Three rooms of historic French palace damaged

VERSAILLES, France (AP) — A powerful bomb planted behind a statue exploded early today in the historic Palace of Versailles, wrecking three rooms of Napoleonic art and damaging seven others in the ornate complex that is in one of the jewels of French culture. A guard was slightly injured.

There were no reports of damage to the Hall of Mirrors, where the World War I peace treaty was signed, or to the royal apartments, the opera house and the chapel that are the chief tourist attractions in the vast 17th century palace 11 miles southwest of Paris.

Three militant groups — two leftist and one Breton separatist — claimed responsibility for the 2 a.m. bomb blast. But police gave little credence to any of the claims.

Hubert Landais, director of French museums, said one large painting of Napoleon was almost destroyed and 15 more paintings and wall panels were heavily damaged. He estimated the restoration cost at $1 million — possibly higher if, as feared, an exterior stone wall suffered structural damage.

"Some (paintings) are in ribbons," said Versailles curator Gerald van der Kamp. "They can be restored, but it will be like a jigsaw puzzle."

Police were tipped at 9 a.m., seven hours after the blast, that another bomb would go off in one of the two Trianon palaces in the palace park. Some art works were removed, but bomb experts found nothing, and the Grand Trianon opened for tours as usual. The main palace is closed on Mondays.

The explosion occurred in the Midi Wing of the main palace, to the left of the front entrance, and wrecked the three-room Empire Suite on the ground floor which was opened to the public May 16 by President Valery Giscard d'Estaing.

Jean Dumont, chief architect at the palace, told reporters the bomb blasted a hole — said by other sources to measure 10 by 12 feet — into the floor of the Gallery of Battles on the second floor. "But there does not appear to be other damage in the Gallery of Battles," he said.

He denied earlier reports that the damage extended to the third floor.

Officials said it was the first such attack they could recall on the palace.

The explosive was hidden in a small room in an alcove behind a statue, Dumont said. It was not known how or when it was placed there, but police noted that a Sunday evening festival had given the public access to the palace grounds until almost midnight.

Supreme Court reverses decision giving media access to prison

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court narrowly ruled today that news organizations have no special right of access to investigate prisons and other government-run institutions other than what is granted to the general public.

In a 4-3 decision written by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, the court denied news reporters from an educational radio-television station special access to investigate conditions at the Alameda County, Calif., Jail.

Burger said the Constitution does not mandate "a right of access to government information or sources of information within the government's control. The media has no special right of access to the Alameda County jail different from or greater than that accorded the public generally."

The ruling essentially affirmed a pair of 1974 decisions by the Supreme Court involving California state prisons and federal penitentiaries.

The TV station in the latest case, KQED, challenged those earlier decisions. The station contended the right of access to the Alameda jail was so limited that it hindered effective investigation by the news media at the jail.

U.S. pressure keeping Israeli peace move alive

By NICOLAS B. TATRO

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Egypt and Israel have rejected each other's latest proposals for Israeli-occupied Arab lands, but U.S. pressure is keeping the peace effort going.

President Anwar Sadat on Saturday turned down Israel's offer to talk about the status of the West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip after a five-year period of limited self-rule for the 1.1 million Palestinians of the two territories.

hopes to get Israel and Egypt talking again and is pressing ahead with a summer diplomatic drive praised by Sadat as a "serious attempt" to boost the peace process.

It includes:

- A meeting in London of Secretary of State Cyrus Vance with Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohamed Ibrahim Kamel and Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan. Egyptian sources say the meeting is tentatively scheduled for July 9, although Dayan said Sunday he had no information about such a meeting.
- Expansion of Vice President Walter F. Mondale's visit to Israel this week to include a meeting with Sadat in Alexandria.

The Egyptian proposal for the West Bank and Gaza which Israel rejected is part of a peace plan still being drafted that informed sources say presents for the first time a detailed alternative to Israel's proposal for the occupied territories.

Naor indicated one thing Israel objected to was giving up the territories, a major bargaining counter, before arrangements to guarantee Israel's security are negotiated.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin and the Israeli cabinet on Sunday rejected an Egyptian proposal that the West Bank be returned to Jordan and the Gaza Strip to Egypt — from whom they were taken in the Six-Day War of 1967 — while the Arabs negotiate security arrangements with Israel.

"Israel rejects without reservation these suggestions by President Sadat," spokesman Arieh Naor said after the weekly cabinet meeting in Jerusalem.

However, the United States still

Fading stickers make sticky ticket problem

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas motorists who proudly received bright orange safety inspection stickers in January, February and March may have to talk themselves out of a traffic ticket.

"It just so happens the silly things are turning last year's color — yellow," said Winston Johnson, manager of the Department of Public Safety's vehicle inspection records.

And highway patrolmen and city officers normally go by the color of the windshield stickers in stopping motorists for a possible ticket.

However, Johnson hopes there will be few tickets issued. The DPS sent out more than 8,000 letters to law enforcement agencies informing them of the fading colors and asking them to examine inspection stickers carefully before issuing any tickets for expired stickers.

If a motorist does get an unearned ticket, he should contact his local vehicle inspection office, Johnson said.

Stickers issued during January, February and March are the only ones fading — so far.

Carter, Callaghan confer; afternoon conference set

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter spent more than an hour today conferring at breakfast with British Prime Minister James Callaghan.

Neither man spoke to waiting reporters as the prime minister, who was scheduled for a 45-minute visit, was escorted to his limousine by the president.

Callaghan arrived here Saturday on a private visit, his third stay here in three months. The prime minister's daughter Margaret is the wife of the British ambassador, Peter Jay.

The two leaders will meet again in Bonn in mid-July at a seven-nation economic summit.

The president also was holding a nationally-broadcast news conference in late afternoon.

Carter returned Saturday night from a two-day trip to Texas, where he drew enthusiastic applause by pledging to hold the line on federal spending.

Implicit, and sometimes stated, was a companion promise to use his veto powers to the fullest if necessary.

The Texas trip was on Carter's mind Sunday as he conducted an adult Bible class at the First Baptist Church here.

Conveying a "judge not" message to his fellow Baptists, Carter said former President Johnson is not yet recognized as a "great hearted, big hearted" political leader.

The president, who said the trip reminded him of Johnson, observed that some of his White House predecessors were "condemned as a result of one act," often in situations over which they had little control.

In Johnson's case, said Carter, national feeling about the Vietnam War caused people to forget that LBJ "cared more and did more" in behalf of blacks, the poor, and the underprivileged.

illeged generally than any other recent president.

A million-dollar demonstration of military firepower at Fort Hood, Texas, that climaxed Carter's trip also seemed to be on the president's mind.

Asking his class to guess what identifiable group speaks to him most frequently about God and prayer, Carter heard answers ranging from "Democrats" to "Baptists."

The correct answer, he said, is "the military" who "want my decisions to be guided by God and to find favor with God."

As for Americans he meets in crowds during his travels, Carter said the most frequent comment he hears while shaking hands is, "God bless you."

The second most prevalent comment, he reported, is, "I'm praying for you."

Kissinger, in Argentina, criticizes Carter's stance

The Washington Post

BUENOS AIRES — Former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has implicitly criticized the Carter administration for failing to recognize that a government faced with organized terrorism must sometimes suspend civil liberties in order to overcome it.

"I think the problem of terrorism is an international challenge and I think those who practice it" are attempting to destroy "legitimate governments and authority," said Kissinger, here on a visit as an official guest of the Argentine government.

"Those countries that have not experienced terrorism may not always understand" what it can do to a society and how difficult it may be to fight, he said.

"I would say that the United States owes you some understanding of the tragedies of your recent history," Kissinger told a group of Argentine government officials, businessmen and journalists Saturday.

The Carter administration has applied its human rights policy with particular force in both Argentine and neighboring Chile. The United States no longer approves new military or economic aid for either country and has voted against loans for them in international lending institutions. U.S. relations with both countries are strained.

Argentina was one of the first countries to be seriously threatened by urban terrorist groups. Thousands of government officials, police, army officers, terrorists and bystanders were killed by bullets and bombs between 1975 and 1977.

Both rightist and leftist terrorists flourished here during the last year of Maria Estela Peron's government, which was overthrown by the Argentine military in March 1976. Even before the coup, the military had begun an extra-legal anti-terrorist campaign of its own and, afterward, suspended civil liberties as its so-called "dirty war" continued.

International human rights groups have charged that anywhere from 8,000 to 20,000 Argentines have disappeared over the last three years. The military admits holding more than 3,500 political prisoners.

Nobody took time to hum a tune during Saturday's massive move

It wasn't just another Saturday morning moving job in downtown Midland.

The task was tantamount to moving an upright piano into the fifth-floor music room of a high-rise apartment. But no one was whistling, not to mention playing, a tune.

The moving had to be from the outside, because the elevators were too small for the unwieldy package. The parcel was a far cry from a piano.

The timing, though, was ideal for a heavy-weight and cumbersome task. The streets were almost bare of traffic. Only a few mildly curious sidewalk strollers and coffee shop customers were casually watching.

The boom of a crane, sometimes used to wield a wrecking ball, was extended 80 feet alongside the 12-story Western United Life Building at Texas Avenue and Colorado Street.

A 2,000-pound crate was on the tail end of a Fort Worth-based moving van marked with the slogan "The best move you've ever made." Some, though, were beginning to have doubts about the upward move here.

Steel cables were hooked up to the crate, and crane operator Chuck Huckaby of Odessa reeved up the crane's engine and, with the help of a ground crew, lowered the box to the ground. It was about 9 o'clock.

Upstairs, Floyd Miller unreelied his tape measure, and checked out the square opening where windows used to be. It was 70 1/2 inches high and 80 1/2 inches wide.

The crate was larger. A suggestion by Houdini would not be scoffed at this morning.

Down below, workers pulled the crate apart and exposed a $16,000 blue-line copying machine bound for Geomap Co., which provides geologic maps and services related to the petroleum industry, on the fifth floor of the building.

Workers on the ground sized up the machine, and then eyed that fifth-floor opening. The machine appeared larger than the hole.

The movers were milling around. They appeared somewhat perplexed.

The gang foreman, Claude McClane of Marks Crane & Rigging Co. of Odessa, didn't appear particularly worried. But, then again, he was awaiting orders from above.

"We do this kind of work all the time," McClane said.

But they weren't doing anything right then. He was awaiting word from the other two honchos, Miller and Rod Taylor, who were upstairs looking down. Miller, the cigar-chomping owner of Mid-West of Midland, was doing some remodeling for Geomap.

McClane's men on the ground were just "hanging around" until someone, such as Miller or Taylor, said to hoist and see if it would slip through.

Standing idly around, and getting paid just as well as if they were sweating under the vigors of hard labor, were Dub Cree, the "worm" (an inexperienced rigger), and Steve McDougal, the "head worm." Like Huckaby, they're from Ector County.

It was early Saturday afternoon when the honchos, fully knowing they had to get that booger of a high-class copying machine on the fifth floor, ordered the big lift.

Cables were hooked to the copier, which had been stripped of about 200 pounds (including doors and a table), and Huckaby hoisted the copier upward to the fifth floor.

On the street was "worm" McDougal holding onto the tether.

The problem-solvers decided to hoist the copier on its side. And that's what they did, but only after the ground crew, except for crane operator Huckaby and McDougal, went upstairs to assist in pulling the copier into the room. Once the copier was facing the fifth-floor opening, the combined crews placed four 2-by-12-foot planks under the machine and, after some tugging, pulled it on in.

"We didn't know what we were doing," said Miller, who, contrary to what he said, obviously had more than an inkling about what he, McClane and Taylor were doing.

"Each piece you move in gets easier," Miller said. Earlier that morning, the gang had hoisted a vacuum light table via the crane. Like the copier, it, too, couldn't be fitted into the elevator.

Watching all the goings-on on behalf of Geomap was draftsman Curtis Flanagan, who must have been relieved that nothing was dropped on its way up.

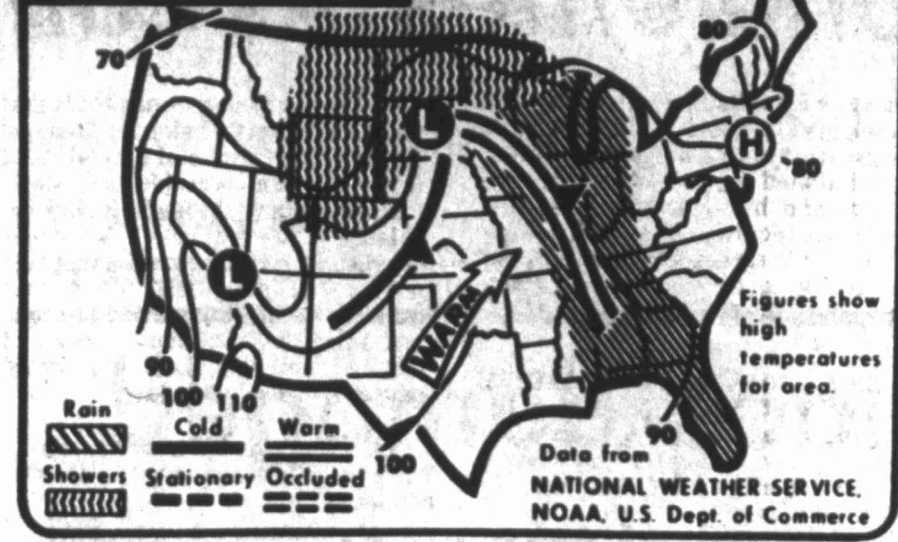

Relieved, too, was Taylor, a management consultant from Houston, who had rounded up the copier for Geomap and helped oversee the installation.

Had the copier suddenly plummeted while being hoisted, he said, he'd head for New Zealand or other remote places where Geomap couldn't find him.

And nobody would be humming a tune.

Revolt topples Marxist regime

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — President Salem Robaye Ali of South Yemen resigned today after army and air force units rebelled in that nation, the only Marxist-governed republic in the oil-rich Arabian Peninsula, the Iraqi news agency reported. The news agency said in a dispatch from the South Yemen capital of Aden that the central committee of the National Front, the country's hard-line, pro-Soviet ruling body, accepted Ali's resignation and stripped him of all other posts. It said he resigned after a day-long bombardment of the presidential palace in Aden. Observers in Beirut said the rebels apparently hoped to take advantage of unrest resulting from the assassination two days ago of the president of neighboring North Yemen. An earlier Iraqi dispatch said artillery and air force planes pounded the presidential palace in the Aden suburb of Al Tawahi. But it said the "people's militia" of the National Front took control of key intersections in Aden, the airport road and the highway to Al Tawahi, and street fighting broke out between army regulars and militiamen in a suburb near the airport.

"Thick palls of smoke spiralled from Al Tawahi where the muffled thud of heavy guns was heard," one dispatch said. "The international airport was closed to traffic and telecommunication with the outside world was cut off." Aden authorities advised tourists to stay off the streets and civil servants to leave their offices and stay home until further notice. A later dispatch said by 8:30 a.m., the militia was in control of most of the capital and was stopping and searching all civilian traffic. Another dispatch from the Iraqi agency said air force jets and artillery later resumed attacks on the presidential palace, the defense ministry and the prime minister's office and that a number of arrests had been made. The agency said Ali, who had headed South Yemen's leftist government since 1969, met Sunday night with members of his presidential council, leaders of the National Front and leaders of other leftist political groups to discuss charges that they were responsible for the assassination of North Yemeni President Ahmed al Ghashmi.

Dog owners show hearty patience, stamina and devotion is their breed

By JOYCE CRAWFORD While some people basked in Sunday's hot sun working on their tans, others sweated out the temperatures at The Midland County Exhibit Building just east of town. Why would they put themselves through a day in a stifling unair-conditioned building when they could otherwise occupy themselves by a cool swimming pool? For their dogs of course. Yet even explaining that they were there for a dog show and that they were all dog enthusiasts doesn't completely convey the picture to a person who has never been to a dog show and seen the dogs and their owners in action. This show was what those "in the know" call a fun match. Fun matches usually are held just before a circuit, which is a series of shows from city to city, said Joe Groves of Midland, a member of the host club. This way the owners can get their dogs used to ring conditions. The majority are younger dogs, the puppies who need the ring experience before they are shown at an American Kennel Club sanctioned meet. "It (a fun match) is mainly for the younger dogs," said Groves. "Although we have dogs here who already have points."

usually begins the night before. The dogs are brushed, clipped and combed into shape for the judges. Surprisingly, there are short-haired dogs on the tables as well as long haired ones. "Many people think short-haired dogs don't need to be groomed," said Mrs. Bucher. "They think you can just brush them real quick." She explained that wherever the hair is growing at different angles, by the tail or on the neck for example, a ridge can develop that ruins the line of the dog. To avoid this the owner clips the hair. Also any long hairs are cut, and sometimes the coat is thinned, much as a man's hair is by a barber. Of course, she said, the process for grooming a long hair for a meet is much more involved. Mrs. Bucher said that when she owned her Lhasa Apso, a dog about 10 inches long with a heavy, straight coat, she often carried her brush in the ring with her and "prayed she (the dog) wouldn't shake and mess up all my work."

a.m., even though the judging didn't begin until 1 p.m. This way, they could find a comparatively shady, cool spot to set up and await their turn in the ring. Everyone was relaxed, either working on their dog or just sitting and talking. After all, there is plenty to discuss when you get over 150 people and their dogs together. There were opinions to be given on this show or that, talk on the best way to handle and train a dog, breeding, lack of breeding and general greetings to friends that may not have been seen since the last match. What may seem surprising to someone who attending his first show is the lack of confusion. One might think that the dogs would be barking and disruptive, especially since so many young dogs were present. But as one woman said, the dogs know how they are supposed to act at a show and they get used to the other dogs being around — they have to. The (doesn't) mean they never get excited or out of hand, but the heat helped subdue rowdy puppies, said one dog owner. And there are other ways of insuring good behavior as Nancy Estes of Midland explained. "I took Rolly (her Doberman Pinscher) on a five-mile run this morning. Last time we were in the ring he was so excited he just dithered around." The High Sky Club almost has completed its second year, and members hope it will become an AKC recognized club soon, said Groves. It is matches like this one that will get us sanctioned, he said, and then we can start having regular shows as well as fun matches. At this match there were confirmation rings, where the dogs are judged on appearance, structure and attitude, and obedience rings. Just like a circuit show would have. Officials explained that a fun match should be run the same as a show so the dogs can adjust, but usually the matches are more relaxed. Mrs. Bucher tried to explain why dogs and dog shows can become such a time-consuming hobby. "People are proud of their dogs and like to show them. At a match like this dogs of all ages can join in."

Skokie residents pay tribute to Nazi victims

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) — Instead of facing a rally by brown-shirted, goose-stepping American Nazis and a potentially violent counter-demonstration, residents here shared tears, prayers and laughter. "It's a beautiful day in the village of Skokie," Mayor Albert K. Smith said Sunday as he and some 300 other people gathered at a synagogue to pay tribute to victims of Nazi concentration camps. Smith spoke not about the storm clouds that gathered over the heavy rains that fell here, but about the cancellation of a planned march in the heavily Jewish suburb by a small group of neo-Nazis from Chicago. The audience at the Niles Township Jewish Congregation cheered an array of speakers, ranging from Chicago's most famous black preacher, the Rev. Jesse Jackson, to the leader of a California congregation. Meanwhile, about 600 people gathered in New York City to hear speakers denounce the court rulings that enabled the Nazis to threaten a march on Skokie, a Chicago suburb that is home to more than 4,000 survivors of the Holocaust. Frank Collin, leader of the National Socialist Party of America, called off a march through Skokie, originally scheduled for Sunday, when a federal judge ruled that the Nazis did not have to post an insurance bond to march July 9 in Chicago's Marquette Park. The Nazis attempted to hold a rally in Chicago Saturday at a downtown federal building plaza but were hooted down and pelted with bottles, eggs and Crocks by thousands of counterdemonstrators.

DEATHS

W.D. Henderson Services for W.D. Henderson, 71, of Junction, a former Midland geologist, oil operator and school board member, were to be at 4 p.m. today in the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity of Midland. The Rev. Sam Hulsey, pastor, was to officiate. Burial was to be in Resthaven Memorial Park directed by Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home. Henderson died Saturday in a Midland hospital following an extended illness. He was born Jan. 19, 1907, in Lawton, Okla., where he was reared. He moved to Midland as a district geologist with Stanolind Oil Co. in 1942. He moved to Fort Worth in 1946 and was a district geologist for Phillips Petroleum Co. for a year. From 1947 until 1957, he was an independent consulting geologist and oil operator in Midland. He moved to Junction in 1957. In Midland, Henderson was a member of the Midland Independent School District's board of trustees from 1954 to 1957 and was on the city planning commission in 1951. He was president of the West Texas Geological Society in 1954 and became an honorary member of the society in 1970. Henderson was a member of Midland Masonic Lodge and was a 32nd degree Mason. He was chairman of the American Red Cross drive in Midland County in 1951 and headed the county tuberculosis drive in 1949. Survivors include his wife, Mable Henderson; two sons, D. Lloyd Henderson of Midland and Don K. Henderson of Evergreen, Colo.; a brother, Jon C. Henderson of Wichita, Kan.; two sisters, Irene Henderson of Wichita, Kan., and Mrs. Benson Merchant of Dallas, seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Pallbearers were to be Dave Akers and Lewis Jetton, both of Junction; Robert I. Dickey and L.F. Peterson, both of Fort Worth; Robert S. Fields of San Angelo; Harvey J. Herd and F.H. McGuigan, both of Midland, and Paul J. Wood of Littleton, Colo. Honorary pallbearers were to be Victor Loeffler and Scott Peevey, both of Junction; Dee Carpenter of Granbury; Harry McFarland of Powell, Mo.; J. Guy McMillan Sr. of Austin, and J.M. Armstrong, Paul H. Colm, F. Arthur Stout and W.A. Yeager, all of Midland. The family requests memorials be directed to the Trinity Episcopal churches of Midland and Junction.

R.B. Lamberson Services for R.B. Lamberson, 75, of Midland will be at 10 a.m. Tuesday in St. Mark's United Methodist Church here with Dr. Harold Cates, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Resthaven Memorial Park directed by Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home. Lamberson died Saturday in a San Angelo hospital following a short illness. He was born Dec. 16, 1902, in Indian Territory, Okla. He moved to El Paso and attended El Paso School of Mines. He operated a radio shop there for several years. He married Ann Elizabeth McCulloch in Clarksville Feb. 28, 1942, when he was with the Civil Service Department of Engineers in Texas, Ark., Texas. They moved to Midland in 1956. He was building inspector for the city of Midland for many years, retiring in 1969. He spent two years during World War II in South America. Survivors include his wife; a son, Robert B. Lamberson Jr. of San Angelo; a daughter, Mrs. James E. (Greer) Smith of Fort Worth, and four grandchildren.

Salary action expected by school board

The Midland public schools Board of Trustees is expected to take action on administrative and non-professional salaries at its regular meeting, postponed to 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, in the school administration building. The board members also are scheduled to approve final plans for organization of the kindergarten program for the 1978-79 school year and consider an evaluation and recommendations for the drug education program. In addition, the board is expected to accept the appointment of Elgin A. Mallory as the new Midland High School principal. The trustees plan to review the results of a school accreditation study and a policy statement concerning student medication. The trustees are scheduled to award bids for plumbing repairs at Alamo Junior High School and South Elementary School. They are expected to meet in executive session to consider a real estate matter.

Temperature today near 100

Temperatures nearing 100 degrees have been forecast once again by the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport. The forecast calls for fair skies through Tuesday with highs today and Tuesday near 100 degrees. The low tonight should be in the lower 70s. Winds are expected to be southerly to southwesterly at 15 to 25 mph today and tonight. Sunday's high temperature was 100 degrees. The overnight low was 74. The record high for June 25 is 105 degrees set in 1953. The record low for today is 59 degrees set in 1958.

Owners set and line up their dogs for judging in the Sporting Group at the High Sky Kennel Club's Fun Match held Sunday afternoon. The dogs from the left are a Golden Retriever, Brittany Spaniel, German Shorthaired Pointer, Irish Setter, English Springer Spaniel and a Vizsla (Hungarian Pointer).

Check the balance on a pencil, and if one side is heavier, file off the bevel on that side until it balances. Other things that could cause vibration are loose nuts and bolts or a buildup of dirt and clippings on the blade that would cause it to be out of balance.

Sterilization often misunderstood

EDITOR'S NOTE--Sterilization as a form of birth control is on the increase both in the United States and elsewhere in the world. So, too, apparently is abuse of people's rights to decide, or even understand, what's best for them.

By KAY BARTLETT AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP)--Rosalind Johnson was 20 years old when she was arrested for vagrancy. She also was pregnant. While in custody she had an abortion--and was sterilized.

Now, two years later she's suing New York City for $12 million. She claims she was told a tubal ligation--blocking the Fallopian tubes--was not permanent, that it could be reversed later when she became a "good girl." She signed the consent forms.

As Rosalind Johnson Keys, she and her husband want children. She knows now that the chances of reversing the surgery and becoming pregnant are slim, although some progress is being made.

Hers is one of scores of sterilization cases that have been taken to court since sterilization has increased as a form of birth control. A study by George Washington University shows there are 80 million sterilized couples in the world, 8 million in the United States alone.

Another study by the National Center of Health Statistics shows that sterilizations in the United States rose 25 percent among married couples from 1973 to 1976.

With this upswing come moral and legal questions:

—What is voluntary consent? Do patients really understand they're closing the door on future offspring?

—Should a woman be allowed to make the choice during a period of stress, say in labor or prior to an abortion?

—Do parents have the right to order that their severely retarded children be sterilized?

—Are the poor and the minorities singled out for sterilization?

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare recently heard testimony from interested parties in 10 regional centers and Washington as part of an effort to set guidelines for federally funded sterilizations which account for 6 to 10 percent of the 1 million or so a year in the United States.

Betty Gonzales of the Association for Voluntary Sterilization Inc. says the greatest abuse is that it doesn't reach the people who want sterilization even though it is legal in all 50 states.

Karen Stamm of the Committee to End Sterilization Abuse feels the greatest problems are in coercing women into being sterilized and performing hysterectomies for that purpose. Dr.

Charles McLaughlin, president of the American College of Surgeons, once likened the procedure to "killing a mouse with a cannon."

Allan Chase, independent scholar and author of "The Legacy of Malthus," says we are in the midst of a sterilization epidemic and that while it became chic in the 1960s, it's now back to a punitive procedure.

DEAR ABBY

Daughter owes mother more

DEAR ABBY: My husband has three brothers and one sister. He also has an 81-year-old mother who has been a widow for 15 years. She owns her own home, has money in the bank and gets a substantial pension. For the last four years she has been unable to live alone because she has a heart problem, so she has been spending one month at the home of each of her children.

She has never offered to pay anyone for her keep, so her daughter told her (a year ago) to get some money up or she couldn't stay with her. My mother-in-law refused this request, stating that she had taken care of her daughter when she was young, and now it was her daughter's turn to do for her.

Well, my mother-in-law hasn't been to her daughter's home for the last year. Now we sisters-in-law are getting disgusted. Whose place is it to take care of this woman? The daughter's or the daughters-in-law?—DISGUSTED IN ATLANTIC CITY

DEAR DISGUSTED: Obviously, the daughter "owes" her mother more than the daughters-in-law owe her, but it's not uncommon to find many daughters-in-law who do more for their mothers-in-law than their own daughters do.

DEAR ABBY: I hope Carl in Murrysville doesn't claim that his doggerel about Betty Jones ("No hits, no runs, no errors") is original. I heard a version of it in 1925 at the Old Howard, a renowned burlesque theatre in Boston. It went like this:

"Here lie the bones Of Mary McGinnity For twelve long years She kept her virginity And that's the record In this vicinity." —BEN IN VIRGINIA

DEAR ABBY: I hope you will select this letter for publication because it contains an important safety message.

Yesterday I was the first to arrive at the scene of an accident after a 4-year-old boy had been hit by a car.

No one knew where the child had come from. A few minutes later, several people walked across the highway from a picnic area to see what all the excitement was about. A man collapsed and a young woman became hysterical when they recognized the child. He was their son, who only moments before had been left "sleeping" on the back seat of their car. I had to tell these grief-stricken parents that it was too late for a doctor. Many people left the scene muttering, "I have learned a good lesson."

As the father of two young children, I learned one, too: Don't ever leave children unattended (sleeping or awake) in an automobile.—STILL IN SHOCK

DEAR STILL: Thanks for a very important "lesson."

Rights jeopardized

What needs to be said about the U.S. Supreme Court's astonishing decision in favor of law enforcement officials conducting surprise searches of news organizations for evidence in criminal proceedings is that it strikes at the right of the American people and not just at a perceived special privilege heretofore enjoyed by the press.

The press and the people are integral and do not stand apart one from the other as Justice John Paul Stevens pointed out in his trenchant dissent. He said: "Countless law-abiding citizens — doctors, lawyers, merchants, customers, bystanders — may have documents in their possession that relate to an ongoing criminal investigation. The consequences of subjecting this large category of persons to unannounced police searches are extremely serious..."

Insofar as the court has breached the confidentiality of newspaper files to surprise searches by snooping police officials, it also has breached the confidentiality of records kept by doctors, lawyers and the average citizen. This is true because the court has swept aside the requirement for a subpoena for a particular document or evidence bearing on a particular case and legalized, through a warrant, the unannounced ransacking of any and all files by law enforcement officials.

It can be argued that, had this surprise-search doctrine existed earlier, some of the illicit break-ins for information that were disclosed in the Watergate fallout would not have taken place; there would have been no need for a plumbers crew in the Nixon administration. Only a warrant from a willing magistrate is all that would have been required to search and seize the psychiatrist records pertaining to the Pentagon-papers purloiner, Daniel Ellsberg, for example. One can even imagine the Justice Department ransacking the Washington Post on a fishing expedition to seize its confidential files on the Watergate break-in.

The rationale of the court in this divided decision (5-3) was based on two shocking premises: That a newspaper or an average citizen served with a subpoena would conceal or destroy the object of the search — a view which the minority of justices vigorously challenged. And, that magistrates, the lowest form of judicial life, should now become the arbiters of whether a newspaper, physician, attorney or citizen should be subjected to a surprise search.

The ruling laid upon magistrates the sole responsibility for deciding the justification of a police request for a warrant to make a surprise search for evidence.

This case arose when the Palo Alto, Calif., police, armed with a warrant, plundered the files of the Stanford University newspaper, the Stanford Daily, in a vain search for photographs of a violent demonstration three days earlier at the Stanford University Hospital.

U.S. District Judge Robert F. Peckham of San Francisco and, subsequently, the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals, held, in effect, that the Stanford police search was a violation of the First and Fourth amendments.

Judge Peckham made a really significant point, which the court ignored in reversing his decision, and that concerned the danger of violating the rights of third parties not suspected of a crime by police reading each and every document until they found the one named in the warrant. He emphasized that "third parties not suspected of a crime are entitled to stronger protection than suspects against search and seizure..."

Fortunately, while recourse from judicial error is difficult, there is legislative remedy and, already, there is action on Capitol Hill about the possibility of corrective legislation.

Meanwhile, it is chilling indeed to contemplate that the U.S. Supreme Court, which has traditionally been the bulwark of our constitutional freedom, should, in the Stanford case, impose surprise search and seizure of confidential files upon the American people and their press.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

U.S. experts project to 2000

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The year is 2000. The earth is polluted, overrun by a teeming, seething population. The anonymous masses are stripping the land of food and fuel. Most of them have been wrenched off the land and hurled into swelling slums where the struggle for existence is harsh. Women and children endure the gnawing pains of hunger while they prey for help and hope for death. Everywhere, the life-styles of the 1970s are obsolete.

This is the stark picture that U. S. experts have drawn of the world 22 years from now. President Carter last year directed them to "assess potential global environmental changes and their impact on the United States." Various government agencies, their efforts coordinated by the White House Council on Environmental Quality, contributed to the study.

They compiled hundreds of pages of excruciatingly detailed findings and summarized them in a confidential report entitled "Global 2000 Study." It is against the nature of politicians, however, to release bad news unless they can also offer a happy ending. The project managers, therefore, feared the report might be too bitter for the president to swallow. They prepared a second, more palatable version, which tells essentially the same story but disguises the ugly facts by making them deliberately dull.

We have seen both versions, which may yet undergo further revisions before the final report is delivered to the Oval Office. But from the ant bed of print, a warning emerges that the world of our children may be crushed under the sheer weight of people, that the overburdening population rather than a nuclear holocaust may cause man's final Armageddon.

The president's population experts estimate that the world population will increase at least 56 percent by the year 2000; as many as 2.3 billion more people may be swarming over the earth. But it will be the underdeveloped nations which will absorb a catastrophic 90 percent of the population growth.

By the end of the century, four-fifths of the world's people will be living in underindustrialized, poverty-plagued economies. This great, faceless mass will gravitate into sprawling urban ghettos, which will become breeding grounds for disease and despair, crime and rebellion. Thus the world will become sharply divided between the haves and the have-nots, with the have-not nations bursting at the borders.

The population demands will create severe shortages of food and water. Yet the study doesn't write off the problem as hopeless. Intelligence reports predict, "if present trends continue, the world will have lost one-third of its agricultural lands to desertification by the year 2000 because of human mismanagement which is often associated with intense population pressure."

But the second, more optimistic draft quotes other experts as predicting that arable land will increase by 18 percent, thus enabling food production to keep pace with population growth if conditions are good. Most of the authorities, however, anticipate the worst. United Nations experts forecast that the agricultural land loss during the next 20 years could equal half the land now under cultivation.

Thus the prospects are for more mouths to feed and less food to fill them. Even the existing crops, agricultural experts fear, may become more vulnerable. Insect pests will be more difficult to control as they become immune to man's chemical warfare. Swarms of insects miles long, such as the locusts already plaguing Africa, may become commonplace in many regions, "with resulting losses in farm output."

An unexpected string of even "minor" crop diseases could also "fritter away expected gains in crop productivity," warns the study.

The human hordes are also expected to defoliate the world's forests, with disastrous results. Twenty years ago, forests covered one-fourth of the

ART BUCHWALD 'Jaws III' could change focus to other fish in vast 'oceans'

The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — If "Jaws II" is a success at the box office, Universal Pictures will have no choice but to begin production on "Jaws III." The problem is, how many times can you frighten people with a man-eating shark?

Art Buchwald

I've been giving it a lot of thought. There is nothing that says "Jaws III" has to be a shark. As Elizabeth Ray once said, "There are a lot of other fish in the sea."

I have my own screen treatment for the third film, "Jaws III," instead of being about a shark, should be about the great snail darter.

The movie would take place at the TVA Tellico Dam in Tennessee. One night, a young workman and Miss Tennessee of 1977 are lying on the banks of the Tellico River telling dam stories, when the girl decides to go swimming. Her boyfriend tells her it's too dangerous, but she goes in anyway.

Out of the murky water appears the cruel head of a monster snail darter measuring three inches from jaws to tail. It swims back and forth, perplexed by the strange body in the water. Suddenly it bares its cruel, razor-sharp teeth and nips the girl on the arm. She screams, but it's too late. The snail darter nips her again on the thigh, then it nips her yet again. The girl frantically swims to shore with nips all over her body.

The workman and the girl go to see the chief of police.

The chief of police reports the incident to the head engineer of the TVA project. "It's obviously a snail darter, the most vicious fish known to dam builders," he tells the chief. "If the story gets out that we have snail darters in the Tellico River, they'll keep us from completing the dam. We have to keep this a secret."

"But I'm responsible for the lives and safety of the people along the Tellico," protests the chief of police. "Suppose somebody else gets bitten by the snail darter?"

"Don't worry," the engineer assures him, "having nipped Miss Tennessee of 1977 it could be miles from here by now."

Two days later, the attorney general of the United States is fishing off a pier when the same snail darter sees a toe in the water. Curious, it swims around for a few moments and then suddenly opens its jaws wide and grasps the toe. The attorney general falls over into the water and fights the snail darter for an hour, but the odds are hopeless. The attorney general is finally dragged out and returns to Washington, vowing to get the snail darter if it's the last thing he does.

The secret is out. News of the snail darter spreads like wildfire.

In order to save the dam the town decides to hire a tough sea captain who hated snail darters ever since one had bitten off his fingernail years ago. From the description by the victims, he suspects this particular one was the same type of fish that had destroyed the use of his left hand. He is determined to get the snail darter, even if it costs him his life.

He goes out in a rowboat with a Swiss-made pocket knife.

Ten yards offshore, the snail darter starts circling under the boat. It nuzzles the side, then it nips one of the oars. The captain glimpses its brown stomach. He is sure now that this is his hated enemy. He takes out the pocket knife and is about to stab it when the chief of police runs down to the shore and shouts, "Stop. The Supreme Court has just ruled 6-3 that the snail darter is an endangered species. If you touch it, I'll have to arrest you."

The captain, his arm raised, pretends not to hear, and the chief takes out his gun and shoots the berserk captain in the chest, explaining later at the inquest, "I had to do it. It was the law of the land."

Mark Russell says

Karl Marx once said — I believe it was on the Dinah Shore Show — that religion was the opiate of the masses. Well, Karl hasn't seen the new fall TV schedule.

Our national religion, television, held a conclave in New York recently. It was a gathering of NBC affiliates to welcome their new pope — Freddy Silverman, formerly of ABC.

Silverman has been born again. He said, "We must not squander this precious resource." Pretty lofty stuff for the guy who has been to television what the gum ball is to gourmet cooking.

Not everyone watches the tube. The other evening the Nielsen ratings people called Alexander Solzhenitsyn and asked what he was watching. He replied, "The country — sinking into the black pit."

Public supports SALT pact; alarmist path holds dangers

(Editor's Note: Nick Thimmesch is on vacation. Substituting for him today is Sen. George McGovern. Thimmesch's previous guest, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, offered a differing view of U.S.-Soviet relations.)

By SEN. GEORGE MCGOVERN

It is no secret that detente between the United States and the Soviet Union is in trouble. Accusatory rhetoric has escalated on both sides. The President denies that his policy contemplates any linkage between the strategic arms limitation talks (SALT II) and Soviet behavior in Africa.

But he also keeps telling us that for all practical purposes, they are linked anyway because a hostile public may resist ratification of a new SALT pact unless the Soviets mend their ways elsewhere. That last premise, it must be noted, is sharply contradicted by public opinion polls showing overwhelming and unflagging popular support for strategic arms control.

Notwithstanding all the attention he has apparently applied, and the size of the foreign policy apparatus at his command, I am left with nagging doubts about whether President Carter has settled upon the policy he really wants in this area.

The chief concern of the White House is that the Soviets — with a few of their own advisors, but mainly through some 30,000 Cuban troops — are behaving opportunistically in Africa and thereby violating something called the "code of detente." Without excusing Soviet or Cuban activities, I find the vehemence inconsistent with what the President himself has often told us are his priorities.

Before we follow the alarmist course too far, we should contemplate the tragedy for the African nations that will follow if they are treated simply as prizes for great powers to fight over.

Africa will likely remain a continent in turmoil for many years to come, in large part because borders left over from the colonial era ignore traditional tribal identities. Those conflicts will produce pain enough without outside help.

If the superpowers jump in with their sophisticated weaponry and massive firepower, Africa's anguish will be multiplied many times over. So let us first consider the people who live on the battlefield before planning any grand African ventures.

But aren't we only reacting to Soviet actions? What will happen if we do not stand up to the Russians in Africa?

In my view, the most plausible answer is that the Africans will themselves supply the resistance. If the Soviets attempt to really control the African governments they have supported, they will inevitably run afoul of the nationalism which is the strongest single force on the continent.

Indeed they have already encountered those sentiments, and have not only been hooted out of Egypt in the Middle East, but also Somalia and the Sudan, and have suffered setbacks in Guinea, Nigeria, and elsewhere.

So the alarmist policy is flawed first, because it neglects the Africans themselves, and next from the fact that their struggle against colonialism was not waged simply to make room for a new brand of colonialism from Moscow.

Beyond that, the policy has another and still more serious defect — a failure to discriminate between our national preferences and our national interests.

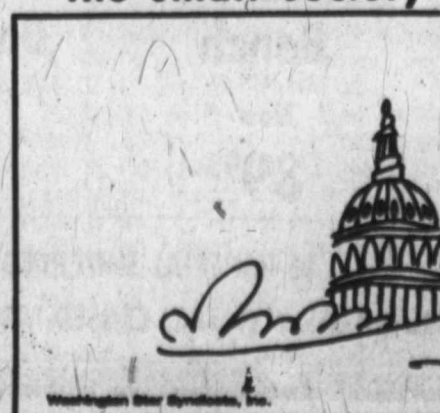

Certainly the President knows that mutual restraint on nuclear arms is something we want for ourselves, to serve our own economic and security interests. It is not a reward for the Russians. Arms control is one of the few areas in which mutual American and Soviet interests can and must be served, even if we remain sharply at odds on other fronts.

Instead of repeating that the American people or the American Congress might link SALT and secondary issues such as our differences in Africa, the President should take every opportunity to explain why such a linkage would be a terrible mistake.

Given what we have heard from the President about his commitment to arms control and arms reductions; I suspect he will be haunted for the rest of his days if he discovers that his words about Africa have helped to create a climate in which a SALT agreement cannot be approved in the Senate. That is the risk he is running, and it is one where I think his posture contradicts his own strong aspirations.

SEABROOK, N.H. — It was a journey back in time, the "me-generation's" answer to Woodstock and the March on the Pentagon. Up front on a makeshift stage overlooking the construction site of a $2.3 billion nuclear power plant, the old superheroes of the antiwar movement paraded by: Dr. Benjamin Spock, comedian Dick Gregory, singers Pete Seeger and Arlo Guthrie.

A crowd the police estimated at from 8,000 to 10,000 spread out before them in the hot sun, men wearing long hair and jeans, women in jeans and halter tops. "No nukes, No nukes. No nukes," they chanted after each speaker left the stage during the day-long rally, part of a three-day demonstration by the Clamshell Alliance, a loose-knit coalition of antinuclear groups. Sunday's was the largest demonstration to date of the growing strength and appeal of the anti-nuclear-power movement that has spread across the nation in recent years. "I think we're seeing the death of the nuclear industry here," said John W. Gofman, a nuclear physicist who became disillusioned with nuclear power after working seven years on a government-sponsored study of radiation dangers. "It shows the government's nuclear energy policy isn't playing well in Peoria or anywhere else. Jimmy Carter should get the message."

based movement, made up in part of antiwar activists who dropped out of middle-class life during the Vietnam war days and moved to the hills of New England and elsewhere. A few years later, many of them discovered nuclear power plants were going to be built nearby. If the three-day demonstration here is an indication, the people involved are older (the average age somewhere between 25 and 35), mellower and more inward directed than the antiwar demonstrators of a few years ago. They are, as author Tom Wolfe has said, the "me-generation."

power the Manchester Union Leader. Since then, a host of new regional antinuclear alliances have mushroomed around the country with names like SEA (in New Jersey), Catfish and Conchshell (in Florida), Sunflower (in Kansas) and Crabshell (in Washington state). A dozen such groups, according to spokesmen here, were staging sympathy protests over the weekend. The protest rally and energy fair here attracted representatives of almost every left-wing group imaginable, attempting to attach their cause to the anti nuclear effort. "Nuclear power is a feminist and lesbian issue," Laurie Holmes of Boston told the crowd at one point. "The struggle against the rape of our earth by rich, white males is the same struggle as the struggle against the rape of our bodies and the rape of our lives." Harvey Wasserman, the alliance's chief theoretician, said the core of the demonstrators is made up of "people who graduated from the antiwar movement" and moved into the country in the old back-to-the-earth days only to find themselves living beside proposed power plants.

Supporters of ERA believe momentum will again build

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of the Equal Rights Amendment are disappointed at their most recent defeat in Illinois, but they're not giving up. They figure a victory in one more state would generate the momentum needed to make ERA part of the Constitution. "Frankly, I think if we could get one state, the momentum would build again and it wouldn't be difficult to get two others," Nancy Neuman, a vice president of the League of Women Voters, said in an interview. The proposed constitutional amendment, approved by Congress in 1972, would prohibit discrimination based on sex. Thirty-five of the 38 states needed to ratify have approved the amendment, which faces a March 22, 1979 deadline unless the date is extended. The Illinois House voted on the issue last week for the second time, but supporters were short by two votes. Illinois, the only northern industrial state that has not ratified the proposed amendment, had been given the best chance of reviving the ratification movement. But opponents claimed they could hold on to the votes of opposition state legislators long enough to defeat the amendment. "I think the momentum is going strongly against the ERA," said Phyllis Schlafly, national chairman of Stop ERA. "The 15 states which have not ratified it have rejected it again and again. I see no indication that the proponents are gaining votes."

At a time when the loudest voices of social protest are coming from the political right — in the California tax revolt, the right-to-life fight and efforts to turn back gay rights legislation and stop the Equal Rights Amendment — the antinuclear movement has become the new haven of the political left. The movement's style, rhetoric, tactics and many of its members are borrowed from the civil rights and antiwar movements of the 1960s. "It's the same thing. In the first place, it is nuclear danger we're fighting. That was one of the things we were worried about in the Vietnam days," said Spock, the noted pediatrician. "The people here are idealists, loving people committed to nonviolence." It is an almost all-white, rural-

Emergency crew battles only boredom at Seabrook rally. Meanwhile, the crowd at the Seabrook site began dwindling overnight as protesters trekked out to meet today's 3 p.m. deadline to end the rally. Most of those called upon to stand by during the rally waited in schools, armories and hospitals, although some were allowed to be at home, always within reach of a telephone. The only contact most had with the big demonstration, which police estimated drew more than 12,000 people on Sunday, was what they saw on television, read in newspapers or heard on radio. "It's a classic case of planning for the worse and hoping for the best," a state civil defense official said Sunday of the operation that Gov. Meldrim Thomson has estimated will cost $150,000 to $250,000. "It may mean a lot of long hours for a lot of people, but it's the only realistic option."

Sears recalling 40,000 auto speed-control devices

Almost 40,000 car and truck speed-control devices purchased from Sears, Roebuck and Co. since Nov. 18, 1977, are being recalled because of a potential malfunction, a spokesman for the company said today. Date codes for the affected units range from 3237 through 3657 and 0018 through 0068 and are located on the mounting plate of the carburetor actuator, the spokesman said. Z.D. Hill, manager of Sears in Midland, said an improper size screw, 3/16ths of an inch, in some of the units could cause the car throttle to stick partly open. No injuries have been reported, but owners who purchased their speed controls after Nov. 18, 1977, should disconnect them from the throttle until repairs can be made, Hill said. The 40,000 affected speed control devices were manufactured by Dana Corp. of Toledo, Ohio. Sears stock numbers 20545 and 20543 were imprinted on the outside packaging of the unit, which sold for approximately $100 in Sears stores and catalogs throughout the nation.

Police searching for two men

Police are searching for two men in connection with the reported abduction and assault of a Midland woman Sunday afternoon. The woman told police she had parked at a convenience store at Wadley Avenue and Garfield Street about noon, when a man approached her from the rear, grabbed her and forced her into a black car parked next to hers. She reported that one man held her down in the car seat while another drove the car somewhere out in the country, where one of the men assaulted her. She told police she was then brought back into town and let out about four blocks from the convenience store. The woman reported the incident at the police station about 10:30 p.m. Sunday.

Woman reports rape attempt

A Midland woman told police a man attempted to rape her early this morning in the parking lot of a Midland lounge. The woman reported that she was leaving the Joker's Lounge about 2:42 a.m. today, when, she said, a man grabbed her and forced her to the east side of the parking lot. The woman told police the man threw her to the ground, but she escaped and ran across a vacant lot north of the lounge. She said she was able to outrun the assailant.

Billy Graham to visit Poland

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham has set Oct. 6-16 for his forthcoming visit to Poland, his second preaching mission in a Soviet bloc country. He expects to preach in five or six major cities, including Warsaw, both in church and at open-air meetings. The arrangements were worked out in a recent visit to Warsaw by a Graham aide, following an invitation to the evangelist from the Baptist Union of Poland. Last September, Graham preached in Hungary for a week, his first such mission in a Soviet country.

Store fire investigated

ODESSA — The cause of a supermarket fire which occurred here Sunday morning had not been determined early today, according to Fire Marshall Bill McCord. Sub-stations five and six were called to the scene at 2:10 a.m. and worked on extinguishing the blaze for more than three hours, using 1700 gallons of water, said a spokesman for the fire department. The building and its contents received heavy smoke and fire damage. The store is located at 2404 N. Dixie. "Right now we don't suspect arson," said McCord, "although it is a possibility."

Many protesters arrested Sunday

ELMA, Wash. (AP) — At least 150 anti-nuclear demonstrators — three busloads full — were arrested Sunday night after they occupied the construction site of two atomic power plants, the Grays Harbor County sheriff's office reported. The demonstrators, some coming by boat across the Chehalis River, approached the 275-acre site from four directions at about 6 p.m., witnesses said. The sheriff's office said about 50 deputies, 14 of them on horseback, began making arrests almost immediately. The Washington Public Power Supply System, a quasi-public agency, is constructing the two multibillion dollar plants on the site, about 70 miles southwest of Seattle.

Man arrested after robbery

ODESSA — Police here have a 19-year-old Odessa man in custody in connection with the Sunday morning armed robbery of a convenience store. Detective Houston Seabolt today said a man drove up to the store at 4100 Bonham St. in a 1977 brown and white pickup, took a half gallon of milk to the counter and displayed a pistol to the clerk. The man kept the gun in his belt and told the clerk to give him the money and then to lie down behind the counter while he left, said Seabolt. "A witness got the license number of the pickup and gave it to us," he said. He said police found the truck in an Odessa apartment complex shortly thereafter.

Commission enters third week of debates on electric rates

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Public Utility Commission went into its third week of hearings on electric rates in Texas with a demonstration by a consumers group as an added attraction. Scot Holliday of Dallas announced that ACORN, a consumers organization, planned to bring about 150 persons before the commission this afternoon in a demonstration supporting lifeline rates. Lifeline rates provide at nominal cost a small quantity of electricity, believe to be the minimum necessary for a modest standard of living. Those who use more than the "lifeline" such as commercial customers, would subsidize the below-cost rates. Holliday said the demonstrators would include representatives from Dallas, Houston, Fort Worth, Waco and San Antonio. Last week a University of Oklahoma economist, Donald Murray, testified that lifeline rates had not been tested and should be studied further before adoption by the commission. The findings of the commission on generic electric rates will be presented to the 1979 Legislature and will guide the agency in handling rate cases.

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — "A rose garden is a very special place — it's a flower that needs to be visited," advised the gardening column in one of the big metropolitan dailies last week.

Intrigued, I read on. The centerpiece of the essay was an interview with a country gentle-and conversation all the time. This is your last chance to make this outfit. Shape up or be snipped out."

No, they might just rebel or write to their congressman or bug out to Canada. Garden clubs and rose societies have a lot of clout these days. I wouldn't want to make a federal case out of it like the snail darter or the roseate spoonbill.

Right now my roses look like an endangered species, both of them, so they got the law on their side. Maybe what they need mos' is motivation, a little pep talk along the lines of the locker room speeches Pat O'Brien used to deliver for Knute Rockne back in the days when Notre Dame was winning one for the Gipper. Or was it Ronnie Reagan?

Something on the order of: "Roses, you may never again do anything so important in your lives. Get out there and bloom your blooming heads off. Damn the aphids and the snout beetles, full blossoms ahead."

But when your Helen Hayes's look more like Bela Lugosi and your American Beauties fade like American Graffiti, it's going to take more than a Dale Carnegie crash course to sweet talk them into shaping up.

Maybe after a hard day in the humus, roses don't want to hear shop talk at all. It might be better, like the lady said, to speak to them of love, a little verbal cooling and billing in the snooky-ookums lingo of fore-

After all, Vladimir Nabokov in "Ada" could speak of "Eros: the rose and sore," uniting the flower and the thorn and love in a little word game that seemed to be the answer to the mystery Tennyson plucked from the crannied wall along with the flower.

I have a sneaking suspicion, standing here talking to them like this, while the mailman shakes his head in disbelief, that if the roses could talk back, their message might be less esoteric, more down to earth, which is their milieu.

Something like "Hey, fatsos, cut the jabber and stop blocking the sunlight with your shadow. If you want to talk our language, get some pyrethrum extract or nicotine-sulphate down at the toolshed and go to work on these plant lice. We have enough parasites to put up with, without listening to you all morning."

Mulligan's Stew

woman who not only regularly visited her 250 rose bushes but talked to them.

"Roses need your shadow," the lady said, apparently with a straight face. "If you are going to have a rose garden, make love to it. Even talk to them."

Ever since William Booth penned the line, "feather-footed through the plashy fen passes the queesting vole" before going on to become the model for all foreign correspondents in Evelyn Waugh's "Scoop," I have always been a sucker for that kind of bucolic prose.

After dipping into the sports page and the gossip columnists, I always drop in on the peat moss and fertilizer cribblers to learn that new insights on life they have gained from a worm's eye view of creation.

This time, I figured, they must be onto something: a bedside manner for the rosebed. The idea seems to be catching on. Just this morning a car went by with a bumper sticker: "Have You Talked To A Plant Today?"

Well, yes, I have, on the strength of all this, and frankly we don't seem to have much to say to each other.

I didn't really know how to begin. There was my shadow, right over our two rather limp looking tea roses and a few straggling buds, and words failed me. How do you strike up a conversation with a rose bush? And how long should a visit last? The only words that had passed between us previously were "ouch" and a few rhetorical vulgarities when I embraced a thorn in snipping a boutonniere to cut a more dashing figure in the periodontist's waiting room.

Should I try poetry for openers?

"Flower in the crannied wall, I pluck you out of the crannies, I hold you here, root and all, in my hand..."

I don't think they would like that, being plucked out by the roots so early in summer, and neither would my wife. Besides, I don't think we have a crannied wall, unless you count that crack in the concrete near the garage where grass grows all winter.

What about, "Rose is a rose is a rose?" That might be nice and at least multiply our number of roses through poetic license. Or maybe, "My Love is like a red red rose" or "that which we call a rose by any other name would smell as sweet." There are lots of rose poems, including Thomas Moore's "last rose of summer," which ours look like all the time.

Perhaps I should just get in there and give them the old top sergeant's chewing out. You know, "All right, you sad sacks, you ought to be ashamed to call yourself roses. Look at them dandelions. Look at the ragweed. You don't hear them crying out for food

Newton Minow assumes directorship of public TV

DALLAS (AP) — The man who described television 17 years ago as a "vast wasteland" takes over this week as chairman of the Public Broadcasting Service, convinced the medium is doing better — with plenty of room for improvement.

"That 'vast wasteland,'" Newton Minow said Sunday, "was that we had this tremendous capability for reaching millions of people, and we were wasting the opportunity."

"There's been an enormous improvement in public television since 1961," Minow said. "In some respects, it's like night and day."

"Commercial television? There's not been that much improvement, particularly on the entertainment side. There has tended to be an almost regular sinking to the lowest common denominator. The real improvement in commercial television has been in news and sports."

Minow was a member of the Federal Communications Commission when his assessment of television in 1961 sent shock waves through the industry. He has been active in public television since then, primarily at Chicago's WTTW, and is an original member of the PBS board.

He succeeds Dallas businessman Ralph Rogers as board chairman this week as representatives of the non-commercial network's 270-plus stations gather here.

The first business session was today, and included a series of discussions on public TV's responsibility in the arts, education and public affairs.

Minow, 52, is a Chicago attorney who was appointed to the FCC by then President Kennedy.

Lopez finishes 15 strokes back

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Still smiling, rookie Nancy Lopez turned to her caddy on the 18th green and whispered: "At least we got a standing ovation. That makes it worthwhile."

The darling of the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour had just failed in her bid to win an unprecedented six straight tournaments, but "Nancy's Navy," her pastel swarm of followers, was clapping simply because she was there.

Lopez bowed Sunday to the limits of perfection and fatigue, finishing 15 strokes behind Pat Bradley, who fired a 10-under par 206 to win the $50,000 Lady Keystone Open.

"I told her coming in from the green, 'Don't worry about it, this wasn't a tournament, this was a media event,'" said her caddy, Roscoe Jones. "All the fuss over her record was just enough to dull the sharp edge she needed to win. Damn, I've never seen so many reporters. She's mentally exhausted."

Since turning pro last July 29, Lopez has won $156,266, the most ever by a professional golf rookie, man or woman. Her golden swing and her pearly grin have lifted the fortunes of women's golf, and she's paid the price of fame.

"I really feel if Nancy had been rested, it would have been a different story," said Bradley, who picked up $7,500 in prize money for her first LPGA victory of the year and her third ever.

"It would have been quite a fight. We've really put her through the gauntlet."

Joked Lopez to reporters after it was over: "I'm going to dye my hair blonde next week so you won't recognize me. No, I'm really glad this week is over."

"Mentally, I was getting headaches when I was finished. I've got to slow down and spread my time out a little bit and concentrate more on golf. "But I'm not disappointed. I thank God I did so well this far, and I've still got many years to go."

Lopez, a native of Roswell, N.M., has been a pro less than a year but already is closing in on the $190,000 that Hall of Famers Patty Berg and Louise Suggs each amassed during their entire careers.

Midlanders win six 80 net titles

By TERRY WILLIAMSON

Midland netters captured six of the 22 titles earned Saturday and Sunday in the Highway 80 tennis tournament, which featured some of the top tennis players in the Southwest.

Tiny Bitsy Hopper won Midland's first crown on Saturday with a 7-6, 6-2 win over Abilene's Cathy Wilson in the girl's 12-year-old singles division. That set the stage for five more crowns in Sunday's final day of action.

Midland High net ace Jeff Bramlett took the boy's 18 singles championship in one of the tougher finals matches of the day. Bramlett defeated Andrews' Kevin Jackson, 2-6, 7-5, 6-2, in a hard fought match. Bramlett went to the state AAAA meet this spring while Jackson was in the AAA state meet. It was expected to be a tough match, and it was as Jackson took the first set before falling to a charge by Bramlett in the deciding sets.

Midland's Mike Bustilloz helped bring home two crowns Sunday. He won the men's 35 and Over division with a relatively easy 6-2, 6-2 win over Abilene's Terry Test in the singles. Bustilloz then teamed with Midlander Raymond Yell to win the doubles title, 5-7, 7-5, 6-1, over the team of Harris and Livingston in another hard fought battle.

Midland Lee netter Karen Broe took the girl's 18 singles crown. She never skipped a beat in that division, beating Wichita Falls' Leslie Towry, 6-3, 6-2, in the finals. Broe was a regional tennis qualifier for the Rebels this spring.

The only other title wrapped up by the Midland delegation came in the boy's 12 doubles where Miles Boldrick and Duncan Kennedy raced to victory. Boldrick and Kennedy defeated the Midland duo of Yeager and Rea, 6-3, 6-0, in the finals. Rosie Garza of Odessa was one of the rare two-event winners Sunday. She took the women's singles title with a 6-4, 6-2 win over Odessa Linda Mitchell, and then teamed with Mitchell to win the doubles crown.

El Paso's Brett Hall was a two-event winner in the men's singles. He defeated Abilene's Joe Williams for the singles crown and teamed with Rick Hall to win the doubles action.

Either Keith Jordan or Greg Wright, both of Lubbock, will become a two-event winner. Jordan and Wright earned the right to square off in the boy's 16 singles finals, but decided to take their match home to Lubbock. They teamed together to win the 16 doubles.

Argentina reigns as soccer capital

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — It was Mardi Gras, Oktoberfest and New Year's Eve all wrapped into one as Argentina began a four-year reign today as the world soccer champions.

The country's 25 million soccer fans poured into the streets and cheered their hearts out after the team took the final match and the title in a drama-packed 3-1 overtime victory over Holland.

The win meant more to Argentina than just a sports title. Through four years of efforts, $700 million in stadium investments, and a vibrant young team, Argentina changed part of its image abroad not only as a soccer power but as a developing nation.

It took the Argentines seven games to reach the final of the month-long tournament. And the last match, played over the roar of 77,000 spectators, was fittingly the most dramatic.

At the end of a championship marked by defensive play and few individual stars of the magnitude of Pele or Johann Cruyff, the Argentines squared off against the goal-making machine of Holland.

The Dutch had scored more goals than any other team and had a roster that included eight veterans from their luckless 1974 Cup final against West Germany.

But Argentina came through with the goals when they counted and finally provided a hero to a tournament which had none.

His name was Mario Kempes, a husky 23-year-old with a shaggy black mane of hair, whose gift is to score with his left foot.

Kempes booted in two of Argentina's three goals.

His technique: to slither through the defense on the front edge of the goal area and force in cannonball shots.

If the goalie punches them out on his first try, Kempes comes back for more, scooping up the ball for a second attempt.

Kempes gave Argentina the lead in the first half when his low kick got past Dutch goalkeeper Jan Janbloed.

Borg wins over Amaya

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Top-seeded Bjorn Borg had to fight back on a 2-1 deficit in sets today to beat unheralded American Vic Amaya in the first round of the Wimbledon tennis championships.

While Borg was beating the lowering Amaya 8-9, 6-1, 1-6, 6-3, 6-3 on center court, No. 2-seed Jimmy Connors of the United States eliminated Russ Simpson of New Zealand 7-5, 9-8, 6-1.

But another-seeded American was upset, No. 10 Dick Stockton losing to Australian John Marks 6-2, 9-8, 7-5.

"If I can survive the first two rounds I will be more confident," Borg said before his match, which he almost didn't survive.

Unser wins at Pocono

MOUNT POCONO, Pa. (AP) — Al Unser's victory in the $400,000 Schaefer 500 earned him just about enough money to buy another race car, but he may have to stand in line with a few other customers.

"Eric Broadley makes them. They're a customer car. Anyone can buy one if he comes up with $100,000," Unser explained of his dart-nosed Lola.

With victories in both the Indianapolis 500 and Sunday's Schaefer, for almost $380,000 in winnings over two races, the success of the Midland, Texas, based car, owned and prepared by Jim Hall, is bound to spur interest of rival teams.

"We need another one first," Unser said. "We've only got one. With only one, my crew has to double up and work overtime to do the work getting the car ready for each race. When I crash the car, like I did at Texas and Mosport, it really creates problems for them."

UNSER DESTROYED the first Lola model ever created for Indianapolis style racing when he slammed into a wall at Texas World Speedway in April at more than 200 mph.

The crew went to work on the back-up car, which Unser said wasn't nearly as good a car, and got it ready for Indianapolis. After a storybook win there, Unser crunched the car up at Mosport, Ontario.

"That really set us back. The crew worked one solid week just to get the car ready for Milwaukee last week," Unser said. "It wasn't really right there, and it was still off in our qualifying here."

"We made some changes, and that did it. I was running laps in the race as fast as I qualified and that shouldn't happen."

Unser's rivals must have been saying that too as he sped away from them without a hitch. "It was a typical hard day at work," he said modestly. "Although not too hard, or obviously I couldn't have won the race."

THE PATTERN was much the same as at Indianapolis, where Danny Ongais, the pole position starter here, ran in front the first 300 miles then broke. Unser was in command most of the final 200 miles.

But Unser denied he was bidding his time in the early going.

"The days are over when you could lay back and think, 'I'll take it easy for the first 300 miles then win the race the last 200,'" he said. "That doesn't happen anymore. The racing is just super competitive these days."

UNSER AVERAGED only 142.261

Rangers take over 1st place in AL

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The Texas Rangers' high-paid collection of players finally did what owner Brad Corbett has been longing for them to do — take over first place in the American League West.

Texas batted around in the fifth inning Sunday night, exploding for six runs and a 7-0 trouncing of California. It completed a sweep of the four-game series with the Angels and moved the Rangers into first place, a half-game ahead of Kansas City.

"Have we made our move? I hope it's the start of it," Ranger manager Billy Hunter said. "It's nice to be in first place. More important, I want to be there when it's all over. But by more than half a game. We're there. Now we want to stay there."

IT WAS Texas' sixth straight victory and eighth win in the past nine outings. It was also its third shutout of the series, after Ranger pitchers had picked up only one in their previous 65 games this season.

"We ran into California when they were struggling, just like our hitters were struggling a couple of weeks ago," Hunter said. He was speaking of a stretch when opposing pitchers had no-hitters going into the sixth against his team three times in one week.

Corbett shelled out plenty of cash to acquire such hitters as Bobby Bonds, Richie Zisk and Al Oliver in the past year to shore up the Texas hitting attack and bring a pennant to Ranger fans this season.

He also acquired pitchers such as Ferguson Jenkins, Jon Matlack, Doc Medich and Dock Ellis toward the same aim.

MEDICH, 2-3, scattered seven hits and retired 14 in a row in the latter stages in Sunday's victory, picking up his first shutout since 1975.

Bonds, who hit a pair of three-run homers earlier in the series, didn't get anything to look at Sunday. Losing pitcher Don Aase, 4-4, walked him three times, once intentionally.

Mike Hargrove doubled in three runs and Toby Harrah singled in two in a six-run fifth inning to give Medich more than enough support. Hargrove also picked up a single and a triple, and Jim Sundberg was 3-for-3, including a double. Sundberg also got an RBI for a walk he drew with the bases loaded, also in the fifth.

Bob Grich, the Angels' second baseman, got two of the hits off Medich. He also committed an error on a ground ball that would have ended the fifth inning.

Red Sox sweep 3 from Orioles

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

The Boston Red Sox did everything right at home and won. So what else is new? They've won 14 of their last 16 games, 24 of their last 30, and sport a 33-6 record at cozy Fenway Park.

For contrast, we have the Seattle Mariners, who did almost nothing right on the road Sunday ... and won anyway.

While the Red Sox have been making a runaway of the American League's East Division race, Seattle has been running away with the bottom spot in AL West. But Sunday, the Mariners overcame seven — count 'em, seven — errors in recording a 10-8 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers for their sixth victory in the last seven games.

"That will put you in a nut house," said Brewers Manager George Bamberger after Milwaukee wasted six unearned runs. "They gave us every opportunity to win, but we were too lousy. We were worse than they were bad, and let me put it this way: it was a team effort."

"We've got to have the man up there smiling on us," said Seattle Manager Darrell Johnson.

Shortstop Craig Reynolds made three of the six miscues by the Seattle infield, with one each by second baseman Larry Milbourne, third baseman Bill Stein and first baseman Dan Meyer.

"They battled back after seven errors and scored 10 runs," said Brewers left-hander Bill Travers, speaking of Seattle. "We might not have scored without the errors. Give them credit."

EVERYONE IS giving the Red Sox credit for their 50-21 start and their 8½-game lead over the Yankees. Boston's 4-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Sunday completed a sweep of the weekend set and marked the 11th triumph of the year for Mike Torrez.

"Hey, I knew we were better than last year, when we won 97 games," said Red Sox Manager Don Zimmer. "But I would have been crazy to think of 50 wins so early in the season."

"When (Baltimore's) Ken Singleton came up to bat in the ninth inning, he said to me, 'If you guys keep playing like this, nobody is going to catch you,'" recalled Boston catcher Carlton Fisk.

The Yankees are well aware of that as the defending world champions start a two-game series with the Red Sox tonight at Yankee Stadium. One thing in New York's favor is Boston's merely mortal 17-15 record on the road.

At home, the Sox sent their attendance over the million mark as a crowd of 33,596 watched Torrez pitch a nine-hitter. Rick Burleson contributed a fifth-inning homer and third baseman Butch Hobson added a spectacular catch of Larry Harlow's foul popup in the ninth.

Hobson caught the ball on the top step of the Baltimore dugout, stumbled down the stairs and finally came to a halt in the runway leading to the Orioles' clubhouse.

A's 6, Royals 3
Tony Armas cracked a tie-breaking home run in Oakland's two-run seventh, then added an insurance RBI in the two-run ninth that cemented the A's victory over Kansas City and knocked the Royals from the top spot in the West.

Oakland pitcher Bob Lacey scuffled briefly with Kansas City catcher Darrell Porter in the fifth. Porter was ejected but Lacey stayed in the game and raised his record to 6-3.

Kuhn keeps his cool amidst baseball storms

By NORM CLARKE
AP Sports Writer

"I am no stooge, never was a stooge and never will be a stooge for anybody." — Bowie Kuhn, 1969, after being named Baseball Commissioner.

In baseball parlance, Bowie Kuhn figured to be a quick out. His predecessor, Gen. William Eckert, was sacked three years into his seven-year term, miscast and browbeaten by the Lords of Baseball.

Kuhn's reign started out like it might be even shorter. "In six weeks, Kuhn has done more to destroy baseball than all its enemies in 100 years," charged Judge Roy Hofheinz, owner of the Houston Astros, when Kuhn let stand a Montreal-Houston trade after Donn Clendenon threatened to retire rather than join the Astros.

BUT KUHN, now in his 10th year, has kept his cool and his job despite one of baseball's stormiest periods, an era punctuated by player strikes, the advent of free agency and skyrocketing salaries. How did he survive?

Through sound judgment, according to 82-year-old Warren Giles, one of baseball's "old guard," a man who served 18 years as National League president.

"I question whether Judge (Kenesaw) Landis would be as effective under the conditions which exist today," said Giles, referring to baseball's legendary iron-fisted czar.

"Landis assumed authority and nobody questioned it. The players association has changed a lot of things. They had some rights due them for a long time and now they are going too far the other way," said Giles, who lives in retirement in Cincinnati.

"He has been a good commissioner. He has made some unpopular decisions and sometimes he has used a poor selection of words, but he has handled the issues well. He is trying to prevent money from becoming the dominating factor in deals. Otherwise, the rich get richer and the poor get poorer and (Continued on 3B) mph, well off the track record, because of eight caution periods. His victory margin was 24.5 seconds over Johnny Rutherford, who rubbed past defending champion Tom Sneva on the final lap.

Wally Dallenbach was fourth, followed by Larry Dickson.

Ongais set the pace more than half of the time he was in the race, 325 miles, even though the field was constantly jumbled by the caution periods. The gearbox on his Parnelli broke after 130 laps.

Shortly after that, Unser took the lead and stayed in front most of the rest of the distance, although Rutherford, whose pit stops were at different intervals than Unser's, led as late as the 189th of 200 laps.

"I didn't know if he had to make another stop or not," Unser said. "I was trying to catch up with him before he did finally. But everytime I'd get close, I'd get into traffic and fall back. I was glad to see him stop."

No 'Wonders' at Bradenton

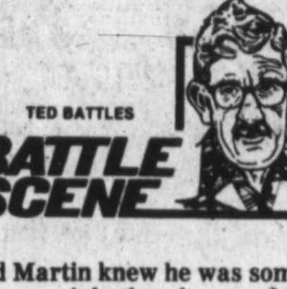

For a while, Chicago Cubs roving batting coach Billy Williams wondered why they kept sending him back to Midland. After all, the Cubs were knocking the label off the cow...horsehide, Jimmy Buckner was leading the Texas League with an average over .400 and owned a consecutive-game hitting streak a month long.

What's more, the Cubs as a team were batting over .300. True, there weren't many home runs, but with the number of hits the Cubs were getting, the runs kept coming, although at times Manager Jim Saul went to sleep at night by counting men-left-on-base.

In recent weeks, however, the Cubs have had a legitimate need for some of Billy's helpful hints, but he's off in Bradenton with the rest of the Cubs coaching staff, sorting talent for distribution to Bradenton, Pompano Beach and Geneva, N.Y., the Cubs Rookie and A League affiliates.

Sorry, but on the basis of draft reports, there are no Ray Burris, Keith Drumgrights, Mike Umfleets, Steve Hamricks or Randy Martez ready to leap frog from the draft list to AA brand ball.

Of course, you can never tell for sure. The Cubs had no idea of Burris' potential when they drafted him, but pitching coach Fred Martin knew he was something special when he saw him throw for the first time at Bradenton and suggested he was capable of helping Midland. That was back in 1972. Ray was in the majors the next season.

IF SAUL were asked to list his priorities for the second half race, it might be a power hitter to clean up those LOBs, especially now that Buckner is gone to Wichita, and just as high on his list would be pitching help. The Cubs staff has been decimated since spring training.

When Midland broke spring training in Scottsdale, Ariz., in April, pitching was the least of Saul's worries. With Jeff Albert, Jack Ledbetter and Randy Martz back, his starting staff looked as solid as the Dallas Cowboys' Front Four. Last year the trio for 24 victories between them and Martz put in only half a season.

Albert and Ledbetter have both had arm trouble. So did Jack Uhey and so do Herman Segelke and now Ledbetter again. Uhey is in Bakersfield. To compound Saul's miseries, Ron Davis, coming along nicely after a tottering start and establishing himself as one of Saul's reliable, apparently impressed Yankees' scouts. They grabbed him as the "player to be named later" in the Ken Holtzman deal.

As a result, Saul has been forced to resort to a four-man rotation and even then has had to move ace reliever Tom Butler into an occasional starting assignment.

MEANWHILE, THE Cubs bats await the return of Williams, their goodluck charm earlier in the year.

Billy will be back in the latter part of July or August, at least by his calculations when he left here a few weeks ago.

An all-time Chicago Cubs outfielding great and a former National League batting champion, Billy is taking his new assignment seriously and says he thoroughly enjoys what he's doing, even though it can't beat playing every day in the majors.

"When I came back from Oakland to Chicago last year," Billy relates, "I was determined to become totally involved."

Williams doesn't quit after his pregame work with the players is finished. "I am studying the game now more than I ever did before, putting myself in Jim's (Saul's) place. I'm learning from his moves and those of other managers in the system. Yes, someday, I might like to manage. I'm not sure yet, but I want to learn as much about the dugout side of the game as I can."

STRANGELY ENOUGH, if it hadn't been for segregation, you might never have heard of Billy Williams.

Raised in Whistler, Ala., in the 1950's when Whites and Blacks didn't play together or against one another on athletic fields, Williams also played football.

"I had an offer of a four-year scholarship to Grambling," Williams recalls. "But I decided against it. In high school I was a 155-pound defensive end."

In those days, Williams would have been just what Bear Bryant was looking for at Alabama. Bryant's linemen, and teams, were traditionally small, lean, leather and, best of all, quick. And if Blacks had been admitted to Alabama, Bryant's persuasiveness might have been difficult to reject.

That's all Billy would have needed, a knee or shoulder injury, and baseball fans might never have seen one of Baseball's sweetest swings.

Joe Patton leads way in cycling

Midland's Joe Patton had a big day recently at the Motorcycle Road Races held at the Oak Hill Raceway near Henderson.

Patton finished the day with a first in the 410cc Production Class on a Honda Hawk, a first in the Open Production Class on a 750cc Honda Super Sport and a second in the 750cc Production Class on a Honda Super Sport.

Patton currently leads the nation on points in the 410cc Production Class and in the Open Production Class. He is also running a close second in the 750cc Production Class.

In the 410cc race, Patton was running second until the last lap to Charles Brothers, who was riding a Yamaha. Patton passed Brothers on a tight turn on the back side of the track, and then out distanced the field for an easy win.

SAN

Reds, Dodgers begin to take Giants seriously

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Not too long ago, the only people really high on the San Francisco Giants were the Giants themselves. The real scramble, everyone else said, would be between the Cincinnati Reds and Los Angeles Dodgers.

Well, here it is, the last week in June, barely two weeks shy of the All-Star break, and the Reds and Dodgers are, indeed, scrambling to try and avoid falling too far behind the Giants in the National League West.

At the moment the Dodgers, the league's defending champions, are third, 3½ games behind Cincinnati and six behind the Giants. The Reds' 5-4 victory Sunday had something to do with it. Cincinnati is just 2½ back only because the Giants couldn't sweep Atlanta. They won 9-3 in the first game but lost 8-4 in the 11-inning second game.

Cincinnati had inched within one game of the Giants before running into the Dodgers and losing two of three. "It wouldn't do us any good to beat San Francisco two out of three and then come here and get swept," Cincinnati sparkplug Pete Rose said in L.A. "We needed to win this one badly."

ROSE, ASSESSING the increasing-ly surprising Giants, added: "You can't let those guys get too cocky... if they keep winning the way we're reting them, they're gonna start believing in themselves."

And Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson observed: "No one seems to be paying much attention to San Francisco, but they are clearly the favorites. They are just burying both of us."

Giants 9-4, Braves 3-8
The Giants' magnificent pitching — mainly reliever Randy Moffitt — fell apart in the 11th inning of the second game. Dale Murphy singled and, after a sacrifice and an intentional walk, Cito Gaston singled, leading the bases. Jerry Royster's two-run single to center, Rowland Office's run-scoring single and Gary Matthews' two-run double sent Moffitt to the showers and the Giants down to defeat.

John Montefusco six-hit Atlanta in the first game and got home-run backing from Bill Madlock and Mike Sadek, plus Jim Dwyer's three RBI on a pair of singles.

Phillies 4, Cubs 2
Greg Luzinski's two-run homer in the first inning off sore-armed Chicago pitching ace Rick Reuschel and Larry Christenson's seven-hit hurling gave Philadelphia a four-game sweep of their series with the Cubs.

Pirates 4, Mets 0
Pittsburgh's John Milner, who had a grand-slam Saturday against his former New York teammates, had another homer Sunday, a two-run shot in the seventh inning to support Bert Blyleven's five-hit pitching.

Cardinals 7, Expos 5
Garry Templeton of St. Louis gavelled and then took a walk.

In the top of the seventh inning he turned Warren Cromartie's two-out grounder into an error which enabled Montreal to tie the game 5-5. In the bottom of the inning, though, he followed Steve Swisher's single with a tie-breaking double. Templeton then stole third and continued home on catcher Ed Herrmann's wild throw.

Falcons 6-7, Astros 1-4
Dave Winfield and Oscar Gamble teamed to drive in seven runs in San Diego's twelfth sweep. Winfield had a bases-loaded single and Gamble a two-run double to highlight the five-run fourth inning in the opener, more than enough for Bob Shirley, who hurled a four-hitter.

Lietzke may become serious about golf

OAKVILLE, Ont. (AP) — Bruce Lietzke has some adjusting to do, some goals to set.

"This was a big, big stepping stone in my career," Lietzke said Sunday after he'd hung on with a 2-over-par 73 to score a 1-stroke victory in the Canadian Open Golf Championship.

"I'm going to have to do some mental adjusting. I've never been a goal-oriented person. After winning those tournaments last year, I kind of put it on cruise. I've gone for more than a year without a goal in mind.

"Now I'm going to have to set some goals for myself, perhaps try to have a better season than I had last year."

He's less than halfway there. Last year Lietzke blitzed the early part of the season, winning two quick titles. He was second in two other tournaments and won more than $204,000. With his victory in the 1970 Canadian national championship, the tall, cross-handed putter had won one, been second in one and collected $85,393.

"Winning this golf tournament means more to me than winning any of the others," Lietzke said. "It tells me last year wasn't just a streak. It tells me I can win when I'm not playing at my absolute peak."

He wasn't at his absolute peak, but, neither were his major challengers.

"I gave it away," said a disgruntled Lee Trevino. "It's my own fault. I lost my composure. When you bogey three of the last six holes, that's giving it away. I had it. I was doing just what I wanted to do and I gave it away."

Cardinals 7, Expos 5
Garry Templeton of St. Louis gavelled and then took a walk.

In the top of the seventh inning he turned Warren Cromartie's two-out grounder into an error which enabled Montreal to tie the game 5-5. In the bottom of the inning, though, he followed Steve Swisher's single with a tie-breaking double. Templeton then stole third and continued home on catcher Ed Herrmann's wild throw.

Falcons 6-7, Astros 1-4
Dave Winfield and Oscar Gamble teamed to drive in seven runs in San Diego's twelfth sweep. Winfield had a bases-loaded single and Gamble a two-run double to highlight the five-run fourth inning in the opener, more than enough for Bob Shirley, who hurled a four-hitter.

Stock car driver is killed

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — Stock car driver Dick Tobias of Lebanon, Pa., died instantly when his car's safety cage apparently collapsed during a qualifying heat at Flemington Speedway, an autopsy revealed.

MONZA, Italy — Jan Lammers of Holland drove a Ralt Toyota RT1 to victory in a Formula 3 Grand Prix auto race.

France's Patrick Gaillard was second in a Chevron Toyota B43 and Italy's Marzio Romano third in a March 783 Toyota.

Lammers finished the race in 38 minutes, 53.70 seconds for an average speed of 94 mph.

Roth wins 6th bowling title

SAN JOSE, Calif. — Mark Roth won his sixth professional bowling title this year with a 200-pin margin in the $60,000 San Jose open tournament Sunday.

Roth, winner of 16 matches out of 24, had a 9,645 total pinfall and won $6,000. Jay Robinson of Van Nuys, Calif., had a 9,445 pinfall and a 17-7 match record to finish second and win $3,500. Steve Jones of Kerrville, Texas, was third with 9,271 and a 15-8-1 record for $3,000.

Kuhn keeps cool

the game suffers."

GILES, WHO was almost named commissioner in 1951, thinks baseball was wise "not to take a member of the lodge and give him power."

"Even then I felt it was not good judgment to take some inside the ranks. The commissioner has to have great authority because baseball is a partnership of competitors. And that's a pretty tough body to rule."

He feels the job demands good judgment — and wrist slapping when necessary. He believes Kuhn, a longtime legal adviser for the National League before replacing Eckert, has acted firmly, but fairly.

DURING HIS tenure, Kuhn has riled ownership by nullifying deals which some contend is an abuse of his power. A movement was afoot last spring to oust Kuhn, primarily because his critics felt he has entered areas the owners consider their private domain.

Giles supports Kuhn's stand of nullifying deals "that are not in the best interests of baseball."

Kuhn's loudest detractor over the years has been Charlie Finley, the Oakland A's maverick owner who has hauled Kuhn and baseball's hierarchy into court on several occasions.

"Finley wouldn't think God could make a good commissioner," said Giles.

“Try 78° this summer. You'll save on your electric bill.”

For saving money on energy bills this summer, Texas Electric recommends a temperature setting of no lower than 78°. This may be higher than you're used to. But when it's 90° or more outside, you'll find that 78° is pretty comfortable after all.

There are a lot of other ways you can help cut down on the amount of electricity you use this summer. For our free tips booklet on ways to lower your bill, call Texas Electric, or request the booklet on the comment section of your electric bill.

And give 78° a try. We think you'll find it comfortable, and you'll sure notice the difference on your electric bill.

Johnston's No-Roach means no roaches

The manufacturers of Johnston's No-Roach are not bragging or boasting...they are just stating a fact - No-Roach means exactly that...no roaches! This claim is made with knowledge obtained through twenty years sales experience. Thousands of laboratory tests, and millions of satisfied customers. Johnston's No-Roach is different...and it's different for many reasons. No-Roach is clean and easy to use and is effective for months. When you use Johnston's No-Roach, simply brush this odorless, colorless liquid around baseboards, sinks, table legs... behind cabinets... on shelves and inside cabinet doors. Use Johnston's No-Roach in bathrooms and anywhere else cockroaches may breed. No-Roach dries fast to form an invisible path of death that kills cockroaches, ants, silverfish, spiders, all crawling insects - and best of all it continues to kill effectively for months. To keep ants out of the house, brush No-Roach across window frames and door sills. Ants will not cross the coating. No-Roach is available at: Piggly Wiggly, Furr's, Safeway, Foodway, M System, 7-11, Parkway, B & W, Walgreen's and all food stores. It is distributed by Winn Dixie of Fort Worth.

Kissinger asked to explain Argentine fight

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — A group of former Argentine foreign ministers urged Henry A. Kissinger recently to help "explain to the world" the fight by Argentina's military government against terrorism. Sources at the meeting of the Argentine Council for International Relations said the former U.S. secretary of state told the diplomats that terrorism "is not a problem for each country but an international problem that must be fought jointly." In an earlier interview with six invited Argentine reporters, Kissinger was quoted as saying governments that are fighting terrorism should not be condemned "because they are fighting for all of us." The reports said he did not comment directly on the Argentine government, but said distinctions should be made between dictatorships and authoritarian regimes trying to re-establish state authority in the face of terrorism. Kissinger, who arrived here last Wednesday, was invited by the government and attended the World Cup soccer match Saturday between Brazil and Italy with President Jorge Videla, who also is the army commander. He has met with government officials and other Argentine leaders.

China Premier to make Eastern European trek

TOKYO (AP) — Chinese Premier Hua Kuo-feng will visit Yugoslavia, Romania and perhaps France in October in a new diplomatic effort to gain support for China's fight against Soviet influence, a Japanese news service reported recently from Peking. The Kyodo agency, quoting diplomatic sources, also reported that Senior Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping will visit Thailand. The planned trips by China's top leaders apparently are designed to seek formation of an anti-Soviet international front, Kyoto quoted the sources as saying. China began a series of diplomatic visits around Asia in the first half of 1978 with Teng's trip to Burma and Nepal, a tour of Bangladesh and the Philippines by Vice Premier Li Hsien-nien and Hua's visit to North Korea in May. Vice Premier Keng Piao now is on a trip to Pakistan and Sri Lanka. Hua's trip to Europe, the Kyodo sources said, will stress solidarity between the Communist parties of China, Yugoslavia and Romania. They said China wants to form close ties with Yugoslavia and Romania, which follow lines independent of Mo-

Jeep wrote the book on 4-wheel drive!

Face the Facts... and you'll buy a Jeep Pickup

There are 4-wheel drive pickups and there is 4-wheel drive Jeep J-10 Pickup. If you think they're the same, you're in for an education. Jeep Pickup has 4-wheel drive that's built-in, not added on like an option - that's the only way we make them. Jeep Pickup is the only pickup to offer optional Quadra-Trac, Jeep's exclusive automatic 4-wheel drive, the system that's unsurpassed by the competition - to give you super traction. Jeep's load capacity is 2199 lbs. Jeep has a higher ground clearance than all its competitors so rocks won't stop you. Jeep Pickup does not have to recalibrate its springs like the competition to gain greater ground clearance, so you get a more stable ride without that "on-stilts" look. Jeep Pickup has a long wheelbase for a smoother ride on road or off. It has a lower tailgate loading height for convenience and a short hood for better visibility. Jeep Pickup has more engine choices than the competition. You pick the size you want. Face the facts - the 4-wheel drive Jeep Pickup has no competition!

Gettysburg Address manuscript heading home

By TOM RAUM

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five score and 15 years later, Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg Address seems finally to be headed home.

Next summer, if you go to Gettysburg, Pa., you probably will be able to see a manuscript of the most famous speech in American history, in the handwriting of the president who delivered it, at the Civil War battlefield where he spoke.

That sounds only logical, but getting it done wasn't easy.

It took a long and spirited fight among officials over how to handle these — and other — historic documents.

Should the public see them at historic sites throughout the country? Or should the documents stay in Washington — safer, perhaps, but inaccessible to those outside the capital?

In this case, according to congressmen from Pennsylvania and to the Library of Congress, an agreement has been reached that a draft of the speech will go to Gettysburg each June, starting in 1979, and be returned to Washington each August. The agreement is between the library and the National Park Service, which runs the battlefield.

The library has had two of Lincoln's five handwritten copies of the address in Washington since 1916. But next summer will be the first time any will be displayed at Gettysburg, says Rep. William Goodling, R-Pa., whose district includes the battlefield. He has fought to get a copy there since he came to Congress in 1975.

"The word is persistence," Goodling said Friday, after the agreement was reached. "It's been a long fight to get it there."

Why? Consider the worries of Andrew McCormick, legislative liaison for the library, which still opposes Goodling's original proposal that a manuscript be permanently moved to Gettysburg.

"It would set a bad precedent," she said, claiming it might touch off an avalanche of requests to move historical documents to sites where they made history. "This could be devastating to collections that have been carefully built up all these years," she said.

She also said the library has an obligation to keep the documents from further deteriorating with age.

Any Gettysburg manuscript would go to and from the battlefield in an armored car, with display in an air-conditioned, humidity-controlled case. "Armed guards ... are to be on duty at all times" during exhibiting, reads the agreement — actually, at this point, a proposal which is expected to be approved by congressional overseers.

Even lighting is carefully spelled out: "The intensity (must not) exceed six footcandles. The source of light will be an incandescent light source separated by a plexiglass screen ... Under no conditions will the draft be exposed to direct sunlight."

All this fuss is over a speech of fewer than 300 words — a classic of simple eloquence, beginning with the familiar "Four score and seven years ago," which Lincoln gave Nov. 19, 1863, while dedicating the Gettysburg battlefield as a cemetery for those who died there.

Historians believe the library's manuscripts are the first and second that Lincoln wrote.

Lincoln began the first draft at the White House, then completed it in Gettysburg shortly before delivering the tribute.

Historians believe he wrote the second version in Washington soon after his return from Gettysburg, and made the other copies later.

Library of Congress officials say there's no truth to the often-repeated claim that Lincoln penned the draft on the back of an old envelope while on the train to Gettysburg.

Both manuscripts were presented to the library in 1916 by descendants of John Hay, who had been Lincoln's secretary. The manuscripts have been on display at the library from time to time since then, most recently in 1976 for the nation's Bicentennial.

Three additional drafts in Lincoln's handwriting are in the Illinois State Historical Society, the Cornell University Library and the Lincoln Room at the White House.

It's easy to do a step-by-step consumer price index

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

How does your spending stack up against the norm?

Are your bills rising faster than the government's economic indicators would seem to indicate?

Analysts at Citibank, the nation's second-largest commercial bank, have developed a step-by-step system you can use to determine your "Personal Price Index" — PPI — by using the figures in the Labor Department's Consumer Price Index — CPI.

It takes a little time and effort to measure your spending statistics, but it can help you keep track of where your money goes. If your index is higher than the government's, for instance, you probably are spending more than average on goods and services whose prices are rising faster than average. Budget cuts in those areas will save you the most money.

You don't have to figure out your Personal Price Index every month; two or three times a year is enough to let you compare your rate of inflation with national and regional averages.

Start with your financial records for a given period — say the first four months of the year. A pocket calculator, while not essential, will make the arithmetic easier.

Get a copy of the government's Consumer Price Index for your area. Call or write the regional office of the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics and ask to be put on the mailing list for its free CPI releases. (Note: Regional indexes for most areas are issued only once every two months.)

The CPI breaks spending into seven categories: food, housing, transportation, medical, entertainment, apparel and other. You should do the same thing, rounding off the figures to the nearest dollar to make calculations easier.

Do NOT include income taxes, Social Security, retirement planning, life or income insurance, gifts or savings. (These items are not included in the government index, so it doesn't really measure the actual cost of living, but only provides information on what is happening to prices of selected items.)

Remember to include all beverages, alcoholic as well as non-alcoholic, in the food category and count spending at home and away. Housing includes rent or home ownership expenses like fuel and property taxes.

Promise of union job draws five-day line

NEW YORK (AP) — For five days, two human chains of jobless men and women have waited for a chance to draw a paycheck.

"This is an opportunity. Nothing comes easy," said Activio Grullon Jr., as he and about 750 others camped on sidewalks outside the offices of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 3 in Queens.

The union planned to distribute 1,250 applications today for 500 apprenticeship positions to be filled this year.

Another line of about 250 men and women waited outside the Manhattan headquarters of Local 2 of the United Association of Journeymen and Apprentices of the Plumbing and Pipefitting Industry. That union planned to hand out 500 applications for 50 jobs.

The stakes were high — a chance to earn $12.85 an hour by 1982 for the electricians.

"For a long time I have been trying to do something positive. Hopefully by Monday I can get a job and get back to a decent bed," said Mark Smith, 19, of the Bedford-Stuyvesant area of Brooklyn, as he waited outside the electricians' union.

No. 89 in that line, Denny Kuperman, is a prelaw major at City College of New York. He said he was in line because "I figure my chances of having a future here are a lot better than in law school. You either have to be in the top 10 in your law class or go to Yale or Harvard to succeed."

The unions are looking for people between the ages of 18 and 23 who have high school diplomas. The electrical union has agreed to enroll 100 women among the 500 apprentices — the first women ever to join that union.

"This is a once in a lifetime chance," said Cynthia Long of Manhattan, No. 64 in line. "We're making progress against sexism in the trades."

Some of the women complained that the men in line spat at them or broke bottles, accusing the women of "depriving" men of jobs.

"We're not taking jobs away if we deserve them," said Vickie Eisen, 19, who has been in line since Thursday night. All applicants will have to take aptitude tests.

March automobile sales took surprise historic leap

DETROIT (AP) — New-car buyers have turned ravenous in the face of a "nibble, nibble" pricing policy by U.S. automakers, but analysts are at odds over whether the surge is a feast for the industry or a harbinger of hard times.

Six months ago, the nation's bellwether industry had everyone nervous as it struggled through an unexpected winter-long slump. But on "some magic day in March," as one analyst put it, auto sales took off.

Americans bought more cars in May than in any month in history, and two straight 10-day sales records have been set so far in June. Auto sales are running at a remarkable 12 million-plus annual rate.

Everybody agrees it cannot last, and that some motorists are grabbing up new cars to beat future price increases. But there is less agreement on what that means for sales next fall or in 1979.

Richard Haydon, auto analyst for the Goldman, Sachs investment firm, says it is no coincidence that sales started to soar after U.S. automakers decided to institute periodic small price increases rather than one big boost with the introduction of new models in the fall.

"The frequency of the increases reinforces in the consumer's mind that today's prices will be lower than tomorrow's prices," Haydon said. "I believe there has been some pre-buying. It's going to have an adverse effect, but it's impossible to quantify."

Other analysts note that price-conscious consumers buying cars late in the model year to avoid fall price increases is not new.

"The question is whether more people are pre-buying this year, causing an unseasonal bulge in sales that must be paid back later. The answer is not known," says a Ford Motor Co. analyst who asked anonymity.

David Healy of Drexel, Burnham and Co. predicts a quick drop in sales for the fourth quarter. But he rejects the argument that the present situation is like the buy-in-advance psychology of the summer of 1974, which preceded a severe auto industry slump that helped lead the nation into a recession.

"The idea's the same but (1977) is a hell of a lot milder," he said.

The Ford analyst is even more optimistic. He argues that the sales figures closely correspond to increases in non-farm employment and the Gross National Product more than a year ago and that the latest buying spurge has merely canceled out the winter losses.

Youngsters rate school lunches

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Hoping to cut waste while make school lunches tastier, dieticians sought help on planning next fall's menu from a panel of experts — seven elementary school children.

Armed with rating forms, sharpened pencils and their appetites, the youngsters sat in the school system's central kitchen recently, eagerly eyeing a 25-foot-long table laden with fruit juices, coleslaw, potato salad, vanilla pudding, sandwiches, plate lunches and their favorite — pizza.

Meal No. 5 drew an "ugh" and the green beans were described as "icky," while Salisbury steak and pizzaburgers drew raves.

"They were not very happy with the barbecue beef," said Mary Filko, director of the schools' kitchens. "So I don't think I'll use that one at all."

The youngsters' opinions will help Mrs. Filko decide which bids from food contractors to accept.

A few years ago, she said, the low bidder on the pizza concession came in about a penny a slice below the competition. That penny represented big money, because the system serves pizza as often as once a week.

But Mrs. Filko was not sure the children would like the less expensive pizza, so she arranged a pizza eating contest among some youngsters. They refused to eat the less expensive variety, and the company offering the higher-priced pizza got the contract.

Deadly jail fire prompts many safety measures

COLUMBIA, Tenn. (AP) — Sprinting down a smoke-filled Maury County jail corridor a year ago today, detective Jerry Dickey was jostled by panicked visitors and lost a ring of cell keys. Within minutes, 42 persons — many of them prisoners trapped behind bars — were asphyxiated.

Dickey's desperate attempt to save the screaming inmates was kicked away with the keys in the stampede for air. The doors had to be opened one-by-one. There was no back-up safety system to open all of them at once.

It took 12 minutes to recover the keys in the tangle of feet. No one thought of the duplicate set in the office.

What authorities say began as a prank by an arrested runaway teenager ended in the county's worst tragedy. Andrew Zimmer, then 16, of Superior, Wis., is accused of using a borrowed cigarette to set fire to his cell's polystyrene padding.

A video monitoring system, a security fence, flame-retardant mattresses and smoke masks have been added since that Sunday afternoon last year.

But the cell doors must still be opened one-by-one.

"It just wasn't feasible money-wise," said Sheriff Bill Voss. "Those automatic locking systems are real expensive."

Nine visitors and 33 of the 13-year-old jail's 56 inmates suffocated in the thick clouds of black smoke rolling through the one-story concrete structure.

Death links missing in escapees' arrest

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Police say there is no concrete evidence to connect two men arrested on drug charges here over the weekend with the deaths of three members of a San Antonio family in Oklahoma last week.

"The only connection with the two men was that we think they were in Oklahoma somewhere at the time of the slayings," robbery investigator R.D. Lewis said. "The area is right. The time is right. But there's nothing else to connect them to it."

Dennis Ewing Watson, 39, and John Lucas, 40, were arrested Saturday after police broke down the door of the motel room in which the men were staying. Officers said a quantity of drugs was confiscated.

Police said Watson escaped from a Texas prison in March and Lucas was wanted for violating the terms of his parole on an armed robbery charge.

'Smoking. Here's what I'm doing about it'

"I like the taste of a good cigarette and I don't intend to settle for less. But I'm aware of what's being said. So I began searching for a cigarette that could give me the taste I like with less tar."

"I found Vantage. A cigarette that really gives a lot of taste. And with much less tar than what I'd smoked before."

"What am I doing about smoking? I'm smoking Vantage."
