Cathy Murphy's happy day now mystery; police dragnet futile

ODESSA — Last Saturday was to be a happy occasion for 19-year-old Catherine Ann "Fifi" Murphy. She was to be in Houston for her step-sister's wedding.

But the wedding had to be postponed indefinitely after it was learned that the petite 5-foot-2, hazel-eyed, dark blonde haired Odessa woman had disappeared under ominous circumstances.

Today after Miss Murphy's car was found in a Safeway Parking lot, Odessa police still are engaged in an intensive effort to turn up some clues to her whereabouts.

Her boyfriend, whose name police are withholding, and her car seem to be the dual focal points of the investigation at this point.

Miss Murphy has been reported missing since early July 20, when her boss, Charles Poer of H.B. Zachry in Odessa, telephoned her aunt to tell her that Miss Murphy had not shown up for work.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Murphy Jr. of Odessa. Murphy is co-founder of Murphy and Rochester Real Estate and Insurance Co. in Odessa.

"She's no angel," said her mother today. "But if she was any more than 10 minutes late for work, she'd always call in."

Miss Murphy didn't call the morning of July 20, and she didn't show up at a girlfriend's house the night before as expected. Her girlfriend had said she figured Miss Murphy had changed plans and didn't think there was anything unusual about it.

But her not showing up for work worried Miss Murphy's aunt, who decided to call her parents in Houston, where they were making plans for the step-sister's wedding. The Murphys immediately returned to Odessa and have been near the telephone ever since, waiting apprehensively to receive information about their daughter.

The missing woman had a reservation at Midland Regional Airport for a plane ticket to Houston. She was supposed to confirm the reservation last Friday, but she never did.

Miss Murphy last was seen leaving The Place, an Odessa disco, about 11:30 p.m. on July 19, according to police reports. Her boyfriend reportedly told police she dropped him off at his home around midnight.

The only tangible evidence in the case is her car, which was found about 4:30 p.m. last Friday in a parking lot at 27th and Grandview. The 1975 Oldsmobile Cutlass Supreme was found in "immaculate condition," according to her mother. She said the front seat had been adjusted as far back as it would go. Her daughter is not that tidy, commented her mother.

And the seat should have been pushed forward as far as it could go since "my daughter is very short."

"We're really interested in if anyone might have seen somebody get out of that car. That would be a big help," said Mrs. Murphy.

The car was found locked and with out its keys in the door or the ignition.

The Murphys and the police said today they fear that foul play may be involved.

"She's the type of girl that would have called us by now," said Mrs. Murphy.

The exterior of the car is white with a dark blue roof. The license number is RCP-107. Odessa police are seeking information from anyone who might have seen the car between the morning and the evening of July 20. (Continued on Page 4A)

Prices up 0.9 percent; worker loses ground

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices rose 0.9 percent for the third month in a row in June, as the average worker continued to lose ground to inflation, the Labor Department said today.

The cost of food, housing and automobiles led the big increases in prices, which have continued steadily since the start of the year.

Consumer prices would rise 11.4 percent if the trend of the past three months continued for a full year, the department said.

The Carter administration predicts price increases will not be as large in the next six months and is banking on a downturn in food costs.

G. William Miller, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, told the House Banking Committee today that his "best guess" is that prices in the next 12 months will rise between 7 percent and 7.75 percent, slightly higher than the administration's 7.2 percent forecast.

"If we pursue a course that does not soon contain the forces accelerating the advance of prices, the result will be increasing economic disruption and distortion, ending in all probability in serious recession," Miller testified.

The three months ended in June had the highest inflation rate since the September-October-November quarter of 1974. In those three months, the Consumer Price Index rose 1.2, 0.9 and 0.9 percent respectively.

The department said the average worker's purchasing power declined 0.4 percent in June, the second drop in a row. The worker made 0.5 percent more in hourly wages, just over half the increase in prices.

The prices consumers pay for food jumped sharply by 1.3 percent last month, and beef prices continued to spiral by 5.8 percent.

"Beef prices this June were 30.7 percent higher than in October 1977, when the current uptrend began," the Labor Department said.

The cost of poultry, dairy products, cereal, bread, oils and sugar increased in June, but prices of vegetables, pork, eggs and coffee declined from May.

Home-ownership costs rose 1.2 percent in June, as housing prices and mortgage interest rates continued to move up.

Electricity costs, which have risen rapidly since January, climbed a substantial 2.6 percent in June, the department said. A mail rate increase pushed postal costs up 14 percent, the first big increase since early 1976.

Natural gas and fuel oil prices rose moderately, while telephone charges were unchanged, as they have been most of the year.

New-car prices went up 0.9 percent after rising 1.2 percent in May, reflecting higher price tags for imported autos and recent increases by U.S. automakers.

However, airline, taxicab and long-distance bus rates declined in June, and gasoline prices dropped slightly. Despite the generally bleak report, the department said the cost of entertainment declined in June by 0.2 percent because of lower prices for sporting goods, toys, hobbies and music equipment.

Consumer prices last month were 7.4 percent higher than in June 1977. The department said the Consumer Price Index stood at 195.3, meaning that prices were 95.3 percent higher than in the base period of 1967.

In advance of today's report, top presidential trade and inflation aide Robert S. Strauss said, "June is going to be another bad month."

In presenting his 1979 budget in January, President Carter predicted prices would rise 6.1 percent this

... yet wages rising above last year levels

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's anti-inflation campaign has yet to take hold as far as major union contracts are concerned, according to government statistics covering the first half of the year.

The figures, released Thursday, showed that average wage increases in major labor contract settlements during the first six months of 1978 topped raises won in 1977.

Carter in his anti-inflation campaign announced last April said he would like to see a decline in the size of wage hikes.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics announced Thursday reflect contracts that involved 1,000 or more employees and together cover about 1.1 million workers, mostly in the construction, coal mining and transportation equipment industries.

The figures showed wage increases during the first six months averaging 8 percent over the first year and 6.6 percent over the life of the contract.

By contrast, contracts negotiated during 1977 had wage hikes averaging 7.8 percent in the first year and 5.8 percent over the life of the pacts.

None of the figures include cost-of-living increases.

Meanwhile, the government announced that worker productivity during the second quarter of 1978 edged up at an annual rate of 0.1 percent after a decline in the previous quarter.

House debate turns to marathon

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — House debate over a constitutional amendment on property tax relief has turned into one of those marathons that sometimes afflict whether to compel future legislatures to reimburse school districts for revenue lost to tax relief.

Sensors, meanwhile, whipped out their version of the property tax relief package Thursday in about two hours, quickly agreeing 29-0 on a "compromise" produced by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

The Senate then adjourned for the weekend.

For the voters to get a final say on the property tax relief question at the Nov. 7 election, both houses must agree on the same proposal and approve it by a two-thirds vote in each chamber.

The House calendar for today also included Orange Rep. Wayne Peveto's massive bill to create uniformity in appraisal of property for taxation. Peveto, however, indicated he was having second thoughts about pushing for the bill, which is acquiring serious opposition.

"I'm just so disgusted by the whole thing," Peveto said as the House quit Thursday after two days of debating and bickering.

Sensors voted, 16-10, for a resolution adjourning the special session at 6 p.m. Tuesday and sent it to the House. Hobby said he and House Speaker Bill Clayton had agreed to try to end the session a week before its Aug. 8 adjournment deadline.

The Senate's version of the constitutional amendment to ease property taxes would:

— Tax all agricultural land according to the income it could produce, not its value on the real estate market. Only farmers and ranchers earning 51 percent of their income from the land now qualify for such a tax break.

— Exempt $5,000 of a home's value from school taxes, with an additional $10,000 exemption for those over 65. Property taxes paid by the elderly would be frozen at their present level.

— Require notice and public hearings before local property taxes can be increased.

Hobby estimated that the Senate package, together with pending bills repealing the state sales tax on utilities and increasing inheritance tax exemptions, would save taxpayers $1 billion over the next three fiscal years.

Sensors added to the proposed tax saving by voting to exempt two cars per family from property taxation.

Both the House and the Senate turned down attempts to exclude corporations from savings resulting from taxation of rural land according to its productive capacity.

Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas, failed 94-49 to cut corporations out of the proposal. He said big timber and paper companies with vast tree farms were "trying to piggyback" on something designed to help families stay on the farm.

The Senate vote was 15-14 against excluding corporations.

Challenge possible in Lamesa JP suspension

By GUY SULLIVAN

LAMESA — Richard Don Nelson, the ousted Dawson County peace justice, could contest his suspension from office by exercising "his right to due process in a court of law," an official of the State Attorney General's office said Thursday.

Nelson, 33, was suspended without pay last Friday by the state Commission on Judicial Conduct. He was indicted two weeks ago by a county grand jury for official misconduct and burglary.

Nelson was notified of his suspension by mail Monday. Since that time, Willis Gresham, an attorney with the Lamesa law firm representing Nelson, has said he objects to his client being suspended by the state Commission on Judicial Conduct "by trial in absentia."

However, Nelson has the "opportunity to respond when and if his case goes to trial in district court," ac-ording to Max Flusche, assistant state attorney general.

Nelson has been replaced temporarily by Mrs. David Harris, 37, a former secretary in his office. She was sworn into office Tuesday by County Judge Leslie Pratt.

Gresham, employed by the Lamesa law firm of Cayton, Gresham and Fulbright, which is representing Nelson, said his client was not notified in advance of the charges heard by the commission nor given the opportunity to respond.

However, Flusche said an indicted justice does have an opportunity to "have a trial before a district court. There he will be shown all rights of due process. His opportunity to respond to an action by the commission will come in the criminal trial."

Still, Gresham said, "Each citizen has the fundamental right to expect that the government cannot take action against them without notifying them ahead of time. I think there is a very good likelihood that this procedure, which does not provide for the right of a hearing, may be challenged."

However, Gresham declined to say exactly how he may challenge the procedure. He insisted that the lack of prior notice in time for Nelson to respond to charges weighed by the commission amounted to "a substantial deprivation of his job and liberty."

Gresham said he has not made a decision yet as to how to defend Nelson.

"We are now considering our options," he said.

Nelson's suspension, which he cannot appeal by law, will last until the four indictments against him have been cleared up, according to officials familiar with the case.

Nelson, a Lamesa native, was indicted by a Dawson County grand jury July 13 on four charges, including one count of official misconduct and three counts of burglary. The decision to suspend him is the first test of a change in the state constitution made Nov. 8, 1977. This change granted the commission the authority to "suspend with or without pay any state judge indicted in state or federal court pending the outcome of those indictments."

Nelson has been indicted on one count of official misconduct in connection with an incident on March 16, when, according to the indictment, he "did intentionally and knowingly misapply a thing of value belonging to the government...public funds, to wit, U.S. currency that had come into his possession by virtue of his office."

Following his arrest on June 25, Nelson was arraigned before County Judge Pratt. He is now free on bonds totaling $5,000. Until the decision was made by commissioners, Nelson con-

States sue EPA to protect industry

BOSTON (AP)—State environmental officials are going to court to prove that Massachusetts industry is not to blame for all the smog that hangs over Bay State territory.

Massachusetts joined New Jersey in a lawsuit to block a federal smog control plan which would force Northeastern states into stringent cleanup measures against ozone air pollution.

The suit against the federal Environmental Protection Agency argues that much of the region's ozone pollution comes from other states and claims that no single state can control airborne ozone.

Under the EPA plan, so-called "clean" areas in the South and Midwest would be free of the strict pollution clean-up requirements applied to industry in the Northeast.

"We hope to pursue a result that won't disadvantage a state or industry because it happens to be at the wrong end of a prevailing wind," said Charles Corkin, chief of the state Attorney General's environmental protection division.

Smog—mostly composed of ozone gas—routinely clouds summer skies in the Northeast, as it did in Massachusetts last weekend, prompting health officials to warn against the possible dangers of exertion in the open air.

Ozone is formed when auto and factory emissions react with sunlight.

State officials in the Northeast contend that the EPA-designated "clean" regions generate considerable amounts of pollution which is carried to the Northeast by prevailing summer winds.

"We are trying to help New England and the eastern United States solve a serious health problem, while at the same time not place the region at an economic disadvantage," said Dr. Anthony Cortese, director of the state Division of Air and Hazardous Material.

"Only a national strategy can result in attainment of the standards," Cortese said. "We cannot solve the ozone problem by controls in Massachusetts—or the Northeast—alone."

New Jersey officials claim some air already violates federal pollution standards when it reaches their state.

Missouri, New Mexico and Arkansas also have intervened in the case, but are supporting the EPA plan. Most areas in those states would be free from stringent anti-pollution measures under the federal plan.

High court stays jailing of defiant Times reporter

By RICHARD CARELLI

WASHINGTON (AP)—Supreme Court Justice Byron R. White today postponed the jailing of New York Times reporter Myron A. Farber, who has refused to turn over his confidential notes to a New Jersey judge presiding over the "Dr. X" murder trial.

White stayed an order for the jailing until noon Tuesday. Farber's appeal originally was filed with the office of Justice William J. Brennan Jr. but was acted on by White because Brennan is vacationing.

White acted less than an hour before Farber was to have surrendered to serve an indefinite sentence for contempt of court.

Lawyers for Farber and the Times sought the stay in a 30-page appeal and two inches of supporting documents filed with Brennan's office. The full Supreme Court is in recess until October.

The appeal asked that the jail order be stayed until the full Supreme Court can consider the case, or until New Jersey courts deal with the constitutional issues raised by the matter.

The Superior Court in Bergen County, N.J., ordered Farber jailed indefinitely for criminal contempt until he complies with an order to surrender his notes for a confidential inspection by Judge William Arnold who is presiding over the trial of Dr. Mario Jascalevich.

"To this day, petitioners (Farber and the Times) have not been afforded a hearing by any court on their claims under the First and Fourteenth Amendments or on their claims of statutory protection of news persons' rights under various state shield laws," the petition said.

The appeal said enforcement of the subpoenas under threats of jailing and fines would irrevocably damage journalists' ability to gather and report the news, particularly in the area of criminal reporting.

Bergen County Judge William Arnold ordered Farber and the Times to hand over all files in the "Dr. X" case. Farber's information was gathered while he prepared stories about a series of mysterious patient deaths at Riverdale Hospital in Oradell, N.J., in 1965 and 1966.

Farber's articles led authorities to renew their investigation of the deaths and eventually to charge Dr. Mario Jascalevich, identified only as "Dr. X" in Farber's initial articles, with the murder of five patients. Jascalevich is standing trial on charges that he killed the patients with curare, a powerful muscle relaxant.

Arnold ordered the newspaper and Farber to surrender all materials in the case, saying he would review the information confidentially and then decide whether to give it to Jascalevich's lawyer for trial use.

U.S. posted Japanese miss out on yen boom

By WILLIAM GLASGALL

NEW YORK (AP) — The estimated 80,000 Japanese businessmen and diplomats stationed in the United States say they aren't reaping the same bonanza that Japanese tourists are finding as they spend their increasingly valuable yen here.

"The basic salary of most Japanese working for private companies in the United States is based in U.S. dollars," said Makoto Hara, chief economist of the Bank of Tokyo Trust Co. in New York. "The appreciation of the yen has no effect on their lifestyle," he said, because they are receiving fixed dollar salaries and are paying for food, rent and other expenses in dollars, not in Japanese currency.

Japanese government officials stationed here are paid in yen — but their salaries are revised annually to cancel the effect of changing exchange rates. The dollars they get in exchange for their yen paychecks haven't increased with the devaluation of the dollar.

The situation of the Japanese diplomats is similar to that of many American businessmen in Japan, whose salaries are paid largely in dollars and who receive increases to compensate for the U.S. currency's declining buying power. But many other Americans stationed in Japan don't enjoy that protection and are struggling as their dollars shrink.

At Japan's United Nations mission, Yasushi Akashi, minister for budgetary, financial and organizational affairs, said he and his colleagues "have not felt more affluent than before, and our wives say this too."

The yen has appreciated by more than 30 percent against the dollar in the past year, in part because of worries over inflation in the United States — which cuts the dollar's buying power — and also because of persistent American trade deficits.

Because of the appreciation, American visitors in Japan often are finding themselves hard-pressed to make ends meet. At the same time, a Japanese tourist here is finding a bus ride or a steak dinner is 30 percent cheaper, even though the price in dollars hasn't changed.

According to the Japanese consulate here, there are about 133,000 Japanese citizens living in the United States, including the 88,000 executives and government officials, their wives and children, and students.

New York bureau chief Hiroshi Fujita of Japan's Kyodo news agency said that only seven or eight years ago, Japanese workers here "used to receive much less than their American equivalents." Hara added: "The Japanese couldn't afford to buy many things here because the standard of living was much higher."

Today, "Japanese employees abroad are paid about the same as their American counterparts," Fujita said, adding that even so, "we're not rich enough to go to fur stores or jewelry stores every day."

For example, Akashi, whose rank is one step below the ambassadorial level, is paid the equivalent of around $54,000 a year, while junior diplomats receive about $32,000. He receives his pay in three parts: a base salary, denominated in yen and related to rank and seniority; an overseas allowance also linked to the yen and based on local living costs and other factors; and a housing allowance, paid in dollars.

Cuba lashes Peking, Washington at Belgrade

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Cuba, lashing out at Washington and Peking, urged non-aligned nations today to turn toward socialist allies and reject the capitalist West.

"We are not trying to equate socialism and capitalism," Cuban Foreign Minister Isidoro Malmierca said in a warmly applauded speech at a meeting of more than 80 countries.

"It would mean equating those who attacked Cuba, maintaining economic blockade for 17 years, who occupied Guantanamo, with those who have been at the side of our people on every occasion, when we had to face outside aggression." Malmierca's speech, Cuba's first public comment at the Belgrade meeting, came after two days of speeches in which Havana had been both praised and condemned for its military activities in Africa and for allegedly trying to come up with a pro-Soviet definition of non-alignment.

Malmierca attacked Egypt for suggesting in Belgrade that the 1979 non-aligned summit in Havana be moved or postponed because of disputes in the non-aligned movement over Cuba's politics.

British balloonists near goal, fighting hard to stay aloft

LONDON (AP) — Two British balloonists, fighting to stay aloft despite a tear in their delicate craft, could possibly complete the first trans-Atlantic flight in a balloon this evening, their ground team said today.

"It is very far from being in the bag. We are limping in, moving very cautiously," reported Chris Davey, 34, from the gondola.

Davey said the balloon was located about 500 miles off the coast of Spain when he reported by radio to his ground team at Bracknell.

The torn helium bag is enclosed by a much larger hot air bag, which is heated by a gas jet.

Carey said the balloon, named Zanuski, was moving at a swift 30 knots at 7,000 feet. It took off Wednesday from Newfoundland.

Going... going... sold!

Looking for something unusual to decorate the yard? For starters, how about trying an old fire engine, completely intact? Or how about a tire measuring about four feet tall and about two feet wide?

Checking inventory numbers on some vehicle parts in preparation for the city auction to be held at 10 a.m. Saturday is Melinda Farmer of the city purchasing office. The auction includes vehicles, automotive parts, bicycles and stadium seats. It will be held at the city garage located at the intersection of South Street and Carver Street. (Staff Photo)

These residents who are trying to cut corners with their budget can eliminate the city fee for picking up trash by purchasing their own trash compactor.

Conducting the auction this year will be Rene Bates, a municipal auctioneer from McKinney. "He lets you bid as much as you want to," Brooks said with a laugh.

About 75 items, including several vehicles, will be up for auction. The Police Department will be contributing about 22 bicycles and a few tires.

Run-of-the-office items include adding machines and typewriters.

Vehicles for sale have at least 70,000 miles on them, Brooks said. The city is not selling the vehicles because they won't run. They do. It is just the city's policy to replace a vehicle after 70,000 miles or five years.

The most unusual item is a fire truck engine, which is described as being about 10 years old — too old to replace parts in it.

Brooks said the huge tire came off a truck used at the city landfill. The tire is still good, he added.

Or if none of those items is not what a purchaser has in mind, the city also has about 300 old Cub Stadium blue and green metal chairs. While the chairs may not look like they will hold a large person or last too much longer, it is the sentimental value there, Brooks said.

"It's all good merchandise," Brooks said.

State tax relief hopes are slim, Craddick says

AUSTIN — Chances of getting 100 Texas House members to vote for a constitutional amendment giving property owners tax relief are "slim," Rep. Tom Craddick of Midland said today.

The Senate Thursday approved 29-0 a similar amendment and then told the House it wants to adjourn Tuesday.

Craddick, who is supporting the amendment, said opposition to the tax relief package centers on legislators who "don't want to see a tax cut until the next (regular) session of the Legislature" when they will have a better idea how much spending will be required and what the budget surplus will be.

Also, Craddick said Democratic gubernatorial candidate John Hill's supporters are opposing the amendment because they don't want to act on tax relief until after the election.

And, "a lot of people just don't like some of the provisions," Craddick said.

The House bill calls for a somewhat different form of tax relief than the Senate bill. When debate began today, the version under consideration would allow the Legislature to give a $10,000 exemption to all property owners, Craddick said, but he said the House might well amend its version in debate today.

One of the major differences between the two versions as of early today was a House provision which would require future Legislatures to reimburse local school districts for any lost revenue from tax relief they are required to give. Craddick said he does not think whether that provision is left in will affect the likelihood of the amendment's passing.

State Sen. W.E. "Pete" Snelson of Midland said today he does not think the provision belongs in the Constitution. Rather, he said, reimbursement of school districts should be handled in education-funding legislation.

Craddick predicted the tax relief amendment's fate would be determined in the House today. Should the bill get a majority vote short of the two-thirds margin required to put a constitutional amendment on the ballot, he said, efforts would be made to increase the number of votes on second and third readings.

If the amendment is passed in the same form by both houses of the Legislature, it will go on the November general election ballot for approval or rejection by Texas voters.

Snelson declined to predict the Senate's response to the measures included in the House version of the amendment but not in the Senate's.

Freedom often needs more than a little help

You can identify both of them with such "radical" movements as the Audubon Society, the Sierra Club, the Defenders of Wildlife and other crusading groups interested in preserving more than just a semblance of wilderness.

Right now, Mrs. Erskine in particular is bent on spreading this word to would-be and present bird-keepers: Don't.

Don't try to make a "pet" out of just any bird of the wild. Chances are, it will be illegal and unkind.

Those kind of things will have to be debated when they become an issue," Snelson said.

Snelson, in Midland today after the Senate adjourned for the weekend, said the impact of the relief measures on school districts cannot be predicted.

It could sort of wash itself out financially...But I'm sure the school districts themselves won't have to raise taxes on other property...I'm sure the Legislature will respond (with financial aid) if the constitutional amendment passes," the senator said.

Overall, Snelson said he is pleased with the Legislature's actions. "If all of these things come about, it will be about as much as we could have hoped to achieve in a special session," he added.

All of the tax relief measures, including the constitutional amendment, under consideration or already passed by the Legislature during the special session could result in tax savings to Texans "around the billion-dollar figure," Snelson predicted.

Mrs. Erskine said, "and I tell them it's illegal to have them."

She's understanding, but she does get a bit ruffled and peevish over it.

"I get real frustrated, because a lot of people know it's illegal."

But the real tragedy comes when the human bird-keepers become bored with their winged "pets."

"Then they throw them out because they don't care, and they (the birds) don't know how to take care of themselves."

Henry R. Fleming

Henry R. Fleming

Services for Henry R. Fleming, 70, of 1802 W. Illinois Ave. were to be at 4 p.m. today in Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home with the Rev. Ray Riddle, associate minister of the First Presbyterian Church, officiating. Burial was to follow in Resthaven Memorial Park.

He died Wednesday night after a two-year illness.

Born Nov. 12, 1907, in Hallett, Okla., he lived in McCamey in 1928 and worked for Roxana Petroleum. He later worked for Shell Oil Co. for 35 years. He held various positions with Shell prior to his retirement in 1963. At that time, he was purchasing agent. He was married to Gertrude Blumentritt on Jan. 20, 1932, in Runnels County.

Fleming had lived in Kilgore for 10 years before moving to Midland in 1947. He had farming interests in Oklahoma, and Runnels County, Texas.

He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Midland and a charter member of the Petroleum Pioneers. He also belonged to the McCamey Oil City Masonic Lodge No. 1256 AF&AM and the McCamey Knights of the Commandery No. 86, in Longview.

Survivors include his wife, Gertrude; four brothers, Bill and Ed Fleming of Tulsa, Okla., and Joe and George Fleming of Hallett, Okla., and a sister, Ann Fleming of Hallett, Okla.

Pallbearers were to be David and John Blumentritt of San Angelo, Randy and David Redman along with Bill Helwig and Bill J. Helwig of Miles and Russell Blumentritt of Midland.

Honorary pallbearers were to be Dr. Ralph Greenlee, Dr. Joe B. Warren, Winfree Brown, L.A. Curry, L.B. Berry, Richard Ragan, T.P. Drew and E.T. Russell, all of Midland.

Frank Baker

IRAAN — Services for Frank Gamble Baker, 58, of Iraan were to be at 10:30 a.m. today in the Iraan Church of Christ. Burial was to be in Iraan Restland Cemetery under the direction of the Larry Sheppard Funeral Home in McCamey.

Baker, who died Wednesday morning in an Iraan hospital following an illness, was born Sept. 24, 1919, in Elgin, Okla. He was married to Lillie Belle Creel Aug. 31, 1940, in Lawton, Okla. He was an employee of Helmerick and Payne Oil Co. He was a veteran of World War II. Baker was a member of the Church of Christ.

Survivors include his wife; his mother, Mrs. Addie Baker of Iraan; a daughter, Joey Gilley of Iraan; two sons, Joe Baker of Katie and Jim Baker of Ozona; five sisters, Virginia Hallway of Mt. Morris, Mich., Billie Cannon of Lawton, Okla., Helen Colona of Roanoke, Va., Margaret Valdez of Atascadero, Calif., and Juanita Harvey of Iraan; two brothers, Robert Paul Baker and Carl Baker, both of Iraan, and two grandchildren.

Harvey Edler

BRECKENRIDGE — Services for Harvey S. Edler, 69, brother of Gerald Edler of Lamesa, were held Wednesday in the Melton Funeral Home here. Mike Cox, minister of the Central Church of Christ of Woodson, officiated.

Edler died Tuesday at his home in Woodson of an apparent heart attack.

Edler was born April 5, 1909, in Williamsport, Pa. He was married to Eddie Garner on Aug. 25, 1945, in Aspermont. Edler lived in Crosbytown most of his life. The couple moved to Woodson in 1973 from Bowie.

He was a heavy equipment operator before his retirement in 1972. Edler was a member of the Central Church of Christ.

Other survivors include his wife, a daughter, a sister, another brother and five grandchildren.

Dorothy Johnson

ABILENE — Services for Dorothy Ann Johnson, 69, mother of Mrs. George Miller of Andrews, were held Wednesday in Elliott-Hamil Funeral Home. Burial was to be in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Johnson died Monday of a sudden illness in her San Angelo home.

Born Nov. 19, 1908, in Brownwood, she married Lewis B. Johnson Dec. 13, 1955, in Roswell, N.M. The couple moved to San Angelo from Colorado City on Nov. 21, 1974. She was a member of the Jehovah's Witnesses.

Other survivors include her husband, Lewis B. Johnson of San Angelo; a son, James Winslett, who is overseas; a stepdaughter, Faye Leverett of Tahoka; five sisters, Elma Foy, Mrs. J.T. Weed, Mrs. Clifford Harris, Mrs. Emmitt Daniels, all of Abilene and Mrs. Willie Johnson of Anchorage, Alaska; two brothers J.W. McHorse and Elton McHorse of Abilene, and several grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Pallbearers were Britt Foy, Pat Foy, Mike Foy, Elton McHorse Jr. and Cecil Lassiter.

Ross Bozeman

J. Ross Bozeman, 82, of 913 Harvard St. died early today in a Midland hospital after a lengthy illness.

Services will be at 4 p.m. Saturday in the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity with the Rev. Sam Hulsey officiating, assisted by the Rev. Derk Manley. Burial will be in Resthaven Memorial Park Cemetery directed by Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home.

Bozeman was born April 21, 1896, in Selma, Ala., and grew up in Alabama. He was attending Columbia University when World War I started.

He volunteered for pilot training along with some British students. He earned his wings and commission in the Royal Flying Corps, predecessor to the Royal Air Force. He served in numerous campaigns and was shot down and wounded several times. He was personally received and decorated on Christmas Day, 1918, by Queen Mary of England.

He resumed his studies at Columbia after the war.

Bozeman worked for United Gas, Humble and the old Roxana Co. He was one of the first field engineers for Humble during the early East Texas oil discoveries. He moved to Midland from Shreveport in 1950. He had been involved as an independent operator in the Permian Basin and throughout the Southwest.

He was active in community affairs and served on the vestry of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity. He was a Rotarian for more than 50 years and had been involved in the club's projects in Midland and other cities. In 1972, he was made an honorary Rotarian.

He is survived by his wife, Villa, a son and two grandchildren.

Jack Wagner Jr.

Graveside services for Jack S. Wagner Jr., 34, of 2703 W. Franklin

Ave. were to be at 2 p.m. today, directed by Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home. Officiating was to be the Rev. Harold Quarles, pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene.

Wagner died Thursday in a Midland hospital after being ill about a year.

He was born Sept. 12, 1943, in Chester, Pa., and was reared in El Paso. He moved to Midland three years ago from El Paso. He was a service station attendant at a local service station.

He is survived by his wife, Sarah; two sons, Jack S. Wagner and Jesse E. Wagner, both of Midland, and a daughter, Elizabeth Ann Wagner of Midland.

Detroit Zoo's bald eagle challenged by alien bird

DETROIT (AP) — One of America's most cherished symbols, the proud bald eagle, is being challenged by an import — at least at the Detroit Zoo.

Cream Puff, a feisty female bald eagle, is now sharing her quarters with "Joe," a bird that is just as ornery — a rare buzzard eagle from South America. And the American bird has already backed off in one confrontation, although her rival is only half her size.

"Cream Puff may have met her match," said Bill Austin, zoo curator for education, who had the unpleasant chore of bringing the new bird from a zoo convention in Albuquerque in a plastic dog case. "Some people thought I had close enough, and the bird began squawking loudly and shaking the cage with its beak." The buzzard eagle, confiscated in New Mexico by wild life officials as an illegal import, is believed to be the only one of its kind in captivity in the nation.

Good money after bad

When Jimmy Carter was campaigning in 1976 against wasteful federal spending, he gave a prime example. The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, which has eaten up $6 billion in federal funds since 1968, has made "almost no contribution to reducing crime," said candidate Carter. This undoubtedly led many persons to think that as President, Mr. Carter promptly would call for the dismantling of LEAA. Not at all. In fact he now is asking Congress to keep it going, which is one surprise, and to increase its funding, which is another. Mr. Carter and Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell have convinced themselves that by changing the agency's name and laying down new rules for dispensing its grants to the states and cities it can accomplish in the future what it has failed to accomplish for the last 10 years. Whether they can convince Congress is another matter. Congress has dismantled most of the Great Society programs of the Lyndon Johnson era, not from hard-heartedness but because experience showed that waging "war" from Washington on poverty and other social problems in the cities wasn't working. The crime statistics indicate that the LEAA is one of those weapons in the Johnsonian arsenal that never found its target. The nation's crime rate has increased by 40 percent in the 10 years since LEAA began waging its war on crime. Yet the administration now wants to put $800 million a year into federal anti-crime programs instead of the present $641 million. This sounds like throwing good money after bad — as a certain candidate for president might have put it two years ago.

Holding the line

The Midland County Commissioners Court, long known for holding a tight rein on taxes, has managed to do it again — thank goodness. Yes sir, both the county tax rate and valuations will remain the same for next year, according to the county budget, which has been filed in the county clerk's office for public scrutiny. This, of course, is good news to all county taxpayers. But this is nothing new for county commissioners, who have held the line on taxes for a number of years now. The new budget, it is reported, is based on a tax rate of 95 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, with property assessed at 32 percent of market value. The rate is the same as for 1978, and there have been no re-assessments during the last year. Expenditures for 1979, incidentally, are expected to be up by $40,905, which brings the predicted total to $5,194,595, compared with $5,153,690 for this year. The 1979 budget includes a 10 percent cost-of-living salary increase for all county employees. Overall, Midland city and county taxpayers enjoy a tax situation far more favorable than most communities across the land, and they are grateful for same.

The next time around

John M. Cline of Dallas forwards the following "original" little jewel to The Reporter-Telegram: "Here's a little do-it-yourself for one's next journey through this vale of tears: "Be sure to go through brick layers school. Also learn carpentry, roofing and plumbing and how to fix automobiles. Learn to raise a clenched fist at a moments notice. If you can get in, go to medical school. "Last, but not least, get a degree in law — just in case you decide to sue yourself for malpractice." BIBLE VERSE "For whosoever shall be ashamed of me and of my words, of him shall the Son of man be ashamed, when he shall come in his own glory, and in his Father's and of the holy angels." — Luke 9:26.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Domingo Laino: Paraguayan hero

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Standing tall in the world spotlight are those heroic Russian dissidents who face harsh terms in Soviet prisons and psychiatric hospitals for the sake of their beliefs. But on the other side of the world in remote Paraguay, another moral giant deserves a share of the spotlight. Last week, we wrote about the rare courage of Domingo Laino, who has been thrown into a Paraguayan prison for daring to stand up to Dictator Alfredo Stroessner. He returned to Paraguay, knowing his life might be in danger, after speaking out against Stroessner in Washington. He told us before his departure that he had to go back as a symbol of opposition to the tyrant's oppression. On the day of his return, Paraguayan police forced Laino's car off a downtown street and dragged him from the car. His friends relayed messages to us from Asuncion that they feared he was being tortured. The intervention of U.S. Ambassador Robert White appears to have had a moderating effect on Stroessner. A July 18 cable from the American embassy reports that Laino's wife and children have now been permitted to visit him. A panel of five doctors, including one appointed by Laino's family, have also examined him. The family doctor reported no evidence of physical abuse, except for marks left by handcuffs. But Laino whispered to his wife that he had been handcuffed to a pole near the police mess hall for 60 hours, the cable states. The police allegedly "gave him nothing to eat for 72 hours." They also forced him to face the wall "and only allowed him to look away from the wall when he could see people eating." Laino also told his wife, the cable adds, that he had been "subjected to verbal threats and abuse." Just as the celebrated Russian dissenter Anatoly Shecharansky was accused at his trial of consorting with Western newsmen, Laino has been charged with links to our column. Apparently, Stroessner is in an uproar over a story we published last December 20 of sexual depravity among high Paraguayan officials. We reported that young peasant girls, between the ages of 8 and 14, had been purchased from their impoverished parents and had been used for the sexual gratification of top authorities in Asuncion. The dictator himself had been seen at the house where the girls were kept, we reported. The information had been smuggled to us from sources inside Paraguay. But the final confirmation came from Ada Rodriguez, a Paraguayan mother of three, who personally saw the "sexually abused bodies of three young girls." The horrified mother tried to expose the scandal. For her efforts, she was imprisoned, beaten and tortured. Fortunately, she belongs to a prominent Paraguayan family which obtained her release and hustled her off to the United States. State Department officials vouched for her credibility.

CHARLEY REESE Which are best: elected or appointed officials?

By CHARLEY REESE Sun Belt Syndicate

Charley Reese

ORLANDO, Fla. — In Orange County, Fla., a dispute is now raging as to whether an elected school superintendent or an appointed one is preferable. And the question of elected versus appointed officials has been an active one elsewhere in the U.S. as well. People who advocate an appointed school superintendent are laboring under the delusion that a government entity is analogous to a private corporation. It isn't. Their argument is that a school system has a large budget and a lot of people so one needs a good administrator and the people are not competent to make a selection. That is stupid on its face. If the people are not competent to select someone to administer a county school system, then why are they competent to select a president to administer a national government and make life and death decisions? The answer, of course, is that those who believe the people are incompetent to select a school administrator also believe they are incompetent to select a president, governor, senators and congressmen — only they haven't yet mustered up the guts to say so. Give them time and they will. Those of us who believe in freedom and self-government had better purge these elitists every time they show their faces or we'll end up with a nation composed of 85 percent Step-And-Fetch-its and 15 percent Finger-Snappers. There is no demonstrable evidence that appointed superintendents are superior to elected superintendents. It's unlikely that a school board elected by the voters will be any wiser than the voters who elected them. Of course, there are those who believe that upon assuming office — any office — one automatically receives a dose of superior wisdom. There is no evidence to support that superstition either. But to return to the main argument that a large number of employees and a large budget make government analogous to a private corporation, there are a number of obvious differences that destroy the analogy. For one thing, a private corporation produces measurable results. One can look at sales, production figures and profits and draw a conclusion about the effectiveness of the chief executive officer. Only with the advent of the functional literacy test has there been any way to measure the product of a school system. But more importantly, government should be concerned with providing a service, not with efficiency. What we want the school system to do is educate children. I, for one, would not grumble about costs if the children were being educated. What irks people is that they are paying a record price for an uneducated child. The advantage of an elected superintendent is that he must listen to classroom teachers, principals, parents and others. He is forced, by the necessity of asking for their votes, to take the Biblical advice to seek many counsels. An appointed bureaucrat, on the other hand, can ignore the counsel of parents, classroom teachers and principals. So long as he pollocks a majority of his board, he can tell the rest of the community to stick it in its ear. It's been my experience that too often school board members are easily awed by jargon and credentials and therefore end up as rubber stamps. No professional educator worth the salary of a superintendent has failed to master the art of putting down a layman. The answer to the cry for qualifications is to set minimum qualifications by statute. Having done that, then the people can observe the candidates, question them, and make a decision. Some elected superintendents are bums, but then so are some appointed superintendents. There is no perfect answer. However, a superintendent must operate in an environment of civil service tenure and unions, where persuasion rather than dictation is necessary. An election is certainly a good test of that talent.

WATCH ON WASTE: There's no need to join the Navy to see the world. Even such an unlikely government agency as the Food and Drug Administration can offer a lot of free sightseeing. Witness the jauntings, for example, of J. Richard Crout, a top agency official. In a recent 18-month period, he used official travel vouchers to make three trips to Geneva, one to Sweden and another to London. His assistant, Jerome Halperin, meanwhile visited Japan twice in three years. "I don't like to travel a lot," was Crout's surprising comment. He explained that he specializes in working with the World Health Forum and Swedish officials. "We see each other in different forums." He stoutly insisted the taxpayers are getting their money's worth from his overseas voyaging. He has also passed up junkets abroad, he said, that "sound like fun." Crout said his assistant, Halperin, "is sort of our Japan guy" and is taking language lessons in Japanese. "It's a hard language to learn," he was informed.

Mark Russell says

A popular game in Washington consists of guessing what Andrew Young will say next. Some examples: "The French are lousy cooks and worse lovers." Or perhaps — "The Irish Republican Army is a stabilizing influence on the stained glass windows of Westminster Abbey." Or perhaps Young might say — "In all honesty, I'd say I deserve a 50 percent raise." Or — "When it comes to stability, the United States would do well to examine Italy."

President Carter is urged to carry a bigger stick

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — When Dr. Samuel Huntington of the National Security Council (NSC) staff on the evening of July 16 discussed with Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan how to handle the Russians, it followed a policy debate waged within the national security bureaucracy for six weeks and now threatens to divide the Democratic party. Moynihan thought Huntington was urging him to publicly urge stopping U.S. technology transfers to the Soviet Union as a protest against the dissident trials; Huntington says he intended no such request. But the two former Harvard professors fully agreed that needed oil drilling bits should not be sent to Russia just when the Kremlin is thumping its nose at Jimmy Carter's concern for human rights. Huntington, an intimate of NSC director Zbigniew Brzezinski, was not inciting mutiny against President Carter. Rather, he was trying to influence the final outcome of a debate involving much more than drilling bits. Senior figures in the administration and Congress fear that Mr. Carter is turning Teddy Roosevelt on his head, speaking loudly while carrying the small stick supplied by the State Department. They feel the president must not let the world believe that the Soviet Union can play the barbarian without fear of meaningful reaction from Washington. That Secretary of State Cyrus Vance feels differently was revealed turn to Harvard this fall, stressed he was speaking only for himself in linking technology transfers to Soviet behavior. Businessmen present, with visions of Russian trade dancing in their heads, bristled (confirming Lenin's forecast that capitalists will sell the rope for their hanging). After an account was published in the Washington Post of June 26, the Literary Gazette of Moscow broadened its assault on Brzezinski by attacking the Huntington speech. The Dresser Industries deal was brought up during discussion at West Point. But the decision was going against the NSC staff and in favor of the State Department. Accordingly, defense-oriented senators — including Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington — got in the act by discreetly pushing the NSC position on Dresser Industries with the president. When the Kremlin convened the dissident trials, Vance (taking advice from his Soviet affairs expert, Dr. Marshall Shulman) was in control. He rejected a suggestion by Malcolm Toon, U.S. ambassador in Moscow, that Vance's arms control (SALT) discussions in Geneva be postponed. Some State Department officials hinted many more such suggestions might exit Toon from Moscow. It soon became clear that the principal reaction by Washington was cancellation of a Moscow visit by the deputy director of U.S. Environmental Protection. That was ludicrously unsatisfactory not only to Jackson, Moynihan and other senators, but also important senior figures in the administration. Consequently, Jackson took the Senate floor July 10 to declare: "When the Soviets are doing so much to provoke us... this is the time for us to let the Russians know that we can play the game, too." Without talking to Huntington or anybody else on the NSC staff, Jackson decided to go public on his private technology transfer maneuvers. On July 11, he urged halting the Dresser Industries deal plus a Sperry Univac computer system sale to the TASS news agency. Scoop Jackson, whose anti-Soviet rhetoric has never matched Jimmy Carter's in shrillness, is pleading with the president to carry a bigger stick. But sources in the bureaucracy report that Vance went to Geneva with important SALT concessions in his brief case. If he actually pulled out the concessions instead of turning off the technology deals, the agitation and concern here this week will be only a pale preview of what's ahead.

DO YOU BELIEVE THAT TERRIBLE STORY ABOUT THE CIA?
I SURE DO! WHAT IS IT?

Israel reportedly offering West Bank withdrawal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel offered three "major concessions" to Egypt at last week's foreign ministers' meeting, including a possible "territorial compromise" on the occupied west bank of the Jordan River, diplomatic sources here said.

The offer to negotiate a West Bank withdrawal was the first solid indication from the government of Prime Minister Menachem Begin that it could be induced to give up some of the territory as part of an overall settlement.

Referring to the land by the Biblical names of Judea and Samaria, Begin has insisted the West Bank is historically part of Israel. He has refused to commit Israel to a withdrawal on that front under 1967 and 1973 U.N. Security Council resolutions.

But Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan told his Egyptian counterpart, Mohammed Ibrahim Kamel, at the talks convened by Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance in Leeds Castle, that a territorial compromise could be negotiated.

Also, the sources said, Dayan advised Kamel that Israel was prepared to consider the question of who would govern the West Bank and the Gaza Strip after five years.

This, too, appeared to represent a significant shift in Israel's position.

Until Dayan met with Kamel at the medieval English castle, the Begin government, despite urging by the Carter administration, had been unwilling to address the future of the West Bank beyond a five-year interim period of civil self-rule for the Palestinian Arabs, proposed last December.

The twin issues of Israeli occupation of the West Bank and the future of the 1.1 million Palestinian Arabs living there and in Gaza are considered the major obstacles in the path of a settlement.

From an Israeli standpoint, the principal goal of an accord is "true peace," involving among other elements recognition by its Arab neighbors and free movement of peoples across established borders.

The Carter administration is privately confident this can be achieved — provided Israel makes the kind of concessions that could lead to a comprehensive settlement with Jordan and Syria as well as with Egypt.

The third Dayan proposal, said the sources, who asked not to be identified, was that if Egypt decided it could not negotiate a peace treaty with Israel now, the two countries might consider concluding a "situation of peace."

This would involve an Israeli pull-back in parts of the Sinai, returning El Arish, the principal city, to Egyptian civilian control.

But the Israelis insisted their withdrawal — which would be the third since the Yom Kippur war of 1967 — could not be a unilateral gesture.

Kamel was noncommittal, even on whether Egypt would agree to another meeting next month being arranged by Vance. But Egyptian President Anwar Sadat subsequently rejected the El Arish proposal and, on Wednesday, ordered the Israeli military mission based in Egypt withdrawn.

Israeli sources described Sadat's action as "unhelpful." A State Department spokesman said "we would have preferred that this step not be taken because of the interpretation that may be placed on it."

Still, the spokesman, Thomas Reston, said Vance expected to be able to convene another Egyptian-Israeli foreign ministers meeting next month when he visits the Middle East.

Apart from the substance of Dayan's proposals, the position he took in the talks appears to represent a calculated effort by Israel to overcome an intransigent image and to cast Egypt in an uncompromising light.

Additionally, Israel is showing interest in a Begin-Sadat summit but the Egyptians are not enthusiastic about the idea.

Journalists covering Mexico now must have work permits

MATAMOROS, Mexico (AP) — Mexican officials, apparently upset about recent U.S. news coverage of local events, have given notice that journalists from north of the border must obtain permits to work here.

A South Texas television reporter was taken to an immigration office here Thursday and warned not to return without a permit.

"They're very mad at you people," U.S. Consul Francis Arenz told a reporter. "They think you have a conspiracy against Mexico."

Jeff Walker of KRGV-TV in Weslaco was allowed to leave after the warning was issued. He and partners Jose Luis Madrigal were interviewing a police official when the immigration officials intervened.

"They said American news is no good for Matamoros," Madrigal said.

The reporters were working on a story concerning a Central American girl who was reportedly kidnapped here two weeks ago. The girl was located in Brownsville Wednesday.

"It was a bit of fear and a lot of confusion," Walker said after the incident.

The reporter said he was taken to an office while an immigration official called Mexico City. Walker said he spent about 40 minutes awaiting the official's decision.

He was told not to return without the permit and then to leave. No penalties were imposed.

Arenz, in a telephone interview from his office here, said recent publicity concerning riots and polo in northern Mexico has upset local officials.

"They think you're trying to kill tourism here," Arenz said.

Street rioting in this border town several weeks ago received wide coverage in the U.S. press. More recently, county health officials in South Texas have warned U.S. tourists to get polio vaccinations before crossing the border. The officials said there were reports of a polio outbreak in northern Mexico.

Arenz said the Mexican law requiring foreign journalists to get permits is rarely enforced. He recalled, however, that officials enforced the law for awhile last year after a reporter, also from KRGV-TV, did a series on prostitution in Mexico.

The required permit is free and is good for unlimited visits for six months, Arenz said.

"I try to tell them (Mexican officials) that the U.S. press reports the news," Arenz said. "The news has not been so good here lately."

Probe finding no single answer for Bikini tragedy

By JERRY BELCHER
The Los Angeles Times

How did it happen, the tragedy of Bikini?

The devastation of the tiny mid-Pacific atoll during the atomic and hydrogen bomb testing of the 1940s and '50s may be rationalized in the name of national and international peace and security.

And the "blue ribbon" panel of scientific experts who advised President Lyndon B. Johnson when he gave the go-ahead for the return to Bikini apparently either overlooked or ignored obviously erroneous data in one of the key reports on which they based their recommendations.

Joe Deal, the Department of Energy official who has been chief spokesman for his department during the Yates subcommittee hearings, summarized it this way:

"Do you know what the problem is with Bikini? It's 20,000 coconut trees taking up cesium." Tommy McGraw, his aide, corrected Deal: the number of trees was closer to 90,000. But he agreed that it was the trees, and their unpredictable high uptake of cesium 137 from the soil and groundwater, and the appetite of the Bikinians for the coconuts, that made Bikini untenable.

"It was the trees, and their unpredicted high uptake of cesium 137 from the soil and groundwater, and the appetite of the Bikinians for the coconuts, that made Bikini untenable."

But how could a nation with the expertise to build those bombs — and the confidence to believe it could restore the delicate ecological entity it had virtually wiped out with its weapons — assure the Bikinians in 1968 that their homeland was safe, then a decade later tell them they must get out again because it wasn't safe after all?

Rep. Sidney R. Yates, D-Ill., whose House Interior subcommittee on appropriations has been exploring the Bikini dilemma since March, said he has yet to get any very satisfactory answers. "It is a crazy situation," he said in an interview. "The whole thing is crazy."

The reaction from the federal agencies primarily involved, the Department of Energy and the Department of Interior, is predictable: There is no single, no simple answer.

But part of the answer is simple: the experts simply did not know their coconuts. They also did not know much more about human nature.

Yes, Deal agreed, that was basically it. He said that "a perfectly valid scientific solution" to the Bikini problem was simply to tell the Bikinians: "Don't eat coconuts." But, he admitted, "That's silly. We were naive in the beginning and made that kind of recommendation. We did it in an ivory tower. We were just naive in thinking that kind of thing could be done."

In any case, Deal and McGraw said that there was insufficient data on the diet of Bikinians in 1967 to get an accurate estimate of how much radioactivity they might take in through the food chain.

McGraw said he remembered that a presumed diet drawn up in 1968 "had only nine or ten grams of coconut (about one-third of an ounce) in it. I'm not able to explain why that number was so low. But I can tell you now that we know they (the Bikinians) eat ten times that, maybe 20 to 50 times that. The coconut, it would look like, is the most important contributor (of radiation intake) of any of these items."

The nine-gram coconut consumption figure actually had been included in "Radiological Report on Bikini Atoll," published by the Atomic Energy Commission in 1968 and prepared by Philip F. Gustafson, then with the AEC's division of biology and medicine.

The human factor, he said, was not properly taken into account. Another factor, McGraw said, was that in 1967 when radiation surveys were made, there were virtually no coconuts left on the atoll. "You can't," he said, "sample (for radioactivity) something that's not there."

In fact, as McGraw later amended himself, there were a few coconuts analyzed in '67, but they were from "wild" palms, not the variety growing in such abundance on Bikini and Eneu today. He believes the new variety may take up radioactivity more readily than the wild plants.

The report, which projected Bikinian's radiation exposure into the next century, presumably was reviewed by the committee of experts advising President Johnson.

Gustafson, now a health physicist with Argonne National Laboratory near Chicago, confirmed in a telephone interview that the long-term dosage calculations for the Bikinians were based, in part, on the nine-gram figure. He admitted that it now sounds like "an awfully small" amount.

The figure, he said, had been taken from a 1957 report by AEC researcher Gordon Dunning. Gustafson said the Dunning report was not based on the Bikinians' diet, but on the diet of people living on nearby Rongelap. "It was the only sort of information I could lay my hands on at the time that gave a dietary breakdown for people in that area," Gustafson said.

Smog key to communities affluence or lack of it

By JOEL KOTKIN and KATHARINE McDONALD
The Washington Post

LOS ANGELES — The smog that has been making life miserable for millions in this metropolis all summer long is a major factor in creating slums out of some once prime residential communities, according to a study being prepared for the Environmental Protection Agency.

Ralph D'Arge, an economics professor at the University of Wyoming, after over a year of work is now completing a survey of communities here, which, he claims, shows conclusively that smog levels can determine whether a community becomes more or less affluent.

"In these really smoggy areas, you are getting a lower value for housing. People with money and a preference for clean air are moving out," says D'Arge, who expects to present his report to EPA in September. "You're getting poorer communities with increasingly more minorities. It really takes a toll."

One of the smog-infested areas studied by D'Arge is the San Gabriel Valley, a suburban area east of downtown Los Angeles that last year suffered more than 120 days of Stage 1 smog alert, meaning that young children and those with respiratory ailments were urged to avoid strenuous outdoor activity. This summer the valley's more than one million residents have been treated to a dozen more serious Stage 2 smog alerts in which even the healthiest individuals are urged to avoid breathing too much of the putrid air.

Smog, D'Arge maintains, has changed the life and character of such valley towns as El Monte, Alhambra and San Gabriel, which, virtually all middle class and white before the smog reached them in the 1960s, are quickly becoming dominated by poorer, mostly Mexican-American residents. A recent report by the Los Angeles Community Development Department cited the valley as one area changing dramatically from predominantly Anglo to Hispanic.

Donna Crippen, a 48-year-old native of El Monte, says the smog started pouring over the hills from Los Angeles on a regular basis a little more than a decade ago, changing forever the suburban community of 62,000. "You used to be able to go up in this valley and see Mount Baldy 50 miles away," she recalled. "Now you can't even see the stars at night because of the smog."

Before the smog came, Crippen, whose husband Jack is mayor, says El Monte was overwhelmingly a comfortable community of well-kept homes surrounded by walnut groves and fields of strawberries. Today, many once-substantial homes are rundown, littered with trash and scarred by graffiti, and the tide of Mexican-American immigration has risen to the point where Mexican-Americans compose almost one-half of El Monte's population.

The EPA study, according to D'Arge, found similar negative effects on communities all along the Los Angeles "smog belt," stretching 40 miles east and downwind of downtown. At the same time, D'Arge adds, many once-deteriorated sections in less smoggy areas, particularly near the beaches, are experiencing an unprecedented boom in real estate.

D'Arge found that people who can afford to are willing to spend, on the average, $2,000 a year extra to live in non-smoggy areas.

"clean" west side of Los Angeles, for instance, prices for modest homes have risen in the past decade from $25,000 to more than $110,000, according to real estate agent Joe Viestra. The average price for a home in Upland, a suburban area deep in the "smog belt," today is $53,000, or half that in the "clean" areas, according to figures provided by Vernon Riphagen, president of the local realtors association.

"If you were to overlay a map of the areas which have been growing most rapidly with a pollution map, you'd find a very strong correlation," claims Tom Lieser, an economist for Security Pacific National Bank in Los Angeles. "There is no doubt clean air is capitalized into property values."

Despite the smog and the statistics showing spreading barrio, or Mexican-American slum, conditions throughout the "smog belt," many realtors in areas with poor air quality believe their communities thrive even in the face of the smog. "People will live with it, they

Questions remain on woman at sea

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge says Congress erred in telling the Navy to keep women off its ships, although he concedes the Navy faces problems in planning for vessels that will carry both men and women as crew.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica ruled on Thursday that it is up to the Navy to determine as it sees fit whether it wants to put women onto all types of naval vessels.

A law passed by Congress 30 years ago stipulates that women may serve only on transport and hospital vessels, all of which are out of service.

It was not immediately certain whether Congress will move to amend the law in light of Sirica's ruling, but legislation is under consideration that would allow women on warships for several months at a time, provided the ships were not actually headed for combat.

Sirica's ruling made clear that there may still be "unanswered questions" in integrating women into the crews of all naval vessels, but he said such a development would be "no different than what's happening in college dormitories."

get used to it, it's like a toothache," Upland realtor Riphagen said. But Prof. Ward Elliott, who teaches political science at Claremont University in the San Gabriel Valley, has studied the situation and concludes that property values are being kept down by the smog. "Of course the realtors and the property owners have a vested interest in not admitting that their property values are affected by the smog, but the fact is they are," he says.

While they won't publicly admit concern, valley businessmen privately admit that the almost daily reports here about their area's air quality could be chasing away affluent residents and businesses. "They call the valley unhealthy on the radio and Santa Monica and the beaches healthy. Somebody hears that and you've got to admit it's not encouraging them to come to San Gabriel," one businessman said. "Nobody wants to admit it but there's no question it bothers one."

The Navy had no immediate comment on the ruling. But last March, Navy Secretary W. Graham Claytor testified before a House Armed Services subcommittee in favor of the legislation to allow women to serve on combat vessels for up to six months.

"Let's move now on this very small step that we've suggested," he told the military personnel subcommittee. He warned, however, that if the larger question of permanent placement of women on naval ships is taken up now, "we'll get into a very difficult, controversial row."

Sirica's ruling came in a suit brought by four Navy women who alleged that the Navy was discriminating against them as well as 21,800 other Navy women because federal law prohibits them from serving on Navy combat vessels.

Money market funds return

By DONALD C. BAUER, Copley News Service

Remember the money market mutual funds? They're back. That's not altogether good news, of course. The money market funds were the rage in 1974 and 1975 - when interest rates were soaring through the roof. They are mutual funds permitting people to get high rates of return, through the mutual fund concept of pooled investing, on short-term paper.

Money Market funds started in 1974, and ran up $1.7 billion in assets. In 1975, assets shot up to $3.69 billion. But after interest rates started declining, the money market funds' assets started dropping off. By the end of 1977, they were just $3.9 billion - which means they had barely grown from 1975 through 1977.

But, ohh, look at 'em now. As interest rates have soared this year, and Carter administration spending plans have telegraphed further upward pressure on interest rates, the money market funds have soared anew. Through May 15, assets were $6.1 billion.

One of the interesting new no-load money market funds is Federated Money Market Fund from Pittsburgh's Federated Investors, which has $1 billion of the $6.1 billion in money market funds outstanding. The new fund, which has $47.8 million in assets, is currently yielding 7.5 per cent. The new fund features an arrangement whereby investors can, in effect, write checks off their Federated investment.

Listen for barking; it could tell story

By ALFRED SHRINWOLD

Much as it may go against your principles, think of your opponents as dogs. Be warned of danger if they don't bark when any self-respecting dog would yap like crazy.

Opening lead - ♠ K

West led the king of hearts, continued with the ace and then led the jack to make dummy ruff.

Declarer, a respectable type who wouldn't think of a dog even if he fell over a hydrant, drew trumps, cashed the ace of clubs and led a low club toward dummy.

East won and got out with a high club to make South ruff again. Eventually South lost a diamond. Down one.

GOOD MATERIAL

The first three tricks showed that West started with a very strong spade heart suit. This was very good yelping material, so why had West kept quiet?

Clearly, West had nothing else to bark about. East surely held the queen of diamonds and the king of clubs.

After drawing trumps South should take the top diamonds and give East his diamond trick. East must then lead away from his king of clubs, so that South avoids the loss of a club trick.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes. You hold: S 2; H Q 3; D Q 10 9 6 2; S K J 7 6 3. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid 1 NT. The hand is strong enough for a response, but not good enough for a bid to two in either minor suit.

Chemist reveals new Oswald findings

By CLIFF SMITH Copley News Service

All the bullet fragments recovered in investigating the assassination of President John F. Kennedy came from two shots fired from Lee Harvey Oswald's rifle.

This was the principal conclusion of a new report on the case made public by a La Jolla, Calif., chemist.

Dr. Vincent P. Guinn, a University of California-Irvine, professor, said he found no evidence of a third bullet, or a bullet from another gun that would indicate the existence of a second assassin.

In his study, Guinn made an independent analysis of emission spectrography data on bullet-lead specimens collected and examined by the FBI after the assassination.

"The FBI concluded that there was no information of significance that could be obtained from the data," Guinn noted in an interview.

"When I went at it more systematically, however, I found that indeed, all of the apparent discrepancies fell into place very neatly, and concluded that all of the fragments of the bullets found in the case could be accounted for by two bullets - two Mannlicher-Carcano bullets of the kind that Oswald was firing."

Guinn said his findings, therefore, support the judgment of the Warren Commission: Oswald, acting alone, fired the fatal bullets from his rifle from the sixth-floor window of the Texas School Book Depository in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963.

Investigators found five groups of bullet fragments; one group in Kennedy's brain, two on the floor of the president's limousine, a fourth taken from the wrist of then Texas Gov. John Connally, who was riding in the car, and the fifth a nearly whole bullet found on Connally's stretcher after he reached the hospital.

Comparing trace amounts of silver, copper and antimony present in the lead fragments, Guinn said, it was possible to match them perfectly.

He said the fragments from Kennedy's brain and both groups of fragments on the car floor all came from the same bullet, one of three 6.5mm cartridges fired by Oswald. "The fragments from Connally's wrist clearly match the stretcher bullet, also from Oswald's rifle," he said.

"With most kinds of ammunition you couldn't tell one bullet from another by their composition. But this stuff varied tremendously from one bullet to another, even when they were all from the same box."

Probe wanted

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rep. Henry J. Hyde, R-Ill., says the Justice Department should launch an investigation of charges that aides to President Carter have smoked marijuana and sniffed cocaine. Hyde wrote to Attorney General Griffin Bell asking for such an investigation.

Street crime

now involves street itself

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) - Street crime is a problem in Newark, as elsewhere. But rarely - if ever - has the victim been a street itself.

Police are looking for four men who stole part of Jelliff Avenue.

The thieves pried up and trucked away thousands of cobblestones over the weekend in broad daylight, police said.

"We have some strong leads and arrests are imminent," said Detective Martin Goldman.

Area residents told police four men worked from Saturday through Monday morning ripping off the street. A 30-by-150-foot section of Jelliff Avenue near 18th Avenue in the city's Central Ward was taken away by truck.

"The block is near an urban renewal site and city employees have been doing construction work for a long time," Goldman said. "Several streets are closed down and the people thought the thieves were city employees."

Goldman says the stones, more than 80 years old, bring a price of up to a dollar each.

Pills not best way to reduce

Dear Dr. Solomon: How do you feel about diet pills for losing weight? A friend of mine said I really ought to give them a try, because I have so little will power.—Randy T.

Dear Randy: The main point about diet pills is never to take them except under the direction of a doctor. Although they can make things easier for a short time, their effect is only temporary. They can have bad side effects—such as increased blood pressure and pulse rate, insomnia, nervousness, and palpitations. And you can get addicted to some of them.

The best way to reduce is to get on a moderate well-balanced diet combined with a good amount of exercise, and aim to lose a couple of pounds a week. After a month or so, you will notice quite a difference. Have a try.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I've read two or three times in the papers that aspirin may help prevent strokes. Is this correct? I'm especially interested because my father had a slight stroke a month ago, and we've been worrying that he might have another one. Aspirin sounds like an awfully simple way to avoid this—or at least help.—F.D.

Dear F.D.: We've known for quite some time that aspirin reduces the blood's clotting ability somewhat. And as blood clots are one of the major causes of strokes, aspirin has been considered a possible candidate as a preventive medicine.

Abolition of grammar rules pushed

SEATTLE (AP) - Arlene Zekowski and Stanley Berne have the solution to struggles over English grammar: Get rid of the rules.

The English professors at Eastern New Mexico University are barnstorming the country with their gospel of "open structure," a style which discards all rules of the language in favor of a more adaptable system of commas and periods.

The husband-and-wife team, in Seattle last week, said the English language is archaic and out of tune with contemporary society.

"With its 300 rules dating back to Shakespeare, it's so difficult to teach. We are reformers of language because we want it to fit the space age," they said.

Berne has written a book, "Future Language."

covering almost 600 patients indicates that it is. But only for men, according to the Canadian researchers.

Dr. Henry J.M. Barnett of London, Ontario, reports that four aspirin daily reduced the chance of a stroke by almost 50 percent among high-risk men. But surprisingly no such effect was found among women.

The Canadian findings support the results of an earlier, smaller study done at The University of Texas in Houston. So aspirin may indeed prove to be a helpful anti-stroke drug. Any such regime should of course be undertaken only on the advice of a person's doctor.

Dear Dr. Solomon: My sister says she is convinced that trees help reduce air pollution. Do you suppose there is any way this could be true?—Gillian S.

Dear Gillian: I am not a tree doctor. But I do know that trees and other vegetation take in carbon dioxide and release oxygen, which is good for the air you breathe. And the experts say trees may help in getting rid of some of the pollutants. If you wish to find out more, you can get a pamphlet called "Help Trees Clean the Air" from the Publications Office, GPA, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

In runner's world, jigglers make best viewing

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

RIDGEFIELD, CONN. (AP) — I ran into a neighbor the other day running out of a bookstore with one of those run-for-your-health books under his arm like he hadn't paid for it.

He had on those zippered longjohns Bruce Jenner wears when he spoons his breakfast cereal, heel-less sneakers and little sweat socks with pom-poms, which of course is the ritual gear these days for the joggers who throng our highways and by-ways like sheep in Ireland.

In the driveway he almost ran down a lady in satin shorts jogging in the other direction.

Not since Pheidippides, the Greek who began the rage by running himself to death without benefit of satin scanties on the original run from Athens to Marathon, has there been such a cavalry charge of bipeds on our public thoroughfares, both urban and rural.

Fred Lebow, who honchos the New York City Marathon in which commuters try to out run the muggers, reports he now has five cardboard boxes full of applications, each box containing 3,000 names, for the October coronary classic. Almost as many as ran for Mayor last time when Ed Koch, a jogger, won.

Close on New York's heels, the 26.2-mile Mayor Daley jog-fest in Chicago in September is expecting 10,000 marathoners to puff through the Windy City. Everyone is expected to finish ahead of the White Sox.

I can recall less than a decade ago when a sports writer friend of mine named Tom Henshaw was the only marathon maniac that I knew or ever even heard of. Not that Tom was a jogger himself or even a waddler. He had a physique like Tony Galento embracing a keg of beer, but he followed runners, their careers, their diets, their breathing spasms the way other guys study Arnie Palmer's backswing or Bjorn Borg's serve.

Tom got married the weekend of the Boston Marathon. For a honeymoon, he took his bride along on the press bus, but being a gallant Bostonian, he gave her the window seat.

Last Sunday I met a woman who lives nearby out walking her dog. The dog was limping, dragging his left rear leg.

"Did he catch a thorn?" I asked. "No," she said. "He pulled a muscle jogging."

I tried not to imagine what happens when a dog jogger meets a person jogger, because an airline pilot friend, who jogs to keep in enough shape to fit in the cockpit, carries along with him each morning a spray can of homemade doggie Mace compounded of vinegar, hot pepper and rose water to squirt at mastiffs who come nipping at his Achilles tendon.

Another neighbor claims to have been attacked by a gander while circling our little lake, but he didn't specify whether the other goose was out jogging too.

I tend to disbelieve these stories ever since a little girl told me a snapping turtle the size of a pizza tray bit a hole in her rubber raft, which was only slightly smaller than the ones they used in the D-day invasion. Early morning joggers claim they do meet up with deer, skunks and racoons in between school buses and other joggers.

The supermarket every Saturday is full of joggers in full fig, dressed like the Russian Olympic team as they roll their carts up the aisle piled high with yogurt, non-calorie salad dressings and wheat germ so as to make the rest of us loading up on beer and potato chips feel guilty.

The library has a whole display case full of books on running and jogging, under the sign "Light Summer Reading" that they used to reserve for murders, historical romances and spy thrillers.

Every morning a rather hefty looking hausfrau goes by in a fulsome T-shirt emblazoned "Do not talk to jogger while bustle is in motion."

But evenings in the country are best. The air is clear and cool, a light wind rustles the tall maples, birds sing in the thickets of the hydrangeas and down the road comes a vision of sheerest delight. Long tanned legs catching the sun's last rays, red hair flying, little blue sneakers pounding it out on the pavement, brief white shorts and a sweat-wet T-shirt unable to harness nature's bounty.

Auctioneer denies Presley's statements on memorabilia

By The Associated Press

A Maryland auctioneer says he is surprised that the father of the late Elvis Presley would question the authenticity of Elvis memorabilia he plans to put on the auction block next week.

Auctioneer Vic Mattucci earlier announced that entertainer Jimmy Velvet would auction off a motorcycle, desk, Bible and other items that once belonged to Elvis.

But Vernon Presley, the father of the late singer, said "As far as I know, Jimmy Velvet owns nothing belonging to Elvis."

Presley added that nothing had been sold from the Presley mansion, Graceland, since his son's death last summer.

Mattucci called Vernon Presley's statement, "unbelievable."

"This stuff was all sold by Vernon Presley in the ballroom of the Regency Hyatt Hotel in Nashville on Dec. 14, 1977," said Mattucci.

Mattucci had said earlier that half of the items to be sold belonged to Velvet, who considered himself a good friend of the late singer.

"Jimmy Velvet was a personal friend of Elvis, and he lives in a $40,000 bus, which Elvis gave him," Mattucci said.

"Jimmy is down there with Elvis' aunt right now. He's getting some personal clothing and some costumes that are going to be in the sale," added the auctioneer.

Other items to be sold at the Glen Burnie sale, Aug. 5, are a large painting of Graceland, Presley's 1976 custom Harley-Davidson motorcycle, his T.C.B. (taking care of business) desk and his personal Bible, according to Mattucci.

Reacting to Vernon Presley's denials, Mattucci suggested that perhaps the singer's father was joking.

Pathologist hopes to publish his long study of Einstein's brain soon

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The pathologist who performed the autopsy on Albert Einstein is keeping portions of the renowned genius' brain in a Mason jar for laboratory analysis.

Dr. Thomas S. Harvey, says he has been studying the brain since Einstein died 23 years ago and said he hopes to publish his findings in about a year. He said he keeps portions of the brain in his laboratory in Wichita, Kan.

But Harvey, who performed the autopsy in Princeton Hospital, declined to discuss details of his study.

"See, this is being done for the Einstein estate, and they have requested that we not give out newspaper articles and things like that," Harvey told a reporter in Kansas.

When Einstein died, several hospitals sought to study the brain of the man who formulated the theory of relativity, but Princeton Hospital won the right in an autopsy authorization. Einstein lived in the university community before his death.

Harvey, formerly of Freehold, N.J., was placed in charge of the study.

"There have been, off and on, different numbers" studying the brain, Harvey said. "Quite a group has worked on it. They're from across the country."

The pathologist said there were no target dates for the completion of the study. "I really don't know," he added.

Moisturizing stops tan's flaking

By BETTY OTTERMAN
Newsday

This is the time when that beautiful tan you've been cultivating so carefully — and, it's hoped, painlessly — will probably start flaking. You may find your makeup smudging — and sometimes even running down your face — within a few hours after applying it.

To avoid those summer problems with your skin and makeup: Moisturize and play it cool — and dry.

Though regular cosmetic moisturizers can be effective, there are special after-sun creams, jellies and lotions designed to eradicate the damage of sun-baked skin. Such special products often contain aloe leaf extract, which is especially soothing to sun parched skin.

Sun blocks are another means of combating the effects of too much sun. Cosmetic authority Estee Lauder even suggests wearing a block under makeup for added protection against over-drying and flaking.

Dr. John Hiller, director of new product research at Dorothy Gray cosmetics, explains why the sun poses a threat to the skin's natural moisture.

"Normal skin ordinarily has a 10-to-30 percent moisture content," he said. "This moisture migrates from the deep dermal tissues to the surface. As it evaporates at the surface, it's replaced by more from below. However, this delicate balance is upset by overexposure to the sun and the result can be dry, rough, chapped, aged skin."

Since ultraviolet rays can still cause damage, even after tanning, Dr. Hiller suggests using moisturizers and makeups that contain sunscreens. And, he adds, remember the eyelids. The use of an eye cream, should help prevent scaliness and promote a smooth, nonwrinkled skin.

If you've noticed brown spots appearing on face or body, you'd better apply a sun block or extra-strength sunscreen to that area. "That usually happens to women who are either pregnant or on birth-control pills," says Agnes Timar, a Forest Hills cosmetologist. "Sunlight stimulates the development of large brown spots called chloasma which can occur as a result of changes in the level of the estrogen and progesterone hormones."

If your skin is already flaking, you might consider using a slightly abrasive cleanser on your face. It will not remove the tan, as you might think, but only remove the dead skin. And will result in a smoother, glowing tan.

Now for the problem of smudging or running makeup.

One way to help prevent it, at least temporarily, is to pat a slightly-dampened cosmetic pad or cotton ball on your makeup. For some reason, this seems to "set" the face for a few hours.

RECAPTURE THE RAPTURE.

Once upon a time there were sports cars and back roads and 25¢-a-gallon gas.

That's all behind us. But today there's a new kind of fun called Puch.

Puch (it rhymes with book) is a moped. Which means it has pedals like a bicycle and a motor like your motorboat.

So now instead of "puff-puff-puffing" around town like the bike riders do, you can go "puch-puch-puching" all over God's creation with a smile on your face and the wind in your hair.

It's so much fun we almost hate to mention economies like up to 150 miles per gallon of fuel, and practically no maintenance.

We've got Puchs in all kinds of nice colors and we'd love to have you take one for a test ride soon.

It's been a long time since this much fun made this much sense.

Give first aid to abused furniture

By AL CARRELL

The abuse that we give furniture, even though most is accidental, can make you think that the only way to remove the scars and bruises is to completely refinish the piece. Sometimes this is the only answer, but often you can get by with only a little first aid. Probably the ugliest thing that can happen to furniture is the cigarette burn. While you can't always hide the charred place, it's at least worth a try. The first thing to do is remove the black from the burn. Do this carefully with a dull knife. When you have scraped as much as you can without digging into the good wood below, use fine steel wool to remove any traces left. Often the burn will only be in the finish and not actually into the wood. However, if it got the wood, you may have to add stain as well as finish to bring it up level with the rest of the surface. Stick shellac comes in many shades, and with more than a little practice, can be flowed into the canyon niture polish, and you have probably done a good job of hiding the burn.

Dear Al:

My paint job made the living room look super. However, after a while, I discovered that somehow I had failed to completely cover the coffee table, and there were faint flecks on it. I could see a tedious refinishing job. However, a neighbor suggested a trick to try. She had me pour furniture oil polish over the top and let it stand. It works its way under the flecks and loosens them so that eventually they could be rubbed away with a rag soaked in the oil. The oil does not penetrate the finish. — Mrs. G.L.

Dear Al:

One too many candlelight dinners left a blob of red wax in the middle of the dining room table. I found that holding an ice cube against the blob made it very hard and brittle, and careful use of a spatula scraped it away. This was followed by my regular furniture polish, and there's no sign. — Ms. W.M.

A SUPER HINT —

There are so many ways to hide scratches that there's no excuse for having these boo-boos showing. Try any of these. Furniture wax or polish may do the job. If stain is needed, try a nut meat, a crayon, iodine, shoe polish or a felt marker. One of these may exactly match. After the scratches are hidden, go over the piece with your wax or polish.

Dear Al:

I know water and furniture aren't considered go-togethers. However, I have often used this furniture cleaner formula. Into a quart of warm water, I add three tablespoons of boiled linseed oil, one tablespoon of turpentine, and enough mild soap flakes to make it sudsy. This cleans dirt and grime as well as wax. Wipe dry immediately, and then polish. — C.T.

SHOP TALK —

Steel wool comes in several grades. The type used on finished furniture must be super fine, and this grade is designated as 0000 (four aught). The fewer number of zeros, the coarser the steel wool. The next step is 1, 2 and 3 which are the coarsest. If you'd like to know more about this and other abrasives, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Super Handyman here at the paper. It's FREE.

Children's posture is body English

By MARION WELLS

Copley News Service

If your child's posture is out of line, it may be a tip-off that other health problems also need straightening out. Urging the youngster to straighten up may do little good until you find out what's pushing him out of shape.

Poor posture can be revealing body language, according to medical experts. "For example," says Benjamin F. Miller, M.D., "a nearsighted or hard-of-hearing child is apt to thrust his head forward to see or hear better. As a result, his shoulders and back may be thrown out of line."

A bodily slouch may signal improper diet or fatigue. Sometimes tall girls who feel self-conscious about their height may slump to make themselves less noticeable.

Children's bodies may sag due to sagging spirits or self-esteem. "A shy, unhappy child who feels inferior may slump," Dr. Miller says. "Emotional problems, especially in adolescence, have contributed to many cases of curvature of the spine." Among other causes of postural problems are foot trouble, clothing that's too heavy or too small, a chair or bed that's a child out of position, and "weakness, disease, or deformity involving muscles, bones or joints."

Of course, posture varies somewhat with each person. Nor can a child be judged by adult standards. But if your youngster's posture is causing you concern, discuss it with the doctor now.

Don't wait for your child's next checkup. If a physical or emotional problem is involved, early attention can avoid more serious difficulties later.

Another benefit is the chance to correct or arrest postural deviations before they turn into more troublesome problems. When the head is held improperly over a long period of time, the muscles on one side become shortened, whereas those on the opposite side become lengthened, and the faulty position tends to become fixed.

Good body mechanics also gives a youngster's overall growth and development a healthy boost. It allows him to move more efficiently with less fatigue and strain. It helps facilitate good support and a full blood supply to the vital organs. This benefits breathing, digestion, elimination and metabolism.

While good posture deserves attention at all ages, the junior high years are especially important. This tends to be the period when growth spurts take place and habitual postural habits are being formed.

Early attention to your child's posture can put his health in better shape for years to come.

Information for the above article was obtained from the American Physical Fitness Research Institute, 824 Moraga Drive, West Los Angeles, Calif. 90049.

(Sat., July 28)

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are able to achieve a great deal where the practical aspects of everyday living are concerned, so being up early and taking care of assets and obligations is excellent. You may have some delays or obstacles in your progress, so accept philosophically.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Handle obligations well and gain the benefits from them that you want and need. Morning is best time to see bigwigs; avoid them later.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Improve appearance; be patient in handling your personal affairs. Get right results later in the day. Not a good evening to be with friends.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Think out how to improve your position in life and get good results. Don't argue with loved ones. Handle credit matters well.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): A good time to gain a favor from a good friend. Enjoy quiet pleasure. Not a good day or evening for group meetings.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Be sure you handle outside affairs wisely; and early or you could be the loser. Handle that credit affair wisely and better your position in life.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Off early to the interests that appeal to you and get much done, even though later you may be tired and not feel so enthused.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): An early start at your work and cooperating with others makes this a banner day for you. Make good plans with loved ones early.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Make that plan that will meet with the approval of partners and then carry through enthusiastically. A situation arises that does not please you, but take care of it enthusiastically.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Schedule activities early so that you accomplish the most in a minimum of time, and with less effort. Co-workers are not in a good mood. Ignore them and keep working.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Make amusement plans early and then concentrate on work before you. Show loyalty for your closest tie.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Find the best way to have harmony with those at home and be kind and understanding. Not a good day for inviting outsiders into your home. Take it easy this evening and rest.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Take care of errands early. You can make improvements to daily routines tomorrow, but not now, when you cannot understand the errors.

Steal needed office space by converting laundry room

By BARBARA HARTUNG

Q. I'm converting an unused laundry room into an office for my mini-business. It was the only space I could find, short of remodeling.

All I have is a grand old desk. Do you have any ideas for a dramatic room that won't remind me I'm shirking my job as the family washer-woman?

I've already moved out the washer and dryer. Now I want to decorate the space to function as an office—E.Y.

A. Interior designer Gerri Lewin performed a fantastic change in a tiny office created from a deep closet in a home. Maybe it will inspire you.

First she covered the walls with a vinyl fabric which deadened the sound in the room. Shelves were positioned to bring storage space and work space within arm's reach when one is standing or sitting.

Lewin repeated the deep yew green of the wall vinyl on an old brass-studded chair which is both comfortable and functional as well as easy to keep clean.

At one end of the closet was a small space under the window. She very cleverly installed a storage chest covered with poppy red cushions which serves as a window seat.

It certainly doesn't take much imagination to realize you're far from the everyday chores of washing dirty Levi's and T-shirts when you're in this chic little hideaway.

Q. I want to stencil the floor in our dining room with turn of the century designs. I have painted the floor and want to do the designs in colors over the blue background.

Where can I obtain stencil patterns that would be appropriate? — W.C.

A. Dover Publication has just published a 56-page collection of full-sized stenciled prints on double-weight stencil paper.

The book is called "Victorian Cut and Use Stencils" by Carol Belanger Grafton. I think it is probably what you are looking for. The cost of the book is $2.50.

Secure, insecure employees on move

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—For every management-level employee who changes jobs because his position is insecure, four leave secure positions, according to a survey of management-level personnel agencies affiliated with National Personnel Associates.

"The frequency with which management-level employees are leaving their jobs constitutes one of the major phenomena of our times," says Charles W. Marks, the organization's executive director. He calls it a "mass migration."

DEAR ABBY

She needs 'self control'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 16, and I've had terrible luck with dudes. I've had two illegitimate babies, of which I gave up for adoption.

I'm ashamed to admit it, Abby, but I'm pregnant again. I will have to give this one up, too, because the guy I'm having the baby for can't marry me. He's in prison now and I just found out he's married and has five kids, so maybe it's all for the best that it worked out this way.

I want to put my past behind me and start a new life, but here is my problem: I have some very bad stretch marks on my stomach as a result of my pregnancies, and they're so noticeable I can't even wear a bikini.

Please tell me if I have to carry these ugly stretch marks for the rest of my life, or is there some way to get rid of them? — STRETCH MARKS IN THOMAS-

VILLE

DEAR STRETCH MARKS: A plastic surgeon can tell you if your stretch marks can be removed. In the meantime, you had better learn something about birth control as well as self-control. I think you've been stretching your luck too far.

DEAR ABBY: This probably won't make your column, but for the sake of all men who have fat wives, I hope it does. My old lady is 5 feet 2 and she tips the scale at 225 pounds, but as long as she is happy, so am I.

Our children love her, I worship her, and her friends adore her. She's a wonderful cook and housekeeper, and she always dresses neat and smells fresh and clean. She's never nervous or grouchy like most women who are always on some crazy starvation diet. To me, she is the perfect wife, and I tell her so. I couldn't be more anxious to get home to her every evening if she looked like Miss Universe.— SATISFIED WITH MY OLD LADY

DEAR SATISFIED: If you're satisfied with your "old lady," fine. But is her doctor satisfied? Ask any insurance expert how many years of life one can deduct for each 10 pounds of overweight.

Appearance isn't everything, but if you want that wonderful wife around to "worship" in your old age, start giving her some food—for thought!

DEAR ABBY: My husband is doing something that I think is wrong, but I need someone to back me up. Our son, 5, is left-handed, so every time my husband sees him doing something with his left hand, he gives him a smack and makes him try to do it with his right hand.

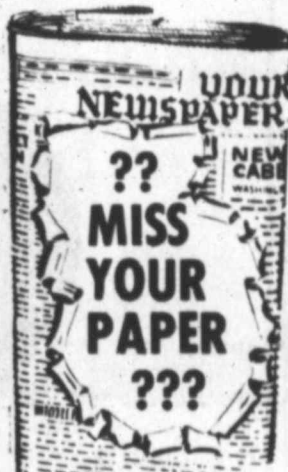

My husband says that when he was a boy he was also left-handed, or started out to be, but he had a teacher who used to force him to use his right hand instead of his left, and she finally broke him of the habit. He says he is thankful to that teacher because all the tools and things are made for right-handed people, and it is a handicap to be a lefty.

Is this true or not? Our son is now writing with his right hand, but he wets the bed. Please help me. — MOM : LONGVIEW, TEXAS
DEAR MOM: The inconvenience of being left-handed is nothing compared to the emotional damage a child might suffer from being forced to use his right hand. Tell your husband to keep his hands off the boy!

Less stirring key to light muffins

By MINNIE BERNARDINO
The Los Angeles Times

Q. Every time I make muffins, they come out with several large holes in them. I've tried different recipes and the results are always the same. The muffins taste fine but I know that I am not getting the right texture because the ones I've had in other places were always fine-grained and more tender. A friend told me I was overmixing them, but I mix them until all the flour is dissolved. What makes the holes?

A. Your friend is right, as you could still be overmixing the muffin batter if you continue until all the flour is dissolved. If you want your muffins to be light, meltingly tender and without tunnels, you should mix in the liquids just enough to dampen the dry ingredients. The batter should still be lumpy. Do not worry about any flecks of flour showing as the batter movement during baking will dissolve these.

A good-quality muffin has a rounded, cauliflower-like top with even grain and no tunnels. A poor muffin has a peaked smooth top with plenty of tunnels and is tough. Tunnels are formed from the expansion of gas in the dough and when the gluten (the protein complex in the flour that formed from mixing with liquids and is responsible for the semirigid structure after baking) becomes too-elastic and tenacious. Overmixing, too much flour and too little liquid produce an elastic, sticky gluten that stretches to form holes and tunnels upon mixing and spooning into the pan. However, if the muffins, particularly the richer cake types, are higher in sugar and shortening, they can be stirred for a longer time because these ingredients slow the development of gluten. Tunnels also have been observed in muffins baked at higher temperatures. Ideally, 400 to 425-degree temperatures are good for bread muffins and 350 to 375-degree temperatures are good for cake muffins.

Q. My bran muffins are tough and not as palatable as the ones I have tasted at a friend's house. The ingredients she gave me were about the same as those in my recipe. What did I do wrong?

A. In making bran muffins, it is important to soak the bran in warm milk for a few minutes before the flour and other ingredients are added. For a better effect, the muffin batter, which is mixed quite lightly, could stand after mixing so that the cellulose of the bran becomes better hydrated and thus softer and better tasting. This batter could even be refrigerated for days and used as needed.

Q. At the Kona Inn in Hawaii, we have served a fruit juice and sherbet appetizer called a "shrub." I have never seen the word in a cookbook or menu. Can you please tell me how to make a "shrub"? It was delicious and refreshing.

A. The "shrub" and its compatriots, "bounces" and "flips," are old-time drinks that have similar ingredients. Shrub was derived from the Arabic word sharab which means "drink." It was well known in colonial days when it was spiked with brandy or rum.

often is served iced, diluted with plain or carbonated water."

According to the book, shrubs can also be non-alcoholic. These usually are served with scoops of a tart sherbet. Here is a recipe for a non-alcoholic shrub using cherries. You may substitute any fruit or fruit juice or add rum or another li-

CHERRY SHRUB

- 2 quarts tart, pitted red cherries
- 2 cups sugar
- 1-3 cup water
- 2-3 cup lemon juice, or
- 1-2 cup white vinegar
- 1 quart club soda or water, or 1 pint fruit ice or sherbet

Combine cherries, sugar and water in large saucepan. Cover and simmer until mushy.

stirring occasionally. Cool. Cover and let stand overnight. Strain, add lemon juice and adjust sweetness as desired. Pour into a bottle, cover and refrigerate until needed. Serve plain on the rocks or half fill a tall glass with Shrub, add ice and fill with soda. Or pour into serving glasses and top with scoop of fruit ice or sherbet. Makes about 8 servings.

Iron discovery reports potential

Energy Reserve Group has completed a Permo-Pennsylvanian discovery in Iron County, and wildcat operations have been reported in Howard and Nolan counties.

The Iron opener is No. 2-61 Ela C. Sugg, one location north and slightly west of Wolfcamp gas production in the Ela Sugg field.

Operator reported a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 2.416 million cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 7,604 to 7,872 feet. The pay was fractured with 20,000 gallons.

Location is 660 feet from south and 810 feet from east lines of section 61, block 14, H&TC survey and 15 miles northeast of Barnhart.

Total depth is 8,025 feet and 4.5-inch casing is cemented at 7,989 feet.

HOWARD WILDCAT

Maralo, Inc., operating from Midland, announced plans to re-enter an old Luther, Southeast (Siluro-Devonian) well in Howard County and test it as a wildcat above 9,870 feet.

The project is No. 2 Puckett, 660 feet from south and 990 feet from east lines of section 27, block 32, T-2-N, T&P survey and 10 miles north of Big Spring. It is one location north and south of Siluro-Devonian production.

NOLAN EXPLORER

Fisher-Webb, Inc., of Abilene will drill No. 1-B Adrian as a 6,500-foot wildcat in Nolan County, 15 miles southeast of Sweetwater.

The Cambrian test is 660 feet from north and 510 feet from west lines of section 56, block 20, T&P survey.

The drillsite is one location northeast of the one-well Adrian (Ellenburger) field and 1.5 miles southwest of the Dora, Northwest (Cambrian and Strawn) field.

REEVES OUTPOST

Wayman W. Buchanan, operating from Midland, staked location for a 5,500-foot Delaware gas project in Reeves County, 10 miles west of Coynosa.

It is No. 2-11 J. B. Young, 467 feet from north and 2,960 feet from west lines of section 11, block 50, T-7, T&P survey.

The application to drill filed with the Railroad Commission of Texas designates the project as in the JBY (Delaware) field which produces six miles southwest of the new location.

The operation is 1/2 mile east of Buchanan No. 1-II Young which is an oil producer in the Worsham, Southwest (Delaware) field.

WARD RE-ENTRY

Texaco Inc. will re-enter an Ellenburger well in the Caprito multiphase area of Ward County and test for production in the Fusselman above 15,763 feet.

The project is No. 1-B State Gas Unit, 2,640 feet from north and 1,320 feet from east lines of section 15, block 18, University Lands survey and 11 miles northeast of Barstow.

It is 3/4 mile northwest of Fusselman gas production.

WINKLER OUTPOST

Rial Oil Co. of Midland No. 1-33-C Sealy-Smith is to be drilled 1.5 miles west of the Arenoso (Strawn Detritus) pool of Winkler County, 15 miles southeast of Kermil.

Sited for a 9,200-foot bottom, the project is 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 33, block A, G&M&B&A survey.

MIDLAND AREA

Union Oil Co. of California No. 1 Ben Winkelman is to be drilled as a gas project to 11,600 feet in the Spraberry Trend Area of Midland County, 11 miles southeast of Midland.

Drillsite is 990 feet from north and west lines of section 7, block 37, T-3-N, T&P survey. It is 3/4 mile southwest of Devonian gas production.

REEVES FIELD TRY

Gulf Oil Corp. No. 2-A Cook-State Gas Unit is to be drilled 1,320 feet north of production in the Worsham (Cherry Canyon) field, 8 miles southeast of Barstow.

Location is 3,300 feet from south and 4,813 feet from west lines of section 46, block 6, H&GN survey. It is contracted for a 6,500-foot bottom.

CRANE RE-ENTRY

Gulf Oil Corp. No. 7 W. N. Waddell and others attempt to complete it as the fourth Wolfcamp gas well in the Sand Hills, West field of Crane County.

Location is 665 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 4, block B-27, psd survey.

It originally was completed through perforations from 5,670 to 5,715 feet as the discovery well of the field.

The site is 12 miles northwest of Crane.

DAWSON TESTS

Warren American Oil Co. of Midland announced locations for a pair of projects in the Britt (Spraberry) area of Dawson County, seven miles northwest of Lamesa.

The No. 1 Britt is 1,650 feet south of production and 1,400 feet from south and east lines of section 16, block 3, Taylor County School Land survey.

No. 2 Britt is 5/8 mile southeast of production and 550 feet from south and east lines of section 16, block 3, Taylor County School Land survey.

Each of the tests is scheduled for an 8,200-foot bottom.

TERRY CONFIRMER

Texland-Rector & Schumacher of Fort Worth No. 2 Pauline Morgenstern is a confirmation test in the one-well Terryon (upper Clear Fork) field of Terry County, 15 miles northwest of Brownfield.

The 7,000-foot test is 2,400 feet from north and east lines of section 34, block D-11, SK&K survey.

STERLING TESTS

Grand Banks Energy Co. of Midland announced locations for two tests in the Deck (Cisco oil and gas) field of Sterling County, 19 miles southwest of Sterling City.

The field has two gas and two oil producers.

No. 2-A Hannah B. Bailey is one location southeast of gas production and 1/2 mile south of an oil producer. The location is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 23, block 2, T&P survey.

The No. 1-A Hannah B. Bailey is 1/2 mile west of gas and 3/8 mile southeast of oil production. It is 860 feet from north and 2,030 feet from east lines of section 23, block 2, T&P survey.

Each of the tests will be drilled to 8,400 feet.

YOAKUM TEST

North American Royalties, Inc., Tomlinson Oil Co. and Warren American Oil Co. will drill their No. 1 Sullivan in the Wasson, Northeast (Clear Fork) area of Yoakum County, five miles southeast of Plains.

The 5,500-foot operation is 660 feet from south and 2,310 feet from east lines of section 567, block D. J. H. Gibson survey. It was reported in error earlier that the test is 660 feet from the north lines of the section.

CROCKETT STEP-OUT

C. F. Lawrence & Associates, Inc., of Midland No. 1-I Todd has been spotted 1,500 feet east of a northeast extension area to the Howard Draw (Grayburg-San Andres gas) field of Crockett County, 17 miles northwest of Ozona.

The 1,600-foot test is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 55, block UV, GC&SP survey.

IRION WELL

Tucker Drilling Co., Inc., of San Angelo No. 1-60 Frank Lindley has been completed one location northwest of production in the Christi (Canyon 6800) sand field of Irion County, three miles south of Mertzon.

On 24-hour potential test it pumped 41.37 barrels of 38-gravity oil, no water, through perforations from 6,707 to 6,750 feet after 1,000 gallons of acid and 20,000 gallons of fracture solution. Gas-oil ratio is 628-1.

Wellsite is 1,911 feet from south and 1,812 feet from east lines of section 60, block 1, H&TC survey.

KIMBLE TEST

D. W. St. Clair of Midland No. 9 Johnson has been staked 7/8 mile southwest of the Doreen (1200 Strawn gas) field of Kimble County, eight miles southwest of Junction.

The 1,500-foot operation is 5,200 feet from south and 920 feet from east lines of T. Ward survey No. 377.

ARLEDGE AREA

Fisher-Webb, Inc., of Abilene announced plans to drill three projects in a two-well southwest extension area of the Arledge (Pennsylvanian) pool of Coke County, 10 miles northwest of Robert Lee.

No. 3 Cargile is one location northeast of production and 660 feet from north and east lines of section 308, block 1-A, H&TC survey.

No. 4 Cargile is one location north of production and 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 308, block 1-A, H&TC survey.

No. 2 Gartman will be drilled one location north of production and 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 308, block 1-A, H&TC survey.

The projects are contracted for 5,450-foot bottoms.

MARTIN SECTOR

Rial Oil Co. of Midland No. 1-39-A University has been staked in the Hutex (Dean) area of Martin County, 17 miles northwest of Stanton.

Sited for a 10,000-foot bottom, it is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 39, block 7, University Lands survey.

IRION TESTER

Energy Reserve Group, Inc., of Midland No. 4-69 Ela C. Sugg will be dug as a 6,600-foot test in the Spraberry Trend Area field of Irion County, 12 miles northeast of Barnhart.

The location is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 69, block 14, H&TC survey.

CORCO plan revealed

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Arabian Seacoil Corp. has made a formal proposal to acquire an interest in Commonwealth Oil Refining Co., Inc., Edward D. Doherty, CORCO president, announced.

Firm takes gamble

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — On what its president calls a gamble, a Phoenix company is going ahead with plans for an oil refinery to handle Alaskan crude oil at Mobile, 23 miles southwest of here.

"We've taken a huge gamble and have banked on the fact that we feel very confident that Sohio (Standard Oil Co. of Ohio) will obtain its permits and we will obtain the permits we need in Maricopa County," said J. Michael Donahoe, president of Provident Holding Co.

Donahoe said the decision to go ahead with the $180 million project was made after Standard Oil Co. of Ohio got federal approval to move crude Alaskan oil in a pipeline that will go from Long Beach, Calif., through Arizona and New Mexico to Texas.

Sohio still must get a permit from the California Air Quality Management District Board before it will be allowed to unload Alaskan crude oil at Long Beach.

The company will take over an existing natural gas pipeline that is not in use. The pipeline will carry crude oil to refineries at Midland, Texas.

Donahoe said his company has plans for what he called a "state-of-the-art" refinery that will meet air quality standards despite the high sulfur content of Alaskan crude oil.

The refinery will be built on 405 acres and could be in business within 40 months, he said. It would employ 175 persons and would handle 50,000 barrels of oil a day.

Ellenburger outpost site reported in Lea

Continental Oil Co., operating from Hobbs, N.M., announced location for a 1.5-mile northwest outpost to an unnamed Ellenburger discovery in Lea County, N. M., eight miles southwest of Eunice.

It is No. 10-E State, 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 17-22s-36e. It is scheduled for a 15,000-foot bottom.

The unnamed discovery is Atlantic Richfield Co. No. 1 Langlie Deep.

MORROW WELL

Texas Oil & Gas Corp. No. 1 Keohane-Federal Community has been completed one and seven-eighths miles southeast of the Shugart, North (Morrow and Atoka gas) field of Eddy County, N. M., 10 miles southeast of Loco Hills.

From the Morrow, it finished for a daily flowing potential of 1.375 million cubic feet of gas per day, through a 3/4-inch choke and perforations from 11,861 to 11,990 feet after 2,500 gallons of acid. Tubing pressure is 860 pounds.

The well is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 33-18s-31e. The wellsite is 3/4 mile west of Pennsylvanian gas production in the field.

MILLMAN WELL

Southland Royalty Co. of Midland No. 1-18 State Community has been finished in the Millman, South (Morrow) field of Eddy County, 17 miles southwest of Loco Hills.

Operator reported a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 557,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 9,666 to 9,704 feet. The pay was acidized with 4,500 gallons and fractured with 35,000 gallons.

Mining deal announced

DALLAS (AP) — Sunshine Mining Co. plans to begin uranium ore explorations in southeastern Utah as part of a resource expanding program, company officials announced Thursday.

David J. Wagon, president, said Sunshine has executed an option for a minimum three-year lease on approximately 36,000 acres in the San Rafael district of southeastern Utah. He said uranium has been mined from that area since the 1950s.

"We are very interested in uranium as another resource which can complement our existing development activities in silver mining and oil and gas production," Wagon said. "Within a couple of weeks we expect to begin an exploration program ... in order to further evaluate the potential of these properties."

Wagon also reported that net income for the second quarter reached $865,000 or 15 cents per share. He said that compares with $670,000 or 12 cents per share for the second quarter of 1977.

Gulf Oil agrees to pay $42.2 million refund

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gulf Oil Corp. has agreed to refund $42.2 million from its sales during the Arab oil embargo, avoiding a difficult legal defense against allegations it overcharged customers by $79.6 million.

Gulf said Thursday it made the compromise settlement despite faith in its legal defense.

The agreement ended a four-year fight with the government over allowable prices for imported oil.

It will be the largest settlement of its kind since the Federal Energy Administration, and later the Department of Energy, began investigating oil import pricing in 1974, but it will amount to no more than a "few bucks," to individuals, the department said.

"The compromise agreement has the advantage of avoiding lengthy litigation, expensive in both time and resources, and will result in a more rapid compensation of the public," said DOE special counsel Paul Bloom.

The refund, intended for the consumers who were overcharged, will be made first to the federal agency, minus direct payments from Gulf to customers with authenticated claims.

The remainder will be held in escrow until a repayment plan is devised, DOE said.

"There are potentially millions of individuals who might be able to trace, possibly, some small ... injury over a period of a year and a half," Bloom said.

The Gulf customer will have to meet "very stiff criteria" to support his claim, a DOE spokesman said.

The Energy Department also said Thursday it has virtually completed audits of the two largest oil companies, Exxon and Texaco, and that it has intensified audits of 11 other major firms.

The Gulf case involved oil transactions from the 1973 Arab oil embargo through May 1975, more than a year after the embargo ended.

In that time, world prices tripled, but domestic prices were controlled. Based on 1977 Federal Energy Administration calculations, major oil firms overcharged $1 billion in the period.

In 1974, the government began to monitor import transactions, concluding that Gulf's payments to its overseas affiliates exceeded agency-established limits.

Standard backs out

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Standard Oil Co. backed out of plans to be the prime tenant in a $70 million downtown office building, but Sohio's board chairman emphasized that the corporation will not leave Cleveland.

"The company has been based here since its founding 107 years ago," said chairman Alton W. Whitehouse. "I expect we'll be here for another 107 years."

The 22-story Sohio building was to have been built by a subsidiary of Rockefeller Center Inc. New York.

A spokesman for RCI in New York said the company will not go ahead with the project without Sohio.

Whitehouse said the decision was based on Sohio cash flow projections for the next few years.

"It is very clear that the considerable amount of cash needed to outfit and furnish a new office building can be used more effectively to undertake some attractive capital investment projects that have been deferred during the past few years due to our enormous Alaskan requirements," Whitehouse said.

Angry, defiant murder suspect dares accusers to convict him

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — An angry, defiant Theodore Bundy, indicted for the murders of two Florida State University sorority sisters who were savagely beaten as they slept, has dared his accusers to convict him.

"You told them that you were going to get me," Bundy told Leon County Sheriff Ken Katsaris Thursday night as Katsaris read him the indictment. "OK, you got the indictment. It's all you're going to get."

The indictment returned by a Leon County grand jury includes two counts of first-degree murder, three counts of attempted murder and two counts of burglary.

Bundy, 31, a convicted kidnapper and a suspect in a string of sex slayings in the West, was officially informed of the charges at a "first appearance" in county court this morning. He will not enter a plea until his arraignment, for which no date has been set.

He is being held without bond, and no date has been set for a bond hearing.

Bundy, in blue jeans, a tan turtle-neck sweater, a blue blazer and a leg brace, asked that noted Atlanta defense attorney Millard Farmer be allowed to represent him. But Judge Charles McClure denied the request, citing Circuit Judge John Rudd's refusal to allow Farmer to represent Bundy in several pre-indictment motions.

Farmer had turned down Rudd's request that he discuss with Rudd his views on lawyers talking to reporters.

Bundy then refused to answer Judge McClure when he was asked if he understood the charges.

The charges came six months and 12 days after a lone assailant entered the Chi Omega sorority house in the pre-dawn hours of Jan. 15. He crept unnoticed to the second floor of the building and bludgeoned the sleeping women with what authorities believe was a heavy club-like instrument, possibly a limb from a tree.

The assailant beat and seriously injured two other sorority sisters before he escaped, unnoticed, into the night.

Midland infant listed as serious

A 10-month-old Midland girl, Laura Williams, was listed in serious condition today in Midland Memorial Hospital, admitted with a head injury received in a traffic accident just west of the city on U.S. Highway 80 late Wednesday night.

A 17-year-old Midland girl, Pam Gamel, also injured in the accident with a fractured pelvis, and three other persons were released after treatment for injuries they received, a hospital spokesman said.

Miss Gamel was a passenger in a car driven by Vonn's Renfro, 21, of Odessa, reports indicated.

Miss Renfro was released after treatment for a jaw injury.

Marie Williams, 24, of Midland, mother Laura, was treated for minor abrasions, and her other daughter, Catherine Williams, 4, also was treated for similar minor injuries.

A spokesman for the Department of Public Safety in Midland said Mrs. Williams was driving a car westbound on U.S. Highway 80, and that the Renfro vehicle was traveling the same direction when the two cars collided.

Officers said both cars ended up in a ditch, where Mrs. Williams' car overturned.

City board members named

Appointments to boards and commissions were approved by the Midland City Council this week.

Serving two-year terms on the Board of Adjustment will be Daryl Farris and Ken Richards, who had been a previous alternate. Alternates to the board will be Paul Thorpe and Kenn George.

Ernest Neill was reappointed to a four-year term on the Board of Appeals while Robert B. Coleman will serve another two-year term on the City Development Advisory Committee.

Reappointed to the City Finance Commission for three-year terms are Bill Mewhorter and Wilbur Yeager. Mrs. Cecil (Puff) Aycock will serve two years on the Permian Basin Community Center for Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

Named to serve three-year terms on the Planning and Zoning Commission are Steve Drummond, Robert Southerland, June Melton and Mrs. William (Betty) Sumner.

Clarence Meekins and Fred Faulkner were reappointed to three-year terms on the Parks and Recreation Commission along with Mrs. William (Mary) Garay.

Seltzer expresses 'dismay' at jury

Attorneys for the state today expressed "outrage and dismay" at a Midland County jury's finding Eloy Garcia Arredondo guilty of aggravated assault in the shooting death of Leopoldo Gavia.

Arredondo was found guilty Thursday afternoon after a three-day trial in 238th District court and sentenced to 10 years imprisonment.

Gavia was shot May 14 in a Midland lounge. He died in a Midland hospital May 22.

Assistant District Attorney Charles "Bro" Seltzer today expressed dismay at the jury's not finding Arredondo, who had been indicted on a murder charge, guilty of a more serious offense.

The jury deliberated an hour and 40 minutes before returning the verdict and then a little less than an hour to determine punishment.

Impeachment hearings slated

JACINTO CITY, Texas (AP) — Jacinto City councilmen are expected to conduct an impeachment hearing within two weeks on a citizen's charge of official misconduct leveled at Councilman Allan R. Jamail.

Mayor J.D. Liles said Thursday he would set a trial date next week and expected the proceedings to begin the following week.

Lewis Jones, a long-time Jacinto City precinct election judge, presented a legal petition to councilmen two weeks ago claiming that as the councilman in direct liaison with the city's police department, Jamail allowed a fired officer to use police radios as well as Jamail's assigned frequency.

Gary Bonds is the former officer named in Jones' complaint.

"It's my responsibility as mayor to call the hearing," Liles said. Liles also has been named by disgruntled police officers in accusations of wrongdoing. Officers have said Liles provided Jamail with a number of blank signed search warrants.

City Attorney Jim DeFoyd said the entire council except Jamail will consider Jones' complaint in the same manner of justice of the peace court jury. DeFoyd said it will take a two-thirds majority of the empaneled councilmen to remove Jamail from office. If removed, Jamail would not be eligible for re-election for two years.

Masonic meeting here Saturday

The York Rite Masonic bodies of Midland will host approximately 20 or more grand officers from over the state at their festival Saturday at Masonic Temple, 1600 W. Wall St.

Frank E. Sauze of 1110 Ainslee St. and Sam E. Hilburn of 2603 Bedford St., both grand officers, are among those who will be attending the festival.

Registration will begin with coffee and donuts at 6:30 a.m. A light lunch at noon and a banquet at 6:30 p.m. will be served in the Temple by the Social Order of Beaucaents. A short form Shrine ceremonial at 9:30 p.m. will follow the conferral of the last Order by a team of 10 Grand Officers of the Grand Commandery of the Knights Templar of Texas.

James J. Johnson of 4607 Wilshire St. and a Past Commander of Midland Commandery No. 84 K.T. has been named honoree of the 1978 festival.

Items stolen

An estimated $633 worth of items ranging from a CB radio to a color television set were reported stolen from the home of James Voss in the 2400 block of Whitmire Boulevard early Thursday night, according to Midland police.

Authorities said there was no sign of forced entry. Voss said the items were discovered missing when he returned home from work, according to reports.

An hour later, a fifth woman was beaten in her off-campus apartment. Investigators have speculated the same person was responsible for both attacks.

The murder victims were Margaret Bowman, 21, and Lisa Levy, 20, both of St. Petersburg. Authorities have said that one of the women was sexually assaulted, although they've never said which one.

The three counts of attempted murder stemmed from the beatings of Karen Chandler, 21, Tallahassee, and Katherine Kleiner, 19, Miami, members of the sorority, and Cheryl Thomas, 22, Richmond, Va.

Bundy escaped from a jail in Glenwood Springs, Colo., on New Year's Eve. He was awaiting trial for first-degree murder in the 1975 death of Caryn Campbell, a Dearborn, Mich., nurse who was raped and killed while

Feller discusses career

Pitcher Bob Feller's fabulous career in baseball was reviewed briefly by Bob Feller himself at the Thursday noon meeting of the Midland Downtown Rotary Club in the Midland Hilton.

Feller, recognized as the "greatest living right-handed pitcher" and who won 266 baseball games in his major league career with the Cleveland Indians' presently is associated with the Hilton Hotel organization. He was in Midland to participate in a special promotion Thursday night at the Midland Cubs baseball game at Cubs Stadium.

The former big league star was introduced by Bill Rigney, general manager of the Midland Cubs. He said, in introducing the speaker, that Feller had not lost a ball game in 22 years, to which Feller responded, "No, and nor I haven't won one in the last 22 years either."

Feller praised minor league baseball and said it "is the greatest dollar receiving value there is for a family." He said that major league baseball could not survive without a minor league system.

He congratulated the Midland Cubs and urged support of the Texas League team by the community. He said that Midland Cubs Stadium is one of the finest facilities in minor league baseball.

Feller said that Pete Rose of the Cincinnati Reds right now is the hottest thing next to a sheriff's pistol.

Feller interspersed considerable humor with his observations, keeping his audience laughing much of the time.

The speaker, who was raised on a farm in Iowa, said that he had been interested in baseball as a boy and that he had determined early in life that he was going to be a professional baseball player. He told several stories of happenings in the early days of his career, and on through the years until his retirement.

He also related interesting incidents concerning other big leaguers of yesteryears, including the "toughest hitters of all times."

The speaker also told of working with baseball clubs in Japan as a consultant and compared the Japanese game with American baseball.

He concluded by saying, "Baseball is a lot of fun for everyone."

Proposed measure would cut taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $16.2 billion tax-cut bill is heading for the House floor and a struggle to expand it and make it more to the liking of President Carter, who opposes its reduction of the capital gains tax.

The House Ways and Means Committee, which had held up the legislation for months, approved the bill 25-12 Thursday night in a flurry of last-minute compromises.

The bill would provide about $12.3 billion in income tax relief to individuals, the remainder to corporations.

The measure would cut taxes by $71 for a single person earning $15,000 a year and $160 for a single person earning $25,000. A childless couple would see a cut of $39 at the $10,000-income level, $6 at $15,000 and $160 at $25,000.

A couple with two children would save $62 if earning $10,000, $77 if making $15,000 and $232 if earning $25,000.

One late change given an excellent chance of House approval would — in the great majority of cases — eliminate the capital gains tax on profits from the sale of a home.

on a skiing vacation in Aspen.

Bundy had been transferred to Colorado from Utah, where he was serving a 1-to-15-year term for kidnapping a Salt Lake City woman.

Authorities said Bundy arrived in Tallahassee no later than Jan. 7. Called a master of disguise by law officials, Bundy had assembled a new identity in Tallahassee, using a credit card and a student identification card to pose as a former FSU track star.

When he was arrested Feb. 15 in Pensacola, while driving a car reported stolen in Tallahassee, he so resembled his new persona that police announced the arrest of the FSU runner. It wasn't until the FBI checked his fingerprints that police realized they were holding the subject of a nationwide manhunt. The FBI had named Bundy to their 10-Most Wanted List Feb. 10.

Gonzales wins in Heavy Varmint

Tom Gonzales of San Antonio won the 100-yard aggregate championship in the first round of action in the Heavy Varmint category of the National Benchrest Rifle Shooters Association national championships here Thursday. Gonzales aggregate score for his 100-yard rounds was 2690. Walt Berger, president of the NBRSA and holder of more world records than any other benchrest shooter, finished behind Gonzales in the matches. Harold Broughton of Big Spring, who just Wednesday won the Light Varmint National Championship, finished third. Broughton's consistently high finishes make him a candidate to win the three-gun championship for the top combined score in all three classes of competition.

Today is the final day of the tournament with the Heavy Varmint 200-yard relay the only action left on the schedule. An awards ceremony will be held at the Midland Shooters Association gun range, southeast of town, at 5 p.m.

- Heavy Varmint 100-yard rounds
1. Tom Gonzales, San Antonio, 2690; 2. Walt Berger, Overland Park, Kan., 2600; 3. Harold Broughton, Big Spring, 2512; 4. J.M. Penrod, North Manchester, Ind., 2507; 5. J.C. Minsky, Kansas City, Mo., 2502; 6. Ron Pringle, Orlando, Fla., 2500; 7. Ron Heston, Pleasanton, Mo., 2498; 8. Rex Hensel, Bethany, Ok., 2483; 9. Joe Rappoport, Langview, 2480; 10. F. Hassauer, Shelbyville, Ind., 2452.

TULSA'S RICK Lisl puts tag on Midland's Eric Grandy as he tried to score from third on a miss-fired bunt. It was one of the few times a Midland runner failed to make it home as the Cubs pounded out a 14-3 win at Cubs Stadium Thursday night. (Staff photo by Mike Kardos).

Hancock, Nelson share GHO lead

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Phil Hancock and Larry Nelson both carded 7-under-par 64s to share the lead after the first round of the $210,000 Sammy Davis Junior-Greater Hartford Open.

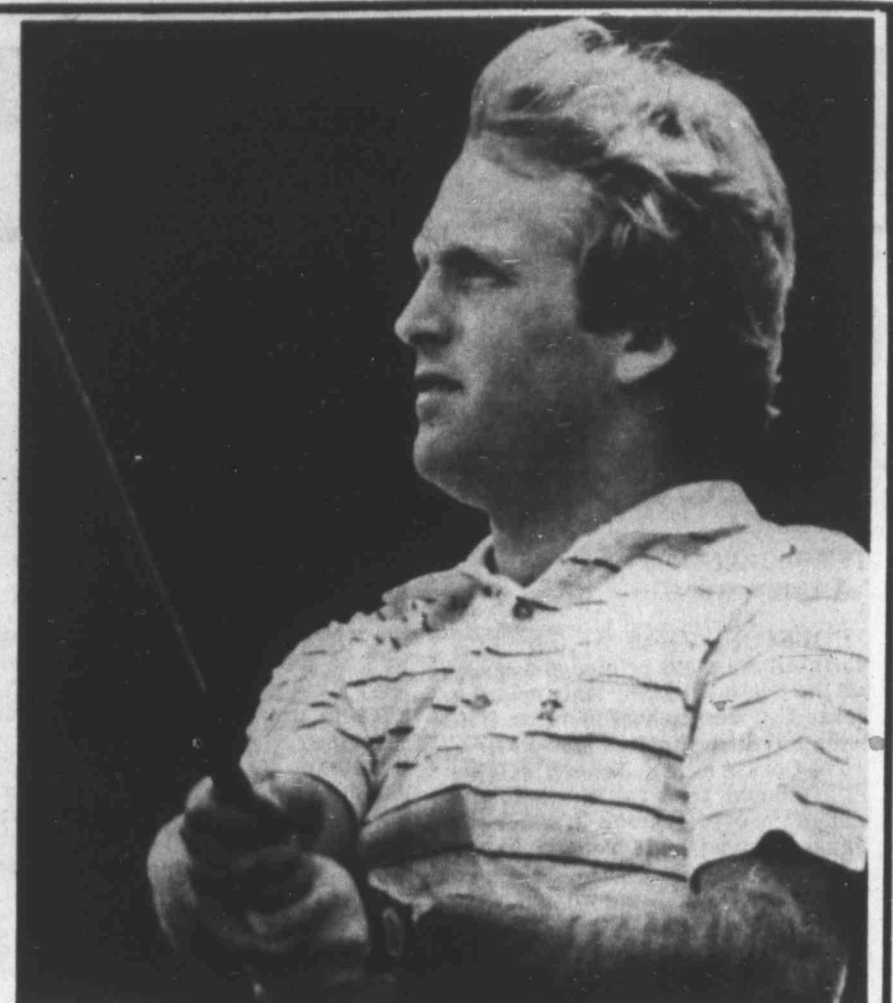

Rod Funseth was 1 stroke behind at 65, along with Artie McNickle and Jim Colbert.

There were six golfers bunched at 5-under 66: George Archer, Dale Douglass, Gil Morgan, Rex Caldwell, Lou Graham and defending champion Bill Kratzert.

COLOGNE, West Germany — Severino Ballesteros of Spain and Britain's Nick Faldo shot course-record 64s, 8 under par, to share the first-round lead in the $60,000 German Open golf tournament.

Simon Hobday shot a 66 to finish in a third-place tie with South African countryman John Fourie and Britain's John Morgan.

Gary Player of South Africa was at 67 along with Americans Bob Beaman and John Benda, Maurice Bembridge and John Fowler of Britain, and Ireland's John O'Leary.

Phil Hancock ties for GHO lead at seven-under par.

the silver medal in 3:36.48, followed by Algeria's Amar Brahmia in 3:37.33.

Ethiopia's Yohannes Mohamed gave his country its first gold medal with a win in the 5,000-meter race in 13:44.39. Kenya's Michael Musyoki won the silver medal in 13:44.79, followed by Tanzania's Niambi Selemani in 13:49.60.

Algeria's Sakina Boutamine took the women's 1,500 meters in 4:16.43, followed by two Kenyans, Anna Kippop and Rose Thomson, in 4:19.59 and 4:20.07.

Ghana's sprinters set African records in winning the men's 400-meter and women's 1,600-meter relays in 39.24 and 3:35.55, respectively. The Nigerian team won the other two relays, the women's 400 meters and the men's 1,600 meters, in 4:43.63 and 3:03.24, respectively.

Algeria's Mohamed Bensaad took the final event of the decathlon, the 1,500 meters, and decisively won the gold medal with 7,338 points.

Saviano upsets No. 6 Stockton

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Unseeded Nick Saviano upset No. 6 Dick Stockton while Brian Gottfried, Eddie Dibbs and Manuel Orantes also advanced to the quarter-finals of the $175,000 Louisville International Tennis Classic.

Saviano beat Stockton 6-7, 7-4, 6-4. The top-seeded Gottfried polished off unseeded Terry Moor 6-3, 6-4. Dibbs, the No. 2 seed, beat No. 9 Jose Higueras of Spain 6-3, 6-4, while Orantes, the third seed, beat No. 10 Jaime Fillo of Chile 6-2, 6-2.

In other matches involving seeded players, No. 8 John Alexander beat fellow Australian Rod Frawley 6-7, 6-2, 6-4, and No. 7 Wojtek Fibak of Poland beat No. 16 Victor Amaya 2-6, 7-5, 6-3.

In a match involving two unseeded players, Patricio Cornejo of Chile beat John Austin 6-3, 6-7, 6-2.

HILVERSUM, Netherlands — Tom Okker downed second-seeded Buster Mottram of Great Britain 7-6, 7-5 in the quarter-finals of the Dutch Open tennis championships.

In another quarter-final match, Peter Elter of West Germany beat No. 4 seed Partick Proisy of France 6-2, 3-6, 6-3.

ALGIERS — Filbert Bayi won the men's 1,500-meter race at the African Games in 3 minutes, 36.21 seconds. Kenya's Wilson Waigwa took

Controversy swirls around THSCA

HOUSTON — Baylor football coach Grant Teaff gets more than a little irritated over the suggestion that the Southwest Conference would be better off without its private school members.

The usually mild-mannered coach is also "sick and tired" of Arkansas leaving the SWC scene as voiced by Razorbacks' athletic director Frank Broyles.

Add Teaff's comments about the Porkers and the fact that Houston Madison basketball star Greg Kite was a winner Wednesday when U. S. District Court Judge Finis E. Cowan put a dent on the UIL rule—a source of controversy the last few years—by granting Kite the temporary injunction that will allow the 6-foot-11 athlete the opportunity to attend basketball camps in Georgia and California without losing his eligibility his senior year, has given the 50 sports scribes in attendance at the 46th Annual Texas High School Coaches Association's Coaching School here a lot to write about.

BAILEY MARSHALL, the UIL director general, conceded his organization must now "re-examine" the rule that was instituted in 1963 after the late Archie Porter took his entire Dallas Jefferson team to a Colorado camp and won the state title the next season.

"We'll meet with our various committees and try to come up with something we can vote on next spring," Marshall said after consulting with the league's attorneys. "But what happens if the schools don't change the rule? This bothers me."

MEANWHILE, TEAFF was obviously upset over the attitude of Arkansas and feels like it is hurting the conference.

While the Baylor coach was making his remarks to the sports writers, Arkansas football coach Lou Holtz was addressing the clinic for high school coaches across the street.

"The conference was just fine when the Razorbacks had a 5-5 record in 1976 and just as fine when they were 11-1 in 1977," Teaff said.

COMPLAINTS BY Arkansas have dealt with what the Porkers feel is poor officiating and poor pay days when playing the private schools on the road.

"I'm totally sympathetic with some of their problems, but some of them are not valid-officiating for example," Teaff said.

As for finances, Teaff said, "We have paid them (Arkansas) more for playing in Waco than they have paid us for playing in Fayetteville." Texas coach Fred Akers said, "I can't speak for Arkansas. They have to do what they feel is best for them. Geographically, they fit right in with the Big Eight, but philosophically, they are Southwest Conference."

TEAFF CLOSED his comments on the subject by directing his ire at a

Pokes stage scrimmage

Another rookie, fullback Todd Christensen, scored from the seven, while Preston Pearson and Tony Dorsett also danced to paydirt.

Dorsett broke around right end during 40-yard line scrimmage work and scampered into the end zone, as did second-year fullback Larry Brinson.

Hard hitting forced three Cowboy regulars to the bench Thursday. Center John Fitzgerald, who had an off-season knee injury, turned up with fluid on the knee. Safety Randy Hughes was sidelined with a sore foot and tight end Billy Joe DuFree was benched because of a hand injury.

DuFree split the webbing in his right hand catching a pass Wednesday and required nine stitches. Team doctors say he will miss a couple more days of practice.

Doctors also said guard Tom Rafferty and tackle Jim Bidson will not play in Saturday's annual inter-squad scrimmage.

Arthritis hits Dobler

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — All-pro guard Conrad Dobler plays on knees that are crippled by arthritis, a condition that is so serious that many were surprised he passed his physical exam upon joining the New Orleans Saints, it was reported today. The Times-Picayune quoted sources in St. Louis as saying there were raised eyebrows when the Saints acquired Dobler from the Cardinals. One source said that former Cardinal Coach Don Coryell was surprised at the four-player trade that sent Dobler to New Orleans because he felt the big guard might not pass the Saints' physical.

Reggie returns to fold

NEW YORK (AP) — Reggie Jackson slumped on a stool in the New York Yankees' clubhouse, a half-empty bottle of beer dangling from his hand and the weight of the world seemingly on his shoulders.

He spoke softly and his expression was one of despair after his first baseball action in 10 days — four singles, a home run and four RBI in eight at-bats in the Yankees' wild 11-0, 5-17 Thursday doubleheader split with the Cleveland Indians. He didn't perk up until someone asked if his welcome home — a solid chorus of boos which eventually changed to cheers — had drained him either emotionally or physically.

"I'm not drained at all," he insisted. "I could play another game."

IT WAS Jackson's first appearance since his celebrated bunting episode of July 17. And just as he had been the focal point of the last 10 days with a five-day suspension that eventually led to Manager Billy Martin's resignation, so did he grab the spotlight with his lusty hitting on his return.

The controversial slugger delivered a pair of run-scoring singles and a solo homer in the opener before the Indians scored nine runs in the first inning of the nightcap. Catfish Hunter failed to retire a batter for the first time in his career and Duane Kuiper drove in six runs with a pair of bases-loaded triples off Bob Kammeyer.

Jackson, who had been reduced to a part-time designated hitter by Martin, played right field in both games. He was booed each time his name was announced until his third at-bat in the opener, when he received a mixed reception. He promptly lined a home run over the center field fence and from that point on the cheers outnumbered the jeers.

JACKSON CALLED his reception "not too bad. A few people were on me, but that's okay as long as they don't bring your family into it or get physical. I'll probably get booed for a long time by a lot of people, but it forces you to concentrate more."

"Some people down the right-field line were on me all day long, but it wasn't anything really bad. They weren't foul-mouthed; they weren't even really nasty. In fact, some of them were saying, 'Bunt, bunt,' all day. It takes something to come up with that."

Cowboys, Raiders get Super nod

RENO, Nev. (AP) — The defending champion Dallas Cowboys and the Oakland Raiders have been tabbed as favorites to reach the Super Bowl in the coming National Football League season.

Harrah's Racebook listed the Cowboys as 2-to-1 favorites to win another National Football Conference title and the Raiders were 12-5 picks to win the AFC.

Odds on other NFC teams: Los Angeles 7-2, San Francisco 6-1, Minnesota 8-1, Detroit and Chicago 15-1, Washington 20-1, St. Louis and Philadelphia 30-1, Atlanta 40-1, New York Giants 50-1, New Orleans 75-1, Green Bay 100-1, Tampa Bay 200-1.

Lemon, Martin switch once was discussed

CHICAGO (AP) — American League President Lee MacPhail suggested "six or seven weeks ago" that the New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox might consider trading managers, the Chicago Tribune said today.

Optimist eliminated from Sophomore play

ANDREWS — Midland's Breakfast Optimist completed play in the Sophomore playoff tournament here Thursday with a 7-5 loss to the Odessa Police Department.

Midland was leading the contest 5-2 Wednesday when rain forced the rest of the game to be completed Thursday morning.

Odessa, however, came back to win the contest with a two-run homer in the fifth and a three-run blast in the seventh. Randy Pepper suffered the loss.

"Both clubs were going bad, and I have great respect for Billy Martin and Bob Lemon," MacPhail told the Tribune in a copyright story in today's final editions.

"I just threw out the possibility of a switch (of Martin and Lemon)," MacPhail added. "I talked to both clubs, and they seemed interested. Since then, both teams went on winning streaks and it was all forgotten."

In the meantime, too, the White Sox fired Lemon and replaced him with Larry Doby. Then this week, Martin resigned under fire as Yankees manager and was replaced by Lemon.

White Sox President Bill Veeck said he had not talked to the Yankees about a possible manager trade, nor had the Yankees talked to anyone in the Sox organization.

But Veeck did not deny that MacPhail had approached him about the matter. "That's all I'm going to say," Veeck told the Tribune.
