Charm fades for the man with the all-occasion smile

By PETER ARNETT

NEW YORK (AP) — Nicky Louie had a smile for everyone, but this week his charm failed. Somebody shot him in the head.

This may help him make a decision he told acquaintances he was wrestling with for some time: retire early or - at age 23 - move further into international gangsterism.

Police in the Chinatowns of New York, Boston, Chicago and Toronto are interested in his decision. But they'll have to wait. The bullet-ridden Louie, with serious wounds in the head and back, lies in a New York City hospital. He is in satisfactory condition but faces several weeks in intensive care.

"I don't trust anyone," he had told a reporter last year, and only his parents have been allowed past the round-the-clock police guard at his door to find out how he feels now.

Fifty GSA indictments expected

WASHINGTON (AP) - Investigations of alleged fraud and extortion in the General Services Administration should lead to at least 50 indictments involving millions of dollars in bribes, says the chief of the troubled agen-

GSA Administrator Jay Solomon made the estimates Wednesday, while the agency's top investigator said investigators have uncovered bribes to GSA employees from contractors working on federal build-

The FBI, U.S. attorneys and grand juries in several cities - as well as the GSA itself — are looking into alleged corruption in the agency which serves as the federal government's builder, landlord and supply

Earlier this summer, Solomon had told a Senate subcommittee he expected about 25 indictments to come from the various investigations.

But he raised his estimate Wednesday, saying he expected "probably in the neighborhood of 50 ... indictments in the next few months...at least."

Many of these people will be GSA employees and GSA contractors, but some employees of other agencies may also be named, he said.

Solomon's estimate may be conservative since sources familiar with the investigations said earlier this summer that 100 federal employees would probably be indicted by grand juries in various cities

At Wednesday's news conference, Vincent Alto, the former federal prosecutor hired by Solomon as GSA spe cial counsel, repeated an earlier statement that $66 million a year in government money is being lost through criminal activities, with a substantial part of that money going to GSA employees as bribes. He said, "I think the indict ments...will show that it is in the millions of dollars

'This wouldn't necessarily mean that GSA employees were getting all of (the $66 million). I think the lion's share of the money was received by contractors and vendors

Both Alto and Solomon said they did not know anything about talk that some of the bribe money is ending up in Swiss bank accounts, except that the FBI is conducting an investigation of that possibility

A source who asked not to be identified said earlier this week that federal agents were piecing together the story of GSA employees funneling "big, big money" into the Swiss accounts

Nicky Louie's fate is being watched by New York police who have for nearly a decade been attempting to stamp out Chinatown gangs. Hired as thugs to protect the traditional illegal gambling that flourish in Chinese communities, the aggresive teen-agers soon went into business for themselves and profits grew into the millions Famous Chinatown streets such as Mott and Pell became prosperous turf for youth gangs calling themselves such names as the White Eagles and the Flying Dragons. They systematically demanded protection money from businessmen and their own rivalry sometimes erupted in gunfire.

Gangs sprang up in other American and Canadian cities, accompanied by public shootouts and private murders. Police seemed unable to penetrate the traditional Chinese silence toward outside authority, even though some Chinatowns were threatened with bankruptcy.

Police believe that Nicky Louie tried to link it all together. "He tried to be the Joe Columbo of Chinese ancestry," commented one detective, referring to a New York organized crime chieftain with national connections who was gunned down several years ago.

Louie doesn't seem the type. Pale and boyish, he is a dresser so natty that even his jeans are carefully pressed. He would smile disarmingly at reporters who sought to interview him at the Wha Sun coffee shop, his favorite haunt on Mott Street.

Police officers who have arrested him several times over the years only to release him when witnesses fail to testify - say Louie is above average in intelligence and leadership qualities. But in other ways he is similar to most other youth gang

With the Chinese name Lin Poy

Luy, he arrived in New York 12 years ago with his immigrant parents from Hong Kong. He left a dilapidated tenement to head a teen-age gang that called itself the Ghost Shadows and roamed one of the poorer neighborhoods of Chinatown.

By 1974, the Ghost Shadows had pushed out competing gangs and moved to the heart of the communi-

By 1977, police estimated the Ghost Shadows were taking in more than a million dollars a year in extortion. Chinatown rocked with gunfights as other gangs competed, but Nicky

President rested, fit, ready for compromise By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) - Looking rested and fit, President Carter urged 11 governors today to support a natural gas price compromise, saying the effect would be "devastating" if Congress fails to enact an energy plan. Returning early from a Western holiday to wrestle with issues that conceivably could make or break his administration, Carter put the natural gas bill at the top of his post-vaca-

Although the president said the compromise, soon to be debated by the Senate, is "not perfect," he argued that rejection by Congress would be devastating to the standing of the dollar, the big national trade deficit and inflation.

Carter said Congress faces "a difficult vote" on the issue, with "no political advantage to be derived from it." But he described the compromise as "fair, well balanced and desperately needed.

Asking the governors to personally lend their support, the president said the pending congressional action is the most important measure the legislative branch will face this year. While saying the bill does not meet all his wishes, Carter said it offers "no clear-cut advantage for either producers or consumers. "The entire world i looking to see if we have the national will" to adopt an energy blueprint, Carter declared. The meeting with the delegation of governors preceded another selling session with about 100 representatives of major natural gas users sche-

David Boren of Oklahoma, Jay Rockefeller of West Virginia; Brendan Byrne of New Jersey, Julian Carroll of Kentucky, Ray Blanton of Tennessee, Richard D. Lamm of Colorado, Dolph Briscoe of Texas and Dixy Lee Ray of Washington.

But the fate of natural gas legislation is only one of an array of complex issues and disputes that Carter must contend with in the days and weeks

Reaching climactic stages at a point when the president is striving to boost his popularity and escape a can't-do image are such other issues as Middle East peace, prospective income tax cuts, Civil Service reorganization, water policy and allocation of defense funds.

These rank with energy policy as items that may well determine Carter's standing with the voters as the 1980 election campaign draws ever closer.

Carter, his wife Rosalynn and daughter Amy returned to the White House early Wednesday evening after a flight by helicopter and Air Force One from Grand Teton National Park in Wyoming.

The president cut his vacation two days short to be here for strategy sessions on the natural gas debate and to prepare for next week's summit meeting at Camp David, Md., with Israel's Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Egypt's President Anwar Sadet.

Murphy's Laws, 1 and 2, and policy better understand how and why something could go amiss.

Police keep close eye on fall of gang leader

Louie reigned supreme, avoiding at least one assassination attempt. Then it all fell apart.

Police say one reason was ambi tion. Nicky's brother, Eddie, led a Toronto chapter of the Ghost Shadows, and the brother attempted to recruit gang members in Boston and Chicago. When these new recruits began arriving here, Nicky's formerly loyal, close-knit lieutenants rebelled because they felt threatened by the outsiders.

Two, nicknamed Mongo and Apple head, early this year formed another Ghost Shadows faction. Other gangs began muscling in

But a bigger reason for Nicky's downfall, police claim, is the success in an international campaign to stamp out Chinese gangs. Following a conference in Toronto last year, intelligence on gang activities is now routinely filed across the country.

A special task force of 20 New York officers was assigned to Chinatown in ebruary, and they claim to have used every regular gambling game in the community. "There may be a floating crap game or two, but that is all," said Capt. Allan Hoehl, who heads the Chinatown police precinct. With revenues cut so drastically, gang members became even more unruly. "Nicky was clever up to a one detective said. "But he point," wanted too much and it blew up in his face.

On Monday night, Nicky was playing a friendly game of mah-jongg in the dimly lighted basement of the Gin Beck restaurant on Mott Street. It was supposed to be a safe haven, but a man with a .38 pistol walked through the downstairs kitchen and blasted Louie four times in the head and claimed he did not tell Mrs. Davis of his meetings with the FBI or McCrory and maintains McCrory was unaware of his visits to the Davis mansion.

Attorneys hired to defend Davis on a charge of solicitation of capital murder have said they intend to show the millionaire industrialist was set up and framed

A defense attorney said Wednesday that testimony as developed by the defense Wednesday indicates a "means by which three people could be communicating through one person...sometimes known as carrying water or messages.'

Burleson testified he was a close personal friend of Mrs. Davis and had known her for about eight years, though he maintained he never spent the night at the Davis mansion.

He said he visited Mrs. Davis a half dozen times while she was hospitalized after a shooting at the mansion in 1976. Davis was charged and cleared of one count of capital murder but still faces other charges in connection with the episode.

Burleson also testified he had loaned money to Mrs. Davis and that she had paid him back in cash, checks and gifts.

After several defense mentions of Burleson's financial records, prosecutors demanded and were allowed to see a portion of the subpoenaed materials. Defense attorneys were also ordered to bring additional materials this morning.

Haynes' questions and Burleson's testimony at times became tedious, with Haynes suspending a line of questioning just at the point when it appeared to be headed for a conclusion. But the testimony could have laid the groundwork for bringing Mrs. Davis into the case as a witness.

'We think that the financial activities between David McCrory, Pat Burleson and Priscilla Davis are significant," said defense attorney Steve

Prosecutors earlier accused Davis' attorneys of "sacrificing his freedom on bond" in their search for soft spots in the state's case against the millionaire for possible use in a later jury

The defense is now "eliminating any possibility of getting their client out on bond because the more evidence they put on, the more solid our case becomes," said Assistant Tarrant County District Attorney Jerry Buckner. He described the defense questioning of Burleson as little more than "a very, very expensive deposi-

The Labor Government here has been under intense pressure from the French and West German gover-ments to look to Europe rather than to America for partners in future aero-

Such plans are still under negotiation. The A300-B10 airbus project has become a source of British-French dispute.

Replacement sought

In a story on the Midland County commissioners which appeared in Tuesday's editions of The Reporter-Telegram, it was inaccurately reported tha tthe district attorney's office is seeking replacement for its investigator. Dewey Lee, the investigator, is not leaving his position. The district attorney actually is seeking a replacement for assistant district attorney Timothy Sloan, who will leave her position some time in September.

There was speculation the fatal bullet was fired during a shootout between bodyguards and the four men and a woman who ambushed Hugo Margain Charles and an American friend Tuesday night near Margain's home on the south side of Mexico

Police sources said the body was found in a field near Chalco, 18 miles from Mexico City, at 8 a.m. Wednesday, some 12 hours later, and taken to the morgue at Chalco. But it was not identified until 10: 30 p.m., the sources

Detectives said the body was clad in a suit jacket and underwear, and the spot where it was found was relatively free of blood, indicating Margain had been dead some time before the body was dumped there.

Margain, director of the Institute of Philosophy at the University of Mexico, was riding in his 1972 Dodge with an American friend, Justin Evans, and with bodyguards in a car follow-

A police report said the Dodge was intercepted by a black Ford Galaxie containing four men and a woman.

"When the bodyguards ... tried to intervene," the report said, "the attackers...opened up with a burst of submachine-gun fire. A bodyguard was wounded. Return fire by the bodyguards also presumably wounded one of the attackers, but they all managed to escape.

Evans, who was not otherwise identified, also was wounded, but a spokesman at the hospital where he was treated said his condition was not serious and he had been released.

The kidnappers left behind a leaflet signed by the 23rd of September Communist League, Mexico's most active left-wing urban gang. It said: "Await instructions. The kidnapping is to obtain money for the struggle of the proletariat.

Police sources reported that a member of the Margain household reported the family got a phone call from the kidnappers demanding $2 million in ransom.

News of the kidnapping was blacked out until Wednesday afternoon, apparently because the family feared publicity would hamper negotiations for the release of the missing man. For hours after the word leaked out, the family and most official sources refused to confirm the kidnapping.

Margain's father, Hugo B. Margain, is serving his second tour as ambassador to the United States. He also has been Mexico's ambassador to Britain and secretary of the Mexican Treasury. He was reported with the family in Mexico City.

The 23rd of September Communist League takes its name from the date of a shootout more than a dozen years ago between student activists and soldiers at an army barracks in the northern state of Chihuahua. It is Mexico's largest and best-organized guerrilla gang.

John Swanson of Mission Viejo, Calif. thought of bidding a game with the North hand after his partner opened the bidding. Instead, he raised feebly to two spades because East had doubled one notrump. The double promised good distribtuion with marked shortness in spades. Since spades were sure to break very badly, North decided that his hand wasn't worth its normal value.

Los Angeles expert Fred Hamilton won the first trick with the nine of spades, noting the horrible trump break, led a club to the ace and returned a heart from dummy. East put in the queen and was allowed to hold the trick.

RUFFS IN DUMMY

The diamond return went to dummy's ace, and declarer took the ace of hearts and ruffed a heart with dummy's remaining trump. He then cashed the king of clubs and ruffed a club with the ten of spades.

West overruffed and led a heart, allowing Hamilton to make the five of trumps. Declarer now led a diamond, and West was forced to ruff and return a trump to the ace-jack, so that Hamilton made his contract plus an

Water comments to halt Sept. 9

AMARILLO - The comment period on the draft environmental statement on the Pecos River Basin Water Salvage Project is being closed by the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation.

The deadline set for receipt of comments is Sept. 9, according to Robert H. Weimer, regional director of the bureau's Southwest Region here.

The Pecos River Basin Water Salvage Project is a salt cedar management program in the flood plain of the Pecos River from Santa Rosa, N.M., to Girvin, Texas, near McCamey.

The area extends through Guadalupe, De-Baca, Chaves and Eddy counties in New Mexico and through Loving, Reeves, Ward, Crane and Pecos counties in Texas.

Purposes of the project are to prevent further water supply decreases in the basin, to enhance the basin's water supply, to protect farmlands from flood hazards and to conserve fish and wildlife, according to offi-

The draft environmental statement officially was filed on Aug. 18, 1977, and was made available to the public for comment the following day. Public hearings were held in Santa Rosa and Roswell, N.M., and Pecos, Texas, in October 1977 to receive views and comments from interested persons, according to The deadline to receive comments was extended indefinitely because of an evaluation report being prepared by the U.S. Geological Survey.

sermon Vermont

Readers may remember an editorial from The Caledonian-Record of St. Johnsbury, Vt., blasting price controls on and federal regulation of natural gas, which was reproduced in The Reporter-Telegram sometime last year. It was a great editorial.

Well, the Vermont newspaper and many of the good people of Vermont still are hacking away at the problem, which is nationwide in scope.

Writer John McClaughry of Concord, Vt., a strong advocate of deregulation, sends along the following editorial from the Aug. 18 issue of The Caledonian-Record which, once again, hits the nail squarely on the head:

"Much concern has recently been expressed over the danger to the public of shipments of Liquefied Natural Gas (LNG) coming into the United States from foreign countries. An LNG ship is truly a floating bomb, as a famous explosion in Cleveland harbor in World War II demonstrated. "What the concerned public should ask, however, is why LNG shipments have increased so sharply to Eastern port cities. The reason is simply that so long as the federal government imposes price controls on American natural gas, our own producers will not drill 25,000-foot wells, or erect expensive drilling platforms on the continental shelf, or seek ways of separating natural gas from geopressurized water

"Without such investment by producers to release and market our own natural gas, gas utilities have been forced to look elsewhere for a source of supply. One such source is foreign natural gas, mainly from Algeria, for which American gas utilities are paying a price far above the American controlled price.

ART BUCHWALD Packaging firms meet challenge of inflation

(Editor's Note: Art Buchwald is on assignment for a few weeks trying to find out if there are any Cuban troops on Cape Cod. He left behind his all-time favorite columns.) WASHINGTON - The wonderful thing about American industry is that it rises to every challenge. Even something as distasteful as inflation has not discouraged most manufacturers. The solution to the problem is not in the product but in the package. Rather than raise the prices on many goods, American industry is devising new methods to make the product smaller, while making the package larger. In this way, the customer feels assured that nothing has changed.

I visited one of the largest packaging companies in the country the other day to see how they were doing it. The vice-president in charge of inflationary design took me around the plant.

"We're going 24 hours," he said proudly. "Everyone is asking us for new designs to help them get through this rough period. I noticed women in white smocks

Strikes greeting school openings in four states

By ELLEN NIMMONS

Some 150,000 schoolchildren across the United States were without their regular teachers today, and eight Indiana teachers were in jail for refusing to return to work, as labor disputes opened the 1978 school year.

The largest school system struck was New Orleans, where some 91,000 students were affected but schools remained open.

Teachers were also on strike in Michigan, Illinois and Indiana.

Other work stoppages were threatened, the situation in many states mirroring that in Michigan, where 192 teacher contracts — about 40 percent - were still up for decision.

Some school bus drivers were also on strike, with New Orleans bus drivers and maintenance men voting to stop work with the expiration of their contract at midnight tonight.

In Tennessee, a strike by county school bus operators cut opening day attendance from the normal 29,000 Wednesday as only 24 of 181 buses traveled their regular routes.

Appeals expected from districts

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - New estimates of school district property values, the knife that cuts the state aid pie, will average almost double those now in use, sources

A third of all Texas school districts will be so unhappy with the estimates that they will appeal, says Kenneth Graeber, an associate director of the School Tax Assessment Practices Board.

Many camps help children with diabetes

By RUTH BAYARD SMITH

OXFORD, Mass. (AP) — "You know, all the kids in this camp are diabetic. I didn't know there were that many diabetics in the whole world."

The 7-year-old diabetic girl was talking to Betty Kruczek, director of the Clara Barton Camp for Girls. She had just arrived for a two-week stay in the gently rolling hills of south-central Massachusetts, 45 miles west of Boston.

"Her reaction was not unusual," said Mrs. Kruczek. "Most kids don't know many other diabetics before they get here, and they usually haven't told very many people that they're diabetic."

Clara Barton and its brother camp, Elliot P. Joslin, in nearby Charlton, are two of 57 camps in the United States which run summer programs for diabetic children.

"We try to help the child or young adult with diabetes learn about the disease and have a normal camping experience at the same time," said Paul Madden, the director of the Joslin camp.

Madden — who has been at Joslin every summer since his own diabetes was diagnosed when he was 9 — oversees about 250 campers each summer.

— oversees about 250 campers each summer.

Unlike adults with diabetes, who can often control the disease by taking oral medication or by changing their diets, diabetic children must go through the daily regimen of giving themselves insulin shots, taking blood and urine tests, and carefully monitoring their eating.

When children get diabetes, they have to confront the fact they're different from other youngsters. Sometimes, that means realizing many people don't know how to deal with the disease.

"It's weird," said Richard McCarthy, Joslin's waterfront director, "But when my diabetes was diagnosed, I lost my friends. I guess they were afraid I'd go into a reaction or something. I think they just didn't know what to expect."

Experiences like the one McCarthy had apparently are not uncommon, and one of the main functions of the camps is to teach children how to deal with society's often unpredictable reactions.

"We try to let the kids know coping with diabetes is easier if they talk about it," Madden said. "We want to encourage them not to be afraid of how they feel. Just having the support of other kids and staff who are diabetic helps."

The youngsters agree.
"There's a community of diabetics here," said Brent, who's 11. "I like trying to educate my friends about diabetes. I really do. But sometimes its nice to be able to talk about being diabetic without having to explain everything."

Does singling out these children as diabetics affect their outlook at camp? "When the kids get here, we ask them to list the 10 most important things in their lives," said Lisa Reavill, Barton's program director.

"Invariably, diabetes is listed. We want to help the children take care of the diabetes so that they are free to do the other things that are important to

To an outsider, Camp Joslin and Camp Barton are like any other summer camps. The children swim, produce and air their own radio programs, go on bicycle trips and have dances.

Rick Wheeler is Joslin's program director—and in the minority at camp, because he's not diabetic. He explained what a change camp is for some children:

"In some cases, a kid with diabetes has always been treated as if he's very fragile. We want a child to participate in activities to show him that he's not. But we also want to teach him that active and inactive periods are critical in treating diabetes."

But we also want to teach him that active and inactive periods are critical in treating diabetes."

Because eating elevates the blood sugar level, it's important that a diabetic exercise after eating to burn off energy. Each mealtime at camp, therefore, is followed by a scheduled active period.

burn off energy. Each mealtime at camp, therefore, is followed by a scheduled active period.

All camp activities are interspersed with blood and urine tests so that campers' blood sugar levels can be monitored. The campers seem to accept this communal testing as an activity as normal as flag raising or a general swim.

raising or a general swim.

At both camps there's a resident doctor, as well as nurses, nurses aides and a dietician.

Tuition at the boys' camp — which is operated by the Joslin Diabetes Foundation of Boston — is $150 a week. The Unitarian Universalist Women's Federation operates the girls' camp, which charges $400 for a two-week session.

Court reinstates fired GSA men

BOSTON (AP) — Two men fired from the General Services Administration after disclosing alleged contract abuses in the agency's Boston office will be rehired and awarded up to $25,000 under a U.S. District Court settlement.

At the same time, the GSA said Tuesday it had resolved what it termed "long-standing personnel disputes" involving two other GSA employees, Albert Petrillo of Washington and Wilton Shearin of San Francisco.

The Boston Globe quoted GSA Administrator Jay Solomon as saying he had concluded that the firings of Robert Tucker and Robert Sullivan were "excessive" punishment, and that he felt employees have been afraid to admit wrongdoing because of fear of punishment.

Petrillo and Shearin "apparently were treated harshly just for doing their jobs properly," Solomon said in a prepared statement.

As part of the settlement reached in Boston and filed with Judge Walter Jay Skinner, both Tucker and Sullivan agreed to drop their federal court suits against the GSA for job reinstatement.

Solomon said the allegations against the GSA's Boston office were being looked into by GSA investigators.

Tucker, 41, who was an electrical engineer in GSA's Construction Management Division, was fired in 1975 after telling the news media and the FBI he had been ordered to inflate government estimates and that GSA officials used false reasons to duck formal bidding procedures on some construction contracts. Sullivan, 43, a GSA criminal investigator at the time he was fired in 1976, provided an audit and FBI investigative reports to the Globe.

Nicaraguan civilians, guard continue fighting

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) - A nationwide strike called to force the ouster of President Anastasio Somoza appared to be losing steam today, but fighting raged between national guard troops and armed civilians controlling much of the northern city of Matagalpa.

No reliable figures were available on the effectiveness of the strike, in Managua or in the provinces. But only about half of the stores in the capital's major shopping center were closed Wednesday and most businesses elswhere in the capital were open.

"It certainly is not causing a crisis," said one diplomat who asked not be be named.

The strike was called a week ago by political leaders opposed to Somoza. It was supported later by the Nicaraguan Confederation of Chambers of Commerce and the Nicaraguan Development Institute, the country's two leading associations of businessmen and industrialists. But the response to the members apparently was flagging. The archbishop of Managua, Miguel Obando y Bravo, failed in an attempt to stop the bloody fighting in Matagalpa, a city of 40,000 about 100 miles north of Managua and returned to the capital to try to see the presi-

"It was a scene of savagery like I've never seen," one veteran Latin American correspondent said of the situation in Matagalpa. The correspondent, who asked not to be named, said there was continual gunfire.

The number of deaths confirmed by the government or the Red Cross rose to 38 since the latest outbreak of violence Aug. 22, when leftist guerrillas took over the capitol building and seized 1,500 hostages. But eyewitness accounts from Matagalpa indicated the toll was much higher.

AP photographer Valente Cotera followed Archbishop Obando into the town Wednesday after national guardsmen blocking the road agreed to hold their fire.

"When we went in the archbishop shouted over a bullhorn that he came to arrange a truce," Cotera reported. "People were glad to see us and ran into the streets to help remove the barricades. All of them were armed, mostly with handguns. We finally reached a blocked intersection where we were stopped by people who said they didn't want a cease-fire, and that it was just a national guard trick to test their position.

"About that time the guard opened up with rifle fire a block away and the crowd bolted."

Cotera followed the archbishop back to the Red Cross headquarters at the edge of town.

"When we started to drive away from the Red Cross headquarters all hell broke loose. There was shooting on all sides. Everyone but the driver was on the floor of the car."

Another correspondent said he went into the rear of a deserted hotel where several persons were supposed to have been killed.

'We found four bodies on the floor of the front room," he reported.
"They had literally been cut to pieces by machine-gun fire. We snapped some pictures and ran out the back door as the guard drove by the front of the building firing a machine-gun." Red Cross workers said eight rockets were fired at the town from airplanes Tuesday, and that there had been machine-gun fire from the air. Maj. Gen. Armando Jose Fernandez. chief of staff of the national guard, said rockets had not been used, but that the planes strafed sniper posi-

Fernandez claimed the fighting was caused by Communist guerrillas pressuring the population to join the strike. He said the Communists were making an all-out effort in Matagalpa because the strike had failed in other parts of the country.

The businessmen opposed to the 40-year-old Somoza family dictator-ship accuse it of mismanaging the economy, of monopolizing much of the industry and business of the country and of condoning widespread corruption. They say the longer the family remains in power, the more people will shun moderation and turn to the Sandinista guerrillas,

Common Cause cites agencies for keeping meetings secret

By MARTHA COLE

WASHINGTON (AP) - Some of the federal agencies named by Common Cause as having records of secrecy in their meetings say they have followed the law in keeping some meetings

But David Cohen, president of Common Cause, a citizens' lobby, said the agencies often are closing thetir doors even when discussion of the subject matter is clearly in the public interest.

He said the president and Congress should require them to make a public accounting for their secrecy.

a study on Wednesday saying that fewer than 40 percent of the meetings of the 47 federal agencies covered by the Sunshine Act were fully open to the public in the first full year of the law.

The Sunshine Act, effective in March 1977, is intended to open more government agency meetings to public scrutiny, except when they are dealing with such subjects as national security, confidential fi-nancial matters, trade secrets, personal privacy and deciding cases.

Common Cause cited three agencies for outstanding compliance with the Sunshine Act: Tennessee Valley Authority, Interstate Commerce Commission and Civil Aeronautics Board.

But it listed seven agencies as the "Secret Seven," for having the most consistent records of secrecy.

They were the Export-Import Bank, National Labor Relations Board, Occupational Safety and Health Review Commission, U.S. Parole Commission, Federal Re-serve Board, Commodity Futures Trading Commission and Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

Cohen said some of the seven deal heavily in law enforcement and litigation, which permits exemptions from open sessions. But he said that even with exemptions, Congress requires ba-lancing this with the public interest.

The NLRB believes all its exclusions are supported by the law, spokesman Tom Miller said. "Because this agency deals with matters of confidentiality we are required by the Sunshine ct to maintain that confidentiality," said Frank Bolling, director of communications for the Home Loan Bank

Bolling said a better indicator of openness rould have been a count f the items considered. Last year, he said, the bank board considered 99 items, of which 350 or 64 percent, were discus-sed at open meetings. The Parole Commision always has open business meetings, a spokesman said, but in consideration of individual parole cases, where confidential information is discussed, the Privacy Act of 1974 requires closed sessions.

William T. Bagley, chairman of the Commodity Futures Trading pion of open meetings, confidential matters or judgment on cases are closed, but weekly public policy sessions are always open. "We are the most open agency in town," he said.

The other agencies named by Common Cause had similar com-

U.S. Senator John Tower said

Wednesday in Midland that President Carter is making a serious mistake by holding back the potential of nuclear energy, a technology which he considers to be one of the bright spots on the nation's horizon. Tower told reporters that he is "puzzled" by the president's reluctance to pursue the breeder reactor program, an advanced nuclear project which would multiply its fuel while producing energy.

Texas' senior senator also said he would like to see nuclear wastes "put in a remote area away from Texas." Tower had few kind words for the president's energy policies during a noon luncheon of the Downtown Lions Club in Midland Wednesday.

He predicted that the long-debated energy bill, which is expected to reach the Senate floor after Labor Day, will result in higher natural gas prices and lower supplies for Texas households and industries if enacted. Tower has been a longtime advocate of natural gas deregulation

He charged that the policies of Carter and the newly formed Department of Energy are ill fated.

Tower said in a press briefing later that the involvement of the Federal government in civil rights cases is a justified one, and added that he could not find fault with the Carter administration's involvement or actions taken by the U.S. Justice Depart-

"It's the obligation of the Justice Department to go in whenever there is prima facie evidence. I don't think I could be hypercritical of what the administration has done," Tower

The civil rights issue was one of the few subjects the senator did not attack the President on.

"So many of Carter's political policies have been distasteful to Texas. His popularity in this state is slightly behind what George McGovern was during a comparable period," he said.

Tower arrived in Odessa late Tuesday night after stops in Bandera, Kerr and Kendall Counties - three areas recently declared major disasters after the early August flooding. He held a news conference in Odessa Wednesday morning before arriving in Midland. The senator wound up his West Texas tour with stops in Snyder and Sweetwater later in the day before traveling on to Fort Worth where he was expected to issue a major campaign statement today.

An aide to Tower would not elaborate on what the senator might Rep. Bob Krueger's "faltering campaign." Kruger of New Braunfels is challenging Tower for his senatorial position

David Neeley, the aide, told The Reporter-Telegram that Krueger's financial situation is currently unstable. "He's not even paying his rental bills for his Dallas campaign office," Neeley said.

During a question and answer period at the Lions luncheon, Tower said his opposition against home rule for the District of Columbia did not in any way undercut his commitment to minorities.

In fact, he said he expects to lure "a substantial part of the minority vote" in the state

Tower contended that giving the District a chance to elect senators would "be giving the bureaucrats representation in Congress."

"The District of Columbia is not a state. This (home rule proposal) strikes against the federal system to give a non-state equal footing with

He added that representation of the District in the Senate would cancel out the votes of Texas' two senators on important energy matters.

"I'm looking out after minorities in Texas. That's my job," Tower said.
Tower said he opposed normalization of relations with North Vietnam and Cuba while also decrying Carter's overall foreign affairs policies.

He particularly cited the president's diplomacies with the Soviet Union.

"I think the President started out on the wrong foot with the Soviet Union to begin with. The President showed no toughness...he is perceived by the Russians as being weak," Tower said.

Strike contract talks at impasse

BY MARY POWERS

ANDERSON, Ind. (AP) - Contract talks between the city and striking firefighters were reported at an impasse today following a fire that destroyed a downtown city block while firemen stood by and watched.

As talks in the five-day strike over wages recessed early today, Fire Chief Ed Ballinger, his deputy and six department trainees were still at the scene of the fire which destroyed six buildings Wednesday, causing damage estimated in the hundreds of thousands of dollars. There were no

Officer harassed after complaint

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - A black police officer who complained of alleged police brutality during the arrests of MOVE radicals is being guarded by off-duty comrades who say they fear for his safety.

Officer Alphonso Deal, who also is president of the north Philadelphiabranch of the NAACP, said some officers are harassing him by "responding slowly to my radio calls for backup and interfering with my radio communications.'

Deal angered some officers when he called for the dismissal of the officers who beat Delbert Orr outside MOVE headquarters. He also sent a letter to the U.S. Justice Department asking for an inquiry into alleged police bruin this central Indiana city of 71,000, but they withdrew as volunteer units from neighboring communities arrived. As striking firemen watched, 54 volunteers battled the blaze for 31/2 hours before containing it.

Representatives of the city and the firefighters were to resume bargaining talks later today. Under an order issued by Madison Circuit Court Judge William T. Clifford, the negotiators must meet at least eight hours daily until the strike ends.

The striking firefighter's refusal to fight the blaze Wednesday triggered the city into requesting and obtaining a court order against the strike. But the firemen gave no indication when or if they plan to obey the back-to-work court order. Meanwhile, city and police negotiators also met until early today in an effort to reach a contract agree-

McDonald survives

ATLANTA (AP) — Conservative Congressman Larry McDonald survived a strong challenge from businessman Smith Foster in a runoff election for the Democratic nomination for reelection to his 7th District congressional post.

In another, quieter runoff, state Sen. Virgina Shapard defeated Georgia Senate colleague Peter Banks to win the Democratic nomination for the 6th District seat of retiring Rep. Jack Flynt.

Both Democrats face Republican opposition in lovember.

Returns in the bitterly contested 7th District contest were not conclusive until after midnight Tuesday when a balky computer in Cobb County finally spewed out the totals that put McDonald over the top.

Final, unofficial returns from all 199 precincts in the 7th District gave McDonald 46,083 votes or 51.3 percent to Foster's 43,611 or 48.6 percent.

In the 6th District race, with 214 of 221 precincts counted, the results were Skapard 30,153 or 53.2 percent and Banks 26,468 or:46.7 percent.

Foster finished less than 900 votes behind McDonald in the fourman Aug. 8 primary. He declined to concede the election Tuesday. "The results are so close," he sald. "They may be right, and if so we can live with it."

China and Russia won't pay for U.N. peace activities

UNITED NATIONS (AP) - The Soviet and Chinese governments, who consider themselves the staunchest supporters of decolonization, won't be paying a dime toward the estimated $300 million cost of the U.N. operation to supervise South-West Africa's transition from South African control to independence and the African name of Namibia.

China disapproves of U.N. peacekeeping activities as a matter of principle and won't pay to support them. Since the United Nations began peacekeeping operations in 1948, the Soviet Union and most of its East European allies have refused to contribute to operations they don't endorse. Moscow insists that 'the aggressor'' - meaning South Africa - should pick up the tab for the Namibian operation.

The refusal of the two Communist giants to contribute to the cost of the operation in South-West Africa won't create a financial crisis for the United Nations. The difference will be made up by the United States and the four other Western powers that helped formulate the independence plan - Britain, Canada-France and West Germany.

We did assure Secretary-General (Kurt) Waldheim that the Western five would ultimately be responsible for the shortfall," said Dr. Gunther Schutze, press counselor for the West German Mission. "This, of course, should not be construed as an invitation not to pay. This could cost the five nations up to 75 million above the estimated $140 million they proably will be assessed.

The Security Council is expected to meet ha few days to approve plans for the operation recombended by Waldheim in a report Wednesday. The lan calls for deployment of 7,500 U.N. peacekeeing troops and 1,200 civilian U.N. employees who help arrange a cease-fire between Slouth Africa troops and the guerrillas of the South-West Africa People's Organization and then will help supervise the release of political prisoners, the return of refugees and the election of an assembly to draft the constitution of Namibia.

The Soviet Union and its republics of Byelorussia and the Ukraine have refused to pay nearly $100 million in assessments for peacekeeping operations, while China's debt, including money owed by the Nationalist government prior to 1971, totals more than $40 million

Soviet refusal to pay for peacekeeping operations created a major political crisis in 1964 when the United States threatened to invoke provisions of the charter that would have suspended the voting rights of the financially delinquent nations. The United

Inflation seen as causing slow economy, experts say

CHICAGO (AP) - A panel of economic experts predicts a 7 percent inflation rate next year that will mean a sluggish economy, but no recession. One of the forecasters cautioned that the consumer will be the "most vulnerable" in an economic down-Former presidential advisor Alan Greenspan, now a financial consultant, and three other consultants said 1979 economic growth will drop below 3.5 percent, assuming Congress passes a proposed tax

But Greenspan, chairman of the Council on Economic Advisors under President Ford, cautioned against taking predictions too seriously.

The consensus "doesn't mean anything. We're sort of huddling close and hope we're right," he said. The economic forecasters gathered here for meetings of the American Economics Association and the American Finance Association. In other predictions, interest rates will peak later this year and drop somewhat in 1979, said Michael Evans, of the Chase Econometrics Association Inc., and Robert Gough, of Data Resources Inc. All the economists forecast an improving balance of payments for this country.

Gough said recent indicators portend an "orderly deceleration process" in the economy. He said the housing market and personal income levels are good and de-emphasized the longer-run impact of recent declining sales of cars and other durable goods.

"There is no definite indication of a dramatic improvement in the momentum nor of dramatic weakness," he said. He warned, however, that the consumer is worried about the economy, particulary about inflation and will find an "individual need for a retreat in spend-

Pregnancy puts stress on fathers

By DR. LAURA SCHLESSINGER Copley News Service

The major complaint from lovers making the transition to parenthood is that their sex life is suffering. While pregnancy does not mean that one's sex life must change for the worse or evaporate, the enjoyment and fulfillment of a sexual relationship are a barometer of the happiness of the marriage, which can be seriously affected by pregnancy.

Mary is five and one-half months pregnant. Her husband, Ira, has been spending more and more time at the store he owns and manages, explaining that he's trying to build it up in anticipation of their soon-to-be-larger family. Mary is complaining of being ignored in and out of bed, and Ira is ritated with Mary's constant physical demands on him. Ira feels that he is doing all he can to help.

Many men withdraw emotionally and physically from their wives because they feel left out of the pregnancy and are not receiving their usual attention from their wife or friends and relatives.

How many people ask how the "lit-tle father" is doing? All the fussing. baby showers, dietary and exercise programs, shopping, medical attention and actual pregnancy seem to leave him on the outside!

Men traditionally have been ex-cluded from pregnancy and childbirth by many archaic notions about pregnancy, embarrassment, assumptions of disinterest in txan, and the "frightening agony" of childbirth. There have been changes in these attitudes so that now "couples" take classes all during pregnancy in team training for natural births in which the fathers participate as coaches. In this way men are involved intimately in the entire experience of fathering a Pregnancy adds physical and emotional changes to an already complex relationship, which can lead to uncertainty and panic when each person must deal with his own apprehensions and those of the partner. Unfortunately, these "delicate" feelings often go unrecognized, ignored or uncommunicated.

Men worry about the health of their wives and the baby, have concerns about being a good father, the future economic burdens, and the impact that a tiny new person will have on their previously exclusive relationship. Even during the pregnancy there may be feelings of jealousy for the attention the baby is getting, the attention he used to receive totally. Sex may take on a new meaning for him. If he has about doubts about having children then sex may remind him of "what got him into this predicament in the first place." Sometimes hs perception of his wife as a lover changes now that he also sees her as a

All of these factors and feelings may dampen his romantic inclinations. This change in behavior is often interpreted by the wife as his disinterest, rejection or insensitivity.

There are practicalities to consider in having a child, and many emotional and relational adjustments to be made. Discontent, resentment, hurt and anger can be avoided if the two people are intimate enough to reveal their feelings, not matter how "bad" they seem.

Sharing feelings is a relief in itself and even more so when the two involved realize they have some anxieties in common. For example, both husband and wife are usually anticipating with some real concern the very sobering impact the child will have on their freedom, privacy, spontaneity and intimacy.

Too much is taken for granted by both, leaving each alone at a special time made beautiful when shared with openness and honesty, the real foundations of intimacy

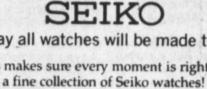

Some physicians still prescribe the standard "no intercourse for six weeks after delivery."

Masters and Johnson report that this time of absolute abstinence is a major cause for husbands having extra-marital affairs. Not because they have uncontrollable sex drives that need satisfying, but because the men are deprived of warmth, love, companionship, intimacy at a time of stress and insecurity over impending fatherhood. This sexual avoidance is not necessary and it also ignores the woman's need for sex, affection and support. There are sexual expressions aside from intercourse, and these are not negated by pregnancy.

A wanted, prepared-for pregnancy can be a joyous experience for both husband and wife; pregnancy is also a crucial time when prople often reevaluate their marriage and themselves.

Airline has new uniforms

LOS ANGELES, Calif.— Continental Airlines will outfit its 2,100 flight attendants this fall with a complete new line of uniforms and accessories, it was announced by Charles A. Bucks, executive vice president-marketing. Bucks said the carrier is in the process of presenting the new ensemble to flight attendants at their bases in Los Angeles, Seattle, Denver, Houston and El Paso.

"Continental conducted an exhaustive search and viewed hundreds of uniforms by dozens of top manufacturers," said Bucks, "before arriving at what we think is a winning combination of fashion, durability and new, exciting colors."

Bucks said that the new winter outfits are smartly tailored from camel polyester-wool with burgundy velour trim and accent pieces. The summer attire is soft shades of butter yellow and melon for female flight attendants and a stunning grey/beige for the males.

"The collection sparkles with rich colors and exciting fashion detailing," said Joyce Dixon, Om-niform designer. "We have achieved our goals in creating a fashion that is uptempo and affords an almost endless combination of durable, high quality garments that reflect the unique personality of Continental."

Dad made promise, but not in writing

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 13-year-old boy. Last fall my father promised me a motorcycle if I would complete one year at military school. I agreed, and completed the full year, but when I asked him for the cycle, he said unless I had the agreement in writing-which I don't have-I am out

Now my mother has made me the same offer. I told her she would have to put it in writing, so she did. I really want that motorcycle, Abby.

If my mother backs out of the agreement, can I take her to court and use my sister as a witness?—CADET DEAR CADET: Only a lawyer can give you legal advice. But a parent who fails to uphold his part of a bargain because it wasn't "in writing" is setting a very poor example in integrity. A person's word should be as good as his signature.

DEAR ABBY: After 14 years of a childless marriage, my husband and I adopted a beautiful baby girl. (We are white; the baby is of mixed blood.) A year later we were blessed with our own little son! And the following year, another son. We love them all, but here's the problem: My husband's father, who was against our adopting the little girl in the first place, goes out of his way to hurt the child. He favors the boys with gifts and treats, and leaves the little girl standing without-hurt and envious. Behind our backs he refers to the girl as "that illegitimate halfbreed Jeff took to raise." PTAs seek members for 1978-79

"Bones For Bowie" is the theme of the annual Bowie School PTA membership drive which got underway at the school Wednesday morning. A membership drive will be conducted in all Midland public schools through Oct. 15.

Mrs. Dick Rosebery, membership chairman, was accompanied by Ole Mother Hubbard, portrayed by Mrs. Bill Greene, first vice president of the Bowie PTA unit, and her bulldog mascot, Tuffy, to each classroom at the school. They explained to the students about Bones For Bowie, with an interpretation of Parents For PTA.

When the students return their PTA membership envelopes distributed to them Wednesday, they will receive a bone to put their name on to feed into the bulldog that is displayed on a poster in their various classrooms. When a room reaches 100 percent in membership—each child having at least one parent to join a larger bulldog poster displayed in the school cafeteria will be fed a larger bone with the room number on it.

Each room getting 100 percent membership will be awarded a prize from the Bowie PTA.

High court to rule on male alimony

vright, and

Not long after California courts deemed it legal for a commonlaw wife to claim alimony, a Los Angeles Realtor answered her door to find a process server standing there. She was being sued for support by a former boyfriend, who'd reluctantly moved out of her condominium six months before.

He left so reluctantly, in fact, that she had to pack his belongings and move them out herself on an afternoon when he had gone to a movie.

Once was the time when men traded alimony horror stories, though statistics show that most of them may have been exaggerated. Alas, alimony woes no longer are the male domain. Though the California Realtor may not feel pleased about her legal mess, in the long run, this may be one battle women will be happy to have out in the open.

Last May the U.S. Supreme Court agreed to rule on the power of states to allow women, but not men, to get alimony in divorce cases The case calling for this ruling again came from California, where a man contends that it is a form of unconstituitonal sex discrimination to treat sexes differently on alimony.

It does seem fair that men, as well as women, be eligible for alimony. However, it is important not to confuse alimony with child support.

American Indians called the fruit "bitter berry." They knew nothing of the value of the ascorbic acid in the berries, yet they used the cranberries to make pemmican, mixing them with dried venison and fat. Nourishing but lightweight, pemmican was ideal as food to be carried on the trail.

Favorites from sea let you catch prize

By MARJORIE RICE Copley News Service

People who have lived close to the sea historically have incorporated all its treasures into their cuisines: the sashimi, or raw fish, of Japan; the chowders of Northeast America; the pickled fish dishes of Scandinavia.

A seafood favorite is used in crab cakes. Frozen crab makes it a convenient emergency standby. Team the cakes with corn sticks made from packaged mix for a quick meal that still has style.

One of the best of the seafood catch is paella, an amalgam of fish, chicken, rice and practically anything else available to the cook.

Dangerous cargo wrecks life of 'Mobile Crane'

By STRAT DOUTHAT

POINT PLEASANT, W.Va. (AP) -Until six months ago, Junior Gillespie was so strong that his friends called him "The Mobile Crane."

"I could pick up a motor and walk away with it," Gillespie recalled during an interview at his riverside home. "Why, I would climb 17 stories four and five times a day to repair the elevators at the plant."

But no more. Although he's in the prime of life and still has a powerful body, the 28-year-old, 240-pounder is only a shadow of the man he was six months ago. Now any exertion causes him to gasp for breath. He is frequently beseiged by recurring headaches and severe bouts of vomiting. And his legs buckle without warning.

What's more, Junior Gillespie is a worried man. He's afraid his body soon will be riddled with cancer.

Gillespie's problems began without warning last Jan. 23, the day eight cars of a Chessie System train derailed about two blocks from his home, spilling 20,000 gallons of epichlorohydrin - a chemical so deadly that exposure can cause lasting damage, even cancer, to a person's lungs, testes, kidney, liver and other

But Gillespie had no way of knowing that when he arose that January morning. All he knew at that time was that because of the derailment he couldn't get across the tracks to go to his job at the Philip Sporn Generating Plant, where he worked as a master electrician.

"A neighbor called me and said the crossing was blocked," he recalled. "Being a volunteer fireman, I turned on my CB scanner and immediately called the fire department. I was told to take my van down to the derailment and block the street to keep traffic away from the spill. At that time, they didn't know what they were dealing with." Gillespie did as he was told. And as he neared the derailment site, he was greeted by an odor reminiscent of "A railroad worker was at the scene when I got there," he said. "We sat in my van for a while then went down to the track and tried to break loose an air brake on one of the railroad cars. It was frozen solid."

Gillespie said he was helping free the frozen brake when he looked up and saw three children heading toward the spilled chemical, which had seeped beneath the blanket of snow that covered the ground.

"I ran across the area, right through the stuff, and chased the kids away," he said. "And on the way back across, my eyes started burning and my head started to hurt.'

About that time, he said, the authorities learned what had been spilled. State Police Supt. Harley Mooney, who was en route to the scene from Charleston, ordered that the area be evacuated.

"I stayed around and helped notify the people in the area that they'd have to leave their homes," Gillespie said. Then I went down to the fire station. I wasn't there very long, though, before I was doubled over by pain in my chest and stomach. And I was vomiting my head off."

Gillespie was rushed to the hospital, where he remained for the next 11 days. "I went back five or six times a week for the next six weeks or so after that," he added. "But I never was the same. My body broke out in sores and I kept vomiting and getting headaches."

Mooney remembers the day — and week — that Gillespie's life changed so drastically. It was a week before the spill site could be dug up and before Chessie officials could find a dumping ground that would accept the dangerous cargo. The state police superintendent told an investigating committee he was concerned that dangerous chemicals and explosives are transported though the state each day, by road and rail. He said his agency had no way of keeping track of potentially dangerous shipments.

"I got my master electrician's cer-tificate last fall, just a few weeks before the spill," Gillespie said. "But I haven't worked since that day I came into contact with that chemical and I figure I'll lose about $30,000 this year, when you consider what my salary would have been."

Gillespie said he is getting $600 a month in disability payments from his company. But he said he's just been getting the disability check for only two months.

"Before that, I didn't get any-thing," he said. "If it hadn't been for my bank carrying my notes for me, I would have lost my house and car by now. The fellows at the plant took up a collection and paid my electric bill one month but my gas is still shut off and I owe about $3,000 in hospital

Gillespie said the city paid $1,000 of his medical bills.

"That was the limit of their insurance," he said. "Since then, I've become a non-person at City Hall. Why, one councilman even accused me, to my face, of trying to rip off the rail-

He paused, gasping for breath. "Believe me, I'm not faking. I wish I was faking. When I look ahead and think about what might happen, I get the creeps."

Technology can overcome fog, company announces

By ROBERT LOCKE

IRVINE, Calif. (AP) - The Canary Island airport was wrapped in a dense, soupy fog when two jumbo jets crashed on the runway in March 1977. The worst accident in aviation history claimed 582 lives.

Now a California company maintains such tragedies can be prevented - that technology can conquer fog, a nemesis that has bedeviled pilots since airplanes first left the ground. Ultrasystems, Inc., of Irvine has devised a computer-directed system of underground heaters and fans designed to burn a tunnel of visibility through all but the thickest fog. Some of the nine years of work on the system was done under a $1 million development contract from the U.S. Air Force, the company said. No airport is using the system unveiled this year.

"What we're talking about really is a tunnel up to 230 feet high that lets the pilot see about 12,000 feet down the runway," said Ultrasystems' vice president, Hank Darmstandler.

The plane would approach the shrouded runway on instruments until it reached the hole in the fog where the pilot would get his eyesight back, Darmstandler said.

What this offers is safety and economy" for airlines that need not face delayed and diverted flights because of fog, he said in an interview. "Put them both together and add convenience and it's an attractive

An expensive one, although Ultrasystems won't give specific price-

The firm has prepared an installa-tion plan for the Los Angeles International Airport, third busiest in the country and where Ultrasystems hopes to make its first sale.

But although the airport is interested in fog-clearing generally, "the decision on any installation is kind of in abeyance ... for some time to come," said airport spokesman Walt

"The costs are still a little bit nebulous, but it runs into many millions of dollars," he said.

During the winter, Collins said, it's not uncommon for the mammoth airport to be closed five hours at a time because of fog. When that happens, "the whole system backs up. Planes will be stuck on the ground all the way back to Kennedy International Airport in New York.

The inventor of the system called Ultraclear, Charles Pierce, said, "One airline figured out two years ago that it cost them $27,000 to send just one jetliner to San Francisco because it couldn't land here."

Collins said the Los Angeles airport is working with federal officials and the various airlines to determine whether a fog dispersal system should be installed and how it could be financed

He said the idea is supported by some airlines but opposed by others, especially those with heavy investments in air navigation equipment.

Collins said automatic landing systems are becoming increasingly sophisticated,"but the pilot has still got to see that runway.'

Airports and pilots have been trying for decades to drive fog from run-

The only permanent fog-clearing system now operating was invented four years ago in France, where it is used in two major airports. The Turboclair system uses second-hand jet engines mounted along the runway to "just blast the fog away with a super blast of air," Pierce said. "They have these systems installed and they're landing airplanes with them."

But he argues that Ultraclear is more efficient and less expensive to operate, primarily because "it's tailor-made to deal with the fog problem. Jet engines are designed for jet

The centerpiece of the Ultraclear system is a pair of barrels, four to eight feet across, and a diesel engine. Each barrel contains a fan and a

The whole thing would be driven by a computer programmed to monitor a weather station and decide when and how to run the system.

When the computer presses a but-ton, the fan draws air into the barrel where it's heated by a burning mist of jet fuel. A movable sleeve focuses the blast of hot air and directs it up through the grate and into the fog.

When running wide-open, the unit would generate 80 mile-an-hour winds at temperatures near 450 degrees, although Pierce said normal opera-tions would require about half that.

"You're not putting in this heat to boil the water droplets" that make up the fog, he said. "What you do is dry

JIMMY'S WHITE HOUSE

Blaring radios mark Carter vacation route

By MAUREEN SANTINI

GRAND TETON NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (AP) — In the raft for aides, Secret Service agents and reporters who accompanied President Carter down the Middle Fork of the Salmon River, the most dominant sound was not the rush of the river.

Instead, at any hour of the day or night, the sound of the ubiquitous radio communication system intruded upon the serenity of the wilder-

The White House Communications Agency had set up an elaborate radio system for the president to keep in touch with the outside world during his three-day trip. In the mountains high above the river, the communications agency set up at various points along Carter's route, giving each site a name that began with the letter C.

camped along the banks of the river. There was no escape from hearing the people at the relay stations talking constantly with each other and staff

It usually began like this: "Cowpuncher, cowpuncher. Checkmate?" That meant the checkmate site wanted to talk to the cowpuncher site. Sometimes it was Chaperone or Ca-

"They use funny names to amuse themselves," said one White House aide. It was much like the code names Secret Service agents give members of the first family which were also used frequently over the radio.

The press raft knew for instance that 10-year-old Amy had forgotten her eyeglasses when, for several hours, there were various radio messages instructing that "Dynamo's" glasses be put on the next helicopter

The radio also was used to keep everyone abreast of the president or "Deacon's" whereabouts, usually as an aid to keep the press raft from getting close enough to see him. Sometimes a staffer in one raft would use the radio simply to tell those in another raft to watch for some local sight such as sheep grazing on the side of the mountain. The system was installed for the president but several observers concluded it was mainly used by the talkative White House staff.

White House press secretary Jody Powell, who was traveling in the press raft, spent almost the entire ourney fishing serenely off the end of

One afternoon he pulled in a cutthroat trout about five inches long. Since it was illegal to keep, Powell hand onto the bottom of the raft be-neath cartons and baggage.

Having reporters on board in such a delicate situation made Powell obviously uncomfortable. He began a frantic search for the fish.

After some time, he found the fish and, although it was a bit worse for wear, tossed it back into the water. The rafters speculated on its fate as Powell leaned halfway over the raft keeping track of its progress.

Finally he announced: "It turned over and sank."

Even on a rubber raft, the president is never far from the military aide who carries the legendary black bag the president would need in case of nuclear war. But this time it was not

Nine Australians killed in charter plane crash

NORTH LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) -Nine Australians ending a month-long tour of the United States with a visit to Las Vegas casinos were killed with their American pilot when a charter plane bellied in to a dusty, sage-covered field shortly after it took off.

He told his sea-story through Takashi Ogawa, a civilian employee of the Japanese Air Force who said he is on the cruise to "get some experience on the sea and to promote good will between the countries we visit and Japan." The similarity in their last names, he said, "is coincidence." Eiji and several friends - "It's always a little better to go in a crowd," he said - headed out the port

West German pushing energy conservation

By TERRY A. ANDERSON

TOKYO (AP) - West German Economics Minister Otto Lambsdorff called on President Carter today to push an energy conservation program through Congress and curb inflation to avoid wrecking the international monetary system.

"The key to solving the dollar's problem is not in Tokyo or in Bonn but in Washington alone," Lambsdorff told reporters at the Tokyo Foreign Correspondents Club.

He said it is up to the Carter administration to overcome congressional opposition to the energy program and get the legislation passed.

"In the short term, it seems to me to be especially important for the American administration to take energetic steps against inflation, which at the rate of 8 percent ... has now reached serious proportions," Lambsdorff said.

'Neither the German mark nor any other European currency, nor the yen, is in a position or has the ambition to take on the role of an international reserve currency in the place of the U.S. dollar. Only the dollar can play this role and it is not going to "The country which provides this reserve currency has taken on special international obligations and I think it must acknowledge these obligations and responsibilities." Lambsdorff is in Tokyo for talks

President has work cut out on gas compromise

By TOM RAUM

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter seems to have his work cut out for him in selling a natural gas com-promise to the Senate. Fewer than one-third of the senators say they will or might support it.

According to an Associated Press survey, only 17 senators said for sure that they will vote for the legislation, which would lift federal price controls on most natural gas by 1985. Another 14 indicated they were leaning in support of the plan - for a total of just 31 potential votes. A majority of 51 votes is needed for passage, if all 100 senators are present and voting.

The only solace to the administration may be that compromise opponents apparently are not faring much better in winning converts. Twenty-seven senators said they will vote against the plan. Another nine indicated they were leaning toward casting a "no" vote — for a total potential "no" tally of 36 votes, according to the survey taken Tuesday and Wednesday. The rest — 33 senators — listed themselves as undecided. They clearly will hold the margin of victory for one side or the other.

Both administration strategists and opponents of the plan claim a smaller margin of undecided votes in their own head counts - anywhere from a dozen to two dozen senators - but this could not be borne out. And in a number of instances, each side was claiming for its own camp some of the same senators, possibly illustrating how wide open and difficult to forecast the battle remains.

Senate leaders plan to take up the natural gas compromise during the week of Sept. 11. The measure, which took more than eight months to draft, is described by the administration as critical to its energy program. The president, back from his Western vacation, plans a series of sales talks and strategy sessions today in behalf of the plan, including meetings with a group of governors and with industrial users of natural gas. Meanwhile, Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd sent a sharply worded "confidential" letter to colleagues Wednesday urging them to let the administration have at least this one energy victory. The West Virginia Democrat appealed to senators to vote down an expected opposition motion to replace the complex compromise with a simple bill merely giving the president emergency powers to deal with natural gas shortages. Approval of that motion would deliver the "coup de grace" to Carter's energy program, Byrd said.

When you buy a used car, what else do you get besides the car?

In a good restaurant, when you buy a dinner, you get more than just food. You get service, a pleasant atmosphere, and a feeling that the owners would like you to come back.

It's the very same way that we like to sell used cars. Since our reputation is more "on the line" when we sell a used car, you can be sure we'll do everything we can to make our used car customer a satisfied customer.

Cubs divide pair with San Antonio

BY TED BATTLES

The Midland Cubs slipped into third place in the Texas League West Division pennant race, a game behind league-leading San Antonio after Wednesday's doubleheader split at Cubs Stadium.

It wasn't what the Cubs had in mind after Jeff Albert, aided by three home run support, pitched the Bruins to an 8-2 win in the opener that had the faithful envisioning sole possession of first place at the end of the night's play. in the Texas League West Division.

SO AFTER winning the opener, Midland dropped the nightcap, 5-3, a tense tussle that went into the seventh inning before a decision was rendered, and instead of being a game ahead of everybody, they fell behind El Paso, which beat Amarillo 4-1 to move into second, a half game ahead of the Cubs with three games left.

This is the same El Paso team that a week ago was five games out and hanging on by its fingernails, only a loss from virtual elimination. So anything can still happen.

The Cubs and Dodgers go at it again at 7:30 p.m. today in Cubs stadium in the final series of the regular season.

ON THE less cheerful side, San Antonio managed a split with the aces of the Cubs' pitching staff, beating Darrell Turner, 5-5, in the heart twisting nightcap. This was after Midland had turned on its season-long nemesis Dave Stewart, in the opener.

Stewart, 14-11, was 5-0 against Midland this season with two shutouta against the Cubs. Wednesday, it was as much his fielding support as his pitching that betrayed him. He left after 5 innings behind 6-2, but only one of the runs was earned.

But the Cubs weren't quite up to taking advantage of the windfall. San Antonio rallied for two runs in the seventh inning to salvage the night-cap. Turner, 5-5, after being bruised for three runs in the first, settled, down to mesemerize the Dodgers on one hit, retiring 14 in a row during one stretch, going into the seventh.

Midland had tied it on Jim Tracy's two-run homer in the third, a powerful poke that cleared the centerfield fence. With two-out, Eric Grandy was nicked by a pitch and Tracy made Mark Nipp, 6-3, pay for it with his eighthomer.

Seibert's error on Delvecchio's grounder. Midland got a run back in the first as Seibert led off with a single, stole second and advanced to third when the throw to second got away and scored on Steve Macko's fly to left.

THE CUBS had three homers in the opener, but it was Joe Hernandez' three-run shot to left in the second that gave Midland a 6-2 lead and chased Stewart. Doug Slocum came in and was promptly tagged for another homer by first baseman Gary Krug. It was Hernandez 15th and the third for Krug.

Steve Macko added a solo shot to left to lead off the fourth, his fifth.

Albert, winner of eight of his last 11 partially because he has kept baseson-balls at a minimum, was reminded of that in the first two innings when he issued walks to Perconte and DelVecchio and both came home to Perconte scored after singles by to third and Scioscia's fly plated the run. In the second Delvecchio walked, went to third on Chuck Gardner's single and scored on Perconte's left to center. After that Albert waa superb, retiring 15 batters in a row until Jesse Baez singled with one out in the seventh and was summarily wiped out by left fielder Eric Grandy's throw from the left field corner to Seibert at second.

The no-walk lesson was emphasized when Delvecchio, Roche and Perconte singled, that'a four in one inning, and the Dodgers didn't score. That was more hits than San Antonio had gotten in the previous six innings.

Midland scored twice in the first when Macko walked, stole second, moved to third on Hernandez single to left and scored when the ball was booted in the outfield. Grandy then singled home Hernandez.

It was 2-2 going into the home second when Kevin Drury reached first on Delvecchio's error at third. Greg Keatley fanned and Brian Roainski walked before Seibert singled to left to plate one run. Stewart whiffed Macko and should have been out of the inning. But he had to face Hernandez and that was his Waterloo. Joe's lowtrajectory drive just cleared the fence, but it was a game-buster.

Mann returning to Oakland again

By The Associated Press

The National Football League regular season doesn't open until this weekend, but the Oakland Raiders are already playing games - and Witness the Errol Mann affair. Mann, the NFL's leading scorer last season, was traded to the Buffalo Bills by the Raiders Monday in return for "past considerations," apparently leaving Oakland without a kicker for Sunday's opener against the Broncos

Then strange things started hap-

Mann refused to report to the Bills, saying he wanted to stay on the West Coast. Buffalo responded by releasing the 11-year veteran. And do you know where Mann will be playing Sunday? You're right if you said in Denver with the Raiders.

"We were committed to Errol all along," a Raider spokesman said Wednesday, adding that Mann would be back in the Oakland camp today.

The "trade" of Mann, linebacker Randy McClanahan and wide receiver Mike Levenseller was just an Oakland gimmick so the Bills could keep Mann safely through the cutdown to a 43-player limit and then return him the Raiders when the limit increased to 45 players. Levenseller and McClanahan will stay with the Bills, who have now made good on whatever "past considerations" they owed the Raiders.

Kickers and kickoffs also made the news in Dallas and Cleveland and other NFL cities.

The Cowboys signed Rafael Septien as their new kicker while the Browns released their No. 1 punter last season, Greg Coleman. Meanwhile, it was announced that Septien, a native of Mexico City, was acquired from the Los Angeles after signing place-kicker Frank Cor-rall, a rookie drafted from UCLA in Rams, where he kicked 18 of 30 field goals last season, the fourth best per-fael Septien, who made 60 per cent of his field goal tries last year as a rookie with the Los Angeles Rams, will kick this year for the Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys.

the kicking game. At this point, it appears the Cowboys have come no where close to sloving the void left by Efren Herrera, who was traded to Seattle after becoming a holdout at the beginning of training camp.

The Cowboys have tried four field goal and extra point specialists. Three have been cut, and all that is left is Jay Sherrill, a rookie from North Carolina State. Sherrill, in fact, was put on waivers Monday, but no other team showed any interest. The Cowboys can still re-sign Sherrill and go with him over the long haul.

IF SATURDAY'S preseason game against Pittsburgh is any indication of how effective the Cowboys will be in the kicking department, then the Cowboys could be in real trouble. If it comes to winning and losing by the margin of a kick, as several games are likely to, Dallas could lose a few games this year.

Sherrill was good on one of three field goal attempts Saturday, and he converted one of two extra point boots. That's a failing mark in the Sherrill connected on a 25-yard field goal in the first quarter, but missed a 25-yarder in the second period that would have tied the game at 6-6. He also missed a #-yard field goal attempt in the third period. That would be a tough boot for anyone, but his kick wasn't even in the direction of the goal posts.

Then in the fourth quarter, Roger Staubach zeroed in on Drew Pearson to narrow the Pittsburgh margin to 13-9. Sherrill missed the extra point, and that could have been the difference in a loss and a tie. Fortunately, the Cowboys were able to get the ball in the end zone when Staubach hit Tony Hill with the game winner with 31 seconds left in the game. Sherrill then made his first extra point con-version of the night after the game

COACH TOM LANDRY, if he hasn't already, will have to decide this week whether to stick with Sherrill or to pick up another kicker when the team can add one player before the Monday night opener against Baltimore's Colts. "I see our main concern as the kicking game," Landry said after Saturday's game. "Jay is just young, It must be a frightening experience for him. All he needs is to make a few and get his confidence.

decision to start the season with Jay. All that will come this week. I'm just not sure if we will go looking (for a kicker) yet." Landry has a lot of decisions to make before Monday. The roster has to be trimed to 45 players, which has been taken care of. Landry cut rookie Dave Kraayeveld, who intercepted a pass and ran for a touchdown in the game against the 49ers. He also cut Larry Brinson, a second-year man from Florida, and Michigan State's Greg Schaum, another two-year pro. The Cowboys also traded eight-year pro Bill Gregory to Seattle for future draft choices and put rookie running back Todd Christensen on the injured reserve list after he broke a bone in his right foot against the Steelers.

THE COWBOYS also placed Sherrill on waivers, but did not release the name since they might resign him if another team does not claim him. No other team does not claim him. No other team did. As of late Wednesday, the Cowboys were one man short of the 45 player limit with Sherrill still on waivers, but Dallas will have to add a kicker to the roster. You can't go into the season without a kicker. Dallas can still go with Sherrill, but it really seems risky at best.

Hopefully, the Cowboys won't be left without some "kick" before the season gets underway. The kicking game is one area in the NFL that a team doesn't want to come up short.

San Diego State opening play in WAC for first time in 1978

SAN DIEGO, (AP) - Claude Gilbert gives the question some deep thought, and then merely shrugs. He doesn't really know how his football team will stack up in its first season in the Western Athletic conference.

San Diego State owns a 7-5 record in games with WAC teams, and there are those who predict the Aztecs will go right to the top of the league and earn a berth in the hometown Holiday Bowl on Dec. 22.

Gilbert is cautiously optimistic about 1978. "I don't pick 'em," he told sports writers and broadcasters on the WAC Skywriters Tour here. "There are some good teams in the WAC. We've played some of them. Their quality of football is excellent.

"It's been a big disappointment for us the past few years to have a good season and not get a bowl bid. That's changed now. We know if we do well, we can play in the bowl. But as for how good we'll be, we should know more after our opener at Iowa State. They're talking like this will be their best team ever.

Gilbert has led the Aztecs to a 45-8-2 mark in five years as the SDSU head coach, including 10-1 marks the past two seasons, so he obviously knows what he's doing. One of the changes he made from the Don Coryell era was to seek more balance between the running and passing games. Instead of throwing the ball up to 65 percent of the time, the Aztecs actually run slightly more than they throw these Still, there is that pressure to put the ball up. "We really don't talk much about our running game because that's not what our fans want.

So we'll still be throwing the ball a great deal."

The burden of the passing game falls to sophomore Mark Halda, who was bothered by a shoulder injury and threw the ball only 34 times last year. "He has all the tools to be a great quarterback," says Gilbert.

Wide receiver is Gilbert's area of biggest concern. Last year's standouts, Ronnie Smith and Dennis Pearson, have graduated. Seniors Rick Garretson and Tim Johnson tentatively have been named the starters.

Also gone fron the offense is running back David "Deacon" Turner, who dashed for 1,252 yards a year ago. Gilbert is counting on junior-college transfer Cal Ray Anderson to become the next great SDSU back. "He's an exciting player with great moves and quickness," says Gilbert of the 5-7, 180-pound Anderson.

The line, which boasts good size, should be solid, anchored by strongside guard Pete Inge, a 6-0, 275-pound junior who is "as good a guard as you'll find in college football," ac-

California 500 set for Sunday, but out of money

ONTARIO, Calif., (AP) — "You know, our sponsorship money is right at $400,000 this year. We were going to run all the races. Instead - and I still can't believe this — we're out of money," moaned one of the entrants for Sunday's California 500 Indy-style

"The really incredible thing is, we ran out of money half way through."

As far as could be determined, this competitor, who asked that his name not be used in print, did not fritter away his nest egg carelessly - at least no more carelessly than anyone else does in this very expensive sport. With costs escalating at geometric rates, the space; between the haves and have-nots is widening dangerously, and the number of haves is decreasing

The hapless young driver previously mentioned explained that his team bought two of the best cars available for this season, along with a few of the exceptionally fast and expensive Cosworth V8 engine. They tried to organize a competent crew and set the cars up well enough to be competitive. Winning was only in their dreams; they just wanted

"I don't think we set unreasonable goals," said the driver. "But we had no idea of the costs. We'll finish the season on a shoestring. At the end of the season we could be out of business permanently.'

He is not alone. Flormer Cal 500 winner Roger McCluskey, Larry Cannon, Lee Kunzman and Larry Dickson have all withdrawn from this race because their teams have run out of money. Organizers doubt that there will be enough starters to fill the 33-car

The competitors preparing for the $300,000 event have already calculated that even first place money of around $75,000 isn't enough for them to break

Up until a couple of years ago, it was frequently said by drivers hoping to make it big in the sport, "If I could just get together a $100,000 sponsorship, I could go win some races."

Janet Guthrie got a $100,000 sponsorship this year. It paid for one race, the Indianapolis 500, and after that the sponsor took the car.

A $100,000 program doesn't get very far any more on the Indy car circuit. Insiders say $100,000 will buy a ride for a handful of races in a 4- to 5-year-old car with an uncompetitive engine. "Who is going to come up with that kind of money with no prospect of running better than last?" asked one frustrated rookie.

Garvey likes winning those one-run games for a change

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Dodgers are the defending National League champions but star first baseman Steve Garvey com-pares this year's team to another Los Angeles title winner.

"Those one run wins are great, we haven't had many of them until now and they're nice to get," said Garvey, whose two-out single in the ninth scored Bill North from second with the decisive tally in Los Angeles' 4-3 victory over the Montreal Expos Wednesday night. "They show you that you're winning the tough games. In 1974, it seemed like we always came from behind and that's what wins championships. That's what this team is starting to do.

It also looks like this Dodger team is championship worthy. In the last week, they've rallied three times in their final at-bat to win. North, who singled and took second on a throwing error by Montreal losing pitcher Wayne Twitchell, has been bothered by a hand injury, but thought about nothing but getting on base in the ninth.

"That last time up, I had more concentration at the plate than any other this year," said North.

Montreal grabbed a 3-0 lead before the Dodgers stormed back to tie it in the eighth on a two-run homer by Reggie Smith, his 28th round-tripper this season, and a following solo blast by Ron Cey, No. 16.

Elsewhere in the National League, the New York Mets battered San Francisco 10-4, St. Louis was a 4-2 winner over Houston, Atlanta beat Chicago 6-2 and Philadelphia edged San Diego 6-5.

In Cincinnati, the Reds experienced their first rainout of a home date ever at Riverfront Stadium. It was the second game postponed due to rain at the ballpark, the other the nightcap of a double-header in 1971. But the Reds got in the first game that day, and thus officially did not lose the playing

The Pittsburgh Pirates were leading 8-4 after four innings when play was halted. A delay of two hours and one minute preceded the game, then play got underway and lasted 1: 22.

The umpires waited the required one hour and 15 minutes after that before calling the contest.

Since June 30, 1970, when the stadium opened, 687 regular-season games, nine championship playoff games, 11 World Series contests, one All-Star game and several exhibitions have been played, a total of 707 games without a lost date.

Mets 10, Glants 4

Lee Mazzilli collected four hits, including a home run, and drove in three runs, Willie Montranez had a three-run homer and Len Randle had four hits to pace the Mets' 16-hit attack.

San Francisco's John Montefusco, 9-6, was the victim of the barrage. "I don't know what it is, it's just been a bad year," said Montefusco. "I

Jones misses Dallas game

BALTIMORE (AP) - The Baltimore Colts were expected to notify National Football League officials today that star quarterback Bert Jones will sit out Monday's season-opener against the Dallas Cowboys.

Third-stringer Mike Kirkland has been running the offense in practice this week in preparation for his first start at quarterback in a regular season game.

Troup, who has been throwing passes on the sidelines this week, will be the backup in case Kirkland is injured, said Coach Ted Marchibroda.

Yankees prevail, but lose Guidry to ankle injury

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Ron Guidry gave up eight hits - but it was the final one that hurt the talented New York Yankee lefthander the most.

The major leagues' winningest pitcher was touched for just seven base hits and he ran his record to 19-2 Wednesday night as the Yankees downed the Baltimore Orioles 5-4. But Guidry had to leave the game after the eighth hit — a blow to the ankle when the Orioles' Ken Singleton accidentally let the bat slip out of his hands in the seventh inning.

"There's nothing much you can do to get out of the way," said New York Manager Bob Lemon, a Hall of Fame pitcher. "It's just a reflex action." Singleton yelled a warning to Guidry when he lost control of the bat and was the first player to reach the mound to aid the fallen pitcher.

"I don't have good grip strength batting right-handed, especially on pitches away," said Singleton, a switch-hitter who is still recovering from an offseason operation on his right elbow.

Guidry, hit on the inside of his left ankle. was taken to a hospital where X-rays showed no fractures. The Yankees said he suffered a bruised ankle and it was not known if he would miss his next scheduled pitching as-"I think he's had trouble with that ankle before," said Lemon. "He has thin ankles. I think it scared him at the moment, more than anything else. It scared everybody. When he got up and walked, we all felt better." In other AL games Wednesday,

Boston and Toronto split a doubleheader, the Red Sox winning the opener 2-1 and Toronto taking the nightcap 7-6; Kansas City clobbered the Chicago White Sox 12-0 and Milwaukee at Cleveland was rained out.

Cliff Johnson's run-scoring single in the seventh boosted the Yankees to

The game matched the two winningest pitchers in the major leagues, but neither Guidry nor Mike Flanagan, Baltimore's 17-game winner, was sharp.

Guidry, who had allowed only five earned runs in his last 682-3 innings and had not given up a home run since Aug. 4, yielded a two-run homer by Doug DeCinces and a solo shot by Rick Dempsey.

"It didn't turn out to be the pitchers' duel we'd expected," Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver said.

Umpires bring heavy hitter into courtroom

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Na-onal and American leagues have The National Labor Relations tional and American leagues have brought their heavy hitters into federal court in an attempt to settle a dispute with the guys who nearly always have the final say - the major league umpires. AL President Lee MacPhail and NL

President Chub Feeney both testified Wednesday, contending professional baseball has no obligation to reopen negotiations with the umpires, who staged a one-day walkout last week. "I suppose we could (renegotiate), but we certainly don't have a moral, legal or any sort of responsibility to do so," Feeney testified.

And McPhail told the judge: "We feel we that have a valid agreement, that it's complete, that it has a nostrike clause. We don't think we should be forced by the threat of a strike to reopen negotiations. We negotiated every issue raised by the umpires during the contract talks and we have no obligation to reopen those

The umpires, members of the Major League Umpires Association, struck Aug. 25 after demanding 21 new benefits outlined in a telegram sent to both league presidents Aug.

The leagues obtained a temporary restraining order from U.S. District Judge Joseph L. McGlynn Jr., but it came too late to avert the work stoppage in 13 cities last Friday. The leagues used collegiate and retired professional umpires to umpire the Wednesday's hearing concerned a request by both leagues for a temporary injunction to prevent the umpires from striking when the 10-day restraining order expires next Mon-After three hours of testimony, McGlynn recessed the hearing until 9:30 a.m. today, when seven NL umpires were expected to testify.

The umpires' presence at the hearings Wednesday forced both leagues to cut officiating crews at some night leagues to reopen the umpires' contract. MacPhail told McGlynn the leagues would comply if so ordered by the NLRB.

The umpires maintain that their contract, signed by their former attorney John Cifeli, is not binding because he did not possess power of attorney and because the pact did not address several points.

The agreement was signed in March 1977. Within a year, the umpires voted to fire Cifeli and hired Richie Phillips, a Philadelphia attorney who also represents National Basketball Association officials.

The umpires are seeking improvements in the contract, which extends through 1981. They want three oneweek vacations during the regular season, job security after three years, cost of living increases and increased disability benefits.

The current contract pays at base salary of $16,500, with average salaries at about $25,000 a year.

Dutch soccer star turns down offer

LONDON (AP) - Dutch soccer star Johann Cruyff turned down an offer Wednesday to play for Arsenal, the top English club.

Cruyff rejected Arsenal's offer to make a comeback, saying that he was too old to play in the English First Division.

Cruyff currently is in New York to play two exhibition matches for the Cosmos of the North American Soccer League and to decide whether he wishes to pursue a career in North America.

Dennis Roach, Cruyff's European agent, said, "Johann does not want get involved again and the plan is for him to make his farewell appearance with the Cosmos at Chelsea next

Bellard predicts to scribes his Aggies will be explosive

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - Texas A&M football coach Emory Bellard told the Southwest Conference press tour Wednesday that the Aggies will field a more wide open offense this fall, featuring a new twist to the pro-set I formation.

"I'm excited about some of the concepts we'll be using in the I formation, particularly with the sprint out pass," said Bellard, who was the father of the Wishbone T offense at the University of Texas in the late 1960s. "I feel very good about what we are doing. We believe some of the ideas are innovative. "We'll be using a few elements I've been messing around with for some time.It's not something that's going to revolutionize college football, but we think it's very different." Bellard went to the blackboard to give a demonstration of what he termed the different technique. His brief explanation included a pulling guard to block on the option and a fullback jumping through the hole the departing guard left to block or become a fourth pass receiver. Bellard was quick to point out that the I will only be a supplement to the Wishbone T, which will remain the main Aggie formation.

"We will run both of our offenses from goal to goal," said Bellard. "We have a tremendous option quarterback, and I know of no finer tailback in the country."

He was speaking of sophomore quarterback Mike Mosley and junior tailback Curtis Dickey, who just may be the fastest one-two offensive punch in the country. They recently ran a 40-yard dash out of blocks with spikes, and Dickey was clocked in 4.35 seconds, and Mosley was ran it in 4.45. The Aggies worked hard to install the pro-set I formation in a spring training that was described as perhaps the most brutal in Bellard's regime.

Bellard, who seldom orders his quarterbacks to throw more than 15 passes a game, also announced "we should throw the football much more than we ever have. At the very least we'll have a minimum of 20 passes."

Bellard said the Aggie defense should be "much improved. We're far ahead of where we were last year. In the spring, we hit every day and it paid off. We need it bad." Bellard said "We are quicker, deeper, smarter and more aggressive on defense However, Bellard would not compare it to the Aggie defense of three years ago which was No. 1 in the

"It would be far fetched to try to compare a team with one three years ago when this one hasn't hit the field," he said.

Rose will take a rest

CINCINNATI (AP) -Pete Rose, sitting out two games at the request of Manager Sparky Anderson to lessen his tension, appears all the more determined to continue his assault on batting records.

Anderson said Tuesday he had decided to rest the veteran Cincinnati third baseman, who had only one hit in 22 bats during the Reds' current plunge that has seen * them drop to 71/2 games off the pace in the National League West.

Raiders, Oilers, Dolphins chosen to take division titles in '78

By HAL BOCK AP Sports Writer

Everything came up orange in the American Football Conference last season when the Denver Broncos won the first championship in the franchise's 18-year history

Remember the Orange Crush defense and quarterback Craig Morton's magic? Oakland certainly did and also saw both the defense and Morton get peeled by Dallas in the Super Bowl. Now the Raiders are planning on a new paint job for the conference this season with the primary colors to be silver and black Oakland silver and black, that is.

In the Central Division, Cincinnati is still trying to figure out how it managed to blow the division title to Pittsburgh a year ago and planning its revenge in 1978, while Houston plots to overtake both powerhouses.

Meanwhile, Miami is busy with mini calculators and other devices, trying to avoid the mathematical tangle that gave the AFC East title to Baltimore a year ago. The Dolphins figure to rectify that problem this season.

This is the way the standings should look, notwithstanding injuries, upsets and other mysteries of the 16-game

Oakland's chief title competition should come from defending champion Denver, which rode the Orange Crush enthusiasm to the Super Bowl a year ago. The rest of the West figures to be a scramble between San Diego, still trying to crack .500, Seattle, improving its expansion club, and Kansas City, rebuilding under new coach Marv Levy. The Chargers improved their offensive line with the acquisition of Ed White from Minnesota but the price (running back Rickey Young) was high. And then, San Diego came up with Lydell Mitchell to take care of the ball carrying Young used to do. Seattle added place kicker Efren Herrera, who scored 93 points for Dallas' Super Bowl cham-

Houston also picked up wide receiver Richard Caster in a trade with the New York Jets to beef up its passing attack, which is directed by Dan Pastorini. Cincinnati, which somehow man-

Pittsburgh seems past its peak and has begun a face lift with the trades of Super Bowl veterans like center Jim Clack (to the New York Giants), tackle Ernie Holmes (to Tampa Bay), wide receiver Frank Lewis (to Buffalo) and defensive backs Glen Edwards (to San Diego). Cleveland, under new coach Sam Rutigliano, hopes for progress but being stuck in a tough division makes that difficult.

In the East, Miami and Baltimore figure to battle it out again for the top spot with quarterbacks Bob Griese of the Dolphins and Bert Jones of the Colts, the key men. Miami has added running depth with the acquisition of Del Williams from San Francisco and the Dolphins depend on a young, tough defense. Baltimore must replace the departed Mitchell, who was the club's alltime leading rusher. No. 1 draft choice Reese McCall inherits the tight end job with Raymond Chester traded to Oakland for Mike

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Top Fuel dragsters get all the publicity, but young Billy Meyer is rapidly making a name for himself in the serious world of

'Funny Car' drag racing. The 24-year-old racer from Waco, Texas, has no chance of catching Don Prudhomme in the Funny Car world championship points standings this sea-son, but his goal "is to hold on to the next best possible position, which is second.' Prudhomme, the only driver in drag racing history to win championships here in both Top Fuel and Funny Car competition, is a heavy favorite to notch his seventh U.S. National title this week at Indianapolis Raceway Park.

Rain washed out the first day of qualifications Wednesday, but technical inspection and registration started on schedule. Qualifying for the $443,000 event, richest on the 11-race National Hot Rod Association circuit, was to resume today, weather

Funny Cars are as sophisticated as the Top Fuel dragsters but are covered by fiberglass replica passenger car bodies. Prudhomme and Meyer are the only two active drivers to have bettered a six-second clocking for the quarter-mile run in a Funny Car, and two years ago Prudhomme set the official U.S. National record with a 5.97-second run.

"I think there are probably six or seven cars capable of running fives here," said Meyer, who has lost six times to Prudhomme this year. "A lot of it is going to depend on how good the track is. Lately, we've either run really quick or blazed the tires. That's a problem Prudhomme doesn't seem to

Although the rain wiped out the scheduled half-day of qualifying, not all of the 1,100-some drivers in the six-day meet were disappointed. Among those who welcomed the one-day reprieve was two-time U.S. National champ Gary Beck, who spent the day installing a new clutch and rear-end assembly in a brand new Top Fuel racer he is driving for the first time at the Nationals. Beck, the track record holder with a quarter-mile elapsed time of 5.79 seconds, was the third Top Fuel driver to complete the inspection Wednesay. "We had planned to run the car," said Beck, who won here in 1972 and 1973. "We need to put some runs on it. But we also had some maintenance that needed to be done and the rain gave us the time to do it. If it hadn't rained, we probably would have just run it as it was, because once you get into the hassle of qualifying you find that there aren't any breaks in

Football floods tv viewing

An unprecedented flood of pro football begins pouring into the nation's living rooms this week-end and the big questions are: Can Jayne Kennedy pick up where Phyllis George left off? Will Curt Gowdy or Dick Enberg emerge as No. 1 at NBC? What will Dandy Don reply when Howard says something outra-

And last but not least ... Is the world ready for Thursday night

These and other fascinating questions will be answered as the three networks, working on the first year of an amazing four-year, estimated $656 million contract with the National Football League, televise a total of 232 games, including both regional and national games.

The big news is that there will be more of everything this season - more games, more cameras, more analysts doing more analysis, more highlights and more cheerleaders. If you're a pro football addict, this is your year. If you're not, take two aspirin and check back in Jan-

Ion Tiriac called Svegali, Rasputin in tennis circles

NEW YORK (AP) - They've called him a Svengali, they've likened him to Rasputin and they've said he's Guillermo Vilas' alter ego.

Ion Tiriac, with his dark, wild hair and full, bushy beard, is a little forbidding at first sight, true. A child might be afraid. Viewed from a distance, particularly when he is watching Vilas play, one might understandably fantasize about hypnotic influence or even the power to hex.

But the Romanian tennis pro who is Vilas' coach, manager and constant companion, isn't an ogre. In fact, he may be more genuinely friendly than Vilas, certainly more outgoing. He has a bubbly, happy child of his own, aged 2, and another semi-son, his 26-year-old charge who also signs his

The Vilas-Tiriac connection is hardly mystic. It might better be explained by noting that in many ways Vilas is a young man with a big imagination, who needs someone to keep him on track.

And there are signs that their bond is stretching some, as Vilas turns more sharply toward his other pursuits - writing poetry, music and

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) - The Minnesota Vikings have held their first full workout in preparation for Sunday's National Football League season opener at New Orleans - without veteran Carl Eller.

The 14-year veteran defensive end left the team Sunday because of contract problems, and his jersey remained in his locker at Midway Stadium Wednesday as the Vikings worked out.

"I felt threatened by that letter," Eller said. "It was a terrible threatening type of letter.

Eller, who has missed only one of 196 regular season games during his career, described his problem as "a disagreement with the club over some things that haven't been worked out - some things that I was led to believe before I signed in 1977 would be worked out at some point in time.

"It's just something I feel very strongly about personally. I'm just trying to resolve some deep, soul-searching questions in my mind." Eller's contract with the Vikings runs through the 1980 season. If Eller doesn't return to play Sunday, the left end spot will be filled by either four-year man Mark Mullaney or rookie Randy Holloway.

"Mullaney has played both sides at

It is all a lot of juggling with words. Rule 4 of the Olympic Charter says the host city and the Olympic Committee of the host country shall be

But help from industry would amount to a kind of commercial sponsorship - a factor that dominates professional sport but has so far been resisted by the Olympic movement.

Scanners locate tumors

BOSTON (AP) - Doctors report that controversial new X-ray scanners are the best way to locate tumors in the adrenal gland that cause high blood pressure. The scanners were criticized recently in a federal report because hospitals have purchased the expensive machines without proving they work better than standard diagnostic tools.

In today's New England Journal of Medicine, doctors at the Cleveland Clinic Foundation reported the new machines could locate the adrenal tumors, called pheochromocytomas.

They said the new machines, called computerized axial tomography, or CAT, scanners, could pinpoint the tumors just as accurately as the standard method, called arteriography.
In the old method, doctors push a catheter through the arteries, that releases a dye that shows up on X-rays. The Cleve-land doctors called this "an invasive technic with serious potential for complications." The CAT scanners take

X-ray images of thin cross sections of the body. These images are reconstructed by computer into three-dimen-sion slices displayed on a television screen. Medical authorities agree that the images often are superior to conventional Xray films

Market's tone changing fast with inflation

By CHET CURRIER Second in a two-part series.

NEW YORK (AP) — "Buy stocks and hold them" is not the popular doctrine it once was among the investing institutions that manage money for an estimated 115 million Americans.

By all accounts, many of the nation's pension funds, banks, insurance companies and other insti-tutions have grown disillusioned with that time-hon-ored approach in the chancy, high-inflation climate of the 1970s.

Five or 10 years ago, fund managers commonly concentrated on "one-decision" stocks - a select group of high-quality growth companies — with the idea of holding those stocks indefinitely. If a money manager held, say, 10 percent of his money that was earmarked for stocks out of the market, he was considered to be playing a conservative hand. "The attitude today is far different," observed Frank E. Block, an analyst at Bache Halsey Stuart Shields Inc. who spent 24 years working in bank trust departments before moving to the brokerage side of the business five years ago.

In place of the old stress on picking the right stock and staying with it — which worked out very pourly once the glamor issues began to fall in 1973 — there has developed an emphasis on "market timing," in which the question is not so much what stock the property and set out. you buy, but whether you buy it "cheap" and get out of it at the right time. Block noted that timing strategies have grown in popularity because of the market's behavior over the last dozen years or so. In that period it has experienced a long series of volatile ups and downs, but produced little or no net gain to reward those who simply sat and held stocks. In addition, he pointed out, the rise of interest rates has encouraged a shift of money to fixed-income investments. Money held out of stocks now can earn percent-plus in short-term Treasury bills. Sharply reduced commission rates since the advent of full fee competition among brokers in 1975 have also encouraged in-and-out trading strategies,

And human nature also plays a part. "Since everyone else is doing it, aggressive timing becomes part of the conventional wisdom," said Block.

He recalled a much-quoted warning from the economist John Maynard Keynes that it is risky to be a non-conformist, whether or not one is right. "The non-conformist is given very little credit if he is right and is condemned roundly if he is wrong. The conformist can go down in flames with his head held high, as long as everyone else is going down in

All this has left the big-name growth stocks in disfavor for most of the past five years. But those issues have shown some signs of life this summer, leading a strong stock market rally. This month stocks like IBM, Kodak, Walt Disney Productions and Polaroid all have reached their highest levels for the past year, although they remain far below their 1972-73 peaks.

Is the pendulum starting to swing back toward the glamor issues? Block said it was possible that a new 'Favorite Fifty' might emerge, with a few different names from the last time around.

He noted that interest in glamor stocks had perked up lately in part because of talk of a possible economic slump — a climate in which growth companies are supposed to fare better than those more vulnerable to cyclical forces in the economy.

Space monster could be killer

Copley News Service

Talk about your Star Wars space fantasies! The Martin Marietta Corp., Denver, has a $32 million contract with NASA to develop a spaceship which could act as a workhorse or be converted perhaps for the role of a military satellite killer.

This space monster, resembling a huge box kite, is to be called the Teleoperator Retrieval System (TRS). It's to be a reusable, television-equipped, self-propelled craft. At the beginning, its chief mission will be to deliver, stabilize and recover satellites in Earth orbit.

Later it conceivably could be converted and armed to smash hostile spacecraft if space combat ever should become a reality. The TRS will be able to accept maneuvering commands by remote control from the upcoming space shuttle. The latter could become a spaceborne command post for a military version of the TRS. But NASA and Martin are quick to say they are working only on a civilian version.

Automobile found

A Midland man has recovered his 1975 Chevrolet Corvette with the cooperation of several West Texas law enforcement agencies. A man was arrested in connection with the theft. Midland Police officers said Phil Stroud of the 700 block of South Big Spring Street received his vehicle this week, after the man had reported the auto stolen in December 1977. Sgt. Ed Ward of the Midland Police Department said Juarez, Mexico police officers arrested Michael Allen Vaughn, 20, of Maryland, when he allegedly tried to sell the vehicle in Mexico in December last

"It took this long to track him down because he was in and out of jail down in Mexico," Ward said. Trooper Mike Greer of the El Paso Department of Public Safety aided Ward in apprehending and returning Vaughn to Midland.

Vaughn appeared before Peace Justice Robert H. Pine Wednesday on charges of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle for which bond was set at $7,500. Vaughn was also before Pine on charges of forgery for which bond was set at $5,000 Wednesday.

However, information about the latter charge was not immediately available.

Marsha Bettis of the 2800 block of Moss Avenue told Midland Police officers about 4:06 p.m. Wednesday two hub caps and several lug nuts were removed from her vehicle which was parked in the parking lot of Midland Memorial Hospital.

She estimated the value of the hubcaps and lug nuts at $30. Fred Allison of the 400 block of West Texas Avenue reported the theft of a tape recorder, a calculator and a camera about 11:38 a.m. Wednesday, according to police. Allison placed the estimated value 8/31/78 of the possessions at $249.

A MIDDLE-AGED BUSINESSMAN, played by TV and movie actor Scott Brady, has more than passing interest in his young secretary, played by Enid Anne Woodward, in "Plaza Suite," the Neil Simon comedy currently at The Mansion dinner theater between Midland and Odessa. "Plaza Suite" has performances at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday weekly, and at 2:30 p.m. each Sunday. Table reservations may be made through the box office, 563-1133 or 367-8658.

'Superman' captures new Lois

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Canadianborn Margot Kidder is finally getting down to earth after a wild, wild experience in the movie world.

"I spent three months flying around Manhattan," she comments, "It's a very difficult thing, making one shot a day, trying to remember what you did the previous day, striving to give an acting performance when you're hanging in space by wires. Ooops, we're not supposed to say that we used wires.'

The film was "Superman," and Margot Kidder stars as Lois Lane to Christopher Reeves' Clark Kent. The Alexander Salkind production, which will reach the nation's theaters in December, turned into mini-careers

He did some speechifying before a local booster group and then he was hoisting a few with people from the city's CBS affiliate.

'We're sitting around talking and there's a kid, 25 years old maybe, a reporter for the CBS station," says Rudd, "and we're talking about the English language and he proceeds to 'I've heard you talk about potholes in the street. When, it seemed pertinent to ask, would he write a book about his experiences? Hughes Rudd grinned. "You don't write 'Fanny Hill," he said, "until you're out of the bordello business." Actually, Rudd has written some well-received fiction and people in broadcasting have long recognized his gifts as a writer of wit, clarity and perception. And he delights in his

Kidder said at one time she and Reeves were rushing from one to another of six units which were filming simultaneously. Actually they were filming one and a half movies. Half of the "Superman" sequel has been made.

"The second film concerns the love story of Superman and Lois; this time they will finally 'do it," said Kidder. What remains to be filmed is mostly with Chris and me, plus some special effects. We're told it will take only two months. But I doubt that, after my experience with the first film."

Margot (nee Margaret) Kidder was born 29 years ago in Yellow Knife, Northwest Territories, went to school in Vancouver, was discovered in tele-vision by fellow Canadian Norman Jewison. He cast her with Beau Bridges in "Gaily, Gaily." Her other credits: "Quaker Fortune" (Gene Wilder); "Nichols" (James Garner's Ty series); "Sisters" (as Siamese twins); "The Great Waldo Pepper" (Robert Redford); "The Reincarna-tion of Peter Proud."

Then she met and married writer Tom McGuane ("The Missouri Breaks"). They lived on a Montana ranch, where daughter Margaret was

"Except for one movie, I played the role of ranch wife and mother," Margot said. "I discovered I wasn't cut the wilds of Canada and had never read the comic books. "I flew to London for the test and three days later I started work in the picture. It was good for me to be occupied during that upset period in my life. "We came to be a family. Chris and were like brother and sister; we fought like brother and sister and hugged like brother and sister. Dick Donner (the director) was daddy; he pulled me through the divorce and the sense of loss."

Her daughter Margaret remained on the set throughout the filming, spending half her life on "Superman"

she is 21/2. "I wondered, 'Am I screwing this child up?" said Margot. "But it turned out to be a terrific experience for her. She had 30 people who adored her, and she developed a great sense of self-confidence.' Margotais committed to "Superman" III, IV and V, and the prospect of playing Lois Lane thrice more doesn't alarm her. "It's a great opportunity." she reasoned.

book, I'm so sick of it I think it's absolute junk," he said in an interview. "I always wish I could have spent another month editing it."

Still, in 1976 Jakes had three books on the bestseller lists, and one of his works - "The Bastard" - has been made into two two-hour movies.

"The Bastard" is the first of seven volumes (already published) on the Kents — a fictiona American family. Jakes is currently working on the final volume of the series -Americans" - which will bring the Kent family exploits up to 1900.

"When I was in college Northwestern and DePauw universities) I fantasized about writing success but I never thought I could create anything above a 10thrate book," he said.

Jakes said he was a frustrated actor when he got bitten by the writing bug. "By the end of my second year at Northwestern (1951), I was starting to sell short stories to pulp magazines. My first was a 1,500-word sciencefiction story on a toaster and within a year I had finished my first book a children's novel on cattle drives after the Civil War."

Danny Arnold pours energy into 'Barney Miller' series

By DON FREEMAN Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD - Danny Arnold is an intense bear of a man at 6 feet 2 and 230 pounds and he pours his considerable energies into a first-class comedy series called "Barney Miller."

He co-created this ABC show, his official title is executive producer but he is enslaved by the word and he devotes about 80 percent of his working time to writing scripts or revising them. Once, Danny was about to hire a new secretary. During the interview, he asked her: "Do you know anything about me?" Only what I've heard," she said. "What have you heard?"

"I've heard," she said, blithely, "that you're Arnold nodded gravely. "Yes, I am," he said, puffing on his missile-size Monte Carlo Cigar.

But it is his peculiar kind of madness that has enabled Danny Arnold to create a comedy series that is, in contrast to most, a personal statement, a show with one man's individual stamp, his own vision and shadings of humor, the work not of a carpenter but of a cabinet-maker. To achieve this, Arnold must drive himself and his associates to superhuman lengths, and he usurps most of the authority he delegates. It is not a flaw he admires. "It's narcissistic," he admits, "but that's how I am. It's why I've been seeing an analyst for 15 years. I can never be a passenger in a car. I must always be the driver.

What Danny Arnold does have, nonetheless, is a Missouri Ave., will continue on view through early sense of leadership, which is essential in any (Staff vacillating," Arnold judges. "It's believing deeply in what you're doing and having this shared in some mysterious way. It's having a certain kind of charisma, which can come in different packages. Sometimes, for instance, it works very well to have a quiet charisma."

He won an Emmy for producing "That Girl," the Marlo Thomas series, and another Emmy for "My World and Welcome to It," inspired by the James Thurber stories.

But it was "Barney Miller," a yarn about cops in a rundown Manhattan precinct, that became his personal instrument. "The way it turned out," Danny says, "just about every character in the show is some part of me. I think of Barney Miller himself, the detective captain, not the way I knew cops when I was in trouble as a kid in New York, but as the ultimate of what you'd want a cop to be — the most honest, the most caring, the most reasonable."

"Are you Barney Miller?" I asked. Arnold nodded. "Barney Miller is the healthiest side of my ego, the voice of reason and humanity I'd

Not long ago, Danny says, he wrote a "Barney Miller" scene in which Barney says to Sgt. Wojehowicz: "Wojo, you've got to learn to trust somebody somewhere along the line or else you inhibit your life to where it becomes unbearable.' Danny issued a wry, tentative smile. "That was me talking. And who I was talking to was also me." He went down the line of other characters, 'Yemana, the Japenese cop, is the loner part of me, sardonic, isolated, the observer, a bit of the stranger. Dietrich has some of that — the bemused observer, well-read, some-what intellectual, ironic.

'Wojehowicz, the Polish cop who always has to spell his name to people, is, I think, the kid in me, simplistic, likable, back to basics, a believer in right and wrong, easily hurt like kids can be and easy to snap out of it.

Racket sports call for eye protection

DEAR DR. SOLOMON: Our son has taken up squash, and I recently asked him if it might not be a good idea to use some kind of eye protection. He said that is really worrying too much. Just what is the best advice on this problem?D.L.

DEAR D.L.: The best advice is to wear protection for your eyes. There is a new study by two Harvard ophthalmologists, Paul V. Vinger and Daniel W. Tolpin, which confirms this. They estimate that there were more than 3,000 eye injuries in racket sports during 1976.

One special problem about squash--and racquetball--is that there are two hazards: the small, hard ball, and the opponent's racket, as the players share the same court area.

Eye guards that absorb the impact of ball or racket without curtailing the field of vison to any serious degree are available in sports shops. Also,

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Coast Guard, removing most of its sex barriers Wednesday, will be sending more women to sea.

Only 24 of the service's 707 women now are on sea duty, but the Coast Guard said it is in the process of assigning many more to its vessels.

Coast Guard commandant John B. Hayes announced the new policy which removed restrictions based solely on sex in the training, assignment and career opportunities of its personnel.

Under the policy:

-- All women graduates of the Coast Guard Academy, like the men, will be assigned to sea duty for their initial tours as commissioned officers.

-Mixed-sex crews may now be assigned to any Coast Guard unit, afloat or ashore, which can provide reasonable privacy for each sex in berthing and personal hygiene

Drs. Vinger and Tolpin say that squash and racquetball players who wear glasses should use industrial plastic safety lenses mounted in a sturdy industrial or athletic frame.

Eyesight is really too precious to take any unnecessary chances. And in this case sensible precautions are so easy that everybody should take them.

DEAR DR. SOLOMON: I'm terribly sensitive to pain, and I have an awful time at the dentist even with all these new improved techniques that are supposed to leave you feeling absolutely normal. But I have found that it's easier in the morning than in the evening. Would this be just because I'm not so tired? Or is it just my imagination?--Vera U.

DEAR VERA: Apparently people can tolerate pain better in the morning than the evening. They've done some tests at the Chicago Medical School on this, using electrical currents to produce pain in volunteers. And they found that the average amount of electricity which caused pain in the morning was over 6 milliamperes, whereas in the evening it wasn't much more than 51/2.

The researchers think this differencesis due to natural biological cycles. And they say these should be taken into account when doctors prescribe drugs to kill pain, too.

In other words, larger doses should be given in the evening than in the morning. Always go to your dentist first thing in the morning--not after you get out of the office. What you are

Little Joe pushes 'Brown Sound'

By SUSAN LINNEE

TEMPLE, Texas (AP) - Sometime during the last century in south Texas, Mexican-American musicians playing traditional Mexican rancheras on big guitars ran across Czech immigrants playing polkas on accordions. The result was a musical hybrid that Jose Mapia de Leon Hernandez thinks might follow the route of tacos and chili to Americans' hearts. 'Ten years ago what did an Anglo know about a burrito or a taco or a nacho?" asked Joe Hernandez, better known as Little Joe, the high priest of musica chicana, or Tex-Mex, or simply the Brown Sound. "Now, you can drive north from Brownsville and know there will always be a

Texas Marines take last crack

NOTREES - The 13 U.S. Marine Corps recruits, a smattering of regular Marines and Navy medics, and about 30 Marine reservists had just finished eating chow in a gapping pit on the 100-section Buster and the reservists — those weekend warriors.

"I don't know," said recruit Sidney Lyle, 17, of Odessa, "(but) this stuff might be okay if you were in the field for four or five days.' But they had just arrived and were hungry and

"It's not so bad," volunteered Pfc. Dale Rit-

Lyle, who was experienced for a recruit, had already been to four summer camps in getting familiar with the Corps. He had made the rounds at Fort Sill, Fort Bliss, Camp Polk and Camp Barkeley. It was high noon and hot. And the recruits were standing in ranks before the captain. They were ready, you could sense, to watch the regulars and reservists fire the machine guns and M-16 rifles.

They would be firing off some rounds, too. Capt. Woodard, who came across as a gentleman, spoke calmly to the would-be Marines in their motley

Scull was among the reservists, commanded by Maj. David Sipperly of Midland, who were training for just about their last time as a unit. The reserve unit, a detachment of a motor truck transport company based at Midland Regional Airport, is being disbanded. The detachment's name, gear and hardware are being transferred to California. Most of the reservists in the detachment will go inactive. Under Maj. Sipperly's command, the firing started. Locklar, a trooper in the Texas Department of Public Safety, "hogged" the .50-caliber for a good

"That's the big one; that's the big daddy ...," 1st Sgt. Jack Driggs, a Marine regular, said of the .50caliber. It took on the aura of a small cannon, of a rapid-fire howitzer. It's a formidable weapon, he said 'There ain't a sane man alive who has got his head above the rocks when it starts firing," Driggs said.

After Locklar pulled off some slow-and-easy thudsounding rounds from the .50-cal., he held the trigger firmly down. The machine gun performed like a jackhammer.

Locklar braced himself. Over there, S. Sgt. Roger Weaver, in the prone position, fired off the initial rounds of the M-60 machingun. It wasn't the jackhammer and thudbanger like the .50-cal. This one had the rat-tat-tat of Spent brass shell casings and belt links litter the firing line, as the .50-caliber machine gun fires ripping shots toward orange drums - the enemy - 300 meters away in the isolated pit near Notrees. The weapon fires up to 550 rounds per minute.

After the firing was all over, the "policing-up" chores were done "We pick up all the brass (shells), because they're recycled," Driggs said. Many drank from the "water buffalo" - a water tank mounted on wheels - pulled by one of the olivedrab trucks. Later, some of the reservists fired off rounds from their .45-caliber pistols at a nearby pistol-rifle range. The lower heavens must have been disturbed by all the firing that afternoon.

For soon, skies darkened, and the rains came. It even hailed.

The shooting was called off for the day. And all, Marine regulars, the reservists and recruits, climbed aboard the "war wagons" for the convoy-trip back to home base.
