Soviet court sends dissident to labor camp

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet dissident Yuri Orlov was sentenced today to seven years in a labor camp plus five years internal exile, meaning banishment from Moscow.

A Moscow court gave Orlov the maximum sentence on a charge of anti-Soviet agitation and propaganda, based on documents he wrote and distributed to Western correspondents and embassies.

Orlov has been held incommunicado since his arrest 15 months ago.

The verdict was handed down after Soviet police arrested Nobel Peace Prize winner Andrei D. Sakharov and his wife and drove off with them after the couple struck officers outside the court.

Sakharov, the 56-year-old leader of the Soviet dissident movement, demanded that police allow him and his wife, Yelena, to enter the courthouse, from which they had been barred during the first three days of the trial.

The tall, balding Sakharov shouted, "Let me in! Under Soviet law all citizens are allowed in when the sentence is read."

The police appeared to be trying to calm the situation. But there was a scuffle, witnesses said. Mrs. Sakharov slapped a policeman in the face, and her husband hit a policeman who was trying to restrain him.

The police then seized Sakharov by his arms, bundled him and his wife into a green bus and drove away with them.

"Nobel Prize for Orlov!" Sakharov shouted as the bus drove away.

It was the second time the Sakharovs were involved in an incident outside a Soviet courthouse. Two years ago they struck policemen at a courthouse in Omsk, in Siberia, when they were barred from the trial of Mustafa Djemilev, a Tatar nationalist who was sentenced to 2½ years in a labor camp.

Orlov, held incommunicado since his arrest 15 months ago, was charged with anti-Soviet agitation and propaganda. His trial after a two-year Kremlin crackdown on dissidents began Monday, and Western reporters and other dissidents were barred from the heavily guarded courtroom.

Orlov, a 53-year-old physicist, was a founder of a group to publicize Soviet failure to comply with the human rights provisions of the 1975 Helsinki agreement. Since its creation two years ago, the group has passed scores of documents to Western correspondents and embassies.

The prosecution sought to establish Orlov's guilt by presenting documents he wrote and distributed as head of the group and bringing witnesses to reject the charges in the documents.

Orlov's wife Irina told reporters her husband made his own summation Wednesday, but the judge and laughing spectators constantly interrupted him with taunts of "spy" and "traitor."

She said she was stripped and searched on her way out of the courthouse at the end of the day by three plainclothes security men and two women.

Orlov's two sons by a previous marriage, Alexander and Dimitri, also were searched, she said, and their tape recorders were confiscated Tuesday.

Rescue planes take off for Zaire

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Six Belgian military planes took off for Zaire today, vanguard of a joint Western airborne mission to rescue more than 2,500 Europeans and 14 Americans trapped behind rebel lines in Shaba Province, Belgian airport sources said.

The two Boeing 727s and four Hercules C-130 transports carried ammunition, food, drugs and other equipment, as well as supply personnel, to support at least one battalion of crack Belgian paratroopers expected to follow, the sources said.

Belgium's premier, Leo Tindemans, told his nation time was running short for the evacuation of the civilians, most of them Belgians, stranded in the area of the copper mining town of Kolwezi.

"Fighting is taking place in the streets of Kolwezi, and whites are the main targets," he told reporters in Brussels.

Diplomatic sources in London said the preparations were begun with the approval of President Carter and the leaders of France and Britain, as well as Belgium.

The United States will not supply troops or planes for the mission but may provide lesser logistical support of some kind, said a State Department official who asked not to be identified. There had been reports earlier that U.S. planes might transport Belgian or other paratroopers to the Central African nation.

But U.S. officials said about 1,500 U.S. Army paratroopers remained on alert at Fort Bragg, N.C.

The Zaire government reported that its troops had retaken the airport at Kolwezi. Other reports Wednesday had indicated the rebel tribesmen were on the move from the Kolwezi area, which they had seized soon after launching their invasion last week.

The two sides have accused each other of committing brutalities against foreign residents in the battle zone. At least 11 Europeans have been reported killed in the fighting, apparently all Belgians except for one Italian.

The Belgian news agency Belga said a total of about 1,750 Belgian paratroopers and other military personnel were available for the mission to Zaire, the former Belgian Congo colony.

The agency said the airborne force would land at a military air base at the Shaba town of Kamina, 130 miles north of Kolwezi, and use it as a staging area for the evacuation.

Mercury hits 97, tying record; heat to continue

Temperatures dropped early today as a small front moved through the area between 6 and 7 a. m., but it still was expected to get into the high 90s again today, according to the weatherman.

Yesterday's high of 97 degrees tied the all-time high set in 1961. It should get that hot again today, but the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal predicted cooler temperatures for Friday with the high to reach only into the low 90s.

Winds should be northwesterly at 15 to 20 mph today, dropping to 10 to 15 mph tonight.

Area towns reported clear to partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures. No chance of rain was forecast in any of the towns.

Absentee voting set

Absentee voting for the June 3 Democratic and Republican runoff primary elections begins Wednesday and continues from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. May 25, 26 and 30 in the county clerk's office in the Midland County Courthouse.

Republican voters will be selecting a nominee for the 19th Congressional District seat, and Democratic voters will be selecting a nominee for Texas Railroad Commission.

George W. Bush of Midland and Jim Reese of Odessa will be vying for the congressional post. Running for railroad commissioner are Jerry Sadler and John Poerner.

Absentee voting is open to those who plan to be out of the county on election day, persons 65 years old or older, and certain other persons for whom it is difficult to vote on election day.

Women's lib: Free to be enslaved?

Women's lib has been skirting, rarely courting, "man's domain" far longer than the virile side of mankind might want to admit.

Those once wholly passive creatures, though ever the fair sex, are coming on strong.

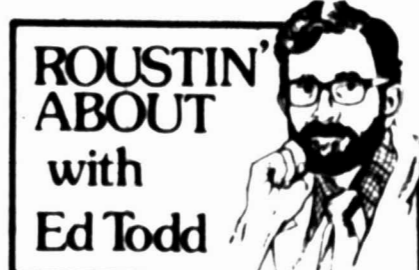

Cast aside your nocturnal fantasies, ye men who would stymie woman-kind's competitive will, and behold the real world... wherever it might be. It, too, is full of dreams.

One aspiration, which has passed the fantasy stage, is woman's right to work in whatever field she desires and to be paid handsomely for her labors, chores, toils, brainstorming, decision making, cunning and, yes, efficiency. Of course, in that regard, equality has not exactly swept over the men of the world.

Women, should they so choose and barring the enslavement of child-bearing, have the right to be workaholics outside the home.

Being liberated, in all its glory, may mean being tied down to a job, which may upgrade a household's spendable income.

It's the right to bail yourself out of a hopeless situation. The only task

ROUSTIN ABOUT with Ed Todd

there is to find the means. Liberate womankind. Free woman that she might be enslaved.

In the ideal, enslavement, like humiliation, is but a state of mind. So, too, you might reason, is liberty and, therefore, women's lib. But in the real world, the state of mind often reflects physical binds and shackles.

"Women's lib is not a recent happening by any means," declares a colorful centerpiece placard on a restaurant table. It depicts a mug of cool beer, and said more: "During the Middle Ages, the art of brewing was done in the households, mostly by women."

If that's an aspect of liberation, then work must be play. If brewers were liberated women back then, well, you can view all the fore-mothers who cooked from scratch as free souls. They were as bound to the kitchen and hearth as their men were to the soil they tilled or the cattle they herded.

Reformist Martin Luther, though gravely concerned about the "soul" and the restrictions on spiritual liberties of his time, nevertheless declared that "Women should remain at home, sit still, keep house, and bear and bring up children." His protestations, of course, bent toward the religious. And women's lib, like so many causes and manias, can evolve into a religion. If so, may it be one of reason and logic for the benefit of mankind.

Golda Meir, Israeli political leader and the nation's former prime minister, offered this view on The Lib: "Whether women are better than men I cannot say — but I can say they are certainly no worse."

Billy has them buzzing, not over his guzzling

ARAPAHOE, Colo. (AP) — On the cactus-studded plains of eastern Colorado, celebrities are few and far between. So folks were abuzz at the filling station and Connie's Cut 'n' Curl when Billy Carter came to town to speak to Arapahoe High School's nine graduating seniors.

They cleaned up the town, fed him a potluck supper and gathered a crowd of 2,000 for standing ovations before and after the Wednesday night speech, made from atop hay bales covered with boards.

The members of the Class of '78 shared the makeshift stage. Four of the seven boys will go on to college and three plan to stay on their families' farms and ranches. Both girls in the class are already married.

In his first ever commencement address, prepared by his agent, Carter noted that if he'd had just eight others in his high school class, he would have graduated in the top 10.

Carter stumbled a bit in making the speech, then put down his notes and said, "This is the proudest moment of my life."

Few people ever stop in Arapahoe. They don't even slow down. The speed limit remains 55 mph on U.S. 40 through the half mile of town.

None of the 65 townsfolk could remember the last time a "name" came to town. Over at the Shamrock Gas Station, where locals shop for gas, fertilizer, bubblegum and ice cream, Bob Roberts thought a long time but couldn't remember "anyone near famous" during his 28 years in town.

"Ron, didn't Teddy Roosevelt stop near here with some Russian duke to shoot buffalo?"

Attendant Ron Robinson nodded. "Course that was before our time," he added.

Not everyone took to Arapahoe's moment of fame. At the gas station, town character "Smiley" told a reporter and photographer "where to put their camera" when they asked for a photo, said Robinson.

Some students, like senior Phil Lewis, said they thought "a regular, quiet little graduation" might have been nicer — and less trouble.

Carter cited his own small town background in agreeing to come to Arapahoe and waiving his usual speechmaking fee.

The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — Justice Department attorneys have recommended seeking a grand jury indictment of the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. and its former chief operating officer, A.C. Kotchian on charges arising from secret payoffs to Japanese government officials, sources said Wednesday.

The recommendation, which calls for the first criminal prosecution of a major corporate executive growing out of a 20-month probe into overseas payoffs, has not yet gone to Attorney General Griffin B. Bell, but customarily makes the final decision on whether to proceed with such major cases. Thus, no action is imminent.

Further, an attorney general or other high-ranking Justice Department officials can — and sometimes do — reject staff attorneys' recommendations on grounds of insufficient evidence or other weakness in the government cases.

Kotchian, who also held the post of vice chairman, said he would have no comment, and officials at Lockheed's Burbank, Calif., headquarters de-

Further Biko probe termed unnecessary

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Justice Minister James T. Kruger says a probe he ordered into the death of black leader Steve Biko found some of the policemen involved made "errors in judgement" but that further inquiries are unnecessary.

Biko died of brain injuries in police detention last September. A magistrate's inquest ruled no one was to blame but it did not determine how Biko received the injuries that killed him.

Kruger told parliament Wednesday that after the inquest he was dissatisfied with three aspects of the probe and ordered a senior police official to conduct an investigation.

He said he wanted to know why Biko had not been taken to a local hospital, why police interrogating Biko had not made more frequent reports to superiors, and why they decided to transport him naked 750 miles in a landrover.

In light of the Biko affair, Kruger said existing regulations governing treatment of detainees would be tightened up.

He said doctors will be called to treat prisoners as soon as they show signs of being sick, government officials will be notified when prisoners are hospitalized, and no sick detainees will be moved from one city to another.

clined comment as well. The Justice Department also refused to comment.

The recommendation, first reported by United Press International and confirmed by the Los Angeles Times, calls for no action against Lockheed's former chairman, Daniel J. Haughton. Both men resigned from the aerospace firm in early 1976.

It could not be learned what criminal statutes are involved in the proposed action. However, when the Justice Department created a special unit to investigate overseas payoffs in October, 1976, possible violations cited included wire and mail fraud laws, making false statements to government lending agencies and the Bank Secrecy Act.

Lockheed spent almost $38 million for bribes and payoffs to help sell its aircraft in foreign countries, according to a company report filed last year with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Top government officials in Japan, the Netherlands and Italy were involved in the scandal.

Most of the payoffs were distributed between 1970 and 1975 when the company was suffering severe financial problems.

Lockheed distributed large amounts of cash in direct payoffs, and kept secret records and bank accounts to hide the bribes.

Kotchian, who was chief operating officer, said in congressional testimony that Lockheed had paid $2 million to Japanese government officials and more than $1 million to a member of the Dutch government.

"We don't condone this, but...it was the only way we could sell aircraft," Kotchian told the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on multinational corporations during an appearance in Feb., 1976.

The money was given away "to establish a climate of goodwill and a climate in which our product would receive exposure," Kotchian told the subcommittee.

To settle an SEC lawsuit, Lockheed agreed to prepare a report on its payoffs. Outside corporate directors, board members who did not work for Lockheed, supervised the 14-month investigation. The report, filed with the SEC last year, said the company spent nearly $38 million for bribes and payoffs. Recipients of the bribes were not identified because of the "grave damage" that the company said might be caused by disclosure.

Haughton and Kotchian "encouraged a distortion of ethical values in the company's marketing overseas, which resulted in most of the questionable foreign payments and practices," the report said.

Japan's All Nippon Airways ordered Lockheed L-1011 TriStar jets in 1972. The sale was initially valued at $130 million, a figure raised to $500 million when the order was increased.

Economist favors price controls for large companies

The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — The government should fight inflation by setting price controls for large companies — those with 1,000 or more workers — and by limiting wage increases in union contracts, economist John Kenneth Galbraith said Wednesday.

Small firms, which suffer most from high interest rates and complex government regulations, should be exempt from any controls, he told the antitrust subcommittee of the House Small Business Committee.

Galbraith, a former president of the American Economic Association and a Democrat, was invited to testify before the subcommittee. He also has been visiting members of Congress this week to present his views on inflation and unemployment.

The Carter administration's campaign for voluntary restraint on wages and prices won't work because "it gives a special premium to the man who is a Galbraith said in an interview.

He explained that a voluntary program "penalizes" the company that cooperates while other firms ignore the government and raise prices.

Controls on the powerful segments of the economy "do not interfere with free market operations," Galbraith wrote in a memorandum he is distributing to the Democratic Study Group, an organization of liberal Democratic congressmen, and the Black Caucus. He made a copy available to The Los Angeles Times.

"When the prices of the thousand largest corporations are fixed, you are fixing prices that, in effect, are already fixed," the memorandum said. "It is private price-fixing that makes necessary the public price restraint."

Controls should be restricted to "the large corporations, their high-salaried staff, collective bargaining contracts, farm support policy, and public pay and policy," it added. "Where there is no power to raise prices, no controls are needed or useful."

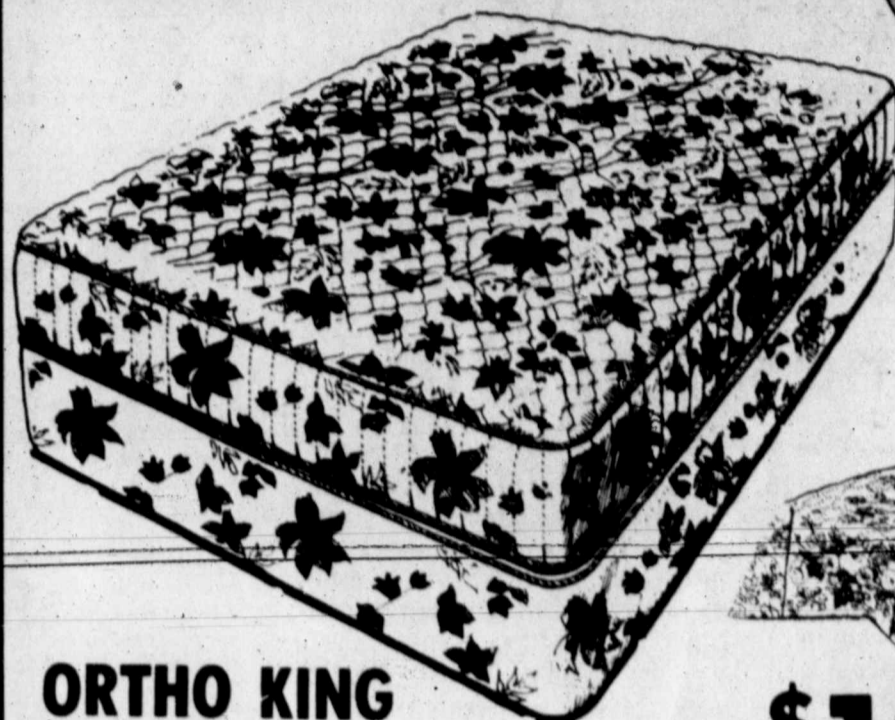

During his testimony in a hearing room crowded with executives from small businesses, Galbraith said modern economic policies discriminate against all but the largest corporations. Fighting inflation by restricting bank lending makes it harder for small companies to raise money, he said, adding that big firms are better off because they have more cash on hand and can easily pass along the impact of higher interest rates.

In the regulatory field, Galbraith said, big firms can easily handle reporting rules and paperwork, while small companies with overworked owners are hard-pressed.

Small firms are also prey to being gobbled up by bigger companies, he said. He called for a "much more alert" reaction by the Justice Department and Federal Trade Commission to possible antitrust violations in takeover efforts by large firms.

After Galbraith's testimony, Rep. Berkeley Bedell, D-Iowa, said, "I've been amazed at the power of big business in determining what national policy shall be."

Of sickness, health

A sick, weak Leonid Brezhnev faltered a few times during his three-day visit to West Germany, but he could go home with the satisfaction that his summit meeting with Chancellor Helmut Schmidt was worth the strain.

It was more of a Soviet show than a German one all along. When it was over, the Russians could count it a plus, even if it confirmed the rumors around Moscow that Brezhnev's health was going from bad to worse.

The illness of the Soviet president feeds speculation about the future of the Kremlin leadership, but it should not detract from the significance of what was going on in Bonn.

Brezhnev, ailing or not, has jumped into the middle of President Carter's problems with Germany and our other European allies.

Brezhnev went into the heart of the Western camp to let it be known that Mr. Carter's attempt to finesse the issue of the neutron bomb is not going to work. There will be no reduction in the Warsaw Pact tank forces in Eastern Europe. Mr. Carter had hoped for such a tit for tat so he could cancel production of the new U.S. weapon designed to help counterbalance the superiority of those forces.

Instead, Brezhnev used his Bonn visit to get in another lick at the "inhumanity" of the neutron weapon, keeping Mr. Carter on the defensive. The Soviet government will carry its propaganda campaign against the weapon to a special United Nations meeting on disarmament in New York this month.

Schmidt, whose government has acknowledged that West Germany would be safer if the new field weapon were deployed, was left to swallow his embarrassment and join Brezhnev in a declaration on arms control and disarmament — the platitudes of "peace" which the well-armed Russians scatter wherever they go.

Indeed, the principal message Brezhnev was carrying was that the Soviet Union remains dedicated to detente, and that it is Mr. Carter's neutron bomb, and not the Soviet arms buildup in Eastern Europe and Russian adventuring elsewhere in the world, that most imperils it.

Thus, the Reds of Russia have scored again, at the expense of the United States of America.

West Germans, who live under the muzzle of the Soviet threat, have warmed to the subject ever since former Chancellor Willy Brandt launched "Ostpolitik" with a Soviet friendship treaty in 1970.

The 25-year trade agreement emerging from the Brezhnev-Schmidt meeting is Ostpolitik revisited — a new attempt by the Russians to draw German attention to the possibilities of economic cooperation with the Soviet Union.

With U.S. inflation and trade deficits straining the economic dialogue between Bonn and Washington, this was a well-timed move by Moscow.

Somehow the Red rulers always know how and when to slip in to gain the advantage and to get the upper hand.

There is nothing hesitant or infirm about Soviet foreign policy even if the man who represented it in Bonn is battling three different diseases.

Moscow is as adept as ever at exploiting weakness in the West — right now, the vacillation of President Carter on an issue important to the defense of central Europe and the worries of West Germans about the ability of their Western trading partners, including the United States, to deal with the problems in their own economies.

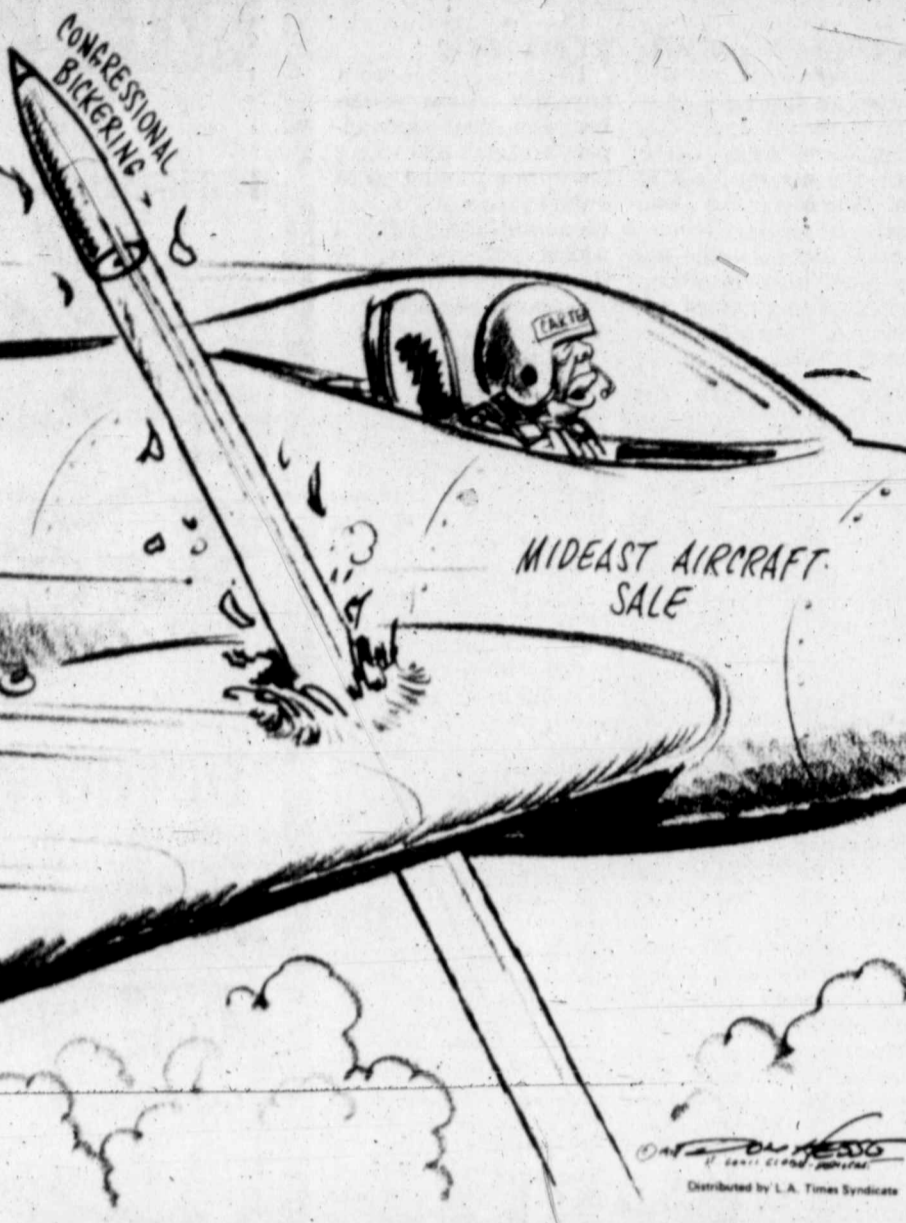

A whole lot of Americans undoubtedly are concerned about this very same thing.

'THIS IS LEADER — I HAVEN'T LOST CONTROL'

CHARLEY REESE: Let's not confuse office with person who holds it

By CHARLEY REESE
Sun Belt Syndicate
ORLANDO, Fla. — Occasionally a reader will charge me with the use of "intemperate" language as, for example, when I refer to Jimmy Carter as a two-bit South Georgia politician and a liar.
The president, these people say, deserves more respect. I disagree. I think the people deserve more respect than Carter has shown for their intelligence.
A person who says something that is not true and that he knows at the time he says it is not true is a liar. He may also be the President of the United States but he remains a liar and "liar" is a perfectly good word.
In the vernacular of the South, a two-bit politician is an office holder who is undistinguished by accomplishment and distinguished by a habit of saying whatever he has to, to win a vote. Carter's only accomplishments of note are winning two elections, both of which he won by saying what people wanted to hear regardless of his own beliefs, intentions or abilities. Hence, he is a two-bit politician.
I don't wish to play games, though. I understand the concern of people who feel a deep respect for the institutions and offices in our government.
They are, however good their intentions, falling into a dangerous trap. For our own good, we must never confuse the office with the human being who holds it nor must we allow the office to cloak the individual with virtues he does not possess.

For all the chatter about the so-called post-Watergate syndrome, most Americans maintain a split attitude toward their officials. They damn them as a group but when it gets down to individuals, they generally support them.
The politician knows he can sell their souls to the devil so long as he answers their mail, slaps them on the back when he meets them and occasionally does them some small personal favor.
I've seen people beam because a congressman answered their letter. Why shouldn't he answer it? They pay him a fat salary plus about a half a million bucks for aides, stationary, stamps, and secretaries.
The fundamental error in most people's thinking is to believe that because a man or woman becomes an office holder that he or she is automatically special. That's wrong, wrong, wrong.
Anybody can become a skillful political campaigner. There are certain skills that have to be developed, but none of them require either great intelligence or high moral character. With the mass marketing techniques available today I would not be surprised to see a robot elected president.
From my personal experience with successful politicians, I have concluded that most of them are interchangeable with actors and that the two trades require almost identical skills and traits — stamina, good looks, verbal skills, and the ability to project emotions. Both trades tend to attract people with big egos.
The point we Americans must keep in mind is that the country belongs to us. We create the government and we create the wealth which the government confiscates and re-distributes. We hire politicians to perform jobs and we have every right to criticize their performance and to fire them.
Reverence for politicians is a deviation from the American tradition which was to treat them as equals, not superiors. Even the criticism leveled at Richard Nixon is mild compared to the broadsides that were fired at men like Thomas Jefferson and Andrew Jackson.
Jackson, by the way, rode to Washington on horseback to assume the presidency. We have come a long way indeed when today we spend $50,000 a year to hire personal aides for Jimmy Carter's wife.
Maybe you like the idea of kings and queens but my knees are too stiff to bend.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Qaddafi has pals in high places

By JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — Terrorist activity around the world has been traced to Libya, whose austere leader Muammar Qaddafi looks upon himself as a world revolutionary. He is an international Don Quixote, with his own peculiar Muslim-Marxist philosophy and a confused notion that he heads a new world order.
Qaddafi is widely regarded as one of the world's most dangerous and irresponsible leaders. Without much thought for the consequences, he has organized, trained, funded and armed an international network of terrorists. Most of them are anarchists who pay lip service to his strange ideology as long as he is handing out free weapons.
Yet despite his long history of senseless terrorist acts, the mercurial Qaddafi appears to be developing a cozy relationship with some American political, business and academic leaders.
The Commerce Department, for example, is close to approving the sale of 400 heavy-duty trucks to Libya. Competent sources claim these could be used as tank transports.
The Federal Aviation Administration has agreed to train 18 Libyans as navigational aides at its Oklahoma City training academy. The 32-week schooling will begin June 1. An additional 10 Libyans will take a 24-week course in technical aviation skills at the FAA academy.
The State Department has also approved the sale of an executive jet, liner, with a 7,000-mile range, to Qaddafi. But the department has had second thoughts about allowing Lockheed to deliver eight C-130 transport planes that Qaddafi has already paid for. The department has also blocked the export of spare parts for C-130s that have already reached Libya; called home an American maintenance team serving the C-130s in Libya, and disapproved the sale of two giant 727 jets to Qaddafi.

Our sources say that Libya, meanwhile, has been able to procure U.S. arms through the back door. These include 110 Smith and Wesson night sights smuggled out of France for Libya's tank force, as well as several Boeing-Virtol Chinook helicopters sold to the Libyans by an Italian subsidiary.
To enhance his influence, Qaddafi has pledged to contribute $750,000 to Georgetown University's respected foreign service school, which graduates more U.S. foreign service officers than any other university. The grant would promote Arab studies, and the first $150,000 installment already has been paid.
This has provoked a stiff protest from Rabbi Stephen Listfield who wrote privately to Dean Peter Krogh at Georgetown: "I surely don't need to tell you that the government of Libya gives financial, physical and moral support to some of the world's most brutal terrorists. The government of Libya has harbored some of the world's most vicious hijackers."

In a return letter, Krogh not only praised Qaddafi's grant but actually defended his regime. "I went to Libya," he wrote, "spent better than a week there and came away with the impression that the government there was providing humanely for its people and doing the best it could with limited traditions and knowledge of government."
"In the process, they have been trying to evolve a form of government not unlike the system of New England town meetings, which is where our country began when it had a population about the size of Libya's."

DOLEFUL DOLE: A conscientious Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., seeking information about human rights violations in communist countries, established a committee of ethnic experts last year to give guidance on events behind the Iron Curtain.
One of the unpaid advisors Dole appointed was an aging refugee named Jozef A. Mikus who now lives in this country. We have discovered that Mikus was formerly the chief of protocol for Adolf Hitler's Slovak stooge, Joseph Tiso.
These facts are undisputed: Mikus became a key diplomatic official for Tiso when the latter was installed as Hitler's Slovak puppet during the Holocaust days of the Nazi conquest. Mikus was posted as secretary of the Slovak embassy in Rome and as charge d'affaires in Madrid before being promoted to Tiso's chief of protocol from September 1944, to March, 1945.
Reliable historians report that the Tiso cat's paw regime relentlessly persecuted Slovak Jews and other unfortunates. In 1942, an estimated 65,000 Jews were transported to Germany, most of them marked for the gas chambers.
There is no evidence that Mikus was directly involved in any of the genocides of his government. But to this day, he staunchly defends Tiso who was hanged as a war criminal when the communists took over Czechoslovakia.
"To say that Tiso was a Nazi collaborator is nonsense," Mikus expostulated.
"Our associate Gary Cohn asked the former college professor if he regretted serving the Hitler-imposed government in his homeland. "I don't regret it," he replied with a note of pride. "I worked for the better future of my country, and I don't have anything to regret."
Our sources informed us that Dole was totally unwitting of Mikus's background when naming him to the advisory ethnic council and that the Slovak exile attended the group's first meeting on March 30, 1977. Soon thereafter, Dole's office received a phone call warning of Mikus's troubled past, and he was never invited to further meetings of the panel.

INSIDE REPORT:

Cleveland situation reflects pathology of politics

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

CLEVELAND—Skinny, 5-foot-6 Mayor Dennis Kucinich, looking younger than his 31 years and seemingly overwhelmed by events as he sits behind the huge desk in his high-domed office asks plaintively: "Is that any reason to throw me out?"
He is referring to widespread outrage over his appointment of a 21-year-old woman, undereducated and inexperienced, as assistant director of safety supervising the police department. That is only one of the many bizarre events during the seven months since his election which have generated pressure for his recall from office. Yet even political enemies privately agree with Kucinich that no documentary case can be made for his ouster.
Rather, his sudden decline quickly following his spectacular rise reflects the pathology of American politics today, particularly in the big city. With the breakdown of party organization and of ideological loyalties, the neo-populism of a Kucinich only superficially fills the political vacuum. While embarrassed Clevelanders call events here a "national joke," the "joke" is but an exaggerated form of what is happening everywhere.
Cleveland's problem is familiar. The middle-class exodus to the suburbs has reduced the city's population by one-third over the last 25 years, leaving disproportionate numbers of the poor, the old, the unskilled, the black and the hopeless. City employee salary demands strain the budget. Racial conflict threatens. Organized crime infiltrates the power structure.

After inadequate administrations in city hall, Kucinich—called Dennis by enemy and friend alike—suddenly emerged as the savior. He became advocate of the city's white ethnic West Side a decade ago as the boy city councilman attacking black Mayor Carl Stokes and is a steadfast foe of school busing ordered to begin here soon. But his basic campaign appeal in 1977, transcending mere racism, was his challenge to the calcified establishment, vowing higher taxes on big business.
Kucinich became a national figure overnight, celebrated in the news magazines. In an eccentric political departure, he hired Richard Hongisto, the permissive sheriff of San Francisco, as police chief and thereby gained a gilt-edged liberal passport. After his oratory brought standing ovations from ultra-liberals at a California convention, politicians here wondered: could it possibly be Dennis-for-president on the 1984 Democratic ticket?
His sudden decline has no rational explanation. Firing Hongisto over live television was the climax, not the cause. Harsh treatment of opponents, arrogance, brashness of young aides and overblown rhetoric hurt Kucinich. But, as with the 21-year-old woman running the police department, he justifiably asks of all this: "Is that any reason to throw me out?"
Certainly, Hongisto never substantiated the charges of corruption in Dennis' city hall that got him sacked.

The West Side erode to the point that today he would probably lose a recall election if the courts decide recall petitions are valid? The best answer is that a despondent electorate chose Kucinich to champion them in their misery and turned against him when he proved merely mortal, or perhaps a shade less. Lacking clear philosophy, he now lacks a base.
"I am eclectic," he told us. He listed his political heroes: Richard J. Daley, Bobby Kennedy and Huey P. Long. He also admires Republican Gov. James Rhodes of Ohio and Vice President Mondale. After praising Chicago's Daly as "a very good mayor," Kucinich said somewhat confusingly: "They say you can't fight city hall, but I did—I fought city hall."
That reflects a condition not unknown to Washington—the outsider in power, still fighting city hall. For the mayor this is compounded by reliance on his assistant: Sherwood (Bob) Weissman, a former radical turned labor leader who set the administration's abrasive tone when he informed business leaders meeting at the exclusive Union Club that the mayor did not need their help. That contemptuous tone is echoed in the mayor's refusal to encourage construction projects by SOHIO and Republic Steel desperately needed in Cleveland.
Are "special interests" behind the effort to recall him? Kucinich warmed to the question: real estate and banking, the privately owned electric utility, the regular Democratic party of Cuyahoga County and, mostly, organized crime.

the small society

"The recall," he added, "is an attack on our system of government. I believe it is un-American."
His immediate problem is not so grandiose: the specter of municipal bankruptcy. Kucinich inherited severe fiscal problems. He intensified them a little by generous municipal wage hikes and a lot by refusing to sell a municipal light plant. The mayor concedes the city will be flat broke if a bond sale is not approved.
But this fall from grace was not caused by mundane fiscal problems. Instead, Kucinich is both product and victim of a new political rhetoric. We asked a young liberal Democrat politician here, spawned in the protest of Vietnam, whether he preferred the structured old politics that produced Cleveland's stodgy mayors of the 1950s and early 1960s or the unstructured new politics that produced Dennis Kucinich. He quickly opted for the good old days.

Chaplin body snatchers say story about ransom gave them idea

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — The two men who stole Charlie Chaplin's body said they got the idea from news reports about grave robbers in Italy who collected ransom for the body of a prominent Italian, the magistrate in charge of the Chaplin investigation reported.

The 300-pound oak coffin containing the body of the famed film comedian was found Wednesday buried in a cornfield 10 miles from the village cemetery of Corsier-Sur-Vevey where Chaplin was buried Dec. 27. Police said the body had not been touched.

The coffin was stolen about 2 a.m. on March 2. Examining Magistrate Jean-Daniel Tenthorey told a news conference two East European refugees who had been working as automobile mechanics in Lausanne, a Pole and a Bulgarian, were arrested Tuesday after the police traced a telephone call they made to the Chaplin family's lawyer demanding ransom for the remains. Tenthorey said the two men confessed, but their identities were not announced because of a Swiss law protecting the identity of first offenders. The magistrate said the Pole is 24, single and lost his job in December, while the Bulgarian is 38 and has a family.

Both had received political asylum in Switzerland, he said. The magistrate said the men told him they drove to the unguarded cemetery in a small truck one of them owns. It took them two hours to dig the coffin up, then they dragged it to the truck and drove it to Hermann Bronnimann's cornfield outside Noville, a village at the eastern end of Lake Geneva.

Tenthorey said the robbers waited several weeks, then contacted the Chaplin family and demanded $600,000 ransom. The demand was eventually lowered to $250,000.

Telephone calls were pouring in to the Chaplin family and the police, but "let's just say that among all the false demands we received, this demand was serious, and taken seriously," Tenthorey said.

The magistrate's account continued: The police arranged a payoff twice, but "at the last moment the kidnapers broke off all contact and never showed up to collect the money." Meanwhile, Chaplin's widow refused to pay for the return of the body, and the police waiting at the rendezvous were carrying no money.

The ransom negotiations were conducted by telephone. The police set up a watch on 200 booths in the Lausanne area. An electronic tracing system installed at the office of the Chaplin's lawyer, Jean-Felix Paschoud, led to the arrest of one of the men. He was taken to police headquarters, his voice was compared with tape recordings of calls received by Paschoud and the Chaplin family. He confessed, revealed the name of his accomplice and took the police to the cornfield.

Zambian chief of state assured of U.S. assistance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda, winding up a two-day state visit, is leaving the capital with assurances of an increase in U.S. economic aid for his country's hard-pressed economy, administration officials say.

The officials, who asked not to be identified, said the reason for the increase is two-fold: To offset the impact of the falling price of copper, Zambia's chief export, and to minimize the possibility of closer Zambian ties with Cuba and the Soviet Union.

It was not clear whether the announcement of the increase would be made during Kaunda's visit, which ends today after a final meeting with President Carter and a speech at the National Press Club.

After meetings Wednesday with Carter and Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, Kaunda made it clear he has a much less alarmist view than Washington about the presence of some 40,000 Cubans stationed in more than a dozen African countries.

Carter recently assailed Cuban involvement in Africa, calling it "contrary to the peaceful settlement of disputes that are inevitable in Africa."

But Kaunda told reporters Wednesday, "I'm not sure there is a single Cuban on the continent of Africa who has not been invited by leaders of the continent."

"So long as this is the case, it is not easy for any one of us to condemn the Cuban presence on the continent," he urged decisive action against the type of situations which "make it possible for Cubans, or indeed white mercenaries in Rhodesia, to be there."

U.S. officials admit the administration made a mistake when it decided to reduce aid to Zambia from $34.8 million to about $24 million for fiscal 1979.

They said the reduction was based on the assumption that copper prices would rise. Instead, the prices have dropped, and the decision to increase the 1979 aid level by an undisclosed amount is aimed at compensating for the decrease in foreign exchange earnings, officials said.

Weed-killers believed possible cancer cause

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Two weed-killers used in New Hampshire have the potential to cause birth defects and cancer in humans, a federal agency and some independent scientists say.

Last month, the federal Environmental Protection Agency launched an intensive study of one of the compounds — 2,4,5-T — because birth defects and cancer it produced in rats and mice suggest a threat to humans.

Even critics doubt that the compounds, 2,4,5-T and Silvex, pose an immediate danger. But they want questions about long-term dangers answered.

One question, says Matthew Meselson, a Harvard biochemist, is how well humans tolerate TCDD — also known as dioxin — which is an unavoidable contaminant found in minute quantities in both compounds. Meselson says an oral dose of TCDD less than one one-billionth of the weight of a guinea pig will kill the animal.

Critics also question the effectiveness of federal regulation of all herbicides and pesticides. A 1976 congressional staff report said many such chemicals probably "would be found to be unsafe if EPA regulated pesticides the way it is required to under the law."

Both Silvex and 2,4,5-T are used throughout the United States.

Consulting engineer, inventor doesn't go by book

CANYON, Texas (AP) — Of Wiley Stockett's inventions, probably his electrically powered motor chair caused him the most frustration.

He designed and built the device for handicapped people, but had to stop production after selling about 40 units.

"It was the old ladies that did us in," he said. "Some of them had never driven a car, and they were taking the chair downtown and pulling out in front of cars."

Stockett, 70, has designed and built windmills, electric wheelchairs, steam and electric cars, sawmill equipment and water distillers.

"Inventor is not a very good word to some people. It's kind of like drinking," he said. "You have to be willing to try new ideas. You can't go by the book. A man like me doesn't know that it is not supposed to work."

Stockett has made his living by his inventions. He is a consulting engineer for the Alternative Energy Institute at West Texas State University.

He first entered the windmill design field in the 1930s, then abandoned that when the formation of rural electric cooperatives made windmills unnecessary.

With the advent of the energy crisis, the windmill market has picked up again.

"I have built 10 windmills in the past six years, all of which have been experimental models," Stockett said. Of all his inventions, Stockett said designing windmills is the toughest.

"Designing windmills is more complex than going to the moon," he said. "If you don't believe it, ask NASA (National Aeronautics and Space Administration). They are discontinuing their wind research program because they have been unable to produce a successful model.

"There are tremendous forces in windmills that you would never expect," he said.

Stockett also has designed and built an electric car, which he has produced in three and five battery models. The three-battery model can travel up to 20 miles an hour for about 30 miles, he says. WTSU officials are looking into fabricating a cab for the five-battery model and donating it for use by the WTSU maintenance staff.

Generating the electricity to recharge the car's battery would be one of Stockett's windmills.

Also among his inventions is a steam car capable of going at least 75 miles per hour.

Stockett said before he could walk, he was tearing up clocks. Before too long, he was putting some of them back together.

Barbecue Tips

Want to be daring and different? Try this. You'll like it! Slather plain mustard all over a 5 or 6 lb. Chuck Roast, with or without bone. Sprinkle heavily with plain table salt until the mustard disappears from sight. Flop the Chuck Roast directly onto the hot coals, salt and mustard side down. Leave it there for a half hour or longer, depending on how rare or well done you want it. Repeat the process on the flip side. The Salt/Mustard will flake off in charred sheets, leaving the meat juicy, ready to serve. (A Bone-In Chuck Roast will take slightly longer than Boneless.)

Great old-time "Roasting Ears"

Remove the silk and peel the husk back from tender, young ears of Sweet Corn but do not detach. Soak the ears in a tub of ice water for 15 minutes or so. Then, without draining, re-wrap each ear in its own husk with a sprinkle of salt and pepper and a pat of butter. Roll ears in squares of foil, twisting the ends of foil to seal. Roast on your barbecue grill for approximately 1/2 hour, not too close to the coals.

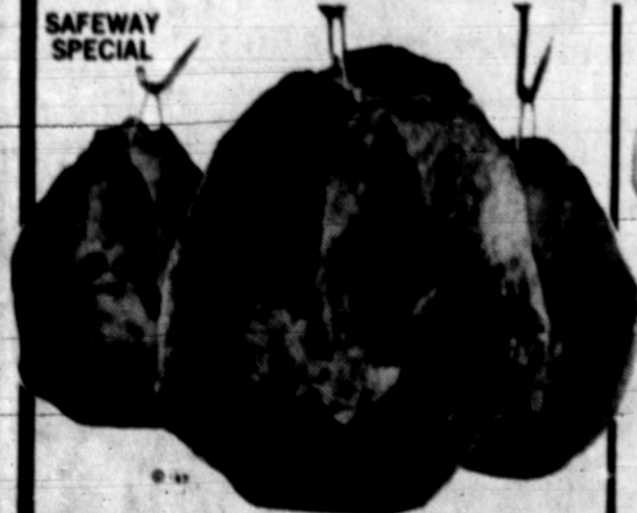

Barbecue Sauce

- Add a TEASPOONFUL of Celery Seed to your store-bought Barbecue Sauce. Don't know why but this everyday spice seems to add a perky flavor and texture.
- An ordinary string 'dish-mop' is probably the best Barbecue Sauce swab ever invented. Lasts a long time with minimum care; adds no taste of its own; far outwears the plastic-bristle kind. (Try to get one with a wooden handle.)
- If you have fruit trees or even one fruit tree, you probably do some pruning during the year. Save the twigs and branches! Then, when you want to impart a flavorful wood-smoke tang to your barbecued meats, cut the twigs and branches into 2 or 3 inch lengths. Soak them in water for an hour or so, and drop them on the coals. Better yet, keep a bucket full of sodden twigs ready at all times for your next barbecue.

Federal Reserve describes farmland as good investment

By ANDY WELCH
Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Farmland is said to be "a good investment," at least from the Federal Reserve Bank's point of view.

According to Dallas economist Alan M. Young, writing in the bank's monthly "Voice," farmland in Louisiana, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas is now selling for 6.9, 5.4, 7.7 and 6.7 times more, respectively, than in 1949.

The national average increase in farmland, over the last 29 years, has been seven times the selling price in 1949, the report states.

"These large price increases have made farmland a good investment during these years," Young writes.

Since 1971, returns to farmland—the rise in value plus income—have averaged about 19 percent each year in the United States, while comparable rates of return on common stocks and bonds have averaged about five and eight percent, respectively.

This 19 percent return which Young quotes on farmland, consists of an estimated four percent in current income increases and about 15 percent in price increases.

In Texas, and elsewhere in the Southwest, farmland prices have not increased as much as the national average.

Since 1971, average land price increases for Louisiana, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas have been 9.0, 9.7, 13.0 and 10.7 percent, respectively.

Young also points out in his research that, "Prospects for farmland returns for the next two or three years are much less spectacular than the increases in recent years." He bases this projection on apparent price constraints on five major crops—corn, wheat, grain sorghum, cotton and soybeans—where production costs are projected to rise steadily.

U.S. farmland prices will increase an average of five to six percent per year in the foreseeable future, Young predicts.

The rationale used in the report to account for the increase in farmland prices since 1949 include inflation, population growth, and technology.

As Young explains it: As advancing technology makes it feasible for individual farmers to work larger acreages, the farmers' demand for farmland has increased. And the demand for more land as residential and recreational sites and public uses such as roads, schools, airports and parks has also increased.

DEATHS

Veda Hodge

Services for Veda Hodge, Midland civic leader and philanthropist, will be at 2 p.m. Friday in the First Baptist Church.

Officiating will be Dr. Guy D. Newman, chancellor of Howard Payne University in Brownwood, and Dr. Daniel Vestal, pastor of the First Baptist Church here. Burial, directed by Newline W. Ellis Funeral Home, will be in Resthaven Memorial Park.

Mrs. Hodge, the widow of pioneer Midland theater owner J. Howard Hodge, died Wednesday in a Midland hospital following an illness.

She was president of the Midland College Foundation Board of Trustees and was president of the Howard Payne University's Board of Trustees.

"Midland College has lost a great friend and supporter," Midland College President Dr. Al G. Langford said of Mrs. Hodge.

She had been a member of that board since its founding in 1973 and was elected board president in February 1977.

"Veda Hodge was a benefactor of Midland College," Langford said, "but even more important, she was a vocal supporter for Midland College and for higher education throughout Texas."

Mrs. Hodge, a graduate of Howard Payne, was a longtime member of the board of that Baptist-support university. Both she and her late husband had been conferred honorary doctoral degrees from Howard Payne.

"She was a most remarkable woman," Chancellor Guy D. Newman of Howard Payne said today. "Her diversity of interest was one of the most I've ever known."

Newman said that Mrs. Hodge "was the determining factor" in his decision to leave the vice presidency of Baylor University in Waco in 1955 to become president and later chancellor of Howard Payne.

"She was very persuasive in helping me to make up my mind to be president of Howard Payne in 1955," he said. For some time before that, Mrs. Hodge was on the university's board of trustees.

Her last trip to Howard Payne was in early May, when she, ailing and accompanied by a nurse and her physician, attended the dedication of the Howard Hodge Memorial Towers and Carillon on campus.

"One of her fondest hopes was to see the dedication of the memorial to Howard (Hodge)," Newman said.

On Oct. 2, 1975, the Hodge Carillon Tower was dedicated on the Midland College campus. That landmark was donated by Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Hodge and Nancy Rodman Hodge in memory of Sanford J. Hodge, who was a nephew of the Hodes and husband of Nancy Rodman Hodge.

Another friend of the Hodes, Reporter-Telegram Publisher Jim N.

Allison Jr., characterized Mrs. Hodge as "an outstanding citizen of this area."

"She and Mr. Hodge contributed an awful lot to Midland," Allison said, "and we are going to miss her very much."

"The community certainly will miss her greatly," he said.

Mrs. Hodge was born in Rising Star, attended public schools in Anson and Brownwood, and was married to the late J. Howard Hodge in Abilene in 1931. That year, the Hodes moved to Midland to open the first of a chain of theaters in the Permian Basin.

Mrs. Hodge served on committees for Texas Govs. W. Lee O'Daniel, Allan Shivers and Preston Smith. Only recently, she was reappointed by Gov. Dolph Briscoe to the Texas Commission on the Arts and Humanities. She was on the House of Representatives' Interim Committee on Juvenile Delinquency.

Her husband died on Dec. 23, 1976.

Survivors of Mrs. Hodge include a sister, Alma Wells of Lubbock, and three nephews, Holt Priddy of Santa Fe, N.M., John Priddy of Salt Lake City, Utah, and J.H. Rushing of Eastland.

Pallbearers will be Buddy Anguish, Don S. Johnson, John Bates, William M. Kerr and Dr. Langford, all of Midland, and Dr. Roger L. Brooks, N. Frank Smith and Groner Pitts, all of Brownwood.

Jose Ayala Sr.

ODESSA — Jose Ayala Sr., 69, of Abilene, father of Linda Scheene of Hobbs, N.M., and Josie Garcia of Big Spring, died Wednesday in an Abilene hospital after a lengthy illness.

Services will be at 1 p.m. Friday in St. Joseph's Catholic Church. Burial will be in Odessa Cemetery, directed by Hubbard-Kelly Funeral Home.

He was born July 13, 1908, in Seguin. He married Francisca Lozano on Dec. 11, 1930, in Brownsville. He moved in 1974 to Abilene from Odessa. He was a member of St. Vincent's Catholic Church in Abilene.

Other survivors include his wife; five other daughters, two sons, 35 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

Clarence Odneal

Clarence W. Odneal, 70, of Midland and formerly of Odessa, died Wednesday morning in a Midland nursing home following a lengthy illness.

Services were to be at 4 p.m. today in Hubbard-Kelly Funeral Home in Odessa. Burial was to be in Sunset Memorial Gardens in Odessa.

Odneal, who had lived in Odessa since 1945, retired in 1974 as a salesman of oilfield supplies. He moved to Midland about 2 1/2 years ago.

He was born March 11, 1908, in Sugden, Okla., and was married to Gladys Lynn Weathersbee in Shreveport, La., on Sept. 20, 1930. She died in 1966.

He was a member of the Odessa Scottish Rite Association and was a 32nd degree Mason. He moved to Odessa in 1945 from Baton Rouge, La.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Gene (Joyce) Sludge of Midland; a brother, J. D. Odneal of Oklahoma City, Okla.; a sister, Mary Olsen of Henrietta, and three grandsons.

Petition supports dismissed teacher

ODESSA — A petition with approximately 300 signatures supporting the reinstatement of an Odessa elementary school physical education teacher will be presented Monday to the Ector County Independent School District Board of Trustees.

Jean Hamilton was dismissed April 21 by Travis Elementary Principal Cella Hisey, after Ms. Hamilton was charged with whipping 42 children on the school playground.

Board policy guidelines for administering corporal punishment state that the punishment must be done in the presence of the principal or someone designated by the principal. The punishment also must be done out of the view of other students not involved in the problem, and it must not be done in anger, the rules state.

Policy also requires that a hearing be held with the student to explain why he is being punished.

Ms. Hamilton allegedly whipped 42 children with a belt on the playground after they refused to line up to go into the building.

Trustees last Thursday listened to four hours of testimony before postponing the hearing until Monday, May 22.

Trustees favor land purchase

Midland Memorial Hospital trustees Wednesday voted to recommend purchase of a piece of land immediately east of the hospital for $220,921. The land is to be used for parking.

Trustee Gene Abbott said the Building Committee is studying the feasibility and need for a four-level parking garage on the property. Trustee Martin Allday said such a building could be financed with revenue bonds to be paid with parking fees.

Also Wednesday, the district approved expansion of the operating room staff by 11 persons. Cost of the added personnel will be approximately $85,000, hospital Administrator Wayne Ulrich said.

Discussing the proposal for the increased personnel, Tevis Herd, vice president of the Board of Trustees, told the group that the present staff is not large enough to "operate the operating rooms in the manner they need to be."

Ulrich said the hospital now handles 100 to 115 more surgical cases each month than during the same period last year.

"We've got a situation now that's degenerating," said Dr. Ed Mickle.

Dr. Ralph Greenlee said some surgeons already are handling surgical cases at other hospitals.

At the recommendation of the finance committee, the trustees voted to "charge off" $84,936 for April, 10.5 percent of total billing. Trustee Jim Allison Jr. said much of that amount is accounted for by indigent care.

The trustees also passed a resolution of appreciation for services to the hospital by the late Frank Stubbeman and the late Mrs. J. Howard (Veda) Hodge.

Dominican vote count dependent on country

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — President Joaquin Balaguer's government says vote counting in the presidential election will resume as soon as the country vote is in.

Amid rumors of a power struggle among four military factions, Balaguer's chief opponent, left-of-center Antonio Guzman, claimed victory and asked President Carter for help.

National police invaded the central election headquarters in Santo Domingo early Wednesday and stopped the count of votes cast in the election Tuesday after Guzman rolled up a big lead over the more conservative Balaguer. But leaders of the armed forces denied that they were trying to take control of the country, as right-wing military commanders did in 1963 when they ousted the founder of Guzman's Dominican Revolutionary Party, President Juan Bosch.

Political sources said the U.S. government was urging that the electoral process be carried out without further interference.

"There is all kinds of pressure against the military," said one source.

The State Department issued a statement in Washington reiterating its "concern that the electoral process and the results of the election be respected."

The electoral board said as soon as it "receives the statements of voting in each municipality and the national district it will proceed to the tabulation of the votes for national elections." But it gave no indication when it expected that to happen.

"In carrying out its duties, the board will continue, as it has until now, acting with strict adherence to the legal norms and the impartiality that have guided its actions," the statement said.

At the time the police stopped the vote count, more than a fourth of the vote had been counted and Guzman was leading the 70-year-old president 326,027 to 218,073 votes. Balaguer, a leftover from the Trujillo dictatorship who was first elected in 1966, is seeking his fourth four-year term.

"It is up to the electoral board to declare me the winner," Guzman, a 67-year-old businessman and landowner, told a news conference. "We will not allow the official election results to be altered."

Cyclone levels island seaport

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — A cyclone has virtually wiped out the island seaport of Kyaukpyu, 200 miles northwest of Rangoon, according to incomplete reports reaching here today.

Details of damage and casualties were not available as officials rushed relief operations to the island.

The reports said the cyclone, with 100-mile-an-hour winds, struck Kyaukpyu on Wednesday evening, almost leveling the town in three hours.

Most of the buildings, including the jail, were destroyed and some prisoners escaped. A village on the outskirts of Kyaukpyu was completely wiped out, the reports said.

PBRPC clears Head Start programs in Midland

Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission board of directors gave favorable comments to continuation of Head Start programs in Midland and Big Spring school districts when the panel met Wednesday in the Midland Regional Air Terminal Office Building.

Reagan Legg of Midland College was appointed to fill a vacancy on the Human Resources Advisory Committee. Appointed to the Regional Alcohol and Drug Abuse Advisory Council were Bertha Starks of Midland County, Fred Vera of Dawson County and J. M. Trammell of Gaines County.

Directors approved the application to the Department of Housing and Urban Development for $230,000 in funds being reallocated from Community Development Block Grant money rejected by the city of Midland in 1977. The funds will be used for street paving, curbs and gutters in low income areas of Midland County. The project is expected to start Oct. 15 and should last six months, officials said.

An application from the Pecos County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1 of Fort Stockton and Elliot Engineering Co. of Balmorea for a water supply and distribution system received favorable comment Wednesday. The directors also accepted the revised Environmental Assessment and Facility Plan for the proposed waste water treatment facility for Pecos.

The board approved the PBRPC's grant application for an Area Development Assistance Planning Grant, and a grant application from Ector County and Midland County for the Elderly Nutrition Program Project Plan for 1978-79. The executive director was authorized to submit applications to the Texas Department of Human Resources planning funds, to submit the Unified Work Program to the Intermodel Planning Group and to execute an Urban Mass Transportation Administration contract.

Reno's environment future threatened by growth

By LOU CANNON
The Washington Post

RENO, Nev. — Twenty-six years ago Hollywood made a movie called "Captive City" about a group of gangsters who take over a well-managed, complacent town and turn it into a haven for the mob. It ends with John Forsythe, the good guy, running for Washington and the sanctuary of the Kefauver Crime Committee.

"Captive City" was made in Reno. It was chosen, as director Robert Wise remembers it, because Reno had the look and quality of a small Midwestern town with a good supply of bit actors from the local university and little theater.

It was your basic mixed-review movie, soon destined for the late show, but it was a big hit in Reno because it confirmed what those who lived there thought about themselves.

No one took the plot seriously — gangland killings, after all, were what went on in Las Vegas — but it was comforting to know that Reno, if the cameras avoided the mountains, had a Midwestern look about it.

After all, many people in Reno were descended from Midwestern settlers who had trekked across the Great Plains in search of silver, gold and the good life.

The permanent population of Reno, all 41,000, thought of Reno as a superior place and did not accept the outside view that Reno was merely a convenient stopover for easy divorce and gambling, then carefully redlined into a small downtown area that was almost all visitors ever saw.

Apart from this flourishing, neon-lit district, which was the gambling center of the United States before Las Vegas and air-conditioning arrived virtually simultaneously, Reno was a city of culture, churches, outdoor sports and pleasant climate. The downtown bridge from which all well-publicized divorcees threw their wedding rings traversed the clear-flowing Truckee River, which was a haven for rainbow trout and sometimes the brightly colored native trout known as the cut-throat.

Best of all, the early settlers who had survived the shadeless heat of the Great Basin, were tree-worshippers and had covered the city with strands of elm and cottonwood that rustled in the frequent wind. Walter Van Tillburg Clark, who wrote the acclaimed novel, "The Ox-Bow Incident," put his second novel in a Reno setting. He called it "The City of Trembling Leaves," which the townspeople found a most agreeable image. They valued their trees and they valued, too, the gigantic freight trains which roared through Reno day and night, their whistles heard throughout the valley.

"Thus Reno is reminded constantly," wrote Clark, "that it is only one small stop on the road of the human world, that it trembles with the comings and goings of roses on a site that had once housed the city's animal shelter.

The MGM Grand Hotel-Reno is only the beginning. By the fall of this year, 10 other casino-hotels will have opened or expanded in Reno, more than doubling the city's casino floor space to 910,000 square feet. The population of Reno and the surrounding area, known collectively as the Truckee Meadows, is expected to rise 10 percent annually to 250,000 by the mid-1980s. Ultimately, the population is expected to reach 620,000.

All of this sounds much like the overgrowth that afflicted such disparate western communities as Los Angeles, Denver and San Jose. But Truckee Meadows, an oasis on the edge of a great western desert, had a far more vulnerable environment than these communities. The Truckee River is raging now, but last summer, in the third year of the drought, it was a dying trickle en route from one imperiled lake to another.

The environment of the atmosphere is even more fragile. Reno is surrounded by a rim of mountains more encompassing than Los Angeles, and it has a natural temperature inversion in the fall and winter.

As university physics professor Richard Sill, who has studied pollution problems on various unheeded blue-ribbon committees, put it: "At the 250,000 population mark, we'll have air-pollution problems equivalent to Los Angeles. At the 620,000 mark, the air pollution will be as bad as Tokyo's or Sao Paulo, Brazil."

Carter success like parable of loaves and fishes

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter has his own, personal version of the biblical account of the loaves and fishes. In his case it involves peanuts, cotton and houses.

The subtitle of Carter's story could be "How I Became an Entrepreneur at a Tender Age."

Readers of the president's 1976 campaign autobiography, "Why Not the Best," may recall him writing about selling boiled peanuts in the streets of Plains, Ga., starting at age 5. He stayed at it until he was 9, then put his profits into cotton and, when in high school, sold the cotton to buy houses.

Carter recalled these experiences, and added some fresh details, when he welcomed to the White House last week the officers of the Distributive Education Clubs of America, an organization that encourages high school students to learn about business practices.

They did not have a club like that in Plains, he recalled, "but I learned a lot about marketing and management and merchandising as a student then."

Carter related that he "very carefully saved my money" from peanut sales until the price of cotton dropped to five cents a pound.

"I bought five bales of cotton and kept it until it went up to eighteen cents," he reported. "Then I sold that as a high school student and I bought five houses. I bought five for $800 total."

And that is where the loaves and fishes come in. To wit:

There are 480 pounds of cotton in a standard bale, or 2,400 pounds in five bales. If you sell five bales at 18 cents a pound, your proceeds should total $432, which is $368 less than Carter says he paid for the five houses.

But perhaps no miracle was involved in his becoming a rural landlord. Maybe he saved his lunch money, too.

The Secret Service completed the installation of heavy gates at each of the eight auto entrances to the White House compound last year. The cost was $1,150,000, including a shipment of spare parts.

The gates were erected in an effort to halt periodic attempts by dangerous, addled or attention-seeking motorists to crash their vehicles onto White House property.

Looking sturdy enough to stop a tank, the barriers seem to be serving their purpose. Secret Service spokesman John Warner says they have already stopped at least two aspiring gate-crashers, with minimal damage to the gates.

There's one problem, however. The electric-powered mechanisms that open and close them have a way of failing at awkward moments, sometimes putting a gate out of operation for a day or longer while repairs are made.

As a result, uniformed police who man the busiest of the eight barricades, the one through which Cabinet members and many other VIPs arrive, no longer rely on their electric switches.

When a motorist with proper credentials approaches this gate, between the White House and neighboring Old Executive Office Building, officers rely on muscle power to open the massive portal.

Stuart Eizenstat, the president's domestic policy adviser, who sometimes is called upon to defend in public Carter's Middle East policy, is displaying a new bumper sticker on his family sedan.

In Hebrew lettering and English, it reads, "Shalom is Peace."

Many Carterites still display campaign bumper stickers for their candidate. Eizenstat, however, bought his car after the campaign.

Long-shot candidate former racetrack 'hotwalker'

The Washington Post

LOS ANGELES — An obscure state legislator and former racetrack "hotwalker" has emerged as a strong long-shot candidate in the Republican search for a challenger to incumbent Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.

The long shot is Ken Maddy, whose identity was known to only 5 percent of California's voters last October. Now Maddy has become an acknowledged close contender in a five-way GOP race behind the better-known attorney general, Evelle J. Younger, and former Los Angeles police chief Edward M. David. Maddy, who has an appeal to Democrats and younger voters that the other GOP candidates lack, is the one opponent who worries the Brown camp.

Whether or not he wins, Maddy, 43, a Republican state assembly man who represents a heavily Democratic district in Fresno, is definitely the surprise of the race. While he is regarded as an able and popular legislator by his colleagues, Maddy appeared at the outset of the race to have little chance of competing with either Younger or Davis.

In fact, the only place that Maddy was known at all outside of his home district was on the backstretch of such racetracks as Hollywood Park and Del Mar, where, as a young adult, he had worked as a hotwalker — the person who walks the horses around to cool them out after a race — and then as a groom.

Maddy liked the racing life, and at one time bought a cheap horse and raced him at Caliente, across the border from San Diego in Mexico. But he gave it up when he married and his wife decided that the track was no place to raise a family. So Maddy went to law school and became an attorney.

Maddy's emergence as an effective candidate is a tribute to his personable intelligence on a wide-range of issues, and most of all to the power of television in a state where the area is so vast and the population so large that television is the only effective means of political communication.

His success also is a comment on the stumbling, uncertain campaign of his adversaries, who have failed to excite noticeable interest in an electorate seemingly preoccupied with a single issue — the Jarvis-Gann initiative, which would drastically reduce property taxes.

According to the conventional wisdom that conservatives fare best in Republican primaries here, Maddy would seem an unlikely prospect. Despite a belated effort to establish a conservative record in the legislature, Maddy is clearly to the left of most of his GOP colleagues on civil liberties issues. He has, for instance, supported measures that reduced penalties for marijuana use and that removed criminal penalties for homosexual relations between consenting adults.

Maddy has tried to offset the effect of these votes, which have been well-publicized by his opponents, by pointing out that he was the only one of the GOP gubernatorial candidates to support former California governor Ronald Reagan in his 1976 bid to unseat former President Ford.

The television blitz that propelled Maddy into the limelight on the sole theme of "he will beat Jerry Brown" is the brainchild of John Deardourff, Ford's media expert in the 1976 election campaign against President Carter. Deardourff reasoned correctly that Maddy could attract interest by getting on television in February before the other candidates were competing for voter attention.

The money to do all this — Maddy is spending between $1.3 million and $1.5 million on his campaign, including an estimated $850,000 on television — came largely from big farmers in the San Joaquin Valley, whose economic interests Maddy has loyally supported.

The farmers, long on the decline as a political force in California, were encouraged to exercise their political muscle by their 1974 success in defeating a Cesar Chavez-backed initiative strengthening farm-worker union power.

Partner's mistakes worse than your own

East took the two hearts and switched to clubs. South won with the ace of clubs, led three top trumps and looked unhappy when West discarded the deuce of diamonds.

South went after the diamonds, but East ruffed the third round and led another heart.

South still had two losing clubs and was down two.

"Why didn't you bid three notrump?" South asked his partner. "Ten ice-cold tricks even if you never get the king of hearts."

It was true. North should have bid two notrump at his second turn or three notrump over three spades.

NORTH REPLIES
"Why didn't you make four spades?" North replied. "Just lead a low trump instead of starting with the tops."

Also true. After taking the ace of clubs South should lead his low spade. Dummy's trumps stop a heart return. Declarer can then draw trumps and run the diamonds.

As usual, each overlooked his own mistake and thought only of his partner's. Where else but the bridge table could this possibly happen?

DAILY QUESTION
Dealer, at your left, bids one heart, and your partner doubles. The next player passes, and you hold: S-73; H-9642; D-872; C-Q985. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs. The double asks you to bid an unbid suit. Yours not to reason why. Bid your long suit, such as it is, and hope for the best.

Florida's Pennekamp Park real undersea playground

By JOHN PLATERO

KEY LARGO, Fla. (AP) — If Poseidon, the mythological Greek king of the sea, had a favorite vacation spot, it might well have been here off the Florida Keys, where thousands of tourists come each year to enjoy one of the most unique underwater parks in the world.

Its natural beauty protected by state and federal regulation, the John Pennekamp Coral Reef State Park boasts the only living coral reef in the Western Hemisphere. The reef is seven miles offshore and runs for 23 miles along the coast. The only other live coral reef is in Australia.

Only 2,300 of the park's 75,000 acres are on land. But the majority of the 90,000 yearly visitors go to enjoy the crystal clear blue waters and the beauty beneath it.

In addition to the living coral, Pennekamp is the undersea playground of hundreds of species of fish. The park's waters, on the Atlantic side of the Keys, run from 2 to 60 feet in depth within the preserve's 100-square miles. There, numbers of colorful tropical fish abound.

They include many of the fish found in aquariums and home fish tanks. And there are parrot fish, sergeant majors, grouper, angel, moray eels, turtle, barracuda and even shark, to name a few.

The fish seem accustomed to the human invaders who enter their world with underwater cameras, snorkel tubes, scuba gear or glass-bottomed boats.

Since the reef was dedicated by the state as a marine preserve in 1961, there has not been a single report of a shark or barracuda attack on visitors. Some local scuba instructors are known to hand feed some of the barracuda they look on as pets.

The star attraction of the park is a statue — it, too, under water.

Called "Christ of the Deep," the 9-foot-high simple bronze statue

Outlook good

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Agriculture Minister Sudarsono said he expects Indonesia to be self-sufficient in foodstuffs by next year, the Antara news agency reports.

Sudarsono said self-sufficiency would result from putting more acreage into rice and intensification of rice growing. Indonesia imported 2.4 million tons of rice last year.

stands submerged a couple miles offshore, atop a 20-ton concrete base — its arms upraised, the fingers a few feet from the water's surface.

Rays of light work through the water's surface, lighting up tropical fish attracted to the statue and gradually dissipating near the tiered base 28-feet below.

The statue has a duplicate in 50 feet of water in the Mediterranean off Naples, Italy. That statue, "Christ of the Abysses," was created by Italian sculptor Guido Galletti, who was inspired by Duilio Marcenat, an underwater swimmer.

Marcenat wanted an underwater shrine that could inspire those who lived, worked or played on or under the sea. The shrine also was intended to comfort those who lost loved ones at sea.

Its dedication in 1954 drew international attention and in 1961 a duplicate was cast from the same mold for Egidio Cressi, an internationally known industrialist and undersea sportsman who gave it to the Underwater Society of America. The ocean floor at Pennekamp Park was chosen as its resting place.

Chinese youth being moved into classrooms

HONG KONG (AP) — The movement to bring China's youth back from the fields and into the classrooms seems to be gaining momentum, if a flood of articles in the Peking press is any indication.

In recent weeks, the Chinese press has published dozens of stories about students and teachers from grade school through university to illustrate the new focus on Chinese education. Some samples:

— Ten years ago, a factory worker named Ma Po in Inner Mongolia was branded an "active counter-revolutionary" because of his bourgeois parents and sent to work in a quarry. Today, at the age of 30, he is a freshman at Peking University.

— During the past few years, 14-year-old Mu Ching of Shenyang in northeast China worked out in her spare time 2,000 mathematical problems and published three articles on the concept of "limit" in Marx's "Manuscripts of Mathematics." Today, she is one of 20 freshmen under the age of 16 enrolled at the Chinese University of Science and Technology.

— For the past 13 years, Tuan Yuan-hsing spent every night observing stellar phenomena with a homemade telescope. Recently he discovered a new star with the naked eye and was selected for a postgraduate course in the Peking Observatory.

— Four years ago, Kao

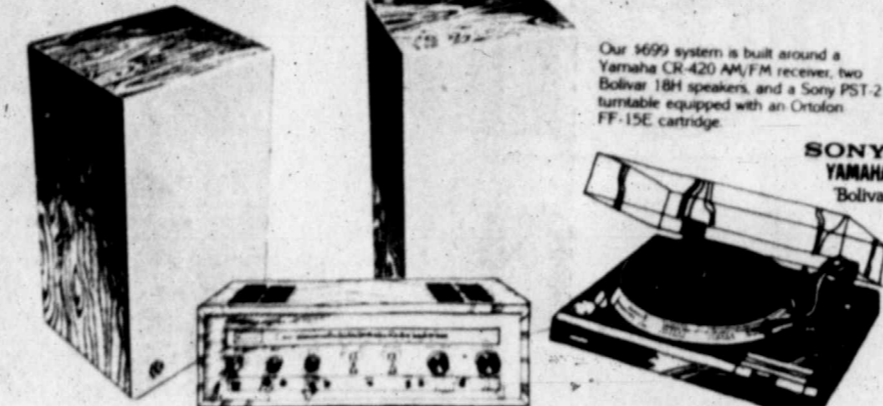

Chia-li was secretly studying math and science at home but he said his homework didn't reflect his knowledge because of the "Gang of Four" wanted students who handed in blank exam papers and dared "to go against the tide." Today, he is a chemistry student at Peking University.

The new policies of Chairman Hua Kuo-feng and Vice Chairman Teng Hsiao-ping represent an almost about-face from practices during the late Mao Tse-tung's cultural revolution and reign of the "Gang of Four."

Yamaha CR-420 AM/FM Receiver
The new Yamaha CR-420 AM/FM Natural Sound receiver makes Yamaha performance, dependability, and craftsmanship available at a new low price. Power output: 22 watts RMS per channel. 8 ohms, 20 Hz to 20 kHz, less than 0.05% distortion. The "feel" of the front panel controls reflects Yamaha's traditional attention to detail and human engineering.

Bolivar 18H Speakers
The Bolivar 18H is a 3-way system built around an eight-inch woofer, five-inch mid-range, and a two-inch cone tweeter. Smooth transition from driver to driver, accomplished by a sophisticated crossover network, yields dividends of rich, uncolored sound. Efficient design accomplished by ported loading of the woofer. Tennessee Hickory finish.

Sony PST-2 Turntable
The Sony PST-2 is the least-expensive quality direct drive turntable available. It offers the performance you'd expect from units costing up to a hundred dollars more, plus the convenience of automatic tonearm pick-up and shut-off. Direct drive design reduces moving parts to a minimum, for improved future reliability. Installed in the PST-2's tonearm is an Ortofon FF-15E Mk II—one of our favorite high performance models.

Mrs. Tevis Herd was in charge of luncheon arrangements. She was assisted by her committee.

Bananas provide unique dessert idea

Banana Berry Supreme is one dessert destined to distinguish any meal, and it marries two favorite fruits — bananas and strawberries. An egg custard is easily prepared on the stove and — this is important! — thoroughly chilled. Slices of banana and strawberries are spooned into dessert dishes, covered with the cold custard and topped with a meringue ring. The dessert is baked quickly, just until the meringue browns, and served at room temperature.

Neopolitan Banana Delight, and Italian-style pudding, will "fancy up" any menu for one. Ricotta cheese is beaten until smooth and combined with mashed banana, lemon juice, sugar, dark chocolate and almond extract. (The creamier the Ricotta, the finer textured the dessert.) The mixture is beaten again until fluffy and spooned into dessert dishes layered with ladyfingers or amaretti cookie crumbs. Chill and serve with whipped cream, banana slices and grated chocolate.

Both recipes make two desserts so you can share the other with a guest, or refrigerate and save for another meal. And, if you're dining alone, do it up proud! Set an elegant place with your finest dishes and flatware, and don't forget the candles!

Yolk: gradually beat in milk. Combine sugar and cornstarch, stir into egg mixture. Cook over simmering water, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Remove from heat; stir in vanilla. Cover; chill. Spoon cold custard over fruit; top with a ring of Meringue*. Bake in 425 degrees F. oven 4 minutes, or until meringue is lightly browned. Cool to room temperature; chill. Yield: 2 servings.

Meringue
1 egg white
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar

Beat egg white until foamy. Add salt, continue beating until soft peaks form. Add sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time; continue beating until stiff peaks form. Spoon over Strawberry Banana Custard.

Almond macaroons.

In small bowl of electric mixer, beat Ricotta cheese until smooth. Add mashed banana, lemon juice, sugar, chocolate and almond extract. Beat until mixture is light and fluffy. Sprinkle ladyfingers or amaretti crumbs into dessert dishes; spoon pudding over crumbs. Chill. Serve with whipped cream, additional banana slices, and additional grated chocolate sprinkled over top, if desired. Yield: 2 servings.

DEAR ABBY Florist cheating on rose bouquet

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: For the past six years my husband's boss, who lives out of state, sends me a huge bouquet of roses on Mothers Day. The box they come in bears the name of a local florist, and their truck delivers them, so it's not as though these flowers have been shipped any great distance. Well, I have never seen sorrier flowers in all my life! It is getting to be an annual joke around here. They aren't even worth putting into a vase. I just open the box and carry the flowers right out to the trash.

Then I sit down and write a "thank-you" note for the "beautiful" flowers. I told my husband this year that I think we should tell his boss what kind of flowers he has been paying for. My husband says we should be quiet. What do you say?—CHEATED IN TAMPA

DEAR CHEATED: I say a rose by any other name would smell. And so would the deal you've been getting from your florist. By all means let the sender know the kind of flowers you have been receiving. He would appreciate it.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that concerns not only me, but all the other kids who ride my school bus. It's our bus driver (she's a woman). First of all, she drives a little too fast; and second, when she has to put on her brakes because the car in front puts on his brakes, she waits until she is only about a foot away from the car.

How can I tell her she does these things without hurting her feelings? She is really a very nice lady! I am surprised we haven't had an accident yet, but some of the kids have black and blue marks all over when she slammed on her brakes and everybody went flying. Thank you.—SIGN ME "SCARED"

DEAR SCARED: First, tell the woman bus driver what you've told me. If that doesn't slow her up, tell your mother.

DEAR ABBY: I am torn between my duty as a wife and my duty as a mother. I am 57 and my husband is 63. I recently received a letter from my daughter, who lives 1,200 miles from here. She said she is leaving her husband after 13 years of marriage and she wants me to come at once to stay with her kids and run her household so she can go back to work.

I don't think it's fair to leave my husband alone, but I hate to turn my daughter down. She didn't say how long she wants me to stay, but she has always been a very selfish girl, and I know once she gets me there, I will have a terrible time getting away. Please help me.—TORN IN TUCSON

DEAR TORN: Write to your daughter and tell her that if she plans to go back to work, she had better make permanent arrangements right now for running her household because your place is with your husband, and that's where you intend to stay.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SHOULD I?" Hair, like money, is never very important to the man who has plenty of it. If baldness bothers you, get a hairpiece.

SENIOR PARTIES

The home of Mrs. J. C. Newland Jr. and her daughter, Diane, 4418 Stanolind St., was the setting for a lasagna dinner honoring four Lee High School graduating seniors.

Those honored were Lorry Brown and Diane McLean, who will be entering Abilene Christian University in the fall, and Elaine Stipp and Terrie Taylor, who will be students at Texas Tech University.

Stylist Noland stresses short tresses are for all

By ALISON DA ROSA
Copley News Service
HOLLYWOOD — "I couldn't work in this country. American ladies are too conservative."
"They just don't understand about their hair."
"For example, they want to look different. They want wedge movement. But they don't want anything off the length."
The comments are those of 23-year-old Patrick Noland of Jingles International School of Hairdressing in London. Noland is on a nationwide U.S. teaching tour. By the time he heads home, Noland will have shared tricks of his trade with stylists from more than 400 American hairstyling salons.
Noland was doing his thing at a Maxim salon. As he snipped away, stylists from other local Maxim salons paid close attention.
Noland worked on volunteers: They got a free haircut, giving the master stylist a free hand with scissors and blow dryer.

And of course, each was ready to have Noland — as a sort of magician armed with styling shears rather than a magic wand — transform her into a modern-day Cinderella.
"I'm nervous, said Tamara Carroll, 25. "My hair has been long for the past few years. I liked it long. This is going to be a big change."
As she sat in the hydraulic chair, beginning to feel more like victim than Sleeping Beauty, Carroll eyed each wet strand of hair that fell in her lap.
"She thought about how long it would take to grow back those eight-inch locks: "Oh, I'll be 27 or 28 before I look like me again," her mind raced, she explained later.

Then Noland interrupted her reverie:
"People are going for longer, more feminine hair that's easy to manage," he said. "But this lady's hair I want strong, definite, sharp. I want her to look different."
Carroll didn't say anything.
As Carroll's style began to take shape, Noland won oohs and ahs from his students. One woman asked whether the highly sophisticated style would be appropriate on an older client — say a woman in her 60s.
"There is no age limit on a hairdo," Noland replied. "Age has nothing to do with the shape of the face or a lady's bone structure — that's what a hairstyle should be based on."

Jaycee-ettes One miracle fabric maker hold banquet should get act together

Sandy Williams was presented with the award of Jaycee-ette of the Year by past president, Cathy Murphy, during a joint installation and awards banquet held by the Midland Jaycees and Jaycee-ettes in the Petroleum Club of Midland.
Other top award recipients for 1978-79 were: Lou Sharron Green, Mrs. Congeniality and Travel Award; Betty Tomlin, Dotty Fletcher and Tedda McAnear, outstanding chairmen, and Lee Bell Massey, outstanding officer and Rook-ette of the Year.
Patty McHorse of Crane, installed the new Jaycee-ette officers: Mrs. Green, president; Karen Webster, vice president; Mrs. McAnear, recording secretary; Phyllis, publicity secretary; Kathy Credicott, treasurer; Debra Riddle, historian; Dalila Walker, state director; Aldrianna Romero and Judy Robinson, directors. Mrs. Massey was appointed chaplain.
Certificates to Jaycees for aid to the Jaycee-ettes were given to Chris Dickman, Jeff Beason, Lynn Williams and Wayne Green.
Mrs. McHorse was presented with a life membership to the Midland Jaycee-ettes. She is a candidate for state president of the Texas Jaycee-ettes.

By ERMA BOMBECK
A miracle is an event that contradicts known scientific laws and is often referred to as an Act of God.
I have just removed a blouse made out of a miracle (Hallelujah! Hallelujah!) fabric from my washer. I don't want to mention names, but someone does not have their act together.
As a woman in her twilight years, I should be taking long walks, sitting quietly reading good books, smiling wisely, and passing down bits of history to my children. Instead, I am in my utility room reading washing instructions (that have been sewn into the seams) and wondering why my miracle (Hallelujah! Hallelujah!) fabric just fades on itself and looks like something hanging out of the rear pocket of a mechanic's overalls.
I first became suspicious of miracle (Hallelujah! Hallelujah!) fabrics when I bought my husband a shirt one day and the salesperson said, "You will never have to iron this."
"That's a miracle" (Hallelujah! Hallelujah!), I said.
"Exactly. It will always look as wonderful as it does right now."

"But the sleeves are all wrinkled and there are creases where it's been folded."
"Which is precisely why you have a miracle (Hallelujah! Hallelujah!) setting on your iron called permanent press."
"But that doesn't make any sense."
"Are you questioning the diety?" she smiled patiently.
Thanks to these instant miracles (Hallelujah! Hallelujah!), my clothes have been healed, but I'm the one who's sick.
I am growing up in my utility room — gentle cycle, no bleach, milk suds, cool iron, fluff dry, hang on a hanger, remove from washer, do not steam, no heat dryer, do not wring, keep out of sun, iron on reversed side, cold rinse, wash alone, pat dry, remove trimmings, dry clean only. (The latter as I take it out of the dryer.)
Yesterday, I appeared at breakfast in a T-shirt that would have been tight across the chest of a Barbie doll.
"What happened?" asked my husband.
"It's my laundry. It's all been divined by a miracle. (Hallelujah! Hallelujah!) Did you hear angels singing? I didn't think you did."

Future chefs learn basics of good nutrition

Copley News Service

NET, Nutrition Education Tactics is a program financed by a grant from the California State Department of Education to increase nutritional awareness at the elementary level.

"Through the program, we hope to cut down on plate waste in the cafeteria," said Angela Lattuca, a credentialed teacher whose degree was in consumer family studies with emphasis on foods and nutrition.

"But the important thing, of course, is getting children in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades aware of what's good, and good for them. Then they have a choice, but it's an informed choice."

NET is an interdisciplinary affair, said Lattuca. "Every teacher in the three grades is involved. Skills in reading and English are used in compiling recipes and menus. Math plays a part in the metric system. Cultural and ethnic foods are a part of social science and geography. Even science is involved when the children learn about photosynthesis and food chains."

This is the way students learned to like zucchini: Zucchini is grated, then mixed with a beaten egg and enough biscuit mix to hold it together. Parmesan cheese and a bit of salt and pepper are added. The children fry it by tablespoons and call it "Zucchini Pennies."

Other foods they have prepared in the classroom and which have been very successful are cheese quesadillas, tuna sandwiches, fruit fizzes and "walking salads." To make the salad, they take a lettuce leaf and on it place grated carrot, cabbage, celery, onion, bacon bits and salad dressing. Then they roll it all up in the lettuce leaf and walk away, eating it.

Fruit fizzes are made by dumping 1 cup of ice cold milk, a sliced banana, 1/2 cup cold orange juice, 1/2 cup cold pineapple juice, and a teaspoon of honey in a blender. Ten seconds does it, and it gets them away from soft drinks, said Lattuca.

For ease in meal planning, nutritionists refer to the "four basic food groups," and make these recommendations of servings per day: Dairy products, 2 to 4 servings a day; Meat and alternates, 2 to 3 servings a day; Fruit and vegetables, 4 servings a day; Breads and cereals, 4 servings a day.

Here's dandy recipe, high in nutrition. In this casserole is something from the meat group (dried beans), something from the vegetable-fruit group (onion, pepper, pineapple, oranges). Add a glass of milk, to represent the milk group, and whole-grain muffins, to represent the bread-cereal group.

LUAU BEANS

- 1 lb. dry white beans (great Northern, lima, or small white beans)
 - 6 cups water
 - 2 tps. salt
 - 1/4 lb. bacon, diced
 - 1 large onion, chopped
 - 1 green pepper, chopped
 - 1 can (8 ozs.) pineapple chunks, undrained
 - 1 can (11 ozs.) mandarin oranges, undrained
 - Two-thirds cup orange marmalade
 - 1/4 cup cider vinegar
 - 1 tbs. soy sauce
- Placed washed beans and water in large kettle. Let stand overnight. Or, for quick soak, bring to boil and boil 2 minutes; remove from heat cover, and let stand 1 hour. Add salt to soaked beans. Cover and bring to boil. Reduce heat and simmer gently until beans are tender, 1 to 1 1/2 hours. Drain beans. In skillet, saute bacon until crisp. Add onion and green pepper to skillet and saute until just tender. Combine with beans. Add pineapple, oranges, marmalade, vinegar, soy sauce and mustard. Turn into casserole and bake, uncovered, at 325 degrees for 1 1/2 hours. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Cottle, Borden, Kent draw sites for wildcats

A pair of wildcat operations have been scheduled in Cottle County and single wildcats have been staked in Kent and Borden counties.

Perkins-Prothro of Wichita Falls announced plans to drill a 4,200-foot wildcat in Southwest Cottle County, eight miles southwest of Paducah.

It is 3,500 feet from south and 440 feet from east lines of section 37, block B, J.H. Stephens survey, abstract 716.

The location is 2 1/2 miles south of the Willie (Flippen) field and 2 3/4 miles northwest of the Prothro (Canyon) pool.

Ground elevation is 2,030 feet.

NEVE PROJECT
Neve Operating Co. of Texas No. 1 S. E. Davis and other Unit is to be drilled as a 6,700-foot wildcat 1/2 mile west of Chalk in Cottle County.

The explorer is one location southeast of Sojourner No. 1-A Prentiss Field, an active 7,000-foot wildcat and 900 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of block 4, abstract 65, Mary A. Cook survey.

KENT WILDCAT

Showdown collapses

WASHINGTON (AP) — A planned showdown session on a natural gas compromise won't take place as scheduled on Thursday. One House source says the compromise has collapsed.

Another meeting has been set for Tuesday but the source, who asked not to be identified, said the meeting "will just be to hold a formal vote to kill the plan."

The Thursday meeting was canceled late Wednesday despite a claim by House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill that the session could break the deadlock that has held up President Carter's energy program.

A majority of Senate conferees have agreed to support the proposed White House-backed compromise calling for natural gas price deregulation by 1985. But the administration needs three more votes from House negotiators.

A Mays is to be drilled as a 7,000-foot wildcat in Kent County, four miles southwest of Clairmont.

The location is 1,967 feet from south and east lines of section 47, block G, W&NW survey. Ground elevation is 2,215 feet.

The drillsite is 1 1/2 miles northwest of the Clairmont, South (lower Pennsylvania) field.

BORDEN TEST
I. W. Lovelady No. 1 Stansell is to be drilled as an 8,450-foot wildcat to be 11 miles northeast of Gail in Borden County.

It is 1/2 mile northwest of an 8,450-foot dry hole and 2.5 miles northeast of the Lucy, Northeast (Strawn B) pool.

Location is 1,960 feet from south and west lines of section 425, block 97, H&TC survey.

Payment ordered

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — A New Mexico state court judge has ordered General Atomic Co. to pay a combined $15.4 million in damages to a Midwest utility and United Nuclear Corp. in a multi-billion dollar uranium pricing lawsuit which the U.S. Supreme Court failed to halt Monday.

District Judge Edwin L. Felter of Santa Fe entered a final order Wednesday in the case granting Indiana & Michigan Electric Co. $15.1 million in damages and United Nuclear $236,425.

The U.S. Supreme Court refused Monday to review two separate appeals filed by General Atomic contending the proceedings in Santa Fe District Court were invalid.

General Atomic is appealing Wednesday's decision to the New Mexico Supreme Court. United Nuclear filed the suit in an effort to void contracts it entered into with General Atomic in 1975. United Nuclear contended General Atomic, a subsidiary of Gulf Oil Co., violated antitrust laws by withholding pricing information from United Nuclear when the supply contracts were entered.

Appointees questioned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Energy says it is taking "under careful advisement" a claim by congressional auditors that four top officials were appointed improperly.

Two of the officials — acting assistant secretaries Donald A. Beattie and Donald M. Kerr — are still holding their jobs without legal sanction, the General Accounting Office claims.

Acting GAO comptroller general Robert F. Keller said in a report circulated to key senators on Wednesday that decisions made by the four officials — all interim appointments — are open to possible legal challenge.

The Justice Department, at the direction of White House counsel Robert Lipschutz, is also investigating the possibility that the officials were appointed improperly but has not yet completed its report.

The officials were appointed to jobs that require Senate confirmation but their names were not submitted to the Senate nor did they meet other criteria established for interim appointments, the congressional auditing agency.

Two of the appointees, acting general counsel Eric J. Fygi and acting inspector general Joseph Selzler, have since been replaced by nominees who have won Senate confirmation — Kenneth Mansfield as inspector general and Lynn R. Coleman as general counsel.

But the GAO said every department action the former officials took while serving in the positions may be invalid.

The report suggested that Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger go down the list of all decisions made by the four officials and reissue them under his own name.

An Energy Department spokesman, James Bishop, confirmed that Beattie and Kerr are still serving as acting energy secretaries — Beattie for conservation and solar applications and Kerr for defense programs.

Devonian discovery opens Pecos gas field

Hillin Production Co. of Odessa No. 1-7 Thigpin has been completed as a Devonian gas discovery in Pecos County, 11.5 miles northeast of Sheffield.

The strike, one mile west of the JNT (Pennsylvanian) field, was finalized for a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 2,075,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 7,910 to 7,920 feet. No fluid was made with the gas.

Operator acidized the pay with 3,500 gallons.

The well is 1,200 feet from north and two barrels of water per day, through perforations from 2,503 to 2,509 feet. The gas oil-ratio was not reported.

The discovery is bottomed at 2,600 feet and 4 1/2-inch casing is cemented at total depth.

The location is 1 1/2 miles southeast of the Herradura Bend (Delaware) field and 1,650 feet from south and 2,310 feet from west lines of section 8-223s-28e.

MORROW TEST
Harvey E. Yates Co. of Roswell, N.M., announced location for a 12,400-foot Morrow operation in Eddy County, four miles south of Otis.

It is No. 2-21 Mobil-State, 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 21-23s-27e and done mile west and one mile southeast of production in the southeast edge of the Carlsbad, South (Morrow) field.

LEA WILDCAT
A 10,500-foot wildcat has been spotted in Lea County, N. M., by Amoco Production Co. The explorer is No. 19-B Gillyully-Federal, 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 21-20s-37e and four miles south of the Monument townsite.

The test is three miles west of the Warren, West (McKee) field and 3/8 mile south of the Monument (Tubb) field.

REVELATION WELL
Monsanto Co. No. 1 Catclaw-Federal is a new well in the Revelation (Morrow) field of Eddy County.

It completed for a daily flow of 356,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through a 48/64-inch choke and perforations from 10,654 to 10,782 feet after a 40,000-gallon fracture treatment.

The well extends the field 3/4-mile north.

Location is 1,880 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 10-22s-25e and nine miles west of Carlsbad. Total depth is 11,038 feet.

ENERGY OIL & GAS

467 feet from east lines of section 7, block C-3, EL&RR survey.

Total depth is 9,427 feet and 4 1/2-inch casing is cemented at 8,026 feet. The plugged back depth is 7,984 feet.

Operator called the following formation tops on ground elevation of 2,301 feet: Rustler 444, Yates 1,150; Clear Fork 3,390; Wichita-Albany 4,780; Wolfcamp 5,925; Pennsylvanian 6,944; detrital 7,870; Devonian 7,910; Silurian 8,096; Fusselman 8,103; Simpson 8,248, Ellenburger 9,050.

PUCKETT TEST
C&K Petroleum Co. No. 1 Kirk is to be drilled as a 14,000-foot project in the Puckett (Ellenburger) field of Pecos County, 19 miles southwest of Bakersfield.

The project is 3/4 mile northwest of Ellenburger production and 1,995 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 16, block 126, T&SL survey.

STEP-OUT PROJECT
The Apache Corp. of Tulsa, Okla., will re-enter and deepen to 15,750 feet the former Kimball Production Co. No. 1-20 Slaughter-State, a Pecos County dry hole 7/8 mile south of the Grey Ranch (Devonian and Ellenburger) field.

It will be operated as No. 1-20 Slaughter-State. The site is 1,320 feet from north and east lines of section 20, block 129, T&SL survey and 35 miles southeast of Fort Stockton.

WINKLER EXPLORER
Gifford, Mitchell & Wisenbaker of Midland spotted location for a 1 1/2 mile northeast outpost to the closest production in the Cheyenne (Capitan) field of Winkler County, 10 miles northwest of Kermit.

Slotted for a 3,400-foot bottom, No. 2 Comanche Unit is 467 feet from north and 560 feet from west lines of section 13, block C-23, psi survey.

WINKLER WELL
Gifford, Mitchell & Wisenbaker No. 4 Black Kettle has been finalized as a new well in the Cheyenne (Capitan) field, 8 miles northwest of Kermit.

On 24-hour potential test it flowed 86 barrels of oil, gravity not reported, through a 24/64-inch choke and perforations from 3,100 to 3,174 feet. The well also made 12 barrels of water on the potential test.

Operator acidized with 1,700 gallons and fractured with 24,000 gallons.

Total depth is 3,188 feet and 5 1/2-inch casing is set at 3,188 feet.

Location is 1,227 feet from north and 1,666 feet from east lines of section 7, block 74, psi survey.

STERLING TRY
D&H Enterprises of Sterling City spotted location for a northwest offset to the lone producer in the Crandell (San Andres) field of Sterling County, 10 miles southeast of Sterling City.

The 1,500-foot test is 1,845 feet from north and 1,772 feet from east lines of section 30, block 11, SPRR survey.

RUNNELS WILDCAT
James K. Anderson, Inc., of Dallas No. 1 Bredemeyer is to be drilled as a 4,250-foot wildcat in Runnels County, one location west of the depleted Nora multiphase field and 3.5 miles southeast of Winers.

The location is 3,722 feet from south and 3,978 feet from west lines of Eliza Mather survey No. 535.

IRION PROJECT
Gulf Oil Corporation spotted No. 3-VE State 1,731 feet northwest of production in the four-well Irion 163 (Ellenburger) field of Irion County, two miles southeast of Barnhart.

The 9,500-foot operation is 1,980 feet from south and 760 feet from west lines of section 5, block 40, University Lands survey.

STEP-OUT ANNOUNCED
MWJ Producing Co. of Midland No. 2-B Branch is to be drilled as a northwest stepout to the lone producer in the Tucker (Canyon oil) pool of Irion County, 13 miles north of Barnhart.

The test, slotted for an 8,300-foot bottom, is 3,770 feet from production and 1,320 feet from north and west lines of section 66, block 14, H&TC survey. Ground elevation is 2,438 feet.

The test is surrounded by production in the Ela Sugg (Wolfcamp gas) pool.

C. E. LaRue and N. B. Muncy, both of Artesia, N. M., have completed their No. 1 Frances as a small Delaware discovery in Eddy County, N.M., three miles northwest of Loving.

The strike completed on the pump for five barrels of 41-gravity oil and

Shaheen & Sons complete two gas strikes in Sutton region

A pair of gas discoveries have been completed by Shaheen & Son of Abilene in Sutton County.

The operator's No. 1-82 Delores Adams (formerly No. 1-82 J. M. Fish) was completed as a Strawn gas discovery, 29 miles southeast of Sonora.

It finalized for a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 1,550,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 2,731 to 2,734 feet. The pay was acidized with 500 gallons. No fluid was produced with the gas.

Location is 1,450 feet east of the northwest corner of G. W. Logan survey No. 82, abstract 1181.

The well is one mile east of the only Strawn gas well in the Fort Terrett Ranch field and separated from that production by a depleted producer.

Total depth is 2,800 feet and 5 1/2-inch casing is set at 2,797 feet.

The Home Creek was topped at 2,022 feet, the Palo Pinto at 2,534 feet, the Strawn sand at 2,728 feet and the Strawn lime at 2,782 feet. Kelly bushing elevation is 2,948 feet.

SECOND DISCOVERY
Shaheen & Son No. 1-534 Ella Adams has been completed as a Harkey sand gas discovery 28 miles southeast of Sonora in the Fort Terrett Ranch area.

The strike, 1,300 feet southeast of Strawn gas production, was completed for a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 355,000 cubic feet of gas per day.

The production is from the pay section behind casing perforations from 2,701 to 2,704 feet. The zone had been treated with 500 gallons of acid.

Total depth is 2,845 feet and 5 1/2-inch casing is cemented at 2,842 feet. The plugged back depth is 2,746 feet.

No fluid was produced with the gas. Wellsite is 700 feet from the north line and 467 feet from the west line of Johann T. Priess survey No. 534.

The Home Creek was topped at 2,053 feet, the Palo Pinto at 2,629 feet, the Harkey sand at 2,691 feet and the Strawn sand at 2,825 feet. Kelly bushing elevation is 2,908 feet.

The well is 3/4 mile southwest of No. 1-82 Adams.

SCHLEICHER TEST
Mitchell Energy Corp. of Houston No. 1-22 Ryan is to be drilled as a 5/8-mile northeast stepout to the Kama (Canyon gas) field of Schleicher County, 17 miles southwest of Eldorado.

The 8,700-foot test is 1,062 feet from south and 1,415 feet from west lines of section 22, block 2, GC&SF survey.

COKE OILER
WEST-TEX Drilling Co. of Abilene filed potential test for its No. 2 Harris Estate, 5/8 mile south extension to the Lygag oil pool of Coke County, 5.3 miles south of Silver.

Operator reported a daily flowing potential of 140.41 barrels of 44-gravity oil and no water, through a 14/64-inch choke and perforations from 5,876 to 5,883 feet.

The pay was acidized with 2,500 gallons and fractured with 60,000 gallons. Gas-oil ratio is 2,322-1.

Total depth is 6,050 feet and 4 1/2-inch casing is set at 6,049 feet. Hole is plugged back to 6,008 feet.

The well is 2,888 feet from south and 616.3 feet from west lines of Winfield Scott survey No. 11.

CRANE WELL
Lario Oil & Gas Co. No. 3-2-D J. B. Tubb, a re-entry project in Crane County, has been completed as the second 4070 Clear Fork well in the Sand Hills multiphase field of Crane County. It is 1 1/2 miles south of the other producer.

A former Tubb oil producer, it was finalized for a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 1,043,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 4,135 to 4,150 feet. The pay was acidized with 10,500 gallons.

The project originally was drilled to 4,614 feet. The plugged back depth is 4,164 feet.

Wellsite is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 8, block 32, psi survey and 15 miles northwest of Crane.

RE-ENTRY SLATED
Lario Oil & Gas announced plans to re-enter the former Samedan Oil Corp. No. 2 Judkins Gas Unit, former Tubb gas producer in the Sand Hills multiphase field.

Lario will clean out to 4,210 feet and attempt to complete the project as the third 4,070-foot Clear Fork well in the pool.

The re-entry is one location north of Lario No. 5 J. B. Tubb, the 4070-foot discovery, and 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 8, block 32, psi survey.

It is 15 miles northwest of Crane.

COTTLE FIELD TEST
Sojourner Drilling Corp. of Abilene announced location for a 6,900-foot project in the Providence multiphase area of Southeast Cottle County, approximately 11 miles southeast of Paducah.

The operation is No. 1 Berry Unit and will be dug 660 feet from north and 1,500 feet from east lines of subdivision P. M. A. Cook survey, Abstract 65.

The test will be drilled with a company rig.

QUEEN WELL
Gulf Oil Corp. No. 1-A USM-Hillin has been completed as a flowing well in the USM (Queen) field of Pecos County, 3 1/2 mile north of Fort Stockton.

Operator reported a daily potential of 96 barrels of oil and 39 barrels of water, with a gas-oil ratio of 3,021-1. Gravity of the oil is 36.7 degrees.

The flow was gauged through a 21/64-inch choke and was from pay behind casing perforations from 3,148 to 3,324 feet after 2,000 gallons and fractured with 21,000 gallons.

The well is 2,173 feet from south and 1,872 feet from east lines of section 1, block T146, T&SL survey.

Animals killed

ATHENS, Texas (AP) — Dead animals have been found in the area of a leaking East Texas gas well, but the owners of the well said Wednesday the situation is stable and efforts are under way to cap the well.

Poisonous hydrogen sulfide fumes apparently caused the deaths of chickens, cats and dogs in the area 12 miles north of this city. Department of Public Safety troopers found the animals Wednesday.

DPS Spokesman Jim Robinson said officers believe the animals may have been killed Monday when the well blew out again and spewed out the poisonous gas.

A two-mile evacuation order remained in effect around the well site, but residents were allowed in on a necessity basis.

Solons' wives want TV ads probe

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Eight congressional wives began lobbying on Capitol Hill Wednesday to undo what they called the "shocking" attempt by some of their husbands' colleagues to interfere with a Federal Trade Commission inquiry into television advertising aimed at children.

Four representatives of the group personally distributed a letter to members of the House Appropriations Committee asking them to vote against an amendment approved by an Appropriations subcommittee, that would block the FTC from probing television advertising of food products targeted on children.

"Let the FTC conduct its inquiry; it may help us raise wiser, healthier children," the wives wrote. "As mothers and as citizens, we appeal to you to recognize television as a major influence in the nation's young," they said. "If the FTC can help to make this experience more educational, this effort should not be suppressed."

The subcommittee amendment in question is directed at a controversial proceeding undertaken by the FTC this spring to look into problems posed by television advertising directed at children, and to decide whether the agency should do anything about them.

The FTC staff had recommended to the five-member agency that it propose a ban on TV commercials aimed at children "too young to understand the selling purpose" of advertising; a ban on the advertising of highly sugared products to children under the age of 12, and a requirement that advertisers of other sugared products aimed at children contribute to a fund that would balance the ads with separate dental and nutritional messages.

The FTC's probe of children's advertising is a high-stakes issue and has generated lobbying on Capitol Hill by representatives of sugar and food companies and the broadcasting industry, who reportedly hope to head off the FTC.

The appropriations subcommittee amendment, adopted two weeks ago by a 5 to 4 vote, would prohibit the FTC from spending any money — including staff salaries and expenses — on any rulemaking proceeding that could limit television advertising of food that contains ingredients that are generally considered safe for human consumption. That would cover sugar.

But the congressional wives don't like that. "We think the congressmen should be made aware of how important people think the children's advertising food issue is," said Kathy Murphy, the wife of Rep. John M. Murphy, D-N.Y. she is the mother of three young children (Murphy has three other children by a previous marriage) and was one of the signers of the letter.

Murphy was one of the four wives distributing the letter door-to-door Wednesday. She knows many of the congressmen, and said that reaction to her was generally good — when she was able to talk with them personally. "But that does not tell you what they are going to do," she pointed out. "I am a political realist."

Murphy and about 60 other wives are members of a congressional wives group that studied children, nutrition and television and presented a report to Congress last year.

In their letter, they noted that a "moderate" television-watching child views about 10,000 food commercials a year, representing about 70 hours yearly of "polished food information." Some of the foods are good and others are inferior, the letter noted, but "almost without exception the food commercials omit any dental and nutritional information."

"The FTC's inquiry can lead to an improvement of children's understanding of food values," they said. Besides Murphy, other signers of the letter were Landis Neal, the wife of Rep. Stephen L. Neal, D-N.C.; Gayle Kildee, wife of Rep. Dale E. Kildee, D-Mich.; Suzie Dicks, wife of Rep. Norman D. Dicks, D-Wash.; Rose Nowak, wife of Rep. Henry J. Nowak, D-N.Y.; Sala Burton, wife of Rep. Phillip Burton, D-Calif.; Elinor Bedell, wife of Rep. Berkley W. Bedell, D-Iowa, and Merle Edgar, the wife of Rep. Robert W. Edgar, D-Pa.

Fluoridated water does no harm

BOSTON (AP) — People who drink water treated with fluoride are just as healthy as those who shun the cavity-fighting chemical, a federal study concludes.

"There is no evidence that fluoridation does any harm," said Dr. J. David Erickson, who conducted the study at the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta.

The federal study was undertaken to investigate reports that link fluoridation with cancer. Fluoride, which is added to the drinking water of many cities, has been shown to reduce tooth cavities in children by 65 percent, but critics have said it may be harmful to people's health.

Results of the new study were published in today's issue of the New England Journal of Medicine. Erickson compared the causes of death of 922,000 people over three years in 46 American cities — 24 of them with fluoridated water and 22 without.

After taking into account differences in race, age, sex, education and population density between the two groups of cities, he found that the death rates were virtually the same. In the fluoridated cities, there were 1,124 deaths per 100,000 person years, and in the non-fluoridated cities, there were 1,137 deaths.

Equal rights backers tardily seeking support

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate backers of the Equal Rights Amendment, having waited "until the last possible moment," are seeking support for a seven-year extension of its ratification period, which expires next year.

"I am not afraid to give the people of this country more time to study the ERA, to separate the wheat from the chaff on a lot of the false issues and outright lies that have been perpetrated..." said Sen. Birch Bayh.

The Indiana Democrat, who is chairman of the Senate Judiciary subcommittee on the constitution, led the fight that culminated in congressional approval of the amendment in 1972.

Twenty-two senators joined Bayh in sponsoring the extension resolution on Wednesday.

The ERA would provide the constitutional foundation for prohibiting discrimination because of a person's sex. Some 35 states have ratified the amendment to date, although three — Tennessee, Idaho and Nevada — have attempted to rescind their votes.

The Justice Department has said that the rescission votes are invalid. The seven-year ratification period expires March 22, 1979.

Bayh described the seven-year limit as arbitrary and added, "No one in Congress at that time could foresee that parliamentary tactics by a recalcitrant few would prevent the ERA from even reaching the floor for a vote in some state legislatures."

An identical resolution has already been introduced in the House and a House Judiciary subcommittee on civil and constitutional rights has begun hearings on the question.

Last fall the subcommittee heard from constitutional experts who concluded that Congress can extend the ratification period.

Neither East nor West accepts Israel as neighbor

By MARCUS ELIASON

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Fact: An Israeli pop singer wins first place in a prestigious European song contest last month.

Fact: On the same day European soccer authorities rule that although Israel has been expelled from the Asian Football Federation, it cannot join the European soccer zone.

Question: Is Israel Asian or European — Eastern or Western?

These two events on April 22 raise afresh the dilemma that has troubled Israel since the first pioneers came here a century ago. Thirty years of nationhood have provided no clear answers.

Even as Israelis danced in the streets over singer Izhar Cohen's victory, soccer fans were mourning what a local commentator called "one of the saddest days on Israeli sporting history" — Israel's rejection by the European soccer federation.

Geographically, Israel is part of Asia Minor. But nearby countries, such as Cyprus and Turkey, belong to European soccer groupings. "We remain 'wandering Jews' who, even if they have put down roots in their homeland, still have to struggle for their right to belong to a continent," lamented the newspaper Maariv in analyzing the combination of events.

Theodor Herzl, the Hungarian-born creator of Zionism, dreamed 80 years ago of a Jewish state that would be Europe's outpost in the "backward" Orient. But many of the early Jewish settlers, fired by romantic notions of the nomadic Arab, tried to copy the ways of the native Palestinians.

These Jews in Arab robes lost out in the 1920s as Jewish-Arab hostility increased, and the European influence was strengthened by an influx of Jewish immigrants from Germany.

Pauley soaked

NEW YORK (AP) — Jane Pauley of NBC's "Today" got a sample of campus protest this morning when a young man doused her with a cup of coffee as she conducted an interview on the Columbia University campus.

The coffee-thrower could not be identified immediately, and his motive was a mystery. He was escorted from the scene by two uniformed campus guards.

The back of Miss Pauley's gray jacket was soaked and her three interviewees all caught some spray from the flung container.

The interview was conducted amid a sea of empty wooden chairs set up in Low Plaza for the Columbia commencement later in the day.

One of the guests, Michael Strauss of the class of 1971, described the scene during the riots of 1968 when he participated in the takeover of the president's office.

Ed Eberle and Maria Iacullo of this year's class spoke for their own generation. Miss Iacullo had just finished speaking about the anti-South Africa activism and idealism of her contemporaries when the spray flashed across the screen and a blond head poked briefly into the scene.

Tom Brokaw, Miss Pauley's co-host on the program, concluded the half hour segment by commenting that they would try to get her some Danish pastry to go with the coffee.

ing a qualitative edge over its foes, Israel moved ever deeper into the European orbit.

The Oriental style returned to prominence after Israel won statehood and Jews poured in from neighboring Arab countries.

Today the average Israeli lunch can consist of gefilte fish and Oriental goat cheese. But elsewhere integration moves less smoothly.

Only one out of six Israelis of Afro-Asian extraction marries a spouse of European background, compared with one in seven in 1968, according to official surveys.

Israel is still a nation of immigrants. In 1976, 1.4 million of Israel's 3 million Jews were classed as Afro-Asian and 1.3 million as European. A mere 300,000 others went back sufficient generations in Palestine for their origins to be indeterminate, and they are today a sort of equivalent of the pilgrim-father families.

The Afro-Asians tend to accuse the Europeans of discrimination. The state radio and schools stress Western culture heavily. Few Asians reach top political or military office. The 19-member Cabinet has only three Orientals.

Many Europeans tend to look down on the Orientals' sharp, throaty accents and wailing, atonal music. The Orientals, who often come from backward countries, have lagged behind the Europeans who dominate Israeli life.

Yemenite extraction, picked a song that was about as Oriental as "My Yiddish Mama" at the European songfest. Watched on satellite television in 30 countries, the lithe, swarthy singer crooned about puppy love, and only the Hebrew lyrics distinguished the song as coming from the Orient.

Amnon Rubinstein, a widely read social critic, believes Israel should not make a point of belonging to any particular continent. "We are a Mediterranean country and we should try to combine quality with open-mindedness toward the Orient," he says.

Arab countries complain that Israel is an alien body in the Middle East that makes no effort to understand its neighbors' way of life.

Israel claims the Arabs have never tried to understand the Jewish state or benefit from its European-based technology.

Circus scout Feld scours world in talent search for 1979 show

By LARRY GERBER

NEW YORK (AP) — Acrobats, aerialists and animal trainers wherever you are — the circus is looking for you. The right combination of charisma and skill can put an aspiring performer in the spotlight, if he impresses a talent scout like Kenneth Feld.

Bros. Barnum & Bailey Circus, one of the world's biggest.

Feld estimated he travels 250,000 miles each year in search of new talent. He views shows in North and South America and scouts the tradition-rich acts of Western Europe. He has special permission to visit every circus and training center in five Eastern European countries and negotiates with their socialist governments for the services of their top acts.

Feld said his organization has also made overtures to the mainland Chinese government, so far without success.

His prospects must meet three standards. "We look for something you've never seen before — total uniqueness," he said. "Then we look for good-looking people.

"Then we look for performers. That's the main thing, and it's the hardest thing to find. Take Elvin Bale, one of our top acts... you see him on the street and you know he's a performer. He has that air about him. You know he's a star."

Feld, 29, began his talent scouting in 1968 with a trip to Bulgaria with his father, Irvin Feld. Since then, there have been changes and new opportunities for performers in the circus billed as "The Greatest Show on Earth."

"There's a new, young interest in circus," he said. "In 1966, the average age of a performer was 43. In 1978, it's 23. In 1966, the youngest clown was in his late 50s. Now we have some kids in their 20s. It gives you youthful vitality."

Two Ringling Bros. shows owned by Mattel, Inc., the toy manufacturer, feature about 400 performers, about 45 percent of them foreigners. The international communities live and travel in two custom-made 37-car trains that cross the United States.

Feld said the world's best aerialists — wire walkers and trapeze artists — come from Colombia, Central America and Mexico. Germany is the traditional home of the top wild cat trainers. For tumblers and acrobats, Feld looks to Bulgaria, Hungary and elsewhere in Eastern Europe.

Spain and Italy produce dextrous jugglers, and the United States turns out top-notch elephant trainers, he said.

"Why this is so, I don't know," Feld said. "That's just the way it seems to be."

Feld said a 10-year old boy from Norfolk, Va., is driving him crazy.

"He's been writing me every week and calling — not collect either — I wrote him back and said, 'Finish school, who knows, when you're 18.'"

"It's not easy to run away and join the circus anymore," Feld said. "In isolated cases, we still take somebody, but if we took a minor, we'd probably get prosecuted."

Drug smuggling growing fast in Texas Gulf Coast area

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Successful crack-downs on Florida drug smuggling are driving illegal traffickers to the Texas coastline, federal and state law enforcement officials agreed Wednesday.

"You couldn't put too many men in that Texas Gulf area," said Jack Bremer, assistant regional commissioner for the U.S. Customs Service Houston region. "No one has the resources at the present time, and frankly no one has devoted that much attention to it."

Bremer told the House Select Committee on Drugs and Alcohol Abuse and Control that federal and state anti-smuggling agencies could improve their efforts by sharing a radio frequency.

Revisions of Texas law and other legislative proposals are being considered by the committee to help halt illegal drug flow into Texas.

Bremer said last year customs officers seized 183,000 pounds of illegal drugs and made approximately 5,000 arrests. Seizure of certain drugs has doubled, he added, with the worst probably yet to come.

Another federal official agreed that two-year-long efforts to curtail smuggling in Florida have caused dealers to head toward Texas.

"Within the next week or two, we'll get together (with other agencies) and work out a program to control traffic coming in by the sea," said Irvin Swank, area director of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA).

William Morton, the DEA's liaison with the Texas Department of Public Safety (DPS), suggested that parts of the Texas Controlled Substances Act need re-writing to allow prosecution of doctors in state courts.

Part of the law dealing with diversion of legal drugs into illicit channels has been struck down, Morton said, forcing law enforcement agencies to carry cases to federal court.

Border surveillance is the DPS' top priority, said Floyd Hacker, head of the department's narcotics division. Hacker said the department would make a budget request for an additional 25 officers to be assigned to a new border district.

Mick Jagger, wife to divorce

LONDON (AP) — Saying they no longer find satisfaction in their seven-year marriage, rock singer Mick Jagger and his wife, Bianca, have begun divorce proceedings.

The breakup of one of the world's most publicized marriages follows reports that Jagger, lead singer of the Rolling Stones, has a new companion — Texas model Jerry Hall.

Bianca, 33, is in the United States. She filed suit in the London divorce court through her London attorneys, who initiated proceedings on Monday. If Jagger decides not to defend the case, it could be heard before August.

France, in 1971. They have a 6-year-old daughter, Jade.

London gossip columnist Nigel Dempster recently reported that Jagger has amassed a $7.28 million fortune and now has homes in New York, France, London and Berkshire in the English countryside.

HOUSTON (AP) — The U.S. Attorney's office in Houston confirmed Wednesday it has authorization from the Solicitor General to appeal sentences given three former policemen for civil rights violations in the death of a young Mexican-American prisoner.

The three former officers were sentenced by U.S. District Judge Ross Sterling to one year in prison and 10-year probation sentences. They were convicted by a federal court jury on two counts of violating the civil rights of Joe Campos Torres, 23, who was arrested during a barroom brawl in May 1977.

filed a motion challenging the legality of probation sentences for Terry W. Denson, 27, Joseph Janish, 22, and Stephen Orlando, 22. Sterling turned down the motion April 18, stating the motion was "entirely unprecedented."

Since the trial, there have been several rallies and marches protesting the sentences. Government attorneys have voiced "grave concern that the probated sentences will cause citizens of all races and backgrounds to believe that the sentences were a result of the continuing inequality of treatment accorded minorities."

The U.S. marshal's office is keeping a 24-hour guard on Sterling because of a letter threatening his life.

Government attorneys have voiced "grave concern that the probated sentences will cause citizens of all races and backgrounds to believe that the sentences were a result of the continuing inequality of treatment accorded minorities."

Symphony closing: an event happy, festive, richly musical

The Midland-Odessa Symphony's season-closing program was a real blast. The orchestra's final concert pair, in Odessa Monday night and in Midland's Lee High auditorium Tuesday night, were festive and happy events—richly musical. They also were just about the loudest musical evenings I have ever experienced. If the offerings of the 10 O'Clock Lab Band, guest ensemble with the symphony in the pair of concerts, didn't jar the fillings right out of your teeth, nothing could. Don't get me wrong. I enjoyed the playing of the 10 O'Clock Lab Band, an ensemble of exceedingly capable young musicians from North Texas State University, and thought their performance added an interesting dimension to the concert. But in truth I wish the program had been less raucous, more subdued. It tended to be painful to the ears after awhile. Still, it was good to hear this group of very professional young instrumentalists. I think their concert might have been more effective had it been presented "on its own" rather than as part-and-parcel of a symphonic evening, but that's neither here nor there, as the old saying goes. They came to town, they played expertly and well, and they undoubtedly made many new fans for progressive jazz in the process. The visiting band, joined by the orchestra under the baton of Dr. Tom Hohstadt, offered "A Fifth of Beethoven," thematically based on Beethoven's Symphony No. 5, which was interesting and well played, and then sailed into the "Concerto Grosso for Dance Band and Symphony Orchestra" by Robert Jager which proved to be one of the best numbers of the evening. Another offering, "A Child Is Born," by Thad Jones, full of jazzy rhythms but soulful and gentle on occasion, was certainly worth a hearing. The band's delineation of a number titled "F.M.," from the ensemble's LP album, "Lab '75," was flawless but it failed to move me. Perhaps by then my eardrums were becoming numb. Leon Breeden, director of the lab band program at North Texas State University, was on the podium for the band's final presentation, a "Salute to the Big Bands" which presented songs made famous by some of the big band leaders of the 1930s and

'40s, among them Harry James, Jimmy Dorsey, Duke Ellington, Count Basie, Artie Shaw and Glenn Miller. I didn't recognize each and every song that surfaced in this medley, but among those I did recognize were "Amapola," "Ciri Biri Bin" and "Begin the Beguine." The band gave all the songs in the medley fine treatment. As a bonus, the band and the symphony, once again under the baton of Dr. Hohstadt, played the "Star Wars" theme. It was lively — and loud. The symphony opened the program with Johannes Brahms' Symphony No. 2. Now, to my way of thinking, any concert that offers one of Brahms' four symphonic masterworks is almost automatically a success, and if the presentation is a superior one, so much the better. The orchestra's reading of the Second Symphony—the sunniest, happiest, least ponderous of any of Brahms' symphonies—was first-rate, I thought. The ebb-and-flow of this uniquely melodic, lyrical and graceful work was well defined by the various instrumental segments.

Freewheeling Kris Kristofferson engaged in bout with alcohol

By ED BLANCHE

LONDON (AP) — Kris Kristofferson says he's been on the wagon for 18 months but hasn't licked his drink problem yet. "I never thought I'd get to the point where I'd have to quit," he said in London, where he and his wife, Rita Coolidge, were launching a nationwide tour, their first concerts here since 1972.

"I'm not cured, but I'm more in control. I'm still not together, I'm still self-destructive, still crazy. "But I'd just as soon drink gasoline as go back to the booze," said the freewheeling Kristofferson, the one-time Nashville outlaw who became a movie star playing a drunken rock idol on the skids. Kristofferson said he was one hard drinker before he took the pledge

Sept. 20, 1976. He even had it down in black and white in his contracts that he'd have a couple of bottles in his dressing room. Once, tottering more than just a little, Kristofferson apologized to a London audience for his performance. At one West Coast gig he actually gave every one of the audience their money back because he figured he'd been so bad.

FFA members Young musicians 78 artists contributing to 12th Southwest honored play in piano, Area Art Show at Museum of the Southwest at banquet organ recital

STANTON — Four Stanton High School FFA members Tuesday night were honored at the Vocational Agriculture banquet. John Parker was named Star Chapter Farmer; Richard Parker was named Star Greenhand. Tressa Hull and Danny Ireton were honored as outstanding seniors. Ireton also was named Outstanding Senior in Agriculture. Other awards presented included Star Agri-Businessman to Kyle Cook, and the public speaking award was given to John Parker. Production awards went to John Smith, cotton; Bobby Matthews, sheep, and Victor Gonzales, swine. Gordon Howard received the agriculture sales and service award.

Piano and organ students of Mrs. R.B. Henderson participated in an end-of-season recital, theme of which was "Young Musicians Play the Masters." Playing on the program were Deandra Sheely, Mary Bernard, Demetria Sheely, Randy Floyd, Tina Sanders, Andrea Houston, Judy Greer, Sally Bernard, Joan Thummel, Charla Carter, Elaine Reese, Vicki Widner, Carrie Landrum and Daphne Greer. Second-year special awards were given to Carrie Landrum and Vicki Widner, while first-year awards went to Andrea Houston, Elaine Reese, Sally Bernard and Charla Greer. The 12th annual Southwestern Area Art Show has opened at the Museum of the Southwest, 1705 W. Missouri Ave. The show, sponsored jointly by the museum and the Midland Arts Association, is presented as a survey of current art production in the Southwest and features 116 works created by 78 artists and artisans resident in this region. Clint Stokes, a Dallas who has exhibited his paintings in Midland in the past, was juror for the 1978 show. Five artists represented in the exhibition are winners of $100 cash awards while 10 other individuals received $50 awards. Winners of the $100 awards include Paul F. Hanssen of Midland, Kevin Lyles of Abilene, Jim Goudie of Midland, Dale Hamlett of Portales, N.M., and B. Ryan Freeman of Midland. Mrs. Freeman received the annual purchase award provided by the Midland branch, American Association of University Women, for her graphic titled "Yesterday." Receiving $50 cash awards were Charles Pruitt of Midland, Catherine A. Logan of Odessa, Grace Ashley of Ralls, Robert H. Bell of Alpine, Leola Anderson of Midland, Bennie Pierce of Clovis, N.M., Steve Luttrell of Midland, Kathy Brown of Midland, Ron Fowler of Portales, N.M., and Allie Jean Katteyer of Midland. Dashiell Hammett's sleuths now stalking television

By BILL KAUFMAN Newday They were usually diamond-hard tourhies — the kind of private eyes who had ominous bulges under their jackets and, at the drop of a fedora, were quick to espouse their uncompromising code of morality. Dashiell Hammett's sleuths often seemed more violent than the villains they pursued. Hammett's work was the literary keystone of the hard-boiled detective fiction. His blood-and-guts mystery captured the public's imagination and helped to set the mold for the fast-talking, womanizing private investigator who became so popular. Introduced in the late 1920s, the stylized, cynical Hammett characters have provided us with some of the sharpest dialogues in American novels and movies. What many consider to be one of Hammett's best stories, "The Dain Curse" — it originally appeared in serial form in a 1928 mystery magazine called "Black Mask" — has been a subject of a six-hour television movie, which premieres Monday on the CBS network and runs for three consecutive nights through Wednesday. Dashiell Hammett masterpieces on private eye-dom, "The Maltese Falcon" (from which the Sam Spade character evolved) and "The Thin Man," were popularized in classic 1940s movies. Legions of mystery-thriller aficionados cut their molars watching movie heroes solve the bizarre and perplexing cases. The television version of "The Dain Curse" stars James Coburn, whose craggy face, set off by teeth that have been described as resembling a neat row of tombstones in a crowded graveyard, makes him as tough-looking as any Hammett hero ever was. Coburn plays gumshoe Hamilton Nash. The mini-series was filmed on location in Pennsylvania and in New York — areas that could be made to resemble the story's setting, San Francisco in 1928. The plot (as much of it as can be told without ruining the whodunit surprise) concerns Nash, a worldly and street-wise operative whose bitter outlook becomes immediately obvious — he believes there are no innocent people. An insurance company hires the Dickerson National Detective Agency, for whom Nash works, and he is assigned to dig up the facts on a heist at the home of a wealthy family, which handily includes a beautiful daughter (Addison) who is doped up to believe she carries a deadly curse.

Ticket sales for 'God's Favorite' begin Monday

A sparkling comedy by America's favorite funnyman, Neil Simon, will be the opening attraction in Theatre Midland, the new home of Midland Community Theatre at 2000 W. Wadley Ave.

"God's Favorite," playwright Simon's fresh retelling of the Biblical story of Job, opens a week from Friday to continue MCT's 1978 membership year. The comedy will be the third regular production of the season. MCT executive director Art Cole is staging and directing the show.

The Theatre Midland box office opened this morning to accept seat reservations from MCT season members for all performances of "God's Favorite." Ticket sales to the public will begin next Monday.

The theater's new telephone number for its box office is 682-4111.

Playwright Simon, whose earlier comedy hits "Plaza Suite," "The Odd Couple," "Last of the Red Hot Lovers," "Barefoot in the Park," "The Star-Spangled Girl" and "The Sunshine Boys" have been solid successes at Midland Community Theatre, has updated the story of Job, the richest man in the land of Uz, and turned him into Joe Benjamin, a wealthy manufacturer of cardboard cartons who lives opulently on the North Shore of Long Island.

One snowy midnight, a kooky, mysterious stranger, appears at the Benjamin home. He is a messenger of God, it develops, and after much coaxing he relates his mission. It seems that Joe, a virtuous and upright man, is God's favorite -- and while God and the Devil were having a philosophic discussion, the Devil wagered he could get Joe to renounce God. Therefore, God chooses Joe for a test of man's faith through a series of increasingly severe punishments and discouragements. Joe's factory is burned to the ground, his home is destroyed, even his marble swimming pool burns. And the poor man keeps on losing -- he gets not only Job's boils but side orders of buritis, neuralgia and tennis elbow.

Playwright Simon combines compassion with a light-hearted point of view to fill his comedy with hilarity despite the rather awesome subject matter. In "God's Favorite," he has presented the good guy slipping on a cosmic banana peel and, like all the famous clowns in the history of comedy, the kicked-around fellow keeps coming up courageously after every blow and every disaster to affirm his never-ending faith.

'A Funny Thing' happening at PPH

ODESSA — "A Funny Thing" happens at Odessa's Permian Playhouse Friday night.

That's when "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" opens at Odessa's community theater. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

The comedy-with-music, an outrageously wild and wacky romp through ancient Rome, is the final attraction of PPH's 1977-78 season. It will have a second performance Saturday night and additional presentations May 26, 27 and 28 and June 2 and 3. Seat reservations for all performances may be made through the box office, 363-2329. PPH 1977-78 season membership cards will be valid for the show, and persons purchasing 1978-79 theater memberships may use them for admission to a performance.

"A Funny Thing" has been staged by Jane Crum, interim managing director of the Playhouse. The production features—Jeryl Hoover, Al Beatty, Dana Tyler, Chuck Moore, Mary PaPker, Gary Lipscomb, Charley Tyler, Billy Cook and Kerry Pell, joined by supporting players.

IRATE HUSBAND AND LIBERATED WIFE have an encounter in this scene in "Accommodations," the new comedy attraction at The Mansion dinner theater between Midland and Odessa. TV and stage actor Peter Breck, left, headlines the cast of the zany farce and Adair Jameson portrays his wife. "Accommodations" is having performances at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday each week and matinees at 2:30 p.m. each Sunday through June 4. Table reservations for all performances may be made through the box office, 563-1133.

Dance program Saturday

The Bingham Dance Center will present an annual spring program at 8 p.m. Saturday in Midland High School auditorium. The event will be open to the public at no charge.

The Bingham Dance Center, formerly the Bingham Dance Studio, is concluding its 25th season. Everett F. Bingham is owner-director of the center.

Dancers who will be performing solos in the Saturday night recital include Carrie Beck, Nancy Leath, Elizabeth Mashburn, Betsy Halvorsen, Mike Morgan, Gina Wheatley, Belinda Wood, Karen Eberle, Lyn Watts, Karin Fields, Julie Tittle and Michelle Boone. A special 10-year award will go to Elizabeth Mashburn while five-year awards will go to Lori Evans, Dorothy Gilbertson, Nancy Leath, Tracy Logan, Sara Purvis and Laura Steele.

Jazz aired

By WILLIAM GILLEN

NEW YORK (AP) — "Jazz Alive!" a weekly 90-minute series presenting jazz in concert, has emerged as an innovative mainstay of the National Public Radio network.

The program, carried by more than 170 of NPR's 207 member stations, has been well received, especially by jazz fans in smaller cities and towns that offer little live jazz.

In addition to diversity and sustained quality, the program boasts as its host Billy Taylor, a pianist who has quietly but effectively assumed the role of "chairman of the board" of the American jazz community.

"NPR and PBS are two of the best ways to reach a very large and sensitive audience for jazz," Taylor said in a recent interview, explaining why he has been spending an average of one day a week in Washington to put the show together.

Additional Summer Mummer tryouts Sunday, Monday

Midland Community Theatre has scheduled additional tryouts for its 1978 Summer Mummer show.

Auditions for actors in the melodrama and for singers, dancers, magicians and specialty acts for the accompanying music hall-style olio will be held at 7 p.m. Sunday and Monday in MCT's new home at 2000 W. Wadley Ave. Previous stage experience is not necessary and persons do not have to be MCT season members to qualify for a part in the production.

The Summer Mummer's 30th anniversary production will open June 30. The show will have performances each weekend through Sept. 2. Additional information on the show is obtainable by calling Midland Community Theatre at 682-2544.

Eritrean rebels suffer losses

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Rebels in Ethiopia's northern province of Eritrea say relentless air raids by government forces are causing heavy property damage and enormous civilian casualties, but they claim the Ethiopian army's ground offensive is making no progress.

The Eritrean Liberation Front's news agency reported the heaviest ground fighting since the start of the rebellion 16 years ago is raging west and north of Asmara, the provincial capital.

The ELF rebels, the largest of the three insurgent movements in the former Italian colony on the Red Sea, said they have repulsed repeated attempts to break their six-month siege of Asmara. They denied reports that the Ethiopian forces have broken through.

The news agency said the ELF was also holding fast on the coastal front in the third day of "savagely" combat against troops and tanks along a 290-mile front from the northern port of Massawa to the southern port of Assab.

The report said the Ethiopian air force was attacking guerrilla-held towns from the Red Sea coast to the highlands around Asmara. Ahmed Nasser, leader of the ELF, said the air force was trying to "panic civilian inhabitants into fleeing their villages and towns into the mountains."

Nasser appealed for international intervention to "come to Eritrea's aid against the Ethiopian offensive and Ethiopia's genocide campaign."

The ELF announced Monday that the long-expeted Ethiopian offensive to crush the Eritrean rebels had begun with Cuban and Soviet help. There has been no confirmation from the Ethiopian government, and no such reports from the other two Eritrean guerrilla armies. But Lt. Col. Mengistu Haile Mariam, the head of the Ethiopian military government, was quoted as saying Monday that the attack was imminent.

Government forces supported by Cuban troops and Soviet advisers earlier this year crushed another rebellion in the Ogaden Desert of eastern Ethiopia.

Seniors say goodbye to high school days

By KIM WOOD, SHERI BAILEY and DINAL BOYD

Well, the time has come for us to say farewell to you Midlanders. The seniors at Midland High School only have three short days left. In one week, and how those days will pass so quickly, we will be sitting in the stadium, not as spectators or athletes, but as high school graduates.

It seems only yesterday that we were walking the halls of MHS for the first time. Scared, as most of us were, we may have bought elevator tickets from some smart senior. Three years have passed and we soon will be joining the college life, or perhaps the working life. Nevertheless, our lives will take a definite change. Our carefree days in ole MHS will soon end.

One thing that will never end is the place we have in our hearts for the dear friends we have made. The memories we have made will be cherished and never forgotten. We have learned to give and take. We now know better how to cope with other people.

Hopefully, we have acquired respect for our education, country and fellow man. High school has been difficult for many of us, but it has been an experience that has helped us grow in maturity and responsibility.

For us, something we have especially enjoyed is our volunteer time put in the Junior Council. The Youth Center is a great addition to the school. We love it and hope the students in the future will appreciate it and take care of it.

We would like to thank the adults of Midland who have served on the Midland Youth Center Board and let you know that your time and effort is needed and greatly appreciated. A special thanks to Mr. Osherer, the president of the board who has done a tremendous job. We appreciate the work that our officers Ty Hughston, Greg Parr and Jo Lindsey have done. Such dedication keeps our Youth Center going. And finally, to Rasco, our friend and helper, we give you our love and deepest appreciation for your time and unselfish concern who have displayed. You have given of yourself so generously, and we thank you.

And now a word from Rasco: On behalf of the Midland Youth Center, the board and all of the students that have been members of the Youth Center in the past and present, I would like to express my appreciation to Audrey Gill. For many years, he has worked closely with the Youth Center. He has encouraged participation in the Youth Center functions and has been an asset to the success and use of our building. He has been a friend to the Youth Center and we thank him.

It will be sad to leave Midland High. It will be difficult to leave all of our friends. We will soon be joining a different life style, but... that's life.

Kim, Sheri and Dinal P.S. Good luck to the new Chatter writers, Cecily, Jane and Valerie!!!

State seeks tax repeal

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The state asked a district judge Wednesday to reject a suit to repeal the 10-cent state property tax and let the 1979 Legislature address the issue.

Rep. Wayne Paveto, D-Orange, and other lawyers filed suit in April asking that the tax be declared unconstitutional. He repealing the tax, he said, Texas taxpayers would be saved over $550 million in property taxes over the next decade.

The tax, authorized by a 1965 constitutional amendment, is used to finance new construction on 17 college campuses.

The state's response, filed late Tuesday, said, in part:

"Although plaintiffs cannot successfully enjoin the assessment and collection of the tax in question statewide, the presence of this suit, and its broad pleadings and request for injunctive relief, will have the impact of denying the state colleges and universities that depend on the revenues of the tax the right to issue bonds or notes payable from the revenues of the tax and, thereby, seriously impair the programs of those colleges and universities for the acquisition, construction and initial equipping of buildings or other permanent improvements."

The state response by Attorney General John Hill asked that the suit be abated or that the plaintiffs get nothing.

Housing starts continue upswing

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — To the surprise of many, the market for housing continues to boom in defiance, they say, not only of the laws of finance but of gravity and logic too.

The annual rate of housing starts rose 31 percent in March and another 6 percent in April to a rate of 2.19 million units. Purchases of existing homes in March was at an annual rate of 3.77 million units.

It's often said that houses are priced beyond the means of the typical family. But families find the money somehow — by the wife going to work, or by borrowing from parents or by doing without in other ways.

In search of motives for this fate-defying skill, some housing analysts seem to overlook the desperation factor, the other side of which is the investment incentive.

Young families, that is, know that despite their financial problems, they cannot indefinitely postpone buying a house. The coming of children and the presence of inflation force them into the recognition.

They become convinced, more strongly than any real estate agent could convince them, when they also see a house as a way out of penury. And the numbers support them.

Under such terms, the purchaser would have had to pay $8,200 down and finance $32,800 at a cost per month of $285, or $3,420 per year, for a 20-year total of $68,400.

In March 1978 the median price had risen to $46,500, and some lenders charged around 9 percent interest. After a 20 percent downpayment, the buyer had a $37,200 mortgage, requiring payments of $335 per month or $4,020 per year, for a total of $80,400.

Costs could be higher next year. If trends persist, median prices would be about $52,000, and it is possible that interest rates might rise to 10 percent. Such rates already exist in a few areas.

It also might be more difficult to obtain a loan.

If available, the down payment would be $10,400, the monthly payments $401, the yearly charges $4,812, and the total $96,240.

The difference between 1977 and 1978: $27,840.

Do you need your chimney cleaned NOW?

The answer is YES. All the chimneys that need cleaning cannot be cleaned in September or October. If you have burned 2 to 3 cords of hard wood or 4 to 5 cords of soft wood in your fireplace and your chimney hasn't been cleaned, you are probably harboring a considerable fire hazard in your home.

Until recently there was not a professional full-time chimney sweep in Midland. There is now...

The lobby of the new wing of Trinity Towers provides an inviting place for residents to meet visitors or each other. (Staff Photo)

'Freedom' key word at Trinity Towers

Freedom is a privilege at any age, but too many people find themselves giving up part of that freedom when they reach the later years of their life, especially if they find themselves in a nursing home.

Trinity Towers tries to preserve an older citizen's freedom. It is a senior citizens community, not a nursing home, emphasized Clyde Haden, administrator.

A new $2.7 million wing has been completed and an open house is planned Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. for the public to tour the new facility. The building was financed by contributions from the community. It is a non-profit, non-denominational facility.

There are 172 living units, ranging from one bedroom with private balcony to two-room suite.

While several of the floors are for self-sufficient residents, there is a floor for "helpful living" for those who are still ambulatory, but need some assistance in daily living and access to nursing care services. An other floor is a health care floor for residents who need full-time health care, said Haden.

Residents provide their own furniture to give each room an individual look, he noted.

The Towers includes a beauty shop for residents, and the operators are flexible with their hours, according to Haden. An activity room serves as a meeting area when residents have birthday parties, Sunday evening vespers and an exercise class.

The hobby room includes molds for ceramics and a kiln for those residents who like to dabble in the arts. A sewing machine keeps other residents busy. Connected to the room is a prospective gift shop. Not only the shop provide personal care products for those who prefer not to go shopping for one item, but also it will be an outlet for those who want to sell their crafts, Haden said.

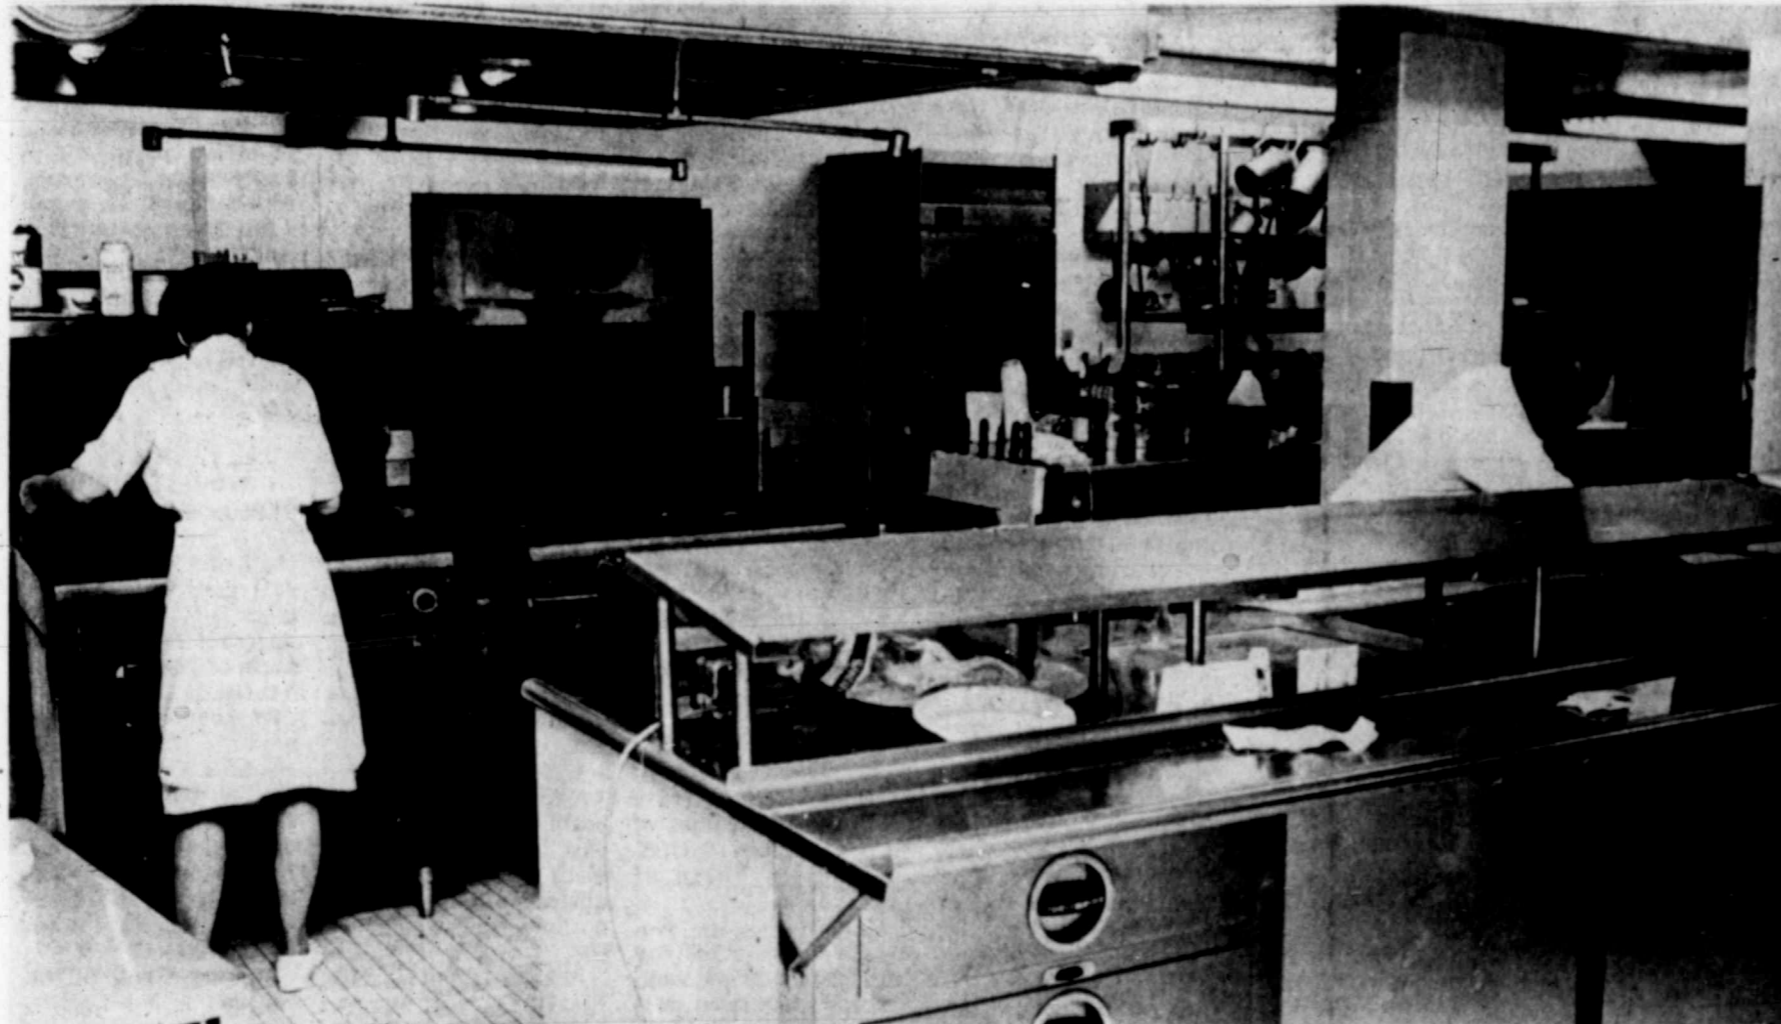

Outside on the west end is the C. R. Maillison Memorial Fountain, donated by Mrs. Maillison in memory of her husband, and a miniature golf course, the brainchild of Haden. "We are going to plan tournaments and other activities based around the course," he said.

An indoor laundry room is provided for residents who want to do their own laundry.

"This is more like an apartment complex," Haden said. "Residents can come and go. They have complete freedom."

Preparing food in the Trinity Towers kitchen are Faye Stiles and Fred Briggs, both cooks for the facility. (Staff Photo)

Californians survive as samurai swappers

By NANCY SKELTON
The Los Angeles Times

SAN DIEGO — When Dick Dodge says he will make a sharp trade for his surplus automobile, it is more than an empty promise from a used-car salesman with a catchy name.

The 43-year-old San Diegan took out this brief classified ad in a local newspaper.

"Honda, '77 Accord, 5 spd, 12,000 mi, $4,950 or tod his wife Kayoko — whom he met in a Tokyo sword shop — own two Hondas, plus a recently purchased motor home.

"It's no joke," Dodge explains, "I'm a Japanese sword broker. I want to get rid of an extra car so I figured I'd combine that with work. There is a large retired military population in San Diego. Many people brought these things back as souvenirs."

Dodge says he will take one or several swords in exchange for his sedan. The swords, he says, range in value from $100 to $100,000, depending on age and condition.

Dodge says he was a discontented PBX installer in the early 1960s when his interest in old weapons took him to a Disneyland gun show. He purchased what turned out to be a rather valueless 20th century Japanese military sword and "from then on, I was always looking for the difference." Dodge and his wife live half the year here and half in Japan, where they trade their wares at auction.

"I take the swords back (to Japan) and sell them myself for double the price," he said.

Dodge would like to claim higher motives for his profession, that his underlying drive is to return the prized artifacts to their homeland, "but basically, it's the money. I suppose there is a secondary benefit in returning the swords. Also you could say I'm helping out the flow of dollars in a very minute way."

It was in 1969 that Dodge took a six-month leave from the telephone company, went to Tokyo, met Kayoko, bought some swords, came back home and quit his job.

"Now I not only make double what I did, but I don't have to work every day and I have a much better outlook on life. Partly, it's knowing about something rather rare," he said. "Samurai swords are more than just weapons. They are history. Maybethey don't bring as much as a Picasso painting, but they are as fine a work of art."

Meanwhile, Dodge says, he isn't worried about unloading the Honda. "People who have swords ought to realize they are worth 20 percent to 30 percent more than they were a year ago because the yen is getting stronger," he pitches.

And if the small ad does not draw any swords, there is still the $4,950 cash. Dodge says he is willing to slash that.

Dick Dodge holds a samurai sword, ready to make a sharp deal on the Honda in rear. Dodge, a swapper in San Diego, Calif., says he will swap the car for two swords, which range in value from $100 to $100,000. Hearing slated on health care

BIG SPRING — Public testimony on health care for the elderly and disabled will be heard May 26 here by a state legislative panel. The hearing will begin at 9 a.m. in the Dora Roberts Student Union Building at Howard County Junior College, a spokesman for the Texas Department of Human Resources said.

The hearing is one of seven being held across the state.

Created by Senate Bill 548 to study the needs of Texas' elderly and disabled citizens the panel will report its findings and recommendations to the 66th Legislature.

The public hearings are aimed at making sure all parties interested in home and community care get a chance to be heard, the spokesman said. Testimony is expected from service providers, service recipients and their families and various experts on the subject, he said.

Unusual contest planned in June

SEATTLE (AP) — The winner of the contest will be the pilot whose craft flies into the open sun roof of a new car parked inside the Kingdome arena. The prize: the car itself.

The pilots will be flying paper airplanes.

Michael Campbell, a Seattle sports promoter, has issued invitations to all 142 member countries of the United Nations to send representatives to the World Indoor Paper Airplane Championship in the Kingdome June 18.

Only serious contestants need apply, says Campbell. "This should not be taken lightly," he said at a news conference.

After consulting Boeing engineers about aerodynamics, it was determined the only official material eligible for competition would be 17-inch, medium weight, recycled paper.

Japanese makes new for surplus crude oil

By WILLIAM CHAPMAN
The Washington Post

TOKYO — The Japanese government has revived a plan, once rejected by the United States, to buy large supplies of the Alaskan crude oil that is producing a glut in the American West Coast markets.

Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda has instructed officials to come up with details for an arrangement that would permit Japan to exchange some of the oil it buys from the Middle East for Alaskan oil.

He reportedly was encouraged during his recent trip to Washington to believe that the U.S. government might look more favorably on such an arrangement than it did last year.

Present American law prohibits foreign sales of the Alaskan oil to any countries except Canada and Mexico. If Congress did not object, however, President Carter could waive that restriction to serve the national interest.

Last summer, the Carter administration considered such a swap but eventually turned it down. One reason for that was a fear that the public would not take seriously a national energy conservation program if supposedly precious domestic oil was to be sold overseas.

Japanese officials this week referred to two changes that have taken place since last July, when Carter turned down the swap.

The United States at that time still counted on using all of the 1.2 million barrels of oil flowing daily from the Alaskan Pipeline, which carries it from Prudhoe Bay to a southern port for shipment to California. But there is now a glut of oil on the West Coast which is expected to continue for some time.

Secondly, Japan is now under stronger U.S. pressure to reduce its trade surplus, which runs more than $8 billion with the United States alone. A big oil purchase could substantially reduce the surplus. Although the United States is more interested in seeing Japan import manufactured goods, not raw materials, the oil deal would at least make the trade books look better.

Japanese sources said Fukuda raised the possibility with Carter at their meeting in the White House on May 3. Some reports have described Carter's reaction as favorable, but one source said Wednesday Carter was merely "neutral," indicating only that he would consider the suggestion again.

Fukuda also was encouraged, the official said, when American congressmen raised the possibility of an oil swap during his meetings with them in the capital.

Japanese officials have been cautious about raising the issue because they realize it touches some sensitive political nerves in Washington. One high-ranking official said, "If America thinks it can do this politically, I am sure we could accommodate that wish."

Japan's proposal is to send some of the Middle East oil it normally buys directly to the United States in exchange for Alaskan oil shipped to Japanese ports. The government calculates that both countries could save on transportation costs. The Middle Eastern oil would go directly to U.S. ports on the East Coast, where it is most needed.

At present, Japan is not suffering from an oil shortage; but it is always eager to locate new supply sources, such as Alaska. Even before the Alaska swap plan was revived, the government was considering stockpiling oil in tankers off the southern coast of Japan, both to ensure a supply for emergencies and to reduce its trade surplus.

Fukuda has told the Ministry of International Trade and Industry to prepare details of an oil-swap plan. No estimates of the amount of oil have been made public.

The Fukuda Administration is reportedly eager to send a working-level delegation to Washington within a month to discuss the plan with American officials.

Sojourner Drilling Co. of Abilene No. 1-B Lewis Johnson is a new test in the Five-N field of Fisher County, three miles southwest of Hamlin.

The project, which will be drilled on a 5,500-foot contract, is 1,650 feet southwest of the Strawn discovery of the pool.

The location is 2,150 feet from south and west lines of section 198, block 1, BBB&C survey.

TOM GREEN TEST
Simpson-Mann Oil Producers and J. D. Thomas, both of San Angelo, staked location for a south offset to the two-well Lora (Strawn) field of Tom Green County.

The 4,750-foot test is 467 feet from south and 1,093.33 feet from west lines of section 165, block 11, SPRR survey and seven miles south of Wall.

It will be operated as No. 1 Frank J. Holik Jr.

ANDREWS TESTER
Texaco Inc. announced plans to re-enter and plug back for completion in the Strawn at its No. 249-A-1 J. E. Mabee, former Silurian-Ellenburger well in the Lowe multipay field of Andrews County.

The project is 1,750 feet from north and 800 feet from west lines of section 37, block 40, T-2-N, G&MMB&A survey. It is 2,725 feet northwest of production.

The location is 22 miles southeast of Andrews.

HOWARD PROJECT
WEST-TEX Drilling Co. of Abilene No. 5 J. L. Jones Heirs is a new test in the five-well Vincent (Clear Fork) pool of Howard County, 22 miles northeast of Big Spring.

Slotted for a 4,500-foot bottom, it is 2,640 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 11, block 26, H&TC survey.

Permian Basin producers listed

Seven new wells are among operations reported in Permian Basin areas.

Two of the new producers are in the Lehn-Apco, South field of Pecos County, one completed by I. W. Lovelady of Midland and the other finalized by C. F. Lawrence & Associates, Inc., also of Midland.

LOVELADY WELL
I. W. Lovelady No. 1-A Chalkley has been completed from the Wichita-Albany pay in the Lehn-Apco, South pool.

Operator reported a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 4,111,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 4,398 to 4,555 feet. Gas-liquid ratio is 250,892-1, with gravity of the liquid 68 degrees.

The pay section was acidized with 5,500 gallons.

The well, now a dual producer, earlier was completed from the Ellenburger zone. Wellsite is 3,459 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 4, block 110, Mrs. L. Merchant survey and 11 miles south of Imperial.

LAWRENCE PRODUCER
C. F. Lawrence & Associates No. 2 Merchant-State also was completed from the Wichita-Albany to become a dual producer with the Ellenburger.

Operator reported a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 3,000,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 4,190 to 4,336 feet. The pay was acidized with 4,000 gallons.

Earlier, the well finished from the Ellenburger from 4690 to 4,748 feet for a 24-hour flowing potential of 92 barrels of 39-gravity oil, with a gas-oil ratio of 350-1. The flow was through a 10-64-inch choke.

lines of section 102, block 10, H&GN survey.

GLASSCOCK PUMPER
Belco Petroleum Corp., operating from Midland, reported 24-hour potential test for its No. 2 Edwards, 1,513 feet north of other production in the Deadwood (Fusselman) field of Glasscock County.

The well finished from the Fusselman for a 24-hour pumping potential of 54 barrels of 50-gravity oil and 354 barrels of water, through perforations from 10,006 to 10,018 feet. Gas-oil ratio was 2,722-1.

The pay section was acidized with 6,000 gallons and fractured with 19,000 gallons.

Total depth is 10,054 feet and 5 1/2-inch casing is set on bottom. The plugged back depth is 10,020 feet.

MITCHELL OILER
Sun Oil Co. No. 13-D V. T. McCabe is a new well in the Jameson, North (Strawn) field of Mitchell County, four miles north of Silver.

On 24-hour potential test it flowed 103 barrels of 42-gravity oil and three barrels of water, through a 14-64-inch choke and perforations from 6,133 to 6,161 feet. Gas-oil ratio is 1,281-1.

Total depth is 6,201 feet and 5 1/2-inch pipe is set at that point. The plugged back depth is 6,180 feet.

Operator treated the pay with 500 gallons of acid and fractured with 60,000 gallons of fluid.

Location is 724 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 227, block 1-A, H&TC survey.

WINKLER WELLS
Gifford, Mitchell & Wisenbaker of Midland has announced potential tests on three wells in the Cheyenne (Capitan) pool of Winkler County, 13 miles northwest of Kermit.

The operator's No. 3-A Fox Tail was completed for a daily flowing potential of 49 barrels of oil, gravity not reported, and three barrels of water, through a 16-64-inch choke and perforations from 3,142 to 3,226 feet.

The pay was treated with 1,700 gallons of acid and 20,000 gallons of fracture fluid.

Location is 2,987 feet from south and 1,000 feet from east lines of section 17, block C-23, psi survey. Total depth is 3,228 feet and 5 1/2-inch casing is set at total depth.

SECOND WELL
Gifford, Mitchell & Wisenbaker No. 3 Black Kettle was completed for a daily flow of 50 barrels of oil and three barrels of water, through a 16-64-inch choke and perforations from 3,117 to 3,177 feet after 1,400 gallons of acid and 30,000 gallons of fracture solution.

Total depth is 3,198 feet and 5 1/2-inch casing is set at that point. Gas-oil ratio is 1,160-1.

The well is 1,330 feet from north and 467 feet from east lines of section 7, block 74, psi survey.

THIRD WELL
Gifford, Mitchell & Wisenbaker No. 1-A Black Kettle was finished in the Cheyenne (Capitan) field for a daily pumping potential of 32 barrels of oil and 105 barrels of water, through perforations from 3,148 to 3,217 feet. Gas-oil ratio is 920-1.

The pay was acidized with 900 gallons and fractured with 15,000 gallons.

Total depth is 3,230 feet and 5 1/2-inch casing is cemented on bottom.

Wellsite is 2,630 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 7, block 74, psi survey.

ECTOR PROJECTS
Amoco Production Co. announced locations for a pair of Atoka projects in the Fasken multipay area of Ector County. The pool has no Atoka production at this time.

No. 1-BE David Fasken is 1,700 feet from north and 1,900 feet from west lines of section 26, block 42, T-1-N, G&MMB&A survey and 16 miles north of Odessa.

The project will be drilled to 10,532 feet.

The operator's No. 2-AV Midland Farms will be drilled to 10,425 feet. The location is 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 36, block 42, T-1-N, G&MMB&A survey and 17 miles north of Odessa.

AMENDED DESIGNATION
Wagner & Brown of Midland No. 1 Edmundson, scheduled as an 8,400-foot project in the Conger (Pennsylvanian) area of Glasscock County, has been amended as a 10,200-foot wildcat.

Location is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 29, block 32, T-5-S, T&P survey and 15 miles southeast of Garden City.

The project was drilling below 8,485 feet on last report.

WILDCAT SITE
Union Texas Petroleum Corp. No. 1 Floyd is to be drilled as an 11,800-foot wildcat in Terry County, 12 miles southeast of Wellman.

Location is 1,650 feet from south and west lines of section 2, block C-38, psi survey and 1/2 mile west of production in the Corrigan pool. Elevation is 3,175 feet.

Devonia discovery opens Pecos gas field

Hillin Production Co. of Odessa No. 1-7 Thigpin has been completed as a Devonian gas discovery in Pecos County, 11.5 miles northeast of Sheffield.

The strike, one mile west of the JNT (Pennsylvanian) field, was finished for a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 2,075,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 7,910 to 7,920 feet. No fluid was made with the gas.

Operator acidized the pay with 3,500 gallons.

The well is 1,200 feet from north and two barrels of water per day, through perforations from 2,503 to 2,509 feet. The gas-oil ratio was not reported.

The discovery is bottomed at 2,600 feet and 4 1/2-inch casing is cemented at total depth.

The location is 1 1/2 miles southeast of the Herradura Bend (Delaware) field and 1,650 feet from south and 2,310 feet from west lines of section 8-2235-28e.

MORROW TEST
Harvey E. Yates Co. of Roswell, N.M., announced location for a 12,400-foot Morrow operation in Eddy County, four miles south of Otis.

It is No. 2-21 Mobil-State, 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 21-235-27e and done mile west and one mile southeast of production in the southeast edge of the Carlsbad, South (Morrow) field.

LEA WILDCAT
A 10,500-foot wildcat has been spotted in Lea County, N.M., by Amoco Production Co.

The explorer is No. 19-B Gillyully-Federal, 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 21-205-37e and four miles south of the Monument township.

The test is three miles west of the Warren, West (McKee) field and 3/8 mile south of the Monument (Tubb) field.

REVELATION WELL
Monsanto Co. No. 1 Catclaw-Federal is a new well in the Revelation (Morrow) field of Eddy County.

It completed for a daily flow of 356,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through a 48-64-inch choke and perforations from 10,654 to 10,782 feet after a 40,000-gallon fracture treatment.

The well extends the field 3/4-mile north.

Location is 1,880 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 10-225-25e and nine miles west of Carlsbad. Total depth is 11,038 feet.

ENERGY OIL & GAS

467 feet from east lines of section 7, block C-3, EL&RR survey.

Total depth is 9,427 feet and 4 1/2-inch casing is cemented at 8,026 feet. The plugged back depth is 7,984 feet.

Operator called the following formation tops on ground elevation of 2,301 feet: Rustler 444, Yates 1,150; Clear Fork 3,390; Wichita-Albany 4,780; Wolfcamp 5,925; Pennsylvanian 6,944; detrital 7,870; Devonian 7,910; Silurian 8,096; Fusselman 8,103; Simpson 8,248; Ellenburger 9,050.

PUCKETT TEST
C&K Petroleum Co. No. 1 Kirk is to be drilled as a 14,000-foot project in the Puckett (Ellenburger) field of Pecos County, 19 miles southwest of Bakersfield.

The project is 3/4 mile northwest of Ellenburger production and 1,995 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 16, block 126, T&SL survey.

STEPOUT PROJECT
The Apache Corp. of Tulsa, Okla., will re-enter and deepen to 15,750 feet the former Kimball Production Co. No. 1-20 Slaughter-State, a Pecos County dry hole 7/8 mile south of the Grey Ranch (Devonian and Ellenburger) field.

It will be operated as No. 1-20 Slaughter-State. The site is 1,320 feet from north and east lines of section 20, block 129, T&SL survey and 35 miles southeast of Fort Stockton.

WINKLER EXPLORER
Gifford, Mitchell & Wisenbaker of Midland spotted location for a 1 1/2 mile northeast outpost to the closest production in the Cheyenne (Capitan) field of Winkler County, 10 miles northwest of Kermit.

Slotted for a 3,400-foot bottom, No. 2 Comanche Unit is 467 feet from north and 560 feet from west lines of section 13, block C-23, psi survey.

WINKLER WELL
Gifford, Mitchell & Wisenbaker No. 4 Black Kettle has been finished as a new well in the Cheyenne (Capitan) field, 8 miles northwest of Kermit.

On 24-hour potential test it flowed 86 barrels of oil, gravity not reported, through a 24-64-inch choke and perforations from 3,100 to 3,174 feet. The well also made 12 barrels of water on the potential test.

Operator acidized with 1,700 gallons and fractured with 24,000 gallons.

Total depth is 3,188 feet and 5 1/2-inch casing is set at 3,188 feet.

Location is 1,227 feet from north and 1,666 feet from east lines of section 7, block 74, psi survey.

STERLING TRY
D&H Enterprises of Sterling City spotted location for a northwest offset to the lone producer in the Crandell (San Andres) field of Sterling County, 10 miles southeast of Sterling City.

The 1,500-foot test is 1,845 feet from north and 1,772 feet from east lines of section 30, block 11, SPRR survey.

RUNNELS WILDCAT
James K. Anderson, Inc., of Dallas No. 1 Bredemeyer is to be drilled as a 4,250-foot wildcat in Runnels County, one location west of the depleted Nora multipay field and 3.5 miles southeast of Winers.

The location is 3,722 feet from south and 3,978 feet from west lines of Eliza Sather survey No. 535.

IRION PROJECT
Gulf Oil Corporation spotted No. 3-VE State 1,731 feet northwest of production in the four-well Irion 163 (Ellenburger) field of Irion County, two miles southeast of Barnhart.

The 9,500-foot operation is 1,980 feet from south and 760 feet from west lines of section 5, block 40, University Lands survey.

STEPOUT ANNOUNCED
MWJ Producing Co. of Midland No. 2-B Branch is to be drilled as a northwest stepout to the lone producer in the Tucker (Canyon oil) pool of Irion County, 13 miles north of Barnhart.

The test, slated for an 8,300-foot bottom, is 3,770 feet from production and 1,320 feet from north and west lines of section 66, block 14, H&TC survey. Ground elevation is 2,438 feet.

The test is surrounded by production in the Ela Sugg (Wolfcamp gas) pool.

C. E. LaRue and N. B. Muncy, both of Aftesia, N.M., have completed their No. 1 Frances as a small Delaware discovery in Eddy County, N.M., three miles northwest of Loving.

Rebels seeking bi-district crown in Wichita Falls

BY BOB DILLON
R-T Sports Writer

WICHITA FALLS—Robert E. Lee is one step away from the regional finals.

Coach Ernie Johnson's Rebels face the Wichita Falls Coyotes at 4 p.m. Friday in the second game of the best-of-three series in Class AAAA bi-district play and only need to win one game today to move into the regional round against Arlington Sam Houston.

Johnson will call upon either lefthander Gary Gibson (2-4) or righthander Craig Van Horn (5-0) to face the Coyotes. If the Red River team wins the first game, then a third and deciding game will follow under the lights at Hoskins Field which is located beside the football stadium on the South side.

Lee took a wild 12-8 victory over the Coyotes Tuesday in Midland at the Lee diamond with a total of 26 hits being pounded out by the two baseball teams. Lee collected 15 hits and Wichita Falls 11 in a big offensive game played in gusty winds and near 100-degree temperatures.

Lee sports a 22-8 record while the Coyotes stand 17-6 on the year and will call upon ace pitcher Eric McDougle to throw again in the first game. Kerry Hargrove is the likely choice to pitch if a third game is necessary.

Sam Houston swept two games from Fort Worth Western Hills by the scores of 5-0 and 4-1 and the Texans have two fine pitchers which have only given up one earned run in the last five outings. Sam Houston is 22-10 and owns a victory over Duncanville which stands 30-2 on the year after sweeping North Garland, 7-2 and 6-0

While Sam Houston and Duncanville were sweeping their bi-district series, Lubbock Monterey blasted Amarillo, 16-11 for its 18th victory in a row, giving the Plainsmen a 27-4 season record.

El Paso Andress and El Paso Riverside opened the bi-district playoff series in the Border City Wednesday night.

PAT MOORE continues to lead the Rebel hitting attack on the season with a robust .407 average followed by Tyler Alcorn and Richard Josefy with .400 and .390 averages. Van Horn is hitting at a .370 clip and Clay Calhoun .351 followed by Todd Clements and Doug Schmidt with .344 and .333, respectively. John White is next with .306 as the Rebs are pounding the ball at a .334 rate in 30 games.

Johnson will start Schmidt at first base; Don Rasure at second; Steve Pitts at shortstop and Terry Willis at third if Van Horn pitches. Clements, Moore and White will make up the outfield with Calhoun catching and Josefy hitting in the designated hitter's slot.

The Coyotes will go with Mark Massie at first; David O'Neil at second; Hargrove at short and Toby Stone at third with Dan McDonald, Ruben Nieto and Wes McKenzie patrolling the outfield and Ricky Ledford catching. The designated hitter will most likely be Dwain Coffey.

Massie knocked in four runs against the Rebels with a bases-loaded triple the big blow while Hargrove, the leading hitter with a .403 average, slammed a long homer for the Coyotes in the 12-8 loss to the Tall City team. Lee's Moore also had a two-run homer for the 5-4A champions.

VAN HORN has worked 33 innings on the mound, issuing 17 walks and recording 30 strikeouts while Gibson has fanned 57 opposing batters in 44 and one-thirds innings on the mound for Lee. McDougle sports a 13-5 mound record and is the ace and workhorse for Coach Ronnie Faulkner's team which won the 6-4A championship.

The way the Rebels have been hitting the ball, the game or games here Friday may be high-scoring tilts just like the opening game of the series. Rasure proved that in knocking in six runs with two doubles and a homer for Lee.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Oklahoma State University, four months after being slapped with a two-year NCAA probation, is again coming under investigation for possible recruiting violations. The Associated Press has learned.

Although the NCAA never discloses investigations, the AP learned Wednesday it had begun looking into allegations contained in a story by the Dallas Times Herald.

The newspaper, in a story last Sunday by staff writer Jim Dent, said at least seven Oklahoma State athletes were driving late-model cars financed by loans from Oklahoma banks. NCAA rules forbid a school's representative from making available to student athletes loans or other financial considerations which are not available to other students.

Jim Stanley, Oklahoma State head coach, told the AP he had discussed the situation with the athletes mentioned in the Dallas story and was convinced "without a doubt" that no NCAA violations had occurred.

"Anybody is free to believe anything they want," Stanley said from Stillwater, Okla. "But I'm personally satisfied there was no wrongdoing. I don't think it's any secret that the Dallas papers somehow, some way would like to stop us from going into Texas and recruiting. Not only us, but Oklahoma as well."

The Times Herald said one freshman linebacker, Dexter Manley of Houston, picked up a 1977 Mercury Cougar from a Pryor, Okla., dealership the week he reported to preseason football practice at Oklahoma State last August.

Manley, according to the Dallas story, said he purchased the $6,500 automobile in Houston last summer with cash earned from a summer construction job. But he told the Times Herald he could not recall the name of the construction company or the Houston car dealer. And his mother, Mrs. Jewellee Manley of Houston, told the newspaper her son was not employed last summer and that he received a "very small amount" of insurance money from the company his deceased father worked for.

"I really don't know where he got the car," Mrs. Manley was quoted as saying. "He just told me he had the car and he didn't know how long he was going to be able to keep it."

Stanley said Manley gets $232 a month social security from his father's death and that he received an annual Equal Opportunity Grant from the federal government of $1,400. In addition, Stanley said, Manley gets about $600 per semester in insurance money from the company his father worked for.

"It appears to me a guy can drive a car who gets that kind of money," Stanley said. "But that's really not anybody's business. The amount of money a kid gets from the estate of his dead daddy is nobody's business but his own."

Steve Hammond, the back of the year in Oklahoma last year, was another athlete named in the Times Herald story. The newspaper said Hammond first denied he had a car, but when told his stepfather had confirmed ownership said, "they're telling us not to answer those type of questions. They busted a lot of people up here and everybody is a little scared."

"I talked to the Hammond kid," Stanley said. "His mother and daddy both have good jobs and his daddy bought the car for him for graduation. A lot of college kids drive cars. A lot of football players drive cars. My own son is going to OSU and he has a car that I bought for him. Did I do something wrong?"

In January, Oklahoma State was placed on two-year probation for a lengthy list of NCAA violations which the NCAA said occurred between 1972-76. The Cowboys are prohibited from appearing on television or in bowl games during the probation period and in addition can give only 25 scholarships, instead of the normal 30, each year.

Texaco buys rights to Guthrie's racer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — For $100,000, Texaco bought the rights to a very expensive billboard — Janet Guthrie's Wildcat racer.

From burritos to beer and prunes to food processors, sponsors are as much a part of the Indianapolis 500 as the drivers and the cars themselves. And it's a mutually profitable arrangement.

The drivers get the backing to field a car in the race, to get the machine in running order and keep it that way and to cover expenses. The sponsors get exposure that translates to dollars down the road.

The Dayton-Walther Corp., an Ohio-based truck equipment manufacturer, spends about $500,000 a year on racing. Once again this year, the car owner's son, Salt Walther, is carrying the firm's name on his car.

"Sure, it's worth it. It gives us extreme visibility with our customers. Where could you get better visibility for a transportation company than in a transportation-oriented sport?" said Phil Cole, who handles advertising and public relations for the firm.

"We sponsor cars in all the races, but we key on Indianapolis because this is the biggest race of the year," he said. "(But) to give somebody $100,000 and say, 'Go make us a hero in the racing world' doesn't make any sense at all. You have to work at it, race in and race out."

Dayton-Walther has sponsored cars at Indianapolis for 23 years, very extensively during the 1970s. Cole said the firm's financial advisors say it couldn't be more profitable.

"Our racing participation will mean two or three points to our stock when we go public. You translate that into several million shares of stock and you can see how much money that can mean to you," he added.

In the first 50 years of the Indy classic, the fraternity of sponsors was pretty much a closed one, largely limited to firms like motor oil refiners and producers of pistons, rods and other such automobilia. But lately at the 500, the byword has been diversification. Now sponsors range from Melvin Simon, a shopping center developer who sponsors Midland's Longhorn Racing Team, to the city of Syracuse, N.Y.

Edible items are also well-represented, with at least two brewers — Anheuser Busch and Olympia — and Alex XLNT Foods, a Mexican food maker sponsoring Bobby Olivero's car. Sugarprunes is backing Wally Dallenbach and Roger Rager is making his rookie debut in the Dairy Queen racer, while Moulinox, the French manufacturer of food processors, is sponsoring LaMachine, driven by Dick Simon.

Even organized labor and big business have gotten into the act. The International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers is sponsoring Jerry Karl's McLaren, while Citicorp and 1st National City Travelers Checks have cars carrying such racing luminaries as Al Unser and Johnny Rutherford.

UT signs Crawford

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Doug Crawford of Fort Worth Southwest, the son and brother of former Southwest Conference tennis singles champions, has signed a scholarship with the Texas Longhorns.

Crawford's father, Ken, won the SWC for Southern Methodist University in 1945, and his brother, Randy, won it last year for Texas Christian University. Nevertheless, Doug, a Class 4A quarterfinalist, chose Texas.

"I was a little surprised we got him," said Texas Coach Dave Snyder. Also signing tennis scholarships with Texas were Billy Berryman of Cypress-Fairbanks, near Houston, and Craig Yingst of Libertyville, Ill.

IN AN attempt to prove his defensive play, Kansas City first baseman Clint Hurdle went out and got that little extra a hockey stick. He shown before Wednesday night's game with Boston putting on a little display for his amused teammates. (AP Laserphoto)

Sonics are the best in the west

By TONY BAKER
AP Sports Writer

SEATTLE (AP) — For the story on how the West was won, let's get a word from Paul Silas:

"Marvin Webster was just ready to play tonight. That says it in a nutshell."

Silas somehow made himself heard in the noisy Seattle locker room after the SuperSonics had pulled off the Denver Nuggets 123-108 Wednesday night to win the National Basketball Association's Western Conference championship.

Webster, the 7-foot-1 center who came to Seattle with Silas from Denver in an offseason trade that sent guard Bobby Wilkerson to the Nuggets, ruled the middle at both ends of the court, scoring 18 points and grabbing 13 rebounds.

"When Marvin's ready to play, no one is going to do anything on him," said Silas, who matched Webster's rebound total.

The triumph before a Coliseum sell-out crowd of 14,098 gave the Sonics a 4-2 edge in the best-of-seven semifinal series with the Nuggets and sent them into the NBA championship series for the first time in their 11-year history.

Seattle plays host to the Washington Bullets, the Eastern Conference champions, in Game 1 of the best-of-seven NBA title series Sunday.

"This is the highlight of my life," said Sam Schulman, Sonics owner and president, who watched from court-side as his club won its 20th straight game at home, including eight in the playoffs.

"This is the most extraordinary, special year for any sports team ever," Schulman continued. "Way down deep I have felt this is our year."

Webster said the key was that Seattle played "with intensity the whole game. Tonight our strong point was our rebounding and our defense. We controlled the boards, and there's no question about that."

"I think it was meant to be. I think Seattle beating Denver was meant to be."

The Nuggets fell victim to Seattle's fast break early and never were able to climb out of the hole. They trailed 62-54 at halftime and closed to within six points twice early in the third period, the last time at 66-60 on a pair of Dan Issel baskets.

But the Sonics ran off a 17-6 spurt capped by John Johnson's three-point play for an 83-66 advantage with 4:36 left in the period. The closest Denver got the rest of the way was 13 points.

"Seattle is playing with a great deal of confidence," said Denver Coach Larry Brown. "If they play as well against Washington as they have against us, it should be a very interesting series."

"I'm sorry we couldn't have played better in this game," Brown continued. "I really feel our inexperience showed."

For the fifth time in the six games between the two teams, Seattle guard Dennis Johnson did a fine defensive job on Denver's high-scoring guard, David Thompson. Thompson led the Nuggets with 21 points, but scored just four in Denver's 18-point third period, which ended with Seattle ahead 93-72.

"I didn't see David play as well as he is capable of playing in the series," said Brown. "But you can't get yourself in a spot where you depend on one guy, especially a guard. We're gonna have to do something to correct that."

Said Thompson: "The difference was me. I was getting easy shots and didn't make them. I didn't take as many shots as I'm used to."

Thompson, who shot only 39 per cent from the field in first four games, regained his touch in the Nuggets' victory last Sunday in Denver, hitting 16 of 27 shots for a game-high 35 points. But Denver's leading scorer and pro basketball's highest-paid player hit just seven of 17 shots Wednesday night.

"I was surprised at how consistent they (Sonics) were able to play," said Thompson. "They really didn't have a bad game all series."

"That's been our trouble all year. They're playing with confidence and positive thoughts produce positive action on the court."

The Sonics, who won the rebound battle 57-45, were paced by Fred Brown's 26 points and Gus Williams' 24. Dennis Johnson added 16 points and rookie Jack Sikma 14. Rookie Anthony Roberts followed Thompson for Denver with 19 points and a game-high 16 rebounds for Denver.

Seattle Coach Lenny Wilkens, who took the reins last Nov. 30 when the team was mired in the Pacific Division cellar with a 5-17 record, was elated.

Odessa College nears national tennis crown

ODESSA—Odessa College's women's tennis team moved to within one victory of winning the National Junior College tennis crown Wednesday at the Odessa Country Club by gaining a berth in both the doubles and singles finals.

Midland College was in the position to gain a tie for the national title if OC falls apart today since Ann Layman earned the right to meet OC's Sandy Collins in today's finals.

Entering today's finals, the Wranglers lead the Chaparrals by one point, but OC can win the crown with a victory today in either the doubles or singles action.

Layman moved to the finals with a semifinal victory over Navarro's Elizabeth Lovinsin Wednesday while Collins kept the finals from being an all Midland College singles final by defeating Joann Hall, 6-1, 6-0. Layman disposed of Lovinsin in a closer, 6-4, 6-3, match. Layman has lost to Collins twice this year, and has not won an encounter.

Midland College also lost a chance to move into the doubles finals Wednesday when Hall and Layman lost in the semifinals to OC's Collins and Debbie Phillips. That gave OC a one-point edge in the championship run going into today's finals. The Wranglers would have to lose in both the singles and doubles finals for Midland College to gain a tie for the national title today since Layman is the only possible point the Chaps can earn in the finals. OC, however, is favored to win in both.

Collins and Phillips will face Indian River's Ferguson and McCarrall in today's doubles finals. The Indian River duo eliminated MC's Blanca Barriga and Gearldine Sayers in the quarters, 6-2, 6-2, before defeating Patterson and Sanderson of OC in the semifinals.

Greg Luzinski will watch the fourth and final game of Philadelphia's series at the Houston Astrodome from the dugout tonight — if he can see that far.

After the "Bull" went 0-for-4 and struck out three times in Wednesday night's 2-1 loss to Houston, Phils Manager Danny Ozark decided to make him sit out a game.

"The Bull is seeing fuzzy, and I wasn't even going to play him tonight," Ozark said, "but he said he was all right."

The problem stems from Luzinski's contact lenses.

"In the indoor atmosphere (of the Astrodome), the lenses seem to have a tendency to dry out on him," Ozark said. "If I were him, I don't think I'd be wearing them because he's had a lot of trouble in the past."

Ozark said Jay Johnstone will take Luzinski's place in the lineup.

Bouton

to start

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — More than 1,000 extra fans probably will show up just to watch Jim Bouton try another pitching comeback Friday night, according to Savannah Braves General Manager Dave Fendrick.

Attendance at the Southern League game should double because Bouton, sports author and former major league pitcher, will start for the Braves, Fendrick estimated Wednesday.

"I anticipate between 2,000 and 3,000. If we draw 3,000, I'd say 1,500 come because of Bouton," Fendrick said.

Bouton, a 39-year-old knuckleballer, will work against Nashville after being signed Tuesday by Atlanta Braves owner Ted Turner, who also owns the farm club at Savannah.

The right-hander, who won 20 games with the New York Yankees in 1963, had been pitching-batting practice at Richmond, another Atlanta farm club. Turner signed him after Bouton held Atlanta to one earned run and five hits in six innings, striking out seven, in an exhibition game.

"Having Bouton pitch will bring out some of the hard-core baseball fans and also the fringe fans who have heard of him," said Fendrick.

"It's ironic that we had already planned a couple of special promotions for Friday night and were expecting about 1,000 fans. Having Bouton pitch is a bonus," he said.

"A lot of people are talking about it since the papers and television played up the signing of Bouton pretty good," said Fendrick. "But the club also has won 10 of 11 on the road and many of the people are just talking baseball."

Bouton, who last pitched in the majors in 1970, had a career mark of 61-60 in nine full seasons, including a 2-1 record in World Series play.

He turned to sportscasting after pitching for Houston and Seattle, then wrote a best-selling book "Ball Four," a diary-type inside account of the game which drew the ire of baseball's establishment.

Bouton tried a comeback last year with Knoxville of the Southern League but was released after losing six games.

A new batting stance? Not likely. Larry Harlow of the Baltimore Orioles just happened to land on his backside after taking a swing at (and missing) a Dave Goltz pitch in the fourth inning of Wednesday night's game with Minnesota. (AP Laserphoto)

Ozark benches the Bull

Greg Luzinski will watch the fourth and final game of Philadelphia's series at the Houston Astrodome from the dugout tonight — if he can see that far.

After the "Bull" went 0-for-4 and struck out three times in Wednesday night's 2-1 loss to Houston, Phils Manager Danny Ozark decided to make him sit out a game.

"The Bull is seeing fuzzy, and I wasn't even going to play him tonight," Ozark said, "but he said he was all right."

The problem stems from Luzinski's contact lenses.

"In the indoor atmosphere (of the Astrodome), the lenses seem to have a tendency to dry out on him," Ozark said. "If I were him, I don't think I'd be wearing them because he's had a lot of trouble in the past."

Ozark said Jay Johnstone will take Luzinski's place in the lineup.

Chris Wheeler, assistant public relations man for the Phils, who did Wednesday night's radio broadcast, said Ozark had asked Luzinski to wear his regular glasses but Luzinski refused because he didn't look good in them.

"I'm in a slump," Luzinski admitted, "but it's no big deal. I don't think the contacts are 100 per cent of the problem, but they're definitely part of it."

When asked how he felt about sitting out the game, Luzinski replied tersely: "That's the manager's decision. Nobody else is knocking the cover off the ball either. I don't have that much to say about it."

The Phils have scored only two runs in the three games of this series, and Luzinski has gone 0-for-10 in those three losses.

Wednesday night, a throwing error by Phils catcher Bob Boone allowed both Houston runs to score in the third inning. Houston's Tom Dixon threw four innings of shutout relief and picked up his first save. Joaquin Andujar, 3-2, went the first five innings before leaving with a muscle strain on the right side of his rib cage.

"I pulled my muscle in exercise two days ago," said Andujar. "I didn't tell anybody except Jesus Alou because I wanted to pitch."

In other NL games, Montreal nipped Cincinnati 5-4 in 11 innings; San Diego beat St. Louis 5-2; San Francisco outslugged Chicago 9-5; Atlanta and the Mets split a pair; Atlanta winning the opener 2-1 in 10 innings and New York taking the nightcap 3-1, and Los Angeles ripped Pittsburgh 10-1.

The Astros loaded the bases in the third on two walks and Roger Metzger's double. Then, Enos Cabell grounded to third baseman Mike Schmidt, who threw to the plate for the forecourt. Boone's relay to first in an attempt to double up Cabell sailed into the Astros' bullpen, scoring two runs.

Expos 5, Reds 4

A wild pitch by Cincinnati reliever Dale Murray, 1-1, allowed Andre Dawson to score from third with the winning run in the bottom of the 11th inning. With a man on second and none out, Dawson was walked intentionally. He took second on a fielder's choice that erased the lead runner and advanced to third on another grounder.

Darold Knowles, 2-0, pitched four innings of scoreless relief for Montreal. Warren Cromartie hit a three-run homer for the Expos, and Johnny Bench smacked a two-run homer for the Reds.

Padres 5, Cards 2

The Padres scored four runs in the third inning, capped by Gene Richards' two-run single, and swept a three-game series from the Cards, who have lost seven straight.

Giants 9, Cubs 5

Vida Blue, 6-1, struck out 11 batters in seven innings and survived 11 Cubs' hits to post his sixth straight victory. Mike Ivie and Jack Clark homered for San Francisco, which has won seven straight. Blue drove in a run with a double in the third, and Larry Herndon singled home two runs in the first as the Giants scored seven times in the first three innings off Ray Burris, 2-3.

Braves 2-1, Mets 1-3

Atlanta's Jerry Royster singled home the winning run in the 10th inning of the first game, and Phil Niekro, 3-6, tossed a four-hitter. Nino Espinosa, 3-2, scattered six hits and Benny Randle singled home the eventual winning run for the Mets in the second inning of the second game.

Dodgers 10, Pirates 1

Lee Lacy set a major league record for consecutive home runs as a pinch hitter when he hit his third straight, in the eighth inning to help power Los Angeles past the Pirates. Dave Lopes and Ron Cey each had two-run homers and Tommy John, 6-1, tossed a four-hitter. John gave up his only run in the first inning.

days ago," said Andujar. "I didn't tell anybody except Jesus Alou because I wanted to pitch."

In other NL games, Montreal nipped Cincinnati 5-4 in 11 innings; San Diego beat St. Louis 5-2; San Francisco outslugged Chicago 9-5; Atlanta and the Mets split a pair; Atlanta winning the opener 2-1 in 10 innings and New York taking the nightcap 3-1, and Los Angeles ripped Pittsburgh 10-1.

The Astros loaded the bases in the third on two walks and Roger Metzger's double. Then, Enos Cabell grounded to third baseman Mike Schmidt, who threw to the plate for the forecourt. Boone's relay to first in an attempt to double up Cabell sailed into the Astros' bullpen, scoring two runs.

Expos 5, Reds 4

A wild pitch by Cincinnati reliever Dale Murray, 1-1, allowed Andre Dawson to score from third with the winning run in the bottom of the 11th inning. With a man on second and none out, Dawson was walked intentionally. He took second on a fielder's choice that erased the lead runner and advanced to third on another grounder.

Darold Knowles, 2-0, pitched four innings of scoreless relief for Montreal. Warren Cromartie hit a three-run homer for the Expos, and Johnny Bench smacked a two-run homer for the Reds.

Padres 5, Cards 2

The Padres scored four runs in the third inning, capped by Gene Richards' two-run single, and swept a three-game series from the Cards, who have lost seven straight.

Padres lefty Bob Shirley, 1-4, needed relief in the seventh from Rollie Fingers, who got his ninth save.

Giants 9, Cubs 5

Vida Blue, 6-1, struck out 11 batters in seven innings and survived 11 Cubs' hits to post his sixth straight victory. Mike Ivie and Jack Clark homered for San Francisco, which has won seven straight. Blue drove in a run with a double in the third, and Larry Herndon singled home two runs in the first as the Giants scored seven times in the first three innings off Ray Burris, 2-3.

Braves 2-1, Mets 1-3

Atlanta's Jerry Royster singled home the winning run in the 10th inning of the first game, and Phil Niekro, 3-6, tossed a four-hitter. Nino Espinosa, 3-2, scattered six hits and Benny Randle singled home the eventual winning run for the Mets in the second inning of the second game.

Buffalo has slim chance of attracting pro team

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — There is little chance of an American League baseball team in Buffalo despite efforts of the city's mayor to entice a major league franchise, says Lee MacPhail, league president.

Mayor James D. Griffin on Wednesday released copies of letters he sent to MacPhail and National League President Charles (Chub) Feeney to request their "help in our city's planning process."

Feeney, whose league has two fewer teams than MacPhail's, was not available for comment.

Many scoffers have assailed Griffin's idea that ancient War Memorial Stadium could be made attractive enough for use as a major league ballpark, but the mayor has not been deterred.

Seating capacity could be increased from 41,000 to about 55,000 and planned city spending of more than $9 million in the stadium area would

Sundberg's single gives pitcher second thought

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

Oakland's Elias Sosa and Milwaukee's Jerry Augustine were having second thoughts Wednesday night because their first thoughts turned out all wrong.

"I guess I should have thrown him a fastball," Sosa said after Texas' Jim Sundberg rapped a slider for a tie-breaking single in the eighth inning that gave the Rangers a 4-3 victory over the A's.

In Milwaukee, Augustine threw a fastball and wished he hadn't.

"Thompson hadn't been hitting the breaking ball good all night, so I threw him two fastballs in a row and he hit the second one out. I should have my head examined," the left-hander said after Jason Thompson's two-run homer in the seventh inning powered the Detroit Tigers to a 5-3 triumph over the Brewers.

In the only other American League game, the Cleveland Indians nipped the New York Yankees 5-4 in 10 innings and the Chicago White Sox outslugged Nolan Ryan and the California Angels 9-6 while Toronto and Baltimore were rained out.

Sundberg's winning blow was his third single in a contest that extended his hitting streak to 16 games, one short of the Texas club record. Al Oliver doubled with one out in the eighth off John Johnson and Sosa relieved after an intentional walk to Richie Zisk.

"The strategy to walk Zisk and bring Sosa in had worked every time except this time," said Oakland Manager Bobby Winkles.

"The slider didn't break sharply enough," Sosa explained. "It was supposed to go down. Then he might have hit into a double play."

Although even Sundberg agreed that "I'd have done it, too (walked Zisk)," the A's might have been better off pitching to Zisk and walking Sundberg. "It was a cinch they were going to walk him," said Texas Manager Billy Hunter. "But Sundberg was going to come up anyway. I couldn't happen to a nicer fellow. I wish some of my other nice fellows would do the same."

Catcher Sundberg also helped winning pitcher Jon Mallick out of a fifth-inning jam by picking Gary Thomasson off first base.

Tigers 5, Brewers 3

Thompson's decisive two-run homer, his ninth of the season, followed a double by Ron LeFlore, who also homered, as did Lance Parrish. The Tigers posted their fourth consecutive victory.

Sixto Lezcano and Gorman Thomas connected for Milwaukee.

Augustine said he wasn't really trying to outguess Thompson.

"I don't try to be cute," he said. "I just go after hitters. But I guess I just wasn't thinking right. If I had, I never would have thrown him two fastballs."

Indians 5, Yankees 4

Sid Monge kept Cleveland in the Peach Bowl in jeopardy

ATLANTA (AP) — A Peach Bowl official said Wednesday the post-season football game's future certification is in jeopardy unless a ticket-selling quota is attained.

"They have laid it on the line," Executive Director George Crumley said of a requirement outlined by the Extra Events Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

"They told us we can't rely on participating institutions to sell tickets," Crumley said. "Ralph McFillen, assistant director of events for the NCAA, called me and told me the committee stipulated that the people in this area must buy a minimum of 40 percent of stadium capacity."

The Peach Bowl is played in Atlanta Stadium, which seats 60,373. The NCAA requirement means the bowl must sell 24,149 tickets locally, aside from sales produced by the 12,000 tickets allotted to the participating teams.

"We felt for some time we did not get the support that we deserved from people in this area, particularly from businesses," he said.

take care of aesthetic considerations, Griffin said.

Griffin also hinted that the city might consider building a new stadium. He told the league presidents the city has "several sites for new construction" and "some alternatives for financing."

MacPhail said the league didn't plan to expand again. Expansion clubs Toronto and Seattle are in their second season.

Top seeds fall

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Corrado Barazzutti of Italy and Harold Solomon of the United States, the top two seeds, both were upset Wednesday on the second day of an international tennis tournament here.

Barazzutti, the No. 1 seed, lost to Italian indoor champion Gianni Oleppio 6-4, 6-4. Belus Prajoux of Chile eliminated second-seeded Solomon 6-4, 6-2.

game with his brilliant relief pitching until Rick Manning's two-out single off Sparky Lyle in the 10th inning following Paul Dade's two-out triple drove home the winning run. Manning ripped a two-run single off Ed Figueroa in the fourth inning and walked and scored the tying run on a single by Buddy Bell in the seventh as the Indians erased a 4-1 deficit.

"I've got to go back to 1976, I believe," said Monge. "I got beat 2-1 in 10 innings by the White Sox, but that was the closest I've come to the way I pitched tonight."

Said co-star Manning, who got the game-winning hit on an 0-2 pitch: "It was just a matter of time before I got a couple of breaks. I'm a good two-strike hitter."

White Sox 9, Angels 6

Bill Nahorodny and Jorge Orta belted two-run homers off Ryan in the eighth inning as Chicago snapped a four-game losing streak. Orta's fifth homer of the season capped a five-run uprising that gave the White Sox a 9-1 lead. Ryan, 2-3, went all the way, yielding nine runs, 10 hits, walking seven and fanning six.

Nahorodny, a rookie catcher, said Ryan's fastball is the swiftest he's ever seen. "That's the fastest I've ever seen a human being throw a ball," he said. "You know as well as I do that home runs are an accident. The ball hit the bat the right way and it went."

Ryan, however, said his velocity was off all night.

"It was a fastball — if that's what you want to call it," he said. "I thought I had fairly good stuff, but I didn't have good velocity."

Wallace's surprise move ends political saga

The Washington Post WASHINGTON — Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace's surprise pull-out from the 1978 Senate race has ended, at least temporarily, one of the most controversial and colorful American political sagas of the 20th century and has set the stage for a new kind of politics in his state.

At a news conference Wednesday in Montgomery, Wallace said little to clarify the reasons that lay behind his sudden announcement Tuesday night that he would withdraw from the contest to succeed retiring Sen. John J. Sparkman, D-Ala.

"I just decided I didn't want to run," said Wallace, 58, who has been confined to a wheelchair since an assassination attempt during his third presidential campaign in 1972 left his legs permanently crippled. Completing his second consecutive term as governor, Wallace is ineligible to run for re-election, and Alabama's other Senate seat is held by his close friend, Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala.

But Wallace — ever one to preserve a shred of suspense — told reporters, "I did not say I was necessarily retiring from politics, and I did not say that I am not."

His withdrawal left Howell Heflin, the former chief justice of the Alabama Supreme Court, as the front-runner in a Democratic primary field that also includes two young state senators, Donald W. Steward and John Baker.

However, there were indications at least one more serious challenger may enter the Sept. 6 primary. Rep. Walter Flowers, D-Ala., of Tuscaloosa, said through an aide he was "considering very seriously" joining the field, but would not decide until next week.

At the news conference, Wallace warded off repeated attempts by reporters for details of his decision. "I have reasons known only to myself," he said. "Let's not make a federal case of it."

He said he made the decision after an overnight visit to Gulf Shores, a resort community not far from Mobile. "I had time to think, away from the telephone," he said. "I was by myself for a day and a half."

The dramatic announcement was tacked onto the end of an otherwise ordinary speech to state officials in Mobile. Wednesday, Wallace suggested he had been ambivalent about making the statement Tuesday night right up until he said it. "I almost did not make it," he said.

Wallace's saga was one of the most extraordinary of modern times. He controlled the Alabama state government for all but two of the last 16 years, and in that period ran four times for the presidency, developing a national constituency that numbered in the millions.

Yet, in the end, he was a lonely man, widowed once and then divorced, confined to a wheelchair and openly worried about funds and personal aides he needed to survive as an invalid.

That was a far cry from the cocky little "fighting judge" who won the governorship on his second try in 1962 and used his inaugural to sound his cry of defiance to Washington: "Segregation now! Segregation tomorrow! Segregation forever!" There was widespread speculation that declining polls, fund-raising problems and the physical challenge involved in a strenuous campaign may have contributed to Wallace's decision.

One campaign consultant involved in a rival's campaign said bluntly: "Wallace was either going to get out or he was going to get beat."

But Wallace discounted these problems, and a close friend said the main reason was pressure from his four children — two married daughters, a son in law school and a daughter who graduates from high school next month.

"The family has been denied a father for a long time," said Charles Snider, who managed Wallace's last two presidential campaigns.

Polls that surfaced Wednesday in Montgomery, Atlanta and Washington showed Wallace in a virtual dead heat with Heflin, even though the governor enjoyed a decided advantage in name familiarity — not a healthy situation in the eyes of campaign managers.

ability, Wallace flashed some of his old humor in his session with the reporters.

After repeated questions about how he reached his decision, Wallace quipped: "Maybe a little fairy talked to me while I was asleep."

He told the reporters his greatest regret in dropping out of the campaign is that "I won't have this crowd to kick around any more."

Wallace said he would not endorse any of the other candidates for Sparkman's seat, and said he had no plans after January, when his current term ends. Funds are reportedly available to finance a teaching chair for him at the University of Alabama, but aides discounted the chances of his taking such a post.

Those same aides, however, conceded they were caught by surprise by Wallace's Tuesday night announcement.

Asked what would be the effect on Alabama politics of his apparent retirement, Wallace answered drolly: "It will cause a great upheaval, almost volcanic in nature." In 1964, Wallace made a surprisingly strong showing in three presidential primaries against stand-ins for President Johnson, vowing to "shake the eye teeth" of the "pointy-headed bureaucrats" he said were running the country.

Two years later, barred by a since-repealed provision of the state constitution from seeking re-election, he ran his first wife, Lurleen, for the job and saw her win handily. When she died of cancer in mid-term, she was succeeded by Lt. Gov. Albert Brewer (D).

Wallace ran for president again in 1968, this time as an independent, carrying five states and winning almost enough electoral votes to deny a majority to either of the major party contenders.
