Kenneth Carr introduced guests and F. F. A. chapters and their sweetheart candidates and parents.

Presentation of Leadership Awards were made by Walker Nichols, Pioneer Natural Gas Representative, Amarillo. Each year, for many years, Pioneer Natural Gas has supplied banners for the Future Farmers Awards.

Speaker was Lowell Catlett, Area 1 president, Dalhart.

Catlett stressed four major points vital to the future of America. They were leadership, point of view, utilizing opportunity and perseverance. Catlett stated that leadership was something which took shape in early life which really has its beginning with parents giving a child the will and direction to work and to do a job well and feel the sense of accomplishment. Once firmly implanted, this leadership grows with the person into adulthood.

"To have an original point of view is also important to the future," Catlett said. The original point of view gives a person the power to live with himself intelligently...it is creative toward the future of America. Without original thought, people of this nation would be compared to the "klunk" as said of the fool's type gold.

Utilizing what is before you must also be continually developed...the land is here, the equipment is here and this country might survive without military or governmental funds of the land ... food.

It also takes perseverance, a will to succeed. "A person without a purpose is like a ship without a sail," Catlett said. All these factors are necessary to the future of America. 1966-67 Littlefield District Sweetheart, Miss Baker, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Baker, Sudan.

Ginger Hughes, representing the Farwell F. F. A. chapter was first runner-up. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hughes, Farwell. Kathy Roberts, Anton, was second runnerup and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Roberts. Miss Pamela St. Clair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin St. Clair represented the Muleshoe chapter as a candidate.

The contest for the title was closely contested, requiring six eliminations before the finalist were selected. Other contestants and their chapters were: Brenda Stewart, Bovina; Judy Wade, Whitharral; Debbie Hall, Spade; Connie Sue Harlan, Lazbuddie; Debbie Barton, Springlake-Earth; Patsy Collins, Morton; Sheryl Peters, Whietface; Glenda Mingus, Friona; Darlene Dysiet, Amherst; Donna Dieising, Pep; Jan Heard, Maple; Sheryl Medlin, Bula; and Jan Holder, Littlefield.

Citizens Charge Becomes Reality: Chairman Retires

"Wake up, Muleshoe!" was the charge given to citizens a year ago by Harvey Bass when he took over the chairmanship of the Business Activities Committee. The results of this statement has been seen in many successful phases since that day.

Bass recalled some of these activities, the random comment made that these great things could not be accomplished and the coming to pass of many of them and foundation of other at his final meeting as chairman of the committee held Tuesday at Paul's Cafe.

He said "Those who said it couldn't be done are now being surpassed by those who are doing the job."

"This has not been accomplished by the work or ideas of one man, but that of many, the community in general working as a team for the progress and forward thrust of Muleshoe and Bailey County. These programs have involved the cooperation, work and thought of hundreds which is within itself the way to success for any city." Some of the Business Activities Committee projects have been the organization of the Industrial Foundation, the Go-Go Committee which have performed many community betterment projects, a steering committee headed by Lindell Murray and Olin Burrows with several assistants.

The Washington Birthday sales, Sidewalk Sale, Moonlight Madness, Halloween Parade and window decorating contests have all been a part of this program as was the awarding of "Most Courteous placques" for store employees.

Gwen Smith, Terry Parish Repeat Candlelight Vows

Wedding vows for Gwen Smith and Terry Parish were read in double ring ceremonies in the First Methodist Church in Earth at 7 p.m. Nov. 25. Wilbur Dennis, minister of the Earth Church of Christ read the vows by candlelight. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Smith, Pleasant Valley Community and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Parish, Earth. The altar was decorated with twin candleabra, entwined with greenery, accented by large white satin bows, holding seven long white lighted tapers. Baskets of lovely white gladiolas flanked each side of the candleabra forming a lovely background for the ceremony. Miss Arta Simmons, vocalist, sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "I Walk Beside Thee." She was accompanied by Karen Jones at the piano and Joan Dawson, organist. Given in marriage by her father the bride was beautiful in a floor length wedding gown of white satin designed with a fitted bodice enhanced with fitted overblouse of white lace that came to a point at the backwaist, and formed a busel effect at the sides. The scalloped neckline was embroidered with tiny seed pearls and blended with the beauty of the long lace sleeves designed to form tiny points over the wrists and buttoned with tiny pearls. The skirt was fashioned with a fullness of lovely satin gathered at the bodice point of the back waist extending downward to fall into a pleatlike effect to form a short train. Her elbow length veil of silk illusion was bordered with lace and re-embroidered with tiny seed pearls. It fell from a lovely pillbox satin hat. She carried a bouquet of white feathered carnations centered with tiny pink rosebuds, complemented with long satin streamers tied in love knots and dotted with tiny white wedding bells. The bride carried out the tradition of something old, something new, something borrowed and blue. For something old she carried a silk hankie belonging to the groom's grandmother. Something new was her veil, something borrowed was the wedding gown, and she wore a penny in her shoe given to her by the groom. Shelly Robertson, of Cotton Center, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Carolyn Smith, Sister of the bride and Becky Parish, cousin of the groom. The three were dressed in fitted sheath dresses fashioned of pink velvet featuring long sheer sleeves. Short Season Soybean Halfway-The Patterson soybean, a product of the soybean breeding program of the High Plains Research Foundation, was planted on a large scale by many farmers for the first time in 1966. Reports received at the Foundation from a large number of the growers indicate yields of from 30 to 44 bushels per acre.

This "short season" soybean matures in from 100 to 125 days after planting. It was developed by Foundation Scientists as a possible "catch crop" for farmers to have available in case hail or other weather difficulties destroyed other long season crops, and it would be too late to replant. The Patterson variety proved to be a savior for the farmers who lost their cotton thru hail in 1966. The largest acreage for this season, however, was planted following wheat. The crop matured in time to plant wheat for the 1967 season.

During the development period of this new variety, the original projected yield was estimated to be between 25 and 35 bushels per acre. Dr. E. H. Collister, Registered State Licensed Plant Breeder who developed the Patterson variety at the Foundation, said that reports received from a number of farmers listed yields of from 30 to 44 bushels per acre under irrigation, and some excellent yields under dryland planting. "Many farmers reported their intentions to increase their planting acreage of this soybean in 1967."

Among the high yields reported under irrigation were the following 44 bushels, Hereford; 42 and 43 bushels, Littlefield; 38 bu., Morton; 38.5 & 39.8, Plainview; 37 & 40 bushels, Farwell; 40 1/2 bu., Idalou; 37.5 bu., Lockney; 38.5, 40.8 & 43.8, Dimmitt; 36.1 & 37 bu., Floydada; 35 bu., Tulla; 38 & 40 bu., Hale Center; 35 bu., Boise City, Okla.; 30 bu., Farnsworth; 43.8 bu., Sunray; 41 bu., Halfway.

Some of the dryland yields reported included 30 1/4 Bu, Barwise; 35 Bu, Sumner (near Paris, Texas); 32 Bu, Jasper, Mo; and 33 bushels St. Joseph, Mo.

Excerpts taken from the farmers reporting indicate considerable satisfaction with the new Patterson Soybean. E. W. Jones, Rt. 4, Floydada, who had a yield of 36.1 bushels of Patterson per acre reported, "The yield surprised me on these beans. They combined perfectly. I did not expect this much. I would encourage anyone to plant Patterson Soybeans." C. E. Harris, Tulla, with 35 bushels said, "Fine crop anytime, especially following wheat."

Bob Veigel, Route 4, Hereford, with 44 bushels per acre wrote in his report; 1. "Very surprised at yield especially with bug damage (stink bugs). Yield equalled that of Hill and Hinn beans. We had 200 acres of Soybeans." 2. By far the easiest bean to harvest because they did not tangle, branches stood erect. 3. Cleanest beans around with less than 2% cracks and trash. 4. Beans not brittle but soft and dry. Moisture was 11%.

Robert E. Kirchhoff, Halfway, with a yield of 40 bushels per acre of Patterson reported, "The surprise of my life. They looked like 25 bushels but they were all beans. The Patterson cut and thrashed beautifully."

T. H. Chatham, Plainview, had a yield of 37 bushels per acre on his farm near Barwise and said, "Well pleased, 100 days from planting to harvest."

Bert Williams, Farwell, Texas, had a yield of 37 bushels per acre. He wrote in his report, "I was well pleased with the yield. It took one less watering than my Hill Soybean."

Hubert L. Gohlke, Route 1, Littlefield, with a yield of 42 bushels per acre of the Patterson reported, "They combined very good."

pany of Morton harvested 38 bushels per acre. They stated, "This is a good producer and about 20 to 30 days ahead of Lee and Hinn varieties—no shatter to speak of."

Norman R. Hiner, Boise City, Oklahoma, had a yield of 35 bushels. He harvested his beans on October 6th. He said, "Could have been harvested two weeks earlier but was delayed by rain."

Many farmers reported they used treflan for weed control.

Administrators Attend Tech Conference

Neal Dillman, Superintendent of Muleshoe Schools, Ralph Stevenson, Director of Special Programs, Tom Jinks, High School Principal, R. E. Everett, Jr. High Principal, and Elizabeth Watson, Curriculum Director, attend the Secondary Principals Drive - In Conference, Friday in the Student Union Building, Texas Tech, Lubbock.

This conference was a pilot project sponsored by the Texas Association of Secondary School Principals with the cooperation of the Texas Education Agency, Texas State Teachers Association, and Texas Technological College.

Registration began at 1:30 p.m. and the First General Assembly was at 2:00 p.m. Texas Tech President Grover Murray welcomed the conferees. In the section meetings at 3:45 the following areas were discussed, The Plainview Vocational Program, the Midland Science-Math Program, and the Snyder English In Service Program, and "Keysort Scheduling of the Poor Boy's I. B. M." The Second General Assembly at 7:30 p.m. discusses the following topics:

"What Can We Do About the Handicapped Student in Secondary School?" and "The Guidance Programs We Must Have to Meet the Needs of Secondary Students."

Data Shows Farm Value Continues Increase

The upward trend of farm property values continues to increase the assets of Texas farmers, Boyd Andrews, Texas A&M University Extension resource development specialist, says farm property prices increased an average of 17 percent from 1963 to 1965.

Andrews obtained his information from a study conducted last summer. Data were gathered from a 26-county sample which included counties from each of the state's 17 types-of-farming areas.

Only bona fide sales of 20 or more acres, outside of any city limits and recorded on warranty deeds were studied. Andrews limited his study to exchanges for hustrandry purposes.

Per-acre land values in the irrigated farming areas of the lower and upper Rio Grande Valley and southern High Plains seem to be closely correlated to agricultural production and net farm income. But this dependence on agricultural conditions was not evident in other sections of the state, he noted.

Opal Thompson, secretary-treasurer of the Business Activities Committee was commended for her work during the year as was Chamber of Commerce manager Bob Janca who came to Muleshoe after many of these programs were in the making and has worked hand in hand with the committees in carrying out these projects.

In closing, Bass urged the community to continue to push forward and grow and to give their full support to the new chairman which will be named at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Monday evening.

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church.

The bride's table was covered in white satin with a white overlay of net, and centered with an arrangement of pink flowers. The lovely three tiered white wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom standing under an archway of pearls.

Beth Dent and Pruda Kay Sanders served cake and pink punch from appointments of crystal and sterling silver.

For a weekend wedding trip to Ruidoso, the bride wore a pink shift fashioned with three quarter length sleeves and a matching pink sleeveless coat trimmed in white. Her accessories were natural, and she wore a pink rose bud corsage.

The bride is a '65 graduate of Springlake-Earth School. She recently graduated from Isabella's school of Beauty in Lubbock and is currently employed at the Earth Beauty Salon.

The groom is a senior in the Springlake-Earth School, and plans to attend Western Republic College in Amarillo to study electronics, following graduation in May.

The couple are now at home in Earth.

mittee and its chairman as well as Saturday's gigantic parade.

John Shelton, chairman of the Christmas activities, gave a report to the committee on obtaining the city Christmas tree and told of the approximate total cost in getting it here from Cloudercroft without the help of those donating time and equipment. It would have cost the citizens around $700, had labor and equipment been charged for. Instead the actual cost ran about $108. Some 200 persons time was involved in getting the tree, bringing it in and decorating it.

In a report on the Christmas parade, Mrs. Truman Lindsey and Mrs. J. Lewis Morris, were highly commended for making this parade the success that it was. Twenty-seven floats were entered, compared to one last year of the original variety. Others last year were of the commercial variety. The mile-long parade featured some original ideas in fantasy and religion.

GIANT SYNTHETICS PRODUCERS ARE TAKING COTTON'S MARKETS

HOW CAN 500,000 FARMERS FIGHT BACK?

The Farmers' Answer: 'Expand Research & Promotion'

With huge research and promotion expenditures, synthetic fiber firms rapidly are taking cotton's markets. As a result, the carryover is at an all-time record. Acreage is the lowest since 1872—down 30 per cent on the average for 1966.

But farmers have developed a way to fight back. It enables them to pool their resources to mount a hard-hitting research and promotion program to save cotton markets, acreage, and income.

Self-Help Plan Brings Beltwide Acclaim, Support

The farmer-originated plan gives growers an opportunity to vote, in a Beltwide referendum, on establishing a uniform assessment of $1.00 per bale for expanded research and promotion. Thousands of growers and 61 cotton organizations have endorsed this approach—overwhelmingly. The press is praising farmers for their efforts to help themselves.

We Compliment Cotton Farmers On Their Business Approach

Clearly, the plan is based on hard and sound thinking. All projects must be initiated by grower trustees elected by cotton producer organizations. Other provisions give equal assurance of farmer direction and control. Any individual farmer who does not want to participate can have his money refunded.

We recognize that cotton is the economic lifeblood of our business and our community. We are happy to offer any assistance we can give our farmer friends as they work for approval in the referendum.

Supplemental Winter Feeding Did Not Pay

THROCKMORTON-- Supplemental feeding during the winter paid in only two of six years in a study at Texas A&M University's Texas Experimental Ranch.

When Dr. William "Dub" Waldrip, A&M researcher, began the project six years ago, feed dealers supplied him with free range cubes. But the free cubes stopped a couple of years ago when Waldrip's research began to show supplemental feeding isn't always a profitable practice--particularly if pastures are rotated to keep them in good shape.

Waldrip says in the six-year study, cows that got no supplement weaned calves averaging 480 pounds. Cows which got 1 and 1/2 pounds a day for 90 days weaned calves averaging 486 pounds. And cows getting 3 pounds of feed a day, weaned calves at 500 pounds.

He says the difference in weaning weights attributed to supplemental feeding was not economical in the six-year average.

Supplemental feeding was not profitable in 1960, 1962, 1963 and 1965 at the A&M Experimental Ranch. Feeding was profitable in 1961 and very profitable in 1964, says Waldrip.

In the six-year average, there was no difference in percent calf crop between cows getting supplemental feed and those that did not.

In the test, stocking rates ranged from one mother cow on 13 acres to one cow on 29 acres. Even on the heavy stocked pastures, supplemental feeding during the winter would probably be profitable.

TO VIET NAM--Pvt. Gerald B. Roddam, A recent graduate of Postal Operations School, Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana, left for a tour of duty in Viet Nam Dec. 6th.

Tree seedlings, suitable for windbreak plantings in Central, South and West Texas can be ordered now for shipment between mid-January and March 1967, according to Mason Cloud of the Texas Forest Service, College Station.

Species available from the Indian Mound Nursery near Alto include: black locust, catalpa, Chinese elm, cottonwood, mulberry, Osage orange, redcedar, sycamore, eucalyptus, buffaloberry, rose multiflora, and Austrian, loblolly, ponderosa, shortleaf, and slash pine. Stratified black walnut seed is also available.

Orders must be for 100 or more trees in multiples of 50. Cost of seedlings and seed is $1.50 per hundred plus state sales tax. Seedlings may not be resold nor used for ornamental purposes. "Orders will be accepted on a first-come-first-serve basis and shipped prepaid," Cloud said.

A Disturbing War Defies Predictions

Guest Editorial

One of the frankest official comments on the Viet Nam war to come from an official source in many months is, regrettably, one certain to evoke gloom in the hearts of Americans. Spoken by a high administration aide, it was to the effect that a long grueling struggle lies ahead and that all predictions about when the war will end can be forgotten.

Many bits and scraps of information support this grim outlook. The big increase ordered in pilot training and other developments pointing to a long-range buildup of conventional military power. Steadily rising intelligence estimates of North Vietnamese infiltration rates into the South. Inability of American and Saigon government troops to clear large areas of the countryside of Viet Cong and establish successful pacification programs.

The prospects for a protracted struggle form a dark cloud over the future, and one to which hardly any silver lining can be attached.

In Southeast Asia it means a continuation, and probably an intensification, of the horrors of war for millions already bone weary and listless from the conflict. It means the perpetuation of terror, atrocity, uncertainty, hopelessness, instability and overhanging all, the threat of ultimate triumph by the forces of aggression and tyranny.

To the United States it means an increasing strain both on the home front and abroad.

There are those who maintain that, by forcing the nation to tool up for a large-scale conventional war, the Viet Nam conflict is actually weakening U. S. military strength with respect to the real threat, Soviet Russia. To illustrate, it is pointed out the Russians are installing an anti-ballistic missile system around Soviet cities. The United States has developed a superior missile killer but the cost of deploying it, on top of the $20-billion-a-year cost of Viet Nam, has thus far been considered prohibitive.

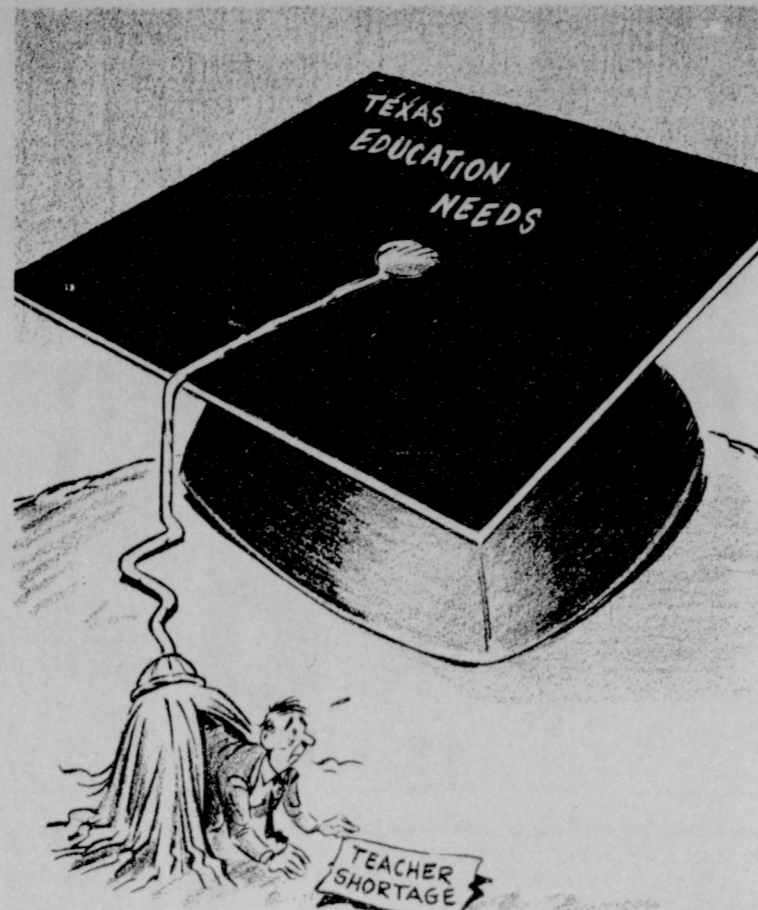

The war's impact also is being felt on the home front. Human and financial resources needed to solve the mushrooming social and economic problems of American cities are being diverted to the war effort. High defense spending has created an inflation orge that gobbles up gains in the standard of living almost as rapidly as they appear. By postponing solutions for the trade and balance of payments problem, the war also threatens a further undermining of the value of the dollar.

On top of all this, of course, are the intangible effects--the grief, the dislocation, the disruption of career plans, the strain on moral standards.

In short the United States is engaged in a major struggle with the Communist enemy, and the sacrifices it imposes are beginning to tell in every area of national life. As the sacrifices increase, so doubtless will the questioning of the wisdom of our involvement in Viet Nam.

But the answers to these questions remain the same as they have been from the start: War with the enemy that is bent on destroying us is inevitable, once the unthinkable solution of surrender is dismissed. Who is to say that the struggle would be more promising of success, the sacrifices less taxing had the United States postponed joining the battle until some other time, at some other place?

BIG STATE - BIG CAP

WASHINGTON BUREAU NEWS REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

The 3 Billion- Why LBJ Acts- His Last Chance? Congress Concurs-

Washington, D. C.--The recent gathering of leaders of Congress at the President's ranch in Texas was a deadly serious business and the decisions made there--and concurred in by opposition Republicans--might be crucial to the nation's stability in the next eighteen months.

President Johnson was not taking the initiative in proposing to cut three billion dollars from the current budget and to trim something from current spending in a sudden move for approval from economic conservatives or in an appeal for voter approval, primarily.

He was acting because there are grim signs that unless the nation balances its budget and its international payments the dollar may at last collapse in international financial circles. Gold has been flowing steadily out of the nation during the sixties.

France is currently seeking to set up a European bank which would add emphasis to gold (and its movement). This could cause serious problems for the dollar and Washington. The French think the pound is highly suspect and that devaluation is only a matter of time.

They are convinced Prime Minister Harold Wilson is going to lose his desperate fight to save the pound and that when the pound is devalued the dollar, too, will have to be devalued, since there are so many foreign countries holding dollars in such great amounts the United States could not redeem them all, in a run, at $35 an ounce.

Not only foreign governments but foreign banks closely watch the U. S. budget and the U. S. balance of payments. For some years now leading government and private bankers have warned Washington that the dollar (gold) drain must be checked, that the U. S. must balance its international payments. These warnings have, in effect, been ignored.

President Johnson, with his commitment in Vietnam now costing 2 1/2 billions a month (some of this regularly ending up in the Bank of France) is faced with the moment of truth. He courts the real danger of a loss of confidence in the dollar. Unless the dollar can be maintained, the pound will surely collapse--for the dollar has saved the pound in two crises in two years.

Republican congressional leaders know these ominous facts and support the President's proposal to trim five billions from next year's budget; they have, in fact, been preaching this theme in vain in recent years. They see their support of the President in his current courses as vindication of their warnings in recent years.

but as far as I can tell taxes have gone up every year since the nation was founded, despite the fact two-thirds of the office holders have been elected on a delete last line holders have been elected on a platform to reduce them.

And actually most of them believed they could, until they got in and found out how many peo-

Guest Editorial

IN JANUARY, a new and more conservative Congress will begin swinging sledge hammers at a large wall of domestic problems that separates our society from a more abundant economy.

Most of these problems were with us two years ago when the President and a high-spending Congress were swept into office. We could not have expected anything more. No matter who is at the helm, the Ship of State cannot be maneuvered out of troubled waters in two short years.

But there is ample evidence that, by trying to buy its way out of trouble, the 89th Congress only towed us into deeper water. Most political observers agree that the new Republican faces in the 90th Congress represent the electorate's objection to such an expensive policy.

Today the poor and the middle class are drowning in a nose-high tide of high prices. This ruinous inflation can be traced primarily to Washington's liberal handling of the national checkbook.

SINCE THE BIRTH of the New Frontier and Great Society thousands of concerned Americans have been warning that frantic federal spending would bring national trouble. Until recently these warnings have been shrugged off by most governments economists as reactionary nonsense.

But now it appears that the message has got through. The President has announced a $3-billion cutback in federal spending. This is not turning the lights off in the White House. It is a substantial whack at the federal budget that should have an important impact on the economy. And it was not an easy job to accomplish.

As the President pointed out, a great portion of our national spending is built-in. We cannot reduce the cost of national security when American blood is being splashed on foreign soil. We cannot withdraw agricultural price supports that are set by law.

And we cannot refuse to pay interest on a staggering national debt. This last item symbolizes the fallacy of the new economics, the spend-our-selves-out-of-trouble doctrine.

INTEREST PAYMENTS on this debt will amount to almost 11 per cent of this year's $100-billion-plus national budget. It is a built-in-penalty for excessive federal spending that began decades ago.

By trimming his budget, the President offers hope for economic improvement. We trust the 90th Congress will follow his lead. However, even with 100 per cent devotion to sensible fragility, this nation still may not be able to escape an income tax increase.

We could never support such an increase if the plans were to plow the extra money back into a boiling economy to support luxury items of the Great Society.

But if revenue from higher taxes is used to reduce the national debt, while Washington finds a way to get along on a balanced budget, a tax boost might be healthy. It could mean better interest rates, lower prices, a more stable economy--and, in the long run, lower taxes.

Whatever decision is made, Lyndon Johnson and the 90th Congress will find it hard to achieve a balanced economy and a return to rational national policy in two years. But they can point our ship in that direction--before it sinks.

spendthrifts would have sent two men.

I'll admit that occasionally some taxes are reduced, but it's only temporary.

The practical man remembers that taxes, like truth crushed to earth, will rise again.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm views the 1967 tax prospects this week.

Dear editor:

According to an article I read in a newspaper last night which somebody threw out of a car near this Johnson grass farm earlier in the day in violation of the Keep America Beautiful program, although personally I have never considered a copy of the Dallas Morning News any unsightlier than a lot of other items I could mention, including me and some other men I could name and you wouldn't print, in fact, if you kept the Keep America Beautiful slogan one hundred per cent it'd keep a lot of Congressmen off of television and a lot of lesser men off the streets; at any rate, according to this article some expert has predicted there's a "fifty-fifty chance" taxes will be raised in 1967.

This man obviously is in the dark. I'd say the chances are 100 per cent.

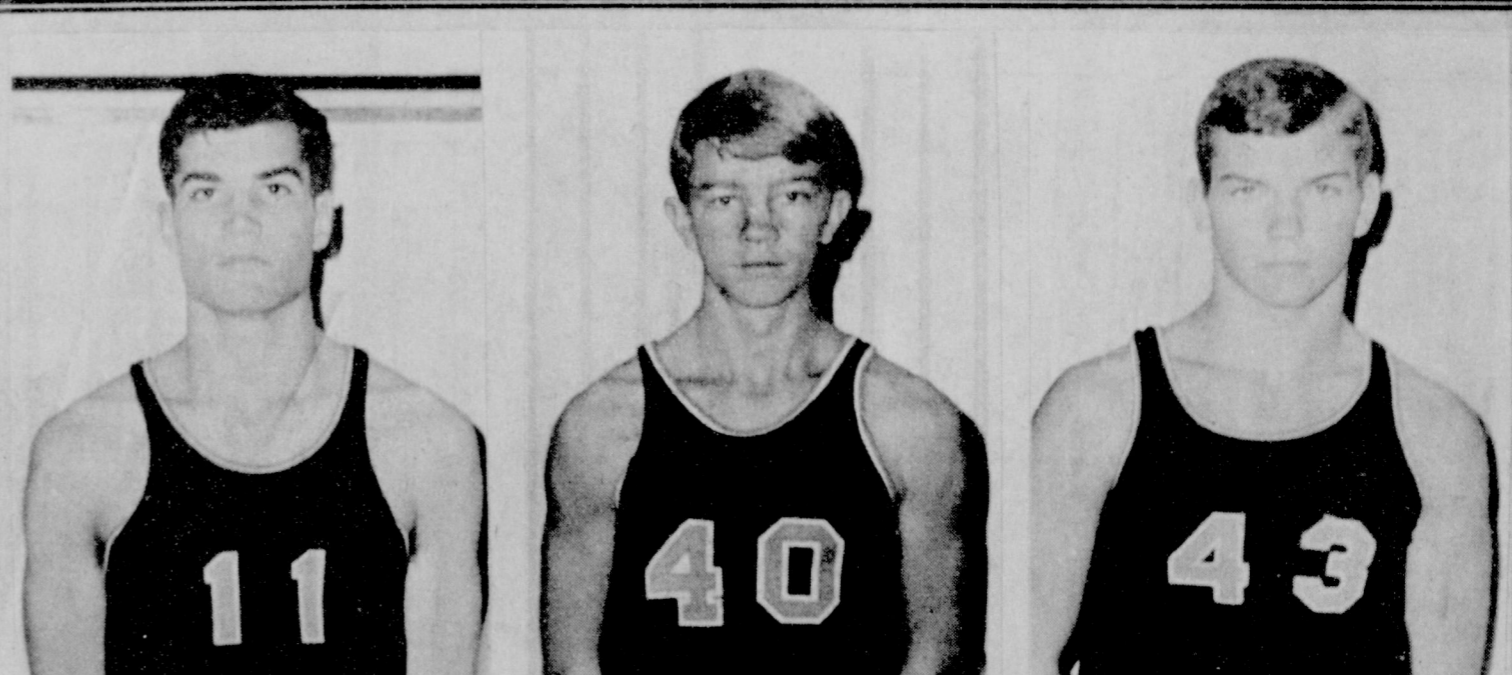

Not only for next year, but any other year you want to pick out.

Understand, I'm not saying there's anything wrong with it,

Dr. Earl Collister Resigns Post at High Plains Station

Dr. Earl H. Collister, Executive Vice-President and Trustee of the High Plains Research Foundation has resigned, effective January 1, 1967 to become Executive Vice-President of World Seeds, Inc. with headquarters in Salinas, Calif.

In his new position, Dr. Collister will be in charge of research, sales and seed distribution for the World Seeds, Inc. in its world wide operation. One of the objectives is to develop crops that will help some of the world's food problems. One of the crops included in their research program will be a wheat-rye cross that promises to be a new cash crop for the farmers and ranchers of this area. This new crop would possibly bring a higher yield and more net return, and be especially beneficial to the cattle and livestock program of this area. Research to date has shown this new cross may have a yield of about 200 bushels per acre with a high protein content. Its value for human consumption is yet to be determined. Soybeans, sunflowers and other food crops will be included in the research and development program

Dr. Collister came to the High Plains Research Foundation in November of 1959 as assistant Director and Chief Agronomist. He became director and member of the Board of Trustees in May of 1962. His appointment as Executive Vice-President and Director came on March 1, 1966. He was a member of the staff of the Texas Research Foundation for ten years before joining the staff at Halfway. Dr. Collister is recognized as one of the nation's top plant breeders and holds a registered Texas State license as a plant breeder, working in Texas for seventeen years. He developed three varieties of Sesame: Renner #1, Renner #2 and Combine type Renner 15 while at the Texas Research Foundation at Renner, Texas. Soybean varieties developed at Renner are the Arthur Hopkins and the John Alford for Central and East Texas. The Hinn and Patterson soybean varieties developed for the High Plains have been successfully produced throughout the United States.

World Seeds, Inc. was formerly titled the International Institute for Biological Research, Inc. Its President is John Strohm, who is publisher of the Ford Almanac and owner of John Strohm Associates. He is a world-famed journalist and financier.

Dr. Collister stated: "We are hiring some of the world's most noted cytogeneticists and other scientists to conduct our research work." In an interview he said, "I have enjoyed my association with the High Plains Research Foundation--it has been a very valuable experience."

EVERY GOOD GUY

Lt. R.F. Anderson
Lt. Anderson Receives Medal

Lt. Robert Floyd Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Anderson, Salt Lake City, Utah, was recently promoted to Captain. He and his wife, Judy, the former Miss Brown, Muleshoe, are stationed at Glasgow Air Force Base, Montana. Capt. Anderson left Glasgow Sept. 16 for a six-months TDY tour at Anderson AFB, Guam. He is a B-52 Bomber co-pilot. He has been awarded an air medal for his 25 missions flown. He is on crew E-09 and recently his crew was cited for outstanding airmanship by Major Gen. W. J. Crummm. Nine direct hits of 12 scored were registered by crew E-09.
Capt. Anderson is due back state-side the first of April and should have flown 60 missions at this time.
His wife is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Brown, 1809 W. Ave. B and is spending the holidays with her parents. She is a graduate of Lazzbuddie High School. She will return to her home the first of February. The Andersons have 2 children. Anderson is a 1962 Air Force Academy graduate and received his pilot training at Reese AFB.

Odd Miscues Hike Deaths During Hunt

AUSTIN--Gun carelessness by both adults and youngsters is marring a successful fall wildlife harvest, according to reports to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.
The resulting fatalities have boosted this fall's death toll beyond the 1965 total and have pressed veteran Department field men to try to recall any such wierd series of mishaps.
For example:
A deer hunter, preceding companions back to camp, hid in some brush, shook the bushes and growled like a beast. He was killed.
A young man, stepping into his pickup at dusk, was wounded by one of three rifle slugs imbedded in the vehicle in a twelve by nine-inch area. Investigators found two rifle cartridges 927 feet from the "target." There was a small bush between the gunner and the victim, about 60 feet from where the victim was struck.
A nine-year-old boy was shot out of his tree blind by an older companion who said he fired at a wild turkey. The previous week a boy hunter killed himself when his shotgun, being carried in a car, fell when the rig stopped suddenly, causing the weapon to slip.
A 10-year-old boy was killed by a 15-year-old boy when the latter was being shown a deer rifle which discharged.
A 14-year old boy was killed when he stumbled over a deer rifle left leaning against a darkened wall.

Santa and the Giant Fighter

By Lucrece Beale

Synopsis: A certain small boy talks of nothing but fighting giants. Sent to bed without supper he is awakened by a tapping at his closet door.

CHAPTER TWO

OFF TO STANTA LAND
 William Henry Christopher Preserver threw open the closet door. He waved his wooden sword and called fiercely:

"Come out, giant! I'm not afraid of you!"

Instead of a giant, out came a creature small as a baby's fist. He was round and fat and he walked with a bounce like a rubber ball.

"I'm not a giant," snapped the creature bouncing up on the boy's foot. "I'm an elfite."

"W-what is an elfite?" stammered William Henry Christopher.

"An elfite is a very small elf, silly. If you paid attention in school and studied your lessons you might learn such things."

"I don't like school," said the boy. "I'm a giant fighter."

"Well," said the elfite, "I know the biggest, meanest giant in the whole world and unless someone kills that giant he is going to destroy us all."

The boy's eyes grew big and round. "W-who is he?" he quavered.

"He is called Goko. Five days ago he captured the Fairy Queen. He means to marry her on Christmas Day. Then he will own her magic and be King of all Fairyland and she, poor creature, will be his prisoner forever. And that isn't all. Already he has captured the moon."

"The moon!" gasped the boy. "You have noticed there has been no moon in the sky for the past three nights? Goko snatched it and hid it away. He"

JESSE M. OSBORN also sues to foreclose a deed of trust dated May 4, 1959, given to secure the payment of said note, said deed of trust being to JAMES W. McPHERSON, Trustee, executed by J. O. CRAWFORD, and recorded in Vol. 37, at Page 163, of the Deed of Trust Records of Bailey County, Texas, on the following described tract in Bailey County, Texas, to-wit:

Being a part of the Northwest Quarter of Section 21, in Block Y, W. D. & F. W. JOHNSON SUBDIVISION NO. TWO, in Parmer and Bailey Counties, Texas, and described as follows:
 Being Parson's Tract No. One of Parson's Subdivision of the Southwest part of the Northwest Quarter of Section 21, said Block Y, and containing 49.95 acres of land, more or less, as shown by Parson's Plat recorded in Vol. 42, at Page 441, of the Deed Records of Bailey County, Texas, SAVE AND EXCEPT 1-1/2 acre of land conveyed by J. O. Crawford and wife, Margie Priscilla Crawford, to Eva Murrar by Warranty Deed dated January 5, 1949, recorded in Vol. 48, at Page 328, of the Deed Records of Bailey County, Texas, subject to the mineral reservations contained in Warranty Deed recorded in Vol. 39, at Page 294, of the Deed Records of Bailey County, Texas.

Cross-Plaintiff, JESSE M. OSBORN, sues ROY B. REED, and wife, BETTIE REED, JAMES HARGRAVE and wife, WANDA HARGRAVE, TOM MEEK and wife, NELL MEEK, OLL DANE and wife, WILMA DANE, LEON DOVE and wife, DELSIE DOVE, OWEN D. REED, BENNIE ST. CYR and wife, CECIL R. ST. CYR, OWEN REED and wife, BETTIE REED, KAY R. HARMON and wife, LA QUITA HARMON, R. D. RUBY and wife, MRS. R. D. RUBY, as claiming some interest in such land, but any such interest is inferior to said Deed of Trust lien.

Cross-Plaintiff, JESSE M. OSBORN, prays for judgment against JAMES O. CRAWFORD for debt of $8,431.16 and for foreclosure of deed of trust as to all Cross-Defendants.

"Where to?" asked Billy as they started away.

"To Santa Land," said the elfite. "Santa will show you the way."

Job Corps Openings

The Job Corps now has openings for a number of eligible young men, according to information received from Jesse D. Young, Manager of the Texas Employment Commission, Muleshoe Office.

Young explains that the Job Corps is a Federal sponsored program designed to assist youths who are out of school and unemployed due to a lack of education or job skills.

Eligible applicants who are accepted for Job Corps training will be sent to Centers where they will be taught job skills and given the opportunity to acquire the knowledge and self confidence needed to find and hold a job.

While in the Center, the Job Corpsman will receive a $30.00 per month living allowance, plus room, board, clothing and medical care. An additional sum of $50.00 per month will be paid the Corpsman provided that he completes 90 days or more satisfactory service in the Job Corps.

If there is a need for the Corpsman to send money home to aid in the support of a dependant, he may send home $25.00 per month and the Job Corps will send a like amount. The Corpsman will still be saving $25.00 each month, and his family will be receiving $50.00 for each month that he is in Job Corps.

If you are a young man between the ages of 16 and 21 not attending school, willing to work, and have a desire to learn a job skill, contact Jesse D. Young, Texas Employment Commission, 322 West 2nd, Muleshoe.

Governor Declares

Safety Sunday

AUSTIN, Governor John Connally said today in proclaiming Sunday, December 11, "Safety Sunday" in Texas that useless infliction of human injury is "an abuse of God's most precious gift -- life itself."

The Governor also called attention to the fact that 3,028 persons were killed and 186,062 injured on Texas streets and highways in 1965 "despite an intensive and continuing campaign by both official State agencies and citizen-support groups."
