Marston fired, refuses lame duck post

WASHINGTON (AP) - David Marston, the Republican U.S. attorney from Philadelphia, was fired Friday after refusing to stay on as a lameduck prosecutor during a search

"I guess that's the end," said Marston, after emerging from a twohour meeting with Attorney General Griffin Bell at the Justice Department. He said he would vacate the prosecutor's office on Monday and suggested that his top deputy take over temporarily.

Sadat refuses to revive talks

By HILMI TOROS

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) - President Anwar Sadat rejected American efforts to revive the Jerusalem peace talks Friday and denounced Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin's "arrogant way" of negotiating.

Sadat's tough words came after a 90-minute meeting with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance.

In Israel, Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan reacted by accusing the Egyptian president of making "absurd demands" on Israel and warned, "Maybe there will be no peace talks."

Sadat met with Vance at the sprawling presidential residence on the banks of the Nile 15 miles north of Facing reporters afterward, he said: "Whenever Israel agrees to the principles not to tread on other's land or sovereignty, everything can be resumed again. The door to peace is Sadat said Israeli insistence on keeping Jewish settlements in the Sinai Peninsula and other occupied Arab lands were "a joke" and said Israel must abandon such an idea before peace talks can continue.

Dayan, interviewed on Israeli television, praised American peacemaking efforts in the Mideast as crucial and constructive but said that if Sadat does not compromise on his demands: "It looks like deadlock." A senior U.S. official traveling with Vance insisted that the future of Egyptian-Israeli peace talks was not "dead" and told American reporters: "It's obvious we've hit a bump in the road."

Sadat said he opposes any immediate resumption of the Jerusalem negotiations, which collapsed after two days of negotiations Wednesday when Egypt recalled its foreign minister in an abrupt, surprise move.

"There should be in this moment a whole re-evaluation. Let's try to find the proper approach again," said the Egyptian leader, who will address his parliament Saturday in what U.S. officials said they expect to be a "tough speech."

Egyptian sources here indicated Sadat may call for a three-way summit in Washington with President Carter and Begin. But Carter told White House reporters he knew of no such meeting.

There was also speculation that Sadat, noted for his shock approach to diplomacy, may offer his resignation in view of the severe setbacks to his peace initiative. After his historic visit to Jerusalem Nov. 19-21, Sadat said he would resign if his peace effort proved a failure.

Asked about it Friday, he broke into laughter and retorted: "Wait until you hear my speech!"

Marston told reporters that Bell told him the Carter administration's decision to fire him "is final."

Marston said the attorney general told him he never considered allowing him to finish his four-year term, which has 21/2 years to go.

In a brief statement, Bell substantiated Marston's account of the

"It was agreed that the Philadelphia office of the United States attorney will pursue all pending investigations with vigor," Bell said. "There will be no letup in the present approach or attitude toward public corruption.

Marston said he was "very disappointed" and that he felt the controversy "raised very grave questions" because of the role of Rep. Joshua Eilberg, DPa., in pressing for his removal.

President Carter has said he urged Bell to "expedite" Marston's ouster after receiving a call from Eilberg, who is said by sources in Philadelphia and the Justice Department to be involved in a criminal investigation by Marston's office.

Marston told reporters in a corridor outside Bell's office that the attorney general offered to keep him on for about three months, until a replacement was found.

"I respectfully declined," Marston said. "I don't want to be a lame duck. I've been crippled by the events of the last few weeks." Marston, 35, who has been in office about 18 months, said he would recommend that the Justice department name Kirk Karaszkiewicz, his top deputy, as his temporary suc-

Marston denied that he is running any elective office. And he said that Bell, in explaining his firing, "did not express any dissatisfaction with my work.

Referring to Eilberg, Marston said, "the reason I'm going is because a congressman called a president when he didn't even have a candidate" to suggest as the new U.S. attorney in the eastern district of Pennsylvania. "I don't accept that," Marston said.

'We had a system in Philadelphia and I didn't accept it. I removed politics from criminal justice in Philadelphia."

But he said Bell pledged to continue the probe of a $65 million addition to Hahnemann Hospital in Philadelphia. Government funding of the hospital reportedly is the focus of the investigation involving Eilberg and another Democratic congressmen from Pennsylvania, Daniel Flood.

The controversy attracted national attention after Carter told a news conference last week that he contacted Bell in November at Eilberg's behest, seeking to expedite the replacement of Marston.

The administration denied having any knowledge that Eilberg was under investigation by Marston's

An aide to Eilberg confirmed on Thursday that the records of the congressman's law firm had been subpoenaed on Dec. 16 and that Eilberg had hired a prominent criminal lawyer in Philadelphia to represent him.

U.S. Attorney David Marston of Philadelphia leaves the office of Attorney General Griffin Bell and tells reporters that the Carter administration's decision to fire him "is final" according to Bell. (AP Laserphoto)

Consumer prices rose in 1977

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN

WASHINGTON (AP) - Inflation clipped nearly 7 cents from every American's dollar in 1977, and President Carter said Friday that only voluntary restraint by business and labor will slow price increases

Year-end figures from the Labor Department showed consumer-prices rose 0.4 percent in December and brought the total increase for the year to 6.8 percent - 2 percent more than

The acceleration of inflation last year, although in line with administration forecasts, reflected higher food prices last winter.

But as the year drew to a close, consumer prices were rising at a more encouraging pace - a 4.6 percent annual rate in contrast to the 10 percent rate in the first quarter. In December, grocery prices rose only 0.1 percent The administration is expecting inflation to continue at a rate of between 6 percent and 7 percent in 1978, with the average family's food budget increasing 4 percent to 6 percent.

Carter's new anti-inflation program, outlined to Congress on Friday, is designed to get labor unions and businesses to accept smaller increases in wages and prices in order to reduce inflation by one-half percent

The 6.8 percent jump in consumer prices during Carter's first year in previous year, but compared favorably with increases of 7 percent in 1975 and 12.2 percent in 1974.

Last month, the consumer price index stood at 186.1, meaning that a marketbasket of goods and services selling for $100 in the 1967 base period now cost $186.10.

Job Fair opens today

In an effort to match workers with jobs, the second Job Matching Fair will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. today at the Aquila Hanger at Midland Regional Air Terminal.

Basic purpose of the fair is to find workers for local employers and to find jobs for the unemployed, the underemployed or the employed and unhappy, according to Fred Tyler of the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

A bitter shroud of snow and ice buried the East Coast on Friday, halting travel, marooning thousands, turning cities into ghost towns and everyone into pioneers. The blizzard that began Thursday night was the worst blast of the winter and the third of a rapid-fire series of storms to batter the region in eight While Floridians were mopping up

More than a foot of paralyzing snow fell overnight from Maryland to Maine and inland to Ohio and Ken tucky. Cincinnati had a record 16 inches in 24 hours. The National Weather Service predicted the snow would turn to sleet and freezing rain and continue into the weekend. Flooding was feared.

Transportation was stalled throughout the region: Airports, roads and highways were blocked and closed; motorists were stranded; train service was curtailed or halted; buses were scarce.

Business was almost at a standstill: Bank holidays were declared, stores and government offices were closed.

People get message with tractorcade

By KAY HORD

The tractorcade through Midland Friday morning, organized by area farmers to show support of the American Agriculture Movement, accomplished its purpose, according to Lawrence Jost of St. Lawrence.

Jost drove one of the tractors in the procession.

And according to Midland police, the demonstration proceeded with a minimum of trouble, such as traffic

The tractorcade, with about 55 tractors and 15 pickups, began at Midland Farmers Co-op on South Fairgrounds Road. From there, it proceeded west on Front Avenue to Texas Avenue, west on Texas Avenue to North A Street, south on A Street to Wall Avenue to Andrews Highway, down Andrews Highway to Midkiff Road and south on Midkiff Road to Dellwood Plaza. The farmers stopped at Dellwood Plaza for lunch.

After lunch, the demonstration went south to U.S. Highway 80 and west on Highway 80 to Midland Regional Air Terminal, where the tractors circled KMID-TV and then drove to Odessa.

The farmers had requested that they be allowed to circle The Reporter-Telegram while driving through downtown Midland, but a spokesman for the Police Department said the request was not made in time to amend the "parade" route.

"It went very well;" said an officer who had accompanied the tractors on their route. "The drivers stayed in line, followed the parade route that had been outlined and kept good intervals. It could not have been better as far as the police were concerned.

"There were no traffic problems, not even at the air terminal. Traffic there was only held up, maybe, five

'But they had no intentions of blocking any traffic, and they didn't,"

"All the people in Midland were real cooperative," said St. Lawrence farmer Jost. "Especially the Police Department. They worked with us 100 "I sure/think the tractorcade will help the people of Midland realize the awful shape that we are in, trying to make a living on farming.

"I realize that Midland is primarily an oil town, but agriculture has a big part in it, too. I hope we accomplished our goal and that at least some of the people got the message. Costs keep going up, and we still get the same prices for our products that our grandfathers got.

"We cannot keep going," Jost said.

Schools were empty and the region was plagued by power blackouts, collapsed roofs and a sense of helplessness. For millions, it was a snow-enforced vacation as emergencies were declared in New York City, Rhode Island, Harrisburg, Pa., and elsewhere. Everywhere people were ordered to stay off roads and out of cities and to hole up where they could.

Midtown Manhattan was a drifting desert of snow, Wall Street a gaping wilderness, and the entire New York metropolitan area was crippled. Here and there a hardy cross-country skiier trudged along Fifth Avenue. Officials feared that growing, dagger-like icicles would plunge from skyscrapers, and the spectacular new Citicorp building on East 54th street posed a bizarre hazard.

The street was closed because a one-ton sheet of ice was poised on the north side of the roof which had been built as an experimental solar tower. It was feared the ice could slide off and crush pedestrians and motorists. The storm eroded the nation's business, as commodities trading was halted at all New York exchanges. The New York and American stock exchanges opened late at noon.

"This is one of the worst storms I've seen in 22 years," said Rocco DeLuca, assistant director of the Rhode Island Transportation Department. The Rhode Island General Assembly canceled its session and the state lottery canceled its drawing.

At least three storm-related deaths were reported, including a Louisville boy who died of carbon monoxide poisoning when his mother's car got stuck in a snow drift.

Thousands of National Guard troops were called in around the region to help with snow removal. And in Ohio, Gov. James A. Rhodes ordered the 18,000 Guardsman to stand by to help dig out several counties and they were taking food and fuel into some areas.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - A federal appeals court ruled Friday that the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission overstepped its authority in try-ing to regulate the production of

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said the commission's authority was limited to regulating the transportation and sale of gas in interstate commerce.

An order issued by the commission was cancelled by the ruling, which came in an appeal filed by Shell Oil Company and other gas producers.

"To hold that the power to issue (the order) is within the jurisdiction of the FERC would all but eliminate the 'production and gathering' exclusion and would allow the FERC to encroach on areas reserved to the state," the 5th circuit said.

"We cannot so extend the authority of the commission."

The controversial order would have required companies that own gas wells to act as a "prudent operator" in developing and maintaining deliverability from natural gas

In appealing the commission order to the 5th circuit, the oil companies argued that it involved production work, and therefore was illegal.

Changes to stop fraud in meat rating system

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department moved Friday to eliminate fraud in the federal meat rating system and to provide consumers with more accurate information about the meat they buy.

Assistant Agriculture Secretary
Carol Tucker Foreman said the proposed changes would "make the grading service more informative to consumers by overcoming the confusion now existing concerning the quality of meat for sale.

Among the proposals is a requirement that meat offered for sale to consumers be marked either with a traditional quality grade — Prime, Choice, Good and so forth — or be labeled Ungraded.

Unions plan suit

against contractors

HOUSTON (AP)—Houston area construction craft unions have approved plans to file a $15 million suit alleging building associations and contractors are conspiring to destroy the unions.

"The issue is the greed of those who want to control building in Texas and spread that control," said Tom Upchurch, the Texas Building Trades Council's general counsel from Amarillo.

Jerry Arterburn, executive director of Associated Builders and Control of Associated Builders and Cont

Jerry Arterburn, executive director of Associated Builders and Contractors, rejected the conspiracy allegation.

Arterburn said Friday the suit planned by the unions is part of a nation-wide strategy to reverse declining union membership.

Plans for the suit were approved Thursday night by the Houston Gulf Coast Building and Construction Trades Council that represents about 40,000 workers in 17 crafts in a 23-county area.

Union officials said organized labor's share of area construction has dropped to about 25 percent after having been 70 percent or higher 10

"We won't let a conspiracy put us out of business," said Johnny Nelms, Pipe Fitters Local 211 business manager.

Harry Hubbard, Texas AFLCIO president, was among those saying it was time to fight a concerted industry effort to break or control unions.

In addition to the Associated Builders and Contractors, defendants in the suit would include such major contractors as Brown & Root Inc.

Ben Powell Jr., Brown & Root general counsel, said he was unaware that such a suit was being planned, but, like Arterburn, rejected the consultance allocations.

Upchurch said the cost of housing is high because financiers and others involved in construction have driven the competition away by setting prices and hiring only those contractors who cooperate.

He said construction costs for nonunion or open shop projects are often much higher than for union projects because contractors are willing to pay for the extra control they can exert.

Upchurch said the suit will be based on anti-trust laws that prohibit price fixing and monopolies.

Arteburn said data from the National Right to Work Committee in-sicates national union membership declined by 767,000 between 1974 and ungraded meat often is represented for sale as being of higher quality than it actually is, and the consumer pays too much for it, Ms. Foreman

The proposals come after corruption was discovered in the federal meat rating system in California and Arizona, where 17 meat packing firms and 36 individuals were indicted on charges of bribing meat graders. Seventeen Agriculture Department officials were convicted.

In addition, the department has taken administrative action against meat packers in South Dakota, Iowa. Kansas and Texas because of illegal removal of grade stamps from meats.

"The meat grading system has incentives for corruption built in," Ms. Foreman told a convention of the Consumer Federation of America, which she headed before joining the Carter administration.

"If a grader dishonestly upgrades just one out of every 10 carcasses from Good to Choice, the packer could gain $12,000 a week - all at the expense of consumers and producers,

Ms. Foreman said the most important of the proposals to consumers is that all beef and lamb sold at retail be marked with quality grade in-formation and that if it has no federal grade, it should be so marked

Personal aide of Howard Hughes signs away possible inheritance

By JOHN M. WILLIS Associated Press Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - A third personal aide who believes the Mormon will is not the valid last testament of Howard Hughes picked up a pen in court Friday and signed away any inheritance he might have under the document.

James Rickard, who served as a personal aide to the reclusive multimillionaire from 1972 through Hughes' death in April 1976, was the latest person to back up his belief with a renounced claim in the court fight over the hand-written, three-page

The waiver was presented to Rickard by Los Angeles attorney Harold Rhoden, who is trying to convince a Clark County District Court jury that Hughes did write the Mormon Will. Hughes' relatives, virtually un-mentioned in the purported will, claim the document is forged. Rhoden represents former Hughes' aide Noah Dietrich, whom the will names executor of the Hughes estate. On Friday, Rhoden continued his efforts to discredit the testimony of

Rickard and other aides who constanly took care of Hughes for many Rhoden is also trying to show the aides really didn't care much about Hughes and were only waiting around for Hughes to die so they could inherit a portion of his money.

Each time Rhoden has put the waiver on the witness stand in front of an aide, the aide has signed. According to the waivers, each aide could be giving up as much as $10 million after taxes if the will is declared genuine by the jury.

While former aides John Holmes and Clarence Waldron signed the waiver rather quickly, Rickard thoughtfully for nearly a paused minute, then asked presiding judge Keith Hayes:

"Your honor, is this a highly irregular procedure."

"Yes sir," Hayes replied. "And you have no objections,"

Rickard asked the judge.

"It's your decision," Hayes replied.

"Well, I want my testimony to stand, so I'll sign it," Rickard said, then affixed his signature in black ink from a felt pen

"This is almost like having to sign my name in blood...or my testimony isn't any good," Rickard said.

On each occasion, attorneys representing Hughes' relatives have objected to Rhoden's tactic, calling it improper and inappropriate.

The board has recommended appropriations in recent years that would stretch the educational dollar.

The faculty advisory committee recommended the catchup, Teague said, but the board's staff eliminated it before bringing its appropriations recommendations before the full board.

Compromises are made at every step, Teague said. If there is to be no catchup, "then let the Legislature make that decision. If we make the compromise for them, and then they make a further compromise, the poor teachers of Texas lose their position relative to teachers in other states."

Texas ranks 13th in appropriations for higher education, and 18th in per capita expenditures on higher

Snow may be over for now

Expectations for a heavy overnight snowfall dimmed late Friday night. According to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal, the previous forecast of a 60 percent chance of snow Friday night decreased to about 20 percent. Also, the line of the storm moved, taking with it Midland's chances for any concentrated moisture.

Most of the snow will be to the north of Midland, the weatherman said. He estimated that an additional one-half inch of snow might fall in the Midland area. Previous forecasts warned of possibly heavy accumulations Friday night.

The remainder of the forecast for the weekend calls for a 20 percent chance of snow today with some cloudiness and cold today and tonight. Temperatures should be warmer

Sunday.
The high today should be in the lower 30s with the low tonight near 20. The high Sunday should be in the upper 40s. Winds are expected to be southerly at 5 to 10 mph today and Friday's high temperature of 26 degrees was the lowest maximum temperature recorded for Jan. 20. The low temperature was 19 degrees. The record high temperature for Jan. 20 is 75 degrees set in 1959. The record low for today is 5 degrees in 1966.

Snow accumulation Friday totaled about one inch at Midland Regional Air Terminal, equivalent to .03 inch of moisture. The snow brought this year's moisture total to .11 inch.

Andrews, Crane and Big Lake reported heavy snows Friday, with accumulations varying from three inches to more than four. Lamesa had received only light snow by late Friday, as had Stanton, Rankin and Big Spring.

Another wintry storm blew across Texas Friday, bringing fresh snow to areas not fully recovered from the last storm. The National Weather Service said such storms will continue for Carter calls for unity in U.S.

By JAMES GERSTENZANG

ATLANTA (AP) - President Carter, leaving snowbound Washington and returning Friday to his native Georgia, praised his Southern roots and called for unity so America can realize its potential.

With his first budget completed and dinner that White House press secretary Jody Powell said would tax revision plans on the way to Congress, Carter marked the first anniversary of his inauguration by flying to Atlanta for a $1,000-a-couple gross $1 million, and net $850,000 for Calling for unity among the rich and poor, white and black, and North and South, Carter said, "none of us who hold public office can accomplish the ideals and potential of our nation unless we work in harmony. "Together, you and I, Southerners, Americans ... can realize the potential that is on our shoulders ... and make America proud of us all.

"It means a lot to me to come home," said Carter, making his first trip to the Georgia capital since he was inaugurated. "My roots are still the same as they were.

He said Southerners are patriotic and committed to the nation's security. Carter's mention of two Southerners - Martin Luther King Jr., the civil rights leader, and Robert E. Lee, the Civil War general, won equal applause.

"It's really nice to be back home, where I don't need an interpreter,'

Carter said in his Southern accent. Carter was introduced by Bert Lance, who resigned in September as director of the Office of Management and Budget. Lance and the president both received standing ovations. 'The only one (in the Carter administration) who has been a complete success so far is Bert Lance,' Carter said. "He's come out of Washington a hero. He is the only one in the Carter administration to pay off all his debts."

Other survivors include his wife; two sons, Harold Greene of Sherman, Texas, and Mike Greene of Winfield; one married daughter, Linda, of Cleveland, Ohio, and five grandchildren.

Train derails in Odessa

ODESSA — Both locomotives and approximately six freight cars on a Missouri Pacific train derailed Friday in Odessa.

According to a spokesman for the Ector County Sheriff's Office, the wreck occurred at 5:09 p.m. on the tracks at Murphey Street, east of Loop 338.

The locomotives were about a quarter mile from the wreckage of the cars, he said.

Briscoe gets honor AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The Texas Hospital

Association presented Gov. Dolph Briscoe a plaque Friday "for his outstanding contributions to Texas hospitals, 1973-1978."

"Without the leadership, support and guidance of Governor Briscoe over the past four years, much of the progress in hospitals would not have been made," said association president O. Ray Hurst.

Not so long ago they liked to look at the pictures, but the words were just black squiggles which Mommy had to interpret. Now they can read. With each passing month more and more words have meaning, and a whole new world is revealed.

Think of the tremendous void in life if you had never learned to read - almost as great as if you'd never gone to church and learned what it is like to be a useful member in God's House.

Is there a void in your life?

Methodist dinner set

Representatives of United Methodist churches in Midland and Andrews will attend a dinner meeting Tuesday night to launch the 1978 fund drive for McMurry College at Abilene

The 6:30 p.m. event in St. Luke's United Methodist Church, 3011 W. Kansas Ave., is one of a series of meetings to be held throughout the Big Spring District of the United Methodist Church's Northwest Texas Conference, for the purpose of McMurry, a Methodist school.

Jimmy Stallings of Stanton, a certified public accountant and active pring District chairman of the McMurry fund campaign. This is the second year that Stallings has led the fund drive in the district. He is a 1950 graduate of McMurry.

The McMurry fund drive was begun in 1973 to raise money for academic and general expenses of the college. This year's campaign is part of the more general "Thrust for Excellence" effort which aims at raising $10.7 million by 1982 to undergird the college in teaching, endowment and other areas.

Other fund meetings in the Big Spring District will be held in for-Big Spring and Colorado City.

McPherson to serve as interim rector

The Rev. Carroll McPherson returned to Midland earlier this month to serve as interim rector of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity. He will serve the parish until Holy Trinity's new rector, the Rev. Sam B. Hulsey, arrives here in early February. Mr. McPherson had served the parish as interim rector for several weeks this past fall.

Testimony scheduled on Lance's bank loan

ATLANTA (AP) — A federal grand jury will begin hearing testimony Tuesday about possible irregularities surrounding a $2.6 million personal loan Bert Lance received from a New York bank, The Atlanta Journal-Constitution reported in its Saturday editions.

The newspaper quoted "sources familiar with the investigation" as saying the grand jury, sitting in Atlanta, would call officials of Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. to answer questions about the 1975 loan to Lance, made five days before the National Bank of Georgia deposited $250,000 in a non-interest-bearing account at the New York bank.

DALLAS - The ninth annual assembly of organization but not necessarily for individual member denominations or churches. Special care is given to recognizing dissent on conference votes.

The Rev. Dr. James C. Suggs, a native Texan, will be invested as new executive director of the TCC in a service scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Jan. 30 in the Park Cities Baptist Church. At the same service, the Rt. Rev. W. R. Henton of Lubbock, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Northwest Texas, will be installed as state president of TCC. Bishop Henton will take over from W. McFerrin Stowe of Dallas, bishop of the North Texas and Central Texas conferences of the United Methodist Church.

Dr. Suggs, TCC's new executive director, succeeds Roy Cates of Austin, who had served as TCC's first executive director since 1969. Cates resigned the post recently to become director of development for the Episcopal Theological Seminary of the Southwest at Austin. More than 200 persons are expected to attend the assembly. Attending as official observers will be representatives of the Baptist General Convention of Texas and of Jewish organization These observers, as representatives of groups that are not TCC members, will have a voice but no vote.

When the TCC was organized in 1969, it was unique in the entire world. Up to that time, no other organization had brought together for joint action representatives of Protesta Greek Orthodox and Roman Catholic churches. Since then, other such groups have been formed, often using the Texas Conference of Churches as a model.

LOS ANGELES - Telephone and mail solicitors, trading on "white guilt" and on government pressure to advertise in minority-oriented publications, are inducing thousands of businessmen to buy ads in phony publications, according to investigators for the Postal Service and the Los Angeles district at-

Nationally the fraudulent sales amount to $25 million, a year, postal inspectors say, and the schemes are proliferating as "salesmen," seeing how easy it is to make money, built and set up their own operations.

The method is quite simple. Operating out of a storefront "boiler room," the solicitor, who may be an unemployed white actor skilled at imitating black or Mexican-American accents, places telephone calls to businesses across the nation.

Usually, according to Assistant Postal Inspector Peter Wade and postal investigator Wayne Collier, the telephone solicitor uses a voice that the white businessman regards as "black." The caller, using the name of a fictitious organization, often with "black" or "equal opportunity" in the title, asks the businessman to place an ad in a directory or other

Whether or not the businessman agrees, the call is followed immediately by an invoice and sometimes by another invoice labeled "reminder notice." With surprising frequency, the business pays up

Collier, considered by law enforcement officials well as its friends.' here to be the most knowledgeable investigator of postal fraud, said the schemes take advantage of a secion of the Equal Employment Opportunity Act of 1972 that encourages advertising in publication aimed at minority audiences.

As one of the actor-solicitors put it, "We're cashing in on white guilt, which is very big now in the corporate world

"Over a 2-year period we've received many complaints from business people who feel they've been strong-armed into taking space in a directory," said Los Angeles County Deputy District Attorney Gil Garcetti, a consumer fraud specialist. "Usually, these directories are never published."

These phony operations are hurting legitimate civil rights fund-raising and reputable telephone salespersons for established publications. Authorities urge businessmen who are colicited by un unfamiliar publication to ask for a copy and for details of its circulation before buying any ads.

Inspector Wade said a dozen boiler room operaturs, using more than 70 organizational cover names, are under investigation in Southern California. He noted that solicitors here can begin their calls to Eastern points as early as 5 a.m. West Coast time and thus take advantage of the lower telephone rates prevailing at that hour.

Last year, postal authorities obtained the conviction on mail fraud charges of Michael Lasky, who they believed to be the largest since operator. Lasky was sentenced to five years in prison and is free pending appeal.

Lasky's firm, Space Advertising, in many cases didn't even bother to make phone calls but simply sent out hundreds of invoices. It operated under dozens of names, of which some of the most frequently used were "The Minority Viewpoint" and "El Mexicano.

Wade said similar cover names are now used by other solicitors.

An employee of one of these beiler rooms, a young white actor who has had bit roles in a few minor movies, agreed to talk about his experiences on condition that his name not be used.

This actor, who in the course of a 20-minute interview employed accents that he said were black, Mexican and Jewish, said his day usually began at 6 a.m. and lasted unitl 11 p.m. Operating out of a building near his home in Manhattan Beach and using a list culled from the telephone directory's Yellow Pages, $800 for a full page, and the salespeople, most of them white males, received 20 percent of the

If the businessman seemed interested but resisted, he was told he could buy a smaller ad at a special reduced price. If he still resisted, the caller remarked that his organization "kept track of its enemies as

Whether or not the caller agreed to buy the ad, he was sent an invoice unless he had threatened to call the police or the postal authorities, or had requested an advance copy of the director, the actor said.

We actually printed a directory but I think it was limited to a couple of hundred copies," this actor said. "As far as I know, it was never distributed." The actor said he averaged between $800 and $1,000 week and still had time to try out for movie roles. But he also said that soliciting became "hard work" because both the sales pitch and the responses grew monotonous.

"It helped me get my accents down but now I'm bored by it," he said.

While the boiler rooms are typically located in the Redondo Beach or Manhattan Beach areas south of Los Angeles, to get their mail the solicitation schemes often used more prestigious addresses in Beverly Hills or Hollywood, where some of them also hiring and promotion maintained answering services.

Wade said that because of increased suspicion by businessmen about invoices mailed from California. some of the solicitation schemes are now using mail drops in such places as Boston and Minneapolis. Checks collected in these cities are shipped to cases throughout California

Investigations are currently under way into various phases of the minority solicitation fraud by the postal authorities, the U.S. attorney, the state at- cases. torney general and the Los Angeles district attorney. All of these officials were reluctant to name any particular boiler room operator until an indictment is

Because of the portable nature of boiler rooms, those who run them can quickly close down and

Also, mail fraud convictions are difficult to obtain, said an experienced trial lawyer here, because many businessmen are reluctant to file a complaint. "They don't want to advertise that they've been burned," the attorney said. Among those who were defrauded in the Space Advertising case, according to court records, were the Providence Hospital of Washington, D.C., Mitsubishi Aircraft of San Antonio and Key Biscayne Bank in Florida.

Brigham Young draws he urged businessmen to buy ads in an "equal employment" directory. The ads cost from $150 to non-Mormon students PROVO, Utah (AP)-Non-Mormon students attending Brigham Young University give different reasons for enrolling.

At BYU, owned and operated by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, 625 non-Mormon are enrolled with about 26,000 church members.

When I first came here, it blew my mind a little bit. At Syracuse it was mostly Jewish, but it was a normal university. Here, the LDS (Latter-day Saints) faith is a whole culture in itself," said Kathy Mooney, member of the Christian Science Church, who transferred to BYU to study Finnish.

Non-Mormon students applying to BYU must meet the same requirements as Mormon applicants, said admissions director Veston Thomas.

These include an interview with a minister, who need not be a Mormon, and a pledge to abide by a dress and grooming code and the moral standards of the Mormon church.

The code requires male students to keep their hair cut above the collar. Coeds are not allowed to wear blue jeans on campus. All students must abstain from tobacco, coffee, tea, alcoholic beverages and drugs. Premarital sex is grounds for expulsion.

Non-Mormons pay $510 a semester tuition, compared to $390 for church members.

Some non-Mormon students say the strong religious influence is what they are looking for, but others say it can be a problem.

FTC adopts quotas

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - The Federal Trade Commission has agreed to offer to minority persons 17 percent of its job openings for attorneys next year and take several other steps to increase the number of blacks it employs in its highest-paying professional positions.

The agreement marks the first time a federal agency has, without court order, agreed to make a major overhaul of its practices. The settlement affects approximately 600 positions in the agency. and will set an important precedent for similar government, according to attorneys who specialize in racial discrimination

As a part of the settlement to a 2-year-old class action suit alleging racial discrimination at the agency, the FTC conceded it "has in the past been less successful in hiring and retaining qualified minority employees than it has in hiring and retaining qualified non-minority employees."

The agreement in cludes a requirement that the commission hire an outside consultant to review its personnel policies and suggest necesary changes to correct any discriminatory practices that might be found.

It was reached following numerous negotiating sessions between attorneys for the commission and attorneys for minority FTC employees under the guidance of U.S. District Court Judge Charles R Richey.

FTC chairman Michael Pertschuk said he was 'pleased with the settlement and proud of the action we have taken because it confirms our basic commitment to equal opportunity.'

Among the unusual aspects of the agreement, which affects applicants for the past two years and the next five years for FTC jobs as attorneys, economists, accountants, consumer protection specialists, research analysts, and computer specialists, are:

-Appointment of a spcial administrator within the agency to supervise implementation of the decree.

—A requirement that attorney-applicants cannot be asked to list their LSAT (Law School Admissions Test) score, and that the LSAT cannot be used as a criterion for hiring or promotion decisions.

—Special efforts to notify economics and law schools of the FTC's interest in hiring minorities. -Hiring of minority law students "who may not satisfy all traditional hiring critiera," but who. would be given tem-porary jobs and judged on their performances.

-Training of FTC supervisors and personnel specialists in Equal Employment Opportunities policy, and annual grading of supervisors on their EEO performances. -Regular reviews of the amount of time spent "in-grade" by minorities and a comparison to the amount of time spent by non-minorities at the same pay scales.

-Regular reports to Rickey for the next five years concerning the implementation of agreement.

In addition, the stipulation — which has been conditionally ap-proved by Richey pen-ding final details and notification of class members - requires the FTC to pay any fees for plaintiffs' attorneys that arise over the implementation of the Rebels edge Bulldogs in overtime, 56-54

Dave Stueckler hit a 30-foot shot with two seconds left in overtime Friday night to hand the Robert E. Lee Rebels a heart-stopping 56-54 victory over the Midland High Bulldogs in the Lee Gymnasium.

It was the second time this year that the 6-2 senior was the hero in overtime play. He hit two free throws against Abilene Cooper two weeks ago to giv :

Lee a 61-59 win.

The game was a typical Lee-MHS matchup with plenty of action and you would have thought that the two Tall City rivals were playing for the championahip. This was not the case, however, as Abilene High edged Abilene Cooper, 51-49, in Abilene Friday to win the first half of the District 5-4A title. The win gave the Warbirds the title outright in going 7-0 in the first half of the split schedule. Lee and Cooper, wind up tied for second with 5-2 readings.

Both teams were tight as a rubber band at the offset as Midland took a into the wild and wooly fourth period.

LEE SCORED first at the opening of the final period on a basket by Nate Goudeau, but Midland - countered on a bucket by Kiffy Hickey to give the lead back to the Bulldogs, 45-44 with 7:21 left in regulation time.

It looked like Lee might pull ahead to stay when Mike Richard hit a 15foot shot and Joe Garner hit a 12footer for a 48-45 lead with 2:58 left.

The Rebels had gone into their fourcorner dominio stall offense with 5:58 left when they led 46-45.

Walter Bryson, who had 14 points hit two baskets in a row for the Pack to give MHS the lead, 49-48 with the latter coming on a steal at mid-court.

Lee came back on Goudeau's basket for a 50-49 Lee lead with 1:59 left. Once again, it was Bryson who scored with 1:44 left for a 51-50 Midland lead.

ERNEST MERRITT missed a shot for Lee with Midland's Milton Sanders coming down with the ball with 1:03 left and Bulldog Coach Don Humphrey called time out. Bryson was called for traveling, giving the ball back to the Rebs, but the ball got away from a trio of Lee players under the Lee basket.

Garner stole the ball and tried to get off a shot, but was fouled by Bryson. He hit the first of two shots to tie the score, 51-51 with 19 seconds left, but missed the second one.

Lee got the rebound on the missed free toss and Garner's 25-foot shot hit the rim at the buzzer, sending the game into overtime.

With 2:32 left in the three-minute overtime, Goudeau missed the first of a two-shot foul attempt, but sank the second for a 54-52 lead for the Rebs.

ROY LEE JEFFERSON of Midland missed a free throw with 2:19 left and Lee went into the a stall again. Mike Oestmann misfired on a charity attempt with 1:02 remaining with Sanders coming down with the rebound for the Pack.

Jefferson then hit a driving layup for a basket and was fouled by Oestmann, who picked up his fifth foul of the game. Jefferson completed the three-point play to give the Purple Pack a 54-52 lead with 47 seconds left.

Pardee apparently will be the next coach of the Washington Redskins, although no announcement will be made before next week, sources said.

Pardee, who quit as head coach of the Chicago Bears Thursday to seek the Redskins post, met for seven hours with team president Edward Bennett Williams before reportedly returning to Chicago to mull over the situation.

Williams was reported to have said the two discussed, among other things, the current Redskins team, its future and how Pardee would fit in.

Williams also said Pardee was not signed to a contract but that the two would meet again next week. Williams said he has commitments to discuss the Redskins coaching job with at least two other people.

THE WILLIAMS law office declined to confirm or deny that the two had met, but they were seen having lunch at a downtown hotel.

odds which make him a 2-1 underdog for Saturday's lightweight boxing world title decider. "I'll knock him out," said DeJesus of Panama's slugging Roberto Duran. "It will be good to have just one champion. I'll be happy to be that one champion. DeJesus holds the World Boxing Council title while Duran has been the World Boxing Association king of the 135-pounders for six years. The two split their previous meetings, DeJesus winning a non-title bout and handing Duran his only professional loss in 1972.

WHEN DEJESUS challenged for the WBA title in 1974, he was stopped by Duran in the 11th round.

"I was out of shape for that one," the 26-year-old Puerto Rican claimed. "I took the fight on only 10 days notice and then they told me it was canceled. I lost my concentration.'

Duran, also 26, is rated one of the hardest punchers ever to perform in the lightweight division.

Bamberger jumps O's to pilot Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) - George Bamberger describes himself as a teacher, motivator and communicator who, at age 52, was willing to sacrifice lifetime security as the Baltimore Orioles' pitching coach to accept a new challenge Bamberger accepted a major one

Friday when he signed a two-year contract to manage the Milwaukee Brewers, 67-95 last season and with 76-86 as their best record in nine American League baseball seasons.

But if Bamberger can motivate and develop talent as well as he did as Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver's top aide for 10 years, Brewers General Manager Harry Dalton's search for a successor to the fired Alex Grammas would appear to be worth the two-month effort.

"GEORGE is a winner," said Dalton, himself the architect of the Orioles' championship teams of the 1960s and early 1970s. "In 10 years at Baltimore he had 18 pitchers who were 20-game winners and four Cy Young Award winners, Jim Palmer three times and Mike Cuellar once."
Pitching clearly is the Brewers' main weakness, but Dalton emphasized that is not why he chose Bamberger.

"We are hiring a manager for the entire 25-man club," Dalton said.
"We're, not bringing him in just because he handles pitchers well. He handles people well. He is a very independent person who I think has leadership qualities."

Bamberger, who had no decisions in 10 games in parts of three seasons as a major league pitcher and who has no managerial experience, said he is convinced the Brewers are better than they have shown and that much of their problem has been a losing attitude and lack of motivation.

"WE HAVE a better ball club than last year." he said. "I see no reason why this team can't play .500 this year. I think this ball club in the near future will win the pennant.

"It is a fine offensive and defensive club," he said. "The main problem is pitching. It has good pitching, good arms, but the pitchers are inexperienced. I'm confident that once we can get them to become pitchers instead of throwers, this ball club can

The Ford-Palmer team also played at Cypress Point.

The format for this unique event calls for the pros, with their celebrity amateur partners, to play one round on each of three courses before the finals on Pebble Beach. Scores are kept both on an individual basis for the pros and on a better-ball basis for the team, with the amateur's han-dicaps taken into account.

FORD CARRIES a 16 handicap. He made a natural birdie, a net birdie, on the seventh hole, when Palmer took a 6. On the famed 16th, another par 3. Palmer again made 6 and the team scored a net 4 on Ford's effort.

Poll confirms Allen most disliked coach in league

By WILLIAM GILDEA KENNETH TURAN The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - There have been coaches, a man once said, who passed for figures of greatness, who enriched the sport they taught. George Allen, the man went on, is the only coach ever to be smaller than the game.

recent Sports Illustrated had Allen as the most disliked goach in the entire

On meeting the man, it is at first hard to figure why. He seems plea-sant enough, if a bit earnest, perhaps like some kindly college professor. And his won-lost record at Los Angeles and Washington of 116-47-5 is one of the very best in pro football. Despite the record, Allen has never achieved his ultimate goal: winning the Super Bowl.

It is not only this that led to Allen's departure but the feeling in the Red-skins' hierarchy that this particular coach had taken the team as far as he could. More than that, his trade-now, pay-later philosophy had quite con-ceivably built a bleak future — and at unprecedented expense.

"YOU MUST have young players coming in all the time to develop consistency over the years," Oakland Raider boss Al Davis once said. "I think with George Allen's system, you eventually ruin the team."

Allen's system excluded higher authorities. No man with such a spare-no-cost attitude had ever constructed such a powerful football empire: coach, general manager, absolute master of a personal fiefdom built to his specifications in suburban

But the concept of giving Allen an unlimited budget and having him, in Redskins president Edward Bennett Williams' once joking words, "already exceed it," no longer seemed practical or amusing. After seven years, Williams felt the results no longer justified the expenditure.

Owners have a way of changing their minds about Allen despite his seeming successes. The late Los Angeles Rams owner Dan Reeves fired Allen twice before he made it stick. And Williams, on the night he introduced Allen in Washington, said, "I'll never hire another coach."

TRULY THERE is something about George Allen and the way he operates that inevitably turns admirers into

"You can only go to the well so many times. The first time he says this is the most important game of your lives, you believe it. Maybe you'll believe it the second and third time, too. But the 20th time, you start to wonder. If you ask for the superior effort week after week, after a while you don't get it. Sure, that's probably a major reason we never won the championship." Super Bowl or not, one of the major ironies of Allen's departure from Washington - and, before that, Los Angeles - is that he put together an extraordinary record. Yet nothing Allen becomes involved in ever seems to have much to do with logic, or nor-

WHEN HE tried to quit his job as assistant coach with the Chicago Bears to take the Rams' job, crusty owner George Halas voiced a surprise objection, took him to court, and won his point, before grandly dismissing him. The reason Reeves' first firing of Allen didn't last was that several key players unexpectedly stood up for their coach, threatening to quit. Even when Reeves canned Allen a second time (and no one came to the rescue), the move, as in Washington, was not based on wins and losses. How account for it, then, how account for the repeated dismissals of one of the most successful caoches in the history of the game?

Part of the answer is that Allen is victimized by his philosophy, by his relentless insistence that all you have to do is give him everything and he guarantees total success. Guarantees, yes; delivers, no.

But more than that, Allen and his peculiar philosophy sooner or alter wear out their welcome

He is so megalomaniac about winning - so insistent that victories are, if possible, more important than life itself, so willing to twist everything twistable, to blame everyone blamable - that he shreds the last vestiges of illusion owners have about being involved in a sport.

When you work with George Allen, you know it's not just a game, you see professional football for the ruthless enterprise it really is. Faced with the choice of getting out of the sport or getting rid of Allen, owners inevitably take the path of least resistance: they kill the bearer of bad news and let has changed with it. Ramsay so detested loosing any game years ago that he did bizarre things, like taking long walks alone at night along dangerous streets or chewing up dead trees with a chain

At 52, Ramsay still stalks the sidelines and gestures angrily at times, but he has learned to control his emotions, associates say. Some attribute Portland's brilliant perfomance during the first half of the National Basketball Association season in part to changes in Ramsay.

"The game is important that night, but only that night," McKinney said of Ramsay's approach to basketball. "When it is over, Jack discusses it with the players—the good parts, the bad parts. But that's it. Then it's time to look ahead to the next game."

Ramsay emphasized he does not accept defeat willingly but has changed considerably from the days when he was coaching at St. Joseph's,

McKinney, who played for Ramsay in both high school and college and also was an assistant for him at St. Joseph's, recalled one experience, when a last-second St. Joseph's basket against Auburn was disallowed by a referee who ruled basket interference. The decision cost Ramsay's team the game.

"Jack went bananas," McKinney said. "He couldn't settle himself down. The players were having hamburgers in the hotel coffee shop after midnight, and we saw him go stomping out the door for a walk. The next morning, early, some of us were up for church and we saw him walk in. We figured he had been walking all Ramsay concedes there were times he was not conscious of his whereabouts when walking off a tough loss. Once in Chicago, he spotted a suspicious man angling toward him across a darkened street. "Hey buddy," the stranger asked.

"You got a match?" "No! I don't smoke!" Ramsay growled, sending the stranger scurrying in retreat.

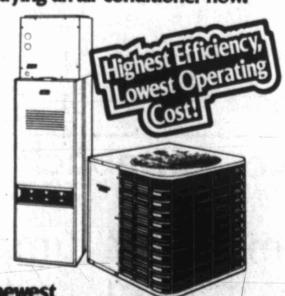

While coaching Buffalo's NBA team, Ramsay turned logger to calm his frustrations.

"I had lots on each side of our home there," he said. "There were dead and dying trees on them. I used to cut the trees down with a chain saw and split them up. I just gave the wood away to neighbors. They would come over and walk away with their arms

When McKinney played for Ramsay in college, "We dreaded losing on the road. We knew we wouldn't dare say a word on the bus

LAS VEGAS (AP) - Warren Nelson made a run at the lead, but left-hander Johnny Petraglia held onto the top spot in Friday's early round of the $125,000 Showboat Invitational professional bowling tour-

Petraglia, a New Yorker who has finished third here three times, began the day with a 205-pin lead, but Nelson moved to within 52 pins of him by averaging 244 while Petraglia averaged about 225.

Nelson of Downey, Calif., won six of his eight games Friday, while Petraglia, a 10-time winner on the Professional Bowlers Association circuit, won five of eight.

Petraglia's 40 game pinfall was 11,406, and Nelson's was 11,354.

Dave Jones of Charleston, S.C., was third, and had the best won-loss record of the 24 finalists, 12-4. His total pinfall was 11,288.

Pete McCordic of Houston was in fourth at 11,241, and Bud Horn of Los Angeles fifth at 11,192.

Nelson, like Jones and McCordic, is seeking his first PBA title.

Lee tied the score moments later on a 12-foot shot by Garner in the corner and Jefferson was whistled for a player-control foul, giving the ball back to the Rebs.

With 32 seconds left, Lee put the ball into play, working for the final shot and it came with two ticks left on the clock as Stueckler ripped the cords. Midland threw the ball down court in a last-ditch desperation attempt, but the shot was wide of its mark.

Pardee is best answer to Redskins' dilemma

By KEN DENLINGER The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - The two best things that could happen to the Redskins are: hiring Jack Pardee as coach and George Allen getting a job as quickly as possible. Pardee is one of the few men alive who might keep the team at a respectable level until it can be restocked with youth; Allen could hasten the rebuilding here with his future-is-now policy somewhere

Whoever the Redskin hire as coach cannot quickly deviate much from Allen's veteran-studded team for th simple reason that many of the fossils played better than anyone else last season, and no other avenue is open even if they had not.

Say the new coach wanted to begin an immediate reconstruction, casting aside such as Ron McDole and Len Hauss, Billy Kilmer and Charley flair for success under the most difficult situations. He took players who were not getting paid to the cham-pionship game in the WorldFootball League four years ago. He took what amounted to an expansion team, the Chicago Bears, to the NFL playoffs in three years.

And the Redskins will be what amounts to an expansion team in two years. Or at least they ought to be. The history of every wildly successful team in the NFL in recent years, from the Lombardi Packers to the Shula Dolphins to the Noll Steelers and the Davis-Madden Raiders, is that they once were awful.

To dare to be great in the NFL, it seems, involves the risk of first losing often enough to lasso the quality players that form the core of a champion. And then hiring someone bright enough to choose the proper players which in many respects is a more difficult choice than the coach.

The Redskin general manager whom Edward Bennett Williams said he will hire ought to be given orders to trade anyone who might bring a quality draft choice. Trade Houston? Fugett? Mike Thomas?

WELL, WHY not? It makes no sense at all to continue the patchwork philosophy of Allen that brought unimagined success early and then steady decline. So the Redskins might as well gamble with Allen-like fervor - except in the opposite direction.

The view here is that Allen's notion of trading unknown draft choices for proven quality players is more sound than the traditional method of building a team. But Allen simply failed to execute his once-successful strategy the last few years here.

National college grid crowns mean little, even this year

By JIM MURRAY The Los Angles Times Syndicate

Question: What do a national co!legiate football champion and a unicorn have in common?

Answer: Neither one of them exists, except in the lively imaginations of a few writers. The mythical national champion belongs in the same place you find the unicorn - in a chapter in 'Alice In Wonderland."

Comparative football scores are as meaningless as a baby's gurgle. You can prove positively by comparative scores that Southern Mississippi should be the national champion - or, at least, that it is two touchdowns better than the team that is. (Mississippi beat Notre Dame, 20-13, and Southern Mississippi beat Mississippi, 27-19.)

OR WOULD you rather prove that Michigan State should have been in the Rose Bowl? It's easy. Michigan State beat Minnesota, 29-10, and Minnesota beat both Washington and Michigan which were in the Rose Football is the only major collegiate sport which does not have a final resolution, but if ever a set of Bowl matchups bid fair to process an acceptable champion for all concerned, this year's did. Texas had beaten both Arkansas and Oklahoma, the Orange Bowl rivals. Oklahoma had beaten Ohio State, one Sugar Bowl rival, and had beaten Nebraska which had beaten the other Sugar Bowl rival, Alabama. One of the Rose Bowl teams had been licked four times by such powerhouses as Mississippi State. Syracuse, and Minnesota.

SO, IF Texas beat Notre Dame, the case was closed, right? And, if Notre Dame whipped Texas, that was it.

Wrong. Arkansas expelled three of its best players from the squad on the eve of the game and still toyed with an Oklahoma team that a lot of people thought was the best in lists this year. Alabama treated Ohio State as if they hadn't shown up. Washington would have had more trouble scoring if Michigan hadn't showed up.

Teams in the lower-eschelon bowls mopped up runners-up in strong conferences, USC, which had been totalled by Notre Dame, 49-19, put on a track meet against Texas A. and M. Stanford, which had been toppled by USC, 49-0, routed LSU.

It wasn't a poll, it was a lottery. What the flower of American journalists should have done was, declared the title vacant. Send a note along the wire that, owing to the inconclusivity of New Year's Day, either no one was champion - or evereyone was.

YOU SEE, the trouble with most bowl bids is, everyone wants to play coach alive who wouldn't invite Harvard if he could get away with it. Or William and Mary. Separately. The pollsters settled on Notre someone they can beat. There isn't a

Dame, probably to save themselves embarrassment. After all, hadn't they been saying all year that Texas was national champion? Some of those voting were probably getting their first look at Texas on New Year's day.

But, to leave the country without a 'National Champion' is as unthinkable as to leave it without, say, Mississippi, Notre Dame should forgive the allusion.

But, the process reminds me of the king in The Lion And The Unicorn chapter in "Alice In Wonderland." "I couldn't send all the horses, you know, because two of them are wanted in the game," the king said. 'And I haven't sent the two messengers either. They're both going to town. Just look along the road and tell me if you can see either of them." "I see nobody on the road." said Alice.

"I only wish I had such eyes!" the King cried. "To be able to see Nobody! And at such a distance, too! Why it's all I can do to see real people by this light!" The sportswriters of America saw nobody, too, and, in the best Lewis Carroll Tradition, wrote it for Notre Dame.

WEST TEXAS HUNTING AND FISHING

Brady gets writer's vote as best for bass

Which is the best lake in Texas to catch a bass of six pounds or better? Toledo Bend, Sam Rayburn or the legendary Lake

Murvaul probably come to mind, These impoundments would have been my choice until a recent study by state game

These three lakes along with lesser known Texas waters were studied and an analysis was made of statistics concerning man hours of fishing, per pounds of fish weighed at the dock.

The surprising result of the study showed that Brady Lake, five miles out of Brady, offered a much better chance of catching a six-pounder, or better, than did the much ballyhooed East Texas reservoirs.

I CAN remember when Lake Granite Shoals (Lake LBJ) was drained and poisoned for restocking due to the large roughfish population. The shad, carp and stunted perch had taken over and when the netters came in to scoop up the dead fish, the largest bass weight verified was a tad over four pounds. This past September my father and I spent three days on Brady hoping to eash in on the statistics that offered the most six pounders for the least fishing hours. As is usually the case, we didn't load the boat with trophy bass, but we did have dozens of missed strikes on topwater plugs. We fished early and late in 2 to 5 feet of water that was thick with duckwort and mesquite. All of the fish were "short-striking" and there were some heart-stopping swirls that only very big fish can make.

WE STRUNG some respectable bass in the 2-3 pound category and had two fish that each weighed five pounds even on "De-Liar"

I'm an optimist when it comes to fishing and I want to think that some of the missed strikes were candidates for the taxidermist.

Along with a good game-fish population, Brady Lake has excellent bottom structure with water ranging from 45 feet to five fee in depth out in the middle of the lake. The shoreline ranges from steep bluffinto very deep water to gently sloping, weed-infested shallows that extend up to 200 yards out into the lake.

fishing THE NUMEROUS warm days that we experience in West Texasoffer some excellent fishing and Brady Lake should get a lot of attention between now and spring.

Bass will often go into a feeding frenzy after very cold weather, when the temperature gets into the sixties or seventies for a day or two. I have caught bass in the dead of winter in two or three feet of water on just such days, when they would hit anything from a plastic worm to a noisy topwater

I plan on making a lot of trips to Brady Lake and hope that I see some readers out on the lake. I am going to think positively and believe what our state game biologists say about Brady.

FROM OAK Creek Lake, Ike Pate reports, "We had some good fishing going a couple of days last week but it came when the weather was at its worse. The few that did come out didn't stay put long as they found the cold north wind and 25 degree weather too much to contend with Terry Boley, Sweetwater, was one that the adverse weather conditions failed to slow. Terry was fishing from a tube and just to mention this to most fishermen gives them a chill. The fact is, the warm water is the most comfortable place to be when the weather is really cold. Terry had two good bass at four pounds. four ounces and four-14.

Danny Cochran caught a seven pound, 12-ounce black bass at Champion Lake near Colorado City Jan. 14.

Max Floyd, Wayne Cockerham, Steve Tankersley and Mike Tynes were in the party with Danny. Danny is a member of Concho Bass Club. He plans to have his prize fish added to his trophy room.

SPORTS IN BRIEF Borg triumphs

in semifinals BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP) - Bjorn Borg patiently ushered Brian Gottfried through a parade of errors

Friday for a 6-2, 6-4 semifinal victory in a $250,000 professional tennis tournament. The 25-year-old Gottfried, from nearby Fort Lauderdale, tried his usual aggressive serve-andvolley game only to have Borg consistently score on passing shots as Gottfried went to the net. "I was very surprised with my game today," said Borg, 21, a Swede who resides in Monte Carlo. "I didn't expect to play that well. I think sometimes Brian was not patient enough. And on this surface you have to be patient. The tournament is played on clay. It carries a first prize of $125,000 - largest in tennis.
