Special session enters last full week

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - It was T-minus nine days and counting today as legislators in special session sought votes to adopt a tax relief program to please Gov. Dolph Bri-

The 30-day session must end by midnight Aug. 8, and nothing on Briscoe's lengthy agenda had received final legislative approval as the special session went into the last full wishful thinking, voted to adjourn at 6 p.m. Tuesday. The House, however, has not set a time to quit.

A now-you-have-it, now-you-don't 100th vote escaped Speaker Bill Clayton on Friday, but he predicted that the House today will get the twothirds majority it needs to approve a property tax relief package.

The House and Senate also scheduled debate on a bill to consolidate all property appraisals for tax purposes within a county in a single countywide appraisal office.

The bill, by Rep. Wayne Peveto, D-Orange, also would establish a board to set statewide appraisal standards and issue manuals and forms to guide local appraisal officials.

It appeared the House had concluded three days of debate Friday by adopting a broad tax relief proposal, but the disappearance of Rep. Betty Denton, D-Waco, dropped the vote to 99-42 on the recount.

The proposed constitutional amend ment would

- Require the Legislture to exempt up to $10,000 worth of a home's value from school taxes, with another $10,-000 exemption for the elderly and disabled.

- Exempt one car per family from property taxes.

Require an absolute majority of the Legislature, not just those voting, to pass any tax increase or repeal

Peveto's bill on tax uniformity has been changed since 1977, when it failed in the Senate after clearing the

"I think the concept is good," says Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, "but it is difficult to know how it would work in practice. It has been improved in some respects since last session, but one concept that has less appeal is the automatic cap on local spending."

Arabic-speaking men take control of Iraqi embassy

PARIS (AP) - Three Arabicspeaking men armed with submachine guns shot their way into the Iraqi Embassy today, and two of them barricaded themselves inside with several embassy employees as hostages, witnesses said.

Two members of the embassy staff were injured, said an employee who fled. The third gunman fled the scene when the shooting began, police

"I don't know who committed this attack," said Iraqi Ambassador Mundhir Tawfik al-Wandawi after a previously scheduled meeting with President Valery Giscard d'Estaing at the presidential palace.

Wandawi, who was not at the embassy when it was attacked said he would authorize French police to storm the building if they decided to and "if it's necessary.

The attack began shortly before 10 a.m. when the three men first claimed they had an appointment, then, when queried by embassy guards, drew weapons and opened up with a wild barrage, witnesses said.

Lebanese regulars withdrew from southern Lebanon after a two-week war with the Palestinians in 1973 that ended with an agreement giving the guerrillas free run of the area. Crocket County candidate files damage suit against four officials

By GUY SULLIVAN

OZONA - A candidate for a county commissioner spot here has filed a $240,000 damage suit against four Crockett County officials in federal court in San Angelo, alleging that persons named in the petition "conspired" to influence the outcome of a special commissioner's election held last January

Sostenes Dehoyos, who will face Precinct 1 Commissioner Jess Marley in an Aug. 12 special election, also sought attorney fees in the latest of a series of suits he has filed over the last two years while trying to obtain the county post.

This action marks the fifth lawsuit filed by DeHoyos through his attorney, Luis Segura of San Antonio.

Dehoyes charged that Mexican-Americans have been denied the right to vote in certain county commissioner elections during the past two years as a result of the actions of the officials named in the lawsuit.

Those officials DeHoyos charged with being responsible for various voting irregularities during some special county commissioner elections include Precinct 1 Commissioner Jess Marley, Janice Marley, County Clerk Leta Powell, Deputy County Clerk Jean North and Deputy County Voter Registrar Tommy Stokes.

In 1975, the county reapportioned precinct lines under the one-man, one-vote rule. In 1976, Texas came under the Voting Rights Act of 1965. The redistricting plan was never approved by the U.S. Justice Department as required by law. Now officials say the original districts are still being used.

The suit filed late last week is the latest in a series of a continuing battles between Marley and DeHoyos for the commissioner post in Precinct 1. The dispute first reached the courts in July 22, 1976, when four Ozona citizens sought a restraining order to prevent the November 1976 general elections from taking place in Crockett County, charging that reapportionment of the districts had not been approved by the U.S. Justice Department

A federal court threw that election's results out and ordered the November 1976 election for Precinct 1 set aside

The same court said new elections were to be held on Dec. 10, 1977. Since no candidate won a majority of votes in the December elections, a run-off election was held Jan. 7, 1978.

The allegations in the latest complaint relate to that run-off election, the results of which were set aside and rescheduled by 63rd District Court Judge George Thurmond of Del Rio who ruled that the Jan. 7 run-off was invalid. He ordered a new elec-

Peace Justice Bobby West set bond at $25,000 for Ralph Thorp Jr. of Big Spring, who was arrested at 8: 40 a.m. Sunday. He remained in Big Spring City Jail at noon today.

According to officials, Ramsey was in the company of a female friend at the time of the shooting. "The victim was shot once in the back of the head with a .22-caliber semi-automatic rifle on a dark road in the southwest part of Big Spring by an acquaintance he had picked up, according to the woman who was in the car at the time," said Lt. Claude I. Morris of the Big Spring police

"The woman said the man later tied both her hands and feet with bailing wire and ditched her somewhere near his home. She managed to get her feet untied and went to a neighbor's house to call police," said Morris.

Ramsey subsequently was found dead, slumped between the bucket seats of his 1960 Chevrolet, which was parked between two tall cedar trees near the end of Thorpe Street, Morris said.

materials," Smith said. Houseflies ingest only liquid food materials due to the mechanics of their mouth, he said. Using saliva, the fly turns solids to liquids and feeds.

The housefly's legs and feet are "well suited" for picking up material from the surface upon which it walks. "Since breeding occurs in various manures and rotted organic material. it can be readily seen that organisms present in this material can be easily transferred to edible material."

Flies generally stay close to their hatching areas.

"Most flies fly no more than 200 to 300 yards from the breeding site," Smith said. "The flies in your backyard have probably spent their entire lifetime within eye-sight of your back

That the same people "conspired together" to influence non-residents to vote in Precinct 1.

That the same people "conspired together" to persuade people registered in other precincts to change their registration to Precinct 1 and to vote in Precinct 1.

- That Tommy Stokes registered people to vote in Precinct 1 even though he knew, or should have known, that these persons were not Precinct 1 residents and that he failed to remove improperly registered persons from the registration rolls.

- That the actions of Leta Powell, Jean North, Tommy Stokes and Jess Marley "represent a pattern of persistent discriminatory practices by Crockett County officials.

Regarding the allegation that County Clerk Leta Powell along with Jean North, Jess Marley and Janice Marley "actually removed votes which were lawfully cast from the absentee ballot boxes," as the complaint claims, Ms. Powell earlier had testified that she did contest absentee ballots cast by persons who were on a list of people the Marleys charged were not county residents.

Ms. Powell testified she allowed those persons to cast votes, but placed them in color-coded envelopes which she later removed from the ballot box and placed in a box of contested ballots. She testified she never told any of the persons voting that she was contesting their ballots

Her testimony in 112th District Judicial District Court in Ozona on March 28, 1978, further indicated that if Mrs. Powell did not know if a person was actually telling the truth about his or her residency, she would hand that person a"different colored envelope and they would drop it in the box. And when the box was filled, I would take that colored - that one out and put it in the contested box.

Her testimony concerned the disputed county run-off of Jan. 7, 1978, according to records.

Leta Powell and Tommy Stokes could not be reached by phone over the weekend for comment on the law-

An attorney, Charles Sherrill of Sonora, said Janice Marley could not comment because she had not received any papers on the matter. Sherrill, reached at the Marley home by phone, said he represents her, but speculated Jess Marley may be represented by Crockett County legal counsel. Marley was not at home.

Jean North said she preferred not to comment on the suit until she had read its contents herself.

Sherrill said,"We feel the suit is a form of harrassment. I fail to see the reason for it. Mr. Marley has been elected and re-elected 12 times over the 10-year period he has served on the Crockett County Commissioner's

He said people in Crockett County first heard of the lawsuit from the news media.

Trial charging program inspired rape may affect future programs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - The outcome of an $11 million negligence suit, charging that an NBC television movie inspired the rape of a 9-yearold girl on a San Francisco beach, could pose a huge question for the future of TV programming. The trial begins today in San Francisco Superior Court.

Seeking $1 million in compensatory damages and $10 million in punitive damages, Valeria Niemi of San Francisco claims in her suit against NBC-TV and its local affiliate, KRON, that the three girls who raped her 9-yearold daughter with a beer bottle were imitating a scene from the television movie "Born Innocent.

The film profiled the life of a runaway teen-ager, portrayed by actress Linda Blair, who was sexually assaulted with the wooden handle of a plumber's plunger during her stay in a reformatory

Mrs. Niemi's daughter was attacked four days after the film was aired on Sept. 10, 1974.

At a pretrial news conference, NBC attorney Floyd Abrams said there are conflicting statements about whether the girls, and the boy who stood lookout for them, actually saw "Born Innocent." The four youngsters, aged 10 to 15 at the time of the attack, were charged in juvenile proceedings and put on probation.

Abrams said he would argue the film did not spawn the attack. He said a defeat in the case could have widereaching effects on television by intimidating future portrayals of "life

'Dry' forces gain order

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - An attorney for the dry forces in Abilene's controversial local option election last month says a temporary restraining order has been issued by a state district judge here prohibiting the Alcoholic Beverage Commission from granting beverage permits in the West Texas city.

Buck Wood said Sunday the order was obtained Friday from State District Court Judge Charles Mathews. Wood said the action was brought on behalf of two Abilene residents who are challenging the legality of a second canvass of the June 17 election. According to Wood, the order will remain in effect until an Aug. 7 hearing on the suit in Austin.

The results of the June election found the wets with 11,591 votes and the drys with 11,160.

Chamber official elected state post

EL PASO-Fred Tyler, executive vice president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, has been elected vice president of the Texas Chamber of Commerce Managers Association. The election took place during the annual conference of the association held here July 16-18.

Tyler's duties as vice president of the 300-member organization not only include presiding in the absence of the president but also working with the poard to establish the program and goals of the organization.

Defense attorney Marvin Lewis said, "It's merely our contention that the particular scene, which was graphic and unnecessary for the telling of the plot, caused harm to an innocent victim.

Lewis contended that "there is no question that children and young people learn by imitation," saying that studies back him up.

The two-hour film, aired at 7:30 p.m. in some areas and 8 p.m. in others, helped force creation of "family-hour" programming, in which the FCC banned sex and violence in the early evening.

But the state Court of Appeals overturned that decision, saying that dismissal of the suit violated the Niemi girl's right to a trial on the question of whether the movie provoked the rape. NBC then went to the U.S. Supreme Court, which refused to hear the ap-Abrams said the case poses a threat

Odessa youths detained in robbery investigation

ODESSA — Odessa Police officers took into custody a juvenile and a 17-year-old Sunday in connection with a string of three reported robberies which occurred the same day, according to authorities.

Both suspects were picked up on the south side of the city Sunday morning and afternoon, said officers.

Police first responded at about 4 a.m. Sunday to a report of a robbery at a convenience store located at Clements and South Bryant in which two suspects took an undetermined amount of cash. Then about 5 a.m., a service station at Interstate 20 and South Grant was reported robbed by a pair matching the same description as given in the earlier robbery, police said. In each case, the persons responsible got away, said officers.

At approximately 7:40 a.m. Sunday, one man reportedly robbed a clerk at another convenience store at

Farmers work as statisticians

AUSTIN - Farmers in Midland County have been doubling as statisticians in completing questionnaires which become essential links in the sophisticated economic structure of Texas agriculture, according to Commissioner Reagan V. Brown.

The county's producers were part of some 30,000 farmers across the state who recently responded to a midyear survey on summer acreage and production conducted by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Ser-

The results of this survey will be issued in an Aug. 10 crop report which is to be available free of charge. "Without the availability of unbiased, accurate figures through cooperation between Texas farmers and the Reporting Service, business and government agencies from one end of the state to the other would suffer in their ability to predict coming trends and act accordingly," Brown said. He explained that the farmers gunpoint, escaping with an undetermined amount of cash.

Officers said they placed the juvenile in custody shortly after the third robbery. They said a weapon along with a small amount of cash was recovered. At approximately 2:30 p.m. Sunday, police said, they arrested the 17-year-old in connection with two of the alleged robberies.

Soggy Tropical Storm Amelia turned northward early today, aiming her howling 50 mph winds and heavy wind-driven rainfall at sparsely populated South Texas ranchland.

The storm moved inland late Sunday just north of Brownsville only about five hours after the system gained enough strength to move from tropical depression to tropical storm Keeping her tropical storm designation by apparently having enough of the system remaining over the warm water of the Gulf of Mexico, Amelia was moving northward at 12 mph., forecasters said.

At 5 a.m., Amelia was located near latitude 28.0 north, longitude 97.8 west, a short distance northeast of Texas city.

As it moved first northwestward and later northward, the storm moved across portions of the huge, famous King Ranch, one of Texas' largest and most well-known ranching operations. There were no immediate reports of damage.

No injuries were reported, but three shrimp boats sank offshore from Brownsville. The storm drenched South Padre Island, a slender resort island just off the coast, with up to four inches of rainfall. Some power outages were reported on the island.

Two U.S. Coast Guard helicopters fought heavy rain and 30-mile-anhour winds for several hours Sunday night, hovering over the crews of sinking shrimpers in an attempt to pluck them from the 10-to 12-foot

One of the shrimpers broke up and sank near the jetties off South Padre Island when a "big wave" swamped the vessel, according to the captain. The crew of the shrimper, the Margaret Webster of Brownsville, was pulled from the churning waters by the crew of another shrimp boat, the Betty Margaret. No one was reported Coast Guard helicopters were also dispatched from New Orleans and Corpus Christi.

"I don't know how much good they'll do," a Coast Guard official said concerning the helicopters. "It's pretty rough out there and they have their own lives to think about.

But rescue operations continued. "There are people in danger out there. We're stretching our resources to the thinnest right now," said one Coast Guard spokesman at the Port

Isabel station. Forecaster Gil Clark, at the National Hurricane Center in Miami; had said Amelia "was not a particularly strong storm," and was not likely to gain more intensity unless it moves back out over the water. Al Druemont, a Brownsville meteoologist, said that the coast was doubly blessed by the storm. Because it arrived but wasn't too serious, he said, "this is a darn good excuse for people to practice their preparedness

Druemont said residents along the Lower Texas Coast could expect heavy rains in the wake of the

"We named it to be on the safe side," Clark said. "It's probably not going to do much damage. It's just too close to shore to develop into anything

The storm was detected as a tropical depression earlier in the day and reconnaissance planes were dispatched. Radar and satellite photos indicated that the disturbance reached tropical storm strength about 6 p.m. CDT, the center said in a

Winds near Amelia's center reached sustained force of 50 mph and gales extended 100 miles to the east and 50 miles to he west, the center

A depression is classed a tropical storm and named when sustained winds reach 38 mph. It becomes a hurricane when winds reach 73 mph.

Tell the Reds 'NO!'

Even if the Carter administration could reach a meeting of minds with the Russians on arms control, which is far from certain, ratification of a new SALT accord by the Senate this year appears to be increasingly remote.

Moscow has been anything but helpful in recent weeks with harsh sentences meted out to Soviet dissidents and fines imposed upon United States journalists.

And the furor over United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young's statement about U.S. political prisoners has made some senators more irascible than usual about U.S.-Soviet relations.

But these issues are, actually, irrelevant to limiting the arms race. Senate uncertainty about an arms agreement finds a real basis in the relentless Soviet arms buildup, in Soviet aggrandizement around the world, and in Soviet intransigence on armslimitation terms. To these serious negatives must be added a growing unease about America's sagging military posture.

The Russians demonstrated their toughness anew in two days of hard bargaining at Geneva with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance; negotiators failed to break the long-time deadlock on limiting strategic bombers and missiles questions that go to the very heart of the whole SALT enterprise.

The bomber dispute exposes the unreasonableness of the Soviets, and their unrealistic terms. Although this country's aging B-52 bombers are counted as strategic weapons and, therefore, limited under the SALT agreement, the Russians insist that their powerful new Backfire bomber, which could lay waste the United States with nuclear bombs, be outside SALT ceilings.

In a major bid for agreement last September, the administration conceded this vital point while asking for less rigid "collateral constraints." The Soviet Union stubbornly refuses to accept the slightest restriction on its new bomber and offers only to provide a statement by Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev promising not to use the Backfire against the United States.

But this is only one part of the SALT problem.

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., a pivotal figure in the Senate arms debate. warns that a new SALT agreement must take into account the growing vulnerability of the U.S. missile deterrent. He estimates that within seven years or sooner. 90 percent of America's Minuteman and Titan missiles could be destroyed by a surprise attack because of a new generation of powerful, accurate Soviet

Until the United States can offset Soviet missile superiority, an interim Pentagon plan calls for shuffling the Minuteman from silo to silo to keep the Russians from knowing where to aim an attack. Our strategic concerns are compounded by the fact that one-half of the U.S. missile firepower must rely for delivery on the outmoded B-52 bombers which could stand little chance of getting past 2,680 Soviet interceptor aircraft and an estimated 10,000 anti-aircraft missile launchers.

The cruise missile, a subsonic, pilotless craft of great accuracy. is America's strongest card at the moment, but the Russians are said to have all but neutralized this system by getting U.S. negotiators to limit its range under the new SALT terms.

A cursory examination of the SALT issues suggests the complexity of strategic problems in the nuclear age through which we

And yet, the average American can sense through all the complications that something is seriously amiss in the arms talks if the Russians, after negotiations dating back to the Ford administration, are still insisting that we accept a Brezhnev promise as an integral part of a new treaty. And because time is not necessarily our ally in the matter of nuclear survival, it would seem the Carter administration should countenance no further delay in obtaining an acceptable new arms limitation treaty or, that failing, in looking to our strategic defenses.

We should have said "hell no" to the Reds a long time ago - and stood pat on it. Each day, week, month and year that the U.S. has negotiated, the Communists have gone right ahead in turning out more and more military might.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Cambodia's rule of terror told

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - From eyewitness accounts and intelligence reports, we have written about the horrifying mass slaughter of men, women and children who belonged to the old order in Cambodia.

But there is another story, just as grim, about the people who have managed to survive in the radical and primitive culture that the communist conquerors have created in Cam-a story that should stir everyone who calls himself a member of the human race. Already, in response to our past columns, Americans by the thousands have called upon Congress and the United Nations to brand Cambodia as an outlaw nation.

The Khmer Rouge have completely cowed the Cambodian populace by demonstrating that they will bludgeon to death anyone who steps out of line. Mistakes that wouldn't even be considered misdemeanors in the United States are punishable by death in Cambodia.

There are two levels of crimes. Those who arrive for work late, work too slowly, feign illness or mistreat their children are guilty of first-level violations. The offenders are "sent to Kosang," explained a man who worked for the Khmer Rouge in Sisophan. 'Kosang' means "reconstruction."

"If you are caught twice, you are sent to Kosang again," he said. "If you are caught a third time, you are dead."

Just about all other crimes are capital offenses. "If you are caught for these, you will be killed the first time. They kill you by bludgeoning you," said a man who escaped from Odar Mean Chey province.

What are some typical capital offences? "Gathering with more than three people of different families, complaining about working conditions or food allocations," replied the refugee. "Even visiting a friend in his home is prohibited."

e is also strictly controlled Contrary to the communist claim that classes have been abolished, villagers are permitted to marry only other villagers, and relocated city people must marry within their class.

The rules apply even to party cadre. 'If one of the party cadre in a village is caught in an affair with one of the villagers, he will be stripped of his authority and sent to work in the fields. But he will not be killed. because he has been working for the people," explained a former teacher from Kach Roteh who walked 21 days to escape.

"When a young man or woman wants to marry," he continued, "they must contact the village chief who writes down their request. When the list is long enough, the party organizes a mass wedding ceremony' that won't interfere with the work schedule. "Fornication and adultery are dealt with by death," he added emphatically. The populace is divided into villages ranging from 100 to 600 people. They walk from their villages each morning to centralized farming collectives. The journey may take as long as two hours.

But while the American public may

The Carter formula - based on the

For the masses, life under communism means working seven days a week, 365 days a year. They build dykes, cut timber, toil in the rice fields. But because the work is poorly planned, much of the labor is wasted.

The workday begins at sunrise and lasts 12 hours, with a short break around 11 a.m.

In return for their hard labor, the people draw meager rations. The harvest is hauled off in Angkar (government) trucks, then the food is allocated back to the villagers. The daily ration seldom exceeds one cup of rice, with a cup of salt that is supposed to last a few weeks. Only the elite - members of the party or army - get meat on their menu.

Disease is a major problem. The Khmer Rouge, in a fanatic effort to wipe out the past, have rejected bourgeois medicines and remedies. They rely instead on primitive tribal medicines, such as tree roots boiled by village medicine men.

In July 1976, Cambodian Premier Pol Pot admitted that 80 percent of the population had been affected by a virulent strain of malaria, although the government now claims the epidemic is under control.

Refugees have also described a skin disease that apparently is caused by long hours in the fields.

The villagers, meanwhile, have taken a step backward in time. Money has been abolished. There is no motor traffic, except for an occasional military vehicle. In a typical village, the chief and his staff are allowed to ride the village's single bicycle.

The sole government newspaper isn't even distributed to remote areas. For many, the village chief's lonely radio picks up the only available news from a government station Yet it would be a mistake to think Cambodia, now called Democratic Kampuchea, is run by incompetents. On the contrary, the leaders know exactly what they're doing. They are reshaping Cambodian society according to their radical doctrinaire concepts of Marxism. To achieve this. the radical leaders have imposed the harshest, deadliest discipline on earth upon their fellow Cambodians.

That is why, when an American president says, "We're not going to let the Soviet Union push us around,' they are not impressed at all, because they are armed and equipped to do the pushing. Moreover, they are doing it.

Thus we see Soviet power plays involving the underdeveloped world in Africa, using their willing Cuban surrogate. We see Angola gone, the Horn of Africa largely gone, Rhodesia things we have done - is apparently and South Africa under growing pressure. In Asia we see a powerful Soviet-financed offensive by the then to exhibit our faith by actions Vietnamese Communists aimed at the which have the net effect of making us subjugation of Cambodia, to be surely followed by pressure on Laos and ultimately on Thailand.

And they affront us by muscling U.S. journalists in Moscow with trumped up charges of slander.

In the train of these aggressive actions they take the time to declare that it is we, not they, who are guilty of abrasive behavior. Pravda, the mouthpiece of the Politburo, recently cautioned us on the hazards of "undermining detente and returning to the world of the cold war," saying that such a course is "fraught with dangers" and concluding with the snapper that they want to see "the speediest realization of this truth in Washington.'

This is another way of saying, "We are embarked on a worldwide program of imperialism and if you get in our way, you'll regret it."

All together, it is not a pretty picture, but it is still not irreversible. The first and greatest ingredient of such a reversal is a modicum of resolution and nerve - stiffened by comprehension on the part of our political leadership that the American people do not want to be weak - do not want to be blackmailed.

From that foundation it would not take much to signal to the Russians that we are not yet ready to surren-

Mark Russell says

If an automobile's engine had Andrew Young's timing it would sound like Jack Benny's Maxwell.

The attempt to impeach Andrew Young was unsuccessful because without him we could not go about the delicate task of getting tough with the Russians and entertaining them at the same time.

Therefore, eager readers of newspapers will be able to continue reading Young's statement - to be found between "Dennis the Menace" and "Moon Mullins."

Who are the political prisoners Andrew Young had in mind? Perhaps he will make an offer to exchange Anatoly Shcharansky for John Mitchell.

Enormity of terrorism is often lost on Americans

MILAN, Italy - When Americans read how terrorists kidnap, maim and murder European public officials, industrialists, managers and journalists, well, the names of the German and Italian victims aren't that recognizable, and the enormity of the terrorism is often lost on us.

But if these crimes had occurred in the U.S., Americans would be horrified to learn what terrorists did to, say, a David Rockefeller, a Henry Ford or a Douglas Fraser (president of the United Auto Workers).

And if terrorists shot the kneecap off the foreman at a General Motors plant in Pontiac, or gunned down an efficiency expert with Westinghouse in Pittsburgh, or murdered a journalist covering the air frame industry in Seattle, shockwaves would reverberate through these industrial centers, and rightly so.

If these crimes became common, as they have in the Milan area, where recently there was one terrorist shooting a day, a crisis might well develop in the American industrial complex, and the reaction would likely be severe. But Europe has lived with revolution in the streets, anarchy, and two horrible world wars, and has't been rattled by the current rash of terrorsm. Industrial production hasn't been affected anywhere in Europe. The 14.4 percent absenteeism rate in the Italian auto industry is of far more concern to its managers than

Only the airlines were clearly affected by terrorism. Lufthansa's revenuc dipped sharply after Hans Mar-tin Schleyer was kidnapped and killed and terrorists threatened to blow up 10 Lufthansa planes.

German industries have spent-plenty of money to cope with terrorism. Helicopters, armored cars, legions of security men, electronic devices, TV cameras, computer systems, and even the familiar barbed wire and sand bags, have been mustered to defend against the Red Brigades fac-

The efforts to utilize the protective measures are proportionately much smaller in Italy, but Italian executives who believe they are on "hit" lists, have sent their children off to schools in other countries. In some cases, they even move their entire families to quieter lands. Several top industrialists in Germany and Italy told me that while most executives felt concerned after shootings of their colleagues, there have been no resignations or requests for transfer to "safer" countries.

"Too much concern about terrorism can affect the mentality of our people and cut into our productivity," the president of a large manufactur-ing firm in West Germany told me. "So far it hasn't affected the quality of our work. We don't over-guard, as some companies have, because we feel there is no 100 percent protec-

Dr. Umberto Nordio, chairman of Alitalia, says, "Many top executives went through the worst of World War II, saw deaths, and are fatalistic about it. It is the younger men who've become anxious. An American executive in Rome told me tht he was against companies exchanging information on anti-terrorism plans because, "it always involves the personnel managers, and personnel managers talk, and there are terrorists among the employees who are listening."

This man says it is "outsiders" -American, British or whomever - who worry more about their security than Italian executives, who tend to downplay terrorism. During our lunch, a group calling itself the Fighting Communist Prolitarian Students" made a small point for him by firebombing and severely damaging a university building only 100 meters from our restaurant.

Sixty percent of all executives shot by terrorists in Italy work for the giant Fiat complex, a firm which provides its employees fringe benefits and recreational and cultural facilities unsurpassed by any firm in the U.S. Fiat is not an industrial ogre, but is a symbol to hit. Therefore, 12 of its very top managers have been gunned

The Red Brigades hurt he image, not the productivity, of Italian industry, a Fiat spokesman told me. "Terrorism has pointed up the need we have to find jobs for our youngsters because it is they who are susceptible to recruitment by the brigades. Terrorism will eventually pass."

Some executives have become reclusive, take a different route to work each day, and strain to keep a low profile. Others, like Milan's Carlo de Benedetti (who recently declared, 'The time has come for our industrialists to stand up and fight.") feels that by their remaining visible and assertive, public opinion can be swung to demand that terrorists be routed out. When some plant owner seriously considered moving away from Italy, Benedetti used $20 million of his money to buy control of Olivetti, an affirmative act of confidence.

Wolff von Amerongen is one German industrialist unafraid to speak out and risk becoming a target. He argues that terrorism actually caused sinessmen to develop "solidarity, and increased cooperation between employers and unions (since union members hate terrorists). Von Amerongen voices what many a German executive mutters, namely, his disappointment that terrorism has brought on, in other countries, "the re-emergence of old prejudices against Germany" which have "deeply upset many of our interna-tional businessmen, even more than the actual happenings at home." One German manager told me that some foreign competitors exploit Germany's terrorist problem to take away business.

So far, European industries have resisted the urge to publicly push their governments for stronger antiterrorist measures, so as to avoid giving terrorists the argument that capitalists and their flunky governments conspire against liberators of the people. I'm not sure that if American companies suffered the terrorism that some of these European firms have, that they would be able to suppress

Museum for buffs off their trolleys about trolleys

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

BRANFORD, Conn. (AP) - If you willingly consort with people who admit to being slightly off their trolleys over old trolley cars, you have to expect to get some axle grease on your double knits.

Trolley buffs like Tom Shade take you down into the pit to inspect the double truck netherside of old No. 948, a gleaming green beauty of a streetcar built in 1926 to carry paying passengers through Atlanta for the Georgia Power Company.

"We found her in Senoia, Ga., where she had ended up her days as a chicken coop," said Shade, who is chairman of the board of the Branford Electric Railway Association, a nonprofit historical museum that runs 93 restored cars over 3 miles of authentic surviving track. "To re-do their air brakes we had to send off for photographs to Seoul, Korea, where 50 cars like this were sold in 1948."

Meanwhile motorman Ed Watson, a retired architect from Manhattan, opened up the throttle on No. 1414, a lovely yellow enameled open car, and headed out over the trestle across the East Haven River to the picnic grove. The 75 passengers on the wooden benches enjoyed the breeze off the salt marshes, just like back in 1911 when she entered service for the Connecticut Railway Company. Right here, on the same run, except the tracks went for 17 miles then.

Conductor Bob Brown, on vacation from his regular job as senior communications engineer for Conrail in Philadelphia, moved precariously along the running board punching tickets. Times had changed in his department, however. Folks now were anxious to have their ticket punched so they could retain the stub as a souvenir of their visit to the trolley museum.

"Open cars vanished from America's street railway systems in the early '30s," sighed car starter Lou Iasillo, a church organist and music teacher from Cliffside Park, N.J., 'because too many customers jumped off without paying and the conductors could use that as an excuse for shortchanging the company. But cars like this one ran through New Haven up until 1954 because the Connecticut line kept 100 open cars to run football crowds out to the Yale Bowl. On big weekends like the Harvard game, the cars would be decorated with pennants and bunting and the fans would be hanging from An unpaid volunteer like all the others at the museum, Iasillo is such a trolley buff, he never has learned to drive an auto - "that foul smelling menace to society" - and blames the demise of the streetcar on "a conspiracy cooked up by the big automotive interests to promote Detroit's obnoxious products.

Trolley buffs come in all ages. Bob Paradise, age 14, has "found true paradise" working around the barns and helping restore new acquisitions like the Toronto trolley that has a pot bellied stove but can be converted to an open car in summer. In Bob's mind, the thought that in 1913, when this car was built, you could go from New York City to Sheyboygan, Wis., by streetcar, if you were patient and willing to transfer, seems a wilder concept than anything in "Star Guide Linda Beach, 19 and studying to be a nurse at Bridgeport University, loves showing visitors No. 61, "the oldest electric streetcar in captivity.' which ran along Butler Avenue in Providence back in 1893, and No. 500, the green plus velvet parlor car with the inlaid oak woodwork, level edged mirrors and ornate scrollwork that was the show piece of the line for the Connecticut Co. and the president's private car back in the era when having a toilet aboard your own trôlley was considered more opulent than owning a yacht. Linda, who has soloed at the controls of a trolley is one of the few kids on campus anywhere who knows that a "clerestory" is the raised glassed-in part of a streetcar's roof and that "Ding, ding, ding went the trolley" has got to be wrong, no matter what the Trolley Song says.

Three bells, anywhere in the world of trolleys, signal an emergencey. "One to stop, two to go, three for emergency, four to back up, that's the bell signals in use everywhere, even now," says motorman-architect Ed Watson, yanking down the pulley at the end of the line and advising the folks to turn their seats in the other direction for the ride out to the cemetery. A real one, of course.

"Streetcar lines always ran out to the cemetery," pointed out Iasillo. "Many of them had ornate funeral cars. They also delivered mail, milk, produce, some even had sprinkler cars to water the town flowers. Duluth, Minnesota, had a fire car to aid the fire department in a section of the city with narrow streets.'

Most of the old cars still wear their old display ads over the lacgered rattan seats: "Fels Naptha Soap," "Burnett's Vanilla," "Arrow Shirts: $1.50," "Lux...10 cents a Box... Won't Make Shiftwaists Yellow" and an incredible array of laxatives, purgatives, emetics and expectorants. As James Thurber said of his own streetcar riding days in Columbus, Ohio, "Americans have ever been a bowelfearful people.

For someone like me, who always got "car sick" in the lurching trolley ride out to Dreamland or Olympic Park (all streetcar companies built their own amusement parks to increase revenue) on the outskirts of Newark, N.J., consorting with the trolley buffs, grease and all, was like returning to a simpler less hurried America when people hopped on the open car and sometimes even willingly paid just to catch the cooling breezes on a warm summer night.

Booth Tarkington in "The Magnificent Ambersons" paid the noble trolley its noblest compliment: "The car was genially accommodating: a lady could whistle to it from an upstairs window, and the car would halt at once and wait for her while she shut the window, put on her hat and cloak, went downstairs, found an umbrella, told the 'girl' what to have for dinner, and came forth from the house."

He called them "bunty little streetcars" and numbered them among America's most missed "vanishings," things that pass so quickly and so silently from our daily lives that we hardly notice they have vanished.

Ding. Ding. No, they have not. Here, out of the past, comes No. 629 in the yellow and red livery of the Third Avenue Railway. She ran for years crosstown in Manhattan then went to Vienna in 1949 as part of the Marshall Plan and now she's back to stay, clanging down memory lane for the Branford line.

ATLANTA (AP) — David Payne was lying on his apartment floor, being tied up by two escaped convicts who had abducted him and robbed his store, when he heard his girlfriend drive up out-

"My heart just stopped beating. I tried everything, mental telepathy: 'Don't come upstairs whatever you do.' No matter what I did, I couldn't get her to stay away," he recalled Sunday night in a telephone interview from a friend's Atlanta area home.

Payne, 21, was abducted when he arrrived home from his manager's job at a Dairy Queen about 12: 30 a.m. He saw two men as he drove up. They introduced themselves as "Billy" and "J.W.," he

Police identified the pair as Murphy Staffins, 25, and James Wilkins, 30, prisoners at the Wayne County Correctional Institution, who, with a third man identified as Jose Collazo, 30, overpowered a guard and escaped Thursday from a Jesup, Ga., dentist's office where they had been taken for

"Billy pulled that big gun out and laid it up beside my head and told me to get back into the car," he said. "I looked at the other guy and he had another big gun in his hand. We all got in the car." With "Billy" and Payne sharing time at the wheel, they drove around Atlanta for five hours. "The whole time they were looking for a filling station they had planned to rob," Payne said. "They never could find it."

Payne said the men talked about a bank robbery they planned.

'You wouldn't want to make a living robbing places, would you?" he quoted "J.W." as asking him. "He said, 'We got a big bank job coming up soon. You want to be part of it?' I said, 'No, thank you," Payne recalled.

market gains

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices edged upward today in response to favorable news on the economic outlook.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had climbed 22.87 points last week, gained another .26 to 856.55 by noontime today. Gainers outpaced losers by a 3-2 margin among New York Stock Emchange-listed issues. The Dow would have shown a gain of close to 2 points had it not been for ex-dividends, or dividend-payment adjustments, involving four of the average's component stocks. The government reported this morning that the index of leading economic indicators, which is designed to function as a kind tf crystal ball for business activity, climbed 0.4 percent in June after an upward-revised 0.1 percent advance in May

Separately, a trade association of machine-tool producers reported that orders received by the industry jumped 54 percent in June. In addition, analysts noted continuing hopes that interest rates might be at or near a peak cafter their steady rise over the last several months. Citicorp topped the active list, unchanged at 241/a. A 500,000-share block traded at that price. The NYSE's composite index gained .07 to 56.25. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value

index was up .43 at 154.58. Volume on the Big Board came to 13.49 million shares at noontime, against 13.84 million at the same point

NEW YORK (AP) - The founder of the Congress of Racial Equality says he will call a national convention of the civil rights organization to see if members want to get rid of executive director Roy Innis.

Bush to make Lamesa visit

LAMESA — Congressional candidate George Bush will appear in the Lamesa Rodeo Parade here Thursday. Bush is running for the 19th Con-gressional seat being vacated by Rep. George Mahon of Lubbock, who has been in that position for 44 years. Bush and his wife, Laura, will meet and talk with any interested voters after the parade.

Bush, 32, was raised in Midland. He is an independent oil and gas producer in the Tall City. Bush was the first to announce his candidacy for the congressional seat, and led a field of three in the Republican primary last May where he captured 47 percent of the vote. In a June runoff, Bush won the nomination by receiving 56 percent of Bush has said he favors an across the board federal income tax reduction. He advocates securing more foreign markets for agricultural exports and supports the deregulation of gas and decontrol of oil.

Washington couple wins refund, wages war on IRS secrecy

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) - Phil and Sue Long of Bellevue, Wash., received a welcome check for $1,511.82 on July 17, but the symbolic value was worth many times the numbers on the

The check, for court expenses, not only was the final document in a victorious 8-year battle with the Internal Revenue Service, but it will help finance still another effort to interpret and enforce the law.

The second battle is over the Freedom of Information Act, about which the Longs became authorities while seeking IRS data to help in their defense against accusations of egregiously underpaying income taxes. The Longs, Sue, 34, and Phil, 61, control 50 heavily mortgaged rental houses in the Seattle area, operating the properties, which they inherited, through the medium of two privately held corporations.

In 1969 the IRS claimed the corportions were dummies, personal holdings companies rather than business operations, into which the Longs loaded personal expenses. The law frowns upon such practices. In their case, the Longs claim, the IRS sought taxes of nearly 100 percent. Such an interpretation, and penalties, they say, would have destroyed them and other legitimate family corporations. They sued.

They finally won their suit on March 10, 1977 in the Appellate Court at San Francisco, but only after filing 11 other suits to obtain information under the Freedom of Information Act. They won them too.

In doing so, they became authorities on the IRS and the act. "We have more information on the operations of the IRS in our living room than there is in the Library of Congress and all Capitol Hill," Phil said.

"The biggest financial institution in the world," and here in a private home reposed more information on its operations than in the U.S. Congress. He expressed astonishment; it shouldn't be that way.

To obtain it required 18 trips to Washington. They spoke with IRS officials at least 150 times. They spent $30,000 out of pocket. They advertised their plight 15 times in the Washing-"Together, we squeezed in 40 to 50 hours a week on the case," said Phil. "That left me 20 or 30 hours a week for business and permitted Sue to go to the university." She is working toward a doctorate.

At one point they obtained access to 1.6 million pages of data, and then discovered there was no index to permit them to focus on the material they needed. Without an index it was almost meaningless.

For a year they occupied Room 2166 in the Federal Office Building at Seattle while they attempted to make sense out of 200,000 pages of material to which they had won access by court

What did they learn from their efforts? Much of it now is rather common knowledge, but it wasn't so until the Long's helped make it so.

About, for example, the arbitrary nature of the IRS, whose audit procedures vary by districts. Or that it settles some disputes with the poor for 65 cents on the dollar and accepts 25 cents from the wealthy.

But their work continues. Four of the suits remain open, said Phil, "because they won't give us what we won." In one instance the agency withheld 500 pages of a court-freed document, in another 800, he said.

"We're just nibbling around the edges," Phil lamented. "We know what is wrong and we know where the crucial data is. But so far what we've got out is really only peripheral.' Particularly upsetting, he said, is that "they're not doing what they should be doing." They emphasize enforcement, he said. "I've been to their schools; they're trained in heavy handed tactics.' Some 50,000 of the agency's 80,000 employees are to some degree in audit compliance jobs, he said. "They're trained to generate additional revenues." But, he said, they add only 3 percent more. Such information should be available freely, the Longs say. That it hasn't, they believe, has permitted the IRS to evolve in directions other than what the public desires. They want to correct it. In pursuit of their goals, Sue Long plans to spend two or three weeks in Washington during August, examining and copying data from 20,000 to 30,000 pages being made available to them by the IRS. A student who, her husband brags, has a 4-point average (all A's), Mrs. Long plans to use the material, along with what already has been accumulated, for her doctoral thesis at the University of Washington.

Handicapped children's class publishes books

By TIMOTHY HARPER

RACINE, Wis. (AP) It won't be a best seller and they won't earn a nickel from it, but the seven young co-authors hardly mind.

Members of a special education class for handicapped children at Wadewitz School here, the seven make up the Light and Bright Writers Club, and their latest book is a labor of love. Their hot-off-the-press 58-page softcover book is called "Wheelers and Pushers," subtitled "Going Places in a Wheelchair."

The book, the club's third after the past two years' classes explored the problems of epilepsy and having one hand, is a humorous yet informational look at the human condition from a wheelchair.

Written solely by the seven younsters, ages 10 to 12, including five confined to wheelchairs, the book is often devastating in its simplicity.

"When you are wheeling along," the book advises in one of many pages featuring original art by the students, "you will meet people who stare. You're never sure how to handle them. Should you smile or make a face or ignore them?' After wondering whether the stare is at the chair or the wheeler and considering whether to offer those who gape a lap ride, the authors agree, "Oh, well, better to keep smiling." Jan Damaschke, 24, the teacher-editor, said the initial printing was 500 copies, but she hopes more will be sponsored. She said last year's

"Gripping Tales — Liv-ing with Epilepsy," was requested so much from people and groups all over the country that the state's epilepsy foundation sponsored a second press run of 4,000. 'The kids had so much they wanted to say," Ms. Damaschke says, noting that most wheelers object to condescending friendliness as much as cold stares. "They just want people to take them for themselves."

Besides letters from Miss Wheelchair America and triple amputee Max Cleland, head of the federal Veterans Administration, the book includes advice for new wheelers and pushers and has dozens of photos of the students at work and play.

There is a history of the wheelchair and a list of common gripes among wheelers: second-floor restrooms, berserk motors on electric chairs, rear entrance ramps, high service counters and sinks, gravel park paths and rude people who get in a wheeler's way. However, the book also points out the numerous advantages of being a wheeler, including never having to wait for a place to sit and being able to pull a friend on a skateboard.

The whole idea of the book, summed up on the back cover, is that being in a chair is not necessarily "Hell on Wheels."

Men's fashions coming up 'country style' for fall

This flannel overshirt with denim jeans will be perfect for fall's cool casual days. The navy brushed all-cotton shirt features a small collar and a deep four-button placket faced in plaid flannel. The plaid also is used to trim the pockets and for the button straps to hold the sleeves when rolled. A blue donegal tweed turtleneck is worn under the shirt, and the pre-washed jeans are all cotton and have contrast topstitching.

The disco dancing scene will feature formal shirts with jeans this fall, like this blue shirt of polyester and cotton. It has a tucked and embroidered bib, French cuffs that are single style and edged in lacey embroidery.

Water beds come of age for apartment living.

By CAROLE EICHEN

Copley News Service
Water beds used to make apartment landlords nervous, often to the point where this new sleeping invention would be banned.

Those were the days when there were horror stories about mattresses breaking and water leaking through the ceilings and walls.

No longer a fad, the water bed is here to stay as an alternative to the box spring and mattress. And, for the landlord's sake, new regulations of the water bed industry have resulted in a better product that is wellconstructed and safe.

The design of water beds also has come a long way, and today there is an impressive variety of styles from which to choose. Frames range from the traditional wood to fabricupholstered designs, while the headboards incorporate a variety of materials including wood, fabric.

chrome and mirror. Some of the newer water beds have built-in storage areas below the mattress and fancy canopies of wood or fabric. In short, there's a style to fit almost any type of decor.

With so many choices, selecting a water bed still can be a confusing proposition. A basic water mattress consists of two rectangular sheets of vinyl heat-sealed together at their outer edges with one continuous

An important feature to look for is an overlap seam which is much stronger than the less-expensive 'butt'' seam.

Although conventional water mattresses require the support of a surrounding frame, there is also a type that is supported entirely by a continuous pocket of air along its interior perimeter. It uses up to a third less water and provides a firmer surface with less wave motion.

Because it uses less water, it weighs less and puts less stress and strain on the ceiling, an important consideration if your apartment is not on the ground level.

NEW YORK (AP) - The country influence is evident in the fabrics, the colors, the patterns and the styling touches of menswear this fall, according to the Men's Fashion Association.

"Male fashion is never a single-look story for any season," says MFA fashion director Chip Tolbert, who emphasizes that there are other looks, "but country is definitely where a good part of fall 1978 is at.

"It's not country as in country-and-Western or Nashville or down home," he adds. "It's more country in the feeling of looks once identified with men of property, money and style — the man with the country estate and the wardrobe to go with it."

Tolbert notes that it could also have something to do with the apparent desire of Americans to get back to basics and rediscover simpler

"They seem to be doing it in everything from music to breakfast," he remarks, "so why not in fashions?" Some of the examples of the fall '78 country influence cited by MFA

- Suits: Harris tweeds, donegals, Shetlands, cheviots and similar "nappy" fabrics dominate. Elbow patches, trims and leather buttons are more prevalent than autumn leaves. Trousers are slightly tapered, straighter and often pleated. Corduroy is used across the board in suits, sport jackets and slacks. Wool - in both country and dressy looks - is a

- Colors: They range from pale oatmeal shades and tans to brown and darker earth tones - all identified with the "country" feeling. Often the colors are "mixey," combining three or more hues that blend softly due to the nappy nature of the fabric.

Topcoats: The tweed trenchcoat and the balmacaan with raglan shoulders have a fresh country look. Shearlings and fur-trimmed suedes and leathers are the luxurious option.

- Down- and fiber-filled coats: Very plentiful with quilted linings in lengths ranging from hip level to finger tip styles, all fairly shouting about the Great Outdoors.

 Vests: The layered look is still going strong. An abundance of vests. in a wide range of styles, weights and colors is important this fall.

- Jeans: Straight-leg, cigarette-leg and even pegged treatments indicate a developing shift in the jean silhouette. A popular fabric is the deep-blue indigo denims — a change from the faded blues — and more corduroys. But jeans, an American standard, remain strong.

— Sports shirts: Coming back big this season in the woven group, especially those with an outdoorsy feeling, are beefy wools and flannels in bold plaids. It's all reminiscent of the lumberjack shirt but with a new dimension featuring smaller collars and bodies that are cut fuller.

- Sweaters: With two brutal winters still remembered, sweaters are big and bulky, with the classics very much a part of the scene.

- Belts: They're narrower this season and many feature smaller metal- and leather-covered buckles. Perfect accessories with the new fall clothing are the fabric belts teamed with leather, in keeping with the country feeling.

— Shoes: The trend is to a heavier look — thicker-soled and right at home for the country. Boots also are important and have a heftier look.

- Socks: Definitely part of the scene in heavier, brushed treatments that are subtle in both color and pattern.

- Hats: Slightly trimmer in general, and many new fall hats stress wool velours, wool felts and wool fabrics. Caps are as popular as ever.

DEAR ABBY

Most men welcome Faller B frank females

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Things are changing so fast on the social scene. I'm not sure how far a woman can go these days and still be a lady. Some questions:

Should a woman ever call a man who has shown an interest in her, and ask to see him? If a woman would like a physical relationship with a man (holding hands, kissing, etc.) should she ever make the first move?

How do you think a man would react to a woman's taking the initiative?—KAREN

DEAR KAREN: Men differ in their reactions to aggressive women, but my mail tells me that in most cases, a man would welcome a call from a woman telling him frankly that she would like to see him. There is nothing "unladylike" about a woman's taking the initiative or telling a man she thinks he's attractive. Not only would most men feel flattered, it would save a lot of time and eliminate a lot of gameplaying.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 26, single (by choice) and not a bad-looking woman. There's a man (also single) who works where I work. Solly and I kid around a lot, but he's more of a friend than a boyfriend,

At an office party last Christmas, I told Solly if he lost 30 pounds he'd be terrific looking. He said if I gave him an "incentive"-like spending the night with him — he'd lose 30 pounds.

Well, I couldn't see Solly losing 30 pounds, so I said it was a deal. Much to my surprise. Solly went on a diet, and so far he's lost 26 pounds, and I know he'll lose the other four soon. I never planned on paying off. Now what do I do? -- NERVOUS DEAR NERVOUS: Pay off. And spend the night reading the Bible to Solly. DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, attempting to run a small motel. I must pay the mortgage, taxes, insurance, etc. and live on what's left. I have no hired help and must do most of the repairs myself.

I must keep my rates low to compete with the luxury credit-card trade.

My problem is that so many "guests" carry away my property that I am being driven out of business. Will you help me, Abby, and print the following for

"I don't mind your using my towels to wipe off your windshield-but please LEAVE the towel; don't toss it into your car. Or if you take my washcloths to wipe off your kids' hands and faces en route, please leave a quarter to replace the cloth-that's what it costs me. And when you accidentally carry off a key, drop it into any mailbox. I'll gladly pay for its return, since it's a lot cheaper than having new keys made. "And as for you gals who take blankets, pillows, coffee pots, dishes and silver-have a heart! I'm sure you have much better at home. 'I don't want to start charging deposits against the return of such items; neither do I want to turn your license number in to the motel blacklist.

the psychological element can be very important. And just the other day I came across a very interesting study in Medical World News that friend was saying. The article reported that people who live isolated lives, who have few social contacts, are anywhere from two to four times more likely to die from one of the major causes of death-heart belong to social or religious groups.

The study was done by Dr. Lisa Berkman, and epidemoilogist from the University of California. She studied what had happened to about 7,000 people after nine years. The lonely people, as might be expected, tend to have poorer health habits. But Dr. Berkman's statistics homa Health Planning amend their original peshowed that the loneliness itself was a factor in the higher death rate.

Incidentally, your friend mentioned loneliness in cities. So perhaps it is worth noting that Dr. Berkman's figures indicate there is no more loneliness in the city than in the country. About 10 percent of the people she studied were socially isolated in both urban and rural areas.

All this reminds us about how important it is to keep in touch with people who do not have family or friends - especially if they are elderly, ill or

YORK, Pa. (AP) - Tom, a teasing 14-year-old always ready with a quip, is making a comeback. Just a few months ago, Tom - not his real name was a teen-ager in trouble. His father wouldn't discipline him and his mother was nervous about dealing with him. On a spree, he and some friends broke into a bicycle shop near his Maryland home and were caught.

Many times, such teen-agers would wind up in institutions. But Tom was referred to the Pennsylvania Youth Advocate program, a three-year-old, privately run project.

He was assigned a full-time advocate, Ralph Smith, who provides advice, guidance and a chance to live in a normal family setting. Tom is staying with Smith, 33, a bachelor, for a six-month trial period. If the arrangement works - and if the program isn't run out of town — Tom will get to

Most of the youths under Woodson's control are referred from courts in the District of Columbia. The program also takes kids from Maryland, Philadelphia and other areas of Pennsylvania.

Safety of rides to depend on amusement park owners

ATLANTA (AP) - Because of a lack of manpower and expertise, state and local authorities say they probably will continue to rely on amusement park owners to make sure their rides are safe.

The issue of amusement park ride safety surfaced again last week when three persons were killed after a cable car at Six Flags Over Mid-America in St. Louis slipped from the cable and fell 75 feet to the ground.

The accident prompted officials of Six Flags Over Georgia to close down a similar ride at the park near Atlan-

The Georgia Office of Consumer Affairs will have the authority to inspect amusement rides in a few weeks when the agency is given the power to enforce federal product safety laws.

"But we have nobody who would know anything at all about how to inspect them," said state consumer arrairs chief Tim Ryles.

Carbon monoxide new hazard

By JEFFREY MILLS

WASHINGTON (AP) - Opening another front in its war on smoking, the federal government plans to publicize a new peril - carbon monoxide - in hopes of prodding the tobacco industry to reduce that substance as it has tar and nicotine.

The Federal Trade Commission is currently developing a machine that tests the level of carbon the FTC has been providing figures on tar and nicotine levels.

FTC officials said the first test figures on carbon monoxide in each brand of cigarette are anticipated next year. Those figures are expected to be required in cigarette advertisements, just as tar and nicotine levels are now.

Researchers say carbon monoxide in cigarette smoke cuts down the amount of oxygen in the blood monoxide smokers are inhaling. For a decade, at the same time that the nicotine is increasing the

Balloonists disgusted at last-minute failure

CONCARNEAU, France (AP) - Two Britons said they were "absolutely miserable" and "quite disgusted" at having failed by 110 miles to make the first crossing of the Atlantic by balloon.

Donald Cameron said he and Maj. Christopher Davey believed "until the last minute that we were going to make it." But an eight-foot rip in the balloon early in the flight caused them to lose altitude, and Cameron said "there just wasn't the sort of wind to take us up when we needed it" as they approached the French coast.

Their $300,000 flight came closer to success than any of the 18 previous known attempts, in which six men perished. Cameron, Europe's biggest manufacturer of balloons, said they would try again if they got the opportunity. The 38-year-old aeronautical engineer and the 34-year-old tank corps officer lifted off the coast of Newfoundland shortly after dawn last Wednesday. They brought their crippled balloon down Sunday morning four days and 24 minutes later off the Brittany coast 1,779 miles from their starting point. Their 141/2-foot gondola was only 15 feet above the water when they ditched. "They knew they could not rise higher to complete the crossing, and the winds were tending to drift them out again into the Atlantic," said a spokesman at the flight's communications control center in

"If the helium bag had not torn, which lost them gas, they would have walked it and been home by

The flight also did not break the distance record held by Ed Yost, another unsuccessful trans-Atlantic ist. In October 1976, he floated 2,740 mile from Maine to a ditching in the Atlantic 200 miles east of the Azores.

"It is based on their urging that we add carbon monoxide to the items to be tested and published,"

Federal officials have campaigned against smoking since the famous 1964 surgeon general's report linked it to major health problems. The tobac-

Turner whitewash job gives Cubs 5 in row

BY TED BATTLES

After three straight losses since returning from Wichita, righthander Darrell Turner came through when the Midland Cubs needed him...and how he came through, pitching a five-hit shutout to beat the Shreveport Captains, 7-0, at Cubs Stadium Sunday night.

The win kept the Cubs in first place in the girdle-tight Texas League West Division race as the 6-4 Oochee, Fla., native turned in the second straight no-walk performance by a Midland pitcher and the third Cub shutout of the season, the second in the last

As a matter of fact, the Cubs, by virtue of the win and San Antonio's loss to Jackson, opened a game and a half lead.

"I needed that," Turner said after his second-route going effort of the season, "I was feeling down after being 0-3.

Turner's other nine-inning game came early in the season for Wichita at Springfield in the American Association. "I was in the starting rotation, then they sent Mike Krukow down from Chicago and I spent the next month in the bullpen before they put me back in the rotation."

Even so Turner had only 49 innings and he needed work, hence the ticket

DESPITE THE lack of work, Turner said he never felt stronger.

Eric Grandy led off with a walk, stole second and scored on Rosinski's single to center. Rosinski was forced at second on Jim Tracy's grounder, but Greg Keatley was hit by a pitch and everybody was safe when third baseman John Dean threw wildly to second on John Hartin's grounder. Kevin Drury then plated two runs with a single to left and after a force out, shortstop Pete Ithier booted Joe Hernandez' grounder to allow another run to score. Rosinski belted his homer in the fourth, with no one on, an awesome wallop that cleared the doubledeck green monster in center. Tracy followed with a triple but was out at the plate while trying to score on an infield grounder.

Steve Macko reached on another error in the fourth and went to secondon Hernandez' single, scoring on a fly by Fierro.

Rose challenges Sid Stonestreet baseman Mike Schmidt to extend

CINCINNATI (AP) - Cincinnati Reds third baseman Pete Rose riding on the crest of a 43-game hitting streak — thrives on challenges. His latest is a real dilly - even

Booming Boston bats now silent

By ALEX SACHARE AP Sports Writer

Those booming Boston bats are silent, having produced just three runs in the last 46 innings, and Manager Don Zimmer is baffled as to how to solve the problem.

"When you're in a slump, you're in one," said Zimmer, sounding a bit like Yogi Berra after the Red Sox were beaten by the Kansas City Royals 2-1 Sunday for their 10th loss in the last 12 games.

"I never thought I'd see a period like this one with this ball club," added Zimmer, whose team's .277 season batting average is the secondbest in the major leagues. "Our pitching hasn't been all that bad, we're just not getting a hit when we need one.

Sometimes a manager will shake up his lineup to snap a team out of a slump, but Zimmer says he can't do that because of the back injury that has veteran team captain Carl Yastrzemski on the sidelines indefinitely. "I don't have any choice with Yaz then losing 2-0.

Paul Splittorff raised his record to 12-9 by beating the Red Sox with relief help from Al Hrabosky, who notched his 14th save. Hrabosky put down railies in the last two innings to help the Royals to their 14th victory in their last 16 games.

THE RED Sox, meanwhile, are heading in the other direction.

Center fielder Fred Lynn said, "We're not going to snap out of it until people start doing things differently." He refused to single out any of his teammates for criticism, however, sticking to generalizations.

Rose still pistol hot as Reds pop Phillies

By JOHN NELSON AP Sports Writer

Pete Rose went 2-for-5 Sunday, getting both hits off Philadelphia starter Larry Christenson, as the Reds downed the Phils 5-3 and Rose's hit streak reached 43 games, just one shy of Wee Willie Keeler.

Tonight, Cincinnati begins a threegame set in Atlanta against the Braves, whose pitchers had a lot of trouble Sunday against Montreal. Tom Boggs, Craig Skok and Mickey Mahler combined on a 28-hitter, giving up a National League record 58 total bases, eight home runs (tying the major league record) and 19 runs to the Expos.

Rose's first hit of the game was a single to left field, his off-field batting left against Christenson, and came in the fifth inning. He had flied out and grounded out in his previous two atbats under skies that threatened to shorten the game because of rain.

"I could see the weather was threatening, and with me 0-for-2, I could see it starting to rain and then calling the game," Rose said. "The fans would have ripped the stadium down. I didn't want that to happen.'

George Foster smacked his 25th homer of the year, tying him with Greg Luzinski of Philadelphia for the league lead, and Dan Driessen hit his 13th for Cincinnati. Tom Hume, 5-10, got the win with relief help from Manny Sarmiento and Doug Bair, who got his 19th save by getting the final two outs.

Expos 19, Braves 0

Montreal's offensive explosion tied two major league records, broke a league mark and broke a club record. The Expos' eight home runs — three by Larry Parrish - tied a major league record previously held by six clubs, three in each league. Andre Dawson tied another major league record held by 18 others by hitting two home runs in one inning.

Almost overlooked in the barrage was Woody Fryman's seven-hit shutout. Fryman, 6-7, also doubled twice, the second time driving in a ninth-inning run. Giants 4-1, Cubs 2-0

San Francisco's double-header sweep gave the club sole possession of first place in the West after falling into a tie with Los Angeles Saturday. In the second game, Vida Blue, 15-4, pitched a six-hit shutout, his third of the season. Consecutive one-out singles in the fourth by Jack Clark, Mike Ivie and Heity Cruz gave Blue the only run he needed.

Dave Parker singled and homered, breaking out of an 0-for-24 slump, to help the Pirates snap a seven-game losing streak and end LA's string of victories at five.

Padres 3, Cards 2 San Diego extended its winning streak to six games when Gene Richards doubled home Derrell Thomas with the winning run in the seventh inning. Gaylord Perry, 12-4, needed two innings of relief help from Rellie Fingers to get the win. Fingers got his 23rd save.

Oscar Gamble and Dave Winfield homered for San Diego.

"He called me before the game and asked me to go on his television show," Rose said of Niekro. "I said I would if he gave me all fastballs to hit."

During the streak - which began June 14 - Rose is hitting .388 with a .316 average overall. Despite two hits Sunday, Rose said that with a little bit of luck he could be doing even bet-

He pointed to a long fly ball caught by right fielder Jerry Martin, who made a running backhand grab in the first inning. And then in the eighth inning, second baseman Ted Sizemore went between second and first to throw Rose out.

"If I was having a lucky year, I'd be hitting .330," said Rose, who admitted he wanted a hit his last time at the plate to enhance his chances of catching National League batting leader Jeff Burroughs of Atlanta.

Wilson Ranch seeks polo fame in U.S. Open meet at Oakbrook

Midland's "Willie B." Wilson and his power-packed Wilson Ranch Team are competing in the prestigious U.S. Open Polo Championship in Oakbrook, Ill., for "the most coveted trophy in the world of polo.

The team last month invaded Cali fornia soil and picked up a win in the West Coast Polo Championships. Wilson and his players returned to the team's 36 thoroughred polo ponies and headed for Oakbrook. Wilson, 64, an unabashed "lover of polo," was in that championship California play with his teammates of Fortunato Gomez, the Argentine super star; Tommy Wayman, one of the three highest-ranking polo players in the country, and Jeep Holden, an up-coming California player. "Polo is the most complicated sport in the world," said Wilson, a Midland rancher, oil operator and investor. "In polo, it comes down to this: You have to maneuver a horse that's moving some 30 to 40 miles per hour to a particular spot," Wilson said. "And then, while moving, and with a piece of wood (the mallet) ... hit a surface (the wooden ball) .

Midland just long enough to exchange

"In high tournaments, strategies and are anticipation become much more important," he said.

Polo, one of the world's oldest sports, orginally was used to train warriors and their mounts for battle. In recent times, this "sport of kings" has been widely played in England and Argentina, where it is accorded respect and is played to a 'high-scoring caliber."

It is Wilson's goal to promote polo to its original "high-sport status.

Last April, he brought to Midland polo play under the auspices of the National Polo Association.

This fall, Wilson plans to bring 12goal tournament play to the Midland Polo Field.

Wilson, who has been described as a "truly unique man composed of Texas' true grit," has been seriously injured - broken bones - while clashing on the polo field. Unfettered, he continues his polo play.

"When a man starts being afraid, he might as well lie down and die," he said. "Life is full of many hurdles in business as well as in sports. One just keeps a'going.

"Polo is a sport that has actually help me keep young," said Wilson, a man who is bent on making a legend - in the polo and business worlds out of himself.

Polo enthusiast Willie B. Wilson and his Wilson Ranch team are in Oakbrook, Ill., to compete in the U.S. Open Polo Tournament.

The "Sport of Kings" is what the game of polo has been tabbed. And polo is characterized as "the most complicated sport in the world" by Midland polo player Willie B. Wilson. His Wilson Ranch Team in July scored a win in in play in the West Coast Polo Championships on California soil and now is in Oakbrook, Ill., to play in the U.S. Open Polo Championship.

1st Festival modest success

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) -No records fell. No milestones were surpassed. Nothing earth-shaking and the "Eternal happened - except that Flame" blew out. it happened.

And for the athletes, officials and supporters of the inaugural National Sports Festival, which concluded Sunday, that was all that really mattered. The events themselves and the individual performances were just a blur of color, parts lost in the sum of the whole experience. The National Sports Festival was no artistic achievement.

Figure skaters slipped or tripped over each other. Rowers dropped their paddles. Runners passed out or gagged or gasped for breath in the thin mountain air. Timing equipment gave out.

barassments. But no one expected this to be or represented that it would be anything else but the proud, tentative first step toward improving America's sagging Olympic fortunes.

Somewhere down the road, the U.S. Olympic Committee visualizes the festival as becoming this country's premiere amateur athletic event, a true mini-Olympics where training will peak instead of start, records will fall and milestones will be left in the dust.

It's estimated the inaugural festival cost the USOC more than $1.3 million, little of which was recovered in ticket receipts or promotional materials.

"We lost a bundle," festival director Baaron Pittenger admitted freely. "But it was an investment in the future. - the best one we could have

"We came in here with two goals: to get this thing off the ground and get a positive reaction from the athletes. We achieved both.

Bruce Sutter throwing first pitch is like sending Ruth up to bunt

The Los Angeles Times

A funny thing happened the other night to the young man who may be the best pitcher in baseball. He threw the first pitch of the night. That had never happened before in his big league career.

At first blush, it looked as if Cubs manager Herman Franks had done a terrible thing to pitcher Bruce Sutter, Sending him out to start a game was like making Babe Ruth bunt, John Wayne play an Indian or Rembrandt do sunsets.

There was a catch. Sutter was throwing the first pitch but not starting the game. The Giants and Cubs were finishing a suspended game, one called on account of darkness in Chicago a week before. As usual, it was the eighth inning when Sutter took the BASEBALL SCHOLARS were relieved. Franks was not tampering with history. Sutter would not become just another starting pitcher like Sandy Koufax, Tom Seaver or Walter Johnson. The manager was not messing around with destiny.

You see, Sutter (he pronounces it 'suiter") is one of the new breed of pitchers, guys who make their reputations the same way outfielders do by playing in almost every game.

Gone are the days when your best pitcher was a guy who started 40 games, finished 30 and won 20. He would be listed as a parttime employee today. Games are now won by is sparring, jockeying for position. The stars today are no longer the nine-innings-every-fourth-or-fifth-day workers, they're every-night guys. Sutter is the best of these. He throws what he calls a "split-fingered fastball." Cleanup hitters have another word for it. It's about as easy to find as a fly on your nose. It's good for nine innings - so long as they're spread over four days. Otherwise, it comes with a money-back guarantee of three innings a night or 100 innings a year.

The complete game is as out of date as the open trolley. To give you an idea, Sparky Anderson won a world championship with the Reds a couple of years ago with a year's supply of 21 complete games.

Actually, nobody knew it at the time but the complete game as a strategic concept began to wane as long as a half-century ago. That would be on that fateful afternoon in the 1926 World Series in Yankee Stadium, when Grover Cleveland Alexander came walking out of the bullpen in the seventh inning to strike out Tony Lazzari with the bases loaded and hold the Yankees safe the rest of the way to give the title to the Cardinals.

In 1925, with a chance to win the pennant, the Washington Senators took a young (25), strong-armed starter — Firpo Marberry — and inserted him in 55 games without his starting any of them. Baseball still didn't catch on, even though the Senators won the flag. Marberry, himself, was shortly returned to a so-what? starting role where, by 1929, he became just another 19-game winner, his chance for the Hall of Fame (as a

IT'S NO fluke that in two out of the last four years, the pretigious Cy Young Award, symbolic of the best pitchers ibaseball, has been awarded to relief pitchers - Mike Marshall in 1974 and Sparky Lyle in 1977. You can see why Franks would appear to be making a doorstop out of the statue of David if he started Sutter for real. Bruce saved 31 games and won 7 last year. He's saved 17 and won already this year.

You can't have an artist like this doing the suet work. I mean, does De Bakey do house cal8ls, Rembrand make frames? Bruce doesn't even leave the dugout till the 7th inning. He doesn't make an appearance till the patient is prepped and ready. He won't touch a brush to canvas unless it's stretched and treated and the light fs right. He's a Relief Pitcher the big star of the game in the 70's.

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) - Australia is on the threshold of huge oil and natural gas activity, optimistic it will bolster export earnings and buttress a sagging economy.

In the remote northwest, four major consortia are investing up to $500 million to explore the Exmouth Plateau where Indian Ocean waters are 10 times deeper than in Europe's North Sea oilfield.

In the adjoining Northwest Shelf, an oil group is on the way to reducing the odds to ensure their proposed $3.5 billion natural gas project will prove profitable once production starts in

More than 2,000 miles away, in the southwest, an Exxon subsidiary and Australia's Broken Hill Pty Ltd. plan to spend a billion dollars over the next decade to further develop their rich Bass Strait oilfields.

Elsewhere in Australia, the search for oil and natural gas is picking up on long-neglected, but less attractive, onshore prospects.

Many causes have led to the upsurge of activity after the declining exploration trend started from the 1964 peak. A drastic tumble occurred during the three-year term of the former Labor Party government, which imposed strict controls on foreign ownership of resources.

Under increasing pressure from oil producers and explorers, the present Liberal-Country Party coalition of Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser has removed most of the uncertainties that worry the industry. Fraser agreed to guarantee full world price levels for new oil finds and to gradually increase by more than 400 percent current domestic crude oil prices, the two measures jointly becoming the major incen-

In recent weeks, he has backed down from a pledge to introduce a super tax designed to siphon off excessively high oil profits.

Partly because of the promise of higher prices, Esso and Broken Hill have been able to boost oil reserves at their equally owned Bass Strait operation, leading to optimistic Australian press reports that a little more time has been bought before the oil crunch

Some observers say this optimism may be somewhat misplaced. Current oil reserves, of about 2.5 billion barrels, are being rapidly depleted and output from the Bass Strait which produces 90 percent of the daily output of 400,000 barrels, will see oil flows drop in the 1980s.

As a result of the higher predicted reserves, Australia's current ability to produce 65 percent of its domestic oil needs will fall to 45 percent by 1985, instead of the previously forecast 30 percent level.

If not for the prospects of greatly increased export earnings from uranium, coal and natural gas, even the revised oil capability would have resulted in awesome problems for a resource-rich country already facing balance of payments difficulties.

The ever-increasing demand for transport fuels means that by 1985 oil imports would triple to 600,000 barrels daily with the import bill rising five-fold to around $5 billion.

According to Broken Hill's chairman, Sir James McNeill, Australia's crude oil production last year meant a saving in imports of $2.3 billion. He told a recent conference that Australia will have no alternative to rising oil imports in the short term:

The country should spend over a billion dollars on oil exploration in the next decade in order to find new, substantial fields, according to the Australian Petroleum Exploration

The energy coordinator for Esso Australia, Frank Jeffries, calculates that Australia has a 20 percent chance

Subsidiary organized

TULSA-W.H. Thompson Jr., president and chief operating officer of MAPCO Inc., announced the company has formed a new subsidiary company named MAPCO International

The new company is engaged principally in the acquisition, sale and exchange of foreign crude oil and petroleum products. In addition, MAPCO International is responsible for marketing crude oil owned or controlled by MAPCO.

Thompson also announced that Allen R. Ratti has joined MAPCO International as vice president and general manager in charge of all of its day-to-day operations.

Geologists set meeting

Permian Basin geologists who work the New Mexico area will meet Tuesday in the Midland Country Club.

The event will get under way at No organized program is scheof discovering more than 5 billion more barrels of oil and an 80 percent chance of finding 1.8 billion barrels, the latter virtually doubling current reserves

In this light, the odds are heavily against a viable hydrocarbon discovery in the Exmouth Plateau, off the sparely populated northwest.

The remote location and water depths would virtually rule out any prospect of development if the submerged plateau, more than nine times the size of Hawaii, is found to hold only natural gas.

Even technology for tapping significant oil there has barely gone beyond the drawing board stage. The rigid steel platforms, used in the Bass Strait and the North Sea, would shake to pieces as a result of stresses generated by current and wave action.

One British offshore engineering firm is thinking in terms of a huge concrete habitat on the ocean floor, where men in shirt-sleeves, would operate production facilities.

Oil experts suggest the odds are no better than 10-to-1 against finding significant oil at Exmouth where the first exploration well, in 900 feet of water, will be drilled later this year in the Rankin Basin.

The real test comes next year when the consortia headed by Esso and Phillips drill their first wells.

Other oil majors involved in the five Exmouth permit areas, about 12,300 square miles each in area, where they will spend $500 million by 1983, include Esso, Mobil, California Asiatic, Gulf, Hudbay Oil, Canadian Superior, British Petroleum, Shell and Australian companies.

However, the Northwest Shelf consortium with proven reserves of at least 18 trillion cubic feet of natural gas holds the most hope.

The consortium, which includes Shell, Broken Hill, California Asiatic and British Petroleum, expect by the middle of next year to have completed a $60 million project definition study which would include firm export contracts, with Japanese and U.S. utilities, for 6.5 million metric tons of liquefied natural gas annually. Only then will it decide to embark on a six-year development program.

West Australian Premier Sir Charles Court has predicted the Northwest Shelf will win Australia export incomes totalling $11 billion.

Openers complete

National Co-op Refinery Association no. 1-B Myron A. Smith has been completed to reopen Ellenburger production in the Apco-Warner, West field of Pecos County, 12 miles southwest of Imperial.

The operator reported a 24hour pumping potential of 107.95 barrels of 39-gravity oil, no water, through perforations from 4,910 to 4,931 feet after 250 gallons of acid. The gas-oil ratio is 269-1

Total depth is 4,935 feet and 5.5-inch casing is cemented on bottom. The plugged back depth. is 4,933 feet.

Wellsite is 1,980 feet from southeast and 3,300 feet from southwest lines of section 59, block 10, H&GN survey.

WELL RECLASSIFIED A recently completed Devonian gas discovery in Pecos County has been reclassified as an oil discovery. The project, Hillin Production Co. No. 1-7 Thigpin repotentialed for a 24-hour flowing potential of 122 barrels of 53.3-gravity oil, plus 60 barrels of water, through a choke of unreported size and perforations from 7,459 to 7,468 feet after 200 gallons of acid. The Strawn discovery was completed in May as a gas strike for a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 2,075,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 7,910 to 7,920 feet.

Hole is bottomed at 9,427 feet and 4.5-inch casing was cemented at 8,026 feet. The plugged back depth is 7,800 feet.

Wellsite is 1,200 feet from north and 467 feet from east lines of section 7, block C-3, EL&RR survey and 11.5 miles northwest of Sheffield.

The Pendnsylvanian was topped at 6,944 feet on ground elevation os 2,301 feet. A detrial was hit at 7,870 feet and the Devonian was entered at 7,910

Other tops include Silurian at 8,096, Fusselman at 8,103, Simp son at 8,248 and Ellenburger at 9,050 feet.

Supporters of phaseout mustering needed votes

By MIKE SHANAHAN

MONDAY, JULY 31, 1978

WASHINGTON (AP) - Supporters of phasing out price controls on natural gas today were mustering the votes they will need to break a filibuster when the measure reaches the Senate floor toward the end of this

Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., told reporters he plans to allow four days of debate before forcing a vote on breaking a filibuster. The chances of breaking a filibuster on the first vote are considered slim, but Byrd said he would schedule votes daily in an effort to come up with the 60 votes necessary to limit debate.

The natural gas pricing measure is one of the most controversial segments of the package of energy bills that eviolved from the energy plan President Carter sent to Capitol Hill more than 15 months ago.

The bill will reach the Senate floor on Thursday or Friday.

In the House, meanwhile, the week will be devoted mostly to foreign policy and defense issues, including debate starting today on lifting the three-year-old embargo against U.S. arms sales to Turkey.

The natural gas conference agreement to be decided in the Senate this week would lift federal controls over natural gas prices by 1985.

The Senate had voted to lift controls by 1983, but the House had agreed with Carter that price regulation should continue.

It took six months for House and Senate conferees to reach a compromise agreement which would immediately raise the current price ceiling of $1.49 per thousand cubic feet of gas to $1.93. The price then would rise about 10 percent a year until complete deregulation in 1985.

Under certain conditions, the president or Congress would be able to reimpose controls for a limited time. Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., a member of the conference committee, says the natural gas bill will cost consumers too much.

Dismissing claims by producers that they need higher profits to encourage discovery of new gas reserves, Abourezk has indicated he will try to block a final vote on the conference agreement by staging a filibuster.

He is expected to get some help from conservative Republicans who believe the natural gas bill does not deregulate prices fast enough.

It was not clear if supporters of the natural gas compromise would be able to muster the 60 votes needed to break a filibuster.

The Senate has already approved a conference agreement on converting some industries from scarce oil reserves to coal.

The House, meanwhile, will work on four of the five parts of Carter's plan for conserving U.S. energy, rather than voting on them one at a time.

A fifth part of the energy plan, a massive tax on U.S.-produced crude oil, is given only a 50-50 chance at best.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said the Senate will likely begin debate on the natural gas agreement on Friday, and may then work during an unusual Saturday session. The House vote on the Turkish arms question is expected to be extremely close. The Senate approved lifting the embargo last week.

The foreign military aid authorization bill, which the Senate passed last week after demanding to be consulted by Carter on future U.S. troop withdrawals from South Korea, also is expected to draw House debate. The key issues are congressional consult8ation on the troop pullou question and whether to end a trade embargo against the white-ruled gov-

Union Oil Co. memo points out government rules not enforced

By LARRY KRAMER The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - A newly discovered 1975 Union Oil Co. internal memorandum reveals that at least one major oil company deliberately ignored certain federal pricing regulations because the government was not enforcing them. The memo has given Department of Energy attorneys the first hard evidence to support their contention that at least some oil companies understood the complex pricing regulations imposed after the 1973 Arab oil embargo - a fact the oil companies have disputed continuously in court.

And, the memo reveals, Union Oil deliberately refrained from seeking guidance in understanding the regulations from the Department of Energy in an apparent attempt to maximize profits by using its interpretation of what new costs could automatically be passed on to consumers.

"It would not be good strategy to request an FEA (Federal Energy Administration) interpretation," the memo from Union Oil official Thomas-B. Sleeman to other company officials stated. "Rather, we should file our next reports using interpretation 2" - a second translation of a federal pricing law more favorable to oil companies. "The worst that can happen is they will force us back to No. 1' - an interpretation Union Oil admitted was "supported by a literal reading of the regulations. "No price reduction would be required."

Later in the memo, Sleeman wrote: "We cannot blame the government for low profits in refining and marketing - they will allow us to earn

The document surfaced in the discovery process of an obscure lawsuit filed by gas station retailers against Union Oil for allegedly raising gas prices unfairly.

The Department of Energy has joined that suit on the side of the gas station owners. When the memo was discovered it immediately was made available to other DOE attorneys working on several other oil company cases concering the controversial pricing regulations.

Despite the fact that distribution of the memo was subject to court restrictions in Minnesota, government attorneys succeeded in securing court permission to share the document with attorneys working on other cases.

Last week, the DOE legal team working on a lawsuit filed by several oil companies aginst the government over its attempt to clarify its regula-tions submitted the memo in new motions filed here with the Temporary Emergency Court of Appeals

The new document "casts considerable doubt on the validity of certain factual assertions made by the refiner-plaintiffs in their allegations concerning the refining industry's general lack of any contemporaneous understanding of the FEA cost passthrough regulations," said the government filing.

The document supports its contention, the government claims, "that refiners, particularly the majors, understood far more about the cost pass-through regulations than plaintiffs have admitted in these proceedings and that they silently, and in some cases deliberately, exploited the failure of the agency's compliance personnel to enforce the correct . . .

"Government counsel believe that the Union memorandum illustrates how the district courts improperly relied upon the representations of the plaintiff refiners that the regulations were vague and that their meaning could not be understood by the industry."

The regulations in question involve passing costs through to company customers. Essentially, the oil companies were ordered to set their prices for refined gasoline at the May 15, 1973, price, and were told they would be allowed to pass on any product-cost increases automatically. That meant that if their raw material cost went up, they automatically could increase their final product price by the same amount.

And, if the price for a raw material went up in one month, the oil company could "bank" that increase if it wanted, and not apply it until later. This would become necessary because there were certain ceilings set on how much gas prices could rise in

The controversy rose over non-product cost increases. The energy regulators said that these costs which included such things as management overhead, marketing and advertising costs and other variable costs - would not be automatically passed on. "The whole point of the regulations was to keep those costs down," said one DOE official. While the non-product cost increases would, in some cases, be allowed to be passed on, the government would not allow them to be 'banked" and thus used to increase costs later.

Some oil companies found two ways to include non-product cost increases in their pass-through-increases which in 1975 were limited to about 10 percent a month.

The first group "proportionalized" the costs. That is, they took some product cost increases and some nonproduct cost increases - totaling 10 percent - and banked the remaining product cost increases until later.

The second group became known as the "reversers." These firms took what was a more economically favorable stance by first applying 100 percent of their non-product costs to pass-through increases and then filling the rest of the allowable 10 percent increase with product costs.

Shell tells coal plans

HOUSTON (AP) - Shell Oil Co. reported today lignite coal production could begin by 1983-85 from a 47,000acre site near Hampton, Ark.

Shell said exploration activities have confirmed mineable and salable deposits of more than 150 million tons. Annual surface mining production would approximate 5 to 6 million

Assuming an available market and a successful marketing effort, Shell said, actual production and customer deliveries could start in the 1983-85 time period. Mine development and environmental studies are now under

With Shell as the operator, Shell and General Crude Oil Co., a subsidiary of International Paper Co., entered into a joint agreement last July to evaluate and develop, if commercially feasible, the deposits.

"I am convinced that our problem in the schools increasingly is not in the early grades, and is not related to teaching language and mathematics. I think we have turned that around considerably." he said.

"The major American education problems are in the upper grade levels, and most especially in the high schools. Title I money is not sufficient to follow young people along through all of the grades, and some of the early gains are not sustained," he said.

Boyer has his own ideas about reshaping elementary, junior and high schools. He espouses a new three-level system built around: -A basic school where youngsters would learn to read and write effectively by the fourth grade. -A middle school where all students would be exposed to "the common core of general knowledge," focusing on "our heritage, contemporary social issues and institutions, and the fu--A three-year transi-

New law to fine dog owners for 'untidy' pets

By MALCOLM N. CARTER

NEW YORK (AP) - This city of many dogs, big dogs and nice dogs, lap dogs and mean dogs, will try Tuesday to become a city of nothing but tidy dogs.

That's the dawn of a new law that mandates $100 fines for owners who ignore $25 summonses for failing to remove the evidence that their dogs had done more than simply trod the city's steets.

The uninformed may wonder whether Mayor Edward I. Koch has made a mountain of a molehill by assigning 2,500 enforcers to the poop troop. But the Bureau of Animal Affairs estimates the molehill at 175 tons a day, enough to fill 30 garbage trucks.

No one says it will be easy to transform the city's byways and parks from virtual minefields that only the wary can traverse unsullied. Though sales of scoops have been brisk, there are fears the law will be ignored, even by those charged with enforcing it.

Not the least of the problems is that only 300,000 dogs are licensed. Another 400,000 of man's best friend are said to be strays. Worse, the state law doesn't say what to do with the wastes once removed. It's OK now to place unsealed doggy bags in mesh-wire litter baskets, and officials concede that's hardly better than the street. The availability of litter baskets poses a problem, too. Sanitation Commissioner Anthony Vaccarello says 7,000 of them disappear yearly, leaving many corners bare. The alterntive, he says, is home disposal.

'What are we supposed to do with it?" Marsha Kaufman, assistant manager of a Queens pet shop, demands. "I suppose you could throw it into an open car and maybe someone will steal it."

Allows Vaccarello, "It's going to be a problem, I'm sure.' To encourage compliance, the mayor has marshaled all the ammunition in his enforcement arsenal including police, meter maids, the sanitation department and environmental agencies — and ordered them to ticket violators.

"If dog owners exercise their revention of Cruelty to Animals fears the law will boomerang. "We're afraid it's going to cause more dumping of animals on the streets," says spokeswoman Leslie Eustace. State Sen. Sheldon Farber of Queens, who voted against the state laws that will not be enforced is to create a contempt for the law," he Only a few cities have similar

In Washington, Environmental Health Director Bayliss Walker says the district's law has been enforced in just one problem area lately. Despite a $200 fine, Chicago has found it difficult to force dog walkers to carry "some means" to clean up after their pets.

A spokesman for Atlanta's Department of Environment and Streets says "we hardly ever enforce" the law. In Albuquerque, N.M., no one days in jail for failing to heed a enough to be covered by New York's law, claims it wili enforce the statute starting Aug. 1 but envisions no special effort to do so. The law, says a police official, was intended for New York City and its high-rise apartment buildings.

Predictably, the law has not been greeted with unbridled glee. Calling it "stupid and unfair," Bob Wisdom maintains there is "no way" he'll clean up after his Labrador retriever. But Susan Wagner says, "A park is not a pasture ... I'm going to pick up. I used to do it but stopped because people looked at me like I was crazy." Pet store proprietors, meanwhile, say there's been a sudden rush on contraptions with names like "super duper pooper scooper."

'They're going great," Deborah Russo, manager of the Doggie Diner in Greenwich Village, relates.
