Cordiality Marks Carter-Begin Talks

By ROBERT B. CULLEN

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter pledged eternal American support for Israel Monday in what Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin called "one of the greatest moral statements ever."

Carter and Begin, ignoring their continuing differences over Middle East peace policy, celebrated the 30th anniversary of Israel's founding at a reception on the South Lawn of the White House.

Carter said he would appoint a commis sion to report to him on establishing an American memorial to the Jewish victims of the holocaust of World War II. Lesson Stressed "The past brutality against the Jewish people throughout the world and the ultimate tragedy of the holocaust are events the Jews will always remember, but they are also lessons which this country and all the civilized world should never for-get," the president said.

During the reception, several hundred invited American Jews sang traditional Hebrew songs and applauded.

Carter said the disagreements he has had with Begin will not change the fundamental American support for Israel. "We may from time to time have our transient differences with the leaders of Israel," he said. "But we will never waver from our deep friendship and partnership with Israel and our total, absolute commitment to Israel's security.

Gratitude Expressed

"For 30 years we have stood at the side of the proud and independent nation of Israel. I can say without reservation as the president of the United States of America that we will continue to do so not just for another 30 years, but forev-

In his response, Begin told the Jews in the audience that, after his half-hour private talk with Carter, "May I tell you, bringing you good tidings, with all my heart: Thank God, these discussions and talks are characterized with friendship and understanding. There is a feeling that American and Israel are inseparable friends and allies."

White House press secretary Jody Powell said afterward that Carter and Begin

Asked if the warmth of their rhetoric indicated any substantive changes, Powell said no. "Those differences which exist were not allowed to intrude" on a celebratory occasion, he said.

Begin, after lunching with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, said that the two governments had agreed to disagree over the Carter administration's proposal to sell warplanes to Saudi Arabia and Egypt

Monday's reception seemed to do little to ease the hostility expressed by some American Jews over U.S. policies in the Middle East.

Rabbi Avraham Weiss of Riverdale, N.Y., gave Carter aides Hamilton Jordan and Zbigniew Brzezinski a letter he said was signed by about 150 of those present at the reception.

Wager Proposal Fought With Religious Fervor

By VICTORIA R. BOWLES

United Press International NO SINGLE ISSUE in this week's primary elections has stirred up more con-troversy than a move to legalize pari-mutuel betting in Texas.

Opponents of the referendum are fighting with a religious fervor - religious because the most vocal members of that movement have been church leaders and church-related organizations. Their arguments rest primarily on a moral distaste for legalized gambling and also on fears of what gambling will do to various racial and economic groups.

The strongest protests in recent weeks have come from black church leaders, who say that gambling of any sort - and especially that sanctioned by the state has its greatest and most disastrous effects on the poor and blacks.

Bishop C.D. Coleman of Dallas, presiding bishop of the 8th Episcopal District of Christian Methodist Episcopal churches of Texas, said in a letter to pastors under his jurisdiction, "Whatever affects the majority community always hurts the black community worse.

His letter went on to say, "I need not tell you that behind the innocent-sounding words 'pari-mutuel betting' lurk all the evil and corruption of organized gam-

We do not need the additional problems brought on by legalized gambling," Bishop Coleman said. "Nor do black families need the added woes and stresses that accompany race track betting."

A group of six black Baptist ministers and leaders of affiliated educational and missionary groups also wrote a letter to their colleagues, urging disapproval of the referendum Saturday.

Their message was the same as Bishop Coleman's, that it is the people who are "caught in the curse of poverty that are tempted to gamble the most. Our people have been swindled enough; we do not need the lure of a 'something for nothing' temptation."

For a number of law enforcement officials, the question has not been so much one of morality. To them, legalized gambling simply means more problems with organized crime.

Col. Wilson Speir, director of the De-partment of Public Safety, said last week he believes legalizing one type of gambling would lead to encouragement of il-legal gambling. Emphasizing that he was expressing a personal opinion and not speaking for the DPS, Speir said, "I simply feel it would increase our crime prob-

A former chief of the U.S. Department of Justice's organized crime section, Ed Joyce, told a legislative committee last year an increase in crime is inevitable. "If pari-mutuel gambling was legalized in Texas," he said, "you could expect a three-fold increase in illegal gambling. That illegal gambling will be controlled by organized crime."

Many members of the legal profession say the primary argument presented by proponents of pari-mutuel betting — that it will add to state revenues money which is now being spent illegally — is less than sound.

An attorney in Temple, Jim Bowmer, said the majority of bettors would still

Even the wife of the Texas governor responsible for the repeal of pari-mutuel betting in 1937 has gotten into the act.

She said Allred was visited in the mid-1930s by delegations of bus from across the state who urged him to repeal the act. "They told him that their own sad experience showed increasing numbers of people failing to pay their debts. So his stand was not only on moral grounds but was also based on soun business experience."

In voting Monday, however, the board decided to let the banks themselves decide whether to charge for the service.

Under the transfer service, a customer could open a savings account and a checking account at a bank with any balance he chooses. If he writes a check larger than the balance in his checking account, the bank automatically pays the check from money in the client's savings

The board was divided over whether to charge a minimum 50-cent fee every time the accounts were transferred, but Federal Reserve Chairman G. William Miller said the penalty would hurt small investors the most.

The board agreed to consider within a year possible penalties or interest forfei-

Now, when a customer's account does not contain enough money to pay a check, it is customarily returned to the payee stamped "insufficient funds." Many banks impose a substantial charge when this happens.

Some banks offer overdraft loan agreements to pay such checks, with the depositor paying interest on the funds advanced to cover the check. And customers at some banks now can switch funds from a savings account to a checking account by telephone.

"It is anticipated that the proposed service would reduce the number checks that are returned through the check clearing operations of the banking system, thereby resulting in substantial savings for all parties concerned," the Fed said in announcing the rule.

Storm Front To Keep Temps Down, Chance For Rain Up

South Plains farmers anxious for rain day, almost a third of Texas was placed have a 50 percent chance of getting the much-needed moisture today, according to the National Weather Service.

A storm front over the area also will keep the afternoon highs in the cool mid 50s range with the low tonight to dip to the low 40s. Considerable cloudiness and northeasterly winds at 15-20 mph also are expected today

The cooling trend should last through Tuesday, with the high rising to the mid 60s by Wednesday.

The NWS predicts weather similar to this week's for much of May, with temperatures remaining below normal but bringing along an average 2.70 inches of rain for the month.

deadline for the April 1 school board

The reports cover the period since March 23, the week before the election.

In Place 1, Mrs. Stafford, a part-time secretary, listed for the current period expenditures of $1,432 and contributions of $922. Her only large contributions for the period were from Joe Horkey, $100, and Retha Martin, $200.

Those figures, when combined with past reports, brought her total campaign contributions to $4,108 and her expenditures to $3,582.

Mrs. Ervin reported contributions of $1,124 and expenditures of $1,079 for the current period. Her largest contributors were Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity, $50; Harry Stokley, $50; and Men's Civic and Social Club, $70.

For her entire campaign, Mrs. Ervin said she collected $2,738 and spent $2,521. Warren, an accountant with the state highway department, reported expenditures of $657 and contributions of $622 for the current period. All of his contributions were either small donations or out of his own pocket.

Overall, Warren reported collecting and spending $982 on his campaign.

Ray, a pathologist, listed for the current period $25 in contributions and $311 in expenditures. His totals for the campaign were $275 in contributions and $1,

In Place 2, Crawford reported for the current period contributions of $2,536 and expenditures of $5,084. His largest contributors were James Granberry, $100; the law partnership of Crenshaw-Dupree & Milam, $1,385; and a donation of $266 to himself.

Overall, Crawford listed having cam-paign contributions of $6,727 and expenditures of $7,657.

Dollins listed for the current period $2,-455 in contributions and $961 in expenditures. His largest contributions were $200 from Dr. and Mrs. Douglas Cone and a $1,735 loan to himself.

Overall, Dollins reported contributions of $4,665, and expenditures of $4,443.

Mrs. Muldrew, a Texas Tech University. architecture instructor, listed for the current period contributions of $166 and expenditures of $171.

For the entire campaign, Mrs. Muld-rew said she collected and spent $1,262. Mrs. O'Brien, an Alderson Junior High. science teacher, reported for the current period contributions of $180 and expendi-tures of $651. Overall, she had contribu-

Singlaub Gets Support From Local Candidate

A 19th Congressional District candidate spoke out strongly Monday in defense of Maj. Gen. John Singlaub and in support of military openness about armed forces

"cannot tell the American people the truth about the dangers they face, it is time for them to get out of the military and into civilian life where they can," Hickox said.

"This is one of the reasons that I am in the race," he added.

Recent Candidates Fail To File Finance Reports

By PAULA TILKER

Avalanche-Journal Staff Only half of the recent city council candidates required to file campaign finance reports met the Monday deadline, an Avalanche-Journal check shows.

Mayor Dirk West and his former opponent, Robert Kizer, complied with the 5 p.m. deadline, as did Place 1 contestants Alan Henry and Mike Stevens.

James Marshall and Leland Kelly, former mayoral candidates, missed the deadline, as did defeated Place 3 contestants Maria Mercado and Glad Norman.

Neither Bob Schmidt nor M.J. Aderton will have to file a finance report until the end of this month, according to state law, because they were involved in a runoff election for the Place 3 position.

The final reports filed with the city secretary show Stevens as the top spender His report shows that to date he has collected and spent $14,597 in his unsuccessful bid for the Place 1 position. His lone opponent, Henry, reports collecting a total of $6,394, with expenditures amounting to $8,266. No contributions were reported by West, although his statement lists $1,610 in total disbursements. Kizer's campaign effort cost a total of $12,227, while contributions and loans added up to the same amount, his report

That figure was half as much as he reported in the previous reporting period

AN EDITORIAL:

Junk Ban Rings Right Number

RELIEF AT long last may be on the way for those of us in the totally unorganized but nevertheless oppressed majority of telephone slammers. Hearings are scheduled in Congress this summer on legislation to prohibit "junk" phone calls to those who do not wish to receive them.

The industry's Institute of Marketing says on an average day more than 4 million Americans respond (you should pardon the expression) to such intrusions. Nearly 3 million others listen to the sales pitches and 460,000 of them buy the product being ped-

THE FCC, initially slow to recognize the issue, has now instituted a full-fledged inquiry into junk calls and will accept public comments until May 26.

Already legislation to ban or limit such calls has been passed by Alaska, Maryland and Wisconsin. Furthermore, the California PUC has moved to restrict them.

Commercial telephone solicitation has boomed in recent years, as sellers seized upon technological advances such as automated sequential dialing equipment to extend its reach, welcome or otherwise, into JUNK CALLS are far more aggravating than junk mail, which can be collected at the recipient's convenience and chucked unopened into the nearest waste basket.

There is no defense against a ringing telephone, no way to determine without answering it exactly who may be calling.

Lubbock, Texas, Tuesday Morning, May 2, 1978

The beauty of the legislation, sponsored by Rep. Les Aspin and Sen. Wendell Anderson, Wisconsin and Minnesota Democrats, respectively, is that it gives phone subscribers the right to decide for themselves.

At least once a year, the phone company would have to give every subscriber a chance to say "no" to unsolicited commercial calls-perhaps by checking a box on the monthly phone bill.

EVERY FIRM using junk calls as a selling technique would be required to obtain from the phone company a list of subscribers who object to receiving such calls and to purge those names from its target lists.

And the cost to the phone company of compiling the no-solicitation list would be billed to those firms (therefore indirectly to their customers) and not to all phone subscribers.

Industry opposition to the bill, while predictable, actually is short-sighted. Telephone marketing efficiency might be improved since 'don't call me' directories could eliminate a majority of prospects who react negatively to unsolicited phone solicitation.

Not to mention how much easier on your jangled nerves it would be as you slip slide from a half-finished bath to realize that ringing phone is someone important or your mother-in-law

Marchers Not Watching March-Watchers March

WASHINGTON-I was shocked to turn on the television set and see FBI agents taking advantage of the First Amendment to protest the indictments of three of their own for allegedly violating the First Amendment rights of others.

Demonstrating in the streets is not what the FBI does best Under J. Edgar Hoover and his successors, the role of the FBI was to monitor those people who were organizing and financing protests, to infiltrate those groups that were marching and to report on the "troublemakers" who were using the sidewalks and boulevards to call attention to their grievances.

OLD HABITS DIE hard for some of the agents, and last week's FBI demonstration was no excep-DAMMIT, O'TOOLE, the money for the defense fund is coming from former and present FBI agents. There is no foreign money involved.

"Why can't you understand we've got a legitimate grievance, and we want to see that the people who were indicted are not used as scapegoats just because the Justice Department wants blood?

"I think we should tap the lines of the guys who were indicted. That could lead us to the source of the money, and also to where the orders are coming from."

"O'Toole, do you know who I am?" "Sure, you're Turnbull from Identification."

'I'm one of the ringleaders."

"You could have fooled me. I never had you down for a radical nut."

"I'M NOT A radical nut. None of us is a radical nut. We're law-abiding citizens." "Yeh, but in the Sixties we were told that anyone who demonstrated in the streets was a radical nut. Either that or a misguided pawn in the commie struggle to destroy our way of life."

That was in the Sixties. Now everyone's in the streets. The farmers, the doctors, the hard hats. When you get desperate you have to let everyone know about it. What are you doing with that trick, always the artist with words, recently painted a portrait of me in print that was appealing in some respects but that contained too many 'big government" colors to be a real likeness.

Sen. Kennedy Responds To

What prompted his column was the platform we shared in Florida the other day at the annual meeting of the National Association of Chain Drug Stores, where I spoke on national health insurance and Federal regulation of drugs. My comments on both topics obviously tapped Mr. Kilpatrick's conservative reflex.

In general, health is an area where government has traditionally had a major role, because the average citizen does not have the knowledge required to assess such things as the competence of physicians or the safety of prescription drugs.

For example, government grants licenses for both doctors and drugs, to guarantee at least minimum standards of ability and safety. Because of Federal regulations, America was spared from the thalidomide tragedy that afflicted many other nations.

I have strong reservations about whether the FDA, an old-line New Deal agency, has the tools to fulfill its mission of assuring the safety, quality, and effectiveness of the drugs that find their way into the medicine chests of 200 million American consumers in our excessively pill-cons-

There is widespread overuse scription drugs in this country. Testimony before the Senate Health Subcommittee indicates that tens of thousasnds of Americans pay for that misuse each year with their health and with their

The reform legislation I have proposed is designed to end these defects and improve the existing system of regulation. But it is hardly a Big Brother solution.

On national health insurance, I favor comprehensive health care coverage for every citizen at a reasonable cost-as Medicare, one of the bestloved federal programs in our history, has provided for persons over 65

Recently, I have been working on a new approach to coverage of other citizens that would limit the Federal budget cost and give a major role to the private insurance industry.

In key areas outside health care such as reducing Federal regulation over the airline and trucking industries, I have found myself in the vanguard in Congress among those espousing the private sector philosophy that Mr. Kilpatrick preaches so eloquently. More competition is a better answer than more government for the problems of these industries. I have also been protesting the promiscuous way that billions of Federal dollars are doled out through tax loopholes. It is ironic that so many who call themselves fiscal conservatives are actually the last of the big time spenders in Congress. They oppose increased spending for domestic programs, but are often the first to endorse costly new Federal subsidies through the

At any rate, it is a pleasure to engage in debate with Mr. Kilpatrick, whether in person or in print. However much we may disagree, his wit and civility are a tribute to his profession

Editor, Avalanche-Journal: On Saturday night my husband and I attended a very fine performance of "Finian's Rainbow" in the Lubbock Civic Center. The production was fantastic, the music was delightful, as well. It seemed as if those participating or engaging in this production were having as much fun as the people who came to enjoy it. Combining talent from all over the city was an excellent idea. The people who came to see the beautiful sets, as well as to hear the amazingly beautiful music, were refreshed by a nice evening of clean entertainment. I would hope this to be a first of many events of this nature. It's a shame the prices were so high they prevented many people from attending. The time it took to produce the musical drama was too long in proportion to the length of time it ran.

I would like to say many thanks again for the splendid way in which people of all ages enter-tained us at the Civic Center.

If more than half of the voters in your states disagree with your vote please resign immediately. After all, you are honorable men, at least that is what you said when you voted for the treaty, so please be honorable.

My thanks to Howard Baker of Tennessee for voting in complete opposition to the wishes of the Republican voters throughout the country. Since he has taken himself out of contention for the Republican Party's nomination for the presidency, we, the voters, will at least have a choice between more socialism and less socialism.

My thanks to Sen. Bentsen for demonstrating once again that a senator who works in Washington, D.C., gets paid in Washington and lives in Washington, doesn't really care what the people in the State of Texas think about the issues.

Finally, thanks to President Jimmy Carter for producing a situation which has alerted the American people to the fact that the Washington establishment has no one above it, and that it cannot be controlled by anyone. I almost forgot to thank George McGovern, for telling the majority of the U.S. citizens how stupid we are for opposing the canal treaty

He Says Editorial Was A Compliment To GOP

Editor, Avalanche-Journal

Your editorial Sunday, April 23, 1978, was a compliment to the Republican Party-you endorsed one candidate for its nomination for Congress of the 19th District and remarked the other two were "formidable and qualified" candidates. Looks like, in your opinion, the Republican Party has "corne of age"

The national well-being never before needed a strong two-party system so much; as one party tends to erode and corrode and its leadership falters-then (read that NOW) we Americans need new persons in office.

Heard Mr. Hance say Tuesday night that we better elect him (or Morris) or we would have a Congressman that couldn't get anything done as he would not belong to the majority; that Democrat doesn't choose to remember the times like 1946 when unexpectedly the Grand Olde Party were given a majority in ye olde House-and in the last three off year elections I understand a Republican has won-even in New York City district, Bella was beat.

We're not supposed to, says one Texan. The mail system is a "public service," not a business. It was set up to "keep people in touch."

Only Canada is cheaper, at 9.7 cents per letter. In Italy, France and West Germany, correspondents pay 20 cents: in the Netherlands, 21.9 cents; and in Sweden almost 24 cents.

IN THE UNITED States, the average wage earner has to work only 1.3 minutes to pay for a 13-cent stamp. In Australia, it's three minutes; in Japan, 3.3 minutes; and in Italy and the United Kingdom, it goes up to 3.5 minutes. Meanwhile, back at the post office, things are about as usual:

Everybody's talking about money. For openers, there's that $1-billion bill for overtime, which the government says the Postal Service has neglected to pay for the past few years. Postal authorities have already agreed to a $60million out-of-court settlement of 11 lawsuits brought by some 80,000 employes

THE GENETIC CONNECTION

Genetic Advances Bring Ethical, Moral Problems

By DAVID HENDRIN And JOAN MARKS

The stiking advances in human genetics during recent years have brought with them new ethical and moral problems never before encountered either by health professionals or their patients.

New technologies in all health care fields have provided us with increasing control over our lives, deaths and births. Some self-styled moralists today would

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court agreed Monday to judge the valid-ity of a Missouri law allowing women, but not men, to exempt themselves from

The justices said they will hear the appeal of a Kansas City man, Billy Duren, sentenced in 1976 to life in prison for the shooting deaths of two men in an armed robbery at a Kansas City post office.

Before Duren's trial, his lawyers claimed that women had been systematically excluded from lists of prospective

Under a provision of the Missouri Constitution, women contacted for possible jury duty have the right to avoid such service simply by requesting an exemp-tion. Men have no such right.

Our medicines and machines have kept alive those who, if nature had her way, would have died long ago. So, these life-and-death decisions are nothing new to us. As the technologies improve, however, we are faced with increasingly difficult choices, and we must make them far more often. In no field do such decisions arise as frequently as they do in human genetics. In spite of what some people say, the answers to these questins must not be left solely to the health care professionals, the clergymen, or the legislators, since it is our lives, and the lives of our families, grams have argued that massive genetic screening programs may not be worth-while. The facts show, however, that well-planned and carefully executed genetic public health programs are well worth their expense.

It has been calculated, for example, that it costs a quarter of a million dollars to provide a lifetime of institutionalized care to a profoundly defective individual that's a lifetime of maintenance-level care. Couple this with the fact that there are between 3,000 and 5,000 new babies with Down syndrome born in the United States every year. Quick calculations show that the annual money committed for merely maintaining these human mental retardation because of a complex error in the child's metabolism. PKU oc-curs about once in every 14,000 births. It costs about $1.25 to screen each newborn baby for PKU; thus, it costs a great deal of money - $17,000 - to detect each PKU victim at birth. Then another $8,-000-to-$16,000 must be spent for special dietary treatment for this child during the next five-to-10 years to prevent the disease from causing severe retardation. Thus the total cost of preventing PKU is about $33,000 for each affected child. It sounds expensive. But if untreated, the PKU victim would be profoundly retarded and would then spend perhaps 50 years in an institution. Cost: about $20 per day or roughly $365,000 for a lifetime — more than 10 times the cost of prevention! In view of the fact that prenatal di-agnosis such as anmiocentesis can reveal the sex of the fetus, there has been some concern over the use of such techniques solely for sex determination, since parents sometimes prefer children of one sex rather than the other.

In the case of a sex, linked disease—hemophilia, for example—the detection of the sex of the fetus is crucial to the decision of the parents may make Since onof the sex of the fetus is crucial to the decision of the parents may make. Since only males have such diseases (except in extremely rare instances), parents who could possibly pass this disease to their offspring may choose to abort all male fetuses. Since there is no prenatal test at this time to detect most of the sex-linked diseases, there is always a 50-percent

Programs Aid Deaf Youngsters

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff
Hearing-impaired children on the fringe of the 20-county South Plains area may no longer have to travel all the way to Lubbock to receive services offered by the Lubbock-based Regional Education Program for the Deaf.

Last year the pear.
Last year the program established a branch in Plainview. Last month it was Lamesa. And project coordinator Larry Marshall hopes to staff a deaf education class in yet another city, Levelland, next great hardship to have students come 50 or 60 miles to Lubbock each day to participate in the program," Marshall said.

Indeed, he said, many deaf children from outlying areas simply cannot make such a trip — even though they "truly need the help we can give them."

That was evident two weeks ago when the regional deaf education program ini-tiated its branch in Lamesa, Marshall said. In assessing the needs of that com-munity, he said, the staff and school authorities identified 25 youngsters who have hearing impairments and could benefit from the program.

"Only one out of those 25 children has been making it to Lubbock. Because of the distances involved, the other kids have not been getting the highly special-ized services we can provide," Marshall

With the cooperation of Lamesa school officials, Marshall said his program now has established in Lamesa a class staffed by a deaf education teacher and an aide. The class, he said, is open to elementary and secondary students. Marshall said the Lamesa satellite initially will serve six to eight children — "the most severely handicapped first" — and provide "consultative help" for the instruction of other hearing-impaired youngsters.

The class at Plainview also is staffed by The class at Plainview also is statied by a teacher and an aide, Marshall said. It now serves eight children, including one from Lockney. Next year the Plainview branch, which was established during the 1976-77 term, may have pupils from Floy-dada and Haie Center as well, Marshall

Health Symposium Set At Hospital

Methodist Hospital is sponsoring a free health symposium for the public Wednesday and Thursday with presentations on "handling emergency situa-tions" or "what to do until the doctor sees the patient."

Wednesday's session will be 9:30-11:30 a.m., and Thursday's will be 7:30-9:30

The two-day symposium will be held in the George M. Brewer Assembly Room on the eighth floor of the hospital's east building.

Program topics will include treatment of minor injuries in the home, handling injuries to bones and joints and life

The proposed satellite for Levelland is included in the regional program's budget for the 1978-79 school year. That budget still must be approved by the Texas Education Agency, Marshall said.

Also in next year's budget are plans for serving children below the age of three, he said. "Currently we are limited to serving passents three to 21. The state is serving persons three to 21. The state is allowing us to add children from birth through age three next year," Marshall

All told, the regional program is serving 92 children this year. Marshall says ing 92 children this year, Marshall says 105-110 are projected for next year.

Most of the services are provided in the Lubbock Independent School District, which is the fiscal agent for the program. Marshall said the program has full-time "self-contained" classes for deaf students at Lubbock High, O.L. Slaton Junior High, Maedgen and Brown elementaries, Guadalune Elementary (for preschool-Guadalupe Elementary (for preschool-ers) and the Ballenger School, for deaf children with other handicaps.

Also, several schools have deaf education services offered on a part-time or "resource" basis. These are Monterey and Estacado high schools; Evans, At-kins and Struggs junior highs; and Iles, Wolffarth, Bean, Harwell and Bozeman

Last week the regional program cohosted a statewide workshop on the hearing impaired, developmentally disabled" in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center. The workshop focused on such topics as early identification of deaf children, parenting and vocational opportunities

Dr. E.C. Leslie, assistant superintendent for administration of the Lubbock Independent School District, said at the workshop that the regional deaf education program is an "integral part of our

"But (they) were so anxious about the very idea of doing science that they were unable to learn.

The science-anxiety clinic at Loyola, begun last spring, consists of small groups of students meeting once a week with a scientist and psychologist, he said.

The scientist breaks down the scientific process into components and describes each part to the students to make them familiar and comfortable with it. The psychologist discusses anxiety and how to recognize it and cope with it.

Our interactions with science-anxious students have revealed to us numerous contributing factors to science anxiety,"

"Among them are science teachers who are themselves science-anxious, sex and ethnic group discrimination, family and career pressures, and society's distorted image of the scientist as a technocrat rather than as a creative artist."

Ameson J. J. Ameson J. Ame WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's economic indicators dipped slightly in March and registered the first quarterly decline in three years, the Commerce Department said Monday.

The index of leading indicators decreased 0.1 percent in March after rising 0.5 percent the month before. In January they dropped 1.3 percent.

the first drop since a 4.7 decline in the first quarter

The Carter administration is ex-pecting the economy to rebound in the second quarter from the ef-fects of severe winter weather and

Intruders Collect Cash From Doctor's Office

Burglars apparently ransacked two Lubbock doctors' offices early Monday until they found what they came for - at least $9,000 in cash.

Police early Monday morning had responded to a burglary alarm at the 3801 19th St. building that houses the offices of doctors Joe M. Lehman and Robert Lehman only to find the building appeared to be secure.

When the two doctors returned to work at 9 a.m. Monday, however, it was apparent the burglars had been a little more stealthy than police anticipated.

The intruders had not only entered the building, but also made their way to the fifth floor and through three offices without being detected. Police indicated at least $9,655 in cash was missing from Joe Lehman's office. Also Monday, police were trying still to find out exactly what happened to a 21year-old woman who officers rushed to West Texas Hospital after stopping her speeding car for a traffic violation.

Officers pulled the car over about 11:55 a.m. Sunday to be told Silva Vergara had Tools valued at $780 disappeared from Greg Kiesel's 4414-B 35th St. home sometime before 1 p.m. Monday.

Similar items valued at nearly $1,500 were taken sometime during the past year from Charles Bates' 1801 Ave. F siness, he told police Monday.

Isabell Garza of 512 N. Ave. U No. 69 told officers someone took a $70 stereo from her home during the weekend.

A television set, an eight-track recorder, 40 tapes, two rings, a china set and a clock were taken in a burglary of Kathy Stalcup's 1009 Ave. T residence between 1 p.m. Sunday and 1:45 a.m. Monday. Three men were wounded in separate shooting incidents this weekend when gunmen approached their cars.

Most seriously wounded was 32-yearold Ventura Vasquez of Basfield who said he was sitting in a car in the parking lot an E. Broadway Club shortly before midnight Saturday when a man walked up and demanded his money.

The next thing Vasquez knew, the stranger pulled out a pistol and shot him twice, in the chest and arm, and drove away without taking anything.

Vasquez was in serious condition Monday at West Texas Hospital.

Luis Saenz, 18, of 3111 Erskine St. told officers he and a friend were driving around a 1st Place park about 2 a.m. Sunday when two men in a pickup forced them to a curb. After all four men got out of the two vehicles, one of the ones in the truck fired a shot, hitting Saenz in the

Auto Property Tax Measure Criticized By Candidate

By SYLVIA TEAGUE

Avalanche-Journal Staff Democratic state senate candidate Morris Turner said Monday, if elected, he would attempt to remove the property tax on automobiles, get permanent state funding for a portion of the operating expenses at Health Sciences Center Hospital and support legislation to prevent frivolous" lawsuits against Texas cities. The former Lubbock mayor and city councilman, made the comments in a conversation with Avalanche-Journal edi-

Turner said he tried to abolish the automobile property tax when on the city council, but discovered the body did not have jurisdiction over the tax. The $7.5 million in delinquent automobile taxes on the books of the city and the school district indicates it is an "unfair tax." Turner said. "Obviously people resent the tax and feel it is unfair because some pay it and "Obviously the people of the city of Lubbock are very unhappy with the law,"

The construction firm owner said 25-40 percent of the Health Sciences Center Hospital expenses are "there because of the medical school. Medical school graduates become doctors all over the state, therefore all parts of the state should help pay for the school. Turner said

This is the fourth in a series of interviews with candidates whose names will appear on Lubbock County Ballots in Saturday's primary elections. The names of the candidates, both of whom are Democrats, are presented in the order in which they will appear on

MONTFORD

John Montford, 34, has been an active trial attorney in Lubbock since 1971, and, as a private practitioner, has extensive experience in criminal cases. He was a military prosecutor and is a former U.S. Marine Corps company commander. Currently a major in the Marine reserves, Montford was named Outstanding Young Man of Lubbock for 1973.

Incumbent Alton Griffin, 51, has pros

What are your chief qualifications? Your opponent's chief liabilities?

A. Extensive trial experience in the role of both prosecuting and defending Extensive professional experience in the investigation, preparation and trial of jury cases in all courts. Strong administrative and leadership abilities gained through active duty in U.S. Marine Corps and many years in private practice of law.

B. Inflexible, locked-in to set pattern of cuted criminal cases in Lubbock County for approximately 20 years, beginning as an assistant district attorney in 1956. He served as Lubbock district attorney from 1962-68 and became Criminal District Attorney when that office was implement-

The responsibilities of this office call for the leadership of a person with multiple abilities. The operation and record of my office since its formation show my ability and qualifications to meet the varied responsibilities.

Since organizing the office January, 1973, the staff under my leadership has tried 481 felony jury cases in five district courts, 291 misdemeanor cases in two county courts-at-law, have obtained 2,200 felony convictions and approximately 10,-000 misdemeanor convictions. During this same time the office collected and paid out to merchants $1,187,420 on hot

Few prosecutors can match my personal record in court over the years in the trial of cases. In the last four years in the trial of murder cases that I have personally tried, juries have returned three death penalifies, four life sentences and one each of 50, 60 and 80 years.

This record shows my ability to organize the work of the office, to train lawyers to perform the work, to personally prosecute cases and to see that the duties of the office are fulfilled. These qualifications come from proper education, experience, and most of all-many hours of hard work

What do you consider the top issue or issues in the campaign?

The intolerable rising crime rate in Lubbock County and how to effectively put an end to it must rank as the top issue. The issue of developing a team effort between the various law enforcement agencies in order to better fight our rising crime rate is also important.

The only issue ever in an office of this type is who is the most qualified person to head the office. I believe that my record as chief prosecutor of Lubbock County in the past years shows my abilities. There is no substitute for the experience which results from the years I have spent working for the people of this county in court trying cases, in the administration of a large office and in working with the other officials to make Lubbock County a better place in which to live.

My belief in so far as prosecution is Concerning prosecution, do you feel there are major philosophic differences between you and your opposent?

Yes, I believe there are major philosophic differences between myself and my opponent. 1. I feel that the District Attorney should personally be in court on a regular basis representing the law-abidtrying only one or two "sensational" crimes a year. 2. It is essential for us to develop tough, aggressive policies in prosecutions. 3. We must implement fre-quent use of the multiple offender stat-utes. 4. We must ask for higher bonds and deny bonds to multiple offenders and persons out on bond who commit another felony; and, 5. It is important that through better administration we have speedier prosecution of cases in order to cut down on excessive lag time between commission of a crime and its resolution in the courts, and to insure certainty of concerned is relatively simple. I believe that the laws which are passed by the legislators, elected by the people, should be obeyed. This belief does not lend itself to broad view of all laws and enforcement of all laws. Because of the high incidence of crime, and the number of cases, practical measures must be taken in order to handle the greatest number of cases possible. With the number of courts which we now have, all cases cannot be tried before juries, and therefore there must be a standard system for taking pleas of guilty and assessing punishment. By working with the judges of the various courts and by following the lead of jury verdicts, a workable system is followed, thus insuring that responsibility for crimes will be faced by those individuals committing the crimes.

Name the offense or offenses for which, as a general rule, you would not gravated robbery. 3. Rape.

1. Murder (first degree felony). 2. Ag-

The reason I would not, as a general rule, offer probation for these offenses is because crimes such as these are running rampant in Lubbock County. The criminals that commit these crimes threaten our lives, property, the sanctity of our homes and the safety of our loved ones. To recommend probation in murder cases, as the present District Attorney has done, or for that matter recommending probation in any of these types of cases, is to cheapen the value of human life and undermine the respect for the law in Lubbock County.

It has always been my policy to refuse to agree to probation on the offense of armed or aggravated robbery. I do not believe that anyone who sets out to take property or money from another person by force or threat of death deserves to be in free society.

Each case of an assaultive nature, including murder, must be considered individually, taking into consideration the causes of the offense, the relation of the parties and all facts of the case. I believe that my record in the trial of this type case bears out my beliefs.

Sexual abuse cases, of any nature, would as a general rule be excluded from consideration for probation. In particular, I can think of NO situation that a person, whose victim was a child, would every the second of the second er be offered a probation.

What should be the major role of the Lubbock Criminal District Attorney? Are you for or against an office administra-

$220.00 (5.10 per 15.)

S 1.00

A. The District Attorney's major role should be that of being a leader, coordinator and representative of the citizens in the law enforcement efforts of Lubbock

B. Yes, an administrator would be desirable. In terms of overall savings to taxpayers it would be a significant addition to the staff. For example, 1,000 mass dis-missals waste approximately $49,000 in court costs. The money lost by blanket dismissals by the District Attorney's office in the past few years is staggering and is a by-product of poor administration. I believe a good administrator could help us avoid such things, as well as free the lawyers on the staff for trial preparation

dry Sunflowers per acre

There is no one major role for the Lub-bock County Criminal District Attorney. He must try cases which involve major reimes, but he must recognize that he cannot try every case. He must be a teacher, with the ability to train young lawyers, not only the necessary elements and methods of the trial of cases but also and methods of the trial of cases but also to train them to properly evaluate situations to meet the requirement of the law that the duty of the office is to see that justice is done. There are times that this calls for compassion, for understanding and a desire to see problems between people settled in some manner other than in courtroom situations.

Lastly, the District Attorney must be an individual who is willing to accept responsibility, take action based upon the facts at hand and to accept all the responsibilities that go with the office.

There is no way to delegate the responsibilities of the office to an administrator. The people have a right to a District At-

The people have a right to a District Attorney who accepts all the responsibilities of the office. I have done so in the past and will do so in the future.

Griffin, Montford Offer ViewsOn Fighting Crime

Avalanche-Journal Staff
Incumbent Alton Griffin and challenger John Montford, competing for the Criminal District Attorney office in Saturday's Democratic primary election, have staked out clearly defined positions.

Griffin is campaigning on the record of his office and his own demonstrated abilties as a courtroom prosecutor.

Montford says the current crime rate points to the need for tougher prosecution and contends new measures can be taken to combat crime more effectively.

Since there is no Republican candidate, the winner of Saturday's election will be assured the office.

In addition to questions posed elsewhere on this page, the two candidates were asked what methods are best utilized in curbing repeat offenders.

"The best way to curb repeat offenders is to put them in the pen. This we did with 155 separate criminals in the year 1977 alone," Griffin answered.

'Insofar as what to do while awaiting trial, I have long advocated and worked for legislation to deny bond to repeat of-fenders. As the result of work done by myself and other prosecutors over the state, the last legislature has passed such a law and it is now being used by this off-

Griffin said that last year 113 juries were selected in district courts for trials as compared with 42 in 1972, the year before he organized the CDA office. He also said he would work for more courts.

In response to the same question, Montford answered:

"1. Utilization of multiple offender statutes. 2. Recommending and fighting for higher bonds and denial of bond to multiple offenders and persons already out on bond who commit other felonies.

Kenneth Owen Jaycon, 31, convicted of murder last week, was denied bond under the new provision authorizing bail denial to persons on bond accused of committing a felony. Observers could cite few, if any, other instances of the provision being utilized since it went into effect in November.

The candidates were asked if anything could be done to reduce turnover in the

could be done to reduce turnover in the DA's office and if they would seek raises in current salaries for top assistants.

Montford answered in part that he believes turnover can be reduced by providing positive leadership and by implementation of extensive, ongoing educational

'Although I am a fiscal conservative, I would in all probability seek raises in-starting salaries," Montford also an-swered. "I believe this would help us secure and retain quality attorneys..."

Griffin noted that turnover has been a traditional problem in all prosecutor offices. "This is because many top young lawyers are willing to sacrifice income for the great professional experience that can be had as an assistant in an office such as this," he answered in part.

But, because such qualified young lawyers grow in the profession, Griffin said, they accept offers from law firms or become qualified to practice on their own.

"I would say that by the nature of some of the duties of the office, that an influx of new blood, so to speak, lends a vitality to the office that could be obtained in no other way," Griffin answered. He did not indicate whether he would or would not ask for salary increases.

Candidates were finally asked what re-as a "compliment to my campaign," and predicted he would defeat Hutchison in the May 6 primary by a 60 to 40 per cent

Griffin indicated Lubbock is a growing city with all the problems of a city. "We must continue to increase the effectiveness of the good officers that we have by giving them additional officers to work with, and giving them additional training and leadership as their departments grow," he answered in part.

Griffin also said Lubbock needs continued "each research to the said that the said th

The incumbent said citizens who accept the responibility of jury service and the fact that without their support officers, prosecutors and judges are "harastrung" in attempts to enforce the law and main tain order are a necessity.

"Generally, development of an appreciation by all members of the law enforcement team for each other's respon-sibilities and problems," Montford an-

As part of that objective, Montford said he wishes to institute a program to acquaint assistant DAs with the role, responsibilities and dangers "of the law en-forcement officer in the day-to-day du-ties." He also suggested regular contact, and discussions between officials of the various law enforcement agencies.

Montford also said he favors institution of a continuing education program spon-sored by the DA's office designed to keep law enforcement agencies abreast of changes in the law.

"Eliminate duplication of efforts, more efficiently utilize the assistant district attorney's time," Montford also answered.

Farm-Credit Bill Debate Ends

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate finished most debate Monday on a farmcredit package that includes a special 20month program for guaranteed refinancing up to $500,000 each for heavily indebt-

The centerpiece of the bill, planned for a vote today, is a special new loan program for farmers caught in the squeeze of slumping grain prices and inflation.

Up to $4 billion in loans could be guaranteed or insured for citizen farmers with "adequate experience and resources" whose normal credit sources have dried up because of "national or areawide economic stress, such as a general tightening of agricultural credit or low prices received."

Many farmers have told Congress they face bankruptcy this summer unless it expands rural credit opportunities. Bankers testified they cannot extend more credit without further guarantees from the government or vastly improved farm prices.

The House last week passed a credit bill similar to but less expensive than that before the Senate, which the Congressional Budget Office said could mean federal spending of up to $1.26 billion through 1982

The House bill doesn't allow new land purchases under the refinancing program and also would limit the aid to $400,000 per farmer.

The Senate measure, which is generally endorsed by the Carter administration, also would increase the ceilings on traditional Farmers Home ownership and operating loans, open its programs to farm corporations and partnerships and triple the amount available for federal grants to rural water and sewer projects.

It would retain interest subsidies for farm real estate loans but end other interest subsidies, saving up to $8.2 million by 1983. The House measure ends virtually all such subsidies, to save about $260

Before taking a final vote today, the senators must dispose of an amendment that would allow the Farmers Home Administration to beef up its field offices with funds from revolving credit accounts, bypassing the normal appropriations process.

They must also vote on an amendment urged by the Agriculture Department that would strike the bill's section allowing farmers to use refinancing loans to buy more land.

Emergency Fund Urged

AUSTIN (Special) — State Rep. Joe A. Hubenak, D-Rosenberg, has announced he will recommend to Gov. Briscoe that an emergency fund of $450,000 be appropriated over the next three years to expedite completion of a high efficiency dust cyclone research project at Texas A&M

Hubenak, chairman of the House Agriculture and Livestock Committee, is overseeing a special interim committee studying the grain storage elevator explosion problem.

"During our committee's hearings in Lubbock, Pasadena and Brownsville, we have studied several possibilities for relief to the grain elevator industry," Hubenak said. "One of the basic ways to alleviate explosions in grain storage elevators is increased research."

There have been 141 explosions in the past five years, and the cause of 81 was listed as unknown, he pointed out.

"It is unrealistic to expect an industry to prevent explosions and maintain the safety of employees when no one knows the specific cause for the majority of explosions," said Hubenak.

Hubenak moted that the grain industry already has donated thousands of dollars into research, and that the 80th annual convention of the Texas Grain and Feed Association passed a resolution endorsing the special interim committee's recommendation urging the Governor to release emergency funds.

THE CATTLE INDUSTRY IS NEARING the most profitable phase of its cycle - herd rebuilding

This stage may begin this fall or sometime next year, says the USDA, and is xpected to continue for three or four years.

Calf producers will be the big gainers. Feedlot operators will be competing strongly for a shrinking supply of replacement cattle. This will boost prices of feeder cattle and calves — to the advantage of cow-calf men.

Cattle feeders recently made some good profits, but intense competition may hold average returns at low levels during the next few years.

SUPPLIES OF BEEF SEEM LIKELY to decrease during the remainder of Prospective slaughter of grain fed cattle for the spring is up 6 to 8 percent from 1977, and USDA says the kill during the last half may be 3 to 5 percent But considering the sharply reduced slaughter of cows and other nonfed cattle in prospect, USDA says, total beef production for 1978 probably will be 3 to 5 percent less than last year. Choice steers at Omaha are figured to average $47 to $50 per hundredweight during the May-September period. Following a summer peak, there may be some price decline in the fall, the USDA says.

PROSPECTS FOR FEED COSTS are described as "very uncertain." Watch new crop developments and government programs for clues, the USDA advises. Acreages will depend on the extent to which farmers participate in the new farm program and on weather at planting time. Yields per acre, as usual, will depend primarily on weather during the growing and harvest seasons.

So keep an eye on the weather, USDA says, but don't be overly influenced by the conditions in your own area. Try to see the big picture — the whole United States as well as conditions in other countries.

After harvest, grain producers will be able to exert a considerable influence on market prices by their use of price support loan programs.

Any increase in feed costs may be relatively small, USDA says, pointing out that price already have come up strongly from their lows of several months ago.

Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP) - Tight supplies of soybeans for immediate delivery and expectations of good export demand boosted nearby soybean futures, but other grain contracts posted losses on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

Trading was relatively light, partly because there was little news to affect prices and European markets were closed for May Day

Clear skies over the much of the corn belt enabled farmers to proceed with planting, exerting some pressure on those futures. On the other hand, rains in western Kansas had a depressing impact on wheat prices because the moisture was beneficial to winter wheat crops. Dealers said that farmers sold limited amounts of soybeans over the weekend, aggrevating the tight supply situation.

CHICAGO - Cattle futures briefly slipped 22 points in June on profit-taking but quickly rebounded for a gain of 90 points Monday on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange

All eontracts were carried to new seahighs and their highest level since 1975. Volume was estimated at 22,749 contracts. Prices climbed more than 500 points from recent lows on a reduced kill, along with surging cash cattle and a firm trend to carcass beef. Sharply higher open interest also was cited. Wholesale beef was unchanged at 84 cents per pound for all weights, highest since July 1975. Cash cattle were up 50 cents to $1.50 per hundredweight with the top at $56, equal to the September 1975 high.

Slaughter was estimated at 143,000 head. Today, the six markets expect 15,-300 head to arrive. Hog futures also rebounded from an early loss of 40 points to end 10 to 77 higher led by August. Nearby June was up 80 points for a time. Sales totaled 6,685 cars. Prices rose to two-week highs, up 300 points from re-Fresh buying spilled over from Friday with gains in the cattle pit a factor, along with higher cash hogs. These tended to offset easier cash hams and a heavy slaughter.

Wholesale hams were unchanged to off 11/4 cents at 703/4 to 75 cents per pound, f.o.b. river points. Cash hogs were up 50 cents to off 25 with the top at $48.50 per hundredweight at Peoria, a onemonth high.

Record Contract, Film Roles Allow 'Kotter' Star To Grow

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Lawrence-Hilton Jacobs admits he is no comedian and has no desire to be one, yet he spent six weeks at the Cornedy Store here learning how to put across a joke.

He was preparing for his role as an aspiring standup comic in the CBS movie "The Cornedy Company."

"I was there every night, watching the comics and talking to them," said Ja-cobs, who regularly is one of the Sweat Hogs on ABC's: "Welcome Back, Kotter."

"It's about young comics, the humilia-tion they suffer, their confusion, triung to survive, trying to get noticed, but not knowing the way to go. He said he felt strange joing the routines. "I'm not a standup comic," he said. "I was apprehensive. They let me write some of the material. But it had to be funny, it had to look realistic.

"Once I got up there and could ad lib, I loosened up. It was like doing a night club act. They shot it with three cameras, and we had to shoot it over and over."

Jacobs, 24, said he developed a close relationship during the filming with Jack Albertson, who plays a former vaudeville comic who's now the proprietor of The Comedy Company. Like the Comedy Store, it's a nightclub where aspiring comics come to try out their acts in publ-

"It was like a father-son relation-ship,"he said. "We'd fuss at each other. We came to a scene we didn't under-stand; Here I am shaking this 70-year-old man and when I realize what's happening we ended up in an embrace. He's an in-credible man to work with." The film also stars Abe Vigoda and Michaep Brandon, with George Burns playing himself. CBS has not set an air date for the film, although it's expected to be shown soon.

Jacobs said he thinks "Welcome Back. Kotter" will be back in the fall, but added, "this will be our last year. There isn't much more we can say.

He said he did not know if John Travolta, nominated for an Academy Award for "Saturday Night Fever" and star of the upcoming movie, "Grease," will return.

'We all feel the same way about the show," he said. "We love it, we have fun with it, but it's time to move on." If he has no aspirations to be a standup comic, he does have strong ambitions im His first album is coming out and it contains some of his own compositions.

He said he sometimes gets up at 4 in the morning to work on a tune. "I've been into music for a long time," he said. "I was very particular about what I wanted. I had a particular sound I wanted to put across. Jacobs has a five-album contract with ABC Records, signed after a record executive saw him singing on variety show.

Jacobs also stars in the upcoming film "Youngblood," in which he plays a gang leader. "I was raised on the streets," said Jacobs, a native of New York. "I did all that stuff. 'Cooley High' was almost my life. When I saw the script I said these people know me.' His early interests were drawing and painting and he got into the New York

School of Art and Design without a portfolio. But a desire to act pulled at him. He said, "When I said I wanted to be an actor, people said, 'How dare you? How are you going to live?' I couldn't get a job for years. I finally got a job and helped pay my way to acting school. I had all kinds of odd jobs

After that he began to get bit roles, then finally landed his first big part, that of a black militant in the movie "Claudine." His next break came in "Cooley High," followed by "Kotter." He was also in "Roots," as the slave who tries to run away with young Kizzy.

Jacobs has other fields he wants to enter. He wants to direct and is now writing

"I'd rather spend my time on Broadway and in the movies," he said. "I have nothing against against TV, but you can't

'It's all going to happen, believe me. I'm not in a rush. I'm not a superstar. I'm always taking inventory. It's like meditation. I never bite off more than I can chew. I'm not under the kind of pressure Freddie Prinze was.

Prinze, who starred in "Chico and the Man" with Albertson, shot himself to death in January 1977.

BILLY GRAHAM N Hungary

This special one hour program documents Billy Graham's recent visit to Hungary to conduct a series of evangelical meetings.

He preached the Gospel to 30,000 persons in Hungary and his words reached countless millions around the world through the news media. The largest crowd, of 15,000, gathered at the Tahi Baptist Youth Camp, about twenty miles from Budapest. Mr. Graham told reporters that he was "overwhelmed" by the response. "I'll never forget Hungary," he said:

Produced in 1933 and again in 1949, 'Little Women" was a box-office hit both times with big-name casts in the leading roles and supporting parts.

First time around, in 1933, the director was George Cukor who says "Little Women" was his favorite of the 50 movies he's directed over the years.

Ths original version starred Frances Dee as the beautiful eldest sister, Meg.

Katharine Hepburn was the rebellious tomboy, Jo. Jean Parker portrayed Beth, who dies tragically. Joan Bennett played Amy, youngest of the sisters.

Dee was at the height of her career. Hepburn, Parker and Bennett remained major stars for many years.

The redoutable Aunt March was played by one fhe great character actresses of movie history, Edna May Oliver. And the role of Marmee was assayed by another unforgettable character actress, Spring professor Bhaer.

The long-form television version includes much more of Alcott's book.

Perhaps the biggest difference is the cast. None of the four leading roles is played by major movie stars. But the supporting roles are, once again, powerfully cast with familiar names and faces.

Meredith Baxter Birney plays the beautiful Meg. Susan Dey is Jo. Eve Plumb plays Beth and Ann Dusenberry plays

Greer Garson portrays Aunt March, Dorothy McGuire plays Marmee, William Shatner is professor Bhaer and Robert Young plays Grandfather Laurence, a role played by Henry Stephenson in 1933 and C. Aubrey Smith in 1949.

At this stage in their careers Baxter Birney, Dey, Plumb and Dusenberry cannot begin to compare in public popularity, at the box office or even in national recognition with either of the two pre-

Susan Dey, the blonde charmer who starred recently in "First Love" and was a fixture in "The Partridge Family" TV series for years, probably has the toughest act to follow - in the footsteps of Hepburn and Allyson as Jo, the most desirable role in the story.

Susan, 25, is a poised, articulate young woman who had to fight for the role in the first place and then had second thoughts about getting the job.

"The worst thing in the world is to have seen Katharine Hepburn play Jo and then find yourself facing the role," Susan said during a lunch break in the Universal Studios commissary.

"The first two days on the film I heard her voice. You can't ignore as perfect a performance as that. It sticks in your mind forever. After that I thought in on television. Once when I was very young and again three years ago, not dreaming I would ever play Jo but wanting very much to do it.

"It seems rather strange, but I never did see the 1949 version. And I really didn't care to see either film immediately before starting this project."

Last February Susan heard and read about the remake of "Little Women" and told her agent she wanted to play Jo. The agent called Universal, NBC and producer David Victor who said Susan was too pretty for Jo.

But the producer agreed to talk to Susan about playing Amy. She was called in

"I got a copy of the script and fell in love with it," Susan said. "I decided I wanted the part of Jo so badly I'd go in and have a face-to-face fight for it. I was determined not to look 'too pretty.

"I walked in making every effort not to be too feminine. I was open and honest and as much like Jo as I could be. They tried to talk me into playing Amy.

"Dávid Victor got angry because all the other candidates said they would play Jo or nothing. They told me that every actress they'd seen for any of the parts all wanted to play Jo.

"I argued on my own behalf as best I could and left the office not knowing whether I had the part, but I didn't think I'd get it. I kissed it off and went to Hawaii for four days.

"When I got back, my agent called and told me they wanted me to take a makeup test and not to look too pretty. I was speechless. I couldn't stop smiling.

'The role has been much more difficult than I expected, but the most frightening thing is the comparsions that will be made between my work and Hepburn's. How can I be compared to a legend? I really don't need that.

Top leaders of the ruling Christian Democrat Party met for more than an hour Monday to discuss the latest development in the kidnapping, but there was no sign the government would soften its position of refusing to negotiate with Italy's most feared terrorist group

They set another meeting for today. Earlier, Christian Democratic Party Secretary Benigno Zaccagnini met with Socialist Bettino Craxi and Communist Enrico Berlinguer, leaders of two parties supporting the Christian Democrats. Berlinguer said after the meeting he doubted there would be "any basic change in the attitude of the political forces."

Party sources said Zaccagnini wants to talk with two other supporting parties, the Republicans and the Social Democrats, before deciding whether to negotiate with the terrorists.

The newspaper Il Tempo said the death threat was made Sunday in a telephone call to Moro's law student son, Giovanni, and that the family believed it was an authentic message from the Red Brigades who have held Moro captive for 46 days.

The Italian news agency ANSA said Moro's family received a call Sunday, apparently the same one, giving them three hours to "come up with something new" or he would be killed.

It was the telephoned ultimatum, the newspaper said, that prompted the fami-ly to issue an anguished statement Sunday bitterly attacking Christian Democrat leaders for refusing to deal with the kidnappers. Moro, a five-time premier, is president of the ruling party.

The drama of the Moro kidnapping dominated May Day rallies throughout Italy. Leaflets were circulated among workers appealing for support against the design of terrorists whose bloody actions are aimed at striking at the roots of democracy.

Violence flared at one rally in Milan's Cathedral Square, police said, when left-ist militants hurled bricks at a busload of Christian Democrats, injuring a reporter for the Roman Catholic newspaper Avvenire and two young workers. Police dispersed the attackers with tear gas.

Luciano Lama, the leader of Italy's Communist-dominated automobile union, declared in a May Day speech to tens of thousands of Turin workers that he agreed with the government's position. The Communist party, part of the parliamentary majority backing the Christian Democrats, have been most vocal in rejecting negotiations with Moro's kidnap-

'Mutuel Foes' Motives Hit By Horseman

AUSTIN (AP) - Opponents of Saturday's horse race betting referendum are anti-horse, not anti-crime, a spokesman for the Texas Horseracing Association said Monday.

"Their charges that first class horse racing is a tool of organized crime are so ridiculous that reasonable people who had open minds on the matter are turnainst them," said Charles Hancock, Caldwell banker who is president of the horse racing association. He told a news conference that the opposition to legalized pari-mutuel betting is being led by an organization known as the Anti-Crime Council of Texas. Dr. Abner McCall, president of Baylor University, is chairman, and the executive director is Allen Maley Jr. of Dallas. "A number of its leaders are Baptists,"

He said he resented "the opposition's repeated use of false statements, innuendoes and statements taken out of con-text to picture this as a moral issue.... The opposition is trying to convince peo-ple that all of the 32 other states in which part-mutual betting is legal are completely dominated and even overwhelmed by organized crime. Actually, all those states have lower rates of violent crime than Texas."

Mondale Due In Manila

MANILA (AP) - Vice President Walter Mondale, launching a five-nation trip to reassert the U.S. commitment to Southeast Asia, faces a cool reception today in Manila, where Filipino-American relations are in the doldrums.

Mondale flew out of Honolulu Monday to become the highest-ranking member of the Carter administration to visit Southeast Asia.

The administration has criticized the human rights situation in the Philippines, under martial law since 1972, and Mondale's promise to talk about human rights at every stop of his tour has put the gov-ernment of President Ferdinand E. Mar-

The United States and the Philippines also are at odds over negotiations to re-new the lease for America's two major military bases in the Pacific, Subic Naval Base and Clark Air Force Base, and negotiations for a treaty on economic rela-tions. ry celebration late Monday.

In a brief statement following his earlier meeting with Vance, Begin expressed optimism that Israeli-Egyptian peace negotiations can resume soon.

"We do believe and hope that in the near future there will be a measure of agreement which will make possible the peace-making process to continue," he said. Begin said the focus of the current efforts is to overcome obstacles blocking Israeli-Egyptian agreement on a declaration of principles governing future nego-Meanwhile, two congressional committees began studying Carter's proposed $4.8 billion arms sales. The arms deal was taken up by the House International Relations Committee and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Several resolutions were introduced in the House to reject the entire sale or the sale of jets to Saudi Arabia. Rep. Lester Wolf, D-N.Y., one of those introducing a resolution aimed at scuttling the sales, said "it is clear that the proposed sale could have a detrimental affect on the peace negotiations."

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee met in closed session to discuss the proposed sales. Emerging from the session, Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said the panel would seek "a substantial extension" of the 30-day time limit for acting on the arms deal.

Church said one reason for the exten-sion would be to enable the panel's Mid-dle East subcommittee headed by Sen. Richard Stone, D-Fla., to visit Israel, Egypt and Saudi Arabia.

Church said a critical question on the minds of senators was "the propriety of the sales of warplanes into this volatile while Saudi Arabia would receive 60 F-15s and Egypt would get 50 of the less sophisticated F-5s. Congress has until May 28 to voice its disapproval of the deal.

Unless both the House and Senate register disapproval of the sales by late May, they will go through. Carter submitted the arms proposals to Capitol Hill last Friday — April 28.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. said he would work to win congressional support for the administration's proposal. But the Massachusetts Democrat said he still doesn't believe Carter has enough support in the House committee to kill a resolution to block the sales.

Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., chairman of the House committee, has said he is confident he has enough votes in the panel to kill a resolution of disapproval of any of the three sales.

"A stroke can be a double disaster," said Dr. Kenneth M. Colby, who developed the one-of-a-kind device. "It's terrible in itself, and then you can't tell anybody about it."

Colby said the pieces of the voice machine, all commercially available, are worth about $10,000. It's much too bulky and expensive for practical use.

So Colby, a professor of psychiatry and computer science, is working with two graduate students to boil everything down to a single unit smaller than a loaf of bread. He said a prototype, still using available components, should be finished later this year.

The next step would involve customized components for an inexpensive unit the size of a pocket calculator. If massproduced, Colby says a truly portable voice might someday be available for a few hundred dollars.

'Now all we've got to do is come up with $300,000" to finance development, he said. The single existing unit and the used for upkeep.

Giving a machine an essentially unlimited vocabulary, he said, requires a program with "a thousand rules of English. That allows it to generate a million words."

The rules tell the machine when, for example, an "a" should be pronounced as in "pain" or "man" or "speak."

"The problem is not to make it sound human," Colby said. "Most people are used to robot-like voices. The problem is to make it understandable. Right now it's about 96 percent intelligible.'

Colby said his ultimate goal is an intelligent voice machine - one that not only pronounces words but sees through spelling errors and helps stroke victims find the correct word.

A stroke victim might have a clear mental image of a chair. He knows what it looks like and what it's used for. But the word itself eludes him.

Under Colby's concept, the voice machine would ask, possibly through an earphone, for hints that describe the elusive word. It might ask what letters it starts and ends with, what it's used with or what it sounds like. With such information, the machine would offer four or five possibilities from which the patient could

The Sequoia reportedly will be put on display at Myrtle Beach, S.C. Burton said he had no idea what price Pulliam would ask for its return.

WORKMAN • STATE SENATE

A WORKMAN For The People of West Texas Wants YOU To Know ... Where He Stands On the Oil and Gas Issue.

Dear Voter:

As a Texas with oil interests, I know the residents of our state are getting the short end of gas and oil sales out-of-state. Northern and eastern states are getting the benefits of Texas' abundance of oil and gas, while our own populace gets higher prices.

It's time Texas gets its fair share of oil and gas revenues. When elected as your State Senator for the 28th State Senatorial District I would help the state to get better income from its oil and gas production by:

Supporting a phased deregulation of oil and gas over a three-year period, returning the production of oil and gas to the private business sector and giving the oil and gas companies the opportunity to discover and develop new reserves:

☑ Introducing a bill prohibiting the sale of any oil and gas produced on state land from being sold to out-of-state consumers, thus raising the income of the state and making more oil and gas available to consumers within the State of Texas;

 Supporting a move to charge out-of-state consumers a flat rate of tax paid on gas and oil instead of the current percentage

This last point is most important. Currently, we are charging 7 ½ percent sales tax on all oil and gas, However, many of the out-of-state contracts were made when oil and gas were cheap, thus some are paying as little as 50 cents per thousand cubic feet while Texas consumers are paying up to $2 per thousand cubic feet.

Oil and gas are of major importance to the State of Texas. Even now, we have only tapped 20 per cent of our available resources. It's time Texans stop giving the rest of the country a free ride. Free enterprise can solve our energy crisis.

Sincerely,

extended its spring rally to a new high for the year Monday, unabashed by rising interest rates and other adverse news.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 7.01 to 844.33, stretching its gain since Feb. 28, when it hit a three-year low of 742.12, to more than 100 points. The average's close was its highest since it finished at 844.42 last Nov. 25. Trading remained active, with 37.02 million shares changing hands on the New York Stock Exchange against 32.85 million on Friday.

The Dow had climbed 10.30 points Friday in the face of a 0.8 percent jump in the consumer price index for March and the decision by New York's Chase Manhattan Bank to raise its prime lending rate from 8 to 81/4 percent. On Monday a smattering of large banks TOKYO (AP) - The dollar climbed against the Japanese yen Monday as many major export firms, who are generally dollar sellers, took a holiday.

The dollar closed at 225.35 yen, up from 223.975 yen last Friday. When it went as high as 226.10 yen at one point, some exporters took advantage of that rate to sell dollars, driving the U.S. currency back Wednesday and Friday this week are national holidays in Japan and many firms are taking all week off.

CHAPTER SEVEN — ALLERGIES: YOUR PERSONAL POISONS

Medicine Sometimes Triggers Allergic Reactions

Associated Press Writer There are well over 1,000 drugs in the American medicine cabinet, not the one in your bathroom of course, but the one symbolized by the omnipresent drugs-

They are partly responsible for the fact that Americans can expect to live more than 25 years longer today than those born at the turn of the century, and

And drugs continue to improve each year-in potency, effectiveness and variety. But therein lies a problem.

Many of today's drugs from aspirin to antibiotics are so formidable that they cause adverse drug reactions of some kind. Almost every drug carries a warning of possible side effects, a warning of who should not use it.

It is estimated that at least a quarter of the adverse reactions to drugs are

Three of the most common drugs are the most frequent causes of drug allergy, partly because they are aspirin, penicillin and the sulfonamides. There are no sure figures, but federal publications indicate that up to 90 percent of all altergic drug reactions stem from the use of that common trio.

Doctors are wary these days in prescribing pencillin. There was a time when many of them, in response to a patient's demands, would give penicillin for the symptons of the common cold. Besides not being effective against viral agents, which cause most colds, penicillin carries its own hazards.

It is probably the most common cause of drug allergy, and the most common reactions are hives and rash. No one knows for certain what percentage of the population is allergic to penicillin. Estimates run from one in 100 to one in 10. But in its most severe form, penicillin allergy can cause analphylactic shock in minutes after injection, and that fact alone gives any doctor, and should give

Fortunately, in most cases, there are other antibiotics that can be substituted for penicillin, although some allergic patients will develop a sensitivity to these as well. A patient should keep his doctor alert to any known sensitivities to drugs, and in some cases should carry warnings on his person if he knows he is sensitive to penicillin. He is otherwise flirting with death

Aspirin, the most commonly used pain-killer and anti-inflammantory drug, can also bring on allergic attacks -hives, giant hives, asthma attacks and anaphy laxis. What makes aspirin an even more insidious problem is that it is often combined with other medications and the user will not even know it is the cold tablet he is popping into his mouth. There are probably more than 200 medications in which aspirin is present.

Most frequently, a patient will have some warning that he is having an allergic attack -swelling in the oral cavity, difficulty in breathing. There are many substitute medications, and a doctor will know what they are

The longer acting sulfa drugs may produce a wide range of allergic reactions from hives to an inflammation of the blood vessels, from an ordinary rash to blood problems. And these drugs cover a range of medications from antibiotics to diuretics to oral antidiabetic agents.

While these three classes of drugs are the most common causes of medical allergic reactions, there are a forest of other less frequently encountered drugs, antitoxins, hormones and anesthetics that are potential allergens.

So great is the American ingestion of drugs of various kinds that the U.S. government estimates that $3 million a year is spent each year in treating adverse drug reactions in American hospitals.

The specific problem of allergic drug reactions is only a part of that, but a dangerous part. Proof of the allergic nature of reactions rests on finding the presence of a sensitizing antibody in the sera of these patients. When classic responses such as analphylaxis or serum sickness or asthma occurs, the doctor is relatively certain it is an allergy. He also relies on other symptons and signs, and an allergy is sometimes proved by simply withdrawing the suspect drug and substitute another.

Besides the classic allergy symptoms, drugs can produce a number of other reactions attributed to allergy. In some cases fever is the only symptom, developing a week to 10 days after the onset of therapy. It sometimes hides behind the fever that is an expected symptom of the disease.

Unlike other allergies, skin testing is of limited use in the case of drugs. Their reliability is questionable, and there is always the possibility of a sudden, dra-

The best test is the patient's own recollection of his reactions to various drugs he has taken in the past. The doctor will probably investigate any drug previously taken, including nose drops, ointments, tonics, laxatives, vitamins and other everyday preparations most people don't think of as drugs. Certainly people with a history of asthma should beware of taking aspirin or any medication that

And just as certainly no person should take any drug casually or without good cost spiral may be easing. Among the encouraging signs are a pre-diction by the head of the National Cattlemen's Association that retail beef prices should level off soon and a slowing in the rate of food price increases.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood items and checked the price on March 1, 1973 at one supermarket in each of 13 cities. Prices have been rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month. One item, chocolate chip cookies, was dropped from the list late last year when the manufacturer discontinued the Prices generally have been rising faster than expected this year. The Consumer Price Index shows that during the first three months of the year, retail food prices rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of over 15 percent, although government experts are holding to their prediction that food costs will increase 6 to 8 percent during 1978. The AP survey showed that the average 4.9 percent increase in the marketbasker bill at the checklist stores for the first four months of 1978 was lower than the 5.8 percent rise during the same period of 1977. But much of the 1977 boost was due to increases in the cost of one item - coffee. By contrast, the 1978 rise has been moderated by drops in the price of the brew. When coffee was removed from the totals, the marketbasket bill at the checklist stores declined one-tenth of a percent during the first four months of 1977'and increased 7.3 percent during the same period of 1978.

A look at the results of the latest survey shows that while prices continued to rise during April, the rate of increase was lower than it has been all year.

The survey showed that the bill increased at the checklist store in nine cities last month, rising an average of 1.5 percent, and decreased at the checklist store in four cities, dropping an average of 1.5 percent. On an overall basis, the marketbasket bill at the checklist stores at the end of April was half a percent higher than it was a month earlier.

In contrast, in each of the first three months of the year, the marketbasket total increased by more than 1 percent, with a boost of near 2 percent in Febru-

The lower rate of increase reflects, in part, a slowing of inflation at the wholesale level. Government figures show that wholesale food prices went up 8.2 percent in March, compared to 13.2 percent

As they did in previous months, higher meat prices contributed to the boost in retail costs in April. The AP survey showed that the price of a pound of chopped chuck went up at the checklist store in six cities and frankfurters in-

Richard A. McDougal, president of the National Cattlemen's Association, said, however, that cattle prices — which have been going up - probably are "reaching some sort of plateau" and could level off soon, with retail prices dropping later on. Other increases during April included boosts in the price of frozen orange juice concentrate. The rises reflect lower juice production because of bad weath Florida during recent winters. On the bright side, egg prices declined last month, dropping at the checklist store in 10 cities. On the average, a dozen medium eggs cost 70 cents at the end of April, compared to just over 76 cents at the start of the year.

No attempt was made to weight the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what percent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item

The day of the week on which the check was made varied depending on the month. Standard brands and sizes were used when available. If the requested size and brand was not available on March 1, 1973, a comparable substitute was selected. Items temporarily out of stock on one of the survey dates being compared were not included in the overall total.

The AP did not try to compare actual prices from city to city - to say, for ex-

Dear Sheila:

When I need advice on carpet and rugs, I go to the experts at the Carpet and Rug Institute. They agree that you can be overwhelmed by the number and variety of rugs and carpets when you first visit your retailer.

They said there were many helpful hints which could be given, but each home has its own special conditions which should be considered. Some of these are:

Are you going to carpet your entire home? Are the rooms large or small; light and sunny; dark with a northern exposure? How many in the family? Is yours a young, active family or closer to retirement years? Is the hallway carpet-

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: This is for "Born in 1963," the 15-year-old who defended his generation's music. He also had a few blasts for the crazy tunes of the 1940s. The boy asked, "What is a Flat-Foot Floogie with a Floy Floy?'

I can tell him. It's the ever-popular slum detective of that era and his loose girlfriend. "Born in '63" was boggled by the "Three Little Fishies in the Iddy Biddy Pool." That song was just another nonsense tune like "Mairzy Doats and dozy doats and little lambsie divey... Those wacky numbers were written during World War II - to cheer people up.

His question that really wiped me out was, "What does 'Beat Me, Daddy, I Ate the Bar' mean?" Of course, he meant, "Beat Me, Daddy, Eight to the Bar. This refers to the rhythmic pattern of all boogie woogie music - using eight beats in every measure of 4/4 time."Beat Me, Daddy" is the way people asked the piano player (Daddy) to play the song they wanted to hear. Today's it's "Play that funky music, Jack.

Please tell the cat who wrote that letter to listen again, Ann. Some of that craziness can be very enjoyable. - Also Born In '63

Dear Also Born: Thanks for your enlightened response. I can't allow the discussion to end without adding a few nostalgic reflections of my own. The best recording of "Beat Me Daddy, Eight to the Bar" was Ray McKinley's. What a fabulous piano! And the most danceable number in that whole spate of eight-to-the-bar tunes was the unforgettable Andrews Sisters' rendition of "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy from Company B." I challenge anyone who has this gem in his collection to play it and stay off his feet!

Dear Ann Landers: I take pleasure in lending books to friends; however, my library is rapidly diminishing because too many people fail to understand (as did Abraham Lincoln) that:

1. A book that one borrows should be returned - within a reasonable period of time. The lender should not be put in the uncomfortable position of having to ask

2. A book that is lost or damaged should be replaced. One can be ordered through a bookstore. If the book is out of print it can probably be located through a second-hand store.

3. The party of the second part should NEVER lend the book to a third party at least not without obtaining the owner's Jada Rowland (Carolee Aldrich on "The Doctors") debunked the notion that serials are more progressive and pertinent today than in former times. "Years ago, daytime dramas were more adventuresome in taking stands on issues than they are today. We dealt with head-on confrontations about abortion and independence of women away from home before such subjects were openly discussed and accepted in society," said the actress who grew from a teenager to a young woman during her many-year run as Amy on the defunct "Secret Storm.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you tell me about inverted nipples? Mine never came out. I worry that my husband will find me unattractive. Also, I feel bad because I will never be able to breastfeed my ba-by. I am 25 years old and healthy. — Mrs. B.A.

Truly inverted nipples are rare. "Recessed" is probably the proper term. Much of this depends on your build. If a woman is of slight build and lean, with little breast prominence, her nipples are apt to be recessed. You can test this by gently squeezing the breast between your thumb and forefinger at the edge of the aureola. Note whether the nipple pops out. If this happens you can be helped by a breast shield (the Woolwich breast shield). It may be worn to help the nipple move into proper position.

I think your concern about breastfeeding may be premature. With pregnancy, breasts tend to enlarge somewhat and the nipples become more prominent. Devices like the Woolwich shield can help improve the situation for breastfeeding also. You might consult your physician about the problem. Nipple inversion is cause for concern if it occurs suddenly in a woman whose nipples have been prom-

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Sinus X-rays have shown that I have a cyst in the right maxillary sinus. I have been advised to have surgery to remove it. What would be the equences if I choose to forgo or delay surgery? Should my age (55) have any bearing on this? — A.M.H.

The maxillary sinuses are located opposite the nose in the cheekbones. Because sinus are lined with mucous membranes they are subject to formation of growths like polyps, cysts, and tumors. A cyst, while it may not pose any immediate danger in itself, can grow within a sinus and prevent proper drainage. In this respect removal may be advisable. When drainage is interfered with, the chances of infection increases. This can become chronic and lead to further com-

Every woman can look and feel younger.

Let Pat Walker help create a new you.

S. Nelson is perhaps one of the more spectacular examples of the stunning results that may be attained through Pat Walker's Figure Perfection Salons International. Read what she has to say about the program that has benefited millions throughout the world over the past 26 years: "I hated myself fat, and every new year I promised to really get with it and lose; however, it never happened. Finally my doctor advised me, tactfully, to stay out of his office until I decided to lose weight. He just couldn't help me. Out of desperation, not believing, I called for a courtesy treatment at Pat Walker's.

This was the turning point in my life. With a loss of 51 pounds and several inches, I began to enjoy my life with my friends and family, especially my three grandchildren. The Pat Walker program gave me a positive approach to everyday living."

How's your approach to life?

Now the national director for Pat Walker, Ms. Nelson firmly believes the program can upgrade the life outlook of the overweight as surely as it makes them slimmer, trimmer, more confident of their appearance—and themselves.

In the elegant atmosphere of a Pat Walker salon (where there's none of the noise and confusion you may have encountered at gyms and spas), you can reduce IN ABSO-LUTE PRIVACY. Moreover, you have assistance from interested professional counselors (who also conduct their counseling, by the way, in complete privacy).

Another difference: SYMMETRICON

Symmetricon is the equipment, exclusive to Pat Walker's, providing passive exercise that gently shapes and firms your figure while it also improves your circulation and helps correct posture. You wear your regular street clothes during treatments. INVESTORS' GUIDE

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. An investment company in a nearby state has contacted us with the suggestion that we turn over all our assets to them and that they will guarantee a generous retirement income. A return of 11 or 12 percent is mentioned. We've had not experience with securities and are inclined to go along, especially since the

A. I say no. I'm turned off by the loose usage of such terms as "guaranteed" and "insured." Guaranteed by whom? Insured by whom? Your money, evidently, would be going into real estate mortgages (second mortgages, at that). Whatever property "guarantees" or "insures" your nvestment must satisfy first liens - and, in case of trouble, there may be nothing left over for you.

But most of all I resent the greediness and the total disregard for your wellbeing which shows through in that "turn over everything to us" pitch. That sounds like a "con" operation. I doubt that conservative, prudent investment organizations would argue that you rid yourself of your last penny of reserves, or that you put 100 percent of your retirement assets into one pot.

Granted that you've never owned securities, there is still no excuse for your just throwing up your hands and handing over everything you've spent a working lifetime to accumulate. I don't care whether you have ever owned a share of stock or not. You've heard of savings accounts. You've heard of Treasury bonds. If you've spent any time with this column you know that many retired persons do get an income from investments in corporation bonds.

and preferreds and common shares. In come goes on year after year with the risk level adjusted to the investor's own

I don't expect that every reader will becomes expert" in reading a balance sheet or in analyzing a stock market record but-I don't think it takes too much financial savvy to be assured that if a corporation has paid dividends on its common stock for 80 years, its AAA-rated first mortgage bonds are a reasonable source of retirement income. And if you don't know such rudiments now, take time to learn them. In the meantime, resist any "give us everything" offers. Keep your money in insured savings and find someone you trust

A. $20,000 at 8 1/2 percent comes to $1,-700 a year, which divided by 12 is $141.66.

Q. I think you should have told a woman reader with $40,000 to invest that there are savings programs which will double your money in about 9 years if you allow interest to accumulate.

. No doubt about it. And I have stressed insured savings certificates as a logical choice in today's interest savings certificates as a logical choice in today's interest rate market. As I recall, however, the reader in question needed current income, and interest left to accumulate offers to help with supermaket shopping. Further, interest allowed to accumulate provides no funds for meeting income tax payments on that annual interest

Researcher Dismisses Clone Of Human Being For Present

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) - A researcher at the University of Texas Health Science Center says that cloning of a human being probably is a long, long way from happening, despite all the discussion on the subject.

"Cloning is nothing new - scientists have been cloning bacteria and plants for years," said Dr. Edward G. Rennels, chairman of the anatomy department. "The term 'clone' comes from the Greek word meaning 'young shoot or twig' and originally was used to refer to the part of a plant which was used to start a

"A clone is a colony of cells derived from a single parent cell. Clone also refers to groups or colonies of individual organisms which have arisen from a single individual by asexual reproduction.'

But Rennels maintains the technology, equipment and sophisticated techniques necessary to clone an entire human being probably are not available yet, noting it has been only in recent years that cells were effectively cloned in his

"The moral and legal problems that would arise from such an event (cloning a human) would present even more of an issue than the technological problems,

Rennels, who has been studying the anterior pituitary gland for several years, recently received a three-year renewal of a grant from the National Institute of Arthritis, Metabolism and Diegestive Diseases to continue his investigation involving clones of prolactin-producing cells taken from the pituitary gland of the

The scientist began working with pituitary cell clones in an attempting to define the factors which regulate production of prolactin, a hormone stimulating milk production in the breast.

"In order to study the fuction of certain cell types, such as the cells that secrete this hormone, we need to be able to separate a group of these cells form the other kinds that are present in the pituitary gland, then grow them in a culture for prolonged periods of time," he said.

"But it has only been within the last two years that we have been able to isolate a pure population of normal pituitary cells and maintain them in a test tube

"I'll say this, we'll get some people who will help us," Oiler Coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips said. "In other years, our scouts and our combines have been looking at the players but this year, the coaches went out too. We're as prepared as we can be.

The Oilers were so prepared last week that they completed contract negotia-tions with Heisman Trophy winner Campbell three days after they obtained the No. 1 pick in Tuesday's draft from Tampa Bay and announced they would pick Campbell.

(For Other Draft Developments See, Page 4, Section C) Campbell, who led the University of Texas to within one game of the national championship last year, will appear on the Today show in New York and visit the NFL draft headquarters Tuesday before flying back to Houston to sign his five-year contract.

The Oilers followed up the Campbell acquisition Saturday by trading fullback Don Hardeman, a 1975 first round pick, to Tampa Bay in exchange for Davis, who played in the World Football League and the Canadian Football League prior to joining the Bucs last season.

Even before last week's dealings, Oiler owner K.S. "Bud" Adams had started putting the Oilers' house in order for what he hopes will be an improvement over last year's 8-6 second-place finish in the tough American Football Conference Central Division.

Houston's name will be called first, at 9 a.m. CDT by NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle. And to the surprise of absolutely no one the Oilers will select Campbell.

The Kansas City Chiefs choose No. 2 in the opening round, followed (pending any more trades) by New Orleans, the New York Jets, Buffalo, Green Bay, San Francisco, Cincinnati, Seattle, the New York Giants, Detroit, Cleveland, Atlanta, San Diego, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Tampa Bay, New England, St. Louis, Cleveland, Minnesota, Pittsburgh, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Baltimore, Green Bay, Denver and Dallas.

Is the long National Basketball Association season wearing down the Denver Nuggets?

Some of the Milwaukee Bucks thought so after thumping the Nuggets 119-91 Sunday to tie their best-of-seven quarter-final playoff series at 3-3. The deciding seventh game will be played at Denver Wednesday night.

Also scheduled for Wednesday is the second game of the Philadelphia 76ers-Washington Bullets semifinals. The Bullets stunned the 76ers 122-117 in overtime in their first game Sun-

The Bucks now have won two straight from Denver and Milwaukee subs Alex English and Junior Bridgeman think they know why

"I definitely think Denver is tired, and I think our bench has had a lot to do with it," said English, who came off that bench to score 21 points and grab 10 rebounds in the sixth game.

"I thought Denver played hard and didn't give up, but they seemed tired," said Bridgeman, who pitched in with 12 points. 'Our bench was the difference. It kept the pressure off our starters, and their starters couldn't get to rest too much."

The Nuggets have relied on their three star big men up front - David Thompson, Dan Issel and Bobby Jones - and some of them are starting to show the wear and tear. Issel, for example, managed to connect on only one of 11 shots from the floor Sun-

"I thought Issel was laboring Friday and he was exhausted to- think we caught them down," he said.

day," Larry Brown, coach of the Nuggets, said Sunday. "He just wasn't on the boards, and David is tired, too.'

In the sixth game, Milwaukee's reserves outscored the Denver subs 53-24. That's a 29-point difference and the Bucks won the contest by 28. Washington's bench could turn out to be a factor in the Bullets' second game against the 76ers. Center Wes Unseld sprained his right ankle with 55 seconds remaining in the fourth quarter of the Washington-Philadelphia opener and will miss Wednesday night's game.

X-rays were taken Monday and Dr. Stan Lavine, the Washington team physician, said the ankle will remain in a soft cast for at least another day.

With Unseld sidelined, the Bullets will he hampered under the boards. Mitch Kupchak will replace Unseld. Unseld and Elvin Hayes combined for 28 rebounds in the opener. Hayes, who scored 28 points, was euphoric after the triumph over the heavily favored 76ers. "They're not the physical team that some have made them out to be," said Hayes. "The big difference was that we crashed the boards. We got the ball inside when we wanted to, went outside when we had to and took the best shots. "The only thing I'm looking for is to win the championship," he said. "It's something I wanted all my life." Washington Coach Dick Motta thought the 76ers seven-day layoff after their first round sweep might have hurt them.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) - The most striking aspect of professional basketball today is its greater movement and mobility, on and off the court, says Cliff Hagan, one of five men formally enshrined Monday in the National Basketball Hall of Fame.

"The game is faster now. There's more movement. The players are much more mobile," said the 6-foot-4 Hagan, 47, a former St. Louis Hawk now director of athletics at the basketball-crazed University of Kentucky, his alma mater.

"Geography has been the biggest change, really. The travel is the big thing now. There were only eight teams then, all in the east." Hagan, known for his

The outfield is composed of Tommy Inman, Darius Copley and Richard Bowles, with Brashear the backup man.

The 19th man on the list could be the most important, freshman Bobby Doe. Doe can catch, play third, short, second and the outfield, if necessary. Plus, having a .363 average doesn't hurt, either.

"Third base was the spot I though I'd let one of the players eliminate himself. But Toney has hit the ball well (.342 with 5 homers, 22 RBIs) and Langdon (.297 with 7 homers, 25 RBIs) is one of the best 2 defensive third basemen around," Hays

Pokes Seek Help On Offensive Line

By The Associated Press
DALLAS — Unlike last year, when the Dallas Cowboys made a last-minute trade for the No. 1 pick in the National Football League draft - Tony Dorsett - the Super Bowl champs will wait in line

The Cowboys are at the other extreme. getting the last pick in the first round by virtue of their Super Bowl triumph.

It is expected to be around noon before the Cowboys get a chance to exercise that option. The first round is expected to creep along, as officials of the 28 NFL teams take stock of what is left and which players they want to choose.

Tom Landry, head coach of the Cowboys, said he would like to come out of the draft with some good offensive line-

"Our major concern is in the offensive line because (left tackle) Ralph Neely retired. If Rayfield Wright comes back strong enough we don't have a problem. If he doesn't, we want to be sure we have enough depth there," Landry said.

Because of the Cowboys' computerized system of ranking collegiate players in advance, the draft has become almost an automatic affair for them. They pick the highest rated athlete available regardless

In cases where three or four players are rated practically the same, Landry will draft on the basis of need.

This year's pickin's are considered below average by NFL scouts, so the "can't miss" prospects will go before the first round goes all the way around.

Therefore, chances are excellent that few people beyond Cowboy scouts, his college coach and his parents will recoghize the name of the player Dallas drafts by the time its turn rolls around.

"Oh, there are good players in there," Landry says. "They're just tougher to find, that's all.'

Houston ordinarily would have drafted 17th, but the Oilers traded draft choices with Tampa Bay several days ago and have already agreed on contract terms with Campbell, the University of Texas all-America running back.

Patera will huddle with General Manager John Thompson, player personnel director Dick Mansperger and assistant general manager Mark Duncan in a second-floor meeting room at the club's headquarters bordering Lake Washington. There, Seattle's 10 choices in this year's draft will be made.

"We'll get a fine, fine athlete" in the first round, Mansperger said.

Who that player will be is anybody's

By virtue of its 5-9 record last season. Seattle will pick ninth in the first round. The Seahawks continue to look for defensive players, in the line and the back-

Seattle's drafting plan prescribes picking the best athlete available, offensive or defensive, and this year's draft is topheavy with offensive talent.

Five teams picking ahead of Seattle -Kansas City, New Orleans, the New York Jets, Buffalo and Green Bay would prefer defensive players but are likely to wind up with offensive stars in the first round.

Redskins

NEW YORK - What do you do if you're a new coach with an old team heading into today's draft. If you're Jack Pardee of the Washington Redskins you don't do much of anything - beyond trying to stay awake. The Redskins, you see, used to be coached by George Allen. He had a penchant for tossing away draft choices the way Henny Youngman tosses out one-

Take my picks, please.

The rest of the league did just that which is why Pardee and the rest of the Redskins' front office in Washington and scout Tom Sullivan, their man at the draft in New York, could spend the entire first day doing nothing more than watching a ton of collegiate talent vanish before their very eyes.

Washington doesn't have a pick until the sixth round. The Redskins' No. 1 pick is the 161st overall. That amounts to 12 or 13 hours of name-calling by representatives of each of the 28 teams.

And the 'Skins wouldn't have had one that high in the two-day, 12-round draft if they hadn't sent wide receiver Larry Jones to San Francisco in exchange for tight end Tom Mitchell and that sixth-bottom rounds. Patriots*

FOXBORO, Mass. - No NFL team has a better recent college drafting record than the New England Patriots, who seek to continue the trend.

The Patriots, under coach-general manager Chuck Fairbanks, bring a solid history of handicapping to the 1978 college grab bag.

Since 1973, when Fairbanks arrived from Oklahoma, 10 of the Patriots' 11first-round draft picks have made the team, most as starters and some as

The lone exception is a 1974 pick, Steve Corbett, a guard from Boston College. His neck injury as an undergraduate-a pinched nerve-kept him from becoming an NFL player.

Even in that case, there was agreement that Corbett was a solid prospect and a worthwhile gamble. A player with a similar injury, Steve Grogan, was chosen in the fifth round in 1975 and became a standout.

More than half of the current Patriots' squad, 9-5 last season and 11-3 in 1976. was acquired by the draft. Stars include such first-round picks as offensive guard John Hannah, fullback Sam Cunningham, wide receiver Darryl Stingley, linebacker Steve Nelson, tight end Russ Francis and defensive backs Mike Haynes and Tim Fox.

Before Fairbanks' arrival, New England had a dismal drafting record.

Except for quarterback Jim Plunkett, the top NFL pick by the doormat Patriots in 1971, most of the other selections never contributed significantly to the team and some were NFL flops.

Browns

CLEVELAND - The Cleveland Browns will be seeking to draft the best possible players, regardless of position. according to the club's chief scout.

Mike Nixon said the philosophy has been agreed to by Browns' Coach Sam Rutigliano, general manager Peter Hadhazy and owner Art Modell.

The Browns, who were 6-8 last year and finished on the bottom of the American Football Conference Central Division, have the 12th and 20th picks in the first round, two second choices and two third-round picks.

They know what they need to improve the team, but Nixon said the Browns will not be drafting according to posi-

"The Steelers have proved the soundness of this policy. The year they won the Super Bowl they had three excellent outside receivers. Ron Shanklin, Frank Lewis and Robert Smith. Yet their first two draft picks the next season were Lynn Swann and John Stallworth, both wide receivers." Nixon said.

"These two replace those who took them to the Super Bowl. The Steelers turned around and peddled Shanklin to the Bears and Smith to Oakland for draft picks. That's how you build up a It must be done through the draft," Nixon added.

autographs last weekend in New York when a youngster dropped a dollar bill for him to sign.

"Hey, when I was a kid, I'd have paid $1 for Joe DiMaggio's autograph," Rose said. "I know. Don't say it. I'm not Joe DiMaggio. The youngster stared at him

"Don't you know Joe DiMaggio? Rose asked.

"You know," he coaxed. "Mr. Coffee. The boy nodded.

Rose is in the spotlight these days because of his drive to become the 13th player to reach the plateau of 3,000 career hits.

It looked for awhile like the opportunity might present itself in New York after Rose got five hits on Saturday. Reds manager Sparky Andersonquickly quashed that idea and said Rose would wait until the team returned home to get a shot at the mark

"Shep (pitching coach Larry Shepard) couldn't understand why I had to tell anyone that I'd take Pete out if he got three hits." Anderson said. "Let it take care of itself," he told me. But I have to lay things on the line." The question became academic when Rose went hitless Sunday. Rose now has eight games at home in which to break the record.

"I could go 0-for-30 too," Rose said. "Baseball is a strange game. you know

Sunday was not the first time that Anderson decreed Rose's fate in a baseball game. He has started routinely lifting Rose during late innings for defensive purposes.

"Sometimes he turns to me in the dugout now to ask, 'Am I coming out?,"'Anderson said.

Sonics Thwart Blazers 105-94

SEATTLE (AP) - Wally Walker scored eight points and Fred Brown six in the crucial fourth period to spark the Seattle SuperSonics to a 105-94 victory over the Portland Trail Blazers Monday night. The loss eliminated the defending National Basketball Association champions from the playoffs.

The triumph gave the Sonics a 4-2 margin in the best-of-seven series and sends them into the Western Conference finals against the winner of the Denver-Milwaukee series which concludes in Denver Wednesday night.

The Sonics led 75-69 going into the final period. Walker, a 6-foot-7 forward acquired from the Blazers last November, scored his seventh and eighth points in the period on a pair of free throws with 4:25 left that gave the Sonics a 94-81 lead.

Brown, who finished with 19 points, scored Seattle's next three baskets for a 100-86 Seattle lead, and Jack Sikma followed with a rebound stuff with 1:27 left for a 16-point Sonic lead, their biggest of the game.

The Blazers, obliged to play without regulars Bill Walton and Bob Gross and key reserve Lloyd Neal because of injuries, trailed 55-49 at halftime. They closed to within four points at 73-69 with 28 seconds left in the third period, but a Marvin Webster basket at the buzzer gave Seattle its six-point margin heading into the final quarter. Brown pumped in 11 second-period points as the Sonics scored the final 12 points of Members of golf's Old Guard, who completed the inaugural Legends of Golf Championship here Sunday with Sam Snead and Gardner Dickinson winning the $100,000 first prize, were upset over the occurence.

"It is a terrible thing," commented Dickinson, 51, a longtime tour regular, "It is all a part of Beman's move to put the older players in moth balls.

'Until now, it has always been traditional that a player winning a tour tournament has a lifetime exemption to that event. The new rules which Beman and three players on the Policy Board have pushed through erase all these privileges. "It would be no imposition on the younger players if Roberto were given an exemp-

Czechoslovakia Expels Reporter

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Associated Press reporter Robert H. Reid was expelled from Czechoslovakia Monday, apparently because he interviewed a leading spokesman for the dissident movement in that Communist nation.

Arriving back in Bonn, where he is permanently assigned, Reid said the Passport and Visa Office in the Czechoslovak capital of Prague offered no explanation for ordering him out of the country beyond one official's remark, "That's what the criminal police want."

Keith Fuller, president and general manager of The Associated Press, issueda statement at the AP annual meeting in London Skateboard Mugger Sentenced

LONDON (AP) - A 14-year-old London schoolboy who snatched handbags from women and fled on a skateboard was ordered to serve five years in a detention center after he pleaded guilty to three muggings.

"You are a danger to the community," the judge said to the juvenile during his appearance at Old Bailey central criminal court. The boy also was accused of stealing skateboards from other childAtlanta saying the expulsion "makes a mockery of the Helsinki accords."

Reid, 31, said he had visited dissident spokesman Ladislav Hejdanek on Saturday to check on the status of the Czechoslovak human rights movement. A uniformed policeman standing outside Hej-danek's apartment door held Reid's passport during the 45-minute interview. After Reid left the apartment, he said, the policeman kept him at the building for one hour and 20 minutes until another official arrived and discussed the situation with the guard, who then gave Reid his passport, said "Sorry" and allowed

On Monday morning, Reid said, two men in civilian clothes arrived at his hotel, identified themselves as officers from the criminal police and ordered him to accompany them to a police station. There an official said to be from the passport office looked over his passport and visa and finally told him, "You must leave Czechoslovakia by 6 p.m.'

Reid said he asked why and the official said only that the police wanted it.

"It seemed to me that he was telling me that there was nothing irregular about my documents because he scrutinized those things carefully, and he never mentioned at all that there was anything out of order with those documents, Reid said.

Reid, who arrived in Prague April 22,

Wednesday. His main assignment was to cover the World Ice Hockey Championships, but in his visa application he speci-fied that he also intended to do general

The expelled reporter said he was treated courteously throughout.

Fuller said in his statement. "Bob Reid's expulsion from Czechoslovakia while on a routine reporting assignment makes a mockery of the Helsinki accords. Step by step, the totalitarian states are thwarting the free flow of news and are mounting a campaign to frustrate free, honest reporting about the lives of those people who live without freedom." Hejdanek is a spokesman for the Charter 77 movement, which has been under heavy government pressure to break off its human-rights campaign. The group says it wants to make Czechoslovakia adhere to human rights provisions of the 1975 Helsinki accords and of Czechoslovak law.
