

President To Sign Road Bill

By BOB CAMPBELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Port-to-Plains Highway is no longer just an idea. It is provided for in a $51-billion, four-year highway and mass transit bill passed over the weekend by the House and Senate.

And President Carter, who said he might veto the highway bill if it looked inflationary, has told U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen that he will sign it.

Bentsen aide Jack Devore said Carter will sign the bill "sometime in the next 10 days" along with the other bills he will either sign or veto.

"It's assured of becoming law now," Devore said.

"It has been passed by Congress, and the president has assured Sen. Bentsen he'll sign it, so that's the last hurdle for it."

Yet another hurdle, that of the state highway department finding enough federal money to pay for it, was cleared in a Senate-House compromise creating a new "priority primary" fund in the U.S. Department of Transportation.

The state already has all of its federal highway funds allocated for the next 20 years and is not particularly helped by a provision giving 90 percent funding by the federal government instead of the standard 70-30 percentage for primary or

Pope Named To Succeed John Paul

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church today elected 58-year-old Polish Cardinal Karol Wojtyla as pope, the first non-Italian in 455 years to lead the ancient, 700-million-member church.

He took the name John Paul, the same as his predecessor.

Wojtyla, little-known archbishop of Krakow, is the 263rd successor to the Throne of St. Peter. The election of a prelate from a communist nation will doubtlessly have vast repercussions on relations between Rome and the East bloc.

White smoke, the traditional signal that a new pontiff is chosen, billowed into the night from the Sistine Chapel at 6:18 p.m. (12:18 CDT). "It is official, the pope is elected," the Vatican radio said.

The 111 cardinal-electors, meeting for the second time in two months to select a pontiff, made their decision in the second day of voting in their secret Sistine Chapel conclave. It came on what was apparently the seventh or eighth ballot.

The new pope, born in Wadowice, Poland, on May 18, 1920, was elevated to cardinal by Pope Paul VI 11 years ago and is a member of several Vatican congregations — Sacraments and Divine Worship, Clergy and Catholic Education.

He was born the son of a chemical factory worker, and has a good working relationship with the communist government of Poland.

He studied philosophy and theology at the seminary in Krakow and after his ordination went to Rome to take courses in philosophy at the Angelicum College, where he earned a doctorate in philosophy in 1948.

After his return to Poland, which coincided with the rise of the new communist government, he worked under severe restrictions as parish assistant in his archdiocese of Krakow.

At the same time, he acted as student counselor at the local university.

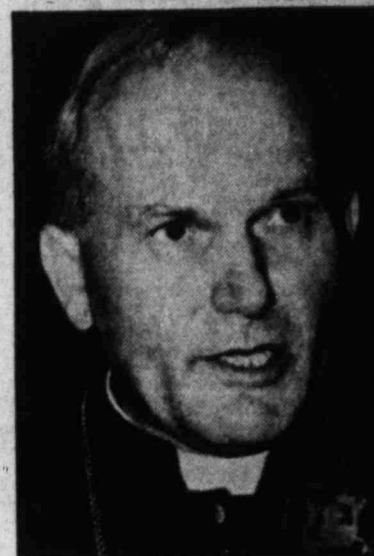

In an interview to Italian television just before the conclave, he said, "We try to be always close to the people. We share their worries. This creates confidence and it is the indispensable condition to fulfill our duty and our mission."

The last non-Italian pontiff was Dutchman Adrian VI, who reigned in 1522-23.

Despite its officially atheistic government, Poland is one of the world's most faithful Catholic countries. After the smoke appeared, the name of the new pope was not immediately announced, following tradition. Then the doors of a St. Peter's Basilica balcony overlooking the Vatican square swung open, and the senior cardinal deacon announced in Latin to the tens of thousands

SPAG Sets Meeting On Audit

Whether possible timesheet irregularities will cause the South Plains Association of Governments (SPAG) to cancel its contract for adult classroom training with Lubbock Opportunities Industrialization Center (LOIC) will be considered in an Oct. 27 meeting by the SPAG Executive Committee.

Committee members today set a 9 a.m. Oct. 27 meeting at SPAG headquarters, 1611 Avenue M, to review a recent Texas Employment Commission audit of the classroom training operation and consider the contract.

Lubbock County Judge Rodrick Shaw expressed alarm about the forthcoming audit during a SPAG board of directors meeting last week, and the board empowered the executive committee to meet prior to the next monthly meeting of the board and take whatever action it considers appropriate.

The $236,000-per-year operation is operated on 30-day contracts through SPAG and TEC with funding by the U.S. Department of Labor.

Shaw said he was concerned that class participants at the Adult Learning Center might improperly have been paid for classes they did not attend.

LOIC Director Dianna Henderson said students, who are paid minimum wage while taking classes, often called LOIC counselors instead of their Adult Learning Center instructors when they had to be absent, and the counselors changed timesheets at the end of the week to show absences as excused.

City Officers Hit By Suspect's Car

Lubbock police and security guards early this afternoon sealed off South Plains Mall in the search for a suspect who ran down two security guards who were questioning a woman about shoplifting.

The officers were not believed to be gravely injured, although one reportedly suffered a broken leg.

A Dillard's Department Store official said a female security guard stopped a black woman outside the store for questioning about shoplifting. He said the suspect started beating the guard on the head with a shoe. Help was summoned and a male guard came up to assist.

Witnesses said the suspect got in a car which sped off, striking the two guards as they were attempting to stop it.

Carter Praises Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 95th Congress, which waited until its final hours to deal with some major issues, passed into history praised as "courageous and constructive" by President Carter, who is awaiting the details of the tax cut bill that was its crowning effort.

Most indications today were that Carter would sign the $18.7-billion measure, which would cut taxes for 65 million couples and individuals next year.

As the bill took final form on Sunday, Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, who was present throughout the drafting, said it "is reasonably close to most of the president's targets."

Stuart Eizenstat, Carter's chief domestic adviser, took a more cautious approach, saying: "Whether they have made enough progress to merit our signing of the bill will depend on our analysis."

In a telephone conversation with House Democratic Whip John Brademas of Indiana, the president said from his retreat at Camp David, Md., that the 95th was "one of the most courageous and constructive congresses in the history of the country."

Not until the final hours of its two-year life did the 95th Congress complete action on energy and taxes. Many of Carter's original energy proposals never emerged from the Capitol, but the president and his supporters counted as a victory the package that finally passed.

The tax bill was the last major achievement of the Congress and most members voted for it with no chance to examine all its details. When the bill reached the House and Senate for final action, there were only seven copies available of the conference committee report, completed a few hours earlier.

Carter will not get the official version of the bill for several days.

Some assessments of the Democratic-controlled Congress, which was in office the first two years of the Carter presidency, were less rosy than that of the president.

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., said the 95th did "less for the average working person in this country" than any Congress he had seen.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., however, said Congress had voted the biggest tax cut in history and "still kept its long-standing commitment to meet the social needs of the nation."

Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia said, "This has not been a rubber stamp Congress, yet it has not been a balking, unyielding Congress." He said he thought Carter's record in the Congress was "very good."

And Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee, the Republican leader, said GOP members of Congress had "changed the whole direction of the federal government" by pushing for tax relief and less government intervention in business.

The last major action of the 34-hour, 17-minute weekend session that ended Congress' two-year run was passage of compromise legislation cutting taxes on individuals and corporations by $18.7 billion.

But for most individuals, it won't offset a higher overall tax bite from inflation and increased Social Security withholding.

The tax changes, if the bill is signed by Carter, will take effect next Jan. 1 and will be reflected in tax returns due to be filed by April 15, 1980.

The bill cuts individual income taxes in 1979 by about $12.7 billion, reduces business taxes by $3.6 billion, and gives investors a big break by cutting the capital-gains tax by a net $2.1 billion.

The measure also raises the $750 personal exemption to $1,000; increases the standard deductions from $2,200 to $2,400 for single persons and from $3,200 to $3,400 for couples; and expands the earned-income credit for poor working families, to a maximum of $500.

For the first time, some unemployment

Suspect Nabbed In Attack Here

By JACK DOUGLAS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Police arrested a 19-year-old Lubbock man shortly before 4 a.m. today after two sisters were stabbed — one of them seriously hurt — at their apartment near Texas Tech University.

And authorities said they hope they can connect the suspect with the large number of recent rapes committed around the area where the sisters live.

One of the sisters, an 18-year-old woman, was listed today in serious condition at West Texas Hospital, suffering from stab wounds in the chest, shoulder and back.

The other woman, age 22, living in the apartment in an area east of the Texas Tech campus was also taken to West Texas where she was treated and released.

Police were told a black man entered the apartment about 3:30 a.m. today and attempted to rape the sisters. The older woman said she and her sister were stabbed when they fought off their attacker.

She said the suspect fled when he realized he had seriously hurt one of the women. About 10 minutes later, police arrested the man, who was wearing white clothes reportedly stained by blood, near an apartment complex at 6th Street and Avenue S.

Police Det. J.R. Ashmore said the teenager could be involved in other sexual assaults on women living in the area. He said the suspect would be in a line-up shown to past rape victims today.

The older woman said she and her sister were awakened in their bedroom by a man wielding a knife. She said the man

Area Students Below National Norms

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

As a group, South Plains schoolchildren are scoring slightly below Texas averages — and below national norms — in reading and mathematics achievement, according to a state-sponsored study.

For instance, in contrast to a nationally normed score of 50, Texas sixth graders are averaging only a 45 in reading on the California Achievement Test. The average for sixth graders in the 20-county South Plains area is 43.

In math, against the national standard of 50, the Texas sixth graders' score is 48 — and the South Plains average, 47.

Those and other test results are documented in the Texas Assessment Project, a study ordered by the 1977 legislature and conducted under the auspices of the Texas Education Agency.

James Whiteside of Lubbock, the South Plains' representative on the state board, said the low scores don't mean the schools of Texas — or this region in particular — are doing a poor job.

Instead, socioeconomic levels are "the big factor. Texas has a higher percentage of low-income families than the nation as a whole, and the Lubbock area has a higher percentage than the state."

The Texas Assessment Project involved testing a random sample of 113,307 students across the state last spring. Results include statewide summaries and listings for each of Texas' 20 Education Service Center regions.

Region XVII encompasses the 64 school districts on the South Plains. It includes Lubbock.

The California Achievement Test was given to a representative sample of sixth graders in each region. The test's national norm is 50 — meaning that nationwide, half the students would be expected to score above a 50 and half below.

Region XVII posted an average score of 43 in both vocabulary and comprehension, for a composite reading score of 43. In comparison, Texas as a whole had a 47 in vocabulary and 44 in comprehension, with an overall reading score of 45.

South Plains sixth graders averaged a 51 in computation and a 43 in concepts and applications, for a composite math score of 47. Statewide, sixth graders had a 54 in computation, 43 in concepts and applications, and a 48 in overall math.

Despite the lower achievement scores, South Plains students did well on criterion-referenced tests which measured specific objectives already set for Texas students in reading and math.

Eleventh graders on the South Plains, for instance, beat the state averages on such skills as using charts and maps, day-to-day math and handling money matters.

Threat Forces Landing

LONDON (AP) — Twenty passengers were slightly injured escaping from a British jetliner that landed at a Canadian arctic base because of a bomb hoax but all continued on to London, British Airways reported today.

A spokesman said the injured received bruises, twisted ankles and similar minor hurts sliding down emergency chutes when the DC-10 landed Sunday at Frobisher Bay, on Baffin Island, during flight BA282 from Los Angeles to Britain.

The plane was carrying 231 passengers. Four hours out of Los Angeles, the pilot, Capt. J.H. Robb, was informed that an anonymous caller had told the Los Angeles police there was an explosive device on board, and it would explode in three hours. The nearest airfield was a Frobisher Bay. The plane was searched thoroughly, and no bomb was found. After five hours, the plane took off but flew to Kennedy Airport in New York because continuation of the flight to London would have exceeded the crew's legal work time, the spokesman said.

DR. LAMB

Jogging Not Racing

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — A fellow jogger and I have a dispute that we hope you can solve for us. I have been told when you are getting into shape, or returning to physical exercise after being away from it, that you should run or exercise until you can't talk or you are breathing very hard. Then you slow up and walk until you nearly regain normal breathing and start in again. My friend says you should keep pushing on and never stop until you absolutely have to. This just causes me to feel like I am dying. So I have always used the run-rest method. Could you tell us which method is better?

Also, could you tell me if running on pavement would have any effects on my bones later in life? I run on pavement now, but I was told that if it doesn't hurt you now, you will be feeling it later on in life. Is this true or not?

DEAR READER — I really hope I don't have to choose between the two methods you and your friend are using for jogging. I don't think much of either one of them as a training method.

od. Somewhere along the line, the general myth has been propagated that the way to train or develop physical stamina is to abuse the body. You don't need to do that.

All you need to do is to train — not strain. The purpose of jogging isn't speed anyway. Just jog at a comfortable rate that will still permit you to talk without getting winded. That's fast enough. Take a little more time to cover the distance. The distance you cover is what's really important.

The way to train properly is to start out gradually, then keep it up in a consistent manner. The two key words are gradual and consistent. If you are interested in running for speed and are an athlete, young and in good health, then once you develop an appreciable degree of endurance through normal sensible jogging, you may go on to racing activities, if that's what you want to do.

But you shouldn't confuse normal jogging with racing. Sensible, proper jogging is all right for almost all healthy people who have built up to that level of exercise.

Running or exerting one-self to the limit is most certainly not for everybody. There is a good reason why you might feel like you are dying if you keep on pushing after your body has told you that you are overdoing it. Most of the deaths that have occurred during jogging have been in people who were out of shape when they jogged to begin with, or in those who tried to jog too fast. That old competitive drive is particularly bad in men and they seem to always want to shorten the time required to jog a certain distance, or they want to outdo their friend. The end result can be a disaster.

To give you a better idea about the dangers of overdoing it and the relative safety of jogging correctly versus jogging foolishly I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-2, Jogging, Exertion, Sudden Death.

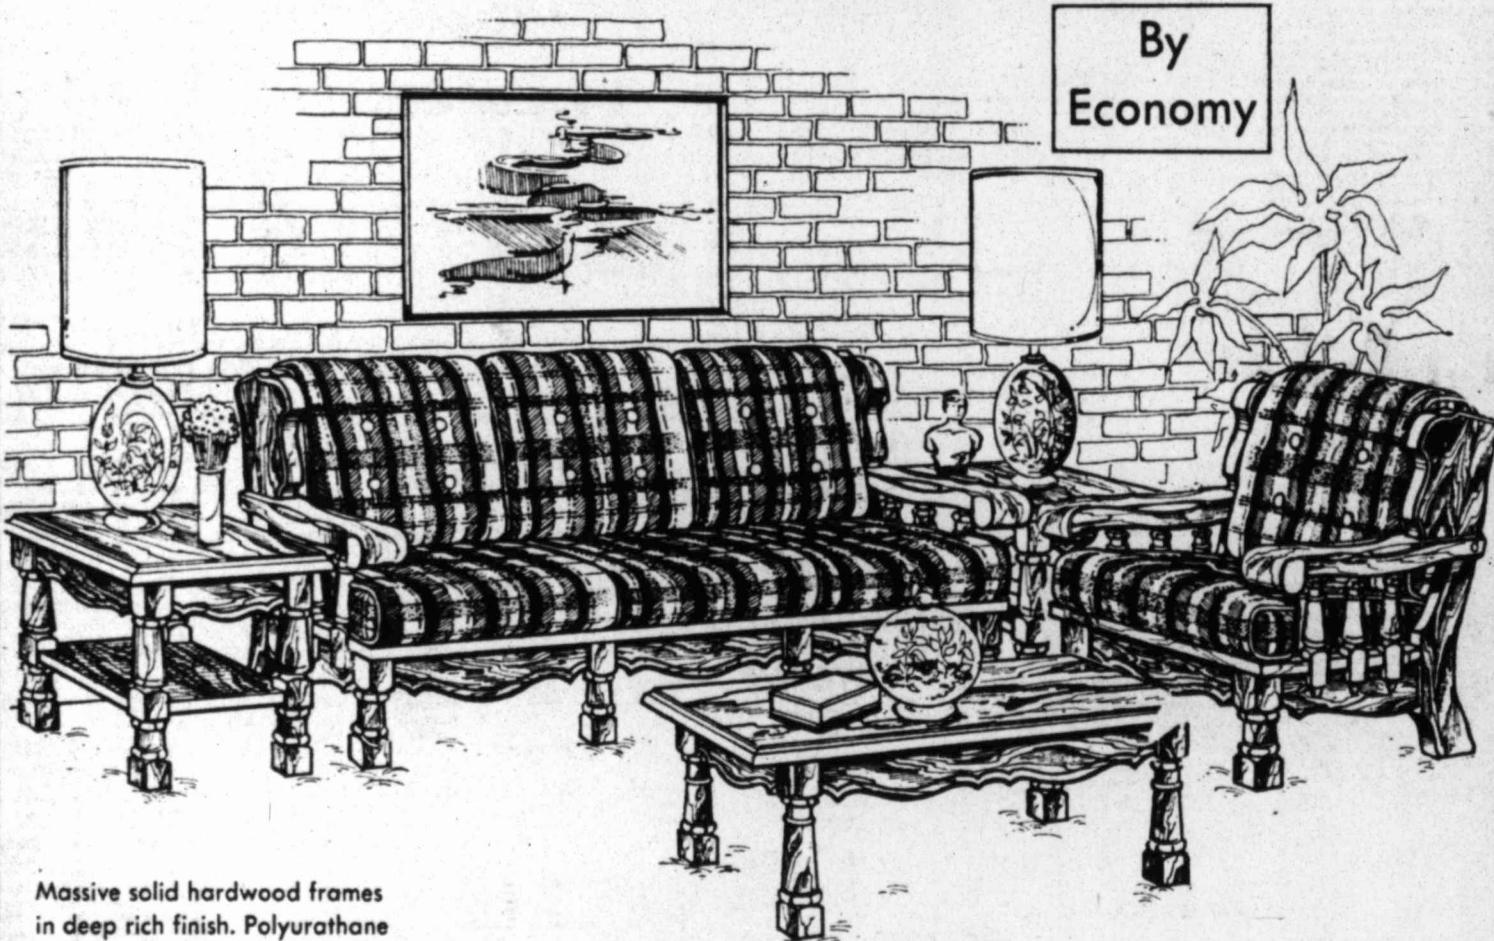

Jogging is wonderful exercise but you must be sensible about it. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Individual Investors Keep Power In Marketplace

By FLOYD NORRIS
NEW YORK (AP) — Looking for a longshot investment? How about betting on the Czars staging a comeback in Russia? Some investors seem to be doing just that by purchasing Imperial Russian bonds — issued in dollars when the Czars ruled Russia and repudiated after the Bolshevik Revolution.

The bonds, like those from Cuba and what now is East Germany, are unlikely to pay off anytime soon. But that was what they said about bonds from other Eastern European countries. Those nations since have repaid investors partially for their securities.

Before those settlements, "the bonds could be had for as little as 2 to 5 cents on the dollar. Ultimately these bonds were worth 30 to 40 cents on the dollar," said Jack Golden, a vice president at Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis.

The Russian bonds, in two issues totaling $75 million, were issued in 1916 — a year before Imperial Russia ceased to exist.

The Soviet government has never shown any inclination to make good on the bonds, but that hasn't stopped the speculation.

"After the war (World War II), people had the idea maybe Russia was going to make good because we helped them during the war," said Stanley Roggenburg, the president of Deltec Securities. Prices rose to as high as 22 cents on the dollar.

Prices fell with the Cold War. But indications of friendlier relations in the mid-1960s sent prices as high as a dime on the dollar. They are now under 3 cents.

"There are all sorts of psychologies involved," said Golden, adding, "I personally don't think the chances (of the Russians offering a settlement) are even remote."

"We're hopeful, but we're hopeful to the extent that hope springs eternal," said Daniel Collier, a vice president of Carl Marks and Co., a firm that has long had substantial holdings of many defaulted bonds, including the Russian ones.

Pressure by the American government appears to have played at least some role in persuading such Eastern European countries as Hungary, Poland, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria to settle on bonds issued by predecessor governments between the two world wars.

But there is little indication that, with all the issues pending between the U.S. and the Soviets, the United States has much concern about speculators in Czarist bonds.

Some people see hope in the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act of 1976. By some interpretations, that law would allow the holder of some Czarist bonds to sue the Russians in U.S. court and seize a Russian asset, say a cargo of grain, as security. But the law has never been tested.

The Almanac TODAY IN HISTORY

Scandal After Scandal...

TWO MORE CONGRESSMEN were formally accused of possible wrongdoing over the weekend, heaping new fuel on the burning conviction that corruption is rampant in Washington, D.C. Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., second only to his sidekick, Sen. Ted Kennedy, as the idol of the liberal establishment, was accused of "neglect of duty" by a Senate Ethics Committee report dealing with the activities of Koran influence peddler Tongsun Park.

It is a federal offense to accept a contribution in a federal building. Adding to the aura of suspicion around Congress is the fact that, just a week earlier, U.S. Rep. Charles C. Diggs Jr., D-Mich., founder of the Congressional Black Caucus, was convicted on 29 counts of mail fraud and falsifying payrolls.

AND SO IT GOES. As one Congressman after another gets into hot water for allegedly playing fast and loose with his and the taxpayers' money, the public's confidence in the institutions of a democratic government continues to wallow in the shallows.

BAYH DENIED the allegations against him, of course, wondering aloud why the investigators had turned over to the Justice Department for possible prosecution allegations that he accepted a cash contribution from Park.

It is this beginning to create a constitutional crisis at least as great as that created by the Watergate scandal which also had elements of a lust for power but which even so was not motivated by personal financial greed as are the current scandals and hints of scandals.

Weak Spot In The Tressle

James J. Kilpatrick:

Sears And The Socket Wrench

WASHINGTON—One of the great recurring themes in life as in literature—a theme that never loses its special satisfaction—is the theme of David and Goliath. It turned up week before last in the U.S. Supreme Court.

THE SEARS people were having a close look at the young man's socket wrench. The top tool buyer was so impressed that Sears had its chief toolmaker, the Moore Drop Forging Co., cast a couple of prototypes for testing.

Within days after the agreement was signed, Sears was manufacturing 44,000 wrenches a week. By 1975 it had sold upward of 19 million. Roberts' counsel now estimates sales at 25 million—and every wrench proudly bears the Roberts Patent No. 3,208,318.

THE TEENAGED clerk loved to tinker with tools. On his own time, he invented a quick release socket wrench, a device so ingenious that it permitted a mechanic to change sockets with one hand.

BUT IT WAS implied that because Roberts was such a fine young fellow, and a Sears clerk to boot, the company would pay him $10,000 for all the domestic and foreign rights.

THE UPSHOT IS that the District Court, on remand, now will consider rescission of the contract of the patent, and further restitution. Roberts' lawyers estimate "conservatively" that Sears has made $44 million in profits off the Roberts wrench.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Kenneth May

Road To Somewhere

THE OFFICE CUTIE has adopted a "get tough" attitude toward demonstrators. Says she would have ended that strike at the Texas Department of Corrections overnight "by simply arresting all of the strikers and throwing them in jail."

gress did (on the 14th amendment a century ago); the contract analogy does not establish the logic of Congressional action on the 14th amendment."

lane divided road will be of great benefit to this region's economy.

In their traffic safety crackdown, Lubbock police will ticket drivers who illegally change lanes and cause an accident—if, in the absence of lane markings, anyone can figure out where the lanes are.

He further agrees, I'm happy to note, that "the contract analogy is a subject of fair debate for lawyers and non-lawyers alike."

Together with the planned extension of I-27 across the city, the demonstration project on through San Angelo to I-10 will begin to give this region the same type of highway facilities the rest of the state has enjoyed for years already.

News reports say an Ohio man suffered a relapse after psychiatrists "fused his 10 personalities." In other words, he lost his head and blew a fuse.

A federal mediator awarded postal workers higher pay, unlimited cost-of-living raises and lifetime job guarantees.

GENE ROBBINS, president of the Texas Good Roads/Transportation Association, has called Texas Monthly's attention to its narrow-mindedness about narrow highways in West Texas.

LAW PROFESSOR Rodric B. Schoen says "any logical defects" likening the Constitutional amendment ratification process to a contract "should not be attributed to me."

Before they got their raise, postal workers averaged $8.67 per hour, according to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The provincial downstate rag recently printed a snide article about letting West Texans get enough of their federal gasoline tax dollars back to build Interstate 27 between here and Amarillo.

He was referring back to his remarks quoted the other day with reference to the ratification of the federal Equal Rights Amendment.

Today's MAY BOUQUET: To U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, who was the driving force behind including a "connector primary" highway upgrading from Lubbock to Interstate 10 near San Antonio in this year's federal highway bill.

Unfortunately, (the writer) was not playing with a full deck. The traffic count on the present U.S. 87/I-27 just north of Lubbock is 12,320 vehicles per day. This is a few more than the 10 cars your reporter says you would see driving from Lubbock to Amarillo. The lowest count on the road is 5,240 vehicles per day near Happy.

Under the contract analogy, he said that when a state accepts an amendment by ratification it cannot later change its mind; however, a state which rejects an amendment is free to reconsider it.

Bob Nash and I tagged along with Lubbock Chamber of Commerce Executive Vice President John Logan earlier this year when he made all the appropriate contacts in Washington about the route.

George Wall, district engineer of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation in Lubbock, says that by 1995 the traffic count on I-27 just north of Lubbock will be 94,000 vehicles per day.

I pointed out what I considered to be flaws in that reasoning, especially if the time limit for ratification is extended over the objections of any state that might decide it erred in ratifying it.

This highway has been at the top of the C-C's program of work for several years. If it's signed into law and funded—and then built—the four-

Wall says there is no way this volume of traffic could be handled without a limited access (interstate-type) highway. I hope Texas Monthly will set the record straight.

Holmes Alexander:

Peace Search Springs Eternal

WASHINGTON—Jimmy Carter's got a winning streak going for him—atta boy, Jimmy!—but let's not forget Woodrow Wilson.

The Israeli prime minister and the Egyptian president held open Congressional meetings, both leaders convening with members of both houses, but instead of disposing of lingering questions, the meetings seemed to have raised new ones.

They may renege on what Carter never claimed to be more than an iffy agreement. There are predictions at large that terrorists from both camps will go to work to spoil the plan.

The pieces in the jigsaw puzzle are quite different in color, shape and size, but the fundamental object in 1978 as in 1918, is international peace. For one man to smooth passions and find answers that are deep-bred in human nature is expecting a lot.

Mainly, in doubt is how long and how strong the President's soothing influence can last. If the Israeli lawmakers are not touched by the magic of Carter's wish for peace-at-any-price, they are likely to set their own price, now or later.

But where Wilson was arrogant, Carter is humble. That could make the difference, here on earth, as well as in heaven, where the final decision lies for peace among men and nations.

Too much? Despite the almost inebriated euphoria produced by the House Chamber spectacle of Arab hugging Jew, there was a spitting snakepit of "ifs" at Carter's elbow while he spoke.

They are familiar to Americans who have followed the 30-year Arab-Israeli war—so seeing will be believing.

Winnipeg Star Syndicate, Inc. 10-16

IF ISRAEL actually abandons the settlements which they have built on conquered land, it's peace, perfect peace, in the Mideast. It's what President Sadat generously called "Jimmy Carter's Summit."

HE SEEMS ALMOST certain to have made a long gain in the energy crisis by getting Congress to accept most of his natural gas plan.

Sylvia Porter:

Sylvia Porter:

Help Out Your Kids And Cut Taxes, Too!

Sixth of 10 columns IF YOU'RE TYPICAL of millions of grandparents in the U.S., you are helping your children with the expenses of your grandchildren—clothing costs, medical bills, nursery school expenses, etc.

WHAT TO DO: Make sure that as much of your support payments as possible go to pay for your grandchild's medical expenses. By doing this, the same dollars do double duty—they give you a shot at a dependency deduction plus a bigger medical deduction.

You're delighted to do this, but you can get significant tax benefits out of your generosity as well.

And the new tax law? What impact will it have upon this deduction? Make it even better! For your grandson or your granddaughter will be able to earn up to $1,000 and still qualify as your dependent.

How? Because if you're paying your grandchildren's expenses, you may be in line for extra dependency deductions and possibly an increase in your medical expense deduction, too.

You, at the same time, will get a dependency deduction of $1,000 for the grandchild you claim as a dependent—a full one-third larger deduction than you can get in 1978.

The crucial test: to get either type of deduction, you must provide more than half the total support of your grandchildren.

Tomorrow: Turn your home's higher value into tax-free cash.

IF YOUR SON and his family do not live with you, meeting the more-than-half support test will involve more dollars than you now think.

What should you do, then? Concentrate your payments on one grandchild. The result is you stand a better chance of providing more than half the support for at least one grandchild.

So even if you pay more of your grandchildren's cash expenses than your son pays, you still may be providing less than half their support—at least as far as tax law is concerned.

Of course, providing more than half the support is not the same thing as proving it. If your grandchildren are not living with you, the IRS may look with special care at your dependency claim.

HERE'S ANOTHER guide, therefore: make the checks payable to your son, but write on the check that the money is to go for the support of a particular grandchild.

CAUTION: Don't have your support payments go to a working grandchild, for a grandparent cannot claim a dependency deduction for a grandchild whose gross income is $750 or more in '78 ($1,000 or more in '79).

In this way, you will gain evidence to show precisely how much you contributed to that grandchild's support for the year.

BUT THE SAME child could be claimed by a parent (your son) if the child is under 19 or a full-time student—and the parent provides more than half the child's support.

Say you do in fact provide more than half the support of one of your grandchildren, and you can prove it. You then can take a $750 dependency deduction for your grandchild on your 1978 return, $1,000 on your 1979 return.

Added deduction: You can enter your grandchild's medical expenses on your return if (1) you

Your son and his wife won't get a deduction for your grandchild, but in their presumably lower tax bracket, the deduction is less valuable to them than to you.

Added deduction: You can enter your grandchild's medical expenses on your return if (1) you

CAUTION: Don't have your support payments go to a working grandchild, for a grandparent cannot claim a dependency deduction for a grandchild whose gross income is $750 or more in '78 ($1,000 or more in '79).

Star Learned Lesson From Dad

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — John Ritter, star of ABC's popular "Three's Company" television series, says he learned what it was like to be famous from his father — cowboy actor-singer-composer Tex Ritter.

"I remember going out with my father in public," said John, 30. "I was just a little kid, and he took me by the hand. Then as the people crowded around, he had to sign autographs and I got separated from him."

"He patiently signed every one of the autographs until the last fan was satisfied. I'll never forget the way people looked at him, with love and admiration. It was a wonderful thing to see."

John, in a recent interview, calculated that his father was away from home one-third of the time, on film locations or playing rodeos and music halls. In his last years Tex Ritter moved to Nashville to be closer to the country music scene. John remained in California, attending the University of Southern California.

"I never felt deprived as a son," John remarked. "When Dad did come home from the road, he didn't watch television or go out with the boys. He devoted his full attention to his family."

Bobbie Gentry Marries

SOMERVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee Lt. Gov. John Wilder officiated at the wedding of country music stars Bobbie Gentry and Jim Stafford.

They were married Sunday in a private ceremony on the 120-acre Fayette County estate they bought two weeks ago.

There were no attendants or guests. However, reporter Mary George Beggs and photographer Thomas Busler of The Commercial Appeal in Memphis were present.

The bride, of Chickasaw County, Miss., gained fame with her recording of "Ode to Billie Joe." More than 35 million copies of the record were sold.

Stafford, a composer, singer and actor, currently stars in his first movie, "The Disc Jockey," which is being filmed in Nashville.

Prince Visits Manitoba Church

WINNIPEG, Manitoba (AP) — Britain's Prince Philip visited St. John's Cathedral and viewed a stained glass window installed last week that includes a likeness of the Queen holding the Scriptures.

Archbishop E.W. Scott, primate of the Anglican Church of Canada, said the prince made no comment Sunday on the likeness itself, but talked extensively with designer Ernest Ashcroft and Andy Cordner, head of the company that made the glass.

"He seemed much more interested in the whole technology of it," the bishop said. "He was very interested in how they got the colors so rich and glowing."

Philip also visited a Roman Catholic hospital and a training facility for sea cadets here.

Frat Pins In The Pen

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP) — Theodore Williams is trying to organize a new fraternity that would give a new twist to the term fraternity pin.

Williams is prisoner No. 89127-132 at the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth. He wants to start a fraternity of prison inmates who take courses from the University of Kansas.

University professors visit the prison at night and on weekends to offer courses such as Western Civilization, Human Learning and Memory, and Social Problems and American Values.

Williams, sent to Leavenworth in 1976 for transporting stolen checks across state lines, is one of 70 inmates taking the classes through the school's continuing education program. He says he's got 30 inmates ready to join his fraternity if he can get it organized.

"The experience of working together is something the average guy here hasn't had," he says. "That is, with the possible exception of a street gang, which is sort of a negative thing. We're looking for something more pro-social."

Policeman Plans Trip To Havana Via Jet Ski

NEW YORK (AP) — A 32-year-old policeman who plans to ride a Jet Ski from Havana to Miami says a test run from Boston to Manhattan was frustrating to say the least.

Jim Carlin of Saddle Brook, N.J. left Boston Harbor about 7:30 a.m. Saturday, aiming to reach New York Harbor in 12 to 13 hours. He reached Manhattan Sunday night — 36 hours later.

"It was just an endurance test," he said afterward. "I'm very unhappy with the time. I ran into every single problem I could have. The tide was high and the fog kept me in Boston Harbor until about 10:30 yesterday morning."

Carlin, who set a record in July by riding the gasoline-powered ski 1,300 miles from the Statue of Liberty to Florida, plans the Havana to Miami run in December.

Closing Costs Complicate, Add To Home Prices

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

There's more to buying a house than finding the right place to live and taking out a mortgage. Closing costs can complicate the purchase and add hundreds or even thousands of dollars to the already steep price of your new home, and it pays to be prepared.

When you apply for a loan, the lender is required by federal law to give you a copy of a government booklet on settlement or closing costs. The lender also must give you a non-binding, "good faith" estimate of most of the closing charges. (The law does not define "good faith;" if the final bill differs greatly from the estimate, you would be wise to investigate.)

According to Consumer's Union, closing costs can vary, depending on where you live, from just under 1 percent to nearly 7 percent of the price of the house. The closing costs on a $50,000 house, therefore, could run anywhere from about $500 to $3,500.

Some closing costs stem from legal requirements; others are a matter of custom. You may be able to negotiate with the seller to split the bill for some of the costs. Here is a list of the most common items:

Title search — A title or abstract company or lawyer will search previous ownership records to establish the right of the current owner to sell the property to you.

Title insurance — A policy which protects the lender against any ownership problems which were not revealed by the title search. In some areas the buyer is expected to pay for the policy; in others, it is the seller's responsibility. Either way, it protects only the lender. If you want title insurance for yourself, you need your own policy. Buy both kinds of coverage at the same time; the rate will be lower than if you purchased them separately. If the house you are buying has been recently insured, contact the company which wrote the original policy and ask for a discount known as a "reissue" rate.

Attorney's fees — If the sale is a complicated one, it is a good idea to hire your own lawyer. The lawyer who represents the lender or the seller is not responsible for protecting your interests. You will, of course, have to pay the fee for any lawyer you hire. You also may be required to pay the fee for the lender's attorney. Don't be afraid to shop around and bargain with the lawyer, title company, etc. Insist on the right to choose your own supplier of services; don't simply accept the recommendation of the realtor.

Survey — The lender may require a survey to determine the precise location of the house and the property. You can save money if you get the seller to give you his or her old survey and an affidavit stating that no changes have been made in the structures on the property that would overlap the boundaries. Many lenders will accept this in place of a new survey.

Preparation of documents — This charge covers the cost of preparing the deed, mortgage and other papers necessary for the transfer of the property.

Loan origination fee — A charge made by the lender to cover the administrative cost of the loan. It is usually a small percentage of the face value of the mortgage.

Mortgage discount "points" — A one-time payment to the lender in cases where the interest rate on the mortgage is less than the going rate for other types of loans. Each "point" is 1 percent of the original mortgage amount. Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration regulations require someone other than the buyer to pay the discount. (If the seller has to foot the bill for "points," he or she may raise the price of the house to make up the difference.)

Mortgage insurance premiums — A fee paid to a company or government agency which guarantees the lender against loss if you are unable to make payments. This insurance is often required if the amount of the loan exceeds 80 percent of the value of the property or if the mortgage is insured by the FHA. (Do not confuse this type of insurance with mortgage life or disability policies designed to pay off the loan in the event of disability or death.)

The closing itself is the final step in the transfer of property from one person to another. In some parts of the country, the closing is handled by a third party known as an escrow agent, but in most areas there is a meeting involving the buyer and seller, representatives of the lender, title company and real estate broker and any lawyers hired by either party. You must bring enough money to this meeting to complete the sale.

Pregnancy Increases In Young

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly a quarter of the women under 25 years of age who got married between 1972 and 1976 either had already borne a child out of wedlock or were pregnant at the time of their marriage, a Census Bureau report says.

"This means that almost one-quarter of all newlyweds under 25 began their marital careers with an already existing or developing family which could potentially strain their financial or emotional resources," the report says.

Included on a sample questionnaire used in the survey were spaces asking women to list the date of their first marriage and the date of birth of their first child.

The report says that of the 6.7 million women ages 14 to 24 who first married between 1972 and 1976, 9.4 percent had a child before marriage; 14.4 percent were already pregnant when they married, and 76.1 percent had never had a child.

Twenty years earlier, census figures showed that about one out of five newlywed women either had a child or were pregnant when they first married.

The study, released Sunday, also found that more young married women have been choosing to have fewer children, according to a detailed Census Bureau report on the fertility of American women.

In 1967, young married women said they expected 2,800 births per 1,000 married women — or about three children each. Advance figures show that in June 1978, married women ages 18 to 34 said they expected 2,113 births per 1,000 wives — or around two children per woman.

The 1978 figure is very close to the 2,115 births per 1,000 wives needed to keep the size of the population constant, says the report released Sunday. Among women ages 18 to 24 lifetime birth expectations are slightly below the replacement level at 2,033 per 1,000 women.

Although black and white married women interviewed in 1977 said they expected about two children per woman, the report says, black women have had more births per woman than white women.

"Undoubtedly, if young black wives intend to have a completed family size similar to that of white wives who have significantly fewer births to date, they must practice a high degree of fertility control in future years," the report says.

Overall, the report shows that in the last decade, women's attitudes about childbearing and marriage have changed significantly. More women are postponing marriage; more women are working before and after marriage as well as choosing to have fewer children.

Congress Kills Sugar Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A compromise bill that would have added 1.5 cents to the retail price of a five-pound bag of sugar this winter was killed by the House although the measure had administration support and had passed the Senate.

The 194-177 vote against the bill Sunday, means that consumer prices for sugar could drop sharply next July when current support prices expire.

A 1977 law that pushed retail sugar prices up by about 3 cents a pound last winter requires another 1.2-cent-a-pound hike this winter, meaning that a five-pound bag that cost consumers $1.23 last summer will rise to $1.29.

However, without a new law, a return to free trade could bring the national average price below $1.

Nearly every speaker in the House denounced the sugar measure as a bad bill for farmers. One called it "obviously a farce" after this year because wage rates for sugar plantation workers would have been forced up 7 percent a year while support prices rose 1 percent.

Retired General Pledges To Return Civilian Power To Brazil

By RICHARD W. FOSTER
BRASILIA, Brazil (AP) — Retired Gen. Joao Baptista Figueiredo has been elected Brazil's fifth military president in 14 years and says "at heart, what I like best are bugle calls and barracks."
But the 60-year-old leader elected Sunday based his campaign on a pledge to return power to a civilian government when his term ends in 1985. He takes office March 15.

He was handpicked by his predecessor, Gen. Ernesto Geisel and easily defeated another retired general, Euler Bentes Monteiro, by a vote of 355 to 226. He needed 295 votes from the 580-member electoral college.
Before the campaign, all most Brazilians knew about the heavy-set, florid general was that he headed the National Intelligence Service — a kind of combined FBI and CIA — and had a passion for thoroughbred jumping horses. The former cavalry officer still takes a daily horseback ride shortly after dawn over a 2 1/4-mile course on his 30-acre estate on the dry prairie surrounding Brasilia.

He was born in Rio de Janeiro across the street from a cavalry regiment where his father was an officer. When he was eleven he enrolled in a military school and eventually worked his way to the top of the army staff.
His election was no surprise since he was the candidate of the National Renovating Alliance, or ARENA Party, which controls a majority in both houses of Congress and dominates the state legislatures. Members from the latter made up the electoral college.

The Brazilian Congress has been divested by the military of most legislative powers and the ARENA majority rubber-stamps most legislation proposed by the administration.
Since the late 1950s Figueiredo has served in key army staff positions under several of the officers who, in March of 1964, executed a carefully hatched coup to oust left-leaning President Joao Goulart.
"Today a never-dreamed dream begins for me," Figueiredo told a national television and radio broadcast Sunday.
Apparently referring to the criticism of Geisel's regime, he said, "in the history of a great nation like ours, there have to be conflicts, shocks, disappointments and errors. Seen from the limited viewpoint of sterile negativism, or opportunistic ambition, these problems can serve as a pretext for lack of hope. But he who does not believe is not Brazilian."

On Sunday, two unidentified military officers, both former staffers in the presidential palace, were under military arrest for charging Figueiredo and his backers had improperly used federal capital and had mounted an extensive national system of telephone tapping.

Monteiro, the defeated candidate, was drafted two months ago to head the presidential ticket of the Brazilian Democratic Movement, but his campaign ran into trouble immediately over the choice of a military man as presidential candidate.

Search For Guerrillas Conducted By Troops

UMTALI, Rhodesia (UPI) — Rhodesian troops fanned through the wooded hills outside Umtali today stalking the guerrillas who launched the heaviest mortar barrage on the city in six years of war.
Witnesses said the infantry soldiers, ferried onto the rugged terrain by French-built Alouette helicopters, were backed by spotter planes flying through cloudy skies.

A military spokesman said five people — four whites and one black — were seriously injured in the Sunday night attack on Rhodesia's third largest city by Robert Mugabe's wing of the Patriotic Front guerrilla organization.
He said four suburban homes took direct hits and a mortar bomb crashed into the swimming pool of a fifth. A wing of Umtali hospital was damaged but no one was hurt, he said.
The barrage was launched from the Umtali Heights, a range of hills overlooking the city from the north, he said. A similar attack Sept. 7 came from the same area.
Residents said the assault, lasting about 30 minutes, was the most intensive against Umtali since the guerrilla war to topple the regime of Prime Minister Ian Smith began in December 1972.
"There must have been hundreds of the bloody things falling," Umtali resident Andrea Nutt said. "The whole house shook."
She said she and her 10-year-old son took cover under a mattress in the hall. "Wasn't that something, Mommy?" she quoted the boy as saying afterwards.
One unidentified resident said it was a near miracle no one was killed in the attack. "Someone up there has to be watching over us," he said.
Umtali, just one mile west of the border with Mozambique and inside the "operation thrasher" martial law zone proclaimed last month, is the headquarters for the army's third brigade.

CHECKS FOR DAMAGE — Adrienne Stonek, a resident of Atlanta Towers high-rise apartments, checks her balcony for damage after an early Sunday morning fire forced two residents to jump to their deaths and a third to die in his apartment. Above her is a smoke-damaged balcony on the ninth floor where the fire reportedly began. (AP Laserphoto)

Flames Sweep Through Atlanta Apartment

ATLANTA (AP) — A blind man who helped his roommate to safety died of smoke inhalation and two persons jumped screaming to their deaths as an intense fire swept through the ninth floor of a high-rise apartment building.

About 24 persons evacuated from the 22-story Atlanta Towers apartment building Sunday were treated at local hospitals, mostly for smoke inhalation, authorities said.

The man and woman jumped from a ninth-floor window before rescuers responding to the early morning blaze could reach them.

Assistant Fire Chief Jack Hood said investigators identified the male victim as Jim Reed. However, Sgt. J.E. Hendrix of the Fulton County coroner's office said no positive identification had been made of either victim.

Also killed in the blaze, said Hood, was Richard Lee, a 38-year-old blind man identified by friends as a vendor at a state Agriculture Department snack room.

Hood said Lee apparently died of smoke inhalation in the bedroom of a ninth-floor apartment.

According to friends, the man and woman killed in the jump were visiting Lee when the fire broke out.

Larry Renew, Lee's roommate, said the blind man woke him up and pushed him out of the apartment, then went back in, apparently to rescue the two others.

At least two elderly residents remained hospitalized overnight Sunday — Ralph David Reisman, 62, who was reported in good condition suffering from smoke inhalation, and James McCormick, 78, in good condition with unknown injuries.

Assistant Fire Chief Ray Gossett said a policeman responding to the fire shortly after 1:30 a.m. reached the eighth floor of the brick building when "he heard the people screaming up there on the ninth floor, hanging out the windows."

"He got to a window and tried to coax them into remaining calm and not jumping. Then he told us that when he turned around, he heard glass breaking. They had jumped."

Gossett said the pair probably would have perished even if they had remained in their apartment. "The heat was too intense," he said. "They didn't have a chance."

He said the cause of the fire, which turned the ninth-floor into a "kilo," remained under investigation late Sunday.

About 35 firemen walked through the 118-unit building in Atlanta's midtown area, escorting elderly residents to safety. Gossett said many residents shared oxygen masks with firefighters as they were led through smoke-filled corridors.

Fire officials said they were unsure how many persons were evacuated. They said some, whose apartments were not reached by the smoke, chose to stay behind.

Simon Takes Economics Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — American economist Herbert Simon was awarded the 1978 Nobel Prize for Economic Science today for pioneering research in the "decision-making process within economic organizations."

The Swedish Academy of Sciences also hailed the 62-year-old professor at Carnegie-Mellon University in Pittsburgh for his work in numerous related fields.

Simon, interviewed by telephone at his home in Pittsburgh, said he was "very surprised and very pleased" at the award.

He said the prize apparently was given to him for work he did about 20 years ago "on how people make decisions in complex organizations."

Simon said he built some "theories of decision making which took into account the limited information that people have and the limits on their ability to make elaborate calculations."

Simon is the seventh American to win the economics prize in the 10 years it has been awarded and the fourth American to win a Nobel award this year. The others so far this year are Yiddish author Isaac Bashevis Singer, who won the prize for literature, and microbiologists Daniel Nathans and Hamilton C. Smith of Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, who shared the prize in medicine with a Swiss, Werner Arber of the University of Basel.

Simon, a native of Milwaukee, has been professor of computer sciences and psychology at Carnegie-Mellon since 1965. He is the author of the 1958 bible of business administration, titled "Organizations," and has also held professorships in political science, administration and information sciences. But the Swedish Academy said he has also made significant contributions in the fields, among others, of science theory, applied mathematics, statistics, operations analysis, economics and business administration.

"In all areas in which he has conducted research, Simon has had something of importance to say and, as a rule, has developed his ideas to such an extent that it has been possible to use them as basis for empirical studies," the citation continued.

"But he is, most of all, an economist — in the widest sense of that word — and his name is associated most of all with publications in structure and decision-making within economic organizations, a relatively new area of economic research."

The Nobel Prizes this year are worth $165,000. The economics prize, a comparative newcomer to the group of awards, was set up by the Swedish Central Bank in 1968 and was first awarded in 1969.

The five other awards were established by the will of Alfred Nobel, the Swedish inventor of dynamite, and were first awarded in 1901. This year's prizes for physics, chemistry and peace are still to be announced.

A DAILY MESSAGE FROM

The Newspaper Bible.

Luke 9:1-7, The Living Bible

In the fifteenth year of the reign of the Emperor, Tiberius Caesar, a message came from God to John (the son of Zacharias), as he was living out in the deserts. (Pilate was governor over Judea at that time; Herod, over Galilee; his brother Philip, over Iturea and Trachonitis; Lysanias, over Abilene; and Annas and Caiaphas were the Jewish High Priests.)

3 Then John went from place to place on both sides of the Jordan River, preaching that people should be baptized to show that they had turned to God and away from their sins in order to be forgiven.

4 In the words of Isaiah the prophet, John was "a voice shouting from the barren wilderness, 'Prepare a road for the Lord to travel on! Widen the pathway before Him!'

5 Level the mountains! Fill up the valleys! Straighten the curves! Smooth out the ruts!

6 And then all mankind shall see the Savior sent from God."

7 Here is a sample of John's preaching to the crowds that came for baptism: "You brood of snakes! You are trying to escape hell without truly turning to God! That is why you want to be baptized!

Siamese Twin Dies Sunday

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — David A. Bain, a 39-year-old state worker, says he had hope until the last minute that at least one of his Siamese twin daughters would survive.

Tonya Bain died at 9:10 a.m. Sunday — less than 24 hours after the death of her sister, Sonya.

"Her weakened heart was never able to supply fully the needs of her body tissues and she died from unremitting cardiac failure," Dr. Howard Filston said in a brief statement.

The twins, born Oct. 3, were separated Thursday by doctors at Duke Medical Center in a desperate attempt to save their lives. Doctors never offered much hope that either child would survive.

Bill Will Up Beef Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher prices for beef are predicted under a congressional bill that would curtail the president's power to let more foreign meat into this country.

The bill, given final passage and sent to President Carter on Sunday, would end his authority to control high meat prices by overriding a complicated formula that fixes the amount of hamburger imports allowed.

"It is a cattleman's bill. I think the consumer will pay a higher price for beef because of it," said Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio.

The revamping of a 1964 meat-import law had been approved 289-66 in the House early Friday. Rather than try in the last hours of the session to resolve differences with its own bill, passed this summer, the Senate accepted the House version by voice vote.

Rep. Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, urged Carter to sign the measure as a reasonable compromise.

But chief Agriculture Department economist Howard Hjort said the bill is unacceptable, and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said he hoped Carter would veto the bill.

High prices are expected to be the rule for three to five years, until cattle herds are rebuilt to early-1970s levels.

Hamburger prices in the first half of this year rose 19 percent while prices to producers for hamburger-class cattle rose 54 percent — one of several indications that supplies of hamburger, normally more than 40 percent of U.S. beef production, are shrinking.

But even in good times, cattle ranchers complain that the 7 percent of the meat supply which comes from abroad hurts them by bringing down prices. Although the International Trade Commission says imports aren't a threat, the cattle industry has made imports its top political issue.

The bill covers fresh, chilled and frozen beef, veal, mutton and goat meat. But most of what arrives is lean beef destined to become hamburger.

Tech Teacher

Uses Grant

A recent $3,200 gift from Mrs. Harmon (Jean) Jenkins to support innovative teaching in Texas Tech's Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, has gone to benefit Margaret E. Willis, an associate professor in physical education.

The grant from Mrs. Jenkins helped finance Miss Willis' travels to study with internationally known ballet teachers and performers.

"The money supported her travels for improvement of teaching ballet, including a trip to Russia for study with internationally famous ballet teachers and performers and study last year with John Barker of New York City," said Dr. Martin McIntyre, department chairman.

Mrs. Jenkins formerly was the director of the university's Placement Service, now called the Career Planning and Placement Service.

She began her employment with the university some 30 years ago and set up the central placement service in 1947. She retired about four years ago.

Both she and her husband, a former retail furniture dealer and banker, are devotees of ballet.

Professor To Assume Presidency Of Group

Dr. H. Paul Chalfant, professor and chairman of the Department of Sociology at Texas Tech University, will assume the presidency of the Mid-South Sociological Association at its annual meeting Nov. 1-5, in Jackson, Miss.

He has been president-elect of the association this past year and program chairman for the meeting this year.

Dr. C. Eddie Palmer, assistant professor of sociology at Texas Tech, is chairman of the nominations committee for the association.

UNESCO Gives Animals Their Rights

PARIS (AP) — Man's feathered and four-legged friends have won a Universal Declaration of the Rights of Animals, and they've got the United Nations on their side.

Adopted Sunday at a ceremonial meeting of UNESCO, the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, the Animal Charter opens with the words: "All animals are born with an equal claim on life and the same rights to existence."

The ceremony, attended by statesmen, artists and Nobel prizewinners, included a display of 2.1 million signatures collected around the world in defense of animal rights.

The charter, which is to become U.N. law in 1980, spells out what animal lovers are pushing governments the world over to embody in legislation:

That it's wrong to abandon your dog in the street when you go on vacation.

That it's unfeeling to gas stray cats.

That it's hideous to keep pigs or cattle locked inside container trucks, sweating or freezing, while customs officials settle their labor disputes.

That it's beastly to raise chickens or rabbits in shoebox-sized cages, drop live lobsters in boiling water or force-feed geese to fatten their livers for foie gras.

Singled out for special condemnation are scientists, the entertainment world and hunters on the grand scale.

"Animal experimentation involving physical or psychological suffering is incompatible with the rights of animals," says the charter.

"No animal shall be exploited for the amusement of man. Exhibitions and spectacles involving animals are incompatible with their dignity.

"Scenes of violence involving animals shall be banned from cinema and television, except for humane education."

"Any act involving mass killing of wild animals is genocide, that is, a crime against the species."

The charter skirts the issue of whether it is ethical to kill animals for food. It says all "companion" animals "have the right to complete their natural life span."

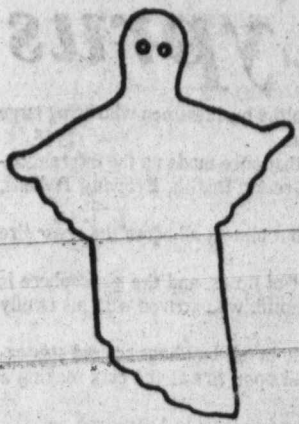

And "if an animal has to be killed, this must be instantaneous and without distress."

Signing of the charter by the 142 member states of UNESCO does not mean blue-capped U.N. troops will now be rushed to the defense of persecuted pooches. The organizers hope it will help animal lovers pressing for animal rights legislation.

"Animals are coming out of the ghetto in which we human beings penned them up," said Caroline Daiguerse, president of the International Juridical Institute for Animal Protection. "Older civilizations revered, even deified animals. This charter is a breach in the indifference of man."

You Can Catch Ghosts On Paper For Halloween

By SHARI LEWIS

Here's a good way to catch a ghost on paper, and if you're giving a Halloween party, you can write your invitations inside the shadowy outline.

Cut out a picture of a ghost. Put it in a sheet of newspaper, and with the side of a soft black pencil, color in the entire ghost. Really rub so that the ghost picture is just loaded with the graphite from the pencil.

Now place the colored-in ghost on a sheet of white paper. Hold the ghost in place with one hand, and with the slightly dampened thumb of the other hand, wipe the graphite from the ghost over the outline onto the paper. Really pull of the ghost. When you lift the cutout, you will see a spooky stencil of the ghost on the white paper — he's just a shadow of his former self!

TODAY'S BRAIN TWISTER: A snail climbing up a post two-feet high ascends five feet every day, and slips down four feet every night. How long will it take the snail to reach the top? (Look for the answer in tomorrow's Kids-Only Club column.)

Council Asks Papers To Consider Families

LONDON (AP) — The Press Council of Great Britain today called on newspapers to consider the distress of bereaved families when publishing pictures of dead bodies.

The advisory group upheld complaints against the Daily Express and Daily Mail for printing pictures of Lady Henrietta Guinness' body after her apparent suicide in Italy last May.

It rejected complaints against the Daily Mail for printing a picture of the body of murdered former Italian Premier Aldo Moro and against the Daily Telegraph for pictures of a massacre of 13 white missionaries in Rhodesia.

The council's findings have no legal weight, but the British press generally heed its guidelines.

Thousands Of Lebanese Refugees Reach Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — The elderly Armenian woman was one of 3,000 refugees from Lebanon who chanced a boat ride to an uncertain future. But she's done it before.

"I am now a refugee for the fourth time in my life," she explained recounting a life brutalized by war.

As a girl she barely escaped the massacre of her people by the Turks, and at the start of World War II she lost her home in Alexandria when the Turks took the town from the French.

"And now in the Lebanese wars I lost my husband and my homes. It is now too late to start again," she said.

Cypriot officials said more than 3,000 Lebanese, mostly Christians, had taken temporary refuge on the island this weekend to escape the Battle of Beirut, now stilled by a cease-fire.

The six-day battle between Syrian forces and Christian rightist militias killed 500 Lebanese, wounded 3,000 and displaced half a million, the Red Cross has estimated.

It is illegal under Cyprus law for cargo boats to carry passengers, but Cypriots who still face an acute refugee problem of their own are turning a blind eye.

"One just cannot turn them back after what they've gone through," a port official said.

Many of the refugees arrived from the Christian stronghold of Jounieh after a trip of up to 16 hours on the decks of dirty cargo boats with no cabins, food or drink.

They paid anywhere between $100 to $200 apiece for the trip. For many it was all they had.

A Yugoslav woman whose Lebanese husband was killed in the war said she paid her last penny to get her four children away to safety. "I haven't got a pound left in my pocket now," she said.

Asked about her plans, she wiped away tears. "I don't know. I just don't know. I'm scared to death."

Not all the evacuees are poor. Some are wealthy businessmen who bring large amounts of money and valuables and their cars.

The refugees represent all the nationalities that once made up the international society of Beirut — French, Americans, Greeks, British, Belgians, Italians, Germans and Armenians.

Some describe themselves as "transitees" but almost all agree the cease-fire in Beirut will not hold for long.

"The cease-fire is most unstable at the best of times, and the atmosphere is charged with tension and terror," said a goldsmith who arrived with his family and a car packed with valuables.

"The worst thing now is the snipers who hide in tall buildings around strategic bridges and you never know when they will open fire at the cars making a dash from one side to the other."

He said the worst affected areas are the once fashionable Ashrafieh and the Armenian quarters of Bourj Hamoud and Daourah.

"Nothing is left. Everything is burned or in ruins."

Christians Protest Syrian Violations

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Lebanese Christians reported an "ominous escalation" of violations of the Syrian-Christian truce today as representatives of seven Arab governments met for the second day to try to consolidate the nine-day-old cease-fire.

The Christian Voice of Lebanon radio station blamed renewed Syrian shelling for a fire at Beirut's main fuel storage depot near the port area. It sent a cloud of thick smoke over a large part of Christian East Beirut.

The broadcast also reported heavy sniping still kept the main northern and northeastern approaches to the Christian sector closed to traffic, cutting off supplies from the Christian hinterland to the north.

In southern Lebanon, meanwhile, more than 300 armed Christian militiamen barged into the headquarters compound of the U.N. truce force stationed in that area and staged a brief protest rally, demanding that Syrian troops leave Lebanon and U.N. forces take over peacekeeping duties in Beirut.

The surprised U.N. soldiers in the compound at Naqura offered no resistance, and no one was injured in the incident. The militiamen helped themselves to lunch in the U.N. mess hall and left after an hour in the camp.

The U.N. Security Council sent truce troops into southern Lebanon earlier this year to act as a buffer as Israeli units pulled out after an invasion aimed at knocking out Palestinian guerrilla bases.

The Beirut cease-fire that began Oct. 7 halted the worst Syrian-Christian confrontation in eight months of Syrian attacks to try to disarm the Christian militia and bring them under Syrian control. The Beirut police say 1,288 Lebanese were killed, most of them civilians, during the 10 days of Syrian bombardment. The Syrians did not report their casualties.

Public services were still seriously disrupted, and Beirut went into its second week without running water.

Trial Scheduled In Bond Hassle

By FRANK PATRICK
Avalanche-Journal Staff

District Judge Robert C. Wright today set a Dec. 11 trial date on a request by the City of Lubbock to have issuance of all general obligation bonds from last year's public works bond election declared legally valid.

The city in a suit filed Sept. 1 had asked for a declaratory judgment, but two citizens — James G. Marshall of 2217 24th St. and Robert Lee Isom Jr. of 2016 69th St. — requested a jury trial.

Technically, the city brought the suit as a class action against all taxpayers, property owners and citizens of Lubbock. A city spokesman said the suit was a pre-emptive measure designed to forestall possible untimely future litigation against the issuance of bonds from the May 21, 1977, election.

The petition says the city feels the legal question must be disposed of prior to the time when the public works projects are ready to begin.

The city says in the petition that it has been subjected to repeated lawsuits regarding bond elections which, the petition says, have made insignificant allegations. The city alleges it probably will suffer what it considers harassment by persons who have in the past filed lawsuits contesting bond elections or issuance of bonds.

Specifically, the city seeks to have the proposed issuance of $9,520,000 in general obligation bonds, Series 1979, be declared valid, as well as any subsequent issuance deriving from the 1977 election if any such proposed issuance remains from prior litigation.

Last year's election approved a $26,435,000 bond package. The six propositions included more than $16,000,000 for improvements and extensions to the city waterworks system and nearly $5,000,000 for street improvements, including lighting and signals.

Other projects in the package included improvements to the sanitary sewer system, construction and installation of storm sewers and construction of additional fire stations as well as improvements to the existing ones.

All six propositions were approved by voters.

The earlier issuance of $2,720,000 of bonds from that election was contested last year in another district court action.

District Court Judge Thomas L. Clinton ruled after a trial that the bonds were valid. That ruling was subsequently affirmed by the 7th Court of Civil Appeals April 24.

The city contends in its current suit that findings in those judgments should also validate subsequent bond issuances from the election.

Pope Named New Pope By Conclave

below: "Nuntio vobis gaudem magnum. Habemus papam." — "I announce to you a great joy. We have a pope."

He then announced the name of the new pontiff. Vatican radio later referred to him as John Paul II. His predecessor, Pope John Paul I, the former Cardinal Albino Luciani of Venice, died Sept. 28.

Wojtyla later made his first public appearance as pope, waving, smiling, raising his eyes heavenward as hundreds of thousands of well-wishers roared their approval in the square.

Speaking in faultless Italian, he told them he was afraid of the appointment but he accepted it in the spirit of obedience.

Thousands in the city, upon hearing the news that a pope was elected, had rushed to St. Peter's, where an orange full moon lit the great piazza. The crowd, one of the largest in St. Peter's square in modern times, was estimated at 250,000.

Agostino Mattioli, a 70-year-old Italian in the crowd at St. Peter's Square said: "A pope is a pope. A foreigner at this time may be even better. He can unite the nations and he represents the world."

The Rev. John Long, of the Vatican Secretariat for Christian Unity said:

"The new pope known as a man of reconciliation. He is very affable, speaks good Italian and he had a reputation as being flexible."

The start of Wojtyla's rise can be traced back to 1958, when he was appointed auxiliary to the archbishop of Krakow and traveled to Rome in that capacity to work at the Second Vatican Council.

His role at the council was considered middle-of-the-road, especially in regard to relations between the church and communist countries.

Senate Probers Praise Tower In Final Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Sen. John Tower was given a clean bill of health today by the Senate's Select Committee on Ethics. That panel has been looking into allegations of illegal influence-buying by Korean rice dealer Tongsun Park.

In its concluding report, released today, the committee said, "There is no credible evidence that Tongsun Park ever made any campaign contributions or gifts of money or other valuable gifts to Sen. John G. Tower, his family, his staff or campaign committees, or that Sen. Tower ever performed any official acts at Mr. Park's request."

Tower was a member of the ethics committee, but disqualified himself from participating in accordance with committee rules. Tower had listed Park as a "social acquaintance," while in testimony before the committee, Park referred to the Texas Republican as "a personal friend."

The committee report lauded Tower for his "prompt and thorough" response to the committee's request for documents, noting that "the cooperation shown by the senator and his staff throughout this inquiry was exemplary... whatever the exact nature of their relationship, there is no dispute that Sen. Tower and Tongsun Park saw one another relatively frequently for a period of several years."

"However, unlike other senators, it appears that Sen. Tower was never asked to write a letter on Mr. Park's behalf to anyone in connection with Mr. Park's business interest. Nor did Mr. Park ever ask the senator for help in obtaining or regaining his rice agency."

The committee also said there is no evidence that a single senator was influenced by South Korean money, but up to three senators or their aides may have broken laws in taking it.

In the final report released today, the committee concludes:

"The Justice Department should investigate 'substantial credible evidence' that Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., or an aide broke a law by taking money from a lobbyist friend of Tongsun Park's in the Capitol."

The 1948 law, apparently never enforced, prohibits congressmen from taking campaign contributions on federal property and Bayh denies that he did.

Suspended City Officers Named

Assistant Police Chief C.G. Bartley announced today the names of two policemen who lost their jobs last week following a disturbance at a Lubbock night club.

"Indefinite suspension preliminary to discharge has been ordered and entered against Dalton Edward Poole Jr., 27, and Earl Gene Mimick, 26, of this department," Bartley said in a press release.

"The suspension order and statement of charges allege intoxication while off duty and conduct prejudicial to good order," Bartley said.

The assistant chief said the charges have been filed with the Civil Service Commission.

demanding money and they told him there was only $6 in the apartment.

The suspect allegedly told the sisters, "That's not enough money to take me back to where I'm from."

Reports indicate a scuffle began when the suspect attempted to rape one of the sisters. The older woman said her sister fell back suffering from wounds to her face, and the man fled after saying, "I didn't mean to do that."

Police Cpl. Tom Martin and officer Steve Barker spotted a man matching the description of the thwarted rapist running west in an alley between 4th and 5th streets.

"He stopped and threw up his hands," reports read, after confronting Cpl. Denry Milam at the apartment courtyard.

Police Information Officer Bill Morgan said the man arrested, a cook for a Lubbock restaurant, had been named a suspect in a burglary on 5th Street several hours before the stabbings.

CONGRESS ADJOURNS — Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, left, and Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., talk by phone Sunday night with President Carter at Camp David, informing him that the 95th Congress has adjourned. The Senate called it quits about 30 minutes after the House closed up shop. Carter praised the Congress for its "courage." (AP Laserphoto)

Congress Approves Tax, Energy Bills

compensation would be subject to taxation, and the deduction for local and state gasoline taxes will be dropped.

The bill includes a liberalized, once-in-a-lifetime tax break for persons over 55 who sell their homes and don't buy another costing at least as much.

Among other votes in the closing hours, the lawmakers:

—Completed action on an energy program gradually lifting federal price controls from natural gas and giving tax credits for home insulation and solar energy. The program also calls for taxes on gasoline-wasting cars.

—Passed a revamped Endangered Species Act, giving the federal government more leeway to decide whether projects such as dams should be halted because they threaten wildlife.

—Approved a watered-down version of the Humphrey-Hawkins "full employment" bill spelling out goals for cutting inflation and boosting employment. The bill creates no new programs for meeting the goals.

—Eased restrictions on taxpayer-financed abortions voted earlier by the House as part of a $56 billion spending bill for the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare.

—Sent to Carter a bill restricting loans and overdrafts by banks to their officers and major stockholders — legislation prompted by disclosures about the financial affairs of former Budget Director Bert Lance.

—Passed an administration-backed bill giving airlines greater authority to compete by cutting fares and embarking on new routes without getting the approval of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

—Approved a compromise version of a $10.2 billion public works bill Carter had vetoed, eliminating six water projects he said were wasteful or damaging to the environment.

—Approved a $51 billion, four-year program of federal aid for highways and mass transit, which its backers said had been scaled down sufficiently to avoid a veto.

—Killed an administration-backed sugar price support program. The Senate had passed it, but opponents in the House said it did too little for farmers.

Congress refused to go along with Carter proposals to curb hospital costs, create a consumer protection agency and re-vamp labor and election laws.

The lawmakers also scrapped some of the main elements of his original energy program.

Right Of Nazis Area Man Surrenders To Protest Upheld Today After Alleged Shooting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today let stand lower court decisions striking down as unconstitutional attempts to ban Nazi demonstrations in Skokie, Ill.

With two justices dissenting, the court rejected arguments that the Nazis' free speech rights must yield to the rights of the Chicago suburb's many Jewish residents.

Today's action, growing out of a legal fight that began last year, should carry no immediate repercussions for Skokie. The small group of American Nazis that had wanted to demonstrate there held two rallies in Chicago last summer — after winning court permission to do so in Skokie.

But now the legal precedent set by lower court rulings in the Skokie case will apply, unless someday overruled by the Supreme Court, to any future confrontation between the suburb's officials and the Nazis.

That precedent specifically applies for all courts in Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin.

Only Justices Harry A. Blackmun and Byron R. White voted to review Skokie's appeal.

In other action today, the high court: —Left intact a federal appeals court decision striking down as unconstitutional most provisions of an Illinois abortion law. Enforcement of the law has been barred by the courts since two days after it was enacted in November 1975.

—Rebuffed an attempt by the central treasury of the United Methodist Church to free itself from a $360 million breach of contract lawsuit filed by residents of 14 financially troubled facilities for the elderly in California.

—Let stand a lower court ruling that a woman who claims she was denied custody of her child and was sterilized without her consent may sue her doctor and three Maine social workers.

—Agreed to review the constitutionality of a Texas law that permits police to arrest a pedestrian for refusing to give his name and address.

In a related appeal in the Skokie Nazi case, the court refused to hear without comment arguments by Sol Goldstein, a Jewish survivor of the World War II Holocaust, who charged that Nazi demonstrations would be traumatic for him and other survivors.

Alliance Files Appeal Notice

The Citizens' Alliance for Successful Schools (CASS), a pro-systemwide integration group, today filed notice it will appeal a court ruling barring the organization from entering the Lubbock school desegregation case.

CASS wants to intervene in the case so that it can appeal the current desegregation plan and push for a more comprehensive plan if the U.S. Justice Department does not appeal the case on its own.

Two weeks ago, U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward denied CASS' motion to intervene, saying the Justice Department already is adequately representing pro-integration interests.

The alliance now says it will ask the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to reverse Woodward's order and to allow CASS to intervene.

A 41-year-old man barricaded himself inside a house for about three hours this morning after allegedly firing several shots and striking a man with a gun butt.

Sheriff's deputies and a Department of Public Safety trooper stationed themselves in front of the house about ¼ mile south of U.S. Highway 82 on FM 1729.

The man finally surrendered to his attorney about 9:30 a.m.

No one was seriously injured in the incident, which apparently was caused by a domestic quarrel.

The man's wife, sitting in a deputy's car while authorities attempted to persuade the man to come out, said she and several children and relatives were sleeping inside a bunkhouse attached to the rear of the residence when they were awakened about 6:30 a.m. by her husband, who entered and fired two shots into the ceiling.

The armed man then went into the main house and barricaded himself in. A 16-year-old son followed the man into the residence, but the youth later said he was not being held by force.

"He was just mad and upset," the man's daughter said.

The man at one time during the incident came out of the house and yelled

Plunge In Lake Kills City Man

A 21-year-old man became the city's 32nd traffic fatality after he lost control of his car and plunged into Canyon Lake No. 6 in the 2200 block of Quirt Avenue about 1 a.m. Sunday.

Carlos Reyes of 1706 E. 49th St. was pulled from the back seat of his submerged 1969 Pontiac Catalina by rescue divers about an hour after the accident.

EMS attendants transported Reyes to West Texas Hospital, where he was pronounced dead at 2:46 a.m. by Justice of the Peace Jessie Lee Vance of Shallowater. She is withholding a ruling in the death pending further police investigation.

Police reports indicated that Reyes had been traveling southbound on Quirt Avenue behind a pickup truck driven by Jose Luis Reyna, 32, of 2310 N. Quirt Ave.

Reyes hit the rear of the pickup and lost control of his car zig-zagging across the road and into the lake, police said.

Services for Reyes, a laborer at the Farmer's Co-op Compress, are pending with the Resthaven-Singleton-Wilson Funeral Home.

News Briefs

Elizabeth Martinez Smith, 22, of 315 N. Flint Ave was still in critical condition today in Methodist Hospital with injuries sustained in a traffic accident early Friday at Indiana Avenue and Itasca Street.

...

The state highway department has announced that First Place immediately west of Avenue H will be closed beginning Tuesday to permit installation of a storm sewer. The work is being done in conjunction with construction of an underpass near 5th Street between Avenue H and Texas Avenue. Traffic will be detoured around the construction area.

Ian Smith Asked To Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration announced Monday it has invited Prime Minister Ian Smith and his black colleagues to new talks here on the possibility of a conference with guerrilla leaders to decide Rhodesia's future.

The action was based on Smith's statement to members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last Thursday that he was prepared to meet with guerrilla leaders "with no preconditions," said Thomas Reston, a State Department spokesman.

Britain and U.S. specialists on Africa will attend the talks, to be held here toward the end of the week, "for a further exploration" of the views of Smith and the black ministers, Reston said.

An all-parties conference, one including leaders of the Patriotic Front as well as the government in Salisbury, has long been an objective of the Carter administration.

Administration officials have insisted that civil war can be averted only by having Smith sit down with Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe, co-leaders of the Front, who have been waging guerrilla war against Rhodesia from bases in Mozambique and Zambia.

Smith and other members of the Rhodesian executive council are on a visit to the United States at the invitation of 27 U.S. senators. The administration, which considers the Smith government to be illegal, reluctantly granted them visas while continuing its condemnation of Smith's plans for biracial rule.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance met with Smith last week, but there was no word that the Rhodesian leader showed interest in an all-parties conference.

Meanwhile, there is considerable uncertainty whether Nkomo and Mugabe are prepared to meet with Smith and the three black moderate ministers heading the current government.

Last week, the militant Zimbabwe African National Union faction of the Front rejected any further participation by the United States in negotiations for a settlement.

Nkomo and Mugabe have vowed to bring the Salisbury government down by armed conflict.

But spokesman Reston said the administration detects "some notations of reserve" in the Front's position and was in touch with them through black African governments.

The talks here are designed partly to prepare an agenda for an all-parties conference, Reston said. "It is recognized by all that a successful all-parties meeting will require thorough and careful preparation," a department statement said.

Faulty Control Causes Outage

A power outage which left about four-fifths of Lubbock Power and Light's customers without electricity Friday was caused by the malfunction of a control valve to a de-aerating heater, electric utilities director Bill Wood said today.

The control valve feeds water to the heater, which removes oxygen from the water before it is converted to steam, Wood said.

The control valve let the heater overflow Friday, Wood said, and the heater "functioned like it is supposed to" and tripped the generator off the line to prevent damage to the turbines from the overflow.

"It's nothing real major," Wood said. "It's just one of the problems with a new unit."

The 50-megawatt unit at the Holly Avenue Plant began supplying power to LP & L customers this summer and is still under warranty, he said.

Harrises Bring End To SLA

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The end of the five-year saga of the Symbionese Liberation Army came in a subdued courtroom just two blocks from where it all began in a blaze of gunfire.

When it was over, six SLA members were dead, four were in prison and their most famous recruit — taken against her will — was asking President Carter for clemency and release from jail and reportedly talking of marriage.

It was a story written on the front pages of newspapers around the world, launching the most massive search in FBI history, and briefly capturing the fancy of the dwindling ranks of left-wing radicals spawned by the turbulent 1960s.

Now, it has ended. The architects of the SLA, William and Emily Harris, will spend at least the next five years in prison for the 1974 kidnapping of Patricia Hearst and their attorneys say they are turning away from violence as an instrument of political reform.

Two of their comrades-in-arms, Joseph Remiro and Russell Little, are serving life sentences for the November 1973 ambush of Oakland schools Supt. Marcus Foster, a popular black whose assassination stripped the fledgling revolutionaries of black support.

It was left to the Harrises to close the book on the SLA, pleading guilty to abducting Miss Hearst and receiving their sentences last week in an Oakland courtroom.

Although Bill Harris stood up in court for one final gesture, saying softly in Spanish, "The struggle continues. We will win," it was without the stridency of earlier times.

His attorney, Leonard Weinglass, said the Harrises have had a lot of time to think about their methods of the past and intend to "stay out of trouble" in the future.

The SLA achieved its long-sought violent confrontation with the Establishment in May 1974.

Killed in a blistering gunbattle with Los Angeles police were Donald DeFreeze, the lone black SLA "soldier" who came out of the ghetto and took the name Cinque; Patricia Soltysik, a one-time high school cheerleader; William Wolfe, a 23-year-old son of a physician; Camilla Hall, daughter of a minister; Angela Atwood and Nancy Ling Perry.

"What we have is the end of an important era," said Susan Jordan, attorney for Mrs. Harris. "It is over and everybody involved wants to go on with their lives. The Harrises believe it will be up to history to write itself."

She said the Harrises would remain "politically active" but would work within the law.

For Miss Hearst, born to wealth and raised to adulthood in luxury, the SLA gave her an insight into a world she had never known.

She spent 19 months on the run in the terrorist underground, often living in dingy, roach-infested apartments.

In a copyright interview in Sunday's New York Post, Miss Hearst said she planned to marry her fiancé, Bernard Shaw, a San Francisco policeman and former bodyguard, on Valentine's Day.

Miss Hearst will be eligible for parole next July but has given no indication she will place the last piece into the SLA puzzle, a mysterious year from September 1974 to her arrest in September 1975.

Miss Hearst refused on the witness stand to answer questions about that year and the Harrises have kept silent, too.

It was during that year that a Sacramento bank was held up and a woman customer was killed. The district attorney said it was an SLA action but only one non-SLA member, Steven Soliah, was charged.

He was acquitted and disappeared into obscurity.

And so, too, has another chapter in the volatile history of the American left.

Tech Offering Self-Counseling Course

"Rational Self Counseling or How to Stay Cool," is the title of a course offered at Texas Tech beginning Thursday and running through Nov. 30.

Texas Tech Division of Continuing Education, in cooperation with the Center for the Study of Aging and the Junior League of Lubbock, has prepared the seminar to help persons better cope with problems of everyday life.

It is a non-credit course and there are no academic prerequisites. Enrollment is open to all interested persons. The fee is $25.

According to Dr. Paul A. Knipping, interim director of the center and professor in the Department of HPER (Health, Physical Education and Recreation), rational self counseling can minimize unpleasant emotions, reduce tensions, facilitate stress-management, aid in avoiding a heart attack and increase the individual's state of happiness.

The method can help persons to become more productive, enjoy life to a greater degree and "it can measurably help those experiencing difficulties in marriage, divorce, drinking, smoking and interrelationships with others," Knipping said.

As course instructor, he will provide an understanding of the origin, maintenance and extinction of emotions, attitudes and beliefs. Knipping will encourage participants to channel undesirable behavior into a supportive and useful direction.

Classes will meet Thursdays from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Junior League of Lubbock, 1901 50th, except on Nov. 23.

For more information contact Division of Continuing Education, 104 Administration Building, Texas Tech University, Lubbock, 79409, telephone (806) 742-3797.

Oklahoma's Bartlett Gets Senate Hand

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Dewey Bartlett, R-Okla., brought senators to their feet Sunday in an emotional leave-taking upon his retirement.

Bartlett, who is not running for re-election because of his bout with lung cancer, was saluted by about 20 senators of both parties in the final hours before adjournment.

He said some persons in the chamber probably did not know how he looked before chemotherapy caused him to lose his hair.

With that, he pulled a Harpo Marx-style wig from his desk and put it on his head.

Those in the chamber and galleries stood and applauded, which is against Senate rules. The chairman ignored the rule and joined in the cheering.

$200,000 Grant Given To Center

Development of training materials for state protection and advocacy agencies will result from a $200,000 grant to Texas Tech University's Research and Training Center in Mental Retardation.

The Development Disabilities Office of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare recently announced the one-year grant.

Training materials will assist in developing a corps of volunteer advocates for state agencies to assist the mentally handicapped.

Protection and advocacy agencies use volunteers to assure handicapped citizens of their rights in employment, education and everyday living.

According to Dr. Gerard J. Bensberg, center director at Texas Tech, focus of the grant is on developmental disabilities, including mental retardation, cerebral palsy, epilepsy and autism.

Center Staff Will Include Dr. Carolyn Rude

Center staff will include Dr. Carolyn Rude, project coordinator, Linda I. Baucum, public information specialist, and Mary Ellen Michael, materials development specialist.

The center is one of 19 facilities of its kind in the nation. Three of those, including Texas Tech's, specialize in study of mental retardation and similar handicapped conditions.

DA's Office Confiscates Equipment

AUSTIN (AP) — The Travis County district attorney's office has confiscated a typewriter and filing cabinet from the office of the secretary to Deputy State Comptroller Ralph Wayne and subpoenaed a number of public documents.

The items will be used in an investigation of reports that Wayne and an assistant conducted private business on state time, the Austin American-Statesman reported today.

Assistant District Attorney Stephen Capelle said Comptroller Bob Bullock was also served a subpoena for a number of public documents from his department. Bullock has promised to turn the documents over to the grand jury Tuesday, the newspaper said.

Capelle said the documents include pay vouchers.

Reports that Wayne and his administrative assistant, Jay Brummett, did personal business on state time and with the help of other state employees surfaced last week with the publication of the contents of a letter of resignation from former Bullock aides Bill Collier and George Kuempel.

Collier and Kuempel urged Bullock to fire Wayne and then resign himself to avoid scandal and conserve his health.

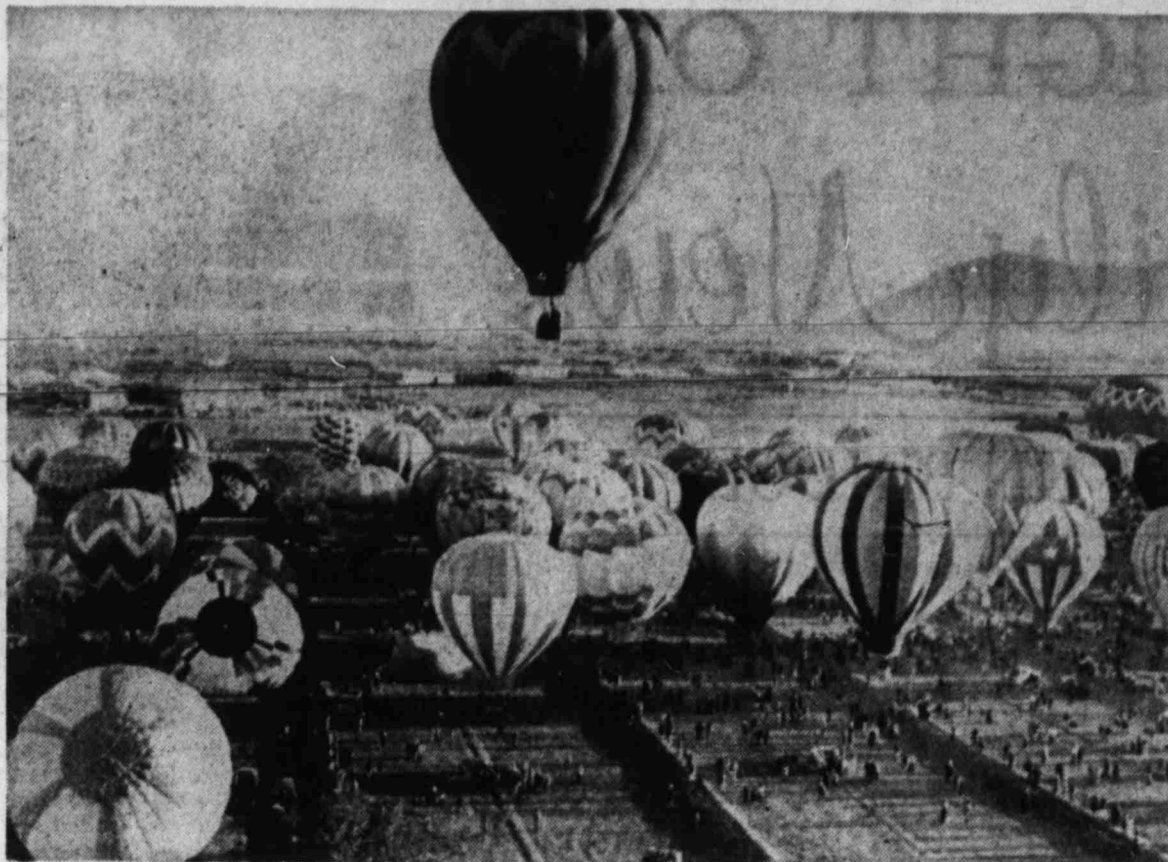

Wayne acknowledged that some of Wayne's and Brummett's private business was handled by them and Wayne's secretary, Sherri Revier, on state time but said the matter was taken care of by putting Brummett on four-fifths pay.

Wayne said on July 1 he began paying Brummett the $400 monthly difference out of his own funds. Brummett Friday was on 90-day leave of absence.

Wayne also maintained that he had rented a private office and had hired two persons to handle his private books soon after he came to work as deputy comptroller in March 1977. The American-Statesman reported, however, that Wayne and Brummett were interviewing women in Wayne's and Brummett's state offices as recently as February for an accounting-secretarial job.

Devices Used By Government Slice, Shred Paper Money

TYLER (UPI) — The United States government throws away several millions of dollars per day, much of it thanks to a machinist-inventor named Elias F. Joseph.

Joseph, a technician for the Atomic Energy Commission years ago, currently heads a company that produces currency disintegrators, huge machines up to two stories high that slice, rip, shred and otherwise destroy paper money that is showing the wear and tear of circulation.

"It takes the paper currency and breaks it down into small particles and fiber," Joseph said. "Our machines are currently used in 13 different countries, including France, Spain, the Netherlands, Zaire and in several places in South America."

Joseph says money wears out comparatively fast. A $1 bill, he says, has a life of about 18 months, a $20 bill less than that. The $100 bill, he says, has the shortest life span because "when anyone gets a $100 bill, they don't want a corner torn or a dirty soiled bill."

At the federal reserve bank in Dallas, Joseph's currency green disintegrator is fed up to $4 million per day. Workers dump the currency in the top of the machine on one floor and by the time it gets to the floor below it looks like confetti bound in bales and ready for some alternative use, such as mixing with drilling mud for oil wells.

The average $120,000 machine can handle up to 350,000 bills per day. The machine destroys up to 1,500 pounds of currency per hour with a thousand bills weighing about 2.2 pounds.

"When I had my first machine ready for the U.S. Treasury to see, representatives came to Tyler to see a demonstration," Joseph said. "I had asked them to bring some samples for me to destroy."

Blackout Continues

HUNTSVILLE (UPI) — An inmate work stoppage apparently continued today in various units of the Texas Department of Corrections, but officials again refused to release information because of a news blackout.

TDC director W.J. Estelle Jr. said last week no information would be released until the strike ended, but prison officials indicated a statement might be issued later today.

A group of prisoners at the Ellis Unit they brought a half million dollars in $1 bills.

Showing off the machine for potential customers is not without its problems however.

Joseph said the Bank of Chile once sent him three trunk loads of two million pieces of currency as samples for his disintegrator.

"The FBI contacted me wanting to know why a machine man with five children from Tyler, Texas, needed three trunks of foreign money."

Gas Prices Could Soar

AUSTIN (UPI) — Texas consumers could be forced to pay $7 billion more for natural gas between now and 1985 because of federal energy legislation enacted by Congress before its final adjournment, the chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission said today.

Commission chairman Mack Wallace said consumers in the Northeast, meanwhile, could save up to $6 billion in natural gas prices under terms of the bill. Wallace said the legislation also could result in a shift of natural gas supplies, meaning 28 percent more fuel for Northeast consumers and a decline of 10 percent in the amount of natural gas available to Texans.

"The bill that they have just passed follows an approach to natural gas supply that has miserably failed this nation, and as a practical matter, ignores the approaches that have worked," Wallace said. "It is a sort of colonial exploitation that has been made statutory."

"You can say the residents of producing states will pay 10 percent more for their gas and get 10 percent less gas, while the residents of non-producing states will pay 5 percent less and get 28 percent more gas."

Wallace said natural gas production has reached the point in Texas there is what he termed a "soft surplus," meaning production was sufficient that consumers might begin seeing lower prices.

"Heretofore we have always been able to say gas is high in Texas, but we have it. That no longer is operative. We don't have the advantage of paying a higher price any more. The gas will move to the Northeast without any corresponding increase in supply."

The Railroad Commission chairman said the pricing structure of the federal energy bill means prices on 70 percent of the gas sold on the interstate market will be limited to 55 cents per thousand cubic feet, but the prices on nearly half the natural gas sold within Texas can climb to as much as $3.50 per thousand cubic feet by 1985.

"We'd still be paying for the drilling program we paid for in the past, except that our gas can more conveniently be moved to the Northeast through allocation," Wallace said.

He said the new energy bill, when combined with a coal conversion bill passed earlier, gives the federal government the power to force utility companies in Texas to shift from natural gas to coal as a boiler fuel for generating electricity, and to require utilities in the Northeast to use Texas natural gas as a boiler fuel to reduce the imports of fuel oil.

"In my judgment it's as if they were mistreating a colony, because they are punishing success in the production of natural gas with policies that have failed on the federal level," he said. "You're punishing success with failure."

By ERMA BOMBECK

The students at St. Edward High School in Lakewood, Ohio, wrote me recently and wanted to know what I feel is the greatest challenge facing young people today.

That's easy. The No. 1 challenge facing today's youth is raising parents.

In a world where Moms and Dads are influenced by television, liberation, exchange of sex roles, and permissiveness, young people are going to have to make parent-raising their No. 1 priority or the American family will fall apart.

I overheard two teenagers just the other day about their respective parents.

"Can you believe, I haven't eaten a meal with Mom and Dad for a week? Every night they make some excuse to go somewhere."

"I know what you mean," said his friend. "I saw my mother the other night whipping off and I said to her, 'Where do you think you're going in that outfit?' I swear she looked like Annie Hall on a bad day. She said, 'I'm going to a meeting. Everyone else's mother is allowed to go.' I get so sick of hearing that. Do you know I can't go to sleep until I hear her car in the driveway?"

"My Dad is worse. He lives in that car. Out in the morning, home late at night. Then he sits in front of that stupid TV set watching sports all the time. I asked him one night, 'Don't you have any work to bring home from the office?' He said he didn't but I know better."

Have your parents talked about getting their own apartment?"

"That's all they talk about. If Mom had to do her own dishes every night and Dad had to take out the garbage, they'd be home in two days."

"I don't know, mine never seem to want to go anywhere with us anymore."

"Maybe we nagged 'em too much. Or maybe we listened too little."

There was silence, then one boy added, "Where did we fail?"

"I don't know. I got pretty wrapped up in sports one year and it took a lot of time. Maybe we left 'em alone, too much?"

"That's no excuse for their making a life of their own."

"Tell me, if you had it to do all over again, would you have parents?"

"Maybe just one — after all, they do look adorable on a Christmas card."

Camp Fire Council Representatives Attend Conference

Don Nickels, past president of the board of directors of Camp Fire Council of Lubbock and treasurer of the Camp Fire Zone, relinquished those responsibilities to John Burdette, treasurer of the Lubbock board at the Camp Fire zone conference in Albuquerque, N.M.

Dr. Geraldine Clewell, a vice president of the board, was voting delegate for the local council.

Carolynn Cobb, vice president of the Horizon Club zone cabinet, also attended the meeting and represented the Horizon Clubs in the council.

Others attending the conference were Rhonda Haralson, field director and day camp director of the council; Joe Wyatt, outdoor program services director and Glynda Cobb, executive director.

Representatives from councils in Oklahoma, New Mexico and West Texas attended the conference, the annual meeting of the zone, which ended Saturday.

DEADLINES

Any information for a daily edition must be in our office two days in advance of publication.

Sunday edition deadlines are 5 p.m. the preceding Tuesday for articles with pictures and noon the preceding Wednesday for articles only. Only Friday and Saturday weddings will appear on Sunday; wedding announcements must run within five days of the event.

Engagement announcements must be submitted at least five weeks prior to the wedding date.

Clip 'n' Cook

PEACH CHUTNEY

3 qts. peeled, coarsely chopped fresh peaches (about 18 med.)
1 1/2 cups chopped fresh onion
3 cloves garlic, minced
2 1/4 cups light brown sugar, firmly packed
2 1/4 cups cider vinegar
6 tbsps. fresh lemon juice
1 1/2 tps. salt
1 1/2 tps. ground ginger
1/2 tsp. ground nutmeg
1/4 tsp. red pepper sauce

In large kettle, combine all ingredients. Cook slowly, uncovered, about 1 hour, or until mixture is thick; stir occasionally. Pour immediately into hot sterilized jars and seal. Since chutney improves on standing, allow at least one month before opening.

To peel peaches, drop into pot of rapidly boiling water for 1 or 2 minutes; transfer to very cold water. Skins should slip off easily with a knife.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

Q.1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AQ107 ♥A1052 ♦94 ♣K73

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

Pass Pass 1 ♦ Dble.

4 ♣ 5 ♦ ?

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. You have no assurance of defeating five diamonds in your own hand, and partner has promised nothing in the way of high cards for his preemptive raise to game. If he does have some defensive strength, he has heard you open the bidding and can double five diamonds on his own.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠Q94 ♥82 ♦QJ6 ♣QJ952

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♥ Dble. Pass 2 ♣

Pass 3 ♣ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Partner's raise following a takeout double shows a reasonably good hand, and you have 8 points and a ruffing value. However, your points are all in queens and jacks, and they inflate the true worth of your hand. We can't see your assets stretching to eleven tricks, so pass and settle for a contract that you can make. Had your suit been spades, you would have been justified to go on to game.

Q.3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AQ7 ♥7 ♦952 ♣QJ9842

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

Pass Pass 1 ♥ 1 ♣

2 ♣ Pass 3 ♣ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Since partner elected to raise even though you were a passed hand, he must have full values for his opening bid. Therefore, your hand rates a try for game, especially since the spade king is favorably placed. Our choice would be a bid of three spades. This cannot be a cue-bid in light of your original pass, so it must be showing stoppers and asking partner to bid three no trump if he has diamonds under control.

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠KQ965 ♦AQ106 ♣K1062

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♥ Pass 2 ♥ ?

What action do you take?

A.—Double. Despite the void in the opponents' suit, your hand is not quite strong enough for a cue-bid. You can show your extra strength by raising partner's suit if he makes a simple response or, should he jump respond, by cue-bidding the enemy suit.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable as South you hold:

♠83 ♥1074 ♦KJ92 ♣AJ76

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♣ Pass 1 NT Pass

3 ♥ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—No problem. With all your values concentrated in the minor suits, a rebid of three no trump is a standstill. Move to the bottom of the class if you even thought of raising to four hearts, for partner's jump shift does not promise more than a four-card suit.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠6 ♥KQ10984 ♦J1093 ♣A4

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♣ Pass 2 ♥ Pass

2 ♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—It is a close decision. Your intermediates greatly improve the playing strength of your hand, but partner's persistence in spades suggests a misfit. We would take the conservative view by rebidding only three hearts, although we won't severely criticize the four heart bidders. If partner has the wrong cards, however, at least we'll be playing in a contract that won't be doubled.

Q.7—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠QJ98542 ♦A8742 ♣6

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♣ Pass 1 ♥ 1 ♣

Dble. Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—One thing is sure—we're not going to defend one spade doubled with only one defensive trick. It's simply a question of what bid will best describe this distributional freak. Two diamonds is a possibility, but that understates the playing strength of the hand. Three diamonds, however, suggests more in the way of high cards. Since your most likely game is in hearts, we feel that a jump rebid of three hearts will deliver the message to partner that you have a highly distributional hand and that he need not be overly concerned about the trump suit.

Q.8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠5 ♥AQ83 ♦AJ10 ♣AKJ73

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♣ Pass 1 ♣ Pass

2 ♥ Pass 4 ♥ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Despite your wealth of controls, you are not in a position to drive the hand to slam. However, you should make a try, and the best way to do this is to cue-bid the ace of diamonds. If partner can do no more than rebid five hearts, pass.

CHERRIES 'N DIP

When friends gather, serve a heaping basket of juicy fresh sweet cherries with a creamy Orange Dip. Blend 1 package (3 oz.) softened cream cheese, 1/2 cup dairy sour cream, 2 tablespoons powdered sugar, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, dash of salt, 2 teaspoons grated orange peel and 1 1/2 cup chopped nuts.

Levelland Pair Exchange Vows

LEVELLAND (Special) — Kathy Derrington and Roger Clement were married in a 7:30 p.m. ceremony Saturday in the Fifth Street Baptist Church. The Rev. Nolan Sumner officiated.

Honor attendants were Freda Derrington of Del Rio, sister-in-law of the bride, and Bobby Clement of Levelland, brother of the bridegroom.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. W.C. Derrington and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Clement.

The bride was graduated from Levelland High School and attended South Plains College. The bridegroom was graduated from LHS.

The couple will live in Levelland.

Happiness is . . . picking a pretty, trim size 10, says Mrs. L Mercado.

And Mrs. Mercado is grateful to Pat Walker's Figure Perfection International for helping her achieve that special joy!

You see, there was a time when she had to settle for what she calls "a drab size 18" when she went shopping for a new dress. But now she can select that very special dress or outfit, confident that it will be a youthful, attractive style.

Generous compliments from her husband and friends assure her of her slim image, Mrs. Mercado adds. (And if you'll check the photo of her in a chic new formal-length dress, you'll see why everyone is so admiring!) At Pat Walker's she went from "an unflattering 163 pounds" (see small picture) to 121 1/4 pounds; she lost a total of 41 1/4 pounds and 65 inches. Small wonder that she recommends the Pat Walker plan to any woman who wants to "start a brand new year with a brand new figure."

Let Pat Walker help YOU

... reach the weight goal you've dreamed of—without rigid diets or strenuous exercises. The program is easy, pleasant, and each salon offers a quiet, elegant setting in which you can lose weight in a dignified manner. The atmosphere is totally unlike that you may have encountered at gyms or spas.

Your professional counselor gives you the friendly, interested guidance you need to learn sensible eating habits. She also supervises your program and treatments on special passive exercise equipment (exclusive to Pat Walker's) that trims away unwanted pounds while it gently firms and tones body tissues, improves your circulation and helps correct posture.

Both counseling and treatments are conducted in absolute privacy.

The Slim Gourmet

By Barbara Gibbons

People with weight problems are often admonished to "eat only when hungry." "But I'm ALWAYS hungry," the unsuccessful dieter protests. "You only THINK you are," comes the unhelpful answer.

What's the difference between really being hungry and only thinking you are? Today we offer some food for thought on hunger and appetite.

Hunger is needing to eat; appetite is wanting to.

Appetite is "making room" for the chocolate mousse, even though you've just eaten a four-course meal.

Appetite is fussy; hunger isn't. Appetite is refusing to eat a hamburger without ketchup; hunger is eating it without salt.

Hunger is negative and appetite is positive: the hungry person wants to end an unpleasant sensation caused by the absence of food, while the person with an appetite is seeking a pleasant sensation brought about by the enjoyment of food.

Appetite is a dinnerbell that rings from the outside, set off by the sight, sounds and smell of food preparation. Hunger is an alarm from within.

Hunger won't be satisfied by anything but food; appetite can often be eliminated by other diversions...a phone call from a friend, a good book, some interesting mail, or the opportunity to do something that sounds like fun.

Hunger is quickly satisfied; appetite never is.

Hunger is general; appetite is specific. If you're not sure which is which, try the "Rabbit Test." Confine your food alternatives to a handful of celery stalks or carrot sticks, or a bowlful of shredded lettuce. If you're really "starving," you'll be happy to eat it. If what you think is "hunger" is actually an "appetite" for something sweet or rich, you'll probably veto the rabbit food and do without.

Some people who are "always hungry" have never been hungry in their lives! If you snack continuously, or habitually overeat, real hunger never gets the chance to develop. And you wouldn't recognize it if it did.

Are you hunger blind? Many people with a weight problem seem to be. Their perceptions are so-blunted that they continually confuse appetite — the willingness to eat — with hunger, the need to eat.

The only way to be familiar with hunger is...to go hungry! Unless there's some medical reason not to, allow six or eight hours to elapse without food. Then, make a conscious effort to experience the sensation. Put the feeling into your own words. Does your stomach rumble or growl? Do you feel hollow in the middle? Headaches? Does even "rabbit food" or an unsalted hamburger begin to seem appealing?

Another way to deal with false hunger — appetite — is to put your brain in charge and eat by the clock. Design a daily eating plan that's adequate but non-fattening, with a convenient schedule of meals at appointed hours each day. Then, stick with it! Ignore any sensations that masquerade as hunger. If you eat an intelligent diet your brain knows you're not really hungry.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter, 24, is being married to a 29-year-old man who was married before. (No children.) His marriage lasted less than two years. This is our daughter's first marriage.

The problem: We're giving our daughter a lovely church wedding. The groom's parents (who are socially very prominent) say they will attend, but they prefer not to send any of their friends or relatives invitations to the wedding. Their reason: "All of our friends and relatives gave wedding presents to our son just two years ago — and once is enough."

Abby, what has our daughter to do with the wedding gifts his first wife received? Do you think the groom's parents have a right to cut down on the number of lovely gifts our daughter will receive just because her fiance was married before?

ANAHEIM

Dear Anaheim: A wedding invitation is a bid for one's presence — not presents. But if the parents of the groom choose not to send invitations for that — or any other reason — it's their privilege.

...

DEAR ABBY: A girl signed "Under Age and Over Developed" wrote, "Whoever said, 'boys like good girls,' is crazy!"

Well, she is dead wrong. I'm a 19-year-old male college student, and when I go out with a girl, all I expect is good company and nothing more. My problem is getting girls to believe that there are a lot of guys like myself who are saving themselves for marriage. They think I'm weird or gay or living in the stone age.

Don't get me wrong, Abby, I'm not one of those holier-than-thou characters, I just don't want all the guilt that goes with pre-marital sex. And I certainly don't need to risk getting VD or causing an accidental pregnancy.

Please keep telling girls (and boys) to keep their standards high. I'm still old fashioned enough to want the girl I marry to be innocent, and I hope that there are some girls out there who appreciate the same kind of guy. Sign me...

STILL CLEAN AT NINETEEN

Dear Still: There are. And thanks for a refreshing letter.

...

DEAR ABBY: I am a grown woman and I'm so ashamed of my problem I don't want to ask anybody else, so I'm turning to you.

I am never sure which fork or spoon to use when I am at a fancy dinner. I usually wait to see which utensil the others are using, then I follow suit, but I would like to be sure myself.

Can you help me?

DUMB AT THIRTY

Dear Thirty: Please don't call yourself "dumb." You are smart enough to ask.

Follow this simple rule: When silverware is lined up on either side of the plate, use the spoon (or fork) that is on the outside (farthest from the plate) first, and work toward the plate.

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, get Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters For All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky

Rodeway Inn Restaurant Seen Wise Choice For Food, Service

"For family dining, for great food without exorbitant expense, for seven-day-a-week convenience, the Rodeway Inn Restaurant located just off University Avenue on 4th Street is heartily recommended."
As a locally-owned and locally-managed Martin & Lewis restaurant, every effort is made to serve in an inimitable manner, daily from 6 a.m. until 10 p.m.
Steve Lewis and J.T. Martin, both longtime and favorably-known Lubbock businessmen, own this convenient facility, together with the Fair Restaurant across town at an Avenue A and 8th Street address where 24-hour-a-day service is provided.
Mrs. Steve (Clydene) Lewis personally manages the Rodeway Inn Restaurant, seeing that nothing is left undone to assure good eating, enjoyable surroundings and prices to please.

Daily luncheon specials are posted that appeal to the businessman, family eating out or the traveling person alike. The specials change daily, assuring a menu sure to be enjoyed no matter if once-a-week or daily eating at the Rodeway Inn Restaurant is involved.
Then, every Thursday is "stew day" with the famous Rodeway Inn Restaurant stew served with jalapeno cornbread! (Everyday one can enjoy cornbread! at the Rodeway Inn Restaurant).
Turkey and dressing is served each Sunday.
Rodeway Inn Restaurant for the past 2 1/2 years has been owned by the Martin and Lewis team, and the public's patronage has been most encouraging and appreciated. Not only is Mrs. Lewis on the job, but two daughters also are involved in the operation, together with a full staff handpicked for its expertise and service know-how.

"It is a family atmosphere at the Rodeway Inn Restaurant . . . an atmosphere sure to be noted and enjoyed as a break from the busy activities of any day."
"Whether selection is from the full breakfast menu, luncheon or dinner, everything at the Rodeway Inn Restaurant seems to say . . . 'thanks for being our guest.'"
"May we have the pleasure of serving you, too, at a very early date?"

Modean's, Formerly Linda G's, Sets Sale Beginning Thursday

"Likely you already know of the fashion rightness that has greeted each new season at Linda G's in Sunshine Square."
"But . . . did you know:

- (1) The firm has a new name . . . and a new owner!
- Now, it is Modean's, owned by Modean Clayton, associated for the past three years with Linda G's, but recently purchasing the business.
- (2) The big Anniversary Sale begins this Thursday, Oct. 19.
- (Watch for the Thursday ad in the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal spelling out many of the specific savings at Modean's.)

Registration is invited at Modean's during the sale, with a gift certificate to be awarded Oct. 28.
Modean is no stranger to the Lubbock fashion scene, and she looks forward to serving longtime friends and new customers alike in the beautiful Sunshine Square store.

Selected Lines
The same reliable lines and name brands to which one is accustomed at Linda G's — now Modean's — are continued, with even some selected new ones added.
Fall is very much in the air at Modean's, with those delightful and desired fabrics, styles and colors dominating, to be sure.
Select from the new dresses, coordinates, lingerie and all.
Layaway is invited and encouraged while selection is at its best.
Friendly, personalized service continues to be the rule at Modean's, and the customer cannot help but enjoy the welcome and be thrilled at the selection afforded.
New as owner, but hardly a stranger, Modean Clayton especially wants to extend personal greetings during the sale (that begins Oct. 19, remember).
"Shopping at one's leisure in the relaxed atmosphere of the beautiful and elegant Modean's is an experience to be enjoyed . . . won't you discover for yourself how this Sunshine Square shop is extraordinary?"

AT MODEAN'S — "Tis new ownership and new name, but old friends still on the job at Modean's, formerly Linda G's. Pictured is owner Modean Clayton (seated left) with staffmembers Monterey Barron, Aileen Perkins and Mae Touchstone. Modean announces an impending sale and registration for awards including a pant suit, three dresses and a gift certificate.

'Where You Buy Skis Said As Important As Kind You Buy'

The selection of a ski dealer may seem nothing more than a question of convenience. "Yet, where you buy your skis is perhaps the most important consideration of all. "For the dealer you choose will affect the skis you choose, as well as the boots, poles, bindings and accessories you need to improve your skiing and enjoy the sport. "Finding a dealer who can satisfy you in each of these areas is not difficult, provided you know what qualities to look for. "We Can Help" "And in Lubbock and the South Plains area, the trek is to Ski-Lubbock Sports, 2918 4th St., where finest products, professional assistance and multiple services have been proven the rule rather than exception. "Skiing is our only business . . . at Ski-Lubbock Sports. "Selecting a ski is not easy, it is pointed out. There are so many makes and models to choose from that unless you have your mind made up, you are probably going to be confused. Ski-Lubbock Sports, as a knowledgeable dealer, can be a big help in such circumstances. "As such a dealer, we at Ski-Lubbock Sports can actually guide you through the maze of makes and models and provide you with clearly defined choices. "More importantly, the knowledgeable staff can help determine precisely which ski is best for you, considering your age, sex, weight, height, physical condition, level of ability, and the kind of terrain and snow conditions you most frequently ski. "If a dealer and his staff cannot provide you with such guidance, you should seriously question the wisdom of doing business with him, the Olin Ski manufacturers add. "A good dealer doesn't just sell skis! In searching for a dealer, one will no doubt find some that seem to make a practice of "special deals" and "unbelievable sales," Olin says. Such retail operations and the merchandise they offer should be approached with caution. "A reputable dealer will offer his products at a competitive price . . . one that is fair to you and fair to him, Ski-Lubbock Sports aptly points out. "Service Range Important "And unlike dealers that just sell skis, this Lubbock firm offers a level of expertise and service that is worth far more than the extra few dollars a lesser dealer might save you. "A good dealer not only will help you choose the right ski, in terms of model and length; he will see that your boots are properly fitted. He will make sure that your bindings are correctly mounted and adjusted. And he will provide you with the kind of service all skis periodically require. "A recent advertising release from Olin Ski added: "At Olin Skis, we believe that skiers at all levels of skill can actually feel the difference that superior quality makes in skis. Our objective is to make only the best possible product. "Every authorized Olin dealer has been carefully chosen for his expertise in the sport of skiing. Before a ski shop is permitted to handle our skis, it is personally researched by an Olin Ski representative. Only those dealers who provide the full range of skills and services are appointed as dealers. "Such a dealer is the reliable and true friend to the ski enthusiasts of this area, the Ski-Lubbock Sports firm at 2918 4th St. in Lubbock. "Remember . . . where you buy your skis is just as important as what kind of skis you buy."

House Of Shades & Lamp Repair Aids New Look For Any Room, Any Season

Is the house in ship-shape for fall and winter activities? Are there things that can be done now that will ease the tasks of last-minute party preparations, readiness for Thanksgiving company and Christmas festivities? Does the home's decor need a finishing touch? Think on these questions and then think of the House of Shades and Lamp Repair, 2710 50th St., a firm that can effect a new look for any room in any season! "Likely new shades . . . or new lamps . . . can solve your situation in a delightful manner. Or maybe you received a lamp for birthday, anniversary, etc., but the shade doesn't quite match the decor of the room. "In either event, why not make a visit now to the House of Shades and Lamp Repair and let the experts there give a big assist. Even with their professional approach, the folks at the House of Shades are the friendliest ever, showing beyond doubt that the customer's trade and friendship is appreciated. "Even for those familiar with the House of Shades and Lamp Repair, a visit there at this time will reveal added services, newest shades and a full staff to afford every customer consideration. "Unique lamps of distinction, quality lamp shades, replacement lamp parts and glass, expert lamp repair, custom building, re-wiring, re-design and re-finish (to make your lamp a shade better) in essence comprise the business scope of this better lamp house. "Some months ago the House of Shades and Lamp Repair made giant strides,

Plaster Selection, Multiple Craft Items Stocked At Rhea's

An exceptional plaster stock is just one of the things going for Rhea's Crafts, 2831 34th St. Rhea's has expanded its stock, showroom floor space and instruction opportunities. (An ad last week incorrectly referred to Rhea's largest selection of "plastic" items, and should have read "plaster" items, of course.) These plaster selections even include the copyrighted Western plaster by R.J. Moore of Denver, and the Montford western pieces, together with the Apsit Bros. of California; and new numbers are arriving daily. "A host of other hobby, craft and art items are on hand ready for Christmas projects (and it is high time to start on these, right?) "Come in to Rhea's Crafts, long in Lubbock and now actively owned and operated by the husband-wife team of C.L. and Ruby Clingman. "We think you'll appreciate and enjoy the expanded Rhea's Crafts, 2831 34th St., phone 795-2655."

Business & Industrial Review

FASHION-WISE AND SUCCESSFUL — Key factors in the nine-year success story of Maxine's Accent most certainly include the three-generation capabilities within the same family at this Briercroft Center Shop. Pictured at center (back row) is owner Maxine Willingham, with daughter Sharon, and mother Mary McCullum; all "on the team" since the store's inception; with staffers Julie Hunt, Paula Marberry and (seated) Kay Shook and Lue Ree McGee.

Maxine's Accent Celebrating Nine-Year Mark With Savings

It is Anniversary observance at Maxine's Accent, in Briercroft Shopping Center.
 And for this anniversary, Maxine's not only is offering several racks of sale merchandise at 30 per cent to 70 per cent off, but also is arranging storewide reductions of 20 percent on all current merchandise including new fall and holiday coats, sweaters, short and long dresses, sportswear, lingerie, pant suits, long dresses and other looks from the Designer Room including some ultra suedes.
 Nine years ago in October, Dr. and Mrs. Will Willingham opened Maxine's Accent as a smart specialty store accenting the junior and young missy look, with the assistance of their three teenagers, Sharon, Doug and Sheila, and Maxine's mother, Mrs. Mary McCullum.
 A year ago in February the store was expanded to twice its original size and a beautiful new "Designer Room" was added. Here merchandise from top designers is displayed and privacy is afforded the discriminating customer looking for the uniqueness and even lines exclusive to Maxine's Accent.
 (It is pointed out that 20 per cent reductions are effective for the Designer Salon apparel for these few days of the Anniversary Observance, too.)
 Fur Showing Looms
 Another situation of import: An added venture for the store has been the association of Maxine's Accent with Pam Mahoney, noted furrier of New York and Dallas. Mrs. Mahoney is bringing a $500,000 collection of new and exciting furs for fall on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 20 and 21st.

 "Maxine and Pam extend a joint invitation for you to come by and see this collection at most competitive prices before you purchase a fur."
 The nine-year history of Maxine's Accent is quite a success story.
 Accolades have included write-ups in national trade magazines as "an outstanding ladies' specialty store."
 Signally Honored
 Maxine has been honored in the 1974-75, 1975-76 and the 1977-78 editions of "Who's Who in American Women" as an outstanding retailer.
 Referring to the shop's Anniversary observance, Maxine emphasizes: "We've had a most enjoyable and rewarding nine years in ladies' junior apparel here in Lubbock and have met with tremendous response from not only Lubbock but from many of the surrounding cities.
 "We are offering most exciting savings at this time in honor of this ninth year anniversary, and we hope our many friends and customers will be able to take advantage of them."
 The storewide reductions (20 per cent, remember) involve fall and early holiday lines, long dresses and short restaurant dresses, beautiful mix-and-match sportswear for both juniors and misses, fall coats, sweaters, ultra suedes, party pajamas, lingerie and accessories.
 Outstanding Labels
 Some of the lines are Pant-Her, Corinth Street, Collegian, Lady Wrangler, Body English, Panther, Melissa Lane, Les Wilk, Lilli Ann, College Town, Victor Costa, Dorce, Hearsay, Gloria Vanderbilt, Halston, Mollie Parnis, Eleanor Brenner, Strawberry Plant and many, many others.

 The capable staff at Maxine's includes her daughter, Sharon, who is assistant manager; her mother, Mary McCullum; Lue Ree McGee; part-time staffers Kaye McGee and Poppy Burnette; Distributive Education students Julie Hunt and Paula Marberry; and newest staffmember Kay Shook.
 Kay is a native of Petersburg and in the past has been quite active in modeling and retailing and is a former runner-up in the South Plains Maid of Cotton pageant.
 Maxine is the fashion coordinator each year for Miss Lubbock, and she also assists other pageant entries locally in their wardrobe rightness. She also has served as a consultant in the Dallas fashion seminars during markets.
 Maxine has attended many different markets seeking new resources for her store, and this past June she and Dr. Willingham were in Europe making contacts for more unusual and exceptional apparel items for the store. She feels that the new lines selected on these buying trips have helped earn Maxine's Accent the enviable reputation as a leader in a fashion-oriented community, with customers looking to it for new directions.
 Everything, from the capable staff, the famous labels, the attractive decor, the management's devotion to rightness and leadership in fashion, and currently the storewide reductions on current merchandise, contribute to the true Maxine's Accent image.

El Paso Wholesale, Lubbock Division, Saves For Clientele

"El Paso Wholesale Company Lubbock Division knows that it can make the entire year more profitable and certainly more convenient for retail firms throughout the region, ultimately saving for the consumer ... you and me."
 There are a number of carefully planned factors that make this statement possible and true:
 Selling wholesale only, the El Paso Wholesale Company in Lubbock is the city's complete wholesale firm.
 Customers include grocery and hardware stores, auto supply houses, service stations, toy stores, sporting goods stores, etc.
 Located at 208 23rd St., phone 747-1841, in Lubbock, the El Paso Wholesale Company Lubbock Division carries and stocks a full selection of hard line merchandise.
 From time to time partial lists of the products have been published on these pages of the Avalanche-Journal, and readers have noted that the products and brand names are ones that can be appreciated, together with the completeness of this wholesale firm.
 Among the benefits area merchants find foremost at El Paso Wholesale Company Lubbock Division, aside from the selection, is the freight situation.
 Doesn't it make sense that savings are enabled through the regions by virtue of the big-stock Lubbock warehouse that features faster, shorter delivery transport? Let this Lubbock wholesale firm prove it to your own benefit with products such as:

 Guns by Remington, Marlin and H. and R.; ammunition from Federal and Pyrex; and gun accessories such as Outer & Hoppes solvents and gun cleaning kits.
 C.B. radios by Midland and Cobra, and the Fuzzbuster radar detector; plus Mr. CB accessories and Antenna Specialist antennas.
 Of course there are lots of quality housewares, including Corning Ware and Pyrex, Nordic Ware and Rubbermaid.
 Among the many appropriate items for young birthdays are toys by Fisher-Price, Mattel, Playskool, Tonka and Marx.
 Electronics
 In the electronics field, select from television sets by G.E., Midland, Hitachi and Sony; and stereos by Soundesign and Hitachi; plus miscellaneous items including eight-track and cassette recorders, walkie talkies and TV video games.
 Quality cameras and supplies include Polaroid and Kodak cameras, projectors and film, and accessories such as camera cases, viewers and film reels.
 Sporting Goods
 Diversified sporting goods items include ... for the fishing enthusiast there are the famous lines of Diawa, Garcia, Zebco, Mr. Twister, Fleck Lures and Mepps.

 For camping, select from Coleman, Igloo, Ray-o-Vac batteries and Nelson Sales camping accessories, and Buck knives.
 For outdoor sports, the lines of Rawlings, Spalding, Wilson and General Sportscraft are represented.
 And there are Daisy and Crossman BB guns and Huffy bicycles.
 Small appliances are stocked in abundance, including coffee makers by Norelco, Mr. Coffee and Vector-Silz; and pressure cookers from Presto and Mirro Aluminum; and Hamilton Beach, Waring, G.E. and Sunbeam appliances, together with such lines as Dazey, Munsey, West Bend, Oster and Rival.
 Hardware is not neglected, either, and includes Stanley Tools, Black & Decker power tools, Crescent wrenches and Nicholson files, Peerless and Hancock Gross plumbing supplies.
 In the personal care category, there are hair dryers by Gillette, Clairol, Conair and Sunbeam; and hairsetters and make-up mirrors by Clairol, Gillette, G.E. and Hamilton Beach; and Water-Pik, too.
 Automotive items include Hollywood and Cal custom accessories, Fram Filters and Autolite tune-up accessories; and Rubbermaid, Lifetime and Roberk automobile accessories.
 And more!

Business & Industrial Review

Jean Bledsoe Insurance Agency Tells New Address, Expansion

The Jean Bledsoe Insurance Agency has a new home! And there is other news, too, from this agency built on the concept of "people helping people".

First, the new location: Formerly in Town South, the Jean Bledsoe Agency is now at 3305 81st St., in a greatly expanded space. Literally, the agency is growing with Lubbock, and Jean is especially appreciative of this growth that has made the current move advisable and possible.

The Jean Bledsoe Agency has just marked its Third Anniversary, and when a firm achieves such stature as this agency enjoys, after only three years in business, one must surely take notice.

Beginning primarily as a personal life business, the Jean Bledsoe Agency is now a multi-line agency, expanded to fully serve in commercial, life insurance, business, home, auto and other insurance needs, even bonds.

An expanded staff, all quite well qualified, mans the agency.

Gene Knight, a lifetime Lubbock resident, is with the firm now as producer, and he invites his friends and new customers alike to call upon him for insurance assistance. Formerly in the building business, Gene is exceptionally qualified to help in the many related insurance situations.

Also on the staff are other familiar and qualified members of the insurance community: Karen Ferrier, underwriter; Kathy Voss, secretary; and agent Jean Bledsoe.

In citing the expansion of physical facilities and of services, Jean Bledsoe upon occasion of the agency's anniversary, stated:

"Where else in the world but right here in Lubbock, Texas, could one do what we have been able to do in the short three years? The word-of-mouth recommendations of our satisfied customers have been most encouraging and appreciated. Without each of you, our growth would have been impossible."

Actually, this confidence has been well earned, through Jean's knowledgeable approach to the insurance needs of her clients, through the personal service of the agency's staff, and through constant striving to upgrade each member's knowledge of business and of the people served.

"Won't you visit us soon in our new location, 3305 81st St.? We look forward to your visits, and we also hope that we can serve you in one or more of your insurance needs... we know that we have programs to benefit, with a staff that is glad to work with you in your home or business. We try mighty hard to be the type agency and people to which you wish to entrust your insurance program."

Lue Ree's Children's Shop Stages Three-Day Sale Event

It is a big Three Day Sale, beginning today, at Lue Ree's Children's Shop in Briercroft Shopping Center!

Imagine... everything in the store marked at 20 per cent off! This includes clothing and baby needs... everything in the so-attractive shop at Lue Ree's, just off Avenue Q and 50th Street.

This includes in-season wear... such as the new coat arrivals, the Sedgefield jeans and all.

Note the many items for baby's room... such as the cuddly stuffed toys, the decor items and all.

Apparel is stocked in girls sizes infants through 14 and pre-teens, and boys sizes in infants through 14.

Ruth Ann Crumpton is manager, knowing children's wear in a most beneficial manner. The expertise of Ruth Ann and of owners Vickie and Jonathan Hoffman is reflected in merchandise selection and in service.

EVERYTHING MARKED DOWN — For three days, 20 per cent reduction is posted throughout at Lue Ree's. Ruth Ann Crumpton, manager, is shown here with new arrivals including Sedgefield jeans and jacket, and a rabbit coat, all included in the sale.

GRAPHIC PROOF, PKM IS DIFFERENT

PKM Jewel Salon, Distinctively New, Unique, Puts Emphasis On Excellence

"Diamonds are Forever — PKM is for Now!"
This motto correctly hints of the uniqueness of the one-of-its-kind PKM Jewel Salon, 4509 50th St. in Lubbock, phone 793-3291.
PKM Ltd. is owned by the husband-wife team of Ron and Lessa Morgan, assisted most ably in the firm's operation by Donna Golightly and by Henry Gibson, custom jeweler.
Ron, a Lubbock resident of some 10 years, has been well known as jewelry department manager of another city firm, establishing PKM, Ltd. as his own business in November of 1977.

"Difference" Emphasized
Since opening PKM, as a simple yet sophisticated facility where quality and able assistance is definite, the reception has been most heartwarming.
PKM is "different" and the buying and selective public has seemed most appreciative.
Decor alone could well be reason for a visit to the beautiful PKM Ltd., but add to this the stunning arrangements and wide selections of diamond and gold jewelry, rare jewels, precious stones, loose diamonds, etc., at "a more affordable price" and one readily recognizes that here is a store on which to depend.
There are distinctive brass and other decorator items, too, in the departmentalized store.

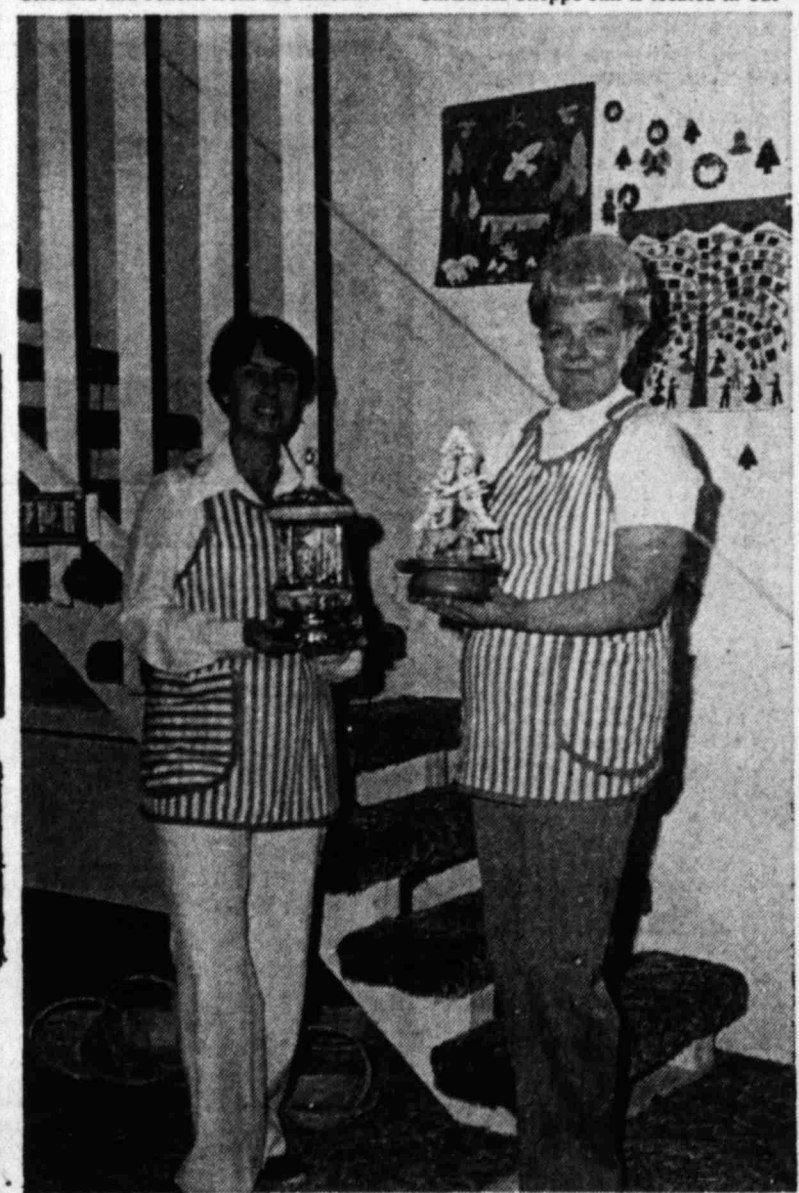

(Note the showcases, in brass, from the Grand Hotel in Paris, dating from the late 1800's.)
Ron is certified by the Gemological Institute of America for diamond appraisal, one of the key services at PKM Ltd.
All custom jewelry work is done right in the store, with Henry Gibson on the job, expert in his field.
"With the Christmas gifting season approaching, wouldn't now be an excellent time to make or renew acquaintance with Ron and Lessa Morgan, with Donna and Henry, discovering the newness of PKM Ltd. and how it can open a whole new world of shopping pleasure and achievement for you?"
Lavaway is invited.

Cactus Alley Christmas Shoppe Triples Size To Better Serve

There is so much happening at The Christmas Shoppe that one is urged to read every paragraph below to fully understand and benefit from the announcements there.

Designed to bring "Christmas from around the world" in quality items, The Christmas Shoppe still is located in Cactus Alley, 2610 Salem Ave., but...

Space has been tripled, as one innovation!

NEW CONVENIENCE, ADDED ITEMS — The Christmas Shoppe now is stocked fully in two levels, as hinted by the stairway seen in the background. Staffmembers Stephanie Rain, left, and Ellen Snyder call attention to newly-arrived Christmas-related items, with more being received daily. Owner Jan Lynch seems to have "gone all out" in improvements and additions at the popular shop in southwest Lubbock.

Nuclear Commission Looks Into Charges

RICHMOND, R.I. (AP) — The Nuclear Regulatory Commission is looking into charges that officials at a uranium recovery plant falsified training and test records for more than half the members of its security force, an NRC spokesman says.

Guards at the United Nuclear Corp. have told NRC investigators they were ordered by the corporation's security officials to give away answers to written tests and to falsify target-practice scores, the spokesman said. Three NRC investigators have spent the last three weeks investigating the charges, said Walter G. Martin, chief of the NRC's Region I safeguards branch.

WEATHER MAP — The National Weather Service forecasts showers in areas of Arizona, Utah, Colorado, Wyoming and Nebraska, with rain around the Great Lakes region extending south to Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas and Illinois. Clear weather is predicted for the rest of the nation. (AP Laserphoto)

Perfect Fall Weather To Remain In Area

Picture-perfect October weather will hold today and Tuesday, with warm afternoons and cool nights, weathermen predict.

Temperatures were expected to be in the high 70s today, mid-40s tonight and near 80 Tuesday, they said.

Winds should be easterly and southeasterly at 5 to 10 mph under fair skies today and tonight.

Texas had fair skies except for some cloudiness over South Texas at dawn today.

Temperatures ranged from the 40s in the Southwest Texas mountains and the Panhandle in the 50s and 60s over the rest of the state. Lubbock's low this morning was 48 degrees.

Winds were light and variable at less than 10 mph.

The extended forecast for the West Texas region calls for mostly fair skies Wednesday through Friday with mild days and cool nights.

High temperatures will range from the 80s along the Rio Grande River to the 70s elsewhere over the region, and lows will be in the 40s in the Panhandle and the mountains and 50s elsewhere.

A few showers and thundershowers extended across parts of the Great Lakes and the lower Ohio Valley today, and widely scattered showers were reported in Oregon and Florida.

Skies were cloudy from the Pacific Northwest and northern Rockies into the Great Basin, while mostly clear conditions were reported in the rest of the nation.

Lower temperatures were reported, especially from the northern Plains through the Great Lakes into the north Atlantic Coast states, where readings in the 20s and 30s prevailed.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 22 in Concord, N.H. and Watertown, N.Y. to 81 in Yuma, Ariz.

The forecast called for showers or thundershowers from the upper Ohio Valley into the lower Great Lakes, and along the East Coast from Virginia to southern New England. Skies were predicted to be sunny over much of the rest of the nation. Much of western and southern California will be warm, as will southern Arizona. Mild temperatures were forecast for the rest of the West Coast to the Rockies, while cool temperatures were expected east of the Rockies.

The Hudson's Bay Co. was incorporated in 1670 by royal charter to trade in regions draining into Hudson Bay.

BEAT THE BUREAUCRACY

Applications Required For Social Security

By HOWARD K. OTTENSTEIN
Social Security checks don't automatically start arriving on your 65th birthday. You have to ask for them.

You can apply for your benefits in person at any of 1,300 local Social Security offices. Make the trip several months before you wish to start collecting payments to allow adequate time for processing.

Be sure to take along your Social Security card and your birth certificate or other proof of age.

If you are applying for spouse's or widow-widower's benefits, bring your marriage certificate. And if you are seeking payments for a child, have on hand copies of his or her birth certificate, plus proof of school enrollment if between the ages of 18 and 22.

Barring blizzards, hurricanes and other such phenomena, your social security checks will arrive in your mailbox about the third of each month. If it hasn't arrived by the sixth, contact your Social Security office for a replacement.

Of course, be sure to notify Social Security promptly of any change in your address.

Should your check be lost or stolen, report that to your Social Security office, too. Although it will take some time, a new check will be issued.

Many people prefer to have their checks deposited directly in a savings institution of their choice. Not only does that eliminate standing in line, but you don't have to worry about being home each month when the check is due to arrive.

The Social Security Administration has prepared several free publications answering the most frequently asked questions about the system. Among them are "Your Social Security," "Your Social Security Rights and Responsibilities," "If You Become Disabled" and "A Woman's Guide to Social Security."

You can obtain these books from your local Social Security office. "Your Social Security" and "A Woman's Guide" can also be ordered from the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

The agency is currently preparing a record for the blind featuring information on Social Security, Medicare, disability benefits and Supplementary Security Income. Contact your local Social Security office for further details.

Many people want to learn how many Social Security work credits they have to have accumulated over the years. You can find out by filling out the "Request for Statement of Earnings" form available from your Social Security office. The form must be mailed to the agency's Baltimore headquarters. Be patient in waiting for your response, though; it can often take a month or more.

Be sure to request this information promptly if you have any reason to think an employer did not properly post funds to your Social Security records. In the unlikely event that this has occurred, there is a statute of limitations beyond which your account cannot be corrected.

Remember, all Social Security information costs no more than a local phone call, a stamp or a bus ride downtown. Don't be taken in by businesses that offer to provide you with Social Security data for a fee, often a sizeable one. They can't tell you any more than you can find out yourself free of charge.

Travel Fair Scheduled

Information about foreign customs, accommodations, transportation and travel discounts can be obtained at the second annual Texas Tech Travel Fair, Nov. 1 and 2, in the Courtyard of the University Center.

The fair will feature booths staffed by representatives from travel agencies, air-planes and auto rental services.

Although this year's participants are still being assembled, some of the companies represented last year were Braniff Airlines, Continental Airlines, Transamerica Airlines, Southwest Airlines, Lubbock travel agencies and the American Automobile Association.

Students interested in studying or traveling abroad may visit with representatives from the Texas Tech Travel Service, the Experiment in International Living, and the Council on International Education Exchange.

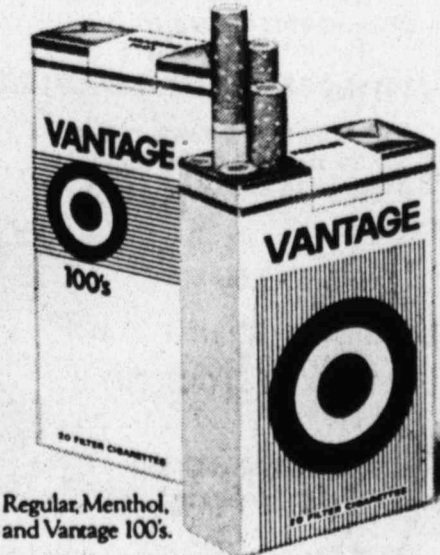

'Vantage. I just won't compromise on taste.'

"I'm willing to make some concessions, but taste isn't one of them. Even though I've heard the tar stories, I still want a cigarette with good taste.

"That's why I'm glad I switched to Vantage. "With Vantage, I get the taste I smoked for in the first place. And that wasn't easy to find in a low tar.

"For me, Vantage is the best tasting low tar cigarette there is."

Yankees Bomb Dodgers To Take Series Lead

By FRED ROTHENBERG
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers, having been mugged in the Bronx while their team president was robbed in Manhattan, straggled back to Dodger Stadium today like tourists who know there is no place like home.
The New York Yankees, forced to win must games all year to get into the 75th World Series, now have to win just one of the next two games to repeat as world champions. The magic number dropped to one because rookie Jim Beattie, an unlikely hero, pitched his first complete game in 24 major league appearances and the Yankees ripped off 10 hits, including a record 16 singles, in beating the Dodgers 12-2 Sunday.

Thurman Munson knocked in five runs and joined Mickey Rivers, Brian Doyle and Bucky Dent with three-hit games in pacing the Yanks, who fought back from a 2-0 deficit by winning all three games in Yankee Stadium.

With ace Ron Guidry waiting in the wings for a possible seventh game, Beattie's nine-hit performance was pivotal. The Yanks can lose Tuesday night, when Catfish Hunter is scheduled to oppose the Dodgers' Don Sutton, and still have their ace in the hole for the final game.

Sutton, who lost to Guidry Friday night, felt the Yanks added insult to injury with their hitting rampage in Game 5. "There is a difference between an overriding desire to win and a mean streak," the Dodgers' right-hander said. "I think they try to kick your brains out."

"They play baseball like the Chicago Bears used to play defense. They certainly don't come to the park to paint."

No longer the Bronx Bombers, they were more like embalmers, nailing the Dodgers' coffin with one single after another until they had more one-base hits than any team in Series history.

And the captain (Munson) and the catalyst (Rivers) made it happen. Unlike the Dodgers' right-handed hitters who have been destroyed by the unique Yankee Stadium dimensions, Munson utilized the ballpark's spaciousness in the alleys and center field.

"Maybe singles are the right way for right-handed hitters," said Munson.

"For a right-handed hitter to do well here, he has to swing down, hit line

Spooky Day In NFL

HOO BOY! HALLOWEEN came a couple of weeks early in the National Football League this year! That's the best explanation for the weird things that happened Sunday as the pros made the seventh weekend of the season a memorable one.

There must have been some early-arriving spooks at Milwaukee, where the astonishing Green Bay Packers rolled up an incredible 46 points in blasting the Seattle Seahawks. The fact that Green Bay won was not surprising, because the Packers have been rolling right along, but 45 points? Some Green Bay teams haven't scored that much in an entire season since Vince Lombardi left the frozen north.

Dallas barely escaped a witches' spell at St. Louis, too. Everything happened to the Cowboys — most of it bad — before they beat the Cardinals in overtime. Butch Johnson was headed for a touchdown on a punt return late in the game when he was stopped cold by his own blocker, Mike Hegman, in one of the strangest plays of the day. Not to mention costly penalties, injuries and a "fumble" by fullback Robert Newhouse that really was the biggest steal since the Brinks robbery.

A hobgoblin or two must have been betting on Dallas, though, since the Cardinals shared in the misfortune. When their fourth-quarter field goal try hit the goal post and bounced straight back, the Saint Looney lads got the idea that it wasn't going to be their day.

THE PHILADELPHIA EAGLES, who upset the Washington Redskins Sunday to give Dallas a big boost, will try to take their gift right back next weekend when they fly into Texas Stadium. The Eagles are tough this season — just ask the Rams and the Redskins!

The Cowboys still are trying to put it all together for the big push to an NFC East title and playoff berth. They show flashes of their Super Bowl brilliance, but they also are inconsistent and have not reached the championship level in their performance.

The Dallas defense is a good example. At times it is awesome, sacking quarterbacks and stacking up runners with reckless abandon. Then an enemy receiver gets so open in the secondary that he looks as if he is on a different field.

Even more alarming is the way enemy runners are ripping through that once-unyielding front seven of the Dallas defense. Cardinal Jim Otis was the latest to take advantage of the Cowboy forwards to gain 88 yards. That's more than entire football teams used to make against the original Doomsday gang, which included Bob Lilly, Mel Renfro, Chuck Howley and Lee Roy Jordan.

HOW FAR THE MIGHTY have fallen is best shown by two games a decade apart. On Oct. 24, 1966, the youthful Cowboys met Lombardi's storm troops at Green Bay in what was supposed to be a romp for the ogres of the northland. The Pack was on its way to a third world championship, while the Cowboys still were looking for their first break-even season. But Lilly and his pals were jelling into a premier defensive unit that soon would earn the Doomsday label.

Dallas had its problems that day, but when the shooting was over the Cowboy defense had held Green Bay to just 63 net yards in total offense. Only 63 yards for Bart Starr, Paul Hornung and Jim Taylor!

The 'Pokes had comparable days against other fine teams, too. There was a

Cowboys Slip By Cardinals

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Thanks to the coolness of a Mexican-born kicker, the Dallas Cowboys have climbed back into the middle of a hot National Football League divisional title race.

Rafael Septien, undaunted by an earlier miss, Sunday calmly booted a 47-yard field goal at 3:28 of overtime to give the Cowboys a 24-21 triumph over the winless St. Louis Cardinals.

"You have to definitely be cold in this business," said Septien, whose kick climaxed an eight-play Dallas drive.

"If you let your emotions control you, then you don't have a chance," he observed. "You have to watch the ball and keep your head down. It was the biggest kick of my life."

Septien's field goal settled a National Conference East struggle marked by three near misses for victory in the closing three minutes of regulation play.

First, St. Louis' Jim Bakken shanked a 33-yard field goal effort, his kick striking the left upright of the goal posts and bouncing back.

Then the Cowboys' Robert Newhouse flubbed a Dallas drive to the Cards' 16 by fumbling. And finally, as the fourth quarter ended, St. Louis defender John Zook reached up and deflected Septien's low kick from the Cards' 39.

Septien, whom the Cowboys acquired in pre-season from the Los Angeles Rams, said the block by Zook only served to make him more determined.

"Coach (Tom) Landry came up and said, 'Don't worry about it. It was a long try,'" Septien recalled. "I waited for another chance, knowing it would come. But when I looked up, it was only two yards shorter."

Dallas' triumph boosted its record to 5-2 as St. Louis dropped to 0-7 via its 11th straight setback in two seasons.

"I think the toughest thing in the National Football League is to have injuries early in the season," said Landry in appreciation of the Cards' woes. "They're

Refs Return To NFL Spotlight

By BRUCE LOWITT

The zebras came out of the woods again Sunday.

The men in the black-and-white striped shirts, the officials of the National Football League, under fire early in the season for several controversial calls but inconspicuous recently, returned to the unaccustomed (and unwelcome) spotlight in Cincinnati.

The Bengals, winless heading into their seventh game of the season, were battling New England down to the wire. And when Patriots quarterback Steve Grogan lost the ball deep in Bengals territory and Cincinnati safety Dick Jauron pounced on it, overtime appeared imminent.

But rookie line judge Bob McLaughlin ruled no fumble; the Pats retained possession and, one play later, Sam Cunningham plowed in from the 3-yard line for the touchdown with 6:56 to play that carried New England to a 10-3 victory.

In Sunday's other games, it was Philadelphia 17, Washington 10; Dallas 24, St. Louis 21 in overtime; Los Angeles 34, Minnesota 17; Green Bay 45, Seattle 28; New York Jets 33, Baltimore 10; Miami 28, San Diego 21; Oakland 28, Kansas City 6; New York Giants 17, Tampa Bay 14; Atlanta 14, Detroit 0; Houston 17, Buffalo 10, and New Orleans 14, San Francisco 7. Chicago visits Denver tonight.

It was up to referee Gene Barth, an eight-year official and the crew chief, to explain McLaughlin's whistle. "Our line judge felt the ball-carrier was down," he said of the call when Grogan was hit by Cincinnati linebacker Reggie Williams and stopped at the Bengals' 7-yard line. "It's a judgment he has to make." Asked if he thought it was a tough call to make, Barth replied: "Not from his vantage point."

Williams, obviously disagreed — so vehemently, in fact, that he was penalized for unsportsmanlike conduct, giving New England a first down at the 3.

"I knew it was a fumble from the time that Grogan hit the ground and the ball hit the ground," Williams said.

"We hadn't had our special teams return one all year, but you couldn't have asked for one at a better time. You get fired up when something like that happens," Terry Bradshaw said after rookie Larry Anderson's 96-yard kickoff return sparked the unbeaten Steelers past Cleveland.

Rams 34, Vikings 17

Los Angeles struck for three TDs in the final quarter — Pat Haden's 3-yard pass to Lawrence McCutcheon, Isiah Robertson's 16-yard punt-return and John Capelletti's 4-yard run — to beat the Vikings.

Packers 45, Seahawks 21

Ferdal Middleton rushed for 121 yards and four touchdowns after Steve Odom returned the opening kickoff 95 yards for a score, carrying the Packers past Seattle.

Jets 33, Colts 10

Matt Robinson passed for 215 yards and two TDs, one a 77-yarder to Wesley Walker, in the Jets' romp. Baltimore quarterback Bert Jones, in his first game since suffering a preseason shoulder separation, left after his right shoulder was re-injured on a first-quarter sack.

Dolphins 28, Chargers 21

Jim Braxton scored TDs on runs of 2 yards and 1 yard in his debut with the Dolphins, and Don Strock and Bob Griese each tossed scoring passes in Miami's victory over San Diego. Lydell Mitchell scored all three Chargers' TDs.

Houston Thumps Buffalo 17-10

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers call it their ace formation and they used it just enough in a game-winning 97-yard drive Sunday to deck the Buffalo Bills 17-10 in a roughly fought National Football League game.

The Oilers' needed an ace Sunday after they fell behind the struggling Bills 10-7 at halftime and the ace formation, with one running back and two tight ends, helped them get going.

"As long as we win, you can't say anything bad about it," said backup fullback Rob Carpenter, who sacked the game-winning touchdown on an 18-yard run late in the third quarter.

Houston drove almost the length of the field in the third quarter after Buffalo's Rusty Jackson had punted to the Oilers three-yard line. Carpenter cut behind a block by rookie Mike Renfro to score the winning touchdown.

"I looked up and all I could see was 'Renfro' across the back of a jersey," Carpenter said. "Then all I had to do was cut back and it was six points."

Oiler Coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips, pleased to escape with a victory, said the one-back formation was nothing new but the Oilers used it more against the Bills. "It keeps their linebackers off the line of scrimmage and makes their outside linebacker line up on the tight end," he said. It keeps them loose and prevents them from stunting so much.

Carpenter's touchdown run put Houston ahead for good at 14-10 with 1:35 left in the third quarter, and Toni Fritsch added a 43-yard field goal in the fourth period.

Buffalo presented the Oilers with an easy scoring chance on the first play of the game when running back Curtis Brown fumbled and Houston's Gregg Bingham recovered at the Bills eight yard line.

Quarterback Dan Pastorini hit Rich Caster with a four-yard touchdown pass for a 7-0 lead.

But Buffalo took a 10-7 halftime lead on a 33-yard field goal by Tom Dempsey and an 82-yard punt return for a touchdown by Keith Moyer.

Oiler safety Mike Reinfield echoed the sentiments of many Oiler players and some of the 47,727 Astrodome fans that the Oilers didn't play their best. "We came out a little sluggish and may have been overlooking the Bills," Reinfield said.

The Oilers, 4-3, must prepare for a Monday night struggle against unbeaten Pittsburgh in an American Football Conference Central Division showdown. The Bills dropped to a 2-5 record.

Century-Old Graves Excavated In Historic Georgia Cemetery

By CHARLES CAMPBELL
ATLANTA (AP) — In a grassy field at the corner of a downtown cemetery, a hazy band of archaeologists spent much of the summer scraping Georgia clay in search of century-old graves.

But cemetery officials hope that the area would yield no graves and thus could be used for new projects ran counter to a legend that about 10,000 paupers had been laid to rest in unmarked graves.

"We were hoping nobody had ever been buried in that area," said Jim Whitnel, an assistant sexton at Oakland Cemetery. If the field were clear, the cemetery could sell new plots or build a columbarium — a sort of high-rise mausoleum — to finance restoration and preservation of its old tombs.

A group of friends of the municipal graveyard, Historic Oakland Cemetery Inc., hired two Georgia State University anthropologists — Roy S. Dickens Jr., 40, an archaeologist, and Robert L. Blakely, 33, a specialist in physical anthropology. To get started, the professors borrowed a road grader from the city and shaved a layer of soil from north-south and east-west strips laid out in a grid on the 10-acre tract.

"We had the motor grader then carefully strip a couple of inches at a time until he reached subsoil," Dickens said. A tight pattern of deep red rectangles emerged, as the original sandy clay subsoil contrasted with red clay brought up when the graves were dug.

"We were overwhelmed to find them laid out like this," Dickens said. "We were expecting to find nothing, or scattered graves."

Analysis of the sample strips placed the total of gravesites at 10,000 to 11,000.

They chose to excavate 13 graves, choosing a mixture of large and small rectangles spread around the field. Children were buried in the small graves.

Surprisingly, there were indications that not all those buried were paupers. One coffin had an oval pane of glass inset, apparently to allow viewing of the body. The wood had decayed long ago, leaving pieces of shattered glass all that remained of the coffin.

Metalwork, such as handles, from the coffins survived. Blakely hopes a comparison with contemporary coffin catalogs will fix precisely the years the graves were dug.

Lab work is also expected to determine the age at death, sex and race of the individuals whose skeletons were recovered, in some the cause of death. The results should give some clues about how, when and why they got where they are.

"The folks up there with the tombstones, people know a lot about them," Blakely said, gesturing toward the main section of the cemetery. "These are Atlanta's forgotten people."

Part of our objective is to let Atlanta know who they are," he said.

BIG THERMOS DEAL.
$3.49.
(A $6.85 VALUE.)

Here's a container worthy of our coffee. And at $3.49, for a 32-oz. Thermos full of Dunkin' Donuts coffee, they won't last forever. If you bought both the coffee and the Thermos at the regular price, it would cost you $6.85. And to top it all off, each Thermos comes with a coupon that allows you to refill the Thermos with Dunkin' Donuts coffee for 50% off the regular price. Now how can anybody who likes coffee and donuts and Thermoses pass up a deal like that? Offer good only at participating Dunkin' Donuts shops while supply lasts.

Artistic Hands on the Mall

... 60 artists from the U.S. and foreign countries will present gallery-quality art. They'll turn the mall into a mammoth live art gallery; showing thousands of works of art — paintings, watercolors, graphics, metal sculptures; also pottery and wood carvings.

You can watch the artists work. See them creating everything from fine investment art to colorful decorator pieces. And if you see a piece of art you want, you can buy it and take it home with you.

Students Nearing Completion Of Windmill

CANTON (UPI) — Instead of gum in his hair and ink spots on his clothes, little Johnny may come home with chicken manure in his shoes and windmill grease on his hands this year.

A 2-year outdoor classroom project at Rex Reeves-Oscar Hinger elementary school is nearing completion, and is symbolized by a 50-foot-high Aeromotor windmill that twirls above a courtyard.

The 1888-vintage windmill, transplanted from an abandoned farm, sucks up a cool stream of water from a well 104 feet underground. Native grasses, trees and vegetable crops — tended by school kids — are expected to thrive thanks to that Aeromotor. The machine, discontinued in the 1930s, is a natural centerpiece for an outdoor classroom at Reeves-Hinger.

Already, students have installed pens in the 75-by-50-yard courtyard, which someday may be home for lambs, chickens and other farm animals.

An architect drew the plans for the outdoor facility, a sanctuary for pre-school-ers and youngsters under 11. The project allows kids to step out of their classrooms and straight into bucolic West Texas.

Gene Parker, a university administrator and former Wildorado school superintendent known for his innovative style, was one of 11 persons who conceived the project.
