Arabs' Plans For Summit Cloud Talks

A-J News Services

CAMP DAVID, Md. — President Carter prepared a quiet welcome today for his partners in a Mideast summit conference, pressing for compromise but admitting the dangers in disagreement and making no predictions.

Hopes for success at the conference, already clouded by the tough stands of the Mideast adversaries, today received another blow with a report from Beirut that Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has agreed to a Saudi Arabian proposal for a reconciliation summit meet with hard-line Arabs, no matter what the outcome of the Camp David talks.

Sources in Beirut said the Saudis, who have been bankrolling the economies of both Egypt and Syria, had been pressing Sadat's Arab critics to end their propaganda attacks and prepare for a summit meeting around Sept. 20.

Senior diplomats said Sadat had told the Saudis that if Camp David ended in failure, he would "unofficially" halt his nine-month-old peace initiative and plot fresh strategy with his fellow Arabs.

But even should the talks with President Carter and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin yield tangible results, Sadat would still bring these before a reconciliation summit, the Arab diplomats said.

Despite the growing gloom in diplomatic quarters, Carter pledged that "We will do the best we can," although he noted the summit issues are complex and the differences between his guests — Prime Minister Begin and President Sadat — are deep.

Sadat was arriving first, being formally greeted at an air base near Washington by Vice President Walter Mondale and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance before proceeding by helicopter to this presidential hide-away.

Begin was not due at Camp David until late this afternoon, after getting a similar welcome by Mondale and Vance at Andrews Air Force Base, Md.

Before leaving the White House Monday for Camp David, Carter said the summit comes at a time "when the political consequences of failure might be very severe and when the prospects for complete success are very remote."

Sadat sounded the same theme, saying before leaving for the summit. "Failure at Camp David means an endless conflict."

Carter prayed at a Baptist Sunday School session Sunday. "Let every heart involved be cleansed of selfishness and personal pride. Let us all turn to thee, God our father, for true guidance, wisdom, forgiveness of others in the search for common ground."

Issues long debated — and sometimes fought over — include Israeli occupation of land seized during the 1967 Mideast War and the fate of 1.1 million Palestinians living on the West Bank of the Jordan

Bombs Jolt Jerusalem; Two Hurt

JERUSALEM (AP) — Two bombs exploded today in Jerusalem, critically injuring an Israeli police demolition expert and also injuring a gasoline station attendant, police said. The Palestine Liberation Organization claimed responsibility for the blasts and vowed to escalate "military action" during the Camp David Mideast summit.

The first explosion critically wounded a police sapper who was inspecting a package at a gasoline station. Officials withheld the name of the sapper, but he was known to be a former American policeman and Vietnam War veteran who emigrated to Israel in 1973. An attendant at the station also was hurt, but the bomb did not touch off a truck loaded with cooking gas cylinders that was parked nearby.

A police spokesman said the second blast damaged an empty tourist bus parked near Jaffa Gate, a main entrance to Jerusalem's old walled city.

In Beirut, Lebanon, Yasser Arafat's PLO issued a statement saying underground units inside Israel had been ordered to step up "military action against vital targets in areas the enemy considers sealed off by security forces."

American Pleads Innocent

MOSCOW (AP) — American businessman Francis J. Crawford pleaded innocent today to Soviet charges that he was part of a large-scale "business and profiteering" scheme in which three Russians illegally sold contraband goods and currency to foreigners at huge profits.

Sources close to the case said the Soviet government was anxious to get the trial over with quickly and swap Crawford for two Soviet U.N. employees accused of spying in the United States.

"Do you plead guilty?" City Judge Lev Mironov asked the 37-year-old Moscow representative of International Harvester in Russian.

"I do not plead guilty," Crawford whispered to his translator, who relayed it to the court.

The three Russians — Vladimir Kiselev, his seamstress wife, Ludmila, and a cashier in a souvenir store for foreigners, Alla Solovyova, all pleaded guilty to the charges against them.

Kiselev, the first witness called, testified that he met Crawford through a mutual friend in early 1977 and from then on traded currency with him in violation of government regulations.

"I wanted to buy U.S. dollars. Crawford wanted to buy rubles. On both sides there was mutual benefit and interest," said Kiselev, a $177-a-month factory worker.

Crawford was arrested June 12, apparently in retaliation for the arrest of the two alleged Soviet spies. Denying that he had broken any Soviet laws, he said he was a "pawn in a political chess game."

The two Russians are scheduled to go on trial in Newark, N.J. on Sept. 12.

In contrast to the trials of Soviet dissidents, four Western reporters were admitted to the courtroom today along with Crawford's American fiancée, Virginia Olbrish of the U.S. Embassy staff; his American legal adviser, Peter Maggs; U.S. consular official Robert W. Pringle and U.S. commercial attache Stephen Sind.

Testimony by Kiselev and his wife told of the meetings in subways, whispered conversations and travel precautions that are part of the forbidden world of currency speculation and contraband in the Soviet Union. Participants, they said, included Afghans, Ecuadorians, Americans, Egyptians and others.

Kiselev said Crawford would bring the dollars by his apartment and that he, after changing taxis to avoid being followed, would meet Crawford in the hallway of the International Harvester offices and deliver the rubles.

Mrs. Kiselev testified that Crawford had asked her husband to get him 1,000 rubles last Dec. 23 before he left for vacation in the United States.

When Crawford questioned her, he said he left for the United States for five weeks Dec. 21.

Miss Olbrish, a secretary in the embassy commercial office, said Crawford is "worn out" by weeks of frequent interrogation that preceded the trial.

He is charged with buying 20,000 rubles on the black market for $8,500, or about a fourth of the legal rate.

Although Crawford is liable to a maximum sentence of eight years if convicted, Kiselev could get the death penalty because he has a prior conviction on similar charges.

Dollar Dips In Europe

LONDON (UPI) — The dollar fell back against most European currencies in uncertain trading at the opening of money markets today, but it generally stayed above Monday morning's prices.

Gold opened unchanged at $211.375 in Zurich and gained 87.5 cents in London to $212.25.

In Frankfurt the dollar opened at 1.9717 marks, down from 1.9737, and in Zurich it fell back again to 1.9923 Swiss francs after a slight technical recovery to 1.6100 Monday night.

Swiss dealers said trading was light, with the dollar still weak because there are no indications from Washington of any new moves to strengthen the currency and also because of skepticism over the outcome of the Camp David Middle East summit.

Tropical Storm Pounds California Coastal Area

A-J News Services
Weakening Tropical Storm Norman moved toward the coast of Southern California today, triggering gusty winds and heavy rains in the region. The National Weather Service warned of possible torrential rains in the coastal range mountains and adjacent desert areas.

From 3 to 6 inches of rain are likely in the coastal range, the NWS forecasters said, with as much as 8 inches at some places. A flash flood watch was issued for the region.

In the Atlantic, Hurricane Ella passed southeast of Cape Race, Newfoundland, and was moving to the northeast away from North America.

Thunderstorms pounded many areas of the Midwest Monday night and early today, but the most severe activity was centered in North and West Texas.

High winds and tornadoes did heavy damage in Dallas, threatened Slaton and as an afterthought dropped light to medium-heavy rain on parts of the South Plains Labor Day afternoon.

The Lubbock vicinity, which missed out on beneficial rainfall, is given a 20 percent chance of rain today.

A thunderstorm accompanied by high winds caused damage estimated at hundreds of thousands of dollars about 5 p.m. Monday in the industrial section northwest of the central business district of Dallas.

No one was injured in the storm, which had gusts of 50 to 100 mph.

Two funnel clouds were sighted near Slaton about 3:30 p.m., but they did not touch ground and no damage was reported.

Cleburne police also reported a funnel cloud that did not touch ground.

The scattered thunderstorms covering most of Texas Monday poured heavy rain in far West Texas and fomented flash flood warnings there for the second consecutive day.

The National Weather Service issued a tornado warning for southeast Lubbock County until 4 p.m.

Lubbock, as usual, had the smallest amount of rain, .01 inch, on the South Plains.

Other totals were .79 at Matador, .75 at Snyder, .27 at Tahoka, .30 at Floydada, .15 at Plains, .18 at Jayton, .05 at Spur, .04 at Brownfield and .02 at Seminole and Lamesa.

Elsewhere in Texas, 1.04 was recorded. See WEATHER Page 16

Congress Faces Showdowns On Key Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is returning from its Labor Day recess to face showdowns on natural gas deregulation and on a $2 billion nuclear-powered aircraft carrier President Carter does not want built.

Both issues pose crucial tests for the president's policies and his ability to deal with Congress.

Senators coming back to town are sure to find themselves heavily lobbied on the gas-pricing bill, both from the administration, which supports it, and from opponents. Most of the opposition is coming from consumer groups and some segments of the oil and gas industry.

A large group of undecided senators still appears to be the key to the measure that took more than eight months for House-Senate negotiators to work out — and both camps are out to win over these wavering members.

Senate leaders hope to begin debating the bill on Thursday — although there remains a chance that action will be put over until the following week.

The White House is depicting the legislation — which would remove large quantities of natural gas from federal price controls by 1985 — as critical to the success of Carter's long-stalled energy program and to U.S. prestige abroad.

It is being opposed by an unusual coalition of Senate liberals, who see it as too costly to consumers, and conservatives who do not think it would deregulate enough gas.

Once the bill is brought up, opponents plan to offer a motion to recommit the legislation to the conference committee that drafted it and to bring up instead a short bill that would give the president certain emergency powers during natural gas shortages.

This motion would have the effect of killing the compromise.

If the motion fails, a filibuster is expected — but Senate leaders say they have enough votes to block it.

The House, meanwhile, has scheduled a vote for Thursday on the president's veto of a $37 billion defense bill containing the authorization to build the nuclear carrier.

Carter claims another nuclear carrier is unnecessary and would be wasteful. House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill predicts the veto will be sustained. But supporters of the carrier are well organized and are expected to put up a heavy fight.

A two-thirds vote in both chambers is required to override a veto.

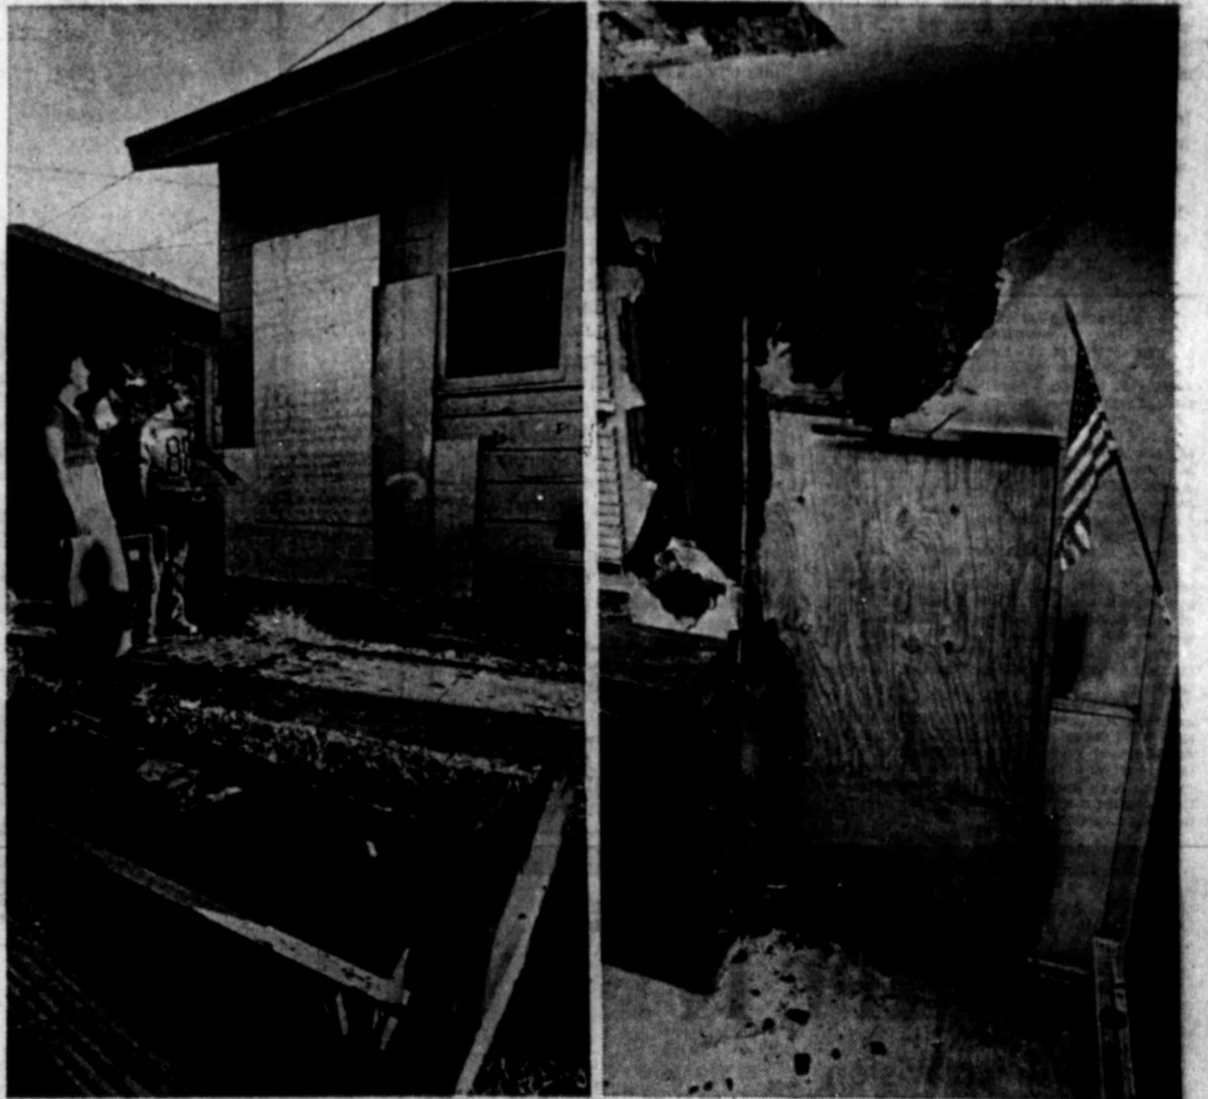

When it convenes on Wednesday, the Senate is to take up a proposed $489.5 billion federal budget for the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1, while the House is to consider plans to carry out federal aid to fincally struggling New York City. The basic legislation — for $1.8 billion, principally in guarantees to help the city borrow money — already has been enacted.

Long, busy sessions are expected throughout the month as the lawmakers race to try to finish by Oct. 7 so those up for re-election — and this includes the entire House — can go home to campaign.

A "lame-duck" session after the elections is possible, but congressional leaders hope it will not be necessary.

However, the White House is giving strong hints that the president may order Congress back into session.

ARSON SUSPECTED — Eighth-grade students Virginia Ortiz, Anselmo Martinez and Joey Molina inspect damage to an annex at Matthews Junior High School caused by an early-morning fire. Police and fire officials say arson is suspected in the

Tomorrow's Horoscope

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You must face up to realistic facts tomorrow. If you allow yourself to romanticize about objectives you could lose out completely.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be careful you're not out of line with the favor you ask tomorrow. What might be nice for you could be an extreme imposition on another.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you take things for granted tomorrow it's very likely you lost out on an opportunity that comes your way. Be alert and ready to respond.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Chances are your generosity will be abused tomorrow, but it's partially your fault. You'll make a commitment in order to show your worth.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Complacency will dilute any advantage you might have had in your commercial dealings tomorrow. It might prove a difficult to pin things down, but it's the only way to succeed.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It's easier for you to make promises tomorrow than it will be for you to keep them. Stand by your commitments or you could lose a friend.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Those big ideas you have tomorrow are a beauty to behold, but unless you're prepared to do something about them they'll remain only a pretty picture.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It would be unwise at this time to count on funds or resources you hope will be coming in. Be realistic. Work with what's at hand.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You might have to make a tough or stern promise tomorrow, all because you neglected too long a household matter that should have been attended to.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Better be prepared to roll up your sleeves and do your own work tomorrow. A co-worker you depend on will not come through as expected.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) All your problems tomorrow are simply because you won't live within your budget. Avoid extravagant spending and you'll avoid the headaches.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Being too opinionated tomorrow works against your best interests. If you have little regard for what others say, you're likely to find yourself all alone.

Death Toll Surpasses 1977 Mark

By United Press International
The last-minute rush of homeward-bound Labor Day weekend travelers pushed the holiday traffic death toll past last year's mark and toward the upper limits of the National Safety Council's pre-holiday projection.

A coordinated effort to bolster police patrols on the nation's most-traveled interstate highways appeared to have little effect in curbing highway deaths.

A count by United Press International showed 534 persons were killed in accidents during the holiday weekend, which began at 6 p.m. local time Friday and ended at midnight Monday.

A breakdown of accidental deaths:

Traffic	534
Drownings	36
Planes	16
Total	586

California reported 48 traffic deaths, Texas 45, Illinois 27, Wisconsin 26, Pennsylvania 23, Michigan 22 and Florida 21. No traffic deaths were reported in Alaska, Hawaii, New Hampshire, North Dakota and Rhode Island.

The National Safety Council had predicted 470 to 570 persons would be killed in holiday weekend traffic accidents.

The success of "Operation Care," a massive effort by troopers in more than 20 states to enforce the 55 mph speed limit, was limited at best for Labor Day vacationers out for a last summer fling.

Drunk driving arrests in California were up from the previous year—1,631 compared with 1,059, a spokesman for the California Highway Patrol said. Traffic deaths, he said, mounted at a pace comparable to a year ago.

Texas Department of Public Safety spokesman Jim Robinson blamed many of his state's deaths on "alcohol and excessive speed."

Museum To Relate Ranching Heritage

A 72-year heritage of ranching and cattle breeding will be shared with participants at the ninth annual Ranch Day beginning at 9 a.m., Sept. 23, at the Ranching Heritage Center of The Museum of Texas Tech University.

Wray Finney, a cattle industry representative and seventh-generation Oklahoma rancher, will speak at the Ranch Day noon luncheon.

The chuckwagon-style barbecue lunch will feature homemade sourdough pancakes, sauerkraut, applesauce and tea cakes, prepared in the historic houses on the 12-acre site. The center chronologically traces the development of the West through more than 20 structures originally used by the Southwest's first ranchers.

Center visitors will be able to watch docents in authentic costumes as they prepare epicurean delights from the pioneer days, after which visitors will be allowed to sample the finished products.

T.J. Nabors-Pearson of Lubbock will also be on hand to demonstrate the art of spinning at the Hedwigs Hill double log cabin, and square dancers and fiddlers will also be on hand.

Entertainment will continue during the luncheon, which will be followed by Finney's speech and the annual business meeting and election of officers for the Ranching Heritage Association.

All events, including the luncheon, will be open to the general public.

Finney, his son and his father operate the family ranch near Fort Cobb, Okla. The ranch, a cow-calf and yearling cattle operation, was established in 1906. Finney is also a managing partner of the Western Trio Cattle Breeding Fund, a cattle management firm in Guymon, Okla.

After serving two years as first vice president of the American National Cattlemen's Association (ANCA), Finney was elected to two terms as president.

He has also served on such committees as the Agriculture Standards Advisory Committee of the U.S. Department of Labor and the Cattle Industry Advisory Committee of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Finney was inducted in 1977 into the American Polled Hereford Association's Hall of Merit for public affairs service to the cattle industry. He has also been a recipient of the Progressive Farmer magazine's Man of the Year in Southwest Agriculture award.

Tickets for Ranch Day, including the meal, are $4.50 for adults and $1.75 for children for members of the Ranching Heritage Association, and $5.50, adults and $2.25, children, for non-members.

Tickets are available from the association, P.O. Box 4499, Lubbock, 79409, 806-742-2498.

Civil Rights Leader Says Protests To Continue

TUPELO, Miss. (AP) — A civil rights leader who admonished marchers to allow Ku Klux Klansmen to pass through their ranks unharmed says protests of alleged discrimination will continue in this racially tense town.

Alfred "Skip" Robinson, president of the United League of Mississippi, told some 500 members and supporters to allow marching Klansmen to pass without incident Monday. Klansmen filed silently past the civil rights marchers' traditional meeting ground prior to rallies — the black Springhill Baptist Church.

The Klansmen were met with jeers and taunts, but the confrontation ended without other incidents. The group of some 75 Klansmen, about half of whom were robed but not masked, altered its route through the downtown section to travel the street in front of the church.

"We will continue to demonstrate our grievances until we reach the concerns of black and white people throughout America," Robinson told supporters later, after the league rallied on the steps of the Lee County Courthouse. "We will march not only in Tupelo, not only in Mississippi, but all over the world."

The league has led a series of marches during the past six months and sponsored an economic boycott of white-owned businesses to press demands for an end to alleged police brutality and more minority hiring in the city.

In response, Klansmen have mounted an intermittent campaign of their own which leaders say is intended to demonstrate sympathy for white Tupelo residents.

"Ku Klux Klan, slum of the land," taunted members of the crowd gathered at the church, as Klansmen silently wove their way among them. Several hundred of the league supporters blocked the street as the Klansmen passed. Bill Wilkinson, Imperial Wizard of a Denham Springs, La., Klavern, was dressed in a light gray suit as he strode between two robed Klansmen at the head of the procession.

After the Klansmen disappeared, the league began its march through the downtown section to the courthouse.

Among those in the league march, some of whom carried banners, were representatives of the National Lawyers Guild, the Medical Committee for Human Rights, members of the Revolutionary Workers Headquarters and the Chain-breakers, two Chicago groups, and out-of-staters from Milwaukee, Baltimore and New York.

Farmers Want Migrant Strike Probe

CAREY, Ohio (AP) — As striking migrant laborers march toward Columbus, a group of Ohio tomato farmers says it wants a congressional investigation into whether federal money is being used to support the migrants' work stoppage.

Some 140 members of the Farm Labor Organizing Committee marched about 20 miles Monday before stopping for their first night at a Roman Catholic shrine in this northwest Ohio town.

The call for an investigation of La Raza Unida of Ohio, a social action agency, came from disgruntled farmers in nearby Leipsic, who staged a 110-car caravan Monday opposing the organizing committee. La Raza is a federally funded agency that provides services to migrants.

"It seems totally unreasonable that our farmers should have to pay taxes to the federal government, and then have those tax dollars being used to support an organization that's intent upon breaking the tomato industry, at least in this area," said Paul Cunningham, a lawyer representing farmers in Putnam and Henry counties.

La Raza and strike officials deny the agency is directly supporting the strike, which is aimed at raising migrants' salaries and gaining them a voice in contracts between farmers and canneries.

Romiro Estrada, executive director of La Raza Unida of Ohio, said in Columbus that the money given to migrants in this two-county strike target area was dispersed under guidelines set by the U.S. Department of Labor.

Congressmen Want To Reduce Power Of FTC

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission, a consumer protection agency once criticized for doing too little, now is widely accused in Congress and state capitals of doing too much.

So far in 1978, the agency has:

- Been accused of usurping the role of parents by proposing limits on television advertising aimed at children.
- Raised the hackles of states by overruling 45 state laws on price advertising of eyeglasses. Hundreds of other state laws are due to be pre-empted in the future unless the courts say the FTC is acting illegally.
- Fought running battles with some of the nation's largest businesses over its demands for information to help regulate the companies.

These issues likely will be debated this month in Capitol Hill, where many legislators want to allow either house of Congress to veto FTC actions.

Rep. Elliott H. Levitas, D-Ga., is leading the veto push. "The FTC is really a mini-legislature, but the people who compose it have never suffered the inconvenience of running for public office," he said in an interview.

Levitas and his allies say Congress should be the judge of policy decisions the FTC has been making.

The FTC once was considered a bureaucratic joke for such cases as the one in which it took 13 years to get Geritol to stop claiming it cured "tired blood." In 1969 consumer activist Ralph Nader charged that the FTC avoided cases against big business while wasting its time on trivia.

Since then the agency's budget and staff have expanded greatly, as has its legal authority.

Michael Pertschuk, who as chief counsel to the Senate Commerce Committee contributed to strengthening the laws the FTC enforces, is now FTC chairman.

He came into office last year pledging to push to the "outer limits" the FTC's ability to stop concentrations of economic power. He staffed the agency, charged with policing unfair and deceptive trade practices, with aggressive lawyers eager to battle business to protect consumers.

In a separate interview, Pertschuk opposed the congressional veto backed by Levitas and said Congress does not have the resources for reviewing all decisions of such agencies as the FTC. He said Congress would be faced with lobbyists for every industry that does not like the way it is being regulated.

"We follow a laborious process of getting at the facts, where we are required by Congress to listen to all sides and carefully consider the consequences before issuing any rule," he said. He argued that this long process should not be subject to veto by one house that has been effectively lobbied by the regulated industry.

The most controversial of the actions voted by the commission this year was to consider writing a rule on television advertising aimed at children. The proposed rule, which could not become final until after many months of hearings and other procedures, could lead to a ban on commercials of sugary foods targeted at young children.

The commission began the rulemaking after finding evidence that television ads for sugar-laden cereals and candies often lead children to want products detrimental to good nutrition. In fact, younger children do not understand the difference between a commercial message urging them to use a product and the programs themselves, the FTC staff said.

Some have said the FTC is setting itself up as the "national nanny" by telling children what television advertising they can watch.

Broadcasters and advertising executives have said the rule could violate the free-speech guarantee of the First Amendment.

With an estimated $600 million at stake in the advertisements and the television programs they support, the affected industries have lobbied Congress to try to end or restrict the rulemaking. Even if Congress does not act on the children's television issue, any final FTC rule is sure to be the subject of court challenges.

One area that already is in the courts is whether the FTC can do away with state laws regulating industries. Every state except Arizona, California, Colorado, Iowa and Maryland had legal restrictions on price advertising of eyeglasses wiped out by the FTC.

The commission cites as its authority the 1974 Magnuson-Moss Act giving it the power to write rules regulating entire industries, rather than issuing rules on one company at a time.

DR. LAMB

Spot Reducing Myth

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB
 DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 21-year-old female who jogs 15 minutes every day. Inside the house in bad weather or outside in fair. My goal is to slim down my hips and thighs. Since I'm 5 foot 5 and weigh 110 pounds I don't want to cut down on what I eat but the weight I do carry is in my hips.

Jogging is one exercise I really enjoy and, therefore, do. However, several people have told me that jogging every day tears down cells, slimming the hips, while jogging every other day gives the cells time to strengthen and build bigger hips and thighs. Is there any truth to that at all?

I've also heard that swift running builds one up while a slow jog slims one down. Is this true? Certainly I'm getting firmer but what does it take in the way of jogging to get my smaller hip and thigh measurements?

DEAR READER — It depends how big your hip and thigh measurements are to start with. There is no such thing as spot reducing and if you want to get rid of fat you have to lose body fat. Of course, you might develop muscles at the same time if you're on an exercise program that may make your overall body look better.

There's absolutely no truth to the stories you have heard about jogging every day or every other day. It's value in terms of getting rid of body fat depends on how many calories you use.

If you jog two miles every day, you're obviously going to use more calories than if you jog two miles every other day. Under those circumstances, jogging every day would certainly be more effective. The speed makes no difference either in terms of building your muscles or slimming your thighs.

You shouldn't starve yourself to lose weight. Too many people have done that. A sensible dietary restriction program while you're exercising will help you lose fat a little more rapidly. Also, if you learn to eat properly it may provide the basis for good nutrition in the future.

For this reason I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet. It will provide you a basic menu that you can use to help lose weight at the same time you are exercising. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1561, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

You shouldn't lose more than about the pound a week. That's fast enough. After six weeks you should stop, eat a maintenance diet for awhile, and then return to your reducing diet. Stick with your exercise and be patient. In the long run you will get significant improvement.

Hereditary traits are important. Some families just tend to have larger hips and thighs than others. We shouldn't be surprised about this in human beings as we see it all the time in the animal kingdom. For example, different breeds of horses and different breeds of cattle have different tendencies toward developing body fat deposits. Nevertheless, even if you inherit characteristics that you don't like, you can do a certain amount to control them through proper dietary and exercise programs.

Drug Firms Awaiting Antitrust Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation awaiting action in Congress could enable five giant drug firms to escape suits by foreign governments seeking millions of dollars for alleged overcharges.

The legislation, proposed by the State Department and Justice Department, is designed to overturn a Supreme Court ruling last year that said a foreign nation has the same rights as a U.S. citizen under the antitrust laws.

Supporters of the legislation say it is needed to avoid witting the United States at a disadvantage with nations which fix prices for oil and other commodities, but do not allow suits by the U.S. government.

Its opponents say it would violate treaties authorizing the U.S. and foreign governments to sue in each others courts. They also say it would weaken the deterrent effect of the antitrust laws and thus encourage U.S. firms to overcharge Americans as well as foreigners.

Differing form of legislation to deal with the high court ruling were tacked on in the House and Senate as amendments to a bill designed to overturn another Supreme Court decision restricting antitrust suits by consumers.

In that decision, the high court ruled that private antitrust suits can be filed only by those who buy directly from the manufacturer. The court said allowing indirect purchases to sue would add "whole new dimensions of complexity" to private antitrust cases.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and other supporters of the bill contend that the decision penalizes consumers and government agencies who are illegally overcharged by middlemen.

Antitrust suits often run into big money because winning plaintiffs are entitled to collect three times the amount by which they were damaged. The Justice Department says the decision could cost the federal government up to $205 million, and state attorneys general say it would affect about $300 million in suits they have filed.

The other high court decision — dealing with foreign suits — arose from actions by India, Iran, West Germany, Colombia and the Philippines against Pfizer Inc., American Cyanamid, Bristol-Myers, Upjohn and Squibb. The suits are pending in lower federal courts.

While the amounts of damages are not spelled out in the suits, one of the lawyers involved estimated they would be in the tens of millions of dollars.

The portion of the House bill dealing with this issue would bar all antitrust suits by foreign governments. The Senate Judiciary Committee took a less stringent approach, saying foreign governments could sue, but only for their actual damages and only if they permit other countries to file antitrust suits in their courts.

No date has been set for floor action in either house.

Movers Oppose Binding Estimates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Movers Conference is fighting the Interstate Commerce Commission's proposal to make binding the estimates that movers give for the cost of shipping household goods.

The industry group says the proposal is illegal, adding that the ICC lacks statutory authority to promulgate it. The conference has told the regulatory agency the binding e.o.d. estimate proposal would require carriers to discriminate against certain shippers. In a statement issued late Friday, the group also contended the rule would violate sections of the Interstate Commerce Act and the Elkins Act, both of which require carriers to adhere strictly to their tariffs.

Relieves Tormenting Rectal Pain And Itch, Helps Shrink Swelling Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues

...Due to inflammation. Gives prompt, temporary relief from such burning itch and pain in many cases.

The burning itch and pain caused by infection and inflammation in hemorrhoidal tissues can cause much suffering. But there is an exclusive formulation that in many cases gives prompt relief for hours from this itch and pain so that the sufferer is more comfortable again. It also actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation and infection.

Tests by doctors on hundreds of patients in New York City, Washington, D.C. and at a Midwest Medical Center reported similar successful results in many cases. This is the same medication you can buy at any drug counter under the name Preparation H.

Preparation H also lubricates to protect the inflamed surface area and it doesn't sting or smart. In fact, it has very soothing qualities which make it especially helpful during the night when itching becomes more intense.

There's no other formula like Preparation H. A ointment or suppository form.

The rest of the lineup includes: The Statler Brothers, 5 p.m. and 8 p.m. Sept. 25; the Johnny Rodriguez show, with Linda Hargrove, 8 p.m. only Sept. 26; the Jim Ed Brown show, with Helen Cornelius and Wendy Holcombe, 8 p.m. only Sept. 27; Eddie Rabbitt and Jerry Clower, 8 p.m. only Sept. 28; and Mel Tillis, 8 p.m. Sept. 29 and 5 p.m. Sept. 30.

Four free outdoor shows and a fiddlers contest also are on the entertainment menu.

Lewis Denies Being Paid For Telethon

LAS VEGAS (AP) — In a rambling and emotional television speech, a bitter Jerry Lewis denied he personally made money from his Labor Day Muscular Dystrophy telethon.

"Twenty-seven letters question not only does Jerry get paid for doing this telethon — this hurts," Lewis said in the final two hours Monday of the 21½-hour telethon.

He added, "They assured us that they will not send the pledge they made until they are assured that he volunteered his time and talent ... Well, they're holding back dollars from my kids. So I answered them."

Then the comedian, reading from a statement he said he wrote at 3 a.m. Monday, said:

"... the answer is absolutely no. I receive nothing from the MD telethon or any of the MD activities throughout the year, and there are many of them. Every dime is accounted for, and through the Freedom of Information Act plus a variety of other laws you can get all the figures from our accounting and see where every penny goes, where every penny has gone and still goes."

At the end of the statement, the crowd in the Sahara Hotel ballroom, headquarters for the telethon, cheered.

Lewis' statement caused an uproar throughout much of the country because most viewers never heard it after being told by Lewis it was coming up. Lewis made the statement when the network telecast cut away to local stations.

At the end of the telecast, Lewis was in a much happier frame of mind after a record amount of pledges.

"I doed it! I doed it!" he screamed.

The telethon, the 13th consecutive one hosted by Lewis on Labor Day, collected a record $29,074,405 in pledges, said Lewis' spokesman Horace Petzall, topping last year's previous high of $26,841,419.

About 100 entertainment and sports personalities appeared on the telecast, which ran from 6 p.m. Sunday to 3:30 p.m. Monday.

(The South Plains area also set a record and exceeded its goal with residents contributing and pledging in excess of $137,331.)

(The total surpassed last year's contributions totalling $135,644.)

(Lubbock residents gave $49,938; Abilene, $618; Brownfield, $2,604; Crosbyton, $577; Lamesa, $34,091; Levelland, $31,444; Littlefield, $1,555; Muleshoe, $1,963; Plainview, $4,922; Post, $1,472; and Tahoka, $908.)

Thief Ejects Sleepy Pet

MIAMI (AP) — A thief took David Lipsey's car but hurried out the passenger as soon as he woke from a nap.

The passenger was a snake named Edith, a 16-foot, 8-inch Burmese python who had been sleeping in a silk bag on the front seat.

"My snake is gone! My snake is gone! And so is my car," Lipsey told Police Sgt. Gerald Green.

Just minutes later, though, a frantic service station operator called police to say a gigantic snake had been thrown out of a car by a bearded man who then roared off.

Lipsey and the snake were soon reunited, and Lipsey declared: "She's glad to see me." She showed it by persistently winding herself around his leg.

Lipsey, who is from Buffalo, N.Y., said he had brought Edith to Miami to find a mate and had been performing with her in nightclubs.

Nuclear Plant Protesters Face Trespass Charges

SEABROOK, N.H. (UPI) — Nine anti-nuclear protesters who invaded the Seabrook nuclear power plant today faced criminal trespass and disorderly conduct charges.

State police troopers Monday dragged the protesters from the construction site as they chanted and sang songs decrying nuclear power. Seven men and two women from Connecticut and New Jersey were arrested and held in jail overnight pending arraignment today in Hampton District Court.

The protest was part of a continuing string of civil disobedience actions by members of the Clamshell Alliance, a loose-knit coalition of antinuclear groups from New England that has fought the atomic plant. This latest demonstration was conducted by the Alliance' Connecticut branch.

Construction recently resumed at the Seabrook plant, which is not expected to go on line for four more years, after federal regulators decided the open ocean cooling system would not harm the marine environment in this coastal town.

The cooling system will take in ocean water, circulate it through heat exchangers and return it the ocean 39 degrees warmer than surrounding water. Environmentalists claim the process will prove harmful to the rich marine life.

Five demonstrators Monday walked through the main gate, laid down on an access road and were dragged away by state police.

Argentine Chief Says Regime To Allow Political Parties In Future

 Lynn D. Pierce

ROME (AP) — Argentina's president defended his military regime today and said political parties will be allowed to operate again "in due time."
 President Jorge Rafael Videla, visiting Europe for the first time to attend the inauguration of Pope John Paul I, appeared unruffled by hostile demonstrations against him Sunday, although they were the only sour note during the papal ceremony.

 "We understand that a democracy without political parties cannot be considered as such," the 53-year-old general said in an interview with The Associated Press. "Consequently, the political parties whose activities are at present suspended will again be able to function in due time. Not immediately, but when the country is duly reorganized and these parties can stop being vote-gathering enterprises and become true opinion-forming bodies."

Videla shrugged off criticism of political repression in Argentina, saying what opponents abroad say "is up to them." He said at times "uninformed persons of good faith" are given a "distorted" version of the situation in Argentina.
 "This is a phenomenon that affects not only Argentina," he said. "It is a worldwide phenomenon that seeks to confuse friends so they can't see where their enemies are and who are their enemies."

Argentine exiles, Italian leftists and Catholic groups demonstrated against Videla's presence before the papal ceremony, and during the Mass two "Videla Assassins" streamers were unfurled in St. Peter's Square.

Videla was the most active head of state attending the inauguration. He had a private audience with the pope on Monday and met also with Italian Premier Giulio Andreotti, U.S. Vice President Walter F. Mondale, French Premier Raymond Barre, Lebanese Premier Elias Sarkis, Yugoslav Vice President Lazar Koljesevic, Fiat president Gianni Agnelli and other leading Italian businessmen.

A U.S. spokesman said Videla and Mondale had a "frank talk" about U.S.-Argentine relations.

The French premier said in a statement he appealed for the release of three Frenchmen detained in Argentina. Barre said he told Videla the French government wants to improve relations with Argentina, but this "will be easier if the climate is less tense." Barre said he also told Videla "French people are, by tradition, attached to respect of human rights."

Videla said Pope John Paul showed "undeniable traits of humility and warmth which make him a really nice figure and inspire the respect of those who, like myself, had the opportunity to meet him."

Flooding Takes Heavy Toll In India

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Floods caused by the summer monsoons have killed more than 800 persons in seven northern states, and thousands are unaccounted for in West Bengal, near Calcutta.

Hundreds of thousands have been driven from flooded villages, and an estimated 10,000 homes have been destroyed since the annual rains began in June.

Many survivors in West Bengal were perched on housetops and in trees. The United News of India said cholera patients in the Midnapore district west of Calcutta were being treated on the roof of the district hospital.

Tens of thousands were evacuated from low-lying areas of the national capital districts of Old and New Delhi threatened by the Yamuna River. The river has flooded dozens of villages in Haryana and Uttar Pradesh states to the north.

Delhi municipal officials asked about 200,000 refugees to seek relief camps set up in schools and stadiums.

Several thousand residents of a two-year-old housing project in Jhangirpuri, about 13 miles north of New Delhi, fled from their homes Monday, taking what they could in trucks and carts. The move is an annual event of the monsoon season since the project was built on lowlands along the Yamuna.

Air force helicopters were dropping food to stranded villagers including about 750 marooned communities in Orissa state, on the Bay of Bengal.

Chess Contest Postponed

BAGUIO, Philippines (UPI) — In a move to break the momentum of his challenger, titlist Anatoly Karpov today requested and was granted a postponement of the 19th game of the world chess championship.

Karpov made the request six hours before the scheduled start of the game against Soviet defector Viktor Korchnoi, who was to play the white pieces.

The game was rescheduled for Thursday at 5 p.m. 14 a.m. CDT.

It was the second time Karpov, who holds a commanding 4-1 lead and needs only two more victories to retain his crown, asked for a time out in the $550,000 match.

Each player is allowed three postponements without any reason.

Korchnoi has used up all his postponements. Karpov's request was intended to blunt the momentum that the 47-year-old Korchnoi gained Sunday by overcoming a positional disadvantage in the 18th game and forcing a draw.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: It's obvious that you were never a waitress or you never would have given MIFFED IN MASS, the answer you did. (MIFFED asked for separate checks and was told it wasn't the policy of the restaurant. And you said "Complain to the management, and if that doesn't help, next time take your business elsewhere.")

Abby, you have no idea how much time it takes to write up eight different checks and to collect from eight different people!

Also, when the chef gets eight separate orders, he thinks they're all singles and it creates confusion in the kitchen.

Please be fair and tell both sides of the story.

BETTY INK.C.

Dear Betty: OK, color me "fair." I received a good number of complaints about my answer. Here's another:

DEAR ABBY: Please don't start crusading for separate checks! I'm a waiter, and I can tell you that when a group of people comes in together during the rush hour and demands separate checks, it's easy for one or two to walk out without paying. It happens often, and guess who gets stuck?

DEAR ABBY: My sister brought her 5-year-old daughter to spend a few weeks with us this summer. We have a 7-year-old son who is an only child.

The youngsters spent a lot of time together and were very compatible. One afternoon they were exceptionally quiet, so I went to check on them. I was horrified to find them in the bedroom playing "doctor."

I won't go into detail here, but the little girl was the "patient" and my son was the "doctor," and he was "examining" her, if you know what I mean.

How would you have handled this situation? My sister and I don't agree.

FULLERTON, CALIF.

Dear Fullerton: I would have kept my cool and not made a big deal out of it.

All kids are naturally curious about the bodies of the opposite sex, and "playing doctor" is one way to satisfy that curiosity. It's not serious — as long as they don't operate.

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the 17-year-old who doesn't clean his room: You were right — up to a point. Yes, close his door, but don't go and rattle it once a week. It's his room, his mess and his responsibility.

If Mom always cleans up his messes, he'll grow up to be one more male who is convinced that if he doesn't clean up after himself, there will always be a woman to do it for him. First it's Mom, then it's his wife.

If he becomes messy enough to disgust himself, he will clean it up. How do I know? My two older daughters are now married and their homes are immaculate and neat. My youngest daughter, 17, is still at home and still a slob — just as her two older sisters used to be.

The bidding:
North East South West
Pass Pass 2 NT Pass
3 NT Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: Six of ♠.

Knowing the capabilities of your opponents can be tremendously helpful in the play. It made a world of difference on this hand from the recent Summer North American Championships, played in Toronto late in July.

The bidding was simple enough. South showed a strong balanced hand and North had something in reserve for his raise to game.

Sitting West was one of the country's leading players, Peter Weichsel of New York. He chose as his lead his fourth-best club. Declarer won the jack, entered dummy with the queen of diamonds and ran the ten of spades to the jack.

West took time out to study the situation. It seemed likely that some pairs would play in four spades — their 4-4 fit. That contract would go down, since declarer would have to lose at least two trump tricks and two clubs. So he had to defeat three no trump to achieve a reasonable score. Three club tricks and two spades would accomplish that, so to set up his clubs, he continued with a low card in that suit, presenting declarer with a second club trick. He hoped to get in with the king of spades to cash his clubs.

Declarer was fully aware of his left-hand opponent's reputation, yet West had given him a trick to which he was not really entitled. The only reason he could find for this largesse was that West expected to get in with the king of spades to cash more clubs.

So declarer adopted a line based on the fact that West was not by nature charitable, and that he held the king of spades. Instead of repeating the spade finesse, declarer cashed his red-suit winners, then exited with a club.

West was able to cash three club tricks to go with his jack of spades, but he came down to king and one spade and was forced to lead away from the king into declarer's ace-queen tenace. That gave declarer nine tricks — two spades, two hearts, three diamonds and two clubs.

Our readers will, no doubt, notice that West could have avoided the end play by exiting with ace and another club, but that does not detract from declarer's brilliant card reading.

Old Furs Become New Toys

By ELLIE GROSSMAN
NEW YORK (NEA) — It's hard enough to get hold of a unicorn coat these days and when you do, it covers in the closets. Such a shy animal.

Still, if you have one you're tired of coaxing off the hanger, think about having Dorothy Harris make a stuffed unicorn out of it. You can get a unicorn-ette for $18 or a big one for $45, or just about any other animal you want, for that fact.

Miss Harris, who calls herself Haradora Designs and previously spent 11 years of "frightful frustration" as a social worker, already has 35 patterns for the animals she makes from old fur coats and scraps of leather. There's the squirrel, and the poodle which looks swell in Persian lamb, and the penguin which gets a seal-skin body often and leather flippers always.

If you want, say, a gnu, she can look it up in one of her animal picture books, make a plastic or paper pattern, then sew the whole gnu up on her industrial sewing machine.

"I've been doing this full-time since '76," she said recently in the warehouse loft she shares with 22 other artists. "I make about 24 animals a week. It takes me two hours to do the small animals and two-to-four for the large ones."

Lots of Persian lamb and sealskin coats come her way, she said, but she doesn't know why. And she gets lots of requests for pigs, which she does in suede, and there was the woman who brought in her beaver coat and requested a 43-inch high bear for her daughter who was 43 inches high and about to celebrate her fifth birthday.

Designer Patterns Reduce Price Of Paris Originals

Everyone knows you can save money just by sewing your own fashions. But did you know you can save up to a thousand dollars or so on a single garment if you want to recreate a high fashion item? Of course, you can't save that kind of money on a polyester pants suit. You have to whip up a designer pattern, thereby saving the cost of the Paris original.

For example, a major sewing machine manufacturer recently offered dramatic proof of the sew-and-save potential of high style in a star-studded fashion show highlighting the reopening of their flagship store in New York's glittering Rockefeller Center just off Fifth Avenue. A parade of celebrities modeled original fashions from such designers as Nina Ricci, Givenchy, Christian Dior and Yves St.

Laurent, each with its line-for-line copy made from an American pattern.

Actress Lynn Redgrave appeared in a black wool flannel "Gigi" suit with a white crepe de chine blouse. The ensemble by Christian Dior, is priced at $1,067. The copy cost $71. An Yves St. Laurent original in ivory silk jacquard dress by Nina Ricci, costing $836; her daughter, Blanche Baker, wore the $73 copy.

Socialite Cornelia Sharpe showed off a graceful dress in floral silk crepe de chine by Emanuel Ungaro, priced at $650. The copy cost $64. A Givenchy pants and blouse set worn by Tammy Grimes cost a whopping $1,144; the copy came in for $38.50.

How come designer fashions are so costly? First, there's the designer name. Then there's the cost of fine fabrics. And finally, there's the labor — and lots and lots of handwork, long fitting sessions and meticulous detail. It adds up.

A Paris original pattern costs you only a few dollars — $7.50 tops — but delivers a tremendous amount of fashion. Pattern company representatives attend the twice-yearly Paris showings. They purchase the garments which will be made into American patterns. They also buy the toile, or muslin, and the paper pattern. The original is photographed for the pattern envelope. The paper pattern is re-sized to fit the contours of the American woman and conform to established pattern measurements. The patterns are exact duplicates of the original. If some small change is made, such as an extra dart, permission must be obtained from the couturier.

When you sew a designer fashion, you pay only for your materials. The high priced designer name is included in your pattern; you can put any price you like on your own time and effort. You can buy the finest fabrics you can find, and still save a small fortune everytime you sew a designer pattern.

By putting on a fashion show like this one, the manufacturer casts a vote of confidence for the skill and fashion savvy of the woman who sews.

"Today's sewers are creative people," says vice president of the company, John J. Poggi, "looking for ideas and ways to improve their sewing skills." By revamping the Rockefeller Center store, and other key stores, they are emphasizing creativity and fashion. As the cost of ready-to-wear continues to soar, the smart money is in sewing, for top fashion, individual fit and real savings.

Inventor Bakes Better Buns

By TOM UHLENBROCK
ST. LOUIS (UPI) — A dream has become reality for Theodore Heidepriem — groceries (are) stocking his redesigned hamburger and hot dog buns.

"I started in the baking business when I was 16," said the 67-year-old Heidepriem, "and I guess I actually got this idea around 1942.

"I like eating sloppy joes and coney dogs, but you always get yourself messed up. I thought there was a better way to do it."

Heidepriem's idea was to make a bun which acts like a small bowl. A porous inside soaks up the juices, and a sturdy outside keeps the bun from becoming a soggy mess.

"I finally figured how to do it in 1972," Heidepriem said. "I was lying in bed half-awake one night thinking about all the ways I had tried to make the thing work. I was mad because I couldn't figure it out.

"The buns were either burnt on one side, too tall or too narrow. I thought of what I hadn't done, and realized that was it. It dawned on me to make them upside down."

Heidepriem ran to his kitchen, used a hammer to pound out a tinfoil mold and applied some dough.

"It baked off beautifully. Holy Smokes, was I happy."

Turn a regular hamburger bun upside down, indent the bottom so you have a place to hold the goodies, and you have Heidepriem's invention. A simple idea, but only Heidepriem came up with the method of baking that type of bun.

Heidepriem was granted a patent for his new buns Feb. 26, 1974, and he proudly noted his invention is the first of its kind in the baking business since 1904. He organized a small company to market the product, and American Bakeries Co. agreed to make the buns and distribute them in the St. Louis area.

The packaged buns have a red heart on the outside with "Love'N Buns" printed on it. The name was invented by Heidepriem's son.

The buns are not meant to replace the conventional buns used for hamburgers, but are perfect for messier treats such as sloppy joes or tuna-and-egg-salad sandwiches.

The hot dog buns look like small canoes on which the weiner nestles nicely.

"The Pizza Huts are using them for meatball sandwiches," Heidepriem said. "Everywhere I've taken them, the people have been interested. I haven't found anybody negative."

Heidepriem retains the patent on the buns and will collect royalties for each sale. "It could possibly make me rich; I've been told that," he said with a laugh. "But it was never for the money."

"It's just seeing the buns in the grocery stores and saying, 'I figured that one out.' I don't need any yachts — I can't even swim."

Doctor Claims Medical Profession Losing Public Respect In U.S.

By VIRGINIA KELLY
Women's News Service

"Doctors today don't realize that they're not dealing with used cars; they're dealing with people!"

The speaker, Dr. Edgai Berman, talking about his own profession, medicine.

"It's a sick profession and it's getting sicker."
He was saying what a lot of people are thinking these days. The medical profession has apparently fallen to an all-time low in public esteem. Doctors' indifference, coupled with casual treatment and lack of concern, plus soaring fees, have made more than one ailing American think that maybe an African witch doctor might be a better bet than a high-priced-smoothy specialist.

The old-time general practitioner, now as remote as Aesculapian (the ancient Greek and Roman god of medicine), may not have had the answer either, but at least he had compassion — and time to listen.

Berman was fulminating about this over coffee in New York's Algonquin Hotel. He doesn't deny that there are obviously some caring doctors in every field, but his barbs are reserved for doctors who care more about their bank account than the blood bank and who are more concerned with a stock market graph than a fever chart.

The salty Berman comes well-equipped for battle. Baltimore-born and trained, he was associate professor at John Hopkins University, past president of MEDICO, consultant to the State Department and HEW, worked with Albert Schweitzer in Africa, and with his pioneer work in heart transplants, held invitational scholarships to eight European countries. He was also physician to the late Sen. Hubert Humphrey.

In his late 50s, Berman has retired from practice and is currently devoting most of his time to horses — raising thoroughbreds in Maryland — that is, when he is not taking swipes at the abuses in his own profession.

Berman is impartial in his targets. Pediatrics, urology, cosmetic surgery, psychiatry, dermatology, neurosurgery, gynecology — name 'em, and Berman has something to say about abuses in each field.

"As with most of medicine," says he, "morality and ethics goeth before the buck." He wrote a witty and biting book called "The Solid Gold Stethoscope," which came out in 1976 and is now in paperback. Its cover bears the warning: "Your doctor may be hazardous to your health."

One of Berman's favorite targets is the doctor who figures that it is a bad investment to spend more than nine minutes and 33 seconds with a patient. He acts as though every minute over that is costing him 9 percent on the bank loan for his wife's new mink.

He asks, "How much rapport can be built up in a 10-minute contact in a cold cubicle with a patient who has waited for four hours?" The doctor who runs from one patient to another in each of the cubicles comes off just as badly: "Even to remember what each looks like last time around is a triumph in this revolving-door routine."

Today's doctor gets a lot of mileage and unnecessary gratitude (and high fees) out of treating ailments that a 19th century medicine-show spieler could handle. Most real diseases, according to Berman, can usually be handled with a capsule or two but the doctor takes full credit and sends a whopping bill.

Challenges Berman, "How could the patient feel anything but grateful and God-fearing to come out of the nightmare alive, though it's about as risky as an FHA loan to Nelson Rockefeller?"

But the patient is to blame, too. More than three-quarters of all patients going to a doctor, according to Berman, "have little more wrong with them than what a considerate spouse, a kindly bartender, or a hefty raise in salary couldn't cure."

The patient used to be satisfied with having his blood pressure checked and a stethoscope put to his lungs, but now, "if he doesn't get the full routine of being wired up so the voltage of brain, heart, and skin can be examined, he'll take his body elsewhere."

As it is now, the doctor-patient relationship has deteriorated to that of "God and clod," with the doctor getting

"respect, adoration, and a handsome fee while the patient — if he's lucky — gets well."

Medicine today is too full of administrators — 175,000 of whom never see a patient. Berman estimates that we have about 80 percent more surgeons than we need, especially since a large number of the 3.2 million operations performed annually are unnecessary.

The solution? "National Health Service is the only answer and even that has its own problems."

He is convinced that in spite of all of the AMA lobbying against it, National Health Service will become law. "There'll be a bureaucrat looking down every M.D.'s throat," he predicts.

Even so, Berman is not optimistic about his profession. "Those self-same physicians who've given us the nursing home problem, made a guaranteed annual income out of Medicaid, thrown Medicare into virtual bankruptcy, and almost alone have seen to it that Blue Cross premiums rise at least 20 percent or so a year...will never allow the manner of life to which they have become accustomed to perish from these shores."

Having demolished the medical profession, Berman is now honing his scalpel for the far-out feminists. His new book, he says, with a wry smile, is called "The Feminist Mistake — or Delusions of Grandeur."

Marinade Adds Flavor To Inexpensive Meats

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (Special) — It's a funny thing about marinating. Most people associate it with fancy eating, restaurant dining, exotic cuisines and the like. And yet, marinating probably was invented several thousand years ago, as a way to flavor and tenderize inexpensive cuts of meat. We still use it for that purpose today.

Marinated foods are good all year around, of course, but they seem to gain a special popularity for home cooking during the warm months. Perhaps that is because this is the grilling time, and there is nothing nicer than a marinated shish kebab. London broil or chicken cooked on a charcoal grill and basted as it cooks with more of the marinade. Marinated, fresh, tender vegetables, straight from the garden and barely cooked, such as beans, asparagus, carrots, beets or mushrooms are wonderfully refreshing, too, as a summer appetizer, bedded on lettuce as a salad or served as the vegetable course. Fruits, too, can be soaked in fruit juice or wine and served as a special summer appetizer, salad or dessert.

Making marinades can be almost a game, because the ingredients mix and match with such fascinating variety. A marinade usually includes oil, spices or herbs and some kind of food acid (wine, vinegar, tomato, orange, or lemon juice). The variations on these combinations are endless.

The length of time in which a food should marinate depends on what it is and how much tenderizing it needs. Thick, less tender cuts of meat, for instance, can benefit from overnight or even several days' soaking. Poultry or fish need only a little time in a marinade, but they and vegetables, too, may become more flavorful with longer soaking. Marinating can be done in either a bowl or a deep pan. But you can also save on the dishwashing by using a clear plastic freezer bag for the whole process. Just drop in all the marinade ingredients, toss in the meat, vegetable, fruit or fish and close the bag...marinating has begun.

Marinades can be saved and used again, by the way, stored in any closed container. One French chef suggests that you can keep a cooked marinade refrigerated almost indefinitely, but he recommends that the mixture be boiled occasionally, with a little more wine and oil added with each boiling. Marinades can also be frozen. Remove it when needed, use it and freeze it again.

When grilling kebabs thread the meat on long, sturdy skewers, long enough so they reach all across the grill. Leave a small space between pieces to allow for basting and heat penetration. Thread cherry tomatoes, onions, green peppers, etc. separately, as they will require a shorter cooking time than the meat. And when using a sweetened marinade made with sugar, honey or tomato for a barbecued meat, do not use the marinade as a basting until the last 15 minutes or so, as these ingredients will burn readily and could ruin the taste of the meat.

Below are several good recipes for marinating.

MARINATED ZUCCHINI SALAD
2 cups thinly sliced unpared zucchini or yellow squash
2 medium ripe tomatoes, cored and thinly sliced
1 small red onion, sliced
1/2 lemon, thinly sliced and seeded
1/2 cup olive or salad oil
2 tbsps. vinegar
2 tbsps. fresh lemon juice
3/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1 clove garlic, minced (optional)
2 cups salad greens, torn into bite-size pieces
Place zucchini, tomatoes, red onion and lemon slices in a large (gallon size) clear plastic freezer bag. Mix oil, vinegar, lemon juice, salt, pepper and garlic in a small bowl; pour over vegetables. Seal bag and refrigerate several hours, turning bag two or three times. At serving time, place greens in a salad bowl, spoon marinated vegetables on top, toss to mix well. Makes 6 servings.

MEDITERRANEAN STYLE MARINATED VEGETABLES
1 pkg. (9-oz.) frozen whole or cut green beans
1 pkg. (9-oz.) frozen asparagus sprouts
1 pkg. (10-oz.) frozen

BRUSSELS SPROUTS
1 tsp. seasoned salt or seasoning blend
2/3 cup olive or salad oil
2/3 vinegar
1 tsp. oregano leaves
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. ground black pepper
1 medium onion, sliced and separated into rings
1 jar (3 1/2-oz.) capers, drained
1 can (2-oz.) pimientos, drained and cut up (optional)
Cook beans and asparagus together as directed on package, substituting 1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt for salt called for on package. Cook Brussels sprouts as directed on package, substituting 1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt for salt called for on package. Immediately drain vegetables; do not let them stand in cooking water. In a large (gallon size) clear plastic freezer bag, combine oil, vinegar, oregano, salt and pepper. Add cooked vegetables, onion rings, capers and pimiento. Seal bag; marinate 3 to 4 hours before serving or store in refrigerator overnight. Turn bag two or three times. Remove 1 1/2 hours before serving. Drain vegetables and arrange on serving platter. Makes about 4 1/2 cups or 6 or 7 servings.

GREEN AND WHITE JADE CHICKEN
1/4 cup soy sauce
1 tbsps. cornstarch
1 clove garlic, minced
1 tbsps. fresh gingerroot, minced
2 whole chicken breasts, skinned, boned, cut into 1-inch pieces
2 tbsps. corn oil
2 medium green peppers, cut in 1-inch squares
1/4 cup sliced green onion

1/2 cup chicken bouillon
In small bowl stir together soy sauce, cornstarch, garlic and gingerroot. Pour soy mixture into a large (gallon size) clear plastic freezer bag; add chicken. Seal bag and marinate 2 hours or overnight in refrigerator, turning bag over two or three times. In large skillet heat oil over medium heat. Add chicken and stir-fry 3 minutes, or until chicken turns milky white. Add green pepper and onion; stir-fry 3 minutes or until vegetables are tender-crisp. Add bouillon and cook until slightly thickened. If desired, serve over rice. Makes 4 servings. Approximately 230 calories per serving (without rice).

GRAPE AND PLUM JAM
5 1/2 cups prepared fruit (about 2 lb. each fully ripe grapes and plums and 1/2 cup water)
8 cups (3 lbs. 7 oz.) sugar
1/2 bottle liquid fruit pectin

First prepare the fruit. Slip skins from about 2 pounds Concord or other loose-skinned grapes. Bring pulp to a boil, cover, and simmer 5 minutes. Force through a sieve and discard seeds. Pit about 2 pounds plums, cut in small pieces and chop. Do not peel. Add 1/2 cup water to plums. Bring to a boil, cover, and simmer 5 minutes. Combine fruits and measure 5 1/2 cups into a very large saucepan.

Then make the jam. Thoroughly mix sugar into fruit in saucepan. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir and skim for 5 minutes to cool slightly and prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover at once with 1/4 inch hot paraffin. Makes about 10 cups or 14 (6 fl. oz.) glasses.

Carter Calls Surprise Meeting On GSA Scandals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jay Solomon was on a hiking trip in the Shenandoah Mountains when he got the call that President Carter wanted to know what was going on in the widening scandals at the General Services Administration.

So GSA Administrator Solomon — in blue jeans and a sweater — came down from a mountain lodge to join Deputy Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti for a Labor Day meeting in the Oval Office to brief Carter on the investigations.

Civiletti, Solomon and a spokesman for Carter said the surprise meeting was held to brief Carter on the investigations before the president left for nearby Camp David, Md., and the Middle East summit.

"We wanted just to appraise him of everything that was going on ... no specifics, just in generalities and so he would feel comfortable that we were pursuing the investigation," said Solomon.

The message that came out of the meeting was clear: Carter is giving his full support to the multiple investigations wherever they might lead.

"No one is exempt from the investigation at all — either inside or outside of the government," said Civiletti, who was dressed in a blue pinstripe suit, in contrast to Solomon.

The FBI, grand juries and U.S. attorneys in several cities and an internal GSA task force are looking into allegations of bribery, fraud, corruption and theft at the $5 billion-a-year agency that is the federal government's main landlord and supply house.

Solomon, a Carter appointee, has said that at least 50 indictments are expected in the first wave of grand jury actions on GSA scandals. The first indictments are expected to be handed down within a month.

He emphasized that the GSA probe had the full support of the president.

"I think it's very important to have the backing of the White House. I've had it all the time," Solomon said.

The investigations are apparently now reaching a crucial point, reaching beyond low-level employees and officials and relatively small-scale corruption.

A White House official who asked not to be named said Carter wanted to encourage all those with knowledge of the scandals to be willing to name all those involved.

"This thing is getting to the point where some high officials are involved, and some people are uncertain whether to name the bigger fish," the official said. "Some people apparently thought that this was all going to go away, and they could keep their mouths shut. Well, it's not going to go away."

Civiletti said that the investigators would not be afraid to probe the activities of anyone, including Robert Griffin, fired by Solomon as deputy GSA administrator and then given a job by Carter in the office of Special Trade Negotiator Robert Strauss.

"We wouldn't be afraid to pursue Mr. Griffin or anyone else involved in activities that we thought we had grounds to investigate," Civiletti said.

But he refused to comment on whether Griffin was being investigated, saying he would not discuss any person in particular.

Both Solomon and Carter have said there have been no allegations of wrongdoing against Griffin.

Solomon said he got first word of the hastily called meeting at 11:30 p.m. Sunday, as he was staying in a lodge in the Shenandoah National Park in Virginia's Blue Ridge Mountains.

Cowboys Break Colts 38-0

DALLAS (AP) — It was the second most explosive offensive show in the 18-year history of the Dallas Cowboys, but quarterback Roger Staubach was more peeved than pleased.

Staubach destroyed Baltimore's "sack pack" with four touchdown passes as Dallas opened defense of its world championship with a 38-0 nationally televised rout of the Baltimore Colts Monday night.

Dallas didn't even punt as it charged up and down the field for a 583-yard offense for coach Tom Landry's 14th consecutive season-opening victory.

"I was good in some spots and bad in others...I wasn't particularly pleased," said Staubach, who had started the night with two interceptions early in the game.

Staubach's touchdown passes covered 91 yards to Tony Dorsett, eight yards to Billy Joe Dupree, 38 yards to Drew Pearson and 36 inches to Jay Saldi.

Completing his last 11 passes, Staubach finished with 16 completions in 22 attempts for 280 yards.

Dorsett, the flashy tailback who was NFL rookie of the year in 1977, did something no other Cowboy has ever accomplished. He rushed for 147 yards and caught passes for 107 steps. No Cowboy had ever rushed and received for 100 yards or more in each category in one game. Dorsett wasn't overly pleased.

"I feel receiving is one of my weakest points and I need a chance to get accustomed to it," said Dorsett.

Dorsett left three Colt tacklers in his wake for the second Cowboy touchdown after he caught a batted pass which was intended for a wide receiver. He was so alone on his touchdown jaunt that he slapped hands with Drew Pearson and Tony Hill before he crossed the goal line.

Baltimore played without injured No. 1 quarterback Bert Jones and halfback Lydell Mitchell, who was traded to San Diego in a dispute with management.

"Once we broke it open, it was hard for Baltimore to come back with Jones out," said Cowboy coach Tom Landry. "Baltimore is a very solid football team and they will regroup as the season moves on, with or without Jones."

Dallas' most prolific offensive day was 652 yards against Philadelphia in 1966 when Don Meredith was the Cowboy quarterback.

Reserve Mike Kirkland, starting his first National Football League game, was sacked five times by the Cowboy "doomsday defense." It was Baltimore's worst loss since 1973 when the Colts fell 44-0 to Miami.

Colt Coach Ted Marchibroda said, "We thought we could beat them if we didn't give them anything, but we gave them two easy ones. It was a loss you could not blame on any one player. It was something all 45 had a part in."

"Jones' condition is a week-to-week thing. I really can't say when he will be back."

Jones and second string quarterback Bill Troup each suffered shoulder injuries last week.

Marchibroda said, "The other teams in our division (Miami and New England) lost games they should have won, so I don't think we are any farther behind than when we started the week. We were just beaten by a better team."

Dallas Cowboy strong safety Charlie Waters said, "Our defense played well. But it would have been different if Bert Jones had been in there. That's the way we should have beaten them without Bert in there. He is the heartbeat of the Colts. He is definitely one of the best."

Waters said, "We are also not naive enough to think every game is going to be like that."

Free safety Cliff Harris said, "We really did play good defense, and our offense exploded. Kirkland is a good quarterback and they have some good receivers, but their intensity was down because Jones was gone."

Linebacker D.D. Lewis said, "Without Jones in there, we just teed off on their running game and wiped them out."

Colt fullback Roosevelt Leaks said, "A lot of teams are going to lose to Dallas."

Baltimore linebacker Darrell Luce said, "We just didn't tackle. On almost any of their long runs, we had a shot at them. Sometimes two or three of us had a chance but missed the tackle. We just

Moon Lark Wins 'Richest Race'

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. — For a second or two, it appeared the Howard clan was about to hoist Moon Lark on its shoulders and carry him into the winner's circle at Ruidoso Downs.

There were enough Howards to do just that, too.

Moon Lark, a 9-5 favorite heading into the 20th running of the All-American Futurity, coasted to a surprisingly easy win at the "World Richest Horserace," beating second-place finisher Osage Juana, by almost a full length.

After Moon Lark's incredible win, the Howards — all 200 or so — started crawling out of the bleachers and onto the soggy track, running, jumping, and hugging each other — or anyone else that just happened to get in the way, for that matter.

They had their reasons to holler, too. About $437,000 of them.

But there were some other reasons to rejoice, too.

The Moon Lark story is one of those Cinderella jobs.

First, the three Howard brothers — Paul, James and Sam — purchased the mama of Moon Lark for $750, which isn't much considering horsemen are used to talking hundreds of thousands of bucks for a champion.

Then the trio "scrapped up" $2,500 and bred the mare to Top Moon. From that duo came Moon Lark.

And that's not the end of the story. According to Paul, at one point, the trio

Matter Of Charisma

Q. I watched the Dallas-Denver game on TV and heard the Denver crowd chanting for Norris Weese to be put in at quarterback. It reminded me of Rodney Dangerfield. Why can't Craig Morton get no respect, no matter where he goes? Why are Denver fans so high on Weese?

—Hal Wheaton, Indianapolis.

A. Morton is somehow not a charismatic personality. Weese is a feisty and nimble operator who had performed well the week before against Houston. The crowd's action that day embarrassed Weese, who said of his game-losing interception: "That's why Craig is starting and I'm sitting on the bench." Morton pretends to be undisturbed, saying, "I've heard it all before."

Q. Can you tell me if it's ever been judged who had the best pickoff move to first base among pitchers and which catcher was best at throwing out the runner going to second?

—Elliott Gieseke, Columbus, Ohio.

A. This is the kind of judgement call that will stir up a lot of old-timers in the audience. Maury Wills was recently asked a similar question: In the ninth inning of the seventh game of the World Series, which battery would he want working against a runner at first base, and who would he want as the base-runner?

Wills picked Don Drysdale, "because he had an illegal move to first which the ump's let him get away with as he was such a big star," and Johnny Bench to make the throw to second. Wills' base-runner would be the Dodgers' Davey Lopes, "the best I've ever seen."

When asked to include himself among the options, Wills said, "Then I'll take me."

Q. Only in recent months have I noticed during golf telecasts that the holes were easier to see because the inside of the cups were a gleaming white. Can you tell me how this is done, either with a paint or with new white plastic cups specially installed?

—Harold Umphreys, Jackson, Tenn.

A. The cups are painted by the TV network crews, and Lee Trevino, for one, thinks the practice has affected the outcomes of both the British Open and the PGA Championship at Oakmont, Pa. Trevino says the hardened paint leaves a thick crust around the rim of the cup and that in both the aforementioned tournaments he saw true putts spin around and out because of the paint. This might have cost Jerry Pate the PGA title when his three-footer on the 72nd hole rimmed out and forced him into the playoff with John Mahaffey and Tom Watson.

Baltimore blew two early scoring chances against the Cowboys and then seemed to wilt after Dorsett's long touchdown gallop through the Colt team.

Marchbroda said, "The main thing wrong with our defense was that we just missed a lot of tackles."

Landry was already thinking about having to play the New York Giants on the road in Dallas' second game of the year.

"It's tough to travel after a Monday night game," said Landry. "In New York, we always have a tough time. They always play us well. They play us tooth and nail."

Moon Lark Wins Richest Ruidoso Purse

didn't have enough money to even pay for Moon Lark's room and board at the Ruidoso Downs stable.

"We didn't have much to start with," said Paul. "But it certainly looks like our luck has changed a lot. I couldn't be any more happier. I'll tell you."

But money was not the only problem for the Coppel, Tex., brothers. Their prized possession, they later learned, also has a breathing problem.

"But you couldn't tell that by the way he covered the quarter-mile in 21.84 seconds on the soggy turf."

"It would be hard for him to run much more than 440 yards," said trainer Jack Brooks. "After he runs that far, we have to walk him around and cool him off, instead of jogging back to the stables."

Jockey Jackie Martin said the way the horse was performing Monday, he could have run all day. . . and night.

"I knew I had it when I came over the hump (the halfway point)," said the slender rider. "I looked on my sides and didn't see anyone close. That's when I knew I had 'em."

"In a way it was almost frightening, we were so far out."

Martin, who had ridden in only two stakes races prior to Monday's million-dollar affair, said he expected more of a challenge from Vespere, the pre-race favorite.

So did the 15,000 fans who had made Vespere, the winner of last month's All-American Derby, an 8-5 choice.

"I don't think he (Vespere) was ever in the race," said Martin.

He wasn't, finishing fourth in the nine-horse field.

Vespere, considered on the premier quarter horses in the country, got off to a slow start and could never make up the distance between Moon Lark, Osage Juana, and third-place finisher Holme Maid.

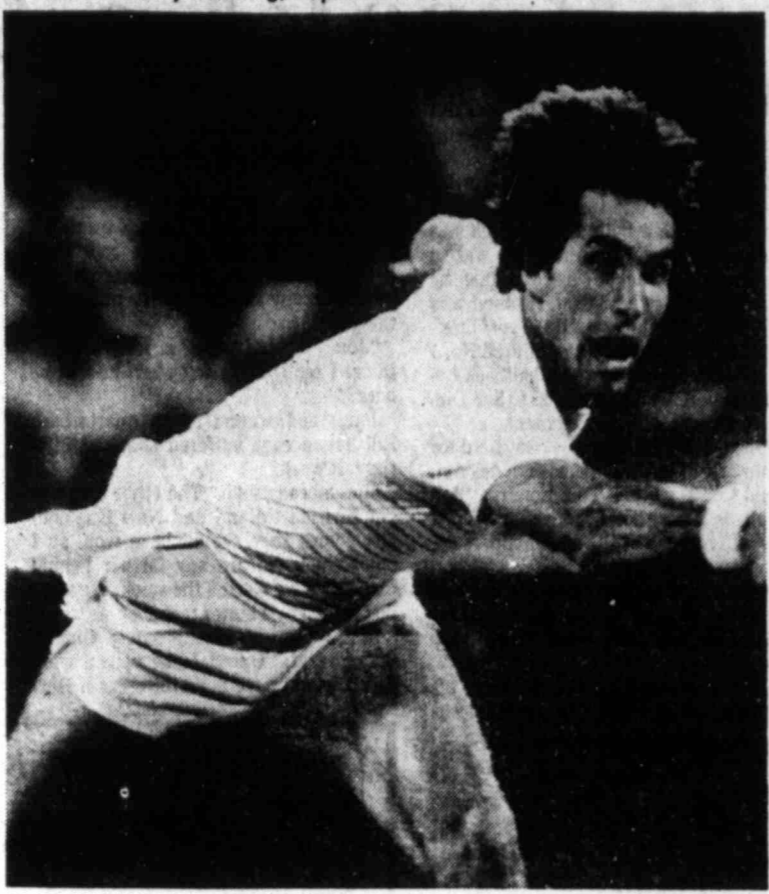

Martin said he faced the Labor Day Classic like any other race.

"I wanted to do everything right," he said. "The most important thing is not to make any mistakes early. In a race like this (440 yards), that will kill you."

"So I took my time and we got a good getaway. From then, it was all ours."

The folks who backed the strong runner picked up $5.60, $3.20, and $3.40. Osage Juana paid $6.40, and $4.80, while the 30-1 Holme Maid returned $9.40.

Waltz Knocks Vilas Out Of U.S. Open

NEW YORK (AP) — "I was here, I would not come back here," said Ion Tiriac, who watched helplessly Monday night while his protegee, Guillermo Vilas, lost to Butch Waltz in his bid for a second straight men's singles title at the U.S. Open tennis championships.

"It's not worth the aggravation," Tiriac admitted. Waltz played magnificently, but felt that the American's home-court advantage had ultimately done in Vilas, the Argentine clay-court specialist. By home court, Tiriac meant the Deco Turf II surface, the hard, slick covering that is best suited for America's serve and volleyers at the U.S. Open, which is being held for the first time at Flushing Meadows Park.

"The English have grass, the French have clay, and the Americans had to discover something," Tiriac said. "We'll have to make a decision whether to take it or leave it, and a lot of guys are going to leave it."

"On clay (last year the Open was played on a synthetic clay surface) he probably would have worn me out in the first set," said Waltz after he forged the biggest triumph of his career, a 6-4, 7-6, 6-6, 6-7, 6-2 testament to power and net play that took four hours.

"If I was gonna beat him, this was my best surface," said the 23-year-old cannonball server from Atherton, Calif., who ranks 53rd in world rankings.

Top-ranked Bjorn Borg, who was on the brink of elimination in his last match and has also complained about the surface, was scheduled to play No. 12 Harold Solomon today. Also scheduled were second-seeded Jimmy Connors against Italy's Adriano Panatta and, in the women's bracket, No. 2 Chris Evert against Regina Marsikova of Czechoslovakia.

Waltz utilized his serve-and-volley game to perfection. "I'm not the most patient player (from the baseline). I figured I had to get to the net as fast as I could."

Pirates Seek Reverse Of '77 Pennant Race

By The Associated Press

Three weeks ago, the Philadelphia Phillies were making playoff plans and the Pittsburgh Pirates were thinking about October vacations. Three weeks from now, it may be the other way around.

"Our best baseball is yet to come," said Philadelphia's Bake McBride after the Phillies, who've been playing anything but their best lately, split a doubleheader Monday with St. Louis, losing the opener 3-2, then bombing the Cardinals 10-2 in the nightcap. "This is as good as we can play," said Pirates Manager Chuck Tanner after Pittsburgh swept a pair from the New York Mets, 7-4 and 7-0, moving within one game of the first-place Phillies in the National League East. The Pirates have gained 10½ games on their Pennsylvania rivals in three weeks by winning 21 of their last 24 contests.

Cardinals 3-2, Phillies 2-10
St. Louis rallied with a three-run eighth to win the first contest. Ted Simmons had a two-run double, and later scored on Tony Scott's sacrifice fly with the winning run.

In the nightcap, McBride doubled, tripled and scored two runs and Mike Schmidt hit his 17th homer as Philadelphia woke up after losing four of its last five.

Pirates 7-7, Mets 4-0
The Pirates haven't let up at all since Aug. 12, when they began their tear towards the top of the East.

"When we were 11½ back, I don't think there was a guy on this team who didn't think we were out of it," said Ed Ott, who hit a two-run homer in the first game and knocked in three runs in the second victory. "But we all relaxed, started playing really good ball and we've been winners ever since." "We're going out there with the idea of winning every game ourselves. We definitely think we can catch and pass the Phillies. And we're not relying on them to lose."

Los Angeles erupted for five runs in the fifth inning to overcome a 4-0 Giants' lead. Rick Monday homered to start the uprising and Steve Garvey, Dusty Baker and Bill Russell singled home runs in the inning. The Giants scored three runs in the first and added one in the fifth off winner Don Sutton, 13-10.

Expos 5-6, Cubs 3-5
Montreal dealt a serious blow to the Cubs' pennant hopes with the sweep. In the opener, Warren Cromartie's fifth-inning pop was lost in the sun by Chicago shortstop Ivan Dejesus and two runs scored on the play. Tony Perez had three hits, including a homer, for Montreal.

Reds 6, Astros 3
Bill Bonham' first victory since the All-Star break and three hits by Joe Morgan led the Reds' win. Bonham, 10-4, left the game after yielding a leadoff homer in the seventh to Dennis Walling. Bonham had numbs in his right elbow and thumb.

Padres 8, Braves 4
San Diego handed rookie Larry McWilliams his first major league loss after seven victories. Jim Wilhelm's first major league hit, a two-run double in the fifth, helped Guy Perry to his 16th win in 22 decisions.

Kite Captures B.C. Victory
ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) — Tom Kite has returned control of the En-Joie to the Village of Endicott after dominating the $25,000 B.C. Open like he owned the place.

Kite was never behind in the four days of golf as he stormed to a five stroke victory over friend Mark Hayes that gave Kite a $45,000 payday Monday.

After sharing the first round lead with Tom Purtzer, Kite pulled away from the field, stretching his lead to five strokes going into Monday's championship round over the 6,915-yard, par-71 course.

His biggest challenge came on Monday when Hayes eagled the third hole and Kite bogied the fourth hole to leave the golfers separated by two strokes.

But Kite strung together four birdies to outdistance Hayes. Kite finished the 172-hole tournament with a 17-under par score of 267.

Peter Jacobsen of Portland, Ore., finished third, eight strokes behind Kite. The tournament was Kite's second victory of career since joining the tour in 1972. That gave him $149,737 for this year with second place finishes in the Hall of Fame Classic and the British Open.

Fights, Incidents Mar American League Play

By The Associated Press
Of course the pennant races are still on. The New York Yankees have pulled within five games of the Boston Red Sox in the American League's East Division, and the California Angels still are one game behind AL West-leading Kansas City.

But there were other developments Monday that had little or nothing to do with baseball.

—In Toronto, the Blue Jays' Willie Horton allegedly was struck by a mounted policeman and one of his children was stepped on by a policeman's horse during an altercation in the Exhibition Stadium parking lot before a game against the Cleveland Indians.

Horton said after parking his car he saw three or four persons apparently bothering his family. A team spokesman said Horton went to act as peacemaker but was struck by the riding crop of the mounted policeman. The 35-year-old veteran said he was knocked unconscious.

Horton, his wife and two of his three sons were charged by police with causing a disturbance. Three Toronto men also were charged.

—In Bloomington, Minn., White Sox Manager Larry Doby alleged first base umpire Joe Brinkman made a "racial slur" while arguing with Doby during Chicago's 2-1 loss to the Minnesota Twins.

"If I had gotten near him (Brinkman), I'd have punched him right in the mouth, and I don't miss in a situation like that," said Doby.

—In Baltimore, both benches cleared after Boston pitcher Dennis Eckersley knocked down Baltimore's Larry Harlow with a double-forearm shove after Harlow had been tagged out in a play at the plate. Harlow had to be restrained by an umpire from going after Eckersley and was more wrestling before order was restored.

Indians 5, Blue Jays 4
Gary Alexander hit a two-run double and scored on a double by Ted Cox in the three-run sixth that carried Cleveland past Toronto.

After the incident prior to the contest, Horton was treated for lacerations on his right ear and cheek; his son Deryl, 17, suffered an injury to his right foot; son Albert, 16, was cut under the left eye and son Darryl, 15, suffered an injured neck. Horton did not play in the game.

Twins 2, White Sox 1
Roy Smalley and Mike Cubbage knocked in the runs that backed Geoff Zahn's four-hitter and lifted Minnesota over Chicago in the contest that saw four White Sox players ejected.

Chet Lemon was ejected after being called out on a close play at first by Brinkman. Then Ron Schueler was thrown out by third base ump Nick Bremigan, who was close to the White Sox dugout.

Brinkman went over to the dugout to thumb Wayne Nordhagen and Doby.

"He (Brinkman) came over and said, 'I'm sorry about what happened to you guys. I'm sure you'll get the best of it,'"

"He (Brinkman) came over and said, 'I'm sorry about what happened to you guys. I'm sure you'll get the best of it,'"

"I'll throw you ... out," said Doby, who is black, as is Lemon. "That's an indication of a racial slur to me. I could tell by looking at him and I've been around long enough to recognize something like that."

Orioles 5, Red Sox 3
Lee May's two-run double in the sixth inning put Baltimore ahead to stay before the fracas at home plate.

Jim Rice gave the Red Sox the lead in the first with his 38th homer of the season, a three-run shot that gave him 121 RBI this year. After that, Orioles left-hander Scott McGrew retired the next 23 batters before Frank Duffy cracked a single in the eighth.

The fireworks started when Harlow tried to score on a single by Pat Kelly. Harlow was tagged by Carlton Fisk 10 feet to the left of the plate, then knocked down by Eckersley, who was backing up the play.

Yankees 9-4, Tigers 1-5
A three-run triple by Chris Chambliss capped an eight-run New York seventh and made Ron Guidry the major leagues' first 20-game winner.

"I may feel excited later, but right now I don't feel any different than any other game I win," said Guidry, who has lost twice and leads the AL in strikeouts (215) and earned run average (1.84).

Mariners 4-6, Brewers 3-5
Homerby Gorman Thomas and Ben Ogilvie carried Milwaukee in the nightcap after Seattle had taken the opener on Lee Stanton's ninth-inning RBI single.

Angels 8, Rangers 7
Bobby Grich had four RBI to carry California past Texas, which got help from Bobby Bonds.

Royals 5, A's 3
Amos Otis drove in four runs and Al Hrabosky provided clutch relief to help Kansas City beat Oakland and keep the Royals a game ahead.
