Camp David talks bring Sadat, Begin face-to-face

Sadat and Menachem Begin are talking face-to-face for the first time since Christmas but President Carter is keeping secret any word of progress at their Mideast summit.

They were joined by Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Zbigniew Brzezinski, head of the National Security Council staff.

American, Israeli and Egyptian delegations also huddled privately Wednesday night to review the results of the first Begin-Sadat session.

Jody Powell, the White House press secretary and official summit spokesman, told reporters not to expect any substantive announcement until later in the meetings — which could continue for two weeks.

"We are not going to be involved on a daily basis in attempting to characterize or discuss the substance of the meetings," Powell said.

Meanwhile, two newspapers in Beirut, Lebanon, reported today that Syria is proposing to hard-line Arab countries that they enter into defense pacts with the Soviet Union if the

The papers said Syrian Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam is making the proposal during a tour of leftist Arab countries. Khaddam flew to Tripoli on Wednesday to see Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy and then to Algeria to confer with President Houari Boumedianne

Tight budget sparks consideration of park land dedication ordinance

By MARK VOGLER R-T Staff Writer

Lack of funds for park land acquisition has caused some Midland city officials to consider the merits of an ordinance which, if passed, would require developers to dedicate land for public recreational areas

Under the city's subdivision ordinance, developers are required to reserve a tract of land for a 12-month period in which the city has the option to purchase the property for park

However, several city officials say the ordinance has not proved effective in helping Midland meet its recreational needs as the city undergoes a period of tremendous growth.

Wayne Kohout, chairman of the Parks and Recreation Commission. told the Planning and Zoning Commission Wednesday it should advise the City Council to study a possible land dedication ordinance - or risk paying higher prices for park land in the future.

The Planning and Zoning Commission has scheduled a special session with parks and recreation commissioners and the Department of Public Works for 3 p.m. Oct 2 to discuss alternatives in park planning.

'The process of obtaining park land exists (in Midland), but it really has not been effective in the recent past because the funds have not been available to purchase land," said Richard A. Hennessy, director of planning and community development. Hennessy told The Reporter-Telegram acquiring land through a mandatory dedication process is an alternative city officials are considering, but that that process would have to be

researched by attorneys before it could be adopted.

"It's an important question to be answered due to the rapid growth now Because of the rapid growth, there may be no park facilities available in some areas unless plans are made to set the land aside," he said.

The city already has an elaborate master park plan, according to Robert Truitt, Planning and Zoning Commission's new chairman.

Clements urges teacher pay hikes, 'real discipline' in Texas schools

By LINDA HILL R-T Staff Writer

Bill Clements, Republican candidate for governor. Wednesday called for teacher salaries commensurate with those in other state agencies for persons of equal qualifications.

Speaking at a press conference at Midland Regional Airport, Clements outlined his plan for improving public school education.

His salary proposal, he said, would increase state salaries for a beginning teacher by $50 to $60 a month. Clements also called for stiffer qualifications for teacher certification and education degrees at state universities Formation of faculty senates in schools as a "communications device" and standardized textbooks and testing are other elements of Clements' plan.

"Real discipline" also is needed in the schools, he added.

Asked where he would cut state bureaucracy, Clements said he would start with the attorney general's office, which he called the "fastest growing piece of bureaucracy in Austin " Attorney General John Hill is the Democratic gubernatorial nominee. Clements also called for cuts in the Department of Human Resources (formerly the Department of Public Welfare) budget.

Clements called his summer campaigning efforts a "huge success." He has organizations in approximately 230 of Texas' 254 counties, he said, with 130 of those county organizations headed by former Briscoe sup-

The candidate said he expects to raise between $1.5 and $2 million of his $3.5 million campaign budget at a $1,000-a-plate fundraising dinner next week at which former President Gerald Ford and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan are scheduled to

Clements expressed support for the tax relief constitutional amendment which will appear on the November general election ballot, but criticized the Texas Legislature for not going

He called for a "taxpayers bill of rights," which would include provisions for initiative and binding refer endum, a ban on personal or corporate state income taxes, a requirement for tax bills to be approved by a two-thirds majority of both houses of the Legislature and a provision to allow local taxpayers to call elections to ratify or reject tax increases by local taxing bodies.

He said he is "positive" the people of Texas would approve the initiative and referendum proposal and promised, if elected, to push for it in a constitutional amendment during the next session of the Legislature.

On issue of energy, Clements said he is opposed to the U.S. House-Senate conference committee compromise on natural gas pricing. He called the bill "probably the biggest tax biff ever put forth.

The way to solve energy problems is to "unfetter" energy-producing industries, Clements said. In the short term, he said, the solution is increased petroleum production. For the latter part of the 20th century, coal use needs to be increased. The candidate said he has "reason to believe" the federal government will establish a nuclear waste disposal site at White Sands, N.M. The Department of Energy currently is proposing an area near Carlsbad, N.M., as the disposal site.

Clements said he sees no problem with transporting nuclear materials across Texas. It is "not unusual to transport nuclear material. We've been doing it for years," he said

U. S. Senate race hinging on baseball

Fatalism, war, humor, heroes, survivors matter of perspective

If there's ever a time when fatalism needs no excuse, it's war time.

Ideally, you do your duty, survive, come out unscathed and are wel comed home an unsung hero.

If you like fanfare, let the confetti descend on you like snow, bow humbly as your pride exudes, behold your medals and ribbons and salute

Your deeds, for naught or gain, in time will be forgotten by most. And only the Unknown Soldier will be remembered for deeds untold and suffering unknown.

Fatalism can be talked about so comfortably when there's no real threat. It's something like philosophical discourse and debate; they suddenly transform into luxuries when your life becomes one of desperation and is jeopardized by famine, war, injury, disease or the mere passing Soldiers joke about the threat of death. Sometimes the GI Joe jokester is just as serious as the Sad Sack in the foxhole, the wounded Johnny on the litter and the dying warrior on the frontline.

The light side of the death threat is evident in the reprint of a 1944 booklet on the World War II Army Air Base at Pyote. This base, which was for training B-17 and B-29 bomber crews, was popularly known as Rattlesnake Bomber Base. Captioned below photographs of airmen and their parachutes, pilots at the controls and a gunner at an aircraft machine gun turret are these

"It's useless to ask for a new one (parachute) if the original fails to work. Parachutes deserve and get special care and attention.

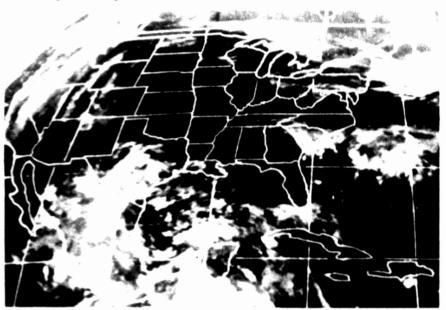

The verbiage extends to combat training and survival: "There's always something new to learn, and the man with the mostest knowledge wins the battles. 'Learn to kill or be killed' is more truth than poetry.

Safeway introducing line of low-cost generic foods

In an effort to fight the increasing price of foods, Safeway Stores Inc., has announced that it is introducing a new line of generic foods that could save consumers up to 28 percent of their food bill for those foods.

Company officials in Midland Wednesday said that the Scotch Buy brand is being introduced into Safeway stores throughout the United States.

Gene Podoll, Safeway El Paso Division Retail Operations Manager, said "we think it's going to have a tremdous impact" on food prices for consumers.

He said Safeway will be introducing 33 items in the initial phase of the marketing, and he expressed hopes that the items would expand to frozen foods and items throughout the store sometime in the future.

Officials had drawn up a list with 17 items and compared Safeway's Scotch Buy brand with its own house brand and a national brand name

The national brands totaled $16.46, while the Scotch Buy brand came to $11.73, the comparison list showed.

The differences between extra fancy and good, Podoll said, was that extra fancy foods must all be of uniform shape, color and size, while the good grade of the Scotch Buy brand may have slight variations in its shape, color or size

Podoll said the nutritional value of the Scotch Buy brand may be slightly less than the national brand, but the difference is minimal

House vote upholds Carter on veto of aircraft carrier

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House today sustained President Carter's veto of the defense authorization bill, thus scuttling a proposed $2-billion nuclear aircraft carrier he had termed a waste of military dollars. The vote was 206-191 in favor of upholding the president's veto. A twothirds vote is necessary to enact a bill over the president's objection, and leaders on both sides of the issue had expected a much closer outcome The action sent the overall $37 billion defense authorization bill back to committee for redrafting, this time without the nuclear carrier and possibly with some new funds requested by Today's vote marked the first veto challenge of Carter's presidency.

Both opponents and supporters of the carrier had claimed to have the votes for victory, but Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill declared after his own last-minute count that "the president will be sustained.' Carter vetoed the bill that included the carrier on Aug. 17. He described the carrier as wasteful at the expense of other, more vital defense projects. Although the chairmen of both the House and Senate Armed Services committees joined the intensive drive to override the president, Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and other House Democratic leaders stood by Carter and predicted he would be sustained by a narrow margin.

World of Medieval brick lies below asphalt, steel

LONDON (AP) — In a hole 15 feet below London's hustling financial district, volunteer archeologists are racing to uncover traces of the city's Roman past that soon will be lost forever.

From asphalt and steel the layers step down to Medieval brick and stone, Saxon wood and clay, and a few patches of mosaic floor laid in a fortress called Londinium, a first century supply base for Roman legions that grew into the hub of an empire as London.

It is a slow-motion race, befitting a science that counts in centuries: whiskbrooms, trowels and vacuum cleaners digging to beat the coming bulldozers and pile drivers.

"It is now or never. The office block that goes up here next year will oblit- of ancient London erate the whole lot," says John Schofield, 30, a field officer for the Museum of London's Urban Archeology Department, which is sponsoring this and another major dig in the square mile that comprised the old walled Forty amateurs, teen-agers to pensioners, from Britain, Europe and the United States, most with only a few days of experience, are busy here at Watling Court, and another dozen a five-minute walk away in the shadow of St. Paul's Cathedral.

Ten professionals supervise and teach, record artifacts, take photographs and make drawings to be studied long after it is too late to dig any more, fitting pieces to the jigsaw map

The museum's five-year "rescue archeology" program has given tantalizing glimpses of Henry VIII's Bridewell Palace among other sites, and has already revealed much about how London grew. Seventy percent of the city has been rebuilt this century with modern foundations. Many precious repositories of history are safe for the time being, locked under islands of Victorian structures. But their days too are numbered, and Schofield worries about losing them.

"The end of the building recession has put the pressure on us," says Schofield. "To do this site right we should have a year. At best we have four more months.

"We're not bitter; it's a fact of life for urban archeologists. But next year we will have as many as 10 major sites coming open, and with our present resources we will be able to dig only two or three of them."

Continuity of life is sought here more than treasure. The possibility, for instance, that within this acre barmaids have been dispensing tepid beer for 1,900 years.

Here foundations mark what might have been a Roman inn. A few yards away broken bottles in a cistern hint at the site of a Medieval public house. There was a pub in the Victorian pile that stood here until this year, and there will be another in the modern building that arises in its place.

'It's beautiful. In the States we don't have anything like this," says Professor Glen Ashburn, 47, a sociologist from Western Maryland College at Westminster and an enthusiastic volunteer digger.

"A place like England has such a succession of people - Romans, Saxons, Normans, layer upon layer of occupation."

Ashburn, who has been studying British law enforcement in London this year, says he has learned things about Britain from the dig and fellow diggers that he would not have any other way.

Schofield says he would welcome more American volunteers next summer - or even better, a few archeology professors and their classes.

The focus will be under the riverfront at Trig Lane — "We'll find hundreds of well-preserved objects shoes, scabbards, pins, Medieval tourist souvenirs, cloth, hair and

But the objects are not the point, he adds: "We're trying to get away from this idea that archeologists dig up things - treasures. We dig up ways of

"We are trying to understand why London is here, how it started, how it developed, and by understanding the mistakes of yesterday we might help prevent the mistakes of tomorrow.'

Hugh Carter Jr. known to associates as 'Cousin Cheap'

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter was not alone in seeking late August solitude far from the executive pressure cooker.

While the boss was vacationing in the West, a majority of senior Carter aides got away from Washington for long weekends or, in some cases, a week or more.

One who remained at his post was Hugh Carter Jr., the presidential cousin and chief economizer.

"I had some things I wanted to do," said Hugh Carter, who told a reporter he planned to take a respite later in the year. When another presidential aide heard that Cousin Hugh, also known as "Cousin Cheap," had been here without a break, he snorted, "No wonder I couldn't find my paper clips when I got back." Hugh Carter's penny-pinching ways are not universally popular among his colleagues.

Zbigniew Brzezinski, Carter's assistant for national security affairs, took off for a long weekend with his family despite his role in preparing for this week's Mideast summit at Camp David, Md.

Brzezinski and entourage went fishing in North Carolina. "Zbig" planned to take a full four days off, but had to return a day early to preside at a top-level meeting considering a controversial export license for oil drilling technology to the Soviet Union.

Although Carter now faces a series of important voting tests in Congress, his chief lobbyist, Frank Moore, felt able to take most of his family to Sarasota, Fla., for a week.

Daughter Courtney had other plans. She joined Amy Carter as guest and playmate during the first family's Wyoming holiday.

Even the new White House image-burnisher, Gerald Rafshoon, took almost a full week off. He spent some time on New York's Long Island, but not as much as he intended. When Carter cut short his vacation, Rafshoon did likewise.

White House Counsel Robert Lipshutz took his family home to Atlanta for 10 days, returning to work on Tuesday.

Stuart E. Eizenstat, chief domestic policy adviser, escaped for a week but, according to his office, kept his vacation destination a secret "so people wouldn't be bothering him."

The three political heavies on the White House staff, Hamilton Jordan, Tim Kraft and Anne Wexler, proved themselves dedicated to work during the vacation season — which may say something about the tasks confronting them.

Ms. Wexler stayed at her post throughout, arranging a series of White House ceremonies and lobbying sessions during Carter's absence. Kraft, absent from the place most of last week on business, pared only one day from his work schedule.

Jordan spent a weekend at his home in Albany, Ga., and went to Long Island the following weekend in a game but vain quest for the championship of the annual celebrity tennis tournament benefitting the Robert F. Kennedy Memorial Fund. During the normal work days, however, he was on the job.

Kraft, Carter's chief advance man who will arrange for the president's campaign travels this fall, managed a five-day holiday at Rehobeth Beach,

Fast-shuffle option

By its own admission, the White House is considering the option of side-stepping the normal twothirds Senate vote required for ratification of a SALT II treaty by labeling the document an "executive agreement" subject only to majority votes in the House and Senate.

If exercised, such an option would pit the Carter administration against the clear intent of the Constitution.

An agreement setting the limits on strategic arms for the Soviet Union and the United States for a period of up to eight years certainly meets every reasonable test for the definition of a treaty. Because such international instruments bind the United States in matters of great importance, the Constitution quite properly requires ratification insurance in the form of a two-thirds Senate vote. It is difficult to persuade two-thirds of the Senate to do anything, and that is the whole point.

For the President to label something as critically important to the physical security of the American people as would be a SALT II treaty a mere "executive agreement" comparable, say, to a consular arrangement with Costa Rica, would be a sham.

The Senate leaders of Mr. Carter's own party quite clearly saw this fast-shuffle option in the same way.

Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd said such a move would constitute an "end run around the Senate." And Byrd added the obvious: "A pact as important as this must be sound in every respect and be able to withstand the constitutional test of "advice and consent."

California's Sen. Alan Cranston, the Senate majority whip, was more direct: " ... The administration might just as well not submit an agreement to this body if it submitted it in the form of an executive agreement ... its fate would be foreordained and it would go down to defeat."

If Senate support for the prospective SALT treaty is so shaky that Mr. Carter would consider ways to skirt the full test of Senate approval, perhaps the administration should turn to the Soviets and drive a better, more defensible bargain.

A sound decision

The Salvation Army has suspended its membership in the World Council of Churches because that organization's executive committee has decided to give $85,000 to the Patriotic Front of Zimbabwe, the guerrilla group waging war in Rhodesia.

This was a sound decision and action on the part of the Salvation Army.

It is indefensible that money collected to provide "food, health and educational programs" for victims of racism should be handed over to the Patriotic Front, which is accused of murdering missionaries and their families and other innocent persons in Rhodesia.

The council had the opportunity to channel its aid for black Rhodesians through Methodist Bishop Abel Muzorewa, the black church leader who is attempting to establish a biracial government in Salisbury and bring peace to that troubled country. That would have make some sense.

Instead, the World Council of Churches has handed $85,000 to the guerrillas whose aim is to bring down the shaky transitional government by violence.

What does the Patriotic Front, a gang of terrorists, have to do with any church's mission of saving souls and alleviating human suffering? Church members throughout the world who support the Geneva-based council should be asking that question.

BROADSIDES

This was too much for the Salvation Army's world leader, Gen. Arnold Brown. It undoubtedly is too much for many other church leaders in America and around the world.

PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE:

The U.S. Congress is a leading growth industry

By BENJAMIN SHORE Copley News Service

WASHINGTON - Many visitors to Capitol Hill this summer have been impressed by the two same things incredibly overcrowded offices and the towering steel framework of what will be the third Senate office building.

If they had read the local papers while they were here, or happened to be in the Senate chamber on Aug. 4, they would have learned that the new Senate building is creating as much controversy as a tax cut (or so it The Senate on Aug. 4 killed a senator's proposal to halt the construction, tear down the steel and create an underground parking garage with a park on top. The cost would have worked out to $100,000 per parking space.

Anyone who has been in a senator's office would have to admit more office space is needed for the present number of workers.

Critics, led by Rhode Island's John Chafee and Wisconsin's William Proxmire, make two points: a new building doesn't have to be so fancy, and it will only encourage the Senate to create more work (and thus more committees and staff) for itself.

They are right on both points. The senators don't need another restaurant (the 100-member Senate already has private dining space for 205 persons), they don't need another gymnasium, they don't need 16-foot ceilings, glistening marble everywhere and wood-paneled of-And the Senate clearly has shown a desire to grow. In 1955 there were 1,962 Senate employes; today there are over 6,900. (During the same period, the federal government's civilian work force has grown a modest 20 percent.)

Visitors to Capitol Hill who wander through the buildings quickly discover there's a small city up there. Some 15,000 people work in the various House and Senate buildings, supported by huge cafeterias, post offices, barber and beauty shops, airline ticket offices, parking garages, credit unions - and a 1,150person police force. Why is Congress growing so much so fast? There are several reasons.

First, Congress doesn't have to ask anyone for permission to spend money; it controls the nation's purse strings. Second, most politicians like having little empires, either office staffs or committees and subcommittees (half of which could be abolished or consolidated).

Also, Congress has convinced itself that it should buy computers and hire more and more experts to assess the information provided by the executive branch.

And the public increasingly asks members of Congress to untangle them from government red tape. One gets the impression that 25 percent of congressional employees would be out of work if all federal agencies functioned efficiently and treated the public promptly and courteously. So it is within that atmosphere of untouchability, political power, legislative power and public service that the Senate is moving ahead with its third office building. Assuming the senators aren't likely to scale back their present staffs, the space clearly is needed. The cramped of the funny thoughts that emerge. just as they make it difficult to understand how some of the high-quality work is produced.

But while more working space is needed, a palace (with a price tag to match) is not. Perhaps Sens. Chafee and Proxmire will be aided by the Proposition 13 spirit in their effort to convince their colleagues to set an example for the rest of the govern-hearings often resemble threatrical performances in which the story line is rehearsed in advance while the legislators vie for the leading role. But recently, in a particularly sensitive hearing, the entire script was leaked to the star witness by a member of the supporting cast.

By JACK ANDERSON WASHINGTON - Congressional

The scene was a secret closed-door session of a House Armed Services subcommittee. The meeting was called to hear arguments on the Carter administration's proposed nuclear test ban treaty.

One of the first witnesses at the Aug. 15 hearing was Brig. Gen. Harry Goodall who criticized the treaty on behalf of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Goodall responded with surprising ease to a series of complex questions drawn up by the committee staff. But Rep. Robert Carr, D-Mich., noticed that Goodall appeared to be reading verbatim replies to the technical Carr demanded to know whether the general had seen the questions in advance. According to sources familiar with the secret testimony, Goodall admitted that he had. Under further questioning, he conceded he had been slipped a copy of the questions the day before the hearing.

The general was reluctant to identify his source, but a key staffer spoke up unexpectedly and took responsibility for the leak. He is Seymour Shwiller, a former Air Force officer who once worked in the nuclear weapons program.

Under stern questioning by Carr, Shwiller acknowledged he had not checked with any member of the committee about giving the general an advance copy of the questions. When the congressman demanded an explanation, Shwiller reportedly said, I have no reasons, sir.

Shwiller confessed he had not furnished the list of questions to two pro-treaty witnesses from the State Department and the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency. This obviously tilted the proceedings in favor of the treaty opponents.

In an effort to bring fairness to the hearings, subcommittee chairman Charles Wilson, D-Calif., then passed the questions to the treaty proponents and allowed them extra time to prepare their answers.

Candidly, Shwiller later admitted to our associate Gary Cohn that he had indeed provided the sneak preview to Goodall. He repeated that he had "no reason for doing it." Shwiller contended that this was the first time he had done such a thing and didn't realize he was breaking any committee rules. He added that he doesn't necessarily agree with Goodall's views of the treaty.

But Wilson, while praising Shwiller as a conscientious staff worker, told us that the aide does oppose the test ban treaty. In fact, he said, "all the staff are opposed to it." He added it was wrong for opponents to get a look at the questions as a means of "getting the answers you want," while advocates were deprived of the same advantage.

INSIDE REPORT:

Panama Canal remains under U.S. military control

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON - Implacable opposition at the top of the powerful State and Defense departments killed a politically vulnerable White House proposal to transfer operation of the Panama Canal from the Army to the Transportation Department, which would have greatly reduced Pentagon control over the strategic waterway.

The proposal, disclosed here for the first time, was designed to remove the U.S. Army from its traditional role as operator of the famed canal during the transition period between 1979 and 2000, when Panama takes control.

But in asking Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Secretary of Defense Harold Brown to consider this shift, on the advice of his Latin-American staffers, national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski ignored a political reality: taking the canal out of Army control would reactivate the strong lobby that fought the Panama Canal treaties early this year. It would jeopardize new legislation to be sent to Congress next year. Tha legislation, called for by the Kathy Fletcher of the White House domestic policy staff refused to amend the now-famous Carter "hit list" of water projects.

To Johnston and other members of Congress this was proof that the Carter team had learned nothing over the last 18 months. Actually, a lesson had been learned, but one not congenial to Capitol Hill. "I would say the biggest mistake we've made so far is backing down on the water projects issue last year," one Carter aide told "We won't make that mistake

RHODESIAN WAR

Contrary to published reports that government troops are deteriorating in Rhodesia, West intelligence agencies report severe difficulties by guerrilla forces.

Recent government cross-border strikes did major damage to Joshua Nkomo's Soviet-oriented guerrilla army, which has been building up in neighboring Zambia for two years. Intelligence evaluators now doubt whether Nkomo's forces are capable of functioning effectively.

Meanwhile, Robert Mugabe's rival guerrilla army operating out of Mozambique - which has borne the brunt of the fighting - is riddled by factional disputes.

NIXON'S GUEST

The cautious reentry of Richard M. Nixon into politics came on Aug. 22 when he met privately with the guru of the Republican tax cut movement, Arthur Laffer.

Nixon had expressed curiosity about the "Laffer curve" which seeks to justify the wholesale tax cut embodied in the Kemp-Roth bill. So Laffer, a University of Southern California economics professor, and his wife were invited to lunch at San Clemente. Earlier Nixon broke his no-

Half million students still idled by teacher strike

Class is still out for half a million students as teachers tend to their own homework — painting picket signs and sharpening pencils for contract negotiating sessions. Teachers either struck or continued walking the picket line Wednesday in some of the nation's largest districts - Cleveland, Seattle, Chicago and New Orleans. But in Philadelphia, a tentative agreement could send the city's 250,000 pupils back to school. Strikes were either in effect or hreatened by teachers in Washington state, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Louisiana, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Illinois, Massachusetts, Ohio, Indiana,

Vermont, California, Idaho, New York and New Jersey.

More pay was the main topic in negotiations with belt-tightening dis-tricts, but fringe benefits and a reduced number of pupils per class also were factors in some areas.

Teachers in the dept-ridden, 182-school Cleveland district decided Wednesday to strike after last-minute negotiations failed to resolve employee demands for a 20 percent pay

Classes for the 100,000 public school students had been scheduled to start Friday. Peter Carlin, acting school superintendent, said every attempt would be made to keep schools open, and more talks were set for today.

Cleveland teachers now make between $9,100 and $18,650 a year. They have not had a pay raise in two years, but officials say no funds are available. The district got a $21 million state loan last week to keep the schools operating.

In Philadelphia, 13,000 striking teachers were voting today on the two-year proposal approved Wednesday by the executive committee of the Philadelphia Federation of Teachers. The average Philadelphia teacher's salary would be $22,425 a year under the proposal, up from the current

About one-third of the system's 91,-000 students have been in the classrooms despite the walkout. New Orleans teachers now earn between $10,096 and $15,250 annually.

A disagreement over the number of hours teachers are required to work has idled 1,450 teachers in Chicago's nine city colleges since Aug. 18. The strike affects 112,000 students.

An eight-day strike in Rockford, Ill., the state's second largest district, was settled Wednesday, and 36,000 students were able to open classes. But in Elgin, Illinois' third-largest district, teachers threatened to strike today. About 26,000 students would be affected.

In Boston, teachers reported for classes for the scheduled opening Wednesday, but set a vote for Sept. 13 for a possible strike the next day if school officials and the Boston Teachers Union have not reached agreement. At issue is a 6½ percent-a-year raise over two years and what has been termed a "zipper clause."

Henry Robinson, president of the Boston Teachers Union, said the clause would deny the union any right to raise an issue not included in the contract.

"In 10 days or more, we will have an acceptable contract to vote on or we will go on strike," said Robinson.
There are 69,000 students and 5,500 teachers in Boston.

Police try to unravel knot

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Police are hoping two stolen handguns; a straw hat and a pawn shop burglary will unravel the knot that ties two of the worst mass murders in Oklahoma history.

Investigators say a "positive connection" was established Wednesday between two guns found in a crime-ridden Oklahoma City neighborhood and the slayings of six employees at a steakhouse and the deaths of a Texas family on Interstate 35.

Ballistics tests showed the weapons, which were found by children Sunday, were both used in the slayings of the steakhouse employees. One of the guns, a .357 Magnum, had been stolen from Melvin Lorenz, who was shot to death with his wife and son three weeks before the steakhouse slayings, police found a few years ago after a robbery.

"The first thing we have to do now is solve the burglary where one of the guns was taken in Purcell and then work on numerous new avenues from there," Kennedy said, adding it was obvious the person who burglarized the pawnshop knows "who committed these nine killings or was directly in-

He suggested the burglar was "in great danger" and should surrender to authorities.

The Lorenz family, who had been driving to a funeral in North Dakota, were slain about a mile south of Purcell June 22.

Their camper was later found abandoned in Oklahoma City, a few miles from the Sirloin Stockade restaurant where some three weeks later six employees were herded into a meat locker before being shot to death.

This is because Chang K'ai-shek was able to rid the mainland of two major palace collections of art when he fled for Taiwan in

Castro says exile links need opening

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — President Fidel Castro says he will try to open ties with Cuban exiles in the United States even though attempts to improve relations with Washington are stalled.

Trading friendly comments with the first Cuban exiles he has met publicly since taking power in 1959, the Cuban leader offered his olive branch to Cuban exiles Wednesday during an informal three-hour news conference with a dozen reporters from Cuban community newspapers and television stations in Miami and New York, Several visiting American reporters attended the meeting held at the presidential palace in Havana.

"We must take steps to protect the child so it does not die during birth," Castro said in revealing that he has initiated contact with Cuban exiles in America and that the news conference was his next move. The visitors from the United States, all of whom were born in Cuba but who left after the revolution, had arrived expecting a major announcement on the release of up to 1,000 political prisoners, about one-third of the number Cuba admits to holding.

They had also hoped for more regular visiting rights between the Cuban communities abroad and in their homeland.

Castro described such reports as "highly inaccurate," but indicated that he was serious about warming up

"As far as a change in policy is concerned, maybe it is significant that for the first time in nearly 20 years, we are willing to talk to per-sonalities from Cuban communities abroad," Castro said.

There had been speculation he might be held pending the trial of two accused Soviet spies held in the United States and exchanged for them.

Crawford immediately went to the embassy to apply for an exit visa from the Soviet Foreign Ministry. The process usually takes from four to seven days but can be done faster. Crawford said he could leave as early as Friday night.

It was learned that he has a reservation on a Friday night flight to Frankfurt, West Germany.
The U.S. Embassy here issued a statement saying it was "pleased that Mr. Crawford will not be imprisoned" and predicting he will "shortly depart the Soviet Union." The statement said testimony supported Crawford's claim that he was innocent.

Crawford's three Soviet co-defendants also got the sentences recommended by the prosecutor.

Vladimir Kiselev, the admitted ringleader of the black market and currency-manipulating gang Craw-ford was convicted of dealing with, was sentenced to five years in a labor camp without exile and will have his property confiscated.
His seamstress wife Ludmila, who admitted helping him, received a five-year suspended sentence and three years probation.

Alla Solovyova, 23, a cashier in a foreign currency store who also admitted 4 selling currency to the Kise levs, was sentenced to four years in a labor camp with confiscation of her property.
Crawford complained that his sen-

Although Crawford was liable to a maximum sentence of eight years, prosecutor Mikhail Ilyukhin asked Wednesday for the five-year suspended sentence. He explained that it was the defendant's first offense and he had grown up "in a different country with different customs and way of life." He also said International Harvester helped improve U.S.-Soviet re-lations.

Shirley and Chuck have known each other for almost a year and recently have been discussing the possibility of getting married. "The only reservation I have," Shirley admitted, "is that we don't have a lot of feelings and opinions in common. I wonder if this doesn't automatically set us up for a lifetime of conflict." "What we do have in common," replied Chuck, "is our need and affection for each other. But when it comes to political or philosophical issues or sometimes even our emotional reactions to certain situations, we are different. I wonder, does this make us basically incompatible?"

There are many age-old formulas and prescriptions for perpetual bliss in marriage, one of them being that only opposites attract, another that you must have almost everything in common. Clearly, these notions are mutually exclusive - and like all generalizations about human behavior, only partially valid.

It is indeed very possible for two people to live together feeling differently about many things. However, this kind of situation does require certain attributes, such as tolerance and acceptance.

"Well," you might say, "if the two people are in love and want the relationship to last, tolerance and acceptance should be easy enough should even come naturally!" Unfortunately, this is too often not the

First of all, if your expectation is that the two of you "should" agree upon everything, or that your partner will, out of love for you, acquiesce readily whenever the situation gets a bit heated, then you will find yourself disappointed and frustrated very Disharmony is more a function of unrealistic expectations than differences in viewpoints.

The two of you represent a unique combination of people. And you each bring into this pair a mosaic of characteristics and experiences which are again unique. Therefore, to expect that your relationship should operate solely on the rules or patterns of your respective families or what appears to be society's model is to deny your individuality and to avoid the excitement of building your relationship in your own joint image.

It is impossible to have everthing tastes, ideas, feelings, talents, etc. in common. But it is vital to have a willingness to be open to alternative perspectives and desires.

Sometimes a fear of rejection or alienation interferes with this facility to be flexible. This is evident when you feel that if the other differs and you cannot convince him (her) of your way that there is automatically a polarity of good-bad or right-wrong. This impression goes hand-in-hand with a view of love as "conditional": love which is dependent upon each of you constantly pleasing — and never crossing — the other. This kind of love does not make anyone feel secure. Perhaps you remember feeling this By ALISON DA ROSA Copley News Service

The toy ram is made of pure sheepskin, genuine ram's horns, and a hand-carved wooden face. It is 16 inches tall and 28 inches wide, and Mrs. Percival said it could be used as a bench or as a decorative item. Miniatures, 4 by 6 inches, also were dis-

Fergus, of course, had plenty of company among the 650 exhibits at the Coliseum. There were other cuddly animals, sterling silver mini-animals, animal

Another attraction featured sterling silver figurines of characters from the novels of Charles Dickens, including Oliver Twist, Scrooge, Micawber

On the elegant side were gifts of crystal, china and silverware, as well as practical cookware and an extensive selection of items for the home.

A "Discovery Room" provided a focal point for the newest products culled from displays at the Coliseum and from a companion show of 300 displays at the New York Sheraton.

Many of the "Discovery" products were novelty gifts, such as a suede cover for a bank checkbook inscribed, "For my damn bills." A culinary item was a cloth "Norwegian kitchen witch" doll reputed to bring good luck to a kitchen, and prevent pots from boiling over and foods from being scorched.

Peanut butter, banana good breakfast foods

Copley News Service
Many heart watchers find breakfast

more of a problem than other meals. With a little imagination delicious, interesting and good for the heart brunchs or breakfasts can be served. In any menu planning nutrition, calories, taste, visual appeal, and convenience should be considered. A nutritious breakfast ought to include fruit for vitamins and minerals, (an orange, half a grapefruit, or four ounces of orange or grapefruit juice supplies the whole day's requirement of vitamin C). Cereals and breads make good breakfast foods which provide energy, some protein, vitamins and minerals. Whole grains have added vitamin B and minerals as well as additional fiber. Milk is important even for adults who should use two cups a day, either as milk or other low-fat dairy products. Milk contributes good quality protein, calcium and riboflavin.

Meat, fish and egg may be used for protein at breakfast (if milk has not been included or if counted as part of the day's meal or the week's egg allowance).

Polyunsaturated fats help to control cholesterol and fats remain in the stomach longest of all foods and thus helps to keep you from feeling hungry before lunchtime. Try old-fashioned peanut butter on whole wheat toast, topped with sliced bananas and a glass of cold milk for a summer breakfast. How about a cantaloupe half filled with low fat cottage cheese along with a toasted English muffin, polyunsaturated margarine and coffee? Perhaps you are ready to try some of these delicious recipes!

How Does One Clean A Chimney? VERY CAREFULLY.

Why does one clean a chimney? There are a number of reasons but mainly because they get dirty. When chimneys are dirty, the fire doesn't burn well. Dirty chimneys sometimes emit offensive odors. When dirty the damper cannot close properly, which causes a loss of heat in the winter and air conditioning in the summer. Autopsy experts to testify before assassinations panel

By MARGARET GENTRY

WASHINGTON (AP) - Autopsy experts planned today to endorse the Warren Commission's conclusion that the bullet which killed President John F. Kennedy came from the rear, according to a knowledgeable source.

A dispute over the direction of the fatal bullet has been a major factor fueling theories that a conspiracy was behind Kennedy's assassination in Dallas on

Warren Commission critics have suggested that the bullet which exploded Kennedy's skull was fired from in front of the presidential limousine, probably from a grassy knoll. Conspiracy theorists argue that a bullet fired from the grassy knoll would prove the existence of a second gunman. But the commission relied on autopsy findings at the time to conclude that both the fatal slug and another which struck Kennedy in the neck were fired from a sixth-floor window of the Texas School Book Depository to the right rear of the limousine.

The commission said Lee Harvey Oswald killed Kennedy and that he acted alone.

In the second day of hearings on Kennedy's death, the House assassinations committee planned to call two pathologists to present the majority report of a panel of 15 experts who examined autopsy photographs and interviewed doctors who treated Ken-

Martin Luther King Jr.'s assassination. The identity of the second pathologist could not be determined in advance.

The source, who asked not to be identified, said the pathologists differed with the Warren Commission on some minor questions, but agreed with it on the major issues, including the source of the fatal bul-

The committee also planned to hear a dissenting report from a third pathologist, the only member of the scientific panel to disagree with the majority conclusions, the source said.

In the opening session Wednesday, the committee summoned Warren Commission critic Robert Groden, a New Jersey photo-optical technician, to describe the major questions raised by hundreds of photos of the assassination scene. Committee staff members said many of the questions would be resolved with evidence to be presented later in the hearings.

Man, 52, surrenders on grand theft charge

LOS ANGELES (AP) - A self-employed bookkeeper accused of taking $927,000 erroneously depo-sited in his checking account has returned from Finland and surrendered, but authorities say at least two-thirds of the money is still missing.

Arne Ristol, 52, of West Covina was charged Wednesday with one count of grand theft. Municipal Court Judge Gabriel Gutierrez refused a request to reduce Ristol's $100,000 bail then continued the arraignment hearing to Friday, when Ristol is expected to enter a plea.

The $927,000 reportedly was channeled from Montreal to Switzerland. Deputy District Attorney Kellogg Chan said, "It's my understanding that the bank has located about $300,000 of it - at least that much. Whether they've recovered it or not I don't know.'

Talk around the town of Stanton is that there's a good chance their Buf-faloes may be making a trip to the Class A playoffs this year. Well, the Buffs would more than prove those raves warranted if they're able notch up one in the win column Friday.

The Tahoka Bulldogs ramble into Stanton in the season debut for both squads and you can bet Tahoka will be out to make the opener a sour one for Stanton. The Bulldogs carry a lofty No. 4 ranking in the Class AA polls into the battle and it's easy to see why when you take a look at their Tahoka was 9-4 a year ago, winning the District 5-AA crown and advancing to the playoff quarterfinals. And, with nine offensive and seven defensive starters returning, Tahoka can truly claim powerhouse status among the state's AA schools.

Stanton can claim credit for one of Tahoka's four losses last year, that being a 26-14 number they played on the Bulldogs in the season starter. In that game, Stanton tailback Marvin Jones went wild, running roughshod over the Tahoka defense for 180 yards and four touchdowns.

STANTON WILL HAVE to do without the since-graduated Jones this time around, but on the flip of the coin, Tahoka returns it's most productive offensive player of a year ago — and can he ever produce.

Tahoka coach A.D. Shaver thinks fullback Clifford Bailey (6-3, 200) Will be even better this year than he was last. If that's true then it's going to be "Katie bar the doors" when Bailey gets his mitts on the ball in '78. He was viturally unstoppable last year as he rushed for over 2,000 yards while earning all-state, all-district and all-South Plains accolades.

"He's the best running back I have ever coached," says Shaver. But the Tahoka mentor will go even a step further than that when complimenting his talented runner. "I think Bailey is the best running back in the state of Texas.'

Another contest that should be of interest to area football fans will be the Andrews-Big Spring shootout in It'll be the first time out for Andrews under new coach Bill Shipman and the Mustangs are looking to prove they can do it without Booger Brooks and Co. Andrews returns only three starters from last year but they put on an impressive showing in last Friday's scrimmage with Midland Lee, considered one of the top teams in District 5-4A.

BIG SPRING is another member of that district, but they've havn't been able to boast of much success competing there. They were 1-8-1 last year and need an opening win to get this

Lamesa is hoping to turn things around after a 2-8 season a year ago but they may find the going tough this week as they travel to Pecos.

The only loss on Pecos' 10-game slate last year came at the hands of district foe Andrews. Pecos returns seven offensive starters from that team so the Lamesa defense will have their hands full.

Crane opens their season at home and they're hoping to give the home-town fans a good show at the expense of Denver City. Both squads finished last season with sub-.500 records and want to win this opener to get things off on the right track.

THE REAGAN COUNTY OWLS will face a stiff challenge in their debut against Ozona. Reagan County was 1-8-1 last season and they hope better things are in store for them this

Navratilova nabs easy net victory in U.S. Open

NEW YORK (AP) — They'll tell you the same cliches, but don't be fooled. After No. 1 seed Martina Navratilova and second-rated Chris Evert have played all those other matches "one match at a time," they expect to be facing each other across the net at the U.S. Open. At stake will be the women's singles championship, a No. 1 ranking and as much pride as these two combative women can muster. You don't rise to the top in a very competitive sport without having a special feeling in-side that says No. 1 is the only numeral worth having

And there can only be one No. 1. "I'm not any more confident than before that I'm gonna get into the finals," said Navratilova, the Czech expatriate who wasn't pushed too hard Wednesday in downing longtime Eastern European opponent Virginia Ruzici of Romania 6-3, 6-2.

"I'm just taking one match at a time," the 21-year-old resident of Dallas said with barely a trace of an accent. "I'm just getting closer (to the finals), that's all."

EVERT WAS tested a bit more in her match against 15-year-old phen-om Tracy Austin of Rolling Hills, Calif., proving stronger and steadier, and prevailing 7-5, 6-1.

"In the second set I played very, very well," said the 23-year-old Floridian, who is bidding to become the first woman in more than 40 years to win this event four straight times. "I'm very pleased, especially with my serve. I'm getting better with every match." The semifinal opponents of the top two seeds were to be decided today when 16-year-old Pam Shriver, the No. 14 seed from Lutherville, Md., met Leslie Hunt of Australia and No. 15 Kathy May of Beverly Hills, Calif., played fourth-ranked Wendy Turnbull of Australia.

Later today, No. 1 Bjorn Borg plays No. 8 Raul Ramirez of Mexico and No. 2 Jimmy Connors meets No. 6 Brian Gottfried in men's quarter-final ac-

In the men's singles Wednesday, a pair of native New Yorkers waltzed into the semifinals. No. 5 seed Vitas Gerulaitis volleyed deftly in crushing jittery Johan Kriek of South Africa 6-2, 6-1, 6-2. No. 15 John McEnroe polished off giant-killer Butch Walts of Phoenix 6-1, 6-2, 7-6.

Kriek, who had a relatively easy draw into the quarter-finals, had his serve broken eight times in the match, double-faulting 16 times.

A RECORD NIGHT crowd for the Open, 15,794, showed up for the Geru-laitis-Kriek match, creating a record total for one day — 30,580.

When the U.S. Tennis Association made the seeding chart, they placed Navratilova on the very top as No. 1 and Evert on the very bottom as No. 2. After each round, they've moved closer to each other and their anxiously anticipated rematch of the Wimbledon final, in which Martina punctured Chris' aura of invincibility in three sets.

That victory, her second in two meetings with Evert this year, was said by some to be slightly tainted. Evert, who went cold turkey from tennis from the late fall of 1977 to early spring in '78, was not tournament-tough yet, they said. She had

Evert says that excuse won't wash

"If I'm not ready now, I don't know when I'll be ready," she said. "When I first came back, the layoff could be an excuse. But I've been back five months now. I should be tough."

IN WINNING Wimbledon and gaining the No. 1 seed here, Navratilova is learning first-hand why Evert be-came disenchanted with living and breathing tennis for so many years.

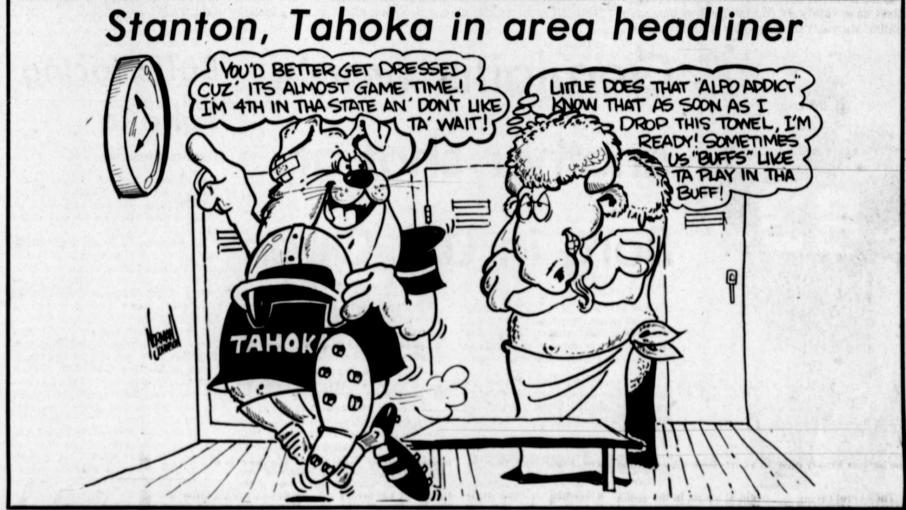

"There's more pressure on me now," said Navratilova, who has dropped just 16 games in winning all four matches in straight sets. "I have to keer performing, keep proving my-

And in finding herself in an unaccustomed No. 2 position, Evert might have found the spark to make tennis interesting again.

"I think she's more eager than she was when she first came back," Navratilova said. "Now her motivation is that she can go out there and try to regain No. 1. It gives her a new

The doubles action heated up Wednesday with the American duo of Marty Riessen and Sherwood Stewart ousting heavy favorites Frew McMillan and Bob Hewitt of South Africa 2-6, 6-2, 7-5. Super Dogs open season against Amarillo Tascosa

AMARILLO - Midland High's Super Dogs invade Dick Bivins Sta-dium Friday night.

Coach Dennie Hays makes his head coaching debut as his Bulldogs take on the Amarillo Tascosa Rebels in the 1978 schoolboy football opener for both teams.

Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m. with Radio KBAT broadcasting the season opener in this Panhandle city.

Hays, who has 21 years of coaching, gets to make his debut against a team that took a 14-7 win over Midland last year when Hays was an assistant under Jerry Hopkins who has since returned to Class AA circles at Son-

While the Rebs run out of the Slot I and Pro Set offenses, they will throw a split six defense at the Tall City team from District 5-4A.

Hays will have Jeff Robnett, Billy Applin and Earl Michie join Feldt in the Bulldog backfield. Feldt is a 170pounder while Applin and Robnett, both juniors will be at the tailback and fullback slots. Robnett is a 160pounder and Applin weighs 172 pounds. Michie, a 160-pound senior, will man the wingback slot.

Tommy Norwood, a 190-pound senior, who is slowed down with a knee in-jury, while at the other tackle will be Blake Feldt, a 215-pounder who is highly rated by his coaches and college coaches too.

The guards will be Jeff Spangler (187) and Sam Driskill (175) with senior Todd Liberty (193) over the ball at center. The ends will be Kris Sliger (173) and Jerry Hollums (168). As a sportswriter, no one is more happy about the arrival of September than myself.

More importantly than the cooler weather September traditionally ushers in, the month also signals the beginning of football season - and that's obviously a very important time of the year for someone in this line of work.

The month-plus period just prior to each season's kickoff is a vacuum of sorts for a sports writer. In that span of time football is on a lot of people's minds, but there reaches a point where there is just not much else you can say about "the upcoming season

Who will win the district? What are your strengths? Weaknesses? How many games can they win? It's a frustrating business asking questions you know nobody can answer.

Ah, but September brings football and that brings answers. It makes no difference who looked good before the season started. Now is the time for teams to go out and lay it on the line every Friday. In the final analysis, that's the only means of getting answers there is.

I must also admit I'm looking forward to witnessing my first season of Texas high school football. Back home in Oklahoma people regard that brand of football with some of the best around. But, admittedly, Texas football has always had a certain mystique about it. Bigger and better stadiums; bigger and better training facilities; bigger and better athletes.

That's how I've always heard it anyway - bigger and better everything. By the time the football season has run its course I guess I'll have some answers in that respect also. New faces abound all over the area football scene. Nearly evervone has that unproven look. That kind of situation makes football predictions difficult, if not impossible, to make with any reliability. Oh well, that never stopped a year under new coach Melvin Burns. Burns is a 14 year veteran of district 9-A coaching, but his Owls will be stepping up a notch for the encounter with Class AA Ozona.

The Rankin Red Devils are rarin' to go in their initial game of the season after a disappointing 4-6 year in 1977. Injuries decimated Rankin during the course of the season, the first losing season for Coach Darrell Turner in his eight years at the Rankin helm.

A lot of young players saw action when those injuries forced them into duty last year, but it'll be an experi-enced lot that takes the field against Eldorado Friday night. Eldorado was 2-8 last year, but experience is also the top commodity there, as they return 12 starters.

And last, but certainly not least, the McCamey Badgers will play host to Menard in what should be a very interesting matchup. McCamey sur-prised a lot of people on the way to a 6-4 finish and the No. 2 spot in the district 6-A standings a year ago. Bu with 10 returning starters, they won't be sneaking up on anyone this year.

Menard, for one, won't be taking McCamey or anybody lightly. They proved that a year ago as they recorded eight wins against only a pair of losses. Menard looms as a rough test for the Badgers in their first outing, but a win here could well be a springboard to an improved season in

All of the schools would qualify for the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Division I. A basketball tournament after the 1979-80 regular season would be the league's first activity if it is formed, Fletcher said.

"Everyone is committed to trying to organize a conference," he added. "Half the schools are still in the process of gaining full authority of putting their names on the line.

football season Saturday one of the victories came over BYU in a game that ended Gifford Nielsen's collegiate career and put Wilson in the spotlight. "The fact that Oregon State won last year has no bearing on us this year," says BYU Coach LaVell Edwards. "I don't believe there is a revenge motive in our team because of what happened in Oregon. We are stressing that Oregon State didn't beat us. We beat ourselves.'

Meanwhile, New Mexico plays at Hawaii, Utah entertains Idaho State, and UTEP is host to Air Force.

For the second year in a row, UNM and Hawaii open their seasons against each other. The Lobos won last year's meeting, 35-26, but then dropped four straight games to nationally ranked teams. They don't have such a formidable schedule to contend with this year. UNM finished at 5-7 last year, and Hawaii was 5-6.

Utah, in its second rebuilding year under Coach Wayne Howard, hopes to leave a rash of practice-field injuries behind when it meets Idaho State of the Big Sky. The Bengals, who posted a 3-8 record identical to Utah's last year, bowed to Utah State 10-0 in Osaka, Japan, last week. UTEP had breakdowns in its passing attack a week ago, but looks to get well against an inexperienced Air Force secondary. MAJOR LEAGUE BOX SCORES Tiant registers two-hitter as Boston blanks Baltimore, 2-0

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Luis Tiant pitched a two-hitter and won; Dennis Martinez pitched a twohitter and lost. The difference was Carl Yastrzemski — tired, battered, bruised Carl Yastrzemski — who just happens to play for Tiant's team — the Boston Red Sox.

Despite recurring back problems that have forced him out of the lineup and despite torn ligaments in his right hand, the 39-year-old Yastrzemski cracked a two-run seventh-inning homer to back 37-year-old Tiant in a 2-0 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Wednesday night.

"The two young guys did it tonight

— Tiant and Yastrzemski," mused Boston Manager Don Zimmer after the Red Sox had won for only the second time in seven starts. "We don't know what's going to happen from here on out, but this was a big one for us.' It was big because the Red Sox four games in front of second-place New York in the American League's East Division — open a four-game series with the Yankees tonight at their Fenway Park home. "We've got to do it ourselves," said Zimmer.

Tiant did it for himself, retiring 19 of the last 20 batters after Rich Dauer singled with one out in the third. Terry Crowley's single with two out in the seventh was the only other safety off the veteran right-hander, now 10-

In other AL games, the Yankees downed Detroit 8-2, Kansas City clipped Oakland 11-8 in 12 innings. Texas thrashed California 11-5 and 9-2, Milwaukee beat Toronto 7-0 and Chicago edged Minnesota 1-0. "The middle part of my lineup just doesn't hit that man," moaned Balti-more Manager Earl Weaver. He (Tiant) gives it to them when they need it."

The shutout — Tiant's fourth this season and 47th lifetime - overshadowed an equally fine performance by Martinez, whose only other mistake was a one-out single by Carlton Fisk in the fifth.

"I don't know what I have to do next," said Martinez, who has allowed just 17 runs in his last 10 starts for a 1.77 earned run average but has been only 5-4 over that stretch. "It was a good pitch to Yaz, and he really didn't hit the ball good. "If he was feeling good, he probably would have hit it 1,000 feet," said Martinez, 12-11.

To be certain, Yastrzemski isn't feeling good.

"My thumb has been numb for four or five days," said Yastrzemski. The only way I can swing is to tape it tight. Even when I take the bandage off, I have no feeling.

"It would take two weeks of complete rest, or maybe a month, too get it well. So the only thing to do is tape it and live with it. A lot of guys on this club are playing hurt.'

For example: third baseman Butch Hobson has had chronic elbow trouble, second baseman Jerry Remy has bone chips in his left wrist, right fielder Dwight Evans still isn't 100 percent after being beaned last week and Tiant still is recovering from a groin pull.

Mickey Rivers cracked three hits and scored three times, including once in the Yankees' four-run fifth inning, while Ed Figueroa and Sparky Lyle helped stop Ron LeFlore's hitting streak at 27 games in the New York victory over Detroit.

The streak was the longest in the AL this year and the longest since Figueroa helped stop LeFlore's 30game run in 1976.

LeFlore also made an error on Chris Chambliss' bases-loaded fly ball that enabled Bucky Dent and Rivers to score and helped the Yankees win for the 12th time in 14

Kansas City rallied from a sevenrun deficit and tied the game 8-8 in the ninth on a two-out triple by Frank White and a single by Steve Braun. Rico Carty had driven in four runs with his 28th homer of the year and a single, but Kansas City pulled out the triumph with three 12th-inning runs one on Al Cowens' bases-loaded single and two more on a single by Amos Otis - to extend its AL West lead to three games over California.

"Without a doubt, it's our best comeback of the season," said Manager Whitey Herzog, whose Royals collected 20 hits.

"I thought it was over when we had two outs in the ninth inning and they had nobody on base," said A's Manager Jack McKeon.

Rangers 11-9, Angels 5-2 John Ellis cracked a two-run double in a five-run third inning to help Texas win the nightcap after Toby Harrah's three-run homer in a fiverun seventh powered the Rangers in the opener.

The Rangers' John Lowenstein lost a home run on a freak play in the third inning of the nightcap.

Bill Kratzert already has won a lot of big money in PGA golf tournaments

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — Bill Kratzert has won plenty of money this season despite failing to capture a tournament. However, the former University of Georgia golfer may have had some added incentive going into today's opening round of the $175,-000 Southern Open Golf Tournament.

The 26-year-old Kratzert was told Wednesday while on the 12th fairway that he had become a father for the first time when his wife Cheryl Ann gave birth to a 7-pound, -9-ounce girl in a Fort Wayne, Ind., hospital.

"I was with her yesterday," said Kratzert, who has earned more than $174,000 this year in only his third full season on the tour. "We had no idea the baby was coming this soon. If I would have known I'd have stayed Kratzert, who won the Greater Hartford Open last year, doesn't mind not winning this season because "I've been consistent, much more than last year," when he earned $135,000.

Gossage wins AL award

NEW YORK (AP) - New York Yankees reliever Rich Gossage, who picked up a win and three saves in four appearances last week, was named the American League Player of the Week for the period ending Sept. 2, AL President Lee MacPhail announced today.

The big right-hander picked up saves No. 19, 20 and 21 and lowered his earned run average to 1.95, holding the opposition scoreless in five innings of work

The highlight of Gossage's week came Sunday when he entered a game between the Yankees and Seattle Mariners with none out, runners on second and third and New York clinging to a 4-3 lead. The "Goose" struck out the side on 11 pitches.

Gossage was hard-pressed for the award by Kansas City pitcher Larry Gura, 13-4, who pitched two complete

"This course is not a backbreaker.

A couple of the courses we play, you can never let up. You have to keep grinding. Although that's where I do my best, it's not as enjoyable. It's too much like work," he said, after shooting a 70 in the pro-am Wednesday. "I think I'm playing well and have a

Pirates keep on flying high during pennant race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A plane ride last month really got the Pittsburgh Pirates off the ground and they haven't come down to earth "We were in Philadelphia and had just been humiliated and were 111/2 games behind," Pirate Manager Chuck Tanner recalls. "But on the plane after the trip I knew right then that we were going to start winning.

How did he know?

"We were healthy," says Tanner. "We had seven pitchers capable of starting and we took off from

The pitching, actually, has been a true part of the Pirates' recent suc-cess — which included Wednesday night's 4-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. That was the 11th straight triumph for the Pirates and their 23rd in 26 games

"The pitching has been superb," Tanner said after watching rookie Don Robinson hurl a five-hitter. "Everyone's been coming through. It's a whole group of men doing the job. They've got the right attitude - we're loose and having fun.

The Philadelphia Phillies, on the other hand, have to be a little tight and a little serious watching the gallant Pittsburgh charge that has brought the Pirates to within a halfgame of the National League East leadership.

The Los Angeles Dodgers, meanwhile, stretched their lead to three games over San Francisco in the NL West with a 9-2 victory over the Giants. Elsewhere, the Phillies kept their slim edge in the East by trimming the Chicago Cubs 8-1; the Montreal Expos tripped the New York Mets 8-2 and the San Diego Padres turned back the Atlanta Braves 5-3.

Robinson, a 21-year old righthander, struck out nine and walked none in raising his record to 12-5. Cardinal loser John Denny pitched the first six innings and allowed the first three Pirate runs.

The Pirates scored twice in the second inning - all the runs they needed. Ed Ott scored on a groundout by John Milner and Phil Garner's sacrifice fly sent home another run.

"I was only trying to go six in-nings," said Robinson. "I thought my back would stiffen up, but it didn't.' Dodgers 9, Giants 2

Joe Férguson hit a three-run homer and doubled twice to lead Los Angeles over San Francisco. Doug Rau and Rick Rhoden combined to scatter seven hits as Los Angeles swept the two-game series with San Francisco.

Ron Cey belted his 18th homer off loser Jim Barr, 7-11, who has dropped seven straight decisions to the Dodgers. The Giants' right-hander has not defeated Los Angeles since September 1974.

We wanted a split, but that's beyond us," said San Francisco Manager Joe Altobelli. "Now we have to look ahead to Atlanta and Cincinnati first and then try to do the same thing to the Dodgers at our place."

The Dodgers will finish their season play at San Francisco next week. Phillies 8, Cubs 1 Left-hander Steve Carlton pitched a seven-hitter and Mike Schmidt drove in four runs with a double and a three-run homer to lead Philadelphia past Chicago.

Carlton, 13-12, pitched no-hit ball through five innings, facing only one batter over the minimum. Chicago's Tim Blackwell broke up the no-hit bid with a solid single to right at the start of the Chicago sixth.

Schmidt had a run-scoring double in the second inning before his three-run homer in the third.

Ross Grimsley scattered five hits for his 17th victory of the season and Larry Parrish drove in three runs to lead Montreal over New York in a game called by rain in the bottom of the seventh inning. Grimsley, 17-9, and Phil Niekro of

He told his wife, Sylvia, to say he wasn't at his Green Bay home when the long distance telephone rang.

But then the National Football League tackle, an All-Big Ten selection at Ohio State University, got a call he couldn't refuse. It was from Red Ash, his old coach at Canton South High

Himes gave Ash approval to relay his comments to a Canton sports

"They're (the Packers) getting rid of just about everybody with five and six or more years of experience," Ash quoted Himes as saying. "I still love the game. After 10 years in the league, I only wanted to play one more and I thought they'd let me.

"Getting cut came as a total shock." Ash said Himes refused to take any shots at the Packers for their release of him. "Dick was one most cooperative athletes I ever coached," said his old coach. "He's just a class guy. That news ruined my whole weekend."

Ash said: "Dick told me the Packers assured him everything was OK, that he'd be with the team. He'd been saying this was going to be his last year. He doesn't know what happened. "He's real down-inthe-mouth about the whole thing."

Candelaria doubts he can pitch

PITTSBURGH (AP) -Pittsburgh Pirate pitcher John Candeleria says he doubts he can pitch again this season because of an ailing arm.

"My arm is sore, very sore," the 24-year-old left-hander told the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette before the Pirates' 4-1 victory in St. Louis Candelaria, a key man in manager Chuck Tanner's pennant drive pitching plans, later threw on the sidelines, but left the field after about 20 tosses. When asked how his arm felt, he said, "No good."

Tanner said he still has Candelaria scheduled to start in Philadelphia on Tuesday.

"If Candy can't go, we'll have to make an adjustment," Tanner

Candelaria, who is 10-11 this season, developed soreness in the tendon area in his left forearm early last month.

Network decision is costly

By HOWARD SMITH

AP Sports Writer Both NBC and CBS bit the bullet Sunday, pre-empting the opening of the National Football League season in favor of live coverage of installation ceremonies for Pope John Paul

It was a costly decision, giving up expensive commercial time for a news event. The networks expected the Papal Mass to end about 1:30 p.m. EDT, but it lasted almost an hour beyond that time. Both networks stayed with the mass until the end and their combined losses could run to about $1.5 million.

CBS had five games starting at 1 p.m. EDT and one at 2 p.m. The Mass wiped out the first halves of all five 1 p.m. games and part of the 2 p.m. contest. Commercial time goes for about $55,000 per 30-second spot on CBS and about 11 minutes of commercials would have appeared in the first half. That's about a $1.2 million loss for the five early games.

Add in the approximately $170,000 worth of commercial time sold for the pre-game show, and CBS would have lost over $1.3 million. But Dick Pinkham, the network's Director of Sports Sales, points out that some games were able to slip in an extra commerical or two during the second half, cutting losses.

Pinkham is still awaiting reports from the field on exact losses but he estimates that CBS dropped between $600,000 and $1 million for the day. "That money is gone," says Pinkham. "Now we have to go back to those sponsors and try to get them to reinvest in CBS Sports.'

But, despite the financial losses, Pinkham insists CBS had no intention of passing up the Papal ceremonies. doesn't charge as much for its com-

NBC, which had four 1 p.m. games, mercials or pre-game show, so its losses were less. Depending on how many spots were slipped into the second half of its games, NBC may have lost in the neighborhood of $550,000.

As if that wasn't enough, both networks report hordes of angry callers swamped switchboards at local stations and in New York with complaints. At one point NBC had received 735 calls at its New York switchboard. Ten of the calls praised the network's decision to cover the Pope. The other 725 callers wanted to know where the hell their football game was CBS reported about 520 calls and the network's Washington switchboard was particularly jammed with outraged demands for the Redskins'

Both networks say that several of the callers were abusive, to put it mildly, and many were anti-Catho-

All of which has to make you wonder if football, and all sports for that matter, has not been blown way out of proportion in this country.

CBS has been doing a bang-up job on the U.S. Open tennis tournament, mixing super pictures with extremely informative commentary. The network televised more than 14 hours of tennis over the three-day weekend and, while that may seem excessive, it was fascinating stuff.

CBS has been able to give the viewer a feel for the tournament by judicious switching from one match to another, picking up the close of one match, checking in on another and then returning to the original.

On Saturday, for example, we started out with a match involving Eddie Dibbs, switched over to watch Harold Solomon and Arthur Ashe close out victories, then picked up the conclusion of the Dibbs match. We then caught a good portion of Butch Walts' upset of Wojtek Fibak, the conclusion of Vitas Gerulaitis' exciting win over Andrew Pattison, almost the entire Guillermo Vilas-Stan Smith match, then concluded with some doubles and a Jimmy Connors' vic-

Playhouse postpones opening of new musical

ODESSA - "Funny Girl," the season-opening attraction at Permian Playhouse of Odessa, has been postponed for a week.

The musical based on the career of the late, great Fanny Brice was to have opened Friday night at the Playhouse, Odessa's community theater. Because of conflicts in the schedules of several pivotal performers in the show, the opening has been postponed until Sept. 15. The opening will be preceded by a traditional chairholders' preview evening on Sept.

"Funny Girl," staged and directed by Michael Madach, stars Bonnie Madach as Fanny Brice and Jeryl Hoover as Nicky Arnstein.

The musical will have Friday and Saturday night performances through early October. Seat reservations for the opening performance at 8 p.m. Sept. 15, and for all additional presentations, may be made through the box office, 362-2329. Permian Playhouse is located at 310 W. 42nd St., adjacent to the Ector County Coliseum grounds

Guthrie tribute to initiate season; Member drive begun

ODESSA - The Odessa Civic Concert Association is launching its annual membership cam-paign in preparation for the opening of the association's 1978-79 season.

The new season will be initiated Oct. 12 with the appearance here of Tom Taylor, singer and instrumentalist, in a program paying tribute to Woody Guthrie. Taylor portrays Guthrie in the one-man show and sings many of Guthrie's most memora-ble songs, including "Wayfaring Stranger" and "This Land Is Your Land."

The new season continues on Nov. 21 with a

Peek at 'Lifeline' available tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Barring a last-minute schedule shift, an advance peep at NBC's new "Lifeline" medical series is available tonight. The non-fiction show has flaws, but it's well worth your It's made by the same folks who did CBS's superb "Body Human" medical specials — Thomas W. Moore, Dr. Robert Fuisz and the Tomorrow Entertainment and Medcom companies.

Although NBC calls the series "pioneering," it does exactly what "Body Human" did. It follows doctors about their often-risky labors, shows the medical crises they and their patients face. Tonight, it observes the life and work of Dr. Judson

Randolph, chief surgeon at Children's Hospital, National Medical Center, in Washington, D.C., where he's seen treating five young patients. First comes the personal side of Randolph, a tall, pleasant man with a Southern twang. We see him at a high school football game with his two sons, reminiscing about his high school days.

He was too skinny to play football, he recalls, but tried anyway. Later, he found that in the operating room "you'can be as good as you want to be, no matter what you weigh."

Then, to show the wide range of medical decisions he must make, he faces the show's first patient, a newborn baby boy with a malformed swallowing tube. Immediate surgery is needed.

And he does it, gently warning the father the infant will be in critical condition the next 10 to 14 days. The next case: A 15-year-old boy with a history of diabetes and severe abdominal pains that puzzle the ball-size mass in her right lung. It could be malig-nant. Exploratory surgery might be needed. However, perhaps in implied response to charges surgeons are often too quick to operate, no surgery is ordered for either patient. Only observation and particularly as a colleague impatiently tells him:

"Well, let's see his X-rays. You've got to do something or you've clearly got a dead baby, Jerry."

The Gray collection, which is the largest Faberge collection ever to be shown in the Southwest, was assembled by Mrs. Gray between 1933 and 1963. At that time, Hammer had recently returned from the Soviet Union with ma exquisite examples of Faberge's work. Numerous of these pieces ulti-mately became a part of the Gray collection.

Through the years, Mrs. Gray had the assistance and advice of experts on the works of Faberge. These advisors included Victor Hammer of the Hammer Galleries in New York and Emmanuel and Kenneth Snowm London. "At some point I knew I wanted to play country music with a country band," Emmylou Harris says, "and I had learned enough about it to find out what it should sound like. Some people did it halfheartedly convinced it wouldn't sell or something. But I knew it was real for me."

She was a folk singer, a waitress, a hostess in model homes, toyed with going into the real estate business. She recorded and toured with Gram Parsons just before his fatal heart attack.

In January 1977, Miss Harris and Brian Ahearn, who has produced her four latest albums, were married. They live in Studio City, Calif., with her daughter, Hallie, 8, and his daughter, Shannon, 10. "We're a new family," she says happily. Ahearn is Canadian, produced Anne Murray's early hits, helps his wife with song arrangements and plays guitar on her records.

Postal service, unions fail to narrow barriers

WASHINGTON (AP) - With a bargaining deadline nine days away, officials of the Postal Service and three unions are continuing contract talks that so far have failed to narrow their Special mediator James Healy planned to first meet separately with the two sides today and then call them together for another round of face-toface bargaining.

Sources close to the negotiations said the unions, which represent 516,-000 postal workers, spent Tuesday and Wednesday arguing their case for a larger pay raise before management bargainers.

their own by Sept. 16. The rejected contract gave workers a 19.5 percent pay increase over three years, including cost-of-living boosts, raising the annual salary of a typical postal worker from about $16,000 to $19,100 by 1981.

The unions, arguing that the wage hike does not provide enough protection from inflation, want to remove a ceiling on the cost-of-living adjustments. Under the previous settlement, the cost-of-living raises could

A negotiated settlement reached before the deadline would have to be resubmitted to postal workers for ratification. But if settlement appears unattainable, Healy would settle the disputed issues himself.

However, an arbitrated settlement would not necessarily remove the threat of a strike if its terms were unacceptable to rank-and-file union members. Strikes by federal employees are illegal.

Leaders of the American Postal Workers Union, representing 165,000 members, have said they would not consider themselves bound by an arbitrated settlement.

"You'll be able to get your glasses, pick up your will, buy your paper and prescription and home you go," he said Wednesday.

Haronian, along with a partner and four attorneys he has hired, will give a 20-minute legal consultation for $15, write a simple will for $25, do an uncontested divorce for $185 and close a house sale for $100.

Haronian doesn't think the computerized legal business will make conventional lawyers obsolete. He does, however, think it may free them for more complicated cases.

"There's still a need for the old-fashioned approach, the in-depth services that need individual attention," Harnonian said. "We've got an estab-lished practice that we don't want to

However, Edward Smith, executive director of the Rhode Island Bar Association, says he's not sure all clients will get the individual attention they need through Haronian's service.

"You get what you pay for, whether it's a will or a can opener," he said. "If you want a computerized will ... if your problems are minimal ... then of course, the lower the cost the bet-

Haronian said a "computer word processor" with a television screen and a typewriter keyboard will be used to duplicate documents — at 450 words a minute — which are stored in the computer memory. The lawyer will fill in blanks in the forms as

Harnonian says certain services, such as wills, are almost identical from client to client and both the lawyer and client can save money by using the computer. 1

Estes owes $39.7 million in taxes

ABILENE, Texas (AP) - If paroled swindler Billie Sol Estes ever admits to having any extra cash or property, it will likely go toward the $39.7 million income tax debt a federal judge says he owes the

The paunchy, bespectacled ex-promoter, object of state and federal scrutiny for the past two years, was adjudged bankrupt in 1962, a year before he was convicted of masterminding a multi-million dollar

However, he was not discharged from his fiscal responsibilities and a $21 million income tax assessment was filed against him.

Last February, U.S. District Judge Leo Brewster criminal investigation is pending."

Tuesday, Brewster's February opinion was for-Estes and his wife, Patsy, jointly owed $45.6

The opinion came about eight months after authorities renewed their efforts to track Estes' alleged business activities through allegations made by several people who claimed they were swindled by him. A grand jury is currently probing the allegations, but no indictments have been returned.

U.S. Attorney Claude Brown said it would be "pointless to question Estes now since he could invoke the Fifth Amendment on grounds that a "La Berceuse," painted in 1889, is one of several portraits Van Gogh made of the wife of a postman in the south of France. The work was slashed from corner to corner in the knife attack.

Municipal museum spokesman Tijmen van Grootheest said the painting was still being repaired grant him financial aid as an artist. "It was an act of and it was unknown yet when it will be back on show. He said the repair work was proceeding ogh, a fellow artist," he said.

The judge also ruled that Mrs. Estes owed $38.4 million, computed from U.S. Tax Court records and not bankruptcy proceedings. He added, "There is no intention that the amounts...be added together."

Brewster said the most the federal government could hope to collect would be the millions levied against Estes, not his wife.

Estes has steadfastly refused to comment about his alleged business dealings with other Texas promoters and financiers. Since his parole in 1971, he has listed his job with his parole officer as "dispatcher" with an Abilene petroleum company.

The $39.7 million allegedly represents income taxes and accumulated penalties owed from 1959 through 1962 when the paper empire built by Estes started to crumble.

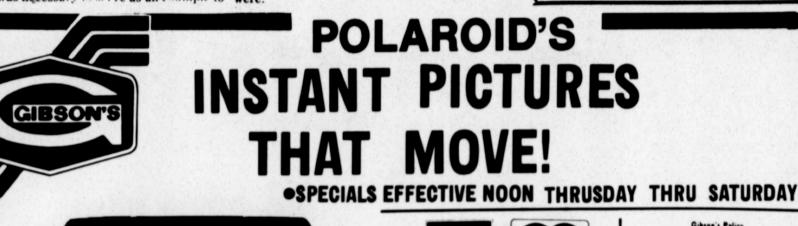

Estes' attorney and friend, Jack Bryant, emphasized the ruling involved only one debt, not two, as it appeared in the court order. He said he will have to study the order before a decision is made to ap-chance to win a spade. If West continues with the ace and another spade, South can safely develop diamonds by leading low from his hand and finessing wih dummy's nine. The finesse loses, but the king and ace then clear the diamonds.

BRIDGE Hold-up necessary

LESS COMFORT
If West leads the jack of spades at the second trick, South makes the same diamond play with far less com-fort since he doesn't know that East is out of spades. South must hope that his hold-up play at the first trick has done the job.

If West shifts at the second (to hearts, for example) declarer begins the diamonds by leading dummy's nine. This loses to the jack, but West cannot do any damage by leading spades. South later runs the diamonds, making his contract even is he never gets a spade.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold: S-AQJ1062; H-752; D-J6; C-K9. What do you say?

ANSWER: Most experts would pass, but some wuld bid one spade. Those who bids use "weak two-bids" would open with one two spades. The hand would just barely rate an opening bid of one spade with the same niumber of points if there were two low diamonds and if the spades were headed by A-K-J instead of A-Q-A.

New Jersey lacks plans to spend gambling riches

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) - Gambling fever among high rollers in Atlantic City has generated almost $5 million in just over three months to aid New Jersey's elderly and handicapped, but the state still hasn't decided how to spend it.

State officials say they've been waiting to see how much money would be generated by the 8 percent state tax imposed on a casino's "win" the amount gamblers lose. "No one wanted to write anything specific in the Casino Control Act without knowing what specific money would be there," says Ben Borowky, spokesman for the state Casino Control Commission The nearly $5 million collected since late May when Resorts International Inc. opened the United States' first — and so far only — legal gambling casino outside Nevada already exceeds the $3.5 million expected annually by the state. But there were no specific plans to spend even that Casino Control Commission Chairman Joseph Lordi says the state share easily could reach more than $12 million by the end of the year.

Resorts International has shown steadily increasing average daily wins - $438,504 for May, $534,627 for June, $666,209 for July and $759,208 for August. Legislation was introduced last week to create a state casino revenues study commission which is to propose ways to spend the money. The commission would be composed

Cambodia may reopen Angkor

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) -Cambodia may reopen the famous ancient ruins of Angkor to foreign tourists, a Foreign Ministry spokesman said Wednesday. He said Cambodian Vice Premier Ieng Sary wants to discuss the possi-bility of organizing tours from Bangkok to Angkor.

According to the tentative plan, tourists would be given about two hours to explore the temple complex. Angkor has been closed to visitors since the communist victory in 1975.

of three state senators and three assemblymen. "I'm concerned that nothing's been done," said the bill's sponsor, Sen. John Skevin, a Democrat from Bergen County. "I anticipate holding public heaings throughout the state and having a legislative proposal by the end of the year."

The referendum opening Atlantic City to casino gambling, approved by voters in 1976, said the state's share of money lost at gaming tables should help reduce property taxes and utility costs of senior citizens and disabled residents

But it did not define senior citizen or

There are an estimated 810,000 New Jerseyans who are 65 years of age or older, but there are about 1.2 million who are 60 or older. The number of disabled residents may range between 14,000 and 20,000, depending on definition.

"That's one of the knots we'll have to unravel," Skevin said, "Another is whether the money can be used to provide free or reduced fares for senior citizens on public transporta-

Many senior citizens say they would rather be able to ride buses for free than get rebates on their property tax bills or reimbursement for their gas and electric costs.

"Being housebound because you can't afford to ride the bus is one of the prime causes of mental anguish,' says Herbert Miller, legislative chairman of the New Jersey Coordinating Council of Organized Older Citizens, a senior citizen lobby group.

Miller points out the state already provides the elderly an annual property tax cut of $160 under another state program.

Scientists produce genes that make human insulin

DUARTE, Calif. (AP) - Scientists said Wednesday they have used manmade genes to change bacteria into living factories that produce human insulin - an achievement that could greatly benefit the world's 100 million The dramatic accomplishment ful-days of recombinant DNA research, a of the City of Hope National Medical

the promise of better and probably cheaper insulin for diabetics, whose lives depend on daily injections of the hormone. But he said more refinements and testing are needed before the new insulin will be publicly available. It has not been tested on humans, although researchers are confident it will work.

City of Hope researchers collaborated with scientists from Genentech Inc., a private South San Francisco laboratory that funded the project. A spokesman said Genentech has applied for patents on the pro-cess, which includes several scientific advances and shortcuts. The insulin work was built on a foundation laid late last year when

City of Hope and the University of California-San Francisco announced

they had built an artificial gene that ordered bacteria to produce a much simpler, less valuable, human hormone called somatostatin. Similar procedures may now be used to create bacterial factories that could produce virtually any human hormone and many other medically important substances, said Dr. Keii-

chi Itakura, a molecular biologist at

City of Hope. Insulin, a vital hormone that governs the rate at which carbohydrates are burned to supply energy, is nor-mally produced in the pancreas.

Two successful years followed by real setback

HOUSTON (AP) — Health officials fighting the war against infectious syphilis, the deadliest venereal disease, have suffered a setback after two years of success.

"Four of the largest cities in the country, including Houston, have experienced increases in syphilis, which is a change from the last two years, where a decrease had been noted,' said Jerry Wheeler, a federal public health official on loan to the city Health Department from the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga.

Wheeler said there has been a 28 percent increase in the number of infectious syphilis cases reported in Houston in the first seven months of 1978 compared with 1977, when there were 754 cases reported. "The question we have to ask, of course, is 'Why?'," Wheeler said.

"The answers for Houston are varied. One reason is the population increase. Houston is growing extremely rapidly, and this is becoming more and more of a problem."

Wheeler said another possible variable was better cooperation from private doctors in reporting cases to health officials, which allows them to trace contacts made by these per-

"Then we can make sure they receive medical evaluation from a clinic or private physician," he said. "The more cases we know about, the better handle we can have on the problem."

Another variable, Wheeler said, is people today are better informed about the signs and symptoms of venereal disease.

"If a person knows something about venereal disease, and what they should do, we're going to identify more cases," he said. "But there's a lot of people out there who have syphilis and don't know it, and those are the people we're after," he added.

Wheeler said health officials are trying to find those people by cutting down all possible barriers that might keep a person out of a VD clinic.

"Anybody can walk into one of the three clinics we have in the city and get treated regardless of age, free of charge, day or night," Wheeler said. "We don't have to have parental consent, and any information we get is strictly confidential." "Our business is not trying to stop people from having sex," Wheeler said. "It's to stop the transmission of

Stock market loses

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market's post-Labor Day rally stalled today, amid uncertainty about the Camp David Mideast summit talks and pending economic news. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial issues, after soaring more than 16 points in the previous two sessions, was up 2.95 to 898.74 at noon. Advances held a 2-1 lead over declines on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said investors were apparently awaiting the outcome of the Camp David talks and waiting for the money supply figures, due today, and the wholesale price index, scheduled for release Friday. Upcoming Congresssional action on the tax cut and natural gas bills was also causing uncertainty, analysts said.

Brokers also said the market was having trouble breaking through the 900-point level of the Dow, considered an important psychological barrier. The Dow has passed through 900 several times in recent weeks, including Wednesday, but has closed above 900 only once since July 26, Pan American World Airways led the active list, rising % to 9%. A 370,000-share block moved at 9½. Pan Am announced today that it had signed a $41-pershare merger agreement with National Airlines.

National rose % to 34 4.

The NYSE composite index of all its listed commoon stocks rose .25 to 59.69. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gained .53 to 171.74.

Volume on the Big Board reached 16.18 million shares in the first hour, compared to 18.99 million in the same period Wednesday. Gambling issues, which have been leading market action all week, were up.

Priddy named top industrial developer

Midland businessman-developer Charles Priddy today was named Volunteer Industrial Developer of the Year by the Texas Industrial Development Council meeting in College Station.

Priddy, 52, president of Magnatex Industries of Midland, also heads up the Midland Area Founda-

He was cited for his role in organizing and promoting the plan for building up and expanding Midland's downtown area. Priddy has been recognized as the "driving force" behind the proposed 25,000-squarefoot Exhibit Center.

Through his work in the Midland Area Foundation, Priddy was instrumental in acquiring properties and the surrounding site for the planned center and was credited with raising more than $250,000 in private contributions going toward development of the Midland voters" about the center, which required voter approval for issuance of $1.5 million in general obligation bonds. The bond issued was passed in 1976 and did not require the raising of taxes.

In addition, Priddy was recognized for his long-time involvement in the city's industrial-diversification effort. He helped establish many of the guide-lines for a community energy program providing for Priddy's award comes in the council's award category for communities exceeding 50,000 in population. Oliver Albritton of Corsicana received the award for cities under 50,000 in population.

The annual awards recognize persons who have "contributed significantly" to the industrial development and economic growth of their communities, according to a statement released by the council.

Full-time professional industrial developers are not eligible for the award. Announcement of the awards was made by Doug Henson, a Midland banker who is vice chairman of the council's 1978 awards committee.

Dollar weakness subject of talk Friday night

The weakness of the U.S. dollar internationally will be the topic of an address in Midland Friday night by Ernest T. Baughman, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas. Baughman will be speaking to a meeting of area bankers and spouses at a reception and dinner beginning at 6 p.m. at the Midland Hilton. The event is being held under the auspices of Robert Morris Associates and the National Association of Bank Loan and Credit Officers.

Baughman has agreed to answer questions from area bankers about the outlook of the economy. Jno. P. Butler, senior chairman of the board of First National Bank of Midland, will introduce Baugh-

Bush to speak Friday

George W. Bush of Midland will be guest speaker when the Midland Jaycees meet at noon Friday in the Midland Hilton.

Bush, a Republican, is seeking the 19th Congressional seat being vacated by Democrat George Mahon of Lubbock. According to Jaycees President Lynn Williams, Bush will give a short talk and then have a question-and-answer session.

Bush is facing Democrat Kent Hance of Lubbock in the race. Hance is scheduled to speak before the Jaycees sometime later this month, Williams noted.

City not repealing gas, electric utility bill tax

The city of Midland is tax after Oct. 1, 1979, and not repealing its 1 per-cent city tax on residen-must be received by the tial gas and electric bills.

The City Council, at its last regular meeting on Aug. 22, decided not to take the option of repealing the tax early, according to City Manager James Brown.

Cities have until Sunday to notify the State Comptroller's office if they want the tax to be repealed early. A law passed by the Texas Legislature during its recent special session repealed the 4 per-cent state tax on residential utility bills effective Oct. 1. The law also automatically repeals the 1 percent tax on the bills Oct. 1, 1979, unless a city government votes to continue the tax.

Cities were given the option of repealing that tax to begin Oct. 1 of this year, the same date the state sales tax is repealed. Cities which want to retain the tax past the Oct. 1, 1979, deadline must take action by May 1, 1979, according to Bob Bullock, state comptroller. Brown said the Council must adopt an ordinance to retain the must be received by the State Comptroller's Office by May 1 of next year. The city manager added he does not know at this time what the city council will do in that regard.

Brown said the city's 1 percent share of the residential utility tax amounts to about $100,-000 a year, and the council already has allowed for that amount in the 1978-79 budget. Adding in the tax on commercial utilities brings in about $210,000 a year, Brown

According to the State Comptroller's office, 39 cities intend to repeal the tax early while another 45 have said they will retain it.

Annual Midland farm, ranch tour to include earthworms, bees, cotton

The annual Midland farm-andranch tour Sept. 14 will be a "speedy and timely" review of earthworm farming, bee keeping, dairying, cot-ton farming, ranching, and pecan growing in Midland County, said Charlie Welch, chairman of the sponsoring farm-and-ranch committee of the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

Between 75 and 100 people are expected to join in the five-hour tour, which is to begin at 8 a.m. at Cubs Stadium in Hogan Park. The touring party will travel in two chartered buses, he said.

"We think that this tour is going to be speedy and timely enough to make it an interesting trip," said Welch. Stops on the tour will include:

-The Charles Fisler Apiary for a "close-up view" of a bee colony. -The Roy Graham irrigated cotton farm for a look at an experimental strain of cotton that is disease and insect resistant and which yields a high-quality fiber.

Aliens hopping freight playing 'macabre game

The Los Angeles Times

SAN DIEGO - Thunderbolts crackled across the night sky over Oceanside, illuminating the dejected faces of 14 illegal aliens climbing down from a railroad flour hopper car where they had been caught stowed

Coated a ghostly white after several hours in the hopper's powdery interior, the aliens were among 42 mostly young Mexicans caught hiding among cars of a Los Angeles-bound freight train stopped for a special check recently at the Oceanside depot.

The group, bound together in pairs with plastic handcuffs or belts, huddled disconsolately under a piggyback truck-trailer with their Santa Fe and Border Patrol police captors and waited for a letup in the rain pounding the darkened train yard.

In a few minutes, the Mexicans would be marched to waiting Border Patrol vans to join 10 other aliens swept off an earlier night freight during a spot police check in the Old Town area of San Diego.

After a search and questioning, the ragtag band would be trucked back to the Mexican side of the border at San Ysidro and released.

Unlike 27 luckier compatriots believed to have escaped the late-night dragnets, these aliens would have to wait another time to sneak back across the border and hop another

But in their desperation for work in the United States, the odds are high that they will soon ride the rails again to seek their economic miracle.

Illegal aliens increasingly are boarding northbound freights out of Santa Fe's San Diego freight yard as an easier way to reach the Los Angeles area where they believe jobs are

As many as 100 aliens are believed to be riding each night on the two 30-to-100-car freights that run northward from San Diego. Most are young and 90 percent are male, although entire families occasonally try to board.

"I think that many aliens riding the trains don't have the money or don't want to pay professional runners to get north," said George J. Watson, the Chula Vista-San Diego area.

The numbers have created problems both for the Border Patrol and

"For Santa Fe, we find sometimes there are so many aliens on a freight that we can't move the train. It's just too dangerous both for them and us," said J.J. Gomez, assistant division special agent for Santa Fe in San Diego and an expert on alien smuggling by rail. "The concept of getting hurt is completely out of their minds. They go under, around, on top and alongside trains, even in places we won't

"I see my job as helping to prevent injuries (to aliens) as well as upholding the law which they violate.'

Watson said he considers train checks by the Border Patrol "one of the most absolutely dangerous operations that we conduct.

The danger is not from violence by aliens but rather from the risks of working around darkened trains.

"I've interviewed many from their hospital beds for Santa Fe. They already are missing arms and legs. It's a touching story."

Gomez described how families will hop trains, carrying a baby up to the top of the dark steel grain hoppers and dropping it through the hatch.

hurt your knees, it's incredibly dangerous," he said.

James S. Seter, division special agent based in San Bernardino, said that Santa Fe "will never learn about most injuries. Only on those where a foot gets cut off or something do we find out," he said.

A car inspector in the San Diego yard said he worries constantly about the alien's safety.

"I try to leave them alone and they leave me alone — they really want to avoid us," he said. "But I'll grab them when they try to dive between the wheels. I never did like to see blood."

The plight of the aliens draws sympathy from both railroad and government officials.

"You never develop a hatred for the alien; you develop admiration and respect," Watson said. "It's kind of a macabre game. We catch them one time but perhaps not the next time." Gomez adds, "I have sympathy and, as a Mexican-American, you can imagine that some of these guys look at me and say, 'Hey, how can you do this to me? Let us go.' But we're doing a job and I'm a sworn peace officer of the state of California

But catching the rail-riding aliens is a frustrating task at best.

Officials are hampered both by a lack of manpower and by the ingenuity of the Mexicans

The majority of aliens gather to wait for outgoing night trains in the San Diego yard, which sprawls along the Harbor Drive industrial area under the eastside approaches to the

Coronado Bay Bridge
The area, poorly lit by only a few fluorescent lights, is patroled on each shift by a single special railroad Though ringed by a barbed wire and chain link fence, the yard is easily penetrated by aliens waiting in a group on the yard's isolated west side, he said. "Really, we're at their mercy," Gomez said, "but there is almost never any violence." An agent has never used his weapon against an alien here, Gomez agents have no way of knowing how many aliens are waiting at anyone time among the rows of unlit freight cars.

And police sweeps in the yard are impossible, both he and Watson said.

"It would take 100 men or more," Watson said, "and even then a lot of people could be hurt. There are just too many hiding places and too many locomotive moving back and forth."

A Library Town Hall Meeting set Sept. 12 will give all Midlanders an opportunity to tell librarians and government officials about their information needs and how libraries might meet those needs, according to Gerald W. Hickman, coordinator for the meeting.

Last Christmas, A. C. Ettswold's family gave him the original Norwegian Weather Rock, a seemingly ordinary stone. They put it in his frozen front yard with a pretty sign that read:

"If the rock is warm, then it's sunny; if it is wet, it's rainy; if it is moving, it's windy; if it is white, it's snowing; and if you can't see the rock, it's foggy."

Ettswold, a fun-loving Norwegian, had a lot of fun with the rock.

"I told my doctor I had a Norwegian Weather Station in my yard," recalls Ettswold, who owns the Madison Grain Elevator. "And would you believe it, he drove out the same night to see it. "He looked at that rock

Run, by all means, but not at the mouth

By WAYNE LOCKWOOD Copley News Service

From the moment he arose from the ooze and took a look around, it has been natural for a man to run. Also advisable.

Given the nature of his early contemporary creatures, man's fight or flight reflex left him little choice.

When confronted by a sabretooth tiger, it seemed only prudent to hit the road, Jack. There was no need for interval training, designer sweat suits or kangaroo-skin shoes.

You just picked 'em up and laid em down until the tiger fell into a tar pit or otherwise disappeared. It's doubtful our ancestor considered this worthy of a cave painting. Probably didn't even mention it to his mate. Life went on in such a fashion until some busybody with nothing better to do invented the wheel. Ezekiel, perhaps, or maybe Henry Ford.

It's been all downhill since. Why run, or even walk, when you can ride?

Beasts which once competed with man for survival were hitched to conveyances so that they might now contribute to his welfare.

For a time, the leg seemed in danger of becoming just another outmoded piece of human machinery, like the appendix.

To be sure, a few people still ran when no other alternative presented itself.

There was Pheidippides, the first sports reporter, who trotted 20 miles or so from the Plain of Marathon to Athens with news of a battle. 'Greeks 1, Persians 0," Pheidippides gasped, then fell

There is a school of thought hich holds this to be the high point of sports journalism. Give the score and get out of the way.

By and large, however, running gradually became a lost art, a circumstance which may have affected the course of history. Who knows how much grief Marie Antoinette and George III might have avoided if they encouraged the populace to jog. It's difficult to plot a revolution when Certainly a Boston Marathon might go a long way towards avoiding a Boston Tea Party.

But the wheels kept rolling, on carts, wagons, carriages, trains, buses, trucks and automobiles.

And man kept sitting.
Those few who didn't were looked upon as more than a little eccentric. At best, they probably played in string quartets and read philosophy. More likely, they were all Communists.

Why would a man with a perfectly good automobile want to go out and exert himself just to get sweaty? In the 1970s, however, for reasons sociologists have not yet been able to isolate, this outlook

Mankind began to run ... first in a trickle, then in a wave and finally in a flood. Like lemmings, humans surge down sidewalks, around tracks and along the Whole new industries have evolved to support the simple act around the craze. In this venture, as in most, we cannot do something simply. We must overdo it. Let us, and I say this as one as guilty as the rest, just run and enjoy it. After all, this is a very elementary maneuver. Our ancestors got along just fine without "The Complete Book of Running." Without sweat-bands and stop watches, without Nike and Adidds.

Let us recognize that we run for a basic reason, because we feel better afterwards than we did

Let us also be honest about the fact that this is basically a boring enterprise. The only thing more someone talk about it.

In this case, the length of the conversation seems to bear an inverse relationship to the length of the run

Marathon runners tend to keep pretty much to themselves. Those who jog a mile on weekends can take an entire cocktail party to tell you about it. Run, by all means. But keep it to yourself, huh?

you're panting. DR. NEIL SOLOMON Artificial tears can aid elders

Dear Dr Solomon: Why do so many older people have red rims around their eyes? My father has this problem. Is there anything that can help?—Helen Dear Helen: The most common cause of redness around the rim of the eyes among older people is the reduction in the flow of tears that occurs with age. If so, the use of artificial tears can help. But there are a number of other causes of this kind of inflammation, so it is best to have your doctor check your father.

Dear Dr. Solomon: What is it that so many older people fall and hurt themselves? My mother had a tumble the other day in her apartment-luckily no damage was done. But it did set me to worrying, as it is the third time it has happened this year.-Elizabeth D.

Dear Elizabeth: These falls happen sometimes when older people are rising from a sitting or reclining position, and there isn't enough blood circulating to the head. Hence a slight spell of faintness or dizziness. That's why older people should take their time when they are getting up from a chair or a bed.

There may also be some deterioration of the balance mechanism in the inner ear. Researchers at the University of Michigan have found that minute crystals there have sometimes dissolved in persons in their 70s or 80s. The crystals play an important role in the equilibrium mechanism.

Dr. Muriel D. Ross, who has been doing studies on this, thinks that it might be possible in the future-through special diet supplements or other means-to maintain a good chemical balance in the inner ear and avoid the crystal dissolution, and thus help preserve people's sense of balance.

It is important to make older people's living quarters as tumble-proof as possible. This can be done by arranging the furniture so that there is a good distribution of firm points to hold on to or lean on. Also, by equipping danger spots like the bathroom with firm hand grips or rails.

Dear Dr. Solomon: How significant is the risk of sterility from mumps?-Mrs. N.Y.

Dear Mrs. N.Y .: Orchitis, or inflammation of the testicles, is a common complication of mumps. About one percent of young boys with mumps experience the condition, but a substantial 20 or 30 percent of adult males with mumps suffer from orchitis. The condition is extremely painful and is often accompanied by severe swelling. Orchitis may cause permanent damage to the testicles, which infrequently leads to impaired

Dear Dr. Solomon: How does the oral polio vaccine work?-Mrs. K.I. Dear Mrs. K.I.: After it is swallowed, it is absorbed into the bloodsteam, where it-goes to work building up what doctors call "antibodies." These are what provide long-lasting protection against polio.

Record hotline calls handled

WASHINGTON - The Consumer Product Safety Commission's hotline reports that it handled a record number of calls in June.

The toll-free service received 15,000 calls during the month and officials estimated 80 percent of them dealt with faulty aluminum wiring. Normally the service receives about 6,000 calls a month.

More telephones are being installed and persons with a safety-related problem with a consumer product can call 800-638-2666. In Maryland the number is 800-494-2937.

Since the rest of our plane was full of Soviet citizens coming to work in Afghanistan, it made us wonder just who is in control now! Even the process of going through customs was modeled more after the Soviet practice than it had been when I was here last year.

But shopping hadn't changed. Shopping in the Soviet Union is all done in special state stores (beryoska) set up by the government for visitors carrying foreign currency. The merchandise looks the same from one end of the Soviet Union to the other. I even believe I could close my eyes, and know exactly where every type of item would be located.

By comparison, Kabul, Afghanistan, is a shoppers' paradise. We all went wild, eating a variety of food for the first time in weeks, and shopping street after street of exciting baubles that vied for our eyes'

Texans find Central Asia fascinating

Bamian, a small valley nestled between the Hindu Kush and the Kohi-Baba mountains, is one of the really special places in the world.

In past years, I had arranged to fly from Kabul to Bamian, but the plane service had been suspended since the April revolution. So we made the drive from Kabul in seven hours, after I obtained a military visa for the roads. That was quite an adventure in

The Buddhists migrated to Bamian from India in the 2nd century to settle in this valley, and more than 5,000 lived here in caves which they carved out of the mountain side (reminiscent of the Pueblo Indian cliff cave style at Mesa Verde, Colo.) In many of these caves, we could see the frescoes which they had painted on the walls in the Hellenistic style.

Sometime between the 4th and 6th centuries, these people carved two huge Buddhas (one is 10 stories high) into the side of Hindu Kush.

We stayed there in yurts, much like the tents we had occupied on the Gobi desert. And, from our doorways, we thrilled to the majestic views of the two Buddhas standing in silent sentry over this peaceful valley.

Next, we spent one morning scouring the mounds of ruins that once had been Balkh.

Balkh ruled all of Asia when Alexander the Great led his armies this way, and married his beloved Rox-

We visited one of the caves in which the Zoroaster religion was practiced five centuries before Christ. And we felt as though we had been transported to another time when we recalled the accounts that Marco Polo wrote of Balkh on his way to Karakorum and the court of Kublai

All too soon it was time to pack up our memories, our souvenirs and our oriental rugs and head home.

A short stopover in London was just enough time for everyone to laugh about the high spots of our trip and begin to treasure what we thought had been the lows.

Then we were Texas-bound across the Atlantic Ocean. While my airborne traveling companions were savoring their Soviet and Central Asia experiences, I was already beginning to wonder that marverlous places I should visit next

Last year sales were at the $5 million level, and Calmes predicted $8 million in sales by next year.

"I've never seen a business in such a state of growth as the music business," he said. "To me it's almost like the oil business — worldwide ... It's an infinite market."

Several years ago Showco could take a European rock tour to about 20 or 30 cities. Halls in other locations were not equipped to handle the size Showco's laser presentation is headed for Mexican and South American symphonies this fall. Called "Starship Encounters," it takes advantage of the success of science fiction films.

To speed Third World development, U.S. planning to marshal resources

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - For the first time, the United States is planning to marshal its resources of scientific and technological know-how to speed development in the Third World.

A new Foundation for International Technological Cooperation will not only help the very poor countries, but reopen possibilities of two-way scientific exchanges with more advanced countries such as Brazil.

"Middle-tier" countries — others include Mexico, Korea, and Iran are cut off from normal aid programs by their relative prosperity.

The idea of a foundation to convey technical and scientific knowledge to poorer nations is not a new one. It has been studied for the past 15 years in scientific and academic circles, as a way of providing a new dimension in aid beyond the "basic human needs" approach.

That strategy, especially since passage of the 1973 Foreign Assistance Act, stresses aid for food, health and education. It also focusses mainly on the most disadvantaged countries, and on the poorest within those coun-

Recently, however, Third World leaders have pressed for a transfer of technology that might allow less developed nations to make a quantum forward leap.

Moreover, the United Nations is planning a Conference on Science and Technology in Vienna for August, 1979, and the U.N. Conference on Trade and Development is working on a code of conduct for the transfer of

Under the guidance of Dr. Frank Press, President Carter's science and technology adviser, the FITC plan was evolved, and approved by Carter, who announced it in a little-publicized speech March 29, 1978, to the Venezuelan parliament in Caracas.

John Gilligan, Agency for International Development administrator, established a planning office under Ralph Smuckler, dean of internation-al studies at Michigan State University. Smuckler has been working quietfor the past month in the new Executive Office Building, and Thursday will reveal some of the details to a private sector advisory committee headed by David Bell, vice president of the Ford Foundation.

Budget plans for FITC will be presented by Smuckler to the Office of Management and Budget by mid-Oc-tober. Initial funding would be about $50 million, but that figure could grow substantially in a few years. Ultimately, the complete plan will be pre-sented to House and Senate committees as an important adjunct to existing aid plans.

SMITH'S PARISH, Bermuda - Ever since the 1840s, when loquat trees were introduced to Bermuda from California, the women of these islands have been concocting a home brew loquats steeped in a mixture of gin and rock sugar. It's the traditional after-tea drink in Bermuda - the national drink of Britain's oldest dependency.

Several years ago Yeaton D. Outerbridge, who manufactures sherry peppers, liquid mustard and a hot condiment called Bloody Mary Fix, had an idea.

"Why not bottle loquat liqueur commercially, I thought to myself one day," said Outerbridge. He is a descendant of Thomas Outerbridge, who migrated from Yorkshire in 1619.

That was the beginning of Bermuda Gold, the loquat liqueur being distributed this year for the first time in the United States, Canada and the United Kingdom as well as the Bermuda Islands.

Outerbridge and his friend, John Profit, studied the idea for three vears.

"We sampled all the various homebrews in Bermuda, seeking to come up with the best formula," explained Ou-terbridge. "We ran sample tests with members of our families.

"Then we pooled our resources. Seven of us each kicked in $15,000 and we came up with another $43,000 from 43 other islanders each investing $1,000 for our initial capitalization.

"Seven years ago we put the first batch on the market, calling it Ber-muda Gold. We called our company Somers Distillers Ltd." The firm's name comes from Adm. Sir George Somers who in 1609 sailed from Plymouth, carrying colonists to Jamestown, aboard the Sea Venture.

The Sea Venture sprang a leak and ran aground at Bermuda. So, instead of Virginia, the colonists settled on the fish-hook shaped chain of islands in the Atlantic 774 miles southeast of New York City. Embossed on each bottle of Bermuda Gold liqueur is a replica of the Sea Venture and Bermuda's motto, "Quo Ferunt Fata" — Whither the Fates Lead Us. Initially, Outerbridge distilled Bermuda Gold in the basement of his 300-yearold home.

Speed trap caught in feud over nepotism, impeachment

SOLDIER SUMMIT, Utah (AP) -This town of 23 persons — known to the outside world mainly as a speed trap — is caught up in a genuine political feud, with allegations of nepotism, misused revenues and city council meetings held on the sly at Al's Cafe. Police Chief Roger Anderson - who blames the news media for his troubles - has been convicted of assaulting a tavern owner, and has been charged, together with former Jus-tice of the Peace Thomas Brackenberry, with witness tampering during the assault trial.

Councilwoman Verna Belcher, who has prepared an 11-point "Request for Impeachment" against the other four council members, claims money from speeding tickets cannot be accounted

She also accuses the council of violating Utah's open meetings law by meeting in secret at Al's Cafe. She said the only way she knows of a meeting is "when I see them congregate over at the cafe."

Soldier Summit, on U.S. 6 about 90 miles southeast of Salt Lake City, has long had a reputation as a speed trap. Six of the town's 23 residents are on the police force. Mrs. Belcher said she plans to file the impeachment request with the council "as soon as I can find out when and where they're meeting."

Mayor George Schade responds that Mrs. Belcher knows the council

meets in the cafe on the second

Wednesday of every month. Councilwoman Wauneta Schade, the mayor's wife, said that meeting notices are posted two weeks in adtin board. Reminded that no such notice is up for next week's meeting, she replied: "It must have slipped

Mrs. Schade also said that Mrs. Beicher has never asked for an accounting of the speeding fines.

Mrs. Belcher said the money is being spent without the full council's consent; that the police force and the mayor's daughter — Councilwoman Ruth Rhinehart — are overpaid for part-time work; and that the town's sole patrol car is used for personal ness by policemen and as a school bus for the mayor's grandchildren.

The mayor and his wife deny all

The fifth council member, Carol Brackenberry, wife of the former justice of the peace, sides with the mayor's faction.

Meanwhile, Anderson, who has taken a leave of absence, says, "they'll convict me of the felony and fine me good on the assault convic-tion. I'll probably go to jail. They (newsmen) were out to get me and they got me. I was tried and convicted

Anderson claims the feud began because Larry Freeman, who operates the town's only service station, wanted to be police chief. Freeman's wife, Eileen, told reporters that was "a lie and I don't care if you quote me

The town's speed limit was recently raised by the state to 55 mph from the 40 mph limit posted a year ago. Anderson's department has enforced the new law far more rigidly than it would be in most parts of the state.

K.O. Gunfighters stage weekend shootouts in frontier fashion

By PHIL GARLINGTON The Los Angeles Times

JULIAN, Calif. — The sheriff and his two deputies are hurling the oblig-atory epithets at the quartet of badmen before the real business, the gunfight, gets under way.

"In my opinion," says the sheriff, "y'all are low-livin', foul-breathed, not-nice people.

In reply, one of the outlaws hints that the sheriff resembles the hindquarters of a buffalo.

"Fill yer hand, poltroon," says the sheriff. And the K.O. Corral in this usually sedate mountain town erupts with a barrage of gunfire.

Although the K.O. Corral Gunfighters load their .357s with blanks, the weekend shootout still makes a hellish noise, and the blaze of pistols and shotguns invariably is loud enough to start at least three infants in the audience wailing.

keeprs, the Gunfighters enjoy don-ning Western togs on the weekend to present a show to the tourists who jam the K.O. shopping mall.

"We also appear at rodeos, fairs and various benefits," said Chuck Murray, owner of the Julian gunshop, who in the Gunfighters' skit plays the crusty, bullfrog-voiced sheriff.

The basic premise of the skit is that four low-life galoots led by Doc Holliday (Harry Schwenk) are terrorizing the people of Julian and finally rob the K.O. Corral's Yarn Shoppe, only to be thwarted during the getaway by the arrival of the three lawmen mounted on a broomstick horse.

Several ungallant remarks from Ace (Mike Gilliland of Ramona) occasion a preliminary fistfight between him and Deputy Dog (Brad Blanchard).

After throwing Ace over a hitching rail, Deputy Dog whips out his side-

"Any more mouth out of you and I'll shoot your toe off," announces the deputy, much to the amusement of the crowd, since clearly the deputy's revolver is not aimed at the outlaw's

But before the acrid smell of burnt gunpowder can fill the corral, all the nice points of Julian justice must be satisfied, according to the sheriff. The outlaws, for instance, must receive a fair trial.

The sheriff orders the audience to "Raise yer right hand and repeat after me," 'On my honor I will do my best to help myself and cheat the rest.' Now yer all sworn members of the jury. How do you find these si-dewinders? Guilty? Say yes."

All the forms of Julian legality met, the sheriff sentences Doc and the boys to be hanged "for contempt of tour-

And that, of course, is when the trouble starts. The sudden ear-splitting bang of the sheriff's double-barreled 12-gauge is guaranteed to startle the unwary as pieces of flaming wadding from the homemade blanks are scattered around the yard.

After a minute or so, all but the sheriff and the outlaw Snake are sprawled lifeless in the dust. Snake has taken refuge on the roof of a nearby building, but discovers to his chagrin that he is out of bullets. He suggests that he and the sheriff settle their differences and retire to a saloon for a couple of beers. The lawman leaves that decision to the mob. "What should I do with him?" he asks the audience.

"SHOOT HIM," the tourists scream, and another shotgun blast brings Snake rolling off the roof and into a pile of leaves.

A round of applause revives the actors, and Snake, played by Julian silversmith Mike Hurt, puts an enigmatic finishing touch on this class act by standing in a toilet bowl with a live gopher snake in his mouth.

'The snake's name is Slim," Hurt said, "and he's been a pretty good sport about this so far.' The Gunfighters, Murray said, will be performing on weekends in Julian's K.O. Corral, provided the weather does not get too hot.

"All of the bad guys have to dress in black," Murray explained, "and on a real hot day, what with running around and wrestling on the ground, it can get pretty miserable."

'And the main thing about the show is that it has to be fun for everybody.

When you buy a used car, what else do you get besides the car?

In a good restaurant, when you buy a dinner, you get more than just food. You get service, a pleasant atmosphere, and a feeling that the owners would like you to come back.

It's the very same way that we like to sell used cars. Since our reputation is more "on the line" when we sell a used car, you can be sure we'll do everything we can to make our used car customer a satisfied customer.
