Steers Host Irion County In 1982 Homecoming Tilt

Following their 48-20 win over the Water Valley Wildcats, the Robert Lee Steers return home tonight to tangle with Irion County in the 1982 Homecoming game. Kickoff time is 7:30 p.m.

The Steers looked good in last week's win, their first 7-A south zone victory of the season. The win upped their season record to 2-4-1. With this taste of victory the Steers will be fired up for tonight's contest and hope to provide plenty of fireworks for the exes who return home for homecoming.

Irion County has had a rough go of it this year having won only one contest. They are at the bottom of district standings along with Water Valley with an 0-4 record. They were beaten last week by Greenwood, 21-7. Their season record is 1-6.

Eden took a big step toward winning the south zone title last week when they whitewashed Sterling City, 21-0. The Bulldogs take on Garden City tonight with the winner an almost cinch to take the district title. Garden City is the only other league member undefeated in conference play following their 20-0 win over Bronte last week. Eden and Garden City both have 4-0 district records.

LAST WEEK'S RESULTS

(District games) Greenwood 21, Irion County 7; Robert Lee 48, Water Valley 20; Garden City 20, Bronte 0; Eden 21, Sterling City 0.

THIS WEEK'S SCHEDULE

(District games) Bronte at Greenwood; Eden at Garden City; Irion County at Robert Lee; Water Valley at Sterling City.

50 YEARS AGO

The play "One Minute Till 12" at Paint Creek Friday night interested a lot of folks. About $23.00 was taken in from the large attendance, which more than pays the payment off on their piano. The play was well displayed by those who participated. Misses Opal Reeves of Blackwell and Seba Wolfe of Carlton are the teachers.

A box of candy brought $8.88 for the prettiest girl-- Miss Dovie Williams, Miss Jessie Creech, and Mrs. Lola Roberts were the contestants with Miss Williams the winner.

Then there were the old stags-- the ugliest man in the house-- Otto Wojtek was up there between the prettiest married men in the county, Lee Roberts and this writer. All those pretty girls voted for us to make sure Otto didn't get it. Lee and I just set there and squirmed. You feel sorry for me Lee and I for you-- nobody else ain't going to. We did win ourselves a cigar, though.

Clell Varnadore, 16 year old boy of Henry Varnadore, is crippled for life according to a statement by his father to the editor, a few days ago, by that blasted game of football.

There is strong talk of petitioning the school board, by certain patrons, to eliminate football from our schools. Not only has he been ruined for life, but several others has been knocked out, and it's totally useless. This football business in school is only a matter of opinion, anyway. Some people believe that boys are induced to finish their education that would otherwise not do so, but such education may not have the desired effect on the future citizen it makes of him. Others are saying it benefits too few. Still others asks what it's doing for the future modesty of women out there in that pep squad?

People can be too bold and those that are, were usually made that way in their teens, that's for certain.

All right, boys, when you get ready to pass the petition around, don't slight the Editor.

A crowd of young people took a hay wagon Monday night and visited Mr. and Mrs. Tom Schooler.

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey Russell spent Christmas at Liberty Hill with her people.

Mr. Ed Drewy is now doing the family washing and cooking for Mr. D.R. Campbell at Sanco. Mr. Drewy is from San Angelo.

Everything Ready For Homecoming Activities

Last minute flurries of activity mark the winding down of preparations for the 1982 RLHS Homecoming. There's a festive air around school, with yards and yards of orange, black and white crepe paper, signs, and talk of wood-hauling for the bonfire. Ex-students are making plans to return and everyone seems to be looking forward to the parade.

Plans included the honoring of the class of 1932 during the Homecoming. However, lack of records and addresses hampered the personal invitations. Hopefully by next year, a permanent file of ex-students can be set up and many more contacted. Perhaps last week's paper will serve as notice and invitation to many. Those of you who have friends and relatives who graduated or attended RLHS a number of years ago, might contact Susan Blasingame, Box 462, Robert Lee, to put their names and addresses on file for the Ex-Students Association.

A list of the '32 graduates was compiled by several ex-students. There could be others but the class included Wilfred Gardner, Winefred Baze, James Wallace Clift, Frank Wojtek, Charles Daniels, C.W. McCutchen, Ford Shropshire, Marvin McDouglas, Beatrice Taylor, Wilma Key, Hazael Millican, Olive McDorman, Theo Clark, Wilma Taylor,

Lions Club Hosts Party

Lions and Lionesses serving refreshments of cake, cookies, ice cream, and Hawaiian punch were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Boone, Mr. and Mrs. Bascom Chesney, Jim Dunklin and Gene Hinnard, and Mr. and Mrs. Jay Leath. Also lending a helping hand were Mr. and Mrs. Winton Milliff.

Honorees observing their birthday included Vida Peays, 10-19-1886; Inez Conner, 10-2-1891; Lena Russell, 10-5-1891; Ellen Higgins, 10-1-1894; Calla Mae Cargile, 10-15-1900; and Pearl Ditmore, 10-1-1902.

While partaking of sweets by honorees and guests of the Center, musical entertainment was provided by Edna Mae Havins.

A good time was had by all, especially the singing of gospel music following the meal accompanied by Barbara Chesney on the keyboard.

"The dictates of the heart are the voice of fate." Schiller

Mrs. Peays Has 96th Birthday

Mrs. Vida Peays was honored with a party celebrating her ninety-sixth birthday on Saturday, hosted by her two sons, George and Tom Jr. and daughters, Mrs. J.E. Green and grandchildren.

She is a resident at West Coke Nursing Home and was taken to her home here in Robert Lee for the celebration.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Peays Jr., Ingram, George B. Peays of Denver, Colo.; Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Green of Evant; Mr. and Mrs. Freddy Chaney, Midland; Mr. and Mrs. Dale Haynes and Jeremy, Ingram; Miss Jan Green, Gatesville, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Augustine and family of Water Valley; Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Hayworth and children, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith and David Key, all of Robert Lee.

Forsan Downs Steer JV Team

The Robert Lee J.V. football team played a hard fought, defensive struggle against Forsan last Thursday. The Steers scored first when Bobby Boone and Doug Bell tackled the Buffs quarterback in the end zone for a safety. This made the score at half 2-0. In the second half the Buffs were able to score in order to defeat the Steers 8-2. This was the Steers first loss of the year. The Steers and Buffs are scheduled for a rematch next Thursday, Oct. 21, in Robert Lee at 7:30 p.m.

(The JV game scheduled for Thursday night Oct. 21, against Miles, has been canceled.)

Coke, Texas
by Jonathan Hanke

Once upon a time there was a coke factory, and it grew and grew and grew so large there were more coke than people could drink. So they poured all the coke in one hole in Texas. It made its way through the ground and where the coke sat under the ground, was Coke county.

Editors Note:

When a child of approximately second grade age undertakes an assignment to write a story and to follow up by writing a letter to the mayor of said county, who's to downgrade the educational system today. With such an imagination who knows he may become a politician someday.

The city of Robert Lee will answer Jonathan's letter.

SIMS talks SENSE

An Obligation

I have always believed that every capable individual should pull his or her own load. But there are things we should feel bound to do in helping the elderly and the disabled.

As a society we have a responsibility to help those who can no longer help themselves.

I accept that responsibility. It will become an even greater responsibility in the years ahead as more and more of the federal programs are turned over to the states under the so-called "New Federalism" plans of the administration.

Texas, over the years, has done a good job of administering its social programs. The state ranks among the lowest in the nation in terms of the cost of administering its social programs and in its rate of errors.

We must make sure that it remains so, through instituting good management programs and through zero-based budgeting. We must also have adequate safeguards against fraud in our programs.

It is my belief that we must fund programs that have the goal of rehabilitating as many people as possible. We must find ways to make them productive, tax-paying members of our society.

In other columns, we have talked much of preparing our young to be productive citizens through an adequate public education. It doesn't make sense to me to make that kind of an investment without adequate provisions for those who, in their later years, can no longer care for themselves after a productive life of hard work.

But let's not talk about it in terms of a cold, hard business investment.

Let's talk about it in terms of a social obligation in which we as citizens must all share.

That is the Texas way. More importantly, it's the West Texas way.

A West Texan for our times.

HONEST ANSWERS TO FAIR QUESTIONS

Our Customers Are Concerned About The Cost of Quality Electric Service, and So Are We. Here's a Sample of the Questions They're Asking and the Answers We're Giving.

Q. Why is WTU asking for a rate increase?

A. There are three related reasons: inflation, the rising cost of capital, and WTU's massive construction program. Mainly, the request is based on capital expenditures during the past year.

Q. When was the last time you raised retail electric rates?

A. WTU has had only three rate increases in its history, while it has lowered rates 14 times. The last increase was February, 1982, and it amounted to an average of just over 8 percent.

Q. Why is WTU having to raise its rates again so soon?

A. The rate relief granted to us by the cities and the Public Utility Commission of Texas last time proved inadequate. It did not keep up with the cost of additional plant, inflation and high interest rates. Our revenues have not provided an adequate rate of return.

Q. What are other utilities doing about rates?

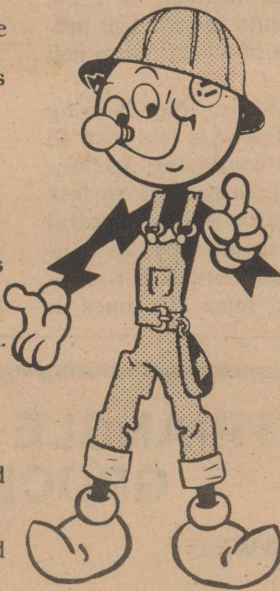

A. Without exception, all electric utilities are having to increase their rates. Some have been filing rate cases every year. Bill comparisons reported by the Public Utility Commission of Texas show that WTU's rates are second lowest among investor-owned utilities in Texas.

Q. Why are you building a big new plant? Isn't energy use declining?

A. Energy use in WTU service area is growing. This summer our peak demand reached 994 megawatts. Our current generating capacity is 1,054 megawatts. The summer peak left us with insufficient reserve margin. We will purchase power from neighboring utilities as a stop-gap measure, but the time has come when we must expand our own generating system, if we are to continue providing service our customers are used to.

Q. What would happen if you could not get a rate increase?

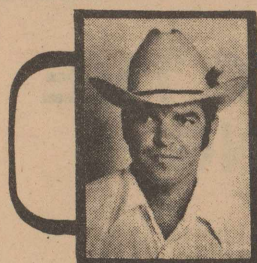

A. The financial condition of our Company would deteriorate rapidly. Our credit rating would suffer. We would no longer be in position to attract capital at reasonable interest rates to finance necessary major construction. We would have to pay higher interest rates at the expense of our customers.

Jerry Lackey's Country Folk

The Chronicles of agricultural productivity -- fewer and fewer farmers producing greater amounts of food for more and more people -- is a success story unparalleled in U.S. history.

It's a story I thought worth retelling particularly in the harvest season and too, in a period when agriculture is suffering from low market prices and drought.

From 100 percent of the original settlers working the land for their own survival to the present total of less than 5 percent of the U.S. population engaged in farming to feed the remainder of the country and a sizeable part of the world, it's a story of amazing agricultural statistics.

At the time of the Revolution, more than 90 percent of the population of the new nation was still engaged in farming.

By 1820, the percentage of farmers had dropped to some 83 percent and about 60 man-hours of labor were needed to produce an acre of wheat.

Gradually, the number of Americans in agriculture continued to slip until by 1870 farmers were no longer in the majority in the U.S. By then, only 47 percent of the country's population was classified in agriculture.

The number of farmers dwindled further and by 1910 only a third of the growing population was in agriculture.

With only 21 percent of the population in farming in 1930, total man-hours required to produce an acre of wheat fell to just three.

In the 1950's, the farming population dipped to less than 15 percent and continuing declines reduced that percentage to less than 5 presently. But agricultural production maintained its upward climb and output per man-hour jumped some 3 1/2 times in the past two decades.

In 1850, the value of equipment and implements on an average farm was valued at $115. Today, that valuation might be multiplied a thousand-fold or more.

The Great Depression saw a massive fluctuation in farm prices. Farmer income skyrocketed from $7 billion in 1914 to $17 billion in 1919, only to plummet to $5 billion by 1932.

The farmer always had to contend with the weather. The year without summer was 1816. Ice formed one-half inch thick in May; a three-inch snow fell in June and ice was still one-eighth inch thick in July.

Irrigated hay fields just before the Revolution yielded three mowings or 2 1/2 tons per acre. Without water, there was just one mowing.

Early agriculture had a silk-worm craze centered in Pennsylvania from 1826 to 1839. But the cold winters steadily killed off the mulberry trees on which the silkworms fed and silk farming died as quickly as it was born.

At the time of the Revolution, wheat fields in New York were yielding 25 to 35 bushels an acre. With poor fertilizing practices, yields dropped to 8 bushels an acre over the next half-century.

In 1886, thought was given to establishing a national storm warning system for farmers. Cannons would be fired at federal locations, such as post offices, to warn of approaching storms, flood or frost. Now, that's a long way from cable television!

Thinking back to where agriculture started -- and it is the oldest industry in the world -- and where it has come, I would have to say despite all the current problems, we ain't half bad off.

Avoid Fall Livestock Poisoning

by Mike Mecke

Range Conservationist, SCS

Poisonous range plants have been recognized as an important factor in the losses sustained by livestock producers since the early beginning of the livestock industry. One source states that a conservative estimate of annual loss of livestock in the U.S. is over $142 million! In 1965, reliable estimates put the loss in Texas alone as $50 million annually! The previous loss estimates do not try to account for such items as: lowered birth rates, weight loss, birth deformities, reduced longevity of the breeding herd, less efficient use of the rangeland, fencing, herbicides and many other insidious losses due to poisonous plants.

Ranchers tend to figure a certain amount of poisonous plant loss in the average annual death loss in their herds. However, ranching is not a high profit business which can afford losses without being concerned about them. Oftentimes, losses can be prevented or lessened by varying the livestock and/or range management practices on the ranch.

There are several rangeland plant species which may become a problem during the fall of the year including: milkweeds, lupines, locoweed, rayless goldenrod, threadleaf groundsel, lechuguilla and silverleaf nightshade. Additionally, several non-native plants can cause poisoning. Most cases of Kleingrass poisoning have occurred between April and October, with the greatest incidence and death loss from "swellhead" affecting lambs and kids during July and August. Several plants can be dangerous from hydrocyanic (prussic) acid poisoning shortly following frost. These include Johnsongrass, sorghums, sudans and members of the Prunus genus of plants (plums, cherries, etc.). Cyanide poisoning can also occur following plant stress resulting from drought, wilting, cutting, crushing, etc. Young, growing plants are usually more toxic than mature ones. Drying of plants usually reduces toxicity, but animals occasionally are poisoned from eating hay from cyanogenetic plants. Fields or pastures containing large populations of these plants should not be grazed during periods of early frosts and grazing plans should include a deferment at this critical time.

Long time grazing studies at the Sonora Experiment Station have shown that stocking ranges with a combination of livestock, such as sheep, cattle and goats, can cut death losses from poisonous plants as much as 25% and also produce more uniform utilization of all types of forage. Close livestock supervision and a planned grazing system can greatly reduce or eliminate unnecessary losses.

Several general rules for good management which will help prevent plant poisoning are:

(1) Do not misuse and consistently overgraze ranges, as this brings about the invasion of undesirable plants, many of which are toxic.

(2) Do not put hungry stock onto range infested with poisonous plants immediately after shipping, trailing, or being corraled. Feed them first.

(3) Always have a sufficient supply of salt and minerals, especially phosphorous, this may lessen use of poisonous plants.

(4) Change kind of stock or graze different combinations. For instance, larkspur is very dangerous to cattle, but not to sheep. Lupines are seldom harmful to cattle, but may prevent the grazing of sheep.

(5) If necessary, fence severe poisonous plant areas or treat with chemicals to reduce danger.

(6) Adjust season of grazing in pastures having a poisonous plant problem to avoid the most dangerous times. Some plans are dangerous only to pregnant, or young animals, so plan breeding and grazing schedules to prevent these problems.

(7) Learn to identify the poisonous plants and their symptoms, which are present on your place and watch for early signs of problems to prevent heavy losses.

Careful grazing management, which enhances the growth of the better forage plants, is often the most economical and the surest method of preventing livestock losses. This is especially true since more poisonous plants are annuals or weak perennials not holding dominant positions in climax plant communities. When sufficient amounts of good forage is available, animals usually vary their diets and seldom eat enough poisonous plants to cause problems.

Feed Grain, Wheat Program Signup Is Now In Progress

Coke County farmers can now sign up for the 1983 feed grain and wheat acreage programs, according to the Arch Mathers, County ASC Committee Chairman. The program requires that farmers reduce their wheat and feed grain planted acreage by 20 percent of the established base to qualify for program benefits. Acreage reduction requirements are 10 percent with a 10 percent paid land diversion for feed grain, and 15 percent with a 5 percent paid land diversion for wheat.

All farmers with an established base who plant feed grain and/or wheat are eligible to participate in the voluntary programs. Those who sign up will be eligible for land diversion payments, deficiency payments, and price support loans.

"Farmers may request 50 percent of the 1983 diversion payments and 50 percent of the projected deficiency payments when they sign up for the program," Mathers said. Land diversion payments have been established at $1.50 per bushel for corn and sorghum, $1.00 for barley, 75 cents for oats, and $2.70 per bushel for wheat. "The land diversion payment is based on one half the per bushel payment rate times the farm yield times the acres diverted."

Mathers said if a farmer accepts an advance payment and later does not comply with the acreage reduction program provisions, he or she will be required to refund the amount of the advance payment plus interest. Interest charged will be the rate in effect for commodity loans on the date of the advance payment, plus 5 percentage points.

The projected per-bushel deficiency payment rates are: corn, 21 cents; sorghum, 20 cents; barley, 15 cents; and wheat 65 cents. The ASCS official said advance deficiency payments will be held these rates. Advance payments are not authorized for oats.

To be eligible for program benefits, farmers must agree to limit their feed grain and wheat acreage planted for harvest to no more than 80 percent of the farm's feed grain and wheat base, and also to devote an acreage equal to both the reduction and land diversion to conservation uses.

Program participants will receive target price protection of $2.86 a bushel for corn, $2.72 for sorghum, $2.60 for barley, $1.60 for oats, and $4.30 per bushel for wheat. Loan rates per bushel are: corn, $2.65; sorghum, $2.52; barley, $2.16; oats, $1.36; rye, $2.25, and wheat, $3.65.

Participation in the 1983 programs is voluntary. However, only those farmers who take part will be eligible for program benefits. Signup will be conducted through March 31.

County Agents News Column

By Sterling Lindsey
County Extension Agent

Coke County has very few hybrid bermuda grass fields for grazing and hay production. Even so, a new variety is being released in 1983 that may be of interest to some producers in Coke County.

Brazos, a new bermudagrass hybrid that tops Coastal in performance, will be released through the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station's Foundation Seed Service at Texas A&M University in early 1983.

"Brazos bermudagrass has a higher level of digestibility and has produced better weight gains in cattle than Coastal bermuda," said Dr. Ethan Holt, professor of forages with the Experiment Station and Texas A&M's Department of Soil and Crop Sciences.

"In grazing trials Brazos has produced 20 to 25 percent higher animal performance than Coastal," Holt noted. "Brazos also has superior nutritional quality (dry matter digestibility) and is adapted to all areas of Texas except the High Plains."

Sprigs of Brazos bermudagrass will be available in limited amounts to qualified growers early next year, Holt said. To be qualified individuals must have their land free of other bermudagrasses and must have passed inspection by Texas Department of Agriculture officials. Production plots must be certified by the TDA to protect the new Brazos variety from contamination, the forage scientist said.

Brazos bermudagrass was bred at the Oklahoma Agricultural Experiment Station and developed cooperatively by Agricultural Experiment Stations in Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma. The release is a joint effort of these stations along with the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Agricultural Research Service and Soil Conservation Service.

Individuals interested in obtaining foundation sprigs of the new bermudagrass should contact the Foundation Seed Service, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843, and the Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711. Foundation Seed will provide qualified individuals with planting material information while TDA will furnish information on land inspection requirements for certification, Holt said.

The bad part, her brother was and is a real close friend, won't call any names, cause never had the nerve to tell her how I felt. Have been alone 5 1/2 years, not interested here. I want a Texas wife. I'm still a Reb. Hello to everyone in Robert Lee.

Steers Take Win Over W-Valley Wildcats, 48-20

There's no way to describe the moral victory of this contest for the Steers, because they needed this one bad, to build up their confidence again after the previous games. It just goes to show what blocking and tackling can do if you will do it and the Steers put on one of the best blocking shows that I have seen them do this year. On the lighter side, I knew the Wildcats were in trouble when they had a state politician at the game handing out circulars and they didn't have popcorn at the concession stand.

1st QUARTER

The Steers received the opening kickoff and returned it to their own 42. The Steers quickly moved to the Water Valley 20 on a 38 yd. run by Greg Grim, but again, the blocking was the difference, as he had a wall of Steers leading the way. Then as quick as that, Eddie Hood hit Scot Stephens over the middle with a pass and Stephens trotted into the end zone for a TD. The extras failed, but it was 6 to 0 Steers. Water Valley then took the kickoff and showed their stuff as they made a 1st at their 38 and then they go for the bomb and complete it for a 59 yard TD. They ran their extras and lead 8 to 6. The Steers got the kickoff at the Steer 46, and they go to work again and move the ball to the Wildcat 6 yard line where Hood sneaks it in for a Steer TD. The extras failed again and it was 12 to 8. The Wildcats took the kickoff and moved for little gain before Kirby Rasco picked off a pass and returned it to the Steer 39. The Steers are not to be denied in this contest as they rolled for another TD with Jim Skinner scoring from the 3 yd. line. Skinner ran the extras and it was 20 to 8. The Steers kicked off

Roads of the future may be litter-paved

COLLEGE STATION — Motorists may shudder at the thought of driving on broken glass, tin cans, rusty appliances and other trash, but with asphalt costs rising, highways may soon be paved with our trash.

Littercrete — so named because it is an asphalt paving mixture that uses a city's incinerated solid waste as aggregate — has proven successful in testing by Texas A&M University engineers.

The drawback is we may not have enough trash, says Dr. William B. Ledbetter. The civil engineering professor has worked in the Texas Transportation Institute littercrete project since a test section of roadway proved successful on a Houston city street.

Field observations and laboratory tests on field core samples "show that the littercrete is performing essentially the same as the conventional control section constructed of a conventional asphalt concrete base," Ledbetter said.

2nd QUARTER

The Wildcats couldn't move so they punted to the Steer 40. There's no stopping the Steers as they roll again, moving to the Water Valley 1 yd. line where Skinner carries it in again for the TD. He runs the extras and the lead jumps to 28 to 8. The Wildcats took the kickoff and with little success have to punt to the Steer 28. The Steers bog down for the first time and on the punt attempt, a little miscue and Water Valley gets the ball at the Steer 25. That pumps the Wildcats up as the drive in for a score, but missing their extras it is 28 to 14 as the 1st half ends.

3rd QUARTER

Water Valley takes the 2nd half kickoff and does little with it and punted to their 46. The Steers then moved again as 4 1st downs later, they score as Skinner carries it across from the 2. Anthony kicked the extras and it was 35 to 14. Water Valley took the kickoff and start at their own 24. Again the Steers hold and they punted to the Steer 42. The Steers move for 2 1st downs to the Water Valley 37, but they fumbled and the Wildcats recovered back at the Water Valley 46. But the Steers got it right back on an interception by Anthony at the Steer 44. The Steers made a 1st at the Water Valley 31 as the quarter ends.

4th QUARTER

The Steers continued their drive as Skinner bangs it across from the 5. The extras failed, but it was 41 to 14. The Wildcats then took the kickoff and moved for 3 1st downs to the Steer 4 yd. line, aided by a pass interference call. (Debatable). They then scored from the 3, but missed their extras it was 41 to 20. Water Valley kickoff to the Steer 50 on an on side kick attempt and the Steers take over. The Steers are held for the 2nd time and Anthony punted to the Water Valley 15. Rasco then intercepted a pass at the Water Valley 36. The Steers make short work of it as they moved to the score with Grim carrying it in from the 2 yd. line. Anthony kicked the extra point and it was 48 to 20. They kicked and Water Valley ran one play as the game ended.

P.S. the backs got the points, but these fellers do the dirty work. Kerry Wrinkle, Gilbert Abalos, Larry Palmer, Michael Wilson, Gary Naico, Terry Millican, Kyle Gibbs, Johnny Torres, Scot Stephens, Lupe Torres, Scot Stephens, Lupe Torres, Ricky Royal. They deserve a lot of credit.
