Beige by the Mile!

It's nearly harvest time for West Texas' wheat crop, and the prospect is good with uniform stands noted in almost all of irrigated sections, says County Agent J. K. Adams. This field west of Muleshoe is typical. (Journal Photo)

Growing Season Booms!

Bailey county farmers, some still barred from their fields by last week's heavy rains, sat back this week and surveyed the situation. And most of them came up with the decision that the crop picture is a bright one. Hail and wind were, for the most part, missing from the weather picture in this county, and that always pleases farmers, especially those who view their waving wheat with pride but also with considerable anxiety.

Because this is the season of the year when wheat growers hold their breaths until after the combines have made their clumsy rounds through the fields.

J. K. Adams, county agent, in summing up the situation said the heavy rains in the eastern and northeastern parts of the county "amounted to the equivalent of a good irrigation in many places. Lighter rains in the western areas served to furnish young shallow rooted crops with temporary moisture that will need to be supplemented by irrigation almost immediately. A bit of sanding was going on in some places; the sand following those rains may have proved more damaging than scattered hail. Sand-fighters were at work and other crust-breaking machinery on almost every farm in Bailey county.

"This rain," Adams said, "coming at the early growing season was of considerable benefit to nearly every farmer in this county. Nearly all Bailey county has allotted crops planted and up to a good stand.

"Recent rains will allow several dryland farmers to have a planting season which heretofore had been short on planting moisture," he figured.

"Corn and grain sorghum are getting into the swing of a very rapid growth period."

"One fly in the bright picture, however, is the thrip

Rufus Makes Another Trip

Rufus the Mule is widely traveled.

In fact, he's probably the most widely-traveled mule in Texas, says Carl White, president of the Muleshoe Jaycees. But Rufus travels in style -- in a trailer and not on own little (but vicious) hoofs.

Rufus's latest trip was to Pampa last weekend to the area convention. Rufus was among those who made the trip.

"Rufus made it just fine," says White, "and he came home in fine spirit and ready and looking forward to the next Jaycee convention."

The next convention, incidentally, is the national confab in Detroit in August. White hasn't said whether Rufus will make that trek.

Carol and John on Capitol Steps

County Youths Visit Capitol On Eastern Tour

Carol Haire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Haire, and John Gulley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Davis Gulley, both of Route 2, Muleshoe, are among more than 80 young people visiting Washington, D. C. this week on the "Government in Action Youth Tour" sponsored by the rural electric systems of Texas.

The three-bus caravan left Dallas on June 3, and traveled to the nation's capital by way of Little Rock, Nashville and Roanoke. After five days in Washington, the group returned to Dallas June 14, via Knoxville, Memphis, and Texarkana.

Carol and John, winners of oratorical contests sponsored by Bailey County Electric Cooperative, will have a set of colored slides of their trip for showing to any interested group.

Letters received by Bailey County Electric Cooperative from John Gulley and Carol Haire while on trip were as follows:

"I want to thank you so much for offering this wonderful trip to Carol and I. I'm enjoying it very much. I'm writing this on the bus to Nashville, and my handwriting may be a little irregular, but I felt I had to tell you what a wonderful experience this trip is to me. I think it is the opportunity of a lifetime for me. I'll remember it forever, and I wish every young person was as lucky as I feel today. Thank you again." John Gulley.

"I'm having a wonderful time in Washington. We just heard President Johnson speak. I believe this is the most wonderful thing that I've ever done and I want you to know how much I appreciate you giving me this opportunity. I'm very anxious to share my wonderful experiences with you." Carol Haire.

Howard Attends Tower Reelection Campaign Confab

Lester Howard of Needmore, Bailey County Chairman for the re-election campaign of U. S. Senator John Tower, has just returned from a week-end outing in Amarillo with the senator.

Howard met with Senator Tower and his staff from Austin and chairmen from throughout the Panhandle region of Texas. At the meeting Saturday at the Holiday Inn West, Howard and other chairmen present listened to staff members explain various aspects of the campaign. The chairmen also asked questions and made suggestions.

Senator Tower gave a general rundown of the campaign and thanked the chairmen who had traveled long distances to attend the meeting.

"With interested, hard-working individuals like you working in our campaign, we are looking forward to a victory in November," said Tower.

Contract Let for New Parallel Route for West Side of County

Contract for paving of a badly-needed FM north-south road in Bailey county has been let to a Lubbock firm, Kerr Construction Co. The road is FM 2487 which starts at Baileyboro and runs north to connect with FH 746, an east-west farm road.

The announcement of the contract-letting was made by Rhea E. Bradley, Littlefield, district engineer, Texas Highway Department, from the state headquarters in Austin.

The FM paving project in Bailey county is linked with another FM project in this area, FM1072 in Lamb county. The Kerr firm's low bid for grading, structures, base and surfacing amounted to $213,573.62, the highway department said. The total contract is for 12.491 miles of road and the Bailey county project measures 7 miles which means that the majority of the program is in this county.

County Judge Glen Williams said FM 2487 runs north from the Baileyboro cemetery to the Longview church where it intersects FM 746 southwest of Muleshoe.

Construction is to get under way immediately and work must be completed within 180 working days, the contract says.

Work also is well along on a county-financed project to open a new route to the New Mexico line to connect with a new project in that state leading to Portales.

That route extends west from the Tom Smith place on the west terminus of FM 1760 west of Muleshoe, a distance of 7 1/2 miles to the Texas-New Mexico state line.

The work on the Texas side has been speeded since last week's rains made it possible to resume grading. Much of the route is through sandy soil and would have been difficult to build before the rain, Judge Williams had said.

The route is practically finished on the New Mexico side to the state line and when the route is opened, it will cut the distance from Muleshoe to Portales some 15 miles. "Many people from the Muleshoe area he pointed out, attend school at Eastern New Mexico University in Portales, which means the new route will be used extensively when it is opened," the judge concluded.

Only one piece of property remains to be disposed of on U. S. 84 before final clearing of the right-of-way for the widening program can be started. Judge Williams said a four-room house located near the old Blondie Puckett corner is to be sold by the state to the highest bidder next Wednesday.

Work of clearing the right-of-way for that road has been underway for some time, and virtually all electric lines have now been moved back, it was explained.

Many New Acts Booked For Saturday Jamboree

A number of "first time" acts are being booked for Saturday night's regular monthly "Jamboree", sponsored by the Go-Go committee of the Muleshoe chamber of commerce.

This was the word of Doyle Trapp, program arranger for the Saturday night monthly events. He said "new faces and new talent" will be seen at this show which will be held this month for the first time in the air-conditioned high school cafeteria instead of the auditorium (which is NOT air-conditioned.)

Admission fee will be the same as last month - $1 for adults and 50 cents for students, according to Olan Burrows, Jamboree chairman and Harvey Bass, overall chairman for the Go-Go activities.

Trapp said a new group to be heard this Saturday is "The Honeysuckles" from Lazbuddie, a rock and roll band composed of Terry Parham, Gary Matthews, Kirby Burch and Troy Steinbock. "The Playmates" from Muleshoe, Sheryl Mason, Renee Dyer and Beverly Anderson, are to play, and a trio composed of John Black, Sherri Smith and Linda Griffith is to be heard.

A trio from Bula, "The Tri-Tones" will appear, but Trapp did not have the name of the combo.

An exceptional baritone, "Bill Simmons" from Dimmitt, will do a group of folk songs.

July 4 Talent Being Sought

Talent for the big Fourth of July talent contest to be held at Benny Douglas stadium is needed.

So says Kenneth Henry, chairman of this year's event which annually is sponsored by the Muleshoe chamber of commerce "in appreciation for the many, many fine customers who make Muleshoe businesses a success."

Prizes will be given to the winning contestants in the July 4th finals, and the big program will end with an elaborate fireworks show as in past years. This year's event, however, put on by Earl Ladd and his fire-fighters will be bigger than ever.

The talent show will be held at 2 p.m. in the high school auditorium and entries will be accepted as late as that time. "However," the chairman said, "we would appreciate it greatly if people who plan to enter the contest will drop by Cobb's and list their names with Roger Albertson, chairman of that division."

Winners in the afternoon events will be presented that evening in the finals - some 15 to 20 acts to appear on the final show.

Henry said that the exact amount of the prizes to be given in the talent contest will be determined by the amount of money raised for financing the entire event. "We will know just how much money we will have within a few days," Henry explained, "but, in any event, the prizes will be worthwhile, and, of course, will be in cash."

Division Heads For United Fund Are Announced

The budget and admissions committee met last Saturday morning and approved $150 additional grant for the Babe Ruth league. At the time the budget for 1965 had been made, the Babe Ruth League representative, Muri Stevens, told the committee that his group would need additional money but they did not know the exact amount at that time.

Mrs. Bernard Phelps is chairman of the B & A committee. Others present included Jim Cox, who was elected vice-chairman; Robert Hooten, secretary; and Joe Harbin, Robert Alford, Roy Whit and Gil Lamb.

The Executive Committee of the 1966 Muleshoe Area United Fund held a recent meeting for the purpose of appointing Division Chairmen for the annual drive. The drive is planned to kick-off in October. Mary Pool

College 'Board' Is Being Formed

A steering committee to promote creation of a junior college in this area is being named, Alex Williams, temporary junior college chairman, told the Muleshoe Rotary Club Tuesday.

He said the state board has agreed to "look at our plan for a junior college" after the steering committee is named. The proposed district will be made up of four school districts in Parmer county, three in Bailey and four in Lamb county.

Bryan Brady Speaks to TOPS Club on Food

Bryan Brady spoke on proper diet, vitamins, food supplements and exercise for the eye in form of food and exercises at the Jenny TOPS meeting Thursday evening.

The group of weight losers met in the community room of the Bailey County Electric Co-op with their leader, Lauranette Mason in charge of the business meeting.

The group recited the TOPS pledge in unison followed by singing the fellowship song by the 18 members present and four guests. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Brady, Mrs. George Crane and her granddaughter, Mickie Langford.

In Brady's talk he told how he had worn glasses for 7 years and began eye exercise and can now do without his glasses. Brady says with proper books on eye exercise, it has been proven that 85% of the people who wear glasses, can do without them with proper exercise of the eye. Also many do not eat proper foods for the eye, this will also help.

Ruth Clements was pronounced queen for the week and her courtesses were Dean Myers and Bernice Splawn. Mrs. Clements received the crown and a gift from the gift box as her reward for losing the most weight during the past week.

There was some discussion on the tuberculosis meeting to be held June 28. Ruth Clements was appointed by the club to represent the TOPS club at this meeting.

The club also discussed the possibility of having a float for the July 4th parade.

Side two will host the winning side one to a salad supper at Thursday's meeting which will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Bailey County Electric Co-op meeting room.

You can stretch that chile con carne and give it an interesting garnish, too, by sprinkling the meat-and-bean mixture with chopped hard-cooked egg. Use an egg for each serving and coarsely chop it.

More Knowledge Needed, Tells Students Expert

Science, business and politics are moving at a faster pace than ever before. Students must prepare themselves to adjust to the ever-changing world, says Mrs. Elsie Short, Extension home management specialist at Texas A & M University.

What you learn in school today will help you meet the changes of tomorrow. Are you going to be ready for one of those top jobs? Whether you make your way to the top depends upon what you are doing now to prepare yourself for the future.

Today's student has three factors to face which earlier groups of students did not; the increased amount of knowledge in the world; the advanced stages of education given every pupil; and the pressure of ever-improving techniques.

Thousands of companies are going to succeed or fail 20 years from now depending upon whether you or some other youth has learned to understand the technical and social effects of change and respond to them effectively.

Mrs. Short suggests that the most efficient tool, whether it is a computer or a research microscope, is only an extension of man's capabilities. In order to use existing tools or to invent and use new tools, you must develop capabilities.

This means not only spending more time in school, but spending that time in a well-organized effort to learn. You need to adopt some principles of your ancestors, adapt a little to meet changed circumstances, accept a little from other people's experiences, and add a few tricks of your own.

Read, study about and visit as many different businesses and talk with as many professional people as possible. Keep up with the happenings in your community, state, and nation as well as what goes on in the foreign countries.

Knowledge about many different occupations will help you decide what preparation you need for the future. Remember, also, you may need to make adjustments anywhere along the line. You must be ready and willing to meet the challenge.

This insect is bothering the cotton, the damage causing curling of young leaves and the stinging of tiny squares before they are visible to the naked eye.

"However," Adams said, "generally over the Bailey county cotton area, thrip damage has not been severe enough to call for control measures."

He said farmers are urged to watch the young leaves of cotton on a day-to-day basis, and control according to "The Guide for Control of Cotton Insects in Bailey County" which is available at the county agent's offices.

Along with grain sorghum, corn and wheat which are making progress, commercial Irish potatoes are showing progress, he said. The potatoes, he said, have "reached broiler size and there is the promise of an excellent crop."

He says the county has some 340 acres of the commercial spuds.

Tomato acreage also is high this year with several hundred already seeded. The recent rains will delay irrigation for a few days.

The turbulent weather, Adams said, caused some lodging of tall wheat, but no reports of severe hail damage gives evidence that a high-standing, irrigated crop soon will be rolling to market. But it's a different picture with dryland wheat which is considered poor.

Again speaking of the cotton crop, Adams said; "The cotton crop has probably the most uniform stand in the history of Bailey county."

"The use of 'in furrow' fungicides should be given credit for the lack of seeding disease in fields where cotton has been grown for many years without interruption."

Football Assists In Rehabilitation

MELBOURNE (AP) — Each week prisoners from the Boolarra prison farm, 100 miles from Melbourne, go out to play football for the local club. Twelve prisoners are good enough to get into the Boolarra side, although they are under guard when playing. They arrive at the field in a prison van, and after the match are returned to prison.

Football is part of the rehabilitation program for the selected prisoners who get recreation leave.

Secretary of the Boolarra team, John Pascoe, says: "There is no disharmony between the local players and the prison players. They are all good mates. They never abuse the privilege and there has never been any trouble."

President of the club, Ian Richardson, says some of the prisoners had come back to play with the club after their release. He said the club asked the farm to let the prisoners play with it.

"This is our way to help rehabilitate these chaps," he says. "Once or twice a year we all go to the farm and have a night with them."

Broader Use of Cotton in Rugs Offers Needed Outlet for Cotton

Use of an additional 755 thousand bales, requiring an average of 688 thousand acres to produce, could become a reality if cotton takes full advantage of its opportunities in just one market -- rugs.

This was one of many examples cited here today of how cotton can benefit greatly from expanded research and promotion effectively administered by growers. Roy Forkner, of Lubbock, chairman of the High Plains Steering Committee for the Cotton Producers Institute, presided at the meeting of CPI Founders Committee members and other cotton industry leaders.

"The only way we can protect and expand our markets, acreages, and incomes is to get more cotton used in rugs and hundreds of other products," Mr. Forkner said.

He added: "Our research and promotion needs have been blue printed and we have trained people to operate our programs. What we desperately need is adequate funds to cash in on our opportunities."

Explaining the grower-developed research and promotion proposal (HR-12322) would provide such funds, Mr. Forkner urged all who have a stake in cotton to support and work for approval of the plan.

He said farmers, processors, and cotton communities cannot live with the acreage reduction averaging 30 per cent this year that necessarily accompanies a record carryover of cotton.

Details of cotton's present battle for survival and the grower proposal were spelled out by Clifton Kirkpatrick, Memphis, and Earle Younts, Lubbock, of the Council's field service department.

A report on current programs revealed research financed by the Cotton Producers Institute is helping cotton make a comeback in permanent press markets involving several million bales of cotton a year.

It also was explained that CPI's award-winning promotion to assess themselves $1 per bale would push producer funds to the $12-to-$15 million range annually. Coupled with the Council's revenue, this would give the cotton industry direct control over a total research and promotion program of $15 to $18 million a year.

Since experience shows industry money can be doubled through cooperative efforts, cotton could fight back with a minimum program of $25 to $35 million annually, it was explained.

Exhibited were some 17 blueprints covering a wide range of proposed projects for production and product improvement research, as well as detailed promotion needs.

The speaker said that due to lack of funds, cotton has barely scratched the surface of the promotional needs in the vast women's and girl's wear markets. It desperately needs to counter threats to the 2-million bale men's and boy's wear market and to home furnishings, a market using some 2.5 million bales a year.

In explaining the Cotton Research and Promotion proposal, the speakers said a "yes" vote by two-thirds of producers voting, or by two-thirds of the volume of those voting in the referendum, is required to put the plan into effect.

Since it would be a self-help program, paid for by growers, it would be controlled by them. Initiation and direction of all research and promotion projects will rest solely with a Beltwide producer organization.

RESEARCH PAYOFF--Farmer-financed research has helped put all cotton permanent pressed shirts on the market, thus boosting grower efforts to toss aside synthetic fibers. Examining the no-iron fabric are (left to right) A. M. McBee, Kenneth Hanks and Bill Miller, Muleshoe area growers. At the meeting in Lubbock, growers overwhelmingly endorsed the Cotton Research and Promotion Act. They instructed the Chairman to write Texas senators and urge their support and leadership in obtaining speedy passage of the measure.

Governing body of the Beltwide producer group will be selected by approved producer groups in each state, and representation will be in proportion to production and contributions.

Income Tax Tattletales

Last year, Uncle Sam collected an extra $13 million in income taxes because somebody tattled for pay.

Most tips about income tax fraud come in anonymously, from people seeking no reward beyond the satisfaction of doing their duty—or of getting even with someone they don't like.

But in 1965, a typical year, 4,000 informers filed formal claims for a reward. And the government paid out $600,000 for their information.

The practice of paying money for tax tips has existed ever since the early days of the republic. In each year's budget Congress sets aside a specific sum for this purpose.

There are those who condemn the whole idea. They argue that tattling is unsportsmanlike, not in keeping with our traditions. Certainly, generations of American readers have despised Tom Sawyer's half brother Sid for tattling on Tom to Aunt Polly.

On the other hand, tax cheaters are not as endearing as Tom Sawyer. And, as one court put it:

"It is the duty of every citizen to communicate to his government any information which he has of the commission of an offense against its laws."

The Internal Revenue Service takes no position on fine philosophical grounds. Its job is simply to collect all the money that the government has coming—and informers are a big help. Using them not only puts the IRS on the track of cheaters but also helps to keep many a tempted citizen honest.

How much can an informer collect? Up to 10 percent of what the government recovers, which can be considerable. However, the exact amount is left largely to the discretion of the IRS.

In one case an informer sued the government, complaining that he wasn't paid as much as his information was worth. But he got nowhere. The court said the IRS is obliged to make an honest evaluation of services rendered, but is not obliged to pay what others may consider a fair sum.

On another way, too, the IRS has the last word. For the informer, having won his reward, must then pay income tax on it.

In fact, there have even been cases in which informers themselves were fined for failing to pay the tax on their reward.

Six French divers have lived and worked on the ocean floor for three weeks without surfacing.

'Imported' Water Is Due for Texas

(Editor's Note - The following article appeared in "The Cross Section", the monthly publication of the High Plains Undergrround Water Conservation District No. 1, Lubbock.)

The distant future of West Texas and its giant agricultural economy is dependent on the importation of water.

The High Plains of Texas contains about one-third of the potentially irrigable lands of Texas. It is estimated that the 5.1 million acres of land irrigated in 1964 will increase to at least 7.1 million acres in 1980 and to 8.6 million acres by 2020 if sufficient water at a reasonable cost can be imported. Unless an adequate supply of irrigation water is made available to continue and expand our irrigation farming, large areas will retrogress to dry land farming and could cause quite an economic loss to the area, the state and the nation.

Studies for the State water plan have revealed conclusively that there is not sufficient water in East Texas in excess of higher priority needs to make it feasible to transport water from East Texas to West Texas for irrigation. The plan further reveals that if the water were available it would cost $168 per acre foot to deliver it to the High Plains from East Texas. High Plains farmers are now spending approximately $15 per acre foot for the water they extract from the Ogallala formation.

Officials of the Texas Water Development Board and members of their planning group have revealed that out-of-State sources will have to be relied on for a supplement supply of irrigation water.

What alternatives do West Texans have to explore?

A present alternative is to be prudent in the use of available ground water. By conserving and cutting down on the consumption and waste, several years of irrigated production can be assured. Researchers are diligently working on the development of crops that require small amounts of water but yet produce good yields. Their efforts will contribute greatly to the conservation of water.

Two long range water importation plans are now being pursued by West Texans and the Texas Water Development Board.

One is the proposed federal study of the Colorado River Basin Regional Water Supply

Plan. This Plan is known as HR 4671. The object of this act is to provide a program for the further comprehensive development of the water resources of the lower Colorado River Basin and for the provision of additional and adequate water supplies for use in the upper as well as in the lower Colorado River Basin.

Representative George Mahon of Lubbock and Walter Rodgers of Pampa, as well as the High Plains Water District, Texas Water Development Board and the Water for the Future Committee of the West Texas Water Institute have been working diligently to have West Texas included in this study.

If West Texas is included in this study it may reveal that irrigation water can be imported to the area cheap enough to maintain and increase our irrigated acres and crop production.

Another plan under study is the NAWAPA concept of the Ralph M. Parsons Company. This plan is a water collection and distribution system utilizing the surplus waters of Alaska, the Northwest Territories and the Rocky Mountain regions of Canada. West Texas is presently included in this plan and has been allocated twelve million acre feet annually for irrigation in West Texas.

The cost of the water will be offset by the sale of power generated by the series of dams proposed by the concept. It is hoped that the water can be delivered to West Texas at a cost of fifteen to seventeen dollars per acre foot.

If a source of irrigation water is not found for West Texas total irrigated acreage in the region is expected to "peak out" at a little less than six million acres about 1980, up from the current 5.1 million, according to the Texas Water Development Board.

Gradual acreage reduction overall, will then ensue until by 2020 only about 2.2 million acres can be expected to be supportable with ground water. Early studies reveal that it would be physically feasible to import substantial quantities of water to meet irrigation demands in this area from the North and Northwest areas of the United States.

If sufficient irrigation water can be imported to West Texas at the same relative cost that it is now costing the irrigator to pump from the Ogallala, the irrigated acreage in West Texas could be expanded to 10.7 million acres and there would be sufficient market demand to take care of the production by 2020.

Storage of water would be no problem in West Texas. Water could be imported around the clock and stored in the greatest natural underground facility that has no evaporation or leakage -- the Ogallala formation. The water could be withdrawn and used for irrigation or municipal principal demands with little or no treating needed for purification.

Importation of water to West Texas is not only a local and State problem but a National one also. If this area is not supplied with adequate irrigation water the nation's food and fiber supply will be greatly cut.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sand-hills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm has heard of the latest educational proposal, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor:
 According to an article I read in a newspaper which a bunch of high school kids threw out of a car as they drove by my johnson grass farm the other day whooping and hollering over the start of their summer vacation, a special committee sponsored by the National Education Association has come out with the proposal that all children ought to start school at age 4.

The committee reported that there are over 8 million four-and-five-year-olds in this country, they're capable of being taught, and they ought to be in school. Add two grades below what's now the first grade and get these kids off the streets or out of their backyards or play pens or wherever they are and into school, although the committee didn't use exactly that language.

While I hadn't known before we had a problem of 4-year-olds ripping around on their tricycles, still it's a fact that they do get under foot, and if you can turn them over to somebody else at 4 instead of 6, that's two years gained. Vacations are not just for children.

I have not heard it proposed yet that when the starting age is lowered to 4, the draft age will automatically drop to 16, but I suppose it will follow, if some way can be worked out to give a boy of that age a license to drive a tank. Naturally the retirement age also will drop a corresponding amount, which I'm sure in favor of, as I've always thought it was ridiculous to wait till you're too old to enjoy it to retire.

 After we get the 4-year-olds in school and eliminate the 3-months summer vacation, with night classes for all pupils at least four nights a week, plus some school-sponsored activities on the weekends, raising kids will be a snap. Nearly anybody ought to be able to stand his own kids the first three years of their lives.
 Yours faithfully,
 J.A.
