Price Dip To Slow Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) - An across-theboard easing of price pressures occurred in the economy in August as wholesale prices declined 0.1 percent, the first drop in this key measure of inflation in two years, the government reported today.

It was the most encouraging development yet in the government's fight to control inflation. Prices of consumer foods fell 1.5 percent, the biggest decline in two years.

Wholesale prices had increased 0.5 percent in July and were up 7.7 percent for the 12-month period ending in August. The August decline was the first since August of 1976, when prices fell 0.2 per-

If continued for a year, the August decline of 0.1 percent would result in a 12month drop in wholesale prices of 1.2 percent. However, not even the most optimistic economists expect that to hap-

The decline in consumer food prices was the major factor in the break in the upward price spiral in August, but there also was a slowdown in price increases for goods other than foods, which rose only 0.4 percent, just half of the July in-

The Labor Department said its producer price index for finished goods, as the wholesale price report is now called. stood in August at 195.3 of the 1967 average of 100, meaning that goods priced at $100 then had increased to $195.30 last month.

Government economists were pleasant ly surprised by the decline, which was not expected. It seemed likely it would result in a strengthening of the U.S. dollar on world money markets and take some of the pressure off President Carter to resort to tough new measures to battle inflation.

However, inflation for the year has been much worse than originally forecast, now rising near 10 percent at an annual rate at the consumer level, and the administration is at work on new wage and price guidelines for business and labor in an effort to help bring it under

The price trends at the wholesale level are expected to eventually show up at the consumer level, so the August drop in wholesale prices was welcome news to consumers as well.

The Labor Deparement said prices of goods other than food rose 0.7 percent at the intermediate level.

MOSCOW (AP) - Francis J. Crawford, the American businessman convicted of violating Soviet currency laws, flew out of Moscow today, saying he was glad to leave but disappointed he had failed to win acquittal in a Soviet court.

Talking to reporters before boarding a flight to Frankfurt, West Germany from Moscow's Sheremetyeveo Airport, Crawford said, "I'm really glad to be going to Chicago, but wish I'd be going with a verdict of acquittal."

Chicago is the home base of his em-ployer, International Harvester.

Crawford received a five-year suspended sentence on Thursday after he was convicted on charges of black market currency dealings. He could have received eight years in a labor camp. Two Soviet co-defendants received labor camp penalties and a third received a suspended sentence.

By late Thursday, after the number of reported sick and dead zoomed from nine to 43 in 24 hours, two deaths had been confirmed as resulting from Legionnaires disease, and another death was "highly suspect." Tests on the suspicious cases continued. City sanitation workers driving water trucks Thursday night began a thorough rinsing of West 35th Street, where all the known and suspected victims worked as garment workers, tradespeople or, in one case, the cop on the beat. Transit Authority employees were doing the same chore on subway stations in the area.

Building owners were asked to turn off air conditioning systems, prime suspects in earlier outbreaks, including the first and worst one in Philadelphia, in which 29 died and 151 became ill but recovered after a state American Legion convention two summers ago.

The city welcomed the help of Dr. David Fraser, chief of a special pathogen unit in the Bureau of Epidemiology of the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, but better known as chief investigator of the disease.

Fraser or members of his staff have travelled the country since then studying other cases of Legionnaires disease, some of them in "clusters" and others as isolated cases.

Dr. John Marr, chief epidemiologist in the city's Department of Health, said late Thursday that two suspected cases in Rochester, N.Y., had been ruled out as connected with the garment center outbreak, since neither patient had been in New York City recently. But Bill Fagle, spokesman for the New York state Health Department, said the Rochester cases were not Legionnaires disease.

Meanwhile, in Memphis, Tenn., officials at Baptist Hospital said they had confirmed five cases of Legionnaires disease, but that none had resulted in any deaths. In addition, they said that four others suspected of having the disease were under observation. Health officials in Washington, D.C., said today that they have confirmed three probable cases. No deaths have re-Marr said Fraser, after attending a press conference with Mayor Edward

Late this morning, the NWS placed Brown County and southern portions of North Texas under a flash flood watch, as the heavy rainfall continued to spread across the state.

An NWS spokesman at San Antonio said the heaviest rainfall appeared to be in the Las Palmas area, where 4.29 inches had been recorded at midmorning. Medina, in the Hill Country, reported 2 inches. #### FBI Agent Helps Patty

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - The FBI agent who headed the 19-month search for Patricia Hearst has joined a list of prominent officials seeking the newspaper heiress' release from prison. Charles Bates, now retired, said Thursday he told Attorrey General Griffin Bell that "Miss Hearst has served sufficient time and that the sentence should be mitigated." Miss Hearst has served 171/2 months of a seven-year sentence for bank robbery and will be eligible for parole next July.

"Patty and her family deeply appreciate the active support that has been given her by Sen. S.I.

Hayakawa, Lt. Gov. Mervin Dymally, Congressman Leo Ryan and now by former FBI agent Charles Bates," Patty's mother, Catherine Hearst, said Thursday in a statement.

Bates said he wrote to Bell because of his intimate knowledge of Miss Hearst's 1974 kidnapping and her subsequent conviction of joining her captors in a San Francisco bank robbery.

He said, "From my experience in hundreds of bank robbery cases and considering the circumstances which could be mitigating, I am definitely of the feeling that Miss Hearst has served sufficient time and that the sentence should be mitigated."

crane will lower it into the river. Kealin calculates that the ice raft will finish the 712-mile race without melting appreciably. For a second opinion, Kealin contacted the National Climatic Control Center in Asheville, N.C. Meteorologists told him that the ice raft probably would hold together, even with temperatures in the 90s and a water temperature of 68.

Even if the ice raft doesn't make it because of warm weather, Kealin says the crew won't come away emptyhanded. "They have a category in the race for the most likely to sink," he guipped.

Language Center Ready If Needed

ana University's Uralic and Altaic Language and Area Center was established so America would know its enemy in case of a Russian attack.

The 20-year-old center, which specializes in Inner Asia language, history and culture, no longer is considered part of national defense preparedness. "But we're here in case we're needed," said director Denis Sinor. Opened in 1958 under the National Defense Education Act, it originally was called a National Defense Education Center — a title dropped a few years ago. "We still receive much understanding and generous support from the government, however," Sinor said. The theory behind the creation of the institution was the United States would need to have experts on the languages and cultures of possible enemies in case of an attack.

The center provides instruction in Uralic. Altaic and Inner Asian language, history and culture. More than 40 language groups are included in that category, but the center mostly teaches Turkik, Mongol, Tonguz, Tibetan, Estonian and Hun-

The institution is the only one of its kind in the country "so we have a national mandate to continue," Sinor said. "We can still ensure a minimum national preparedness if information on the topic is ever needed. And we always are training new specialists in the field."

Sinor was recruited by IU to head the center 15 years ago because he is considered one of the world's leading authorities on Inner Asia and the Uralic and Altaic langauge groups.

"I was really the first who discovered there is a cultural unity in these Inner Asian areas. It sounds funny that there's something in common between northern Norway and easternmost Siberia, because clearly the two areas are not the same, but over the decades I have shown there is a cultural unity between them."

Inner Asia includes all of the Soviet Union, Tibet, Mongolia, Chinese Turkestan, and the northern part of Scandinavia. The area covers millions of square miles, and despite barren and sparsely populated areas, contains about 300 million peo-

"The traits that tie these areas together have disappeared due to technology, but historically the climate and the natural conditions created an ecology which was not suitable for urban civilization.

But it was extremely suitable for one type of production - nomad horsebreeding. Horses were the key element in warfare. That means that the Inner Asian productivity was geared to the production of war materials.

"If you think in modern terms, you can see there are only two things such an industry can do: either sell the materials they produce to other countries or use it for conquest and enrichment."

Approximately 90 percent of the language center graduates enter academic fields or join government agencies, Sinor

The Teotihuacan civilization developed in central Mexico beginning 100 years after Christ's birth and survived for 600

"When you consider the areas studied and their importance in world politics and the fact that ours is a multidisciplinary program that covers languages, culture, politics and economics, I think there's no doubt there is a great need for our programs."

Since Sinor came to IU as a visiting professor of Altaic studies in 1961, enrollment in the program has grown from about 20 students to more than 400.

ARGUMENTS THAT federally allocated tax funds used for other purposes should not be affected by allegations of racial discrimination-even if proved-in other programs fall on deaf ears in the federal bureaucracy.

THIS YEAR, THE Lubbock City Council has decided tentatively to use $1 million in revenue sharing funds for day-to-day budget outlays, the first time it has gone so heavily into such ill-advised spending practices.

Heretofore, Lubbock has used revenue sharing funds for one-time expenditures, thus avoiding dependence on a revenue source that could dry up overnight.

Mayor Dirk West has been emphatic in saving that the $1 million dependence on the federally allocated funds will not be repeated. It's just a way to buy time, he says, for City Hall to find ways to cut the budget.

A better way would be for Dallas, Lubbock and other cities to reject federal revenue sharing as a way of life and thus avoid the strings that Washington attaches

The Money Tree

A $90,000 GRANT of your hard-earned tax dollars to a Dallas neighborhood group is as good a place as any to start talking about wasteful gov-

The gift to the Bois d'Arc Patriots by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration has drawn the fire of the Dallas City Council, set neighbor against neighbor and sparked lively debate in Dallas newspapers.

Opponents have branded the Patriots as "a ragtag band of Marxist radicals." Their supporters see them as the All-American champions of the underdog.

There are even some in the middle who eschew the ideological name-calling but defend the $90,-000 boondoggle on grounds it "makes as much sense as five out of six other LEAA grants."

Sad to say, it probably does-and the LEAA is just one of a bunch of federal bureaucracies doling out deficit-riddled Treasury funds for do-good causes all over the country.

THE CONTROVERSIAL grant appears to have been made directly to the neighborhood group over the objections of the North Central Texas Council of Governments.

After the LEAA acted, Dallas Mayor Robert Folsom said the program would "have a serious negative impact on our crime prevention activities." The City Council joined him in asking that the grant be revoked.

As this is written, though, the Patriots still stand to get the funds to -quote- fight crime in the neighborhood -unquote.

The program-now get this-will be on three fronts: (1) Putting up yard and window decals to identify participants, (2) transporting the elderly and disabled to shop etc., presumably so they don't get mugged on the way and (3) taking young people on field trips and helping them find

ONE MAN'S OPINION

An LEAA spokesman said the program will be "closely monitored." That's the bureaucratic way of saying they've got a lot of people on the pay-roll to check up on how grants like this one are

WHO ARE THE Bois d'Arc Patriots and what qualifies them to get a slice of your tax money?

"They're the group that let out a bunch of cock-roaches in a City Council meeting," says Mayor Folsom, recalling a 1976 protest of rat- and

"They're doing important work," says Bob Hernandez, who heads a federal Action program and who assigned six VISTA workers to the Patriot office. (Even before the LEAA grant, as a result, federally paid workers accounted for six-tenths of the Patriots' 10-member staff).

'Bois d'Arc is progressive but we have no dogma," says Charlie Young, coordinator of the East Dallas organization. "...We stand for everything in the Declaration of Independence.

FROM WHAT I'VE read in the Dallas newspapers, there appears to be no doubt the Patriots have fulminated about the alleged decadence of American capitalism or that they've "created a state of near-perpetual conflict" between tenants and owners of a number of apartment complexes.

In the eyes of some, they've become enemies of progress by opposing efforts to upgrade and rebuild East Dallas. Others see them as heroes because the Patriots intervened to prevent their eviction or helped them over a financial rough spot or two.

"I'd have to be conscientious and say that the Patriots have been helpful to us on several occasions," says Pink Voss, the Dallas deputy city director for housing and urban development.

"ALL THIS IS beside the point, though," Jim Henderson wrote in the Dallas Times Herald. "The Patriots may be radical. They may be hellraisers, but the $90,000 for neighborhood crime prevention makes as much sense as five out of six other LEAA grants

He wonders where the critics were when the LEAA "was paying the Aerobic Center of Dallas $1 million to find out if cops and criminals can improve their physical conditions through exer-

Good question. Probably the same place where far too many members of the Tax Revolt-in Lubbock, California or wherever-have been while federal boondoggle has been stacked on top of federal boondoggle.

But it's bad practice to justify one more grant because earlier ones have been as bad or worse.

It'd be better to stop all such waste of tax money, especially when it goes to support a social activist group and regardless of whether its ideology is on the left or the right of the political spec-

Carter's Got Trible Troubles

The proposed nuclear-powered aircraft carrier the President opposes in vetoing the multi-billion dollar defense authorization bill isn't the only Navy flattop that is causing a major confrontation with Congress. The President is in hot water because of the linkage of USS Saratoga's need for an overhaul and Vice President Mondale's unkept 1976 campaign promise to Pennsylvania voters to keep open a major military arsenal in Philadelphia.

The giant Saratoga is one of four 60,000-ton, oilfueled carriers that Navy plans to overhaul and modernize under a $2 billion program to add 15 years to their normal useful service lives of 30

WITH FULL White House backing, the vice president announced April 14 that the Saratoga would go to the Philadelphia Naval Shipyard for its modernization, thus creating "more than 2,000 new jobs" in the Democratic controlled city.

Under ordinary procedures, the Navy would have made the announcement. But because of the politics involved and the unkept campaign promise, the vice president recorded a statement for Pennsylvania TV-Radio stations announcing the naval windfall for Philadelphia.

Mondale's statement made it clear that the Saratoga assignment for overhaul in Philadelphia was an offset to the 1976 campaign commitment to continue the city's Frankford Arsenal, which he admitted, "I could not keep."

Like his GOP predecessor, Defense Sec. Harold Brown in 1977 decided that the arsenal would be shut down and the White House agreed on the grounds that the huge installation was not needed under existing defense program.

IT IS NOW very doubtful that Mondale's latest announcement can be carried out. Vigorous objections to the assignment of the Saratoga to Philadelphia by a powerful group of lawmakers headed by Rep. Paul Trible, R-Va., has shelved this assignment

The legislators succeeded in attaching an amendment to the military authorization bill (veoed by the President) that bars assigning the Saratoga to any shipyard before next year.

The action came after the Trible group made a strong case that the overhaul of the Saratoga in Philadelphia would cost U.S. taxpayers anywhere from $60 million to $132 million more than if the work was undertaken at Newport News, Va.

A full-scale study by the General Accounting Office has been ordered to determine whether the work on the carrier could be done cheaper at another yard rather than Philadelphia.

Internal Navy documents, obtained by Trible, clearly shows that tens of millions of dollars could be saved by doing the overhaul of the Saratoga at Newport News.

If a larger crew of 1,475 were retained on board the ship at Philadelphia, the cost would come down to $602.9 million, but the Navy said it would still cost $59.7 million less to do the work at Newport News.

Assignment of the carrier to Philadelphia would also require major employment reductions at the Navy's shipyards at Charleston, Nortolk,

Pearl Harbor, and Mare Island, Calif., according to the naval documents

Private shipyards on the East coast also would be adversely affected, the Navy's studies, and assignment of the Saratoga work to Philadelphia would violate a Congressional mandate that at least 30 percent of the Navy's overhaul work be done in private shipyards.

The reports estimate that as many as six ship overhauls would have to be reassigned to Philadelphia from public and private shipyards to prepare it for the Saratoga.

The Saratoga snafu appears to be a graphic illustration of how a Presidential campaign pledge can turn out to be very costly to American taxpayers-unless Congress decides not to go along with the commitment.

Leasing Tailors Car To Suit Your Needs

of cars in the U.S., proof that America's love affair with the automobile goes uninterrupted lies in the simple fact that more than 1'4 million autos are now on the road, against 80 million just 10

But mounting numbers of us are leasing (or renting) our wheels, rather than buying. In 1977 alone, the car and truck lease-rental business reached nearly $20 billion, according to Hertz, which keeps track of such trends, and the rise continues without faltering.

What's more, the fastest growing segment of the market is in individual car leases, as individuals such as you and me switch from ownership.

SHOULD YOU consider leasing? What should you look for?

11) Keep in mind that it almost always is cheapest to buy for cash-if you can afford the $6,000-$8,000 price of a typical car these days.

(2) If, like most new car buyers, you finance your car over a two-to-four-year period, however, leasing could save you money, particularly in a phase of high interest rates on loans, as today is. (3) You can get expert, independent advice on the right model and make for your driving needs and for best resale value; similar vehicles can vary up to $500 in their worth as used units.

(4) You can get objective counseling on the selection of options-which can add one-third to your car's costs-to meet your driving needs and achieve highest value at resale time.

(5) YOU CAN GET discounts on replacement items such as tires and batteries, perhaps save money on insurance, and gain extra clout with dealers and with the manufacturer on maintenance costs.

(6) You can budget your insurance and maintenance expenses.

(7) And you can save time-in buying the car, servicing, reselling it when you need a new one again, and in figuring depreciation and other charges for tax or business-expense purposes.

But don't try to lease because you can't meet the down payment, your finances are shaky, or you're in a high insurance bracket. Credit investigation of a prospective lessee often is more strinent than it is for a would-be buyer.

If you do decide to try leasing, you must choose among a variety of leases: open-and closed-end; full-, partial-or non-maintenance. To guide you:

* 1F NOU EXPECT light, low-mileage driving, in the 10,000-to 15,000-mile-per-year range, an open-end, non-maintenance lease probably is best, says J.E. Menendez, head of Hertz' car leasing operation, and usually this lease is lowest in

Under this type of contract, you remain liable for any difference in the car's resale price, over or under a specified figure. If the car sells for less, you may owe the difference, but if it brings more (as it easily could with light mileage and good treatment) you gain the difference.

* Full-maintenance leases are more expensive -up front. But if you drive 20,000-25,000 miles a year and opt for a two-or three-year contract, the full-maintenance, closed-end lease could turn into

MAJOR FIRMS also have partial-maintenance contracts under which you get specified equipment, such as tires and batteries

There also is a modified closed-end lease which protects you against loss on resale, but allows you to share in any gain.

You can negotiate leases with or without insurance, giving you the chance of additional savings in this key expense area.

Though a source of pride to the Indians, their new financial approach is seen differently by businesses that deal with

"They're afraid they're going to get beaten, so they drive the hardest bargain they can," said John LaGrange of Bear Creek Mining Co. in Spokane, Wash.

'But," LaGrange added, "in many cases they drive such a hard bargain they drive themselves out of the market."

Ed Gabriel, executive director of the Council of Energy Resource Tribes, said of the Indians' bargaining stance: "In all cases that I know of, they're going competitive in the bidding and they're going very rough on the negotiations. I'm very proud of them."

The energy council, formed in 1975 by 25 tribes representing almost one-third of the nation's Indians, provides a voice in Washington and gives technical help in managing Indian energy resources.

Those resources are considerable. Indian tribes occupy only 4 percent of the nation's land but own half the uranium reserves, 16 percent of the coal areas and 4 percent of the natural gas and oil fields, plus acres of forests and mineral depos-

"They're energy-rich," says Gabriel. 'You're talking about 250,000 people owning billions and billions of tons of coal, billions of tons of uranium, and 4 percent of the oil and gas."

Gabriel puts the worth of Indian land 'definitely in the billions" and says it could greatly improve the Indians' living

Indians represented by the tribal energy council now earn about $1,400 per capita annually, and Peter McDonald, the Navajo who is chairman of the energy council, says getting the most for their resources is a necessity for the Indians.

'Unless we manage our resources properly now, we will not have them in 20 or 30 years," he said. "I think it will mean our survival and a future for our child-

The Indians blame the government for some past business problems. Gabriel for .example: "The government, acting as a trustee through the Bureau of Indian Affairs, has done a pretty sloppy

BIA officials admit that bad judgment or poor advice soured many leases and say they now scrutinize leases more carefully - while turning over more of the responsibility to the Indians.

The tribes have become much more sophisticated, much more aware of the land, much more familiar with how the white man's laws work." said BIA spokesman William L. Engles.

The Indians do not view all past agreements unfavorably - many timberland leases with paper firms have worked out well, for example,

In cases where the Indians see past wrongs, they are using the law to try to right them. They are trying to renegotiate more favorable deals on many BIAsigned contracts and have had a measure

McDonald recently led a successful fight for renegotiation of his Arizona tribe's coal lease with El Paso Natural Gas and Consolidation Coal. The lease, signed in the mid-1960s, gave the Navajos a royalty of 15 cents a ton, included few environmental safeguards and did not mention who would reclaim land destroyed by strip-mining.

The tribe wanted more "because the lease that existed was unconscionable," McDonald said. The new arrangement ties the royalty to the consumer price of coal, which has risen considerably since the first lease, and makes environmental and reclamation allowances. It means a total of $250 million over the next 25 years, which McDonald would like to go into education and long-term economic development. And the tribe is seeking renegotiation of other contracts involving coal and uranium.

Several other recent cases indicate how seriously Indians are taking what they view as threats to their resources

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) - A few old-timers near Brown University still talk wistfully of the Saturday nights when Brown men would don their tuxedos and venture across the road to visit the women of Pembroke College.

Then in 1971. Brown and Pembroke merged. Brown kept its male flavor simply because men outnumbered women by 50 percent.

Times are changing. For the first time in Brown's 214-year history, the freshman class arriving at the Ivy League school next Monday will have more women than men - 656 men versus 728 women. "There's nothing alarming about it," said Admissions Director James Rogers. 'We are 'sex-blind' in our admissions selections procedures and we had an increase in the number of woman applica-

"This has not been a sudden and startling development," school spokesman Bobby Clark said.

It is notable, though, when compared to the rest of the Ivy League.

Harvard plans to welcome 1.030 men and 605 women this month. At Yale, it's 840 men and 535 women. Princeton expects 757 men and 406 women. Dartmouth anticipates 735 men and 315 wom-

by Whipple and Borth Transplanted Easterner Tells Of Encounter With Rattlesnake

By ERIC NEWHOUSE PIERRE, S.D. (AP) — Out here in the West, you have to mow the rattlesnakes

Or so I thought when the angry snake coiled itself with a menacing whirr in front of my lawnmower the very first time I cut my brand-new grass in a posh subdivision on the edge of the prairie.

Westerners may take such things in stride, but it still raises the adreneline in a transplanted Easterner.

My first reaction was amazement that the rattler actually looked like something out of a cowboy movie, tightly coiled with a menacingly underslung, triangular head.

For an instant, I was grateful it warned me off about five feet away. But then I saw my girls - Erica, 4, and Sarah, 2 playing with 3-year-old Angela Harding about 20 feet away. Action was obviously necessary.

So I ran it down with the lawn mower. But the mower, which is electric, stopped. The sudden lunge had pulled the cord loose. And I could hear that furious rattle from beneath the mower.

"Snake," I shouted uncertainly, trying not to alarm the kids. Nothing happened. Finally I called to my wife to bring me a

"What in the world for?" she asked as she handed it to me. So I pulled the lawn mower back and that rattler rose up angrier than before.

Flowers For All Occasions

By PATRICK BRESLIN NEW YORK (AP) — One warm sum-mer evening, Jacqueline Jackson stood on Madison Avenue - in a business district, not a sleazy section - and waited for men to offer her money for sex.

In less than an hour, three men did. Each time, Miss Jackson stroked her long black hair - the signal for four plainclothes police to move in and ticket the men as "johns," prostitute's custom-

Miss Jackson is a police officer posing as a hooker, and is part of Manhattan's first regularly-assigned decoy prostitute team - yet another in a long series of efforts to control the city's thriving sex market.

But officials dare not predict what difference the effort will make.

Now a new state law has gone into effect, toughening the penalties for johns by making it a misdemeanor, not just an infraction that might bring a $15 fine, to patronize a prostitute.

But well-entrenched, obvious prostitution has been a problem for 10 years in the midtown section of the nation's largest city, particularly around Times Square. These are hardly the first steps against it.

Former Mayor John V. Lindsay set up a task force on sex law enforcement in July 1971, promised in February 1972 that the police and sanitation departments would "saturate" midtown, and in March 1973 signed a law requiring licenses for massage parlors.

In October 1975, then-Mayor Abraham D. Beame began a "continuous campaign' against streetwalkers and pimps in the Madison Square Garden area to prepare for the 1976 Democratic National Convention.

In January 1976 the City Council put a moratorium on new massage parlors and in July 1977 passed an omnibus anti-pornography bill

And what effect has it had?

Today streetwalkers are so plentiful and wide-ranging — that the three men ticketed that July night were certain Miss Jackson was a prostitute even though she did not proposition them and even though she was far from Times Square.

With so huge a problem, few officials make sweeping promises any more about eliminating it. They talk of controlling it, and police admit they target their limited resources where complaints are worst.

This spring, police foot patrols were beefed up 200 percent and 100 new officers were added to the two midtown precincts. Each precinct also got a "Pros Control" squad - including four women in Midtown North and two women, one of them Miss Jackson, in Midtown South.

But the commanding officers of the Pros Control units agree they can't put real pressure on johns with only six policewomen as regularly-assigned decoys. The area covers three square miles of porn palaces, topless joints, massage parlors, walkup hovels, apartments of every description, the city's best hotels, and some of its worst.

So each precinct "targets" resources with different effects.

Sgt. Pete Birong, head of Midtown North Pros Control, points to a cleanedup Eighth Avenue north of 45th Street his section of Times Square, near most of the Broadway theaters. But he also admits difficulty arresting prostitutes in richer areas, where high-priced hookers make more subtle approaches to johns near expensive hotels.

And Birong concedes that many Times

Benton Award Goes To News Reporter

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — CBS news correspondent Mike Wallace Wednesday was named winner of the 1978 Thomas Hart Benton Award, given annually to an American whose life and values "best exemplify the ideals, concerns and human qualities" of the late artist.

John Lottes, president of Kansas City Art Institute, made the announcement.

Wallace has been co-editor of the network's news magazine show "60 Minutes" since its inception 10 years ago. He was chosen by the institute's board of governors from nominees in the educational, scientific, political and cultural fields screened by the college's Thomas Hart Benton Associates.

The award is to be presented at a dinner Sept. 29 in Kansas City.

Study Says Bookmaking Small Business

DETROIT (AP) - The average bookmaking parlor is a small-time business, and the image of a huge, sinister organized crime gambling industry was created by law enforcement officials trying to explain their failure to stop illegal gambling, a new study suggests.

Preliminary versions of the first two sections of the detailed, 10-year study, scheduled for release this fall, have been made available to the Detroit Free Press, the newspaper reported this week.

The study, financed in part by the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, is based on federal and local law enforcement agency records in the New York City area. The study also asserts that illegal gambling figures may be inflated by federal agencies and that

Hugh Carter Remained At Post

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter was not alone in seeking late August solitude far from the executive pressure cooker.

While the boss was vacationing in the West, a majority of senior Carter aides got away from Washington for long weekends or, in some cases, a week or more. One who remained at his post was Hugh Carter Jr., the president's cousin and chief economizer "I had some things I wanted to do," said Hugh Carter, who told a reporter he planned to take a respite later in the

When another presidential aide heard that Cousin Hugh, also known as "Cousin Cheap." had been here without a break. he snorted, "No wonder I couldn't find my paper clips when I got back."

'Zbig' Went Fishing

Zbigniew Brzezinski, Carter's assistant for national security affairs, took off for a long weekend with his family despite his role in preparing for this week's Mideast summit at Camp David, Md.

Brzezinski and entourage went fishing in North Carolina. "Zbig" planned to take a full four days off, but had to return a day early to preside at a top-level meeting considering a controversial export license for oil drilling technology to the Soviet Union.

Daughter Joins Amy

Although Carter now faces a series of important voting tests in Congress, his chief lobbyist, Frank Moore, felt able to take most of his family to Sarasota, Fla.,

Daughter Courtney had other plans. She joined Amy Carter as guest and playmate during the first family's Wyoning holiday.

Even the new White House image-burnisher. Gerald Rafshoon, took almost a full week off. He spent some time on New York's Long Island, but not as much as he intended. When Carter cut short his vacation, Rafshoon did like-

Vacation Secret

White House Counsel Robert Lipshutz took his family home to Atlanta for 10 days, returning to work on Tuesday.

Stuart E. Eizenstat, chief domestic policy adviser, escaped for a week but, according to his office, kept his vacation destination a secret "so people wouldn't be bothering him."

Stay On Job

The three political heavies on the White House staff, Hamilton Jordan, Tim Kraft and Anne Wexler, proved themselves dedicated to work during the vacation season - which may say something about the tasks confronting them.

Miss Wexler stayed at her post throughout, arranging a series of White House ceremonies and lobbying sessions during Carter's absence. Kraft, absent from the place most of last week on business, pared only one day from his work schedule Jordan spent a weekend at his home in Albany, Ga., and went to Long Island the following weekend in a game but vain quest for the championship of the annual celebrity tennis tournament benefitting the Robert F. Kennedy Memorial Fund. During the normal work days, however, he was on the job.

Kraft, Carter's chief advance man who will arrange for the president's campaign travels this fall, managed a fiveday holiday at Rehobeth Beach, Del.

Foreign Travel

The White House staff award for getting farthest away from it all in August goes to Jack H. Watson Jr., Cabinet secretary and assistant for intergovernmental affairs. He spent two weeks in England and France.

An assistant to assistant Watson suggested, apparently in jest, that a reporter not mention the foreign travel lest Carter accuse Watson of contributing to the decline of the dollar.

Traveled With Carter

Then there were those who made the Western trip with Carter: press secretary Jody Powell and appointments secretary Phil Wise.

be fabricated to help support agency budget requests.

An FBI spokesman in Detroit declined to comment on the study, but the Free Press quoted an unidentified federal law enforcement source here as arguing that while the study may accurately reflect the situation in New York City, organized crime does indeed have strong control over Detroit-area gambling rackets. The researchers conceded the New stories of large gambling operations may York situation may not be typical of the rest of the country.

The report concludes that "bad law and even worse policy" have resulted from police agencies basing their fight against organized crime on what the authors say are myths and misrepresentation of facts.

The image of a powerful national crime ring serves FBI and police purposes, the study argues, because it helps explain why they are unable to control illegal gambling and other criminal enterprises.

The study was done in New York City from 1965 to 1975by sociologist Jonathan Rubinstein and economist Peter Reuter.

The authors criticize a 1974 Justice Department estimate that $29 billion to $39 billion a year is involved nationally in illegal gambling. Rubenstein and Reuter said the department's method of making such estimates is "exceptionally crude and designed to ensure a very large re-

NEW YORK (UPI) - U.S. industry is waging an expensive war against corrosion that is eating away metal goods at an alarming rate.

Various sources, including the Bureau of Standards; Frost & Sullivan, the New York industrial reserach firm; the National Association of Corrosion Engineers, which has its headquarters in Houston, and Purchasing Magazine, agree that the nation's total bill for corrosion is $75 billion a year.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Substitution of fiberglass and thermoplastics for metals, if possible, is about the most effective way to curb corrosion — glass is the most corrosion resistant material known — but for many application is impractical.

The rare metal tantalum, which costs $30 a pound, is the most corrosion-resist-ant metal, followed by the stainless steels and bronze. Some types of aluminum resist corrosion well and are less expensive than the other resistant metals.

Metal cladding, in which a thin layer of a corrosion resistant metal is bonded by one of three processes to a base sheet of carbon steel, instead of relying on a liquid coating. is making headway.

It also has been learned that design has a lot to do with corrosion. Sharp edged surfaces or surfaces that are overstressed and craze easily will cause a metal part to corrode much more quickly. And methods to keep pipes full and prevent air being trapped in them reduce corrosion effectively.

Vietnam, Laos Eager For Ties With U.S.

Laos are eager to improve relations with the United States, partly because of their need for food, equipment and development aid, says a special congressional committee.

The committee, whose eight members spent 10 days in the two countries, recommended Thursday that the United States consider resuming talks on lifting a trade embargo and normalizing relations with Vietnam

The report said Laos, in a change of attitude, is now willing to help determine the fate of Americans missing in action there since the Indochina War. The committee took this to be an indication the Laotians want stronger ties with the United States

The panel found the Vietnamese want better relations with the United States for two reasons: to offset the deterioration of relations with China and open a new avenue for trade.

One possible trade option is helping tap Vietnamese oil and gas resources, the report noted. The United States has low-level diplomatic ties with Laos, but there is no official American representative in Hanoi. There has been "a dramatic and fundamental change in attitudes by the Vietnamese government toward the United States government," according to the re-

This shift is part of a new policy in Hanoi of even-handed relations with all nations who recognize Vietnam, the congressmen said they were told. They added that the Vietnamese say they will not play favorites and will maintain their "independence and sovereignty" against encroachments from all sides.

Vietnam needs food, machinery, agricultural chemicals and technology, but has no hard currency with which to pay for them, the report said. Concessionary or long-term loans would be needed to finance such purchases initially. The congressmen said they told the Vietnamese the United States would not provide reconstruction aid, nor could such aid be a precondition to establishing normal ties. The Vietnamese reply, they said, was there should be no preconditions at all. "We know how to be flexible," the Vietnamese were quoted as saving The delegation was invited by the Viet-se vice minister of foreign affairs, Phan Hien. The trip to the two countries took place Aug. 18-28. During the visit, Vietnam released the remains of 11 Americans killed during the war, and Laos turned over the bodies of four Americans.

Delegation members were Reps. G.V. Montgomery, D-Miss.; George Danielson. D-Calif.: Antonio Won Pat, D-Guam: John Murtha, D-Pa.; Sam Hall, D-Texas; Ike Skelton, D-Mo.; James Broyhill, R-N.C., and Henson Moore, R-

Wary Of Explosions INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Afraid of the dark after eight explosions within a week, citizens and authorities in the Speedway area of Indianapolis have virtually halted nighttime activities. A football game scheduled tonight between Speedway High School and rival Mooresville was postponed indefinitely. Stores were almost empty at the area's major shopping center Thursday night and some closed early. All evening outdoor recreational activities were stopped and police imposed a curfew from 10:30 p.m. to 6 a.m. for persons 18 and under. The precautions came a week after the bombings began in this community of 17,000 "We're of the opinion that darkness gives the mad bomber an advantage. It's his chief ally." said Speedway school Superintendent Dale Weller. "So we're definitely not going to have any crowd-gathering events or night activities in school buildings, at least for the rest of the week. The most recent explosion occurred Wednesday night in the high school parking lot as a freshman football game was ending, resulting in injuries to three persons. Carl DeLong. 39, remained hospitalized in serious condition after he reportedly kicked a gym bag containing the bomb, said Assistant U.S. Attorney Bernard Pylitt. DeLong's wife, Sandy, 39, was in good condition. A third unidentified victim suffered minor shrapnel wounds in the shoulder.

But police, officials of the Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, and the U.S. attorney's office were no closer to determining a motive or suspects in the case.

A dozen federal agents were assisting city police in an around-the-clock investigation and police patrols were increased from eight to 10 hours. Business and local government leaders have offered a $2,500 reward for information in the case. Speedway Town Board member Harry Eakin said Thursday. "There must be a parent, spouse or friend who suspects who may be responsible for these bombings - or who can provide information on them," Eakin The bombs have all been homemade composed of a six-volt battery, a cooking timer, gunpowder packed tightly in a 12ounce beverage can wrapped in a towel

Tactics Force Bill's Delay

WASHINGTON (AP) - Stalling tactics by opponents have forced House leaders to delay until Monday consideration of a bill to revamp federal Civil Service laws. The idea had been to begin debate on the bill - called by its floor manager "the president's major domestic bill" Thursday night and wrap it up today. The revised schedule calls for finishing work on the bill Monday, no matter how long it

The change means less controversial bills originally scheduled for debate Mon day run the risk of being dumped, as the House rushes to adjourn so members can return to their home districts to campaign for the November elections.

One example of stalling action came when Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Calif., insisted that a 20-page section of the bill be read aloud before House members could propose amendments.

The clock is running out on us," said Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., floor manager for the bill. "The load we have is really tremendous and every moment counts. It isn't going to go away. This bill is going to be acted on in this session.

The cost of the cathedral, which is backed by believers from all over the world, is estimated in the millions. The year-old project is to be two-thirds the length of the Gen. Francisco Franco's

A regular church goer, Dominguez failed in attempts to enter a seminary, friends say, and often questioned priests not infrequent in deeply religious and rural Andalucia.

Local priests say, however, only about dozen of El Palmar's 1,200 families attend Dominguez' Masses.

Reformed Church Confronts Issue

By DAVID E. ANDERSON

United Press International Writer The 215,000-member Reformed Church America, which traces its history in the United States back to 1628, has found itself in the midst of a very current conroversy: the ordination of women to the

At least two women have reportedly een ordained and two others are schedaled to be ordained in the near future, despite the fact that the church has repeatedly turned down proposals which rould sanction such ordinations.

The actions move the debate in the RCA from the legislative to the judicial

According to the Church Herald, the nomination's official journal, a comlaint has been filed challenging the ordiation of one of the women, Mrs. Louise nn Hill-Alto.

Mrs. Hill-Alto's ordination was aproved by the Classes of Brooklyn, a local ouping of congregations charged with ersight of the ministry in a particular rea much like a presbytery. Efforts to change the denomination's ance on ordination of women through church's legislative process have iled at least five times when proposals ming from the church's General Synod ailed, usually by only a few votes, to receive the required two-thirds majority proval of the classes.

In the judicial process, if it is carried through to the highest forum, the General Synod, the church may well have a test case that finally sets a definitive interpretation on the section of the Book of Church Order dealing with candidates for ordination. In the past, proponents of women's or-dination have had little difficulty in generating the simple majority needed at the General Synod level approving such ordinations and if, as appears likely, a judicial complaint involving the recent ordinations reaches the General Synod, it too will be decided on a simple majority

The Church Herald, however, warns that it may be more difficult to achieve the simple majority when there is a new pope sitting on the throne of St. Peter a new pope whose attitudes and policies toward women will do much to determine the future of the movement.

SKATEBOARDS BANNED

DENVER (AP) - Skateboards are now illegal on public streets, alleys or highways in Denver. So are any other unlicensed "wheeled devices," according to Presbyterian Church choir director, will an ordinance passed by the city council.

A DAILY MESSAGE FROM

Mark 15:21-40, The Living Bible

21 Simon of Cyrene, who was coming in from the country just then, was pressed into service to carry Jesus cross. (Simon is the father of Alexander and Rufus.) 22 And they brought Jesus to a place called Golgotha. (Golgotha means skull.) 23 Wine drugged with bitter herbs was offered to Him there, but He 24 And then they crucified Him-and threw dice for His clothes.

25 It was about nine o'clock in the morning when the crucifixion took place.

26 A signboard was fastened to the cross above His head, announcing His crime. It read, "The King of the Jews."

27 Two robbers were also crucified that morning, their crosses on either side of His. 282 And so the Scripture was fulfilled that said, "He was counted among evil men.

29,30 The people jeered at Him as they walked by, and wagged their heads in mockery. "Ha! Look at you now!" they yelled at Him. "Sure, you can destroy the Temple and rebuild it in three days! If you're so wonderful, save yourself and come down from the cross."

31 The chief priests and seligious leaders were also standing around joking about Jesus. "He's quite clever at 'saving' others," they said, "but he can't save himself!"

32 "Hey there, Messiah!" they yelled at Him. "You 'King of Israel'! Come on down from the cross and we'll believe you!" And even the two robbers dying with Him, cursed Him.

33 About noon, darkness fell across the entire land, lasting until three o'clock that afternoon.

34 Then Jesus called out with a loud voice, sabachthani?" ioud voice, 'Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani?" ("My God, My God, why have You deserted Me?") 35 Some of the people standing there thought He was calling for the prophet Elijah. 36 So one man ran and got a sponge and filled it with sour wine and held it up to Him on a stick. "Let's see if Elijah will come and take him down!" he said. 37 Then Jesus uttered another loud cry, and dismissed His spirit. 38 And the curtain in the Temple was split apart from top to bottom. 39 When the Roman officer standing beside His cross saw how He dismissed His spirit, he exclaimed, "Truly, this was the Son of God!"

40 Some women were there watching from a distance-Mary Magdalene, Mary (the mother of James the Younger and of Joses), Salome, and others.

If the dollar's continuing plunge on international money markets has sent tremors of fear through the New York banking establishment and the Carter administration, it has also alarmed many of the nation's farmers, who worry that a tide of foreign investors are gobbling up U.S. farm land.

Global jet-set investors have found that one of the best places to put the tremendous surplus of U.S. dollars piling and Italian investors since 1977.

By ROBERT L. HANEY

Texas Agricultural Experiment Station New, improved systems of insect control in crops are being used effectively by producers to increase yields and profits, reduce environmental pollution, and save energy.

Management of crop insect pests is no longer the haphazard, relatively ineffectual effort is was 50 years ago. And if a producer is to make maximum profits, it can no longer be the mechanical "spray or dust by the calendar" that was widely used in the chemical age of the 1950s and 1960s

Today's Integrated Pest Management (IPM) systems use every natural and cultural method to suppress or regulate the buildup of harmful insect populations to levels that would necessitate the use of insecticides.

Ideally, pests would never reach a "harmful economic threshold" that would damage crops by lowering yields and/or quality.

However, most crops at present do have some pests at some time during the season that build up to harmful levels and necessitate the use of chemical con-

In some instances, IPM systems have' been developed that use less insecticides with relatively little environmental disturbance. But in those areas where populations of pests have risen to economic threshold levels, chemical insecticides will continue for some time to play a key role in the management of insect populations.

Research by entomologists and economists with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station has resulted in development of the intergrated pest management programs for key crops in Texas.

These IPM programs are being put into widespread use by producers, working with entomologists of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The impact of these programs, when compared to conventional methods in a number of areas, reveal a decided economic advan-

TULIA - The Bollworm situation in Swisher County has been very severe this past week and Ed Gage, extension entomologist, is still stationed here to assist producers in checking fields and identifying pests.

Many fields have been sprayed and varied results from different applications have been noted. According to light trap catches, the main activity of the moth and the egg lay should be on the decline, said David Gibson, county extension agent. Producers should check soybean fields for podworm damage, said Gibson. A few fields have been damaged severely. One worm will eat approximately 20 pods. These worms can cause severe yield loss if unchecked. Some beet army worms have been noted, with a few fields showing quite a bit of defoliation.

Headworms in sorghum also have been found and some fields have been treated. Fields in the milk to soft dough stage should be checked for these pests. Farmers seeking more information or insect control guides should contact the county agent's office in the courthouse

The overseas investors have joined the ranks of insurance companies, oil conglomerates and pension funds that have entered the farm land market, hiking the average price per acre from $219 in 1972 to $490 in 1978. The soaring prices make the farmer's land more valuable, but many small farmers complain that the profits from their crops are not enough to pay off the bank loans needed to buy the land.

Young farmers, in particular, have had a tough time getting started. Several states have passed special legislation to provide financial assistance. But U.S. farm land prices are still only half the cost of the average acre in Europe. That disparity troubles National Farmers Union leaders, who worry that if U.S. land prices rise to the European level, many small farmers could be squeezed out en-

A variety of schemes have been used to put U.S. farm land on the international auction block. One of the most innovative was set up by the San Franciscobased American Real Estate Exchange (Amrex), which sponsered an 'international market day' last spring in Zurich, Switzerland. It was advertised in the Wall Street Journal as a chance for buyers and sellers of U.S. real estate to get together for "confidential discus-

Hundreds of German, French, Italian and Arab investors came to see what land was available. Meeting with U.S. real estate dealers, property owners, private lending institutions and banks, several discreet deals were made - including one that linked an American developer of former ranch lands with a Swiss bank representing Kuwaiti clients.

Both U.S. and European banks are actively involved in farm purchases. Gerald Jackson, president of Amrex, said he deals "with the biggest banks in New York." Special land divisions have been established in major New York and Swiss banks, and their officials boast of the agriculture expertise to attract prospective investors. Even the U.S. ambassador to Switzerland, Marvin Warner, arranged a meeting to introduce U.S. real estate agents to international banks and

Another popular point of entry for foreign capital is in the balmy Caribbean islands of the Netherlands Antilles. Corporations based on the island have their profits exempted from Netherlands taxes. In addition, the U.S. Department of Treasury has signed a tax treaty with the Netherland Antilles that grafts its corporations special tax treatment when they invest their money in the United Italian, German, French and Swiss investors with unreported income have flocked to the Dutch Antilles. They set up "straw" corporations and have taken adventage of the U.S. tax treaty to buy U.S. farms. There is some speculation that even some American investors have set up straw corporations on the islands to evade taxes in the United States.

Missouri Commissioner of Agriculture the Texas statewide IPM program in Runyon says that 13 straw companies from the Netherland Antilles have registered their farm purchases with thestate, but that their true owners are "harder than hell to trace."

In Hillsdale, Mich., 650 acres of small family farms were purchased by Dutch Antilles interests. In California, 1,280 acres of federally irrigated land supposed to be reserved for small farmers ended up in the hands of a Dutch Antilles corporation. Rep. Charles Grassely, R.-lowa, has proposed legislation that would close the tax loophole.

Some farmers, however, eagerly support foreign investment, arguing that it helps provide capital needed by today's modern agribusiness enterprises. Other farmers have made handsome profits by selling their land to foreign investors and then signing a lease with the new owner. This allows them to pay off their debts and stay on the land.

WAGE WAR ON WEEDS — The effects of herbicides on weeds which rob producers of profits are examined by Dr. John Abernathy, right, weed research project leader, and Jess Davis, weed control research associate, of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. Weed control is one of the major topics for the TAES field day Tuesday at the Halfway facility.

Field Day At Halfway Research Site To Scrutinize Area's Weed Problems

HALFWAY (Special) - Weeds, which can cause U.S. farmers billions of dollars of crop loss each year, will receive an indepth look during the 69th annual field day of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock and Halfway.

The event will be at 1 p.m. Tuesday at the Halfway research site. 14 miles west of Plainview on U.S. Highway 70.

The report on weed control, one of five major stops on the field day tour, will present the latest information on the benefits of herbicides for major crops of the Texas High Plains, new weed problems, and control measures for old problems, said Dr. John Abernathy. TAES weed control research sci-

Among the new problems to be discussed. Abernathy said, are the continued spread and increase of such weeds as rough blackfoot, lanceleaf sage, prairie sunflower and oakleaf thornapple.

The latest control measures for "old" weed problems also will be covered. Abernathy said. Weeds in this category include lakeweed. Texas blueweed, Johnsongrass, watergrass, careless weed, and whiteweed. "Various new herbicides and growth regulators are being evaluated in all crops of the southern High Plains," Abernathy said. The potential for use of these new materials will be discussed at the field day.

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station has led in the development of post-plant incorporation applications of herbicides in corn and sorghum for grass control, the researcher said. Treflan and Prowl are now labeled by the Environmental Protection Agency for this use in corn, he noted. He said the latest results of tests on this use will be reported at the field day program.

"The recirculating recovery sprayer continues to create a lot of interest." Abernathy said. The latest information on the labeling of Roundup for this use

Some new techniques for possible control of whiteweed, using the recirculating sprayer, also will be discussed.

"Various crop varieties respond differently to herbicides," Abernathy said. Visitors will be shown an update on varietal response research for corn and cot-

In addition to reports of research on weed control, other featured stops on the tour of the 320-acre Halfway facility will report on a mobile trickle irrigation system, labor management, corn irrigation, and cotton varieites and disease control. Area implement dealers will present a display of machinery and equipment.

The field day is a cooperative presentation of TAES, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the High Plains Research Foundation, the Science Education Administration of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and the National HEREFORD - The major portion of the 1978 vegetable harvest in Deaf Smith County and surrounding areas is drawing to a close as the onion harvest has been completed and only a small acreage of potatoes remains to be harvested.

Harvesting of early carrots has been completed in the Hereford area, while the process is just getting underway in neighboring Castro County. Once the harvesting of the early crop is complete, only the gathering of the area lettuce crop this fall and the late carrot crop in October and November will remain ahead of area vegetable growers. Some potatoes continue to be proc essed in the Hart area in neighboring Castro County, with most of the spuds being harvested in the "sandhill country" near In the Hereford area, potato harvesting is virtually complete, according to Wes Fisher of Dick Barrett Produce. "The potato crop was off about 25 percent, although the quality of the potatoes remained good throughout the harvest. We had a lot more small potatoes that didn't bring as much money. The fact that the market was much improved this year was a big factor in softening the effect of a decline in production," he relat-Onion harvesting is also complete here, according to Fisher, but the production. of the crop was a break-even proposition at best for Hereford-area farmers. Albert Maxwell of the Hereford office of Dimmitt-based La Mantia-Cullum-Collier & Co. reported that potato harvesting should be completed this week in the Dimmitt area, with only a small acreage remaining in fields west of that commun-

According to Maxwell, the harvest of early carrots in Castro County is just getting underway, and as in the Hereford area, will be of short duration.

"A lot of the early carrots were washed out by heavy rains back in the spring, and this will cut down on the early harvest. We'll have late carrots about the first of October, and they are looking good right now. A lot of things could happen with the crop between now and October, though," he pointed out.

A spokeman for a Hereford vegetable processing firm reported that a mid-sea-son crop of carrots will be harvested here in two to three weeks, prior to the nor-mal late carrot harvest in October and

He reported that the early carrot crop in this area made reasonably good yields, and that improved prices over 1977 may greet growers when they begin harvest-ing late carrots for the fresh vegetable

Maxwell explained that the area lettuce crop is posting good growth toward fall

"Lettuce is looking real good, and we anticipate starting lettuce harvest around Sept. 25. We'll be harvesting a limited acreage in the Dimmitt, Hart and Lazbuddie areas, and we figure on harvesting everything within a five-week period." he sid.

Harvesting of lettuce should get underway at a similar time in the Hereford area, and the success of the crop will depend heavily on favorable weather during the crucial fall season.

ALTHOUGH U. S. WHEAT SUPPLIES won't change much this year, spices may move up or down depending upon how well U.S. wheat sells abroad Any big price moves this year most likely will come from export demand, the USDA says. crops come to market. But in the past marketing year, three big U. S. competitors - Australia, Argentina and Canada - harvested much smaller crops, and importers turned to the United States for late season supplies.

BASED IN PART ON THE BRISK FOREIGN demand for U. S. wheat, prices rose 20 to 30 cents a bushel last spring. Also, contrary to the normal pattern, prices didn't sag as much this year around harvest time. Export demand, the reduced crop, and a lagging harvest reduced the normal

June-July glut of wheat moving into commercial storage. Also, storage payments under the farmer-held reserve program and low-interest storage facility loans have encourged wheat farmers to build on-farm storage, thus relieving the harvest pressures.

No doubt, this year's lower wheat output in the Southern Hemisphere will buoy U. S. exports until late 1978 or early 1979, when the Southern Hemisphere harvest comes in. So crop developments in that region bear close watching in

A SECOND BIG QUESTION: the size of the Soviet grain crop. It's tough to estimate right now, USDA says, because weather in Russia is unpredictable and the growing season is short as compared to ours.

The USDA's best estimate is that the Soviets will bring in a near-record crop this year, but poor harvest conditions from now until the crop is in the bin could

As of late August, crop conditions in most areas of the Soviet Union appeared to be quite good. Again weather is the big concern. It has been wet over some

U. S. wheat exports, which have been running at a high rate for several months, could slow down some before the turn of the year. That could mean very little in the way of a seasonal price increase through next spring.

family farmers still dominate the scene there is widespread mistrust of any outside attempts to take over the land. Rumors of foreign purchases can sweep along the country lanes as swiftly as a wind-whipped prairie fire. Sometimes there are facts behind the rumors.

In Georgia, for example, Transatlantic Consultants Inc., an international investment corporation based in Munich, has bought at least 17,000 acres of land. The average size of a farm in Georgia is only 272 acres. Transatlantic's Georgia connection, retired Air Force Col. Phillip Beegle, has gained a controversial reputation for his shrewd and hard driving bargaining techniques. Beegle's success has been due, in part, to the impact of disastrous crop failures, which plagued the South in 1977. A severe drought, coupled with low grain prices and high fertilizer costs, pushed many farmers to the brink of bankrupt-cy. Some were glad to sell to Beegle at the "above market prices" he advertised in local papers. Others were more reluctant. Tommy Kersey, a Georgia farmer active in the agricultural strike movement, rejected Beegle's offer after he was cautioned to "keep things quiet be-cause we got a lot of foreign investment

Trading in the Lubbock spot cotton market was slow to moderate. Supplies of cotton for sale were heavy and demand was moderate.

Growers offered 1978 crop contracts at around L-400 to 1,500 points over 1977 loan rates. Contracting has been inactive this week.

The Lubbock Cotton Exchange's spot quotation was steady to lower.

Campaign For Anti-Hijacking Pact Hits Snags

LONDON (AP) - The seven major non-Communist industrial nations that vowed two months ago to rally world support for a global anti-hijacking pact have run into some legal and political snags.

Senior diplomats of several of the seven governments report that although some countries like Austria, Denmark and Communist Czechoslovakia support the idea in principle others, including India, Algeria and Libya, have displayed

India has said the project should be discussed within the context of the United Nations. Algerian leaders, who once were political fugitives themselves, don't like the idea of denying sanctuary to any political activists, especially Arabs. The Libyans appear plainly uncooperative.

British and French authorities have warned that Arab states would be able to erect an air barrier between Europe and Africa or the Mideast in retaliation for any sanctions imposed on countries that provide a haven for hijackers. The London-Paris view is that this could do more harm than good to the whole enter-

Nevertheless, Britain, France, the United States, West Germany, Italy, Canada and Japan remain resolved to abide by the political commitment they assumed at the mid-July economic summit conference in Bonn. That was where the concept of a global anti-hijacking pact was launched on the initiative of Japanese Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda.

Fukuda's proposal, swiftly supported by Canada's Prime Minister Pierre El-liott Trudeau and West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, eventually was formalized in a seven-nation declaration. Its central aim was to deny terrorists who hijack aircraft a refuge anywhere.

The seven leaders agreed to cut off all airline services to and from any nation that harbors hijackers. "In cases in which a country refuses to extradite, or legally prosecute airplane hijackers, or to give back such airplanes, the heads of state and government are unanimously agreed through their governments to see to it immediately that all flights will be terminated into that country," the declaration said.

British and West German diplomats have disclosed privately that Fukuda introduced his scheme without even consulting his own government. Experts accompanying each government chief were said to have been startled by the initiative and its implications.

"If diplomats of the seven countries concerned had been ordered in advance to draft such a declaration, they would never have agreed," one British informant acknowledged. "But now, of course, they have to proceed to fulfill the commitment their leaders have assumed."

In the worldwide bid to win backing for the declaration, Communist, neutral and pro-Western nations are being approached. Few definitive answers have yet come in, informants say. Quite a number of countries have pledged to study the idea closely. A West German spokesman, who declined to be identified, said it will take weeks if not months before any kind of boxscore of acceptances and rejections can be compiled.

Austria, even before the Bonn move, urged some such action. Denmark has indicated a readiness to go along with the idea and to consult its Scandinavian neighbors on doing the same. Czechoslovakia generally has welcomed the idea, even while saying Communist and Western ideas of terrorism do not coincide.

U.N. Force Shelled By Rightist Troops

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) - Israeliarmed Christian militiamen opened fire on Norwegian U.N. troops in southeast Lebanon today and later refused to allow them to set up the first U.N. outpost in the militia-held border area since the Israeli invasion 11 weeks ago.

Israeli reconnaissance jets also flew

Nepalese-Chinese border.

In Beirut, other right-wing Christian militiamen battled Syrian peacekeeping troops before dawn in the capital's worst fighting in a month - underscoring the danger of widened Middle East violence clouding the Camp David summit talks. Hospital officials said at least one persoutheastern suburbs of Beirut. The abortive Norwegian bid to assume positions in the militia hill stronghold of Khiam came despite an agreement by Israel, after intensive diplomatic pressure from U.N. and American officials last month, to drop opposition to at least limited U.N. presence near the frontier.

U.N. sources said "a number of contacts" were now under way to again seek the peacekeepers' entry into militia-held

Residents said militiamen in the southeast hill town of Marjayoun shelled the Norwegian contingent near Ebel es Saqi early today, and that later a militia road block near Khiam turned back the U.N. troops trying to enter the town.

No reliable casualty reports were immediately available in the militia shelling in the southeast, which lasted about 90 minutes.

Elsewhere in the south, Christian miltiamen shelled the Palestinian-controlled town of Nabatiyeh near the Israeli border, wounding six persons, according to reports from the town. Palestinian gunners reportedly retaliated by shelling militia positions around Marjayoun.

It was not immediately clear what touched off the latest fighting in Beirut. But Syrian troops from the Arab force charged with keeping the peace in Lebanon have been periodically bombarding the Maronite Christian areas of the capital in an attempt to alienate the civilian population from the militias that continue to defy both Syrian and Lebanese government authority

The militias, for their part, have continually goaded the Syrians with sniper and occassional shellfire in order to provoke the retaliation that they hope will lead to Israeli intervention on their side.

The early morning shelling punched holes in buildings, started several fires and chased civilians into underground shelters, residents said.

The twin battles came as Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat met at the Camp David Middle East summit hosted by President Carter.

Israeli warplanes streaked over southern Lebanon Thursday and the Jewish state's gunboats moved up the Lebanese coast as far north as Damour, just below Beirut, drawing Palestinian machinegun and mortar fire, witnesses said.

Diplomats said the Israeli reconnaissance efforts underscored earlier hints the Jewish state might intervene to head off "massacre" against the Christians in Lebanon.

The right-wing Phalangist Radio today quoted diplomatic sources as saying Washington had warned Israel against attempts to increase tensions in Lebanon during the summit. It said Israel had asked the United States in turn to curb Syrian military activity.

Higher salaries were the main issue in almost all the walkouts.

Classes began today in Cleveland, which got a $20.7 million emergency loan from the state just to open this year.

But school employee unions, representing 10,000 teachers and non-certified personnel, remained on strike for a second day. They urged parents to keep their children home, saying no instruction would be available.

School officials reported light attend-

It was likely that those students who did report for class would be sent home early, according to the office of Deputy Superintendent James R. Tanner.

All but 800 of Cleveland's 100,000 pupils were ordered to report to their classrooms. The 800 who don't have to report are assigned to four elementary schools not yet ready to open because of vandalleaders had been jailed when teachers struck illegally 11 days ago, teachers today approved a tentative settlement reached late Thursday night. The 500 members of the Marion Teachers Association approved the three-year contract by a voice vote. School officials said that if teachers approved the contract, the system's 9,900 pupils would return to classes Monday. No details were released on the agree-

Under the old contract, teachers earned annual salaries of between $9,125 and $17,-428. A small aircraft flew over Thurmont, Md., near Camp David, late Thursday carrying an illuminated message proclaiming that Palestinians are the key to peace. A coalition spokesman said it had sent the plane aloft.

Carter accelerated the pace of his summitry Thursday evening, meeting with Begin and Sadat for the second time in less than four hours.

In addition, Mondale was flown up from Washington on Thursday for the second straight day. He joined Vance. Brzezinski and Secretary of Defense Harold Brown for midafternoon talks with Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan and Defense Minister Ezer Weizman.

Brown's presence revived speculation about possible defense links between the United States and Israel as part of a Mideast settlement.

But Powell dismissed the possibility of sending American troops to the Mideast as "one of the great non-existent stories of all time." He described as "hogwash" reports the administration might establish an American air base in territories won by Israel in the 1967 war.

Powell said "no specific occurrence" prompted Brown's trip here from Washington. He said Brown was summoned because of his "general role and expertise in the area.

Mondale and Vance, after the meeting with Dayan and Weizman, conferred for an hour with Egypt's foreign minister. Muhammad Ibrahim Kamil.

Carter, who spent about seven hours with Begin and Sadat during the first two days of the summit, has moved directly to the heart of the 30-year-old Mideast dispute rather than taking the easier course of beginning with peripheral and less controversial items.

Asked whether Carter steered discussions during the Thursday meeting with Begin and Sadat to such thorny issues as the future of the Gaza Strip and the West Bank of the Jordan River. Powell said. certainly wouldn't be surprised."

The future of these lands, seized by Israel during the 1967 war, is central to Carter's efforts to persuade Sadat and Begin to compromise differences over borders, Jewish settlements, a Palestinian homeland and peace terms.

The three leaders took a break from business Thursday night.

Zoners Approve Store Request

By PAULA TILKER

Avalanche-Journal Staff Planning and Zoning commi Thursday narrowly approved a hotly con-tested zone change to allow a large, unnamed retail store in an office park area. Since a majority of the property owners adjacent the proposed site opposed the change, an affirmative four-fifths council vote will be necessary for final approval.

While the property owners argued for smaller retail businesses they said would be more "compatible" with existing businesses, W.D. "Dub" Rogers Jr., repeatedly stressed the company's longtime reputation for quality and the potentially beneficial economic impact the firm could have on Lubbock.

Rogers, who represents the Midwest firm, told commissioners he is not at lib-erty to disclose the name of the company. But he quoted impressive-sounding statistics the company lays claim to, including its 474 stores nationwide, its estab-lishment in 1881, $800 million earmarked for a 5-year capital expansion program and its proposed $8 million Lubbock investment.

After he "sold" the company on Lub-bock as an attractive investment site, Rogers said the unnamed firm decided to build a 100,000-square foot store on property south of Loop 289 and west of University Avenue. The property, however, currently zoned local retail (C-2), would have to be changed to general retail (C-3). The secrecy surrounding the company's identity, the nature of its business, as well as the size of the proposed building. alarmed nearby property owners. Several told commissioners they do not want the

Edward Upp, president of the board of directors at T.I.M.E.-DC credit union, located west of the proposed store site, expressed the property owners' sentiment when he said his company "felt confident" the land would remain C-2 when it bought it.

Nancy Jones, representing an architecture and engineering firm that plans to build offices near the store site, echoed

Upp, as did Dwight Andrews. Andrews, who represents a real estate investment firm, argued that small retail businesses are more suited to the area than a large store.

He stressed the opposition group does not want to "discourage business," but it

UT President Urges College Salary Hike

AUSTIN (AP) - College faculty salaries must keep pace with inflation and other states to maintain Texas' position in higher education, the University of Texas System president said Thursday.

Faculty salaries are the strength of higher education and the quality of instruction," E.D. Walker told a House committee studying higher education

Walker urged the committee to support 5.5 percent pay raise for professors at state-financed colleges and a 6.4 percent lege coordinating board has refused to recommend the proposed raises.

"It is of interest I think to note that the coordinating board recommended formula for faculty salaries for the next biennium is less than that recommended for the previous biennium." said Walker, speaking as chairman of the Council of Presidents of Public Senior Colleges and Universities in Texas.

The committee took no action on a proposal to raise faculty salaries, but rejected on a 2-2 vote a proposal to send tenured professors "back to school."

Chairman Bill Caraway, D-Houston, wanted an appropriations bill rider that would have siphoned part of college legislative funding into "faculty development programs.

However, his committee disagreed and debate disintegrated into an old complaint that college professors spend too much time outside the classroom on research and publishing.

also does not want an eyesore in the area.

The group also took issue with the fact that the company's identity and the nature of its business was not disclosed. Rogers said the only way he could describe the proposed establishment was as a "cross between J.C. Penney and an S.S. Kress. And you can throw in Sears."

Planning director Jim Bertram advised commissioners that the property meets all C-3 criteria except setback requirements. He noted, however, even if the commission recommended council approval, four-fifths of the council would have to approve the request since a ma-

Presbyopia Strikes Elderly Persons

By HAROLD BLUMENFELD

Nearly all Americans over 65 have vision problems in need of professional care, says the American Optometric Association. Inability to see well often prevents older people from doing what they want to do.

One of the most common visual problems affecting the elderly is presbyopia, the gradual loss of focusing ability. Presbyopia victims' vision at reading distance often becomes blurry and difficult. Yet, the same people probably need glasses to see far away as well as up close.

That's why many people over 65 have a second pair of glasses for reading. Many others wear bifocal or multifocal lenses.

Bifocals contain two lens prescriptions, one for near vision and one for distance vision. Multi-focals contain additional prescriptions. These lenses allow wearers to see with ease while shopping, reading music, painting or performing many tasks or hobbies.

But wearers of bifocal and multi-focal lenses must be more careful than most consumers in seeking eye care and eyeglasses, cautions the American Optometric Association. Not only must such people be concerned with getting the right lens prescription, but they must also be certain the different prescriptions are positioned properly within the lenses.

Improperly placed lens segments can make seeing difficult; that's why bifocal or multi-focal wearers complain about their glasses. Poor placement of lens segments can even result in accidents, especially when walking, ascending or descending stairs or driving.

When the lens segments are properly placed, the wearer should be able to see clearly and comfortably at most distances.

The first step in getting multi-focal lenses is to have a complete vision examination. The exam should include:

— A complete review of your medical history, including the health of your eyes.

— An examination of the exterior and interior of the eye for symptoms of eye disease or general health problems. For instance, signs of diabetes may appear in the eyes.

— Tests to determine nearsightedness, farsightedness or astigmatism. All are common problems that can blur vision and make eyes work overtime.

A check of eye coordination and eye muscle function to insure that eyes are working together as a team.
 A test of your ability to change focus easily from near to far and from far to — A glaucoma test for people over 35 and others whose families' health histories indicate a need for it. The glaucoma test is very important; if not treated, glaucoma can lead to blindness.

Oil Company Offers Energy Evaluations

HOUSTON (UPI) — Continental Oil Co. has begun offering free computerized home energy efficiency evaluations to its 40,000 employees and retirees and eventually plans to make the idea available to other organizations.

Project ECHO (Energy Conservation in the Home) involves mailing questionnaires to Conoco employees and compiling their return-mail answers through the company computer.

The computer then responds what if any changes could be made and the resulting cost savings.

"By doing this, we should be providing people the kind of information they need to make a responsible judgment," said Ken R. Gerhart, program director. "I don't think most people can do that. I know I couldn't.

"We've all been hollered at a lot about being wasteful, but I really don't know where it is we go to find out what we can do that is economically sound. That's what this is intended to supply."

The mail-out form contains 30 questions, some simple (how many persons occupy the home), others more difficult (how much wall space is insulated). Measurements of windows, doors and insulation often are required.

"It probably takes an hour to complete," Gerhart said.

When it is returned, the information is converted to computer data and fed into the machine. Also fed into the machine are company-compiled data about local climate, utility rates, likely cost of insulation or other measures.

"We've got them (questionnaires) from nearly every state." said Gerhart, whose company has headquarters in Stamford, Conn., and Houston, and operations in several other states.

The computer responds whether more insulation, storm windows, storm doors and the like would save money. It also shows money savings from adjusting the thermostat in 2-degree increments, depending on the season.

"It only responds (on capital improvements) if the installed cost does not exceed the amount they would get back in 10 years," Gerhart said.

Since June 1, 13,000 questionnaires have been mailed out. About 2,000 have been run through the computer. The response has not been overwhelming, but Gerhart said questionnaires are still coming back.

"It (response) has been somewhat less than we estimated." Gerhart said. "I don't know why. It may just be that people are busy in the summer."

He said they expected — guessing that one-third of their employees live in other than single-family dwellings and therefore were ineligible — that half of the others (or one-third) would respond. So far, response is about 20 percent.

Gerhart said that after development costs (which he would not estimate); the system is cheap — "about $5 a head" including mailings and computer runs.

"We're about 80 percent through with deciding how we might make this available to responsible people," Gerhart said.

"I don't think we're too far away from a decision."

He said the computer technology involved is not arcane, but it's not run-of-

Doctors at the Health Sciences Center Hospital will be performing West Texas first kidney transplants, perhaps by the end of the year, Lubbock County Hospital District officials were told Thurs-

Already the hospital and its partner, Texas Tech University School of Medicine, have been instrumental in "harvesting" kidneys for transplants elsewhere, said Dr. Francis Jackson, the health center's surgery department chairman.

He reported on the matter to the hospital's joint conference committee, composed of medical school professors (who also head the hospital staff) and members of the hospital district's board of old, district-run teaching hospital: -The hospital soon may institute a special unit for the care of victims of severe burns. Such patients now must be sent to Dallas or Galveston to get the most sophisticated treatment. The proposed burn unit, which originally had not been planned for the local facility, would strengthen Lubbock's role as a regional medical center, officials said.

The committee also discussed other recent developments at the seven-month-

-A program for the rehabilitation of heart-attack victims, another service previously unavailable in West Texas, has been started, according to Dr. A.W. Holmes, medical staff chief and internal medicine chairman. He said the program gives counseling and therapy on such things as diet and exercise, to aid recovery and prevent recurrence of heart prob-

-The hospital plans to open 16 more beds by Monday and possibly another 12 by October. Lack of registered nurses has thwarted the opening of such beds. But now, nursing-school graduates already on staff are being certified by the state as full-fledged RNs, allowing the hospital to make more beds available.

And those beds are "desperately needed," said Gerald Bosworth, executive director of the hospital and hospital district. The hospital presently is about half open, with 115 beds and 24 bassinets available. On some days, Bosworth said, there are so many patients that every

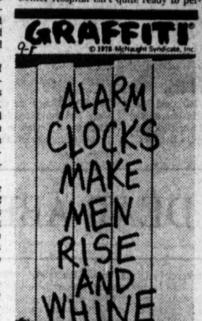

According to hospital district board members, the most exciting news at Thursday's joint conference committee meeting was the kidney transplant program. This is the kind of "program that really puts Lubbock on the map" in the field of health care, member Jack Strong

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

When I first started writing a column, I opened the paper one morning to discover a colleague columnist had died.

At that precise moment, the phone rang and my mother's voice said dryly, 'They go in threes, you know.'

A month or so later, another one expired and I knew who would be on the phone before I answered it. "That's two," said Mother cheeri

It was a good year and a half before Mother called one morning and said 'Didn't I tell you? "Tell me what.

"They go in threes. Ev-

Mom! Writing 'OX ROAST SEPT 1-3' did not make him a columnist.'

'It's close enough," she declared, and

In checking with my friends, its seems we have something in common. They all have mothers who serve as hollow-eyed gypsies when it comes to the 'big three' connection. We seem to be dealing with the past four generations who do not let fact and reasoning get in the way of their predictions. On the outside, they look like women who don't really believe that dancing on a grave can cause cavities...kissing during a full-moon can make you pregnant...or dying your hair with a henna can make you crazy...but when pressed to the wall, they will admit that when you go you're going to take two others with you.

Somehow. I'd be more impressed with these soothsayers if there was a time limit put on the trilogy, but the rules of the game are not set up with that kind of sophistication.

Also, the prominence of the three is a little questionable. Following the deaths of Bing Crosby and Elvis Presley, I questioned Mother on the passing of the third one and she said, "He was a singer, but you didn't know him."

Since there is obviously no logic and no basis to this old wives' tale, I have no intention of passing it on to my children. I mean if a person can stamp out just one fallacy in his lifetime, the living has

Associated Press Writer Successful portraiture demands perfect photographic technique, a very definite amount of artistic ability and a flair for handling human beings. That's why portraiture is probably the most difficult work in which a professional photographer can specialize.

With that definition from a photo encyclopedia, we view with increased respect an international star in the select field of successful portraiture. Our subject is Gaby, of Montreal, Canada, a photographer whose subjects have been kings and queens, presidents, premiers and prime ministers, stars in the world of entertainment, and leading executives in industry.

You may recall recently a "photograph by Gaby" made global headlines when King Hussein of Jordan married an American. Elizabeth Halaby. Gaby had been summoned to Amman to take their engagement picture previously.

Undoubtedly King Hussein had checked thrugh Gaby's portfolio of 'royalty' which included Shah Pahlavi of Iran. King Constantine and Queen Anna Maria of Greece, Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia. President De Gaulle of France. Queen Margrethe and Prince Frederik of Denmark. Prince and Princess Takamatsu of Japan, Prince Rainier and Princess Grace of Monaco, President Jean-Claude Duvalier of Haiti, Chancellor Willy Brandt of Germany and Alexei Kosygin of the U.S.S.R., among others.

On his way to the stratosphere of portraiture, he started at the very lowest rung in the ladder. At age 15 he acquired an old Voigtlander camera and took pictures of park strollers in his native Marieville. Quebec. He discovered that people wanted the pictures and he was delighted to give them away at first. His second discovery was he had to buy more film and paper to make more pictures. His business methods had to be changed. He found people were willing to pay for prints of themselves so he charged 25 cents a picture. His career as a commercial photographer had started.

Now 51. Gaby's Montreal studio is headquarters, but the cities of the world are his annexes determined by planned appointments, a sudden summons or an unexpected urge. Like the night in 1965 when he awoke his wife and mumbled that he had to go to Gabon, Africa, to photograph Dr. Albert Schweitzer, His wife dismissed it as a too-vivid dream but it didn't vanish in the morning. It became an urgent inner call.

I had read that he was 90 years of age." Gaby recalls, "and it registered in my subconscious. That night, in my sleep. I felt I had to photograph him before the world lost him. The idea seemed so important. I woke my wife to tell her about it right then

Next day he began the preparations to visit Lambarene. When he arrived and was registering his presence in the hospital compound. Dr. Schweitzer came by.

You mean you came all the way from Canada to photograph an old monkey like me?" the famous doctor asked. "What a waste of money

Being aware of the key things to look for on the grass seed label can mean the difference between putting in a fine, thick lawn that lasts year after year and a poor quality one that may also include some new problems that are hard to get rid of," says Dale Kern, president of Seed peelable return address labels are recom-Technology Inc.

'The label is a convenient guide to a quality good buy," says Kern, whose company is one of the country's major independent seed-testing organizations.

The quantities listed on the label are specified in terms of weight rather than volume. Some seeds are many times larger than others, so the size of the box itself does not indicate the quantity of seed in it. For instance, it takes at least five seeds of Kentucky blue grass to weigh as much as a single seed of ryegrass.

Every label must by law tell you the percentage of the pure seed - the type of

Columbia Pictures Says Profits Up

NEW YORK (AP) - Columbia Pictures Industries Inc., the film and record producer, Wednesday reported sharply higher profits for its latest fiscal year with revenues from the science-fiction movie "Close Encounters of the Third Kind" a key factor in the gains.

In the year ended July 1, Columbia said, net earnings totaled $68.8 million, or $7.40 a share, on revenues of $574.6 million. A year ago, earnings came to $34.6 million, or $4.04 a share, on revenues of $390.5 million.

In the quarter ended July 1, Columbia earned $16 million, or $1.69 a share, on revenues of $164.3 million. Fiscal fourthquarter earnings last year came to $6.7 million, or 75 cents a share, on revenues of $121.5 million.

Columbia said its fiscal 1978 profit tally reflected a credit of $7.3 million, or 79 cents a share, from its use of tax-loss carryforwards. In the previous year, Colmbia had a similar credit of $4.7 million, or 55 cents a share.

from my brother. A few years ago I made some patches in a gypsum board wall in another part of our house, so I have some idea of how to handle the tape and the tape cement for the joints. However, I am somewhat puzzled as to how to go about taping the inside corners. Is theresome special technique to this? Do I use two pieces of tape for each corner?

A. - Only a single tape is needed for each inside corner. First, fill the joint with cement in the same manner as you do for a regular seam. Then fold the tape in half and lay it in the corner so that half is on each side of the wall. Now cover the tape, again the same way as on a regular seam. Generally, three coats are needed, although you can sometimes get by with two. By the way, most dealers who sell the perforated tape also sell a tool made especially for smoothing out the cement on inside corners.

Q. - The way our house is situated, we can build a patio at the rear or on either of two sides. We haven't decided where it should be. Is there any special place it should be?

A. - The location should be determined by the needs of the family. If privacy is desired, the rear is usually best, but not always. Also, is it to be used for sunbathing? If so, a southern location is best. On the other hand, if the patio is to have a roof, determine where the sun is at certain hours of the day and when it will be low enough in the sky to shine in under the roof. All in all, to decide on the best location, take into consideration everything - privacy, the sun, accessibility nd whether any of the possible sites will make construction more difficult.

Q. - We have an asphalt shingled roof. During a recent severe windstorm, some of the shingles came loose and shifted position. I put them back in place, applying a little asphalt cement under each one. Do you think they will hold should there be another windstorm like the oth-

A. - No way to decide that. It depends on what kind of job you did. But you can be certain those particular shingles will stay in place during a high wind if you nail them at the corners. Use rustproof nails and cover the heads of the nails with cement. All this is based on the assumption that you are physically able to climb to the roof and know how to exercise the necessary precautions. Otherwise, hire a roofer. When the time comes to reroof, consider the use of shingles that are made especially to withstand

When to reroof and how to select new roofing are explained in Andy Lang's booklet, "Roofing Guide," with a color chart, available by sending 35 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column, but individual correspondence cannot be under-

Watch out for the words "crop seed." which can mean anything, including trouble because it could be timothy or brome, that require chemical-killing, or bentgrass which is fine by itself but will grow into distinctive patches if mixed with a bluegrass lawn. You want little or no

"crop seed" in your lawn. Then there is "inert matter," which generally means filler, such as chaff, ground corn cobs, leaves or sand. So if the label says 10 percent inert matter. that could be about 20 percent of your purchase volume because you are buying by weight. Stay away from any amount above a few percent. Another item is "weed seed." Don't accept more than a fraction of one percent. These weeds slip into some of the production fields where grass seed is grown. But they don't tolerate mowing. Reputable grass seed people make sure their product doesn't include any problem weed seeds.

Remember that a pound of ryegrass will have about 256,000 seeds; the same weight of bluegrass that will have 1.5 million seeds, or five times as many.

Planting Trees

Buy trees with strong roots, a big ball of earth around the roots. Don't buy them if the leaves are falling off or there are signs that they have been standing around for a long time and are weakened. Weakened trees are good targets for borers. Choose trees that are not so susceptible to borer attack, such as sweet gum, thornless honeylocust, linden, sugar maple and oak. Avoid trees borers like to inrade, including white birch, silver maple and the European mountain ash.

Wrap the trunk of young transplants with strips of borer paper or burlap to protect them. The covering will also prevent sunscald. Leave it on at least through the second summer following transplanting. Don't secure the wrapping too tightly with twine. The tree expands

Paternity Test Highly Accurate What's

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A test for paternity using white blood cells instead of red cells has identified two fathers for a set of twins, an occurance so rare it could happen about once in one million times under the right conditions.

Dr. Paul Terasaki of the University of California, who developed the so-called HLA test, said the identification of different fathers for each twin was "striking testimony of the power of HLA typing to determine paternity."

HLA, which stands for Human Leukocyte Antigen, matches tissue types inaccuracy is between 67 and 99 percent with HLA compared with a probability of only 10 percent in the standard A-B-O blood type tests.

Terasaki, a professor in surgery, developed the HLA test in 1964 as a means of establishing tissue compatability for kidit also would serve to establish paternity and the first tests for paternity were made in 1972.

Since then about 1,000 cases in Southern California have been determined and the test has been praised by the courts and prosecutors because it has eliminated the necessity for scores of trials.

"This is a white blood cell test," Terasaki said in an interview. "We isolate the white cells from the blood, more specifically the cell called leukocyte, and we test that cell against a wide range of re"That determines HLA types. Only about one in every 1,000 persons will have the same tissue types.'

The remarkable efficacy of HLA typing is attributed to the fact that the fac tested are rare in the population, Tera-

"Thus, if a putative (suspected) father shares a combination of HLA types with a child, it is highly probable that he is in fact the true father."

The older red blood cell test is inefficient by comparison, he said, because there are only four blood types - A, B, O, and AB. As a result many people have the same blood type and tests to determine differences can exclude less than 10 percent of the suspected fathers.

In the case of the twins, the mother and a putative father were initially tested for HLA. It was determined that both offspring inherited a determining factor from the mother. But it was further found that the suspected father could definitely be excluded as the father of one twin.

The probability of paternity for the other twin, however, was 96.8 percent.

"Because of these seemingly inexplicable findings," Terasaki said, "the mother was asked whether there was any possibility that another man might be in-

The mother named another possible father and he also was typed by the HLA test. That gave the testers two putative fathers, called father 1 and father 2. And father 2 was excluded as the father of twin 1 but could not be excluded as the father of twin 2.

Au a matter of fact, the probability of paternity for twin 2 was 99.9 percent.

Terasaki said he used a wide range of other genetic tests to confirm the findings. Red blood cell typing was not useful since all the persons concerned had the same type -A.

The possibility that a third man was the father of the twins was ruled out because the probability that a random man would have the necessary genetic makeup was about one in 140,000, and no other man was identified by the mother.

A colleague of Terasaki said there was only one chance in a million that two men would each father one twin.

DR. LAMB

Diarrhea Called Symptom

BY LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB - I don't know how to explain this face to face to my doctor so I'm writing to you in hopes you will help me. I feel tense most of the time but the problem is I seem to have loose bowel movements often.

It happens a lot when I go anywhere with my husband. I'm not sure if it's my nerves that make it happen or what is the problem. Anyway, I'm afraid to go anywhere with him for fear this will occur.

I don't eat much fruit because of this. And I love Pepsi, pizza and candy. About two years ago we were looking for cars and I had to stop at three gas stations in a row. About a week later we went to the mall and I had to go back again. That's what makes me leary going anyplace with

When I think he wants me to go anyplace with him I get nervous and I just don't know what to do. Please help me if you can.

DEAR READER - I wish there were a way I could help you just by answering your questions, but I'm afraid your problem is more complex

It's important to know why you have bouts of diarrhea. It's true that the colon is very sensitive to our emotions. In fact, the colon blushes as it becomes engorged with blood or turns pale during other emotional situations almost as a mirror of what our reactions are.

To help you have a better understanding of how your bowel functions and how to develop good bowel habits I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-1, Irritable or Spastic Colon and Constipation. Although it doesn't deal specifically with diarrhea, it will tell you how to develop good bowel habits that might help you control your problem.

A spastic colon can cause either constipation or diarreah and frequently intermittent bouts. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, selfaddressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New Yord, N.Y. 10019.

Obviously, for you to have bouts of diarrhea associated with emotional stress, you must have an overactive, hpyersensitive colon. You might be

A good source of the kind of bulk that helps is bran. Try to include in your diet each day one of the cereals that has whole wheat with an appreciable amount of bran in it. If you develop good bowel habits, the behavior of your colon may improve. You need an examination because there are a number of diseases that cause diarrhea. If it's strictly an emotional reaction, that needs to be resolved and could be with professional counseling. It's important to find out why it is that you get so tense every time your husband wants you to go someplace with him. Your letter doesn't make it clear if you get this way if you go someplace by yourself

I realize you feel embarrassed, but diarrhea is just a symptom. Your doctor is quite familiar with diarrhea. Keep in mind that if your problem is related to your oversensitivity, correction of such a reaction could improve your life markedly in many other areas, other than just controlling your diarrhea.

Test To Check Digitalis Use

BOSTON (AP) - Doctors say a new blood test may be able to show when patients are receiving too much digitalis, an important heart medicine that can also cause serious complications.

Digitalis is given to strengthen the heart when it fails to pump hard enough. However, it can be lethal at too great a dose, and even a little too much can cause irregular heart beats.

Researchers at the University of Minnesota found differences in the levels of sodium and potassium in the red blood cells of patients who had taken too much

A report on their research was published in today's New England Journal of Medicine

They wrote, "Red cell sodium concentrations in toxic patients were significantly higher than those of nontoxic patients, whereas potassium levels of toxic patients were below those of nontoxic pa-

Bartender Opposes

WASHINGTON (AP) - "Baseball Bill" Holdforth has never forgiven Bob Short for moving the Washington Senators to Texas. Now comes Holdforth's revenge: an attempt to derail Short's Minnesota race for the U.S. Senate.

After strategy sessions at which more than a few beers were consumed, the 27year-old bartender and four friends tormed "The Committee to Keep Bob Short Out of Washington.

The committee held its initial effort Wednesday night: a beer bust to pay for an ad in Sunday's Minneapolis Tribune, urging Minnesota voters not to support Short.

Holdforth said about 250 people paid $10 each to raise most of the the $2,700 cost of the half-page ad and others who couldn't show up to drink made contributions. The rest came from auctioning off the original copy of the ad, he said.

This is the same "Baseball Bill" - he ays exactly how and when he picked up the nickname is a long and murky story - who draped a stuffed dummy of Short over the railing at Robert F. Kennedy Stadium in 1971 during one of the Senators' last games in Washington. That cost him his job as a stadium usher. He later paraded the dummy through the stands to the cheers of downcast fans.

Washington newspaper stories say he doused Short with beer when the owner brought his Texas Ranger team to Baltimore in 1972. Holdforth claims he arrived at Short's box just after the incident, and contends he would not have wasted good beer on the man who ended 71 years of baseball tradition in Washington.

Short, the former Senators' owner, is battling Rep. Donald M. Fraser for the Democratic-Farmer-Labor Party nomination for the Senate in Tuesday's Minne-

Department Reports Oil Overcharges

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Energy Department says Standard Oil Co. of Indiana (Amoco) and Standard Oil Co. of California (Chevron) may have overcharged substantially on petroleum products under federal pricing regulations.

The department said Wednesday a "notice of probable violation" was issued to Amoco concerning sales of gasoline to military service stations. Chevron was notified of alleged miscalculations of costs affecting prices charged for natural gas liquids and products.

An Amoco spokesman denied the allegation. There was no immediate comment from Chevron

Machado Jury Gives Acquittal

Avalanche-Journal Staff

A jury Thursday found Alfredo Machado innocent of a murder charge in connection with a 1977 shooting at a local

Jurors in Judge Robert C. Wright's 137th District Court deliberated an hour and 45 minutes before announcing the acquittal

They did so after the white-haired Machado, 61, said he had acted in self-defense, fearing for his life, when he shot Domingo S. Juarez to death. Juarez, 38, of 3505 E. 19th St., was killed Oct. 23, 1977, at the cafe at 616 13th

During his stint on the witness stand. Machado - who answered questions through a Spanish-speaking interpreter had said Juarez had broken his foot approximately one year before the shooting. He also testified that he had been told Juarez intended to kill him.

"It is a case where a man has been hurt, terrorized and put in fear of his life for a matter of some months," defense attorney Frank King told jurors, while urging them to place themselves in Machado's position.

King also stressed testimony indicating Juarez was a convicted murderer in arguing that his client had reason to fear for

Records indicate Juarez was assessed a five-year prison term in 1973 after being found guilty of murder without malice.

There is evidence the deceased made a practice of picking on old men, old people, taking their money," King said. The only defense witness other than Machado was Pete Trevino, 34, of Carlisle, who indicated Juarez had a reputation for taking money from elderly persons. Trevino also testified Juarez had once cut him with a knife after unsuccessfully asking for $5. Prosecutor Jim Darnell characterized the defendant as a man bent upon vengeance. "He intended to go there and kill that man, and that's what he did," Darnell argued. Machado testified he had drunk a couple of beers at the cafe and was preparing to leave when Juarez suddenly yelled at him by name. "Did he threaten to kill you ...?" King asked. "Well, yes, he hollered at me and that's when I turned," Machado answered.

He stated he shot Juarez, but only to protect his own life. Fortier, the defendant had said Juarez had broken his foot in 1976. According to Machado, whose address was listed as Rt. 10, Box 165, at the time of the incident, Juarez had knocked him down and

ing him for a dollar. It was approximately two months after that. Machado testified, that he heard from other persons that Juarez intended

When Darnell asked if he remembered the date his foot was broken, Machado said it was on Oct. 9, 1976.

"And that was a year before you shot and killed him?" Darnell queried. One year and 14 days," the defendant

Juarez was inside the cafe until he got ready to leave and saw Juarez sitting in a booth near the front door.

The defendant said Juarez yelled. What happened, Machado?" in a loud

"I didn't argue, I just turned and shot," Machado said. Darnell asked if the defendant had interpreted the remark as a threat to his life. "Yes, because he spread his hands out like he was going to jump out," Machado explained.

"You simply reached in your pocket when he said, 'What's happening?" the prosecutor asked. "That's right," Machado said.

In earlier testimony, cafe owner Manuel Jalomo had indicated Machado had walked inside the cafe and then turned and shot Juarez without apparent provoc-

Inmate Seeks Changes In Texas Prison System

AUSTIN (AP) - David Ruiz, the inmate with the black attache case, has spent all but one of the past 18 years in Texas prisons. You might say he has a proprietary interest in them.

"I don't want to bring destruction to the Texas Department of Corrections. I just want to improve conditions," says Ruiz of his sweeping civil rights suit against the TDC.

Ruiz, 36, claims he has suffered beatings and the equivalent of almost two years in solitary confinement as retaliation for his "writ writing" - complaints to federal courts.

The big one, seeking numerous costly changes in the way prisoners are housed, fed, guarded and treated when ill, goes before U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice in Houston Oct. 2.

prefaces Justice's name with "The Honorable" when talking about him.

That's the same William Wayne Justice who ordered sweeping changes in Texas reform schools and hospitals for the criminally insane. Ruiz' case is roughly on a par with the Morales case that turned the reform school system upside

Ruiz was interviewed Thursday in the Travis County jail. He was in Austin to contest his ex-wife's suit to terminate his parental rights to the 10-year-old daughter he hasn't seen since she was a year

He wore a white suit, dark green shirt without a tie and dark glasses when he testified. He carried a black attache case. Not surprisingly, Ruiz still believes in rehabilitation at a time when many pensee prison's value as punishment and de-

And the Texas prison system is 50 years behind the times in what it takes to change criminals into useful and law-obeying citizens, he maintains.

"Rehabilitation is just a word, but by the same token, what it modifies all depends on the person. They could build you a golden house and feed you steaks every day and if you were just plain mean, nothing would change you. But my belief is everybody responds to kindness - everybody with common sense," he

He said TDC doles out its chief form of rehabilitation, vocational training, to "just a selected few. . . . But they are conformists. A man like me who stands up for his beliefs would be the last in line

"I know I am strongly disliked at TDC," said Ruiz.

He is a short, thin, clean-shaven man, with high cheekbones and tattoos on the backs of both hands.

He claims he has overcome the "hate and the disrespect for the authorities" that marked the days when he was committing armed robberies. Ruiz went to reform school four times, starting at age 12. His first prison sentence came in 1960. He was released seven years later but was back bwhind bars in less than nine months. He received his present 25-year sentence for armed robbery in 1968.

Ruiz claims his attitude was changed during his present term by Frances Cruz, who represented numerous inmates in suits against the prison system. "She motivated me not only to think of myself but to think of others. Everything that is accomplished through this suit, the credit will be hers," Ruiz said.

Ruiz wants Justice to force TDC to issue a comprehensive plan for operation of Texas prisons and see that it is carried out. The plan would have to end such alleged civil rights violations as: Inadequate medical treatment.

The use of inmate "building tenders" to guard other inmates and - Ruiz claims - brutalize them.

- Opening and reading letters to and from courts, lawyers and government agencies. - Not enough guards to protect inmates from other inmates and maintain order

 Overcrowding. - Unsafe working conditions.

Tax Credit Extension Sought

ties that endanger inmate health.

The prison system is asking the Legislature for $130 million to do something about overcrowding that is so bad that three men sleep in cells designed for two.

Ruiz said injuries have occurred because the third man in a cell must sleep on the floor.

'The one on the top bunk will wake up and have to use the restroom. He will not remember there are three in a cell and will jump down and land on the man on the floor," he said.

Ruiz says he has stuck with his civil rights suit despite five years of delays because, "I believe in humane treatment. A man, when you shut the door behind him in prison, don't lose all his constitutional rights."

He claims that humane treatment doesn't coddle criminals but in the long run protects society.

"If the inmate is not helped in some way, he will come out the way he went in, full of hate and bitterness and lose all respect for authority," Ruiz said.

CORSICANA (AP) - A former city official, fired after he was accused of forgery and theft, was found innocent of those charges Thursday by a state district court jury here.

Delma Ware, 46, director of municipal services for seven years, was arrested Feb. 19. He was charged with allegedly forging the names of two local contractors to checks and contracts for federallyfunded demolition work.

Ware's arrest came after a two-month city police investigation that began after rumors surfaced of kickbacks in city gov-

The 470 citizens of Farber, hoping to preserve the past, have completed about 20 percent of a massive recycling project. Mayor Don Crow says the goal of 1 million aluminum cans will bring in $7,000 to aid in the depot's restoration.

The campaign began nearly a year ago and the town has collected and crushed

"I'm very optimistic about the proect," Crow said. "I'm not a person that likes to wait. We'll reach our goal, I just can't say when.

In 1972, the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad sold the depot to Farber for $1, but the railroad refused to take the dollar. In return, the town moved the depot from the railroad's right-of-way to a city park 60 feet away.

For six years, city fathers tried to find ways to raise the money for the restoraconfident the can collection will do it. depot. Money from donations and a fed-

"The depot has an unusual style, more Restaurants, taverns, stores, service stations and truck stops in the area are storing their empty aluminum cans for recycling. A nearby drive-in theater became interested in the plan and provided an area where movie-goers could toss their cans.

'We're not picky about what form the aluminum comes in," Crow said. "The women have been saving pie pans and foil. Every little bit helps. We've had people from as far away as California send us donations.

Crushed cans are stuffed into trash bags and piled high in the garage of the city maintenance building. In June, Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Co. sent a truck to pick up some of the cans.

Charles. W. Rayfield, regional manager of Reynolds Aluminum Recycling, said of the collection project. "We thought it was a neat idea. The money Farber will get isn't a lot, but it's a start in the right direction.

The mayor is looking for railroad artifacts, pot-bellied stoves, telegraph equipment and products from Farber's firebrick industry, the town's leading busiwooden two-story structure, with an apartment upstairs. The railroad agent Gothic than anything else. It's an allused to live upstairs."

The forbidding desert is one of 43 sites where the 33-year-old Berkeley, Calif., photographer left her homemade artifacts - photographic images printed on thick slabs of sandstone.

A photograph of a corkscrew lies in a Napa Valley, Calif., vineyard, while a shot of a calculator was left in the parking lot of the regional IBM office in Oakland east of here. A rock with an image of a Bible was deposited in the heart of the Bible belt in North Carolina.

Despite her penchant for natural settings for her art, Miss Hammerbeck said was excited when she learned that San Francisco's Museum of Modern Art would exhibit several of her 'Depositions." The show runs through Septem-

The psychology major-turned-photographer said she also wanted to show how much the camera lies. In a book documenting her depositions, she keeps field notes about her photographs the way an archeologist notes his finds.

'The idea of winning really scares me," she said. "I don't know if I could change from being a simple girl to a girl on the go all the time."

So far, as Miss Vermont, she has been in four parades, been promised use of a car that she has not yet seen and has earned $50 announcing the winners in a golf tournament. "And I wasn't even paid for two of the parades," she said.

Miss Vermont also says things that most Miss America contestants don't. For example, she says that homosexuals "are people as well as we are" and those she knows are "wonderful people."

She doesn't object to people living together before marriage and she "perhaps" might find herself doing it someday.

Contestants who give all-American answers on social issues are "guarding their real opinions to win this pageant," she said. When it was suggested her candor might hurt her chances, Miss Volkert paused.

"Maybe I should've kept my mouth shut from the very beginning," she said, "but then I'd be just like them."

There's a lot riding on Sandi Miller to win the Miss America Pageant because, Like a Dallas Cowboy primed for the Super Bowl, the 5-foot-10, 130-pound Miss Miller has been molded into a contender by six weeks of rigorous physical

"It's a very professional program. It's a business," says Miss Miller, 20, from Mesquite. "If you're going to be Miss Texas, you've got to do it."

Miss Miller has a $13,000 wardrobe, funded by a high-powered state pageant organization which told her not to worry about price tags. She has different advisers for her clothes, hair, makeup, interviews with judges and piano playing. Since she was crowned Miss Texas, a state pageant official has been at her every public appearance to critique her performance. She even listens to motivational tapes while she sleeps.

"You can't afford to think negative when you're up here," she said. "You

The brown-haired, brown-eyed Miss Miller is in prime condition after a high-protein, low-carbohydrate diet built around steak and tuna fish and designed to perfect her 36-25-36 figure. She also lifted weights and did exercises for two hours a day, six days a week.

"It was six weeks of pain and torture," she said. "They wanted to build up the muscle and take off the fat."

They did, and she is happy that she had added two inches to the circumference of her long legs, which now "touch where a woman's legs are supposed to"—at the thighs, knees, calves and ankles.

Texas' method apparently pays off. The state has had three Miss Americas, two in the past eight years — Phyllis George in 1971 and Shirley Cothran in 1975. The state is fifth in all-time finishers.

Miss Miller is easy-going and friendly. She is confident she can take home the prize — the $20,000 scholarship and more than $50,000 in personal appearances that go with the Miss America crown.

Because of Texas' program, she says, "I'm a better product ... Why should they send someone who isn't trained? It's a job like everything else."

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) - his autopsy indicated suicide. County Judge Edward Fine, presiding at an inquest, has ruled that the husband of socialite Gregg Dodge Moran was responsible for his own death and that there was no foul play.

Fine, the Palm Beach County judge, said it was not his duty to say whether the shooting death of Daniel Moran was intential or accidental.

Mrs. Moran, 54, testified Thursday that her husband had been drunk, with his eyes bulging, when she tried to talk to him the morning of the Aug. 13 shooting. "There was just no getting through to

Ban Action WASHINGTON (AP) - Despite the views of "a small group of vocal nonsmokers," there is no proof cigarette smoke in the air harms people exposed to it, medical witnesses have told a subcommittee headed by a congressman from a tobacco-producing state. Thursday's testimony came during a one-day hearing before Rep. Walter B. House tobacco subcommittee. Jones, D-N.C., said he is concerned over growing efforts to ban smoking in public

The Civil Aeronautics Board, wrestling with similar issues, decided Thursday to postpone action on a proposed rule to ban cigar and pipe smoking on commer-

"There is a small group of vocal nonsmokers who have a special interest in trying to convince people that environmental tobacco smoke is harmful to their health." Dr. Edwin R. Fisher, a pathology professor at the University of Pittsburgh, told Jones' subcommittee.

There is a lack of scientific information incriminating atmospheric tobacco smoke as a health hazard," he said.

A study published in the July issue of the New England Journal of Medicine concluded that breathing air in a roomful of cigarette smokers can be dangerous for people with angina pectoris, a chest pain associated with heart disease.

But Fisher said people increasingly are suffering from "smoke-aphobia and cancer-aphobia" - an intense fear of cigarettes and cancer. He said their apprehension is being fed by some scare books and newspaper headlines

Dr. Suzanne B. Knoebel, a research professor at the Indiana University School of Medicine in Indianapolis, and Dr. Kenneth M. Moser, director of the Pulmonary Division of the University of California at the San Diego School of Medicine, also discounted any link be-tween cigarette smoke in the air and disease in non-smokers.

FIRE KILLS SISTERS

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two young sisters were killed in a one-alarm fire that swept through their West Baltimore rowhouse while their mother was taking three other children to school, authorities said. The victims were identified as Rochelle Diggs, 3, and Veronica Diggs, 4. The state medical examiner's office said in a preliminary report that death was probably due to smoke inhalation.

Agency Orders Recall Of Firestone Tires

DETROIT (AP) - The federal auto safety agency has decided to order the recall of up to 13 million controversial Firestone steel-belted radial tires, the Detroit News reported today.

The News reported in a copyrighted ar-ticle that a spokesman for the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration in Washington, who was not named, confirmed Thursday that NHTSA will order the recall of the Firestone 500 line if the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. does not do so within three weeks.

The News said figures from "a variety of sources" indicated the tires had been responsible for hundreds of accidents and 34 deaths.

Some 23 million tires were manufactured under the Firestone 500 and private labels before production was stopped last March. An estimated 10 million are believed out of service.

A recall of 13 million tires would cost Firestone $650 million if reimbursement were made at an average sales price of

A House subcommittee last week recommended that the tires be recalled 'We've got all the evidence," said the

NHTSA spokesman. "The idea of our initial determination of a defect in July was to give the company a last oportunity to issue a voluntary recall."

He said all companies had had prob-lems with steel-belted radials: "Most have cooperated and pulled them off the road without headlines. But this company has fought us tooth and nail."

Firestone spokesman Robert Troyer said the company still was working with NHTSA to resolve the dispute. "The reason we have not voluntarily re-

In July, Firestone began a program of safety inspections of the 500 series, with compensation for owners of defective tires based on how much wear the tire had undergone. Troyer said.

GSA Administrator Jay Solomon said last week he expects 50 indictments in

Some sources, who asked not to be identified, have said indictments originally were expected last month, but now are not expected before October. They cited friction among the agencies as one reason for the slowed pace.

Chiles refused to identify which agency he thought was most responsible for the problems. But he promised to cite specific instances of "squabbling and time wasting" if the interagency conflicts are not resolved.

LAKE CHARLES, La. (UPI) - A U.S. district judge has denied most of the 91 motions filed at a pretrial hearing for former Louisiana congressman Otto Passman, including a request to examine the results of a polygraph adminstered to South Korean businessman Tongsun

Park. In a day-long hearing on pretrial mot-ions Thursday, Judge Earl Veron dismissed most of attorney Camille Gravel's 91 requests for information from government prosecutors. Passman did not attend the hearing. Included in the denials were Gravel's request for the results of a polygraph test given South Korean businessman Tong-

"If the government has any questions as to the truthfulness of Mr. Park, it raises serious questions as to whether the government should procede." Veron said in denying the motion.

Passman, 78, who served in the House from 1946-76, was indicted in March of accepting $213,000 in bribes from Park. A second indictment was returned in April on the tax evasion charge. The motions denied by Veron also included one seeking information on Park's connection with the Korean governmen and others seeking the names and ad-dresses of potential prosecution witness-

Veron said Park's standing with the Korean government was not pertinent to the case. He said the witness list would be available to defense attorneys within the required 10 days. Gravel, who is Gov. Edwin Edwards' executive counsel, said he wanted the list in advance to prepare an adequate de-

The charges stemmed from a federal grand jury in Washington and the trial originally was scheduled there. But U.S. District Judge Barrington Parker granted

Passman's request to move the trial to Louisiana to reduce the hardship on him. Gravel blamed a post-Watergate, Puri-tan attitude in Washington for the bribery and income tax evasion charges plagueing the former Louisiana congress-

The report was requested by the House Ways and Means subcommittee on Social Security, which has held hearings dealing with allegations that the disabled rolls included many ineligible persons. The subcommittee is working on legislation to improve administration of the program.

A committee source, who are the program.

A committee source, who asked not to be quoted, said there is no chance the legislation will be acted on during the final weeks of Congress. But he said the disability program will be a major topic next year when Congress is expected begin a major examination of the future of Social Security, especially its financing. Stiff increases in payroll taxes to save the system from bankruptcy were enacted last year to begin in 1979, but met strong objections, especially among higher income persons who would be hardest hit.

Congressional leaders have promised to reopen the financing question.

Disability retirement was added to the basic old age pension system in 1957. Its cost promptly began outrunning estimates. Before the 1977 refinancing legislation was enacted, it was estimated that the disability portion of Social Security will exhaust its reserves by late 1978 or early 1979.

Disabled persons not under Social Security can receive help under the federal Supplemental Security Income program, which replaced federal-state pr for disadvantaged adults in 1974. In its report, the agency said the issue of eligibility originally was left to the states so the program could be linked to state projects for rehabilitating the disabled. But from 1967 to 1976, only 20,000 workers were reported rehabilitated while the disabled rolls increased by 1 million persons. In a separate letter to the health, education and welfare secretary, the GAO said a sample check of SSI recipients had found that only 38 percent had sufficient medical evidence to support a disability

But Dockery, serving as offensive coordinator then, will be making his head-coaching debut on the floor of the historic Coliseum against the Trojans, ranked ninth in the Associated Press preseason poll.

That size that Walstad mentioned and Dockery respects will be in evidence. Actually, the Trojans carry a heftier offensive line than the professional LA Rams.

'Anthony Munoz is 6-7, 290," said Dockery, "and he's an all-America candidate. Brad Budde (6-5, 253 at strong guard) is considered for national honors. Their strong tackle (Keith Van Horne) is 6-7, 250

1.UBBOCK HIGH-BORGER

Chances are Rusty Talbot still wakes up in the middle of the night, wondering about last year's stunning 42-14 openingnight loss to Borger.

Lubbock High, however, will attempt to avenge that thrashing when it meets the Bulldogs, a team always known for-

They were ready for us last year, said Talbot. "I've never seen a team so ready, so early. We didn't even show up until the half, it seemed.

This time, though, Talbot said the Westerners are prepared-mentally and physically.

They appear stronger than last year, he explained. "But I think we are too. I know we'll be ready to hit them. According to Talbot, the Bulldogs do not have a great deal of speed, but that "They just don't have any little folks. And that goes for their defense, too."

But, even though the Trojans possess mammoth size, and their tailback, Charles White, is considered a serious Heisman Trophy candidate although he's only a junior. Dockery's main concern is his own team.

As he prepared to launch his head-coaching career, Dockery commented, "We've played some good teams, some big teams, like A&M and Texas last year. And Colorado two years ago. But, nobody has a team that big and with as much speed.

"They get as good athletes as anybody in the country, and they're always up there in the top four or five in total offense.

None is starting on the offensive or defensive units, but Ron Reeves of Monterey will kick off, Maury Buford (Mount Pleasant) will be the punter, and juco Ted Watts will handle punt and kickoff returns.

"We have a lot of freshmen as backups, and they'll probably play."

Dockery will attack the massive Trojan defense with an offense engineered by senior quarterback Tres Adami.

The senior from Free won out in the duel with junior Mark Johnson for the starting spot. The two had been waging a battle since the spring.

season, until Allison returned.

Behind Adami will be a Mutt-and-Jeff runningback tandem of Don Earl (5-7, 175) and James Hadnot (6-3, 240). It is inexperience, too, Earl being a sophomore with no ball-carrying experience, and Hadnot being shifted over two weeks ago from tight end. "James is going to be a fine fullback. We have no plans to move him back to tight end." Dockery told the Red Raider Club at its luncheon meeting Thursday.

To counter this, the Trojans will have White, a 205-pounder who has rambled for 2336 yards in his freshman and sophomore years. Already, he's No. 5 on the all-time USC rushing list, behind all-Americans O.J. Simpson, Mike Garrett, Ricky Bell and Anthony Davis.

"They use the sweep so much," said Raider defensive coordinator Sam Robertson. "but White has the speed to cut back and he only needs a crack—not a home—and he's gone. He puts so much pressure on our defense."

Dockery indicated that, with more experience available, the defensive unit could see more players in the game. Development this spring in the line and also in the secondary will free him to spot in more players.

After this week, the Raiders will have an open date, and will not take the field again until they host Arizona on Sept. 23.

Standing before the medium during the weekly press conference at the Coppercreek Mine Restaurant, Coronado coach Jack Quarles said he feels like a someone who has been fattened up and then about to be thrown to the lions.

"I hope it doesn't turn out that way, though," he concluded.

Quarles, who enters his first year at the helm of the Mustangs after 11 successful years at El Paso Coronado and Fabens, leads his troops into action against Wichita Falls High.

Although the Coyotes have been down for the past few seasons, Quarles expects a tough opening-night contest for the Mustangs.

"They remind me of Monterey with all their big people." the coach said. "Their defense is strong, their line is big and they are exceptionally fast.

Quarles said he is currently facing one of the toughest problems of his life -choosing between four candiates for the starting quarterback slot.

Vying for the position are Donnie Arterburn. Richard Davis, John McCormick and Russell Murrell.

Estacado coach Louis Kelley won't hesitate to say that he is more worried about playing Plainview this season than in any of his previous three years as the Mata-

'They (Plainview) have been awesome in their scrimmages," said Kelley. Plainview is stronger this season, but I think the biggest change is that they are a closer knit unit

Add this to the fact that Estacado will enter the contest with three injuries gives Kelley reason to express concern.

Matador quarterback Mike Chatham (210) is suffering from a pulled hamstring muscle. Chatham will not take a snap from center but will play some at middle linebacker on defense. Wingback James Rose (172) will skip the contest with a separated shoulder, and Lupe Martinez (224) ailing with a muscle bruise will see some action.

New Bulldog coach Greg Sherwood has changed Plainview's offensive formation from the wishbone to the wing-t and power formations.

Kelley believes stopping backs Royce Coleman (196, Sr) and Ervin Davis (210, Jr) will be the key to the game.

"Coleman has quickness off the line and his low center of gravity makes it hard to bring him down," said Kelley. "Davis on the other hand, is not only quick but he has that breakaway speed which gives the Bulldogs a balanced running attack

Both the coach and the team he leads into South Bend to take on the Irish. ranked fifth in The Associated Press preseason football poll, have a history of pulling big upsets. And beating the defending national champions in their backyard would be a very big upset indeed.

'I'm not afraid to take this team to Notre Dame or any other place in the country." said Powers, who guided Washington State to a stunning 19-10 victory over Nebraska to open last season. Powers moved to Missouri following the 1977 campaign.

Football Wait Finally Ends

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Well fans, it's finally here. After a month of sitting on the grass ringing the practice field, now's the time you can move back into the bleachers. After sitting through ages of basketball and baseball games on the tube, talking about how next year's team is going to be, now you can see.

After 10 months of having to go to dances and to the movies on the weekend, now Texas' version of Friday Night Fever is here.

And nobody is looking forward to it more than the coaches. It's finally time to quit jawing and put your chips on the table. Cards down gentlemen, your bets have all been called

Finally, finally, finally,

Probably no one has had a longer wait for this magic day than A.D. Shaver. coach of the Tahoka Bulldogs.

Tahoka, if you've been in a cave and ha ven't been getting your sports page for the last year, advanced to the state quarter-finals last season and is returning 15 starters off that squad.

Foremost among those numbers is 30. Clifford Bailey. He rushed for 2,424 yards last year and was the most honored thing since Star Wars.

This year the 6-3, 200-pounder has moved from fullback to halfback, but not much is expected to change as far as results go. Not many hours from now, expectations will either be proved or disproved and the hard, statistical light of reality will set in.

But Bailey's coach is ready. In fact, more than ready

'We're ready," he affirmed. "We want to get it over with. It's just time to play some football.

Shaver's club will take on Stanton in the opener tonight. "They're rated 10th in the state in Class A.

They have a real good left-handed quarterback and a real good running tail-back." Shaver said. "They're good allaround. They can run and pass.

The quarterback is returning all-district pick Tommy Morrow. He threw for 900 yards last season. He will be joined by all-district tailback Todd Smith, who gained 550 yards in four district games last sea-

But Shaver has confidence in his defense. "The defense looks solid," he said. The offense is just fair. We're having trouble on offense moving the ball we've had a little bit of fumbling."

The offensive picture isn't really all that bleak. "Jerry Hatchett is returning. Shaver said. "He was our starting halfback last year. He's just a real good ballplayer. He'll really be a good one before he end of the year.'

So with a couple of good backs, some hefty linemen and a solid defense, it's time to tee it up and get the show on the

"All you can do is tell them (the kids) to get after it," Shaver said. "That's all.

We worked out so long we're just ready to play. I'm sure Stanton's the same way. We know we have to earn everything we get and a little more. The kids've got a real good attitude and they're working real hard, so I'm confi-

Whatever happens, the teams will meet tonight in Stanton at eight.

Of course, Tahoka won't be the only team kicking off the 1978 season tonight. Around the South Plains, there are several key matchups.

In Class AAAA, Amarillo Palo Duro, picked by some to be the best team in the area, travels to Dumas, picked as fifth, in what should be a barnburner. Plainview, picked third in the class, hosts Lubbock's Estacado High, picked third in Class AAA. Odessa Permian, which advanced to the state semifinals last season hosts El Paso Coronado.

In Class AAA, top-ranked Fort Stockton hosts Canutillo and second-ranked San Angelo Lake View, a loser in the first round of the state playoffs last year, hosts

Idalou, the fourth-ranked team in Class AA and a state football tourney participant last year, hosts New Deal, tabbed as the No. 1 team in the Class A. Ropes, the third-picked team in Class A, hosts the

Angels Explode Past Rangers

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) - It took one of the most remarkable comeback victories the California Angels have ever recorded to give them momentum as they head into the most important series in the 18-year history of their franchise.

The Angels looked like anything but pennant contenders in dropping a doubleheader to Texas Wednesday night, and it was more of the same Thursday evening for 512 innings. At that point, the Rangers held a 6-0 advantage.

But the Angels exploded for seven runs in the bottom of the sixth inning and held on for a 7-6 victory over the Rangers, giving them a split of their four-game series with Texas.

A much bigger four-game series starts tonight at Anaheim Stadium, as the Angels entertain Kansas City. The firstplace Royals lead California by 21/2 games in the American League West.

Two-run homers by Don Baylor and Ron Fairly highlighted the Angels' big sixth inning. Baylor's shot made it 6-5 and Fairly's blast capped the big rally.

I think that shows some of the character we have on this ballclub," said the 40year-old Fairly of the Angels' come-frombehind victory. "I think this was a very pivotal game for us. There's a big difference between being 212 and 312 out entering a big series.

"We're going into the Kansas City series on a winning note. I think everyone in our clubhouse knows what we have to Fairly said he's glad the Angels and Royals are meeting at this stage of the

"If we play well we're right there with them with things winding down," he said. "If we play lousy then we really don't belong in a pennant race anyway.

Dyar Miller, who relieved an ineffective Frank Tanana in the fourth inning. picked up his fifth victory of the season against one loss with the help of Dave LaRoche's 21st save.

'We went from death to a new life,"

"They blooped my starter to death and then they long-balled my reliever," said Texas Manager Bill Hunter, referring to Doc Medich and Reggie Cleveland.

Bobby Grich. Jim Anderson and Rick Miller opened the sixth with singles to fill the bases. An infield out by Carney Lansford scored Miller, making it 6-1.

Lyman Bostock then hit a two-run single and Hunter called upon Cleveland to replace Medich. Baylor promptly blasted his 30th homer of the season, making it 6-

Joe Rudi followed with a single and Fairly cracked his ninth homer to make a loser of Cleveland, who suffered his eighth loss in 11 decisions. "It took some of the pressure off the weekend," said Baylor of the Angels' victory. "If we had lost we would have had to sweep the Royals to stay close.

The Rangers took their 6-0 lead with the help of a homer by Mike Hargrove leading off the game and a three-run shot by Juan Beniquez.

The setback dropped the Rangers eight games behind the Royals

ANGELS IN A NOOSE?-Texas Rangers' pitcher Dock Ellis show his famous noose to the California Angels' fans when the Rangers were leading 6-0 Thursday night in the late innings of the game at Anaheim. The Angels were on their way to losing their third straight game to the Rangers when the Angels rallied and scored seven runs in the sixth inning to win the game 7-6 and keep their hopes alive for the pennant. # Dodgers Unite, Stop Astros 3-2

The Los Angeles Dodgers have stopped fighting among themselves. Now they're beating everyone else's brains out.

The notorious clubhouse battle between Steve Garvey and Don Sutton long behind them, the defending National League champions appear to be pulling together now in the September stretch

And after Thursday night's 3-2 triumph over the Houston Astros, the Dodgers moved into a four-game advantage in the NL West race - their biggest lead since they took over first place for good on

For this victory, the Dodgers' eighth in 10 games, the heroes were Burn houton and Dusty Baker. Hooton won his 17th game despite lacking his best stuff and Baker hit his 11th home run and later

I had to. That's the key to success. In the Houston Astrodome, you can get away with a few more things because it's so Hooton, who has won six in a row and last lost on Aug. 1, became the third pitcher in the National League to reach 17 victories this season. Atlanta's Phil Niekro and Ross Grimsley of Montreal are the others.

Baker, meanwhile, clubbed his 11th homer in the fifth inning and scored the winning run in the eighth on a sacrifice fly by Vic Davalillo. I had some things on my mind that didn't help my concentration this year. but I can t tell you what they were. said Baker, who is suffering through a subpar season after hitting 30 homers last year. But I got my thinking straight right now nd that's been the biggest thing.

I remember talking to Doug Rau after e had a death in the family and I

Yanks Advance On East Leaders

By The Associated Press

A 15-3 shellacking of the Boston Red Sox caused different reactions from New York Yankee players Thursday. Whatever their opinions, however, one thing is crystal clear - New York is just three games back of first-place Boston in the American League East and coming fast.

We wanted to get at them right away," såid Willie Randolph, who helped by knocking in five runs, three on a bases-loaded double in a five-run fourth. The Yankees scored twice in the first, three times in the second, two more runs in the third and made it 12-0 in the fourth.

We wanted to be aggressive, put the pressure on them and keep it on. Obviously, they did just that.

Spinks Now Misses Three Front Teeth

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Heavyweight champion Leon Spinks, already missing two front teeth, has had a third one pulled just eight days before his fight

"I didn't want nobody to see it fall out of my mouth," Spinks explained Thursday after a dentist pulled his right eye tooth, leaving a three-tooth gap in Spinks'

Spinks said the tooth had been bothering him for eight weeks and that the solid punch on the champ's chin.

Spinks was spitting blood during his workout Wednesday. The decision to pull the tooth was made Thursday after the champ finished his daily road work. He cancelled his Thursday afternoon workout.

"The doctor pulled it," he said. "My wife pulled the last one. She sat on my chest and my son pulled the string."

Butch Lewis, a vice president with Top Rank Inc., attributed Spinks' dental problems to poor care during the champ's boyhood in the St. Louis slums.

Ali, who has referred to Spinks as "the Vampire," because of the champ's missing teeth, sparred five rounds Thursday. The former champion, who first said this bout would be his last and then said he may fight Larry Holmes, said now he isn't sure what he will do.

"What do I want to fight him for?" Ali said when Holmes' name was raised in an interview. "That's up to the people of the world to decide." Ali said he set up a return bout with Spinks by losing his title to the challenger

"I've got the whole world suckered," Ali said. "I set the whole thing up. I am the producer and the actor.'

Motorcyle Racing Takes Over Track

Motorcycles will take over Lubbock Speedway tonight as auto racing personnel make final preparations for the first stage of season windup championship racing Saturday night.

Tonight's 8:30 p.m. program will have mini-bikes, 125cc and 250cc bikes engaged in short track racing plus a motocross series involving the same three displacement classes plus heavyweights.

About 70 riders have been regular competitors at the cycle events since the track switched to a dirt surface more than a month ago.

Borg, Connors Move Into Semis

NEW YORK (AP) - Playing tennis against Bjorn Borg or Jimmy Connors can be a very frustrating experience.

'I hit short, long, everywhere ... and I can't beat him," Raul Ramirez said Thursday after bowing to the top-seeded Borg 6-7, 6-4, 6-4, 6-0 in the quarter-finals of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

'Is there anything tougher than playing Jimmy Connors? Maybe fighting Muhammad Ali," said Brian Gottfried, the No.6 seed who was eliminated by Connors 6-2, 7-6, 6-1 Thursday night.

The victories moved Borg and Connors into Saturday's semifinals, where Borg will face his friend and practice partner Vitas Gerulaitis, the No.4 seed, and Connors will meet 15th-seeded John McEnroe, the brash 19-year-old.

In women's action, 16-year-old Pam Shriver, the No.16 seed, became the youngest semifinalist in U.S. Open history with a 6-2, 6-0 victory over Australian Lesley Hunt and fourth-seeded Wendy Turnbull of Australia struggled past 15th-seeded Kathy May

The women's semifinals were scheduled today, with Miss Shriver facing top-seeded Martina Navratilova and Miss Turnbull opposing second-seeded Chris Evert in a rematch of last year's final. In that one, Evert won 7-6, 6-2. A crowd of 19,433, including 17,862 paid, attended Thursday night's session, a U.S.

Open record and the first sellout for the new National Tennis Center. According to a U.S. Tennis Association spokesman, it was the largest crowd ever to watch a tournament tennis match, surpassed only by two crowds in Australia for Davis Cup matches and the crowd of 30,472 that watched Billie Jean King beat Bobby Riggs in the Houston Astrodome Sept. 20, 1973. Ramirez, the No.8 seed, said that playing Borg creates special problems.

I have to do a lot of thinking out there because I know I can't overpower him," said the mustachioed Mexican. "He's volleying better, his serve is stronger and it's still not easy to pass him because he's so quick. There really isn't much you can do. Borg, who has complained about the fast artificial playing surface being used in the tourney, said he was gradually getting accustomed it. 'Still I think it might be too fast," he maintained. "I'm getting more used to it, but m still not comfortable.

It was Ramirez who looked uncomfortable Thursday, especially following the opening set, which he took by winning the tie-breaker 8-6. It was downhill from there. Borg began to dominate play at the net in the second set and that turned around the match. It quickly developed into a rout, with Ramirez winning just seven games in the

"I'm a little more aggressive than I used to be," said Borg, when asked to evaluate his game. "I'm feeling more confidence in my volley. I know that I can come in and win points."

The second-seeded Connors used those same serve and volley tactics to rout Gottfried. Only the second set was a contest, Connors taking it with a 7-0 score in the tie-

Connors declined to be interviewed after his match. Gottfried, meanwhile, said he was impressed by his opponent.

"He plays with emotion," said Gottfried. "I've never seen him play a dead match. I was always under a lot of pressure. He never got mentally down, not even after I broke his serve

"If he's on, you look like a fool running from corner to corner - and he was on to-

Miss Shriver, whose poise and six-foot stature belie her years, is seven months younger than Miss Evert was when she reached the Open semifinals in 1971. Thursday was the first day of classes at McDonough High School in Lutherville, Md., but Miss Shriver had permission to cut her classes.

"I don't think about my age all that much, certainly not as much as others," the new teen-age sensation said. "I just think of myself as somebody who is going for No.1,

Her match against the 28-year-old Miss Hunt wasn't much of a test. Hunt was virtually immobilized by a bad back and couldn't begin to cope with the sharp angle volleys Miss Shriver used so effectively.

Miss Turnbull, meanwhile, was in trouble against the 22-year-old Miss May, a tall, willowy Californian who found the fast surface to her liking. So she changed tactics

'Kathy has such good ground strokes, I knew if I stayed back she'd beat me," said Miss Turnbull. "I knew I had to change my game a bit and begin to serve and volley

The move helped just enough. Miss Turnbull took the second-set tiebreaker 7-5 and Miss May's spirits seemed to sag. Her net play also faltered, and the combination was the edge Miss Turnbull needed

"I had a lot of chances," said Miss May, near tears after the defeat. "I just didn't make the right shots at the right time. I felt I should put the pressure on her to make the good shots. At the end, she was making them.

round of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships in New York. Miss Shriver, a cheery 6-footer, defeated Miss

Chiefs Try Tactics On Oilers

By The Associated Press

Not long ago, the Kansas City Chiefs won a Super Bowl with what they called the offense of the '70s. Now they're trying to rebuild their club with an offense that's right out of the '30s.

Coach Mary Levy reached into pro foot-Another upset. The Bengals simply ran ball's mothballs for the Wing-T, three out of time against Kansas City last week. running back attack, and it paid off with scoring two TDs in the last five minutes 267 yards along the ground and a stunin falling one point short. They won't ning 24-23 upset victory over Cincinnati

Now the Chiefs will try the tactic on the Houston Oilers as the National Football League moves into the second weekend of the regular season. The action begins Saturday night with Detroit at Tampa Bay. In addition to Houston at Kansas City. Sunday's schedule includes Cincinnati at Cleveland, Miami at Baltimore, the New York Jets at Buffalo, Oakland at San Diego and Seattle at Pittsburgh in the American Conference. In the National Conference. Atlanta plays at Los Angeles. Chicago visits San Francisco, the New York Giants entertain Dallas, New Orleans plays Green Bay at Milwaukee, and Philadelphia is at Washington.

There are two interconference games scheduled, with New England at St. Louis Sunday and Denver at Minnesota Monday night.

Levy, lured from the Canadian Football League to rebuild the Chiefs, who were 2-12 last season, explained his offensive theories this way. "I believe that the team that runs the ball and maintains ball control not only moves the ball but establishes a mentality for dominating the game," he said. How you move the ball is every bit as important as moving the ball itself. That type of team has always prevailed."

Washington and Philadelphia, two teams which saw their openers turn in the final minutes, collide in one of the top NFC matchups. The Eagles seemed on their way to an upset over Los Angeles before Rams rookie Frank Corral kicked a 46-yard field goal with 12 seconds left for a 16-14 victory. It was Corral's third field goal of the game - the others were from 29 and 47 yards - and it beat Philadelphia Coach Dick Vermeil, who had recruited Corral for UCLA.

Washington was trailing New England 14-9 with 2:40 to play and the Patriots were running down the clock when Dave Butz stripped the ball from Horace Ivory. Linebacker Brad Dusek scooped up the fumble and took it 31 yards for the Redskins' winning touchdown.

Of the 10 teams with new coaches, six won their openers. The winners were Washington (Jack Pardee), Cleveland (Sam Rutigliano), Chicago (Neill Armstrong). Los Angeles (Ray Malavasi), New Orleans (Dick Nolan) and Kansas City (Levy). The losers were St. Louis (Bud Wilkinson), Buffalo (Chuck Knox), Detroit (Monte Clark) and San Francisco (Pete McCulley)

Firm Sees Renewal Of Trade

CHICAGO (AP) — Despite bitter antagonisms, trade with the Soviet Union has again become possible because of resolution of the Jay Crawford case, the International Harvester Co. says.

Harvester at one point asked 23 other firms with Moscow offices to protest Soviet treatment of Crawford, the No. 2 man in the company's sales office there.

But now, Vice President Art McQuiddy said Thursday. International Harvester will honor its parts and service agreements and will entertain any new Soviet sales proposals.

ments and will entertain any new Soviet sales proposals.

"We expect to maintain our offices in Moscow and to service our existing contracts." said McQuiddy, the firm's communications vice president.

"We've been a company that's been a strong advocate of free trade for a long, long time. We have never changed in that one iota. What we were objecting to was the manner in which the Soviets had treated an American businessman.

"We still believe in free trade. We be-We still believe in free trade. We believe if you trade enough, you don't shoot quite so much at each other." Crawford. 37. was convicted in a Moscow court Thursday of violating currency laws by dealing in the black market. He had declared his innocence ever since June 12. when police dragged him from a car and placed him under arrest. Crawford and Harvester insisted the case was politically motivated, amounting to retaliation for the filing of spying charges in New Jersey against two Soviet employees of the United Nations. The five-year suspended sentence and three years' probation given him allow him to leave the country. Crawford has a reservation on a Friday night flight to

West Germany, and he said he intends to return to Chicago as soon as he can. Harvester's chairman. Brooks McCormick. wrote to firms with Moscow offices in July. The letter said the Soviets' handling of Crawford jeopardized U.S.-USSR business relations and appealed to the companies to present a common front against the Soviet actions. About a half-dozen firms responded to the appeal and wrote to Soviet officials Harvester suspended all business dealings with the Soviets, and has refused to honor parts agreements or to service broken machinery. "Right from the start, we have made an effort to differentiate between politics and trade," said McQuiddy, "We will continue to study our position with the Soviets. My assumption would be that if we could sell them ... I presume we would say yes. Whether we negotiate any new contracts is a question which perhaps only the Soviets can answer."

He said that even as the Kremlin pushed charges against Crawford, trade ministries insisted trade and politics were to be kept separate.

Since 1972. International Harvester has sold about $300 million worth of heavy equipment to the Soviets, most of it for use in oil fields and in railroads.

U.S. To Build Pentagon For Saudi Arabia

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States plans to build Saudi Arabia its own Pentagon, complete with mosque and shopping mall, the Defense Department

The department has told Congress the Saudis would pay the United States $460 million to construct "a modern, functional and attractive office facility ... (which) will be the Saudi equivalent of the Penta-

The structure would house the Saudi ministry of defense and aviation, the department said in a "policy justification" paper sent to congressional committees.

The policy paper said the new ministry headquarters would include office space. cafeteria, mosque, auditorium, atrium, underground command center, 1,600-car parking garage, market facilities, gatehouses, mechanical and electrical equipment buildings. Under the plan, all required roads, paving, utilities, landscaping and sitework also would be provided. Since 1975. the United States has been helping the Saudi army, navy and air ing camps, mechanical shops and various headquarters as part of a long-term effort to modernize the country's armed forces. The total so far of such construction work, supervised by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, totals nearly $6 billion.

In addition to the new Pentagon-type headquarters, the Defense Department has notified Congress that Saudi Arabia wants to spend $272.1 million for additional naval support structures, including housing, roads and channels, and $35 million for a power plant.

Under the Carter administration's arms sales policy, such construction is not considered "weapons-related" and does not rount against dollar ceilings imposed on arms deals with non-allied countries.

Indian Reservation Bans Alcohol Sales

MONTEZUMA CREEK, Utah (AP) An informal agreement has been reached between beer vendors and a group of Navajos to ban the sale of alcohol on the Navajo Indian Reservation, San Juan Coun-vajo Indian Reservation, San Juan County Sheriff Rigby Wright said.

About 120 Navajos gathered at the Montezuma Creek Trading Post Wednesday afternoon and dumped 40 cases of beer taken from the store. Wright said. Deputies were called in and prevented the crowd from taking more beer from a storage shed and dumping it, said deputy sheriff Jack Kirby.

wants to help performers seeking an audience, authors looking for a publisher and artists in search of a market.

Petrovics operates a referral service in the arts, entertainment and publishing through an organization called Christian Outreach, which he founded a year ago.

Speaking with a heavy Hungarian accent and the exuberance of a true believer in a cause, Petrovics said Christian Outreach one day will serve as a worldwide clearinghouse for culture and wholesome entertainment.

The group's reach so far is more modest. Much of its activity is concentrated in St. Louis and nearby towns in Missouri and Illinois. In many respects, the group still is in the organizing stage, though Petrovics said there are about 500 mem-"In America today there is no place to go with children," he said. "Television and movies are vulgar and violent. There is little live family entertainment."

He said churches, schools, civic organizations and businesses would welcome "clean, entertaining" performances presented by groups organized or referred to them by Christian Outreach.

The group's entertainers have given shows in poor neighborhoods on the city's north side and at the Missouri Penitentiary in Jefferson City.

Thomas Setzekorn, director of lay ministry for the group, said the religious theme in such performances is low-key.

"Our common goal is to bring Christ into it, but we're not trying to offend peo-ple or be obnoxious," Setzekorn said. We don't care what church people belong to. We let people find Christ in their own time and their own way.

Petrovics said his group also sponsors art shows, has contacts with a printing company to handle magazine and book publishing and includes among its members three film-makers.

Petrovics, 57, said he can sympathize with the ambitions of artists and performers seeking recognition. He was an actor and writer in Budapest before he fled Hungary after the failure of the 1956 anti-Soviet uprising.

Membership fees in Christian Outreach, registered with the state as a nonprofit corporation, are $5 a year and that sometimes is waived for those unable to afford it. Petrovics said. The group receives most of its financial support from what he termed free-will giving.

Petrovics organized the group as a St. hours branch of Christian Arts-Inc., a New York-based effort begun in 1955 by Metropolitan Opera star Jerome Hines.

We broke away because the scope of Christian Arts was too limited," Petrovics said. "Christian Outreach is involved in the whole cultural field, not just theater. We want to expand into movies, television and records. We plan to document true (faith) healing experiences in magaice it's ready for the new TV season by listing eight of the 10 most-watched programs during the week ending Sept. 3, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. show.

A preview installment of CBS' "Flying High" comedy series was the week's most-watched program, but that didn't keep ABC from winning the networks' ratings competition for the sixth week in ABC finished the week with a rating of 15.8, compared to 14.3 for CBS and 13.9 for NBC. The networks say that means in an average prime time minute during the week, 15.8 percent of the homes in the country were watching ABC.

The success of "Flying High," a comedy based on the antics of a group of airline stewardesses, was clear indication TV watchers are anxious to leave the summer reruns behind. Eighteen of the 20 top-rated shows were repeats.

'Flying High" pulled a rating of 28.2, which means of all the homes in the country with TV, 28.2 percent saw at least part of the program. The other Top 20 show broadcast for the first time, "New Maverick," an ABC movie based on the old Western series starring James

Garner and Jack Kelley, was No. 8. The bottom of the ratings belonged to

Pileup Relay Game Suggested For Parties

By SHARI LEWIS

Here's a party pileup relay game.

Put a stack of paper cups at one end of the room and a stack of paper at the other. The players pick up the first plate, run across and put a cup on top of it, then run back and put another plate on the cup and so on. They must carry the stack in one hand only, building up the tower with the other hand.

You can change the number of plates and cups to make the game easier or harder. Give the winning youngsters prizes - and a big hand because they really know how to use theirs.

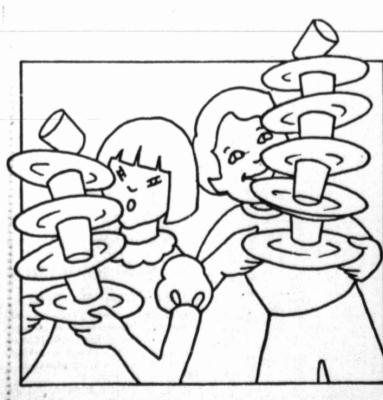

YESTERDAY'S BRAIN TWISTER: Silly as it seems, several sea creatures start their names with the letter "S." There's the shark, shrimp, scallop - I can think of more than 25. How many can you list? ANSWER: shark, shrimp, scallop, sardine, salmon, star fish, squid, sea horse, swordfish, snapper, sturgeon, sting ray, sea urchin, sunfish, sole, shad, scrod, smelt, skate, snipe, sand dab, spear fish, sockeye, sea bass, skink, sail fish. TODAY'S BRAIN TWISTER: Two girls walked up the street to the top of the hill and counted 50 windows on their right. They turned around and walked back and counted 50 windows on their left. How many windows did they count? (Look for the answer in tomorrow's Kids-Only Club column.) (Mail to Shari should be addressed Kids-Only Club, c/o this newspaper, P.O.

Veteran Actors Give Quality To Television

By JOAN HANAUER NEW YORK (UPI) - Two very different old pros bring quality to television -John Houseman as a flinty law professor and Butterfly McQueen as a flighty fairy godmother with arthritic knees.

Miss McQueen's vehicle is "The Seven Wishes of Joanna Peabody," the first of ABC's "Weekend Specials," to be broadcast Saturday at 11 a.m. Houseman recreates his role as prof.

Charles W. Kingsfield in CBS's televisionseries adaptation of the movie "Paper Chase," to premiere Saturday at 7 p.m. Houseman plays the overwhelming Kingsfield with so much frosty dignity that the imagination plays "Pomp and Circumstance" as he marches through the cafeteria of the unnamed Ivy League. ol at which he teaches contract law His students include James Stephens as

James T. Hart, who runs afoul of Kingsfield and is "shrouded" on the first day of class. That means he is dead to Kingsfield, who will never call on him again. Hart, who works nights in a pizza parlor, finds a friend in his genius dormitory neighbor, played by Tom Fitzsimmons. In the logic of television, since Hart is blond, Fitzsimmons is dark.

Fitzsimmons organizes a study group - a practice encouraged by the school that attracts a predictable variety of students whose law school trials will be the meat of the series. They are an attractive lot, and it doesn't take a clairvoyant to predict what some of their troubles will - feminist woman student at odds with her femininity, married student at odds with his dim wife, etc.

At least the premise - and premises are different here. The struggles of law school are a long way from Kotter's Sweathogs. In "Paper Chase" there is hope of an intelligent series.

In "The Seven Wishes of Joanna Peabody." a 12-year-old black girl feels that life is against her - the pre-teen trauma of siblings and hand-me-downs exacerbated by poverty.

Along comes Miss McQueen - forever remembered as Prissy in "Gone With The Wind" - who appears on Joanna's television screen to grant her seven wishes. As always happens in wish-granting tales, sometimes the worst thing that can happen to a person is to have her wishes come true.

Joanna finally learns and says, "Seems my wishes come out best for me when I wish for somebody else." It's a lovely little tale for children that any grownup might enjoy.

HY GARDENER HAS THE ANSWER:

Glad You Asked That!

Q: In his many conversations with Billy Graham through the years, did Richard Nixon ever use the four-letter words that were spoken on his tapes? - Mr. & Mrs. R.C.H., Philadelphia.

A: "No," insists the famous evangelist. "I never heard use that kind of language. And none of his friends I've talked to ever heard him use those words either.'

Q: We haven't heard anything lately about Sheree North, the blonde somewhat lookalike for Marilyn Monroe in the '50s. Is she still alive? - R.N., Tulsa, Okla.

A: Very much so. Though you may not recognize her, you've probably seen her in many TV dramas and feature films ("Telefon" among others). Born Dawn Shirley Crang in 1932, the actress was signed by 20th Century Fox in the '50s - as a threat to Marilyn Monroe after she went AWOL to marry Joe DiMaggio and leave for Korea. Sheree was promised two Monroe films, There's No Business Like Show Business" and "Pink Tights." She did not make either one. Her early career seemed to depend on whether the studio was speaking to Marilyn that week. When Monroe announced that she wanted to play in "The Brothers Karamazov," Sheree got the 1955 "How To Be Very Very Popular" (with Betty Grable and Bob Cummings) which had been slated for Marilyn.

Q: Settle a bet. My friend claims Babe Ruth was about 5-foot-8 and had all his power in his arms and wrists. I say he was a big fellow, at least a six-footer. What are the facts? - Randy J.,

A: The Babe was a 6-foot-3 giant whose normal weight was around 215 pounds. Though he had spindly legs, his arms and wrists were so well developed, he could handle his 52-ounce bat like a toothpick

Q: My grandmother still insists on being the Jewish mother giving us hot chicken soup to treat a cold. Are there any facts these days to back her up? - Eva L., Asheville, N.C.

A: Yes, according to medical writer Lawrence Galton. He claims chicken soup is not only good for a cold - but for other respiratory diseases. It stimulates bronchial glands to increase secretions - leading to increased expectoration. UCLA Medical Center's Dr. Irwin Ziment adds: "The proverbial chicken soup, as long as it has plenty of pepper, garlic and possibly curry powder, may in fact be very helpful for diseases like bronchitis

The latest authority to agree is Dr. Marvin Sachner of the Mt. Sinai Medical Center in Miami Beach. "Hot chicken soup," he's quoted as saying, "either through the aroma or through a mechanism related to taste, appears to possess an additional substance for increasing nasal mucus velocity.'

We like the story about a passenger on an airliner noticing a stewardess coming out of the pilot's cabin, rather flustered and nervous. She went back to the other stewardess and whispered something to her. Fearing the worst, the passenger leaned over to eavesdrop. "If you go up forward," the stewardess was saying. "watch yourself. They've got the automatic pilot on."

Send your questions to Hy Gardner, "Glad You Asked That," care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 11748, Chicago, Ill. 60611. Marilyn and Hy Gardner will answer as many questions as they can in their column, but the volume of mail makes personal replies impossible.

AKRON, Ohio (AP) - Industry-wide snow tire sales may decline by 2 million units this winter, the result of increasing legislative efforts and changing driver preferences, a Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. official says.

Tire Marketing Manager Howard D. MacDonald claims legislation against metal-studded snow tires, feelings that regular radial tires can replace winter tires, and preferences for "all season" tires will hurt the snow-tire market.

A total of 14.1 million winter tires were sold last year, but the severity of the winter boosted demand beyond industry expectations, Goodyear, the nation's No. 1 tire maker, said Wednesday.

A spokesman for B.F. Goodrich said the company foresees a similar drop in snow tire sales for 1978, but discounted the switch to all-weather tires as a cause. Total industry winter tire sales were
