Israeli Warplanes Avenge Arab Bombing

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli warplanes attacked a Palestinian guerrilla training base in southern Lebanon today in retaliation for a terrorist bombing in a Tel Aviv market that wounded 49 persons a few hours earlier, the government announced.

"The murderers will be hit wherever they will be," the announcement said.

It said the Israeli air force jets struck a guerrilla installation at Dahar a-Tutah, about 10 miles north of the port of Tyre. This would put it about 30 miles north of the Lebanon-Israeli border. The announcement described the base as a "starting point for murder gangs against targets in Israel" and said no civilians are in the area.

All the Israeli planes returned safely, it said. It did not say how many or what kind of aircraft participated in the attack.

The Palestine Liberation Organization in Beirut, Lebanon, earlier claimed responsibility for this morning's Tel Aviv attack, in which a bomb exploded under a stall selling T-shirts and children's clothes in the open-air Carmel market.

Israel Radio said 26 of the 49 reported injured were seriously hurt. Police earlier reported one person had been killed, but this later was said to have been a mistake.

Blood-soaked T-shirts and children's clothing were strewn about the maze-like alleys in the center of the market, and police strung barbed-wire around the area and collected bits of shrapnel from the explosive device.

Vita Meshulam, the owner of the stall where the blast occurred, said the area had been crowded with shoppers.

"I was standing across the way, and suddenly I felt a blast on my legs, but I wasn't hurt," Meshulam said. "I went running over to see what I could do."

Meshulam and others in the area said they had given first aid to the wounded before the ambulances arrived.

He said he had briefly noticed a black bag under his table before the explosion but hadn't thought about what it might be.

Police detained a number of Arab suspects from a sector of the market where many Palestinians from the occupied Gaza Strip

FLOOD ISOLATES CITY — Much of the city of Kerrville is isolated today, following more than 20 inches of rain in the last 48 hours that triggered flash floods. The damaged highway is just one of many roads battered by the torrents which have caused death and destruction in the area. (AP Laserphoto)

Floods Take Big Toll In Central Texas Area

BANDERA (AP) — Rimpaging flood waters fed by 14 inches of overnight rain gained new strength in the Central Texas hill country today and officials listed death counts ranging from eight to 15. Hundreds fled their homes and damage estimates mounted.

Officer Bill Fackelman of the Kerrville police said today that scattered reports came in "all night long" about deaths and missing persons.

"We've got nine (bodies) out of Bandera, four out of Comfort and two out of Center Point," Fackelman said. He said at least nine persons were missing from Center Point and Comfort.

However, the Texas Department of Public Safety said it had confirmed eight deaths. A department spokesman said the agency was having trouble contacting Kerrville police regarding the higher count given by Fackelman. Communications in the area were disrupted.

The waters of the upper Guadalupe River reached new crests today, even as authorities were still trying to locate persons missing from Wednesday's flooding.

The National Weather Service in San Antonio warned residents of the Guadalupe flood plains to evacuate a 20-mile area. About 200 persons were forced to leave Kerrville and nearby Ingram on Wednesday night.

The torrential rains spawned by tropical storm Amelia caused rivers to surge from their banks into riverfront communities and campsites early Wednesday.

Humble homes and exclusive dude ranches, alike, were ravaged, and the LBJ ranch was turned into a swamp.

In a region where residents recently worried about drought, one river rose 10 feet in one hour, submerging a highway bridge.

Heavy rains that hit the area Tuesday and Wednesday turned several normally placid rivers into surging death traps. In a 48-hour period ending Wednesday night, Kerrville had received 22 inches of rain.

The flooding devastated much of Bandera, Comfort and Medina.

Kerrville resembled a war zone as National Guard troops, Army and state police helicopters and scores of police deposited stunned refugees at evacuation centers.

Telephone communications were severely hampered in the stricken areas and it was difficult to account for residents and visitors. Many officials feared the death toll would rise.

Children rescued from the Serendip Camp on the Medina River were taken to the Pipe Creek Volunteer Fire Department. Refugees from Camp Bandina were taken to a church in Bandera.

National Guardsmen forded a stream late Wednesday night to rescue 156 girls from the isolated Herman-Scott camp. The girls were taken to a high school in Comfort, where they were reunited with their families.

Early today, the Texas Department of Public Safety reported the Guadalupe river rose 10 feet in one hour, covering a highway bridge on highway 281, about 40 miles north of San Antonio.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe asked that all three counties be declared disaster areas and made eligible for emergency assistance funds and programs.

Claribel Lovelace, 80, built her sturdy brick house in 1934, a respectful 700 yards from the sometimes stormy Medina River. On Wednesday the Medina paid a terrifying visit — with eight feet of churning, muddy floodwaters.

It left Mrs. Lovelace gasping for breath for two hours. But she survived.

Entrances to the LBJ Ranch near Stonewall were blocked by the raging floodwaters of the Pedernales River. Rising waters failed to reach the house, but came within feet of the stone fence circling the family cemetery where the late President Lyndon B. Johnson is buried.

The water ripped through Clint Dowell's automobile dealership about 150 yards from where the Medina normally flows.

When the waters receded, Dowell's inventory was scattered up and down the Medina or stacked like cordwood in the mud-covered parking lot.

FLOOD AREAS — Map details the extent of the flooding in Texas this week. Heavy rains spread north and west out of the Hill Country, causing flash floods watches to be issued Wednesday and today for the lightly shaded area. (A-J Graphic)

Showers Dampen Plains

A-J News Services

Thundershowers practically surrounded the Lubbock area this morning and the National Weather Service was optimistic about the South Plains' chances for some of the heavy rain that had much of the state already flooded.

Forecasters listed an 80 percent chance of rain today for Lubbock and the South Plains, a 70 percent chance tonight and a 20 percent chance for Friday.

Up to noon, however, only light showers had fallen in the city and the weather service at Lubbock International Airport had recorded only .05 of an inch.

Meanwhile, rains were reported in a 100-mile-wide band stretching from San Angelo to Wichita Falls. Showers were also occurring in the Panhandle from Tullahoma to Canadian.

A heavy buildup of thunderstorms developing from the west prompted a flash flood watch effective this afternoon and tonight for a large area south and east of Lubbock.

Counties covered by the watch included Dickens, Kent, King, Scurry, Mitchell, Nolan, Ector and Midland.

The weather service said that heavy rains have been reported to the east of the area and that increased water runoff from the saturated soil was expected.

Clouds caused by a cool front meeting a southern flow of moisture will hold temperatures in the high 70s today and Friday, weathermen said.

The low tonight should be in the low 60s.

Winds were expected to be northeasterly at 10 to 15 mph today and easterly at 11 to 15 mph tonight.

The front whipped up rainclouds Wednesday night over the Panhandle, and rain reports there included 2.86 inches at Dalhart, 1.24 at Perryton, .88 at Dumas, .21 at Pampa and .13 at Borger.

South Plains reports were of .21 at Dimmitt, .89 at Friona, 1.37 at Hereford, .61 at Levelland, .34 at Morton, .38 at Muleshoe, .35 at Plains, .04 at Post, .05 at Spur, .95 at Tullahoma and traces at Big Spring, Jayton, Plainview and Seminole.

After only .15 fell at Lubbock International.

Panel Approves New City Bank

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The State Banking Board has approved the charter application of one group seeking a new bank in Lubbock, but it has rejected applications of two others.

The proposed Liberty State Bank's application was approved, but applications from First Southwest Bank and First State Bank were denied.

The organizers of Liberty State Bank may now proceed with collection of capital funds in the amount of $2 million and "furnish such evidence to this department, and the organizational process may go forward," the Department of Banking said in making the announcement.

W.R. Collier, president of American State Bank and Liberty State board chairman, said today that the new bank should be in operation by next spring. "We're very pleased with the affirmative action taken by the State Banking Board," he said.

"This is an indication of their confidence in the area economy and the future of our area. We look forward to this added dimension of service for the people of this area and specifically for the immediate trade area of Southwest Lubbock," Collier said.

The other two charter requests were turned down on grounds there was no showing of a public necessity for the proposed banks, nor of sufficient volume of business "to indicate profit operation."

Liberty State's application lists its proposed location as 6500 Indiana Ave.

All three proposed banks were turned down by the Banking Board last year, but refilled.

The original applications also are the subject of a lawsuit filed in 53rd District Court here by Liberty State, but action in that case was delayed pending disposition of the refilled applications. There has been no indication of what will be done with that legal action.

In testimony at the hearing on the three applications, University of Texas economist Dr. Robert Mettlen said Liberty's

Stock Mart Surge Sets Fast Pace

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices shot upward again today in record-breaking trading on Wall Street, continuing the sharpest rise in 3½ years.

The closely watched Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose 12.47 points to 895.96 in the first hour of trading today, as a record 17.58 million shares changed hands at the New York Stock Exchange. That was the heaviest activity since April 25, the height of last spring's rally.

The Dow average began today at its highest level in nearly a year after taking a 22.78-point jump to 883.49 Wednesday.

The U.S. dollar rebounded in Japan today, but heavy downward pressure in the afternoon knocked the wind out of the recovery in Europe. Dealers reported huge sales of dollars for Swiss francs in heavy trading.

Blue chip and glamor issues scored dramatic gains in the rally Wednesday that saw the Dow Jones industrial average jump 22.78 points to 883.49, its biggest single-day advance since Jan. 27, 1975, when it gained 26.05 points. The gain put the average at its highest closing level since it finished at 887.43 on Aug. 10 of last year.

Utah Mother Pushes Children Off Hotel

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A woman whose husband committed suicide Wednesday threw her seven children from an 11th-floor hotel balcony in downtown Salt Lake City today, then jumped herself, police said. The mother and four children were killed.

Police Lt. Nick Paloukos said, "All indications are they were religious fanatics and decided to join the father." He said the father, who committed suicide Wednesday, was the leader of an obscure religious sect.

The three children who survived were reported in critical condition with multiple fractures and head injuries.

"I just couldn't believe it," said Felix Palacios, a delivery truck driver who said he saw the woman throw two children from the balcony of the International Dunes Hotel before jumping. He said he saw the children struggling and trying to hold onto the balcony railing.

Paloukos, the police lieutenant, said some of the children were screaming and struggling with the mother.

He said "it happened pretty fast, as fast as she could throw them."

Authorities said two of the bodies fell to the sidewalk, and the others landed on the roof of the hotel coffee shop. Paloukos said the survivors may have been cushioned by landing on the other bodies.

The injured children were a 12-year-old boy, a 15-year-old girl and a 9-year-old whose sex could not be determined immediately.

Police Maj. Harry Parke said the woman apparently was distraught over the suicide of her husband, Bruce Longo.

Paloukos said Longo, who also called himself Emmanuel David, was found dead in his van in Emigration Canyon east of Salt Lake. Authorities said he died of carbon monoxide poisoning and ruled the death a suicide.

RESCUE TEAMS STRANDED — Military personnel involved in rescue operations in flood-ravaged Central Texas near the town of Hunt find the water too high even for their vehicles. New warnings were issued today after heavy overnight rains sent walls of water down streams in the region. Evacuations were resued at several of the threatened towns. The official death toll continues to mount, with others reported as missing. (AP Laserphoto)

Liz Taylor Attends Fundraiser

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — About 1,000 Republicans sang, danced and cheered late into the night, celebrating the presence of actress Elizabeth Taylor in a crowded National Guard armory.

As an orchestra blared Ruffles and Flourishes, Hail to the Chief and Anchors Aweigh, the crowd leaped to their feet cheering wildly as the 46-year-old actress swept into the room Wednesday night.

The Republican fundraiser was a success, according to state party chairman Gerald Carmen, even though the political overtones were held to a minimum and state party luminaries were ignored as all interest centered on the film star.

Dozens of women with instant cameras elbowed a score of news photographers from papers and national magazines as they all fought for a good shooting position in front of the star.

The actress and her husband, former Navy Secretary John Warner, were presented with a jug of Gov. Meldrim Thomson's maple syrup, a painting by a local artist and an honorary citizen's award from the state.

Nixon To Play In Pro-Am

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Richard Nixon is going public again. This time on a golf course.

NIXON

The former president will play in the pro-am segment of the Indianapolis Shrine Golf Classic next week at Speedway Golf Course, tournament officials announced Wednesday.

The pro-am, which also will feature such stars as entertainer Mickey Rooney, is part of the Professional Golf Association Seniors tour.

Bud Owen, general chairman of the Indianapolis Shrine Golf Classic, said Nixon wanted to participate because proceeds go to Shrine children's hospitals.

Nixon has made few public appearances since he resigned Aug. 9, 1974. He made his first public speech since leaving office in Hyden, Ky., at the dedication a month ago of a recreation center named after him.

Jordan Hit With Mousse

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was chocolate mousse-a-la-face. But Hamilton Jordan says it may be the last straw.

JORDAN

Jordan's friends say he was "minding his own business" at a private Georgetown party for the popular rock group Fleetwood Mac Tuesday night. Suddenly, an unidentified man hurled a handful of the gourmet chocolate pudding at him and then disappeared.

"The mousse was all over his suit and face," said Gerald Rafshoon, who is in charge of remaking President Carter's image. Rafshoon attended the party with 200 other guests, including President Carter's son, Chip, White House aides Tim Kraft and Rick Hutcheson and a handful of senators and congressmen and record company executives.

"He certainly wasn't happy about it," said Rafshoon, adding that Jordan "was very mad."

Jordan said Wednesday night that it has become increasingly difficult for him to go anywhere without being noticed and becoming the potential focus of some sort of incident.

"It's gotten to be almost impossible (to go anywhere). Last night may have been the last straw," he said in a broadcast interview.

Jordan is no stranger to publicity about his private life. Last winter the top Carter aide was involved in an incident at a local bar where he reportedly spit Amaretto and cream, a sticky drink made with almond liqueur, at a young woman. Jordan denied it, and the White House issued a 33-page defense of him.

Rafshoon said Jordan will make no effort to find his phantom assailant. "We are not going to pursue the matter," he said.

Marathon Swim Called Fraud

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The man who claims to have done what Diana Nyad is hoping to do — swim from Cuba to Florida — is again being accused of being a fraud, this time by someone outside the Nyad camp.

Richard Mullins, publicist for the Swimming Hall of Fame here, dismisses Walter Poenisch's claim, saying that the 65-year-old has defrauded the public before. Mullins claims that Poenisch cheated during a 90-mile swim through the Florida straits in 1972.

"... he came out of the water three times, and went into the cabin and slept at night while someone else swam for him," says Mullins.

Poenisch says he's gathering statements from reporters who he says went along with him during the 1972 swim.

Miss Nyad, 29, who claims she has been given the go-ahead to swim from Bahia Honda, Cuba, to Florida starting Aug. 10 has cast doubt on Poenisch's claim to have made the swim.

Poenisch was given a hero's sendoff by Cuban President Fidel Castro in Havana three weeks ago.

Phyllis George Replaced

NEW YORK (AP) — Phyllis George, the former Miss America who brought an off-beat touch to CBS sports in the winter of 1975, will be replaced this fall on "The NFL Today" by a former Miss Ohio, Jayne Kennedy.

MISS GEORGE

The new on-air personality, who was in the 1970 Miss USA beauty pageant, also has appeared in several television dramatic programs. She will serve as co-host with Brent Musburger and Irv Cross in the football program.

Miss George has left sports for assignments in the area of entertainment and will host the network's new "People" show in the fall.

He Was Skunked

HANCOCK, Mich. (AP) — Dick Storm, usually a dependable news voice for WMPL radio in this Upper Peninsula community, really stuck the other day. It got so bad, station manager Robert Olson had to ask Storm to leave.

It seems Storm was trudging down the city's main street before dawn Wednesday when a skunk strolled across his path and let loose with that for which skunks are best known.

Storm returned home, disposed of his clothing, and even took a bath in tomato juice — which is supposed to neutralize the odor — but still couldn't shake the smell. He reported for work as usual — but before long, Olson asked him to take the day off.

Carter, Califano Change Minds About Social Security Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — The next Social Security commissioner will be tax lawyer Stanford G. Ross, not Hale Champion — the No. 2 man in the Health, Education and Welfare Department, a government source says.

The Carter administration initially had planned to shift Champion, HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr.'s right arm, to the Social Security post while naming Ross to Champion's job.

President Carter and Califano decided, however, that Champion was more valuable where he is, the source, who asked not to be identified, revealed Wednesday.

Other informed sources, who also requested anonymity, said senior White House staff members balked at naming Ross undersecretary.

Califano reportedly asked the president originally to replace Champion as undersecretary with Ross, who attended Harvard Law School with Califano and worked under him on Lyndon Johnson's White House staff a decade ago.

Ross will have to relinquish his chairmanship of the Advisory Council on Social Security, instructed by Congress to review the system and its problems.

The group's eventual recommendations on new methods of financing the troubled system and changing the way benefits are allocated to women are expected to set the stage for any major congressional revisions in Social Security.

Ross, 46, will take the agency's reins at a time when women's groups are pressing for improved Social Security treatment for women. The system limits a wife to half her husband's benefit (or vice versa), whether or not she has worked all her life.

The $50,000 Social Security post has been vacant since James B. Cardwell retired in December.

The job is technically lower than undersecretary and pays $2,500 less, but the commissioner commands an agency with 85,000 of HEW's 145,000 employees. The system traditionally has run semi-autonomously from its parent.

The Social Security Administration pays retirement, disability and welfare benefits each month to more than 34 million Americans and collects payroll taxes from 110 million others.

It was not known when the appointment would be announced. The Champion move was never formally announced, but administration sources revealed in mid-July that it had been decided upon.

Ross, general counsel for the Department of Transportation in 1968-69, is a partner in Caplin & Drysdale, a Washington law firm noted for its tax work.

ARE YOU STILL TAKING HEADACHE TABLETS TO RELIEVE LOW BACK PAIN?

There's a big difference in pain relievers. And a big difference in pain. When back muscles go into spasms they become stiff and knotted. The pain feels different than simple headache pain. You want more than an ordinary headache remedy.

MOMENTUM has extra pain-fighting medicines. A fast-acting pain reliever. A longer-lasting one. And a special calamine doctors often recommend. It relieves the tension that helps cause your muscles to tighten.

MOMENTUM® Tablets are specially formulated to relieve low back pain...not simple headaches. In minutes, painful spasms start to relax. Tense, tight muscles loosen.

If you're suffering low back pain...don't expect an ordinary headache remedy to give you all the strength and relief you get from MOMENTUM. Discover the big difference in MOMENTUM Tablets. Use only as directed.

HEW Orders 'Equal Opportunity' Spanking

BELLEVUE, Wash. (UPI) — The federal government wants equal treatment for boys and girls in Bellevue's schools, even when it comes to who gets spanked.

But Marlaine Kiner, director of the Seattle regional HEW Office for Civil Rights, stressed Wednesday that "equal" does not mean the same number of girls as boys must get their bottoms pummeled.

"What we said to them (the Bellevue schools) in effect is that whatever sanctions are used for offenses committed by students, the sanction must be applied equally to boys and girls who commit the same offense," she said.

Miss Kiner said discipline of students is a matter for school systems to decide, and once they have set their policies within state and federal guidelines, discipline must be consistent. A letter to that effect was sent to Bellevue School Superintendent Dennis Carmichael.

The flap started in 1972 when Shirley

Amiel, a registered nurse and ardent foe of child abuse, complained to HEW about sex discrimination in Bellevue schools.

Families Survive Vigils In Boiling Gulf Waters

By KEN HERMAN
BROWNSVILLE (AP)—For the three Wagners it was 18 dark hours of fighting shifting sands and rising water.
 For the trio from the Fincher family, including a paraplegic, it was simply a matter of hanging on for life.
 "One big wave came along and turned us over," said Roy Wagner, captain of the "Lori Ann."
 "It was a double hit," said John Fincher, captain of the "Frankie E."
 Both boats went under Sunday as Tropical Storm Amelia churned up gulf waters. Both crews were found Monday — one after a long search and another by chance.
 Roy Wagner, his brother Johnny and nephew John set out in search of red snapper Friday. The 36-foot boat was reported missing Sunday. Monday morning, as Coast Guard officials were sorting out the assorted wreckage in the gulf, the overturned hull of the "Lori Ann" was spotted in the surf off South Padre Island.

Friends and relatives gathered at the beach and stared blankly at the hull — wondering about the whereabouts of the Wagners.
 Less than 30 feet away the three men were staging a determined fight for life and screaming for help — beneath the upset hull.

 "We were knocking and hollering every five minutes," Roy Wagner said in a hospital emergency room here. "I never did give up. I couldn't tell there were people out there. We just tried to stay alive as long as we could."
 The boat's captain said he had to keep watch over his brother, 43, and nephew, 18.
 "I sure did have a rough time out there with them. They passed out a couple of times and I had to get them up for air," he recalled.
 "Another five minutes and we'd have drowned," said Roy's brother. "It was like quicksand and it was sucking us in."
 Shortly before noon a bystander heard sounds from under the hull.
 "We were hollering real loud," Roy

Wagner said, "and I heard someone answer. I told them we were in the hull and the three weary men crawled out to safety."
 The Port Isabel fishermen had survived by grabbing gasps of air in small pockets under the hull. Johnny Wagner used his pocket knife to cut a section of hose to aid in breathing.
 "It was just rolling and rolling," he said.
 "It felt like it was dragging us at 50 miles an hour," Roy Wagner said of the way the hull was shifting along the beach at first. Johnny Wagner, sitting in the hospital, said he could still feel the sand tearing at his bruised legs.
 Despite the ordeal, the three men were in satisfactory condition. Only John Wagner was held overnight at the hospital here for observation.

But some of the bystanders who had gazed blankly at the hull were a bit numb.
 George Colley, Roy Wagner's nephew, had been there.
 "That's what makes me feel so tough," he said, watching his uncle in the emergency room.
 Dortha Wagner, Roy's wife, had heard that the hull had been spotted — but she stayed home.
 "I just didn't want to see it," she said, smiling at her husband.
 Some five hours after the Wagners were reunited with their families, the Finchers were plucked from the gulf by a Coast Guard helicopter.
 "All hell broke loose," John Fincher said of the Sunday sinking.
 The 31-year-old former Fort Worth teacher, his brother Paul, 24, and father Clifton, 56, had also set out for red snapper. But the weather kicked up Sunday and John Fincher "decided I'd better try to bring it in."

 About 25 miles from shore the "double hit" of choppy waters punched a hold in the "Frankie E." And it began to sink.
 It went down slowly at first and two of the men climbed into a life raft while the third stayed on board.
 But as the boat continued to sink, it was abandoned.
 "It hurt me that I couldn't swim," said Paul Fincher, who lost the use of his legs in a motorcycle wreck several years ago. "But it helped in that I didn't have trouble with my legs tensing up."
 The Finchers said they were confident someone was looking for them. But they were worried the swirling waters would lead them from the wreckage.

 Monday afternoon they heard a Coast Guard helicopter hovering nearby.
 "They see the raft and the blanket before they see you," John Fincher said. "But you wave your hands frantically anyway."
 "If a guy doesn't panic and if the initial situation doesn't zap you and if you don't go off the deep end..." John Fincher, an instant survival expert, said in the emergency room.
 Most of the survivors said they are eager to again tackle the gulf.
 "I'll have to get that other boat now," Roy Wagner, a sly smile spreading across his face, told his wife.
 Only young John Wagner seemed ready for a new career.
 "Never again in the gulf," his father said the teenager had told him.

Eagle Crew Wants To Make Trip

SEATTLE (AP)—The sloppier the sea and gustier the wind, the more Cmdr. Paul Welling likes it. And he says the U.S. Coast Guard ship Eagle can take it as well as the best old salt.
 "It is my view that most of us have never met our limit," says Welling, who is trying to persuade Coast Guard authorities to let him take the three-masted barque around Cape Horn this fall, a trip other Coast Guard officials feel may be too dangerous for the vessel and its crew of cadets and cadre.

"When there are no risks, in my view, there is no fun. Last year we had a 50-knot wind but the sad thing is there are too few occasions where we can test ourselves," Welling said.
 Coast Guard search and rescue operations are usually carried out in a treacherous environment, where a sense of confidence may make the difference between life and death.

Welling, 40, has for two years skippered the 295-foot-long Eagle, host of the 1976 Bicentennial Sail in New York.
 The ship, with a crew of 136 cadets, 40 enlisted men and 13 officers, motored from Vancouver, British Columbia, to Seattle this week.

Welling was miffed that he had to use the ship's balky 42-year-old engine instead of the 22 sails.
 "People committed to the Eagle generally are in a foul sort of mood when they have to rely on the engine," he said.

Thirteen of the Eagle cadets who sailed recently from San Diego to Seattle were women. The voyage was educational for some and troublesome for one.

The unidentified female cadet was ordered to remain on board in Seattle and then to report to the Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn., for possible further discipline for what Welling called "over-familiarization" with an enlisted man. The unidentified man was reassigned to another ship and reduced a grade in pay.

"We need communication aboard. We must have it and I encourage it. But not familiarization," Welling said.

Cadet Sandy Wieman, 19, a 5-foot-2, 100-pound crew member from Silver Spring, Md., says she learned about limitations and assets on her training voyage aboard the Eagle.

"If I had to pull on a line, I probably wouldn't be as effective as a big man," she says. "But in the engine room, I squeezed into the small places where nobody else could fit."

The Eagle, known as the Horst Wessel when it trained Germany's sailors in World War II, was given to America as part of war reparations.

While it was docked in Vancouver, Henry Hochgeschurz, 54, climbed aboard and conducted an unsuccessful hunt for initials he carved in the teak deck while a German cadet in 1938.

Construction Endangered

NEW YORK (AP)—Virtually all major construction here could be halted and some 100,000 construction employees could be thrown out of work by a strike that has stopped deliveries of concrete, union officials say.

Leaders of Teamsters Local 282, representing some 2,500 workers, announced the strike Tuesday and said picket lines would go up this morning at construction sites.

It was considered unlikely that other Teamsters would cross picket lines to deliver other building materials.

A spokesman for the union said the walkout will affect not only heavy construction but new-building construction and building renovation projects. He estimated that 100,000 construction workers in the city could be affected.

The teamsters had already selectively struck firms represented by the Building Trades Employers Association. William A. Canavan, executive vice president of the association, said close to $500 million in new-building construction now faces a tie-up.

Over $1 billion in heavy construction — including highways, bridges, tunnels, subways and building foundations — had been halted for the past month by strikes by the International Union of Operating Engineers and some other crafts.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

Reform Plan Tarnished

IF CIVIL SERVICE reforms as proposed by President Carter were controversial, Congress has managed to tarnish the whole concept with ill-advised amendments.

Perhaps the most onerous change attached to the bill by the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee is one that would permit federal employees to engage in partisan political activities.

This backdoor repeal of the Hatch Act, which protects federal employees from political pressure and protects the public to some degree from abuse of partisan political power is totally unacceptable.

IN ITS ESSENCE, Carter's attempt to make the bureaucracy more efficient by giving managers authority to fire and reassign the lazy and incompetent is an uncut jewel among the worthless items of his administration.

Carter himself said that "civil service reform will be the centerpiece of government reorganization during my term in office." Through it, he hoped to keep his campaign promise to streamline the government.

His plan would decentralize personnel decision-making, give field managers more authority over underlings, increase employee incentives and make it easier to get deadwood off the federal payroll. In theory, at least.

A Senior Executive Service to include 9,200 of the government's top managers would be created. They'd be "subject to rigorous appraisals of their performance, may be assigned to a lower level position for unsatisfactory or marginal performance and may be rewarded with cash bonuses for excellent performance."

We have misgivings about that last provision, but the idea of basing pay and tenure on merit certainly has appeal.

IN COMMITTEE study, however, Congressmen crippled the best features of the Carter plan. Although the President himself is in favor of making the Hatch Act "less restrictive," even he objects to piggybacking its repeal onto the civil service reform package.

Without the Hatch Act as it has been law since the 1930s, federal employees could be used to campaign for, and thus perpetuate in office, those political bosses to whom the employees report.

It's too bad that Congress can't approve a plan designed simply to get a day's work for a day's pay out of civil service employees without twisting the bill into a vehicle for turning them into tax-paid campaign workers.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Too Much Courtin'

THE ALMIGHTY DOLLAR, to be franc about it, has been taking a pounding, been marked down and been the victim of rubble rousers on the international money markets—but I still don't know anyone who's lost his yen for it.

Today's May Bouquet: To City Hall, for cutting the curbside weeds on Avenue L. Every weed bit helps.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat said he won't negotiate with Israel until Israel agrees to give back all Arab lands captured in 1967.

That's like refusing to sit in a poker game unless the other guy first gives you all the chips he won from you last time.

IS TEXAS HOUSE Speaker Bill Clayton in any real danger of losing his gavel when the regular session begins in January?

My Secret Operative in Austin says no. Not unless the "revolt" by House liberals continues to spread beyond Clayton's worst nightmares, anyway.

Fifteen or 20 disgruntled House members met last Thursday night. The group grew Friday night and again Saturday night and finally reached about 50—one-third of the membership—this week.

The essence of their discussions, however, has boiled down to how to make Clayton "more responsive" to their demands next year rather than toward any real expectation that they can depose him.

If My Secret Operative is right, Texas conservatives can breathe a little easier.

A Senate committee has voted to put Susan B. Anthony's image on a $1 coin. The Neighborhood Reactionary is elated. Says he's always wanted to have a woman's rightist in his pocket.

A House committee killed legislation that would have required all states to adopt no-fault car insurance plans. The sponsor will try again next year. It'd be nice if Congress would concern itself with national issues and leave other powers to the states, or to the people, like the Constitution intended.

FROM TIME to time, I've had an unkind word or two to say about lawyers who abuse the jury system by using every trick in the book to delay and prolong trials and overturn verdicts.

This waste of jurors' time, I fear, will destroy the system. It needs to be brought into check in recognition of the growing complexity of society and, therefore, of the number of civil and criminal cases clogging the courts.

Certainly, these delays are partially responsible for overcrowded court dockets. These, in turn—along with a too-fine attention to technicalities having nothing to do with justice—can result in culprits going unpunished.

I was therefore interested in an article in the June issue of The Baylor Line, supporting my view.

WRITTEN BY Tommy Denton, associate director of the Texas Register division of the Secretary of State's office, the article is entitled "Learning the Law at Baylor."

Denton is the son of Texas Supreme Court Justice Jim Denton, the former Lubbock district judge.

The article was brought to my attention by District Judge M.C. Ledbetter of Morton.

The segment of special interest quotes retired Supreme Court Judge Tom Reavley.

"He's exactly right about that," Judge Ledbetter said of Reavley's comments.

"THE PROTRACTED, nitpicking, expensive procedure we now go through in deciding these contested cases," Reavley said, "may have been tolerable in a day gone by when there weren't so many cases."

He continued: "We take such pride in, celebrate and reward financially the lawyer who can drag it out. We wear out the resources and physical endurance of the other side."

"We assume this is good for the profession. But it won't work. It forgets the public and the public's left out," Justice Reavley asserted.

He went on to say that "much improvement" is needed in the legal system, that concern for the public interest must be ingrained in lawyers and that he hopes Baylor can prepare its law graduates to work toward making some of those changes.

It'd help if UT, SMU, TTU and other law schools would do that, too.

Soviets Penetrate News Media

(Third of four columns)
WASHINGTON—In their increasing effort to control and shape the content and flow of news throughout the world, Soviet leaders are expanding their use of an international Communist front group known as the International Organization of Journalists (IOJ).

With a membership of an estimated 150,000 scattered around the globe—including the U.S.—the IOJ is now in the front of trying to discredit U.S. reporting of the activities and trials of Soviet dissidents.

The front also supports the hard Soviet line against recently arrested American journalists in Moscow.

Under direct instructions from the Kremlin, the IOJ has launched a systematic campaign to try to destroy the credibility in Third World countries of independent international news agencies and anti-Communist newspapers opposing Soviet foreign policy.

LATEST REVIEW OF the front's expanding activities by the CIA concludes that the Prague-based organization "supports all major Soviet statements on international issues and propaganda campaigns."

Headed by Kaarle Nordenstrem, a Finnish professor of journalism and communications, the IOJ is now actively involved in the training of journalists as part of a Soviet-based campaign to influence newsmen in developing countries and the U.S.

Most of this covert training takes place in the IOJ's East European schools in Budapest, East Berlin, and Prague. Another IOJ school has just been completed in Sofia and additional schools are now being set up in Havana, Algeria and Baghdad.

Accredited to UNESCO, one of the main social action agencies of the UN, the IOJ cooperates with that international body in holding training courses and conferences for journalists.

OPERATING CLOSELY with other Soviet fronts, the IOJ leadership has used their influence with some UNESCO officials to conduct a relentless campaign behind the scene in support of a Soviet-backed proposal for international arrangements by which governments may regulate or control the news flow within and between countries.

While the avowed aims of the IOJ include defense of "freedom of press and journalists," the Soviet front remains completely silent about the absence of a free press in Communist countries and has regularly denounced efforts to protect foreign journalists in Moscow from government curbs and prosecutions.

Of particular interest to U.S. security agencies, according to the CIA review, is the heavy infiltration of IOJ by Cuban and Czechoslovak agents and links to the 13 other major Soviet-controlled international Communist fronts.

Although the IOJ claims to be financed by affiliation fees and "cultural enterprises," U.S. government security agencies claim that most of its budget, which runs into tens of millions of dollars, comes from the Soviet Union and other Soviet bloc governments.

The IOJ has a large "solidarity fund" from which grants are made to support organizations, individuals, and campaigns—for example, a gift of nearly $300,000 to Vietnam journalists in 1977 for their anti-U.S. activities during the Vietnam war.

John D. Lofton:

Drug Use 'Not Really Relevant'

WASHINGTON—"All The News That's Fit To Print," the motto of the New York Times which appears daily in the upper left-hand corner of the paper's front page, obviously implies that some news is not fit to print.

Like what? Well, like the news that at least two Times reporters have smoked marijuana in the presence of and with members of the White House staff and other federal employees.

On July 22, page one of the Times carried a story by reporter James Wooten headlined, "Statements By Bourne Open Flood of Questions on Capital Drug Use."

The lead paragraph of this article declared that the White House had been put on the defensive as the abrupt resignation of President Carter's principal narcotics adviser, Dr. Peter Bourne, prompted a flood of inquiries about drug use by members of the White House staff.

FOLLOWING HIS resignation after it was revealed that he had written a sedative prescription using a false name for the recipient, a woman on his staff, Bourne was quoted as saying that there was a "high incidence" of pot smoking among White House staff members as well as the "occasional" use of cocaine by "a few" of his former colleagues.

The eleventh paragraph of Wooten's story read: "The use of marijuana is not uncommon at various levels of the government and the journalistic community."

"Since the subject has seldom been raised in the news media, many in Washington had assumed that an unwritten law had been promulgated in the community, an informal statute that rendered the topic taboo."

But this is not what Wooten had written in his original copy.

AS HE RECALLED it to me in an interview, after the first sentence in the paragraph just quoted, he also wrote:

"Reporters—including at least two employed by the New York Times—have smoked marijuana in the presence of and with members of the White House staff."

Finney said the fact Times reporters smoked pot in the presence of White House staffers "is not that relevant," and that "everybody knows that we newspapermen are terrible wastrels who do awful things like smoking pot, committing adultery, and whoring around."

When I note that everybody may indeed know this, but it's not because they read it in the Times, he says: "No, we just know that by tradition and reputation."

Finney says, with a chuckle, that it is not hypocritical to write only about White House staffers who have smoked marijuana even if these staffers have smoked with Times reporters. He says:

"OUR OWN PERSONAL habits are not relevant at all." At all, I ask? Finney sighs. "Knock out 'at all,'" he says, editing himself.

"These kinds of things are not really relevant." When I talked with David Jones in New York, he told me that he backed up Finney's recommendation to kill part of Wooten's article because it wasn't germane to the story in that context at that time, OK? Well, not really, I said.

Why wasn't the deleted information germane since Wooten's story was, in part, about drug use not only by government officials, but also by journalists in Washington?

"BECAUSE," SAID Jones, "we were not in a position to give much of a definitive picture as to how widespread the use of marijuana is among the journalistic community, and to begin to name names at that juncture seemed to me to be an unwise and unnecessary thing to do."

Then you're telling me that sometime in the future the Times will be doing a more detailed and complete story about drug use among journalists in Washington? "I don't know," says Jones. "We're still working on the Bourne story."

"All The News That's Fit To Print." Hmmmmmm. Seems like a more appropriate motto for the New York Times might be: "All The News That's Fit To Print Just So Long As It Doesn't Embarrass The New York Times."

FOOTNOTE: Jim Wooten's attempt to report on the drug habits of journalists is not the first such effort.

In his 1972 book, "The Boys on the Bus," Timothy Crouse, a Rolling Stone contributing editor who covered the McGovern presidential campaign, reported that "some of the representatives of the nation's great newspapers had taken to smoking dope."

Describing what was available on the McGovern press plane—the so-called Zoo Plane—he wrote: "There were drugs on the plane, too, pot, hash, MDA, cocaine."

"And those who indulged in such stimulants swore that there was no greater thrill than standing in the cockpit as the plane came in for a landing, listening to the crackle of the radio, surrounded by green and orange dials, watching the bright blue lights of the runway rush up at the window as the powerful engines cut back."

How To Buy A Car You Can Live With

(Second of four columns)
IF YOU'RE PLANNING to buy one of the new 1979 economy cars coming to market in the weeks and months directly ahead, don't assume automatically that the car with the most miles per gallon is the most economical.

Your initial purchase price may be a far more significant factor in determining the economy of an economy car. For you also must take into account sales taxes and finance charges: which multiply the differences between two cars.

Let's say, for instance, that the sales tax in your area is 6 percent and you intend to finance your car at 12 percent simple interest for three years.

Each additional $100 in the price of your car will cost you $127—$100 plus $6 tax plus $21 in interest. Thus, a $300 difference between two models is really a $381 difference; a $500 difference is $635; and a $1,000 difference is $1,267.

IF THE MORE expensive economy car gives you better gas mileage, can it pay for itself through lower fuel costs?

Probably not, in the judgment of three auto editors who wrote "How to Buy the Best Economy Car in the World...For You," available free from the Mazda Information Bureau, P.O. Box 36730, Los Angeles, Calif. 90036.

Take one car that gets 22 mpg and another, costing $300 more, that gets 30 mpg. At 15,000 miles a year and 65 cents a gallon for gas, you would have to drive the more expensive car for more than three years before you would break even.

The difference in cost of gas between 36 and 40 mpg, again at 15,000 miles a year and 65 cents a gallon, is $27. If you pay $300 more for the 40-mpg car, you would have to drive it more than 14 years to recover your extra investment.

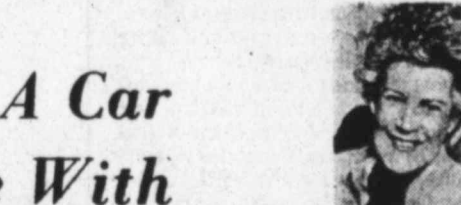

A SECOND KEY rule is not to buy a new car on your first trip to a dealer—even though this may have been your procedure in the past, you like the current ads about the car, and it's a quick, easy way.

Instead, make at least three trips to auto dealers: Trip One to become familiar with the car; Trip Two to test-drive the car seriously; and Trip Three, only after you already have made your choice at home: actually to buy the car.

Make a list of economy cars, so you won't overlook any. Today, there are many more companies offering economy cars than just a few years ago. (Yesterday, I listed 34 models.)

DECIDE JUST WHAT kind of body configuration and equipment you want. Do you need a four-door model because you're in a car pool? Or do you need a two-door model because you have young children?

Do you need a trunk because you carry valuables that must be kept out of sight? Or do you need a hatchback because you carry heavy loads? And do you need an automatic transmission be-

AS AN ILLUSTRATION, not essential are: body side moldings, cloth upholstery (but choose vinyl if you have small children), armrests, intermittent windshield wipers, clock, five-speed manual transmission, tinted window glass, rear window washer-wiper, and opening rear side windows.

Nearly all these are desirable, though, and are standard or available at extra cost on most economy cars.

Weigh, too, the relative merits of the trunkback and the hatchback (or liftback)—and make your choice entirely on the basis of your needs. If it doesn't matter to you, you will have many more cars from which to choose.

As for front-wheel-vs.-rear-wheel drive, decide that on your judgment of how the car rides and handles.

Tomorrow: Basic tests before buying a new car.

'Jalopy' Rentals Save Drivers' Money

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — If you're not too fussy about a car's mileage, whether it has rust, dents, torn upholstery, a radio that works or dirty ashtrays, then Jalopy Jewels Rental is for you.

The cars that Jalopy Jewels rent may have all of the above faults, but say owners William Bason and Dick O'Connell, economy-minded drivers can expect to save 50 percent from the cost of renting new cars. Bason, a former auto dealer from Charlotte, N.C., and O'Connell, a retired AT&T executive, said their no-frills car rental agency, which opened for business Tuesday, specializes in service.

If a Jalopy Jewel breaks down (the current fleet consists of 1967 to 1973 models), drivers can call the company for free repair service. They will get another car to use if the first needs to be towed away.

"If people are looking for looks, we will refer them to Hertz Rent-A-Car," Bason said.

Jalopy Jewels offers each motorist unlimited mileage and five gallons of free gasoline. Each car must be rented on a weekly basis. Bason said it will be up to the driver to decide whether he wants to sweep out or wash the car.

Bason and O'Connell are not particular how old their rental cars are, as long as they run, and they expect to add some older vehicles later.

They believe most of their business will come from people who lack the money to rent a car from other dealers or are trying to save, but may include some luxury car owners who want to drive a beat-up car for the fun of it.

He said the company has liability insurance on its vehicles, but no collision insurance.

Taiwanese Determined To Survive Anyway

By NICHOLAS DANILOFF
 TAIPEI, Taiwan (UPI) — As the United States moves towards full diplomatic relations with Peking, the government on Taiwan is living through a period of deep anguish laced with a fierce determination to survive.

Since Dr. Zbigniew Brzezinski, President Carter's national security adviser, visited Peking in May, Taiwan has had to face the realization that Washington is seriously considering breaking diplomatic ties and recognizing Communist China.

The fact that Brzezinski arrived in "the other China" on May 20 — the very day Chiang Ching-kuo was inaugurated as Nationalist China's new president — was noted here with sadness. The United States sent no official delegation to Chiang's ceremony.

A week of touring Taiwan, and talking with a wide range of government officials, industrial managers, and private citizens revealed two distinct reactions.

Paris-educated Dr. Ding Moushuh, head of the Government Information Office, voiced the reaction of disgust:

"Why is the United States in such a rush to normalize relations with Peking? The present situation is stable. Why upset it?"

"For the United States to normalize relations with Communist China will result in a big psychological boost for Peking. It will also precipitate instability in Asia, and cast doubts on the U.S. determination to stand by its defense of Taiwan. And it will have effect on U.S. treaty commitments to allies."

But Vice Foreign Minister Chien Fu, a graduate of Yale Law School, voiced the positive reaction:

"I am confident that our people and our government would do everything to resist the impact," he said. "But we would have to remain very vigilant against a Communist attack."

Officials at the Ministry of Economic Affairs were even more insistent that Taiwan has no choice but to ride out the trauma of losing diplomatic relations with the United States and to continue "business as usual."

Nationalist Chinese economic specialists look back to Japan's recognition of Peking in the fall of 1972 as a benchmark.

When Japan broke official ties with Taiwan, as did a host of other countries, it maintained an unofficial trade center and has continued vigorous trade.

Indeed, although only two dozen countries now recognize it, Taiwan continues to trade with upwards of 100 countries and its economy is booming.

Foreign exports make up about 50 percent of Taiwan's gross national product of about $19 billion a year. Taiwan simply must trade if it is to live, officials here say.

Nonetheless, loss of diplomatic relations with the United States would precipitate a period of uncertainty.

Last In A Series

During this period, Peking may seek to float disturbing rumors about the future and may try some direct attempts to subvert the government, Nationalist Chinese officials say.

A flight of foreign investment capital would be particularly serious, they add.

Despite the island's vigorous economy, officials say future prospects could easily be unsettled.

A considerable fear for the long range future is that China might throw a naval blockade around the island, strangling Taiwan while the United States does nothing to protect its old ally.

Even if such overt military action were not attempted, officials say, Chinese harassment of shipping lanes could discourage Taiwan's traditional trading partners.

The U.S. Embassy here is keeping a low profile under the direction of Ambassador Leonard Unger.

It sees its role largely as assisting Taiwan during the difficult transition period ahead, and in preserving the essential elements of the current relationship under a new form.

The embassy wants to retain some channel of communications, the U.S. Trade Center, banking arrangements, supply of nuclear fuel, shipping and air communications.

The embassy is trying, too, to discuss with Nationalist China what the transition period might involve.

But U.S. diplomats reportedly are having little success because the government is only slowly coming to the realization it may lose formal ties with the United States.

And some American representatives fear Nationalist China may yet seek to undermine the U.S. effort to negotiate full diplomatic relations with Peking by activating their considerable support in Congress.

In a recent interview, H. P. Lee, general manager of the Kaoshiung Oil Refinery, seemed to sum up the prevailing attitude on Taiwan:

"In 1946 people lost confidence. But it is different today. As long as we have growth, we are strong."

UPI Announces Appointments

NEW YORK (UPI) — Appointments of a newscenter editor for Pennsylvania-West Virginia and a news editor for Iowa were announced today by United Press International.

William C. Hoop, 31, moves to Pittsburgh to oversee the distribution of the UPI news report in Pennsylvania and West Virginia and serve as deputy regional editor Malcolm Hughes. Hoop has been Iowa news editor for the past four years.

Herbert Y. Weber, 36, manager of UPI's bureau in Buffalo, N.Y., since 1972, will succeed Hoop as Iowa news editor in Des Moines.

The appointments, announced by editor in chief H.L. Stevenson, are effective Aug. 14.

Hoop joined UPI in Pittsburgh, his hometown, as a summer intern in 1967 and became a regular correspondent there the following year. He was transferred to Hrisburg, Pa., in 1968, where he covered the Pennsylvania legislature. A year later he became manager of the Cleveland bureau and two years later he moved to Columbus as bureau manager and news editor for Ohio. Hoop attended Bethany College in West Virginia.

Weber, a native of St. Paul, Minn., is a graduate of the University of Minnesota.

He will report to Jonald Reed, general news editor for the Midwestern states, in Chicago.

A&P Action May Signal Trading Stamp Revival

By KRISTIN GOFF
NEW YORK (AP) — Shoppers who licked trading stamps by the millions a decade ago, may soon find the shopping bonus commonplace again as the nation's second-largest supermarket chain once again offers the enticement to shop at its stores.
 The Great Atlantic Pacific Tea Co. Wednesday began offering trading stamps to customers at 442 of its 1,900 stores in parts of the East and Midwest "as part of A&P's program to attract customers by giving a little extra."
 A&P, like thousands of other chains and individual stores, dropped its stamp program a few years ago as the full force of inflation hit grocery stores. Many retailers said then that stamps increased the price of their products and customers preferred lower prices instead of merchandise available from trading stamp companies.
 "This may indicate that trading stamps will be back on a major basis. With such a major chain involved, it may well trigger other major chains to resume stamps," said Clint Wade, a spokesman for the Trading Stamp Institute of America, an industry trade group.

 Wade claims that the argument that trading stamps force prices up has been "totally negated" by stamp industry studies showing that stores that dropped stamps offered discounts for a few months then returned to previous price levels.
 Safeway Stores Inc., the nation's largest supermarket chain, based in Oakland, Calif., doesn't offer trading stamps. But a spokesman, Felicia Delcampo, acknowledged that the regional centers, which devise their own marketing plans, would be watching the competition.
 A&P, which abandoned stamps in 1972 after nearly a decade, says surveys indicate the time is right again.
 "What happens with stamps is that, like any other merchandising program they go in cycles. People get tired of them and then they come back," said A&P spokesman Daniel Doherty.

A&P expects the cost of its two stamp giveaways to be easily covered by an estimated 10 percent increase in customer volume it expects to get by marketing in areas where no major competition offers trading stamps.
 The supermarket's promotion in the East, using Gold Bond Stamps, has a new twist to it. At 282 stores in areas in Massachusetts, New York and Pennsylvania, customers receive stamps with the option of redeeming books of stamps for appliances in the traditional way or applying a book of 30 stamps to weekly specials for a direct discount on groceries.
 For a book of stamps, representing $30 worth of groceries purchased, customers at the A&P store in Altoona, Pa., for example, may choose from six specials this week, including a pound of margarine for a penny; a pound of bacon for 9 cents; four rolls of toilet paper at 19 cents; a dozen eggs at two cents; miracle whip for 29 cents; or a box of cornflakes for a penny.

Lost Scout Gets Survival Lesson

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Jeff Bartz, 11, really learned his Boy Scout lessons on how to survive in the woods.
 While a widespread search was underway for him in a wilderness area of a national forest in northern Wisconsin during the weekend, Jeff stayed cool and practiced some of his Scout survival skills.
 He remembered, for example, that certain berries were okay to eat. So when he got thirsty and hungry that's what he ate.

He remembered to stay calm, that panic was the greatest danger for a lost person.
 One of his leaders had shown the boys during their weeklong campout how he always carried a walking stick with a bell tied to it when he walked in the woods to scare off animals.
 Jeff didn't have any bells, but he did have a stick, so when he saw two bears, he yelled "ding-a-ling-a-ling" and the bears ambled off.

Jeff was reported missing about midnight Friday from a lean-to at the Milwaukee Boy Scout Wilderness camp near Wabeno in the Nicolet National Forest.
 He was found by two trail bikers about 7 p.m. Saturday, not too much the worse for wear.
 "I think he learned his lesson in survival," his mother said, noting the only casualty seemed to be some well worn socks.

Scientists To Attempt Taming Of Hurricane

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If they can find the right storm, American scientists plan an attempt to tame the winds of an Atlantic Ocean hurricane by seeding it with silver iodide crystals.

The first efforts to tame hurricanes through seeding were made 17 years ago, but this will be the first attempt in the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's Project Stormfury since Hurricane Ginger was seeded in 1971.

In all of the earlier attempts, changes observed in the storms after the seeding fell within conditions that could have occurred normally. None of the hurricanes, however, increased in strength.

The government's Weather Modification Advisory Board said in a recent report that by the 1990s, scientists should know how to reduce hurricane winds by 10 percent to 20 percent. That would substantially reduce wind damage.

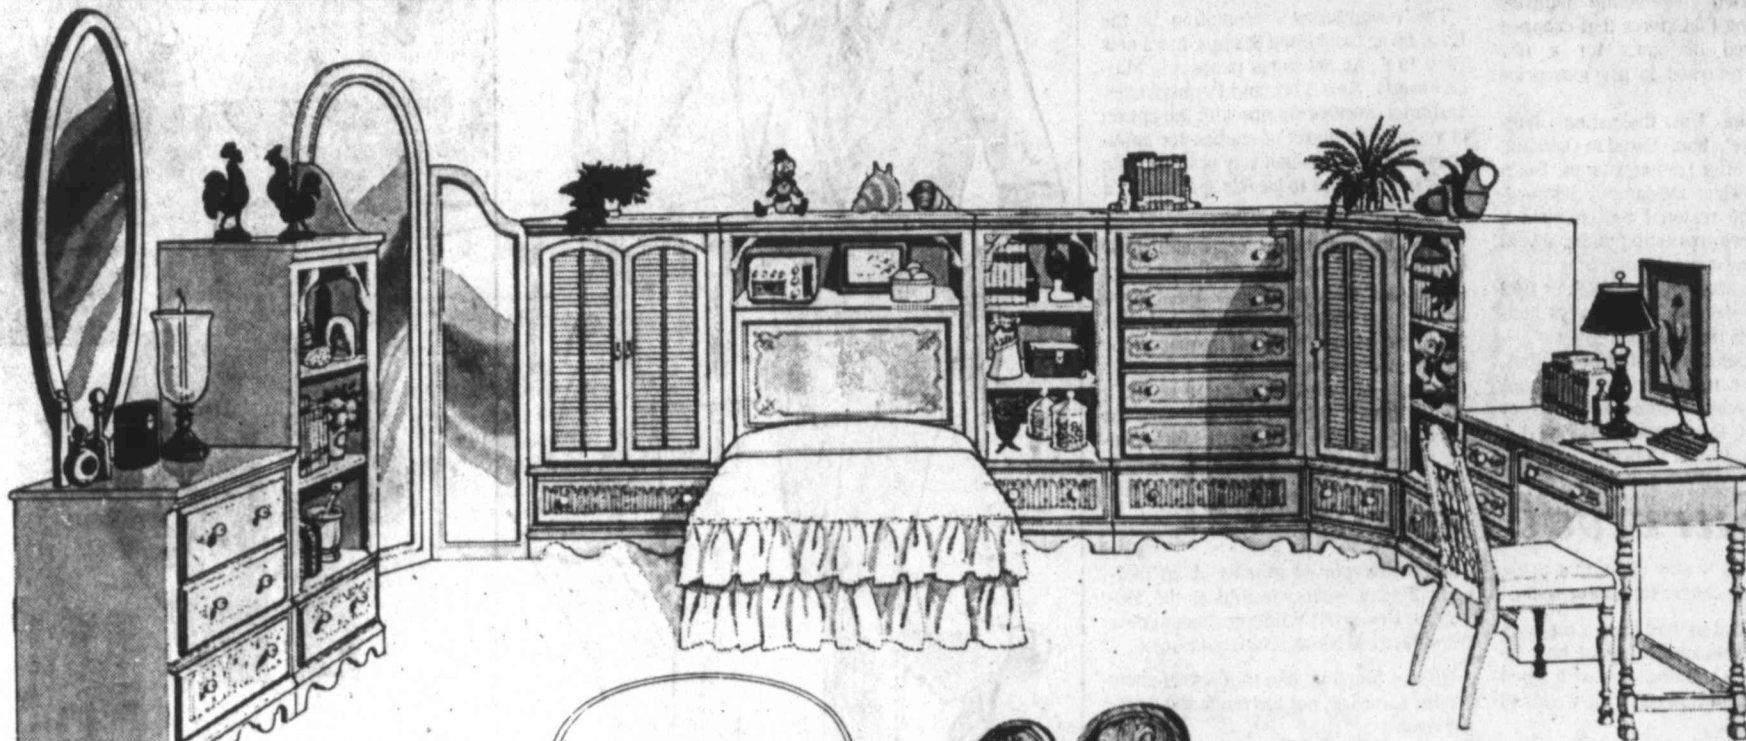

According to ground rules established by NOAA, seeding will not be done if the storm has more than a 10 percent probability of approaching within 50 miles of a populated land area within 24 hours of seeding.

Once a storm is found that meets the requirements, five instrumented aircraft will scatter pencil-sized flares in the area of the hurricane that has the worst winds. The flares will disperse silver iodide crystals, which induce water to freeze. Scientists hope this will lead to a reduction of wind strength.

The seeding will be carried out over a 10-hour period, and the flying laboratories will examine the storm for the next 30 hours to see what happens.

Although scientists have not been able to demonstrate that seeding is effective, the seeding of Hurricane Debbie in 1969 was followed by changes rarely observed. Maximum winds decreased by 30 percent and radar showed the storm's eyewall expanded after seeding.

Firm Seeks Suspension Of Red Pepper Tariff

WASHINGTON (AP) — The folks who make the sauce that makes Bloody Marys and chili-smothered hot dogs hot say they can't buy enough red peppers in the United States.

So the manufacturers of Tabasco sauce are asking the federal government for a break. They want the tariff suspended on the Mexican hot peppers they import — ground and mixed with salt.

Their bill is one of 18 measures pending in Congress that would lower the nation's tariff barriers for certain imports.

One would suspend the duty on live worms until June 30, 1981. Another would lift the duty on imported jewelry given away to carnival-goers.

The problem with peppers, it seems, is that it's tough to get American laborers to do the back-breaking picking.

"We're working on a mechanical pepper picker, but we still classify it as experimental," Edmund McIlhenny Jr. told a Senate finance subcommittee this week as he sought support for a bill suspending the Mexican pepper tariff until June 30, 1981.

McIlhenny, representing the firm that bears his name and which has been manufacturing Tabasco sauce in Louisiana since 1868, told the subcommittee his company stands ready to pay a reasonable price for peppers. But he said the kind of pepper needed for the hot stuff can't readily be found in this country.

But McIlhenny said his firm pays about $20,000 a year on the 300,000 pounds of mashed peppers it imports from Mexico.

"I think it's something worth saving for American gastronomy," Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., said of the pungent sauce.

Mothers-To-Be Urged To Evacuate Niagara

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Pregnant women and families with small children have been urged to leave a 16-acre area so contaminated by chemicals leaking from an old dumping ground that the state declared a health emergency.

State Health Commissioner Robert Whalen declared the emergency and recommended the evacuation Wednesday after studies revealed that the number of miscarriages in the Love Canal area is about 50 percent higher than the national average.

The department said it found five children with birth defects in the area, but it did not say whether the rate was higher than the national average.

Whalen said an investigation showed that more than 80 chemicals — many toxic and 11 linked to cancer — have been leaking from the abandoned dump in the bed of the old Love Canal in the southeast corner of this city. The chemicals include benzene and chloroform.

Health Department investigators said chemicals have contaminated the water and released vapors which have polluted the air.

Residents, whose houses were built along the old canal's banks after the dump was filled in, said the chemicals first began surfacing two years ago after several seasons of abnormally heavy rains.

They said chemicals have seeped through basement walls. Air monitors placed in homes by the Environmental Protection Agency registered some chemicals at 250-to-5,000 times the level considered safe.

Specifically, Whalen recommended: —That about 20 families with children under age 2 and any pregnant women move out.

—That the 99th Street School not be opened this fall because of the contaminated vapors.

—That area residents avoid using their basements.

He said he stopped short of ordering an evacuation because he did not want to arouse panic and also because of the question of state aid, according to Health Department spokesman Marvin Nailor.

In an interview, Nailor said the state has not yet allocated funds for such an evacuation. But Gov. Hugh Carey's office hinted Wednesday that it may provide aid to some of the 97 families in the area.

The governor issued a statement promising residents "the full support of my administration in restoring normalcy to their lives" and announcing formation of a task force to study the problem.

The dump was used principally from 1930 to 1953 by the Hooker Chemical Corp., but other users included the city of Niagara Falls and, according to Hooker and residents, the Army, which reportedly dumped wastes from a former chemical warfare plant here.

In a statement released Wednesday, Hooker said it "does not believe it has any legal obligation or responsibility for the situation that has evolved completely outside its control."

The statement noted that such dumping was a common practice during the 1950s. It also noted that when it deeded the property to the Board of Education in 1952, it warned the board that the area had been a dumping site for chemical wastes.

Residents reacted with worry and confusion.

"We have no place to go unless we sell our home and nobody will buy it," said Mrs. Lawrence Runions. "We're stuck out here."

"I'm very upset," said Mrs. Francis Previtl, who has three children aged 4, 11 and 13. "What can we do? We just added a $20,000 addition to our home. Who wants the house? We have nowhere else to go."

"We're afraid of what this is doing to our children," said Mrs. Robert Neubauer. "My 3-year-old is the only one I carried while living here, but we're afraid they could get cancer years from now. I don't want my children to die before they're 40," she said.

Guard Officer Gives Advice To Trainees

EL PASO (UPI) — For six months, Master Sgt. Ruth Dean — the former national recruiter who introduced women into the Army National Guard — learned in a singular way what it meant to live in a male environment.

Mrs. Dean, the highest ranking female non-commissioned officer in the Army National Guard, was the only woman in a class of 233 senior NCOs who graduated from the U.S. Army Sergeants Major Academy at Fort Bliss in latter July.

"Although I've worked around men before, I've never been with 232 of them," said the 34-year-old Hawaiian native.

Mrs. Dean, wife of a music teacher in Burlington, Vt., and not the first woman to attend the academy, recommended that women in the future attend a class with at least one other female.

"There are some moments when it's really lonesome," she said. "Because there are no other women. I don't really have someone to talk with me about the things women talk about."

During the course, she undertook the same rigorous physical and mental training as the men. She read and studied, ran five miles a week to complete the total of 100 miles required for graduation, completed the academy's physical fitness test and participated in the required three sports, choosing tennis, softball and volleyball.

"Volleyball is terrible," she said, "because they play by jungle rules."

The NCO course is designed to prepare the nation's best senior NCOs for more important positions in the active Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Army Reserve or Army National Guard.

Mrs. Dean already played a key role during a critical time for the Army National Guard. She left a job as executive secretary to a corporate president to accept the job as the first female recruiter for the entire guard, a position she held from 1972 to 1975.

"That was such a great challenge," she said. "I couldn't say no. I didn't have a staff. I was it. They wanted women in the Guard, but nobody told me how to do it. The biggest problem was with the leaders who really didn't want to see this change."

She said men of all ages expressed some hesitancy toward admitting women, or about what the women would do when included.

"The younger men felt they had more freedom without women," she said. "The older men said, 'Great, we'll have women, and I'll finally get my typing done.'"

The first year, the Guard recruited about 1,000 women, and by 1975, Mrs. Dean said there were 12,000 in the 400,000 member Guard, and she said some women fly helicopters and maintain vehicles.

"It was rather successful," she said.

FLIGHTS SUSPENDED

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (AP) — Air Ceylon, Sri Lanka's national flag carrier, suspended all flight services because it had no planes, airlines spokesman Lanville Pieris reported. He said two of the airlines' three aircraft were under repair Tuesday and a third had to have its certificate of airworthiness renewed. Air Ceylon flies 11 domestic and 12 regional flights.

Accident Leads To New Business

GLADWIN, Mich. (UPI) — While recovering from a tractor accident 10 years ago that broke his back and cost him his left hand, Mike Seckman decided to learn how to make fishing rods.

Today, Seckman runs a thriving business designing, producing and selling the rods, and he hopes to start his own custom fishing rod factory staffed by other handicapped persons and teen-agers.

"I don't care what they say about hiring the handicapped, businesses just don't want you," said Seckman, 34, a father of five who worked at a local carburetor plant until his accident.

The plant moved from the area while he was recuperating, and he was forced to look for work elsewhere. It was at about that time that Seckman found a passing interest in fishing rods could lead to a new career.

"It was right after my accident and I was fishing on the Boyne River," he said. "I saw this guy with a rod that I really liked. I asked him, and he told me where to get one."

Seckman found he couldn't afford the rod, so he decided to learn how to make one himself. He spent "the whole day" watching a craftsman at a custom rod shop.

"He was really a nice guy," said Seckman. "He's the one who really got me started in this business."

Seckman's store has become a haven for anglers seeking fishing gear that doesn't roll off a mass-production line.

About half of his orders are for custom rods. Much of his business involves the production of spin casting gear, but he also makes fly rods ordered by customers.

The demand for custom rods has been increasing, Seckman said, because anglers have more leisure time and sport fishing in Michigan has been improved by conservation and stocking programs. "Fishermen and people like me are benefitting because of the good fishing," he said. "Things are just getting better."

Causes Of Bad Breath

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 16-year-old guy who has a consistent bad breath problem. In the back of my mouth (I believe it's my tonsils) there are those big pits that have a little white pus coming out. Also, the back of my tongue is always a milky color.
 Not only does my breath smell very bad, but my mouth tastes bad, too. I have tried a number of different mouth washes and breath gums but still have this disgusting problem. The odor and taste seems to be coming from the back of my mouth to the front. Please help me.

DEAR READER — There are many causes for bad breath. In some instances it is caused by dental problems and in that case the dentist is the best answer. This can be true even though a person may be diligently cleaning his teeth twice a day.
 You can develop infected pockets around the roots of the teeth that require more than simple brushing. That's when you need the help of a dentist not only to control your bad breath but to correct the infected pockets. They can cause serious dental problems if they are neglected.

Another common source of bad breath is sinus infection and infections in the throat. The sinus infections are more common.

I would think that you should see a specialist in ear, nose and throat and let him look at your tonsils and if they are diseased and the source of the bad odor coming from the back of your throat it may be well to have them removed.

You can't cover up the had odor of an infection with mouth hygienic measures. The source of the odor is still there; while you may mask it by another scent momentarily it's not very successful.

The other major source of bad breath is from the lungs. That's where the garlic odors come out of the blood stream and into the air that you exhale. That is the way you can have the smell of alcohol on your breath. It's absorbed into the blood stream and then released from the blood into the air that you exhale out of the lungs.

Upsets in body chemistry or anything else that's related to abnormal chemicals that have odors impart their odor to your breath in this way. So it is that bad breath is a symptom and it's necessary to find out what causes it before you can find out how to treat it.

Mouth wash isn't going to cure sinus infection, infected tonsils or cover up the foul odors coming from the lungs if a person has eaten garlic or been on an alcohol binge.

To give you a better appreciation of the causes of bad breath and what can be done about it I am sending you The Health Letter number 9-4, Halitosis: The Breath Problem and What To Do About It. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper. P.O. Box 326, San Antonio 78292.

Doctor Develops Contact Lens To Aid Color Blind Persons

By LINDA WERFELMAN.
WALTHAM, Mass. (UPI) — Dr. Harry Zeltzer wasn't actually looking for an aid to color blindness 13 years ago when he began studying the problems of underwater vision.

But, after a series of experiments, the Waltham optometrist developed not only special color filters to aid underwater divers, but also a bright red contact lens capable of helping to compensate for the most common form of color blindness.

Since colors are normally distorted underwater, Zeltzer's research gave him first-hand exposure to what he called "the terrible frustrations of people who are color blind." He also discovered that certain types of filters could help restore defective color vision for divers and that similar methods of filtering light could be applied to help those suffering from color blindness.

Zeltzer's X-Chrom lens — named for the x-chromosome, which transmits color blindness from generation to generation — is designed to help most victims of red-green color blindness, a visual affliction that affects about 8.5 million Americans, most of them men.

About 3,000 patients have been fitted with the lens by physicians across the country in the year since the device was first placed on the market, Zeltzer said.

Each patient wears the lens in only one eye — usually the least dominant — and treats it as he would an ordinary hard contact lens, he said. The red lenses can be made in prescription form for individuals with other visual problems, he added.

Zeltzer said the lens absorbs some blue, green and brown light and somehow counteracts the false color messages sent from the eyes to the brain.

While color blind patients will not see the actual color as a person with normal color perception would, he said they can associate a certain shade with a specific color.

Dr. Ralph Gunkel, a color vision specialist at the government's National Eye Institute in Bethesda, Md., said the lens would not bring out any new colors but could help a color blind person distinguish degrees of grayness when he was observing colors.

Two Army optometrists reported in the May 1976 issue of the medical journal Military Medicine that the lens is not a cure to color blindness, but does improve color perception. They said their tests indicated the lens "should not be considered only a device for beating the color vision tests, but it should be recognized as a real aid to those with color vision deficiencies."

Zeltzer said most color blind patients take less than one week to adjust to the red lens and the slight distortion it sometimes causes in their depth perception.

"At first, colors stand out, almost as if they're three-dimensional," he said. "But these people are getting benefits, and they're adjusting."

Richard Cripps, the 43-year-old color blind general manager of Logan Engineering Co. in East Boston, said he saw things in "super-technicolor" when he was first fitted with the lens.

"Before, colors had seemed very drab," said Cripps, one of the first patients to wear the lens. "Once I put it on, it was like the first time I went to see a technicolor movie.

His job became easier after he began wearing the lens, Cripps said, adding that he no longer has difficulty working with color-coded electronic wiring.

"It's very ordinary now," he said. "But before, I could never trust myself to do the wiring without having someone else to check my work."

Grocery Chains

Agree To Merge

ATLANTA (AP) — Directors of Colonial Stores Inc. have agreed to sell the firm to Grand Union Co. for $35 per share of stock, abandoning a month-long battle against the takeover, Colonial officials announced Tuesday.

The takeover would create the nation's eighth largest food store chain with 849 stores along the East Coast from Florida to Vermont and assets of about $2.6 billion.

Colonial had been fighting the takeover attempt since late June, when Colonial's directors rejected a $30-per-share offer from Grand Union, a New Jersey-based supermarket chain.

The U.N. General Assembly voted in 1967 to set up a council to take over Southwest Africa from South Africa and lead it to independence.

Zeltzer said most color blind patients take less than one week to adjust to the red lens and the slight distortion it sometimes causes in their depth perception.

"At first, colors stand out, almost as if they're three-dimensional," he said. "But these people are getting benefits, and they're adjusting."

Richard Cripps, the 43-year-old color blind general manager of Logan Engineering Co. in East Boston, said he saw things in "super-technicolor" when he was first fitted with the lens.

"Before, colors had seemed very drab," said Cripps, one of the first patients to wear the lens. "Once I put it on, it was like the first time I went to see a

Radical Pair Guns Down PLO Official

PARIS (AP) — Two Arab gunmen attacked the Paris offices of the Palestine Liberation Organization today, assassinated the PLO's chief representative in a hail of bullets and killed another employee with a grenade before being captured by police.

Three other members of the office staff were wounded, police said. The PLO official, 40-year-old Izziddin Qalaq, was riddled with 16 bullets, police said. He had been in Paris as the PLO representative since 1972 and was known as a supporter of PLO chief Yasser Arafat in his struggle against Iraqi-backed extremists who reject any idea of negotiations with Israel.

The second PLO employee died after a grenade explosion blew off his leg, police said. An anonymous caller later claimed Palestinian radicals were responsible.

One of the raiders fled soon after the initial attack and was caught minutes later, police said. After a tense two-hour siege, the second was overcome by employees of the Arab League's Paris office, in the same building as the PLO, was forced to release a hostage and then was turned over to French officers, police said.

The two terrorists, one with blood running down the side of his head, were taken away for questioning.

It was the second bloody terrorist operation in Paris in four days. An Arab gunman seized hostages in the Iraqi Embassy here Monday, and two persons were killed and four others wounded in a bizarre shootout between Iraqis and French police after he surrendered.

The PLO, the Arab League and the Franco-Arab Chamber of Commerce share offices in an elegant 19th-century building on Boulevard Hausseman in the central 8th Arrondissement.

An anonymous telephone caller told the French news agency Agence France-Presse that the strike was mounted by the "Rejection Front of Stateless Palestinian Arabs," a previously unheard-of group.

The caller also claimed responsibility for Monday's attack on the Iraqi Embassy, as well as the operation at the PLO offices.

"We don't want a land of exile any more, but the promised land of Mohammed," said the caller, who identified himself as the front's commander.

"We are going to strike all over France. This is only the beginning. We will put France into flames, and its pro-Jewish, pro-American regime." There was no immediate way to confirm the authenticity of the claim.

Police armed with carbines and wearing flak jackets had taken up position around the building, and Arabic-speaking men appeared at windows periodically shouting from floor to floor and down to the street.

"Come on!" one shouted in French, apparently an office employee urging police to close in.

A secretary at the PLO office said by telephone that when the attack began, "There was a bomb, and then shooting on the third floor."

"We're on the fourth floor. Police are trying to seal off the third floor."

It was the fourth incident of intra-Arab violence outside the Middle East in less than a week. At the heart of it is the split between Palestinian radicals and moderates, and Iraq's support of the radicals.

In London last Friday, someone tossed a bomb under the limousine of the Iraqi ambassador to Britain. He narrowly escaped injury, although two passersby were hurt. Police apprehended a woman suspect.

In the Monday attack in Paris, a terrorist held hostages at the Iraqi Embassy for 8½ hours. The Iraq news agency said he demanded the release of the woman held in Britain. When he surrendered, Iraqi security guards opened fire on him and French police.

Chief provisions of the House-approved constitutional amendments would:

- Drop the rarely obeyed mandate that intangible property, such as stocks and bonds, be taxed.

- Require the Legislature to exempt up to $10,000 of the assessed value of each homestead from school taxes, plus another $10,000 exemption for the elderly and disabled.

- The school district reimbursement fund would finance the $10,000 exemption for the elderly and disabled and a $3,500 exemption for other homeowners, Von Dohlen said.

- Tax agricultural land on its income-producing ability, not its real estate value. The school district reimbursement fund would have $125 million for this purpose.

- Exempt one car per family from property taxes.

- Limit the growth of state spending every two years to the percentage by which Texans' total personal income has grown. Excluded from the limit would be spending to reimburse school districts for property tax cuts.

Tax Relief Deadlock Smashed

AUSTIN (AP) — After two failures, the House finally has approved a package of constitutional amendments to ease property taxes, and Gov. Dolph Briscoe says a legislative consensus is developing.

The House approved the measure (HJR) 113-20 Wednesday night, and Senators could vote today on whether to accept it or send it to a conference committee.

It will take a two-thirds vote in each chamber to send the final product to the voters for a decision at the Nov. 7 election.

Speaker Bill Clayton said he hoped the House could vote today on another part of the compromise that won approval of the constitutional amendments — a $450 million promise by the state to reimburse school districts for revenue lost to property tax relief.

Another key tax relief measure was on its way to a final vote. House-Senate conferees approved Wednesday a bill abolishing the 4 percent state sales tax on gas and electric bills and raising the inheritance exemption from $25,000 per heir to $200,000 per estate.

The tax-exempt portion of an estate would rise to $300,000 in 1985.

Clayton, who promoted the special session on tax relief after Californians cut their own taxes through Proposition 13, bargained and persuaded to salvage the constitutional amendments.

Some said his prestige was at stake after the House twice refused to support the 100 votes needed to send the package to the Senate.

"I am confident that through the legislative process, which at times is slow and cumbersome, members of the Legislature will send to the people of Texas and to my desk a series of proposals in which they can take pride," Briscoe said in a statement after the House voted Wednesday night.

"It appears a consensus is building in the Legislature, and I am pleased to see such a consensus develop," he said.

Clayton gained some liberals and lost only a few conservatives in the compromising that brought success to his constitutional amendments package.

Chief provisions of the House-approved constitutional amendments would:

- Drop the rarely obeyed mandate that intangible property, such as stocks and bonds, be taxed.

- Require the Legislature to exempt up to $10,000 of the assessed value of each homestead from school taxes, plus another $10,000 exemption for the elderly and disabled.

- The school district reimbursement fund would finance the $10,000 exemption for the elderly and disabled and a $3,500 exemption for other homeowners, Von Dohlen said.

- Tax agricultural land on its income-producing ability, not its real estate value. The school district reimbursement fund would have $125 million for this purpose.

- Exempt one car per family from property taxes.

- Limit the growth of state spending every two years to the percentage by which Texans' total personal income has grown. Excluded from the limit would be spending to reimburse school districts for property tax cuts.

Elderly Woman Survives Medina River Rampage

BANDERA (AP) — Eighty-year-old Claribel Lovelace built her sturdy rock house in 1934, a respectful 700 yards from the sometimes stormy Medina River.

But 43 years later, the Medina paid a terrifying maiden visit — with eight feet of churning, muddy floodwaters that left her gasping for breath for two hours in the six-inch space between the water and her ceiling.

"My mouth was against the ceiling and my hair was in the water," said the frightened Mrs. Lovelace, who was plucked from the water by rescuers in an Army helicopter. "I only had six inches of air to breathe."

"I was there more than two hours. You'll never know how frightening it was," she added. "The river has never even gotten close to my house since I built it. The house is still standing, but everything inside is ruined."

Wednesday's record flooding in the Central Texas Hill Country devastated much of Bandera, Comfort and Medina, killing at least eight persons and leaving others missing in the swirling waters.

In Bandera, the frothing flood waters sheared a new $150,000 rock house from its foundation, leaving a slick concrete slab. Century-old cypress trees were snapped like matchsticks. Asphalt was easily stripped from highways.

The water ripped through Clint Dowell's automobile dealership about 150 yards from where the river normally flows, tossing dozens of new and used cars around like fishing corks and demolishing the building.

When the waters receded, Dowell's inventory was scattered up and down the Medina or stacked like cordwood in the mud-covered parking lot. He estimated the damage at more than $1 million.

Bandera's lucrative Medina River dude ranches were the hardest hit. Many vacationers were rescued from trees or rooftops by Army helicopters. The victims came out in black plastic body bags. Others were lost and feared dead in the churning waters.

More than 20 terrified Peaceful Valley vacationers, including 1977 Miss USA, Kim Tomes of Houston, were forced to cling to tree limbs while balancing for six hours on the roof of the camp headquarters. The water roared only a foot below the top of the roof, which is 20 feet high.

Houston businessman Steve Muller grasped an overhanging tree limb with one hand and held a fellow camper's 1-year-old infant with the other. The child slept through it all.

"Something woke me up about 4 a.m.," said Muller. "I put my foot out of bed and found out I was in six inches of water. I knew then that something was wrong because the water should have been 30 feet away. It rose about a foot in the next 30 seconds.

"The tree seemed as good a place as any," joked Muller. "Miss USA had the tree reserved next to me."

Muller and his two teen-aged sons escaped with only their swimming trunks. His wife, two young daughters and one of their friends had been sent to Bandera because of the high water. "If they hadn't left, I have no doubt they would have died."

Peaceful Valley owner Art Kitzman said Miss Tomes has been a regular visitor to the dude ranch for several years. "She was really lucky," he said. "She was actually in the water and managed to catch the last tree before she would have been swept away."

She left Bandera later in the day and could not be reached for comment.

But 17-year-old Mike Muller said she continually boosted spirits among the stranded vacationers.

But two Peaceful Valley guests — a 16-year-old girl and a 12-year-old boy — had not found their mother, father and two grandmothers by sunset Wednesday. Officials feared the four vacationers were trapped in their flooded cabin, from which the youths escaped.

"I'm hoping they're in a tree or something. The kids swam out and were safe," said Grace Kitzman, wife of the dude ranch owner.

As for his ranch, a mud-caked Kitzman said simply, "It's all gone."

Mary Lou Sanchez, her face drawn and pale, rested on a mattress at the Baptist Church serving as a temporary refugee center. Her son was still missing in the rampaging river and medical personnel were afraid the elderly woman was lapsing into shock.

"Some people got me from out of a tree. I was on top of my house when the last rise washed me away. It was about seven hours but it seemed like an eternity," Mrs. Sanchez said.

She paused for a moment. "They still haven't found my son," she added. And she wept softly.

Solons Hear Details Of Organized Crime

WASHINGTON (AP) — A convicted loan shark testified today that he participated in the planning that led to the murder of one man, the bombing of a second and to a third person being taken into the Florida Everglades and being told to dig his own grave.

Gary Bowdach said the three instances all were the result of narcotics transactions that were being handled by a gang led by Richard Cravero.

Cravero currently is serving three life sentences for multiple murders and is incarcerated in the Florida state prison.

Bowdach told the Senate permanent subcommittee on investigations that he served Cravero and the gang as a strong-arm man and bodyguard in 1974.

Bowdach, appearing before the panel for the third day, testified under increased security — including a high-backed chair placed directly behind him.

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., vice chairman of the subcommittee, said the tightened security resulted because "U.S. marshals have received certain information which leads them to believe certain other security precautions are necessary." He did not elaborate.

Bowdach said the bombing took place after one man decided the intended victim was trying to cheat him in a narcotics deal.

The intended victim survived although he lost both legs, an arm and an eye when the bomb exploded in his car.

He also told of taking another man into the Everglades and forcing him to dig his own grave in an effort to scare the man into giving them money to bail out an associate held in jail. That person eventually was freed after his partner came up with some cash.

Bowdach also said in his opening statement that he participated in the murder of another man. He identified the alleged victim by name, but he volunteered no other details and the committee asked him no questions about it.

Nunn told the subcommittee that Cravero's narcotics dealing was, according to law enforcement authorities in Florida, "so big and so profitable that he could afford to buy 50-foot cabin cruisers to make one run to the Bahamas and back to Florida and then burn the boats to the waterline."

Area Rain

The agricultural forecast said generally a quarter to a half-inch of rain will fall over the South Plains today with up to two inches possible in mainly the southeastern counties of the area.

A flash flood warning was in effect this morning for Midland and Ector counties as heavy, slow-moving rains from the system that flooded parts of South Texas moved in from the west.

However, the warning was canceled after storms in that area began moving south, away from Midland and Odessa.

Parts of Texas 1379 east of Midland were flooded, the Midland County Sheriff's Office reported.

come with produce, and Israel Radio said a crowd of angry Jews shouted, "Give them to us! Death to the enemy!"

The police restrained the crowd and took the suspects away for questioning.

In Beirut, a terse statement distributed by the PLO took responsibility for the blast but did not name the specific guerrilla group that planted the explosives.

A spokesman at the PLO-run news agency Wafa, said a detailed statement will be issued later. The PLO is made up of the six major groups of the Palestinian guerrilla movement.

Israeli Interior Minister Yosef Burg went to the scene of the bombing and said, "It's another example of how, instead of working for cooperation and understanding between the peoples, they are sowing hate."

The last serious terrorist explosion in Israel was at another open-air market, in the Mahane Yehuda quarter in Jerusalem, on June 29. Two were killed and 47 wounded in that attack, which was the 20th of the year in Israel.

Before today's bombing in Tel Aviv, 13 persons had died and more than 120 had been wounded in bombings in Israel. One of them occurred at the Carmel Market in July 1977, leaving 11 persons wounded.

The worst terrorist incident in Israel's history occurred last March 11 when sea-borne guerrillas commandeered a bus and directed it down the Haifa-Tel Aviv highway. Thirty-five Israelis died when the attack ended in a flaming explosion just north of Tel Aviv.

The PLO was itself the target of a terrorist attack in Paris today. Two Arab gunmen assassinated the PLO's Paris representative and killed another PLO employee at the organization's offices there. The attackers were captured.

That attack appeared part of a continuing underground war between rival Palestinian factions.

Jess Burnam

IDALOU (Special) — Services for Lubbock County's 14th traffic fatality this year, Jess M. Burnam, 90, have been set for 2 p.m. Friday in the First United Methodist Church here with the Rev. William H. Wright, pastor, officiating.

Burial for Burnam, who lived on Route 1, will follow in Idalou Cemetery under the direction of Rix Funeral Directors.

Burnam died about 5:30 p.m. Wednesday in a two-car collision about two miles south of Idalou on FM 400. Justice of the Peace Earl Yarbrough pronounced Burnam dead at the scene.

Two Slaton youths in the other vehicle involved also were injured in the mishap and taken to Lubbock's Methodist Hospital.

Tony Mack Woods, 17, and Troy Allen Jones, 16, were treated and later released.

Department of Public Safety reports indicate the youths were southbound on FM 400 and the Burnam vehicle was going west on County Road 63 at the time of the accident.

Burnam had been a member of Idalou's First United Methodist Church since 1927 when he moved here from Putnam.

His survivors include three daughters, Mrs. Charlie Miller of Lubbock, Mrs. Millard Hancock of Abernathy, Mrs. R. O. Gregory of Muleshoe; a son, Clarence of Markham; a sister, Lucille Kelley of Cisco; 10 grandchildren; 22 great-grandchildren; and three great-great-grandchildren.

Ethel Eicke

BROWNFIELD (Special) — Services for Ethel Eicke, 86, of Brownfield, will be at 10 a.m. Friday in First Baptist Church here with the Rev. A.J. Franks, pastor of Bethel Baptist Church here, officiating.

Burial will be in Terry County Memorial Cemetery under direction of Brownfield Funeral Home.

Mrs. Eicke died at 9:45 p.m. Tuesday in Lubbock's Highland Hospital after a long illness.

She was a longtime Brownfield resident.

Survivors include three sons, Clyde of Amarillo, Lemon of Brownfield and Jack of Lubbock; five daughters, Laine Williams of Las Cruces, N.M., Ora Dee Drennan of Lubbock, Kathleen Wiloughby of Maxwell, N.M., Dorothy Neil Raley of Temple, and Bobbie Jean Houtchens of Lubbock; four brothers, Curtis Huckabee, Luke Huckabee, and J.B. Huckabee Jr., all of Brownfield, and O.D. Huckabee of Midland; two sisters, Mrs. C.B. Quante of Mineral Wells, and Mrs. Clyde Bone of Brownfield; 18 grandchildren, 32 great-grandchildren and a great-great-grandchild.

William Hathcock

ANDREWS (Special) — Services for William James Hathcock, 37, of Andrews, will be at 2 p.m. Friday in First Baptist Church here with the Rev. Carl Grisson, pastor, officiating.

Burial will be in Andrews Cemetery under direction of Singleton Funeral Home here.

Hathcock died about 4 p.m. Tuesday in Brooke Army Medical Center in Fort Houston at San Antonio from burn injuries he received in an oil field accident June 16.

He was born in Van Zandt County and moved to here from Lubbock in 1943. He attended public schools in Andrews and had become a self-employed contractor in oil fields five years ago after working for Superior Welding Works.

Survivors include his wife, Georgia; a son, Brian of Gridley, Calif.; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W.G. "Dub" Hathcock of Andrews; a sister, Nelda Bills of College Station; a brother, Max of Andrews; and his grandparents, Lillie Hathcock of Mabank and Jim Hedden of Canton.

Federal Mediators Watch SA Protest

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — Federal mediators watched over a city hall protest staged by the San Antonio Refuse Collectors Association to demand the rehiring of 157 wildcat strikers fired for taking part in an illegal walkout.

Leaders of the independent union said the city hall protest would also emphasize their demand that the city negotiate complaints about working conditions of garbage collectors.

Maurelio Ortiz, Dallas regional director of the Justice Department's Community Relations Services, said the federal mediators were sent in response to several complaints that racism might be behind the firings.

Ortiz is not related to City Councilman Rudy Ortiz, who sent a telegram earlier this week asking for federal mediation on grounds of potential violence in the labor strike.

Ortiz, the government mediator, said that an earlier assessment by his office identified the 12-day San Antonio garbage strike situation as strictly a labor-management problem but that a reassessment of several days would be made.

Meanwhile, City Manager Tom Huebner was expected to act today on individual requests by 110 of the fired workers that they be reinstated.

Huebner has said that leaders of the wildcat walkout and any worker linked to several acts of violence directed at non-strikers would not be rehired under any circumstances.

Leaders of the Refuse Collectors Association have vowed the strikers — about half of the 313 garbage workers — would not return to work unless all of those who walked out were re-employed.

Huebner was to receive recommendations from a five-member review board

Mrs. Littlejohn

Services for Mrs. D.D. (Mary Nell) Littlejohn, 71, of Route 4, will be at 2 p.m. Friday in Woodrow Baptist Church with the Rev. Cletus Caswell, pastor of Union Baptist Church, officiating.

Burial will be in Peaceful Gardens Memorial Park under direction of Franklin-Bartley Funeral Home.

Mrs. Littlejohn died at 10:55 p.m. Tuesday in Methodist Hospital after a brief illness.

She had lived in Lubbock since 1949, moving here from Corsicana. She married D.D. Littlejohn April 17, 1921 in Corsicana. She was a Baptist.

Survivors include her husband; her mother, Studie Thompson of the home; three sons, Dale and Glenn both of Lubbock, and Dean of Hale Center; a daughter, Joyce Huckabay of Lubbock; a sister, Manie Howe of Malakoff; 11 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren. Grandsons will serve as pallbearers.

W.H. Luttrell

Services for W.H. "Bill" Luttrell, 63, of Hobbs, N.M., are pending with Rix Funeral Directors.

His body will be at Rix Funeral Home until 9 p.m. today, when it will be transferred to Reynolds Funeral Home in Glen Rose.

Luttrell died at 10:15 a.m. Wednesday in Methodist Hospital after a short illness.

He also had lived in the Seminole area several years and was a member of the Church of Christ and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

He is survived by five brothers, Ray of Vista, Calif., Bob of Mineral Wells, Homer of Lake Coleman, Jess of Prineville, Ore., and Buford of Morgan Mills.

Marshall McGee

HOLLIS, OKLA. (Special) — Services for Marshall L. McGee, 75, of Eldorado, Okla., are pending with Barnett Funeral Home here.

McGee died at 8:45 a.m. Wednesday in Methodist Hospital at Lubbock after suffering an apparent heart attack.

Survivors include his wife, Lola; two sons, Loy and M.L. Jr., both of Lubbock; two daughters, Mrs. Glendon Cofey of Lawton, Okla., and Mrs. Jim Ashley of Anaheim, Calif.; a brother, Colo of Houston; two sisters, Mrs. Jack Harmon of Lubbock and Mrs. Bill Thompson of Gainesville; 15 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

Ellenora Sykora

OLNEY (Special) — Services for Ellenora Florene Sykora, 22, recently of Lubbock, have been set for today and Friday in St. Theresa's Catholic Church here.

Rosary will be said for Miss Sykora at 8 p.m. today and funeral Mass will be sung at 10 a.m. Friday with the Rev. John Howlett, pastor, officiating.

Burial will follow in Megargel Cemetery here under the direction of Lunn Funeral Home.

Police are continuing their investigation into the shooting death of the woman who had moved to Lubbock only three weeks ago. She was discovered in the entrance hall of her sister's 4612 60th St. home about 1:10 p.m. Tuesday by her sister, Mrs. Dean Manning.

Police said Miss Sykora was found face down in the hallway with a .22-caliber semi-automatic pistol beneath her.

Authorities said she had been shot in the left chest area at least four times with the pistol she bought after leaving

Postal Union Crosses Legal Hurdles, Begins Balloting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's largest postal union today began mailing ratification ballots to 300,000 workers who can remove the threat of mail strike by ratifying a widely criticized contract settlement.

The American Postal Workers Union joined two other postal unions that also are polling rank-and-file members by mail. Altogether, more than 500,000 workers are being asked to accept or reject a proposed agreement reached with the U.S. Postal Service.

The workers' verdict will not be known until late August, however, because the voters have 20 days to return their ballots and it will take several more days to tabulate the results.

The APWU, which was delayed by one day in mailing its ballots because of a court challenge, faced a second legal hurdle today.

A dissident local leader who lost in his first bid to halt the ratification vote on the grounds that it would be illegal, asked the federal appeals court here to overrule the lower court's decision.

John Richards, president of the union's Pittsburgh area local, asked the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to issue an injunction before the APWU mails all the ballots. The union estimated it would take until Saturday to get all the ballots in the mail.

Richards filed for an appeal Wednesday after a U.S. district judge refused to issue an injunction preventing a rank-and-file ratification vote.

In his ruling, Judge Barrington Parker said that a prompt ratification vote would be in the public interest.

The court actions do not affect two other postal unions that negotiated with the APWU on a new accord with the U.S. Postal Service.

The National Association of Letter Carriers mailed ballots earlier this week to its 182,000 members and has set an Aug. 21 deadline for their return. The 38,000-member Mailhandlers Division of the Laborers' International union was also sending ballots out today.

A fourth union, the National Rural Letter Carriers Association, does not have a rank-and-file ratification process. Instead, it requires approval from local leaders, who are expected to approve the pact handily.

Leaders of the Mailhandlers union say they expect rank-and-file approval of the contract by a wide margin, but officials of the two largest unions face uncertain ratification prospects.

An advisory committee composed of APWU local leaders rejected the contract last week, and 4,600 local leaders attending the Letter Carriers national convention in Chicago rejected the pact in a non-binding vote this week.

In addition, some workers temporarily walked off the job in California and New Jersey last week to protest the settlement, reached July 21.

Postal strikes are illegal, and the Postal Service, which had vowed to enforce the law, backed up its warning by firing more than 100 wildcaters. The quick dismissals brought the walkouts to an end and apparently discouraged wildcat strikes from spreading.

The key objection by dissidents is that the 19.5 percent wage increase spread over three years is too low.

Local leaders noted that inflation is running above 10 percent this year, and have pointed with chagrin to the 31 percent hike over three years that coal miners won earlier this year and the 30 percent-plus increase railroad workers are getting over 30 months.

Other complaints concern work rules, specifically the unions' failure to eliminate mandatory overtime.

Norman Wisenbaker

Services for Norman Wisenbaker, 88, of 2328 57th St., will be at 2 p.m. Friday in Lucas Funeral Chapel at Hurst.

Burial will be in Bluebonnet Cemetery at Colleyville under direction of Lucas Funeral Home. Local arrangements are by Franklin-Bartley Funeral Home.

Wisenbaker, died at 1:10 a.m. Wednesday in Highland Hospital after a brief illness.

He moved to Lubbock about a year ago from Paris. He married Valerie Thompson Oct. 21, 1960 in Hurst. Wisenbaker was a member of the Daylight Masonic Lodge in Houston and was a Baptist.

Survivors include his wife; a stepdaughter, Bennette Mareynik of Fort Worth; two brothers, Ralph of Mesquite and R.E. of Tyler; four sisters, Myrtle Bartlett of Fort Worth, Irma Cowart and an Evelyn Savory, both of Bedford, and Eugene Boykin of Houston; and four grandchildren.

Police Seek Lubbock Man

A 25-year-old Lubbock man, charged last week with injury to a child, remained at large today following the 4-year-old boy's death Wednesday in Methodist Hospital.

Elias Caballero Jr. of 2109 Emory St. died at 11:10 a.m. The child, who had been connected to a life-support system at the hospital, suffered from bruises on his legs, arms and head area.

Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalock is withholding a ruling pending autopsy results which are expected "in a week to 10 days."

Mass for the youngster will be celebrated at 3 p.m. Friday at Our Lady of Grace Catholic Church with the Rev. Bob Ibe, associate pastor, officiating.

Burial will be in Englewood Cemetery in Slaton under direction of Henderson Funeral Directors.

The child was born in Slaton and had lived in Lubbock about three years.

Football Pioneer Shotwell Succumbs

ABILENE (AP) — Texas football pioneer P.E. Shotwell, a coach and athletic director for more than 50 years, died Wednesday night at his residence here. He was 84.

His teams failed to play at least 500 ball in only two of his 52 seasons.

Shotwell retired as McMurry College's athletic director in 1969. He coached at Cisco, Abilene, Breckenridge and Lovington high schools and Simmons College and Sul Ross State.

Woodward Continues Moonie Injunction

By ROBERT M. COCKRUM
Avalanche-Journal Staff

U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward today continued a temporary injunction permitting members of the Unification Church to solicit funds in Lubbock.

At issue is a city ordinance which requires individuals and organizations to secure a license before soliciting money within the city.

"I admit there are portions of the ordinance we take no pride in," said James Brewster, assistant city attorney. "It is our intent to modify it."

The church and its members, popularly known as "Moonies," asked for a judgment that the ordinance is unconstitutional. Judge Woodward said he wanted to study the matter further. He first granted the temporary injunction last December.

Thomas J. Griffith, attorney for the church, picked at the ordinance word-by-word, criticizing the law for its vagueness as well as overall concept.

Griffith said there is no need for the city to protect protection of citizens' health, lives, property and welfare.

"There are other laws to protect those," he said, citing trespass statutes as one means. "And welfare is best protected by freedom of speech. We're subject to every rule except one that says you can't practice religion without a license."

Judge Woodward asked if cities were totally without power to regulate solicitations.

"In combination of speech and religion, it is beyond their power," said Griffith.

"Is raising hands putting forth an idea?" asked Woodward.

"That's a part of it," Griffith said.

Witnesses Describe NY Fire

NEW YORK (UPI) — All the employees and customers had fled the supermarket and joined the crowd idly watching the flames. On the roof, two dozen firemen were routinely punching holes to let the smoke seep through.

"All of a sudden the fire came up through the roof and the firemen fell right down in it," said Joan Gaians, who watched from her apartment window across the street.

"I saw six go down and four fell to the side, grabbing onto the ledge. It was just horrible."

Six of them died and 34 were injured — two critically — in the department's worst disaster since 1966, when a fire killed 12 firemen in a burned-out commercial building in Manhattan.

At a news conference today, Fire Chief Francis Crutcher said workmen renovating the Brooklyn market gave no indication to firemen that there might be problems with the roof.

The cause of the fire was still under investigation, although officials said a preliminary inquiry showed it might have been the result of a "construction accident" near store offices on the mezzanine floor.

"They were hacking holes when a great huge ball of fire just erupted on the roof," one witness said. "I saw one guy disappear before my eyes. Others were just hanging from the parapet."

Another witness said the firefighters "never had a chance" as they fell into the inferno, their screams choked off by the smoke and fire. A crane summoned to lift debris from the buried men arrived too late.

Later still were the wives, who pulled up at the burned-out Waldbaum's supermarket in station wagons and sedans.

One woman huddled anxiously with fire officials and then broke out in shrieks when told her husband was one of the men killed inside.

Mayor Edward Koch and Gov. Hugh Carey both sent condolence messages.

"We have to appreciate the enormity of this tragedy," Koch said. "It goes to show how much we owe our dedicated police and firemen for the dangerous work they are willing to engage in."

Two brothers working in the supermarket, Bob and Arthur Stanley, said the morning fire apparently started in the compressor room where the store's air conditioning and refrigeration equipment were located.

They battled the fire with a garden hose for five minutes but "then one of the refrigeration lines blew and we ran out," said Bob Stanley, 36.

Sheetmetal worker Dominick Mezzopesa, 50, said he was working in the attic when he heard "somebody on the loud-speaker screaming, 'Everybody get out, there's a fire.'"

Two-Wheeled Vehicle Sales Up

By LeROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Americans are buying more bicycles, motorcycles and mopeds than automobiles these days.

The moped, particularly, is the "in" vehicle with young people who find them fun and cheaper than a car for getting around. Increasingly, they are taking the place of a second car in many families to transport a commuting husband to and from the station.

Edouard de Truchis, general manager of Cycles Peugeot (USA), Inc., a subsidiary of the French Peugeot-Citroen automotive combine, said the trend to greater sales of cycle vehicles than automobiles in the United States now has lasted five years and is accelerating.

For that reason, his company has expanded its chain of American moped and motorcycle dealers to 500 and hopes to double or triple its sales of around 10,000 last year.

Bruno Poratti, president of Vespa of America Corp., the San Francisco-based subsidiary of the Italian producer of scooters and mopeds, said his company expects a similar growth and has similarly expanded its American dealer network. Numerically, bicycles have the biggest unit sales — as young and old alike pedal for health and fun — and American cycle manufacturers more than hold their own in this market. The Japanese, British and Germans lead in motorcycle sales although some French and Italian motorcycles also are sold in the United States. There is only one American motorcycle maker left, AMF's Harley-Davidson, which makes a big rugged vehicle, much preferred for police work.

Mopeds are the fastest growing part of the market, and there is only one completely American-made moped, AMF's new Roadmaster.

Austria's Steyr Daimler Puch, the leading exporter to this country, says moped sales in the United States will hit 250,000 this year and could reach one million within a very few years.

Motobecane of France, Vespa and scores of other European makers share in the American market. Japan is a late comer to mopeds with Honda the only Japanese firm in it so far.

Generally, the moped manufacturers regard it as strictly an auxiliary vehicle and have no desire to see it used on main highways because its 30 mph speed is simply not enough for safety.

Also, de Truchis and Poratti said, you should have a vehicle with more carrying capacity for trips of any length.

But both agreed the moped can't be beaten by any vehicle for economy in purchase and operating cost. De Truchis said a moped will last at least five years if it is cared for.

The scooter, which sold well in the United States until driven out by the big Japanese motorcycle push in the 1960s, still enjoys great popularity in Europe because of its carrying capacity.

"With a sidecar a scooter can carry three persons or a considerable load of parcels," Poratti pointed out. Sidecars are no longer seen in America but still are popular in Europe.

City Picked For Rate Test

A-J News Services
AUSTIN — The Public Utility Commission has ordered Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. to try out "lifeline" rates on residents of 15 cities, including Lubbock.

The commission Wednesday approved a $124.5 million increase in installation and service charges, but rejected Bell's request for increases in basic residential and business rates that would have brought the total to $214.3 million.

Under the lifeline rates, referred to by the commission as "residential measured rate service," residents of the 15 cities could save 30 to 40 percent of the cost of single-party telephone service if they made 25 or fewer calls per month.

Jim Goodwin, Bell public relations manager in Lubbock, said the present minimum telephone rate here is $6 per month, which pays for one plain black rotary-dial telephone and as many free local calls the customer wants to make.

Under the PUC plan, Lubbockites will be able to get "lifeline" service for $3.95 monthly, as long as no more than 25 local calls are made, Goodwin said. Each additional call after 25 would cost 8 cents.

"For customers who do not use the telephone a lot, this would enable them to have basic service at a reduced price," Goodwin said. He added, however, that the average person makes at least four calls daily, which would mean it "would probably be better staying with the basic residential rate ($6)."

Lubbock was one of 15 cities picked by the commission because the telephone company here has electronic switching — a system needed to monitor local calls. Goodwin said Bell has six months to implement the new rates, and that the company's $35 million electronic switching system should be completed here by late September.

Lubbock will be the first major city to have complete electronic switching telephone service, according to Goodwin.

Statewide lifeline rates will range from $5 in Houston to $3.70 in San Benito.

The 15 cities involved in the trial lifeline rate program involve about 63 percent of Bell's customers in Texas. The rates will also be offered in Austin, Amarillo, Beaumont, Corpus Christi, Dallas, Fort Worth, Galveston, Harlingen, Houston, Midland, San Antonio, San Benito, Tyler and Wichita Falls on a trial basis to determine the feasibility of such service.

"In my opinion, the consumers of Texas have had pretty rough going the last few years," Commissioner Alan Erwin said. "I really believe this order is the first substantial hope for relief that they have known throughout that period."

Erwin said the residential measured rates offer some relief to Texans who are most in need of lower utility bills.

Mary Lassen, director of the Association of Citizens Organized for Reform Now (ACORN), said her group was pleased with the commission decision to institute the measured rates.

"It really is a victory for consumers all over the state," she said. "What was adopted is essentially the lifeline rate ACORN has been pushing for."

Bell attorney John Dee Lawrence said he was surprised to see the measured service provision in the commission order, but told reporters, "It is an opportunity for us to see if there is a demand for this kind of service."

He did not comment on the rate order, saying Bell would have to study the ruling to determine if the company would appeal.

The order requires Bell and the commission staff to conduct a study after six months to determine whether the new rate system is working properly and if it should be expanded to other areas.

Former Ector Jailer Accuses Sheriff Of Withholding Data

MIDLAND — The U.S. Justice Department apparently is focussing part of its inquiry into the death of a Mexican-American prisoner on claims by an ex-jailer that the Ector County Sheriff tried to control the flow of information to officials investigating the case, the Midland Reporter-Telegram said in a copyrighted story.

In its Wednesday editions, the newspaper said former jailer Gabriel R. Perez told a state's attorney general investigator in Austin last February he knew of possible violations of Larry Ortega Lozano's civil rights during his Jan. 10-22 confinement in the Ector County jail.

Perez said in the interview he had tried to advise the sheriff's department of possible civil rights violations.

Three of five persons present in the interview have confirmed the substance of Perez' statements, the Reporter-Telegram said. The newspaper claims it has reviewed a transcript of some of the ex-jailer's conversations.

In an interview with the Reporter-Telegram, Sheriff Elton Faught denied charges by Perez, declaring, "the whole thing is untrue." The sheriff added that he has never had occasion to discuss the case with Perez.

The jailer resigned July 24 after an appearance before the Ector County grand jury.

The transcript of his conversations with the state attorney general's investigator, reviewed by the Reporter-Telegram, claimed among other things that Faught:

— Helped to shape the story for a Jan. 23 press conference that reportedly altered versions offered by some of his subordinates.

— Ignored Perez' contention during a period following Lozano's death that Lozano had been physically abused and had not killed himself.

— Arranged for and attended a Jan. 29 meeting — a week after Lozano's death — for "getting the story straight."

— Urged Perez not to tell investigators what he claimed to know about the matter.

— Told Perez to meet with Faught and Green if contacted by the Lozano family's lawyer, Reuben Sandoval.

The transcript of Perez' accounts deals with events he witnessed and conversations he claimed to have had with other sheriff's department employees, the newspaper said.

Present at the meeting were Perez, Maeso Sandoval, Ed Ibar of the attorney general's office, and Adam Rodriguez, a cousin of Perez and a Mexican-American activist from Odessa. The Reporter-Telegram said three of these persons confirmed that Perez made the statements.

Bryan Senator Bucks Tradition

AUSTIN (AP) — Sen. Bill Moore, D-Bryan, ignored one of the Senate's most cherished traditions Wednesday, but his colleagues went against him in rejecting Hugh Yantis' appointment as chairman of the state insurance board.

The Senate voted 27-1 against Yantis as a courtesy to Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, who said Yantis had become a "temporary consumer crusader," in an effort to win last-minute Senate support.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe said he thought Yantis had "well served the interests of the state and its citizens. I regret that his nomination was not confirmed."

Senators voted 23-5 to confirm Briscoe's appointment of former Sen. Dorsey Hardeman to the Texas Water Commission, although Sen. A.R. Schwartz described Hardeman as a liar and a schemer "who did evil right here in this Senate."

Traditionally, senators automatically "bust" an appointee if his hometown senator opposes him. Only Moore flouted the tradition by voting for Yantis. He described Yantis "as one of the best appointments a governor of Texas has made in many years."

"He didn't let the environmentalists run him out of the Capitol — that's why the senator from Travis doesn't like him, that's all," said Moore, referring to Yantis' previous career with the water quality board.

Moore said senatorial courtesy "went out the window" when Doggett was elected, because so many state appointees live in Doggett's district that he can dictate virtually all important state jobs.

Schwartz, D-Galveston, was not entitled to senatorial courtesy on Hardeman's nomination, and only Doggett and Sens. Gene Jones of Houston, Bill Meier of Eules and Carlos Truan of Corpus Christi joined him in voting against Hardeman.

Before asking the Senate to reject Yantis, Doggett tried to recommit his name to committee but failed. The vote was 15-13, but Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby ruled an absolute majority — or 16 votes — was needed.

Doggett hoped to avoid a vote on Yantis so the Senate could reject him in 1979, with Briscoe's successor appointing a replacement. Yantis said, however, he would spoil that tactic by resigning before Briscoe left office.

Doggett said in 11 years as executive director of the water quality board, Yantis' policy "was one of non-enforcement and permissiveness... Non-compliance with water quality standards was tolerated and expected."

As chairman of the insurance board, Yantis dismantled the fire marshal's office, Doggett said.

Briscoe now has an opportunity to appoint a successor to Yantis, 63, who has been insurance chairman since September 1977.

By a 27-0 vote, the Senate confirmed 36 other gubernatorial appointees, including:

Good Neighbor Commission — Arnaldo Ramirez Sr., Mission.
Texas Youth Council — Ruben Schaeffer, El Paso, and Don Workman, Lubbock.

State Insurance Board — Durwood Manford.

Texas Department of Human Resources — Jerome Chapman, Austin.

DA Faces New Charges

BROWNSVILLE (UPI) — The federal grand jury has added seven perjury charges to a previous allegation that Hidalgo County District Attorney Oscar McNinnis unsuccessfully plotted the death of his girlfriend's ex-husband.

McNinnis, 61, was accused in a superceding indictment of lying seven times on June 7, the day the grand jury charged him with conspiring to arrange the kidnap and murder of Noe Villanueva.

In the latest indictments returned

Tuesday, McAllen nurse Patricia Parada, 24, also was accused of one count of perjury before the grand jury.

McNinnis and Miss Parada were named as co-conspirators in the June 7 indictments.

Federal investigators alleged that Miss Parada plotted to lure her husband across the border to Reynosa, Mexico, while McNinnis allegedly tried to persuade convicted murderer Daniel Rodriguez, 36, to have Villanueva killed.

Study Indicates Alcoholism Common Among Nurses

By ELLIE GROSSMAN
NEW YORK (NEA) — They'd look at each other and wonder what the devil was wrong with Helen. She used to be so warm and reliable, such a good registered nurse.

Now no one knew if and when she'd show up for work. She was hostile and her hands trembled so much, the head nurse had to rewrite her reports.

"I had a pattern clearly indicative of an alcoholic: absenteeism, hostility, personality changes, tremors, but nobody at the hospital ever said anything to me about drinking," Helen says. "I was waiting for someone to confront me on it, but all they'd say is you better shape up."

Only after she pulled a muscle in 1973 and spent two weeks at home drinking steadily did anything happen.

"Back at the hospital, I felt as though I was losing my mind. So I went to Employees Health and finally told the doctor how much I'd been drinking. And he did exactly what I'd feared someone would do if I confessed: he asked, asked, and said, 'a young woman like you! And I felt like a penny waiting change.'"

The very people you'd think would be quick to spot the disease first of all, and acknowledge it as such acted like ignorant laymen. Even to imposing judgment. Alcoholics? They're not sick — just no damn good.

"That's how doctors referred to patients I took care of," Helen says. "My family always thought it was a moral issue." So she told herself the daily drinking she'd started at the age of 25 in 1963 wasn't a problem. It relieved fatigue at the end of the day, that's all. Besides, she drank good scotch and alcoholics don't do that.

In 1974, she finally entered an alcoholic treatment hospital and, she says, "It changed my life. Staff members were all recovered alcoholics so I saw alcoholics weren't just bowery bums."

Helen got well and flourished (she's now an in-patient counselor in alcoholism at a large New York hospital). But she might have flourished sooner if there'd been a recovered alcoholic on staff at the general hospitals she worked in when she was drinking herself to shreds. Someone who knew the signs and could help those patients and staff members who showed them. "Many times I wanted to talk to someone at work about my drinking, but there was no one."

And that's pretty much the way it is all over the country, she says, which is unfortunate. In a nursing population of perhaps a million, there are an estimated 40,000 alcoholics — ignored, untreated, going about their business and possibly doing it badly.

The statistics are Dr. LeClair Bissell's, a recovered alcoholic, too, who's been studying the alcoholic nurse since 1968.

No one has studied her before, she says, and she's doing it for two reasons:

"There might be a particular role for that nurse dealing with alcoholism among others. Also, being a nurse doesn't protect you against any disease and no nurse should be fired without being treated first."

Other groups and professions attempt to treat their alcoholics, she continues. But "health care, the largest industry in the country, has not wanted to see itself as an industry, so we have not set up programs for identifying alcoholics the way tractor companies have, for example."

To bring the alcoholic nurse to light, Dr. Bissell, director of the Smithers Alcoholism Treatment and Training Center at New York's Roosevelt Hospital, held a one-day forum recently, attended by nursing professionals from six states.

She told them the alcoholic nurse is as worth saving as the blue collar worker. "We have to get her into treatment," she said, "and if she won't go, we have to ease her out of the profession."

"The alcoholic pilot, the nurse, they're in a position to do harm. We don't know the chances of harm done to patients by alcoholic nurses," she said later, "but it's bound to go from very subtle to probably quite gross things we don't hear about."

Meanwhile, that nurse is likely to keep working because, she says, "She can always move to another hospital before the axe falls."

Wherever she is, she'll often work the midnight to 8 a.m. shift. There's minimal supervision then. And very likely she'll work it in a nursing home, a "lower status" setting.

Those are some of the facts Dr. Bissell discovered in her study of 97 recovered alcoholic nurses. Otherwise, there is no pattern to the drinking nurse, just like there is none for the alcoholic carpenter or writer.

Why she drinks is to ask why anyone does. "We all have enough reasons in life to become alcoholics," she says. "We just don't know why some do and some don't."

What's solving it? For one thing, she says, "I hope the American Nursing Association will make some sort of policy about disabled nurses with a move to stress treatment." And if general hospitals would recognize the need for education of their staffs about the disease, that would be another good move.

Well, the ANA, in the person of Lovetta Smith, says, "Two years ago we sought to emphasize alcoholism in our programs but our energies have been directed elsewhere. It's a lack of funds and just a slow process. But we're aware of the problem and consider it should be treated as a health care problem and not punitively."

Which seems to leave the alcoholic nurse back in the hands of her colleagues who may be wondering just what's wrong with her these days.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: When I married Herb I knocked four years off my age because he was two years younger than I. We've been married 21 years, and Herb still doesn't know my real age.

We're planning our first trip abroad, and in order to get passports, I sent away for our birth certificates — mine to be sent to a post office box that I got especially for this purpose. My husband frequently sees the mail before I do, and I don't want him to see the year of birth on my birth certificate.

I suppose I am acting childish about this, but Herb is the kind of person who would rib me the rest of my life if he found out.

Is there some way I can doctor up my birth certificate (or the passport) so my husband won't find out how old I am?

FORT SMITH, ARK.

Dear Ark: Don't "doctor" up anything. Be cool. Herb may not even notice the year of birth on your passport. Or tell him in advance. If he ribs you, he ribs you. Women have been getting the rib ever since Eve.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 15 and my boyfriend is 18, and we've been going together for four months. For my birthday last week, he bought me a really sharp black lace bikini bathing suit with a shorty beach coat to match.

He knew I wanted it because we saw it in a window when we were walking together. I thought it was real neat of him, but my mom hit the roof when she saw it. She said it was not a proper gift for a guy to give a girl unless they are engaged. What's wrong with it?
PAM

Dear Pam: Among proper people, "intimate apparel" is considered an improper gift for teens who are just "going together."

DEAR ABBY: Our son is a professional photographer and one of the best in town. He snaps everything and everybody but his own mother and father.

From the time he was a small boy, he was interested in photography as a hobby, so his dad and I always saw to it that he had the best equipment.

Now that he is a professional with a fine studio, you would think he would offer to take our pictures, but he never has. Even at family gatherings when he's busy taking candid shots, if we don't stick our

We are average-looking people and wouldn't break his camera. It would be nice to have some good studio pictures of ourselves before we get old and gray. We haven't had a decent picture taken in 10 years!

What do you suppose is the matter with him? Any suggestions?
MA AND PA

Dear Ma and Pa: He's thoughtless. Call his studio and ask for an "appointment." (P.S. And if he sends you a bill, frame it.)

DEAR ABBY: I would like to demand equal rights — for MEN! To cite one example of the injustice to males:

If a WOMAN undresses in front of a window with the shade up, and a man stops to look at her, HE is arrested for being a peeping Tom. But if a MAN undresses in front of a window with the shade up, and a WOMAN stops to look at HIM, he is arrested for indecent exposure.

Cookbooks Make Perfect Gift For Hostesses

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

What do you take the weekend host or hostess whose country kitchen and patio already look like a fancy housewares shop?

"Fire & Smoke" by Maggie Waldron (101 Productions; $8.95 hardcover, $4.95 paper) is a natural for outdoor cooking fans, a superlative collection of charcoal cooking recipes divided according to nations of origin. Many are spicy hot main dishes from the Middle East, Southeast Asia, China, South America and the Caribbean. Most have enough flavor from herbs, spices and/or marinades to be almost as good when they are cooked indoors on an electric grill.

Another welcome gift, this one for working wives, would be Jean Hewitt's "Family Circle Quick Menu Cookbook" (Times Books, $10.95). Mrs. Hewitt is a magazine food editor who maintains a suburban apartment and a weekend home in Rhode Island. She has worked out seasonal menus and recipes for two, four and six persons. Among our favorite Hewitt recipes for hot summer days and economy budgets are chick pea salad, iced strawberry soup with a yogurt base, old-fashioned boiled dressing and jellied tomato and zucchini soup.

Italian home cooking as described in "The Regional Italian Kitchen" by Nika Hazelton (Evans, $14.95) is unadulterated pleasure. The Italian-born author has drawn on her own family files and those of friends for recipes ranging from homemade antipasto to pasta sauced with fresh vegetable combinations or peppery mixtures, both particularly appealing hot weather ideas.

Some of the best tasting recipes are the simplest: carrots cooked in marsala or sherry and butter, cold first courses of rice-stuffed tomatoes and peppers with a bread stuffing tangy with anchovies, capers, currants, pine nuts and olives; and lemon-stuffed and prosciutto-stuffed eggs — great picnic fare.

Among the desserts are amaretti, delectable little almond-flavored macaroons, expensive to buy but not to make; and the best cannoli we've ever eaten. Cannoli are fried pastry tubes with a ricotta and candied fruit filling. Mrs. Hazelton uses coffee and sweet wine in the shells, and a liqueur and chopped chocolate in the filling.

Home cooks who pride themselves on doing everything from scratch with non-electric utensils and appliances are sure to rally 'round Robert Farrar Capon, author of "Food for Thought" (Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, $7.95). His irreverent attitude toward the kitchen gadget revolution of the 1970s and the writing of cooking instructions are refreshing in a publishing area overburdened with pontifications.

As an example: his directions for Moros y Christianos, a Spanish-style dish of rice and beans, call for cooking them to "the consistency of latex housepaint with little lumps in it."

His objections to electric stoves and ceramic cooktops include "instrumentation that looks like the result of a marriage between a jukebox and the dashboard of a DC-10."

Capon, an Episcopal minister who cooks as a hobby, belongs to the pinch-of-this, bit-of-that school. People who demand recipes with precise measurements and timing should look elsewhere. Many of his recipes are inexpensive and most also save time.

Area Couple Sets Wedding

PETERSBURG (Special) — The Rev. and Mrs. Charles Dunnam announce the engagement of a daughter, Charla, to David Berres, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burdette Berres of Lubbock.

The bride-elect and bridegroom were graduated from Coronado High School.

The couple plans to be married Sept. 2 in Christ The King Catholic Church.

Clip 'n' Cook

Nika Hazelton's
Stuffed Sweet Peppers

- 6 large sweet green, red or yellow peppers
- 1/3 cup olive oil
- 1/2 cup fresh white bread crumbs
- 6 drained flat anchovies, mashed
- 1/2 cup drained capers (chop if large)
- 1/2 cup currants, plumped in hot water and drained
- 1/3 cup pine nuts (pignoli)
- Salt
- Freshly ground pepper
- 1/2 cup minced parsley
- 1/3 cup chopped pitted black or green olives

Place peppers over high direct heat, turning them frequently; char them on all sides; the skin should be black and ashy. Under running cold water, rub off the charred skin with your hands and with a kitchen knife. Halve peppers lengthwise, removing seeds and membranes. Dry peppers carefully. Place pepper halves side by side in an oiled shallow baking dish. Heat half the olive oil in a frying pan. Add all other ingredients except olives. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, about 3 minutes, or until the mixture somewhat clings together. Stuff a little of this mixture into each pepper half and top with some chopped olives. Sprinkle with remaining olive oil. Cook in a preheated 350-degree oven 20 to 30 minutes. Serve hot or cold.

 Opening lead: Six of ♣.

It is all too easy to overlook the obvious at the bridge table, especially if you don't take time out to count your tricks. Look at the sad fate that befell South on this hand.

After North showed enough strength to respond at the two-level, South bid what he thought he could make. North wisely made no move despite the fact that he held the ace-king of his partner's suit—those cards had already been taken into account for his first response and he had nothing extra.

West led his singleton club, and the hand was soon over. Declarer won the ace, cashed the ace and king of trumps and then discarded his lone heart on the king of clubs. West ruffed and exited with the ace of hearts, and in the fullness of time the defenders collected three diamond tricks for down one.

Since North had bid the suit, declarer should have taken into account the possibility that West's lead was a singleton. Had he stopped to count his tricks, he would have seen that he had nine—seven trumps and the two minor-suit aces. While it is true that he would have made his contract if the king of clubs lived, he did not need that trick. He could score his tenth trick by ruffing a diamond in dummy.

After winning the ace of clubs, declarer should immediately lead ace of diamonds and another. The defenders are helpless. They can win the diamond and shift to a trump to dummy's king, but it will avail them naught.

Declarer gets back to his hand by ruffing a club high, and then he ruffs a diamond in dummy with the ace of trumps. Now it costs declarer nothing to try to cash the king of clubs, discarding a red card from his hand. West can ruff this trick, but declarer doesn't mind. He had already assured himself of his contract.

Actress Leaves Stage For New Career

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—When a chartered bus carrying 27 Congregationalists from Vermont arrived at the Newport jai alai fronton, they were greeted by a bubbly woman in a brown pantsuit.

"Hi! I'm Betty Hutton; c'mon in. You'll have fun," she said.

Sure enough, nobody believed she was who she said she was. But, who would?

"I saw the looks on their faces, the women were shaking their heads as if to say, 'No, this can't be Betty Hutton,' and the eyes on the men were wide and I said to them, 'Really, I'm Betty Hutton.'"

"I just didn't want to blow this one. I've been here three weeks working for the fronton and everybody has been so kind to me..." Miss Hutton said.

"I wanted to do something to pay them back (for the kindness) and I prayed to God that I could get those people in here. I just had to get them in here."

"So, I said, I'll make them believe me and I stepped up the stairs on the bus and I belted out, 'There's no business like show business...'"

Miss Hutton also sang "Anything You Can Do I Can Do Better" from "Annie Get Your Gun." Then she saw the people "were starting to believe me. They knew that was me singing."

The 27 piled out of their bus with the minister, and Betty Hutton rushed inside to get their tickets at half price. She came back out, took two of the Congregationalists by the arm and took them inside.

As they walked, she boomed out the words: "There's no business like jai alai business..."

Miss Hutton, who is 57 years old now, was the leading lady of "The Greatest Show on Earth," "Annie Get Your Gun," "Happy Go Lucky" and "The Miracle of Morgan's Creek."

A bouncy woman who once made $150,000 a week during the '40s and '50s, the former movie idol and band singer has become hostess for the jai alai arena, which is now in its third season.

Miss Hutton said she meets people at the door, sits with them during dinner, calls up yacht clubs and asks members to come over, and chats with dignitaries.

"I'll always be a show girl," she says.

"I've been doing it all my life... since I was 3 years old. I've never worked outside of show business."

"Jai alai... this is show business, with its performers, its lights, its crowds. It's just like after a show. You have to sit down and unwind for two or three hours."

Since her flight from Hollywood to New England to find herself, Miss Hutton has converted to Catholicism at St. Anthony's Church in Portsmouth, where she was housekeeper and cook at the church rectory.

Three years ago she was a guest at the jai alai fronton and was asked about doing public relations.

"This is the first job I ever wanted outside of show business," she said.

Military Building Boosts Solar Research

WASHINGTON (AP) — Development of solar power systems could get a major boost under a military construction bill approved by Senate and House conferees and awaiting final action in Congress.

The $4.1 billion measure approved Tuesday calls for high-quality solar power units to be installed in all new military housing units and in 25 percent of all other facilities placed under contract by the Pentagon.

Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., floor manager of the bill for the Senate, said the legislation "is a major breakthrough in federal efforts to promote solar energy."

He estimated that, beginning in 1980, the military could buy $50 million to $100 million in solar units annually from an industry that had total sales of $150 million last year.

Hart said large-scale purchases of solar units by the Pentagon "will stimulate mass production and bring down the cost for consumers."

The requirement to use solar systems is binding only if it can be shown they will be cost-effective. The bill says solar units will meet that economic test if their cost differential over conventional systems can be paid back in fuel savings over the life expectancy of the facility.

At a minimum, the bill would require for the first time that designs for every military building include an estimate of how much it would cost with solar power facilities.

The Senate report said design costs for solar power units probably will increase a building's construction cost by 1 percent to 2 percent, and that installation of a solar system would boost the initial investment from 10 percent to 20 percent. In another area, the conferees agreed to authorize $432.2 million in construction projects for NATO while telling the alliance the United States expects its allies to begin paying a larger share of building costs.

The House had agreed to most of the administration's request for $647 million for construction in NATO. The Senate cut $375 million from the administration amount on grounds the United States was unilaterally paying for facilities that would be shared by NATO forces.

Conferees agreed that in the future NATO should pay for such projects "except in rare, unusual situations where full and convincing justification can be supplied."

The administration had requested a $4.2 billion building program. The Senate authorized $4 billion, and the House approved $4.2 billion, which had sent the issue to the conference committee.

Marine Sergeants Get Death Threats

CLEVELAND (AP) — The FBI is investigating death threats against three U.S. Marine Corps sergeants who gave congressional investigators sworn statements about fraudulent recruiting practices in northeastern Ohio.

U.S. Sen. Howard M. Metzenbaum's office has been investigating recruiting practices since the attempted suicide of a Cleveland recruit in California two weeks ago. Three recruiters and a former recruiter said they had been under pressure to fill quotas and had covered up criminal records, given study sheets on the enlistment examination to some recruits, falsified high school records and ignored physical impairments of prospective recruits.

CB Convac

By INK DIPPER

There is a quality of compassion, a willingness to help, a desire to participate lurking in the hearts of all CBers. And it manifests itself almost constantly. CB clubs in communities all over the United States and Canada, even in Germany and other European countries where CB is permitted and active, organize themselves into groups both for the camaraderie involved and to help their fellow men.

The mail this column receives, the bulletins that CB magazines report, the activities we have personally seen, all point to this singular characteristic of CBers: we'll take on a cause and do something about it.

In upper New York state, outside Buffalo, around Grand Island and Canadian communities thereabouts, "Spindrift" Baker was a CBER everyone who worked the box knew. Not personally. But, yes, personally. He'd suffered a heart attack when his wife died, and he took up CBing as a hobby.

It was important to him, because he enjoyed the companionship it gave him, and the protection it afforded him should he suffer another attack. He died after telling his friends of the mike that he wasn't feeling well. We was discovered by one of his buddies, CB Radio magazine reported. All the CBers of the area observed an hour's silence in his honor.

Citizens band radio can be vital to farmers who are often in remote areas by themselves. Jim Young of a small town in Saskatchewan, Canada, found himself pinned beneath a piece of farm equipment. His only hope was to reach his CB in his pickup. His call for help was heard by a farm housewife who was also a CBER. She relayed his message to her husband, Harold Balzer. The whole project required advising the hospital, finding a doctor who could attend Young immediately and getting him picked up. CB and concerned people did it all. Young is recovering.

CBers in the Morris County area of New Jersey joined together to raise more than $1,000 to help a fellow CBER defray horrendous medical bills. Led by the "Jefferson Squawkers," CBers who use Channels 6 and 11 had a benefit dinner. They all had talked with bed-ridden Michael Czahlo over the three years he'd been terribly ill. Knowing his problem, they all pitched in and called upon other CBers to help. And help they did.

In Germany there are a hundred or more CB clubs. The same spirit prevails there. A correspondent in Alm reports that they are monitoring Channel 23 constantly as part of a Crime Stop program that was initiated by the Air Force.

Hahn has an active CB club, "Hawk 76." It, too, is engaged in activities that have community objectives and works with German CB clubs to assure their acceptance and effectiveness. All reports indicate that CB has been a great influence in cementing good will and amiable relations with German residents.

These are isolated examples of CBing as a force for good. With more than 20 million CBers in this country alone, there is no question that they are a disjointed but concerned group of people who can be mobilized effectively. At this moment there is no specific leadership. Yet their enthusiasm for taking on a cause and doing something about it is unquestionable.

CB is the most personal of all communications media. The need for collectivism, for viability, for guidelines, for cohesiveness is increasingly apparent. CBers are good people ready and willing enthusiastically to support a good cause.

Federal Anti-Poverty Role To Expand

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government would pay up to 80 percent of the cost of anti-poverty community action programs under legislation now before House-Senate conferees.

The Senate approved the legislation Tuesday, voting to extend the nation's major anti-poverty programs for the next three years at a maximum cost $5 billion. The bill is similar to one approved by the House last week.

Lubbock Police Collar Suspect

A suspected burglar was arrested shortly before dawn today after he drove an allegedly stolen car into a wall of a downtown Lubbock church.

According to one of the investigating officers, Earl Ballou, police were called to the scene of the mishap at First Methodist Church at 1411 Broadway about 6:15 a.m. Witnesses said the car's driver said he had to leave and limped from the site.

Minutes later Capt. Jack Thomas spotted a man covered with glass splinters limping near the downtown bus station.

First Win Achieved By Karpov

BAGUIO CITY, Philippines (AP) — Soviet chess champion Anatoly Karpov scored the first victory of the 13th world chess championships today, swamping challenger Viktor Korchnoi in the eighth game. Korchnoi took too many risks and left himself open to a devastating attack.

The 27-year-old Russian champion, who refused to shake hands with Korchnoi — a Soviet defector — at the start of play, won the game when the 47-year-old challenger resigned on the 28th move.

"Korchnoi played a very risky opening, taking a pawn and giving Karpov a very strong attack," said a dejected Michael Stean, one of Korchnoi's seconds. "The attack got stronger and stronger," Stean added.

The first seven games were draws. Under new tournament rules, draws do not count. The first man to win six games collects the world title and $350,000. The loser gets $200,000. The tournament is expected to take months. Play started July 18.

Shortly after today's game started, with Korchnoi playing the open variation of the Ruy Lopez for the third time, Soviet press spokesman Alexander Roshal read a statement from Karpov accusing Korchnoi of "intensifying tensions."

This apparently refers to Russian parapsychologist Vladimir Zouchar, who Korchnoi claims is trying to hypnotize him and muddle his thinking.

Karpov's statement said that he "was ready to shake hands with the challenger in the beginning of every game in the match, and he has been doing so."

But Karpov said: "recent events have shown the challenger has not reduced his line of intensifying tensions, and under such circumstances, world chess champion Karpov does not wish to shake hands with Mr. Korchnoi."

Raymond Keene, of England, Korchnoi's chief second, said of Karpov's refusal, "It will save Viktor from having to go to his private room and wash his hands after shaking hands with Karpov. Viktor was worried that his skin was getting a bit flaky."

The two last played in Moscow in 1974, when Karpov won by a single game. That victory eventually gave him the world crown in 1975, when American champion Bobby Fischer refused to defend.

Karpov Triumphs

BAGUIO CITY, Philippines (AP) — Following is the move-by-move play in Thursday's eighth game of the world chess championship match between Soviet champion Anatoly Karpov and challenger Viktor Korchnoi, a Soviet defector. Karpov won the match, his first victory. All previous games were draws.

Cattle Killers Strike Again

LORENZO (Special) — Another mysterious cattle death in the area was discovered near Lorenzo early today.

Joe Batcheller, who farms six miles southeast of Lorenzo, found the dead 800-pound steer near a corral on the property this morning.

According to his wife, all blood had been drained from the animal; however, neither blood nor tracks were found in the area. Reports indicated the steer died sometime Wednesday night.

Mrs. Batcheller said there is a small road about a quarter-mile from the site, but that no one has been seen in the area.

After the 25-year-old Lubbockite was taken into custody it was learned that the auto involved in the accident had been reported stolen a short time earlier from Crawford Radiator Shop at 1601 Ave. H.

Police said about $20 had been taken from a vending machine and the burglar apparently also stole the car which was in the shop for repairs.

However, unknown to the culprit, the vehicle had no radiator, and when the engine locked, the driver apparently lost control and struck the building.

In other, less spectacular incidents, Joe J. Katin said that when he returned from a recent trip he discovered someone had stolen $3,270 worth of furnishings from an apartment he manages at 4903 Fifth St. Reports indicated entry was gained by breaking through a rear window.

According to J. A. Nunley, a $259 rotary tiller was stolen from the carport area of 4401 17th St. earlier this week.

Herbert Eugene Westbury of 2114 24th St. called police to his home Wednesday to report the loss of a .22-caliber pistol taken during a burglary. Further investigation, however, turned up the firearm on the roof of the home. Police said the burglar apparently was scared off by the homeowner.

A 20-year-old Lubbock woman told police she was raped early Wednesday by a young Mexican-American man who told her he was "crazy" and "had been paid" to attack her.

The woman said the man knocked on the door of her apartment in the 2400-block of 5th Street about 7:15 a.m. She told officers she looked out a nearby window to see who was at the door and then went to her bedroom to put on a robe.

The man, however, was standing at her bedroom door when she turned around, the woman said. She said he grabbed her and threatened to hit her if she didn't cooperate.

After the attack, she said, the man told her he was crazy and had been paid to rape her. He also reportedly told the woman that he and a friend would be watching her.

In other activity Wednesday, Lubbock police once again found most of their time occupied by investigating the latest rash of burglaries.

Cynthia Ann Holmes of 1402 Ave. T told officers she was awakened by the ringing telephone early Wednesday and saw a man going out the front door of her home.

After checking the house, she said she discovered the suspect had taken four rings, valued at $1,000, and $20 cash from her purse. Reports indicate the burglar entered the residence through an unlocked window.

Mario Arcos said whoever came through a bedroom window at his 3008 E. 2nd Place home Wednesday morning made off with two watches, together valued at $90, and $100 cash.

During a 30-minute period Wednesday afternoon burglars broke a window in Gertrude Levels' 3009 E. 5th St. home and took a $500 television set, according to reports.

Dale Ray, an employee of a game room at 2406 Clovis Road, told police that whoever gained entry to that business through a broken window took $40 cash, a $30 calculator and five pool balls.

Judy L. Dale of Plano said someone broke into her car late Tuesday or early Wednesday, while the vehicle was parked in the 1100-block of Ave. X.

Mental Patient Skips Hearing

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — A bench warrant was issued Wednesday for Henry Leroy Hensen, who skipped out on a court hearing.

Hensen, 34, committed to Patton State Mental Hospital in San Bernardino County in 1976 after he was declared insane in an assault trial, failed to appear Wednesday at a preliminary session on his request for another sanity hearing.

Hensen's attorney told the judge Hensen took up maracma in the mental hospital and made a jump rope.

Several days ago, the attorney said, Hensen escaped from the institution, skipping his rope out the door and down the road, despite handcuffs and leg irons.

HOPE RETURNED TO FAMILY — Hope Dockter, 12, with cup, is reunited with her father, Otto Dockter, left, mother Marvell, center, and sister Charity, right, Wednesday in San Bernadino, Calif. Police had earlier taken the boy into protective custody because Hope's sister, Godwithus, died while being driven from Texas to her faith-healer uncle's home in Redlands, Calif. # Soviets Demanding Retractions

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Moscow court today gave two U.S. reporters and their papers five more days to print retractions of articles found libelous and fined them $72.50 each for failing to meet an earlier retraction deadline.

"This is going to be the last time," chief City Court Judge Lev Almazov told reporters after imposing the fines on Craig Whitney of The New York Times and Harold Piper of the Baltimore Sun. "If they don't comply, we will have to take different measures."

He did not specify what measures might be taken. The options could include withdrawal of their Soviet accreditation, as demanded by the prosecution in the original libel case, which ended July 18.

Almazov also warned the reporters that all their property could be confiscated if they did not pay the fines.

"I would like to warn them if they don't pay these fines all their property can be confiscated — which would be very unpleasant for a foreign correspondent."

Tech Regents To Mull Policy On Bowl Bids

The Texas Tech Board of Regents will elect officers Friday and will consider altering the university's policy on football bowl invitations.

The regents, to meet at 9 a.m. in the Administration Building conference room, will alter the bowl policy to clarify procedures for bid acceptance, board Chairman Judson Williams said.

No major changes apart from the procedural ones are expected.

Following an executive session, scheduled for 8:15 a.m., the regents will consider a proposal formally establishing the Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center as the proper name for the health complex.

Also, the board will consider continuing an interagency cooperation contract allowing the School of Medicine continued use of Thompson and Gaston halls.

A policy for selection of primary and secondary savings depositories may be established by the board. In the past, two-year proposals for the primary depository have been reviewed by the board every other year. Secondary depositories have been selected by the chief financial officer.

A Code of Student Affairs for the next fiscal year will be reviewed, and the board will discuss awarding construction contracts for renovation of the old library building for use by the mathematics department and the repair and renovation of university facilities at the Junction Center.

fair and balanced and objective," Whitney said.

Neither Whitney nor Piper were present in the court today but a dozen other Western reporters were allowed to witness the hearing.

Almazov told the reporters in the courtroom. "Perhaps you can divide the fine between yourselves and pay it for them."

Under Soviet law the Moscow court could schedule other hearings and impose additional fines of 50 rubles ($72.50) until the total reaches a maximum of 300 rubles ($435).

Whitney and Piper were convicted of libeling Soviet television officials in stories quoting Georgian dissidents as saying that the filmed confession of a Georgian activist had been fabricated.

Monday was the deadline for publishing a retraction in either American or Soviet newspapers.

Whitney and Piper, on advice of their newspapers, refused to participate in the unprecedented Soviet legal case on grounds that their stories had been fair ent," Almazov said. "It would be more sensible for them to make the money available from their bank accounts."

The two newspapers have stated that they would not publish retractions of stories the court judged libelous on July 18 but would pay court costs of $1,600.

A New York Times representative said the newspapers would also pay the fines imposed by Almazov today.

Whitney told reporters, "I will pay these court costs and the fine because it would be futile to engage in court battles which I would not be permitted to win."

"I am making this payment only in hopes of disposing of this case and discouraging a repetition of similar tactics against other correspondents in the future."

"I make the payments under protest and I do not make any admission that the charges against me have any basis in fact."

"As far as the retraction, the editors of The New York Times decided on July 18, with my full support, that no retraction would be printed because the article was and balanced and the Moscow court had no jurisdiction over stories published in the United States.

Today's hearing was called under Article 406 of the Soviet civil code which deals with defiance of court decisions.

Whitney was handed the summons Wednesday but decided he would not attend. Piper is still vacationing in the United States and is not due back in Moscow before mid-August.

Airlines Slated For Court

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Texas International Airlines, the southwestern carrier that has set its sights on acquiring National Airlines, brings its arguments on the proposed takeover to a Florida courtroom next week.

A hearing has been scheduled for next Tuesday before Circuit Judge Charles Miner to hash out differences between Texas International and Comptroller Gerald Lewis, who claims the Houston-based airlines is violating Florida law in its rush to merge with National.

Robert Paul, a Miami attorney representing Texas International, said he contacted Miner on Wednesday to set the hearing date. He also said that the company won't try to buy any more National stock until after the meeting.

"Texas International has volunteered to the judge to keep things the way they are until we can present our case," Paul said. "We categorically deny any violation of law, whether Florida law or other law. Texas International is carefully advised on all of its moves."

Lewis last week asked Miner to block

Texas International from buying any more stock of Miami-based National.

He claimed the carrier violated a state law that requires extensive disclosures by a firm attempting to take over another company incorporated in Florida and requires notification of each stockholder involved.

Miner turned down the request for the temporary restraining order, suggesting Lewis first see if Texas International would agree to postpone further purchases of National stock.

Texas International has purchased 9.2 percent of National's shares and announced its desire to acquire a 25-percent controlling interest in the carrier.

EAST MEETS WEST — Bulgaria's Black Sea resorts offer first class hotel accommodations for a low price, plus a variety of cultural and entertainment activities. The resorts are becoming known as the Riviera of Eastern Europe

Black Sea Fast Becoming Riviera Of East Europe

The Romans called it Pontus Euxinus — the hospitable sea. But the Turks, who feared its storms, renamed it the Black Sea.

Whatever the name, the Black Sea resorts of Bulgaria — a 205-mile stretch of sandy beaches, of which 36 have been developed as self contained hotel colonies — are fast becoming known as the Riviera of Eastern Europe.

These modern resorts, dotting the Black Sea coastline between Bulgaria's border countries, Romania and Turkey, sprang up in the last 30 years, beginning in 1959, when Bulgaria made a concerted effort to bolster its tourism.

Today, thousands of modern hotels, motels, cottages, and chalets offering first class accommodations and a rich variety of entertainment and cultural activities, host nearly three million visitors from 60 nations. It's a true East-meets-West spot with about 50 percent of the visitors from Western Europe, and the other half from Eastern Europe and Russia. While the 17,000 Americans who visit Bulgaria head first for Sofia, most include at least a short stay at these resorts.

What's the attraction? Price, for one major thing. Hotel accommodations right on the sea, with three meals, range from $12 to $28.50 per person, low enough to justify the cost of transportation to this Balkan country. But for visitors seeking new experiences in travel, these resort complexes offer far more than an inexpensive place in the sun.

Bulgaria's balneal offerings of curative hot springs and mud lure those who want a little spa in their holiday. All the resorts have swimming pools of mineral water, mud baths and massages, but the new Varna Hotel in Dourziba, opened in 1977, is the ultimate in spadom with two entire floors in the lower level a spa complex, featuring two connecting swimming pools, inside and out; three saunas, massage rooms, gymnastic rooms, pearl baths, etc. In fact, the Varna has 14 and 21 all inclusive vacations for dieters who want to slim down while they play.

Another big draw to these resorts (and one reason for so much repeat business) is their proximity to each other, making it easy to stay at one and see the others — a must since each has its distinct personality and attractions.

BalkanTourist, the country's major tourist operator, is well organized to arrange sightseeing tours to neighboring resorts, wine tasting parties, excursions to desert islands, cooperative farms, monasteries, folklore restaurants and night-clubs, and even a two day boat trip to Istanbul. Contact the Bulgarian Tourist Office, 50 East 42nd Street, New York, NY 10017, for more information.

Island Trip Bargain To Vacationers

U.S. VIRGIN ISLANDS — Lower rates, special vacation plans and beautiful flowers blossom at Caneel Bay of Saint John Island during the summer.

The 170-acre resort, with seven white-sand beaches, is a horticultural show-place year-round, but the cost of enjoying it drops by more than a third in the off-season. Visitors will be glad to know that trade winds keep humidity low.

Four package plans are in effect through October 31, covering tennis, boating and a combination vacation with Little Dix Bay in the British Virgin Islands.

Daily rates, which include breakfast and dinner, are $55 and $62.50 per person, double occupancy, depending upon category of accommodations. A daily service charge of $6 per person, in lieu of tipping at breakfast and dinner, is added to all guest's bills.

The daily rates and package plans also include complimentary use of Caneel's seven tennis courts, Sunfish sailboats snorkeling gear and beach equipment; a complimentary snorkeling lesson daily; and a welcoming bottle of Virgin Islands rum in the room.

A honeymoon package includes a cruise in island waters, a bottle of champagne served with the first dinner, and a memento from Caneel Bay. For seven days and six nights, the rate is $635 per couple. For eight nights it is $845.

Caneel and Little Dix are managed by Rockresorts, Inc. Brochures and rate sheets, containing full information on the package plans, may be obtained from travel agents or by writing to Rockresorts at 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10020.

Moon Rock On Display At Museum

When it comes to downright unusual sights, you can't beat a special exhibit now at the Corpus Christi Museum, to be seen through October 1. It's a piece of the moon — officially known as Sample No. 15,058,189 — weighing 135 grams, or about 5 ounces, a priceless bit called by scientists mare basalt, known to the rest of us as moon rock.

It was brought to Earth by Astronaut James B. Irwin on the voyage of Apollo 15 to the moon just seven years ago, on August 7, 1971.

Housed in a prism-shaped glass container, sealed to prevent deterioration, lighted for clear viewing, the 3.3 billion-year old fragment may be studied equally on all sides.

The museum is open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. from Tuesdays through Saturdays, and Sundays from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. It is closed on Mondays. There is no charge for admittance.

Corpus Christi has the expected sports and entertainment facilities, plus the motels and restaurants for visitors to enjoy. It also offers some unique things that one simply can't see at home.

Brochure Gives List Of Tours

The "Song of the Open Road" might well have been written for those adventurous spirits who enjoy the challenge of traveling under their own steam (by foot, bicycle or canoe) and spending their nights at inexpensive international hostels.

American Youth Hostels' free "1978 Highroad to Adventure" travel brochure offers 19 trips in the United States and Canada and 20 cycling and hiking trips abroad. In addition to these pre-planned trips, their Travel Department will design and make arrangements for organizers of special groups who wish to create their own tour plans. American Youth Hostels expects over 35,000 members will be enjoying the benefits of hosting and low-cost travel this summer.

The AYH Handbook, which lists 200

hosteling facilities in the U.S., is available for $1.75, including postage. Write to: American Youth Hostels Travel Department, Box P, Delaplane, Va., 22025.

Air Inter Offers Unlimited Travel

Unlimited air travel to 32 cities in France for periods of one week at $124, or two weeks at $189, is being offered by Air Inter, the French domestic airline. Validity is through October 31 of this year.

While the "France Pass" must be paid for in the U.S., the pass itself and tickets for all flights must be picked up at any Air Inter city or airport ticket counter in France.

A convenient option of the Air France Flexiplan, the pass entitles the holder to regular airline services (except for "red flight" commuter flights) including seat reservations, plus a flexibility unique in travel. The price of "France Pass" compares, for example, with that of a round-trip ticket between Paris and Nice which is approximately $705.

Air Inter serves 32 French cities with as many as 14 flights daily between its most popular destinations. For further information, contact Air France or your travel agent.

YANKEE PEDALERS — Bikers find Connecticut's back country roads ideal for exploring centuries-old schoolhouses, shops and inns. Write "Travel," Department of Commerce, 210 Washington Street, Hartford, CT 06106, for information about Connecticut attraction plus a free official road map.

Flint Quarries Conduct Daily Guided Tours

Guided tours of the Alibates Flint Quarries National Monument near Amarillo are being conducted daily at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. through Labor Day. Access to the monument is by guided tours only.

Persons wanting to take the tour should be at the contact station in Bates Canyon shortly before the scheduled times. Visitors follow the ranger's car in their own vehicles into the monument area — a distance of approximately three miles over an unsurfaced road.

The tours last from 1½ to 2 hours and may include a flint chipping demonstration fashioning an arrowhead by the same method as used by Early Man. The trail is fairly steep and rocky, so comfortable shoes are recommended, as well as a head covering and drinking water. Tours are limited to a maximum of twenty-five persons, but there is no minimum number.

Tours may be arranged for organized groups by calling National Park Service (806) 857-3151, or by writing Superintendent, Alibates Flint Quarries National Monument, P.O. Box 1438, Fritch, 79038. There is no charge for the tour.

HERE COME THE BRIDES — Twenty-eight brides, escorted by their fathers and friends, crossed the bridge for a ceremony recently in which the brides and their grooms were united on the campus of the Way College of Emporia. The mass wedding was performed before 1,200 guests. (AP Laserphoto)

ANNIVERSARY NOTED

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thursday is the 496th anniversary of the Nina, the Pinta and the Santa Maria weighing anchor, and the National Geographic Society has come up with some little-known information about the discoverer of the Americas. The society says Christopher Columbus had carrot-colored hair, blue eyes, a ruddy face, a long nose and was "more than middling tall." His strongest oath, says the society, was "by San Fernando."

er more than two hours of wearing full bridal regalia in 99-degree heat.

But the long, hot wait was preferable to attending 27 other weddings around the country, said the former Kathleen Virginia Higgins. She had just been married in a ceremony that united 28 couples.

"I wouldn't want it any other way," said the bride of Ronald Lewis Sink. "It's a real family affair. We've gone to school with these people for three years. We have in common the love of God."

At least half the newlyweds were part of the 250-member The Way College class which graduated Tuesday night in the 3-year-old school's first commencement.

The Emporia school offers a three-year training program in religious work.

Preparations for the mass wedding began when several couples realized they all planned to get married after graduation, one graduate said. Single students at the college are not allowed to marry until after graduation.

The weddings were performed before 1,200 guests by Dr. Victor Paul Wierwille, the school's founder and president. Bridesgrooms and best men wore blue suits with vests. Brides wore long-sleeved white gowns and bridesmaids wore formal dresses in different shades of blue.

The couples and their attendants made a ring around the canopied platform where Wierwille stood.

It took about an hour to marry the couples, who pledged themselves to each other in unison and then, one couple at a time, sealed the commitment by tasting salt from their mate's fingers in line with a biblical custom.

"These are the saltiest kisses your daughters and your boys have received in a long time," Wierwille told the parents.

THE WHITE HOUSE

Carter Aide F.D.R. Worked For Nixon

By FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter has an adviser with the initials F.D.R. who got his start in government in Richard Nixon's White House.

Franklin Delano Raines first served Carter as an assistant to Stuart Eizenstat, the president's domestic policy adviser. More recently, he has been an associate director of the Office of Management and Budget and thus an important figure in the Executive Office of the President.

In 1969, the first year of the Nixon presidency, Raines was a White House intern. Then, in 1970-71, he was assistant to the chairman of a Nixon-sponsored, White House Conference on Children and Youth.

Asked if he's a Democrat, Raines responded, "What else could I be with my initials?"

In truth, the 30-year-old Seattle native was not named for Democratic President Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

"I was named for my father and my uncle," he reported.

His parents, he said, simply added a syllable to his uncle's name, Frank. And whoever made out his birth certificate misspelled his father's name, Delno.

Of course, Raines added, his parents were admirers of the original F.D.R.

Strauss only exaggerates occasionally. But you can always count on him for a rib-tickling story, which may even turn out to be true.

This being the baseball season, he recently recalled one about the late and great big league pitcher, "Dizzy" Dean, so named to distinguish him from his pitching brother, "Daffy" Dean.

"Somebody asked Dizzy why he always used the word 'ain't,'" Strauss recalled. "And Dizzy said, 'I say ain't because I notice the folks that don't say ain't-ain't eatin'..."

Koreans Promise Help For House Investigation

And MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN
WASHINGTON (AP) — South Korea promised immediately after Leon Jaworski stepped aside as special counsel to provide "new and concrete factual information" on a former ambassador's monetary transactions with congressmen, House investigators said today.

The House ethics committee announced that the Korean government sent word after Jaworski withdrew that former Ambassador Kim Dong Jo would provide the information.

Chief investigator John Nields told the committee at a brief meeting that Jaworski felt he pressured them and that his stepping aside "might make it easier for South Korea to cooperate."

Jaworski said in an exclusive interview Wednesday that he could not pry out the full story of South Korean influence-buying in Congress because he lacked the power of the U.S. court system that enabled him to expose President Richard M. Nixon's role in Watergate.

Congress applied all the pressure it could in an unsuccessful effort to get sworn testimony from Kim about alleged payoffs to between six and 10 congressmen — some still in Congress, he said.

Despite State Department opposition, Jaworski has won House approval of a $56 million cut in economic aid to South Korea. But he said Congress could not risk "having a bloodbath in South Korea" by cutting off U.S. military aid.

And he said the State Department, possibly with President Carter's tacit support, blunted Congress' pressure by publicly siding with Seoul.

Without the ambassador's testimony there is nothing more he can do and so he intends to withdraw, Jaworski told the House in a letter.

"I wish to emphasize that I am not resigning as special counsel," he told Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill. "The purpose of this letter is to make clear that my contract obligation ... has been fulfilled."

Rep. John J. Flynt, D-Ga., chairman of the ethics committee which is conducting the Korean investigation, accepted Jaworski's decision to step aside and thanked him for his service.

In a 32-page report, Jaworski said the investigation is "now incomplete" because it has not proved or disproved information that former ambassador Kim Dong Jo paid off as many as 10 House members.

"If the efforts to learn the truth about Kim Dong Jo's activities were deficient, the responsibility is entirely mine," Jaworski said.

But he said that although incomplete, the investigation did expose South Korean influence efforts and possible misconduct by congressmen.

"It is my opinion that everything that could be done was done," he said.

One former congressman has been convicted and another indicted on influence charges. Jaworski said his investigation found possible criminal wrongdoing by two more former congressmen and brought House disciplinary charges against four present members.

He said the fact that it did not confirm early reports of a bigger scandal is no failure because "much of the initial speculation was untrue."

In the interview, Jaworski said there is no doubt in his mind that former Washington socialite Tongsun Park, who admits giving some $850,000 to congressmen, was an agent trying to buy influence for Seoul.

"He did their bidding," Jaworski said. "He was subject to their beck and call. There was just not the slightest question in my mind about that."

The 72-year-old, white-haired Houston lawyer did not flinch when asked why as special Watergate prosecutor he was able to nail Nixon but could not get the whole story on Korean efforts in Congress.

"In Watergate," he said, "I had at my disposal and available to me the powers of the legal and judicial process."

"I could go all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court and insist upon the president responding to what I wanted."

Nixon resigned Aug. 9, 1974, after Jaworski and his staff won from the Supreme Court release of White House tape recordings including one of the president agreeing to a coverup plan.

But in the Korean investigation, Jaworski said, "I didn't have the slightest power along this line. I had nothing that I could resort to."

Jaworski said he knew when he took the job that he was risking the reputation he won from Watergate but said he could not "walk away from it and have the gnawing feeling that I wanted to rest on past laurels."

The one weapon he and Congress had, Jaworski said, was power to cut U.S. aid to Seoul. And he said the House used the weapon as far as it could by voting to cut off $56 million in economic aid.

Asked if South Korean President Park Chung Hee knew how far Congress would go and successfully called its bluff, Jaworski did not reply directly.

He said rather that Seoul was determined not to let the former ambassador testify and "maybe they just can't afford to have the story told."

MAKING HIS POINT — Leon Jaworski, in a Washington interview Wednesday, said he believed the State Department gave "considerable heart" to South Koreans who resisted his investigation of alleged influence-buying in Congress. (AP Laserphoto)

Patty Hearst Asks Court To Overturn Conviction

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst is asking the federal courts to overturn her 1976 bank robbery conviction on grounds that F. Lee Bailey turned the trial into "a mockery, a farce and a sham" when he acted as her lawyer.

A motion to discard or reduce Miss Hearst's seven-year sentence was filed in U.S. District Court Wednesday by attorney George Martinez who replaced lawyers Bailey and Albert Johnson last May.

Accompanying the motion was a declaration signed by Miss Hearst July 30 which contends, in part, that Bailey's judgement seemed "impaired" and that during her trial "it was necessary for him to ingest what I consider 'hangover medicine.'"

Miss Hearst also said that during closing arguments in her marathon trial, Bailey "spilled a glass of water down his leg" and shook "so violently that he had to grip the lectern and put his hands in his pockets."

In response to an inquiry by Martinez, juror Mary Nieman said she also was "disturbed at the closing argument given by Mr. Bailey ... the argument was short and like a peashooter compared to Mr. Jim Browning's, which was analytical and like a cannon in its effect."

In the motion, Miss Hearst complains of the failure of her former attorneys to seek to have the trial moved away from San Francisco due to prejudicial pretrial publicity.

She also says she took the witness stand against her wishes.

Neither Bailey nor Johnson could be reached for comment.

Kidnapped by terrorists in February 1974, Miss Hearst was convicted and sentenced in September 1976 for joining her captors in a San Francisco bank robbery 10 weeks after her abduction.

She was released on bail two months later pending appeal, but then sent back to jail five months later after the U.S. Supreme Court refused to review her case.

She will be eligible for parole in July 1979 if Judge William Orrick, who sentenced Miss Hearst and who will rule on this latest motion, refuses to set aside her conviction.

Reporter Challenges Ruling

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A former Sacramento Union reporter has filed an appeal of his contempt citation and jail sentence for refusing to give a judge his notes and tapes in a murder case.

John Hammarley's case is the latest in a series of confrontations between reporters and judges over confidentiality of sources and material. His appeal was filed Wednesday.

Hammarley, who then worked for the Sacramento Union, interviewed Edward Gonzales, a witness in the February 1977 slaying of Ellen Delia. She reportedly was on her way to a meeting with state officials about abuse in drug programs.

Mrs. Delia's body was found lying in a field near the Sacramento airport. Hammarley quoted Gonzales as saying he was the driver of the car in which she was killed.

After Hammarley's story was printed in New West magazine, the Sacramento County public defender's office, representing the defendants, subpoenaed his tapes and notes from the interview.

When the reporter refused, Superior Court Judge John Boskovich cited him for contempt July 11.

Outlook Better For Small Businesses

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP)—Ever since World War II, when the growth of Big Business was spurred by the need for huge amounts of armaments, Small Business has felt neglected and even discriminated against.

A. Vernon Weaver, administrator of the Small Business Administration. Carter was firm in what he desired, saying he wanted them to be able to tell not about plans but accomplishments.

Weaver, a former Little Rock, Ark., insurance broker, and his deputy, Patricia Cloberty, a former financial executive, will conduct 12 regional forums to prepare for the conference.

Now it is beginning to feel better. As one small business advocate put it: "The time seems right for a compensatory period of growth of the entrepreneurial, independent small enterprise part of the economy."

In the past month the House Ways and Means Committee approved a tax bill that delights Small Business, the White House scheduled a Small Business Conference, and Congress approved a Small Business advocate.

Milton Stewart is the advocate. Nothing new in that, say friends who have listened to him denounce the stranglehold of Big Government, Big Business and Big Labor. Those are his words quoted above.

What is different now is that the Small Business Administration has an executive, the first ever, who will argue before other government agencies the wisdom and justice of keeping Small Business in mind.

Why should they? Self-interest, for one thing. Small Business is the primary creator of jobs. Small Business is innovative and inventive, whereas Big Business sometimes turns sterile and bureaucratic.

Stewart, who once headed a venture capital firm and later the National Small Business Association, cites figures showing that between 1969 and 1976 about 9 million jobs were created in the United States.

"Three million of them were created by state and local government" he said, the remainder by small business. The one thousand largest industrial concerns began with 16 million and ended with that."

One of the best jobs of compiling Small Business statistics is by the National Small Business Association, a private group, which earlier this year presented testimony before a House committee that:

"First and most generally, small business is 98 percent of the nation's business concerns, 37 percent of the nation's national product, 43 percent of the nation's gross business product."

You get the idea: Small Business is more important than many of us realize. It is even essential, as a supplier, to the survival of Big Business. But its needs often are ignored, even by government.

"Small business gets crumbs from the federal procurement table," the Small Business Association, a private group, testified. For each $10 of federal procurement, Big Business gets $7.61, Small Business $2.39, it claims.

One of the problems in discussing Big Business vs. Small is in determining where the line is drawn. The Small Business Administration — that is the government agency — places the cutoff at 500 employees.

While this criteria is widely used, it is not universal, and some of the numbers cited by various groups spread more confusion than light. Uniform government figures, therefore, might be one of Stewart's tasks.

With a Small Business advocate only now being appointed, there is the suggestion that the Small Business fight is just beginning. But in fact it has considerable momentum. President Carter, for example, was enlisted as an ally while he was still a candidate.

Now that he is president, Small Business supporters will not let him forget. Nor are there indications he has. The president's letter to Cabinet heads regarding the White House conference made that clear.

In the letter he told them to appoint "either an assistant secretary or personal aide to deal directly with the Honorable

Magic Trick Not Possible With Card, Writer Claims

By SHARI LEWIS
Since most magicians do tricks with cards, I thought you'd like to learn a trick you can't do with a playing card.

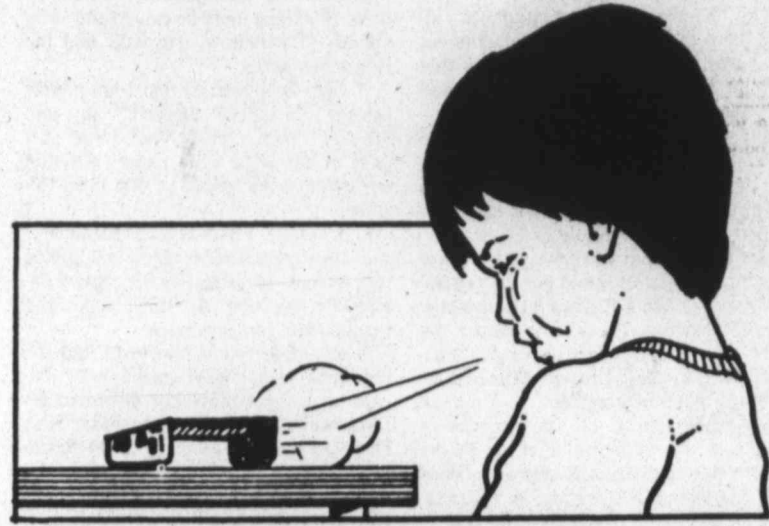

Start with a card from an incomplete deck. (Oh please, I beg of you, don't be a joker and use a card from one of your folks' good decks or they'll never forgive me!) Bend the card down about 1/4 inch from the edge on both sides. Stand it up on those two small ends as you see in the picture.

Now, here's the trick that can't be done. You can challenge your friends to blows as hard as they wish, but no matter how much they blow, the card will remain standing on its own two little legs! It can't be blown over.

YESTERDAY'S BRAIN TWISTER: You have a baseball. You throw it away from you as hard as you can. It doesn't hit anything, nor does anybody catch it, but it comes back to you. There are no strings or elastic involved. Why does the ball come back?
ANSWER: Because you threw it up instead of forwards or backwards.

TODAY'S BRAIN TWISTER: If you were to add 1,000 to a certain whole number, what you would end up with is more than if you were to multiply that same number by a thousand. What's that number? (Look for the answer in tomorrow's Kids-Only Club column.)

Influential Ensure 'Immortality' With Buildings

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
WASHINGTON (AP)—Long after the votes and speeches of C. Bascom Slemm, E.C. "Took" Gathings, John J. Flynt and Joe Waggoner fade from memory, their names will live in granite in communities across America.

From Big Stone Gap, Va., to Pittsburg, Kan., to Shreveport, La. and Griffin, Ga., Congress is getting ready to give a touch of immortality to some of its own.

A House subcommittee on public buildings and grounds gave the time-honored process its latest boost Tuesday by approving bills to name federal buildings after seven members of Congress, a former federal judge and the late Charles A. Lindbergh.

A witness who had come to talk about Lindbergh, Rep. John W. Wydler, R-N.Y., looked at the list and remarked: "I feel almost like apologizing for not proposing this building be named for a congressman."

The tip-of-the-hat custom of naming a federal building for a public official almost never encounters opposition, especially when the honoree is a longtime member of Congress.

So in the not-so-distant future there is virtually certain to be a Frederick G. Payne Federal Building in Portland, Maine, a Joe Skubitz building in Pittsburg, Kan., and a William L. Springer Building in Champaign, Ill.

Three men on the current list — Reps. John J. Flynt, D-Ga., Joe Skubitz, R-Kan., and Joe Waggoner, D-La. — still sit in Congress but are retiring when their present terms expire.

Flynt, 63, dean of the Georgia delegation, has been a member of the House since 1954 and is chairman of its ethics committee. The federal building in his hometown of Griffin, Ga., will be named for him.

Waggoner, 59, a House member since 1961 and one of the leaders of his fellow congressmen from the south, is a chief conservative tactician on the House Ways and Means Committee, especially on tax matters.

Skubitz, 72, the ranking Republican on the House Interior Committee, began his career as a high school principal and served as administrative assistant to two Kansas GOP senators before winning election to the House in 1962.

Here are the others:
—Campbell Bascom Slemm, a Republican, was elected to Congress from Virginia in 1907 to succeed his late father. He served until 1923, when he became secretary to President Calvin Coolidge. He later practiced law in Washington but in 1932 went home to Big Stone Gap, where the Slemm Building will be. He died in 1943 at age 72.

—Ezekiel Candler "Took" Gathings served in Congress as a Democrat for 30 years beginning in 1939. The bill to name the Jonesboro, Ark., federal building for him was introduced by his successor, Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., who described him as "an effective leader and a modest man." Gathings, 74, still practices law in West Memphis, Ark.

—William L. Springer, 69 and a Republican, retired in 1972 after 11 terms to be named to the Federal Power Commission. He is now a member of the Federal Election Commission. Rep. Edward R.

Madigan, R-Ill., his successor, said Springer will return to Champaign, his hometown, when his term expires.

—Frederick G. Payne, a Republican who was governor of Maine from 1949 to 1952, served as a U.S. senator from 1953 to 1959, losing his seat to Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, a Democrat. Payne died in June at age 73.

Califano Bails Out Two Black Colleges

WASHINGTON (AP) — HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. has bailed out two financially troubled black colleges by releasing nearly $8 million in aid, but he handed out some stern advice with the funds.

Califano released the funds Tuesday but warned the colleges and other allied institutions to tighten their spending practices.

He also announced he plans to propose legislation to bail out Meharry Medical College in Nashville, another deficit-ridden institution that, along with Howard University in Washington, has produced most of America's black doctors.

The secretary of Health, Education and Welfare told the National Medical Association, a group of black doctors, he is freeing $3.5 million for Shaw University in Raleigh, N.C., and $4.4 million for Bishop College in Dallas for the coming academic year.

Both schools are in serious financial trouble, and both have had difficulties administering federal programs. Califano said neither can continue on its present course.

Bishop owes HEW more than $1 million, and other creditors are pressing for payments, Califano said. Shaw was seeking special advance federal funding to pay overdue debts.

Califano tied up federal funds for Bishop this spring and ordered audits of its finances.

He told reporters last month that he intended to re-examine the entire Title III

Officer Accuses Manson Of Assault

VACAVILLE, Calif. (AP) — A prison guard has accused convicted mass killer Charles Manson of punching him in the face during a routine inspection of cells at the California Medical Facility here, it was disclosed Tuesday.

Prison information officer Bill Heise said correctional officer C.W. Moore reported on Monday that he was assaulted by Manson, serving a life sentence for mass murder including the fatal stabbing of actress Sharon Tate. Heise said the case would be sent to the Solano County district attorney's office, which will determine whether a formal assault charge would be filed against Manson.

program, which provides $120 million a year to 281 colleges to help them with financial troubles and improve their quality. Some 82 of these colleges are predominantly black, and they receive about 45 percent of the money.

Califano told the medical group many traditionally black institutions are currently facing, or will face in the near-term, serious financial problems.

He said the federal government would continue to play a major role in financing these schools. But federal assistance should help to foster independence, not dependence.

Califano added that it is not healthy for the federal government, by virtue of its role as financier, to have a life-or-death power over these or any schools.

He said colleges in financial trouble asked the government for $520 million in Title III aid last year, more than four times the amount available.

He urged the doctors to use their influence as trustees and contributors to the black colleges to help tighten administration of federal funds and to make operations more efficient.

Califano seasoned the words of warning with praise for the accomplishments of the black colleges. He said they produced 49 percent of all black college graduates last year, even though only 25 percent of all black college students were enrolled in these institutions.

Califano also said Howard, which receives its own direct federal subsidy, is producing doctors who are working mainly in the black community. He said a new study shows 93 percent of its black medical graduates serve some black patients and 72 percent have a largely black practice.

Grammarian Upset With Form Letter

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Laurence Urdang, who makes his living saying what he means, says the people at the Connecticut Water Co. don't write to their customers in the mother tongue. And he's indignant.

"This," the dictionary writer and grammarian said, referring to a company notice, "is utter gibberish."

Urdang, his curled moustache quivering, cited a message enclosed with his June bill that said the company's water supply did not have to meet new state standards until 1980. It also said "this does not constitute an unreasonable risk to the health of the consumers."

That phrase upset the grammarian's sense of precision. He asked the state Health Department to hold a public hearing so that he, and the other 3,000 water company customers in Chester, Deep River, and Essex, could find out what it means.

"Once in a while, someone ought to ask what these things mean. They ought to be explained to people in English," Urdang said after the hearing. "It seems to me careful wording, especially in such a sensitive area, is important."

Urdang, 51, a study in poise and tailored elegance, put the question to Richard Woodhull, the hearing chairman and head of the water supplies division of the Health Department.

"I would like to ask, what does 'this mean?' the Essex resident asked.

William Guillaume, a vice president of the water company, said the word "this" in the phrase "was meant to mean the granting of the exemption."

"I thought it meant the water," said a surprised Woodhull. "It must refer to the water," said an infuriated Urdang, citing the rule of grammar that deals with pronouns and their antecedents.

Guillaume conceded the phrase could be confusing.

The company earlier claimed the term "unreasonable risk" originated in the state Health Department when it exempted Connecticut Water from the new water standards until 1980.

The Health Department, in turn, said it borrowed the phrase from the federal Safe Water Act of 1974.

Railroads Ask Higher Returns

AUSTIN (AP) — If Texas railroads could earn as much as gas and electric utilities, they could provide safe, efficient service, a railroad spokesman told the Texas Railroad Commission Tuesday.

"If we were like utilities which earn an 8 to 12 percent return on their investments," said Walter Caven, general counsel of the Texas Railroad Association, "we could solve all our safety and equipment problems. As it is, federal and state regulations won't allow us to do that."

Caven said railroads earn an average of 1 to 3 percent return. Caven testified at a hearing called by the commission to get public comment on a federally financed statewide rail plan.

Hoy A. Richards, a rail consultant of College Station, urged the commission to set a long range goal of developing "an environment within the state which will provide the incentive for the rail industry to invest in rail service facilities."

He also urged the commission to consider rail facilities in bordering states and in Mexico before finalizing a statewide plan.

Richards said one of the biggest transportation problems along the border in Texas is congestion in rail yards. "We're backed up in El Paso, in Laredo and in Brownsville," he said. "More goods are shipped out of Mexico through Laredo than any other export point in that country. Mexico's national railroad is, in some areas, in bad repair."

"I urge you to meet with planners from Mexico to determine what we can do to aid them in making sure they have transportation in and out of their country," Richards said.

Commission Favors Annexation Despite Costs

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Planning and Zoning Commission Wednesday sided with Yellowhouse Canyon Addition residents who had asked to be annexed by the city because of their lack of water.

City Planning Director Jim Bertram said the commission favored the annexation request as the least onerous of two bad alternatives.

He said the commission reasoned that if the small southeast Lubbock County area were not annexed now, problems would grow larger before the area eventually was annexed. But by including the addition in the city now extra expenses could be avoided, Bertram said.

The annexation by no means will be cheap for the city, as the city must provide a comparable level of municipal services to an annexed area within three years.

Bertram said the city's cost to extend and connect water mains to the area would be $70,000.

A question remains of whether the city must purchase the existing private water system. If so, the city's cost will be even more.

The police department would require an additional five cars and five men to patrol the annexed area, without spreading police protection thin in neighborhoods now being patrolled.

Bertram said paving in the addition is substandard, many of the 74 houses on the quarter section are substandard and the water system is "at best, not good."

A $5,000 investment in code enforcement would be required to rid the area of junked vehicles, vacant burned-out structures, of commercial uses interspersed with residences, piles of rubbish and of weed-choked lots, Bertram said.

Community Development funds to upgrade the addition may be slow in coming, even if annexation is not, because of requests for CD funds by other neighborhoods.

Bertram also said the city would have to foot the nearly $4,500 bill for dumpsters.

"That's just the capital estimate," he said. City operations in the area would run more than $112,000 annually while only $38,000 a year could be anticipated in tax revenues.

Bertram said that if the police department would settle for only one additional car and one more officer, the city could break even on the annexation.

But if capital costs are amortized, the city will be "losing money for a number of years."

"The net (gain) is a cleaned-up area which is a lot more conducive living environment," Bertram said, "but money-making it's not."

The annexation, if approved by the city council, also would have to be approved by the U.S. Justice Department to ensure that minority voting strength would not be diluted.

However, since most of the Yellowhouse Canyon residents are black or Mexican-American, Justice Department approval probably is assured and Bertram said the annexation might weigh in the city's favor when a predominantly Anglo area is annexed in the future.

The Planning and Zoning Commission will meet again tonight to formulate a recommendation to the city council on a proposed historic preservation ordinance.

The commissioners also will consider a change in the city zoning ordinance to delineate a zoning difference between convenience store gas sales and service stations.

The City Council last week requested a change that would allow convenience store gas sales in a less restrictive commercial zone under certain conditions.

The commission also will consider changing the setback requirements for two-story apartments adjacent to single-family residential neighborhoods.

Zone change requests to be considered by the commission tonight include:

— Jim Borthwick, representing Ham's Food Mart, for a change from C-2 to C-3 for a convenience store gas sales north of 82nd Street and west of Abbeville Avenue

— A.D. Brown, representing M.L. Gardner Estates, to change from C-3 to C-4 to locate a used car lot south of Clovis Road and west of Fordham Street

— Audrey R. Fiel, representing Southeastern Plaza Inc., to change from AM to C-4 restricted to hotel/retail property south of 19th Street and east of Memphis Avenue

— John King, representing Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., to change from T to C-2 to construct a telephone company office south of 98th Street and east of Frankford Avenue

— Coney Coble for a change from C-3 to C-4 to place a used car lot south of 36th

Perryton Panel No-Bills Police

PERRYTON (UPI) — A state grand jury has refused to indict city police officers who shot and killed a fleeing Mexican-American wanted on charges of felony theft and escape.

Ochiltree County District Attorney Bill Rivers said Wednesday more than a dozen witnesses testified before the grand jury in the case of Paul Martinez, 25, including Texas Rangers, city police and sheriff's officers.

"We depend on the grand jury to act as a conscience to our community," Rivers said in response to the no-billing of the officers.

Mexican-American groups already have asked for a federal investigation into the Martinez death, and Rivers said the Justice Department had sent an FBI agent to this Panhandle town to investigate.

Martinez was shot to death Tuesday while attempting to escape officers searching for him on foot. The sheriff's department indicated Martinez was wanted for felony theft, escaping from six jails and was suspected in the shooting of a New Mexico police officer.

Earlier Wednesday the League of United Latin American Citizens sent telegrams to federal and state officials asking them observe the investigation.

LULAC director Ruben Bonilla said the telegrams to U.S. Attorney General Griffin Bell and Texas Attorney General John Hill protested Martinez' death as another in a series of killing of Mexican-American in police custody.

"The murders continue," the telegram to Bell said. "Human rights in Texas continue to be denied Mexican-Americans by law enforcement agencies. The only difference in the case of Paul Martinez is that it took a shotgun and a .357 magnum to complete the killing."

Bonilla said he did not expect justice from Texas courts and asked Bell to immediately convene a federal grand jury to determine if civil rights charges should be filed against the officers.

He said that Bell, in his recent decision not to prosecute a Dallas policeman on charges of killing 12-year-old Santos Rodriguez, promised nevertheless to continue vigorous prosecution in civil rights cases where it appeared the state had failed to prosecute fully.

The telegram to Hill asked that he monitor the state grand jury's proceedings and take action if necessary to guarantee justice was done.

Judge Wants To Hear Custody Case Again

HOUSTON (UPI) — A state judge has delayed for the second time a ruling on who has custody of a comatose 12-year-old girl being kept alive by mechanical life-support devices at Texas Children's Hospital.

Judge Wallace H. Miller Wednesday ordered attorneys for the parents of Masil "Bunny" Gray, the Harris County Child Welfare Unit, Texas Children's Hospital, and the court-appointed attorney for the child to replead their case on Aug. 7.

In a lawsuit filed by county welfare officials against the hospital and attending physicians, the judge was faced with deciding whether life-support systems could be shut off.

But after both parents were apprised of the developing dilemma, they sought to regain custody of the child and to assume responsibility for her care — which costs $500 to $600 a day.

The child welfare unit then sought to remove itself from the case in favor of the parents.

"I neither deny nor grant (the motion)," Miller said Wednesday. "The court will not rule at this time."

The child, who became a county ward July 3, was admitted to the hospital July 16 unconscious from smoke inhalation. She had been pulled from a burning room at the county welfare facility.

Bunny's mother had asked the county to take custody of the girl because she had run away from home and her mother feared she was becoming delinquent.

The child's brain waves have been registering flat since July 20 and doctors have declared her medically dead.

Miller said Wednesday. "The court will not rule at this time."

Writer Lists Top GOP Hopefuls

By CLAY F. RICHARDS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — With more than two years to go until the 1980 presidential elections, 10 or more Republicans are standing in line to take on President Carter.
 Rep. Philip Crane, R-Ill., one of the most conservative members of the House, became the first officially announced candidate for the White House Thursday, saying he was making his announcement early in hopes of overcoming his name-recognition problem.
 Gerald Ford and Ronald Reagan, who fought a bitter contest for the nomination in 1976, both have talked seriously about trying again in 1980.
 Last week Reagan said "talk to me again a little bit later" when asked if he is running.
 A week earlier Ford said he was considering a strategy of bypassing the primaries — in effect making the party come to him with the nomination. Democrat Hubert Humphrey tried that same strategy in 1976, but it didn't work for him.
 Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker, who became something of a household name by continually asking, "what did the President know and when did he know it?" during the Senate Watergate hearings, is in practice for 1980.
 He's running against nominal opposition in today's Senate Republican primary in Tennessee, and so far has spent $800,000 — much of it blasting Carter's energy program.
 Two Texans, former Gov. John Connally and George Bush, former CIA director, are using another technique to campaign without campaigning. Both have formed political action committees around their idea of a "good government" organization.
 Each committee raises money, sends its sponsor — Connally or Bush — around the country making speeches, and will provide the basis for a campaign committee if and when either decides to announce formally.
 Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., feels he paid his dues in the presidential candidates club by running for vice president with Ford in 1976. He is certain to run in 1980 if he feels Ford and Reagan have not preempted the field.
 Sen. Lowell Weicker of Connecticut, who also gained renown during the Watergate hearings, is already testing the waters of New Hampshire where the 1980 primaries begin.
 Gov. Jim Thompson of Illinois admitted soon after he was elected two years ago that he has always wanted to be president — an admission that immediately focused national attention on his activities. But he has cooled the White House talk in recent months, since he faces a reelection contest this fall.
 House members don't often have much success running for president, but Crane might not be the only Republican member jumping in the race this year. Proposition 13 and the resulting tax revolt has brought mention of Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., as a possible candidate.
 He's now the darling of the tax revolters by authoring the Kemp-Roth bill, which would cut income tax rates by 30 percent over a three-year period.
 The Republican field is getting more crowded as the party's perception grows that Carter is vulnerable. The talk of one term is even catching on among Democrats.
 Sen. Patrick Moynihan of New York and Gov. Jerry Brown of California have frequently been mentioned as potential Democratic challengers to the president. And although he protests greatly, Massachusetts Sen. Edward Kennedy's name always crops up when presidential politics is mentioned.

General Says Protest 'Pointless'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. George S. Brown, who recently retired as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, says it would be pointless for a top-ranking military officer to quit in protest against a civilian policy because "it would not reverse a decision."
 "I was perfectly prepared to do it," Brown said, "but I had to ask myself, 'what good would it do?' It would not reverse a decision."
 "No, it would be like a pebble on the beach. They'd get another chairman tomorrow," he said.
 The long-discussed question of whether senior military officers should retire in a public protest of major policy differences with top civilian officials arose Wednesday night at a seminar on the role of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in national policy.
 In his first public appearance since retiring, the blunt-speaking Brown did not indicate any specific issue in which he might have faced such a decision.
 He implied, however, that he felt the most effective course would be to remain in uniform and try to work to bring civilian officials around to the military view.
 Brown, who retired in late June, suggested that if the issue was one of overriding national security, a chairman of the Joint Chiefs probably would not have a chance to ponder a protest retirement because there would be widespread recognition of it in Congress.
 "I just don't see the issue ever arising," Brown told the seminar, which was sponsored by the conservative American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research.
 The question was asked against a background of criticism — particularly by retired senior officers — of the recent membership of the Joint Chiefs of Staff for allegedly being weak and too amenable on such issues as President Carter's cancellation of the B-1 bomber and plans to withdraw U.S. ground troops from South Korea.
 On the B-1, Brown said, "We gave our views to the president without being asked" on two occasions before Carter decided against B-1 production.
 Brown noted that the law is clear that the Joint Chiefs of Staff should give advice to the president and the secretary of defense, but said that "the law is silent on whether it must be accepted."
 Comparing his experience under three presidents, Brown said that the Joint Chiefs have had "even more extensive personal intercourse with President Carter than I think any Joint Chiefs of Staff have had in history."
 However, he implied that much of the contact was cosmetic and that critical business was conducted more actively in the National Security Council.

DOVER, Del. (UPI) — A former college counselor, who had a child out of wedlock, has won reinstatement at Delaware State College.
 In an out-of-court settlement, the college also has agreed to pay $12,000 in back pay and legal fees to Bessie Lewis, according to Miss Lewis' attorney.
 Miss Lewis, 30, filed a lawsuit claiming she was demoted and received a $5,000 pay cut for her actions, while the admitted father, assistant football coach Charles Henderson, was not.
 Miss Lewis' lawyer said Wednesday that his client has agreed to drop her $250,000 damage suit against the school.
 College President Lura Mishow had testified in court that Miss Lewis violated unwritten moral standards in having an illegitimate child and was not fit to counsel students.

'Love Boat' Star Lauren Tewes Hoping To Do Television Movie

By JAY SHARBUTT
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lauren Tewes looked very pretty but slightly puffed as she walked briskly into the studio commissary, straight from a morning's filming of a new "Love Boat" episode. It was the 12th show of the series' second season, she said. She explained the show must go on when other series rest since it's about the only time it can snag stars from those episodic guests.

Miss Tewes, 24, plays Julie McCoy, the perky cruise director on the ship that gets ABC good ratings. She was asked if she's ever taken a pleasure cruise, the real kind, herself. She said no.

"Gone sailing three times for the show," she noted, but said her folks are the only Tewes to sail for fun. "They said my dad drank a little bit and my mom laughed a lot."

She grinned, then began consuming a chicken salad, not at all alarmed by a warning one of the chives was moving.

Miss T., whose voice has a bright sparkle to it, much in the manner of Mary Tyler Moore, hails from Braddock, Pa.

Her family moved to suburban Downey here when she was about 10, she said. "She got involved in what you might call 'teke casting' — for school plays — almost immediately. She found she liked acting."

"It was a good way to make friends," said the lady, who still can recall her stage debut: "It was 'Hans Brinker and the Silver Skates.' I played Katrina Flak." She winced a bit.

After college drama studies, she landed her first paying job as a member of a Knott's Berry Farm acting troupe. Then she made about 25 commercials. Then the big time? Nope.

She still had to make ends meet with a part-time job waitressing in the coffee shop of a Sunset Strip hotel here. But she served her last bagel-and-coffee order in October 1976.

"I'd saved enough from residuals" — fees for repeat showings of her commercials — "and had enough commercials on the air that I figured I could support myself with that," she said.

She started getting small parts, a "Charlie's Angeles" here, a "Police Story" there, and then guest-star roles in "Family" and "Starsky and Hutch." And all of a sudden "Love Boat"?

"Not all of a sudden," she said. "It happened in the normal way. You get called in for a reading, you read, then you go off. Only they told me I had to start shooting the next day."

That was in March 1977. She says she's been on ABC's high seas ever since, save for an occasional week off. Bit next October, she gets the whole month off. However, she'll use the time, she hopes, to appear in a movie for the network.

Why not loaf, take a nice ship cruise or something?

"It's mostly because I need exposure," she said. "I need to show the public I'm an actress, not Julie McCoy." She didn't know what the movie involves yet. Perhaps a nice murderess role?

"Probably a nice sweet girl next door," Miss Tewes laughed. She finished her salad and sailed back to "Love Boat."

Theft Fine Levied Against Politician

LONDON (AP) — A Pakistani female politician was fined $482 on a charge of stealing $9.03 worth of underwear from a London store. A magistrate rejected her plea that the incident would ruin her politically.

"I can see no reason why I should deal with you other than as an intelligent woman who decided to steal rather than pay," Magistrate Peter Goldstone told Mrs. Nasin Wali Khan, 42, at her trial Tuesday.

Mrs. Khan was described as leader of the eight-party Pakistan National Alliance and wife of the leader of the country's National Democratic Party. However, Pakistan has a military government, and political activity is banned.

Complications Arise In Picking Directors

NEW YORK (UPI) — The selection of corporate directors is becoming a difficult, even baffling, task in this age of accountability.

The Securities and Exchange Commission, numerous stockholder and other private groups are putting tremendous pressure on big companies to select directors by a much more formal and professional procedure than has been customary in the past.

The head of the SEC's enforcement division, Stanley Sporkin, shocked the business world not long ago by proposing severe restrictions on the selection of lawyers and bankers as directors. Some critics said Sporkin's proposal simply would eliminate the most numerous business and professional categories from which directors now are normally chosen.

Handy Associates, the well known consulting firm, stopped just short of this conclusion in a study it published based on replies to a questionnaire submitted to almost 100 of the biggest companies on the Fortune 500 list.

Sporkin proposed that lawyers and bankers be forbidden to serve as directors if they or their firms have any business relationships with the company. Handy found this idea appears popular in many quarters.

Handy raised the possibility that lawyers and bankers indeed may be almost entirely forbidden to serve as directors because of possible conflicts of interest — because they or their banks had business relationships with a company's competitors, for example.

The prime factor in the growing difficulty in choosing directors, Handy said, is that this is the age of accountability, with corporations and the people who run them being scrutinized more closely than ever before.

"Not surprisingly," Handy said, "much of this monitoring is hostile. Every facet of a business's operations comes under question."

Thirty-five percent of the companies surveyed by Handy now use special nominating or selection committees to choose directors, a practice almost unheard of five years ago. Among the other 65 percent, the chairman may just pick a director, but in most cases he does so in consultation with standing committees of the board. In some cases, however, the chairman appoints committee members.

Sporkin has recommended that management be deprived of any voice in the selection of the outside directors, those not connected with management or who are not "insider" stockholders.

Many well qualified persons are reluctant to serve as company directors, however, because of the growing threat of lawsuits. Court decisions in recent years have much more frequently held directors financially responsible for costly blunders made by managements than was the custom in the past. This has resulted in sharply higher premiums for directors and executives malpractice liability insurance.

Handy said stockholder and other interested groups, even unions, may have to be consulted in choosing directors if pitfalls are to be avoided.

Public companies that fail to provide a proper public accounting for their method of choosing directors, Handy said, will offer new targets for those who want to bring business under ever tighter government regulation.

The ultimate solution, Handy intimated, may be development of the professional director who can devote a great deal of time to the job. But Handy is not enamored of this idea.

The consulting firm fears professional directors will be found lacking in real operating and executive experience or other abilities calculated to contribute to sound decision making.

'Lou Grant' Gains High Summer Ratings

By JAY SHARBUTT
LOS ANGELES (AP) — When the "Lou Grant" series began last fall, it got critical cheers but low ratings. But top ratings came this summer for reruns of the CBS newspaper show starring Edward Asner.

Excluding last week, when it was bumped for a beauty show, the series has been among America's 20 highest-rated programs for two months. It even headed the Nielsen standings in the first week of July.

A good summer, yes, but will "Lou Grant" ratings stay up there when the series starts its second season in September. Its executive producer, Gene Reynolds, answered the question this way: "I think we're going to have tough going. We'll be up against football (ABC's Monday night version) in the East, and football is always very tough."

"It (his series) is a literate show, a basically serious show. It's never going to have the kind of easy going that other hit shows like 'M*A*S*H' or 'Laverne and Shirley' have."

"Sure, we have to make a popular show to stay in business. But I think we're always going to have to fight for our lives." Reynolds, a soft-spoken, reflective man, joined "Lou Grant" last season after doing "M*A*S*H" five years. He said when the Amer series began its initially low-rated life, it had abnormal opposition.

"We went up against the World Series twice, the playoffs once, 'The Godfather' and that Park Avenue prostitute thing." He referred to NBC's high-rated "79 Park Avenue" miniseries.

"It's a period they go through in television called 'kill time,' in which they really try to wipe you out," he laughed.

"It was a rough period. But finally I think the show developed a following and this summer, people who hadn't seen it got the chance to because it faced more normal programming."

He meant it wasn't opposed by major movies, big-budget specials.

"It's great for us," he said. "It gives the audience a chance to develop an appetite for it that we hope continues into the fall."

During the show's low-rated days — it was shifted in late winter from Tuesdays to Mondays and will be there next fall — did CBS ever tell him the ax was imminent?

"No, they never said that," he replied. "But I'm certain I crossed their minds. It certainly crossed ours. But when we finally got some normal weeks, the numbers started picking up, even on Tuesdays."

CBS Has Top Show, But ABC Takes Lead

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The beautiful part of last week for CBS was its telecast of the "Miss Universe" contest. The beauty show, seen in more than 18.2 million homes, was the week's top-rated evening program.

But ABC had 10 programs among the highest-rated 20 and edged by CBS in average nightly ratings for the week ending July 30. Its programs were seen in an average of 10.9 million homes.

CBS's programs were seen, on the average, in just over 10.8 million homes, while NBC was third, averaging 9 million homes a night, according to A. C. Nielsen Co. figures made public Tuesday.

The Nielsen said the week's lowest-ranked show was NBC's Saturday night repeat of the first part of its "Rhinemann Exchange" miniseries. That was seen in only about 5.8 million homes.

After "Miss Universe," the nine top-ranked shows last week were CBS's "Alice," 16.7 million homes; ABC's "Three's Company," "Fantasy Island" and "Starky and Hutch," respectively seen in 16.5 million, 15.7 million and 15 million homes; CBS's "All in the Family," also 15 million; ABC's "Laverne and Shirley," 14.6 million; CBS's "Switch," 14.4 million; ABC's "Love Boat," 14.3 million; and CBS's "Barnaby Jones," 14 million.

The next 10 top-ranked shows: ABC's "Charlie's Angels" and "Carter Country;" CBS's "Hawaii Five-O;" ABC's "Happy Days;" NBC's "Rockford Files;" CBS's "60 Minutes;" ABC Monday Night Movie; CBS's "On Our Own;" ABC Sunday Movie; and CBS's "Rhoda."

Storm Disaster Potential Seen

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
WASHINGTON (AP) — The peak of the hurricane season is nearing and with it, government experts warn, comes an alarming potential for disaster in the growing Sun Belt areas where many new residents have never seen the devastation of a big blow.

"We are faced with the awesome possibility of making a perfect hurricane forecast, yet experiencing a tragedy exceeding that of the historic Galveston hurricane in 1900 when 6,000 people died," warned Dr. Neil Frank, head of the National Hurricane Center.

Although no hurricanes have developed in the Atlantic this year, August, September and October are the peak months for the monster storms.

The first tropical storm of the year, Amelia, blew in Monday from the Gulf of Mexico over sparsely settled South Texas ranchland. Tropical storms become hurricanes once they reach 74 miles per hour.

In addition to Amelia, which did not develop hurricane-speed winds, a disturbance is brewing east of the Lesser Antilles. It shows signs of becoming a depression and if it passes from that to a tropical storm, it too will get a name—Bess.

Between 1886 and 1964, the time for which the most complete studies have been done, there were 636 hurricanes in the North Atlantic—including the Caribbean and Gulf of Mexico. Of these, 142 were in August, 216 in September and 146 in October, according to Ed Weigel of the National Weather Service.

And weather service hurricane expert Bob Pifer said of the potential for a hurricane now: "I would look for something in a week or so."

Some Pacific hurricanes developed this year but with little damage, Pifer noted. He said a cool California current helps protect the West Coast from the storms but the warm Gulf Stream does just the opposite for the East.

While noting improvements in the ability to forecast hurricanes, Frank's concern lies with the explosive population growth in threatened areas in Florida and along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts—which attract people with sunshine, surf and sand.

"There are coastal locations where the population concentration is so large, evacuation is impossible on the existing roads with the lead time we can provide with our warnings," Frank said.

He added that about 80 percent of the 37 million residents of the Atlantic and Gulf coasts have never experienced what the weather service classifies as a major hurricane.

"This has led to an 'it can't happen here' attitude which is building into the prelude of a terrible tragedy," Frank said.

He urged local officials to develop hurricane emergency plans, contacting the weather service for help. He also said individuals can help themselves by finding a safe shelter in advance, planning evacuation routes and listening for weather service warnings.

Eloise was the last big hurricane, slamming into the Florida Panhandle in September 1975 with 125 mph winds and leaving 10 dead. But like others hitting Florida in recent years, Eloise was an isolated storm and not one of a series that can wreak devastation.

On the East Coast, Belle struck as a tropical storm in 1976. Before that, the last serious hurricane in the area—by weather service standards for potential disaster—was Donna in 1969, Weigel said.

Hurricanes are rated by a score of one to five according to windspeed, air pressure and storm surge developed. Those rating three or more are considered major.

Storms can bring disaster without being hurricanes. Agnes had been downgraded to a tropical storm in 1972 when it did most of its damage. It left 134 people dead in Florida and along the East Coast.

Hurricanes are not new to America and, in fact, have played a major role in its history.

It was such a storm that brought Alexander Hamilton to the then-colonies, for example. His description of the hurricane in a letter to some impressed planters in his native West Indies that they took up a collection to send him to school in the colonies.

Galveston's 1900 blow, which struck in August and was followed by floods, had a precursor in 1837. One witness said the 1837 storm in the then-Republic of Texas swept away "every house, camp, sod house, and inhabited structure... except the old Mexican customhouse."

But even a hurricane may do some good — one helped keep the United States out of war.

In 1888, U.S. and German naval vessels were about to come to blows over possession of Western Samoa. Instead a savage hurricane swept down and sailors from both navies fought to help one another.

Health Officer Asks Cancer Investigation

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — The chief county health officer wants a federal investigation of what he says is evidence of higher leukemia and cancer rates for some employees of the Rocky Flats Nuclear Weapons Plant.

Dr. Carl Johnson made the request in a letter to Dr. Eulah Bingham, assistant secretary of labor and director of the U.S. Occupational Safety and Health Administration in Washington. Johnson said he has observed chromosomes changes in 241 Rocky Flats employees that signal higher cancer rates. Chromosomes contain the genes that determine and transmit hereditary traits. Plutonium and other radioactive materials are used to manufacture components for nuclear weapons at the plant about 25 miles northwest of Denver.

Pope John III died in 1277 of injuries suffered when his palace collapsed on him.

was the year Nicklaus, a 22-year-old pro rookie, beat Palmer, the legend, in his own backyard. ## Nicklaus Toasts Speedy Greens At PGA Setting OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — The greens are groomed for speed in golf's 60th PGA Championship. Jack Nicklaus will drink to that. Lanny Wadkins won't.

"The faster the better. Anytime you have fast slick greens you eliminate an awful lot of fellows," said Nicklaus, who sipped cold orange juice after Wednesday's final practice round.

But Wadkins wasn't toasting the putting surfaces at Oakmont Country Club, where championship play begins today.

"I got here, saw the greens, and decided I wasn't going to have any drinks or coffee all week," said Wadkins, the defending PGA champ who's failed to make the cut in eight of 20 tournaments this year.

"It's just going to be a case of how good your nerves are, and I figure I'll need all the help I can get," added Wadkins, who was to play in a threesome with Nicklaus and U.S. Open titlist Andy North.

Nicklaus, coming off consecutive victories at the British Open and the Philadelphia Classic, is bidding for his fifth PGA title. That would tie him with Walter Hagen for the all-time lead.

After playing here two days last week, Nicklaus skipped all but the final practice round this week.

"I found the greens to be faster last week. They put a little water on them, and I think they needed a little water," he said.

"I like fast greens, but I was hoping they weren't overreacting to a 63 shot here in 1973 and trying to make the golf course so nobody could play it."

Nicklaus referred to the final-round 63 that Johnny Miller shot here to win the 1973 U.S. Open. The score, still a record for Oakmont and the Open, came on a day when the greens were slow and mushy due to heavy rainfall.

Since then, the Oakmont Country Club has reconditioned the greens, working sand into the roots of the grass to make the putting surfaces harder, more resilient to rain, and faster.

"The course is fine," Nicklaus said Wednesday.

"I like the fast greens because the better players win on fast greens. I've had lots of times when I've had trouble with fast greens. But when I'm playing well, when I'm right, then I feel I'm usually right up there with this kind of course."

Arnold Palmer would agree with that. He remembers when he lost to Nicklaus here in the 1962 U.S. Open.

"Jack has a knack for putting these greens which is not common among most of the players," said Palmer.

"I recall in 1962 he 3-putted only once in 90 holes, and that in itself is a major accomplishment."

That's why Palmer regards Nicklaus as the obvious favorite here.

"I don't know that there is anybody who merits the favored position Nicklaus does," said Palmer, who has never won the PGA.

"You can talk about the other guys, Tom Watson and the guys that have played good recently, and you still have to come back to Jack."

Beyond fast greens, the PGA has a $50,000 top prize that will go to the winner. There's $30,000 for second place and $20,000 for third.

The leading PGA money winner so far this year is 6-foot-4, 210-pound Andy Bear, whose checks so far total $245,568.

"I've got to learn to putt these greens a little better," the long-hitting Floridian said this week.

"They're faster than what we're used to, but I'm going to work on it a couple of hours a day and see what I can do."

Second on the money list is Nicklaus with $243,622.

Pokes' Herrera Demands Trade

By The Associated Press
Dallas placekicker Efran Herrera, who is being fined $500 each day he is absent from the Cowboys' training camp, has asked the team to trade him.

Herrera, who already owes the Super Bowl champion Cowboys $6,500 for his absence so far in camp, told reporters Wednesday the team has failed to offer him a salary commensurate with his standing as the top kicker in the National Football League.

"At this time, I'd like to be traded," said Herrera. "If they don't think as highly of me as I think of myself, it's time to move on.

"It's gone too far. I don't think they have any plans for me here. Maybe it's time to move to another team which appreciates me more than the Cowboys."

Herrera was believed asking a salary of about $80,000. The Cowboys have offered an estimated salary of $45,000.

Herrera said there is no way he would report to camp without a new contract, but said he doesn't want to retire.

Tex Schramm, president and general manager of the Cowboys, said that if the Cowboys can accommodate Herrera and at the same time benefit the team through a trade, it would do so.

The Cowboy position is that Herrera is under contract for an additional year, his option year, and is in violation of that contract.

"His union bargained an agreement which provided for him becoming a free agent and offering his services on the market," said Schramm. "Our position is he should fulfill his contract and the union agreement."

Meanwhile Wednesday, Cowboy Head Coach Tom Landry told a morning news conference he would start the 1978 pre-season with the same lineup that opened Super Bowl XII in New Orleans last Jan. 15, with the exception of offensive tackle Ralph Neely, who has retired.

Neely's place at left tackle will be taken in Saturday's Texas Stadium opener against the San Francisco 49ers by Pat Donovan, who played right tackle a year ago in place of the injured Rayfield Wright.

Wright, attempting a comeback at age 33, thus becomes the only lineup change as he moves in at right tackle.

Three Cowboys have been declared out of Saturday's game by team doctors. They are veteran running back Charles Young (knee), tackle Jim Eidson (neck) and rookie defensive back Kenny Randle (shoulder).

Doubtful for Saturday's game is second-year fullback Larry Brinson, suffering from a groin injury. Dave Stalls is listed as questionable while flanker Golden Richards is considered probable.

Hauling In The Dollars

And STEVE PERKINS

Q. Can you give me the figures on the coming Ali-Spinks fight, how much the promoter is laying out, and if he stands to make money on the deal? How much will the fighters get, etc.?

—Willie Cantella, Memphis.

A. It looks like everyone is going to get well on this promotion December 15 in New Orleans, the blockbuster of all time. Local promoters bought the live gate from Top Rank Incorporated for $3 million and are expecting a sellout crowd of 80,000. Ali and Spinks will split $7 million.

Top Rank also gets $5 million from ABC-TV, but its real profit margin will come from foreign TV rights via satellite hookup. TR president Mike Mahitz expects to reap $1.5 million from about 70 participating countries. Fees range from Japan's $330,000, Britain's $130,000, Venezuela's $100,000, and other such places as the Fiji Islands ($1,000).

Q. We are heating up for pro football and having an argument about the most important statistic, that is, is there any one statistic that reflects a superior team more than any other statistic?

—Hollis Gehring, Anderson, Ind.

A. The Los Angeles statistical expert, Bud Goode, who sends clients a voluminous Computer Printout report every week during the season, claims that one stat denotes a winning team more than any other, and that is the number of rushes per game.

Goode's figures show the team with the most running plays is the winner 71 percent of the time. Of course, this mixes in the corollary of that team's rushing defense.

In short, if you can figure out which team is going to run against the other, while also stopping the other side's running game, you've got a winner.

Q. I like the beer commercials which feature the ex-jocks, including Marv Throneberry. They have made me realize all of a sudden that I have never seen any active athletes in beer commercials. Do the various leagues and associations have a ban on such activity?

—Ed Cameron, San Jose, Calif.

A. The Federal Communications Commission, since the inception of television, has had a rule prohibiting the use of active athletes in beer commercials. Another of the FCC rules, by the way, is the reason you never see anyone actually drinking a beer on television.

Q. From time to time I see that pro football teams hold trout camps for all comers. I want to know if any athlete has been discovered in one of those trout camps who actually played later in the NFL.

—Wiley Featherstone, Wichita Falls, Texas.

A. From time to time an acorn turns up. The latest such was Baylor linebacker Shane Nelson, who so impressive at a Dallas Cowboys' open house that the club offered him a contract. Nelson wanted a signing bonus, however, and Dallas balked. He ended up in Buffalo, where he made the 1977 All-Rookie team.

Q. Could you please give me the totals on Forego's career, and also some figures on the weight he carried and some of his wins? Plus, who was the three-year-old champion the year Forego came up for his third-year campaign?

—K.J. Loughlin, Passaic, N.J.

A. Forego came along with Secretariat, but developed late because of a congenital left ankle problem. He lost his first six stakes races, but went on to win 24 others. Track handicappers put 130 or more pounds on him in 24 races. He retired with 34 wins in 57 starts, nine seconds, seven thirds. He was Horse of the Year three times and won $1,938,957 over all.

The big gelding indeed has earned retirement at age 8.

Rivalry Develops As San Diego Clips Dodgers 2-1

By The Associated Press
For years they've been waiting for the Los Angeles Dodgers and San Diego Padres to develop a real rivalry in Southern California.
Well, they've finally got one.
The Padres, longtime palsies to their powerful neighbors to the north, are no longer playing that role these days.
They've won a club-record nine straight games, including a four-game sweep of the Dodgers that culminated with Wednesday night's 2-1 victory.
"Team spirit is outstanding," said San Diego manager Roger Craig after his latest victory. "And we've been getting stronger in a lot of areas — pitching, defense, timely hitting ... and good managing."

The sudden success of the Padres has caused some consternation among Dodger players, particularly Reggie Smith.
Smith unleashed a verbal tirade Wednesday after some Padres ventured to say that the National League West wasn't a three-team race anymore, referring to the fact that San Diego had joined San Francisco, Cincinnati and Los Angeles in the race. The Padres are closing in on front-running San Francisco, eight games behind in fourth place.
"Reggie has a right to say anything he wants," noted Dodger Manager Tommy Lasorda, adding some sparks to the fire.
Bob Owichinko, San Diego's winning pitcher Wednesday night, wouldn't sit still for Smith's remarks.

"He ought to be asking what's wrong with the Dodgers," said Owichinko, "not what's wrong with the Padres."
Elsewhere in the National League, Cincinnati whipped the Atlanta Braves 6-2; San Francisco stopped the Houston Astros 4-2; the Philadelphia Phillies beat the New York Mets 8-6; the Pittsburgh Pirates blanked the Montreal Expos 3-0 and the Chicago Cubs edged the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2.
Owichinko and relief ace Rollie Fingers combined to hold Los Angeles to just five hits. The victory, before a sellout crowd of 46,751 at San Diego Stadium, gave Owichinko only his second career victory over the Dodgers.

Losing pitcher Tommy John surrendered just seven hits.
Reds 6, Braves 2
Pete Rose doubled, singled twice and hit a home run in his first four times at bat and Tom Seaver hurled a three-hitter to lead Cincinnati over Atlanta.
Rose, whose National League record-tying hitting streak ended at 44 games against the Braves Tuesday night, led off the game with a double. He then singled home a run in the second and led off the fourth with a single before sending a drive over the right field fence in the sixth for his fifth homer of the season.
"I guess," said Rose with a grin, "I proved I can hit with the pressure off."

Giants 4, Astros 2
Terry Whitfield swatted a three-run homer as San Francisco snapped Houston's eight-game winning streak.
Whitfield's fourth-inning blast, his eighth homer of the season, followed a walk to Darrell Evans and a single by Willie McCovey off loser Tom Dixon, 5-8.
John Montefusco, 8-4, gained his first victory since June 25.
Phillies 8, Mets 6
Garry Maddox drove in four runs, three with his ninth home run that capped a five-run second inning, and Philadelphia hung on to beat New York.
The Phillies gained an 8-0 lead in the first five innings and escaped with the victory despite a five-run rally by the Mets in the eighth featuring Lee Mazzilli's two-run homer.

hit a solo home run as Pittsburgh beat Montreal.
Kison struck out seven batters, including the side in the sixth, and walked only two before needing ninth-inning relief help from Tekulve, who notched his 18th save. Kison reportedly was developing a blister on his pitching hand.
Loser Dan Schatzeder, 4-3, gave up six hits, including Garner's homer, and walked two batters in 7-2/3 innings.
Cubs 3, Cardinals 2
Mike Vail's two-run triple in the first inning backed the seven-hit pitching of Mike Krukow and Bruce Sutter, leading Chicago over St. Louis.
It marked the Cubs' 11th triumph in as many meetings with the Cardinals this season.

Boston, Yanks 'Retire' At 1:16

By The Associated Press
It all depends on your point of view, so the Boston Red Sox acted like they won Wednesday night's game while the New York Yankees were the men of losers.
The scoreboard, however, read 5-5 when play was halted after 14 innings at 1:16 a.m. today. The game will be completed before tonight's regularly scheduled contest.
The Red Sox, who have been slumping of late, felt like winners because they trailed 5-0 after three innings, caught up with two runs in the fourth, two in the sixth and one in the eighth and survived New York threats in the 12th and 14th.
And the Yankees felt like losers because they helped the Red Sox rally by contributing three wild pitches and a pair of bases-loaded walks and wasting a 12-7 hit advantage.

lead shrink from 10 games on July 8 to 4½ on the Milwaukee Brewers — the Yankees trail by 6½ and the Baltimore Orioles are 7½ out — isn't about to throw back anything these days.
"We got a few breaks," he conceded.
"A couple of wild pitches and walks went in our favor. We were lucky to get five runs. On top of that, when it's 1:15 in the morning and you can't win, you've got to be satisfied with a tie."
In other AL action, the Orioles edged

Milwaukee 6-5 in the completion of Monday night's suspended game, but the Brewers took the regularly scheduled contest 5-3; the Cleveland Indians dined the Kansas City Royals 5-2; the California Angels trounced the Oakland A's 8-2 and the Seattle Mariners defeated the Minnesota Twins 3-1.
The Yankees jumped to an early lead over the Red Sox, scoring four times off Andy Hassler in the second inning on Lou Piniella's single, a two-base error by left fielder Jim Rice, Graig Nettles' two-run single and Willie Randolph's RBI double. They nicked Tom Burgmeier for a run in the third on Piniella's double and a single by Chris Chambliss.
But the Red Sox began chipping away in the fourth, scoring twice on a walk, the first of Jerry Remy's three singles, a wild pitch, Rice's RBI grounder and Carlton Fisk's single.
New York starter Dick Tidrow left in the sixth after singles by Rick Burleson and Remy and a walk to Rice loaded the bases with none out. Rich Gossage walked Carl Yastrzemski to force in a run and, after retiring Fisk on a foul pop and fanning Fred Lynn, he also walked Jack Brohamer, making it 5-4.

"My elbow still hurts, but that's the best I've felt since last year," he said. "I felt loose, even after the rain delay."
The game was held up for 35 minutes in the top of the eighth and again for 18 minutes after 12 innings.
Orioles 6-3, Brewers 5-5
Larry Hise and Sal Bando blasted home runs and Mike Caldwell notched his seventh straight victory as Milwaukee defeated Baltimore, beating Jim Palmer for the first time in 11 outings.
Prior to the regularly scheduled game, a two-out, 10th-inning single by Mike Anderson gave the Orioles a 6-5 victory in the completion of a contest suspended after nine innings by a local curfew Monday night.
Caldwell, 14-5, allowed solo homers to Ken Singleton and Doug DeCinces before needing relief help in the ninth from Larry Sorensen, who gained his first save.

Mariners 3, Twins 1
Jim Colborn fired a six-hitter and designated hitter Bob Robertson blasted a two-run homer in the sixth inning as Seattle defeated Minnesota.
Juan Bernhardt had an RBI single as Colborn chalked up his third victory in 12 decisions. Minnesota's only run scored in the fourth on Butch Wynegar's sacrifice fly.
Angels 8, A's 2
Lyman Bostock backed Don Aase's four-hit pitching with a solo home run, two sacrifice flies and an RBI single as California defeated Oakland and moved within three games of first-place Kansas City in the AL West.
Bostock hit his third home run of the season in the sixth inning, had sacrifice flies in the third and seventh and a run-scoring single in a three-run eighth.

Indians 5, Royals 2
John Grubb smashed a home run and Tom Verzer added a run-scoring double to highlight a four-run sixth inning as Cleveland swept a three-game series from Kansas City.
The Royals picked up runs on Clint Hurdle's bases-loaded walk in the first and Al Cowens' run-scoring grounder.

Lopez To Bid For European LPGA Crown

Tech Golfer Grabs Utah Amateur Lead

BOUNTIFUL, Utah (UPI) — Texas Tech sophomore Kerri Krantz fired a steady one-over par 72 Wednesday to grab the first-round lead in the 1978 Utah State Women's Amateur Golf Championship.
The 19-year-old Brigham City native birdied the ninth hole and had 15 pars to take a one-shot lead over defending champion Tira Ferrando, a Brigham Young University junior from the island nation of Sri Lanka.
Miss Krantz bogied the fourth hole and No. 11 on the Bountiful Golf Course for her only real trouble in the opening round of the 54-hole tournament. Ferrando was one-over par on both the front and back nines for her two-over 73.
Veteran Janet Thurgood of Salt Lake City was another shot back in third at 74, followed by Heidi Wallin at 76 and Denise Sontag at 79. The three-day tournament ends Friday.

Probation Given Providence Cager

PROVIDENCE (AP)—Dwight Williams, Providence College's play-making guard last season, was given one year of unsupervised probation Wednesday for assaulting a fellow athlete on April 7.
Judge John G. McKiernan of Providence Superior Court imposed the sentence after a hearing at which Williams pleaded "no contest" to a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon.
Williams, 20, Buffalo, N.Y., had earlier pleaded innocent to that charge and a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, a knife. However, McKiernan dismissed the second charge.

Monterey Runner To Run At SPC

LEVELLANCE (Special) — Dave Yates, a middle distance runner from Monterey, has signed a track letter-of-intent with South Plains College.
Yates, who specializes in the 800-yard dash and the mile run, posted times of 1:56.2 and 4:27.0, respectively last fall.
SPC also announced the signing of Joe Love, a standout netter from Midland High. Love won first place in regional competition and was also a state semifinalist last year.

All-Stars Prep For Oil Classic

By JIM FERGUSON

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Before the upcoming high school football season even gets under way, James Odom is one coach who will either have a victory or a defeat under his belt.

Of course, he is hoping for the former, rather than the latter. But in either case, he's donating it to charity.

"I'm sorry," he can say when someone knocks on his door. "I gave a screenpass and a zig out at the office."

Odom, Sherman's Tommy Hudspeth and Charlie Johnston of Childress make up the coaching staff that will lead a group of Texas all-stars against an elite squad from north of the Red River at the 41st Shrine Oil Bowl Classic in Wichita Falls on Aug. 12.

The Oil Bowl is used to raise money for the crippled children's hospital in Wichita Falls.

"From what I've been told, it's an outstanding bowl," said Odom, who when not coaching all-stars directs the Monterey Plainsmen. "The kids enjoy it and have a lot of fun."

But as anyone might guess, fun isn't the only thing Odom and his group are after—a win would be nice, too. That's why he went after "some of the best talent in the state."

"There's no doubt about it," he emphasized. "We tried to pick the cream of the crop. But we also wanted to stay in the area (around Wichita Falls). The crowd likes to see area kids play. But we still went after the best."

Austin Nudges Colts 3-2

FORT WORTH (Special)—Northwest Austin edged Lubbock 3-2 Wednesday night during the opening round of the state Colt League baseball tournament.

The loss drops the Hub City group into the loser's bracket where it will meet the loser of the Tri City-Fort Worth tonight at 6:30.

Lubbock managed to grab a 1-0 lead in the second inning as Sam Law scored on a single by Randy Ledbetter. Law opened the stanza with a walk, moved to third on a hit by Larry Walker and then scored on Ledbetter's blast.

Austin tied the game in the fifth. In the seventh, the Hub group took a 2-1 lead. Bart Burgess singled, moved to second on a wild pitch and then advanced to third on a sacrifice bunt by Lupe Vasquez. He scored when the ball squirted loose from the catcher.

Austin took advantage of a pair of Lubbock errors in the bottom of the seventh, scoring the winning 2 runs.

Odom doesn't have to tell anyone that. He can let his roster do the talking.

Twelve of the players on the team played Saturday night in the North-South All-Star game in Houston. Only one of the 26 players has not signed a letter-of-intent. And, for toppers, only two did not ink up with a major university.

Included in the Texas bunch are Ron Reeves and Greg Isarel, a pair of Monterey exes who are headed for Texas Tech this fall. Reeves, an all-stater in both football and baseball, will play quarterback. Isarel is expected to see action as a defensive back.

Odom said he, Hudspeth and Johnston huddled after school ended last May and worked out the roster. Final additions and subtractions were made at the coaches school in Houston last week.

Because of the lack of time between the Aug. 6 reporting date and the night of the game, Odom said things would be kept pretty simple.

"We (the Texas and Oklahoma staffs) agreed to use a basic 5-4 defense," he explained. "We've also traded offensive sets."

Odom said the Texas team would run the veer offense.

"That's one of the reasons we chose Reeves and (Mike) Brannon as our quarterbacks," Odom said. "They are both experienced at running the veer, so they shouldn't have any trouble catching on."

Brannon, a Baylor signee, directed the Brazoswood attack last year.

With only a couple of weeks remaining until the stars report to their respective colleges, Odom said the workout for the Oil Bowl is "a good opportunity to get some extra hitting under their belt."

Texas Tech recruits total six (including Oklahoma's starting signal caller Randy Paige of Oklahoma City Southeast). Oklahoma University will be represented by four stars from Texas.

Coaching the Oklahoma squad will be Gene Smith, Dan Sulviand and Larry Coker.

Vilas Opens Defense With Win

By The Associated Press
Guillermo Vilas of Argentina has opened defense of his 1977 championship in the $75,000 Grand Prix tournament at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club with an effortless victory over Butch Seewagen.

Vilas, the 1977 U.S. Open winner who has not made a strong showing this year, defeated the Columbia University coach 6-2, 6-0 Wednesday night, winning the last 11 games.

Earlier in the day, John McEnroe battled with officials but won his match to move into the quarter-finals. The temperamental McEnroe was booed from the stands as he left the court Wednesday, a 6-2, 4-6, 6-1 winner over Keith Richardson.

McEnroe, a 19-year-old rookie pro who is seeded second behind Vilas, was incensed over calls from the third game of his match to the end. He spent almost 25 minutes of the two-hour match arguing with officials. Tournament director Gene Scott intervened at one point to calm the youngster.

"I can't take it," said a discouraged McEnroe after the match. "This was the worst. I used to think it was right when I questioned a call which I thought was wrong. But I guess I just must be wrong because of the way the fans react."

Third-seeded John Lloyd of England also advanced to the quarter-finals, beating John James of Australia 6-1, 6-0. Balazs Taroczy of Hungary, seeded No. 4, started slowly but overpowered Alvaro Betancur of Colombia 7-6, 6-0 in a first-round match.

"He has the best serve in tennis," said Rick Fisher of top-seeded Roscoe Tanner after Tanner disposed of him 6-1, 6-2 in a $75,000 Grand Prix tournament at New Orleans.

Fifth-seeded Vic Amaya also advanced to today's quarter-finals by defeating Lito Alvarez 6-1, 6-2.

In other top singles matches, second-seeded Dick Stockton beat Marcelo Lara

6-3, 6-4 and sixth-seeded Brian Teacher beat Trey Walkie 6-2, 6-2.

Top-seeded Eddie Dibbs has moved into the third round of the $75,000 international tennis tournament at Mt. Cranmore Stadium.

Dibbs overpowered Van Winitzky Wednesday, 6-1, 6-0.

In the tournament's first match involving two seeded players, No. 7 Wojtek Fibak of Poland eliminated No. 10 Arthur Ashe 6-6, 6-4, 6-1.

In other second-round matches Wednesday, defending champion John Alexander of Australia, the No. 9 seed, downed Chris Sylvan 6-4, 6-2; second-seeded Brian Gottfried beat Pat DuPre 7-5, 6-3; No. 3 seed Manuel Orantes of Spain downed Mike Fishback 6-1, 6-0.

Western Texas Signs Golfer From Monterey

SNYDER (Special)—Bruce Northcutt, the Monterey High School golfer of the year last season, has signed a golf letter-of-intent with Western Texas College, coach Bob O'Day announced.

Northcutt was captain of the Monterey golf team last year and was named to the all-district and all-regional teams. He tied for sixth place in the state golf tournament last spring.

Also signing with WTC were Phil Kuss of Sweetwater, Ken Lawrence of Albany, Scott Barrett of Pampa, Brent Jacobs of Amarillo, Robert Harrison of Lindsay, Okla., and Mike Mahan of Midland.

Wright Grabs Playday Title

Doris Wright of Hillcrest Country Club fired a 74 to lead the pack at the South Plains Women's Golf Association monthly meet at HCC Wednesday.

Gale Hopkins, also from HCC, won the low net portion of the day-long event with a 10-under par 62.

Hillcrest continues to lead the team portion of the meet with a total of 1021, followed by Meadowbrook (1045), Lubbock Country Club (1083), Levelland (1090), Plainview (1095) and Tahoka (1112).

BASEBALL

NEW YORK — Pete Rose of the Cincinnati Reds, whose 44-game hitting streak was the second longest ever, was selected the National League's Player of the Month for July, league President Chub Feeney announced.

Rose's during July batted .379 on 44 hits in 118 at-bats, scored 17 runs and had eight runs batted in.

ROSEY — Rickey Henderson, center fielder of the Houston Astros, who won all four of his decisions in July and had a 1.29 earned run average, was named the National League's Pitcher of the Month.

NEW ORLEANS — Top-seeded Roscoe Tanner beat Rick Fisher 6-1, 6-2 in a $75,000 Grand Prix tennis tournament.

In other matches, fifth-seeded Vic Amaya whipped Lito Alvarez 6-1, 6-2 to advance to the singles quarter-finals. Sixth-seeded Brian Teacher also made it by beating Trey Walter 6-2, 6-2 and Dick Stockton beat Marco Lara 6-3, 6-4 in a first-round match.

NORTH CONWAY, N.H. — Top-seeded Eddie Dibbs overpowered Van Winchey 6-1, 6-1 in a second-round match at a $175,000 international tennis tournament at Mt. Cranmore Stadium.

Defending champion John Alexander of Australia, the No. 8 seed, dunned Chris Sylvan 6-4, 6-2. Second-seeded Brian Gottfried beat Pat DuPre 7-5, 6-3 and seventh-seeded Wojtek Fibak eliminated 10th-seeded Arthur Ashe 6-4, 6-4.

Third-seeded Manuel Orantes dunned Mike Fishback 6-1, 6-0 and fourth seed Corrado Barazzutti defeated Francisco Gonzalez 6-1, 6-2.

In other second round action, unseeded Tom Gulikson upset No. 15 seed Bob Lutz 7-5, 6-4; No. 5 seed Harold Solomon defeated Doug Palm 6-0, 6-1; Heinz Günthardt defeated Zeljko Franulovic 5-7, 7-5, 6-1; and No. 12 seed Tim Gulikson defeated Johann Kriek 6-2, 6-3.

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. — Guillermo Vilas beat Butch Seewagen 6-2, 6-0 in the $75,000 Grand Prix tournament at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club.

Rivera's John McEnroe moved into the quarter-finals with a 6-2, 4-4, 6-1 victory over Keith Richardson.

Third-seeded John Lloyd also advanced to the quarter-finals in the competition, beating John James 6-1, 6-0.

In other first-round matches, fourth-seeded Balazs Taroczy of Hungary defeated Alvaro Bonanura 7-4, 6-0; Peter McNamara dunned Eric Liker 6-3, 6-2; Paul McNamee eliminated Christophe Roger-Vasselin 7-6, 6-2; and Pat Connelley whipped Francois Jauffret 7-6, 6-2.

YACHTING

COPENHAGEN — Claude Jeandot of France won the third of six sailings for the 12th European Dinghy World Championships, but Sweden's Hans Wain retained his overall lead.

Jeandot was followed in second place by New Zealand's Peter Evans. Robert Moner of France came in third.

SAILING

MARSTRAND, Sweden — West Germany's John Pudent and Ulrich Kihmann won the third race of the world class sailing championship.

Canadians Jerry Routs and Charles Robitaille were second. David Ullman and Tom Linksey of Newport Beach, Calif., placed fourth after Sweden's Tom Lotstedt and Anders Castelfors. Ullman-Linksey has the overall lead with 19.4 points.

SOCCER

OSLO, Norway — Two American teams entered in the Norway Cup, the world's biggest soccer tournament, both won their third straight victories to become winners of their preliminary groups.

Pleasanton Elite Girls of Pleasanton, Calif., beat the Norwegian Heimdal club 3-0. Diamond Bar Boys of Los Angeles beat Norwegian Team Aamot 3-1.

ARCHERY

OXFORD, Ohio — Darrell Pace and Luann Ryan led their respective divisions in the opening round of the 8th annual National Target Tournament.

Pace had a 6-1 total for the first day's shooting for a comfortable margin over Mike Gerard, who had a 5-8 total. Richard Bedner had a 5-8.

Ryan posted a 6-1 total to lead the women's division. Irene Daubenspeck shot a 6-6, while Lynette Johnson shot a 6-2 for third place.

Heshi Beads Wins Soggy Ruidoso Sprint

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. (Special)—Heshi Beads enjoyed the soggy going in Wednesday's feature sprint at Ruidoso Downs and splashed down the straightaway to a nose victory.

Heshi Beads was ridden by Carlos Rivas for Thomas Riley of Burnet. The chestnut filly toured the wet six furlongs in 1:16 2/5 and refunded $9, $3.80, and $3.

The aptly named gelding, What A Splash, looked like a winner at the head of the lane but was unable to fend off Heshi Beads' closing attack. What A Splash, directed by Salustio Burgos, returned $3.60, and $3. Bin Dancing, who was prominent in the early going, came in third for a $2.60 show price.

Caulkins, Linehan Break Marks

THE WOODLANDS (AP) — Teen-age women swimmers Tracy Caulkins, Kim Linehan and Cynthia Woodhead are taking up the same record-breaking chorus at the Amateur Athletic Union Long Course Championships that they played in April at the AAU Short Course meet.

And the East German women likely are listening.

Miss Caulkins and Miss Linehan set world records previously held by East Germany Wednesday night and Miss Woodhead issued a warning that the U.S. women are serious about international swimming competition.

"We don't care if the East Germans are taking steroids or lifting weights or what, we're not afraid of them," Miss Woodhead said after setting a meet record in the preliminaries of the women's 400-meter freestyle.

Miss Linehan, 14, reeled off a world record of 4:07.66 in the finals of the 400 freestyle and Woodhead, who was on a world record pace early in the race, finished second.

Miss Caulkins, the 15-year-old Nashville, Tenn., schoolgirl, followed with a world record of 2:15.09 in the 200 individual medley.

"I'd like to go to the World Championships and break the record again," said Miss Linehan, the 1976 Junior Olympic champion in the event. "I'd at least like to see someone from the U.S. break it."

U.S. Experts Trying To Save Mexican Turtle

WASHINGTON (AP) — American experts are trying to save a vanishing Mexican turtle — near extinction because Mexicans who value its eggs as an aphrodisiac have been swiping them as fast as the reptile lays them.

Roe from the Atlantic Kemp Ridley Turtle, given to hatching its young only on a Mexican Gulf Coast beach, are now on the Mexican black market, says Dr. Kenneth Dodd, one of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service herpetologists trying to save the species.

So serious is the problem — the 2,500 known Kemp Ridelys are one-hundredth of the world's estimated 1947 population — that the Mexican Army is standing guard at the turtles' Rancho Nuevo hatching grounds to keep love-hungry egg snatchers away.

"The Kemp Ridley turtle is the most endangered reptile in the world," Dodd said in an interview Wednesday. "Most of the decline of the species has been due to poaching."

Despite the protection, says one U.S. official, convoys of avid Mexicans scour the beach for the buried eggs. Others wind up trapped in shrimp boats' nets.

Turtle eggs as an aphrodisiac are valued in other cultures, including parts of the southwest United States, Dodd says, although there is no evidence they have any special power.

As part of the U.S. aid to Mexico, the Coast Guard earlier this year flew about 2,000 eggs from Rancho Nuevo to an island off Texas, where several agencies are battling to save the rare reptile.

Scientists also hope the turtles will remember Padre Island National Seashore, where the eggs are hatching, and come back to nest in several years.

Meanwhile, the Mexicans are hoping stricter laws and vigorous enforcement will continue to slow the decline of the Kemp Ridley population at Rancho Nuevo.

Padre Island resembles Rancho Nuevo. It has a long, unpopulated stretch of beach, edged in warm water and protected by the U.S. Park Service.

The seashore's superintendent, John Turney, is awaiting the birth of a batch expected Friday.

One group of eggs has already hatched. "We succeeded in hatching 787 eggs out of 961," Turney says.

After breaking out of the eggs, the hatchlings — shiny, black and about the size of a half dollar — sit on the beach and soak up the sun.

"They'll sit in the warmth to gather strength. Then they scurry out to sea," Turney says, where another danger awaits.

"Birds, crabs and other predators usually mob them," says Dodd.

So the hatchlings are scooped up and delivered to tanks of sea water for nine months.

When they are finally strong enough, the baby turtles are set free off Florida in Gulf waters turtles are known to frequent.

Then the real anxiety sets in.

Will the female Kemp Ridelys swim across the Gulf to Padre Island or head for Rancho Nuevo, where their only future may be as a raw aphrodisiac appetizer?

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You have a strong independent streak which normally serves you well. Tomorrow, however, this could turn into just plain, old-fashioned stubbornness.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you fall heir to some unexpected additional tasks tomorrow, don't make them seem tougher than they really are. You can manage them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're far too sensible to believe you can get something for nothing, yet tomorrow you'll bank your hopes on that erroneous idea.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) More than most people, you should know that being too dictatorial provokes an unpleasant response that is difficult to contend with, so don't do it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Pay special attention to details tomorrow. You're apt to be in one of your absentminded moods and do something forgetful — like locking your keys in the car.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be prepared for the unexpected in commercial dealings tomorrow, especially if friends are involved, or a misunderstanding might result.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Using pressure tactics to get another to comply with your wishes won't work out at all. At the first opportunity, he or she will leave you high and dry.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) No matter how cleverly you try to disguise that neglected work, you'll be discovered. It takes less effort to do the task than to find a cover-up.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A relationship with a close friend is under more strain than you realize. Root out the underlying problem. Discuss it openly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You could behave like a jumping jack tomorrow in making decisions. Unless you settle down, you'll lose sight of your original objective.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If your projects are not well-thought-out, you could cause confusion for yourself and all your coworkers as well.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't get yourself involved in another's complicated affairs. Think twice before making loans, borrowing or advising.

Aug. 4, 1978

Look for a sudden halt to all that confusion that has been in your life lately. This coming year promises to liberate you so that you'll once again have control.

Ag Appropriation Bill Faces Veto If 'Excessive'

By BRIAN B. KING
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee generally has gone along with the Carter administration on the funding of farm and food-aid programs in the year that begins Oct. 1 but a veto threat still hangs over the bill.

When the Senate takes up the fiscal year 1979 appropriations bill for the Agriculture Department and food agencies elsewhere, it will be proposed spending of almost $23.6 billion — not quite double this year's $12.9 billion.

It will also see that the House approved $18.4 billion.

But, the Senate committee noted in its report Wednesday, the House did not even consider $5 billion in new borrowing authority recently requested for the Commodity Credit Corp.

It also had not received President Carter's request that 25 new watershed projects be fully funded in the 1979 budget rather than having their cost "disguised" — spread out over several years.

When that is taken into account, the Senate bill is $121 million less than the House version but "a prudent" $272 million more than Carter wanted, the committee said.

Administration budget officials have passed along veto threats for any approriations bill going over his proposals.

All but about $5 billion of the money is for price-support and other farm-income programs, food-stamp aid and such subsidized nutritional programs as school lunches.

The Senate panel did make most of the changes Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland practically begged for in the House bill.

The Senate bill, for example, would again allow him to ban from the school breakfast program the fortified grain and fruit products known as "super-doughnuts."

The Senate bill, like the House one, continues $3.5 million in funds for tobacco-production research Carter tried to kill. But it also continues a year-old program of competitive grants to scientists outside the traditional complex of land-grant colleges and department laboratories that the House would have ended.

It also calls for rolling back House-passed increases in spending for experimental solar farms, urban gardening projects and farmer-to-consumer direct marketing programs.

Because so many pet projects of individual senators and groups didn't make it into the bill, a floor fight is expected, committee aides say.

The final appropriations picture still will be the work of a House-Senate conference committee, where the dominant

Grasshopper Hunt Rescues Rangeland

Lionie Arnold of Lubbock was up to his eyebrows in grasshoppers during a recent two-week program that rid nearly 300,000 acres of Panhandle rangeland of the hungry, hopping critters.

Arnold, a Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) entomologist, was among the 16 TDA and U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) personnel who started fighting grasshoppers July 5 and did not stop until July 19.

By the time they had finished, around 99 per cent of the insects which had infested ranges in Ochiltree, Hansford, Sherman and Lipscomb counties were dead.

"The program saved millions of dollars," said Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown. "Without it the grasshoppers would have eaten all the grass and the ranchers would have had to sell their cattle or buy feed."

Land in the four counties was hosting 40 to 50 grasshoppers per square yard. Only eight per square yard were necessary for the land to become eligible under the cost sharing program.

The TDA, the USDA and the ranchers who participated each paid 36 cents an acre.

Usually the grasshopper hatch is held down by rains that rot the eggs and parasites that eat them. A long dry spell, however, permitted an unusually high hatch which has been eating its way across parts of Texas, Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska and Wyoming all summer.

Though grasshoppers prefer grass and weeds, once they have eaten the supply they move on to whatever is available — anything from stalks of grain to tender tree bark. The Panhandle ranchers were especially threatened because the grass on their range was the grasshoppers' first choice.

The TDA and USDA personnel who participated in the clean-up were on the job before sunrise. They rose at 4 a.m. and drove 30 or 40 miles each day to the destination from a base in Perryton.

Aerial applications began as soon as the sun rose. Though the fields had been marked with flags at their boundaries, the men on the ground were there as a double-check to signal the pilots if a wrong approach was made.

Through the morning they kept in contact with the planes by radio.

The range was sprayed with eight ounces of malathion per acre, an amount that has been called safe in the environment. No cropland was eligible under the program.

To insure against pesticide drift, spraying continued only until the wind reached 12-15 miles per hour. Once the heat became intense, spraying stopped also.

Thermal heat waves in the summer catch the pesticide and move it. Spraying usually lasted until late morning.

In the afternoon the men went back into the fields to estimate the grasshopper count. If only one jumped up a square yard as the men moved through, they figured that 99 per cent had been killed.

They also marked off new boundaries for the next day's spraying. By the end of the two weeks, 292,608 acres had been treated. The men worked through the weekends until the job was completed.

Brown said the program is over for this year. The funds have run out.

Besides, he said, "You must spray before the grasshopper reaches maturity and lays its eggs." And that point is past now.

'Gay Bob' Doll Now On Sale

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 13-inch male doll who wears an earring and a plaid flannel shirt open to the waist has come out of the closet.
He's "Gay Bob," the world's first homosexual doll, now being sold in novelty stores in his very own cardboard closet for $15 — except to minors.
The doll's creator, 37-year-old Harvey Rosenberg of Manhattan, admits he designed the doll "to make a lot of money," but says Gay Bob really is a symbol of male liberation.
"Whether you're straight or gay, everyone needs to come out of the closet, to live more openly and freely," Rosenberg said.
"What's next for the inventor?"
"Starting next year we'll be selling Gay Bob's parents, Fat Pat and Heavy Harry," Rosenberg said. "They will come packed in a refrigerator, which is the symbol of obesity to fat people."

Plane Crash Kills Senate Candidate

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Richard Obenshain, 42, the articulate nominee of Virginia Republicans for the U.S. Senate race, has been killed in the fiery crash of a light plane outside Richmond, according to party officials.

Two others aboard the twin-engine Piper Seneca also were killed when the aircraft crashed and burned late Wednesday in woods a mile and a half from the Chesterfield County airport.

The tragedy came almost exactly two years after the Aug. 3, 1976, small plane crash which killed U.S. Rep. Jerry Litton, D-Mo. Litton had been on his way to Kansas City to celebrate winning the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate. Also killed were his wife, their two children, the pilot and the pilot's son.

Obenshain, former co-chairman of the Republican National Committee and state Republican chairman, was returning home from a campaign appearance at Winchester, in northwestern Virginia.

With him were the pilot, identified as Richard Neel of Alexandria, and a flight instructor who had not been identified early today.

Police said all three bodies were burned beyond recognition, but grieving aides at Republican state headquarters here said there was no doubt about their identities. Republican party leaders across Virginia were notified that Obenshain was dead.

Autopsies were to be performed today. Obenshain was opposing Democrat Andrew Miller, a former state attorney general, in the Nov. 7 election for the Senate seat being vacated by retiring Republican Sen. William Scott. Miller announced he was suspending his campaign activities for "the immediate future."

Republican spokesmen said party rules call for a new GOP candidate to be chosen by the state Republican Central Committee.

OSHA Officials Surprised, Upset By Senate Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor Department officials, caught off guard by a Senate vote to free many small businesses from safety and health regulations, say the move would deprive millions of workers of their "fundamental human rights."

But backers of the proposal, adopted Wednesday as the Senate voted to reauthorize Small Business Administration programs, say it will ease the regulatory burden small businesses must bear.

"I think it's very tragic and somewhat shortsighted," Occupational Safety and Health Administration spokesman Frank Greer said after the vote.

"It would seem it is a basic denial of fundamental human rights to deny workers protection because they work in small businesses."

But Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., who voted for the provision, said it was necessary because "very small businesses don't have ... the wherewithal and the auditors and everything else to go along with these particular regulations."

The proposal, sponsored by Sen. Dewey Bartlett, R-Okla., would mean that businesses with 10 workers or less in a non-hazardous industry would no longer be subject to inspection by OSHA officials.

Labor Department officials said the change would affect about 10 million workers.

Precise figures on the number of businesses that would be exempt were unavailable. But Tom Wasinger, an aide to Bartlett, estimated that more than two million firms would no longer be subject to OSHA jurisdiction.

Wasinger said small wholesale and retail operations, as well as real estate offices, insurance companies and financial institutions were the types of businesses that would be exempt.

Small construction companies, mining operations and manufacturing firms still would be subject to inspections, he said.

The amendment was approved on a voice vote after opponents failed, 42-51, to table the provision.

The House of Representatives, which earlier passed SBA legislation, did so without including the OSHA provision. A House-Senate conference committee will be appointed to reconcile the differences.

The Senate action was the most visible evidence of long-simmering congressional antagonism toward OSHA, which has

Senate Goes Along With Debt Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Nebr., said it was "not a happy occasion" but agreed with Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., that it had to be done.

So the Senate voted 62 to 31 Wednesday to approve a bill raising the legal limit of the national debt to a temporary $798 billion through next March 31. The House had already approved the measure, and it now goes to President Carter. As Curtis said, "It's a vote to pay the bills the government owes."

long been accused of insensitivity to the problems of small businesses.

Agency officials have moved in recent months to lighten the requirements made on the owners of small businesses. For example, firms with 10 employees or less are exempt from record-keeping requirements. And 95 percent of OSHA inspections are now made in industries with the most serious health and safety problems.

Despite the changes, one official attributed the Senate vote to "the fact that people are continuing to take potshots at OSHA and won't give it a chance to work."

Also despite the agency's unpopularity, officials were caught off guard by Bartlett's amendment.

While one source said department officials learned Monday night that Bartlett planned to offer his proposal, the bill was not expected to reach the floor until next week.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall and OSHA head Dr. Eula Bingham, as well as aides, telephoned senators in an unsuccessful effort to defeat the proposal, said one official, who asked not to be identified.

The SBA legislation, which cleared the Senate by voice vote, authorizes spending an estimated $2.3 billion in operating expenses and loans and an additional $8.9 billion in loan guarantees.

The measure also continues the government's low-cost loan program for the victims of disasters, although the interest rate was raised to slightly more than 6.5 percent, the government's cost of borrowing.

Loans have been available in the current financial year for as little as 1 percent for the first $10,000 of a personal disaster loan and 5 percent for the first $250,000 of a business loan.

Tax Credit Debate Nears

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the approach of Senate debate on tuition tax credits, the administration and the sponsors of a competing measure are maneuvering to strengthen their positions in the fight.

The plan to give tax credits to people who pay tuition to colleges, private and parochial schools has come under heavy attack from the administration, which is pushing its own plan of increased aid to education.

The administration's case was bolstered with votes against the tax-credit bill by the Senate appropriations and budget committees.

Sponsors of the tax credit legislation, including Sens. Daniel Moynihan, D-

N.Y., Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., William Roth, R-Del., and Robert Packwood, R-Ore., planned to fight back today by announcing changes.

"I understand that the sponsors plan to offer amendments with substantial reductions in the cost of the bill," said Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan.

President Carter has vowed to veto the tax-credit bill, saying its cost will rise substantially in the future.

The measures represent two different philosophies of financing education. The administration is proposing a $1.4 billion increase in direct grants to schools in 1979.

THE PLAINS EXPRESS BANK

22 Tellers: 18 motor bank lanes, 4 commercial windows and another Teller 24.

Plains National is growing. Since our charter was granted in 1955, we've launched four major construction projects to keep pace with our growing list of customers.

The newest building is the Plains EXPRESS bank — a drive up / drive thru banking facility across 50th Street from our main building. The EXPRESS bank is just what you'd expect: it's a place for fast, efficient banking service. There are 18 motor bank lanes and space for almost 200 automobiles. There are 4 commercial windows inside for change and deposits. And the bank's second Teller 24: the automated teller that can cash a check, accept a deposit or transfer funds every day of the week, every hour of the day and night, 365 days a year.

When you need fast banking service, come to the EXPRESS bank. When you need a bank, come to Plains.
