Court Backs Sign Rules

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court opened its 1978-79 term today by agreeing to take up cases involving the rights of prisoners, motorists, music broadcasters, and criminal suspects whose offices are bugged by the FBI.

The court also gave states and cities a victory by refusing to review a pair of rulings by the New York Court of Appeals that bans against billboards do not violate the free speech rights of billboard

At issue in separate but related cases were a 1969 New York law banishing billboards from the Catskill Park, which stretches across four counties, and a 1972 ordinance passed in the town of Southampton prohibiting billboards in that speech and due process. The high court also issued orders on more than 800 cases as the justices returned to their velvet-draped courtroom for the first time since last July.

They announced they will hear arguments and rule later this term on a wide range of issues, including whether police may randomly stop motorists in their cars just to check their driver's license and auto registration. The Delaware Supreme Court says such a practice violates the Constitution. The court also agreed to consider whether a judge's order approving a wiretap or hidden microphone implicitly authorizes a break-in or secret entry by federal agents to install them. The government says it does, and had urged the high court not to get involved in that question.

The justices also will consider: -What kind of conditions prisoners being held for trial may be subjected to. The court will review a sweeping order that conditions be improved at the modern Metropolitan Correction Center, where many such federal prisoners from New York and New Jersey are held before trial.

-Whether the convictions of two accused murderers should be set aside because the foreman of the grand jury that discriminatory way.

The justices will consider an appeal by the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers and Broadcast Music Inc., which have been acting as middlemen in granting such licenses to broadcasters and other users.

The court also will review Federal Communications Commission rules making it easier for the general public to use cable television channels in the nation's largest broadcast markets.

At the same time, the court promised to review rulings requiring Mobile, Ala., to scrap its commission form of government - under which no black has ever been elected - and to hold elections for a mayor and council instead.

Sadat Reveals Carter Plans Trip To Egypt

President Carter will go to Egypt for the signing of the peace treaty between Egypt and Israel, President Anwar Sadat

Sadat told the Egyptian parliament, during a speech on the Camp David accords, that he had extended the invitation. He told newsmen after the address that Carter had accepted.

No date has been set for the visit, but officials said it will depend on how fast Egyptian and Israeli negotiators can work out steps to implement the accords, agreed upon earlier this month to end the 30-year conflict in the Middle East.

In Washington, the White House confirmed today that the peace talks between Israel and Egypt will begin in the U.S. capital on Oct. 12.

Jody Powell, White House press secretary, said that although final plans for the peace conference have not been completed, both countries have "informally agreed to do this."

Powell said the United States will be a full participant in the negotiations, which will be conducted at the ministerial level instead of by heads of state. He said the U.S. delegation will be headed by Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance.

Powell also confirmed Sadat's announcement that Carter plans to visit Egypt "in the near future."

Earlier, Egyptian government sources confirmed reports in Israel and Cairo that Washington had been chosen as the site for the talks rather than the location proposed by Egypt, the Suez Canal city of

The sources said the shift would facilitate participation by American officials in the negotiations.

The Israeli Parliament removed the last barrier to further peace negotiations last Thursday when it ratified the Camp David accords and agreed to Sadat's demand that Israel withdraw its 4,000 Jewish settlers from 18 outposts it established in the Sinai Desert.

In Cairo, Sadat made the announcement of the Carter trip while addressing his parliament on the Camp David ac-

"President Carter will go down in history as one of the great leaders who changed the face of history from bitterness to love and from wars to peace," Sadat said, adding the talks could not nave succe

He also attacked Arab critics of the agreements and invited them to join in peace talks with Israel if they think they can do better.

This is what Egypt was able to do at this stage... we do not claim to have reached a comprehensive settlement, but we have prepared the road toward a comprehensive settlement," Sadat said.

Carter brought Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin together at Camp David for two weeks of talks that yielded frameworks for Arab-Israeli peace and for a peace treaty between Israel and Egypt to be concluded within three months.

The framework for the Israeli-Egyptian treaty calls for a two-phase withdrawal of Israeli troops from Sinai, the stationing of United Nations forces on the southern Sinai coast to insure Israel's right of passage through the Gulf of Aqaba and the establishment of early warning stations.

The negotiators in Washington will work on demarcation of the zones in Sinai in which Israeli, Egyptian and U.N.

John Hill Denies Story Of Lag In Fund Probe

AUSTIN (UPI) - Attorney General John Hill said today a Dallas newspaper's report that he was reluctant for political reasons to participate in the investigation of $900,000 in missing government funds in Laredo is false.

Hill, the Democratic nominee for governor, called a news conference to give reporters copies of a grand jury report and a letter from grand jurors thanking him for his help in the investigation.

Webb County District Attorney Charles Borchers; Ramiro Martinez, a Texas Ranger involved in the investigation, and Ray Bravenec, an investigator from Hill's organized crime division who helped with the investigation, all supported Hill's contention he had provided assistance to the Webb County grand jury in investigating allegations against the county's road and bridge department.

The Dallas Morning News, in a copyrighted story by Howard Swindle, reported Sunday that former Webb County road superintendent Joe M. Guerra had said in an affidavit that Hill was reluctant to participate in the investigation because he said he had a lot of political friends in the county.

"Attorney General Hill ... said something like 'How do you expect me to investigate when I have a lot of friends in Laredo." the News story quoted Guerra as saying.

"That would be a silly statement, and it's totally false," Hill said today.

He said his press aide, Ernie Stromberger, gave Dallas News state editor Wayne Epperson Hill's denial of Guerra's statement Saturday, but the News did not include it in the front page story concerning Guerra's allegations. Hill today declined to respond to questions about whether he thought there was any connection between the story and the News' endorsement of his Republican opponent, Bill Clements, in the same edi-

Martinez, the Texas Ranger assigned by the Department of Public Safety to assist in the Webb County investigation, said today he talked to Hill about the investigation in February of 1976.

"I recall the general told me specifically, 'Let the chips fall where they may. If somebody needs to be indicted, go ahead," Martinez said. "As far as I'm concerned he was not taking sides." Guerra said irregularities in operation

trict occurred between 1972 and 1975. Webb County Commissioner Cruz Cabello, in a sworn statement, supported Guerra's statements concerning a meeting with Hill in early 1976, at which time Guerra said Hill made the comments about having friends in Laredo

Hill said he met only briefly with Guerra and Cabello after they had discussed the investigation with Assistant Attorney General Jim Bushala.

Survey Here Shows Grocery Price Dip

By KIM COBB Avalanche-Journal Staff

Although national comparisons show grocery prices edged up again last month, an Avalanche-Journal marketbasket survey indicates Lubbock prices dropped a bit between Sept. 1 and Oct. 1.

Adding up the prices for 16 standard grocery items produced a total of $19.54,

Area law enforcement officers, including Lubbock police, joined in the search at noon today for two black suspects said to be traveling in a white-over-green Thunderbird.

Lee Holcomb and his wife, who live in the northeast part of Dickens County, were traveling on U.S. Highway 82 about 11:35 a.m. today when they were held up and robbed by the suspects at Silver Falls east of Crosbyton.

The couple reportedly had been to banks in Crosbyton and Lubbock, closing the deal on the sale of their property, and had the money with them in a Lubbock National Bank bag when they were held saved and had; all the money they had to their name," Stone said. And the government, which is asking for advice on its labeling requirements, may be ready to change the voluminous rules in an effort to give grocery shoppers uniform and useful information.

The nationwide search for advice has heard a parade of consumers and public. interest groups demand a full list of indients on the labels of all processed loods and the relative amount of each ingredient, perhaps in percentages. Some witnesses have told the three federal agencies involved that labels often waste space by providing unnecessary and at times misleading nutritional data. Most of those testifying at hearings in Washington this week have suggested dropping from nutrient labels the "percentage of recommended daily allow-ances" of certain vitamins and minerals arid substituting the content of sugar, salt and possibly cholesterol. Certain nutritional information should be required on all processed foods, the witnesses agree, rather than only certain categories of foods as is now required.

The agencies involved are the Food and Drug Administration, which regulates most foods on the market; the Agriculmeat and poultry; and the Federal Trade Commission, which polices food advertis-

Food processers, less enthusiastic about major labeling changes, are urging the agencies to proceed with caution, warning that increased labeling costs will be passed on to the customer.

Several groups, including the National Consumers League and a number of community action projects, said the nutri-tional labels that now appear on many foods were designed to assist buyers in an undernourished society, whereas American shoppers more often face the prob-lem of being overfed.

Labels showing calories, protein, car-bohydrate and fat content, as well as seven essential nutrients, are now required by the FDA only if the producer claims a nutritional value for his product or if the food is artificially fortified. Ingredients must be listed in descending order, most prevalent first, on all but so-called standrdized foods. Colors and flavors don't have to be specifically identified. Standardized foods, such as mayon naise and ketchup, need not list their ingredients, but must conform to a basic recipe standard set by the FDA.

One of the strongest pleas for full ingre-dient labeling came from Vicki Gelardi,

Camp David Treatment May Be Political Tool

WASHINGTON (AP) - Suddenly, people with a project to push are clamoring to get it the Camp David treatment. It may point to a new way of doing political business.

The latest request came from Rep. John Conyers Jr., a Michigan Democrat who walked out of a White House meeting between President Carter and the Congressional Black Caucus after saying the administration is not doing enough to promote full employment legislation.

Conyers and his colleagues want the White House to push for swift adoption of a bill that would set as a national goal the reduction of unemployment to no more than 4 percent within four years.

White House officials say Conyers proposed a meeting at Camp David to put pressure on congressional leaders for action on several bills, particularly the jobs

Conyers' associates say he wasn't necessarily seeking a return to the presidential retreat in the Maryland mountains, site of the 13-day summit on the Middle East but, rather, was suggesting a "Camp David style" meeting to give the legislation a push.

Carter said that would not be appropriate, and after some argument about the blame for inaction on the full employment bill, Conyers walked out.

Robert S. Strauss, the administration's chief inflation-fighter, already had suggested a Camp David summit of business and labor leaders to seek support for new administration restraints on wage and price increases. That was just a thought. He didn't get angry about it.

Now, it seems, Camp David, or at least the Camp David style, offers new options for the Carter treatment

After all, it seems to have been persistence - even stubbornness - that paid off in the Israeli-Egyptian accord on a proposed peace settlement. Carter kept the principals at the isolated retreat for nearly two weeks. Menachem Begin said it was like a deluxe concentration camp.

So unless there's something in the water or the mountain air that leads people to come to terms, the key to success may be the duration of the encampment. But the president can hardly fly off to there's an issue to be resolved. He's got too much to do in Washington.

Perhaps he could blend the Johnson treatment with his own, send opposing factions to Camp David, get them started, and then telephone every now and then to push for an agreement.

Even a deluxe concentration camp gets boring, and when they are tired enough of the place, people may settle their dif-

The station ranks a disappointing 20th overall, said program director Dennis Waters.

During a two-week "experimental period," songs recorded before the Beatles disbanded in 1970 will be aired, said Waters, and a random phone survey will be made to judge listener response.

Kansai Telecasting Corp. of Osaka said today it had invited Ford to "discuss fully the current state of and prospects for Japan-U.S. relations."

The company said Ford will take part in a televised panel discussion and lectures in Tokyo and Osaka in connection with the celebration of the company's 20th anniversary.

UAW Chief Wants Equal Sacrifices

NEW YORK (AP) - The head of the United Auto Workers says he won't reject President Carter's forthcoming antiinflation guidelines if they call for equal sacrifices by labor and business. But UAW leader Douglas Fraser says his workers won't accept contracts offering wage increases below the inflation rate — now about 9.8 percent. Carter will reportedly urge a 7 percent ceiling on wage increases, and a 6 percent limit on price hikes, in his anti-inflation against labor.

Fraser said Sunday during NBC's 'Meet The Press' program that his 1.4 million-member union "couldn't" settle for a wage boost below the inflation rate in next year's contract talks.

But he said repeatedly that he would not reject fair anti-inflation measures.

And he said he hopes labor will deal more severely with politicians who are elected with union support and then vote labor-backed version of the tax-reduction bill. Fraser said: "I think that the labor movement should be much more exacting and demanding when they are endorsing candidates. Americans are carrying 600,000,000

But in Little Rock, Ark., of all places, one finds an organization unique in this respect: Here politics is not a dirty word.

I speak of Little Rock "of all places" with genuine admiration.

In all kinds of indices-teacher salaries, per capita income, levels of education-Arkansas consistently comes up with political figures who belie the image of one-gallus hillbillies making corn likker while the moon shines.

The state has some first-rate institutions of higher education, several well-edited newspapers, and to get to the point: Here in Little Rock it has the Institute of Politics and Government.

THERE IS nothing quite like it anywhere in the country. Founded in 1972 with a Ford Foundation grant, the institute has survived in an area where others have failed. The Winthrop Rockefeller Foundation also has provided financial support, but the institute's uccess rests on more than money

While it is loosely affiliated with Arkansas College, a small Presbyterian liberal arts school in Batesville, the institute is not overrun by professors of political science or by chi-squared peda-gogs who write unreadable papers.

It is determinedly independent and non-partisan, and it looks upon politics with a practical

One of the institute's programs is a six-hour seminar in "political involvement." Participants get total immersion in lobbying techniques, fundraising, political trends, and the uses and misuses the institute and emulate its example

ANOTHER POPULAR offering is the journalists' seminar, which meets one Saturday a month over a period of nine months.

Dozens of political reporters from state newspapers and radio-TV stations have gone through the course and emerged with a deeper understanding of Arkansas politics and politicians. But it is the institute's down-to-earth seminars

By "practical politics," the directors of the institute mean just that. They are not much concerned with the metaphysics of public service; they are concerned with how a candidate wins an

Air Fare Strippers Bust Rates To Fliers

IF YOU ARE planning a transcontinental trip this fall...a vacation in the sunbelt...business conferences necessitating a considerable amount of Good money-saving news is on the way from whatever commercial airline you'll use for your trips. Sharp cuts in air fares will be showing up -particularly on long-haul flights.

A sweeping decision by the Civil Aeronautics Board, officially announced early this month, gives airlines the right to slash coach fares by as much as 70 percent-a bonanza for the air traveler no matter from what side you view it! The price cuts will apply on a big section of carrier route systems. Unprecedented flexibility to lower air fares must follow the loosening of CAB controls. Big savings cannot help but be the result for you, if

of scheduled airlines. AND AS FARE competition intensifies (as it inevitably will), the airlines will bid more and more aggressively for your dollar.

Many facts about this vital development have not been reported at all, and certainly not fully. Also, there are both pros and cons, depending on what type of air traveler you are.

(1) For some of you, the cost of flying your favorite airline actually could increase-despite the potential giant cuts. If you travel first class, for instance, you may be paying more since the CAB wiped out the formula that these fares be set at a certain percentage above coach. Now, federally regulated airlines may set firstclass fares at any level above coach charges.

(2) IN ADDITION, carriers may boost fares from 5 to 10 percent on a large part of their route system, depending on the amount of competition PERHAPS BECAUSE Arkansas politics is fired on their system.

(3) The new policy sets ceiling fares at September coach fares and gives the airlines the discretion to cut normal fares as much as 50 percent in all domestic markets. Also, the fares can be reduced another 20 per-

Until now, those deep discounts have been available only on limited edition capacity-controlled restrictive fares. These usually have involved flights requiring advance bookings and

(4) THE FULL 70 percent cut is most likely to be felt during "off peak" times. Since it costs airlines more to supply seats in peak periods, the price slashes then may not be so readily availa-

Hijacker Arrested At Home

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) - Seven hours after Finnish police let a hijacker go home with his pistol and part of a ransom to spend a last night with his wife, they stormed the man's house and arrest-

The hijacker, a building contractor who recently went bankrupt, forced the crew of a Finnair jet to fly 3,000 miles up and down Finland and as far south as Holland before releasing the last of his 48 hostages Sunday. No one was hurt.

Along the way 37-year-old Aarno Lam-minporras collected $206,000 in ransom from Finnair and a Helsinki newspaper and ordered $175,000 of it given to an orphanage and a veterans hospital.

Authorities said they could determine no clear-cut motive for the crime, but during one of the plane's stops, he demanded and got two bottles of whisky.

Nor was there any explanation why polnorth of Helsinki, seven hours after agreeing to his demand that he be allowed to spend Sunday night with his wife and surrender today.

Authorities said the hijacking began about 4 p.m. Saturday afternoon when Lamminporras entered the cockpit of the Finnair Super-Caravelle during a flight from Oulu to Helsinki, and pointed a pistol at the pilot.

The plane landed at Helsinki, flew back to Oulu. returned to Helsinki, flew to the Netherlands, then back to Helsinki and finally landed back in Oulu. Lamminporras freed 34 of those aboard during the first stop in Helsinki, 11 on the second stop, including a lawyer he had demanded be brought aboard, and the last three in Oulu after the government agreed to let him go home for the night.

Shah Declares Amnesty For Demonstrators

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi has granted an amnesty that his officials say opens the door to thousands of Iranians abroad to return home without fear of arrest for opposition to his rule.

The shah's government declared amnesty Sunday for all Iranians involved in 'anti-state" activities. One government official said thousands could now return home without fear of arrest by SAVAK, the secret police.

Minister of State Manuchehr Azemon said the amnesty applies to dissident Shiite Moslem leader Ayatullah Khomaini, who has been fomenting a campaign against the shah and his Western reforms from exile in Iraq.

Khomaini has said he will not return unless the monarchy is abolished. But there have been reports that he has fallen into disfavor in Iraq, including one account, denied by the government, that he was under house arrest.

The amnesty was the shah's latest attempt to quiet the recent violent opposition to his regime, which has been spearheaded by traditionalist Moslem leaders angered by the ruler's redistribution of lands owned by the clergy and his granting of rights to women.

Leftists, students, intellectuals and members of the growing middle class put aside their ideological differences to join the religious opposition to the Shah.

About 1,000 Iranians have died this year in clashes between anti-government demonstrators and police. The government contends the unrest is instigated by Marxists, but much of it is the work of religious conservatives,

Col. Mani Pour, police chief of Mashhad, a religious center in northeast Iran, was ambushed and killed Sunday on his way to work. His driver was wounded.

In the past 20 years hundreds of Iranian students abroad who were accused of taking part in foreign demonstrations against the shah were arrested when they came home and jailed for up to seven

A government spokesman said those already convicted and jailed would not be affected by the amnesty. At least 1,000 of them have already been released, and the cases of others are under study.

Ag Team Gives Report On Foreign Eating Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) - An Agriculture Department task force says hard-sell promotions aimed at changing a foreign country's eating habits so that more U.S. commodities can be sold there are not always beneficial to its consumers.

The task force reported to Congress last week on the Food for Peace program, also called P.L. 480, and how it might be improved.

For years, market development activities have been carried out abroad under the program, including efforts to get some countries to alter their diets in favor of U.S. wheat and other products.

Examples include Japan, which has shifted from a rice-based economy to an economy that relies to a great extent on wheat, and Taiwan, where market development activities were used to expand

State Police Vote To End Job Action

PIKESVILLE, Md. (AP) - Members of the union representing the Maryland State Police troopers have voted to suspend a month-old job action aimed at getting better wages and benefits.

Ben Wolman, an attorney for the Fraternal Order of Police which represents 1.100 of the 1,300 state troopers, said Friday that 721 troopers voted to suspend the action and 111 called for a coninuation. The job action consisted mainly of a drop in ticket-writing and police estimated that as much as $150,000 a week in state revenues was lost because swine production through the use of U.S.produced feedstuffs," the task force's report said.

Although the report did not mention it, wheat promotion in Japan involved concerted efforts by farmer-supported state wheat groups to get Japanese consumers used to the idea of eating a variety of cereal products, including white bread and doughnuts, for example

As Japan's economy improved and consumers had more money, they gradually accepted wheat products. Similar promotions for other products have been effective in other parts of the world and have been important in gaining larger export markets for Amrican farmers.

But the report said that "all such changes are not necessarily for the better - nutritionally or economically" within the countries involved.

"For example, a large part of the market development effort has been devoted to training bakers and holding bakery demonstrations for developing-country

"If the effect of such exposure is to increase wheat consumption without a change in income, this diet change could result in a displacement of local food which might be nutritionally superior.

Survey Eyes Changes In Society

NEW YORK (AP) - Take a drug and you'll be smarter, live longer, even change the sex of your unborn child.

Those are just a few of the changes anticipated in the latest McGraw-Hill survey of 200 industrial firms and government and private researchers in 12 major areas such as medicine, transportation and manufacturing. The survey is conducted every three

The big news this year is that the futuristic, sci-fi life isn't so far off.

If you've ever quibbled with the basic equipment you were born with, it won't be long before you'll be able to do something about it, medical experts say. They predict drugs that can permanently raise your IQ will be in widespread use in 15 years.

Around that time, they say scientific breakthroughs will enable you to shed unwanted pounds effortlessly and even control the sex of your unborn child.

Then, too, they predict that by the turn of the century, life expectancy will reach 100 years, that there will be a cure for cancer and a drug which, taken over a long period of time, prevents it.

The medical experts also foresee artificial eyesight for the blind, artificial growth of new limbs and even an artificial form of primitive

But you needn't wait that long for other startling advances.

In the 1980s, they say, ultrasonics will enable the control of pain and detect brain tumors; electronic impulses will heal bone fractures, and there will even be a substitute for blood.

The clothes of the future won't be the same either.

Seven years from now, textile experts say, one-piece molded garments will be the rage and fabrics will respond to temperature changes. By the turn of the century, they predict, you'll be able to select a dress or suit that will change color.

Not that you'll have to worry about the elements.

In the 1980s, say scientists, plastic domes will protect cities on land and in the sea from pollution and the weather; scientists will be predicting earthquakes, and, maybe most remarkable of all, weathermen will present accurate 30-day weather forecasts.

Health Appraisal Can Add Years To Your Life

By C.P. GILMORE
You go in for a physical examination.
"You're in pretty good shape," says the doctor, "but you ought to take better care of yourself. Stop smoking, drop a few pounds, exercise and taper off on your drinking."

"Sure," you say. But deep down you know that you won't do all those things. Sound familiar? Unfortunately, it's by far the most common pattern. Now, however, doctors are beginning to use a more effective technique to get us patients to act in our own interest. It's called the health-hazard appraisal, and more than 200,000 patients took advantage of it last

Here's how health appraisal works. You begin your visit to the doctor by fill-ing out a detailed medical form — age, weight, history of personal and family illness. etc. The form also inquires about your smoking, drinking and exercise habits. It even asks how many miles a year you drive and how often you wear a seat belt. It asks women questions aimed at determining their risk of breast and cervical cancer. And finally, it asks for your serum-cholesterol and blood-pressure

Next, your answers are analyzed, by the doctor himself or by a group that provides computer analysis.

The doctor is now ready to give you specific - and sometimes startling - information. "Your chronological age is 49," he begins, referring to a three-page form. "Unfortunately, your way of living has given you the same chance of dying in the next 10 years as a person of 57. So your 'risk age,' as we call it, is 57.

"Now the good news," he continues. "You can get back years you might be losing and even add a few. If you put into effect a series of steps I'm going to tell you about, you can, in effect reverse the aging process and make yourself younger than your chronological age, as far as risk is concerned. The calculations here show that your target age, or the effective risk age that you can reasonably expect to attain, is 44.

"And this printout," he says, pulling out another sheet, "shows what is causing your excess health risk. Here's how you can reduce it. Stop smoking and you'll gain back two years. Getting your blood cholesterol down from 280 to 210 will give you another two years. Lowering your blood pressure will add three more years," And so on.

The basis of the statistical tables that enable a doctor, or a computer, to calculate you "risk age" is complex. But, as the following example shows, application

Israelis Eager To See Egypt

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) - Excited Isof the pyramids in what tourist agents predicted would turn into an exodus in reverse.

"Please note that with the opening of the border we expect a deluge of Israeli tourists to arrive in Egypt," said travel agent Meir Greiver of an agency called Tourolam in a telex to Mounir Habashi of ITTA Tours in Cairo.

"Booking information airmailed today." was the immediate reply. The message ended with "salaam," the Arabic word for peace.

Israei tourist agencies had scrambled frantically to be first to advertize travel arrangements to the Egyptian capital.

Since the first ads were placed in the papers last week, hundreds of Israelis have phoned Greiver'ss office asking for information.

The Poraz publishing house rushed to bring out the first Hebrew guidebook to Egypt. The author, Shalom Cohen, is a former Knesset member and journalist who was born in Alexandria.

Greiver predicted peace resulting from the Camp David accords will affect Middle East tourism in two ways - an expected crowd of Israelis headed to Cairo and thousands of long hesitant foreigners signing up for joint Egypt-Israel pack-

At one time, Egypt would not admit persons whose passports bore visas for travel to Israel.

"It's hard to find hotel space in Cairo," Greiver said. "But our Egyptian friends are going out of their way to help us out."

The Egyptians seem to be anxious to show good will towards their new business partners.

"We're lowering our prices to show that were looking for cooperation more than commercal operations," read a telex received by Greiver from Cairo.

There was a heavy demand for tours of the Sinai peninsula during the forthcoming Jewish holidays for Israelis wanting to climb Mount Sinai before it goes back to Egyptian hands.

Infrared Devices Pinpoint Hazards

WASHINGTON (AP) - Infrared devices have provided sharp new eyes for focusing on hazards faced by firefighters and airline passengers, according to the National Geographic Society.

Developed by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration in Boulder, Colo., the devices pinpoint forest fires, warn of clear air turbulence and detect dangerous wind shears at landing fields.

Scientists are testing a scanning radiometer than can see through the thickest smoke generated by forest fires and zero in on the exact location of a blaze.

From 30,000 feet, the device can map almost 4,000 square miles in just 45 min-utes, the Society said.

Two years ago, data concerning a 37year-old woman was fed into the a health-hazard computer at Methodist Hospital in Indianapolis, where the appraisal technique was developed. While the report showed that her risk age was an alarming 50.3 years, the analysis revealed that she could reduce it to 33.5. If she stopped her heavy drinking, she would lower the chances of death from car accidents, cirrhosis and pneumonia, reducing her risk age by 11.8 years. If she stopped smoking, she would decrease the risk of heart disease, lung cancer, emphysema, pneumonia and stroke, subtracting two years from her effective risk age. Lowering her slightly elevated blood pressure could subtract another 1.3 bad news, of course. When California apyears. A variety of other steps - including regular Pap smears and breast selfexamination - would further reduce her risk age by 1.7 years.

Scenes like this are becoming more common in hospital, clinics, and doctors' offices around the country. The reason, doctors point out, is simple: "The appraisal is the best tool I have for getting somebody's attention," says Dr. Charles Ross of Interhealth, a San Diego company that computes risk analysis for many health institutions. "Everybody knows smoking is bad, for example, but this gives you the numbers and you can't hide

The analysis doesn't always produce

plied health-hazard appraisal to one 40year-old man, they found that he would use a seat belt and exercise more often, he could drop his risk age to 33.

The appraisal technique is too new for doctors to know precisely how effective it is in motivating patients. Nevertheless, the evidence that does exist is positive. For example, doctors at the Ames center used health-hazard appraisal on 488 patients and then picked 107 at random a year later for follow-up tests. The risk ages, the researchers found, had been reduced on the average by 1.4 years. Furthermore, 20 percent had made important life-style changes, such as losing weight or giving up smoking.

"I remember one man in particular," says the center's Dr. John Sherwood. "He was overweight, diabetic, hypertensive and rather accepting of the situation. His true age was 51. But his risk age was 66. When we showed him his appraisal, he took his situation a lot more seriously. He dropped 35 pounds, and began taking medicine for hypertension and doing something about his diabetes. His risk age is still a few years higher than his actual age, because of the diabetes. But he looks and feels better, and he's accomplished something his family doctor had been trying to get him to do for years. I

Well, almost, anyway

It seems the Pasadena city fathers craftily included within the town limits Houston Lighting and Power Co. and Crown Petroleum Co., both of which were paying taxes to Houston.

The Pasadena residents had visions of a tax-free city supported by revenues from

But the vision was flawed, Collie said, because Houston already had annexed for limited purposes the ship channel area including the two companies.

The firms, with the help of Houston and the state attorney general, filed a lawsuit to strike down the incorporation. Pasadena gave in without a fight, however, and the companies remained a part of Houston's tax portfelio.

As the two cities continued to grow, the territorial problems turned into a municipal range war as each fought for a greater tax base and room to grow. The dispute was settled in the early 1960s, with each saying the other got the better deal. The next skirmish came when Ellington Air Force Base was closed. Both Houston and Pasadena applied for ownership of the base golf course.

Even though the course was inside the Houston city limits, the government awarded it to Pasadena.

"Our getting the golf course was like capturing 150 acres of their territory," Harrison chuckled.

Pasadena and Houston went toe-to-toe again during the recent Metropolitan

Transit Authority campaign,
Houston was the major backer of the proposal to create a regional agency to oversee the development of mass transit in the Harris County area, while Pasadena led the fight against it. Each of the cities in the area could accept or reject the plan on a local option basis. The result was a draw, with Houston approving the plan while most of the

"The MTA was an absolute necessity for this area," Collie said. "I didn't reality see Pasadena's problem. They didn't have to take it if they didn't want to."

But Harrison said he fought the MTA because it would be dominated by Houston and run by the larger city in its own

"Houston got exactly what it wanted," he said. "They wanted a taxing authority to bail them out of the dilemma of having $20 million bite taken out of their tax dget for mass transit." Houston officials countered by saying Pasadena got what it wanted, as well — a transportation system that its residents could use without having to pay for it.

And that, they contend, is exactly what the current water litigation is all about they want Houston's water, but they don't want to pay for it.

Last January, Pasadena began paying Houston only for water it used, ignoring the "take-or-pay" provision in the contract that calls for it to buy a specific amount of water each month, whether it is used or not.

Pasadena claimed the 1971 contract was void because Houston had failed to deliver water to a second tie-in point on the Pasadena water system as agreed. In June, Houston filed a lawsuit to recover back payments for the difference between the water Pasadena took and the water for which it was supposed to Pasadena countered the following month with its own suit against Houston that challenged the "take-or-pay" con-tract provision as discriminatory.

"Houston has now created a monopoly for surface water in Harris County," Harrison said. "Their attitude is kind of like whoever controls the waterhole controls

Houston officials say Pasadena entered the contract voluntarily at a time when it could have found a way to get its own water rather than rely on Houston. "Houston spent millions of dollars to bring water to Pasadena," Collie said. "Pasadena could have built a water line to the Brazos if it wanted and gotten its own water.

"The fact is they owe us the mon ey...period," he said.

No matter what the outcome of the dispute, however, Houston officials will continue to shake their heads and shrug their shoulders when the subject of Pasadena

Yanks Journey To France For Celebration

"I have asked if they could be met by someone from the Ministry of Defense and perhaps someone from our foreign office," said Linton.

Stereotyping Seen In Books

NEW YORK (AP) - Books written for children create the stereotype perception of the elderly as passive, incompetent and sickly, according to Human Nature, a science magazine.

Despite legal advances against age discrimination, the portrayal of the elderly in children's books has not changed substantially in more than 20 years.

The finding was reported by Phyllis Barnum, a doctoral candidate in educational psychology at the University of Chicago.

Miss Barnum's conclusions were reached in a study of 100 books written for children from preschool through the

The percentage of people older than 65 appearing as characters or in illustrations was less than their representation in the population, she said.

Few Letters Noted On Test-Tube Baby

WASHINGTON (AP) - If Americans are concerned over the ethical questions surrounding test-tube babies, they aren't letting the government know about it.

On Sept. 15, Joseph A. Califano Jr., health, education and welfare secretary, directed a federal advisory board to "stimulate a national debate" over whether the department should fund research on laboratory fertilization of human eggs.

However since that time, the advisory board, which is holding public meetings in 10 different sections of the country, reports it has received only a few dozen letters on the issue.

Nurse Approves Sex After Heart Attacks

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) - Heart attack victims have normal sex lives but shouldn't have a cocktail or a heavy meal before making love, says a nurse who is the author of a booklet called "The Sensuous Heart."

Suzanne Cambre, the nurse, told a weekend meeting of the Georgia Heart Association that most heart attack victims can resume sexual activity after an initial recovery period.

But the nurse at Atlanta's Piedmont Hospital said sex after drinking alcohol or eating a heavy meal isn't wise for heart attack victims because their hearts are already under stress. Her booklet advises a three-hour delay in such cases.

Newspaper Agreement May Put End To Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — A tentative settle- ciliation Service. ment between pressmen and the New York Post is expected to put pressure on New York's two other dailies and may herald an end to the city's 71/2-week-old newspaper strike.

The Post, an afternoon tabloid, has been bargaining separately with the 1,500 striking pressmen since last week.

Although negotiators revealed their agreement to The Associated Press Sunday night, bargaining continued until dawn today before lawyers for the two sides were satisfied with the contract language. A ratification vote was scheduled for Tuesday.

Post publisher Rupert Murdoch and William Kennedy, president of the Printing Pressmen's Union No. 2, were not immediately available for comment.

The pressmen were scheduled to continue negotiations with The New York Times and the Daily News today at offices of the Federal Mediation and Councopies of the three papers have been sorely missed by readers and advertisers, and 10,000 workers have been out on the street while publishers' losses have mounted. Howard Squadron, legal counsel to the Post, announced the accord after eight hours of bargaining. He said then there was a chance the Post could be back on newsstands as early as Wednesday but later revised his prediction, saying that was overly optimistic. Before the afternoon paper can publish, it must settle with paperhandlers and machinists on strike against all three papers and the Newspaper Guild, whose editorial and commercial employees are striking only the Post.

The Guild was to resume talks with the Post on Tuesday.

The Post pulled out of joint negotiations with the Times and News and the pressmen last Wednesday to protest the participation of Theodore Kheel, the la-bor lawyer who for 15 years has mediated newspaper disputes here. Murdoch maintained that Kheel sought to interpose himself as a de facto arbitrator.

Commenting on the Post-pressmen agreement, Kheel said Sunday, "Obviously, he (Murdoch) knows something about collective bargaining I don't know. I am anxious to find out what it is so I can add it to my repertoire and thank him for his contribution to my education."

The AP learned that Murdoch told the pressmen he would be willing to accept many provisions of any contract they ultimately negotiated with the Times and News. But it was learned that Murdoch also insisted that the pressmen take into account that the Post has been losing money - with losses of $10 million reported in 1977.

The Post agreement with the pressmen covers three years and takes the newspaper's financial plight into account, The AP learned. It was understood to provide other trend-setting agreements at the papers - $68 over three years, with annual raises of $23, $23 and $22.

The Newspaper Deliverers, the pivotal union needed for management to put out a newspaper, have reached tentative accords with all three papers. Its president, Douglas LaChance, said Sunday he was happy with the Post agreement. "We're looking forward to returning to work,"

The principal item in dispute was what the papers regarded as over staffing of pressrooms and costly work rules that resulted in "featherbedding."

Contracts with 10 other unions expired March 30, but when management posted new work rules for the pressroom after bargaining had failed, the pressmen struck and the other unions honored picket lines, thereby closing down the

Wall Streeters Skeptical Of Inflation Prospects

By CHET CURRIER

NEW YORK (AP) — As the Carter administration readies its plans for a stepped-up assault on inflation, many Wall Streeters are skeptical, to say the least, about the prospects for success.

Some observers in the financial community contend that the kind of tough measures needed to break the inflationary spiral probably aren't politically possible, because the public doesn't want them and wouldn't accept them.

Two economists who separately have issued reports lately on the subject -- Albert M. Wojnilower of the First Boston Corp., and S. Jay Levy, Chappaqua, N.Y.-based author of a letter called "Industry Forecast" - summarized the inflation outlook with the same word: "Gloomy."

"It is gloomy because we are greedy," Levy said. "Although human nature does not seem to have changed much over the centuries, we have managed to become in some ways greedier than we ever were

"We have been indoctrinated by sophisticed salespersons, men and women who work in both the public and private sectors, to believe that our standards of living ought to be noticeably higher than they are. As a result we operate under the delusion that we can have more goods and services than we create.' In a speech he gave last week to a convention of the National Council on Teacher Retirement in San Diego, Wojnilower

"For the monetary authorities to resist inflationary pressures requires the community to accept higher unemployment and interest rates now, for the sake of an uncertain payoff in the future. Such is unlikely to become the will of the body poliously disruptive.

"The fact is that we are still in the relatively early and euphoric stages of infla-tion. ... With employment, incomes, prof-its and asset values all comfortably ahead of the game, and credit ample, the do-mestic constituency for disinflation — meaning belt-tightening for oneself and not just the other fellow — is pitifully

"As with addictions in general, it is not inflation itself but the withdrawal that is Wojnilower also asserted: "Inflation is a symptom of - possibly even fundamentally caused by - society's inability to resolve competing claims for shares of the pie. The most expedient way to deal with this problem is by overbooking giving out more reservations than there are seats and hoping that no one will find

"What we have been doing is to distribute more income and price supports and subsidies than can be made good in real

In this atmosphere, rising expectation mean demands for protection from infla-tion through pay increases, Levy ob-served. "Union members are only the most visible participants in our economy in this respect," he said. "Recent surveys have revealed that corporate executive have been attaining proportionately larger raises than rank and file employees.

"The worst aspect of this situation is that more and more members of our economic society are succeeding in insulating themselves from the effects of rising prices, and, as a result of this process, we are institutionalizing inflation."

Russian vehicles has landed in Montreal and is rolling out swiftly across the Canadian countryside.

Thousands more are coming, tucked in the holds of huge Soviet ships. Within months, they are expected to reach the United States

When that happens, U.S. motorists will get their first chance to buy and drive the Soviet-built Lada — a rugged subcompact car that made its North American debut

A spokesman for Satra Corp., a New York-based import firm that plans to distribute the Lada in the United States, said the car probably will begin arriving sometime in 1979.

First it must pass U.S. government safety and emissions certification and 'other technical matters" must be completed, he said. Meanwhile, a network of dealerships is being formed.

More than 900 Ladas have arrived in Canada since Aug. 17 and are selling at a rate of 20 a day. The Canadian version, called the Lada 1500S, lists for $3,650, has Police arrested four Lubbock men who reportedly were about to drive off from The Winner's Circle bar at 707 Amarillo Highway after it was burglarized shortly before 5 a.m. today.

The arrests came after police answered an alarm at the nightspot. Bar manager Billie Jo Johnson said $226 in change and liquor was taken from the business. The suspects, according to reports, were about to drive off when police arrived.

Police contacted G.C. Stalter about 3 a.m. today after discovering that his business, Stalter Brothers Food Mart at 1902 34th St., had been burglarized Stalter reported at least $300 in maga-

A woman, who waved down a motorist in the 200-block of 17th Street about 8 p.m. Sunday, was subsequently arrested after she asked her ride - a plainclothes police officer - if he wanted to have "a date" with her.

The 27-year-old suspect reportedly asked the detective if he wanted to have sex with her for $20, and that offer resulted in her being taken to the county jail. Two girls told police they were walking in the 1800-block of Salem Avenue about 6:40 p.m. Sunday when a man drove up, asked for directions and then exposed himself. The suspect allegedly laughed and then sped off after the incident.

Sheriff's deputies were investigating this morning the burglary of Bobby Dutton's residence at Rt. 4 Box 43, Lubbock, in which $1,500 in stereo equipment was taken. He said the break-in apparently occurred between 2 p.m. and 4:30 p.m.

No suspects had been arrested this morning in connection with the Sunday night robbery of the Shamrock service station at 301 N. University Ave.

After hitting and kicking the elderly attendant, a bandit made off with approximately $10 Sunday from the Norge Village Laundry at 4001 Ave. H in the city's latest strongarm robbery.

Claud Lang, the 78-year-old attendant, told police that about 7:45 a.m. Sunday a man entered the laundry and began hitting and kicking him.

Lang said that the man then grabbed his hands, which were full of change. The man took the money and ran out the west door of the laundry, he reported.

The attendant described the suspect as a tall, black male, of medium build, 50-60 years old, with graying hair and brown eyes. The man was wearing a white, longsleeve shirt, light dress pants and a gray vest, he said.

In other assaults, a 45-year-old man told officers that he received a small gunshot wound to his left calf as he began entering a 36th Street and Vanda Avenue

Thomas Edward Wigfall reported that about 9 p.m. Saturday he had just opened the screen door to the establishment when a shot went off striking him in the left leg. Mrs. John Wood called officers to the Panhandle South Plains Fair midway at 5 p.m. Saturday, telling them that a 25year-old man had just threatened to

"The plane buzzed the ship a couple of time indicating a distressed condition," Odom said. "Evidently they had lost all electrical systems on the aircraft and could not maintain their altitude. They ditched right alongside the vessel."

He said the survivors said they were unable to rescue the pilot because he was pinned between his chair and the instrument panel. The plane floated for 11 minutes and then sank in 2,100 feet of water. Odom said one of the survivors got a chemical burn from gasoline in the water after the crash landing. But the man was "resting comfortably" after a shower and change of clothes, Odom said.

The others had only superficial injuries, he said.

The men said they left Miami en route for San Juan, Puerto Rico, Sunday morning. Odom said. The plane crashed shortly before 6 p.m. Weather conditions at the time were tranquil, with an 11 knot wind from the north and only a one-foot chop on the Gulf.

"Although bears are rarely a danger to humans, they're making a nuisance of themselves this fall," Dr. James Lindzey, coordinator of state bear research programs and an associate professor at Penn State University, said.

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) - Most employees of the Norfolk & Western Railway were back on the job today for the first time since the railroad was struck July 10, but full operations were not expected to resume for another week.

Announcement By Bank Benefits U.S. Dollar

LONDON (AP)— The Swiss Mational Bank's weekend announcement that it will intervene "energetically" on foreign exchange markets to reduce the exchange value of the Swiss franc pushed the dollar up to 1.5955 francs today. It closed at 1.5495 Friday.

The dollar also gained against the British pound and the Japanese yen but slipped slightly against the West German mark and the French franc.

The British pound was weakened by speculation that the Labor Party at its annual conference opening today might force a confrontation with Prime Minister James Callaghan's government over its insistence on a 5 percent limit in pay increases. The pound dropped from $1.97435 at the close of trading Friday to

The Swiss National Bank announced Sunday that exchange rates for the Swiss franc were "clearly exaggerated" and it would "seek a quick and permanent reduction." It said it would buy dollars and other currencies "energetically" to bring the rates down and would take other measures if necessary.

The high value of the Swiss franc has increased the cost abroad of Swiss exports until they are in danger of being priced out of foreign markets. Meanwhile, Switzerland's tourist trade, one of its most important industries, is being hurt badly because the exchange rates make the country Europe's most expensive for foreigners.

In Alleged City Heist

By JACK DOUGLAS

Avalanche-Journal Staff Three men were arrested by police five minutes after they allegedly attempted to rob the Der Wienerschnitzel restaurant at 315 University Ave .

The suspects, a 23-year-old man and two 18-year-old men, were traveling in the 1300-block of N. University Avenue about 3 a.m. when they were stopped by officers.

The men were taken to the fast-food restaurant where employees identified the suspects as the ones who entered the business five minutes earlier and held them at gunpoint, according to police. Employee Daniel Villarreal, 16, said he was emptying trash behind the restaurant when he was approached by one of the suspects, a "tall man" armed with a shotgun. Villarreal said the man forced him back into the restaurant and into a back office nation to open it. Police were told that after the men learned they could not get to the money, they left. An employee of a restaurant next to the Der Wienerschnitzel said she saw the two suspects and another man thought to be involved running across a parking lot.

Police say Villarreal's watch was found in the suspects' car, and the shotgun thought to have been used in the holdup also was recovered from the vehicle.

Trial Date Set For Council Election Suit

A lawsuit challenging Lubbock's atlarge city council election system will be tried starting Dec. 11 in U.S. District Court here.

Since the trial is expected to be lengthy. U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward left free the week of Dec. 11, as well as the following week, for the trial.

Former Lubbock attorney Gene Gaines filed a class action suit against the city in 1976 in an attempt to have the city's election method declared unconstitutional and replaced with single-member districts.

Recently, Gaines moved to Dallas and was replaced as plaintiff by the Rev. Roy Jones, the local NAACP president.

The case was postponed several times, pending the outcome of a U.S. Supreme Court decision on a similar suit involving the City of Dallas.

In June, the court decided not to invalidate Dallas' election system, which combines an at-large and ward system.

The plaintiffs contend that the present at-large system in Lubbock dilutes the voting power of minorities, thus effectively denying them representation on the council.

Under a single-member district or ward system, the city would be divided into wards, with voters from each area electing a council member to represent them.

Three Held Pentagon Plans Tests For Drugs

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Highly unpopular urine testing is being expanded to cover 60 percent of all 18- to 20-year-olds in the armed forces every year as part of a crackdown on military drug abuse, UPI

John H. Johns, a newly appointed Pentagon drug and alcohol abuse aide, con-firmed the 60 percent rule and said in an interview it roughly would double the present testing level and include mass testing of entire units.

The order was issued by Deputy Defense Secretary Charles Duncan July 11. But establishment of quotas for the controversial testing was not mentioned when he ordered widespread testing as part of a program designed to detect and rehabilitate military drug users.

Random urine testing of all servicemen was ended two years ago by order of Congress and many units had all but halted tests even on suspected users because some courts have barred drug abuse discharges based on the findings. The tests are highly unpopular among the troops and are disliked as well by many commanders, who regard them as largely ineffective and not worth the dissension they cause The new Pentagon crackdown stemmed largely from a probe by the House Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control, charging that heroin use is widespread among GIs - including units in West Germany.

A "serious" problem, especially in Germany where Southeast Asian heroin is available cheaply, is acknowledged by Pentagon officials. But they say the committee overstated the situation.

Johns cited one surprise test in which the Army's entire 3,300-man Berlin Brigade was marched off for urinalysis at the close of the July 4 holiday weekend.

Results showed 4.2 percent of the soldiers as "positive" for heroin or other hard drugs. Johns said 50 of the "positives" were already in drug programs, and 94 others were ordered into rehabilitation or counselling programs.

Johns recently retired from the Army as a one-star general and holds an advanced degree in social psychology.

He said the Pentagon faces hard and politically difficult decisions on the effiriency of its current approach, especially the rehabilitation and education programs that center on classroom lectures and "have no credibility."

Military statistics claim 71 percent of marijuana users have been "rehabilitated" and 92 percent of those in hard drug programs completed treatment within

"About all our figures mean," Johns said, "is we just don't catch them again for at least a year. It may be the best thing to do is discharge these people and

Canadian Oil Tank Erupts

MISSISSAUGA, Ontario (AP) - A tank holding 2 million gallons of fuel oil exploded into flames today at a Texaco Canada refinery in this Toronto suburb, forcing the evacuation of more than 1,000 area residents, officials reported.

One firefighter was reported injured. The extent of his injuries was not known. An evacuation was ordered after the blaze began at about 2 a.m., but residents were allowed to return to their homes several hours later. Then they were ordered out again when firefighters said there was a danger that a second tank might catch fire. Authorities had said a second tank did burst into flames, but they later withdrew that report, saying smoke and shooting flames confused onlookers.

mourners huddling out of the rain filed into St. Peter's Basilica today for a last glimpse of the body of Pope John Paul I. "People loved him," explained one of those on line, Giovanni Oliviere.

"He was a real pastor of the people. He's left a personal example of what the people want, which will be difficult for his successor to follow," said the 35-yearold Oliviere, standing beneath the Bernini colonnade in St. Peter's Square.

The start of a new work week reduced the size of the crowds today. On Sunday an estimated 300,000 people braved pelting rain to view the body after it was brought from the papal palace to a catafalque in front of the main altar of Christendom's largest church.

Pope Paul, who died on Aug. 6 after a reign of 15 years, left instructions that he was to be buried "in the simple earth," and workmen had to dig through six feet of rock to carry out his wish. His grave is topped by a simple slab. But Vatican officials said no burial instructions from Pope John Paul had been found, and the Vatican decided what would be done.

By coincidence, the tomb will be opposite that of another pope who had an even shorter reign, Marcellus II. He died in the 16th century after only 22 days on the throne of St. Peter.

The transcript covered all comments from ground to air and back before and after the Cessna and a Pacific Southwest Airlines 727 collided over the North Park residential area of San Diego a week ago.

At least 144 persons died, including seven on the ground, said Deputy County Coroner Max Murphy. He said during the weekend that the death figure was revised downward from 150 to 144. He said six persons believed killed on the ground were not in their homes at the time of the

A spokesman for the National Transportation Safety Board said in an interview with The Associated Press Sunday that the impact between the planes may have ruptured the jetliner's hydraulic system, in effect killing its power steering and some braking power.

The spokesman, Rudolph Kapustin, who heads the 100 investigators looking into the cause of the crash, said, "The aileron on the right wing was fully deflected and pointing upward," indicating that despite damage to the wing, the plane's steering mechanism wasn't knocked out

Ailerons are hinged sections along the trailing edge of the wing that enable the pilot to control the rolling movements of the plane.

Kapustin said the PSA pilot and his first officer appeared to have tried to control the jet from the instant of the collision to the crash on the ground, "about a half minute's time."

"Fire broke out immediately, leaving an indication that the fuel tank was damaged" when the jet's right wing was hit,

Kapustin said further that he was unable to find any truth to published reports that there had been "bantering and joking" before the crash in the cockpit of the jetliner, which carried 135 people.

He said the cockpit conversation would be made public at a hearing that may be held in November.

Two off-duty PSA pilots were reportedly in the cockpit jumpseats after joining the regular three-man crew of the Sacramento-to-San Diego flight. Kapustin said he couldn't confirm the number of persons in the cockpit, but said the recordings provided no indication that either the pilot or copilot was distracted.

"It sounded like a low-level conversation, such as I conducted myself in a jumpseat with another jumpseat rider," Kapustin said, after studying the tapes.

The activities and conversations that take place in the jumpseats have absolutely no relevance to the operations of the flight," Kapustin said.

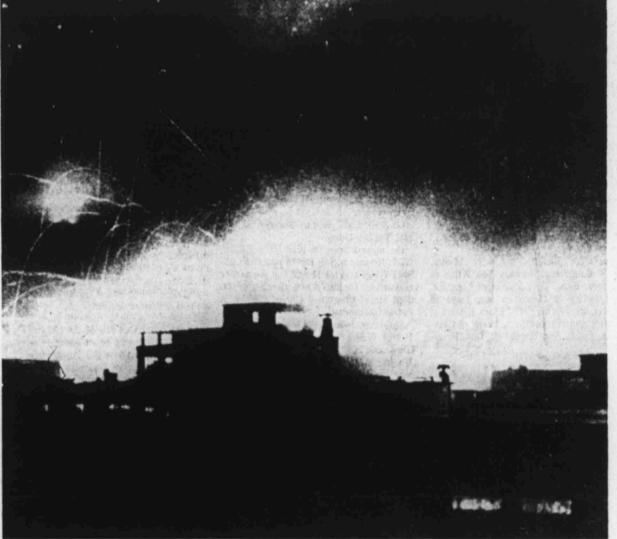

There was no voice recorder inside the single-engine Cessna, in which a flying instructor was aiding a Marine Corps sergeant in practice landing approaches to Lindbergh Field.

About 500 people attended an interfaith memorial service for the crash victims Sunday at Balboa Park.

Syrians Rescue Troops As Shells Blast Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Syrian commandos, advancing during the night under cover of one of the heaviest artillery and rocket barrages in local memory, rescued 50 Syrian soldiers trapped by Christian militiamen in East Beirut.

Rightists said 32 Lebanese were killed and more than 200 wounded in the overnight flare-up. Sixteen buildings were demolished and 61 apartments were set on A Syrian communique said the soldiers.

including seven seriously wounded men, had been cut off for two days. The two-hour rescue operation was carried out early today after negotiations with Christian political leaders failed to obtain release of the men, and "militiamen opened intense machine-gun fire on the beleaguered unit in violation of the cease-fire agreement," the communique A Christian spokesman charged that the Syrians broke the truce Sunday afternoon with an abortive attempt to get through to the besieged troops, who were trapped in a pharmacy they took over during a cease-fire that began Saturday. "All four Syrian assaults, launched behind intensive artillery and rocket fire, were repulsed by Lebanese forces," the spokesman said

After midnight the Syrians opened up again with artillery, rockets, mortars and machine guns, and then the commandos advanced. The Syrians said they stopped shooting after the rescue, but the Christians said they were battling Syrian forces for two major bridges that control the northern approaches to the Christian sector of Beirut.

The heavy barrage subsided at daybreak, but all routes into Christian East Beirut were blocked by Syrian roadblocks and sniper fire. Telephone connections were also cut, and reporters in the Moslem western half of the city could not get through.

Police estimated that 215 civilians had been killed and about 500 wounded in fighting since · Wednesday that has clogged East Beirut's morgues and hospitals and drained blood banks.

The Christians said more than 30 bodies were pulled from the rubble of collapsed buildings in one area during the lull in fighting.

President Carter and U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim issued a joint statement-urging universal observance of a cease-fire in Lebanon and pledging they would do all they could to seek a political solution there. Carter and Waldheim discussed the crisis in Orlando, Fla., where they addressed an International Chamber of Commerce convention.

The Syrians intervened in the Lebanese civil war late in 1976 to prevent the Christians from being defeated by the leftwing Lebanese Moslems and their allies, the Palestinian guerrillas. But the Christians refused to disarm their militiamen and submit their areas to Syrian control because the Syrians would not disarm the

The Syrians were angered further by the Christians' alliance with the Israelis in southern Lebanon to prevent the Palestinians taking control there. Now the Syrians are trying to bring the Christians under their control.

Investigation Continues In Bombings

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Eight bombings in September are only an unpleasant memory for most residents of the westside community of Speedway. But for authorities and the couple injured by the last explosion, unanswered questions remain.

Federal authorities have made no arrests in the bombings that began Sept. 1 in the quiet community of 17,000, site of the Indianapolis 500-mile race each May.

The explosions came without warning. Seven of them caused no injuries. The eighth blast on Sept. 6 in the Speedway High School parking lot injured Sandy and Carl DeLong, both 39.

Mrs. Delong is recuperating at home from leg injuries. Her husband lost a portion of his right leg when he kicked a gym bag containing the bomb. He is hospitalized in satisfactory condition.

U.S. Attorney Virginia Dill McCarty said Sunday that the federal investigation is continuing. She refused to comment on reports that the bombings were linked to the July 29 murder of Speedway resident Julia Scyphers, 65. No arrests have been made in the murder

The Indianapolis Star and the Indianapolis News have reported that federal authorities suspect a local businessman may have been responsible for the bombings and the murder.

The News has quoted unidentified sources as saying the bombings were "diversionary tactics" to steer authorities from the murder investigation. The newspaper said it had learned that officials had confiscated timing devices from a car reportedly owned by the man.

Nosy Shark Hampers Marathon Swim Try ABOARD THE IDLE DAY (AP) - A

white-tip shark came within a few feet of marathon swimmer Stella Taylor shortly after dawn today, forcing her briefly from the water.

But the shark was killed with a single shot from a .44-caliber magnum, and Miss Taylor, 46, was soon back in the water, resuming her 70-strokes-a-minute pace on her quest to swim from Bimini to Florida

If successful, she would be the first person to complete the 140-mile course.

Aides have estimated that if all went well, she could reach Florida by evening. When the shark alert sounded, Miss Taylor was quickly shepherded to a small platform at the rear of the support boat. She stayed there for 10 minutes while the shark was kiled with a "bang stick" - a long pole with a single-round, contactfired gun on the end.

Miss Taylor's supporters have maintained that her leaving the water under such circumstances would have no effect on her attempt for a record

About a half-hour later, Miss Taylor her face puffed and showing signs of exhaustion as she continued swimming told a reporter: "I've had a rough night. I vomited four times. They (jellyfish) really stung me." Then, almost plaintively, she added:

"But it isn't very far now, is it?"

At 6 a.m. CDT, she was 20 miles north and 42 miles west of her starting point on Orange Cay, which lies 48 miles south of the main Bimini group.

That position put her about 45 miles southeast of Miami, which is about 60 miles south of her target beaches in the Palm Beach area. She was swimming a westerly course, but because of the strong northward current of the Gulf Stream, her actual direction of progress was to the northwest

The chipper, British-born swimmer, who studied to be a nun, has twice conquered the English Channel, but failed in her first attempt six weeks ago to swim from the Bahamas to the Florida coast. Miss Taylor began her swim at 10:40 a.m. Sunday at Orange Cay, a dot of an island 48 miles south of Bimini Six hours into the swim, she suffered an attack of nausea, but recovered. She was periodically rubbed down with petroleum jelly in an attempt to protect her from the jellyfish. "I'm being stung more," she reported to aides as the swim continued. Late Sunday, she suffered even more painful stings when she twice encountered the venomous tentacles of the Portuguese man-of-war.

After darkness fell, an alert sounded as an 8-foot shark was sighted beneath a boat about 100 yards behind Miss Taylor. A guard with a rifle fired into the sea and the shark was not seen again. Miss Taylor is swimming without a protective shark

By PHILIP GREER And MYRON KANDEL The Case That Won't Go Away is still bubbling through Wall Street, raising questions and producing charges and counter-charges, months after it supposedly was laid to rest.

The suit centered on trading in the stock of Technicare Corp. of Solon, Ohio, a manufacturer of so-called "CAT" scanners, a computerized kind of X-ray machine. The case was filed in March, 1977 - and dropped last May - charging that a group of short-sellers (who sell borrowed stock in anticipation of a decline in price) knew in advance of sour reports on the company that were written by Alan Abelson, managing editor of Barron's Weekly. Abelson, Barron's and the short-sellers all denied the charges, some of them in angry outbursts.

After going through some of the preliminary steps, the charges were all dropped when federal judge Robert L. Carter in New York signed an order to that effect on May 3.

With everybody in the clear, the only thing left was who should foot the bill for the costs of the case. That's where the latest round of battling has erupted. A number of one-time defendants have become the accusers, charging that the suit never had any solid basis in the first place and that its main purpose was to shore up the price of Technicare's stock (which rose about 30 percent after the suit was filed and after the company issued a good earnings report).

The erstwhile plaintiffs deny any such motive, but an examination of court papers turns up some interesting angles. In an affidavit filed earlier this month, attorney Gordon Walker of Hale and Dorr in Boston, who represented the plaintiff, a New York dentist, filled the better part of 25 pages with a recounting of the investigation he conducted before and after the suit reached the courts.

In a motion with the affidavit, Hale and Dorr conceded that one of the chief reasons for getting into court quickly "was plaintiff's concern over the damage being done to the value of Technicare's stock by reason of Abelson's many adverse articles and the extraordinary degree of short selling in the stock."

The papers go on to say that "knowledgeable persons" warned that if the seling continued, the stock would drop below a technical support level at $30 a share and generate even more sell-

There isn't any question that the number of Technicare shares sold short was very high. Normally, analysts consider a short position "healthy" — a comfortable cushion for the stock because eventually the borrowed shares must be bought in - when it equals about two days or so of average trading. In Technicare's case, the short interest soared to more than 20 days' trading, a ratio many analysts consider too dangerous for shorts because any good news could set off a buy-in Support levels - areas in which a stock has attracted buyers before or where buying is expected to show up — can be significant technical mileposts, but their location often depends on each analyst's interpretation of stock charts.

In his affidavit, Walker says he spend nearly 300 hours on the case before it was filed and more after. He describes meetings with staff members of the Securities and Exchange Commission and the New York Exchange who were looking into Technicare trading.

Neither of them has ever taken any action, however, and the short-sellers says the probes were both the result of telephone complaints from a single investor.

One of the people Walker says he spoke to - and the may have been sorry later - is Richard Grimm, president of Technicage. Grimm, it turned out, taped the conversation without telling Walker and the transcript ended up as part of the case. Walker says it shows how carefully he worked to make sure his case was solid: the other side says it shows just the opposite. Barring some kind of settlement, the arguing figures to go on until Judge Carter decides who should pay what. Some sources say the costs could run into several hundred thousand dollars.

Often, she was criticized as a radicalwho went too far.

After the Civil War, she made enemies of former allies among the abolitionists, by insisting that if women did not gain the right to vote, then freed black men should not be enfranchised either.

She called her newspaper "The Revolu-tion" and in 1872, she tried to test the law by voting in Rochester, N.Y. She became a cause celebre when she was arrested, tried and convicted - but not sent to jail, thus thwarting an appeal.

Yet, as a young woman, she had criticized two colleagues for dressing too stylishly - frivolously, she thought. Near the end of her career, she disapproved of her friend Elizabeth Cady Stanton's efforts to write a feminist translation of the Bible. But there was a common thread. Al-

Texas Prison Reform Suit Goes On Trial

HOUSTON (AP) - A lawsuit alleging conditions in Texas prisons are so harsh that they constitute cruel and unusual punishment comes to trial today in U.S. District Court.

The suit was filed by convicted robber David Ruiz, 36. The Justice Department intervened on his behalf and has conducted an investigation that began in 1974.

FBI agents have conducted 400 interviews to gather evidence for the trial before U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice. The case includes lawsuits filed by five other inmates.

in the Texas Department of Corrections are overcrowded, that they are denied medical care, brutalized by guards and fellow inmates, endangered by unsafe living and working conditions and denied appeal to the courts.

The prisoners complain that conditions

The Justice Department, in pretrial briefs, said conditions are "so oppressive as to produce deprivation psychosis and to drive some of its residents to attempt suicide, some unfortunately successful.'

But the state denies the allegations, saying its prison system is one of the best in the nation. One witness for the state, prison expert Fred T. Wilkinson, said."It has not been possible to devise a system in the inherently unhappy situation of a prison that will be free of discord, but the TDC record is superior to any major system which which I am familiar.

Life support systems have maintained Roger Ragland of Dripping Springs since Thursday when monitoring devices indicated his brain still was active, although he had been declared dead the night before. He was in the intensive care unit of Breckenridge Hospital early today, functioning with the aid of a respirator. Ragland's parents maintained their vigil in the hospital waiting room but the teenager's father would not comment about the unusual circumstances that followed his son's involvement in an automobile accident.

"I'd just rather not saying anything about it. But thanks for your call and understanding," the father told UPI.

Ragland was alive only because he was considered a likely donor for a kidney trnsplant after doctors had declared him dead. He arrived at the hospital about an hour after his pickup truck struck a telephone pole, pinning him beneath the ve-

Ragland was declared dead, his family was notified and a funeral home phoned his death notice to a newspaper reporter. But doctors placed him on a respirator for about 12 hours while they ran tests to determine if he could serve as a kidney transplant donor.

On Thursday, Dr. James Lindley was preparing to make the organ transplant but discovered Ragland showed signs of renewed brain wave activity.

Lindley said Ragland's accident had left him with "a horrible, severe brain injury." When he arrived at the hospital, Ragland showed the classic signs of death his blood pressure was almost zero and his eyes were fixed and dilated.

"He had all the neurological signs of brain death," Lindley said.

Portions of the front part of Ragland's brain were damaged and surgically removed, Neely said.

A person can function without that part of the brain, but the neurosurgeon said it would prevent a return to normal life.

BURNET (AP) — An autopsy has been ordered on the body of a Fort Hood soldier who was shot to death by sheriff's deputies after leading officers on a wild, high-speed chase through two Central Texas counties in a stolen highway patrol

Spec. 4 David Samuel Fullington was killed early Sunday when Burnet County deputies opened fire on him as he crashed through a roadblock about 12 miles east of Burnet on Texas 12, according to Sheriff Roy Hilliard.

Officials at nearby Fort Hood said Fullington was from Illinois, but refused to give a hometown untown his relatives were notified.

"He had tried to run over two of my deputies and me," said Hilliard. "Then he ran this roadblock. Fullington was deceased by gunfire."

But a Department of Public Safety spokesman said officers opened fire only after Fullington raised on hand holding what officers mistook for a gun.

Hilliard declined to comment on details of the shooting. "It's under investigation." he said.

Three companions with Fullington were arrested and jailed in Burnet on charges of public intoxication. Fullington's body was taken to Austin for an au-

Before Fullington was shot, Hilliard said, he drove a stolen Department of Public Safety patrol car across fences and over pastures, rammed a deputy's car, ran Hilliard off the road and wore the rubber off all four tires.

The incident began shortly after 2 a.m. when DPS officer Ray Priest of Burnet tried to stop a speeding vehicle on Texas 29, but the driver tried to outrun the officer.

"The officer pursued the car at speeds over 110 mph, called for local assistance and finally pulled the car over," said DPS spokesman Richard Grimmett. He said the driver of the car, Fullington, was apparently drunk. "Priest handcuffed the driver with his hands behind his back and placed him in the right front seat of the patrol car.

While Priest was searching three other men in the car, Fullington managed to slip out of the handcuffs. He drove east on Texas 29 in Priest's squad car," Grimmett said. He said Fullington drove through a fence, across a pasture, and back onto the road.

"He then ran Sheriff Hilliard off the road and rammed another Burnet County deputy's car," the DPS spokesman said.

Fullington then headed east into Williamson County, but made a quick u-turn when he encountered officers from that county, Grimmett said. Shortly after that he was stoped at the roadblock set up near the Williamson-Burnet county line by Hilliard and his deputies. "He had a hand raised. They saw metal which they thought to be a han and opened fire. Grimmett said.

But parenting isn't like that. There are 30 million parents out there with kids between the ages of 18-55 who drift in and out of their lives like a revolving door.

The empty nest syndrome is overrated. I have heard of some parents who moved during the night to another city (and left no forwarding address). Others have installed pay showers. Still another parent I know waited until her son got up one night to use the bathroom, then painted his room pink and rented it to a pocket computer salesman

No parent likes to change locks, but the situation is definitely getting out of hand. Children simply aren't leaving the home after school anymore as they did in the '60s. When they do, they multiply and come back

So how do you displace an aging teenager? It isn't easy. When our son's bedroom began to take on the appeal of a roadside zoo (complete with sawdust on the floor), we took action. First, we set the table for two. This made him aware that he was not expected for dinner. Second, we intercepted his mail, wrote "No such person at this address" and had it returned to the post office for for-We posted signs in the hallway reading, "OCCUPANCY BY MORE THAN

TWO IN THIS HOUSE IS A FIRE HAZ-We were considering telling him he would have to share his room with the family pet (and buying a wolf) when we came up with a daring but cruel idea. We stopped stocking the refrigerator. I'll never forget the look of fear in that child's eyes standing in front of the refrigerator door (the hairs in his nose becoming frosted) saying, "Is that all there is?" if I live to be a hundred. We never saw him again.

You hear a lot of dialogue on the death of the American family. Families aren't dying. They're merging into big conglomerates. Daughters and sons who are between roommates (legal and lethal) drift in and approach the desk like they're in a hotel asking, "Is my old room still available?" Cribs and strollers appear with babies. Cars and special menus are requested.

I rechecked my child psychology book the other day for the answer and wondered, "Is there life after the index?"

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column, you wrote: "May I point out a common misconception (no pun intended) - that the Immaculate Conception is the same as the Virgin Birth. Not so!

'Mary - not Jesus - was the Immaculate Conception! The Bible tells us that Mary was born without original sin on her soul because she was destined to be the Mother of Christ.'

Abby, your facts are correct - with one exception. It was not the Bible that tells us the above, but Pope Pius IX! In 1854, His Holiness proclaimed and defined a new dogma of the Immaculate Conception of the Virgin Mary: "In the first instance of her conception, by a singular privilege and grace granted by God, in view of the human race, the Virgin Mary was preserved exempt from all stain of original sin.'

Respectfully submitted by, REV. L.W. VAN DELLEN WISCONSIN RAPIDS, WISC.

DEAR ABBY: The girl involved is very dear to us. She's a college graduate, as is the young man she is going with. He is the problem. They always use her car when they date. We believe he never uses his car unless he absolutely has to because he's too cheap to buy gas.

For Christmas he gave her a bottle of cheap perfume, and her Easter outfit had no flowers. For her birthday he gave her nothing.

Bumming free meals is his specialty. He does it so smoothly you don't realize until you've invited him that he cleverly maneuvered the invitation. The girl can't see what a free-loading cheapskate he is, and we (her family) would like her to open her eyes before it's too late.

How can we gently let her know what kind of person he is? We are afraid if we point out his faults, it might drive her closer to him

A SICK MOTHER

Dear Mother: Your last sentence was right on target. Say nothing. People who are emotionally involved see only what they want to see.

DEAR ABBY: Three weeks ago my mother died. Last week, right out of the blue, my sister said, "I forgot to give you this," and she dropped my mother's wedding ring in my lap! It seems that the people at the funeral home removed it and gave it to my sister at the time of the funeral. She thought that since I was the oldest daughter, I should have it.

Abby, that ring had been on my mother's finger for 38 years, and it should have been buried with her. I don't want it!

I can't bear to look at that ring. It's driving me crazy. All I can think of when I see it, is how much I wish it were with Mother now - where it belongs. Please SICK AT HEART

Dear Sick: Find someone in your family who will appreciate the ring, and give it to her - or him.

11 The Savior - yes, the Messiah, the Lord - has been born tonight in Bethlehem!

12 How will you recognize Him? You will find a baby wrapped in a blanket, lying in a manger!"

13 Suddenly, the angel was joined by a vast host of others — the armies of heaven — praising God: 14 "Glory to God in the highest heaven," they sang, "and peace on earth for all those pleasing Him." When this great army of angels had returned again to heaven, the shepherds said to each other,

"Come on! Let's go to Bethlehem! Let's see this wonderful thing that has happened, which the Lord has told us about." 16 They ran to the village and found their way to 18 Everyone who heard the shepherds' story expressed astonishment,

19 But Mary quietly treasured all these things in her heart and often thought about them.

20 Then the shepherds went back to their fields and flocks again, praising God for the visit of the angels and because they had seen the child, just as the angel had told them they would.

What action do you take? A .- Normally you would pass partner's response of two spades, for that is a weak bid. However, in support of spades, your hand is worth more than 18 points because you have a wealth of prime cards, a ruffing value and a side five-card suit. Your hand just merits a raise to three spades, inviting partner to go on to game if he has a maximum.

Nevertheless, you are too weak to take any voluntary action at this point. Pass the decision around to partner. If he has a reasonable hand, he won't let the auction die at two clubs, and you may be able to show your spades at your next turn.

Italian, French, German, Greek, Swedish, Chinese, Jewish, Polish, Hungarian — whatever your culinary roots — you'll find calorie-edited versions of your favorite ethnic entres, redesigned for American kitchens and calorie-consciousness.

As always, we've tried to shortcut unneeded effort as well as the excess calories, fat, sugar and starch in many "ethnic" dishes. The recipes use ingredients available in most supermarkets, and equipment on hand in most American kitchens.

In keeping with today's trends to smaller families, the majority of main courses are designed for only four servings. Some are for just one or two, with directions for increasing quantities. Recipes are flexible, with suggestions for alternate ingredient or cooking methods: crockpot, pressure cooker and microwave, for example.

U.S. Grocery Prices Show Dramatic Increase

Associated Press Writer Bargain hunters had a hard time trackng down good buys at the supermarket last month. An Associated Press marketbasket survey showed price increases during September outnumbered decreases by almost two to one.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood items, checked the price at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1. 1973 and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month. One item, chocolate chip cookies, was dropped from the list at the end of November 1977 because the manufacturer discontinued the package size used in the

Among the highlights of the latest survey:

- The marketbasket bill at the checklist store went up in nine cities and down in four last month. On an overall basis, the average marketbasket bill at the start of October was 1.1 percent higher than it was a month earlier. During August, in contrast, the average bill dropped by 1.2

- A look at the total number of items showed that 49 increased in price while only 27 declined. There were about the same number of increases in September s there were in August, but there were only two-thirds as many decreases. There were no widespread sales like the Labor

Day specials that helped lower the Sept. 1

- The boosts hit hardest at staple items. Eggs increased in price at the checklist store in eight cities; frankfurters went up in seven cities; and butter and milk each increased in five cities.

Egg prices generally have been following seasonal trends. At the start of the vear, the marketbasket survey showed that the average price of a dozen, medium white eggs at the checklist store was just over 76 cents. By July 1, the average was down to 62 cents a dozen and by the start of October it was back to 76 cents.

- The marketbasket bill at the start of October was an average of 6 percent higher than it was at the beginning of 1978, with the total increasing at the checklist store in every city.

Government experts are predicting that food prices alone will rise 10 percent this year. They originally had anticipated a 3 to 6 percent boost, but were forced to revise their forecasts because a smallerthan-expected increase in the supply of pork and poultry and heavy rains in California which disrupted planting.

Last month, in testimony before a Senate subcommittee. Howard Hjort of the USDA said retail food prices during the final quarter of 1978 should remain fairly stable. "Lower prices for red meat and poultry along with seasonally lower prices for fresh fruit should about offset moderate price increases in most other

Here is a look at the percentages of increases and decreases during August and

No attempt was made to weight the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what percent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents.

The day of the week on which the check was made varied depending on the month. Standard brands and sizes were used when available. If the requested size and brand was not available on March 1, 1973, a comparable substitute was selected. Items temporarily out of stock on one of the survey dates being compared were not included in the over-

The AP did not attempt to compare actual prices from city to city - to say, for example, that eggs cost more in one area than another. The only comparisons were made in terms of percentages of increase or decrease - saying a particular item went up 10 percent in one city and 6 percent in another.

The USDA marketbasket issued each month is based on a complex set of statistics. It includes 65 retail items of U.S. farm-produced foods in amounts that theoretically could supply a household of 3.2 persons for one year. The department, which draws on information from 1,500 supermarkets in compiling its report, says the figures do not correspond to actual family food spending and are used mainly to illustrate changes in costs.

The items on the AP checklist were: chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, milk, frankfurters and granulated

The cities checked were: Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Ga., Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, Salt Lake City and Seattle. Here is a city-by-city breakdown of what happened during September: ALBUQUERQUE: The marketbasket went from $16.95 to $16.80, down ninetenths of a percent. Increases in the price of eggs and peanut butter were offset by declines in the cost of chopped chuck and sugar. Everything else was unchanged. ATLANTA: The marketbasket went from $16.37 to $16.62, up 1.5 percent. Orange juice, butter, detergent, milk and frankfurters increased; coffee and eggs decreased: the other seven items were unchanged.

BOSTON: The marketbasket went from $16.54 to $17.61, up 6.5 percent, sale at 89 cents for five pounds, returned to the normal price of $1.39. Butter, eggs, milk and frankfurters also increased; everything else was unchanged.

CHICAGO: The marketbasket went from $13.15 to $12.61, down 4.1 percent. There were no increases, while chopped chuck, paper towels, eggs, tomato sauce and frankfurters all decreased. Vance Still Hopeful For SALT Accord

State Cyrus R. Vance says he is still hopeful the United States and the Soviet Union can reach a new arms limitation agreement by the year's end despite a disappointing conclusion to their latest

Vance and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko held an "intensive and useful" negotiating session on Sunday but failed to bridge the gap on the remaining issues separating them.

Intensive and useful are diplomatic code words that often suggest a lack of progress. None of the remarks made by Vance and Gromyko on Sunday indicated

With Gromyko at his side at the end of the unusual 21/2-hour Sunday session, Vance said, "Obviously, we have not reached agreement on all the issues."

But both said they agreed to resume the talks in Moscow in the second half of October. Vance said later that the third week of the month was the most likely

Once that objective is attained, technical details must be ironed out, a process that would take about a month. Thus, if the two sides are successful in the Moscow talks, the final text could be ready before the end of the year, which has been the administration's target.

Asked about the deadline on Sunday, Vance said, "I don't change my view at all on that.

Gromyko was said to have reported new U.S. ideas to Moscow after a Saturday White House session led by President Carter. It was not clear, however, if he brought replies with him to the Sunday session.

Vance suggested that until Sunday, at least, the talks had produced "constructive movement.

The two countries are in a "trade-off" phase of the negotiations, in which concessions by one side in one area are made only if the other does the same in a different area.

Everything is interlinked with every other part," Vance said Sunday.

The two countries have been trying to reach a new accord for six years. It is anticipated that final agreement will lead to the first summit meeting between President Carter and Soviet President Leonid

Vance acknowledged that the possibility of a summit has come up in the talks, but he declined further details

Among the issues under negotiation are the kinds of new missiles each side will be allowed under the agreement plus restrictions on the Soviet Backfire bomber and the U.S. cruise missile.

The minimum advance booking period has been reduced from 45 to 30 days; flights can now be arranged for smaller groups of 20 instead of 40 members, and tourists need only stay a minimum six nights instead of 10 to 14 days in the United States, the ministry said.

However, minimum prices stay unchanged at, for instance, 807 marks (about $403.50) for an in-season round-trip flight between Frankfurt and New York and 731 marks ($345.50) for an off-season flight on the same route.

annual harvest of fur seals on St. Paul and St. George, the specks of land which make up the Pribilof Islands.

Under an international treaty governing the fur seal harvest in the Pribilofs, only Aleuts are permitted to kill the animals. The highly prized furs are shipped to a processor in the lower 48 states, and he islanders keep the meat.

Bob Spitzfaden, an attorney representing Tanadgusix, said the Anchorage repesentative of a Japanese company had greed earlier this year to buy the meat at 23 cents a pound.

The Federal Trade Commission today launched an investigation into whether bill collectors are following a new law forbidding threats, impersonating police officers and harassing telephone calls.

The FTC, enforcing the law on the books since March 20, asked consumers to report collectors who have violated its long list of prohibitions

The agency's Lewis Goldfarb said it has received more than a thousand complaints about bill collectors since the law took ef-

He said some of the complaints involve abusive calls and collectors who contacted employers, neighbors and friends - practices the law was designed to stop in the $5 billion-a-year collection industry.

The FTC is also looking into possible loopholes in the law, which applies only to "third party" collectors, those who collect money owed to someone else.

Grocery Stores' Profits Decline

store supermarket profits dropped by almost a third in the past year, despite increases in the price of groceries, say two Cornell University anavsts who blame much of the decline on rising expenses for retailers.

Wendell Earle, professor of marketing, and Willard Hunt, a research specialist, studied 53 companies operating 8,021 stores. They compared profits for the stores. They compared profits for the year ended in April 1978 with those in the preceeding 12 months.

Earle and Hunt found net earnings for food chains dropped during the year from about two-thirds of a cent per dollar of sales to just over half a cent per dollar. In the late 1960s, profits were near a penny per dollar of sales.

In terms of returns on investment, net arnings of the chains studied represented 7.47 percent of net worth in 1977-78 compared with 9.38 percent a year ear-

The Cornell team said the drop in earnings was due to an increase in debt, decreased returns on investment and higher expenses, particularly for labor. Costs

Antique Lobster Spared

WESTPORT, Conn. (UPI) - A 200ear-old lobster named Duke is living free in Long Island Sound today thanks to some people who thought he should be spared the indignity of the dinner table.

Sunday about 9 a.m., Robotham and Franz joined the store's lobsterman on a small boat which churned three or four miles out into Long Island Sound to drop Duke into 200 feet of ocean water.

Franz himself lowered Duke into the depths before returning home to start the clambake with about 25 smaller lobsters. 'I was confident he'd make it," Franz said. "He was in pretty good shape.

The supermarket industry, meanwhile, has started a campaign to get its view of food prices and inflation across to the public. The Food Marketing Institute, whose 900 members operate 24,000 grocery stores, including chains and individual outlets, is distributing to retailers booklets on ways to save at the supermar-

Saving money on groceries means spending time to shop carefully. It also means learning where your dollars go

- How much of your food bill actually is spent on food? Studies show consumers spend up to one-fourth of their grocery budget on non-food items like paper goods, toiletries, etc. Supermarket profits on non-foods are up to twice as high as those on foods and stores often arrange these items to encourage sales. End-of-aisle displays may be designed to catch your eye and entice you into buying something on impulse. Stop and think before you reach.

Watch for hidden price rises. You may suddenly notice, for example, that the brand of paper towels you always buy has fewer sheets per roll or each sheet may be smaller. The dollars-and-cents price may be the same, but the real cost is higher. It might pay to switch brands.

- What are you willing to pay for convenience? Individual serving packets, pre-prepared foods and special cooking pouches usually add to the grocery bill. Do you really need those pieces of paper in between the cheese slices, for example? Some so-called convenience foods actually cost less than items made from scratch; others are much more expensive. The only way to tell is to add up all

- Suit size to need. Larger sizes are usually cheaper per ounce or pound, but they are not always practical. Use unit price labels to compare products and sizes. These labels tell you not only the cost of the item, but also its price per ounce, etc. Large sizes that are labeled with a name which implies a price advantage -'Economy Pack," for example - must, by law, cost less per unit than regular sizes. This does not apply, however, to items with names like "Giant Size" which refer to quantity.

- Compare cost per serving. Don't assume, for example, that the meat with the lowest per-pound price is the best value. Figure out how many servings you will get from a pound after the bones and fat are thrown away and the meat is cooked. Then check prices.

- Take advantage of specials, but make sure you really are saving money. Something advertised as a "special" or displayed on a separate counter may not necessarily be cheaper than usual. Federal regulations require that any product marked with a "cents-off" sign must be labeled with both the regular and the re-

Three Ambushers

Three ambushers opened fire on a car in the IRA stronghold of South Armagh on Friday and fatally wounded a 74-year-old man who was riding with his son-in-law, a former Ulster policeman, authorities said. The younger man also was wounded, they said. At least 1,863 persons have died in nine years of sectarian violence involving Protestant guerrillas and the Irish Republican Army, which claims to represent the province's minority Roman Catholics. Of 64 victims this year, 10 have been policemen. The IRA seeks to wrest Northern Ireland from Britain and annex it to the mostly Catholic Irish Republic.

Speak-Up Service Closes In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) - Marti Hough says she's closed her Speak-Up Service because it was becoming nothing more than an insult service.

The 32-year-old Western Springs housewife said she made about 300 phone calls in six months for people too meek to say what they wanted and stand up to other people, then closed the business she ran from her suburban home. She charged $5 a call, plus the cost of the call.

"I entered the whole thing with a positive outlook, but it became depressive after a while and I quit last May," said the mother of two children who took an eight-week assertiveness training course.

For instance, only a few persons asked me to call their bosses and request a raise for them because they were not assertive enough to do it themselves. I thought the service would help or save relationships, and in some cases it did.

"In the beginning I had a positive idea, but the media came in and stories generated calls, and it got to be nothing but an insult service," said Mrs. Hough.

She liked delivering positive messages — telling a man he had bad breath, telling a woman she was making too much noise in the apartment above, telling neighbors their stereo music was too loud. Things other people just bit their tongue about.

"But then came men wanting to pay me $5 to make obscene return calls to

For the greater part of the 95th Congress, Byrd and his Republican counter-part, Minority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee, have maintained a unique spirit of bipartisan cooperation.

They worked together to muster the votes needed for approval of the Panama Canal treaties: Even when on opposite sides of an issue, they fought by the most gentlemanly rules. Never did one resort to parliamentary trickery. There was a day, Byrd likes to recall, during the natural gas debate, when none of the opponents were on the floor. It would have been a simple matter to pass the measure by unanimous consent, a late Lyndon B. Johnson would have made without hesitation. But not Byrd. The West Virginia Democrat protected the opponents while taking the opportunity to make clear what he might have done if he were a less accomodating man.

But there's a new atmosphere in the October has arrived and the air is turning cool. Like migrating birds, politicians grow restless. Their instinct for survival tells them it's time to be on the move. In the House, the mood hits everybody except those lucky enough to have no opposition and those who have decided to WASHINGTON (AP) — A gorilla named Koko can carry on lively sign-language conversations with people. She's even learned some very human uses of language - lying, insulting and swearing.

Francine "Penny" Patterson, the woman who's been chatting with Koko for six years, says the 130-pound lowland gorilla is learning so well she has a working vocabulary of 375 signs.

Miss Patterson, a Stanford University doctoral candidate, updated "Project Koko" recently at a briefing at the National Geographic Society, a co-sponsor showing a spontaneous ability to rhyme Some of these animals, like Koko, words, such as "neat," "sweet" and learned to converse in Ameslan, the sign 'meat," much as a human child does.

Koko has signs for such diverse things as airplanes, lollipops, friends, stethoscopes and skateboards. But she does more than just repeat the names of things, Miss Patterson writes in the October issue of the society's magazine.

When Koko uses language to make a point, to joke, to express her displeasure, or to lie her way out of a jam, then she is exploiting language the way we do as human beings," she says.

"Certainly that is linguistic, though perhaps not moral, progress."

Chimpanzees, thought to be smarter than other apes, have been used in a number of successful communication human child, she said. The gorilla also is projects using signs or codes.

The triangular guard, designed to slip over telephone cable, prevents animals from getting the best bite on the cable and thus reduces damage.

Bell officials claim the new guard has withstood wind-tunnel velocities of 75 mph and is resistant to accidental ignition from brush fires, lightning hits and power-line crosses.

'My experience has been totally at odds with this assumption," Miss Patterson says. "While Koko certainly has been contrary at times, I believe that such brattiness may indicate intelligence rather than its absence."

Koko is showing her brattiness with her increasing tendency toward insult and swearing. The 7-year-old's vocabulary includes terms like "stupid," "damn," "rotten stink" and "dirty toilet."

Miss Patterson as "Penny toilet dirty devil," which the researcher says she took as an insult.

Miss Patterson says many examples of evasive behavior have convinced her that Koko deliberately lies.

In one instance, Koko snatched a red crayon and began chewing it. When Miss Patterson questioned the eating disapprovingly, Koko made a sign for "lip" and began using the crayon as if she were applying lipstick and not eating it.

Among the goals of the research are to see how language develops and to find out if animals other than man can reason.

Two years ago, Miss Patterson got a young, 5-year-old male gorilla named Michael and he has already learned 35 signs. The researcher hopes the pair eventually will mate to see if they pass their sign language on to offspring.

octor Accuses Army Of Medical Negligence

FORT LEE, Va. (AP) — Who was inefficient, the doctor or the Army?

Dr. Ellis Zuckerman, fired as an Army civilian employee on charges of inefficiency, accuses the military of slipshod physical exams that have ruined the health of some servicemen and may have killed others.

The Army, while admitting isolated physicals have not been thorough, says Dr. Ellis Zuckerman has been on a vendetta since he was fired.

Zuckerman has appealed his firing and says it was "inefficiency" - his taking time with physicals - that led him to find what he sees as medical negligence. "They say these are isolated cases, but I picked them right out of my waiting room," Zuckerman said.

The 49-year-old physician said recruiters deliberately falsify physical information to get people into the service; that subsequent physicals are so slipshod many deceptions go undiscovered; and that when they are found, the military often refuses to concede mistakes.

Zuckerman's charges come amid general questioning of recruiting and training practices in the all-volunteer military. His charges were first leveled in a letter several months ago, and he now says publicity over the letter has led other doctors to tell him of similar cases. Among the allegations he lists:

- A recruit died of complications started by an ear infection. His recruitment physical did not show he had a perforated

- A recruit died after being discharged when he complained of headaches and

- A recruit passed his physical although he had been hurt in an auto accident and one of his legs was noticeably shorter than the other.

Zuckerman was fired this year from his $36,000 job at Kenner Army Hospital at Fort Lee for failing to do enough daily

Human Enzyme Utilized In Cancer Test

BOSTON (UPI) - An enzyme which is an integral part of the human digestive system may provide a highly accurate test in the early detection of certain kinds of cancer, according to researchers at Massachusetts General Hospital.

The test consists of looking for the enzyme, known chemically as GT-II, in the blood of patients, according to the cur-rent edition of the New England Journal of Medicine.

The normal function of GT-II, short for galactosyltransferase factor II, is to convert blood sugar to material which is used to maintain individual cell surface structure. It is not normally found in the Kurt J. Isselbacher, chief of the hospital's gastrointestinal unit, said the test he used to find cancers of the lung, breast and pancreas.

"Out of 18 patients with pancreatic cancer, the test picked up 15 who were showing only vague symptoms," said Isselbacher. Pancreatic cancer is almost always fatal because, up to now, doctors have not been able to detect it quickly enough for effective treatment.

The test was devised by gastroenterologists Daniel K. Podolsky, Milton M. Weiser, and Isselbacher and surgeon Alfred M. Cohen.

The test, 83 percent accurate in detecting intestinal cancer at a stage where other tests would be ineffective, is not currently available for routine use because the laboratory work is too complicated and cumbersome.

"Mass screening is still down the road but that's our goal," said Isselbacher. "We now have complete confidence in this test. However, there is a long way to go before it can be simplified enough to use in community hospitals working with local laboratories.

Of 232 patients tested, GT-II was found in 83 percent of pancreatic cancer patients, 75 percent of stomach cancer patients, and 73 percent of persons with colon or rectal cancer.

"In a sense we have conducted a large scale pilot study, but we are still investigating the characteristics of this isoenzyme," said Podolsky.

October Inventions Turned On Lights

WASHINGTON (AP) - Two inventions in October literally turned darkness into daylight according to IPO, Inc., a non-profit public educational group dedicated to preserving the patent system as an incentive to innovation and creativity in the United States.

On October 21, 1879, Thomas A. Edison invented a practical incandescent light which observers said shook the scientific world to its foundations.

Commercial use of the light led to the development of complete electric and power systems and the creation of a new industry employing millions throughout

On October 2, 1877, Charles F. Brush of Cleveland was granted a patent for arc lamps. After he demonstrated his street lamps in his hometown, that city became the first to use arc lighting, which later was widely used throughout the world.

He said he was fired because he would not do less-than-thorough exams and was uncovering mistakes. Military officials deny this.

"I don't think anyone would say to you the Army is not concerned with medical care," says Brig. Gen. Robert Solomon, chief public affairs officer for the Army. Solomon was the one who said Zuckerman, not the Army, had been inefficient. Asked about falsified records, Solomon said, "There are cases where that has happened. We know of them and we have investigated them." But, he said, the number is small compared to those recruited. Solomon said he would investigate

The Army had accused him of unsatisfactory work before, but he won a Civil Service appeal.

Zuckerman, saying his information came from first-hand knowledge, records or parents and servicemen, also made these allegations:

- Steven Ray Mashin of Miami Beach, his legs smashed in an auto accident, virtually deaf in one ear and with one leg noticeably shorter than the other, passed his physical and was in basic training when a doctor at Lackland Air Force Base in Texas saw the problems this summer when Mashin went for treatment of a cold. These workers together boast more than 1,000 different job skills: professional administrators and messengers, scientists and secretaries, astronauts and carpenters, to name a few.

You certainly don't have to live near the nation's capital to take advantage of government services. In fact, only 12 percent of all federal employees work in the Washington D.C. area. Most of the rest are employed in regional, district and local office throughout the 50 states.

But to which of those 2.9 million employees should you direct your call for help? New Federal Infor-mation Centers (FICs) are working to make that question less mind-bogging than it first appears to be.

Each of the 38 information centers scattered across the nation is a clearing house for government information. Specialists at the centers will field your questions and refer you to the approriate federal agencies

Don't hesitate to ask your Federal Information Center specialist about state and local programs, as well. More often than not, he or she can also direct you to the right agencies at those levels of govern-

Information centers are located in most major cities, from Boston to Honolulu. Persons living in outlying areas can often telephone - the nearest center via toll-free tie lines. Several of the larger centers are statted with specialists fluent in foreignn languages, most frequently Spanish. Incidendtally, a growing number of government publications are now being written in Spanish as well as English.

If you think you already know which agency you need to contact, simply check the white pages of your telephone directory under "U.S. Government" for the address and phone number of that agency's local office.

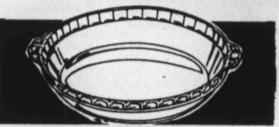

Many directories simplify mat-ters, with boxes of 'Frequently Called Numbers" at the top of their U.S. government sections. There, you can expect to find list-ings for such important services as Social Security, veterans benefits, federal information and the weatherd bureau.

Often, a general information agency some miles from your home, you may not have to incur long distance charges. Many offices, like the information centers, now provide toll-free tie lias be-

All these matters, and many more, can be taken up with the appropriate federal agency via these toll-free hot lines. So, before making a long-distance call, check with the (800) 555-1212 — to see if the agency you want to contact has a

Economic Outlook Bright

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (UPI) -Futurologist Herman Kahn today offered what he called a new kind of ideology to help humanity achieve higher degrees of affluence than he said are generally thought possible.

In a presentation prepared for the 26th congress of the International Chamber of Commerce, meeting at Walt Disney World, the director of the Hudson Institute dismissed doomsayers who predict the world is in for a long period of slow economic growth.

The ICC meeting was formally opened by President Carter Sunday. The 2,500 delegates from 64 countries settle down today to five days of debate and discussion around the main theme of "Enterprise, Freedom and the Future.

Kahn's major contribution to the interational gathering of businesmen and diplomats was a book titled "World Economic Development," offering projections on growth prospects through the

"The basic thesis of this book is that the medium and long range prospects for successful economic development ... are much brighter than commonly supposed," Kahn wrote. Kahn's optimistic thesis, based on computer processed scenarios developed by the Hudson Institute, contradicts the belief of many economists that the world ought to prepare itself for a quarter-century of almost zero econcomic expansion.

'Humanity will soon be entering a new state of development summed up in the phase, the post industrial society." Kahn wrote. "We believe that the transition to this stage is likely to cause serious stresses and that it is very important to have some kind of overall concept to help organize thinking, program action, furnish a supportive moral and political philosophy and provide a framework for the creation and analysis of programs. Kahn offered "a new kind of ideology that we tentatively label a 'Year 2000 Ide-

Kahn said that issues involved could be summed up, by the acronym PANEQOLE.

"It stands for peace, affluence, national and ethnic freedom, quality of life, and equity and ethics," he said.

'The words are chosen carefully, but the acronym remains inelegant."

Korchnoi Cuts Chess Margin To Two Games

BAGUIO CITY, Philippines (AP) -With defending champion Anatoly Karpov only one victory away from retaining the world chess championship, challenger Viktor Korchnoi won the 28th game of their match Sunday to make the score 5-

"I'll keep on fighting," said the 47-yearold Soviet defector when asked if he thought he could overcome the 27-yearold Soviet champion's lead.

The first player to win six games gets the championship and $350,000. The loser will collect $200,000. After a string of draws, Karpov widened his lead Friday by winning the 27th game. The 28th game was adjourned Saturday night, and Korchnoi admitted that the sealed 42nd move he handed in to start the play Sunday was "not exactly a very good sealed move." But he said Karpov "played horribly."

The champion played a cautious, passive game while Korchnoi's moves were fast, risky and ultimately successful. Kar-

More Teachers Go On Strike

By The Associated Press

Just as lengthy teachers strikes were ending in Pennsylvania and Ohio, sending students into their first fall classes. new walkouts were announced in other districts across the nation.

Strikes or threatened strikes in seven states - Minnesota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, Massachusetts, Washington and Arizona - affected more than 250,-000 students.

Teachers in Tucson, Ariz., set up picket lines today, but school officials said they would try to keep classes open with substitutes and non-striking teachers for the city's 57,000 public school students. The teachers voted to strike by a margin of 1,-567 to 1,145 Sunday night.

The 3,000 Tucson teachers seek a 6.5 pay increase, while the school district has offered 5.67 percent. Tucson teachers now make between $10,096 and $23,000 annually, with an average wage of $16,-

More than 45,000 students in two Ohio school districts returned to classes today after lengthy strikes ended, but in Whitehall, Ohio, angry teachers were ready to picket in a dispute over wages.

return to work and end that city's 4week-old strike. The Dayton Education Association, representing 2,200 teachers, and the Public Service Union, which includes 500 food service workers, truck drivers and custodians, ratified contracts in separate voice votes on Sunday. The Ohio Association of Public School Employees agreed to go back to work in the 37,000-student district, pending a ratification vote this week.

Roberta Hunter, president of the education association, said teachers' pay will increase about 8.8 percent.

In Lakewood, Ohio, teachers voted overwhelmingly Sunday to accept a new contract raising base pay from $9,600 to $10,275. They had been on strike since Sept. 20, affecting 8,800 pupils.

Whitehall teachers, however, appeared ready to picket after the school board rejected two offers of an outside mediator.

In Cleveland, teachers and school board negotiators resume bargaining sessions today in an effort to end a strike that has affected 100,000 students. About 10,000 teachers are demanding a 20 percent pay raise. The financially-plagued city needed an emergency state loan to open classes this year.

Strikes in three other Ohio districts continued.

Picket lines also were on teachers' minds in Fall River, Mass., as a strike there entered its fourth week amid threats of court fines and teacher dis-

Union officials said Sunday that picketing at the district's 39 schools would resume despite a warning by school super-intendent Robert Nagle that teachers would be fired if they don't return.

Negotiations were slated for today, said Joseph Quinn, president of the Fall River Educators' Association.

The strike by 800 teachers over wages, class size and workload began Sept. 11. While schools have remained open, attendance has averaged only about 1,100 daily in the 14,500-pupil system, officials In Pennsylvania, teachers in the Southeast Delco school district of Delaware County returned to work today after ratifying a new contract. Details were not released. The district's 5,800 students had stayed at home since the strike began Sept. 6. Strikes and other labor disputes continued to delay the start of classes in seven other Pennsylvania school districts, affecting nearly 30,000 students. Teachers in the 2,900-student Valley View district in northeast Pennsylvania walked off the job today after rejecting the latest contract offer by the school board.

In Washington state, teachers in Tacoma's 31,000-student district remained on strike. School officials said they would decide today whether to open classes on Tuesday. The district has advertised for new teachers.

In Minnesota, negotiations are recessed until Tuesday between 600 striking teachers and the school board in the Minneapolis suburb of Burnsville. No classes have been held for the district's 10,800 students since the strike began Sept. 19.

Housewife sells 'glass plate' for $40; worth $1,700

MORTON GROVE, Ill.—The story of a small fortune, lost because a housewife had no idea her glass plate was a collector's item, recently came to light. In a letter to J.R. MacArthur, chairman of The Bradford Exchange, world's largest trading center in collector's plates, a Madison, Wisc., woman wrote: "I had a Lalique 1965 plate...which I sold to a friend for $40. I had not heard of you at that time."

The plate she sold is actually valued at more than $1,700. Although MacArthur points out that this price is exceptionally high, he said, "I'm afraid others may be losing hundreds or thousands of dollars by not knowing what their plates are worth."

To aid in identifying valuable plates, the Exchange issues a report that includes current prices on more than 900 plates, guidelines on what to look for and when to buy, and the plate evaluation check-list used by the Exchange.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) - Philadelphia cancer researchers say they have strong evidence that viruses can cause some types of deadly cancer in humans and have developed a vaccine they hope may combat it

A husband and wife team working at Children's Hospital and researchers at the Institute for Cancer Research at Fox Chase headed by Nobel Prize winner Dr. Baruch Blumberg, have independently constructed evidence that two viruses apparently contribute to development of three types of cancer.

Three Killed In Mishaps By United Press International

Three persons, inlcuding a Texas man, were victims of separate traffic accidents on Arkansas' roads and highways during the weekend.

Killed were Steven Stanton, 31, of New Boston, Tex.; Melvin Halcomb, 35, of Corning and Ilene Branscum, 39, of Jonesboro

Police said Stanton was the driver of a van that slammed into a guard rail on a bridge, swerved across the center line of U.S. 71 and collided with a two-ton truck driven by Lonnie Coulter, 53, of Mineral Springs. The collision occurred Friday night north of Wilton.

State police said Halcomb was the driver of a tractor-trailer cab that went off State Highway 80 east of Waldron and overturned, throwing Halcomb from the vehicle. The accident occurred about 4:30 a.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Branscum was a passenger in a pickup truck that collided head-on with another pickup on State Highway 14 east of Mountain View Friday night, authorities said. Her husband, Gorner Branscum, 44, and the driver of the other truck, Rickey Canard, 18, of St. James were injured but not seriously.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There'll be no more insults from wooden-headed, wisecracking Charlie McCarthy: his voice is real dummy once more. Their creator, premier ventriloquist Edgar Bergen, died Saturday in his sleep after a heart attack.

Bergen, who modeled McCarthy after a cocky Irish newsboy 56 years ago, will be remembered at funeral services Tuesday in Beverly Hills.

The 75-year-old entertainer died four days into an 11-day farewell engagement at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas, in what was to have been his final road tour.

Two weeks earlier, he had announced plans to retire and donate his wooden sidekicks - top-hatted, monacled McCarthy, dull-witted Snerd and spry spinster Effie Klinker - to the Smithsonian Insti-

Bergen was born in Chicago on Feb. 16, 1903, to Swedish parents, who ran a retail dairy business. The inspiration for Charlie McCarthy came to the young Bergen in 1922 in the form of a newsboy who sold papers in his neighborhood.

Bergen sketched the newsboy and took the drawings to a carpenter who made the dummy's head for $35. Bergen carved the body himself

"In my senior year in high school," Bergen once recalled, "my English teacher told me that I shouldn't count on graduating." But when his teacher watched Bergen perform, "she said the Hills, world needs laughter more than another ment.

Comedian Don Rickles said Bergen was

Congress Considering Price Hike For Sugar Rep. Dave Stockman, R-Mich., a leading

By BRIAN B. KING WASHINGTON (AP) - A battle over opponent whether to sock inflation-weary consumers with steeper increases in sugar prices Committee alternative would raise the is headed for a showdown vote this week in the House. Even if Congress does nothing this year, sugar will still rise 6 cents for a 5pound bag based on a 1977 law.

Under a measure being recommended by the House Agriculture Committee, the 6-cent increase would grow to a 12.5-cent boost. Grocery buyers also could look forward under that measure to an automatic price hike every three months for the next four years, for a total of 55-cents on a 5-pound bag.

President Carter is fighting that measure, favoring instead a compromise which administration officials say would do much less harm to the president's anti-inflation efforts.

The rules for today's general debate were agreed on Friday. No votes were expected before Wednesday.

Farmers and the corporate processors who own plantations say that the present market price and support level of 13.5 cents a pound on the 1977 crop is too low to cover their costs even though they made $99 million more this year because of the 1977 law.

The Agriculture Committee bill would boost the raw-sugar price to 16 cents late this year, through a complicated juggling of import duties and quotas, and require quarterly increases after October 1979.

That means shoppers paying $1.22 for a 5-pound bag of sugar this summer could easily be paying $1.77 by late 1982, said

Study Shows Increase In Citrus Crop

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) - A poll of Florida citrus growers in 29 major producing counties forecasts a slightly higher crop of oranges, temples and tangerines next season in comparison to the 1977-78 com-

A small drop in grapefruit production was predicted.

However, General Manager Wilson McGee of the Orlando-based grower organization that conducted the poll, said the on-tree estimates show there will be no relief in a "very short supply" of frozen concentrated orange juice, which uses more than 80 percent of the state's or-

Supplies of processed juice have been running short because of high demand following the January 1977 freeze - despite record retail prices.

If summer pickouts verify estimated harvest and use, supply of processed juice products "will be very short," said McGee, head of United Growers and Shippers Association.

The production of round oranges was estimated at 173,526,402 boxes holding about 90 pounds. This was about 4.3 percent more than the 166.3 million "certified pickouts" during the 1977-78 season. "Certified" is used to mean actual commercial sales of fresh or processed products, excluding that production for socalled "home and local use."

Temples were estimated at 5,122,144 boxes, a 9 percent increase over last season, and tangerines at about 3.2 million boxes, a slight increase.

Grapefruit production was forecast at 49,658,293 boxes, about 1.38 percent under 1977-78's 50.3 million production.

Since citrus trees are still recovering from the 1977 freeze, juice yield from the fruit will still be lower than usual, McGee said in releasing results of the poll Sun-

Spouse Refuses To Admit Deat

MIAMI (AP) — Teresita Silva quit breathing 38 days ago, and most doctors say she is dead.

But one physician disagrees — her husband, who has virtually abandoned his practice in an effort to revive his coma-

"We are waiting for her to wake up. ... We are praying very hard for her to wake up," said Dr. Orlando Silva, haggard and exhausted from his ordeal.

Mrs. Silva, 39, entered Cedars of Lebanon Hospital Aug. 24 for a routine "D and C" by Dr. Raquel Cruz, her gynecologist of 14 years.

The procedure is a common surgical technique involving dilation of the cervix and the scraping of the lining of the uterus. A cervical biopsy also was planned. But on the operating table, before the procedure began, Mrs. Cruz stopped breathing. She has been on life support equipment, unconscious, since. Assistant hospital director Pat Scheff told The Associated Press that "there were complications in the operating room," but he would not elaborate. He said he had no comment on whether the administration of anesthesia had begun when Mrs. Silva stopped breathing. Florida law does not recognize brain death as "a distinct entity," said Scheff. "It's up to the physician to pronounce death at the cessation of heart beat."

In this case, the physician is Silva. He refuses to give up, so his wife stays on the life support equipment.

Other physicians told The Miami Herald the woman's brain is dead. "It's decomposing," said one doctor, who was not identified by the newspaper. "Hope for her is at the same level as the hope that a body you buried will come back to Scheff said a review of the case showed "no reason to see anything inappropriate in the care she has received. Hospital employees told the newspaper

And Scheff confirmed there "have been a number of unusual incidents that I suspect are religious or cultural in na man," he said. Silva says he has set up a network of prayer for his wife. "Many priests are involved, even a priest in Israel," he said. "There's a long chain of prayers across the United States and the world for my wife. We are praying very hard for her to wake up.' He said other doctors have told him there is no hope, but he would not listen.

"I love her. I need her," he said. "We need a miracle. I am not going to give up

Broadway Disillusions Hirsch

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - The politics of Broadway's Tony Awards are responsible for Judd Hirsch departing the theater, temporarily at least, for the greener (as in money) fields of television and his new sitcom, "Taxi."

In a burst of candor, Hirsch, the rugged looking cab driver of the hit show, admitted that his failure to be nominated for a Tony Award was a key factor in his defection from Broadway

Hirsch, theater trained, originally turned down the opportunity to star in "Taxi" because he was unsure about remaining in the cast of "Chapter Two," Neil Simon's latest smash hit.

The stage, compared to movies and TV, was a bastion of integrity in Hirsch's eyes. And the Tonys, unlike the Oscars and Emmys, he believed, were non-political rewards for excellence.

Originally called the Antoinette Perry Awards, the Tonys recognize the best dramas, comedies, musicals and performers in each Broadway season. Because the theater has carried high-brow connotations, among actors at least, Tonys had greater snob appeal than the bits of hardware doled out by films and TV.

Hirsch says the integrity of the Tonys has fallen by the wayside to accommodate the TV interests involved in the awards presentation ceremony.

"I was still appearing in 'Chapter Two' when I was offered this part in 'Taxi," Hirsch said during a mid-day production break. "Shortly after that, the nominees for last season's Tonys were announced. I was shocked that I wasn't nominated among the best actors.

"The play was nominated for an award and three other members of the cast were nominated - Anita Gillette, Cliff Gorman and Anne Wedgeworth. It was a personal affront that the three others were nominated and I wasn't.'

Hirsch was drinking a mixture of tomato and clam juice in his mobile home dressing room outside Stage 25 at Paramount Studios. His consternation remained intense although the Tony nominations were made more than three months ago.

"I'd never paid much attention to the awards system," he said. "The Tonys are run by the league of Broadway Theaters and producers which I think is a conflict of interest.

"The Tonys were run by the American Theater Wing years ago but they were taken over by business interests when they began telecasting the presentations.

"Even before the nominations I had a discussion with one of the executives involved with the Tonys. I told him then that the awards should be given solely for meritorious work and that it had become an annual TV game show, 5

"He told me that the nominations had to fit certain standards to accommodate television. If the Tony show didn't get high ratings, there wouldn't be any more Tony telecasts.

"I told him it had become a game show for winning and it was a total insult to

Cast Notes 10th Year On TV

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - "Hee Haw" cast members put aside their bib overalls in favor of tuxedos as the television show celebrated its 10th anniversary with a spirited salute to hayseed humor.

The occasion was a black-tie reception and dinner at the swanky Opryland USA hotel recently where rooms range from $40 a night for a double to $250 a night for a suite - certainly not the Empty Arms Hotel.

Junior Samples, famous for his bib overalls, showed up in bib overalls.

Where's your tux, Junior? "I got it on," he said dryly.

Even Beauregard the dog was there. He didn't seem too excited.

The press was there, too, but Charlie

Fargison of KORN showed up late. Speculation was he was mending his sweater. "Gloom. Despair. Agony on me!!!!" he exclaimed

One of the Hager twins - no one knew which one - showed up in jeans. But he compromized by wearing a satin bow tie. lunior didn't like the tie.

He didn't know what to think about Scottish cast member Don Herron, who howed up in a kilt.

As three gigantic chandeliers shimmered above, the 800 guests feasted on roast beef, taters, green beans and carrots - good enough to be straight out of Grandpa Jones' garden. They drank California wine, not moonshine. Nurse Goodbody stood by for anyone who ate too

A five-piece band did the pickin' and

Wide-eyed hotel guests, stunned at the citified ex-hillbillies, looked like they'd been smacked in the rear by a swinging piece of board fence. The show began on the CBS network in June 1969 but city slickers dropped the show from the network in 1971. It immediately went into syndication and became more popular than ever.

Said Minnie Pearl: "I guess you might say we are having the last hee haw."

ed the interplay of TV and Broadway. What, after all, was the difference between TV and the theater?

"Then when they put on the show there were a lot of television personalities like Bonnie Franklin on the program who had nothing to do with the Broadway season. That makes no sense at all.

"If Broadway is about television, then it doesn't matter where you act. So I thought why not do the next best thing, work in a television situation comedy. The next time Paramount Television offered "Taxi" to Hirsch, he took it. He was also impressed with the writing-production team for the ABC-TV series - James L. Brooks, Stan Daniels, David Davis and Ed Weinberger. They were the men behind "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" and "Rhoda."

"When they first came to me last April, they didn't even have a format," Hirsch "They asked if I would star in whatever they wrote. ABC had sanctioned them to do a half-hour comedy on the basis of their track record.

"That was very flattering. But I was in Chapter Two.' I told them it was too early for me to go into another series.' Hirsch had failed last season in the critically acclaimed series, "Delvecchio," and might have been a bit gun-shy. But his disillusionment with the Tonys and the huge financial considerations of "Taxi" combined to change his mind. In the first two weeks of the new season "Taxi" rated 6th and 7th in the Nielsen ratings, making it a certified hit. "I used to see so much rotten stuff on TV that, as a stage actor, I thought the actors shouldn't even be paid," Hirsch said. "But I don't know any stage actors who would turn down all the money TV

"I don't have any snobishness about Broadway and off-Broadway as compared to TV and films. I've met many movie stars who have never been on stage. Some are magnificent and some are garbage cans.

"I believe all actors should have their roots on the stage. I'd be at a loss if I hadn't started in the theater. But I stayed alive by doing TV commercials. Some say it's cheap for an actor to associate himself with commercials.

"I got my part in the TV movie, 'The Law,' because the producers looked at my Listerine and TWA commercials. You live and learn.

Seers Predicted Short Papacies

VATICAN CITY (AP) - The unexpected death and short reign of Pope John Paul I has caused many Romans to ponder the works of their favorite soothsayers, who, interpreted in retrospect, now appear to have predicted a brief pontificate for a "barefoot pope."

When John Paul was elected Aug. 26, interpreters of the two best-known prognosticators - 16th-century French doctor-astronomer Nostradamus and the 12th-century Irish archbishop St. Malachy - seemed to have overlooked signs that his reign would last only 34 days.

Believers in the writings of St. Malachy said that the saying "de mediatate lunae" ("of the middle of the moon") assigned to John Paul I referred to the half-moon shape of the city of Venice, where he served as patriarch, or to the fact that Venice had traditional contact with the Moslem world, whose symbol was the crescent.

But now the prophecy specialists say the phrase might really refer to the length of his reign - a lunar cycle starting from Sept. 3, the day of his formal installation, to Sept. 28, the day of his death. The day of the full moon, Sept. 16, fell exactly in the middle of his pontifi-

And the interpreters also say Nostradamus - who supposedly has forecast events leading to the end of the world in the year 2000 - wrote that following the death of a pope who had reigned 15 years, there would be a "two-year period of short pontificates."

During that time, the church is supposed to undergo a period of grave crisis and even schism, Nostradamus said. Pope Paul VI reigned 15 years before his Nostradamus wrote cryptically, however, and his works are open to various interpretations. Books on his writings are in great demand in Italy, particularly in times of stress.

Nostradamus predicted in "The Prophecies of Pope John" that a "barefoot pope," whose reign would last only two months, would be succeeded by "the last

According to the"Prophecy of St. Malachy," there will be only three more

And who next will sit upon the throne of St. Peter?

Nostradamus describes him as "floram pater" reigning in a period of "divided faith." If the word "floram" is the result of a printer's error in writing "florum," this could mean "father of flowers," perhaps indicating a good pope.

According to Malachy, the next pope will be "de labore solis," or, "of the fatigue of the sun." That could be a reference to the sunny homeland of Cardinal Salvatore Pappalardo, archbishop of Palermo, or Corrado Ursi, archbishop of Naples, both mentioned as papal candi-

In his book "Centuries and Presages of Nostradamus," published in 1972, Italian writer Renucio Boscolo said Nostradamus predicts a Frenchman whose name begins with a "V" will be the next pope. 'After the tragic death of the pontiff, a French cardinal will be elected, and this prelate's name will begin with 'V' as in victory. Could that portend French Cardinal Jean Villot?

As Vatican secretary of state, the 72year-old Villot has become papal chamberlain, or interim administrator for the church, for the second time in 53 days.

In any case, the soothsayers and their interpreters are sure to have many readers until white smoke again rises over the Vatican, announcing the election of a

Defense Department Eyes 'Killer Rays'

WASHINGTON (UPI) - After having dismissed evidence Russia is developing particle beam weapons, the Defense Department is exploring the possibility of such "killer rays," Aviation Week &

Space Technology said today. The weapons, which would propel electrons, protons and neutrons at velocities approaching the speed of light, would be for defense against Soviet anti-ship missiles, anti-satellite spacecraft and intercontinental and submarine-launched ballistic missiles.

The beams, fired from satellites parked in space, could destroy enemy, ICBMs just after launch

Aviation Week said the Pentagon has retained 36 nationally known physicists and engineers to complete a plan by Dec. 1 for exploratory development of the weapons, with an eye toward having such "killer rays" available by the mid-1980s.

The group, it said, is meeting today for the second time on the project at the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory in New Mexico.

In May, 1977, Aviation Week published details of Soviet component tests of charged particle beam weapons and dehigh-level official sneering that has been the initial government reaction to every new Soviet weapons development of the past 20 years," said Robert Hotz, editor and publisher.

He said both President Carter and Defense Secretary Harold Brown 17 months ago dismissed the weapons as technically impossible."

Hotz said particle beam weapons offer the promise "of reducing strategic nuclear weapons to a negligible factor in the future ... if the Soviets achieve this capability first, it will give them enormous crucial leverage in imposing their political will on the rest of the world.

"If the U.S. achieves it first, there will be no need for flimsy SALT agreements, and the threat of Soviet nuclear blackmail will lose its credibility." The article said eight successful Soviet experiments have been detected propagating electron beams in the ionosphere and in outer space from Cosmos unmanned spacecraft, manned Soyuz transport spacecraft and from the Salyut manned space station. "Soviet ground-based, charged particle beam propagation tests against targets at Sarova near Gorki" also have been detected, it said. "The tests are believed to be a prelude to deployment of a groundbased anti-ballistic missile particle beam weapon as early as 1980." velopment plans. Kansas Governor Blasts Possible Missile Site TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI) - Gov. Robert of giant missiles that would be fired from Bennett today protested consideration of Northwest Kansas as a possible site for the proposed MX missile system which Bennett labeled a combination of "Buck Rogers," "Star Wars" and "Battlestar Galactica." In a letter to President Carter, Bennett denounced the proposed system of underground trenches for hidden transport

Optima Dam Completed

GUYMON, Okla. (AP) - The gates on the new Optima Dam were to be closed sometime today, marking completion of the oldest authorized but until now uncompleted Corps of Engineery project in the country.

Congress first authorized construction of the lake in the Panhandle in the Dust Bowl year of 1936. But money priorities and a problem Panhandle leaders blamed on "a lack of influence" delayed completion of the dam for nearly half a century

The lake, located 15 miles west of Guymon, is expected to take about two years to fill - provided there is normal rainfall. When full, the lake will provide a water supply for Guymon, Beaver and Hooker.

Eventually, officials say the Texas County town of Hardesty also will receive water from the lake. Fred Edins, resident engineer at the lake, said the gates were scheduled to be closed sometime after 10:30 a.m. following a ceremony to commemorate the

He said the lake has cost $45.7 million and will be about 50 feet deep at the dam. Edins said the lake will contain 5,340 acre feet of water and have 31 miles of shoreline. There will be five public use areas, three public boat ramps, picnic facilities featuring covered canopies, group picnic shelters with fireplaces and hookups for overnight campers.

underground or from beneath the surface of artificial lakes. "Mr. President, in plain English, the U.S. Air Force is proposing that potentially 8 percent of the entire state of Kansas be removed from civilization, from the citizens of our state and from their productive use of this land for a period of at least 20 to 30 years," Bennett wrote. "I find this proposal utterly unbelievable and inconceivable. I urge you and the Air Force to immediately suspend any further consideration of sites in the state of Kansas for the mobile missile program as envisioned in the report." In a news conference, the governor said he would initiate court action if the federal government tries to establish the system within Kansas borders. The governor said the plans indicated if the site were chosen, 286,000 acres of western Kansas farm and range land would be disrupted by road building, excavation, dumping of excess earth and construction of support facilities. In addition he cited depletion of groundwater reserves and lowering of the water table in many potential siting areas. He said for security purposes, people would be excluded from an area as large as 6,500 square miles, an area now containing 40,000 Kansans. He said as much as four million acres could not be used for farming, recreation or human habitation for 20 to 30 years.

The automaker was indicted earlier this month on charges of reckless homicide and criminal recklessness in the deaths. The victims died after their car burst into flames after it was struck from behind by another vehicle.

Through The Bars

BOOGER BROOKS, the highly recruited grid phenom from Andrews, is alive and well at the University of Texas and still playing the quarterback position, despite frequent rumors to the contrary.

"I don't know where that story got started," Texas Coach Fred Akers said here last weekend when informed that West Texans had heard reports Booger had been shifted to defense. "During the early workouts this season, we used a lot of our freshmen at various positions to fill in the gaps. I think we played Booger at tight end for a couple of days, but it was just a temporary thing.

"Booger is a great prospect and the top quarterback on our junior varsity team. He's a strong runner — really strong — and he looked very good against Southwest Texas last week until he pulled a hamstring. He showed us a lot,"

Booger, a stocky 190-pounder, might be with the Texas varsity squad right now instead of the JV if he had utilized the off-season properly. Akers indicat-

'Booger made a mistake, and he realizes it," Akers explained. "He graduated from high school last winter at mid-term, then didn't work on the football field at all until he reported to our campus in August. So he was behind the other quarterbacks, especially on his passing. He just hadn't thrown any in months.

But we're going to give him a lot of work next spring and I know he's going to develop into a real contender. He has the ability, the intelligence and the competitive spirit to be a great player."

DALLAS COWBOY COACH Tom Landry says tonight's tussle with the Redskins at Washington cannot be classed as a must game, because there still will be 11 games left on the schedule. "The race will be won in the last half of the season," proclaims Sir Thomas.

Even so, a Washington victory tonight would put the Redskins two games ahead of the Cowboys. That would give the 'Skins a definite advantage as the teams approach the halfway mark.

Chances are that Landry is talking for publication, so as not to unduly alarm Washingtonians will whack the 'Pokes, because of Dallas' injury situation and the Redskins' home-field edge. The Cowboys are not playing like Super Bowl champs right now, either.

Many NFL observers also think Dallas has a tougher road ahead than Washington. The Redskins already hold big wins over the Patriots and Eagles, who are yet to meet the Cowboys. Down the line, the 'Skins will meet some relatively soft touches, such as disappointing Detroit and rebuilding San Francisco. The Cowboys will face a lot of dangerous teams down the stretch. They go on the road against the Dolphins and Green Bay, no patsy now, and host teams such as Minnesota and New England. Even those divisional rivals, the Giants and Eagles, are tough this year.

So a two-game margin over Dallas, even at this stage of the race, would look like money in the bank to the Redskins.

Dallas Tackles Redskii

WASHINGTON (AP) - If the past is prologue, as the inscription over the National Archives says, be prepared for the final minutes of tonight's nationally televised Dallas Cowboys-Washington Redskins game.

If it's a typical game between the two National Football Conference East Division rivals, the outcome will be in doubt until the final minutes, or at least until the final quarter.

That's been roughly the pattern since Ken Houston made a dramatic goalline stop on Walt Garrison in 1973 to preserve a Redskin victory, or since Clint Longley fired his game-winning, last-second 50yard touchdown pass for Dallas on Thanksgiving Day 1974.

"It'll probably be a fourth-quarter game," Redskin Coach Jack Pardee said. The real classic battles with them before have been in the fourth quarter. I saw a quote from Tom Landry about how important the first quarter will be. He's sort of right, too. That sort of sets the tone of the way a team is going to play. "You fight to get something estab-lished," Pardee continued. "But all

Texas Tabs Corrales New Boss

DALLAS (AP) - A month ago, Billy Hunter got a vote of confidence.

A week ago, Hunter was bubbling over with confidence about the 1979 American League season.

And Sunday, majority owner Brad Corbett said he was confident he was doing the right thing in replacing Hunter with third base coach Pat Corrales as manager of the Texas Rangers.

It was another of Corbett's baffling moves. He's had six managers in two years and spent $2.6 million in 1978 alone in salaries, but has yet to push the right button to make the Rangers AL Western Division champions.

The announcement was another spurof-the-moment Corbett move. The team was in Seattle playing out the season. The club's public relations director, Bert Hawkins, called assistant Jeff Wolfskill in Arlington, who called the wire services in Dallas with the firing.

Hunter had to hear about the ax falling from club vice president Eddie Robinson. Corbett didn't bother to call Hunter.

Hunter flew back to Arlington late Sunday night and said of his firing, "Once the shock wore off, it was a relief ... It was totally unexpected, but I think I did my job all right. Some other people didn't do their jobs all right.

Corbett said he still wanted Hunter in the organization as a scout, but Hunter said he would "absolutely not" accept the offer. "I'm out of it," the former manager added. Hunter took Texas to a 60-33 record in 1977 as interim manager, and the team was 12 games over .500 this year but failed to catch Kansas City. At the end, the club was near open rebellion.

"Billy was very good as an offensive manager, but he had problem moving the pitchers at the right time and didn't have the ability to communicate with the players," said Corbett by telephone from Se-things being equal, it usually comes down to the fourth quarter."

The series between the two clubs has always been intense with tonight's game being no different. The Cowboys, 3-1, don't want to lose to the undefeated Redskins. 4-0, and fall two games behind in the NFC East.

Redskins tight end Jean Fugett has seen the rivalry from both locker rooms. "It's probably the most intense game you'll ever play in," he said last week. "In Dallas it was because of the verbal jabs coming out of Washington. It be-came a question of pride and respect. We always felt the Redskins never respected

"I tell you something else. Nothing could compare to the feeling of coming into RFK Stadium if you were a Dallas Cowboy. When the ground started shaking in the warmups, you knew you were in for a long night. "No. George Allen isn't here any more, but nothing has changed. It's the same feeling. The Redskins against the Cow-

AL East Race Ends In Deadlock

By ALEX SACHARE

AP Sports Writer It all came down to one game today, winner take all, the New York Yankees against the Boston Red Sox for the American League East title:

The Red Sox, who had led by 10 games in July and by 81/2 as late as Aug. 21 before being overtaken by the Yankees' second-half surge, climbed back into a tie Sunday by blanking the Toronto Blue

But they needed help, and they got it from the Cleveland Indians, who clob-bered the Yankees 9-2. New York only needed to win its game to take the division title outright, but couldn't do it.

"I just didn't have any pop," said Yankees starter Catfish Hunter, knocked out in the second inning after being rocked for home runs by Andre Thornton and Gary Alexander. "I can't say what it was. I just didn't have any pop — that little ex-tra that makes the fastball pop and the slider slide — even if it's just one mile an hour faster

And so the Red Sox finally got the break they needed. Ever since Sept. 23, they had trailed New York by one game. But the Yankees had matched them win for win over the next week, until Cleveland put an end to New York's six-game winning streak on Sunday.

"We wanted a shot and we got it," said Red Sox third baseman Butch Hobson.

'Now it's up to us." Today's game was to be nationally televised by ABC starting at 1:30 p.m. CDT. The winner begins a best-of-five series against the West Division champion Kansas City Royals in Kansas City Tuesday

In other American League games Sunday, the Kansas City Royals edged the Minnesota Twins 1-0, the Baltimore Orioles beat the Detroit Tigers 4-2, the Texas Rangers topped the Seattle Mariners 9-4, the Milwaukee Brewers blanked the Oakland A's 9-0 and the California Angels trimmed the Chicago White Sox 5-4.

Red Sox 5, Blue Jays 0

Tiant, Boston's Mr. Clutch, allowed only a pair of singles in winning "the big-gest game I've ever pitched." He struck out four and did not walk a batter. Rick Burleson belted a two-run homer and Jim Rice slammed a solo shot, his 46th home run of the season, as Boston won its eighth in a row and 12th in the last 14 games.

"We played 162 games and now we play for the division title in just one game." said Boston Manager Don Zimmer. "I'm just tickled to death to be in it."

Indians 9, Yankees 2 The Indians, who had lost six in a row, pounded Hunter and Dick Tidrow for six runs in the first two innings. Thornton hit a two-run homer in the first while Alexander's leadoff shot in the second snapped a 2-2 tie and touched off a fourrun uprising that was capped by Buddy

Bell's two-run single. Cleveland's Rick Waits, 13-15, settled down after yeilding two runs in the bottom of the first and allowed only one more hit the rest of the way, finishing with a five-hitter. Hunter, who made a miraculous recovery from shoulder problems that threatened his illustrious career earlier this year, did not blame his ineffectiveness on injury. "I can't say what it was," he said.

Oilers Nip Cleveland On Fritsch's Late Field Goal

By HAL BOCK AP Sports Writer

Is the Pack really back? Coach Bart Starr, who was the quarterback when Green Bay terrorized the National Football League a decade ago. thinks it's too early to tell. But Packer backers prefer to look at the National Conference standings, which show their team with four wins in the first five games and sitting in first place.

'We haven't met a championship calibre team yet, other than Oakland," said Starr, whose club destroyed Detroit 35-24 Sunday. "We haven't beaten anyone of repute, so we have to temper it.'

But that's tough for Green Bay fans to do after Terdell Middleton ran for 148 yards, including a 76-yard touchdown, and David Whitehurst had two TD passes to Aundra Thompson in a 14-for-18 day that produced 230 yards.

"Just about every play we called worked," noted Whitehurst. Starr could appreciate that. He remembers when the same things happened to him almost every week.

Kicking Game, Defense Enable

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff The Canyon Eagles have gotten away so far this season.

The experts on the sidline swear a team can't win many football games when its defense stays on the field most of the

And Eagle mentor Deane Wright agrees with that theory. Yet, Canyon sports a 3-0-1 record.

"We've won with two ingredients -kicking and defense," said Wright. "We have some pretty good people on offense, but overall, we're just not a good offensive football team. In fact, Wright believes his team's Friday night performance against Hereford was the best the Eagle offense has looked this season. Canyon defeated Hereford

"I'm telling you we just don't have the kind of people in our backfield to break a long one," said Wright.

"Against Hereford, we had a back that went through a gaping hole," recalled Wright, "Most teams would have been able to turn the play into a touchdown. But our little back was caught by two of Hereford's big people down field about

When asked to make a choice on what "They have about the same people back success, Wright chose the former.

Canyon To Compile 3-0-1 Mark

The person responsible for the Eagles kicking success is Eddie Clement. Clement handles both the field goal and punting responsibilites. The 170-pound senior has about a 40-yard average through the first four games of the season.

"Eddie's success is not in kicking for distance," said Wright. "His greatest contribution has been the ability to place the football out of bounds deep in the opponents territory.'

Defensively, Wright has been impressed with the play of tackle Terry

"Terry has been the one that has been making the big tackle for us when we have needed it," said Wright. "Terry is not a big . He only weighs about 200 pounds. But he is quick."

Canyon was picked to finish fourth in the 1-AAA race before the season started, and the Eagle coach still believes that is a proper placing. 'Dumas is still probably the team to beat," said Wright.

But currently Canyon is undefeated, while Dumas is 1-3.

"That doesn't matter," said Wright has contributed the most to the Eagles' as last year and so do we. Last year, Dumas beat us 36-0.

Canyon has been bothered by injuries this season. The Eagles lost five players before the season even got underway. Could the loss of key personnel be the reason for Canyon's poor offensive performance?

"I can't really say that," said Wright. 'The players that we have lost have been play, they'll be way behind.'

out so long that when they are ready to And Canyon will get an extra week to heal as they have an open date this week.

"It's a good thing you decided to give us a call this week," laughed Wright. 'Because in two week's we play Amarillo Palo Duro. I don't think we'll maintain this bliss after that game.

coach Rex Dockery wrote "A&M Game." It was just another way of expressing the fact that the Texas game, with its bright spots and mistakes had been filed away, to be looked back upon, just as films of the 24-7 Texas triumph will be.

But, Sunday, Dockery picked up that pad, a cup of coffee and headed for the film room. The Aggies come next Saturday afternoon in College Station, and it was time, just hours after that Texas game, to think A&M.

'Whoooooo, are they good," said Dockery, "9.2 and 9.4 in the same backfield.

there to stimulants and to tranquilizers like PCP, known as "angel dust." "I believed I couldn't live a minute without a chemical," he says. He supported his habit by pushing drugs, and his brushes with the law began in 1974. He spent several months in jail after pleading guilty to possessing 'angel dust," and got out early by "conning" a drug counselor. He says he went home on probation and overdosed on

'angel dust.' When he went before the judge for sentencing after his overdose, he asked for - and got - placement in a "retreat" - a rehabilitation center. His life, he says, had become unmanageable.

He tried AA meetings after he left the center, but didn't feel right. He wanted to talk to people who shared his problem.

Then he learned of NA through a pamphlet, and he and a friend founded a fellowship. They began recruiting potential members from addiction treatment centers. He says there are now more than 200 members in the greater Pittsburgh region, including Wilkes-Barre.

There should be more; he says, but not all treatment centers know about NA, and many don't know enough to trust the organization. And he says addicts want an easy way - a "magic pill" that will make their dependency just go away. He says there is none.

NA is part of the treatment at Carrier Clinic, a private psychiatric hospital in Belle Mead, N.J.

"The reason we became so interested in Narcotics Anonymous is that it is identical to AA," says Barbara Fay, the unit's director. "The only difference is the drug of choice: the therapy is the same. And AA is the most effective recovery tool known to us in the field."

She puts her unit's cure rate at 60 percent to 70 percent. But she says it's hard to tell whether the treatment has worked because patients sometimes relapse. Before a patient is introduced to NA, she says, the unit must first make him or her aware of the problem.

'When you're suffering from chemical dependence, you have a defense system based on denial," Mrs. Fay says. "You have a disease which keeps telling you you're all right - the problems are out there - it's the wives, it's the husbands, it's lousy New Jersey. NA works because of its commitment, she says. It teaches an addict to take each day as it comes, and never give up. "You think of this in terms of acceptance," she says. "This is why you hear so much about 'one day at a time NA's greatest failing, Mrs. Fay says, is that there are not enough fellowships. And the patient who leaves still needs NA - and will for the rest of his or her life,

NA operates without a professional staff, and is run from administrative headquarters in a 9-by-11-foot room in the Sun Valley, Calif., home of one of the group's founders, "Jimmy."

Jimmy says the staff consists of himself, his wife and some volunteers. One of NA's precepts is that it is run entirely by members. He relies on fellowships to handle problems themselves.

He says there are between 600 and 700 fellowships worldwide, with a total of about 25,000 members. Nearly all are in the United States.

Jimmy says the organization has grown rapidly in the last five years. "We've had good rapport with the media," he says, 'and growth creates more growth."

Nixon's 'Faith' Inspires Author

NEW YORK (AP) - "What keeps Richard Nixon alive?" the psychologist asked himself. "Already he's lived longer out of office than other rejected presidents - Wilson and L.B. Johnson, for example," he said.

He puzzled over the question and reached an answer: "A basic self respect." A person who has gone through what he has, the psychologist said, "has got to have a reserve of self respect."

Eugene Jennings, also a professor of management at Michigan State University, assessed President Nixon from his perspective as confidential adviser to corporate chief executives.

'Granted, history might not treat him kindly," said Jennings, "but millions of men and women who face their own mortality can be inspired by Nixon's tenacity and determination never to quit."

A life-long student of executive behavior, and author of many books on the subject, Jennings has for 20 years dealt on a person-to-person basis with many corporate presidents in stress situations. In his opinion, he said, "Those who commit suicide or let their mind unwind through drugs or alcohol have lost faith in their essential goodness. They believe that what is left is not good enough to But Nixon, he said, exists, persists and shows signs of thriving, and if he continues in that direction might eventually become a personal if not political hero. "He is showing people how to survive. They are saying that if such a 'bad' person can redeem his goodness, they can too," he said. Those most likely to have the survival instinct usually believe strongly in something, such as a higher moral authority or qualities within themselves," Jennings

In his opinion Nixon's motive isn't revenge. "He isn't staying alive so he can bury his enemies. Revenge destroys the mind. It must be faith in himself that he is better than his past actions have indi-

All of us, Jennings explained, have defects and weaknesses that show most grossly in proportion to the stress situation. Those seemingly without them, he said, may not have been tested in such situations

"Success or failure is a marriage between a person and his or her situation and times; it is a match between the individual and circumstances," he said. And sometimes, not always, it is a mismatch.

Character defects not normally exposed might stand out glaringly under stress such as Nixon underwent prior to and after his resignation, he continued. 'Stress doesn't make a person; it discovers him or her.'

The severest stress for an executive, he said, doesn't come at the top. "It comes in the fall from office." Ironically, he said, the fall might provide a better measure of the person. The test of strength "is not to give in to weakness." said Jennings. "If he can show he is better than before the fall he will be showing the truer part of the man. We've seen his worst; now he can show his best.'

Nixon, he believes, can still make a positive contribution, "such as to write a book that world opinion leaders will read and respect." And in his opinion, "Nixon could very well become a personal hero."

The professor, who usually limits his comments to corporate executives, said he was intrigued by the similarity of Nixon's situation with that of his corporate clients and other executives who come under fire.

"I have seen corporation presidents under less stress commit psychological or physical suicide," he said. That Nixon hasn't, he said, is becoming a focus of interest for millions of people

As a citizen, Jennings said he "aggressively pursued" Nixon's removal from office, but "professionally I root for the man: it is my bias as a counselor. I want to see him back to a good life."

People don't need to like the ex-president to be inspired by him, he concluded. 'He could receive the ultimate accolade: 'I can't forgive him for what he did, but I can forgive the man."

In 1971, Pope Paul VI celebrated his 74th birthday as the Italian press speculated he might resign before his next birthday

Lellem Welch Firm Urges Early Pre-Winter Heating Unit Check

That's right, the heating season is approaching, as has been hinted in some late September weather.

So . . . now is the time to start checking out those heating systems, is the wise word from Lellem Welch, Inc., 1401 Ave. J, phone 762-8797.

Save On Heating Costs Most people actually don't pay much attention to the appliances used for home heating, but with the cost of energy going up for both gas and electricity, users of heating appliances will begin to look closer at those heating costs. Right? Clean filters are a "must" for efficient heating operation. Dirty filters eat up energy by making the furnace motor run heat exchanger. Setting the thermostat lower also helps, but the addition of a humidifier (either portable or one attached to the heating ducts) helps put moisture back into dried-out heated air, and a humidifier makes lower temperatures more comfortable.

Floor furnaces should also be checked out to be sure they are clean. Remember, lint is a fire hazard and that a floor furnace just hangs under the floor out of sight and mind (and jumping up and down on it to make it come on is a hazard to one's health, for sure.)

Wall heaters should be checked for cracked heat exchangers, and all vents on all types of heating should be checked for leaks. All copper supply lines should be removed for safety rea-

Lellem Welch maintains a service department for those who do not wish to do this themselves, but Welch also maintains a complete sales store, with professional plumbers as salesmen, to help the "do-it-yourself" person.

"So, if you are looking for a part or parts for that old heating unit, give us a try. We also stock wall furnaces, floor furnaces and forced air heaters and fur-
