

Myths About Tornadoes Debunked In Tech Study

By TOM GRIESS
Avalanche-Journal Staff
IF AREA residents would ignore several popular myths and spend no more than $100 to safeguard their homes, they would be better protected against the deadly force of tornadoes.

These are among the conclusions reached in a new study recently released by three Texas Tech University civil engineering professors.

The report, entitled "The Tornado: An Engineering-Oriented Perspective," was prepared by Drs. Joseph Minor, director of Tech's Institute for Disaster Research, James McDonald and Kishor Mehta, and was published by the National Severe Storms Laboratory in Norman, Okla. Eight years in the making, the study examined more than 30 violent windstorms, including both tornadoes and hurricanes.

According to the study, most building damage is caused by wind speeds of 75-125 mph, and results from poor anchorage or connection failures in the buildings.

Co-author McDonald explained that building contractors do not, unless specifically requested, furnish homes with metal stripping connecting side walls with the roof and foundation.

Effects Of Plant's Closing Still Felt After Year

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — In the summer of 1977, John Koruschak was called into the supervisor's office at the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co.'s Campbell Works to receive his 25-year gold watch. He joked about having "a lot of time on my hands," and everybody laughed.

"A few weeks later "it was all over," he now recalls.

"The joke was on us."

Sept. 19, 1977 — a year ago Tuesday — was the day Sheet & Tube shocked this steel city by announcing it was closing the bulk of the aging Campbell Works. That put 4,100 persons out of work.

In Campbell, a Youngstown suburb where some 13,000 people live and 75 percent of the municipal revenue came from the mill and its employees, they call that day "Black Monday."

A year later, shock waves are still felt in the Mahoning Valley. A plan for workers and the community to acquire the plant has brought attention, but it will remain visionary unless the federal government comes through with massive loan guarantees. Meanwhile, Campbell braces for the coming weeks, when unemployment benefits run out.

Campbell has had a $639,000 state aid grant and Harry McFarland, city administrator, says the city is trying to attract new business. But, he adds, "I keep my fingers crossed every day that we can meet the payroll and keep going." Today, the city finds itself "depending on the government... I do not like that."

Koruschak remembers Sheet & Tube as "a good company to work for." But like most steel jobs, his in the soaking pits was specialized.

He remembers the intense heat. "I could put an apple on the shelf in the morning and have baked apple for lunch," he says.

But he drew more than $800 every two weeks. "It was the best job I could have had there. I felt I could take it easy until I retired."

Then came Black Monday. With the others, he was out on the street.

Koruschak and many others are bitter, and the bitterness is directed at Lykes Corp., which took over Sheet & Tube in the late 1960s.

"We felt we got the shaft," said Koruschak. "Lykes comes in without any money and buys up Sheet & Tube on credit... They milked it. After two or three years, they wouldn't repair anything, just tried to hold things together with Scotch tape and wire."

Sheet & Tube, by contrast, said the aged mill couldn't compete with modern plants and was losing money.

Whatever the explanation, the shutdown hurt.

Koruschak said that at first he "ran around like a chicken with its head cut off." He had always kept busy with hobbies and work around the house. But, he said, "I didn't know what to do. There's the feeling that nobody wants you. You feel like a lost soul."

With the local job market glutted, he went to California and found "two or three places where I could have had a job in electronics if I had more training." Electronics had been a hobby.

Meanwhile, he was drawing $661 in unemployment benefits and picking up a little side money as a performer by combining electronics with another hobby, magic. "You have to have a gimmick to make your act different," he said. His was a remote-controlled rabbit, summoned from the wings, after he made a real rabbit vanish.

But finding a steady job at 58 was not as easy as making rabbits appear and disappear. Koruschak enrolled in a federal retraining program, and finally, last July, started an electronics course at a school in nearby Niles. When he graduates next May, he feels sure he will be able to get a job. But that may mean moving to California — "if I can talk my wife into it."

John Spagnola, state employment service manager in Youngstown, says Koruschak is not alone; more than 300 Sheet & Tube workers are in federally funded training programs now.

And not all the displaced Sheet & Tube workers share Koruschak's optimism. Dan Eshenbaugh, 22, who worked four years at the blast furnace, said he has two weeks of benefits left and when that $127 a week stops, "that's it, then I have nothing." He said he has been "looking hard for a job, but they're not hiring anywhere."

A religious coalition has proposed a plan to reopen the Campbell Works under worker-community ownership, but Eshenbaugh says the steelworkers he has talked to don't think it will work.

Russell Baxter, president of United Steel Workers Local 2163, is skeptical, too. But adds: "You have to give the ecumenical coalition a lot of credit for making an effort to do something."

Last week, the coalition released a study saying reopening and modernizing the plant are feasible — if the government comes through with massive help, including $300 million in loan guarantees.

The Rev. Edward Stanton, coalition spokesman, said it is now up to the Carter administration whether the plan goes forward.

The coalition says its campaign has $4 million in bank accounts, from organizations and individuals showing support. Depositors can withdraw the funds, but presumably money that remains could become part of a private investment of $30 million called for in the plan.

But at the same time new shocks are expected — layoffs of 1,200 more at Sheet & Tube after a recently-approved merger of Lykes and LTV Corp., and eventual closing of U.S. Steel facilities employing 5,000.

Still, Stanton resists pessimism. "Youngstown still has a future as a steel center," he declared. "Republic Steel is investing $265 million at its Warren plant. They must see a future in the valley for steel. Copperweld is talking expansion. Sharon Steel just over the hill is working at capacity. The industry can prosper."

"But," he adds, "a lot of hard work has to be done by the community and the steel people."

Tower Solicits Funds Using State Seal

AUSTIN — If you can walk into a jewelry store and buy cufflinks engraved with the Great Seal of the State of Texas, why can't Sen. John Tower's reelection campaign solicit political contributions on paper bearing a similar mark?

It can, says a Tower campaign spokesman, because politics isn't conducted for a profit.

A recent mailout from Tower's campaign office asks for an "investment" to ensure conservatives like Tower's "are not replaced by the Senate by liberals who will support (President) Carter's proposals."

And on the letter, the envelope that contained it, and on a related contribution card, are copies of the Great Seal.

Although Texas law makes it a misdemeanor to use a representation of the seal to advertise a commercial undertaking or for a commercial purpose, Tower press aide Bruce Neely says the statute probably would not apply to a political campaign.

"Most probably, 'political' is not considered 'commercial' because it's not for profit... Any case brought up on that point would probably be laughed out of court because politicians are the ones who wrote the law," he said.

Robert Heath, chairman of the Attorney General's Opinions Committee, agrees, saying, "I doubt that anyone would be misled that this was for an official purpose."

Still, the campaign literature looks official enough: a state employee who received the solicitation letter in the mail said it surprised him.

"I thought I'd lost my job or something," he said.

Meanwhile, Tower campaign manager Ken Towery says the seal apparently has been used in other political campaigns — and he's following the "everybody does it" lead.

And about those cufflinks — Tower says he has a pair.

MURDER RAMPAGE
WEST AUBURN, Pa. (AP) — An infant girl is the sole survivor of a rampage by a young slaughterhouse worker who killed his estranged wife, her mother, brother and sister and then committed suicide, police said. The bodies of Miles; his wife, Annette, 18; his mother-in-law, Janice Carter, 38, and Mrs. Carter's two younger children, Sylvia, 14 and Kevin, 8, were discovered by Carter's father, Donald, 79, Miles' 9-day-old daughter, Carey Lynn, was found safe.

GOP Displays Unity At State Confab

By BILL KIDD
A-J Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Obviously, the member of the senatorial caucus was puzzled. The group had just voted, all but unanimously in favor of one candidate for party office, and how the members had given one vote to the candidate's opponent. Doesn't the delegate who seconded that name have to vote for that candidate too? She asked.

No, the chairman ruled. "Then why...?" she began — and then she said, "Oh — that's politics."

That happened with the Republicans — but it could have been the Democrats just as easily.

But since this writer hasn't had a chance to sort out the Democrat's situation yet, here are a few reflections on the Republicans.

By now, virtually everyone who follows such things knows that incumbent party chairman Ray Barnhart of Pasadena turned back the challenge of John R. Butler, Jr., Houston, with both men running on the idea of party unity.

Butler argued Barnhart has been more interested in promoting Ronald Reagan for president in 1980 than in working to get Republicans elected to local and statewide offices, and that Barnhart has been taking sides in primary battles.

Barnhart's supporters were seeing the challenge as a continuation of the internal dissension between backers of former Chairman Ray Hutchison, through Butler, a problem rooted in part in the split between Reagan backers and supporters of Gerald Ford back in the last presidential primary.

Officially, no one in the Texas GOP remembers that unpleasantness in Kansas City, which resulted in an uncomfortable situation for Sen. John Tower — who was seen by some Texas Republicans as having betrayed them by supporting Ford over Reagan.

Politicians usually have as good — at least as good — memories as anyone else, but feuding within the Texas GOP leads to the belief it's composed of Southern mountaineers or Sicilian peasants — all out to avenge past injuries.

But, for appearances sake, the pleasures of vengeance often are set aside to gain more immediate benefit — and that, too, is very much politics.

So on the floor of the convention, things generally went smoothly and appeared lunko-dory — but there were some unpleasant moments in various caucuses.

Generally, it appeared that delegates were more interested, overall, in submerging disagreements and unhappiness to provide a display of unity in the belief that it would help Republican candidates.

Republicans are fielding more folks for statewide office than in some time — and many delegates indicated hopes that even if those candidates fail to overcome the undoubted advantages Democratic nominees have in Texas, the races will be close enough to encourage more Republicans to make such efforts.

While there's been much said — and will be more said before Nov. 7 (and afterwards) — on the gubernatorial race by Bill Clements and attorney general's office campaign by Jim Baker, it appears that John Tower's re-election remains the top priority with most Texas Republicans.

Tower appeared for a brief speech, blasting his opponent Bob Krueger, and expressing confidence that he'll have little trouble retaining his Senate seat.

Before his speech, sitting in a room in the back hall of the Dallas Convention Center, Tower appeared relaxed and unconcerned about his challenger.

His campaign, Tower said, is going well; his polls are accurate, and favorable; he has a "substantial and unerosable" base of support with minority groups.

Texas, he contends, is still a basically conservative state — regardless of population shifts.

Texas are worried about inflation, big government, deficit spending and the economic situation — all things he's been working on, the senator commented — and he thinks the independents and "ticket-splitters" (or "November Republicans," as some call them) will add their votes to the GOP as before, and send him back to Washington.

And very likely many of those independents won't have paid any attention to either party convention — and won't care how much unity or disunity there is in either party.

But, as the lady said, "that's politics."

IMF Sees Dollar Dip Advantages

WASHINGTON (AP) — The International Monetary Fund urged patience Sunday for those who are worried about the dollar, saying the decline should benefit the U.S. and world economies although it may take a few years.

The IMF said the steep plunge in the dollar's value, and the gains made by other currencies, will help to narrow the huge U.S. trade deficit while erasing the trade surpluses of countries like Japan and Germany.

It said there should be a substantial improvement in the pattern of world trade over two to three years. It takes that long for the full effects of changed currency values to adjust trade imbalances, it said.

"The cumulative changes in exchange rates that has occurred over the two years have generally been in a direction helpful to the adjustment process," the 134-nation institution said in an annual report.

But the IMF expressed worry over "periods of disturbing instability of exchange markets."

It said it intends to exercise its recently acquired authority to provide for close scrutiny over currency exchange rate policies of member countries, including their domestic economic policies.

Questions of exchange rates and economic policies will be on the agenda for the annual meeting of the IMF in Washington, Sept. 25-29. President Carter is expected to address the opening session.

The IMF's power and influence have increased substantially in recent years, with the support of the United States. It has been the chief source of funds for many nations that were faced with possible bankruptcy because of the increase in world oil prices and a long worldwide recession that followed.

Lending in the year ending in April totaled $3.1 billion, down from the record 1977 total of $5.6 billion. Total outstanding loans were nearly $17.5 billion.

The United States provides about 20 percent of the IMF's financial resources.

In its report, the IMF expressed disappointment at the sluggish economic growth of most industrial nations in the past year, saying unemployment remains at recession levels in nearly all countries except the United States. "Industrial countries continue to be burdened by substantial under utilization of resources," it said.

Only the United States, with a 5 percent growth rate, was successful in reducing economic slack left over from the 1974-1975 recession, it said. Growth of European nations averaged only 2 percent.

As a consequence of the low growth rates, the world's trade expanded only 5 percent last year, down from 12 percent a year earlier and an average growth of 9 percent in the decade ending in 1972.

"The combination of slow growth of world trade and high unemployment appeared to be generating increased resort to protectionist actions and danger that these might escalate," the IMF said.

It noted with approval that some countries have recently changed their policy to promote faster growth. While it didn't mention them by name, Germany and Japan are among them.

Squirrel Population Expands Greatly

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The Center for Short-Lived Phenomena here reports strong evidence of a population explosion among North American gray squirrels.

"There was a great acorn crop last fall," said center director Richard Golob, "and this year there was a mild spring and a summer without extremes of heat or dryness, which promotes the prolific breeding of squirrels." A dramatic increase in the squirrel population in 1968 was blamed for the deaths of millions of the animals from Georgia to New York. The rodents drowned crossing streams and were crushed during across roads in an apparent attempt to find less populated areas.

Hill Platform Approved

FORT WORTH (AP) — Delegates to the Texas Democratic Party convention gave gubernatorial candidate John Hill the platform he wanted Saturday during a smooth meeting that produced a few sparks but no fireworks.

Hill's hand-written platform sailed through the convention after his choice for party chairman was approved without opposition.

Houstonian Billy Goldberg replaces Calvin Guest as chairman, and he made no bones about who was responsible.

"I am most grateful to John and Bitsy Hill for deciding I was the one who should have this job," Goldberg told the assembly. Later, Goldberg attacked Republican spending policies. "They are openly, brazenly telling the people of Texas...that they are committed to spending $10 million," Goldberg said.

The GOP slate includes Dallas' Bill Clements for governor and Jim Baker against Democrat Mark White for attorney general. The other spotlight race in November will be between republican Sen. John Tower and Rep. Bob Krueger for Tower's Senate seat.

Hill's strong influence was felt repeatedly and came up short only once.

Delegates shouted for and received a tedious, county-by-county roll call vote on a liberal-backed resolution supporting collective bargaining rights for public employees, an issue opposed by Hill. It passed easily, but Hill said later he would not be bound by it.

Conservative forces put up one more fight they considered a test of rural strength within the party, running Mrs. Billie Veach of Burnet against Fort Worth's Deryl Davis for vice chairman. That post traditionally goes to a minority woman. Mrs. Davis is a black and was the recipient of a series of seconding speeches. She won easily, and liberal candidate Richard Perkins of Dallas then beat conservative Glyn Day of Odessa on a standing vote.

The convention heard resolutions for the first time in several years, and some caused floor flurries late in the proceedings.

A resolution to repeal Section 21.06 of the Texas Penal Code produced several speeches. That section provides a $200 fine for persons convicted of "deviant" sexual acts and was the target of a gay caucus group. Delegates voted to table the issue, saving Hill from potential embarrassment. Hill opposes repeal of 21.06, saying the legislature has the right to set the sexual norm for the state.

Other minority reports tabled would have supported extending the ratification deadline for the Equal Rights Amendment and opposing use of tax funds for abortions.

A resolution seeking to stop dumping and transportation of nuclear waste in Texas gained approval from the delegates.

Speeches were few and far between Saturday, in contrast to Friday's round of rhetoric.

The most stirring remarks from the podium Saturday came from old party war

Tuberculosis Growing Health Problem In State

AUSTIN (AP) — Tuberculosis — perhaps a disease of the past in the minds of most Texans — is now, and for the foreseeable future, will be a major health problem in Texas, the State Health Department says.

One of the reasons, it says is immigration from Mexico and Vietnam.

A weekly department report — "Accident on Health" — states that the total of 2,326 cases in Texas last year was the third highest total in the nation.

The department said tuberculosis is such an important personal and public health problem that it will prepare another report on TB next week.

Tuberculosis is an infectious disease often characterized by nodules on the lungs.

It is found in virtually every part of the state, the department says, with the highest number of cases in large metropolitan areas and in counties bordering on Mexico and the Gulf of Mexico.

The Rio Grande Valley had the highest case rate — 30 per 100,000 population — in 1977.

Authorities Put Lid On News Of Hunt For Terrorist Leaders

ROME (UPI) — Judicial officials clamped a news blackout on their expanding Red Brigades manhunt Sunday but investigation sources said three women and three men were at the center of a nationwide search for the killers of Aldo Moro.

Moro, premier of Italy five times and president of the ruling Christian Democratic party at the time of his abduction, was found dead on a Rome street May 9.

Officials said news leaks about the arrest of alleged Red Brigades chief Corrado Alunni had damaged their investigation and they would say no more until the hunt for suspects was over.

"I won't even tell you the color of pants Alunni is wearing," Milan magistrate Armando Spataro told reporters when they asked about the 30-year-old Red Brigades suspect arrested Wednesday night.

Milan investigating magistrates said news of Alunni's arrest leaked from the Interior Ministry in Rome and spoiled plans to round up suspects who had been photographed and filmed at Alunni's apartment during two weeks of secret surveillance.

"It was supposed to be the secret of the year. It should have been kept secret three days at least so we could do our work," one Milan antiterrorist police official said bitterly. "Instead they let it out in three hours."

Builders' Group Forming

West Texas contractors are forming what is to be the state's seventh chapter of the Associated Builders and Contractors. Forty Permian Basin area contractors have recently created a chapter-in-formation of ABC. Their affiliation with the national association will give them access to all association services.

Milton Tucker of Orloff Corp. has been selected as president of the new chapter. Other officers include: J.M. Leslie of Marks Crane and Rigging, vice president; Dave Aldrich of Star-Adair Insulation, secretary; Sam Holloman of Holloman Construction Co., treasurer.

The chapter will hold monthly meetings to present programs of interest to the general membership. The first meeting is scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 21, at the Holiday Inn in Odessa beginning at 6:30 p.m. Frank Parker of the Management Center of the Southwest will be featured speaker presenting a program on labor relations. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Anyone wishing more information on ABC in West Texas should contact Milton Tucker at 915-6976-4111 or Bill Scales at Perry Engineering at 915-332-4321.

Tennessee Escapee Wounded During Recapture

SALEM, Ark. (UPI) — Larry Chism, one of two remaining Tennessee convicts still being sought after last Wednesday's breakout, was captured Sunday after a high speed auto chase in rugged Ozark Mountain country near the Missouri border.

SLC AWARDED CONTRACT
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Housing and Urban Development has awarded a $75,000 technical assistance contract to the Southern Christian Leadership Council to enable the council to coordinate with local officials in planning low-income housing.

der. Shots were fired and Chism was wounded slightly.
Capt. Bob Ward of the Arkansas State Police said Chism was captured at 12:04 p.m. after a pickup he had commandeered had crashed into a state police roadblock at Viola, a tiny community eight miles from Missouri.
Chism, 29, the acknowledged ringleader of the four-man escape, was wounded slightly in the head during the chase. He was treated at the Fulton County Hospital and transferred to the Lonoke County sheriff's office where he faces kidnapping charges.
The four convicts during their five-state spree, stole at least six vehicles, an airplane to fly from Tennessee to Arkansas, and took nine hostages, all of whom were either released or escaped unharmed.

Chism, dressed in jeans and a T-shirt, when he crashed another commandeered pickup Thursday evening near Calico Rock, 25 miles to the southwest, apparently had stripped down to his underwear.
"At 11:55 p.m. a Mrs. (Carl) Hensley called (police) ... and advised a subject wearing dark glasses and dressed in shorts and extremely scratched up, had walked out of the woods near her home ... 8 or 10 miles north of Calico Rock,"

Ward said.
Chism, the object of a search by 60 lawmen using bloodhounds in the rugged and densely wooded country, took Carl Hensley hostage. Hensley was described by State Police as "elderly." But Chism released him after driving a short way from the Hensley home.
State Trooper G. S. Huddleston, alerted after Mrs. Hensley's call, spotted the Hensley pickup with Chism alone and driving and gave pursuit.
"Trooper Huddleston fired six rounds, one of them grazing Chism's right temple," said William Kell, special agent in charge of the FBI office in Little Rock.

"He (Huddleston) just did a magnificent job. Chism had said he would not be taken alive and it could have been a really bad situation. Chism's right temple was grazed and he had three stitches."
"The law enforcement officers in Izard, Baxter and Stone counties just did an excellent job, along with the state police and 12 of our own agents."
With the capture of Chism, a Vietnam veteran and a student at Memphis State University Law School when arrested for armed robbery, the only remaining one of the convicts at large was Richard Lyons, 32, whom police sought in Ohio and Kentucky.

Lyons, who with Chism coedited the prison newspaper, The Phoenix, freed two hostages early Friday, Mr. and Mrs. John King of Woodlawn, Ark., giving them back their car at Covington, Ky., near the Ohio border and setting out on foot himself.
The Kings said Lyons told them he was thinking about heading for Cincinnati where his former wife and two children live.
"He asked for $2 when he got out," King said later. "I had some more money but that's all he wanted."
Chism, Lyons and two other men, all serving 20 to 40-year sentences for crimes ranging from armed robbery to rape, shot their way out of a prison outing Wednesday at a Dickson, Tenn., bowling alley. Lyons was wounded slightly in the arm. A prison guard was also wounded.
George Bonds, 24, and Floyd Brewer, 28, were captured Thursday when their stolen truck rammed a police vehicle.
The four had spent the previous night at the home of the Kings whom Chism and Lyons took hostage, leaving in the Kings' car. Bonds and Brewer took the King's pickup and the four split up.
Later Chism left the Kings with Lyons and commandeered another pickup and three hostages. This was the one he crashed near Calico Rock, Chism fleeing into the woods, the hostages escaping.

Louisiana Senator Re-Elected In First Open Primary

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Democratic Sen. J. Bennett Johnston swept to an easy re-election victory Saturday over state Rep. Louis "Woody" Jenkins in Louisiana's first open primary.
With 77 percent of the precincts reporting, Johnston had 380,371 or 69 percent and Jenkins 258,993 or 41 percent.

campaign workers and, although admitting the race was lost, added "I think we won a great victory tonight."
"It is not so important who is sent to Washington. What is important is what they stand for. And the only way Johnston could get re-elected was to adopt every single principle we advocated."
Johnston was elected to the seat held by the late Sen. Allen Ellender for 36 years.
In U.S. House races, incumbent Reps. Robert Livingston, Lindy Boggs, W. Henson Moore, John Breaux and Gillis Long scored easy victories.

Rep. David Treen was unopposed in the 3rd District, which contains part of suburban New Orleans.
In the nine-candidate race to choose a successor to retiring Rep. Joe Waggoner, D-La., in northwest Louisiana, Republican Jimmy Wilson, bidding to be the state's fourth Republican congressman, took a slim early lead over the crowded field.
Others considered front-runners in that race were Democrat Charles "Buddy" Roemer and state Rep. Claude "Buddy" Leach.

ston easily defeated former Gov. John McKeithen, who ran as an independent, in the general election.
Both Johnston and Jenkins, owner of a Baton Rouge advertising agency and a two-term member of the state House, emphasized taxes and inflation during a low-key campaign.
Jenkins labeled Johnston "one of the last of the big spenders" in the Senate, and ran on a tax revolt theme, which included a 30 percent across-the-board tax cut and a push for a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced budget.

shortly after Waggoner announced he wouldn't seek a 10th term. He received heavy financial backing from state Republicans and national GOP groups.
About $1 million was spent in the 4th District race, with Roemer, a 34-year-old businessman-farmer-banker and son of the state's Commissioner of Administration, responsible for about $450,000.
Leach, 44, an attorney, ran on a platform calling for budget cuts, expanded foreign trade and more development for rural north Louisiana.

Johnston, backed by Sen. Russell Long, D-La., charged Jenkins was "loose with the truth," adding he had voted for spending cuts 75 times during his term.
Republicans, expected to make a strong run for the governorship in 1979 with Treen, were pushing to gain a four-four split in the state's congressional delegation for the first time in history.

Soviet Newspaper Says U.S. Hampers Relations

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda said Sunday the Soviet Union sees "the speediest conclusion" of a strategic arms limitation pact despite what it said were efforts by "influential circles" in Washington to hamper U.S.-Soviet relations.

Warnke's trip reportedly was aimed at giving the Soviet leadership, particularly its military chiefs, time to preview the latest U.S. proposals.

Others considered front-runners in that race were Democrat Charles "Buddy" Roemer and state Rep. Claude "Buddy" Leach.
All candidates, regardless of party, were entered in the open primary. Run-offs will be needed only if the leading primary candidate receives less than a majority, thus most of the races were to be decided Saturday.
Johnston was elected in 1972 to fill the seat vacated when Ellender died during the Democratic primary campaign. John-

Wilson jumped to the Republican Party

In its weekly international review, the Communist Party newspaper said Moscow-Washington relations "can be built only on the basis of strict observance of the principles of equality, mutual benefit and non-interference" in each other's internal affairs.
"Meanwhile, definite influential circles in the U.S.A. are still trying to disregard these principles, which cannot but have negative consequences," the newspaper warned. Pravda did not say who the "influential circles" were.
Pravda said it was a "pressing necessity" for the two superpowers to achieve practical results on talks to end the arms race and to limit the growth of strategic weapons in a new pact.
Western sources said U.S. arms negotiator Paul Warnke, who was in Moscow the first week of September for two days of talks with the Soviets, had reported the discussions yielded some progress on resolving issues that are preventing a new strategic weapons pact.

'Slava' Plays White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mstislav Rostropovich, one of the world's most renowned musicians, played a recital Sunday in the East Room of the White House before an invited audience of several hundred persons who gave him a prolonged ovation.

He was introduced by the first lady, Rosalynn Carter, as "the world's greatest cellist and also a composer and conductor."
Referring to him by his nickname, Mrs. Carter said: "Mr. Rostropovich — 'Slava' — has been honored around the world and he honors us by his presence here this afternoon."

"I'm very sorry that Jimmy can't be here ... He looked forward to this afternoon for a long time." The president is at Camp David, Md., winding up talks looking for a peaceful settlement in the Mideast.

Rostropovich, who is music director of the Washington-based National Symphony Orchestra, was accompanied on the piano by his daughter Elena, 20, a student at the Juilliard School of Music in New York. His other daughter, Olga, a cellist also studying at Juilliard, turned the pages for her sister.

Rostropovich and his wife, soprano Galina Vishnevskaya, were stripped of their Soviet citizenship earlier this year on political and ideological grounds.
She attended the recital, as did Mrs. Menachem Begin, wife of the prime minister of Israel; Mrs. Ashraf A. Gorbah, wife of the ambassador of Egypt; Mrs. Simcha Dinitz, wife of the Israeli ambassador; and Mrs. Cyrus Vance, wife of the secretary of state.

Rostropovich played works by Johann Sebastian Bach, Carl Maria von Weber, Robert Schumann and Dimitri Shostakovich, with whom the cellist once studied. The latter work is extremely difficult technically, both for the cellist and his accompanist. He obliged with two encores, and held up his daughter's hand after each number.

The program was carried by the Public Broadcasting Service and on National Public Radio. It was funded by a grant from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting.

This is the second such recital in the Carter White House. Pianist Vladimir Horowitz played last February.

Three more performances are scheduled: singer Leontyne Price on Oct. 8; ballet star Mikhail Baryshnikov, next Feb. 25; and guitarist Andres Segovia, March 11.

Mrs. Carter and the Rostropovich family greeted the guests at a reception following the recital.

Housing Boom In Texas To Continue

By BILL KIDD
A-J Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Housing demand in Texas is expected to continue rising at twice the rate of the state's population increase, according to a study by Texas A&M's Real Estate Research Center.

That study, by Arthur L. Wright, reports that while the state's population is expected to rise by less than 15 percent for the decade ending in 1985, the number of households should increase 32 percent.

Wright says the large number of young adults now in the market for housing will create continuing strong demand for "detached single-family houses" — in the same way the group created a demand for apartments and mobile homes in the late 1960s and early 1970s.

During that period, he comments, demand for small maintenance-free living units, combined with a good supply of funds for construction, produced the greatest boom in apartment construction Texas has seen — with more apartment units than single-family homes being constructed from 1968 through 1973.

Now, many of those persons who've been living in apartments are in the market for single-family homes, and that, Wright feels, "has been one of the main factors" in the increased price of older houses relative to newer ones, and has caused many apartment complexes to be converted to condominiums.

Relative demand for "large luxury homes" may be less in the 1980s than the 1970s, he comments, even if housing costs stabilize and incomes continue to rise.

As the population shift from older to younger groups in the housing market continues, the supply of single- and multi-family units will tend to balance the supply of such housing, the research says — but demand for single family homes will continue for some time.

One hopeful prediction is that by the early 1990s the accelerating price of housing should be "more nearly equal" to the general inflation rate.

The increased demand for housing among young adults also includes the purchase of homes by more single men and women — and that fact hasn't been lost on those selling homes.

Recently, the Austin Board of Realtors held its second seminar for singles interested in buying homes — noting that purchasing by such "non-traditional" buyers is on the increase particularly in the townhouse and condominium markets.

The special advisory committee on worker's compensation matters is reviewing a number of filings made by the National Council on Compensation to the State Board of Insurance.

The filings are due to be presented to the SBI at its hearing on rate adjustments, and that hearing is expected to be called for the second week in November.

Most of the requests are for changes in classifications — such as separate classifications of clerical employees in five of the 24 classes which now include them (nursing homes, hospitals, hotels and two restaurant groups).

Another filing proposes combining postwood products into the logging and lumbering category and abandoning the "upset" method of determining premium for the former industry.

Under the "upset" method, cords of wood produced are converted (for purposes of calculation) into payroll.

Reportedly, the Texas Forestry Association opposes the proposals.

Also on the subject of worker's compensation: the Industrial Accident Board is continuing to work on the problem of "public frauds" — persons filing false or misleading claims for worker's compensation.

Thus far, LAB has listed eight (six men, two women), and has another designation which is on appeal.

Labor Adviser Asks Strike Talks Role

EAST HAMPTON, N.Y. (AP) — Labor adviser Theodore W. Khzel proposed on Sunday that he be allowed to sit permanently at the bargaining table in the New York City newspaper strike.

Also, Khzel, a veteran of 15 years of mediation in such disputes, suggested that he be given 10 days to question publishers of The New York Times, the Daily News and the New York Post, and striking pressmen about the issues. A week ago, the unions drafted Khzel as unpaid adviser.

MARKING "100-DAY STRUGGLE" AGAINST AIRPORT — Helmeted and masked protesters of Tokyo's newly-opened Narita International Airport are pictured Sunday at a mass rally held marking what they called a "100-day struggle" against the billion-dollar facility at a farming community on the south end of the air terminal's one completed runway. Police estimated 7,150 — 4,500 of them members of violent left-wing groups — attended the rally. The Anti-Airport League, which organized the event, said 18,700 farmers and students took part in the rally and march. (AP Laserphoto)

Inner-City Trailer Park Draws CBers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Some vagabonds, used to easy-to-find recreational vehicle parks on the nation's highways, have turned to their CB radios to help them find a new one now open in the heart of San Francisco.

"They are calling us all the time on their CBs, saying they are lost and need directions into the park," said Sam Bell, co-owner of the park at a converted railroad depot near the downtown area.

"I would say 90 percent, perhaps as high as 99 percent, of them have CBs and they seem to automatically reach for them when they can't find their way around the city," Bell added.

Bell said he thinks the park — and his ever-present CB radio — is helping end the habit recreational vehicle people have developed of rolling right through San Francisco and stopping somewhere else. Most of his customers agree.

"It's about time San Francisco joined the RV (recreational vehicle) universe," said Ross Dedrick, a Los Angeles policeman recently passing through with his wife, three children and 20-foot camper.

"I'll tell you, if it weren't for this park, we'd just pass on through San Francisco," he said.

In recent years the growing legion of "RV people" have bypassed San Francisco for other cities or areas where they could park their rigs, drop the awnings, plug into the nearest outlet, turn on portable TV sets and crank up the CB.

Last April the San Francisco Recreational Vehicle Park was born when its operators leased six acres at the site of the old Southern Pacific railroad depot, in the shadow of the freeway and not far from the docks.

Like most RV parks, San Francisco's boasts water, electricity, sewage hook-ups, showers, a laundromat, a shop, a nursery and rental television sets.

Ron Campbell, from Lafayette, Ind., sitting on a lawn chair sipping a beer, recounted his upward mobility in the "RV universe."

"We started in a tent, then we had two pop-up campers and now we've got this self-contained RV, which is a real luxury," he said. "I don't just love my RV — I love the life it gives me."

"One summer we traced the whole Revolutionary War in our RVs, and another summer it was the Civil War," Campbell said. "We've seen Nova Scotia, the Grand Canyon, Miami Beach and at last we're seeing California."

E.B. Spurr, 73, of San Diego has been on the road since January.

"Heck, you don't see anything in a plane and you can't eat your wife's cooking by car. And there's no way I can survive all these months on the road without my wife's cooking," Spurr said.

"I'll be in an RV park for an hour," he said, "and I'll feel as at home as if I've been there all my life. And I've never felt that way in a hotel."

Piano Competition Prizes Awarded

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bradford Gowen, 32, of nearby Bethesda, Md., won the top prize of $10,000 Sunday in a competition for pianists sponsored by the Kennedy Center and funded by the Rockefeller Foundation.

He and two others competed in the final judging, the survivors of a dozen international pianists who have played recitals during the week. Gowen, who lives in Tuscaloosa, Ala., part of the time, also won a concert tour of 35 cities in this country and Canada.

Second prize of $5,000 went to Donna Coleman, 26, of Greenville, N.C., and the third prize of $3,000 was awarded to Robert Weirich, 28, of New Orleans.

Gowen is a graduate of the Eastman School of Music who has taught at Lynchburg, Va., College; Sweet Briar College, Emporia, Kan., and the University of Alabama. He is also a published composer.

Miss Coleman studied at Indiana, Pa. University and the University of Michigan. She is currently working for a doctorate at the Eastman School of Music. She is also a lecturer in piano at East Carolina University.

Weirich studied at Oberlin Conservatory of Music in Ohio and at Yale. He is now an artist-teacher at Tulane University, New Orleans.

Rizzo Seeks Third Term

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mayor Frank Rizzo, banking on the success of a proposal to revise the City Charter to allow him to serve a third consecutive term, was back among the people, promising to save them from a "bunch of ultra-liberal idiots."

It was the same Frank Rizzo who in March said, "I will not run for mayor" and put forth instead an ambiguous plan to become a national spokesman for the white majority.

Announcing his change of heart, Rizzo went before local and national television audiences last week to begin his campaign. He said he was against busing of school children to achieve racial integration — "when the kids ride a school bus for three hours they don't learn nothing" — and against racial quota systems, and federal housing and federal courts he says are trying to run the country.

"Hogwash," he said when asked about charges he was a racist.

At age 56 the mayor, a hulk of a man who speaks in thunderclaps and frequently jousts with reporters, is facing one of the biggest political fights of his life. If the charter isn't changed to delete the ban on more than two consecutive mayoral terms (the voters will decide that Nov. 7), it could well be his last.

But, then Rizzo's political obit has been written dozens of times before, and always he has survived.

He's a Democrat who once was a Republican, a man who called Richard Nixon "the greatest president this country ever had," a man who, according to a polygraph test, lied about a political deal in a hotel men's room, but a man who to many is the last hope to right all that is wrong with this country.

So they stick with him, mostly shot-and-beer people from ethnic neighborhoods rooting for one of their own — a man whose father immigrated from Italy, and, who like his son, became a policeman.

During the summer, Philadelphia experienced a garbage strike and a teachers strike, and Rizzo was clearly visible in the solution of both. And he came to grips with a band of radicals called MOVE, who for over a year had rattled his reputation as a city boss who didn't back down to anyone.

Then, more than a month ago, without ceremony, the Committee to Reform the Charter (actually an arm of the Democratic City Committee) opened up headquarters on Walnut Street.

Today, it bustles with staff and volunteers typing, phoning and mailing literature to potential Rizzo supporters.

If the charter change makes it, the mayor's name will be placed on the Democratic ballot in the spring primaries of 1979. Two other men, Albert Gaudiosi, a former Rizzo aide, and Charles Bowser, a Philadelphia lawyer, also have announced on the Democratic ticket. The Republicans are playing wait-and-see.

Rizzo was in fine form last week. A spit shine rode his big black shoes and his powerful neck bulged from his white starched shirts as he waded into crowds snorting about the "villains" from the Department of Housing and Urban Development who wanted to mess up neighborhoods with low income housing.

"They have no roots," he shouted.

"They go into one neighborhood, tear it up, move onto another. I will do battle with those people who want to tell you how to live even though they don't live in your community."

"If they're going to do anything in this city, they've got to get by me, and they haven't got by me yet."

And on television he said: "I'm as liberal as anybody when it comes to human rights. But I'm tired of talking to young police officers who were passed over for promotion by fellow officers who scored lower on tests. They ask me why they weren't promoted and I say, 'Oh, I thought you were.' Later, I find out it was because of the quota system."

"The courts in this country are running government now. The Bill of Rights was never interpreted for the courts to tell us what to do in our community, but they're doing it now."

As Rizzo moved about the city, aides handed out orange and blue "Yes!" buttons, instructing voters to okay the charter change.

In his old South Philadelphia neighborhood, women kissed his cheek, and men shook his hand, and once again they took up the chant: "Four More Years."

Congress Struggling To Finish Business

WASHINGTON (AP) — Energy and tax issues are still unresolved and the budget is mired down as Congress struggles this week to finish its work, go home to campaign — and not have to return after the November elections.

The prospects may be clearer Tuesday after a key Senate vote on the natural gas pricing compromise. Administration forces think they have the votes to keep this crucial portion of the energy program from being shunted back to committee.

If they are right, an agreement to end natural gas price controls by 1985 may be in sight after 10 months of House-Senate negotiations.

Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd declared Saturday that the fight to win passage of the compromise is "virtually over the top."

The West Virginia Democrat said his "conservative" count lists 49 votes in favor of the compromise bill. He said 37 senators are lined up against the measure and 14 are "question marks." The latest Associated Press survey found 48 lawmakers for or leaning in favor of the bill, 39 against it or leaning against and 13 undecided.

The Senate Finance Committee continues work on the tax cut bill Congress can hardly leave unfinished this year. The House-passed $16.3 billion cut is being enlarged and reshaped with more attention to lower incomes. The final version will have to come out of a Senate-House conference.

The Senate sponsor of the so-called Kemp-Roth tax cut proposal, which would cut taxes by a third across the board over the next three years, conceded Sunday that that proposal has little chance of being included in the final version of the bill the committee will approve.

"It's going to be very difficult to win in the Senate Finance Committee tomorrow," said Sen. William Roth, R-Del., "but I have high hopes that we will pick up some votes."

"I intend to push strongly in the committee," he said. "If we don't carry it there, then I will carry the fight to the Senate floor."

Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., said if the proposal fails in the Senate, too, "the battleground will shift from the Congress to the November elections. ... The issue will not be laid to rest."

The United States Army's First Cavalry division landed in Vietnam in 1965, the largest U.S. troop landing in the war.

Roth was interviewed on CBS' "Face the Nation." Kemp appeared on NBC's "Meet the Press."

The budget-making procedure Congress enacted as part of its overall push to reclaim governmental initiative from the White House is in the worst crisis of its four-year history.

After nearly agreeing on a spending and taxing plan that would make room for an enlarged tax reduction, House and Senate conferees deadlocked over a $2 billion House-favored item for public works. The plan, totally rejected by the Senate, includes part of President Carter's urban program.

Unless there is an unexpected breakthrough, the Senate and House conferees will have to report failure Tuesday and the chambers themselves will have to try to patch together an agreement.

Meanwhile, one of the major objectives mandated by the Budget Act — to have a fiscal plan in place 15 days before the Oct. 1 beginning of the fiscal year — has been missed.

Former President Gerald R. Ford, sources said, is scheduled to testify before the special House committee investigating the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. Ford served on the Warren Commission that investigated the killing and reported that Lee Harvey Oswald was Kennedy's lone assassin. The exact day for his testimony and that of J. Lee Rankin, commission counsel, has not been set.

A Senate subcommittee Monday hears General Services Administrator Jay Solomon testify on the scandals uncovered in the agency.

Congressional leaders' original schedule called for Congress to adjourn in two weeks. That hope has been abandoned. Members now are being told that if, at the end of the first week in October, it appears essential legislation can be completed in one more week, the session will be continued that long. If not, members will be freed to go home and campaign, but recalled for a lame duck session after the November election.

Drys Gain Victory In Tell Liquor Election

CHILDRESS — Justice of the Peace Precinct 5, which includes the town of Tell, will remain dry for at least another year.

The Childress County Commissioners Court canvassed the vote from a Sept. 9 special liquor election Thursday, and declared the ballot count correct. The election resulted in a 37-37 tie. Officials said that since a tie vote does not even a simple majority, it represents a loss for the issue of legalizing the sale of alcoholic beverages for off-premises consumption.

The vote canvass was done in a near-empty courtroom, in contrast to Monday's regular meeting of the commissioners court, when a delegation of Tell residents, as well as persons from the city of Childress and from adjoining Hall and Cottle counties not only packed the room but overflowed into the hall. In the session Monday, the delegation of Tell residents said they were tired of "people coming into our community and trying to make it place to sell liquor." They petitioned the court to dissolve the precinct.

They were advised by County Judge Harper Knight that such action can be taken by the commissioners court only with permission of the Justice Department in Washington, D.C. The Judge further noted the if the petition meets with objection of any residents of the precinct, the Justice Department would probably refuse the dissolution.

"And you would also stand a good chance of losing your voting box if you dissolved the justice of the peace precinct," Knight cautioned the group.

This drew fire from several of the group.

"We've spent many years building the community of Tell," one unidentified delegate said, "and I'll see our voting box lost over my dead body."

A DAILY MESSAGE FROM The Newspaper Bible.
Luke 1:8-24, The Living Bible

8,9 One day as Zacharias was going about his work in the Temple—for his division was on duty that week—the honor fell to him by lot³ to enter the inner sanctuary and burn incense before the Lord.

10 Meanwhile, a great crowd stood outside in the Temple court, praying as they always did during that part of the service when the incense was being burned.

11,12 Zacharias was in the sanctuary when suddenly an angel appeared, standing to the right of the altar of incense! Zacharias was startled and terrified.

13 But the angel said, "Don't be afraid, Zacharias! For I have come to tell you that God has heard your prayer, and your wife Elizabeth will bear you a son! And you are to name him John."

14 You will both have great joy and gladness at his birth, and many will rejoice with you.

15 For he will be one of the Lord's great men. He must never touch wine or hard liquor—and he will be filled with the Holy Spirit, even from before his birth!

16 And he will persuade many a Jew to turn to the Lord his God.

17 He will be a man of rugged⁴ spirit and power like Elijah, the prophet of old; and he will precede the coming of the Messiah, preparing the people for His arrival. He will teach them to love the Lord just as their ancestors did, and to live as godly men.

18 Zacharias said to the angel, "But this is impossible! I'm an old man now, and my wife is also well along in years."

19 Then the angel said, "I am Gabriel! I stand in the very presence of God. It was He who sent me to you with this good news!

20 And now, because you haven't believed me, you are to be stricken silent, unable to speak until the child is born. For my words will certainly come true at the proper time."

21 Meanwhile the crowds outside were waiting for Zacharias to appear and wondered why he was taking so long.

22 When he finally came out, he couldn't speak to them, and they realized from his gestures that he must have seen a vision in the Temple.

23 He stayed on at the Temple for the remaining days of his Temple duties and then returned home.

24 Soon afterwards Elizabeth his wife became pregnant and went into seclusion for five months.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: You printed a column a few weeks ago assuring your readers that the frightening stories about hair dye causing cancer were based on inconclusive evidence. That column was a great relief to many of us.
You cited the testimony of cancer specialists with whom you consulted as well as a strong supportive statement by one of the country's most distinguished epidemiologists. Bless you for having the courage to point out that a woman would have to DRINK approximately 24 glasses of hair dye a day in order to get as much dye as the rats got in the laboratory tests.
Since your column appeared things have been awfully quiet on the hair dye front. Have you heard anything more? Please keep us informed. — Loyal D.C. Ann Fan close touch with what goes on there.

Hear this: The results of a new study by a team of Harvard Medical School researchers strongly reinforced the safety of hair dyes. Involved in the study were 123,000 nurses — 32 percent of whom had never colored their hair. (These women were from 29 to 56 years of age.) The overall incidence of cancer was exactly the same for hair dye users and non-users.
These findings held true for each of the sites studied — breast, cervix, uterus, thyroid and skin. So, it appears there is now additional evidence that a great many women were upset needlessly.
In all fairness, I must say the media must assume part of the responsibility. Unfortunately, scare stories get the attention. In an effort to attract readers (and viewers), the media sometimes reach for the sensational rather than the solid, though somewhat duller, news. And, alas, I fear it shall be ever thus.

Oswald: "Some time ago British expert Victor Mollo presented some bridge hands as rather interesting problems. Let's show some of them this week."
Alan: "Here is one of them. South is in a poor three-notrump contract and things look bleak after West opens the king of spades. He must play dummy's ace. Victor asks, 'What card should be played from dummy at trick two?'"
Oswald: "The answer is the deuce of clubs, although the five or four would serve the same purpose."
Alan: "South needs five club tricks. He must duck a club to score them. If West started with K x or K x x South is home."
Oswald: "By leading the first club from dummy South gets an extra chance. East may hold K-10, K-9 or K-8 and rise with the king. Of course, he shouldn't make that play, but as Confucius said, 'Give a man a chance to make a mistake and he may make it.'"
Alan: "West has three clubs to the king and three notrump makes."

West German Police Examine Excuses
West German police have interviewed 4,000 persons, under strict secrecy, to discover the most common excuses women offer when caught shoplifting.
Most frequent was, "I only wanted to examine the goods in daylight."
Our favorite was, "I heard my dog bark and rushed out without paying." And, "I thought my husband had paid for me."
One woman caught shoplifting looked at a store detective and asked, "Where am I? What am I doing here?"

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could you please write about epilepsy? My son has it and has experienced prejudice in school and employment. He is normal in every way except when he has seizures, which are controlled by his pills. Hopefully, people will be more informed about this in the future. — D.D.

Epilepsy is a neurologic disorder featured by varying degrees of seizures or convulsions. Likewise the frequency of attacks vary widely and may last a few seconds to several minutes. Mild (petit mal) seizures are usually found in children, who improve at adolescence. Some never have them again. Other epileptics must use controls all their lives.
Much of the ancient superstition about epilepsy has been overcome, although, as you know, vestiges remain to make life difficult for the epileptic. It is not a sign of mental illness, and no longer need be relegated to the closet.
Statistics indicate that 85 percent can be controlled to the point of ending their seizures with strict adherence to their medication therapy.
The honor roll of epileptics who have attained prominence in the professions would dispel most of the prejudices about their abilities to perform. People are still shocked to learn that a well-known athlete or other performer is an epileptic. They should not be. The only occupations barred to them are obvious ones in which attacks would pose a public danger — i.e. airplane pilot, bus driving. This is just a matter of common sense, and epileptics do not usually seek such employment.
Several national organizations are dedicated to improving public understanding of epilepsy and the telephone directory of any large city lists local chapters. Employers can get any information they need as to the employability of epileptics. More should do so.
Tomorrow, I'll discuss how an observer of a grand mal epileptic seizure can be of most help.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have your material on emphysema. Nowhere in it do I find reference to surgery on the vagus nerve to keep the bronchial tubes open without use of medicine. Haven't you heard of it? — F.M.Y.

I haven't heard of it, and wonder where you have.
The vagus nerve has to do with (among other things) regulation of normal breathing, but it is not involved in the emphysema problem. That is the inability of tiny bronchioles (air tubes) to contract properly. In emphysema they have lost their elasticity. As a result, the lung's air sacs fill up, but cannot be emptied. Breathing becomes difficult.
Cutting of nerves will not reverse this deterioration. In fact, nothing will. Breathing exercises help make the most of what elasticity remains. I hope this clarifies the matter for you.

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY — Judge and Mrs. Harper Knight of Childress marked their 50th wedding anniversary with a reception Sunday. Hosts for the reception were children of the couple, Dr. and Mrs. G.B. Blackwell, and grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Blackwell, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Bryant and Brenda Blackwell. The former Juanita Jane Hornsby and Knight were married Sept. 16, 1928 in Denton.

Lack Of Communication Leads To Confusion, Discord In Marriage

By BETTY DOTY
REDDING, Calif. (WNS)—"She won't talk to me. I'd give anything to know what she's thinking."

A husband is talking to a marriage counselor.

"I can't figure out what's going on with my wife. She never tells me anything anymore. She just isn't the same person I married. Nothing she does makes any sense."

Then after a pause for thought the husband continues: "All I can figure is that she must have a brain tumor."

Although this conclusion may seem a little extreme, in counseling it is commonly heard from spouses dealing with acute "he-she won't talk to me" problems.

Lack of communication has long been known to be the root of marriage problems. But what kind of communication is meant? A special kind? How can a person get into a situation in which the only way to make sense of a spouse's behavior is to assume the other is crazy?

And what should a counselor do? Give in to pleas to get those non-talking spouses in, get them to talk to the counselor so the counselor can report back to their partners?

Counseling must begin with the available spouse. And getting a close look at an exaggerated description of a communication block is one way to dispel brain-tumor theories.

We will say that all of us have to have outgrown interpretation systems for figuring out what is going on. We have to be able to say (and the oftener the better),

"That's about what I thought..." or "...hm, yeh, I expected that." Otherwise we would be too uncomfortable in a world of so many unknowns.

So we work on our interpretation systems (directly or indirectly) all the time. We use them constantly for making decisions in our daily struggles to feel good about ourselves.

And ordinarily such constantly tended, flexible systems serve us well.

But simply because we do work so hard at our systems, and we are so proud that the whole world is "understandable" by them, it is easy to overuse them.

We will look back now to the man talking to the marriage counselor. (A woman would have served as well for illustration.)

The trouble probably began when he assumed he could "understand" his wife. Then every time he "understood" anything, he eliminated the need to listen further.

Why should the husband ask his wife why she is doing something if he already "knows"? And of course even if he doesn't "know," guesses are easy to make. And naturally they satisfy him: his own creations perfectly fit his own system.

But the less he hears from his wife (for any reason), the more he automatically "explains" things.

Maybe once in awhile his wife's behavior (or what she says) is so puzzling he wants to listen. But that is only occasionally.

In that listening, just occasionally, he might hear only enough to convince him that his "understanding" is adequate. More likely, occasionally, they don't fit the pattern he expects.

So what will give? Well, he can begin by wondering if his wife might be crazy (at worst), or (also pretty bad), if his carefully tended system may be at fault. Probably he will do the least tampering he can to keep his system intact.

Maybe he will blame his hearing or decide his wife really doesn't mean what she says. (He can be very clever when the stability of his interpretation system is at stake.)

Things may go fairly smoothly for some time if the couple accepts and adapts to a kind of non-communication state — unless two things happen.

— First, none of the bits and pieces ever seem to fit into the husband's system anymore. Guesses are no longer easy to make. He is pushed to the breaking point to "understand." Yet the expected medical evidence to support the brain-tumor theories has not appeared.

Rather than think he might be crazy himself, he has to try harder (and often) to get his guesses and his wife's behavior to match. All he gets is more evidence that his world is crumbling.

Added to this, we will say there is a crisis of some kind that the couple must handle together, and it could be just a minor crisis at this point.

At last — and too late — the husband finds he truly wants, and desperately needs to know, what is going on with his wife. Maybe he will try to swallow his anger at her non-talking, the same anger that probably has not been improving the climate for communication anyway. Or at least he may try to alternate it with sweetness.

Now he begs and pleads, rants and raves, questions and insults.

But he finally realizes that he is completely shut out from his wife's communication.

Obviously she has found that it was so far uphill to "get through" to him about anything important that she has given up. No doubt she has long been sensing (if not actually hearing) her husband's theories about her craziness.

When such a shut-out spouse comes to a marriage counselor, in despair and frustration, usually he demands that the counselor join in censure of the villain-partner who won't talk.

When the counselor refuses, it is not due to lack of recognition that responsibility for the block rests equally with two people. (This is true even if this article may make it seem one-sided.)

But the counselor knows that just one person can change the action and reaction of marriage communication.

The available client, the husband in this example, soon learns that listening by just one person is the key to easing communication jams. But he also learns that the recommended listening is not the kind he does to understand another's point of view. (Surprised?)

It really is impossible to know another's point of view (interpretation system), which is based on a lifetime's experiences that others cannot share.

The husband learns to distinguish between two styles of listening. One is hearing his wife's point of view and responding to show careful hearing. And the other is trying to get enough information to judge if what he hears makes sense to him by his system or not.

The latter kind of listening leads to questions and comparisons and actually blocks deep hearing. And it is being "deeply heard" that fosters the will to communicate.

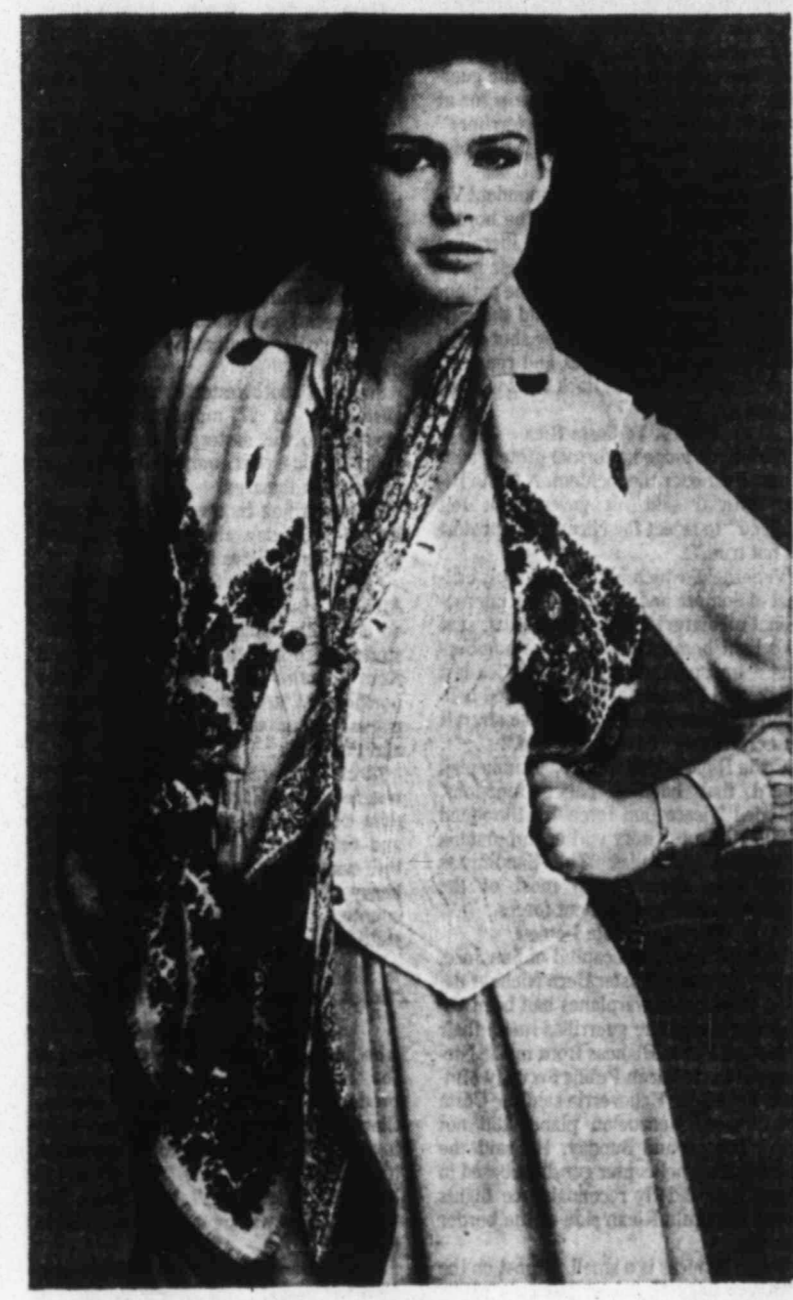

In the counseling process it may become obvious why ordinary problem-solving attempts between the couple were failing. Probably both were so busy struggling with the problems created by lack of communication that it did not occur to them to examine the communication block itself.

From seeing such a block in its exaggerated form, the husband can learn that the way through is by the kind of listening that signals to his wife that her interpretation system is as intricate, as important and carefully tended as his own.

When he shows such respect to his partner, in time he will reap respect in return. When both can talk to each other as they make decisions that lead to feeling good about themselves, they learn from their own experiences that this is the special kind of communication that makes two people feel good about each other.

Betty Doty is the author of a new book, "Marriage Insurance: A Fall-Safe Communication Handbook," published June 1978 by The Bookery, Redding, Calif. 96001. Miss Doty is a former counselor at the Shasta County (Calif.) Court of Conciliation. She has a master's degree in marriage and family counseling from the University of San Francisco. In 1974 she was awarded a California State Department of Health grant for a creative mental health project, a series of newspaper articles on communication followed by workshops.

Several Factors Influence Weight Control Efforts

By GAYNOR MADDOX
A well-known researcher and clinician in obesity has come to some depressing conclusions about weight control. His findings will discourage those who think overweight is a simple problem.

"Obesity is very difficult to treat successfully," reports Dr. George Bray, professor of medicine at the University of California, Los Angeles School of Medicine.

"Excess body weight is not a single disorder," he explains. "It's a variety of disorders and each requires a different treatment. But of all the contributing factors, our knowledge of them is far from complete."

Race has an impact on whether or not one is likely to become obese, says Bray. White men are more prone to obesity than black men. The situation is reversed for women, however.

Heredity, too, plays a role, Bray continues. A child born of two obese parents runs an 80 percent risk of become obese, too. But a child of normal-weight parents has only a slight chance — about 9 percent — of putting on too much fat.

"Age, believe it or not, enters into the list of factors," Bray asserts. "People who become obese before their 20th birthdays usually have more fat cells than people who become obese after their 20th birthdays."

A relationship also exists between weight and economic status. Members of the lower socio-economic classes run a 30 percent chance of being obese. But overweight afflicts only 10 percent of those in the upper-income bracket.

Everybody does not respond in the same way to a weight-loss program. Remember that fact when you read of a diet that guarantees to take off 10 or 20 pounds in a few weeks.

That just can't be true. The only reducing program capable of those results is simple starvation.

What about those hospital weight-loss programs that have enabled some patients to lose more than 100 excess pounds?

"In a controlled hospital environment, we can make anyone lose weight," says Bray. "But once they are released and return home, and the diet control is removed, most patients gain back or surpass the weight they had when they entered the hospital."

The doctor reports that only one person in five can maintain such a weight loss outside the hospital.

Bray also confirms a fact that struggling dieters have long suspected. "As a matter of fact," he notes, "the human body seems to fight against losing weight. Weight loss will result if a dieter cuts food intake below the amount needed to maintain his or her current weight, says Bray. But the body will eventually adjust to the new level of consumption by slowing down its metabolism. That means less food is needed to maintain the new weight."

"To keep losing weight at a fixed rate," Bray concludes, "we have to eat less and less."

Financier Denies 'Fix' Attempt

MIAMI (AP) — Fugitive financier Robert Vesco denies he ever tried to approach the Carter administration in an attempt to strike a deal solving his legal problems, the Miami Herald reported Sunday.

"I never asked anybody, ever, to put a fix in for me with the Carter administration," Vesco told a Herald reporter in a private interview somewhere in the Bahamas.

Vesco confirmed, however, that he met with two men, Georgia lawyer Spencer Lee IV and Georgia businessman R.L. Herring, said by syndicated columnist Jack Anderson to have attempted to contact administration officials on his behalf.

"I have met Herring and I've met Lee," Vesco said. "They came to see me in Costa Rica. ... I can tell you that I didn't ask them to come down."

Lee has testified in federal court that he received a $10,000 retainer and the promise of $990,000 more if he served as liaison between Vesco's representatives and several of Carter's closest advisers, including Charles Kirbo and Hamilton Jordan. Lee said he withdrew from the deal before personally contacting either man.

The Justice Department said last week that it has been investigating for several months charges that Vesco hired Lee to intercede on his behalf with the administration.

And White House press secretary Jody Powell has said that Vesco tried but failed to win help from Carter advisers, including Jordan, Kirbo and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

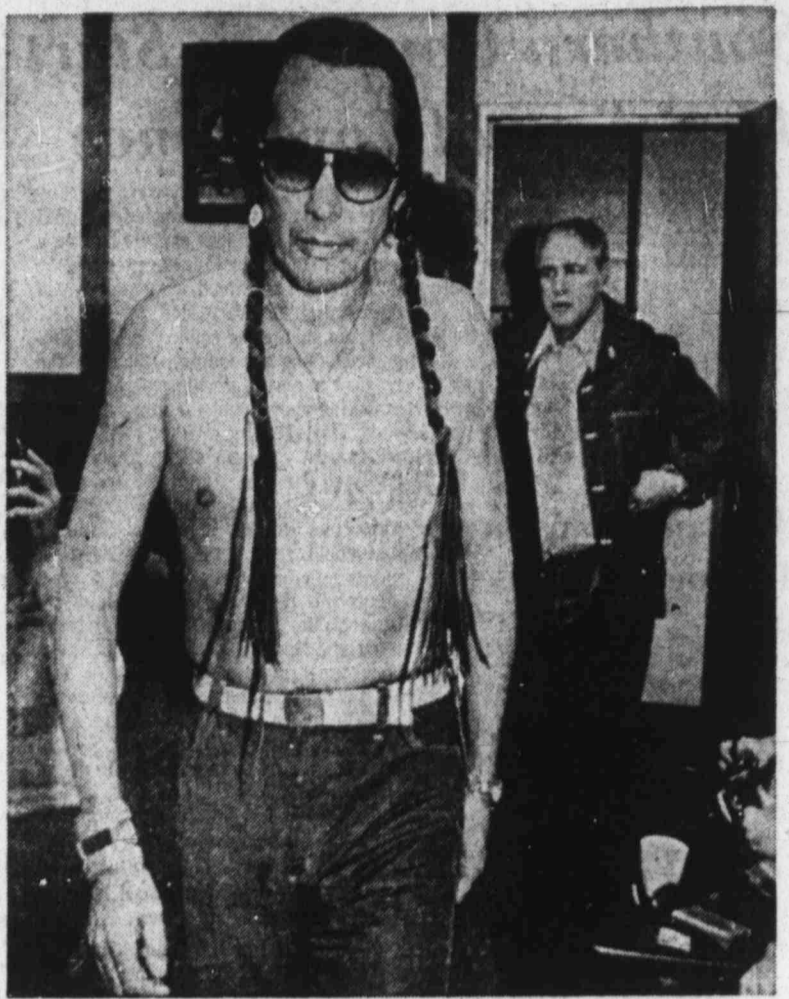

Lee was a Carter campaign manager in 1976 and a longtime friend of Jordan.

The Herald said Vesco granted the interview on certain conditions, one being that he not be photographed; another that his location on one of the 700 islands in the Bahamas not be made public.

Vesco fled the United States for Costa Rica and then the Bahamas to avoid prosecution on charges he plundered a publicly held corporation of millions of dollars and then tried to have the charges dropped by contributing $200,000 in 1972 to the campaign of former President Richard M. Nixon.

Rosalyn Reports Carter's Sentiments To Hispanics

WASHINGTON (AP) — First lady Rosalyn Carter, filling in for her husband, said Sunday President Carter shares the feelings and concerns of America's Hispanic communities.

She told 600 Hispanic guests at a White House brunch the president regretted not being their host personally but that he was still at the Camp David Mideast summit.

Mrs. Carter asked the group to pray for success at the summit.

The brunch put a formal end to Hispanic Heritage Week proclaimed by President Carter. It has been marked by discussions held around the country since last Sunday.

Mrs. Carter said the safety of children, adequate police protection, "the security of having a job and being able to provide for a family," the need for general services and bilingual opportunity, all were discussed.

Tech Test Score Slide Continues

By CANDY SAGON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The average verbal score of the nation's million high school seniors who took the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) last year held steady for the first time in a decade. But for seniors entering Texas Tech, the picture was not as bright.

Data from Tech showed the average verbal score of entering Tech freshmen last fall dropped three points from the 1976 level.

Nationally, the score for the verbal skills portion of the college entrance exam leveled out at 429, after steadily dropping for the past 10 years.

Although the Tech average verbal score of 432 was slightly higher than the national norm, the Tech score still represented a three point drop from the 1976 level of 435, and a 9.5 point drop from the decade's peak average score of 441 in 1974.

On math scores, however, the national average continued to decline while Tech's average went up.

Entering Tech freshmen scored an average of 478 on the math portion of the SAT, up two points over 1976, and 10 points above the national norm. Nationally, the average math score of high school seniors dropped two points to 468.

According to the College Board, the decline in SAT scores nationally has not been as drastic as it was in the early 1970s.

"However, it's impossible to predict whether the decline will be arrested, whether the downward trend will reverse itself, or whether we have a momentary pause," said Robert G. Cameron, program service officer for the College Board's admissions testing program.

For the fourth consecutive year, women made up a higher percentage of the national test population than men. Of the total number of test takers, 51.6 percent were women and 48.4 percent men.

Although the total number of students taking the SAT has been stable since 1972, there has been a steady increase in the proportion of women taking the test and a corresponding decrease in the proportion of men, the College Board reported.

Men had higher SAT scores, both verbal and mathematical, but women continued to excel on the Test of Standard Written English.

At Tech, women freshmen continued to score higher than men on the verbal portion of the SAT, while the men outscored their female counterparts by 40 points or more on math.

Nationally, the College Board reported that the mean grade point average (GPA) for all students was 3.09, down from 3.11 the previous year and a high of 3.12 reported in 1976. The GPA for women was 3.15, as compared to 3.03 for men.

Tech freshmen women followed the national average, consistently registering higher average GPA's than those for freshman men. Average GPA for female high school seniors entering Tech in 1977 was 3.32, as compared to 3.14 for males.

Although GPA's for high school seniors entering Tech have been increasing over the past decade, the average GPA for freshmen students after their first semester at Tech has been dropping to the late 1960s level.

Last year, the average GPA for male freshmen at the end of the fall semester was 1.94, as compared to 2.25 for females. Fall semester GPA's peaked in 1974, when men registered an average 2.10 and women reported an average 2.42. But since then, average GPA's have been steadily declining.

Girlstown Ceremony Set Today

Groundbreaking ceremonies for a new Girlstown USA facility north of Lubbock will be at 10 a.m. today. The Lubbock campus will be two miles south of New Deal, one-half mile west of U.S. 87.

The project, to be completed by the end of January, will commemorate George and Mattie Bigler and their daughter Mildred, who willed the tree-fringed, five-acre site to Girlstown USA.

The Lubbock campus will include a $200,000 cottage which will accommodate 15 high school girls and house parents in a dormitory-type setting. Eventually Girlstown USA hopes to add two adjoining cottages to the Lubbock site.

Girlstown provides a home away from home for girls who have no other place to go, usually because of family problems. Both long-term and short-term care is provided.

Colorado Fire Moves Near Resort Village

ALLENSPARK, Colo. (AP) — A fire that has been burning since Aug. 13 in an "ecological burn" area in Rocky Mountain National Park has moved out of its boundary near this resort community of 200.

Fire crews worked Saturday to keep the blaze within the park's southeastern boundary.

The fire was in the Wild Basin Area of the park, and started moving out of its boundaries Friday, park authorities said.

Evacuation of a few houses and cabins on Allenspark's west side was ordered as a precautionary measure Saturday afternoon after the fire came within about 1 1/2 miles of the community. Boulder County sheriff's officers closed Colorado Highway 7 to incoming traffic, and an emergency shelter for Allenspark residents was set up at Centennial Junior High in Boulder.

Fire crews from Boise, Idaho moved into the area Saturday after the blaze was reported moving eastward because of winds.

"Except for one hot spot, the fire has stayed within the park boundaries," the spokesman said. "We called in a slurry bomber and helicopters before sunset Saturday and it was brought under control."

"We still have crews there, and they have a good handle on what's going on," the spokesman continued. "We were monitoring the fire, but because of wind conditions the flareup occurred along the eastern edge on Friday. It is still considered to be within the boundaries of the park, however."

Maria Callas, the renowned opera singer, died in Paris in 1977 at the age of 53.

TOWN THREATENED BY FIRE — A forest fire gutted an estimated 1,200 acres Saturday just west of the northern Colorado town of Allenspark after a subdued fire caused by lightning on Aug. 13 was fanned out of control by winds gusting to 48 mph. Firefighting teams and aircraft from Idaho began work as many of the town's 200 residents began packing their belongings and evacuating the town as the fire came within sight Saturday. Solons Give Views On Mideast Talks

NEW YORK (AP) — Congress would go along with a Mideast peace plan that included U.S. civilian observers, two Illinois Republicans predicted Sunday.

Sen. Charles Percy and Rep. John Anderson, appearing on ABC's "Issues and Answers," brought up the precedent of American civilians with electronic monitoring equipment that were used as observers during implementation of the Sinai withdrawal agreement between Israel and Egypt.

Also, Percy said that if the Camp David summit talks wound up without an agreement for more meetings between President Anwar Sadat of Egypt and Prime Minister Menachem Begin of Israel or a declaration of principles, then former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger should be brought in to mediate the dispute.

"Let's try anything," Percy said. "Let's be totally nonpartisan, but bring the most experienced team we possibly can to bear and not give up hope."

Percy also said failure of the summit would not result in Republicans making political gains because of President Carter's role. "There's no partisanship in this," he said.

TEAMED FOR EXCEPTIONAL SERVICE — For insurance, Neelley, each knowledgeable and long familiar on the area insurance scene. PIA comes through strong! Pictured at the firm's offices in south Lubbock are J. Don Baldrige, Marty Evans and Melba Neelley.

Panhandle Insurance Agency Strong 'In Things That Count'

Panhandle Insurance Agency (PIA) wants to be your "first team" when it comes to insurance services. Fully qualified in all the essential areas — dedication to service, experience in the field, access to the most desired markets, and with a record of good working relationships with each valued customer — this is PIA, "your kind of folks." Possibly best known as commercial specialists, PIA (located at 7212 Joliet, phone 799-5335, at South Loop 289 and Indiana Avenue) serves equally well in every insurance situation, for large and small transactions alike. Nothing can replace the personal guidance of an interested and competent insurance representative, and PIA takes pride in the track record and the mutual trust marking each staff member.

"Professionals You Know"
 PIA opened its Lubbock offices in March of this year, with original staff members J. Don Baldrige, Marty Evans and Melba Neelley still at the helm. Baldrige for 18 years was co-owner and secretary-treasurer of Baldrige Bakery in Lubbock, and has since been in the insurance business for 12 years. A native of Lubbock, he has held numerous civic and church offices, is a founding trustee of Lubbock Christian College and has been chairman of the Lubbock Christian School board for 18 years.

Evans has a rich background of agency commercial account executive capacities in Lubbock, preceded by tenure of several years with the State Board of Insurance, and still other years of association with insurance and related property fields.

Melba Neelley has agency service of more than 15 years, with specialization in personal lines, most of this in Lubbock.

Growth With a Reason
 In the months since opening of the offices here, Panhandle Insurance Agency has become a vital part of a growing Lubbock. Growth of the firm has been exceptional, and the staff is most grateful for the confidences and the trade accorded PIA. Each representative pledges continuation of professional insurance service — with appreciation, friendliness and courtesy.

"Whatever your insurance need, you can turn with confidence to the competent staff members at PIA, innovators whose first consideration is to accommodate your needs."

"Most oldtimers of the area already are our acquaintances and friends, and if you are a newcomer, we invite you to consider the above thumbnail sketch of the Lubbock PIA operation in your choosing of an insurance representative to best serve your particular needs. May we have the pleasure of your visits or calls, at South Loop 289 and Indiana, 7212 Joliet, phone 799-5335?"

Overhead Automatic Door Installation Seen As Great Family Consideration

"Will this winter find your family and yourself enjoying the convenience of an automatic overhead door installation for your garage?"

"Likely in the past you have envied your neighbor who with such facilities was spared exposure to snow and sleet (yes, these are such to come again this year, in just a few months).

"There is no need for you to walk on slick driveways to open or shut the garage door, just as there is no need to drive into a darkened garage at night. After all, you can enjoy the convenience and security of an automatic installation from Overhead Door Co., 50th Street at Frankford Avenue (just off the Brownfield Highway near the Loop), phone 797-4141."

Convenience, safety and protection — this is the whole story of automatic overhead doors from Overhead Door Co. of Lubbock.

Long In Lubbock
 Serving with the same fine products and desire to please, traditional with the firm for over 20 years, the Overhead Door Company of Lubbock is geared in every operation to render maximum customer service.

And here, at end of summer and with inclement weather sure to be on its way, what better time is there to visit Overhead Door Co. to arrange for an automatic unit for the family's benefit now and for seasons to come, upgrading a present home or in building a new one.

"Give your home distinction and new convenience at low cost. Give your family the Overhead Door electric operator from Overhead Door Co. of Lubbock."

Auto-Mate 80
 Special attention is called to the Auto-Mate 80, the ultimate garage door opener with all the features one would expect, and more.

Security and convenience are synonymous with the Auto-Mate 80. The simple touch of a button on the remote transmitter is all it takes to open, close and lock the garage door. Added security is as automatic as the door itself since when down, the door is securely locked.

A powerful 1/3 h.p. motor, operating on standard 115 V household current, provides smooth, quiet, dependable and positive operation of the door.

An instant reversing mechanism insures complete safety should the closing door encounter an obstacle. Should a power failure occur, a spring-loaded quick disconnect instantly converts the door to manual operation and is simply reconnected by hand.

This heavy duty, UL-approved operator can handle sectional or one-piece doors up to 18' by 8' or two single car doors hooked up tandem.

Automatic Doors represent a wise gesture by the head of the family. With these doors, the wife can open the garage, enter and lock it without leaving her vehicle — quite a convenience benefit in inclement weather (wind, rain, dust, snow), and a definite safety factor on dark nights.

The Overhead Door Company of Lubbock is glad to demonstrate how simple it is to enjoy these benefits. Call for free estimate.

Overhead doors are available and recommended, also, for commercial and industrial buildings.

Whether selection is from a steel, wood or fiberglass overhead door, Tim Hatch at Overhead Door Co. assures the very best value in installation and sales, resulting in lasting satisfaction.

Business & Industrial Review

Kirby Sales And Service Greet Fair Vistors With Booth, Product Award

"Wouldn't you like to be the winner of a new Kirby Classic III system?" Registration for just such an award is one of the features of the Panhandle South Plains Fair booth of Kirby Sales & Service, 5410 Slide Road, phone 792-3718. Fair dates are Sept. 23-30, and attendance is invited at this booth in the southeast corner of the Merchants Building where Kirby demonstrations and numerous units will be displayed.

And for further revelation regarding Kirby Sales & Service, one is invited to visit the big store on Slide Road, where seeds of units and related products are stocked.

New Cleaning Product

(Be sure and see the Super Upkeep products now made available there for the first time.)

Super Upkeep is a carpet cleaner, stain remover and deodorizer, fully guaranteed to spot clean and completely deodorize a long list of stains on carpets, fine furniture and auto upholstery, ceramic tile, shoes and clothing, etc.

More reasons for knowing and patronizing Kirby Sales & Service: Same-day service for out-of-town customers is featured as a customer consideration.

A Maintenance Special enables tuneup on any Kirby vacuum cleaner for just $7.95.

There is no labor charge on fixing any Kirby unit . . . just a charge for parts only.

And new Kirby units carry a two-year warranty!

There is more: Reasonable prices always, as example. "The new Kirby Classic III is presently featured, a system that gives more versatility, quality, reliability and performance than in any other appliance!"

"Suppose you had to shampoo a rug, clean, sanitize, buff, wax, polish and paint — all in the same day; how many appliances would you need?"

"Just one . . . when that one is the Kirby Classic III System with its 80 different uses!"

See this and the entire Kirby line at Kirby Sales & Service, open 9 a.m. until 6 p.m., six days a week, at 5410 Slide Road, phone 792-3718, in Lubbock.

The firm is essentially a family operation, with Dale Bramlett and his son-in-law, Dan Wilbanks, as owners-operators, and with Sandy Everitt, daughter of Bramlett, also on the job. They assure a personal interest in every transaction.

Repairs and parts are stocked, and the skilled staffers work on any kind of vacuum cleaner.

Rebuilt Units

A complete line of rebuilt Kirbys is stocked at "a price you can afford."

Rental is available on vacuum cleaners and shampoo machines.

Visa and Bank Americard are honored, and in-store financing is available.

Take a good product, represent it well, with the customer's welfare considered foremost, and you have a business worth knowing and patronizing. The business concept and everyday practices of Kirby Sales & Service, 5410 Slide Road, place it as just such a business.

"If you have out-of-town company, bring them to South Plains Mall and to Wong's Imports there for a real treat."

Wong's Imports is truly a one-stop solution for gifting and for selecting for one's own desires.

Yes, this same fantastic shop, in South Plains Mall, that year in and year out prides in the unique and in value . . . and selection . . . for Christmas, birthdays and all, also can be depended upon to stock the finest and most-desired in souvenirs.

Nutritious, Wholesome Student Meals Come Easy With Gary's Products

"With all the activity coinciding with opening of school, what with the many related tasks and planning, we hope you have not overlooked a very important consideration at this time:

"Nutritious meals for the student."

Such meals are necessary to health and achievement, and they can be both outstanding and delicious if Gary's Frozen Food products are included on the menu.

A lot of parents will agree that nutrition takes on added significance at this time, and it is no secret that many have relied upon Gary's products, sensible priced and readily available, in terms past.

"We're hearing some mighty good things about Gary's Bar-B-Que Flavored Delight, newest of the Gary's family of products!"

"Shouldn't you find out for yourself how this and other of the firm's fine products fit into your menu for finest in nutritious food? Discover how Gary's provides the best in barbeque, corn dogs, super dogs, custom cooking, and more."

Custom Cooking

Gary's is glad to custom prepare any meat, at any time, whether it is wild game or whatnot.

Or one may simply discover that the Gary's Frozen Food label in a favorite grocery or supermarket opens the way to variety and nutritious goodness.

Select from Gary's Barbeque Flavor Delight, Gary's Corn Dogs, Gary's Bar-B-Que Beef Brisket in bar-b-que sauce, and Gary's super dogs. Whether the occasion is a festive meal, a Sunday dinner or even a snack, picnic or a birthday party, one can profit from dependance upon the home-owned, home-operated Gary's Frozen Food firm and its products.

The Bar-B-Que Flavored Delight is newest of the Gary's family of labels, and it is oh-so-good. A beef, beef suet and textured vegetable protein product, it is a new experience in delicious eating. Keep it frozen, and just heat to eat.

This new product is available in the area, distributed to retail stores and to institutions. Look for the label.

The 10-pack Corn Dogs have met with exceptional response.

Consisting of batter mix around a frankfurter, partially cooked in pure vegetable oil, these, too, are easy to prepare. Simply thaw, remove from bag, place in 375-degree oven for 12 to 15 minutes or deep fat fry.

Also, one still can get the delicious Gary's Barbeque Beef Brisket in a favorite grocery or supermarket.

The many quality products and services from Gary's has made possible the continued growth of the firm, thanks to loyal customers who appreciate good food and Gary's sincere desire to please.

The barbeque brisket, super dogs and other quality items from Gary's Frozen Foods, 109th Street at South University Avenue, make many a West Texas meal something special — whether for a special event or simply a change of pace.

These products, long recognized as the finest obtainable, are prepared in the modern, enlarged, functionally attractive quarters for Gary's, specifically designed and built for service, in south Lubbock.

Every Gary's Frozen Foods product is an experience in goodness! School children, their parents and a lot of other people (unexpected guests included) can attest to the deliciousness of Gary's Super Dogs, corn dogs — and the Gary's Bar-B-Que package available on retail basis.

Business & Industrial Review

J'S OF LUBBOCK, OF COURSE — Owner Jimmie Jones (right) discusses one of the gorgeous creations just arrived at the relatively-new Terrace Center shop (successor to Sissy's), with staffmembers Carolyn Ratliff and Helen Price, all of whom are most capable in serving the apparel desires of the customer. Vicki Mansell was absent at time picture was made.

J's Of Lubbock, Successor To Sissy's, Meets Fashion Needs

More "fashion" than "fad" . . . this is the refreshing and very true situation in juniors and misses apparel at J's of Lubbock, formerly Sissy's.

Located in the Terrace Shopping Center, 4902 34th St., J's of Lubbock is owned and actively operated by the very well qualified and personable Jimmie Jones who formerly was with another shop in the same center.

Expanded Facility, Stock
 Since purchase of Sissy's just a few months ago, Jimmie has established the new J's of Lubbock in larger quarters just north of the former Sissy's, now at Space No. 7 where a wider selection and more convenient and open display is enabled.

For smart, chic, sophisticated sportswear in sizes 0 through 16, the upgraded stock at J's of Lubbock is enthusiastically recommended.

Concept Appreciated
 "A key endeavor and policy of our larger shop is to give the junior and missy sizes, regardless of age, a more sophisticated look," owner Jimmie Jones emphasizes. The meshing of sizes for juniors and misses is one of the noticeable innovations provided . . . whether the need is dresses, separates, coordinates, blouses, sweaters, pants and even jeans. A selected grouping of costume jewelry is provided, together with hosiery. Small wonder J's of Lubbock has been so well accepted!

The unique shop is open each weekday, with extended Thursday hours until 9 p.m. Both Master Charge and Visa purchases are welcomed.

"For the classic look, for apparel values, for quality without exorbitant expense, J's of Lubbock stands tall . . . meriting and inviting consideration from a fashion-wise clientele. You'll like J's of Lubbock, just as your neighbor possibly already does. Not only is the store a friendly place, but it more than justifies its existence with fashion, not fad, remember."

El Paso Wholesale, Lubbock Division, Saves For Clientele

"El Paso Wholesale Company Lubbock Division knows that it can make the entire year more profitable and certainly more convenient for retail firms throughout the region, ultimately saving for the consumer . . . you and me."

There are a number of carefully planned factors that make this statement possible and true:
 Selling wholesale only, the El Paso Wholesale Company in Lubbock is the city's complete wholesale firm.

Customers include grocery and hardware stores, auto supply houses, service stations, toy stores, sporting goods stores, etc.

Located at 206 23rd St., phone 747-1841, in Lubbock, the El Paso Wholesale Company Lubbock Division carries and stocks a full selection of hard line merchandise.

From time to time partial lists of the products have been published on these pages of the Avalanche-Journal, and readers have noted that the products and brand names are ones that can be appreciated, together with the completeness of this wholesale firm.

Among the benefits area merchants find foremost at El Paso Wholesale, Company Lubbock Division, aside from the selection, is the freight situation.

Doesn't it make sense that savings are enabled through the regions by virtue of the big-stock Lubbock warehouse that features faster, shorter delivery transport? Let this Lubbock wholesale firm prove it to your own benefit with products such as:

Guns by Remington, Marlin and H. and R.; ammunition from Federal and Remington; and gun accessories such as Outer & Hoppes solvents and gun cleaning kits.
 C.B. radios by Midland and Cobra, and the Fuzzbuster radar detector; plus Mr. CB accessories and Antenna Specialist antennas.

Of course there are lots of quality housewares, including Corning Ware and Pyrex, Nordic Ware and Rubbermaid.

Among the many appropriate items for young birthdays are toys by Fisher-Price, Mattel, Playskool, Tonka and Marx.

Electronics
 In the electronics field, select from television sets by G.E., Midland, Hitachi and Sony; and stereos by Soundesign and Hitachi; plus miscellaneous items including eight-track and cassette recorders, walkie talkies and TV video games.
 Quality cameras and supplies include Polaroid and Kodak cameras, projectors and film, and accessories such as camera cases, viewers and film reels.

Sporting Goods
 Diversified sporting goods items include . . . for the fishing enthusiast there are the famous lines of Diawa, Garcia, Zebco, Mr. Twister, Fleck Lures and Mepps.

For camping, select from Coleman, Igloo, Ray-o-Vac batteries and Nelson

Sales camping accessories, and Buck knives.

For outdoor sports, the lines of Rawlings, Spalding, Wilson and General Sportscraft are represented.

And there are Daisy and Crossman BB guns and Huffy bicycles.

Small appliances are stocked in abundance, including coffee makers by Norelco, Mr. Coffee and Jector-Silex; and pressure cookers from Presto and Mirro Aluminum; and Hamilton Beach, Waring, G.E. and Sunbeam appliances, together with such lines as Dazey, Munsey, West Bend, Oster and Rival.
 Hardware is not neglected, either, and includes Stanley Tools, Black & Decker power tools, Crescent wrenches and Nicholson files, Peerless and Hancock Gross plumbing supplies.

In the personal care category, there are hair dryers by Gillette, Clairol, Conair and Sunbeam; and hairsetters and make-up mirrors by Clairol, Gillette, G.E. and Hamilton Beach; and Water-Pik, too.

Automotive items include Hollywood and Cal custom accessories, Fram Filters and Autolite tune-up accessories; and Rubbermaid, Lifeline and Roberk automobile accessories.
 And more!

Business & Industrial Review

AMONG MULTIPLE HALE UNITS — Within the 500 Series of Jackknives, Hale presents eight models. Like the other Hale units, they are rugged trailers built tough and equipped to handle the job. Such features as cross gates, escape door and four-wheel electric brakes are standard equipment. Options are available, enabling you to "pull one you'll like".

Stock Trailers From Hale Firm Fulfilling Demands For Region

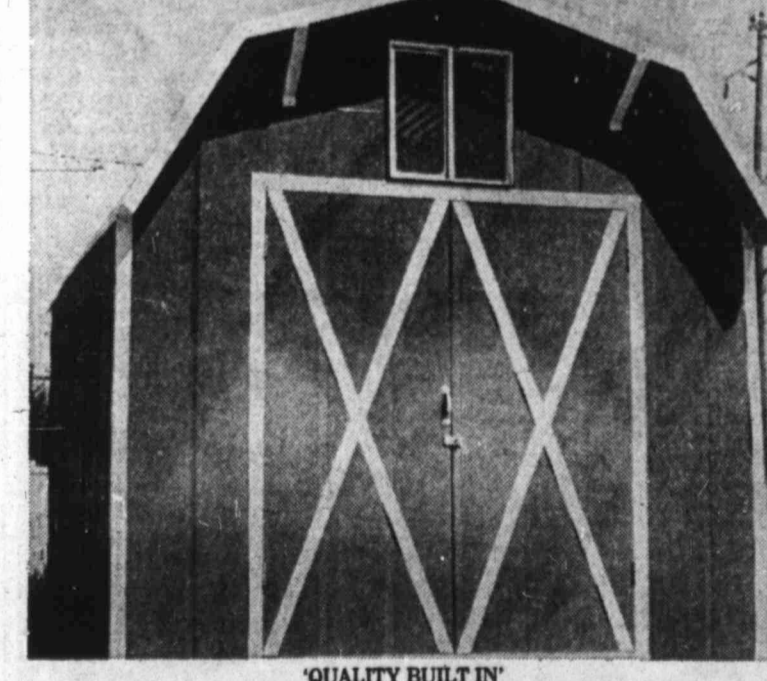

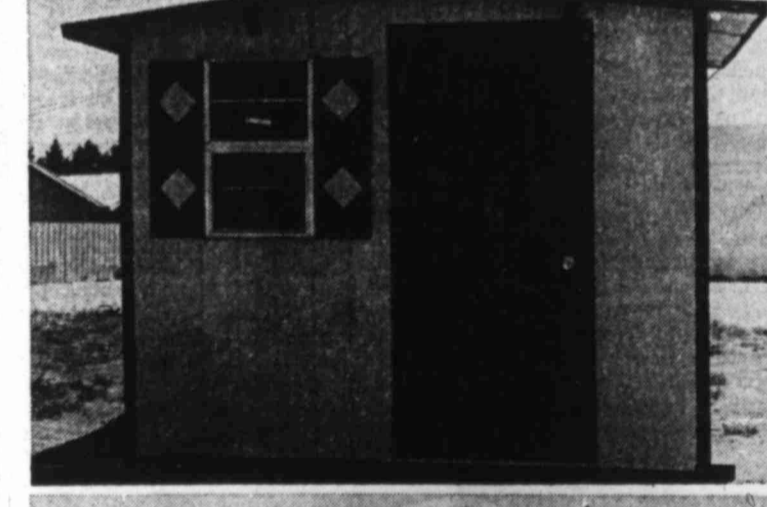

"Welcome to the Panhandle South Plains Fair (Sept. 23-30) and to Hale Mfg. Co., Inc. at its Idalou Highway location just northeast of Lubbock."
"It long has been a pleasure and privilege for the Hale firm to support area agriculture and ranching endeavor, with a special salute to achievements of FFA and similar programs. We know the work involved, the rewards for superior achievement, and we always are proud when we can have a part . . . for after all, the best trailers are built by Hale, nationwide manufacturers dating from back in 1946!"
New, Used Trailers
While at the Fair . . . or anytime . . . please come by Hale Manufacturing Co. and see the always-large selection of both new and used stock trailers.
Providing trailers for area needs, with stock trailers, jackknife units and all, Hale in Lubbock is proud to introduce and stock units to meet the specific need. See the two-horse trailer featuring walk-through door at the front, new A-frame type tongue, the spaciousness of 6 ft. 6 in. head room, and all deluxe features standard.
In Lubbock since 1956, Hale maintains a distribution center, retail sales, assembly plant and service-parts headquarters at its facilities on the Idalou Highway just northeast of Lubbock (Rt. 7, Box 429, phone 806-765-8956.)

Stan Howie, Lubbock native and with Hale for eight years, is manager, understanding trailers and area needs and preferences.
Hale trailers include units built for horses and other livestock, utility trailers, jackknife units, flatbeds and dump beds. A full representative stock is maintained here, and units are available at the firm or from its West Texas and New Mexico dealers.
Service Department
A full service department is maintained, with service on all trailers, whether they were purchased from the firm or elsewhere.
Brake and light sales and installation are available, as is repainting.
Check the following that are among the features standard on every Hale trailer, adding up to Hale value:
A quality vinyl acrylic finish is applied to every Hale trailer. Before the finishing coat is applied, each trailer is smoothed and thoroughly cleaned. Then a primer coat is applied followed by the vinyl acrylic finish. Color selection is from nine beautiful standard colors. Two-tone or special paint colors are available on request.
Lamps are sealed for protection from moisture, and wiring is enclosed in conduit.

The tongue of 3-inch heavy-wall pipe construction and features positive Locking Bulldog coupler and easy-to-operate Bulldog Jack.
The heavy duty all-welded primary frame features heavy 3-inch by 3-inch angle iron with secondary cross members of 2-inch by 2-inch angle iron.
Tongue and grooved flooring spans the width of the trailer for utmost in strength and safety.
Heavy seven-leaf springs are designed to give the carrying capacity demanded of a stock trailer.
Equalizer Bars Standard
The axle and hub are especially designed for long life. The four-inch drop center axle creates a lower center of gravity as well as lowering the floor of the trailer, making loading and unloading easier.
Cast steel equalizer bars are used for durability and strength.
For a quality trailer, with proven features, built and equipped for its intended purpose, "you need to take a closer look at these great units right here on the South Plains, at Hale Manufacturing Co., Inc., Idalou Hwy. just east of Lubbock. "May we have the pleasure of your visit, inquiry and inspection?"

Dura' Bilt Portable Buildings Tells Special Sale, Adaptability Of Units

"Can you believe . . . tomorrow's buildings at yesterday's prices!"
Then become acquainted with Dura' Bilt Portable Buildings, 6415 Ave. H, just south of the Tahoka traffic circle in south Lubbock, phone 745-2891.
As an added inducement, the following significant announcement is made:
Extra Special
One group of these buildings, in sizes from 8 x 8 to 10 x 20, is priced at 5 per cent reduction until these (seven at a late count) are sold. Whether selection is from one of these units or from other stock or custom models at the lot, value is assured. While at the Fair, come on out to Dura Bilt and let's do business! A genuine welcome awaits.
"Check with all the others, check all other prices and then see us!"
Dura' Bilt portable buildings are manufactured locally to give the customer the style, size and color desired.
And there are other factors that make the choice of Dura' Bilt the sensible and money-saving move.
Such as the more than 20 buildings now on the big, convenient, easily reached lot, ready for delivery. Owner John and Maxine Fritz are personally on the job to assure fastest and best service possible.
The portable building — so right for numerous uses such as storage, lake cabins, offices, warehouses, workshops, etc., feature 29-gauge steel roofs. No hail problem here. Masonite siding is utilized, with the rot-free quality stressed, and available in the color of one's choice.
Trim-out is in different colors of matching metal trim.
Rubber closures are standard in the eaves to guard against blowing sand.
Plywood flooring and floor joists on 16-inch center assure further quality.
Cinnamon birch paneling is featured, together with 3 1/2-inch fiberglass insulation. Even wiring and carpeting is provided in finished buildings.
Dura' Bilt Portable Buildings are manufactured within the immediate Lubbock area, cutting one's costs, with delivery available.

"ECONOMICAL & DEPENDABLE"

Steelworker Chief Eyes 'Outsiders'

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — United Steelworkers President Lloyd McBride said Sunday that "outsiders" seek control of the union and radical demonstrators may try to disrupt the organization's convention here this week.

McBride said the union's leadership will urge the more than 4,000 delegates attending the conference to adopt a resolution barring candidates for union office from accepting outside contributions.

"Officers of this union should be indebted only to their members and no one else," McBride said.

McBride told reporters Sunday that he had been told that groups of "socialists, communists and leftists" plan to infiltrate the union's week-long convention which opens Monday.

The resolution is the latest tactic by McBride to quash opposition following last year's bitter presidential election contest against insurgent Edward Sadowski.

During that contest, McBride accused the former union district leader from East Chicago of being a pawn for outside forces seeking to control the 1.4 million member union.

Last April, the USW filed a federal court suit charging that eight tax-exempt foundations, including the Rockefeller Family Fund, had illegally funneled $100,000 to Sadowski's unsuccessful campaign. The suit is pending in a New York federal court.

Sadowski's forces, who had charged that their candidate lost to McBride because of election fraud, contend the USW suit is an attempt to intimidate public interest foundations from continuing to assist union reform groups.

Major speakers at the convention will include AFL-CIO president George Meany, who is to appear on Monday, President Carter, who was scheduled to speak on Tuesday, postponed his appearance until Wednesday, McBride said. A White House aide said the postponement was caused by the Midwest summit meeting at Camp David, Md.

McBride also said he opposes a proposed resolution that would for the first time give members in the basic steel industry a direct ratification vote on new contracts.

McBride said that direct ratification "would mark the end to industry-wide bargaining" because workers at one company could reject the same contract accepted by workers at another company.

Currently, contracts are approved only by local union presidents.

He said he also would oppose any anti-inflation program with voluntary wage guidelines that prevent workers from keeping abreast with the cost of living.

Carter advisers are considering a program that would set voluntary limits on wage and price increases.

Cotton Festival Activities Scheduled

A-J Correspondent
PADUCAH — The second annual Cotton-King Cotton Festival will begin at 6 p.m. today with a slow-pitch softball tournament at the Homer Biddy Field. The festival will run through Sunday.

A carnival will open Wednesday and run through Saturday.

The senior division championship of the Texas Old Time ship division competition will take place Saturday.

An old-time community picnic supper will be spread at 5 p.m. on the courthouse lawn. Tables and a concession stand will be set up. A pep rally for the Paducah Dragons will follow.

An arts and crafts show will be open from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

Other activities Saturday include a domino tournament at 9 a.m. in the courthouse basement and a salad luncheon and cotton fashion show at 11 a.m. in the Veterans Building, at which time a Cotton Festival Queen will be crowned.

Six young women will vie for the crown and selection will be based on the number of advance tickets sold by each contestant.

Thailand Frees Students

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Thailand on Saturday freed 18 persons charged with treason and imprisoned for other offenses in connection with a bloody student-police clash two years ago at Bangkok's Thammasat University, a government spokesman said.

More than 40 persons were killed in the Oct. 6, 1976, rioting, which was touched off by fighting between leftist and rightist students and set the stage for the military takeover of the civilian government of Prime Minister Seni Pramot. Observers said the amnesty was a move by the current prime minister, Kriangsak Chamnan, to win student support and heal rifts arising from the riots.

Frat House Fire Does $1,000 Damage

A fire at 2415 Main St. caused more than $1,000 damage to the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity house Sunday afternoon. Firefighters at the scene attributed the cause of the 3:59 p.m. blaze to smoldering cigarettes in a trash can.

The blaze was contained to a single room inside the structure.

Polish Censorship Hit

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The leaders of Poland's powerful Roman Catholic Church, in one of their sharpest challenges yet to the government, called Sunday for the abolition of censorship in this Communist nation, saying it is a "weapon of totalitarian regimes."

A pastoral letter signed by all Polish bishops and read from church pulpits Sunday throughout the country also urged the government to allow the broadcasting of religious programs and exhorted the faithful to listen to Vatican Radio.

"The social life of a nation needs openness and free public opinion," said the letter, among whose signers were Polish primate Cardinal Stefan Wyszyński and Cardinal Carol Wojtyła. "People who read only censored news do not know the truth and therefore feel free from responsibility for moral, social and economic life."

The letter asserted that "people who are ruling the Polish mass media, film and theater have their own interests in mind and feed us what they desire."

"Yet we have the right and duty to voice our criticism and opinion," it continued. "If this is ignored, it means we are treated merely as objects of manipulation by those who have taken over the power over citizens deprived of the possibility of publicly voicing their views."

The letter was the strongest denunciation of censorship made by the church in years. In a pastoral letter last March, Wy-szynski wrote, "The existence of censorship is a harmful mistake."

Despite more than a generation of Communist rule, Poland remains one of Europe's most religious countries, and its church is among the most influential institutions in the nation. An estimated 90 percent of Poland's 35 million people are Roman Catholic.

Church leaders in the past have criticized other government policies, particularly economic programs.

In recognition of the church's power here, Communist Party chief Edward Gierek met last December in the Vatican with Pope Paul VI, the first meeting between a Polish leader and a pope in the Polish church's 1,000-year history.

The meeting was said to be part of Gierek's plan to enlist the aid of church leaders in helping solve Poland's social and economic problems, which threatened to undermine his government.

In the letter, the Polish churchmen also deplored "cases of harassment of those who have the courage openly to express, orally or in writing, their opinions on public life." Leaders of Poland's thriving dissident movement have been hauled in frequently for questioning, and some have been imprisoned.

The bishops said restrictions on publication of Poland's three Catholic periodicals keeps the number of copies in circulation well below demand — the periodicals have a circulation of 190,000 "while the demand reaches several million copies."

"Catechism textbooks appeared last year in a printing of 30,000 — and that for 8 million children learning religion," the letter said. "This means one textbook for 26 children."

It argued that religious programs should be permitted on the state-run radio and television networks for "those who for reasons of health or on other grounds are unable to attend Mass in church."

Pegasus Satellite Lands In Sea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pegasus 1, a dead 23,000-pound satellite, slammed into the Earth's atmosphere early Sunday and crashed harmlessly into the Atlantic Ocean off the coast of Angola, the National Aeronautic and Space Agency announced.

NASA said the North American Air Defense Command at Colorado Springs, which had been tracking the satellite, reported its re-entry into the Earth's atmosphere at 2:25 a.m. EDT.

The spacecraft, resembling a giant dragon fly in orbit with wing-like panels 96 feet wide, had been expected to slip into the atmosphere and burn across a trajectory 31.7 degrees latitude on either side of the equator. That area includes the southern portion of the United States and portions of Latin America, Africa, and Asia.

Unlike the Soviet satellite that scattered radioactive debris across the northern territories of Canada last winter, Pegasus 1 was not powered by a nuclear reactor and therefore was free of nuclear contamination.

Pegasus, launched in 1965 from Cape Kennedy, was designed to count the number of micrometeoroids that hit it to give scientists a better understanding of the distribution of space dust near Earth. It was named after the mythical flying horse.

Its scientific work was completed long ago and its radio transmitter was turned off in 1968. Last year, however, it mysteriously started transmitting and interfered for a few seconds with the radio signals from a Japanese weather satellite. Its radio was turned off by remote control the next day.

ROGER DOWNED—Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach goes down under a crushing sack applied by Los Angeles defensive end Cody Jones. This was the first sack of the season that the Cowboy offensive line gave up. Dallas also gave up the game, 24-17. (AP Laserphoto).

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Rams throttled Tony Dorsett and whipped his Super Bowl Champion Dallas Cowboys 27-14 Sunday as Los Angeles quarterback Pat Haden proved once again that he's not too small to play in the National Football League.

"I'm sick and tired of hearing that I am too small," said Haden after his touchdown passes proved decisive and he mated the Cowboys' Roger Staubach in the passing department.

"We finally played as a team," said defensive end Jack Youngblood, who teamed with middle linebacker Jack Reynolds to ruin the day for Dorsett.

"Team defense makes the difference. Sure, we got to No. 33 (Dorsett). When you play like we've been playing, you can stop any one person. We didn't let him run, so that made them throw it. Our coverage was great, so they made mistakes," Youngblood explained.

"The pass to Miller was simply his out-running the defense," said Haden. "I just put my 5-foot-2, 135-pound frame behind the pass and let it go."

Dorsett said, "The Rams had an excellent defense against us, but we didn't respond the way we could have. Everytime you get the ball, you are like a magnet and 11 guys are after you."

Dorsett, who had been averaging over 100 yards rushing in his first two games, was held to just 38 yards on 19 carries by Los Angeles hard-charging defense.

Rod Perry's 43-yard touchdown run with an intercepted Staubach pass led the victory for the Rams late in the final quarter of the contest viewed by a sellout crowd of 65,749 at the Coliseum.

In winning their third National Football League game against no defeats, the Rams scored first in the opening period on a 1-yard smash by John Cappelletti. Staubach evened the count early in the second on a 14-yard pass to Billy Joe DuFree.

By halftime, the Rams led 14-7 on a 21-yard touchdown pass from Haden to Ron Jessie, climaxing a 10-play, 99-yard advance. After a scoreless third period, the Cowboys — in search of their 10th straight NFL victory — scored on an 18-yard pass from Staubach to Tony Hill.

The Rams came storming back, 69 yards in four plays, and Haden, who had been underthrowing much of the afternoon, found Miller with the 43-yard pass that the end took on the 1 and carried into the end zone. A holding penalty cost the Rams the point after, as kicker Frank Corral missed when the ball was moved back.

Perry clinched the victory when he picked off Staubach's pass at the Dallas 43 and threaded his way into the end zone with less than four minutes to go.

The Cowboys reached the Rams' 15-yard line with 41 seconds left, but Pat Thomas intercepted Staubach to end the threat.

The upset victory over the Cowboys, who were favored by four points, put the Rams at 2-0 and dropped Dallas to 2-1.

Oilers Squeak Past SF 20-19

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oiler Coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips may be carrying his "character test" a bit too far after the Oilers rallied in the final minutes Sunday to edge San Francisco 20-19 in a National Football League game.

A week ago, when the Oilers rallied from a 17-6 deficit to beat Kansas City, Phillips said he'd have planned it that way just to give the Oilers confidence and character.

It took the same kind of performance Sunday as Oiler kicker Toni Fritsch had to boot a 19-yard field goal with 1:16 to play to give the Oilers a victory and nullify

Oiler tight end Mike Barber figures at last the Oilers have enough character. "We don't want to make a habit out of this," said Barber, who caught five passes for 56 yards. "But we knew that we could score. We have the confidence. We've worked hard in practice and we have faith in ourselves."

For all of Houston's last-ditch efforts, San Francisco still could have won the game with five seconds to play but Ray Werschling missed a 46-yard field goal.

"It had plenty of distance but almost counts only in horseshoes, hand grenades and dancing," 49er coach Pete McCulley said. "We played about as well as we could — except maybe from a penalty standpoint."

Advantages Of Having Actor For Brother Mixed

BORA BORA (AP) — Some young actors find it hard to live in the shadow of a famous father, but for James Keach it's an older brother.

"That has presented both its problems and its virtues," said Keach. "The main problem is that everybody expects me to be my brother. I'm sure it's true of Beau and Jeff Bridges, too."

Keach, 30, with light blond hair and a deep tan, was on the tiny South Pacific island of Bora Bora in French Polynesia for "Hurricane." He plays the heavy, a Marine sergeant of the guard who is prejudiced against the natives.

An NBC miniseries called "The Bandit Kings" that will not only unite them again as brothers but will bring together other famous Hollywood brothers.

He became a leading industrial filmmaker. In recent years he has resumed his acting career.

Memory Of Swim Lingers For Nyad

WASHINGTON (AP) — Diana Nyad says she has ended her career as a marathon swimmer. Still, she remains, in the back of her mind, the unfinished swim between Cuba and Florida.

"I'm capable of swimming from Cuba, but you can't swim it in August," she said in retrospect. "I was equal to the swim. I had the right people and made a 2,000 percent effort but the weather wasn't there. The smallest wave was 6 feet high. All the boats broke down. The (shark) cage broke down. I was the only one who didn't break down."

In her book, Miss Nyad tells of the long hours of training she endured to become one of the premiere marathon swimmers in the world. She talks of the frustrations she suffered in her quest to conquer what many consider unsurmountable obstacles.

Keach said he started work on the script seven years ago, when he was in the Wright brothers special.

He said, "The character is prejudiced against the natives and particularly against Matangi because he is the young royal chief. He doesn't like the fact that this dark-skinned man gets all the attention and that he's always in the background and is not the favorite of Brucker. Which he'd like to be."

"My love affair with marathon swimming is over," said Nyad this week as she visited the nation's capital to promote her autobiographical book, "Other Shores," published by Random House. "I believe I gave a jolt to the sport. The genius of getting through life is getting out at the right time."

In great detail, she recalls her daring north-to-south crossing of Lake Ontario, her record-setting swim around Manhattan and her three unsuccessful attempts to cross the English Channel, as well as her year-long preparations for the Cuban swim.

Keach said he started work on the script seven years ago, when he was in the Wright brothers special.

But if she should decide to swim again, she says she once again would challenge the 130 miles between Cuba and the Florida Keys.

Mostly, however, she tells what goes through minds of marathon swimmers as well as others who have to endure long periods of pain caused by physical and mental exertion.

Greater Flexibility Given For International Fares

MONTREAL (AP) — The executive committee of the International Air Transport Association has approved recommendations that would give airlines greater flexibility in setting international fares.

A spokesman for the U.N.-affiliated organization said Saturday a key proposal would allow member airlines to introduce "innovative fares" and disregard established rate levels. He said that would enable scheduled carriers to lower their fares on heavily traveled routes and regain business lost to charter carriers and non-IATA members.

Handicap No Barrier For Girl

NEW YORK (AP) — Tami Luchow rides a bike, jumps the trampoline, enjoys a swim in the ocean and wants to be a professional gymnast. She was born 8½ years ago without a lower right leg.

At summer camp, Tami received badges for horseback riding as well as for her trampoline exploits. Last year, she won an award in her gymnastics class for "courage and determination."

Tami hopes to someday make the Olympics. "I want to learn the piano and the violin," she says. "Everything, I want to do a little bit of everything."

At 45 pounds, she has one personal trait that, in the strange but wonderful world little kids live in, makes her friends jealous.

"I can take my leg off and you can't," Tami often tells friends and her 5½-year-old sister, Ali. Her prosthesis is affectionately referred to as "leggie."

As Tami grows, she gets a larger prosthesis; the old one is saved for memory. "It sounds morbid, but we have a drawer full of outgrown legs," her mother says. "We save them because it's part of her body."

Although Tami is serious about her interest in gymnastics, it isn't an everyday ambition to emulate Olympic star Nadia Comaneci, her favorite. Some days she wants to be an actress. "I like Farrah," Tami says, in between crunches on a hot pepper.

"Tami loves attention and TV. I think she wants to be a star," says her mother, Anya, who agreed to the interview in connection with her daughter's appearance in the premiere edition of CBS' "People" program, which debuts today at 7:30 p.m.

One day each week, Tami heads for a local studio for 2½ hours of instruction. For the first hour, it's ballet, oriented toward gymnastics. That's followed by 90 minutes of gymnastics instruction.

"For a while, she wanted to be a ballerina, but I had to convince her that they didn't make a prosthesis that could do toe," Mrs. Luchow says. Tami also paints and sculps.

Mrs. Luchow says she hopes the TV appearance will show parents of children like Tami that "physically handicapped does not mean handicapped. Sure, it might mean physical limitations."

For example, she says, it took Tami twice as long to learn gymnastics, "but the rewards are great." She recalls the joy of Tami riding a tricycle at the age of 18 months. "I wanted to tell parents, 'Don't hold back your kids even if you think you're helping them out because you're not.'"

"She can have as full and rich a life as any other kid," Mrs. Luchow says. "I've always told her, 'Anything you want to try, try it.' And she's tried everything."

Chinatown Expansion Threatens New York's 'Little Italy' Area

NEW YORK (AP) — Little Italy now offers its pasta, pizza and pastry with a distinct Chinese flavor. The colorful enclave where Italy blended with America for almost a century is being swallowed by a methodically expanding Chinatown.

Mile-long Mulberry Street, the lively and teeming thoroughfare once exclusively Italian, has become mostly Chinese-owned, with 25 percent of its shops selling only Chinese goods. And in much of the rest of the district, Italian merchants are now tenants of Chinese landlords.

A Chinese bean sprout producer and a Chinese sportswear plant flank Societa San Gennaro, the organization currently presenting the 52nd annual festival in honor of the patron saint of Naples, Italy. The aroma of hot noodles mingles with that of lasagna.

"Little Italy has reached the point in history where its own survival appears to be in jeopardy," contends the Little Italy Restoration Association, a community group devoted to preserving the Italian characteristics of the area.

The group's tiny office adjoins a Chinese laundry.

"We are concerned," said the Rev. Adolph Giarda of the Shrine Church of San Gennaro on Mulberry Street. "Little Italy is becoming Greater Chinatown. They (the Chinese) even tried to buy the church."

Ciao Bambina" and "Ciao Bella Ciao."

To the immigrants, Little Italy provided the familiarity of their homeland on foreign shores, but succeeding generations have fled the 37-block, 125-acre district. Following a pattern set by immigrants from Ireland, Germany, Eastern Europe and elsewhere, later generations grew up, prospered and moved out — leaving the old neighborhood to a new ethnic group.

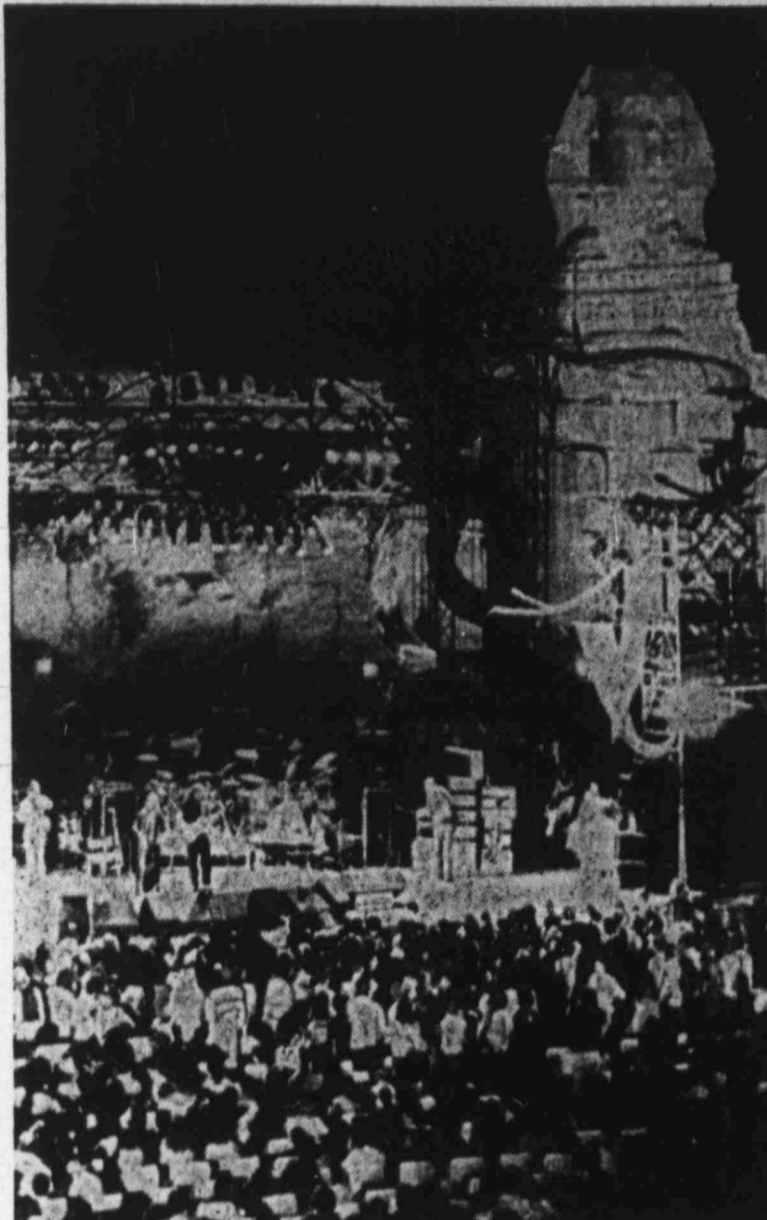

"The Chinese are doing just like Italians," says local historian Ntoni Bastiano. "They are first generation immigrants and are buying up the place for their people the way Italian did from the Irish."

Charles Pei Wang, managing director of the Chinatown Planning Council, says: "We are expanding in all directions. It's not by design against Little Italy. It's by necessity. Italians are moving out. We are not forcing anybody out."

Wang says the Chinese, with their numbers increasing from 80,000 in 1970 to over 150,000 now in New York City, own about 80 percent of Little Italy's property and make up a similar percentage of the 15,000 population of Little Italy. Only a decade ago, Little Italy was almost exclusively Italian.

The Italian community, Wang says, should not attempt to block the sale of Italian houses to the Chinese, but should concentrate on making Little Italy "a tourist attraction, rather than a compulsory residence for Italians."

"You cannot stop the Italian emigration," he said. "Maybe the Chinese will leave in a generation or so."

First Direct Elections For Euro-Parliament Set

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The "Euro-Parliament," a nine-nation legislature that until now most Europeans viewed as little more than a debating society, is drawing some big-name candidates and new public attention as it prepares for its first direct elections.

The candidacies of former West German Chancellor Willy Brandt and other prominent figures in the 1978 election also have boosted efforts to increase the power of the institution, which many see as the heart of a potential "United States of Europe."

The European Parliament is part of the European Economic Commission, the Common Market. Its greatest power now is the right to fire the nine commissioners who compose the EEC's executive body, the European Commission. The Parliament has never come close to doing this in its 27 years.

Commission officials hope that the nine member nations — whose centuries of sharing this continent have been marked by distrust and enmity — will give the popularly elected, 410-member Parliament more power within the EEC, which administers trade, health, energy, scientific and other agreements.

"But the individual countries are likely to cling to their own power most when it comes a question of how much budgetary control the Parliament will have over the community," said one commission official who asked not to be identified.

The 1978 election replaces a system in which the EEC's national legislatures appointed Parliament members. The people of eight of the nations will go to the polls June 7-10 to elect their representatives to the congress. In Britain the dates still have not been set because of strong feelings against the Europe-wide vote.

Brandt announced last week he will run for the new Parliament on the European Union of Socialist Parties ticket. Heinz-Oskar Vetter, chairman of the German Workers' Federation, also is on that ticket.

In France, former Prime Minister Michel Debre will begin his campaign Oct. 20; former Interior Minister Michel Poniatowski, now a French ambassador-at-large, announced his candidacy last month, and Socialist leader Francois Mitterand may also try for a seat.

No one has announced a candidacy in Italy, but some press reports have said that Fiat chief Gianni Agnelli is interested.

In the Netherlands, possible candidates include socialist Prof. Anne Vondeling, chairman of the lower house of Parliament, and Mrs. Ien Van Den Heuvel, chairman of the Dutch Labor Party.

The party affiliations of most candidates have not been fixed. Other Europe-wide parties expected to contest the election are the European Liberal and Democratic Party, the European People's Party and some kind of European Communist party. Neither of the latter is fully established.

The European Liberal and Democratic Party already has said the legislature, which meets for about one week each month either in the French city of Strasbourg or Luxembourg, should have a say in appointing commissioners, should control the entire EEC budget and should ratify treaties.

The Parliament now has control of less than half of the $18 billion annual EEC budget, and can offer non-binding advice to other community institutions. The European Commission controls the rest of the budget.

The Council of Ministers, composed of foreign ministers of the nine member governments, controls the commission and is the supreme decision-making body of the EEC.

The Parliament now is considering a resolution that would require greater accountability of the ministers, an annual debate on the "state of the union" and parliamentary confirmation of EEC commissioners now chosen by the member states.

Some parliamentarians stress that increasing the body's strength will not be easy. In many cases, it would require changes in the 1957 Treaty of Rome, the legal foundation of the community.

One likely place for discussion of the Parliament's power is in the committee of "three wise men" proposed last week by French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing to review all European institutions.

TEAMSTER SENTENCED

CHICAGO (AP) — A former Teamsters pension fund official, Alvin Baron, has been sentenced to two years in prison for accepting $200,000 in payoffs to arrange a $1.3 million loan from the scandal-ridden fund. U.S. District Court Judge Hubert L. Will also imposed a $5,000 fine on Baron, 53, former assets manager of the Central States Southeast and Southwest area pension fund. A jury convicted Baron, of Las Vegas, Nev., last June of agreeing to take kickbacks, as well as five counts of wire fraud and one count of filing a federal income tax return that failed to report the payoffs.
