WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — One night in 1946, Congressman Daniel Flood was attending a party dressed, he recalls fondly, in a silklined cape, white tie, white scarf and

Suddenly he was called to calm a bunch of drunken coal miners out on a wildcat strike.

Swinging an ebony sword cane, the freshman congressman mounted the Flood carefully removed his top hat, then, cape flying, leaped off the stage and rapped his tormentor across four rows of chairs.

"I used to get into a fight 'most every night," the veteran lawmaker recalls. "There was always some joker trying to start things. That was until they found out just who Dan Flood was."

Constituents in Pennsylvania's anthracite hills remember that "Dapper Dan" Flood helped them find jobs and financial relief for black lung disease and more recently led them out of the floods of Tropical Storm Agnes.

They describe him as the best congressman in America.

To his Capitol Hill colleagues, the onetime actor is one tough cookie, a skilled orator who can coax votes with golden voice and unleash political thunder when he calls in IOUs.

To others, he is an aging, pugnacious, red-baiting eccentric.

Last month, Flood's name was linked to a federal investigation into funding of a $64 million addition at a Philadelphia hospital. The investigation included another Pennsylvania Democrat, Rep. Joshua Eilberg, who asked President Carter to hasten the replacement of Republican David Marston as U.S. attorney in Philadelphia.

Now, Flood is reported to have pushed for renewed U.S. aid to Haiti while his chief aide was negotiating business deals in the Caribbean nation. The former aide, Stephen Elko, has also accused him of taking payoffs in return for securing federal contracts for businessmen.

Flood, who throughout his life has always been front and center stage, is keeping a surprisingly low profile since the accusations - which he denies - were made.

Flood first was elected to the House in 1944. He has been defeated only three times, the last in 1952, the year of Dwight Eisenhower's presidential landslide.

His white pumps with silver buckles, his Panama suits, his ascots and his waxed handlebar moustache add a dash to the conservative aura of the U.S. House. His snappy speech, laced with Shakespearean quotations, this security issue.

The 51/2-day visit generated speculation that Sadat's purpose was to have Carter put pressure on Israel to yield to Egyptian negotiating positions. There was no word, meanwhile, on Egypt's request for its first shipment of American weapons. Sadat said he needed them not only to defend his country, but also to aid his fellow

He mentioned Somalia, which is at war with Ethiopia, and Chad, which has fought skirmishes with Libyanbacked insurgents

Sadat offered no details. It was not clear what bearing their situations could have on a U.S. arms decision. Countries sold American weapons are prohibited from transferring them without permission.

So far, Egypt has received only "non-lethal" transport and reconnaissance planes.

Criticizing Israeli negotiating strategy, Sadat said he had met demands for recognition of Israel and a peace providing for open borders only to be faced with resistance on the issue of "self-determination" for the Palestinians. He also noted fortification of Israeli settlements in occupied Arab lands.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Pentagon says the number of Soviet citizens involved in civil defense projects outnumbers similar U.S. workers by about 16 to one, and the disparity makes some officials wonder if the Soviet program might make that nation believe nuclear war is a "reasonable option."

Russia is expanding construction of nuclear blast shelters for key industrial workers, as well as for political, military and managerial leaders, the Defense Department has told Congress. The Pentagon report estimated that more than 100,000 civilian and military personnel are invloved full time in the Russian civil defense program. In contrast, according to U.S. officials, there are about 600 federal employees and 5,500 others on the state and local level working on civil defense in this country.

Gen. George S. Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said in his formal report to Congress that U.S. civil defense "has been accorded a low priorty and does not maintain an effective capability. Brown called for "a reassessment of this view."

The nation's top military officer said the strategic nuclear balance and the United States' ability to deter a nuclear attack could be upset "should the Soviets believe their civil defense program makes nuclear war a reasonable option."

Defense Secretary Harold Brown, while acknowledging in the defense report that the Soviet program is growing, is known to remain unconvinced that any civil defense program, no matter how extensive, could prevent nuclear devastation in a super-power missile exchange.

However, he said in the annual defense report that the outcome of a study being directed by the National Security Council "may result in recommendations for changes to the current civil defense program."

Regardless of how they view the significance of the Soviet civil defense effort, U.S. military and civilian officials share puzzlement as to why the Russians continue along this track, part of an overall Soviet expansion in the strategic warfare area.

Congress returns Feb. 20 from its 10day recess for Lincoln's Birthday.

Bipartisan efforts to work out guarantees for future U.S. rights of access and defense appear to have enhanced prospects for the treaty's Senate ratification, which would require a two-thirds majority.

But new concern was generated last week by armed services committee hearings in which it was claimed that the treaty, which the Carter administration says will cost U.S. taxpayers nothing, may in fact necessitate millions of dollars in appropriations.

In the House, welfare revision continues to be a major issue, although some members question whether the White House and Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. are as committed to it this year as in 1977.

A special House welfare subcommittee will decide on Wednesday whether to accept Carter's broad proposal consolidating welfare programs or the scaled-down changes proposed by Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore... chairman of the House Ways and

Carter is expected to win, with Ullman seen trying again when the bill reaches his panel. Two other committees also must approve the

Elsewhere in the Congress, Vice President Walter F. Mondale was scheduled on Monday to swear in Muriel Humprhey, named to replace her late husband, Sen. Hubert Humphrey.

Mrs. Humphrey, 65, was appointed to her late husband's seat, which he would have retained until 1982.

She has about 90 days to decide if she will run in a special November election to fill the remaining four years of the late senator's term.

Testifying on the canal treaty last week before the armed services panel, Canal Zone Gov. Harold R. Parfitt and the U.S. comptroller general, Elmer B. Staats, said it was possible for the United States to face up to $700 million in "direct costs" in implementing the treaty until the year 2000, when Panama would take

Hanoi Radio announces ambassador's recall

TOKYO (AP) - Vietnam has called U.N. Ambassador Dinh Ba Thi home, ending two days of uncertainty whether he would leave the United States after the State Department ordered him out.

The department announced Friday that the Vietnamese ambassador to the United Nations was being expelled for alleged involvement in a spy plot. He and the Vietnamese Foreign Ministry denied the accusation, and he said he would not go.

But on Sunday, Hanoi Radio announced that Thi was being recalled because "the U.S. government is trying to disturb activities of the lietnamese ambassador."

There was no indication when he would leave New York.

"We have assumed all along that Thi would leave," said a State Department spokesman in Washington. He would not speculate what the U.S. government would have done had Thi continued to reject the expulsion order.

Thi is the first U.N. chief of mission ordered out by the United States. A federal grand jury named him an unindicted co-conspirator with an American employee of the U.S. Information Agency and a Vietnamese expatriate. Both of them pleaded innocent to passing confidential American cables to the Vietnamese mission to the United Nations.

The U.S. mission at the United Nations accused Thi of violating a 1947 agreement by engaging in activities"outside his official capacity" and of abusing his residence The Vietnamese mission challenged the right of the United States to expel a U.N. diplomat and said Thi would 'continue to carry out normally his Thi urged the American government to reconsider its stand in the light of future relations with Vietnam.

The United States has not established formal diplomatic relations with Vietnam since the Communist conquest of South Vietnam in 1975 but has been discussing normalization of relations at talks held periodically in Paris.

Doorbells will start ringing tonight when Midland Scouts, Cub Scouts and Explorer Scouts start selling tickets for the annual Scout Exposition. Admission this year is $1 per person. Children 12 years of age and under will be admitted free.

The Scout Exposition ticket sale provides boys with an opportunity to learn to meet the public, plus practice record-keeping and learn responsibility in handling money.

Each pack, troop, or post earns a 40 percent commission on each ticket sold. This commission helps to earn money to cover their unit's activities. In addition, each boy selling 10 or more tickets will receive a Scout Exposition Patch. Boys selling 20 or more tickets can earn Cub or Scout equipment prizes or take alternate credit on Buffalo Trail Scout Ranch Summer Camp, or Cub Lad and Dad weekend at the Ranch. As an alternate award, rather than equipment prizes or fee credits, the high ticket salesman in each district who sells more than 100 tickets may elect to take an expense-paid trip to see the Dallas Cowboys play football next

There will be "Mystery Houses" in each community where a boy can earn extra money. If a Scout is in full uniform when he knocks at the door of the "Mystery House" and presents a good sales talk to the occupant, he will receive a certificate which may be used as a credit toward prizes equivalent to selling 10 tickets.

Ticket sales will continue until April 8 at which time the Exposition will be held in the Midland County Exhibit Building.

Proposal to ban jogging fails

By DAVID JOHNSTON

LOS ALTOS HILLS, Calif. - Over the years the Town Council of Los Altos Hills has considered many curious ways to preserve what its affluent residents regard as a unique lifestyle in the urban Bay Area.

Once the council considered banning bees from the town. Not just commercial beehives, but all bees. And then there was the time some folks thought backyard tennis courts with night lighting out of character with the town image, so the council considered banning "all night sports, whether indoors or

That got as many snickers as the council's efforts several years back to put license plates on horses, an idea that was abandoned when no one could figure out where to hang the tags.

So it was not considered at all unusual by veteran residents last week when the town council considered proposals to either ban joggers from the town's winding country roads or to require groups of permit from the town manager.

And, if deemed necessary for safety, two or more security guards would be required to precede and follow the joggers to warn automobiles that joggers were coming, or going.

The council refused to adopt either idea after more than 100 serious pro-and anti-jogging types showed

The idea of banning joggers drew unwanted attention, including network television cameras, to the reclusive and prosperous rural Hills, which incorporated 22 years ago to halt the expansion of

Down but not out!

Certainly the Midland delegation at Lubbock Friday afternoon was "stunned" at the announcement that the board of regents of Texas Tech University, by a four to one vote, had selected Odessa as the site for the Texas Tech Medical School's Permian Basin Regional Academic Health Center. And why shouldn't they have been stunned?

Members of the Midland Chamber of Commerce task force who had sought to obtain the center for the Tall City had worked long and hard on the project and in preparing the written and oral presentations which they submitted to the board. It was a strenuous, tiring undertaking, extending over a period of months. They were convinced in their own minds that they made the best offer and that the selection of Midland would have been the best for all concerned. They haven't changed their minds.

The let-down which followed the announcement, along with the realization that they had lost the contest, is bound to have been tremendous.

It has been quite a while since so much time and effort had been invested in a project of this nature in Midland, all of which made it all the tougher to lose.

A disappointed K.M. Jastrow, who headed the Midland task force, perhaps spoke for the entire group in stating, "I don't understand the decision." And neither do a lot of other persons.

It is quite natural also that Midlanders in general were terribly disappointed at the regents' decision, which was made on the recommendation of the university's medical committee, and supported by Tech President Dr. Cecil Mackey.

Relations between Midland and Texas Tech always have been most favorable, and this made the one-sided vote of the regents all the more surprising to many Midland residents.

As A.J. Kemp of Fort Worth, the regent who cast the lone vote against locating the center at Odessa, said, "Midland has been a friend to Texas Tech for many, many years."

The support has been in many and varied ways. It is comforting to know that at least one of the regents acknowledged it.

Regents Don Workman and Roy Furr Jr. abstained from voting for acceptable reasons, and J. Fred Bucy was not present for the meeting.

Regents voting for the Odessa location were Clint Formby of Hereford, Robert L. Pfluger of San Angelo, James Snyder of Baird and Charles Scruggs of Dallas.

Yes, it's always disconcerting to lose, but the defeat in this particular instance doesn't mean that the bottom has dropped out and that Midland will suffer immeasurably because it didn't land the medical center.

Midlanders who worked so diligently on the project have nothing of which to be ashamed. We do not know of anything else they might have done which would have changed the board's decision. Tall City residents owe them a vote of thanks for their efforts. Midland simply was "outpoliticed" and that's all there was

Odessa will do a good job in taking care of its new acquisition, which, as Midland Mayor Pro Tem Carroll Thomas said, will be an asset to the entire area.

Mickey Cappadonna, president of the Midland Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees, voiced a similar view, adding that Midland will benefit from "the few doctors who will be assigned"to Midland Memorial.

Harrell Feldt, president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, while expressing keen disappointment, said that he was pleased "that the Permian Basin is a step closer to having a branch of the Texas Tech University Medical School in the area. I know our (medical) staff will work with Texas Tech to make their school in the Basin successful." Feldt also was among the first to congratulate the president of the Odessa Chamber on its victory.

So, that's that and let's get on with the job of building a better Midland, going after and landing other facilities, plants and business firms which will further accelerate an already booming economy.

Forward, Midland!

That's just what happened recently when a conversation with a friend of mine who is a high school principal suddenly gave the answer to the puzzle of America's militant anti-anti-Communism

As you know this quirk has progressed from the point of just viewing anti-Communists as nuts or fascists to the stage where Communism is regaining respectability.

We have just witnessed in recent years the U.S. Congress dismantle those committees set up to investigate subversion by foreign agents and establish new committees to investigate the FBI and CIA's investigation of foreign agents. President Jimmy Carter piously has proclaimed, as if he were announcing the permanent ban of cancer, that there will be no more counter-intelligence operations conducted within the U.S. by the FBI. Until I talked with my friend about the duties of a high school principal, I had never understood this squeamishness about facing the facts of treason and espionage.

that the Soviet Union has indeed placed spies and recruited traitors in the U.S. Furthermore, anyone who has ever bothered to read Communist literature, knows that doing both is considered the "moral" thing to do.

A Cuban friend of mine who had several conversations with Russian officers while he was in Havana during the early years of Castro's dictatorship, said that without exception, all of the Russians had lived in the U.S. clandestinely a number of years as part of their training.

Yet here we are, to read the papers. more frightened of the FBI than of the Well, my friend the educator had the answer. Here is what he said: "The main job of a principal is handling conflicts, and a lot of people can't stand handling conflict. I've seen some good principals start out strong and then after three or four years, give up. They can't handle the conflict year in and year out. They start looking for ways to avoid it."

There it is, folks; the old boys in the Congress are just going soft. You have to admit it's much more pleasant to sit around and share a cigar with Castro than confront the fact that he is such a murderous nut that the Russians won't let him near the missiles in his own country.

"Its much more pleasant to put a loyal American FBI or CIA man on the stand and question him than to face a snarling traitor who will plead the Fifth Amendment and accuse you of being another McCarthy

It's much more pleasant to forget that Jane Fonda told American prisoners of war that they were criminals and deserved to be in prison than to remember it as I do.

Still, the urge to avoid conflict overpowers some people. Newspapermen and cops run into the attitude all the time. I guess the most commonly heard sentence in our trades is, "I don't want to get involved." Other people are more direct. "Don't tell me about it; I don't want to hear," they say

But running away in your head is no better than running away from the school bully. The next day, the school is still there and so is the bully Tomorrow, the world will still be here and so will all its problems including the Communists.

Handling fear is one of those things that everybody has to learn to do himself. There is no way another person can overcome your fear. The desire to face the fear must come from inside the person who is afraid.

You have to feel pity for these nervous people who are afraid of conflict. The Lord set them down right in the middle of the most conflict-torn century in man's history on the eye of the final battle

No American alive today has ever known peace in his time and won't. The only choice we face is victory and freedom or defeat and slavery.

INSIDE REPORT:

Gov. Big Jim Thompson of Illinois passes first test

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

SPRINGFIELD, Ilt. - During his first year of elective office, Gov. James R. Thompson of Illinois has passed one test of a viable presidential candidate opposing Jimmy Carter but is in danger of flunking a second test that has long confounded Republican moderates. There had been doubts how Republican Thompson, who as the U.S. Attorney in Chicago specialized in putting crooked Democratic politicians in federal prison, would get on with a Democratic legislature. In fact, he has proved adroit at negotiation and compromise - skills that in a presidential campaign would be offered in vivid contrast to President Carter's problems with Congress.

But negotiation and compromise have not reconciled either the Reaganite right or the old guard regulars of the Illinois Republican party. Thompson's fiscal conservatism and anti-crime program do not convince conservative Republicans in the legislature. "Believe me, Thompson's a lot more liberal than he seems to be," says one such legislator, determined to fight mpson-for-President in 1980. That suggests a formidable problem of enemies within his home state. But in a broader sense, Big Jim Thompson confronts the same puzzle aced but never solved by Nelson Rockefeller during two decades of trying: how to pacify the Republican right sufficiently to get a crack at ig Democrats in a presidential

So far, at least, Thompson does not share Rockefeller's reputation as a free-spending high priest of big government. "We have had too many unrealistically high expectations about what government can do," Thompson told us. That sounds a lot like Gov. Jerry Brown of California and a little like Jimmy Carter. But unlike both of them, Thompson avoids confrontation with the establishment especially legislators. Instead, he seeks accommodation.

Chiefly, there has been the grand compromise between Thompson and the Chicago Democratic organization. In return for backing a cut-down version of the late Richard J. Daley's long-frustrated Chicago crosstown expressway, Thompson received Democratic help for his balanced budget. That followed four years of unrelenting struggle between the legislature and maverick Democratic Gov. Dan Walker.

The contrast between Springfield and Washington is not ignored by Thompson, He criticizes Mr. Carter for not using his State of the Union message to offer real compromises on energy that would pass a bill without further ordeal. Big Jim is saying, in effect, that's the way I would do it.

Within a few weeks of being elected governor, Thompson on trips to Washington was making friends with congressional Democratic leaders.

He also has been making friends in Springfield, radically changing the climate here following the haughty, fierce-eyed Walker. "I personally like the guy a lot," says one of Thompson's most severe Republican critics.

Easily recognized at 6-foot-6, Thompson practices the non-imperial governorship. One day last week, irritated by a critical editorial in a downstate newspaper, he wandered up to the pressroom for a late afternoon shot of bourbon. The next day, Thompson spent two hours eating lunch with state government public information officers. "Gov. Walker was unap-proachable; he would never go to a lunch like this," said one official, a Walker patronage employe kept on by Thompson. But such breaking of Illinois partisan tradition is not universally applauded. County chairmen complain that non-Republicans get the patronage while their telephone calls go unreturned. Simultaneously, Reaganites grumble about Thompson's vetoes of pro-laetrile and antiabortion bills and support for the women's equal rights amendment (ERA). Both groups protest that 'whiz kids' run the state

So, a combination of ideology and old-fashioned politics brings together issue-oriented conservatives who supported Ronald Reagan and patronage-oriented old-guardsmen who supported Gerald Ford into an anti-Thompson coalition. These groups are backing an anti-Thompson candidate for state comptroller in the Republican primary March 21 as a preview of what may await the governor in the presidential primary two years hence.

Thompson's response to these Republicans is to stress his tough program eotablishing "class X violent crimes legislation and his balanced budget, called "our greatest achievement' in a speech last week to the Evanston Chamber of Commerce. Thompson declared to them that "every time a government official starts using words like 'bold' or 'imaginative,' the taxpayers reach for their wallets to see if they're still here." The cheer from the Evanston businessmen foretold future use of that applause line.

That cheer truly points to Thompson's main chance of overcoming his enemies within. Nelson Rockefeller never was able to convince Republicans that he worried about anybody's wallet. If Thompson does, grumbling at home about abortion, laetrile, ERA and even patronage may be kept under control.

value if the taxpayer's identity is concealed and to disclose it would violate the confidentiality of tax returns. Furthermore, a spokesman says it would be a mammoth task to record routine tax inquiry calls from every congressional office. But Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., vehemently disagrees. He has fired off a private letter to IRS Commissioner Jerome Kurtz protesting that the agency is favoring "short-term expediency over long-term openness." Moderate loss posted

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market posted a moderate loss today in trading limited by an East Coast snowstorm

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 3.20 at 767.76. Losers held a small advantage over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said it was difficult to discern any pronounced trend in the market, given the slow pace of trading. But they did note some apparent sources of concern over the inflation outlook and interest rates. First of all, they cited a report from an association of corporate purchasing executives that inflationary pressures stepped up last month. They also noted fears that the Federal Reserve might soon tighten credit if the money supply continues to expand at its recent rate. Howard Johnson led the active list. up 1/8 at 111/4. A 100,000-share block traded at that price.

Columbia Pictures rose 1 to 1614. The company said David Begelman, under fire for alleged mishandling of corporate funds, had resigned as president of its motion picture and television division.

The NYSE's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks slipped .13 to 49.59. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index edged up .04 to 122.82.

Volume on the Big Board came to just 6.87 million shares over the first two hours, against 8.36 million in the comparable period on Friday

Two assaults investigated

Police are investigating two aggravated assaults that occurred during the weekend.

Officers were called to the emergency room of Midland Memorial Hospital Saturday afternoon. On their arrival, Ernest Rodriguez Jr. told them that he and Joe Portillo had been driving west on Neely Avenue when a green pickup truck started following them.

Rodriquez reportedly parked in a Lee High School parking lot and the pickup stopped beside him. One of the pickup's occupants asked Rodriquez what he had said, and Rodriquez, according to police reports, told them he had said nothing Rodriquez told police that the pickup then started to drive away, striking Rodriquez's band instrument case. Reports were not clear as to the case's location at that time. Rodriguez then told officers he said

'damn it.'' The pickup stopped again, and one of the occupants got out of the pickup and assaulted him, according to Rodriguez.

Rodriquez was treated and released at Midland Memorial. Police again were called to Midland

Memorial Hospital Emergency Room early Sunday morning. Ronald A. Cetrone III of the 3200 block of Roosevelt Avenue told police he was at a party in the party room of an apartment complex in the 2400 block of Whitmire Boulevard. Witnesses told police that Cetrone had bumped into another man.

spilling beer on the him. The man reportedly got angry and started to Cetrone also was treated and beat Cetrone. released at Midland Memorial.

Man's condition termed guarded

A 33-year-old Midland man was listed in guarded condition in the intensive care unit of Medical Center Hospital in Odessa this morning, after he was shot Saturday.

Police said they were notified of a gunshot victim lying in the street in the 1400 block of East Wall Avenue. On arrival, officers found Oscar Cecil Simmons of the 100 block of North Jackson Street lying by the north curb with a bullet wound in the lower abdomen. He reportedly was wounded in a domestic disturbance:

Under cross-examination, she said an FBI agent had come to the bank 'looking for those who could testify against officers.

She also said Janish "was a nice man, a quiet man, and shy."

Janish, along with fellow officers Stephen Orlando, 22, and Terry W. Denson, 27, are charged with violating the civil rights of Joe Campos Torres, a 23-year-old Mexican-American laborer.

Torres' body was found floating in the murky waters of Buffalo Bayou, a slugish stream that flows through a section of downtown Houston, on the morning of May 9, 1977.

This fire and explosion destroyed Pump Station No. 8 during startup of the trans-Alaska pipeline last summer. The multi-million dollar disaster claimed one life. Reconstruction work on the station was completed recently although testing continues. (AP Laserphoto)

Alyeska Pipeline's Pump station No. 8 to be working next month

PUMP STATION 8, Alaska (AP) — In the aftermath, the five men in the pump house at Pump Station 8 on the Trans-Alaska oil pipeline that muggy summer day were incredulous that such a thing could happen. "Everything had been tried and tried and tested and tested," Herbert Robson recalled. "We had done nothing else for the past 10 weeks but check the system out.'

But the trying and the testing and the checking were found wanting last July 8 when a valve that was supposed to be kept closed was opened by mistake.

Crude oil under high pressure sprayed into the pump room. Within moments the pump house was destroyed by an explosion and flames.

One man was killed. Robson and four others were injured. The flow of oil through the 800-mile line did not start again for 10 days, with Pump 8 bypassed.

It has taken more than seven months, but now the reconstruction work on Pump 8 is almost complete. It should be back in operation pushing oil through the $7.7 billion line next

Alyeska Pipeline Service Co. says the cost of replacing the pump house and other damaged facilities is not yet known. Unofficial estimates put the cost at about $50 million

The destruction of the pump house delayed the delivery of millions of barrels of crude oil from Alaska's North Slope to markets in the lower 48

Alyeska had planned to be running 1.2 million barrels of crude a day through the line by last fall, but with Pump 8 down the flow has been held to about 700,000 to 750,000 barrels a day.

Investigators found that through "human error" a valve that had been closed while Robson and his four coworkers were cleaning a strainer in one of the three huge pumps at the station was opened.

Oil spurted into the pump room, vaporized and ignited. Robson and the others got out before the pump house ripped apart.

Shock waves were felt more than 10 miles away, and a huge plume of black smoke was visible for twice that 'We have a fire. We've had a hell of an explosion," a supervisor at Pump 8 shouted over the telephone to the pipeline Operations Control Center at Valdez.

It took only four minutes to halt the flow of oil along the entire length of the line, but by that time flaming oil had flooded what was left of the pump house and rivers of fire flowed from

Gas industry, GAO at odds over report

The Washington Post

Office are hurling adjectives at one another over a GAO report critical of liquid-gas safety, two full months before the report is due to be

The 800-page safety study by Congress' investigative arm is one of several factors the liquid-gas industry thinks are threatening its survival.

An estimated $20 billion in plans and proposals to import liquefied natural gas (LNG) are just about to get off the ground, and the industry fears this study could produce that most fearsome of beasts, an aroused

In addition, the Department of Energy appears more and more to favor a pricing system the industry vows will mean ruin. Environmentalists oppose many of the proposed import-terminal sites, and labor problems have delayed the start of major deliveries to the first big terminal - at Cove Point, Md. - by serveral months.

It all led to an unusual press conference last week at which industry executives ignited a small cloud of liquefied natural gas (LNG) before a startled crowd of reporters in order to refute the still-secret GAO safety study. "No! No!" cried one reporter in the front row as the match was applied. A plume of flame lit the room briefly and went out, according to those present. That, the executives said, demonstrated that fears of a massive fireball resulting from an LNG spill were groundless.

Chapters of the report have been circulating to the companies mentioned in them for months, while government agencies received the report draft for comment last week. "We sent it to everybody and his brother. If we're wrong they should be able to prove it," said GAO author David Rosenbaum. He hopes to have it out by April 1. LNG is regular cooking gas chilled to 260 degrees below zero Fahrenheit, at which point it becomes a liquid that is 1-600th the volume of the gas and is therefore economical to transport. If it should spill, the liquid rapidly vaporizes back into a gas, which, mixed with air, is highly flammable.

The conclusions and recommendations section of the GAO study, a copy of which was obtained by The Washington Post, call the prospect of such a spill in a big city "very frightening."

The study examined liquefied propane, methane and naptha, calling the first two liquefied energy gases (LEG). "In most situations, for a given volume, LPG (propane) is more dangerous than LNG (methane), and LNG is more dangerous than naphtha," the study said.

The GAO attacked the industry's safety conditions on seven broad fronts and the industry responded point-by-point at the press conference and in private comments.

-Sabotage: "The requirements for security...are so slight as to provide virtually no deterrent to potential saboteurs," the report said. It mediate, the report charged.

described situations in which mines, WASHINGTON - The natural gas bombs, hijacked vehicles and arson industry and the General Accounting would uniformly produce a catastrophic situation

> The American Gas Association said the study "is obsessed with the concept of sabotage." The threat to gasoline, ammonia, chlorine and other energy facilities is just as great as it is for LEG, it said.

"It's the most irresponsible thing I've ever seen," said Columbia Gas System Inc., spokesman Max Levy when the report first began to circulate last autumn. "It tells you how to blow up an LNG terminal complete with a bibliography on how to make the bomb ...how secure is 'secure,' anyway?"

-Storage facilities: Tanks holding LEG are built with small safety margins and "it is likely some of them will fail" in earthquakes, winds, or floods greater than their design capacity, the study said. The fluid is then likely to wash over the retaining dikes now required, many of which are weaker or smaller than they should be.

The American Gas Association said tanks and dikes are built to meet or exceed existing standards and the probability of their failure is no greater than it is for a bridge or a

-Transportation: Coast Guard personnell responsible for shepherding LEG tankers have inadequate training; plans have not been drawn up for coping with ; a spill either from ship or from trucks on land, the GAO report said. "It would be easy for terrorists to hijack one or many LEG trucks...LEG trucking in densely populated areas is very dangerous.

The industry responded that most LNG will never be transported by truck and that the associated accident and hijacking dangers are no greater than those for vessels and trucks carrying LEG than for those bearing gasoline or any other burnable material.

-Consequences: "If (spilled) LNG spreads across a city in sewers, subways or other underground conduits, or if a massive burning cloud is blown along by a strong wind, a city may be faced with a very large number of ignitions and explosions across a wide area," the GAO report said. The prospect, it noted, is "very frightening."

The scenario, the gas industry replied, is hypothetical and the likelihood of its occurring is unproved and very small

-Liability: Financial and corporate arrangements are labyrinthine enough to mean that recovery of damages or insurance in case of an accident "face long, complex and expensive litigation...the company may not be liable at all," the study

According to the industry, present and planned coverage is "more than adequate to cover any events that could be credibly postulated."

been on too small a scale to allow safety decisions based on them, while Department of Energy plans are longterm and though the need is im-

CIA report downgrades Saudi producing ability

By J.P. SMITH

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - The Central Intelligence Agency has issued new estimates that sharply downgrade the oil-producing capabilities of Saudi Arabia, the world's largest oil ex-

The Jan. 11 estimates by the CIA's Office of Economic Research have been eyed with skepticism by some analysts in the government as well as the major oil companies.

In its new appraisal, the CIA pegged available Saudi productive capacity at 8.8 million barrels a day instead of the 11.5 million barrels

Oil analysts questioning the CIA conclusions are also skeptical about the reduction in the agency's public estimates of the oil cartel's underutilized or so-called "spare" production capacity. This calculation has been cut to 2.5 million barrels a day from 9.4 million.

The CIA's public estimates of Saudi productive capacity are supported by a separate, highly classified analysis of Saudi oil policy and the conditions of the Persian Gulf country's oil fields. That analysis, which has not been made public, says the new capacity estimates are justified for three primary reasons:

-Political constraints in the staunchly conservative pro-American kingdom increasingly will move the Saudi regime toward reining in production. The agency concludes that Saudi rulers will place more weight on arguments by some technocrats that their oil is worth more in the ground for future production than it is produced for Western markets.

-Financial outlays needed to increase production - set now at up to $25 billion or more to increase capacity to 14 million barrels a day, and to complete the country-wide gas gathering project — are considered by some Saudis as too high, and not worth spending.

-Finally, technical problems, though correctable, have resulted in loss of pressure and production in some oil wells. This is due, the analysis says in part, to a failure to upgrade pumps, water flooding equipment and other oil field equipment

The new CIA estimates were made public following Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger's return from a fact-finding visit to Saudi Arabia, where he met with Crown Prince Fahd, Oil Minister Zaki Yamani and officials of Arabian American Oil Co. (Aramco) Assumptions about the Saudis' capacity to product oil as well as the cartel's spare oil production capacity are critical to projections, such as President Carter's, that the United States faces a world oil squeeze in the Moreover, with a fourth of the world's proven oil reserves, Saudi Arabia - the oil cartel's leading producer - is acknowledged to be the greatest potential source of oil production over the next decade to meet the industrialized countries' mounting import needs. Energy officials say the CIA analysis is based on new intelligence. Of the Saudis' oil capacity, a CIA spokesman said, "The decline in those figures represents a shift, in part, of CIA estimates of available productive capacity. That is our official explanation - we cannot go beyond that."

Schlesinger, who headed the CIA during the Nixon administration, has embraced the agency's newly more pessimistic conclusions in public.

"To the extent that we have regarded the Saudis as a deus ex machina, we have been in error,' Schlesinger said during a recent press conference. At the time he said the Saudis could be counted on to increase production to 12 million barrels a day by the early 1980s - less than was earlier thought.

Schlesinger went on to say, however, that the oil-rich kingdom nad the potential to increase production to up to 20 million barrels, but that other factors weighed against

The eddies of skepticism in government and the oil companies center on the technical basis for the agency's conclusions, and on repeated suggestions that the administration is deploying the downgraded Saudi oil numbers to prod Congress into enacting the Carter energy plan now deadlocked in the Senate.

Officials from some of the four Aramco parent companies, Exxon, Texaco, Mobil and Standard Oil of California, as well as Aramco Vice President James V. Knight disagree with the CIA's 8.8 million-barrel-aday assessemnt.

We know of no basis on which they are doing that," says Knight. He maintains that Aramco could go to more than 100 million barrels on any

Another oil executive specializing in middle east production says of the 8.8 million, "we don't understand where that number came from at all .It is very confusing to us why all this misinformation is coming out."

Government officials familiar with the CIA study have said they question the CIA's interpretation of oil field data. "From what I can tell, the CIA does not have the expertise," says one official.

The most severe criticism, however, is the suggestion that the new projections have a political twist.

"The numbers from the CIA have been ordered up and manipulated for domestic political consumption," says one government oil analyst.

He and other skeptics point to a CIA study released by the White House last April when the president's energy message was sent to Congress. That study projected that the Soviet Union would be exporting 3.5 million barrels of oil a day by the mid-1980s. The study has since been disavowed by a number of experts, including Schlesinger, who privately says he does not agree with its conclusions. A high DOE international official strongly denied that the CIA findings were managed. "It is an honest piece of work," he said. One official concerned about what he called "the constantly revised figures coming out of the administration from CIA and DOE" is Monte Canfield of the General Accounting Office, a congressional

13 proves Green's lucky number

HONOLULU (AP) - Hubert Green was shooting for his 13th PGA victory in the 13th Hawaiian Open and he got lucky on the 13th hole at Waialae Country Club.

Green, who says he is not superstitious, won the $250,000 tournament Sunday with a par on the second hole of a sudden-death playoff against Bill Kratzert. He sank a seven-foot putt for a four on the hole, No. 16, while Kratzert missed his par putt from five feet.

'I'm not superstitous, but I was aware of the 13s and wasn't sure what it would mean," Green said after-

"I think the biggest turning point came on the 13th hole, when I hit a couple of bad shots, but then sunk a

35-foot putt for a birdie. I wasn't sure I

GREEN TOOK the lead in the second round, then held it alone until falling into a tie with Kratzert late in the final round. He had a 71 Sunday, his worst round of the tourney, finishing at 274, 14-under-par over the 7,234-yard, par-72 Waialae course.

Kratzert, who joined the tour less than two years ago, shot a final-round 68, forcing the playoff.

The winning putt made a $21,500 difference for Green, who collected $50,000 for the victory. Kratzert, who won $134,748 last year and is one of the most promising young players on the tour, got $28,500 for finishing second. Irwin tied for third at 275. Morley shot a closing 66, Wynn a 68 and Irwin a 69. Gene Littler, the first-round leader with a 65 who stumbled to a 73 on the second day, finished at 276 with a 70 Sunday

The final two rounds of the tournament were telecast live by ABC Television, with the exception of the playoff holes. The network switched to regular programming after Green and Kratzert finished the 18th hole.

KRATZERT has won twice on the tour, taking the Hartford Open last year, and teaming with Woody Blackburn to capture the World National Team Play title.

Green and Kratzert are close friends, and Green said he had to play Jekyll-and-Hyde when the two went into overtime.

"You have to get up a hate for him when you're in a playoff," said Green. "You've got to concentrate enough to get up a grudge.'

Match play, grudge or otherwise, isn Cexactly his specialty, said Green, who called himself "a bad match play golfer.'

Green's experience edge over Kratzert was probably the deciding factor in the playoff. They both hit into bunkers on the final hole, then hit good shots from the sand. But Kratzert, who said he felt the pressure, appeared to hesitate when he took the club back on his putt and

"THE FANS saw good basketball," said Cowens, who was making his fourth All-Star appearance. "There was good D (defense), shot blocking, dunking and ball handling. The fans got a good view of what pro basketball's all about.

What the 6-foot-8, 225-pound Cowens failed to add was his achievements.

Held to only two points and five rebounds in the first half, Cowens came back in the final half to hit six of six shots and finish with 14 points, 14 rebounds, five assists and two steals.

On the closing rally, Cowens explained: "We wanted to take their big centers outside. That opened up the middle for a lot of things. We got a lot of good offensive rebounds and the extra shots helped."

"I wasn't playing well in the first half. Then I got into the flow in the second half," added Cowens.

BOSTON teammate John Havlicek, who has announced his retirement after 16 years in the league, made his 13th consecutive All-Star appearance and scored 10 points

Havlicek, who made it into the contest as a replacement for injured Pete Maravich, drew the largest applause from the crowd in pre-game introductions, then scored scored the first two points. It was the only lead the East held until Erving connected with 5:10 left to play.

Saints to announce new grid coach today

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The New Orleans Saints of the National Football League planned to announce the successor for fired Coach Hank

Stram at a news conference today.

Leading candidates for the job reportedly included Don Coryell, head coach of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Dick Nolan, former head coach for the San Francisco 49ers and currently defensive coach at New Orleans. Harry Hulmes, the Saints' vice president for administration, said turing the weekend that the team had narrowed the original field of 12

candidates to four, including Coryell

Hulmes said that if Coryell were hired away from St. Louis, the Car-dinals would have to be compensated "with a high draft choice." Coryell hasn't gotten along with Cardinal brass recently.

Stram was fired Jan. 28, after leading the Saints to records of 4-10 and 3-11. Stram will continue to draw about $200,000 a year for the remaining three years on his fiveyear contract.

How t

Warriors ruin Frank's 'D

By The Associated Press

It was "Frank McGuire Appreciation Day" at Columbia, S.C....but it just wasn't Frank McGuire's day.

The fans turned out in large number Sunday to applaud the longtime South Carolina basketball coach who is retiring after this season. However, McGuire couldn't fully appreciate it after a 69-66 double-overtime loss to third-ranked Marguette.

"I thought we had it in regulation," said McGuire, who was all set to celebrate when a funny thing happened on the way to the South Carolina basket.

Butch Lee, a relatively small delaying tactics by not coming out of Marquette guard in a forest of giants, grabbed a rebound

"He outrebounded our big men when we needed the ball," said McGuire. "That rebound probably won it for them.

More to the point, it put the Warriors in a position to win. Lee was fouled on the play with 16 seconds left and he sank two shots to tie the score at 49. A last-second shot by South Carolina's Kenny Williams bounced off the rim, sending the nationallytelevised game into overtime.

Marquette started both overtimes by converting a technical foul after the Gamecocks were penalized for their zone defense quickly enough.

The second technical proved costly, as Marquette took a three-point lead on Lee's free throw and a basket by Gary Rosenberger. South Carolina cut the deficit to one point twice, but Rosenberger scored on a three-point play, and Lee clinched the victory with two free throws with 11 seconds to play, giving Marquette a 69-64 advantage.

NEW YORK (AP) - Lost: 10 million tennis players.

Last sighted, they were wearing $50 shorts, $25 shirts with a crocodile on the chest, $65 warmup suits and $45 kid shoes. They were carrying two $75 racquets in a fancy satchel and were racing toward the closest indoor bub-

Anybody seen 'em? Where did they go? And why?

"Just got fed up," the Sports Training Institute of Chicago said today in reporting on what it pictures as the greatest mass exodus since Moses led the Israelites out of the wilderness.

Within the past decade, tennis became the fastest growing participant sport in the country. Its ranks mushroomed from six million timid souls - almost embarrassed to be seen with a racquet under their arms - to a bustling 30 million who went deliriously mad over the pastime.

IT WAS the "in" thing. You couldn't go into an airport without seeing scores of travelers lugging court equipment under their arms. Indoor complexes mushroomed. Real estate couldn't be cleared fast enough to build the courts in demand. Sporting goods stores, instructors, publishers and promoters prospered. The tournament players became the millionaire elitists of professional

Then something happened, the Sports Training Institute said. A wave of disenchantment set in among the new recruits. Learners lost their interest in clusters - until the casualty list, by the Institute's count, numbered 10 million.

What happened? It was a question the Institute decided to learn for itself, so it assigned researchers to student dropouts, instructors and court operators. This is what they found. Listen to the deserters first:

"LEARNING was not fun. It was actually quite frustrating.' "I was making a fool of myself out there.

"The hyped-up advertising and promotion made you feel like a secondclass citizen if you didn't have a $75 racquet, $25 shoes and color coordinated warmups.

"If a guy says, 'No, I don't want to play, I just like to hit 'em,' he's con-
