Krueger feels too much pressure to end disputes placed on Israel

By LINDA HILL

Charging that U.S. policy has not responded to "dramatic changes" in the Middle East in the last three years, U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger said in Midland Monday night the U.S. has put too much pressure on Israel to settle its disputes with its Arab neigh-

Krueger spoke to the seven-state district convention of B'nai B'rith at the Midland Hilton. He is the Democratic nominee for the seat currently held by U.S. Sen. John Tower, who is seeking re-election.

Krueger said, in 1973, the Middle East situation was one in which "fanatical Arabs" held influential roles, the Soviet Union was arming Arab states and the Palestinians were a potent force. Also, he said, OPEC became an "important factor" over-

American policy formulated by Henry Kissinger successfully diminished Soviet influence in the Arab countries and divided Arab thinking on how to deal with Israel, he said. But, the policy of "forever trading land for good will" made Israel feel insecure, he said.

Now, Krueger said, the OPEC nations are more interdependent on the Western countries because of obligations those nations have made in domestic spending programs. He said Saudi Arabia realizes its long-term economic health and its strategic interests depend on the West.

Also, Syrian intervention against Palestinian forces in Lebanon have undermined seriously the influence of the Palestinians. Krueger said.

A weakened Egyptian economy also tends to diminish the likelihood of war, he said.

Now, the only elements of the Arab world opposing the right of Israel to exist are "the madman Khadafy in Libya and the xenophobic regime in Iraq," he added.

Thus, Krueger said, the U.S. does not need to take as active a role in the Middle East as was necessary several years ago

"For the time being, Israel need not negotiate out of a fear of immediate military threat," he said, although he added, "it is best to negotiate through

He said Israel must seek to reach a peace settlement, rather than rely only on a strong defense, because it will not be possible to sustain the heavy investment of national wealth in defense for generations.

Rep. Bob Krueger

Krueger said he believes pressures on Israel from the United States stem from dependence on Arab oil. Thus, he said, he thinks it is "emminently important to the long-run future of Israel that this country maximize its reserves."

Another factor in U.S. pressure on Israel, the congressman said, is that the American public "over-reacted" to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's peace initiative last year.

He said President Jimmy Carter should have emphasized long ago that American policy could not be based 'simply on the appeal of President

As a result of what Krueger termed a failure of American public perception to keep up with the changing Middle East situation, Krueger said it is his judgment "we have pressed

Fourth of July sparks celebrations as varied as American lifestyles

By The Associated Press

In the mountains of Montana, unknown organizers planned a marijuana smoke-in; in the prairies of Oklahoma, a jogging club scheduled a Freedom Run; and near the oceans hundreds of thousands of Americans hoped for sunny skies as the nation today celebrated the 202nd anniversary of its independence.

Many localities ushered in the Fourth of July holiday with parades and pageants with patriotic themes and scheduled traditional fireworks displays for tonight, while others, such as Hopewell, Va., welcomed the holiday with peculiarly regional rites - a greased-pole climb and a tobacco spitting contest.

A less traditional celebration was

unsigned, one-page flyers appeared last week calling for marijuana smokers to gather in a public park to "defend your right to smoke, grow

There was also a peculiar twist to the holiday in another part of Montana, near Bozeman, where Gallatin National Forest officials reported 'quality'' summertime skiing - the result of high-altitude snow. In Oklahoma, the Stillwater Running Club was sponsoring a Freedom Run for some 40 joggers who are to lap Oklahoma State University and then run four miles through campus. As befits a holiday honoring the Declaration of Independence, freedom was a prime theme of many

Frank Rizzo was scheduled to present Philadelphias's highest award, the Freedom Medal, to Cardinal John Krol, the city's Roman Catholic arch-

In Charlottesville, Va., Rob Coles, a descendant of Thomas Jefferson, was portraying one of the nation's founding fathers and its third president in a stage program called "Meet Thomas Jefferson.

Scores of veterans groups were staging marches and parades, with one of the largest the American Legion's annual pageant at Soldier Field in Chicago.

Music was playing a major role in Fourth of July festivities.

For the 50th Independence Day, conductor Arthur Fiedler and his Boston Pops Orchestra were planning to regale audiences with their rendition of Tchaikovski's "1812 Overture" and other works in a free concert on the banks of the Charles River in Elsewhere, New Orleans was celebrating the late Louis Armstrong's birthday with an outdoor jazz concert, and 80,000-seat Rich Stadium in the Buffalo, N.Y., suburb of Orchard Park was playing host to a concert by the Rolling Stones. On Monday, the city of Providence, R.I., honored the late George M. Cohan, composer of 'I'm a Yankee Doodle Dandy'' and other patriotic songs.

Red, white and blue reminders still remain Dominey said funds were short. They are being stored now to be used

By JOYCE CRAWFORD

Just two short years ago Midland was gearing up for the biggest birthday party the city has sponsored yet. A special committee started the planing six months in advance, and the guest list was limited to anyone who wanted to be involved.

It was, of course, America's 200th

Who could forget the drama of the bicentennial? Everywhere one looked there was a reminder on a T-shirt. billboard, television commercial or bumper sticker. And July 4th, which is no slouch of a day during a regular year, was more red, white and blue than ever.

Besides the usual fireworks and parades, the city held a bicentennial fun affair complete with booths and food. The area downtown by the courthouse and the Hilton Hotel became the grounds for the affair, and decorations were complete with garbage cans painted red, white and blue especially for the occasion.

The Midland City Bicentennial Committee issued silver medallion bicentennial keepsakes, which were sold for $20. There was a drive to sell flags so there would be "10,000 flags over Midland," and T-shirts were sold with the logo "Enjoy your freedom, it's America's birthday.

There is absolutely nothing wrong with a little celebration now and then, and our country's birthday is a good reason to have one. But one question which comes to mind is what becomes of all the paraphanalia collected and used during a bicentennial?

Joe Dominey, a member of the bicentennial committee, said he probably had six dozen medallions stored in his bank's vault

"I still sell one every couple of months," he said. Eventually he plans to donate the remaining ones to be displayed somewhere.

Unlike balloons and fireworks which are a one-time buy, the flags still are flying, and T-shirts always can be worn while doing yard work.

Memorabilia the committee collected through the year originally was going to be placed in a vault, but later for special displays. Probably the lone reminder of the big event of 1976 is the bright red, white and blue trash cans mingling with the trees in front of the court-

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) -FBI agents negotiated through the night with four armed persons holding four hostages in the Chilean consulate in San Juan.

The quartet demanded release of four Puerto Rican nationalists from U.S. prisons and cancellation of the island commonwealth's Fourth of July celebration today. But Gov. Carlos Romero Barcelo and his government went ahead with plans for the big military and civilian parade this afternoon.

Police isolated the block in San Juan's old quarter where the consulate is located on the fourth floor of an eight-story bank

'All we can do is wait," said an FBI spokesman. The three men and a woman invaded the Chilean office Monday afternoon, taking Consul Ramon Gonzalez Ruiz, one of his staff and two unidentified persons in the office on business as hostages. Ruiz, allowed to speak to reporters by telephone, said they were being treated well. One of the gunmen told The Associated Press the seizure of the consulate was also intended to express "repudiation of the representatives in Puerto Rico of the killers of the Chilean people," meaning the military junta that overthrew the late President Salvador Allende in a bloody

The man spoke in Spanish and identified himself and his companions as Puerto Ricans although he did not appear to have a Puerto Rican accent. FBI spokesman Gordon McGinley said he talked by telephone with one of the men who "said they had no political connections. He sounded like a South American, but I couldn't tell from what country." The gunman who talked to the AP said the group telephoned the State Department in Washington and dictated a letter to President Carter demanding the "unconditional release of our political prisoners, now,' cancellation of the July 4th celebration in Puerto Rico and that Carter not permit the exchange of the prisoners for "spies."

This last demand apparently was a reference to recent reports that the U.S. government was considering exchanging the four imprisoned Puerto Ricans for U.S. citizens imprisoned in

"We are not connected with any political or guerrilla group," the spokesman for the group said. "We are doing this because we want the freedom of our national heroes." The FBI said the prisoners whose freedom was demanded were Lolita Lebron, Rafael Cancel Miranda and Irvin Flores, who were imprisoned for the attack in March 1954 in the U.S. House of Representatives in which five congressmen were wounded, and Oscar Collazo, who was convicted of attempting to assassinate President

Thunderous display offers stiff competition to Kiwanis fireworks

Even the biggest electric company in town couldn't afford, let alone engineer, such an aerial display that burst on the eve of July 4th south and east of Midland.

No, it wasn't the annual Independence Day star-burst fireworks bananza over Cubs Stadium. The patriotic Kiwanis Clubs of Midland put that one together, and they're real pros in aerial fireworks.

Granted, it was a show that may have conjured up images of Francis Scott Key watching the 1812 British bombardment of Fort McHenry in Baltimore harbor and of the inspirational "The Star-Spangled Banner." It was a colorful, thunderous show without intent to overthrow any-But the really big show, as Ed

Sullivan would say on stage, was way out over into the distant yonders. It was as common as thunder and lightning, and that's what it was, The spectaculars in nature, those they are perennial.

Some view the display with awe and wonder. Others look up nature's fireworks of electric charges and thunderous blasts with the fear Thor instilled in the Norse. Still others see in it the blessings of rain and of the fruit the fair earth will bear and

There is fascination in watching distant lightning works. And when it's overhead, it can really put fear, awe and wonder into a soul Why fireworks on the Fourth? Western man celebrates by popping corks and, with the influence of the Oriental, by lighting fireworks.

The giant backdrop to the man-made bursts over Cubs Stadium was Thor's show: thunder and lightning. Perhaps the colorful bursts are, for moments, more entertaining than the heavenly bolts, cracklings and roars. But they are understandably tame and, except for an occasional misfire, quite predictable.

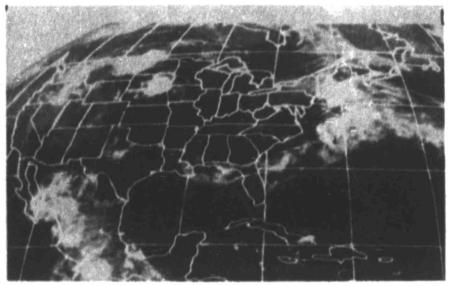

If you were out driving around or otherwise running about last night, you surely noticed the maverick and sometimes outlawish "cannon balls" and other fireworks. Many, quite legal, were setting off fireworks along "country roads" and may have experienced the excitement of a childhood prank.

Too, people were crowding around fireworks stands like gnats hovering over a milk can. They may not get in, but they sure were making a stir, a bit of fire and noise.

them (the Israelis) too hard when we ought to have left them a little more on their own.

The U.S. objective for Israel should be a "peace of secure and recognized boundaries," he said. But, Krueger said, "only the parties on the ground in the Middle East" can determine what those boundaries should be.

He said he believes Saudi Arabia is "the key" to a long-term Middle East settlement because that nation has helped finance Arab governments in conflict with Israel. He said he believes the Saudi Arabian need for security and lack of "internal or external subversion" will lead it to act to encourage a settlement.

But, he added, he did not favor sale of planes to Saudi Arabia this year. He said he would prefer not to have made any arms sales in the Middle East now

In a press conference before his speech, Krueger attacked Sen. John Tower's voting record, and charged that Tower has not voted independently of Republican presidents.

He said Tower voted for the Emergency Petroleum Allocation Act in 1973, which Krueger said "triggered oil price controls for the nation and shattered the economic base of this important industry.

Krueger said he has voted with President Carter 43 percent of the time, compared to 40 percent for Tower. But, Krueger said, Tower voted with Republican presidents 80 percent of the time, compared to 40 percent of the time for himself.

On the subject of the Labor Reform Act. Krueger said it is "just as well" the Senate sent the bill back to committee. He said he voted for the bill in the House, with many amendments which did not pass the Senate.

"I don't intend to be pro-labor or anti-labor," but, rather, he said, he intends to look at each issue on its own. "We've got too much of 'anti'

Shaky truce silences guns of Lebanon

1. That Syrian troops take up positions in Christian strongholds.

2. That Lebanese army officers who cooperated with Israeli forces in the recent invasion of southern Lebanon be dismissed and that Christian militiamen holding positions along the Israeli border hand them over to U.N. peacekeeping forces.

The newspapers said Assad and Lebanese President Elias Sarkis agreed on these conditions last month. They charged that the rightwing Christian Phalange and National Liberal parties and their militias, the Syrians' targets in Beirut for the past three days, had been "obstructing" the agreement. Christian spokesmen replied that security in Christian areas should be maintained by Lebanese Christian forces and the Syrians should concentrate on restricting Palestinian guerrilla activity elsewhere in the coun-

Judge's ruling may portend statewide tax reform cal

SHERMAN, Texas (AP) - An Austin tax expert says a judge's order blocking approval of Grayson County's 1978 property tax roll may spawn a statewide call for what amounts to revamping the form of personal property taxation.

Adrian Overstreet, an Austin tax expert hired by the Grayson County Taxpayers Association, said the group actually isn't advocating anything more than a return to assessing property taxes according to constitutional guidelines.

"This is nothing new," said Overstreet. "What we're shooting for is a return to the uniform method of assessing property."

District Judge Will Boyd Monday granted a permanent injunction preventing commissioners in this North Texas county from approving their tax roll until "all" personal property as described in the state constitution is placed on the roll.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - Memphis firefighters laid down their picket signs and returned to work this morning, ending a three-day walkout that spawned a state of civil emergency and saw hundreds of arson fires erupt in this Mississippi River city. But the 1,400 firemen who left their stations at 7 a.m. Saturday said they were going back to work only because of a court order issued Monday after-

"I've still got my picket sign in my car," one young firefighter said this morning as he carried his blue uniform on a hanger toward his midtown fire station. "If the negotiations don't Union President Kuhron Huddleston said Monday night the men had voted to obey the court order. He said he and other union leaders would return to the negotiating table with city officials in an attempt to work out a new contract.

'Grand and Glorious'

The choir, during the Fourth of July weekend worship service in a Midland church, began its anthem, "From Sea to Shining Sea," on a beautiful note, with organ accompaniment: "O beautiful for spacious skies, for amber waves of grain..." and on through the other touching words and verses. concluding with "America! America! God shed His grace on thee, and crown thy good with brotherhood from sea to shining

And as the final note faded away, it is doubtful, indeed, if there was a dry eye in the congregation.

It established the theme for a meaningful sermon, "America: A Heritage and a Destiny - 'In Search of a Burning Instinct." And it set the proper mood for observing Independence Day, community-wide.

This is as it should be. This is what this great patriotic holiday is all about.

Independence Day, the anniversary of the day on which the Declaration of Independence was adopted by the Continental Congress - July, 4, 1776 - certainly is a time for celebrating and for a meaningful show of patriotism.

It also is a time for all Americans to reflect seriously on the Fourth of July observance and what it really means to them as individual citizens of this great and free land. Freedom and independence are not something which can be taken for granted.

John Adams, one of the nation's founders, on the occasion of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence, said: "I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival. ORLANDO, Fla. - I am part of the American crowd. I've no desire for a car the name of which is a number, nor do I want to go skiing in the Alps or sailing in the Mediterranean. A Ford, the Appalachians, and Florida beach suit me just fine.

I've no desire to rule anybody or to live in a mansion or to be a celebrity. I just want to be left alone to work, to ive in my own house, to watch my kids grow up, and to understand what is going on around me.

That is what freedom means to me and I think that is what it means to small ambitions and a narrow range of interests.

Words like "destiny." "fate of mankind," "history." and "glory" all have a nice ring, but I think what most people have fought for is the right to be left alone to pursue their own personal interests.

So my family is really the sum and substance of my interest in domestic and international politics. How is something going to affect my family is the question I always ask.

I truly don't give a hoot what kind of government they have in Russia or in any other country because I have no intention of ever going there. It's only when they start building bombs and missiles and waving them around in our direction so that I foresee the possibility that they will use them to hurt my family that I get interested. Then I hate them.

Maybe it's my southern heritage but I take the whole world personally. and I think that is what it means to When that pig-faced peasant, most Americans and to most human Khruschev, said he was going to bury beings everywhere. There are some things worth getting killed for and defeating communism is one of them, but that was not the purpose of the Vietnam War. The civilians made sure our military couldn't win and at the same time they protected communism in Cuba and traded with it and gave it credit in Europe. Whatever they had in mind it was not to defeat communism.

But a war, like a gun, will kill you just as dead if it was started on purpose or by accident, by men of good intentions or by men of bad-intentions so the saying, "He means well," doesn't cut any ice with me.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Bureaucratic red tape: sticky

By JACK ANDERSON WASHINGTON - Another tax rebellion, not unlike the insurrection that brought down the British tyranny 202 years ago, is sweeping America. But the tyrant under attack is no King George III conspicuously ensconced on his throne; it is the anonymous government clerk seated in his

In his pettifogging way, the bureaucrat has gained control over our destiny so unobtrusively that we didn't realize we were oppressed. So gently, prosaically, gradually and invisibly did he tighten the bonds that we never appreciated the extent to which we were caught in his grip, and we protested only the inconveniences - the late letter, the length of the food

This finesse, this capacity to narcotize, made possible feats of domination unimaginable to Charlemagne. Prior to the bureaucratic age, when a government was short of funds, it had to forcibly lay hands on estates or invade and loot other countries. Nowadays the Treasury experts peaceable and effortlessly perpetrate the same atrocities by manufacturing paper money or devaluating the currency. Thus the bureaucrat has quietly become a tyrant. He demands the rigid observance of set rules and procedures, the interminable seeking of permission for divergence. He embraces secrecy and discourages dissent, because the democratic processes disrupt the smooth implementation of his plans. He abhors democratic politics, with the emotions and harangues and oversimplifications.

The bureaucrat was supposed to deliver us from the feudal rigidity of the baron and the simplistic ferocity of the king. In their place was established a body of magistrates and clerks, detached, methodical, guided by uniform regulations which were followed to the letter. This made possible what we grandly hail as 'government of laws and not of

But the laws have multiplied, each ensnarled in red tape and regulations. until the bureaucrat can find a legality to support any decision he chooses to make. This is bringing back the horror of whimsical rule, albeit by a clerk rather than a king.

It is estimated that last year legislative bodies at all levels federal, state and local - enacted 150,000 laws, and that each of these laws will require the issuance of 10 regulations on the average. The end result of all this is growth beyond control or even comprehension.

The cost to private citizens and private businesses for merely filling out federal forms is more than $60 billion a year, including an estimated $21 billion worth of man-hours spent on preparing individual income tax returns. The cost of paying, housing, equipping and pensioning off the federal bureaucracy is more than $100 billion a year. One hundred tons of waste paper are collected each day from federal offices. Frank Lloyd Wright once wrote that while doctors bury their mistakes, architects just cover theirs with ivy. The government clerk, to paraphrase Wright, merely smothers his mistakes in paper.

Every private enterprise of any consequence is now entangled in government red tape to the extent that last year businesses had to prepare 114 million forms - 15,000 different types of them - for the federal government. The paperwork in licensing a single nuclear power plant frequently exceeds 15,000 pages and may cost $15 million. Nitpicking over the most minor point may drag on for years.

According to an unpublished study by James Bennett and Manuel Johnson, a pair of economics professors at George Mason University in Virginia, the number of regulatory reports required by the federal government multiplied during a recent period by more than 30 percent. Worse, the forms became increasingly complex: the time it took to complete them increased 63 per-

Justly do we groan under the complexity, the myriad exceptions and alternatives, encountered in the 6,000 pages of our income tax code. The Internal Revenue Service has on its shelves no less than 13,200 separate forms; each of these may have many individual "schedules" attached to it. No less than 41 different forms are "commonly used" with the 1978 federal income tax returns.

One form alone, the U.S. Information Return for dividends and interest, demands responses from more than 100 million taxpayers. But the individual taxpayer has an easy time compared to the businessman who is deluged with special forms. Compliance with just one of these. form No. 941, is estimated to cost beleaguered small businessmen over $235 million per year.

The Office of Management and Budget, which has been called upon by President Carter to remove the snarls from the federal operation, has itself become caught in a swirl of forms, schedules and memos, says the professors' study. This is the office which approves new governmental forms; the record shows it almost never turns one down.

But, though we revile the bureaucrat for his bumbling and futility, in fact our elected representatives are no match for him. and so he relentlessly encroaches upon them.

Jimmy Carter is not the first president to entertain designs on the civil establishment.

The Army made a nice impression upon President Carter with a mock battle costing a million dollars staged for his benefit. It was worth every penny, having received rave reviews from the drama critic of the New York Times.

How about equal spectaculars on behalf of other interests? Perhaps an outdoor extravaganza - "Poverty Night Fever." As the President sits in the reviewing stand, one million starving people pass in review.

In light of the rejected HEW appropriation to remove architectual barriers for the handicapped, how about a Wheelchair Derby in Indianapolis with stairs and revolving doors placed along the track?

These are all legitimate ways to capture the hearts and minds of our leaders — because there's no business like show business.

Veto of tax reduction in midst of tax revolt(?)

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON - Agreement by the president's policymakers and key House supporters on June 12 began a chain reaction that could conclude just before the election with this fate-ful event: a Jimmy Carter veto of major federal tax reduction in the midst of the tax revolt. The agreement, reached behind closed doors of Vice President Walter F. Mondale's ceremonial office just off the Senate floor, was to oppose the tax package sponsored by Democratic Rep. James R. Jones of Oklahoma. Since the Jones package may be the very best tax bill President Carter can hope for from Congress, the decision to oppose it suggests a veto end-ing the long process this fall. That is precisely what the loyalist Democratic congressmen recommended

This raises a prospect but dimly grasped so far at the White House: Democratic congressmen campaigning under the banner of vetoed tax reduction, with federal income tax rates scheduled to rise in January. Mr. Carter and his party would be-come counter-revolutionists fighting the tax revolt, bearing the burden of those who resist popular move-

The president's problems originated in his failure to appreciate that taxpayers are more interested in how much they pay rather than how little their neighbor pays — reduction, not reform. That permitted congressional support to snowball for massive capital gains tax relief sponsored by Re-publican Rep. William Steiger of Wis-

Evans

When the Steiger amendment deadlocked the House Ways and Means Committee, conservative Democrat Jones unveiled a "middle-ground" tax package - considered the handiwork of Dr. Charles Walker, former Republican deputy treasury secre-tary and now a Washington super-lobbyist. The Jones package slightly reduces Steiger's capital gains reduc-tions, cuts both individual and corporate tax rates and throws out nearly all Carter tax reforms.

Would the president accept Jimmy Jones' bitter medicine to get electionyear tax reductions? The administration's lips said no, no, but its eyes — at least those of some officials — seemed to say yes, yes. In some alarm, liberal Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee — led by Reps. James Corman of California and Abner Mikva of Illinois - asked for a high level meetir

It convened June 12 in the vice dent's office, six days after Californians voted themselves huge property rax relief to open the tax revolt. Besides Mondale and the congress-men, those present included Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, presidential economic adviser Charles Schultze and White House aide Stuart Eizenstat.

During the half-hour meeting, the congressmen advised it was too late to compromise tax reforms since the president's reforms were dead anyway. More important, they urged a firm presidential stand against the Jones package as welfare to the rich. Without dissent, the administration officials agreed.

But more and more Democrats are joining Jones (once a White House aide to Lyndon B. Johnson) in abandoning the president. Rep. Dan Ros-tenkowski of Illinois, third-ranking Ways and Means Democrat and chief deputy whip of the House, likes the Jones package. Other Democrats are embracing Steiger-style capital gains tax relief, including Senate notables Frank Church and Pat Moynihan. Sen. Sam Nunn of Georgia recently became the first Democrat to sponsor the Kemp-Roth 30 percent income tax cut, and others will follow.

That means an uphill, apparently opeless battle in the House against he Jones package. In the Senate, the bill is likely to become even worse for the administration by addition of the Steiger amendment and possibly Kemp-Roth (with a chance that those provisions might be added earlier on the House floor).

If such a bill is vetoed this fall, taxes would return in January to pre-1976 levels, in effect a $9 billion increase. "Impossible," one administration official told us. "It would hurt like the dickens to sign the Jones bill, but the president would have to do

Teen says he concocted tale of visiting Hart in small cave

By GIL BROYLES

PRYOR, Okla. (AP) -A teen-ager interested in collecting a "bounty" for information leading to the capture of Gene Leroy Hart concocted a story about visiting with Hart at a small cave, the youth testified Monday in the waning hours of a preliminary hearing for Hart.

Hart, 34, faces three counts of first-degree murder in the June 13, 1977 sex slayings of three young Girl Scouts at Camp Scott, a summer camping area.

Egyptian position, Sadat acknowledged: "To be frank, no."

Up for discussion in London will be rival Egyptian and Israeli proposals for the future of the two territories which Israel seized by Israel from Jordan and Egypt in the 1967 war.

Begin has offered the 1.1 million Palestinians in the areas limited self-rule for five years after a peace agreement is concluded. He says after that period, Israel would be willing to discuss the territories' future relations with Israel and their Arab neighbors. But he has made plain that he expects the territories to remain Israeli territory.

Sadat at the least wants an Israeli commitment to withdraw most of its forces from the territories and to discuss the permanent future of the areas after a transition period.

Each government has publicly rejected the other's lan in advance. U.S. officials hope that once the deadlock is clear, both sides will accept American compromise proposals. Egyptian officials bristle at this suggestion, which could be an attempt to generate American pressure on the Israelis.

Sadat is reported planning some Israeli politicking of his own.

Transcedentalists plan to save Rhode Island

By STACY JOLNA
The Washington Post
PROVIDENCE, R.I. — Officials here are grappling with many of the same problems that have afflicted much of the nation. Rhode Island's cities and towns are racked with the problems of inflation, deteriorating older neighborhoods, a nearly 7 percent unemployment rate, crime and a shrinking tax base.

Dramatic salvation, however, purportedly is descending on Providence and, it is claimed, by the end of the summer the nation's smallest state will be racked and grappled no

Speaking through the miracle of Bell Telephone from his international headquarters in Seelisberg, Switzerland, Maharishi Mahesh Yogi recently told his followers here that the state has been pegged for an intensive three-month campaign to make Rhode Island a "model of an ideal state . . . a problem-free society."

"We plan to get about 38,000 people, or 4 percent of the population, medi-tating," said Rick Archer, minister of communication and inspiration for the Maharishi's North and South American headquarters in Livingston Manor, N.Y.

"The effects on the rest of the population's quality of life will be so dramatic that there will be a noticeable decrease in crime, hospital admissions, unemployment, accidents . . . even the weather will get better," he said, noting Rhode Island's large tourist trade. The Transcendental Meditation (TM) campaign rivals any political drive here in this election year — which according to the Maharishi's followers, also happens to be the fourth year of the Age of Enlightenment — with nearly every state and mayoral office in contention . Local political leaders contacted by the maharishi's followers have tenuously embraced the campaign, with most commenting, "It couldn't hurt."

"If it's gonna do all those things they say it is, how can you be against it?" remarked Rhode Island Republican Party Chairman Americo Campanella, whose dwindling number of colleagues in this heavily Democratic state could admittedly use some help.

"These changes will be spontaneous," said Peter Lamoureux, a TM instructor from Cranston, R.I. "We won't actually go out and apprehend criminals to solve the crime problem.

But there will be a change in the trend of time from disorder to more positivity and harmony."

Asked whether he thinks TM is the answer to the state's crime problem, reputed New England underworld crime boss Raymond Patriarca commented from his National Cigarette Co. here, "Hey, whatta ya askin' me for? I don't know nothin' about it," and hung up.

Providence Mayor Vincent Ciancci
quipped, "I think we're gonna see more levity than levitation.'

A small, two-story gray house on Hope Street in Providence, used as the city"s TM center for the army of TM teaches — or governors of the Age of Englightenment, as they like to be called - who have traveled here, on the maharishi's orders, from all over the eastern half of the country.

About 400 teachers have already poured in from 17 states and the District of Columbia, with another 150 expected. A similar campaign is being staged in Washington btate as well as Hamburg, West Germany, Kent, England, the provinces of Brit-ish Columbia and Quebec in Canada, Canton Uri, Switzerland, Madhyar-pradesh, India, and provinces in Aus-tralia and Brazil.

"We chose this state because of it's small size and because the maharishi told us, 'Providence has brought us to Rhode Island," Archer said. "He loves puns like that."

Transcendental Meditation is a technique developed by the maharishi about 20 years ago. It is designed to ease tension through deep relaxation and achieve "inner peace and en-lightenment." The technique, simply, involves meditation twice a day for 20 minutes at a time. The physiological benefits of the technique have been touted from Harvard to Stanford. However, detractors criticize the non-profit orga-nization's fees for its course, which run $300 for a couple, $200 for a single adult, $150 for a college student and $100 for a high school student. The fees are split between the instructor and the organization.

Here is Rhode Island, the organization says it plans to seek research assistance from area scientists to measure the effects produced by an increased number of meditators on various "social indicators."

Massachusetts and Connecticut are to be used as control groups in the sociological experiment — "the most massive and exciting ever done, said Dr. Lawrence Domash, O'Donnell, who founded a lecture bureau designed to light up the financial lives of women, explained that more than 90 percent of wives outlive their husbands - and most inherit at least some estate.

"But more than half of all widows have dissipated the insurance benefits of their husbands within 18 months," O'Donnell said. "One out of four exhausts her insurance money within 60 days.'

CHICAGO (AP) — Anyone can learn to make music at former nun Rita Simo's school - especially the

Ms. Simo runs a free music school in Uptown, a neighborhood largely on the decay. Anyone who walks in the door can become a student. "Why should people be penalized

Eighty-three students age 5 to 70 are trying to develop their talents at the school, located in a storefront with paint peeling outside.

The woman who, along with five assistants, teaches them is a naturalized American from the Dominican Republic who attended the National Conservatory of Music before winning a scholarship to the Juilliard School of Music.

Ms. Simo earned two degrees there and won her doctorate in mus's from Boston University.

She became a Roman Catholic nun, but after six years found herself class students - not the poor. She opened her Uptown music school two years ago.

"It was almost like I was trying to compensate for all the things I'd had," she said. "Even though my father ran a big dairy farm, I was able to attend the conservatory for free. Why shouldn't it be the same in this country, for everybody?"

She wants her school to evolve into a major free conservatory, but it still has a long way to go.

A year after the school opened someone stole most of the donated instruments, leaving only two upright pianos. Instruments are still in short supply, though some new ones have been donated.

Two teachers and a secretary are paid a small amount from a federal jobs grant. Most of Ms. Simo's assistants work elsewhere to support themselves. Ms. Simo takes some private piano students to help support herself and works each morning with old people.

Her big problem, she says, is find-ing the $200 cash she needs each month to pay the rent. "When the 25th of the month comes around and I don't have the rent money in the bank, I sit down and start writing my friends," she said. "But right now, we're in pretty good shape. Well, we need a drum teacher and a trumpet teacher and a decent typewriter and some percussion instruments like bells and tambourines and triangles. GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) - A rise in world oil prices seems inevitable at the beginning of 1979, ending a two-year period in which they have changed little.

Production already is dropping, and there are press reports that Saudi Arabia and Iran are meeting in secret to decide whether to press for increased prices even before next

Three factors emerged at a recent meeting here of the 13 nations of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, the group that accounts for more than half the world's oil produc-

-The decline of the dollar on international money markets and persistent inflation in the costs of goods that OPEC members import have reduced the 13 countries' income in real terms, as opposed to strictly money terms.

-The possibility that President Carter might levy import taxes on OPEC oil has angered the members. As one oil minister said here, "Why should money (from higher oil prices) go into the American treasury and not into the Iraqi treasury, for exam-

-Efforts in the industrialized world to cut back on oil consumption have not been as thorough as needed. There are many arguments about "how long the oil will last," but there is widespread agreement that higher prices could and should force more effective fuel savings.

The apparent inevitability of an oil price rise being decided at OPEC's next regular meeting in December was underlined by Ali M. Jaidah, the group's secretary general, who said after the meeting that there would be a price "revision" next year. "Revision" is a sort of OPEC code word for

Gas plant operating

SHREVEPORT-Crystal Oil Co. today started operation of its new five-million-cubic-foot-per-day gas processing plant located seven miles south of Winnsboro in Franklin Parish, Louisiana.

The plant initially will process about 1,300,000 cubic feet of gas per day. It will recover approximately 4,000 gallons per day of a natural gas liquid mixture containing propane, butane and natural gasoline.

Most of the raw inlet gas currently is being produced from Crystal's nearby wholly owned Buckshot Bayou field in Madison Parish. The company is completing its fifth well in the Westwood field located about six miles from the Buckshot Bayou field. Recoverable petroleum remains in the ground after normal production methods have run their course.

Primary recovery may leave 30 top 80 percent of the oil originally in a reservoir, amounting to billions of barrels. Getting out some of the remainder requires highly sophisticated, costly and mostly yet-tobe-perfected techniques known as secondary and tertiary recovery.

With exploration for new oil throttled by high costs of drilling, government-regulated prices on old oil and environmental concrnes the industry views existing fields as sources of maintaining supply.

Methods of extracting additional oil, known many years, have been worked out in laboratories, according to Dr. Douglas Von Gonten of Texas A&M university. They have engineers dealing with water flooding, steam, gas and chemical injection, and surfactant "scrubbing."

But lest consumers think these will keep the local gas pump supplied, hear out Von Gonten, Texas A&M's Petroleum Engineering Department head.

Even with proven secondary and tertiary recovery methods in use, he says, "oil and gas cannot continue to supply 75 percent of the United States' energy needs.

"Many secondary and tertiary recovery techniques have gone through field trials," Von Gonten said. "Very few have had full field tests.

What's more, those put into use and perfected in one locale may not work in another, because oil differs from field to field, and sometimes within a field, along with the formation Petroleum comes from spectrum that ranges from highly fluid on one end to tar on the other. Most falls in the midle, with water to molasseslike consistency. Oil occurs an tiny drop-

Prying the hard-to-getout oil from old wells requires unusual methods, and critical knowledge of oil geology, physics, chemistry and other areas. For that reasong, and America's demand for hydrocarbons, petroleum engineering graduates from Texas A&M and elsewhere are in top demand. They command starting salaries of nearly $1,700 a month, $150 above the nearest B.S. engineering degree, Von Gonten said.

When production starts falling off in a field, secondary and enhanced recovery methods, such as water flooding, may be applied. Water injected into some formatins pushes oil toward producing wells.

"But water flooding will leave some oil behind," Von Gonten said.

Miscible recovery techniques, in which oil and an added agent mix, allow 100 percent recovery in th portion of the reservoir contacted, he added. "But the portion of the reservoir contacted may be small," the former Mobil Oil Corp, engineer said. "The miscible agent, whether gas or liquid, may 'finger' over and through the formation and contact only a small percentage of the

Still, miscible methods offer the best possibility for producing additional oil from old fields. One of the more promising of these injects high-pressure gas into the reservoir to force out oil. Natural gas is used, but places the producer in comptition with consumers for the highly-desired fuel. Carbon dioxide, which makes a soft drink fizz, is cheaper and can substitute for natural gas in the miscible

Evert defeats King, faces Wade Wednesday

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Top-seeded Chris Evert defeated Billie Jean King 6-3, 3-6, 6-2 today and swept into the semifinals of the Wimbledon Tennis Championships and a Wednesday showdown against defending champion Virginia Wade of Britain

Wade, the No. 4 seed, beat Yugoslavia's Mima Jausovec 6-0, 6-4. In today's two other women's quarter-finals, second-seeded Martina Navratilova of the United States beat Marise Kruger 6-2, 6-4 to set up a semifinal match against third seed Evonne Goolagong of Australia, a 7-5, 6-3 winner over Romanian Virginia

In today's men's quarter-finals it was Bjorn Borg vs. Sandy Mayer, Jimmy Connors vs. Raul Ramirez, Vitas Gerulaitis vs. Brian Gottfried and Tom Okker vs. Ilie Nastase and Tom Okker vs. Ilie Nastase.

The Evert-Wade match is a replay of last year's semifinal, when the British ace upset the American en route to the championship.

The Evert-King match was mostly a tame one in which both women were on the defensive. Evert lobbed and drove deep to keep her older opponent away from the net, and when the fifth-seeded King did go forward, her volleying lacked consistency.

After losing the first set, King grew in confidence and came back to win the second one. It appeared she might take another step toward asseventh Wimbledon singles crown.

With Evert leading 3-2 in the third set, King led 40-0 on her own service. Suddenly, the match swung away from her. Evert hit a fine return down the line and one point later raced across her baseline to hit a spectacular forehand pass for deuce.

King next knocked up a fatal half-court lob and a smash by Evert sent her to advantage point. Evert wrapped up the game for a 4-2 lead by hitting a strong backhand return, her fifth point in a row. King scored only two more points in the last two games and Evert finished off the match with one of her best shots, a cross-court backhand which flashed past King as she came forward in a last futile bid to stem the tide.

In the Wade-Jausovec match, the Yugoslav had to wait until the second game of the second set before she won a game to level at 1-1. She won it with the help of a fine lob that landed inches short of the baseline, and used the same shot for a break on Wade's service to get level at 3-3 then hold service for a 4-3 lead.

With those two games out of the way, Wade pulled herself together, took the next two games, then closed out the match with a cross-court volley and a service that Jausovec could only dump into the net.

Kruger, the 12th-seeded South Afri-

kruger, the 12th-seeded South African, was plagued by inconsistency and, with her service invariably weak, she was unable to extend Navratilova. the former Czech now based in Dallas.

Navratilova got the break she was Navratilova got the break she was looking for in the very first game, and she broke Kruger again at 3-1. Kruger then broke back to 4-2 but Navratilova quickly regained the upper hand, broke again and held her own servifor a 6-2 victory in the first set.

The second set started in much the same vein when Navratilova took a 2-0 lead. But, aided by some fine double-handed backhands, the South African came back to 2-2. Those two games restored Kruger's composure briefly before Navratilova took control for good.

Goolagong, who has been having trouble with her ankle for a few weeks, appeared to be slowed slightly in the early stages of her match against Rucizi. But she pulled her game together and, after trailing 3-5, took the next four games to win the first set. She then used her greater experience to come back in the second set after the 14th-seeded Romanian had raced to a 3-0 lead by breaking Goolagong in the second game.

Cubs win, 3-1, as 3,075 watch

Don't look now. but the Midland Cubs are only a half game out of first place in the West Division Texas League race after beating the league-leading El Paso Diablos, 3-1, before 3,075 fans who jammed into Cubs Stadium Monday for the combination game and fireworks display.

David Overstreet, a desperation pitching choice for Manager Jim Saul, who has half his starting rotation in sickbay, came through in spectacular style, combining with lefty Larry "Spiderman" Groover for a five-hitter against the fence-rattling Diables.

The win gave the Cubs an 11-8 edge over El Paso in the season's series, the only team in the Texas League holding an edge over the first half West champions.

The teams continue their series at 6:30 p.m. today with Lee Smith, 5-5, going for the Cubs while Manager Moose Stubing will get his first look at Rick Foley, who signed out of Santa Clara and was sent to Salt Lake City. "I guess he wasn't ready for the Pacific Coast League, so they are sending him here."

ALL OF the scoring Monday came in the first two innings, as a cool front blew in out of the east in the third inning and made a Candlestick Park out of Cubs Stadium, whose fences are normally as inviting as Wrigley

Field or Fenway Park.

The Cubs jumped in front 1-0 in the first without the aid of a hit when Kurt Seibert walked, stole second and continued to third when catcher Danny Goodwin's hurried throw wound up in center. He scored on Steve Macko's grounder to second.

El Paso knotted it in the second when Don Lyons walked with two out and scored after a single by Scott Moffitt and a double by Bob Slater. Midland struck back for two runs off Dave Steck, 7-6, in the second. Aaron Randall opened the inning with a single to center, then with two out, Seibert dropped a single into center to score Randall. Macko then doubled into the right-center power alley as Seibert raced to third. When third baseman Floyd Rayford couldn't handle Joe Hernandez' grounder, Kurt raced home to make it 3-1.

The big crowd settled back expectantly waiting for more fireworks, the baseball variety, in the tradition of the El Paso-Midland series, but that was it. The front came in and the pitchers might as well have been Tanana and Reuschel the rest of the way, as far as the batters were concerned.

Overstreet, normally a reliefer, allowed just four hits in six innings and Groover came on to finish up with three innings of gilt-edged one-hit pitching for his second save.

After the second, the Diablos advanced only three runners as far as second. Midland had several threats, but couldn't deliver the run-producing hit.

hit. ... The win gives Midland a 2-1 edge in the current series and raises their second half record to 4-3.

Together, they have appeared in nearly 5,000 major league baseball games and collected more than 4,700 hits. Though separated by the breadth of a continent, Boston's Carl Yastrzemski and California's Ron Fairly have a lot in common.

Each reached a milestone Monday night. The 38-year-old Yastrzemski collected the 2,800th hit of his 18-year career as the Red Sox demolished the New York Yankees 9-5 at Fenway Park. Fairly, just over a week away from his 40th birthday, managed his ,900th hit as the Angels topped the Kansas City Royals 7-4.

And there was something else. The Boston victory strengthened its solid first place in the American League's East Division while the California triumph returned the Angels to the AL West top spot they held for a few days in April and a few more in "Statistics don't mean a thing at this stage," said Yastrzemski, who had a double, two singles and three RBI in Boston's victory. "Even though I'm hitting about .290, I really haven't felt comfortable at the plate this year. The big thing is we're win-ning. That's what counts."

THE BOSTON victory was its 34th in 40 games at home this year and improved the major leagues' best rec-ord to 53-24. The Red Sox got seven doubles - two of them from George Scott — and one triple in a 12-hit assault on three New York pitchers.

"I'm just waiting to get 2,000 now," said Fairly, a 21-year veteran who plans to play until 1980 in order to have played major league ball in four

"If I don't do it this year, I'll do it next year," said Fairly, who has bat-ted just 161 times while appearing in 53 of the Angels' 79 games. "I probably won't get enough at-bats (this year), unless I go 100-for-100, and I don't think anybody's done that."

In other AL games Monday night, the Chicago White Sox nipped the Texas Rangers 7-6, the Cleveland Indians clouted the Baltimore Orioles 9-0, the Detroit Tigers trimmed the Toronto Blue Jays 6-5, the Minnesota Twins bombed the Milwaukee Brewers 7-2 and the Oakland A's bested the Seattle Mariners 5-3.

Jelling Padres cool BASEBALL pace-setting Giants

You really have to hand it to Rollie Fingers. Actually, that's just what the San Diego Padres did

Just as he has done all season, the seemingly indefatigable relief pitcher had his busy hand in another San Diego success - helping the Padres beat the San Francisco Giants 4-3.

"We're playing good ball and getting outstanding pitching," said San Diego Manager Roger Craig. "We've been scoring some runs and over the last month we've had the best pitching in the league." Fingers has been one of those mainly responsible for that. Another one has been Randy Jones, who started Monday night's game and gained his sixth victory with Fingers' 19th save, high in the majors. PLAYING THEIR best ball of the season, the California (Frost 1-1) at Kansas City Jones, who not only pitched well but triggered a decisive four-run sixth-inning rally with a double off loser Jim Barr. "All of a sudden, we've just jelled. I've felt all along this is the best club the Padres have ever had.

There's no telling what it's capable of doing. Jack Clark, who hit his sixth homer in the last five games for San Francisco, seemed somewhat discouraged despite a batting binge that earned him National League Player of the Week honors earlier in the day. The loss was the seventh in the last 10 games for the slumping Giants.

'Maybe we're not giving 100 percent lately," said Clark. "We're giving ballgames away. We should be winning. We're in a team slump and we're flat out

'We can't be lackadaisical and let other teams win it for us. We've got to go out and do it ourselves. Maybe we should stop looking at the scoreboard to see what the Cincinnati Reds and the Los Angeles

Dodgers are doing." Braves 4, Dodgers 2

Rowland Office keyed a four-run sixth inning with a three-run homer as Atlanta defeated Los Angeles and dropped the Dodgers back into third place in the NL West. Rick Camp, 1-2, earned the victory with relief help from Gene Garber, who posted his eighth save, fifth since coming to the Braves in a recent trade with Philadelphia.

The Dodgers led 2-0 on a two-run single by Steve Garvey in the third inning. But in the sixth, Office blasted his three-run shot off loser Burt Hooton, 7-7, and the Braves later added an insurance run on Bob Horner's RBI single.

Cubs 6, Cardinals 2
Pitcher Dave Roberts belted his sixth career home run and hurled six-hit ball through five innings to pace Chicago over St. Louis.

Roberts, a veteran of seven major league clubs, improved his record to 4-3 with his third victory over the Cardinals in as many tries. Donnie Moore and Bruce Sutter pitched in relief for the Cubs, with Sutter gaining his 10th save of the year.

"My equipment manager (Yosh Kawano) should get credit for the home run," Roberts said of his solo homer in the fifth. "He's always telling me what kind of a great hitter I am. He's even ordered a supply of bats for me. He kind of pumps up my confidence." Expos 2, Pirates 0

For Ex-Cub, Dennis Lamp, majors are rude awakening

For the stars-in-his-eyes rookie, it was what the major leagues were all about.

Of course, Dennis Lamp couldn't be absolutely sure whether the sudden adulation, those fans pounding on the clubhouse door, were there because he had just pitched superlatively in besting the Giants' Bob Knepper in the final exhibition game of the spring or because they had an unobstructed view of his locker, where he was toweling himself while talking to a report-

"Yosh," he pleaded, "Keep the door closed. I don't have any clothes on."

Yosh apparently didn't hear too well, because the door kept swinging open everytime some fan thumped and the tall, young hurler, who can do a convincing Groucho Marx, kept protesting, "Yosh, I'm naked," while making like a blushing chorine behind his towel.

A little later, when he left the Scottsdale dressing room, the fans were still there and he stopped to autograph all the scorecards and souvenirs shoved at him.

FOR A guy who only three years before apprehensively opened every pay envelope with a sneaking suspicion that he might find something pink along with his check, the world was his oyster, the answer to all those dreams he had while watching Big D in Chavez Ravine during those growing up years back in California.

"The nice thing about being with the big club in spring training," he said, "is that there's always AAA if you don't make it. In AA ball, if you've got a few years on you, they'll cut you before they send you back to A."

Dennis not only had pitched so well in spring training that he made the Chicago Cubs' staff, but what's more he had earned himself a spot in the starting rotation.

If a struggling pitcher in the minors ever wondered if all the disappointments, frustrations and self-doubts were worth it, Lamp has to be his hero, proof that persistence and determination

That was last spring. Now the scene shifts to midway through the National League season and we find Lamp a discouraging 3-10, and it must be confessed that it's all Denny's fault. He's such a

BY NOW he should know what it takes to win in the National League and he's just not doing it. Two of his victories have been shutouts, one a four-hitter over the Mets and the other a one-hit-

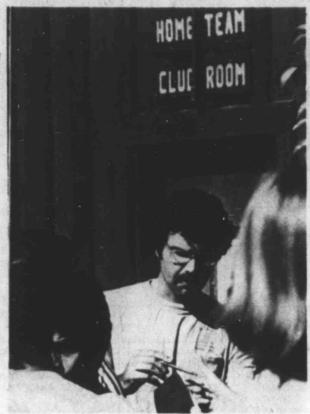

Veteran teammates undoubtedly are becoming disillusioned with his failure to recognize his status as a rookie.

"Look kid, if you need it, we'll get you a run, maybe, but don't go getting greedy, like asking for two or three runs. This is your first year and you've got to prove yourself."

Back in his minor league days, they wouldn't tell Denny when he was going to start. "He worries all night and doesn't get any sleep," his manager Doc Edwards once said when Lamp was at Midland. "So I just hand him the ball 20 minutes before game time and tell him it's

Lamp outgrew that, but the way things have been going, he's probably back to counting Cubs thrown out a first base instead of sheep to get to

Despite promises, in four games he would have had to pitch a shutout to tie. Once he got bombed in by Philadelphia, 7-0, but more typically he lost to Randy Jones and San Diego 1-0, allowing only five hits in seven innings.

In another game he gave up one run in seven innings and the Cubs won, only they didn't get the deciding run until the ninth, so the win went to another pitcher.

At Houston, he lost 3-1 despite allowing five hits and two runs in seven innings, simply because he failed to touch first base on a key play. If Denny's had a failing, that's it. He's missed the bag on a play at first four times this

The day the Cubs got him 10 runs against St. Louis, he injured himself trying to bunt in the second inning and had to retire, prompting GM Bob Kennedy to remark "They just don't learn the fundamentals any more." But that will happen when a pitcher is brought up in the minor league world of DHs.

But don't get the idea that Chicago has never given Denny any runs. There was that game against Los Angeles when Dave Kingman hit three homers and Chicago won 10-7...in the 15th inning. And there was that time in Atlanta when the Cubs scored a 7-5 win with Lamp contributing two hits, but he wasn't around when they awarded the decision.

With a 3-10 record, Lamp ordinarily would be back in Wichita and no one is more grateful over the increased emphasis placed on earned-runaverages in recent years than Denny. Despite his record, his ERA has been just over 3.00, which ain't the ERA of a 3-10 pitcher.

Bean goes overtime for 3rd win

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) - Andy Bean has rushed into the spotlight of the professional golf tour at the age of 25. And two of his three victories this year have come in potentially pressure-packed play-

With Monday's sudden-death victory over Bill Rogers in the Western Open and last month's similar conquest of Lee Trevino in the Memphis Classic, Bean has shown an ability to excel in head-to-head

"I USED to get really excited and I've calmed down a bit. Not a whole lot of things bother me," said Bean, who is the leading money-winner in his third year on the pro tour.

"I'm learning patience more and more each year. That comes through experience and waiting. I'm two-for-two (in playoffs). I guess I've got the best average on the tour."

The final round of the $225,000 event was postponed by rain Sunday and when play began Monday, Bean's name was behind 14 others on the scoreboard and alongside another six who were at even-par 216 after three rounds on the par 72, 7,083-yard Butler National course.

ROGERS, WINNER of this year's Bob Hope Desert Classic, led all the names at 6-under-par 210, two strokes better than Hale Irwin and Mac McLendon, who were tied for second.

But Bean mounted afurious charge of nine birdies in 13 holes and finished with a 66 for a 282 total. That's what Rogers had when he made an outstanding recovery after putting his tee shot in a water hazard on the 18th hole to make a bogey and drop back in a tie with Bean. He had a 72 for the

Directing switch calls for thought

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

In certain defensive situations it is possible to signal with a follow-suit play so as to direct your partner to switch to a particular suit.

West North East All Pass

Opening lead — ♦ K

After winning the first trick, West must switch to the right suit. If West marks time by leading a trump, South draws trumps and discards a diamond from dummy on a good club.

West needs five spades for his overcall, and East needs four spades for his raise. Therefore both defenders know that West cannot afford to lead a second spade. A switch to a new suit is absolutely certain.

By playing a low spade East would call for a switch to the lower of the two side suits; but by playing a high spade East directs a switch to the higher side suit.

WANTS DIAMOND

Since East wants a shift to diamonds, he plays the jack of spades at the first trick.

West obediently leads the higher suit, diamonds, and the defenders get two diamonds, one club and one spade.

One word of caution: Except in very rare situations, a high card tells partner to continue the suit he has just led. use the suit preference signal only when it is obvious to both partners that a switch is certain.

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes. You hold: S 4 HKQ1094DA92SCAQJ10. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts. You would make a jump response in hearts if partner had bid any suit but spades. Avoid an immediate jump response when you have neither a good fit for partner's suit nor a solid

And, perhaps most ironic in view of the predictions made five years ago, the hottest trend in motorcycle sales lately has been to the big "touring" bikes which often cost $4,000 or more and to a new breed of high-performance "superbikes" which are often capable of exceeding the 55 m.p.h. national speed limit in low gear and may reach 130 m.p.h. in high.

"I think perhaps that right now everybody who wants a motorcycle has one, so the industry is attracting the customer who wants to trade up and get rid of the smaller bike he bought a few years ago; there aren't a lot of first-time buyers out there,' comments John A. Davidson, president of Harley-Davidson Motor Co. Inc., Milwaukee, the only major U.S .based motorcycle manufacturer.

The industry is dominated by four major Japanese competitors: Honda, Yamaha, Kawsaki and Suzuki. Among them, they account for close to 90 percent of all U.S. sales. Harley-Davidson, last survivor of a small but once robust U.S. motorcycle industry, takes about 6 percent to 7 percent. ## Rhodesian conflict takes big toll among blacks

By DAVID OTTAWAY The Washington

SALISBURY, Rhode-sia — More than 3,000 African civilians have been killed and one million others uprooted from their homes now in a war where the every day killing and increas-ingly frequent massacre of blacks has gained little notice or sympathy in the West compared to the hue and cry over white

Nearly 2,000 Africans have been gunned down by Rhodesia's nationalist guerrillas as "sellouts" to the white minority-raun Rhodesian government while 1,200 others have been shot by the security forces as either collaborators or recruits of the "terrorists" or simply nighttime curfew breakers, according to official war statistics.

This compares to slightly fewer than 200 white civilians murdered by the guerrillas since the war in Rhodesia began escalating in early

Worse yet, the pace of massacres and killings of African civilians is picking up as the guerrilas seek to impose an iron grip over the rural population by demon-strating who really controls their lives and embittered and edgy army soldiers increasingly tend to open fire indiscri-minately on civilians suspected even of aiding the nationalists. "It's horrible at home now, the shooting and killings every day. We are caught between our 'boys in the bush' and the security forces," relat-ed one African worker who has brought his entire family from the countryside to live with him in Salisbury. (The nationalist guerrillas are popularly referred to as 'our boys in the bush' by Africans of Rhodesia.)

This explains the current accelerating mass exodus of Africans from the so-called Tribal Trust lands, where roughly five million of Rhodesia's 6.5 million African population lives, to the towns and cities or across the borders into neighboring countries.

It is now unofficially estimated that close to 500,000 Africans have come into the two largest cities of Salisbury and Rhodesia in addition to

Marxist revolution in Mozambique flourishing

By DAVID LAMB The Los Angeles Times

GONDOLA, Mozambique — Agusto Chigeda doesn't know much about Marxism or the "New African Man" Mozambique talks of creating. He has not thought a great deal about the future for himself or his five children. When asked about such things, he blushes and shrugs apologetical-

But without being quite able to define it, Chige-da, 33, understands that there is a new force in his life, an impetus bringing immense change to this communal village in central Mozambique that would have been unimaginable when the Portuguese were here.

"These are exciting days," he told a recent

In the schoolhouse here the lights burn late, as they do in classrooms throughout Mozambique, where school enrollment has tripled in three years. The evening stu-dents are all adults, learning to read and write in one of Africa's most ambitious literacy campaigns.

One man was asked if he was embarrassed to be in the first grade learning the alphabet at the age of 47.

"No," he replied. "I am thrilled. I can write my name."

For the first time, the eople in Chigeda's vilage outside Gondola have been vaccinated against measles and smallpox. In fact, half of Mozambique's 12 million people — principally of Bantu stock — have been innoculated. It is "an extraordinary achieve-ment," a United Nations health official said, and not a single case of cholera has been reported in Mozambique this year. In neighboring countries cholera is still common.

A "people's store," one of 200 in the country, has been opened here. It is pitifully short of goods but appears to be effective in controlling prices and black marketeering and black marketeering. Up the road from the store the villagers are building houses with cement blocks supplied by

No one, though, is under the illusion that Mozambique, a country twice the size of California, is a social paradise. The government of President Samora Machel is a stern one that demands discipline and support, one that probably would be willing to use its East German-advised security force to crush any op-position that threatened the revolution.

"When a class imposes its will," said Machel, 45, who helped lead Mozambique's 10-year war of liberation, "those who was difficult to read
