Briscoe calls special session, reveals proposal

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Gov. Dolph Briscoe said Friday he is calling the Texas Legislature into special session July 10 in an attempt to give the state's taxpayers some relief.

However, Briscoe told a crowded, pushing news conference that he was sure of only one of the tax-relief proposals he will give the 181 House and Senate members.

"In my opinion, this requirement for a two-thirds vote of the legislature to pass a tax bill is one that should be

I shall ask the legislature to pass such the long list of appointments Briscoe items," Briscoe said.

The governor, who is serving out the end of a four-year term that ends in January, said he would talk with Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Bill Clayton about next Wednesday concerning the remainder of the call. "I may not say what the other subjects are until the session opens,'

Briscoe said that "as a practical matter" he expected the session to last at least two weeks. This means the Senate will be asked to confirm an amendment, in addition to other has made since the last special session, which started July 11, 1977.

Briscoe said the call would include essentially the items he supported in his unsuccessful campaign against Attorney General John Hill, includ-

- Repeal of the 4 percent sales tax on utility bills.

 Increasing the inheritance tax exemption from $25,000 to $200,000.

- Reducing property taxes in school districts, probably with a mandatory $5,000 homestead exemption made next week probably would be an opportunity to assure our tax "if tax limitation is to be a part of the call." Clayton has pushed strongly for a limit on state and local taxation, our state as they have in California," a limit on state and local taxation, plus a limit on state spending hinged on inflation and growth rates.

He said proposed repeal of the 10cent state property tax used for state college construction was "another decision to be made next week."

Hill immediately issued a statement saying Briscoe's plans to call a special session should be applauded. 'I endorse the governor's call to give relief to Texas taxpayers. This

He said the "main decision" to be will give state government in Texas payers we do not intend to allow our Hill said.

Before making the special session announcement, Briscoe stressed to the news conference that he, in effect, limited taxation by the two-thirds rule. He threatened to veto any new or additional tax bill and it would havetaken two-thirds of the legislature to overrule him.

"During the past five and a half years, Texas has developed the most attractive business climate in the nation, and the major reason has been that we have one of the best tax climates. We have the lowest per capita tax burden of any state in the union except New Hampshire and we are the only major industrial state with neither a personal nor corporate income tax," Briscoe said.

"Thus, we have taken that first step. We have limited state taxation and proven that at the same time state services can actually be improved through the exercise of sound management and fiscal responsib-

NRC halts construction at Seabrook facility

WASHINGTON (AP) - Construction on the controversial Seabrook nuclear power plant in New Hampshire was ordered suspended Friday night by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission on a 2-to-1 vote

The commission said it ordered the indefinite construction delay to protect its "freedom to decide on alternatives to the Seabrook site.

The decision which will take effect on July 21 touched off jubilation among the more than 150 anti-nuclear power demonstrators waiting outside the commission's headquarters in Washington

Terrence Adamson, a Justice Department spokesman, said Bell has no intention of turning over the FBI files. The government has maintained releasing the files after promising confidentiality to informants would result in a "major adverse affect on law enforcement in general and foreign counter-intelligence.

The government has told Griesa any defiance of his order "Normal repair of lines, including is to enable a higher court review.

Adamson said refusal to release the files "is not in defiance of the law." He said, "though it is apparently unseemly for an attorney general not to comply (with such a court order) it is not unprecedented.

However, Adamson said he knew of no case in which an attorney general has actually been held in contempt.

Bell left Washington Friday afternoon for Georgia and is due back in town next Monday or Tuesday. The attorney general also plans a trip to Australia on July 10 and Adamson said those plans are not being changed.

Griesa's order, issued a year ago, was to enable lawyers for the Socialist Workers Party to proceed with trial of a $40 million damage suit it brought in 1973 against the government claiming the FBI engages in break-ins and other illegal activities while keeping track of the party between 1938 and 1976.

The party claimed the files were necessary to show the nature and extent of the alleged wrongful acts.

Nixon to speak at ceremony

By SY RAMSEY

HYDEN, Ky. (AP) - Former President Richard Nixon is to make his first public speech since he left the White House at the dedication on Sunday of a $2.2 million recreational complex named for him in this small Eastern Kentucky mountain town.

Nixon's trip will include stops at London and Hyden in eastern Kentucky and at Memphis, Tenn. He is expected to give a nonpartisan talk to thousands of people attending the Sunday dedication of the Richard M. Nixon Recreational Complex.

As a private citizen, Nixon has been interviewed by David Frost on televiprisoners of war and attended a baseball game.

But the dedication ceremony will be his first speech at a public gathering since he resigned the presidency in August 1974.

The former president has been consulting with Rep. Tim Lee Carter, R-Ky., on the content of his talk, according to Johanna Schrambling, the congressman's legislative aide. She said the speech would not be

Those inside the gym, which is not air-conditioned but will be equipped with fans, should have a chance to get a good look at Nixon.

"He's made it clear he wants to be very visible." County Attorney McKinley Morgan said.

Nixon is scheduled to arrive at the London airport, about 50 miles west of here, Saturday afternoon and, after a parade through the city, to be driven to this town of 500, where he will spend the night at the only motel.

After another parade through Hyden at about noon Sunday, the dedication activities will begin, with anywhere from 20,000 to 30,000 persons expected to crowd into the

However, the new gymnasium can hold only 4,000 and those invited all have security clearance and will have to show white tickets with names and numbers.

Ms. Schrambling said there have been 25,000 requests for tickets to the recreational complex.

Cost-of-living increase advocated for veterans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Witnesses testifying before a Senate veterans affairs subcommittee Friday agreed that veterans receiving compensation for service-connected disabilities should get a cost-of-living raise but disagreed on how much.

But there was no disagreement that the 269 living Medal of Honor recipients should get their special pension increased from the present $100 to J.C. Peckarsky, director of compensation and pensions for the Veter-ans Administration, said they haven't had a boost in the stipend since it was increased in 1961 from $10 to $100.

"The purpose of the special pension is to recognize valorous and heroic service, over and above any other compensation which might be payable on account of service with the armed forces," Peckarsky said.
Similar legislation has been approved by the House Veterans Affairs

Peckarsky spoke in support of a bill that would raise the payments for service-connected disabilities and for survivors of those who die of such disbilities by 5.8 percent at a cost of $305.4 million the next fiscal year up Truitt named to $306 million by fiscal 1983.

He added if the cost-of-living goes up at a faster projection before Oct. 1, campaign head the effective date of the bill, the VA would be willing to match that but go no higher.

The House this week passed and sent to the Senate a bill to raise the monthly compensation payments by 6.5 percent.

John F. Heilman of the Disabled American Veterans said a 7 percent increase would be more realistic in relation to the cost-of-living in-

HOUSTON (AP) - A trade delega tion from the Republic of China signed contracts totaling $16.7 million with 12 U.S. companies Friday in a segment of Nationalist China's effort to reduce the $2 billion trade imbalance between the two countries

H.K. Shao, director general of the Taiwan government's Board of Foreign Trade, said the contracts are part of $750 million in purchases the delegation hopes to make from U.S. companies during its 14-state, 48-day

Shao said a similar mission earlier this year resulted in $268 million in purchases of farm commodities and industrial products and a third mission is planned for later this year.

"So you can see that our government is trying its best to increase imports from the United States." Shao told U.S. company representatives during a contract signing cere-the schools have many students who were born here of illegal alien parents. Because they were born here the children are American citizens and entitled to public education.

But Perez said many of the children spend their first five years in Mexico and then are brought back across the border to claim their right to free education.

Perez said he interviewed 1,326 'Mexico students' during the past year and admitted 872 to the schools. He said it's hard to deny admission.

"You have a 5-year-old child looking at you, pleading with his eyes and you have to tell his mother no," he told the committee. The committee members asked

Perez what effect an "open-door policy" would have on the district. Such a policy would open the schools to illegal aliens. The school official said the district could not afford to educate the influx of additional students. A.C. Nelson, an attorney with the Texas Rural Legal Aid, said he felt that children of illegal aliens should be admitted to schools. "I don't see where anyone gets off punishing them for the transgressions of their parents."

Staley told the committee the ultimate solution to the problem lies across the border

'The real solution to the illegal alien problem is hopefully the economy in the country from whence the illegal alien has come can be improved," he said.

JERUSALEM (AP) - Vice President Walter F. Mondale ran into both hostile and friendly demonstrators Friday as he began a four-day visit to honor Israel's 30th anniversary and to encourage resumption of stalled Mideast peace talks.

The Mondales put slips of paper into crevices of the wall, a traditional way of placing prayer messages. The wall, on Mt. Zion, is believed by Jews to be the remains of their temple destroyed by Romans in 70 A.D.

The demonstrators apparently were protesting what they consider American pressure on Israel to soften its negotiating stance with the Arabs and not the "private" nature of the Mondale visit to East Jerusalem.

The United States is urging Israel to take softer stand on withdrawal from occupied Arab lands and the future of the Palestinians who live there. Israel says it won't withdraw for at least five years, and refuses to grant selfdetermination to the Palestinians. The standoff has stalled peace talks between Israel and Egypt. Mondale hopes to get the talks going again.

One demonstrator, Ida Baker, 63, who said she formerly lived in Philadelphia, said, "If he would pressure the Arabs instead of us something would come of the peace initiative. This is too one-sided.

On Saturday, the Sabbath, Mondale has a relaxed schedule calling for a midday visit with former Prime Minister Golda Meir. After Sabbath ends at sundown, Mondale will attend a reception by U.S. Ambassador Samuel W. Lewis and a late evening meeting with Defense Minister Ezer

Mandatory minimum sentences urged for serious offenders

By MIKE COCHRAN

Associated Press Writer

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Labeling crime a "household fear," U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger called Friday for mandatory minumum sentences for persons convicted of serious crimes.

"I believe every serious offender must know that he will face punishment regardless of how lenient a judge or jury might be," Krueger declared.

"I call upon the public to insist upon mandatory minimal sentencing for serious crimes and I call upon the legal profession and judiciary to shoulder the responsibility of seeing that sentences are forthcoming.'

Krueger, a New Braunfels Democrat challenging Republican incumbent John Tower for the U.S. Senate, spoke Friday to one of the concluding sessions at the State Bar of Texas

"Unfortunately, in many instances, crime pays," Krueger told newsmen in a prelude to his address.

But he said studies show that people are less likely to commit crimes as the proportion of crimes resulting in imprisonment increases.

"Lighter sentences could be imposed upon first offenders," he said 'But the common practice of allowing mature adults to 'take a walk'...is often not only unfair to the defendant...but is ludicrously unfair to the victims of crime. Citing a survey showing that half the American people are afraid to walk within a mile of their homes after dark, Krueger offered several comments and proposals on the 'crime crisis."

He praised adoption of a recentlypassed Speedy Trial Act which sets time limits between indictment and trial. But he urged attorneys to continue to police their own profession to prohibit unnecessary delays built into the legal system.

Krueger urged the lawyers to monitor the use of plea bargaining so it does not extend "special privilege to the career criminal. At the same time, he stressed that the plea bargaining process is a reasonable way to expedite criminal court proceedings. The congressman also called for more public support of rehabilitation and counseling programs in prisons, but admitted that public officals who speak out for prison reform run the risk of being accused of "coddling criminals" or being "soft on crime."

"I will shoulder that risk because the urgency of the crime crisis in this nation dictates that the people understand the need to make major commitments to rehabilitation and counseling programs," he said.

He said it is likewise urgent that the legal profession work hand-in-hand with penologists and that public officials consistently monitor legal systems and prison systems to determine if they are working to curb crime or whether abuses in either are simply perpetuating the problem.

MOSCOW (AP) - Gayle Martin, the only American pianist to advance to the final round of this year's Tchaikovsky competition, said Friday her success is "a miracle

The 26-year-old native of Houston said in an interview she had abandoned her dream of becoming a concert pianist in January because she lacked the discipline to practice the six hours each day she felt she needed.

Instead, she devoted her time to teaching piano at New York University and playing with a chamber music society. Then her teacher, Eugene List, asked her to practice with the university's orchestra in preparation for a pre-Tchaikovsky contest he was holding in New York.

"Everyone in the orchestra said I was crazy not to y out for the Moscow competition but I could do it," she said. List, who is one of the judges here, telephoned her every day for a week until she finally sent in her application. Now she is the only American hope in the contest won in 1958 by fellow Texan Van Cliburn.

"I got back in touch with myself," said Ms. Martin. "I realized that I was committed 1,000 percent to being a concert pianist. I set up the context for a miracle to happen. Let's see where it takes me."

Ms. Martin is not the first woman to make it into the finals. Mariora Trifan went into the final round in 1974 but did not place, and Susan Starr won a medal in 1970. But no woman has ever taken first prize. The official Soviet news agency Tass says Ms. Martin has

The 1972 graduate of the Juilliard School of music began studying piano at age 6 with teacher Ruth Burr, practicing on her family's upright piano.

'I was disappointed when I was a kid because I was reading about the European composers who went on tours at age 6 or 8 and I felt I was already over the hill," Ms. Martin recalled.

But her chance came quickly. She made her concert debut at age 8 at the University of Houston. At Juilliard, she studied under one of the grande dames of the piano, Rosina Ihevinne, and went on to win the school's Tchaikovsky concerto competition in 1972. From there she made several South American concert tours. But she still disliked 'There were times when I hated every minute of it." she said. "I knew I didn't have the kind of commitment that an artist needs. I got along on my potential from a very early age." In 1975, she entered the Chopin competition in Warsaw. Poland, but failed to make it past the first cut. "That was my day of reckoning." she said.

Demonstrators interrupt final whaling commission session

By LEONARD KIRSCHEN

LONDON (AP) - Thirty demonstrators shouting "Japanese barbarians!" interrupted Friday's final session of an International Whaling Commission meeting. They splattered Japanese delegates with red dye symbolic of whale blood.

Police arrested one man after the demonstrators, protesting Japan's continued whaling, hurled a smoke bomb in the lobby of the hotel where the week-long conference was held.

Hill urges legislators overhaul, not just limit, state spending

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas legislators who want to give taxpayers relief will have to do more than put a lid on state taxation and spending, Democratic gubernatorial nominee John Hill said Friday.

"You will be cheating the taxpayer if you merely put a cap on property taxes without correcting the inequi-ties in the law now," the attorney general told a special Senate-House study property tax study committee. Hill said he thought the "strongest message" from the passage of Proposition 13 in California was that "the people are losing confidence in our, public officials," ability to handle their money. The people are tired of non-responsible government."

Hill said he thought any action on limiting state and local taxes or putting a cap on state spending should wait until the 1979 Legislature.

However, Hill said he saw no reason why tax relief measures for the farmers, home owners and the elderly could not be handled at a special

No vote machine for July session

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)-State lawmakers will return for a July 10 special session, but the House voting machine won't be ready for them.

A new voting system is being in-stalled in the House chamber, where cables and wires now are strewn over the speaker's podium. But the installation timetable did

"We need more time," he said. "If I am successful in November you have my word, as I promised in the campaign, I will veto any state tax bill that reaches my desk, so there is no immediate crisis. We have time to study these matters."

On limitation of state spending, Hill said it would be better to consider that during the regular session when legis-lators are considering the 1980-81 general appropriations bill.

"I am strongly committeed to hold-ing the line within our means the next four years," he said.

Carl Smith, Harris County tax assessor-collector, told the committee that Texas could not follow California on the Proposition 13 route.

The one percent limit on taxation (in California) would actually increase taxes some places in Texas,"

Nicholas Lampson, Jefferson County tax assessor collector, urged the committee to go through with plans for the consolidation of tax assessing offices, particularly at the county level. "This would be a savings alone of $1 million in Jefferson County," he Judge Walker's order was upheld last week by the Texas Supreme Court.

Reproductive Services still can seek review by the nation's highest court, but it now apparently must surrender the medical records before the court even considers the appeal.

woman, Claudia Lott. She asked for $1.5 million in damages for injuries allegedly suffered in an abortion she underwent last September.

Mrs. Lott said she suffered a perforated uterus and was hospitalized briefly after her abortion.

Her lawsuit, now pending before Judge Walker, seeks records of five patients other than herself who are not parties to the lawsuit. In addition, it seeks medical records of all other patients at Reproductive Services clinics who had any major or serious complications and records of all patients who received certain types of medication.

"This application seeks to protect those records," lawyers for Reproductive Services said in their unsuccessful request for the postponement.

"The order ... allows discovery of patient names and records of women who exercised their constitutional rights and who themselves have made no claims against (the firm)," the request said.

It said releasing such records could cause "family disruption" and other invasions of privacy.

And down the chimney, slower than a wink, came who?

POMONA, Calif. (AP) — Betty Ann Calvin knows firsthand that Santa Claus' slide down the chimney is no piece of Christmas cake. She tried it after getting locked out of her house, and got stuck.

And it took firemen two hours to extricate her.

Facing locked windows and doors protected by iron security bars, the 32-year-old mother of six said she decided to try the chimney when lost

The crawl along the rooftop went well, but the slide down the sooty chimney came to an abrupt halt when

Mrs. Calvin reached the damper some 14 feet from the top.

She was wedged in there for nearly an hour — one arm up, one arm down and her head turned to the side before neighbors heard her cries and called the fire department.

While firefighters worked with a jackhammer to knock through the brick chimney, air bottles were opened in the fireplace below to help Mrs. Calvin breathe.

Firefighters said Friday they doubt the 120-pound, 5-foot-2 woman could have made it through to the floor of the fireplace even if the damper had of the intensity of the blast but she would not comment on the alleged threats or sabotage.

A spokesman for the Freezer Fresh Soft Ice Cream Co.y owner of the truck, said there have been no acts of vandalism or threats against the firm, its drivers or equipment. The spokesman, who did not want to be identified, said he had no explanation for the explosion.

The driver of the ice cream truck was identified by police as Lee Butler, 23, who was admitted to Beekman suffering from burns and other injuries. A hospital spokesman said, however, his life was not in danger.

Ms. Fleysher said there was a report that Butler had been having trouble with the truck and pulled over and parked at the intersection just 10 minutes before the blast.

Several persons were blown through the windows of a Chock Full O' Nuts restaurant when the truck exploded with a resounding blast at the intersection of Nassau and Fulton streets shortly before 2 p.m.

Nassau Street is closed to traffic and serves as a shopping mall during the day, and its shoppers were showered with a hail of glass as the concussion shattered windows as high as five stories above the street.

"It looked like a war zone with all the people lying around. Others were running to get out of the way. They ran like cattle," said John Pfeifer, an electrician who works around the corner from the scene.

"It was a very violent explosion ... but we haven't pinpointed the cause of it yet," said Fire Chief Francis

Members of the police bomb squad combed the blackened and tangled wreck of the truck, about the size of a medium delivery van. One fragment was taken to a police laboratory for Inspector Robert Pirro, in charge of the police special investigation divi-sion, said it would take two days to determine definitively whether the blast was caused by a bomb. He said two experts from the U.S. Transpor-tation Department were flying here to assist in the investigation.

Pirro said in the rush to clear the area it was "a miracle nobody was

The injured were taken to Beekman-Downtown Hospital where 114 were treated. Six of the critically injured were there; eight others were transferred to other hospitals. Most of the rest had cuts and bruises.

"Everybody was running up Nassau Street to Ann Street," said Fire Battalion Chief Frank D'Amico, who raced over from his nearby office."Some people were in flames. Some of their clothes were torn and shredded."

No trump principle works on suit bid

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

As one of the world's great notrump players you know how important it is to knock out the dangerours opponent's entry first. If you want to become equally famous for your play of trump contracts, you must occasionally follow the same principle.

West took the king of spades and returned a diamond to punch out South's last trump. Now East saved the king of clubs and a diamond to defeat the contract. South made his mistake when he started the spades after drawing trumps. The correct play is to tuckle the clubs first.

If South leads a low club from dummy immediately after drawing trumps, East takes the king of clubs and leads a diamond to punch out South's last trump. Declarer leads a club to dummy's ace and tries the spade finesse

CORRECT ORDER West wins with the king of spades but cannot lead a diamond. Now South is home—all because he tackled the black suits in the correct order.

If East has the king of spades, it is not an entry. If East has the king of clubs, it is an entry. Therefore South must knock out the king of clubs before tackling spades.

CHICAGO (AP) — Millions of Americans took to the highways Friday to begin a long Indepen-dence Day holiday week-

For many of them, it will be a four-day vacation until they return to work Wednesday. The National Safety Council estimated that between 650 and 750 per-sons could be killed in traffic accidents between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Tuesday. This compares with 560 highway deaths during a nonholiday, four-day week-end at this time of the Last year, during a three-day July 4th observance, there were 553 traffic deaths. The worst four-day Independence Day weekend was in 1972, when 758 persons were killed.

More detailed labeling regulation now effective

WASHINGTON (AP) — New government regula-tions taking effect today require listing of ingre-dients in greater detail on most food labels in grocery stores. The Food and Drug Administration cited two examples to show the way the new labeling will

- Labels which previously listed only fats or oils as ingredients must now state the specific source, such as soybean oil, cottonseed oil or corn oil. — Under another regulation, labels must list all vitamins and minerals added to enriched wheat flour, for example, such as niacin, thiamine, riboflavin, ferrous sulfate and barley malt.

The new regulations will be beneficial, among others, to consumers with high cholesterol levels who wish to reduce their consumption of certain fats. The FDA said such persons will now be able to tell from the detailed new labels which foods to avoid.

The series of new labeling regulations taking effect on July 1 were originally proposed in January 1976.

They apply to all food products moving in interstate commerce, the FDA said.

When the world peered into the tiny town of Plains, Ga., its close, intertwined but strained fabric frayed and broke. "A wall went up," says the Rev. Fred Collins. "Plains was frag-

That breach in the little, Southern hometown of President Carter, population 680, seems gradually to be starting to mend, ministers there say, but only slowly and marks of the division remain.

"It takes time for the wounds to heal, but something like that is beginning to happen," says the Rev. Don Wilson, pastor of the Plains Baptist Church, to which Carter's family had belonged and which split because of antagonisms brought to a head over racial policies.

"It takes a long time to get over it completely," Wilson adds. "But things are moving along pretty good. Some of the folks left and founded another church. We're plugging along, too."

Those who left in late 1976 formed the Maranatha Baptist Church, and after meeting for more than a year in a Lutheran church four miles away, it this week began constructing its own building in Plains.

The structure, to be finished in four or five months, will be of brick, colonial-style architecture.

"Some progress has been made in respect to the differences, but it's a deep thing," says Collins, the new church's pastor for the last year. "Some hurt feelings and bitterness remain, but it's getting better as time goes by. Compared to a year ago, you wouldn't believe how deep the hurt was then."

What caused that rupture in church and community? Both pastors in telephone interviews maintained that the question of admitting blacks was not the fundamental cause, but only a surface catalyst that triggered other long-time frictions and jealousies.

"It was like a dead stick of dynamite just waiting for a cap to detonate it," Collins said, with the race issue being the firing cap. "It was not the big thing that divided the church. It only provided the tangible thing over which to take sides."

Wilson saw it similarly. He took the vacant Plains Church pulpit only six months ago, replacing the Rev. Bruce Edwards who had left for a pastorate in Hawaii. "I butte away to true to Edwards who had left for a pastorate in Hawaii. "I hate even to try to explain it, " Wilson said. "Race wasn't the primary thing." He generalized that "personality clashes" over a long period were behind it.

Neither church has yet admitted a black to membership, and both say none has applied since the break, which came after a black minister, Clennon King, who lives an miles.

Clennon King, who lives 40 miles away in Albany, Ga., was refused admission to the Plains Church in the fall of 1976.

It now has a "watch care" committee to determine eligibility for mem-bership. Would being black be an obstacle? "I'd hope not," Wilson said. "It's something the church hasn't had

At the new Maranatha church, Col-lins said race definitely was no barrier. "The doors are open to any person," he said, pointing out that the congregation has formally affirmed that "open door" policy.

"I wouldn't be here without that policy," he said. "I mean it, and I think the people mean it. We still haven't had to prove it, since no one has applied except Caucasians." He said King occasionally has worshipped in the new congregation, but has not sought membership since the church was incorporated.

Although minimizing the racial issue as cause of the split, he said his congregation favored an "open door" and in leaving the Plains church, had some misgivings about whether it genuinely did so.

"Our people are more open," he said. "In my coming here, it was agreed I would have an unfettered pulpit and preach all the Scripture without reservation, including race, that 'all are one' in Christ. The others would just pass over that."

Yet both pastors insisted that other long-time antagonisms, built up over the years in a small community of family rivalries, business competi-tion and irritations generated through time, were behind the breach which was ignited in the glare of publicity

Back in 1965, Carter and his family alone had voted in the Plains church for an "open door" racial policy. The Williams family, also in the peanut business, had been against it, and the Williams family remains in the Plains Church congregation of about 300.

Carter has stated his affinity with the Maranatha church, and when in Plains since the split, has attended Maranatha's worship services but beforehand, has gone to Sunday school at the Plains church.

"I understand his son, Chip, got him to go to both to appease the politi-cians," Collins said. "He loves Plains, and wants to live with all the people But he stands for the 'open door' and has made clear that after his presidency, he will go to our church."

Ex-heroin addict turns preacher

By JOHN GILRE Copley News Service

Phil Pearman is an ex-heroin addict turned preacher.

Seven years ago he was a slave to the white powder, supporting his $150a-day habit.

He'd do nearly anything for money to buy a fix, including stealing from his parents.

He did jail time for forgery. He served 18 months on an Arkansas prison farm for white slavery - transporting a minor across state lines for illicit purposes. He was a dope dealer, A hype.

He lived in a world of drugs, cons and ex-cons, robbing, stealing, cheating, hustling. That was until June 1971, when he says Christ got hold of him and turned his life around. Today the Rev. Phil Pearman is trying to help other hypes through

New Start, a program which had its beginning in Community Hospital of San Diego, Calif. The preacher has traveled a long

Phil Pearman grew up in a typical middle-class home in Norwalk, a suburb of Los Angeles. His dad was a baker, a proud man who made sure his son wouldn't wear dirty Levi's to school like other boys. He dressed him in slacks and a white shirt.

The Pearmans sent Phil and his brother, Leland, to Sunday school. The kids in the neighborhood and the Mexican barrio near Phil's home had more of an influence than church. It was in 8th grade Phil first smoked marijuana. He graduated to drugs a short time later. He bought and sold weed (marijuana) and was popular with gang kids in the barrios because he supplied them with not only grass. but also dealt in drugs.

"I was one of the few white boys that could go in the barrio," he said. "I was buying, selling and using."

He was a member of the Flamingoes, a car club whose members tattooed the name of their club on their right arm and left leg the same gang that tried to shoot b.A. television personality George Putnam for his comment about violence in the Flamingoes' Norwalk neighborhood.

Pearman decided to give up gang life for the Army. He dropped out of the 11th grade in high school and joined the service - only to be thrown out three months later on a "dumdum discharge."

"I didn't have the proper schooling and I barely made it through the induction center," Pearman said.

Pearman returned to Norwalk. Shortly after he turned 18 he had his "Heroin cleans your system and the first time I had it I got sick and vomited," he said.

When Pearman couldn't get money from dealing, he would write bad checks. He had $3,800 in his pocket when he left Los Angeles to travel across country with two girls, one 16, the other 17. That was when he was arrested for taking a minor across state lines.

After serving time at Tucker Prison Farm, he returned to California for more dealing, hustling, shooting heroin and - more jail time.

But seven years ago, Phil Pearman reached the point where he wanted to die. He was tired of robbing and stealing, looking for the next fix. Rosalie, his wife, was threatening to leave him. He wanted to stop using heroin, but couldn't.

"I was trying to stay away from heroin. I couldn't sleep. I was sick. I was hurting and drinking 100-proof vodka like it was water. I just wanted

Pearman recalls that he was put in touch with Steve Costa, who at the time was working at a drug treatment center at Melodyland in Anaheim.

"They began asking if I believed that God could help me and it flashed in my mind what my folks taught me about God and I said I guess God can do anything he wants."

Holding his wife's hands, Pearman said he began to pray, saying, "Forgive me. Heal this broken body. Do with it what you want. The rest of my life is yours."

It was at that moment that his life began to turn around. He calls it a miracle.

Pearman said the pains in his joints began to ease. His nose stopped running. Although he was sick and ached, he never experienced the painful withdrawal symptoms normally associated with heroin ad-

A few months after ealling to God for help, the 38-year-old addict went forward at the Norwalk First Baptist Church and "dedicated his life to the ministry.'

On Nov. 16, 1975, Phil Pearman was ordained a Southern Baptist minister. He's still associate pastor of the Immanuel Baptist Church in Downey.

Proper approach to the Bible essential

By RITA GILLMON Copley News Service

The Bible, says Dr. John Trever, is a channel, not an idol.

Trever, instrumental in the discovery of the Dead Sea Scrolls at Qumran in Israel, is director of the Dead Sea Scrolls Project of the School of Theology at Claremont, Calif.

He said working with the material convinced him a proper approach to the Bible is essential for the growth of faith and understanding in the Christian community.

'The sin of many sincere religious groups is to indulge in 'isegesis, which is (Greek for) making things mean what you want them to mean,' said Trever. "People work out a theology or doctrine and then look for proof texts in the Bible. This is what divides the church."

Trever said each part of the Bible was written by someone testifying to his faith in God 'Some conservatives use the Bible as though God has a secret message He wants to convey through it. They use it as an idol for a sense of security," he said. "I have had young students tell me

New classes in Hebrew will be offered by Dr. Chapmond Davis of Midland beginning July 10.

Davis, pastor of Midland's Dellwood

Baptist Church, will teach a series of classes in beginning Hebrew, for persons with no previous background in the language, and another series for persons who have had some previous Hebrew study. The mission now is in its annual summer recreational program for boys and girls of northeast Midland. It isn't exciting and they get involved with ouija boards, tarot cards and all kinds of of spiritism and divination and they get into trouble," Dekker said he first became aware of these things when he served as a missionary in a West African country. "As the son and grandson of

Special edition of new testament recently published

NEW YORK - At the request of the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of North and South America, the American Bible Society has just published a special edition of the New Testament in its Today's English Version. Titled "Come Receive the Light," the special edition contains two sections of additional material prepared under the direction of His Eminence Archbishop Iakovos, the Greek Orthodox Church's primate, and authorized by the Department of Youth Ministry of the church.

One is a section on "Orthodox Bible Study" which, according to the Archdiocese, will be "an incomparable aid in promoting the spiritual renewal of Orthodox Christians." The material presented seeks "to unveil the riches of the New Testament to beginning readers," and directs them to appro priate passages dealing with such themes as the problem of sin, the inadequacy of self-effort, the cost of becoming a Christian, the promise of assurance, the efficacy of prayer and the centrality of Christ.

The second special section is a compilation of selected admonitions from the early church fathers, some of which go back more than 1,700 years, on many still-contemporary topics, from astrology to violence. The translation of the New Testament to which these two sections are appended has carried the familiar title, "Good News for Modern Man," since it was first published 12 years ago. It has been commended for its ago. It has been commended for its clear language and faithful adherence to the original texts by many churches and leading Christian denominations, and more than 50 million copies of the volume have been distributed since 1966, It forms the New Testament section of the Good News Bible, which appeared in December of 1976.

The controversy began last year when the Corporation for Public Broadcasting in Washwas chipping in $1.2 million of the $13.5 million production cost of "The Shakespeare Plays." Opponents came running. There were two primary objections to the plan.
One was financial —

American tax money should not be used to help pay for British television production, said a band of critics led by organ-ized labor. The CPB scrambled harder to find a commercial corporation that would take over its share of the cast and finally did so, thus defusing most of the financial

The other argument

was less tangible but more durable — that the British should not be allowed to dominate Americans' perceptions of Shakespeare. These gritics said that Americans (maybe them-selves) should do the job, that an all-British version would discourage American productions of Shakespeare on television and teach a generation of Americans that Shakespeare is more foreign and less universal than these critics believe him to be. This argument is still going on.

The BBC has tacitly recognized the resistance by withdrawing the completed "Much Ado About Nothing" from the first season's program beause the accent used in some of the speeches "would be unintelligible to people out-side Britain," according to BBC drama director Shaun Sutton (and also because the use of "Much Ado" in the second season will provide a better balance of come-dies, histories and tragedies). The scenes with the difficult accents will be reshot. Sutton say: that thanks to Hollywood, the British have been accustomed to years but that the reverse had not been

He doesn't think Americans could necessarily do it better, he says, but it would be different, "more vital, with no pre-conceived notions," if Americans did it. But all of these judgments may be rendered academic by a study conducted by Redbook magazine, which spent six months looking for the best places to live for over 50 percent of the population (women). On the basis of everything from women's rights to ambience and feminist-oriented laws, New York came in at No. 15 spot (lagging badly behind in such categories as jobs and personal safety and, ironically, income, which is supposed to be one of the big appeals of the Big Apple).

The findings should be just as interesting for men as for women. Some observations on those that made the

Scientology filing system found

By TIMOTHY S. ROSON The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - The Church of Scientology used a special filing system with the code name of "Red Box" to conceal any "proof that a Scientologist is involved in criminal activities," according to Scientology documents seized in an FBI raid on church headquarters in Los Angeles last July. The disclosure of the 'Red Box" filing system came at a hearing on May before U.S. District Judge Malcolm Lucas in Los Angeles, who is considering a motion by the church to have the search ruled illegal.

Proscutors disclosed at the same hearing that when the "Red Box" system was discovered during the search, they obtained a search warrant for another California location where additional "sensitive Red Box" documents were allegedly kept by the church. However, by the time FBI agents had arrived at the location, witnesses there told them the files had been hastily removed earlier that day, investigators said.

Holistic health should help us become less dependent upon our doctors and more capable of taking care of ourselves.

It should get us on the track to disease prevention, off the medication treadmill and into programs for discovering inner sources of peace and well-being.

These are the ideals that make Dr. Louis Gluck a strong proponent of holistic health, if not of the term. ("I think it is a horrendously bad name that really summarizes nothing.")

WASHINGTON - A high-level member of an organized crime syndicate in New York, caught redhanded by federal agents in a bribery case, was offered a chance to avoid prosecution by testifying for the government against syndicate leaders in more serious cases.

The inducement would be federal protection for himself and his family during and after the trial. He would be given a new identity, relocated to another part of the country, and helped to find a legitimate job.

But he would have to decide fast. The mob knew he had been caught, and soon he would be suspected of turning informer. He would be marked for death.

But, as former Assistant U.S. Atty. Rudolph Guiliani, who handled this real case, recalled, his prospective witness declined the offer of federal

'There are some 220 million people in this country and 109 million of them have some sort of chronic disease. So the medical profession can't pat itself on the back too much as a great preventive force."

Nevertheless, it is to the medical profession that the vast majority turn for preventive and all other types of

"We (physicians) foster a relationship with our patients based on our omnipotence and the patient's impotence in being able to take the responsibility for his or her own health." Gluck said.

The dependent relationship begins with the small child's monthly visits to the pediatrician, plus calls "for every little symptom," and continues into adulthood with regular checkups and frequent visits with minor problems. And, the patient usually leaves the doctor's office with a prescription.

"The tragedy is that we have become a pharmacologically oriented society in which the most widely taken drug is aspirin and the most widely prescribed drug is Valium,'

"At the same time, we foul up our environment, process our food to the point where nutrition becomes a matter of opinion, allow ourselves to become grossly overweight and smoke ourselves into the ground.

"Our priorities are senseless and our alternative is to look at something that begins to make sense." Some of the answers may be found elsewhere. "Other populations have been examined for factors that lead to longevity and good health," Gluck said. "It is fascinating to find a small handful of things that make a dif-"The people slept seven hours a night, drank little or no alcohol, didn't smoke, got a significant amount of exercise, kept their weight down, ate nutritional food and had a good, creative outlook that keeps people young and active. "There really is no mystery to this thing. So you are looking at a person - me - who is a staunch advocate of the most basic kind of preventive medicine. "My recommendations to my profession are very simple. "We should teach patients to eat properly, to reduce the amount of fats to maybe 10 to 15 percent and cut out sugars, work their weight down to something reasonable, work out exercise programs, get a reasonable amount of rest, and get into some kind of stress-reduction plan."

Hypnosis is a stress-reduction procedure which Gluck began using about 25 years ago.

"I now teach hypnosis here in this medical school; my interest goes back to 1952 when I was in general practice," he said. "Instead of giving prescriptions to some of my latients, I treated them by listening on them talk about the things that bothered and upset them.

"I helped them work out their problems, often with hypnosis, and it was amazing how many illnesses would respond to treatment without medication. I feel that hypnosis is a nice way of getting into the part of the mind that controls emotions that affect our health.

'Self-hypnosis is just one way to better self-awareness. There are others. Meditation is one. They are all part of the same phenomenon and anyone who has worked in the field at all finds out that there is inherent within each individual a tremendous healing power. Certain people have known this for a long time."

Allowing for necessary medical care in cases of serious illness and injury, Gluck includes Christian Scientists among these "certain people."

"They have practiced a form of holistic health for years," he said. They have refused to have physicians unless there has been some overwhelming illness. They catch fewer colds and have lower instances of heat disease. When you look at other societies where less emphasis is placed on the physicias, the people do very well."

play of volleys. Okker crushed the Argentine lefthander 6-3, 6-4, 6-2 — and it was as one-sided as it the scores indicated. Okker sped around the court much as he did in the 1960s when he first burst upon the world circuit to be nicknamed the Flying Dutchman.

"I haven't played so well for years," Okker said as he moved into the last 16. The 25-year-old Vilas was seeded No. 4.

After rain had blanked out Thursday's program the fans — around 35,000 of them — crammed into the All-England club to see a fairly full day of tennis. Rain caused only brief stoppages this time.

Bjorn Borg of Sweden, seeking his third straight Wimbledon title, rolled past Peter McNamara of Australia 6-2, 6-2, 6-4 and reached the third round. Borg is one round behind his rivals because of the weather hold-

Jimmy Connors, seeded No. 2 behind Borg, did not play Friday. Vitas Gerulaitis, the third seed, downed big Sherwood Stewart 9-8, 6-0, 6-2 and advanced to the last 16.

Four other seeded players went through to the round of 16. Sandy Mayer of the United States eliminated Mark Edmondson of Australia 6-4, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, and Raul Ramirez of Mexico ousted Bob Frawley of Australia 6-4, 7-5, 6-3.

6-1, 1-6, 6-4, 6-4, continuing his string of all-Australian duels. He defeated countrymen Dale Collings and Ross Case in the other rounds

Still another Australian, 14th-seeded John Alexander, came from behind to beat Anand Amritraj, one of two Indian brothers, 5-7, 6-3, 7-5, 6-2.

American winners included Tom Gullikson, who swept Mike Machette aside 6-4, 6-4 6-2, and Tom Gorman, who ended Britain's title hopes by disposing of Mark Cox 4-6, 8-6, 8-6,

With the tournament not yet at the halfway point, only 11 of the 16 original seeds in the men's draw still are in contention for the $34,200 first prize.

The Okker-Vilas drama took place on a packed center court, under dark-

Vilas, with his flowing ground strokes, generous backswing and fol-low-through, appeared perfectly at ease in the first six games, as both held service. But then Okker suddenly sprang to life.

In five unbelievably one-sided games, the evergreen Dutchman won 20 points out of a possible 21 and went from 3-3 to win the first set and take a 2-0 lead in the second.

Okker left his opponent stranded with superb passing shots and angled volleys that clipped the sidelines with clockwork precision. Vilas' Romani-an coach, Ion Tiriac, sat chain-smoking and signalling deperately to his protege between points, but it did no

Vilas broke back at 2-2 in the second

4-5, when he double-faulted twice. Okker completed that break by catching Vilas at the wrong end of the net and then sending a tantalizingly slow, looping backhand down the far side of the court.

Okker broke again at the start of the third set, and Vilas never got out of the mire.

Gerulaitis might have beaten Stewart more quickly if he had capitalized on three set points at 5-4 in the first set. But he missed them, and his bearded opponent battled on to 8-8 and a tiebreaker.

That marked the end of Stewart's resistance, however. He managed only one point in the tiebreaker, and folded completely in the second set which took just 17 minutes. Gerulaitis dropped cunning short failed with a stream of low volleys and half-volleys. Gerulaitis broke for a 2-1 lead in the third set, was held up by rain for 20 minutes, but then won four games out of five for the match.

Virginia Wade, the defending women's champion, pleased the partisan crowd by hitting her way past Lesley Bowrey of Australia 6-1, 6-4 in the second round.

Six-time singles champion Billie Jean King defeated Maria Pinterova of Czechoslovakia 6-3, 6-2.

Martina Navratilova, the exiled
Czech left-hander, defeated Pam Whyteross of Australia 7-5, 6-1. Navratilova is seeded to play in the final against the favorite, Chris Evert, who did not have a match Friday. She will play fellow American Laura DuPont next.

Lopez' victories good for ladies

NOBLESVILLE, Ind. (AP) - The success of 21-year-old rookie Nancy Lopez is the greatest thing that ever happened to women's golf, tour veter-an JoAnne Carner said Friday during practice for Saturday's start of the Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament.

Carner, the winner of 20 official LPGA tournaments since joining the tour in 1970, is the tour's second-leading money winner this year. But her $57,493 is less than half the earnings of Lopez, who has claimed $131,128 in prizes with victories in seven tourna-

LSU hires Paul Dietzel

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) - As expected, Louisiana State University formally offered its prodigal son, Paul Dietzel, the position of athletic director Friday.

But LSU will have to play Dietzel's waiting game.

"It's a silly situation for me," he said after meeting behind closed doors with the board for nearly two until July 4."

Dietzel now is athletic director at Indiana University, and said he could not announce his decision until he meets with that school's president next Tuesday.

"Everybody will know some time July 4," he said.

In what was a formality, the board voted 14-0 to offer its most famed and controversial - football coach the position of athletic director. He would succeed Carl Maddox, who retires Feb. 28, 1979.

Last Monday, a special selection committee voted 9-1 for Dietzel. He was one of eight candidates, and the only one not formally interviewed.

In a statement, Dietzel said he was "very flattered by the attitude and the offer" presented by the LSU board. He said there was a "candidexchange of ideas" during hisMmeet-

He said that salary and length of contract were discussed, but they wouldn't be a factor in his decision.

"The remaining pertinent question at this point can only be answered after I have honored my promise to Indiana University President John Ryan: 'To confer with him before announcing my decision.' And that cannot be done until he returns to Indiana on July 4," the statement

"Until that time I will be unable to make any further statement." Ryan is in Poland and won't return until Monday

If he takes the LSU job as expected, Dietzel would be returning to the school he once said he would never leave - but did, leaving behind bitterness among diehard Tigers' fans.

Veeck shakes up Chisox

CHICAGO (AP) - Larry Doby, the first black to play in the American League, was named manager of the Chicago White Sox Friday, replacing Bob Lemon in a move by owner Bill Veeck "to stir things up a little bit."

"Let me emphasize this was an amicable and mutual decision," Veeck said. "But we felt that the club was not making any real progress and that maybe we could stir things up a little bit to help the overall fortunes of the ball club.

Doby was Lemon's choice for a replacement, Veeck said, and becomes the second black manager in major league history. The first was Frank Robinson, who managed the Cleveland Indians in 1975 and 1976 before being fired in 1977.

Doby was the White Sox' batting coach since last year. The White Sox also dismissed pitching coach Stan Williams, replacing him with Bruce Del Canton, who pitched for 11 years in the major leagues and has been player-coach of the White Sox' Iowa team in the American Association.

Veeck said Lemon's firing "isn't a commentary on his managing" and the Hall of Fame pitcher would remain with the organization as a West Coast scout.

'Maybe I didn't do my job as well as a I could have in putting the club together," Veeck said in a telephone interview from Bloomington, Minn., where the White Sox were scheduled to play Minnesota Friday night. "But we felt we had a potential we weren't quite reaching and we thought maybe this could help.

Veeck, who flew to the West Coast to be with the club in Seattle Thursday night, said he spoke with Lemon, whom he described as "a very dear friend," then informed Doby early

Veeck did not specify what changes Doby might bring to the club, which is in fifth place in the American League

"As far as I'm concerned, let's wait and see," Veeck said. "We're dealing in generalities here. Larry is very thorough and I just think that in this case it may be a change in philisophies and approach that we're Veeck said Doby's contract would be adjusted, but that he hasn't had time to talk to him about it.

Cubs to host special nights

It will be Cubs Sun Visor Night when Midland opens a 10-game ho-mestand against El Paso's Diablos at 7:30 p.m. today in Cubs Stadium, which beats Bat Night for those with sensitive eardrums.

The rough, tough, destructive Diablos, unfortunately, will show up with their bats and that promises noise enough. The Diablos, who won the first half Texas League West Division pennant, nosing out San Antonio at average to Midland and the Diablos have lost more $2.75 baseballs beyond fences than any other team in the

The Diablos are in Midland for five games to be followed by San Antonio for five more, so it's an important stand for Manager Jim Saul's club. Since Midland was last home, the Cubs lost outfielder Jimmy Buckner, their leading hitter to Wichita, but added pitcher David Overstreet, who returned from Pompano Beach, Florida State League, after a brief stay. Overstreet takes the place of Ron Davis, who was shipped to West Haven of the Eastern League as part of the trade that brought Ken Holtzman back to Chicago.

It's a big stand for promotions with the highlight being Monday's Cubs, Downtown Kiwanis Club and Chamber of Commerce sponsored Fireworks celebration. The game starts at 6:30 p.m. Musical entertainment is scheduled for after the game and the fireworks will begin at dark.

The three holiday games, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, will start at 6:30 p.m. and the first 1,100 fans through the turnstiles tonight will get the Cubs sun visors.

About those Diablos bats. Danny Goodwin, the No. 1 draft choice in all of baseball a few years ago, and outfielder Bob Clark have been most destructive against the Cubs. Goodwin has hit seven homers and knocked in 19 rbi while hitting .351 against Midland. Clark has hit five homers, batted in 13 runs and has a .321 average against Midland. If that wasn't bad enough, second baseman Bob Slater is massaging Midland pitching at a .400 clip

Softball meet is rained out

The 10th annual July 4th Slow Pitch Softball Tournament at Hogan Park was rained out Friday night with 10 games rescheduled for today, starting at 8 a.m.

A total of 42 teams are entered in this year's gigantic tourney with teams fromMidland, Odessa, Abilene, Andrews, Big Spring, Carlsbad, N.M., El Paso, Fort Stockton, Hobbs, N.M., Lubbock, Roswell, N.M. and San An-

The top seeded team is Abilene's Chromalloy. Other strong entries include Spectrum of San Angelo along with two Midland powers --- Goodrich Service Center and Schlumberger. Odessa has two teams that could be contenders in Chickaree Industries and Electrice Service & Supply. Small Tool of Big Spring is also reported tobe strong this year.

The 10 games that were washed away Friday will open today's schedeule with games being played on four diamonds instead of three.

There is a possibility that a total of 83 games will be played during the meet which runs through Sunday af-ternoon and is a double elimination

Hahn said he had made an effort to reach Davis, but had been unsuccess-

The Rams have studied the possibility of moving to Anaheim, about 35 miles south, but owner Carroll Rosenbloom has said there would be no immediate decision although it must be made by the latter part of July.

There is a contract with the Coliseum through the 1979 season, so any move could not be before 1980.

Rosenbloom visited Anaheim Thursday, but said there was no decision, and a spokesman for the club denied radio reports that the club would make an announcement Fri-

Rosenbloom has been unhappy that improvements he wants have not been made to the 50-year-old Coliseum which has been the Rams' home since they moved from Cleveland in

Hahn said there was an NFL rule prohibiting a team from moving within 75 miles of another, but he had legal opinions that such a rule was illegal, and the Coliseum Commission will seek another NFL team if the Rams

Hahn said he had talked with NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle by tele-"I told Pete that to let the owners of all the other pro teams know that Los Angeles will be interested in getting a new team here if the Rams move,"

In its bid to get the Rams, the city of Anaheim, home of baseball's California Angels, has proposed increasing the seating capacity of Anaheim Sta-dium from 44,000 to 72,000. Hahn also said he told Rosenbloom that since chances of the 1984 Olympic Games being held in Los Angeles have dimmed, the Coliseum probably would meet his demands for improvements much sooner.

Rosenbloom has proposed lowering the Coliseum field to permit more of the better seats for football. That would mean elimination of the running track which would be necessary if the Olympics are held in Los An-

Reggie Jackson rips grand slam-

NEW YORK (AP) — Reggie Jackson, criticized publicly by New York owner George Steinbrenner for not hitting, responded Friday night with three hits — including a grand slam in a six-run third inning — and five RBI to power the Yankees' 10-2 triumph over the Detroit Tigers.

Steinbrenner criticized his veterans after a doubleheader loss in Milwaukee Wednesday night. One of his targets was Jackson, who was hitless in seven at-bats in the twin bill.

But Friday night, he singled in a run in New York's two-run second and hit the sixth grand slam of his career to left in the third. New York had loaded the bases on a walk to Graig Nettles, a single by Chris Chambliss — the second of his three hits — and an error by starter Steve Baker which permitted Lou Piniella to reach first. The slam, Jackson's 13th homer this year, was his

The Red Sox tied the score 2-2 in the sixth after Fred Lynn, who hit his 10th homer in the seventh, singled for his third hit to open the inning.

Lynn moved to second on a wild pitch, and scored when Dwight Evans broke his bat on a 3-2 delivery and lined the ball into left field.

TORONTO (AP) - Horace Speed knocked in two runs with a single and triple to back the four-hit pitching of Rick Wise and lead the Cleveland Indians to a 3-0 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays Friday

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England (AP) - The Bulgarian national team, making its first appearance at the Henley Royal Regatta, served notice on American and British rivals Friday that it intends to take home four of Henley's major trophies.

In the only heat raced thus far in the Grand Challenge Cup, the Bulgarians rowed to a comfortable 14-length win over the British national heavyweights in a time of 6 minutes, 31 seconds. That's 15 seconds faster than anyone else has negotiated the one mile, 550-yard River Thames course this week. 'We don't have any excuses," British Coach Chris

Lacey lets go

OAKLAND (AP) Throwing caution to the wind, Oakland A's relief pitcher Bob Lacey declared Manager Jack McKeon must go if the A's are to remain in the pennant race. Lacey's verbal blast began as an explanation of his fight in Kansas City Sunday with Royals catcher Darrell Porter, and ended as a rap against McKeon's strategic philosophy. The team is in home for a fourgame weekend series against Kansas City starting tonight.

"Our coaching staff isn't sticking up for us,"the reliever said Thursday. "Every time we have a close play, nobody is out there sticking up for us." KcKeon shrugged off

King Kong starts King Kong starts

CHICAGO (AP) - Looking at Dave Kingman trying to hit to right field is as weird as suddenly realizing you're driving the wrong way on a one-way street.

But the lanky Chicago Cub slugger says, somewhat petulantly, that's the way it's going to be. The Cubs certainly didn't hire Kingman as a $200,000-a-year free agent to hit singles to right field but the right-handed hitter says he's been criticized by someone in the organization for not going to right field.

"Don't try to find out who told me," Kingman said. "That's all I'm going to say about it. But it's permanent. I'm going to do it all year ... forev-

That's somewhat of a turnaround for Kingman who, before the Cubs embarked on a recent road trip, said "I just keep going up there to do what I can. I'll always be the same. I might strike out two or three times and then hit a home run. That's the way it's been for seven years and I don't see it changing." So why the change with Kingman hitting to right quite successfully against shifting defenses? Nobody seems to know. "I haven't said anything to him," said Manager Herman Franks. "He does what he wants to do. I've always said that he's never reached his po-

Could it be Bob Kennedy, the general manager who last summer said he'd never take Kingman in the free agent draft and then did an about face and signed him?

"I don't care what field he hits to as long as he hits and we win," Kennedy said. "I think Herman and the coaches talked to him about it. But the intent wasn't for him to go to right field on every pitch. There's a time to go for a single and a time to swing

Or maybe it was Lew Fonseca, the Cubs' highly regarded batting in-

Fonseca. "I've told him on occasion to take a shot to right but I also told him I wasn't going to take his home run swing away from him."

So far as home runs and runs batted in go, Kingman has had his share. He has 15 homers and 45 RBI, a ratio which is as much as can be expect-going to right field and in a 9-8 victory over the New York Mets Wednesday, Kingman twice hit sacrifice flies and a two-run single while swinging flat-footed and trying to go

Whether opposing teams will shift their defenses to adjust to the new Kignman swing or the whole project will be disbanded remains to be seen. So far Kingman is doing it his way. Or

Oscar Ontiveros signs to play tennis at MC

Oscar Ontiveros, a former player for Midland College tennis coach Brian Gilley in El Paso, has signed to play for the Chaps next season.

Ontiveros played for Gilley three years at El Paso High before Gilley accepted the Midland College position in April 1977, "Oscar comes from a tennis-playing family and I put the first racquet in his hands when he was in the third grade," Gilley said. Oscar's older brothers, Juan and

Memo, also played for Gilley at El Paso and all three qualified for re-Oscar was El Paso city champion once and runnerup twice. He won listrict singles once and was runnerup two times. After his sophomore year he was named to the El Paso

Junior Davis Cup team as No. 2 player and as an alternate to the regional Junior Davis Cup team. The following year he was a member of the El Paso Junior Davis Cup team which won the title for the first time in 10 years against Albuquerque, Tucson and Phoenix.

in the past three years, Ontiveros has won or been runnerup in the Burges Indoor Invitational singles; UTEP open doubles; Vista Hills Mid-Summer open, 18 boys singles; Thanksgiving tournament, mixed doubldes; Austin Junior tournament, singles and doubles; Odessa Highway 80, 18 doubles; Midland Junior tournament, 18 doubles; Washington men's open, singles, and UTEP Open, mixed doubles.

Hey, whatever became of Yanks' Pepitone?

One thing and another while wondering whatever became of

Jim Paul, minor league executive of the year for three straight years, apparently is thinking big, like big leagues. "They call me bush...and, meanwhile, the major leagues are starving to death."Jim is quoted in Texas Monthly. "Just give me one shot at the major. give me one shot at the major leagues. Give me a city like Houston for a year...I mean, no matter what I tried, it can't get any worse than it is now ... '

When asked what characteris-tic he would look for in picking a manager, Bill Rigney, Sr., now a special assignment scout for California's Angels and, incidentally, our Bill's dad, said, "Someone the game was hard for. You don't very often find a good manager that the game came easy for. Good managers are usally people who had to really work to learn what the game was all about." Let's see, Earl Weaver, Joe Altobelli, Tom Lasorda, Don Zimmer, Dick Williams, Jack McKeon, Danny Ozark, Sparky Anderson, Ralph Houk and George Bamberger, all managing major league teams, seem to fit into that category. One wonders if that means Bill wouldn't have hired Jim Fregosi, who is the manager of the Angels...

RUSS POTTS, the new SMU athletic director, asserts, "Our first priority is football attendance...Our philosophy is involvement...There's a whole group who wants to help, but they want to be asked...Another area is fund-raising. Drake University is raising $185,000. You can't convince me that we can't do better than that. Not only do we want to reach the SMU graduate, but also the business community and college athletic fans. At Maryland (from whence Russ came), over 50 percent of the Terrapin Club membership consists of non-Maryland graduates."

Incidentally, Baseball Weekly claims SMU played the toughest schedule in the country last sea-son, not USC or Arizona State or any of the glamor names of the Midland Cubs first baseman Aaron Randall and Chicago Cubs roving batting coach Billy Williams both grew up in Whistler, Ala. In fact, Hank recalls that Billy and his dad played semipro ball together, "And as a kid, I used to go hunting with Billy." Hey, you Longhorn fans who like to plan ahead...Texas and Penn State will play at the 76,-000-seat Hackensack Meadowlands stadium outside New York. That is in 1984. The Meadlowlands complex, which wiled the New York Giants away from Yankee Stadium, is seeking to become the eastern showplace for college football. Other top attractions include Penn State-Tennessee in 1983 and Alabama-Rutgers, Rutgers?, in 1980. And, of course, it will have its own bowl game, the Garden State Bowl, Dec. brr-brr 16... Two other eastern bowl ventures, New York's Gotham and Philadelphia's Liberty, frankly, were frozen out of existence. Now, a ski jump is something else...

THE JULY 1 issue of The Sporting News has a Midland supplement. Well, not really, but there are articles about Judy Rankin and former Midland Lee pitcher Roger Alexander. Judy confesses her put-ter has done her in this year and hubby Yippy kinda agrees, "An 18-handicapper can put better than she is right now." Duck, Yippy...Alexander, pitching for Savannah, a Braves' farm club in the Southern League, reeled off seven straight wins and then lost four in a row by scores of 4-3, 5-2, 5-1, and 2-1.

Alexander credits "The slider, shorter curve balls and control' as the reasons prompting Atlanta to keep a closer tabs on Mustachioed Ion Tiriac, from the legendary home village of Dracula in Romania, smoked 14 cigarettes, transmitted hand signals, glared menacingly but didn't move a face muscle as his protege, Guillermo Vilas, went down in the third round of the Wimbledon tennis championships Friday.

If the fearsome-looking Tiriac hoped to cast a spell over Holland's scrambling Tom Okker, he never made connection. Okker beat the fourth-seeded U.S. Open titleholder 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

Doby surprised at Veeck call

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Larry Doby, who Friday became the second black manager in major league baseball history, seemed subdued and reserved as he talked about replacing long-time friend Bob Lemon as field boss of the Chicago White Sox. ### TPC purse increased OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) - The basic purse for the Tournament Players Championship will be increased to $400,000 next year. Deane Beman. commissioner of the Professional Golf Association tour said Friday.

In addition, each golfer in the tournament will receive at least $500, bringing the probable total purse to $444,000. Beman said.

The total purse for this year's TPC. in which Jack Nicklaus won the $60,000 top prize, was $344,270, the biggest purse on the tour.

"The TPC is the fastest growing major championship in golf, and the purse of the players' own championship should and does, reflect this high level of achievement," said

The 1979 TPC is scheduled for March 22-25 at Sawgrass in Jacksonville, Fla., its home in 1977

On Wednesday, Beman announce that the Tournament Policy Board has approved construction of a tourowned golf club in Jacksonville, which would become the perma ent home of the TPC. Voting members of the tour must approve that decision before the club can be built.

ATLANTA (AP) — Willie McCovey of the San Francisco Giants became the 12th player in major league history to hit 500 or more home runs Friday night when he crashed a two strike pitch off Atlanta Braves hurler Jamie jeasterly in the first game of a twi-night doubleheader.

The 40-year-old left-hander's historic blast was a solo shot in the second inning and was his seventh of the season. It traveled about 350 feet to left field, an opposite field belt.

McCovey became the third player in Giants' history to hit at least 500 homers. Mel Ott cracked 511 for the old New York Giants and McCovey's former teammate in San Francisco. Willie Mays, had 660 homers in his career.

The 6-foot-4, 220-pound slugger from Mobile, Ala., has been one of the most feared hitters in the National League s nce his first day in the majors in 1959 when he went 4-for-4 off Robin Roberts of the Phillies at Seals Stadium in San ifrancisco.

After 13 seasons with the Giants, McCovey spent nearly three seasons with the Padres from 1974-76. He hit 52 of his homers in a San Diego uniform before being traded to Oakland near the end of the 1976 season, then returning to the Giants at the start of the 1977 season.

McCovey began the season with 493 home runs, ted with former New York Yankees immortal Lou Gehrig.

McCovey's next home run goals are Ott's 511 and the 512 figure held jointly by Eddie Matthews, formerly of the Braves, and one-time Cubs star Ernie Banks. Also within possible reach were Ted Williams, 521, Jimmy Foxx, 534, and Mickey Mantle, 536.

Former Baltimore Orioles great Frank Robinson, now managing at Rochester in the International League, was the last man to reach the 500 homer plateau, smacking it off Detroit's Fred Scherman on Sept. 13, 1971. Robinson retired with 586

Harmon Killebrew, then with the Minnesota Twins, hit his 500th career homer the same year, on Aug. 10 off Baltimore's Mike Cuellar. Killebrew retired with 573 homers. Banks smacked his 500th homer in 1970.

McCovey's return to the Giants in 1977 was one of the most celebrated homecomings in baseball history, and he responded on June 27 in Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium by becoming the all-time NL grand slam king with his 17th. Only Gehrig's 23 career grand slams surpass McCovey in the majors.

In 1977, McCovey also became the only player in major league history to twice hit two home runs in one inning, which he accomplished in the same inning - the sixth - in which he hit his 17th grand slam McCovey led the Giants in both RBI 86) and home runs (28) in 1977 when he hit .280 with 134 hits, which put him past the 2,000 career mark for base hits.

Colorado Rockies DENVER (AP) - The majority Rockies' financial troubles, Vickers owner of the Colorado Rockies said Friday he has a "moral, if not legal, Hockey League team to a New Jersey trucking company operator. At the same time, Jack Vickers said he had talked earlier in the day with Carl Scheer, president and general manager of the National Basketball Association Denver Nuggets.

Scheer had said earlier the Nuggets would be "tremendously interested" in acquiring the Rockies, if such a deal could be worked out.

Vickers, however, said Scheer was talking "jelly beans" compared to what it would take to keep the Rockies in Denver.

He put the price of the club at $5 million, plus $2.5 million in notes to the National Hockey League.

In New Jersey, trucking company executive Arthur Imperatore said Friday he had reached an agreement in principle to buy the Rockies and move the team to the East.

The team would split its home schedule between New York's Madison Square Garden and Philadelphia Sepctrum for two seasons until the 21,000-seat Meadowlands Arena in East Rutherford, N.J., is completed in the fall of 1980.

Any move of the franchise, or transfer of ownership, would have to be approved by a unanimous vote of the NHL Board of Governors.

Vickers has been involved in a lengthy dispute with city officials over terms of the Rockies' lease at the city-owned McNicholas. Vickers has said the team has lost $5 million in the two years since the franchise moved from Kansas City. We're at the end our string. My partners and I have tried everything to keep professional hockey here. Vickers said at a news conference Friday at the arena. "The city has slammed the door on us at every

About 75 Rockies' supporters gathered outside of Vickers' office with hockey sticks and signs urging the team be kept in Denver. The city's control of parking, concessions and advertising at the arena were the main causes of the said, adding that incompetent city management of the arena had inded the problem. "The City of Denver has put a black eye on itself as far as the future of hockey here," he said.

IXN New Jersey, a spokesman for the New Jersey Sports and Exposition Authority, Les Unger, confirmed that negotiations had been held with Imperatore concerning use of the Meadowlands arena by an NHL team. "The arena is progressing as fast as possible and right now we do not have a hockey franchise," Unger said. "We've entertained thoughts with many groups interested and hope a deal can be culminated.'

Scheer's interest in acquiring the Rockies surfaced Friday in a story in the Denver Post. The Nuggets also are tenants of McNichols Arena.

"I would say that we are extremely interested in acquiring the Rockies and operating them in conjunction with the Nuggets, if a common ground for the deal can be worked out," said

"We have talked the matter over and we are definitely in the position where we are tremendously in-terested," he said. "If such a deal can be worked out, it might be beneficial to us, to the Rockies and to the City of Denver.

Vickers, however, said little at the news conference to encourage the possiblity of keeping the team in Denver.

He said that his discussions with Scheer mainly had involved the possibility of combining some services at the arena, not actual sale of the Rockies to the Nuggets.

And he added that Scheer was the only local interest with whom any discussions had been held.

At a City Council meeting Thursday night, Vickers had been flayed by Council President Elvin Caldwell, who said Vickers was using the city to save the image of a chain of gasoline stations he operates.

'It's easy to make the city the whipping boy to save your relationship with your customers," said Caldwell. "The (city) administration has a history of bending over too far for the sports franchises."

SAN DIEGO (AP) - The operator of the Sports Arena said Friday that a major stumbling block has developed in moving the Buffalo Braves' National Basketbail Association team

Peter Graham said six changes, including one which "alters the management of the Braves.

"If this thing falls apart now, it will be on their heads," said Graham in an

Both drugs can be used on horses as pain killers, but it is illegal to race horses under the influence of either substance.

LEIDEN, Netherlands - When the words drugs, sport and money are thrown together, you have a sensation. The organizers of the Tour de France road cycling race might not wish to see it that way, but the 65th tour, which starts from here on Thursday, has every chance of being the most sensational since the race was first held in 1903.

There is growing disquiet over the health of several leading riders whose careers appear to be prematurely threatened by the prolonged misuse

Eddy Merckx of Belgium, professinal cycling's most successful rider, retired recently at 32 after an unexplained illness. Bernard Thevenet of France, winner of the tour in 1975 and 1977, has had a miserable season and on Sunday he dropped out during the French road championship. "If I am as bad as this in the tour I will not last a week," he muttered. Nobody can really say what is wrong with him, but several commentators have already suggested that his body can no longer respond after several years at the top of one of the world's most exacting sports.

Professional cycling's biggest scandal in recent years broke at the heart of Thevenet's team in 1976 when Rachel Dard provided the sports newspaper l'Equipe with a lurid account of the widespread use of drugs in professinal cycling.

Dard was suspended for six months, yet after a great deal of veiled accusations there was no official investigation.

Dope tests are carried out during the tour and in other professional cycling races, but the careful use of undetectable drugs means most of the offenders miss the net. It is interesting to note the number of riders who suffer from respiratory infections during the tour.

Nobody ever admits to taking drugs, but world champion Francesco Moser of Italy went as close as anyone recently when he said in reply to the question of whether he took drugs, "I have never had a positive test."

All this is a rather sordid presentation to the queen of professional cycle races, but the Tour de France is no longer a simple bike race. It is a four million dollar business venture, and the organizers appear more concerned with maintaining the spectacle than washing the dirty linen.

Last year, the organizers had promised ruthless screening tests. In protest the riders pedalled their way gently over the rolling countryside until they reached the Alps where they knew the race would be won or lost. As a result, the tour was a dull affair during the firstTfortnight.

This year the organizers have introduced time bonuses to encourage adventurous riding. Anyone 20 seconds ahead of the field at designated points in each stage has 20 seconds sliced off his overall time.

But as the first 925 miles of the 22-stage, 2,550 mile race offer few difficulties, there is unlikely to be much excitement for the first week.

As Jacques Anquetil of France, winner a record five times, said, 'There is too much at stake for any outsider to stand a chance of breaking away." He also felt that the 95-mile team time-trial on the fourth day would handicap promising young riders in weak teams. The times will count toward the individual posi-

The 110 riders, divided into 11 trade teams, will dispute about $280,000 in prize money. The distribution is far from equal. The eventual winner collects 100,000 francs (about $23,000), plus an apartment on France's Atlantic coast offered by a property compa-ny, plus advertising and appearance fees which will make him a rich man. The rider who finishes 30th in Thursday's opening 3 1-4 mile time-trial wins 50 france (about $11.50).

Stage winners receive about $920 and the best placed rider aged under 23 wins $80 a day and $800 as the young competitor with the best overall performance at the end of the number of stages and the total dis-tance, and communities contest the publicity accrued from the tour caravan's presence (stage towns pay at lest $10,000 and probably much more), the riders will have to make two bus rides and three train journeys to tie up the loose ends in the counterclockwise race around France.

The race finishes on Paris' Champs-Elysees Avenue on July 23. The tour is an individual competition disputed by teams. Nobody can win without a strong team.

That is one reason why 23-year-old Bernard Hinault, regarded as The-venet's successor, might fail in his first attempt.

He has shown all-round ability with victoriea in one-day classic races and a large win in this year's tour of Spain. But his team lacks depth and he may be too exposed. He won the French championship on Sunday.

Dutchman Hennie Kuiper, 29, has again planned his season with the Tour de France very much in mind. Last year he lost to Thevenet in a memorable duel up the steep, winding slopes of Alpe d' Huez. Thevenet should pose less of a problem this Kuiper also suffered from sharing the team leadership with Dietrich Thurau of West Germany last year. Thurau left for another team in the winter. He will not be competing this

Another Dutchman, Joop Zdetemelk, has finished second three fourth twice, fifth once and eighth last year after failing a dope test. He is 31 now and has probably lost his chance to capture that elusive

Don't betagainst Shoe

The Los Angeles Times Syndicate

Nobody, ever rode a running horse the way Willie Lee Shoemaker did not Geronimo, the James brothers, the Pony Expressers, the Buffalo hunters, the Lone Ranger, Paul Revere or the Headless Horseman of Sleepy Hollow. He is history's all-time cavalryman.

He was born 10 inches long, 2 1-2 pounds heavy, three months premature, and it was all the edge he ever needed. He got on a horse as soon as he could stand, and, pretty soon, there wasn't anything about a horse he didn't know. They both spoke the same language - silence. He had a riding style made out of silk thread. He didn't need the whip. He could hand-ride a Brahma bull with a pricker in its tail. He never made an enemy of the horse. The guys who monitor races with moving pictures and binoculars thought he was pulling a fast one, and they wanted to give him days every time he let a sore horse walk home, but he won one out of every three races he rode and nobody had ever done that before. He could take a horse that would eat the starting gate and every horse near him and turn him into a bridle-path pony by the eighth pole. The bettor never got a swindle from Shoemaker. He never took the overland route, or rode a horse shopping for a price. If you wanted larceny, you looked elsewhere in the tack room. Willie Shoemaker was not for sale.

He did with a horse what a Rembrandt did with a brush, or Ruth with a fastball. To be sure, he made mistakes. But he never made excuses. He pulled up Gallant Man three jumps from victory once in the Derby. He didn't bother to lie about it. So, it just went on to join Roy Riegels' wrong-way Rose Bowl run, Dempsey's long count and Fred Merkle's boner as the stuff of sports legend. He wasn't an educated man.

Fabens, Tex., wasn't exactly Athens, and the guys mucking stalls in La Puente hardly ever discussed Proust. But he never made noise eating soup, either, and his conversation isn't sprinkled with four-letter words. I don't recall hearing him use one. You could safely sit him with the Queen. Shoemaker knew how to behave on and off a horse.

People said he was a California rider, probably because the Kentucky Derby was such a hard-luck race for him. He won on two horses he shouldn't have - some say, three but rivals he dusted off on the Coast went home muttering darkly they should call the track there "Shoemaker Park." So, he went back East and won riding championships there and stakes everywhere. Still, a lot of people frowned and shook their heads when Shoe announced that he was going to take a crack at the English Derby at Epsom this year. "They run backwards and uphill over there. You'll get lost," they told him. "It'll be like playing golf left-handed." They were afraid the pride of the American turf was going to disgrace American racing. It would be like Earl Sande falling off. "All them horses do is chase foxes."

he was warned. If you thought the Americans were skeptical, the English had a hard time keeping a straight face. To give you an idea, Shoemaker went off at 30-1. The last time Willie Shoemaker went at 30-1, Dewey was favored for the presidency. You couldn't get 30-1 against Shoemaker if he were riding Rattledy-Bang against Man O'War.

He was on a quitter named Hawaiian Sound that none of the hedgejumping jockeys wanted any part of. The notion was that if Paul Revere had Hawaiian Sound, the colonies would still belong to the Crown. The redcoats would have beat 'em to Con-

Well, of course, Shoemaker got the horse within a head of winning the English Derby. Monocles fell all over the Royal Box. Col. Blimps forgot his gout in his astonishment. The bookles in the stalls found out something that bookies on Broadway found out long ago: a guy who would lay 30-1 against Shoemaker would lay it against the sun coming up tomorrow.

They honored Bill Shoemaker at the Jockeys' Agents Ball at the Beverly Wilshire in Beverly Hills, Calif., the other night. I don't know what Bill did for other jockey's agents, but I know what he did for his. And Willie announced he was leaving for Ireland to ride Hawaiian Sound in the Irish Derby this weekend. If the news of Epsom hasn't reached the Curragh yet, and he goes off at 30-1 again well, don't get shut out. Because the next time over there he'll go off at a shorter price than Lady Godiva.

Fuller climbing another moutain

BOSTON (AP) - He's climbed two of the highest mountains in sports — only to be knocked off. But down-toearth aristocrat Peter Fuller says he hasn't yet been counted out.

The son of a Massachusetts governor, Fuller took the sports world by storm in the 1960s with a horse and a heavyweight. Today, he's watching

The man who managed Tom McNeeley to a once-in-a-lifetime title shot against Floyd Patterson 17 years ago — only to see the young fighter hit the canvas repeatedly - no longer has his own boxers.

Instead, he's working behind the scenes to help orchestrate a title fight for Brockton, Mass., middleweight

And the fabulously successful car dealer whose black beauty Dancer's Image won the Kentucky Derby a decade ago - only to have the crown taken away in a political-medical furor - still has what he terms "high hopes" in the so-called sport of

Fuller owns a batch of 2-year-olds stabled in New Hampshire, Maryland and France and expects at least one to turn into a big money winner. It's an unusual combination of sporting interests. "I can say hello to folks in the gutter ... and rub elbows with some of the most important people in the world through my associations with sports," Fuller says without the hint of a brag. "It's a broad spectrum." Among Fuller's other distinctions is a January, 1977 exhibition bout with heavyweight Muhammad Ali. Fuller was 54 at the time of the charity show and thus became Ali's oldest unofficial ring opponent.

It was no joke for Fuller, a former amateur boxer who won 50 of 55 fights and got to know Rocky Marciano, although the two never fought.

As for his racing interests, Fuller reports that Dancer's Image, 13, is in good health, in stud, in Normandy, France where the now-white oldster gets $10,000 per mare.

The Dancer's famous father, Native Dancer, also turned nearly pure white in his old age.

But Fuller pulled out almost as soon as he stepped in, citing a mysterious threat by a never-apprehended gunman. Fuller doesn't talk about the
