Humphrey's last political act sparks controversy

WASHINGTON - In the afternoon of Jan. 9 — the last Monday of his life — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, in pajamas and robe, was sitting in the sunny den of his Waverly, Minn., home when the telephone rang.

President Carter was on the line. As Humphrey's cancer had weakened him in the five months since his final operation, Carter had been especially solicitous of the much-loved senior Democrat.

Now Carter telephoned to talk about his just-completed overseas trip, the most important part of which was a meeting with President Anwar Sadat in Aswan.

In discussing the Middle East, Carter expressed frustration. Sadat had rejected an Israeli plan for keeping Jewish settlements in the Sinai, yet the government of Prime Minister Menachem Begin was strengthening and expanding these settlements, even while peace talks were under way. This was certain to cause trouble.

Humphrey was also deeply concerned that the peace initiative set in motion by Sadat not slip away without results. According to David Gartner, his administrative assistant who was sitting with him at the time. Humphrey asked Carter, "Is there anything I can do to help?"

The President replied that if Humphrey wished to take a hand, he might communicate his views to Begin. "I'll do it." was the reply and he made it clear that he would do it with his own ideas and in his own

This was the beginning of the last of a lifetime of public business for Hubert Humphrey: a personal plea to Israel, which he long had supported, for tlexibility and restraint in the search for peace.

His letter to Begin, completed and dispatched before he died, lived on in controversy after his death. Charges have arisen and were debated in Washington again in the past few weeks that the dying senator was "pressured" into a statement that did not convey his views by an administration at odds with Israel.

Interviews with Humphrey aides and friends produced consistent denials that the president or other officials exerted pressure to obtain

"It was Humphrey's idea to do it, and he did it himself. Any implication that it was initiated by the Carter administration is just not accurate.' Gartner said.

"This was Hubert Humphrey's letter, and he was very careful about its phraseology," said Richard McCall, the legislative aide who assisted in the drafting.

Muriel Humphrey, who said she was "fully aware of the events" concerning her husband's final letter. said that "I find it very disturbing that efforts are being made by some to infer that the letter was drafted by others, did not fully represent his views or that he was not alert at the time. These charges simply are not true and do Hubert a great disser-

Immediately after his conversation with Carter, Humphrey telephoned McCall, who was in Washington, and instructed him to draft a letter. Humphrey gave an outline of his view that if there was going to be a Mideast settlement. Israel as well as the Arab states would have to show some 'give.

He explained, according to Gartner, (Continued on Page 8A)

Ceiling for federal funds to city hiked

Midland County commissioners got good news and bad news Monday about 1979 federal Community Development funds.

The good news is that they can apply for up to $500,000, instead of the less than $25,000 previous formulas allowed the county. But the bad news is they must compete for the first time with every other area of Texas not Community Development program.

The first of two public hearings on needs for which commissioners might apply for the funding was held at Monday's meeting, but the only person to appear was Jerry Tschawner of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission.

The second public hearing will be held at the April 10 commissioners

Lamesa firemen seek pay equal to that of police

LAMESA - A spokesman for Lamesa's paid firefighters said Monday he is "hopeful" the City Council will raise firefighters' salaries to equal those of city police. The council is to take up the proposal at its regular meeting next

The spokesman for the paid firefighters was Cecil Levacy.

The paid firefighters here, 11 in number, have received strong support in their bid for equal pay with police from the 22 volunteer firefighters. Almost all the volunteers showed up at the last city council meeting to lend support to the cause of the professionals.

A spokesman for the volunteers, J. D. McAmis, told Mayor Lloyd Cline and councilmen then that it might not be possible to retain an outstanding fire department if wages are not Tschawner answered questions from the commissioners about how the money could be used.

Asked if the county could apply for funds to be used to pave roads within the city limits, Tschawner said it 'sounds kind of irregular" since Midland is an "entitlement city" and was turned down because of failure to provide rental subsidy.

He reminded the commissioners that they are obligated "somewhere down the road" to do something about housing themselves.

The commissioners discussed ways to survey need and availability of rental units which would qualify for federal subsidy

They agreed the biggest problem in finding such houses will be that the ones which would qualify currently are bringing in more rent than the program allows.

Also Monday, the commissioners voted to reduce the speed limit on County Road 1216, which is less tha one-fourth mile long, to 25 mph.

Action was postponed on a proposal to close the alley into which county roads 1212, 1213, 1214, 1215 and 1216 enter, and a public hearing was called for the next meeting on reducing the speed limit on County Road 118 West. The commissioners also delayed approval of a plat for the North Ranch Manor Subdivision. Commissioner Durward Wright asked County Surveyor Max Schumann to find out how right-of-way, which will be needed for the North Loop around Midland, can be obtained.

Also at Monday's meeting, the Commissioners Court approved spending $4,300 to keep the Midland County Elderly Nutrition Program going another year.

Pat Wallis, director of the program, told the commissioners participants in the program have voted to contribute donations for meals received to help defray the cost.

The money approved Monday represents the local share in the program, which receives 90 percent of the total cost from the federal government.

Carter embarks on trip with Venezuela first stop

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter, embarking on the first of at least three overseas trips planned this year, today began a week-long trip to Latin America and Africa by flying to Venezuela.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale, minding the store in Carter's absence. headed a delegation of presidential advisers who said farewell at an early-morning White House departure ceremony that was televised nationally. Carter said his journey "reflects constructive way" with a changing and diverse world. He said South America and Africa share a common heritage with the United States in overcoming colonialism and he noted that many

our own nation's ability to deal in a

Americans trace their roots to the two continents. He said he hopes to work for economic justice, human rights and international peace during his trip.

Carter said that by the end of the century, 80 percent of the world's population will live in Africa, Asia and Latin America.

"In this world of change we will maintain our greatness only if we are able to change" while maintaining our principles, he declared.

Accompanying the president on the 14,575-mile trek to Venezuela, Brazil, Nigeria and Liberia were wife Rosalynn and Secretary of State and Mrs. Cyrus R. Vance. Ten-year-old Amy Carter also is in the travel party.

On the first stop in Caracas, Venezuela. Carter will consult with President Carlos Andres Perez on energy, human rights, nuclear nonproliferation, economic development and Latin American political issues.

Carter, who made an after-Christmas trip to Europe, Asia and the Near East, has long been scheduled to attend a mid-July economic summit in Bonn, West Germany, that will bring him together with leaders of Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Japan and Canada.

In Venezuela, Carter's host has a reputation as a staunch friend of the United States.

"In the area of human rights and (nuclear) non-proliferation, Venezuela has often been in the front of our policies and has given us wise and useful counsel on the next steps that we can take." an administration official said, predicting those issues would be central in the talks between Carter and Perez.

Venezuela sends the United States a million barrels of crude and refined oil each day, placing it behind Saudi American supplier. During the 1973-74 oil embargo. Venezuela increased its exports to the United States.

Joint energy cooperation and the U.S. desire to see oil prices held down are likely topics, U.S. officials said. Officials also reported that three accords will be signed during Carter's visit to Caracas. One will deal with maritime boundaries and another will pledge joint efforts to curb illegal traffic in narcotics.

But the most important agreement. they said, will deal with cooperation in the areas of science and technology.

Israel gives ground on Palestinians

TEL AVIV. Israel (AP) - The Israeli government has eased its stand on the crucial issue of Palestinian self-determination in the West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip and is reported thinking about sending Defense Minister Ezer Weizman to Cairo to try to revive the peace negotiations with

A new proposal broadcast Monday by the state radio moves closer to President Anwar Sadat's demands by agreeing to "participation" of the Palestinians in determining their own future in the two occupied areas.

The proposal is patterned on a U.S. formula that the Palestinians "have the right to participate in determining their own future." However, it falls short of the full self-determination demanded by Sadat, a formula that Israel fears would result in an in-dependent state controlled by the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Weizman did not deny reports in the Israeli press that he may be going to Egypt to try to reopen negotiations for a withdrawal of Israeli forces from the Sinai Peninsula as part of a peace agreement. Asked "When are you leaving?" he replied, "I don't know."

False statement charges dropped

As part of a plea bargain arrangement, charges of making a false statement before a grand jury are to be dropped against Andrew Allen, earlier convicted in San Antonio of killing golden eagles.

In federal court in Midland Monday, South Texas Helicoptor Inc. pleaded guilty to two misdemeanor charges of taking and killing golden eagles. Alvin Dale Barnes, vice president and manager of the company, pleaded guilty to one count of aiding and abetting the corporation in position to the raise

The U.S. clerk's office in Midland said the charge against Allen will be dropped when South Texas Helicoptor and Barnes are sentenced in San Antonio in April by U.S. District Judge John H. Wood.

The corporation faces a maximum sentence of a $5,000 fine on each count. Barnes faces a maximum sentence of one year imprisonment or a $5,000 fine.

Barnes was released on a $5,000 personal recognizance bond. The charges grew from an investigation that resulted in the conviction last year of three men for conspiring to hunt the golden eagles from a helicopter over Real County. Federal prosecutors said in court

Monday they were prepared to show that South Texas Helicoptor, acting through its pilot, had illegally hunted and killed eagles Dec. 10 and 11, 1975. They said Barnes, as an officer of the company, had given orders to the golden eagles. He also was convicted of illegally hunting and killing the eagles from the air. Wood sentenced him to a year's probation and fined

City candidates outline views

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Reporter-Telegram asked candidates for all positions on the April 1 ballot to answer a set of three questions. Their answers will be carried verbatim in this week's editions. The following are candidates for city offices. School board, hospital district director and Midland College trustee candidates' replies will be printed on succeeding

Ernest Angelo

POSITION SOUGHT: Mayor, City of AGE: 44

ADDRESS: 200 Gihls Tower West, Midland Texas OCCUPATION: Independent Petroleum Engineer

Q. What are your qualifications for the office you seek?

A. Having served as Mayor for six years, the record achieved in office should be the basis for judging my qualification. Steady growth; lowering of the ad valorem tax rate. massive improvements at Air Terminal, downtown renovations, major paving projects in all areas of town and emphasis on local solutions for our basic problems have been part of that record.

Q. What do you hope to accomplish while in office?

A. I hope to see the successful completion on the Air Terminal project and the downtown exhibition and meeting hall. Construction of a new Central Fire Station and a new substation for northwest Midland are essential. In addition to specific goals, I will work to see that the city retains its fiscal independence from the federal government. Some involvement with Washington is inevitable. However, we must continue to avoid projects which require commitments that would not be in the best interests of our city and its residents.

Q. What is the single most important issue facing the body to which you seek election?

A. The most important issue is the need to diversify our economy while continuing to support the oil and gas industry which is the foundation for our current success. A strong diversified economy will provide stable jobs for our residents and a stable tax base for City government. Those are essential requirements for long term prosperity and long term solution for other problem areas.

Darryl Kersey

POSITION SOUGHT: Mayor AGE: 23 ADDRESS: 2517 Emerson OCCUPATION: College student/Sales clerk

Q. What are your qualifications for the office you seek?

A. My qualifications are that I am a practical realist who views politics as a means of bettering the lives of all citizens. I am fully aware that there are no true solutions to problems, only stop-gap measures to be taken. In this respect, I will never push for that which cannot be achieved nor will I foolishly fight off the inevitable. Being realistic is the rare quality to view things as they are, not how you want them to be and to be able to work in that small framework. This is the way government should be properly run.

Q. What do you hope to accomplish while in office?

A. I think anyone seeking a political office has many goals in mind. How many of these he acheives depends on the receptive qualities of the people and the officials about him. This brings up one of the first commitments I will be dedicated to. I am going to be completely open-receptive and responsive to the needs of all of Midland and its people. I will view problems with a fresh approach and I will be open to all ideas-regardless of their origin. I will be on call to help Midlanders at all times-unlike the presently employed part-timer.

Q. What is the single most important issue facing the body to which you seek election?

A. There are, of course, many issues which are of current importance. I think that Crier Park is of prime concern for the citizens of Midland. Federally shared monies have already been expended, which means that the city has to use it for that purpose which is fine with them, but remember folks when Uncle Sammy was going to destroy us with the HUD grant? This proves we have an unrealistic and foolish city government). More importantly are two basic questions-is this the best possible location for saving lives? #### Q. What is the single most important issue facing the body to which you seek election?

A. Proper planning for the future. Because of the tremendous growth we are experiencing, we have discovered some deficiencies of the past which could have been avoided by better foresight in both planning and management. It always costs more to remedy mistakes than it does to avoid them, and we can solve our problems if we have the determination and the dedication to look ahead and be ready for the future. Taxes are too high, and we can reduce them by doing a better job of anticipating our needs.

Rain chances slight in area

The weatherman has done it again: forecast rain.

But the chance of some good showers and thunderstorms are all but nil - 20 percent.

And it's elementary that the probability the clouds won't open up is 80 percnet. Still, there's that slight hope, moisture from above will wet the near-scorched West Texas earth that's well into a drought.

The total rainfall total this year is 0.56 inch, well below half the norm. Last year's total was half of the average rainfall, too.

The high temperature reading under partly cloudy skies Wednesday is to be in the upper 70s. The nightly low will be in the lower 50s.

Winds, said the weatherman at the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal, are to skip along between 15 and 25 miles per hour today and tonight.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms were expected to spread across Southwest Texas today and into most of West Texas during the evening hours.

The Texas weather scene was mostly quiet early today.

Juror's walk halts trial temporarily

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - For a few minutes it appeared that the wheels of justice had ground to a temporary halt in Robert Kleasen's federal firearms trial because prospective juror John Callin had taken a walk - out of the courthouse.

The trial went into its second day today, with the state planning to call 10 witnesses, including three gun salesmen and a New York police investigator.

Callin apparently thought he had been excused from jury duty Monday and left, reducing the panel of prospective jurors to 28.

Defense and state lawyers, however, with a total of 16 challenges, agreed to select a jury without any alternates. With that agreement, court officials gave up the search for Callin.

A jury of eight women and four men was chosen to try Kleasen, 45, who was freed from Death Row last November in the 1974 slayings of two Mormon missionaries.

Then, with the jury out of the room, U.S. District Judge Jack Roberts overruled a defense motion to suppress testimony that a .22-caliber rifle and .357 Magnum revolver were found in Kleasen's car when officers stopped him after he had left a church meeting in November

U.S. Treasury agent Dale Littleton said officers seized the weapons after they forced Kleasen's car off the side of the road on U.S. 281 south of Burnet. The rifle was in an open gun case in the back seat. Littleton said, and the revolver was stuck under the seat on the passenger's side. Beside Kleasen in the front seat, Littleton said, was a hunting knife covered by a newspaper.

Littleton said Kleasen muttered, "Why are you after me? I didn't do anything.'

WASHINGTON (AP) - Texas Attorney General John Hill is in town wearing the hats of lawyer, lobbyist and politician.

He dons his lawyer's cap this afternoon to argue Texas' case before the Supreme Court in California vs. Texas. California is asking the high court to execise the "original jurisdiction" provision granted by the Constitution to settle certain disputes between states.

At stake are millions of dollars in inheritance taxes from the vast fortune Howard Hughes left behind when he died in 1976.

'We feel California has a very weak claim as far as being the domicile state of Mr. Hughes is concerned," said Hill during a Monday press conference at the National Press Club. "We're hoping they'll (Supreme Court justices) simply refuse to grant the motion...and we feel to do otherwise would be unfair to Texas because basically California is asking this court to try and relitigate the same issue we have already litigated in a Texas court.

Hill added that if the court decides to hear the case, it would be "very expensive to Texas... it will cost time and money to present the same case to a master appointed by the court. While in the nation's capital, Hill said he also planned to hand-deliver a letter to Rep. Tom Foley, D-Wash., chairman of the House Agriculture

Committee, outlining the "crisis situation which exists in Texas wheat The letter urges Congress to facilitate passage of farm legislation

Hill's lobbying on behalf of Texas farmers naturally led him into another of his favorite subjects -Gov. Briscoe.

that would increase agricultural

"I think he (Brisoe) realizes he has been hurt politically with the farmers," began Hill who is running against Briscoe in the May Democratic primary. "The farmers view me as someone more positive in my approrach and more persuasive in my presentation.

This is a leadership issue that I believe is taking hold and helping me... the governor's method of leadership is much more low key.'

Hill also attacked Briscoe for his failure to serve as a "watchdog" over federal funds that come into the state. "There is clear evidence of neglect in federal Manpower funds that are being spent in Texas," he said and quickly added that under the "Great Society programs, you heard a repeated phrase that the governor was the best person to serve an overview role. I don't think we'll have public support for renewed programs until we have assured the public that we've done a good job with the programs we currently have. "These funds don't come through the governor's office but often come into our state under the control of boards" appointed by the governor, Hill continued.

Hill also said that more than "30 federal investigators are assigned to Texas today to look into mismanagement of federal Manpower funds. We think of federal money as easy come, easy go but our state agencies have divisions that cooperate with the federal programs and we should not be engulfed just because these funds are coming directly from, say, HEW."

Evaluators uncover problems with HEART

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The head of the Texas Department of Community Affairs has invited the executive director of a Houston anti-poverty agency to Austin "to discuss problems" - including nepotism found by TDCA evaluators.

Ben McDonald sent the invitation by telegram Monday to John Bland, executive director of Houston Employment Area Redevelopment and Training Corp. (HEART).

McDonald also said he would name a "special high-level task force" that would go to Houston and review the criticisms made by the evaluators and advise him on what actions to

A TDCA monitoring and evaluation team said in a report dated March 14 that they had found numerous discrepancies, including:

-Indications that counselor Danny Hines assisted the congressional campaign of Rep. Anthony Hall, D-Houston, on HEART time. Hall's father-inlaw, Jimmy Middleton, was Jimmy Middleton is the brother of Howard Middleton, the program's founder and a Houston black labor leader who was appointed to the Texas Youth Council by Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

TDCA evaluators noted that Hines' activity report of Sept. 9, 1977, said, "Time is also being used taking names on behalf of Anthony Hall, campaign purposes." The words, "campaign purposes," were lined out, and "Recruitment for FY '78' was written in.

the payroll as a $1,112-a-month counselor.

Evaluators said HEART "should refund to TDCA" all money paid to Christopher Middleton since he was hired on Sept. 27, 1976.

TDCA warned HEART in September that unless the alleged nepotism was not brought to an immediate end, HEART would lose its federal funds. Howard and Jimmy Middleton resigned from the board

-Howard Middleton's son, Donnell, a former HEART employee, was on the payroll of a consulting firm with which HEART had a contract, signed by Howard Middleton.

Evaluators said this "demonstrates poor program management that is possible (sic) in violation of the CETA Private Gain Assurance.'

CETA is the federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act, which funds HEART's $200,000-a-year program of job training and referral.

Voters to decide interest rates

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Texas Democrats cleared up one point Monday but have one more hurdle to clear Thursday before they can start printing the May 6 primary ballots.

District Judge Herman Jones refused Monday to issue a court order stopping the State Democratic Executive Committee from printing a nonbinding referendum question on the primary ballot that would ask voters if they appprove increasing the interest rates on loans under $5,000.

Whether the Democrats will be able to take a straw poll on horse race betting comes before another district court judge on Thursday.

"The court should approach any action of a political party with utmost caution," Jones said a two-hour hearing. "It seems to me that the State Democratic Executive Committee has determined it wants to submit this matter to the voters and I do not find any basis for the court to inject itself.

Both referendum questions were placed on the May 6 Democratic primary ballot at a meeting of the SDEC in Waco on March 13.

The horse race betting question also will appear on the Republican primary ballot. There have been no legal questions raised on the GOP ballot.

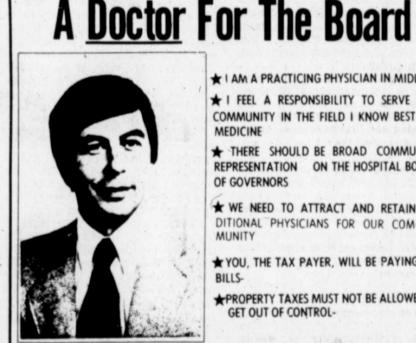

Carrin Patman, wife of Sen. Bill Patman, D-Ganado, an opponent of higher interest rates, said she proposed the referendum in the SDEC's legal affairs subcommittee on March 13. It was adopted later by the full committee without dissent.

Mrs. Patman contends that interest rate increases are sought mostly by out-of-state small loan companies who do not want Texas voters to have a say in said he opposed the referendum in the subcommittee because it was "lopsided" and "unfairly presented.

Beneficial Finance Co., said it would be "a waste of time" to ask the 1979 Legislature for an interest rate increase if voters approved the referendum.

Soviets impressed

Not long ago a group of foreign newsmen called on the head Buddhist lama in the Soviet Union at his monastery in Siberia. The lama made sure the visitors knew that he was upset about the possibility America might decide to manufacture a "neutron bomb."

The Soviet Union seems to be wired from one end to the other for its propaganda campaign against a new tactical nuclear weapon that may be deployed for the defense of Western Europe. The head of the Soviet publishing industry opened a British book fair recently by blasting "certain American politicians" who support the neutron weapon.

Thirty-one Soviet scientists have signed a letter to President Carter urging him to abandon this "serious threat to the whole of mankind." The Soviet delegation at the Geneva disarmament conference has proposed a treaty which would ban the weapon as "inhumane and barbarous."

This campaign has been picking up intensity ever since Mr. Carter, obviously hoping to avoid responsibility for ordering production of a new kind of nuclear weapon, invited leaders of Western Europe to decide whether they wanted it as part of their tactical defenses under the North Atlantic Treaty. Not unexpectedly, the Europeans have been reluctant to say yes. Considering their vulnerability to ttack from the East, they also have been reluctant to say no.

If Mr. Carter and other Western statesmen are troubled by the charges that deployment of the neutron weapon would menace mankind, we urge them to consider the source. These complaints are coming from a nation which is arming itself to the teeth. both with conventional weapons and with strategic missiles carrying the most inhumane and barbarous weapons known to man hydrogen warheads.

If the subject were not so grim. it would be laughable that the Kremlin is raising such a furor over a weapon of limited battlefield application. The neutron bomb, in spite of its ominous name, is simply a tactical nuclear warhead designed to limit blast and fire damage to a relatively small area while its radiation would kill troops in a larger area. It is no more or no less humane than any weapon designed to kill people, especially nuclear weapons.

It was great that Adrian Fischer, the U.S. ambassador to the Geneva talks, promptly challenged the Soviet delegate to justify the "inhumanity and barbarity" of the SS-20 missiles which the Soviet Union is deploying to threaten the cities and countryside of Western Europe with a hail of nuclear warheads, some of which have a destructive power 20,000 times greater than that of the proposed neutron bomb.

The Russians are rejecting a suggestion that the U.S. decision on the neutron weapon be linked with an agreement on their part to abandon one of their own new weapons systems. That's not surprising either since they know the so-called bomb is actually an artillery shell of no comparison with the missiles they are adding to their arsenal.

For the West, the issue is whether the deployment of this new battlefield weapon would help redress the imbalance between NATO forces and those of the Warsaw Pact.

If military considerations justify its deployment, it should be deployed.

Mr. Carter and his counterparts in Western Europe want to be associated with arms control and the cause of peace rather than the advent of a new "enhanced radiation" weapon.

But a balance of power between NATO and the East has kept the peace on that continent for a generation.

It will keep the peace for another, so long as the Soviet Union sees the inevitability of disaster for its Warsaw Pact armies should they launch an attack on the West.

My guess is that most advice is seldom as helpful as simplifieding the need for it."

My, how Mr. Carter has changed

WASHINGTON - The metamorphosis of Jimmy Carter, as chronicled in the confidential minutes of his Cabinet meetings, has sometimes been a painful process.

He came to the White House fresh from the peanut fields, a born-again Baptist bringing salvation to the Washington politicians. He disdained the political roistering and log-rolling so dear to their hearts; he looked on their foibles and follies with a shepherding eye.

The incoming president was more inclined to consult the Holy Spirit than the powers on Capitol Hill. He regarded party patronage and porkbarrel projects with ill-concealed distaste Carter campaigned to restore the moral authority of the government and to transform the federal monster into a force for public good through reduced spending and better management. Merit rather than politics was to be his watchword.

But in the Oval Office, the rookie president soon encountered the realities of Washington power and politics. His political rebirth has been as complete, if less dramatic, than his spiritual conversion.

Speaker Thomas "Tip" O'Neill, for example, taught him that legislation could be expedited through the House by awarding political jobs to the Speaker's friends. Sen. James Eastland, D.-Miss., the baronial Senate Judiciary chairman, taught him that U.S. attorneys and district judges will have trouble clearing through the Judiciary Committee if they are apppointed for merit, with no regard for politics. The new president also discovered the importance of flood control construction throughout the country. However marginal the benefits may be to the landscape, it is essential to political development

As late as Jan. 9 of this year, Carter was determined to close down or consolidate a number of outmoded military bases across the country. He told his Cabinet bravely that he "will back (Defense Secretary) Harold Brown fully on this" and wants "the Cabinet to cooperate wholeheartedly.

But in February, he sought the votes of a number of senators with outmoded military bases in their states. Two who heeded his appeal to vote for the Panama Canal treaties were the senators from Maine, Edmund Muskie and William Hathaway.

By an interesting coincidence. Carter made a February trip to Maine, which had a base on the expendable list. Loring Air Force Base in Limestone, Me., had been marked for mothballs.

But the same Carter, who had promised in January to back Brown fully, told a Maine audience in February that he had asked Brown to 'reassess' the decision to close Loring. "There is a much better chance now to keep Loring Air Force Base open." he declared solemnly, 'because of the interest of your senators, your governor and others."

The change of heart over Loring is not unique. It looks as if other senators, who have cooperated with Carter, will keep their outmoded bases. A top Pentagon official put it bluntly. "The whole idea of closing military bases," he told us, "has gone to hell in a handbasket."

His consumer adviser, Esther Peterson, "handed out a list of undecided votes and added that she spent all day yesterday with some of the Speaker's staff calling on undecided members," the Cabinet minutes relate.

On another occasion, the president admonished his Cabinet that he had received complaints from congressmen who had not been given advance notice of federal grants awarded to their districts. This is a political courtesy that enables the congressmen to take credit for the new benefits

It's the sort of political gamesmanship that would have repelled him a year ago. But the new Carter sternly instructed his Cabinet members "personally to doublecheck in their departments and to raise the subject at their next staff meeting," the confidential minutes recount.

The once aloof Carter, who despised the back-slapping, tale-swapping, horse-trading cajolery of Capitol Hill. has even learned to hobnob with the boys in the backrooms. What's more. he wants his subordinates to do the same. He has urged them to take a chairman to breakfast, lunch or dinner. Here's a verbatim account from the Cabinet minutes of February

"The President will spend the forthcoming congressional recess meeting with many key committee chairpersons. He asked Cabinet Secretaries to check ... if they have particular points they want him to raise. He expects the meetings to be beneficial and urged Cabinet Secretaries to have similar meetings with committee chairpersons and other members of Congress. He suggested that Congresspersons be invited for breakfast or lunch or to Cabinet members' homes.' This idea received the endorsement, according to the minutes, of two former congressmen in his Cabinet - Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland and Transportation Secretary Brock Adams. They also emphasized the value of Cabinet contacts with key congressional staff persons and of even brief, casual visits to congressional offices," the minutes add.

I think it will help you to understand their attitude if we clear away some misconceptions. Many Americans are under the impression that Israel is sort of an American creation and couldn't exist without us. That is not

In fact, during the fiscal years from 1946 to 1975, the U.S. government gave the nations of the Arab League $6.4 billion in military and economic aid.

Furthermore, in 1957, in 1967, and in 1973, it was our government which pressured Israel into stopping short of destroying the Arab armies.

Today, instead of President Carter pressuring the Arabs to come to terms as he ought to be doing, he is pressuring Israel to make concessions. Israel finds itself in the unique position of being the only nation in the world being asked to let the losers of four wars dictate the peace terms.

What support Israel has had in this country has always been from the American people and the Congress, not from the administrations, which are always dominated by Wall Street and the multi-national corporations.

As for Carter's buddy, Anwar Sadat, he is nothing more than a con man. What concession did he make? He agreed to talk. For that, he is asking total surrender of Israel. Sadat, by the way, spent World War II in a British prison for his role in a Nazi espionage ring. If he gets the Nobel Peace Prize, which has become nothing more than a symbol of Western insanity, he will be the first Nazi collaborator to be so honored.

The generation that is leading Israel are survivors of the Nazi death camps and ghettoes. To them and to millions of other Jews, Israel, aside from its religious significance, is seen as a refuge, a place where Jews might go to be free of persecution.

Their motto is, "Never Again," meaning that never again will unarmed Jews be slaughtered as they were all over Europe. To not strike back is unthinkable. They, unlike many Americans, have learned the lessons of history.

Small appliance junkies go camping with machines

By ERMA BOMBECK

For a country that is facing a crisis in energy, we've certainly become small appliance junkies.

I ran across a couple last summer who had an electric coffee maker. blankets that plugged in, can openers. ice makers, mixers, hair dryers, doughnut maker, hamburger fryer, crepe maker, food slicer, knife sharpener, slow cooker, electric toothbrush, electric broom, hot curlers, and an electric Wok

And they were camping.

A friend of mine bought one of those machines that dices, slices, purees, chops, slivers mixes, and matches and does everything but open mail. She's worried. Her husband is beginning to have feelings for it.

To attend a party given by a small appliance junkie is almost more than the human body can stand. The other night, a hostess mesmerized us with her electric ice machine while her small oven toasted hot hors d'oeuvers, and her rotisserie whirled around little hot dogs. To further astound and amaze us, tshe threw all the ingredients for our drinks into her magic electric blender. Then she panicked.

"Fred, the electric stirrer that plays 'How Dry I Am', where did you

"I think it's on the top shelf behind you're using a second.

the popcorn popper and the electric ice cream maker."

"You buried our electric stirrer!"

When he got it down, she thrusts it into our drinks. Mine immediately frothed over into my hand causing every handshake thereafter to become permanent.

At this point it boggles the mind to predict what is in the future to satisfy the needs of appliance junkies. It's my guess you should look for ELEC-TRIC DENTAL FLOSS for people who can be putting on the their socks and saving time.

The Beta Omega and Beta Eta Chapters of Epsilon Sigma Alpha will host a Western Dance Friday in the Midland County Exhibit Building.

The dance will be held from 9 p.m. to midnight. The proceeds will be given to St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.

St. Jude's was chosen as the ESA international project in 1972, and since that time, the ESA members have raised more than $2 million. ## Concoct a fantastic grilled sandwich Sandwiches are an American tradition once reserved for lunchtime, but now an important part of the on-thego breakfasts or suppers. Golden grills are super sandwiches that fill the bill for anytime eating. They're quick to fix, savory and substantial. Hard-cooked eggs, ham and Swiss cheese are the base of the filling. Pickle relish, a dab of mayo and a little onion add the zip. And you can keep the filling on hand in the fridge for spur of the moment spreading on rye bread and grilling.

Why not hard cook a dozen eggs right now, so you can stir up Golden Grills, and still have some on hand for snacking or deviling.

GOLDEN GRILLS 6 sandwiches 6 hard-cooked eggs, chopped

1/2 cup chopped cooked ham 1/3 cup finely chopped onion or 11/2 tablespoons instant minced onion 1/4 cup shredded Swiss cheese 2 tablespoons sweet pickle relish 2 tablespoons mayonnaise or salad dressing 1/2 teaspoon salt 12 slices rye bread Thoroughly combine all ingredients except bread and butter. Butter 1 side of each bread slice. Place 6 slices on griddle, baking sheet or in skillet buttered side down; spread each with approx. 1/2 cup filling. Top with remaining bread slices buttered side up. Grill on griddle or in skillet until toasted on both sides or bake in preheated 400 degree oven about 5 to 8 minutes or until golden brown. Turn; bake an additional 5 to 8 minutes.

HARD-COOKED EGGS

Cover eggs in pan with enough water to come at least 1 inch above eggs. Cover, bring rapidly just to boiling. Turn off heat; if necessary remove pan from heated unit to prevent further boiling. Let stand covered in hot water 15 minutes for large eggs-adjust time up or down by about approx. 3 minutes for each size larger or smaller. Cool eggs immediately and thoroughly in cold water-shells are easier to remove and it is less likely you will have a dark surface on yolks. To remove shell: Crackle it by tapping gently all over. Roll egg between hands to loosen shell; then peel, starting at large end. Hold egg under running cold water or dip in bowl of water to help ease off shell.

Gibraltar Savings is the largest in Texas.

A strong savings and loan is one of the safest places to keep your money.

Gibraltar is financial stability.

Assets at Gibraltar exceed $2 billion. Reserves are larger than any other savings association, of any type, anywhere in Texas. Financial stability like this makes Gibraltar Savings one of the safest investments available in Texas today.

Gibraltar is America's first insured. In 1934 Congress, under Frankl in D. Roosevelt, agreed that savings plans should be insured against loss. The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation was formed and Gibraltar Savings was selected to become the first savings association in America to offer insured savings plans.

Gibraltar is only in Texas.

Gibraltar now has offices in and around Midland, Lubbock, Amarillo, Fort Worth, Dallas, Houston and Corpus Christi. No other savings and loan serves so many Texans in so many areas of the state. Gibraltar is the largest in Texas.

Gibraltar is investing in Texas. Gibraltar is supplying the necessary funds to construct new homes across the state. After construction, Gibraltar supplies the necessary funds to finance the purchase of these new homes. Gibraltar is investing over $1.75 billion in loans, creating jobs and improving the economy for all Texans. At Gibraltar. we're investing more into Texas than any other savings and loan in the state.

Tower of London her home sweet home

NEW YORK (AP) - What's home life like in the Tower of London? Does all that bloody history cast a pall?

"I've never felt spooky in that house at all," declares Adeline Raeburn, wife of the Tower's governor, "not even when I'm entirely alone there in the dead of winter.

This comes with cheerful matter-offactness after she has regaled a visitor to her New York hotel room with lively anecdotes about the ghosts which share her home, the 450yearold Queen's House, inside the Tower complex. Mrs. Raeburn was on a visit to this country with her husband, Maj. Gen. Digby Raeburn, in connection with the Tower's 900th birthday this year - the central White Tower was built for William the Conqueror in 1078.

For all the matter-of-factness, keeping house in Britain's most famous tourist attraction and most notorious monument is clearly something out of the ordinary. The Queen's House, the governor's official residence, is considered London's finest example of Tudor architecture.

"It was built by Henry VIII for Anne Boleyn, but by the time it was finsihed they had moved to Hampton Court," explains Mrs. Raeburn. "The only time Anne used the house was as a prisoner, for 18 days before she was beheaded" - on the scaffold site a few steps away from Mrs. Raeburn's front door.

The Gray Lady, her home's bestknown ghost, hasn't been seen for about four years, says Mrs. Raeburn, 'when she walked down the passage behind my niece." The haunting of the spare bedroom is of a "quite common kind" by Tower standards - a suffocating sensation felt by occupants of the room. "I never put children or women on their own in the spare bedrooms," Mrs. Raeburn is quick to

Implant restores lost arm

Copley News Service

SAN DIEGO, Calif. - Aileen Cecil is using her arm again to screw down caps on canned pickles - her specialty - and to sew and to garden and to do just about everything else she did before the arm was blown off by a shotgun blast.

The shotgun blast had left a dirty wound, shattering the elbow joint and destroying bone. It would take considerable surgical skill to give Aileen her own arm back.

And her age (now 52) was against her. Most successful limb implants involve young patients who have the advantage of good recuperative

But Dr. Gary Manchester thought it could be done and he did it and the reattachment took.

From time to time rattlesnakes slither into the yard where Glenn and Aileen Cecil live and Afleen keeps her own .410 shotgun handy just in case.

After the Poway rattlesnakes had all curled up for the winter that year she put her shotgun away without removing the single shell.

One day in February 1973 Cecil heard what she thought was a prowler and got out her shotgun, dropped it and shot off her arm.

The lead pellets ripped into Cecil's right arm, shredding it horribly and leaving the forearm hanging by a small strip of skin.

Manchester, a San Diego plastic surgeon, had done three previous limb implants and was in training at Massachussetts General Hospital when the first successful one was done there in 1962.

The blast had shattered Cecil's elbow and adjacent bone into more than 20 fragments. The elbow would have to be replaced by a stainless steel plate.

The bone, too, would have to be cut back to good tissue, leaving the arm about one and one-half inches short.

Working under a surgical microscope. Manchester reattached two major nerves, a small sensory nerve, three veins and an artery.

He used skin from Cecil's stomach, opening a flap there like a book and attaching the arm to it for three weeks before cutting it loose to be sure the graft was good. The graft is good, but skin from the stomach remains skin from the stomach, and when Aileen Cecil puts on pounds on her tummy, the back of her elbow gets fat, too.

Manchester wants to trim down the fat and, at the same time, provide her arm with even more mobility. But Cecil doesn't want any more surgery. Manchester said that nerves encouragement came when she was fighting her urban policies, has a kind word: "She has a fine intellect and towering integrity. She's one of the bright spots in the administration." The generally favorable reaction does not mean that all critics of the 53year-old HUD secretary have suddenly changed their minds. Hillenbrand. for example, can still manage a deft

"If she has an open mind, she would not give you that impression. She has a singleness of purpose that is awesome to behold."

persons in government and in HUD's constituencies outside government show agreement with the assessment of John Gunther, director of the U.S. Conference of Mayors:

"There's no evidence she's in any trouble at all. She's probably got broader support today than she had a year ago.

"She's a hard-edged person, and people get angry with her," he said. "Now time has passed, and they're not so angry

Probably her most striking achievement has been to redefine HUD as an urban agency. "There's been a major turnaround in its attitude toward the cities," says Detroit Mayor Coleman A. Young.

In its relatively short life, the department, as its name implies, has been the battleground for constituencies whose interests do not always coincide - the housing industry and the cities, the suburban middle-class and the downtown poor. the developers who get housing subsidies and the people who live in subsidized housing.

Harris may be getting good marks around town because she seems to be balancing the constituencies + the trick being to help the "house" while stressing the "urbans." She has gone up and down the country preaching the plight of the cities, especially those in danger of falling apart and those with large numbers of poor and at the same time she has increased subsidized housing production almost four times. For most of its history HUD has tilted toward the industry.

The agency's first secretary. Robert C. Weaver, launched Lyndon B. Johnson's ill-fated 'model-cities' program to funnel federal money into inner-city areas when he ran HUD from 1966 to 1968. But the fledgling department failed to shake its roots in the old Housing and Home Finance Agency, which Weaver had headed.

After Richard M. Nix on came to office. HUD's subsidized housing production shot up as a result of Secretary George Romney's go-go implementation of an L BJ legacy, the 1968 Housing Act. which created several subsidy programs to stimulate building.

Then came scandals involving some of the programs, and N ixon gave his next secretary, James T. Lynn, the task of shutting down the subsidies and, in effect, dismantling the agen-

Accept kissless marriage, or kiss off Fred

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband hasn't kissed me since Nov. 10, 1975. That's the day we got married. When we went together, Fred was always kind of stingy with his kisses, but he did kiss me occasionally.

Everybody in our family knows how Fred feels about kissing, and they think he's weird.

Yesterday at a family gathering when I went to kiss him (he never kisses ME, but sometimes I kiss HIM), he turned his head away and "You know I don't kiss anybody.'

His mother said, "Fred, your wife isn't just anybody." He just shrugged his shoulders and said, "I don't like to kiss. So sue me." and that was the end

Abby, I keep myself immaculate, and my mouth is always clean so that can't be it. It doesn't seem natural for a man not to want to kiss his own wife. Believe it or not, we have a good sex life, but he just skips the kissing part and gets right down to business. Outside of that he treats me great and is a terrific guy and I really love him. but should a married woman have to live without kisses? Please help me .-NO KISSES IN CONN.

DEAR NO: Your husband is thewho needs the help. He needs professional help to resolve his hang-up about kissing. If he vetoes that, your alternatives are obvious: either resign yourself to a kissless marriage, or kiss off Fred.

DEAR ABBY: My husband had five children from a previous marriage. Some of them are married with children of their own, and some still live with their mother.

I am responsible for buying, wrapping and sending all the gifts for their birthdays, Christmas, etc. (He pays for them, and I must say he is not cheap.)

The problem: I am filled up to the gills with his ungrateful children, who never bother calling him to say, "Thank you," "Kiss my foot." or anything else. For all we know, the gifts weren't even received. I know he's hurt, but he insists on sending them presents year after year for every occasion.

Should I continue to buy for my husband's children, should I tell him to do it, or should I buy them all a book on manners?—TIRED OF IT

DEAR TIRED: I agree, your husband is foolish to continue sending gifts to ingrates, and I don't blame you foking. But look at it this wayyou are doing it for him, not them.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 9-year-old girl and I have a crush on a 10-year-old boy. Almost all the girls like him, but he doesn't like girls. He doesn't even know they are girls. He thinks girls are just people

I talked to my teacher about this and she said boys are like that.

How should I act in front of him? I really want him to notice me .-SERIOUS IN CHICAGO

DEAR SERIOUS: Pretend that you don't notice him. And when he realizes that you aren't noticing HIM. he will wonder why, and will probably begin to notice YOU. Boys are like Weatherstripping and caulking around doors and windows stop energy leaks.

In time, even tiny air cracks can add up to large heating and cooling losses. But sealing those energy-robbing cracks isn't all that hard. You can do it yourself with Texas Electric's free booklets on caulking and weatherstripping. They're part of a series we're offering to energy-conscious homeowners who want to make their homes energy efficient. Using basic tools and readily available materials, even unhandy people can caulk and weatherstrip their own homes to keep energy costs down.

Other booklets in the series cover insulation, storm windows, ductwork, and general maintenance. Just call us, or ask for the booklets on the comments section of your electric bill. See how easy it is to make your home energy efficient.

Violence again halts Tokyo airport opening

TOKYO (AP) - Violence has again forced postponement of the opening of Tokyo's new international airport. throwing airlines and government officials into confusion

The billion-dollar airport at Narita. 41 miles northeast of Tokyo, was scheduled to open Thursday after six years of delays, with flights in and out beginning Monday. But Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda decided at a special cabinet meeting that the destruction of the control tower Sunday by militant foes and threats of more violence necessitated another postponement

Transport Minister Kenji Fukunaga said it would take until mid-April to repair the damage to the control tower's radar, communications and weather equipment

Promising to take "forcefully drastic measures" to protect the airport against future violence. Fukada said the cabinet would meet again on Friday to set a new opening date. The Kyodo news service said it was told the date would be sometime Takenori Kato, chairman of the Public Safety Commission, told reporters it would be difficult to extend the mobilization period for the 14,000 policemen whose presence at the airport for nearly a week failed to prevent the destruction Sunday.

A spokesman for Japan Air Lines said about 20 percent of the airline's equipment had been moved to Narita. and foreign lines were planning to move in during the weekend.

Lee High band has bottle drive

Lee High band members will be ringing doorbells beginning at 5:30 p.m. Thursday to collect soft-drink bottles as part of their fund-raising efforts.

Money earned from the bottle drive will help pay the students' traveling expenses to the music contest in April in Kansas City, Mo.

Persons not visited by band members may bring their bottle donations to the soft-drink trucks on the Lee High parking lot during the drive, or they may call 683-4419.

In addition, band students are planning to raise money for their spring trip through a door-to-door light bulb sale scheduled for Monday.

Humphrey's Begin letter producing controversy

that this message should be delivered "very tactfully." Begin had called on Humphrey in his apartment during the Israeli leader's Washington trip in mid-December, and the senator. according to friends, was concerned that a blunt approach would not work.

McCall, who had worked on many documents for Humphrey, wrote the draft of the letter in Washington and telecopied it to the Minneapolis office Tuesday morning - the day after Carter's call - for delivery to

Food prices up 1.2 percent in February

WASHINGTON (AP) - Food prices increased 1.2 percent in February for the second consecutive month. pushing overall consumer prices up 0.6 percent during the month, the government reported today.

Beef prices led the upward march in food costs, rising 4.1 percent during the month, while higher prices also were reported for pork, poultry and cereal and bakery products. Prices of foods sold in grocery stores increased 1.3 percent.

The steep rise in food prices, which started late last year, has caught the Carter administration by surprise. It is the major factor in what appears to be a worsening inflation rate in the economy, even though the overall 0.6 percent increase in consumer prices in February was down slightly from the 0.8 percent gain in January. If continued for 12 months, the Transportation costs increased 0.6 percent and entertainment prices advanced 0.7 percent.

The Labor Department said its fact that he did not consumer price index for all urban receive support he had consumers in February stood at 188.4 percent of the 1967 average of 100, meaning that goods costing $100 11 not file for re-election. years ago had risen in price to $188.40 last month

The department also said the buying power of workers' paychecks declined in February for the third consecutive month, although the drop of 0.2 percent was not nearly so bad as the record monthly 3.1 percent fall in purchasing power in January

Gartner, who was with the senator, said Humphrey went over the draft three times sitting in his living room. He felt the points were well taken, but that it was "a little too strong" and should be toned down for greater effectiveness. McCall was instructed by telephone to revise the letter along lines specified by Humphrey.

Wednesday morning Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance telephoned Humphrey. Vance had just briefed a group of senators on the Middle East. a group that would have been led by Humphrey under other circumstances.

Humphrey told Vance he was drafting a letter to Begin and explained the gist of it. Vance told aides later that he could tell from his voice and speech that Humphrey was fading. A short time later McCall called to read the revised letter to the senator. Humphrey approved it and said it was just what he wanted to say. He instructed the aide to have the letter signed and delivered to the Israeli embassy for transmission to Begin. A copy was also to go to Vance for his information.

In Washington Wednesday afternoon the letter was sent to the Israeli embassy. About two hours later, according to McCall, he heard from Max Kampelman, a Washington attorney long close to Humphrey and one of his contact points with Israel and the American Jewish community.

According to McCall and Gartner. Kampelman questioned whether Humphrey wanted to take the position of the letter, prodding Isarel in gentle but unmistakable terms to greater "give" on the Sinai settlements and West Bank. Kampelman also had some suggestions on wording of several points in the letter. The aides assumed that Kampelman had been in contact with the Israeli embassy.

Kampelman later said that he had discussed the letter with Ambassador Simcha Dinitz, who was described as not particularly happy about it, and Kampelman confirmed that he had some suggestions on wording. He recalled, however, that he had heard about the letter earlier and had seen an early draft, and that Humphrey told him by telephone to communicate his views to McCall.

When Kampelman's suggestions were received Wednesday afternoon, it was too late to transact business with Hubert Humphrey. About midday Wednesday, he had begun visibly to sink and was now in long periods of sleep with only intermittent minutes of consciousness.

McCall and Gartner accepted two of Kampelman's suggestions, which did not change the meaning and would in their minds have been accepted by Humphrey. They declined to accept one suggestion, also of a minor nature, which they were not sure about. The letter was retyped, signed by a mechanical pen in Humphrey's office and sent in revised form to the Israeli embassy.

Two days later, on Jan. 13, Hubert Humphrey died. More than a week after that someone, generally believed to be a Carter administration official, passed along the news of the letter to The New York Times.

The Times published a brief account on Jan. 25 under the headline, Humphrey Urged Israeli Flexibility." The following day the Israeli embassy protested that 'The Times's account did not reflect the "essence" and "spirit" of Humphrey's letter to Begin.

Over the week the controversy grew from differences about the meaning of Humphrey's final political act to charges that Humphrey didn't write it, and that the Carter administration had manipulated a dying man in a battle with the country he had usually

Carter deficit brings remarks of cynicism

By DONALD C. BAUDER Copley News Service

Economists cocking an eyebrow at Jimmy Carter's proposed deficits for 1978 and 1979 are beginning to feel they've been fed a line of hogwash.

Mr. Carter said that the deficit for fiscal 1978 will be $61.8 bllion and for fiscal 1979 will be even lower -

$60.6 billion Maybe because Mr. Carter had earlier stated, "I will never lie to you." there was a delayed reaction between the announcement and the onset of

But make no mistake: The cynicism is there in all its acidity. Merrill Lynch Economics on Wall Street thinks the 1978 deficit may escalate to $75 billion.

The cynics cite several things which could go wrong. First, there is the Congress - it is almost certain to do wrong, just on the basis of recent ex-

What Congress is likely to do is pass the part of Mr. Curter's program which is politically palatable the $23.5 billion reduction in individual income taxes. the $8.5 billion reduction in corporate taxes and expansion of the investment tax credit and the recluction of excise taxes.

Flut - given its proclivity to count votes, not dollars - Congress might well not pass the other part of Mr. Carter's package, which would partially offset the tax cut by limiting itemized deductions, restricting tax shelters, curtailing business tax preferences and restricting entertainment and travel deductions (such as the famed three-martini

Not passing these would cost the Treasury about $9.5 billion — and would, of course, boost the deficit. Even more importantly, the tax cut may prove to be less of a stimulus to the economy than the administration is counting upon — either because of consumer resistance to spending the manna or footdragging by Congress in enacting the legislation.

In interviews, economists not only expressed skepti cism about the eventual size of the 1978 deficit but also expressed alarm about its magnitude. even if it winds up at that level.

Said Carol A. Stone of Wall Street's Merrill Lynch Econornics, "Our own projection is for the deficit to hit $75 billion, even if the tax cut only winds up at $25 billion. Carter is expecting the whole economy to jump in imediately in response to the cut.

"How ever, the cuts would do little to improve the economy's prospects. First, there is the larger deficit, which has ominous implications for inflation and interest rates. Second, investment-oriented cuts are only one-third of the package. Third, the cuts aimed at increasing consumption would not have that effect at all.

"These cuts are concentrated toward the lowerincome groups - and it's not the lower-income groups that buy durable goods heavily, particularly autos. Also, this kind of a move toward income redistribution will erode work incentives and could well hurt productivity."

She opposes the tax cut because it would bring and not much more growth."

Professor Murray Weidenbaum of the Center for the Study of American Business, Washington University, St. Louis, thinks a deficit higher than Mr. Carter is forecasting "is a real possibility. If it doesn't exceed his figure. I think the only reason would be that once again the government would spend less than it estimates.

"However, what really bothers me is that the administration is saying how wonderful it is that the 1979 deficit will be less than the 1978 deficit - by a minuscule a mount - yet nobody is pointing out that the increase from the $45 billion deficit in 1977 is

'These deficits will lead to higher inflation and interest rates. I'm also skeptical of parts of the Carter budget; for example, I think he has underestimated agricultural spending, given the high price supports he is projecting."

Higher short-term interest rates up stocks appeal By HELEN L. CALL

Copley News Service

Investors are getting restless now that short-term interest rates are moving up. They are looking for better places to put their money, according to Mark Tavel, portfolio strategist for the investment advisory Value Line.

In a telephone interview from New York, Tavel came up with the recommendation that instead of moving into money market funds, investors take a look at stocks with a yield over 5 percent.

He has sifted out a group of candidates - companies that not only pay more than passbook accounts, but have other potential as well. They are not only stocks which have greater than 5 percent yield based on year-ahead dividends, Tavel said, "but also have substantial cash balances, which means they can easily afford to pay higher dividends and which also makes them attractive as takeover candidates."

These are his choices: Fred James, the insurance agency; Servomation, a vending machine company; National Presto, a maker of home appliances; Great Lakes Dredge, a dredging company; Papercraft, a maker of gift wrap; Seven-Up, a maker of soft drinks.

Tavel said, "Value Line believes the stock market is a good place to be and rather than being frightened by the decline which has taken place over the last 13 months, it is better to look at the present as a time of opportunity for stocks."

From a technical viewpoint, there are a few other brave bulls around. Harry Laubscher, chief strategist for Blyth Eastman Dillon, said in a telephone interview that the bear market is showing signs of fatigue. Laubscher said that a short-term buy signal suggested that the market is in the process of effecting a temporary bottom. "The path of least resistance is on the upside," he said. "We are looking for an initial move into the 800-to-815 area. Laubscher feels investors should start taking the market seriously again and advised scrutiny of the following groups of stocks: airlines, Delta, United, Western. Hotel-motel, Marriott, Ramada Inns.

Holiday Inns. "We still like the steel stocks very much and would be buying steels," he said. He recommends papers, International Paper, Kimberely Clark, Scott. Air-freight companies like Flying Tiger. "Copper stocks look like they have made their lows—Phelps Dodge, Ne wmont Mining. The drug stocks

LOS ANGELES (AP) - National Public Radio offers many things, but not a resident humorist. Mac Calhoun, awardwinning surreal vendor at WRFK-FM in Richmond, Va., may soon remedy that:

He's putting together the pilot of what could be a weekly halfhour comedy show for NPR's 192 noncommercial stations, according to Peter Darg, WRFK's program director.

He says the project began shortly after Calhoun's nightly "Nightlife" series of jazz and gently daft satire was twice honored at public radio's eighth annual conference in San-Francisco this mont- alike. program for 1977 and picked as public radio's outstanding local program for 1977 and also won NPR's by phone from Richmond cultural drama award.

Which tends to bemuse Calhoun, 28, a slow-talking. deadpan native of Charlotte, N.C. He's only been in radio five years and says before that "I'd been donating blood, mostly" to earn a living.

Mac's "Nightlife," which began on WRFK four years ago, used to feature such cultural events as "The Blue Danube Barn Dance," catering simultaneously to classic and country music fans

"That's no longer on, by popular demand," he said

But we have been premiering operatic works, like 'Der Flying Buttress' by Porter Wagner. I also like to drop in a public affairs feature now and then, like 'Legums and the Law.

He was asked to elucidate, if possible. "Well, it deals with what you can and cannot do with a consenting vegetable," Calhoun explained. He also said "Nightlife" has informed the folks in Richmond that the plays for which Shakespeare got credit actually were written by a distant relative. Sir

Sports fans aren't neglected, he added with pride: Right after the last Super Bowl, we had a pre-game

In the opinion of program director Darg, it's high time public radio in America featured a homegrown humorist instead of imports.

"Public broadcasting, for comedy and satire, has been depending almost exclusively on the BBC," he contends. "They dredge out of their archives things like 'The Goon Show.

husband speaks in Bridgewater, N.J.

Pat's hometown retains character of small town, despite changes

The little city of Whittier, Calif. where Pat Ryan met and married Richard Nixon and began the climb with him to the highest station in the country is still essentially small-town America, though its population has swelled to 70,000.

Its mushroom farm is gone now. along with most of the other agricultural lands. In their places are hundreds of manufacturing plants producing sewer pipes, swimming pool equipment, drilling tools, knitwear, bullets. There are 10 banks and four savings-and-loan associations, three major shopping centers. two community swimming pools, two colleges, two major hospitals, 168 physicians, 83 dentists, and a zoo.

The passing years have brought many new things to Whittier, in-cluding some of the hoodlumism the old Chamber of Commerce would not tolerate. Teen-agers drag-race their souped-up cars on broad Whittier was killed in a horrible smashup the day I arrived. It is not the only "American Graffiti" touch. Rock music blares from the music stores on Philadelphia, one of Whittier's main streets. Taco and other fast-food places have sprouted on the streets close to town center.

The high school was (and still is) located on Whittier Avenue, a few blocks from the heart of town. Once the only secondary school in the district-there are now seven-it had a student body of 1,000. It is a complex of 13 beige stucco buildings in one of which, called Commercial, Pat Ryan began her teaching career.

I visited the building to see, at first hand, what it had been like for her. Almost nothing has been changed in

The students adored her at once. She was young, snappy, modern, a welcome relief from other teachers, most of whom were older, more dour and far stricter.

gangplank, unpacked in their cabin, and, as the vessel got under way, she watched the disappearing shoreline with a sigh of relief. Two days later, a Coast Guard amphibian landed in the Caribbean. The Nixons climbed into a lifeboat and winched lowered them to the water. Crewmen took them to the plane, which roared off to Miami. A few hours later, he was back in Washington, working on a new "bombshell" in the Hiss case, and Pat was back in her apartment.

By 1950; Alger Hiss had been convicted of perjury and Nixon set his sights on a seat in the U.S. Senate, opposing Helen Gahagan Douglas in a memorably bitter campaign. He won, and with their savings and increased salary, then $12,500, they were finally able to move into a modest two-story white brick house with blue-green shutters in the northwest corner of Washington.

There was no acreage, just a small backyard and a screened porch in front, but it was the first home with real space they had since they were married 12 years before. As usual, Pat made all the curtains, draperies and slipcoyers. Somehow she found time to attend a sewing class in the community, where she learned quilting. So she made a blue quilted spread for the double bed she shared with Dick.

She looked after the children, did her own housework, pressed her husband's pants, cooked the meals. sprinkled the grass in the yard, made hats, and answered the phone, which seemed to ring almost constantly. Once in a while she went to Richard's office and helped the secretarial staff.

Her wardrobe was skimpy. She had four evening dresses to wear at official functions, several light summer ones, some sweaters and skirts. At receptions, her "respectable Republican cloth coat" was usually the only one among a forest of furs in the cloakrooms. She also owned three suits, thanks to a half-dozen ladies in Whittier, friends. from her teaching days, who decided during the 1950 campaign that Pat did not have enough clothes. They knitted the three suits for her and presented them when Pat came to Los Angeles. She accepted them grafefully.

Pat Nixon had been feeling the weight of guilt ever since Tricia was born because she had to be away from her while she campaigned; when Julie arrived she wanted even more to stay home. But there were some appearances she could not avoid, so she hired babysitters, left precise instructions and rushed off, rushing back as quickly as she eould.

Both girls grew up knowing about their mother's feeling of guilt. Pat told them, Tricia says.

When Julie and Tricia were small, they would both start to cry as they watched their parents pack and what they knew would be a long trip. Pat would hug them as she said goodbye. They would still be crying as she shut the door and left.

Once, when Tricia was 5, she came into her parent's bedroom in the middle of the night. She woke them, saying she was afraid. Pat put her into bed beside her and her husband, feeling more guilty than ever. And things were not about to improve.

In the fall of 1953, when the Nixons were about to leave as President Eisenhower's emissaries on a 10week, 45,000-mile goodwill tour of the Far East, 5-year-old Julie threw herself on the floor, screaming uncontrollably. Hannah Nixon, who was to stay with the children, watched helplessly. Nixon begged her: "Mother, take her in your arms, or something." Hannah picked up Julie and Pat left with her husband.

When the girls were older, Pat took them with her on some campaign trips. They were adorable, and adorable children win as many votes for politicians as dogs do. The Nixons, like some other politicians, had both.

Pat liked taking them along even less than leaving them at home. Once, during the 1968 campaign, she was in a corridor of high school just before the family was scheduled to appear at a rally in the gym. She tried to fix their clothing so they would look their best. "These girls simply have no clothes," she said to nobody in particular, "because there's so little time to buy them any.

Another time, in San Antonio, Julie, then almost out of her teens, came down with a throat infection and a 102degree fever. Pat led her into the airport's VIP lounge, where she took her in her arms. Pat sat there motionless, not saying anything. On her face was a look of great sadness.

Scientists turning to cancer prevention By MARGUERITE SULLIVAN

Copley News Service

WASHINGTON - Excessive drinking, excessive smoking, asbestos, radiation, vinyl chloride these are the things scientists believe almost with certainty can cause

It is all the other elements in our environment that remain the unknown, says Dr. Arthur Upton. director of the National Cancer Institute.

Researchers suspect, Upton asserts, that 80 to 90 per cent of cancers may be environmentally caused.

Acceptance of this has meant a 'revolution" in scientists' attitudes and has lead to an increasing focus on the prevention as well as the cure of

Although scientists have made 'dramatic' advances in the war on cancer. Upton characterizes the overall understanding of its cause and effect as still being "primitive."

Some of the general areas in cancer prevention being studied include: -Radiation. "In the 1950s virtually no one thought a small dose of radiation could increase the risk of cancer." Upton recalls. "Now they

-Smoking. "A 100,000 cancer deaths a year are related to smoking," Upton asserts. "Although some researchers say this cannot be proven." Upton argues there appears to be a clear relationship between cancer and smoking. *

-Diet. "We don't know enough yet to prescribe a definite cancer-preventing diet, but a high fat intake tends to increase the risk of cancer in animals, as does obesity."

So far scientists have identified three possible sources of cancer in the diet: naturally occurring materials, food additives, and how foods are prepared.

In natural foods, *researchers suspect certain yeast toxins and flavinoids as agents which could be converted in the body into car-cirogens. Upton said. For instance, some citrus fruits may have carcinogenic flavinoids. Upton - said, adding, "but I am not suggesting that people not eat citrus fruits.

Charcoaling or broiling certain foods may also increase their potentiality to being carcinogens. Upton said.

"Broiling foods is not as safe as poaching, boiling or baking them," he asserted. Yet when asked how he cooked steaks, Upton answered: "Sure, sometimes I broil my steaks."

Psychiatrist digs into geography

By ROBERT C. TOTH

WASHINGTON - The latest field to find itself with a "psycho" prefix is geography. Self-styled creator and only disciple of psychogeography is Dr. William G. Niederland, a bona fide psychiatrist.

As a refugee from Hitler, Niederland served as ship's doctor for two trips around the world on a British freighter. This developed his interest in geography, he explained in a recent interview at his me in Englewood, N.J.

But none of the biographies of the great explorers were satisfying. Typically, historians like Samuel Eliot Morison brushed off Columbus as having sometimes reached "weird conclusions," without going further, the elderly psychiatrist complained.

"I wanted to know what those conclusions were. and what the motives were of those explorers who set out on usually hopeless voyages." he said.

LNG, unlike gasoline is heavier than air an could seep into big-city subways and sewer systems until something ignites it, he said.

"Then it flashes back to its source. cremating everything in its path.' van der Linde said.

Or a spilled LNG cloud produces cold so extreme it "can flash-freeze you into a human Popsicle.'

Van der Linde, who has authored a book on the hazards of LNG, said Monday the only acceptable sites for LNG processing are remote, unpopulated areas, offshore ports or a floating barge.

'We need energy, and I'm for LNG," van der Linde said. "The message of my book is simply, get it out of town.

Van der Linde said he hopes his book will increase public awareness of the problem and help nudge Congress to adopt regulations on LNG import sites before catastrophe

He said a spill of LNG is inevitable, and if it occurs in a major U.S. port city like Houston, the loss of lives would be catastrophic.

The tanker skipper said LNG ships or terminal facilities should never be allowed in the Houston Ship Channel, which he rates "among the most dangerous harbors in the country."

An LNG spill, he said, could ignite one petrochemical plant after another in domino fashion.

Van der Linde said one noted scientist believes the "kill zone" of a spill of flammable LNG to be about 12.5 miles. He said it's only a matter of time until there is an LNG spill. 'About 40,000 oil spills are reported annually," he said. "Are we not to have a single LNG spill? Every day, ships collide, run aground, hit bridge abutments, burn and explode. Are LNG ships immune?" Van der Linde contradicts LNG proponents who say specially built LNG ships are the safest and most sophisticated vessels built.

He said LNG tankers are just as vulnerable to engine breakdown and grounding as the Amoco Cadiz, the supertanker now inflicting a record oil spill on the coast of France.

Journal says 1977-78 winter just a 'breeze'

TULSA, Okla. - Compared with the winter of 1976-77, this winter has been a breeze for U.S. fuel-oil and naturalgas suppliers and customers, even though the weather has been almost as cold and a prolonged coal-miners' strike strained supplies.

The nation was better prepared for an extremely cold winter this time, the Oil and Gas Journal reports. As a result, the late-season cold blast didn't snuff out home heaters and business activity like the 1976-77

Wintertime preparations took several forms, the weekly business magazine says.

For one thing, suppliers had more fuel in storage at the beginning of this heating season than they did at the beginning of the previous season.

Natural-gas pipeline companies had 8.3 percent more working gas in underground storage last October than they did a year earlier, Department of Energy statistics

DRILLING REPORT

Than they did a year earlier.

Department of Energy statistics show. And the American Petroleum Institute says fuel-oil stocks were 22 percent higher at the beginning of this winter than they were the previous year.

And industrial fuel users stockpiled primary and alternate fuels to avoid shortages. There is no way to determine exactly how much fuel industries and utilities had in storage at the beginning of the winter, but the effects of their stockpiling show up in demand levels, the Journal reports.

Fuel-oil demand during October through March is expected to average 7.3 million barrels a day compared with 7.6 million barrels a day during the same period a year earlier. This comes as a surprise to many industry analysts, who had expected demand to increase slightly as industrial and utility gas users, anticipating shortages in their primary fuels, switched to fuel oil.

But demand during the four months prior to the October-March heating season was 12.7 percent higher in 1977 than in 1976. And combining the demand levels of June through September with the winter months produces an average 10-month demand during 1977-78 of 6.7 million barrels a day.

That is 7.5 percent more than the 6.2-million-barrels-a-day average demand during the comparable 10month period of 1976-77.

What that means is that fuel-oil users, or gas users switching to fuel oil, began buying residual and distillate fuels early to build up their stocks. Consequently, more fuel oil probably has been burned during the heating season than the demand figures indicate.

Meanwhile, natural gas deliveries and curtailments by interstate pipelines have been about the same this winter as they were the previous year, a Department of Energy spokesman told the Journal.

Cold weather, rather than the coal strike, has been the big factor increasing natural-gas demand. companies say. The coal strike is having a bigger effect on fuel-oil use.

According to one estimate, the strike has increased fuel-oil consumption by utilities by 400,000 barrels a day.

Concern with cancer attects most everyone

Concern about cancer strikes a familiar chord with just about everyone. There is in Midland, however, a group of women doing something about that concern-they make bandages for cancer patients. Louise Galyardt, chairman of the bandage group for the Grace Guild of Grace Lutheran Church, said her church "was one of several to volunteer to do cancer bandages starting about 1964." For the past 10 years, it has been the only group to make the dressings, she said. Mrs. Galyardt said the Grace Guild turns the bandages over to the

Rep. Bill Archer Archer to speak at GOP rally

The Midland County Republican Party will have a county-wide "Ides of Taxes" fund raising rally at 7 p.m. Wednesday at American Legion Hall. Rep. Bill Archer, U. S. congressman from Houston's 7th District, will be the keynote speaker.

The charge will be $7.50 for adults and $5 for students. Tickets are available at Republican headquarters, A Street and Texas Avenue. 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., and will be sold at the door Wednesday night.

A "poor man's stew," tea and cornbread, will be served. Beer will be available and a band will play. All Republican candidates in the county will appear. Archer, 50, was first elected to the U. S. House in 1970. Prior to that, he served four years in the Texas House of Representatives. He holds BBA and LLB degrees with honors from the University of Texas. He was a captain in the U.S. Air Force during the Korean war.

Mrs. Galyardt said about 20 volunteers usually participate in the semi-annual bandage workshop. The women cut filler and tear sheets in a variety of sizes, fold them together and fasten them with paper clips until they can be sewn. Many take the partially made bandages home with them for that final step. The group's chairman estimated that two hours' work is required per dozen bandages. "We make at least 40 to 50 dozen when we do meet." Mrs.

Galyardt said. The bandages completed dressings are wrapped two dozen to a package. They are used by cancer out-patients who are responsible for sterilizing them at home in their ovens. The dressings, she noted, can be used for any kind of open sore. "I know our ladies feel this is a way to help our local (and area) cancer patients." Mrs. Galyardt said. "We'll continue to make the dressings as long as there is a demand."
