'Biggest Ever' Area Fair Begins 61st Run Today

Midway, Concessions, Exhibits Full

By GERRY BURTON
Avalanche-Journal Staff
GATES SWING OPEN today on the biggest, best fair ever to fill the grounds as the 61st annual Panhandle South Plains Fair kicks off eight days of "Family Fun for Everyone."

when he steps into the Lubbock spotlight, will be backed by The Pridesman and Dave and Sugar for 5 p.m. and 8 p.m. shows.

Following the Pride kickoff, the lineup of country and western greats includes The Statler Brothers on Monday, Johnny Rodriguez on Tuesday, the Jim Ed Brown Show on Wednesday, Eddie Rabbitt and Jerry Clower on Thursday, and Mel Tillis, the total entertainer with his own solid fair successes behind him, ending the run Friday and Saturday.

Last-minute preparations Friday were filling all available booth and outdoor exhibit space while the million dollar midway was getting its final touches down.

Today at the Fair

- 8:30 a.m. — Pigeon and poultry show, poultry building.
- 9 a.m. — Exhibit buildings open.
- 10 a.m. — Fiddlers' contest, coliseum.
- 1 p.m. — Open House Show, livestock pavilion.
- 2:30 p.m. — Swaying Silos, Amarillo Gunfighters, outdoor stage.
- 4:30 p.m. — Bob Ford's World of Magic, outdoor stage.
- 6:45, 8:45 p.m. — Ruth Rubin's Mime Show, outdoor stage.
- 7:15, 9:15 p.m. — Vandermeide, hypnotist, outdoor stage.
- All day — Gene Ledel Milton Deller Midway, 4-11 Children's Barnyard, agriculture and vocational exhibits, cartoonist show in agriculture building, outdoor exhibits.

A coliseum show extravaganza lined up by fair directors leads off Sunday with The Charley Pride Show, bringing the spectacular success of seven fair appearances back to the Fair Park Coliseum, where Pride holds the attendance record for a single fair performance.

More outstanding shows are set as free midway entertainment on the outdoor stage — the Swaying Silos, the Amarillo Gunfighters, Bob Ford's World of Magic, Ruth Rubin's Mime Show, and Vandermeide, Europe's fastest hypnotist, who made such a hit at the 1977 edition of the fair.

RAINY DAY OPTIMIST — In towns where there are fairs there's a saying: "It always rains during fair week." And in Lubbock sometimes it does; but Mary Jane Nash, a midway concessionaire at the Panhandle South Plains fairgrounds, was among those looking forward to fair weather for today's inaugural. Friday she wiped diligently at her coin-pitch stand, ignoring the day's misty drizzle. Weathermen, in a spirit of cooperation, forecast warmer temperatures and a diminishing chance of rain today. ## Vance Given Rebuff In Arab Peace Bid

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance's drive to sell Arab leaders on the Camp David accords stalled in this desert city Friday as Saudi Arabia withheld its support and Syria postponed the American's scheduled visit there for 24 hours.

Meanwhile, a White House report that Sadat has declared his willingness to negotiate peace for all the Arabs by himself signaled potentially serious new problems for the U.S. effort to win over broader Arab support for the peace plan. The White House released a letter from Sadat in which he said he would be willing to "assume the Arab role" in bargaining. See VANCE Page 16

But Jordan's King Hussein gave the United States one small cause for hope, rejecting a personal appeal by Arab hard-liners Moammar Khadafy of Libya and Palestinian Yasser Arafat to join the anti-Camp David bloc.

Commitment Lacking
In two days of talks with Saudi officials, Vance got no commitment from them to back the new Israeli-Egyptian agreements, just as he received none from Jordan's Hussein in talks earlier this week.

Hostile To Hussein
Khadafy and Arafat made their unexpected trip to Jordan after breaking away temporarily from the Damascus summit, where the "rejectionists" were planning steps to counter the U.S. peace initiative and further isolate Egypt's President Anwar Sadat.

Gloomy Weather Slated To Ease Grip On Region

By RAYNIE HARDESTY
Avalanche-Journal Staff
THE GLOOMY weather that has gripped the South Plains much of the past week will loosen its hold on the area today as traditional fall activities get underway in the Hub City.
Rains, which have soaked the Lubbock area since Wednesday, may be all but gone today as fairgrounds turnstiles click at 10 a.m. and the first home game for Texas Tech kicks off at 8 p.m. in the stadium. The Raiders will face the Arizona Wildcats.
Forecasters, however, are still predicting a 30 percent chance for light showers through Sunday.

Temperatures that had dropped to 53 Friday morning and never rose past 57 in the afternoon should become warmer today and climb into the mid 70s this afternoon.
Winds are expected to become southeasterly today after blowing from the northeast Friday at 5-10 mph. Temperatures should reach near 80 Sunday after a dip to the mid 50s tonight.
The heavy clouds which loomed over the South Plains and southern parts of the Panhandle Friday produced little moisture despite the drizzle that misted over the Hub City throughout the day.
Forecasters still expect nights to remain cool across West Texas through Wednesday, with afternoon readings mainly in the 50s. A slight chance for showers also is in the forecast.
Misting clouds Friday extended from the northern Panhandle and into the South Plains to near Midland.
Scattered thunderstorms prowled the Rio Grande Valley, the Coastal Plains areas and North Central portions of the state Friday.
The heaviest rains were reported along the southern tip of Texas, where a flash flood watch was in effect. Two to four inches of rain was expected in that area before dawn today.
Fog stretched from Carlsbad to near El Paso and reduced visibility to 50 yards and less between those cities. Travelers advisories were issued for those areas.

Lubbock was the cold spot in Texas Friday at 4 p.m. with a reading of 55, while Brownsville recorded the state's highest reading of 91.
Afternoon showers are expected to return to the Coastal Plains and Rio Grande Valley today, while some new showers may be triggered in the northeastern section of the state early today.
Milder temperatures are forecast for most of the state today.

Picky Robber Stalks Away

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Some days the customer just can't be pleased, even if he's a robber.
Mildred Blankenship, a drug store clerk, said she was approached by a man wearing a stocking mask and pointing a gun at her.
He demanded to see the store's jewelry, she said, but didn't like what he saw. Then he asked for all the store's money.
When Mrs. Blankenship opened the cash register the gunman asked in exasperation, "Is this all the money you have?"
When she assured him that it was, Mrs. Blankenship said, the robber yanked off his mask and stalked out of the store — empty handed.

'Prairie Party' Honors First Recipient Of Golden Spur

ALL THE MERRIMENT of a happy happening in the pioneer West filled the banquet hall of the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center Friday as hundreds gathered to launch the National Golden Spur Award.
Yesterday — its music, scenario and costume — lived again through skits telling the story of ranching in a prairie party recreated to provide atmosphere as Albert K. Mitchell of New Mexico was honored with the first award.
The second annual spur award and all succeeding presentations lauding the contributions of particular persons to the ranching industry will be presented at such parties on the eve of future Ranch Days at the Ranching Heritage Center.
Friday's tribute to the past will spill over into the Ranch Day celebration from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. today as Ranching Heritage Association members and guests gather for their annual meeting.

Wray Finney, a seventh-generation cattleman, will tell how "A Heritage Doesn't Just Happen" at the program beginning at 1 p.m. on the Campbell Patio.
Finney is a trustee of the Livestock Merchandising Institute and a member of the Oklahoma Vot-Tech Foundation board of directors. He has been named "Man of the Year in Southwest Agriculture."
Finney's speech follows a barbecue catered by the Texas Trails Chuckwagon of Albany and served from historic chuckwagons on the patio.
Activities get underway with registration at 9 a.m. and a full day of ranch life as it was when the houses preserved at the site were in their heyday.

Longhorns, wagon rides, horseshoeing, spinning and sourdough pancakes will add to the atmosphere.
Entertainment will be presented by the cast of the Albany Fandangle, which also spiced the Friday homegrown entertainment with its famed "Drunk and Disorderly" scene.
Cliff Tienert of the Fandangle will open the 1 p.m. program with his classic "Cowboy Prayer" from the outdoor show.
Persons who are not members of the association may attend the special festivities by adding the price of admission to the day's charge for members.

Optimistic Senator Opens City Office

By BOB CAMPBELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff
U.S. SEN. John Tower Friday opened a Lubbock campaign office and attacked his opponent, U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger, for voting in favor of Senate representation of the District of Columbia and the recently defeated Labor Reform Act.
After greeting supporters at 3 p.m. Friday at the 2622-A Broadway office, the Republican senator said giving the District of Columbia two senators "strikes at the roots of the federal system" because the framers of the Constitution saw Washington as "a federal city governed by the Congress."
"In effect, the government would be representing itself in the Senate," he said, adding that 60 percent of District of Columbia residents work for the federal government.
"What you're doing is giving the bureaucrats two senators."
Tower said the Labor Reform Act, defeated in the Senate after passing in the House, was aimed at undermining the authority of states to have right-to-work laws.
Among other measures, it would have given unions an equal opportunity to present their case if an employer held an on-the-job meeting to urge his employees to vote against union representation and would have allowed the National Labor Relations Board to order an employer "who has refused to bargain in good faith for a first contract to compensate his workers for the delay caused by his illegal actions."
Accompanied by his wife Lilla, he told an estimated 50 supporters in the small headquarters office that he was ahead 50 percent to 37 percent in a late August poll. See TOWER Page 15

Texas Flooding Bad, Experts Say

AUSTIN (AP)—University of Texas professor of geography Robert Holz says Central Texas is one of the most flood-prone areas in the United States.

"The real problem in Central Texas is that we sit on a potential disaster area because of the moisture from the Gulf," Holz said.

"Living along the flood plain of a river is like playing roulette," added Victor Baker, an associate professor of geological sciences at UT-Austin.

The two wrote an article recently published in the Texas Natural Resources Information System.

"Flood plains probably will continue to be popular places for settlement," Baker said. "However, residents must know the hazards and the options for dealing with them in order to weigh the benefits with the risks of living by the river."

He said the term "100-year flood" is an unfortunate term because it leads people to believe a flood will occur only once in a century. "What it does mean is that within a 100-year period a flood of a certain magnitude has a one percent chance of happening in any one year, a 9.5 percent chance in 10 years and a 63 percent chance in 100 years," Baker said.

The flood experts said most flood hazard zones in high population areas of the state have been completed. However, most hazard zones in less densely populated areas have yet to be delineated.

Meat Production Down

WASHINGTON (AP)—Red meat production in August dipped to about 3.27 million pounds, 4 percent below the 3.4 billion pounds of a year earlier, the Agriculture Department says. Beef output, at 2.1 million pounds, was down 6 percent and veal production declined 31 percent to 50 million pounds, the department said. Lamb and mutton production dropped 14 percent to 25 million pounds.

Dallas Convention Industry Worried

DALLAS (UPI)—Convention authorities were worried Friday the city's burgeoning convention industry would be harmed because two persons attending the national Veterans of Foreign Wars convention last month contracted the mysterious illness.

In San Antonio, meanwhile, health officials said Friday they were investigating two unconfirmed reports of Legionnaires disease in the city.

Dallas health officials announced Wednesday at least two of the 35,000 people attending the national Veterans of Foreign Wars convention in August had contracted Legionnaires' disease. Both cases were non-fatal and health officials refused to disclose names of the victims other than to say they were from Missouri and New Jersey.

State health officials said Thursday the outbreak posed no threat to the Dallas population, but Chamber of Commerce officials feared it would hurt business.

"It's still too early to tell what effect stories like this will have on the convention trade," said Jack Andrus, vice president of the chamber's convention and visitors bureau.

"We're just telling people to wait awhile and see what the situation really is before jumping to conclusions. Right now we don't even know what the situation is. We just don't have any information yet."

After the mysterious pneumonia-like illness killed 29 people and sickened another 151 in Philadelphia in July 1976, the city suffered a substantial loss of convention trade. The once-popular Bellevue

Stratford, where the victims stayed, was forced to close a few months later because of a lack of business.

Ironically, the VFW originally had planned to have its 1978 convention in Philadelphia, but came to Dallas because of the Philadelphia episode.

State health officials have been collecting air and water samples from the hotels that housed VFW members and their guests.

In San Antonio, Dr. Robert Bell, head of the communicable disease control division of the Metropolitan Health District, said identities of the suspected victims were not released. But he said the cases were not connected with the national Veterans of Foreign Wars convention in Dallas.

Friend Says Defendant Used Drugs

AUSTIN (AP) — David Lee Powell, accused of machine-gunning Patrolman Ralph Ablanedo to death, used "speed" heavily and once claimed wildly he was in a laser gun battle with the CIA, a friend testified Friday.

Other witnesses included Powell's mother and aunt, who said they tried, but failed, to get him into regular psychiatric care as long ago as 1970.

Powell, 27, and Sheila Margaret Mainert, also 27, could be executed if convicted of capital murder in the death of Ablanedo, who was riddled at close range with slugs from an AK-47 automatic rifle about 12:40 a.m. May 18.

Defense lawyers, contending Powell was and is insane, established that several of Powell's relatives, including his father, mother, an aunt and an uncle, had been under psychiatric care. They also produced testimony that there had been other mental illness and suicides in the defendant's family.

Dr. Clemens Struve of Corpus Christi, Powell's uncle, said in his medical opinion, Powell needed psychiatric care in 1969.

"I felt he was becoming more and more part of the counterculture, the hippie crowd, and less and less oriented to regular life," said Struve, a group therapy patient.

Another uncle was the late Dan Struve, who served in the Texas House from Atascosa County in the early 1960s.

Marjorie Powell of Dallas, the defendant's mother, said she didn't hear from her son between July or August 1977 and May 18.

"I sent telegrams. I would leave word at different people's houses. I told them to tell him it was an emergency, to call his mother," Mrs. Powell said, breaking down in tears for the only time in her testimony.

Powell remained expressionless through the afternoon of family testimony.

She said she asked Powell in jail why he never contacted her, and he would whisper, "I couldn't."

"I would ask why. He would say (whispering), 'Because they're after me.' I would say, 'Who's after you?' He would say (whispering), 'I can't say now. I'll tell you later,'" Mrs. Powell said.

Powell's counselor in the Plan II honors program at the University of Texas said he was valedictorian of his high school class at Campbell and had an IQ of 135-45.

Federal Appeal Of Desegregation Case Expected

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff
School officials said Friday they are virtually certain the U.S. Justice Department will file a full-fledged appeal of the Lubbock school desegregation case. But a spokesman for the department insisted such a decision has yet to be made.

After a closed-door briefing with legal counsel, Lubbock Independent School District trustees and administrators said there are strong indications that federal attorneys will file a brief next week in New Orleans' 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

School board president Charles Waters said it seems "very, very likely" that the Justice Department will seek to replace the district's present desegregation plan with a comprehensive systemwide plan. "I'd say an appeal is rather definite. Systemwide integration is what the Justice Department has been pushing for all along," Waters said.

He said a systemwide plan would involve "many times the amount of busing we have now." The current plan is aimed at integrating only nine schools found by U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward to be remnants of unlawful segregation. The plan requires daily busing of about 2,000 elementary students and several hundred secondary students. Some of the students volunteered for the busing.

Waters and Superintendent Ed Irons said they have received nothing official about a Justice Department appeal, but they are "pretty sure" one is in the works.

However, Mark Gross, an attorney in the appellate section of the department's civil rights division, said the matter still is up in the air.

"No decision has been made at this point," Gross told The Avalanche-Journal. "It's impossible to say" which way the department may go regarding an appeal.

The U.S. solicitor general must decide whether to pursue an appeal. And so far, he still has the Lubbock case under review, Gross indicated.

Instead of filing an appeal brief, the Justice Department simply may ask the 5th Circuit Court next week for an extension of time, he said.

The Justice Department filed a "notice of appeal" in July, but did so only to buy time and keep its options open. Time is running out because on Thursday, the department must file with the 5th Circuit a brief outlining the basis for appeal.

If the Justice Department misses that deadline, the appeal is dead.

The Justice Department is known to be upset with various rulings Woodward has made in the desegregation case.

First, the department dislikes Woodward's ruling that only nine of the city's 23 schools needed to be integrated. The resulting plan has left several schools still overwhelmingly minority. The Justice Department advocates systemwide integration involving all schools.

Second, the department objects to the way the current plan was devised. Federal government lawyers feel the plan is unfair to minorities because they are being bused for longer periods than whites.

Also, the department wants to block the proposed construction of new schools in predominantly white areas south of Loop 289.

The Citizens' Alliance for Successful Schools, also a proponent of systemwide integration, has said it will appeal on those counts if the Justice Department does not.

Waters said that if the department files a brief by Thursday, the school district will make a rebuttal, and the 5th Circuit probably will hear oral arguments and decide the issue.

He noted that the district has the option of appealing to the U.S. Supreme Court an "unfavorable" circuit court ruling.

With or without an appeal, the school system will suffer, Irons said. Until the case is resolved "once and for all," the district is unable to sell the $11.9 million in construction bonds authorized by voters in February, 1977.

Inflation and higher interest rates already have reduced the bonds' buying power by an estimated $1.5 million, school officials said. Irons said the school board may have to decide not to fund some of the proposed projects.

The delay in the building program has "thrown us far off schedule" in getting new schools south of the loop, Irons said. He said there is "no way" to get three new elementary schools opened as planned by August, 1979, or a new junior high by August, 1980.

The desegregation plan consequently will be disrupted because those schools were to send and receive students for desegregation purposes.

Irons said the delay also will result in continuation of "severe problems of overcrowding" at elementary schools immediately inside Loop 289 — such as Williams, Murfee and Parsons.

Fire Hits Strategic Oil Reserve Installation

HACKBERRY, La. (AP)—Burning oil spewed from an underground oil storage vault Friday and fed a lake of fire at the showcase facility of the nation's Strategic Petroleum Reserve. But officials said only a fraction of the post-Arab oil embargo stockpile would be lost.

The oil was jetting under pressure from a well shaft extending 3,240 feet into the storage cavern, the size of a 10-story building, carved out from an underground salt dome. One man was killed and another injured in a fiery explosion at the dome Thursday.

"Engineers tried to bleed off enough brine to ease the pressure but it didn't work," a spokesman said.

However, the gush of oil up the shaft slowly slackened, and the lake of flaming oil contained within earthen dikes was slightly diminished.

"I don't want to be optimistic but we are pleased," said Bill Parker, the deputy project manager. "It may take another day or two but our maximum loss from the 7 million barrels of oil in the hole probably will be 50,000 barrels."

Clarence Simon, 38, of Abbeville, La., was killed and another workman was injured Thursday following an explosion and fire caused by pressure in the cavern ramming oil up the well shaft past an emergency shutoff valve while drillers were repairing casing. Other crewmen on the drilling rig platform scrambled for their lives.

The injured crewman, Bradley Bergeron, 22, of New Iberia, La., was reported in stable condition with burns over half his body.

At first the flames towered 250 feet high, throwing up an enormous column of black smoke.

"The worst part of this whole thing was the loss of a life. Otherwise, we burned up some oil and sure, that cost money, but it is not a serious setback to the program," Parker said.

Parker said an inquiry beginning Friday would try to determine cash loss. Crude oil costs $14 a barrel. In addition, the figure will include the costs of shipping losses, a melted rig, and other items.

Fighting experts "Boots" Hansen and "Coots" Mathews were on the scene Friday, but officials said they may allow the fire to burn itself out.

It was the first disaster to strike the $20 billion program set up to store a billion barrels of oil in salt dome caverns along the Gulf Coast as an emergency supply in case of another Arab oil boycott.

When complete, the oil bank could offset an Arab oil embargo for six to eight months, perhaps longer, Parker said.

Workers started filling the Hackberry caverns with Arabian crude shipped in by tankers and barge last July. This cavern had 7 million barrels of oil in it, compressed against the ceiling by 6 million barrels of heavy brine.

Though spectacular, the fire actually proved the overall safety of the program, Parker said. Where oil is stored above ground in a tank complex, any fire is a major crisis, he said. In this case, when pressure in the cavern equalizes, the oil stops coming out, the fire dies.

The salt caverns become giant bottles for the oil, and normally the flow is controlled by a relatively simple system of plumbing. Oil floats on brine. Pumping in a barrel of oil displaces a barrel of brine, or vice versa.

Underground pipelines connect the four major storage sites to oil distribution terminals.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Not a good time for taking chances with others by not carrying through with what you have agreed to do. Use your best judgment to ward off temptations to go off on tangents.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Take care you do not make any errors in statements or reports or you could get into serious trouble. Don't expect help from an associate who has worries.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Cut down on expenses right away since you have been extravagant lately. Listen to what an adviser has to suggest so you can build up reserves and add to present income.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make those changes in your environment that will make you happier and bring more success in the future. Think clearly and logically.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Work early on those restricting conditions and improve them efficiently. Steer clear of a social function where big arguments could start.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Your friends may be too busy now to go along with you for recreation, so be patient and find something constructive to do. Don't try to force your ideas on others.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) It is important that you follow through with the ideas of higher-ups otherwise you lose their support. Attend to the credit matter even if it is irritating. Avoid one who has peculiar ideas.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have to use diplomacy if you are to gain those aims now, since forcefulness could mean failure. Study new contacts well before accepting.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get at responsibilities ahead of you early and they are soon completed. Be sure to acquiesce to some request your mate makes of you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are not getting the cooperation of others today, so wait until a better time to work on your plans. Be patient about some civic matter. Take time for recreation.

WOMAN EXONERATED
PORT HURON, Mich. (AP) — A woman who testified that she shot her husband seven times because she could no longer take his abuse was found innocent of murder charges Friday by a St. Clair County Circuit Court jury. Mrs. Patricia Gross testified that her husband had kicked her with steel boots, once pushed her off a barstool, and had threatened her with a gun several times.

East Coast Refinery Sites Suggested

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — A report released Friday by the Army Corps of Engineers concludes that Portsmouth, Va., and Eastport, Maine, are the two best sites on the East Coast to locate a new oil refinery.

The Hampton Roads Energy Co. has been seeking approval for three years to build a $550 million refinery here.

Corps approval for the dredging of a canal from the proposed refinery site to Hampton Roads is the only permit HREC lacks to begin construction.

The report said that Portsmouth and Eastport are the two best sites, based on engineering and economic guidelines. But it said that Portsmouth has more significant environmental problems than Eastport.

"Many of the sites deleted (from consideration) were environmentally superior to the Portsmouth site, but were dropped in favor of sites which appeared to be preferable," the report said.

Eastport is the site of the proposed Pittston Co. refinery, which also is under review by the corps.

Robert Porterfield, vice president of HREC, said the report "backs up our earlier contention that Portsmouth is the best site on the East Coast."

But the main group that has been fighting the refinery, Citizens Against the Refinery's Effects, said it will go to court if the corps gives approval for the refinery's construction.

Poll Shows Public Hopeful, Wary About Mideast

NEW YORK (AP) — The public's hopes for peace in the Middle East have risen on the strength of the Camp David accords, but most Americans still don't think peace is just around the corner, an Associated Press-NBC News poll shows.

And, in a reversal of previously held views, the public now favors continued U.S. involvement in the peace talks. In previous months, the public has preferred that the nations in the Middle East negotiate without any U.S. participation. Nearly two thirds of those interviewed — 65 percent — say the Camp David summit raised their hopes for peace in the Middle East.

Only 2 percent said it had lessened chances for peace, while 24 percent said it had made no change. Nine percent were not sure.

The 13 days of negotiations at Camp David with President Carter, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israel's Prime Minister Menachem Begin produced two agreements on a framework for peace and for future negotiations about disputed issues in the Middle East. Despite the boost in hopes for peace, Americans are still not overwhelmingly convinced peace is at hand.

Only 7 percent of those interviewed said the summit agreements will almost certainly lead to peace. Twenty-six percent said the agreements will probably lead to peace.

But 45 percent said the chances for peace are no better than even. Peace just isn't possible in the Middle East according to 18 percent. Four percent were not sure.

The poll found that Carter's role in the Camp David summit had spurred a 16-point upsurge in positive public feelings about the incumbent's work in the Oval Office.

Likewise, the American public's attitude toward Sadat and Begin improved dramatically in the afterglow of the summit.

Nearly three-quarters of the public now rates Sadat's efforts for peace as excellent or good. That's up from 40 percent from the finding of the August poll.

Excellent marks from Americans to 53 percent from the 21 percent found in August.

The Israeli leader's poor or only fair rating dropped from 62 to 37 percent this month. Undecided respondents declined from 17 percent to 10 percent.

As with any sample survey, the results of the AP-NBC News polls could differ from the results of interviews with all Americans with telephones because of chance variations in the sample.

For polls with 1,600 interviews, the results should vary no more than three percentage points either way simply because of sample errors. That is, there is only one chance out of 20 that the results of interviews with all American adults with telephones would vary from these results by more than three percentage points.

Of course, the results could vary from other polls because of differences in the wording of questions, timing of interviews or the method of interviewing.

AP-NBC News Poll Questions

  5. What kind of a job do you think President Anwar Sadat of Egypt is doing in handling peace negotiations in the Middle East ... Do you think he is doing an excellent job, a good job, only a fair job or do you think he is doing a poor job?
  6. Would you say the Camp David summit has improved chances for peace in the Middle East, lessened chances for peace or would you say the chances for peace are about the same as before the summit?
  7. What do you think are the chances for peace in the Middle East? Would you say that they are almost certain, probable, 50-50 or do you think peace will not be achieved in the Middle East?

Carter Aids Candidate

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — President Carter launched the first of what may be a series of weekend campaign trips for Democratic candidates on Friday, taking aim on conservative Republican Sen. Jesse Helms, the Democrats' No. 1 target for upset.

The president left the White House at mid-afternoon to campaign for John Ingram, the North Carolina insurance commissioner who is fighting Helms' re-election bid.

As befits a political trip, a band played "Happy Days Are Here Again" as Carter arrived in North Carolina, and a banner decorated with the same green tint used during his 1976 presidential campaign read: "Welcome President Carter."

mention of the crop in the tobacco growing region Friday.

From the airport, Carter went to a fund-raiser dinner at a nearby estate. He then planned to fly to Columbia, S.C., to speak at two fund-raisers for Charles "Pug" Ravenel, who opposes another leading conservative Republican, Sen. Strom Thurmond.

By starting in North Carolina, Carter opens a campaign schedule in the southern state where his popularity reportedly is the highest. As a result of his popularity, one Republican source said, Helms has avoided attacking Carter directly.

White House aides have said that although Carter's schedule is not complete, they would not be surprised if he makes campaign trips on most weekends between now and election day.

Although he was returning to the White House Friday night, he planned another journey Saturday, including a fund-raiser for Ohio Democrats in Columbus. Last Wednesday, he stopped briefly at a luncheon for New Jersey Democrats in Atlantic City.

Tickets to the Ingram dinner cost $500 a couple. About 150 had been sold by Friday morning, with ticket sales picking up after the Camp David summit, a party source said.

A poll taken for Ingram, a 47-year-old self-styled populist, showed Helms leading 46 percent to 39 percent with the rest undecided. A poll taken for Helms, the 56-year-old one-term incumbent, showed the Republican with a slightly larger lead.

Helms, according to Democratic and Republican sources, has raised about $5 million through conservative fund-raiser Richard Viguerie's direct mail operation, which will take a hefty chunk of the money. Ingram, whose fund-raising efforts have been running far behind that, has budgeted about $350,000 for his campaign.

A Democratic source said Ingram's campaign has focused on Helms' attention to national issues rather than on those having a direct impact on North Carolina. Helms was a leader of the opposition to the Panama Canal treaties.

Tickets to one of the Ravenel receptions in South Carolina cost $500 a person. Admission to the second party cost $50 a person.

The two parties were expected to gross as much as $60,000, according to Don Fowler, chairman of the South Carolina Democratic Party. However, South Carolina's share of the costs of the president's trip must be deducted from that. North Carolina Democrats also must pay a share of the trip.

Japanese Eye China Industrialization Plans

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's super salesmen have moved into high gear on what promises to be their biggest deal ever — the industrialization of China.

Less than six months after signing a Japan-China long-term trade agreement, which calls for China to swap $10 billion worth of oil and coal for $10 billion worth of technology and equipment over eight years, the Japanese have already nailed down contracts worth half a billion dollars, with another $4 billion worth ready for signing.

So far, Japanese companies have sold 10 plants, eight ships, two oil rigs, four computer systems and more than 2,000 trucks and assorted other heavy equipment and machinery for delivery over the next few years.

Negotiations are progressing on contracts for 11 more plants, two thermal power plants, repair and expansion of two Chinese steel mills and two shipyards, and the largest project so far — a $3 billion steel mill project at Paoshan, near Shanghai.

Not included in the tally are two potentially huge projects — exploitation of China's off-shore oil reserves and a major expansion of Chinese railroads. Government and business officials here say the oil contracts could be signed as early as next month, and a preliminary rail agreement this year.

The Japan External Trade Organization, a semi-governmental agency dubbed JETRO that promotes foreign trade, estimates total trade with China over the next eight years at about $40 billion — $20 billion under the trade agreement and another $20 billion of miscellaneous goods.

So far this year, trade has already reached more than $2 billion and the total for the year is estimated at $5 billion, up 44 percent over 1977.

"My personal estimate," said Yaeji Watanabe, president of the Japan-China Association for Economic Cooperation, and a major figure in the negotiations that led up to the treaty, "is that two-way trade will reach $10 billion a year in five years, and $20 billion a year in 15 years."

"Toshio Komoto, minister of International Trade and Industry, thinks the same way," Watanabe said. "China will be second only to the United States in Japanese trade."

The Kyodo News Service reported that Komoto, who visited China Sept. 10, is already planning to push for an increase in the target of $20 billion in trade under the long-term agreement. The Asahi newspaper quoted government sources as saying the Chinese want the target to be doubled.

The signing of the trade agreement in February and a peace and friendship treaty last month mark the second drastic shift in Japanese-Chinese relations since World War II, Watanabe said. He added that this one was the more important.

"Before 1972, when Japan recognized China, the Japanese could not even visit China. The few who got in were very restricted and could not talk business," he said.

"After 1972, there was a drastic shift in the Chinese attitude. They suddenly opened their doors to Japanese traders and economists. But it was still very difficult. The Chinese did not look at Japan-China trade from a long-range point of view. The Chinese linked trade and politics, while the Japanese were trying to talk only about trade.

"Now, for the first time, the Chinese can come here and get actual facts about trade. We can teach them about American and Japanese production and technology," he said.

Other Japanese officials and businessmen, while pleased with the way things are going now, are not as optimistic as Watanabe. They see at least two major problems coming up.

"I don't believe the peace treaty will trigger too sudden an expansion of Japan-China trade," said JETRO's Hiroyuki Tsubaki, chief of the China section.

"The goods to be imported from China are limited at present. Unless China tries hard to push exports other than coal and oil, we are limited in what we can buy."

"The only two things we can really expand trade in are coal and oil. How much oil Japan can import is the key to expansion of our trade with China — and that is limited by our oil refinery capacity," Tsubaki said.

The government wants a major expansion of refinery and storage facilities, but the oil companies refuse to pay for it. That question must be settled soon for construction to begin in time to get the expansion finished by 1982.

Another problem is China's ability to pay. Under the long-term agreement, China will get most of the plants, technology and equipment in the first three to five years of the agreement, while sending most of its oil and coal to Japan in the latter three years. If Japan runs into problems in accepting the full amount of oil China sells, or if trade outside the agreement booms as much as Watanabe and others hope, China could run into serious deficit problems.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. My parents invested $10,000 in a mutual fund in 1969. The present value of their shares is just over $5,000. Their mutual fund has just merged into a different fund.

A. They are in their 70s and living only on Social Security. My knowledge of the stock market is very limited. My parents' is likewise. Isn't it time for them to sell the darn thing and salvage what they can?

A. Yes. That answer is based on their age and financial position. It would apply, even if they had a gain on their mutual fund investment. It's clear that they need income. They're not getting it from that mutual fund. The logical thing to do is to redeem their fund shares and put the money into an insured savings account.

Unfortunately, your parents made two mistakes at one time. They put what must have been a major part of their savings into a mutual fund when the stock market, and the value of mutual fund shares, was sky high. And they invested in the wrong kind of mutual fund.

It is almost always a mistake, and always risky, to put a bundle into the market at one shot. Also, your parents invested in a "growth" mutual fund. Even in their 60s, that was a bad move. As people approach retirement, they should veer away from growth investments, which can shrink, and put their money into income situations.

The merged mutual fund in which they now own shares could work out well over the long run. But they can't afford to wait. Advise them to redeem.

Q. I am a young widow with two small children. I put the money from my husband's life insurance into savings certificates. At the rate inflation is galloping, I doubt that the money will pay for their college educations.

I wouldn't want to fool around with the stock market. Some friends advise me to buy land. Whom do I see about investing in real estate?

A. Real estate agents. There's no dearth of realtors. They're in every city, town and hamlet I ever drove through.

I advise you, however, to be most cautious. We know that real estate values have gone up and up in an almost continuous spiral for the past 30 years or so. But that doesn't guarantee that land you buy now will be worth more when your kids are ready for college.

You can lose money in real estate, especially if you have little or no knowledge and are not able to put some time and effort into it. There's just as much "fooling around" in real estate as there is in the stock market.

Q. Is the interest from all hospital bonds exempt from state and federal income tax?

A. No. Some are. Some aren't. Some hospital bonds, issued to pay for the construction or expansion of hospitals, are backed by "municipal government" units, such as towns, cities, counties and states. If that's the case, the interest paid on the bonds is exempt from federal income tax. And, in most states, that interest is also exempt from state income tax when the bonds are owned by residents of the state in which the bonds were issued.

But not all hospital bonds are backed by municipal government units. When they're not, the interest those hospital bonds pay is subject to federal, state and local income tax.

Again, this is one of the things you should check out — before you buy. It sometimes seems that this column's biggest function is to teach people to "investigate before investing."

Interior Secretary To Visit Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — Rep. Bob Krueger, D-Texas, said Friday that Secretary of Interior Cecil Andrus will visit Austin Oct. 12 to determine if more federal funds should be granted for the Wild Basin Park.

The proposed park is a wilderness area west of Austin. The sponsors have purchased 107 acres of land and are asking the federal government to buy another 51.45 acres. Janet Poage, co-coordinator of the sponsors, said if the federal funds are obtained, a private land owner will donate another 71 acres to the park.

Krueger, Democratic nominee for U.S. Senate, said he called Andrus Tuesday and asked him to spend $365,850 from the secretary's $4.5 million discretionary fund to purchase the land. Andrus called back Wednesday and said he would personally inspect the site.

"The fact that he is making a special trip to Texas to visit the Wild Basin personally is reason for great optimism concerning the outcome of his trip," Krueger told a news conference.

Citibank Reacquires Carte Blanche Card

NEW YORK (AP) — Citicorp has completed its reacquisition of the Carte Blanche credit card operation from Avco Corp., the two companies announced Friday. The value of the purchase was not disclosed.

Citicorp, then known as First National City Bank, was forced to sell Carte Blanche to Avco in 1968 by the Justice Department to avoid antitrust charges. Citicorp was given permission to reacquire the credit card operation when the Justice Department determined that the antitrust situation no longer existed.

A request by American Express for an injunction to halt the reacquisition was turned down earlier this month by U.S. District Court Judge John M. Cannella when Cannella vacated the consent decree that had forced the divestiture of the operation.

Puts you in full control of everything you cook

Why? Because you can slide the Amana Cookmatic Power Shift to the precise setting or combination of settings that best suit the particular food you're preparing. So you cook the way you're used to. Nothing new — only faster. If the casserole is too hot, slide the Cookmatic Power Shift to a slower speed.

Adjust while you're cooking — faster or slower. On one of the lower settings, you can create the special effects of slow-cooked recipes, or pamper delicate items like cheese, milk and eggs. On "warm," you can keep foods like casseroles and soups warm, ready without overcooking.

Cookmatic Power Shift — label you, the cook, in full control of what's cooking.

FIND STRENGTH FOR YOUR LIFE — ATTEND CHURCH

Decision Room... Sometimes

The Board Room. Here the directors of the corporation make their decisions. Unless, of course, they already have made up their minds at home.

Decisions rarely wait for the man with the gavel to put the question. Conscientious people sort out the facts, weigh the merits, arrive at a decision.

In our homes we make the most important decisions affecting our lives. Here we decide the needs of our family, the values we cherish. Here we wrestle with the challenges of marriage, parenthood, commitment to volunteer service, dedication to causes we would embrace.

A local church is eager to welcome you into its membership, to provide religious education for your family.

Right here at home you'll decide your family's place in the spiritual life of the community.

Panhandle South Plains Fair Opens Eight-Day Run Today

The rabbit and poultry building will be filled early with feathered friends ranging from racing homer and tumbler pigeons to about any of 152 varieties of bantams.

Among the exhibitors with bantams will be a veteran of the "banty" raising game and also of the show ring.

There were always a lot of mixed bantams roaming the Miller yard when Jack Miller was growing up near Tahoka, but he didn't know there was a purebred variety until his youngest son, Roger, needed a home project about a decade ago.

By the time Roger left home, there were 300 banties at the Miller home, so Miller took up the hobby.

"It's one you can do at home, and I have to be at home," Miller explained.

As Tahoka's police chief, he is on 24-hour call and can't be out of pocket.

At one time, the "hobby" kept him busy hatching 3,000 eggs at a time for sale in the day-old market. The venture got too big and had to be whittled, hitting a pretty good low before Miller's granddaughters, Sharla and Marcie, needed 4-H Club projects.

They do a lot of the feeding and much of the petting, but Miller has his own sessions making show rings as far away as Fort Worth.

He has 30 pens in Tahoka and 30 pens out at the barn to keep his 46 varieties of bantams. When he gets up to 60 kinds, to fill all the pens, he will level off the hobby.

Show bantams, he explained, have to be in good feather, not moulting, and must have the right color down to the leg and ear lobe.

If a variety should be clean-legged, a tiny feather between the tiny toes could disqualify it.

As soon as he decides which individual bantams will go to a particular show, he bands them and cages them so they will be in the same shape at show time. Fighting in the chicken yard can damage an ear lobe or comb and lose the feathers and this would catch the judge's eye, Miller explained.

The bantam show ring is just as big in trophies and ribbons — and individual preference among breeders — as the hog or calf arena.

Livestock judging begins Monday with cattle, sheep and barrows set for showing.

Reagan Hints At '80 Candidacy

CHICAGO (AP) — Ronald Reagan said Friday there is a "distinct possibility" he will run for president again in 1980 and the taxpayer revolt will be a leading issue if he does.

Joining a cross-country Republican "tax blitz" in Chicago, Reagan said he has "not closed the door" to another presidential campaign but that he won't announce his final decision until 1979.

"There is a distinct possibility that I will be a candidate. It may be that it would take something unforeseen for me to decide not to," Reagan said at a news conference.

Reagan, 67, who came close to winning the 1976 GOP presidential nomination, said the taxpayer rebellion which erupted with the Proposition 13 initiative in California this summer is spreading. He said Republican tax cut proposals are the answer the public wants.

"Whether I'll be running as a candidate or whether I will be campaigning for others, I'm going to tout this as a part of basic Republican philosophy," Reagan said.

In remarks prepared for a California rally winding up the three-day blitz, former President Gerald R. Ford hit the same theme, saying it is "time to carry the rollback from Sacramento to Washington."

Ford accused the Democrats of offering only token tax reductions and called instead for "a gigantic reduction of taxes." Republican congressmen are pushing for a 33 percent cut in income taxes over the next three years.

"Only by such a gigantic rollback of taxes can we begin to turn off the federal money machine that robs our pay check with inflation and higher taxes," Ford said.

Reagan said the property tax rollback imposed by California voters in June has "triggered hope in the breasts of the people that something could be done.

"Too many American people in recent years have said, 'Yes, but what can you do about it?' That's why they've stayed away from the polls," Reagan said.

"Prop 13 said you can do something about it," he continued. "It's a little bit like dumping those cases of tea off the boat in Boston harbor."

Reagan said the American public still associates tax relief with the Democratic Party, but efforts like the tax blitz are helping to reverse the traditional images.

Republican administrations have cut taxes 13 times in recent history and the Democrats only once, he said. He also charged that the current Democratic tax-cut bill now moving through Congress would result in a net loss to the average taxpayer.

The Carter administration and Democratic congressional leaders also are calling for tax reductions, but they say the ing over the West Bank "following consultations with Jordan and representatives of the Palestinian people." Israel seized the West Bank from Jordan in the 1967 Mideast War.

Vance Gets Rebuff In Arab Peace Bid

A Syrian government spokesman at the Damascus meeting said Sadat's "presumption" to be the representative of the Palestinian people "is further proof how far he is prepared to go in flouting the unanimous decisions of the Arab summit conferences."

The spokesman said Arab summits repeatedly have said the Palestine Liberation Organization is the only legitimate representative of the Palestinian people. Other Arab leaders attending the "rejectionist" summit were not available for comment.

Special U.S. Middle East envoy Alfred Atherton will take up the sales campaign where Vance leaves off, going on to explain the accords to smaller Arab states.

In related developments Friday: —Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev denounced the Camp David accords as an illusory settlement that "can only make the situation in the Middle East even more explosive."

—Israeli troops evicted for the second time a group of nationalist demonstrators trying to set up an unauthorized Jewish settlement on a West Bank hilltop. The demonstrators protested Prime Minister Menachem Begin's agreement to suspend the establishment of new settlements in occupied lands during negotiations.

—Begin returned from the United States to a hero's welcome from Israelis who consider the Camp David agreements a major success for their country. A similar reception is planned for Sadat in Cairo today.

—Sadat, conferring with Morocco's King Hassan II in Rabat, said at a news conference that the Camp David agreement is applicable to the Israeli-controlled Golan Heights as soon as Syria is prepared to negotiate an Israeli withdrawal. But Begin has said since the summit that Israel will not give up the land it holds on the Golan Heights.

U.S. To Back Israel

A senior official in the U.S. party here who asked not to be identified said it would be "preferable" if Jordan joined negotiations over the future of the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan River, "but the process probably could go forward" without Jordanian participation.

The same official told reporters that if it were necessary for Israeli security, the United States would support Israel in its determination to leave troops on the West Bank beyond the five-year transition period envisaged by the Camp David accords.

U.S. support for this position — which is the stand taken by Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin — could make Vance's attempts to soften the anti-Camp David opposition of Assad and other Arabs even more difficult.

Demands In Conflict

The Arab hard-liners demand negotiations involving all parties, including Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization; a total Israeli withdrawal from occupied lands, and the recognition of the right of Palestinians to establish an independent state in the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

The Camp David accords provide the basis for Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai Peninsula and an Egyptian-Israeli peace, but they leave unresolved the basic questions about the Israeli presence on the West Bank and the political future of the Palestinians there.

The senior American official said it is "too early to tell" whether Jordan and Saudi Arabia can be persuaded to participate in the Camp David plan.

Immediate Support Doubtful

He said Vance expects the Arab states to consult with each other before taking a final position, and did not expect any of them to immediately support the plan.

statewide but is taking Krueger seriously.

"When you're a Republican in Texas, you can never take anything for granted," he said.

He called Krueger "articulate" and "an indefatigable campaigner."

Tower was first elected to the Senate in 1961.

He came to Lubbock from a Dallas news conference, where he gave a news release criticizing Krueger for "waffling on his vote for the AFL-CIO labor reform" bill.

Asked if South Texas will be a crucial region in the Senate election this year, he said he has carried Bexar, Nueces, Hidalgo and other South Texas counties in his previous elections and expects to carry them again this time.

"If South Texas is the swing vote, I should be in good shape," he said.

Tower predicted Republican gains in the House and Senate in this election and said Democrats in Congress might be more conservative next year because of a changed public mood on taxes and other issues.

Asked if two years ago he expected Republican prospects to be that much improved now, he said, "I certainly hoped they would improve because things looked a little bleak."

Tower said he is further ahead of Krueger at this point in the campaign than he was ahead of Waggoner Carr and Barefoot Sanders at the same point in his 1966 and 1972 campaigns.

Senate Eliminates Aid To Nicaragua

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate on Friday adopted a $9.2 billion economic foreign aid bill after voting to cut off most U.S. assistance to the regime of Anastasio Somoza of Nicaragua.

The vote on final passage was 39-20.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, told the Senate that Gen. Somoza faces "a national mutiny in which almost every sector of the country has united against a dynasty which has plundered the country for nearly half a century."

"The question is not whether Somoza falls, but when," Church said. "The longer Somoza resists the will of his people and uses his armed guard to quell resistance, the more likely it is that another Castro-type revolutionary government will eventually emerge."

He called on the United States to disavow the Somoza regime which has received some $300 million in U.S. aid since World War II and join with other nations in the area to form "a moderate government which respects human rights and free enterprise."

The longer we delay, the greater the chance that the revolution will fall into the hands of the extremists," Church said.

The Church amendment eliminated $8 million in development aid for Nicaragua. Earlier a $150,000 item for military training for the Central American nation had been cut out.

Nicaragua was to receive $2.5 million in military assistance credits — aid in financing arms purchases — in this fiscal year which expires Oct. 1. But the State Department held up those allocations because of human rights violations. For that reason, military aid payments this year have been only $25,700 in flat military grants and $400,000 in grants for training the military and police.

In other action, the Senate refused to reduce to $500 million the $1.8 billion sought as the U.S. contribution to a special facility intended to help stabilize the international economy by helping poor nations withstand the economic shocks caused by rapidly rising oil prices.

The 47-18 roll call vote came in the second day of consideration of the foreign aid appropriations bill.

In a letter read on the Senate floor, Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, warned that any decision by Congress to eliminate or reduce the $1.8 billion U.S. contribution to the so-called Witteveen facility of the International Monetary Fund could have grave international economic consequences.

The member nations of the Organization of Petroleum Producing Countries (OPEC) have agreed to contribute some 47 percent of the total amount of the fund. Saudi Arabia's contribution is $2.5 billion.

Somoza Ready To Negotiate With Rebels

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Anastasio Somoza said Friday he is ready to talk with opposition leaders in an effort to end the revolt that has taken an estimated 1,500 lives in weeks of battle.

"I have today received a letter ... proposing negotiations to bring peace to the country, and I have ordered my secretary to answer them, saying yes," Somoza said in an interview with The Associated Press.

He said the letter, dated Thursday, came from the Roman Catholic bishops of Managua and Juigalpa and Manuel J. Torres, president of the National Development Institute.

The president did not say who he would agree to meet with.

His press secretary, Rafael Cano, said Somoza was declaring his readiness to meet with any "duly accredited" representatives of the opposition.

Somoza spoke of possible mediation hours after the national guard said "suffocated" the last rebel resistance in the city of Esteli and now controls "the entire national territory."

Esteli, with a population of 35,000, was one of four key cities seized by guerrilla rebels with coordinated attacks Sept. 9 in the uprising against Somoza's authoritarian rule.

Somoza, commenting on the warfare that has raged in the country for more than two weeks, told his interviewer: "This is not a civil war, but merely a prolonged riot."

The letter from Torres and the bishops suggested Colombia, Mexico and the Dominican Republic as possible mediators. The Mexican and Colombian ambassadors said they had received copies of the letter but had taken no action because the Organization of American States meeting in Washington has been trying to set up mediation efforts.

Leaders of the opposition front were not available for comment on Somoza's response to the letter from Torres and the bishops.

Helms Concedes Error In Masking CIA Plots

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former CIA Director Richard Helms conceded Friday that it was a mistake not to tell the Warren Commission about plots to kill Fidel Castro, but said "I don't want to take the entire blame."

Helms, testifying before the House assassinations committee, said he saw no connection between the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and CIA plots to murder Fidel Castro. So he said he saw no need to advise the Warren Commission of the agency's anti-Castro activities.

But, under questioning, he conceded: "There's no doubt it was a mistake. We should have backed up a truck and taken all the documents down and put them on the Warren Commission's desk."

The Warren Commission did not know about the CIA plots to assassinate Castro when it concluded that Lee Harvey Oswald murdered Kennedy and that the slaying of the president was not part of a conspiracy.

Helms said U.S. efforts to overthrow Castro were known throughout the government and by Kennedy himself, although others did not know of the efforts to kill the Cuban leader.

During the Warren Commission's investigation of Kennedy's death, Helms was the head of the CIA's clandestine services. He served as the agency's liaison to the commission. But he said it was not his position to tell the commission members about the CIA plots against Castro. It was, he said, the duty of higher officials.

"I don't want to take the entire blame," Helms said.

Helms said he knew of no one in the CIA who felt the plots against Castro might have a connection with Kennedy's assassination.

"This didn't come readily to mind at the time," he said.

Rep. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., suggested to Helms that it was the Warren Commission's job and not the duty of the CIA to decide whether the Castro assassination plots should be investigated in connection with Kennedy's murder.

"That's right," Helms said.

"Was there a conscious decision on your part not to tell the Warren Commission?" Dodd asked.

"No, it never entered my mind," Helms replied.

Later, the exchanges between Helms and committee members became more caustic.

"Apparently it's nothing new to you people to assassinate somebody," charged Rep. Harold Sawyer, D-Mich.

Helms gripped his chin in his hand and stared in silence at the congressman, then replied: "I'm counting to 10. That's what my mother taught me to do under such circumstances."

Later, Helms said he did not remember telling a reporter that the committee asked dumb questions, adding: "I think this inquisition has been admirably handled."

Helms told the committee that the particular CIA operation in progress against Cuba on Nov. 22, 1963 — the day Kennedy was assassinated — was not a plot to kill Castro but an effort "to mount a coup" against him.

The Senate intelligence committee disclosed that the day Kennedy was killed a CIA agent turned a poison device over to a Cuban official to be used against Castro. The mission was never carried out.

Earlier, Helms acknowledged that he approved three years of solitary confinement and "hostile interrogation" of a Soviet defector who said he had information on Oswald's activities in Russia.

The CIA did not believe the defector, Yuri Nosenko, and passed its assessment to the Warren Commission, which then decided it did not need to question Nosenko.

Defending the CIA's handling of Nosenko, Helms told the committee: "You're damned if you hold him too long and treat him badly, but you're damned if you don't try to find out if he's telling the truth."

Nosenko defected to the United States in 1964, claiming he had been a high-ranking Soviet KGB official and had extensive knowledge of Oswald's activities during his three-year stay in Russia.

Helms said he was not told how badly Nosenko was treated but contended it should be no surprise that a defector with such information was held in isolation and questioned.

"What would you do with him?" Helms asked. "Put him up in the Hilton?" Helms testified that the CIA operation failed to establish the truth of Nosenko's contention that Oswald had no connection with the Soviet secret police.

The CIA had disclosed last week that the defector was held three years in a concrete vault with little food, suffered mental harassment, and was considered by one unnamed CIA official as a prime candidate for murder or being driven "to the looney bin."

"Those options were never shown to me," Helms said. "I want to put to rest once and for all that this was ever considered by the agency."

The one-time CIA chief said he was never told of such conditions although he said he knew "they were Spartan."

John Limond Hart, a CIA spokesman, had testified on Sept. 15 that Nosenko was held most of those three years in a costly and specially constructed vault that was camouflaged by a fake building.

Saying the CIA's handling of the prisoner "was an abomination" and "the most dismal I have ever seen," Hart related how Nosenko was watched continuously and not allowed to read or occupy himself in any other way.

He said that when Nosenko fashioned a chess set out of clothing, the CIA took it away from him.

When Nosenko made a calendar out of lint on the floor, "desperately trying to keep track of time," Hart said, it was swept away — and Nosenko would start another one.

Helms said one of Nosenko's guards told him during the past few days that Nosenko exaggerated about getting too little food.

However, Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, the committee's chairman, told Helms the CIA has confirmed that Nosenko's food "was restricted."

Brezhnev Denounces Camp David Accords

FOR YOUR WANT ADS CALL 762-8821

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev denounced the Egyptian-Israeli Camp David accords Friday as an illusory settlement that "can only make the situation in the Middle East even more explosive."

In a speech in Baku, capital of Soviet Azerbaijan in the southwestern part of the country, Brezhnev said despite progress on strategic arms talks, influential Americans were seeking to revive "a new edition of the Cold War."

He cited recent chills in U.S.-Soviet relations and added "it appears that some influential circles in the United States are deliberately provoking the Soviet Union, wishing to aggravate the situation still further."

Brezhnev's comments on the Camp

David accords were blunt and tough-worded, but Western diplomats said they were not surprised since the Kremlin harshly condemned the summit even before it began.

Moscow has denounced talks between Egypt and Israel since Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's trip to Jerusalem last November.

Brezhnev attacked "the stubborn refusal of Israel, and the forces on which it relies, to take into consideration the legitimate rights and interests of the Arab peoples."

He said Israel was trying to make "behind-the-scenes separate deals with those who are ready to trade in Arab interests."

"The intention is absolutely clear: to split the Arabs, set them at loggerheads and to impose separately on the Arab countries terms of settlement that suit the aggressor," Brezhnev said.

But he contended that "all attempts to ignore the cardinal preconditions of a true settlement of the Middle East problem, to exclude or sidestep some lawful participants in the settlement, to sacrifice their interests, to dictate terms to them can produce nothing but illusions of a settlement."

Tragedy No Deterrent To Theatrical Couple

By JANE RICHARDS
WINFIELD, Kan. (NEA) — Bruce and Veda Rogers' dream of establishing their own summer theater began to materialize in 1969. That was when they bought an old barn near Vassar, Kan., and converted it into a playhouse.

In 1974, the couple expanded their activities with the purchase of the showboat, Whippoorwill.

They had even bigger plans for 1978. But on June 17, an unexpected storm — officials called it "an act of God" — capsized the showboat and claimed 16 lives. The storm also caused at least $20,000 in damage to the boat and its furnishings.

"It had been a shoestring operation for nine years," Bruce said. "We were just beginning to get on top of it."

Lubbock Avalanche-Journal Saturday, September 23, 1978

The Rogers were never blamed for the Whippoorwill catastrophe. The boat had been inspected, licensed and insured. Life-saving gear was on board.

When they were convinced nothing could have prevented the tragedy — after the last body had been recovered and memorial services had been held for a member of the Whippoorwill crew — the Rogers decided "the show must go on." Just four days after the storm, they reopened the Vassar Playhouse to a full house. Dinner-theater cruises on the repaired and refurbished Whippoorwill resumed within three weeks. Sympathetic friends and admirers rallied to their side.

The Rogers say words cannot describe their anguish at the showboat accident. But despite their recent difficulties, they have not given up their ambitious plans for expanding their summer playhouse into "Vassar Junction."

"Vassar Junction," Veda explains, "will be a place where people can come to enjoy a gourmet dinner, a show, music and entertainment in the lounge, an art gallery, even flowers."

"We plan to have several artists-in-residence, who will be encouraged to create without having to worry about a place to live or where their next meal is coming from," she continues. "We feel that there are so many ways to be creative — on stage, in the studio, even in the kitchen and the garden. What we want is to provide a place where this can happen."

To make it happen, Bruce and Veda resigned their teaching jobs this spring and put their family home in Winfield on the market. They moved to Vassar to devote all their time and energy to make their dream come true.

BACK IN OPERATION — Tragedy struck Bruce and Veda Rogers in June when their showboat, the Whippoorwill, capsized in a freak storm. But the courageous couple had the boat back in operation within weeks. (NEA Photo)

Ex-Militant Aids In Changing Black Image With New Town

By TOM TIEDE
SOUL CITY, N.C. (NEA) — Late in the 1960s, amidst the struggle for civil rights in the black community, Floyd McKissick looked around and came to a harsh conclusion: "Too many people had that image of the black man on the corner with his fist in the air and nothing in his head or pocket."

And so McKissick, a one-time fish peddler, set out to change the image. He decided to build a new town to prove "the viability of black participation in the free enterprise system." In 1968 he mortgaged his personal property, begged more than $1 million in loans, and began to option the land for Soul City.

Of course, everyone thought he was loony. For one thing, new towns were not built by individuals, they were built by wealthy corporations. Then too, McKissick could not have chosen a better location in which to fail: Warren County, N.C., is small, poor, and situated near the economic edge of U.S. civilization.

Still, McKissick was insistent. And today, 10 years later, his faith in his idea is apparently being vindicated. New York it ain't but Soul City, population 200, is slowly taking form. The streets are paved, the public utility cables have been placed underground, and some 50 families live here in trim new homes.

The 5,000-acre community is still largely empty. Yet the swimming pool is filled with area children, the tennis courts have been occupied all summer, and as many as 250 people work here daily. Most jobs are in construction or administration: a hundred other workers are employed in a manufacturing plant.

To be sure, none of this development has come in the absence of tribulation. McKissick has had numerous tangles in the last decade, including one with the Ku Klux Klan. Early on, the Klan was part of a Warren County element that belittled Soul City; later, newspapers and public officers were to join the skeptics.

McKissick says now he understands the suspicion. After all, he was a militant black, former head of the Congress of Racial Equality, and "people wondered if Soul City was going to be a refuge for revolutionaries." He says he spent years convincing observers that the town would be multi-racial, quiet and neighborly.

But suspicions continued. McKissick borrowed $10 million in federally guaranteed loans, and critics questioned what he was doing with it. There were newspaper editorials suggesting skulduggery. Some were saying McKissick was making himself rich. Eventually, U.S. Sen. Jesse Helms (R-N.C.) demanded an inquiry.

The inquiry took place in 1975. And as McKissick believes, it was a godsend. The Government Accounting Office searched Soul City's books for weeks, and concluded they were clean.

In fact, the GAO found that the government owed Soul City $37. McKissick says the federal acquittal turned his project around.

Suddenly, the skepticism and criticism faded. New grant money began to come in. State and local agencies started to respond. Says McKissick, "For years we had spent money getting ready to build. Putting in water and public utilities, for example. Now at last we could start with the bricks and mortar."

Not that a metropolis has followed. Soul City advertises that it is located on a major interstate (85), and is within 500 miles of 63 major cities, yet industry continues to be unimpressed. The "A. Phillip Randolph Industrial Park" here is all but empty — and, without business, the town is still only a promise.

Yet McKissick insists the promise is stronger than ever. Of $10 million borrowed, Soul City still has $2 million in the bank, collecting interest. Land here that once sold for $200 an acre is now worth 50 times that. Of 14 new towns being built in America, Soul City is the only one regularly paying bond premiums.

As for the master plan, it is essentially on schedule. The idea is to have 13,000 houses built in 30 years. McKissick says more than 40,000 people will live here then, in homes that now cost $25-$75,000. He adds there will be jobs for all, 1,500 acres of green space, and major shopping and theatre complexes.

Best of all, McKissick says there will be harmony in Soul City. Harmony with the environment, the society, and each other. "The whole idea is to improve the human condition," he explains, "so if we get a white dude who says he don't like a black cat, we get them together and tell them we don't allow that stuff."

There remains much to be done toward these goals. Raising the rest of the money, for instance. Ever the optimist, McKissick says the community can be finished for about $75 million. Others think that's too low by half. Meantime, lending institutions are increasingly reluctant to deal with hard-pressed new towns.

But so what if the odds look risky? After 10 years of gambling, Soul City is alive and well. Residents call it the most innovative economic development program ever created by a black American. And even if it isn't, says Floyd McKissick, ex-radical, it's better than standing on corners waving empty fists.

good way to work off aggressions, anxieties and problems."

Last year the couple starred in "Trouble in Tahiti," the theater's entry in the Festival of American Community Theaters. They won the Kansas competition and placed second in the regionals.

Theater has been more than an avocation for the Rogers since 1969, when they purchased the barn that was to become Vassar Playhouse. They also bought an adjoining rock house, which along with several trailers, is now their living quarters.

The next year, they founded the Lakeside Players, a company of 25 to 30 young people seeking theatrical experience. The players not only present the Playhouse and Whippoorwill shows; they sell tickets, write publicity, build sets, prepare meals, take care of the grounds, even keep the Whippoorwill engine running.

The three Rogers children are charter members of the Lakeside Players. Daughters Kate and Margaret, both survivors of the Whippoorwill catastrophe, are performing arts majors in college. Son Cris is a high school senior.

"Our children enjoy the whole operation," Veda notes happily. "Together, I know they could run the whole show. It's a good feeling."

At this rate, the Rogers may be building a Kansas theatrical dynasty to rival Broadway's Barrymores of old.

Instructor Gets Cut In Rank

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A Marine drill instructor convicted of firing blanks from an M-16 rifle at a 17-year-old recruit has been reduced one grade in rank as punishment, a Marine spokesman said.

Sgt. Allen G. Connor, 24, of Brooklyn, N.Y., was sentenced Thursday by a general court-martial board that convicted him a day earlier of firing the blanks at Pvt. William L. Taylor of Dallas.

Taylor suffered minor burns and bru-ses during the incident last December at Camp Pendleton when recruits were undergoing rifle training.

Connor was allegedly angered because Taylor interrupted a conversation between Connor and another drill instructor.

Connor also was accused of obstructing justice by asking Taylor to report that he was hurt when struck in the face by a tumbledweed.

Local Volunteer Enjoys Fair Competition

By JANICE JARVIS
Family News Staff

Every year at about this time Mrs. Claudia Burden holds history in her hands, at least history in the forms of china mugs and porcelain dolls.

For 15 years Mrs. Burden has volunteered to work in the antique division of the women's building at the South Plains Fair.

She begins work a week before the fair gets underway, although keeping up with information on antiques is a full-time job. The antiques must be identified and judged before they are put on display. When the fair opens Mrs. Burden then must keep a watchful eye on the antiques while answering questions and explaining the history behind antiques.

As a collector of miniature antiques herself, Mrs. Burden is familiar with antiques of all kinds. Slipping a reproduction past her would be next to impossible. "You can't always be positive that it's a fake but there are usually clues that tip you off," she said. Recently a law was passed that requires all antique reproductions to be marked, she explained. There are also books available with information about antique reproductions.

Mrs. Burden also studies the condition of the antique to determine its authenticity. In china, the mellowness of the color also can indicate age, and the detailing in the pattern can serve as another clue to its age. "Early pieces of china had drawings of a woman's face on them that weren't very realistic," explained Mrs. Gladys Hodges, another volunteer in the antique division.

Cut glass is a little more difficult to classify, according to Mrs. Hodges. "A piece of glass can be 100 years old and still sparkle as if it were brand new," she said.

In order for a piece to qualify as an antique it must be at least 50 years old, with the exception of Depression glass, which is only 30 years old. The better the condition of the piece the better its chances of winning.

Both Mrs. Burden and Mrs. Hodges noted that working in the antique division is an valuable educational experience. People like to write up the history of antiques or just tell us about a piece that's been in their families for years," noted Mrs. Burden.

Part of the fun of working at the fair is meeting so many people who are interested in antiques, explained Mrs. Burden. She noted that younger people have shown a growing interest in antiques. "It seems to be the nostalgia craze that's started them collecting antiques," she said.

Mrs. Burden explained that her favorite antiques are the children's toys. "One year I especially liked some miniature furniture that was carved so intricately it looked like a reproduction of normal-sized furniture," she explained.

Another interesting display Mrs. Burden noted was an eyeglass carrying case. "There were various glasses in the case and in the past a person would try on every pair of glasses until he found some that worked," she explained.

Some of the items on display in the antique division are difficult to identify, according to Mrs. Burden. "When a farm tool's use isn't known, we just keep searching until we find someone who knows what it is," she explained.

Many of the items displayed have disappeared from use today but Mrs. Burden noted that she always enjoys seeing items that she can remember seeing her mother use. Butter molds, churns and spoon holders are just a few of these familiar objects, according to Mrs. Burden.

Mrs. Burden is already bursting with enthusiasm for this year's collection of antiques. To make the job a little easier this year she will have two generations of helpers: her daughter, Mrs. Pat Williams, and grandson Edward, four and a half months old.

FUN AT THE FAIR — Mrs. Claudia Burden and grandson Edward Williams have already had their share of fun at this year's Panhandle South Plains Fair. Mrs. Burden works as a volunteer in the antiques and relies category of the Women's Division. Edward, 4½-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Williams of Cotton Center, finds an antique toy rabbit is good for a laugh. (Staff photo by Jim Watkins)

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY
DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you please discuss phantom pain? My brother had to have a leg removed after an accident and still has much pain. Is this inevitable? He takes pain-killing drugs every few hours, and has to take a healthy drink of brandy before going to bed so as to get to sleep. Otherwise, he is doing fine walking on his artificial leg. How can he get rid of the pain? — W.M.

Phantom pain, once it begins, is difficult to control.

Strangely enough, phantom pain (pain felt as though originating in the amputated limb), does not occur under age six. In adults, it may be severe enough to require strong pain killers. It can be due to something as easily correctable as a poorly-fitted prosthesis (artificial limb). Commonly it is caused by a neuroma (nerve tumor) at the end of a severed nerve. A nerve end may become imbedded in scar tissue to cause it, or there may not be sufficient muscle padding in the stump. A tumor may form at the end of the severed bone. In other cases, pain may be partly psychological, related to the loss of the limb.

If any of these causes can be pinpointed the problem can be corrected.

Much phantom pain has been prevented in recent years by use of new techniques immediately after surgery IPOP (immediate post-surgical prosthesis) is one. The stump is covered with a rigid (plaster of paris) dressing and a temporary artificial limb attached. The patient is encouraged to use the device by about 24 hours after surgery, increasing the weight bearing on a day to day basis. In one study, not a single case of phantom pain was reported using the IPOP technique.

This is, of course, of no help to your brother at this stage. Rather he should return to the surgeon and attempt to uncover one of the causes mentioned above. He should also inquire about the use of alcohol. It is not to be used with certain pain-killing drugs.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would it be harmful to eat only broiled chicken and a few lettuce leaves three days in a row to lose weight, and would it be OK to use this diet once a month until you lose your desired pounds? — J.C.B.

There's no harm in the broiled chicken-lettuce program, but it's questionable whether using it for three days a month will produce much loss. To be effective you have to be on a lowered calorie intake continuously, not sporadically. This is one of the lost secrets of reducing I mention in my booklet on the subject. Broiled chicken and lettuce might be a palatable lunch or dinner, but it leaves much to be desired as breakfast fare, for example. For a more sensible program see the booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing." Send your address and I'll mail a copy. Readers may obtain it by sending 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Thosteson, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Confidential to Concerned — Various substances can accumulate in a depressed navel cavity. The likelihood is that the blackness is due to fungus or yeast invasion. Have your doctor check this to determine the cause of the problem.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I would like to reply to the self-appointed authority on rotten fathers. She refused to take in the "lousy bum" even if he was starving to death, because "he had never done anything in his whole life but cause trouble." My father is alcoholic and by her standards I am sure he is also a "lousy bum." My three younger sisters and two brothers have all but thrown him out of the house in the dead of winter at least five times — every holiday ruined, holes hammered into locked bedroom doors, telephones ripped out, furniture and dishes broken, suppers thrown on the floor, bicycles pawned, money stolen, neighbors complaining, police at the door. Talk about hell — we lived it.

Yet I hold no bitterness in my heart. My father hates his drinking more than we do, but he is too weak to conquer it. He is a brilliant man and could have had a wonderful career. Instead, he has known nothing but misery and defeat.

I am happily married now and if Mom goes first, I'll take Dad in if he wants to come. — A Daughter Who Understands

Dear Daughter: You sound like an angel to me. There's got to be a special place in heaven for people like you. If you do take your father in, join Al-Anon. It's in the phone book and could be a tremendous help to you — and to him.

Dear Ann: I hope you won't think I'm crazy — but here's my problem and I do need help.

I'm a newly married woman (age 24) and my husband and I love our small apartment. Our back porch runs the length of four apartments. We are in the middle. Our dinette windows face the back porch.

The woman who lives on the end has strung a laundry line the length of the porch. She must wash every day because those lines are never without clothes on them. Not only is it embarrassing when we have company (her underwear and chin-strap are ugly), but the clothes throw grotesque shadows on our walls and ceiling and it scares me to death when I'm alone.

We were told when we moved in that the porch belongs to all of us so I realize the neighbor has the right to do this. Is it worth talking to our landlord about? I hate to make trouble. — Quandy Over Laundry

Dear Q: Ask the landlord if he will furnish venetian blinds for the dinette windows. If he says no, buy them yourself. It will be well worth the investment.

Can drugs be a friend in time of stress? If you keep your head together can they be of help? Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs" separates the fact from the fiction. Get it today. For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (28 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995 Chicago, Illinois 60611. MAIL ORDER MONEY
NAPLES, Italy (WNS) — Maria Fermi, 48, ran into trouble filling out a government form because it asked for her place of employment. "Where do you earn your money?" asked a helpful assistant. Maria said that she got it at the post office. "So you work at the post office?" a helpful assistant asked. Mrs. Fermi replied, "No, my brother in Chicago sends me checks there."

Dear Chopped: Next time you dine out with these friends go gourmet style and outdo the kid. When the bill arrives, announce it isn't fair to stick them with your extravagant taste. Insist that each family pay its own check — "now and in the future." That should do it.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

A spade lead would spoil all South's fun at six diamonds, but you can't fault West for opening his partner's suit.

South wins trick one with the ace of hearts over East's jack. He leads a trump to dummy and since both opponents follow he can afford to start on clubs. East wins the first club with the ace and leads the suit back.

South needs the rest of the tricks. Victor Mollo asks what the last three cards should be in his hand and in dummy and where he should place the lead.

It isn't a tough problem. South should cash dummy's ace of spades somewhere along the line to wind up with the queen of spades, nine of hearts, the last trump and the lead in his own hand, and the king-10 of hearts and four of spades in dummy.

Then he plays the last trump, discards the four of spades from dummy and chucks up game, slam and rubber.

Poor East must either chuck his king of spades or unguard his queen of hearts.

This type play is known as the Vienna coup and consists of setting up a defender's card as a prelude to squeezing him.

DEAR FRIENDS:

This is a little something for people who take showers.

Know how that bathroom mirror gets all foggy and the room itself feels like a steam room after a nice long hot shower?

What I do to stop this is to shower with the bathroom door open. It lets the steam out and keeps that bathroom cool and dry.

If you want to, you could try it with the door half open. It will steam up a little but nothing like being trapped in a sweat box.

Give it a try. It might make your morning a little more pleasant. I know it does mine. Hugs! — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

The tube from the inside of a toilet paper roll makes an excellent storage container for appliance cords. — Mrs. L.H. Manchester

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE:

As a parent of five children, each of whom has his share of guests in the summer, I found a neat idea to determine which bath towels are current and which had been used by departed guests.

I folded all the towels over the racks in the bathroom and within a day or two I had the answer.

The neatly folded towels had been used by the guests. My own children's towels were thrown in a heap in the corner of the bathroom. — N.A.

Funny and sad at the same time, but oh, how true! — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

When my boys lost all but two of the plastic connectors for their miniature racing car and track set, I got an idea.

I took an empty plastic milk jug and cut my own, using one of the original connectors as a pattern.

Two of the "new" connectors together worked perfectly.

A plastic bleach bottle may be even thicker and work better, but I fixed it! — Linda Harris

DEAR HELOISE:

I enjoy all the helpful hints each day and I'd like to tell you of one hint that has helped me.

Each time I bought gasoline I'd lay the gas cap on back of the trunk of the car and several times I almost forgot to replace it. One day I did forget it!

Now when I remove the gas cap I place it on the front seat where I sit. Believe me, I don't think I'll ever lose another one. — Bonnie Sherwood

DEAR HELOISE:

Here is a hint for mending the holes in fingers of gloves.

Take a wooden spoon and put the handle inside the finger of the glove to be mended and it provides a sturdy backing so you can sew the hole without sewing the finger closed.

It really works. — Betty K.

DEAR HELOISE:

I keep ginger root in the freezer. I always have fresh ginger on hand and it grates easily. — Virginia Peterson

Davis Trial Moved To Houston

FORT WORTH (AP) — The courtroom saga of millionaire Cullen Davis — the longest and costliest criminal prosecution in Texas — moved Thursday to Houston — the state's largest city and no stranger to the well born and lurid crime.

In Davis' latest episode, the dapper, stone-faced industrialist faces trial on charges of conspiring to have murdered 15 persons on a homemade "hit list."

Visiting Judge Arthur Tippis, after a three-day change of venue hearing, moved the case to the 184th District Court of Harris County, presided over by Judge Wallace C. Moore, a former war-time fighter pilot who wears a good luck penny on a chain around his neck.

Moore said Thursday said he was a "close personal friend" of defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, but said would try the case "like any other felony."

Moore said no trial date had been determined.

"When the indictment and files are transferred here and they are all in place we will have an early as possible pretrial setting to determine exactly where we are and what we are going to do," he said.

"But you can be assured it is going to be done very quickly."

That may have been in reference to the prosecution's desire to start the trial before Oct. 20. Davis was arrested Aug. 20 and state law requires that a defendant be released on bond if not tried within 60 days of his arrest.

Houston was seen as the city where both sides would have no trouble selecting a jury even though there has been massive publicity in the past two years surrounding Davis. The trial was moved out of Fort Worth because of excessive publicity.

"I would have preferred to have had the trial in Tarrant County since I was born and raised here," Davis said.

"But I believe I can get a fair trial in Harris County, and I'm pleased with Houston as a site for the trial."

Haynes, who lives in Houston, said,

"It's good to get back home and establish residency again."

Haynes said he has appeared several times previously in Judge Moore's court and said, "he's an A-Number-One guy. He's a very able lawyer and a very able judge."

Prosecutor Marvin Collins said he does not personally know the new jurist, but "by reputation, he is an excellent judge, and I would say that Harris County is an appropriate place to transfer the case. I believe we can get a fair and impartial jury in Houston."

Jack Strickland, a newly assigned prosecutor in the Davis case, said "Houston is as good a place as any and better than most. I don't know Judge Moore, but the people here are very high on him. I see no problems in Houston."

Concerning a trial date, Strickland said, "We're going to go on the assumption that we'll be going to trial very quickly."

Haynes was asked if he will be ready for trial by the Oct. 19 deadline.

He said, "I'm confident we'll exert a maximum effort to meet that deadline."

Defense lawyer Phil Burselon of Dallas said, "I'm looking forward to getting back to Houston. That's where I went to law school."

"He described Moore as a person with a 'good sense of humor' and said he is a 'very smart lawyer-judge. He's easy going but at all times in control of his court."

Burselon predicted the case could be tried within six to eight weeks or about half the time it took to prosecute Davis last year in Amarillo on a capital murder charge of killing his 12-year-old step-daughter.

"We will ask for individual 'voir dire,' Burselon said, meaning individual questioning of prospective jurors. But prosecutors said they did not expect Judge Moore to permit individual juror selection.

"I have never known a judge to allow individual voir dire except in capital cases," Assistant District Attorney Paul Gartner said.

Jury selection alone required eight weeks in Amarillo.

Tipps, who selected the new jurist, said, "My experience with fighter pilots is that they are a breed apart."

"He's sort of a no-nonsense judge. He's an interesting person. He will try the case faster than most judges."

Tipps disclosed also that Moore insisted that one of the prosecutors assigned to his Houston court assist the Tarrant County prosecutor.

There was no such assistance in Amarillo.

Tipps said he had been advised by Moore that a visiting judge would take over his pending cases in Houston, therefore enabling him to "go right into it."

Several judges in several cities had been contacted, but only three were willing to accept the case, Tipps said.

Moore, now 55, left the University of

JUDGE WALLACE C. MOORE

Florida as a freshman to enter the Air Force in World War II and kept his lucky penny in his left boot during 35 combat missions over Italy.

He later took the boots and penny along when he was called to active during the fighting in Korea, where he flew 100 missions.

While in Korea, a friend borrowed the boots and the penny was lost. Moore's plane later was shot down but he landed in a friendly area and was not injured.

Upon his return to his base, Moore looked up the friend who had lost the penny.

"He was so upset when he heard I'd been shot down he retraced every single step he took that day and found it," Moore said.

The son of a mining engineer, Moore was born in Majestic, Ala., but attended grew up in Delray Beach, Fla.

While in Air Force training in Texas, Moore decided to return to the state after the war. He attended the University of Texas and University of Houston and received his law degree from the South Texas School of Law in Houston in 1951.

After three years of law practice in Houston, Moore became an assistant district attorney and served under four Harris County district attorneys before being elected as judge of a county court-at-law on a platform that called for "full-time, conscientious, and impartial administration of justice."

Several new criminal district courts were created in Harris County by the state legislature, and Moore moved to the 184th District Court in 1969 under an appointment by Governor Preston Smith. He is now the Democratic nominee for a third four-year term.

In 1971, Moore received the Harris County Criminal Lawyers Association's first outstanding district judge award based on judicial temperament, fairness and expertise.

Davis' August arrest came after an employee told authorities Davis wanted him to hire someone to kill the judge in Davis' bitter and drawn-out divorce trial.

At a bond hearing, the prosecution produced tape recordings and video tapes showing Davis and his chief accuser, David McCoy. There is talk on the tapes of having Judge Joe Eidsen killed. A faded picture was produced which showed Eidsen's blood-spattered body in a car trunk.

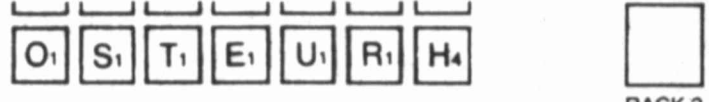

An alleged "hit list" contained Eidsen's name, along with others associated with Davis in his lengthy legal battles.

Officials Arrested For Lavish Tastes

HONG KONG (AP) — Six regional officials in central China's Honan province have been arrested and kicked out of the Communist Party on charges of corruption. Peking's official People's Daily newspaper said.

The six were accused of spending emergency drought funds for "constructing luxury buildings, giving lavish parties and free-spending." The paper said the "illegal buildings" have been confiscated and the arable lands returned to production brigades.

A capsule view of tastes, interests and attitudes

What's up on television?

Better take a good look at Mary Tyler Moore's "Mary" and Joe Namath's "The Mary Waverly Wonders" while the 1978-79 television season is young. According to US magazine, they are among the shows that will not be with us come spring.

Based on advice screenings and interviews with industry moguls, US predicts these shows — both new and old — will be the hits of the new season:

- "Battletstar Galactica" (ABC)
- "Charlie's Angels" (ABC)
- "Fantasy Island" (ABC)
- "In the Beginning" (CBS)
- "Incredible Hulk" (CBS)

- "Mork and Mandy" (ABC)
- "Soap" (ABC)

- "Vegas" (ABC)
- "WKRP in Cincinnati" (CBS)

These are the shows US expects to flop — or in the case of some old favorites, will go into a decline:

- "American Girls" (CBS)

- "Carter Country" (ABC)
- "CHiPs" (NBC)

What's up in comebacks?

Lainie Kazan found herself in the spotlight one night when she filled in for Barbra Streisand in the Broadway show, "Funny Girl." Soon she was on the top, professionally, and, she thought, financially. But stardom can be a slippery business.

During an illness, she learned her business managers were not only not taking care of her interests, but she didn't even have medical insurance. Bankruptcy followed. But now the spunky singer with the big voice is back on the right track, as entertainment director for her own rooms at the New York and Los Angeles Playboy Clubs.

A wiser Lainie says this today about the business side of show biz: "I think there should be an education program for people studying theater to learn business, too. You have to use your business acumen no matter what you do."

"Younger women in the entertainment business ask me questions — they don't know where to go, whom to contact, whom to learn from. The female entertainer is still looked upon as a child, dependent on everyone."

At least Lainie Kazan is her own woman now.

What's up in lighting?

Days are getting shorter. That means the electric lights in our homes are getting more use. Here are some tips for cutting lighting costs from General Electric:

1. Switch from incandescent to fluorescent lighting. A double 20-watt fluorescent kitchen ceiling fixture will provide about as much light as one 150-watt or three 60-watt incandescents at half the cost.
2. Use 50-watt reflector bulbs instead of 100-watt bulbs in pole lamps or wall units with bell-shaped holders. With standard 100-watt bulbs, most light is trapped in the holder. The small reflector hood is designed to direct the light where it's needed. (The same applies to downlights over sinks and in other parts of the home.)
3. Use three-way bulbs, instead of regular bulbs, in table lamps. The lamp can be turned on high for reading and lowered for conversation.
4. Switch from 7-watt night light to the new 4-watt night lights. The 4-watters have a clear finish, which makes them appear almost as bright as the 7-watt coated bulbs.
5. Try fluorescent stick lights under wall cabinets in the kitchen. The 33-watt units may provide enough work light to enable you to turn off ceiling fixtures.
6. Use standard-life bulbs rather than the "long life" models.
7. Convert outdoor gas lanterns to incandescent post light bulbs, if possible. Otherwise, have the gas lanterns shut off. Use safety-security floodlighting to illuminate the area.
8. Put outdoor safety-security lighting on a timer or photocell unit. That will turn the lights off automatically, eliminating all-day electricity waste if someone forgets to flick the switch. Use 75-watt flood lights instead of 150-watters.
9. Use light shades of paint or wallpaper inside your home. Light-colored surfaces reflect more light, permitting use of lower wattage bulbs.
10. Keep ceiling fixtures clean to maximize light output.

What's up in thrills?

"More than ever, people need a place to scream, says author Gary Kyriazi in explaining the popularity of roller coasters. Kyriazi, who has probably ridden more roller coasters than anyone else in the world, ranks these coasters as his favorites:

1. Shock Wave: Six Flags Over Texas, Arlington. ("It's got a double vertical loop and an overall ride that seems to hit the limits of human endurance on G forces.")
2. Mindbender: Six Flags Over Georgia, Atlanta. ("Another 1978 double looper ... they added a 45-degree tilted spiral at the end of the ride.")
3. The Revolution: Magic Mountain, Valencia, Calif. ("The first of the great steel coasters when it appeared just two years ago ... it has a single vertical loop, the first since Coney Island failed with the Loop-the-Loop back in 1900.")
4. Superdooperlooper: Hersheypark, Hershey, Pa. ("Basically the same as the Revolution, albeit shorter.")
5. The Loch Ness Monster: Busch Gardens; Williamsburg, Va. ("The new ride has two non-consecutive but interlocking vertical loops and features a pitch-dark triple spiral through a mountain.")

Computer Helping Consumers

MIAMI (AP) — Local shoppers who have trouble keeping track of all those supermarket specials now can get help — from a computer. It picks the best buys each week from among 85,000 grocery items, and it's even suggesting a week's worth of menus.

"We've got it to the point where it's telling you what to eat," said Mike Shulman, a spokesman for the "Consumer Computer" community-action project that already is helping 5,500 people do their marketing. There is no charge for the service.

Each week, food specials advertised by seven supermarket chains are punched into the computer. The machine breaks down the package price of each product into cost per unit weight.

"That's the sort of information you'd only get by using a calculator or crawling around on your hands and knees trying to read the edges of shelves," said Shulman.

The computer compares the price against what the same product was selling for a week ago, as well as with the average for the preceding year.

Armed with this information, shoppers can visit stores that are offering the best buys that week.

But the computer is doing even more. "It takes the data and feeds it against a standard set of 500 menu plans from the U.S. Department of Agriculture," said Shulman. "Using both sets of information, the computer produces 30 menus a week. Each meal includes meat, bread, starch, beverage, dessert, a fruit and a snack."

Whenever possible, the menus include items that are on sale.

Various community service organizations receive the information free of charge and distribute it to young people, welfare families and anyone who requests it.

The intricate program was designed by Mark Geigel, a 21-year-old computer scientist who graduated from the University of Miami just last year.

"I had an interest in nutrition and a lot of computer experience," Geigel said. "So it kind of struck me that one would be good with the other."

He presented his idea to community leaders, who arranged for contributions of equipment and time from local computer firms. Without the contributions, the project would have cost about $250,000, Shulman said.

CAUSE OF DERAILMENT

WASHINGTON (AP) — The derailment of an Auto-Train carrying cars and passengers near Florence, S.C., on Feb. 24 was caused by a broken locomotive axle, the National Transportation Safety Board has determined. One locomotive unit and 19 cars were derailed, injuring 24 of the 503 passengers. The board said the probable cause was "a locomotive unit axle fracture that originated in an undetected void that developed during the manufacture of the axle. ... Contributing to the cause was the lack of a system for detecting axle failure independent of crew members' inspection."

Thatcher Rebuked For Tears

LONDON (AP) — She has been called the "Iron Maiden" and the "Warrior Queen." But Margaret Thatcher, who wants to be Britain's first woman prime minister, says she cries sometimes when the pressure gets too intense.

Some Laborite opponents say that makes Mrs. Thatcher, 52, leader of the opposition Conservative Party, unfit for the job of prime minister.

Her disclosure in a women's magazine got splash play Thursday in London's popular press.

"There are times when I get home at night and everything has got on top of me when I shed a few tears, silently, alone," she said in the October issue of Woman's World.

Despite her sometimes frosty, aloof manner in politics Mrs. Thatcher described herself as "a very emotional person."

"I've never known a person to be insensitive about things which are wounding and hurtful, and I'm no exception," she was quoted as saying.

Her remarks prompted the Daily Mirror, which generally supports Prime Minister James Callaghan's Labor Party, to ask in an editorial:

"What would happen if the Russians squeezed Berlin again? Or put nuclear missiles into Cuba? 'Would everything stop while she got her hankie out?'"

The Daily Express quoted Robert Rhodes James, a Conservative member of Parliament and biographer of the late Sir Winston Churchill as saying the great wartime leader "used to weep when he was moved, not because of pressure of work."

Mrs. Thatcher claimed being a woman makes pressure easier to handle.

"It's such an enormous safety valve for a woman to know that when things aren't going too well at work, she can immerse herself in doing something practical about the house. ... It really is the answer and yet men simply don't have it."

The Thatcher interview drew some jibes from women politicians on the Labor side of the aisle.

"Good grief, for someone who wants to be prime minister it is quite a confession," remarked Mrs. Renee Short, a Labor lawmaker.

Movie Features Love Story, Tahitian Scenes

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mitch was fed up with the rat race, choked by the smog and traffic and strangled by a law practice he had grown to despise.
"I want to change our life," he tells his wife Lindy. "To something simpler. Deeper."
Lindy isn't sold. She prefers the good life in Newport Beach. Yet she reluctantly joins Mitch as he pursues his dream of sailing "the perfect yacht" to Tahiti.

The title of the movie is "Overboard," which tells a lot. Lindy falls overboard during her watch and the film is told largely through flashbacks as Mitch searches desperately for her in the vast expanse of the South Pacific.
Award-winner Cliff Robertson is Mitch and Angie Dickinson is Lindy. Above all else, it is a love story, and the two convey a sense of passion that is entwined with the tension that threatens to pull their marriage apart.
"Overboard," adapted by Hank Searls from his book and directed by John Newland, airs on NBC at 9 p.m. EDT Monday.
Although the script called for Tahitian scenes, producer Alan Jay Factor and his partner Newland looked for cheaper locales.
"We looked at Hawaii," Factor said. "We looked for alternatives. But if you have a place that a man dreams about all his life, the back end of Hawaii or Catalina didn't seem appropriate."
So it was to Tahiti for three weeks of filming. Factor said NBC picked up part of the cost. UTA French Airlines contributed some free transportation and the Tahiti Tourist Development Board smoothed the way. Still, it added $50,000 to the budget.
But the trip paid big dividends pictori-ally. The sea scenes showing the sloping terrain of Tahiti or mountainous Moorea looming in the background are magnificent. The capital of Papeete is a vibrant little city, the crossroads of the Pacific, and its waterfront French market, the quaint Hotel Stuart and bustling streets are effectively used.

"The logistics of shooting there were staggering," Factor said. "We had a lot of cooperation, but still there was a very heavy film tax, going in and going out. One of our biggest problems was U.S. Customs. They held up our film until they made sure it wasn't pornographic. They wouldn't believe that we were just making a TV movie."
On a location-scouting trip, Factor also

Decision Expected In Water Battle

AUSUTIN — A decision is expected in November in the current phase of the lawsuit between Texas and New Mexico over the Pecos River Compact, Assistant Attorney General Doug Carrom reports.
That dispute, centering on the alleged failure of New Mexico to deliver an accumulated deficit of 1,400,000 acre-feet of water, is being heard in Denver by Special Judge Jean Breitenstein.
In the latest round of arguments, Texas' interstate compact coordinator, Bob Whitenton of the Department of Water Resources, testified for a day and a half, principally on engineering techniques for implementing the compact.
Breitenstein has indicated concern that even if he decides what constitutes the 1947 condition of the river, a key question in the disagreement, the compact may not be workable, Carrom said.
Therefore, Carrom reported, Whitenton was called to testify on how the compact could be made to work.

looked for a yacht that could be matched with an American boat for the California scenes. Otherwise, it meant sailing a boat to Tahiti.
Luck was with him. In Papeete, he found not one, but three that were among five identical yachts manufactured in Hong Kong.
Angie Dickinson was in the first TV movie Factor and Newland made after forming their partnership. "A Sensitive, Passionate Man." Newland knew her from his years as principal director for her series, "Police Woman."
Factor said "Overboard," like "A Sensitive, Passionate Man," ends honestly. "NBC was good in allowing us to have those endings," he said. "Someone at another network told me if they had done 'Overboard' they would have changed the ending. They would never have allowed the honesty of our ending."

U.S., South Africa Hold Nuclear Talks

By ROBERT MANNING
Pacific News Service
WASHINGTON—The United States and South Africa are close to agreement on a secret deal to insure South Africa's nuclear future in exchange for the country signing the nuclear non-proliferation treaty and submitting to international inspections.

The bargain was arranged during meetings in Pretoria on June 25 to 28 between President Carter's top nuclear negotiator, Ambassador-at-large Gerard C. Smith and South African officials.

The U.S. delegation included senior State Department nuclear expert Charles Van Doren, and the South African delegation included Foreign Minister P.K. Botha and Dr. A.J. Roux, who heads South Africa's Atomic Energy Board and the Uranium Enrichment Corp.

Most of the details of the complex plan have been worked out, but it remains for Prime Minister John Vorster to set it in motion.

"The ball is now in South Africa's court," said an Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (ACDA) source. The agency source expects Vorster to "respond affirmatively," perhaps before October. But State Department sources said they don't expect Vorster to respond "for several months" because "it's hard enough getting the Afrikaners to swallow their pride on our Namibia (independence) plan." These sources said Vorster wouldn't be able to sell the nuclear deal at home.

The talks were triggered by concern that South Africa was on the verge of exploding a nuclear device. Soviet Premier Brezhnev told Carter in 1977 that photos taken by a Soviet satellite over the Kalahari Desert detected evidence that South Africa was building a site to launch a nuclear explosion.

After checking, American intelligence was so convinced by the evidence that Carter warned Vorster and began the diplomatic action.

South Africa still maintains that the Kalahari complex is only developing nuclear energy for peaceful use. But Carter wants the South Africans to sign the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty and make it official. For many years the South African government has refused to sign the treaty, primarily because it could result in an invasion of the secrecy of South Africa's uranium enrichment technology.

The process of enriching uranium is necessary before the strategic mineral can be used either to make weapons or to run power plants. South Africa is one of only seven nations with such sophisticated technology.

Whether or not South Africa is interested in making nuclear weapons, the country does have an ambitious nuclear energy program and hopes to be able to export enriched uranium by the 1980s.

Under the arrangement that appears to be unfolding, South Africa is expected to agree "in principle" to sign the non-proliferation treaty. It then would discuss the inspection of South African nuclear facilities by the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) and an IAEA team would visit South Africa.

Finally, the government would sign the non-proliferation treaty, and the safeguard system would be implemented. This procedure generally takes 24 months.

In return, the United States would approve a South African request for nuclear fuel which Carter has held up pending a nuclear power plant and its experimental "Safar I" uranium enrichment plant at Valindaba.

The United States has had a nuclear cooperation agreement with South Africa for more than 20 years. Under the agreement the United States supplied nuclear fuel and other research material to Safar I. In return, Pretoria has allowed international inspection of Safar I and promised to use U.S.-supplied material for peaceful purposes.

But Safar I already is reported to be running short of fuel, and other American technology will be required to run two French-built reactors to be operable by 1981.

The Vorster regime has announced plans to expand its secret pilot enrichment plant called Valindaba in order to produce some 250 tons annually, which could meet South Africa's domestic needs. The new safeguard agreement that the United States is pressing with South Africa would open up Valindaba to international inspection for the first time.

Aside from the problem of working out inspection procedures, legislation passed by the U.S. Congress in March bans the export of enrichment technology. But some analysts believe the terms of the legislation would still permit the United States to supply equipment until 1980.

United States officials believe South Africa already has atomic weapons or has the capability to produce the bomb within a few months, and according to a just-published book, "The Nuclear Axis," by Zdenek Cervena and Barbara Rogers, Pretoria is already operating a secret plutonium reprocessing plant producing the essential ingredients for an H-bomb.

China-Vietnam Conflict Poses Tough Choice For Americans

By GARETH PORTER
Pacific News Service

The deepening conflict between China and Vietnam poses a new issue for U.S. policy in Asia: Should the United States establish ties with Vietnam at the risk of displeasing China, or should it continue to tilt toward China, with the risk that Vietnam will be pushed further into the Soviet camp?

The issue goes beyond the grand designs of the triangular politics of the United States, China and the Soviet Union. For the path taken by the United States could help lead to either peace and stability among Southeast Asia's communist and non-communist neighbors or to further suspicions that could polarize the region into warring camps.

Already there are two competing views within the Carter administration, one favoring stronger ties to China at the expense of Vietnam, the other favoring an evenhanded stance toward the two states.

Until this summer, any relationship with Vietnam seemed distant, given Hanoi's demand for postwar reconstruction aid as a precondition to normal diplomatic relations. Then on July 11, Vietnamese Deputy Foreign Minister Phan Hien declared that Hanoi was prepared to normalize relations with the United States without preconditions.

Since then, Hanoi has made it clear, both publicly and privately, that it wants to establish diplomatic relations as soon as possible. The Vietnamese are clearly adjusting their diplomacy to the serious threat they feel from China, which they now rank as their primary enemy.

The State Department's Far Eastern Bureau is said to be eager to normalize relations with the Vietnamese at an early date. The primary interest in establishing diplomatic ties with Vietnam has always been to increase U.S. diplomatic influence in Hanoi and offset that of the Soviet Union. Even Henry Kissinger, whose hostility toward the Vietnamese Communists was well known, admitted that the Vietnamese wanted relations with the United States to become more independent of the Soviets and the Chinese.

President Carter alluded to the same consideration when he said in a March 1977 news conference that the Vietnamese "might very well want to balance their friendship with us with their friendship with the Soviet Union and not be completely dependent upon the Soviet Union."

But National Security Adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski, the primary proponent in the administration of "playing the China card"—or strengthening U.S.-Chinese ties—reportedly argued that early normalization with Vietnam would complicate U.S. efforts to cement its ties with China.

The Chinese have begun to tell Americans privately that they do not want the United States to enter into diplomatic relations with Vietnam. According to informed sources, they compare Vietnam today with Cuba in 1962 as a security threat because of Soviet military influence in both countries.

Following Brzezinski's Peking trip last May, sources indicated that the White House mood toward relations with Vietnam was negative. Normalization of relations with China, which the administration had planned for 1980, has been moved up to 1979 as a result of the Brzezinski trip. But the problem of getting China to agree to a formula on Taiwan that would be acceptable to Congress is expected to take many months of negotiations and maneuvering. Establishing relations with Vietnam in the meantime would be an affront to China.

So far, the State Department, which favors quickly establishing full diplomatic relations with China, has prevailed on also normalizing relations with Vietnam.

Assistant Secretary Richard Holbrooke, chief of the Far Eastern Bureau, repeated in a mid-June speech that the United States would exchange ambassadors with Hanoi without preconditions, and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance reaffirmed that position in early August.

"Naturally we are going to take China into account," said one State Department official, "but we aren't going to give them a veto."

Although State Department sources say no date has been set for another round of talks with Vietnam, Holbrooke is expected to meet with Vietnamese Deputy Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach during the upcoming U.N. General Assembly sessions. An agreement before 1979 is considered likely, State Department sources said, unless Brzezinski persuades Carter to reverse the current policy at the last minute.

Beyond establishing diplomatic and trade relations, the administration also must define the relationship it wants with Vietnam. Should Hanoi be treated as a bulwark of stability and peace in a Southeast Asia free of great power influence or a threat to regional security, an agent of Soviet influence. Again, Brzezinski and the State Department appear to have very different views.

During his toast at the welcoming banquet in Peking, Brzezinski declared, "We recognize—and share—China's resolve to resist the efforts to any nation which seeks to establish global or regional hegemony."

The Chinese had long been privately warning other countries in the region that Vietnam sought "regional hegemony" in Southeast Asia. State Department officials said Brzezinski's words could only have been interpreted in Peking and Hanoi as agreement with the Chinese view, and they complained to the White House that Brzezinski, in effect, made policy in a new area without prior consultation with them.

But a White House source said Brzezinski ski does not yet have a position on the Chinese charges that Vietnam is expansionist, explaining that he has been too preoccupied with the Middle East to study the question. Yet Brzezinski apparently did nothing to indicate any disagreement with his Chinese hosts on their views on the matter.

Officials in the State Department's Far Eastern Bureau have their own assessment of Vietnamese policies, which differs sharply from China's. They regard China's fear that Vietnam will offer the Soviets a military base as a groundless. The Vietnamese, they believe, are so independent they would never permit the Soviets to have overwhelming influence or a military presence. Nor do the officials see Vietnam as having any intention of sending troops beyond Indochina. Since Kissinger left the department, U.S. officials have been privately reassuring Thailand that there is no reason to fear Vietnamese designs on its territory.

As for Chinese allegations of Vietnamese aggression against Cambodia, these officials do not put all the blame on Vietnam, recalling the major Cambodian attacks of April and September 1977, which penetrated six miles into Vietnam territory. Moreover, they agree with the Vietnamese charges that the Cambodian regime of Pol Pot has perpetrated crimes against its own population, and some U.S. officials are not upset at the prospect that Pol Pot might be replaced by a more moderate regime supported by the Vietnamese—provided that the Vietnamese do not march into Phnom Penh.

The way in which the Carter administration characterizes and deals with Vietnam in the future can be expected to have a major impact on Vietnam's relations with non-Communist Southeast Asia. Until 1978 Hanoi expressed suspicion toward the Association of Southeast Nations (ASEAN).

Hanoi is trying to reach agreement with all five members of ASEAN on such a zone, which would symbolically unite Vietnam with its non-Communist neighbors.

Such an agreement, which the Carter administration has quietly encouraged, would be the logical conclusion of the trend toward accommodation between former foes. But now that China and Vietnam are rivals for influence, the Chinese are openly opposing any agreement between Vietnam and non-Communist Southeast Asia as a Soviet-inspired ploy.

New Hampshire Democrats Remain Loyal To Carter

By CLAY F. RICHARDS

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UPI) — Despite increased activity by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and rumblings from California Gov. Jerry Brown, New Hampshire Democratic leaders are remaining steadfastly loyal to President Carter.

The early action in this state that did so much to launch Carter's presidential drive in 1976 is aimed at getting him the nomination in 1980.

Even in private chats New Hampshire Democrats say they feel Carter is more popular here than the polls have shown. Unemployment is among the lowest in the country, and they blame Congress, not Carter, for stalling on energy legislation.

"I think he's doing pretty well up here," said Sen. Thomas McIntyre, D-N.H. "And our problems are not as bad as they are in some areas."

"I'd give him about a 'C' rating," McIntyre said. "I think it is not a question of the people thinking he has done a bad job. They understand he has tackled a lot of tough ones, and he has not always succeeded. He's not always been able to deliver the goods."

There is a feeling that whatever damage has been done to Carter's image can be repaired by the president spending a day or two in the state mending fences.

"I think he needs to pay more attention to the people of New Hampshire," said Dudley Dudley, the only woman and only Democrat on the five-member New Hampshire Governor's Executive Council. A liberal who supported Morris Udall in 1976, Mrs. Dudley said she expects Carter to be challenged in 1980, and said she isn't ready to declare her candidate yet.

Chris Sprou, the Democratic House leader, says the Carter administration has created an image in New Hampshire just the opposite of by the conservative no-tax government of Republican Gov. Meldrim Thomson.

"What Mel Thomson has done is make the people of New Hampshire feel comfortable in misery," Sprou said. "The Carter administration has made the citizens feel uncomfortable in prosperity."

He's reduced unemployment by three points; he's got business booming and no one identifies him with that."

Sprou, a liberal who supported Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana in 1976, said he would discourage any challenge to Carter in 1980.

"If the President asks me, I expect to be in the front lines and if he doesn't ask me, since we have a volunteer army, I'll volunteer for the front lines," he said.

The favorite 1980 primary game is speculating whether Kennedy will enter and when Brown will. Party leaders are torn between their loyalty to Carter and their lust for the kind of a political battle Kennedy and/or Brown would bring to the 1980 race.

Kennedy accepted an invitation to speak to the Democratic state convention in late September. Officials said the invitation was extended because he was a leading Democrat from a neighboring state.

The significance was not lost on Kennedy. When Carter's dramatic Camp David Summit conference breakthrough bolstered the President's standing, Kennedy joked that maybe he'd better cancel the appearance.

"A lot of things could happen, but I don't believe Kennedy will run," McIntyre said. "You've got to believe Ted at what he says."

"Brown is something else," McIntyre said. "He did very well out here (East) in the late primaries last time. But he'd have trouble in whipping the President up here."

"I hear there are some people checking around for Brown," Sprou said. "Whoever does eccentric politicking is going to do well in New Hampshire. The public is not looking for substance and that is a sad commentary."

"If they have to choose between style and flair and substance, flair is the choice," he said. "Even in the pope. He smiled and cracked a joke. That's all I heard."

"I don't know whether Kennedy is getting in or not," Mrs. Dudley said. "He has a lot of fans and followers here. He's a neighbor, but..." As for Brown, she said: "I don't know of anyone for him."

One long time New Hampshire political observer envisioned a 1980 scenario in which Brown does to Carter what Eugene McCarthy did to Lyndon Johnson in 1968.

This could happen, the theory goes, by making the controversial Seabrook Nuclear power plant a major issue. Brown opposes nuclear power, while Carter says it is necessary, at least temporarily.

"It only takes one person to start a brushfire here — this place is crazy," Sprou said. "Seabrook could be Brown's Vietnam war."

"It could happen," Mrs. Dudley agreed.

Political Hopefuls Advancing On New Hampshire Early

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Almost a year and a half before the first presidential primary of 1980, New Hampshire Republicans are pretty evenly divided between those who want Ronald Reagan for president and those who want someone else.

The battle lines are being drawn earlier than ever before, mostly because the state's conservative power structure — Gov. Meldrim Thomson and William Loeb, editor of the Manchester Union-Leader, want no repeat of Reagan's 1,500 vote loss to Gerald Ford in 1976.

The result is what critics call a purge by the Loeb-Thomson forces of moderates in the party structure. High on their list is former Gov. Hugh Gregg, who ran Reagan's campaign, and is thus blamed for his defeat.

Thomson and Loeb have told New Hampshire Republicans they will run the campaign this time if Reagan enters. They are confident he will, but if not, Loeb has urged Thomson to run as a favorite son.

"Reagan looks like he's going to run," said Ace Parker, a retired Navy officer who is one of Thomson's closest political advisers.

But if Reagan doesn't run, will Thomson? "I would say probably," Parker replies. "A lot of people would like to see him do it." Thomson would not comment on such a possibility.

The New Hampshire woods are already full of candidates and their workers. Rep. Phil Crane, R-Ill., the only announced candidate, comes up every time he gets a free weekend.

Sen. Robert Doie, R-Kan., has visited the state five times. George Bush, the former CIA director, has been here twice and is coming back late this month. Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., was the first potential contender to send a scouting party to the state, but they never returned much to the surprise of GOP officials. Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y. paid the state one visit.

The only potential contenders not to show up yet are Howard Baker, who hasn't started an active campaign, and John Connally, who is somewhat mistrusted by Yankee skeptics about politicians who change political allegiance.

Conservative Republicans from three New England states met in Concord in early September to discuss a Connally candidacy, but none of the New Hampshire Republicans attending was ready to endorse the Texan.

"I can't see him going anywhere in New Hampshire," said Victoria Zachos, the state's national committeewoman.

New Hampshire Republicans take all the attention their primary gets in stride.

"We're used to it," said state GOP Chairman Gerald Carmen of the early attention being paid to New Hampshire. "It's the news media that brings the candidates up here. They get a larger-than-life image."

"But we're not making any choices now," he said. "The New Hampshire voter is too sophisticated to be choosing now. They're just looking over the candidates."

Carmen says he is playing the role of a strictly neutral state chairman welcoming all comers, but he says Ford and Reagan have to be considered frontrunners because of their 1976 race.

Gregg is also taking a wait-and-see attitude, but says Bush might be in a better position than all the others because he is the only moderate in a field of conservatives — Reagan, Crane, Doie, etc.

"But there are a lot of ifs in that," Gregg said. "Bush could polarize the old Ford support while the others divide." Miss Zachos says she expected Reagan to get in in the 1980 primary, but not Ford.

"There is a likelihood of Bush finishing first," she said. On an appearance in Concord Bush attracted 450 people — an excellent early showing.

"He put on a very good show," she said. "I'm surprised that Loeb called him a liberal. He called for a strong defense — strengthen the CIA... He's a conservative to moderate."

Miss Zachos, a Ford delegate in 1976, said she did not believe Bush was a stalking horse for the former president — which has been suggested.

As the only announced candidate, Crane is given good marks by New Hampshire Republicans — but he hasn't picked up any important backing yet.

"He works hard and does a good job," Parker said. "But he is totally unknown, untested and untried. And I think people are kinda skittish having seen one unknown go into the White House."

"He made a fine impression on me," Gregg said. "He very definitely has a chance if Reagan doesn't run."

But for the most part New Hampshire Republicans say whatever Loeb and Thomson want, they will get.

"The governor holds all the patronage, and thus controls the flow of money into political campaigns," said one moderate Republican who didn't want his name used. "And every day the newspaper hammers away at the same theme. Even if you don't believe it, you hear it so often that you can't believe anything else."

California Governor Faces Tough Race

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. and Republican challenger Evelle Younger are in a tug of war for the mantle of tax cutter in the state that made Proposition 13 the prime political buzz word of 1978.

Neither candidate has ever lost a general election nor run against an incumbent. But besides their records as winners and their competing efforts to seize the issue of tax cutting, Brown and Younger give California voters a clear choice on Nov. 7.

Although the attention has focused on the race for governor, voters in the sometimes wacky world of California politics also will confront ballot propositions dealing with homosexual teachers, toughening a new death penalty law and barring smoking in public.

Brown, 40, whose late-starting challenge to Jimmy Carter's nomination in 1976 thrust him onto the national political stage, is sparing no effort or expense in his re-election drive.

He jets up and down the nation's most populous state, mixing campaign events such as voter registration efforts with reminders of his incumbency, signing bills into law.

Brown needs victory if he is to keep alive any 1980 White House ambitions. And, although he leads in the polls, Brown has a strong challenge from Younger, the state's two-term attorney general.

Balding and avuncular, the 60-year-old Republican campaigns chiefly at business conventions and luncheon groups. He roasts Brown's opposition to nuclear power development and the death penalty and accuses the governor of failing to attract new business to California.

The Brown-Younger fight has been nasty from the start and promises to cost each side more than $2 million, most of it for broadcast advertising.

The battle took an unusual turn when Younger, who cites himself as a tough law and order candidate, said that it was "inevitable" that the legislature would legalize marijuana and that he probably would sign such a bill.

Brown, who two years ago signed a bill greatly easing penalties for possession of marijuana, defended the current law as "adequate and reasonable." But he added: "I feel it is a substance that should be controlled."

K-2 Conquerors Return

SEATTLE (AP) — Three of the first four Americans to reach the summit of K2, the world's second highest mountain, are returning to the United States with ailments ranging from pneumonia to frostbite, officials say.

Despite various illnesses, Jim Wickwire, 38, of Seattle, John Roskelly, 29, of Spokane, and Lou Reichardt, 36, of San Francisco, climbed down from the 28,250-foot summit to 11,500 feet where they were airlifted out by Pakistani helicopters.

The other climbers, who are reported tired but otherwise in good condition, are winding up a 125-mile walk out of the remote K2 region.

K2 has been conquered only twice before, by an Italian team in 1954 and by a Japanese team in 1977. This was the fifth American expedition and the first successful one.

Bell Praises FBI's Webster

ST. LOUIS (AP) — U.S. Attorney General Griffin Bell said Friday that morale in the FBI has improved since William Webster took over as director of the FBI, praising Webster for his efforts.

Bell, who was in St. Louis to address the Missouri Bar Association, said he disagrees with those who contend relations between the FBI and the Department of Justice have been strained in the past, at least since he's been in office.

Bell reiterated that he plans to step down as head of the Justice Department before 1980. "I have said consistently that it would not be good for the president for me to be in Washington in 1980."

The fact that he is from Carter's home state of Georgia might "make people think that whatever rulings I make, and I have to make some difficult ones, I would be making for political reasons."

He said Carter does not agree with his insistence on resigning before 1980, saying Carter takes a "rather dim view of my logic."

Election Runoff Set To Determine Fate of Alabama Political Reform

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — The "new beginning" for Alabama politics being offered by "born again Democrat" Fob James depends on how he does Tuesday against Attorney General William J. Baxley in a Democratic runoff primary for governor.

Democratic runoff will also be held for two Senate seats and one House post. Winning the Democratic nomination for these offices in Alabama is regarded as tantamount to election.

James, 44, a former Auburn football star who has made a fortune in the sporting goods business, led the field but failed to get a majority in the Sept. 5 primary. He appealed for "a new beginning" to follow the era of retiring Gov. George C. Wallace, the state's dominant politician since 1962.

Baxley, who is counting on Wallace votes, warned that James lacks the experience to run the state.

In the contest to succeed Sen. John J. Sparkman, former state Supreme Court Chief Justice Howell Heflin sought to retain his primary lead over Rep. Walter Flowers, D-Ala.

Heflin has accused Flowers of being part of the "Washington Crowd." Flowers said Heflin has distorted his voting record.

Sen. Maryon Allen led state Sen. Donald Stewart of Anniston in the primary for the two years remaining in the term of her late husband, Sen. James B. Allen.

Wallace had announced his intention to seek Sparkman's seat, but the partially paralyzed governor withdrew after apparently seeing polls that showed he have an uphill fight. He was interested in succeeding Allen, but Mrs. Allen foiled that plan by announcing she would seek the remaining two years of her husband's term.

The only House seat open after the first primary was Flowers'. Flowers' former law partner, state Sen. Richard Shelby, was challenged by state Rep. Chris McNair of Birmingham, the father of a black girl killed in a 1963 Birmingham church bombing.

Baxley, who has black support, won a murder conviction last year against a former Ku Klux Klansman blamed for the bombing.

James capitalized on heavy television advertising to deliver his message that Alabama needs to return to basics in education and upgrade its job market and generally ignored Baxley.

Active in the Alabama Republican hierarchy until he proclaimed himself a "born again Democrat," James' candidacy was challenged but because the state has no formal party voter registration the state Democratic Executive Committee turned it down.

Baxley, 37, copied much of Wallace's fiery campaign style in attacking high utility rates. He wrote Alabama's 1975 capital punishment law, but the soothed black opposition by pledging there would never be discriminatory use of the death penalty.

The Democratic nominee for governor will face Republican nominee Guy Hunt of Cullman. Former GOP Rep. James Martin of Gadsden will battle the Democratic winner for Sparkman's seat and Elvin McCary of Anniston is the GOP candidate in the other Senate race.

Raiders Set For Home Debut Tonight

By DON HENRY
Executive Sports Editor

All week long, electrical crews have worked to get the scoreboards working for tonight. Thing is, Rex Dockery has been working longer than that for tonight.

It's the start of a new home season for Dockery, his first time to stand on the sidelines in Jones Stadium as the man at the controls.

The scoreboards are new, the masked rider is new, and the horse has seen very little varsity action.

But, many of Dockery's troops are in the same situation as the horse as the Raiders — masked and uniformed — greet unbeaten University of Arizona tonight in Jones Stadium.

Kickoff is at 8 p.m., a delay of 30 minutes made from the usual starting time because of radio broadcast arrangements.

But, radios and masked riders and horses — even scoreboard messages — are not on Dockery's mind. He is thinking about his Raiders and the unbeaten Wildcats. The part of the scoreboard that concerns him blinks out the point totals beside the names of the two competing teams.

In the only other action for Tech this year, Dockery could see only a trio of 3's go up on his side of the Los Angeles Coliseum scoreboard; Southern Cal had 17 points.

And, after two opening kickoffs in Arizona's home stadium, the Wildcats have outscored opponents 52-7. Thus, Dockery faces both offensive and defensive units which have displayed winning strength.

"This is the best Arizona team I've seen since I've been around here (three seasons, all as an assistant before being elevated to head man last winter)," commented Dockery, "even better than the one that beat us out there three years ago."

That night in Tucson, Arizona rebounded to catch the Raiders in the final seconds and win a 32-28 verdict.

This time, the Arizona triggerman, Jim Krohn, is still on hand. But, his supporting arsenal is both different and improved.

The defensive side of the UA line is a definite concern for the Raiders.

Whereas Krohn and his mates have depended more on the pass for several years, this time coach Tony Mason has been able to install a crumpling ground attack, and Krohn, a hometown native from Tucson, has had to throw but 19 times.

This lack of dependence on the pass has improved his effectiveness; Krohn has hit 13 for a 66.4 percent accuracy rate against his 46.4 percent for the past two seasons.

He has been handing the ball to his two top runningbacks, Jaco transfer Larry Heater (249 yards gained) and fullback Hubert Oliver (179 yards), as Arizona has averaged 4.6 yards every rushing try.

Helping push this rushing total along is an offensive line averaging 261 pounds.

But, stopping the Wildcats is only half the problem; there is the scoring part. The Raiders could generate much offense against Southern Cal (161 yards, only 51 of that on the ground), and Arizona defenders have yet to yield a touchdown. The only score this season was a touchdown on an intercepted pass by Oregon State last week.

In the two weeks since that opener at Southern Cal, Dockery and his aides have worked to jazz up the offense. And this included putting in a new tailback.

Stepping up for his first college action is Phil Weatherall, who a year ago was scoring touchdowns for Greenville High School. He scored 18 TDs last season and rushed for more than 1,100 yards. He has been injured and ill and had to miss the first game.

However, tonight, he will line up alongside James Hadnot in the Raiders' backfield. Hadnot got his first collegiate running experience against the Trojans, after being moved from tight end.

Weatherall will split time with Don Earl, a sophomore who started against USC, and Dunbar freshman Kenneth James.

Tres Adams will run from quarterback.

but Mark Johnson is expected to be playing. Adams worked all except about two possessions against Southern Cal.

When the Raiders go to the air, Brian Nelson and Godfrey Turner will be the prime targets at their wide receiver spots.

Tech will be in top physical condition for tonight's game. After tonight, the Red Raiders will get up to open the Southwest Conference year against the University of Texas here next Saturday night.

EHS Stops Ponies 14-7

John Travolta would have been proud of the Coronado Mustangs. As far as that goes, so would Fred Astaire. And you might as well add Ginger Rodgers to the list.

It seemed, according to Jack Quarles, that the Ponies had discoing, not footballing, on their minds Friday night.

"It looked like to me they were more interested in getting to the dance," said Quarles, following Coronado's first loss of the season, a 14-7 setback by cross-town rival Estacado.

Quarles pointed out that homecomings — which is what Coronado was smack in the middle of — have a tendency to disrupt a game.

"I'm just glad it's now rather than later," he said.

The loss put Coronado's season mark at 2-1. Estacado (the home team at CHS homecoming) is also 2-1 on the year.

Things got off to a flying start between the Matadors and the Mustangs. And before homecoming fans could even knock the frost on the wooden seats, the score was 7-6.

On the opening kickoff, Estacado's Preston Davis fumbled at the 19. Lane Owens hopped on the ball, putting the Mustangs in the driver's seat.

However, two plays later Matador line-backer Mike Chatham jumped in front of a Richard Davis pass and returned it to the CHS 48.

With 10:56 left in the first period, Kelvin White dashed 48 yards on a sweep around right end for a TD, giving Estacado a 6-0 lead — meaning, of course, that with only 64 seconds off the clock, there had been two turnovers and a touchdown.

Davis added the extra point with 10:05 left, giving CHS a narrow 7-6.

Coronado moved within field goal range late in the quarter, but besides that, there were really no serious threats by either team.

That is, rather, until 49 seconds were left in the second stanza.

At that point in time, Estacado's junior halfback George Irwin hit fellow halfback James Rose on a 30-yard pass for the final score of the night.

Irwin, hit on the play by no less than five would-be tacklers, managed somehow to escape the rush and find Rose in the end zone. The scabbard heaved a pass which resembled a dying quail into Rose's waiting arms.

Quarterback Kenneth Henderson added the 2-pointer, and Estacado headed into the dressing room with a 14-7 lead.

It was all the Matadors needed.

"Shoot, if you missed the first couple of minutes," exclaimed Estacado coach Louis Kelley, "then you about missed the whole game."

Correct, but not entirely.

Coronado did manage to move down to the EHS 8 after taking the second-half kickoff. However, a pass from Russell Murrell to end Troy Barron fell harmlessly to the soggy turf.

"We had our chances, all right," pointed out Quarles. "We just couldn't get anything going on offense, though. I was proud of the defense. They came through. But the offense, they still have a ways to go."

As far as that goes, Kelly agreed, so do the Matadors.

"Maybe we played it a little too conservative," agreed Kelley. "I don't know. I'm just glad to come out with a win."

"We were 1-2 at this point last year. I like it better this way (with a 2-1 mark)."

Monterey Notches First Win 17-14

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

MIDLAND — Monterey survived a sluggish start in cold, rainy Midland Friday night to record its first victory of the 1978 football season, a 17-14 decision over Midland High.

The Plainsmen were held to only 63 yards total offense in the first 24 minutes of play but came alive in the second half, scoring 10 points and winding up with 216 yards.

The clincher was a 23-yard field goal by junior Kent Potts that came with 9:36 to play.

That wound up the scoring, but the real finale was turned in on the Plainsmen's last drive of the game which ate up 6½ minutes, running the clock down to the final minute.

tying touchdown with 1:17 left in the third quarter on a 3-yard run by Ricky Pinkerton.

That drive was really the first signs of life to come from Monterey during the game. Held to only four first downs in the entire first half, the Plainsmen strung together five on their second possession of the third quarter.

Included in that were three straight, two of those coming on 11-yard runs by Pinkerton. In all, the 170-pound junior carried the ball eight times in that string capping it on an off-tackle play out of the power-I.

Midland, now 1-2 on the season, drew first blood in the game with Billy Aplin scoring on a 13-yard run on the Bulldogs' very first possession.

The big plays in that drive were both Monterey penalties.

With a fourth and 8 from its own 46, Monterey drew a roughing-the-kicker call which gave the Bulldogs a first down on the Monterey 37. On the next play a Plainsman defensive back was called for pass interference, presenting Midland with the first down at the Monterey 15.

Aplin took a pitch and outraced the defenders to the corner of the end zone to put the Bulldogs up on the next play.

Monterey struck back quickly, scoring on its first possession.

Pinkerton slipped several tackles to make a nifty kickoff return and Midland was called for unnecessary roughness as

Panthers Fall Short Against Chiefs 12-7

By BOB BAJACKSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
SAN ANGELO — Dunbar coach Van Jefferson used a sign over the Lake View field house to best describe how inexperienced his football team is this season. The sign reads: District 3-AAA Champions 1976.

"Most of our kids playing for us now weren't in our program then," Jefferson said. "I'm probably the only one who can remember that Lake View beat us in 1976 to win the district title."

The Panthers continued to make inexperienced mistakes and the Lake View Chiefs gave Dunbar a football lesson here Friday night by defeating the Panthers 12-7 in a non-district game.

The lesson Lake View taught the Panthers was to take advantage of your opponents' mistakes.

Fullback Mike Doyle bulled his way for two second-half touchdowns en route to 129 yards on 24 carries as the Chiefs prevented Jefferson from recording his first victory ever as a head coach against Lake View.

"If we are going to win this game, we're going to have to win the battle from tackle-to-tackle," said Jefferson.

With 7:44 to play in the third quarter, the Chiefs' front offensive line began to open holes for Doyle to dash through. Doyle gained 82 of his total yards in the second half.

The Chiefs kept the ball on the ground the entire time as they drove 60 yards in 14 plays for their first score.

Fullback Doyle and runningback Robert Cornelius proved to be the workhorses.

Doyle gained 30 yards of the real estate during the march, while Cornelius rushed for 20 yards.

During the drive, Lake View converted two fourth-down situations as Doyle went off right tackle and Cornelius banged up the middle for first downs.

Then with 1:57 remaining in the quarter, Doyle took the handoff from quarterback Phillip Ward and sprinted around the left side untouched into the end zone to move the chiefs within a point.

However, on the 2-point conversion Ward was tackled by Panther defensive end Sammy Washington before he could pitch the ball to a trailing Doyle allowing Dunbar to hold onto a 7-6 lead.

But the advantage didn't last long.

On the following Dunbar offensive series, Panther runningback Robert Tolbert fumbled on a third-and-long situation.

Chiefs defensive back Larry Jones hopped on the football and Lake View had a first down on the Dunbar 27.

Doyle took complete charge rushing every play of the Chiefs' seven-play scoring march.

As the third quarter came to an end, Doyle and Lake View had a second down on the Dunbar 1-yard line.

On the first play of the final quarter, the 171-pound fullback crashed into the end zone over left guard to give Lake View the lead for good.

Late Drive Gives Snyder 20-14 Win
SNYDER (Special) — The Snyder Tigers mounted a decisive 66-yard drive late in the game, capped by quarterback Clay Johnson's 1-yard sneak, to snap a tie and defeat Big Spring 20-14 here Friday.

Big Spring had knotted the contest 14-14 earlier in the fourth period on a score by quarterback Ricky Myers and a 2-point conversion run by tailback Eddie Pugas.

Snyder is now 2-1, while Big Spring lost its third successive encounter.

It was 6-6 at halftime. Pugas had started the scoring with a 36-yard first quarter run on the Steers' first offensive possession.

But the Tigers roared back later in the period, with Johnson capping a short drive — set up by a Big Spring misplay of a punt — by sprinting 16 yards.

The Tigers went ahead 14-6 in the third period when tailback Richard Crayton exploded for 54 yards. Johnson ran the 2-point conversion.

That set up the exciting finish. Big Spring's fourth period score, coming on a 1-yard run by Myers, capped a 17-play, 69-yard drive.

Floydada Scores 21-0 Victory

POST (Special) — Junior Arrendondo rushed for 191 yards on 19 carries and two touchdowns here Friday night to lead Floydada to a 21-0 victory over Post.

The win boosted the Whirlwinds season record to 2-1, while Post fell to 0-2. After a scoreless first quarter, Floydada put its first points on the scoreboard in the second quarter on a 16-yard pass from quarterback Todd Vickers to halfback Tracy Womack with 2:33 remaining before halftime. Joey Luna missed on the PAT try.

Arrendondo scored his first TD of the night in the third quarter on a 27-yard sprint on the first play following a Floydada pass interception. Vickers then hit Kary Helms with a pass for the two-point conversion with seven minutes left in the period.

Floydada intercepted another Post pass on the Whirlwind 33 in the fourth quarter and drove 67 yards to score with Arrendondo going the final 31 yards on a pitchout. Luna added the PAT.

Floydada picked up 19 first downs and 277 yards rushing and 75 yards passing, while Post was held to four first downs, 55 yards rushing and zero passing.

Floydada's defense prevented Post from getting past the 25 yard line for the entire game.

Jal Panthers Rip Wink 17-0

JAL, N.M. (Special) — Piling up ground yardage, the Jal Panthers out-manned visiting Wink 17-0 here Friday.

The Panther victory upped Jal's mark to 3-1 on the year, while Wink dropped its first contest after two wins.

Brent Gage escaped for a 68-yard TD run to open the scoring in the second period.

Quarterback Mark Johnson kept for a 3-yard TD run midway through the third stanza to cap an eight-play, 49-yard drive.

Then, with only 2:41 left in the contest, Gary Simmons, who earlier had booted the two extra points, connected on a 29-yard field goal to make for the final count.

BORGER (Special) — Borger ran its season record to 2-0 here Friday night with a 13-0 victory over Hereford.

Hereford, of District 4-AAAA, fell to 1-2 for the year.

Borger put up a tough defense that limited Hereford to only five first downs and 71 yards in total offense with all of that coming on the ground.

Hereford was further victimized by two lost fumbles and three interceptions.

Borger took a 7-0 first quarter lead as Greg Fleming sprinted 35 yards to pay-dirt and Tommy Newell added the PAT.

Borger Posts 13-0 Win Over Hereford

Antelopes Topple Hale Center 15-8

HALE CENTER (Special) — The Abernathy Antelopes came from behind in the fourth quarter to beat the Hale Center Owls 15-8 and stay unbeaten so far this season.

Defensive halfback Roger Lindsey took the ball away from the Hale Center punter in the first quarter and ran 38 yards to score. Gilbert Cuevas kicked the extra point.

Host Eagles Win Over Mexican Stars 28-16

By PAUL McGRATH
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

While the Mexican national flag bears a triumphant eagle thrashing a reptile enemy, it was a different group of Eagles — as in the Lubbock Christian variety — who did the thrashing Friday night at Lena Stephens Field.

The timely running of Tim Howell and Gary Miller enabled the LCHS Eagles to retain their unblemished record as they rallied to knock off the Mexico City all-star Destroyers.

Miller gained 138 yards on 14 carries, scoring twice and Howell stepped for 103 yards on 11 totes as LCHS approached 300 yards in the rushing department.

The Eagles, after falling behind 16-13 in the third quarter, punched over two touchdowns in the final period to win the seemingly endless game. It took the squads — and the referees — three hours and 15 minutes to complete the contest.

The officials threw flags for everything but illegal entry as the flood of yellow cloth made the field resemble a linen sale. A total of 20 penalties were called — 11 against the visiting all-stars — for a combined 190 yards. The 29 uncompleted passes further served to delay the outcome.

The Eagles got on the board first in the first quarter on their second possession of the game. A 71-yard burst by Miller to the Destroyer 15 sparked the 86-yard drive which took only four plays. Quarterback Kent Allison went 14 yards to the 1 and after a loss, Howell rammed over from 5 yards out with 6:59 to go in the first frame. Brent Stewart's try for point was no good.

The Eagles' defense totally dominated SPRINGLAKE (Special) — Andy Blackmon ran for one touchdown and passed for two others to lead Shallowater to a 29-12 victory over Springlake-Earth Friday night.

Blackmon scored on a 1-yard run in the first quarter, then hit Randy Middlebrook on a 27-yard pass in the second quarter and Larry Bartlett on a 6-yard toss in the same period.

Rodney Jackson opened the scoring on a 20-yard run in the first quarter.

Other Shallowater scores came on a 1-yard run by Stacy Hohenberger and a 49-yard pass from Neal Luck to Angel Maldonado.

WELLMAN (Special) — Wellman jumped out to a quick 21-0 lead early in the second quarter and hung on for a 21-19 victory over Marathon here Friday night.

The victory raised the Wildcats' season record to 2-1, while Marathon fell to 0-2.

Andrews Explodes Over Seminole

SEMINOLE (Special) — Andrews exploded for 30 fourth-quarter points to break away for a 44-6 victory over Seminole here Friday night.

Interceptions spelled doom for Seminole as three second-half miscues led to Andrews touchdowns after Seminole had trailed by only 7-6 at halftime.

Seminole jumped out to a 6-0 first quarter lead when Mike Grass hit Danny Wrenn with a 20-yard TD pass following a fumble recovery.

Andrews took a 7-6 led in the second quarter when Jay McWilliams went 7 yards to score and Billy Green added the PAT.

Robbie Jones put Andrews in front 14-6 in the third quarter as he picked off a Seminole pass and returned it 55 yards to paydirt and Green added the PAT.

Green then booted 35-yard field goal with 5:32 left in the game to put the Mustangs in front 17-6.

Midland Falls 17-14

The Plainsmen got the ball for the first time on the Midland 42.

They drove to a first and goal at the 9-yard line, and Pinkerton moved quickly to the 5 as Monterey was moving the ball smoothly. But quarterback Todd Hunt was thrown for two straight losses totalling 5 yards, as his fourth-down pass was over the receiver's head in the corner of the end zone.

Now it was Midland's turn to be the perfect host. Aplin ran a dive play but the wet ball squirted away from him like a watermelon seed and Monterey's Brett Dixon recovered, giving the Plainsmen a first down at the 10.

Hunt atoned for his earlier losses, making a nice cut inside on the option play and striding 10 yards into the end zone without being touched.

Midland came back to take the lead again with 3:21 left in the half.

Aplin provided the big play this time as he picked up a bouncing punt at his own 45 and raced 40 yards down the sideline.

With a first and 10 from the Monterey 15, the big tailback gained another 10 and Monterey drew an unnecessary roughness call as Aplin was hit late out of bounds, spotting the ball at the Monterey 3.

Somers was hit while completing a pass with 26 seconds left to play and had to be carried off the field in an ambulance.

No condition report on the quarterback was available at press time.

Mustangs Control Longhorns 17-8

LOCKNEY (Special) — The Olton Mustangs Charles Brown scored in the first two periods, and the visiting team hit again on a third quarter, 25-yard field goal to surpass the Lockney Longhorns 17-8.

The Longhorns went over only once in the contest when Earl Math ran it in from the 3-yard line in the final period. The 2-point conversion was made by an Arnold Alaniz run.

After Friday night's non-district game, Olton is 2-1 in the season and the Longhorns have a 1-2 slate.

More Subpoenas Filed In Fight Probe

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — FBI agents delivered more subpoenas Friday as a federal investigation dug into the multimillion dollar maze of the Muhammad Ali-Leon Spinks heavyweight championship fight.

Thus far, eight grand jury subpoenas have been issued, with more possible. Sherman Copelin and Don Hubbard, who played key roles in the handling of the Sept. 15 event at the Superdome, were directed to turn in all their records on the fight by next Thursday.

Their subpoenas were for records only. Copelin told reporters the investigation was "based on misinformation. We will cooperate fully. We have nothing to hide."

Henry Simoneaux said he was summoned to appear before the grand jury next Thursday, along with all his records. He is director of ticket sales for the New Orleans Saints and said he handled ticket sales for Louisiana Sports on a short term contract.

Simoneaux said he wasn't sure what they want him to talk about, but "I assume they are interested in the records pertaining to the ticket sales for the fight. I will take all the records I have with me to the grand jury."

There were about 50 ticket outlets for the fight here and in other cities, including Memphis and Los Angeles, he said, and "I had overall responsibility for keeping up with the tickets sold and the money received. I have complete records."

A subpoena was issued for Ronald "Butch" Lewis of New York City, a former vice president of Top Rank Inc., the firm headed by Robert Arum which had overall rights to the fight promotion.

Arum says he fired Lewis because he had discovered a reciprocal "scam" to skim $400,000 out of the proceeds. Louisiana Sports would pay Lewis $200,000 as a "finders fee" for helping land the fight, and Top Rank would pay Coplin and Hubbard a $200,000 "finders fee" for helping land the fight.

Lewis contends he was not fired, but quit to start his own promotions firm. A subpoena for certain documents was issued for the Bank of New Orleans, which approved a $2.7 million letter of credit to a group of Lafayette, La., investors who underwrote most of the event expenses. The Liberty Bank and Trust Co., which launched Louisiana Sports $200,000 for pro fight promotion and arrangements, also drew a subpoena for records.

Louisiana Sports put up $4.2 million fight costs, with the Lafayette group, headed by attorney Robert Wright, putting up the rest. The fight attracted paid attendance of $4.8 million.

January, Sneed Top Napa Golf Scramble

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Don January, who is nearing his 49th birthday, and 34-year-old Ed Sneed moved slightly ahead in the huge pack of golfers under par and shared Friday's second-round lead in Napa's $200,000 tour event.

"Old Dad is doing all right, isn't he?" said Tom Watson, the year's leading money winner, looking at January's name atop the leader board.

January, 48 until Nov. 20, hit every green in regulation, made seven birdies and three-putted once for his only bogey to post a 6-under-par 66 on Silverado Country Club's 6,481-yard South course while Sneed was firing a 68 on the longer North course.

Their 36-hole totals of 134 gave them a two-stroke edge over six players who were tied for third place. That group included Dave Eichelberger and Jay Haas who shared the first-round lead with Sneed and Rex Caldwell.

Watson, with a 69 Friday on the North course, was at 137 with seven others including Ben Crenshaw, Lou Graham and Bruce Lietzke.

"The weather is delightful, just hot enough, yet just cool enough," said January, who with most other competitors was again raving about the condition of the par-72 courses.

January has won 12 tournaments in 22 years on the PGA tour and is $60,000 short of the $1 million mark in lifetime winnings. First place is worth $40,000 here.

The cut for the final two rounds, which will be played on the 6,772-yard North course, was at 142, two under par, with 71 players making it.

Johnny Miller, who won a tour-record $353,000 four years ago but now is trying to salvage something of a season in which he's won just $17,440, shot a 66 Friday to make the cut handily. He was in a group of nine at 138 which also included Billy Casper.

Field Goal Lifts Rebels By Bulldogs

PLAINVIEW (Special) — The hometown Bulldogs exploded for two third-quarter touchdowns, but the Midland Lee Rebels came from behind on a field goal to snatch a 16-14 victory Friday.

It was the Rebels' third win in as many games this season. Previously unbeaten Plainview dropped to 2-1.

The District 5-AAAA Rebels held a 13-0 halftime lead before the Bulldogs of District 4-AAAA made their charge.

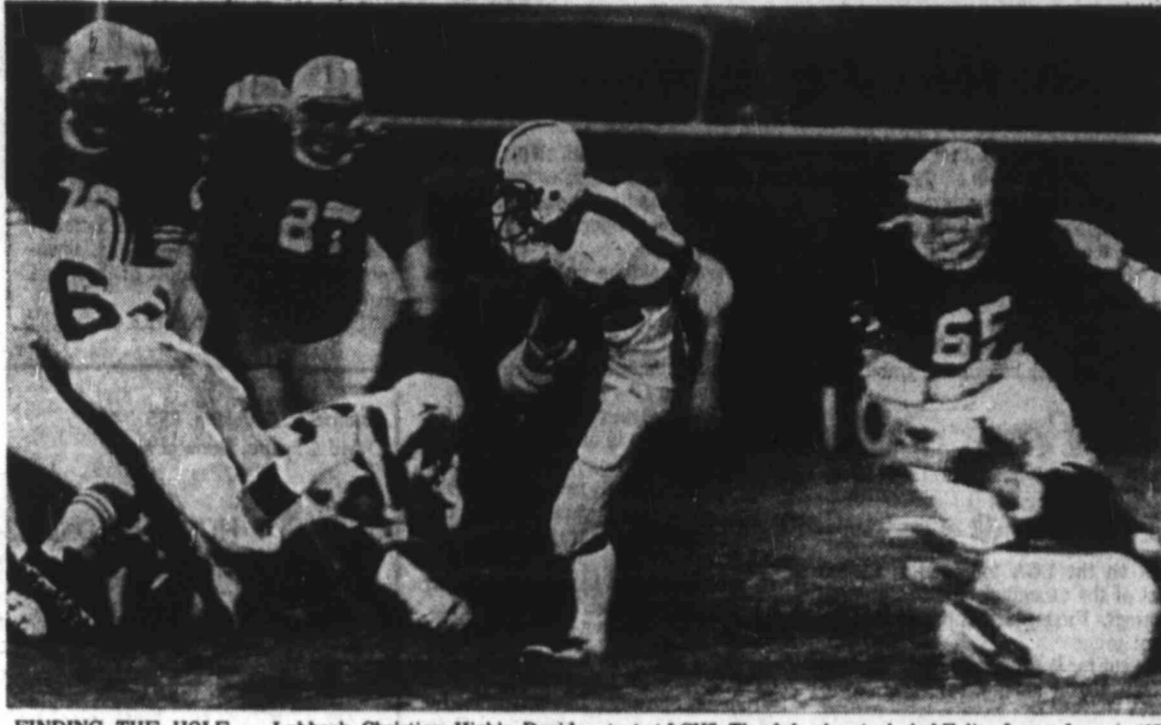

Midland Lee fumbled on the Plainview 32-yard line early in the third period. Aided by three Rebel penalties, the Bulldogs advanced the ball to Lee's 7-yard line. Plainview fullback Royce Coleman ran it in from there, Billy Williams carried for a two-point conversion and the Rebels' advantage was cut to 13-8.

Late in the third quarter, however, the Rebels drove from their own 20-yard line to Plainview's 5. Bill McPherson booted a 20-yard field goal to put Midland Lee back on top, 16-14.

The Rebels scored their first touchdown in the opening quarter on a 17-yard run by fullback Jeff McCowan. McPherson kicked the extra point. The TD was set up when the Bulldogs shanked a punt deep in their own territory.

In the closing seconds of the second quarter, Rebel quarterback Gary Butler connected with Elmer Montgomery on a 46-yard pass for another TD. The extra-point attempt failed.

Midland Lee had 12 first downs, 183 yards rushing and 87 yards passing, to Plainview's nine first downs, 100 yards rushing and 14 yards passing. The Rebels were led by McCowan, who rushed 31 times for 134 yards. Plainview's leading gainer was Coleman, with 49 yards on 15 carries.

Christ the King scored touchdowns in the third and fourth quarters here Friday to edge the Loraine Bulldogs 14-0 in a hard-fought defensive ball game.

Jimmy Durham scored both Trojan TDs, the first a 41-yard return of an errant Bulldog pass, and the second on a 4-yard pass from Randy Kitten.

Durham ran through several tackles on his third-quarter scoring interception.

A long run by Steve David helped set up the short TD toss in the final stanza.

Offensive standouts for Christ the King included Durham, who rushed for 66 yards in 13 carries, and Lou Halsell, who

Second Half Burst Lifts Loop 40-26

LOOP (Special) — It took a while, but Loop finally managed to "lasso" the Ira Bulldogs in the second half and walk away with a 40-26, six-man football victory.

Loop had led by only 2 points at halftime, but managed — for the most part — to contain Bulldog star R.D. Phillips after intermission.

Phillips scored all four Ira touchdowns, on runs of 40, 30, 2 and 63 yards. The 63-yard effort, coming in the final stanza, was Ira's lone second-half TD.

Loop led 22-20 at intermission on the strength of a balanced attack led by Daran Ancinek. Ancinek ran for a 45-yard TD and threw a 25-yard touchdown pass to Steve Juarez. Bert Gibson hauled in a 7-yard aerial from Ray Garcia for the other Longhorn score.

Juarez rammed up the middle for 7 yards in the third period. Then, Ancinek ran in from the 8 in the fourth period. A safety ended the scoring.

Odessa Blanks Hobbs Eagles

HOBBS, N.M. (Special) — Odessa High remained unbeaten for the 1978 football season and handed New Mexico powerhouse Hobbs its first loss of the season with a 20-0, fumble-marred victory here Friday night.

Wet conditions forced each team to lose the ball four times on fumbles during the contest.

Odessa High ran its season record to 3-0 with the win and Hobbs fell to 2-1.

After a scoreless first half, Odessa's Gary Lewis hauled in a 43-yard pass from quarterback Billy Rumbaugh with 3:30 left in the third quarter. A kick for the extras failed, giving Odessa a 6-0 lead.

The Broncho defense got into the act in the fourth quarter as linebacker Mario Alvarado pounced on a Hobbs fumble in the endzone for an Odessa TD with 9:40 left in the game.

Three Way Romps

Past Rangers 28-12

MAPLE (Special) — Three Way's runningbacks struck high gear in the second half, rolling up all the Eagle points after intermission en route to a 28-12 victory over Patton Springs.

The visiting Rangers had led 12-0 at the half.

The win enabled the Eagles to soar to a 3-0 record, while the Rangers are 1-2.

Tommy Tucek and James Simpson paced the comeback, with Tucek cashing in three of the four Eagle touchdowns.

The Eagles scored 22 of their points in the third quarter. Tucek ran for 28 and 8-yard TDs, and Robert Layton broke loose for an 18-yard scoring jaunt.

Tucek then wrapped up the night's scoring with a 3-yard burst in the final period.

Although not scoring, Simpson rushed 22 times for 174 yards. Tucek picked up 120 yards in 18 carries.

Don Baxter scored both of the Ranger touchdowns, on a 5-yard run and on the receiving end of a 49-yard pass from Barry Kautz.

Crosbyton Chiefs Trounce Matadors

MATADOR (Special) — The visiting Crosbyton Chiefs trounced the Motley County Matadors 55-0 Friday to stay undefeated.

The Chiefs boosted their season record to 2-0 with one tie. The Matadors are now 1-2.

Crosbyton overwhelmed the opposition with 14 first downs, 320 yards rushing and 135 yards passing. Motley County got just three first downs, 22 yards rushing and 31 yards passing.

Eagles Grind Out Victory Over New Deal

Roosevelt and New Deal hooked up in a rushing battle Friday night with the Eagles of District 3-A taking a 12-7 victory over the 4-A Lions.

Each team churned for more than 200 yards rushing in the contest with Roosevelt getting the upper hand with 251 overland steps to New Deal's 226.

The difference in the game came in the passing department where the Eagles connected on seven of 17 passes for 158 yards, while New Deal hit on only three of 14 for 45 yards.

Roosevelt took a 6-0 lead with four minutes remaining in the first quarter as Dennis Price scampered 17 yards to paydirt. The PAT kick failed.

New Deal came back in the second quarter to take a 7-6 halftime lead as fullback L.K. Bradley bulled his way 12 yards into the end zone with two minutes remaining before the half. Kelly Howell's PAT kick gave the Lions the lead.

Neither team mounted a scoring drive in the third quarter, but Roosevelt pushed across the game-winning score in the final period with fullback Junior Vasquez going over from 4 yards out. The PAT try again failed.

New Deal was somewhat hampered by turnovers as the Lions lost two fumbles and had three passes intercepted.

The win boosted Roosevelt to a 1-1 season record, while New Deal dropped to 2-1.

Valley Drubs Spur 41-12

SPUR (Special) — The Valley Patriots racked up 371 ground yards to smash the Spur Bulldogs 41-12, leaving the home town team still looking for its first win.

The Bulldogs held their foes scoreless in the first period, and made points themselves when tailback Fred Reed went over from 2 yards out. The extra point missed. The score was the result of Valley fumbling the opening kickoff.

But it was all Patriots the second quarter with halfback James McNary scoring on a 6-yard sweep and tailback Darrell Doud hitting from 16 yards out. Valley quarterback Kirk Proctor kicked the extra point following the first score, but missed on his second attempt.

The Bulldogs were the first on the scoreboard in the third period when quarterback Trent Driggers completed a 16-yard pass to wingback Alton Fisher. The PAT was short.

Valley, however, came back in the same period and scored on a 7-yard run from Doud and Patriot defensive tackle Kenney Chandler recovered a fumble in the end zone. Proctor was successful for a 2-point conversion and an extra-point kick in the third quarter.

Valley held Spur scoreless in the final period and scored twice — a 53-yard run by McNary and an 84-yard gallop by Doud with 30 seconds left in the game.

The Patriots now have two wins and a tie in their 3B District and the Bulldogs are winless in the 4A District.

Seagraves Sneaks By Lorenzo

SEAGRAVES (Special) — Davis Morgan kicked a 32-yard field goal straight through the goal posts with 1:05 left Friday night to put the Seagraves Eagles over the Lorenzo Hornets 3-2.

The field goal happily ended a night of 32-yard distances for Morgan, who snapped the football over the head of the Seagraves punter from the 32-yard line in the second quarter. Several Lorenzo players covered the ball in the Seagraves end zone for a safety.

Morgan kicked his 11th-hour field goal after Seagraves took the ball on the Lorenzo 47 after a punt and drove to within field goal distance in six plays.

The game was a defensive struggle with neither team coming close to a touchdown.

Seagraves had 14 first downs and 238 yards rushing, but lost three of four fumbles and had one pass intercepted. Lorenzo gained 193 yards rushing and 19 passing for 11 first downs but lost two fumbles.

Tackle Mike McCormick, linebacker Keith Ellerd and noseguard Richard Wilson led the defense for Seagraves.

The game left the Eagles of District 3-0 and the 4-A Hornets 1-2 for the season.

Lamesa Blows Past Lobos For First Win

LEVELLAND (Special) — Dennis Bortland returned a kickoff 90 yards for a touchdown to give the Lamesa Tornados a 14-12 win, their first of the season, over the hometown Lobos Friday.

The Lobos held a 6-0 halftime lead courtesy of halfback Jack Jordan, who carried 23 yards for a touchdown in the second quarter. But it was in the third period when the action got hot.

Lamesa drove 74 yards for a score, with fullback Mike Begus going the final yard, with five minutes left in the quarter. With a successful point-after, the Tornados had a 7-6 advantage.

But minutes later, Levelled center Brian Nance blocked a Lamesa punt and fell on it in the Tornados' end zone. The attempt for a two-point conversion failed, but the Lobos had recaptured the lead, 12-7.

Not for long, however. On the ensuing kickoff, Bortland ran the ball in from his own 10-yard line, and the point-after gave the Tornados the final score of 14-12.

Levelled was hampered by eight turnovers — five fumbles and three interceptions. Lamesa lost three fumbles.

The Tornados had 11 first downs, 108 yards rushing and 77 yards passing. The Lobos registered nine first downs, 193 yards on the ground and eight yards in the air.

Levelled fullback Terry McMillan gained 92 yards on 14 carries. For Lamesa, quarterback Mark Price rushed eight times for 76 yards and halfback Jack Jordan ran 14 times for Both teams are now 1-2 for the season.

Cubs Nudge DC 23-20 On Late TD

BROWNFIELD (Special) — Quarterback Kelly Reid hit split end Bud Holmes on a 7-yard scoring pass with 24 seconds left in the game to give Brownfield a 23-20 victory over Denver City Friday night.

Brownfield raised its season record to 2-1, while Denver City suffered its third straight loss of the year.

Brownfield had taken a 9-0 first quarter lead on a safety when the Denver City center snapped the ball out of the end zone on a punt, then on the ensuing free kick, Brownfield's Gilbert Franco sprinted 85 yards for a TD.

Denver City was on a scoring drive as time was running out in the second quarter, but on the final play of the first half, Brownfield was called for piling on. With no time on the clock, the Mustangs scored on a 15-yard pass.

Franco took the opening second half kickoff 85 yards for a Brownfield TD, but Denver City came back to score again to make it 16-14.

With five minutes left in the game, Denver City scored but missed on a 2-point conversion try.

The visiting Hornets, now 1-2, picked up 13 first downs to Muleshoe's 12 and gained 103 yards through the air. But the Hornets could gather only 30 rushing yards.

With just two minutes gone in the game, Charles Briscoe gathered in a Hornet punt and raced 68 yards for the first Mule score.

Quarterback Mike Northcutt rambled for a 10-yard TD and then passed for a 38 yard score to Jerry Wheat to make for the second quarter tallies.

Coronado's main nemesis was the turnover. In all, the Mustangs lost two fumbles and a pair of interceptions.

Chatham, who appeared to have a personal grudge against the Mustangs, intercepted one pass and hopped on another fumble. He also was in on 17 tackles.

Chatham also had an interception nullified in the third period during Coronado's first possession drive.

Jayton Buzzes Hornets 20-6

JAYTON (Special) — With almost two quarters gone without a score, the Jayton Jaybirds scored with 41 seconds before the half, and then hit paydirt in each remaining period to fly past the Aspermont Hornets 20-6 in a non-district game.

The second period 11-yard pass completion was from Jaybird quarterback Patrick Parker to split end Kenny Kidd who went in for the score. The extra point was made by tackle Lenny Hall.

With 2:37 left in the third quarter, Jayton struck again when Hornet quarterback David Dickerson had the ball knocked away from him by defensive end David Trammel and Jayton tackle, George Johnson, picked up the loose pigskin and ran it in from the 11-yard line. Hall missed on the extra point.

It was Aspermont's turn in the final period with 8:59 left, when Dickerson threw a 32-yard TD pass to end Alvin Jackson. The PAT failed. Jayton scored again with five minutes left when tailback Robert Segura took it in from 1 yard out. Hall made the point after.

Petersburg made its first quarter, TD-PAT combination when quarterback Ricky Juarez connected with split end Skeeter Jones on a 42-yard pass. Juarez made the extra point.

Kress was the first on the board in the second half when tailback Eddie Johnson ran over from 4 yards out. The point-after was not good. Petersburg followed that when Juarez threw a 38-yard TD pass to tight end Quentin Berry, and then Juarez kicked the extra point.

Kress quarterback Henry Amador threw a 4-yard pass to wingback Thomas Young for a third period score, but the team again failed on the extra point. The Buffaloes struck in the third quarter on an 11-yard run from wingback Junior Jnior Castilleja, which was followed by James Juarez kick.

With Nazareth holding a 12-6 lead, Rowland connected with Ritter on a 30-yard pass with 2:09 remaining in the game for the winning TD. Kelly Jones then tackled on the game-winning PAT.

The Rowland-Ritter combo accounted for 130 of the Longhorns' 148 passing yards as Ritter latched onto seven of Rowland's nine completions.

Hart had taken a 6-0 first quarter lead on an 80-yard Rowland to Ritter pass with 8:49 left on the clock on the Longhorns' first play from scrimmage.

But Nazareth came back in the second period to tie the score at 6-6 at halftime on a one-yard dive by Dwayne Heck.

Nazareth took the lead in the third quarter with 5:44 showing on the clock on a one-yard run by Chris Hatla. The go-ahead TD was set up by a fumble recovery at the Hart 11.

Nazareth missed a shot at another TD early in the fourth quarter, but Hart freshman Roy Martinez pounced on a Swift fumble at the Hart 3.

Grady Rips Hornets

HIGHLAND (Special) — The Grady Wildcats made themselves unwelcome Friday night in ripping the Highland Hornets 48-0 in a six-man football game.

The Hornets, an Erath County team, made the Wildcats more at home than they intended as the visitors piled up 20 points in the first half and 28 in the second on three touchdown runs by quarterback Jimmy Mitchell and two each by running backs Ruben Gutierrez and Ronald Chad.

Mitchell led the attack with 159 yards on 10 carries.

Wildcats Slip Past Slaton

LITTLEFIELD (Slaton) — The hometown Wildcats spoiled the Slaton Tigers' hopes for a squeaker victory with a 52-yard, scoring pass completion with two minutes, 14 seconds left in the game.

The Wildcats were successful on a 2-point conversion following their TD in the waning moments of the contest to give them a 8-7 victory in non-district play.

The only points on the board until the last three minutes of the game were made in the first period when Slaton quarterback Ricky Davis went over from 67 yards out. The point-after was made by tackle Herman Hernandez.

The fourth quarter Wildcat drive was capped when end Marty Drake caught a 52-yard pass from quarterback Eddie Gregory. The Wildcats' gamble paid off when Gregory connected with end Ruben Torres for the conversion and go-ahead point.

The Tigers, who are now 3-1, racked up 130 yards in the air to the Tigers' (3-1) meager 32. However, Slaton was superior on the ground with 119 yards to Littlefield's 80.

O'Donnell Routs Borden County

GAIL (Special) — O'Donnell halfback Don Forbes blasted into the endzone on short touchdown runs and caught a 62-yard pass for another Friday night as O'Donnell beat the Borden County Coyotes 45-7.

Forbes ran 2 yards in the first quarter and 3 yards in the second to wind up the first-half scoring and got the third TD on a 14-yard fourth period run.

Quarterback Mike Read passed 42 yards to Tony Acosta in the third quarter and to Forbes in the fourth.

Kevin McCleskey scored a three-yard touchdown in the 24-point fourth period for O'Donnell.

Borden County scored in the last quarter when Craig Peterson went over from the 5.

George Casarez hit all but one extra point kick and caught a pass from Read for 2 more conversion points.

SWC Teams Play Full Schedule

Tech Picked As Slight Underdogs; Aggies Favored

Three years ago Fred Akers was head coach at Wyoming. Some of the players he recruited will be playing against him tonight in Memorial Stadium when the Cowboys try to upset the sixth-ranked Texas Longhorns.

"They have some very good football players," said Akers. "They are tough and experienced and some of them have started for three years. It looks like their strengths are defense where they are large and have a lot of experience."

The Cowboys are three to four touchdown underdogs against the Longhorns despite possessing a highly effective offensive weapon—running back Myron Hardeman, another Akers recruit.

"Hardeman is an All-America caliber runner," said Akers.

In other intersectional football games involving Southwest Conference teams, Arkansas was a 19-point pick over Oklahoma State at Stillwater, Okla.; No. 9 ranked Texas A&M was a 16-point nod over Boston College in Boston; Houston was a 17-point favorite over Utah in the Astrodome; Texas Christian was a five and one-half point underdog to Oregon on the road; Rice was a five-touchdown underdog to Oklahoma at Norman; Texas Tech was a two and one-half point underdog to Arizona in Lubbock; and Southern Methodist was a 17-point underdog to Penn State on the road. Baylor visits Kentucky, and although they handed the Wildcats their only loss last year, the Bears are a three point underdog.

The SWC, which has a 3-4 intersectional record after the first two weeks, is 116-63-7 all-time against the pipe non-conference foes they meet Saturday.

Second-ranked Arkansas has traditionally found it rough going in Stillwater, home of the Big Eight Conference Cowboys.

Arkansas decisioned Vanderbilt 48-17 last week but Coach Lou Holtz said "We have a long way to go. And playing in Stillwater has been extremely difficult for Arkansas."

All games are nighttime affairs except the Baylor-Kentucky, SMU-Penn State and Rice-Oklahoma tussles.

Only four SWC clubs are unbeaten: Arkansas, Texas, Texas A&M, each with 1-0 records, and SMU which is 2-0.

The Ponies face their stiffest test of the season today.

"We're playing Joe Paterno's finest team," said SMU Coach Ron Meyer, who engineered an upset of Florida last week. "Our young players: think they can go up there and beat Penn State. I'm not going to tell them any different."

Meyer starts four freshmen on defense and his 61-man travelling squad lists 25 frosh.

"We're still drawing too many penalties," said Meyer. "That's where your inexperience really shows."

In two games, SMU has been slapped with 24 penalties for 260 yards.

"We made the Guinness Book of Records," said Meyer.

Movie Strips Book Bare

FILMETER is compiled by Dick Kleiner in Hollywood and the N.E.A. staff in both Hollywood and New York.

NEW RELEASES

WHO'LL STOP THE RAIN (R) — Nick Nolte, Tuesday Weld, Michael Moriarty. Melodrama. National Book Award winner stripped bare for the screen. Much of the soul is gone, but the muscle's been tightened into a moody and effective action tale of the Vietnam era's putrefaction of the American Psyche. Nolte delivers a stunningly understated performance and capably carries the film. Caution: some strong language and violence. GRADE: B-plus. (O'Brien)

GENERAL RELEASE

ANIMAL HOUSE (R) — John Belushi, Tim Matheson, Thomas Hulce. Comedy. Leave your raised consciousness at home and wallow. All the caliche college characters are here and the cast plays them to the hilt. Raucous and hysterical — a great movie to drink beer by. Warning: Topless cheerleaders and some verbal no-no's. GRADE: A-minus. (O'Brien)

BLOODBROTHERS (R) — Paul Sorvino, Tony Lo Bianco, Richard Gere. Drama. Confused Bronx youth squares off against his Italian family-manhood code. Decent, sensitive story and fine performances are marred by a heavy touch and immature resolution. Should have had the once over from a pair of shears. But well worth a look. Caution: strong language, some violence. GRADE: B. (Handler)

CORVETTE SUMMER (PG) — Mark Hamill, Annie Potts. Romantic lark. This is really a love story between a boy and his car. Mark Hamill, as the boy, tries to survive the silly script, but can't quite manage it. GRADE: B-minus.

DAYS OF HEAVEN (R) — Richard Gere, Brooke Adams, Sam Shepard and Linda Manz. Drama. Terrence ("Badlands") Malick's stark, impressionistic story of the relationship between a trio of itinerants and a prosperous but doomed Texas panhandle wheat farmer, circa 1916. Lovely to look at, difficult to become involved with. Not at all the usual fare, which makes it worth a look for buffs, even if it isn't wholly successful. GRADE: B-plus. (Handler)

DRIVER, THE (R) — Ryan O'Neal, Bruce Dern, Isabelle Adjani, Ronlee Blakely. Melodrama. A getaway driver for

A basically good idea — a fashion photographer who sees visions of her friends' murders, and they all come true — is ruined by pretentiousness. ## Film Stuntman Dies In Bid For Fall Mark

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Stuntman A.J. Bakunas died Friday, the day after he tried to set a world record with a 323-foot free-fall. The air bag he had helped design to cushion his 115-mile-per-hour landing burst when he hit it.

He was attempting to recapture his world record for a fall without a parachute while enacting a fatal plunge for a movie being filmed here.

Bakunas' death 15 hours after the fall was attributed to massive lung damage. About 1,000 persons watched the leap Thursday evening. Their cheers turned to horror when they realized the air bag had not properly cushioned the fall from atop an office tower.

The Kincaid Tower, still under construction, is a location for the movie "Steel" starring Lee Majors.

The scene was to depict the death of a character portrayed by George Kennedy. It earlier had been filmed with Bakunas making a shorter jump, but Majors arranged the 323-foot jump so Bakunas could regain the world free-fall record that he lost earlier this month to another stuntman.

Asked if footage of the fatal fall would be used in the movie, Steel Productions spokeswoman Carolyn Machado said, "Most assuredly. As far as we know, it will be." Majors was unavailable for comment.

Dr. Judson E. Chalkley, medical adviser to the production company, said in a news conference at Good Samaritan Hospital that a 7,300-square-foot outer bag burst and an inner bag was too small to cushion Bakunas' impact, estimated to be 115 mph.

"Hitting the second bag was the equivalent of hitting (the pavement)," Chalkley said.

Bakunas, 27, broke both hips and shoulder blades, but the fatal injury was a "pulmonary contusion," or severe lung bruise, Chalkley said.

"He wanted to be recognized as the world's greatest fall guy," Chalkley said. "If it hadn't been in 'Steel,' it would have been in... another jump."

Buffaloes Try SIU In Valley Contest

CARBONDALE, Ill. (Special) — You can bet Billy Yung remembers the Southern Illinois Salukis—real well.

It was last year against the Salukis that Yung's West Texas State Buffaloes clinched their Missouri Valley Conference football title.

The Salukis will be seeking revenge here today when the two meet at 1:30 p.m. in McAndrew Stadium. A crowd of 12,000 is expected.

Last year, fullback Bo Robinson scored from 80-yards out on the first play of the game to lead WT to a 28-9 victory over Southern Illinois.

Yung feels things could be different today, however.

"Southern Illinois has a good football team," said Yung. "That running back (Bernell Quinn) ranks third in our league in rushing. Plus, I'm very concerned about their defense."

"They have nine starters back and those safeties (Geels and Craddock) can play for anyone. Offensively, they have a guard named Honore who is one of the best around."

"The first game I think Drake caught them off guard, but they came back and won on the road last week against an improved Lamar team. There's no doubt they'll be tough."

During action last week, WT lost its homer opener, 45-13, to McNeese State while Southern Illinois squeezed past Lamar 22-20.

"I know how Custer felt," said Yung. "McNeese just ripped our defense. Their offense was a lot stronger than we expected. I noticed after the game the McNeese coach (Jack Doland) stated they were hotter than a burning skunk."

Yung pointed out that they Buffs "need to play with more intensity as a team. After three games now, we know what need to stress and what to cut out. We feel it's time to solidify."

SIU enters the contest with a 1-1 mark. West Texas has a 1-2 season record. The Buffs only win was over UT-Arlington.

Robinson, an all-American last year, is slowly rounding into shape after a pre-season ankle injury. The Lamesa product carried 18 times for 69 yards against McNeese, leaving him 302 yards shy of the MVC career rushing mark held by Drake's Johnny Bright.

In other MVC games today, Tula hosts Kansas State, Wichita State greets Idaho, New Mexico State entertains North Texas, Indiana State is at Eastern Michigan and Drake visits Arkansas State.

USC, 'Bama Do Battle Today

By The Associated Press
Having learned the hard way that it's tougher to defend a national championship than to win one in the first place, Notre Dame — winless Notre Dame, that is — is faced with a put-up-or-shut-up situation.

Before the season, Coach Dan Devine said it would not be easy to dethrone the Fighting Irish, but Missouri did a pretty good job two weeks ago by upsetting them 3-0 and dropping the defending national kings from fifth place to 14th in The Associated Press rankings.

Michigan is the current fifth-place team and the Wolverines invade South Bend on Saturday to meet Notre Dame in a game that brings two of the nation's most prominent college football powers together for the first time in 35 years.

"This type of game should be played," says Michigan's Bo Schembechler. "It involves two Midwest teams that have been strong down through the years."

Devine insists the Irish are "a better team than we were two weeks ago...I know we are. We haven't been sitting around licking our wounds or feeling sorry for ourselves. We are quietly confident."

Michigan-Notre Dame will be televised to most of the country by ABC-TV, followed by a national telecast from Birmingham of two other prestigious games — top-rated Alabama vs. seventh-ranked Southern California.

Meanwhile, runner-up Arkansas visits Oklahoma State while Oklahoma and Penn State, which are tied for third in the ratings, are home against Rice and Southern Methodist, respectively.

Sixth-ranked Texas entertains Wyoming in a night contest while No. 8 UCLA visits Kansas. No. 9 Texas A&M is at Boston College for a night game and 10th-ranked Louisiana State hosts Wake Forest under the lights.

Twelfth-ranked Nebraska is the only Top Twenty team with the week off. Elsewhere, No. 11 Pitt entertains Temple. No. 13 Florida State is at Miami, Fla. No. 15 Washington is at Indiana. No. 16 Ohio State at Minnesota, Mississippi at No. 17 Missouri, No. 18 Maryland at North Carolina in a key Atlantic Coast Conference showdown, San Jose State at No. 19 Colorado and No. 20 Iowa State at Iowa.

Although a loser against Missouri two weeks ago, Devine said he was "happy about some things we accomplished on defense." On the other hand, Schembechler called Michigan's 31-0 victory over Illinois "a typical first game with lots of mistakes," adding:

"Illinois is not Notre Dame. We'll be better tested in South Bend. They've had an extra week to prepare for us and, of course, they have the advantage of playing in their own stadium."

Of course, Notre Dame had that advantage against Missouri, too.

Portales Scores Late, Trips Eunice

EUNICE, N.M. (Special) — After three scoreless quarters, the Portales, N.M., Rams constructed a 16-point fourth period and beat the Eunice Eagles 16-0.

Rams quarterback Ron Foster hit tight end Ron Jackson with a 13-yard touchdown pass with 9:45 minutes left in the game, and tackle Ron George tackled Eagles punter Bill Kelton in the endzone for a safety after the center snapped the ball over Kelton's head.

Foster hit end Darrell Cash with a nine-yard pass with 3:58 left to ice the game.

David Herrera kicked both extra points for Portales.

The Rams had 13 first downs, 152 yards rushing and 109 yards passing as Foster completed 13 of 15 passes and had one interception.

Sudan Hands Anton 48-8 Shellacking

ANTON (Special) — John Miles rushed for 178 yards in scoring plays alone to lead Sudan to a 48-8 shellacking of Anton Friday night.

Miles hit paydirt five times in the contest as Sudan handed Anton its third loss of the season.

Miles opened his one-man scoring parade with a 40-yard TD sprint in the first quarter, then added a 31-yard sprint later in the period.

Miles then scored on a 65-yard run in the second quarter and a 7-yard run before the half to give the Hornets a 26-0 lead.

Anton put its lone TD on the board in the third quarter on a 70-yard run by Eddie Rendon.

Miles picked up his final TD on a 35-yard fourth quarter sprint.

Although all coaches would love to schedule 11 patsies, Devine says he loves "the competition and the atmosphere of a big game" while Southern Cal's John Robinson says of the clash with Alabama: "These are the games you live for. You anticipate the sheer joy of playing in them."

But Alabama's Paul Bryant, who hasn't been overly excited since he rassled a bear in his Arkansas boyhood and earned an everlasting nickname, claims that "every game is a big one and this one is no bigger than any other."

Bryant said the Crimson Tide "didn't make as much progress as I hoped" between an opening-game 20-3 triumph over Nebraska and last week's 38-20 victory over Missouri.

"We played pretty sorry for about five minutes in the second quarter, and if we do that against USC it will be a long afternoon for us. We have to continue to improve, and that means not fumbling the football and getting silly penalties like we've done in the first two games. Those things will get us beat if we don't straighten them out."

The shoe is on the other foot for Penn State, which had something to prove in whipping Ohio State 19-0 last week. Southern Methodist also has something to prove — namely, that it can play with the big boys.

The improving Mustangs are 2-0, having beaten Texas Christian and Florida, and for the second week in a row Penn State is faced with the task of stopping a hotshot passer. This time, it's SMU's Mike Ford, who has completed 29 of 48 for 490 yards and four touchdowns but who also is well aware that the Nittany Lions intercepted Ohio State's Art Schlichter five times a week ago.

Ford's favorite receivers are Emmanuel Tolbert and Elton Garrett. Tolbert has caught nine passes for 245 yards and two touchdowns while Garrett has eight receptions for 113 yards and one score.

Silverton Triumphs

SILVERTON (Special) — Paul Brannon scored on a 2-yard run late in the fourth quarter Friday to ice the game, as Silverton defeated McLean 15-7.

Brannon had also scored the game's first TD, that coming on a 6-yard run in the opening stanza. Mark Brown booted the PAT. Brannon's TD came on the heels of a safety, making it 9-0 at the end of the period.

McLean's lone TD came on an 18-yard run by quarterback Tommy Eck in the second period.

Howard Payne Hosts Eastern New Mexico

BROWNWOOD (Special) — Eastern New Mexico University will attempt to halt a four-game losing streak when it goes against Howard Payne University here today.

In the four previous meetings between the two schools, ENMU has never come out on top. Howard Payne handed the Greyhounds a 20-3 thrashing last year.

ENMU will enter the 5:30 p.m. (CST) contest with a 2-1 season mark while HPU is 1-1 after collecting a win during the first week of the season against East Central Oklahoma.

The Greyhounds led by running back Julius Hill's 6.4 yard carry average, won their first two contests before fall to Angelo State 40-0 last week.

ENMU's defense will have its hands full against the Yellowjackets. Currently the HPU offense is averaging 283 yards a contest.

Craig Smith, HPU's quarterback, is averaging 120 yards a game in the air. So far his prime target has been wide receiver Mark Randolph.

On the other side of the fence, HPU's defense has held its opponents to a mere 81 yards on the ground and 103 through the air.

HPU's defense is led by defensive back Stafford Breed and linebackers Paul Talbert and Howard Hale. Talbert led the team in tackles last season with 153 while Breed and Hale followed with 96 and 93, respectively.

Head coach Dunny Goode no doubt hopes the Hounds offensive unit has regrouped after moving the ball only 72 total yards against the second-ranked Rams. Goode will use quarterbacks Rick-ett Layne and Doug Patton against HPU.

Jack Thompson, the quarterback for Washington State, is a native of American Samoa.
