Leftist demands met, 2-day stand-off ends

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) -The government agreed today to end a two-day stand-off with guerrillas besieged in Nicaragua's National Palace by providing ransom money and a safe flight out of the country for the guerrillas and freed political prisoners, a presidential spokesman said.

Justo Garcia, a spokesman for President Anastasio Somoza, said the leftist guerrillas released 200 hostages they had held since Tuesday but planned to take five hostages with them out of the country, apparently three Roman Catholic churchmen and two diplomats.

He said the guerrillas would fly out later this morning, reportedly for Panama and Venezuela. Garcia said he believed the guerrillas had agreed to accept a $5 million ransom, half their original demand.

There was no immediate confirmation of the release of hostages from the Red Cross, which has been monitoring the situation

Garcia said three planes, including a Venezuelan air force C-130 transport, were waiting at Nicaragua's Las Mercedes International Airport to fly the guerrillas, believed to number 100, their five captives, and the prisoners out of the country

There was no official word of how many freed prisoners would be flown out of this Central American nation, but a Venezuelan report put the number at 150.

Garcia said the guerrillas wanted the ransom money in five parts, four checks and $1 million in cash. The cash was to be given to members of the "Rogoberto Lopez Perez" commando group, the name taken by the guerrillas who stormed the palace Tuesday. Lopez Perez was the assassin of President Somoza's father, former President Anastasio Somoza Sr. The guerrillas had said three Catholic bishops and the Panamanian and Costa Rican ambassadors, who had been negotiating with them, must go along as guarantees of safety. The guerrillas, members of the Sandinista National Liberation Front. had freed about 300 hostages in groups Wednesday.

The Sandinistas shot their way into the National Palace while the Chamber of Deputies was in session Tuesday afternoon, killing eight persons, most of them National Guard officers, and wounding 15 others.

In addition to freedom for political prisoners and the ransom money, the guerrillas demanded the broadcast of a statement of charges against the Somoza regime. There was no word of

Among the hostages still held were Somoza's cousin Luis Pallais Debayle, who is deputy speaker of the lower house, and the president's nephew Jose Somoza Abrego, who is the son of the acting commander of the national guard.

About 500 persons were taken hostage when the guerrillas occupied the building. On Wednesday morning, they freed 110 women and children, a condition the government set for opening negotations, and turned over the dead and wounded. More were let out during the day, and late in the evening 150 were released.

Some of those freed said there was little food inside the white-columned, four-story building, but there was plenty of water. The palace was ringed by members of the National Guard, Nicaragua's army, and the city's streets were heavily patrolled.

DALLAS - West Texas bail bonding companies and many others across the country are being investigated by the Federal Trade Commission for possible violations of federal laws governing consumer protection and fair trade practices.

The nation's bail bond industry is the target of what could be an intensive investigation by the FTC, according to officials.

But Somoza's grip was not threatened until after the assassination Jan. 10 of one of his most outspoken foes, publisher Pedro Joaquin Chamorro. The killing touched off riots, strikes and other demonstrations against the government, calls for Somoza's resignation and continuous unrest. Finally, the U.S. government abandoned the dictatorship it had supported for years as a bulwark against communism in Central America. But the 52-year-old president refused to step down and said he would stay in office until his term

Merchandise carried at Handy Dan includes almost everything one might need to build a house - including plumbing needs, electrical supplies, lumber, building materials, floor coverings, ceiling materials, roofing, doors and windows, paints, power tools and security items. Also stocked are housewares, art and craft items and supplies, garden and lawn-care needs and live plants.

The Handy Dan organization, which began in Texas just 10 years ago, has grown to a chain of 68 stores. Presently there are units in Dallas, Fort Worth, Waco, San Antonio, Brownsville, Corpus Christi and Austin. Outof-state stores include those in Indiana, Missouri, Oklahoma, Colorado, Kansas and Nebraska. Handy Dan's sister chain, Angels Home Improvement Centers, operates stores in California and Arizona.

Participating in the 10 a.m. Sunday opening ceremony will be Handy Dan executives, joined by Midland city officials. The event is open to the public. Participating in the opening ceremony will be Ed Kerley's hot air balloon, an eight-story-high beauty which will be on the Handy Dan parking lot Sunday. Weather and winds permitting, the balloon will be flown during the day.

All departments within the new Midland Handy Dan will be participating in a grand opening sale for the next several days to celebrate the store's opening.

Fat Albert and friends create neighborhood stir

The elephant's-trunk snake, so named due to its rough, flabby and dark skin, is short of comeliness. And that, Mrs. Smith said, is part of the snake's appeal to Ricky. Fat Albert is an attention-getter.

"Most of the kids in the neighborhood are not afraid of them (snakes), but the adults are.

'My mother-in-law (Christine Smith) won't "come in here," Mrs.

Daughter Lollie, 7, though not the snake fan her brother is, can live with the pets. "I touch it," she said of Fat Albert.

"But I don't hold it." Ricky bought Fat Albert for $20 last spring from Mark Whittle, a high school student who is considering being a herpetologist, Mrs. Smith said. She said the youth got the snake via air freight from California. It cost him $40. Apparently, he got bored with flabby Fat Albert and gave him up, Ricky's mom said.

The Smiths have had other pets, but the snakes seem to be the least troublesome. "They don't have to be fed but once a week. They don't smell. They're not noisy, and if you can get used to them

"We've had dogs and cats and mice," Mrs. Smith said. "But the kids enjoy them (snakes) more, and they're the least amount of trouble. Since they only eat once a week, they don't go to the bathroom very often.' And since they swallow their food whole and "don't chew their food up, they're not messy," Mrs. Smith said. The Smiths buy goldfish for Fat

Albert, but he won't eat: They're looking for spiders and caterpillars to feed String Bean.

They buy pinkies (baby mice) for the young hog nose to feast on and occasionally find a toad for the snake. And the larger bull snake gets to eat a 79-cent mouse once a week.

At first, Ricky and Lollie were upset by watching the snakes attack, kill and devour the mice. But that's nature's way.

"The kids have adjusted to that," their mother said. "It's not the traumatic thing it was at first. We just have not to get attached (to the The youngsters did get attached to

Juvenile Court Judge James Lacey said a removal order was recommended five months ago, but no action was taken because authorities were unable to find a home for the children.

Juvenile Court Registrar Prentice Edwards said the children's plight was "an extreme situation...and should have resulted in a removal order. "We issue removal orders in cases when the children have merely been left alone, without any of the extreme conditions that exist in this case," he said.

Tough ratification effort seen for DC voting bill

By W. DALE NELSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — California may soon become the first state to ratify full congressional representa-tion for the nation's capital, but the outlook in other legislatures is

Prospects for the proposed constitutional amendment generally ap-pear brighter in the larger, more urban states, a survey of officials and legislators by The Associated Press

Officials in some smaller states, meanwhile, were indifferent or hostile to the proposal, which would give the District of Columbia's 700,000 residents two senators and at least one representative.

Who knows? Who cares?" asked Raymond Rizzo, an aide to Indiana's Republican Gov. Otis R. Bowen.

"Why should the West give more votes to the East?" asked Montana Gov. Thomas Judge, a Democrat. In Albany, N.Y., however, Richard

Roth, a spokesman for Republican Senate Majority Leader Warren Anderson, said, "We'd be delighted to have the extra representation in Congress. The interests of urban states are all the same." On Tuesday the Senate passed the amendment, already approved by the House, 67-23 - just one vote more than needed. It must be ratified by 38 states within seven years to become part of the Constitution. Melanie Woolston, assistant director of the Coalition for Self-Determination for D.C., said the California

House was expected to vote this week and the state Senate may follow next In Sacramento, state Senate President Pro Tempore James Mills and Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy, both Democrats, predicted the legis-lature would ratify the measure.

John J. Callahan of the National Conference of State Legislatures said lawmakers in Michigan, Pennsylva-nia, New Jersey and New York are expected to be in session next month. He said all legislatures except Kentucky's meet next year.

"It's going to be a tough fight for the amendment" said Callahan. "If partisan or regional considerations crop up, it may have tough sled-

The proposed amendment got a boost Wednesday when AFL-CIO President George Meany wrote state labor organizations, urging them to devote their "full resources and best efforts" to its ratification. He suggested they form coalitions with civil rights, women's, religious and consumer groups.

Reactions from state capitals in-Washington: Gov. Dixy Lee Ray, a Democrat, said, "Ratification would appear questionable in Washington unless organized support is developed to assist it."

New Hampshire: Republican Gov. Meldrim Thomson said he doesn't

Minnesota: Jack Davies, a Democrat and chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said the chances for ratification are good.

Maryland: Acting Gov. Blair Lee III, a Democrat, said he thinks chances are "fairly good" and that he supports the proposal.

Missouri: Democratic House Speaker Kenneth Rothman said the proposal "has almost no local impact here" and he foresaw no obstacles to

Behind the idea is Ocala, Fla., promoter Danny O'Day, who has had a plastic surgery patient under contract before. O'Day wouldn't reveal how much he paid for the operations, but says he plans future surgeries to create look-alikes for Otis Redding, Jimi Hendrix, Mama Cass Elliott and Bobby Darin.

O'Day, 30, and his five latest actor-singers gathered Wednesday in suburban Studio City to promote their concert next month at the Greater Southern Fair '78 in Atlanta, Ga.

Hoping to look like Elvis are Jesse Bolt, 31, of Salisbury, N.C., and his girlfriend, Erin Rhyne, 23, of Charotte, N.C.; portraying Jim Croce is Marc Hazebrouck, 28, of Woonsocket, R.I.; the Janis Joplin look-alike is Ramona Caywood Moore, 27, of San Diego, and Jim Morrison of the rock group "Doors" is Duke O'Connell, 29, of Washington, D.C.

Last winter, O'Day signed a contract with Danny Wise, 21, of Joplin, Mo., who was restructured to look like Presley. However, Wise's act at a Miami nightclub failed and he has filed suit to get out of his contract with O'Day.

The five underwent surgery last weekend at a major Miami hospital, whose name O'Day said he couldn't reveal. O'Day also said four of the five surgeons he'd contracted to perform the operations had canceled. "I had to promise to keep everything a secret so the last surgeon wouldn't Hazebrouck said he'd often been mistaken for the late folk-singer Croce. "I really like his music - 1 always have. Our backgrounds are very similar. I've been doing a great deal of research on him and feel I really know him."

Janis Joplin-impersonator Miss Moore said the singers were still themselves.

"We're not trying to be morbid by having these operations," Miss Moore said. "We're just into them and their music. Janis has always been a great folk hero to me, but I'm certainly not her. She was a very unhappy person. Not me, I'm really happy.

LONDON (AP) - Louise Joy Brown, the world's first "test-tube baby," made her debut on British

Film of her birth one month ago at Oldham General Hospital, 160 miles northwest of London, gave millions of Britons their first glimpse of the world-famous infant as she entered the world exercising a healthy pair of

A crew from Britain's Central Office of Information filmed the birth, and a two-minute segment was released to both the commercial Independent Television Network and British Broadcasting Corp. for today's Viewers saw Louise's previously infertile mother, Lesley Brown, wheeled into the delivery room. The actual birth by Caesarean section was edited out, but the baby was seen being carried from the mother and being bathed and then weighed.

The baby's 31-year-old mother and her truck-driver father, John, 38, also made a rare television appearance. The family has sold exclusive rights for their story to a London newspaper and other reporters have been denied

Mrs. Brown said Louise has gained 1 pound, 13 ounces since birth and now weighs 7 pounds, 9 ounces. Louise has been settling in fine, Mrs. Brown said, adding, "We just put her to bed. She's Steptoe, in cap, gown and mask, described Louise's arrival as it happened - at 11:47 p.m. July 25.

"It's a girl as was expected," he said matter-of-factly, adding, "The baby's in pretty good condition." One of his assistants noted that

Noted photojournalist in fight for life after stroke

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — When internationally acclaimed photojournalist W. Eugene Smith agreed to join the University of Arizona faculty as a visiting professor, it was an attempt at a fresh start.

Now, after a stroke, Smith is once again fighting for a new life.

Smith, 59, received a joint appointment to the departments of art and journalism, and agreed to donate his archives, collected over 46 years, to the university's Center for Creative Photography.

A poll taken in 1958 by Popular Photography magazine named Smith one of the world's 10 best photographers, and in 1975 he reached a milestone in his career with publication of 'Minamata," the story of a Japanese fishing village whose residents became ill from industrial wastes dumped into the water.

His pictures have appeared in Life magazine, the New York Times, Colliers and Harper's Bazaar. His works include "Country Doctor," "Nurse Midwife" and "Man of Mercy," on the life of Dr. Albert Schweitzer.

Smith joined the university last November, and a month later suffered the crippling stroke while undergoing routine medical tests.

"There are times I would have preferred to be dead," Smith said in an interview in his cluttered, modest home. "Many times about 3 or 4 o'clock in the morning I would lie there and try to figure out why I couldn't walk. I fought with all the power I had to straighten my legs."

The stroke left him near death, almost voiceless, partially paralyzed and unable to walk.

Smith, however, is known for his stubbornness, and has bounced back from adversity before. Indeed, he disregarded warnings and attended a photographic seminar in Tempe in March, still confined to a wheelchair. His presence, as well as his appearance, shocked other participants. But he can now walk with a cane and said the day he regained the use of his legs marked "one of the greatest efforts of my life." His voice, occasionally slurred, has returned, and he used it in public for the first time since his stroke only recently, when he met with a handful of art students. He said he plans to return to teaching in the fall.

Smith injured his back as a boy in Wichita, Kan., and was told he would never walk again. In 1942 he was hurt inea dynamite blast while he photographed simulated battle conditions. And three years later he was hit by shell fire on Okinawa while shooting

"24 Hours With Infantryman Terry Moore." Two years of operations and treatments followed.

During the two years of his work on "Minamata," he ate the same poisoned fish as the village residents, a practice friends blame for some of his recent health problems. He has been beaten twice and the combination of events has caused physical impair-

But he said his work will continue, although his first attempt to take a photograph - with his three cats as subjects - failed. He was unable to hold the camera steady.

"I am ready - I am just looking for the right theme," Smith said. "I've made people realize the dangers of war and the foolishness of racial segregation, and that's enough reason

The bill would require the courts to hear cases even though the grievance was one shared by many other persons; the plaintiff's injury was only indirectly caused by the defendant: and the plaintiff could not prove with certainty that winning the case would solve his problem.

"The intentions of the bill are good, but its aim is well off the mark," Douglas wrote in a letter to Metzenbaum and Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., both co-sponsors.

He suggested the law should simply say: "There is a conclusive presumption of proper standing for all citizens who file suit in federal courts against their government.

"By using this language there can be no room for denying standing to citizens in suits against their government," Douglas wrote. "It is as clearas a day without smog."

An aide to Metzenbaum said Douglas was one of many persons to whom the bill was sent with an invitation to comment. He said it was not sent to the current justices of the Supreme

Jarvis due back pushing tax plan

LANSING, Mich. (AP) - California tax cut guru Howard Jarvis was due back in Michigan today to stump for a state slashing proposal and push his plans to form a nationwide tax reduction movement.

Jarvis, who led the successful campaign for California's Proposition 13, also was to participate in a debate tonight over the merits of tax cut proposals, according to Ken Nyquist, spokesman for the Tisch Coalition for Property Tax Cut in Michigan.

The coalition supports a ballot proposal to cut property taxes in half, similar to Proposition 13.

Jarvis' schedule called for an afternoon Detroit news conference, followed by a trip to Spring Lake to debate Michigan State University professor Zolton Ferency, an event sponsored by the state Board of Edu-

Boren swears he's not gay

By JERRY SCARBROUGH

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - Gov. David Boren, his hand placed squarely on a Bible, swore Wednesday that he is not and never has been a homosexual.

A minor U.S. Senate candidate, Anthony Points, accused Boren of being a homosexual during the Democratic Senate primary campaign and another candidate, George Miskovsky, demanded that Boren state under oath whether or not he was a homosexuat the time the charge was aired, but he said he waited until after the primary election to make the denial under oath because he wanted to wait until his critics had been eliminated from the race.

Boren led the seven-man field in the primary election Tuesday and will face former U.S. Rep. Ed Edmondson in the Sept. 19 runoff primary. Miskovsky finished fifth and Points finished last.

"I do have a modicum of self respect," Boren said. "There's not a person in the state who would not resent these kinds of charges.

Camp David summit

President Carter has accepted the risk of failure at the summit when he meets with Menachem Begin and Anwar Sadat at Camp David the day after Labor Day.

vertising orders are accepted on this basis only

This is good. It took courage, but it was a necessary step in order to keep alive the peace hope engendered by Sadat's visit to Jerusalem last November.

The Jerusalem visit was unprecedented. This summit meeting on the Middle East is unprecedented. But unprecedented actions are required to break the deadlock of the status quo. There must be risk-taking by all parties in order to give peace a chance.

Those who would display their courage only on the battlefield will never succeed in making peace in the Middle East simply because no military solution is possible. Total victory can be ruled out as a possibility for either

The United States position has been, in effect, to guarantee the continued existence of a sovereign state of Israel by military aid, economic aid and firm pledges of support.

On the other hand, it has been the official position of the United States, ever since the 1967 war, that Israel eventually will have to relinquish control over the Arab lands occupied in that war. This is the position of the United Nations and it is the position of the U.S. government.

At stake are the territories of Gaza and the West Bank of the Jordan River - lands apportioned to the Arabs in the 1948 partition

The lands question lies at the center of the present impasse. We hope that with President Carter sitting at the negotiating table, some compromise can be worked out between the Arabs and the Israelis.

Both sides must be flexible. The compromise must protect the security of Israel's borders. But it cannot deprive the Arabs of the prospect of eventually regaining sovereignty over their lands.

Lesson in economics

The popularity of wage and price controls as reflected in public opinion polls truly is amazing.

The business community, labor unions and most economists oppose controls and history supports their opposition.

So why are wage and price controls so popular?

It can only be concluded that 53 percent of those polled recently by the Gallup organization favored controls because they mistake the symptoms of inflation for its cause.

Inflation causes wages and prices to rise, not the reverse. And what causes inflation? Mostly it is an increase in the money supply traceable to federal deficit spending; the Treasury borrows and prints more dollars to cover its overdrafts.

Wage and price freezes - witness their most recent application in 1971 - temporarily curb inflation's symptoms.

Such controls invariably cause shortages of all kinds and, when they are lifted, an explosion of pent-up inflationary pressure.

This is a lesson to which every American citizen should be ex-

Hot on trail of rip-off artists

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - Widespread and wanton welfare abuses at every level of government have helped trigger the taxpayer revolt. Property owners and tax defrayers are incensed that they keep filling a leaky bucket which spills a stream of wasted dollars before reaching the needy.

A startling number of welfare cheats, it now turns out, are federal workers who collect from the taxpayers with both hands. They have been found out by Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph Califano who last fall ordered a computerized crackdown on welfare

Computers are being used to match the federal payrolls against the welfare rolls. He has now received a confidential progress report which shows 32,655 federal employees have been drawing government pay and collecting welfare from the taxpayers at the same time. Of these doublegrubbers, some 5,776 are on the Government workers who are unconscionably ripping off the prosecuted. Some hardship cases may be required merely to repay the money. But some low-paid federal workers with large families are legitimately entitled to welfare assistance.

Califano's sleuths are now running down the double-grubbers through state welfare records to find out how many are cheating. Full reviews have been completed on 3,768 cases. Of these, 806 were ineligible for the welfare they were pocketing. Another 942 were entitled to welfare but were drawing too much.

If this sampling turns out to be typical, 46 percent of the federal workers on welfare are collecting improper payments. The remainder - 1,996 properly paid and another 24 actually underpaid - are entitled to their welfare checks.

"Each case removed from the rolls," HEW's inspector general reported to Califano, "saves about $2,000 annually, of which 55 percent is the federal share. We expect the project will yield total savings of about $12 million. Footnote: Welfare free-loaders also may be getting improper Medicaid

TELEPHONE CHISELERS: Ma Bell, known on the stock exchange as AT&T, is quick to cut off telephone service to subscribers who don't pay their bills. But if the delinquents happen to be members of Congress, the service is not interrupted and the taxpayers are stuck with the bills.

We've discovered from government files that 25 past and present congressmen are at least three months overdue in paying office telephone bills, even though they are given a limited long-distance allowance out of federal funds.

One of the chief offenders is Rep. Michael Harrington, D-Mass., who is retiring from the House at the end of this year. He owes a substantial $8,154.08, according to government records made available to us. A spokesman for the congressman insists Harrington is being dunned for "disputed" charges and "doesn't Harrington won't be the first member of Congress to stick the government for a phone tab upon leaving Washington. Former Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., ran up an unpaid bill of $1,767.28. The deadbeat list also shows the following exlegislators owe these amounts: Reps. John Dow, D-N.Y., $770.94;

Joseph Maraziti, R-N.J., $842.70; Roman Pucinski, D-Ill., $708.40; Philip Hayes, D-Ind., $728.39, and Burt Talcott, R-Calif., $671.39. Another oversight that turned up in the records was $64 owed by Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland from his days on Capitol Hill. Of the sitting congressmen, the heaviest in arrears is Rep. William Wampler, R-Va. He owes $2,473.54; which the records show he is paying off on the installment plan at $200 a month. Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y., is overdue to the tune of $2,183.40.

Rep. Charles Diggs, D-Mich., has run up $1,250.10 in unpaid phone calls. An office aide said Diggs was overcharged $700 but has paid $274 to reduce the indebtedness. Other current House members on the cuff

Science in the Public Interest, blasted the slide show in an angry letter as "nothing but pap." Some of the material "reads like something written by the food and chemical industries," the group complained. Some Food and Drug offices have also been handing out industry pamphlets without identifying their source, according to our informants, but the agency denies this.

New labeling regulations tell consumers more

By HARRY ANDERSON The Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES - New labeling regulations to give consumers more precise information from that region. about the origin of wines and the type of grapes used in them were announced by the federal government Tuesday.

The rules, established by the Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol. Other provisions restrict the industry's use of descriptive or qualitative terms on wine labels.

By LINDA DEUTSCH Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Around the corner from Hollywood, California's fashion establishment is previewing its dramatic new collection with a bow to the movies

Call it: goodbye Annie Hall, hello Joan Crawford — with a hint of "Saturday Night Fever" hanging on. In a glittering, disco-paced musical fashion show for the nation's buyers, the California Mart opened its holiday and resort market with movie-queen style Tuesday.

There were rhinestones and sequins, silks, satins and lots of skin. Remember the toreador pants of the '50s? They're back. So are skirts slit thigh-high and cheap paste jewelry on low-cut necklines

"The biggest change this season is the silhouette," says Pam Roberts, fashion director of the Mart. "Last season it was the big body.

Now, everything has gone directly back to the body. There's no more sloppy Annie Hall look.

"The most important things to note," says Miss Roberts, "are these Joan Crawford, Dorothy Lamour, glamor-girl things.

Ready-to-wear houses such as Climax and Disco Jeans showed clingy backless slip dresses with slits, plunging necklines and rhinestone straps. Big sheer blouses billowed over narrow ankle-hugging "disco

And there were flashes from the past - Hot Line's wide appliqued felt skirts straight out of "Grease" and J.J. Jensen's lounging suit with pedal pushers — a '50s special.

By DR. LAURA SCHLESSINGER Copley News Service

Marge sat with tears welling up in her already reddened eyes, arms tightly folded, fists clenched, one foot nervoulsy tapping the leg of her chair. Then, in a great burst of condemning fury, Marge blurted out what had been irritating her, hurting her and disappointing her throughout her 23year marriage.

'He just doesn't care about me. He never tries to do the things that please me. Other women's husbands seem to know what to do to make their wives happy — you know, the little things. But he just doesn't care enough to do

John's eyes popped open with confused surprise. "What things are these?'

Marge snapped back impatiently, "Well, if you really cared about me, if you really loved me, you would know!"

Marge had often observed her friends' husbands doing many "sweet little nothings" and wondered why her own supposedly loving husband didn't do these things for her. She couldn't understand why these other

This was the moment. This is a very romantic first tie for first-place notion ("We seem to be able to speak honors in the contest's without words.") with an expectation long history. sadly unrealistic.

Of course, with time in a The winners, Susan relationship people do learn about King, 17, of Encino, each other; they learn to anticipate Calif., and Gary emotional reactions and recognize signals asking for help, holding, lovemaking, discussion, etc. But the important aspect is embodied in the word "learn."

When people are in love, in an intimate relationship, there is no automatic mindmeld. People cannot know what is in each other's mind. What does happen is that each becomes committed and willing to listen and to respond to what is conveyed to them by their love partner.

What an awesome burden we place on our partner when we make them responsible for knowing, understanding and responding to our as equal winners based needs without our participation. It is on portfolios of 12 pholike attempting to translate an tographs put together to unidentified language.

The only tool is guesswork, which creative seeing in both inevitably leads to disappointment for one and frustration for the other.

Certainly in an arrangement which prizes mutual understanding and closeness, we cannot make anyone else responsible for our own happiness. We are each responsible for recognizing, accepting and revealing our needs to our loved ones so that the satisfaction of these needs can bring satisfaction to both.

Accepting our needs appears to be problematic for many people, and perhaps the guilt surrounding having needs and the fear of having our requests meet with disgust, annoyance or refusal keep us from asking each other for emotional and physical sustenance.

Often, partners say that having to ask each other for things of an emotional or physical nature is embarrassing, and perhaps even a bit scary. They are afraid of "seeming to be a nag" or of the very real possibility of being turned down.

We have to separate having a request rejected from having ourselves as a person rejected.

We too often see these as one and the same. Also, timing and manner are important when we are asking for or suggesting something of our loved one-we have to be aware of their feelings, too.

In every relationship, in every interaction, there is a certain element of risk involved when we let someone easily have access to our innermost thoughts, feelings and needs. But this is the only way we really can build a safe, secure, loving and enduring getting together? Expecting a big crowd for a fair weather celebration? Think fingerlicking barbecued chicken for a real crowd pleaser that's easy on the budget.

Plan a family gathering with chicken barbecue

Barbecued chicken, with that famous Party-Picnic touch, is always a family favorite. Cook it sweet and Simply sweet and saucy chicken is a luscious summery blend of pineapple preserves, dry white wine, orange juice, soy sauce and seasonings. And it's simple -- just brush it on while the chicken is sizzling over the coals.

The best cooked chicken is grilled over coals that have been allowed to reach the right temperature. Be sure to give yourself 20 - 40 minutes from the time you light the briquets before you begin to cook. It will take about that much time for the briquets to get medium-high. To light the briquets properly, stack them in a pyramid shape. Then use an electric charcoal starter or any of the other types such as liquid or solid fuel packs. Once the flames die down, just relax and let the briquets warm up. Never add more lighter fluid once the coals are lit.

To tame an occasional flare-up, move the chicken parts to one side of the grill. Use a long-handled barbecue utensil to push the coals to the other side of the grill. When handling chicken, use tongs to turn, rather than a fork which will prick the delicate

Top the meal off with another traditional outdoor favorite - charcoal grilled corn-on-the-cob. For a real charcoal taste, soak the corn in a bucket of cold water, husk and all, for about one-half hour before cooking. Shake the excess water off the corn and place damp corn directly on the grill. Try a pat of butter under the husk for a crackly, butter kernel. Or wrap dry corn in aluminum foil and place directly in coals until done.

Cajun cuisine features beans with Louisiana flair

By JO TUBB

Copley News Service Some of the most interesting food in the Deep South is Cajun cuisine.

Hot with pepper sauce and almost always eaten with rice, it is the manna of the French-speaking Acadians (Cajuns) who populate the southern half of Louisiana.

It is a world that includes such dishes as courtbouillon (often made with scavenger fish), couche-couche (similar to not-quite-done corn bread) and jambalaya.

There's also crawfish etoufee and sugary pecan pralines, the sweetness of which is cut only by thick chickory

On festive occasions, a suckling pig may be roasted on an outdoor spit so friends can come from miles around to enjoy the "cochon de lait."

Armadillos might be roadside pests in most states but in Louisiana they're considered delectable once they're barbecued

Rice dressing is served instead of french fries in many of south Louisiana's fast-food restaurants. Among the recipes from Cajun country is one for red beans and rice,

Potato chip tasted 125 years ago

Potato chips on silver platters? It does sound a bit far fetched. But, some people hold potato chips in rather high esteemthe Vanderbilt family for one. It was Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt who tasted the first batch of potato chips 125 years ago this month at Moon's Lake House restaurant in the resort town of Saratoga Springs, New chip's 125th birthday, chips are still being served with class by the Commodore's great-greatgranddaughter, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, who serves silver trays of potato tains.

Most people do love potato chips-so much that in the United States we eat 4.5 pounds of potato chips per capita each year. What started as a cottage industry 125 years ago with small batches of chips frying in family kitchens has grown to huge proportions, making potato chips the number one snack in the United States.

So popular are potato chips we consume 3.4 billion pounds of potatoes in the form of chips each year. That's 11 percent of all potatoes consumed in this country.

than just a snack however. They make a crunchy, flavorful ingredient in a variety of dishes, as Chicken and Potato Chip Dumplings demonstrates. This scrumptuous main dish combines a creamy chicken casserole with dumplings, enhanced by the flavor and crunch of potato chips. A simple and hearty supper dish, this casserole will make a

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - The state's key witness in the murder-forhire case against Cullen Davis testified today he could remember little of a pivotal meeting last spring with the millionaire industrialist.

"You can't pin it down as to the month, day of week, time of day, or whether or was light or dark, is that right?" the witness was asked.

'Yes sir, that is right," replied David McCrory during relentless cross-examination by lead defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes Haynes also questioned McCrory about a $5,000 payment McCrory contends Davis gave him last spring as a "advance for some investigative

Davis, 44, has been in Tarrant County Jail since his arrest Sunday on a charge of solicitation of capital murder in connection with a purported plot to have a professional gunman kill Joe Eidson, the presiding magistrate in the high-stakes divorce suit filed by Davis' wiife Priscilla four years ago.

McCrory, an employee of a Daviscontrolled firm, claims Eidson was one of 15 persons marked for execution by Davis. He has testified Davis asked him to arrange the killings, plot and became an informant. Wednesday's session purveyed some of the most incredible evidence vet introduced into the bond hearing that defense attorneys predict may last into the middle of next week. Spectators in a hushed courtroom listened as prosecutors played tape recordings of conversations allegedly between McCrory and Davis discussing the murder plans.

Prosecutors also showed a videotape of the pair meeting and more than a dozen still photographs of the two men in and around their parked cars at a Fort Worth parking lot. McCrory narrated the videotape as it was played in court. There are some technical imperfections on the tape, but the witness and defendant are easily identifiable.

The voice tapes were of two conversations - a telephone call early Sunday morning between McCrory and Davis about six hours before Davis' arrest, and another made as McCrory, wired for sound by the FBI. met Davis in a Fort Worth parking Haynes declined to attack the integrity of the recordings, saying "I have no reason to think it is not Cullen at this juncture." Smiling, he added, "I have no reason to think it is Cullen.

Information on the parking lot recording indicates that McCrory showed Davis a posed photo of Eidson in the trunk of a car, apparently the victim of a shotgun blast in the back. McCrory shows Davis Eidson's driver's license, Texas Bar identification card and the photo.

At that point, Davis asks, "What re you going to do with these?" McCrory: "I'm going to get rid of Davis: "Yeah. McCrory: "All right, I gotta go." McCrory said he then produced a .22-caliber pistol with a silencer on it and eventually put it into the car. In the videotape, McCrory is shown climbing out of the Davis' car and taking an envelope to his own car. The envelope allegedly contained the picture of the judge and the other identification cards. Davis is shown unlocking and raising his car trunk and McCrory returning from his car with a white towel that allegedly concealed the pistol and silencer. At another point:

District court Judge Arthur Tipps listens to testimony of David McCrory in a Fort Worth courtroom in this artist's sketch of Tuesday's bond hearing for millionaire Thomas Cullen Davis. Texas teenager dabbles in 'espionage' on trip

DALLAS (AP) — Barret Wissman recalls the feeling that swept over him when he realized the train carrying his vacationing family from Moscow to Leningrad had pulled away without him.

The Los Angeles Times NAIROBI, Kenya - President Jomo Kenyatta could have bequeathed his nation no finer farewell gift than that which Kenya enjoyed Wednesday - serenity.

The army was in the barracks, the volatility of tribal loyalties had not surfaced, the streets of Nairobi were again filling with traffic, the anxiety of those first few hours was fading. Everything, in fact, was remarkably Kenyatta, who died Tuesday at the age of 86, lay in state in the banquet room of his official residence here. Four scarlet-jacketed honor guards supported him. Two roses were placed by his head. Kenyatta, dressed in a gray pin-stripped suit, clutched the fly whisk and walking stick that had become his symbols.

The powerful Kenyatta family, including his fourth wife, Ngina, were gathered nearby as the foreign diplo-matic corps filed into the banquet room where British governors once entertained. Kenyatta's funeral is tentatively scheduled for Thursday,

Aug. 31. Perhaps because Kenyatta was so old and his health had played such tricks on him of late, his death resulted in surprisingly little outward sign of emotion among the Kenyans. Movie theaters and night clubs were ordered closed but otherwise there was no increased security, no deserted restaurants, no signs that anything was amiss or unusual.

And in Africa where power most often changes only at the point of the gun, the calmness represented a notable achievement. However early it is to predict, the smooth transfer of power at least augured well for the future of this prosperous, stable coun-

Many fears had been expressed in recent years that Kenyatta's death would plunge Kenya into tribal violence, would result in a destructive power play for authority or would release the resentment of the poor against the rich. He was the fiber that held the country together, the skeptics said, and without him Kenya would be torn by the same hatreds and selfishness that have destroyed so many other African governments.

Although there is no evidence to suggest that this reasoning is credible, the unfounded rumors that swept Nairobi Wednesday indicated the degree of uncertainty surrounding the Japanese diplomats called the U.S. Embassy to check a report that British troops had been landed at Mombasa. A group of American tourists extended their safari at one game park because they had heard there was rioting in Nairobi. One white resident of Karen, 10 miles from Nairobi, refused to drive into the capital for lunch because someone had told her there was tribal fighting along the Langatta Road.

"Basically people are just waiting to see what happens", said one Kenvan businessman. "Generally I think the mood is positive. People want to believe in the future in Kenya. We've built a country that works and it's to everyone's advantage to keep it working, economically, politically, every way." The constitution passed its first test Tuesday when Vice President Daniel T. Arap Moi was sworn in as president just 12 hours after Kenyatta's death. Moi, a former teacher, will serve as head of state until Kenya's sole political party chooses a presidential candidate and puts that choice to the people for endorsement within 90 days. Moi himself is a leading contender for the job. Whoever the new president is, he could be unseated next year when the party holds its regular five-year election. Kenyatta, one of the founders of the African independence movement, had ruled since Kenya won independence in 1963 and was president for life in all but title.

Jobs experiment prototype of President's plan

By ALICE BONNER The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Two small towns in rural central Minnesota have become the site of a jobs experiment that is widely viewed as a prototype for a major portion of President Carter's welfare-revision proposal.

The enormous difficulties and stern opposition encountered by the experimental Work Equity Project could portend serious obstacles for the national effort.

. Funded by a $6.8 million Department of Labor demonstration grant, WEP has taken two years to get under way, instead of the few months its designers foresaw. It has been resisted and criticized by welfare recipients' groups. Lawyers have searched (unsuccessfully to date) for ways to challenge it in court. Unions have fought to alter it, fearing a threat to members' job security. Local welfare boards in two counties scheduled to take part in the experiment voted it out of their jurisdictions. The administrator who opened WEP on July 24 was the seventh person to try to manage the project.

"Any problem you could think of to delay or threaten this project, it's occurred," said Robert Fodor, creator of the idea of WEP and deputy administrator of the joint Labor-Health, Education and Welfare work incentive program. In many ways WEP, although billed as unique, is no more than a composite of portions of existing government attempts to put the unemployed and welfare populations into jobs.

It operates primarily under the same guidelines and regulations that govern the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act program for public service jobs and the government's program for training and placement of welfare mothers.

The distinguishing feature of WEP, and one of the major sources of contention, is the mandate that anyone deemed able to hold a job accept work or lose benefits. Extensive efforts by federal, state and local governments to make enough jobs available also set it apart. Unlike a program in Utah, the only state previously authorized to deny federally funded benefits for refusal to work, WEP combines the recipients of the three largest assistance programs nationally in an attempt to treat them with "equity." Food stamps, Aid to Families With Dependent Children (AFDC) and General Assistance the completely state-funded program for singles and childless couples, have been placed under a single administrative authority. "The basic idea is to divert people from coming into welfare," said Thomas Bruening, Department of Labor coordinator for the project in Washington. If the staff and administrators feel the person is suitable for a job, there is a procedure for making that person ineligible for certain welfare benefits."

Thus, in the tiny settlement of Becker and the medium-sized town of Buffalo, located in Minnesota's Sherburne and Wright counties, respectively, all "employable" applicants for the three kinds of aid will be placed in a job, sent on job search or trained. Eight or nine other Minnesota counties will be added soon, state officials said.

Mondale frequently doubles as stand-up political comedian

By JAMES GERSTENZANG

WASHINGTON (AP) — It seems that Walter F. Mondale is being asked the same question over and over these days. In fact, it is a question he has been asked since he took office: Are you planning to run for presi-

He has an answer for journalists who insist on repeating the question.

"Some reporter every day wonders if I am dumb enough to answer that. That is a basic I.Q. question," he told one person unfortunate enough to fall

It is just another example of the wit and wisdom of the vice president that spices almost any public address he

In a recent 30-minute interview by editors and news directors from outside the Washington area, Mondale managed half a dozen jokes. More often than not, he and his colleagues in the administration were the butts.

A standup comedian he isn't, but "We have an open administration. As a matter of fact, it is a sieve." "It is almost inhuman what a president goes through. No issue hits his desk that doesn't have a knife in it, or a bomb in it. If it were good news, it would have been announced by some-

"I am reminded of Bismarck's gag that, 'he who likes sausages and laws should never watch either being made.' I didn't say that when I was in the Senate. I do now." "I am sort of a Kentuckian, you know. I rose to private first class in the Army down there, after two years at Fort Knox. I think even the Army was glad to see me go.'

One of the more pressing questions around the White House these days is what, exactly, has Gerald Rafshoon Rafshoon is the Atlanta advertising executive brought into the White House to help patch up Carter's image around the nation.

White House wags have taken to suggesting that the curly-haired would-be media-master has had a hand in all sorts of things presidential, at least those seen as creating a "presidential image."

When Carter flew to Columbia, Mo., last week to address a farm group, an armor-plated limousine, as usual, arrived there ahead of him. However, it was missing the U.S. and presidential flags that fly from the front fenders. They were carried out to Missouri from Washington by a Secret Service

"Jimmy wouldn't miss them," said a television cameraman, kidding the agent who was part of an advance detail flying aboard a chartered airliner carrying journalists and others.

"But Rafshoon would," said one reporter. It has also been suggested that after a presidential speech or "media event" that has been engineered by Rafshoon, those in attendance be given a special notice, much like the logo at the end of a television show or movie, that would read: "This has been a Gerald Rafshoon produc-

Richard Keiser, a Secret Service chief who until last month headed the Secret Service detail at the White House, always made sure the agents flying aboard Air Force One with the president remained awake, even on transcontinental flights.

When he left the White House for a job in the agency hierarchy, he was given a large, color photograph of himself on the president's airplane.

What was he doing in the picture? He was fast asleep.

NEW YORK (AP) - The NEW YORK (AP) - An onlooker who relied on stock market held steady in nothing but the stock-price indicators might conmoderate trading today as clude that Wall Street is in the midst of a solid bull Wall Street awaited market. government figures on

But if that's what it is, hardly anybody seems to be enjoying it. The Value Line composite index, made up of some

,700 stocks, has doubled since the end of 1974. Indicators for the American Stock Exchange and in the over-the-counter market are at or near alltime highs.

which has consistently been lagging behind most other market measures, recently touched its highest level in more than a year after climbing 150 points from the end of February to mid-August. Yet most market commentaries being issued by brokers these days read like anything but invitations

A typical letter bemoans the "scandalous" federal budget deficit and the "shocking" decline of the dollar to which it has led. The voices of Wall Street are virtually unanimous in their criticism of the Carter administration and its handling of the economy. By all indications, pension fund managers, the giants of the marketplace, are more bearish than ever. New data show that they sold more stock than they bought in the first quarter of this year - the first time that has happened since the government began keeping track of their activities.

Mutual funds, for their part, have a near-record 12 weekly money supply report after the close of trading today and Friday's monthly percent of their assets out of the market. report on the latest U.S.

Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, the nation's largest brokerage firm, says its cash accounts - a means of measuring patterns among individual investors - have shown stepped-up selling lately after a period of buying, on balance, earlier in the International Moneyline of New York points out that if the Dow Jones industrial average is adjusted for inflation back to 1967 dollars, it stands at about 450, even after its sharp rise this summer.

"This is strictly a selective market," observed Eugene Peroni, an analyst at Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis Inc. Internal market factors have exerted a favorable influence this summer, he said, but the fundamental news is no better than it was. There is no check on inflation whatsoever, and the dollar is still in trouble. Normally, a rising market is taken as a signal of better things to come in the economy, even if it is hard to see any signs of improvement in the current

But this time, some brokers maintain that inves tors are buying out of fear rather than hope: Fear that inflation and the dollar's decline against other currencies will continue. Under their reasoning, people looking for a financial haven are turning to stocks as - in the phrase coined by Salomon Brothers - "the only bargain left."

"It seems to be a bull market without that many participants," said Leslie M. Pollack, chief investment officer at Shearson Hayden Stone Inc. "When they all get in it, then it will be recognized. course then it will probably be too late." It was suggested to Pollack that these seemed to be especially confusing times for investors. "The mar-ket is always at least slightly confusing," he said. "If it was easy, everybody would be rich

Seniors spend the summer in study

By CARL DIORIO

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - While most students are enjoying a summer free of study, thousands of senior citizens are pondering the sciences, arts and other subjects at colleges around the nation.

"It's stimulating, keeps your mind active and you meet people your own age," said Paula Dana, 84, an enthusiastic participant in a 4-year-old program called Elderhostel. The non-profit cooperative, based in Newton, Mass., offers courses at 100 colleges in 19 states for people aged 60 and over who live on campus and participate in activities like their younger counterparts for periods of a week or longer.

"I'm gung-ho, I like the program and it's done an awful lot for me," said Frank Parrish of Uniontown. Pa., who with his wife, Lois, attended three weeks of Elderhostel-sponsored classes at three New England colleges this summer. "I walked and talked with one man who spoke nine languages and could read 17," marveled Parrish, Many participants view the week-long sessions as

"People of this age don't really want a resort where all you do is dance and fool around. This gives you something intellectual to do," said retired English teacher Betty Carter of Washington D.C. Pennsylvania joined Elderhostel this summer and through federal aid is able to hold costs to $60 a week, including tuition, room and board, and activities.

Woman in jail after shooting incident

Brenda Joyce Kado, 20, of 203 1/2 S. Madison St. was in City Jail today on a charge of aggravated assault with a deadly weapon following a shooting incident early Wednesday.

Peace Justice John H. Biggs set bond at $7,500 in connection with the shooting of Jimmy Lee Hawkins in a Midland motel room in the 400 block of East

Midland police said Ms. Kado told them she was cleaning a pistol which accidentally went off. Hawkins apparently was sleeping at the time, said

Hawkins has been released from Midland Memorial Hospital, according to a hospital spokesman.

Man free on bond

Donald E. Lamar, 25, of 1600 S. Fort Worth St., was free on $5,000 bail today after he appeared Monday before Peace Justice Robert Pine on charges of aggravated assault in connection with a shooting incident Friday afternoon, said authorities.

Midland Police said Lamar was arrested Saturday afternoon after he discharged a 16-gauge shotgun three times during an argument with neighbors over the ownership of a dog.

Police said at least two residents of the area received minor pellet wounds as a result of the incident.

tezemolo prepared a "working paper" surveying 12 papabili, or possible popes. It said he concluded that ide up of some Baggio, 65, and Cardinal Paolo Bertod of 1974. li, 70, would be the leading contenders Exchange and in the secret conclave of cardinals it or near allbeginning Friday to elect a successor to Pope Paul VI.

By EDWARD MAGRI

VATICAN CITY (AP) - The Italian Embassy to the Vatican and a leftist Genoa newspaper's computer

make Italian Cardinal Sebastiano

Baggio the front runner in the race for

A Rome newspaper reported that

Ambassador Vittorio Cordero di Mon-

Both are veterans of the Vatican Curia, the central administration of he Roman Catholic Church.

Baggio, the prefect of the Congregation of the Bishops, was reported 'well liked by the Curia" and "intelligent, able, patient and tenacious."

The survey also said despite speculation that a non-Italian might be chosen, an Italian seemed a shoo-in because of their "flexibility, knowledge of the complex (Vatican) mechanism and habit of freeing themselves from nationalistic attitudes."

The ambassador confirmed the existence of the working paper but said it was "for internal use only" and was never forwarded to the Italian Foreign Ministry.

Baggio, a Vatican diplomat who has traveled extensively in North and South America, also came in ahead in a computer survey the leftist Genoa newspaper Il Lavoro said it made.

The paper said it fed its computer biographical data and political and ecclesiastical "ratings" of the 111 cardinals who will vote in the conclave. It said while no cardinal got the highest possible score of 100 points, Baggio, outgoing head of the Vatican's Congregation for the Bishops, came in first with 81.04.

Bertoli was second with 79.92. Then came the retired archbishop of Turin, Giovanni Pellegrino, with 79.53; the archbishop of Genoa, Giuseppe Siri, 79.25, and Albini Luciani, the patriarch of Venice, 77.02.

Diplomat, newspaper pick papal frontrunners

The paper did not disclose the criteria in its point system.

Bound by an oath of secrecy, the cardinals carefully avoid making their preferences known in public. But there is much private discussion and subtle politicking before they enter the conclave area of the Apostolic Palace. When the cardinals enter the conclave area Friday evening, all doors will be locked. They will sleep in cells with sealed windows. They will be allowed to receive or send out no newspapers or magazines. Other printed matter and letters must be submitted to the scrutiny of Bishop Ernesto Civardi, secretary of the Sacred College of the Cardinals. Neither can they communicate with the outside world by telephone. The only working phone in the vast lockup area is in Civardi's office. The cardinals and those locked in with them can use it for very special, urgent matters, but Civardi must hold the phone and do the talking for them.

Electric bells will summon the cardinals to the two daily balloting and to meals. For each voting session, they will be locked inside the Sistine Chapel, and the door will open only after the session is over and the ballots are ready to be burned. The burning ballots will be the cardinals' only uncensored way of communicating to the world outside. Black smoke will signal an inconclusive ballot and white a new pope.

At intervals a three-man team of technicians will search the cells and other rooms for electronic bugs or other devices that might eavesdrop on the proceedings or record them.

Standing watch all around the conclave area will be the Swiss Guards and Vatican plainclothesmen.

And the fight goes on

By MARIALISA CALTA

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) - Gordon Paquette is the mayor of Vermont's largest city, and he points with pride to its assets.

There's the University of Vermont, the Medical Center Hospital, a successful urban renewal project, a small but growing transit system and an international airport.

There's big-name industry and a lively downtown business district. And there's the Pyramid Co.'s proposed mall.

Touted as the crowning glory of Vermont's Queen City by proponents, an 82-store, 430,000-square-foot shopping center has been proposed for neighboring Williston.

"Unmitigated disaster," Paquette says of the plan. Of the Pyramid Co. of Dewitt, N.Y., the mayor says, "They realized early on they weren't going to get in here without a fight."

The fight has been raging for two years, through a series of some 45 hearings. To build the mall, Pyramid must win state Environmental Board approval under Act 250 - Vermont's law controling land development. The more than a dozen parties in the case include environmental and planning groups, community and merchant associations, and towns within a 40-mile radius of Burlington.

The issues include air and water pollution, traffic congestion, energy conservation, the economic viability of the center city, aesthetics and regional planning.

But, according to Burlington city fathers, the dilemma for their city of dollars pouring in for urban renewal, and the corporate executives making decisions in corporate back rooms that completely undermine the federal plan.

These businesses have to realize that they were built in the cities, and as far as I'm concerned they owe the cities something."

Burlington has received about $16.5 million in federal funds in the last al decade, and is applying for millions more for a planned civic center and renovations along the city's Lake Champlain waterfront. Over $100 million in private investment has poured into the city in the last 30 years.

Gov. Richard Snelling has remained neutral on the proposed Williston mall, saying it would be inappropriate for him to comment while the application is pending.

But U.S. Sen. Patrick Leahy has suggested that Pyramid consider moving its mall to downtown Burlington. The move, says Leahy, "would serve notice to other developers who may be thinking of regional malls in other parts of the state that Vermont doesn't need that kind of develop-Pyramid's response is that it would consider a downtown location only if the rural Williston site is rejected.

"We're not trying to ruin downtown," says Pyramid spokesman Gary Craig. "We plan to compliment downtown, not replace it.'

says a thriving urban area helps en-"It's the future of the American city that I'm talking about," Paquette says. "You have millions of federal says a thriving urban area helps ensure that "four or five years from now another developer doesn't come along and set up a second mall." another developer doesn't come along and set up a second mall."

Williston's 3,300 residents are divided over the proposal.

A bucolic bedroom community of IBM, General Electric and university employees, the town has "zero commercial tax base," says Selectman John Heins.

A dairy farmer and machine salesman, Heins supports the mall propos-

"All those people who came up here from New York and New Jersey to work for IBM and Digital are the ones who are bellyaching about the rural character," he says. "If they hadn't a moved up here, we'd have 10 times the open space they're all yelling

"People follow jobs and commer-cial development follows people, it's as simple as that."

Burlington's battle with Pyramid has attracted national attention. The mail runs overwhelmingly against

Colts apparently tired of Mitchell hassle

BALTIMORE (AP) — With hopes with the Chargers this season, his of reconciliation evaporating rapidly, prospects of wearing a Colt jersey and bitter feelings building even more quickly, the Baltimore Colts have apparently decided to solve their problems with Lydell Mitchell by trading him to San Diego.

The Chargers announced Wednesday night that they had traded running back Joe Washington and an undisclosed draft choice for Mitchell, Baltimore's all-time leading rusher.

We have not come to contractual agreement with Lydell," said Tank Younger, San Diego's assistant general manager. "We have not signed him to a contract, but we have traded Joe Washington and an undisclosed draft choice for his services.'

But the Colts called the announcement premature, since Mitchell and San Diego had not reached the contract agreement necessary to consummate the trade.

But whether or not Mitchell plays prospects of wearing a Colt jersey again became even more remote

In addition to their contract troubles, the former Penn State star and the Colts are still embroiled in a grievance filed by Mitchell with the National Football League Player-Club Relations Committee.

Mitchell charged the team with racial discrimination, bad faith bargaining and illegally fining him $500 a day for missing practice.

The racism charge was apparently the last straw for Colts' owner Robert Irsay, who demanded an apology from the running back.

"He tells me I'm like a father, that I treat him so beautifully. Then he calls me a racist. I can't tolerate a man like that on the Baltimore Colts," said Irsay in a statement issued from his Skokie, Ill., home.

After spending two days debating the matter, the PCRC also gave up on a solution to the dispute Wednesday. "The PCRC believes because of the seriousness of the charges, that all parties should be heard under oath. Therefore, the entire grievance has been referred to the arbitrator."

Mitchell has the option of dropping the grievance after he leaves the Colts or pursuing it to a final solution, according to observers.

The PCRC said James Scearce, a former federal arbitrator, is expected to begin hearing testimony from both sides in Washington early next week. At a meeting of the PCRC on Monday, a tentative agreement was reached between Mitchell, his attorney and a Colts' delegation that included General Manager Dick Szymanski.

But Irsay scuttled the agreement Tuesday. In addition to objecting to terms of a three-year contract, which would have reached $225,000 in the third season, Irsay reportedly was disturbed because it failed to call for an apology from Mitchell on the racist

Mitchell, in the option year of his current $99,000 contract, failed to report to training camp while demanding pay of $200,000 in 1978. The Colts reportedly offered $130,000 at the start, later upping the amount to $175,-

"He's not worth it," Irsay said Wednesday. "He's not worth a damn. He's 30 years old. He hasn't been training. It would be a month and a half into the season before we could

"But he's gonna pay his fines for missing practices. It's (the fines) built up to $22,000 or $23,000," Irsay added vehemently.

Irsay, quoting from an earlier conversation with Mitchell's attorney Lee Goldberg, said: "His attorney said to me, 'Do you realize Lydell

Mitchell is the greatest running back the Colts ever had?'

"I said, 'You're full of hot air. Can you imagine comparing Lydell Mitchell with Alan Ameche, Lenny Moore .. or Tom Matte. He's better than them? You must be crazy." Chargers' Coach Tommy Prothro, however, was delighted at the prospect of signing Mitchell, who has rushed for more than 1,000 yards in each of the last three seasons.

"Lydell is a proven outstanding back. He is a fine pass receiver who is dangerous in the open field," said Prothro.

Commenting on Mitchell's dispute with Baltimore, Prothro said "it's the same problem all over the league. He played out his contract. He is in his option year. He didn't walk out on his

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) - Veteran forward Maurice Lucas is thinking of quitting the Portland Trail Blazers unless what he considers to be serious problems are worked out, a newspaper story says.

The Oregonian said in today's editions that Lucas, in an interview, referred to heavy use of pain killing drugs by the National Basketball Association team. It said he also complained that the team's regular players were given too little rest during the NBA season.

Lucas left Portland on Wednesday for an undisclosed location to consider his future, the Oregonian said.

Young's career with the Cowboys was hampered by injuries which kept him out of action much of the time. Kenny Randle, a rookie from USC was placed on the injured reserve list because of a bad shoulder.

Also waived were tight end Bryon Billcik, a free agent from Brigham Young; safety Darrel Davis, a free agent from Northwest Missouri State; cornerback Devon Ford, a free agent from Appalachian State; guard Greg Peters, No. 12 draft choice from California; guard Tom Randall, No. 7 draft pick from Iowa State; linebacker Harold Randolph, No. 6 draft choice from East Carolina and linebacker Kinnie Weaver, a free agent from Vanderbilt.

Tracy, Hernandez give Cubs first

AMARILLO — Rightfielder Jim Tracy doubled and tripled and Joe Hernandez knocked in the winning run in the ninth inning Wednesday night to spark the Midland Cubs to a 5-4 victory over the Amarillo Gold Sox in Texas League baseball action.

With the victory, Midland wrapped up the six-game series, winning four and losing two, and on the season, the Cubs took 20 out of 32 games. While Midland was edeging the Sox, San Antonio took a 6-4 loss, giving Manager Jim Saul's club a one-game lead over the Dodgers.

Surgeons pleased with operation

CASTRO VALLEY, Calif. (AP) -Surgeons are pleased with their operation on the broken neck of Darryl Stingley, New England Patriots' wide receiver injured in a game here Aug. 12, but are making no predictions yet on the extent of recovery expectable.

After Wednesday's surgery at Eden Hospital in this Oakland suburb, a statement was issued by Tom Hoffman, Patriots' business manager,

'His attending physicians were pleased with the operation and his condition ... His post-operative condition is excellent. The operation and anesthesia were uneventful and a highly satisfactory boney position was obtained.

"A spinal fusion of the fourth and fifth cervical vertebrae was performed during the procedure in order to stabilize his neck. Asked whether the doctors think Stingley will be able to resume his football career, Hoffman answered, "Nobody knows - not even the docthe second inning off starter Greg Wilkes without benefit of a hit. Eric Grandy walked, stole second and scored on catcher Tony Castillo's throwing error.

The Cubs added another run in the third inning when Kurt Seibert walked, stole second and scored on Steve Macko's single.

Then in the sixth inning, with the score 3-2 in favor of the Gold Sox, Midland evened the game when after te was out, Hernnandez singled and cored on Tracy's triple into left-center, making it 3-3.

Hernandez led off the Midland eighth with a single and went to third on a booming double by Tracy. Catcher Greg Keatley was walked inten-tionally and relief pitcher Barry Biggerstaff gave up a base hit to Drury to make it 4-4.

Midand won it in the ninth inning. Bill Evers delivered a pinch-hit single, went to second on a sacrifice by Seibert and scored the winning run when Hernandez doubled off the wall

Amarillo got solo homers by Brian Greer and Earl Battey during the game which was played before 963 fans in the season finale between the two teams.

Dodgers, Giants both win as NL race heats up

By The Associated Press

The Los Angeles Dodgers, clinging tenaciously to a one-half game-lead over the San Francisco Giants in the National League West, returned home today after what Manager Tom Lasorda called a very successful trip

"It's been a long trip," Lasorda said Wednesday after the Dodgers defeated the Montreal Expos 4-2, "and we're very happy to be going home. But it was a much better trip than the last time we came East when we were three-and-seven.

On their Eastern swing this time. the Dodgers went 6-2 with series in Philadelphia, New York and Montreno face Philadel phia tonight at Dodgers Stadium, swept the Phils and lost single games to the Mets and Expos.

The Giants, meanwhile, are keeping pace with the Dodgers. San Francisco completed a three-game sweep of the Mets Wednesday with a 2-1 victory.

The Dodgers now play 24 of†their last 36 games at home.

"I don't even think about it (the schedule)," said Lasorda. "When you start thinking about the schedule, you get into trouble. I just think about tomorow's game. I take it one game at a time. I don't care what anyone

Burt Hooton, 14-8, got the victory for the Dodgers, giving Lasorda eight strong innings before Charlie Hough. who got his sixth save, relieved him in the ninth.

Four Montreal errors figured in Los Angeles' scoring.

The Dodgers scored twice off Montreal starter Steve Rogers, 13-9, in the second. Rick Monday's single scored one run and errors by Expos center fielder Warren Cromartie and catcher Gary Carter after the hit allowed another run to score.

In the sixth, Dusty Baker singled and took third when Montreal second baseman Dave Cash let Monday's grounder get by him. Baker scored on right fielder Ellis Valentine's throw-

Tonight, lefties Tommy John of Los Angeles and Steve Carlton of Philadelphia face each other, while San Franciso is idle before beginning at homestand against Montreal.

"We're not going to get to bed at home before four o'clock in the morning," said Lasorda. "But Philadelphia had a noon game today so it'll be easier for them.

Giants 2, Mets 1

Marc Hill, pinch-hitting for starting pitcher Bob Knepper, drove in the winning run with a double in the ninth inning, giving the Giants their 36th victory in 59 one-run games? The Giants scored their other run in the second on Roger Metzger's single. Doug Flynn's RBI single.

Knepper, 13-9, yielded nine hits in eight innings and Gary Lavelle pitched the ninth for his 13th save. "It has been this way all year," said

Hill, who didn't start at catcher because of a sore back. "A different guy picks up the team almost every game. Knepper didn't feel well and didn't have much sleep, but look at the super game he pitched. I think we'll win the pennant or be in it to the final week-

Padres 6, Phils 5

Jerry Turner smacked a three-run homer and Padres shortstop Ozzie Smith scored the winning run in the eighth on Derrell Thomas' triple. The homer was Turner's fifth this season as a pinch-hitter, one short of the major léague mark. Smith singled and stole second before Thomas' game-winning hit.

Rollie Fingers, 5-11, got the win in relief of Randy Jones, who breezed through the first four innings before the Phils exploded for four runs on five hits in the fifth

The Phils retained a four-game lead over the Cubs in the NL East, while Pittsburgh picked up a game and moved to within 41/2.

Astros 3, Cubs 0 Ken Forsch, 7-4, won his first game as a starting pitcher in three years and combined with Joe Sambito on a

DALLAS (AP)—His coach calls him "Schmoo the Whale."

With his 17-inch neck and 236 pounds of girth and 6-feet, 3-inches of height Mike Ford certainly could pass for an offensive lineman or a line-

He is none of the above. Ford is the sensational sophomore quarterback for Southern Methodist and there's a lot of him love as far as head coach Ron Meyer is concerned.

"I'm not so sure he's not the best quarterback I've ever been around, said Meyer Wednesday on the Southwest Conference football press tour. "He kind of reminds me of Sonny Jurgensen, the old Washington Redskin quarterback."

Meyer said "He is big and his weight is up. I would like for him to play ataround 220. But he ran 53 100-yard runs yesterday. He is in great cardiovascular condition. He does like to eat. But for a big guy he can really move his feet."

Ford, who hails from Mesquite, Texas, showed up for press day in farmer overalls bereft of a shirt. He looked like he stepped directly off the cast of "Hee-Haw

"I ain't had a beer in three weeks," he corrected.

Meyer said that while Ford needs to shrivel his waistline there's certainly nothing fat about his good right arm.

"He's not your typical sophomore quarterback," said Meyer. "What he knows about this game is uncanny. And he can rifle the ball."

Ford played most of last year with a hyperextended elbow but still led the league in total offense and passing. He hit 50.8 per cent of his passes for 2,064 yards-17th in the nation.

"I'm throwing harder than I've ever thrown in my life," said Ford. 'The arm is stronger than it has been since I was a junior in high school.' "He's an intelligent player and I don't care if you do have to clock him in the 100 with a calendar," said

"We'll do much more offensively this year because Mike has progressed so fast," said Meyer. "He just sees so much more out there on the field now. He had some interceptions last year when he should have eaten the ball."

Homecoming performance nets Rangers big win

By The Associated Press

Steve Comer went to visit his sick grandmother Wednesday but it wasn't an excuse to miss a baseball

Comer reported for work as scheduled Wednesday night and hurled a six-hitter for his first major league shutout, snapping a four-game Texas losing streak and pitching the Rangers to a 2-0 victory over the Minnesota

It was a happy Minnesota homecoming for Comer, a 24-year-old right-hander who was born in Minneapolis, was a star pitcher for the University of Minnesota and lives in Excelsior, just minutes from Metropolitan Stadium.

Asked how he spent the day, Comer said: "I visited my grandmother in the hospital. I was running around all day visiting friends. I guess I didn't have that much time to gear up for the game. But it's really nice to come back here, to come back home. I had about 60 people watching, 20 from my family and probably about 40 friends. The victory left the third-place

Rangers seven games out in the American League West. The Kansas City Royals were beaten by the Chicago White Sox 3-0 and had their lead over second-place California sliced to one percentage point when the Angels downed the New York Yankees 6-3. Comer, a rookie making only his fourth start, kept the Twins off balance with his changeup. He struck out six and walked one as he went the distance for the first time in his major league career. The Rangers got Comer the only run he needed in the fourth inning when Al Oliver doubled, went to third on an infield out and scored on Richie Zisk's single. "I've had the change-up all my career," said Comer, who wasn't drafted but impressed the Rangers when Pete Kramer, coach at St. Thomas College in St. Paul, got him a chance to pitch in a rookie league. 'The Twins saw me for four years, but I never really had four pitches that I could throw for strikes before.

"I played four years in college here, and over those years the Twins usually drafted one or two of our players in the later rounds of the draft. I just hoped to get drafted, even low like that, and maybe get a chance. But I'm glad to be with Texas.' White Sox 3, Royals 0

Don Money walked with two out and Ben Oglivie crashed a two-run double. After an intentional walk to Larry Hisle, Cecil Cooper doubled home two more runs.

> Csonka sidelined

EAST RUTHER-FORD, N.J. (AP) -Larry Csonka was forced to the sidelines during New York Giants practice for the second consecutive day Wednesday with an injured heel.

Csonka sustained the injury in practice last week and apparently aggravated it during Saturt's 13-6 Na Football League exhibition victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers.

The fullback has seen limited action during the Giants' three pre-season games because of a variety of ailments. He made his debut against Pittsburgh, rushing the ball five times for 13 yards.

"I got it stepped on," Csonka said, "It's at the edge of the bone. It's like having a hip pointer on PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) - Arnold Palmer is trying something new.

He hunched over a putt on the practice green, his hands some four inches apart and the forefinger of the right hand pointing down the shaft.

"What's this?" asked Bob Rosburg, television commentator and former PGA champion. "You only go to that style when you're over 70 years old." Palmer just grinned and hit another 30-footer dead into the back of the cup.

"A little experiment," he said before teeing off in today's first round of the $250,000 Hall of Fame Golf There have been countless little experiments by the most popular player in the game's history. Many of them have concerned his putting. 'No matter what anybody says, I was never a truly great putter," said the 48-year-old Palmer. "I putted out of desperation; I putted because it was my salvation. Sometimes it was the only alternative I

"With most of us, putting goes from day to day. As we get older, it's going to go. But some of us still try. Some of us still try to find a way ..." And Palmer, a non-winner in the United States in more than five years, still is trying.

"No. I'm not satisfied with my game," he said. "I'm driving well. My irons aren't always all they should be. My putting comes and goes. But the difference between now and 20 years ago is that I can more or less accept it. I'm not satisfied, but I'm not unhappy.

"I still enjoy the game, the people, the competition."

And he's still very competitive.

"I've been in position to win several times over the last couple of years. But every time I get there, I manage to do something dumb. My concentration isn't all that good, and that makes it very difficult for me to do the things I want to do."

Palmer, however, remains among golf's greatest drawing cards and is, at worst, a sentimental favorite in the event that began on the No.2 course at the Pinehurst Country Club, a famed old layout that has been toughened and lengthened since Hale Irwin's 20-under-par winning effort last year.

NFL conducts replay experiment

By HOWARD SMITH AP Sports Writer

The National Football League, reacting to indignant outcries from public and press, has been conducting experiments during the exhibition season in the use of television's instant replay as an officiating tool.

The NFL has had an official monitoring TV feeds during four games thus far and will check another three this weekend. Then the officials will make a report, everyone will talk it over and, chances are, the whole subject will be quietly dropped. The idea, of course, is that officials occasionally miss a call and teams occasionally lose games because of it. Sometimes the play turns up on instant replay clearly showing the official's mistake. And howls of protest rise from living rooms across the

The plan is to have an official check out replays and change a call if it is obviously wrong. Sounds simple, but it isn't. "There are problems with that idea," says Tony Verna, who directed the Super Bowl last January for CBS. "We are not really in a position to officiate games with our cameras. We set up the cameras to show the game, not to hunt for violations. Our cameras positions are designed to give people a seat in the stands, not to give weird angles.

"If you want to officiate with cameras you're going to need special cameras and special angles. And you're going to have to train people where to look for things." TV is focusing on the path of the ball-carrier, not on the offensive tackle who may or may not be guilty of holding. TV is following the action, not looking for violations. To do it right, the NFL would have to set up its own cameras at every game and have a group of trained specialists manning them.

That would be costly and there is still no guarantee of accuracy. The only close call of note that occurred in the Super Bowl last year was a play where Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach threw a pass interception, but the play was disallowed because referee Jim Tunney ruled Staubach had stepped on the sideline before releasing the ball.

CBS favored viewers with a replay from an overhead camera and the replay appeared to show Staubach's right foot clearly on the sideline. Good call. Or was it? Just for the fun of it, a couple of days after the game Verna took the tape of the play, blew it up and zoomed in on Staubach's foot, "He was in bounds," says Verna. "It was amazing. Tunney was on the left side of him and had a bad view. But he was definitely in bounds." Is it too late for Denver to protest

One other obvious problem with using TV replays to officiate comes to mind. What happens if there is a controversial play and a CBS cameraman doesn't have quite the right angle? The next day's headline might well read: "Cowboys Bow As CBS Blows Key Play."

Television is supposed to cover the event, not influence it. So be it.

The U.S. Open tennis championships will have a new look this year and viewers will get ample opportunity to take it all in as CBS has scheduled 271/4 hours of coverage, It all begins next Wednesday with the first of 10 15-minute late-night wrapups and ends with the finals which will run into prime time Sept. 10.

CBS, looking to spice up its tennis package, has convinced the United States Tennis Association to schedule both the men's and women's singles finals on the final Sunday. Previously, the men's semis and women's finals were Saturday with only the men's final and some dull doubles on Sunday. The idea is to boost ratings, especially since the show will be going over into prime time for the first

CBS did a fine job last year, switching around in the early going, leaving a dull match for a better one and giving viewers a chance to follow several matches at once.

Carpenter, Davis off injury list

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Oilers will get running backs Rob Carpenter and Anthony Davis off the injury list but Billy Johnson likely will remain sidelined for the team's final exhibition game Saturday against the New Orleans Saints.

Davis, obtained in a trade with Tampa Bay this year, broke his leg on the first day of training camp. Carpenter suffered a deep knee bruise in the Oilers exhibition opener against the Denver Broncos.

Both started working out Tuesday and are expected to be in uniform in the Astrodome Saturday night.

The Oilers got outstanding performances from rookie Earl Campbell and veterans Tim Wilson and Ronnie Coleman in a victory over Dallas last week. Now Davis and Carpenter will get a chance and offensive coordinator Ken Shipp says all five will be counted on during the regular sea-

'We're counting on all five this season," Shipp said. "They are all five going to play."

HANOI, Vietnam (AP) - This Communist capital again wears the face of war.

The peaceful serenity that followed the collapse of the Saigon government in 1975 has been replaced by an agressive mood. The new enemies are Cambodia and China.

A loudspeaker blares the latest news of negotiations with the Chinese and of the fighting at the Cambodian border. Not so many years ago, such loud-speakers bragged of victories against the Americans. It's been 3½ years since that conflict ended, but again Hanoi's hopes for normality seem to have disappeared. Uniforms are very much in evidence in this city of 31/2 million - on tough veterans, newly recruited militiamen and often on lovely young women with pigtails or long, black hair streaming from under their green pith helmets.

Security guards and policemen also are abundant. People wait in neat queues to enter public places and nobody walks on the grass where the sign says "don't."

The government has called on the people to be ready for a possible "large-scale" defensive war against China, but there are no anti-Chinese placards in the streets.

Officials won't give details but say there must be precautions taken "in all activities" and say they have experience in such things from the American war. There are reports that at a recent rally, 25,000 freshly recruited members of a "shock" youth force vowed to help defend the country, either in the dispute with Cambodia over territory or against China, the giant to the north feared for centuries by the Viet-

Nguyen Duc Vong, a committee-man from the Fatherland Front in Hanoi, said about 4,000 of the city's original 14,000 ethnic Chinesè residents have left, seeking asylum in

"Bad elements" among them spread rumors about imminent war with China in which their community would be wiped out by the Vietnamese and Soviet troops that some Chinese here fear will come to aid Vietnam in any war with Peking, Vong said. He said some Chinese families have been divided in the exodus. Among the casualties of the Vietnamese-Chinese quarrel is the Thang Long bridge on the Red River, sorely needed to ease jams on a nearby 77-year-old span that was a target of U.S. bombers during the war.

Chinese technicians working on the Thang Long, which means flying dragon, left recently when Peking halted aid to its onetime ally.

Hanoi seems to need time and money to make up for the war

Old French villas are partitioned up and crammed with several families. The United Nations says the average living space alloted each person in the city is just under 3 square yards. Electrical outages are common and there are shortages of schools and hospitals, concrete, paint, meat, gasoline and many other things.

Residents carry half a dozen ration. cards for such basic necessities as rice, sugar and cloth. The central market, where Communist resistance fighters once clashed with French troops, has a surprisingly large variety of fresh fruits and vegetables.

But these are from small private plots allowed on cooperatives on the outskirts of the city.

Ethnic frustrations building in strategic Malaysia

By JAY MATHEWS The Washington Post

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia - The young, energetic businessman had landed a good job in the capital of this rich developing country. The pay was $1,140 a month, but he could not keep the job unless he could get citizenship papers, something up to then denied him even though he was born here. This is not an isolated case. For the ethnic Chinese and Indians who make up nearly half the population of this Malay-dominated state, rights of residence and occupation are often hard to come by. The young businessman finally paid $5,900 in bribes to get the proper papers after he had met all the citizenship requirements. To get a non-citizen's work permit, he had discovered, would have cost more.

This is a time of quiet and prosperity for Malaysia, but with such ethnic divisions building up frustration, many people wonder how long it will

The country lies at a strategic point along the important sea lanes of Southeast Asia. its stability is important to the United States, both because Malaysia is a non-communist nation close to the communist states of Vietnam. Laos and Cambodia and because it is a major supplier of tin and other raw material important to American industry.

After a resounding victory in a general parliamentary election last month, the Malay-dominated National Front Coalition that runs this nation of 12.2 million people seems to be in control of all the complex political feuds that Malaysians love. The communist rebellion that shook Malaysia in the 1940s and 1950s has been fragmented.

A light, "sweet" brand of oil much sought by gasoline-hungry Japan flows out of well on the east coast of the peninsula that makes up the western half of Malaysia. The country remains the world's largest producer of tin and natural rubber and finds a healthy market for those products. All across America, Big Macs are frying in oil extracted from the short, squat Malaysian palm trees that grow in neat rows along roadsides here.

Businessmen and politicians welcome the 7 percent growth rate wrested from the green jungles and mineral-packed hills of this former British colony. But many doubt it is enough to compensate for the deep racial problems created by centuries of immigration by Indian laborers and Chinese shopkeepers and

In 1969 the stiff bureaucrats who run this capital city in the British manner were frightened out of their wits when angry Malays rioted, mostly against their wealthier Chinese neighbors. About 250 Chinese, along with about 50 Malays and Indians, died. The response of the government coalition, then as now committed publicity to racial harmony, was something called "the new economic poli-This plan of affirmative action was supposed to force greater prosperity onto the easygoing but increasingly unhappy Malays.

Universities began to reject many Chinese applicants in favor of lessqualified Malays. Foreign companies were pressured to appoint Malays to their boards and hire more Malay staff. A key promise was that by the year 1990, at least 30 percent of the capital city would be in Malay hands. In 1970, Malays had only about 2 percent. That figure has now climbed to about 8 percent, but at such a slow pace that many believe the 30 percent figure can be reached on time only by a massive juggling of figures.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - Gov. David Boren and former U.S. Rep. Ed Edmondson headed into a runoff campaign for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination today after Boren barely failed to win a clear victory in Tuesday's primary election.

Boren led a field of seven Demo-cratic candidates in Tuesday's election with an impressive 46 percent of the total votes cast, but he needed 50 percent to avoid a rematch with Ed-mondson in the Sept. 19 runoff prima-Edmondson, making his third bid for the Senate, was a distant second with 28 percent and state Sen. Gene Stipe was third with 20 percent.

The other four candidates - Claremore educator Dean Bridges, Oklahoma City attorney George Miskovsky, Rosella Pete Saker of Altus and Anthony Points of Oklahoma City - finished far behind Stipe.

With 2,701 of 2,830 precincts reporting, the candidates had these vote

Boren, 231,855, or 46 percent. Edmondson, 142,348, or 28.2 per-

Stipe, 102,448, or 20.3 percent. Bridges, 10,057, or 2 percent. Miskovsky, 8,852, or 1.8 percent, Saker, 5,323, or 1.1 percent. Points, 3,686, or .7 percent.

Boren, 37, who led in 60 of the state's 77 counties, said he was gratified by his strong statewide support and was not surprised that he was forced into a runoff.

"We came into this race looking for a probable runoff," he said, adding that the large number of candidates made it difficult to win a clear majority over the field.

Edmondson, 59, was strong in his old 2nd Congressional District territory, carrying 11 of the 17 counties in the northeastern Oklahoma district, but he was not able to keep pace with Boren in the other five disrtricts.

The primary campaign was marred by a charge, first leveled by Points, that Boren is a homosexual. Miskovsky picked up the allegation and asked Boren to state under oath whether or not he was a homosexual.

Boren labeled the charge "a vicious lie" Points offered no evidence to back his charge, and he also leveled a similar charge at a substantial segment of the nation's population.

The allegation did not appear to have much effect on the election out-

Boren was a landslide winner in the governor's race four years ago and he had appeared likely to win the Democratic Senate nomination easily until Edmondson and Stipe made late entries into the race.

Edmondson made a campaign issue of Boren's plan to support a Republican tax cut bill now pending in Congress, saying it would give "25 per cent of the relief to the three percent of the people who are the wealthiest people in this country.

Stipe's campaign was hampered by a federal grand jury investigation of his connection with a now-defunct McAlester meat processing company which defaulted on a federally guaranteed loan.

But, relying on his own money to a large extent, Stipe mounted an expensive media campaign to combat the bad publicity and he went into election day predicting he would be vindicated by the voters.

Edmondson, who represented Oklahoma's 2nd District in Congress for 20 years before making his first Senate race in 1972, was the Democratic Senate nominee in both 1972 and 1974.

Bartlett defeated him in 1972 and Republican Sen. Henry Bellmon beat him in 1974 in the closest Senate race in Oklahoma history.

Two more unions ready to join in postal dispute

By JEFFREY MILLS

WASHINGTON (AP) - With a mail strike hanging in the balance, the U.S. Postal Service is at a stand-off with one of its unions, and two more labor groups may join the dispute by the end of the week.

The nation's letter carriers rejected on Wednesday an agreement negotiated by their union leaders in July. Meanwhile, vote counting due to be finished this week could put two other postal unions in the same situation.

The National Association of Letter Carriers voted 78,000-59,000 against the tentative agreement. Union officials say they want to renegotiate the authorized by his union constitution to call a nationwide strike by next week if the postal service refuses to return to the bargaining table. However, Postmaster General William F. Bolger has publicly pledged not to reopen talks. "We have concluded our negotiations," he said in advance of the voting. He seemed to. take the same position after the letter carriers' vote was announced.

"The law provides a clearly defined procedure for such situations as this: fact-finding and arbitration. And we. intend to comply fully with the law," Bolger said in a statement issued. while he was vacationing in Massachusetts.

Those procedures, under the guidance of federal mediators, would take months and it would reopen to bargaining the gains won by the unions in the three months of talks that ended July 21.

Bolger, as he has done several times in recent months, warned postal workers about the consequences of "Federal law clearly prohibits strikes by postal workers. I believe the nation's letter carriers are honest and law abiding and they will not take the law into their own hands, especially when there is a fair and legal procedure for settling this dispute," the postmaster general said.

When some mail handlers walked off their jobs in July in disgust over the tentative agreement, the Postal Service promptly fired more than 100

Vacca declined to say whether he would call a strike by his 181,000member union. "I am fully aware of the law on strikes," he told reporters. Vacca supported acceptance of the proposed pact.

He would only say that he wanted to reopen negotiations, the step that Bolger has ruled out.

One source close to the postal negotiations said the issues would be clearer after the votes are counted for the largest of the three unions, the 299,000-member American Postal Workers Union.

That vote is expected by Friday. The third vote on the tentative agreement — this by the 36,000-member Mail Handlers Division of the Laborers' International Union — is expected by Saturday. The fourth postal union, representing 38,000 rural letter carriers, is not polling its members on the settlement.

"We are just waiting to see how the vote comes out," a spokesman for the APWU said. "Then we'll decide what to do."

The pact that the letter carriers rejected would have increased their pay and cost-of-living benefits by 19.5. percent over three years, bringing salaries for postal workers to an average of more than $19,000 in 1981, Bolger said.

Vacca blamed the rejection on three factors. He said the members had been "badgered" by a postal service campaign to make them appear overpaid. The letter carriers felt bitter about White House intervention in the negotiations asppart of President Carter's a8nti-inflation cam paign, he said. The third factor was a statement by AFL-CIO President George Meany who said thecentative settlement was a poor economic package. "Obviously, that had some impact on the vot-

Explosion kills worker

CALUMET CITY, Ill. (AP) - An explosion and fire early today at an oil refinery killed one worker and injured four others, authorities said. The names of the victims were not immediately available.

Officials said oil and other chemicals had ignited at the Ashland Chemical Co. refinery located in an industrial and shipping complex along the Calumet River south of Chicago. Chicago Fire Deparment communications reported a large refinery buildpredawn explosion. The cause of the blast and the number of workers in the area at the time were not immediately known.

Import price may climb

WASHINGTON (AP) — Imported oil prices are likely to rise next year, although U.S. experts can only guess the amount of increase.

Experts such as John Lichtblau, director of the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation in New York, thinks the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries will not approve a large increase.

"It is not likely they will increase prices the entire amount of the loss of the dollar, plus the inflationary changes since the last increase at the beginning of 1977," Lichtblau said in an interview.

One reason is a world surplus of oil and another is the impact it could have on the world econ-

'After the very dramatic increase in 1973 and 1974, and the further increases in 1975 and 1976, the economic recovery is so precarious, that if they again increase prices substantially, it could lead to a relapse into recession. They're afraid of that,' Lichtblau said in an interview...

He said an increase of 8 to 10 percent would raise the average world price to near $14 a barrel. Another oil expert, who asked not to be named, said an increase may be closer to 5 per cent.

The 13 OPEC nations will meet later this year to consider hiking prices in 1979.

The average world price. which does not include transportation costs, is now about $12.70 per 42-gallon barrel.

Although most Americans don't realize it, the real price of imported oil has declined significantly in the last 18 months. While remaining the same in dollars, the price in real terms - meaning after inflation is taken into account - has declined as much as 12 percent since the 1977 price increase.

House leaders facing more pressure on bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - House leaders, fighting to keep President Carter's energy tax proposals together, now are under pressure to join the Senate in approving popular tax credits for home insulation and solar en-

The Senate voted Wednesday to break the credits away from other tax portions of the energy plan — where they have languished for months and to pass them separately.

This increased the chances that homeowners soon will be getting the energy tax credits Carter promised when he submitted his energy plan to Congress 16 months ago.

Under the legislation, homeowners could receive tax credits of up to $400 for insulation, storm windows, the purchase of wood-burning stoves and for a variety of other energy-conservation devices; and up to $2,200 on solar-energy equipment The credits would apply to pur-

date Carter submitted his plan to The move was seen by many observers as Senate acknowledgment that Carter's proposal for a crude oil tax - with which the tax credits had chases made after April 20, 1977 - the been linked - is dead for this year. On a lopsided voice vote, senators attached the tax credits to a Housepassed bill dealing with taxes paid by various foundations.

That sent the measure back to the House, which will have to decide when it comes back from its current recess in September - whether to join with the Senate or stand by the wishes of Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass. He wanted to keep the energy-tax package together.

Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., the chief sponsor of the move to separate the tax credits, said O'Neill will now be under considerable pressure to follow

"For one thing, there are 120 cosponsors (for a separate tax credit bill) on the House side," Hart said after Wednesday's vote.

He said the Senate vote is "an acknowledgment by one house of Congress that the package approach has run its course.'

With every House seat up in this year's congressional elections, splitting out the tax credits is sure to be politically appealing to incumbents. The administration had hoped the tax credits would provide the sweetener needed to make taxes in the energy package - including the crude oil tax more palatable.

But administration officials appeared to accept the latest development with resignation.

Hart's move "was not opposed by the administration," said Energy Department spokesman Jim Bishop.

Both chambers approved the energy-conservation tax credits in 1977, but they since have been bottled up with the crude oil tax in a House-Senate conference committee that has met only once tgis year.

"The sole reason for the delay has been the decision to hold the solar and residential tax credits hostage in order to ensure passage of a crude oil equalization tax," said Hart.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, supported the move but said he didn't think the House would go along.

Suicide, not crucifixion, says newsman of Young

By JONATHAN STEELE The Guardian

WASHINGTON - The local American ambassador dropped his eyes to his toes. The press secretary put his fingernails between his teeth. "We complain that there are Cubans in Africa," Andrew Young was starting to tell a group of Peace Corps workers in the Dominican Republic.

"But there are 20,000 Cubans in Angola doing the kind of thing that you're doing and just now we have 6,000 in our Peace Corps around the world," he went on.

As we listened, we all knew what the controversial U.S. ambassador to the United Nations meant — sort of. But did he have to use that risky analogy? Five reporters heard the words. The minute he said them, one could visualize the story flashing round the world. "Andrew Young today com-pared the Cubans in Angola to the Peace Corps..." Would one of us send it? This was not the first time Young had laid himself open to the worse excesses of our journalistic craft the dash to the phone booth, the hastily written lead, and the wounding.

Pan Am's bid to be No. 2 under close study

AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A bid by Pan American World Airways to become the nation's second largest air carrier by purchasing National Airlines has received a cautious response from federal officials and National.

Pan Am, now the country's fourthlargest carrier, offered Wednesday to buy 11th-ranked National for $301 million, or $35 a share.

Such a merger would require approval by the Civil Aeronautics Board, and CAB Chairman Alfred Kahn said the board, "under its philosophy, is always concerned when it loses a competitor in the free marketplace.

National Chairman L.B. Maytag said National would study the offer. He has been looking for a way to block an effort by Texas International Airlines to take over his airline.

Pan Am has long sought domestic routes that would feed into its international system, and airline analysts, while expressing doubt the CAB would aprove the deal, said the two route structures would blend well.

The merger proposal was announced after stock exchanges closed, but rumors of the offer made Pan Am the most heavily traded stock on the New York Stock Exchange, closing at $8.50, up $1. National did not trade, pending the announcement. It closed at $30.38

Houston-based Texas International, which closed up 38 cents at $13.63 on the American Stock Exchange, owns

9.2 percent of National and has received CAB permission to increase its ownership to 25 percent. Pan Am said it acquired 4.8 percent of the National

Texas International, a regional airline only one-fifth the size of National, paid an average price of $18.20 for its shares, and would make a $13.3 million profit if it sold out at $35. Texas International Vice President James O'Donnell declined comment on the Pan Am offer. Maytag, who disclosed the offer after a day-long meeting of the National board, said the company would study regulatory, financial and other questions before making a decision. He said National did not solicit the Pan Am bid.

A merger would vault Pan Am behind United and ahead of American and Trans World Airlines.

Alan Pollock, a CAB spokesman, noted National recently was granted authority to fly to Amsterdam, London, Paris and Frankfurt. "One reason the board gave National international routes was to provide competition for TWA and Pan Am. That's one aspect the board would have to consider," he said.

"There are other ways to strengthen your route system without buying other airlines," Pollock said.

Neither National nor Pan Am has shown impressive earnings in recent years, although Pan Am was boosted by a surge in summer travel this year. National has been hurt by labor strife and stiff competition on New York-Florida routes while Pan Am has been troubled by competition from foreign airlines.

Midland UTPB grad ponders new career

ODESSA - Success, security and confidence pushed 34-year-old Terry Nabi of Midland into looking for a college and a new career. Mrs. Nabi, like thousands of students nationwide, returned to college after a long absence from school. For PLACING fifth in method demonstration with her illustrated talk on horse training at the Southern Regional 4-H Championship meet recently held in Montgomery, Ala., is Rainy Calhoun of Midland. Miss Calhoun, 17, an eight-year veteran of 4-H work and past president of the Cotton Flat 4-H Club, is on the Texas State 4-H Council. She has followed through in many 4-H projects in horsemanship, food and nutrition, clothing, beef, lambs, photography and method demonstrations. Miss Calhoun is the daughter of Rayford and Dolly Calhoun. She will be a senior at Midland High School. (Staff others, the reasons for returning to range from boredom to job dissatisfaction to a need for cultural enrich-

But according to Mrs. Nabi, a wife, mother and legal secretary before she became a full-time student, satisfaction in her life and a feeling of contentment prompted her decision to seek a degree at Texas University of the Permian Basin. 'You reach a point where you've got to do this thing you want to do. It was a life-long dream of mine to get a degree," she said, "but I didn't go back out of boredom. Really it was almost the opposite."

"I was fulfilled as a homemaker and successful as a legal secretary. I was secure in the fact that I could always go back. The timing was good. There was an upper-level university available; I had confidence, and I guess it took the maturity of being 34 to make the decision," she said.

"What made it tough was giving up a lovely salary. I had a good, wellpaying job that was tough to walk away from, but I had encouragement from my boss," Mrs. Nabi said.

"I guess what kept me going was absolute satisfaction. That and the encouragement of faculty both at the junior college and upper level. And my friends wanted to see me do it. I think they get a kind of vicarious satisfaction. If I can do it, they can feel some of the success," she said.

Mrs. Nabi will register for her last semester at UTPB during fall registration Aug. 30-31.

She will be completing a bachelor's degree in mass communication and literature, and she will begin student teaching in an Odessa high school something she thought said she thought she would never do.

"I always said I never wanted to teach. But when you get in a classroom with a good professor, things change. There are people in your college experience that have an influence on you, and you hope you can influence in some way, like they did,"

> SELL 'EM WITH A WANT AD!

As soon as the session with the Peace Corps volunteers ended, we gave him a chance to explain what he meant about the Cubans. "Technical assistance. I'm leaving out the military people. There are probably another 30 or 40,000 military people, which I condemn, which don't have any business there and ought to get out." Reporters pointed out that he was talking specifically about Angoperhaps fatal, headline.

la. Maybe he meant to say Africa? "Yes, Africa," he said gratefully. Squashed inside the small charter plane on the flight back to Washington, a news agency man was obviously worried. "Look, we could crucify the guy," he said, turning round within earshot of Young's still tense press secretary. "What do we do?" The consensus was that we sould put it into context, and stress the clarification leading the story with it.

Back on the ground, doubts still nagged. What if someone broke the informal agreement? How would the rest of us look? One reporter wondered whether we might not be accused of covering up for Young if we did not put the quote in the lead. At lunch, the press secretary confessed he would have put the whole conversation off the record if he had not been delayed in arriving at the Peace Corps meeting. Young asked how we were going to handle it, then admitted he should have not have made the comment at all.

In the end, no one crucified him, we all had a simple lesson in the anatomy of a gaffe, and Young lives to face another day. But would it have been a crucifixion? Shouldn't the death certificate have said "suicide"? After those remarks about political prisoners in America, "Britain is chicken," and the Swedes are racists, would he never learn diplomacy?

To the U.S. Peace Corps workers in the Dominican Republican, Young gave a revealing pep-talk. He started with a little bit of autobiography and moved on to an exposition of his basic values. He spoke to them after visiting a new school and seeing a craft workshop in two desperately poor villages.

The volunteers sat on a long wooden bench in a humid airport waiting room. It was the kind of informal setting that he obviously enjoys and allows his ever-present idealism to bubble through. He told the volun-teers in effect that they were going through one of the most important phases of their lives, one which would benefit themselves as well as others.

When he had left college, he had gone to south Georgia to look after two rural churches. The countryside he had seen that morning in the Do-minican Republic reminded him of

"I was there three years. I probably did more reading, got my head to-gether more, decided what I wanted to do with life during those three years than in all my formal education. I always think that it was in those three years in south Georgia that all of my life got laid out, though I didn't know where it was going or why. I got straight the basic values that have led me into everything I've been into since. I still like to realize that democracy or human rights or any of the slogans we talk about have got to be translated into a response to basic human needs."

The United States ought to be increasing its humanitarian aid, he said. "We have an isolationist mood in America right now. At a time that the rest of the world is crying for help that ordinary Americans could give, people are tending to be a little more selfish, a little more concerned about their own short term gain.... In addition to cursing the Cubans, we ought to have 30,000 Anericans in the Peace Corps. But that means we need to pay for it. Right now, the American public is not ready to assist other people.

"If you think of a world where a billion people don't have enough to eat, don't have adequate health conditions, have shortages of housing and problems of caring for their children, there's a lot that American young people could be doing just like you're doing. I think part of the reason so many kids are screwed up personally is that they don't ever think about anybody else.

"To raise taxes to give more foreign aid may be the most unpopular thing in the American political spectrum. The big crisis in politics now is Proposition 13 in California. Everyone's fighting to see how much to reduce taxes. Yet the U.S. tax system pays the lowest percentage of taxes of almost any industrialized nation except

When the session ended, we had to dash for the plane. There was no time to ask the Peace Corps volunteers if they found him naive or impressive. He had come to boost their morale, and they seemed to enjoy his visit.

He appeared effective. Maybe that's what he is aiming to do on a global scale — be the morale booster for a troubled world. A man of undoubted charm and warmth, a determfined purveyor of goodwill, "a builder of hope," as one aide de-scribed him, "who thinks there is altogether too much fatalism at the bottom and too much cynicism at the top of just about every society."

"You twist history a little bit," Young told the volunteers as they hunched forward to hear him, "but you can say that the wave of military government started here in the Dominican Republic in the mid-1960s and went to Brazil and Argentina and swept Latin America. Let's hope that maybe the wave of democratic governments of this period in history began here yesterday. There's a possibility, because the people I talked to from Venezuela are already talking about consulting with Peru to help them move on. Others are talking about what can be done to assist in avoiding complete chaos and bloodshed in Nicaragua."

Was this not the essential Andy Young? Twist history, twist the diplomatic orthodoxies — but America's most personable crusader will keep on trying to manufacture hope.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON New drug can help

Dear Dr. Solomon: I've heard there is some new drug that prevents Montezuma's revenge. Do you know anything about this? I'm interested because I'm going to Mexico next month—and the last time I had quite a bout of traveler's diarrhea.-W.L.

Dear W.L.: The drug I think you're referring to isn't new, but the treatment is. Researchers at Johns Hopkins have found that an antibiotic called doxycycline can prevent traveler's diarrhea in the great majority of cases. The treatment is simplejust a daily dose starting 24 hours before you arrive in the country where this kind of diarrhea is a

In one test, only one of 28 persons taking the doxycycline got turista. Dr. Bradley Sack, a member of the research group, has some cautionary advice,

One is that this prescription drug can only be recommended for short-term use at present, because the effects it might have over long periods of time have not been looked into properly.

Second, the treatment is not appropriate for children or pregnant women because it can cause permanent stains on developing teeth.

Third, it is not recommended for other kinds of diarrhea, such as dysentery.

And fourth, doxycycline should be considered a supplement to the usual common sense rules. It isn't a substitute for them. In other words, in places like Mexico, and most of Latin America, Africa and Asia, don't drink water unless it is chlorinated or boiled. And don't eat fresh vegetables or fruits you can't

Dr. Smith says that in six or seven weeks most people develop immunity to the germs that cause traveler's diarrhea. Using the drug allows someone who is going to spend a short time in the country to avoid the problem. And it enables anybody who plans to stay some time to get acclimated.

Doxycycline isn't the final answer, Dr. Sack adds. Research on a vaccine is going on at Johns Hopkins and elsewhere.

Dear Dr. Solomon: When should the oral polio vaccine be given?-Mrs. D.O.

Dear Mrs. D.O.: INFANTS: The 3-dose series should be started at 6-12 weeks of age, commonly with the first dose of DTP (vaccination against diptheria, tetanus and whooping cough). The second dose should be given not less than 6 and preferably 8 weeks later. The third dose is an integral part of primary immunization and should be administered 8-12 months after the second dose or at approximately 18 months of age. CHILDREN AND ADOLESCENTS: For unimmunized children and adolescents through high school age, the series is 3 doses. The first 2 should be given 6-8 weeks apart and the third, 8-12 months after the second.

Railroad man relives great days at trade

By ROB WOOD

BROWNWOOD, Texas (AP) — His sweat-stained cowboy hat was tipped over his eyebrows to block the burning rays of the late summer sun and he frowned as he said, "No wonder there's so many derailments these days.

"Hell, there are too many folks without experience and nobody really inspects the tracks or the trains

Patrick Henry Roberts, a railroad man for 431/2 years, is convinced there no longer is the dedication that once was the symbol for the rugged, hard-drinking, fist-fighting workers that kept the trains going when rails provided the major lifeline of the na-

Roberts, 77, and retired for the past decade, sat in the spacious backyard of his Brownwood home, where on a quiet night you can hear the screech of the diesel engines, and he remembered.

He recalled how once a good brakeman or conductor could sense impending trouble with a car, just by the way it moved over the tracks.

He remembered how the cars of a train were checked slowly and carefully after stopping at a major terminal 'Now days, as far as I hear, some guy just squats down and looks as the cars roll by, and how the devil can you spot a problem that way?" he asked.

Roberts said he decided to retire after two trains on which he served as conductor had accidents within the space of a few days. Once there was a derailment and then a middleaged college professor committed suicide by leaping in front of a speeding freight. "Then when they started pulling 100 or 125 cars, I knew it was too much and time to start growing a garden before they had to plant me somewhere," said as puffed on a cigarette with the smoke drifting out and over the pinch of snuff in his lower lip.

When things got tough in the old days, Roberts said, "We took any kind of job to keep going. We were brakemen and conductors, but when there wasn't any work for us, we go to laying track or anything. By God, once I walked from Temple, Texas, to Cleburne, Texas, (about 100 miles), counting every damn tie on the line and marking with a paint brush those that needed replacing or repairing.

"At night I slept in the tool sheds at station stops along the way. Made a lot of money though — $3 a

Roberts, who followed his immigrant Irish father into railroad work, spent most of his years in Texas, although he did move to California to help build railroad bridges and to Arizona and New Mexico to lay tracks

He still has the muscular arms and solid build of a man who has driven spikes and struggled with the heavy ties. A stroke slowed him for awhile, but he now is back working in the garden and making his daily trips to the neighborhood grocery.

He admits he misses the wail of the coal-buring engines and the clack of the wheels on the tracks and the rough-and-tumble days and people like Cowboy breaking horses. He'd get to work just in time to catch the train, still wearing his boots and spurs and chaps. But he could trot along the top of those freight cars as fast as any of us and never hooked those spurs on anything.

"And there was Birddog. Another good brakeman, but had to stick his nose into everybody's business. That's why we called him Birddog.

"He got a settlement from the company once for an injury suffered on the job. Not long after that we had a derailment and Birddog was hurt again. We asked him how bad it was and he said, 'Don't know till I talk to my lawyer.""

Roberts then leaned back in his chair and said, Boy, my throat is dry from all this talking. Think it is about time for a cool one to ease the pain."

Black students boycott schools

MOORE HAVEN, Fla. (AP) - Faced with the prospect of walking to school, the vast majority of black students in the Glades County public school system have boycotted classes for two

The boycott was launched as a protest against a school board decision to discontinue a bus route through Moore Haven's black communi-

The students "remained out of school, but there have been no problems whatsoever," said Jim Higgs of the county sheriff's department.

Students began the boycott Monday, the first scheduled day of classes for the new school year.

It has been "99 percent successful," according to Joyce Young, president of the Concerned Citizens Coalition, orga-nizers of the protest. She said the boycott would continue until demands are met.

route because the county no longer could afford to pay the cost of maintaining it, according to Lee.

School districts receive state funds for routes which begin a minimum of two miles from the school, Lee said. The entire Washington Park route runs within ninetenths of a mile of the high school.

The coalition, com-prised mostly of Washington Park parents, presented petitions to the board Aug. 9 protesting its decision, Mrs. Young said. Though the board discussed repealing it, no action was taken.

Tryouts for MCT plays announced

Tryouts to fill parts in two upcoming stage productions at Midland Community Theatre are being an-

The auditions are for "Stalag 17," MCT's next regular production of the season, and "The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds," which will have a special production to show off Theater 2, the smaller, more intimate theater inside MCT's new home, Theatre Midland; 2000 W. Wadley Ave.

"Stalag 17, a Broadway hit of the 1940s which was given a production by MCT back in the 1950s, will have tryouts beginning at 3 p.m. Sunday and 8 p.m. Monday and Wednesday in Theatre Midland. There are 21 parts in the all-male show. Copies of the script may be checked out in advance from the MCT business office.

Willie Nelson

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Willie Nelson is expected to lead the finalists for the 1978 Country Music Association awards when final nominations are announced Thursday or Friday. Nelson, a 20-year country music veteran, is expected to be a finalist for the top award, entertainer of the Nelson may also reach the finalists in the single of the year category for his country version of "Georgia on My Mind," and he and partner Waylon Jennings could be in the final five for top vocal duo. Winners will be announced at the nationally televised CMA awards show Oct. 9.

Other likely finalists for entertainer f the year are Dolly Parton, Crystal Gayle, Larry Gatlin, Kenny Rogers and possibly the Statler Brothers. No group has ever won this award, but nothing in the rules prevents it. Blind pianist Ronnie Milsap won the top award last year, and no one has ever been chosen top entertainer twice in the 11-year history of these awards.

Besides Nelson, the finalists for male vocalist of the year are expected to come from among Gatlin, Rogers, Milsap, Jennings, Johnny Paycheck and Eddie Rabbitt. Milsap has won this award three times, including last Expected finalists for top female vocalist are Miss Parton, Miss Gayle, Margo Smith, Loretta Lynn and Linda Ronstadt. Miss Gayle won last year, displacing Miss Parton who had won twice straight.

The other production, "Marigolds," will have performances beginning in late September as part of the grandopening celebration at Theatre Midland. The all-female cast numbers five - ranging from old and middleaged, to teenage.

Tryouts will be at 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday in Theatre 2, downstairs. Copies of the script are available for checkout before tryouts

For either production, previous acting experience is not necessaery, and persons do not have to be MCT season members to qualify for a part. Newcomers to the city and surrounding area are given a special invitation to come and read for parts in either show. MCT "old hands" also will be welcomed, of course. NEW YORK - "Nobody knows my limits as an actor yet, including me," says Nick Nolte, who became famous playing brawny, dumbblond heroes in "Rich Man, Poor Man" on TV and "The Deep" on screen. Nolte has good reason to gloat over how his latest role - as a Nietzschean ex-Marine in "Who'll Stop the Rain" - makes him a contender for the year's best-acting prizes.

A first-rate chase movie that starts with Nolte smuggling a cache of heroin from Vietnam to the United States. 'Who''ll Stop the Rain'' is also a study of character, friendship and how the war is brought back comedy to the prince in home by veterans and a corrupt CIA official. Nolte co-stars with Michael Moriarty and Tuesday Weld.

His performance will surprise those who felt that Nolte had found his niche as a photogenic hunk in "The Deep," where he was asked only to wear a bathing suit, scuba gear and mustache and stay out of the way of the film's real actor (Robert Shaw) and principal attraction (Jacqueline Bisset, braless in a wet, clinging T-shirt).

Nolte's career as an actor was mainly spent in American regional theaters where he played a gamut of roles over a dozen years, from light children's fairy tales to the classics. It was a one-act William Inge prison play, "The Pad," first put on in Arizona and then in Los Angeles, that bought him to the attention of television

"I got a rush, right off the play, went straight into television, worked up through the ranks of NBC's "Weekend" newsmagazine show embarks on a gutsy new course this fall, maybe not make-or-break, but as co-anchor Lloyd Dobyns says, "an enormous

The network has shifted the 4-year-old program from its once-amonth, late night slot, to prime time. "Weekend" will be broadcast monthly at 10 p.m. Sundays through November, then weekly at the same time beginning in December.

The premiere show is Sept. 10, with installments scheduled for Oct. 8 and Nov. 12.

NBC is taking a chance moving "Weekend" to prime time. News and news-oriented programs rarely do well in the ratings, and Dobyns is cauiously optimistic about his show's future.

sure 'Weekend' won't be the highest-rated show on television," he says, but I have no doubt it will do very well for a news program. "We had an audience of 10 million in the old time slot, a hard core of maybe 5 million. But will they watch us now? I don't know. I do know good one.

Until this fall, "Weekend" was 90 minutes a month in an 11:30 p.m. slot shared with the network's popular "Saturday Night Live" program. It has enjoyed success and critical acclaim with an offbeat approach to the news. Dobyns in four years has traveled the world to cover a range of stories, some investigative in nature. The program was developed by Reuven Frank, who continues as executive producer.

NBC has beefed up the Weekend" staff for the prime time effort, teaming Dobyns, the show's chief writer, reporter and anchor from the start in October 1974,

"Weekend" takes an impressive track record two Peabody awards and several other citations for subject matter and film — to the prime gamble for the net- time arena, where it is certain to be compared with CBS' hit "60 Mi nutes" and ABC's recent addition, "20-20.

> Indeed, "20-20" suffered from the same comparison when it premiered in June. Critics panned the first installment, and ABC was quick to bounce the show's original co-anchormen in favor of Hugh Downs, formerly host of NBC's "Today" program.

NBC has made some cosmetic changes in Weekend," but Dobyns says the format for prime time essentially will be the same — from one to five separate seg-'You can be pretty ments, with the emphasis on good film.

"We've always believed and tried to prove that reality is entertaining," Dobyns says. "We just tell people what's actually happening, and most of the time it's funny. It's a weird world

Dobyns says "Weekend" tries to be timely, that the program will be and that often precludes planning. "We do each show as it comes along,' he says, "frantically.

"As stories come up, Dobyns says, "Reuven assigns a producer, then he'll talk with Linda and me and we'll decide which of us will do it.

House Texans reject Republican tax plan

WASHINGTON - Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Aug. 10 through Aug. 16.

HOUSE

ERA EXTENSION. Voted, 233 for and 189 against, to extend by 39 months the deadline for states to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment. The current deadline of March 22, 1979 would be extended to June 30, 1982. The proposed constitutional amendment has been ratified by 35 states. Three more must ratify it before it becomes part of the U.S. Constitution. The Senate has not acted on the resolution (HJ Res 638) to extend the deadline and there is doubt that a final Senate vote will occur this year.

ROLL CALL REPORT

Rep. Barbara Jordan, D-Tex., a supporter, said: "Women have been going through the agony and ecstasy all their lives, and we will continue to do so until the words 'equal rights under the law shall not be denied because of sex' are part of the Constitution. We shall continue unrelentingly as long as is necessary.

Members voting "yea" favored extending the time for ratifying the

Reps. Samuel Hall. D-1, James Collins, R-3, Ray Roberts, D-4, Bill Archer, R-7, Bob Eckhardt, D-8, Jack Brooks, D-9, Jake Pickle, D-10, W.R. Poage, D-11, Jack Hightower, D-13, Kika de la Garza, D-15, Omar Burleson, D-17, George Mahon, D-19, and Abraham Kazen, D-23, Rep. Olin Teague, D-6, did not vote

GOP TAX CUT. Rejected, 177 for and 240 against, a proposal to reduce individual federal income tax rates across the board by about 33 percent over the next three years. The measure, known as Kemp-Roth for its co-sponsors, Rep. Jack Kemp, R-NY., and Sen. William Roth, R-Del., is becoming a major campaign issue for the Republican Party. The vote, therefore, provided a clear choice between Democratic Party and GOP approaches to federal taxation.

The vote rejected a motion to send a tax bill back to the Ways and Means Committee with instructions that the committee report it back to the House with Kemp-Roth in it.

Kemp, a supporter, said the proposal would give Americans "incentive to work, save, invest and take the total tax base...providing additional revenues with which to offset federal budget deficits...

Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., an opponent, called Kemp-Roth "glittering bauble of opportunism" that is "the irresponsible way to cut taxes...simply to slash them indiscriminately and without regard for the effect it will have on the spiraling deficits and rampaging inflation.'

Members voting "yea" favored Kemp-Roth.

Collins, Archer, de la Garza and Gammage voted "yea."

Wilson, Roberts, Mattox, Eckhardt, Brooks, Pickle, Poage, Wright, Hightower, Young, White, Burleson, Jordan, Mahon, Gonzalez, Krueger and Kazen voted "nay." Teague and Milford did not vote.

BUDGET CUT. Defeated, 155 for and 241 against, an amendment to cut fiscal 1979 spending by one percent (about $5.6 billion) across the board in all government programs and departments. The measure was offered to the congressional budget resolution (H Con Res 683) setting overall ceilings and targets for government revenues and expenditures. The resolution sets a maximum federal budget of $561 billion in the fiscal year that begins October 1.

Rep. Jake Pickle, D-Tex., a supporter, said the amendment "may be the very best way to show that we are trying to tighten our belts" and is 'perhaps the best, if not the last, chance today for us to make a meaningful cut in the overall budget

Members voting "yea" favored the one percent cut in federal spending.

Hall, Collins, Mattox, Archer, Pickle, de la Garza and Gammage voted "yea." Wilson, Roberts, Eckhardt, Brooks, Poage, Wright, Hightower, White, Burleson, Jordan, Mahon, Gonzalez, Krueger, Kazen and Milford voted "nay." Teague and Young did not vote.

SENATE TUITION TAX CREDITS. Passed, 65 for and 27 against, a bill allowing parents a tax credit of 50 percent of tuition and fees for each child in college or post-secondary vocational school, up to a maximum of $250 per student. The credit is retroactive to Aug. 1, 1978, and will be increased to $500 per student Oct. 1, 1980. The bill (HR 12050) was sent to conference with the House.

Senators voting "yea" favored the tuition tax credit. Sens. Lloyd Bentsen, D, and John Tower, R, voted "yea."

TUITION TAX CREDITS. Approved, 56 for and 41 against, an amend-amount of economic activity, expand tion tax credits. The bill (HR 12050) was later passed and sent to conference with the House (see vote below). This amendment limited the tax credit to college and postsecondary vocational schooling.

Members voting "yea" were opposed to tax credits for private and parochial school education. Bentsen voted "yea."

Tower voted "nay."

CONGRESSMEN FOR D.C.? Agreed, 71 for and 22 against, to debate a proposed constitutional amendment (HJ Res 554) to give the District of Columbia two senators and one or more representatives in Con-

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., a supporter, said: "We cannot talk about human rights to others in the world until we here at home can show we are recognizing basic human rights. One of America's fundamental rights is the right to participate in a democracy. Residents of the District are being denied of that right."

Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, an opponent, said if the amendment were adopted, D.C. "would have all of the privileges of statehood without the concurrent responsibilities, and our system of dual federalism would be seriously damaged.'

Virtually all senators voting "nay" oppose the granting of congressmen

Bentsen voted "yea." Tower voted "nay."

Record low fare asked

WASHINGTON (AP) - World Airways, a California-based charter airline, should be permitted to offer a record low-fare of $99 for scheduled nonstop, no-frills service between east and west coast cities, a Civil Aeronautics Board law judge recommended today.

Judge William H. Dapper would " permit World Airways to offer the $99 Cone-way fare from Baltimore and Newark on the east coast and from the California cities of Oakland, Long Beach and Los Angeles-Ontario.

Current one-way transcontinental coach tickets cost about $220, while the cheapest advance purchase roundtrip discount fares range from $242 to $286.

Dapper, dismissing applications by several other airlines for similiar low-fare routes, concluded that the transcontinental markets would have enough traffic in 1979 to support only one new entrant on a profitable basis. He recommended that the board give World authority to serve the markets for five years.

Drawing trumps quickly can hurt

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

According to the 1970 census, 100,000 men have drowned themselves in the Mississippi because they failed to draw trumps. Nobody has examined the other rivers, which are used by those who have drawn trumps too

South ruffed the third club and drew three rounds of trumps as fast as he could get the cards out of his hand. It was thought that he had shaved a second off the old trump-drawing record, but nobody had looked at a stop-watch.

The rest of the hand took longer. South eventually gave up a heart and a diamond. Down one.

ONLY TWO ROUNDS

Declarer makes the contract if he draws only two rounds of trumps. Then he takes the three top hearts. As it happens, East must follow suit; and West cannot ruff because he has no trumps.

South then ruffs his last heart with dummy's last trump, thus scoring game and rubber.

The actual declarer could make the contract only if the six missing hearts were divided 3-3. The correct play will make the contract not only if the hearts break evenly but also if the player with length in hearts also has the last trump.

DAILY QUESTION

Declarer opens with 1 NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: S Q 72, H K 54, D Q J 73, C J 52. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid 2 NT. The combined count must be 25 to 27 points. If you had a ten or even a couple of nines you would jump to 3 NT.
