 5 percent.

Sauce pan? Steamer? Wok? Pressure cooker? What's the best utensil for cooking frozen vegetables?

If you have to avoid fat and calories (and who doesn't!) our vote goes to the frying pan.

Frying pan?

Not a big black fry pan full of grease! The fry pan we have in mind is a NON-STICK skillet with little or no fat added. In a flat utensil like a skillet, the vegetables can be spread in a shallow layer and cooked quickly in a small amount of broth or liquid... uncovered. The liquid will quickly evaporate into a flavorful glaze that's served with the vegetables... no vitamin-packed water to drain and discard. But more important, the flavor, texture and color will be closest to fresh. If you don't believe it, try it our way once and see for yourself.

REALLY GREEN BEANS FRESH FROM THE FREEZER

10 oz. package frozen whole green beans

1/2 fat-skimmed chicken or turkey broth (homemade or canned) optional: 1 tsp. minced onion (or 1 tsp. dried)

Spread the frozen beans in a nonstick skillet or fry pan. Add remaining ingredients and simmer over low heat, stirring to separate, until liquid evaporates. Do not cover. Beans will be cooked through, bright green and tender-crisp. Their flavor will be fresh. Serves three, 30 calories each.

REALLY GREEN BEANS AMANDINE

2 tsp. slivered or sliced almonds
10 oz. package frozen whole green beans

1/2 water
salt and pepper

Shake the almonds in a small skillet over moderate heat. Add no oil. Cook until nuts are toasted (watch carefully and don't allow them to blacken or burn). Remove almonds from skillet and set aside.

Combine green beans and water in skillet. Cook and stir till all the water has evaporated. Toss with almonds, salt and pepper, to taste (no butter needed!). Serves three, 65 calories each.

STIR-FRIED FROZEN BROCCOLI WITHOUT OIL

10 oz. package broccoli florets, partly thawed

1 small onion, peeled and sliced
1/2 fat-skimmed beef, chicken or turkey broth optional: 2 tsp. sliced pimiento optional: soy sauce to taste

Put the partly thawed block of broccoli on a cutting board. Use a serrated bread knife to cut the block in thirds so that each spear is divided into three. Combine cut broccoli, sliced onion and broth in an open non-stick skillet. Cook and stir over low heat until nearly all the liquid evaporates. Stir in pimiento at the last minute. Serve with soy sauce, if desired. Makes three servings, 45 calories each.

ITALIAN 'FRIED' SQUASH

10 oz. package frozen sliced green zucchini, or yellow summer squash

1 tsp. olive oil
5 tsp. water

very small clove garlic, minced (or pinch of instant)

1/4 tsp. dried oregano, or Italian seasoning
salt and pepper to taste

Allow squash to thaw, until slices can be separated. Arrange the slices in single layer in a non-stick fry pan. Add remaining ingredients. Cook and stir over low heat until all the water evaporates and zucchini slices just begin to brown in remaining oil. Serves three, 35 calories each.

Owens-Alexander Exchange Vows

By A-J Correspondent

SNYDER — Brenda Dawn Owens and Terry Allen Alexander were married in a 7 p.m. ceremony Saturday in the First Presbyterian Church here. The Rev. Gary West and the Rev. Carter Prime of San Angelo officiated.

Honor attendants were Billie Owens, sister of the bride, and Craig Summers of San Angelo.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Owens and Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Alexander of San Angelo.

The bride was graduated from Snyder High School and attended Western Texas College. The bridegroom was graduated from Lakeview High School in San Angelo and attended WTC.

Clip 'n' Cook

PEANUT ROLL

2 cups granulated sugar
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup evaporated milk
1/4 cup light corn syrup
Dash of salt
1 cup peanut butter
1/2 lb. (about 27) caramels
1/4 cup milk
2 cups peanut halves

Combine sugars, milk, corn syrup and salt in a large heavy saucepan. Cook, stirring until sugar dissolves. When mixture boils and sugar dissolves, wash down sides of pan with a brush dipped in water to remove any sugar granules. Boil slowly to soft ball stage (238 degrees) while stirring occasionally. Remove from heat; add peanut butter and let cool to 140 degrees. Stir to blend in peanut butter and continue to beat until mixture will hold its shape. Turn out onto a buttered surface and quickly knead until mixture is creamy. Form into three 12 x 1-inch rolls. Wrap in plastic wrap, aluminum foil or waxed paper and chill. Melt the caramels with milk. Spread top and sides of rolls with caramel mixture and turn over onto peanuts. Spread bottom of rolls and cover with peanuts. Wrap and chill. Cut into 1/2-inch slices. Makes about 6 dozen slices.

New Books Capitalize On Special Interests

By DENISE MURCKO WILMS
American Library Assn.

If your efforts to get your kids interested in fiction have fizzled, try capitalizing on their special interests; in other words, parody nonfiction. This eclectic crop of recent offerings is typical of the wide array of topics tackled by children's writers.

At the top of the list is Jill and Manus Pinkwater's "Superpuppy." The authors, who operate their own dog training school, offer the sort of comprehensive advice on choosing and properly caring for a dog that's a must for any new or prospective owner.

The writing is an easy blend of personal anecdote and straight information. But what's singular is the authors' humane perspective; their belief that dogs, like people, are shaped by a combination of inborn traits and environment and that they need secure beginnings and loving care to develop into the superpuppy and superdog that every owner wants.

"Superpuppy" is quite possibly the best kids' dog book around and its straightforward style will appeal to adults as well.

"A Very Young Rider" by Jill Kremenetz is a large, lavishly produced photo-documentary that will appeal to 9 to 12-year-old horse lovers. Its subject is 10-year-old Vivi Malloy who relates her experiences in a simple, first person narrative. "I don't know if I'll ever make the United States Equestrian Team when I grow up, but I really want to. I started riding when I was three."

Vivi rides in shows throughout the East; her mother is a horsewoman, and her older sister has ridden in the Maclay Finals in Madison Square Garden for three years running. Kremenetz's camera records Vivi doing chores, taking riding lessons and competing in shows. The view is privileged but fascinating and will leave watchers eager to trade places.

David McCauley's careful, detailed drawings for "Castle" demand scrutiny, as does his equally lucid text, which is packed with particulars of castle building. McCauley describes in detail the features found in your typical castle, including the dungeon, toilet and garden — "Although a number of dogs and cats were allowed to roam at will throughout the castle in hopes of controlling the rodent population, one small area of the inner ward was intentionally fenced off. Here Lady Catherine had insisted that a lawn of imported English turf be laid and a garden for flowers and herbs be planted."

Handsome looking and lively in its efficient simplicity, "Castle" makes first-rate browsing and study for fourth graders on up.

Paranormal phenomena and the occult are subjects of perennial popular appeal — to adults and to children. Larry Kettle-kamp offers a look at five psychics in "Investigating Psychics." His opening chapter reports on some of the ongoing research in the area and his profiles introduce five individuals who have worked with scientists investigating paranormal phenomenon. All but one, Ambrose Worrall, are currently living, including Matthew Manning who's in his early 20s.

Kettlekamp is clearly fascinated by the occult, and sixth through ninth graders will be too. For a skeptic's view they should also check out Melvin Berger's "The Supernatural: From ESP to UFO's." Besides ESP and various other psychic powers, Berger also surveys witchcraft and UFOs.

He too is intrigued by his topic, but shows a good deal more skepticism than Kettlekamp. Each discussion features a believer's report of alleged occurrences coupled with a skeptic's counterview. Deciding which, if either, side to believe is left to the reader. While some experiences are proven false, others are just not credibly explained away by the skeptics.

Two books offer very different — but equally good — opportunities for sharing and discussion. Les Walker's "Housebuilding for Children" demonstrates techniques used in real housebuilding. The author, an architect, has designed six houses that supervised 6 to 9-year-olds can try their hand at. Information is well organized and includes a "Guide for Your Parents and Teacher." The tone is supportive and leaves no doubt that such child-adult interchanges can be practical, educational, and, most of all, fun.

Martin Sandler's "The Way We Lived" is an assemblage of old photographs that beautifully proves the author's point that "nothing records the past more accurately than do photographs." The collection catalogues common occupations as they were in the years spanning 1880-1920. Excerpts from contemporary autobiographical accounts supplement the commentary that explains the changes that occurred over these years.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: My problem is not having enough strength to break up with a guy I've been going with for nearly three years. He's 24 and I'm 23. I have become so emotionally involved with him that it's tearing me apart because I know he's playing me for a fool.

He never takes me anywhere unless it's my treat, and for the last three years, he has always managed to pick a fight with me just before the holidays so he doesn't have to buy me anything. (I always give him something, however.)

We've talked about marriage, but he's careful never to get pinned down to a date.

I'd like to have a home and kids, Abby, and when this guy is sweet, there is no body in the world sweeter, but most of the time I'm walking around with an aching heart.

How can I either get him to marry me or forget about him for good?

ACHING HEART

DEAR ACHING: I doubt that you can get him to marry you, which is a break for you. Tell him it's over and to please do you a favor and stay out of your life. Keep busy with other thoughts, other activities and other people. It will hurt for a while, but it's preferable to continuing in a relationship that's to hurt worse — and possibly forever.

My mother missed about $20 worth of her good cosmetics. I didn't want my mother to think my friend had taken them, so I said I had "borrowed" them and left them somewhere.

Now I am being punished, but I would almost rather take the punishment than have my mother think my girlfriend is a thief. Abby, I turned the house upside down looking for those cosmetics, and they are just gone!

Should I tell my mother I had nothing to do with it, and it just had to be that girl? Or should I take the punishment and let it go?

HIGHLAND PARK

Dear H. PARK: If you can catch your girlfriend with the evidence, do so and give her a chance to return the stolen goods. If you can't tell your mother that you didn't take her cosmetics and that you lied to protect a friend who may not have deserved it.

DEAR ABBY: The first six years of our marriage we had four singles and a pair of twins. My work was never done, and I felt tired and dragged out all the time.

Naturally, I took it out on my husband. The poor guy used to sit in bars just to get away from my nagging and complaining.

Then I read a letter in your column from a woman whose situation was almost identical to mine. In your answer you said, "Mothers of small children tend to forget that their husbands need love and attention, too. Quit feeling sorry for yourself and concentrate on your husband. No matter how many complaints you have, keep quiet, and find something to compliment him on. Kill him with kindness!"

Well, I felt like killing him, so I was willing to try anything. At first it was a real effort to be nice to him, but I forced myself. Pretty soon I discovered that the nicer I was to him the sweeter he was to me.

That was a year ago, and I am just getting around to thanking you for an answer to a letter that I didn't write. But it worked for me.

At Wit's End...

BY ERMA BOMBECK

She used to think children belonged in bed by 7:00...but that was before she realized children need to be played with and loved.

She used to think wise adults saved their money, but that's before a child sold her five chances on a live pony.

She used to think babies cried just to get attention...but that's before she realized that's a way a child communicates.

She used to think children's feet belonged on the floor — but that's before she conceded that to give a kiss a child sometimes has to climb on the white sofa with muddy feet.

She used to think a little whack on the backside never did a child any harm — but that was before she realized they had feelings too.

She used to think a child should clean up every bit of food on his plate — but that was before she acknowledged he had taste too, and maybe he didn't like it.

She used to think children should obey their parents at all times — but that's before she realized some parents can be unreasonable.

She used to think an upset stomach could be ignored — but that's before she realized a trip to the doctor alleviates unnecessary fears.

She used to think school plays and programs were a bore — but that's before she realized the great talent that some children harbor.

She used to think children should never miss a day of school, but that was before she admitted that a short winter vacation to a warm climate never stifled anyone's learning processes.

She used to feel that allowances were wrong, but that's before she realized that rewards can be a great incentive.

She used to feel that pictures of children put people to sleep, but that's before she discovered such beauty should be shared.

She used to feel that eating cookies in the afternoon ruined a child's dinner, but that was before she figured out one ruined meal wouldn't throw a child into malnutrition.

Oh, yes...she used to raise children with a firm hand and a logical heart — but that was before she became a grandparent!

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF © 1978 by Chicago Tribune

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AKS ♥AJ ♦62 ♣KQJ1052

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♣ Pass 1♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Some jump is certainly indicated, and the popular choice would be three clubs. However, we feel that, with so much strength in the unbid suits, a jump to two no trump would be more descriptive.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KJ8 ♥AKQJ82 ♦5 ♠AK5

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
2♥ Pass 2NT 3♦ ?

What action do you take?

A.—It's possible that partner has a complete bust, and that your only plus score could come from defending against three diamonds. However, it doesn't seem right to pass now and leave partner with a very difficult decision to make. Our choice is between three hearts and four hearts, and we favor the former since it leaves partner with the option of bidding three no trump if he has a diamond stopper.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠KQJ6 ♥A ♦954 ♣KQ952

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♣ Pass 1♦ Pass 1♥ Pass 3♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—The object here is to complete the picture of your hand to see how partner reacts. Bid three diamonds. If partner has values in hearts, he will probably rebid three no trump, and you should pass since those values are useless to you for slam purposes. If partner makes any other bid, slam prospects are real and you can announce your ambitions with a heart cue-bid.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠95 ♥1094 ♦AQ1098 ♣A97

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1♣ 2♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Since you have a good fit for partner's suit, there is no point in introducing your diamond suit. It is simply a question of how many hearts you should bid. Both three hearts and four hearts warrant consideration. Since we cannot accurately assess the value of our diamond suit, we would opt for the conservative raise to three hearts.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KJ92 ♥AQ87 ♦62 ♣J83

Partner opens the bidding with one spade. What do you respond?

A.—You have a hand that is too weak for a jump to three spades and too strong for a simple raise to two spades, so you have to improvise a bit. Respond two hearts, then support spades at your next turn. This action is perfectly safe, since you can always return to spades regardless of what partner does.

Q.6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A ♥A104 ♦QJ87 ♣QJ963

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♦ Pass 2♣ Pass 3♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—With a double fit, slam prospects are distinct. We would not blame you if you started matters off with a cue bid. However, it might be better if you first told partner of your diamond support and then either cue-bid or used Blackwood at your next turn.

Q.7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠J984 ♥72 ♦AK8 ♣A1054

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♣ Pass 1♦ Pass 2♣ Pass 2NT Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—The fact that you have a minimum opening bid does not relieve you of the responsibility of placing the hand in the proper contract. With four-card support for partner's major suit and a ruffing value, you strongly prefer to play in spades rather than no trump, so you must return to three spades.

Q.8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A72 ♥KQ98 ♦AK107 ♣83

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♥ Pass 1♦ Pass 1♥ Pass ?

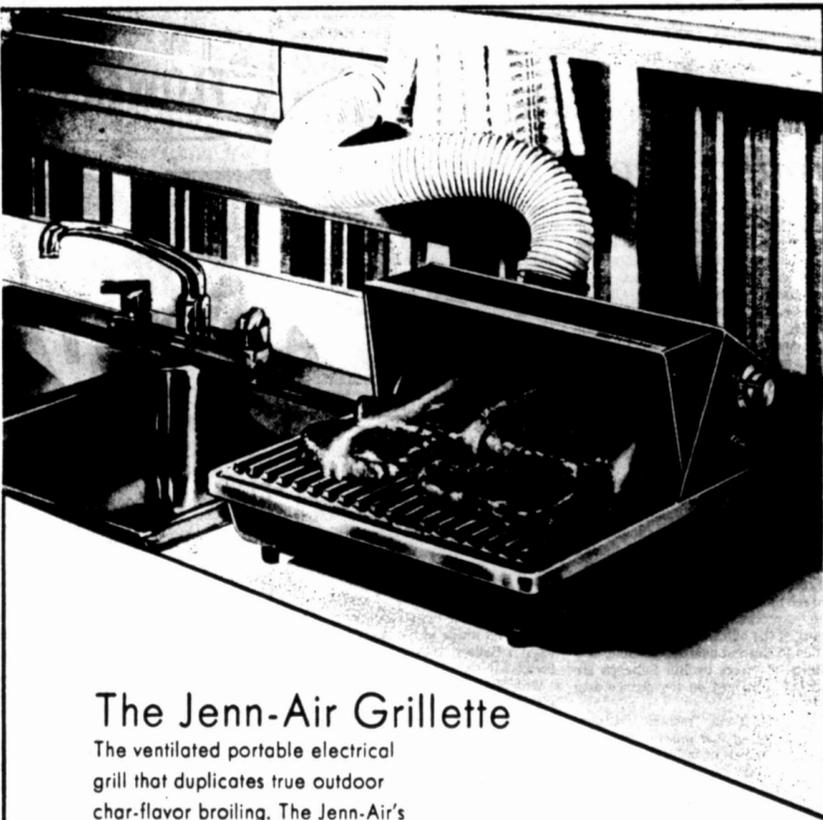

What do you bid now?

A.—Were it not for your club weakness, you would have opened the bidding with one no trump. Now you have a problem—your hand is too good for two spades, but you shouldn't make a jump raise with only three-card support. Temporarily prefer to play in spades. This is not forcing, chances are that partner will bid again. And if he cannot, you are unlikely to have missed a game.

Your play to the first trick could decide the fate of the contract! A writer once remarked: "There's no such thing as a blind opening lead, only deaf opening leads!" The ventilated portable electrical grill that duplicates true outdoor char-flavor broiling. The Jenn-Air's Grillette is different from other indoor grills and is ventilated to the outdoors for two major reasons. 1. To rid your home of the smoke and odors so often associated with indoor broiling. 2. To permit use of a high level of primary radiant heat to create flavorful smoke—a flavor process not feasible in a non-vented indoor barbecue Grillette may also be exhausted by directing the outlet toward the overhead range hood system. 99.50 Housewares, Downtown, South Plains Mall

WHERE ELSE BUT RED BARN — Owner-operator Willis Watts of the Red Barn Meat Market, 8112 Indiana Ave., calls attention here to the "yield grade" stamp on the corn-fed beef

Red Barn Meat Market At Forefront With Yield-Graded Beef, Other Items

Isn't it refreshing to have available a meat market in the area that although modern in every respect, still retains the concept of the old-time "service" market?

Such an establishment is the Red Barn Meat Market, 8112 Indiana Avenue, most definitely a complete service market working hard at meriting and serving one's trade.

Even with all its other attributes, many of which are outlined below, the Red Barn Meat Market has something new that is worthy of special attention.

'Yield Grade' Important

"We urge you to look for the grade on the beef you buy," is the suggestion of owner-operator Willis Watts. "All of our beef at the Red Barn is USDA Choice corn-fed cattle. Also, it is 'yield graded'. We don't buy anything above a '2' yield, meaning that we maintain the best of quality and yet keep the fat content as low as possible. In addition to this, we also age our cattle, adding to the flavor and tenderness."

All cattle are from feed lots in the Hereford area.

Watts and his most capable staff take pride in introducing the customer to this "better and complete service market", a description to which a lot of area residents have attested since in market's opening in mid-1976.

Willis Watts formerly owned and operated the Red Barn facility on the Leveland Highway, selling that unit in June of 1977.

The South Indiana market was planned and functionally designed to not only be attractive, but to be convenient, efficient and thoroughly service oriented. Watts opened this big market in May 1976, and reports that it is the largest independent retail meat market in all West Texas, comprising about 4,275 sq. ft. floor space under roof, plus a large parking apron with access from both Indiana and from 82nd Street.

It is neat, sanitary, attractive and easy to reach from just about anywhere!

Completeness Explained

A full variety of beef, pork, poultry and fish is stocked. As a complete service market, orders for special cuts are welcomed, and full quarters, halves and full beeves are available.

A full line of cheeses is stocked.

Financing is available with approved credit, with up to six months to pay, nothing down, and absolutely no finance charge!

From the spacious service area one can see through expansive glass windows into the processing room, noting the efficiency of the butchers and the firm's devotion to cleanest quarters possible. Seventeen art pieces by Bill Leftwich are tastefully arranged on the service area walls.

"Slim" McCann, market manager, heads a staff of four full-time butchers, with two women in addition to wait on the front. Slim has 40 years experience in the field, with enviable record of 22 years with a single market.

Home-Owned

Owner-operator Willis Watts has been a Lubbock resident 11 years. He was born and reared in West Texas and ap-

Rainbo Staff Cited Among Key Reasons In Firm's Capability

A successful business, serving an area commercially and as good citizens, appreciated year after year by friends and customers, does not function and grow by happenstance!

Rainbo Baking Company of Lubbock could well be an example, excelling with a combo of fine products, service, understanding of today's needs . . . and dedicated, knowledgeable personnel "doing their job."

From time to time, Rainbo points out segments of its success-service formula on these pages, and this week it is happy to call attention to employee contributions.

'Salute To Zelda'

Singled out for a salute this week is Zelda McClung, the receptionist book-keeper, jack of all trades whose pleasant voice most often is one's first contact with Rainbo.

Zelda, whose picture is at the left in the Rainbo ad, has been with the firm since back in 1951; that's right, 27 years!

In fact, this is the only firm with whom this personable and efficient employee has been associated other than early-day work in her father's cafe.

"My father, Dink Webb, had a restaurant just down the block from the bakery quarters here," Zelda recounts, and I became acquainted with the firm's management and personnel. It was Mead's then, with the sale to Rainbo coming along in 1959.

"I started to work for Bill and Mack Mead after graduation from Lubbock High School and had never worked anywhere else except the restaurant."

(Bill Mead actually was founder of Rainbo Baking Co., and he now is chairman of the parent Campbell Taggart, Inc., with headquarters in Dallas.)

Zelda started in the accounts receivable department, and in the 27 years since "has done just about everything in office work and distribution procedures."

Her husband, Charles McClung, is a dental technician, and they have two sons, Dink and Shawn, both of the home, and a daughter, Karen Ervin, who is manager of one of Rainbo's thrift stores in the city.

"Throughout the years I have enjoyed the people at Rainbo and the customers with whom I have been associated. I am thoroughly sold on Rainbo's management and its high quality products. I like being a member of the team."

With such attitude, capability and long tenure, no wonder Rainbo is happy to salute Zelda McClung, a valued employee!

"(Watch for later articles regarding other staffmembers and facts of Rainbo's operation. It is a story you can appreciate and understand . . . cause we're your kind of people, your kind of progressive enterprise. We just will not take second place to anyone in promotion of good eating and good times for our West Texas friends."

SHOES FOR EASTER — AND BEYOND — Among those excited about new spring fashions and arrivals at Gilbert's Shoe Store are Polly Gilbert, Deanna Johnson and Rhonda Howell who are among the capable staff at the Indiana Gardens store.

Luggage Repair Now Added As Service At Gilberts Shoe Store

Gilberts Shoes, 3434 34th St., in Indiana Gardens, now offers luggage repair! Yes, in addition to being a complete juvenile shoe store offering the only in-store orthopedic shoe service (in most instances the same day), Gilberts now has added by popular demand a luggage repair service in conjunction with its shoe repair department.

It also is aptly pointed out that Easter comes early this year (March 26), so "Mothers, bring the children in to Gilberts Shoes now for a dress-up shoe rehearsal before the holiday starts!"

Great For All Summer
"When your kids see the Easter Parade of shoes by Stride-Rite, they'll want their feet to get all dressed up for the holidays. These are not just special occasion shoes; they're great looking shoes that kids will enjoy wearing all through the summer; after all, they are Stride-Rite shoes for boys and girls, all with that comfortable fit for which Stride-Rite is known. Stride-Rite shoes come in more sizes and widths than any other children's shoes, and only trained shoe specialists do the fitting at Gilberts.

The new styles are really super, in luscious colors and leathers. "Neat", as your kids will say.

More about the field of children's shoes:
Gone are the days of the indispensable Oxford in staid black or brown. Children's shoes are walking and running in most unexpected new directions: molded soles, plantation crepe bottoms, jogger toes and heels, racing stripes, and a whole new world of "bottom" interest in specially imprinted soles.

What was once called the special purpose shoe now goes everywhere. Leathers shine in a rich range of colors. Even pre-school shoes reflect the new fashion trends. From tiny tots to older children, "fashion" is the key word.

Stride Rite shoes are styled in all the new fashion trends.

For the finest in juvenile shoes, for in-store orthopedic shoe service, for the latest in season fashions for the young set ... and even for boot and shoe repair, Gilberts invites and merits full consideration.

"Gilberts is the only juvenile shoe store between Dallas and Albuquerque that offers you a complete in-store orthopedic shoe service; in most instances prescriptions are filled in two or three hours!"

Let's introduce the staff at Gilberts Shoes ... both those who are trained and those others who are in the training program:

Lewis Gilbert is owner and has over 20 years experience and more than 50 hours training under orthopedic surgeons in the filling of your doctor's prescriptions.

Maburn Thompson is manager with over 30 years of fitting experience in juvenile and adult shoe needs, plus working with several orthopedic surgeons and pediatricians in the proper fit and type of shoe needed for difference prescriptions.

Polly Gilbert, co-owner, has with her husband been in the shoe business in Indiana Gardens for 20 years, and needless to say, has many years of fitting experience and training.

Also on the staff are Deanna Johnson, Jean Lingo, and Rhoda Howell.

"Although we have stressed orthopedic shoes and service, because we feel this is a very integral part of our business, Gilberts would like for you to think of us as a complete juvenile shoe store offering a complete selection of children's shoes and maintaining a complete repair department.

"For best in fitting and brands, you can rely on Gilberts Shoes in Indiana Gardens."

Texas Insulation Systems, Lockney, Affords ThermoCon Process, Products

"Know Texas Insulation Systems, Box 591, Lockney, Texas, phone 652-3348, and profit."

Specializing in ThermoCon spray-on and loose-fill for residential, commercial and industrial applications, Jerry Ulmer and staff are masters in their field. For full details see Ulmer at the lockney facility, write Box 591, Lockney, Tex. 79241, or call (806) 652-3348.

Spray-on ThermoCon affords temperature, sound and fire control in one application!

Because of its chemical content, it permanently bonds to steel, wood and masonry surfaces painted or not! It provides a strong color-stable environmental system that will not chip, shed, flake, dust or be subject to rot or fungi. ThermoCon is odorless and non-toxic.

Because it forms a monolithic seal, it can be used wherever temperature, sound or fire control is needed on ceilings or walls, exposed or unexposed. No lathing, undercoating or preparatory base is required!

Because of its workable fibrous texture, ThermoCon can expand and contract with your building without losing its hold. Its built-in flexibility makes it easy to cut, saw, mold, shape or paint.

Because of its application by pneumatic spray, it is much faster and more economical than conventional insulation, Ulmer emphasizes.

(ThermoCon, incidently, is a national company with dealers throughout the nation and in Canada.)

Appropriate buildings for this ThermoCon system include farm buildings, airplane hangars, industrial plants, warehouses, auditoriums, gyms, showrooms, markets, mobile homes, apartments, condominiums, office buildings, etc.

PRODUCTS, SERVICE TO APPRECIATE — Cruz Ramirez and service have been the rule throughout the big shop's history. He is shown with a display (only part of the large stock maintained) at his firm on West 19th Street where superior sales history.

Specials, New Items, Services Directing Attention To Cruz's

"Don't let the weather fool you... it is time to 'think of' and 'prepare for' beautiful lawns this summer!"
And Cruz's Bicycle & Lawnmower Repair Shop, at 4024 1/2 W. 19th St., not only is ready with a tremendous stock of related products, but its added services and current specials should help one get started.

Among the specials:
Springs for aerator mower blades, regular $1.50, but marked down to $1 at a time when they are most needed.
Cruz has eight 5-speed Vista 20-inch boys' bicycles, Model H40-5, that he is reducing from regular $109.95 to just $89.95!
And there are a number of Teel centrifugal pump specials involving 3, 5 and 8 hp units.
The Model 1P868, 1 1/2-inch, 3 hp, regularly retailing at $259.64, is marked down to $213.95.
And the Model 1P869, 2-in., regular $271.74, is reduced to $219.95.
Other models of these all-purpose quality Teel pumps are comparably reduced to sale prices.

Cruz has just about anything one could imagine to make lawn care and preparation both pleasant and efficient.

Name-Brand Mowers
There are Snapper gasoline mowers, 3 1/2 to 5 hp, and Roof brand push mowers, 3 1/2 to 5 hp, plus Jacobsen and Toro, too.
A few used mowers presently are stocked.
Mower repair is a specialty of the firm, and one is urged to bring these in now before the rush that always results in delay.

Accessories
Look at some other products at the big Cruz shop (where there is lots of off-street parking, just across from the Fox Theater): The Weed Eater line of trimmers-edgers is stocked, together with line for the tools. And electric cords, bags for any mower, lawn mower tires and wheels, Murry tillers, Poulan chain saws, Even stove pipe!

As for repairs, Cruz is equipped to repair garden hose, saving the customer a new purchase in many instances. And the firm is authorized sales and service dealer for Briggs & Stratton, Tecumseh and Kohler motors.

Tool Sharpening
All brands of mowers are repaired, and scissors and yard tool sharpening is another service.
Machine sharpening of mower blades is a specialty.
Mini-bike repairs and parts are available, as are bicycle wheels of all sizes, garden and yard hand tools, and more.

Cruz's Bicycle & Lawnmower Repair Shop, phone 795-4331, is open from 8AM until 6PM, Mondays through Saturdays.

Essentially a family operation, the firm is headed by Cruz P. Ramirez. He is a member of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and Better Business Bureau. For many years he has been named "Dealer of the Year" by Jacobsen.

Thoroughly Experienced
With more than 30 years experience, he came to Lubbock in 1964, working as a mechanic for some time at another firm, opening his own business at the present West 19th Street location several years ago.

He started out in the business of "serving the public" as a Western Auto employee in Midland more than a quarter century ago, and there he later owned his own shop for eight years. He is factory trained in both the mower and bicycle field, and continually keeps abreast of new models, products and service techniques as a factory mechanic.

Whether for any of the above quality products and services, or others including tires and tubes in all sizes for bikes, tubes for mini-bikes and go-karts, for machine sharpening of blades, for parts and accessories, Cruz has a wide selection, a wide following and the desire to serve. Phone 795-4331 or visit the 4204 1/2 W. 19th St. facility for full details about a particular product or service need.

Pharr Recreational Vehicles Enable New Fun, Convenience

"Do you envy those enjoying the fun and freedom that comes with ownership of a recreational vehicle (RV) that meets the needs and preferences of the owner?"
Then Pharr Trailer Sales should enter the picture!

Pharr Trailer Sales, 1702 Clovis Road, has a wide selection to offer at this time.
Whether the choice is from the Coachmen (No. 1 seller in the nation) mini-motor home, motor home, 5th wheel unit, travel trailers in all sizes, cab-over-campers or even pop-ups; the Apollo motor home or the prestigious Silver Streak travel trailer, value and new convenience and luxury is assured.

Pharr also is a service center, together with sales; it is a "first stop must" in reading one's present RV unit for a trouble-free trip ahead.
Harold Pharr calls special attention to the selection of parts and accessories stocked within the attractive showrooms. When planning a trip, or even when just completing one, a person could do well to check for needed accessories "while it is fresh on his or her mind", with Pharr most likely having the very item desired.
Pharr knows recreational units, and this modern Lubbock firm can help immeasurably in correct selection that will give pleasure for years to come. Ask the man who owns a Pharr unit.

Modern, Knowledgeable Service Sure at Harold Harvey Agency

"Is your insurance program up to date, meeting the needs of today and tomorrow?"

"Does your insurance fully serve the purpose of your personal preference?"

"Does it need review by a trusted and knowledgeable expert in the field?"

Then, turn to Harold Harvey, whether the need is for complete planning, for review, for mortgage cancellation life insurance or whatnot.

Harold Harvey's continuing efforts and subsequent successes in insurance service are matter of record.

For a fact, the Harold Harvey Agency (No. 5, Briercroft Office Park, phone 747-6673) can materially assist, professionally and correctly, in the insurance picture.

Harvey takes pride in representing companies with good records, and prompt payments can be (and should be) a big factor in choosing one's insurance agent. Harvey prides in promptness.

The Harold Harvey Agency calls to attention some other situations in which they can be of prime benefit:
"Re-evaluation of one's insurance makes good sense what with property values going up every day."

Harvey points out the value of an "inflation-guard endorsement" that annually increases the insurance coverage of the home. This endorsement can be put on an annual basis on current home-owners' policies at a cost far from prohibitive. It provides a realistic protection of values.

"Specializing in fire and casualty insurance, the Harold Harvey Agency can render services that can be rewarding for every client.

Among the key areas in which Harvey can render a special service is that of home owners mortgage cancellation life insurance, paying off the mortgage in full should the breadwinner die.

The complete homeowners and mortgage cancellation package can be placed through Harvey with one company for maximum convenience and efficiency — the Floyd West Co. organization with which Harvey has had close contact since back in 1959.

Harvey also is a specialist in bonds, whether the need is administrator, guardianship, various types of court bonds, etc.

Whatever the insurance or bond need, Harold Harvey can simplify the problem. It is as elemental and easy as that.

Package Policy
"A package policy" that affords a substantial decrease in premiums in one of the services made available at the Harold Harvey Insurance Agency!

Applicable to commercial interests including hotel-motel and office, institutional, apartment, mercantile, processing and industrial, the Multi-Peril "package plan" is now available in Texas, and Harold Harvey at No. 5 Briercroft Office Park, is eager to assist with this program in improving one's insurance situation.

In the complex world of insurance, it makes good sense to rely on Harold Harvey, a veteran in the field of "modern insurance practices with old-fashioned service."

Harvey is no newcomer to the insurance field or as a trusted friend and capable adviser to Lubbock and area policyholders.

"Visit or call Harold Harvey now. It could well improve your insurance picture."

Business & Industrial Review

DIFFERENCE CAN BE SEEN — H.T. Hughes (right) observes as staffmember Vicente Lara cleans a carpet with the Hydra-Master system. Hughes, at 1925 19th St., maintains a mobile unit for carpet cleaning that has numerous advantages as outlined in the accompanying report.

Hughes Cleaning Service Utilizing
Hydra-Master Carpet Cleaning System

"If we find a better way, we do it," is the promise and longtime rule at Hughes Cleaning Service, 1925 19th St., phone 762-2272.

And in no part of its wide scope of operation is this more evident than in carpet cleaning!

"With our Hydra-Master carpet cleaning system, you can see the difference!"

Power Cleaning

Hughes utilizes a Hydra-Master truck-mounted cleaning plant in its carpet cleaning operations.

The "power cleaning" by this system (patented mobile plant generating 10 to 20 times more cleaning power than conventional portable units operating from household current) is bound to perform best. Furthermore, all noise and heavy equipment remain outside, only the cleaning wand and vacuum hose enter one's home. Extracted dirt and soil are retained in the mobile unit, not dumped into your tub or toilet.

The Hydra-Master's unique Hydra-Flow cleaning wand restores new life to carpet, with matted and soiled fibers gently lifted, massaged and fluffed. The extraction method restores pile and speeds drying time.

More about the Hughes Cleaning Service devotion to excellence:

A water softener now is installed in the truck unit, assuring that anything cleaned by Hughes is cleaned with soft water.

Specializing in (1) carpet cleaning for residences of business, (2) upholstery cleaning, (3) residential and commercial window cleaning, (4) floor cleaning and waxing, and (5) cleaning and sealing of concrete floors, Hughes Cleaning Service at 1925 19th St., phone 762-2272, has an enviable reputation of performance.

After all, when a firm works with a combination of right equipment and know-how of its every staffmember, dedication of this personnel to satisfying the customer with a job done right, and a long history of service (Hughes has been in the business all his life!), the end results simply must satisfy.

Best recommendation for Hughes and its services, is a fact of which the firm is justifiably proud:

"We enjoy a most heartwarming repeat business; people seem glad to see us back, season after season."

Isn't this the type business to which you wish to entrust your carpet and other cleaning needs?

Leaseway-Southwest Services Seen Advantageous To Region

Leaseway-Southwest, at 409 E. 50th St., in Lubbock, offers a complete transportation service to busy companies that simply cannot devote the time, space or money required to own and maintain a fleet of vehicles, or in some instances, just one or two units. This progressive leasing firm provides transportation vehicles to serve any size or type business.

Full Service

"Corporations as well as small operators find that full-service transportation package is more efficient from every standpoint."

"Full service" as provided by Leaseway-Southwest Transportation Corp., is exactly what the name implies. The firm provides the maintenance and inspection and even supplies the fuel and pays the taxes on the vehicle!

Personnel there are most adept, serving in a professional but considerate and friendly manner to meet the particular transportation needs of every customer.

"We'd like to count you, too, among our customers."

Upgrading and additions to its stock is a continuous operation at Leaseway-Southwest.

Leaseway-Southwest's understanding of the short-term, peak and long-term needs of area industry and business is well recognized, contributing to its own growth, too.

Half-a-hundred Lubbock businesses (and even more) depend on Leaseway-Southwest for transportation vehicle needs.

There must be a very good reason.

In Tune With Times

Keeping abreast with the needs of the area is one of the convincing reasons. Leaseway-Southwest continually adds new equipment for rental and for full-time customers of this service-oriented firm.

"Utilization of leased vehicles is the growing trend in transportation management" it is emphasized by Ken Wright, president.

JEANIE LEWIS RETURNS FOR WORKSHOPS

Jeanie Lewis, Others Slating Early Instruction At Mrs. B's

A new schedule in exciting workshops, seminars and classes is beginning at Mrs. B's Arts, Crafts & Gifts, 5105 29th Drive, phone 797-5850, in Lubbock.

Early inquiry and registration is advised as all sessions are limited in number of student spaces.

Jeanie Lewis, is returning in this her fifth schedule at Mrs. B's, with oil instruction arranged for both beginners and intermediates.

Beginners classes start Feb. 27, continuing through March 3.

Intermediate workshops will be conducted by Jeanie March 6 through March 10, with both day and evening sessions arranged.

Flexible Program

In these workshops one can participate all five days, or just for one day, or in between, according to preference. One painting per day is completed, and one can opt for time and length of instruction.

Advance registration is necessary, of course.

Jeanie Lewis' main media is oil, though she also works in acrylics. Her landscapes are exceptionally realistic, and her florals are impressionistic, loose and free.

Born in Lubbock in 1950, Jeanie now resides in Houston and her paintings are widely exhibited and sought after.

Other Great Classes

Tole painting classes will begin March 13th at Mrs. B's, with instruction by two capable and popular teachers, Charl Egeland and Sarah Storrs.

Jo Daugherty, another artist hardly needing introduction here, will teach mini-oils on Thursday nights.

Fabric Painting

Then, fabric painting utilizing Delta Dyes, will be taught by Charl Egeland. Schedules and details on all these opportunities are gladly available from Mrs. B's, but early inquiry is wisely advised.

Supplies for all instruction courses are available at the shop.

A new shipment of most, most interesting and beautiful picture frames has been received, and of course there is ample supply of stretched canvas, oils, etc.

A large selection of wood, in unusual and popular patterns, is stocked for the tole painter.

And plaster, there is scads of this in many designs.

Weekly there are new arrivals throughout the diversified stock, and frequent visits are invited to stay abreast of all that's new.

Mrs. B's, under the ownership and active management of Margie Berryhill, occupies a striking, well-designed and easily found home at 5105 29th Drive (on the cutoff between Brownfield Highway and Slide Road).

Everything is designed for efficiency and ease in shopping and studying. Everything says "we're glad you are among our friends and customers."

So, let owner Margie Berryhill and her daughter, Stacy, and the highly qualified instructors personally express their greetings to you at Mrs. B's.

Remember, projects by the scores can originate and develop to completion at Mrs. B's. For shopping satisfaction, pleasure in browsing and selection, and for learning from "pros", this shop is heartily recommended.

Plainview's Westridge Manor Said 'Most Unique Within Area'

Not a nursing home . . . and not an apartment complex but an "in-between" service, that is Westridge Manor in Plainview.

"Yes, most emphatically, you can enjoy the privacy of 'at home' living with the security of a protected environment, at Westridge Manor, West Texas' most exclusive and unique retirement living facility, at 4304 West 2nd St., Westridge Park, Plainview (west of the Coca Cola plant on Interstate 27)."

At this "different" retirement home, the residents live in casual elegance as explained by owner Joe Turner, where they receive no regimentation, no institutionalism and no commercialism.

Designed to be nice enough for his own mother, Turner planned Westridge Manor "for anybody's mom and dad."

One simply cannot understand the difference that is Westridge Manor without a personal visit (which is invited) but the following thumbnail sketch of pertinent features is bound to hint of the special type facility that has been provided.

There is no buy-in, no deposit, just monthly rent.

Westridge Manor is for retired ladies and gentlemen who may need minimum assistance.

High-quality home-style living is enabled at minimal cost.

There is the privacy of one's own living quarters.

Residents may use their own furniture if preferred.

Many Services Included

The following services are included at no extra charge to the Manor's residents:

Maid service on a regular basis;

Meals prepared in a home-style manner, with special diets observed.

Mail service to one's room if desired.

Pick-up and delivery of pharmaceuticals, dry cleaning, flowers, etc.

Even van service to church, local activities, doctor, hospital, beauty and barber shops, shopping, etc.!

Other services, provided at a slight additional charge, include telephone in one's own room, cable TV, and more.

Further Benefits Cited

Special features due for consideration include:

Large, private rooms, with private bath.

Full-time live-in manager-nurse.

Laundry room for personal items.

A concessions room with beverages available.

Basement for storage and weather protection.

Formal living and dining rooms.

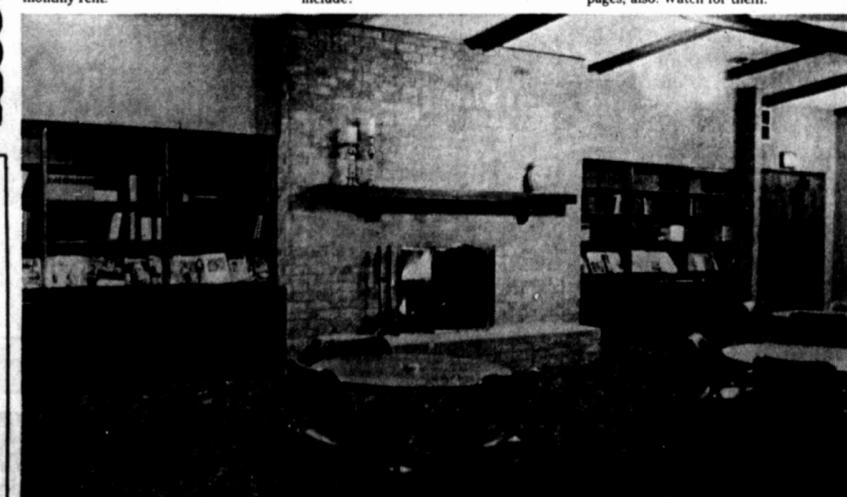

Activities room for Bible classes and leisure activities; water-type vacuum cleaner to eliminate dust and pollen;

Arts and crafts room with activities director present at specified times;

Two day rooms and sun rooms;

Steel doors, alarm system and smoke alarm for the residents' protection!

"So . . . if you are weary of maintaining homes — from the air conditioner to the insurance; if weary of driving and of car maintenance, but desiring to be mobile on a local scale without bother to children or other loved ones, then it is time to consider Westridge Manor in Plainview. Call or visit for full details; further stories regarding this 'different' home will be carried on these B & I pages, also. Watch for them."

TASTEFULLY APPOINTED ACTIVITIES ROOM — An extra large activities room is one of the purposely planned plus factors at Westridge Manor where casual elegance is provided in retirement living.

AMONG VOLUNTEERS — Delivery time for the Meals on Wheels program is a busy time around the Horace Mitchell Restaurant five days every week when scores of volunteers pick up the prepared hot meals to deliver throughout the city. Mitchell in the accompanying story salutes the program, its management, volunteer workers and supporters.

Lubbock's Meals On Wheels Comes In For Special Salute

"A special salute to Lubbock's Meals on Wheels from the Horace Mitchell Restaurant, 4433 34th St.!"

"It has been our distinct pleasure and privilege to prepare hot nutritional meals for Lubbock Meals on Wheels, Inc., for 6 1/2 years, and we want to call attention here to the (1) dedicated leadership of that organization, (2) to the volunteer workers without whom the program could not be pursued, and (3) to those whose contributions further aid this vital program."

Purpose of Meals on Wheels, explains Mary Williams, coordinator at the 2161 50th Street offices, is to prepare and deliver one hot meal once a day, five days a week, to elderly disabled or those otherwise unable to prepare their meals.

Volunteers Appreciated
Presently 195 persons are receiving meals through the program, with about 150 volunteers making the deliveries.

"We could use 160 volunteers in all," the director relates, "with a person needing only to deliver once a week. We have 16 routes over all the city, and volunteers most usually go in pairs to make the deliveries. Anyone interested can get further information by calling us at 765-8310."

What an opportunity for service!
Diets Honored
About 45 per cent of all people served are on special diets, it is explained, with each subscriber getting the diet prescribed by the doctor.

Lubbock's Meals on Wheels, Inc., has been in operation since April 1, 1971, and functions by means of Title 20 funds from the Texas Department of Human Resources and by donations.

Four full-time staffers administer the program.

Not only are nutritional meals involved, but there are transportation duties, etc.

A typical meal (diet controlled) includes a good variety of meat such as chicken, fish, ham, steak, chops, etc., two vegetables, hot roll, cornbread, milk and dessert, delivered in aluminum cartons hot, with everything identified. Each packet is marked with a ticket that gives address of the subscriber, how to get there, and the diet type.

All this is only a hint of the scope of Meals on Wheels activity and service. It is said to be one of the most worthwhile and best organized programs in the city, meriting and receiving much public support, in both finances and volunteer aid.

The Horace Mitchell Restaurant, providing the meals at a minimum cost, is glad to have a part.

Winter's Weather Focuses Attention To Overhead Automatic Door Benefits

"Did the bad weather find you enjoying the convenience of an automatic overhead door installation for your garage?"

"Or have you envied your neighbor who with such facilities was spared exposure to snow and sleet, avoided walking on slick driveways to open or shut the garage door, and who could drive into a well-lighted garage at any hour of the night, enjoying both convenience and security?"

Let Overhead Door Co., 50th Street at Frankford Avenue (just off the Brownfield Highway near the Loop), phone 797-4141, come to your rescue!

Convenience, safety and protection — this is the whole story of automatic overhead doors from Overhead Door Co. of Lubbock.

Serving with the same fine products and desire to please, traditional with the firm for over 20 years, the Overhead Door Company of Lubbock is in relatively new location and in large, modern quarters.

For those who looked to the Overhead Door Company of Lubbock for years at its former 5283 34th St. location, the present location and expansion can be especially appreciated. The new facility is much larger than the former home, with greater storage, and even parking, to give the maximum of customer service.

So... what better time is there to visit Overhead Door Co., to arrange for an automatic overhead door for the family's benefit now and for seasons to come, upgrading a present home or in building a new one.

"Give your home distinction and new convenience at low cost. Give your family the Overhead Door electric opener from Overhead Door Co. of Lubbock."

Auto-Mate 80
Special attention is called to the Auto-Mate 80, the ultimate garage door opener with all the features one would expect, and more.

Security and convenience are synonymous with the Auto-Mate 80. The simple touch of a button on the remote transmitter is all it takes to open, close and lock the garage door. Added security is as automatic as the door itself since when down, the door is securely locked.

A powerful 1/3 h.p. motor, operating on standard 115 V household current, provides smooth, quiet, dependable and positive operation of the door.

Complete Operation Safety
An instant reversing mechanism insures complete safety should the closing door encounter an obstacle. Should a power failure occur, a spring-loaded quick disconnect instantly converts the door to manual operation and is simply reconnected by hand.

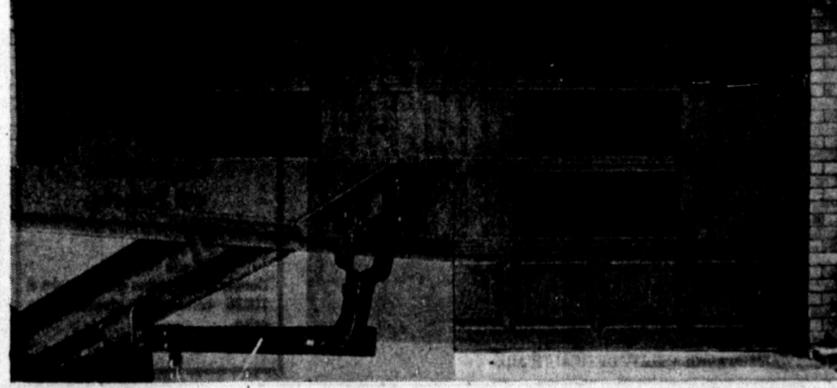

This heavy duty, UL-approved operator can handle sectional or one-piece doors up to 18" by 8" or two single car doors hooked up tandem.

Automatic Doors represent a wise gesture by the head of the family. With these doors, the wife can open the garage, enter and lock it without leaving her vehicle — quite a convenience benefit in inclement weather (wind, rain, dust, snow), and a definite safety factor on dark nights.

Free Estimates
The Overhead Door Company of Lubbock is glad to demonstrate how simple it is to enjoy these benefits. Call for free estimate.

Overhead doors are available and recommended, also, for commercial and industrial buildings.

Whether selection is from a steel, wood or fiberglass overhead door, Tim Hatch at Overhead Door Co. assures the very best value in installation and sales, resulting in lasting satisfaction.

MODERN AND AVAILABLE — Shown is a Lubbock installation of an overhead automatic door (note its attractiveness) and the acclaimed Auto-Mate garage door opener that can be "a lift in your own situation," thanks to Overhead Door Co.

WASHINGTON BIRTHDAY SALE

ACCELERATED SELECTION — Woolco staffmember B.H. Faulkner calls attention to the new stock arriving within Woolco's Garden Shop where growing things, tools and accessories are stocked for area needs.

Woolco Garden Shop Heralds Activity

Invitation is extended to get into the spring mood . . . away from winter's rigors . . . by a visit to Woolco's garden shop where a large selection of fresh indoor plants vies with other "growing things" and all the finest yard and garden tools and accessories for proper attention at this season. Just in is a large selection of healthy indoor plants. Also noted in the garden shop is a variety of perennials and bulbs, grapes, berries, callas, phlox, day lilies, iris roses and flowering shrubs! And more!

"Don't forget to browse through our outside section where our packaged trees and shrubs are located."

Drug Stock Includes Cold Remedies

"Isn't it great at this season of the year to have such a supply source as the well-stocked drug department at Woolco, with its cold remedies among the merchandise items presented at low Woolco prices?"

"There are tablets and capsule types of cold remedies, regular and time-release aspirin, buffered aspirin, Metaminophen for those who can't take aspirin and time-released cold capsules."

Liquids, too, come in for attention, with night-time and daytime liquid cold medicines containing decongestants, antihistamines, etc.

Many popular brands of nasal sprays are stocked.

Cough Syrups
And cough syrups and lozenges, in both adult and children strengths, a wide variety of lozenges for coughs and sore throats, too.

Engine is transverse-mounted 104.7 CID 1.7L 4-cylinder overhead cam power plant with Electronic Lean Burn, 4-wheel drive. Exceptional front and rear seat head and leg room for four passengers. 4 doors plus hatchback to luggage compartment. Full bucket seats in front are standard, individually adjustable.

The front wheels both steer and drive, with the weight of the engine over the front wheels, you get good traction, good handling, good control, good stability.

There's ample suspension travel to absorb bumps, rubber bushings to cushion them, coil springs to soak up road shocks. An anti-sway bar in the front suspension.

King Of The Road

WHEN THE DALLAS COWBOYS defeated Denver in the Super Bowl Jan. 15, all the 'Poke players started a six-month vacation. Nothing to do but sleep, eat and make merry. Right?

Wrong. Most of them haven't had enough leisure time to answer their mail, much less loll in the sun. For some, the pace has been more hectic than the regular grid season.

Cliff Harris, for example, is suffering from jet lag and battle fatigue. He flew back to Dallas with the team after Super Bowl XII, then flew out again a few hours later, along with a half-dozen other Cowboy stars, for the Pro Bowl at Tampa. As soon as the National Conference had defeated the hated AFC, Cliff headed for Bermuda and the Superstars competition.

Cliff was at a definite disadvantage in Superstars, coming off two big football games, but he surprised a lot of folks with his speed in the 100-yard dash. He pushed a pair of grass-burning halfbacks, Greg Pruitt and Walter Payton, to the wire in both the prelim and main event.

"I could have done a lot better with a few days off between the Pro Bowl and Superstars," Cliff remarked. "My legs were pretty dead, and I didn't have a chance to work on any of the other events like swimming or bicycling. But it was a lot of fun."

tongue in cheek. "We won the first three events, then let them win the next three. That gave the promoters their money's worth."

The Cowboys followed the same game plan in the finale against the Royals, but the baseball guys were tough enough to share the title and the prize money.

"We took the first three events again," Harris said a bit ruefully, "then they took the next three. So that brought it down to the tug-of-war. Because of the size of our guys, we could only get seven men under the weight limit. But eight of those baseball players squeezed in under the limit. If you know anything about tug-of-war, those two extra legs are very important."

So the Cowboys and the Royals grunted, sweated and strained for an hour and 15 minutes under that broiling Hawaiian sun before somebody mercifully called it a draw. Some of the contestants had to be lifted from the sand.

"It was murder," Harris sighed. "I thought I was going to die."

THE SUPERTEAMS COMPETITION was not without its lighter moments, however. Ralph Neely, the Cowboy offensive tackle who is retiring after 13 seasons, provided onlookers with a lot of laughs. He didn't do much to help the 'Pokes, though.

In the swimming event, big Ralph tried to get fancy and do a racing turn instead of just shoving off the wall. He flipped the wrong way, swallowed a lot of water and nearly drowned. It was a scream.

Then in the war canoe race, Ralph used his seniority to get the crucial job of steering the craft. Poor ol' Ralph lost his balance in a turn and fell into the water, letting the boat run amok.

"It was hard to tell whose side Ralph was on," Cliff grinned.

CLIFF LEFT HONOLULU Thursday evening in 80-degree weather and with flowers around his neck. He arrived at the Dallas-Fort Worth airport early Friday and got snow in his ears. It was 17 degrees and his plane was the last allowed to land in the near-blizzard.

"I almost turned around and went back to Hawaii," Cliff shuddered. "I got instant bronchitis from the sudden change."

But there was no time to recuperate, because the All-Pro safetyman was due in Arkansas the next day to appear at a charity event. The birds were not flying, so Harris decided to drive it rather than disappoint the people. Warnings were out, but Cliff laughed it off.

"It will be a challenge," he smiled. That's the way the entire off-season has been for Harris. A challenge.

NCAA May Resume Active USOC Role

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association is close to rejoining the U.S. Olympic Committee, more than five years after it withdrew in disagreement over the way the committee was being run.

"The signs are positive toward a resumption of the NCAA in an active role within the USOC," said Charles Neinas, former chairman of the NCAA's international relations committee.

The USOC Executive Board met in Chicago over the weekend and voted unanimously to back a revised athletes' bill of rights supported by the NCAA, apparently clearing the way for reaffiliation.

If the NCAA makes a formal bid for reaffiliation, the USOC House of Delegates would vote on it at its meeting April 14 in Florida, said USOC communications director Bob Paul.

USOC Executive Director Don Miller said the Board of Delegates probably would vote to readmit the NCAA.

"It's an injustice to our athletes and our country to have several organizations going separate ways," Miller said.

"I think it would bring into the Olympic Committee one of the major organizations representing a very important segment of amateur athletics," said Neinas, who resigned as committee chairman in December to become chairman of the games committee for men of the Amateur Basketball Association of the United States.

"I think the main reason we got out was we felt the coaches and athletes were being short-shifted as a result of many of the things that went on in the USOC," he said Sunday night.

The NCAA withdrew in October 1972. Neinas said a key development in its move back was the work of a commission on Olympic sports set up by former President Ford which made recommenda-

Morgan LA Champ

LOS ANGELES (AP) — As a student optometrist, Gil Morgan studied the eye charts. As a golfer, he says he doesn't even look at them.

But his vision was good enough to see that Jack Nicklaus had shot a double bogey on the 15th hole and a bogey on the 16th in the $200,000 Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open tournament.

Dr. Morgan readily admits that as an eye doctor he couldn't make the $40,000 he collected Sunday for winning the tournament and he figures to keep playing golf until he is 40 "or until I'm not competitive."

The doctor, who went into golf instead of optometry although he is licensed in both his home state of Oklahoma and in Florida, never trailed at the end of a round over the par 71, 7,029-yard Riviera Country Club course. He led the first two rounds and was tied with Nicklaus at the end of the third round.

"I didn't look at the scoreboards," he said after winning with a final round 70 and a 278 total. "I play a course, not an individual. I heard the ... crowd and figured Jack had made a bogey at 15. I was shocked when I got to the 17th green and saw what he shot. I expected to come to the last hole one shot behind or even."

As it was, Nicklaus finished with a 72 and 280 total, and Morgan had posted the second victory of his PGA career even though "I was nervous driving on the 18th and didn't shoot well and took a bogey."

As a crowd of 32,000 watched under sunny skies, just the first three finishers were under par. Forrest Fezler shot a final round 68 for 283 and third place.

Morgan's wife, Jeanine, said she would rather be married to a golfer at this time than an optometrist.

"This is what he wants to do, so this is what I want him to do," she said. "I go to nearly every tournament with him and follow him on every round. He may not see me, but he knows that I am there."

Asked if her husband's normal life was better than being home with an eye doctor who had a 9-to-5 schedule, Mrs. Morgan said, "Yes, at this time it is."

"It was strange to see that Nicklaus had shot bad," Morgan said. "I never expected it."

The golfers, having ended their sojourn in California, Arizona and Hawaii, now head for Florida and the $250,000 Jackie Gleason-Inverrary Classic at Lauderdale where Nicklaus is defending champion.

Nicklaus was doing well until the 15th hole. Then his second shot went into to crowd at the left of the green. He chipped short of the green, then to five feet of the hole. He missed that putt and it was a duffer's double bogey. On the next hole, a par three, he hit into a sand trap and there was a bogey.

That's what opened the eyes of the optometrist.

O'Brien-Kuhn

ARLINGTON (AP) — Baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn was "unjust and unreasonable" in declaring the Texas Rangers guilty of tampering with former Minnesota outfielder Larry Hisle, club general manager Dan O'Brien says.

O'Brien, whose remarks at a press luncheon last September apparently started Kuhn looking into the Rangers' alleged tampering with Hisle, said he will pay the fine out of his own pocket.

"I'm going to pay it. I don't know how and I do know it will take me at least five years, but I'll pay it," O'Brien said.

"If the commissioner is fining the team that kind of money for something I said, then the club shouldn't be held responsible. I thought the fine was steep, very steep," he added.

O'Brien was asked last fall if the Rangers would be interested in signing Hisle, who was playing out his option. O'Brien replied that Texas would, indeed, like to have the man who was leading the American League in RBIs in the lineup.

"If I know the people who run this team, I wouldn't be surprised if he (Hisle) were playing outfield for the Rangers next year," O'Brien said, adding a joking aside that money would be no problem because the Rangers would "ink up the presses."

After the remarks were reported nationally, Minnesota complained the Rangers were hampering their efforts to sign Hisle, who eventually inked a contract with the Milwaukee Brewers.

"What was I supposed to say, that we didn't want Hisle, that he can't play?" O'Brien said.

"I think the decision was unjust and unreasonable. How many times have you seen in the press across the country where club representatives and even players talked about where they'd like to play? I guess it's okay for players to tamper with the clubs."

After holding a hearing in Dallas to look into the Hisle situation, Kuhn announced that he had found O'Brien guilty, but that there were other matters he wanted to look into. Shortly before the re-entry draft in November, Ranger owner Brad Corbett said Kuhn had threatened more severe punishment if the Rangers drafted Hisle.

Corbett, on the advice of his attorneys, said he couldn't comment on either Kuhn's action of last week or O'Brien's offer to pay the fine.

"We're analyzing our position," he said.

The TIAA tournament is similar to the Southwest Conference tournament, where the regular season champion is seeded into the final game. The tournament winner advances into the playoffs, if any. This year, there is no guarantee the TIAA champion will receive a playoff bid, even though the conference voted to affiliate with the NAIA.

SLC Race

By The Associated Press

All the drama in the Southland Conference basketball race will come down to the final weekend.

Southwestern Louisiana jumped into the picture with a 97-84 victory over McNeese State Saturday. Lamar University is 5-1 in league play while both USL and McNeese State are 4-2. Lamar downed Arkansas State 39-34 to retain a one-game lead.

With the loss, ASU fell to 2-4 and into a fourth-place tie with Texas-Arlington, which avenged an earlier defeat by ripping Louisiana Tech (1-5) by a 74-69 count. With just four games remaining on the SLC slate, Lamar must visit both USL and McNeese State and depart with wins if it hopes to unseat defending champion Southwestern Louisiana.

Two weeks remain in the season. The first of those two important road dates for Lamar comes Saturday, when the Cardinals visit USL. Earlier, Lamar handed the Cajuns their worst defeat of the season, 110-80, at Beaumont, Texas. Two days later, the Cards play McNeese State at Lake Charles before returning home.

Jackets Top LSC

By The Associated Press

If Howard Payne whips Sam Houston tonight, it will give the Yellow Jackets a ticket to the NAIA District 4 basketball playoffs.

HPU downed Texas A&I 66-61, East Texas 58-48, and S.F. Austin 76-48 last week to build their LSC record to 10-3 and their overall mark to 19-8.

The fourth LSC Tournament which starts Sunday in Brownwood will determine the champion and a top playoff position.

HPU is actually tied with Southwest Texas State (10-3, 19-8), but the Bobcats are ineligible for the title. SWT beat Abilene Christian Saturday 86-71.

In other games tonight, Texas A&I is at Abilene Christian and S.F. Austin is at East Texas. Angelo State is at Abilene Christian Thursday to put a wrap on the regular season.

Forward James Hall led HPU's wins over East Texas and SFA with 24 and 32 point performances. James Patrick led SWT's win over Abilene Christian with 26 points as the Bobcats won their sixth in a row. SWT has won those six by a margin of 20.3 points a game.

In San Angelo tonight, Ram coach Phil George will make his final home appearance. George, who has coached ASU for 22 years, will retire after Thursday's game against ACU in Abilene.

TIAA Chase

By The Associated Press

Trinity's Tigers have gained a bye into the finals of the Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association Conference basketball tournament to be held at Austin College, Sherman, today and Tuesday.

The Tigers and Sul Ross Lobos wound up the regular season tied for the conference regular season championship with identical 5-3 records, and Trinity won a coin toss to advance to the tournament finals. The Lobos must play through the single-elimination tournament bracket to gain the finals.

McMurry and tournament host Austin also wound up with identical TIAA records (4-4) and will meet in the first round of the tournament tonight. Sul Ross plays Tarleton in the first round. Tarleton wound up with a 3-6 record after upsetting McMurry 55-53 Friday night

UTEP-New Mexico

By The Associated Press

Texas-El Paso's young Miners bottled up Western Athletic Conference leader New Mexico and held the Lobos to their lowest offensive effort of the season, 56 shots, before falling 59-51 in league basketball play.

New Mexico Coach Norm Ellenberger attributed the Lobos' victory Saturday night to being "a little bit older and more mature and playing at home."

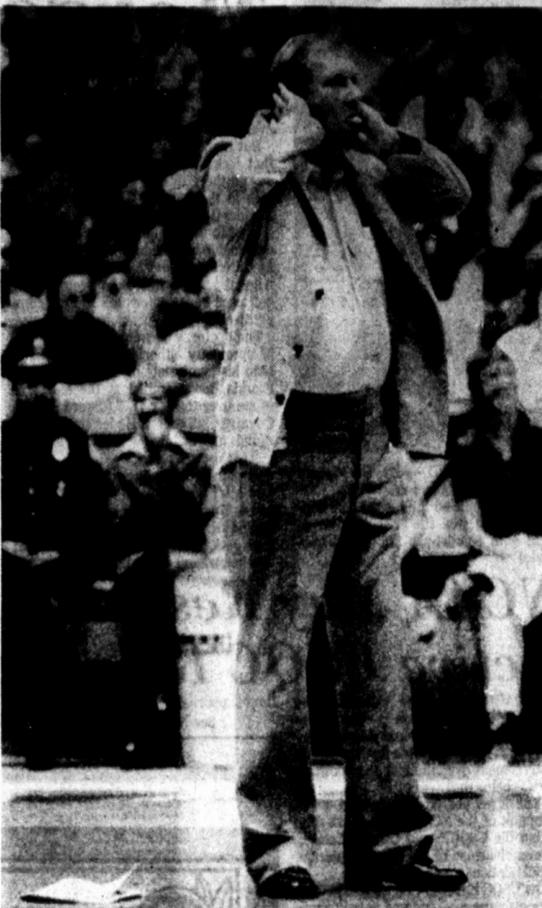

UTEP coach Don Haskins, with four freshman starters, opened with a zone defense. "I was going to switch to a man right away," Haskins said. "But we were doing so well I had to stay with it (the zone)."

Ellenberger said Haskins' "game plan was a dandy. They played a beautiful basketball game. They kept us from flowing. They kept us from getting momentum."

Phil Abney led Lobo scoring with 18 points. UTEP freshman Anthony Burns was game high with 22 points and top rebounder with 10.

New Mexico remains in the WAC lead with a 10-0 league record. UTEP is in the cellar at 1-9.

ONE MAN'S OPINION — Texas-El Paso coach Don Haskins sticks his tongue out at an official during Saturday's 59-51 WAC loss to No. 5-ranked New Mexico. Haskins' actions brought a wave of boos from the Albuquerque crowd of 18,116, prompting him to cover his ears. He was also assessed a technical foul for his demonstration in the middle of the court. Lemons Now Likes SWC Tie-Breaking Formula

By The Associated Press

The Southwest Conference basketball race is so jumbled that after 15 games of the league campaign the only thing decided is that Southern Methodist will play at Baylor in the first round of the post-season tournament Saturday.

Texas, the No. 12 ranked team in the country, can claim a bye to the championship game March 4 by defeating SMU Tuesday night in Austin. This would come about through the SWC's eye-crossing tie-breaker formula.

Should No. 1 ranked Arkansas defeat Texas Tech in Fayetteville Tuesday night then both the Razorbacks and Longhorns would finish the regular season at 14-2. They split in head-on meetings.

However, Arkansas' 84-75 loss to Houston Saturday was a biggie. Texas had previously lost to Baylor. Houston will finish in at least a tie for third place. Baylor is fifth. Because Arkansas lost to a team finishing higher in the SWC standings, the Hogs will have to go through the tournament grid if Texas doesn't fall flat against SMU.

The tournament is so constructed that the No. 2 team hosts No. 9, No. 3 hosts No. 8, No. 4 hosts No. 7, and No. 5 hosts

No. 6. Currently, TCU and Rice are tied for last place. Texas A&M will finish seventh behind SMU. Coin flips will be used to break ties in the other positions.

Houston is 11-5 and will be idle Tuesday night. Tech at 10-5 needs a victory to tie the Cougars. If Tech loses, then the Red Raiders will host Texas A&M in a first round game Saturday.

It sounds rather confusing—and it is.

"I believe we need some help... that 'bye' thing is so complicated everybody is confused," said Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton. "The likelihood that we will have to fight our way through the tournament is not a pleasant one."

Texas ripped Texas Tech 87-63 Saturday night to delight Longhorn Coach Abe Lemons, who along with Sutton has criticized the SWC's tie-breaking procedure.

"I like the bye now," Lemons said with a straight face. "The thing I like best about it is it just might give me some time off."

After first round games Saturday, the four survivors travel to Houston for games March 2 and 3. The winner meets the regular season SWC champion March 4.

Marquette Ready For 'Hot' Seat

By The Associated Press

Everybody wants to get into the act, and the way the college basketball season is going, eventually most everybody will be in it before it's over.

So far this season, the No. 1 ranking has been the property of three teams — North Carolina, Kentucky and Arkansas — and figures to be held by a fourth as a result of what happened over the weekend.

Now it's Marquette's turn to sit in the hot seat, it would seem.

"There's no doubt we should be No. 1 now," said Marquette Coach Hank Raymond following a 57-45 victory over Cincinnati Saturday night.

The victory by the second-ranked Warriors was almost certain to promote them into first place over Arkansas this week. The Razorbacks, top-ranked for only a week, were beaten 84-75 by Houston as upsets continued to underscore this zany college basketball season.

Three other Top Twenty members were beaten by unranked teams over the weekend. Notre Dame, No. 7, lost 65-60 to South Carolina and No. 15 Illinois State was beaten by Athletes in Action 100-97 in overtime Saturday.

Sunday, Minnesota upset ninth-ranked Louisville 72-71. The loss was the third straight for Louisville in a week.

"It's certainly no disgrace to lose on the road to a team like Minnesota," said Louisville Coach Denny Crum. "This was our fourth straight game on the road and we were tired... I thought both teams played well, though."

In another game Sunday involving a

Top Twenty team, No. 13 Providence beat Boston College 92-74.

In Saturday's other big games, No. 3 Kentucky edged Mississippi State 58-56; fourth-ranked UCLA blasted Washington 104-64; fifth-ranked New Mexico defeated Texas-El Paso 59-51; sixth-ranked Kansas trimmed Nebraska 75-70; eighth-ranked DePaul defeated Loyola of Chicago 73-63, and 10th-ranked Michigan State trimmed Ohio State 79-74.

Also, No. 11 North Carolina beat No. 17 Virginia 71-54; No. 12 Texas whipped Texas Tech 78-63; Providence downed Campbell College, N.C., 63-54; No. 16 Syracuse stopped St. John's 77-65; No. 18 Georgetown walloped St. Peter's, N.J., 55-38; No. 19 Detroit hammered Canisius 124-89, and No. 20 Duke beat Maryland 81-70.

Jerome Whitehead and Bernard Toone each scored 14 points in leading Marquette over Cincinnati. The Warriors weren't able to pull away to their sixth straight victory, and 21st in 23 games, until the closing minutes.

Butch Lee, the Warriors' standout backcourtman who led them to the national championship last season, was held to eight points but was not the least bit frustrated by his sub-par performance.

"It's a compliment that they think if they cut me off, they can stop the best team in the country," Lee said.

South Carolina upset Notre Dame with the help of clutch free throws by Kevin Dunleavy and sophomore Kenny Reynolds in the closing seconds. Dunleavy's two free throws with 13 seconds remaining were his only points of the game, but gave the Gamecocks a 63-60 lead. Two more free throws by Reynolds with five seconds left clinched the victory.

"You've got to give credit to Frank (McGuire) and his kids today," said Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps. "They played the entire game with great intensity and I felt the key was their work on the boards. We didn't shoot well, but credit their defense. I was disappointed that we didn't play with the intensity it takes to win on the road against a team like Carolina."

Brad Hoffman's 26 points and 19 by Ervin Kiffin led Athletes in Action over Illinois State. Reserve guard Bill Harmon scored all five of his points in the last three minutes, sparking Minnesota past Louisville. Harmon's points helped Minnesota gain a 70-68 lead, then the Gophers secured the victory on Kevin McHale's stiff shot.

The victory was the Gophers' 12th in their last 13 games, a dramatic turnaround brought about mainly by the return of center Mychal Thompson.

"We did a better job of keeping the ball out of their hands in the second half," said Crum. "But I think Thompson is great and Minnesota is an outstanding team."

Stacy, Three More Share LPGA Lead

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Four women were locked in first place with two-under-par 142s today as golfers teed off for the final round of the 25th Orange Blossom Classic.

The leaders in the Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament were Hollis Stacy, reigning U.S. Women's Open champion; four veteran Jane Blalock, 24-year-old Debbie Meisterlin, and Sandra Spuzich, another champion of the Women's Open, the only LPGA event older than the $60,000 Orange Blossom.

Misses Stacy, Blalock and Meisterlin had 71-71—142 totals on the 6,348-yard Pasadena Golf Club after Sunday's round. Miss Spuzich had a second-round 72 to add to her opening 70.

Sandra Post was alone a stroke behind the leaders with a 70-73—143.

Pat Bradley, 26, of Westford, Mass., was even with the leaders at the 18th hole, but double-bogeyed after her tee shot found the water. She tied with Debbie Austin and Shelly Hamlin at even-par 144.

First-round leader Bettu Burfeindt fell to a 76 and joined five other golfers at 145.

Sunday's low round was the 69 carded

by Laura Baugh, JoAnne Carner and Penny Pulz.

Rain cancelled Saturday's round backing up the tournament's final round to today.

Will Czar Cure Pro Net Woes?

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent

Bill Talbert, the tennis player, wonders why athletes, especially in tennis, can't be nice guys the way they are in golf.

Why so much anger in what is supposed to be just a game? Why the brawling and bickering? Why the arrogance and the nastiness?

"Tennis players are acting up pretty badly," the former Davis Cup captain acknowledged, "but they don't have a monopoly on reprehensible deportment."

"A major league baseball player socks his manager. A pro basketball player crushes a rival's jaw with one punch and puts him out of action for the season."

Hockey players are high-sticking it all the time. A pro football player throws a vicious punch to another guy's gut in full view of millions on TV.

"It's the modern generation. The money. The pressure. But don't golfers have the same big money pressures? Don't they have emotions, too? While it isn't a contact sport, how has golf escaped blow-ups so increasingly common in other sports?"

"I think the answer lies in leadership. What tennis needs is strong administration. It is being allowed to run amok with no governing hand. Tennis needs a czar."

threatened with fines totaling $13,000 for assorted abuses of the crowd and officials. The list of offenses read like the overnight booking sheet at the 13th Pre-cinct Headquarters.

"We are taking steps to solve many of our problems," said Bob Briner, chairman of the Men's Pro International Tennis Council. "One aim is to set up a corps of elite officials to be trained and paid for out of tournament expenses - just as they do in baseball and football. The other is to institute a system of immediate discipline."

"The Council is supposed to be tennis' club. It is made up of three player representatives plus three tournament representatives and three who speak for the national bodies. Briner, with wide experience in pro sports administration, is the chairman. It won't act on the Richmond cases until early April in Monte Carlo.

The Council governs the 92 tournaments of the Grand Prix circuit - the bulk of the pro game. Its power is diluted somewhat because it is not fully accepted by the International Tennis Federation, the so-called but ineffective world governing body.

"Our feeling is that the ITF has a diminishing role in conduct of pro tennis," Briner said. "They consider Jack Kramer the arch villain. We think he is our George Washington."

Briner said that not all the blame for recent eruptions can be laid on players - some fault must be borne by incompetent and often volunteer officials.

What tennis needs is strong administration. It is being allowed to run amok with no governing hand. Tennis needs a czar."

Even as Talbert spoke, the pro tennis players were taking a long, hard look at themselves at meetings in Palm Springs, Calif., site of the American Airlines Classic. They were examining the black eye dealt the sport at the WCT tournament a couple of weeks ago in Richmond, Va.

Vitas Gerulaitis was the chief offender, his antics so intolerable that the tournament chairman, Lou Einwick, a Richmond banker, urged that the New Yorker be fined $10,000 and suspended for a year.

Gerulaitis not only made several vulgar gestures - an act popularized by Ilie Nastase and Jimmy Connors - but berated linesmen, delayed play and threatened one official with a racket and ball.

The moon wasn't right for tennis players that week. Eight other players, including Nastase and Eddie Dibbs, were

BUBBLY FOR BOBBY — Bobby Allison sprays champagne around the victory lane Sunday after winning the Daytona 500. (AP Laserphoto)

Allison Claims Daytona Crown

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Bonnie Allison said a little prayer for her father last Friday before he and Buddy Baker wrecked in a qualifying race for the Daytona 500.

"It weighed on me," said Bobby Allison, "I don't like to have a child's prayers not answered."

He took it as a bad omen but everything turned out great Sunday for the Hueytown, Ala., native and his 15-year old daughter when he won the world's richest stock car race and the $56,300 first prize.

Scarcely anyone would have predicted Allison and Baker would race to a showdown for the top money after they crashed Friday and were forced to start from far back in the field. Baker in 31st place and Allison in 33rd.

They ran as a tandem from the start, but a mile behind the early front running trio — Richard Petty, David Pearson and Darrell Waltrip. Then Petty blew a tire and the three spun into each other and the concrete wall 150 miles into the race.

They were unhurt but A.J. Foyt wasn't so fortunate when he took a spectacular barrel roll down the asphalt at 180 miles an hour in a chain-reaction collision.

Foyt was hospitalized overnight, but doctors found no broken bones and said his worst injury was a possible separation of the left shoulder.

Benny Parsons, who blew a tire, triggering the Foyt mishap, dropped out of contention after spinning into the infield.

Baker and Allison waged a duel with defending Cale Yarborough through the last half of the race until valve trouble slowed Yarborough.

The bad luck that has plagued Baker for 11 years in this race struck again five laps from the finish when his engine blew.

Allison finished 33.2 seconds ahead of Yarborough.

One lap back, Parsons nosed Hutcherson in a photo finish for third and Dick Brooks took fifth, another lap behind.

It was Allison's first victory in the Daytona 500, after 19 years of trying, and his first victory on the Grand National circuit since 1975. Also, it was the first time a Thunderbird has been in Victory Lane here.

"Winning at Daytona for the first time, that's super great," Allison said. "Winning-everywhere is great."

The popular 40-year-old veteran didn't escape trouble, which hit so many contenders.

"One of the orange cars (Hutcherson) put me into the wall late in the race," he said. "I radioed my pit a back tire was flat and a fender was bent on the tie. The crew did a great job of changing two tires, bending out the fender and fueling me."

Some of the newer machines — the Oldsmobiles of Yarborough and Parsons, Buicks of Foyt and Hutcherson and Petty's Dodge Magnum — ran fast but handled less effectively.

But Allison said his Thunderbird cornered better than any of them.

"Buddy and Cale hit a hole on the track every time, while I could ride below it wide open," Allison said. "The others ran faster on the straights, but we made it up in the corners."

Following the front five to the finish, in order, were Dave Marcis in a Chevrolet, Baker in an Olds, Bill Elliott in a Mercury, Ferrell Harris in a Dodge and Lennie Pond in an Olds.

Waltrip's crash robbed him of making a big haul out of Speed Weeks. He won the Sportsman 300-miler in a photo finish with Donnie Allison, Bobby's brother, on Saturday; the Modified 200-miler and a 125-mile qualifying race for the 500 on Friday.

Also, Waltrip finished second to Mario Andretti in the finale of the International Race of Champions series on Friday, and had collected $59,400 going into the main event. He added only $6,000 for his 28th place finish in the Daytona 500.

Win Would Give WTC Another WJCC Title

Western Texas College, which has dominated the Western Junior College Conference almost from the time the school was formed, needs only one win this week to wrap up its fourth consecutive conference title.

The Westerners beat South Plains 97-66 Saturday but their two main challengers, Odessa and New Mexico Military, took it on the chin last Thursday.

New Mexico JC stunned Odessa 100-96 and Frank Phillips stunned NMMI 76-71.

That gives WTC a two-game lead with two games remaining on the season.

Tonight, WTC (23-6, 12-4) travels to Roswell to battle NMMI (21-7, 10-6) and Odessa (21-8, 10-6) tries to snap a two-game losing streak at home against Amarillo (18-10, 9-7).

In other conference titles Frank Phillips (13-13, 7-9) is at Howard (17-11, 7-8), SPC (14-14, 6-10) at Midland (15-14, 6-10) and NMJC (13-16, 5-11) at Clarendon (13-12, 7-8). Howard and Clarendon have a Tuesday makeup scheduled at Clarendon.

Women's games tonight pit Frank Phillips (5-13, 0-10) at Howard (22-5, 7-2) and Odessa (9-15, 2-8) at Amarillo (15-5, 6-4).

South Plains (20-10) hosts Texas Tech at 6 p.m. in a non-conference rematch. SPC lost 61-54 at Tech earlier in the year.

"THE NET PROFIT CROP OF 1977"

Some producers contracted their 1977 Sunflower acreage with "The Sunflower People of West Texas", for eleven cents.

Unlike their neighbor, some producers wanted higher prices than the 5.11 Cent Per Lb. Contract being offered by "The Sunflower People of West Texas" in their Joint-Venture Contract.

Now when harvest time finally arrived and the crop developed to be the largest in the history of the United States, the farmer who wanted MORE actually got LESS.

Friends, don't get caught again holding the short end of the stick: The "Sunflower People of West Texas" now have contracts available for the 1978 Crop Year.

Long before anyone else establishes a market, "The Sunflower People of West Texas" offer you a Sunflower Production Contract that will give you, the farmer, a price for your product that allows you a Net Profit.

Only by contracting ahead can you guarantee yourself a net profit in planting Sunflowers in 1978.

When you consider that it take less cash per acre to grow Sunflowers than any other crop, one must appreciate the fact that it will greatly reduce cash flow requirements for farming operations.

Each year "The Sunflower People of West Texas" offer new opportunities to the producer who wants to help himself. The "Plant Now-Pay Later" program for Sunflower Planting Seed has allowed many producers to stay in business in hard pressed financial times. The same people again offer this same program to those who would like it.

Rsults of last year's Sunflower Crop show a need for another service to be added: This year you can again contract to have your spraying for Insect Control included and pay for it in the fall when you harvest your crop, should you desire to do so.

So ... if it is Profit You Want, SUNFLOWERS ARE THE ANSWER. CONTRACT WITH "THE SUNFLOWER PEOPLE". For full details about planting seed, contracts, spraying and fall terms on the complete program, contact —

New Locale Due Namath's High School

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Joe Namath still is going to be coaching basketball at Waverly High School, but not the Waverly High School familiar to Ohio fans.

There is no plan to have Namath, just retired as a National Football League quarterback, replace veteran C.D. Hawhee at the Pike County school.

It's all part of a pilot for a proposed television series, "Waverly Wonders," which Namath began taping last week.

The National Broadcasting Co. originally announced the series as the "hilarious misadventures of a winless high school basketball team at fictional Waverly High School in Ohio."

Ed Crane, a publicity man for Lorimar, said the production company must avoid using a real locale to prevent any complications, legal or otherwise. He said the existence of a Waverly High School in Ohio slipped by the company's research department.

So Lorimar Productions, making the pilot in Burbank, Calif., will keep the name of the high school, but change the locale to Eastfield, Wis.

All the publicity from the series has ruffled the normal calmness in the household of Hawhee, the real Waverly's coach.

"The whole thing has been kind of funny," Hawhee said. "I've gotten calls from different parts of the state and places as far away as Pittsburgh and Florida."

Dimmitt, Abernathy Square Off

By WALT McALEXANDER
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
LEVELLAND — Much has been made of 3-AA's reign over the state during the decade of the 1970s.

And when Dimmitt, the state's No. 2 ranked squad and the area's No. 1-ranked AA unit, tackles Abernathy tonight at 8 p.m. in a bidistrict clash at Texan Dome, one coach—the Bobcats' Ken Cleveland—would just as soon forget all that while the other—Abernathy's Carl Irlbeck—hopes that inspires his squad.

Cleveland feels there's a lot of pressure on his Bobcats because of the excellent success 3-AA has enjoyed in the past. As a refresher, consider this: in 1971 Dimmitt lost in the state semifinals to eventual champion Hughes Springs; in 1972 Morton won the state title; in 1973 Morton was semifinalist; in 1974 Frioga was runner-up; in 1975 Dimmitt was the state champion; in 1976 Morton was runner-up, and in 1977 Morton was state champion.

"Yes, there's definitely a lot of pressure on us," Cleveland said of his 28-4 club that has won 14 in a row. "I just hope the kids aren't worried about what this district has done in the past because that's all in the past."

"Abernathy has a very good club. Some day this district is not going to do all that well in the playoffs and when that happens I hope the fans aren't that upset because it just can't keep on this way."

"But you understand, I'm hoping that this isn't the year that all that changes."

And all the while Irlbeck is Irlbeck will be seeking his 150th victory during his Abernathy tenure tonight. Three of his previous Antelope teams have won district but none have advanced to the regional tournament.

Irlbeck, whose teams have won 11 of 14 district titles and compiled a 335-115 mark—including 149-70 at Abernathy—down through the years, feels his squad has an excellent chance tonight.

"We've been coming closer each time. We've got a lot of young, inexperienced kids but still, I feel this is our best chance to win (bidistrict). Our record (19-10) is not all that impressive but we've played some good AAA and AAAA teams, but then so has Dimmitt."

"That (the tough schedule) is only reason I think we won district. I feel like if we can beat them it will be a big hurdle in going to the state tournament. They have an excellent club and do a lot of things real, real well. For us to stand a chance, we've got to shut off their outside shooting, break up their press and play good defense."

"I don't think our kids have a defeatist attitude about playing 3-AA. I think they realize that someone has to stop that streak and that they'd like to be the ones who stopped 4-AA from playing second fiddle."

Both coaches talked about pressure games. "We've played several games with lots of pressure but we by no means

WOLFE TRIUMPHS

WELLESLEY, Mass. (AP)—Harvard Medical School professor Robert Wolfe led for the final 2½ miles to win the 30-kilometer Silver Lake Washington's Birthday Marathon. Wolfe, 31, of Cambridge, Mass., outdistanced 280 other runners and ran the Sunday race in 1:41:58. He was followed by Bruce Butterworth of Hampton, N.H., 1:42:46, and Larry Gentile of Watertown, 1:44:2. The first woman across the line was Mary Creeden of Milford in 2:18:20.

have a monopoly on pressure games," Cleveland, who has won 12 district titles and fashioned a 442-123 record in 17 years at Dimmitt—his mark is 490-148 overall —, said. "I don't think you can say our pressure games helped us any more than Abernathy's has helped them." Irlbeck agreed, saying, "Our game last Tuesday with Tulia was definitely a pressure contest and our kids played a super game. They did all the things it takes to win and I don't think it would have made any difference where we played them."

Dimmitt will go with 5-10 Rocky Rawls (15 points, 6 assists a game), 6-0 Jeff Bell and Dennis Veals, 6-2 Jim Bradford (11.0 points) and 6-3 Mark Summers (11.0 points) in the starting lineup tonight, but 5-9 Thompson Mayberry will see plenty of duty.

Ted Heard, a 5-11 guard, is the only Antelope averaging in double figures. Other starters will be 5-10 Gilbert Cuevas and 6-1 Dean McGuire at guards and 6-0 Lee McCune and 6-2 Mark Pope at posts. Lee Mason (5-8), Micah Blalock (5-10) and Scott Morrison (5-8) will be the first players off the Abernathy bench.

Tonight's game will be preceded by a 6 p.m. contest matching the South Plains women against Texas Tech.

Two other area playoffs were set Sunday.

Sands (31-1) will meet Forsan (25-2), a winner over Greenwood Saturday in a 10-B playoff, at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Lamesa. Motley County (21-7) will take on Roby, a Saturday winner over Ira in an 11-B playoff, at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Post.

adopted some of the recommendations last year, Neinas said.

"The USOC, not wanting to have an inordinate amount of government legislation, felt it was in their best interests to develop those internally," Neinas said.

Since the NCAA withdrew, the USOC has developed an arbitration procedure to settle disputes and an internal structure satisfactory to the NCAA, he added.

"We've had discussions with the officers of the Olympic Committee over the past 13 months. We've shared opinions and had good communication," he said.

The bill of rights supported by the USOC Executive Board would allow amateur athletes to participate in international events, such as the Olympics and Pan American Games, in trials leading up to them, and on legitimate national teams. Neinas said that while the NCAA was not a USOC member, it allowed its athletes to participate in such events.

"The original carte blanche athletes' bill of rights would allow promoters, for selfish interests under the guise of doing something internationally, to disrupt high school and college programs," he said.

Paul admitted that the revised bill of rights would give athletes less freedom, but added that it "will really protect the athletes during their college season."

Yarborough Snares Winston Point Lead

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Cale Yarborough's second place finish in the Daytona 500 Grand National stock car race Sunday, coupled with a win in the only other race so far this season, has boosted the two-time national champion's lead in the Winston Cup points standings.

Figures released today by the National Association of Stock Car Auto Racing showed Yarborough leading Benny Parsons, 360 points to 345. Parsons was third Sunday and second in the other race.

Daytona 500 winner Bobby Allison jumped to fifth overall.

Yarborough is trying for an unprecedented third consecutive national title.

Six-time national titlist Richard Petty, Buddy Baker and Darrell Waltrip are well down in the list.

The top 10 in points after two of the 30 races: Yarborough, Parsons, Dave Marcis, Dick Brooks, Allison, D.K. Ulrich, Buddy Arrington, Neil Bonnett, David Pearson, Al Holbert.

SPECULATION ENDS
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Speculation that the Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open Golf tournament would be moved to a new site ended with the signing of a contract assuring Riviera Country Club the tournament for the next three years.

Northerners Flee In Winter To Sunbelt States In South

By BARNEY SEIBERT
MIAMI (UPI) — Dan Lenahan eased back against a mound of sand on Miami Beach, watched his four children race in and out of the 71-degree surf, and remarked, "The trouble with Buffalo is we have too much winter."

Lenahan and his family were among hundreds of thousands of Canadians and Americans who fled the Winter of '78 in the north for the sunbelt states of the Southeast.

Coupled with an apparent easing of the recession, that has Florida headed toward what may become its greatest tourist season ever. Similar reports are coming in from resorts in Alabama and South Carolina that normally don't get heavy traffic until spring.

"There is literally no more room at the inn," Marie Rivas, executive director of the Fort Lauderdale Hotel Association, told Tom Mercer of the Fort Lauderdale Area Chamber of Commerce.

Miami Beach hotels that were in or flirting with bankruptcy and complaining of a lack of business during the Christmas-New Year's holiday, were jammed to capacity this week.

Hal Cohen, executive director of the Miami Beach City Tourist Development Authority, said "They are not 100 percent sold out, but it is somewhere up in the high 90s. So far we've been able to accommodate everybody and nobody is sleeping outside, but they are having to contact eight or 10 properties."

Miami Beach has 27,000 hotel and motel rooms and there are 40,000 in Dade County (Miami and Miami Beach).

Things were more difficult in the nation's southernmost city, Key West, and at the millionaire playground of Naples on Florida's Gulf Coast.

"We had an appeal in the newspaper last weekend for people who had any extra room in their homes to call us," said Irene Cullen of the Naples Chamber of Commerce. "You really have to get out and dig just to get one room."

"We are so jammed up here it is not funny," Ted Scalia of Key West's Chamber of Commerce reported. "We are having a hell of a time getting people placed in hotels and motels and it has been going this way since Thanksgiving. We are asking local citizens to open up their homes."

The Key West crunch came despite the opening of a new motel last year which added 127 rooms to the 2,600 already available on the island.

Cohen estimated that hotel business on Miami Beach was up 10 percent in January over the previous year, "and while I can't say they're spending money at the rate they did in pre-recession days, the shops and restaurants seem full and the nightclubs — the ones that are left — seem to be doing very well."

Jacksonville and Orlando also reported increased tourism this winter, and further up the Atlantic coast, in the golfers' Mecca of Myrtle Beach, S.C., the season opened early.

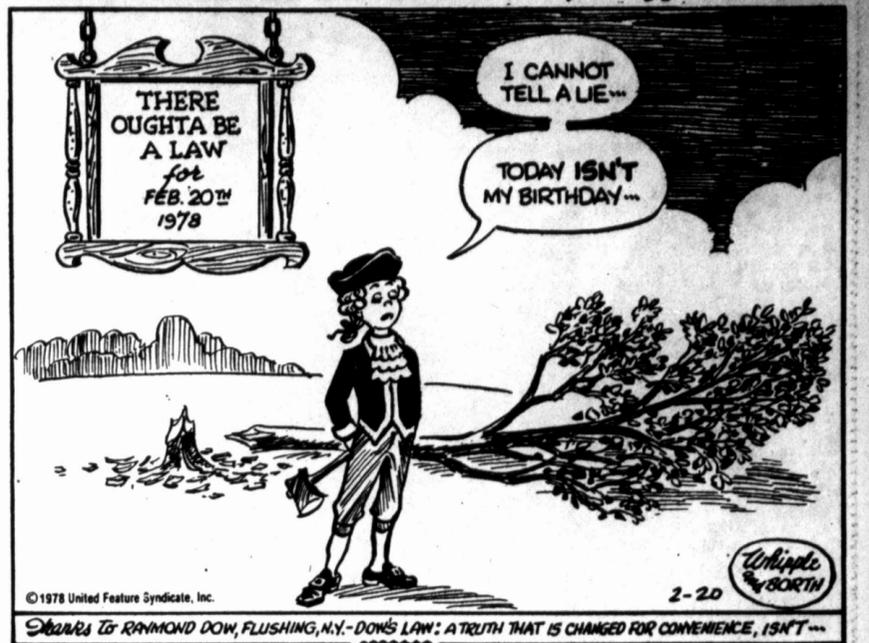

Ashby Ward of the Myrtle Beach Chamber of Commerce said that three weeks ahead of the normal start of the golf season, the area's courses were filled to 80 percent capacity.

William Arnold, North Carolina travel and tourism director, said a month earlier than usual the famed Pinehurst golf course was getting 300 to 400 players a day. Even though temperatures were in the 40s at Ocean Isle, N.C., it was hosting winter visitors from Canada.

Dave Treadway, manager of the Mobile, Ala., Chamber of Commerce's Travel and Convention Department, said the weather was unusually severe there, too.

Haldeman Book Causes Turmoil

NEW YORK (AP) — Rarely has a book been held in such secrecy, but "The Ends of Power" by H.R. Haldeman leaked anyway and precipitated a massive publishing brouhaha.

The publication of parts of the book in Thursday's Washington Post prompted Newsweek magazine to accelerate its release of excerpts purchased for about $125,000. It caused the New York Times to publish all of its five-part series today, instead of starting next Monday.

It jeopardized an estimated $1 million in syndication agreements signed under a pledge of confidentiality. It raised the possibility of numerous lawsuits. And it threw Times Books into turmoil.

Executives of the publishing house, which is affiliated with the company that publishes the New York Times, went into non-stop huddles, finally deciding to advance the Feb. 27 release date to today.

The order went out Thursday to begin shipping 300,000 volumes stacked eight feet high on sealed pallets in sealed trucks. An order was also placed for a second printing of 50,000 copies of the 352-page volume that sells for $12.95.

In addition, the Times' syndication service abandoned the embargo it had demanded of the 28 U.S. newspapers, plus 15 to 20 foreign outlets, that planned publication of the 10,000-word series starting Monday.

The price for the newspaper series ranged from $5,000 to $25,000. The book's co-author, Joseph DiMona, said the West German magazine Stern alone paid $250,000 for rights.

The publishing house, the syndication service and Newsweek each said it was too soon to say what the financial or legal ramifications might be. If the leak is traced to any of the organizations that pledged secrecy, it could be open to a damages suit.

Some of them were upset at having paid for material that leaked.

The Los Angeles Times reacted initially by saying "we may throw the whole thing out" but later announced it would publish the entire five-part series today.

Another newspaper disclosed in confidence that it would run the excerpts but withhold payment. And the Chicago Sun-Times complained that the material was worth less than it cost.

"We have had better days," a Newsweek magazine attorney quoted editor Edward Kosner as saying. The weekly released all 30,000 words of its excerpts while continuing with plans to publish half on Monday and the rest in a week.

HEW Abandons Proposal On Student Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Because of concern for "the privacy and other civil rights" of individuals involved, the government has abandoned the widespread use of private bill collectors to recover money lost by defaults on student loans.

But HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano said recently that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare intends to push for the recovery of the money and tighten the administration of the federal loan program to students.

Califano said the collection efforts will be intensified.

"We will rely primarily on HEW employees but we will contract with private collectors on an experimental basis in two regions. We will also begin new training programs in debt collection practices for the federal personnel," Califano said.

The department says more than 300,000 loans are in default and if the rate of default continues the total will amount to more than $450 million by next September.

Califano pledged scrupulous observance of the law in collecting the debts.

But he also criticized past management of the program saying the Department of Education was "negligent" and that the administration of the program was "inept."

Califano said in addition to using HEW employees, he will seek legislation allowing the Internal Revenue Service to help track down the defaulters.

He said he wants the IRS to be allowed to provide the current addresses of former students that took loans but have not repaid them.

GEMS UNCOVERED
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Prospectors at Arkansas' Crater of Diamonds State Park uncovered some 371 gems during 1977, the state Department of Parks and Tourism reports. The $1,049 diggers came from all 50 states and 15 foreign countries. The largest find of the year was a 4-carat, 25-point, canary yellow stone discovered in August by George Stepp of Carthage, Ark.

Heart, Blood System Topic Of CBS Show

By JOAN HANAUER
 NEW YORK (UPI) — There's a program coming up next month in family viewing time that boasts more blood and gore than television normally produces in a year.

It's a CBS documentary, the second in "The Body Human" series, entitled "The Red River," and it goes on March 8 at 7 p.m. CDT.

The topic under visual dissection — and the word takes on graphic meaning here — is the human heart and circulatory system. The producers take you inside the womb to watch a fetal heartbeat, inside a living aorta, down into the lungs and in the most difficult to watch segments, into several operating theaters.

There's the heart-by-pass surgery performed by Dr. Denton Cooley on a man whose three coronary arteries are clogged. The audience sees into the chest cavity, sees the squishy-looking beating heart, watches the doctors cut out vessels from the leg and sew them into the heart.

Fascinating, for those who have the stamina to watch.

Then there's the adorable six-year-old girl whose pulmonary arteries must be replaced, and a fabric patch sewn over the hole in her heart. The camera view of the entire surgical procedure is detailed. Her happy cavorting in the classroom, able for the first time to play easily with her peers, is a lot easier on the eyes than the earlier surgery.

The show also zeroes in on a teen-age girl who has developed a "leech" — a knot of blood vessels the size of a thumbnail that entangle on the spinal cord and cause paralysis and threaten death. The "leech" is successfully removed but the extent of the girl's final recovery is in doubt.

The final segment concerns a farmer in his 60s, whose hardening of the cerebral arteries is causing increasing loss of function and periods of blindness. In surgery so untried it doesn't even qualify as "experimental" — instead it is called "research" — the surgeon ties a vessel from the scalp into a brain artery to improve the blood supply. The farmer winds up back on his tractor, grinning and insisting you can't hurt a Norwegian by operating on his head.

"The Red River" turns out to be an absolutely fascinating program — for those who like that sort of thing. A commentator on television might bring up several points, none of which are a reflection on the quality or worth of the program.

The first question involves scheduling

— why put a program such as this on during family viewing time? There are many children who would find the bloody surgical view frightening.

And when the life of a six-year-old is up for grabs, the small child who worries about death can become terrified. In the elementary school years, few children comprehend gamblers' odds. Perhaps there is little likelihood of a death-threatening disease striking a young child, but to children the fact that it can happen to anyone means it could happen to them.

The second problem with the show involves a personal confession — informative and gripping as it was, at least one reviewer would not have chosen to watch it if it had not been a professional duty. If I had been a casual viewer deciding what, if anything, to watch, I would not have been attracted to this show.

Britain Names Father Of Year

LONDON (AP) — Big John Knight is Britain's father of the year.

Every two days the 42-year-old former civil servant leaves his wife, Carole, and their nine children and jogs two miles across the moors of Cornwall to visit his common-law wife, Clare, their six children and five she had by an earlier marriage.

Two days later he jogs back to Carole and her brood.

Clare is expecting their seventh — and her 12th — in April.

Newspapers who found out about Big John's design for living reported he supports the 23 people in his two menages on government welfare payments totaling $250.57 a week.

"I'm no scrounger," Knight told the Daily Mirror. "I'd gladly work if someone offered me a job I'd like, like teaching or lecturing or religious teaching."

"We have no luxuries and the money covers the bare essentials," Clare said.

Both women said they plan to have more children, the Mirror reported.

Tennessee Farmer Tries Crop

By JERRY GRAY
SAVANNAH, Tenn. (AP) — Jim Southern thinks he may be a little ahead of his time.

Five years ago he devoted several hundred acres of his farm to sunflower crops and awaited the harvest of gold it was almost certain to bring. He's still ready and waiting.

For the first couple of years, Southern says he made a respectable showing with sunflower crop earnings, but eventually he had to reduce the operation drastically.

"There just wasn't any market around here for sunflowers," Southern said in a telephone interview. "Sunflower farming has really gone over big in Texas and other areas, but it just hasn't caught on here."

But Southern, 38, hasn't given up on sunflowers. He still maintains about 10 acres of sunflowers on his 4,500-acre Hardin County farm. He also grows corn, soybeans and wheat.

"I read a lot just to keep informed and I get a chance to try out various things," he said. "I'm keeping a door open so if a market ever develops around here for sunflowers, I'll be ready."

In 1973 and 1974, at the height of his involvement in sunflower farming, Southern said he planted about 750 acres.

"I'd make as much money on that acreage as I would with other crops but the market just wouldn't support it much after that," he said.

The sunflower, which takes its name from the way its blossoms turn to follow the sun, is chiefly an oil-producing crop. Sunflower oil is more desirable than soybean oil to many large commercial users because foods prepared with it — such as potato chips — stay fresh longer, Southern said.

The plant's flowers yield a yellow dye and the seeds serve as bird food and, when roasted, as a peanut-like snack for people.

Wildlife conservationists and hunters have also discovered that flocks of ground-feeding game birds — such as doves, quail and wild turkeys — are attracted to sunflower fields by the seeds the farmers don't harvest.

Sunflowers can be planted in very early spring and a crop can be ready late in July. The yield is about 2,000 pounds of seed per acre, Southern said. "You can raise two crops in one year. It's an inexpensive crop to raise, doesn't have too much trouble with weeds, and, if you get started early enough, can withstand our winters."

Some of the nation's biggest sunflower farms are in North Dakota, California and Texas also have big sunflower operations.

Edward Dicker, president of Durey Libby Edible Nuts Inc., of Carlstadt, N.J., said hulled hybrid sunflower seeds such as those from his firm's 1,000-acre farm near Modesto, Calif., are going for 53 cents a pound wholesale in New York. The wholesale price of seeds for oil is about 12 cents a pound, he said, adding that prices have been stable recently. Given the right kind of market, Southern said, Mid-south farmers could subsist on a sunflower crop alone.

"It's just gigantic what this business can be like once it gets started," he said. "There's still a future in sunflower farming, it's just a little ahead of our time for this area."

Powell Denies Press Dislike

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House Press Secretary Jody Powell says it's not true that President Carter doesn't like reporters. He says the president just doesn't have an opinion about them.

"I would be no more inclined to say he likes them than to say he dislikes them," Powell told the Washington Press Club recently.

Powell, who spoke at a panel with White House reporters, said the presidency "is hardly a situation where any normal human being would be inclined to be comfortable when he is dealing with the press."

He also said he would not deny that he tries to influence the news, adding, "That is in fact what I am paid for."

"You are paid by the taxpayers," interjected Helen Thomas, a reporter for United Press International.

"I am paid to serve the president," Powell insisted.

"You are paid to serve the public also," said Miss Thomas, who also contended the administration has brought "managed and manipulated news" to a new scene.

"I believe this administration is serving the public," Powell answered.
