FPC Wins Fight Over Gas Rates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today left in effect the biggest increase in natural gas rates ever allowed, which with other rate changes are estimated to cost consumers $1.5 billion a year.

The justices turned down appeals from both consumer groups and gas producers of the rate hikes the Federal Power Commission approved in 1976. The public interest groups argued the new rates are too high, while producers considered them too low to spur discovery of new gas.

Except for one brief period, the new rates have been in effect since shortly after they were ordered, even though the FPC action was under appeal.

The FPC, since replaced by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, estimated when it set the new rate ceilings for gas on the interstate market that, in combination with other adjustments, they would boost consumer gas bills by about $1.5 billion annually.

The Supreme Court also today ordered reapportionment of the Tarrant County districts from which members of the Texas House of Representatives are elected.

The court in a brief order affirmed a decision to this effect last October by a special three-judge panel in Austin. The new plan makes the districts more nearly equal in population than those used for the 1976 election.

Texas reapportionment has been before the high court three times previously.

Tarrant County, which includes Fort Worth, conducted the 1976 election on the basis of a plan offered by the state and approved by the panel. Nine lawmakers were elected from as many districts, which had a 7 percent deviation in population.

But the judicial panel retained jurisdiction and eventually rejected the plan in favor of another proposal with a deviation of 2 percent or less in population. It was favored by the parties who originally challenged Texas districting in 1971.

The Supreme Court last December blocked the decision pending action on Gov. Dolph Briscoe's appeal.

The court, acting on a batch of petitions for review, also:

- Agreed to review a decision, in a Texas case, that federal antitrust laws can apply to agreements between drug stores and group health insurance plans on reimbursing customers for drugs.
- Let stand a ruling that males aged 16 and 17 may challenge their convictions in Oklahoma between 1941 and 1972 because girls of the same age received more lenient treatment in the courts.
- Cleared the way for construction of a low-income public housing project in a mostly white section of Philadelphia — the subject of a long and heated dispute.
- Let stand the National Labor Relations Board's decision not to extend collective bargaining rights to interns, residents and "staff officers" of hospitals.
- Agreed to review Washington state's system of enforcing criminal and civil laws on Indian reservations, in which only portions are singled out for jurisdiction.

The FPC's 1976 order set the ceiling on "new" natural gas, from wells started up on or after Jan. 1, 1975, at $1.42 per thousand cubic feet — nearly three times the existing rate — plus a one-cent increase every three months.

The new rates were upheld by the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

They were challenged at the Supreme Court by consumer groups, states and cities, public utility commissions and farmers in briefs charging approval was based on "untested, unverified, self-serving and admittedly inadequate evidence from the industry on gas reserves."

Producers said the cost of searching out and producing natural gas has risen sharply, and the consumer should help pay the bill.

The issue of natural gas price controls produced a deadlock in Congress, where a conference committee is trying to compromise between President Carter's proposal to maintain a ceiling and those wanting to phase it out and let the marketplace take over.

Chlorine Gas Cloud Forces Evacuations

By United Press International

A deadly cloud of chlorine gas that escaped from a derailed freight train near Youngstown, Fla., floated northward today, triggering a string of evacuations in its path.

"We don't know how far we're going to have to go with the evacuation," a spokesman for the Bay County Sheriff's Department said. "The chemists are telling us when we have an unsafe area."

At least 2,500 people within a five-mile radius of Sunday's derailment were evacuated. Civil Defense Director Ron Johnson said propane leaking from one of the tank cars could mix with the billowing chlorine and explode, turning the freight train into a chain of fire.

Chemical specialists from the Environmental Protection Agency planned to flood the wreckage with detergent foam today to cut off the spewing chlorine and propane gas and blot out the threat of fires or explosions.

The derailments of three trains, each carrying dangerous chemicals, have killed 20 people, injured more than 200 and forced the evacuation of about 3,500 people from their homes during a five-day period in Tennessee and Florida.

The first derailment came Wednesday. It was the worst, but the trouble did not come for two days.

A Louisville & Nashville train was moving through the tiny East Tennessee town of Waverly when 24 cars jumped the tracks about 10:30 p.m. CST. The cars piled up in an area behind City Hall, where the tracks form a border between a business district and a residential area.

A brief evacuation was ordered once officials learned two of the derailed cars contained 20,000 gallons each of highly flammable liquid propane. But even though both tanks were damaged there was no leak and people gradually drifted back to their homes and businesses.

On Friday afternoon, about 40 hours after the derailment as officials prepared to transfer the propane to tank trucks, the tank erupted in a 1,000-foot tower of flame that seared a two-block area and instantly killed five men at the work site. Seven more, including Waverly Fire Chief Wilbur York and Police Chief Guy Barnett, died later of burns.

Ambulances and medical evacuation helicopters moved 55 injured to hospitals throughout the area, later sending the most severely injured to special burn centers across the country. Civil Defense and National Guard units quickly set up refugee centers for those forced from their homes by the presence of the second, still loaded, propane tanker.

A burning boxcar next to the tanker kept firefighters busy through the weekend trying to extinguish the fire and keep the propane tank cool. By noon Saturday, more than 2,000 people had been evacuated and only emergency personnel and reporters were allowed near the site.

Explosives experts cautiously pumped the propane to another tank car and by Sunday morning the tank car had been drained and flushed with water to expel lingering fumes. The debris was hauled away, leaving a 20-foot-wide crater.

Townpeople were allowed back to their homes to begin cleaning up the damage and preparing for the funerals of friends and neighbors.

But at 2 a.m. CST Sunday, while the Hearing Slated On Subdivisions

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Lubbock County Commissioners Court today set March 27 as the date for a public hearing on new subdivision regulations that will make developers, not taxpayers, responsible for the cost of paving future residential streets.

And commissioners discussed damage to county roads levied by harsh winter weather on the South Plains. Commissioner Coy Biggs said the county may spend "more than ever before" this year to repair potholes and crumbling asphalt in unincorporated areas.

Criminal District Attorney Alton Griffin, the court's legal advisor, presented a final draft of revised subdivision standards for development in the county. The basic change in the code is that developers would be required to pave their streets before subdivision plats are approved and streets are accepted for maintenance by the county.

Current regulations allow developers to install caliche-surfaced streets in new subdivisions. Commissioners complain that county taxpayers eventually must bear the cost for upgrading those caliche streets to pavement.

They approved Griffin's draft and scheduled a public hearing for 1:30 p.m. March 27 in the commissioners' courtroom of the Lubbock County Courthouse to take comments on the proposed revisions and formally adopt the new standards.

Commissioner Alton Brazell, who for years has advocated the more stringent standards, said Lubbock County government's "limited resources" cannot permit continued acceptance of unpaved residential streets.

"This (paving) is a responsibility that must be borne by the developer," Brazell said. "Our road maintenance budgets are already stretched to the limit" without having to upgrade subdivision streets from caliche to asphalt, he added.

Commissioners may have their hands full trying to repair recent weather damage to county roads, for example.

"We're in the same boat as the city and the state highway department," Brazell said. "Damage to our roads is extensive."

Light Rain Splatters Lubbock

A-J News Services

Lubbock's brief respite from gloomy weather ended abruptly this morning as light rain covered most of the South Plains and Eastern New Mexico.

Forecasters, however, said amounts would be light and give less than a 20 percent chance for measurable precipitation this afternoon.

Near noon today, showers extended from Eastern New Mexico to near Childress and from the Panhandle to the Midland-Odessa area.

No significant moisture was expected from any of the showers, all of which were moving in an easterly or northeasterly direction.

While temperatures were mild this morning — with an overnight low of 44 degrees and an early-morning reading of 51 — cooler weather is in store for Tuesday.

The thermometer is expected to drop to the mid-30s tonight after a high this afternoon near 60, and Tuesday's high should be in the low 50s.

Winds of 15-25 mph — shifting from southwesterly this morning to a northwesterly breeze tonight — hinted that March was indeed on its way to the South Plains.

Although no appreciable rainfall is predicted today, the area should get another chance at moisture on Thursday, according to the National Weather Service.

Reports indicated clouds may break up Friday when top temperatures could return to the 60s.

Price Increases Jolt Consumers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices rose 0.8 percent in January, the largest increase in nearly a year, because of sharp increases in food and housing costs, the Labor Department said today.

The Consumer Price Index for all urban consumers rose 0.8 percent last month after rising 0.4 percent in each of the past three months, the department said. The increase was the largest since a 1 percent rise in February 1977.

"About two-thirds of this rise was due to price increases of 1.2 percent for food and beverages and 0.8 percent for housing," the department said. "Among other major expenditures, transportation rose 0.6 percent and medical care 0.8 percent."

The department also reported that the average worker's buying power dropped by 3 percent since December, the sharpest one-month decline in 14 years.

The department said the reduction in real spendable earnings was caused by a 1.2 percent decrease in average weekly earnings and a 1.8 rise in taxes, particularly Social Security.

Today's report was the first in a new system the department is using to try to cover the buying habits of more people. The department expanded its index to cover all urban consumers, about 80 percent of the U.S. population. The department also is measuring prices paid by urban wage earners and clerical workers separately, a measure used in union contracts. This index also rose 0.8 percent last month.

The 1.2 percent increase for food and beverages was due to "higher prices for most types of food purchased in grocery stores, for restaurant meals and alcoholic beverages," the department said.

"Among grocery store foods, meat prices advanced sharply," the department said. "Poultry, eggs and fresh fruit and vegetable prices also showed large increases partly because supplies were restricted by adverse weather conditions," it said.

Sugar prices rose because of new tariffs, but coffee prices continued to decline, the report said.

Crimes Against Elderly Persons Mounting

By PAT CARLSON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

It's a ruse that works often and works well.

An elderly couple was sitting in the living room of their modest North Lubbock home about 9 p.m. when they heard a knock at the front door.

Two young men — maybe teen-agers, perhaps as old as 25 — said they had a flat tire and asked to use the phone.

Common sense told the 78-year-old man to be wary. He told them to try the house across the street. But after the strangers said they already had tried two other houses, the soon-to-be victim re-entered and let them inside his home.

Most are victimized in their own homes.

Another 70-year-old eastside resident was watching television in his bedroom one Sunday evening when he, too, heard a knock at the door.

As soon as he opened it a young man rushed in, knocking the old man to the floor. As another man and woman entered, one of them picked up a ceramic statue and hit the victim on the head. They then took him to the bedroom, tied his hands and feet with extension cords and covered his head with a blanket.

After ransacking portions of the house, the three robbers got away with the television set, a .32-caliber pistol and five silver dollars.

Again, the victim was lucky in that he lived to make his way to the street and flag down police.

Late one January night, two young men knocked on the front door of a 2nd Street house and said a woman was having a baby outside in a car. When the resident allowed the strangers inside to use the phone, one produced a small blue-steel revolver and forced the victim to lie on a bed.

Promising to kill the man if he moved, one of the bandits lifted a wallet while his companion removed a pair of boots and a pair of shoes from the closet.

"What do you tell elderly people?" asked Det. Lt. Billy Knox. "They're helpless when a big, brave robber comes in, knowing they can't defend themselves."

Knox who heads the crimes-against-persons section of the Lubbock Police Department says there is little explanation for the recent outbreak of violent crimes against older persons and pointed out why it is difficult to clear such crimes.

"A lot of times they (the victims) don't see well or they're not aware of what they should be looking for. And also, it's difficult for many of them to remember some of the details."

Officials Feared For Polanski

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Film director Roman Polanski was confined to his jail quarters for 42 days while undergoing psychiatric evaluation because prison officials feared for his safety, a fellow inmate says. There were "a few people in the joint who wanted to get him; because of the charge. They called him 'baby raper,'" Terry Koker told the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner in an interview published Sunday.

"The prison officials wouldn't let him out in the yard because they (inmates) were going to get him," said Koker, who served time for violation of probation on a conviction of receiving stolen property.

Polanski was sent to the California Institution for Men at Chino after he pleaded guilty Aug. 8 in Santa Monica Superior Court to unlawful sex with a 13-year-old girl. After his release, Polanski fled to Paris and has not been sentenced.

Allman Wants Band Again

ATLANTA (AP) — Singer Gregg Allman is trying to revive The Allman Brothers Band.

Allman recently visited Macon, Ga., to talk with Phil Walden, president of Capricorn Records, about forming a new version of the band, The Atlanta Journal-Constitution reported Sunday.

Gregg, Walden and former band guitarist Dickie Betts later met in Miami, and Capricorn spokesman Mark Pucci told the newspaper, "Things are looking very positive."

The Macon-based Allman band, one of the most popular rock groups to emerge from the Deep South, split in 1975.

Emperor's Grandson Marries

TOKYO (AP) — Naohiko Higashikuni, a grandson of Emperor Hirohito, has married a 25-year-old Tokyo secretary, the Imperial Household Agency says.

The bride, Kazuko Sato, was a secretary-clerk for her father's trading company and had known Naohiko since childhood, according to the agency.

Naohiko, 25, is a son of the late Shigeo Terunomiya, eldest daughter of the emperor.

Crown Prince Akihito and Princess Michiko attended the marriage dinner Sunday and delivered gifts from the emperor and empress, the agency said.

Naohiko is not in the direct line of succession to the emperor.

Borge Clowns During Concert

NEW YORK (AP) — Victor Borge made his New York conducting debut, but the pianist-comedian couldn't refrain from having some fun with his appearance to raise money for the New York Philharmonic.

Walking to center stage, Borge shook hands with the Philharmonic's concertmaster, shook hands with the violinist behind him, then walked back off stage.

He returned, though, to conduct Svendsen's "Fest Polonaise," looking the perfect picture of a dignified 69-year-old conductor. He also took a turn at the piano for a Gershwin medley and conducted Dukas' "The Sorcerer's Apprentice" to end the show Saturday night.

However, the Danish-born musician couldn't repress his jokes. After Svendsen's piece was finished, he sat at the piano and played the last chord from the national anthem — "that saves us from standing up" — and the last chord from the opera "Aida" — "that saves us a whole evening."

Teaching Aid A Dud

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP) — Officials at Fort Leavenworth's military college have learned that one of the aids of operating a military school is dealing with some scary teaching aids.

One of those aids, a harmless model of the type of explosive used by terrorists in Ireland, came in the mail this past weekend. And before officials realized it was harmless, a bomb alert was issued and the FBI, postal inspectors, military police investigators, a criminal investigation detachment and an emergency disposal team from Fort Riley, Kan., had arrived at the scene.

They evacuated the building housing the Command and General Staff College, and took elaborate precautions to detonate the "bomb," which contained some suspicious looking wires and a wrist watch.

It refused to destruct.

Then, officials found an accompanying letter describing the model bomb as training material for the college.

"For all intents and purposes, it was a bomb," said Maj. Peter Christiansen, the Fort Leavenworth provost marshal. "It was serious, but a bit comical after it was all over."

Grace Kelly Returns To U.S. Stage

By DAVE TABOLT

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The audience wasn't sure which it liked better — poetry or Princess Grace of Monaco, who returned to the American stage for the first time in 26 years with a poetry reading.

"I didn't know I liked poetry so well," said Frank Schneider, chairman of a company that builds power plants.

Schneider said he had never sat through an hour of poetry before hearing the former Grace Kelly read selections Sunday night on "Birds, Beasts and Flowers."

"She epitomizes everything a woman should be," said Debbie Tranter, who said she came not to hear poetry but to see a princess. "She's really elegant. She's someone I idolize."

Members of the audience, whose attire ranged from fur coats and black ties to tennis shoes and ski jackets, came to hear Princess Grace and Shakespearean actor Richard Pasco at Carnegie Music Hall.

Princess Grace's last stage appearance was in the 1952 New York performance of "To Be Continued."

"It's such a nostalgic occasion," said Dr. Barbara Cass, a Gulf Oil executive.

"There's nothing like poetry being read by a princess," said attorney Fred Egler, a season ticket holder in the International Poetry Forum, which sponsored the royal appearance.

Princess Grace wore a flowing shrimp-colored chiffon gown. Her golden hair was pulled back to the nape of her neck.

She sat through most of the readings, standing occasionally on a stage which was bare save for two chairs, a rug and a stand for water glasses.

The program opened with "Auguries Innocent" by William Blake and concluded with readings from James Dick-ey's "Psalm 104."

The first half of the performance ended with Edward Lear's "The Pelican Chorus," the story of pelican parents whose daughter marries the king crane and flies off with him to live in a distant land.

John Carroll, who prepared the tribute to the International Wildlife Year, said the selections were intended "to reflect the response of a number of writers from different periods and places to the world of nature."

Grace Kelly was born in Philadelphia. She made her Broadway debut 1949, and won the Academy Award for best actress in 1954 for her role in "Country Girl."

Several years later she met and married Prince Ranier III of Monaco.

Princess Grace will follow her Pittsburgh premiere with presentations at Minneapolis; her native Philadelphia; Washington, D.C.; and Princeton and Harvard universities.

Nixon Estate Visitors Disappointed By Trip

By LINDA DEUTSCH

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Thousands of guests dropped by, but their hosts didn't come out.

For eight hours, tour buses shuttled 7,800 tourists through the seaside estate of Richard Nixon — but no one caught a glimpse of the former president.

Nixon, who opened his gates to the public for the first time Sunday, was said to be in his office working on his memoirs.

When the tour buses pulled in to the compound once known as the Western White House, the only people seen were uniformed guards and Secret Service men who boarded each bus as it entered.

Nixon, who has lived a hermit-like existence here since he resigned the presidency in 1974, allowed the unusual tour as a benefit for the 50th anniversary celebration of this seaside town.

Visitors, who came from as far as Canada to see the Nixon estate, paid $2.50 apiece for the privilege. The money financed a lavish city birthday party featuring a dinner, a 35-foot cake and entertainment.

Many people were disappointed in the 10-minute run through the estate, during which time the buses never stopped and the passengers were forbidden to leave the vehicles.

"I just wish they'd have come out and waved to us," a woman said.

Several complained that they had brought cameras and could not take pictures because the buses moved too fast. And most said the trip was much too brief.

"Like everything Nixon's done, he promised more than he delivered," one disgruntled young man said at the tour's end.

But there were those who had a good time. Two women wearing "I'm for Nixon" buttons, said the tour met their expectations.

"I was just thrilled to know that President Nixon was on the grounds," said Pauline Pfau of Riverside, who said she voted for him twice for president. "It was just the thrill of being where a living president was."

Tourists were told that Nixon was at home, although there was no visible evidence of that.

A tape recording played on each of the buses announced, "The former president is in his office at this moment, finishing the final draft of his memoirs, which will be published in May."

The tape, prepared with the help of Mrs. Nixon, included personal comments about the Nixon's valet, Manolo Sanchez, and about the lack of funds for answering all of Nixon's mail.

As the buses departed — after six minutes on Nixon's personal property and four minutes in the compound of offices that once housed the Western White House — they were given an inspiring message:

"History has been made here," said a deep male voice. "You, as members of the first tour of the grounds of La Casa Pacifica, have also become part of history. Hasta la vista."

Burned Woman Gives Birth

PROSPECT PARK, Pa. (UPI) — A young woman gave birth to a boy Sunday while fighting for her life with burns sustained in a fire that killed her husband and three other persons.

The baby, who developed respiratory problems shortly after the birth, was listed in stable condition today at an area hospital. The mother, Patricia Lange, 23, was in serious condition at a burn center.

The boy's father, Joe Allyn Lange, 23, a U.S. Navy corpsman assigned to the Philadelphia Naval Hospital, was one of four persons killed Saturday in an early morning blaze in suburban Prospect Park.

Mrs. Lange gave birth to the 7-pound, 3-ounce boy at 6:22 a.m. Sunday at the Crozer-Chester Burn Center in Chester.

"He came out of the birth fine," hospital spokesman Kenneth Dale said of the infant.

However, the baby's condition worsened when he developed respiratory problems and he was transferred to the intensive care unit at Hahnemann Hospital in Philadelphia.

Matt. 9:13-29. The Living Bible.

13 Then He added, "Go away and learn the meaning of this verse of Scripture, 'It isn't your sacrifices and your gifts I care about—it's that you have some pity.' My job down here on earth is to get sinners back to God—not to worry about the good people."

14 One day the disciples of John the Baptist came to Jesus and asked Him, "Why don't your disciples fast as we do and as the Pharisees do?"

15 "Should the bridegroom's friends mourn and go without food while he is with them?" Jesus asked. "But the time is coming when I will be taken from them. Time enough then for them to refuse to eat."

16 And who would patch an old garment with unshrunk cloth? For the patch would tear away and make the hole worse.

17 And who would use old wineskins to store new wine? For the old skins would burst with the pressure, and the wine would be spilled and the skins ruined. Only new wineskins are used to store new wine. That way both are preserved."

18 As He was saying this, the rabbi of the local synagogue came and worshiped Him. "My little daughter has just died," he said, "but You can bring her back to life again if You will only come and touch her."

19 As Jesus and the disciples were going to the rabbi's home,

20 A woman who had been sick for twelve years with internal bleeding came up behind Him and touched a tassel of His robe.

21 For she thought, "If I only touch Him, I will be healed."

22 Jesus turned around and spoke to her. "Daughter," He said, "all is well! Your faith has healed you. That and the woman was well from that moment."

23 When Jesus arrived at the rabbi's home and saw the noisy crowds and heard the funeral music, 24 He said, "Get them out, for the little girl isn't dead; she is only sleeping!" Then how they all scoffed and sneered at Him!

25 When the crowd was finally outside, Jesus went in where the little girl was lying and took her by the hand, and she jumped up and was all right again!

26 The report of this wonderful miracle swept the entire countryside.

27 As Jesus was leaving her home, two blind men followed along behind, shouting, "O Son of King David, have mercy on us."

28 They went right into the house where He was staying, and Jesus asked them "Do you believe I can make you see?" "Yes, Lord," they told Him, "we do."

29 Then He touched their eyes and said, "Because of your faith it will happen!"

Entertainer Tiny Tim Attempts Comeback

By DEBORAH CIPOLLA

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tiny Tim, the string-haired, falsetto-voiced, ukelele-strumming entertainer of "Tiptoe Through the Tulips" fame, is making a stab at a comeback.

Tim, who made a name for himself with such novelty performances as singing both parts of a Nelson Eddy-Jeanette MacDonald duet, says that after his tiptoeing days of 1967-68, he "fell into a slump." He made appearances at small supper clubs and nightclubs, but nothing big.

"Whatever I do is Top Ten," says Tiny, "except that it was Top Ten about 60 or 70 years ago."

In December 1969, he and 17-year-old Victoria Buddinger — "Miss Vicki" — were married on the "Tonight" show. They separated some 2 1/2 years later and were divorced several months ago.

Tim bills his new image as "King of Nostalgia" and he has changed his act to include more nostalgia tunes and an occasional female dancer.

"I feel that it's about to break again for me — it's just a matter of when and how," he says.

But Tim's new act didn't quite hit it off in a January appearance at the Comedy Store in Hollywood.

"The Comedy Store owner Mitzi Shore said they weren't coming in," Tim explained. But he doesn't agree: "Believe it or not I have more people coming in now than when 'Tiptoe Through the Tulips' was hot."

In addition to changes in his act, Tim says his agent "has feuded out" for "Barretta" and "Kojak" episodes.

He said he planned to record a couple of country and western tunes, but the recording company folded before production was complete.

But he says the thing that really excites him is a possible role in a horror movie. What part would he play? "Definitely some kind of vampire ... I've been wanting to do something like this for years."

Tim says he dates "only once in a rare while" and, despite his divorce from Miss Vicki, "I'm married till death do us part. I believe that marriage is a sacred institution. I cannot marry again. "I haven't spoken with her for about a month. I'm not enemies with her, but I only call her when it's necessary. It's like the old song, 'After I've Called You Sweetheart, How Can I Call You Friend?'"

Carter Related To Poachers

LONDON (UPI) — President Carter's ancestors were rabbit poachers.

They also got into trouble for burning official documents, illegally chopping down trees, driving off their neighbors' pigs and blocking a highway with an unpleasant substance.

These, at least, are claims made in a local history book due to be published at Easter called, "The Carters of Kings Langley: The President's Roots," the London Daily Telegraph reported today.

The book concentrates on the village of Kings Langley, north of London, which claims the Carter family — particularly on a Tudor farmhouse once owned by Thomas Carter, a presidential ancestor who owned a windmill and died of the plague.

The president's branch of the family left for America in 1635, it says, and the Carters left behind didn't do too well. By 1851, census returns found no Carters in the area.

The Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "H.M.S. Pinafore," had its debut in the United States in 1879.

Russian-Born Artist Praised By Carter

By LAURENCE McQUILLAN
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter, having declared pianist Vladimir Horowitz "a true national treasure," told the Russian-born artist his concert was one of the greatest performances ever given at the White House.

Considered by many to be the top pianist in the world, Horowitz gave one of his infrequent performances Sunday in the East Room, to mark the 50th anniversary of his debut in the United States.

He had been invited to perform last year, "but he wanted to come in his 50th year," Carter said. "He is so proud of this country."

"He is someone I described to his wife

... as a true national treasure," Carter said.

After the performance, the president told him "there have been a lot of people" who have come to the White House but "never has there been a greater man, nor a greater performance."

As the 150 guests sat back in the gold-painted, straight-back wooden chairs, Horowitz jolted them with a thunderous version of the Star Spangled Banner.

Horowitz, 74, seemed to be trying to give something back to his adopted land. He played with a fervor that gave birth to notes long buried in the tune. The genius of his fingers was coming from the heart as well as the mind.

He then went into selections from Chopin, Schumann and Rachmaninoff for his concert, which was carried by the Public Broadcasting Service — only the second time the pianist has allowed a performance to be telecast.

The artist has put severe limitations on his number of appearances. He rose to fame in the 1920s and continued in the public eye until 1953, when he decided to take a sabbatical. It lasted until 1965.

Since then he has been sparing with his public performances. The first and only other time he allowed television cameras to cover him was during a 1968 concert.

The president and first lady Rosalynn Carter also hosted a reception to honor Horowitz. The guest list involved mostly individuals from the performing arts and high ranking media officials.

It included: Eugene Ormandy, conductor of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra; violinist Isaac Stern; Mstislav Rostropovich, music director of the National Symphony Orchestra; jazz musician Dave Brubeck and Kitty Carlisle Hart, head of the New York State Council on the Arts.

Also: Roderick Beaton, president of United Press International; Keith Fuller, president of Associated Press; Roone Arledge, president of ABC News & Sports; and Herbert Schlosser, president of NBC.

Fierce Storm Causes Fatal Auto Mishap

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP) — Plunging temperatures and freak snow squalls contributed to several major traffic pileups, including a chain reaction crash involving at least 11 vehicles that killed two people.

State police said a short but fierce snow squall early Sunday evening raked Interstate 81 about 25 miles south of here and dropped visibility to near zero just before the fatal pileup.

At least 14 people were injured in that wreck, which forced the closing of an 18-mile section of the busy highway in both directions, state police said. Earth moving machinery was called in to help clear the debris. Ten people were hospitalized with various injuries, six of them in serious condition.

At least eight passenger vehicles, two tractor-trailer trucks and a garbage hauler were involved in the smashup, state police said, apparently triggered when one tractor-trailer truck skidded on the roadway.

One car burst into flames, killing a female passenger trapped in the back seat. The second victim was the driver of a truck, who apparently had climbed from the cab of his vehicle and was trying to direct traffic when he was struck by a skidding automobile.

The names of the truck driver and woman were not immediately available. State police helicopters were used to transfer several injured people to Ashland State General Hospital, located about seven miles north of the accident site.

Authorities reported scores of accidents along the same stretch of highway about the time of the snow squall, including a seven-car pileup at Mahanoy City in which several people were reported injured.

In New York, four people were injured in a multivehicle pile-up also attributed to snow on Interstate 81 in Syracuse.

Space Shuttle Faces Delay

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Space Shuttle, scheduled to make its first run next spring or summer, may be delayed in getting off the ground because of rocket booster problems, officials say.

"Sure, we've had development problems," says Lou Rayburn, deputy director of special space problems at McDonnell Douglas Aeronautics Corp.

"There may have been delays in attacking the problems because we thought we had enough slack time to solve everything, but now it's possible we might impact on the overall program. There has been concern that (a delay) could happen," Rayburn said.

Rayburn would not specify the nature of the difficulty. "Whenever you have a new program like this you are going to have developmental problems," he said.

NASA's deputy director for the shuttle program, Ron Day, acknowledges the problem, but indicates that the space agency has not given up on its timetable.

"We are kind of leaning on them to get caught up," he said. "They are about a month behind schedule, and we've just about squeezed out any excess time we have in our overall schedule."

Victim Of Shooting Listed As 'Serious'

LAMESA (Special) — Valentine Gonzales, believed to be in his early 40s, was listed in serious condition today at Methodist Hospital with gunshot wounds in the head he suffered in an apparent domestic quarrel here Sunday.

Virginia Garcia Servantes, 28, of Lamesa has been charged with aggravated assault in connection with the 11 p.m. shooting, Assistant District Attorney Ricky Smith said.

The suspect turned herself in to police immediately after the shooting, Bartlett said. She was to be transferred to Dawson County Jail here. Bond had not been set this morning.

Jury Selection Begins In Trial Of Physician

By CAROLE FELDMAN
HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP) — Jury selection in the trial of Dr. Mario Jasclevich, the "Dr. X" charged with murdering five patients with the muscle relaxant curare, began here today after a judge rejected defense motions on the questioning of jurors.

Defense attorney Raymond A. Brown argued that excessive pretrial publicity warranted individual questioning of jurors, but Bergen County Court Judge William J. Arnold said he would question the panel in the presence of other jurors.

County Assistant Prosecutor Sybil Moses opposed the motion. Earlier this month, a judge denied a motion to move the trial from the county because of excessive publicity. Jasclevich originally was identified as "Dr. X" in news accounts.

The 50-year-old physician pleaded innocent when he was indicted in May 1976 on charges of murdering patients by injecting them with curare, used as a poison by South American Indians. The deaths occurred between December 1965 and September 1966 while he was chief of surgery at Riverdell Hospital in Oradell.

The major issue in the trial was expected to be whether curare was present in the dead, identified as Carl Rohrbach, 73; Nancy Savino, 4; Margaret Henderson, 26; Frank Biggs, 59, and Emma Arzt, 70.

Four of the five patients, including the 4-year-old girl, were recovering from surgery when they died. The fifth died shortly after Jasclevich canceled his operation.

When the case was investigated briefly in 1966, Jasclevich told a prosecutor there were medical explanations for the deaths. The investigation was dropped for lack of evidence, with a major factor being the inability to detect the presence of curare in the victims' bodies.

In early 1976, the bodies of the five were ordered exhumed by former Bergen County Prosecutor Joseph C. Woodcock Jr., after news stories on the mysterious deaths. Advances in medical testing also made detection of the drug possible.

Laboratories in four states performed tests on the remains, and law enforcement sources say curare was found in all five. According to hospital records none of the patients had been given the drug.

The case began in 1966 when Dr. Stanley Harris, a hospital surgeon, said he saw curare in Jasclevich's locker. The hospital's directors were informed and 18 vials of curare were seized by the prosecutor.

Jasclevich, a naturalized citizen born in Argentina, denied wrongdoing and said he was using the curare in research on "dying dogs" at Seton Hall Medical School in Jersey City.

He also charged that some of the vials did not belong to him, that his "research bag" had been moved and that his car had been broken into. Dog hairs were found on several syringes in the his locker.

The surgeon's account of experimenting on dogs at Seton Hall in 1965 and 1966 was not independently corroborated, but it was established that he worked on dogs in 1963 and 1964 before he bought 24 vials of curare from a surgical supply house.

He resigned from the Riverdell hospital staff in 1967.

Jasclevich has not practiced medicine since May 1976 when he surrendered his license to the Board of Medical Examiners after it charged him with misrepresenting that a patient had cancer.

Burns Denies Aiding Nixon's Re-Election

WASHINGTON (UPI) — At a time when the nomination of his successor may be in trouble, Arthur Burns has begun answering critics of his Federal Reserve Board leadership, it was learned today.

Before President Carter designated businessman G. William Miller for the position, Burns had said he would like to serve another term.

But Burns' opposition to economic stimulation through budget deficits and his money supply policy during Richard Nixon's re-election campaign in 1972 were cited by Democrats as justifying his removal.

The criticism was led by House Banking Committee chairman Henry Reuss, D-Wis., Senate Banking chairman William Proxmire, D-Wis., Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and Chairman Charles Schultze of the Council of Economic Advisers.

In a personal letter obtained by UPI, Burns denied pumping up the money supply to enhance Nixon's re-election bid.

"Neither I nor the Federal Reserve was spared criticism by prominent White House officials at that time," Burns said.

He also said Reuss and Proxmire did not indicate in 1972 and 1973 that the Federal Reserve was under White House influence.

"Throughout 1972, Sen. Proxmire criticized the Federal Reserve on the ground that its monetary policy was too restrictive," Burns said. "Early in 1973, Congressman Reuss congratulated the Federal Reserve on its monetary policy during 1972."

Reuss' top aide on the banking committee said he could not recall Reuss ever supporting Burns.

Burns' remarks were in a letter to Elias P. Demetropoulos, a Wall Street financial adviser.

The Feb. 9 letter obtained by UPI ended a silence Burns had maintained since Carter nominated Miller in December.

Miller, 52, has been chairman for 10 years of a major corporate conglomerate, Textron Inc., whose holdings include the makers of Bell helicopters and Spideel watches.

Chairmanship of the Federal Reserve is a key posts in the government. The central bank sets policies that affect interest rates and determine whether businesses, builders and consumers get loans for equipment, housing, cars and personal needs.

Burns has urged the Senate to act quickly on Miller because of pressing economic problems facing the Federal Reserve.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

Here Come Da South!

HORACE GREELEY should have adjusted his sights a bit south a century ago when he looked West and divined the nation's future.

Increasing numbers of Americans during recent decades have been migrating to the South and Southwest, creating a continuing shift in the population epicenter that bears far-reaching consequences on the body politic.

As of last July, the total population was an estimated 216.3 million—up some 13 million (6.3 per cent) since 1970, according to the Census Bureau's latest reckoning.

THE GROWTH RATE in the booming Sun Belt is far in excess of the national average. On the other hand, growth is generally below the national average in the Northeast and Midwest with three states (New York, Pennsylvania and Rhode Island) actually registering declines.

There is more here than a run to the sun not only by the young men Greeley had in mind, but millions of Americans of assorted ages and genders.

It also represents a shift in the center of political gravity.

Trying its hand at short-term prophecy,

There's More Than One Way To Win An Argument

James J. Kilpatrick:

He Could Strut Sitting Down

WASHINGTON—The U.S. Civil Service Commission is planning a festive occasion at its E Street offices on the afternoon of June 30.

The head of Republican S. John Byington, appropriately mounted, will be hung in the commission's trophy room.

As the drinks go around, congratulations will be in order for John D. R. Cole, director of the Bureau of Personnel Management Evaluation.

Good hunting, old chap! The head of Brother Byington is not what you would call a major trophy. It doesn't compare with the head of U.S. Attorney David Marston, recently mounted in the offices of Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell.

But taking one thing with another, it is something of an achievement to bag the chairman of the Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), and Cole is entitled to the modest felicitations that come his way.

Headhunting is among the games men play in Washington, and after a while we critics of the press come to look upon such sport with jaded eyes.

IN THE CASE at hand, it is pointless to shed tears for Byington, who asked to be shot down; and it is meaningless to wag a finger at Cole, who did no more than what comes naturally.

But the tale of this safari merits a moment of your time.

The trail began two years ago, when Gerald Ford named S. John Byington to become chairman of the CPSC. It was like naming a new superintendent for the zoo.

From its inception five years ago, the commission has been overstaffed here, and understaffed there, and fairly well disorganized elsewhere.

the Census Bureau predicts that if present population trends continue through 1980, the Congressional reapportionment to be based on that year's census will see a significant strengthening of Sun Belt representation—at the expense of declining areas.

UP TWO TO 26, Texas will replace Pennsylvania (down one to 24) in third place. California (up one seat to 44) will lengthen its lead over New York (down three to 36). Florida (up two to 17) will pull ahead of New Jersey.

A predicted gain of nine seats by the fast-growing states and a similar loss by the Northeast and Midwest adds up to a net shift of votes, which could prove of considerable significance in future Congresses.

The growing and declining areas have different needs and outlooks on energy, transportation, labor, environmental protection, welfare, urban policy—all issues of present concern and in some cases of major legislation.

So, unless present Congresses also look to the future, the fruits of their deliberations may be outdated even before they're enacted.

Justice Gets Knifed

GOVERNMENT investigators turned up 7,074 men and women in uniform who are collecting welfare benefits in addition to their military paychecks.

Well, look at it this way: They can be counted on to fight like the devil when the chips are down because they'd have so much to lose.

A Lubbock businessman who had to risk life and limb over snow-covered courthouse sidewalks recalls that a federal judge has ordered us taxpayers to spend a hunk of dough providing a plush exercise area for jail inmates.

He was just wondering why maybe they couldn't get their exercise shoveling snow off of courthouse walkways so's we taxpayers could get there to pay our taxes.

NOTE TO CITY HALL: Motorists are confused by the traffic signs at 32nd St. and Indiana Ave.

A driver turning west off Indiana Avenue is confronted by a "Yield" sign. He assumes this is merely a superfluous directive that he yield to southbound traffic on the thoroughfare.

But drivers headed east on 32nd Street, who are confronted by a "Stop" sign, assume that the left-turning motorist must yield to them.

Whoever is right—and I wonder if any two lawyers would agree—the confusion needs to be eliminated. Otherwise, there's bound to be a traffic smash-up.

Holmes Alexander:

The 'Truth' About Democracy

WASHINGTON—America was born to trouble, as the stars and stripes, and briefly the stars and bars fly upward.

These days are not different from the past, for democracy is inherently flawed, and how do we get through all forms of life—we simply live through it.

One who could have warned us early was Plato who said that government of the people, by the people, can never be for the people. Ordinary citizens vote but don't govern.

That task is left to persons who are generally of a lower moral caliber than the average. They seek none of the virtues of government, but seek only power under their own creed of amorality.

We should know all this by our advanced age, and there are two chief reasons why we don't. One is that we prefer not to acknowledge the humiliating truth.

The second is that the better writers of this day do not have the insight and eloquence of the giants who have gone before.

I DO NO contemporary political writer a slander when I assert that none could hold a candle to the historian, essayist and anonymous fictioneer, Henry Adams, whose novel "Democracy" (1880) tells it all in less than 200 pages.

Henry Adams has the advantage of being both a scholar of history and a cynical observer of passing events from a box seat in Washington.

One reason why Adams gives the truly undeniable faults of democracy is that he was a man of letters, like Francis Bacon, with the narrative skill of some master of understatement like Henry James. Henry Adams couldn't possibly have psyched himself up to the melodrama of what we feed on today.

But to his story of "Democracy": The well-off comely New York widow, Madeleine Lee, vaguely of Southern blood, loses a loved husband and an infant child in quick succession, and for a while devotes herself to going among the poor and destitute of Manhattan.

She sees she cannot change the system, and moves with her younger sister Sybil to Washington's Lafayette Square, perhaps hopeful of learning to reform the "great system of democracy." She would aid the post-Civil War scandal-ridden nation.

A distant Southern relation John Carrington, lawyer and bachelor, takes her in charge and the opening scene finds her in the Senate gallery listening to the virile oratory of Sen. Silas Ratcliffe of Peoria, Ill.

Ratcliffe is thought to be his dominant party's choice for President, a widower of physical size and charm.

Madeleine learns from Ratcliffe that the party, the Union and America's place in the sun are his priorities. His own power encompasses all. The triangular romance, and glittering society background, is all there, but the story is an allegory which all of us will recognize.

The characters change with history—Kennedy, Nixon, Johnson replace Ratcliffe. But no modern

THE TEXAS Court of Criminal Appeals must shoulder its share of the blame for a rise in the violent crime rate.

It ruled the other day that a four-inch knife is not a deadly weapon unless an expert testifies it is.

A few days earlier, it ruled that evidence tending to show a rapist's pattern of attack on vulnerable young women was inadmissible.

In both cases, Judge Leon Douglas dissented. He will get my vote for re-election any day he wants it.

Lawyers in far too many cases seem to have forgotten the purpose of the law, which is to see justice done. They do violence to justice by nit-picking to death any technical loophole that will keep lawyers in business.

IN THE KNIFE case, for example, the lawyers who comprise the Criminal Appeals Court found by a margin of 6-3 that the evidence in a Dallas case was "insufficient" to prove that a pocket knife was a deadly weapon.

This was despite the fact that the victim in the case was cut on the elbow, chin and throat area.

A policeman said he saw the defendant make "a kind of slashing move" and the victim said the defendant told him "I have a knife."

Yet, unbelievably, the Court's majority ruled that "the evidence regarding the manner of its use or intended use" is insufficient to show that the pocket knife was capable of causing death or serious bodily injury.

Such nitpicking disregard for commonsense makes the law a mockery and invites criminals to prey on society and then hire a lawyer, it would seem to me.

JUDGE DOUGLAS, pointing out the same thing in more diplomatic language, said his colleagues by their decision had "strained the bounds of reason."

"If a knife with a four-inch blade is not capable of producing serious bodily injury or death," he wrote in dissent, "why are there so many bodies in our cemeteries as a result of injuries received from such a weapon?"

The answer is simple, My Dear Judge Douglas. Under the reasoning of your colleagues, those people in the cemeteries are not dead unless an expert has so testified that they are.

That reasoning may spring a few killers and would-be killers for new trials, but so far the appellate courts have failed to raise a single victim from the dead.

Sylvia Porter:

'Proof' Of Purchase Required By Customs

(First Of Two Columns)
WE'LL BUY A record of more than $3 billion in personal gifts overseas in 1978, as the highest number ever of Americans travelling abroad and our depreciating dollar combine to boost the price of items we buy.

We will process our purchases through 300 ports of entry into the U.S., also keeping Customs officials busier than ever before.

And whereas in the past, most tourists either bought less than $100 of goods abroad (completely duty-free) or $250 of items (for which a simple oral declaration is sufficient), in 1977 almost 45 per cent of tourists spent more than $250 overseas.

And more and more of us are bringing home items running into many hundreds or thousands of dollars.

FACED WITH THESE big-money purchases, customs officials, (although still drilled in good manners), now request receipts, invoices, dates of purchases, countries of origin, other records.

How, then, do you—this year's tourist overseas—save time, money and avoid possible confiscation of your purchases?

* Get an invoice on everything you buy, no matter how inexpensive the item. Even if you bought the merchandise at a local bazaar, get something in writing.

Any legible invoice is admissible as proof of your transaction, says Joseph J. McLinden, president of the Frank P. Dow Companies, a Los Angeles customs broker and a subsidiary of the Myers Group, one of the nation's largest transportation service organizations.

* Do not succumb to the too-often used practice of double invoicing, under which a shopkeeper abroad offers to provide you with a lower invoice as well as the correct one "so that you will be charged with less duty."

THIS TRICK ALMOST never works and may get you into big-time trouble. Customs officials know almost to the penny the value of most items brought into the U.S. and substantially lower invoices merely make them suspicious.

Double invoicing could lead to a fine or even outright confiscation of the item for fraud.

* Make sure local sales taxes are separately listed on your invoices. Taxes on any item are not subject to duty, but if not listed clearly, the amount could be construed as part of the item's price, raise the item's value and duty to be paid.

On expensive merchandise, ask the seller to list taxes on a separate invoice.

* Take advantage of the relatively new Generalized System of Preferences rule—under which you may bring in items, normally subject to duty, completely free if you bought them in a so-called developing nation.

THIS LITTLE-KNOWN law was designed to spur the export trade of less affluent countries. A truly astounding list of 98 countries are considered "underdeveloped" and most of their consumer products are practically duty-free.

If you will be visiting several countries, knowing which are on the "GSP" list can save you substantial sums, McLinden emphasizes.

Phone or write your local customs office to obtain a published list of these countries and the items that are duty-free. The leaflet "GSP and The Traveler" is free—and could be invaluable.

* If you're bringing home inexpensive gifts (under $10), have each labeled and wrapped separately.

HAVE THE STORE or merchant abroad wrap the gift with the recipient's address and your temporary overseas address (probably your hotel).

* List first those items with the highest rates of duty, so they come under your $100 per person exemption. For instance, if you have bought clothing abroad, always list it under your legal exemption because it bears the highest rate of duty, up to 42 per cent of valuation.

Jewelry also should get a high priority on your exemption form because of its relatively high rate, 27 per cent. List items with low rates of duty—about 7 per cent—after your exemptions are exhausted, so duty will be relatively small.

* Before you leave the U.S., list with Customs such foreign-made items as a Japanese camera or imported jewelry that you bought on a previous overseas trip or in the U.S.

If you neglect this one simple step, Customs will assume the item has just been bought and charge full duty unless you have a certificate of registration.

Tomorrow: What can you do if you've been overcharged?

Experts See Trouble For Carter

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter won his job by commandeering the Democratic center and holding it against the efforts of rivals to depict him as too far right for the Democrats or too far left for the country.

He always scorned those labels, calling them little ideological boxes and saying that the voters resented them as much as he did.

Yet when Republicans took to calling him a liberal in Deep South disguise, Carter did some fine tuning of his image in order to stress his relatively conservative attitude on matters of budget and government.

That kind of adjustment is easier made in theory than in action. For example, after a year in office, Carter has had to drop his campaign promise to balance the federal budget by the end of his current term. He hasn't said it won't happen, but he no longer promises that it will.

Now come two political scientists to suggest that Carter could face difficulties in a 1980 re-election campaign unless he can keep voters, especially Southern voters, convinced that he remains near the middle of the political road.

"He won by capturing the votes of centrist switchers," write Richard M. Scammon and Ben J. Wattenberg. "He is in trouble, and may get into deeper trouble if he is perceived to be moving from the center toward the left."

Analysis

Writing in Public Opinion, a new bi-monthly magazine published by the American Enterprise Institute, Scammon and Wattenberg say that problem could be particularly severe in Carter's own South.

Scammon is director of the Elections Research Center and a director of the Census Bureau. Wattenberg, once a presidential campaign aide to Sen. Henry M. Jackson, is a senior fellow of the institute and an editor of its magazine.

According to their analysis, Carter won in 1976 because of a wholesale shift of white Southern voters out of the Republican column and into his. Hubert H. Humphrey got only 31 percent of the Southern vote in 1968, George McGovern 29 percent in 1972. Carter got 54 percent.

"The big change came among white Southerners," Scammon and Wattenberg say. "Had they not switched to Carter in large numbers in 1976 he would not have won. If those switchers do not — for any reason — vote for him in 1980, it is unlikely that he will win again."

Those voters are generally conservative, but in Carter they had a fellow Southerner, and that overrode ideological leanings which might otherwise have aligned them with Republican Gerald R. Ford.

Now Carter has demonstrated that a Deep South candidate can be elected president, just as John F. Kennedy proved a Roman Catholic could win.

Kennedy's victory effectively eliminated Catholicism as an issue in presidential campaigns. The question Scammon and Wattenberg raise is whether Carter's victory will work the same way on the regional issue.

"Will Southerners have to prove a point about the South, again, after they proved it one in 1976?" they ask.

"The question can't be answered now. But if in fact Carter's regional pull is diminished next time, more traditional campaign factors would loom larger.

He would, of course, have incumbency as his issue, and if times are relatively good, that is a big head start on any challenger.

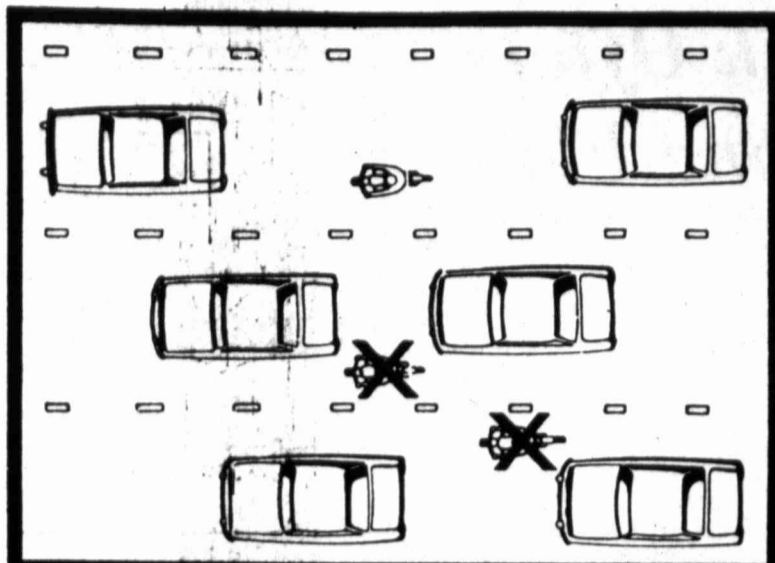

Another of those traditional factors is ideology, which is where Scammon and Wattenberg see the potential risk to Carter's Southern base.

"How vulnerable would President Carter be in his home region if he can readily be depicted as pro-Panama 'giveaway,' pro-quotas, pro-welfare, anti-growth, pro-Cuba and so on?" they ask.

The answer is very vulnerable.

But no challenger is going to find it easy to paint Carter into such corners as that.

And he has plenty of time, as Scammon and Wattenberg note, to shift course as necessary "if he feels politically threatened in the South, or anywhere else for that matter."

RIDE WITH CARE — Knowing what is in front of you is as important as knowing what is behind you when riding a moped. Install mirrors on your vehicle and ride with extra care.

Moped Riding Laws Vary Among States

By BOB CLAMPETT

By now you are probably convinced that mopeds are pretty good. They're inexpensive, simple to operate, easy to maintain, economical and safe to use, and generally sound in design and construction.

Last In A Series

tion — all this, plus the fun of riding one.

But then you get to the key question: What do the laws say about operating mopeds? Suddenly you find yourself knee-deep in muddy water. Only your state's Department of Motor Vehicles can help you clear things up. Here are some essential questions:

1. How old do you have to be to drive a moped? Depending upon where you live, you must be 14, 15, 16 or "none" years of age, since three states (Indiana, Ohio, and South Carolina) have no minimum age requirement for moped use.
2. What's the maximum speed limit? Again, you'll have to check into the laws of your own state.
3. Does the law require moped riders to wear helmets? Almost never. One exception, however, is the state of New York which requires that a helmet be worn when traveling on a moped at speeds over 17 miles per hour.
4. Is a license necessary? Yes. Or no. Or a learner's permit, in two cases.

5. How is the term "moped" legally defined? Arizona state law, for example, refers to the vehicle as a "pedal bicycle with helper motor," while other states with moped legislation choose either the designation of "motorized bicycle" or simply "bicycle" as the vehicle definition of state law.

In 1973, the Department of Transportation placed an embargo on importation of mopeds that did not conform to the federal standards for motorcycle safety equipment.

On April 9, 1974, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) issued a notice of proposed amendments "that would modify current requirements applicable to motordriven cycles."

Successful acquisition of special recognition for the moped from the Federal Government was really only half the struggle to get you and your moped street-legal. The Federal Government only defines equipment and safety features that must be part of the vehicle to be sold legally within the United States. Manufacturers-distributors whose mopeds do not conform with current standards face recall or confiscation of the vehicles they produce.

Current federal standards include restrictions on lights (head lamp, tail lamp, stop lamp, and reflectors), tires, brakes, controls, and displays.

Canadian Sues Delta Airlines

MIAMI (UPI) — A Canadian woman, who says an airline stewardess accused her of theft and demanded that she strip "to her bare necessities" during a flight, sued Delta Airlines for $2,500, alleging invasion of privacy, slander and negligence.

Sophie Hardman and her husband, Maurice, charged in a suit filed in Dade Circuit Court that their Florida vacation was ruined because of the incident. The couple lives in Montreal.

The suit said Mrs. Hardman was in the lavatory aboard Delta flight 1029 on Jan. 11, 1976, when stewardess Carol Hartley knocked on the door demanding the return of "three valuable rings that were purported to have been left (there) by another passenger."

When Mrs. Hardman denied having the rings, the suit said, "Hartley then, in a very audible and loud voice that was heard by all passengers and crew members in the area, accused (Mrs. Hardman), of theft of the rings."

The suit filed by attorney Robert H. Wiggins said the stewardess insisted that she strip "to her bare necessities."

The incident caused Mrs. Hardman

"shame and the loss of her good name," the suit said.

Delta, still awaiting a copy of the complaint, had no immediate comment.

The missing rings had been recovered by a passenger who used the lavatory before Mrs. Hardman, the suit said, and were returned to their owner by the senior flight attendant.

Omaha Bank Offers Pay-By-Phone Plan

By LeROY POPE
NEW YORK (UPI) — Bill-paying is a hassle in most households. Hardly anything causes more domestic arguments. But two-way computerized telephone banking can virtually eliminate the problems, says President Bill Fitzgerald of Commercial Federal Savings & Loan Association of Omaha.

Fitzgerald's bank provides customers with something called Cashaction — a computerized pay-by-phone system programmed for the bank by International Business Machines Corp.

IBM says there are at least 60 such systems in operation by banks around the country using various computer makers' hardware and software. The Omaha system is the only one IBM has programmed totally but the company and banking trade circles expect the practice to grow steadily.

Commercial Federal has a similar plan for business firms, called Cashflow. A depositor operates Cashaction by punching out a code on a touch-tone telephone, directing the bank to pay bills, anything, to anyone — alimony, household expenses, the hairdresser, children away at school. Payment also can be made from rotary dial phones and can be ordered from anywhere in the United States; the bank accepts collect calls.

The computer will handle as many of the transactions as it can by automatic fund transfer and will send checks for the rest, which the bank will mail. For regular monthly payments — for insurance, auto loan or mortgage, for instance — instructions are given only once and payment is made automatically. The computer even will accept instruction to pay such and such a bill 15 days hence. The charge is a dime per transaction, which saves the billpayer at least three cents on each bill for which a check would otherwise have to be mailed.

But Fitzgerald pointed out that Cashaction has another big advantage. Under this plan at his bank, the customer puts his whole check in the savings account instead of just what's left over after paying bills.

The amounts of extra interest a typical family account can earn this way in the course of a year is surprising. Fitzgerald said for many families the extra interest and postage stamp and envelope savings will run to $75 a year.

The computer also will tell you exactly what your balance is and just when you paid the insurance premium, the rent, the parking ticket fine or the doctor's bill.

The depositor has to set up a Cashaction account at the bank. Commercial Federal has 9,200 such accounts and expects 25,000 by 1980.

Lady Bird Attends Ceremony

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — They invited a former first lady to this Mississippi River port city recently, and briefly reopened a historic hotel in her honor.

The Peabody Hotel, banished into bankruptcy three years ago, returned for a while to its former splendor when Lady Bird Johnson, widow of President Lyndon Johnson, arrived to launch this year's beautification campaign by the City Beautiful Commission.

Mrs. Johnson mingled with 325 civic and business leaders and spoke at a $15-a-plate catered seafood buffet in the hotel ballroom. The facility was spruced up by city sanitation workers for the occasion.

She posed for pictures with ducks, brought back to the hotel fountain for the occasion from the Shelby County farm that took them in after the hotel closed. During the luncheon, plain-clothes police and Secret Service agents patrolled the ballroom and halls.

Mrs. Johnson complimented the city, but sounded a warning.

"I think of your city as a beautiful and elegant lady who married King Cotton and lived happily ever after — well, almost," she said. "Time is now putting lines on the face of Memphis... this legendary Peabody Hotel, so soon to be restored, we hope."

Mrs. Johnson said restoration of the 52-year-old Peabody would be incentive to proceed with other rebuilding and beautification projects in Memphis. The hotel's owner, Belz Investment Co., has been working in recent months to finance the $10 million restoration of the building.

Mrs. Ivy Trippeer, luncheon chairman, estimated it cost about $5,000 to reopen the hotel for the event.

The Peabody's dishes were rolled in a cart across the street to the Ramada Inn for washing, brought back for the luncheon, then taken back to the Ramada Inn for washing after the buffet.

During her visit, Mrs. Johnson also planted a willow oak on a median strip on a parkway and toured the city by bus.

Nation's Air Not Meeting Standards

WASHINGTON (AP) — A majority of Americans live in areas that do not meet national air pollution standards even though the air is getting cleaner, the Environmental Protection Agency said.

The new findings mean that new strategies must be developed by the states to meet national air pollution standards, the EPA reported.

"Since 1970 sulfur dioxide air pollution nationally has dropped 27 percent, carbon monoxide levels are down 20 percent and particulates (smoke and dust) decreased 12 percent," said EPA administrator Douglas M. Costle.

But Costle added that "we still have many specific areas of the country — especially in our cities — where a significant cleanup task remains."

Of the 3,215 counties in the United States, new EPA data shows:

- There are 606 counties that do not meet federal standards for photochemical oxidants which can seriously irritate eyes, mucus membranes and the respiratory system.
- At least 424 counties do not meet federal standards for particulate matter which can cause breathing problems and respiratory illness.
- There are 190 counties that fail to meet the carbon monoxide standard. Carbon monoxide can place serious burdens on an individual's heart to increase the blood flow to compensate for reduced blood oxygen levels.
- There are 108 counties that do not meet sulfur dioxide standards. Sulfur dioxide can irritate the upper respiratory tract and cause lung damage.
- And eight counties fail to meet the nitrogen dioxide standard. Nitrogen dioxide can cause bronchitis and pneumonia.

The clean air act requires that all states with areas not meeting federal air standards must submit new pollution control plans to EPA by January 1979.

Woman Killed, Nine Hurt In Bus Crash

LONGMONT, Colo. (UPI) — A Continental Trailways bus on a weekend run to Billings, Mont., hit an icy curve on U.S. 287, skidded 190 feet and overturned. One woman was killed and nine other persons injured.

It was the second accident in two weeks involving a Continental Trailways bus. A bus overturned on Interstate 70 near Denver Feb. 12, injuring two persons.

DR. LAMB

Beer Not Nutritive

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.
 DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband's co-workers insist that a glass of beer is not only less harmful than a glass of cola or a cup of coffee but also that alcoholic beverages have more food value because they are made from grains. Please compare the nutritive value of these beverages and share the facts.

DEAR READER — Coffee has no significant number of calories unless you add sugar, milk, cream or some other source of calories. The cola beverages vary depending upon whether it is a diet drink or not and it is certainly true that beer contains more calories. Why? Not because it is made from grains but because it contains alcohol. Alcohol contains 7 calories per gram which is exceeded in calories per gram only by pure fat.

It is not nutritive in any sense other than the calories it contains. Alcohol contains no vitamins or minerals. Neither do alcoholic beverages unless you add something to the alcohol. As an illustration, if you put a jigger of vodka in a glass of orange juice it would have some valuable vitamin C but that would be from the orange juice, not the vodka. Alcohol is a major factor in obesity in the population at large. And it is a cellular toxin.

To give you more information about alcoholic beverages I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-4, Alcohol, Whiskey, Gin, Vodka, Rum, Wine, Beer. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a non-drinking alcoholic woman of 40. I quit drinking in January of 1976. Since then I have had no desire for sex. As a result, my ex-husband says I must not love him anymore. But I want nothing to do with him involving emotions. Not even a kiss because it will lead to something else. We agreed he would get his sex somewhere else and he does.

He is also a non-drinking alcoholic, but has had slips. We agreed to be friends, but he wants more. Please send something to enlighten me for I am tired of arguing with him.

DEAR READER — I must say it is a bit difficult to advise you on what you should do about your sex life with your ex-husband. If you were still married it would be another matter.

Whether you want an emotional relationship with your ex-husband or not is undoubtedly related to many things that have passed between you which has resulted in the EX-status.

It is not normal, though, for a 40-year-old person, male or female, to have no desire for sex. It usually indicates an underlying emotional problem. This can involve psychological factor such as fear of rejection, or an overly restricted emotional life in childhood or any number of things. You might profit from some professional counseling to see if you might not be able to develop the capacity to get more emotional satisfaction out of life.

Sex is part of loving and is one way of expressing love. If you have no interest in sex it raises the question of whether you have the personal fulfillment of any loving relationship. The choice of whom you love is your personal affair.

Utility Stock Sale Causes Stir

By CHET CURRIER
 NEW YORK (AP) — An aura of mystery usually surrounds the day-to-day stock market maneuvers of investing institutions, but every once in a while a ray of light gets through.

That's what happened early last week, when one of the nation's biggest and best-known mutual funds apparently acted to dispose of several of the electric utility stocks in its portfolio.

In the space of a few hours last Tuesday, about a dozen blocks of electric utility issues, ranging in size from 100,000 to more than 275,000 shares, crossed the ticker tape.

By all indications, the seller in nearly all those transactions was the $1.4 billion Dreyfus Fund, owned at last count by more than 118,000 shareholders, and managed by Dreyfus Corp. of New York.

That conclusion couldn't be officially confirmed, since Dreyfus officials and the brokers involved in the transactions declined any comment. The rules limit what fund managers can say between quarterly reports, and brokers are supposed to keep their clients' dealings in confidence.

But a comparison of several of Tuesday's trades and of the Dreyfus Fund's portfolio as of last Dec. 31 leaves little doubt about what happened.

In one block, 150,000 shares of Gulf States Utilities changed hands. Dreyfus Fund's year-end report showed it owned 155,400 Gulf States shares.

A 145,000-share block of Tampa Electric likewise matched Dreyfus' holdings exactly. Ditto a 200,000-share block of Consumers Power; a 125,000-share block of Florida Power; and 100,000-share blocks of Northeast Utilities and Tyson Gas & Electric.

It also was evident that Dreyfus' reported holding of 226,800 Allegheny Power shares was involved in a 276,800-share block trade in that stock.

Together, all those blocks of stock would account for only a fractional part of the fund's extensive utility holdings, which amounted to $129 million — or about 9 percent of its total assets — as of New Year's.

But the sale of that many utility shares in a single day nevertheless spotlighted the recent skittishness investors generally have been exhibiting toward the electric companies.

From late 1974 to 1977 the group broke out of a decade-long decline with a sharp and extended rally. Recently, however, the Dow Jones average of 15 utilities (which includes gas as well as electric companies) has been under pressure, falling from 110.96 at the start of January to under 103 as of last week.

One reason analysts give for this downturn has been fears of rising long term interest rates, which tend to depress "yield" stocks decimas utilities. The coal strike that began in early December hasn't helped either.

But for investors interested primarily in current income, the electric utilities still have their staunch advocates. The Value Line Investment survey calculated recently that the 101 companies in the industry it follows had an average dividend yield of 8.3 percent.

"Utility stocks, being primarily income vehicles, respond inversely to changes in interest rates, provided the dividend remains constant," Value Line said.

"But most electric utilities raise their dividends on a rather regular basis. We expect this pattern will continue."

Service Station Attendant Foils Robbery Attempt

It must have been a little like "Key-stone Kops" but the police had nothing to do with it.

It was a 17-year-old service station attendant who saved the day — not to mention a cash register and its money — Sunday afternoon.

Lance Gilliland was sitting in his pickup at the side of the Phillips 66 Station at 3802 50th St. about 4 p.m., when he saw a man enter the business and go into the restroom. After the stranger came out and looked around for another attendant, he walked over to the cash register and lifted it from the desk.

As the thief unwittingly started toward the back door where Gilliland was parked, the quick-thinking employee grabbed a toy cap pistol from the floor-board of the truck and forced the man to an abrupt halt.

Gilliland forced the suspect to return the register to the desk and then ordered him back into the restroom as he went to call police. However, as the attendant was using the phone, the thief slipped out of the bathroom and ran north from the station.

Gilliland pursued the suspect, and after catching up with him in the 4500-block of Memphis Avenue, again "detained" him until police arrived.

In recently reported break-ins, James Arney of 2107 5th St., No. 14, told officers he was in the process of moving to a 6416 35th St. residence Sunday when he lost $1,538 worth of goods to a burglar at his new address. The missing property reported included a stereo, cameras and assorted household goods, most of which were boxed.

Julia G. Elliott of 4421 82nd St., No. 174, complained that she is out slightly more than $1,000 after a weekend burglar made off with a tape player, clothing and a great quantity of jewelry. The victim gave police the name of a suspect.

Reporting stolen television sets were Crespin Rodriguez of 2909 Erskine St., Juan Vasquez Serda of 3402 E. 14th St. and Jo Anne McRae of 2804 Juniper Ave., No. 7.

Lubbock police Saturday arrested a 65-year-old retiree's landlady for robbery after the man complained that the woman had taken more than $480 from him by force after apparently deciding to collect rent earlier than usual.

A.C. Tadlock of 2213 26th St., Rear, told officers he was napping about 2:15 p.m. Saturday when he awoke to find his landlady and another 65-year-old woman standing inside the apartment.

His landlady demanded the rent, and became upset when he told her it wasn't due, Tadlock said. When she approached the man's bed, Tadlock said he shoved the woman to the floor, but her companion pinned him down.

The two women took his wallet, he claimed, containing more than $480. Officers arrested one woman after she drove up outside the man's home while police were taking the man's report.

Also Saturday, officers were investigating a 19-year-old Texas Tech University student's report of a man exposing himself to dormitory residents.

The student told officers he saw a naked man wearing a red scarf and driving an orange pickup about 2:47 a.m. Saturday near a dormitory on the campus.

Officers investigating the complaint said they followed an orange pickup seen leaving that area and, after a long chase, pulled the vehicle over. But when officers walked to the man's car, he drove off.

Police eventually arrested a 24-year-old man for indecent exposure after the man's pickup was involved in a collision with a parked vehicle.

In a similar incident, a 30-year-old Uvalde Avenue woman told officers her two children had been the target of a "flasher" also.

The woman said her children were riding bicycles in the area of 40th Street and Avenue A about 4:30 p.m. Friday when a car stopped near them, its driver got out and allegedly removed his pants in front of the youngsters.

Acting on a confidential informant's tip, officers arrested a 47-year-old woman for possession of marijuana for sale after finding 43 pre-rolled cigarettes and two plastic bags of a substance believed to be marijuana.

Two officers following up on the tip alleging marijuana had been delivered to a 306 Idaloua Road club about 6:30 p.m. Saturday arrested the woman after seeing the plastic bag containing the cigarettes lying on a shelf and finding two plastic bags of the item inside a coffee pot.

Lubbock police were also investigating a woman's complaint that she was being harassed in connection with her testimony scheduled to be heard in an upcoming murder case here.

A 27-year-old masseuse scheduled to testify in the shooting death of another Lubbock masseuse said she had been told by a man seen sitting outside her firm that a certain man was "going to kill you."

James Joseph Burks of Lubbock told police two men had been bothering him for several days, but Saturday about 2 p.m. took action on their complaints. Burk said the two men tossed rocks at him while he was inside a phone booth at 6800 19th St.

Car burglars reportedly took several cases and part boxes from Richard Melbourne Whitman's car while the auto was parked outside a Lubbock motel. The San Angelo man said the incident occurred between 4 p.m. Friday and 7:30 a.m. Saturday.

Chris Hall of 1111-B 41st St. told officers someone took a $35 gun from under the seat of his auto parked outside a 34th Street residence.

Burglars removed a $250 stereo from the 3302 East Broadway home of Rudy Espinoza about 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

Robert Michael Southard of 2302 Slide Road No. 39 told officers someone pried open a door to his house and then took three television sets, a $350 camera, a $40 dress, $4,950 in jewelry and $1,100 in cash between 10:30 p.m. Friday and 6:45 a.m. Saturday.

Grace Berry reported the theft of a $320 refrigerator and wardrobe closet from her 2429 27th St. home between 6 p.m. Friday and 12:30 p.m. Saturday.

Pat Mills of 5215 27th St. also reported the theft of $400 in wire from his 4121 Frankfort Ave. business between Jan. 22 and Feb. 22.

CHILDREN DROWN

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Eight children on an outing from a New Delhi orphanage drowned when they went swimming in a canal. Police said the children were visiting the tomb of Jawaharlar Nehru, India's first prime minister, Sunday and decided to go swimming when they found the canal in the park surrounding the tomb.

Hawkins Trial Jurors Still Number Seven

No new jurors were selected this morning for the Samuel Christopher Hawkins III capital murder trial.

Through midday, seven jurors had been chosen in the selection process which began Feb. 13.

Hawkins, 34, of Amarillo is accused of stabbing a six-months-pregnant Borger woman to death during an attempted aggravated rape.

Abbe Rodgers Hamilton, 19, was found in the bedroom of her Panhandle home May 3, 1977. She had been tied hand and foot and stabbed about 10 times.

If convicted of the capital charge, Hawkins will face either death or life imprisonment, only punishment options under Texas' capital murder law.

The trial, being conducted in the 99th District Courtroom here, was transferred on a change of venue from Hutchinson County.

Squabbles End In Four Deaths

NEW YORK (AP) — Separate domestic squabbles of two Queens couples led to two grisly murder-suicides within 14 hours.

While his 16-year-old son watched, John O'Connell, 57, shot his wife Josephine, 52, three times in the face with a .357-magnum revolver before shooting himself fatally in the head, police said.

Police said an argument Sunday night over the couple's three children turned into a fight over money and O'Connell, a security guard, killed his wife and then threatened to kill his son, but turned the gun on himself instead.

Earlier Sunday, a Sunnyside, Queens man killed his wife by smashing her head and stabbing her 24 times with a steak knife. He then jumped to his death from the roof of their six-story apartment building, police said.

Sol Marshal, 74, and his wife Juliette, 53, had a past record of marital battles that had brought them to Family Court, a homicide detective said.

Lubbock Unemployment Increased In January

Lubbock area unemployment jumped from 3.3 percent to 4.4 percent in January, which reflects the usual seasonal slump after the holiday season, according to a report issued by the Texas Employment Commission.

The January-through-March quarter is traditionally high in unemployment, and the report predicts a return in the next quarter to pre-holiday levels.

Retail trade showed the largest job deficit with an estimated 1,090 quits and layoffs. The public sector showed the effects of a new school term getting underway and the closing days of cotton classing for a combined drop of 620 workers.

Contract construction also showed a drop because of the bad weather.

Compared to year-ago levels, gains in total employment showed up in every segment of the industrial breakdown except transportation and allied fields. Reason for the decline in transportation jobs was attributed to the earlier completion of last year's harvest. Accordingly, the peak season came earlier than usual and declining demand began earlier also, TEC officials said.

By mid-April, employment levels are expected to climb back toward last month's figures of 3.3 percent, except for transportation, which will continue to slip downward, the report said.

While the unemployment level was higher than before the holidays, the overall labor force was estimated at 5.7 percent higher than January, 1977.

Total employment showed a 6.1 percent improvement over January, 1977, and the current 4.4 percent unemployment figure compares favorably with the 4.8 percent level in January, 1977.

The way things used to be

For anyone serving the public, that's really not the proper concern.

Our concern is with the way things are now... what today's families expect of us and what new services are necessary in order to keep us worthy of their trust.

Israelis Balk On Demand For Pullout

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin met with the U.S. Middle East negotiator today and said afterward Israel refuses to commit itself to a total pullout from occupied lands or to creation of a Palestinian state, in effect once again rejecting two key Egyptian peace demands.

Assistant Secretary of State Alfred Atherton conferred with Begin for two hours, continuing his shuttle mediation effort to find a basis for Egyptian-Israeli agreement on a declaration of principles for peace negotiations.

Atherton said he was not ready to propose a compromise formula.

Begin, who gave the American envoy a revised Israeli version of a declaration, told reporters afterward that one paragraph was identical in both the Israeli and Egyptian versions and some others required only "certain changes."

But "there are two issues we made absolutely clear," he said, referring to demands for an Israeli commitment to total withdrawal and a Palestinian state. "These two demands are unacceptable to us."

Atherton told reporters he felt both Israel and Egypt were making "a serious effort to find ways to bridge the gap."

"At this stage I am trying to convey Egyptian suggestions and language to Israel" and Israeli ideas to Egypt, said Atherton, who shuttles back to Cairo Tuesday.

Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan also took part in the meeting.

Atherton said resumption of direct Egyptian-Israeli peace talks "is not currently at the top of the agenda." This in effect repeated his previous comment that his shuttle mission to try to achieve agreement on principles for a peace agreement would be a long one.

Egypt has insisted that the principles must include Israeli withdrawal from all Arab land occupied in the 1967 war and self-determination for the Palestinians in the West Bank and Gaza Strip. Israel has refused to agree to either one.

The Syrian government newspaper Tishrin reported today that President Hafez Assad's government refused to meet with Atherton "because his present mission does not serve the cause of a just and lasting peace" and "does not concern us in any way."

"Atherton is only trying to convince Egypt to do a bilateral deal instead of a global solution," said the Damascus paper.

Meanwhile, the Israeli government decided to keep on settling Jews in the occupied Arab territories in spite of the Carter administration's opposition and a split over the policy within the cabinet.

The cabinet at its weekly meeting Sunday approved a resolution saying "it does not need new decisions" after a debate that pitted ministers who favor placating Washington by stopping the settlements against those who favor speeding up construction.

County

We're going to have to do more seal coating during our summer road maintenance program."

Ordinarily, he said, the county spends $200,000 to $300,000 each summer to pave roads. But the 1978 program may cost "substantially more" to effect repairs caused by the "freezing and thawing" cycle experienced recently here, Brazell said.

"On the narrow roads, the shoulders are just peeling off," Biggs added.

Also today, commissioners agreed to seek bids for a closed-circuit television monitoring system, with recording capabilities, for the existing county jail's book-in area.

If purchased, the system will be relocated in the county's proposed new detention facility, expected to be completed in 1980.

County Architect Arnold Maeker discussed with commissioners bidding procedures for the new jail, to be built east of the existing structure, straddling a downtown segment of Avenue G.

The bids are expected to be taken next month.

MESSAGE FOR CITY HALL — Tons of garbage fill 61st Street in Brooklyn late Sunday afternoon after residents of the neighborhood, angered by slow service by garbage pickup crews, dumped their trash in the street. Five Large Farm Groups Endorse Parity As Goal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five major agricultural organizations today again endorsed the mechanisms in last year's overhaul of federal farm policy, and called on the Carter administration to use them to raise crop prices.

As Senate Agriculture Committee hearings on the farm economy continued, the major farm groups did not endorse the main goal of the American Agriculture protest movement: new legislation forbidding the sale of farm products at less than 100 percent of parity.

But all endorsed parity as their goal — either through collective bargaining contracts between farmers and processors, the aim of the National Farmers Organization, or through greater manipulation of market forces by government, including higher grain support prices.

Parity is a formula comparing farmers' prices and production costs. The formula uses the favorable cost-price ratio that existed between 1910-1914 period as a base, or 100 percent. The ratio now is about 65 percent, on the average, for 114 commodities on which the Agriculture Department calculates parity prices.

The five farm groups were the NFO, the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Farmers Union, the National Grange and the Midcontinent Farmers Association.

They emphasized administrative actions by Secretary Bob Bergland to raise farm prices now under the authority of the 1977 farm act.

"The cash flow and income problems of American farmers cannot wait for the legislative mills to grind out a substantial change in farm-policy legislation. Farmers need help now," testified John W. Scott, master of the Grange.

Scott called for higher price supports for grains and soybeans and more incentives for farmers to participate in the three-year reserves program and acreage cutbacks Bergland has emphasized as the solution to the two-year price slump.

The supports operate through a program of government loans repaid the following year if market prices stay above the support rate, which generally sets the minimum price.

L.C. Carpenter, vice president of Midcontinent Farmers, said that both mandatory production controls and adequate acreage reductions to turn prices around appear politically unacceptable to farmers unless support prices are high enough to encourage them to go along.

Sen. Herman E. Talmadge's call for USDA to pay farmers up to $70 an acre to take 50 million out of production was generally supported. The Senate has passed a nonbinding resolution calling on Bergland to make such land-diversion payments, but he said again Friday that "they are not one of the options we're considering."

Farm Bureau Washington director John C. Datt, opposing higher supports, urged "more dynamic steps to increase exports" to reduce the market-depressing grain surpluses and expansion of farm-credit programs.

NFO President Oren Lee Staley said that a danger exists of farmers having to turn to large corporations for credit, leading to processor control of food from the ground to the retail store.

The American Agriculture Movement has had a group of farmers in Washington lobbying for farm legislation ever since a protest demonstration and tractorcade in the nation's capital several weeks ago.

Thugs Pick Elderly As Easy Marks

measures anyone — of any age — can take, Knox said, is to know who is on the other side of the unopened door.

Although most probably think this bit of advice too obvious for consideration, the growing number of residents who are victimized because they opened their doors testifies to the need for more awareness.

But perhaps it would be difficult for anyone to ignore a request made on behalf of a woman supposedly having a baby in a car.

In many cases Knox says a strong "deterrent" such as a large dog is useful when the door is opened to a stranger.

Usually the robbers, most of whom are young, have no trouble forcing compliance from their hapless victims, and everyone concerned knows it.

It is not difficult for robbers to pick out and identify the elderly residents of a neighborhood. Their possessions are meager and usually, they live in the poorer sections of town, either because rent is low or they have been unable to sell their homes and move as property values have declined.

Of the elderly robbery victims in the past two months, all but two have been white. Most are living on fixed incomes, so the loss of a television and a few dollars means a lot.

Once in a while, the robbers encounter a spunky victim who tries, but still fails, to thwart the crime.

After the three youthful bandits kicked in the front door of a house last week, they stood down the 62-year-old retiree who pushed near the entrance. The victim got up and hit one of the intruders on the head with his cane, but because all three brandished long-bladed knives, there was little doubt who would overcome.

The dauntless desperadoes hauled away $25 cash, a $40 necklace and a $12.50 radio.

Gas Forces Evacuation

pumping operation was going on in Tennessee, a 50-car Atlanta and St. Andrews Bay Railway train ran off the tracks in the Florida Panhandle near Youngstown.

Six of the 17 derailed cars carried chlorine; one cracked and the deadly gas drifted over the sleeping farm community.

Eight people died from exposure to the fumes — most teenagers killed as they drove through the gas before the danger was discovered.

About 90 people were treated and sent home and another 41 were hospitalized, nine in critical condition.

Authorities immediately began evacuating more than 1,000 residents within a three-mile radius of the accident and chemical disaster teams from Alabama and Jacksonville, Fla., were rushed to the scene.

An inspector from the National Transportation Safety Board, just finished with his work in Waverly, was en route to Panama City Sunday evening when he learned of yet a third derailment, again in Tennessee.

At 3:15 p.m. CST, 25 cars of an Illinois-Central Gulf freight train jumped the rails on a trestle near the west Tennessee town of Cades — about 80 miles west of Waverly.

There were no immediate injuries and no fire, but one of the derailed cars was carrying sodium hydroxide, a caustic lye. The tank car cracked and noxious fumes from the lye forced the evacuation of 250 rural Gibson County residents.

An NTSB spokesman said three Southern train derailments involving hazardous materials within the first two months of the year is "quite an alarming rate."

White House Accused Of Delaying On Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Malcolm Wallop suggested today that the White House is delaying the nomination of a new U.S. attorney for Maryland until it is seen how well the nominee testifies on the firing of a U.S. attorney in Philadelphia.

Wallop made the suggestion at confirmation hearings on the appointment of Benjamin R. Civiletti to become deputy attorney general.

Republicans on the Senate Judiciary Committee say that during the confirmation hearings they will focus on what Civiletti knows about the firing of David Marston, a Republican, as U.S. attorney in Philadelphia.

Russell T. Baker is expected to be nominated as U.S. attorney for Maryland. It is anticipated that he will be a witness at the hearings on Civiletti's nomination and that he will be asked about the Marston firing. Baker was a deputy assistant attorney general under Civiletti, who is acting deputy attorney general.

The Baker nomination has not been submitted to the Senate by the White House.

Wallop, R-Wyo., asked Civiletti if Baker's appointment was "being held hostage" until it is seen how well Baker testifies on the Marston affair.

Civiletti said: "I think it would be an outrageously silly conclusion."

Wallop replied that there appeared to be "absolutely no other reason" for the delay in the White House nomination of Baker.

Baker, in an affidavit submitted during a Justice Department investigation of Marston's removal, said his notes indicated he had told Civiletti in late November that Rep. Joshua Eilberg, D-Pa., might become involved in a grand jury investigation Marston was conducting.

Civiletti has testified that he had no recollection of Baker telling him this.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, was not present to follow up on a request he made of Civiletti Saturday to find out how Bell stands on wiretaps in national security cases.

Metzenbaum also had accused the department of foot-dragging in prosecuting FBI illegal surveillance cases and setting "bad policy" to stop publication of a former CIA agent's book on Vietnam.

Civiletti said Saturday that the book suit wasn't handled by the Criminal Division he headed for nearly a year, and neither was foreign intelligence wiretap questions.

But he promised Metzenbaum to answer the wiretap questions after consultations with Bell.

Tongsun Park Denies Working As Korean Government Agent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Accused South Korean influence buyer Tongsun Park says a former South Korean intelligence chief lied when he told a House committee that Park was an agent of the Korean government.

"That's absolutely not true," Park said in an interview televised today. Asked whether he was saying the former intelligence chief was lying, he said, "I think that is correct."

Park insisted he gave campaign contributions only to congressmen who were his friends, and only when they asked, "to help the American political system in my own way."

The interview with Park was taped in Hawaii on Friday for broadcast on a program today. Park returned to Washington on Sunday and will begin closed-door testimony to the House Ethics Committee on Tuesday.

A former director of the Korean Central Intelligence Agency, Kim Hyung Wook, told the ethics panel that Park and former Rep. Richard T. Hanna, D-Calif., promised that if the KCIA helped make Park Korea's exclusive rice dealer in this country, he would make payments out of commission money to congressmen "to help Korea's cause."

But Park said, "If you know me as a friend you will know I am very independent. I'm an agent of my own. No one has told me what to do in my life, not even my mother."

The Constitution prohibits members of Congress from accepting gifts from agents of foreign governments. The congressmen who took money from Park said they knew him only as a businessman and Washington party-giver.

Park has been indicted on criminal charges of trying to buy influence for the Korean government. Those charges are to be dropped in return for his testimony in U.S. courts.

Park said he made the contributions to congressmen only as a friend but said if he expected anything at all, he hoped they would have a good opinion of South Korea.

Park said on his arrival here that he will testify fully "once and for all get down to the bottom of everything so that complete truth will come out."

"I hope that as a result of my giving my side of the story as well as I can recollect how things did happen, I hope we'll come to a happy ending," he told reporters.

Park is accused of paying $100,000 or more to several congressmen and of making campaign and office account contributions ranging from $100 to $5,000 to 24 congressmen and one unsuccessful candidate.

The ex-rice dealer, who left Washington 18 months ago, once entertained dozens of congressmen at lavish parties at his Georgetown Club.

In an interview with Newsweek magazine, Park said he had held off returning to Washington because he thought the controversy over payments to U.S. officials "would go away."

"I never imagined I would become such an important issue," he said.

Park told reporters here he hopes his testimony will help end the scandal "so that we can move on to something more positive which is to enhance the relations between our two countries."

Park was friendly and relaxed, but he brushed aside questions on specific allegations against him, telling reporters with a smile to "ask my lawyer."

On arrival at Dulles International Airport, Park spoke first to South Korean reporters — telling them he expects to be in Washington three or four weeks — and then to American newsmen.

After his appearance before the House committee, he is to testify to the Senate Ethics Committee and then at the trial of former Rep. Hanna, who is accused of conspiring with him to buy influence in Congress.

House investigators say Park's testimony is central to their determining if any present or ex-congressmen were in fact influenced by money from Park and should be charged.

PARK RETURNS — South Korean businessman Tongsun Park is surrounded by reporters Sunday at Dulles International Airport, after his arrival from Hawaii. He will testify on the payoff scandal in Congress. (AP Laserphoto)

Peru Gearing Up For June 4 Elections

By STEPHEN MORROW
LIMA, Peru (UPI)—For the first time since the armed forces took power 10 years ago, Peru is preparing for an exercise in democracy.
Thirteen political parties spanning the entire political spectrum, are campaigning for the June 4 elections of 100 delegates to a constitutional convention.
The new charter will set the ground rules for the 1980 presidential and congressional elections promised by the military government of President Francisco

Morales Bermudez, who has pledged to bring about an orderly transition to democracy.
Peru's last democratically-elected president, Fernando Belaunde Terry, was overthrown in the 1968 coup led by the late Gen. Juan Velasco Alvarado, who introduced radical social and economic reforms and nationalized huge foreign properties including subsidiaries of Gulf Oil Corp. and the Marcona Mining Co.
Belaunde Terry is now a professor of city planning in Washington, D.C., but plans to return to Peru in April.

In 1976, Morales Bermudez toppled the left-leaning Velasco and instituted a more moderate government, though he pledged to continue his predecessor's policies.
Morales Bermudez has said that the constitutional convention must incorporate into the new constitution the reforms of 10 years of military government. The largest and best organized of the competing political parties is the Popular American Revolutionary Alliance, known as APRA by its Spanish initials.
Led by its founder, Victor Raul Haya de la Torre, APRA was founded in 1924 and quickly evolved into a significant Latin American political force advocating agrarian reform and the eventual unification of South America.

may win 40 percent of the vote for APRA.
The next largest party is the Popular Action, founded and led by Belaunde Terry. The former president plans to return to Peru in April for a month of intensive campaigning. His party may get 20 percent of the vote.
Since Belaunde's presidency was almost hamstrung by opposition parties in congress, he is expected to push for a stronger presidency.
Luis Bedoya Reyes, the former mayor of Lima who built Peru's first freeway, leads the Popular Christian Party. Bedoya is just as dynamic as Belaunde or Haya but is a fresher face. He could win more than 10 percent of the vote for his party.
Bedoya, Belaunde and Haya, considered centrists, support foreign investment and free enterprise, and have criticized the military government for over-emphasis on socialist planning and for curtailment of civil liberties.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Even though a trusted confidante may be separated from you, seek her counsel in a vexing problem. Her advice could give you the answer.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Close associations and partnerships can be rewarding. Tomorrow you need to team up with people who have as great a desire to make a profit as you do.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't spare the accolades if you're teamed with others on a project tomorrow. Your praise will make them all the more receptive to your innovative ideas.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Bring up your ambitious plans to new people you meet tomorrow who might be interested. You'll impress them with your enthusiasm. It won't hurt to bubble over a bit.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Find a different place where you can meet new people. One may be a special someone who's unique. The association will provide a fresh outlook.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The difficult is no challenge. You can cope with the impossible tomorrow. Have confidence. You can resolve problems that once seemed insurmountable.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your impromptu thoughts will probably be the best thing going for you tomorrow. Don't discard any of them, even if they seem a bit far out.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Move with all possible speed if you see an opportunity to make a profit tomorrow. Time is of the essence, so don't drag your feet.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Improvisation is one skill you'll possess in abundance tomorrow. It'll come in handy to help circumvent career obstacles.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You may not expect help from a certain person tomorrow, but if he offers let him move without interference. He knows what he's doing better than you do.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Friends will find you a delightful companion tomorrow, provided you don't give them unsolicited advice as to how they should run their affairs.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Combine aggressiveness and patience tomorrow to reach the unreachable goal. You should know when to sit back and when to emulate the tiger.

Firm Experiments With New Furnace

SHEBOYGAN, Wis. (UPI)—An electric furnace that stores heat for later use has been installed in a family home as part of an experiment by the Wisconsin Power and Light Co.

The furnace installed in the home of Michael and Julie Leitz is designed to store heat at night for use during the day when the demand for electricity is higher, the utility said.

The furnace, the first of its kind in Wisconsin, has a heat storage compartment of bricks capable of holding enough heat in eight hours to keep the home warm the rest of the day, a spokesman said.

Land Bill Receives Senate Approval

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has passed and sent to the House a bill appropriating $90 million to acquire additional land for the Appalachian Trail, which winds through mountains from Maine to Georgia.

Sen. John Durkin, D-N.H., said the money was necessary to supplement work already done by states to "acquire or otherwise protect the lands needed to retain the trail as a rugged outdoors experience, as opposed to a roadside trail or someone's backyard nuisance."

The Senate approved the measure by voice vote Wednesday.
Durkin said that although many states had acquired the necessary land, "a number of states have unfortunately made little or no headway."

The New Hampshire senator said that "in many places, the trail is in danger of becoming a path from a group of second homes to a roadside fast-food stand."

Documents Show Flood's Interest In Contracts

By BROOKS JACKSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Documents released last week show Rep. Daniel Flood, D-Pa., took an interest in State Department contracts granted to a foundation head who allegedly paid Flood $59,000 for his influence.

It was also disclosed that the FBI is examining the contracts in what appears to be a widening investigation into allegations of influence-peddling and obstruction of justice by Flood, a senior House Democrat.

The latest investigation involves $16.6 million in contracts granted by the State Department's Agency for International Development, without competitive bidding, to Airline Foundation and an arm of George Washington University, both groups headed by a Dr. Murdock Head.

BREAKING THE BANCO

Originally meaning "bench" or "shelf" in Italian, the word banco was applied specially to a tradesman's counter, and hence to a money-changer's bench or table, from which the modern bank is derived. In Italy, when a moneylender was unable to continue his business, his bench or counter was broken up, and he was spoken of as bancorotto — bankrupt.

Former Flood aide Stephen B. Elko has told federal prosecutors in an affidavit that between 1971 and 1974 Head paid $59,000 in cash to Flood, $18,000 to Elko and $10,000 to former Rep. Otto Passman, D-La. Flood, Passman and Head have denied the accusation.

Elko turned state's evidence after being sentenced to three years in prison for taking payoffs. He is considered a key witness in several investigations, including a probe of Flood and Rep. Joshua Eilberg, D-Pa.

News accounts dating back to 1975 had stated that Passman, head of the House subcommittee that handles AID's budget, pressured the agency to keep money flowing to Head's organizations. On Wednesday a new document surfaced showing that Flood also took an interest in Head's contracts.

The letter, released by AID under the Freedom of Information Act, was dated June 25, 1973, from then-AID Administrator John A. Hannah to Passman.

"In recent conversations you indicated that Congressman Flood had inquired of you as to the status of the Airline Foundation projects," it said. "You can assure Congressman Flood that all of these projects will be funded through to their conclusion."

Flood has declined to respond to Elko's allegations, except to issue a blanket denial. A spokesman said that Flood would not comment on the latest development.

Passman, who has retired, said he is too sick to answer questions about the matter except to deny taking money from Head.

James Sharp, an attorney for Head, said that Head never gave anything of value to Passman or Flood. He said neither the FBI nor the Justice Department has contacted Head about the matter.

According to former AID officials and to the newly released documents, Passman made repeated calls to AID officials on behalf of Head's projects in the early 1970s.

One AID official, Jarold A. Kieffer, resigned in 1975, complaining of improper influence by Passman. He said he was asked for his resignation when he refused to drop his objections to granting Head a new $5 million contract.

Kieffer's bosses at the time say his resignation was unrelated to Head's projects.

Head's work for AID involved birth control — producing films and training materials, conducting seminars for Latin American leaders at his conference center in Warrenton, Va., and publishing a multilingual magazine. Their quality has drawn mixed reviews, including high praise for some of the films.

However, the General Accounting Office said in 1976 that Head's organization showed "repeated apparent non-compliance" with terms of its agreement. GAO said Head's philosophy was out of line with AID's.

More recently, AID officials allowed a Head contract to lapse on grounds that the work wasn't needed. The agency invited competing bidders for another.

AID is negotiating with Head over nearly $400,000 in what the agency's auditor-general said were possible excess charges for films and seminars.

Kieffer, head of AID's population control projects, described pressure by Passman to fund a $5 million project Head was pushing in late 1974, even though other population projects were being reduced by Passman's subcommittee. A $2 million version of the project was approved more than a year after Passman's resignation.

Kieffer's immediate superior, AID Assistant Administrator John A. Murphy, wrote to him on Nov. 21, 1974, saying: "My conclusion is that, with some restructuring and additional budgetary justification, the proposal merits funding commencing in FY 1975." Fiscal year 1975 was then nearly six months old.

Kieffer says he took Murphy's memo as an order to grant the new contract. He protested on Nov. 25 about what he called improper congressional influence.

Kieffer said Murphy had told him earlier of "congressional intervention."

"As you have related to me, a powerful congressman has directly and secretly demanded that you arrange for AID to make a large grant from this year's scarce funds to finance the ... proposal," the memo said.

"Moreover, as you related it to me, the congressman couched his demands in coercive terms that relate directly to his ... role in arranging possible increases or decreases in AID and population program funding actions by the House Appropriations Committee.

"You indicated that the point of his offer was that he could work out appropriation increases for the population program. ... Some things are just wrong, and his coercion and demands in this case are wrong," Kieffer said.

The memo did not mention Passman by name, but Kieffer confirmed in a telephone interview that he was referring to Passman.

Kieffer resigned two months after writing that memo, saying it was his conclusion that he was asked to step down because he opposed further contracts for Airline. Murphy and former AID Administrator Daniel Parker both dispute that.

Murphy said Kieffer was asked to resign for other reasons, which he declined to give. "He was grasping for a straw" in blaming the Airline affair, Murphy said.

Parker also said Kieffer was asked to quit for reasons unrelated to Airline.

Parker said Passman once called to ask to see Head in his office to present his case. Murphy said, "I had several calls from Passman urging us to fund a $5 million project. ... The idea had merit."

Asked whether Passman threatened to cut AID's budget unless Airline got its money, Murphy said, "He never made such a direct link in conversation with me."

Calls, Wreaths Torment Widow

DALLAS (AP) — The delivery men bearing funeral wreaths show up almost daily as do the cabbies to pick up the deceased but Alice McCollum's husband died almost a year ago.
Mrs. McCollum said it's all part of a morbid plot to make her leave the home she's known for two and one-half years. She knows she is fighting a cowardly ghost who probably will remain invisible. However, there is always the possibility the tormentor will grow brave and resort to a showdown.
If he does, the 61-year-old widow is ready.

"I sleep in the daytime now and stay up nights waiting for him," she said Sunday. "I've got a double-barrelled shotgun in there and I know how to use it, too."
Mrs. McCollum said she received the first of countless telephone calls just three days after her husband, J.W.

Author Claims Lee Oswald Soviet Agent

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lee Harvey Oswald may have been a Soviet secret agent while he was doing classified work for a Dallas typesetting firm during the early 1960s, according to an interview in New York magazine.

Author Edward Jay Epstein said Oswald maintained contacts with Soviet officials while he worked during the Cuban missile crisis for the Dallas firm of Jaggar-Chiles-Stovall.

Epstein said the Dallas company "received long lists of names of cities in the Soviet Union, China and Cuba which were typeset and then returned to the Army Map Service."

"Oswald thus had access to cities that were U.S. intelligence targets," said Epstein, author of the upcoming book "Legend: The Secret World of Lee Harvey Oswald."

Epstein said Oswald contacted Vitaliy A. Gerasimov at the Soviet embassy in Washington after leaving the Dallas firm. Gerasimov was under surveillance by the FBI at the time for suspected espionage activities.

The writer said Oswald talked to Vladimir Kostikov, described by the FBI as a Soviet intelligence officer, during a trip to Mexico in 1963.

He said one of the names found in Oswald's address book was Pavel Voloshin, described by the CIA as a Soviet secret police officer who had been stationed in Asia, Western Europe and Moscow at the same time as Oswald.

Betting Group Blasts Foes

AUSTIN (UPI) — Leaders of a group promoting parimutuel betting in Texas have suggested organized crime is trying to defeat the attempt to legalize horse race betting.

Mike Rutherford, vice chairman of the Texas Horseracing Association, and Charles Hancock, secretary-treasurer of the group, said Sunday they were concerned about the possibility of organized crime financing a move to stop legalized gambling.

Rutherford is a Houston horseman and oilman, and Hancock is a Caldwell banker, oilman and horseman.

"We're more concerned about organized crime pouring money into the state to defeat legalized gambling than we are their coming in after we have legalized gambling," Hancock said.

When asked why organized crime would fight legalized gambling, Rutherford said, legalized gambling "drains the betting money."

Rutherford said Texas tracks would be established as nonprofit ventures to keep out organized crime.

McCollum, died of a heart attack. The caller — always the same male voice — says he is coming to get her and describes what he will do if she doesn't leave.
Then, the funeral wreaths started arriving, C.O.D. followed by the cab drivers and even a dog-catcher to pick up one of her two pets.

"I've thought of changing the (telephone) number. That costs money though," she said. "Most of the time, I have to leave it off the hook."

Mrs. McCollum said a telephone tracer on her line proved unsuccessful. She's asked for help from local authorities but so far they have no firm leads.

"Yesterday they sent two flower wreaths. My granddaughter was here and she told them, 'My grandfather didn't order those. He died in June.'"

"When the second one came, I was in the back room bawling," she said. "They're just mean people that's all...They're trying to terrorize me, trying to scare me. But I'm not leaving. Someone's got to stand up to them."

Father Wants Girl Removed

DALLAS (UPI) — Harry Stout has said he wants his teen-age daughter removed from society.

Prosecutors will begin trying to accomplish that today in the trial of Lucinda Stout, 16, who is charged with slaying her mother with a butcher knife and shooting her father.

Last August she was certified to stand trial as an adult, despite pleadings by her attorney and a criminal psychologist she was not mentally responsible for the June 11, 1977, murder.

The key testimony is expected to come from Miss Stout's father, who earlier told reporters he wanted his daughter "removed from society."

According to Stout, his daughter took a 7-inch butcher knife and plunged it into his wife's back, then shot him twice with his own gun. Stout said he pleaded with his daughter to get help for Sharon Stout, 34, but that she refused, saying: "Daddy, I hate you."

During the hearing in which Miss Stout was certified as an adult, testimony indicated her home life was traumatic. Psychiatrist George Mount said she claimed her father once threatened to kill a boy she had been dating because Harry Stout "disliked" him.

After the incident, Mount said Miss Stout ran away from home and attempted suicide by taking a bottle of aspirin.

"At this time the family physician recommended psychological counseling for her, but her father refused to let her go for treatment," Mount said the girl told him.

During the hearing, Stout testified against his daughter and said he thought he had a good relationship with his daughter.

"I would classify myself as a good father," Stout said.

Juvenile psychologist Dr. Saleem Ateek said, however, the Stout children were exposed to numerous quarrels "with each parent accusing the other of infidelity."

Filter Queen Home Sanitation System Among Popular Lines At Smallwood's

At Smallwood's, 3019 34th St., owners Eugene and Evelyn Kerr are pleased to announce the return of Reuben Loggins, Jr. to that firm as salesman-repairman, coming back after a two-year absence. Reuben returns just in time to help with the Golden Anniversary Celebration of the all-new Filter Queen Home Sanitation System, "the only vacuum that cleans carpets, drapes, upholstery and the air you breathe at the same time, quietly and efficiently!" (The Filter Queen is said to be the only vacuum that does not suffer suction "slow-down" as the bag fills. Filter Queen removes 99.5 per cent of the impurities in the air as you vacuum, so come by and let us show you this ultimate in vacuums!)

Other Lines, Parts
Smallwood's also carries a complete line of Eureka, Hoover, Kirby, Rexair, Powr-lite and Sunbeam Vacs, as well as parts and bags for most other brands. Steam cleaners also are available at a moderate cost. And note this: Electrophonic stereos, Sanyo, Midland, Teknika and Philco TVs are available at the same location, along with repairs on all makes of stereos and television sets by technician Ron Wright.

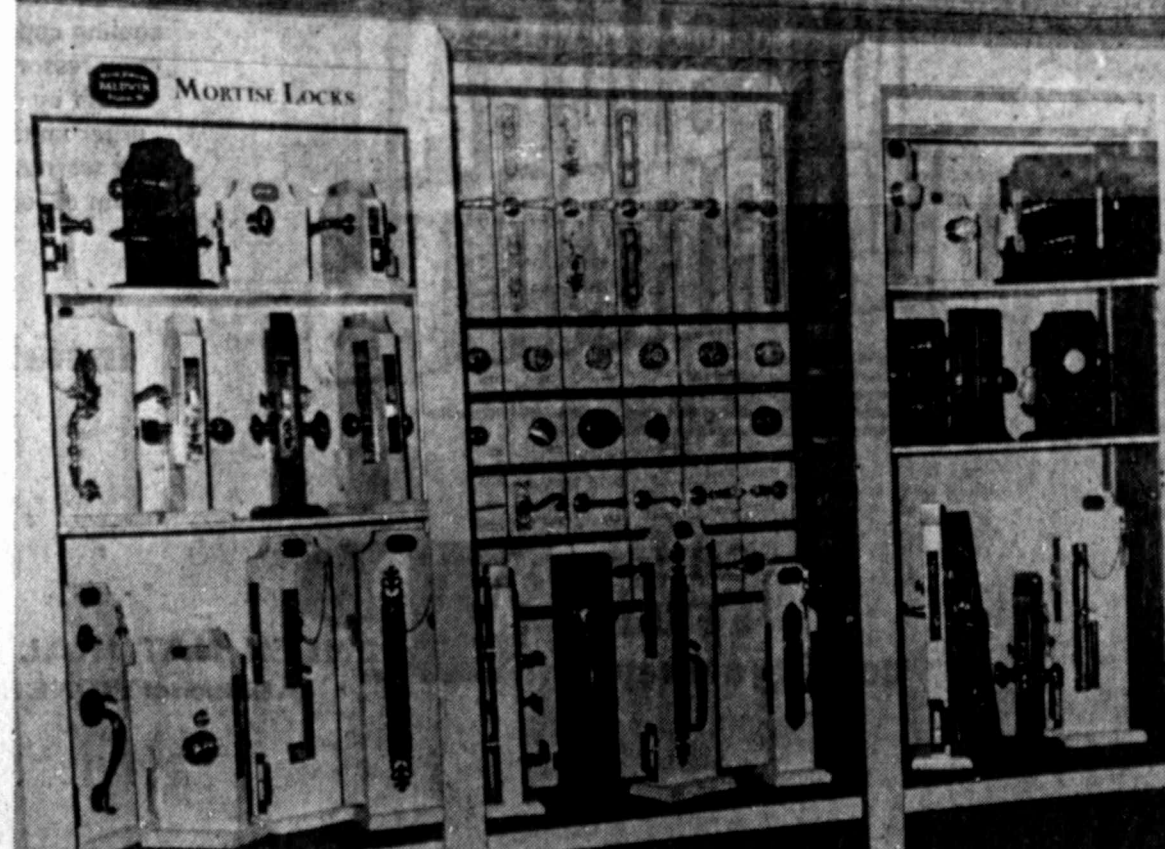

Smallwood's also supplies the area with the Muntz Home theater TV with the huge 54-inch diagonal screen and remote control, also supplying Sanyo video recorders. With more than a quarter century in Lubbock, Smallwood's has earned quite a following, and its products and service are designed to give lasting satisfaction, needless to say. "You'll like Smallwood's way of doing business; you'll appreciate the value." Remember the location, at 3019 34th St., phone 795-5253, with off-street parking, and with products that need no introduction.

Lock Assortment, Tools For Garden, Home, Builder, All At Childress Firm

"Security" is very much in the minds of most people today. And properly so. It would be foolish, and likely impossible, to seriously consider security for the home or business without attention to the locks... such as dead bolts, etc. And this is where Childress Hardware comes in, for Childress for years has stocked the finest in security hardware. The knowledgeable personnel there will be glad to discuss one's door fastener needs, providing the right lock for the situation at hand. Not only at this time when crime seems to dominate in so many news reports, but for the entire past half-century, Childress Hardware, at 902 Main, has stocked needs for every season, the practical hardware items appreciated throughout the region.
Outdoor Tool Needs
"It also is pointed out that just as soon as the winter weather abates, most of us are anxious to turn attention to the challenges for house, yard and garden improvements; a busy outdoor time of year is fast approaching. The correct tools and equipment can be the big item in convenience and accomplishment, whether the task is lawn and garden work or even a remodeling job for the home."

For these tools, one can rely with certainty on the Fred Childress Hardware Store. This is a store that meets the season's needs. For example, do these items have a function in your plans: Pruning saws, garden hose, sprinklers (from the smallest to the most elaborate), reels for the garden hose, fertilizer spreaders, walking garden plows, rakes, hoes and spades, shears, trimmers, hose, etc.
For Home Improvement
Then for the home handyman or even the professional builder who appreciates good hand tools, there is a wide stock, including the respected name of Stanley, Crescent, Thorson, Nicholson, Bluegrass, Disston, Lufkin, Plumb and others long associated with quality and integrity in tool-making. On and on the list could go in enumerating the lawn and the building needs provided at Childress Hardware, but suffice it to say that "if it is in the hardware line, you can get it there. One can purchase an old-fashioned sprinkling can or a lawn watering device that negotiates your yard; a well pulley or a lamp chimney; actually more than 10,000 different items. Childress Hardware continues as a popular place with carpenters and craftsmen, who make it headquarters for nails of all sizes, as well as a wide range of other fastenings including stove bolts, capscrews, carriage bolts, machine screws, metal screws, wood screws and brass screws, chain, rope — you name it, for home, industrial or farm use.

Cabinet Hardware
The Fred Childress Hardware also stocks one of the most extensive line of cabinet hardware in the city, with latest designs in hinges, pulls and latches attractively displayed. Here again brands such as Stylecraft, Christensen, Phylrick and Pfanstiel are indicative of top quality and design. With all this stock, one might have the wrong conception — that the store is messy and ill-arranged — but this is not the case. At Fred Childress Hardware, 902 Main St., the entire stock is grouped for easy viewing and selection. It is a neat, attractive store in which the wife can enjoy shopping.

SKILL, KNOWLEDGE AND RIGHT EQUIPMENT — Shown with latest machines at Dubose Automotive and Machine Shop are Doug Dubose, Tim Rowlette and Weldon Coffman with a boring bar and a new flow bench, both pieces of equipment said to be the only ones in town. The firm can bored down to 1 1/2 inch, as one of its services, providing an added benefit when small foreign cars, even mowers and other small motors are involved, together with the "big jobs." The flow bench helps to develop top performing engines, checking air flow in heads, intake manifolds, carburetors, etc.

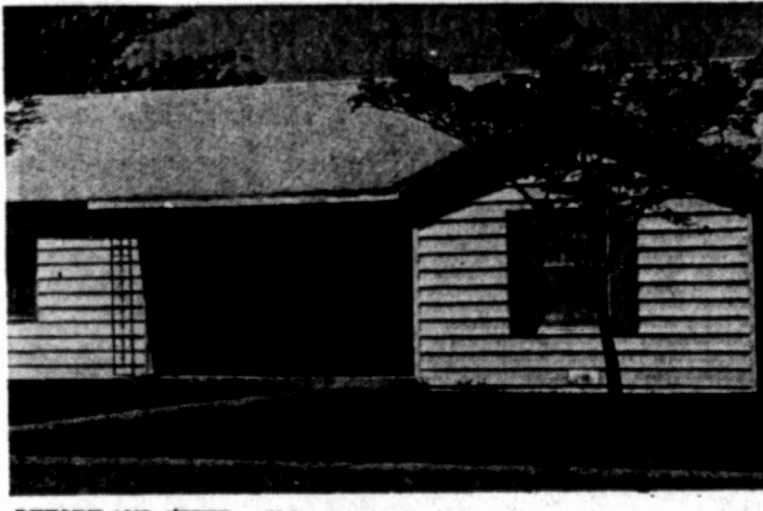

Dubose Automotive & Machine Shop Is Full-Service Facility

"We have been telling you how very much Dubose Automotive & Machine has to offer; now it is easier than ever to see for yourself." Dubose, at 1520 19th St., phone 765-8429, actually can handle any machine work for auto, truck and irrigation engines, in addition to its full-service garage, all at one convenient location. The big shop now is completely re-arranged, with the modern, efficient machines now grouped in an area where the customer cannot help but note the quality of tools and workmanship provided. (Some modern machine shop installations are the only of their type in Lubbock, it is reported, such as the new Superflow 110 Flow Bench that checks the airflow in the total induction system.) All foreign and domestic engine rebuilding is enabled and invited at Dubose Machine Shop.

In the garage, tune-ups and other quality-type service are capabilities. Even with all other advantages afforded at the firm, the most important could well be the statement of policy: "Our goal is to satisfy every customer, providing quality parts and service at least expense. We do what is needed, no more. If we find your auto needs additional repairs we contact you before doing more than you expected." A trained staff is dedicated to this business concept, and every one of this staff is sent to any available training schools in the area to keep them "in the know" about the fast-changing automobile world. Major and minor tune-ups are a specialty in the automotive section, and a guarantee of 6,000 miles or six months with limited warranty is provided. Not only does Dubose do work for the individual motorist, but also for other garages and dealers. The machine shop specializes in steel sleeved Vega short blocks, being among the first to offer this rebuilding service. Dubose also now has the ability to bore small cylinders with its new equipment, enabling boring of lawn mower cylinders, motorcycles, etc. Other service includes valve grinding, valve guide knurling and valve seat and guides replacement, resurfacing of heads and engine blocks, piston pin fitting, rod resizing, vat cleaning, brake drum grinding, disc rotor grinding, crankshaft exchange, Kwik-way bead blasting, and more. Meet Mr. and Mrs. Dubose (Doug and Nancy) who are lifelong Lubbock residents and who have gathered around them a staff fully qualified to serve in a manner that deserves one's patronage.

Local Gill Construction Firm Tells Saving In Quality Home Improvement

"When your home's overhangs start to deteriorate, the entire residence begins to get that 'run down' look. Right?" So... it is then time to learn of a Lubbock firm, Gill Construction Co., that utilizes the United States Steel soffit and fascia system that is more than just a cover-up for overhangs; it is more like a whole house beauty treatment. Three (and even more) factors should cause one to give Gill special consideration: (1) Savings of up to 30 per cent are posted in a limited-time offer; (2) Gill Construction Co. is an established "home town" firm, one that will be here tomorrow to stand behind its contract job and products; (3) Gill can show you how you never need paint your home again (and with the rising costs on every hand, doesn't this appeal?) Gill Construction Co., 1926 34th St., phone 747-5513, headed by Ike Gill who has 13 years in related business in Lubbock and the South Plains, is glad to give full details, explaining without obligation how you never need paint your overhang and fascia board again... by installing USS materials. Call collect, visit the office, or write P. O. Box 333, Lubbock. Ike Gill can show the many, many advantages of fascia and siding, both or either, and his capable crew can install anywhere in the area — fast and immediately. "Wouldn't it be great to eliminate painting forever? It can be done, thanks to Ike Gill and the USS buildings materials. Brick homes with wood overhang most certainly can benefit from the system, he points out. And remember, USS siding also is installed by this Lubbock firm. Furthermore: there is a 30-year guarantee on material and labor. No down payment is required. Financing is available! The program is acceptable to FHA — Title I, Gill reports. Consider the USS materials and their advantages, including: (1) Available in a number of colors; (2) never needs painting; (3) goes up easily over old wood, asbestos, stucco or masonry walls; (4) superior insulation against heat, cold and outside noises; (5) does not support combustion; (6) will not peel, blister, flake, or warp; and (7) fast installation with professional results. "So, homeowners take notice" it is true, with no gimmicks. You need never paint your home again.

BEFORE AND AFTER — U.S. super steel siding installed by Gill Construction Co. 'makes quite a difference' in this area residence.

A LAMP FOR EVERY DECOR, EVERY PREFERENCE

House Of Shades & Lamp Repair Aids New Look For Any Room, Any Season

"Getting spring fever? Tired of the inclement weather and anxious to get on with home decorating, etc., as is traditional at this time of year? "Likely new shades or lamps would be a very good beginning, good weather or foul! Or maybe you received a lamp for Christmas, but the shade doesn't quite match the decor of your room." In either event, why not make a visit now to the House of Shades and Lamp Repair, 2710 50th St. Even for those familiar with the House of Shades and Lamp Repair, a visit there at this time will reveal added services, newest shades and a full staff to afford every customer consideration. Unique lamps of distinction, quality lamp shades, replacement lamp parts and glass, expert lamp repair, custom building, re-wiring, re-design and re-finish (to make your lamp a shade better) in essence comprise the business scope of this better lamp house. Some months ago the House of Shades and Lamp Repair made giant strides, doubling its floor space, as example, to better serve. Consequently, more merchandise was stocked and more convenient display was enabled. From an outsider's viewpoint, it is noted that actually the expansion in physical facilities was simply another step in many progressive moves at this popular Lubbock firm. "Come on out and let us personally thank you for your trade and confidence that has made our steady growth possible." The House of Shades and Lamp Repair is in its seventh year of service. Even at its beginning, this Lubbock firm recognized the needs in its field, and stocked and served accordingly. Since that date, even more has been learned of customer preferences, and consequent growth and expansion has followed. Yes, the House of Shades and Lamp Repair is here to stay! Owners Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Houchin report that continually they are able to get more and better stock. The House of Shades has complete facilities for lamp wiring, repair and rebuilding. One's favorite antique, bottle or vase can be professionally converted to a lamp to specifications. "We'll make a lamp out of any old thing!" Mr. and Mrs. Houchin point out: Shades, though a most important part of any decor, do get soiled and worn. A new shade or repairs on present ones present the solution. "Now, when we say 'lamp shades', we are not talking about only the conventional hardback or stretched shade as many people might think. There are glass shades in many sizes and colors, ball shades, small shades for chandeliers, wooden, silk, metal shades, etc. We have them all." Special pride is taken in custom shades and in custom lamp building. "Simply bring us your idea and we will do the rest."

Diet Center, On 50th Street, Explains Weight Loss Method

"If you weigh more than you prefer, more than you should, you have lots of company!" There is simple solution, however, that is satisfying, economical and lasting; it is the program available at Diet Center, 2321-A 50th St. in Lubbock, phone 793-5444, where thoroughly experienced counselors draw upon all facilities of the huge Diet Center resources and knowledge to work for you, too! Thoroughly Experienced Meet these counselors, Marianne Maestas and Glenda Bratcher, each with many years in the weight reducing business and who are folks you likely already know, as they formerly were with another firm in Lubbock. "We are acquainted with a number of weight reducing programs, and we are thoroughly sold on the Diet Center method," they emphasize when comparing the available routes to less weight. An adjustable program, to fit the needs of the individual, is provided, and all counseling is private. At a very, very modest price, one may avail himself or herself of daily counseling during the weight loss period, counseling during stabilization, and further aid during later maintenance for a life-time of weight control. For Diet Control Essentially a diet program, the Diet Center method also advises light exercise. With varied programs available, it could be pointed out that possibly the most popular is a 6-week program in which women usually lose from 18 to 30 pounds, with men losing even more. The counselors at the Diet Center, 2321-A 50th St., are happy to work closely with the client's physician if there is a medical problem involved. To simplify explanation, it could be said that the most popular Diet Center program takes from two to six weeks with an expected weight loss of one-half to one pound a day. When the desired weight has been attained, a sustaining program, at no further charge, is set up. Then if the old programs of stuffing away food return as fatty deposits, a refresher weigh-in quickly sets one on the right path.

The Diet Center approach is strictly dietary, involving a series of tasty menus that are inexpensive and easy to prepare. The diets help keep the blood sugar stable, serve as natural diuretics and keep away hunger pangs! "You'll feel well, and if you persevere, in no time at all you'll begin to look as great as you feel!" Inquiries Invited A dietary supplement that's part of the over-all program supplies an invert sugar that gives immediate energy and reduces the craving for sweets; it is not a drug or medication. Full details are gladly given regarding all facets of the Diet Center plan that involves no shots, drugs or gimmicks. But don't delay; let Glenda or Marianne enter the picture now; call 793-5444 for appointment.

AT DIET CENTER — Meet counselors Glenda Bratcher and Marianne Maestas and learn details of the sensible diet program that has met with documented success; it is a program that can work for you, too.

FLOYD FORRESTER AMONG THOSE ON JOB FOR FINEST FENCING

Home-Owned EFCO Specializes In Better Fence Construction

"Do you know anyone who has had a fence repaired or built by a firm that fully guarantees its performance?"

If the work is by the home-owned, home-operated EFCO Fence Co., Inc., it is guaranteed, and that can mean a lot!

For full details about any fencing need, check with EFCO now, with offices at No. 31 Redbud Square, 13th Street and Slide Road, phone 792-8246.

Fence repair, prompt, efficient attention to insurance claims, and for any type fence construction and materials, one can turn to EFCO and be assured of quality work, early attention to the job, and competitive prices.

Whether the desire and need is a chain link installation, redwood, spruce, cedar or other type fencing (even barbed wire), experienced crews from EFCO can get the job done.

Serving Area

Each of the several crews is headed by well-experienced fence men, folks one can trust.

EFCO is one of the largest fencing contractors in the area, and the crews will go to area towns for your job.

Incorporated last year, EFCO is headed by men long experienced in the field.

Jessie James, construction superintendent, and Floyd Forrester, sales manager, each are well experienced and known here. Jim Johnson is on the team as co-owner of the firm.

Whether the need is fencing for commercial or residential situations, whether for the home owner, the builder or developer, EFCO is glad to serve in the finest manner it knows.

One is invited to call for free, no-obligation estimates on fencing needs. Just check with the folks at EFCO Fence Co., Inc., phone 792-8246, located in Redbud Square, 13th & Slide.

Onell's Apparel Commencing Week-Long Anniversary Sale

It is Anniversary Sale time at Onell's Apparel!

For one week, March 1 through March 8, it is the "20 per cent sale" at Onell's, 4818 Louisville Ave., phone (806)799-1642, Lubbock, Tex. 79413.

This means that for this one week, March 1-8, everything is marked at 20 per cent off, with exception of items already marked down.

Now is the time to get everything ready for some big square dance events coming up real soon, and the sale at Onell's enables this preparation at a real saving, with selection from the largest stock yet offered by this shop where a complete line of square dance apparel and supplies is maintained for the entire family.

"Our next Federation Dance is on March 4; the 19th Annual Spring Festival is coming up on April 7-8; and the Texas State Festival in Lubbock is on June 2-3; then it is on to the National Square Dance Festival in Oklahoma City on June 22, 23, 24."

Onell's features the official Texas Bid red western shirt and the blue denim pants for the men.

Red accessories, such as towels, towel holders, black belts, tie slides and more are in stock, too.

The ladies have a choice of six different styles of red petticoats, red petticoats in two lengths, of cotton batiste or nylon; four styles of red shoes with low heels, modified heels and high heels, along with red accessories to wear with the Texas Bid dress.

Specialists in Field

"Lots of merchandise is coming in daily at Onell's Apparel from orders placed on our buying trip in January."

Othie and Rue Nell Upton, owners and operators of Onell's, have been square dancing since January, 1968, and have been round dancing since September, 1970. They belong to the Kuntry Kuzzins Square Dance Club of Lubbock.

Information Service

Onell's Apparel extends a warm invitation for everyone to visit the shop at any time. It is open from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays. Remember the address, 4818 Louisville Ave. (facing Murryhill Post Office from the west), phone (806)799-1642.

Not only is a wide selection of everything in its field stocked, but Onell's is a great information source regarding scheduled dance events, etc.

"Don't forget our sale! Check early for a very, very good selection."

Business & Industrial Review

Computerized Bookkeeping Services Among Benefits At Advanced Data

"Make it easy on yourself... Turn it all over to Advanced Data, where computerized bookkeeping services, designed for your business, can be the big assist."

For modern, efficient tax and bookkeeping services, all at reasonable fee, one should learn now of the scope of advantages at Advanced Data, No. 31 Redbud Square (Slide Road at 13th Street), phone 792-6325.

James R. "Jim" Johnson, Lubbock resident since back in '59, is the owner of Advanced Data, and he correctly points out several "plus aspects" of the firm:

Before transacting business, representatives of Advanced Data conduct an on-site survey of one's business, at no obligation to the prospective client, and before any work is done the fee is determined. One knows what the charge will be. Isn't this refreshing?

Pick-Up, Delivery

Pick-up and delivery service is afforded.

Bookkeeping and tax services to any desired extent is afforded. For tax returns and all accounting procedures (even payrolls and payroll checks), Advanced Data can make it easy for you!

Four capable members are on the staff, and a maximum of two-week service can be expected on bookkeeping operations, a fast "turn-around" time. Fees are reasonable.

Johnson and his staff are glad to do an analysis within one's business, and with their background and knowledge in tax and business procedures, regulations and rules, they can be of extreme benefit to the individual or to a business of any size.

For excellence in bookkeeping and tax service, acquaintance with Advanced Data is heartily invited!

Hallie's Thrift Shoppe Providing New Year Wardrobe Economy, Fashion

Was wardrobe expenditure sacrificed for other gifting needs during the holiday season?

Your clothing budget less than preferred?

The answer to either likely will focus attention on a sensible solution... recognition of Hallie's Thrift Shoppe as a great place to trade.

Hallie's Thrift Shoppe, 3510 Ave. Q, can appreciably aid the fashion need and the economy need "for you, too" in every season of the year.

It's a reality: One can beat inflation, beat the rising apparel costs, by depending upon Hallie's Thrift Shoppe for the right apparel at lowest prices.

At Hallie's Thrift Shoppe there is lots of new merchandise plus consignment items that are strictly "first class" that can be a smart solution to the wardrobe budget.

With the seasonal expenses now present, and with the increased costs at every hand, it is exciting to find a firm that can greatly reduce some of this cash outlay.

One can dress smartly for every season, and at a cost "that can be lived with," thanks to Hallie's Thrift Shoppe's full selection and unique business concept.

Hallie's, primarily a resale shop for better merchandise, has been at its present 3510 Ave. Q location (with off-street parking) more than four years, with owner-operator Hallie Payne formerly at another Avenue Q location for five years.

Special-occasion apparel and fantastic buys in winter and party clothing are now available.

The exceptional stock, attractively displayed with plenty of room for selection and fitting, involves top quality new and nearly new formal wear, school and street wear, etc.

There are clothes for the entire family (sold on consignment) and the prices are most appealing.

"If you have items suitable for consignment, call Hallie's at 744-6772 for appointment and arrangements."

Though a wide stock is on hand, Hallie's at the present especially solicits consignments of top quality and fashionable long dresses and men's wear.

New merchandise from area stores also is stocked by Hallie's.

Easy off-street parking at both front and rear is just one of the conveniences at Hallie's Thrift Shoppe.

Griffin Receives Second Chance

By ARCHIE GRIFFIN
 Cincinnati Bengals

My parents had always encouraged us — my six brothers, our younger sister and myself — to get involved in sports. Dad was convinced that athletics builds "character" — a subject we considered him the ultimate authority on. We'd all watched him work hard at two or three jobs at a time to support our growing family.

I think every young Griffin decided at an early age to repay Dad for his efforts on our behalf in the way he'd most appreciate: by working hard ourselves, and living the kind of Christian life he and Mother did.

I tried, but I didn't always succeed, and I remember the depression I'd feel when I failed to achieve a particular goal.

"Patience, Archie," my mom would counsel, trying to coax me out of a dark mood sometimes. "One thing the good Lord always gives us is plenty of time, and a second chance."

Still, when I graduated from Eastmoor High School in Columbus, Ohio, I felt unsettled by the prospect of attending Ohio State on a football scholarship. I knew that it would be awfully tough to find a place on the team.

In 1977, freshmen were eligible to compete on varsity teams for the first time, and I found myself the fifth tailback on a team that already had some fine running backs.

We were due to play Iowa in the first game of the season. "Lord," I prayed that night. "You know how much a place on the team means to me. I'm not asking for any special favors. But please, just give me a chance to prove myself tomorrow."

Next day, the chance came. In the fourth quarter, OSU had a big lead, and Coach Woody Hayes sent in a lot of substitutes to see what they were capable of. My turn came in the game's final minutes.

Quarterback Dave Purdy called my number on the first play. Everything seemed perfect at the snap. When the pitchout came to me, it bounced off my fingertips. There was a fumble and six-yard loss on my only play in the game.

The first time I spoke to my dad after the game, I was miserable. "I blew my chance," I said.

"Only if you quit on yourself, Archie," he advised gently. "But you won't. Put this one mistake behind you. We all know what you can do."

I was convinced I'd never get another opportunity to play in the upcoming game with North Carolina.

That Friday night I opened up a Bible and read through one of my favorite passages, where Jesus promises, "Knock, and it shall be opened unto you."

"Lord, I'm no quitter," I prayed. "I'll keep on trying to make this team, be-

City Prostitution No Secret

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of three articles in which The Avalanche-Journal examines prostitution in Lubbock.)

By IRA PERRY
 Avalanche-Journal Staff

It's a dark side of life: Not knowing whether the next call is the freak, the sadist or the cops.

But despite the problems, the dangers, and the risks involved, prostitution in Lubbock is big business, a business seldom cloaked in any semblance of secrecy.

From listings in the newspaper's classified ads, call almost any one of more than 30 massage parlors sometimes advertised and chances are you'll get more than prices for a massage.

Some are discreet. You must arrive, agree on massage prices and undress before hearing the inevitable proposition. At some, you must even make the proposition.

Others are flauntingly arrogant: "We got the standard for $20, hot oil for $25 and the switch for $40. You get a straight date for $50. Anything else costs more."

Of the more than 30 massage services frequently advertised, an Avalanche-Journal check found only one that might meet standards set out in a proposed city ordinance requiring masseuses be educated in the art they perform — massage.

Of those services, each with one to four girls, one 17th Street woman is a former physical therapist who works with patients referred to her by doctors and with clients who see her ad, which begins straight to the point: "True, legitimate massage..."

Standing in the doorway of her Lubbock home, Farah is typical of most other sidewalk masseuses in the city.

Just as in the movies, blackened eyeshadow and a low-cut blouse tell the patron he's reached the right place.

"What you want honey?" a voice sounding more like a 40-year-old than this 26-year-old woman trying to look 16 wails out. Once inside, she runs through the options — a scene typical at most home massage salons.

Across Lubbock, a standard "legitimate" massage runs about $20. Other more elaborate massages can run as high as $100.

Once price and treatment are agreed upon and the masseuse has her money, the patron disrobes in an adjoining room and his hour begins. It doesn't take long, though, before the only discussion is haggling over the price for after-the-rub-down treatment.

Typically, Lubbock masseuses are 19- to 25-year-old white women set in business because they have no other business, some said, or because they were taken off the streets in earlier years by someone who eventually forced them to "pay their own way." But there are exceptions.

Sammie, a 26-year-old Lubbock masseuse, started three years ago training with a health spa masseur she met during a time when she was unemployed, emotionally unstable and broke, she says. The man got her the job. Soon after, a client suggested she could start her own firm since she had learned the talents of a good masseuse and offered to set her up in business in a vacant rental "house" he subleased, she said.

It didn't take long, though, before rent became $100 weekly, instead of the "$10 plus valuable considerations" each week they had agreed upon.

Valuable considerations included payment for items such as steam cabinets, massage tables, linens and other items the client supplied. The "house" was furnished as a parlor before she moved there. Soon the equipment stopped working, but rent kept rising, she said, to $600 a month for a small, two-room parlor not even equipped with heating or a telephone. Her "client" began making demands, and with no place to go, Sammie became a prostitute, working at a former customer's whims.

Her story repeats itself across the city, and in some versions, the tale grows worse.

One parlor advertises patrons have a choice of masseuses, but on one occasion a question about choice got only the answer, "It's like this, man. We usually got three (girls) here, but one of us is out of town for getting her baby took care of, and the other one's got the flu, or at least that's what she tells me she's got. So I guess you win. Looks like it's me or nobody."

Another Lubbock masseuse — whose 34th Street parlor is advertised by her landlord as a "health club" even though the steam cabinet will not work, hot water is virtually non-existent, plumbing is poor, heating is by means of a leaky gas heater and the ceiling has holes allowing drafts — found herself on the street last week for failure to pay a $180 weekly rent bill only two days late.

A nearby parlor also advertised as a health studio offers "exercise classes," says one masseuse, adding "but they haven't been going too well lately."

Business across town, in fact, hasn't done too well, masseuses told The Avalanche-Journal, since the first notice that council members might try regulating their enterprise.

From the average four to six customers per day paying about $45 apiece at a typical salon, Lubbock masseuses who would talk dollars said business has dropped sometimes to no clients a day and only a few on good days.

With city council threats to require masseuses to keep log books of patrons' names and the type of service received, business may not have hit bottom yet, though.

Non-Smokers Slate Meeting

A panel discussion about the rights of non-smokers will be featured at the Non-Smoker's Forum at 7:30 p.m. today in the Texas Tech University Center Senate Room.

Panelists State Sen. Kent Hance, Dr. John H. Selby, a thoracic surgeon, and Texas Tech Law professor Charles Bubby will discuss the topic, "Everything you always wanted to know about how to stop smokers but were afraid to try."

Dr. Selby will discuss the effects of cigarette smoke on non-smokers. Bubby will speak on the legal precedents of recent court cases and the constitutional rights of non-smokers. Hance will talk about what Texas legislators have done and what they will propose in the future concerning non-smoking laws.

The forum is sponsored by the American Lung Association of Texas, West Texas area, and the Eta Sigma Gamma, the health education fraternity at Texas Tech.

Admission is free and the audience will be invited to ask questions at the end of the presentation.

Hill Says Briscoe Gives Little Help To Farmers

SEALY (UPI) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe has done nothing to help relieve Texas farmers of their property tax burden which now costs them as much as half of their net income, says Attorney General John Hill.

"Our governor turned his back on our farmers and ranchers last year when the legislature was considering a plan to tax agricultural land on the basis of productivity rather than market value," said Hill, who is running against Briscoe for the Democratic nomination for governor.

"When the plan failed by just one vote, the governor made no effort to find that vote. As a result, we still have no program to give our farmers the relief they need from our unfair property tax system."

Hill spoke Sunday at a meeting of the Austin County Taxpayers Association.

Department of Agriculture figures show net farm and ranch income for 1975 in Texas was $634 million, while farmers and ranchers paid $324 million in property taxes, Hill said. By comparison, he said, the percentage of non-farm net income needed to pay property taxes was 4.2 percent.

"While our farmers and ranchers were spending half of their net income on property taxes, other property tax payers were spending only 4 percent of their income on property taxes," Hill said.

"This problem is made worse by the fact that property taxes levied by Texas school districts have increased twice as fast as the national average of property tax increases in the last four years."

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

We have a scene at our house every evening that makes Sadat and Begin sound like buddies at a camp.

It's called whose turn is it to do the dishes, and if I do say so myself it has turned into a classic maneuver in diplomacy.

DETENTE: All during dinner, nothing is mentioned about dishes. The conversation is pleasant, but never once touches upon the issue.

TESTING THE POLITICAL WINDS: "Well, I got a lot of homework. The rest of you can sit here and talk if you want."

CONFRONTATION: "You leave this table and we'll break your face. We have to decide who's stuck with this mess."

PREMATURE WITHDRAWAL: "It's not my turn. I didn't eat anything so I'm out."

NEGOTIATIONS OPEN: "Wait a minute, we ought to be able to figure this out. I did them Tuesday because we had spaghetti. I always get stuck doing them when we have spaghetti because Mom never liked me."

"Get off our cases, you haven't done them in three weeks because of ball practice. I don't even think you're on the team. I think you just suit up and sit in the shower room to get out of doing dishes."

"That's a pretty rotten thing to say for someone who lets the dog help him clear. You think we haven't seen you?"

"At least I don't leave the broiler in the oven, the pans soaking in the sink, and put a bowl in the refrigerator with a peach pit in it."

BREAKDOWN IN TALKS: Food on plates begins to petrify.

ASSESSING ALTERNATIVES: "Look, we can sit here all night or we can just start at the beginning again and go according to age. (This spoken by the youngest.) I'm calling Chuck. He'll remember." (Backup troops.)

WITHDRAWAL: "Hey, I've got homework. When all of you decide whose turn it is, call me and I'll come back and debate it some more...BUT..."

RECIPROCITY: "If you decide it's my turn, someone is going to get punched out."

"Peace in the Middle East is a probably certainty (I only say that to hear Edwin Newman give a primal scream) — but peace in the kitchen...NEVER!"

REPOTTING ADVICE

STREAMWOOD, Ill. (UPI) — Some foliage plants thrive when they are pot-bound, but others should be transferred to slightly larger pots when the roots reach the sides of the pot and push through drainage holes. A Streamwood planterware manufacturer recommends a jump of only one or two inches diameter at a time to accommodate steady, healthy plant growth. Transferring a plant into too large a container fosters root development but stunts above-the-soil growth.

WINTER ELEGANCE — There is no better way to feel elegant during the winter months, or anytime, than with a beautiful mink coat. Styled by Jean-Paul Avizou this is the perfect coat for the remaining winter months.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: CRAVING AFFECTION complained because her husband of 12 years would accommodate her sexual desires only three times a year. She consulted her rabbi, who told her that as long as her husband didn't mistreat her she has nothing to complain about.

Abby, I think that women should find herself another rabbi. It is a fact that one of the 613 mitzvas (rules in the Jewish code of conduct) states that a husband has a moral obligation to satisfy his wife sexually once a week.

My information comes from the Yeshiva University of Los Angeles. Sign me... "KNOWLEDGE GOY"

DEAR GOY: According to the Bible (Exodus 21:10), a husband is responsible for his wife's food, clothing and "conjugal rights" — which includes sex.

A man cannot be "commanded" by Jewish law (or any other law) to "satisfy" his wife sexually. But he has an obligation to try.

DEAR ABBY: Eight years ago I had an affair with a co-worker, and like a fool, I told my husband everything. My life has been a living hell ever since.

I can't take the car without him checking the mileage. I can't use the phone without him adjusting the cord to see if it's been moved. Every time we have a disagreement, he brings up the affair and says I have to put up with anything he dishes out and I should consider myself lucky that he's still here.

We have one son, and my husband keeps telling me he will tell the boy all about me as soon as he's old enough to understand. (Abby, the boy wasn't even born at the time of my mistake!)

My husband wrote down everything I confessed to him and says he can use it in court with no proof. Every time we argue, he threatens to call the man's wife and tell her about me.

I've even told him to go ahead and have an affair himself if it would stop the revenge, but to quit threatening me!

Every time we receive a wrong number, he swears I'm fooling around. This has been going on for over 6 years and I can't take any more of it, but what can I do? My nerves are shattered.

TOO HONEST

DEAR HONEST: Give your husband an ultimatum. Tell him that unless he goes with you to a clergyman, marriage counselor or a mental health clinic, you will take your child and leave!

Perhaps with therapy he can be made to realize how cruel and sick his thinking is. If he refuses counseling, leave him. Life anywhere else would be preferable to the abuse you're getting.

The Slim Gourmet

Sorry, Fido. No bones for you. Those meaty beef bones and chicken necks are just too valuable in our Slim Gourmet kitchen. They go in our stockpot or pressure cooker to make homemade broth.

Homemade broths are so easy to make and have so many uses. The fat-skimmed stock can be a quick cup of home-brewed bouillon or a head start on a hearty vegetable soup... a flavor-adder to spaghetti sauce or the basis for a fat-free sauce or gravy. Broth can be the cooking liquid for vegetables simmering down into a self-making sauce... no butter needed. The meat reserved from broth-making can be used for salads or sandwich spreads or combined with tomato sauce for spaghetti.

Those on low-salt, low-fat or additive-free diets can also profit from broth-brewing since the homemade variety may be carefully fat-skimmed and made without salt, MSG or other additives.

Bones for broth-making can be bought in the supermarket or saved up in your freezer until you have enough. Here's how:

CHICKEN BROTH I — Buy meaty beef, veal or pork bones from the supermarket or reserve the bones from a roast that has been boned, rolled and tied. Spread the bones in a shallow broiling pan. Brown the bones under the broiler. Put the browned bones in a large stockpot or pressure cooker and cover with water...add other seasoning ingredients according to preference. Simmer till meat falls off bones.

MEAT BROTH I — Reserve meaty bones left over from steaks, chops or roasts. Freeze bones in plastic bags until you have enough. (Have separate freezer bags for beef, pork and veal.) When you have enough, put the frozen bones in a large stockpot or pressure cooker, cover with water. Add other seasoning ingredients. Simmer until meat falls off bones.

BROTH CONCENTRATES — To save

room in the freezer, simmer fat-skimmed broth in an uncovered pot until reduced by half. The resulting broth will be very strong and flavorful. Cool, then pour into babyfood jars (leave headroom). Skim fat off the top and freeze the contents.

TURKEY BROTH I — Substitute a turkey neck from a large bird. Add one teaspoon poultry seasoning, if desired.

TURKEY BROTH II — Reserve the meaty carcass from leftover roast turkey. Break up the bones to fit in a large stockpot or pressure cooker. Add as many quarts of water as are needed to cover, and increase other seasoning ingredients accordingly.

MEAT BROTH II — Buy meaty beef, veal or pork bones from the supermarket or reserve the bones from a roast that has been boned, rolled and tied. Spread the bones in a shallow broiling pan. Brown the bones under the broiler. Put the browned bones in a large stockpot or pressure cooker and cover with water...add other seasoning ingredients according to preference. Simmer till meat falls off bones.

MEAT BROTH II — Reserve meaty bones left over from steaks, chops or roasts. Freeze bones in plastic bags until you have enough. (Have separate freezer bags for beef, pork and veal.) When you have enough, put the frozen bones in a large stockpot or pressure cooker, cover with water. Add other seasoning ingredients. Simmer until meat falls off bones.

BROTH CONCENTRATES — To save

room in the freezer, simmer fat-skimmed broth in an uncovered pot until reduced by half. The resulting broth will be very strong and flavorful. Cool, then pour into babyfood jars (leave headroom). Skim fat off the top and freeze the contents.

FROZEN CUBES OF BROTH — Pour concentrated broth into ice cube trays and freeze solid. Remove to plastic bags and label. Store in freezer. Remove only what you need.

SALT-FREE BROTHS — Omit salt; can be seasoned with lemon juice and additional herbs after defrosting or can be "salted" with salt substitute. (Don't add salt substitutes before freezing.)

"It's Really TRUE. IT CAN Happen to you, Too," says Mrs. Ann Haynes of Lubbock, after losing over 50 lbs. & over 55 inches at Pat Walker's.

Mrs. Haynes Statement: It's really true. It can happen to you, too.

With loyalty to the Pat Walker program you can actually eliminate those ugly pounds and inches that have sneaked up on you through the years. You will see and feel a difference almost immediately in your body.

A friend and I had talked about losing weight, of course, we had tried to lose on diets, but seems the pounds came back faster than we had lost them. We decided to go for a complimentary treatment at Pat Walker's. It was the most relaxing time I have ever spent. I knew then the program was for me.

You can have total relaxation, stimulation, lose weight and inches without disrobing or messing your hair in your own private booth.

I was surprised to see so many professional ladies spending their lunch break in the salon. This program will fit into anyone's routine that really wants to lose pounds.

The personnel have been so encouraging to help me in any way they could. Actually you don't starve yourself. You just learn what foods are best for you to eat.

I was unable to do strenuous exercises due to a back injury. My back muscles are much stronger now and I really feel good. I would recommend this program to anyone. It has really worked for me.

I have had fun losing my pounds. I look forward to each visit.

My husband has been so encouraging to me, he seems so proud since I am the same size I was twenty years ago.

It's true. It could be you. Ann Haynes, Lubbock

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
AND OMAR SHARIF
© 1978 by Chicago Tribune

Q.1—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠83 ♥KQJ72 ♦A874 ♣AQ
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♥ 1♣ Pass Pass
Dble. Pass 2NT Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—North has not made a particularly strong bid. If he had good all around values, he would have made a free bid of one no trump over West's one spade interference. At this vulnerability we would pass. If we were vulnerable, we might take a shot at game.

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠6 ♥93 ♦KQ10764 ♣K972
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♣ Pass 1NT Pass
2♣ Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Pass. North's rebid in this sequence should guarantee a six-card suit. Since there are virtually no prospects for game, get out of the auction as quickly as possible. A bid of three diamonds may not uncover a better fit and all you will have accomplished is to increase the level of the auction—and the danger of a penalty double.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠Q965 ♥K104 ♣AKJ1094
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♣ Pass 2♣ Pass
3♣ Pass 4♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—It is simply a question of whether to play a small or a grand slam. That should depend solely on partner's trump holding—our clubs should take care of any heart losers he may have. We would jump to five no trump—the Grand Slam Force, asking partner to bid seven if he holds two of the top three honors in the agreed trump suit, spades.

Q.4—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K952 ♥QJ1094 ♦Q82 ♣7
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1♣ Pass 1♦ Pass
2♣ Dble. Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Pass. Partner's double is for penalties. Had he wanted you to bid a suit, he would have made a takeout double of one club. With your fine defensive values, you should anticipate a rewarding set.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A87 ♥95 ♦Q9652 ♣843
Partner opens the bidding with one spade. What do you respond?

A.—The choice is between a raise to two spades and one no trump. We would be inclined to make the less encouraging response of one no trump, despite our ruffing value, because we have an absolute minimum. Give us a fourth spade instead of a fifth diamond, however, and we would bid two spades.

Q.6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AJ10 ♥A762 ♦AQ84 ♣KJ
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♦ Pass 2♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Had partner responded at the one-level, you would have shown your 19 HCP by jumping to two no trump. Since partner's response was at the two-level, you now have to jump to three no trump to show your strength.

Q.7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠J6 ♥AK10952 ♦7 ♣A1062
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♥ Pass 3♦ Pass
3♥ Pass 3NT Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—In terms of high cards, your hand is minimum, yet your good six-card suit offers excellent trick-taking potential. You should not yet rule out slam possibilities. Your hand is worth one further move, and we suggest four clubs as the most descriptive bid.

Q.8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠J2 ♥984 ♦AKJ ♣QJ872
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♣ Pass 2♣ Pass
2♥ Pass 2NT Pass
3♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Your partner has gone out of his way to show you a singleton diamond, but that is just what you did not want to hear. Most of your strength is concentrated in partner's short suit, and that means duplication of values for suit play. Bid three no trump to tell partner that you have the diamonds well stopped.

Fishermen Say Killing Of Dolphins Necessary

TOKYO (UPI) - Fishermen who herded 1,000 dolphins to shore and beat them to death with clubs responded today to an international outcry against the slaughter, calling it a matter of their own survival.

Mrs. Gandhi's Party Wins State Election

NEW DELHI, India (AP) - Indira Gandhi's two-month-old rebel wing of the Congress Party won a decisive victory in a state election in south India, giving a boost to her comeback drive and prompting the head of the rival Congress faction to resign.

The government information office said Mrs. Gandhi's "Congress-I" or "Indira Congress" won 152 of the 224 seats in the voting Sunday for the Karnataka state assembly, giving it a majority of 80 and assuring it of forming the state government.

The Old Congress, with which Mrs. Gandhi and her supporters broke because party officials opposed her bid to resume leadership of the party, won only two seats. The party president, B. K. Reddi, resigned to take the blame for the disastrous showing.

Prime Minister Morarji Desai's Janata Party won 58 seats, the Communists got three, and nine were won by independents or members of minor parties.

Accompanied by several hundred chanting supporters, the former prime minister appeared at the Delhi Metropolitan Courthouse today to post $500 bail on contempt charges filed because of her refusal to testify at a government investigation of her emergency rule.

She was openly happy about the election success but said she did not want to discuss it until the results were in from weekend voting in five other southern and eastern states. Those results were due late today.

More successes would erode the Old Congress further and strengthen her faction. This would enhance her prospects of rallying most of the Congress forces behind her, as she did when she split the party in 1969 in a break with Desai and other conservative leaders.

Her strong showing was expected in Karnataka because her supporters controlled the Congress Party machinery there. But the poor showing of Reddi's branch was a surprise. Devaraj Urs, the last chief minister of the state, was one of Mrs. Gandhi's principal lieutenants and helped engineer the party split. He and 10 of his ministers were elected.

Desai dissolved Urs' state government two months ago, saying it was corrupt and had lost public support, and placed the state under the control of the central government.

Four Nations Negotiating Massive Prisoner Swap

By GERALD NADLER
United Press International Writer

Negotiators in four nations are attempting to arrange a massive swap of political prisoners including two leading Soviet dissidents, an American who spied for Moscow, an Israeli pilot and a group of Chilean communists.

The cloak-and-dagger negotiations have been conducted in Chile, East Germany, Israel and the United States. If successful, they would lead to freedom for Anatoly Shcharansky, a 30-year-old Soviet computer expert, and Edward Kuznetsov, nephew of 1975 Nobel Peace prize winner Andrei Sakharov.

Other prisoners freed in the deal would be a New York man convicted of spying for the Soviet Union, an Israeli civilian pilot held in Mozambique and up to a dozen Chilean Communists jailed since the 1973 coup that overthrew Marxist President Salvador Allende.

The prisoner swap negotiations were disclosed by American Jewish officials and other sources in West Germany and Israel.

The negotiations were indirectly confirmed by Deputy Assistant Secretary of State William Luers at a meeting of the National Conference on Soviet Jewry in New York, a person attending the meeting told UPI.

The source said Luers told the group he was "aware of such proposals" but stressed the U.S. government was not formally involved. Other sources said the negotiations were being conducted by private individuals and no government was directly involved.

The exchange could take place by the conclusion - expected within several weeks - of the Belgrade Conference reviewing the human rights provisions of the 1975 Helsinki accords, the Jewish sources said.

The exchange would follow the pattern of the 1976 swap of jailed Soviet dissident Vladimir Bukovsky for Chilean Communist leader Luis Corvalan Lepe at a Zurich airport.

The Bukovsky-Corvalan swap was arranged by East German lawyer Wolfgang Vogel, who also staged the 1962 exchange of Soviet master spy Rudolf Abel for American U-2 pilot Gary Powers.

Vogel is also at the center of the current negotiations. The Tel Aviv go-between is a member of the Israeli parliament, Samuel Flatto-Sharon.

The American prisoner is Robert Glenn Thompson, 43, of Bay Shore, N.Y., who was sentenced in 1965 to 30 years for spying for Russia.

Thompson, a U.S. Air Force enlisted man from 1952 to 1958, pleaded guilty to spying from June 1957 to July 1963 and is serving his sentence in the Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary.

An aide to Flatto-Sharon was reported to have visited Washington last week to discuss the release of Thompson.

Sources in New York said Kalmanowitz has gone on to Chile. There, European sources said, he will be "buying Communists with Flatto-Sharon's money."

Vogel also has apparently promised to sweeten the deal by assuring that Mozambique will release an Israeli flier shot down about a year ago and held since.

If the negotiations come off, Shcharansky and Kuznetsov could leave their prison cells and fly straight to the West, like Bukovsky.

Shcharansky has been held incommunicado for 11 months in Lefortovo Prison with the Soviet press calling him a traitor and saying he will be punished to the full extent of the law.

Amazing Jack Inverrary Winner

LAUDERHILL, Fla. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus is back. And he's about as hot as a golfer can be, which can only mean trouble for the others on the tour. Especially when the Masters comes up in six weeks.

Earl Scudday

Big Jack Is Back!

ABOUT THE TIME that some of us decide golf on the tube is a waste of electricity, there comes a nerve-tangler like the windup of the Jackie Gleason-Inverrary Classic Sunday. Any sports fan who didn't find that exciting is the kind of guy who would have yawned through the sinking of the Titanic. For pure drama, it was Grade A.

Some Hollywood script writer had to be lurking around the clubhouse during this one. There's no way this remarkable chain of events could have come about by chance. No way at all!

Here's Jack Nicklaus, the greatest golfer of his era, trying to rebound from a disappointing year in 1977. It would have been a great year for almost anyone else, since the Golden Bear banked $284,000 and won several tournaments. But since he didn't get one of the "Big Four," and was edged out in the Masters and British Open by Tom Watson, Nicklaus was not all that happy about the situation.

Some of the fellows around the pro tour whispered that Jack was past his prime and that a new king soon would be crowned. Watson? Most likely. Or perhaps Hale Irwin or Jerry Pate. But the crown surely would change hands.

Even Jack admitted that he had lost some of his zest for golf, after 16 years on the tour, and took a four-month vacation to try to restore his enthusiasm. He also announced that he would drastically reduce his number of tournament appearances in 1978.

What else can you expect when a guy turns 37?

THE PROPHETS OF DOOM winked knowingly a week ago at Los Angeles when Nicklaus, making his second appearance of the new season, chill-dipped himself right out of contention at Riviera on the last few holes. That wasn't like the Nicklaus of old, so the whispers started anew.

One of the golden throats of sports television intoned that perhaps the bell had sounded for both Ali Babble and Nicklaus, in their respective fields of competition, although he admitted that Jack's exit probably would be more gradual than that of The Greatest.

So when Jack came back to his own stomping grounds in Florida last week for the Gleason Classic and shot a 75 in the second round, it was more than a little embarrassing for the Bear and his loyal followers. Jack was seven strokes behind the leader, and his cause seemed hopeless. Poor old Jack!

But the only one undismayed apparently was Nicklaus himself. He got out of bed Saturday morning determined to shoot a 65. He had to settle for a 66, because of one bad shot on the back nine, but he narrowed the deficit to just two strokes behind the leader and served warning on the pretenders to the throne.

There is nothing more formidable than a wounded bear, some say.

STILL, A TWO-STROKE lead by Irwin is not an easy thing to overcome, especially with a half-dozen other fine golfers within spittin' distance of the top spot. When the video cameras picked up play in the final round Sunday afternoon, Nicklaus remained two strokes back and there were several tough competitors between him and the leader, Grier Jones.

But then came that Hollywood finish, starting with an 80-foot chip for a birdie on No. 14. He followed that with a 14-foot birdie putt on No. 15, and chipped in on the 16th. By that time, everyone realized Jack had something special going.

Nicklaus made it four consecutive birdies on No. 17, and the pressure finally got to Jones as the young golfer missed a short putt. Bogy! That sent Jack and Grier to the 18th tee all even, but the momentum was with the Golden Bear.

Nicklaus whammed his drive up the middle of the fairway and dropped a short iron four feet from the cup. Jones hit a couple of good shots, too, but he was a little farther out than Jack. When Grier was short with his putt, it seemed inevitable that Jack would sink his for the title. He did.

One victory, no matter how dramatic, does not reverse the sands of time or the course of man. But that surge down to the wire Sunday must have done something for Jack's confidence, if it was sagging a little around the edges. And those brah' youngsters on the tour probably will be calling him Mr. Nicklaus again, too.

The remarkable display of touch in the clutch also sets the stage for another series of confrontations with a freckle-faced rich kid in those major tournaments that Jack values so highly — the Masters, U.S. Open, British Open and PGA.

Are you listening, Tom Watson?

rary Classic with a spectacular display of five birdies on the last five holes. "I think I am about on the schedule I wanted to be. I'm playing reasonably well.

"I now have the confidence I might not have had had I not won," he continued. "Those are the things I look for going into Augusta."

Nicklaus, a three-time winner last year but the last coming in his own Memorial at Muirfield last May, came from nine strokes behind at the midway point Friday. He shot rounds of 66 and 65 to edge Grier Jones by 1 stroke, Hale Irwin by 2 and Andy Bean and Jerry Pate by 3.

Even in his own amazement, Nicklaus successfully won his third tournament in a row here at the par 72, 7,127-yard Inverrary Tournament with birdies on No. 14 through No. 18, three of them off the green.

"I played beautiful golf up through 13 holes," said Nicklaus, who shot rounds of 70, 75, 66 and 65 for a 12-under-par 276 and $50,000 first prize. "I played well but was kind of discouraged at that point because every time I turned around Hale and Grier kept making birdies and I kept getting further behind."

Playing in the same threesome with Nicklaus, Jones and Irwin kept the pressure on. Jones was 4 under for the day for 67 and 11 under for the tournament to finish at 277. Irwin was 1 under on the day and 10 under for the tourney with 278. Pate and Bean wound up with 279s.

"I was 7 under and 3 shots back of Grier at that point," he said. "I made the birdie off the green, and what happens to me, Hale holes it off the green and Grier holes it, too. I gained something but not that much.

"They both birdied the next hole, too, after I birdie it," he continued. "At that point, I wasn't gaining that much but at least I was gaining momentum in my own mind."

"The chip at 16 obviously set the tone for what was going to happen. Of course, if I missed my putt at 17, I think Grier probably would have had his. There would not have been as much pressure on him."

Jones, who took home $28,500, said the Nicklaus birdie chip of some 80 feet on No. 14 "turned the whole day around. It was just one of those days where everything went right for him. And you've got to believe that when everything goes right for him, he's going to win."

Nicklaus birdied No. 14 from off the green about 80 feet, and did the same on No. 15 from about 13 feet, after going in to the woods. He chipped in from the fringe about 17-18 feet on No. 16 and putted about 20 feet on No. 17. Then, by his own admission, Nicklaus sank a putt he thought was the only one he should have made on No. 18, about four feet.

"I had a chance, all I had to do was make the putt on 17 and 18," said Jones. "I had a chance but I couldn't convert. I played as well as I could play. The last two putts just weren't good enough. That's why he is the greatest player there is."

Nicklaus, who lost the Los Angeles Open last week after coming up with a bogey and a double bogey on the back nine, said, "I've played well in quite a few tournaments but I haven't pushed one over. Winning again is fun, particularly after throwing away that one last week."

Irish Bop Top-Ranked Marquette

By The Associated Press

Whenever there's a television camera around, Notre Dame's basketball team seems to get its Irish up.

Playing before a national TV audience, four years ago, the Fighting Irish broke UCLA's fabled 88-game winning streak.

This year, they've continued that tradition — twice beating the Bruins on the tube. And Sunday they performed again like TV stars, defeating Marquette's top-ranked Warriors 65-59 while a national audience witnessed the spectacular show at Notre Dame's Athletic Convocation Center.

The Irish came up with an old-fashioned Hollywood ending to do it.

"We've had some great comebacks in the history of Notre Dame athletics," said Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps after watching his team rally from a 14-point halftime deficit, "and I would have to compare this to winning the UCLA game and ending their 88-game streak when they were No. 1."

The victory virtually sewed up an NCAA playoff bid for the ninth-ranked Irish. Marquette no doubt will be going to the post-season playoffs, too, but Coach Hank Raymonds hopes the Warriors have more fluidity than they had Sunday.

"I don't know what happened," said See IRISH RALLY Page 4

WEEKEND HIGHLIGHTS
TENNIS
DENVER — Top-seeded Jimmy Connors, hitting blistering passing shots to negate Stan Smith's serve-and-volley game, scored a 6-2, 7-4 victory in the final singles match of a $125,000 men's tournament. It was Connors' third first-place finish in the Denver tournament in his career. The victory was worth $25,000 while Smith got $12,500.

ICE SKATING
GOTTSBURG, Sweden — Eric Heiden of Madison Wis. defended his title in the Men's World All-Around Speedskating championship as he checked out victories in the 500-, 1,500- and 5,000-meter events. It was Heiden's sixth world title in the last 50 weeks.

SKIING
LAHTI, Finland — Zinaida Anisova of the Soviet Union edged teammate Galina Kulikova by eight seconds in capturing the women's 30-kilometer cross-country race and the women's 50-kilometer race on the final day of the World Nordic Ski Championships. Finland's Tapio Raitanen captured the big hill slalom title, edging Austria's Alois Longberger by three tenths of a point.

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. — Phil Mahre of White Pass, Wash., edged his twin brother Steve by four hundredths of a second to win the men's 500-meter slalom in the U.S. National Alpine Skiing Championships. Rocky Dorsey of Wenham, Mass., completed a twinning sweep of the women's events by capturing the slalom and the giant slalom, beating Cindy Nelson of Lutsen, Minn. by more than one second.

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. — Veteran bobled driver Wade Whitney drove his four-man team to victory in an abbreviated competition at Mount Van Hoevenberg in the 1978 World Four-Man Bobsled Championships. The winner was picked on the basis of two runs rather than four after cuts in the natural ice surface created hazardous conditions. Whitney's team was easily victorious in the 12-minute, 11.33-second race. The team of Bill Lane, placed second with a total time of 2:12.48 while Howard Siler was third at 2:12.88.

MISSISSAUGA, Ill. — Earl Anthony surprised Dick Weber as professional bowling's all-time leading money winner when he captured the $15,000 first prize in a $100,000 tournament here to raise his career earnings to $554,536. Anthony, a three-time Professional Bowlers Association Player of the Year from Tacoma, Wash., rolled his second 200 game of the year in defeat to capture the $10,000 consolation prize in the final match of the nationally televised event. Schigel rolled 251.

HOCKEY
UNIONDALE, N.Y. — New York Islanders rookie Mike Bossy set a National Hockey League record for rookies with his 49th goal of the season. Bossy beat Chicago goaltender Tony Esposito with an 18-foot shot after breaking a pass from league scoring leader Bryan Trottler.

Buffamonte Leads Westerners Again

By TOM HALLIBURTON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Lubbock High's baseball team and its most important returning member? Come on, quick, don't think too hard. Ernest Day? No. Noel Jaime? Nope. The man's name is Vince Buffamonte, who returns to his head coaching duties after a year's absence for medical reasons. Buffamonte suffered a heart attack on Valentine's Day, of all days, in 1977. His doctor discovered no permanent damage, fixed the coach up in no time but Buffamonte tried to bounce back too quickly. Therefore, the good doctor wisely advised the coach to bypass last season. And you don't think our coach isn't trying to make up for lost time?

year's club will be young, but good and young. "These are the Sesame Street kids. We've got two juniors in the outfield and a sophomore at short. But if age is going to win games, you play your seniors every year. Some of our best players happen to be younger and we just play the best we have," said the LHS coach. The best he has, according to Buffamonte, could be a better overall hitting team than that 1976 group. However, none of the individuals seem to stand out such as Marvin Simpson and Kenny Toney did on that team. "We will be contenders. We have an awful long way to go but we know we have some ability to go along with it. Our pitching needs experience. Hopefully, our hitting will carry us until those guys come around," Buffamonte noted. The coach describes this Westerner unit as a "typical Lubbock High team" in many ways. Long on speed. Short on power. "We couldn't swing for the fence if we had a golf club. We'll have to settle for 120-foot bleeders," he said. And many Lubbock's better players are small little sticks of dynamite, too. "They go around bumping into kneecaps but they're tough little tots," he said. The ones who get yelled at, according to their coach, are the ones which attract his interest. And Buffamonte yells at every single one of them. "What irritated me most was not coaching," he said. "There's a different rapport with kids in the lockerroom than there is with kids in the classroom. The kids love it here. They don't like to leave this place." Unlike most coaches at this time of the year, Buffamonte already has his lineup figured out. Returning second baseman Noel Jaime (.189 last year) leads the team in speed and figures to hit first. Ernest Day (.327 last year), an all-city selection, returns to center field and bats second. Day's speed ranks with Jaime's and this asset will allow the other two outfielders to guard the foul lines closer. "When Ernest yells 'I've got it,' everybody else can get out of the way and stand around," the LHS coach said. The third and fourth hitters, right fielder Jamie Greene and left fielder Terry Brady, are junior transfers. "Both of them hit well. They may go out and hit .200 but they're the best we've got. We've worked with both of them defensively and they're improving. If he hit a ball out of the park, it will be Brady, Greene or (David) Rush," Buffamonte said. Rush bats fifth and pitches first in the starting rotation. He worked only three varsity innings on the mound as a sophomore. Buffamonte labels Rush as his hardest thrower on the staff and jokes "he will throw it through a cement wall."

Mantle Helping Yankees Because He Loves Game

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor
FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — The dugout always was Mickey Mantle's private little prison, and still is. He never could wait to get out there on the field and he still can't. You can tell by the way his hands grip the edge of the bench, the way he leans his head forward and the way his eyes keep searching and trying to take in everything that's going on in front of him. Nearly 10 years have gone by since Mickey Mantle last played for the Yankees but in all that time, he really never has been able to put out the fire inside him. The old desire is still there and he's helping his old buddy, Billy Martin, now as one of the Yankees' spring training instructors, a job he happily takes on every year this time. "I'd give anything to be playing again," he says, focusing his gaze around second base where Bucky Dent and Mickey Klutts are turning a double play. Mantle keeps watching them and talking. "You know, when you're 25 and you're playing, you think to yourself, boy, this is all right and it's never gonna end. Then suddenly one day it's all over before you realize it. "A lotta kids send me scrap books they kept of me. I guess they feel they're too old to keep 'em anymore, so they want me to have 'em. Sometimes I get up early in the morning and looking at the pictures, I don't even think they're me. The look like someone else."

Mantle glances down the other end of the bench where Martin also is watching the action out on the field. "I told Billy the only ones I wanna work with are the ones who have good years," says Mantle. He says it with a straight face, but he's kidding. You have to be around Mickey Mantle awhile to appreciate his humor. It's dry, Oklahoma style, but it's a lot funnier than you'll find among some of the top stand-up comics in the country. "Whitey Ford is one of the Yankees' spring instructors also. When they played together, Mantle, Martin and Ford were practically inseparable. They still are now. "If it hadn't been for Whitey and Billy, I'd still be playing," says Mantle. "They told me 10 years off my life." How? "Just hangin' around with 'em," Mantle says. Then he starts laughing, that typical Mickey Mantle laugh where his eyes crinkle up and his white teeth show so much. Suddenly, he grows serious again. "I'm here now because I love it," he says. "It meant a helluva lot to me when the Yankees won the pennant last year. I had goose pimples. We had been down so long — and when I say 'we,' I mean it. I'm proud I was a Yankee and I'm proud to be wearin' these pin-stripes. "I didn't believe all that stuff about the controversy on the team last year. To me, it was just good-natured bickering. But when I read those stories in the papers, I felt bad for Billy. I was afraid he might get fired." After he retired from the Yankees, Mantle did it rough for awhile. He made a number of bad investments, but now he's in good shape again working for the Reserve Life Insurance Company in Dallas as vice president in charge of special markets. "People talk about all the money the ballplayers make today," he says. "I don't think it's that much out of line. When I played with the Yankees, I made $100,000 a year the last few years and I could buy a Cadillac for $5,000. Now the players make $300,000 a year and a Cadillac costs $15,000. Everything is relative. Besides, ballplayers are better businessmen today."

Generally, in the Yankees' camp, you'll find Mantle out on the field because there's nothing in the world he loves more than the feel of the grass under his feet, the sun warming his 46-year-old bones and the harmless little illusion he has that he's going to wake up suddenly and find himself playing again, the same way he did 20 years ago. "I think what I miss most is the companionship," he says. "I like to hear the players get on each other, the way we always did. I like to hear Thurman get on Johnson and Johnson get on him. It reminds me of the old days with us." An attractive young girl photographer came into the dugout at that point and asked Mantle if she could take his picture. "You want some action shots?" he said to her, with that same straight face again. "What do you mean?" she inquired. "You and me, and we can let him," said Mantle, motioning toward a writer, "take the picture." The girl photographer laughed and then took Mantle's picture. "How come," he said, looking at her, "they didn't have stuff like this when I was playing?"

Blazers Nudge Chicago 100-99

By The Associated Press
Sometimes the best play is the one that doesn't work. "We set up three alternatives for the final shot," said Portland Trail Blazers Coach Jack Ramsay. "It just so happened they were all shut off, so Lionel Hollins was literally forced to shoot from the twilight zone."

Hollins lofted a high-arching jumper from 30 feet out on the left side and then watched it bank off the backboard and through the net as the final buzzer sounded to give the undermanned Trail Blazers a dramatic 100-99 National Basketball Association victory over the Chicago Bulls Sunday. "The ball was supposed to go deep to either Lloyd Neal or Tom Owens, but when (Chicago center Artis) Gilmore choked off the corner, I held the ball and forced it up," said Hollins. "But I knew that if I could hit the glass, the ball had a better chance of going in — and that's the way it turned out."

Portland played the game with the minimum eight men, Maurice Lucas, Dave Twardzik and Larry Steele all being sidelined with injuries. In addition, Bill Walton fouled out in the final two minutes. But Lloyd Neal picked up much of the slack, scoring a career-high 35 points including 11 in the final four minutes. The 6-foot-8 Neal has started 11 games for the Blazers this season in place of Lucas or Walton, and Portland has won them all. "Lloyd Neal has been averaging only 18 minutes a game as my third or fourth forward," said Ramsay, "but today, despite a game knee, he showed me what he's made of." Chicago has lost nine of its last 11 games.

Sonics 99,azers 97
Fred Brown scored 18 of his 32 points in the fourth quarter as the Sonics erased a 16-point third-quarter deficit to beat Philadelphia. Brown scored Seattle's last 6 points, including the game-winning basket with 18 seconds left. The 32 points pushed Brown passed Spencer Haywood as Seattle's all-time leading scorer with 8,162 points. Something of a rarity took place when both Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham and Seattle Coach Len Wilkens were ejected from the game with two technical fouls each.

Bucks 122, Jazz 120 OT
Marques Johnson blocked two shots by New Orleans in the closing seconds of regulation, then Brian Winters scored 7 of his 37 points in overtime as Milwaukee rallied to beat the Jazz. New Orleans had led by as many as 13 points in the third period. Hawks 119, Braves 117
John Drew scored 8 of his 38 points in the final five minutes and Charlie Criss added 7 down the stretch for the Hawks, who climbed into a tie with New Orleans in their battle for the final playoff berth in the Eastern Conference. Celtics 94, Nets 92
Boston reacted to a 41-20 lead but had to hold off a furious New Jersey rally to win. The Nets missed a chance to pulled the game out when, trailing by just 1 at 93-92, George Johnson's jumper in the final seconds bounced off the rim. John Havlicek led Boston with 19 points while John Williamson scored 31 for New Jersey. Bullets 121, Warriors 110
Elvin Hayes scored a season-high 37 points and grabbed 18 rebounds as the Bullets took the lead midway through the first quarter and turned back repeated comeback efforts by Golden State, which got 30 points from Rick Barry. Pistons 127, Lakers 124
Chris Ford's 15-foot jump shot with 1:04 to play snapped a tie and triggered Detroit past Los Angeles. Eric Money's three-point play with 37 seconds remaining clinched the victory for the Pistons, who rallied from a 64-59 halftime deficit and snapped a four-game losing streak on the road.

King Trying To Lure Foreman Back To Ring

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Special Correspondent

Boxing entrepreneur Don King is spending a small fortune in long-distance telephone bills trying to lure former heavyweight champion George Foreman out of retirement.

While ATT stock soars, King believes he is making some progress. He is waiting for some divine signal — the same sort of sign that forced Foreman to lay his boxing gloves down and pick up a Bible.

"George Foreman is the one man that can rejuvenate the heavyweight division now that Muhammad Ali has been beaten," King says.

"Before Ali lost to Spinks I had a strange dream. I dreamt that Foreman returned to boxing. I jumped straight up in bed. I went immediately to the telephone. I've been talking to George ever since.

"At first, he was reluctant even to talk about it. Then after Ali lost and I began using some persuasive language, he showed some signs of bending. It isn't easy. George is a de-ply committed born-again Christian. He must convince himself it is the right thing to do."

King, the reformed ex-convict who promoted multi-million-dollar fights in Caracas, Zaire, Kuala Lumpur and the Philippines, said Foreman even had made a trip to New York in recent weeks to discuss the matter.

According to the promoter, they sat around in King's luxurious East Side town house and talked for hours. The conversation went something like this:

Foreman: "I am through with fighting. I got a new mission. I am now working for the Lord."

King: "That's good, George. I am all for that. But have you thought how much a bigger forum you would have if you were the heavyweight champion? You could reach out to millions."

Foreman: "You think so?"

King: "Sure, who has a bigger forum than the heavyweight champion? Look at Muhammad Ali. He became the most recognizable figure on earth."

Foreman: "But I just feel like I couldn't hit anybody any more."

King: "You must convince yourself that it isn't violent or cruel. It is just a sport."

Foreman: "Maybe so. But it's something I got to think about."

King: "Remember, George, you represent a symbol in America. It was you who, when patriotism was getting a black eye because of the Vietnam War, waved the American flag in the ring after winning the Olympics in Mexico City. Everybody remembers that."

Foreman: "I've done my work in the ring. Now I want to help all the underprivileged who need encouragement and strength. But I'll think about it."

King said Foreman quoted scriptures and he himself drew on the Biblical knowledge he had picked up while in prison.

"We talked about Isaiah, the other prophets, the parables and Revelation," the promoter said. "George is a very sincere, concerned man. This isn't a temporary opiate with him. He is genuinely wrapped up in his religion."

Foreman, a one-time Houston juvenile delinquent, won the heavyweight crown in January, 1973, in Kingston, Jamaica, at age 24 by flooring Joe Frazier six times before stopping the champion in 1:35 of the second round. He lost the crown to Ali's notorious "rope-a-dope" strategy in Zaire Oct. 1, 1975.

It was after dropping a 12-round decision to Jimmy Young last March 18 in Puerto Rico that Foreman, recovering in his dressing room, received what he called a "lightning message from God."

"I looked at my hands and there was blood," he recalled. "I looked at my feet and there was blood. Just where Jesus bled. I died. I died for God. Then I got life as a new creature to live for God."

King said Foreman seemed impressed by the knowledge that he could reach more people — the underprivileged as well as the rich and powerful — as the best heavyweight boxer on earth.

"If God gives me the sign, I'll fight," Foreman assured King. "But only for God's sake."

LBA 40 Golf

HARLINGEN (AP) — Curtis Person of Memphis, Tenn., the No. 1 ranking senior amateur in the nation, and defending champion Jack Williams of Plainview head a strong field today in the Life Begins at 40 Golf Tournament at Harlingen Country Club.

Williams won last year's rain-shortened tournament with rounds of 74 and 75. He edged Jim Cason of Harlingen by a shot.

Person, 67, has won this tournament four times. Maurice Wilson of Dallas whois entered has won it three times.

Billy Bob Coffey of Fort Worth, the champion in 1974 and 1975, also returns, as does 1976 winner Roy Peden of Kermit. The winner of the first LBA 40 tournament in 1953, Cy Derby of Harlingen, is also entered.

The 256-man field is made up of eight 32-man flights, with all but the championship flight seeded by handicap. The championship flight includes players with four handicaps and under.

The tournament format calls for match play for five days, but players remain in contention through Thursday. Losers before Thursday simply drop down to another bracket within their original flight.

The championship finals begin at 1:30 p.m. Friday.

Black Hawks Bow

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Kansas City Red Wings, behind a three-goal flurry in a four-minute span, downed the Dallas Black Hawks 5-3 Sunday night.

The Red Wings jumped to a 4-2 lead after two periods. Dallas then closed to 4-3 on Bob Hoffmeyer's goal at the 13:23 mark of the final period, but the Wings were able to hold on to break their three-game losing streak in the Central Hockey League.

Al McDonough's 14th goal of the season came with 18:39 left in the third period to provide the final margin.

Mo Valley Track

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Southern Illinois heads into the final 13 events today with a comfortable 40-point lead over its nearest competitor in the Missouri Valley Indoor Track and Field Championship.

The Salukis grabbed first-place finishes in each of the three events completed Sunday. But second-place Wichita State advanced 15 athletes to the finals today, compared to 11 for Southern Illinois.

Ken Lorraway of Southern Illinois captured the long jump at 24 feet, 5 1/2 inches, with teammate Rick Rock second at 23-10 1/4. The Salukis' Tim Johnson took the pole vault crossing the bar at 16 feet as Clay DeMatti of Southern Illinois was second at 15-6.

John Marks then took first in the shotput with a heave of 58 feet, 5 1/2 inches. That left Southern Illinois with 55 points compared to 15 for Wichita State. Indiana State had 10, New Mexico State 8, Drake 4, and West Texas State 1 following the first day of action.

While the Shockers qualified 15 athletes for the finals today, West Texas State 14 and Indiana State 12.

SLC Cagers

By The Associated Press

The Lamar Cardinals can clinch the Southland Conference basketball title outright tonight but they must survive a road trip to McNeese State.

The Cardinals are 7-1 after 91-89 victory over Northwestern Louisiana in Lafayette, La., Saturday night.

McNeese State is the only team to defeat the Cardinals 76-75 at Beaumont — two weeks ago.

Lamar also has a final game with Texas-Arlington remaining. McNeese State is 5-2 in league play with three games remaining.

A McNeese State victory would prolong the Pokes' chances at moving up the SLC ladder from a second-place finish in 1977. The Cowboys could still win the title themselves, provided they are victorious in each of their remaining tilts, and provided Lamar loses to both McNeese State on the road and to Texas-Arlington at Beaumont.

Defending champion Southwestern Louisiana, with its second loss to Lamar this winter, is still mathematically in the hunt. Lamar must drop its final two games and McNeese State has to lose to either Arkansas State or Louisiana Tech on the road after defeating Lamar at home. USL must win its three remaining games. In that case, the tri-champs would all have 7-3 marks within the league.

In other league action last week, Louisiana Tech pulled itself out of sole possession of last place with a convincing home victory over Arkansas State, 67-52, while Texas-Arlington earlier remained in the fourth position with a 76-61 win over the Indians. UTA is currently 3-5 in league action, while ASU and Tech are both 2-6.

Aggie Kickoffs

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — All five of Texas A&M's home football games this year will have 1:30 p.m. kickoffs in Kyle Field.

Athletic Director and Head Football Coach Emory Ballard said the games and times are Sept. 30—Memphis State; Oct. 7—Texas Tech; Oct. 21—Baylor; Oct. 28—Rice; Nov. 25—TCU.

SWC Baseball

By The Associated Press

Texas A&M opens defense of its Southwest Conference baseball championship this weekend against the University of Houston in a new 5,000-seat stadium which will be dedicated Tuesday.

St. Mary's will play the Aggies in a doubleheader starting at 1 p.m. in the $2 million Olsen Field.

The Aggies host Houston for a single game Friday then a doubleheader Saturday.

A&M is 5-1 this year and perennial rival Texas is 9-1.

Arkansas arrives in Austin Friday for a single game and then plays Texas in a Saturday doubleheader.

In other openers Texas Tech is at Rice and Southern Methodist is at Baylor. Texas Christian is idle.

SMU has been the surprise team in non-conference play, boasting a 4-2 win-loss record.

There's a heavy slate of action Tuesday with Oklahoma State at Arkansas, Sam Houston at Baylor, Nichols State at Houston, St. Edward's at Rice, Phillips at Texas and the A&M-St. Mary's twin-bill.

LSC Tourney

BROWNWOOD (AP) — The Javelinas of Texas A&I have recorded a couple of firsts already since they've arrived in this Central Texas city, and would like to add another achievement tonight.

They played Sunday in their first Lone Star Conference championship tournament... and picked up the first basketball victory ever at Brownwood Coliseum, after 11 years of trying, with their 67-64 verdict over Abilene Christian.

Tonight, they collide head on with the team most familiar with the confines of the coliseum, hometown Howard Payne, in an 8 p.m. semifinal engagement.

Howard Payne rolled through the conference round-robin warfare and finished No. 1 to earn a bye through Sunday's first round. Howard Payne will be favored to advance to Tuesday night's finals, but Texas A&I would like to keep its own string going.

In the 6 p.m. other semifinal outing, defending champion East Texas State, a 79-72 victor Sunday over Sam Houston State, will meet Angelo State, a 60-59 overtime conqueror Sunday of Stephen F. Austin.

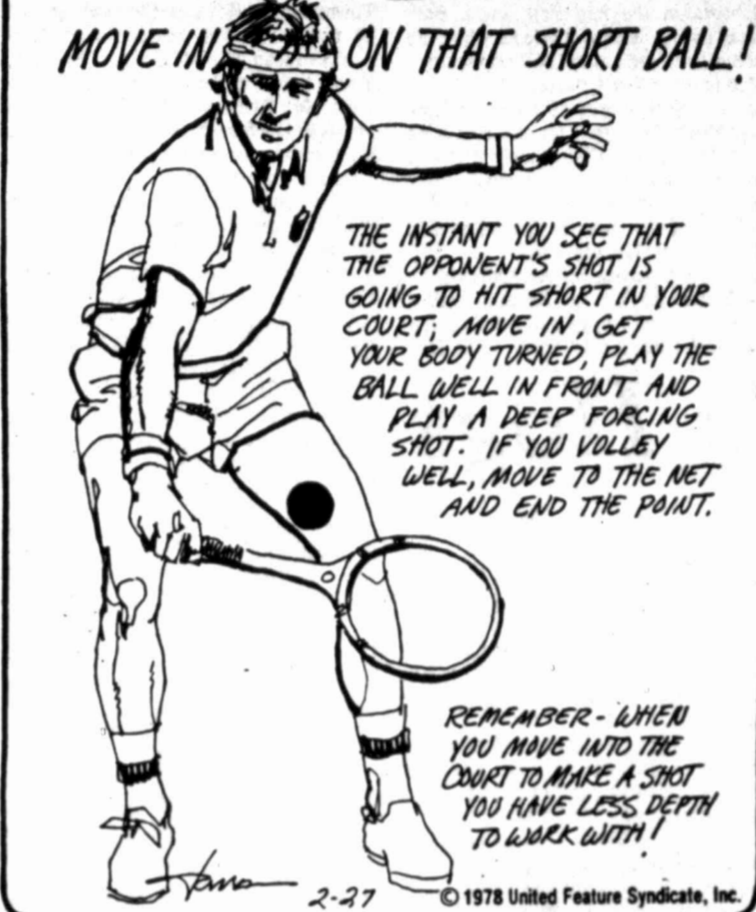

By virtue of its regular-season finish, Howard Payne already is assured of a spot in the District 4 NAIA playoffs. The tournament runner-up — or champion if someone other than Howard Payne wins it — will also earn a trip to the post-season activities.

East Texas State won in a breeze over Sam Houston State in the only first-round game that was lopsided. The Lions won despite 26 fouls that set up a parade of Sam Houston trips to the charity stripe. But the Bearkats could make only 16 of 33 free shots, and only a late rally kept the score respectable.

Jeff Granger led four East Texas players in double figures with 15 points. Mike Thompson and Jimmy Nelums each earned 12 points for Sam Houston.

Angelo State and A&I took 10-point leads in the second half of their games Sunday, but barely held off their opponents.

ACU Cops Share Of NAIA Title

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — When the NAIA Indoor Track and Field Championships wound up with the first tie in its 13-year history Saturday night, both Abilene Christian and Jackson State — not to mention the officials — were crying foul.

Both teams finished with 75 points after a frantic final showdown in the mile relay that produced a lot of controversy but no points for either squad.

Track officials disqualified Abilene Christian after ruling that anchorman Bill Cork bumped Jackson State's Vaughn Harvey, forcing him to drop the baton.

Ironically, Harvey who could have won 400-yard dash—1. Dennis Duckworth, Jackson St. (Miss.), 49.19; 2. Bill Cork, Abilene Christian (Texas), 49.52; 3. Irish Rally Leaves Marquette Crying the flabbergasted rookie coach after losing just his third game this season. "They just had the momentum. We had absolutely no movement in the second half."

Georgetown, another team looking forward to post-season play, was caught with its points down Sunday and suffered a shocking 63-59 loss at Fordham. The nation's 18th-ranked team will compete in the ECAC's Southern-Upstate New York playoffs for an NCAA berth.

Meanwhile, the University of New Orleans recorded a slowed-down 22-20 decision over South Alabama in the championship game of the Sun Belt Conference tournament.

Kentucky and San Francisco secured NCAA playoff berths with victories on Saturday.

Kentucky defeated Tennessee 68-57 to clinch a share of its 31st Southeastern Conference title. The victory assured the country's second-ranked team the SEC berth in the NCAA's Midwest Regionals because of the Wildcats' two victories this season over runner-up Mississippi State.

San Francisco clinched the West Coast Athletic Conference championship with a 79-73 decision over Nevada-Reno. The victory earned the 49ers a berth in the NCAA's West Regionals.

In another Saturday development, eighth-ranked North Carolina defeated No. 13 Duke 87-83 to win the regular-season championship of the Atlantic Coast Conference. The victory earned North Carolina a bye in the opening of the ACC tourney, which begins Wednesday in Greensboro, N.C.

Michigan State moved closer to the Big Ten championship by whipping Illinois 89-67. The triumph assured the Spartans of at least a tie for the league title, which they can win outright with a victory in one of their next two games or a loss by runner-up Purdue.

Creighton defeated Southern Illinois 62-56 to win the regular-season title of the Missouri Valley Conference. The victory assured the Blue Jays a bye in the Valley playoffs until the final game on March 5.

Arkansas, the nation's fourth-ranked team, was one of four winners in the opening round of the Southwest Conference playoffs. The Razorbacks moved into the quarter-finals with an 84-42 rout of Texas Christian.

In other opening-round SWC playoff games, Houston trounced Rice 108-67; Texas Tech beat Texas A&M 85-78 and SMU turned back Baylor 73-68.

In the opening round of the Southern Conference tournament, regular-season champion Appalachian State defeated The Citadel 81-64, Marshall trimmed Western Carolina 64-56, Furman eliminated Tennessee-Chattanooga 83-73 and VMI whipped Davidson 95-80.

Elsewhere Saturday, third-ranked UCLA routed Oregon 83-57; fifth-ranked New Mexico hammered Brigham Young 71-66; No. 6 Kansas tripped Colorado 70-60; St. John's upset No. 11 Providence 60-51; No. 12 Florida State edged Georgia Tech 85-82; No. 15 Illinois State walloped Centenary 90-77; 16th-ranked Detroit defeated Xavier of Ohio 83-77; No. 17 Syracuse beat Boston College 97-80; Georgetown whipped Holy Cross 77-61; Indiana stunned No. 19 Minnesota 68-47 and 20th-ranked Louisville stopped Memphis State 115-97.

Kelly Tripucka, held scoreless in the first half when Notre Dame fell behind by a 39-25 score, poured in 15 second-half points to lead the Irish rally against Marquette. The Warriors had led all the way until Don Williams hit a jumper with 2:50 left to put Notre Dame on top 58-57.

After Williams' basket, he converted three free throws, Tripucka added a pair from the foul line and Dave Patton scored his first two points of the game on free throws to stretch the Irish lead to 65-57.

Bill Lombardi scored 18 points and Paul Williams had 17 as Fordham shocked Georgetown. Nate Mills hit a jump shot from the foul line with one second left as New Orleans edged South Alabama in the Sun Belt finals. Both teams used a slowdown offense which ate up the clock and put the halftime score at 7-6 in favor of New Orleans.

Jack Givens scored 18 points as Kentucky beat Tennessee for the first time since the late Adolph Rupp retired in 1972. Winford Boynes broke open a tight game with nine points in the first five minutes of the first half, leading San Francisco past Nevada-Reno.

Phil Ford, playing his last game before the hometown fans at North Carolina, scored a career-high 34 points to lead the Tar Heel victory over Duke. Greg Kel-ser's 32 points and 14 rebounds powered 10th-ranked Michigan State past Illinois. Rich Apke's 18 points triggered Creighton past Southern Illinois.

A 23-point performance by Ron Brewer helped Arkansas beat TCU. Houston crushed Rice as Charles Thompson scored 21 points and Cecile Rose 20. Mike Russell's 24 points led Texas Tech over Texas A&M and SMU defeated Baylor behind a 15-point performance by Phil Hale.

Tony Searcy grabbed 23 rebounds and scored 20 points to lead Appalachian State over The Citadel. Marshall won its first tournament game as a Southern Conference member, beating Western Carolina with a six-point run late in the game. Johnathan Moore's 19 points paced Furman over Tennessee-Chattanooga. VMI beat Davidson as Ron Carter scored 28 points and collected 11 rebounds.

UCLA crushed Oregon as Raymond Townsend and Roy Hamilton each scored 20 points. Marvin Johnson scored 25 points to lead New Mexico past Brigham Young before a crowd of 23,000 at Provo, Utah. Ken Koenigs scored four of his 24 points in key free throw situations late in the game to pace Kansas past Colorado.

Bernie Rencher put St. John's in front with a jump shot at the three-minute mark and the Redmen cashed in at the free throw line the rest of the way to beat Providence. Tony Jackson's 17 points led Florida State over Georgia Tech.

A 27-point spree by Billy Lewis led Illinois State over Centenary. Detroit beat Xavier of Ohio as John Long collected 24 points. Marty Byrnes' 23 points led Syracuse over Boston College. Ed Hopkins scored 21 points and grabbed 13 rebounds as Georgetown defeated Holy Cross.

Indiana's Wayne Radford and Mike

Woodson teamed for 37 points and led a second-half rally that carried the Hoosiers over Minnesota. Larry Williams scored 32 points and picked off 13 rebounds to power Louisville over Memphis State.

Warning To SWC: Hogs Have Regained Touch

By The Associated Press
The Arkansas Razorbacks have regained the touch that made them the No. 1 team in the nation for six days and it spells trouble in The Summit this week at the Southwest Conference postseason basketball tournament.

Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton thinks they have come most of the way back. The Razorbacks had just ripped Texas Christian 84-42 in the first round of the SWC tournament and Sutton assessed his fourth-ranked team.

"We looked like the team that beat Memphis State, LSU and Kansas," said

Sutton
He added "I felt all along our No. 1 problem has been assuming we'd win the conference. I don't think any of the players would admit it, but I think they were just biding their time until the NCAA. This was the type of game we needed to have."

Arkansas opens the quarter-finals Thursday at 7 p.m. against Southern Methodist, which shocked Baylor 73-68 in Waco.

Jim Counce of Arkansas said the TCU game "boosted our confidence. The other teams in the league will see the score

ENMU's Kirkley Heads All-District 7 Unit

CEDAR CITY, Utah (AP) — Forward Bob Kirkley of Eastern New Mexico was the top vote-getter on the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics District Seven all-star basketball team and Regis' Lonnie Porter gained Coach of the Year honors, district officials announced Sunday.

Kirkley, a 6-5 senior forward and one of three players named for the second year in a row, leads district and nationwide NAIA players with a 30.9 scoring average, said Dr. Bruce Osborne, district chairman and athletic director at Southern Utah State.
Porter is in his first year at Regis.
NAIA District Seven is made up of 15 teams from Utah, Arizona, New Mexico and Colorado. The top ten players and coach of the year were picked by coaches in the district.
Joining Kirkley on the first team were Dave Fredrickson, a 6-6 senior forward from Regis averaging 18.3 points per game; Ed Jackson, 6-5 senior center from Adams State, 18.7; Marc Wilson, 6-9 junior center from SUSC, 18.6; and Dave Nelson, 6-7 junior forward from Ft. Lewis, 17.0.

The all-district second team was made up of Herman Phillips, a 6-4 sophomore center from Southern Colorado, averaging 16.2 points per game; Jeff Howard, 6-4 senior forward from Mesa College, 15.6; Ed Carter, 6-9 senior center, also from Mesa, 14.3; Nate Stokes, 6-4 senior forward from Grand Canyon College, 17.2; and Jim Swain, 6-3 senior forward from Colorado Mines, 26.0.

Besides Kirkley, Carter and Swain were also named to last year's team, which was made up of the top ten players without first and second team designations, said Jim Bayley, a spokesman for Osborne.

Sidney Moncrief, the jumping jack senior of the Razorbacks, said "SMU will be tough. I like to play them because they play hard."

"I'm glad we're playing in The Summit instead of Hoheinz Pavilion," said Ron Brewer. "Three games down there should help us for the NCAA."

Houston and Texas Tech collide in the second game Thursday night. The survivors meet in the semifinals Friday night. The winner plays Texas for the tournament championship Saturday night. Texas and Arkansas were co-champions but Texas drew the all-important bye to the finals because of a better record against third-place Houston.

Houston, which knocked Arkansas out of the No. 1 spot a week ago, was an easy 108-67 winner over crosstown rival Rice while Tech ripped Texas A&M 85-78 in Lubbock.

TCU Coach Tim Somerville said he believes Houston will win the tournament but gave his dues to Arkansas.

"I thought Coach Sutton could have played his starters less than he did," said Somerville.

"This is probably the best Arkansas has played all year. Arkansas is definitely ready for the tournament. If Arkansas can stand up physically, they have a good chance."

The Saturday night finals are a sellout in the 15,600-seat Summit with a few ducks remaining for Thursday and Friday nights.

Lopez Nabs First Pro Golf Title

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Saying she did it for her mother, tour sophomore Nancy Lopez has captured her first Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament with a 1-stroke victory in the $100,000 Bent Tree Classic.

Miss Lopez, of Roswell, N.M., shot a final-round 73 Sunday for a 1-over-par 289 and earned $15,000.

"I'm really excited," she said. "I really wanted to win this for my mother. What I wanted to do is do it right. If I lost, I would do it right. If I won, I would do it right."

Miss Lopez turned back a strong challenge from veteran JoAnn Washam, who finished at 290 and took home $10,558.

Mrs. Washam, of Orlando, Fla., had scorched the course during Saturday's round to put herself among the final-day leaders. She birdied the 9th, 10th and 14th holes Sunday to pull even with Lopez at the 14th.

They still were even at the 143-yard, par-3 17th. But Miss Lopez birdied that one from 13 feet out and Washam missed a 10-footer for a par. They both then parred the 18th.

Sylvia Bertolacini, at 291, was alone in third place at 3 over par. Amy Alcott, JoAnn Carner and Donna White were tied a stroke back at 292.

Mrs. Washam, five years on the tour, said she wasn't terribly disappointed with the loss.

"You can look back at a lot of putts, but you aren't back-pedal," she said. "You always have to look ahead."

She has won two tour stops, both in 1976.

Parsons Rules Richmond 400

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — It's been said of stock car driver Benny Parsons that he is a gentleman, on and off the track. It's been said that being a gentleman on the track is no virtue; that it has cost Parsons races he could have won by being less of a gentleman.

Now it can be said that being a gentleman may have helped Parsons win a race. Parsons' 100-yard victory over Len

Conversely, the rest treat each other about as badly.

Several long-standing vendettas were satisfied, several new ones were started, and other merely continued or renewed in the usually mild short track race that follows by one week the emotion-charged Daytona 500.

While Pond and Cale Yarborough, Darrell Waltrip, Richard Petty and others merrily were bashing the daylight out of each other, they would almost let the mild-mannered Parsons go by to get a better shot at their foes.

Parsons' Chevrolet looked like a Grand National race winner at the finish, except for a nose job given it by a slower car late in the race.

Pond's Chevrolet, Yarborough's Oldsmobile and Waltrip's Chevrolet, which finished in that order behind Parsons, were marred by tire marks, collages of damage. Yarborough's car wouldn't even go down the road straight, thanks to Petty, a non-finisher.

"Some of that out there today was pretty rough," Parsons commented. "But I managed to stay clear of most of it. As hard as the racing was, you'd think they were all racing for that Daytona money again."

Pond had a certain victory drive going, just 40 miles from the end when Waltrip decided to play chicken with him. In a desperate move to unlap himself, Waltrip banged his car into the side of Pond's and gave him a choice: back off or hit the fence.

Pond, who received a damaged tire in the close encounter, backed off.

The move foiled them both, however. Pond lost time to Parsons, while changing the tire, that he never regained. And Waltrip had to stop near the end for tires, and relinquish third to Yarborough.

Meanwhile, Parsons was motoring serenely along.

"I backed off a little bit there the last 20 or 30 laps, to be a little conservative," Parsons explained. "If you're gonna lose, make 'em beat you. Don't give it to 'em."

While the rest were giving to each other, Parsons was beating them in his best gentlemanly fashion.
