Terminal Toenails

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — What can be done for fungus of my toes? The growth is thick and fibrous and adheres to the toes. It falls from the nail. It is very sore to touch and it is impossible to even touch the bed covers at night. Is there a chance of blood poisoning? I got this during the service in the South Pacific Islands during World War II.

DEAR READER — One of my friends with the same problem says he has "terminal toenails," and I guess that's as good as term as any.

Fungus involvement of the feet can attack the toenail and this is a frequent source of constant reinfection. Sometimes it is so bad that the toenail involved has to be removed. You are certainly going to need direct care from your physician. He may want to give you a medicine by mouth used to treat fungus infection. The medicine is called griseofulvin (Fulvicin U/F). This is sometimes used in the presence of difficult fungus infections as you described yours.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 11-10, Common Foot Problems: What To Do About Them. It gives you more information on treating athlete's foot, which is a fungus disease. Other readers who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551 Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

As the material I am sending you explains, fungi can live in your shoes and socks. That means that you need to change your socks regularly, and the socks should be sterilized. That's usually accomplished by ironing them. Home care, in terms of attention to your shoes and socks, may help you in the overall picture in treating your fungus disease while your doctor is prescribing the medicines he thinks are indicated in your case.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My wife and I would like to travel to the Northwest Rockies, but there isn't much information available concerning altitude, who should go and who should not go, etc. Any information would be appreciated.

DEAR READER — Very few changes occur below 5,000 feet. Since Denver, Colorado, is a mile high city, that means you wouldn't expect to notice any reaction to altitudes below the Denver level.

A pretty safe guideline is that used by the commercial airlines. Cabin pressure in our modern jet aircraft is constantly kept 7,000 feet or below. Individuals who are quiet and not overly active can usually tolerate altitudes to 7,000 feet without any noticeable effects.

The exceptions are the people who already have lung disease, or those who have advanced heart disease, or any other medical condition that results in increased labored or difficult breathing.

It follows that most people, except those with reasonably severe illnesses, can expect to travel to altitudes of around 7,000 feet without difficulty as long as they don't exert themselves vigorously at the same time. People who get into trouble at that altitude are often those who are doing an unaccustomed amount of physical exertion before they adjust to the altitude.

If you are going to altitudes as high as 10,000 feet, then I think you should consult with your physician before you do so. Anybody with lung disease or heart disease should consult his or her physician before traveling to altitudes higher than 7,000 feet.

Sometimes individuals traveling by land will go over mountains with altitudes of 10,000 feet or more and are actually exposed to higher altitudes than if they were flying in a pressurized commercial aircraft.

Overeaters Linked To Fuel Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fat on overweight Americans should bother everyone else because of the energy output it takes to supply more food than the plump folks need, two scientists say.

Drs. Bruce M. Hannon and Timothy G. Lohman of the University of Illinois at Urbana say their calculations show the excess energy used to feed America's fat people could supply the annual residential electricity needs of Boston, Chicago, San Francisco and Washington, D.C.

Using figures from a variety of federal agencies and other studies, the scientists concluded that if all overweight adults simultaneously went on diets to reach their optimum weights, the energy saved during the three-to-four-month diet period would be equivalent to 1.3 billion gallons of gasoline.

"We want to drive home the point that everything is connected and that being overweight is a social problem and not necessarily just a personal concern," Hannon said in a telephone interview recently.

In a report in the American Journal of Public Health, the scientists wrote: "The calculation of the fossil fuel energy required to supply the extra food calories to maintain excess body fat helps connect the impact of overeating on energy consumption."

Cut-Rate London-LA Flights To Be Offered

LONDON (UPI) — One year after he revolutionized air travel with his no-frills London-New York Skytrain flights, British's Sir Freddie Laker is starting a London-Los Angeles run at less than half the cost of economy fares offered by other airlines.

The Laker Airways service, starting Tuesday, offers a Los Angeles-London flight at $220 in the off-season and $248 during the peak summer months. London-Los Angeles is $162 off-season and $185 peak.

Laker has flown nearly 250,000 people between London and New York since the Skytrain service began Sept. 28, 1977. He said he will mark the first anniversary by taking a seat on the inaugural London-Los Angeles flight Tuesday.

Skytrain revolutionized trans-Atlantic air travel by offering one-way New York-London seats at $135 — return $110 — on a first-come, first-served basis.

Republicans Seeking To Rebuild In Maine

By ARTHUR P. BUSHNELL
AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) — Once the state's dominant political force, Maine Republicans are trying to pull themselves back to power on the bootstraps of Rep. William S. Cohen. Their problems are as much with independents as Democrats.

Cohen, who came to national notice as a Republican who supported impeachment of Richard Nixon, has put his career on the line with a challenge to Democratic Sen. William D. Hathaway.

"It's a close race. It's always been a close race. Sen. Hathaway said more than a year ago that he thought it would be decided by a matter of a few percentage points," said Hathaway aide Bill Frederick.

The GOP, passed in party registration last June by the Democrats, is also seeking to regain the governor's mansion. Its occupant the last four years has been independent James B. Longley, who is keeping a 1974 campaign promise and not seeking a second term.

Longley's success outside the major party structure has had an impact on the 1978 campaign even though he is retiring. Ten independent candidates are running for major offices.

For years, Maine was among the nation's most Republican states. But Democrats, led by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, and the recent wave of independent candidacies have left the GOP in a precarious situation.

Republicans now hold both congressional seats, but Cohen is vacating one and the other GOP incumbent is also thought vulnerable. The Republicans control the Maine Senate, but the Democrats have a handy majority in the House.

Cohen, 38, a handsome former mayor of Bangor and three-term congressman, is bidding for national prominence by challenging Hathaway.

Hathaway, 54, who toppled four-term incumbent Margaret Chase Smith in 1972, lacks Cohen's charisma, but he has spent a great deal of time campaigning throughout the rural state.

Hathaway refers to the contest as one between a "workhorse (himself) and a showhorse (Cohen)."

In the race for the governorship, state House Republican leader Linwood E. Palmer Jr., 56, and Democratic Attorney General Joseph E. Brennan, 43, are joined by independent Herman "Buddy" Frankland, in a tight three-way contest.

All three stress ties with Longley, who would have been favored had he sought re-election.

A special legislative session called by Longley to consider constitutional limits on state and local spending and taxes adjourned without taking action. The proposal was the largest potential campaign issue, with Frankland and Palmer backing constitutional limits and Brennan backing statutory limits.

Frankland, 43, the minister of Maine's largest Baptist church, and Palmer, a leading backer of the Longley plan in the Legislature, were both considering petition drives to take different spending limit proposals to the voters.

Another conservative independent, former state Sen. Hayes E. Gahagan, 30, also is in the Senate race and could be a factor. The race took a bizarre twist when Gahagan charged his official campaign photographs had been sabotaged with subliminal sexual messages.

The independent candidacies of both Frankland and Gahagan were thought likely to siphon votes from the usually more conservative Republicans and help the Democrats.

An issue in the Senate race is the pending land claim by two Indian tribes to the northern two-thirds of the state.

Hathaway supported President Carter's plan for resolving the matter, which would have left Maine to settle a portion of the claims after the federal government paid $25 million to end claims against 330,000 small landowners. But Cohen opposed that solution and sided with Longley in seeking a full federal resolution of the claims.

Earlier this month, federal officials sought a six-month delay of the case. Longley said the move might be interpreted as an attempt to help Hathaway by moving the issue beyond the general election.

There are five independent candidates in the 2nd Congressional District race to fill Cohen's seat, but it was thought to be a close battle between former Vietnam War prisoner Markham L. Gartley, the Democratic secretary of state, and Republican state Sen. Olympia J. Snowe.

President Faces Tough Battle Against Inflation

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Now that President Carter has mediated between ancient Middle Eastern enemies, he faces some really tough negotiations. He needs to find a framework for peace between the administration and George Meany. Carter is working on a new inflation control program, since administration efforts to dampen the rise in the cost of living with a gentle program of guidance and persuasion is not doing the job. To strengthen it, the administration is considering a set of wage and price guidelines, still voluntary but nonetheless a more intense form of pressure on labor and management.

not turn across-the-board to wage and price controls to combat inflation — but that he would like standby authority on the books.

It was to be a sort of psychological weapon, to be there but not to be used. That stirred some jitters, particularly among businessmen who recalled that Richard M. Nixon opposed standby control legislation but wound up using it to impose his administration's mandatory wage and price limits.

The business community's nervousness, reflected by falling stock prices, prompted Carter to change signals. Before his inauguration he dropped his request for standby control powers.

So the White House is working on a voluntary system which may include some sanctions to be invoked if guidelines are defied. In addition, it will include federal spending cuts.

Carter said the new program will be fair. "It will not penalize labor or any other group in our society," he told the United Steelworkers of America. "At the same time, it will be tough. I will ask for restraint and some sacrifice from all."

Meany already had been to Atlantic City, to tell the same convention that guidelines reflect a "controls psychology" that would penalize the victims of inflation without addressing the real causes. He blamed corporations and bankers, and said the administration should deal with them to hold down prices.

"If the president gets them down to reasonable levels, then wage demands will also come down — and not before," the AFL-CIO president said.

Meany said the Nixon controls restrained wages for a time, but not prices. "I sincerely hope that the president is not persuaded by those who are beating the drums for controls to repeat our experience of 1971 to 1973," he said.

But no inflation control program is going to work without limits applied on both sides of the ledger.

Carter's problem now is to convince organized labor in general, and Meany in particular, that his new program will be as stringent in restraining prices as in dealing with wage settlements.

The guidelines that have been under consideration reportedly would seek to hold wage settlements to about 7 percent next year, and price increases to about 6 percent.

But numbers aside, guidelines are a red flag to Meany, who says they spell trouble for unions at the bargaining table because they impose a ceiling on the settlement before negotiations begin.

And to make any voluntary program succeed, the administration will have to gain the cooperation of organized labor.

Robert Strauss, Carter's inflation adviser, said the White House can gain that cooperation. "I think if he came up with a year of national denial, of national austerity, the public would buy it, business would buy it and labor would buy it," Strauss said.

He suggested that Carter might summon business and labor leaders to Camp David to sell his new program.

Analysis

ing with a gentle program of guidance and persuasion is not doing the job.

To strengthen it, the administration is considering a set of wage and price guidelines, still voluntary but nonetheless a more intense form of pressure on labor and management.

Carter called it "a strengthening of our limited arsenal of weapons against inflation." He imposed one of those limits himself. As a candidate, he said he would

Blind Cyclist Shares Record

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Larry Crowe is blind but he is on the tandem bicycling team that holds the Kentucky tandem time-trial record.

Tandem bicycle racing requires a team effort. The "stoker" on the back and the "pilot" on the front have to be pretty much equal in strength and stamina.

Crowe, a 27-year-old systems analyst, is the stoker. His pilot is Bob Zeman, an attorney.

They completed the 25-mile national time-trial course near Carrollton in 61 minutes two years ago, a state record for tandems.

According to experts, tandem riding around the country is on the rise and the blind are heavily involved because of the opportunity it gives them to stretch their muscles and feel the countryside.

Magazines Devoted To Special Interests

By LeROY POPE
NEW YORK (UPI) — If you are bewildered by the array of new and seemingly obscure magazines on your newsstand these days, you aren't alone.

The explosion of new magazines has produced 606 new titles in the past two years for an astonishing total of 9,000 to 10,000 titles, according to the Magazine Publishers Association.

Circulation reached 264 million and advertising $2 billion last year.

But the new magazines bear little resemblance to the great general magazines such as the Saturday Evening Post, Colliers, Life, Look, the American and others of the golden age of magazines, says Carl Bloom of Bloom & Gelb, a New York direct response advertising agency specializing in magazine launching and promotion.

Most of the new magazines are based on an admittedly esoteric idea or activity that is just starting to become popular. Only a minority are launched by established publishers. They are started by individuals or special interest groups. Few seek large circulations at low price. If people have an interest in these special periodicals they will pay well for them.

New magazines still look to advertising for their major revenue, as distinguished from the type of cheaper newsstand magazine that lives off circulation revenue alone, but the publisher only hopes to get 50 to 55 percent of his gross from advertising as compared to 70 to 80 percent a few years back.

Another difference, Bloom said, is that many of the new magazines are backed financially, at least to some extent, by investors who regard them as tax shelters.

This may happen from the start if a wealthy individual with a social, political or literary idea he or she wants to put across is involved.

More likely the new magazine is started on money raised by the ambitious publisher and his relatives and friends. Writers and artists will accept stock for their contributions and printers may accept a partnership. Then, if the first few issues show promise, venture capital investors looking for tax sheltered speculations may put up money.

If the new magazine looks really successful, it may be snapped up at a good price by one of the established publishing companies.

But Bloom said his guess is that fewer than half the magazines really succeed and even if they do, it takes three to four years to turn the corner and start rolling towards real profit.

Not even the best magazines are immortal. Few last a human generation but even those with shorter lives may return a good profit on the investment before they die.

Launching a new magazine requires specialized knowhow as well as capital, Bloom said. You have to know how to test for format, for copy writing style, for price range and for allowable paper and printing costs.

Bloom & Gelb currently are working on several projected new magazines.

"When I call a conference, nobody comes."

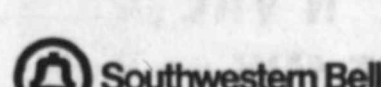

Many out-of-town conferences consist of groups of people who keep minutes and waste days. My time's too valuable. That's why I hold a lot of my meetings by phone — on Long Distance conference calls.

I just dial "0" and ask for a conference operator who can connect me with up to 58 other telephone numbers. Coast to coast. Even overseas. The call is put through as soon as possible, or I can arrange to have a conference call placed at a specified time. And if I want to communicate important announcements, instructions or one of my famous pep talks to our other offices — without back talk — I can ask to transmit only. My telephone becomes a microphone.

Conference calling isn't expensive, either. For example, my 15-minute teleconference with the managers in St. Louis, Los Angeles and New York this afternoon cost about $30, plus tax. A sound investment, considering all four of us discussed my proposal at the same time. I didn't have to make additional calls to repeat information, and none of us had to spend our valuable time traveling. But most important, we got the job done. Today.

So if out-of-town conferences are your problem, remember the system is the solution. And a Long Distance conference call is part of the system you can use to keep people informed, and keep them working... simultaneously.

A good idea? It's genius!

John Henry Folk Festival Helps Blacks Learn About Heritage

By STRAT DOUTHAT
 PENCE SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — Ed Cabbell leaned back and let the blues seep slowly into his soul, unaware of the red-tailed hawk sailing above him in large, lazy circles.
 A few feet from Cabbell, on the portable stage, a bulky, black man sat playing a guitar and wailing plaintively about a long list of problems particular to the human race. And as Cabbell listened, and the man sang, the solitary hawk continued to ride the updraft, getting smaller with each lazy lap.
 A moment later, just as the blues singer was hitting his last, low down note, the high-flying speck faded into the deep blue September sky. There was a silent second as the spell lingered and then was forever shattered, by a burst of applause from the crowd at the sixth annual John Henry Folk Festival.
 As president of the John Henry Memorial Foundation, which was sponsoring the festival, Cabbell was busy — but not too busy to talk about the festival, the foundation and the experience of life in the Appalachian mountains, as lived by black people.
 "I founded the foundation in 1969," said the stocky, 32-year-old Princeton resident. "At that time, there was very little information available about black people in Appalachia. I had studied black history at the University of Louisville so I thought I could help black people in this area learn more about themselves and their heritage."

 And one of his first tasks in making Appalachian blacks more aware of their history was to explore some of the prevailing myths about John Henry, the legendary black steel-drivin' man who won out in a contest with a steam-powered drill and, then died with his 12-pound hammer in his hand.
 Cabbell said the John Henry legend is only partly accurate. He said John Henry was a huge black man who helped lay the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad track through this area and who probably lived at nearby Talcott, where a vast tunnel was carved through the mountains. But he is doubtful about the storied contest with the steam drill.
 "That part's not true," he said. "But the story is important, historically, because it deals with the contributions blacks made in building our nation."

"Although most people aren't aware of it, more than 5,000 black slaves lived and worked in what is now known as West Virginia, during the latter part of the 18th Century. Black people also made important contributions during the days the salt industry was flourishing in the Kanawha Valley."
 And on top of this, he added, the story is important "because, as far as I know, it is our only positive legend about a black person."
 But don't get the idea that Cabbell lives in the past. He doesn't and the festival, which featured black and white singers and musicians, was proof positive.

Costs Forcing Papers To Share Facilities

CINCINNATI (AP) — A Stanford University economics professor has told a Justice Department hearing that merger of big-city newspaper production facilities is necessary now, will become more important in the future.
 Dr. James Nelson Rosse, who made a study of the Cincinnati newspaper and advertising market, was called to testify last week by the E.W. Scripps Co.
 It was the eighth day of Justice Department hearings on a proposed joint operating agreement between Cincinnati's two daily newspapers.
 Attorney General Griffin Bell must decide whether to allow Scripps to permit The Cincinnati Enquirer to take over operations of the Scripps-owned Cincinnati Post, leaving only editorial and news departments separate.
 The hearings are being conducted under the 1970 Falling Newspapers Act, and Scripps claims the Post cannot continue to operate without a joint agreement.
 Rosse noted the Post had lost 46,000 circulation since 1969. He said that loss of circulation prompts a drop in advertising, which in turn causes a greater decline in circulation.
 He said that while the labor costs of producing a newspaper have not risen as high as they might have because of the switch to electronic production, the cost of newsprint continues to rise.
 Rosse said small newspapers pay 14 percent of their income for newsprint, while large newspapers pay up to 30 percent.
 Television has affected newspaper advertising greatly in the last five to 10 years, he added. The portion of the advertising market belonging to newspapers has declined from 36 percent to 29 percent in that time, he said.

Demonstrations Mar Service By Graham

OSLO, Norway (AP) — American evangelist Billy Graham drew a crowd of almost 20,000 Sunday for the opening of his 1978 Scandinavian crusade, but less than 200 came forward to swear allegiance to Christ and hostile demonstrations interrupted the service.
 "If only one of you witness as a new follower of God, this meeting is a success," Graham repeatedly told the audience at Oslo's Ullevaal soccer stadium, where he won more than 700 converts in a 1956 crusade.
 The debut of the "Scandia 78" crusade was marred by members of the Norwegian Society of Heathens, anarchists and other demonstrators who climbed to the grandstand roof to rain anti-Christian leaflets on the crowd threw tomatoes, lemons and other produce onto the field.
 Two of the demonstrators unfurled a banner from one of the stadium's light towers reading "Give the Christians Power and They Will Kill." Another grabbed a microphone and shouted: "God is dead!"
 "We must also love those of you who try to disturb this meeting," said Graham. "I'm used to disturbances. They make the meetings colorful."
 Police arrested seven youths who ran onto the field but released them after questioning them.
 One newspaper, Nationen, reported: "No success for Billy Graham. Not once was he applauded during his speech." Another daily, Arbeiderbladet, called him "a factory trowler on a soul-fishing expedition."
 The meeting was videotaped for broadcast later in other Scandinavian countries. Graham is scheduled to hold several more meetings in Stockholm, Sweden, that will be broadcast live in Scandinavia.

IMF Says Coordination Of Economics Needed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A stronger U.S. dollar and a return to healthy economic growth around the world depend on better coordination of economic policies by the major industrial nations, the International Monetary Fund has decided.

A special committee of the 135-member institution said Sunday night that uneven economic growth among major nations last year was a chief cause of the huge U.S. foreign trade and payments deficits and the steep decline in the value of the dollar.

"A return to exchange market stability would require the adoption of national policies to reduce inflation and to achieve more convergent rates of growth..." the committee said.

The policy-making IMF Interim Committee held a day-long meeting Sunday to make major decisions in advance of the 33rd annual meeting of the IMF and the World Bank beginning here today.

President Carter was scheduled to deliver welcoming remarks to the approximately 3,500 delegates from around the world during the afternoon. Also scheduled to speak were President Robert McNamara of the World Bank and Jacques de Larosiere, the new managing director of the IMF.

The Interim Committee decided Sunday to increase the finances of the IMF by 50 percent to a total of $75 billion beginning in 1980, up from the current level of $50 billion.

It also decided to increase by $15 billion the amount of the IMF's special monetary asset, known as special drawing rights, which will be distributed among its members.

The strategy for coordinated economic growth by major nations already has been agreed to by the United States, which shares the concern of other IMF members over its trade and payments deficits.

The U.S. trade deficit is expected to total $30 billion this year, up from $27 billion in 1977, while its balance of payments deficit may total $18 billion, up from $15 billion in 1977.

The IMF strategy envisions a slower U.S. economic growth rate, with faster growth by Japan and Germany, which would be aimed at reducing U.S. imports and increasing the nation's exports. That would improve the outlook for the dollar by slowing the flow of red-ink dollars into the rest of the world.

If the strategy works, the stage should be set for a significant improvement in overall economic growth around the world beginning in the second half of 1979, said committee chairman Denis Healey, the British chancellor of the exchequer.

"The outlook... can be substantially improved provided the members of the fund adopt policies for concerted action," Healey said at a news briefing.

The 50 percent increase in contributions, or quotas, by the IMF's members will be used to provide loans by the IMF to nations experiencing difficulties.

DRIVE-IN PREACHER — The Rev. Charles Murray gives a sermon at the Oreland Presbyterian Church in Oreland, Pa., to about 100 worshippers parked in their cars on the church parking lot. 'Drive-In' Church Services Popular ORELAND, Pa. (AP) — The Rev. Charles Murray revs up each Sunday to preach to some 100 worshippers who drive into his church parking lot but never leave their cars. Drive-in minister Murray's pews are sedans, coupes and convertibles. His sermons resound from the worshippers' car radios.

"Good morning," he greets his flock via a weak AM radio signal. "Turn on your headlights if you can hear me."

Headlights blink on across the parking lot of the Oreland Presbyterian Church. "That's good," Murray replies.

A guitar player hits a chord, and behind windshields on this bright but chilly morning, mouths move to the words of the hymn "Loves Thee Me."

The cars' windows are rolled up tightly, granting a small audience for those with not-so-musical voices and bestowing a rather other-worldly aura to the scene.

"When you sing, there's just the two of us," said Jean Doering, who attends the service with her husband, Bob. "It's a strange feeling, but that's the only weird or strange thing about it."

Mrs. Doering added, however, that she "felt kind of funny" sitting and praying in her car. And she does not feel "100 percent close" to her fellow worshippers like when she attends regular services inside the 1,200-member congregation's little brick church.

As for Murray, drive-in services took a little getting used to, he says, but if that is what people want, so be it.

"It is an odd feeling standing out there speaking to cars," he said in an interview. "But it didn't frighten us; we didn't feel we were oddballs."

Murray does not quite have the appeal of the service figured out — it has grown in attendance steadily — but he has some ideas.

"Some people are shy about coming in to a normal church and they appreciate the anonymity," he said. "Some are ill and elderly and unable to handle the normal church situation."

"We're trying to reach people who are hurting and we will go to any lengths to do that. If it takes some kind of novelty setting, we will do it."

The 8:30 a.m. drive-in services started in June and will continue until October. Two regular services also are held each Sunday.

The drive-in ones are only a half-hour long and some worshippers say the services' early hour and brevity help them get away early for drives to the beach or other family trips.

"It's quicker," said drive-in churchgoer William Muller, poking his head out of a black sedan to talk. "You get a nice message and you don't have to get dressed up. And it's refreshing with the sky and the sun."

Resistant Strain Of TB Discovered

ATLANTA (AP) — A strain of tuberculosis resistant to traditional drug treatment has been diagnosed in 19 persons in Alcorn County, Miss., in the past two years, the national Center for Disease Control reports.

Strains resistant to drugs have been diagnosed before, but officials say this is the first time a cluster of cases has been discovered.

The patients have responded, the CDC said. Health officials in Tennessee, Wisconsin and Illinois, where the victims have traveled, have been told to be aware of the possibility the strains could show up in those states.

Bargaining With Banks Can Produce Savings

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Haggling over price may seem more suited to a Mideast bazaar than to a Midwest boutique, but give-and-take bargaining can save you just as much money at home as it can abroad.

That is the advice from a group of economists at Citibank, the nation's second largest commercial bank.

Experts quoted in the bank's latest

McNamara Sees Rise In Poverty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An estimated 600 million people around the world will remain trapped in "absolute poverty" by the year 2000 without a coordinated global effort to combat the problem, World Bank President Robert McNamara warned today.

"Absolute poverty is a condition of life so characterized by malnutrition, illiteracy, disease, high infant mortality and low life expectancy as to be beneath any reasonable definition of human decency," McNamara said.

McNamara said his "shocking" poverty projection is based on the optimistic theory that economic growth targets in the developing nations are reached, international trade expands and poorer countries are allowed to borrow necessary funds.

"Even then," he said, "the likelihood is that some 600 million individual human beings will be living in absolute poverty at the end of the century." He called that eventuality "intolerable."

McNamara also offered an even worse scenario. He said if the economic growth targets fall short, the number of poverty victims could soar to 1.3 billion.

In a major address to delegates of the International Monetary Fund-World Bank joint annual meeting, McNamara said a large stumbling block to reducing poverty is the growing trend toward "protectionist" trade barriers, such as tariffs and quotas, erected by industrialized countries.

He cited the U.S. steel import "trigger price" system which means "serious difficulties for those developing countries now emerging as exporters."

"Excessive protectionism is not only unfair," he said, "it is self-defeating. If the developing countries are to import even more from the developed nations — and they want to — they must be allowed to export more so that they can earn the foreign exchange necessary to pay for them."

Other needed actions include a "sharp" increase in money available to developing countries from private and public sources and an intensive effort "to assist the poor to become more productive."

He said the "human potential" of the poor remains immense.

"Given a realistic opportunity, they will respond" to assistance. "For no less than anyone else, what they want most from life is an end to despair, a beginning of hope, and the promise of a better future for those they love."

No Diseases Linked To Flash Floods

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A state health official says there have been no reports of disease linked to recent flash flooding in Arkansas.

"By and large we think the worst is way over," said Jack Lusby, director of the department's Division of Sanitarian Services.

However, Lusby said more than 2 million pounds of food and drugs were removed from groceries, restaurants and warehouses in central Arkansas which flooded after torrential rains Sept. 13. The division supervised the removal and destruction of the damaged merchandise, he said.

Lusby said moisture and pools of water left by the flooding are "good breeding grounds" for mosquitoes and flies.

"This sort of wet, humid condition will just breed them by the millions," he said.

The last of four federal relief centers established for flood victims closed Saturday night.

A federal disaster administration spokesman, Vernon Hobart, said 2,174 persons had visited the centers during the 10 days they were open.

Officials emphasized that temporary housing, business and agricultural loans, food stamps and other emergency aid would continue to be available at other locations.

The Red Cross also planned to continue to provide assistance after the federal relief centers closed.

Grid Tilt To Honor Ballooning Trio

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The American trio which first crossed the Atlantic Ocean by balloon will receive the Liberty Bowl's Distinguished Service Award at the post-season college football game Dec. 23.

Ben Abruzzo, Max Anderson and Larry Newman have accepted the invitation, A.F. "Bud" Dudley, Liberty Bowl founder and executive director, said Wednesday.

"This is sensational news as far as the bowl is concerned," Dudley said. "We feel honored they have accepted our invitation and we feel equally honored to have three such fine Americans to honor by bestowing our top award on them."

The balloonists are from Albuquerque, N.M.

newsletter say the trick lies in knowing where, when and how to haggle. "You don't bargain in a big store or about groceries in your supermarket."

What about in a bank? "You can bargain with us," said April Klimley of the Citibank public affairs department. Miss Klimley conceded, however, that most bank charges are fixed. "It would vary from service to service," she said. "But there are certain kinds of branch loans where people do bargain." Branch loans are paid back all at once rather than in installments. They are often "secured" — backed by something like stocks or by large deposits.

The Citibank economists say that "for big-ticket items, a certain amount of haggling is not only expected, it's the accepted way of life." Prices for appliances and automobiles vary widely, for example, and dealers have a certain amount of freedom to negotiate. Bargaining could get you a better service contract or an extra accessory at no extra charge.

Isn't haggling an unusual subject for a big bank? No, said Sarah Wells, editor of the newsletter. Bargaining is simply "a money-saving device ... It's 'buyman-ship,'" she said.

Note: You may not be able to bargain in a bank, but you can compare terms. Where you keep your money can be as important as where you spend it and financial institutions are not all alike. Commercial banks generally offer a greater variety of services, but they also pay less interest on savings accounts. It is important to read the fine print. How often is interest compounded? Is "free checking" really free or do you have to maintain a minimum balance? Can you keep that minimum in an interest-bearing savings account or do you have to deposit it in your checking account? What is the annual rate of interest you will have to pay if you take advantage of so-called overdraft checking to write a check for more than you have in your account?

For places where you can haggle, there are some general guidelines to keep in mind. Among them:

- Bone up on the merchandise involved. If your purchase of a new car involves a trade-in, for example, ask the dealer exactly how much he is giving you on your old auto, then check a used-car price guide to see if the allowance seems fair. Don't rely on the seller to give you the pros and cons of a particular product. The greater your knowledge, the better your bargaining position.
- Bargain with dignity. Don't antagonize the seller or make disparaging remarks about the store or the goods.

- Be sure you deal with someone who has the power to make concessions. If a clerk says, "I'm sorry, but the manager sets the prices," ask to see the manager. It is usually easy to bargain in an individual store than in a large chain where store personnel operate within rigid limits.

- Don't exaggerate or make unrealistic claims. Automobile dealers, for example, generally have a pretty good idea of what their competition is charging.
- Haggle in privacy. Don't put the seller in the position of having other customers demand why you are getting a better deal than they are.

- Don't limit bargaining to price alone. The seller may not be willing to cut the price, but he or she may be willing to provide things like free alterations or delivery.

- Try to negotiate discounts for buying in quantity or out of season. Be flexible. You may be able to get a better price if you accept an item that is in stock instead of one that has to be specially ordered.
- Ask if there are discounts for paying cash.

Outlook Cloudy For Progress In Nuclear Arms Agreement

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko will meet this week to discuss a new SALT agreement, but the outlook is not hopeful for progress on the arms issue, diplomatic sources said today.

Gromyko is expected to air his grievances about new U.S. policy moves, including the Camp David accords, in a statement to the U.N. General Assembly Tuesday.

The Russian diplomat will meet with Vance later Tuesday and on Wednesday, the diplomatic sources said, and the atmosphere will be frosty.

Recent events have not favored the breakthrough strategic arms limitation agreement the Kremlin had hoped for. Gromyko flew to the United States specifically to confer with Vance last week, only to be told that the secretary of state had more urgent business to attend to in the Middle East, drumming up support in Arab capitals for the Camp David agreements.

The Soviets resented the summit talks led by President Carter because they were excluded, and Gromyko was miffed at being kept waiting after he had traveled to New York a week ahead of schedule.

The Russian diplomat spent the weekend at the Soviet mission to the United Nations, studying the political situation. Diplomatic sources said he had hoped to push the talks on a SALT II agreement into a decisive stage and pave the way for a summit meeting between President Carter and President Leonid Brezhnev.

For his part, Brezhnev denounced Camp David as a potentially explosive "anti-Arab deal."

Four Perish In Colorado Shooting

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — "I've just shot my family," the female caller told police. She gave an address and hung up.

When police broke down the locked back door of the home, they found the family of four dead, all shot with the same .22-caliber revolver that had been pressed against their flesh before it was fired.

Police Lt. Ronald O'Connell said Gladys Fern Hibbard, 51, apparently shot and killed her husband, Thomas, 58; her daughter, Deborah, 16; and her 12-year-old son, Duane, and then put a hollow-point bullet into her own head.

"It would be a safe assumption from the statement she made that we're looking toward a triple homicide and suicide," said O'Connell.

Police could provide no motive for the shootings.

A neighbor said Mrs. Hibbard was a friendly woman, but had lately seemed nervous and "worn out."

O'Connell said Hibbard and Deborah were found in bed, and Duane was found lying on a living room sofa. All three apparently were shot as they slept — Hibbard once in the head and the children twice each, in the chest and head. Mrs. Hibbard's body was in the kitchen.

Police said a bottle of liniment and a box of tissues on a table by the sofa indicated Duane was sleeping there because of an illness.

The bodies were taken to the El Paso County coroner's office. Two bloody mattresses with bullet holes were hung to dry in the back yard Sunday afternoon.

The Hibbards had lived in the house for more than 20 years, neighbors said. Hibbard was a film handler for Alexander Film Services of Colorado Springs. Mrs. Hibbard worked at the library at the Fort Carson Army post.

"They've always been a part of the neighborhood," said Mrs. Daniel Kettler, who lives a couple of houses away. "We watched the children grow up. Everyone thought very highly of them."

Pardon Draws No Apologies

SHAKER HEIGHTS, Ohio (AP) — Former President Gerald Ford says he has no apologies for pardoning Richard Nixon, even though he says the decision was a major factor in his defeat in the 1976 presidential election.

Ford was questioned about the decision to pardon Nixon after Nixon resigned as president during congressional impeachment proceedings.

"I would have done what I did today if I had the same identical circumstances," Ford told reporters Sunday night.

"I did it at the time because I had to make a choice... And I made a choice on behalf of 218 million Americans. Their problems were far more important to me and demanded more of my time and essentially pre-empted all of my time rather than spending my time on Mr. Nixon's problems."

Ford said that as president he had made gains fighting a recession and reducing inflation. "I regret the policies of the Carter administration have blown it," Ford added.

But he praised Carter for the achievements of the Camp David summit with Israel and Egypt, saying, "It's the start of a significant diplomatic breakthrough for peace in the Middle East. I hope it concludes successfully," Ford said.

Ford said he has not given much thought to running for the Republican nomination for president in 1980.

"That's a long way off and I have a lot of time and a lot of options and I'm in no hurry and I'm enjoying what I'm doing," he said.

A new course is being taught this fall at New York's Manhattan Community College — how to cope with simple legal problems.

Tax Fight Seen As Political Fad

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Just as "law and order" was the campaign buzz phrase of a decade past, "Proposition 13" has become the hula hoop of 1978 politics.

Promising to cut taxes has been a favorite tactic of candidates, especially those challenging incumbents, since the birth of the Republic. In some campaigns it has worked; in others it has sunk like a stone boat.

This year, after California voters overwhelmingly approved the Proposition 13 initiative slashing local property taxes, politicians across the nation have been tumbling over each other in an effort to ride the issue to victory.

There are issues in American politics that give off a lot of noise and heat, but really do not inflame the electorate. In the opinion of many political professionals, school prayer and abortion are two such issues — deeply and emotionally felt by specific groups, but not by the majority of voters.

No one, however, discounts the potential impact of taxes and crime. Both involve every voter and no sane candidate would kiss them off. But both also are in the category of what used to be called "motherhood and the flag" — reflecting mainstream values that have no partisan coloration.

Republicans began exploiting the street crime issue in the late 1960s. After a period of trying to equate the issue with racism, Democratic candidates discovered they too could "pin on the sheriff's badge" and be just as loudly in favor of law and order as any Republican.

Law and order receded as a national campaign issue for two reasons. First, neither party was able to seize it exclusively. Second, it became obvious there really was very little candidates for president and Congress could do about local crime besides damn it.

The tax issue, however, can be approached at all levels of government. In this, the GOP has been arguing with some historic justification that it has been fighting the anti-tax battle since the 1930s.

Certainly Proposition 13 — its constitutionality upheld just last Friday in a 6-1 decision by the California Supreme Court — had more Republican than Democratic support before it passed.

But that is where discretion overtook partisanship. As soon as the votes were counted, the Democrats, led by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., became old friends of the idea of reducing the tax burden.

Republicans objected, but polls indicate the public accepts Brown as a tax slasher.

Other Democrats have "gone to school" on the California experience. In Minnesota, Robert Short attacked government spending in his Democratic Senate primary upset of Rep. Don Fraser.

Democratic Gov. David Boren, seeking the Senate nomination in Oklahoma, endorsed the national Republican party's federal tax-cutting scheme. And last week Democrat Edward J. King used the tax-cutting pitch among others in his successful primary campaign against Gov. Michael Dukakis in Massachusetts.

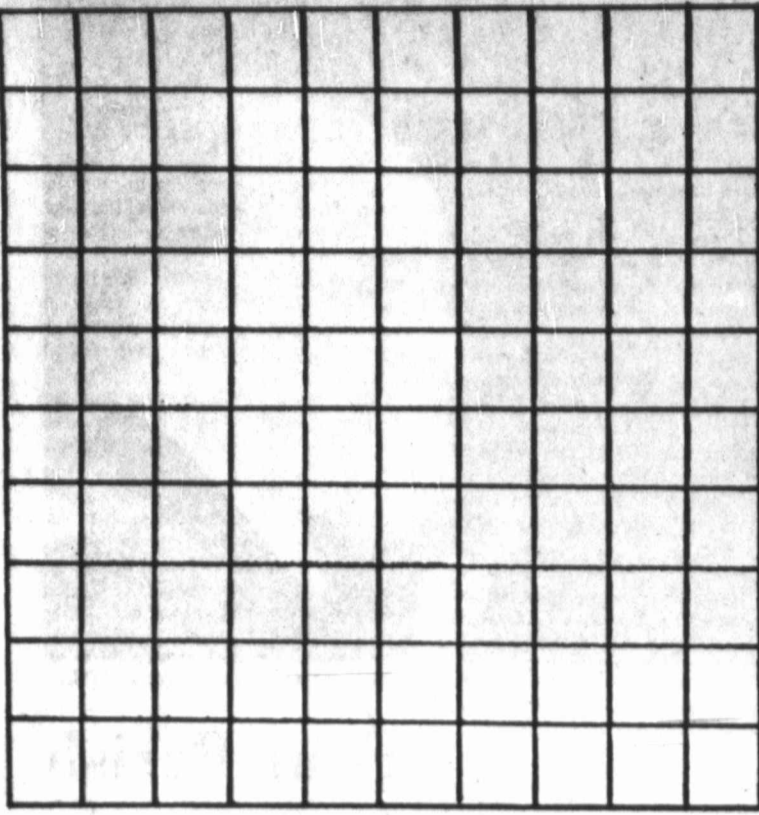

This last development had some irony because Dukakis recently backed a $300 million increase in state aid to localities that he said should be used to give property tax relief. It might even indicate there was more to Dukakis' loss than the tax revolt.

Some observers think what is really at work is a broad trend toward voter conservatism. Citing Democrats Short, Boren and King and GOP conservative primary winners Roger Jepsen in Iowa, Jeffrey Bell in New Jersey and Claude Humphrey in New Hampshire, these theorists deduce a national shift to the right.

That is a possibility, but it should be noted that liberals and moderates also have won 1978 primaries. It will take a good deal more evidence than now is to verify a real conservative trend.

The November returns will provide some of that evidence and the record of the Congress that convenes next January should tell the rest of the story.

KIDS-ONLY CLUB

Instructions Given For Initial Game

By SHARI LEWIS

Here's the Kids-Only Official Initial Game. You can play it with another kid right now. Here's how:

You put your initial into one box, and then your friend puts his initial in another box. The idea of the game is to get four of your own initialed boxes next to one another in any straight line-up and down, side to side or on the diagonal. Obviously, the secret is to block the other person when he gets close to winning.

If you get hooked on the Official Initial Game and want to play it again and again, just get a pencil and a ruler, and go to it! Draw a big square. Inside the square, draw nine lines up and down and nine lines across, evenly spaced. You now have 100 boxes inside your square, and you're ready to play!

TODAY'S BRAIN TWISTER: Which American state has the greatest number of lakes? (Look for the answer in tomorrow's Kids-Only Club column.)

Secretary's Son Missing

BOSTON (AP) — The son of Rosalynn Carter's press secretary is one of five men missing after a lobster trawler capsized and apparently sank 45 miles southeast of Montauk on Long Island, N.Y.

The White House Press Office confirmed Sunday that Steven Hoyt of Narragansett, R.I., was aboard the Lobsta I, which was sighted overturned Saturday by a Greek tanker and a Coast Guard helicopter.

Hoyt is the son of Mary Finch Hoyt, press secretary to Mrs. Carter.

Coast Guard officials said a search by helicopters and surface craft would resume today. Handrigan identified the other crewmen as David Patty and Stephen Stickley, both of South Kingston, R.I., Bradford Williams of Jamestown, R.I., and Nigel Allan of Narragansett, R.I.

Miss Lillian Joins Celebration

NEW YORK (AP) — National "Grandparents Day" was officially celebrated two weeks ago, but a weekend tribute to grandfathers and grandmothers here proved a natural for politicians.

The cast: the nation's "First Grandmother" and the state's "First Grandfather" — Lillian Carter and New York Gov. Hugh Carey.

They were among nearly 10,000 great-grandparents, grandparents and grandchildren who turned out for a celebration in the Bronx.

Mrs. Carter, grandmother of 15, great-grandmother of four and mother of the president, turned aside a question on her favorite grandchild. "All 15," she said. "You know we don't have any favorites."

And Carey, who is campaigning for re-election and a grandfather of two, father of 12, said: "Try it. You'll like it. It's good being a grandparent."

Horowitz Wows Crowd

NEW YORK (AP) — It's almost getting to be a habit. Famed pianist Vladimir Horowitz rarely performed between 1953 and 1978, and when he did, it was always solo.

Then he broke with his own tradition, performing with the New York Philharmonic in January.

Sunday, 74-year-old Horowitz was back with the Philharmonic — playing Rachmaninoff's "Third Piano Concerto." His hour-long portion of the concert, a fund-raiser that drew a sell-out crowd, many at $100 a seat, was televised by NBC.

And the audience loved him. Besides the expected standing ovation, he finished to whistles.

Ali Turns Actor

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Muhammad Ali has always been quick with a one-liner or a poem. But he's set aside a week to learn his lines for "Freedom Road," a television movie.

Ali, who regained his heavyweight championship Sept. 15, arrives in Mississippi tonight to begin learning his lines. He'll play a former slave who returns to the plantation after the Civil War.

Filming for the TV movie, to be aired on NBC, begins Oct. 2. Ali isn't expected to get around much during his first week in Mississippi. "He is going to be kind of cloistered for the week, learning his lines," said Dennis Jones, production manager.

Tonic Helps Cosmonauts

MOSCOW (AP) — An herbal tonic has helped two Soviet cosmonauts become the first men to spend more than 100 days orbiting the Earth.

A Soviet doctor monitoring the condition of Vladimir Kovalenok and Alexander Ivanchenkov said officials were "fully satisfied" with the health of the two men.

Dr. Nikolai Gurovsky said the cosmonauts, who passed the 100-day mark Sunday, seldom use the first-aid kit aboard the their Salyut 6 space station.

They prefer "cleutherococcus," Gurovsky said, explaining the drink is an herbal tonic that "combines good food and medicinal qualities."

No Pets

DETROIT (AP) — Glenn and Kathy Latinen, married just four months, have already arrived at one strict rule: No Pets.

But then, he works with with Siberian tigers and she copes with snakes all day.

They have jobs at the Detroit Zoo, the first husband-wife team in the zoo's 50-year history.

"We seldom see each other at work ... but we're both outdoor types," said Mrs. Latinen.

But out of the cage and at home, the no pets rule prevails.

"We have so many animals to care for here, we just don't have enough time at home," said Latinen.

STELLA TAYLOR

DIANA NYAD

Stella Taylor Plans To Try Swim Again

MIAMI (AP) — In August, they challenged the sea and failed.

For 46-year-old Stella Taylor, failure spelled a brief rest and more training for a second try at swimming the 100-mile stretch between the Bahamas and Florida.

For 29-year-old Diana Nyad, it means a break from swimming with no promise of an immediate second attempt at the 103-mile Cuba-to-Florida crossing.

"I couldn't go through the mental torture of waiting another nine months until May or June until the cold fronts have ended in the Gulf Stream," Miss Taylor said.

The veteran stunt swimmer plans to leave from Orange Cay on Saturday, aiming for landfall at Fort Lauderdale within 30 to 40 hours. As in August, she will use neither flotation devices nor a shark cage.

On Miss Taylor's last swim, one of her trainers shot a shark that was observing her progress at an unhealthy proximity.

Last time, Miss Taylor got within 10 miles of shore before the unpredictable currents pushed her far off course.

"It's a tiny bit more mental this time because I know what I have to go through," said Miss Taylor. "I've got to make it to shore. No one is taking me out of the water this time."

Both women began their swims Aug. 13, and both left the sea — defeated — two days later, unable to continue.

Miss Taylor, who came to the United States from England after deciding not to take her final vows as a Roman Catholic nun, made her swim on an austere budget and with little show.

Miss Nyad, an extroverted New York author and veteran marathon swimmer, drew more notice. Her swim, widely publicized in advance, was delayed several times from its original early July date.

She raised some $150,000 from several corporations and news organizations for the swim, and once blurted her hope that the effort would "set me up for the rest of my life."

Nearly all the money was spent: going for a $65,000 shark cage, and accommodations in Cuba for Miss Nyad's trainers and navigators, spokeswoman Marcie Rudell said.

"Her financial situation is this: we have not been able to pay all the salaries yet, nor all the expenses," said Miss Rudell.

"She has not endorsed any products. The Colgate-Palmolive company had made a three-year deal with her (reported at over $100,000) in return for her appearing at several seminars for Colgate every year. The first year of that already went for paying swim expenses."

The spokeswoman said Miss Nyad has postponed any discussion of future contracts until she decides what she wants to do next — swim, write or whatever. Miss Nyad says she is at a crossroads in her life.

An expert squash player, she is training for tryouts for the U.S. national team and promoting her autobiographical book, "Other Shores."

The shark cage is stored in southern Florida, and Miss Nyad is not ruling out another try at a spot in history next summer.

"I wouldn't surprise myself if I tried that Cuban swim again because I didn't finish it," she said recently.

Capital Subway Extends Hours

WASHINGTON (AP) — The capital's subway system, until now basically a daytime commuter service, today extended its hours of operation until midnight and will introduce Saturday service on Sept. 30.

The rail network has been operating from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday since its first segment was opened in March 1976.

Weekday hours now will be 6 a.m. to midnight and Saturday service will run from 8 a.m. until midnight. Officials of the Metropolitan Washington Area Transit Authority say Sunday service is at least a year away.

Doctor Delivers Baby From Dead Mother

CARDIFF, Wales (UPI) — Dr. Jane Steiner knew she had minutes — maybe only seconds — to bring a live baby out of the womb of its dead mother, killed a half-hour earlier in a bicycle-truck collision.

The 4-pound, 5-ounce infant won the race between life and death. She was in "poor but not critical" condition today at the special care baby unit of the Royal Infirmary.

The emergency Caesarean section operation — the first the 25-year-old physician had ever performed — took only 30 seconds Friday night. Without surgery the fetus would have suffocated.

After the operation, Dr. Steiner said, she went to her room and wept. "There was no time to panic or to think of the operation," she said. "I had to do it instantly or the baby would have died ... It was such a heartbreaking and tragic case."

The child's father, Colin Brown, a 21-year-old bakery worker, has named his daughter Louise Ann Karen Jane. Louise Ann because his wife chose it; Karen for his dead 19-year-old wife, and Jane for Jane Steiner.

Connecticut Youths Back In Classrooms

By The Associated Press
More than 22,500 students returned to class today in Bridgeport, Conn., as a 19-day strike by public school teachers ended with both sides approving a two-year contract proposed by the state labor commissioner.

The Bridgeport City Council voted overwhelmingly to accept Commissioner Peter Reilly's proposals Sunday night, minutes after more than 260 jailed teachers were freed from a National Guard camp where they were held for violating a judge's back-to-work order.

The new contract was unanimously approved earlier Sunday by the city's Board of Education after the teachers voted 686-205 to accept the settlement, although they were unaware of its recommendations.

The two-year contract contains a 6 percent wage increase plus increments in the first year and a 7.5 percent pay raise including increments for the second year. The agreement also includes a "no reprisals clause" for strike participants.

Reilly kept both sides in talks for 16 hours that ended about 6 a.m. Sunday, said Ellen Wisser, vice president of the Bridgeport Education Association.

The district, which has 55,000 students, has offered a 5.6 percent pay raise, with another 2.5 percent boost in increments. The Seattle Teachers Association wants an 8.4 percent cost-of-living raise and a 2.3 percent increase in increments.

Giscard's Coalition Defeated

PARIS (UPI) — President Valery Giscard's center-right coalition, plagued by growing unemployment, inflation and an unpopular policy of trying to hold down wages as well as prices, suffered a severe setback today by losing one key by-election and doing poorly in the first round of a second contest.

The duck slide, with downy ducklings climbing a ladder, reaching for food and zipping down the slide into the water to the end of the line, came into its own again with even more popularity.
An all-time favorite, the Baby Chick Midway, has lost none of its crowd-stopping appeal. Tiny tots cling to the wire as long as 4-H attendants would bring a chick over to be petted, one at a time with a change of chick often to keep the just-hatched biddies from harm.

The loss posed no threat to Giscard's parliamentary majority, which holds an edge of 83 in the 491-seat National Assembly. Nor does it necessarily spell doom for Giscard in the next legislative elections which are not due until 1983 unless Giscard himself calls a vote sooner. But it was a distinct embarrassment to the government.

About everything, including two lambs added Sunday to fill an empty pen, was as pretty as the speckled pups doing nothing to please adoring fans except fight for a place at mother's dinner table.

In the 18th electoral district of Paris, Gaullist Christian de la Malene, who has represented the area in the National Assembly for the past 29 years, won only 39.25 percent of the vote in the first round of balloting and was forced into a tight runoff next Sunday against the Socialist candidate Edwige Avice.

Handwriting Analysts Say Signatures Same

WASHINGTON (AP) — Handwriting analysts found no evidence supporting the theory that Lee Harvey Oswald had an imposter who either framed him or helped him in the assassination of President Kennedy, the House assassinations committee was told today.

The letter asked for "information concerning my position" and suggested "we discuss the matter fully before any steps are taken by me or anyone else."

Handwriting expert Joseph P. McNally of New York City said the panel studied 43 samples purportedly written by Oswald and determined that all but one "were written by one and the same individual."

Conspiracy theorists say the letter points to an assassination plot against Kennedy.
McNally said the analysts could reach no firm conclusion about the letter writer because of the fuzziness of the photocopy. The original has never been found. The copy turned up when it was mailed anonymously to the author of a book on the Kennedy case in 1975.

President Hears Vance's Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance returned home today, conceding that his five-day Mideast trip had produced no tangible results in President Carter's bid to gain Arab support for the Camp David peace accords.

lieve to be genuinely undecided about the accords.
Hussein said after Vance's visit that he will not join the peace process unless the terms of the agreements are modified to guarantee Israeli withdrawal from the West Bank of the Jordan River and Arab East Jerusalem.

That assessment was a far cry from the ringing send-off he received from Carter, who told a cheering joint session of Congress last week that he was sending Vance to Arab leaders "to secure their support for the realization of the new hopes and dreams of the people of the Middle East."

Other risks to Hussein include the threat of guerrilla warfare from Palestinians, who comprise more than half of Jordan's population.
The Camp David agreements, signed Sept. 17 by Carter, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, spell out terms for an overall Mideast peace and a separate pact between Egypt and Israel.

Vance's final stop was Sunday in Damascus, where he met for four hours with Syrian President Hafez Assad. Afterwards, a senior American official, who declined to be identified, said the talks gave no encouragement that Assad would change his views.
Assad, a leader in the so-called Rejectionist Front, has called the accords "treasonous" because they do not guarantee complete Israeli withdrawal from territories occupied in 1967.

Reliable sources said Begin argued "forcefully" in an eight-hour cabinet session Sunday for approval of the Camp David framework for an Arab-Israeli peace agreement, a unilateral accord with Egypt and the decision to give up the Sinai outposts if a peace treaty is signed with Egypt. Eleven ministers backed the plan, two opposed it, one abstained and three declined to vote without party authorization. One minister was absent. Both opponents were members of Begin's own conservative Likud Party.

Teachers in the 14,500-student system are holding out for an 18 percent annual pay raise over a three-year period and reduced workloads. The board has offered a 14.5 percent increase.

Israel's parliament was to open debate today on the accords and the key proviso that Israel abandon its 18 Sinai settlements. The vote will come Wednesday and success is virtually assured following endorsement by the Cabinet and the chief opposition party.
An affirmative vote in the Knesset will clear the way for final negotiations to end 30 years of war and uneasy truce between Israel and Egypt. A negative vote will nullify the Camp David agreements.

UW Campaign Slated To Open Tuesday

United Way campaign leaders will launch what they term "Lubbock's Number One Job" at noon Tuesday at Memorial Civic Center.

It's the public kickoff of the 1978 United Way campaign, the 33rd time the local organization has asked the community to support a federated drive for multiple agencies and services.

This year's campaign, headed by Chairman Don Douglass and Vice Chairman Joe Price, has a goal of $1,682,369 to provide support for 34 agencies.

The kickoff luncheon at the civic center will see most of Lubbock's civic and service clubs gathering there rather than at their regular weekly meetings. UW leaders added that the luncheon is for the entire community, not just civic clubs, and that tickets will be available at the door for $4 each.

Charles Peebler, chairman of the board and president of Bozell and Jacobs, Inc., an international advertising agency, will be featured speaker at the luncheon.

In addition, the audience will see a "United Way Portrait" presented by the Five Flames, high school representatives selected by their schools as hostesses for the campaign kickoff and report meetings.

This year's Flames are Loretta Alvarado, Lubbock High School; Cynthia Dailey, Estacado; Trina Foster, Dunbar-Struggs; Robin Igo, Monterey; and Kathleen Kindred, Coronado.

The Dunbar-Struggs marching band, under the direction of Mike Cantwell, will provide special music.

Boy Scout Troop 406, sponsored by St. John's United Methodist Church, will present the colors for the national anthem. The Rev. Bob Utley of Trinity Baptist Church will give the invocation.

Table decorations are to be provided by Guadalupe and Parkway Neighborhood Centers.

Lengthy Chess Contest Ends In Draw

BAGUIO CITY, Philippines (AP) — Anatoly Karpov and Viktor Korchnoi battled to a draw Sunday in the 25th game of their duel for the world chess championship.

Karpov, the 27-year-old Soviet champion, holds a 4-games-to-2 advantage over Korchnoi, a 47-year-old Russian defector. The first player to win six games in the open-ended tournament will win the title and a $350,000 prize. The loser gets $200,000. Drawn games do not count in the scoring.

The 25th game was begun Saturday and adjourned after 41 moves. Korchnoi offered the draw Sunday after the 80th move.

It was the second longest game of the series, which began in July. The longest game so far was the fifth, which ended in a draw after 124 moves.

Following is the move-by-move play in the 25th game.

Armed Bandits Rob Local Radio Shop

Two men robbed a 34th Street radio supply shop shortly after it opened at 10 a.m. today, making off with about $115.

Joe Hart, manager of the Radio Shack at 1918 34th St., told police the men entered the store soon after he opened, and that one of the suspects flashed a .22 caliber pistol and demanded money.

After taking the loot, police said, the suspects fled the store northwest on foot, leaving behind a van parked behind the shop.

The late-model van, according to police, had been reported stolen from a Lubbock car dealership.

Darla Fisher, a secretary for Globe Life and Accident Insurance located next to Radio Shack, said the suspects came into her office shortly after 10 a.m. and asked when Hart opens the radio shop.

Mrs. Fisher said one of the suspects, a big black man with a bushy afro — possibly a wig — came in and asked her "What time does Radio Shack open?" She said she told the man about 10 a.m. and he replied, "Well, I guess I'll just have to wait."

Rubber Pump Eyed For Heart Patients

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A synthetic rubber developed for use on tire sidewalls is the key component of a pump being designed for people with previously irreparable heart damage.

Scientists at the Cleveland Clinic are developing the pump using a diaphragm made of hexsyn, a rubber discovered by Goodyear Tire researchers. The device is expected to be ready within three years.

The pump would take over the work of the heart's left ventricle in pumping blood to the body while the right ventricle continued to carry blood to the lungs. In tests, Hexsyn has withstood 300 million flexes without failure.

Several minutes later, Mrs. Fisher said, Hart came into the insurance and said, "Hi, I just got held up. Can I wait here until the police come?"

Police today were looking for two black men, in their early 20s. One of the suspects was said to be a tall, heavy man with an afro, and the other man was described as about 5 feet, 8 inches tall.

Four Injured In Accident

An eight-months-pregnant woman was critically injured about 11 a.m. today and three other persons were hospitalized in a two-car accident on the Clovis Highway about two miles west of the city limits.

The collision on rain-slick streets at the intersection of U.S. Highway 84 and F.M. 2528 sent the pregnant woman, Josefina Aldaco Revelle, 27, of Anton to Health Sciences Center Hospital where she was believed to be in critical condition.

The woman's 4-year-old son, Michael, and brother-in-law, Orville Revelle, 29, also of Anton, were also taken to Health Sciences Hospital. They were in undetermined condition at 1 p.m. today. All three persons were occupants of the car driven by Mrs. Revelle.

Madge Williamson, 77, of Clovis, N.M., was the lone occupant of the other vehicle. She was taken to St. Mary's Hospital where she also was in undetermined condition early today.

According to the Department of Public Safety, Mrs. Williamson was traveling north on F.M. 2528 and crossing the highway, and Mrs. Revelle was east-bound on U.S. 84 when the two vehicles collided.

A DAILY MESSAGE FROM The Newspaper Bible.

Luke 1: 47-48, The Living Bible

47 How I rejoice in God my Saviour!
48 For He took notice of His lowly servant girl, and now generation after generation forever shall call me blessed of God.

49 For He, the mighty Holy One, has done great things to me.
50 His mercy goes on from generation to generation, to all who reverence Him.

51 How powerful is His mighty arm! How He scatters the proud and haughty ones!
52 He has torn princes from their thrones and exalted the lowly.
53 He has satisfied the hungry hearts and sent the rich away with empty hands.

54 And how He has helped His servant Israel! He has not forgotten His promise to be merciful.

55 For He promised our fathers—Abraham and his children—to be merciful to them forever.
56 Mary stayed with Elizabeth about three months and then went back to her own home.
57 By now Elizabeth's waiting was over, for the time had come for the baby to be born—and it was a boy.
58 The word spread quickly to her neighbors and relatives of how kind the Lord has been to her, and everyone rejoiced.

59 When the baby was eight days old, all the relatives and friends came for the circumcision ceremony. They all assumed the baby's name would be Zacharias, after his father.
60 But Elizabeth said, "Not! He must be named John!"
61 "What?" they exclaimed. "There is no one in all your family by that name."
62 So they asked the baby's father, talking to him by gestures.
63 He motioned for a piece of paper and to everyone's surprise wrote, "His name is JOHN!"
64 Instantly Zacharias could speak again, and he began praising God.
65 Wonder fell upon the whole neighborhood, and the news of what had happened spread through the Judean hills.
66 And everyone who heard about it thought long thoughts and asked, "I wonder what this child will turn out to be? For the hand of the Lord is surely upon him in some special way."
67 Then his father Zacharias was filled with the Holy Spirit and gave this prophecy:
68 "Praise the Lord, the God of Israel, for He has come to visit His people and has redeemed them."

Crime Rate Low In China

By C.C. MINICLIER
SHANGHAI, China (AP) — Foreigners are apt to come away with the impression there is no crime in China. It is virtually impossible to leave anything behind in a hotel, on a train, plane or car without having it brought to you at your next stop. Cash, cameras and other valuables left in a hotel room while you are out are there when you get back. In contrast to many countries, China has little crime but it is an optical illusion to conclude there is no crime at all, as some foreigners may come away believing. "We take care of our overseas friends," explained Chang Ting-chuan of Hsinhua, the national news agency, when questioned about all this. He explained that several years ago someone attacked a foreign visitor near a Peking hotel. The foreigner was not killed, but his assailant was executed as an example, Chang said.

Other Chinese say the biggest crime is theft, with money usually the object. A strong peer group and tight communities make the sale of stolen goods difficult, if not impossible, they add. Steel bars, or wooden slats, are frequently seen on ground-floor windows in the countryside and in such cities as Shanghai, Kweilin and Sian, as well as the steel center of Anshan. High walls around factories and communes sometimes have glass shards atop them to discourage trespassers. Virtually all of China's several hundred million bicycles have locks and most Chinese travelers lock their luggage. Traffic police, who wear white uniforms, do not carry guns and private citizens are not permitted to have handguns, although some may have hunting rifles after obtaining a permit. Regulations and decrees, rather than massive volumes of printed and tested laws, govern China. The only two published laws deal with divorce and land reform. A uniform code is now being drawn up. But justice is swift. In cases of murder the convicted felon is usually executed, officials say. Repeated offenders of lesser crimes, such as theft, may serve sentences of several years in high-walled prisons, where they work in prison factories. First offenders who commit minor crimes are usually given lectures in hope of re-educating them. School children who write on walls may be required to whitewash the walls and are publicly ridiculed.

Traffic policemen also serve as safety lecturers, judges and juries. This writer witnessed an accident in which a car and a bicycle had collided at a city intersection. The policeman summoned the bicyclist and the car driver to his traffic tower. A Chinese witness said the policeman likely would find them both at fault and give them a lecture. The witness explained that traffic regulations require motor vehicle drivers to avoid bicycles and bicyclists to avoid motor vehicles. In this case, both regulations apparently had been broken.

The burning itch and pain caused by infection and inflammation in hemorrhoidal tissues can cause much suffering. Russian Says Dallas' Beauty Hides Inequities, Violations

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet television commentator described Dallas as an impressive city of breathtaking views but said its natural beauty was a facade hiding social inequities and great wealth, genius and crime, mysteries and violations of human rights.

Valentin Zorin started his hour-long documentary on Dallas and the assassination of President Kennedy there by quoting American author Warren Leslie's advice that those who go to Dallas should always try to arrive at sunset.

"All of a sudden on a flat barren plain like a mirage in a desert appear the outlines of a big city," Zorin said. "Since the air in the Southwest is always crisp and clean, the traveler gasps at the breathtaking sight — the reflection of the sunset on the windows recalls the colors of Matisse. It's very impressive."

The buildings change their colors like a rainbow, Zorin continued, but many things are hidden behind the colors — "mysteries and violations of human rights, genius and crime, inequities and riches and bright hopes for a better future."

The film then showed preparations for a cocktail party at the home of oilman Lamar Hunt. Zorin said an orchestra was flown down from Washington and among the prominent guests "who own oil rigs, ranches, banks and department stores... one should look for the answer to the secret riddle of Dallas," who killed Kennedy.

Zorin contended that the assassination was a conspiracy involving more than one gunman, that Lee Harvey Oswald was a "fall guy" whose bullets from the book depository window could not have hit Kennedy, that the alleged conspiracy was linked to Hunt's father, the late billionaire H.L. Hunt, and that "persons from the CIA and FBI" were involved.

Jim Oberwetter, a spokesman for the Hunt family in Dallas, said he toured Dallas for two hours with the Soviet commentator, "and he never mentioned any conspiracy to me."

Oberwetter called on Zorin to turn over any information he may have to the House of Representatives committee investigating the assassinations of Kennedy and Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

"We state categorically that his allegations are more than ridiculous. They are ludicrous," he said. "I reckon it's fair to say he didn't return our Texas hospitality very nicely."

Zorin made no mention of Oswald's living for several years in the Soviet Union and his attempts to visit Cuba.

The Warren Commission concluded that Oswald killed Kennedy and that he acted alone.

Water Supply Study Slated

WASHINGTON (Special) — Senator Lloyd Bentsen announced today he has been advised that the Economic Development Administration will launch a $6 million study to examine the problem of dwindling water supply in the six-state High Plains region, which includes the Texas Panhandle and South Plains.

The 42-month study will examine such things as options for increasing the availability of water and the impact of reduced agricultural productivity due to reduced water supply.

Camp, Dresser and McKee, Inc. of Austin will serve as the lead firm in the program and provide management for a consortium of consulting firms to be selected through competitive bidding. The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will also be involved.

The EDA will provide $2 million for state activities, $775,000 for the Corps of Engineers and $3.22 million for services to be performed by the general contractor.

Victim's Screams Frighten Attacker

A Lubbock woman said she had returned home from work about 11:45 p.m. Sunday when she was attacked by a man who tried to take her purse.

Billie T. Evans of 4519 65th St., No. 124, said the suspect hit her on the head with what appeared to be a billy club. She said her screams scared the man off before he could take her purse.

A witness said he saw the black suspect running east from the apartments. Mrs. Evans was taken to West Texas Hospital where she was treated for a cut on the head and released.

In another reported assault, Natividad Garcia, 32, of 2706 E. Seventh St. said two men kicked open her door about 2 a.m. today and pulled her out of bed. She said one of the suspects hit her in the head with a tire tool.

The woman, who was treated and released at Methodist Hospital for minor head injuries, said the suspects also slashed the tires on her car, which was parked in her driveway.

Police Sunday discovered more than 10 pounds of marijuana contained in luggage at Lubbock International Airport, and several hours later, arrested an 18-year-old man who claimed the two suitcases at the airport, according to reports.

Police said the man was arrested about 7:30 p.m. Sunday when he was leaving the airport. The suspect told police he was picking up the suitcases for another person.

Reports show that a 48-year-old man was picked up about 12:05 a.m. today in the 3000-block of Avenue A after police watched him weaving along the road in his car.

Police told the man, suspected of driving while intoxicated, that he was under arrest and the suspect replied: "I can't be. I wasn't even driving." However, he was the only person in the car.

When an 18-year-old man reportedly relieved himself in front of a restaurant in the 1600-block of University Avenue about 2:30 a.m. today, he apparently didn't know a policeman was watching from inside the eating place.

The man was arrested and transferred to the county jail for allegedly causing a disturbance by exposing himself.

Josephine Garza Custalanda of 1615 43rd St. said someone broke into her house about 12:45 p.m. Sunday and stole $50 in jewelry, silverware, a radio and television set.

Two young men were booked into Lubbock County Jail Sunday in connection with a shooting incident earlier that day, in which one man was shot in the neck and six others suffered pellet wounds from BBs.

Alex Mojica, 19, of 2803 Auburn St., Sunday was in good condition at St. Mary's Hospital with a bullet wound in the neck. He also suffered pellet wounds to his right eye, right nostril, left chest and right hand.

Along with Mojica, EMS also transported three 17-year-old men to St. Mary's, where they were later treated and released for pellet wounds. The other three men were treated at St. Mary's and released.

The victims told police they had been standing in the 400 block of North Hartford at about 3:30 a.m. when they heard

PLANE CRASH — Rescue workers look over the private company plane that crashed Sunday near Hobby Airport in Houston. The plane, carrying 18 passengers and a crew of three,

One Injured In Plane Crash

HOUSTON (AP) — One man was critically hurt but 18 others escaped serious injury Sunday afternoon when a twin-engine, propeller aircraft crashed near Hobby Airport after both engines failed.

The plane, a Gruman Gulf Stream 1 owned by Continental Oil Co., plunged to the ground about a half mile southeast of the airport as it battled to regain altitude following an unsuccessful landing attempt.

A.M. Winham, Houston area coordinator for the Federal Aviation Administration, said one of the plane's engines had malfunctioned just before reaching Hobby from Ponca City, Okla., where its flight originated.

Winham said the second engine apparently failed after the pilot gave it full power during the aborted landing.

Passenger Scott Cranford, 25, of Ponca City, was struck in the torso by a fence post that crashed through a window of the plane as it slid sideways to a rest in a corral at stable near the airport, said R.H. Le Moing, a Houston district fire chief.

Cranford was listed in critical condition with chest and abdominal injuries at Hermann Hospital late Sunday.

Conoco spokesman Al Amsden said the passengers were bound for an in-house management training program in Houston.

PERSONAL TOUCH — A number of ideas were used to personalize this master bedroom. One way of gaining extra space and provide an attractive setting was to place a triple dresser at the foot of the bed and adhere the same material as the bedspread to the back. The same material was used as a collage on the mirror. A flip-top sewing counter was added to the center of the dresser facing away from the bed. Expandable hooks were placed on the wall for added storage space.

Fair Highlights:

Women's Division Volunteers Enjoy Fair Accomplishments

By JANICE JARVIS
Family News Staff

When Vicki Nesbitt leaves the fair, she takes home more than a blue ribbon, a stuffed pink bear or cotton candy.

The excitement of the fair just can't compete with the pride of entering something in the Women's Division, according to Mrs. Nesbitt, a volunteer worker in the knitting and crocheting category of the Panhandle South Plains Fair.

"If you win something in the fair, you've accomplished a great deal," explained Mrs. Nesbitt. "Competition among entries is fierce, and just having an entry displayed is something to be proud of."

Sue MacAllister, who has worked as a volunteer in the Women's Division also mentioned that feeling of pride.

"Winning the money isn't as important as just having something on display for others to see," she said.

For Mrs. Nesbitt, who practically grew up around the fair, part of the enjoyment of the fair is meeting new people every year.

"I really like the association with other women," she said. "Some of the people who enter the fair each year I've known since childhood."

Mrs. MacAllister said the fair is sometimes the only place where friends see each other.

Both women said they have watched the fair grow over the years.

"As the fair has gotten bigger, the entries are getting better as well," said Mrs. Nesbitt. "Not only is the quality of entries improving, but people have become more creative in their works."

"It used to be that people always entered the same pattern year after year," noted Mrs. Nesbitt. Now people are designing their own quilts and using new techniques to add a more creative touch, she explained.

"There's one person who always enters a quilt with a different theme," noted Mrs. Nesbitt. Among her favorites have been a quilt of the astronauts and a quilt of the woman's family history.

One of the advantages to working during the fair is the opportunity to talk with many of the contestants, said Mrs. Nesbitt. An interest in handiwork seems to be on the upswing, and many younger women are taking a real interest in crafts, she said.

In fact, according to Mrs. Nesbitt, Lubbock residents seem to be taking a greater interest in the fair than ever before.

"Lubbock has more participation and interest than I've seen anywhere," Mrs. Nesbitt said. "The fair is a family thing, and people come from miles around just to be here."

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: We are three married sisters deeply concerned about our mother who, up until a few months ago, was a normal, healthy mother and a loving grandmother.

Mother got involved with a weird religious cult, and now she's taking part in voodoo rites. She gave them $5,000 to make her a "saint." They locked her in a house for seven days and nights with another "saint" who is her "Godmother."

She went through a ritual during which her head was shaved, and chickens and doves were sacrificed and their blood poured over her body. For a year she must wear a white turban, support her "Godmother Saint," and get permission before going anywhere. Mother now actually believes that she has power to cure, curse and kill!

Her lovely home has become filthy — cluttered with candles and all sorts of ceremonial paraphernalia. She hangs up the phone when we try to reason with her, and says if we can't accept her new religion we can all drop dead. She vows she will never give up her religion even if it means never seeing her children or grandchildren again.

The police know all about this cult, but they say they can't do anything about it because our mother joined it of her own free will. Her doctor says she definitely needs psychiatric treatment, but we can't get a psychiatrist to commit her.

Meanwhile, our lawyer says that he is powerless to act without a psychiatrist's affidavit.

Please help us.

WAITING IN NEW JERSEY

Dear Waiting: Even though your mother insists that she chose this "religion" of her own free will, she obviously was influenced by some kind of mind-control such as hypnotism or brainwashing.

The fact that your mother paid $5,000 to become a "saint" and now claims powers to cure, curse and kill is clear evidence that she is a very sick woman.

You need a lawyer and a psychiatrist who will work together in an effort to get your mother deprogrammed and restored to normalcy. Don't give up!

DEAR ABBY: Some weeks ago you ran a letter from a lady who claimed flatly that everyone in the world knows the Swiss to be closer with a centime, tighter with a token, if you please, than any other people. That statement has rankled me ever since.

As one whose ancestors wore the tartans and kilts, I take umbrage at her claim, for the whole world knows that the canny Scots are the most penurious people in the world.

As a matter of fact, 'tis common ken here in bonnie Arizona that the Grand Canyon was dug in a fortnight when my maternal great-great-grandfather, Pedro Gonzales McLeod (Pronounced

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

About ten years ago, a couple of boys were looking for a "snap course." They infiltrated a home ec. class.

It became so popular throughout the country special classes were formed and named "Bachelor Survival." In the past three years, the male enrollment has not only doubled, but in some high schools the males outnumber the females at the stoves.

What impact has this new breed had on our life styles?

I'll tell you what impact it's had. This country is producing (at an astronomical rate) what women who live in the kitchen refer to as "Domestic Jocks."

They're the Super Stars of the souffles...the dazzlers of the micro waves...the weekend headliners at the outdoor grills.

But they're stars. They don't do pans, spots, stains or ovens. They don't touch charcoal, dripping beaters, dirty blenders or skillets that have to be soaked. When they cook, it's first class all the way — fresh garlic, fresh lemons, fresh parsley and fresh mushrooms.

My husband never cooks out that I don't feel like I am assisting a surgeon at a double valve by-pass.

"Tongs! Quick! The tongs!" he commands. (I slap them professionally in his hands.)

"Good Lord, woman, I'm not plucking a baby bottle out of the water. I need tongs for steaks."

Next, "The pepper mill. Wipe." I press a dish towel to his forehead.

"Not the prescription, you turkey — the sauce from my cute apron."

After hours of intense concentration, the Domestic Jock speaks. "Are the plates and forks for the salad chilled? Good. The potatoes done? The vegetables cooked just to the peak of flavor? Good. You sprayed for bugs? Fine. Because we are ready to eat...NOW!"

No warning. No time to socialize. No second drink.

Just like that. When he says the steaks are done, we are expected to have our forks poised for the first bite.

The other night he wandered into the kitchen, peered off his asbestos mittens and threw them into the clothes hamper. "Well, I pulled another one through," he said. I looked at the kitchen sink, piled high with dirty pots, pans and dishes, the countertop with melted butter, dirty utensils, leftover rolls and wilted salad. The grill was corroded with barbecue sauce.

"Next weekend I think I'll do my knob number on the grill."

I gave him a fatal ovation.

Mrs. Charles Henley's True Story
Diet pills, home exercise machines, bike riding—I'd tried everything I'd ever heard about to lose weight, but I still looked like I was about to have twins.
Not that I was expecting, it's just that I'd always had a problem with weight around my middle, and nothing seemed to help.

I heard about Pat Walker's from a friend, and even though it meant driving 80 miles round trip to the salon closest to my country home in Waller, I decided to do it. Two or three times a week I made the trip to have a treatment on Pat Walker's passive exercise unit, and to talk with my counselors about my progress.

I didn't even have to change out of my regular clothes, since the unit does all the work. You simply relax in a nice, private treatment room, and enjoy it.

When I started going to Pat Walker's, I weighed 150 pounds, and wore a size 15. Today, I weigh 111 pounds and wear a size 5. My waist measurement has gone from 32½ to 25—not bad for a 42-year-old!

My husband and my son are so pleased, and that's very important to me. Although I love being a country housewife, and doing my own gardening and canning, I do want to look good—for myself and my family.

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠K92 ♥J65 ♦K104 ♣10952
The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1♥ Pass 1NT Pass 2♣ Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—While your holdings in partner's suit are of equal length, partner's first suit is longer than his second—that is an essential condition of a reverse bid. Despite your opinion response, you owe partner the courtesy of returning to his first-bid suit, so bid three hearts.

Q.2—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠10952 ♥83 ♦AJ7 ♣Q962
The bidding has proceeded: West North East South 1♦ Dble. 1♥ ?
What action do you take?
A.—Opposite a takeout double, you have quite a useful hand, so we would compete with one spade. Don't worry about the fact that it is a weak four-card suit—in effect, you are supporting partner's suit. If you don't show your values now, by the time the auction gets back to you you might have to act at an uncomfortable level.

Q.3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K ♥AJ1095 ♦A82 ♣AKQ104
The bidding has proceeded: South West North East 1♦ Pass 1♦ Pass 2♥ Pass 3♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Since you could easily have a slam, it would be pusillanimous indeed to bid a mere four hearts. However, you are not quite strong enough to bid beyond game on your own. You can alert partner to your ambitions by cue-bidding your ace of diamonds now, which also strongly suggests that you have a singleton spade. If partner can do no more than return to four hearts, accept his decision.

Q.4—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠7 ♥KJ4 ♦AKJ10874 ♣94
The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1♦ Pass 2♦ Pass 2♣ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Some strong bid by you is clearly indicated, so we would not fault you too severely if you elected to jump to four diamonds. That bid, however, has one drawback—it takes you beyond three no trump, which might be your only makeable game. We suggest a slightly fancy reverse of three hearts. If partner bids three no trump,

GOREN ON BRIDGE

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠K762 ♥J1053 ♦Q1063 ♣K
The bidding has proceeded: West North East South 1♦ Dble. 1♥ 1♦ Pass 1NT Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—By first doubling and then bidding no trump, partner has shown a hand that was too strong for a one no trump overcall. Therefore, he must have 19-20 points, and you have 9, with stoppers in the enemy suits to bolster partner's holding. We vote for three no trump.

Q.6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AQ76 ♥954 ♦A4 ♣8643
The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1♦ Pass 1♦ Pass 1NT Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—Since partner can have no more than 15 points, even if he is maximum you have only 25 points in the combined holdings and no suit to develop. There's no point in making a move toward game. Pass.

Q.7—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AJ83 ♥A74 643 ♦AJ103
The bidding has proceeded: South West North East 1♦ Pass 1♦ Pass 1♦ Pass 2♦ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Just continue to describe your hand. Partner has offered you a choice of two suits, and you have a distinct preference for his first-bid suit. Simply bid two hearts. Despite your three aces, you still have a minimum opening bid.

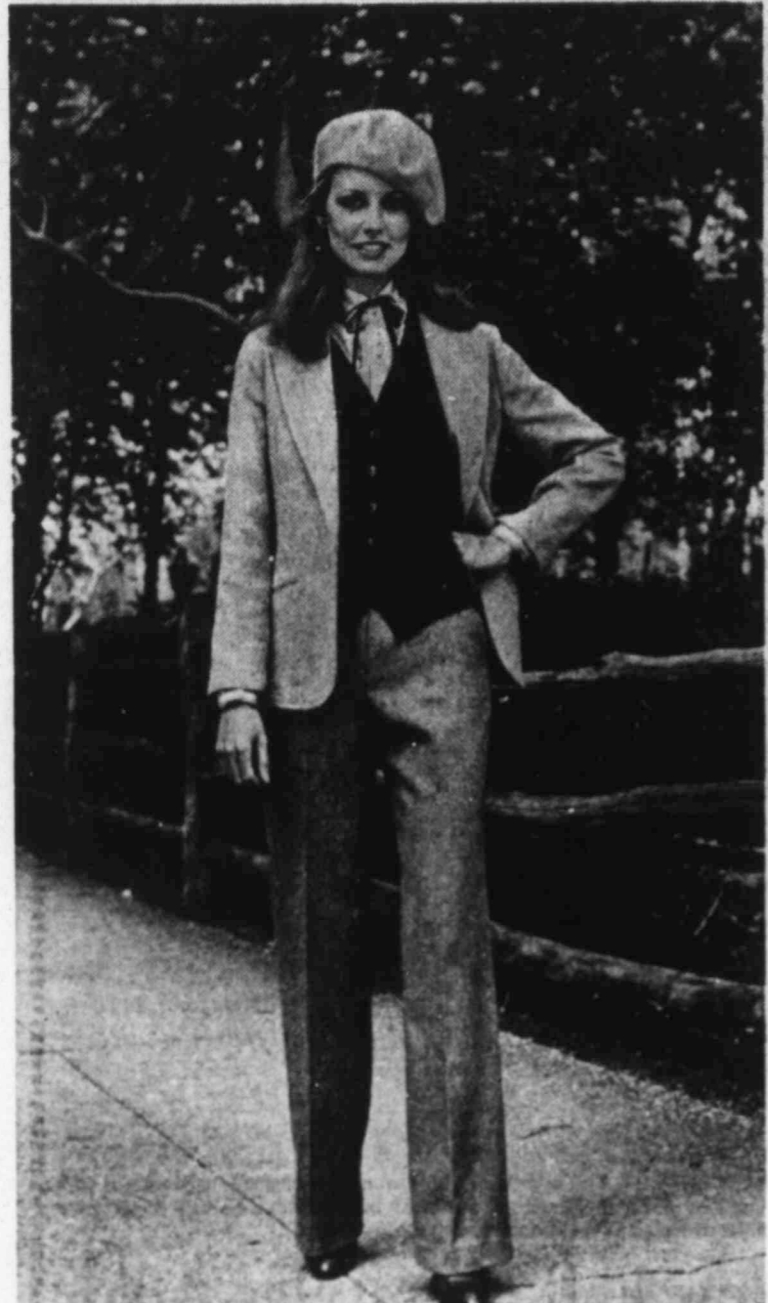

Q.8—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KQ5 ♥K8 ♦109542 ♣Q72
The bidding has proceeded: South West North East Pass Pass 1♦ 1♦ 1NT Pass 2♣ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Partner is slam-minded, and in terms of high-card strength you have enough to cooperate. Unfortunately, your cards are in the wrong places—partner is almost surely short in spades and is not interested in your values.

You can show that you were at the top of your game in a trump response and that a goodly share of your strength is in spades by jumping to three no trump now.

Carter Believed Urging Somoza's Resignation

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — A special emissary from President Carter has met with President Anastasio Somoza, touching off speculation that Carter is urging the embattled Nicaraguan leader to resign. However, no information on what was said at the meeting was available so far.

The U.S. Embassy confirmed that special envoy William Jordan met Saturday with Somoza. But embassy spokesman William Watson said he had no details on what was discussed. Other sources were not immediately available for comment.

Jordan has been touring Central America discussing the Nicaraguan crisis with local leaders. He is known to have visited Guatemala, Honduras and Venezuela, and it is possible that he has been to other nations in the region.

A U.S. missile cruiser was reported anchored off Nicaragua's Pacific coast, but a Defense Department spokesman in Washington said no special alert orders had been issued.

Opponents of the Somoza family's dynastic rule of Nicaragua generally hold the United States responsible since it put the present president's father in power in 1937 and helped keep him and his sons in control with wholehearted, unquestioning military, economic and financial support until the Carter administration took office.

Carter has tried to use a carrot and stick approach, holding back some aid and quietly urging Somoza to improve his human rights record. The administration took the position that stronger U.S. action would remove what little leverage Washington has and would also lay it open to the old charge of Yankee imperialism.

With the eruption of the two-week uprising which Somoza's national guard crushed last week, the United States and Venezuela tried to get the Organization of American States to take an active role in the Nicaraguan crisis. But the opposition of the numerous conservative military governments in Latin America blocked that.

Somoza on Saturday made public a letter he said 78 U.S. congressmen addressed to Carter claiming they had "irrefutable evidence" the leaders of the uprising were trained in Havana and Moscow and had as their goal "to make Nicaragua the new Cuba of the Western Hemisphere."

The letter urged Carter "to do your utmost to demonstrate the support of the United States government for the government of Nicaragua and President Anastasio Somoza, a long and consistent ally of the United States."

Somoza during the weekend agreed to talk to representatives of the alliance of his political opponents called the Broad Opposition Front, which is demanding his resignation. But he rejected the group's proposal that Colombia, Mexico and the Dominican Republic mediate between them.

An opposition spokesman said the month-old general strike against Somoza was expected to continue in the rest of the country "but it is difficult to predict in Managua." He said he understood owners of hardware stores in the capital planned to reopen today.

Miguel Scheibel, the Red Cross director in Managua, said his organization was starting a census in the four towns that were the chief battlegrounds between the rebels and the national guard — Leon, Chinandega, Esteli and Masaya — "to see how many people need help and what they need in the way of clothing, food and medicine."

He estimated 30,000 persons had been displaced, at least temporarily, by the fighting.

No reliable estimate of the casualties in the uprising was available. In Esteli, for example, where the fighting was heaviest, Red Cross workers' estimates of the dead ranged from 400 to 2,000.

"There is no way to count the dead and wounded," said Sonia Chamorro, another Red Cross official. "Many people buried their dead in their patios and backyards before the fighting ended."

The national guard refused to say many casualties it suffered.

Bank Trying To Remove Credit Cards From Adult Businesses

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Master Charge emblem may soon disappear from the Olympic Baths in Washington's adult entertainment area and 10 adult book stores — if a Maryland bank has its way in a brewing court battle.

Executives of the Maryland National Bank say it was all a mistake when its salesman last year sold Master Charge membership to Alpha-Sentura Business Services Inc., which manages the businesses.

Now the bank wants to cancel the membership, which allows customers to charge purchases, because of what the establishments sell. Five are in Washington, five in Baltimore and one in Fayetteville, N.C.

In turn, Alpha-Sentura, based in Baltimore, has filed suit in U.S. District Court there claiming the bank, the state's largest, is making "moral judgments" that harm its ability to compete and violate the constitutional guarantee of free speech.

"No strictly business reasons were offered for the planned cancellation," said David Moeslein of Alpha-Sentura. He said business has increased since the credit card membership was obtained.

The suit, asking for a minimum of $1 million in damages, also lists as a defendant Interbank Card Association, which owns the Master Charge trademark.

Moeslein said Alpha-Sentura was still receiving Master Charge promotional material when a Maryland National executive told him the membership would be withdrawn in November because "we don't like the nature of your business and do not wish to continue doing business with you."

Banking officials say credit card use is not uncommon among establishments dealing in pornographic books and magazines and at adult-oriented establishments such as the Olympic Baths — which, according to an advertisement, provides "a man's world of pleasure ... in a private club."

But Bill Moroney, a spokesman for the American Bankers Association, conceded "it's a subject not talked about" much in banking circles. The association had no statistical information on the subject.

"We were unaware at the time (the membership was sold) that the nature of their business was what it is," said Dan Finney, chief spokesman for Maryland National.

The bank, which has asked that the suit be dismissed, contends that under the agreement either it or the merchant may cancel membership.

One Maryland National official, who declined to be identified, said the bank discovered what Alpha-Sentura was selling when the bank sought to sell the firm a second credit membership in June, this time in VISA.

"The salesman asked where the card machines could be dropped off and was told (the Alpha-Sentura) office would be closed. When he brought the machines (to one of the stores), he found out what the stores were selling," the official said.

Indonesia To Grant Refugees Shelter

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI) — Indonesia announced today it will give temporary shelter to more than 1,300 Vietnamese boat people who endured 11 days at sea while nations in the area argued over their fate.

A Foreign Ministry official said Monday the refugees, including more than 300 children, would be given transit status and sheltered in the Jakarta Rambutan Refugee Camp or in the Tanjungpinang Camp in the Malacca Strait.

The official said Indonesia had acted, "Because our society is based on the humanitarian principle."

He said Indonesia has received promises from Australia and the United States that they will eventually accept the Vietnamese.

A United Nations-chartered tug reached the refugees stranded on the island of Pengibo in Indonesian waters early today and reported them in reasonably good condition.

They had been on the island since Thursday when the skipper of the 650-ton vessel Southern Cross beached his ship because it had sprung a leak. The Southern Cross had rescued the Vietnamese from four vessels in the Gulf of Thailand.

A ship from the Indonesian Navy was enroute to the island.

Before its grounding, the Southern Cross had been idling off the Singapore-Malaysia coast while refugee officials sought at least temporary sanctuary for the Vietnamese.

Teams of United States and Australian immigration officials will go to Jakarta to interview the refugees about resettling, diplomatic sources said.

The Vietnamese exiles were given emergency supplies of food and water enough for at least two days. They have been at sea for 11 days, unable to land at any port, while nations in the area argued over their fate.

An Indonesian navy patrol vessel with a doctor aboard also visited the island, which lies between Borneo and Singapore at the southern end of the South China Sea, Samputkumar said.

The Indonesian crew said the refugees were safe on the island, although the land is barren save for a few shrubs left by itinerant fishermen.

Indonesian authorities will evacuate them from the islet and they were expected to receive temporary shelter in the Jakarta area. Diplomatic sources said U.S. and Australian immigration officials would then interview the Vietnamese about possible resettlement in those two countries.

Samputkumar said the doctor reported the refugees were in reasonable condition and there had been no deaths or serious illnesses aboard the ship. He said the captain of the freighter grounded the vessel on Pengibo after it struck a submerged rock and sprang a leak.

He said the refugees were orderly and had already dug latrine ditches on one side of Pengibo, but most of them were living in the open, exposed to the elements.

Prior to its grounding, the Southern Cross had been idling off the Singapore-Malaysia coast while refugee officials sought at least temporary sanctuary for the Vietnamese: Both Singapore, which said its 400 refugees have overtaxed facilities, and Malaysia, which previously has granted visas to 15,000 exiles, rebuffed the appeal.

Solons Ask For Patty's Release

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two members of Congress from California submitted a plea to the Carter administration Monday to release Patricia Hearst from prison.

Sen. S.I. Hayakawa, R-Calif., and Rep. Leo Ryan, D-Calif., submitted a petition to the pardon attorney's office in the Justice Department urging that Hearst's sentence be commuted to time already served. She is not due to be considered for parole until next July.

Ryan, in presenting the petition to Pardon Attorney John R. Stanish, said, "My own opinion, without judging her guilt or innocence, is it's time to say enough."

Hayakawa said he was "deeply moved" by what he said must have been a "spiritual wrenching" that Miss Hearst has experienced.

"She's been punished enough," Hayakawa added.

Stanish said it probably would take at least two months to review all the material in the case and perhaps another month or two before a recommendation was presented to President Carter on whether or not Miss Hearst could be released from the federal prison facility at Pleasanton, Calif.

Carter will make the final decision.

Ryan's administrative assistant, Joe Hoisinger, said the brief supporting Miss Hearst's plea said that several inmates have made "whispered threats" on her life and that a dead rat was placed on her bed.

Miss Hearst was sentenced on April 12, 1976 to seven years on a conviction of bank robbery. After her appeal failed she commenced service of her sentence May 15, 1978.

All told, she has been confined awaiting trial and serving her sentence for about 18 months. Her plea is to commute, or reduce, the sentence to this length of time.

Hoisinger said Ryan convinced Miss Hearst to try for commutation of sentence, although she continues on a separate legal track for a new trial.

"We're trying to say she's had enough," said Hoisinger.

Women Take Beating In Shows

By JOAN HANAUER
NEW YORK (UPI)—It's a tough week for women on television, with wives being knocked about, knocked overboard or just sentenced to a life of hard knocks. On television only comic book ladies like "Charlie's Angels" or "Wonder Woman" are allowed to grin and bare it. More mortal types just bear trouble.

Wives get the worst time on "Battered," the NBC movie to be shown Tuesday at 8 p.m. And battered is what all the wives are in this script where the women have promised to love, honor and take it on the chin.

Karen Grassie (Caroline Ingalls on "Little House on the Prairie" and co-author of this script with Cynthia Lovelace Sears) is married to Mike Farrell (and he seems so nice as B.J. on "M-A-S-H"). Chip Fields is married to LeVar Burton (Burton also gives his mother at hard time on "One In A Million," but more on that later) and Joan Blondell is wed to Howard Duff.

These women all are battered wives, victims of men who can turn vicious with startling speed and little provocation. If the men drink, it is not that alcohol makes them beat their wives, but that drinking gives them an excuse to do so.

The stories have a genuine feel and credibility, but there are too many repetitions of predictable events and the film

Doctor Says Right To Die Needed

HOUSTON (AP)—It's almost impossible for a person to die if he makes it to a hospital alive, but often the person becomes nothing more than a vegetable being operated by machines, a Florida doctor says.

This results in "untold suffering and enormous expense" for the relatives of these people, Dr. Walter Sackett said last week.

"When I started practicing medicine, a person who got sick either got well and remained a contributing member of society, or they died," the 73-year-old Tallahassee doctor said. "Pneumonia was known as the old man's friend."

The former member of the Florida House of Representatives believes the U.S. Constitution should guarantee a terminally ill person's right to die with dignity just as it guarantees the rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Sackett made the observations in an address to a seminar conducted as part of a four-day emergency health care meeting at Albert Thomas Convention Center.

He said an amendment to the Constitution is needed establishing a legal definition of death using the criteria of brain death as well as cessation of heart and lung action.

Sackett, who was a member of the Florida Legislature from 1966-76, introduced an unsuccessful bill that would have allowed an individual to decide whether his life-support systems would be maintained or cut off.

Sackett is running for re-election this year, and said he plans to continue his campaign for such legislation.

"I was considered the merchant of death down there," he said. "But people are for such legislation. I've never seen a poll on the subject in which less than 65 percent were for some sort of right to die legislation."

Texas has its own law on the right to die, but Sackett called it "bulky and cumbersome."

According to the law, he said, a person must know he is terminally ill two weeks before he can draw up what is known as a Living Will, which makes it known he would rather die than be kept alive on support systems for a protracted period of time.

"This rules out all accident cases, because if you're clobbered now, any living will made before is invalid," he said.

Sackett, who has been practicing general medicine 37 years, said an amendment to the Constitution would give the courts a guideline to use in making decisions on individual cases.

"It's strange that a person has the right during his life to control what happens to him and his assets," the doctor said, "but during the death process, an individual loses all control over what happens to him."

Firm Seeking Foreign Juice

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—A major citrus processor has gone out of the country for the first time to find enough orange juice to satisfy U.S. demands.

Tropicana Products Inc., the Bradenton, Fla.-based subsidiary of Beatrice Foods, said in a statement that it initiated the imports "for the first time in its history" because all sources of domestic fruit are gone.

sags badly in the middle. Here's another one-hour plot crammed into a two-hour movie.

It's Angie Dickinson who gets it in "Overboard," NBC's Monday movie, from 8-10 p.m. Her husband is Cliff Robertson and he's asleep below when she falls overboard from their 40-foot ketch 100 miles off Tahiti. He wakes up an hour and a half later and institutes search, while she bobs in the Pacific.

After hours in the water, the sea spray hasn't dented the top of her hair spray but Robertson has sprouted a four-day beard.

With him searching and her bobbing, the story in flashback tells how they came to be cruising in the South Seas and how their marriage has turned sour.

Life certainly was sour for Ron LeFlore's mother, what with her marriage to a beaten-down, sodden man, with one son sentenced to five-to-fifteen years in Michigan State Penitentiary and the other heading wrong.

That was the low point in the true story of Detroit Tigers centerfielder LeFlore in the CBS movie, "One In A Million," to be shown Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Based on LeFlore's autobiography, "Breakout," written with Jim Hawkins, the story traces his life as a teen-age hoodlum who goes to jail for armed robbery and begins to grow up when his kid brother appears headed for crime and drugs.

It's a standard story except, as a character in the movie remarks, LeFlore really is "one in a million"—owner of a natural sports talent that was his ticket from minor criminal to major leaguer.

Talk about turning a handicap into an asset, LeFlore now leads the American League in stolen bases.

Television Critic Reluctant To Call New CBS Program 'Awful'

By JAY SHARBUTT
LOS ANGELES (AP)—If you snoozed or spent valuable time drinking Saturday night, you sure missed an amazing show. CBS calls it "The American Girls." It stars Priscilla Barnes and Debra Clinger.

These competent, pretty actresses play apprentice newshawks for a "60 Minutes" kind of show. "The American Report" is essayed by David Spielberg.

The young heroines travel about in Clinger's van, gathering stories. You could call them "Kural's Angels." But Charles Kural, who really does this for CBS News, might take umbrage or even get mad.

Saturday's epic opened in San Clemente, Calif., where Miss Clinger, as a rookie scribe for a college paper, wangled a free, exclusive chat with Richard Nixon. Network newscasts paced impatiently outside.

As she emerged, they asked what he said about Africa, his book, the China trip. She smiled sweetly and said: "If you want to know what Mr. Nixon said, you'll have to buy... the Campus Chronicle."

Lo, a network man told the nation "she's done what every reporter in the country would give his eyeteeth for... she just interviewed the former president." Also revealed "she scooped the networks."

Well, Spielberg up and hired her. He also fired Newman, a reporter who failed on a separate story, a chat with a magician (Ross Martin), a mysterious defector from a foreign country.

Miss Barnes, as an ambitious researcher, wants to cover the story. "I have certain assets Newman doesn't have," said she. The camera focused on a pair of shapely gams. Hers. He appointed her a field reporter.

But she said she didn't want to spend all her life "out there," i.e., outside New York. Sneered the executive producer:

"Oh, I see. You want to be an on-air commentator, you want to sum up profound conclusions to controversial stories, you want to interview Anwar Sadat, Henry Ford, Burt Reynolds, Miss Lillian."

She said yes. He said no. She asked how to get on-air.

"Like me," he said. "I pounded the newspaper beat, covered Vietnam for UP, had a radio show for CBS, produced the nightly news in Chicago."

"If I have to do all that before I get on the air, then I'll be as old as you are," was what she moaned.

But this lovely, sophisticated New Yorker was loosed on the big defector story with bubbly Miss Clinger, whom she considered a raw beginner. They and the story then shifted to Reno, Nev.

The defectoring magician worked there. He proved to be a double agent for the FBI. He was from Czechoslovakia. Enemy agents wanted to slay him. The girls briefly hid him. Were I a punster and the magician a midget, I would say they cached a small Czech.

Some reporter pals want me to come right out and call this series awful. I say no. It'd be like drop-kicking a wounded butterfly.

Another example of "puff," or pre-tend journalism, is "People," hosted by Phyllis George and on CBS tonight. I missed the debut show, having fallen asleep during it. It was as if an occult hand had tugged my eyelids shut.

As with "American Girls," its star is pretty and hosty her show from a van. Tonight's "People" viewers will see Kristy McNichol riding a roller-coaster and Bette Midler making a movie.

Other sights include Cheryl Tiegs getting her picture taken and Archie Bunker, the guy who plays Carroll O'Connor

TODAY'S STOCK PRICES

Stock Mart Drops 3.38 To 859.06

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices slipped into a gradual decline today amid signs that interest rates were headed higher. The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 3.38 at 859.06.

Losers opened up an 8-6 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The First National Bank of Chicago announced this morning it was raising its prime lending rate from 9 1/4 to 9 3/4 percent.

Philadelphia's First Pennsylvania followed suit shortly thereafter, and other leading banks were expected to fall in line with little delay.

It marked the third increase in less than a month in the basic charge on blue-chip loans.

Meanwhile, analysts said the Federal Reserve seemed to be exerting more upward pressure on the open-market money rates upon which banks base their prime rates.

Last Friday the Fed raised the discount rate — the rate it charges on loans to its member commercial banks — from 7 1/4 to 8 percent.

Gambling stocks, which have run into selling lately after a spectacular rise, posted some further losses today. Bally Manufacturing dropped 1 1/4 to 49 1/4 and Caesars World fell 3 1/4 to 43 despite the company's report of sharply higher quarterly profits.

The NYSE's composite index dropped .24 to 57.13, and the American Stock Exchange market value index was off .65 at 166.63.

Volume on the Big Board was extremely quiet, totaling just 8.48 million shares by noon against 13.25 million at the same point Friday.

PRECIOUS BREATH — Primary nurse Mary Deener tends Justin Lowe, 20 months, one of seven babies treated at Children's Hospital in Philadelphia who cannot be treated from a ventilator. Justin cannot talk or make sounds because of a hole in his throat for the ventilator cord. (AP Wirephoto)

Device Damages Infants' Lungs

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The same machine that keeps seven babies alive at Children's Hospital by breathing in place of their damaged lungs dooms them to lives tied to its tubes. The paradox points up the remarkable advances made in pediatric intensive care and the nightmarish problem of science's current limitations. The babies cannot be weaned from the ventilator because the machine damages their already weakened lungs and retards the growth of new lung tissue. The children have spent most of their short lives in the hospital's intermediate intensive care unit, dependent on the soft tubes leading from their cribs to the machine. It costs $18,000 a week to keep the babies alive. The total bill at Children's already has surpassed $1.2 million. The babies require round-the-clock care, with nurses pounding their chests and suctioning their lungs every two to four hours to keep them from strangling on secretions their weak lungs cannot clear. For 26-month-old Justin Lowe, it is a game of justin, who cannot make sounds because of the hole in his throat for the ventilator cord, likes to get attention by pulling out the tube and waving it. An alarm goes off and a nurse rushes over to scold him and give him the attention he wants. Parents have visited the children practically every day for months, in some cases years, trying to develop some kind of parent-child relationship, knowing pneumonia or another lung infection could suddenly kill their vulnerable offspring. Only 5 percent of the approximately 400 infants served by the ventilator each year at Children's Hospital require long-term support of a month or more. Of the long-term babies, only 18 percent to 25 percent, two or three, end up permanently chained to the machine. Once a baby has been on the machine more than three months, there is only a 10 percent chance the child can be weaned, said Dr. John Downes, director of the anesthesia department, which runs the unit. Normally, children grow new lung tissue until their eighth year, but the ventilator machine damages the lungs. "I can't imagine what kind of life a child can have living on a ventilator his entire life," said Dr. Mildred Stahman of Vanderbilt University School of Medicine in Nashville, Tenn. "The quality of life is just awful."

Man Jailed As Suspect In Robbery

A 21-year-old suspect in the robbery of a convenience store Sunday night remained in county jail this morning in lieu of bond. The man was being held in connection with the holdup of the Handy Hut store at Ninth Street and Avenue V about 11:30 p.m. Store clerk Larry Patterson said a knife-wielding bandit entered the store, took an undetermined amount of money from the cash register and fled. But police units speeding to the scene of the robbery arrested a man matching the bandit's description only two blocks from the convenience store. The robber, described as a tall Mexican-American male about 25, wearing a yellow cap and blue jeans and weighing about 160 pounds, pulled a butcher knife on the store's attendant about 11:30 p.m. Larry Patterson told police the man walked behind the counter, displayed the knife and said "Give me all the money, quick." Patterson said he gave the robber the cash from the register plus some money in a bank bag. But as he started to hand over the money, a customer entered the store. The robber ducked down below the counter while the customer bought a soft drink. When the customer left, the bandit took off on foot on the door, heading south between a laundry and an apartment complex. Three Department of Public Safety units who responded to the police department's call for assistance on the robbery spotted a man standing at the corner of 10th Street and Avenue U. When one of the officers shone a spotlight at the suspect, he turned and fled. The officers pursued and took the man into custody. The man was brought back to the store where the attendant identified him as the alleged robber. He was then taken to the Lubbock County Sheriff's Office for booking. CONGRATULATIONS Mr. and Mrs. David... Mr. and Mrs. Roger... Mr. and Mrs. Craig... Mr. and Mrs. Betty... Mr. and Mrs. Alvin...

Larger Number Of Women Taking Second Jobs

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Betty Rogam of New York has two jobs as "a matter of survival."

Jean Seiler of Pierre, S.D., took a second job because "I wanted to buy a car."

Pam Ashley of Kansas City works extra hours so "I can open a savings account."

And Ellen Frank of Pittsburgh juggles family life, two jobs and graduate studies "out of love."

The four are among a rapidly growing number of women who hold more than one paying job. Labor Department figures show that from May 1976 to May 1977, the number of women multiple jobholders rose by more than one-third to over 1.2 million.

Men still account for most of the multiple jobholders, but the picture is changing. In May 1977, women represented 27 percent of all multiple jobholders. Seven years earlier, they represented 16 percent. Half the female multiple jobholders are married; 69 percent are between the ages of 20 and 45.

Why do they do it?

"I've got more bills than I've got money," said Susie Williams, 21, who works during the week for the Nashville, Tenn., Police Department and spends six hours every Sunday giving directions and information to customers at a new shopping mall.

Labor Department figures show 53.8 percent of the women holding more than one job do so for financial reasons. About one-third need the extra work to meet regular expenses; the others want to buy something special, save for the future or like Miss Williams, pay off debts.

Here is a look at what working two jobs can mean:

Betty Rogam — her name and some of the details of her life are disguised at her request — earns about $8,000 a year as a teacher at a private, Montessori-method school in Bayonne, N.J., about an hour's drive from her home in Manhattan. Three nights a week, she is a waitress in a restaurant in New York's theater district. She works from 4:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. Thursdays and from 4:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. Fridays and Saturdays, earning $150 to $180 a week.

Miss Rogam, 30, says teaching is "something that I really love" and she plans to continue after she gets married sometime in the next year. She does not feel the same about the restaurant work. "There's such anxiety. This is the most horrible job in the whole world."

Miss Rogam works two jobs "because I'm on my own. It's ... survival." The extra money helps make ends meet, but the two jobs mean she spends more than she otherwise would. "I never clean my own house. I hire a maid ... Transportation costs $100 a month ..." Miss Rogam's biggest regret is "that I didn't have time to start a family earlier." Is she looking forward to marriage and the prospect of quitting her job as a waitress? "I can't wait."

Jean Seiler, 22, spends eight hours a day, five days a week as an offset printer for the state of South Dakota, earning $7,800 a year. She works at least 16 hours a week as night manager at a Super Duper grocery store, earning $3.50 an hour and adding a minimum of about $3,000 to her annual income.

Miss Seiler says two jobs "really cut down on your social life," but she manages to find time to play softball on a team sponsored by a local business. "You've just got to watch what you do."

Miss Seiler started at the supermarket in April 1977 so she could buy a car. The car is paid for, but she will keep both jobs. "I'm getting used to the money. It's almost worth it. It's the first time I don't have to sit around worrying about where the money will come from if the car needs repairs or wondering about what happens if I get sick."

Pam Ashley, 25, spends her days as a speech therapist for the Kansas City school system, earning $10,500 a year. From 6 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays, she tends bar at Blayney's Restaurant, making $3 an hour, plus $40 to $70 a night in tips.

Miss Ashley worked as a teacher after graduation from college, then quit. She got the job at Blayney's and, when she went back to teaching, did not want to give it up. "You develop friends that you work with and they've really become important to me."

The extra money is important. "I can save a lot more," she says, noting that she spent 10 days in the Virgin Islands this summer. Miss Ashley has a boyfriend she sees regularly and she works out at a health club three afternoons a week. Can she keep it up? Probably, she says. "I might just play it by ear."

Ellen Frank, 34, is the host of "Woman

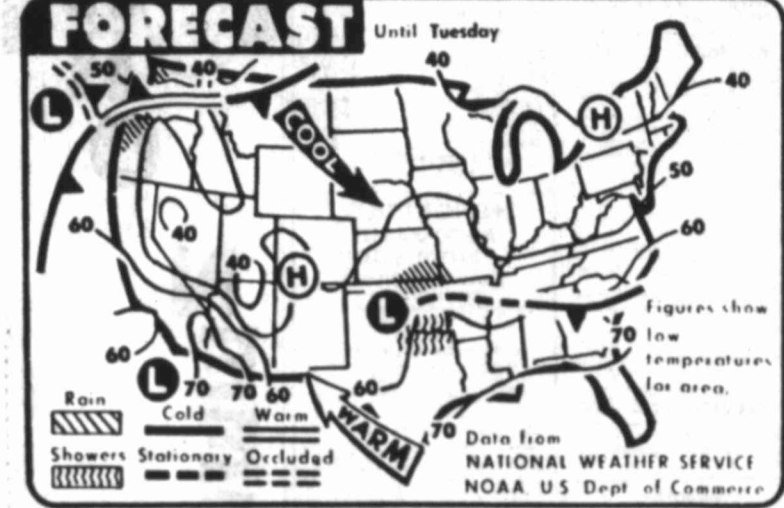

Is," a weekly half-hour talk show on KDKA-TV in Pittsburgh. She does research in the psychiatry department of Western Psychiatric Institute and Clinic and is studying for a Ph.D. in clinical psychology. She is married with two daughters, 7 and 9; three stepdaughters and a stepson visit several times a week.

Mrs. Frank spends "probably 50 hours a week at the hospital." The TV show, taped Thursdays and aired Saturdays, takes four or five hours. She prefers not to reveal her income, but says the TV work accounts for about a fourth of it. "I love everything that I'm doing," she says. "I have always been the kind of person who is happier the more I have to do ... This is really out of love."

How does she manage? A housekeeper comes in two mornings a week and a university student who lives with the family helps out. "My kids are very understanding and my husband is extremely supportive. I also have an ex-husband with whom we have a very ... cooperative relationship and he spends a good amount of time each week with my daughters." Can she see going on this way indefinitely? "Well," she says, "I'll be real relieved when I'm done with my Ph.D."

Non-Profit Nursing Home Fees Higher

WASHINGTON (AP) — Non-profit nursing homes are now averaging higher charges than profit-making institutions, a government health survey reports.

The National Center for Health Statistics said initial results showed that the average monthly charge in the profit-making homes was $641, compared to $722 in the non-profit homes run by the government, churches or other groups. There are 1.5 million elderly Americans in 12,300 nursing homes.

The situation was a reversal from 1973-74 when a survey showed the non-profit homes charged $32 less than profit-making ones.

Businessmen Urged To Meet Challenge

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Business leaders must mobilize if they are to meet the challenge of those who oppose private enterprise, according to a sanitary engineering consultant.

The consultant, John E. Kinney of Ann Arbor, Mich., told a meeting of the Water Quality Association business must decide on which goals must be achieved if the interests of the people are to be served.

Congress Near Vote On Tax, Energy Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress, having agreed on a federal budget for the coming fiscal year, is driving toward showdown votes on multibillion-dollar tax and energy issues in the final weeks of pre-election action on President Carter's legislative proposals.

Here is the status of major legislation:

Budget

Voting on a congressional compromise budget for the federal government was completed Saturday as the Senate approved a House-passed plan for spending $487.5 billion, raising $448.7 billion in tax revenue, and operating at a $38.8 billion deficit in fiscal 1979.

That deficit for the year opening Oct. 1 would be the first below $40 billion since fiscal 1974. At first, Carter urged a $60.6 billion deficit, but the administration later revised the recommendation to $48.5 billion and the president's budget director eventually suggested a spending cut that would make the deficit about $43.5 billion.

The legislative action on the budget resolution is final because it does not go to Carter. Instead, the president is sent individual bills, covering the budget's spending and taxing programs, for his signature or veto.

Holding the deficit below $40 billion would be a big step toward halting inflation by curbing government spending, said Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va.

Taxes

The fiscal 1979 budget produced by Congress makes room for a tax reduction of at least $2 billion greater than the House-passed $16.3 billion tax cut bill presently being considered by the Senate Finance Committee.

Byrd, pledging Senate action on a tax bill this year even if it means the lawmakers will have to return to work after the Nov. 7 congressional elections, told reporters Saturday it is "absolutely imperative that a moderate tax cut be enacted," meaning roughly $20 billion.

That is the amount being sought by the Carter administration, which is unhappy with the House-approved version. Whatever the Senate approves will be sent to a compromise-seeking conference with the House in the development of a final measure to be sent to the president.

Among decisions last week, the Senate Finance Committee rejected a Republican-backed proposal, also defeated by the House, for phasing in an average one-third reduction in personal income tax rates over three years.

Energy

The Carter administration is pushing for a major victory this week as the Senate votes on a congressional compromise natural gas pricing bill developed during months of delicate negotiations on a legislative version of the president's high-priority energy plan.

If approved by the Senate, this multibillion-dollar legislation, taking federal price controls off new natural gas in 1985 fied the ERA, which Congress sent to the states in 1972. But the legislatures of Kentucky, in a step that was vetoed by the acting governor; Tennessee, Idaho and Nebraska later voted to withdraw their approval.

The validity of such rescinding actions is in question, with the Justice Department saying it is up to Congress to decide whether a state can rescind its approval.

Judges

A deadlock stalling legislation creating 152 new federal judgeships was broken last week when Senate-House negotiators agreed not to split up the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Under the congressional compromise legislation, Carter would name 117 persons to serve on U.S. district court benches and 35 on the federal circuit courts of appeal.

The boost in the number of federal judges would be the first since 1970, when the number of authorized district judges was raised to 400.

Local governments in areas of high unemployment would be aided under a Carter-backed urban program passed Saturday by the Senate and sent to the House.

It would be a two-year continuation of an anti-recession aid program known as "countercyclical" revenue sharing. Although the legislation sets an authorized ceiling of up to $2.25 billion over the two-year span, the actual cost of the program is expected to be below $600 million annually.

CETA

Congressional negotiators are to develop a compromise version of multibillion-dollar legislation extending programs under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act for four more years.

The law currently provides for 725,000 public service jobs in more than 450 communities. The House voted last week to cut off more than 100,000 jobs. It sent the measure to a conference with the Senate, which approved an extension bill Aug. 25.

Earl Scudday Day Of Indecision

THIS MAY BE THE MOST baffling Dallas Cowboy team of them all, and that covers a lot of years and many erratic performances. This 'Poke team looks so pathetic at times that even the most rabid Dallas fans must shudder and close their eyes to shut out the awful sight. Then a few minutes later, the Cowboys come up with a play befitting Super Bowl champions.

Consistency is not the word for the 1978 Cowboys, based on their performance in the first four games of the NFL title chase.

Against the Cardinals Sunday, the 'Pokes had the paying customers up and down like a Japanese yo-yo. Roger Staubach hit Billy Joe DuPree with a beautiful pass. Great! Billy Joe scampered upfield for a big gainer and left the ball on the ground. Terrible!

Tony Dorsett found a little daylight in the line and made some yards. Attaboy, T.D.! Dorsett got whammed by a couple of Saint Looey lads and coughed up the football. Whoever said you were great, huh, Dorsett?

Coming so soon after that debacle at Los Angeles a week ago, fans couldn't help but wonder if it was going to be another Black Sunday.

It wasn't the Cowboys' best day, for sure. Even Mr. Reliable himself, Drew Pearson, dropped a couple of important passes. Tony Hill, the latest Dallas whiz kid, forgot to get his feet in bounds for a first-down grab. And the Cowboy offensive line let the Cardinal rushers play a familiar game called let's-run-over-the-quarterback with Staubach.

There was little in the first half to make Coach Tom Landry smile, even if he was the smiling kind.

IT WAS FITTING, PERHAPS, that one of the turning points of the game was credited to an unheralded reserve running back named Scott Laidlaw. Scott has not become a household name at Dallas since he joined the team as a 14th-round draft choice out of Stanford in 1975. A chronic knee ailment has kept him from seriously challenging Robert Newhouse for the fullback job, despite obvious talent.

Like all the Stanford boys who have worn the Cowboys' silver and blue, though, Scott is a smart athlete. He may not have as many university degrees as recently retired guard Blaine Nye, or come up with the clever one-liners of Pat Donovan, but Laidlaw is a sharp young man.

So it was not surprising, when the Cardinals blocked a Danny White punt back into the Dallas end zone, that ol' Scott saw what was needed and took appropriate action. Cardinals were scrambling like mad to cover the loose football for a touchdown, but Laidlaw managed to get there first and boost the pigskin out of bounds. Two points beat seven, as even sportswriters know.

The tide seemed to turn then, with Dallas gaining momentum and St. Louis fading just a bit. Thanks, Scott. We needed that!

THE QUESTIONS REMAIN, however. Why have the Super Bowl champs, with all their talent, been so erratic and uninspired thus far? That very talent and a reliance on the big play may be the root of the problem, says one other than Anthony Dorsett.

"I think some of the guys haven't felt that it was necessary to work hard on every play," Touchdown Tony told post-game interviewers. "They figure it is just a matter of time until Roger hits Drew for a touchdown, or until I break for a big gainer. But we have to get out there and battle on every down!"

Dorsett also disputed the widespread belief that the Dallas offense stunk up the joint in the first half.

"We were moving the ball pretty good," Anthony asserted. "But we had those two fumbles and things started to go wrong. But we never doubted that we could score."

"We" did not include a considerable segment of the fans or the press box crew, it might be added.

MORE OMINOUS THAN the erratic performance against the Cardinals is the mounting list of injured Cowboys. Just four games deep into a 16-game schedule, Dallas already has more wounded warriors than it had all last season. The loss of tight end Jay Saldi for an indefinite period bodes no good.

With Saldi gone for a while, and Drew Pearson and Hill hobbling on bruised legs, the Cowboys' corps of receivers is down to skeleton status. Even the rookie sub, Robert Steele, was helped off the field with an ankle injury late in the game. Landry better put a bodyguard with Butch Johnson, because he's all that's left if Drew or Hill cannot compete.

Dallas goes to Washington next Monday night for a very important tussle with the surprising Washington Redskins. That's no time to run out of pass-catchers.

Tech's Eyes On Texas

By DON HENRY Executive Sports Editor A light drizzle added to the gloom outside, but inside the Tech athletic building, the outlook was much brighter. Outside his office, the remnants of Saturday night's conflict remained, the patchwork blanket of soft-drink cups covering Jones Stadium. But, Rex Dockery's memories went more in the direction of anthems, marches, cheers, ovations, thundering hooves, and touchdowns and goals.

Reeves' first college experience netted 11 of 14 passes for 159 yards, 12 rushes for 38 yards and the scoring output. "Reeves was just exceptional," commented Dockery. "He really drilled the ball. Two of his incompletions he threw it away. He didn't force the ball. And the offensive line gave him time to throw; that helps."

Don Kelly, reserve noseguard Jim Verden, noseguard Curtis Reed ("he always seems to play well"), and strong safety Larry Flowers for their efforts. Offensively, Dockery pointed to "one of the better games" for quick guard Larry Martin.

Dorsett Ignites Cowboys

DALLAS (AP) — No one came right out and said it, but the Dallas Cowboys may have been looking ahead Sunday to undefeated Washington when they spluttered to a 21-12 National Football League victory over winless St. Louis.

Coach Tom Landry watched Tony Dorsett finally ignite the Cowboys, setting up a pair of Robert Newhouse touchdowns in the fourth quarter that put away Bud Wilkinson's struggling Cardinals.

At game's end, Landry announced, "The Redskins are probably the best team in the (NFC East) division now." Dallas, now 3-1, and Washington clash in a Monday night television game next week. Dorsett piled up 154 yards on 21 carries, with most of it coming in the second half.

"The thing is, we were moving the ball well the whole game," Dorsett said. "We just didn't have the ball the first half. It's my own opinion that we've been flat. Some guys are holding back a little because we're so explosive, waiting for the big plays."

Dorsett and tight end Billy Joe DuPree each fumbled the ball away in the first half as St. Louis piled up a 10-0 lead on a nine-yard pass from Jim Hart to Mel

Gray and a 23-yard Jim Bakken field goal. Dallas closed to 10-7 in the second period when Dorsett scored from seven yards out.

A turning point came in the third period when Jim Thaxton blocked a Danny White punt and the Cards' John Barefield nearly pounced on it in the Cowboy end zone for a touchdown.

"I was just pulling the ball into my stomach when this guy from Dallas hits me, knocking it out of the end zone (for a safety that gave St. Louis a 12-7 lead)," Barefield said.

Scott Laidlaw was the Cowboy who hit Barefield. "The only way was to get it out of the end zone," Laidlaw said. "I couldn't recover it myself." The Cowboys scored back behind Dorsett's running, with Newhouse scoring on a two-yard run and a 15-yard pass from quarterback Roger Staubach to put the Cards away.

Newhouse said Landry "just laid it on the line for us" during halftime. "We're behind where we were last year, but it'll come," Newhouse said.

Wilkinson also thought the safety was a turning point. "If we recover that blocked punt, instead of it going out for a safety..." he said.

Wilkinson said he joined the pro coaching ranks because it seemed like a lot of fun. "I'm having fun," he said.

LA's 'Big Boys' Trim Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Los Angeles quarterback Pat Haden and cornerback Pat Thomas, a pair of diminutive Rams in the land of the National Football League giants, proved once again Sunday they can go out and play with the big boys.

Haden, who says he's sick of hearing people talk about his 5-11 height disadvantage, cut the Houston Oilers down to size by converting 11 of 16 third down plays and guiding the unbeaten Rams to a 10-6 victory.

Thomas, a muscular 5-9 defender, killed Houston's last scoring chance in the fourth quarter when the Oilers thought they had Thomas in a mis-match with 6-3 wide receiver Ken Burrough.

Thomas intercepted the pass from quarterback Dan Pastorini and the Rams ran out the clock to boost their record to 4-0 and overcome numerous miscues, including three lost fumbles and a blocked field goal.

"We controlled the ball better than we did last week," said Haden, referring to the Rams' 27-14 victory over defending Super Bowl champion Dallas. "We've just got good people."

Haden apparently is one of those good people. He finished the day by completing 17 of 26 passes for 219 yards and no interceptions. LA's John Cappelletti was the game's leading rusher with 78 yards on 18 carries. Rookie Earl Campbell ran 77 yards on 13 carries for Houston but left late in the game with a leg injury.

Cullen Bryant scored on a three yard run to cap LA's first drive of the game and the Rams completed their scoring for the day on rookie Frank Corral's 25-yard field goal with 6:39 to go in the first half.

Houston made it 10-3 at the half on Toni Fritsch's 32 yard field goal and Fritsch added a 20-yarder with 12:09 left in the game.

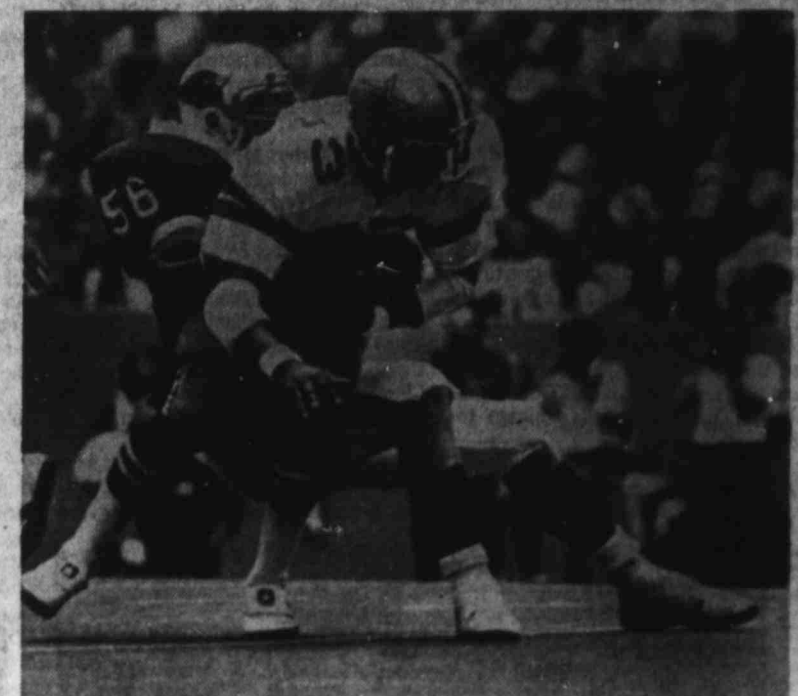

Thomas had sparred both physically and verbally with Burrough throughout the game.

"Burrough and I had been scuffling all day," Thomas said. "Earlier in the game, he gave me a cheap shot when he hit me from behind. I gave him a few choice words which you can't print."

Although the Oilers had moved the ball on the ground for victories in the fourth quarter the past two weeks, Pastorini went to the air in the closing minutes, trailing 10-6. And Thomas was waiting.

"I saw him start off running full speed and I put my ears back and ran out," said Thomas, a former Texas A&M star. "That was as important an interception as I've ever had as a Ram. The Oilers thought they could take advantage of my size."

Patriots Stop Oakland—This Time For Stingley

By The Associated Press
It is neither a geographical rivalry, nor a divisional one. For the Oakland Raiders and New England Patriots, it goes a lot deeper than that.

Hovering over the Oakland Coliseum is the spectre of Darryl Stingley, lying in a California hospital bed, put there by a tragic accident the last time the Patriots and Raiders played.

New England won that exhibition — and lost their star wide receiver in the process. More than anything else on Sunday night, they wanted to beat the Raiders again for him — and they did. Sam Cunningham's 1-yard touchdown dive with 16 seconds to play beat Oakland 21-14.

In Pittsburgh, meanwhile, a fake-reverse flea-flicker sudden-death overtime touchdown bomb that started with Terry Bradshaw and finished with Bennie Cunningham 37 yards downfield gave the Steelers a 15-9 victory over Cleveland that kept them unbeaten.

In Sunday's other games it was New Orleans 20, Cincinnati 18; Green Bay 24, San Diego 3; Buffalo 24, Baltimore 17; Denver 23, Kansas City 17 in overtime; Philadelphia 17, Miami 3; Los Angeles 10, Houston 6; Dallas 21, St. Louis 12; Seattle 28, Detroit 18, Washington 23, the New York Jets 3; Tampa Bay 14, Atlanta 9 and the New York Giants 27, San Francisco 10. Minnesota visits Chicago tonight.

Patriots 21, Raiders 14
Oakland scored twice in the first period on Ken Stabler's 13-yard pass to Dave Casper and Arthur Whittington's 4-yard run. The Pats got touchdowns in the second period on Steve Grogan's 25-yard pass to Russ Francis and in the third on Horace Ivory's 16-yard dash.

Overtime appeared likely until Mike Haynes picked off Stabler's attempted bomb late in the fourth quarter and ran it back 22 yards. Then Grogan rolled out and gained 28 yards to the 3-yard line. Two plays later Cunningham bulled in for the winning TD.

"This was a more emotional game than most because we were trying to win for Darryl," said Coach Chuck Fairbanks, whose Patriots visited Stingley after the game. "I was really pleased there were no incidents on the field," he added. "It was a tough, clean game."

And Cunningham noted: "We were supercharged for Darryl tonight. We knew he was listening and we wanted it for him."

Steelers 15, Browns 9

With a second-and-nine at the Browns' 37-yard line, Terry Bradshaw handed off to runningback Rocky Bleier. He handed off to wide receiver Lynn Swann. He then flipped the ball back to Bradshaw. All this time, Cunningham was speeding through the field, a step behind Bradshaw's pass for the TD that dropped Cleveland from the unbeaten ranks and out of a share of first in the American Conference's Central Division.

"Losing is losing, no matter how it happens," said Browns Coach Sam Rutigliano. "But he acknowledged, 'It was a very well executed play.'" And Cleveland quarterback Brian Sipe praised Bradshaw by saying: "That was a gutsy call." Darden, though, wasn't so complimentary. "They didn't beat us," he fumed. "They lucked out."

Saints 20, Bengals 18

"The longer we keep losing, the tougher it will be," said Cincinnati defensive back Marvin Cobb. "It seems we spend each week figuring out what went wrong."

What went wrong this time was that John Leybold, signed by the Saints with Rich Szaro injured, nudged a 27-yard field goal through the uprights at the final gun to wipe out the last vestiges of the Bengals' 18-10 lead and keep them winless.

"We're all in a dilemma," linebacker Glenn Cameron said. "When we have to score, we can't score. When we have to hold them, we can't do that. Something's got to happen, something's got to give. It just can't keep going on like this."

Packers 24, Chargers 3

Willie Buchanan, who played college ball in San Diego, returned as a member of the Packers, brought 120 old buddies to the ballpark as his guests, then wowed 'em by intercepting four passes, running one back 77 yards for a touchdown to help beat the Chargers.

Walter Lunders ran 15 yards with a blocked punt for another Green Bay score.

Bills 24, Colts 17

Joe Ferguson of Buffalo threw scoring passes of 19 yards to Reuben Gant and 28 yards to Frank Lewis — but it was Curtis Brown's 102-yard TD run with a kickoff following Baltimore's second touchdown that broke a 14-14 tie — and broke the Colts.

Chuck Knox, a divisional champ in each of the preceding five years in Los Angeles, got his inaugural victory with the Bills. "I wanted it for the players. They need to know the satisfaction of winning," he said.

Broncos 23, Chiefs 17

Larry Canada, limited to just 2 yards before halftime, broke loose after it, gaining 92 more. Of those 92, 3 came on a TD run that pushed Denver into a 17-17 tie with 2:56 to go in the fourth period — and 35 more came during the overtime TD drive that beat the Chiefs. Dave Preston's 3-yard run won it for the Broncos.

"When they call my number I just go out there and try to do the best I can," Canada said. "We call him the mail man because he always delivers," said Coach Red Miller.

Eagles 17, Dolphins 3

Mike Hogan caught a 4-yard pass from Ron Jaworski for one touchdown and ran 5 yards for another while the Eagles smothered Don Strock and the rest of the Miami offense.

Wilbert Montgomery rushed through the Dolphins for 111 yards, 26 more than the entire Miami ground game.

Seahawks 28, Lions 16

Jim Zorn, sacked five times by Detroit's defense in the first three periods, got even in the fourth by unleashing three touchdown passes — 40 yards to Steve Largent, 4 yards to Ron Howard and 12 yards to Sam McCullum — that launched the Seahawks past the Lions.

The game-winner to Howard with 9:17 to play followed a successful outside kick that Seattle safety Doug Long recovered on his own 47, setting in motion a decisive nine-play drive.

Redskins 23, Jets 3

Washington's Joe Theismann threw TD passes of 33 yards to John McDaniel and 20 yards to Jean Fugett in a game that cost the Jets a lot more than a loss.

New York quarterback Richard Todd suffered a fractured left shoulder, an injury that will sideline him for perhaps eight weeks, when Karl Lorch and Dave Butz sacked him in the fourth period.

"That's one of the hazards of the game, one of the unfortunate parts of the game. It's a contact sport," Jets Coach Walt Michaels said.

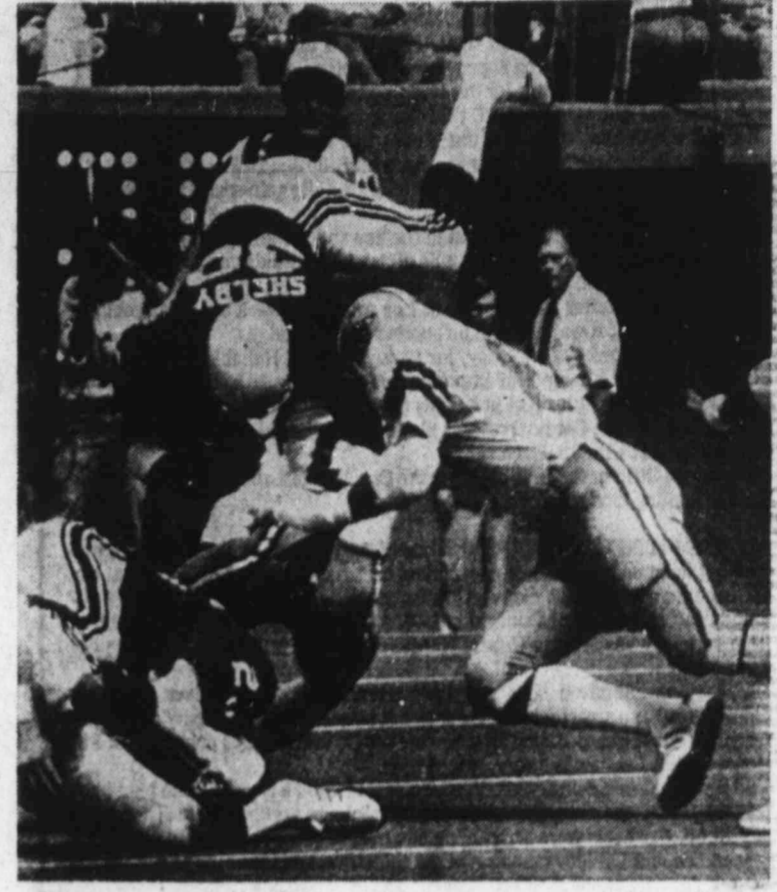

Buccaneers 14, Falcons 9

Mike Washington dashed 79 yards with a blocked field goal attempt for Tampa Bay's first touchdown in the opening period, then rookie quarterback Doug Williams passed 15 yards to tight end Jim Odravovich for the fourth-quarter TD that shot down the Falcons. Atlanta's only TD came on Steve Bartkowski's 6-yard pass to Alfred Jackson.

Giants 27, 49ers 10
New York's Larry Csonka gained a mere 13 yards — but the first one put him among a select list of six NFL players to rush for more than 7,000 career yards. He joined Jim Brown, O.J. Simpson — who wound up with 88 yards for 49ers — Joe Perry, Jim Taylor and Leroy Kelly. Csonka also scored a touchdown.

FLYING START—St. Louis Cardinals' Willie Shelby (30) is upended by an unidentified Dallas Cowboy defender as he returns the opening kickoff against the Cowboys Sunday. Dallas tight end Jay Saldi (87) rushes in to make sure Shelby goes no further. Dallas won the game 21-12. (AP Laserphoto)

Dodgers Clinch West Division Championship

By The Associated Press
 The "Sunshine Boys" have their act together again, and the result is another National League West pennant for the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Lopes after the Dodgers clinched their second straight West championship Sunday with a 4-0 victory over the San Diego Padres. "As a team, I think we're better than last year."

not only had more competition on the field, but also overcame several squabbles among themselves — including a dressing room fight in August between pitcher Don Sutton and first baseman Steve Garvey.

That was quite a shocking development for a team that promoted brotherhood and togetherness during the pennant-winning season of 1977 and wore the appellation of "The Sunshine Boys," among other names.

"Anytime you have 25 athletes of different backgrounds, there will be differences," said Lopes. "But the players on our team were mature enough to put these things aside."

Their priorities re-established, the Dodgers turned on the power and the pitching and ran away with the West title.

"The pitching was better this year than last," noted Lopes, "no doubt about that."

While the Dodgers were winning the West, the Philadelphia Phillies were moving closer to winning the East. Philadelphia's 8-2 victory over the New York Mets, coupled with Pittsburgh's 4-0 defeat by Montreal Sunday, improved the Phillies' lead over the Pirates to four games and reduced their "magic number" to five.

Elsewhere in the National League, the San Francisco Giants swept a doubleheader from the Houston Astros, 7-0 and 6-4; the Cincinnati Reds nipped the Atlanta Braves 2-1 and the Chicago Cubs edged the St. Louis Cardinals 5-4.

Garvey had a double and two singles and drove in three runs, and rookie Bob Welch fired a five-hitter for the Dodgers. Garvey, only six hits shy of his fourth 200-hit season in five years, singled home Los Angeles' first run in the third inning and singled in two more runs in the fourth.

Welch, a pleasant surprise for the Dodgers since being called up from the minors in mid-season, struck out six and walked two while improving his record to 7-4.

"I just go out and do my best," said Welch, a 21-year-old right-hander with the carriage of a veteran. "When I go to the mound, I just throw as hard as I can, and as long as I possibly can. I've been pretty lucky so far, I guess."

Phillies 5, Mets 2
 Tim McCarver socked a three-run homer and Bake McBride smashed a solo shot, leading Philadelphia past New York. Steve Carlton won his seventh game in the last eight and improved his record to 16-12 with ninth-inning relief from Warren Brusstar.

McCarver capped a four-run sixth inning with his homer off Nino Espinosa, 10-15. McBride led off the game with his 10th homer, giving the Phillies a lead they never relinquished.

Expos 4, Pirates 0
 Rookie Scott Sanderson fired a three-hitter, leading Montreal over Pittsburgh. Sanderson, 4-2, got all the runs he needed from a three-run burst in the Montreal first, capped by Warren Cromartie's sacrifice fly.

"A guy named Sanderson was the problem with our hitting today," said Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner. "He just pitched outstanding ball."

About the pennant race, Tanner noted: "I hope the Expos are as tough on Philadelphia as they were against us. We need all the help we can get."

Giants 7-4, Astros 6-4
 Vida Blue scattered eight hits, Darrell Evans and Heity Cruz belted two-run homers and Jack Clark added a solo shot, powering San Francisco over Houston in the first game of their doubleheader. Blue, 18-9, struck out six while notching his fourth shutout of the season.

Clark smashed a run-scoring triple and Jim Barr pitched five shutout innings as the Giants took the nightcap.

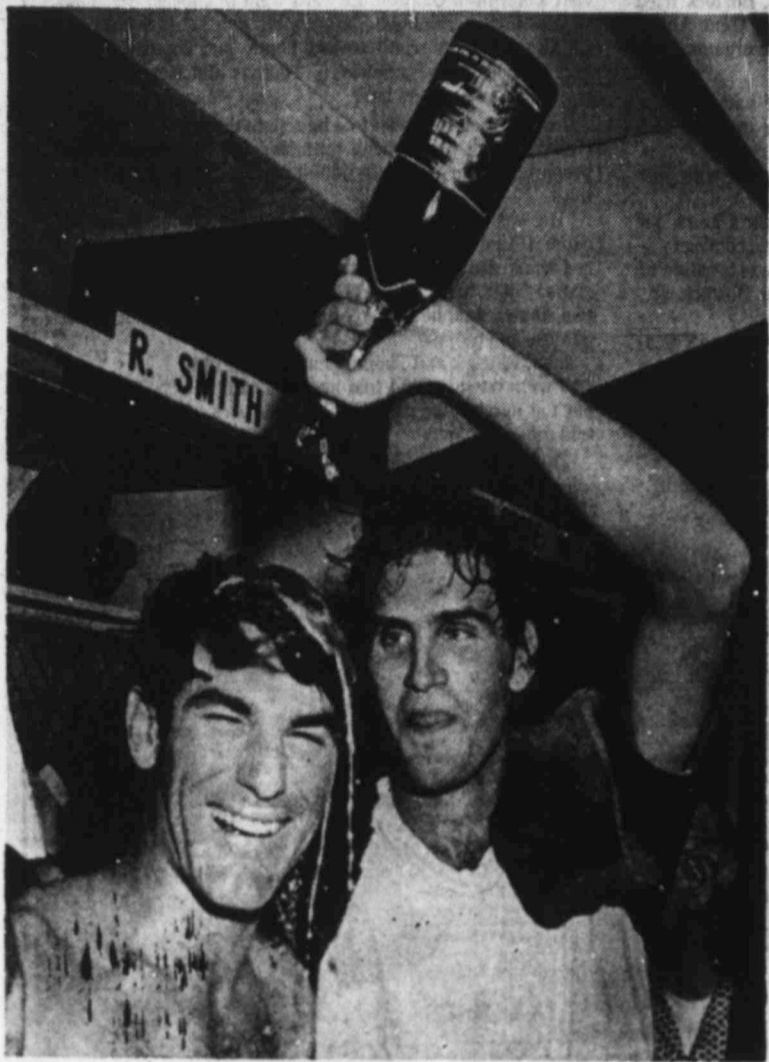

Reds 2, Braves 1
 Tom Hume fired a three-hitter and George Foster scored both runs as Cincinnati nipped Atlanta and Jim Bouton.

The Reds scored in the second when Junior Kennedy singled in Foster, who had singled and moved to second on a grounder. Foster also singled in the fourth and scored on Champ Summers' bloop double.

The only run off Hume, 7-11, was a ninth-inning homer by Bob Horner, his 24th. Bouton, 1-2, worked eight innings and allowed five hits.

Cubs 5, Cardinals 4
 Mike Vail and Larry Bittner drilled run-scoring singles in the ninth inning, leading Chicago over St. Louis.

The hits by Vail and Bittner climaxed a Chicago uprising against Tom Brunz, 4-3, after the Cards had gone ahead 4-3 an inning earlier on Garry Templeton's RBI triple.

Bostock Returns Home From Final Road Trip

GARY, Ind. (AP)—The morning before his last game, Lyman Bostock was "really happy," dancing to one of his favorite records in the familiar atmosphere of his uncle's home.

The evening after Bostock's last game, in another part of this grimy steel town 35 miles southeast of Chicago, Leonard Smith went to his estranged wife's house and allegedly threatened her.

A few hours later, at 10:44 p.m. Saturday, their paths crossed.

The well-paid, well-liked baseball star lay mortally wounded by an errant shotgun blast into the back seat of a 1976 Buick. The man who had aimed for Mrs. Smith, who was next to Bostock, fled, only to be captured at his apartment nearly seven hours later, police said.

Today, their fates remain linked. Just three hours after Smith, 31, was to go to court to be formally charged, Bostock, dead at 27, was to return home to Los Angeles from his final road trip. The funeral is Thursday.

Instead of standing in right field for the California Angels in Anaheim, the former free agent with the five-year, $2.7 million contract will be buried that day, said his uncle, Edward Turner.

"I doubt very much he knew what hit him," Gary Police Sgt. Robert Scheerer said of the shooting late Saturday night. "It's just a tragedy. He didn't even know Mrs. Smith."

Nor, apparently, did he know of her marital problems, police said. Leonard and Barbara Smith were legally separated about two months ago, said Police Cpl. Charles Hicks, head of the investigation.

Divorce proceedings followed and Smith apparently opposed them, said Hicks. Last Monday, Smith pulled a gun on his wife, he added. Saturday night they met again.

"He follows her every chance he gets. He had been to her home early that evening and he had made a threat. He talked to her daughter and he said 'It wouldn't be long before you would be living with me,'" Hicks said.

For Bostock, it had been a fairly typical day — staying with Turner as he always did when his team was in Chicago, getting two hits against the White Sox and talking baseball.

He went that night to say hello to Joan Hawkins, whom he had met nine years ago while visiting relatives in Gary, police said.

Bostock and another uncle, Thomas Turner, 43, visited Miss Hawkins and her sister, Mrs. Smith, 26, two women whom Turner helped raise, Hicks said. Then Turner was driving the women to see their cousin when Smith pulled up next to their car, Hicks added.

As both cars went through the green light at 5th Avenue and Jackson Street, Smith, apparently unseen by the occupants of Turner's car, pumped a single blast through a window on the right side, Hicks said.

Bostock, seated in the right rear seat, was hit in the right temple and died 2 1/2 hours later, Mrs. Smith, to his left, was wounded by pellets. She is in fair condition.

"Lyman was a victim of circumstances," said Hicks. "His (the gunman's) intended victim was his wife, not Lyman ... They (the cars) were both moving. That's why I think he missed the target."

The gunman's poor aim brought to a sudden, shocking end a big league baseball career that spanned just four seasons but was distinguished by much success and great promise.

The willowy Bostock joined the Minnesota Twins in 1975 and batted .282 in 98 games. In his next two seasons he climbed to .323 and .338, finishing the 1977 campaign second only to teammate Rod Carew in the American League batting race.

Last Nov. 2, the left-handed hitter and outstanding fielder was granted his free agency and 19 days later he signed with the Angels.

When he got off to a slow start this season, Bostock tried to return one month's salary to Angels' owner Gene Autry. When Autry refused, Bostock found charitable organizations that didn't.

He also found, as the season progressed, the batting touch that had made him a .318 career hitter going into the 1978 campaign.

At the time of his death, he was batting .296 with five home runs and 70 runs batted in.

Bostock's agent, Abdul Jalli, said the player's heirs, including his wife, Yuovene, will be paid under his contract.

Bostock lived in the Los Angeles area and was a native of Birmingham, Ala., where his father, Lyman Bostock Sr., played in the Negro baseball leagues.

Edward Turner, 51, said whenever Bostock came to Chicago with the Twins or Angels, he would stay with Turner in a room once occupied by Turner's daughter. It was no different on the current trip.

Sunday night, Edward Turner recalled Bostock's final hours:

"He was really happy Saturday, playing a record that we like, a Chuck Mangione record that plays about 11 minutes — 'The Land of Make Believe' by Esther Satterfield."

"He put it on yesterday morning before we left for White Sox park. He was dancing to it and said he hadn't heard it in a long time. He would tell me, 'When I hear that song I can really get into the rhythm and hit the ball better.'"

Edward rode along as Bostock drove to the park and "four or five carloads" of family members, including Thomas, joined them.

After the game, Thomas and Bostock went in one car to visit a cousin in Chicago. Edward went in another car. They stayed about 15 minutes.

Edward Turner went straight home, but Thomas Turner said he had to go somewhere. Thomas and Bostock came home about two hours later.

Bostock then sat down to a late-night dinner of cube steak, crowder peas, okra, sliced tomatoes and blackberry pie — prepared by Turner's wife Lillie — and chatted with his relatives.

"He was in a real good mood. He was talking about the game. He said, 'I gave a little defense Friday.' He went 0-for-3. I think. But he caught two or three balls that saved the game. Then today I gave a little offense.' You know, he got two singles. And he said, 'Tomorrow, I'm going to get a little defense and offense.'"

Then, Bostock and Thomas started to go out.

"I went outside and I told him 'you can't play ball and stay out too late.' So he said, 'I'll be right back.' That's what he told me.

"And he never got back."

Angels Win, Feel Loss

By The Associated Press

The baseball world continued to turn, despite the loss of a star player, teammate and friend. The death of Lyman Bostock pushed the pennant race to the back of many minds.

"But these guys are professionals," said California Angels Manager Jim Fregosi. "It was a very tough day in every way, but this team has a lot of character."

They needed it to beat the Chicago White Sox 7-3 in a game that kept their playoff hopes flickering, since the Minnesota Twins beat the American League West-leading Kansas City Royals 6-4.

The Royals' "magic number" remained at two in the West; elimination is near for the Angels. But they played Sunday — mere hours after Bostock, their star outfielder, was shot to death in Gary, Ind.

"It was very, very difficult to play under the circumstances," said Ken Landreux, one of Bostock's closest friends on the team. "I didn't feel right at the plate. I didn't feel right on the field. He was a very good friend, and that's all there is to it."

The rest of the league paused to mourn, then cries of "Play Ball!" were heard in seven American League parks.

The East Division race remained close. The New York Yankees rode Ron Guidry's third two-hitter this season to a 4-0 triumph over the Cleveland Indians and retained their one-game lead over the Boston Red Sox.

Boston kept pace, nipping the pesky Toronto Blue Jays 7-6 in a dramatic 14-inning contest.

In the other AL games, the Detroit Tigers beat the Baltimore Orioles 4-2, the Milwaukee Brewers defeated the Oakland A's 5-2, and the Texas Rangers downed the Seattle Mariners twice, 5-3 and 4-3.

But the air was heaviest in Chicago, where Don Baylor's 33rd home run sparked the five-run sixth inning that carried California past Chicago.

"Please, not today," said Baylor, too deeply grieved to care much about postgame interviews. "I have nothing to say."

Yankees 4, Indians 0
Guidry, throwing "hard, harder and slider," according to New York Manager Bob Lemon, recorded his 23rd victory in 26 decisions. "He makes my arm hurt just watching him," said Lemon as the Yankees returned home for the final six games of this pressure-packed season.

Guidry's ninth shutout of the year broke the club record of eight, set by Whitey Ford in 1964.

"Any time you break a record set by a Hall of Famer, it has to help your confidence," said Guidry. "We needed this game."

Red Sox 7, Blue Jays 6
After reliever Dick Drago pitched out of bases-loaded jams in the 11th and 13th innings — getting Otto Velez for the final out in both innings — the Red Sox pushed across the winning run in the 14th, when Butch Hobson's infield hit scored Jim Rice from third.

The Red Sox came back from 3-0 and 6-4 deficits, tying it in the ninth, then got the winner.

Twins 6, Royals 4
Bostock's death was on the minds of his former teammates in Minnesota, where Dan Ford's homer snapped a tie and boosted the Twins past Kansas City.

"When the game began, he was on my mind," admitted Ford. "I'd look at the scoreboard and see the California score and know he's not playing there. It'll take awhile to forget."

"But just having played with Lyman is enough for right now."

Tigers 6, Orioles 2
Jim Slaton pitched a seven-hitter and struck out eight in gaining his 16th victory. Aurelio Rodriguez and Alan Trammell had RBI singles in the ninth, breaking a 2-2 tie.

Brewers 5, A's 2
Mike Caldwell gave up nine hits in registering his 21st victory in 30 decisions. Robin Yount and Jim Wohlford each knuckled in two runs.

Rangers 5-4, Mariners 3-3
Al Oliver drove in three runs in Texas' opening victory, then Juan Beniquez tripled in a run and scored twice, pacing the nightcap triumph.

Plains Wins Meet
Plains won the first Lubbock Volleyball Tournament Saturday, topping Coronado 2-15, 15-2, 13-9 for the honor.

In the consolation match, Estacado topped Hereford 15-4, 15-5 to win third place.

The all-tournament team consisted of Rhonda Sproules, from Brownfield; Kendra Hale, a setter from Plains; Teresa Nelms, a spiker from Plains; Janis Rhea, a spiker from Monterey and Teresa Lambert, a spiker from Hereford.

LCC DEFEATS HOC
Netters from Lubbock Country Club defeated a group from Hillcrest CC 41-14 Sunday during the annual Quinn Connely tennis tournament.

SLAIN—Lyman Bostock, shown here during 1978 spring training at Palm Springs, Calif., was shot and killed Saturday night in Gary, Ind. while riding in a car with his uncle and at least two other persons, police said. (AP Laserphoto)

Catering Becomes Acclaimed Phase Southern Sea Operation

"Aren't you glad that Southern Sea can now bring its fine food to you... via catering?"

The two mobile catering units of Southern Sea are fast becoming a familiar scene throughout the region, with the service initiated earlier this year meeting with instantaneous and favorable response from groups involved in business meetings, family get-togethers, banquets, club meetings, farm co-op groups, backyard suppers, church socials, etc.

The same delicious fried chicken and southern style fish to which the public has become accustomed in the functionally-beautiful Southern Sea restaurant (South Loop 289 and Indiana Avenue in Lubbock) is available, also, for carry-out convenience, and now in catering.

Call 799-2099 for catering or full information about how the Southern Sea catering service can work for you.

Call-in orders should be made to 799-6555.

And for eating out, come to Southern Sea on South Indiana (with a second big Lubbock facility under construction at 10th Street and Avenue Q in the downtown area).

It all is part of a carefully planned program initiated and being carried through by owners Robert and Priscilla Sims who entered the Lubbock food service and preparation picture back in 1974, pledging and following through with "finest food, prices to live with, and with a service reflecting genuine appreciation of the customer."

Southern Sea was established in mid-1976 at its already well-known and appreciated South Loop 289-Indiana Avenue facility.

An added unit was opened this year in Amarillo. Catering service can be arranged there, also. Wherever you are within the entire region, Southern Sea can serve you with good food and the ultimate in convenience.

"Thank you for letting us develop our plans with the support of your patronage and friendship. Thank you for your interest in our every phase of operation — within-restaurant dining, carry-out service, and the catering service that has met with such tremendous reception in Lubbock and the area alike. We look forward to further and new experiences in good eating!"

FROM SOUTHERN SEA — New convenience and availability of the tasty Southern Sea menu (already popular at the restaurant and for carry-out) now is possible throughout a wide Panhandle-South Plains region thanks to the catering program added to Southern Sea services. Shown is a typical sequence of the Lubbock firm's operation, with the pictures taken at a Civic Center function only days ago. At top is one of the two mobile units; center is one of the experienced staffmembers on the job at the site; and finally, the serving line. Another forward step for Southern Sea is construction that is underway on an added downtown facility slated for fall opening.

Jones Ornamental Decor Tells Awards, Fair Booth, Specials, New Arrivals

"Mark three things on your calendar this week... for sure!"

(1) Enjoy the Panhandle South Plains Fair to the fullest!

(2) Be sure and visit the Jones Ornamental Decor booth in the Merchants Building, registering for free awards, and noting the gorgeous exhibit from stock.

(3) Take advantage of the fantastic "Fair Specials" offered by Jones in its big new home at 3403 34th St. (in Indiana Gardens).

Specific Savings

Among the banner specials are all the firm's 17th Century Italian baroque decorator tables. These are now priced from just $7.15 to $42.90, with one, two and three-tier groupings including coffee tables, end tables, etc., of all-aluminum construction. These are truly beautiful and functional, and represent a rare purchase opportunity at this sale price.

And the beautiful Woodard 1890 rockers, regular $412.50, are marked during the Fair at $300. What a saving!

There is so much that is new at Jones Ornamental Decor. There is the new blacksmith shop furniture, for example. And recently-arrived bedroom groupings, the winter look in dinettes, etc., eterges, and even decor items.

Featuring indoor-outdoor, all-season ornamental elegance for timeless charm and beauty, Jones Ornamental Decor is really a "showplace," and a visit there is of double benefit, what with the Fair Sales and with the new merchandise.

Jones Ornamental Decor is open each weekday, with a late 9 p.m. Thursday closing.

Come by real soon, at the Fair booth and at the Indiana Gardens location, on south side of 34th Street, and take advantage of the Fair Specials and the introduction of new lines and items, many exclusive to Jones Ornamental Decor. We think you'll find a welcome you'll like!

"If you were excited about the unique Jones Ornamental Decor store that was established in early 1977 at 1406 Ave. Q, then you will be even more enthused about the firm's present home with its roominess, easy access, off-street parking and other advantages. More than 5,000 square feet of showroom space is provided, and the big store is chock full of a tremendous and selective merchandise offering. It now is believed to be the very largest store of its type anywhere in the Southwest.

Name brands in home furnishings are attractively and profusely stocked, together with a wide variety of decorating ideas... beautiful handmade ceramics and floral arrangements designed especially for Jones Ornamental Decor, elegant ornate accent pieces of brass and copper, hanging scale planters, door knockers, coal buckets, teakettles, brass towel rings, and more. For new elegance in home or office decor, let Jones enter the picture!

The firm is home-owned and operated, essentially as a family operation. Wilburn Jones and wife, Sonja, are owners, with Mrs. Jones active in the management, assisted by children Jana, Mark and Randy, and other staffmembers.

Wilburn Jones owns Greer Iron Works, and custom construction of barbecue units, fireplace screens and log holders, fences, gates, etc., are among the specializations, as is wrought iron and cast aluminum furniture.

"A pretty good combination, wouldn't you say... Jones Ornamental Decor and Greer Iron Works!"

FUR SHOWING LOOMS — What a great time . . . and a great place . . . for selecting fine furs! Charlene's, in Town South, has slated a showing of fine furs on Oct. 2, 3 and 4 at the store location at 73rd and Indiana. Shown, from left, is Mrs. Tommy Wallace modeling a mink in Autumn Haze; Mrs. Walter Seim with a Tourmaline Mink; and Mrs. Kerry Eldert with a gorgeous Ranch Mink. The furs by Saor/Diener include street length, stroller coats, leathers and minks, together with some casual sport styles.

Charlene's Presents Autumn's Exciting, Totally New Fashions

All the delightful new fashion looks . . . how they make dressing a pleasure! And nowhere are these looks more evident, and discriminating, than at Charlene's in Town South.

Autumn arrivals at the inimitable Charlene's are the most beautiful ever.

There is so much fashion excitement with the totally new silhouettes for fall, and there are so many things from which to select.

Colors Enticing

The colors are absolutely great, making the wardrobe selection at this time greater fun than ever, Charlene observes.

Amethyst, wisteria, pearl, cinnebar and varying tones of rust are noted . . . and appreciated . . . and admired.

There is dressy sportswear, party pants, coordinates and all . . . tastefully chosen at Charlene's, serving superbly for more than a decade on the Lubbock fashion scene.

A Beautiful Store

So much could and should be said for Charlene's fashion mecca in Town South (just off Loop 289 and South Indiana), but concisely, the word today is that exciting fashions for autumn and the change of seasons are provided to please any imaginable situation.

What better showroom for autumn and winter could there be than Charlene's, really a beautiful store regardless of the exquisite merchandise!

Yes, Charlene's is the "epitome" of the autumn look, with the wardrobe there reflecting what is right, and what is desired, for the season.

A most pleasing decor, together with carefully planned merchandise display and other customer conveniences enhance the image of Charlene's as a business completely designed with customer consideration foremost.

Isn't a "change-of-season trip to Charlene's in order? We think so.

Aluminum Replacement Windows, Storm Windows, Doors Shown At Fair

"Jim Haynes extends a personal invitation for you to visit the Panhandle South Plains Fair . . . and more specifically, the booth of Insulating Windows, Inc., in the Merchants Building there.

Learn how the Lubbock firm's aluminum replacement windows, storm windows and storm doors can be custom made for your own comfort and beauty.

"For cleaner and more comfortable living," Haynes and his experienced crew can perform quite a service.

Imagine, for example, rubber seals on the custom-made windows, with this self-sealing innovation making caulking unnecessary!

Business & Industrial Review

Crown House Flowers And Gifts
Excels In Service, Selection

"For a certainty, if you have not become acquainted with Crown House Flowers and Gifts, 4403 50th St., you have missed enjoyment of one of the most extensive selections of quality items and services imaginable."
Whether the desire is a custom flower arrangement, green plants, gifts and decor pieces to please... or selection from the weekly specials, satisfaction and a new experience in selection awaits at Crown House, just west of Quaker Avenue on the south side of 50th Street.

Specials
Currently, a limited-time special enables grape ivy (regular $12.50 hanging basket) for just $6.50!
And autumn colors in blooming mums are due this week, also at just $6.50.
(Check the windows regularly for the specials that are arranged to afford extra value.)

Crown House, phone 795-8114, is a four-year-old shop, owned and actively operated since May of this year by Rick Byrd who has the old-fashioned idea that customer service comes first! Byrd, formerly a drafting supervisor with Texas Instruments, long has had a basic interest in the floral field, and he seems to have "put it all together" in provision of the expanded Crown House.

Gifts, Floral Design
Since his ownership, the shop has discontinued bar stools, for example, to make room for the greatly expanded line of gifts, floral needs, greeting cards, oil paintings and even accent furniture.
The firm now involves strictly gifts and floral design.

There are fresh, dried and silk flowers, together with all green plants.
Fresh flowers for weddings and banquets are a specialty.
Delivery is afforded, of course, and all major charge cards are honored.

Cash-Carry Discount
Cash and carry discounts are of special significance to the customer.
Complete wire service is provided.
Store hours are 8 a.m. until 5:30 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays.

See the re-decorated and expanded Crown House; it is a revelation in provision of the beautiful, of the desired, of the "right" gift or flower arrangement without exorbitant expense.

"We look forward to your visit at Crown House, 4403 50th St., or call 795-8114 for our assistance in your floral or gift need. We think you'll like the 'new' Crown House."

Custom, Stock Items From Fabit Firm
Reflecting Attention To Area Needs

"Are you acquainted with the unique services of the Lubbock-owned Fabit firm at North Quirt and Loop 289?"

Fabit Corp. since its establishment in mid-1968 has filled a distinct need in the area, and such has been its wide acceptance and growth that new production equipment and latest methods are continually added, to make an already-efficient facility even more serviceable.

"For custom manufacturing of complete machines or parts in small quantities or in large production runs, one may turn with confidence to Fabit, a firm that likely can serve you in your own industrial, agriculture or municipality needs."

Its services even include engineering and development of prototypes or production models, metal shearing, bending, hole punching, rolling, welding, shape cutting, grinding, painting, assembly and wiring, plus a complete metal fabrication service.

Rails, Stairs
One of the popular phases of its production involves guard rails and stairways for area industry.

Whatever the order, Fabit likes to prove that it is foremost in the things that count: experienced management, quality control, good machinery, prompt service, complete manufacturing ability and reasonable prices.

These qualities have made the firm indispensable to many other manufacturers, for ranchers, farmers, industrialists and for city units.

Clyde Blakeley is president of the firm.

Fabit stocks parts and provides service for all its products.

For Precision Assurance
Adherence to close tolerances is standard procedure. With experienced management and the best machinery available, Fabit has the capability of precision fabrication work. Accurate, precise work is the rule, and the result is better quality products that look better and work better. This highest quality costs no more!

In order to do this best possible job and to maintain a high volume of production, Fabit Corp. is equipped with the best shear and press brake available.

A five-ton bridge crane serves the entire production area and helps speed the work and keep material handling costs down.

"Let Fabit prove its ability! Your work can be done with us for a quoted contract price or on an hourly basis. We will appreciate your fabrication orders, large or small, and will give them our prompt and careful attention."

(Also, learn of the Refuse Service Division, geared to manufacture, sell, lease and service refuse containers, with the division headed by O.T. "Ted" Ratcliff IV, a six-year staffmember at Fabit.)

"Welcome" to the Panhandle South Plains Fair in Lubbock; we hope you'll find opportunity to come on out and visit with us at Fabit."

"If you want to keep their heads in school, keep their feet in Stride Rite shoes, the shoe with a high eye-cue!"
And for Stride Rites, it is Gilberts Shoes, 3434 34th St., in Indiana Gardens, the store in full readiness for fall, school and winter.

Bowman Money-Saving Red Tag
Specials Continue During Fair

Double benefits are yours in Lubbock this week!
First, there is the Panhandle South Plains Fair.

And second, the Red Tag Days specials are in effect at Bowman's, the firm that makes it possible to fix your home the way you want it.

Bowman's traditionally invites those attending the Fair from throughout the region to come on out to Bowman's, 8301 S. University, for a friendly greeting and a revelation in quality, selection and dollar values.

The Red Tag specials continue through Sept. 30.

Look at some of these exceptional values in every department:

Lawn-Boy mowers are marked at 10 per cent off for all in stock, or one "free" Model JT 103 Spin Trim with the purchase of each.

Ortho liquid grass edger, 1 gal. size, regular $6.99, is sale priced at $4.99.

And heavy duty extension cords, 100 ft., regular $12.95, are $9.99.

Or maybe the need for a gift or for one's own use is a McCulloch chain saw that actually can cut enough wood to pay for the saw in the first year. The Mac-140 self-sharpening model, complete with carrying case, regular $179.95, is marked down to $149.95; and the Power Mac-6, regular $189.95, is priced at $159.95.

A truckload sale of all Greentree varieties enables a 20 per cent off on these. The 17-in. by 19-in. Brentwood Series is thus only $29.88, for example.

Floor Covering
See the in-stock sculptured shag carpet in yellow/gold at $3.99 per square yard.

And indoor/outdoor carpet at $1.99; Astro-Turf at $2.99 per lineal foot, great for porch, patio and walkway; or self-stick floor tile by GAF, at 65 cents sq. ft.

Nursery Values
And over in the garden area all nursery stock is marked one-half price. That's right, one-half price, and this includes trees, shrubs, pines, fruit trees, evergreens, groundcovers and yucca.

A big 25 per cent off is arranged on all lawn and garden chemicals in stock, including fertilizers, plant foods, insecticides, miticides, fungicides, pruning paint, garden dust, liquid iron, root stimulants, plant polish, weed killer, weed bar, and many more.

With Christmas just around the corner, it might be well to do some planning ahead — and purchasing. Beautiful copper and brass pots, strainers, ladies and more are now at 25 per cent off, as are all clay pots.

On and on the values continue, and the only way to fully understand just what is in store for the customer is to visit Bowman, at 8301 S. University in Lubbock during the Red Tag Days in September.

All in-stock Lloyd furniture is marked at 10 per cent off.

Power Tools
Power tools come in for savings, with the No. 770 Deluxe Power Shop Dewalt at $259.95 (regular $399.95); Skil orbital sander kit at $27.99 (regular $32.99) with a free dust collector; 6 1/2-in. Skil saw circular saw, regular $47.99 but now marked at $38.69, and comparable savings in jigsaws, drills, etc.

Thomas light fixtures are 35 per cent off.

Wright storm doors are $38.88. And the wood attic stairway at $26.68.

Come on out, while at the Fair or during the remainder of September, for one-stop shopping, and savings, at Bowman's, 8301 S. University. The values are fantastic, with too many to be listed here, so the only way to fully understand just what is in store for the customer is to visit Bowman at earliest convenience.

ARCADIA STONE, FUNCTIONAL AND BEAUTIFUL

Widely Utilized Arcadia Stone Spotlited In Fair Exhibit

"Most probably you have observed and admired the use of Arcadia Stone in homes, businesses, yards or institutions in your neighborhood, wherever you live within the area.

"Now, a really close look and understanding of the benefits of this man-made stone is made easily available through visits to the Arcadia Stone Mfg. Co. booth in the Merchants Building this week at the Panhandle South Plains Fair.

"Please do us the honor of visiting our booth," is the sincere invitation of Jim Haynes and crew. We want to visit with you and show you exquisite examples of the beauty and versatility of Arcadia Stone.

Haynes has constructed beautiful homes throughout the area, together with construction of fireplaces utilizing Arcadia Stone.

Individuals and contractors alike, throughout the region, have voiced enthusiasm for Arcadia Stone. "This is a small wonder, for after all, can you imagine a lightweight and durable man-made stone at a fraction of the cost ... and available in seven decorator colors?"

This is exactly what one can expect from Arcadia Stone Manufacturing Co., home-owned and home-operated by Jim

Sophisticated Bartering Benefits Made Available

"Doesn't it make sense for you as a businessman to barter for a lot of the things you need, using precious dollars on the outside for utilities and overhead?"

Then become acquainted with the concept, the folks and the program of West Texas Trade Exchange, located at 7212 Joliet St., Suite 3-B (just off South Loop 289 and Indiana Avenue) phone 793-0731 in Lubbock.

Reports from throughout the nation tell how many hundreds of businesses, tradesmen and professionals are joining barter organizations "with an eye to boosting their business and acquiring goods and services without dipping into their pockets for cash."

Larry Goldston, a 32-year-old former Lubbock school principal, is president of the West Texas Trade Exchange in Lubbock. Under his ownership since May 1, the Exchange's membership has grown tremendously, exceeding 100 at this time. In truth, there already is a waiting list in some professional business categories, as only one member in each category is accepted.

Program Explained

Membership in the West Texas Trade Exchange is open to qualified businesses that have goods or services to offer.

Briefly, exchange members' trade goods and services with each other. The club takes a small percentage for the bookkeeping. For example, suppose a business needs printing, advertising or remodeling. By taking in the members business in trade dollars, the small business person can use them to pay for the printer, the advertising, or the contractor. In turn, these other businesses spend their accumulated trade dollars for their business needs.

This revolving system of TD and debits has several key features. For one, cash outlay is reduced, freeing it for other uses. Let's say, a business spends $500 a year on printing. By purchasing the printing from another exchange member with the TD, the proprietor is only out his wholesale cost of doing business, say 50 per cent or $250. He has obtained the $500 worth of printing for $250; the other $250 is like cash in his pocket, since he has paid for it with his wholesale costs of merchandise or service and not hard currency. Naturally, when an exchange member comes to him, the full retail price is charged — in the TDs. Whether it's an accountant, dry cleaner or florist, the same principle of trading each one's essentially wholesale costs at retail prices holds true. Indeed, members in some exchanges have been known to sign up long standing business associates so they can continue to do business — this time on a trade basis rather than cash.

"We've all heard rumors of possible recession. In bartering, it can help curb that scare because it really doesn't make any difference what happens to our dollar, goods and services are going to remain sound."

Actually a mature exchange can offer the businessman an economy within an economy. Members will trade and barter for a majority of their needs and bank their cash. What ever is happening to the U.S. economic picture will have less effect on an exchange member.

Esquire magazine summed it up in its May 26 article on inflation when it stated, "Bartering is inflation proof."

"In bartering one is only limited by his imagination. For instance, several large scale trades are pending, one is the construction of a camera store in the South Plains area, another is a several hundred bale of cotton trade pending with several farmers. The exchange has the ability to offer unencumbered cotton almost 20% more than the current market price. This is a little closer to parity to the farmer. Another trade pending is with a local auto dealer. Cars for computer equipment — about a hundred thousand dollars worth."

Get full details now: meet Larry Goldston and staff . . . and profit accordingly; the bartering program can work for you, too!

YOUNG'S WELCOMES FAIR VISITORS — Saluting the Lubbock Gem & Mineral Society (with its booth at the Fair) and at the same time telling of the host of rare and unique items at Young's Rocks & Gems, owner Fred Young and staff member Ilse Bessent are shown here calling attention to a grouping of gold chains and bracelets among the "goodies" there.

Visits Invited To Informative Gem & Mineral Society Exhibit

Welcome to the Panhandle South Plains Fair underway in friendly Lubbock! Welcome to the very interesting and informative exhibit prepared and operated by the Lubbock Gem & Mineral Society, located in the Children's Barnyard Building at the Fair. And welcome... always... to Young's Rocks & Gems at its home on the west side of Interstate 27, just across from the south boundary of the Lubbock Regional Airport. (Highway construction notwithstanding, a trip to Young's Rocks & Gems is well worth the time and effort!) Year after year, increasing interest has been justifiably directed to the big exhibit of the Lubbock Gem & Mineral Society in which Young's actively participates. The Lubbock society has been most active and has experienced a growth and popularity that should make its exhibit of prime interest. This is sixth annual fall show of the society and it includes working demonstrations as well as exhibits... of precious and semi-precious stones, lapidary equipment, turquoise and Indian jewelry, and more. See Young's display that actually will be a small representative stock from throughout the huge selection to be found at the firm's facility just north of Lubbock. Young's will be open, of course, during the fair. For every age, for everyone whether an avid hobbyist or just appreciating the beautiful, different, and interesting, Young's holds exceptional educational, informative and pleasurable interest, to say nothing of great buys in its several departments. Don't wait; visit Young's now at its location north of Lubbock, just west across Interstate 27 from the south boundary of Lubbock Regional Airport. A visit there can be a revelation, just as it has been for others of a wide multi-state region who have found the Lubbock shop outstanding in selection and quality. Young's has earned a reputation throughout the Southwest as a dependable source of supply, whether for the Indian crafts, such as concho belts, bracelets, rings, etc., but also for an unbelievable collection of gem stones, rubies, emeralds, opals, turquoise, silver, lapidary supplies, etc. Many of its items are actually seldom seen in the entire area — except at Young's. On display are some items worth hundreds of dollars. Young's has become well known and accepted, not only in the Lubbock and South Plains area but throughout the Southwest where word of its large and discriminating selection has spread. Possibly best known for its most enviable collection of Indian jewelry (with a turquoise collection that is almost unbelievable), Young's provides a revelation also in gems, lapidary supplies and much more. Appropriate selections for all occasions for gifting can be found there for the avid hobbyist or for folks who simply like something unusual, pretty, valuable and in so many instances downright useful! (Lapidary equipment including polishers, saws, etc., are excellent for the child, hobbyist or professional and are available in modestly-priced starter selections or the most elaborate equipment.) Turquoise For finest hand-made turquoise creations from the best known Indian craftsmen, Young's is the ready supply source. Furthermore the Youngs know Indian lore and love to talk about the origin and history of the different objects offered, making a trip to Young's a very, very pleasant experience for the novice or professional alike, for children or adults. The gem and rock selections are grouped for convenient viewing and selection. Sandstone Pictures There are sandstone pictures. They probably are the most unusual specimens one has seen locally. A large grouping is presented of these most attractive rocks from Monab, Utah. Starter Sets Raw and polished stones and minerals are stocked in large quantities, and a "starter" selection from these is most inexpensive. Drilled turquoise, ready for stringing, is available, together with all accessories for bead stringing. And African trade beads — get them at Young's! Publications Maybe a book on one's favorite gem or mineral pursuit or hobby is desired; then select from lapidary, turquoise, Indian Craft and Gem Trails publications at Young's. Multiple Choices Imagine, being able to select from peacock copper, Texas petrified palm, Brazilian Agate, Australian Chrysoprase, rhodonite from Colorado, Apache agate from Mexico, fluorite from New Mexico, Bruneau Jasper from Idaho, beautiful coconut geodes, Amazonite, pyrite, amethyst, bloodstone, red moss from Mexico, Apache tears from Arizona; African malachite, blue lace and sodalite also from Africa, bloodstone from India, Utah varicite, Colorado covellite, smoky quartz, snow frostee quartz, brochantite, tourmaline from Brazil, opalized wood, Montezuma agate... and more!
