Wiretapping charge not made in retaliation, Brookmole says

Royce Brookmole, former Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. Midland district manager, this morning denied that his statements about alleged wiretaps on his telephone were in retaliation for what Bell officials termed his "removal" from his Brookmole said in an affadavit filed Saturday that he was certain Bell had wiretapped his home telephone.

Bell officials Wednesday denied Brookmole's accusations and said they "hoped" they were not made in "retaliation" of the "removal" from the Midland job. The move to Lubbock previously had been referred to by Bell officials as a "transfer.

The affadavit was filed in conjunction with the appeal of a suit by former Bell executive James Ashley against Southwestern Bell.

Brookmole said this morning he told Bell attorneys about what he claims was a tap on his telephone and one on Ashley's telephone. "I've told them this from the beginning. I just wasn't allowed to testify," he said.

"The only reason I had not stepped forward before is the job security factor." he added "I've worked for Bell for almost 27 years. I went to work for them when I was 20, and it has been well over half of my life. I think it is very natural that, with that set of facts, job security has grown to be of utmost importance to me.

You have to be prepared to face the worst, and I guess that, once I got to the point that I could face the worst, then job security was no longer the most important thing in my life. It simply allowed me to speak out with what I truly believe to be the facts," Brookmole said.

Brookmole said he was transferred to a job in the Lubbock Bell office.

effective "April Fool's Day." Brookmole also commented on a Bell assertion that Joe Wilson, then district plant manager in Midland. testified at the trial of the Ashley suit that no tap was found on Brookmole's telephone.

"I stated in the affadavit that Mr. Wilson lied about not finding anything at my premise." Brookmole said. A wire, which would be all that was necessary at the residence end of a wiretap, was found during the search, he said

"I don't claim to be a wiretap expert. I have never personally placed a wiretap....I feel that my use and experience of some 27 years in the industry qualifies me as an expert of some type on the use and knowledge of telephone equipment," he said.

He said he doesn't know whether the transfer to Lubbock was directly related to the affadavit. "The transfer came after I had been identified as a friend of the Ashley's and the (T. O.) Gravitts," and was the result of a "slow, gradual process," Brookmole said

Blaze threatening Davis resort

By ED TODD

FORT DAVIS - The rangeland fire that has burned over 20,000 acres has spread from the McIvor Ranch and now is threatening the Davis Mountains Resort about 15 miles west of

"We have some property just right at the fence line burning and at four or five different locations as well," Ann Scudday, who was manning the resort's office, said this morning.

She said "four or five" houses at the resort have "come close" to being burned by the fire that was ignited by lightning late Friday on the 60-section McIvor Ranch

This morning, many of the 200

volunteer firefighters who Wednesday were attacking the spreading fire with wet tow sacks were back out.

she said. Most spent the night there. The front of the fire is about 10 miles wide, Mrs. Scudday said. And much of the fire is unseen: it has spread to canyons and crevices in this mountainous and rugged country.

"In a lot of areas, we had to wait until it burned down before we could get to it. We have had to fight mostly on the ground with just wet (gunny) sacks." she said.

Joining the townspeople and ranchers in battling the fire are students from Sul Ross State University in Alpine and from Alpine and Fort Davis High schools, she said.

She said her husband Roy was among the firefighters.

On the resort, which is just off Texas Highway 166 about 15 miles west of here, are 22 permanent residences "and many, many mobile homes" owned by out-of-towners who come here on weekends and vacations, she said.

teers" to fight the fire, she said. "Of course, young people can really climb the mountains and fight the fire.

The fire encroaching on the 9,000acre resort is laying down heavy smoke. "You can hardly see through it." she said On Wednesday, a unit from the Texas Forestry Service at Lufkin, in the piney woods of East Texas, flew in to make aerial surveys of what Mrs. Scudday called a "vast" and "immense" fire

However, she said the forestry service was not prepared for the vastness of the fire and the rugged

"It's still burning off the side of it (Mount Livermore)," she said.

Mrs. McIvor said between 40 and 45 men were fighting the rangeland fire with wet gunnysacks Wednesday. They were back this morning, she Although relatively small, it was a 'very efficient crew,' she said.

No one yet has been injured in fighting the fire. And no property, other than grass, shrubs and trees, has been damaged, she said.

Apparently not endangered is McDonald Observatory, which sits on Mount Locke.

The fire is about "three or four" miles from the observatory but would have flat land to burn over and a highway to cross before it could start burning up the side of the mountain, an observatory staffer said this

But if the fire were to get to the flat, it would be "a lot easier to control because of the short grass and anticipated low burning of the fire, the staffer said.

SWEPT BY A STRONG west wind, the sand alongside County Road 54 north of Midland Wednesday afternoon forms a pattern all too familiar this time of year. The typical West Texas spring sandstorms are aggravated this year by continuing drought. And according to one expert's predictions, the area is in store for another 60 or so days of blowing sand. LOS ANGELES - Doctors will soon

"Essential hypertension (high blood pressure) which blossoms in adulthood has its beginning in childhood. Our problem has been to recognize it in childhood when the blood pressure is still normal," said Dr. Sidney Blumenthal.

To solve the problem, researchers have collected blood pressures on a large number of children of all ages and developed what are known as nor-mal distribution curves for each age child.

Just as 6-year-olds, for example, may vary in height and weight and still be considered normal, they also vary in blood pressure. Blumenthal said in an interview.

Researchers at the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute, where Blumenthal is special assistant to the director, want to focus attention on the children whose blood pressure falls within the upper 5 percent of the normal distribution curve.

Schools in violation of state safety laws

By KEN HERMAN

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) -Thousands of South Texas students are attending school in buildings apparently built in violation of state laws aimed at insuring structural safety, building records show.

A state board of engineers investigator in Austin confirmed that the Associated City-County Economic Development Corp. here did not use registered engineers on school and city projects in the area.

You'd think it was a sad state of affairs." Stan Gilbert told newsmen for The Associated Press and the Brownsville Herald.

Top elected officials - including Gov. Dolph Briscoe, Attorney General John Hill, U. S. Rep. Kika de la Garza of Mission and U.S. Sens. John Tower and Lloyd Bentsen - were notified of the apparent violations by the Harlingen chapter of the Associated General Contractors beginning in

Luis Ramirez, acting director of ACCEDC, provided names of engineers on several of the projects

but had no comment on the matter. The records list Homer Elizondo of Harlingen as engineer on a City of Mercedes project. Elizondo said Wednesday he is not an engineer and does not know why his name was listed.

West Texas Coffee Equipment Co. of Abilene is listed as engineer on a La Villa school project. The general manager for the Abilene firm said his company has no staff engineers and that the listing "must have been a

A plaque on the La Joya city hall built by ACCEDC lists Aaron Sandoval as architect for the building. Gilbert said Sandoval, an ACCEDC employee whose name is misspelled on the plaque, is not an architect.

Included among the projects are school facilities in La Villa, La Joya, Edcouch-Else and Mercedes. City projects in apparent violation include buildings in La Joya, San Juan, Mercedes, Donna, Alamo and Edcouch. Officials in those cities said they had assumed ACCEDC would take care of the engineer require-

Randy Fleuriet, AGC general manager, said that following a meeting with Tower in Austin in late 1976, the senator promised an investigation of the matter. After several months of calling Tower's office. Fleuriet said he was told by a Tower aide to "settle your differences with ACCEDC.

Hill's office was informed of the apparent violations and the board of engineers' investigation in a threepage letter from the AGC in September 1976. Fleuriet also alleged violations of bidding and bonding requirements by ACCEDC.

De la Garza wrote the U.S. Department of Labor in 1974 in behalf of the AGC. The congressman was told that the Edinburg agency would be required to adhere to bidding requirements.

Bentsen's Washington office received numerous letters from the AGC, the latest in March 1977 detailing the alleged violations and citing Texas

"We do not believe there would be one member of the U.S. Congress that would approve of this, since the safety of school children is involved," the letter said. The senator kept in contact with the contractors but no action was taken, AGC officials said.

Briscoe was handed a copy of an AGC policy statement concerning the apparent violations during a campaign visit to Harlingen before the 1976 general election, Fleuriet said. He added that no response was ever received from Briscoe is under way in Egypt's teeming capital, and not a minute too soon.

Boom beginning to ease Cairo's hotel shortage By THOMAS W. LIPPMAN CAIRO—A hotel construction boom

Cairo's chronic and acute shortage of decent hotel rooms is right up there with the telephone mess and the traffic chaos as an irritant to life, a drag on the national economy and a sure fire topic of conversation.

As one Egyptian hotel man put it, "A hotel in Egypt is like a gold mine," and the gold rush is on. Almost every major international chain has a hotel under construction here, and a score of other projects by independent developers are also in the works.

Nearly every foreigner here has his favorite hotel horror story. There's the one about the Iranian tour group that arrived with confirmed reservation only to be turned away and sent to Alexandria, 140 miles north, to find rooms. Or the assistant manager who waits in his hotel's coffee shop each morning while the guests who slept on rollaway beds in his office are shooed

Or the airline crew that was turned away after a long flight because the rooms their airline rents permanently had been given to someone else. Or the California tourists urgently notified not to come because the government preempted their rooms for a visiting delegation - a frequent occurrence that escalates confusion into chaos.

Cairo, a metropolitan area of aout 11 million residents and a major political, religious and tourist center, has only about 1,600 hotel rooms that meet international standards.

In the words of the practical guide published by the American University, "do not hope to get reservations at major hotels on short notice. They are generally booked full for months ahead, in or out of the tourist season."

The statistics bear this out. At the Cairo Sheraton, the occupancy rate for February was 99.8 percent and the hotel has stopped taking reservations through April. The lowest occupancy rate among the four major hotels was that of the Mena House Oberoi, at the edge of town near the geat pyramids. where it was 95.4 percent. In the United Staes a hotel can break even at 60 percent occupancy and is doing nicely at 70 percent, hotel officials

Cairo's hotel shortage is more than just an inconvenience. It is a serious drag on an economy in which tourism is the principal earner of foreign currency and a deterrent to the foreign businessmen whom Egypt is trying to

According to the minister of tourism, Moheb Stino, tourism brought in about $640 million last year, more than oil, more than the Suez Canal, more than cotton. But that is only a fraction of what it could be if Egypt had enough airline seats and hotel rooms to meet the demand. Stino set a target of $1.2 billion in tourist revenue by 1980, and the hotels that could make that attainable are under construction. A second Hilton of 900 rooms, more than twice the size of the existing one. is being built right on the Nile in Central Cairo. Sheraton is adding a second tower of 370 rooms to its present building and is working on a second Sheraton near the airport. Meridien, the Air France hotel chain, is also adding a second Cairo hotel near the airport. The Washington-based Marriott Corp. has construction crews working day and night in a rush to complete its first hotel in Egypt on the site of an old Nileside palace. Other chains that have hotels under construction are Hyatt, Intercontinental and Holiday Inns. Most of these will be Egyptian owned, with the foreign hotel chains providing the management services.

Margaret on agenda

London reported a 10-percent increase was likely. Margaret got 55,000 pounds ($95,000), and an announcement of an increase for her is certain to bring a howl from left-wing members of Callaghan's Labor party.

Left-wing Laborites have been the most vocal critics of the princess since she spent a winter vacation recently in the Caribbean with Llewellyn while Britons at home were struggling with winter cold, high prices, unemployment and inflation. They accuse her of not doing her share and of not living up to the standards of conduct expected of the royal family.

Margaret was at Windsor with the queen after an announcement Monday that she had the flu and the royal doctors had put her to bed. Buckingham Palace reported that she got up for lunch Wednesday with the queen and her children. But another announcement said she was not able to attend the confirmation of her daughter, 13-year-old Lady Sarah Armstrong-Jones.

For many of the women in this group the return to work is fraught with trauma. Some never had a marketable skill. Others worked for a few years, then began raising their families. They feel that technology has passed them by and fear having to re-learn or brush up skills that are at least 10 years old. A Second Career Seminar will be held from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Tuesday in the First National Room of The First National Bank.

The seminar, sponsored by Kelly Services, Inc. and The Business and Professional Women's Foundation, is designed to assist either women planning to re-enter the job market or those entering the business world for the first time.

Persons attending the program will hear LaVon Neveau, Kelly Services' San Francisco administrative manager, and Dottie Akers from The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc.

Also scheduled to speak is Judge Barbara Culver of the 318th District, who will discuss proposed state laws that make training available to those seeking second careers, and opportunities for women in the field of Stella Pearson, CPS, an executive secretary with Mobil Oil Co., will speak on the training and opportunities available in the secretarial and clerical field.

The program also will include a fashion show entitled "Making the Wardrobe For Working Women Work," presented by Robinson's of Midland. Mrs. Neveau was appointed county commissioner for the Status of Women Commission in Alameda County, Calif., in 1975. It was here that the plight of displaced homemakers came to her attention. She also was instrumental in helping to push through legislation to establish the first Displaced Homemakers Center in the United States located in Oakland, Calif. She then became pilot project coordinator for the Commission on the Status of Women and the Displaced Homemakers Center. She serves on advisory board of the Displaced Homemakers Center at Mills College in Oakland

There are some new wrinkles in men's wardrobes for spring, but one thing remains constant, season in and season out: good taste.

Good taste. What is it? Well, it isn't spending a lot of money for a new wardrobe. Not necessarily. If you can afford all new things, fine. How wonderful it would be to clean out the closet, get everything new and start your life fresh.

But you don't need to do that to look good

Good taste means clothing that matches you, that matches your mood, that matches itself.

I will share with you what I got for my birthday this year and you can be the judge. My daughter bought me an electric can opener (I've already worn out three), one son wired me a bouquet of spring flowers (I've always loved him best), and the other son bought me a bicycle.

The bicycle has two wheels, three gears, and is guaranteed to shorten my life by ten years. I have never been what you would call athletically inclined. I had to repeat showers. According to my son, "You need this, Mom. After all, you don't jog, swim, ski and you play tennis like you just had a spinal."

Three weeks later, he came over and said, "Why haven't you ridden your bicycle?" "Get serious," I laughed. "You know I haven't had a chance to buy a bicycle wardrobe." "What wardrobe? Why don't you just take off in what you're wearing?"

Jackie Zweiger, Monahans artist, has an exhibit of her art work in the Midland Woman's Club during the month of April.

The artist will be honored at a tea from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday in the Hogan Park clubhouse

Mrs. Zweiger works in almost all media, including painting in watercolors, oil and acrylics, sculpting in clay, wood and bronze, pottery (both wheel-thrown and hand-built). original print making (monoprints, embossing, serigraph and woodcuts), and silver cast and stoneware

She enjoys painting outdoors and on location, whether it is shrimp boats in Port Arthur and Sabine Pass, windmills in West Texas, sand dunes in Monahans, snow and mountains in Anchorage, Alaska, and aged homes and barns. She also paints portraits and still-lifes.

She is active in many professional and community organizations, including the Sand Hills Art Association, Texas Fine Arts Association, Southwestern Watercolor Society, Texas Classroom Teachers Association and the National Education Association. She teaches art at Monahans Junior and Senior High Schools.

A winner of numerous Best in Show awards, Mrs. Zweiger also has had six paintings selected for the TFAA circuit tours of Texas. She has works in many private collections, museums and churches.

No event misses librarians' eyes

By KENNETH TURAN The Washington Post

To William Chase, every day is a

Literally. If its not Be Late for Something Day (Sept. 5). it's National Cheer Up the Sad and Lonely Day (July 11). Or National Ding-a-Ling Day (Dec. 12). Last Tuesday was Be Kind to Your Astrologer Day, and there's Foodservice Distributor Salesman's Day, on Sept. 22. "I like the idea of celebrating," says Chase. No kidding. By day William Chase is the (not necessarily) mild-mannered chief librarian for the Flint Journal in Flint, Mich. By night he turns into the hard-driving editor and publisher of Chase's Calendar of Annual Events, a slightly staggering compendium of 2,500 special occasions scheduled for observance or commemoration.

Under Chase's benevolent gaze, no day, however humble has gone unrewarded. Each of the 365 has at least three observances listed, with the 31 events of May topping the list. And Chase does not stop with merely listing days or weeks (Tableware, March 27-April 1) or even months (National Havasalad, Aug. 1-31). Foreign celebrations, like Up Helly AA', very big in Lerwick, Scotland, on Jan. 31, and the Our Lady of Girsterklaus Procession, more or less a tradition in Luxembourg since 1328, are given their due, and so are various American festivals. The World Cow Chip Throwing Championship, for instance, begins April 19 in Grande, Ohio, a month later, with the august Pennsylvania Bed-Making Championship not beginning in Philadelphia until the 21st of September. There is even a Weeks' Week to celebrate all the celebrating and National Nothing Day to rebel against it.

Before he turned to the annual event business. Chase's main claim to fame was a desire to open a bookstore devoted exclusively to the works of George Bernard Shaw. The following letter from the great man put an end to that: "You cannot run a bookshop on the work of a single author, especially one whose name repels so many customers. You are evidently not a born bookseller. Try selling hot dogs.

Instead of hot dogs, Chase in 1957 turned to calendars because the editors of his newspaper, like editors everywhere, were constantly coming to him with a lot of questions like "what's an idea for a feature story, what's happening next week, is there really a National Peanut Week?" (No. it's a month and begins March 1). His listing earned the sanction of the Chamber of Commerce, which had taken over the chore after the U.S. Department of Commerce gave up on it, and has sold a third of a million copies in the 21 years of its ex-

And though members of the general public are encouraged to send $7.95 to Apple Tree Press, Box 1012, Flint, Beaver, Okla., while the Inernational Mich. 48501, and get 80-page calen-Chicken Flying Meet starts in Rio dars for themselves, most of the recipients are still media people hungry for stories as well as, curiously enough, nursing home folks who think its cheery to serve oldsters lentils during National Lentils for Lent days or gazpacho during Gazpacho Aficionado Time.

Absolutely anyone who wants can write to Chase and request a day if he or she has a reasonable reason for wanting one. There is no limit to the number you can request - Pickle Packers International, for example, has received sanction for Party Time Is Pickle Time, International Pickle Week, Snack-a-Pickle Time, National Pickled Pepper Week and even Holidays Are Pickle Days - and

Chase has a definite weakness for what he calls "the lighter side of celebrations.

"We try not to be hard-nosed about this." he says, thinking perhaps of National Fink Day or National Aardvark Week. "People enjoy celebrating for a lot of different reasons, and if something sounds like fun, like something people would enjoy knowing about, we are quite generous in our selection."

Decidedly more serious are days dubbed special by presidential proclamation - Save Your Vision Week, beginning on March 5, and National Poison Prevention Week, beginning March 19, for example - which are marked by great black dots in Chase's calendar.

Amy Carter's briefing book included additional item

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) - Presidents, diplomats and cabinet officers can't cross the street without first studying briefing books that tell them what to expect on the other side. Amy Carter gets the same treatment.

During her parents' recent Third World tour, the 10-year-old daughter of the president occasionally was seen carrying a small folder labeled "Amy's Briefing Book."

Mary Finch Hoyt. Mrs. Carter's press secretary, reports that Amy's book consisted mostly of her separate schedule of activities for each stop along the route. But it also included a special feature absent from her parents' similar, if bulkier, briefing documents.

For Amy, a coloring book was in-serted among the schedules. Unfortunately, no crayons were provided. So a restive Amy spent much of her time during long flights aboard Air Force One playing cards or a word game called "Hangman." The Carter daughter also canvassed fellow passengers in search of paperback books to read. Alas, the available literature was too grownup for a precocious grade school student.

When Amy signed the guest book Sunday at the Frst Baptist Church of Lagos, Nigeria, she followed her signature by inscribing a simple Perhaps she missed her own cat, Misty Malarkey Ying Yang, who was left behind in Washington.

Zbigniew Brzezinski, the president's serious minded foreign adviser, was asked if he had suggested that the Carters and their party go nightclubing in Rio de Janeiro.
"It wasn't my instigation," he replied, "it was my persuasion."

Asked what has sparked his interest in after-dark revelry, Brzezinski reported: "Because it was fun."

One of America's premier diplomats reached the following assessment of those he dealt with at one stop: "The Nigerians are almost as arrogant as Hamilton Jordan."

The diplomat did not want his name used because: (1) he is quite likely to return to Lagos on official business, and (2) he most assuredly will have future dealings with Jordan, the president's principal assistant.

The crack is repeated here as evidence that Carter's official family is not always bathed in mutual love.

Without policy change, nation must wait 4 years for derailment protection The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON - The chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board said Tuesday that, barring a change in government policy, the nation may have to wait four years for significantly improved protection against catastrophic railroad car derailments.

"Tank cars can be modified to be at least four to six times safer than they are today," said Chairman James B. King as he opened a three-day Board hearing into derailments of tank cars carrying hazardous material.

Regulations issued by the Federal Railroad Administration late last year require jumbe tank cars to be equipped with new coupling devices, head shields, and new insulation by January, 1982. These devices are to be phased-in over the next four years.

King said the problem of derailments of hazardous materials had reached the critical stage. He added that the Safety Board "is not satisfied that those who own the cars and those who historically regulate railroad operations now share that same sense of urgency."

To show the ability of companies to install safety measures such as couplers and headshields faster than the new federal regulations now require, the Safety Board set up a demonstration outside the hearing room. Workers installed a new coupling device in seven and a half minutes and welded on a new head shield in 93 minutes.

The demonstration devices were installed far quicker than industry officials estimated such changes could be made on tank cars.

George A. Falconer, traffic manager for the Gulf Refining and Marketing Co., Houston, Tex., speaking for the American Petroleum Institute, told the hearing that refitting tank cars with self-couplers would take two to three hours, head shields one to three days, and elaborate insulation, from three to Several rail and tank car industry spokesmen also disagreed with King's time estimate. They argued that few private refitting shops would have as many men working on the changes as the demonstrators employed, they also said that scheduling of work on tank cars would not be as easy as the demonstration had indicated.

Falconer said that tank car and rail industries had already geared themselves to the government's timetable and that shortening the time frame "could destroy all progress to date and could con-ceivably delay implementation of the total initial program."

Keep the door closed

The three years of scheduled federal loans to New York City will end June 30.

By then the government will have spent $2.3 billion in all. Seasonal financing is what this originally was called - based on the idea that the city had only a temporary cash flow problem.

Recently, however, New York City officials have been banging on the U.S. Treasury door once more, asking for federal guarantees of long-term bonds it would like to sell. This exposes the seasonal financing scheme as pure pretense; New York City has had more than a cash flow problem all along.

The immediate problem is the need for credit, which gross mismanagement has forfeited. The city simply is not creditworthy. The budget deficit is at least $1 billion, and even larger budget deficits are in the offing.

New York's budget remains in this perpetually red condition because city politicians simply refuse to make hard political decisions, like being tough about unreasonable wage demands and paring down the number of municipal hospitals, which exceeds that in any other city.

These root causes are plain to see, yet the Carter administration proposes that American taxpayers guarantee approximately $2 billion in New York bonds. And who does Washington suggest as the lucky purchasers of these bonds? The city's employees.

A Midland woman, whose

why vote?"

'So why vote?'

that's who, through their pension funds. But the employees aren't fooled: already they have announced they're not buying.

The very idea of the federal government's guaranteeing city bonds is a silly subterfuge to have Washington bail out a bankrupt municipality.

Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal, the architect of the administration's proposal, might as well propose an outright grant of $2 billion to the city.

Meanwhile, New York City officials have been engaging in a little sly blackmail - warning the nation that, if the city is permitted to go under, it will drag down some important United States financial institutions in a national chain reaction of disastrous proportions.

But in reality, it is the other way around. The way to hard times for the nation, it would appear, is through a federal bailout of New York City. This will open a door which cannot be closed.

Other cities will get the message. They quite naturally will cease to worry about the consequences of mismanagement. They can assume they, too, can go begging in Washington

The Carter administration very definitely should close the Treasury door to New York City: too much has been done already and this has made that city more dependent instead of less

ART BUCHWALD Sad, sad post-Watergate story overheard by Art

WASHINGTON - In the film classic, "On the Waterfront," there is a very poignant scene in the back of a taxi between Marlon Brando and Rod Steiger, who plays his brother. Brando, a longshoreman, was a boxer, and he blames Steiger. who is mixed up with the mob, for ruining his chances to be a contender by making him throw a fight.

I was reminded of this scene the other day when I was sharing a taxi with two gentlemen I didn't know. They were in the back seat and I was in the front, and they didn't think I was listening to what they were saying. I was.

Apparently, one of the men had worked for Nixon in the White House, though now he looked quite scruffy. His leather jacket was torn, he wore no tie and there were holes in his shoes

The other man, who I found out later was his brother, was well dressed and wore a camel's-hair coat and an expensive hat. His name was Charley. 'What's bugging you, kid?''

Charley said. "You know damn well what's bugging me. You kept me out of the Watergate scandal and now I don't have a nickel to my name." "I did it for your own good, Terry," Charley said. "I didn't want you to lose your moral compass."

"I could have done a year at Allenwood standing on my head if I knew what was waiting for me when I got out. If you'd have just left me one part of the coverup, Charley, I'd be a big man today. I could have erased the tapes or deep-sixed the stuff from Hunt's safe or been the bag man for the guys who were blackmailing the White House. Paperback houses would be fighting over me now, I'd be on talk shows and the lecture circuit. I might even have my own radio show. There was a goldmine in Watergate and you wouldn't let me get involved.'

"Okay, so I made a mistake," Charley said. "But I only had your best interests at heart. I was trying to keep you from the agony of going in front of a grand jury and then through a trial. I didn't realize how much money the people involved in Watergate would make or how famous they would become. But at the time I though the best thing for you to do was walk away from it.'

"You were my brother, Charley. You should have known how big the payoff would be for a Watergate conspirator. If it hadn't been for you I would now be at prayer breakfasts and in the Bob Hope Golf Classic. I'd be a celebrity and I'd get the best table in a restaurant. They'd have done my novel as a mini-series on television. I would be SOMEBODY."

Charley put his arm on his brother's shoulder. "Maybe it's not too late. Why don't you go to the Special Prosecutor's Office and tell them you want to come clean on Watergate? Tell them the break-in DiLeonardi admitted underworld Nixon worked out the coverup before Haldeman and Ehrlichman even got in the picture."

'It's too late. The Watergate Special Prosecutor's Office has been shut down," Terry said. "They aren't interest in anybody else confessing. Besides, everyone in town knows I had nothing to do with Watergate. That's why no one will give me a job."

'I'm your older brother," Charley said. "Are you going to hold it against me for the rest of your life because I made you keep your nose

"You ruined my life. I'll always be a nobody, the guy who blew the 'Book of the Month Club' because his stupid brother wouldn't let him get involved in the greatest political scandal of all time."

The mob, crooks and Medicaid

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By JACK ANDERSON WASHINGTON - Late last month, Eugene Zipperstein, a pharmacist, was abducted from one of the many clinics he owns in Chicago and shoved into the back of a panel truck. An hour later, he was dumped in the street, his face and body viciously slashed and punctured. He was rushed to the hospital where, at this writing, he remains in critical condition.

It was the fifth violent incident surrounding an investigation of what may be the most profitable Medicaid operation in the country. Four other principals in the case either have been murdered or have died under suspicious circumstances.

Some sources suggest their deaths may mark the beginning of open warfare for the billions of federal health dollars pouring into programs to aid the poor and elderly. Others believe the crime lords are jockeying for even bigger stakes. If they can get their hands on Medicaid money, they will be in a position to siphon off even more staggering sums from the national health insurance program, which is expected to pass Congress in the future.

We present our findings as part of our continuing investigation of the mob's bold tampering with federal funds. There was a time when the criminal godfathers took pains to avoid stirring up the federal government. But the new breed, who are rising to power in the underworld, have their eye on the most bounteous money tree of them all: the U.S. Treasury was Allen Zipperstein, father of the kidnap-knifing victim. In late 1974 a stranger walked into the pharmacy and asked for Allen Zipperstein. When Zipperstein identified himself, the man raised a shotgun over the counter and pulled the trigger. Zipperstein's death was instantaneous.

The first to die in the Chicago case

Three months later, his Medicaid partner, Robert Fields, was murdered in a similar manner as he closed up shop for the night. A shotgun blast out of the dark caught him in the chest and nearly blew him in half. At the time of their deaths, the partners controlled a multimilliondollar medical syndicate which had gained a virtual monopoly over welfare medicine on the south and west sides of Chicago.

According to Chicago police, the shotgun hit-man was William Roderick Hill who has confessed to the killings. He is now awaiting execution.

But here's where the story gets curious. He is said to have told authorities he received $25,000 for the double killings from Dr. Max Kaye. an aged dentist, who owned the Medicaid clinic where Hill was employed as a security guard. The dentist is described by police as a former associate of the dead part-

NICK THIMMESCH

President's trip likely did as much harm as good

WASHINGTON — The President has returned from his big trip, and I think he has done as much mischief as good for the United States. The incongruities and "how comes?" he left in the jet trail of Air Force One are testimony to the no-tion that moralistic Calvinism does not set well in the natural order of Mr. Carter jetted about like a sort of Rev. Mr. Human Rights, uttering this platitude and that, but either missing, or being blind to, some rank sinners indeed.

Let us first consider the African visit, which must have been an Andrew Young production, but by no means deserves a Diplomatic Oscar. For openers, the President did about as much as he could to dislodge the agreement Rhodesian Prime inister Ian Smith signed with three black Rhodesian leaders to phase in black majority rule.

That agreement is already being implemented with the installation of three black Rhodesians to join Smith in administering that nation's top tier of government, and a ministerial council divided equally between blacks and whites.

Some 72 percent of the seats in the Rhodesian parliament are guaranteed to blacks in the next ections. In 10 years, by the agreement, the turnover of control to black Rhodesians will be completed.

Considering the unfortunate pat-tern in which political power has ecome fixed in the new African states, with brutal regimes like Idi Amin's too prevalent, the Rhodesian settlement seems like a boost for

But it doesn't satisfy Andy Young, a well-meaning fellow who can't tell the difference between a non-violent Southern black civil rights worker of the Sixties and today's murderous leaders of the guerrilla groups using Soviet arms to terrorize black

So Jimmy Carter, sounding like a parrot, doesn't even call Rhodesia by its proper name, instead, panders by calling it "Zimbabwe," as preferred by the guerrillas.

By insisting that these terrorist forces, located in Zambia and Mozambique, where Soviet and Cuban advisors coach them, be allowed to participate in a final Rhodesian settlement, Carter goes clearly against the majority black sentiment in Rhodesia.

He also makes a mockery of his oiced concern about the Soviet-Cuban presence in Africa, because in recognizing the guerrillas' so-called "Patriotic Front" (as Andy wants him to), Carter is tacitly accepting the fact that it is backed by the guerrilla terrorists to help shape the future of Rhodesia (Andy keeps warning that they are 40,000 armed men), does he now want the killer elements in the P.L.O. to help determine the future of the Middle East? I hope not. Whilst the President was putting down Rhodesia and South Africa on human rights, which is his privilege. he didn't murmur a word on this score about the African nations he visited - Nigeria and Liberia.

According to Freedom House, which keeps a boxscore among nations on freedom, Nigeria and Liberia rank very low on political rights, lower even than Brazil, which Carter criticized.

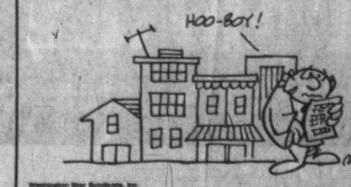

Nigeria's General Olusegun Obasanjo is hardly a model for democratic leadership. In Liberia, the constitution forbids any white person from becoming a citizen or owning land. I asked an official at the Liberian Embassy in Washington about this and was told that this was not racism.

As for Brazil, well, Mr. Carter did far less damage there than in Africa. Like some Calvinist Inspector General, our President noted that the Brazilians were struggling with human rights question. But he didn't stand next to Brazilian President Geisel and give him an en-couraging pat-on-the-back for his government's efforts to improve hum an rights.

Instead, Mr. Carter met with the Mother's appeal denied; grandparents given custody

AUSTIN (AP) - Tiffany Butts, 8, Il remain with her white paternal andparents in Kermit instead of rening her Sioux mother on a South akota reservation, the Texas preme Court has ruled.

Charges of racism marked Berdine Brokenleg's appeal of lower urt decisions placing Tiffany in the stody of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard C.

Tiffany testified in private that she ished to remain with her grandrents.

And that is what a state district judge in Kermit and the El Paso Court of Civil Appeals ordered.

The supreme court upheld the decision Wednesday as free from "reversible error" but did not write a new

Ms. Brokenleg, who lives on the Rosebud Sioux Indian Reservation and works as a teacher's aide, was married to the Buttses' son, Bernard Jr., when Tiffany was born. The marriage was annulled. Bernard Jr. relinquished his parental rights.

"Undoubtedly the evidence shows greater stability in the home of the grandparents who are well able to provide for the physical, mental and spiritual needs of Tiffany," the appeals court said.

According to case records, Tiffany's grandparents and father appeared at the reservation in July 1973 and invited Tiffany and Ms. Brokenlel to accompany them on a vacation. Ms. Brokenleg declined but permit-

The Buttses took Tiffany to Texas

At trial, the Buttses said when they picked up Tiffany, she was living in a house without a toilet and had tonsilitis and ticks in her hair. When she was bathed, dogs were allowed in the water with her, they said.

But a psychiatrist testified that Ms. Brokenleg was a competent mother. He said it would be in the best interest of Tiffany's emotional development to give custody to Ms. Brokenleg.

Ms. Brokenleg's lawyer, Bertram Hirsch of New York City, attacked the district court's finding that "to be reared on an Indian reservation would . . . endanger the physical and emotional well-being of the child."

Appeal papers filed by Hirsch allege the judge based his decision in part on the fact that Tiffany did not look like an Indian.

"Race is inherently suspect as a criterion for a decision," Hirsch said. He said the lower court decisions were "based on an arbitrary condemnation of a way of life, of an Indian culture and society and government."

"Parents have a fundamental, constitutionally protected right to ap-propriately educate their children in-to the way of life, customs, traditions, culture and history of the society from which the parent receives ethnic and cultural identity." he said.

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) -An international program is putting frijoles onto Mexican tables and cash into the tills of American firms. It's also putting a bitter taste into the mouths of labor union bosses.

It's called in-bond industry and it allows non-Mexican companies to assemble their products in Mexico. using cheaper Mexican labor, and then return the finished product to its home country. The sale of the finished product in Mexico is prohibited.

William L. Mitchell, director of marketing for the Antonio J. Bermudez Industrial Park located here. says American labor unions are blind if they think the in-bond program is taking away jobs that might be done in the United States.

'Just one facility in our park is operated by RCA. It makes XL100 picture tubes. We have factual information that shows there are 28,000 persons in the United States working for companies that are supplying parts that are used in making these tubes."

Because RCA can assemble the tubes in Mexico, using cheaper labor. the company is able to compete worldwide with the Japanese electronics firms who can market their products at lower prices," he added.

Mitchell said the program is benefiting American labor as much as it is American business. "If labor ever is successful in killing the program I'm certain they'll regret it.

"It will mean that these same companies will be moving their operations to Taiwan or Singapore rather than having only one assembly plant in Mexico," he said.

The program has created industrial complexes that employ more than 60,000 Mexicans, mostly women between the ages of 18 and 21, in more than 400 plants located in border cities from the Gulf of Mexico to Mexico's west coast.

A total of 28,000 persons work in two industrial parks here, and that figure is expected to more than double within the next five years.

Both Mexican government and in-dustry officials in the in-bond program has had a social effect on the country, especially in cities such as Juarez where unemployment is near

We would like to have more industry here that uses more men, but the industries currently located here need persons who can do tedious, intricate work.

Many men have been hired for various positions, but most of them find they don't have the nerves to keep up with the pace," said Mitchell. The 90 percent female employment rate at the parks in Juarez may change soon though, because General Motors is building a massive installation at the Bermudez park that will hire primarily men.

Ciudad Juarez Mayor Manuel Quevado Reyes isn't that worried about the social problems the industries have caused

"We will wrestle that problem when we have to, but what we have to combat now is unemployment. We would have a much worse social problem if the 28,000 persons working at the parks now suddenly were without jobs," he said. Mitchell said there are several reasons American companies want to open in-bond plants in Mexico other than because the labor is cheaper. He says it has proven to be more efficient and reliable.

Suit filed to stop college Maggie Duncan bonds on new construction

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Rep. Wayne Peveto, D-Orange, has filed a suit he hopes will keep 17 Texas state colleges and universities from issuing bonds on new construction for the next 10 years.

Peveto told a news conference Wednesday that Comptroller Bob Bullock has until June 1 to allocate the next 10 years' proceeds from the state 10- cents property tax to the colleges and universities.

"Shortly thereafter, the institutions currently participating in the fund can be expected to issue bonds secured by their estimated receipts from the fund. Because obligations under the bonds would then have to be honored, the only way to stop the commitment of funds over the next decade must necessarily come through court action," Peveto said. "The effect of the suit will be to put the pledged tax proceeds under a legal cloud and the issuance of bonds will likely be delayed.'

Peveto said he hoped the effect of his suit will be to repeal the 10 cents state property tax and finance new college buildings out of the state's general revenue fund. He said it has been estimated the 10 cents tax will bring in about $550 million the next decade. "This money will build one and a half times the new building space recommended to be needed over the next decade. Such tremendous waste of the taxpayers' money must be stopped." Peveto said.

Jimmy Ray Fox wants to work on appeal

Jimmy Ray Fox, who received a 50year sentence after pleading guilty to the murder of Janice Abernathy, said in a letter to the Midland County district clerk that he wants to work on an appeal of the conviction.

In the letter, received Wednesday, Fox asked the clerk to send him the numbers of his case and indictment because he "would like to start working on my appeal. District Attorney Vern Martin said Wednesday an appeal from Fox would not come as a surprise to him.

Attorney Tom Parker, who represented Fox, said there was no plan for an appeal when Fox was transferred from the Midland County Jail to the Texas Department of Corrections.

Parker said he thinks Fox plans to get the records of the case for a possible appeal later on the basis of whether the county court had jursidiction to certify him an adult for trial. Fox was 16 at the time of his Mrs. Abernathy died from multiple

Wholesale prices increase in March

WASHINGTON (AP) - The outlook for grocery shoppers improved slightly as wholesale prices rose at a slower rate last month than they had earlier this year, the Labor Department said today.

Wholesale prices rose 0.6 percent in March, which could lead to an annual inflation rate of just over 7 percent if such prices increase at the March rate for the rest of the year.

There was a 1.1 percent increase in wholesale prices in February, the biggest rise in more than three years.

Wholesale food prices rose 0.8 percent in March after jumps of 1.1 percent in January and 2.9 percent in February, the Labor Department said. The price of other consumer goods rose 0.5 percent last month. Economists watch the monthly wholesale price report closely because price increases are usually passed on to consumers. Consumer prices increased 1.4 percent during the first two months of this year.

The Labor Department said wholesale prices for pork, processed poultry, refined sugar and fresh fruit turned downward in March after going up in the previous month. And the rate of increase in prices for beef and veal, eggs and dairy products was less in March than it was in February.

Prices turned up in March after February declines for vegetable oil products, flourbased mixes and milled rice. Candy prices increased. Coffee prices went down.

Prices for long-lasting goods, such as autos, furniture and jewelery, went up 0.6 percent in March. Higher prices were recorded for cosmetics, alcoholic beverages and luggage. Prices of gasoline, home heating oil and tires went down.

The Labor Department calculates these prices by surveying manufacturers and fnding out what they have charged retailers, processors and others for goods that are ready for the consumer. It is called the producer price index for 189. That means that producers are charging $189 for products that cost $100 in the base period of 1967.

In a preview of the March wholesale price report, the Agriculture Department said prices received by farmers rose 4 percent in the month ending March 15 after going up 3 percent the month before. The biggest increases were for cattle, hogs, soybeans and oranges.

Wholesale and farm price increases are usually passed on to consumers. Economists say some of the food increases show up at supermarkets almost immediately. Last month, the Agriculture Department raised its 4 to 6 percent estimate of consumer food price increases for this year to 6 to 8 percent. President Carter told a reception for union members Wednesday that "we are going to have to do something about inflation.

Noting last year's decline in the unemployment rate, the president said that, unless inflation is contained, "We are all going to be robbed of the improvements we have made."

Congressmen who met earlier with Carter described him as adamantly opposed to a bill to increase farm price supports because he thinks it will boost food prices even further.

Presidential press secretary Jody Powell said Carter will deliver a speech next week about "inflation, the dollar and energy.'

Powell said Carter probably has not decided on all the specifics of the anti-inflation plan, but that holding down this year's annual federal pay hike is under consideration.

The government has switched its emphasis from the unemployment problem to inflation since the jobless rate has fallen from 7 percent to 6.1 percent in the last year.

Federal Reserve Chairman G. William Miller estimated last week that inflation will be from 6.5 to 7 percent this year, a higher rate than the 6.3 percent the administration forecast in January.

New York newspaper goes under

NEW YORK (AP) - The Trib, the city's newest newspaper three months ago, is suddenly the country's latest dead newspaper.

The paper, which sported a conservative outlook and the slogan "It Should Have Happened Sooner,' folded Wednesday when publisher Leonard Saffir failed to produce a $23,000 certified check to pay the printing bill for today's edition.

"There will be no Trib tomorrow," a dejected Saffir told reporters Wednesday. "I think New York has lost a heck of a lot more than I did."

The Trib's demise came despite possible strikes at the city's other three large newspapers. Staffers thought the added readers from a strike might save the paper.

Saffir said the paper failed because of this winter's harsh weather, internal politics in the newspaper's board of directors, delivery problems and "shortsightedness" by New York advertisers. Saffir said efforts would be made to revive the newspaper, but he said the prospects for any such revival were 'grim." He said investors spent more than $4 million, and an additional $1 million would be needed to put the

Cleveland schools ask help

CLEVELAND (AP) -With nowhere else to turn for financial relief, Cleveland's embattled public school system asks voters today to increase property taxes by $30 million a year to keep schools open. Passage of the measure

- which would boost school taxes on a $25,000 house by more than 25 percent, adding $87 to the present tax of $310 to $320 would enable the district to use the anticipated tax revenue as collateral for loans.

Efforts over past weeks to borrow from banks failed. As a result the 113,000-pupil school system could not meet last Friday's $5 million payroll for 11,000 fulltime employees, including 5,400 teachers. In addition, the district has outstanding debts of almost $7 million, some dating back to late last

Only limited funds will be available from the state between now and the end of May, not even enough to meet the biweekly payrolls. "We have used up every avenue up to this point short of a levy. Now all doors are closed," said Arnold Pinkney, president of the school Polls opened at 6:30 a.m. and close at 7:30 p.m. at 649 precincts. About 30 percent of the city's 290,000 registered voters are expected to cast ballots.

Newport not sure it wants Navy to come back

By GEORGE C. WILSON The Washington Post

NEWPORT, R.I. — This historically Navy town — which feared it would sink when the fleet abandoned it as a homeport four years ago — is being asked to welcome back four

But because of a sea change in public attitude. Newport now believes it has had about all the Navy it can stand. The town does not want House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D. Mass., to do it any more favors by pressuring the Navy to send the whole fleet back to Newport where it could be near Massachusetts shipyards for repair work.

The Navy, after ordering the Newport in 1973 to concentrate operations in Norfolk, Va., reversed course last month and announced it is sending four warships back to Newport "to improve the strategic dispersal of the Atlantic Fleet."

The Navy announcement said the first of the four ships, either destroyers or frigates, will arrive this fall. "The Navy anticipates that bet-ween 1,000 and 1,200 officers and enlisted men will be moved. Between 40 and 50 percent of these are ex-pected to have dependents, and these families are expected to reside in available Navy housing and in nearby civilian communities."

To some Newporters, that Navy announcement brought back warm memories of the good old days. But to a seemingly larger number it was bad

Most Newporters do not seem willing to return to the era of "Blood Alley," an area of garish bars and loud music and prostitutes; of drunken sailors slugging it out on the pavement, of shore patrol vans wheeling onto the scene, sirens screaming.

Since the last of the fleet sailed out of Newport in 1974, Blood Alley has reformed. It is a prim street of elegant shops and stone walks. A sailor would go thirsty if stranded on his old street today.

Tobacco heiress Doris Duke has helped change the tone of the town by contributing money to restore colonial homes all over Newport. Urban renewal, which was just getting started when the fleet sailed away, has made a big difference, too, by transforming the Newport waterfront into attractive shops and fancy restaurants.

Outsiders seem to like this new Newport. The Chamber of Commerce says the number of tourists jumped from 890,000 in 1974 to 3 million in 1977 - thanks in part to the America's Cup yachting classic.

Members of Newport's power structure fear too many sailors might scuttle this orderly transition.

"Look," said one Navy captain, explaining why he can appreciate the fears of Newport's leaders. "They had a reception the other night at the Sheraton for the crew of the new frigate Oliver Perry when she came through here. There was lots of booze, sailors got drunk. Then there were fights inside and out in the parking lot. Who the hell wants to go through that again?"

Newport's Democratic Mayor Humphrey "Harp" Donnelly said he is a big supporter of the Navy, still the biggest employer here because of all its land installations like the Naval War College and research laboratories, but he fears what would happen if the full 35-ship fleet should

"They couldn't handle it, and we couldn't handle it," said Donnelly, principally because there is not enough housing available. Anything more than about eight ships, said the mayor, would overwhelm the town's housing and its schools.

Not everybody, of course, is against the Navy sailing back to Newport in full force. "I've seen the yachtsmen get drunk, too," said Buck Ossick, owner of the Pier Restaurant on the Newport waterfront.

There are plenty of tourists in Newport during the summer, said Ossick, but "it's still a long, cold winter. So everything that can help I think is beneficial." The real test of how well Newport can do without the fleet, said Mayor Donnelly, will come this summer when there will be no extravaganza to draw people here. Last summer the America's Cup races were the big

Annual Scout Exhibition scheduled here Saturday

From canoeing to cooking, the scouts of the Chaparral district, Boy Scouts of America, will be showing their stuff at the annual Boy Scout Exposition Saturday at the Midland County Exhibit Building, according to James Stovall of the Buffalo Trail Council

State Rep. Tom Craddick will be the speaker for the opening ceremony, Stovall said.

'Scouts are hoping the weatherman will provide perfect weather with cloudless skies and spring tem-peratures," Stovall said. Midland residents can see Cub packs, scout troops and Explorer posts demon-strating their skills, he added.

Over 50 original exhibits involving more than 500 scouts are expected. The hours are from noon to 5 p.m.,

Stovall said. From the traditional scout activities of camping, cooking and pioneering to the more sophisticated skills, scouts will compete throughout the afternoon for ribbons and awards. Blue ribbons will be awarded for first place, red for second, and yellow for third. Three presidential awards will be given to the top pack, troop and post.

Bill to double Carter's personal staff defeated

By MARY RUSSELL The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - A White Housebacked bill authorizing the president to nearly double the size of his top personal staff was defeated in the House.

Republicans jumped on the bill as contrary to a pledge by President Carter to decrease the size of the White House staff. They also gleefully twitted their Democratic colleagues with their own words taken from debates in past years when Democrats were complaining about the size of the White house staff under Presidents Nixon and Ford.

And finally they accused the White House of bringing the bill up under a procedure that prevented amend-ments, in order to protect the size of the staff increase.

The procedure preventing members from amending a bill re-quires a two-thirds vote for passage and is usually used for noncontroversial legislation. But the 207-to-188 vote came closer to outright defeat than the two-thirds needed for passage, as 65 Democrats joined 123 Republicans in voting against the measure.

Rep. Herbert Harris, D-Va., the measure's prime sponsor, said he would now take the bill to the Rules Committee, the normal procedure for bringing bills to the floor and one which requires only a majority vote for passage.

Harris blamed bad publicity for the defeat. He said the bill should be viewed not as increasing the White House staff but as an attempt to put a numerical ceiling on top staff levels, something that has not been done

The bill would increase from 55 to 100 the number of positions on the president's personal staff at the supergrade level (GS16 and above. earning from $42,500 to $57,500). It would also authorize hiring unlimited employees below the GS16 level, unlimited consultants, and staff for the wives of the president and vice

"The White House wanted a general authorization with no number." Harris said. "They thought a specific requirement was being put on them that had never been put on anyone else."

Harris also contended the White house would have to account for the first time for the employees it "borrows" from other government agen-cies and report to Congress on the number and cost of those detailed from other agencies and those hired as consultants.

The Congressional Budget Office estimated the bill could result in a more than 30 percent increase in the cost of White House staff — from $29.5 million to $38.1 million in fiscal 1979, if all the positions were filled.

But White House spokesmen denied all the positions would be filled. They claim the staff has been trimmed by nearly 30 percent since Carter took office 13 months ago — from 485 to 351 people. They said the bill was merely an authorization, not what was really being asked for, and according to Patricia Bario. White House press aide, the White House is asking for only $16.9 million for the year.

Hugh Carter, special assistant to the president for administration, was quoted as saying there were no plans to increase the staff level significantly, but "we wanted to have plenty of flexibility in the future in the event of an emergency like World War III or something and needed to increase the staff."

During the debate, Rep. Benjamin A. Gilman, R-N.Y., said the White House "coaxed" the Democratic

An aide to the Democratic leadership confirmed that the White House wanted no amendments. "The White House may have been worried that this thing would turn partisan and they would start playing with numbers, but we thought it was non-controversial." Harris said. However, he admitted some adjustment in the numbers may be made before the bill is brought back.

Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo, argued that the intention was to update a 1939 authorization that now allows only 14 assistants to the president, an authorization that has largely been ignored.

Two Democrats, Republican trio ask Mahon seat

Texas Republicans think their best bet for picking up an additional congressional seat in 1978 may be in the 19th District, but there will be in the district that includes Lubbock and stretches along the New Mexico border from Deaf Smith County to Midland and a part of Odessa will be the first all-out campaign since Mahon first took office in 1935.

There will be three Republican candidates in the GOP primary and two Democrats in their primary. Some see the possibility of a GOP runoff due to the campaign activity of

At any rate Mahon's successor will not be settled until the November

The Republican race is mainly between Jim Reese, 46-year-old former Odessa mayor who got 45 percent of the vote gainst Mahon in 1976, and George W. Bush, 31-year-old Midland independent oilman and son of the former ambassador to China and former director of the Central Intelligence Agency. Also in the race is Joe Hickox, 41, of Lubbock, a retired Air Force officer who formerly commanded now-closed Reese Air Force Base Reese, now an Odessa stockbroker. has been traveling extensively, stressing the plight of farmers in the 19th District. He is outspoken on "the ongoing follies of the Carter administration in Washington in terms of energy and practically everything else." He has called for an across-the-percent parity for farmers through reducing production costs.

Bush claims being the youngest of the candidates is an asset because "people are ready for a young, energetic congressman." He acknowledges that his father's wellknown name will give him an identification edge but stresses that he will be his own man. He says he is a conservative who will work for three things — keeping the government out of the free market system, a sound energy policy calling for deregulation, and agriculture policies that will give farmers a living wage.

Hickox, another staunch conservative, said the concept of in-dividualism is being eroded by modern society. He is critical of U.S.-Soviet relations and claims the United States has fallen behind in military strength.

preacher. Kent Hance, 35, Lubbock attorney gave up a Texas Senate seat to make the race. His opponent is the Rev. Morris Sheats, 37, a flamboyant Lubbock minister who has asked his flock to tithe to his campaign as they do to the church.

Hance is running largely on his record in the Senate, stressing that he was instrumental in protecting rural West Texas districts from a cut in school aid and in obtaining $8 million in state aid for the Lubbock County Hospital District. He says Democrats have an automatic edge in Washington when it comes to the legislative process — "it takes Democrats to get things done in

Hance said he believes his friendship with most members of the Texas congressional delegation can help make him an effective first-termer in

NEW YORK (AP) — Cutton futures No.3 were higher in midday dealings today.

The average price for strict low middling 21-18 lach spot cotton declined a points to $3.81 cents a pound Wednesday for the 10 leading markets, according to the New York Cutton Exchange.

Middlay athermon prices were $1.35 to market mixed

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market turned mixed today after the rally of the past two sessions bogged down amid inflation worries.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 12.04 points in the last two trading days. was off 1.65 at 761.43 by noontime today.

Gainers held a 3-2 edge on losers at the New York Stock Exchange, but the margin had shrunk from better than 2 to 1 at the outset. The Dow rose about points at the opening on the momentum of the recent rally, but by mid-morning it had turned back. One factor that apparently encouraged selling was a gloomy assessment of the inflation outlook issued by the Council on Wage and Price Stability, which said the underlying inflation rate seemed "hopelessly stuck" in the 6 to 7 percent range. The council's report also asserted, "The risks of higher future inflation are far greater than the possibility of deceleration."

Kennecott Copper topped the active list, up 1½ at 28%. Curtiss-Wright Corp., which is waging a heated proxy battle against Kennecott management, said it would seek to have the company buy back half its stock for $40 a share if it prevails. The NYSE's composite index managed a .04 gain to 50.13. At the American Stock Exchange, meanwhile, the market value index cracked the 130 level for the first time since it was established in 1973, climbing .71 to 130.56.

Volume on the Big Board reached 12.98 million shares by noontime, against 10.46 million at the same point on Wednesday.

MARCH OF DIMES 1989 poster child Tracy Greenwood, 14, of Midland greets Denise Nankivell of Elizabethville, Pa., this year's poster child, near the Aquila hangar at Midland Regional Air Terminal. Denise visited in Midland this past weekend. The 5year-old girl was born with vitamin Dresistant rickets. And when she began walking, the weight of her body caused her legs to bow. Surgery straightened her legs, and drug therapy and braces help to strengthen them. (Staff Photo)

AIM testing set next week

The Aptitude Inventory Measurement Service testing program will be administered April 13 through 15 at Midland College.

The testing program is designed to assist students in determining where their interests lie. The tests uncover areas of suitability as well as interest. They also incorporate other talents which may be included in the students' overall study program.
"The possibilities for outlining career goals through this process are helpful to students who have not been able to decide on what career they wish to pursue," Dr. Elizabeth Robinett, one of the counselors who works with the AIMS Foundation, said. "For instance, if testing reveals that a student would be suited to a career in biology, it may also uncover that he is good at working with people. This might indicate a career in pharmaceutics where the individual would work in an executive capacity coordinating people and resources," she said. Parents or students interested in applying for the test program may call Dr. Robinett at 684-7851. extension 123. An application and brochure will be sent on request. The April testing program already has been filled but applications are being taken on a stand-by basis should vacancies arise. Registration for all AIMS testing should be done well in advance.

Students score at state event

Several Midland and Big Spring students distinguished themselves in competition at the recent 14th annual Texas French Symposium held at Midland College. Seventh, eighth and ninth grade students from Trinity School of Midland were ranked fourth out of schools with enrollments of 75 or less. The Trinity Girls' Chorale took first place in choral ensemble competition.

The singers, accompanied by Kelly Callaway on the guitar, were Ginny Blakemore, Miss Callaway. Heather Dunbar, Angela Essman, Gilley Estes, Andrea Freeman, Nell Fullinwider, Renay Harger, Lyndee Knox, Kristi McClatchy, Michelle Mc-Fadden, Melissa McFadden, Suzanne Saikin, Tina Stimmel and Janet Stone. Miss McClatchy also placed second in the ballet event, while Miss Dunbar won third place in prose, level I, and Miss Callaway earned honorable mention in prose, level II. Lee High School student Susan Landenberger took first place in instrumental solo competition, and Larry McGlynn, also of Lee High, received a firstplace rating in extemporaneous speaking, level I. Midland High School student Claire Iverson placed first in vocabulary, level II, while David Fisk of Midland High earned third place in that event. Elizabeth Mashburn, also of Midland High, received honorable mention in ballet. Tom Boswell of Edison Freshman School won fourth place in choral solo. Elaine Brown of Big Spring took third place in the traditional costumes event, while Big Spring student Forrest Pobst earned a fourth-place rating in projects.

Administrators plan to attend conference

COLLEGE STATION - Five Midland Independent School District administrators are planning to attend the conference on Leadership in Free Enterprise Education Friday and Saturday at Texas A&M University. Dayle Binnion, James Bradford, Robert Carter, Merritt Hudson and Bertha Mae Starks are among 200 Texas school officials registered for the conference, sponsored by the university's Center for Education and Research in Free Enterprise. The administrators will receive information to assist them and teachers in planning courses in free enterprise and economics. Subject areas to be discussed include new education laws for free enterprise courses, staff development guidelines and program content.

IRS auditing Jersey state policemen NEWARK, N.J. (AP) - The Internal Revenue Service is auditing almost all the 17,000 tax returns submitted by New Jersey state policemen, a Newark newspaper reports.

Sunday's Star-Ledger said the audit is the result of a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision holding that troopers must pay income taxes on the $15 a day meal allowance they had been routinely receiving for

By MARGOT HORNBLOWER The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - Seven years ago, the Boeing Co. lost a bruising battle with environmentalists over the supersonic transport jet.

Today, the same environmental concerns that killed the company's pet project are bringing it millions of dollars worth of business. "Our company loves to respond to a national need," says Garry L. Quinn, director of Boeing's engineering and construction division. "Not necessarily because we're patriotic. We've found you can do well by doing good. In the past few years, Boeing has gotten into the garbage recycling business, built noise mufflers for ower plants, and designed a floating facility to desalt water for the Arabs. Using technology developed for human wastes on spacecraft, it has even come up with a sludge-drying process for sewage plants. And Boeing is not alone. Indeed, while much of corporate America vigorously fights environmental regulation, a growing number of companies have discovered that pollution can mean profits. More than 600 companies — including some notorious polluters — are cashing in on the environmental movement. From individual entrepreneurs to billion-dollar corporations, they are manufacturing a dazzling array of pollution control devices, as well as providing engineering, construction and other services.

'Federal legislation spawned a brand new industry," says Kenneth Leung of Smith, Barney, Harris, Upham & Co., one of a dozen Wall Street specialists on environmental companies. "This is definitely a growth industry. It has an extremely bright future. According to the Council of Environmental Quality, $40.6 billion was spent for pollution control last year — 50 percent by industry, 30 percent by government and 20 percent directly by consumers. The Commerce Department estimates that antipollution spending increased 86 percent from 1972 to 1976 — an average of 17 percent a year, compared to 10 percent for the gross national product. And, while industry claims that environmental laws cost jobs, it appears they may create more than they destroy. Environmental Protection Agency figures show 20,318 jobs affected by plant closures since 1971. A 1974 National Academy of Sciences study found 677,900 persons employed in the pollution control industry - a figure that has reportedly increased since then. 'We're a baby of the environmental movement a war baby." says Ira Kukin, an immigrant carpenter's son who became a millionaire thanks to pollution laws.

KUKIN, a research chemist, started a small company 15 years ago to make gasoline additives. But with the rise of environmentalism, "we saw a great oportunity," he recalls. With several researchers, he developed a chemical process to collect the dust from power plant smokestacks. Now the company, Apollo Chemical Corp. in Whip pany, N.J., has grown from 10 to 400 employes. Annual sales, now $30 million. have increased 50 percent a year over the last decade. Kukin has offices in England, Italy, Spain, Germany, Israel and Iran. If the federal government weren't forcing utilities to clean up air pollution, Kukin says, "our sales would be 1-or-2 million dollars a year. Everything we do is because someone has a gun to someone's head."

Big companies are also getting into the business.

Corning Glass Works, for example, employs 350 people in a new factory making parts for catalytic converters. Union Carbide makes treatment systems for city sewage plants. Some corporations, forced to clean up their own ollution, found they can market their new expertise. Exxon and Shell make chemicals to clean up oil spills. The Dupont Co. sells air pollution devices to 70 textile and nitric acid plants. General Motors peddles its catalytic converters to American Motors. "Get the waste out without wasting money," advises the FMC Corp. in a recent magazine ad for its Environmental Equipment division. Thus, the same company which was charged by the Justice Department last year with spilling a dangerous chemical, carbon tetrachloride, into the Ohio River, is able to boast about its equipment to clean up steel mill waste water and coal plant smokestacks.

GIVEN an ever-expanding market, the environmental industry has experienced cutthroat competition. Newcomers bid low to attract their first contracts, thus forcing down prices industry-wide. Texas Water Plan refuses to die

By MIKE COCHRAN

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - On an otherwise humdrum day in 1968, the Texas Water Development Board unveiled a broad, bold scheme to meet the state's long range water needs.

It was called, simply, the Texas Water Plan. "There is not a water resource plan of this magnitude or complexity in the world today." the board said in releasing the 50-year water document a decade ago.

"Yet Texas' water needs for the future can be met with nothing less sweeping."

Seldom, it was noted at the time, had such a document, so vital in nature, so painstakingly conceived, been understood by so few. "A lesson in frustration." snorted one water plan-was grinning over how well he'd done, Dave Goltz was shaking his head over the pitch that got away and Gene Mauch was muttering something about his grandmother.

THAT'S HOW the 1978 major league baseball season began Wednesday night as Abbott scattered five hits over 61/2 innings to help the Seattle Mariners trim the Minnesota Twins 3-2 in the Kingdome.

"I'm looking for a really good year," the big right-hander joked.

Abbott, who led Seattle's pitchers with a 12-13 record last season, got relief help in the seventh inning from Enrique Romo, who quelled a dramatic Minnesota rally in the ninth to preserve the victory.

'I got a little tired and started getting my pitches up," explained Ab-bott, who was greeted by a standing ovation from the crowd of 45,235 when he left the game with Seattle ahead

"But I'm really glad about this. I'm usually an awfully slow starter," he Abbott was buoyed by shortstop Craig Reynolds' two-run homer in the second inning that staked the secondyear Mariners to a 3-0 lead.

"For a Punch-and-Judy hitter like me, that's mind-boggling," said Reynolds, who hit just four homers last season. "I was just trying to meet the ball. The pitch was something up and, for me, I hit it good."

GOLTZ, THE Twins' ace righthander, went the distance Wednesday night but knew he had 'The first two innings everything I threw was up," said Goltz, who was 20-11 with 19 complete games last season. "I threw Reynolds a nothing fastball. Anybody can hit those out.

The rest of the way I was okay." Minnesota Manager Mauch was generally pleased with his club's

"It took Goltz a while to get settled down," Mauch said. "He threw three straight balls and then laid one in (to Reynolds). My grandmother could hit a home run in this ballpark.

I've ever seen him pitch. He threw a lot of ground balls. Some of them were hit pretty hard, but they were ground balls nevertheless.

THE TWINS threatened in the ninth when Glenn Adams blasted a leadoff double off Romo. Bombo Rivera, who came in to pinch-run for Adams, moved to third as Butch Wynegar's grounded out. Dan Ford then flied to Ruppert Jones, and the center fielder's perfect throw to the plate held Rivera at third.

Romo then got Mike Cubbage to pop out to eatcher Bob Stinson in front of the Seattle dugout, ending the game.

Minnesota had closed to within 3-2 in the seventh on Cubbage's hit-andrun single that scored Dan Ford from first base. The Twins had scored in the fifth inning on consecutive two-out doubles by rookie Willie Norwood and that he ignored a doctor who wanted to extract a rib and outdueled a hypnotist over a steak last year, was among 77 challengers anxious to test Nieklaus' prediction as the tournament opened today at the Augusta National Golf Club.

Seattle's first run came in the first inning on Lee Stanton's two-out RBI single that scored Bruce Bochte, who had doubled.

Nicklaus is not one to make rash statements, even though he has won this event a record five times and is the favorite virtually every time he plays in one of the four major tournaments.

On the eve of this event, though, he offered this careful assessment: "In the last 15 Masters, excluding my first one as a pro and my three as an amateur, I've felt probably 10 times that I've come in here playing as well as I can. I won half of those times.

"Now my game is better than it ever was and I'm as well prepared as can be.'

There's more. He is off to his best start ever, having won twice and finished second twice in his last four starts. He is rested yet tuned, having bypassed the last two tour events and played several practice rounds at Augusta. He is driving the ball 10-15 yards farther, having returned this year to a driver with a smaller angle on the club face.

And, perhaps most important, he is hungry.

He points toward the major tour-naments (the others are the PGA and the U.S. and British Opens). He was beaten by Tom Watson twice last year, here and at the British Open. It has been two years since he won the last of his 14 "Big Four" events.

Watson is back to defend his title. although he has missed the cut in two of his last three starts. Hubert Green, the U.S. Open champion, seems to be at the top of his game. So does Severiano Ballesteros, the 20-year-old Spaniard who has dominated European tournaments for the past two years and won his first

Also on hand are Arnold Palmer, a four-time winner here; Johnny Miller, still in a deep slump, and Lee Trevino, who has won every Big Four event except the Masters.

A player who also figures to be in the chase is Pate, the 24year-old Floridan who shot to the top of the pack by winning the 1976 U.S Open, then was plagued by arm injuries last year. He is healthy again, and wants another major title

"I like to always feel like I'm due," said Pate, who won the Southern Open late last year and has been playing well this year.

'When you win a major tournament at 22, it can make it hard to come out every week to make a living. The majors are more important. They're worth more to you. I'd love to win the Masters," he said.

Pate figures he is lucky to be intact.

got when shoulder and arm ailments sidelined him for much of 1977.

He pulled a muscle in his right shoulder trying to match drives with Weiskopf, and as he kept playing, that injury led to a pinched nerve that effected his elbow and wrist. Lifting weights, swimming and stretching exercises eventually cured him. But he got plenty of peculiar offers along

"One doctor in Madison, Wis., wanted to take out a rib," he recalled.
"A lady suggested I put castor oil on a rag and sleep on it. One doctor wanted to cut the band around my wrist.

"Then once I was eating dinner in Boston and this hypnotist came over and sat down. He wanted to hypnotize me over a steak. I was eating with my head down, trying not to look at him. I almost had to leave.

"I didn't look at him a couple of times, but I was worried sick that something might have happened. I was so worried that I forgot about my shoulder and played pretty good the next day.

"I know all the letters and advice were sincere, but some of these treatments were unbelievable. I think the nly thing that wasn't suggested was seeing a psychiatrist.'

Midland Cubs could get help

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz.-Acquisition of infielder Rodney Scott and his assignment to Wichita may mean the Midland Cubs may pick up unexpected infield help before breaking

Scott was sent to Chicago as part of the recent deal which sent pitcher Pete Broberg to Oakland. Scott was with the A's last season and is one of the last surviving members of the Kansas City Royals noble experiment of a few years ago, the Baseball

WICHITA MANAGER Harry Dunlop says he doesn't know yet what effect Scott will have on his plans, 'For one thing, I haven't even seen him yet. He hasn't reported.

Midland Manager Jim Saul says he's not counting on anybody "until we board the plane Monday to fly to San Antonio" for the Texas League opener.

'I've seen too many things happen in the last few days," he added.

Last season was a good example. He wound up with Karl Pagel, called up at the last minute from Pompano Beach, largely as a result of Saul's refusal to budge from camp without him, and first baseman Tony Pepper was added to the roster on loan from San Francisco

"EVEN WHEN you leave camp. you can't tell whether you have a strong club, no matter how good it looks because you don't know how many AAA players the other teams have sent to their Texas League teams," Saul observed.

Most of the late changes will involve itchers. There are more than 60 listed on the four minor league rosters and about a third of those will be

Right now, the only familiar face to Midland fans on the Cubs' roster is first baseman Aaron Kandall, batted .273 last year. Backing up Hank are Gary Krug, a 6-4 lefty from Colorado Springs, Colo., and Pete Van Horn, a 6-4 switch hitter who was the University of Arizona's co-player of the year last season.

KRUG IS out of the University of Oklahoma and led the Sooners in runs, doubles, 16; homers, 11; and RBI, 45, while batting .329 last year.

CATCHING CANDIDATES include Chuck Peoples, up from Geneva; Mike Shepston, a rookie from the Phoenix area; Greg Keatley, who played at Pompano last year and was on the Chicago spring squad earlier.

As for pitching, there are too many still to prune from the Wichita roster to even speculate as to whom on the present Midland roster might stick.

Right now, nothing is very conclusive, but if nothing else, Saul can be consoled by the fact that the suspense will be over in a few more

Hickerson came as after thought

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz.-Remember Steve Kemp? He was the No. 1 pick in the free agent draft a couple of seasons ago and hailed as a can't miss prospect, in the tradition of No. 1

Yet, strangely enough, the guy who broke the Pac-8 batting mark of the University of Southern California star a year later, wasn't even drafted. Signed as an after thought, Tim Hickerson has been on the Midland Cubs roster most of the spring and gamble. The 5-11, 185-pound first baseman-utfielder batted .296 at Bradenton in the Rookie League last summer after leading the Pac-8 with a record breaking .424 at California-Berkeley to outdo Kemp's mark.

Last fall. Hickerson was one of the op hitters in the Arizona Instructional League with a .347 mark, from Midland this spring.

Just one more oddity to the Hickerson saga. His dad teaches at USC and lives in Oakland, which is quite a commuting trick.

Rumors fly just as fast and wrecklessly in the major leagues as they do in the minors. While conducting an interview before the Cubs-Indians game Monday, Manager Jeff Torborg had been summoned from the field by a long distance phone call.

BEFORE HE returned to the field. the word around the field was that third baseman Buddy Bell had been traded for a pitcher.

Torborg refused to reveal the reason for the call when he returned to the field and when the players trotted in from the outfield, assured them that Bell had not been traded. "I'll let the PR staff make the announcement," he said.

The earth-shaking news was that itcher Pat Dobson had been optioned to the Portland minor league team. Wayne Doland, Midland's winningest pitcher in 1976, again has been plagued by arm miseries this spring, but is optimistic about working it out and earning a place on the Wichita

Bob Clark, a left-hander on the Midland staff, could do much to ease Manager, Jim Saul's bullpen worries if he displays the same fire-extinguishing qualities in the Texas League that he did last year at Pompano Beach. AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Susie Smith, a two-time All-American tennis player, has quit the Texas Longhorn women's team because of a bleeding intestinal ulcer. The 21-year-old Odessa senior said

Dorsett wants to keep nose clean By LYNN CALLISON Dallas Times Herald

WYLIE, Texas — Tony Dorsett, advertising pro million-dollar running back and man about town, leaned back in a chair at his sprawling 14room country house four miles north of here, surveyed his plush surroundings, took a deep breath and said without apology:
"I've learned my lesson. Both incidents could have been avoided if I would have walked away from them." Dorsett, 23, the National Football Conference's 1977 offensive rookie-ofthe-year, was talking about two incidents that have put his name in the headlines since his arrival in Dallas less than a year ago. He discussed them reluctantly. NEITHER OF the incidents involved football nor the world champion Dallas Cowboys. In one, last summer, Dorsett had punched a bartender over an alleged racial slur. In the other, two weeks ago, Dorsett allegedly had cursed a cop who was arresting a girl

"I'm really aware now of what a fishbowl I'm living in here in Dallas, what a target I am for some people." Dorsett said the other day. "I think there are probably some people who would love to make a name for themselves by sticking it to me, and I know now that I've just got to be really careful how I handle myself. It's part of the price you have to pay, but I don't let it bother me. I really believe I can handle it.

"I don't know of anybody else who's had the bad luck in the wrong place at the wrong time like I have this past year. But the fact I bought this house last November says how I feel about Dallas. this is where I'm going to stay as long as the Cowboys make that possible. Man, I love it here. This is my kind of town, and I'm happy

Outwardly, Dorsett appears earnest about "getting my life under control. I feel a responsibility to the Cowboy organization and to myself to keep my nose clean. You're not gong to read anything else about Tony Dorsett except the news about what he's doing on the football field."

LAST NOVEMBER, he traded his apartment in a Dallas singles' complex for what he calls "my house in the country." Situated 30 miles northeast of Dallas, down a winding country road that leads to the tiny municipality of Wylie, Dorsett's contemporary spanish stucco estate sits on two acres of rolling hills with a placid lake in front. Security in the exclusive residential development is tight - a guard at the entrance to the neighborhood admits only visitors with advance clearance into the vast almost ethereal expanse of manicured lawns and sprawling luxury homes where Dorsett has settled.

'I've always been a very private person. That's one reason I came out here. It's not that I'm trying to get aaway from people; I just prefer living off to myself. I saw this house, and I had to have it," Dorsett said, Obviously proud of his expensive new digs. "And I got a good deal on it. It costs over $100,000 but that's all I'll

This home - "something I've always wanted" - and the $80,000 home he purchased for his parents in Pennsylvania, are the first fruits of "the sweat and hard work I put out to get here," according to Dorsett.

"I've never been loose with my money, the houses are the only things I've really laid out some cash on.

They mean a lot to me", he said.

The house is not the only evidence that Tony Dorsett is the Dallas Cowboys million-dollar-plus baby. The silver-grey customized Lincoln Continental and a gleaming new van $18,000 stero sound system.

THERE IS also his bedroom, equipped with a king-sized water bed and a sunken black marble tub, and a trophy laden kitchen-recreation

All the room look out onto the swimming pool, where Dorsett has had his initials inlaid in black tile.

"I'm going to fill up all these empty rooms with furniture. I've got an interior decorator working on the place. It's going to be nice when I get through with it." he said.

Dorsett shares his rambling spread with a longtime friend from his hometown and two Doberman pinschers.

None of the young ladies roaming the house are permanent fixtures, he is quick to explain.

"I see a lot of ladies. I love women, and I don't like to tie myself down, I'm too young for that," he said.

IN THE months since the Cowboy's Super Bowl victory, Dosrett said he has been "doing the things I've wanted to do all my life and never had the chance.

"I'm learning to play tennis. I ride my motorcycle a lot. And I ride horses. I'm thinking about getting a few out here.' Dorsett also has been hard at work

> "MAYBE THE movies. You think I could be in the movies?" he asked.

Dorsell at first refused to talk about his arrest on the disorderly conduct charge, which occurred after police stopped his silver-grey Continental in East Dallas early in the morning.

He said quietly. "I got a lot of bad publicity all over the country on that, and it cost me. My agent was negotiating some very lucrative contracts - one with NBC television to do some commentary at the 1980 Olympics, and the other with Faberge and both contracts are off now because of the negative publicity."

According to police reports, Dorsett and his date, a 29-year-old stewardess, were in the back seat of the car and Dorsett's roommate and another couple were in the front when they were stopped for speeding. Police accused Dorsett's date of stuffing a quaalude pill in her clothing when officers ordered the five out of Dorsett's personalized car. Police said that when they arrested the woman, Dorsett began cursing them. He was arrested on charges of disorderly conduct.

Atlanta Hawks earn playoffs

By The Associated Press

Congress takes sides

WASHINGTON (AP) - Conservative Republicans are taking positions on opposite sides of the net in a match to decide whether pro tennis star Martina Navratilova becomes a U.S. citizen ahead of Rep. Jim Collins, R-Texas, is sponsoring a bill that would waive the customary five-year wait for citizenship in Navratilova's case. She defected from Czechoslovakia in 1975.

Rep. John Rousselot, R-Calif., one of three Republicans who screen private relief bills, blocked discussion of Collins' bill Tuesday, which could hurt its chances to pass this session.

At stake is Navratilova's participation on the U.S. team in certain international matches. The U.S. Tennis Association would like to see her on the U.S. team this year in the Wightman and Federation Cup matches

Collins calls his fellow conservative "bullheaded" for opposing the bill.

He said, "There we were, three conservative Republicans on one side (himself and Reps. Hamilton Fish and Jack Kemp, R-N.Y.) supporting the bill and three conservative Republicans (the screening trio) on the other side working to kill it."

Besides Rousselot, Reps. Chalmere Wylie, R-Ohio, and Robert Bauman, R-Md., look at all private relief bills proposed by Republicans. The House Immigration subcommittee and the House Judiciary Committee have already approved it, and the matter is scheduled to reach the House again

Rousselot said said he is not basing his stand on anti-Communism, but on whether an exception should be made

Sandra Haney, the 21-year-old tennis star's personal manager, said Wednesday her client will not comment because the citizenship request was "a delicate situation."

This year, Navra: lova leads the women's pro tour with earnings of Calvin Coolidge and it's a hell of a quote: 'There's nothing more common than unsuccessful people with potential.'

"Our goal was to be successful without potential."

The Hawks accomplished that thanks to Brown's masterful coaching and the hustling of such unknowns as John Drew, Steve Hawes and Eddie Johnson, Drew and Hawes scored 21 and 20 points, respectively, in the victory over Buffalo and Johnson added 12 points and eight assists.

'Hubie doesn't make things personal," said Johnson of his coach's courtside manner, which often includes cursing out his players during games. "I realize all that is part of the game and when the game's over it's forgotten. He just says stuff that pertains to the game. He sees something in you and tries to bring it

Outspoken Hawks' owner Ted Turner made the trip to Buffalo and saw his team win its fifth straight by holding the Braves to 12 points in both the second and third quarters. The 74 points was the second lowest total in Braves' history.

'Well, how far do you think we can go?" asked Turner, who also owns the Atlanta Braves baseball team. "Anybody who bet against the Atlanta Hawks this year would have been bankrupt. I can't wait until baseball

ATLANTA (AP) - Kentucky Coach Joe B. Hall wore a smile for a change but still admitted to that same old feeling - pressure.

The coach of the NCAA basketball champion Wildcats was in high spirits Wednesday night after his Kentuckydominated U.S. national team overpowered outmanned Cuba 10964 in the nightcap of the first annual World Invitational Tournament.

In the opener of the three-day round robin tournament, Yugoslavia continued its domination of the Soviet Union, defeating the Russians 97-79 before an Omni crowd of 6,612.

Hall, who admitted to the pressure of winning the national collegiate title this year and rarely smiled en route to that triumph, was beaming continually Wednesday night. He was afforded the luxury since his squad completly dominated the smaller Cubans from the outset. Kentucky's Jack Givens led seven scorers in double figures with 17

"It's a different kind of pressure." said Hall. "We feel it as representatives of the United States. We haven't had adequate time to prepare for the games but we made up for it with hustle and spirit.

He should have added talent. The Americans were awsome, racing to a 16-3 lead in less than five minutes and had the game sewed up at halftime as they led 56-21. All 12 players, including five from Kentucky, saw action and all scored except Jay Shidler of Kentucky.

"These guys would really be awesome if we had played together for a while," said Hall. "They really got together quickly, however. We expected the players to adapt quickly but they surpassed all my expectations."

Sidney Moncrief of Arkansas added 15 points while Kentucky's Rick Robey and Kyle Macy, Darrell Griffith of Louisville and David Greenwood of UCLA had 12 apiece. James Bailey of Rutgers had 11. Alejandro Urgelles led Cuba with 16

"We recognize, however, that Yugoslavia and Russia will be on a different plateau," said Hall as the series moves to Chapel Hill, N.C., Friday night and Lexington, Ky., on Sunday.

"The first game was super. Yugoslavia shot the lights out," Hall said of its 60 percent shooting from "It will take a great defensive effort by us to stop Yugoslavia." said Hall of his opponent Friday In the opener, which was televised live by satellite to Yugoslavia and Russia, the Yugoslavians went in front to stay on a 12-0 spurt that gave them a 31-24 lead midway in the opening half. Drazen Dalipagic scored 28

WEST TEXAS HUNTING AND FISHING

Ellsworth offers change

For a change of pace, why not try an out of state lake that is little known to most Texans and a lot closer to home than our East Texas lakes?

I'm talking about Lake Ellsworth about 15 miles east of Lawton, Okla. Ellsworth is located 350 miles from Midland and about 60 miles north of Wichita Falls on the H.E. Bailey Turnpike North

I worked in Lawton for three years until the summer of 1974 and caught more big catfish and crappie there than from any lake I ever fished.

One memorable April afternoon on Ellsworth, my father and I ran a 50 hook trotline and took off 39 chan-nel cats and bluecats. The largest channel weighed 15 ¼ pounds and the smallest 5 %. The largest bluecat was 18 pounds even. I had taken a 28 pound yellow cat from the same line the day

After the meat fishing was over, we minnow fished in the willows in 15 feet of water and caught over 200 crappie. catfish and bass. The largest crappie weighed two pounds, eight ounces, and the largest bass was a shade over three pounds. My Father had a special bonus when he took a 7 % pound channel cat on an ultralight spinning outfit.

This was the best day I have had at Ellsworth, but I never got skunked on this lake and brought home literally thousands of pounds of fish during my stay in Lawton.

Lake Ellsworth has produced some trophy bass and although I'm still looking for a seven pounder on my rod and reel, I did take a 7 % pounder on a trotline. This old bucket mouth just couldn't resist a large goldfish that was meant for some unsuspecting yellow cat.

Until fishing Ellsworth, my all-time best crappie weighed a shade under two pounds and on my first trip to the lake. I caught three from a submerged willow tree that each weighed an identical three pounds, two ounces. I had been crapple fishing for over 20 years and took these three fish in less than an hour on Ellsworth. If you have ever seen a three pound crappie, you know that it can make a lasting impression.

Ellsworth is also stocked with walleyes and the lake record was 12 % pounds in 1974. I'm sure that mark has been bettered considerably as of this writing. I never fished for walleyes on Ellsworth and admittedly don't know the first thing about them as they are a recent introduction to Texas waters and I have never felt the inclination to learn their habits.

If you are a walleye fisherman, as are most Northern transplants in Midland, Ellsworth might well be the best place around these parts to get in on some walleye fishing.

Ellsworth has excellent launching ramps, but poor camping facilities and any camping would be of the Spartan variety. As I said before, I haven't fished Ellsworth since 1974 and I would advise a call to the Lawton Chamber of Commerce for information on the present lake conditions.

I would not recommend a trip if the lake is low, but if it is up near the spillway, the willows will be flooded and the fishing will be much better. If the lake is low, the best fishing should be the river channel on the east end of on the lake and if you are a trotline fisherman. I would recommend nothing but large shiners or goldfish. Small white jigs or medium bass minnows fished in the willows will be your best bet for the crappie amd

For some unexplainable reason, Ellsworth is a poor bass lake for the artificial lure fisherman, but whenever you find a crappie you will find bass competing for your minnows

Lake Ellsworth has given me some of my all-time fishing thrills and unless it has been rottoned or gone dry, I can't help but believe that you will be rewarded for giving this lake a

As the warm weather continues. reports are coming in from all over the state indicating that the bass and crappie are close to their spawning peak. Jigs and minnows fished in shallow brush should be deadly on crappie right now and just about anything will rile the bass that are moving onto their nests.

The spawning run is almost over on the South Texas lakes, but area and East Texas lakes should just be entering their hottest period of fishing and should comtinue to be good for up to a month. If at all possible, hit the lakes now, because as I have said before, you can completely miss the best fishing of the year if you wait for what seems to be the perfect spring weather usually associated with great shallow water fishing.

There are a lot of good fish coming and going from the shallows right now and once they get on the nest there will be little time left to get in on the often spectacular fishing.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - A newly formed sports group has pledged a record $3 million in earnest money and landed a tentative agreement to hold the Leon Spinks-Muhammad Aliheavyweight championship rematch in the Superdome Sept. 15.

Both Spinks and Ali must approve the agreemenin-principal before it becomes final, Bob Arum, president of Top Rank said Wednesday.

Although no precise figures were announced. Arum said the new sports group put up "a very substantial deposit, which we are taking back to New York with us." He said the total sum pledged was a record for live gate rights to a boxing match.

One of the parties in the negotiations said the actual deposit was 10 percent of $3 million.

'The current record is $2.5 million put up by the Phillipine government for the Ali-(Joe) Frazier 'Thrilla in Manilla," Arum said. "This exceeds that amount. We will talk about the numbers when heavyweight champion Spinks and former champion Ali together, it will make Super Bowl are in New Orleans for our official weekend look like tiddlywinks," he press conference.

Arum said he expects the preliminary fights to consist of two more championship bouts in lighter weight classes, a bout featuring at least one leading contender in an unspecified weight class and one or two bouts for local favorites.

Putting up the guarantee was a 2week-old group called Louisiana Sports Inc .- a union of area businessmen, quasi-public figures and city officials.

Butch Lewis, vice president of Top Rank, said it is now up to the local group to iron out such details as the availability of hotel rooms, a waiver of the city's 2 percent amusement tax and percentages from concessions.

"The fight is ours, provided this city does everything it did for the National Football League in getting the Super Bowl here," said Jake DiMaggio, treasurer of GSI. "If this city can put the week

big season

DETROIT (AP) - Chalking up his 1977 injuries as "just part of life." Mark "The Bird" Fidrych today started anew on his delayed journey to what is expected to be baseball stardom.

"Every year is different in your life," philosophized Fidrych, the Detroit Tigers' scheduled starting pitcher in their season opener against ex-Tiger Dave Lemanczyk and the Toronto Blue Jays.

"This year I want to make it through the season without missing a start," Fidrych said. "Then things will take care of themselves."

Last year, Fidrych was in a Detroit hospital recovering from an operation to repair damaged cartilage in his left knee. He suffered the injury while shagging fly balls in spring training.

The eager, fidgety right-hander, Rookie of the Year in the American League in 1976 when he was 19-9 with a league-leading 2.34 earned run average, made a quick recovery. He was back in the rotation May 27 and picked up where he left off - pitching brilliantly, winning and drawing capacity crowds.

He was even named to the All-Star team for the second consecutive year. but had to bow out. The arm that brought him six straight victories had become tender. Fidrych didn't pitch after July 12 because of tendinitis, and wound up with a 6-4 record and a 2.89 ERA.

Fidrych wants to put that season behind him.

Fidrych eyes Lamp slugs Giants, 4-0

By TED BATTLES R-T Sports Editor

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. - San Francisco may have had the best exhibition record in baseball this spring, but Dennis Lamp had more trouble with Yosh, the Japanese clubhouse boy, after pitching the Chicago Cubs to a 4-0 victory over the Giants Thursday.

The former Midland Cubs' pitcher started and rationed four hits over seven innings as Chicago closed out its Cactus League campaign with a 15-10 record and bade a fond farewell to Scottsdale Stadium as the resident team. Next year, Chicago and its minor league affiliates will move to nearby Mesa.

AS LAMP, au natural, chatted with a reporter in front of his locker after the game, fans kept knocking on the clubhouse door and Yosh kept opening it. affording the crowd outside a peek show of Denny, whose locker was in direct line with the door. He found the door open, and Denny shrieked and objected modestly, "Yosh, keep the door shut." Yosh obviously was hard of hearing.

Lamp drew Vida Blue, a major league star when the 26-year-old Californian was still a heroworshipping high schooler, as a starting mound foe.

"I didn't even think about it," he said. "I just knew I had to stop the Giants and to do that I had to keep the ball low."

EVEN BEFORE Thursday's game. Lamp had nailed down a berth in the starting team rotation, so the stingy stint served only to confirm manager Herman Franks' decision.

Lamp admitted that, despite his

Polo tournament set

The Texas League of the National Polo Association will host High Goal tournaments at the Midland Polo Field April 22 and April 23 with the three top players in the country competing.

There are only three polo players in the United States rated as high as nine goals, and all three will be competing in the weekend competition.

Nine goal player Red Armour will compete for Tulsa, Okla., April 22 against Dallas. On April 23, Joe Barry, a nine goaler with the Retama team of San Antonio, will clast with Tommy Wayman, star of the Wilson Ranch team of Midland

Other members of the Midland team are Fortunato Gomez, rated at seven goals; Dickie Cernadas of Argentina and Willie B. Wilson, a well-known Midland rancher and oilman.

The Midland Polo Field will be open to the public for these matches, with either general admission or reserved box seats available. Futher information on the tournament may be obtained by calling Clarice Fisher at 684-5567.

lack of major league experience, he had more on the line than just making the club when he reported here five weeks ago. "With Bill Bonham traded (to the Reds), I thought I had a chance to start."

As it turned out, Lamp, 11-8 at Wichita last year, bumped former Midland teammate Mike Krukow, to join Rick Reuschel, Ray Burris and left-hander Woody Fryman, acquired in a trade, on the front line.

"I understand I'll start the opener in New York against the Mets next Monday," he advised.

Denny finished 2-0 in Arizona with a 2.45 ERA for 22 innings. Willie Hernandez and Manny Seoane completed the shutout with one inning each. The Giants only serious threat came in the fifth, when Terry Whitfield led off with a triple, but Denny got the next three batters.

Chicago got all of its runs in the fourth off of Bob Kenepper on two-run singles by Mick Kelleher and Ivan

CUB QUICKIES: Chicago left the Valley of the Sun today, for their opener in Pittsburgh Friday. . Krukow had a rough spring after his 8-14 maiden National League season last year, posting a 6.10 ERA here... Bruce Sutter had a 1.74 ERA, while Burris, another Midland ex, wound up 2-2 with a 3.60. . . Joe Wallis, a subject of much controversy this spring, hit .353 on 12 hits in 34 trips. "Everything is OK now," Joe said. "I'm satisfied I'll get a chance to play and help the club.

upstairs quarters. He had his hand on her arm and he seemed to be leaning attentively toward her as people watched them depart. Then, as they moved down the hall out of sight of most of the remaining guests, the Nixons separated. moving apart as though they had concluded a little game. Writer Judith Viorst, who tells the story, concludes it thus: "Untouching and in silence, each walked on alone. Nixon's friends point out that he was a reserved, undemonstrative man, decorous perhaps to a major fault in that he was unable to unbend with the eyes of the world upon him. At home, they say, he was considerate and tender, that he never intended to ignore her, that the family was warm, compact and affectionate.

Julie, indeed, always found him loving and kind, even impulsive, as he would exclaim: "Let's do something special tonight," or, on the spur of the moment, take them all out for a birthday or anniversary celebration.

Of course, Julie was seeing her father from a daughter's-eye view, which is not always the same as the view of a wife.

Pat, for example, would never intrude upon his work but Julie would not hesitate. Late one day in 1969 Nixon was working with William Safire on a foreign policy speech when his private phone rang. For many minutes the president launched into an elaborate discussion of this country's relations with its South American neighbors. Safire, listening patiently, thought that Henry Kissinger or Secretary of State Rogers was at the other end. It was the 21year-old Julie.

The following morning she was scheduled for an interview-discuss on Latin America and wanted a briefing.

Still, there were just too many documented incidents of Nixon's cold behavior toward his wife to pass off as shyness or forgetfulness, or even total involvement with politics and the business of government. Nixon could be so wrapped in his own thoughts that he did not notice people around him. But why so often, and to Pat, unless there was a reason? The question is valid and prompts another: What was there true relationship as husband and wife? On the basis of the evidence I have arrived at two conculsions.

First, that the warmth and affection which existed between them in the early years of their marriage had cooled as the years passed.

Second, that the coolness came from his side, not hers. "She loved him very much," says AP correspondent Helen Thomas. "That was ge-nuine." And all of Pat's close friends and staff aides to whom I spoke echoed the statement. There were many stories of her attituted toward him from too many people to believe otherwise

But what about him? He was not unlike other authoritative husbands who place their work and home lives in separate compartments. As time passed and he was advanced in office, he communicated with her less and less abour his work and his career. Pat admitted he had not asked her opinoin about running for a second term in 1973. He never talked about affiars with her as President Johnson would do with Lady Bird, Harry Truman with Bess, as Jimmy Carter with Rosalynn. One former staff assistant. One former staff assistant observed: "I can' see Dick saying: 'Awful thing happened in Cambodia today, Pat."

Once Pat was asked if her husband had tried out any of his State of the Union speeches on her. Her reply: 'He never tries anything out." Not until the Watergate crisis did he "try anything out" on his family.

She gave so much and got so little of what was really meaningful to a women, says Washington journalist Kandy Stroud. "Sometimes he was so brutally indifferent I wept for her.

Wauhilla La Hay, former Scripps-Howard White House corresponent, put it this way: "She is a wonderful person whom most of us love deeply, a person of incredible courage and this can be desvastating to a woman.

"She's the one thing we worry about. The hell with him. Let's understand something. This man was the biggest male chauvinist pig of

'Black Sheep' segment to feature Frampton

By JERRY BUCK

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Even Peter Frampton's most avid fans never pursued him as hotly as did the seven Japanese soldiers chasing him through the jungle and onto the beach.

But, as luck would have it, plus the presence of a native with an outrigger and a Navy seaplane waiting offshore, Frampton got away. Minutes later, the Japanese soldiers did shoot - but only with cameras they kept as handy as their World War II

Rock superstar Peter Frampton, attired in khakis and a digger hat, plays a downed British airman and island coastal watcher in an episode of NBC's "Black Sheep Squadron" airing tonight. His album "Peter Frampton Comes Alive" is the alltime best-seller at 14 million.

The unlikely casting came about through a chance meeting between Frampton and series star Robert Conrad at "The People's Choice Awards" earlier this year.

"I told Robert it was my favorite show," Frampton recalled, "and as a joke I said if you ever need a walk-on part I'll do it. He asked me about my long hair and suggested maybe hiding it under a flying helmet. I said, 'If you're serious, I'll cut it."

There was no need to cut his long blond hair, however. A script was written especially for him as a downed airman marooned on a Pacific island, providing a reason for the long hair and preserving his identity for Frampton fans who would be attracted to the show. It should be the biggest rating yet for the show, which has had an on-again, off-again history at NBC "I'm honored that they wrote a part for me," said Frampton, 27, who donated his salary to UNICEF. "I just expected a short part. The show's really written around me. In the end I don't get killed and don't go back to their base with the pilots. I just paddle off. I wonder if that doesn't mean they'll want me back."

Frampton was so eager that he memorized the entire script, an unheard-of thing for an actor. Usually, an actor will learn only the lines he will say that day.

The English-born rock singer previously appeared in "Sgt. Pep-per's Lonely Hearts Club Band," but that movie coming out in July only requires him to sing

'This is the first acting I've ever done," he said. "When I was in school they never let me act in the plays. I was the musician so I was always in

"Sgt. Pepper' was a good way to get into the movies. I was really playing myself, when I was a starving musician trying to make it. But I only got my toes wet doing that. I was dying to do more.

His manager, Dee Anthony, who is also executive producer of "Sgt. Pepper." was at Paradise Cove near Malibu to watch his client act. He said he saw the television episode as just another part of his career.

"His first movie isn't out yet, but why should we hide him until then?" Anthony asked. "He sings, he acts, he writes. Keeping him under wraps that's old hat."

Frampton said he plans another movie next year and hopes to write the music for it. "I want to get into all aspects of filmmaking," he said: "Acting, writing, scoring. And being a gadget freak, I want to learn the technical side, too.

"It's a whole new challenge. Music is still my one true love, but it's nice to get away from it and get a whole new influence that will help my music.

Even stars suffer from secret fears

What do DEAN MARTIN, ANNETTE FUNI-CELLO and ANN-MARGARET have in common? They have secret fears that scare them to death.

Elevators give DEAN MARTIN the creeps, so much so that when he's on tour, he always arranges for a second-floor hotel room that he can walk up to. And if he has to travel by plane, he tries to calm his fears by taking along his collection of rabbits' feet,

For some stars, there are lingering fears that they can trace back to terrifying incidents in childhood. ANN-MARGARET is haunted by memories of her earliest days in this country when her mother, a recent immigrant from Sweden, had to take a job as a receptionist in a funeral parlor. Part of her salary included living quarters for the Olsson family behind the funeral parlor, and Annie can still recall hearing rats in her room each night. Not surprisingly, she still wakes up with nightmares about rats. It's hush-hush so far—even to official denials—but MARY TYLER MOORE is working up a new TV series called "Happy Together," about a couple of

TV's variety shows need variety, producers say

LOS ANGELES (AP) - CBS is tinkering with a variety show in which the hostess is a cartoon character. NBC is stringing along a puppet.

Now that Carol Burnett is leaving. and Red Skelton, Jackie Gleason and Milton Berle are long since gone, is this what television variety is coming

It could be. ABC has "Donny and Marie." CBS has signed Mary Tyler Moore for one stint, and Dick Clark is putting together a show for NBC After that, it's anybody's guess. Maybe it'll be cartoons and puppets. At least, says one executive, they won't ask for bigger dressing rooms or fancier limos.

Variety, which once ruled the airwaves and sold more TV sets than RCA, is in a sorry state.

"It's very difficult to come to grips with today," says Bud Grant, head of programming for CBS. "Other than dary I can't think of too many perormers who can front a variety show

"There was a period when we could take a Sonny and Cher, a Captain and Tennille — people who are basically recording artists — and put them in a one-hour series. They'd have to do comedy sketches and other things they hadn't done before."

Dick Ebersol, NBC's vice president for comedy and variety, says, "I think one of the principal problems with variety shows is that they have lost their mystery. They've lost their mystery because of all the magazines like People and Us and the Star and all the talk shows.

You no longer hear people say, 'Hey, we got to see what Milton Berle's doing this week.' They already know more about Milton than they want to know. The mystery is Comedian Dick Martin, who starred in "Laugh-In" with Dan Rowan, echoes a similar opinion

"I think it's pretty hard to get anyone to watch variety if five days a week they can watch it in the af-ternoon." says Martin. "Mike Douglas, Dinah Shore, Merv Griffin. They're not talk shows. Pure and simple, they're variety shows.

"Just try to get on one of those shows to plug a book. But if you can sing and dance.

Dick Van Dyke, whose NBC variety show failed, says, "There are no more Carol Burnetts, Jackie Gleasons or Red Skeltons around any more. What variety you have now is mostly music. They're headed by singers. So whatever comedy they do is in-

"I think variety has to be headed by a comedian like Carol Burnett, who can do everything. Chevy Chase would have a good chance. Richard Pryor, I think, went too far into left field. He left the public behind. I thought Redd Foxx was exceedingly good handling his show."

Question of tax break in LoVaca case fizzles

By JACK KEEVER

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Efforts to find out whether Oscar Wyatt Jr. would get a tax break from a proposed settlement of $1.6 billion in lawsuits against LoVaca Gathering Co. fizzled Wednesday.

Assistant Attorney General Piet Schenkkan asked accountant Palmer Moe of Houston about the "tax consequences" at a hearing before examiner Tom Hill of the railroad commission.

Moe said he had not reviewed the effect of the settlement on the personal finances of Wyatt, who is board chairman and chief executive officer of LoVaca's parent, Coastal States Gas Corp.

If assumptions Schenkkan spelled out were made, what would be the effect, Schenkkan asked.

"I can't answer that," Moe replied. He testified, however, that the complex 1,200-page settlement specifically prohibits Wyatt from owning stock in the proposed new Valero Corp., although he otherwise would be entitled to shares worth $24 representing Pearsall, and Tom Cowden, representing Products & Chemicals, Inc., sought to find out who determined which Coastal-LoVaca customers would negotiate the proposed settlement.

Moe also testified that Coastal could renege on a proposed $180 million gas-search program — but only by paying that amount plus a $150 million penalty.

He disclosed Coastal's option to "walk away" from the program under cross-examination by Schenkkan.

The settlement replacing LoVaca with the customer-owned Valero includes provisions for Coastal to seek additional gas to make sure Valero can supply its customers.

Moe said that if Coastal chose not to conduct such a search, it would have to pay an extra $150 million for "gas

"But it could walk away from the gas-search program?" asked Schenkkan.

"Yes," said Moe, "but it would be a devastating blow to the financial condition of the company." Moe said Coastal would have to pay $330 million over 15 years.

ET town gets cash WASHINGTON (AP) - A small

East Texas town imperiled by a leaky natural gas system and plagued by bureaucratic red tape has recieved a $500,000 grant to allevite its poten-tially explosive problem. The community of Huntington will use the HUD funds to replace the city-owned natural gas system that has leaked thousands of dollars of gas while creating a hazardous situation for the nearly 2,000 residents. The announcement of the grant — that had been stalled while federal officials searched for ways to skirt heir own regulations - was made Wednesday by a spokesman for Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas.

HUD regulations specify a ceiling for community development grants. The normal ceiling for a town Huntington's size is $250,000.

Huntington officials estimate the cost of replacing the leaky gas lines at $1.2 million. The other $700,000 needed has been requested in the form of a Farm Home Administration loan. 'This is tremendous news for the people of Huntington who have had to live with the possiblity of an accident due to this leaky natural gas," said a Bentsen spokesman. The senator is currently in Red China participating in trade talks. "We hope the FHA moves expeditously and approves this loan and remove this cloud hanging over Huntington."

Cousteau would ban big tankers

By JOHN M. FLORESCU

PARIS (AP) - Oceanographer Jacques-Yves Cousteau says supertankers should be banned and replaced by smaller ships to avoid such disastrous oil spills as the wreck of the Amoco Cadiz, which dumped about 65 million gallons onto the sea and along the coast of Brittany.

'We should forbid the supertankers and multiply the smaller tankers,' Cousteau said in an interview. "I would prefer to have three smaller spills than one big one.'

Cousteau was critical of the French government's handling of the March 17 spill in one of France's most productive fishing grounds as well as a region popular with tourists.

"The French government seems only interested in hiding the effects so the tourist season can carry on," he said. "They'll put the clean sand over the dirty sand which means the coast will remain infected for many years to come. It's covering up, not curing."

He said though some "so-called experts" have minimized the spill's ecological damage, and thousands of volunteers are cleaning the beaches. he is pessimistic.

"The oyster beds, the shellfish and the fishermen's livelihood will suffer for many years," he said. "Weeds will replace algae. The fish will be replaced by rugged, primitive fish, and an island sanctuary for rare birds has already been completely wiped out. That's just the start."

Cousteau said if French officials had acted quickly and forced the American-owned supertanker to drop its 300-ton anchor when it first developed steering trouble during a storm, "they could have saved a whole province.'

'Also, there were no high-sea powerful navy tugs in Brest. A complete supply of tugs for all French harbors would cost less than one nuclear submarine," he said.

Station fires analyst following discovery

A political analyst whose poll showed Attorney General John Hill ahead of Gov. Dolph Briscoe in the Dallas-Fort Worth area in the race for the Democratic party's gubernatorial nomination has been fired by a television station after it was discovered the man was a campaign coordinator for Hill.

WFAA-TV News Director Marty Haag said the station learned Wednesday that Dr. Del Taebel, a University of Texas-Arlington political scientist, works as a Hill volunteer at Arlington. Dr. Taebel, he said, told him that the poll was taken and prepared fairly by five of his

The poll, aired Tuesday night, showed Hill comfortably ahead of Briscoe in Dallas and Tarrant

The poll was taken in his role as a political scientist, not in his role as a Hill volunteer, Taebel said.

"There are a lot of candidates I support who are behind in my polls," he told The Associated Press Wednesday night.

Haag said Taebel told him the poll was taken fairly by the students and that their information was fed into a computer. Taebel said WFAA-TV had known that he was a Hill supporter at the time the station asked him to conduct the poll.

He added that he had never been paid by WFAA-TV, but that he had

Gov. Briscoe and members of the Texas Deep Water Port Authority met with Washington officials to discuss "the most expeditious way" to build an offshore docking facility for supertankers.

Hill appeared in the Texas Supreme Court opposing the appeal of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. for an order immediately increasing rates by $240 million.

Ray Hutchison, Republican candidate for governor, told an Austin news conference that his opponent, Bill Clements, is trying "to salvage a sinking campaign by claiming that the AFL-CIO has adopted his position on energy production."

"When you get right down to it," the former state Republican chairman said, "the AFL-CIO energy plan is nothing more than a blueprint for the nationalization of the oil and gas industry. I can't believe that a Republican supports the nationalization of the oil and gas in-

Clements claims he has better than a two-to-one lead over Hutchison.

Rep. Bob Krueger, D-Texas, campaigning in El Paso Wednesday, said that he has introduced a bill that would provide an additional $27.6 million in federal impact aid to Texas school districts with large numbers of students born in Mexico. He said the bill would provide $1,000 per Mexicanborn students on a one-time basis for construction of facilities or purchase

Marcos sure to keep control after election

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — The Philippines is holding its first election in 51/2 years Friday, but President Ferdinand E. Marcos will remain in firm control of the government no matter what the outcome

Though he is not a candidate and is assured a big majority in the interim National Assembly being elected, Marcos has been the most active participant in the 45-day campaign, making speeches and wooing voters.

The president has been working for a landslide victory in Metropolitan Manila, where his wife, Imelda, heads a pro-administration ticket opposed by a slate headed by imprisoned former Sen. Benigno S. Aquino Jr., a longtime foe of Marcos.

Defeat for Mrs. Marcos, who is governor of Metropolitan Manila, and her slate seems unthinkable. But the furious campaign she and her husband have been waging indicates they are worried that her showing might not be as strong as they would

Aquino was arrested shortly after Marcos declared martial law in September 1972 and has been in prison him of murder and other charges in November and condemned him to death after a trial in which he refused to defend himself. There was such an outburst of foreign criticism that Marcos ordered the trial reopened to hear the defense evidence, but there have been no hearings since. Although the government allowed Aquino's candidacy, it refused to release him, contending that he is a security risk with ties to the Communists and the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

Marcos had his martial-law constitution amended in 1976 to provide for the interim assembly and said its election will be a step toward "nor-malization." But he continues as president, will also be the prime minister and retains the power to legislate by decree if he is not satisfied with the assembly's operations. He has promised to leave legislating to the assembly, but only the government - meaning Marcos

- can introduce legislation. The voters will elect 165 of the 200 assembly members, including 21 in Metropolitan Manila, where an eighth

Many Customers Think It's Just Sound Business To Buy A Used Car.

Year in and year out, we have certain steady customers who buy nothing but used cars.
To them, it makes good business sense to buy a good used car. In many cases, aside from the mile age...the only difference between a new car and a late model used car is the price! And if you'd like to pay hundreds of dollars less, we'll be glad to show you how. Here are just a few examples:
