Property re-valuation opponents hire lawyers; appear before board

By KAY HORD

Although not acting as an organized group, several county residents appearing today before the Board of Equalization took to heart last week's warning by attorney Bill Kerr.

They were represented by attorneys in protests over their property re-valuation.

This year, property outside Midland city limits was re-assessed for purposes of taxation by the Midland Independent School District, Midland Junior College District and, for the first time, Midland County Hospital District. The Board of Equalization is appointed by the city of Midland, with the approval of the other taxing bodies, which share the same tax office.

Last week, during a meeting of county residents outraged at the size of the valuation increases, Kerr said the battle would be won or lost at the Board of Equalization meeting today. And, he suggested the residents get "professional" help if they expected to win.

David Brooks, an attorney with Stubbeman, McRae, Sealy, Laughlin and Browder, said he was unsure of the number of clients he was representing, but he counted 42 tax notices clients had given him.

"And there are several others who haven't gotten me their information yet," he said.

Approximately 75 people gathered around Brooks later when he called for a meeting of his clients.

Brooks said a majority of his clients were acting as individuals, not a group.

"One man did organize with a few people he knew, but there's no formal tax group," he said. He said he planned to ask the board for a delay, in order to prepare the cases.

"The notices (that the property had been re-valued and residents could appear before the board to discuss the re-valuation) were received only last week, and most of my clients contacted me Wednesday. Some only contacted me this morning.

"I have had no time to prepare individual cases and very little time to prepare in general," Brooks said.

By 9 a.m. today, more than 100 persons had registered to appear before the Board of Equalization.

County residents were protesting reported 200 to 750 percent increases in property re-valuation.

Another attorney, who asked not to be identified, said the board, in most of the cases this morning, appeared to be setting times for reappraisal of the property.

MIDTRAN moves step closer with contract signing

By LANA CUNNINGHAM

MidTran Inc. is moving out of the planning stage with the signing of a $30,000 contract today with General Motors Transportation Systems.

Board of directors and officers of MidTran signed the contract during a press conference in the Midland Hill ton with H. Blair Tyson, manager of the GM Transportation Engineering Department, and Paul Forney, GM's senior project engineer, attending.

The contract is for a six-month period and will implement the planning that has been done for the past 13 months since the Chamber of Commerce established the transportation task force. The task force asked General Motors to study the needs of Midland and plan a transportation system around those needs. As a result, John Ingram, MidTran president, said, "This plan is unique to Midland."

Tyson said that GM "is excited about this program. We are trying to develop a minimum cost approach program to meet the needs of the people. It will try to make proper use of the services already available in the city." He added that GM tried to find a way to improve movement of people and movement of goods.

The job of GM now will be to put together overall operating instructions for MidTran to follow.

Forney said GM hopes to have part of the plan implemented by the end of the six months, and to include the four tasks outlined in the plan. These include car pools, van pools, "demand-response" transportation and coordination with private operators in Midland.

Gordon Marcum II, city councilman and a member of the MidTran board, commented after the conference that MidTran is not trying to take over from private enterprise in Midland, but, in effect, to create more business. For example, MidTran will

Postmortem from Kolwezi: it was 'hunting season'

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Murder, rape and looting were the order of the day during the rebel siege of Kolwezi, according to survivors arriving by the plane load from Zaire's copper mining capital.

About 1,000 of the 2,500 whites trapped during the May 13-20 siege have arrived in Europe and more are being flown back as French and Belgian paratroopers mop up rebel resistance in Shaba Province.

It was as if the hunting season had been opened in Kolwezi. The hunt was a hunt for the white man, a mining engineer among the survivors who arrived in Brussels said Sunday.

He said four of his neighbors went to their garden gates to find out what was going on in the pre-dawn hours of May 13 and were killed by bursts of rebel machine gun fire.

Another survivor said the rebels "kept on firing useless volleys in all direction with no reason," and that ragged armed boys were "looting and shooting those refusing to hand over their watches or money while rebels looked on or took part."

One woman said she fled to a private club in Kolwezi "where I knew there were some food preserves. The Zaire army city headquarters was nearby. Some Zaire army soldiers came and said they would protect us. They emptied all the ladies' handbags and pocketed their contents. One lady had a box with money. They took the box away from her."

Jean Marie Lallemand, a 31-year-old French survivor, said the rebels scarred Frenchmen "on the forehead and cheeks with knives to discourage Zaireans from harboring them."

"I saw three Katangans rape a 10-year-old girl in the presence of her parents and three brothers. People were beaten before they were killed. It was horrible."

Katanga was the name of Shaba Province when Zaire was the Belgian Congo. The rebels, Lunda tribesmen, were driven into Angola in the 1960s after Zaire won independence, and are bent on making Shaba independent of the Zaire government.

Richard Schambourg, a French foreman, said the Zairean soldiers were panic-stricken when the fighting began. "They were shooting in every direction," he said.

"My supervisor's house was raked by artillery fire because there were two Katangans in the yard. We discovered a slaughterhouse in the Zaire army headquarters. Thirty people who had been taken in for safety had been massacred. We are not about to forget these visions of horror."

A nun identified as Sister Helena said, "We were subjected to the worst kind of violence." A 20-year-old Belgian woman said she was raped eight times by rebel soldiers.

Morrison Knudsen, a Boise, Idaho construction firm building a power line in Zaire, evacuated more than 70 Americans Wednesday. Fourteen others were reported missing at the time, but only one of them — Lonnie Glen, 32, of Yerington, Nev. — was officially unaccounted for.

However, Harold Amstutz, 49, of Portsmouth, Va., a pilot for a Methodist mission in Zaire who was evacuated to Brussels, said Glen, a Morrison-Knudsen security officer, was killed by the rebels.

Kolwezi survivor tells experience

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — Bill Starkey is still not sure why he survived Kolwezi, where he took a bullet through the side after a nightmare ride through town.

The 33-year-old native of Boise, Idaho, doing a stint in Zaire with the Morrison Knudsen construction company, was living in a friend's house when the rebels marched in last week.

The first sign of trouble came Thursday when a group of blacks led by the house servant came and talked Starkey into letting them put his car in a safe spot.

He agreed but then found the group looting the garage and filling up the car. He chased them away but they returned shortly afterward with five men in soldiers' uniforms.

"They came in on the pretext of looking for mercenaries," he said in an interview with The Associated Press. "I realized I'd been set up when they opened doors and started looting. They took all the whiskey, some of the food, the beer, shoes, clothing. They took my glasses for some reason. Another guy took a box of golf balls."

"They took all these things and carried them to the car. The five soldiers and myself got into the car with all the stuff and they drove me around town."

"I sensed I was in extreme danger because they didn't seem to know where they were going."

"They found a deserted, bombed-out section of town and told me to get out and run."

"I tried to stall by talking but they told me to run and they shot me."

The bullet went through Starkey's side, narrowly missing his internal organs. He said he felt a searing pain and dived into a ditch.

"I don't understand to this day why I'm still alive. It's an act of God. I don't understand why they didn't kill me. But then I don't understand why they shot at me. I offered no resistance at all. I gave them everything they wanted."

"I'm sure many killings in town were like mine, except I happened not to die."

Starkey finally made it to a hospital, which somehow was untouched by the rebels.

He flew out of Kolwezi Saturday.

Banquet marked by dinner jackets, silent eloquence

"We can't hear you," Wally Schmidt shouted loud enough for all to hear.

Few could even hear the shout. "That's because I'm not saying anything," Ray Painter retorted in kind.

On that occasion, he was right. Painter suddenly became quiet and was saying nothing. Sam Blake was "running away" from him with his sign language. Blake is deaf but speaks fluently with his hands. Painter was interpreting the silent talk but fell behind the gestures, which might as well have been Greek to those untrained in sign language or its "shorthand" version, Amslang — American sign language.

This fun occasion was the first annual installation banquet of the Permian Basin Council for the Hearing Impaired.

In a way, the fete was just another banquet, except it was quieter than most.

The tuxedoed Blake, outgoing president of the Council, welcomed the 38 folks to the fellowship. Painter's off-and-on interpreting was for the benefit of the minority — those who don't understand the language of the deaf.

Blake stepped from the center stage, and up came Sandra Berry.

"Thank you for all you have given John and me," she said by mouth and by hand.

Mrs. Berry and her husband John helped found and organize the Council, which was chartered last year. She, the outgoing service provider for the group, and her husband are leaving town; his job is carrying him to a promotion in Fort Worth. Berry, too, has been working with and for those with hearing impairments.

What happened next must be common place to the "silent talkers." Mrs. Berry sang by hand the song "You Light Up My Life . . . You Give Me Hope To Carry On."

Then came the chorus: a sextet silently singing at the back of the room the moving poem "Remembering" by Pam Owen. The expressions of sincerity made up for the lack of the spoken word. Singing at the di-

Approval expected for new teacher salaries

After several weeks of discussion, the Midland public schools Board of Education is expected to approve a new teacher salary schedule at its regular meeting, rescheduled for 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in the school administration building.

In addition, the trustees are scheduled to hear a final report from the Midland Alliance, a citizens' group which was formed to work for a smooth transition into the elementary school desegregation plan and to create additional programs and services in the schools. The alliance plans to disband at the end of this school year.

Schools Superintendent Dr. James Mailey said the report will include a general summary of the alliance's work, what it has accomplished and what the school district needs to take over.

Another report concerning programs sponsored by the Junior League and the district is on the agenda. Mailey said this report will cover programs such as Partners in Reading, the Midland Assessment Program and the student art festivals.

Son of Sam dragged kicking from courtroom

NEW YORK (AP) — David Berkowitz, the Son of Sam killer, was dragged from a Brooklyn courtroom today, kicking, biting and yelling as the boyfriend of one of his victims shouted obscenities at him. Members of the girl's family jumped to their feet and cursed the confessed murderer.

A judge postponed the sentencing for six murders until June 12 and ordered another psychiatric examination for Berkowitz, 24.

After he was brought briefly into the courtroom in handcuffs, Berkowitz began chanting, "Stacy was a over and over again Stacy Moskowitz was the last of Berkowitz's murder victims."

Berkowitz also shouted, "That's right! That's right! I'd kill her again!"

As 10 guards wrestled the 44-caliber killer from the court chamber, Robert Violante, the Moskowitz girl's date who also was shot by Berkowitz, stood up in the courtroom and began shouting obscenities at him. Members of the Moskowitz family jumped to their feet and screamed curses at the pudgy former postal worker.

The girl's mother then broke down crying, and Violante sobbed into his hands.

The victim's father, Jerry Moskowitz, cried, "No Justice!" after Justice Joseph Corso of Brooklyn announced the sentencing delay.

Earlier, as guards tried to bring Berkowitz into the courtroom the first time about 10 a.m., he lunged toward a window and had to be subdued. In the struggle, he bit and kicked several of the guards and one of them was taken to a hospital, according to a police source.

rection of Painter, who this time was in command, were Wayne and Carolyn Cockerham, Max and Dorothy Floyd, Sam and Kathy Blake.

Later, there was some gift-giving and silent tanks.

Next, field counselor Georgia Matlitz of the Texas Commission for the Deaf in Austin gave the job-well-done speech to the Mrs. Berry and the Council.

Lloyd Jobe, who serves on the Council's advisory board, led the installation of 1978-79 officers. Max Floyd succeeded Blake as president. Jobe's wife, Lana, is following Mrs. Berry as service provider.

And somewhere along the way, Blake presented Willis K. "Willy" Schmidt a Council plaque expressing gratitude for Schmidt's service to the elderly deaf and for his "outstanding service in field of TTY communication."

For past couple of years, the mechanically-inclined Schmidt has been installing and maintaining teletypes for the deaf and others with hearing impairments.

Through the use of a coupler mating teletype with telephone, messages can be typed, transmitted by wire and received by a similar hook-up down the line.

Tough legionnaires face African test

By The Associated Press

A year ago, French foreign legionnaires languished on Corsican beaches and complained they were bored. Now they are in the thick of events in Africa.

Since Friday, some 600 have parachuted into the rebel-threatened city of Kolwezi in Zaire's Shaba province to help rescue Europeans isolated in the country's rich copper belt. French military sources say seven have been killed.

Women in business workshop scheduled

A workshop for new and prospective business owners, with special emphasis on women in business, will be conducted from 8 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. Tuesday in Room 106 of the Occupational Technology Building at Midland College. "Keys to a Business Success" is the theme of the workshop.

The workshop is co-sponsored by the Midland Business and Professional Women's Club, Midland Chamber of Commerce, Midland College, Active Corps of Executives of Midland and Odessa and U.S. Small Business Administration.

Registration will begin at 8 a.m. There will be a welcome by Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. The keynote speaker will be Juanita Bryant, district manager of the business office of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. Marjorie Straughan, area representative of Dale Carnegie Courses, will be the mistress of ceremonies.

A film, "Case in Point," will be shown at 8:45 a.m., followed at 9 a.m. with a discussion of "Personal Factors" by Anita Blackford, manager of Skibel's.

The remainder of the morning schedule will be: "Financial Factors," William T. Lenter, vice president of The First National Bank, 9:30 a.m.; "Source of Capital," Tom Stovell, senior vice president, Commercial Bank & Trust Co., 10 a.m.; "Organization and Planning and Regulations and Taxes," Mike Cropper, attorney with the law firm of Turpin, Smith, Dyer and Saxe, 10:30 a.m.; "Management," Dr. Eugene Nini, professor and chairman of faculty of accountancy and information systems, The University of Texas-Permian Basin, 11 a.m.

Following a lunch break at 11:45 a.m., the program will continue with: "Opportunity," Joe Dominey, vice president, The Midland National Bank, 1 p.m.; "Insurance," Bill Geisell, Planning Consultants, Inc., 1:30 p.m.; "Records," Nan Holmquist, staff accountant, Elmer Fox, Westheimer & Co., 2 p.m.; break, 2:30 p.m.; "Three Times Three," a film, 2:45 p.m.; "Self-Motivation and Training," Paul Straughan, area manager of Dale Carnegie Courses, 3 p.m.; workshop evaluations, 3:45 p.m.; and questions and answers, 3:50 p.m.

One of the first jobs MidTran will have is hiring someone to locate services already available and to coordinate them. That person also will have to serve as ambassador for the group and market the idea, according to Marcum.

Another job MidTran will have to get started on is checking funding available to get the corporation moving, according to Ingram. A funding committee headed by Marcum has been appointed.

Slight chance for rain continues

A slight chance of thunderstorms and rain continues through Tuesday, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal.

The forecast calls for a 20 percent chance of thunderstorms this afternoon and tonight.

The remainder of the forecast calls for partly cloudy skies and slightly warmer temperatures through Tuesday. The high today should be in the upper 80s with the low tonight in the mid-60s. The high Tuesday should be near 90. Winds are expected to be 10 to 20 mph today, decreasing to 5 to 10 mph tonight.

Area towns today reported clear skies and warm temperatures.

Sunday's high temperature was 80 degrees, and the overnight low was 62. The record high for May 21 is 105 degrees set in 1953. The record low for today is 48 degrees set in 1931.

State LULAC chief criticizes Carter

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — Fresh from re-election as state director of the League of United Latin American Citizens, Ruben Bonilla said Sunday that the Carter administration human rights program is a "farce" as far as Mexican-Americans are concerned.

"It's protecting those abroad, but ignoring Mexican-Americans at home," Bonilla said. "We have not seen him (Carter) since the campaign."

LULAC finished its state convention at Laredo Sunday by re-electing Bonilla and installing Ray Ramirez of San Antonio as deputy director. Bonilla said 2,500 persons attended the convention, making it the largest in the organization's history.

Delegates heard from several politicians, including a heated exchange between Bob Krueger, Democratic nominee for the U.S. senate, and his November opponent, Sen. John Tower.

While Democratic gubernatorial nominee John Hill was on hand, his Republican opponent, Bill Clements, was not.

"He (Clements) sent a Mailgram," Bonilla said. "We were very disappointed."

Bonilla said he was also disappointed with remarks by a keynote speaker, U.S. Immigration Commissioner Leonel Castillo.

"He didn't say he agreed with the sum of our argument on the dilemma affecting the undocumented worker," Bonilla said. "He's cautious and not overly assertive on the administration's program in that area."

"I think it fair to say we were slightly disappointed in the talk by Castillo, but we admire him greatly. We recognize the difficulty of his position. We hold the president accountable."

Bonilla said a private talk with Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, indicated it would be tough to pass the kind of illegal alien legislation desired by LULAC this year.

Bonilla said he probably would be on hand Tuesday for a meeting in Dallas among heads of several Mexican-American groups. The aim of that meeting is to press for a solution to what the groups call police abuse of minority citizens.

"There is a new social and political consciousness now," Bonilla said. "It's important that those in office and those seeking office recognize the political sophistication of Mexican-Americans."

Besides LULAC, other organizations expected at the Tuesday meeting were the G.I. Forum, IMAGE and the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Educational Fund (MALDEF).

Other individuals expected to be on hand were Jose Angel Gutierrez of Crystal City, co-founder of La Ra Unita party; Reies Lopez Tijerina, leader of a group that has fought for land grants in New Mexico; Ruben Sandoval, a San Antonio attorney who has argued several prominent civil rights cases; State Rep Paul Moreno of El Paso; and Dallas County Court At Law Judge Frank Hernandez.

Vandalism follows opening of Nazi bookstore in Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — The opening of a Nazi bookstore here brought a weekend of window-smashing, rock-throwing and pushing and shoving with 17 protesters arrested.

Many of those arrested had hurled rocks and bottles at police blocking access to the store Sunday, authorities said.

Charges filed included six for felonious assault on a police officer and one each for carrying a knife, inciting a riot, disorderly conduct and possession of marijuana.

Seven people were arrested late Saturday after a rock was thrown through the bookstore's window, police said. Charges ranged from malicious destruction of property to disorderly conduct.

No Nazis were arrested, police said.

Protest leader Leonard Green said the fight began after men came out of the bookstore swinging belts with heavy metal buckles. They were jumped by several demonstrators, he said.

The store, run by self-described members of the National Socialist Movement, opened Saturday morning in a former barber shop on the city's northwest side. Pickets formed outside within an hour.

The same Nazi group was evicted in March from a storefront in another area of the city after months of community protests.

A coalition of civic leaders, merchants, nearby residents and members of several motorcycle clubs who rent buildings in the area turned out Saturday and Sunday to picket the Nazis.

Bill Russell, 25, who called himself a "captain" in the National Socialist Movement, rented the store last week from its 74-year-old owner, Guy Scavone.

Scavone said Russell told him he needed the store to sell some "surplus goods" and paid two months rent in advance. He said that Russell did not say he was with the Nazi movement.

Total force falters

The decision to adopt an all-volunteer military a half-dozen years ago envisioned reliance on the total force concept under which reserves, rather than draftees or volunteers, would be the primary personnel source in military emergencies.

nor inexpensive — if there are workable answers. Initiation of a special reserve draft, one of Coffey's recommendations, is unrealistic in the wake of Vietnam. Enlistment bonuses and additional fringe benefits for troops counter efforts to cut the defense budget.

Coffey emphasizes that America's capability to respond to the challenge of a major non-nuclear war in Europe is questionable.

INSIDE REPORT: The successful general swallows Carter initiatives

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK. WASHINGTON — Concern within defense circles over Air Force Gen. David Jones as the new chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff (JCS) was heightened recently when the Defense Nuclear Agency was quietly removed from study of the proposed U.S. Soviet nuclear test ban treaty.

important that our personnel, particularly our senior people, understand our support for the proposed treaties. Jones has consistently followed the Carter line. He tamped down Air Force resentment about the B-1 cancellation. He has not reflected the general concern by uniformed officers over the administration's course on strategic arms limitation talks (SALT). When other members of the Joint Chiefs were furious about being misrepresented on SALT, Jones wrote a letter smoothing over the trouble.

"we will not stifle dissent" from "military experts." When Singlaub resigned under pressure recently after additional criticism of Carter policies, Hatch wrote Mr. Carter that "the administration seems to be so thin-skinned about its controversial policies that it must in fact resort to 'stifling' the military leaders of this nation."

Swan song for a dying goose

HUGH MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

BROOKFIELD, Conn. (AP) — At the man-made lake down the road from my house, which is in Ridgefield, a big black and white Canada goose sat stoically on a rock, waiting to die. Its glassy, unblinking eyes stared vacuously out across the expanse of sky and water, as though taking it all in for the last time.

This was as far as it would get on its long journey home from some semitropical swamp to a God-made lake somewhere in the Canadian wilderness. Its left leg, broken backward at the joint, protruded at a garish angle from a patch of bloodied, mutilated feathers. Several sister geese and brother ganders stood protectively by, not quite knowing what to do.

I didn't know what to do either.

A girl came by, maybe 13, and said one of the older boys had run over the goose with his motorbike. Deliberately. For kicks.

Mulligan's Stew

How could a kid do a thing like that?

Why?

I walked a little further around the lake and stood under some weeping willows, wondering whom I should call and if I had the nerve to pick up the dying goose and take it someplace in my car. Would the other geese attack, mistaking me for the enemy?

In a Hamlet-like trance of indecision, I wandered out on the end of the boat dock and saw four recently discarded beer cans glittering a few feet down in the clear, cold water.

How could kids do a thing like that to the lake where they swim in summer and skate in winter? Why?

When I returned, two water ecologists from New Jersey arrived with a boat to put anti-weed chemicals in the lake and the girl told them the plight of the dying goose.

They would know what to do. It wasn't my problem anymore.

But that dying goose and those shining beer cans were still on my mind when I drove off to make a speech at the induction ceremony for the National Honor Society at Brookfield High School. Somehow, I really did not feel like making the talk. A friend had talked me into it.

I was going to talk to them about a free press and how it is not nearly as free around the world as it was when I started out more than two decades ago, but now a clean lake and a visiting goose's right to live seemed more important. Maybe just dumping a few beer cans on the school lawn and driving off would be the proper gesture.

Ribbon cutting opens new Trinity Towers wing

With the snip of a ribbon, Trinity Towers, Midland's senior citizens community, officially opened its new wing Sunday.

First resident Mabel Whiting and oldest residents Jessie Wiseman and Maude Blakeney participated in the ribbon cutting ceremony. Mrs. Wiseman and Mrs. Blakeney are each 87 years old. P.F. Bridgewater, president of the Trinity Towers board of directors, led the ceremony.

During the dedication portion of the program, Bridgewater served as master of ceremonies. The invocation was given by the Rev. John W. Long, senior minister of Memorial Christian Church. Administrator Clyde Haden recognized the facility's staff. The benediction was given by the Rev. Ted Brian, assistant pastor of First Baptist Church.

Trinity Towers began with an idea by Mrs. Andrew Fasken, who was concerned for the growing number of retired persons in Midland. In 1960, she persuaded Dr. R. Matthew Lynn, then pastor of First Presbyterian Church, to help recruit supporters for a housing facility which would offer services to retired persons.

In February 1961, a committee comprised of Murray Fasken, James Steedman, Bridgewater and John Perkins was formed to study the matter. Two months later, they recommended that the proposal be endorsed as a community project and that a steering committee be authorized to proceed as a board of trustees. Mrs. Fasken, Steedman, Bridgewater, Mrs. W. H. Gilmore, Richard A. Braun, Dr. Ralph Greenlee, Barney R. Greathouse, W. B. Neely Jr., Ed S. Hitchcock, Ida Beth Oliver and Harvey H. Conger were appointed to the board, and Trinity Towers was incorporated as a non-profit, non-denominational Texas corporation under the name Midland Presbyterian Homes Inc. During the next eight years, others were added to the board, and a five-acre tract was purchased in the 2800 block of West Illinois Avenue. An FHA-guaranteed loan of $1,274,600 was obtained in late 1968 to begin construction, and ground breaking ceremonies were held Jan. 19, 1969, for a five-story building and 40 one- and two-bedroom apartments, a total of 94 living units.

Haden was appointed administrator of Trinity Towers in July 1969. Arline Reeder was the first applicant, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Hilliker were the first couple to apply at Trinity Towers. Mrs. Whiting was the first to actually move in. The facility was completed in 1970.

Trinity Towers opened at capacity and with a waiting list. The board, led by Bridgewater, worked to raise $2.7 million of the second five-story wing, dedicated Sunday.

Plumb teaches youth survival

OVERLAND PARK, Kan. (AP) — A decade ago Charlie Plumb was in a prison camp in Hanoi, while America's young people took to the streets to protest a war he now says was "an unbelievable debacle of errors."

Today those protests are a part of history, but Plumb continues to relive those prison days to show how his experiences can shed new light on everyday problems.

Plumb is one of the more articulate members of the POW fraternity of the war in Vietnam. And he spends about half of his time, when he is not running his travel agency in this Kansas City suburb, making speeches around the country.

Most of them are geared to young people and civic groups. And they all carry the same theme: The secrets of survival in America today are not unlike those the POWs applied — commitment, personal pride, faith, discipline, goals.

University expects fight over integrated housing

By LEE MITGANG
The Justice Department does not seem to be intent on changing the existing housing arrangements on or off campus. Instead, it is focusing on the housing picture for non-students,

NEW YORK (AP) — The president of Brigham Young University predicts that a year-long struggle with the federal government over the school's right to separate the sexes in off-campus housing will be resolved within the next month.

The controversy has implications for all private, church-sponsored colleges that insist on separate living arrangements for unmarried men and women. It began when the U.S. Justice Department threatened to sue the Mormon-affiliated university and 36 landlords who own or manage apartments near the Provo, Utah, campus for violating the Fair Housing Act.

As amended, the act says landlords cannot discriminate against tenants on the basis of sex.

But Dallin H. Oaks, president of Brigham Young, said in an interview that after "amicable talks" with the Justice Department, the federal government has apparently become "conscious of the special position of a religious institution, because the law allows religious institutions to segregate on the basis of sex."

Landlords who rent housing space to Brigham Young students must agree to the university prohibition against mingling of the sexes. But the issue came to the attention of the federal government when a non-student woman attempted to get housing in a building in Provo that housed only men, and was refused space.

"In 15 years, that was the only complaint we ever got," said Oaks.

Ullman seeking later deadline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., says he will try to persuade the Senate to accept a postponement of legislation revamping the special treatment of income earned by Americans working abroad.

House and Senate conferees have been unable to work out differences on the measure and June 15 is the deadline for Americans working abroad to file tax returns. So members of the House Ways and Means Committee adopted on Thursday a resolution calling for a one-year delay.

Webb discussed before city council

Changing the name of the Midland Regional Air Terminal and future use of the water tower in the 200 block of East Illinois Avenue are reappearing on the agenda when the Midland City Council meets at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the City Council Chambers at City Hall.

The council is scheduled to consider substituting the word "airport" for "air terminal" and approve a logo for the air terminal. Also to be considered is a marker design for the air terminal entrance and authorization for architectural graphics to complete plans and specifications for the design.

Plans for converting the water tower into an office and restaurant first were proposed by Earl Lewis a month ago. Feasibility of the plan will be discussed at the Tuesday meeting. If the council determines the idea is not feasible, the panel then will consider accepting a bid to dismantle and remove the tower.

Also on the agenda is consideration of contracting with MidTran to develop a transportation system for the city of Midland.

Public Works Department is asking the council to hire a consulting firm to make a drainage study in north Midland and authorize aerial mapping in connection with it.

The chauffeur is scheduled to ask the council to amend its franchise to delete gross receipts tax until the operation is profitable.

The council will consider on second reading an ordinance establishing a fire lane adjacent to Midland Memorial Hospital.

A request for trees to be planted along Wall Avenue from A Street to the Federal Building also is to be considered.

Bids for .38 caliber ammunition for the Police Department, for refuse container lids for the Sanitation Division and an estimated annual supply of antifreeze for the Municipal Garage are on the agenda.

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — It is legal to bum a cigarette in Madison, but it may be against the law to give one away without a license.

Gay right's next test in Eugene

By The Associated Press
A gay rights ordinance, a comeback attempt by former Gov. Tom McCall and a proposed 2-cent gasoline tax increase were the top issues for Oregon voters on the eve of a primary election. Light turnout was predicted in Kentucky where a congressional primary has sparked little interest.

Voters in Eugene, Ore., will decide whether to reject an ordinance forbidding discrimination in housing or employment against homosexuals. Similar ordinances have been voted down in Miami-Dade County, Fla.; St. Paul, Minn.; and Wichita, Kan.

Eugene, with 100,000 residents, is the state's second largest city and the home of the University of Oregon. McCall, a Republican, attracted nationwide attention when as governor he said he wanted the rest of the country to come to Oregon — but only for a visit. He served a pair of four-year terms before leaving office in 1975 because the state constitution prohibits serving more than two consecutive terms.

McCall's principal opponent, according to polls, is state Sen. Victor Atiyeh, the unsuccessful GOP candidate four years ago against Gov. Bob Straub, who faces token opposition in the Democratic primary.

Apparently gearing up for a third meeting with the colorful, quotable and outspoken McCall, Straub hired New York political publicist David Garth, who has snagged victories in the past for numerous Democrats.

The gasoline tax increase is billed as necessary to maintain the state's roads. Sen. Mark Hatfield, seeking a third term, has three opponents in the Republican primary, although none is regarded as a serious threat. Democratic Reps. Les AuCoin, Al Ullman and Bob Duncan all are unopposed for re-election. Election observers predicted a light turnout Tuesday for Kentucky's Weaver is opposed by Lane County Commissioner Bob Wood and cable TV executive Jonathan Bates.

Democratic U.S. Sen. Walter Huddleston seeks a second term and is being challenged by three relatively unknown rivals.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON Soft lenses have pluses and minuses

Dear Dr. Solomon: I'm thinking about switching to contact lenses, and I was wondering if you have any advice about the soft lenses compared to the hard ones. I get conflicting views from my friends.—Sharon J.

Dear Sharon: The soft lenses have been classified as drugs by the Food and Drug Administration, so they have to be approved for safety and effectiveness before they can be put on the market. Their big advantage is that they are more comfortable than the hard contacts but, according to the FDA, they do have certain problems. One difficulty is that they pick up germs and impurities because the plastic they are made of absorbs water. So you have to boil them daily in salted, distilled water and store them in a special liquid solution you buy at the drugstore.

The soft lenses cost about twice as much as the others and they only last a year or so. One further drawback is that they cannot correct as wide a range of visual defects as the hard lenses, so only four out of 10 people can use them. But they do have definite advantages. They are more easily tolerated, and they do not take long to get used to. And if you want to wear them instead of your usual glasses on some special occasion, you can pop them in and that is in five minutes your eyes become accustomed to them. Soft lenses do, of course, have to be fitted by an ophthalmologist or an optometrist. I would find a good one and discuss the matter thoroughly with him.

Dear Dr. Solomon: We hear a lot about grown-ups having their blood pressure checked every time they go for a physical. But what about children? Should I see that mine get their blood pressure checked regularly also?—Linda W.

Dear Linda: Hypertension is uncommon in young children. But according to guidelines drawn up by a National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute task force, every child's blood pressure should be checked at least once a year after the age of three. The panel cautioned that a child should not be identified as hypertensive unless high blood pressure is definitely sustained. As children's blood pressures have a way of bouncing up and down a lot, mass screening of children is not encouraged.

The report says that drug therapy should start only if weight control, exercise, and salt restriction are not effective. It advises doctors at what levels immediate action may be required. If drug therapy is needed, the experts recommend starting out with low doses and stepping them up slowly to the required level.

GAS COOKING OUTDOORS

Gas cooking outdoors sure makes sense in the summertime. It keeps the heat out, so your house stays cool. You save on air conditioning. Plus there's no charcoal or lighter fluid to buy, and no wait. Gas reaches cooking temperature fast and cooks full family dinners, everything your inside range and oven can cook, with that great outdoor flavor.

Take the heat out of the kitchen. Install a gas grill on the patio. It sure makes sense in the summertime, or anytime!

Charmglow 2000

If you have a food processor, it's easy to puree drained canned beets. Serve the puree cold or hot flavored with bottled white horseradish and sour cream. Good with beef.

Cooked chopped broccoli tastes particularly delicious when it is added to a cheddar cheese sauce.

Ever try brushing the top crust of a fruit pie with slightly beaten egg white and sprinkling with sugar? An extra egg white may be kept in the freezer and thawed before using.

Long lost ring found

GENOA, Ohio (AP)—The class ring—Diana Everhardt lost four years ago at Genoa High School was found, thanks to a hobby of Denny Despones, a car salesman.

Despones, using a metal detector, discovered the ring six inches underground in the high school's football stadium. He traced it to the owner through school yearbooks.

Hide your compost heap

BY AL CARELL

Some people who would like to start a compost heap are reluctant to do so because they think a pile of decaying leaves, grass and garbage would be an eyesore. Well, it could be, but certainly doesn't have to be. However, let's say you want to be sure. Why not make a hidden compost bin? The idea is to partially bury a large garbage can and then to plant something to hide the rest of it. Pick a spot away from the house. When you dig out to bury the can, add some depth to accommodate about four inches of gravel for drainage.

Next, you have to drill some holes in the bottom and sides. A plastic garbage can will last longest, but even a metal job will last for many years, and this is a great way to use a beat-up one. Drill as many holes as you can. Spread the holes around as you go. Pick out bushes that will stay at about the right height so you'll always have the compost bin hidden, but not have to climb over a hedge to get to it. And if you want to learn about what to use in the hidden bin, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Super Handyman here at the paper, and I'll send you a FREE sheet on how to compost.

Dear Al: That instant spray-on galvanizer you suggested for gutters and drainspouts can also be an instant primer for any bare metal. Almost immediately you can paint over this with your top coat rather than have to wait for other primers to dry. — J.W.J.

A SUPER HINT—When you set a post in concrete, you should bring the level of the mix up above ground level, and then angle it away from the post in all directions. This lets water run away from the post. But after a while, there can be a small gap between the post and the concrete. To seal moisture out of here, you run a bead of silicone seal around this seam, and the post will last forever...or at least until the garbage truck runs into your fence.

Dear Al

A high-temperature type automatic oven cleaner can be used for other things while the cleaning process is going on. Using caution about overloading, I have included the drip basins from the range top, an iron skillet and even a few shop tools. It's by far the best way I've found to clean a greasy filter from the vent hood. Beats solvents and wire brushes all to heck. — J.S.

QUICK ANSWERS FOR HARRIED HANDYPERSONS

Q: When our home was built, aluminum wiring was used, and I've heard it's a fire hazard. I'm told there's a simple way to solve it called pig tailing. What's that?

A: First, be sure that this practice is acceptable with the local electrical code and get the details on how it must be done in your community to comply. It involves attaching a short piece of copper wire on the ends of aluminum wires at all outlets, switches and other connections. The wire is a pig tail. The two wires are joined with a wire nut. The copper wire is then connected to the outlet by the regular screws. The problem with aluminum wiring is it has greater expansion and contraction which causes the screws to have loose connections. Then aluminum oxide forms, and you can have a too hot wire. When making the copper to aluminum connection, coat the aluminum wire with an oxide inhibiting paste available at the hardware store. BE SURE TO TRIP THE SWITCH SO THERE'S NO CURRENT GOING THROUGH THE WIRES YOU'RE WORKING ON. There's another way, but it costs more money. It's to change the old outlets for special CO-ALR type...or maybe you already have them and don't have the fire hazard.

DEAR ABBY

Niece expelled since overweight

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Now I've heard everything! My niece, who happens to be a very good student, claims that she was suspended from Oral Roberts University in Tulsa, Okla., because she is overweight. Can you believe that? She said that she and three others were kicked out of the university because they failed to lose at least one pound a week, in accordance with a pledge they signed when they entered the university.

I can't for the life of me understand what a person's weight has to do with his scholastic record, and I find it hard to believe that a school with the fine reputation enjoyed by Oral Roberts University would ever make such a rule.

My niece has always been a fairly good student, but it's possible that she flunked out and just made up that story to save face.

Will you please look into this and let me know if this kid is putting me on or if such a rule really exists? — STEAMED IN OKLAHOMA

DEAR STEAMED: It's true. It seems that your niece ate herself out of the university. But I'm told that every student at O.R.U. pledges that he (or she) will make every effort to keep physically fit, and the university provides a diet and exercise program to help. Furthermore, I have it orally from Oral himself that this rule includes the faculty, too!

DEAR ABBY: Our 28-year-old daughter has been self-supporting since she graduated from college, and we have always been very proud of her. (She's in fashion.)

Yesterday she came over for dinner and her father and I nearly fainted when we saw her. She looked as though she had given herself a cheap home perm and didn't bother to set it!

It looked terrible and we told her so. She said we would get used to it because it is the latest thing.

Abby, her beautiful blond head was just a frizzy mop, with no shape or style. I can't for the life of me understand why any fashion-conscious young woman would want to go around looking that way.

I am 47—not exactly a relic—and I appreciate up-to-date fashions and hairstyles, but I can't understand this new hideous hairstyle, can you? — HORRIFIED IN HOUSTON

DEAR HORRIFIED: No. But cheer up. This too shall pass.

DEAR ABBY: When my son was living at home he was so fussy about his shirts that if there was a little wrinkle in the collar, he'd throw the shirt back in the hamper for me to do over.

Well, he's married now, and you should see what he's putting up with. His wife never washes anything unless everything is dirty and they need something clean. I've seen her wash one shirt out in the kitchen sink, and then press it on the kitchen table, right over eggshells and bread crumbs!

Believe me, my son wasn't raised that way, and it kills me to see it. He never complains, and you never hear a cross word between them.

Can a man forget his early training so soon? How can I teach this sloppy girl to keep house properly? — PERTURBED IN PUEBLO

DEAR PERTURBED: If she asks you to teach her, teach her. But don't volunteer. As long as your son is happy, close your eyes and let your mouth follow suit.

Catholic nun known as artist

SHILLINGTON, Pa. (AP)—Sister M. Hadwig, a Roman Catholic nun at the Precious Blood Convent here, is a liturgical artist well known in Europe.

Since she came here 12 years ago, she has been commissioned to create major artworks for three Lutheran churches, furnish the interior of two Catholic churches, and to make huge wall hangings for three Catholic churches. She is now embroidering an applique wall hanging for a Methodist bishop.

The sister, who has the German equivalent of a master's degree from a school in Cologne, worked 18 years as a professional artist in Holland at the headquarters of the Sisters of the Precious Blood.

The German native was sent to the headquarters of the American province here to support the convent financially through her artwork.

Ruth Schwede thought losing 60 pounds would take a miracle, but it happened at Pat Walker's.

Although she weighed 175 pounds, Ruth Schwede had never really tried to lose weight. She knew she weighed too much, but it didn't really concern her...until the day her doctor told her that unless she began reducing immediately her eating habits, to chart her progress, and most of all, to encourage her.

Taking care of her health has brought amazing changes to Ruth Schwede's life. Not only has she gone from 175 pounds to 115, from a size 18 to a size 10—she's also begun to feel truly alive again.

As she says, with a smile, "Pat Walker's changed me from a fat, old woman to a vigorous new woman with an active business and social life! My friends and family say I look like I did 25 years ago!" Her success story could easily be yours.

The Pat Walker's method

From the moment you enter a Pat Walker salon, you'll know that you've found a place where you can lose weight in a dignified manner. Every salon is elegant and quiet...a serene setting so unlike the confusion you may have encountered at spas or gyms.

At Pat Walker's, you're treated as a special and valued patron.

Our professional counselors will work with you from your very first visit, helping you achieve your goal.

No strenuous exercise

Safe, passive exercise on Pat Walker's exclusive exercise unit tones your tissues, improves your circulation, helps correct your posture.

You lose weight and inches where you should, regardless of previous failure to lose.

No special clothing is required, so you don't have to disrobe. Your treatments are given in complete privacy.

Individualized Program

Every Pat Walker program begins with a confidential figure analysis to determine how many treatments will be required. We will tell you exactly what it will cost you to reach your perfect figure based on an average of three dollars per treatment.

Twenty-five years of success

Since Pat Walker began developing her method of successful weight reduction twenty-five years ago in Los Angeles, thousands of women all over the world have reached their weight goals at Pat Walker's salons.

Glomar Explorer plan would probe depths

By THOMAS O'TOOLE

The Washington Post WASHINGTON — A plan is afoot to use the Glomar Explorer, which recovered parts of a sunken Soviet submarine for the Central Intelligence Agency four years ago, to explore for oil in the deep oceans at the edge of the Outer Continental Shelf.

With the backing of some of the world's leading scientists, the National Science Foundation and the U.S. Geological Survey are considering putting up $50 million to convert the 640-foot Glomar Explorer into a ship that could safely explore for oil and natural gas and conduct scientific drilling operations in as much as 12,000 feet of water going as deep as 20,000 feet into the ocean floor.

"Nobody has ever drilled that deep at sea," said Dr. Peter Wilkns of the NSF "and the Glomar Explorer is the only vessel there is that could suspend 32,000 feet of drill string."

The plan to use the Glomar for the dual purpose of oil exploration and scientific study also has the support of five other countries, including the Soviet Union. The others are Japan, West Germany, France and Britain.

The NSF and the USGS would put up the money to convert the Glomar and finance its day-to-day operations when it drills in coastal U.S. waters. The five other nations would finance Glomar operations when the ship moves out of U.S. coastal waters.

The bill for running the Glomar will be a big one. The NSF estimates that the Glomar costs about $40,000 a day to operate.

The plan is for the Glomar to drill at the edge of the Continental Shelf, in regions scientists call the "oceanic margins" where the continents end and the oceans begin. Nobody has drilled the margins because the water is too deep and the sediments on the ocean floor too thick.

"Nobody knows what the oil and gas potential of the margins are," said Wilkns. "The oceanic margins are the last major unexplored regions of the earth."

Geologists want to recover sediments from the floors of the oceanic margins in both the Atlantic and the Pacific, which are vastly different from one another.

Some of the $50 million it will cost to convert the Glomar Explorer into the right kind of drilling ship will go toward buying the 32,000 feet of drill string it will need to operate in the oceanic margins. Part of the cost will be for protective devices to prevent "blowouts" if the drill pipe punctures oil and gas reservoirs. Currently, the property of the Navy, and in mothballs in California's Suisun Bay, the Glomar Explorer on June 1 will be turned over to a consortium led by Lockheed Aircraft Corp. and the Global Marine Co. to test out equipment and concepts in deep sea mining.

The lease the Navy signed with Lockheed and Global Marine runs for 13 months.

Pricing spelled out

By FRANK CORMIER KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — President Carter, addressing workers at the government's largest electrical utility, today declared that the price of energy "must cover all legitimate costs of production including environmental protection."

Carter's assertion dovetails with long-held contentions of the privately owned utilities, oil companies and other energy producers that environmental costs should be included in prices ultimately paid by consumers.

In an address prepared for a meeting of Tennessee Valley Authority employees, Carter added that energy prices definitely should not cover waste or "windfall profits at the consumer's expense."

The president told his audience that the TVA "is challenging an international uranium cartel and helping to lead the resistance to expanding oil company domination of all of our energy sources."

Carter said his administration "is with you in encouraging more competition, and less concentration of economic power among the producers of petroleum, coal and uranium."

Carter also planned to assure government scientists at Oak Ridge Tenn., that despite his administration's opposition to developing the breeder nuclear reactor there, the mammoth government-owned facility at Oak Ridge remains a frontier outpost of energy research.

Carter flew here today from Plains, Ga., where he was visiting Sunday and where he attended his niece's wedding.

Agreement announced

CHICAGO, Ill.—Amoco Overseas Oil Co. reported it has entered a three-year agreement with Arab Petroleum Pipelines Co. to transport 50,000 barrels of Middle East and Egyptian crude oil daily through the SUMED pipeline from the Gulf of Suez to the Mediterranean Sea.

An Amoco Overseas spokesman said the company's initial use of the line in June or July of this year will be to move crude oil production from joint venture fields in the Gulf of Suez to Alexandria, Egypt, for transshipment by tanker to Amoco refineries in Europe.

Hill must agree

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Several customers of Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. have indicated they will not accept a proposed settlement of more than $1.6 billion in damage claims against Lo-Vaca if Attorney General John Hill does not like it.

Hill's decision — as well as briefs from other customers — were due in the railroad commission offices today.

The deadline was set by commission examiner Thomas Hill, following three weeks of public hearings on the proposed settlement. The hearings ended April 20.

The commission took testimony to determine whether the settlement or its Dec. 12 order would be best for Lo-Vaca's natural gas customers.

The order requires Lo-Vaca and its parent, Coastal States Gas Corp., to refund the $1.6 billion to customers and to live up to long-term contracts that called for much lower prices.

Coastal-Lo-Vaca claims the order would result in bankruptcy. Major customers supported the settlement, but at least two consumer groups and several industries who buy gas from Lo-Vaca customers opposed it.

Under the settlement, Lo-Vaca and another of Coastal's major subsidiaries, Coastal States Gas Producing Co., would be the main components of a new firm to be known as The Valero Corp.

A settlement trust would be established from assets of Coastal Corp. and Valero for the benefit of customers. An Austin state district judge would appoint the trustee.

Coastal also would be required to spend from $180 million to $230 million to find and develop new natural gas reserves to be sold to Valero at below prevailing market prices.

CIA report may have been made for Carter

By GEORGE LARDNER JR. The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The Central Intelligence Agency was gently chided in a Senate study Sunday for its predictions last year that the Soviet Union would be importing oil in substantial quantities by the mid-1980s.

In a 36-page report on the CIA's work, the Senate Intelligence Committee also suggested that both the White House and CIA Director Stansfield Turner should be more sensitive to the need to keep the release of economic and scientific intelligence "agree from undue pressure."

But despite these criticisms, the committee's staff report was marked as defensive and at points apologetic on the CIA's behalf.

President Carter announced in a televised news conference on April 15, 1977, that the CIA had provided him with disturbing new findings showing there was less gas and oil in the world than previously believed. He used the report to build domestic support for his energy plan.

Subsequently, the CIA made public two energy reports, one dealing with the international outlook to 1985 and another with Soviet oil production.

Turner followed up by testifying before a House energy subcommittee on April 26, 1977 that "we estimated that in 1985 the U.S.S.R. and Eastern Europe will need net imports of 3.5 to 4.5 million barrels a day."

The sequence led to widespread criticism, including a charge that the CIA's facts may have been "cooked" to fit the president's recipe. The Senate committee staff, however, said it found "no evidence" to support that notion.

The Senate report was the second the Intelligence Committee has turned out on CIA oil forecasting. The first, issued last December, dealt with the agency's predictions in 1974 — following the Arab oil embargo and a 60 percent increase in oil prices by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. From January to June of 1974, the CIA adhered, erroneously, "to the position that OPEC oil prices would fall," the first report said.

In that study the Senate committee staff concluded that publications such as the Wall Street Journal and the London Financial Times had done a better job.

At the same time, however, the study maintained that misstatements in Turner's congressional testimony could be "explained" away and it contended that the CIA's oil experts were really to blame "for a lack of clarity" in their "methodological" approach.

CIA officials, by contrast, were harsher in their own assessment of the agency's prediction of Soviet-East European oil imports of 3.5 to 4.5 million barrels a day, one termed it a "terrible glitch."

The Soviets "will do anything to prevent them from becoming an oil importer of that magnitude," Walter McDonald, former deputy director of the CIA's Office of Economic Research, told the committee. "The Soviets cannot afford to lose that kind of hard currency in the international market."

The Intelligence Committee observed that Turner stated in his House testimony that the U.S.S.R. and Eastern Europe would "need" millions of barrels of oil a day. His remarks, the Senate report said, "can still be 'explained' in such a way as to fall short of predicting that such an amount will be imported."

Turning to President Carter, the Senate study said the manner in which he publicly cited the CIA information — before its release to the public — "understandably gave rise to questions about his 'use' of the intelligence."

While the committee staff indicated that a president's use of CIA information to support policy choices is perfectly proper so long as the information itself is also made public, the report suggested that delicacy is essential.

"The White House and the Director of Central Intelligence need to be fully sensitive," the report concluded, "to the responsibilities they bear in preserving the integrity of the analytic process and in creating confidence among Congress and the public that the substance and the circumstances surrounding the release of economic and scientific intelligence are free from undue pressure."

Scouts set July event

AUSTIN—The International Oil Scouts Association has announced its 55th Annual Meeting will be held July 5-8 at the Holiday Inn in Ventura, Calif.

The meeting will include the election of the association's board of directors and talks by petroleum industry leaders from the United States and Canada.

6,000 French soldiers at work cleaning up oil-blackened beaches

By PAUL TREUTHARDT BREST, France (AP) — Two months after the world's worst oil spill, 6,000 French soldiers are still cleaning thick black tar foot by foot from the beaches, rocks and bays of northern Brittany.

"A month ago, two weeks ago, I was optimistic. Now I'm frankly pessimistic," said Lt. Col. Jean Croguennec, senior Civil Defense officer at pollution clean-up headquarters.

"We clean a beach and 24 hours later, it's covered again with tar balls the sea has washed up. We've cleaned some beaches six times now," he said.

More than 219,000 tons of crude oil — the equivalent of about 65 million gallons — were spilled into the sea when the American-owned but Liberian-registered supertanker Amoco Cadiz was wrecked March 17 on the Portland rocks north of Brest and less than two miles offshore.

Today fish from the oil-soaked in-shore waters remain tainted, France's richest oyster beds will not be productive for months to come and the fast-approaching season in France's second largest tourist region has been severely threatened.

liquids, most being treated at recovery stations, some 60,000 tons of bulk solid waste, and a further 242,000 small plastic sacks of solids that will be treated and used as road-fill.

The soldiers work two-week spells on the clean-up, rotating from bases all over France. "We always send them to a different beach when they come back, it's better for morale," Croguennec said.

A squad of 26 men from a mechanized infantry division was at work on the 100-yard beach at Pors-Mer near Plouescat, filling plastic sacks with tar, sand and seaweed.

"We shifted 30 tons one day," said the squad's lieutenant, "but twice a day, with each tide, the stuff comes in again."

The latest technique is to hose down the rocks with near-boiling fresh water from high pressure pumps. After much scientific debate, dispersants are finally being used to clean tourist spots in carefully selected coastal spots. "It's a trade-off we have to make against possible environmental damage," Croguennec said.

There is general agreement that on the exposed coastline, the storms of next winter will finish the clean-up job. But in the calm "abers" fjord-like inlets that are rich oyster grounds, traces of oil may linger for years.

The cost of the clean-up and damage payments is not yet known, "but it will obviously be far greater than the $30 million of pollution insurance," Croguennec said. The new pumps alone cost 70,000 francs, the equivalent of $14,500 each and 120 have been ordered.

Under international agreements, $30 million is the maximum the French government can claim. But officials have said they expected

Field Tests scheduled

Texaco Inc. and Stoltz, Wagner & Brown have each staked a location for a project in the Conger (Pennsylvania) field of Sterling County.

Texaco No. 3-O Sterling Fee will be drilled 1,867 feet northwest of production and 1,814 feet from north and 1,754 feet from east lines of section 23, block 32, T-5-S, T&P survey and 36 miles southwest of Sterling City. It is slated for an 8,350-foot bottom.

SECOND TEST: Stoltz, Wagner & Brown of Midland No. 25-26 Hildebrand will be drilled to 6,400 feet, 750 feet from south and 2,527 feet from west lines of section 26, block 31, T-5-S, T&P survey and 11 miles southwest of Sterling City. It is 1,867 feet east of production.

"talks" over extra compensation, and one private group in Brittany is suing Amoco in the Chicago courts.

The French government is making "advance payments" to unemployed fishermen and oyster harvesters in the region. Oysterman Alain Madec said there was general agreement not to market any oysters "until we are certain not even one is tainted."

Fishermen generally are staying in port until scientific examinations of test catches also show them untainted.

Preliminary scientific surveys show "heavy deposits of oil on the seabed near the coasts, and a strikingly heavy concentration, as much as 10 times the normal amount, half way out into the English Channel and deep into the water," said a spokesman for France's national oceanographic research center in Brest.

The spokesman said it was too soon to predict the longer-term effects of the spill.

Initially there was a heavy toll of shellfish and smaller creatures in the coastal life cycle, and 2,900 dead birds were found, which experts said indicated a total bird kill of at least 12,000.

The Union of Hotel Owners in western Brittany reports summer booking down by as much as 40 percent, including areas far from the oil-spill zone.

Appreciation day slated

PECOS—The Pecos Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the Fourth Annual Oil & Gas Appreciation Day June 2.

The event will be held at the Pecos Valley Country Club and at the Reeves County Sheriff Posse Barn. The event will include a golf tournament at 9 a. m. at the country club, a barbecue and dance at the posse barn, with the barbecue set from 5:30 to 8 p. m. The dance will follow.

A women's luncheon will be held from 12 to 1:30 p. m. at the country club.

Explorer sites staked

A pair of wildcat operations have been scheduled in West Texas, one in Ward County and the other in Mitchell County.

Gulf Oil Corp. No. 1-4Q University will be drilled one mile west of Pyote in Ward County. Slated for a 7,500-foot bottom, it is in 660 feet from north and east lines of section 20, block 17, University Lands survey.

MITCHELL TEST

Turner Properties of Midland sighted location for a 4,500-foot wildcat in Mitchell County, 10 miles southwest of Westbrook.

It is No. 1-Turner Properties-Snyder, 660 feet from south and east lines of section 25, block 30, T-1-S, T&P survey.

The location is two miles west of Ellenburger and Devonian gas production in the Block 16 field.

LEA COUNTY: Harvey Yates No. 1-35 Corbin State, drilling 7,937 feet in dolomite and shale.

Clearly Petroleum No. 2-A New Mexico Federal, drilling 13,000 feet in shale.

Clearly Petroleum No. 1-Felmont Federal, drilling 12,710 feet in shale and sand.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS
NOTICE TO BIDDERS
Sealed proposals addressed to the Honorable Mayor and City Council of Midland, Texas, will be received at the office of the City Secretary, City Hall, Midland, Texas, until 2:00 P. M. June 1, 1978, for furnishing all necessary materials, machinery, equipment, transportation and labor for constructing certain improvements at the Midland Airport, Midland, Texas.

Immediately following the closing time for receipt of bids, proposals will be publicly opened and read aloud. Any bid received after closing time will be returned unopened.

The project consists primarily of lighting and marking Runway 1-0, lighting of taxiway and taxiway transformer vault, and other related items of work.

A bid or proposal guarantee to accompany the bid, thereby insuring the good faith of the bidder, and that the bidder will enter into the written contract. The guarantee to be in the amount of five percent (5%) of the total bid and shall be in the form of cash or certified check, payable to the order of the City of Midland, or a bid bond. If in the form of cash or certified check, it is hereby expressly agreed that the City of Midland is given the right to retain such cash or certified check until the award of the contract is made and the bidder has furnished all other necessary information to the City of Midland, as a condition precedent to the award of the contract. If a bid bond is submitted, it shall be returned to the bidder upon the award of the contract and the bidder has furnished all other necessary information to the City of Midland.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish a Performance Bond and a Payment Bond each in the amount of the contract, written by a responsible Surety Company licensed to do business in the State of Texas and satisfactory to the Owner, as required by Article 1A of the Standard Contract Form for Construction Work, promulgated by H. R. 344, passed by the Legislature, Regular Session, 1966.

All lump sum unit prices must be stated in both script and figures. The Owner reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive formalities. In case of ambiguity or lack of clarity in stating the prices in the bid, the Owner reserves the right to consider the most advantageous construction thereof, or to reject the bid. Unreasonable (or "unbalanced") unit prices will authorize the Owner to reject the bid.

Bidders are expected to inspect the site of the work and to inform themselves regarding all local conditions.

The proposed contract is under and subject to Executive Order 12868 of September 16, 1965, and to the equal opportunity clause contained in the bid form. All information required by the proposed form.

The successful bidder will be required to submit a Certificate of Non-Registration of the Contractor, and to furnish a Certificate of Insurance, covering the Contractor's liability for damages, up to the amount of $100,000, and to maintain an affidavit of insurance.

Women will be afforded equal opportunity in all areas of employment. However, the employment of women shall not diminish the standards or requirements for the employment of minorities.

For bids relating to contracts of $50,000 or more, a contractor having 10 or more employees and 10 or more employees and who may be awarded a contract of $100,000 or more will be required to maintain an affidavit of insurance.

Minimum wages and labor rates for the construction of the proposed work have been established by the Department of Labor. A schedule of labor classifications and wage rates to be paid are included in the specifications and will be made a part of the contract. The bid form shall contain a statement that the prices bid are based on such wages and rates.

Information for bidders, proposal forms, specifications and plans are available in the office of the Director of Public Works, City Hall, Midland, Texas, at the office of the Director of Public Works, City Hall, Midland, Texas, and at the office of the Director of Public Works, City Hall, Midland, Texas.

Copies of the Plans and Specifications may be obtained by mail for a fee of $10.00. A check for the fee should be enclosed with the order. The fee will be returned to the contractor on submission of a bona fide bid on the work.

Terry Willis to face Texans tonight

Craig Van Horn, MVP in District 5-4A

Rebels try Texans tonight in region baseball playoffs

By BOB DILLON R-T Sports Writer

FORT WORTH—Regional baseball play opens tonight for the Robert E. Lee Rebels.

Coach Ernie Johnson's District 5-4A champions, coming off a two-game sweep of the Wichita Falls Coyotes, battle the Arlington Sam Houston Texans at 8 p.m. today at Clark Field which is located on the South Campus of Tarrant County College.

Johnson, named Coach of the Year in 5-4A over the weekend, sends junior righthander Terry Willis (7-2) to the mound tonight to try and halt the Texans who also swept its bi-district playoff series with Fort Worth Western Hills last week.

Willis, an all-district choice from 5-4A, will most likely face District 8-4A's Most Valuable Player in senior righthander Steve Dearman (10-2), who owns an earned run average of 1.76, and plays left field for the Texans when he isn't working on the mound and shares the home run lead on the team with centerfielder Jerry Dunn with four homers each.

While Lee has hit nine homers in 31 games, the Texans have rapped out a total of 16 in 32 games on the year. Lee takes a 23-8 mark into the first game of the series while Sam Houston is 22-10 on the year and owns a victory over the powerful Duncanville Panthers, last year's state runner-up.

THE REBELS are pounding the ball at a .336 clip thus far on the year compared to the Texans' team batting average of .264. Lee has rapped put 57 doubles and 20 triples to go with the nine homers and has knocked in 192 runs on the year.

Besides Johnson and Willis grabbing honors over the weekend in 5-4A, Craig Van Horn of the Tall City team, was named Most Valuable Player in the league after playing third base, catcher and pitcher. Teammates Pat Moore, Todd Clements and Don Rasure, were also named to the elite team. Moore made it as an outfielder while Clements was named as utility outfielder and Rasure utility infielder.

Lee beat Wichita Falls 12-8 and 5-1 in its bi-district series while Sam Houston posted 5-0 and 4-1 wins over Western Hills. The winner of the Lee-Sam Houston best-of-three regional series, will square off against the winner of the Lubbock Monterey-El Paso Area series which opens on Wednesday in the Border City.

Dearman has struck out 66 opposing batters this season while Willis has registered 60 strikeouts while on the mound for the Rebels. Sam Houston has another outstanding pitcher in left-hander Jimmy Sullivan who is 8-2 on the year with an ERA of 2.13.

DUNN LEADS the hit parade for the Texans with a robust .386 average while next comes third baseman Mike Marlow with a .325 average. Dearman is hitting .296, giving the Texans only two players over the .300 mark at the plate, but they play solid defense and rely on the steady pitching of Dearman and Sullivan and also have a sophomore hurler in Chuck Mathews who could see some mound duty during the three-game series which moves to Midland on Thursday at 1:30 p.m. at the Lee diamond with a second game to follow if necessary.

Texan Coach Tommy Cantrell is in his ninth year at Sam Houston and has been in the playoffs two others times, in 1971 and 1974 and both times, he lost out to strong teams from R.L. Turner of Carrollton. Then in 1973, his team lost to Irving MacArthur, 13-12 in a wild playoff for the district crown and Midland High fans remember MacArthur well, because the Bulldogs had to go three games in regional before winning and going to become state champions.

"We are really impressed with the team from Midland," said Cantrell by telephone Sunday afternoon. "They play good ball and certainly don't beat themselves. I am also impressed with their hitting. They can swing the bat real well." Cantrell went on to say that his team relies on good pitching and defense, but his outfit can also hit the ball under pressure. "Dearman is an all-around athlete for us. He played linebacker in football and is a real competitor," added Cantrell.

The Texans will have one advantage over Lee in that Cantrell scouted the Rebels in Wichita Falls Friday while Johnson has not seen the 8-4A champions play at all.

THE PROBABLE STARTING lineup for the Rebels will include Glenn Gibson at first base; Buck Sheffield at second; Darrell Brewer at shortstop and Marlow at third with the outfield being made up of Alan Hemale in left; Dunn in center and Ron Mabry in right with Eddie Eddyquid handling the catching chores.

Lee will counter with Doug Schmidt at first; Rasure at second; Steve Pitts at shortstop and Van Horn at third. Clements, Moore and John White will patrol the outfield with Clay Calhoun catching and Richard Josefy the designated hitter.

Josefy leads the Rebels in hitting with a .422 average followed by utility outfielder Tyler Alcorn's .400 average. Moore is next with a .389 average while Van Horn is hitting at a .388 clip. Calhoun is hitting .359, Clements .337 and Schmidt .351. White follows

Longhorns fall in final Indy 500 bid

By TERRY WILLIAMSON

The Midland based Longhorn Racing Team made a desperate bid Sunday to gain a berth in the final 33-car Indianapolis 500 field, but failed even though they got the final qualifying shot of the day.

The Wildcat-Offy needed an average lap time in excess of 187 miles per hour to qualify for next Sunday's Indy 500, but handling problems, that had plagued the Longhorn team both qualifying days, kept the team out of the race.

Midland's Bobby Hillin, principal owner of the team, had two cars qualify for last year's 500. He was left scratching his head Sunday.

"I feel sorry for Midland and West Texas since we were unable to qualify. All we can say is that we will be back next year with another shot," Hillin said Sunday.

"I can't really say what was wrong with the car except the car was pushing the front end. The car just didn't handle properly. It didn't handle right in the turns. It just didn't want to turn when you wanted it to."

"It ought to run. We checked every rivet and bolt on the car, and it was just something that we can't find. We had the car rigged with just the same setup that was producing 192 mph laps earlier in the week."

The Longhorn team did everything possible to get the car in the final field. They even used two drivers. Bubby Jones, the team's original driver, pulled himself out of the race just in case he was the problem, but Bill Vukovich Jr. raced the Wildcat on two qualifying attempts and produced the same 178 mph reading as Jones had earlier in the day.

Vukovich even got a break when he earned the last shot of the day at qualifying just as the ABC cameras called it a day for their regular Sunday programming. Vukovich, however, quit after two laps when it was easily seen that the Wildcat was not going to post a time fast enough to qualify.

"We tried everything. We changed drivers. We made adjustments. Nothing worked. It had to be something with the car because both drivers, and both are good, could not produce any speed because of the front end," Hillin said.

Midland will not be without a 500 entrant, however, since Jim Hall's Chaparral-Lola team earned a second row berth on Saturday with two-time Indy winner Al Unser behind the wheel. Unser is considered to have a good chance at winning with Hall's Cosworth powered Lola.

"Hall's team did an outstanding job here this week, and they will do well in the race," Hillin said. "At least Midland will not be left out in the cold. They did a super job, and we'll be back next year. That's the only way to look at it. This is supposed to be

Cubs hand Cards 10th loss in row

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The National League has counted 10 over the slumbering St. Louis Cardinals and when they'll awake nobody knows.

"It seems to be something different every day, nothing you can put your finger on," Manager Ken Boyer sighed Sunday after the Cardinals dropped a 3-2 decision to the Chicago Cubs. The 10-game skid is the Cardinals' longest since 1957 and five short of the club record set in 1909.

To add to the Cardinals' troubles, starting pitcher Eric Rasmussen, who allowed only one earned run in five innings, had to leave when a line drive off the bat of Bobby Murcer struck him on the right wrist and broke a blood vessel. He was to be X-rayed today.

Meanwhile, Tom Seaver moved past Bob Feller and Warren Spahn into seventh place on the all-time major league strikeout list as the Cincinnati Reds nipped the San Diego Padres 1-0 after dropping the doubleheader opener 7-2. Elsewhere, the Los Angeles Dodgers downed the San Francisco Giants 4-1, the New York Mets edged the Philadelphia Phillies 6-5 in 10 innings, the Pittsburgh Pirates blanked the Montreal Expos 7-0 and the Atlanta Braves defeated the Houston Astros 6-4.

Dave Rader's double scored Manny Trillo with the tie-breaking run in the sixth inning as the Cubs kayoed St. Louis. The loser was reliever Mark Littell, who has been tagged with the defeat four times during the Cardinals' sour streak.

Boyer admitted the latest setback could have been worse. "They put the leadoff man on base in seven of the eight innings they batted and we made four errors, so they could have scored a lot more," he said. "Still, we made some good plays and the three double plays helped. But we're just not scoring any runs."

The Cardinals thought they had tied the game in the ninth inning, but Murcer caught Ted Simmons' drive against the right field wall.

"I thought Simmons' ball had enough to carry out of here," Boyer said. "I thought it was gone when I hit it," echoed Simmons, "but then I saw Murcer go to the corner and I knew the wind had held it up. Yesterday, that ball would have been out of here. But when things go bad, they really go bad."

Padres 7-6, Reds 2-1. The still-struggling Seaver, 3-4, out-dueled John D'Acquisto, who gave up the only run of the nightcap on a bases-loaded wild pitch in the fifth inning.

Seaver went seven innings before his arm stiffened, yielding six hits while striking out five to give him 2,585 in his career.

"Numbers are not important to me," he said. "I get them, and they are a part of the game, but it's only one aspect of being a pitcher. I don't mean to play it down. It's an honor to be among those guys. But it's like Pete Rose getting 3,000 hits. Heck, he might end up with 4,000."

In the opener, San Diego's Bob Shirley scattered seven hits while George Hendrick drilled a two-run pinch double to highlight a four-run sixth inning.

Dodgers 4, Giants 1. Lee Lacy and Ron Cey homered to lead an 11-hit attack as the Dodgers tightened up the race in the NL West. The Giants led Los Angeles and Cincinnati by one-half game. Loser Bob Knepper walked Dusty Baker with the bases loaded in the first inning to force in a run. Lacy hit a two-run homer in the third inning and Cey connected in the fifth.

"I want to play here. I want to play — period," said Lacy, who made one of his rare starts. He has hit three other homers this season — in pinch hitting roles. "If I keep hitting balls out of the park I'm going to play

Southern Illinois captures track

MACOMB, Ill. (AP) — Southern Illinois won its fourth straight Missouri Valley Conference track championship, outdistancing runner-up West Texas State 182 points to 125.

The Salukis were led by sprinter Mike Kee who swept the 100- and 200-meter dashes for the third consecutive year. The junior from Boston won the 100 in 10.35 and the 200 in 21.24, both times being wind aided.

The only other double winner was West Texas State's Joseph Kemei who won the 1,500-meter run in 3:49.83 and the 5,000 in 14:50.22. His victory in the 5,000 wrapped up second place for the Buffaloes who scored 122 of their total points on the final day Saturday.

Wichita State placed third with 109 points, followed by Indiana State 65, New Mexico State 46, Drake 44, Bradley 14, and Tulsa 2.

Baylor moves into tourney finals today

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Baylor Coach Mickey Sullivan doesn't ever want Ken Kolkhorst to do it again, but his senior catcher's wild base running Sunday brought a smile ... and a lecture.

Kolkhorst scored from second for a critical run against Pan American on Mike Wells' single although Sullivan was trying to stop him at third base.

"It's a good thing you made it," said a stern Sullivan, who finally broke into a smile because Kolkhorst made it and his Bears whipped the Broncos 3-2 in 10 innings of the NCAA South Regional Baseball Tournament.

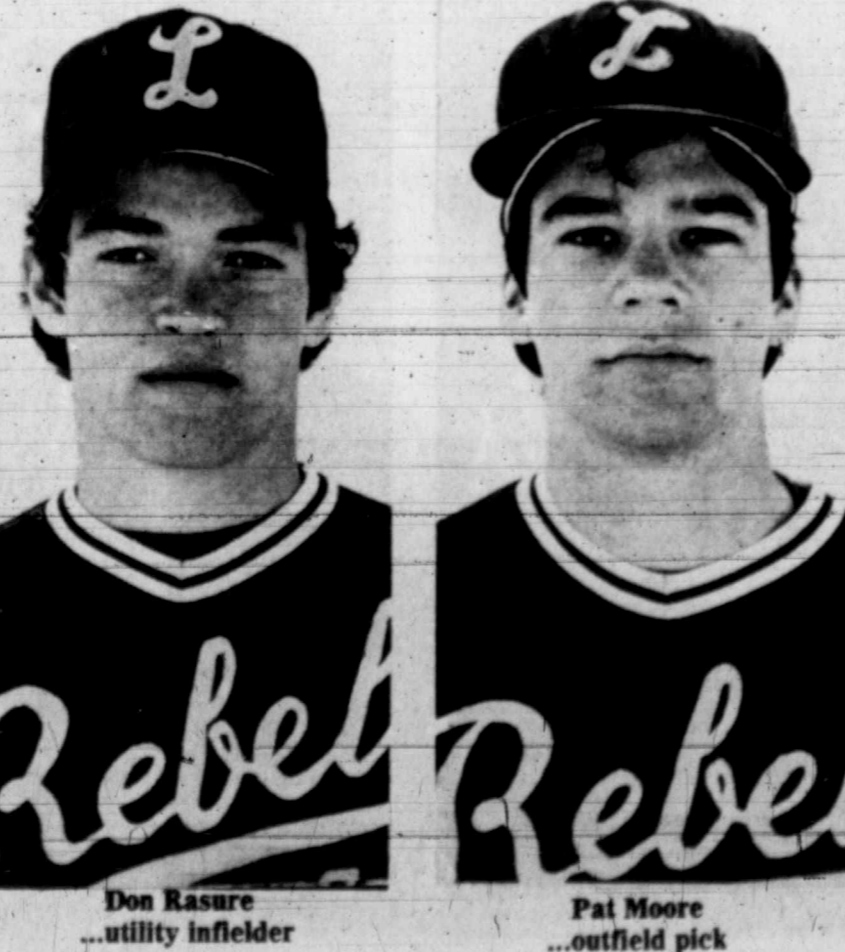

Kolkhorst's ninth inning run put the game into extra innings where the Bears eventually prevailed.

"I saw him (Sullivan) holding me up," said Kolkhorst. "But I knew we needed that run. I thought I could make it so I kept coming."

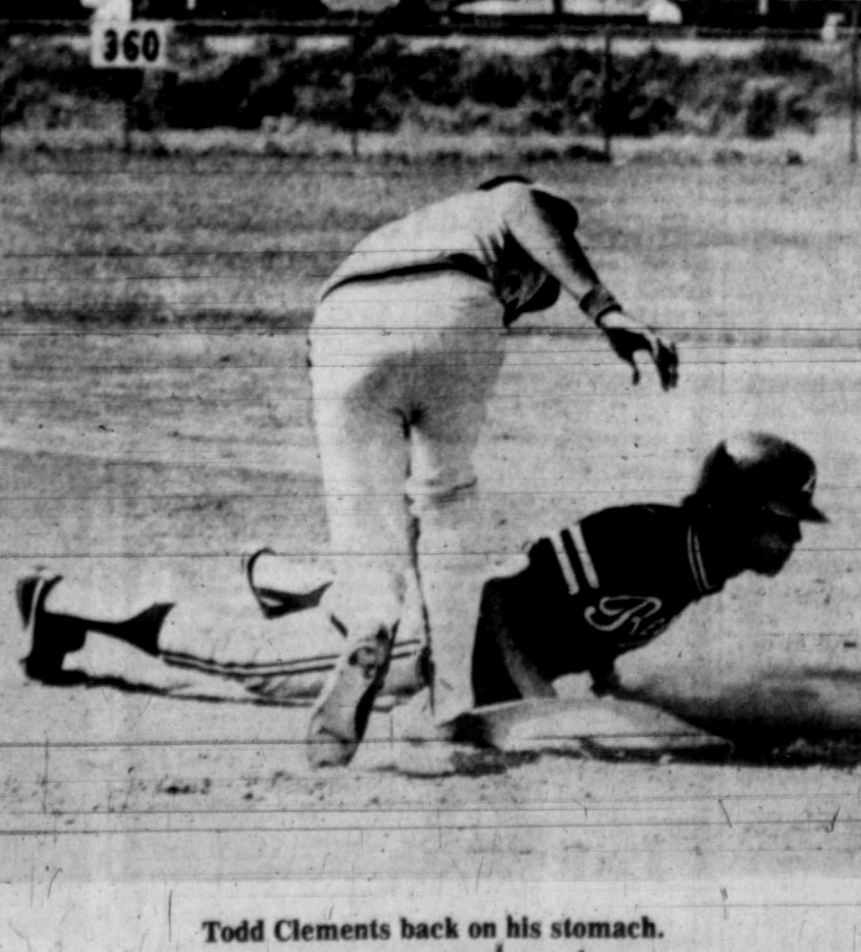

Sullivan added "I don't think they pay too much attention to me over there ... I'm glad it happened like it did."

Baylor is the only unbeaten team left in the double elimination tournament and faced unbeaten Mississippi State, which beat Pan-American 7-5 in 11 innings Sunday night. Baylor and Mississippi State play at 6 p.m. today.

The tournament winner gets a ticket to the College Baseball World Series at Omaha in June.

Simons takes Memorial win over Nicklaus

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — Jim Simons tamed his nerves, his idol and one of America's toughest golf courses all at once. His dividends were unprecedented — a cherished conquest of Jack Nicklaus and his biggest payday Sunday in seven years of tour activity, $50,000 as the Memorial Tournament champion.

Aside from a fist punched skyward after his clinching 21-foot putt at No. 18, Simons showed none of the nervousness he would reveal moments later. "I haven't relaxed all week. I'm very relieved today is over," said the 28-year-old Pennsylvanian after he unseated his idol, Nicklaus, with a closing 2-over-par 74 for a total of 284.

"A lot of guys won't admit it," he said, "but it's a continual battle to fight your nerves. This is a high pressure business we're in. I'm so intense I can't play a lot of weeks in a row."

Simons met and whipped that obstacle, repulsing a belated Nicklaus charge and nipping Bill Kratzert by a single shot. Kratzert, earning $28,500, closed with a 74 for 285. Fuzzy Zoeller was third with 70-287.

Nicklaus, a triple bogey at 4 and a double bogey at 17 ruining his challenge, settled for a fourth-place tie at 288 with Ed Snead and Masters champion Gary Player. Snead had a final 71 and Player a 74.

Those six players were the only ones in the original international field of 105 that equaled or bettered par over the water-logged layout. Simons uncovered a masterful short game. The Wake Forest College product had nine 1-putt greens in the closing round. He needed just 56 putts the last two days.

Five of Simon's 1-putters came in the last 7 holes. The biggest of all was on the final hole, where he faced a treacherous downhill putt. Simons felt he had two advantages though. "I played a practice round with Tom Kite. He told me Nicklaus said the putt from above the hole is straight. It appears to break left. That's an optical illusion."

"Rod Curl (his second playing partner) had about the same putt ahead of me. He played it out to the right. It stayed out to the right. I played mine straight at the hole." After Simons holed the putt, Nicklaus congratulated him and said, "Fantastic."

Kratzert watched the putt from behind sun glasses with no emotion near the scoring tent. "It was a helluva putt for all the marbles," he said.

Andretti nabs win ZOLDER, Belgium (AP) — Colin Chapman's latest creation, in which Mario Andretti won the Belgian Grand Prix, has his competitors scrambling after a man they once thought washed up.

Andretti won the Belgian Grand Prix Sunday in Chapman's new Lotus 78, and Andretti's teammate, Ronnie Peterson, placed second in the older Lotus 78 for a one-two sweep.

Not bad for an old man everyone said was washed up three years ago," Chapman said. His rivals agree that Chapman, 50 last Friday, has again come up with a major development in race car design after several dry years.

After setting the fastest time in qualifying Friday, Andretti called the Lotus 79 "fantastic, and getting better and better."

Barrera plans take with jockey

BALTIMORE (AP) — Laz Barrera, trainer of Triple Crown hopeful Affirmed, plans to have a father-and-son talk with jockey Steve Cautchen in New York.

Upset because Cautchen didn't meet with him for a pre-Preakness strategy talk, Barrera said Sunday: "I'm mad at Cautchen as I would be with my own son if he did something wrong."

Cautchen, the 18-year-old wonder boy who was the top jockey last year in winners and earnings (more than $6 million), had been riding at Aqueduct last week and didn't arrive at Pimlico until Saturday morning.

"Displaying an empty soft-drink can, Barrera said, 'This was my breakfast and my lunch yesterday. I was here (in the barn area) all morning, working and waiting for him to come talk with me. But I had nobody to talk to but my groom.'"

Barrera said he finally gave instructions to Cautchen while saddling Affirmed in the busy moments just before the race. "The Triple Crown only comes one time," Barrera added. "I will sit down and talk to him like a father. But don't get me wrong. I like Steve and I'm proud of him."

Milwaukee's Cecil Cooper said of the Brewers' batting coach. "I told him that every time I swing at a high fastball I'd give him a dollar. I did it once last night and he said, 'You owe me one.'"

"Today he said, 'We're even.'" Cooper added after his fourth hit, a two-out single off a Dave LaRoche fastball in the ninth inning, beat California. "I would have owed him two dollars but because I got a hit he let me go."

Twins 3, Royals 2 Rod Carew is at it again. The AL's six-time batting champ went 3-for-4, drove in two runs and raised his average to .407 in the Twins' triumph.

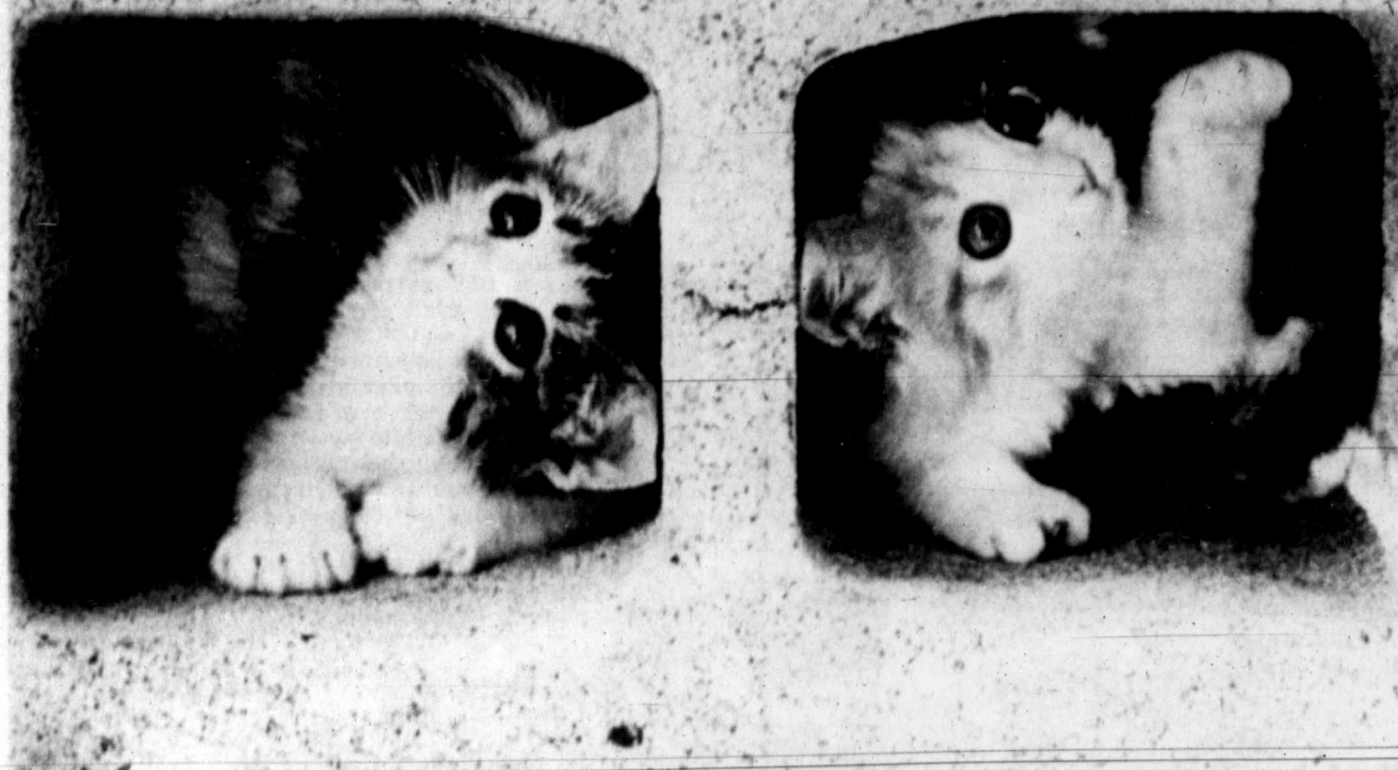

He doubled in the fourth inning and scored on Dan Ford's single. In the sixth he doubled to score Bob Randall and Willie Norwood.

Rangers 5, Mariners 4 Al Oliver had three runs batted in, one of them on a ninth-inning, two-out double, in the Rangers' victory. Winner Doyle Alexander gave up all four Seattle runs on a pair of Bob Stinson homers.

Raw sewage leak now ended, but water problem hangs on

WEST PLAINS, Mo. (AP) — Although the leak has been plugged, officials say they do not know how long it will be before the raw sewage dumped into underground caverns in northern Arkansas and southern Missouri flushes out. At least 700 people were reported ill last week with an intestinal disturbance apparently contracted from drinking the tainted water. At least 10 were hospitalized.

Bottled water was selling for as much as $1 a gallon in much of the area and residents of Oregon and Howell counties in Missouri and Sharp, Baxter, Fulton and Randolph counties in Arkansas were urged to boil their drinking and cooking water. One area official said there were likely hundreds more who were not seeking medical help. "We've got some people who just figure they're sick," said A.D. Pierce, mayor of nearby Thayer, Mo. "And we've got some who are just too poor and too ignorant to know enough to boil water even if they hear the warning."

And Pierce said others were scared. "They don't know where to turn. They don't know where all this is going to end." An estimated 25,000 rural residents of the six affected counties depend on well water that was contaminated as the sewage descended into the groundwater. Municipal water supplies in the area treated with chlorine were not affected. After several days of work, the leaking sewage was finally stopped Friday after about 25 million gallons had seeped into underground water supplies. Although workers were unable to complete a diking operation, an earthen wall was built far enough across the lagoon to block the sewage from draining through three large holes in the lagoon's floor.

Twenty-five Missouri National Guard trucks carrying 10,000 gallons of fresh water rolled into West Plains on Friday and 60 guardsmen were on hand to assist in the relief operation. Fecal coliform, an intestinal-tract bacteria found in man and animals, was believed responsible for the sickness. An Environmental Protection Agency official from Kansas City, Dan Harris, estimated there are 10,000 wells in the area. "We can test for fecal coliform relatively quickly, but getting a fix on what else is in the sewage is going to be a time-consuming and expensive process," he said.

Hearings promote politics

By JAY PERKINS

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is nothing like a congressional hearing to give an aspiring Senate candidate a boost in the old campaign.

Particularly if you can get a half-dozen top administration officials — including a couple of White House advisors — to appear in supporting roles.

And if you can find a newsworthy topic — say drug smuggling — to discuss, so much the better.

New Mexico Attorney General Toney Anaya, a candidate for the Senate seat now held by Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., put it all together during a recent appearance before a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee.

And although his testimony was not exactly bathed in the floodlights of television cameras, he can only hope that his campaign goes half as smooth as his hearing.

Anaya admittedly had a purpose, other than political aspirations, for his appearance before the subcommittee. And the deference given him by other witnesses clearly could be ascribed to his work in the past year to get the federal government to improve its ability to catch drug traffickers.

But the problems of combatting drug trafficking is one of his campaign issues. And his appearance before a Senate subcommittee, surrounded by top administration officials, obviously could not hurt his campaign.

This certainly was not the first time Democrats — or Republicans, too, for that matter — have rolled out the carpet for an aspiring candidate. Former New York Knicks basketball star Bill Bradley, a Democratic candidate for the Senate seat held by Republican Clifford Case, got a similarly nice reception in a recent appearance before another committee.

More than a dozen reporters were on hand as Anaya told a Senate subcommittee how his state's efforts to halt drug smuggling often are ruined because of overlapping investigations by one — and sometimes two and three — federal agencies.

He also told how drug smugglers were far better financed — and sometimes far better armed — than the state and federal officials who were trying to catch them.

And then, in response to a friendly question from Sen. George McGovern, D-S.C., the subcommittee chairman, he told how he eventually became so frustrated with the federal effort that he opened his own talks with Mexican officials in hopes of gaining their cooperation in curbing drug trafficking.

Although Anaya was only one of seven members of a panel which included officials such as White House health advisor Peter Bourne and various top drug enforcement officials, he clearly was the star.

McGovern greeted him warmly before the hearing and directed several questions his way during the course of the panel discussion.

The articulate Anaya led off the testimony, speaking for more than 15 minutes as he summarized his 27 page statement. He answered most of the questions during his appearance.

And the other witnesses often answered questions put to them by including a statement in praise of Anaya.

Despite the smoothness of the hearing, the attorney general faces a rough battle for Domenici's seat.

Although he has the blessing of the state Democratic party in the June 6 primary — all other candidates on the ballot are write-ins — he has alienated some powerful party leaders.

His decision to indict a Democratic national committeeman from New Mexico on charges of bribery and conspiracy to solicit a bribe did not make him universally popular within the party.

That committeeman, Rudy Ortiz, recently was acquitted of the charges.

Anaya also appears to be having trouble financing his race. Federal Election Commission records show as of April 10, Domenici had collected $405,889. Anaya, who did not become a candidate until well into the reporting period, reported collecting $5,375 and spending $4,000 of that.

Snake biter mum, gets off lightly

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP) — Naomi Mildred Anderson testified in Burke County District Court that what Keith Spurling did to her pet boa constrictor was about as low as a person could stoop.

As spectators, lawyers and Assistant District Attorney Laird Jacob fought to hide their smiles, Miss Anderson told the court how Spurling, 18, for no apparent reason, bit a half-inch off the tail of her 46-inch constrictor.

"I told him that's as low as you can get," she told Judge Sam Tate. "I told him I'd rather have him hit me or knock my tooth out than have him do that."

The snake, named Daniel, rested in her handbag, while Miss Anderson testified.

She said she was sitting in her car with a man when Spurling came over and asked if the snake would hurt him. Miss Anderson said no, and Spurling began stroking the reptile.

All of a sudden, she testified, he took a nip off of its tail. She said she got out of the car and hurled a curse at Spurling. After the trial, Spurling told a reporter she also had slapped him.

The prosecutor asked Miss Anderson to show the court the snake and offered it to the judge for examination. But he declined.

Spurling, who is from Morganton, pleaded no contest to the charge of injury to personal property. He did not officially testify and he has refused to say why he bit the snake's tail. But he did tell the court that he did not eat the portion of the tail he bit off.

He said the tail came off easily and he spit it out. After hearing Miss Anderson's account, the judge gave Spurling a suspended jail sentence, ordered him to pay $27 in court costs and $25 to Miss Anderson for damages.
