

Carter Threatens Veto Of Tax Cut Conference Due On Compromise

Probe Funds Woes Faced By Montford

By BOB CAMPBELL

THE MAN who will become Lubbock County's chief prosecutor Jan. 1 wants to reopen several unsolved murder cases. However, that effort may be hampered by the reluctance of the state Criminal Justice Division to give him $57,000 to hire four additional investigators.

John T. Montford, criminal district attorney-elect, recently learned he may not get the grant and is going to Lubbock County commissioners for the money, he said Tuesday.

"I'll draw some criticism for trying to kick this back onto the county," he said, "but I'm just trying to do what I think is right and best for the county."

"I think these murderers that are running around here, if they are running around here, should not have the luxury of not being sought after by the various law enforcement agencies," he said.

Three Investigators Provided

The office would continue to have three investigators. Failure to receive the grant would eliminate funding the extra four investigators.

"I feel we need at least one per district court," Montford said. "That's in conformity with most major metropolitan areas."

"I will reopen several homicide cases," he added, "and I'll need more investigators to help on those."

"We may not solve any homicides, but we can't stop just because we don't have any new leads."

Pyle Death Included

Among the cases he will reopen after he takes office, he said, are those of A.J. Prim, a city zoning administrator who was shot in his car on July 7, 1970, in East Lubbock, and Forrest Barnett "Barney" Pyle Jr., a wealthy cattleman and businessman whose death controversially was ruled accidental.

Other cases to be re-examined include nightclub dancer Marcella Valenzuela, found Jan. 5, 1976, in her apartment, and Vickie Stroud Stokes, whose decomposed and almost nude body was found April 29, 1975, in a cellar near Wolfthorpe.

Prim, 50, was shot six times with a .22-caliber weapon and lived 16 days at Methodist Hospital. He told officers he had worked late at city hall and had stopped at a street light at East 19th Street and Quirt Avenue when a black man jumped into his car, pointed a pistol at him and forced him to drive east to an isolated field where he was shot.

Pyle, 37, was found Aug. 16, 1974, in the back seat of his station wagon at 50th Street and Indiana Avenue. An inquest resulted in a ruling that he died after consuming too much alcohol, but

Royal Gorge Bridge Leap Kills Girl

CANON CITY, Colo. (UPI) — A 17-year-old Colorado Springs girl walked onto the world's highest suspension bridge and leaped 1,055 feet to her death into the swift Arkansas River before two horrified on-lookers, authorities said Tuesday.

Police said they were able to identify the girl through papers in her purse, which she left on the Royal Gorge Bridge, but refused to release the name. They also refused to identify the Illinois couple who viewed the suicide.

"The couple said they were walking across the bridge when they saw the girl on the edge," a spokesman said. "As they returned, they saw her stand up and then go over the edge."

The bridge, a scenic attraction located 12 miles west of town, overlooks the winding Arkansas River and the tracks of the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad.

The teen-ager, who left no note behind to explain her action, landed in the river about 200 yards downstream and was carried another 100 yards. The Fremont County Search and Rescue team discovered the body wedged in rocks about 4 feet underwater.

Agency Okays Bilingual Education Plan

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

THE U.S. Office for Civil Rights has approved the Lubbock public schools' bilingual education plan, thus bringing to conclusion an investigation that began three years ago.

But the belated approval comes as little consolation to Lubbock Independent School District administrators, who say delays by the office cost the district a $133,307 federal grant.

If civil rights officials had acted on the local bilingual plan a few months earlier, the school system probably would have had a chance to secure federal desegregation assistance funds, Superintendent Ed Irons said.

The Office for Civil Rights announced in January, 1975, that it would investigate Lubbock and 330 other districts for com-

Clements Urges New Webb County Probe

By CANDY SAGON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A SECOND and politically unencumbered investigation into alleged widespread corruption in South Texas's Webb County is needed before next month's general election, GOP gubernatorial candidate Bill Clements charged here Tuesday.

In an exclusive interview with The Avalanche-Journal, Clements called for reopening a grand jury probe into the allegations, but without the assistance of Webb County District Attorney Charles Boucher.

Boucher and Attorney General John Hill, Democratic gubernatorial candidate, have been accused by a former Webb County official of refusing to pursue an investigation into a scheme to bilk the county of an estimated $900,000.

The alleged scheme became a hot political issue 10 days ago following a boycott of the county in The Dallas Morning News.

In the story, former district superintendent Joe M. Guerra accused Hill of refusing to investigate the matter because the attorney general feared loss of support from political leaders in Laredo.

A sworn affidavit by Guerra, sent anonymously to The Dallas newspaper, reported Hill as saying, "How do you expect me to investigate when I have a lot of friends in Laredo?"

Hill subsequently labeled the newspaper story "false."

Clements said Tuesday three of his campaign workers had been to Laredo prior to the publication of the story "to see if there was any substance" to the charges, and to witness sworn statements by former county officials as to Hill's involvement in the matter.

But, he adamantly stated, no one in his campaign contacted the Dallas newspaper regarding the story, or anonymously sent the Dallas News reporter a copy of the affidavit.

"I don't know how they got the information, but how they got it is beside the (Controversy Over Candidate Support Simmers, Page 14, Sec. A) point. Whatever has happened is due to Hill's action or inaction — he did it to himself," Clements said.

The Republican candidate said he personally "never discussed the matter with the (officials involved) in Laredo."

"I have not read the affidavit and don't know the details. But I feel where there's this much smoke, there's bound to be a fire," Clements said.

The Dallas businessman said Webb County commissioners legally could request that a grand jury investigate the corruption charges without the district attorney being involved.

"This district attorney (Boucher) has said he is for Hill and I think this is a conflict of interest," Clements said.

"I hope the investigation could be done before the election," he added.

Clements' own campaign earlier had come under attack from a Garza County judge who claimed he never authorized

Former Aides Urge Bullock To Resign

AUSTIN (AP) — Comptroller Bob Bullock, who claims he brought a dead office to life, has been urged by two former aides to resign to avoid scandal and, perhaps, to conserve his health.

Bill Collier, former director of tax information, and Collier's assistant George Kuempel also urged Bullock in their letter of resignation Oct. 2 to fire chief deputy Ralph Wayne.

A third employee, Jim McNabb, quit Saturday, alleging that another employee had indicated he had changed flight logs requested by two reporters.

Bullock announced Tuesday that Collier's replacement in the $32,500-a-year job will be Tony Proffitt, who has worked for Rep. Jake Pickle, D-Texas, and the state insurance board.

Collier and Kuempel said they had on numerous occasions informed Bullock or Wayne of unspecified "actions that could be considered wrong legally or morally."

They said Bullock — who is unopposed for his second four-year term in the November general election — should resign to avoid "the inevitable scandals that will one day envelop the comptroller's office and everyone who works here."

"However, they said, 'you have shown yourself incapable of correcting these matters more than temporarily or cosmetically. Moreover, your recent actions show that your arrogance toward the law and disrespect for the public trust placed in you is worse than ever. In short, it's clear that we're fighting a losing battle.'"

Bullock responded, "I'm sitting here trying to wiggle a dagger out of my back and figure out, 'Who's Brutus?'"

He refused to release the letters, but newspapers published excerpts.

"Frankly," said Bullock, "I don't know what it's all about."

He said, however, Collier had complained that office personnel were doing private business on the state's time. He said Kuempel had never said anything was wrong and, as for McNabb, "I can't figure that one either."

Bullock said Collier had told him in June that another employee, Jay Brummett, was spending "too much time on personal business for Ralph (Wayne) and

KHALED SATISFACTORY

CLEVELAND (AP) — Saudi Arabian King Khaled remains in satisfactory condition in the Cleveland Clinic after undergoing surgery a week ago, officials said Tuesday. Khaled, 64, underwent a double coronary bypass last Thursday at the clinic.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter said Tuesday he won't hesitate to veto a $29.3 billion tax cut bill passed by the Senate, but could accept a compromise that comes closer to the $16.3 billion House version.

Carter told a nationally broadcast news conference he will meet today at the White House with Sen. Russell Long, D-La. and Rep. Al Ulman, D-Ore., the heads of the tax-writing committees, to try to work out a compromise he can sign.

"Hopefully, the three of us can agree on an acceptable package," the president said.

Veto Threat Precedes Senate Action

Carter's veto threat came several hours before Senate passage of the measure Tuesday night by an 86-4 vote.

Carter said he would accept a bill that is fair and progressive, and combines "the best elements" of the Senate and House measures.

On other matters, the president conceded it is now "unlikely" that Congress will approve his proposal to create a new federal Department of Education before it adjourns this weekend.

And he hinted that conclusion of an Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty could depend to some extent on the speed with which the Israelis move to end their military government in the occupied West Bank, and to replace it with a proposed self-governing authority.

Carter said the Egyptian-Israeli treaty talks which open in Washington on Thursday "are not legally interconnected" with the West Bank issue.

"But I think throughout the Camp David talks and in the minds of myself, Prime Minister (Menachem) Begin, and President (Anwar) Sadat, they are interrelated," he said.

Discussion Seen

Carter said there is "no doubt in my mind" that both issues will be discussed during the Egyptian-Israeli treaty talks.

Carter also acknowledged indirectly that the CIA has been making payments to Soviet defector Arkady Shevchenko, but denied that the agency was paying the full $5,000 per month allegedly paid to a female companion for the Russian.

"The payments ... don't equal what the woman said were paid for her favors, or services," Carter said.

The president also said he has not decided whether he will submit a U.S.-Soviet pact on strategic arms limitation to Congress as a treaty, but "my preference" is to do so.

Submission Studied

Carter, who has said he hopes to conclude such an agreement this year, is considering whether to submit it as a treaty, which would require a two-thirds majority in the Senate, or as an executive agreement, which would require only a simple majority of both the House and Senate.

"My preference is to submit it as a treaty," he said.

Carter said the alleged sale to the Soviets of an operating manual for U.S. spy satellites hasn't affected strategic arms talks or robbed the United States of the ability to count Russian missiles and check for cheating on agreements to limit them.

Ex-CIA Man Charged

A federal indictment charges that former CIA officer William F. Kampiles, 23, earlier this year sold the manual to a Soviet agent in Athens, Greece. Kampiles, who denies the charge, is scheduled to go on trial Oct. 31.

On another matter, Carter said that despite criticism of his policies by Colorado Gov. Richard Lamm, he thinks most Western governors back him. And the president said that when he travels in the West, "I feel very well received."

Returning to the tax issue, Carter said the House-passed tax cut is not too costly. See CARTER Page 14

Fight Results In Death Of Lubbock Woman

POLICE LATE Tuesday had three juvenile males in custody following a gang fight earlier that afternoon which ended in the death of a 19-year-old Lubbock woman.

Marie Booker Lyons was pronounced dead about 5:20 p.m. at her 402 Walnut St. home. She apparently had been beaten on the head and upper body, but police said they were not certain what weapon had been used.

Justice of the Peace L.J. Black is withholding a ruling on the young woman's death pending the outcome of an autopsy.

According to reports, the woman was injured after she became involved in a large fight about 4:40 p.m. at the Alderson Junior High School baseball diamond, just across the street from her home.

One of her brothers reportedly carried the injured woman from the school grounds to her home and placed her on the living room couch.

Officers had been summoned to break up a group of youths gathering at the 7-Eleven store at Parkway and Zenith Avenue only minutes before. After dispersing the crowd — which at one point grew to 200 persons — moved to the school yard and another patrol unit was sent to that area.

One witness said the fight stemmed from a dispute between two teen-agers, but friends of both quickly entered the fight. Several neighborhood adults tried to break up the crowd after it moved to the Alderson area and additional patrolmen also were called.

Mrs. Lyons, however, was struck before the police back-up units arrived, according to reports.

Services for Mrs. Lyons are pending with Jamison and Sons Funeral Home.

Warm Weather To Continue For Area

A low pressure system developing west of the Lubbock area should allow Tuesday's warm temperatures to remain in the South Plains through Thursday. Temperatures reached to 81 Tuesday and are expected to rise into the mid 80s today and Thursday, as winds continue to blow from the west. Winds only blew about 5 mph in the Hub City Tuesday but should speed up to 10 to 15 mph today. The system should begin giving way to cooler temperatures by Friday, holding the mercury to the mid 70s in the afternoons and near 50 during morning hours through Sunday. Generally, fair skies remained over the South Plains Tuesday, but thundershowers pelted portions of the mountain areas in southwest Texas Tuesday afternoon. No rain, however, is in the forecast for those regions of the state today. Fair skies and mild temperatures also are predicted for the rest of the state through today. Temperatures across the state at 4 p.m. Tuesday ranged from 88 at El Paso to 78 at Del Rio. The same system that affected portions of the state today also created showers in Iowa, Illinois, Missouri and Arkansas as it spread across much of the nation. Sunny skies however, prevailed along the both coasts and in the lower parts of the Mississippi Valley. Warm to mild temperatures are expected for much of the southern half of the nation today, while cooler temperatures are expected in the north. TREATY DEFENDED WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration was urged Tuesday to seek congressional approval before cancelling an existing defense treaty with Taiwan. Sen. Barry Goldwater introduced a resolution saying he'd challenge the administration in court if it seeks to annul an existing treaty between the United States and the Republic of China.

Testimony Begins In Rape Suit Accusing Motel Of Negligence

By FRANK PATRICK
Avalanche-Journal Staff
A former motel employee was one of the first witnesses Tuesday as testimony got underway in a civil trial in which a rape victim is suing a motel chain for allegedly not providing sufficient protection.

The woman, 24 at the time, reportedly was raped in her room at the Rodeway Inn Motel, 2401 4th St., Jan. 20, 1977. She filed a civil suit in U.S. District Court against Rodeway Inns of America Inc. and individual defendants, seeking $1 million in damages. The plaintiff, reportedly a California attorney, was in Lubbock to meet with a Texas Tech University legal fraternity. She said in her petition that she was accosted by a male gunman as she was walking from an adjacent restaurant to her room about 10 p.m.

The assailant forced her into her motel room at gunpoint, raped her, and then tried to get her to cash some checks, the petition says.

According to the plaintiff, the man, in the effort to force her to cash the checks, accompanied her to the motel office, to a nearby convenience store and to the restaurant. The woman managed to escape while at the restaurant, the petition says.

The plaintiff contends the motel failed to maintain adequate lighting on the premises, failed to provide adequate security and operated the business at night in a high crime area with inexperienced employees.

Former motel employee Tom Joyce, 23, said he thought something unusual was going on when he saw the plaintiff and a man together in the motel office sometime after 10:15 p.m.

"The gentleman with her did not look compatible — he was shorter than she was and not well dressed. He was dressed in a green Army jacket and had his hand in his pocket, he never took it out," Joyce testified.

Joyce, who said he had stopped in at the office after getting off work at 10:15 p.m., said that he acted as a handyman around the motel, with an official job designation of porter. He told plaintiff attorney Bob Huff that he had had no training in motel management.

In contrast to the man, the plaintiff was well dressed, Joyce remembered.

He said the plaintiff asked the desk man how much in travelers checks she could cash and was told she could cash $60 worth. He said it was suggested that she go to the convenience store to cash more than that.

Joyce said he thought it was odd that the woman wanted so much ready cash.

When the duo left, Joyce said, the man — who, he said, had not taken part in the conversation — backed out, keeping his eyes on the two motel employees.

"Did it ever dawn on you that the man with his hand in his pocket might have a

Saccharin Warning Proposal Abandoned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration is dropping a plan to require vending machines to carry warning labels if they dispense products which include saccharin.

The labels now have to be posted in stores which sell saccharin-containing products because some studies have associated the artificial sweetener with cancer.

But the agency has decided that the problems of ensuring enforcement are too great for vending machines, plus it feels that the machine labels would not add greatly to consumer awareness of the problem.

Shaw Charges Training Contract Funds Misused

By BOB CAMPBELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Lubbock Opportunities Industrialization Center (LOIC) contract, with the South Plains Association of Governments (SPAG) for classroom training was placed in jeopardy Tuesday when County Judge Rod Show, a member of the governmental panel's board, expressed concern about a forthcoming audit of the $236,000 per year program.

Judge Show said the Oct. 15 audit will show that class participants were paid improperly for classes they did not attend.

The SPAG board empowered its executive committee to meet prior to the next regularly scheduled board meeting and take whatever action it considers appropriate.

Truett Mayes, SPAG executive director, said the alternatives might include proposing a new contract with a policy of absences not being excused under any circumstances or taking away the classroom training program contract from LOIC.

During the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, records show 347 persons were paid minimum wage for a total of $235,997 while attending vocational training classes under the supervision of LOIC counselors.

"One of the unacceptable activities is that staff members of OIC have changed time sheets on many participants to reflect that their absences were excused after the Adult Learning Center had correctly recorded the absences as unexcused, resulting in overpayment of wages to participants who weren't attending classes for which they were being paid," Shaw said in a formal statement to the board.

Shaw said he became concerned after attending a post-audit conference between government panel members and Texas Employment Commission auditors last week.

Cole and Company auditors last week. He said he did not know how much money might have been paid out for improperly excused absences.

The audit was ordered by the Texas Employment Commission, which receives the federal money from SPAG and pays it into the LOIC program.

Dianna Henderson, LOIC director, attended the SPAG board meeting at 1611 Ave. M and said class participants often called their counselors, instead of their instructors, when they had to be absent and that the counselors often changed time sheets to show absences as excused.

The Rev. A.L. Davis, the center's board chairman, was at the meeting with Mrs. Henderson, and he assured the board that any "discrepancies" reflected in the audit will be corrected if the contract is continued.

As part of the training program, which is under contingency funding by the Department of Labor, it is being continued under a contract that has to be renewed every 30 days.

Mrs. Henderson added that the time sheet problems developed when the center assumed the record-keeping responsibility in April after a payroll specialist for the governmental panel had done it through the first half of the fiscal year.

In other business, the board went to a split 8-to-8 vote on question of changing auditors or keeping the same one. Hale County Judge Henry Heck, second vice president heading the meeting in the absence of President Medlin Carpenter of Plainview and First Vice President Alan Henry of Lubbock, broke the tie by voting to change.

There were only two bidders out of the 20 Certified Public accountant firms invited: Kelly, Cole & Co., which has been auditing the council of governments agency for several years, and Mason, Nickels & Warner of Lubbock.

Shaw led the discussion in favor of changing principally on the grounds that changing auditors every three to five years "is good policy" because it brings in a fresh viewpoint on an operation.

But after the meeting adjourned at noon, said panel spokesman Charles Phillips, it was discovered that Reid Warner, a partner in the winning firm, is an elected official of Lake Ransom Canyon Village, an association member, and would have a conflict of interest as part of the auditing firm.

The Executive Committee then met Tuesday afternoon, Phillips said, and gave the contract to Kelly, Cole & Co.

In the regular monthly meeting at 9:30 a.m., the directors approved a $70,830 grant application to the Texas Commission on Alcoholism to fund operations of the Plains Detox Center in Lubbock.

The 2507 Amherst center already has applied for money from the Texas Criminal Justice Division and was asking a second application in case the first is not approved.

Applications were approved for $19,432 and $41,452 from the Alcoholism Commission to operate a 33-bed halfway house for alcoholics, Coronado Minority Outreach Project House, in Plainview and a rural employee assistance project through businesses with problem drinkers in the nine-county area served by Central Plains center in Plainview.

A $19,045 application to the Criminal Justice Division to fund the Texas Boys Ranch vocational and education project was withdrawn. The panel staff reported that staff turnover at Roosevelt Independent School District, the grantee, made the project impossible to continue after last February and that another application was made on the contingency that another instructor would be hired in August.

An instructor was not found, they said. The board voted to apply for a $20,000 grant calling for $18,000 in matching funds for aerial infra-red photographs of area cities to show which homes are losing excessive heat and which would benefit from better insulation.

The grant would be from the office of the governor. Jim Lancaster of Idalou, a Lubbock County commissioner and chairman of the panel's building committee, said the old Lubbock schools administration building at 1700 26th St. might not be suitable as new headquarters for the governmental group.

The committee voted Sept. 29 to move its offices to the building because of the extra space it would provide, but Lancaster said it was later learned that it is laid out in such a way that there might be no advantage to the move.

The building lease at 1611 Avenue M expired at the end of September and the offices are to be moved by Nov. 1.

Committee member Carolyn Jordan said an extension obviously will have to be asked.

Lancaster said the present building is costing about $39,000 per year and the other one would be about $50,000.

Tech Football Chronicled In New Release

The 53-year history and tradition of Texas Tech football have been fully documented by text and photograph for the first time.

Beginning with the first game against McMurry College in 1925 to the Tangerine Bowl contest against Florida State in 1976, the history of the Red Raiders and their predecessors, the Matadors, is chronicled by two Texas Technicians.

In a 418-page volume, "The Red Raiders: Texas Tech Football," Ralph L. Sellmeyer, professor at Texas Tech, and James E. Davidson, director of Lake Highlands School publications, Richardson, Texas, report in detail the development of the football program. Davidson is a former student assistant in the Texas Tech Sports Information Office.

Stories are included on all the Tech coaches: E.Y. Freeland, the first Tech grid mentor; Grady Higginbotham, who stayed only one year; Pete Cawthon, the colorful, famed friend of Knute Rockne; Dell Morgan, who eased Tech through the World War II years; DeWitt Weaver, who helped Tech into the Southwest Conference; JT King, whose goal for the Raiders was SWC contention, the sometimes bombastic Jim Carlen; the youthful Steve Sloan, and his promising successor, Rex Dockery.

There is an account of every game of the more than 500 Tech has played since 1925, plus statistics of Tech teams and players.

The book, published by Strode Publishers, Inc., Huntsville, Ala., is just off the press and going into commercial distribution.

Diggs Raises A False Point

REVERSE RACISM can not be allowed to become a safe haven for those who are guilty of corruption or other crimes in these United States.
A case in point is that of U.S. Rep. Charles C. Diggs Jr., the senior black member of Congress and founder of the Congressional Black Caucus who has been convicted on all 29 counts against him of mail fraud and falsified payroll forms.
Federal prosecutors were "out to get me," Diggs complained after the verdict was in.
Well, we certainly hope so! Federal prosecutors ought to be "out to get" any Congressman who violates the law. That's their job.

He faces a maximum of five years in prison on each of the 29 counts and up to $191,000 in fines, but Diggs nonetheless says he fully expects to be re-elected next month.

If he is, his constituents would stand indicted alongside him in the court of public opinion. If, instead, they turn him out by a heavy margin, his constituents will serve notice that black voters resent Diggs' efforts to pull them into the mire with him.

THE MICHIGAN DEMOCRAT has been found guilty of raising the pay of employes in his Congressional office and requiring them to kick back the money to him.

Detroit Mayor Coleman Young, U.S. Rep. John Conyers Jr. and other high-placed black politicians have lined up alongside him. His conviction has recalled the scandal that surrounded former Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, who also was found to have abused his position of black leadership.

Diggs' press secretary said she expects there'll be an effort, even if he is re-elected, to strip him of his chairmanship of the House District of Columbia committee which has pushed hard for giving the District two senators and one or two representatives in Congress.

Diggs' corruption has not helped that cause, or any other. He could help the black minority everywhere, and the country, if he'd step out of Congress and retire gracefully in the disgrace he has brought upon himself.

DIGGS WAS IMPLYING that he was singled out for prosecution because he is black. He blithely ignored the fact that the Washington, D.C., jury which found him guilty consisted of 11 blacks and 1 white.

Even if he were "singled out"—and there's no evidence or reason to believe he was—Diggs' attempt to excuse his corrupt actions on the basis of race is an insult to every law-abiding black person in the nation.

Even if he's right that what he did is a common practice in politics—and, again, there's no reason to believe it is—Diggs' attempt to excuse his stealing from the taxpayers on the basis that "everybody's doing it" would be an indictment of the entire electorate, not a purification of his own misdeeds.

AN EDITORIAL:

Muddling Through--As Usual

NO MATTER how things wind up this week, Congress isn't exactly going home in a blaze of glory.

Not can the House and Senate alone be blamed for the last-minute crush of major legislation which has threatened to force a lame-duck session.

The Carter Administration and inept White House handling of some key issues, shuffled aside for "pet" projects such as the Panama Canal and ERA, must share the "credit" for the logjam.

THE STORY in Washington this week is a familiar one, at least to Texas residents.

Each session of the Legislature, Texans, who are footing the bill, are witness to their elected servants fooling around and heading into the last frantic hours with some of the most important, and emotional, legislation of the year facing crucial decisions.

It is neither the time nor atmosphere in which to make sound judgments.

The same is true of Congress where the Energy bill and the massive tax relief legislation have been caught up in a muddle of special interest matters and efforts to attach "riders" to them.

IT SEEMS MOST odd that both the White House and Congress would dilly-dally around to this point in time with so much of such importance hanging over their heads.

We can think back over the past few months when days and weeks have been spent, we are tempted to say wasted, on parliamentary maneuvers and arguments over legislation which flew in the face of what a majority of the American voters wanted.

The aforementioned Panama Canal treaties, the ERA extension battle, statehood for Washington, D.C., and the repeated efforts to cram so-called reform labor legislation through are a few examples.

REGARDLESS OF how things are resolved, either this week or the lame-duck session, the fact remains that Congress has wound up with a record of which it can't brag, even with a tax cut.

Nor can President Carter and his top aides who have spent as much time learning the ropes and arguing with Congress as they have in getting things done—or listening to what the people really want.

That, in case someone up there hasn't been listening, still is having something done about double-digit inflation, a firmer policy toward the Russians and far, far less meddling in the everyday affairs of everyone!

HENRY J. TAYLOR:

Spain Should Be Used In Dealing With Arabs

MADRID—Spanish Foreign Minister Marcelino Oreja, 46, is in charge of the Ministerio de Relaciones Exteriores. Centuries ago this was a prison for errant nobles and is today the magnificent Palacio Santa Cruz.

The Palacio Santa Cruz is only a few steps from the Puerta del Sol, the historic heart of Madrid and the geographic center of Spain itself. You find that all highway kilometer markings in this country are calculated from the Puerta del Sol and shown on road signs throughout this country.

The Ministerio does not open until four in the afternoon. It closes at 10, which is the hour when Spain's foreign policy goes to dinner.

A MAGNIFICENT marble staircase in the center of the Palacio divides it in such a way as to make a great wall. This double stairway shapes into a balcony creating the second floor. This floor harbors a series of offices, including that of Foreign Minister Oreja.

You find him sitting there among immense portraits that gaze down from the calm eternity of their gilded frames.

Spain has never recognized Israel. Oreja feels that in the Arab world that fact is decisive. He believes that top Spanish officials understand the Arabs better than President Carter. Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, White House Principle Assistant for National Security Zbigniew Brzezinski.

Oreja states that Spain's Arab heritage is a latent asset for the United States.

He is convinced that an intensified effort by President Carter and others to obtain Spain's views and assistance would be exceedingly well received in the Arab world.

Oreja probably is right.

Oreja FEELS Spain's roots in the Arab world, Spain's affiliations with Arab leaders and her understanding of Arab viewpoints—these assets to the United States—remain unused by President Carter, et al. And he feels that the reason is because Washington apparently construes these assets as clashing with Israel's interests.

Indeed, arguing this contention that America's policy is pro-Israel is a constant problem inside the Foreign office.

IN 756 ARAH Abd er Rhaman, a picturesque character endowed with a luxuriant red beard, one flaming blue eye and a shrewd brain, invaded Spain from North Africa. He became Europe's most powerful king and laid the foundation for the great Arab caliphate that affects Spain to this very day.

Abd er Rhaman made Cordoba Europe's greatest city. Paris and London were little villages. Cordoba had 300 mosques. You still can see there an ancient Christian church built on the foundations of an earlier Mosque.

The wonder city had such unheard-of things as street lighting, running water in the houses and 90 public baths. Arabs were bathing in Cordoba—luxuriously—at a time when students at Oxford considered it dangerous to take a bath.

"In sha'allah (God willing)" is the key word and philosophy in the Arab world. The conception means bowing to the inevitable. This is the Arab nature, nearly impossible for President Carter to understand.

The caliphate lasted until 1013. Not until 479 years later (1492) did a Christian Spanish unification gradually emerge.

AS A RESULT of the 700 years of Arab occupation the Islamic world is the Moors of Spain. Today's Spanish-Arab relations, an outstanding fact of national life here, reflects this Arab heritage.

Oreja also is convinced that President Carter's utilization of Spain's "in" with the Latin American world would pay off for the United States.

More than 600 Latin-American towns are named for Spanish cities and Spanish relations there are traditional. Oreja insists that improved American-Spanish relations could give the United States a strong lift.

President Carter is missing a matter of the greatest importance by falling, among other things, to come here.

'Could You Speak A Little Louder?'

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK:

Anti-Inflation Ante

WASHINGTON—The switch of conservative Republicans to President Carter's side in the battle to sustain his veto of the public works bill was dramatic evidence of Republican efforts to exploit anti-inflation politics for the Nov. 7 election against higher-spending Democrats.

Although Rep. John Rhodes, the House Republican leader, backed House Speaker Thomas P. (Tip) O'Neill and the Democratic leadership in trying to overturn the veto, Rep. Bob Michel of Illinois, Rhodes' Republican whip, and 61 other Republicans, most of them conservatives, ignored Rhodes and went the other way.

"They put their votes where their mouths are," one Republican operative told us, meaning that conservatives now leading the campaign against high taxes and high spending followed Jimmy Carter's anti-inflation lead to kill 27 expensive public works projects he does not want.

When the public works bill originally passed the House, only 22 Republicans voted against it.

But on the effort by the Democrats to override the President's veto, which requires a two-thirds vote, 62 Republicans voted to sustain the President, guaranteeing more than enough votes to uphold the veto.

Most were conservatives and they included a blue-ribbon list of leading right-of-center Republicans.

Reps. Robert Bauman and Marjorie Holt of Maryland, Elford Cederberg of Michigan, John Ashbrook and Sam Devine of Ohio, Robert Dornan of California and John Wylder of New York.

By supplying enough votes to the Carter side to assure defeat of the override attempt, these Republicans put themselves on the leading edge of the political battle against high taxes and high spending that is dominating the congressional election campaign.

RONALD REAGAN'S muted opposition to the anti-homosexual referendum in California, while disturbing to his most fervent right-wing backers, is part of a long-range move to moderate his position for the 1980 presidential campaign.

Polls show a substantial majority favoring California's Proposition 6, probably the toughest of many anti-homosexual ballot proposals around the country that began in Dade County, Fla., last year.

And that poses something of a dilemma for Reagan, winter book favorite for the Republican nomination.

"RON DOESN'T want to be put in the position of being a witch-hunter," one close adviser told us.

On the other hand, ardent Reaganites in California are ardent backers of Proposition 6.

One insider urged Reagan to fess the issue by saying he was studying it—right past the Nov. 7 election day.

Instead, Reagan has publicly called Proposition 6 unnecessary and superfluous to accomplish its avowed goal of preventing homosexual schoolteachers from indoctrinating students, activity now prohibited by state law.

A POTENTIAL new source of friction between President Carter and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is Kennedy's advice that the tax reduction bill likely to emerge from Congress should be vetoed.

Kennedy objects to the lack of reforms (such as restrictions on the three-martini lunch) and to substantial tax reductions in high income brackets.

Carter shares the same concerns, but it is entirely conceivable that he would sign a bill Kennedy thinks should be vetoed.

In the past, Kennedy had praised President Carter for taking positions close to his own on matters dear to the senator's heart: national health insurance and tax reform.

They split on the health question during the summer; now there looms a possible divergence on tax legislation.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE Peter Flaherty showed why he is running well ahead for governor of Pennsylvania when he skipped a big party fund-raising dinner in Harrisburg Oct. 3 featuring none other than Vice President Walter F. Mondale.

Flaherty, former mayor of Pittsburgh and briefly President Carter's deputy attorney general, wants no identification with the Pennsylvania Democratic establishment.

Two-term Gov. Milton Shapp is massively unpopular and the state's Democratic party regulars are tainted with corruption.

So Flaherty wanted no part of the Harrisburg dinner, even with the vice president there.

"Pete didn't intend to wind up in the same newspaper picture with Milt Shapp," a Democratic insider told us.

"He was better off that night shaking hands in western Pennsylvania."

Offhand Thoughts...

Reports are that an elephant at the London Zoo has been stealing pocketbooks from ladies who stop to look at him in his enclosure. He probably just got tired of working for peanuts.

"No-fault insurance hasn't affected my practice adversely," said the lawyer. "After all, it still takes us pros to figure out whose no-fault it is."

JAY HARRIS: Just One Side?..

THE DRAMA being played out in Washington this week, featuring Rhodesia's Ian Smith and the U.S. State Department, represents one of the ironies of today's world.

On the one hand, we have the Rhodesian Prime Minister, accompanied by one of three new black co-leaders of his embattled nation, making a plea for an internal settlement within the country.

On the other, we have the U.S. State Department, led by Sec. of State Cyrus Vance, and U.S. Amb. to the UN Andrew Young, pushing for Smith to accept a plan which would include two Marxist-backed black guerrilla leaders. At stake is not only who will rule Rhodesia, but how.

How we arrived at this point in time not only is a commentary on what is happening in Southern Africa, but the role the U.S., and in this case Britain, is playing in aiding and abetting what amounts to a Communist takeover of another vital area with its strategic minerals.

MUCH OF THE rhetoric over Rhodesia, and indeed all of Southern Africa, is lost in a bunch of mumbo jumbo about human rights, one-man, one-vote and black majority rule.

Rhodesia, for those who have forgotten, unilaterally declared its independence from Britain more than a decade ago, and set out on a course of white rule under Smith.

Ever since, Smith and Rhodesia have been under increasing pressure to turn the country over to a black majority. For years, the nation prospered under white rule, its farms, businesses and chronic firms managing to do business with the West.

Gradually, political and economic sanctions, along with the Marxist-backed guerrillas, waging war from neighboring Zambia under Joshua Nkomo and Mozambique under Robert Mubutu, have brought the nation to the brink of disaster.

TO MEET THE new pressures, Prime Minister Smith finally agreed to set up an internal transition to black majority rule.

In the transition, whites would retain 28 seats in the 100-seat parliament, and general elections would be held, hopefully by year's end, in which the principle of one-man, one-vote would prevail. Three black leaders reported to represent a major segment of the Rhodesian black population accepted the plan.

Excluded were the Popular Front leaders, Nkomo and Mubutu, who have vowed to keep fighting, and who have indicated they do not favor general elections, claiming they already represent the majority in Rhodesia.

Prime Minister Smith's plan flies in the face of one hammered out by Amb. Young and the British, a plan known as the "all parties" peace conference in which Nkomo and Mubutu would participate. In other words, a plan whereby the Marxist-backed guerrillas would be invited in under U.S. and British auspices.

SMITH AND the moderate black leaders in Rhodesia made a plea to the U.S. to accept their compromise solution instead.

Washington, with Amb. Young leading the opposition and President Carter backing his "good friend" to the hilt, has remained adamant.

In fact, Smith almost didn't make it to the U.S. to plead his case with the American people, although both Nkomo and Mubutu were welcomed with open arms earlier. It took an invitation from 27 U.S. senators to get the U.S. finally to grant Smith and the three black moderate leaders visas to come to the U.S.

Sen. S. I. Hayakawa, R-Calif., who initiated the invitation, accused the U.S. State Department, after its flagrant delay of granting the visas, of "an incredible display of spinelessness and pusillanimity." The Washington Post said the stall was a "shabby game."

AND THE Wall Street Journal accused the State Department, in effect, of losing credibility in its handling of the case and questioning Washington's whole stance in the middle.

Recently, a group of Christian clergymen from Southern Africa were invited to the U.S. for a speaking tour by American churchmen. One, a black Rhodesian, was not able to get a visa because he carries a Rhodesian passport.

The others of the multiracial group were allowed in. Their message is that they feel Christianity in Southern Africa is endangered by Communism. According to The WSJ, they were advised to register as foreign agents since they might be accused of spreading "political propaganda." The Americans who invited them were given the same advice.

In other words, it is okay for the likes of Andy Young and the Marxist-backed guerrilla leaders to spout their beliefs across the land, but not for concerned Christian ministers to do the same!

THE U.S. STATE Department argument is that if the outside Marxist-backed Popular Front leaders are not included in a Rhodesian settlement, then they will continue to wage a bloody civil war.

Such a conflict, if prolonged, eventually could bring in more Russian arms and Cuban soldiers. Should this happen and the UN and U.S. continue to press for the also questionable settlement in South West Africa (Namibia), in which another Red-oriented guerrilla group, SWAPO, is active, then it is conceivable that the Republic of South Africa could become involved in an all-out racial war in coming to the aid of whites in both Rhodesia and Namibia.

Then the U.S. would be confronted with the choice of backing the white regime in the Republic of South Africa or, heaven forbid, coming down on the side of the Communists and their stooges and thus adding one more act in the destruction of the Free World.
Smith's plan may not be the best of all worlds. But it does give the blacks in Rhodesia a voice, and not one choked off by a Communist nose. And by the way, when was the last time anyone asked you what you thought about U.S. policy in Southern Africa?

Girl Scouting Seen As Family Affair

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles dealing with agencies supported by the United Way of Lubbock. Except for officials of the United Way agencies involved, names used are fictitious to protect the identities of those served. However, the stories reflect actual case histories.

"I look at girl scouting as a family affair," said Mrs. Anita Randall, expressing her philosophy as a mother and girl scout leader. "I can involve my whole family and sometimes it's hard to get parents into scouting," she said. Indeed, Mrs. Randall did get her family into the scouting spirit — from her husband's simple chauffeuring jobs for the girls to the children, John, John Jr., Beth and Rita — accompanying their Girl scout leader-mother on camping trips.

The Girl scout Caprock Council is a United Way agency and will receive $76,900 from the 1979 United Way goal of $1,682,300.

Mrs. Randall related that she began as a Girl Scout leader when her oldest daughter, Beth, became interested in joining the organization about five years ago. Mrs. Randall figured that joining her daughter in the enterprise was better than letting her go alone and this decision was beneficial to both.

"Scouting gave me the opportunity to know Beth and grow up with her. It also let me 'stay up' with the changing times," Mrs. Randall said. "It was a learning experience and we were learning together."

Mrs. Randall said she sees a great need for scouting in the changing society she wants better to understand. "We need leadership. The kids now don't know what direction to take. I feel that scouting fills that gap. Scouting is the answer. It gives them the opportunity to grow and to get along with others. Most of all it enables them to learn their potential," she said.

As a troop leader for growing girls, Mrs. Randall said she noticed the growing and changing interests of her girl scouts. She said most of the small girls want to do simple crafts while in elementary school they enjoy cooking and as teenagers the girls want to be going all the time.

She said she felt many girls may drop scouting when they enter junior high and she feels a group troop leader can prevent this with interesting activities. "If you want to keep a good troop you have to keep the girls active. There's plenty to offer, it's harder, but the offering is there. The leader has to offer it to the girls."

Mrs. Randall's daughter is a prime example of a girl who stayed in scouting and is reaping enormous benefits. This year Beth went to the World Center meeting of the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts in Cuernavaca, Mexico. Mrs. Randall said her daughter loved the trip, making new friends from around the world.

Pat Harris, director of the Girl Scouts Caprock Council, said the World Center trip is part of the World Association of Girl Scouts and Girl Guides plan to improve international relations. Eight Girl Scouts and two adults from the council were selected to make the trip to Mexico, out of its local membership of 4,419 girls and 1,107 in 18 surrounding counties.

Mrs. Randall said that when her daughter came home she seemed so much more grown up and sensitive to others. However, Miss Harris maintained that this is an objective of scouting. "We hope the girls find a set of values and stick to them. The Girl Scouts is trying to grow with the times. We want to teach girls to respect others and themselves."

Mrs. Randall stepped down from her post as troop leader this year, as her oldest daughter is entering senior scouting. "There are some things we would have never been able to give to Beth that scouting has provided her with. For me being a troop leader was a challenge. You not only have to live the adult life but the little girl life, too."

Mrs. Randall is probably not too sad about leaving her troop. She has a full-time job and, besides, her youngest daughter is getting into Girl Scouting and she'll need a troop leader too.

The Girl Scouts Caprock Council is among 34 United Way agencies.

Voter Turnout Crucial To Demos

AUSTIN (AP) — The success of Texas Democrats on Nov. 7 depends on their success in getting out the traditional Democratic vote, state party chairman Billy Goldberg said Tuesday.

"We are witnessing the most latent attempt to purchase public office we have ever seen," Goldberg told the first meeting of the new State Democratic Executive Committee. "We have never had this kind of campaign before."

Goldberg did not mention any names but the 52 committee members spent much of their time examining copies of a campaign newspaper put out by Republican Bill Clements in his battle with Democrat John Hill for governor. Goldberg was Hill's personal choice for the party chairmanship.

"At least some of the races depend on how we get out the Democratic vote," Goldberg said. "The surveys show that 51 percent of Texas voters call themselves Democrats, 15 percent say they are Republicans and the rest say they are independents."

Goldberg earlier said he expected a voter turnout of about 3 million out of the estimated 6 million persons registered.

A number of state committee members said their senatorial districts were caught in the "apathy" of Democrats who think they do not have to work to win.

"Our area has always been Democratic but there is a great deal of apathy ... the Republicans have moved in and have strong organizations," said Barbara Montgomery of Rockwall.

"I am concerned about our 15 counties," said J.W. Cox of Nacogdoches. "We are not united behind our candidates. We will have a difficult time getting out the right people."

"There's apathy and lots of undecided voters," said Dorothy Gunn of Madisonville. "Our polls show about 32 percent undecided."

"It's a question of whether we can create the enthusiasm to get out the vote," said Rep. Anthony Hall, D-Houston.

"We have a problem in Dallas County with the Hill campaign," said Don Mason of Dallas. "We expect Dallas to go for Clements."

Other district representatives were more optimistic.

"The Democratic ticket will carry in our area," said Ed Miller, Texarkana.

"I think we've got work to do but I think we can carry the Democratic nominees," said Don Gladden of Fort Worth.

"We will carry the Democratic ticket. We are not apathetic," said June Middlebrooks, who represents part of Harris County, Galveston and several other coastal counties.

"We are concerned about apathy," said Louis Caddell, San Antonio. "We are afraid we might only get 65 percent of the vote instead of the 75 percent we would like to get."

Goldberg told the committee he was setting up an advisory committee of "senior party members" that would operate to strengthen the party. He named Calvin Gust, Bryan, former party chairman as head of the group, and named Jess Hoy, Dallas, former national committeeman, and Harry Hubbard, Texas AFL-CIO president, as members. He said other prominent Democrats, such as Rep. Barbara Jordan, D-Texas, would be added later.

Bill To Ease Tax Protests Passes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill intended to give more taxpayers a chance to go to court informally and inexpensively in disputes with the Internal Revenue Service was passed by the House Tuesday.

Sent to the Senate by voice vote, the bill would increase from $1,500 to $5,000 the limit on disputed taxes for cases eligible for handling under the optional small tax case procedures of the U.S. Tax Court.

If the taxpayer elects to use this procedure, he may plead his case informally before a commissioner appointed by the court. The commissioner reports to the court, which makes the actual decision. There is no appeal.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day for you to show interest in outside activities that could lead to greater success in your line of endeavor. Take time to make long-range plans for the future.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Contact close friends and work out joint projects intelligently. Make the evening a happy one in the company of congenials.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Study your position in your community and take steps to gain greater prestige. Be careful of strangers today.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Go to the right sources to obtain the knowledge you need to improve your situation in life. Forget the social for now.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Talking with persons who are modern-thinking can help you in career affairs. Avoid one who is a pessimist.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Confering with a trusted adviser can help you gain your aims at this time. Evening is fine for the social side of life.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A day when you can get much cooperation from others and accomplish a great deal. Sidestep one who wants to waste your time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Bring your finest talents to the attention of higher-ups and get the results you want. Get out of the rut and be happier.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You now know best how to handle situations at home that have been difficult in the past. Make your work easier.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get busy communicating with others and accomplish a great deal today. Take no risks with money at this time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) By using more modern methods you can improve your monetary situation at this time. Don't procrastinate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get an early start on the day's activities and you can accomplish a great deal. Handle your affairs in a positive manner.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Make sure you keep your side of the bargain in a promise you have made to an associate. Take needed health treatment.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... be or she will be one who likes people a great deal, so permit to have many friends in the home early in life, but screen them well for best results throughout the lifetime. A great humanitarian in the chart.

State Demo Chief Sees Good Election Turnout

By The Associated Press
About half of Texas' eligible voters will select a new governor, U.S. Senator, attorney general and a host of local candidates on Nov. 7, State Democratic Chairman Billy Goldberg predicted Tuesday.

"Three million voters would be a pretty good turnout but I would like to see it better," Goldberg told a news conference.

Goldberg said the Democratic party has concentrated its voter registration drive in precincts that have voted at least 70 percent Democratic in previous elections. "We think we have been most successful in registering more than 174,000 new Democrats," he said.

Goldberg urged the State Democratic Executive Committee later to turn their efforts to a get-out-the-vote drive. "For voter registration to be effective we must get those new voters to the polls on election day," he said.

The Texas Republican Party announced a special vote-getting reception in Midland on Tuesday, Oct. 17, with former California Gov. Ronald Reagan as the main speaker.

State GOP Chairman Ernesto Angelo, Midland mayor, said Reagan would discuss the major issues of 1978 and his analysis of the Republican campaign effort.

Angelo said Reagan also would appear at events promoting the candidacies of Jim Baker, GOP candidate for attorney general; Rep. Joe Robbins, R-Lubbock, candidate for the state senate, and GOP state House hopefuls Duff Odessa and Jim Brandon of Amarillo.

Republican gubernatorial candidate Bill Clements said in a statement that Democrat John Hill was engaging in "cheap campaign tactics" by claiming that a Clements campaign newspaper missed a photograph of Graza County Judge Giles W. Dalby of Post. Clements said Dalby signed a release on Aug. 10 giving the Clements campaign his permission to use his name, photograph and statements in advertising materials.

Hill said Monday that Dalby actually was a Hill coordinator and had never been a Clements supporter.

Hill announced that he would be honored Wednesday by his hometown of Kilgore by a John Hill Day luncheon. He said the event was being hosted by the Kilgore Rotary Club with the Lions and Kiwanis clubs as co-hosts.

In San Antonio, Mark White, Democratic candidate for attorney general, proposed a conference of all interested parties to discuss the growing problem of school violence. White said he would call such a meeting soon after the election, if elected.

In Houston, Jim Baker, GOP candidate for attorney general, announced that Julian Martinez, Dallas, has joined his campaign director of Mexican-Americans for Jim Baker. Martinez formerly was with General Medical Systems of Dallas and for three years was executive director of the Dallas Mexican-American Chamber of Commerce.

Rep. John Tower, R-Texas, said at a campaign appearance in Hamilton that he was endorsed Monday by the Houston Chronicle and the Corpus Christi Caller-Times. Previously, Tower was endorsed by the Dallas Morning News, Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, and Wichita Falls Times-Record-News.

The office of Bob Krueger, Democratic candidate for U.S. Senate, said that Krueger had no endorsements from daily newspapers.

In San Antonio, Krueger said that Tower missed two key votes while campaigning in Texas — the extension of the Equal Rights Amendment and the Kemp-Roth tax cut bill. "It is easy enough for John Tower to send press releases back to Texas claiming he is for a 33 percent tax cut for every American, but when it came time to cast a vote, John Tower's actions were far different from his rhetoric," Krueger said.

Death Row Inmate Claims Care Denied

HOUSTON (AP) — An inmate convicted of capital murder of a police officer testified Tuesday Texas Department of Corrections medical officials told him he could not get surgery on his nose because he was on Death Row.

Henry Martinez Porter, 36, made the statement during testimony in a lawsuit filed by eight inmates of the Texas prison system. The suit challenges alleged mistreatment of prisoners and calls for major changes in the Texas prison system.

Porter, 36, sentenced to death in the fatal shooting of a Fort Worth policeman, said he suffered a broken nose while in the Bexar County Jail in San Antonio in 1975 but did not realize it was broken until arriving on death row.

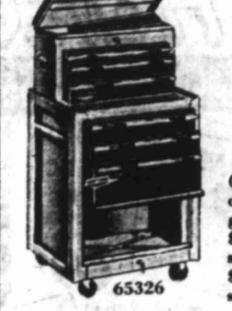

Porter testified he had trouble breathing but had to go through exhaustive efforts to get an examination by a doctor.

"He told me the only way any of us inmates (on Death Row) could see a doctor would be if our lives were threatened," Porter testified.

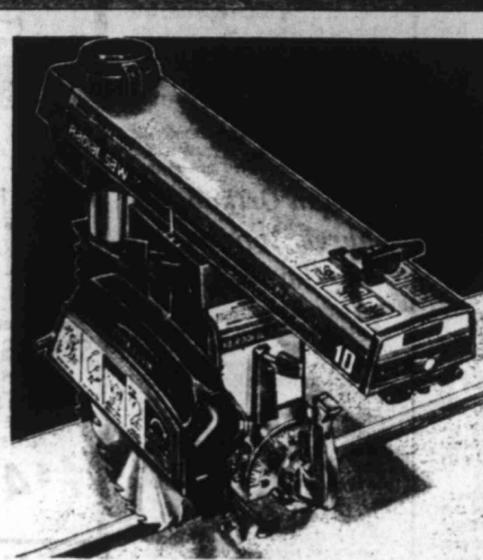

Porter said another physician later told him he needed surgery on his nose but it could not be performed because he was on Death Row.

Thomas Franklin Porter, no relation to Henry Porter, testified two prison guards watched while three inmates beat another prisoner and inmate John Michael Hill told the court he was homosexually raped by his former cellmate at the Ramsey unit.

Report On Pope's Death Slow, Authorities Say

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Vatican insiders said Tuesday demands for further details on the death of Pope John Paul I have no real basis and rumors of foul play are groundless. But they added that an official medical report should have been issued immediately.

"It would have been easier to squelch these rumors right away if fuller information had been provided at once, although there was no indication of anything sinister about it," said the Rev. Donald Campion, a Jesuit expert on Vatican affairs.

He said there "always are people around who like to stir up theories," he said — particularly in a case such as John Paul's death Sept. 28 only a month after his election, which stunned the world. "They want to find some kind of devil, some evil person who did the pope in," he said.

The fact that no formal death certificate has been made public was keeping alive requests for an autopsy or formal Vatican statement on the matter.

Vatican sources said such a statement nearly two weeks after the death would prove embarrassing and show "a capitulation to popular pressure."

"I don't see Vatican official circles taking these demands very seriously," said the Rev. John Long, an officer of the Vatican's Secretariat of Christian Unity.

He discounted published reports that cardinals had asked for a formal Vatican statement on the matter. Others, including a spokesman for U. S. cardinals, also disputed the claim.

Cardinal Carlo Confalonieri, dean of the College of Cardinals, was quoted by Vatican authorities as saying there was no question about the causes of the pope's death and no need for an autopsy.

The pope's death at age 65 was attributed by his doctor to a heart attack. The doctor also said he had warned the pope to slow down shortly before his death, but the John Paul had said he could not do so.

The Rev. James Roach of Chicago, an official Vatican spokesman, said doctors had signed a formal death certificate attributing the pope's death to "acute myocardial infarction" but the certificate had not been made public.

Vatican specialists agreed fuller details should have been provided at once.

It was about two hours after John Paul's death was discovered before word of it was released, and then there were conflicting statements about details.

The Rev. Vincent O'Keefe, assistant to the superior general of the Jesuit order, suggested that the doctor and the papal secretary, the Rev. John Magee, who found the pope dead, could have given news conferences on the details.

Even if they had, Vatican experts said, rumors were inevitable in view of Vatican history and secretive Vatican operations.

In the 15th century, when the wealthy Borgia and Medici families had powerful influence on the Vatican, there were conspiratorial intrigues and plots. In the Middle Ages at least 10 popes were killed or died under suspicious circumstances, authorities said.

The Rev. Paul Boyle, head of the Passionist Fathers, said the calls for inquiries into John Paul's death were fed by imagination and conjectures about communist or anticommunist plots.

Rumor is common in the Vatican, he said.

Vatican experts said two additional doctors were involved in embalming the pope's body, and would have called attention to anything questionable.

Man Uses Helicopter To Find Son's Body

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The body of a Glendora motorcyclist, missing since Oct. 1, was found by his father who rented a helicopter to conduct the search.

The father, John Lees, said Monday he rented the helicopter after the sheriff's department and the California Highway Patrol were unable to find his son and a newspaper advertisement proved unsuccessful.

Authorities said Mark John Lees, 22, apparently had been speeding on California 39 when his motorcycle went out of control and crashed two miles north of San Gabriel Dam.

"I knew he was up there," said Lees. "There's been kids going off those mountain roads before."

Refugees Say Cambodian Terror Spree Worse

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Many refugees fleeing Cambodia claim that 1978 is proving to be the most terror-ridden year since the Communists seized power in 1975.

Even while the Cambodian government dismisses charges by some Western nations of massive human rights violations, the refugees, interviewed recently at camps along the Thai-Cambodia border, report an increase in the amount of forced labor, a reduction in already meager rations and continued or stepped up executions in the northwestern part of the country.

There was no way of confirming the stories told by the refugees since Cambodia is closed to most Western reporters.

Some of the escapees said they feared Cambodia leaders eventually plan to wipe out everyone who lived in areas controlled by the pro-American government during the Indochina war or those among them who lived in the major cities as part of an effort to shape a new agriculturally-based ultra-revolutionary society.

The stories carried out of Cambodia by the latest wave of refugees appear to deflate earlier speculations that the Phnom Penh government would loosen its grip on the population since it needed popular support for its war against Vietnam and because — in the words of some Western diplomats, "they had run out of people to kill."

Cambodia, 1978, has spawned these stories of refugees interviewed by The Associated Press and Western diplomats in Bangkok:

—Refugees claim they witnessed executions of individuals, and sometimes entire families for being students, teachers, soldiers or officials high and low under the former regime; complaining about sparse rations, having pre-marital sex, attempting to escape.

—In the remote village of Kok Prech in Oddor Mean Chey province, food rations were cut drastically early this year to two condensed milk cans of rice per day for about 10 people. In the past, work after nightfall occurred from time to time but this year the villagers had to labor almost daily until 10 p.m., ending a grueling 14-hour work day. Yet authorities told the villagers a story familiar to northwestern Cambodia: most of the village's harvest had to be shipped to other unnamed places where food shortages were supposedly more severe.

—Recent male refugees, some openly, others with obvious feelings of guilt, claim they left their wives and children behind because the latter were too weak to survive the difficult escape or because they were normally separated from their families through work units organized by sex.

In what has been a growing trend over the past two years, fewer than a dozen women were among the approximately 700 men who fled to Thailand over the past three months.

"Soon Cambodia will become a country of women and children," some of the refugees claimed to have overheard soldiers saying.

—After three and a half years of Communist rule, the authorities in Cambodia appear to be getting younger. Western and Communist refugee sources say most in the armed forces are in their teens.

A refugee from the village of Phon Say in Battambang province said their local "schoolmaster" was 15 years old and then pointed to a 21-year-old man sitting next to him. "There was our doctor."

The man grinned and admitted he knew virtually nothing about curing the frequent and sometimes fatal ailments of his patients — malaria, dysentery, diarrhea, malnutrition.

Although most of the above incidents reportedly occurred in northwestern Cambodia, Western journalists who have interviewed Cambodians fleeing from eastern parts of the country into Vietnam have heard similar stories.

The Cambodian issue will probably be brought up before the current session of the U.N. General Assembly. Canada, Britain and the United States, among others, have already condemned the Phnom Penh regime before the U.N. Commission of Human Rights, presenting reports that Cambodia has described as "lies" and attempts to interfere in domestic matters.

BEAT THE BUREAUCRACY Aid Available To Job Hunters

By HOWARD K. OTTENSTEIN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

At least 5 million unemployed Americans are seeking work at any one time. And many of the nation's 93 million employed citizens are looking around for better jobs. Perhaps you are one of these job seekers.

If it's a federal job you're after, head directly to one of the 114 Federal Job Information Centers (FJICs). These centers, administered by the Civil Service Commission, are located in each of the 50 states.

Competition is fierce for most federal jobs. FJICs fielded 11 million inquiries about the 200,000 white-collar jobs that were filled in fiscal 1977. But as in other dealings with the government, patience and persistence can pay off. Don't give up, even if your first attempt is unsuccessful.

On your visit to the FJIC, find out about jobs you might qualify for and how to apply for them. To be considered for any of these jobs, you must first obtain a civil service rating. The Civil Service Commission assigns these ratings on the basis of education, experience and, frequently, performance on written Civil Service exams.

Would you prefer a job in business or industry? The U.S. Employment Service, through a nationwide network of 2,500 federal-state employment offices, annually finds jobs for 5 million Americans in the private sector.

These offices provide all the services of private employment agencies — and more without charging you a cent. At any one of these offices, you can receive job counseling, take aptitude tests, learn about vocational education programs and obtain information on job openings in your community.

Each office is staffed with counselors trained to assist groups that have had special problems getting jobs: older people, youths, minority group members, women, the handicapped, rural folk, even ex-offenders.

Thanks to the computer, many of these offices can now furnish up-to-the-minute information on job openings elsewhere in your state.

Of course, the Employment Service can be as useful to employers as it is to would-be employees. If you or your firm has a job to fill, contact the government job office first.

To locate the employment office nearest you, check the state government listing of your telephone directory. You can also obtain its address from your nearest FJIC.

A government publication you might find helpful in your search for work is "Merchandising Your Job Talents." The 28-page booklet offers tips on preparing a resume, writing a letter of application and interviewing for a job. That publication can be purchased from the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Tapes Admitted As Evidence

HOUSTON (AP) — State District Judge Wallace Moore ruled Tuesday that four tapes, allegedly linking Fort Worth millionaire T. Cullen Davis with a kill-for-hire plot on the life of a judge, could be admitted to evidence.

Moore's ruling came in pretrial hearings for Davis, a 45-year-old industrialist, accused of soliciting the murder of Judge Joe Eidson, who had presided during most of the four years of the bitter Davis divorce proceedings. Eidson has removed himself from the divorce hearings.

The order came shortly after FBI agent Ron Jannings testified he did not consider either David McCrory or Pat Burleson as FBI informants.

McCrory was an employee of Davis who went to authorities and said his boss had paid him $25,000 for the slaying of Judge Eidson and drafted a "hit list" of about 15 persons.

Burleson, owner of a Fort Worth karate school, reportedly urged McCrory to go to the FBI with his story.

The tapes, played earlier this year during a bond hearing for Davis, involve talks concerning the slaying of the judge. The defense, led by Richard "Racehorse" Haynes of Houston, has presented some 90 motions seeking disclosure of all evidence collected by the prosecution and other matters.

During the first two days of the hearing, Priscilla Davis has undergone lengthy questioning by Haynes.

She testified Tuesday she had met with Burleson to discuss "the security I would need for the upcoming divorce case."

Mrs. Davis said several Fort Worth policemen guarded her home on their off-duty hours but that she had met with Burleson "to arrange other security services."

As Mrs. Davis left the witness stand, Haynes said he may be recalled later in the week.

The trial is scheduled to begin Monday, but the lengthy pretrial hearing may push that date to later in the week.

The trial was moved from Fort Worth to Houston on a change of venue.

Davis was acquitted late last year on a capital murder charge in the slaying of his 12-year-old stepdaughter. The trial in Amarillo was the longest and costliest in criminal proceedings in Texas history.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. Please give an example of a "price-earnings" ratio in print, so that I can understand it. Several references I have read say that a stock paying $2 and trading at $40 has a 20-to-one price-earnings ratio. I tried this on the list of stocks quoted in newspapers and never arrived at the "P-E" ratio shown.

A. It's clear that you have confused "price-earnings ratio" with "yield." The arithmetic you have been doing will give you a stock's current yield — not its P-E ratio. The P-E ratio is the relationship between a stock's market price and its earnings per share.

Let's reach for our old friend — the common stock of XYZ Corp. — as an example.

Say that XYZ Corp. has exactly one million shares of common stock outstanding — owned by investors — and that, in its latest 12-month reporting period, XYZ Corp. showed a net profit of $40 million. That works out to $4 a share.

Now, let's say that XYZ common is trading in the stock market at $40 a share. Easy arithmetic shows that XYZ's P-E ratio is ten-to-one. Another way to say this is: "XYZ is selling at ten times earnings."

But XYZ Corp.'s board of directors is unlikely to authorize the payment of all $40 million in dividends to stockholders. Some of that money has to be kept to build new factories, buy new equipment and for other corporate purposes.

So, over the past 12 months, let's say that dividends of $20 million were paid. That's $2 a share. The current yield on XYZ common — dividend divided by the market price — works out to 5 percent.

Dividends are the part of a company's earnings that are distributed to stockholders — the owners of the company. In looking through newspaper stock tables, you made the mistake of assuming that the dividend listed next to a stock was that stock's earnings per share.

Q. You wrote, "The interest paid on all short-term insured savings accounts is subject to income tax." True. But the fact that you specify "paid" and "short-term" makes me ask. If I have a "long-term" savings account and don't touch the interest, is that interest taxable?

A. I suspect you are well aware that all interest credited to savings accounts is taxable income. If you have any doubts, just look at the Form 1099 you receive from every institution at which you have a savings account — long-term, short-term or any other term.

Q. We have a new grandson and would like to start buying U.S. Savings Bonds for his college education. But we heard that the U.S. Savings Bond program might be discontinued. What kind of savings can we invest in for him?

A. The chances of the U.S. Treasury discontinuing the Savings Bond program are so remote that the idea can be dismissed as being unthinkable. The on-going U.S. Savings Bond sales play a major role in financing the federal government's horrendous debt.

Engineering Grant Presented To Tech

Cities Service Company through its Tulsa, Okla., home offices has presented Texas Tech University a $4,000 grant in continuation of its support of the institution's department of Petroleum and Chemical Engineering.

Some $3,000 will go to the Department of Petroleum Engineering and $1,000 to Chemical Engineering.

Dr. James T. Smith, chairman of Petroleum Engineering, said the unrestricted funds will go for undergraduate laboratory equipment. Dr. Raffi Turian, chairperson of Chemical Engineering, said his department's funds will be used partially for faculty travel to seminars and conventions in order to keep current in their teaching areas.

Dan McGokey and Mike Mabry of the Midland area branch of Cities Service Company made the presentations. Both are petroleum engineers.

Nationwide Postal Strike Threat Fading

WASHINGTON (AP) — The threat of a nationwide mail strike faded Tuesday as a letter carriers union approved a new contract by a 6-1 margin and a second union was reported voting heavily in favor of the pact.

Members of the National Association of Letter Carriers also voted by a wide margin to oust their president, J. Joseph Vacca, after one term, union officials confirmed. Elected to head the 181,000-member union was the New York City local president, Vincent Sombrotto, who narrowly lost to Vacca in 1976.

Chris Gilbert, a letter carriers official, said the union approved a new three-year contract with the U.S. Postal Service by about 97,000 to 15,000.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for 299,000-member American Postal Workers Union said on Tuesday that with just under half the ballots counted, members were voting "heavily in favor of the contract."

"It is clear the contract will be ratified by as much as a 7-1 margin," said the spokesman, Stan Allen.

The two unions held ratification votes even though they have had a legally binding contract since Sept. 15, when a special arbitrator handed down a final settlement covering 516,000 postal workers.

The unions had agreed to resolve their contract dispute through arbitration after a previous settlement was rejected by members. But Vacca and Emmet Andrews, president of the postal workers union, later decided to hold token votes to undercut complaints from members that they were being denied final votes of approval.

Rhodesia Planning Desegregation Step

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Rhodesia's interim government announced plans Tuesday to strike down segregation laws, clearing the way for blacks to live in white neighborhoods, attend white schools and use white hospitals — if they can afford it.

The proposed changes must still be acted upon by Parliament, and there were reports it might be called into special session.

The proposals were lauded by the biracial government as a significant breakthrough despite the fact that only the wealthiest of the nation's 6.7 million blacks will be able to afford the integration.

The average earnings of blacks is about $830 a year compared to $9,240 for Rhodesia's 260,000 whites.

The announcement was made as white Prime Minister Ian Smith and black leader the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole were in the United States seeking backing for their internal government, set up to pave the way to black majority rule with elections. Smith reported no headway in the quest.

Tiny rightwing white political parties were furious about the proposals. "This means the surrender and destruction of the white man and his institutions in Rhodesia and a victory for the terrorists," said Rhodesia National Party president Len Idenson.

Spokesmen for the black parties in the transition government hailed the announcement as a "tremendous breakthrough" and a "giant step."

White Health and Education Minister Rowan Cronje said schools would remain free on black reservations, while the $72 annual cost of white state schools would probably be hiked. But it was likely integration of white schools would be slowed not just by lack of money, but also because black children seeking to enroll would have to live in the school area, must speak English, the minority language, and be in the proper age group.

He said implementation of the changes could require several months.

"Our conclusions will not satisfy the ultra-liberals, nor will the extreme right like them," said Cronje. "Blacks did not get it all their own way. We did not get it all our own way. But the solutions show our willingness to work together...they're based on pragmatism and reality."

The target date for black rule is made more uncertain by the escalating six-year war against Rhodesia by black nationalist guerrillas, who vow to disrupt any attempt to get blacks to the polls.

Tuesday's announcement said land laws in white areas — the suburbs of the seven major cities — will be scrapped. Blacks will be able to buy homes in any suburb, said Cronje. But new laws tightening up on health and building regulations will be effected simultaneously.

"This is so the character and standard of those areas...will be maintained. In terms of the customs of our black people, with the extended family system there may be difficulties in respect of housing standards and health standards," the minister said.

Anyone Eligible

Free medical clinics for blacks will be retained, but Cronje said anyone would be eligible for treatment at the white hospitals, provided they can pay.

Accompanied by black co-minister Gibson Magaramombe, Cronje told a news conference that the Land Tenure Act — the heart of Rhodesia's race discrimination — will be repealed.

But he said black reservations known as tribal trust lands across half the country are to be retained. Whites will be allowed to set up trading posts in small designated industrial and commercial parts of the reserves.

More than half the country's blacks live on the reservations, mostly as peasant farmers on communally-owned land which have always been off limits to whites.

NEXT QUESTION—President Carter fields a question during his news conference Tuesday in Washington. The president stated to reporters that he would veto a tax bill that failed to meet his requirements and that the $30 billion tax cut still before the Senate would not meet those guidelines. Holdup Man's Sword Provides Easy Clue

CLEVELAND (UPI) — A man who tried to live by the sword suffered the kindest cut when his weapon gave him away.

John Kovacic, 62, Cleveland, said a man with a sword walked up to him in an East Side parking lot Monday and said, "Give me $5 or I will kill you."

"Gee, I only have 35 cents," Kovacic replied.

The swordsman took his 33-inch blade away from Kovacic's chest, walked over to Kovacic's car and slashed one of his tires. Then he got into another car and fled.

But Lt. Charles Howard of the Cleveland Police Department had no trouble finding the suspect a short time later in the same neighborhood.

"How many times do you see a man with a sword walking down the street," he asked. Howard said he caught the suspect after a brief foot chase.

War On Washington Vowed By Leader Of Ag Movement

By ESTHER LONGORIA
Avalanche-Journal Staff

AN American Agriculture Movement leader said Tuesday night as far as he is concerned, "war has been declared between the agricultural community and Washington, D.C."

At an American Agriculture Movement meeting in Levelland, Gerald McCathern of Hereford told about 150 area farmers, "We don't intend to sit back. We're going to do whatever is necessary to get what we want."

McCathern said an American Agriculture tractrace will begin as soon as Congress convenes, sometime between Jan. 15-22.

He estimated it probably would be about 16 days before tractors from Lubbock, Amarillo and Dallas would reach Washington. He said farmers would try to cover about 100 miles a day, traveling on major highways across the country.

"We plan major tractorades through every city west of Washington — cities like Nashville, Pittsburgh and Knoxville," he said.

"I'm angry and I'm not going to be as nice to my legislators as I was last year," he warned. "I'm going to make them realize that the American farmer has a real problem."

"Our products are priced from the top on down and we just end up with the residue and that's got to be changed by law," McCathern said.

He told the Levelland gathering, though, that it is up to them to save their way of life. Their only other choice is to "bow under or walk off and let big business" buy their farms, he said.

Father Andrew Gottschlak, a Denver, Colo., priest and an outspoken movement supporter, earlier told the audience, which consisted mostly of Hockley County movement members, that people misunderstand the parity concept.

"All parity means is equality in the marketplace," he said.

He told the farmers not to lose faith because "we're fighting the second greatest power next to God himself and we have lots of sympathetic people in the cities supporting us."

The priest, who was raised on a Kansas farm, said he especially is concerned about "last rites" for the family farms. "I'm very interested in seeing that AAM saves the family farm as a way of life," he said.

He then asked the group, "Are you tired of feeding the world out of your own pocket, tired of going greater and greater into debt and tired of foreign money coming in and buying your land? Well, I think we've had enough."

The audience resoundingly applauded his words.

Gottschlak indicated he spends a majority of his time crusading for the AAM across the nation.

The priest said some farmers had expressed reservations to him about striking. "In matters of justice, though, I think we have a responsibility to stand up and fight," Gottschlak said.

U.N. Criticizes U.S. Over Smith's Visit

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The U.N. Security Council expressed "regret and concern" Tuesday over the United States' permitting leaders of Rhodesia's bi-racial government to visit in violation of a binding U.N. resolution.

U.S. officials defend the granting of the visas to Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith and the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, one of Smith's three black co-leaders, as an opportunity to persuade the Rhodesians to agree to a conference with black guerrilla leaders fighting to overthrow the Salisbury government.

They also say the visas are a response to congressional desires to question the Rhodesians about their plans for a transition to black majority rule.

The 15-member Security Council voted 11-0 for the resolution.

The United States, Canada, Britain and West Germany abstained.

In 1968 the council barred trips to U.N. member states by persons connected with what it called "the illegal regime in Southern Rhodesia."

Although the bi-racial government was formed last March, the council regards it as an extension of the former white minority government and says the 1968 resolution applies.

Smith is in the United States with the permission, but not the approval, of the U.S. government. President Carter said Tuesday he will not meet with Smith.

The Rhodesians were invited to the United States by 27 senators led by Sen. S.I. Hayakawa, R-Calif.

Smith and Sithole met for two hours Monday with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance. Both sides reported no progress.

Smith says he and former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger made a deal in 1976 whereby Smith would agree to black majority rule within two years in exchange for Western diplomatic recognition and an end to economic sanctions. Carter said Tuesday he knows nothing of that deal.

FLIGHTS CANCELED

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico's two major airlines canceled most flights Tuesday so foreign airlines could operate normally on the sixth day of a strike by the country's air traffic controllers.

He said, however, he had a hospital checkup two weeks ago and was pronounced in good health.

After he received the Collier-Kuempel letter, Bullock said, he asked Collier to come by and talk, and Collier indicated he would but never showed up.

"I'm hurt and disappointed over it, and I resent the implications (of the letter)," Bullock said. "I thought I deserved better than that."

Bullock said McNabb's comment that he had witnessed a "cover-up" regarding flight logs was "ridiculous."

Published reports said during the fiscal year ending Aug. 31, the logs indicated that Bullock was the lone passenger on 47 flights in a seven-passenger King six months after the bilingual plan was submitted in April.

"I honestly believe that if they had read the plan when we submitted it in April, we wouldn't have had to go through all this trouble," the superintendent said. Had the plan been approved — and allegations cleared up — in the spring or early summer, the district probably would have been eligible for the ESAA grant, he said.

That does not mean Lubbock necessarily would have received ESAA funds, Irons said. He said the district still would have had to compete with other districts for the available monies.

Nevertheless, said Irons, "At least we would have had a chance to compete."

that I should spend more time in the office. ... He also said he didn't like the idea of Ralph's secretary, Sherry Revier, writing checks for Ralph. He said she was always busy (for Wayne) on state time."

Bullock said he had spent every day for 2 1/2 months with his teen-age son, Bob, who had been hurt in a motorcycle accident.

Also, Bullock said, Collier told him "he didn't like the way I had treated Bill English."

In a surprise raid, Bullock's agents closed English's Austin restaurant at lunchtime one day for allegedly failing to pay sales taxes.

Wayne acknowledged that his secretary had signed checks on occasion, but added that he had rented a separate office and hired two employees to handle his outside business interests.

Wayne said he owned radio stations in Brownwood, Marshall, Odessa and Plainview and had controlling interest in a savings and loan institution in Tulsa.

The Kuempel-Collier letter also stated that Bullock should resign because of his health.

In July, 1972 two large, non-malignant tumors were discovered while Bullock was being treated for a kidney disorder, and he had the lower third and a wedge at top of the same lung removed. He also has emphysema, a lung disease, but persists in smoking.

He said, however, he had a hospital checkup two weeks ago and was pronounced in good health.

Bloated Tax Cut Bill Approved By Senate

cuts in 1979. But there was no bar to amendments that would take effect in later years.

The House passed a $16.3 billion tax cut in August. The Carter administration trimmed its original $25 billion recommendation and proposed that the Finance Committee hold the 1979 cut to about $20 billion. The Finance Committee voted in favor of a $22.9 billion cut. The figure was increased to $30 billion by virtue of Senate floor action.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, chairman of the Budget Committee, cautioned colleagues that while their amendments were "within budget limits for 1979, the cost of the Senate amendments would skyrocket in future years."

The Finance Committee bill would result in revenue losses of $65.9 billion in the 1983 budget year. But Senate amendments would push the cost to $144 billion, Muskie said.

allowed faster depreciation for all businesses, regardless of size.

By a 60-30 vote, the Senate agreed to reduce the maximum corporate tax rate, which applies only to income above $100,000, to 44 percent. The current maximum is 48 percent.

Shaky Beirut Truce Holds

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — An hour-long shootout between Syrian troops and Christian militiamen and outbreaks of sniper fire Tuesday failed to undermine the three-day-old cease-fire in east Beirut.

Machine guns and rocket-propelled grenades blazed away at the main crossroad between the Moslem and Christian sectors of the city in the worst violation of the truce since Saturday. But there were no apparent casualties and there was no general breakdown in the truce.

Webb County Probe Asked By Clements

the use of his photograph for Clements campaign purposes.

Judge Giles W. Dalby claimed he had been "set up" by Clements campaign workers into having his photograph taken and statements attributed to him saying he supported Clements for governor.

Clements's campaign spokesmen, however, said the judge signed a release allowing the use of his picture.

Clements called the whole issue "a tempest in a teapot," but stated that Dalby had pledged his support to Clements personally when the picture was taken.

"He (Dalby) said he was going to support me," Clements said. "But if he wants to change his mind, so what?"

Clements earlier Tuesday spoke to a group of honor political science students at Texas Tech University during which he said the major difference between himself and Hill regarding education was that "I want the educational system to produce results, while Hill wants to throw money at the problem."

Clements said he opposed automatic across-the-board raises for teachers and collective bargaining by teachers or any other state or local employees.

Reopening Of Murder Probes Sought Here

the case was pursued as a homicide after it was discovered that a $32,000 diamond ring was missing from his body at the time the body was found.

The Nov. 1, 1974, ruling turned the investigation only toward theft and culminated what his widow called "a comedy of errors."

Miss Valenzuela was found face up and partially nude in the bathtub of her apartment, and four separate attempts at discovering a cause of death failed after a justice of the peace ruled "murder by unknown means."

A ruling said Mrs. Stokes died from strychnine poisoning but added that "other causes undetermined and still under investigation" may have been a factor.

Another case Montford intends to pursue is that of Deborah Sue Williamson, who was found stabbed to death and partially disrobed on Aug. 24, 1975, at her 1115 82nd St. home.

"I was advised that it could be as much as a year before we could get additional funding," Montford said. "I can't wait a year because I feel like the money will be a good investment for the county in terms of the fight against crime."

Shaw said Tuesday that the grant could be approved later this year after the Criminal Justice Division learns how much money, if any, it will have left over.

Montford disclosed in a Tuesday interview that he also is preparing a grant application for a bad check office staffed in the courthouse by six secretaries, two deputy sheriffs and an assistant district attorney.

"We feel we can justify the grant because (1) of the significantly large volume of bad check cases in Lubbock County, (2) to reduce administrative duplication and provide a more efficient processing agency and (3) to get the check situation under control," he said.

New Rules Due On Food Stamps

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 400,670 households will be scratched from the food stamp rolls during the first four months of next year as new regulations take effect, the Agriculture Department said Tuesday.

But slightly higher benefits are in store for most of the 4.38 million families remaining and for the more than thousands of elderly poor couples and other families expected to be attracted to the streamlined program.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland revealed the new rules, which were ordered by Congress in a massive rewriting of the Food Stamp Act. Most of the changes take effect Jan. 1.

ly, but the Senate measure "would not be acceptable in its present form."

He said a veto can be avoided by compromise but "at the present time the issue is still in doubt."

Carter was critical of a Senate-passed measure to cut federal income taxes by $142 billion over the next five years if spending is restrained to certain levels.

"For that to be analyzed... would be very difficult" in the few remaining days of the Congress, the president said.

Judaism Marks Day Of Atonement

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Judaism's holiest day, Yom Kippur, was ushered in at sunset Tuesday by the plaintive chants of thousands of Israelis praying for atonement of their sins.

The jumpy and irreverent tempo of normal life in the Jewish state was transformed into pervasive calm for the solemn religious holiday, the Day of Atonement.

By midafternoon, public transport was shut down, all radio and television broadcasts ceased, and the last few motorists rushed home for a big meal before the 25-hour fast started an hour before sunset.

Prayers for the dead were said Tuesday morning in cemeteries, giving many Israelis cause to remember the 1973 Mideast war when Egypt and Syria launched surprise attacks on Israel and 2,527 Israeli soldiers died.

It is called the Yom Kippur War in Israel. Egypt refers to the 1973 conflict as the October War. Yom Kippur, marked by the Jewish lunar calendar, fell on Oct. 6 in 1973.

This year, Israelis looked toward a promised peace treaty with Egypt for which negotiations are to start in Washington on Thursday. Though the treaty is to set a pattern for peace between Israel and its other Arab neighbors, reminders of the deadly nature of Mideast conflicts continued up to the start of Yom Kippur.

In one of its last news programs before shutting down, Israel radio, quoting reliable sources, said the Soviet Union had evacuated its nationals from Beirut, Lebanon, and that Syria had brought in more artillery in preparation for a "major attack" on the Lebanese Christians, whom Israel has pledged to defend.

The report was not officially confirmed. Observers saw it as a leak designed to show the Israeli army was alert even as the country came to a near standstill for a day.

By most estimates, less than one-quarter of Israel's Jewish population observes the rigorous demands of religious law. Many Israelis see religious holidays as chances to picnic or go to the beach. Cinemas and cafes, increasingly, are open on the Jewish sabbath, and only ultra-orthodox neighborhoods are free of auto traffic.

But Yom Kippur is different. The streets become silent paths for people walking to and from synagogues for the cycle of five services. Those who do not attend services stay at home with their families, and many of them observe the fast.

The religious services end at sunset Wednesday with a triumphant blast on the shofar, or ram's horn trumpet, sounded in places of worship.

Cash, Stereo Taken From City Residence

A Lubbock man reported to police early Tuesday that he was confronted by three armed bandits at his home about 11:45 p.m. Monday, ordered to lie on the floor and robbed of $150 cash and a stereo system.

Richard E. Smith of 2452 23rd St. said two of the suspects had sawed-off shotguns and the third man wielded a pistol. The robbers were described as black and wearing ski masks.

Smith told police he and three friends were ordered to lie face down on the floor while the suspects made off with the money and stereo.

In other reported crimes, a 42-year-old woman was rushed to West Texas Hospital about 10:30 p.m. Monday after she was stabbed at a Idalou Road cafe.

Eulla M. Green of 1618 16th St. was listed in satisfactory condition Tuesday with stab wounds in the stomach and leg.

The woman said she was wounded during a domestic quarrel at the cafe. A suspect has been questioned in the case.

Reports show a Fort Stockton police officer in Lubbock early Tuesday was propositioned by two women suspected of being prostitutes.

The officer said he was offered sex by the two women for $40. He reportedly held the women until Lubbock police could arrive. However, no arrests were made.

Harold Belton of 1207 49th St. told police he was victimized by burglars at his house sometime between 2:35 p.m. and 3:45 p.m. Monday.

Belton reported missing $1,291 in property, including three guns, clocks and jewelry.

Denise Keller of 1505 Bradley St., No. 4, said a man who escorted her home Monday morning stole $500 cash which was on a table at her home.

She said she noticed the money missing about 7 p.m. Monday and said the man she was with earlier was the only person at her house that day.

In recently reported burglaries, James F. Cox of 1724-A Dartmouth St. said whoever pried the window of his carport door took a $270 amplifier.

Marjorie C. Thomas said burglars climbed through the kitchen window of her 1326 E. 24th St. home Monday and took a $250 suit.

Lynch Hightower told police that someone cut the alarm wire on the money-changing machine in a 24-hour laundry at 5404 Ave. Q, and took $50 in change. Hightower said the burglars also caused $50 damage to the machine.

Gertrude M. Burr of Reming, N.M., said someone took her purse from the shopping cart she was using at a grocery store at Fourth Street and University Avenue. Mrs. Burr said the purse contained $180 cash and three-fourths of an ounce of gold.

In another purse theft, Helen O'Connor said she left her purse behind her desk at Thompson Hall in the Texas Tech University campus Tuesday morning. When she returned from an errand an hour later, she said, her bag containing credit cards, cash and a watch was missing.

Officers later found the handbag in a trash dumpster east of the campus building but all valuables had been taken.

Farber, Times Remain Firm

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP) — New York Times reporter Myron A. Farber refused again Tuesday to surrender his files on a murder defendant, and a judge ordered him to jail on Thursday unless Farber changes his mind.

"Maybe there'll be a change of mind Thursday morning. Think about it, Mr. Farber, please," Superior Court Judge Theodore W. Trautwein said in ordering the reporter back to the Bergen County Jail.

Trautwein allowed Farber to remain free until after Yom Kippur, the Jewish faith's highest holy day. Farber is Jewish.

Farber has served 27 days for refusing to surrender his files on Dr. Mario Jascovic, the surgeon accused of murdering three patients at Riverdel Hospital in Oradell, N.J., in the mid-1960s.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled on Friday that both Farber and the Times are for the time being subject to whatever penalties Trautwein sees fit to impose. The high court has yet to consider on its merits the appeal by Farber and the Times of their contempt citations.

The Times also has been found in contempt and its attorney Floyd Abrams turned over to the court a $100,000 check to cover the criminal contempt penalties levied by Trautwein. In addition, he said the Times will continue paying the daily $5,000 civil contempt fine in weekly installments.

He called Farber's position one of principle and said the Times "will not direct Mr. Farber to turn over his notes."

Lorenzo High Opens New Facility

LORENZO (Special) — An innovative $148,120 building at Lorenzo High School which will be used to teach vocational abilities to handicapped students was dedicated in ceremonies here Tuesday night.

The facility, which has been in use since Sept. 2, is being utilized to train 40 students with learning disabilities in community service skills.

Courses being taught at the facility include general carpentry, electrical work, plumbing, woodworking, short order cooking, commercial dishwashing, commercial ironing, upholstery and commercial washing.

Instructors also teach the operation of commercial sewing machines, from the most simple to the most complex.

Although there are currently no physically handicapped students in the program, Lorenzo Superintendent Dean Andrews said the facility also was designed to take care of students in wheelchairs.

"The facility's program was designed to help the Lorenzo High graduate, who may not be college-bound, find employment after graduation," Andrews said.

Students now enrolled in the program range in age from 14 to 19.

Omar R. Douglas of Lubbock's Education Service Center was guest speaker for the dedication. Other special guests included Robert Montgomery, associate commissioner of education; James Earl Jackson, assistant deputy commissioner of the Texas Rehabilitation Commission (TRC); and John Morgan, all of Austin.

Others attending the dedication were Imadora Hale, Buck Johnson and Gene Coppin, all of Plainview; Delinda Werner and Oecie Wadsworth, both of the Lubbock TRC; Mildred Seavy of the Midland TRC; and state senatorial candidate E.L. Short.

The new facility, which measures 43 feet by 78 feet, was funded by an $85,000 grant from the Texas Rehabilitation Commission, a $46,830 grant from the Texas Education Agency and a $16,290 contribution from the Lorenzo Independent School District.

Lorenzo school officials have been working on the project since March of 1977.

The facility is adjacent to the vocational agriculture building at the Lorenzo school campus.

'Set Up,' Dalby Avers

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff
Garza County Judge Giles Dalby Tuesday again denied he ever supported gubernatorial candidate Bill Clements and said he didn't intend to authorize the use of his picture for Clements campaign purposes. However, a representative of the Clements campaign said Tuesday that Dalby signed a release allowing the use of his picture with the full knowledge of what he was signing. The document bearing the judge's signature was reproduced in Tuesday morning's Avalanche-Journal.

Dalby Tuesday reiterated that he didn't know what he was signing when he signed the release form. His picture later appeared in a Clements tabloid titled "The Texas Spectator" under a headline "Key Democrats and Independents Join Campaign to Elect Clements."

In the tabloid Dalby is quoted as saying, "I am voting for Bill Clements because he is honest, forthright, and I can trust him in Austin."

Tuesday, however, Dalby repeated his denial of ever supporting Clements, denied ever saying "I can trust him in Austin" and said he thinks he was "set up" by the Clements campaign.

"I repudiate the use of the picture of myself in the tabloid," Dalby said.

He said he was recruited for the Clements' campaign in July after serving as Garza County coordinator for Gov. Dolph Briscoe's reelection. "I refused," Dalby said.

"I feel John Hill is the very best candidate. I offered my support and Attorney General Hill accepted it."

Dalby since has been named the coordinator for an organization known as Court-house Officials Organized to Support the Election of John Hill for all counties under 50,000 persons.

But late last week Dalby learned from Hill that his picture was in the Clements tabloid being mailed to Texans.

Tuesday Dalby recounted the events which ended with his signature affixed on the statement saying:

"I hereby give my consent to the Clements for Governor Campaign Committee to use my name, photograph, and/or statements in advertising materials, both printed and broadcast on radio and television, to help elect Bill Clements governor of Texas."

The judge said he was asked to attend a Clements reception in Post on Aug. 10 "as executive officer of the commissioners court to pay respects to the former deputy secretary of defense."

"We were late getting in and he was already into his talk," Dalby said. "Clements shook my hand, then a person came from the left and asked if I thought he (Clements) was honest and forthright."

"With somebody right in front of you, you don't like to say no," he said. "I never said I could trust him in Austin. I never indicated to anyone my support for him."

About the same time, Dalby said, someone was taking his picture. "Two people were talking to me and a young lady handed me a clipboard and asked me to sign here."

The judge, up for re-election in Post, said he assumed he was signing a registration form which everyone else in attendance already had signed.

"They converged on me," Dalby said. "It was a little more than I could comprehend at one time."

Early in September Dalby said he sensed something was amiss when he received a $1 check from the Clements campaign as a "modeling fee for a news release."

On Sept. 12 Dalby returned the check with an attached message: "I cannot accept the check as I do not wish to act as a model for news releases."

The judge said he didn't learn his picture was being circulated all over Texas in the tabloid until Friday. "I was shocked to find out I had made the tabloid," he said.

"I was set up," he said, adding he thinks the Clements campaign "can be blamed" for the set-up. "They had ample time to retract my picture from the tabloid" after the $1 check was returned, he said.

"I have never, nor will I ever support Clements for governor," he said. "I'm running for re-election also and I want them (constituents) to know who I'm supporting."

However, at a Tuesday news conference immediately following Dalby's and in the same room, Clements representative Omar Harvey emphatically denied Dalby had been tricked.

As former head of Clements' effort to recruit Democrats and independents into the Republican nominee's camp, Harvey said he talked with Dalby on several occasions last summer to enlist his support for Clements.

"He said at that time I'm interested — I'm philosophically more aligned with Clements," Harvey recalled.

But Dalby stopped short of endorsing Clements at that time, Harvey said. After several conversations, Dalby "reassured me he was still supporting Mr. Clements, but said he was having problems coming out in the open."

During one conversation, Harvey quoted Dalby as saying "Omar, you can't believe the pressures I'm getting put on me" not to support Clements.

Although Harvey was not present when the release was signed, he talked to the Clements campaign worker who was there.

Variety Of Questions Facing Voters

By LOUISE COOK
 NEW YORK (AP) — Should casino gambling be legalized in Florida? Should Rhode Island spend $4.3 million to finance engineering studies for construction of a reservoir? Should Montana grocery stores be allowed to sell wine?

These are some of the questions voters will answer in the general election next month. An Associated Press survey of the 50 states found more than 200 constitutional amendments, initiatives, referenda and other proposals on the ballots in 38 states.

The most controversial and highly publicized issues center on tax money — how it should be raised and how it should be spent. Major proposals affecting taxes or spending are under consideration in 16 states. Most are the result of petition drives similar to the one that led to the passage of Proposition 13 cutting property taxes 57 percent in California. Most are given a good chance of success. The tax and spending questions, however, are far outnumbered by other issues involving everything from sex to schools. Here is a look at some of the key questions:

Of nine proposals on the Florida ballot, the one that has drawn the most controversy is the result of an initiative drive to legalize casino gambling along a 21-mile strip of Miami Beach. Opponents, including Gov. Reubin Askew, bankers and several of the state's major newspapers, say gambling would only aid organized crime. Supporters, led by a group called

"Let's Help Florida," say gambling would provide revenue for schools and local law enforcement agencies. Proposals to legalize jai alai and pari-mutuel horse race betting are on the ballot in New Jersey and Virginia respectively.

Most of the 11 questions on Rhode Island's ballot involve bond issues, and Leonard F. Clingham, counsel for the secretary of state, says: "I don't think any of them are going to pass. In this era of Proposition 13, people won't vote for anything that costs money." One exception, he says, may be a $2.4 million proposal to improve state parks because, he says, "People are ecology and leisure minded."

The Montana measure to allow grocery and drug stores to sell wine is given a good chance of passage. At the same time, the state's voters, who will be faced with 11 ballot questions on Nov. 7, are expected to approve a proposal to raise the legal drinking age from 18 to 19. Supporters say the boost is needed to cut down alcohol-related accidents involving high school students and other youngsters.

Michigan voters also will consider raising the drinking age — from 18 to 21. The question is one of 11 ballot proposals, including three involving taxes and spending. The money issue with the best chance of winning would limit increases in state spending and taxing and would require voter approval of any local tax hikes greater than the rate of inflation. The second would cut property taxes in half and boost the state income tax to make up the difference. The third would ban use of property taxes as a source of funds for education. It would require the state to come up with a new system of financing under which parents would be given "vouchers" to pay for their children's education at the school of their choice, public or private.

Equality for women is an issue in two states, neither of which has passed the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. In Nevada, where lawmakers have rejected the ERA three times in the past, the six ballot questions include a non-binding advisory vote to help the legislature make up its mind when it considers the amendment again next year. In Florida, meanwhile, residents will vote on a proposed "Declaration of Rights on Sex," which would expand the state's Bill of Rights to prohibit discrimination because of sex.

Homosexual rights are an issue in California, where there are eight questions on the ballot, five placed there by the legislature and three resulting from petition drives. One initiative would allow school districts to fire or refuse to hire teachers for public homosexual acts, including promoting homosexual activity. Polls indicate the measure will pass. Another controversial initiative, given an even chance of victory, would require special no-smoking sections in many public places and ban smoking entirely in others.

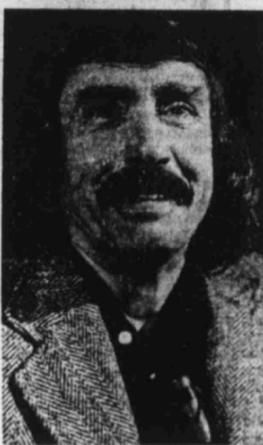

Proposals involving beverage containers will be before the voters in Nebraska and Alaska. The Nebraska measure would impose a mandatory five-cent deposit on all separate, sealed glass, metal or plastic bottles, cans, jars or cartons containing beer or soft drinks. A recent poll showed 61 percent of those questioned favored the measure, a decline of four percentage points from an earlier survey. The Alaska measure — which is not given a good chance of passage —

Television, Audience Demands Criticized

SEATTLE (AP) — Playwright and director Edward Albee says he might have better luck getting time on commercial television if he starred Farrah Fawcett-Majors as a lizard rather than Helen Hayes as a leading lady.

Broadway is brainless, television terrible and American audiences demand the worst, the acerbic, dark-eyed, dark-haired 50-year-old writer said in a recent interview here.

About three months ago, he and Miss Hayes proposed to the TV networks a production of his 1975 Pulitzer Prize-winning play "Seascape," Albee said.

"She can't work in the commercial stage any more because she's not well enough. It has something to do with the pollen and dust on stage, it gets into her lungs. But she can do television and make movies and I said, 'Hey, maybe we can persuade one of the television networks so you can do it' and she thought it was a marvelous idea.

"So I had my agent start approaching the networks. I have heard nothing so I assume they are not interested.

Maybe Farrah Fawcett-Majors, former star of ABC's "Charlie's Angels," could rescue the venture, he laughed. "I suppose we could dress her up as one of the lizards. That's fine. Why ever not? She could paint her hair green. It would be great."

Albee, who opens on Broadway with a new play, "The Lady From Dubuque" this winter, said commercial television avoids serious drama because "art, any good art, is an act of aggression, against the status quo if nothing else, and people want television to passify them, not teach."

TV conditions theater-goers to seek "either the most awful or the least awful" and that has turned Broadway into "a new Las Vegas strip," he said.

"All those flashy nightclub routines are passing for musicals. I think it's fine for the chorus lines and the dancers and all that stuff to be raking in all the money. But there should be a few serious plays to go along with it," he said.

"The problem is to convince the men who own the theaters to take a chance on a serious play, when there is so much more junk that would make a lot of money for them."

Albee, whose best-known play is "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?," has won two Pulitzer Prizes. He was here in a stop on a tour during which he is reading from his works and delivering "curious thoughts" on theater.

'Friction' Won't End With SALT

ATLANTA (AP) — The successful conclusion of a strategic arms limitation treaty would enhance world stability but would not produce an era of "sweetness and light" between the world's superpowers, the U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union said Tuesday.

"Ours is an adversary relationship. We will always have friction," diplomat Malcolm Toon told the Atlanta City Forum, a breakfast meeting group.

Toon said relations between the United States and the Soviet Union, for the foreseeable future, will involve "a long-term process with inevitable setbacks and frustrations."

He assured the group that U.S. negotiators for the new SALT treaty "are focused first and foremost on protecting national security."

And Toon said he would resign his post and "publicly repudiate" any treaty that he felt would jeopardize the national interest, but he added, "I don't expect this to happen."

On other topics, Toon said:

"The Soviet Union is paranoid about China" but does not yet regard that country as a military threat. Still, he said, Soviet analysts are looking with concern to the day when China has an industrial economy and a powerful military machine.

"He expects the Soviet presence to lessen in Africa because the Soviet Union is 'a highly racist society' and is recognized as such by African leaders.

"U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young is 'a good friend, but there were times when I would have liked him better if he had been muzzled' because he is quoted frequently in the Soviet press.

On the issue of an arms limitation treaty, Toon took issue with critics who argue that the Soviets must agree to accept limits. "History has shown that the Soviet leaders will demand any sacrifice to develop a strong (military) machine."

"I'm interested — more aligned with the allied."

Monterey High Borrows Voting Booths

By JEFF SOUTH
 Avalanche-Journal Staff

In past school elections, Monterey High students were having the same problems with paper ballots that other Lubbock citizens used to face in voting for public officials.

Paper ballots, explained student body president Paul Hancock, took too many people to count and were prone to error. Also, desk-top voting lacked privacy.

"You did not necessarily have a true secret ballot," Hancock said. "Everybody in the room could watch which name you circled."

WASHINGTON (AP) — A White House review of Vietnam veterans has found that they are "doing quite well," it was announced Tuesday.

Their unemployment rate is better than for non-veterans. Their income is higher. Drug abuse, once a serious problem, is declining.

"We found that despite the shattering nature of the Vietnam War, the great majority of veterans have made a successful transition to civilian life," Vice President Walter Mondale said in announcing results of the study.

"In virtually every walk of life, these men and women are contributing as fully to our country today as they did through their courageous service in Southeast Asia."

The study did find, however, that problems persist for disabled or minority group veterans. A number of new federal actions were proposed to help them.

Mondale said the administration would ask Congress next year to give "disadvantaged" Vietnam veterans some extra time to use their GI Bill education benefits, which now expire 10 years after discharge. This could cost up to $250 million a year, he said.

So in the annual homecoming queen election Tuesday, Monterey became the first school in the city to borrow Lubbock County government's punch-card voting machines — complete with built-in voting booths and a tabulating computer.

The most important reason for using punch-card equipment, Hancock said, is "educational. A lot of seniors are already 18 and will be eligible to vote in the general election in November. We figures this school election would be a good way to introduce students to punch-card voting."

He said the government also will try harder to hire Vietnam vets for federally funded public service jobs, will expand treatment for vets suffering from psychological problems and will establish "a fitting memorial" this fall for the dead and missing of Vietnam at Arlington National Cemetery this fall.

But there are other advantages, too. By tradition, the name of the winner of the homecoming queen election is supposed to be kept secret until she is crowned at halftime of Friday's homecoming football game.

When Monterey was using paper ballots, it took a crew of 10 persons to tally the votes — and the results sometimes slipped out before the game.

Said Hancock of the punch-card voting system: "Because fewer people handle the ballots and no one knows the winner until the reader (the tabulating computer) is programmed to release the results, confidential election information cannot leak out as it has in the past."

Moreover, tabulating punch-card ballots with the suitcase-size computer is "much more accurate" than counting paper ballots by hand, Hancock said.

Monterey students voted for homecoming queen during homeroom period. Homerooms were grouped into 20 voting precincts, and each precinct had its own punch-card voting machine, Hancock said.

He and other school officers said County Judge Rod Shaw and County Clerk Frank Guess were "very cooperative" in making the election equipment available to the school.

"County Clerk Guess stated that many new voters are not familiar with the use of the voting machines. Guess expressed hope that prior exposure to the machines would encourage young adults to take advantage of their right to vote," Hancock said.

Nominees for homecoming queen are Stephanie Brown, Sharon Collier, Connie Dickey, Cathy Gaschen, Lisa Hensley, Robin Igo, Vicki Jacks, Terri Laskey, Terri McMillan, Malinda Milam, Sheryl Sanders, Mary Sue Stiles and Kelly Woolam.

The queen will be crowned at halftime of Monterey-Pampa football game at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Lowrey Field.

The Calvin Klein Man

From the talent that revolutionized women's wear with sleek understated sportswear to today as America's driving force in menswear. Sporting clothes softly constructed, subtly shaped to be trim, but not loose. Shirts now newly proportioned, pants both plaid and pleated, slimmer through the legs and usually cuffed. The look American. Understated, interrelated texture, color and shape that's the unwavering sense of style of the Calvin Klein Man.

At 5-4, Kylene Barker of Virginia has become the shortest Miss America since 1926.

I can't tell you all the ramifications yet, but for someone who walks under coffee tables, this has to be the most exciting news since the secret sauce stains came out of my car upholstery.

Hopefully, it will mean the end of discrimination for women 5-5 or under. The long-legged beauties who can braid their legs and still have them touch the floor are out of style. We've lived in a tall world too long. Maybe some of it will change.

Are you listening, Ann Landers? There may be a day when we don't have to go on an elevator and be sick with worry about what we'll do if we have to push the button for the 14th floor.

Rejoice, Rona (Barrett)! This could mean a breakthrough in ready-made clothes where we don't have to chop 14 inches of material off every dress, skirt or coat we buy. (Which if sewn together would be enough to put a band-aid on the world.)

Think about it, Bette Midler. We can get a drink of water without a reach 'n seat, and hold onto straps on the bus without looking like we're being strung up for horse stealing.

And you, Helen Hayes, who has long fought the war of short people. Imagine being able to climb into the driver's seat of a car and not have to dig your heels into the floor and scoot your way to the steering wheel.

Tracy Austin, can you appreciate what it will be not to have to jog alongside a companion who is "walking or skipping" in order to keep up?

Imagine, Bonnie Franklin, no more treading water in the wading pool, or dancing and getting your hair caught in a belt buckle.

Ah, Nancy Walker, can you imagine driving through a drive-in bank and not having to swing on the car door to the box with your deposit slip?

Think about it, Sally Struthers. Pay phones you can reach. Shoes that don't give you a nosebleed.

It's a new day, gang. Let's stand up and hear it out there for short. I said stand up. Oh, you are standing...

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My mother died four years ago of diabetes and heart disease. Since this seems to be the health pattern in my family, I want to take steps to prevent my health deteriorating to this. Can you tell me what tests I should ask the doctor to order? — J.R.

Tests are fine, and you should have them for blood-sugar levels and for the state of your heart and circulation. You are at the prime age for development of the conditions that afflicted your mother.

Let me add that a test never cured an ailment that I know of. Your letter is representative of thousands I receive in a year. The fact that your mother had diabetes doesn't mean that you have it or will develop it to the degree she did. The same applies to the heart disease.

The point to keep in mind is that while many diseases do run in families, it is more often the lifestyle that brings them to the fore. Besides being armed with your family history of diabetes and heart disease, you also have other information to draw from. You can learn from your mother's history. If she was overweight you probably incline that way. Proper weight control is essential in forestalling diabetes, also heart disease.

Your doctor will be interested in the facts as you stated them to me. Yes, he will want to run tests to find out the present status of your blood sugar and blood pressure and ECG (heart) tests to see where you stand there.

Then there may be some unpleasant steps to take — such as reducing if you are overweight, quitting cigarettes if you smoke, establishing a regular exercise program to keep your heart muscle healthy, if that's needed, and taking steps to avoid tension if you are a tense person.

The unfortunate fact is that in these days of semi-automated medicine many patients end up with an oversupply of test results and an undersupply of steps to take in response to them. As I said, a test never cured an ailment yet.

In a somewhat related question, G.V.N. asks: Does elevated blood sugar always indicate diabetes?

The answer is that it usually does. However, the blood sugar can be elevated by disorders of other endocrine glands, besides the pancreas. Overactive pituitary, thyroid or adrenals can also cause it. However, diabetes can be mild, with few dramatic symptoms. Disorders of the other glands I mentioned usually have other symptoms pointing their way.

bake beans for my husband and cannot imagine doing that without using the pork. — Mrs. P.R.

Salt pork should be avoided as routine fare since it does contain considerable salt. However, I would not consider the amount you use to flavor your beans excessive. There are hundreds of other ways to reduce salt use, most of them right at the table — after the cooking has been done. So don't deny yourself the wonders of salt pork for your oven-baked beans. My Boston readers can breathe easily.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can a doctor tell by examining a urine specimen if one has a kidney infection? — J.D.

In a majority of cases he can, along with X-ray. This was effective in telling whether there was kidney infection in about 94 percent of cases studied in one urology clinic.

Never take a chance on diabetes! For a better understanding of this disease, write to Dr. Thosteson, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, for a copy of his booklet, "Diabetes — The Sneaky Disease." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I recently purchased a pair of blue denim jeans with leather trim.

I was so disappointed: After a couple of times of washing them, the leather was ruined.

Help! What am I doing wrong? — Linda B.

Well, Linda, you aren't doing anything wrong according to Milton Yablon, president of the Guild of Professional Drycleaners.

He tells us that most leather-trimmed denim fabrics will not keep their pretty appearance whether you have them done professionally or do them yourself at home.

Generally the patches are made up of scrap leather, all sewn together as one. Later, one finish is sprayed over the surface to give it an even color.

The finish that is last sprayed on the surface has a very limited resistance to professional solvents and consequently softens, peels and separates.

He says that currently there is no method available to restore the fabric to its original look.

Home-care methods also can cause costly permanent damage to these garments. Water causes excessive shrinkage to the trim, therefore making it impossible to finish the garment properly.

Also, the guild reminds consumers that steam from home irons can cause stiffening and shrinkage of the leather trim.

Hope this answers your question. — Heloise

HINTS FROM HIM

DEAR HELOISE:

The other day I wanted chocolate tapioca and there was only vanilla in the pantry.

Rather than make a trip to the store, I took the vanilla and cooked as directed on the package.

Just before pouring it in the individual bowls I added a couple of tablespoons of instant cocoa mix and stirred vigorously.

Of course, you can use the amount you want.

Sure was good — and saved me a trip to the store! — Rick Gonzalez

DEAR HELOISE:

I just want to tell you something someone else may be able to use.

I use a walker and it is very difficult to get around. My husband put a bicycle basket on my walker so I can move small things from room to room.

I also use the bent part of a curtain rod to reach things from my chair. — M.R.

It sounds like you have a very thoughtful husband. I know you appreciate him. — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

After you have washed and cleaned a paint roller, take a wire coat hanger, open it up and place the roller on the hanger. Twist the hanger back together and then place this in the garage or on the clothesline to dry.

Best of all, no messy cleanup job or handling. — Judy

DEAR HELOISE:

I am a working mother and thought some other poor working soul might benefit from this little hint.

To dry my son's damp tennis shoes at night, I put them on the floor in front of my frost-free refrigerator.

By morning, they are dry and ready to wear again. — Mrs. Harry Wagner

DEAR HELOISE:

Before placing a new pad of checks in your checkbook, tear the pages about two inches in on each side — through the entire book.

Then, when you take out individual checks, they are attached toward the center only and you've eliminated torn checks. — J.M.

Slick trick! — Heloise

THIS COLUMN is written for you...the homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise, 235 E. 45th St., N.Y. N.Y. 10017. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Soutag

In an ordinary bridge game West would lead three rounds of diamonds. East would ruff dummy's jack, declarer would overruff, draw trumps, cash the top clubs, ruff his last club, discard the deuce of hearts on the queen of diamonds, try the heart finesse and just make his contract when it lost.

Both declarers made game in the finals of the Spingold, but the play was worthy of champions.

Bill Root of the runner-up team and Paul Soloway of the winners shifted to the queen of clubs at trick two. Edgar Kaplan of the runners-up and Bobby Goldman each won that club and led their second diamond whereupon both West players made the brilliant play of ducking. Each declarer had saved a diamond loser, but still had problems.

Each took a different way to resolve them. Goldman led a club to his ace, ruffed his small club, cashed dummy's king of trumps, led a second trump, finessed his jack and was home when the finesse worked.

He would also have been home had the finesse lost. West would have been on lead and forced to lead a heart up to the ace-queen, lead a club to give a ruff and discard, or a diamond to set up dummy's queen.

Kaplan's line was equally effective. He ruffed a diamond, cashed his high club, ruffed his last club in dummy and the last diamond in his own hand. Then he cashed the ace of hearts, led a second heart and didn't care how trumps broke. He was not going to have to guess since he would not have to play the suit.

DRESS UP — Dressing up is part of the fun for "trick or treaters" and peanut butter dons a Halloween guise as "acorn" and "pumpkin" cookies. It also provides the flavor for chewy peanut-and-cereal squares and cluster of Triple Peanut Treats.

Peanut Butter Inspires Treats

NEW YORK (Special) — Dressing up for Halloween is big excitement for doorbell ringers and party-goers. And just as exciting are dressed-up treats that go beyond the ordinary. Popular peanut butter and a few clever kitchen tricks can inspire the kind of cookie and candy treats that say "special" to young Halloween hobgoblins.

Distinctive as they are, such treats are not difficult to make, and the youngsters can help in preparing some of them.

Peanut Butter Pumpkins are soft cookies that use honey as part of the sweetening. They are fun to make, forming the dough into pumpkin shapes right on the cookie sheet — something the kids love doing.

Peanut Butter Acorns are best served small because they are rich. Both the "pumpkin" and "acorn" cookies go well with milk or cocoa at a Halloween party, especially for pre-schoolers.

School-age children take to confections like Peanut Cereal Squares — chewy peanuts and cereal coated with a mixture of peanut butter, marshmallow cream and butter. Triple Peanut Treats are candy-like clusters made entirely from peanuts, peanut butter and peanut-flavor morsels. The latter are stocked in supermarkets among other types of baking chips.

PEANUT BUTTER PUMPKINS

1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
3/4 tsp. baking soda
1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup peanut butter

1/4 cup butter or margarine

1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup honey
1 egg

Sift dry ingredients together. Put remaining ingredients into medium-size mixing bowl; mix thoroughly. Blend in dry ingredients. Heat oven to 375-degrees F. Grease cookie sheets lightly. Pinch off small pieces of dough; roll into ball about 1 1/4-inches in diameter. Place 3 inches apart on cookie sheet. Press flat. Shape into pumpkin with fingers. Make lines on each cookie by pressing lightly with wooden pick. Bake 6 to 8 minutes or until browned around edges. Makes about 3 dozen.

PEANUT BUTTER ACORNS

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1/4 tsp. salt
3/4 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup peanut butter
1/2 cup sifted confectioners' (powdered) sugar
1 tsp. vanilla

Heat oven to 350-degrees F. Sift flour and salt together. Beat butter or margarine, peanut butter, sugar and vanilla in medium-size bowl until light and fluffy. Add sifted dry ingredients gradually, blending in well after each addition. Mix until smooth. Pinch off small pieces of dough; roll gently between palms of hands to form a ball about 1 inch in diameter. Place about 1 inch apart on ungreased cookie sheets. Press bottom half of ball of dough flat, and pinch top to shape acorn. Press wooden pick gently onto top half of ball in criss-cross fashion. Bake 12 to 15 minutes or until set and brown around edges. Transfer carefully to wire racks. Cool completely. Makes about 3 1/2 dozen.

TRIPLE PEANUT TREATS

1 cup peanut-flavored morsels
1/2 cup peanut butter
1 1/2 cups peanuts

Put peanut-flavor morsels and peanut butter in top of double boiler; place over hot, not boiling water. Heat until melted, stir to blend well. Add peanuts, mix thoroughly. Drop by teaspoonful onto wax paper or foil-lined cookie sheet. Chill until firm. Makes about 3 dozen.

PEANUT CEREAL SQUARES

1 cup coarsely chopped peanuts
4 cups oven-toasted rice cereal
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/3 cup peanut butter

1 jar (7 oz.) marshmallow cream
Line bottom and sides of 9x9x2-inch pan. Grease a large bowl. Mix peanuts and cereal in bowl. Melt butter or margarine, peanut butter and marshmallow cream in top of double boiler over hot, not boiling water, stirring to blend thoroughly. Pour over peanuts and cereal; mix well. Turn mixture into lined pan. Spread evenly with spatula. Cool completely. Cut into squares. Makes about 3 dozen.

Organization Helps Women Through Divorce Traumas

By VIRGINIA KELLY

NEW YORK (WNS) — "There had to be some sort of hot line for divorced women, women whose lives seemed to be over." Catherine Napolitane was talking — from experience.

She was 30 when her marriage broke up and she was left with two small children. "I was scared. I was lonely." She had little money, no job, she was bitter that her husband had left her for another woman and she realized that her married friends wanted no part of her.

In learning to cope with the world, she founded an organization called Nexus (from the Latin word for "link"), which helps divorced women come to terms with their new existences. Nexus is now five years old, has 17 branches and many women have been helped by its program.

During the initial shock of being divorced, Catherine Napolitane found that none of the existing therapy groups helped her. She knew only three single women and she was lonely. The local PTA (she lives in Garden City, Long Island) suggested that she call another divorced woman who lived across town. From that first meeting came the idea of gathering regularly with other women facing the same situation.

In October 1971 they had their first meeting. Six women showed up. They met again in November. This time, 11 came. "All we're doing is trying to help people meet each other and know they're not alone."

They now meet twice a month. Members are asked to bring articles that might expand their horizons. They go on vacations and theater parties together. "They learn to feel that they can make it without a man."

Part of each meeting is devoted to a rap session, in which they talk about their children, new dates, sometimes their ex-husbands. Dues are $20 a year. To get through the holidays, which are especially tough for the newly divorced, they hold special social functions. And they stand by when someone is sick or having an operation.

Catherine Napolitane says members help one another. "There's no such thing as a panacea. But there are little helps along the way."

Each woman has to tell about her own experiences. Each one always thinks that her experience was the worst, but when she hears others, she begins to realize that she's not alone. "We get them all to participate and learn about themselves."

Catherine Napolitane is the proof of her own philosophy. She now has a job, is planning to go back to college, she dates, but is not rushing to get married. And she has written a book, with Victoria Pellegrino, called "Living and Loving After Divorce." In it, she tells about encounter groups, lawyers, jobs, how to handle money, raise children, deal with former-in-laws, have an affair or not to have an affair.

It is seven years since her marriage ended and Catherine Napolitane has apparently found peace. "If I never marry, I now know that I can live nicely by myself. What I've learned most is that I can accept myself for who I am today."

FALL PICNIC PLANNING

With some careful preparations at home, you can turn a tailgate picnic into an elaborate dining experience. It basically depends on the selecting of a theme for the menu, and deciding how you will want to present the food on the table or cloth. Garnishes are important and parsley or watercress do wonders for any type of dish. Salad dressings should always be added at the last minute, and baskets of fruit, flowers and breads make handsome table decorations.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: A friend told me yesterday she read somewhere that hypnosis might be helpful in giving a girl larger bust measurements.

Will you please check with your experts and find out if there is anything to this? Although I am only 14, I have nothing more than a couple little "mosquito bites" where my breasts belong. Some of the girls in my gym class are already fully developed.

I hope you will let me know right away so I can make plans. — Love, Mary Ann

Dear Mary Ann: According to Dr. Herbert Spiegel, a distinguished New York psychiatrist who uses hypnosis in his practice, breast enlargement cannot be produced by hypnosis.

Dr. Spiegel said the size of breasts may vary from day to day due to body fluids and electrolyte shifts. Also, uncritical but enthusiastic measurement techniques may give the impression that the breasts are increasing in size. (People often see what they want to see.) In other words, if a girl wants to believe her breasts are getting larger, she can sell herself a bill of goods.

So there's your answer, Buttercup. My advice is to let Mother Nature do her work and I'll bet by the time you are 17, you'll have all you need.

At dinner I repeated this incident and a fruitful argument followed. Dick insists he is right. His dad says unless Dick changes his way of thinking he will never make it anyway. What is your opinion? — Selling Out To The Establishment?

Dear Out: When a young man goes looking for a job, he should realize he's not going to call the shots. The burden of proof is on HIM. An employer who doesn't want a young man with long hair and a beard doesn't have to hire him.

There ARE laws against discrimination, but there are no laws against refusing to hire a person with a negative personality, and I'd say a fellow who tells the boss to take the job and shove it falls into that category.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 13-year-old boy with a big problem. My voice is changing, but it's still high most of the time. Whenever I go to a fast-food place or a grocery store, I am always asked, "What would you like, Ma'am?" I'm almost always with friends and it's awfully embarrassing.

I thought it might help if I cut my hair a little shorter. Well, it didn't make a bit of difference. I still get mistaken for a girl. Maybe if you tell people in your column not to say "Ma'am" or "Sir" unless they are absolutely positive, it will help.

Thanks, Ann. — Stuck In Between In Missouri

Dear Stuck: God helps those who help themselves. My advice is get your hair cut a LOT shorter.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism — Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Aggie Mothers Set Annual Area Meeting

The Hereford Aggie Mother's Club will host the annual District 10 meeting of the Aggie Mothers Club at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Deaf Smith County Museum.

Mrs. C.R. Walters of Austin, president of the state federation; Mrs. Thomas H. Pfeiffer of Lockhard, sixth vice president; and Mrs. H.B. Cox of San Angelo, third vice president will be special guests.

Hereford's Aggie Mothers Club was formed in 1972.

Dear Ann Landers: Our son decided to take a year off between his second and third year of college — to "find himself." His father and I decided it was okay with us, but he'd have to get a job.

Well, Dick walked the streets for three solid weeks. He is really down-at-the-mouth about not having found anything.

Tonight a friend called to let us know Dick had been in to see him about a job. This friend told Dick that since he would be meeting the public, he'd have to trim his hair and get rid of the beard. Dick announced he was not going to "capitulate to the system" and ended the interview by saying, "You can take the job and shove it."

Veterans in need of care in a Veteran's Administration Nursing Home Care Unit may be admitted or transferred according to the following priorities:

First: Veterans receiving hospital or domiciliary care in Veteran Administration facilities when transfer is required for service-connected or adjunct disabilities and persons being furnished care in Armed Forces hospitals who will require a protracted period of nursing home care upon release therefrom, and will become veterans on discharge from active military service.

Second: Veterans not hospitalized or domiciled by Veterans Administration who require nursing home care for service-connected or adjunct disabilities.

Third: Veterans receiving hospital or domiciliary care in Veterans Administration facilities whose transfer is required

Concorde Flights To Mexico Normal Despite Walkout

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Air France said Tuesday that supersonic Concorde flights to Mexico were "operating normally" during the walkout by Mexican air traffic controllers.

Air France public relations chief Margarita Guitart said there had been a change of one hour in the arrival of the Concorde, from 7:40 p.m. local time Sunday and Wednesday, to 8:40 p.m.

The Associated Press reported erroneously on Monday that Air France canceled its Concorde flights to and from Mexico City during the controllers strike.

A spokesman at the Airport Services office at the Mexico City airport told the AP in a telephone interview Saturday night that Air France rescheduled its Concorde flights to Mexico, not canceled them.

Guitart said Air France received approval to land after dark, when the airport is closed. The Mexico City airport is operating from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. local time (8 a.m. to 8 p.m. CDT) during the walkout that began last week.

LACK OF VOTING DEcriED
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, decriing what he sees as increasing voter apathy in the United States, said Tuesday that of all the nations that grant people the right to vote, "We are No. 1 in non-participation." Carter, making a rare presidential visit to the headquarters of the Democratic National Committee, complained that Americans simply "have stopped voting" and announced a get-out-the-vote campaign to be launched by the committee.

Contraceptive Restrictions Bill Draws Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Family planning advocates asserted Tuesday that more abortions will be performed if teenagers are forced to seek their parents' permission to get contraceptive services at family planning clinics.

A coalition of medical groups, social workers, the Planned Parenthood Federation of America and the United Methodist Church denounced efforts by Rep. Robert K. Dornan, R-Calif., to impose the restriction on teen-agers using federally funded family planning services.

"The inevitable result would be more unwanted pregnancies, more out-of-wedlock births and, ironically, in view of the purpose of the sponsors of these amendments, more abortions," Faye Wattleton, president of Planned Parenthood, said at a news conference.

She said anti-abortion groups were waging "what amounts to a form of guerrilla warfare against any and all pieces of legislation that expand or sustain reproductive health-care options."

The Senate has already passed and the House is still considering a three-year extension of the Family Planning Act, called Title X. The $200 million program provides contraceptives and other family planning information to 4.1 million women annually, including over one million teen-agers. Most of the recipients are poor. The law expressly bars using Title X funds to perform abortions.

Dornan said Sept. 23 he would also offer amendments to bar the funds to any family planning clinic or hospital that performs abortions or refers women elsewhere for abortions. Another Dornan amendment would make groups that "promote natural family planning and the alternative to abortion centers" eligible for Title X funds.

The bill is expected to come up for action on the House floor Friday.

Dr. Robert T. Greenfield, speaking for the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, said it would "border on medical malpractice" to pass a law barring a doctor from deciding whether to refer a pregnant woman for an abortion.

Dr. Rene Jenkins of Howard University said the American Academy of Pediatrics "believes that if parental notification were required, fear of parental disapproval would often cause an adolescent not to exercise his or her right to that health care."

A recent Planned Parenthood survey found that 55 percent of teen-agers at family planning clinics said their parents knew they were getting these services.

The coalition members stressed that the parental notification issue involves much more than the abortion question, since it could interfere with a teen-ager's ability to get contraceptive help to avoid pregnancy in the first place.

The coalition members said they were unsure whether they would prevail in the House votes on Dornan's amendments.

Texas, New Mexico Congressmen's Votes Noted

HOUSE

FEDERAL JUDGES Adopted, 106 for and 151 against, an amendment advancing the idea that federal judges be picked more on the basis of legal competence than political connections. It was attached to HR 12005, a Justice Department spending bill later passed and sent to the Senate.

The attorney general would be required to identify potentially outstanding federal judges and submit their names to the President and Senate as suggested nominees to fill district court vacancies. Presently, with senators having the major voice in nominating federal judges to serve in their respective states, judgeships frequently are handed out as political rewards.

Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill., a sponsor, said that by allowing public scrutiny and Justice Department participation to enter the selection process, the amendment "would advance merit selection of district judges."

Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., an opponent, said that under the Constitution the selection of federal judges "is the President's responsibility, not the attorney general's."

Members voting "yea" favored establishing a formal procedure for merit selection of federal judges.

Reps. James Collins, R-3, Bill Archer, R-7, Richard White, D-16, and Bob Gammage, D-22, Manuel Lujan, R-1, voted "yea."

Reps. Samuel Hall D-1, Charles Wilson, D-2, Ray Roberts, D-4, Jim Mattox, D-5, Bob Eckhardt, D-8, Jack Brooks, D-9, Jake Pickle, D-10, Jack Hightower, D-13, Kiki de la Garza, D-15, Barbara Jordan, D-18, George Mahon, D-19, Henry Gonzalez, D-20, and Abraham Kazen, D-23, voted "nay."

Reps. Olin Teague, D-6, W.R. Poage, D-11, James Wright, D-12, John Young, D-14, Omar Burlison, D-17, Harold Runnels, D-2, Robert Krueger, D-21, and Dale Milford, D-24, did not vote.

PAY RAISE? Adopted, 284 for all 111 against, an amendment limiting to 5.5 percent the pay raise to be received this fiscal year by non-military blue-collar employees of the executive branch. The cap was attached to the conference report on HR 12930, an appropriations bill later approved and sent to President Carter for his signature.

Federal blue-collar wages automatically are raised each year at a rate comparable to raises received by private-sector blue-collar workers. Without this amendment, this year's hike for the 130,000 non-defense blue-collar workers would have far exceeded 5.5 percent. The Defense Department's estimated 470,000 blue-collar workers were bound by the 5.5 percent cap this fiscal year by previous legislation.

Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., a supporter, called the 5.5 percent hike "equitable" and said it "will reduce that federal budget in excess of $200 million this fiscal year."

Rep. Herbert Harris, D-Va., an opponent, said the pay cap treats federal blue-collar workers "with something less than justice in this period of real family budget crunch."

Members voting "yea" favored limiting federal blue-collar pay hikes to 5.5 percent in the fiscal year that began Oct. 1. Hall, Collins, Roberts, Mattox, Archer, Brooks, Poage, Wright, Burlison, Jordan, Runnels, Mahon and Gammage voted "yea."

Eckhardt, Pickle, de la Garza, White, Lujan, Gonzalez and Kazen did not vote.

CAMBODIAN REFUGES Adopted, 231 for and 105 against, an amendment to permit 15,000 Cambodian refugees to enter the United States under a "special parole" granted by the attorney general. It was attached to the conference report on HR 12934, an appropriations bill later passed and sent to the White House for enactment.

Rep. Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., a supporter, said Cambodia has become "an Asian Auschwitz" and added that while the U.S. can do little about the captives, "there is something we can do for those who have managed to depart."

Rep. Hamilton Fish, R-N.Y., an opponent, saying there are some 100,000 Vietnamese and Laotian refugees also awaiting resettlement, called the amendment "a shortsighted, emotional approach to a very serious problem requiring a comprehensive and rational response."

Members voting "yea" favored an exception in immigration policy to let 15,000 Cambodians enter the U.S.

Wilson, Pickle, Hightower, de la Garza, Jordan, Gonzalez and Kazen voted "yea."

Lujan, Hall, Collins, Roberts, Mattox, Archer and White voted "nay."

Runnels, Teague, Eckhardt, Brooks, Poage, Wright, Young, Burlison, Mahon, Krueger, Gammage and Milford did not vote.

SENATE

ERA Rejected, 44 for and 54 against, an amendment to allow state legislatures that have ratified the Equal Rights Amendment to rescind their approval. It was proposed to a bill extending for three years (until June 30, 1982) the deadline by which states must vote the proposed constitutional amendment up or down. The extension was headed for final passage and enactment. So far, 35 states have approved the ERA — three short of the three-fourths required for ratification — and supporters say that without the extension ERA is doomed.

This vote was, in effect, on the merits of the ERA, for supporters said that to allow any of the 35 states to rescind their ratification would also doom the constitutional amendment. The ERA says: "Equality of rights under the law shall not be abridged or denied by the United States or any state on account of sex."

Virtually all senators voting "nay" favor the ERA.

Sens. Peter Domenici, R, Lloyd Bentsen, D, and John Tower, R, voted

"yea."

Harrison Schmitt, R, voted "nay." PHYSICAL FITNESS Voted, 47 for and 39 against, to establish an Office of Physical Fitness and Sports Medicine in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare; at a projected cost of $18 million through fiscal 1981. Building upon the existing President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports, the agency would, in part, award grants to encourage state physical fitness programs and fund research into sports medicine. The vote came during consideration of S 2474, a health bill later passed and sent to the House.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., and advocate of the office, said it would significantly improve the health of Americans "with minimal interference by the federal government."

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., an opponent, called the office an unnecessary new bureaucracy because "if there is any area of American life where individual, personal discipline and personal responsibility should be paramount, it is in the area of physical fitness."

Senators voting "yea" favored the new agency.

Domenici voted "yea."

Bentsen and Schmitt voted "nay."

Tower did not vote.

BLACKLISTING Killed, 45 for and 35 against, a plan to have Congress receive and debate an Administration "blacklist" of countries ineligible to receive Export-Import Bank loans. The list was to have singled out countries whose actions, such as repressing human rights or nurturing terrorism, are deemed particularly offensive to the U.S. national interest. Such a list still may be compiled, but as a result of this vote it will not be released publicly for debate in the Senate and House.

Sen. John Chafee, R-R.I., who voted "yea," said the way to reform other countries "is through quiet diplomacy, not having 535 secretaries of state on the floors of both bodies saying this must be done and that must be done."

Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., who voted "nay," said the orderly compilation of a blacklist, and its regular submission to Congress, would improve upon the present "unsystematic, impulsive, ad hoc conduct of economic policy" on the House and Senator floors.

Senator voting "yea" did not want Congress to debate a foreign trade blacklist. Bentsen and Schmitt voted "yea." Tower and Domenici did not vote.

4-H Member Wins Trip To Chicago

A-J Correspondent
TULIA — A Swisher County 4-H member has captured the state award in the 4-H Conservation of Natural Resources Program. Kevin Odom will receive an expense-paid trip to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago Nov. 26-30 for his winning record book, according to state 4-H officials with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.
 The trip will be sponsored by John Deere, which also provides award certificates to 10 clubs and a $50 cash award to one county in each state and six scholarships of $1,000 each at the national level. Odom's record book will be entered in national competition.
 The son of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby G. Odom of Happy, the 15-year-old sophomore in Happy High School has been a member of the Happy Community 4-H Club six years.
 Odom is interested in ducks and geese and is a member of Ducks Unlimited and an associate member of the National Wildlife Federation.
 He and his father practice minimum tillage in their farming operation to conserve water and reduce erosion.
 Odom placed third at the State 4-H Roundup this year with his conservation method demonstration on cloud seeding. He also has been active in the 4-H exchange program as both a host and member of a Minnesota exchange trip. The Swisher County youth has attended junior leadership camp and teen leadership lab. He attended district electric camp at Clouderoft, N.M., last summer.
 Odom was junior leader for the county horse program this year. He served as youth room superintendent at the county eliminations contest. He also has served as corresponding secretary, vice president in charge of publicity, vice president in charge of membership and song leader for his club.

University Sets Homecoming Lineup

PORTALES (Special) — The agenda for the 45th annual homecoming Nov. 10-11 at Eastern New Mexico University has been announced by the Executive Homecoming Committee.
 The Friday schedule begins with the 1 p.m. homecoming assembly and the final event of the day will be a fireworks display.
 Other afternoon and evening activities include a meeting of the university board of regents and a formal dedication of the Regents' Room and the annual meeting of the alumni association board of directors.
 Also scheduled is a "Fun Run" to support the Hunger Project, an alumni association social for all alumni and friends honoring the classes of 1960-65, a variety show by the honorary music fraternity, Phi Mu Alpha, and the theatrical production, "Veronica's Room."
 Saturday begins with an 8 a.m. Friends of Eastern breakfast honoring annual fund donors and alumni association award recipients, homecoming registration, a tea for DeBaca Hall alumni, annual parade with the theme "Fads of the Past," and a barbecue dinner cooked and served by the Odessa Chuck Wagon Gang.
 The afternoon football game is preceded by a mass concert by bands from the parade and halftime features the homecoming queen and the university marching band.
 Evening activities include a repeat of "Veronica's Room," a concert, and an alumni dance.

Southwest Records Increase

DALLAS (Special) — Southwest Airlines announced recently increases of 34 percent in passengers carried, 22 percent in revenue passenger miles and a load factor increase of 3 points to 64.2 percent in September.
 Southwest Airlines President Howard Putnam stated that September is traditionally a month of decreased travel in the airline industry, and that the load factor for the month increased even with capacity increasing by 26 percent.
 Revenue passenger miles during September 1978, were 84.3 million — an increase of 24 percent. This compares to revenue passenger miles of 63.9 million during September 1977.

Childress Hospital Chief Sought

A-J CORRESPONDENT
CHILDRESS — Screening of applications for the post of Childress General Hospital administrator continues here after the resignation of administrator Bob Maynard.
 Maynard's resignation becomes effective Oct. 24, when he and his family will move to Shawnee, Okla., where he has purchased a floral business.
 Maynard served as administrator at Childress General Hospital for two years, during which time the facility consistently operated out of the red. The hospital was operating at a deficit when he began his duties.
 "It's a matter of studying the profit and loss sheet," Maynard once commented. "When income drops, you back on expenses."
 During his tenure, he and the hospital's board of directors maintained a policy of cutting expenses without reducing the quality of patient care. Among recent improvements were an improved central supply system, negotiations resulting in lower costs for laundry services and streamlined office procedures.
 Maynard also helped lay the groundwork for promotion of Childress as a medical center of the future, and worked closely with the Medical Crisis Committee in attracting several new doctors to the city within the past year.

Humane Society Sets Meeting

LEVELLAND (Special) — The Levelland Humane Society will meet today to elect board officers and plan committee work assignments.
 The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Levelland State Bank party room and is open to all interested persons.
 Reports will be given by board members on cruelty investigation complaints, the spay and neuter program, fund-raising activities, pet adoptions from the city pound and other topics.
 Information also will be available on education, fund-raising, cruelty investigation and a variety of other committees. Volunteers will have the opportunity to sign up for work on the committee of their choice, said Mrs. Coleman.
 A membership drive for the society is currently in progress, and interested persons can join for $5 (associate membership), $10 (regular voting membership), $2 (junior membership for persons under age 18), $50 for sustaining membership and $100 for life membership.

Coliseum Opening Ceremony Set

BIG SPRING (Special) — Big Spring residents will celebrate the grand opening of their new Howard College Dorothea Garrett Coliseum at 1:30 p.m. Sunday.
 The 90,000 square foot facility was constructed at the cost of $2.5 million and it will accommodate 4,600 people.
 Dr. Charles Hays, president of Howard College, has issued a special invitation to the public to attend the opening ceremonies and to tour the new complex before attending a reception in the adjoining Student Union Building.

Budget Available For Inspection

LITTLEFIELD (Special) — A summary of the fiscal year 1978-79 budget of the City of Littlefield, including the intended uses of federal revenue sharing funds, is available for public inspection this week.
 The summary and documentation are available in the City Secretary's office at City Hall, 100 W. Sixth St., from 8 a.m. to noon, and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. through Friday.

Trustee Gets National Post

MIDLAND (Special) — Reagan H. Legg, Midland College trustee and former president of the board of trustees, has been elected as a member of the national board of directors of the Association of Community College Trustees (ACCT) at its annual convention now in progress in Washington, D.C.
 Legg was the 1977 recipient of the M. Dale Ensign Community College Leadership Award as outstanding community college trustee in the United States and Canada. His election to the ACCT, and membership of Texas colleges in the organization has grown from 10 to 35 under his direction.

Carter Arms Policy Termed Dangerous

WASHINGTON (AP) — A representative of the Joint Chiefs of Staff warned Tuesday that President Carter's unilateral limit on arms sales could endanger American allies and reduce U.S. influence abroad.
 Rear Adm. James A. Lyons said the Joint Chiefs support administration efforts to negotiate an agreement among major arms suppliers to limit sales of conventional weapons to other countries.
 But, Lyons added, "Lacking such wide cooperation, continued U.S. unilateral controls could jeopardize the military security of friends and allies and could lead to arms substitution by other suppliers, resulting in diminished U.S. influence with no net increase — and possibly a decrease — in security among recipient states."
 The president, concerned about dangers to world peace caused by the growth in the worldwide weapons trade, has established a ceiling on arms sales to all countries except NATO allies, Australia, New Zealand and Japan.
 Lyons said the Joint Chiefs intended to keep an eye on the effect of that policy, particularly the administration's success in gaining cooperation from other arms suppliers.
 Lyons was one of three military officials who testified before a House Armed Services Committee panel on Indian Ocean force limitations and controls on conventional arms transfers.
 Despite the Joint Chiefs' concern about unilateral limits on arms sales, the military panel generally endorsed the president's negotiating efforts with the Soviet Union on that issue and controls on the size of Indian Ocean forces.
 Brig. Gen. James M. Thompson, representing the Defense Department, testified that progress has been made in talks with the Soviet Union on both Indian Ocean force limits and arms sales.
 However, Thompson said the leading Western European arms suppliers — France, West Germany and Great Britain — have refused thus far to join in the negotiations on weapon sales.
 "To be successful, we need to involve as many suppliers as possible in the restraint process," Thompson said. "One or two countries, even if they include major suppliers like the Soviet Union, may not be sufficient."
 Critics of unilateral limits on arms sales have argued that other suppliers will step in and fill the vacuum if the United States refuses to sell weapons abroad.

Your Personal Biorhythms

by Bernard Gittelson

STEP 1 YEAR OF BIRTH	P	E	I
STEP 2 A-B MONTH OF BIRTH
STEP 3 DAY OF BIRTH
TOTALS

YOUR PERMANENT NUMBERS

BIORHYTHMS FOR OCT. 11, 1978

PHYSICAL
Cycles: 2, 13, 25, 36, 48, 59, 71 — Drive your car with care
Highs: 2-12, 20-30, 40-50, 72-75 — Top day for best work
Lows: 1, 14-15, 27-27, 50-70 — Tummy cramps at low ebb

EMOTIONAL
Cycles: 4, 16, 28, 40, 52, 64 — Temper fit possible
Highs: 1-3, 10-11, 47-50, 75-80 — Smooth sailing
Lows: 5-7, 20-21, 51-73 — A blue day

INTELLECTUAL
Cycles: 10, 20, 30, 40, 50, 60, 70 — Progress depends
Highs: 1-8, 20-22, 41-45, 64-69 — Your wit's at its best
Lows: 11-16, 44-50, 77-82 — Logical stumbles down

Fred Lynn's permanent numbers are 18, 29, 64

Step 1 — Year of birth. Read down the left hand column to find the last number in the year of your birth then go across to the appropriate decade. For instance, if you were born in 1947, your number for Physical would be 21, Emotional 17, Intellectual 19. Note whether your numbers are preceded by an A or B; this will be used for Step 2.

9 A6 10 22	A2 22 12	A20 7 1	A16 20 24	A11 4 13	A7 17 3

Step 2 — Month of birth. Find the corresponding numbers for the month you were born. If your month is February, and your year numbers were preceded by a B, your numbers would be 8 for Physical, 3 for Emotional and 31 for Intellectual. Enter your own numbers in the figure chart for Step 2.

Jan.	Feb.	March	April	May	June	July	Aug.	Sept.	Oct.	Nov.	Dec.
P E I	P E I	P E I	P E I	P E I	P E I	P E I	P E I	P E I	P E I	P E I	P E I

Step 3 — Day of birth. Enter your day of birth three times in the figure chart, once each for Physical (P), Emotional (E) and Intellectual (I).

Add the three columns to derive your permanent biorhythm numbers for your Physical, Emotional and Intellectual cycles. Now you can refer to today's biorhythm readings.

Onassis' Daughter Debunks Rumor

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Heiress Christina Onassis Kazouz flew here Tuesday for a week of business after which, she said, she will be returning to her Soviet husband in Moscow.

Mrs. Kazouz, 27, said she did not come to stay in Switzerland permanently, as has been rumored here.

"I am here on business for a week. I will then be returning to Moscow," she told a reporter by telephone from the downtown Geneva hotel where she is staying. "I have been coming and going to and from this country for some time."

She declined to elaborate.

Geneva airport authorities said Mrs. Kazouz flew to Geneva from Zurich in a privately-owned twin-engine jet. She flew to Zurich from Moscow on a Swissair flight, authorities said.

The heiress to the shipping fortune of her father, Aristotle Onassis, was married August 1 to former Soviet shipping official Sergei Kazouz, 37. Since the marriage, her third, she has left several times on what were described as business jaunts.

Reduced Bus Fare For Elderly Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Trailways has petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission to allow it to offer discount fares to senior citizens.

The firm has proposed offering a 20 percent reduction on interstate bus fares for persons 65 and over. The special fares would be valid Mondays through Wednesdays for 30 days from the date the ticket was purchased and unlimited stopovers would be allowed.

Legal Secretaries Set Activities For Week

A mock rape trial and a one-day seminar featuring the use of hypnosis in law enforcement will be highlights of National Legal Secretaries Court Observance Week Oct. 8-14.

Joining the Lubbock Legal Secretaries Association in sponsoring the events are the Lubbock County Bar Association and the Texas Tech University Division of Continuing Education.

The seminar and the mock trial are scheduled Saturday at the Texas Tech Law School.

The events are open to attorneys, legal secretaries, law enforcement officers and anyone interested in legal education, according to the sponsors.

The morning session will include the use of hypnosis in the law, with Deaf Smith County Sheriff Travis McPherson and Amarillo police detective Jim Lafavors, both certified forensic hypnotists, as the speakers.

The men have been instrumental in solving many murder and rape cases on the South Plains and also have used hypnosis to draw out exacting details in civil cases.

The afternoon session will include a mock rape trial involving an authentic Lubbock County case, with Criminal District Attorney-elect John T. Montford prosecuting and George Gilkerson as defense attorney.

Judge Denizl Bevers will preside and others participating will be Lubbock police officer Randy Ward and actors and actresses from the Lubbock Theatre Centre.

The fee for the all-day seminar is $12.50 or $7.50 for the morning session only. Registration information may be obtained by calling Doris Dye at 763-4617.

Strong Thursday Night Gives ABC Top Ratings

NEW YORK (AP) — For three hours Thursday night, ABC kept 'em coming. One half-hour sitcom after another. And the nation's prime time TV audience watched, and watched, and watched. An estimated 20.4 million homes tuned in at 8 p.m. (an hour earlier in the Midwest) for "Happy Days," figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. show, and the audience grew through "Mork and Mindy" at 8:30 to its high point for the week, about 23 million for "Three's Company" at 9. Things tapered off slightly after that, for "Taxi," "Barney Miller" and finally, "Soap," No. 14 in the week's ratings. The extra-strong Thursday night helped make ABC a runaway winner in the networks' battle for the prime time viewer for the week ending Oct. 8. ABC listed seven of the week's 10 most-watched shows, including a pro football game, No. 4, and a major league baseball playoff game, No. 8. ABC's over-all rating was 22.1, followed by NBC at 19.1 and CBS at 17.8. The networks say that means in an average prime time minute during the week, 22.1 percent of the homes in the country with TV were watching ABC. It was ABC's third week at the top in the fall season that began just that long ago. Perhaps as significantly, it was NBC's third week in a row as runnerup, after spending much of last season in third place. "Happy Days," "Three's Company" and "Taxi," normally in ABC's Tuesday night lineup, were bumped to Thursday by a major league baseball playoff game which, incidentally, showed up 42nd in the ratings. "Mork and Mindy," second in the ratings, emerged as the top new show of the week, followed by "Taxi" in a fifth-place tie with an NBC movie and ABC's "Battleground Galactica," No. 11. Among the new shows finishing strong were "Dick Clark's Live Wednesday" on NBC, No. 23, "Kaz" on CBS, No. 25. Here are the week's 10 most-watched shows: "Three's Company," with a rating of 30.9 representing 23 million homes, "Mork and Mindy," 30.1 or 22.4 million, "Happy Days," 27.2 or 20.4 million, and "NFL Monday Night Football," Washington vs. Dallas, 26.8 or 20 million, all ABC; NBC Wednesday Movie, "B.J. and the Bear," and "Taxi," ABC, both 26.1 or 19.4 million; "Barney Miller," 26 or 19.3 million, and American League championship playoff, Saturday night, 25 or 18.6 million, both ABC; CBS Tuesday Movie, "Carrie," 24.9 or 18.5 million, and "60 Minutes," 24.5 or 18.3 million, CBS.

JESTS AND JOGGING — Veteran broadcaster Art Linkletter, left, quips with his son Jack, host of NBC-TV's "America Alive!," as they do some pre-jogging exercises on the show's stage during Monday's live telecast under the watchful eye of Dr. Joan Ulyot, an expert on jogging and author of the book "Women's Running." This was Art's first visit to his son's show. The proud father's appraisal: "He's great!" (AP Laserphoto)

Movies Parton's Next World To Conquer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Dolly Parton, who won country music's top award Monday night, now sets her sights on a movie career. "I've signed to do three movies and I'm waiting for the right script," she said after being chosen entertainer of the year at her low-cut dress, torn just moments before she sat in the audience. Immediately after the show, she dashed to her dressing room where aide Denise Patrick sewed up the pink and white dress. Miss Parton, whose big hit this year was the million-selling "Here You Come Again," later told reporters: "I busted it all the way down the front — wide open. It was just a strain on it. It was real thin material."

Crystal Gayle was chosen female vocalist of the year for the second straight year and Don Williams was picked top male vocalist, breaking a two-year hold on the award by blind pianist Ronnie Milsap. Veteran Grandpa Jones, a banjo player, guitarist, songwriter and comedian on the "Hee Haw" television show, was selected the 31st member of the Country Music Hall of Fame. "Heaven's Just a Sin Away" by the Kendalls was picked single of the year and "It Was Almost Like a Song" by Milsap won top album. Songwriter Richard Leigh won song of the year for "Don't It Make My Brown Eyes Blue," recorded by Miss Gayle. The Oak Ridge Boys won vocal group of the year, displacing The Statler Brothers who had won it six straight years. The Oak Ridge Boys band was named top instrumental group or band. Roy Clark, who plays eight instruments, was named instrumentalist of the year and Kenny Rogers and Dottie West were named No. 1 vocal duo. Tammy Wynette did not perform as scheduled because she was concerned about bruises on her face, show spokesman Carl Wolfsohn said. Miss Wynette has said she suffered the bruises when she was struck by a man she said abducted her last Wednesday in Nashville, then released her 80 miles south near Pulaski, Tenn.

Rhodes Scholarship Study Applicants Solicited At Tech

Students between the ages of 18 and 24 before October 1978 and who will be graduated before October 1979 are invited to apply for Rhodes Scholarships to study at Oxford University in England. Dr. David M. Vigness of the history faculty can furnish a copy of the Memorandum of Regulations and an application blank to interested students. The applicant must be unmarried and a citizen of the United States. Qualities forming the basis of selection are literary and scholastic ability and attainments; truthfulness, courage, devotion to duty, sympathy for and protection of the weak, kindness, unselfishness and fellowship; exhibition of moral force of character and of instincts to lead and take an interest in one's contemporaries; and physical vigor as shown by fondness for and success in sports. Quality of character and intellect is the most important requirement, according to the selection committee. The scholarship pays college fees and a maintenance allowance. Students may work toward the Oxford B.A. or, with consent of their colleges and relevant faculty, they may work toward a graduate degree.

McDonald Observatory Site For Movie

FORT DAVIS (AP) — Albert Einstein's theory of relativity and a British film crew have "taken over" the University of Texas' McDonald Observatory. The observatory in the remote Davis Mountains of West Texas was chosen as primary filming site for "Einstein's Universe," a documentary salute to Einstein's birthday centennial March 14, 1979. The 90-minute special on Einstein's scientific contributions is a co-production of the British Broadcasting Corporation and WGBH-TV in Boston. The film will be shown in March on Public Broadcasting Service stations. Actor Peter Ustinov plays a layman interested in Einstein's theories. Six physicists and astronomers explain the scientist's achievements. McDonald Observatory, atop Mount Locke, was chosen for its technical programs and semi-desert surroundings. The facility conducts a program bouncing laser light off the moon — a key test of Einstein's theory of general relativity. McDonald also has 107-inch and 82-inch reflecting telescopes. The film script was written by British science writer Nigel Calder.

No Desire To Saddle Up Again, Gene Autry Says

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Once he rode astride Champion, guitar in hand, Now Gene Autry sits behind a massive desk piled high with papers. He is 30 pounds heavier and a few million dollars richer, but the folksy touch remains.

GENE AUTRY

Autry considers himself just a country boy still trying to make good in the big city, though to all appearances he has. He operates his baseball-hotel-broadcasting-real estate empire from the studio he owns in Hollywood, the same place where Al Jolson starred in the first talkie, "The Jazz Singer."

The Autry saga can be learned in a new book, "Back in the Saddle Again" (Doubleday, $8.95) which he wrote with Mickey Kerskowitz.

"I didn't tell all," the first of the singing cowboy stars admitted. "There are certain things you don't want to talk about, certain people you don't want to hurt."

"I don't think it's right for folks to write bad things about people they've worked with, the way (Jim) Bouton did. He and his fellow players were teammates together, and there should be a loyalty there. If a fellow starts throwing rocks, there are damn few that can't throw rocks back at him."

Autry even has kind words for Herbert J. Yates, his old boss at Republic Pictures:

"I always liked him. Herb had two personalities: you might say he was a real

Two Short Courses Scheduled By SPC

LEVELLAND (Special) — South Plains College is offering community service short courses in "Ms. Auto Mechanics" beginning Monday and "New Advancements in Needlepoint" beginning Oct. 17.

How to change spark plugs, air cleaners and oil filters and motor oil and how to check the transmission oil level and axle oil level will be covered in the six-week auto mechanics class.

The course meets from 7 to 9 p.m. Mondays and instruction of SPC's automotive/diesel mechanics personnel in the College Diesel Shop.

A proficiency in the basket weave stitch is all that is required for the five week needlepoint class. Instructor Pat Grappe will demonstrate three dimensional needlepoint, reversible needlepoint and finishing techniques.

Classes meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Technical Arts Building.

SPC's short courses, offered through the Division of Continuing Education, are non-credit and open to anyone.

Jackyll and Hyde. When he was host at a dinner party, he could be the most charming guy in the world. But if you negotiated with him across a desk, he could be the roughest old bastard you ever met."

In his book, Autry writes about Yates' anger when his no. 1 box office draw enlisted in the Army Air Corps after Pearl Harbor.

"By the time you come back, you'll be forgotten," the studio boss ranted. "And it won't hurt us. No, sir. If we have to, we'll spend a million dollars to promote (Roy) Rogers. A million. And we'll make him bigger than you ever were."

Indeed, Autry returned from the war to find Rogers a big star. But Gene denied they ever feuded.

"That was just a publicity thing. Walter Winchell used to have a feud with Ben Bernie, and they'd exchange insults on radio. Later Jack Benny did the same thing with Fred Allen. The Republic publicity department thought it would be a good idea for Roy and me. But there was no personal feud whatsoever."

"I see Roy quite often. Just a few weeks ago he came to the studio, and we appeared in a television special, 'The Saga of the Singing Cowboy,' along with Jimmy Wakely and Rex Allen. Tex Ritter's son, John, emceed the show, and he did a fine job."

Autry's wartime duty sparked his future financial empire. He recalled:

"When I went into the air force, I thought to myself, 'Last year — it was 1941 or 1942 — you made a half-million dollars out of six pictures, weekly radio for Wrigley's, personal appearances, records. Suddenly it all drops to a tech sergeant's pay of $145 a month."

"If it hadn't been for royalties from my records and endorsements, I couldn't have survived. That should teach a lesson not only to me but every performer and athlete. I was okay as long as I was performing. But supposing my voice went haywire, or I became ill and couldn't work? That's when I decided to get into some kind of business."

His business career blossomed in the postwar years, and in 1956 he quit performing. He says he doesn't miss it.

"I'll do an interview or talk show on TV, but I'd never make another picture. There's nothing as sad to me as a former big star trying to come back after his prime. The same with great football and baseball players. Times change. It's better to get into another business and forget the past."

Autry admitted he had been "pretty fortunate in most of the business ventures I've gotten into." Some of his hotels didn't fulfill his hopes, but he eventually recouped. Patience seems to help. After his player-buying spree, the California Angels lost $600,000 last year. But he expects the American League team to earn nearly $1 million this season.

His business advice:

"Stay in business with people who know what they're doing. Stay out of the kind of business you don't know. Every day I get propositions that 'will make you rich overnight.' They're from promoters that you shouldn't get involved with."

Is Gene Autry as rich as people think he is? "Hell, no. I don't know anybody who can write a check for a million dollars, except Howard Hughes. And he's dead."

Wide Range Of Questions Facing U.S. Voters

would outlaw all throw-away bottles and cans.

The 12 states without statewide proposals are Connecticut, Delaware, Kansas, Minnesota, New York, Tennessee, Utah, North Carolina, Kentucky, Louisiana, Pennsylvania and Vermont.

The 16 states with tax or spending proposals are Arizona, Arkansas, Missouri, Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois, Nebraska, Massachusetts, Nevada, North Dakota, Oregon, Alabama, South Dakota, Texas and Michigan.

Some ballot questions across the country deal with technical or administrative matters. Others are designed to remove outdated laws. In Nevada, for example, one would delete a constitutional prohibition on dueling holding office; in Mississippi, the six proposed constitutional amendments include eliminating a requirement that railroads pass within three miles of the county seat.

Here is a state-by-state look at highlights of the ballot proposals:

ALABAMA: Nine proposals. The key measure would lower the assessment rate on all classes of property except utilities. Taxes could not exceed 1 percent of the reasonable market value of residential and farm property. The measure is designed to hold down tax increases resulting from a court-ordered statewide property reappraisal.

ALASKA: Four proposals, including the throw-away container measure and an initiative mandating the opening of 30 million acres of state land for homesteading. Court challenges to the homestead measure are pending.

ARKANSAS: Two proposals, one dealing with the court system, the other — the result of an initiative — exempting groceries and medicines from the state's 3 percent sales tax. Passage would cost the state $40 billion to $60 billion a year in lost revenue.

ARIZONA: Three proposals. The key measure and the one given the best chance of passage would limit state spending to 7 percent of total personal income.

CALIFORNIA: Eight questions, including the homosexual and smoking issues. Other measures include proposals to expand the list of crimes covered by the death penalty, revise the licensing standards for chiropractors and provide property tax breaks to victims of the 1977 Santa Barbara fire and similar disasters.

COLORADO: Two proposals. Interest has centered on a measure to bar state and local governments from increasing spending at a rate faster than the increase in the national cost of living. It is the result of an initiative drive and is given a good chance of passage.

FLORIDA: Nine proposals, including the equality and gambling measures. Among other controversial questions are a proposal to make cabinet offices appointive rather than elective and a measure to exempt companies from the corporate income tax on increases in property value before 1971.

GEORGIA: A proposed constitutional amendment, which has stirred little debate, would change lawmakers' terms from two to four years.

HAWAII: Thirty-four categories of proposed changes are on the ballot as the result of a constitutional convention earlier this year. The amendments include a measure linking spending to growth in the state's economy and giving taxpayers a refund if the state's general fund shows a 5 percent surplus for two years or more.

IDAHO: Six questions, including one initiative to limit property taxes to 1 percent of market value. It is expected to pass. Other measures include establishment of mandatory minimum sentences for certain crimes.

IOWA: A proposed amendment, given a good chance of passage, to give counties home rule, allowing them to do anything not specifically forbidden by state law except in taxation matters.

ILLINOIS: Three proposals. The most controversial is an advisory referendum, sponsored by Republican Gov. James R. Thompson, asking the voters if they want the state constitution changed and laws enacted to put a mandatory ceiling on spending and taxes. The measure is opposed by Thompson's opponent in the November election, State Rep. David Robinson, D-Springfield, who has challenged the legality of the petitions involved in getting the measure on the ballot.

INDIANA: Two questions, neither controversial. One would allow sheriffs to serve unlimited terms; the other would clarify language about gubernatorial succession.

MAINE: Six proposed constitutional amendments and one bond measure. The bond measure, to authorize $2.1 million for the Northern Maine Vocational Technical Institute in Presque Isle, is given the best chance of success.

MARYLAND: Proposed constitutional amendments would make minor changes in language.

MASSACHUSETTS: Seven proposals. The most controversial is a measure to amend the constitution to allow cities and towns to tax residential and commercial property at different rates. All municipalities are now under court order to reassess property at full and fair market value, but many cities have failed to do so, fearing the reassessment would place too great a burden on the homeowner.

MICHIGAN: Eleven ballot proposals, including the three spending measures and the plan to boost the drinking age. Other issues include a proposal to allow collective bargaining by state troopers and a measure to allow state funds to be deposited in credit unions and savings and loan institutions as well as chartered banks.

MISSISSIPPI: Six minor constitutional amendments.

MISSOURI: Eight proposed constitutional amendments. One would add a right-to-work provision to the constitution; another would give the legislature the authority to enact laws to roll back property tax rates in the event of a statewide reassessment.

MONTANA: Eleven questions, including the two relating to alcoholic beverages. Among other proposals are measures that would allow local governments to adopt anti-obscenity standards that are more stringent than state rules and would give voters the power to approve or reject proposed nuclear power plants.

NEBRASKA: Ten proposals, including the bottle bill. A key measure, resulting from a petition drive, would amend the constitution to provide that, with certain exceptions, spending by state and local governments could not increase by more than 5 percent a year.

NEVADA: Six proposals, including the ERA and dueling questions. Among the key issues is a measure cutting property taxes by 1 percent and limiting them to 1 percent of market value. The measure, given a good chance of passage, would have to win approval this year and again in 1980 to become law.

NEW HAMPSHIRE: Six constitutional amendments, including a measure guaranteeing "all persons have the right to keep and bear arms in defense of themselves, their families, their property and the state."

NEW JERSEY: Six proposals, the most controversial of which is the gambling measure. Other questions involve bond issues covering prisons, recreational lands and flood control.

NEW MEXICO: Four proposals. Debate has centered on a plan to pay legislators $300 a month. Lawmakers now get a per diem payment of $40 for expenses. Another measure would hold property taxes in abeyance for persons who are over 62 or disabled.

NORTH DAKOTA: Four proposals, all resulting from initiative drives. One would cut state income taxes; another would return a portion of state income and sales taxes to local governments. The most controversial measure includes a provision authorizing the state health officer to hold hearings to set maximum charges for all medical services.

OHIO: Two proposed constitutional amendments, both minor.

OKLAHOMA: Six questions. Three would eliminate outdated language from the constitution. The major proposal given the best chance of passage is a measure allowing the legislature to set mandatory periods of confinement for habitual criminals.

OREGON: Twelve measures on the ballot. Two deal with spending. One, given the best chance of passage, would limit property taxes to 1.5 percent of assessed valuation and another would require the state to pay half of all property taxes on owner-occupied homes up to a maximum of $1,500 a year. An advisory referendum asks voters whether they favor requiring a balance federal budget.

Other key measures would reinstate the death penalty in certain cases and would allow people who make dentures for dentists to sell directly to the public.

RHODE ISLAND: Eleven questions including bond issues for the reservoir, higher education, state airports, prisons and facilities for mental patients.

SOUTH CAROLINA: Five constitutional amendments, including one making it easier to get a divorce and another mandating a 5 percent state reserve fund.

SOUTH DAKOTA: Seven measures, including one which would revise — and probably tighten — state obscenity laws. Homer Harding, the senate majority leader, said that the large number of proposals might lead all of them to defeat. "People can't get thoroughly informed on that many issues," he said, adding that when people don't understand the questions, they tend to vote no.

TEXAS: Nine constitutional amendments. The major proposal is a tax relief package put on the ballot as the result of a special legislative session. Key provisions limit growth in the state budget to growth in the economy and require full public hearings before property taxes are increased. It is expected to pass.

WISCONSIN: Two proposals to bring the state in line with federal law on voter eligibility for federal elections. Both are expected to pass.

Women Lacking In Education

WASHINGTON (AP) — An estimated 26 million American women — nearly one in three — lack the basic educational and job skills needed to survive in today's society, a presidential advisory council reported Tuesday.

The report says the worst off are "displaced homemakers," women who have lost their spouses because of death, desertion or divorce and are forced into the job market.

They are so numerous and their problems so urgent that they constitute a "hidden subculture" in American society, the council said.

Many single mothers, women over 60 and displaced homemakers lack marketable job skills, concludes the report, titled "Neglected Women."

Many of these women may be good mothers and housekeepers, but they are ignorant of such economic realities as money management, credit, insurance and banking, the report says.

The common denominator for all 26 million of these women is that they are caught, because they are women, in stereotypes, the report says. "They are the products of past educational and social patterns which do not apply to today's reality."

The report, written by the National Advisory Council on Women's Educational Programs, says these disadvantaged women need training for well-paying jobs that offer advancement opportunities.

"They also need access to financial aid for tuition, child care, transportation, clothing and, frequently, living expenses," the report concludes.

The council recommended legislation that would provide these women with financial assistance for education programs, tax incentives for career advancement education and anti-poverty programs aimed at counseling and training.

"Of the three groups, displaced homemakers have the most urgent educational needs," the report says. "They constitute almost a hidden subculture whose existence and problems are just becoming known...The homemaker who is forced back into the labor market faces an array of educational, economic, social and psychological problems."

The Census Bureau does not have a category for "displaced homemakers." But 1977 census figures show there were 10 million widows and 2.8 million divorced women in the 35-to-64 age group.

Florida Zoo To Use Trading Stamps To Acquire Gorillas

MIAMI (AP) — How many trading stamps are three gorillas worth? About 45 million, S&H Green Stamps says.

So the Zoological Society of Florida, which is acquiring animals for a new county zoo, is working with the Boy Scouts, businesses and other interested people to try to gather the stamps — enough to fill 37,500 books.

"It's the kind of community project that people like to get involved in," Dan Brennan, head of the zoological society, said Tuesday. "I don't have any doubt that it will be successful."

It's not the first time Brennan has used trading stamps to acquire animals. In 1965, when he was director of the zoo at Erie, Pa., he led a campaign that collected 5.4 million stamps that were used to acquire two gorillas worth a total of $9,000.

The price of gorillas has gone up in the last 13 years, of course. Now they cost $25,000 apiece.

And since the society did not have the $75,000, Brennan thought it would be a good time to approach the S&H people to see if they would still go for the idea.

Patricia Geddes, regional consumer relations manager for S&H in Winter Park, Fla., said the company decided to give the society $2 for each book of stamps that is turned in. The society then will use the money to buy the animals.

Brennan found two animal dealers who assured him that for $75,000, they would get the society three gorillas — two males and a female. "They'll come either from the wild in Africa or will be captive-born in U.S. zoos," Brennan said.

A local supermarket chain agreed to set up stamp collection boxes at its 27 stores in the county, Brennan said, and now he is lining up scouts and other groups to go door-to-door collecting stamps. He also needs volunteers for another sticky job.

"We're gonna need lickens and pasters, that's for sure," Brennan said.

Chess Game Adjourned

BAGUIO CITY, Philippines (AP) — The 30th game of the world chess championship was adjourned Tuesday after Anatoly Karpov sealed his 42nd move in his quest for the sixth victory he needs to keep his title.

The game, which experts say likely will end in a draw, resumes Wednesday. Soviet defector Viktor Korchnoi offered a draw Tuesday, but Karpov opted to play the game out.

Karpov played white and engaged Korchnoi in the 47-year-old challenger's favorite English opening game. Karpov has used the English opening twice before. Both games were draws.

"It's a dead draw," commented Argentine grandmaster Oscar Panno, an unofficial second of the challenger, after Karpov sealed his move.

Korchnoi went into the game playing some of his best chess in the $550,000 tournament, which began July 18, observers said. His back-to-back victories in the 28th and 29th games have cut the 27-year-old champion's lead to a 5-4 edge.

The first to win six games takes the title and a $350,000 winner's purse. The loser gets $200,000.

McDonald's Denies Ties To Devil Church

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — McDonald's hamburger chain has started a campaign in Southern cities to counter a rumor that some of its profits are going to devil worshippers.

Doug Timberlake, spokesman for the fast food chain, said rumors that McDonald's founder Ray Kroc gives profits to the Church of Satan began spreading after Kroc appeared on the Phil Donahue television talk show last year.

"It's scary how a totally false rumor can spread," Donahue said. "We know that pastors have been handing out church bulletins saying Ray Kroc said on the Donahue show that he supports devil worshippers. This is totally false and irresponsible. Kroc made absolutely no reference to the devil during the interview. But when a pastor hands things out it has tremendous credibility."

Donahue, based in Chicago, said Kroc was the only guest on the show and "nothing...on the show could be construed as relating to the devil." The program was first broadcast in May 1977 and rerun last summer.

Timberlake said letters accusing Kroc of being a devil worshipper began arriving at McDonald's headquarters soon after the broadcast.

"People — including pastors — spread these rumors with no attempt at all to call us to check the validity of the report," Donahue said. "It's scary. Obviously McDonald's is big enough to survive this. But it shows how a rumor can spread and maybe ruin somebody."

McDonald's considered running a national advertising campaign to squelch the rumor, Timberlake said.

But "we decided that a big national effort would bring the thing to the attention of millions of people who would never have heard of it otherwise," he said. "We're trying to fit the remedy to the severity of the situation."

Timberlake's presentation includes transcripts of the Donahue show and an offer to show a video tape of the program.

Timberlake said the people he has talked to so far have been satisfied that Kroc is not a devil worshipper.

PEOPLE PLACES THINGS

Meandering Crow Legal

BAR HARBOR, Maine (AP) — Egor the crow is as free as a bird.

That's essentially what District Court Judge Jack O. Smith said Wednesday in acquitting Egor's keeper, Gloria Davis, of breaking a state law prohibiting wild birds from being held in captivity.

However, Smith ruled that the state had not proven its case beyond a reasonable doubt, primarily because James Johnson testified he has seen Egor flying around town on several occasions.

Johnson told the court that once Egor had even landed on the hood of his car for a free lift downtown.

Cricket Races Planned

PORTERVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Students at Porterville College plan to make some practical use of the crickets that have infested Central California in heavy numbers this year. They're going to race them.

The crickets will be plucked at the edge of a ten-foot course and urged by shouts to hop into the finish zone in the center. The cricket that gets there the fastest naturally will win.

The races will be held Friday in the student union building, and owners must catch their crickets afterward so they don't take up residence in the building.

Baby Jayhawk Flies Coop

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Baby Jayhawk has flown the coop. And University of Kansas fans think the lost school mascot may be the victim of foul play.

The bird costume disappeared Sept. 9 from an awning and canvas company.

Members of the Phi Kappa Theta fraternity say they are willing to pay a $75 "ransom" for return of the bird. The fraternity has placed ads in the newspapers of rival colleges Kansas State University and Texas AM offering the reward.

University officials say Texas AM is under suspicion because the costume turned up missing the week of the KU Jayhawk game against the Aggies. There is a traditional rivalry between KU and K-State.

Outlaw's Donation Sought

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — The name was misspelled, but U.S. Sen. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, had the address right: "Jessie James, 803 S. Belt Highway, St. Joseph, Mo."

A form letter addressed to the former site of the house of the infamous outlaw arrived in the mail Saturday, asking for a donation of "$100 to $10,000" to a political action committee called ACT NOW. The house, a tourist attraction, has been moved to the city's museum.

McClure, who is vice chairman of ACT NOW, described his group as a political action committee "seeking funds to reduce and limit taxes and stop wasteful government spending."

Philip Visits Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, has arrived in Puerto Rico for a four-day visit during which he will preside over the annual meeting of the International Equestrian Federation of which he is president.

The prince arrived late Monday and was a guest of honor at a reception at Casa Blanca, the original home of Spanish conquistador Ponce de Leon.

He said the meeting was designed to deal with preparations for the Moscow Olympics.

No Arrests For Chief

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP) — This city's new police chief can carry a gun, but he can't arrest anyone.

City officials say James Powell lacks state certification as a police officer and until he's got it he won't be able to make any arrests himself. Powell, a former constable, said he was certified from 1962 to 1972, but hasn't had all 20 hours of law enforcement instruction he'll need to regain the certification now that it has lapsed.

City Manager Charles Jackson, who recommended Powell to the City Commission, said he's not worried. "As a practical matter," Jackson said, "a police chief is an administrator and lack of arrest powers should not pose any problem."

Head-Shaving Suit Filed

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — District Attorney Ossie Brown may have to go to court to keep a promise to shave his head.

Last month, Brown promised to shave his head if pledges to the Muscular Dystrophy Association reached $200,000.

Now, however, local attorney D. Bert Garraway has filed a petition in civil district court, charging that a bald Brown would be "a damage to the cause of beauty and the arts."

"Since defendant's personal appearance already leaves a great deal to be desired, petitioner fears that the sight of defendant without his hair would so alarm and terrify petitioner and his clients as to give the State an unfair advantage in criminal proceedings..." said the petition.

Brown had no comment.

Prince To Enter Monkhood

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — In accordance with local custom, Crown Prince Vajiralongkorn, son of Thailand's King Bhumibol Adulyadej and Queen Sirikit, will become a Buddhist monk for 15 days starting Nov. 6, the royal household announced Tuesday.

It is the custom in Thailand for sons to spend a period of time as monks to express their gratitude to their parents.

The royal announcement said the 26-year-old prince, who is married and is first in line for the throne, will enter the Bovornives Temple in Bangkok.

Oil Well Offered As Prize

DRUMRIGHT, Okla. (AP) — Want an oil well for a day? That's the prize at the annual Oil Patch Jamboree here Saturday.

The winner will be named in a drawing at the close of festivities. After a day, the well will revert to the owners — Drumright oilmen Lloyd Baker, John Turner and Jim Shidler.

Wallace Ingram, chairman of the event, said the well is pumping between 13 and 15 barrels a day "so we're talking about $180 or so."

North Pole Pennant Sold

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — The pennant which flew on Adm. Robert Peary's sled on his way to the North Pole in 1909 has been sold at auction for $575.

The pennant was bought by Melville Bell Grosvenor, chairman emeritus of the board of the National Geographic Society, who knew Peary as a boy. Grosvenor also bought a 16th century Spanish cannon, and a cluster of Eskimo artifacts. He and Peter Purpur, curator of the Geographic's Explorers' Hall, paid $3,100 for a model of a kayak with an ivory Eskimo woman at the paddle.

All of the items at the auction at the Timonium Fairgrounds Monday were from the estate of the admiral's daughter, Marie Peary Kuhse, who died last spring.

Dodgers Clobber Yanks

Los Angeles Takes Decisive Win In Game One

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Emotionally charged after the tragic death of long-time coach Jim Gilliam, the Los Angeles Dodgers rode the longball slugging of Davey Lopes and Dusty Baker to an 11-5 victory Tuesday night over the New York Yankees in the opening game of baseball's 75th World Series.

"Jimmy's up there watching us now," said Lopes, who drilled two homers and drove in five runs for the Dodgers. "The Yankees have to beat 50 men, not 25. Gilliam's spirit is in each player out there. We're trying to win it for him."

Lopes, who will serve as a pall bearer at Gilliam's funeral Wednesday, became the 40th man in World Series history to drive in five runs in a single game and the 15th player to hit consecutive homers.

The Dodgers captain, perhaps the player who was closest to Gilliam, said before the Series as Gilliam lay dying in a coma that the late coach was in his mind constantly.

"That's all I could think about," he said. "Everytime I went to the plate, I thought about him, and I could hear him talking to me."

Winning pitcher Tommy John also said his mind was on Gilliam during the game.

"There was a little more emotion in this game," he said. "We all loved 'Devil.' He can't be with us physically, but he's with us spiritually, up in heaven."

The Dodgers dedicated this Series to Gilliam and wore black patches with the No. 19 on their sleeves in memory of their coach, who died of a brain hemorrhage Sunday night. And they wasted no time asserting themselves, with Lopes leading the long ball explosion.

The Dodgers captain jolted a two-run homer, which knocked out Yankees starter Ed Figueroa in the second inning, and then added a three-run shot against reliever Ken Clay in the fourth.

Dodgers starter Tommy John, meanwhile, shut the Yankees out for six innings before surrendering a tape-measure home run to Reggie Jackson leading off New York's seventh. The homer by Jackson, who hit five in the World Series a year ago against the Dodgers, ended a string of 23 consecutive shutout innings by John that had stretched through the end of the regular season and the National League playoffs against Philadelphia.

Bucky Dent singled home two more Yankee runs in the seventh against John, the 35-year-old left-hander who is eligible to join the free agent ranks this winter.

That narrowed the Los Angeles lead to 7-3 in the seventh, but pinch hitter Bill North, who had only 10 RBI all season, doubled home two more Dodgers runs in the seventh and then scored on Lee Lacy's single to put Los Angeles on top 10-3.

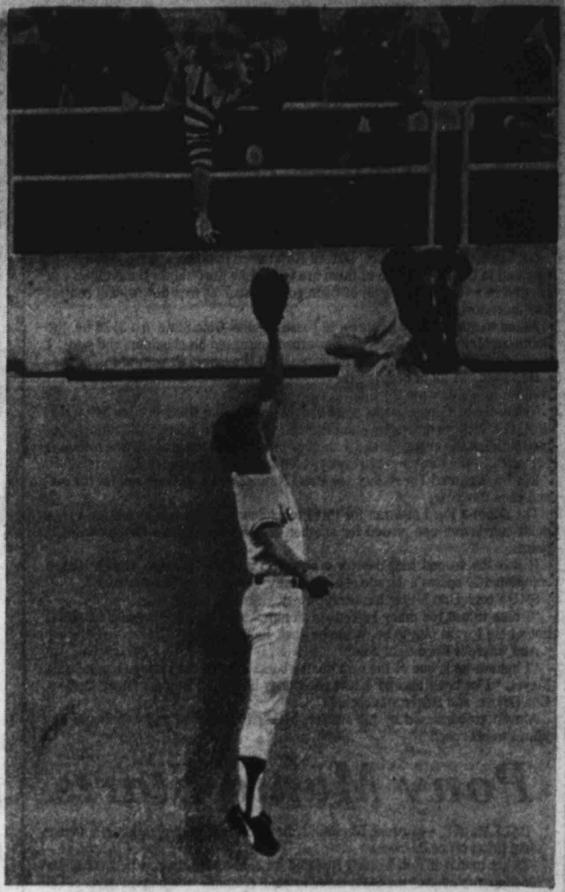

The Yanks chased John in the eighth, getting two runs on Lou Piniella's ground out and an RBI single by Graig Nettles. Left-hander Terry Forster replaced John and held the Yanks in check the rest of the way.

The 15-hit Dodgers barrage against four Yankees pitchers gave Los Angeles the opening-game victory in the best-of-seven series which continues Wednesday night at Dodger Stadium. Catfish Hunter will pitch for New York and Burt Hooton for the Dodgers.

The Dodgers opened up on Figueroa in the second inning when Baker, leading off, tagged a shot into the left field bleachers some 370 feet from home plate.

Rick Monday followed with a double that fell just in front of Mickey Rivers' lunging try on a shoestring catch in center field. After Lacy walked, Steve Yeager banged into a sharp double play, and it seemed Figueroa would escape further trouble. But then Lopes hit the next pitch into the left field bleachers, close to where Baker's ball had landed, and the

More Lineup Changes Mark Tech Practice

By DON HENRY
Executive Sports Editor

Mark Olbert's promotion to the first unit on Monday was not the only lineup change of the week, as the Raiders prepared for New Mexico.

There were some promotions in the secondary and some changes on the defensive line, as the result of injuries.

And amid the changes and swaps, the Raiders looked at that they will be facing Saturday night at Albuquerque: offensively, part of the action occurred on the goal.

Last week, the Raiders had the ball in scoring territory three times in the early stages of the Texas A&M game but could get but two field goals. And Tuesday, the Raiders worked on that goal-line offense.

"We didn't spend any more time on it (goal-line play) than usual," said Raider head coach Rex Dockery. "We had good work on the goal, though."

"The last part of the workout (following the goal session) we kinda went backwards."

Olbert, the redshirt freshman from Edmond, Okla., worked with the first unit at tailback, and Don Earl, the sophomore from Stamford who opened at tailback against the Aggies, was playing a wide receiver spot.

Dockery said the move of Earl to the outside position is permanent.

In the secondary, however, Dockery said that freshman Alan Swann from Odessa Permian and juco transfer Ted Watts will be starting. Watts had opened the Aggie game at safety, with Johnny Quinney moving from his free safety spot to the corner.

Quinney will be returning this week to free safety.

Mike Patterson, a starting cornerback when injured against Texas, is running better and should be ready by the New Mexico game. However, linebacker Jeff Copeland and defensive ends Andy Thomas and Olan Tisdale remain on the "if" list. Adding to the precarious end situation, another freshman, Terry Baer, was hospitalized by a kidney stone problem.

Thus, another freshman, Lewis Washington from Kerens has stepped into a starting spot. Washington played his first game against the Aggies.

And with Copeland injured, Rusty Maroney, a sophomore from Midland, has stepped in at linebacker. Maroney was in on 12 tackles against the Aggies, after Copeland limped off the field in the first period.

Tech will take on the Lobos in Albuquerque at 8:30 p.m. CDT Saturday. New Mexico stands 3-2 for the season after overtaking Wyoming 19-15 last at Laramie.

Don Henry
... Flowers Of The Field ...

WHEN HE WALKED into the dressing room, one of the veteran Raiders, Rufus Myers, looked at this skinny kid. And, was he thin. "I'm going to call you Bones."

When he sprinted down the field, one of the coaches watched in wonder at this skinny kid drilling the kickoff returner. "I'd call him killer," said Steve Sloan.

The nickname Bones stuck, but the reputation for solo tackles stuck also.

"I only weighed about 170 pounds then," said Larry Flowers, in a low voice of his start at Tech two years ago. "I was kinda skinny. But, I've put on some weight since then. I put on about seven or eight pounds in the summer."

"Running, lifting weights. . . eating a lot," he added with a grin.

But, at 6-1/2, 190 pounds, Flowers developed from the reckless tackler on specialty teams of two years ago. That year, Tech's championship campaign, Sloan praised the Temple product on several occasions for his tackles.

Now, Flowers continues to work on the specialty units, but also occupies a regular spot at strong safety. The love to tackle, to be in on the action, remains.

LAST WEEKEND, AGAINST the Aggies, Flowers was credited with a dozen tackles — 10 of them unassisted — and an interception.

For the season, he has stopped 43 enemy ball carriers, tops in the secondary and bettered on the team only by linebacker Don Kelly's 47. Flowers leads the defensive unit with helmet stars (16), those stickers which clutter the back of the players' headgear and which are rewards for outstanding plays.

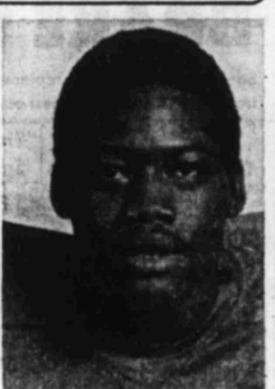

His highest single-game tackle count was 15 against Southern Cal.

Although the junior is entrenched at strong safety, it was on the specialty units where he gained his reputation.

"Well, you know," Flowers said, "when I first game to Tech, they stuck me on the kickoff teams, and they tell you to just to go down on the kickoff. I don't know what I do, seems like I just go to the ball, go where it is."

"You have a better shot at making a tackle on a return man, you know? You get a run at the ball carrier, and try to beat the front wall."

"I try to use my speed to get past them."

LARRY FLOWERS

If you want it (badly enough), you just do on down and make the tackle.

"I usually line up close to the kicker, you know, to run beside him. I'm what you call the . . . the go-to-the-ball man. . . the sprinter."

AS A SCHOOLBOY at Temple, Flowers played both ways, rushing for more than 700 yards and seven touchdowns from his wingback spot. He even passed once for a 41-yard touchdown.

Tech aide John Cropp talked to Flowers about playing runningback at Tech, but when he arrived, he went the defensive and specialty route. Now, he's on every specialty unit except punt return.

As a sophomore last year, Flowers started the season playing behind Greg Frazier, but when injuries began depleting the secondary, Flowers received more and more playing time.

Thus Flowers and Mike Patterson came out of last season as the secondary veterans.

"We had a few mental mistakes (against A&M) last week," remarked Flowers, "but this week, we're trying to pick up our momentum again (for New Mexico)."

"I pulled a groin muscle right near the end of the Aggie game, but I don't think it's going to bother me any."

SMU's Ford Tabbed Player Of Week

By The Associated Press

Mike Ford's last name has nothing to do with the way he likes to move a football.

His act is strictly high wire. Darrell Royal once said three things can happen to a ball in the air and two of them are bad. Mike Ford thinks three things can happen to a forward pass, all of them good — such as first downs, ball control and touchdowns.

Asked to analyze why he threw 57 passes against Ohio State in a 35-35 tie, the Southern Methodist sophomore quarterback shrugged his shoulders and said, "I didn't really know I threw that many passes. I thought it was closer to 40."

He added, "A lot of people have said we throw the ball too much, but it works well for us, so why not?"

Thirty-six of Ford's passes were caught against the Buckeyes for 341 yards. With the Buckeye defenders manning their anti-aircraft posts, SMU runners tipped through the enemy lines for another 160 yards on the ground. The total was 501 yards — the most acreage ever yielded by an Ohio State team.

Ford was named The Associated Press National Back of the Week for the second time this year.

The 6-foot-3 Ford also ran for three touchdowns in the game, ran for a two-point conversion and passed for another. He was responsible for 30 of SMU's points.

It was the second best day for a passer in an SMU uniform. Chuck Hixson completed 37 passes a decade ago, ironically, also against Ohio State.

SMU Coach Ron Meyer has been slow to praise his prized rifle. "I hate to use too many adjectives on him," said Meyer, "because he still is not where I want him to be. When he does, he'll be great."

And where is Ford right now? "I believe he is one of the best quarterbacks ever on the college scene," said Meyer. "I've been around a few good ones like Mike Phipps, Glenn Carano, Bob Griese, and Roger Staubach."

Almost embarrassed by his answer, Meyer hastened to add: "I should like him. I'm his coach."

Pony Mania Starts

DALLAS (AP)—Mustang Mania hit the Southern Methodist athletic department ticket office this week.

Ticket manager Bob Farrell reported he sold 8,500 advance tickets Monday for the remainder of the SMU home football schedule, the biggest advance sale at the private Southwestern Conference school in 10 years.

The pass-happy Mustangs under third-year Coach Ron Meyer have brought renewed interest in the Hilltop football program with victories over Texas Christian and Florida, a close loss to Penn State and a tie with Ohio State.

SMU, which plays Baylor on the road Saturday, doesn't even have a home game until Oct. 21 when it plays Houston.

Farrell said the last big ticket day was for the 1968 team which defeated Oklahoma in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

Bob Condon, SMU sports information director, said SMU has a good chance of averaging 43,000 for its home games. If the Mustangs do so, it will be the largest home attendance since 1958 when Dandy Don Meredith was a junior.

Meyer remarked Monday that he had never seen such ticket lines at SMU. "Of course, they could be for basketball," he joked.

Under new athletic director Russ Potts, SMU launched a publicity blitz in August which included "Mustang Mania" stickers on city buses, television spots, and even a recording by a nationally known artist in Boston.

Farrell sold 7,000 tickets out of his Moody Coliseum office, another 1,000 in outlet stores, and 500 in Houston. SMU plays Houston and Texas A&M, two teams with strong alumni support in Houston.

Eddins Explains Winning Style

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

If there was any doubt before last weekend, there can be no doubt now. Seagraves has one helluva football program.

The Eagles lost 13 letterman last season, including 11 (count 'em) all-district performers. With only two starters returning this year, the most optimistic thought it would be a rebuilding year.

But Coach Jim Eddins' team is now 4-0 and last Friday night beat undefeated

Shallowater with surprising ease, 20-0. And the Eagles haven't played many patsies either. In the opener they traveled to New Mexico Class AA defending champion Eunice's place. Eunice had three all-state performers returning across the front defensive wall but that didn't stop the Eagles from taking a 14-0 win.

But one fluke win does not a season make.

The next week Seagraves took on Class B power Sunday. The Eagles shut them out too, 28-0. Two wins, well maybe.

The next weekend Seagraves dealt Lorenzo its first loss, but a 3-2 baseball score. If you haven't been reading closely, that was the first points the Eagles had allowed — an intentional safety.

People were starting to believe. Then, after a week off, came the resounding defeat over Shallowater. A defeat that left the dazed losing coach shaking his head.

"People told me they were better than last year," Rickey White said. "But I just didn't see how they could be that much better. That is a fine football team."

For the record, the Eagles have now scored 65 points to their opponents' 10. That is, they have allowed only one touchdown all season.

What does it take to build a program that can withstand the loss of 11 all-district performers. Not only withstand it, but (according to some) come out better than before.

"Really, that's hard to answer," said Eddins. "Everybody seems to do about the same things. Build junior high, JV and varsity programs. We do the same."

"I think most of our kids stay in the program. Of course, we feel like we have excellent coaches throughout the program. That and the kids stay in it, that's two main things."

"Attitude and discipline are another two big things. I don't know which comes first. Pride goes with the others. Our kids have a lot of pride in themselves and the school."

"We win a lot too, and that builds pride. But pride is one of the things that makes you win. I don't know which comes first."

"I think another big thing is that the programs in the school have to get along together. They have to go hand in hand. The kids have to be able to participate in anything they want."

But before you rush out, this article clutched in your sweating hand, anxious to take over a program and turn it into a power, take heed:

"I don't think you can turn a program around overnight. Everybody likes to think maybe it can be done but it can't, not in a year or two. Three or four years." It's awful hard to say what makes a winning program," Eddins said. "I don't know if I could tell you which one of those things is most important."

"If it was that easy, everybody could do it."

UT Quarterback For Saturday Undetermined

AUSTIN, Texas (UPI)—Coach Fred Akers Tuesday delayed his decision on whether freshman Donnie Little or senior Randy McEachern will start at quarterback for the Longhorns Saturday against North Texas State.

Akers told reporters Monday he would announce that decision Tuesday, prompting speculation that Little, a highly recruited scrambler from Dickinson, would replace McEachern as the Longhorns' top signal caller.

McEachern has started each of Texas' four games this season, but Little played about half the game against Texas Tech and three quarters during the Horns 31-10 loss to Oklahoma Saturday.

Dunbar's Daryl Green Named Outstanding Prepper Of Week

By BOB BAJACKSON

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

The last time a Dunbar Panther won a player of the week honor, Farrah Fawcett hadn't come out with her own shampoo yet. Coach Van Jefferson didn't need his glasses to see his stop watch and there was no such thing as Coors' light beer.

But the dry spell ends this week as Daryl Green garners the Avalanche-Journal's defensive back of the week honor.

Green graded out 87 percent and was involved in eight tackles in helping Dunbar record its first victory of the season last week against Lamesa. The Panthers defeated the Tornados 14-3.

"The amazing thing about Daryl is that he continued to play injured," said Jefferson. "And what was even more amazing is that his injury didn't take away from his performance."

Green suffered a knee injury in the Lamesa tilt. He is a doubtful starter when Dunbar opens the district season in two weeks. The Panthers have a bye this week.

Tascosa Posts Volleyball Victory

Amarillo Tascosa defeated Monterey in girls volleyball Tuesday night at the Monterey High School gym.

Amarillo Tascosa defeated Monterey 15-7, 9-15, 15-9 as Monterey's record falls to 5-9 on the year.

Monterey's outstanding spikers were Shelly Dunn and Janis Rhea. Both girls were successful on 85 percent of their spikes.

Mindi Holloway produced most of Monterey's offense with eight points. Monterey will travel to Hereford Thursday night to begin district action.

Scorecard Tuesday

"Daryl made some key stops for us," said Jefferson. "He also was involved in some important pass plays. Daryl got us out of trouble after we made mistakes deep in our own territory."

Others cited include Coronado's Eric Santos, eight tackles, one interception; Monterey's Kent Potts, involved in 16 tackles; Lubbock High's Chris Bigham, one interception, one fumble, seven tackles and graded out 83 percent; Lubbock Christian's David Wischmeyer 14 individual tackles and Christ the King's Jimmy Durham, 11 tackles.

The defensive lineman honor goes to Lubbock Christian's Scott Hawley. Hawley was placed at middle linebacker and successfully shot the gap to cause a number of fumbles in Lubbock Christian's victory over Lamesa.

Right on Hawley's heel's for the award was Coronado's Randy Lusk with 16 tackles. Dunbar's Karl Lusk, graded 88 percent with seven tackles; Lubbock High's Johnny Gonzales, graded 78 percent with five tackles and one fumble recovery; Christ the King's Jatin Mehta was in on 24 tackles and one fumble recovery; and Monterey's Todd Gresham had four tackles.

Coronado's Steve Cox gets the offensive back honor. Cox scampered for 114 yards on 14 carries against Amarillo Palo Duro last week.

Others getting votes include Lubbock High's Larry Walker, who was 4-6 in passing for 73 yards and rushed for another 55 steps including one touchdown; Lubbock Christian's Gary Paul Miller, 88 yards in 21 carries; Dunbar's Ernest White 60 yards in 15 carries; Christ the King's Durham, 52 yards and scored 30 points against Klondike; and Monterey's Dwayne Smith, 31 yards in 10 carries.

Monterey's Kelley Grammer receives the offensive lineman award. Grammer graded out 91 percent in a losing effort against Hobbs.

Lubbock Christian's Mike Holt wasn't far behind the leader with 88 percent; Lubbock High's Larry DeLeon, 83 percent; Coronado's Ben Pollard, 75 percent; Dunbar's Kevin Lusk, 70 percent; and Christ the King's Phillip Buescher, who consistently opened holes at key times in the upset win over Klondike.

Jefferson believes Green, who also plays quarterback on offense, has more defensive talent.

"It takes some out of him to be on the field all the time," said Jefferson. "But he's the best we have to play quarterback. We have to go with what we've got."

Jefferson, who is off to the worse start ever in his four years at the Panther helm, feels the Lamesa victory came at the right time.

"It's hard to get up for games week after week when you lose," said Jefferson. "Beating Lamesa is the perfect medicine our kids needed with the district race right around the corner."

Rose Submits Counter Offer

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pete Rose's attorney said Tuesday he has submitted a "counter-proposal" to the Cincinnati Reds that could keep the all-star third baseman playing in his hometown next season.

Rose's contract expired at the end of the past regular baseball season, leaving him the opportunity to become a free agent.

"(Reds President Dick) Wagner listened and said he would give us consideration," Reuven Katz said. "He said he would call us back in the next couple of days."

Katz declined to elaborate the counter-proposal, made Monday, but he said it was different from the contract offered by the Reds earlier this month.

At that time, Wagner said Rose was being offered "the largest salary in the Cincinnati Reds' history." Katz rejected it, saying at least one and possibly two of the Reds have received more.

One day after the season ended, Wagner gave Rose 10 days to decide whether he wanted to remain with the Reds, where he has played his entire career.

However, Wagner said it was not an iron-clad deadline for concluding negotiations.

The Reds want Rose under contract before their three-week tour of Japan begins later this month.

Fifteen days after the end of the World Series, Rose must declare if he plans to go through baseball's re-entry draft for free agents. That is held on November 3.

Dodgers Win

Dodgers had a 3-0 lead.

That finished Figueroa, but in the fourth, the Dodgers ganged up on Clay. Monday opened with a walk, and one out later, Dent made a good stop on Yeager's shot in the hole. The Yankees shortstop tried for the force at second, but threw the ball low for an error, sending Monday to third.

That brought up Lopes, the Dodgers leadoff man, and he connected again, this time on an 0-1 pitch, sending it into the left field bleachers.

The five RBI left Lopes one short of the World Series record set by Bobby Richardson of the Yankees 18 years ago, and staked Los Angeles to a 6-0 lead after four innings. The Dodgers added a run in the fifth on hits by Ron Cey and Baker and a wild pitch by Clay.

John, the man with the reconstructed pitching elbow, worked easily into the seventh, allowing the Yankees just two hits. The sinkerball specialist, who underwent a delicate tendon transplant that saved his pitching career in 1974, had the Yankees beating the ball into the ground.

Then Jackson, the Yankees hero in last year's Series, opened the seventh with a tremendous home run that sailed high and deep into the Yankees' bullpen in right field. The homer travelled an estimated 430 feet. It was Jackson's sixth home run in his last four World Series games, breaking the record of five in four games set by Lou Gehrig of the New York Yankees in the last three games of the 1928 World Series and the first game of the 1932 Series.

The Yankees picked up two more runs in that inning on hits by Piniella and Dent sandwiched around an error by Lopes at second base.

But the Dodgers weren't through. Steve Garvey opened the Los Angeles seventh with a single and, one out later, Baker drilled another single, his third hit of the game.

That brought up North, swinging for Monday in a left-righty strategy move. It paid off when the reserve outfielder drilled his double to left for two more runs and then trotted home on Lacy's single.

The Yankees finally knocked John out in the eighth when they scored two more runs before Forster ended the rally by striking out pinch hitter Cliff Johnson, leaving two runners stranded.

The Dodgers added their final run in the eighth on a double by Bill Russell and a single by Reggie Smith.

In the Yankee ninth, Bucky Dent grounded out, Russell to Garvey and Paul Blair struck out swinging. White also struck out swinging to end the game.

John, a 17-game winner during the regular season, pitched 7 2-3 innings, allowing eight hits and five runs, only three of them earned. Forster recorded the final four outs, three of them on strikeouts, as a record Dodger Stadium crowd of 55,997 watched Los Angeles take the lead in this Series they had dedicated to their late coach.

Woody Hayes Says Buckeyes Still Good Despite Record

CHICAGO (AP) — Woody Hayes doesn't like to dwell on injuries, doesn't think there is very much new in football and insists his Ohio State Buckeyes are a good football team in spite of their record.

"I don't like to publicize injuries," Hayes told the Chicago Football Writers Tuesday in a telephone hookup interview. "When you publicize injuries, you publicize weaknesses."

"Anyway, injuries heal," said Hayes dryly. "If you had asked me last Sunday if Bryan Cato would play against Purdue this week, I'd have said he'll be out 10 days. But he'll play. So will Art Schlachter."

Schlachter, the freshman quarterback, has a bruised shoulder and Hayes admitted that Rod Gerald, who was shifted to wide receiver to make room for Schlachter, will practice this week in the quarterback slot.

"There has been no real discovery in the game that has made that much difference. Weight training programs have made the players stronger and the offensive and defensive lines are better. Platoon football has made the game more intricate."

However, Hayes said the triple option has made a change in the game but it is a change that the fans cannot appreciate.

"The fans don't appreciate it because they can't see it," said Hayes. "The triple option is a trait of only college football. They don't use it in high school or pro ball. It is the most intricate timed offense in football and only the college teams have mastered it. The quarterback has only one-twentieth of a second to make the read. Sometimes the officials miss it."

Hayes feels the Ohio State-Purdue game "will be a typically good Big Ten contest. We're a good team even though we haven't looked as good as we usually do."

Asked if he is surprised about anything in this football season, Hayes, whose Buckeyes are 2-1-1, said "Yes, I'm surprised we haven't won all our games and I'm surprised Wisconsin (4-0) has come this far with a new coach."

Although Ohio State has scored 60 points in its last two games, the defense has yielded 63 (35 in its last game against SMU in a 35-35 tie). Still Hayes said "The defense will come around. Because of injuries we've had to go man-to-man in our secondary and we're not ready for that. But we'll come around."

NCAA Rules Promote Equality Big Ten Commissioner Says

CHICAGO (AP) — Wayne Duke, commissioner of the Big Ten, insists college football is on the right track and limitations of football grants is not to legislate mediocrity but equality.

"We are not legislating mediocrity but we are seeking the tools for other schools to be competitive," Duke told the Chicago Football Writers Tuesday.

"During the 1960s the Big Ten was the most balanced conference in the country," said Duke. "Nine different teams won or tied for the title through 1967. Since then Ohio State and Michigan have dominated."

"But that domination isn't restricted to the Big Ten," said Duke. "Oklahoma and Nebraska have won 31 of the last 33 championships in the Big Eight. USC and UCLA have won 15 of the last 19 in the Pac-10. Alabama 11 of 17 in the Southeast. Texas and Arkansas 14 of the last 20 in the Southwest."

Going a step farther, Duke cited that "a select few teams dominate the polls, the bowls and national television. I've made a check of the Associated Press poll and this is what I have found in the last 10 years."

"Michigan has finished in the top 10 nine times. Ohio State, eight, Penn State eight, Nebraska seven, Oklahoma seven, Southern Cal six, Alabama six and Notre Dame six," said Duke.

The NCAA now has a limit of 30 financial aid awards a year with a school allowed to have a total of 95 at any one time. Many coaches feel this number should be 105.

"Our biggest problem in college football obviously is the domination of a select few and limitations of grants will lead to more balance and competition."

"We are not legislating mediocrity but we are seeking sanity, economy and equality," said Duke. "There are some bleeding hearts but those are the teams who are on top now."

"We want to get to the point that when two teams line up for a football game, every kid on that field can say 'Hey, we've got a chance to win this game.' We want to provide an opportunity for everyone."

"Recently in a nonconference game one of our teams went up against a team that had 40 redshirts playing," said Duke. "Next year that same team will have only nine because limitations will not allow a situation of 40 redshirts in the future."

The Redskins listed Grant and Danny Buggs as starters at wide receivers, but under the shuttle system employed by Coach Jack Pardee, all the receivers are used as messengers to bring in offensive plays.

John McDaniel and Ricky Thompson, acquired shortly before the start of the regular season, have seen quite a lot of action and have turned in some outstanding performances.

Buggs, who is expected to be out of action for at least two more weeks because of a shoulder separation, is tied with Thompson in receptions at 11 although running back Mike Thomas leads the team with 13.

Buggs has gained 187 yards and scored one touchdown. Thompson has gained 146 yards while McDaniel has caught 10 passes for 185 yards and two touchdowns.

Redskins Trade Grant, Obtain Benny Malone

WASHINGTON (AP) — The undefeated Washington Redskins made several last-minute moves Tuesday in an effort to bolster their two-game lead in the National Football League NFC East, acquiring running back Benny Malone from Miami and trading wide receiver Frank Grant to Tampa Bay.

In the complicated trades, the Miami Dolphins wound up with fullback Jim Braxton.

The Redskins sent Grant, a six-year veteran, to the Buccaneers for a future draft choice. The Redskins then traded a future draft choice to the Buffalo Bills for fullback Jim Braxton.

But the Redskins shipped Braxton, along with a future draft pick, to the Dolphins for Malone and an undisclosed future draft choice.

A Redskins spokesman said he did not know if the "undisclosed future draft choice" was the same one in each deal.

Malone, a fifth-year veteran out of Arizona State, has carried six times this season for 18 yards and one touchdown. He has been used primarily on the specialty teams, of which he was the captain for the first six games of the season.

Grant, a starter for the past three years, has caught six passes for 92 yards this season, a 15.3-yard average.

Earlier in the day, the Redskins announced the acquisition of wide receiver and kick team specialist Terry Anderson, a second-year veteran who was cut by the Dolphins after the fourth game of the season.

The Vikings said other NFL teams have until 3 p.m. Wednesday to claim Page, but that he may opt to become a free agent.

Vikings General Manager Mike Lynn said the Vikings will sign another player before Sunday's game against the Los Angeles Rams, placing Page on waivers brought the Minnesota roster to 44.

Last week, Page said his home is in Minnesota, regardless of whether he plays football. He hinted that he might retire from football if traded.

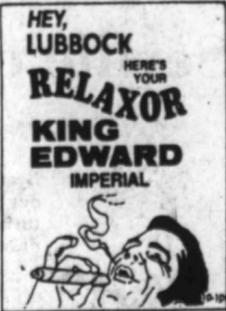

"My future is in Minnesota regardless of where I play or whether I play," he said. "I have worked it out with the law firm I am with to play football want to, and it doesn't matter whether I play in Minnesota or not."

Page, a Canton, Ohio native, has been a Vikings defensive lineman for 12 years, helping the team into four Super Bowls. He was Minnesota's No. 1 draft pick out of Notre Dame in 1967. He graduated from the University of Minnesota law school in June.

Page has not missed a football game in his NFL career. He was named the most valuable player in the NFL in 1971.

PRO GRID TRADE

OAKLAND (AP) — Guard George Buehler has been traded by the Oakland Raiders to the Cleveland Browns for an undisclosed future draft choice, and linebacker John Huddleston has been signed to fill his place on the roster.

Untouted Persell Leads Nation's Ballcarriers

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — It's only 98 miles down Interstate 94 from the Western Michigan University campus here to the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. But their football programs are light years apart.

Just ask Jerome Persell.

Jerome who?

If Persell played before the 104,000 football fanatics that jam the giant bowl in Ann Arbor each autumn Saturday, he doubtless would be a household word by now.

As it is, Michigan quarterback Rick Leach probably played before more people in the Wolverines' first two games than Persell will draw all season.

Not heavily recruited

Because of his size, Persell wasn't heavily recruited at Detroit Northwestern High School. College coaches thought he was too small.

Even now, pro scouts seem worried that at 5-foot-9 and 180 pounds he might not be durable enough for the National Football League.

The credentials certainly seem solid enough.

Ahead Of Dorsett

Now a senior, Persell currently leads NCAA Division I-A rushers with an average of 187 yards a game and is 205 yards ahead of Dorsett's record pace of 1,948 yards in 1976 after a similar four-game span.

Soccer and basketball share the spotlight today in the International Olympics at Texas Tech.

The finals in the soccer competition will have Iran facing North America, while North America and Eurasia—Middle-Indian will battle in the basketball game.

The soccer match will start at 5 p.m. with the basketball slated for 8 p.m.

Other action, includes volleyball, Thursday, 6 p.m., Men's Gym; Badminton, Friday, 6:30 p.m.

"I was on the Navy staff when Cleveland Cooper was a star and on the Michigan staff when Gordon Bell played," Uzelac said. "Jerome is at least as good as either of them."

"He's a great athlete and a very intense competitor."

Despite the lack of national media attention, Persell has never been sorry he picked Western, where he likes the math program, or the Mid-American Conference, which is itching for national clout.

Confident About Pros

He also feels he can handle pro football as handily as he has adapted to the college game. But he isn't sure he wants to.

"I can play (pro football)," the soft-spoken Persell said recently. "There's no doubt about that. I just don't know if I want to play."

"It's the injuries," Persell said. "A back gets injured twice as much in the pros as he does in college."

Mostly, he just shrugs off the pro question, figuring it will answer itself if, and when, he is picked in the NFL college player draft.

"I really haven't given it that much thought," he said. "What I want to do here is help Western win the conference, and play as best I can. The rest will take care of itself."

Persell began this season by rushing for over 200 yards in each of the Broncos'

Yankees' Berra Enters World Series No. 20

LOS ANGELES (AP)—After 31 years and 19 World Series, one might suspect the big autumn baseball bash would fade into just another bland exercise. But not for Yogi Berra.

"Every one is different — no way to get bored," said the stubby ex-catcher who as player, coach and manager has made a career of collecting rings, silverware and negotiable currency in the game's annual championship showdown.

The Silver Jubilee Series, which opened Tuesday between the New York Yankees and Los Angeles Dodgers, marked the 20th appearance in the event for Berra. He participated in 14 as Yankee No. 8. He managed in two others — with both the Yankees and New York Mets. He served as Mets coach in another and is going into his third as coach of the Yankees.

There's no other personality even close in World Series exposure. Yogi still holds a passel of Series records, including most games (75), at bats (259), hits (71) and errorless games (30). His total Series share is figured at around $300,000.

No one perhaps is better qualified to make comparisons between the 1978 American League champions and the Yankee dreadsnaughts of the past.

"There have been more powerful teams — like the 1961 team, for instance, which could blow your head off," he said, "but I don't know if I've ever seen a team that handles pressure better than this one.

"It's a gutsy team," he added. "They are fighters. They refuse to be licked. You can see it in their eyes."

Berra recalled the club's bounceback from 14 games behind the Boston Red Sox in July, the dramatic come-from-behind triumph in the sudden-death playoff in Boston and the late rallies in the division playoffs against Kansas City.

"We're not a one-man or a two-man team," he insisted. "If Reggie Jackson doesn't hit one of his shots in the seats, then guys like Bucky Dent and Roy White come through."

"It's not the greatest Yankee team I've seen — if you're talking about all-around talent — but I don't remember a team that is more determined to win or one with a better bullpen."

Yogi said the most devastating team he played on was the 1961 M&M club on which Roger Maris hit 61 home runs and Mickey Mantle 54.

"We had three catchers — John Blanchard, Elie Howard and myself — who hit more than 20 homers (apiece). When one was behind the plate one of the other guys was in the outfield." Howard, another Yankee coach, is entering his 12th World Series.

Yogi said his greatest thrills came from his first World Series in 1947, the fifth straight victory in 1953 and Don Larsen's perfect game against the Dodgers in 1951.

"Catching Larsen, I never thought about it being a perfect game," the 53-year-old Hall of Famer said. "We only had a 2-0 lead. I was afraid we were going to lose the game."

What does a guy do with all those World Series rings?

"I don't have but five," Yogi said.

Billy Martin Vows To Avoid Series

HARRISBURG (AP)—Former New York Yankee manager Billy Martin, who stepped down in the middle of a season peppered with controversy, says he'll avoid this year's World Series because he doesn't want to steal the show.

"I'm not going to the Series and I'm not going to go back in New York," the fiery baseball personality told a reporter for the Harrisburg Patriot Monday.

"I don't want to do anything to take anything away from the ball club. I don't want to be there when the press interviews me or somebody says, 'Well, Billy's at the game now and they are talking about Billy.'"

Martin, who was replaced by Bob Lemon as skipper of the defending world champions, gave the interview during a promotional visit to nearby Penn National Race Track.

The one-time infielder said he'll be pulling for the Yankee pinstripes from an armchair instead of a dugout or stadium seat one of the few times in his life.

"I love the Yankees. I will be watching them," he said. "I don't want to interfere and that's why I'm not going to be around."

Martin started this season as Yankee manager, but he quit after quarrels with his players and management in favor of Lemon. However, he left with the clear understanding he would resume his old post in 1980.

PLAYING AGAIN—Miami Dolphin quarterback Bob Griese talks with coach Don Shula during a time out in the fourth quarter of the Monday night game with Cincinnati. Griese, who had been out with an injury for most of the season, played for a brief period in the game as the Dolphins won 21-0. (AP Laserphoto)

Dolphin Fans Happy With Griese Return

MIAMI (AP) — The Miami fans loudly let Bob Griese know they were glad he was back, but Don Shula's apparent initial reaction baffled him. The Miami Dolphins' 12-year regular quarterback played for the first time of the season in Monday night's 21-0 victory over the Cincinnati Bengals. Griese, sidelined since suffering damaged left knee ligaments in the final exhibition game, completed two of four passes in the fourth quarter. The bespectacled quarterback, who enjoyed his finest season statistically in 1977, entered the game on a third-and-12 and hit a 17-yard strike to Andre Tillman. He added a 5-yard pass before throwing two incompletions. The fans, who had impatiently booed backup quarterback Don Strock, gave Griese a thunderous ovation. "It was great to have the fan support. You write about the negative reaction, but the support is great. It's good to know they're happy to see you back," Griese said. But Shula snapped. "Don't you know we have a running game?" "I didn't know what to think at first, but then he started smiling," Griese said. Shula was putting his veteran star on. "It goes without saying how good it was to see No. 12 back on the field," Shula said. "I knew he wanted to get some throwing in. As it turned out, it was an ideal situation to play him in." Shula said Griese "had a good week of practice and looked strong tonight," but said "it's a little premature" to say whether Griese will start this Sunday at San Diego. Griese said his knee felt fine, but that his timing wasn't up to par. "It's hard to say. Maybe another week of practice will be enough. I don't think I'm in as good a shape as I could be. I don't think I'm as strong as I could be," he said. Griese had only a week of workouts before the game. He wore a cast for three weeks. "I did everything the doctors asked me to do. They called me a good patient. I wore the leg brace day and night, which was like having the cast on an extra week," he said. Griese missed nine games with a dislocated ankle in 1972 and has had two other leg injuries in his career. But he said he isn't worried about another injury. "You're going to get hit. It's part of your job. There's not many times you'll get hit the way I did against Tampa Bay. I can honestly say I wasn't even thinking about it out there." When Griese does return to regular duty, he'll have an offensive weapon he didn't have last year — Delvin Williams. Williams, acquired from San Francisco in the off-season, leads the American Football Conference with 517 yards. "Delvin has done a great job. Gary Davis has done a great job, too. I'm glad to have both of them in there," he said.

Pittsburgh Makes Calls For Spare Tight Ends

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers said Tuesday they've invited three veteran tight ends for one-day tryouts in an attempt to fill a slot left vacant by injured Bennie Cunningham. The Steelers had two tight ends, Randy Grossman, a 6-foot-1, 215-pound fourth-year player, will start in place of Cunningham, but the Steelers are now looking for a backup for Grossman. A team spokesman said the tryouts will be held as soon as the players can get to Pittsburgh and be given physical exams. Paul Seymour, who the Steelers acquired in a trade with Buffalo last August for wide receiver Frank Lewis, is among those who have been contacted. The trade was canceled when Seymour was unable to practice. He had been suffering from gout and had not recovered from surgery on the arches of both of his feet.

Malavasi Blasts NFL Officials

Rams Coach Claims Too Many Flags Thrown

LONG BEACH (AP) — Coach Ray Malavasi of the undefeated Los Angeles Rams, flirting with a National Football League fine, said Tuesday, "It's hard to see how officials should drop so many flags, so many going one way." Although the Rams beat the San Francisco 49ers, 27-10, on Sunday, they drew 15 penalties for 136 yards and had offensive drives stalled. "They even called us for tripping which hardly ever is called," Malavasi told his regular media meeting, adding that he was in favor of full-time officials in the NFL.

His predecessor, Chuck Knox who now coaches Buffalo, long advocated that officials be hired on a full-time basis rather than having men from other professions working the pro games on Sundays. "I think the officiating would be improved if the men went to school and went to practices," Malavasi said. After taking over from George Allen, fired after the Rams lost their first two preseason games, Malavasi and his Rams have an undefeated record with two in the preseason and six in the regular campaign.

He said of next Sunday's battle in Minnesota against the Vikings, "It's always close when we go up there. I know our players want to play a good game and have the extra incentive because of the playoff game last season." Minnesota beat the favored Rams 14-7 to advance in those Super Bowl playoffs and it was on the Los Angeles Coliseum field. Even though Minnesota lost to Seattle, 29-28, last Sunday, Malavasi said films showed veteran quarterback Fran Tarkenton was "throwing the ball very well."

"He presents a particular problem because of his ability to scramble, sprint out and throw on the run. He may not be the same quarterback he was 10 years ago, but he hasn't slowed down that much. I haven't seen much dropoff." Malavasi said it still hasn't been determined if Lawrence McCutcheon, who returned to action against the 49ers, would start at Minnesota, saying, "Cullen Bryant has been doing an outstanding job. We will continue to alternate our backs." Bryant started the San Francisco game and gained 60 yards on seven carries. McCutcheon, the star of prior years, gained 67 yards in 13 carries while making his first regular season start after suffering a thigh muscle injury in the preseason.

Dooley, Bulldogs Make Ready For Crucial Game With LSU

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — "I guess it's about the biggest game yet, the way things have gone," says Coach Vince Dooley of the Georgia Bulldogs. He's right, and he's responsible. The Bulldogs visit Louisiana State Saturday night in a game that has suddenly taken on importance in the Southeastern Conference football race.

LSU, featuring tailback Charles Alexander, figured to be in the SEC fight this year. Georgia, faced with replacing eight departed defensive starters, was relegated to an also-ran position in preseason prognostications — even by Dooley. Dooley said before the season began that he suspected Georgia fans were expecting too much because the team had a history of playing over its head in anticipated down years.

take youngsters on the road and they just don't play as good." The only setback came in the only road game, a 27-10 decision at South Carolina. "We got another voyage, but at least it's not a virgin voyage," Dooley said of his team's second trip of the year. Georgia and LSU have not met in 25 years, so the noise in Tiger Stadium will be a new experience for all except Dooley.

NCAA Investigators Meet ORU Officials

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Two investigators from the National Collegiate Athletic Association spent most of Tuesday closeted with officials and players of Oral Roberts University. No details of what the talks concerned were available and the conferences, which began at 9 a.m., continued into the afternoon. The school, founded by evangelist Oral Roberts, for whom it is named, was notified last July that several former players made allegations of irregularities in the school's athletic program. The allegations included payment of funds and loans to athletes. Andy Furman, sports information director for the university, said the investigators were in the office of Athletic Director Bob Brooks. Some of the basketball coaches, staff members and athletes had been in the conferences through the morning.

The Dogs have done nothing to dampen that belief, reeling off three victories, two via upsets, in four games to share the SEC lead at 1-0 with LSU, favored Alabama and Auburn. "We've had, I think, some fine play from some freshmen that has helped some older guys to play as well as they possibly can play," Dooley says, in explaining the turnaround. "Then, we've been fortunate in maybe catching some teams, outside of South Carolina, at the right time." "We caught Clemson at an ideal time. We won three at home and youngsters just seem to play better at home. You

One of the interesting aspects of the game will be the meeting between the two leading rushers in the SEC. Alexander, who set a single season league record with 1,686 yards last year, is ranked No. 1 again with 567 yards in four games. Georgia's Willie McClendon is right behind him with 521 yards.

Grain Curb Payments Totaled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers who signed up in this year's feed grain program aimed at curbing production have collected about $231.2 million so far, according to the Agriculture Department.

That payment total, as of Sept. 21, represents the most recent national figures available. Most of the payments were to corn farmers, about $222 million, and the balance went to producers of grain sorghum and barley.

Orville I. Overboe of the department's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service said that the payments as of Sept. 21 represented "less than half" of what they eventually will get.

The payments were provided under the government's acreage set-aside program for 1978 feed grain crops. After agreeing to set aside a portion of the cropland from production, farmers then had the option of idling additional acres in exchange for federal payments.

Called a "voluntary diversion" program, it provides payments on the basis of 20 cents a bushel for corn multiplied by a farmer's "established yield" and multiplied again by the actual acreage he has for harvest this year.

Farmers were eligible to collect one-half of the 1978 feed grains diversion payments at the time they signed up in the program last spring.

Many apparently decided not to collect the money in advance, however, because less than half of the total feed grain payments were made as of Sept. 21.

The payments included about $196.9 million in advances and final settlements of $34.3 million.

Payments covered corn planted on about 20.4 million acres, less than one-third of the 68.2 million acres farmers planted for grain this year.

This fall's corn harvest currently is estimated by USDA at a record 6.8 billion bushels.

By law, the department must announce by Nov. 15 what kind of feed grain set-aside program farmers will have for their 1979 crops.

But Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland says he plans to announce the program earlier, probably around Oct. 15. A new USDA crop production report is scheduled for Oct. 11, including new estimates of this fall's corn crop based on surveys the first of the month.

Bergland has been under pressure from some farm groups and farmbelt members of Congress to tighten next year's feed grain program severely and to boost payments to make it more attractive to producers.

Based on the Sept. 21 report, 15 major producing states account for about 92 percent of the $231.2 million in total feed grain payments. Those include:

Colorado, $2.3 million; Georgia, $1.9

million; Illinois, $31.7 million; Indiana,

$9.9 million; Iowa, $64.6 million; Kansas, $7.1 million; Kentucky, $1.3 million;

Minnesota, $16.5 million; Michigan, $9.1

million; Missouri, $6.8 million; Nebraska, $43.1 million; Ohio, $2.7 million;

South Dakota, $4.2 million; Texas, $8.8 million; and Wisconsin, $12.4 million.

CHICAGO — Cattle futures ended off 65 to 140 points, with December 10 above the 150 limit level decline, Tuesday on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. Volume was an estimated 25,398 contracts.

Traders felt the declines were predominantly profit-taking and technical adjustments after recent new contract highs in the deferreds. Final prices were near lows of the day, with late aggressive selling despite gains in carcass beef and some higher cash cattle markets.

Wholesale beef was unchanged to up 1 cent at 84 to 85 1/2 cents a pound, f.o.b. river. Cash cattle were steady to up 50 cents with the best top $56.75 per hundredweight, which is the highest since July. Omaha's top was $56.65.

There were 348 deliveries and slaughter was 137,000 head. The major markets expect 16,800 head today.

Feeder cattle futures closed at the day's lows, off 92 to 125 with November the weakest. Despite early strength, derived from gains in live cattle futures, the market eased on local profit-taking, traders said. WITH LARGE SUPPLIES OF MANY CROPS this fall and only moderate gains seen in domestic use in the coming year, how well farm exports do will be critical to farm earnings.

Right now, says the USDA, it looks as though grain crops are going to face stiff competition in overseas markets during 1979-79.

Growing conditions now point to large crops around the world. Still, demand is expected to hold up well in this country's major commercial markets, especially in the first half of the season. Government economists say most report improved economic conditions, which should pave the way for increased demand for livestock products.

In the Soviet Union, for example, substantial increases in livestock herds and expanded feeding rates are expected to keep feed grain imports relatively strong.

THE DEVELOPING COUNTRIES, especially the trade-oriented ones, also are reported enjoying strong economic growth rates which are bolstering their demand for imported foods.

So, despite the big grain crops coming on, U. S. farm exports are expected to continue near record levels. Of course, a lot still depends on weather at home and abroad during the next 12 months, the rate of economic growth in the major U. S. markets, and possible changes in import policies by foreign governments.

Thanks to growing demand for livestock products in many developed areas of the world, exports of feed grains are expected to nearly match the 1977-78 record of 55 million metric tons. However, this early in the season, the probable range is still wide, from 47 million to 57 million tons.

Even so, with super-size supplies shaping up this fall, prices for the season are expected to average near low rates. The more feed grains that are moved into the farmer-owned reserve, says USDA, the less down-pressure will be exerted on prices in the coming year.

EARLY SEASON WHEAT EXPORT PROSPECTS are rated good, especially until larger crops in major competing areas begin to enter world markets in volume early next year. Exports may hold near the 1.1 billion bushels shipped last year, give or take about 100 million.

Export strength is a major factor in price expectations for wheat at the farm. Prices now are expected to average 50 to 70 cents above 1977-78's $2.30 a bushel. Farmers have 400 million bushels in the reserve program and 50 million bushels are in the food aid reserve. Another 100 million bushels will be needed to fill the food aid reserve, USDA says. If Congress passes the necessary legislation this session, USDA adds, purchases in the market would strengthen prices.

BRAZIL'S REDUCED SOYBEAN CROP this year has boosted export prospects for the U. S. bean crop over the next few months.

Consequently, early season market prices are holding firm, even though a record U. S. crop is being harvested. But if the crop in Brazil bounces back next spring, there will be stiffer competition and there may be stress on prices.

Adding it all up, U. S. soybean farm prices this season may average slightly above the level of about $5.80 per bushel during 1977-78.

Export Credit Policy 'Dead Wood' Trimmed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has overhauled its policy on export credit to trim some of the dead wood, effective next month.

Kelly M. Harrison, the department's general sales manager, said commodities that have not been involved in credit activity within the last six months will be removed from the eligibility list.

The program is financed by the department's Commodity Credit Corporation. Eligible countries are provided lines of credit by U.S. farm commodities. The loans bear commercial bank interest rates and have to be repaid in regular installments over no more than three years.

Currently 36 commodities are eligible for financing, but in the last year only 18 were involved in credit operations.

"It will not result in any loss of sales opportunities, since a commodity can be added to the list if a serious supply imbalance clearly exists and there is a potential for increased export sales without replacement of cash purchases," Harrison said.

Farm commodities currently eligible and for which lines of credit have been established during the last six months include wheat, rice, feed grains, soybeans, most vegetable protein meals and vegetable oils, cotton, tobacco, breeding cattle and swine.

Lawyers' Association Official Blisters Insurance Industry

By PAULA TILKER
 Avalanche-Journal Staff

By inflating unverifiable loss figures and using them in rate increase cases, the state insurance industry is reaping excessive profits, a lawyers' association director charged here Tuesday.

In an interview with The Avalanche-Journal, Tom Webb, director of the Texas Trial Lawyers Association, said: "If people can really know the enormous profit the insurance industry is making and the fact that most rate-making is based on insurance company figures and are nonverifiable, they will see the need for a bill to simply say 'We want to know what you actually do and base rates on what you actually pay shareholders.'"

Webb, who was in Lubbock to speak about insurance abuses to the Lubbock Metro Lions Club, said the TLA is backing such a bill, which state Rep. James Nugent of Kerrville proposes to introduce during the next legislative session.

The bill would require insurance companies to "report more fully and accurately actual losses so the Board of Insurance Commission will have genuine statistics, not estimates," upon which to judge rate increase requests, Webb said.

Insurance companies now are not required to divulge actual losses when a calendar year of bookkeeping ends, he said, explaining that often the companies will overestimate the amount of claims expected to arise but not yet reported.

The result, he said, is that many of the losses don't materialize, and the company can invest the money as profit, yet point to "paper losses" to support rate increase requests.

"There's no desire on anyone's part to cripple the insurance industry or keep it from being sound or keep it from making a profit," Webb said. "But we don't think there ought to be an unconscionable profit."

Nugent's proposal "is not an attempt to set the rates, but to give the insurance commission the authority to compel the disclosure of enough information so they can be set fairly," Webb added.

Webb, who said the problem occurs across most of the nation, cited financial reports to back up the claim that insurance companies are pocketing excessive profits at the same time they report losses.

In one case, he said, a state insurance company reported to its policyholders record profits each year from 1974 to 1977. During that same period, he said, the Texas Workmen's Compensation rates were increased almost 60 percent in eight increments.

Webb also quoted a recent news story in which four state insurance commissioners from other states charged insurance companies with "padding" their reports.

Top U.S. Arms Negotiator To Leave Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Paul C. Warnke resigned Tuesday as the chief U.S. negotiator in strategic arms talks with the Soviet Union, clearing the way for Defense Secretary Harold Brown to take charge of administration efforts to win ratification of a new treaty.

Warnke's resignation was announced by President Carter as Warnke was testifying before a committee on Capitol Hill.

Warnke said he was resigning for unspecified personal reasons. The White House said his departure would be effective after the upcoming round of arms treaty negotiations in Moscow on Oct. 22-23.

Administration sources said the resignation neatly fit in with administration plans to win Senate ratification of SALT II — the second strategic arms limitation treaty nearing completion.

Warnke's nomination in 1977 brought strong opposition from conservative senators who portrayed him as being too soft in dealing with the Russians. When he was confirmed for the job, there were senators who voted against him to block ratification of a new treaty.

"I'm sure there will be those who will be able to contain their regret" over the resignation, Warnke said wryly of his critics.

Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., after attending a three-hour briefing on SALT from Warnke, said: "On balance, I think there is a feeling that is being expressed that the fact that he is not the person who is going to carry the torch on this is somewhat helpful, psychologically."

But Warnke promised that despite his resignation, he will be heard from. "I would anticipate testifying. In fact, I would force myself on the people who are going to make this decision," he said.

ance companies in general with using two sets of books — one for shareholders showing profits, and the other for state regulators, showing losses.

The lawyers' association plans to support the bill by disseminating information about the problem and solution, Webb added.

'Mr. Clean' Image Hard Come By For Candidate

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) — Harry Hughes did something almost unheard of in Maryland: he resigned a good state job rather than go along with the political back-scratching that has contributed to the state's seedy reputation.

Now Hughes hopes the "Mr. Clean" image that helped him upset a sitting governor in the Democratic primary will carry him past Republican J. Glenn Beall in the Maryland governor's race.

But Beall, a former senator bearing one of those family names that constantly surfaces in the state's politics, doesn't want to let Hughes off the hook. The GOP candidate is emphasizing that Hughes, not he, is the candidate of the party that gave Maryland Marvin Mandel and his friends. Hughes, 52, is a former state transportation secretary who took a stunning primary victory from acting Gov. Blair Lee III by 20,000 votes last month.

"The big issue was honesty in government," said Hughes. "I heard it more than anything else," despite polls that showed high taxes as the main issue concerning voters.

Hughes worked hard to project an image of an honest public servant who quit his state cabinet job in protest of political pressure being used in the awarding of a Baltimore subway contract.

Conferees Agree On Jobs Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Senate negotiators reached agreement Tuesday on a public service jobs and training bill that officials estimate could mean government-created jobs for about 660,000 people in the new fiscal year that began Oct. 1.

The measure would extend authorization for programs under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) for four years at a cost for the first fiscal year estimated at $11 billion.

The House and Senate passed different versions of the legislation earlier in the year, and the compromise now must be re-approved by both houses before it is sent to the White House for President Carter's approval.

Technically, authorization for the CETA programs expired on Sept. 30, when the federal government's fiscal year ended. But Labor Department officials say the programs are continuing virtually uninterrupted because contracts signed during the last year remain in effect until the money runs out.

The compromise legislation places increased emphasis on training, a move designed to help participants in the government-financed programs to eventually find employment in the private sector.

For the first time, the bill also would make a distinction between public service jobs for the chronically unemployed, who would be required to undergo training as part of their participation, and for workers laid off because of poor business conditions.

The precise number of jobs set up under the bill would depend on national unemployment, which the Carter administration estimates will average about 5.7 percent next year. If the prediction holds true, it would translate into about 660,000 public service jobs.

The Carter administration originally asked Congress to allow up to the 725,000 public service jobs that now exist. The Senate's original version of the bill granted the administration's request, but the House voted to slash the number of jobs to about 600,000.

Under the compromise, public service jobs would be provided for 20 percent of unemployed workers in excess of 4 percent nationally. If unemployment reaches 7 percent, however, there would be enough jobs created for 25 percent of the unemployed over 4 percent.

For example, if unemployment remains at its present level of 6 percent, the number of public service jobs authorized would go up from about 660,000 to about 720,000.

On another subject that the House and Senate disagreed on, the conference committee voted to limit to $12,000 the amount of federal money paid to any public service employment worker. Pay could rise to $13,200 a year if local governments wished to supplement the federal salary, however.

Under the original Senate bill, the combination of federal and local pay could have pushed salaries as high as $15,000 a year. The House-passed bill had a ceiling of $12,000.

In addition to continuing the public service employment program, the legislation permits continuation of the Jobs Corps program as well as special programs for Indians, Native Americans and other groups.

Hughes says he has a chance to change the image of Maryland government: "I really have the opportunity to do this more than any candidate for governor in my memory because I have no special obligations to anyone except the people of Maryland."

But Beall says if voters really want a change, they should elect a Republican who has no ties to the Mandel administration or the Democratic politicians who wrongdoing in his acceptance of nearly $85,000 from the campaign fund.

Beall, 50, has been waging a vigorous campaign, with constant appearances and weekly news conferences. His main issue is tax limits and closer control of government spending to stop growth of the bureaucracy.

Beall says eliminating the state property tax would reduce the tax burden by 7 percent for the average taxpayer, who still would have to pay local property taxes.

"The only way to effectively control growth in this state, where a balanced budget is required by the constitution, is to first limit the resources available by cutting taxes," he said. "Perhaps most importantly, these changes would give this state a psychological break with the past — a break that is the cornerstone of my campaign for governor."

He also proposed zero-based budgeting, elimination of vacant state positions, a hiring freeze and promotion of economic development.

Hughes also stressed the need for economic development but calls Beall's tax reform promises "gimmicky — just a shifting of the money." He said the tax reductions Beall proposed would just have to be raised from citizens by some other means.

School Board Mulls Action On Bra Furor

PORTAGE, Mich. (AP) — A lack of support was at issue as 14-year-old Carrie Keech and her parents went to the school board meeting.

Miss Keech had been sent home twice last year because she did not wear a bra to Central High School in this Kalamazoo suburb. And according to her father she was not wearing that article of attire Monday night as the school board considered what to do about it.

After hearing the Keeches, the board asked its attorney to prepare an opinion on whether Miss Keech may come to class without a bra. That opinion will be considered in the annual review of school policies in a month or two, said board President James Ellinger.

"Are you wearing a bra?" the father, Robert Keech, asked board member Gavi Wermer. "I don't think I have a right to ask you that." Similarly, administrators had no right to ask his daughter, he said.

Mrs. Wermer did not respond to the question.

Board members made no comment on the case directly, but the 1975 dress code was read. That code requires student dress to be "neat ... and not considered distracting to the process of education."

Auto Repairing Problem Noted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The No. 1 problem faced by consumers across the country is getting reliable automobile repairs performed, according to several government agencies.

Indeed, the federal Office of Consumer Affairs reports that nearly one of five complaints it receives are related to automobiles. And the Better Business Bureau says more than in every 10 complaints referred to them involves autos.

The nation's motorists spend nearly $50 billion each year on automobile repairs, and the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration estimates that $20 billion of this is "wasted on poor, needless or fraudulent auto repairs and maintenance."

To help explain the problem and suggest ways to deal with it, the Transportation Department has prepared a pamphlet titled "Consumer Problems With Auto Repair."

The booklet is available without charge from the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 704F, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

COMPLETE STOCK MARKET INDEX

Gold Gains; Mart Slips

NEW YORK (AP) — Gold mining issues chalked up broad gains Tuesday while the rest of the stock market declined slightly, ending a four-session rally.

The gold stocks were buoyed by the rise of bullion prices to record levels about $225 an ounce in Zurich and London. Accompanying weakness in the dollar was cited as one factor in the uninspired showing of most other issues.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 25.29 points in the last four trading days, pulled back 1.56 to 891.63.

Losers just barely nosed out gainers in the daily tally on the New York Stock Exchange.

Among the standout performers in the gold-mining group were Homestake Mining, the largest U.S. gold producer, which rose 1% to 39 3/4 as of the 4 p.m. close in New York, and Dome Mines, a Canadian concern which was up 1% at 93 3/4 and touched an all-time high.

ASA Ltd., a closed-end investment company concentrating on South African gold mining shares, picked up 1% to 30 3/4, and Campbell Red Lake, another Canadian company in which Dome Mines holds a controlling interest, added 1/2 to 39.
