Economy takes biggest, best jump in two years

By MICHAEL DOAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans went on one of their biggest spending sprees this spring, but economists aren't celebrating.

Economic growth figures set for release today were expected to show that April through June was the strongest quarter in more than two years. But the good news was ruined by one villain — inflation.

After a hard winter, spring flowered with positive economic developments — more jobs, more consumer spending and increased factory production.

Nevertheless, Barry Bosworth, President Carter's director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, said Thursday that overall productivity is slipping badly.

He said the average annual increase of about 3 percent in the 1950s and 1960s may have fallen to about 1.5

percent in recent years. Although factory output is up, increased employment offsets that number when figuring total per-worker output.

Bosworth noted that productivity actually is declining this year — at about 3 percent for the first three months and probably at the same rate in the second quarter — and that an increase of 3 percent for the rest of the year would mean "we would be awfully close to zero."

Also noted Thursday were steep price increases for houses, cars and food. At the same time the Treasury Department raised by 4.4 percent the minimum price for which imported steel can be sold in this country — a move that may increase the price of imported steel and possibly of steel products overall.

To prevent inflation from worsening, the government is trying to keep the economy from growing too rapidly for the rest of the year.

The Federal Reserve has been raising interest rates, and making the money supply more scarce, to reduce the demand for products and to lower prices. It should also mean slower economic growth and less hiring.

The president has promised to veto legislation that is expensive and has reduced the size of his planned budget deficits.

But on Thursday, at his nationally televised news conference, the president retreated for the first time from his earlier declaration that he would veto two proposals for cutting the tax on capital gains should they be passed by Congress.

The president said he does not like the proposals, but added: "I will have to wait until the final tax package is on my desk. ... At that time I will have to decide whether or not that tax bill"

Security tightens as jury attempts to glean truth

By MARK VOGLER

Security and witnesses' lips were equally tight at Midland Federal Courthouse today as a federal grand jury entered its fifth day in session, trying to glean truths from conflicting testimony presented by deputies and jail inmates in the death of inmate Larry Lozano on Jan. 22.

Jurors spent most of Thursday interviewing seven deputies who were on duty the night the former Pecos man died. Several deputies who said they testified declined to comment on what they may have told the grand jury. They did, however, say that there were no major changes from Ector County Sheriff's Department testimony given at an April inquest in Odessa.

They predicted that the Sheriff's Department would be absolved of any wrongdoing in the case.

The grand jurors are investigating events during the period from Lozano's arrest on Jan. 10 until the time of his death to determine whether any civil rights violations took place. Another point of the jurors' probe is to find out whether a civil rights violation could have resulted in his death.

A deputy who testified Thursday before the grand jury charged that the jurors may be "politically pressured" to return indictments, but he predicted that the Sheriff's Department will be vindicated after all the evidence is heard. He said "it all might be over with after tomorrow (today)."

The deputy said in an interview that sheriff's deputies would "stick together" in explaining the death of the 27-year-old Mexican-American in the Ector County Jail.

He said the news media and "one man who lied" were reasons the Lozano case has gone as far as a federal investigation into possible civil rights violations.

"It got to this point because somebody lied, and that person wasn't even on duty the night of the death," the officer said.

"And then the whole thing got blown all out proportion by the news media. I think (Texas Attorney General John) Hill has been pushing it since the beginning of the investigation."

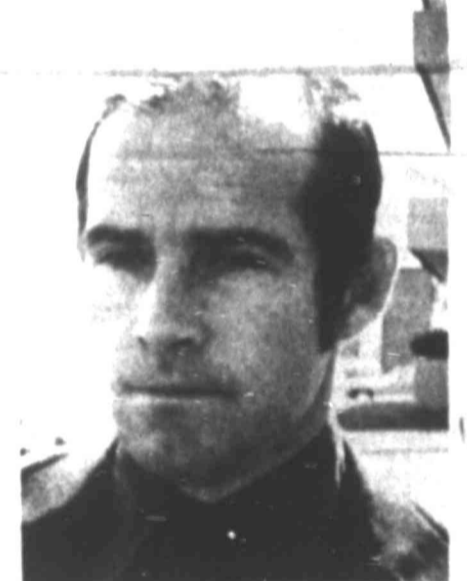

"It's been a one-sided deal as far as I'm concerned. The grand jury has become hard-pressed to come up with some indictments. And it has become a political thing, winding up with (Ector County District Attorney) John Green and John Hill feuding. And Jimmy Carter is even getting in on it," he said.

The officer said he didn't blame the Brown Beret and other Mexican-American activists for placing emphasis on the Lozano case.

"I don't blame the Mexican-Americans because they've been told a story that isn't true," he remarked Thursday.

The deputy said the entire Ector County Sheriff's Department has suffered on the job and in their personal lives "because of the trouble the news media caused us."

The deputy said rocks and bottles have been thrown at his house, and he said members of his family have received harassing phone calls.

Jerry Davis

In another development Thursday which some newsmen speculated could be significant, Jerry Davis, an investigator for the Ector County District Attorney's office, made at least two trips from Odessa to Assistant U.S. Attorney Jamie Boyd's office to confer about the Lozano case.

There was speculation that Davis' purpose was to serve subpoenas on more reporters to appear before a special Ector County Grand Jury session set for Monday in Odessa. At that time, it is expected that the Lozano case will be reopened by Green.

It also was reported today that Green will subpoena a writer for the Dallas Times-Herald, which published a story earlier this week citing three cases of Ector County inmates allegedly receiving reduced sentences in return for favorable testimony about the Ector Sheriff's Department.

One of the inmates, Ted Abel, reportedly has denied press accounts that he had negotiated a 10-year reduction in his prison term in return for giving testimony that was favorable to Ector officials.

Marathon bargaining produces settlement

By JEFFREY MILLS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation was spared the snarl of a mail strike today as marathon bargaining produced a tentative new three-year contract for postal workers.

The pact gives 500,000 U.S. Postal Service employees a 19.5 percent pay increase while insuring, officials say, that the next mail rate hike won't come for 2½ to 3 years.

Postmaster General William F. Bolger called the settlement "very fair" and said it "fits in very well" with President Carter's anti-inflation wage guidelines.

Emmet Andrews, president of the largest of four unions, called the settlement "the best we can get."

James La Penta of the mail handlers union called the wage settlement a "respectable" package that is "pretty responsible. We didn't go crazy."

The accord continues job security and cost-of-living allowance protections — the only two demands over which union leaders had said their rank-and-file would be willing to call an illegal strike.

Andrews, president of the American Postal Workers Union, estimated the pay increase, including cost-of-living projections, would yield $1,609 more in wages over the next three years.

The unions had sought a raise of $1,965 over two years in the $15,877 average postal worker's salary.

The Carter administration had made the talks a key test of its anti-inflation program, which attempts to moderate the large wage gains won by unions in recent years.

"I think it's a little bit over Mr. Carter's program," Andrews said. Carter has called for a 5.5 percent ceiling on federal wage increases.

Subtracting the cost-of-living provisions, the new pact provides a 2 percent general wage increase in the first year, 3 percent in the second and 5 percent in the final year, Andrews said.

He said he would not try to influence the union membership in the voting, which begins around Aug. 1. "I'm leaving it up to them. The members are the ones that have to live with it."

Bolger said the agreement "fits in with the plans I have, the goals I have for the Postal Service to retain its rates for the next 2½ to 3 years."

He said the no-layoff clause would not immediately hamper Postal Service efforts to trim its work force to hold down labor cost, but he said it might hinder the effort as new technology becomes available.

Management had said the provision was preventing it from cutting its work force and holding down future postage rate increases. Negotiators for the postal workers, mail handlers and letter carriers unions called the 25-word phrase crucial for the future job security of their workers.

La Penta called the contract a "historic document because the unions have had to show that employers cannot take away items won in previous contracts."

Andrews said the negotiators became stalled over the final wage package at 2:30 a.m. EDT today. They asked for Bolger to enter the talks, which he did. The settlement came less than two hours later.

"You've just seen the definition of all-night bargaining," Andrews added.

A settlement seemed more probable at midday Thursday after agreement was reached on the no-layoff and cost-of-living issues.

In return, the unions agreed to the three-year pact management had wanted, rather than the two-year contract the unions had sought. The unions also agreed to accept continued mandatory overtime and other work-rule prerogatives of management.

In Jersey City, N.J., about 100 postal workers who were unhappy with the bargained settlement picketed entrances to a mail distribution center. Some said the tentative contract was a "sellout."

Other postal facilities across the nation appeared to be operating normally. Officials in Chicago and New York — cities considered centers for union militants — said today's shifts were reporting as scheduled.

The pattern of the talks resembled that of 1975, when little substantive progress was made until the final evening. After management withdrew its attempt to cancel the layoff protection, an agreement was reached on wages as well.

The current talks had gone on for

The 'Dirty '30s' here again after '50s stop

Are the "Dirty '30s" being revisited in the Dry '70s?

It happened in the '50s. And it'll happen again.

The drought.

This year, it looked like it had happened again, until some rains visited the land at just about planting time. Typically, the rains were miserly in some places and generous in others. It just wasn't enough.

Now, except for an occasional sprinkle and a distant downpour that teases, the rains seem to have gone away. The ghost of drought is creeping back.

And, like the dry spells, the rains will return. The lingering question, quite naturally, is when.

The most obvious effect of a drought is that on farmers and ranchers and the land they work. Farmers who can bear the expense, and are fortunate enough to have underground water to tap for irrigation, may "make it." But it's still rough out there without that free stuff. Others may go on credit, hire themselves out and eat dust.

And ranchers? They'll just have to wait it out and maybe sell off their livestock — if they haven't already. And who ever heard of a rancher irrigating? It sounds about as likely as some West Texas optimist trying to make an iceberg with an ice-making machine in the middle of the hot, hot summer.

An unnamed farmer up Lubbockway made the understatement of the year on the current dry spell:

"A future drought in the semi-arid Southwest will result in a majority of the farmers having to switch from irrigated farming to dry land agriculture."

Even so, most West Texas farmers don't irrigate. They've been plowing in dry fields and picking wind-blown cotton for years. They just get accustomed to it like they do the wind, sand and heat.

For about a week now, it's been something like "ships ahoy" for both Midlanders and the commodore, Gene Darcy. In the spirit of free enterprise, he brought his wares — bits 'n' pieces and increasingly rare "museum" items — from scuttled ocean-going ships. He's using the Midland Hilton as his harbor, from which he's selling his goods for a pretty penny.

And even if you don't want to spend a dime, you may find it worth your time to browse among Darcy's museum pieces. He'll be weighing anchor in a week and shipping out. Good sailing, commodore.

Suspected German terrorist arrested in Vermont

By MARC HUMBERT

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Kristina Berster, a suspected member of the West German Baader-Meinhof terrorist gang, is in jail here on $500,000 bond, charged with trying to walk into the United States from Canada using a bogus passport, the FBI said.

Agents said that three persons with the woman are being sought and may also be members of the terrorist group. Although West German authorities would not comment on the case, an official in the Karlsruhe, West Germany, prosecutor's office, which has an arrest warrant out for Miss Berster, said she was too minor a figure to bother with an extradition request. However a spokesman for the federal prosecutor's office said that a new arrest warrant was being sought today just in case the Bonn government decided to press for extradition.

The Karlsruhe state official, who asked not to be identified, said Miss Berster had spent seven months in "investigatory custody" in 1971, a suspect in a conspiracy to set off explosives. He said she had been a member of the Socialists Patients Collective, a leftist-anarchist group that preceded the Baader-Meinhof gang.

Miss Berster, 27, was stopped Sunday as she and the other three tried to cross the border in the sparsely populated area near Alburg, Vt., according to U.S. Attorney William Gray. FBI agents said Miss Berster showed immigration officials an Iranian passport identifying herself as Shahrzad Nozari. She was taken into administrative custody and finally identified Wednesday through fingerprints supplied by West German authorities.

Charged with passport violation, Kristina Berster, 27, is escorted from the U.S. District Courthouse on Thursday by Chief Deputy Federal Marshal Miro Kabat. (AP Laserphoto)

The short, red-haired woman was officially charged with a violation of U.S. passport law Thursday in federal magistrate's court in Burlington, Vt. "I am not guilty of these things," she said at her arraignment.

U.S. District Judge James Foley ordered Miss Berster to reappear in federal court for a probable cause hearing a week from today. Conviction on the passport law violation could bring a maximum sentence of 20 years in prison and a $15,000 fine, Foley said.

With resolve, Americans can solve their problems

The American people can solve the nation's problems, but first "we must want to solve them," members of the Downtown Rotary Club were told Thursday noon at their meeting in the Midland Hilton.

The speaker was Deam Rippetoe of Midland, who was introduced by Clarke Straughn.

Rippetoe, who has been referred to as the "Will Rogers of West Texas," interspersed considerable humor with his more serious comments relating to America and its problems.

"We still have many of our freedoms, after 202 years, but we don't have too much independence left," the speaker said.

He cited America's growth and development under the free enterprise system, but said "we now are living in a changing period known as the jet age."

Rippetoe said that despite the great forward thrust so evident in America, "we still must face the cold, hard fact that we do have many problems."

He mentioned a number of the problems having to do with the home, school, church, U.S. Postal Service, the federal government and the energy crisis.

Elaborating on the energy crisis, he said it is time for the American people to do something about it, by demanding that Washington live up to its responsibilities.

"If the government will lift controls and let free enterprise take charge, we will produce our way out of the crisis," the speaker said.

He said that individual citizens also must shoulder their responsibilities "by becoming a part of our American 'system' through personal involvement."

"The worst mistake possible would be for Americans to do nothing," Rippetoe concluded.

Garden City Lions Club raises $550 in benefit to help injured youth

GARDEN CITY — Members of the Garden City Lions Club raised $550 in a benefit softball game recently for Marshall Lister, 16, who had to have a part of one foot amputated as a result of a motorcycle accident last May, according to a club spokesman.

"The Garden City Lions Club would like to thank the people of Glascock County for their support of this benefit softball game. The game was so successful that people want to play another one," said a member.

Two games are planned Aug. 1 by club members in order to raise funds for Lions Club Park in Garden City, according to members. A ladies' game is set for 7 p.m. and a mens' game will be played at 9 p.m. No admission will be charged. However, donations can be made and concession stands will be available, said members.

He is father of George W. Bush, who is the Republican candidate for the 19th Congressional District seat being vacated by George Mahon.

About 200 Exchange Club members and guests from around the state are expected at the convention, which began Thursday and will end Saturday night.

Host for the convention is the Odessa Exchange Club, with arrangements handled by Jerry Boyea, club president, and John Dunagan, chairman of the convention committee.

Presiding will be Gerald Franklin of Houston, state president of the Exchange Clubs.

Concluding the membership convention will be the President's Banquet and Dance Saturday night. The state board of directors will meet Sunday morning.

Report puts blame for Florida train crash on faulty railbeds

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Florida train derailment that killed two persons and forced some 2,000 others to flee from poisonous gas was caused by a rail that tipped when it could not withstand lateral forces exerted by the locomotives, the government said Thursday.

The National Transportation Safety Board also questioned the way certain cars were put together to form the train.

The derailment of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad freight train occurred Nov. 7 near Pensacola, Fla. A man and his wife were killed and 46 persons were injured when two tank cars carrying anhydrous ammonia ruptured and the gas spread to a nearby residential area.

Board investigators found that the track approaching and entering a curve where the accident occurred was half an inch less than the standard gauge of 4 feet, 8 1/2 inches. The board said this conformed to minimum federal regulations, but added that "the high rail in the curve tipped because the tight gauge track was not able to withstand the lateral forces generated by the train's six-axle locomotives."

The report also said additional forces were generated on the track because of the makeup of the train. It said a lightly loaded long car (89 feet or longer) and an empty short car (50 feet or less) were coupled together behind the locomotive units pulling the 9,644-ton train.

Rumors drove Joan Kennedy to drinking

NEW YORK (AP) — Rumors that Sen. Edward Kennedy was seeing other women drove Joan Kennedy to drink, the Massachusetts Democrat's wife says.

"I tried to talk about it, but I was embarrassed and Ted was embarrassed about it. Everybody was embarrassed, but nobody would really talk about it. Even my best friends would tip-toe around it," Mrs. Kennedy says in an interview in the August issue of McCall's Magazine.

"I suppose they were trying to protect me. And so I continued to drink more and more. And the situation got progressively worse," she says.

"Rather than get mad, or ask questions concerning the rumors about Ted and his girl friends, or really stand up for myself at all, it was easier for me to just go and have a few drinks and calm myself down as if I weren't hurt or angry."

"I found out that alcohol could sedate me. So I didn't care as much. And things didn't hurt so much."

Mrs. Kennedy, who first revealed her alcoholism in an Associated Press interview earlier this month, said that when her illness became apparent she consulted her sister-in-law, Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis.

"I felt close to Jackie," Mrs. Kennedy said, "because both of us needed space to be alone. When I realized my drinking was becoming a real problem I remember going to New York to see Jackie and talking about it. She understood."

Joan Kennedy went to Washington in 1962, the beautiful young wife of the newly-elected Massachusetts senator and sister-in-law of the president of the United States, John Kennedy, and his Attorney General, Robert Kennedy.

The president and his brother were assassinated. Mary Jo Koepchne, who had worked in the Robert Kennedy presidential campaign, was killed when the car she was in that was driven by Edward Kennedy went off a bridge at Chappaquiddick, Mass. Five years ago, Teddy Kennedy Jr. had his right leg amputated because of bone cancer.

Mrs. Kennedy's admission of alcoholism followed by three months a similar admission by former first lady Betty Ford, who revealed she was undergoing rehabilitation for alcohol addiction. "I drank socially at first," the magazine quoted Mrs. Kennedy as saying, "and then I began to drink alcoholically. But at the time I didn't know it."

Ex-attorney general John Mitchell granted parole

WASHINGTON (AP) — John N. Mitchell, the last Watergate criminal to go to prison, was granted a parole Thursday, effective Jan. 19. He will have served 19 months of his one-to-four year sentence, counting five months freedom on medical furlough.

The U.S. Parole Commission apparently accorded little weight to Mitchell's age and infirmities since the length of his sentence is similar to that of his two co-defendants, H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman whose time in prison was set at 18 months each.

The decision follows an interview with Mitchell by commission investigators July 5.

The former attorney general, a one-time law partner of Richard M. Nixon and Nixon's manager in two winning presidential campaigns, will be 65 in September. This year he has undergone major surgery twice: for repair of a weakened artery in his abdomen, and for replacement of an arthritic right hip. The five months Mitchell was absent from prison counts as time served.

In recent weeks Mitchell has progressed from walking with crutches to using a cane. He works in the institution's education section and for a time was a clerk in the library. Like many others involved in Watergate, Mitchell has been working on a book.

He entered the prison at Maxwell Air Force Base in Alabama on June 22 last year after fighting his conviction to the Supreme Court. Maxwell is a minimum security institution without walls or bars.

At the time Mitchell was under a 2½-to-8 year sentence, the term also assessed co-defendants, Haldeman and Ehrlichman. But last October, U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica ended his long association with the Watergate cases by reducing all three sentences to one year minimum, four years maximum.

"My reflections since the trial upon my acts and deeds and the events in which I participated have led me to considerable remorse and regret that they occurred," Mitchell told Sirica in a tape recorded statement pleading for the cut in time.

"No set of circumstances, whatever they might be, will ever again lead me to take such actions or to perform such deeds."

Mitchell thus became eligible for parole on June 21. But he was nearing the end of his medical furlough when commission investigators made their regular visit to Maxwell and his interview was delayed.

Mitchell was the last of 25 men sentenced to prison in Watergate to begin serving his term.

Somalia, Ethiopia swap charges, ready for war

By BRIAN JEFFRIES

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — Neighboring Ethiopia and Somalia said Thursday they may be on the verge of another war over Ethiopia's disputed Ogaden region.

Somali President Mohammed Siad Barre told the 15th summit of the Organization of African Unity that Ethiopia, at the instigation of the Soviet Union, has massed troops along their common frontier in preparation for an all-out invasion.

Ethiopian Foreign Minister Feleke Sedle Giorgis said Barre's statement was "tantamount to a declaration of war against my country" and charged that regular Somali troops disguised as nomads are fighting in the Ogaden.

The two countries fought a war for control of the desert region earlier this year. It ended with invading Somali forces being defeated by an Ethiopian offensive spearheaded by Cuban troops and Soviet military advisers.

Barre told the morning session of the summit there are "heavy concentrations of Cuban Ethiopian troops" massed at strategic locations close to the Somali border.

"In effect," he said, "Ethiopia, at the behest of her new-found allies, is preparing for an all-out invasion of my country."

Feleke said that since Somali forces withdrew across the border in March the Somali leaders "have persisted in their intransigence and are reorganizing the remnants of their forces" for numerous acts of subversion and sabotage.

"They are dispatching their regular soldiers across the border again disguised as nomads," he said.

When the Somali withdrawal occurred, he said, only the personal intervention of Ethiopian leader Lt. Gen. Mengistu Haile Mariam prevented Ethiopian forces from pursuing them into Somalia.

Barre charged that Ethiopian warplanes bombed and rocketed border settlements in Somalia several times since March.

Both sides said they would welcome re-establishment of a "durable peace" in the area and laid down minimum terms.

Barre called for all foreign troops to be withdrawn from the Horn of Africa, an end to acts of aggression by Ethiopia against Somalia, self-termination for the population of the Ogaden region, mainly ethnic Somalis, and termination of "genocidal activities" against the population there.

Ethiopia repeated that Somalia should renounce all territorial claims on the Ogaden, pledge respect for the principles of the inviolability of existing borders and non-use of force in inter-state relations while paying compensation for damage caused in the Ogaden.

Both states devoted considerable time to the dominating issue of the summit — foreign intervention in African affairs. It has divided the conference among those who support the Cuban and Soviet military presence in Africa, those who approve of the presence of French troops in the continent, and those who would prefer to see neither.

Ethiopia was joined by Angola in defending the presence of Cuban troops and Soviet advisers in their countries. Both said the foreign troops were invited to defend Africa against Western imperialism.

President Agostinho Neto of Angola said the number of Cubans may increase to defend the country against attacks from South Africa and improve the capabilities of nationalists fighting to end white rule in southern Africa.

"I would like to say that Cuban troops will not leave Angola on my orders as long as political and military aggression persists," he said. "The numbers will even be increased if need be. The technical and military means will be increased."

Soon, he said, Angola will be in a position to answer any aggression "come it from heaven or hell." There reportedly are some 20,000 Cuban troops and other advisers stationed in Angola.

Barre, who last year ordered all Soviet advisers out of Somalia and broke relations with Cuba because of its growing support for Ethiopia, condemned Moscow's "active participation" in a new scramble to "recolonize Africa."

Ousted executives frown

By KRISTIN GOFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Ousted Columbia Pictures President Alan Hirschfeld said he was fired because he resisted attempts to rehire production chief David Begelman after Begelman admitted misusing company funds.

Hirschfeld, 42, was fired from his $250,000 job Thursday after he refused to resign as president and chief executive officer of Columbia Pictures Industries Inc. Hirschfeld, a former investment banker who had run the company for five years, said he was backed by only one of the seven board members who voted, Chairman Leo Jaffe.

The firing "is a direct outgrowth of the David Begelman affair, during which there were serious differences of opinion and judgment between certain members of the board and myself," Hirschfeld said.

But Dan Lufkin, chairman of the board's executive committee, described the split as "a no fault divorce" that "had nothing to do with the Begelman affair."

"...the focus issue was the lack of unity in fundamentals: development and procedure and strategy," Lufkin said.

"The fact is that you are running a company and there is no treading water. You do everything to achieve harmony and everything was done to achieve harmony but it wasn't achieved."

Several weeks ago, Begelman — who had pleaded no contest to one count of grand theft — was fined, ordered to make restitution by making a movie on the dangers of drugs and placed on probation in Los Angeles.

Begelman had admitted misusing company money, including improperly cashing checks made out to actor Cliff Robertson and others.

Have patience with bed-wetter

Dear Dr. Solomon: Our son still wets his bed quite often at night. He's a little over five, and we're wondering if there's something we should do about this. What would be your advice?—Elizabeth G.

Dear Elizabeth: The most important bit of advice that pediatricians I know give is: be patient. Almost all children get over bed-wetting by themselves in their own good time, unless there is something physically wrong with them.

Pediatricians also stress that you should avoid anything like scolding or punishment—for instance, having the child make his own bed. This is likely to aggravate any emotional problem that may be a factor in the bed-wetting.

You should of course check with your doctor or pediatrician to see if there is any organic reason for uncontrolled urination. This occurs only in a small percentage of bed-wetting cases.

If there is no organic trouble, there are certain steps you can take. One is to encourage your child to hold his urine as long as possible during the day. This stretches the bladder gently—quite a few bed-wetters simply have small bladders.

There are various battery-operated buzzers that wake the child at the first sign of dampness at night. Unfortunately, they may also wake the rest of the family too.

Some pediatricians prescribe a drug that limits the deep sleep during which bed-wetting seems to happen most often. There is also a medication that helps the muscles that close the bladder to remain contracted.

I would discuss these possibilities with your doctor, and see what he thinks is best.

Dear Dr. Solomon: A pal of mine tells me that paint removers are bad for the heart. Is this true? I've got quite a job to do soon in our house in the country, and I'd like to check on this.—Joe

Dear Joe: Paint removers can indeed be a heart hazard. They often contain as their main ingredient a chemical called methylene chloride, which increases the level of carbon monoxide in the blood. And this could place an undue strain on anybody with a heart problem. Or a smoker—as smokers tend to have an above-normal amount of carbon monoxide in their blood.

The best place for anyone to use paint removers is out of doors. If you have to work indoors, be sure that you have plenty of ventilation. And remember that methylene chloride evaporates very quickly, so concentrations of it can build up in the air even if the ventilation seems adequate.

If you have a heart problem or smoke a good deal, it's best to leave paint-removing jobs to others.

New York contract is termed 'rip-off'

NEW YORK (AP)—A new Board of Education contract has more than doubled summer payments to a much-criticized company that buses handicapped children, Democratic Assemblyman Charles Schumer charged Thursday. He called the arrangement a "rip-off."

"In question," said the Democratic assemblyman from Brooklyn, "is the $855,000 contract the Board of Education has signed for transporting about 2,500 handicapped children this summer to their special classes."

"Last summer, the contract cost only $319,000 to transport about 2,000 children. Thus the per capita cost of the contract rose from about $159 last summer to about $342 per child this year, more than a 100 percent price increase."

Schumer said that because of the drastic increase in the cost the State Education Department has refused to approve the contract this far, raising the possibility that New York City will have to absorb the entire cost, without any state aid.

Singled out in Schumer's prepared statement was Varsity Bus, the principal company involved in the new contract. He said Varsity is charging the Board of Education $210 per day per bus and $195 per day per station wagon, and supplying 49 of the 184 vehicles contracted for from 10 companies in all.

"The average price per vehicle the Board is paying, by contrast, is $168 a day," the assemblyman added.

"For Varsity to get the largest contract while charging the highest price appears to violate the usual rule of economies of scale..." Schumer went on. "It is incredible that the city has to pay one-half million more this summer for the service it got last summer for $319,000."

Schumer said there have been charges that Varsity collected a $750,000 overpayment on its contract in 1976, that children have been subject to verbal abuse and intimidation by Varsity bus personnel, and that Varsity bus routes forced children living short distances from school to spend three or four hours a day on school buses.

The criticism, Schumer added, came from civic groups and from the city comptroller's office.

Last February, Comptroller Harrison Goldin accused the Board of Education of favoring Varsity in its annual awarding of $73 million worth of bus transportation contracts. He described it as the most expensive contractor and claimed it had dominated the contracts for transporting 133,000 pupils by private bus for more than a decade.

"The Board of Education has done all within its power to protect Varsity through lack of competitive bidding, superficial competitive bidding and attempts at franchising," Goldin said, adding charges that Varsity was lax from a safety viewpoint in the operation of its buses.

Schumer said the Board of Education called this year's contract much more demanding than in the past, including, for example, monetary penalties for inadequate service. Such provisions were cited by the companies as a major reason for the price increases, the Board said.

Strike legal; judge denies railroad back to work order

CHICAGO (AP)—A federal judge Thursday refused to halt an 11-day strike by 4,500 clerks against the Norfolk & Western Railway, leaving about 20,000 railroad employees off their jobs in 14 states.

Judge Alfred Y. Kirkland of U.S. District Court ruled that the walkout was legal, as he denied a request by the railroad to order the employees back to work.

A company spokesman said the railroad was deciding whether to appeal.

Since the N&W is a major carrier of coal, the strike also has idled thousands of coal miners east of the Mississippi River.

"We think this certainly proves that we have been right throughout," said James Yoffie of Roanoke, Va., general chairman of the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks. "We are still prepared to negotiate."

The railroad serves major markets in Kansas City, Omaha, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo, Norfolk, and Canada. It is operating with only 4,000 of its 24,000 employees, and most of the working staff are in secretarial or management positions, a company spokesman said. Limited rail service is continuing, but company officials will not say how many trains are running.

Harvard, CIA at odds over campus recruiting right

By RICHARD PYLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harvard University and the CIA are sharply at odds over the agency's insistence that it be free to continue covert recruiting and operational practices on the campus, a Senate hearing was told Thursday.

Derek C. Bok, Harvard's president, said the university has drawn up guidelines providing that it and members of its faculty and staff may maintain publicly known relationships with intelligence agencies that would not "threaten the integrity and independence of the academic community."

But he said it was clear from discussions with CIA Director Stansfield Turner that the agency "intends to ignore" provisions that all recruiting and other CIA activities on campus be open and above board.

In testimony before the Senate Intelligence Committee, Bok said the CIA insisted on a right to secretly use faculty members, administrators and students to recruit others — especially foreign students — and to collect information useful in its own operations.

"I do not believe that an agency of the United States should act in this fashion," Bok said. "A Senate committee has called upon the academic community to set standards to govern its relations with the intelligence agencies. Harvard has attempted to set such standards. Yet the CIA is declaring that it will simply ignore essential provisions of our guide-

The committee, established in the wake of the exposure of widespread abuses by the CIA and other agencies, is attempting to draft a charter to guide all U.S. intelligence policy.

Sen. Walter Huddleston, D-Ky., chairing the hearing, said it was clear that past intelligence activities had "adversely affected" the academic community. The proposed charter, he said, is aimed at assuring that all future relationships between the agencies and academia be "witting" ones.

Bok and two other witnesses, Morton Baratz, general secretary of the American Association of University Professors, and University of California history professor Richard Abrams, urged adoption of regulations barring any covert activities by the CIA or other agencies on U.S. campuses.

Report predicts killers are likely to kill again

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A psychologist says the killers who shot down six steakhouse employees here Sunday night are likely to kill again.

Vernon Sisney made that assessment as part of a psychological profile requested by police.

He said in the report issued Thursday the killers shot down the restaurant employees one-by-one either because they were high on drugs or knew one of the victims.

The report said it is likely there were two to three persons in the group of robbers. That judgement coincides with the theory police have been using.

In another development Thursday, Police Chief Tom Heggy issued an open letter to one of the three robbers — the one police think did not participate in the actual shooting.

He asked the "mystery witness" to come forward and accept police protection and a $50,000 reward in exchange for information about the crime.

The letter warns the killers might murder the witness next to insure that person's silence.

Heggy denied the investigation has bogged down and said such pleas as the letter have been used successfully in other cases.

He said descriptions of the killers would be released soon along with composite sketches.

Sisney's profile said the killers likely have police records who may have learned the murderous traits in prison.

It also said the killing traits could have come from military service and that the killers "know the possibility exists" that they could be caught and could kill each other to keep this from happening.

It added they probably picked the Sirloin Stockade restaurant in the Southern Hills shopping center before the attack and "knew the layout well," Sisney said in the profile there are indications one or more could have been former employees of the restaurant.

Sisney's profile portrayed the killers as experienced with guns and men who "are expert shots."

At least one witness in the case, Sirloin Stockade Manager Mike Click, 25, has undergone police-supervised hypnosis in an attempt to supply more details for the investigation.

Heggy said the hypnosis did yield some new information and the technique may be used with other witnesses as the investigation progresses.

Chief's letter appeals to Sirloin 'mystery' witness

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Here's full text of the open letter Police Chief Tom Heggy issued Thursday to a "mystery witness" in the Sirloin Stockade murder case:

"We do not yet know your name, but we will. You are the key to the solution of the worst murder in our city's history. We know that you have seen or heard something, and that you want to tell us the truth. If you were present when six died, and did not pull the trigger, you are not a killer. If you have been told about the crime, you have nothing to fear from us. "But you are in danger! These men have killed at least six times, coldly and without feeling. They will not hesitate to kill again, because they must remain free and undetected. The penalty they face is monumental. If you know them and what they did, you will almost certainly be their next victim, if only to insure your silence.

"I stand ready to meet with you at the time and place of your choosing. In addition to the rightness of your act in coming forward, you will receive $50,000 reward upon arrest and conviction of the true killers. YOUR SAFETY WILL BE ASSURED. I await your call at 231-2333."

Tom L. Heggy, Chief of Police.

Miami woman parlays $13 into big slot machine fortune

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Thirteen is a lucky number for Laura O'Neill. She parlayed $13 into a $250,000 slot machine jackpot.

Mrs. O'Neill, who arrived from Miami three days ago, had inserted her 13th dollar into the slot machine Thursday night when it "began flashing and carrying on."

She knew she had won, she said, "when everybody came running from all directions."

"The funniest thing about it," the 53-year-old grandmother said today, "was that I was sitting with my sister at a bar yesterday afternoon watching someone play a machine that was flashing. I said to my sister, 'wouldn't it be wonderful if you or I could hit on something and get a few dollars?"

Her husband, Joseph, a businessman, had returned home before Mrs. O'Neill's big winning. "He couldn't believe it when I called him," she said. "Neither could my two daughters."

She received abundant advice from various people about protecting her new fortune. "A lot of people told me to get a tax advisor the minute I get off the plane in Miami today," she said.

What does she plan to do with her new-found windfall? "Well, I think I'll sell my house and move into something more comfortable, like a condominium," she mused. "And maybe I'll quit my job as a senior buyer at National Airlines ... and I'm the dotting grandmother of two grandsons, ages 6 and 8."

Police have suspect in Bob Crane case

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Scottsdale police say they have a suspect in the murder of actor Bob Crane but can't press an indictment because they haven't gathered enough evidence.

Officials refused to identify the suspect Thursday, but the Arizona Republic in today's editions said police had tried to get an indictment against John Carpenter, a long-time friend of the actor who played the title role in the Hogan's Heroes television series.

Maricopa County Attorney Charles Hyder said Thursday information provided by police was insufficient to show "probable cause" that the Scottsdale police's suspect committed the crime.

"The evidence they've shown us to date is insufficient to file a complaint or even to show probable cause," said Hyder, who also would not identify the suspect.

Crane was found beaten to death in his Scottsdale hotel room June 29.

The Republic quoted sources as saying Carpenter has been the prime suspect since the slaying occurred. Police have questioned Carpenter at least four times since the murder.

Carpenter reportedly offered to take a "truth serum" and a polygraph test but police reportedly declined the offer, the newspaper said.

Carpenter, who lives in Los Angeles, was not available for comment on the allegations.

Crane was killed by two blows on the side of the head while he slept in an apartment rented for him by a theater where he was appearing.

His body was discovered by an actress who was appearing in the play with Crane.

Egyptians dissatisfied over lack of progress in Israeli peace talks

By THOMAS W. LIPPMAN
The Washington Post

CAIRO — Official Egyptian assessments of the negotiations with Israel in Britain this week were almost totally negative Thursday and indicated that the talks are to be broken off once again unless there is some major shift in the Israeli position.

The Egyptians said they had not agreed to any further direct negotiations with the Israelis, apparently deflating speculation that agreement had been reached on a new round of discussions concerning the Sinai Peninsula.

Cairo Radio quoted Foreign Minister Mohamed Ibrahim Kamel as saying that "no agreement has been made on holding another meeting with the Israeli side."

Kamel said, according to the official radio, that "we are ready to meet them in the event that Israel submits new ideas on carrying out its responsibility to withdraw and to recognize the rights of the Palestinian people." Those have been the fundamental points of the Egyptian position since President Anwar Sadat went to Jerusalem last November. Israel has not accepted either, offering instead to grant the Palestinians limited self-rule and to negotiate withdrawal from some parts of the territories occupied in the 1967 war.

Egypt's official Middle East News Agency distributed Thursday a statement attributed to an official spokesman in London saying there was "no point in trying to find any common ground" in the widely different peace proposals submitted by Israel and Egypt at the Leeds Castle meeting.

The initial reaction to these statements among observers here was that while the Egyptians were undoubtedly dissatisfied with what they heard from the Israelis, Sadat is not going to abandon his quest for a peace agreement altogether.

It is more likely that he will do as he did the last time the direct talks with Israel were broken off last January — turn to the United States for mediation and for pressure on the Israelis and continue his effort to undermine the position of Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin.

The statement from the Middle East News Agency said the outcome of the Leeds Castle talks "demonstrates once again that the attitudes of the Israeli government still constitute a barrier in the path of achieving any progress toward a just and comprehensive Middle East peace settlement."

Therefore, it said, Egypt had not accepted any date or place for another meeting with the Israelis but would continue its contacts with the United States. Both special envoy Alfred Atherton and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance are due to visit the Middle East in the next two to three weeks.

Atherton spent several weeks in a kind of shuttle diplomacy between Egypt and Israel last spring, after the Egyptians pulled out of peace negotiations in Jerusalem, but was unable to bring the two sides to agreement on a "declaration of principles" that was to have been the basis for further negotiations.

Sadat has said that he does not want to have anymore dealings with Begin personally and that it would be useless to hold further bilateral talks at any level unless Israel offers some new proposals. But he is also personally committed to seeing through an initiative that he began to worldwide acclaim. In the view of experienced observers here, he has few options, militarily or politically, other than to appeal to the United States and to Israeli public opinion in a search for something that will keep the initiative alive.

Sadat is scheduled to deliver a major political address Saturday marking the 26th anniversary of the Egyptian revolution, and may give some statement of his intentions at that time.

Opposition continues reservoir questioning

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Opponents of the proposed Stacy Reservoir Thursday continued their questioning of the general manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, concentrating on the method used by the district to establish a public need for the 554,000 acre-foot reservoir.

The district hopes to construct the reservoir on the Colorado River to serve West Texas municipal customers to include those in Midland and to provide a cooling lake for Texas Utilities Services, Inc. power plant.

CRMWD Gen. Man. Owen Ivie testified on cross-examination by the attorney for the Lake Travis Improvement Association that the district provided sample resolutions of support to the governmental and civic groups in the district's claimed 20-county water service area which some used as models for documents filed with the commission calling for construction of the Stacy project.

LTIA counsel Thomas George produced a CRMWD memo, calling it a "check-list" of those entities which were to provide resolutions.

"Didn't you draft a prototype resolution and ask them to fill in the blanks?" George asked Ivie.

Ivie replied that the district asked for support, several groups said "yes." Then "we asked if we could assist them and sent them a draft copy of a resolution."

George said that a "substantial number" of the communities which the district is using to make its case for a need for Stacy Reservoir are not now district customers and that the CRMWD might not need the Stacy water were it not seeking more customers.

Ivie stressed, however, that district estimates show a future need for additional water for existing customers.

George then asked just how large a geographical area the district believes it has authority to serve.

Ivie said he knew of no limits "except those of the state of Texas."

Noting that municipal customers of the district might be given priority over certain downstream users, such as irrigation and electric power generation, George inquired if there area any restrictions on the resale of water by the municipal customers.

"None that I know of," Ivie said.

The district official further testified that the CRMWD has "not found an appreciable amount of groundwater which would be economical to develop."

Werkinthin produced a document, which he plans to introduce into evidence indicating it was a memo signed by former TUSI negotiator J.L. Forbis and was sent to other TUSI officials following a meeting with Ivie, December, 1977.

The hearing was to continue today and then adjourn for two weeks while the commission considers other pending business.

'America Alive' to be more than echo of the 'up-at-dawn' shows

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The demure "Gong Show" and reruns of "Sanford and Son" leave

NBC's daytime schedule today. Succeeding them Monday: a new live-and-tape series, "America Alive."

Hosted from New York by Jack Linkletter, son of Art, this new proceeding is a daily grab-bag hour that includes: —Interviews, mostly outside the studio, that emphasize celebrities, both the regular and momentary kind. —"Gossip Check," in which Virginia Graham, "ombudsman for the stars," gives stars a podium for responding to whatever gossip about them they feel needs a good responding to.

—Consumer and medical news, and a "People Comedy" segment. —Music, movie and TV critiques by David Sheehan. He does such now at CBS-owned KNXT-TV here. KNXT says he'll continue there (which gives him the chance to rap an act twice in the same week).

"America Alive" is the brainchild of executive producer Woody Fraser, who since 1961 has cooked up such other TV talkies as the Mike Douglas, Dick Cavett, Virginia Graham and Steve Allen shows.

His last berth: Executive producer, ABC's "Good Morning, America," which he joined in 1976. He left it this year, the same year ABC programs whiz Fred Silverman decamped to pre-empt over NBC.

Fraser, 41, a curly haired Ohioan, said his move wasn't linked to that of Silverman. He had two reasons of his own.

One is that "America Alive" is produced by his own company, "and 'Good Morning, America' wasn't, even though I created the concept," he explained by phone from his New York office.

Orthodox women Jews narrowly exempted from Israeli military service

JERUSALEM — The Israeli parliament Thursday narrowly approved a law exempting Orthodox Jewish women from military service. After 13 hours of debate the vote was 54 in favor and 45 against. The differences between Prime Minister Menachem Begin and opposition Labor Party leader Shimon Peres sharpened further as the debate drew to a close early Thursday. Begin, irritated by his clash Wednesday with Peres over the Labor Party leader's recent talks with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat in Salzburg, Austria, and by opposition attempts to obstruct the exemption law, said he was opposed to Labor members meeting with the Arabs. He disclosed that he had expressed his opposition to Peres's request to meet King Hussein of Jordan when they were staying in the same hotel in London last week. Peres told an Israeli radio correspondent later that he was more upset by this being disclosed than by the prime minister's opposition to the meeting.

But he insisted on keeping a "truth in taxing" provision and one allowing local voters to call a referendum to roll back tax increases. "Take off the cap, leave in truth in taxation and initiative and referendum — that would be fine with me," Peveo said. The truth in taxing provision would require public notice and hearings before a tax increase could be ordered, with the quarter-page newspaper ads showing how each member of a governing body voted on the question of a tax hike.

Rep. Peveo willing to drop limitations

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Rep. Wayne Peveo said Thursday he is willing to drop the local tax limitation part of his property tax uniformity bill as a compromise to get it passed. He made the statement in the House Ways and Means Committee, which discussed possible amendments and heard four more witnesses on the major rewrite of the property tax code offered by Peveo. Peveo, D-Orange, sent up proposed amendments that would drop a 5 percent annual limit on property tax increases and, instead, tie the limit to the state's annual inflation rate. He also dropped a requirement of a two-thirds vote of a local governing body to exceed the limit on increases.

As always I believe I have good quality and quantity food. And, I will continue with the business, and with the excellent prices and services we've had in the past. I know in the long run we will be successful, even gaining one customer per day will be a mark of success.

As stated before, the fine quality food and excellent service are the foundations of my progress. When you come to eat at my place, don't hesitate to ask for me. I will be more than happy to explain everything about Chinese cooking to you. And, of course, if you have a special dish you prefer and it's not on the menu, I will be glad to cook it for you myself.

Sincerely yours, PHIL TSE

Dallas zoo animals finding heat no less irritating than people do

DALLAS (AP) — If there's anything that likes heat more than a lizard, Larry Calvin, director of the Marsalis Zoo, doesn't know what it is. But even for those scaly sun-lovers, enough is enough.

As Dallas heads toward a record string of 100-degree-plus days, the zoo's animals are getting a little fed up with things.

"The heat makes it very uncomfortable for the animals," Calvin said, "and we have to make a lot of extra effort to provide cool places for them. We try to provide plenty of water in pools and sprays for them to cool off in."

While polar bears spend their hot afternoons lying around in their pool, the lizards head for the rocks and happily sun themselves.

"We just put in a new lizard exhibit, and they like that sun and heat," Calvin said. "But you know, after a while even they've had enough. They're ready to get into some shade. They like it, but the way we've been having it here..."

Calvin's zoo workers have the advantage of heavy foliage in many of the animal exhibits, some of it overhead and a provider of shade.

"That helps, and when we spray that plant life, it tends to cool off the whole area by four or five degrees, too," Calvin said.

There have been no real problems. "None of the animals has suffered from heat stroke or overheating so far," Calvin said. "It could be fatal to a lot of them."

The heat does mean a little break in the food bill. "We're seeing a slight drop in food consumption," Calvin said. "Their appetites don't tend to be as big in this kind of heat."

Shah of Iran wants to purchase 70 more F-14 fighter planes

By GEORGE C. WILSON
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The Shah of Iran has told Washington he wants to spend $2 billion for 70 more F-14 fighter planes, a request which puts additional strain on President Carter's effort to reduce foreign arms sales.

Government officials confirmed Thursday that the shah's request has indeed been received but is being held up at the State Department, partly for fear of breaking through the $8.6 billion ceiling Carter has imposed for such sales to non-NATO countries in fiscal year 1978.

Although that ceiling is not in danger of being broken at the moment, with $4.3 billion in arms deals charged against it to date, a last minute flurry of sales between now and the end of this fiscal year on Sept. 30 is expected to push the total up near it — even without the F-14 sale to Iran.

The president has said that his policy "is to reduce the level of arms sales in each succeeding year... We are determined to bring a downward trend in the sale of weapons throughout the world."

The shah's latest request for F-14s is one reason the lower ceilings Carter has promised for future years are in jeopardy. The shah's wish list for U.S.

weaponry is a long one that goes far beyond aircraft.

Proposals introduced

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Sen. Grant Jones of Abilene and Rep. Luther Jones of El Paso introduced proposals Thursday to remove "intangible wealth" from the property tax base.

Grant Jones' proposed constitutional amendment also would remove household goods and personal property not used for the production of income from the property tax base.

Joe Louis book recalls years of fame and the sadness of boxing

Reviewed by TOM MORAN
The Los Angeles Times

There is a mantle of sadness poised above every arena wherein the sport of boxing is practiced. Flashes of glamor, courage, skill, excitement, money and honest-to-God guts are merely promised. The sadness remains a sure thing.

It is as much a part of the boxing atmosphere as empty beer cups rolling among the peanut shells and smoke so thick it refuses to rise. It has no snobbish prejudices; it clings to the flaking paint of Legion halls and ice rinks in Pennsylvania as well as the fancy cocktail lounges and casinos of Nevada. Wherever men fight each other for sport and money there will be the sadness.

Joe Louis was heavyweight champion of the world from 1937 until 1949 and sampled the very best that boxing had to offer. He found glory and international recognition. He was rewarded with money and acclaim. His fights with Max Schmeling were treated as a prelude to world conflict.

President Roosevelt invited Louis to the White House, pressed the champion's biceps and said that America was depending upon their strength. A parade of attractive women was drawn to the fighter and Louis let few of them pass by without his personal attention.

In "Joe Louis: My Life," the former champion recalls his years of fame and his years of misfortune. The sadness peculiar to boxing itself he was never able to escape.

A fading Louis was punished by Ezzard Charles and destroyed by Rocky Marciano. The Internal Revenue Service gripped him with steel claws and shook Louis until his pockets bled pennies. His personal problems mounted. Wives left him. In one disastrous fling, a paramour got him started on drugs and made pornographic movies while he dozed in "funny land." Another lover led him toward cocaine addiction.

His business deals soured as fast as they were conceived. A visit with Fidel Castro caused the ire of the United States government, and an increase in tax pressure on Louis. The former idol of millions could be seen sweating for dollars on a television game show called "High Finance," whistle-stopping the country to referee wrestling-matches or glad-handing tourists at casinos in England and Nevada.

Reading Louis's book is like having the ex-champ sit down across from you in a living room and chat about his life. It is a comfortable, homespun story and you are quickly convinced that if Joe Louis is anything, he is a nice guy.

There are few secrets revealed, perhaps the names of a few lovers, and no bitter denunciations of those who used and abused him. The numbers racketeers who were his managers, the promoters who packaged him and his paychecks, the tax men who hounded him, the con men and women who fleeced him are all absolved.

The sadness is in the pages of this book but Joe Louis ignores its presence. It is treated as is his currently failing health.

Careful remarks now expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter has left no doubt he expects U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young, to be more careful in his future statements.

However, Carter also praised Young at his nationally televised news conference Thursday night saying, he "has been and is very valuable to our country."

Young drew the president's anger and a personal reprimand last week after telling a French interviewer there were "hundreds, perhaps thousands" of political prisoners in the United States.

Young's remark drew widespread international attention and came at a time when Carter's human rights campaign was being aimed squarely at political trials in the Soviet Union.

Questioned about the episode, Carter said "the statement by Andy Young was unfortunate and I do not agree with it. I don't think there are thousands of political prisoners in this country."

But Carter noted that Young went on to explain that he was referring to "10 or 15 years ago during civil rights demonstrations and debates" when Young and others were imprisoned because of their beliefs that the country's laws needed to be changed.

"They were changed," Carter said. "We've made great progress, which Andy Young pointed out."

"He knows that I disapproved of his statement. ... We have, I think persisted in our human rights commitments in spite of that statement, and I've discussed it with Andy and I don't believe he will make a similar statement again," Carter said.

"And almost the same time Andy made that unfortunate statement, he has been and is very valuable to our country. He's opened up new areas of communications and mutual trust and cooperation among the nations of Africa in particular," Carter said.

Sheriff's department makes $3,200 furniture recovery

Midland County Sheriff's Department deputies recovered an estimated $3,200 in allegedly stolen furniture July 13, according to Capt. George Thompson.

Two Midland men have been arrested in connection with the case within the past two weeks, officers said.

Charged with burglary of a building were Richard Hayes Holt, 28, of the 2300 block of Avenue A and Mark Douglas Wright, 23, of the 2709 block of North Midland Drive.

Holt, arrested July 14, is free in lieu of $5,000 bond posted the day of his arrest, said authorities. Wright, arrested Wednesday, also posted $5,000 bond the same day and is now free, officers said.

Child injured

CRANE — Michelle Maxwell, 3, of Crane, was listed in "guarded condition" this morning in Odessa's Medical Center Hospital after receiving injuries when she was struck by a vehicle in Crane about 8:30 p.m. Thursday, said authorities.

Crane Police Department officers said unknown persons took the girl to Crane Hospital for initial treatment following the accident. She was later transferred to Medical Center because of the extent of her injuries, officers said today.

The case first came to the attention of officers July 12 when Ronnie Bearden, owner of Tall City Office Supply at 317 W. Texas Ave., reported the theft of two desks valued at $300, which he said were removed from his warehouse in the 2900 block of West Kentucky Avenue.

Sgt. R.A. Stratton and Deputy Johnny Klein went back to the 2900 block of West Kentucky Avenue July 13 and collected evidence which allowed probable cause to seek a search warrant of the warehouse area, said officers. That search, conducted the same day, turned up items which Bearden later said were missing from his inventory, according to investigators.

T-shirts have many tales to tell

By JAN JENNINGS
Copley News Service

There's more in T-shirts than chests today. There's the graffiti and philosophy. There's puns and double-entendre. There's a lot of stuff you can't use in a family newspaper.

Andrew T. Williams has seen it all and photographed most of it. He's a gregarious chap from the University of California at Berkeley with a doctorate in economics who turned his back on a university teaching career to spend his days squinting through the lenses of his camera in search of interesting subjects — like T-shirts.

A bearded fellow, sometimes flippant, sometimes serious about his T-shirt mania, Williams has spent the last six months photographing T-shirt attention. They crave patrons in Northern California and Hawaii. T-shirt when they are in He ferrets them out in mod gathering places. They express hears about them word-of-mouth from friends or just finds them along the streets. Some of his work has been exhibited in libraries.

It's called "Tickle My Fancy." And many of the T-shirts are that suggestive — and more so, with a sample motto of "Take Me Home" spicely summarizing the bulk of the sensuous messages.

But there are other sentiments too. "Elvis — The King Lives On." "Property of Alcatraz — Unlisted Number."

"Good Nurses Never Lose Patience." "And Dismaland."

"There is no limit to the form the T-shirt expression takes," said Williams, himself clad in a T-shirt saying "Smile." "People who wear these T-shirts are outgoing, extroverted, receptive of attention. They crave attention. They wear the California and Hawaii. T-shirt when they are in He ferrets them out in mod gathering places. They express hears about them word-

They invite recognition. "It's fun, light-hearted and playful."

Williams research found that hard-core T-shirt wearers are in their teens, 20s and early 30s. They dig saying what they feel and having some laughs with it.

Williams photographs his T-shirt personalities in the studio, on the street or in their home. All are candid shots.

"The first thing that hits you is the message on the T-shirt," said

Williams. "But there's more to it than that."

Do-it-yourself canners flock to public cannery

STARTOWN, N.C. (AP) — The line formed early. Folks with bushel baskets of home-grown beans, tomatoes and corn waited for the reopening of the Startown Cannery, where they pack their vegetables in open-topped cans then sit back while the cannery does the messy work.

The cannery, which had been closed a year for repairs and improvements, opened its doors at 7:30 a.m. Tuesday. By 9:30, about 600 cans of vegetables had been canned, and Catawba County do-it-yourself canners were still pouring into the small clapboard building.

Inside the cannery, above the clanging of cans and hissing of steam, Randy Sigmon, cannery operator, calmly directed things.

"Anyone can bring food in to be canned, even if they don't know how," he said. "There's not that much to it.

You pack your beans in cans, and then we take over."

All customers have to do is clean the food, wash out the cans and add seasoning or water.

Betty Huss of Valdese, in neighboring Burke County, said she has been coming to the cannery for years.

"If you've ever canned 95 jars of beans in one day, you'd drive down here," she said. "It would take two days of steady work at home to can what I've canned this morning, and we like beans."

Mrs. Joe Wright of Lawndale in Cleveland County agreed. "I'm just not going to can at home. It's just too easy to come over here."

She said she stopped canning when the cannery closed last year. "I froze some things, but it's just too messy to can at home. It's too hard," she said.

Tips on creating warm room

By BARBARA HARTUNG
Copley News Service

Q. We are moving into a new condominium which has four sterile white walls. I must choose the carpeting soon. We are going to buy furniture and I want to create a very comfortable and warm room using antiques and Early American pieces. Looking at the room as it is now, it looks like I have a huge job. Please suggest where to start. I hate the plain walls. Also what should I use for the two 40x72-inch windows in the room? I am thinking about an earthen color scheme of beiges and greens. — T.H.

A. Perhaps a plain brown or warm gold carpeting would be best.

For the walls, you might consider a very tricky and inexpensive treatment. Take newspapers and apply them with water-soluble glue. Then age them with orange shellac. Top them with 2x4s which you might paint a color you are using in the room. The wall effect can be stunning.

For the windows why not consider wooden louvered shutters painted or stained the same color as your wall decoration? Accessorize with country Americana and select your furniture with an eye to homespun fabrics in attractive weaves and perhaps stripes or plaids.

companion fabric with it. Use the wallpaper but also use the companion fabric on your sofa, chairs and even draperies. This will give unity to the room and allow the furniture, walls and windows to blend. Nothing will be jarring. I would suggest you take the background color (or at least a dominant color from the fabric and wallpaper) and use that as a solid on the floor for a rug or carpeting. Also an attractively framed mirror in the room on one wall would be a nice addition for extending the walls.

Please send questions for Decor Score to Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper.

A. You do have a big job but not an impossible one ahead of you. It can be fun and almost magical creating an atmosphere of the past out of something so contemporary as a white, new condominium. First, you should consider your color scheme, as you have.

With an earthen color scheme, select your carpeting. You might like one of those carpets that simulates a rag rug and has primarily brown with touches of red, gold and green. It can provide an interesting background. However, you may be more limited to a few colors in perhaps three styles. If that is the case, I would opt for the very flat, dense weave and then add some braided rugs on top of it — particularly in the conversation

Q. I have a very small living room — only 10x13 feet. How would you suggest decorating it to give it the most spacious look and yet be charming and attractive? I love wallpaper but I suppose it is out in such a small space. — V.H.

A. Quite to the contrary. If you like wallpaper, use it. I would suggest you look for a wallpaper that has a

Women show they're tops

BOSTON, Mass.—"Rise and shine" is exactly what America's 37 million working women are doing as they get up and get ahead in careers that cover a wider range of income and close the gap between the sexes. To make the most of the days packed with new challenges and opportunities, today's shining examples of the work-world know that looking confident is just as important as feeling confident in the all-important race toward success.

Despite the habitual A.M. rush to bet to work on time, women can leave their homes with the fashionable, professional appearance that's essential for getting ahead. In turn, a bit of thinking ahead is also required, as beauty experts from Gillette discovered in talking with three of New York City's top photography models, whose livelihoods actually depend on looking terrific day in and out.

Like most working women, Ford models Shelley Smith, Kim Neblett and Micaela Sundholm can't afford to dash out the door only to arrive at work wishing they could start all over again. Based on experience that has put their faces on the pages of the country's top fashion magazines, and a reputation that earns each up to $100 per hour, the models know that getting up on the right side of the bed can determine the length and strength of a career.

Since practice makes perfect and cuts down on time that does mean money, all three young women have devised morning rituals that work for them and accomplish the essentials in the least amount of minutes.

First rule of thumb in streamlining a morning schedule is to do some experimenting to find your best look. However, save the testing with new make-up, hairstyles, wardrobe silhouettes and accessories for weekends and evenings when there's time to spare for contemplation.

The weekend is also the best time for revitalizing skin and hair in preparation for the next demanding work week. For example, the models take Saturday and Sunday to let their skin and hair "rest" from make-up and styling while pampering themselves with deep facial cleansing or hair conditioning. Shelley Smith uses the natural conditioning benefits of a raw egg yolk on hair to return body to her fine, blond mane. Steaming the face with hot towels or a brew of herbal tea will deep clean pores and give skin a "breather," according to Micaela Sundholm. Other beauty musts such as manicures and pedicures should also be slotted for the weekend when there's more time.

Step two in time-saving importance is to get clothes ready in advance to avoid extra minutes standing bewildered in front of the closet with "nothing to wear." Simple as it sounds, much time is saved by just listening to the previous evening's weather forecast and then selecting appropriate clothes that have been pressed, cleaned and mended. At the same time, coordinate accessories and experiment with ways to wrap a new shawl or pin on a flower.

Morning shower lovers will save by having shampoo, razor, creme rinses, pumice stone and other necessities near the tub. If a creme rinse is necessary to avoid tangles, shampoo hair first so the rinse has time to set as you shave legs and rub the towel vigorously with a natural loofah sponge. Next, rinse and towel-dry hair, comb through wet hair carefully with a wide-tooth comb and wrap it turban-style in a towel before sitting down to breakfast.

It helps to have a standard breakfast with ingredients on hand that can be prepared in a snap. Model Shelley concocts a quick blender drink of milk with brewer's yeast, protein powder, a raw egg and honey. If the habit of relaxing over coffee and the newspaper is a must as it is for model Kim Neblett, be sure to allow extra minutes when you set the alarm.

Current hairstyles are also quick and simple to whip up, thanks to modern hair care appliances and the trend toward "wash and wear" hair. Whether hair is washed the night before or in the morning shower, a blow dryer will do a speedy and efficient job of drying and styling. Since such dryers are small in size and lightweight, they can be stored within easy reach in any bathroom.

During the upcoming cold weather season, when hair must be dried thoroughly before you step outside, a powerful dryer is an asset in speeding up the popular method of finger drying without a brush. Micaela suggests bending to the waist and blowing hair over the face to add fluffy volume. Shaping hair with a brush during drying can straighten or create waves. For any style, a curling iron will create fast finishing touches just before you walk out the door.

For make-up, the key to quick application is to have the right colors and items at your fingertips. Decorative baskets on a nearby shelf can serve as accessible and attractive storage containers for cotton swabs, make-up brushes, sponges, gloss and blushers. To save time and skin, all the models use cosmetics sparingly. Kim advises a quickly blended pencil outline around the eyes can substitute for mascara on bottom lashes.

20 percent increase in beef prices expected by year end

By RAY KIPP
Copley News Service

Rapidly rising beef prices are expected to slow soon, but not enough to prevent as much as a 20 percent or more increase in consumer costs by the end of the year.

Some cattlemen say hamburger, the average family's staple, could soar to $1.50 a pound. Pork and poultry will provide little relief, as both are expected to post larger gains than earlier predictions. Eldon Ball, USDA agricultural economist, said in an interview.

Ball credited increasing consumer demand and short supplies for the skyrocketing retail prices. But he cautioned against any government price control efforts to curtail the record-setting beef prices.

"Price controls could be totally disastrous," Ball said. "If cattlemen were discouraged from expanding their herds while the cycle is down, it would only drive the prices up more and supplies down."

This marks the third time this year USDA officials have considered upward adjustments in their price predictions and indications are it could happen again.

Retail beef prices in the first quarter alone matched the once-adjusted USDA estimate for a 13 percent beef price increase, and Ball said prices may jump another 5 percent in the second quarter. During the third quarter, they may peak somewhere around 20 percent and stabilize or even drop slightly by the end of the year, he said.

Pork prices, spiraling because of a bad winter and lower than estimated hog production, likely will post a 12-14 percent annual increase, Ball said.

Although poultry production is expected to increase supplies by 7-8 percent this year, strong consumer demand probably will result in an 8-10 percent jump in broiler prices, he said.

"But the dominant factor is red meat," Ball said. Cattle have been dominating the price market and news since January when the industry broke out of its three-year slump.

Cattlemen, faced with high feed prices, government controls, drought and below-production-cost prices, liquidated their large herds until the over-supply fell in line with consumer demand.

DEAR ABBY

She's married to 'show off driver'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I've never seen this problem in print before, but you have no idea how much it means to those of us who are faced with it. My husband thinks his car is a plaything. It is unbelievable how immature he becomes when he gets behind the wheel.

For example, he'll pick out a car on the road and try to "race" with it. Or he'll drive with no hands on the wheel, and steer with his KNEES. Or if he sees a pedestrian slowly crossing the street, he'll speed up and aim his car right at him and stop abruptly to "scare" him. He also tries to frighten other drivers by seeing how close he can come to them without actually hitting them. Believe me, we've had some pretty close calls. He even does these things when our three youngsters are in the car, and they seem to enjoy it. If I say one word to him, he flies into a rage, so I just sit there and tremble in silence.

Can you help me?—SHOW OFF'S WIFE. DEAR WIFE: If the most you can do is "tremble" when your husband risks the lives of his family—as well as his own and strangers'—you have a bigger problem than you think. Call the traffic division of your local police department and report the boob. Give them his license number, and the description of his car, and let them know approximately when and where they can find him. Of course, they can't touch him until they catch him breaking the law, but if he drives as you say he does, they'll soon nab him.

woman. I've never met her, but he says she's as homely as a mud fence. I want to trust him, but with all this evidence, how can I?—SHELDON'S WIFE. DEAR WIFE: First I'd find out if this "mud fence" has red hair. If she has, I'd suspect that she was close enough to Sheldon to transfer the above-mentioned evidence. (P. S. Any man who comes home in that shape can plead "amnesia" and get away with it.) DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law is so superstitious it's not even funny. I don't mind if she believes in all those crazy old-fashioned superstitions, but now she's starting in on me! I have been married for seven years, and I'm expecting my first baby in October, and this crepe-hanger Mother-in-law of mine keeps insist-

Expert backs proposed labeling revisions

COLLEGE STATION—Proposed care labeling revisions will give consumers more complete and clearer care instructions, says Claudia Kerbel, consumer information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

This revised care labeling rule was prepared by the Federal Trade Commission in 1976.

The proposed revisions include the following: 1. increased coverage to include household furnishings, suede and leather wearing apparel, and yarn. 2. more specific and detailed statements of required care instructions, and 3. clarified who is responsible for providing care instructions to consumers.

Based on comments about the proposed revised rule, the FTC staff has recently prepared recommendations regarding the final rule.

Consumers are urged to communicate their opinions to the FTC before the final rule is written, Ms. Kerbel says.

Send comments before August 18, 1978, to Federal Trade Commission, 6th St. and Pennsylvania Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20580.

Some major highlights from the proposed revised care labeling rules and FTC recommendations are:

—Wearing apparel—although the current rule covers wearing apparel, the new rule clarifies care instructions, including washing method, appropriate water temperature, drying method, drying temperature if machine dried, iron use and temperature, specific bleaching instructions and dry cleaning directions.

—Piece good—the present rule covers piece goods for wearing apparel. The proposed rule is expanded to cover piece goods used for upholstery, drapery, slipcovers and linens.

FTC recommends that the retailer automatically distribute labels without a request from the consumer.

The proposed rule also covers remnants created at the retail level and those whose fiber content is known.

—Yarn—not covered in present rule. The yarn wrapper should display the care instructions, and a label that can be attached to the item made from the yarn should also supply these instructions.

The retailer should make the labels available to the consumer without request either at the point of sale or enclosed in each skein.

—Draperies and curtains—not covered in present rule. Permanent labels should follow the standards for wearing apparel.

—Upholstered furniture, furniture fabric and slipcovers—not covered in present rule. All upholstered furniture and slipcovers should have permanently attached labels except when the label will detract from the appearance.

In these cases, a hang tag should be required.

—Carpets and rugs—not covered in present rule. Because permanent labeling is not feasible, consumers should be told of the availability of care instructions before the point of sale and should receive instructions without request at the point of purchase.

—Linens—not covered in present rules. Table, bed and bath linens should have permanent care labels attached, however size, fragility or sheerness may exempt some linens.

—Suede and leather wearing apparel—not covered in present rule—a permanent care label must be attached that states "leather cleaning techniques must be used."

This statement advises consumers and drycleaners that textile methods of drycleaning are not appropriate.

—Garment components—such as zippers, interfacing, braids, buttons, elastic, and thread are not covered in the present rule.

The FTC recommends that care instructions be made available to manufacturers on request. Care instructions on components sold to the consumer are not required.

Vet hates destroying animals

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—"Some mornings I wake up and feel that I don't want to go to work," says Patricia Chase.

Dr. Cjase, the veterinarian of the Birmingham Humane Society and its animal shelter superintendent, says this occurs on those days that it's her turn to kill the animals that have not been adopted or that have been so badly injured that they cannot recover.

Some mornings, only about 100 animals are slated to die in the decompression chamber, a device resembling a 55-gallon oil drum lying on its side with an adjoining motor to withdraw the air. On other mornings, there can be 200 or more animals slated for the death chamber.

SUPER HANDYMAN

Putting in pond not impossible

By AL CARRELL

There are probably lots of folks who'd like to have a fish pond in the back yard. The actual digging, pouring the concrete and forming the pool aren't all that difficult, and at least one of the pre-mix cement companies has a booklet with plans. But lots of people stop because putting in a drain line would be a major undertaking. Probably you don't need a drain. Small pumps are inexpensive, bailing water is good exercise, or if you have a spot in the yard that's lower than the pond, you could syphon. Maybe you think of syphoning as sucking on the tube until you get a mouthful, and fishy water isn't all that tasty. The simple way to syphon a fish pond is to hook up the garden hose to a hydrant. Turn the water on, and when the hose is full, stop the flow with the nozzle. Turn the water off and remove the hose, capping the hydrant end with your hand. With the nozzle end at the low part of the yard, put the other end in the pond. When you open the nozzle, with any luck at all, the syphoning process starts, and you'll drain the pond. (You did remember to remove the goldfish, didn't you?)

Dear Al: You may think this is more of a household hint than one for the super handyman. However, I am impressed with all the ways you have to reuse things that would ordinarily become junk and mess up the ecology. My hint is a way to make an interesting set of canisters for flour, sugar, coffee and the like. I saved enough half-gallon wine bottles of the same type to use for my set. I use a funnel to fill the bottles. I find that it's much easier to pour from these when I need the dry ingredients than it is to scoop from more conventional canister sets. Also, I can tell at a glance when the contents are getting low. They are really rather nice looking on the kitchen counter, too. — Miss T.L. I'm working on a matched set even as I read your letter.

Dear Al: You have included hints about using crayons, iodine and walnut meats to hide scratches in wooden furniture, but you have missed my cure. You can get eyebrow pencils in just about every shade and color, and this will easily hide scratches. After rubbing it on, buff it in, and the scratch is gone. — Ms. B.

A SUPER HINT — Pegboard ranks right up there with the wheel as far as inventions go. However, after much use, the holes in the hardboard get reamed out a bit, and the little hooks get loose. You grab for a tool, and the hook it's hanging on comes out too. Dip the tips of the hooks in rubber cement. Put the hooks in the holes to dry, and the extra thickness will keep the hooks in place much better. You may have to repeat the dip every so often, but it will be a big help for a little problem.

Dear Super: I was having trouble working the spackling compound into wall cracks with the putty knife. Then I tried a small artist's brush dipped in to the spackling. It got the compound into the cracks much easier and also allowed me to texture the new material to match the rest of the wall. I think this is the best way unless the crack is very wide. — D.S.

QUICK ANSWERS FOR HARRIED HANDYPERSONS: Q. What is the frost line and why is it important? We're getting ready to build, and the foundation people mentioned it. A: The frost line is the depth below the ground which is the deepest penetration of frost. It varies with different climates. For example, within the continental limits of the United States, the frost line varies from one inch to six feet. It's important because when ground often reasons for footings freezes, it expands and to go well below the frost causes movement. To line, but they should avoid structural never be above.

Got a question or a below the frost line, and handy tip? Write to Al Carrell in care of this newspaper. There are newspaper.

Space training no snap

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Life as one of 35 new astronauts has been anything but glamorous for Maj. Gulon Bluford of Wayne Township, near Dayton.

Bluford and the other astronaut trainees have been undergoing orientation at the Lyndon Johnson Space Flight Center in Houston. They are the new wave of American astronauts who are scheduled to participate in the space shuttle program starting in the early 1980s.

His first day in training was like the first day in school — some anxiety, some excitement and generally predictable — he said in a telephone interview.

"We spent the morning being briefed on the administrative affairs of the center and filling out a lot of forms," Bluford said. "We met officials from the center, heard speeches about what lay ahead of us and got a rundown of what we'll be doing for the next couple of years."

The next day, Bluford said, he spent the morning going through technical books about the F-38 jets he will be flying in a few weeks. Later in the day the trainees met with some of the 27 veteran astronauts for a session on survival techniques and ejection procedures in the F-38s.

"I went home one night and told my sons that I would be hitting the books very hard and they just groaned," Bluford said. "It's going to be hard work, but it's like returning to an operation: flying assignment again and that's a very nice feeling."

Carter administration not ready to quit tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration says it is not ready to abandon the president's proposed crude oil tax, despite a "wry aside" by Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger suggesting the tax may be doomed.

administration officials hope it can be revived by a House-Senate conference working on the tax aspects of Carter's 15-month-old energy plan, even though that panel has only met one time this year.

Meredith, Landry reminisce about the past years

By FRANK LUKSA

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. — They stood together there the other day as they had for so many years on so many football sidelines...

At least two things had changed from the manner in which they used to conduct their conferences.

MEREDITH WAS NOT in uniform, although by his still-youthful, flat-bellied features he could still fill one smartly.

And both were smiling. To the long-time camp follower there were other differences in their surface relationship.

To the long-time camp follower there were other differences in their surface relationship. Landry is not given to idle chatter.

This was the 10th anniversary of Meredith's last training camp with the Dallas Cowboys.

Almost a decade has passed since Meredith quarterbacked his last meaningful game for Dallas, a 30-21 playoff loss to Cleveland in 1968.

SO NOW DANDY, accompanied by 10-year-old son Michael, had returned to the Cal Lutheran College complex he knew as a player.

"Years ago, Tom was flying over this place when it was nothing but hills. He looked down and said, 'Let there be a college.'"

What was their relationship in the '60s, anyway? Or did they have one? Whether actual or not, Meredith always left the impression of having a blithe approach to the game.

"It's totally different than being one of those guys out there in the funny-looking hats," Meredith said, nodding toward a contingent of rookies.

"Because of the situation with the Cowboys then, we had the opportunity to spend more time together than others. We started from day one. I think we always felt mutual respect based on a lot of things... personality, ability... which is about all you really need.

"I never really got to know him. It's a sad commentary to spend nine years with anyone and not get to know him. I got to know just about everyone else in the organization except him. It was a frustrating type of situation.

A SCENE FROM the '68 Cleveland playoff comes to mind. Landry and Meredith stood stiffly apart on the sidelines as the Browns poured it on. General manager Tex Schramm, trying to walk off his heartbreak around the Cowboy bench area, came upon Meredith.

Meredith remembers it wasn't all bad: "I enjoyed playing for Tom because he was a trend-setter. His offense was and still is an extremely good one to run.

"He was the only coach I ever played for," Meredith replied, dodging. The question was repeated. "It got to where it wasn't much fun, which is basically the only reason why..."

If Meredith has regrets, so does Landry. Not so long ago he was asked if, overall, Meredith disappointed him.

"The only disappointment I had with Don was that he really never fulfilled his great potential as a quarterback," he said. "He was a fine leader. He had talent. He and Walt Garrison were probably the two toughest players I ever had. Guys who could take punishment and perform."

teams. He never really complained. He took it and suffered and performed. That's a great tribute to an athlete.

"But Don was not fully dedicated to becoming the greatest football player he could be. I don't know that that's a knock on a player because priorities make a difference in a person's life.

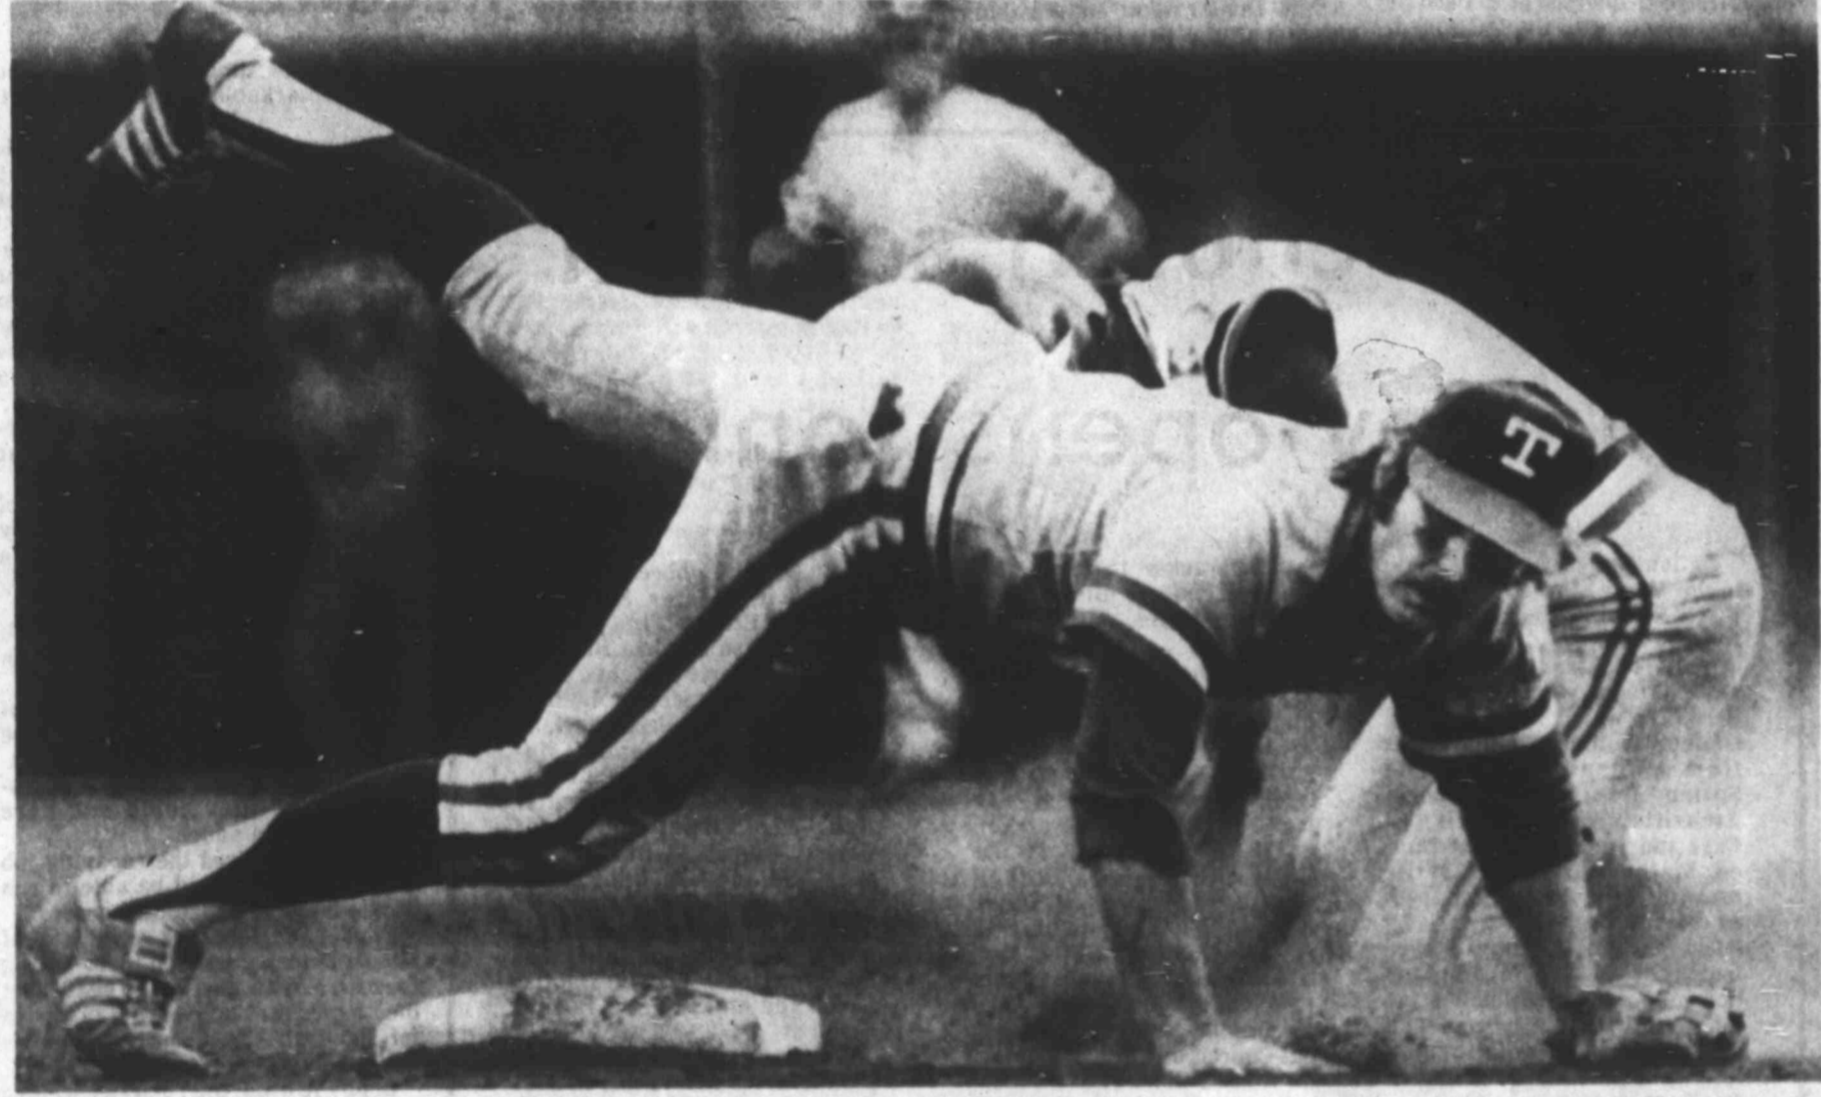

Meredith is in the movies. He's just completed three made-for-TV shows. He's also writing and will have short story fiction published in Esquire.

YET, MEREDITH, Jeff and Hazel's boy from over in Mount Vernon, is now 40 years old.

"Ah yes," he grinned. "It happened on April 18, 1938. Sunday afternoon about three o'clock. A strange thing, though. A star came up and three funny guys showed up on humped-back mules."

Seriously, Don, your thoughts on the traumatic experience of being 40.

"I like my wife, I like my kids. I like Don. I like amigos. I like my house. I like California better than I ever thought I would," Meredith replied. "I'm glad to be 40 or anything else. 'Besides, it's the first time in my life I've been out of debt.'"

Eastern stars capture LL tourney win

BIG SPRING — Midland Eastern was a big winner in the Texas District III Little League tournament here Thursday night, but the other local representative, Mid-Cities of Midland was not quite so fortunate.

Midland Eastern blasted Big Spring Texas, 15-6, to advance to the next round of action, but Mid-Cities lost a squeaker to the Lamesa All-Stars, 4-3, to end their chances of a tournament title.

Some consistent hitting throughout the Midland Eastern lineup helped Ricky Jackson pick up the win for the locals. Eastern scored their 15 runs on 15 hits, all singles. A. Mayfield rapped three singles and scored a pair of runs for Eastern. Jackson struck out seven Big Spring Texas batters.

Ach Graham picked up a hard-earned win for Mid-Cities.

Midland Eastern will battle Big Spring International tonight at 8 p.m. for a berth in the tournament finals. The two squads will tangle on the National League Park.

The Lamesa All-Stars will face Big Spring American on the American League diamond at 8 p.m. today with the other spot in the finals on the line.

The tournament finals will be at 8 p.m. Saturday. Midland Tower, Western and North Central, have all been eliminated from the single elimination meet.

Tower lost to International, 7-1 in the opening round while Western dropped a 7-6 decision to Eastern of Midland in an extra-inning contest while North Central was blanked by Big Spring American, 7-0. Mid-Cities had already beaten Big Spring National, 8-3.

Rams sign Thoms to new contract

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams announced Thursday the signing of nine-year National Football League veteran Art Thoms to a free-agent contract.

Thoms, a 6-foot-5, 280-pound defensive end who played previously for the Oakland Raiders and Philadelphia Eagles, worked out with the Rams for the first time Thursday.

Efren Herrera fails to make team meeting

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Dallas Cowboy kicker Efren Herrera failed to report to the team's first meeting Thursday night.

Herrera, embroiled in a contract dispute with the world champions, faces a $500-a-day fine.

Cowboy spokesman Doug Todd said that Preston Pearson, however, was at the meeting. There was some speculation that Pearson, who was unhappy about his lack of playing time last season, might not show.

Cowboy General Manager Tex Schramm said there was nothing new to report in the negotiations with Herrera. The diminutive Mexico native was seen at training camp about noon Thursday where he conversed with club officials.

Green captures Philly lead

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Hubert Green says that golf comes easy to a lot of players, but he has to work hard to maintain his reputation as one of the game's best players.

"Normally I get lax mentally," Green explained Thursday after shooting a six-under-par 65 for the first-round lead in the $250,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic by one stroke over Jack Nicklaus.

"I have to work on my game. I'm not like some players who just go out there and play," Green said following his round of an eagle, five birdies and just one bogey.

"Take putting," said Green. "I've just worked hard on it. With my stance and swing I have to work on it. I don't have the natural swing of some of the other players."

GREEN SAID he was playing pretty well and expressed confidence that he could continue his performance through the final three days of this designated tournament.

"I should play well the next two or three weeks," predicted Green, who claims he never makes predictions.

Olsen hurt

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — The Buffalo Bills may have lost center Phil Olsen for the rest of the season because of an injured knee.

Tests Thursday on Olsen's knee at Buffalo General Hospital showed torn ligaments. "It'll probably be in a cast for six weeks," Coach Chuck Knox said at the Bills' training camp at Niagara University.

Olsen, 30, was injured Tuesday when he was hit from behind in a blocking drill. His departure leaves veterans Willie Parker and Connie Zelencik and rookie Will Grant as candidates for the position.

Olsen, who was obtained from the Denver Broncos in an offseason trade, did not play last year because he was reportedly disenchanted with the team.

will be broken this year. "I leave predictions for weathermen and radio announcers," says the winner of 12 tour events since turning pro in 1970.

The odds are that Green's 17-under-par triumph at Whitmarsh in 1974 will be shattered. He already is six under, and this is a designated field, meaning that all the stars — except South African Gary Player, who was excused — are playing.

IN ADDITION, Nicklaus, who won the British Open last week for the third time, seems to be at the top of his game.

Another factor is that the field of 156 is finding the 6,615-yard course an easy target.

Going into today's second round, eight players were at 67, 11 at 68, 12 at 69, 24 at 70 — a total of 57 breaking par. There were 19 at par 71.

It is an understatement to say the course took a beating Thursday. Both Green and Nicklaus said the rough was short and the greens soft, perfect conditions for low scores.

Midland-based car will enter Twin Dixie run

By TERRY WILLIAMSON

Jim Hall's Midland-based Chaparral-Lola racing team lost some ground in the United States Auto Club's Citicorp Cup point standings last week with a 17th place finish in the Norton 200 when engine failure put the Al Unser driven car out of the race after 51 laps.

Hall and company, however, will try to make up some of the lost ground this week when they take to the Atlanta International Raceway in Atlanta, Ga., for Sunday's Gould Twin Dixie run, a 150-mile race.

THE CITICORP CUP is based on a point system with points awarded for order of finish in USAC's national championship series. Currently, Tom Sneva and the Norton Spirit Penske-Cosworth team own the point lead for the cup.

UNSER COULD PICK UP 300 points for winning this week, so Sneva's lead is safe for at least a while. The Indy machines will not race again in a Citicorp Cup race until Aug. 6 when they travel to College Station.

Rutherford's McLaren-Cosworth, sponsored by First National City Travelers Checks as is Hall's car, scored its first 1978 series victory Sunday by beating Sneva for the Norton 200 title. Unser battled Foyt for the lead early in the race, but never took the lead.

HALL'S CAR ALSO became one of the 16 cars to qualify for two races to be held in England this fall during qualifying runs Saturday prior to the Norton 200 race. The two races will be held on England's road courses at Silverstone (Sept. 30) and Brands Hatch (Oct. 7).

Separate qualifying periods will be conducted at both Silverstone and Brands Hatch in order to determine the exact starting order for each event, both of which have estimated $225,800 purses.

Hale Irwin, Dave Graham, Bruce Lietzke and rookie Jim Nelford, a switch-hitter from British Columbia.

ANDY BEAN, the tour's leading money winner and a three-time winner this year, was at 68, while Tom Watson, another triple winner and second on the money list, was at 69, along with Lee Trevino.

Nicklaus said he thought he played reasonably well. He made his round with birdies on four of the last five holes.

Nicklaus tried to dispel the feeling that he didn't like designated tournaments. He said he agreed with the philosophy to help sponsors get big crowds.

"It's just that I don't like to be away from home more than two weeks at a time," Nicklaus explained. "I like to be with my kids. When a designated tournament falls after a major (the British Open) it means three weeks away, one practice, the tournament and now the designated tournament."

Best Crenshaw, who tied for second in the British Open, two strokes behind Nicklaus, led the group at 67. Also at that figure were Bill Rogers,

Francis signs letter with MC

Cindy Francis, 18-year-old freestyle swimmer from Albuquerque, N. M., has signed a letter of intent to join the Chaparrals' swim team at Midland College.

A graduate from Sandia High School in Albuquerque, Cindy attained All-American honors in 1975 and 1976, and qualified for four events at the Junior Nationals. She was co-captain this year at Sandia High and won the 200 and 500 freestyle events. She received All-American consideration in both events, and set a new record in the 500. She was named woman athlete of the year during high school graduation exercises.

Cindy has trained with Olympic trainer Sherm Chayvor. The signing with MC also reunites her with Chayvor, who coached her for eight years ago at the Albuquerque Aquatic Club.

Cindy joins Kelly Dowdle of Midland High, Bob Franz of Midland Lee and Carolyn Henderson of the MC squad. Odessa's Linda Miller is the only returning letter winner on the team.

Shoemaker seeking win

ASCOT, England (AP)—American jockey Willie Shoemaker, second in the Epsom Derby, hopes to go one better in the King George V and Queen Elizabeth Diamond Stakes Saturday.

Shoemaker rides Hawaiian Sound, the horse on which he came so close to a Derby victory last month.

Hawaiian Sound, owned by millionaire Robert Sangster, faces 14 challengers, including the Queen's highly favored Dunfermline, in England's most prestigious weight-for-age race.

There is also an American horse competing in the race for the first time.

NEW COACH Leonard Ray Boyd, right, views film with Midland High School football Coach Dennie Hayes in MHS Fieldhouse after joining Bulldog staff Thursday. Boyd came to Midland from Seminole where he coached track and football 10 years. Boyd has a total of 26 years of coaching experience and will also help with the track program at MHS. ## 4-year-old colt That's a Nice, trained by Noel Hickey in Florida for owner Frank Sitzberger of Chicago, is a 66-1 outsider.

That's a Nice won seven of his 19 races on turf last year including the Washington Park Handicap at Arlington Park, Chicago, and is ridden by Derby winning jockey Greville Starkey.

Already this year the colt was won more than $154,000.

Shoemaker, though, is rated as having a better chance.

He has shown his ability on English tracks and Hawaiian Sound is rated 7-1 fourth favorite for the race, which is over 1 1/2 miles.

French trainers have sent six horses to challenge for the race — which is worth $175,000 to the winner.

Acamas, the mount of veteran French jockey Yves Saint Martin, is the 5-2 favorite, but all the French challengers are highly fancied.

Guadinal is the 13-2 third favorite behind Dunfermline, and Hawkberry, Montcontour, Rex Magna and the American bred Trillion are all among the favorites.

Top speeds expected in Atlanta Raceway

HAMPTON, Ga. (AP)—Indianapolis style racing returns to Atlanta International Raceway this weekend for the first time in 12 years, and some remarkable speeds are expected.

The program includes a 150-mile race Sunday for the championship cars, to be followed by a 150-miler for U.S. Auto Club stock cars.

Qualifying for both races is scheduled Saturday, and speeds of over 200 miles per hour are expected from the Indy cars. The track record for the 1 1/4-mile high-banked facility is "only" 169.014 mph, set by Mario Andretti in 1966.

However, Danny Ongais and Gordon Johncock tested recently here at speeds up to 197 mph.

"That's incredible for a track of this size," noted track official Bobby Batson. "At Indianapolis, they were barely over 200 mph and that's 2 1/2 miles."

The speedway, which was too bumpy for the Indy cars to run on after 1966, recently was repaved.

"The Indy cars were bottoming out in the bumps at the speeds they were running in 1966. We knew that a complete repaving job would be necessary before they could run here again," Batson added.

Johncock praised the repaving job and said, "We should be able to run three abreast through the corners."

Ongais and Johncock ran a total of almost 250 laps between them during the test, and because of the head start they have, rank among the favorites for the high speed sprint, which is worth $100,000.

Bobby Allison, the runaway winner of the Atlanta 500 here in March, is the odds-on choice in the stock car event.

Speier steals thunder from Rose in victory

By The Associated Press

Chris Speier didn't want to steal Pete Rose's headlines — so he made his own in Montreal.

Speier had the best night of his seven-year career, hitting for the cycle (single, double, triple, homer) and driving in six runs Thursday night as the Montreal Expos posted a 7-3 victory over the Atlanta Braves — and he didn't even know he'd achieved the rare feat.

"Cycle? I had no idea, not even after I did it," Speier said. "I didn't realize it until I went out in the infield and I thought about my at-bats."

Speier tripled home a pair of runs in the second inning, singled in the fourth, blasted a three-run homer in the sixth and completed the cycle with an RBI double in the eighth.

And was he impressed?

"I don't know if I took Rose's headlines," Speier said. "Not in Cincinnati I won't. He's been in the headlines for 33 days now."

Thirty-three games would be more exact.

The Cincinnati Reds captain moved within four games of Tommy Holmes' National League record 37-game hitting streak with a two-out infield single in the fifth inning of the Reds' 8-6 loss to the Philadelphia Phillies.

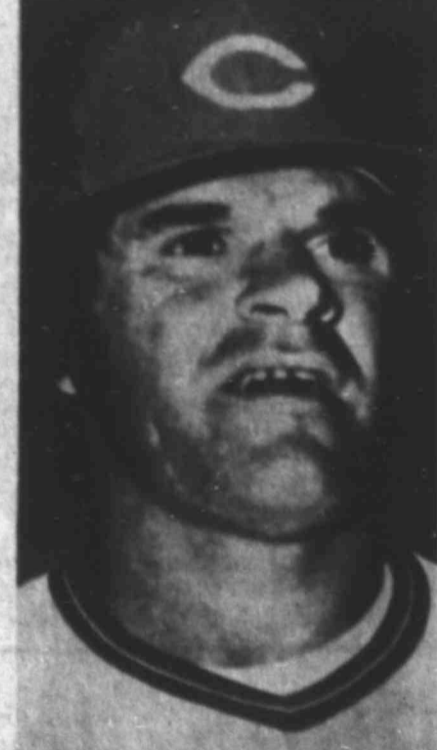

In the rest of the NL, Pittsburgh edged Los Angeles 7-6 in 10 innings, St. Louis nipped San Diego 3-2, New York swept a double-header from Houston 7-4 and 5-4 and San Francisco's game at Chicago was suspended by darkness in the eighth inning with the Giants leading 9-5.

Expos 7, Braves 3

Woodie Fryman was the beneficiary of Speier's 4-for-4 performance, although he needed ninth inning relief from Mike Garman.

Speier's cycle was only the second in Expos' history and the six RBI were the most for him in one game.

Pitcher Jamie Easterly brought in the Braves' first run with a bases-loaded walk and Jerry Royster added a two-run single as Atlanta scored three times with two out in the second inning.

Pete Rose...streak alive

now" Taveras said. "The boeing didn't bother me ... I had the last laugh."

Cardinals 3, Padres 2

Pinch-hitter Tony Scott and George Hendrick drilled run-scoring singles off slumping San Diego reliever Rolie Fingers, 4-11, in the seventh inning, lifting St. Louis past the Padres and snapping the Cardinals' four-game losing streak.

Mets 7-5, Astros 4-4

John Stearns drove in four runs with a bunt single and a three-run double to lead the Mets past Houston in the first game, then Willie Montanez singled and scored the winning run on pinch-hitter Joel Youngblood's double in the 11th inning of the nightcap. It was New York's first twinnil sweep of the season.

Giants 3, Cubs 2

Suspended Game

Jack Clark, who earlier hit a two-run homer, drilled a tie-breaking single in the eighth. It gave San Francisco a lead only moments before darkness halted play in the game that had already been halted three times by rain.

Mike Carter named top Texas track athlete

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Mike Carter of Dallas Jefferson, who threw the shot put farther this season than any other schoolboy in the nation, was named by the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce Thursday as Texas' outstanding high school track athlete.

The Amarillo chamber also released the names of the recipients of its "outstanding athlete" honors in five other sports. The Amarillo chamber has named the top athletes for the past 16 years.

Brad Beck, all-state running back from Perryton, was announced earlier as the state's No. 1 high school football player. He signed to play with the University of Texas.

The other winners are Jerry Davis, West Oso, basketball; Pam Hill, Beaumont South Park, tennis; Greg Chapman, Austin LBJ, golf; and John Moses, Houston Bellaire, baseball.

Carter had the nation's five longest shot put heaves this season among high school athletes. His longest throw was 71 feet 1 1/2 inches. A junior, Carter has won the state championship twice.

Davis, a 6-6 senior, averaged over 35 points and 20 rebounds a game for West Oso this past season and took his team to the state tournament for the third time. Davis was all-state each of the three years.

Miss Hill won state in tennis for Beaumont South Park this year. She became one of a few athletes who have won a state championship four years in a row.

Chapman won class 4-A medalist honors in golf. The austin golfer's score was 73-71-144 over two days. It was the lowest score of any golfer in the state meet.

Moses pitched Houston Bellaire to the state championship. Bobby Moege, baseball coach of Lubbock Monterey, said after watching Moses in the state tournament, "He's a little bit too overpowering for high school people."

Moses will play baseball for Blynn Junior College in Brenham.

Chaps have tough cage slate

The 1978-79 Midland College basketball schedule is now complete, according to head basketball coach Jerry Stone.

And it won't take long for the Chapparrals to get in the thick of conference action this season. The Chaps open up with a couple of contests against college junior varsity squads and one tournament prior to the start of Western Junior College Athletic Conference play.

A pair of tournaments, one during the Thanksgiving holidays and another early in January, are the only breaks from the rugged 18-game conference slate.

As usual, Western Texas will be the pre-season favorite for the conference crown. But a real dogfight among the ten teams for loop leadership and conference playoff spots is expected.

With only five players returning from last year's squad, Stone has recruited 11 new athletes to face the rugged WJCAC grind.

The Chaps, after three years of action on its small court in the Physical Education Building, will host its home games in the spacious Chaparral Center. The playing floor will be the same type of surface, but that will be about the only similarity.

Chaparral Center, now nearing completion, is a large multi-purpose facility that will seat more than 5,000 spectators for basketball. A four-sided electronic scoreboard, concession stands, TV-quality lighting, a professional sound system and ample dressing rooms for visiting teams and officials are just a few of the features that are included in the building.

"Our recruits and our returning players are excited about playing their home games in Chaparral Center," Stone said. "It's going to be a great facility."

The following is the 1978-79 Midland College basketball schedule:

Nov. 8—McMurry College JV, home, 7:30 p.m.; Nov. 14—Wayland College JV, home, 7:30 p.m.; Nov. 16-18—Odessa College Tournament, Odessa; Nov. 22-24—Valley of the Sun Classic tournament, Scottsdale, Ariz.; Nov. 28—New Mexico Junior College, home, conference game, 8 p.m.; Nov. 30-Dec. 1—Chaparral Classic tournament, home; Dec. 4—New Mexico Military Institute, home, conference game, 8 p.m.; Dec. 7—Amarillo JC, Amarillo, conference game, 8 p.m.; Dec. 11—Howard College, home, conference game, 8 p.m.; Jan. 11-15—ABC Classic tournament, Big Spring; Jan. 15—Frank Phillips, Borger, conference game, 8 p.m.; Jan. 18—Odessa College, Odessa, conference game, 8 p.m.; Jan. 22—Western Texas College, home, conference game, 8 p.m.; Jan. 25—Clarendon College, Clarendon, conference game, 8 p.m.; Jan. 29—South Plains, home, conference game, 8 p.m.; Feb. 1—NMJC, Hobbs, N. M., conference game, 8 p.m.; Feb. 5—NMMI, Roswell, N. M., conference game, 8 p.m.; Feb. 8—Amarillo, home, conference game, 8 p.m.; Feb. 12—Howard College, Big Spring, conference game, 8 p.m.; Feb. 19—Odessa College, home, conference game, 8 p.m.; Feb. 22—Western Texas, Snyder, conference game, 8 p.m.; Feb. 26—Clarendon, home, conference game, 8 p.m.; March 1—South Plains, Levelland, conference game, 8 p.m.

Region V Tournament will be held March 8-10 in Abilene.

Midland Cubs top Shreveport

SHREVEPORT, La. — Left-handed batter Jim Tracy delivered a two-run single with two out in the sixth off southpaw Shreveport reliever Randy Brandt to give Midland the lead for good and an eventual 7-5 Texas League victory over Shreveport Thursday night.

The win puts the Cubs in first place Girls softball teams beaten

BIG SPRING — Midland teams took it on the chin Thursday in the opening round of the Division I and II AA State United Girls Softball Association Tournament.

In Division II, Midland #2 Maroons dropped a wild 21-19 decision to Big Spring while Midland Kelly Green lost to Odessa #2, 14-4.

In Division I, Odessa beat Snyder, 11-3 and Midland White lost to Odessa East to the tune of 17-3.

Midland Maroon and Kelly Green now drops into the loser's bracket in the double elimination tourney which runs through Sunday with the finals set for 1:30 p.m.

Midland White also drops to the loser's bracket in its division. Games today find Odessa #1 taking on Big Spring while Odessa #2 plays Snyder which drew a first round bye in Division II.

in the Texas League's Western division. The numbers of the game were impressive. The Cubs and Captains combined to walk 18 batters, leave 25 men on base, commit seven errors and allow six unearned runs.

Brandt entered the game with the bases loaded and one out after Shreveport starter Rafael Vasquez had given up a pair of singles and hit a batter.

Brandt retired his first opponent, lefty Brian Rosinski, who had previously walked twice and hit a run scoring double, on a called third strike. Tracy then stepped to the plate and sent a pair of runs home with his single.

San Antonio takes narrow win in 10th

By The Associated Press

Heroics in the late innings allowed Kelly Snider to change from "goat" to hero as the San Antonio Dodgers took a 2-1 ten-inning Texas League baseball victory over the Jackson Mets Thursday night.

In other Texas League action, Amarillo edged Tulsa, 4-3, Midland slipped by Shreveport, 7-5, and Arkansas scored an easy, 10-5 victory over El Paso.

The Mets took a 1-0 lead in the fourth by scoring after an error by Snider at first base. The score remained 1-0 until Snider's last-ditch ninth inning homer gave the Dodgers a 1-1 tie and new life in extra innings.

In the 10th inning, Snider's two-out single pushed across the winning run.

Amarillo capitalized on five Tulsa Drillers errors and scored three unearned runs to take the 4-3 victory. Tom Tellman, 4-5, was the winning pitcher. Steve Bianchi, now 4-3, was the loser.

Jim Tracy singled across two runs in the sixth inning to give Midland a 7-5 come-from-behind victory over the Shreveport Captains. The Captains jumped out to an early 3-0 lead, but the single by Tracy and a pair of doubles by Brian Rosinski gave the Cubs enough offense for the victory. George Riley, who had relief help from Tom Butler and Mike Allen, picked up the victory. He is now 1-0. Rafael Vasquez, now 11-6, was the losing Shreveport pitcher.

Oiler veterans all report except three

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — All but three veterans have reported to the Houston Oiler training camp at Angelo State University here in preparation for workouts Saturday for the Aug. 5 preseason opener in the Astro-dome against the Denver Broncos.

Spinks has accident

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Traffic incidents continue to plague World Boxing Association heavy-weight champion Leon Spinks.

The 24-year-old Spinks, who has been arrested five times since March for traffic violations, was involved in a minor auto accident Wednesday, according to security officers at the Palmetto Dunes resort.

However, the accident was not Spinks' fault, said Phil Phillips, resort security chief. No one was injured and no charges were filed.

The officer said a tourist unfamiliar with the island rolled through a stop sign and collided with a 1978 Cadillac driven by Spinks, causing about $300 damage to each car, the officer said.

Spinks was at Hilton Head Island training for his Sept. 15 rematch in New Orleans with Muhammad Ali, whom he defeated last February.

Phillips said Spinks, who was fined three times this year for driving without a license, produced a valid Michigan driver's license. The license was apparently obtained after the fines in March, April and June. Spinks has no recorded traffic violations in Michigan.

said Lopez after a 71 had left her three shots off the veteran Young's record-matching pace Thursday in the first round of the U.S. Women's Open Golf Championship.

"That was a good score," Lopez said after matching par over the hot, humid hills of the 8,115-yard Country Club of Indianapolis course.

"Now I can improve. If you have a bad first round, you have to fight just to get back in the tournament. If you have a really low score, it's hard to improve and that can bother you mentally.

"I'm in good position. And I expect to improve." THE IMPROVEMENT could come in the putting, often the strong part of Lopez' game. The largest gallery of the day watched her miss a pair of par-saving five-foot putts and fall again on a seven-footer for a birdie.

The 21-year-old Lopez has captured the fancy of the nation's golfing millions with her spectacular exploits that have produced seven victories, including a record five in a row, in her rookie season that ends this week.

"This tournament is something special to me," Lopez said. "It's very important to me to win it." Young, playing late in the hazy day with the heat and humidity reaching toward the mid-90's, birdied her last hole for a three-under-par 68 that put her two strokes ahead of the field, tied the best first-round score ever in the women's Open and set a course record.

SHE ADMITTED to being tired coming in — "really running out of steam," she said — and bogeyed the 17th with a drive into the rough. She got the shot back with a flip up the hill to the elevated green on the 18th and ran in a six-foot birdie putt that again set her advantage at two.

"And that's a lot in the U.S. Open," said Young, who scored consecutive Open triumphs in 1969-70.

"This tournament means a lot to me," she said. "As a two-time winner, I'd love to win it again. Maybe that's why I worked so hard out there." Stacy, last year's winner, was distracted by a bee as she stood over a two-foot, par-saving putt on the sixth hole. She missed it, had to scramble for par on the next, made "5" on the next and bogeyed the next.

"I won't do that again, I'll promise you," said Stacy. She rallied with birdie putts of six and 18 feet on the last two holes for a 70.

SHE WAS tied for second with Alexandra Reinhardt and Vicki Ferguson. They were the only players in the field of 153 who broke par.

Tied with Lopez at 71 were Janet Coles and two amateurs, Noreen Uihlein of Barrington, R.I. and former national amateur champ Cynthia Hill of Colorado Springs, Colo.

JoAnne Carner and 1977 Player of the Year Judy Rankin were at 73. Jane Blalock, a three-time winner this year, was at 74.

Spinks' five traffic violations include three within a five-day period in North Carolina and South Carolina.

He was arrested in March for driving without a license and driving the wrong way down a one-way St. Louis street. A judge fined him $60.

In April, Spinks was arrested in St. Louis and charged with possession of one-hundredth of an ounce of cocaine and a small quantity of marijuana and driving without a license. The drug charges were dismissed but Spinks was fined $50 plus court costs on the traffic charge.

A South Carolina highway patrolman in Beaufort County stopped Spinks for speeding June 17 as the boxer was driving a van from Atlanta to Hilton Head Island.

Four days later, in Jacksonville, N.C., Spinks paid a $52 fine and court costs after being stopped for driving without a license and driving a vehicle with expired tags.

The next day, June 22, Jacksonville police again arrested Spinks, this time on a speeding charge. He was again fined.

Jackson's father fumes at Martin

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — While suspended New York Yankees' outfielder Reggie Jackson cools his heels in California, his father is burning about his son's relationship with Manager Billy Martin.

"I thought it (the suspension) was a little hasty, not to talk it over man-to-man," Martinez Jackson said about the action taken after his son ignored Martin's orders not to bunt in a game against the Kansas City Royals Monday night. Jackson was given a five-day suspension by Martin.

"Reggie shouldn't have had too much trouble playing for the Yankees," said the elder Jackson, who runs a tailor shop here. "He played for eight years with Charlie Finley in Oakland, and a year in Baltimore. He never had that sort of trouble."

"I wrote to George Steinbrenner (Yankee owner) and Al Rosen (president) and told him 'Martin cannot possibly win. He has affected the morale of many of his players. He is definitely not communicating.'"

"Dick Williams and Al Dark, the managers at Oakland, had no trouble with Reggie, playing him up and down the line. There has never been a player who has not gone into a slump. Martin should not embarrass a pro like this. You're entitled to better results."

Steinbrenner's secretary called Thursday to acknowledge the letter an express the owner's interest, Jackson said.

"What antagonizes a player is to play parttime," said Jackson, who played semi-pro ball with the Newark Eagles. "Reggie has been like this since he has been a parttime player. It ruins your confidence in yourself and it has a lot to do with your morale and your performance."

Jackson was a starter with the Yankees until last week, when the Yankees changed their lineup, hoping to catch the first-place Boston Red Sox in the American League East. Just before his suspension he was being platooned in the outfield and used as a designated hitter.

Jackson is hitting .286 with 14 homers and 51 RBIs this season.

LA back in Olympic picture

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Only a couple of days ago, the city of Los Angeles seemed out of the picture for hosting the 1984 Summer Olympic Games. But the situation has changed. Mayor Tom Bradley, who recommended Tuesday that the city withdraw its bid for the Games, said Thursday he's still interested in working out the city's problems with the International Olympic Committee.

ing of the Games, expressed confidence that obstacles standing in the way of the Olympics being staged in Los Angeles can still be removed. And another member of the private Olympics group, attorney Paul Ziffren, said he thought the 1984 Games could be staged with profits amounting to $80 million or more.

vide an opportunity for us to comply with the IOC rules but at the same time protect the City of Los Angeles against financial responsibility. That's the bottom line," Bradley said during a trip to Washington, D.C., on other business. The IOC objects to the Games being sponsored by a private corporation instead of the City of Los Angeles, which has been adamant in its position that it will not be financially responsible for the Games.

Solomon nabs win in tennis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harold Solomon has gained the quarter-finals at the $175,000 Washington Star International Men's Tennis Tournament and in the process has brought another convert to Erhard Seminar Training. Solomon beat Arthur Ashe 6-3, 6-4 Thursday and said he's found new mental serenity on the court since he took a $300 two-weekend EST course earlier this month.

"My life's been transformed," said Solomon, whose parents, family and girlfriend are all enthusiastic EST graduates. EST, as described by Solomon, sounds a good deal like what another generation knew as "the power of positive thinking" in the book by Norman Vincent Peale.

"I never heard of Norman Vincent Peale," Solomon said when asked for a comparison. He said EST, when applied to tennis, taught him "the futility of letting anything that happens on the court, like humidity, bad calls or bad shots, bother you. You've got to get your mind out of the way so you can play purely."

Solomon said a tennis player who has fully incorporated EST into his game would be a lot like Sweden's Bjorn Borg is already. "He's an animal on the court. He hits a great shot. When he misses one, it's all the same. He never changes. He just keeps hitting shots. It's possible he's naturally enlightened," Solomon said.

Solomon, already something of a guru among the touring pros, has been enthusiastically proselytizing among them this week and after his defeat Thursday, Ashe said he was ready.

"I might do it just for the hell of it. I've got nothing to lose," said Ashe. One player who won't try EST is top-seeded Jimmy Connors, who blitzed Australia's John Alexander 6-1, 6-0 and said he was playing "pretty unbelievable tennis."

Connors said EST is the last thing he needs. "If I got any more positive, I'd be in trouble." In other matches Thursday, Chile's Davis Cup duo of Hans Gildemeister and Jaime Fillol advanced to the quarter-finals, as did Spain's pair of clay court specialists, Manuel Orantes and Jose Higueras. Gildemeister beat Dick Stockton 6-2, 6-3; Fillol beat Nick Saviano 7-5, 5-7, 6-3; Orantes beat John McEnroe 6-7, 6-1, 7-5 and Higueras whipped Raul Ramirez 6-2, 6-1.

Leon Gray inks Stones will sue AAU with Patriots

SMITHFIELD, R.I. (AP) — The New England Patriots have signed veteran offensive tackle Leon Gray to a two-year extension of his existing contract, ending a dispute lasting almost two years. Gray, in a surprise reversal, represented himself in a six-hour negotiating session with Patriots' Vice President Charles Sullivan Thursday. Gray conferred by telephone with his agent, West Coast attorney Howard Slusher, but handled the final talks himself. Gray initiated the talks, suggesting he and Sullivan meet in an effort to resolve the difficulties. Three weeks ago, Sullivan negotiated a one-year extension on the contract of Gray's linemate, guard John Hannah, and Slusher played a major role in those talks. Sullivan said he told Gray that Slusher was "belligerent" in his telephone negotiations and it would be "very difficult" to complete the talks with Slusher actively involved. Gray said he then suggested the two meet without the attorney. During the course of the meetings, Gray said he called Slusher to discuss legal language in the contract. The new contract binds Gray to the club through the 1980 season, when Hannah's contract also expires. It is believed Gray received a substantial bonus for signing the extension agreement. Gray, drafted by Miami in 1973 out of Jackson State, was waived by the Dolphins and picked up by the Patriots that year. He became a starter in the final eight games of the season and has been a regular ever since.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Banned high jumper Dwight Stones has gone to court challenging the hierarchy of the Amateur Athletic Union and aiming for an overhaul of the rules of amateurism. The two-time Olympic bronze medal winner wants to regain his amateur status, which was stripped from him by an AAU ruling last June 25. Stones, 25, filed suit in Superior Court and claimed that the AAU was "corrupt, antiquated and self-serving." Among his allegations, he charged restraint of trade and involuntary servitude. Stones and three women track stars — Jane Frederick, Francie Larrieu and Kate Schmidt — were suspended by the AAU because of money they earned in the Superstars competition. Stones received $33,000 and the women lesser amounts. Stones assigned his money to the Desert Oasis Track Club, a profit corporation of which his family members are the officers. The AAU maintains that amateur athletes must turn over the money to their national and local offices and non-profit organizations. Stones said his suit does not involve the women, adding, "I'm used to being the guinea pig." He said he still had the $33,000 and planned to use it for development of his club to train young athletes. Stones claimed that John Holt, general secretary of the International Amateur Athletic Federation, had approved his plan, an allegation which the AAU says Holt denies. "I would like for the amateur system to be changed," said Stones.

he explained that his suit was brought because he wants to continue competing, including participating in the 1980 Summer Olympic Games at Moscow. Thursday, Judge Robert Well ordered AAU officials to appear Aug. 10 to show cause why a preliminary injunction should not be issued.
