Foundation is key

A key part of Midland's extraordinary growth during the past 10 years has been the Industrial Foundation of Midland and its well-planned industrial park. Staff Writer Linda Hill and photographer Mike Kardos examine this element of the "Midland Story" in Sunday's Reporter-Telegram.

Midland
...on the move

What's the hold-up?

Although construction of an Exhibit Center in Midland was approved by voters in December 1976, no visible sign of it has been seen. For Sunday, staff writer Lana Cunningham interviews an architect and others about the delays and changes.

Rebels holding; Reserves called

By TOM FENTON

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Nicaraguan commandos backed by tank-like vehicles and machine gun firing helicopters pressed their assault today on the city of Leon. But the rebels there and in two other northern cities appeared to be holding on as Managua braced for a possible attack to coincide with the country's independence day.

Leon, Nicaragua's second largest city with a population of 100,000, has been occupied since Saturday by Sandinista guerrillas seeking the overthrow of President Anastasio Somoza. The leftist guerrillas and ordinary citizens supporting them also hold two other major cities in northwest Nicaragua, Esteli and Chinandega.

The rebels have lost control of the southern city of Masaya and reportedly were repulsed in an attack on Penas Blancas on the Costa Rican border. However, they were still entrenched in Diriamba, 20 miles south of Managua, Jinotepe, five miles south of Diriamba, and Rivas, 55 miles further south.

Somoza has mobilized reserves of the national guard, the nation's army, to counter the rebel attacks, declared martial law and placed Managua under 8 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew. The Red Cross estimates 500 persons have been killed in the week's fighting nationwide, but Somoza admits to only 30 guardsmen slain.

Some 38 truckloads of troops rolled into Leon Thursday and surrounded the town. National guardsmen and the guerrillas were shooting at virtually anything that moved.

A small plane flew over the city late in the afternoon warning by loudspeaker that "the national guard is not responsible for what happens if you leave your houses."

Helicopters flew over the city pounding rebel positions with machine gun fire. The streets were barricaded and the fire was being returned.

Two armored vehicles, which carry the same weapons as a tank but have tires instead of treads, were parked in front of the national guard garrison. Guardsmen had been pinned down there for days exchanging shots with the rebels.

Journalists returning from Leon said a Red Cross ambulance was machine-gunned on the highway outside of town and that two Red Cross workers were killed. The Red Cross in Managua confirmed an ambulance was machine-gunned, but said further details were not available.

National guardsmen on the outskirts of town said they knew the rebels had at least one 50-caliber machine gun.

The soldiers said 500 troops had been rushed to Leon, many coming from Masaya, where the rebel uprising was crushed Tuesday and Red Cross workers were burning decom-

Summit winding down; 'Success' still elusive

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — The Middle East summit has produced fresh Egyptian-Israeli contacts but is approaching a deadline at sundown today that could keep it in limbo until next week.

Pursuing his middleman role, President Carter met twice Thursday with Egypt's Anwar Sadat, who later conferred with Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan.

The summit press office announced belatedly that Ezer Weizman, the Israeli defense minister, also met with Sadat on Wednesday night.

Although Carter has not brought Israel's Menachem Begin and Sadat together at the conference table since Sept. 7, it was apparent that all three delegations were involved in a busy round of meetings.

But spokesman Jody Powell said "more progress and more flexibility are essential" if the parley is to succeed.

Powell, the White House press secretary, said Thursday that Carter's strenuous effort to win Israeli-Egyptian agreement on a "framework for reaching peace" in the Mideast has yet to succeed.

However, Powell seemed to drop a hint that participants remained hopeful of fashioning a comprehensive blueprint for continuing negotiations after Camp David.

Acknowledging that a proposed summit-ending document was being considered, he said, "It is certainly more than three or four paragraphs, I can tell you that."

There were conflicting reports in the Middle East as to how long the summit would last.

The Cairo newspaper Al Akhbar, rating the chances of reaching an agreement as "virtually nil," said President Sadat probably would leave the conference for Washington today.

Al Akhbar's editor in chief, Musa Sabry, wrote from Camp David, "The conference now is going through its last hopeless moment." He said Carter is undertaking "his last efforts to save the conference, but these efforts seem hopeless."

Meanwhile, Israel's Foreign Ministry said the summit is "likely to last over the weekend."

In Detroit, former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said Thursday he was optimistic about the talks and "I expect them to succeed."

Women Jaycees? 'Not right now'

By GUY SULLIVAN
R-T Staff Writer

Should women be allowed in the Midland Jaycees?

That's an increasingly tough bone of contention according to the presidents of both the Midland Jaycees and the Jaycee-ettes, a wives auxiliary group which is also open to single girls.

During the National Jaycees convention held earlier this year, a majority of members voted to exclude women from their fraternal ranks.

"Despite the vote, some 'pilot' project clubs were allowed to let females into their ranks in Washington, D.C., Alaska, Minnesota and Massachusetts chapters.

However, the Texas Jaycees delegation voted against the idea of allowing women into Jaycees clubs during this year's national convention, according to Lynn Williams, president of the Midland Jaycees.

Williams said, "I think it's possible that women will become members of the Midland Jaycees. However, I don't think it will happen right now."

But Mrs. Ray Peacock, president of the Midland Jaycee-ettes, said, "I think with the passage of time women will be banging on the door of the Midland Jaycees."

"I personally would like to see women join. I think it's useless to omit anyone who wants to belong to an organization."

She said she disagrees with banning people from joining a group on the basis of sex.

"I happen to think that women have a lot to contribute. Women can become good leaders," Mrs. Peacock said.

She cited Judge Barbara Culver and Assistant District Attorney Timothy Ann Sloan as two of the area's best women leaders.

But Barry Kennedy, national president of the Jaycees, recently was quoted as saying that, while members don't have anything against women, they want to retain the concept of a men's club restricted to those ages 18 to 35.

In fact, more than 100 chapters in the country have women members.

But since the national membership defeated a proposal to admit women into the organization last June, Kennedy has warned, "All chapters now admitting women as regular members have until Dec. 1 to come into compliance with the policy and bylaws of the United States Jaycees."

"To the best of my knowledge no woman has ever asked to belong to the Midland Jaycees," said Mrs. Peacock.

"However, I think the Midland Jaycees chapter will let women join eventually because it's a pretty progressive club. Their leaders han-

Museum garners award

ABILENE — The Permian Basin Petroleum Museum Library and Hall of Fame at Midland has been announced as one of four recipients of the coveted West Texas Chamber of Commerce Cultural Achievement Awards.

Lou Cooley of Borger, chairman of the WTCC Cultural Affairs Committee, said presentation of the awards will take place during WTCC's mid-year meeting, scheduled Oct. 12-13 at El Paso.

Ms. Cooley said the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum was selected for the award in the category of Historical Preservation and Development. The institution combined fine paintings with documents and objects to describe the historical heritage of the Permian Basin. The museum has collected the world's largest assemblage of antique drilling equipment.

John Ben Shepperd of Odessa, another award winner, was selected for his support and as a patron of the arts. Shepperd was the organizer and

Bees, honey, worms, grapes, cows, milk; they don't add up to peanuts

Agriculture in Midland County is more than cotton and cattle.

It's bees and honey, worms for fishing and food (maybe), a vineyard and table wine, cows and milk production, orchards and shelled pecans, sheep, wool, hogs, alfalfa, wheat, maize and hay.

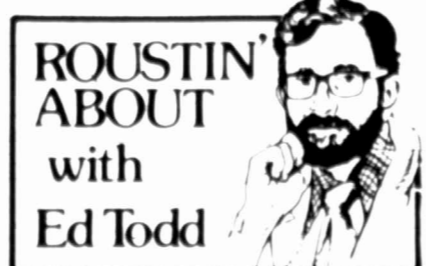

And it's not exactly peanuts either unless you pit the $13 million agricultural income against Midland's upmeen million dollar petroleum industry.

Still, it ain't hay. It's like Ron Brice observed, the oil-and-gas economic impact simply "overshadows" the agricultural industry.

Ag activities in Midland are beginning to shine more and more and would really have the sun to their back if the rains had been timed right to help the scrawny cotton crop. The drought is "doing in" the boll crop.

Otherwise, diversified agriculture is showing promise here.

And Brice, engineer-salesman who's mostly bound to the office and desk, was among 147 Midlanders who

with

got a glimpse into agriculture here Thursday.

For some, like Charlie Green, the county's agricultural agent, it was the familiar.

But to many, the farm-and-ranch tour of Midland County was an experience into a new world that's been read about more than seen. It's one thing to read about it, it's earthy and downright interesting to see.

The three-bus tour was compliments of the Midland Chamber of Commerce's farm and ranch committee, county extension service headed by Green, and the county's soil and water conservation district, headed up by Dick Hagelstein, district conservationist.

After the 100-mile tour was winding down and most everybody had had his fill of bees, worms, cotton, cows, grapes, alfalfa, pecans, rangeland, bush and mesquite, Hoot Leonard and the Midland Farmers Cooperative made sure everybody had filling portions of barbecue, potatoes, and beans and the trimmings at Scharbauer No. 1 Ranch headquarters just southwest of Midland.

Green did the traveling commentary on bus No. 1, Charlie Welch, chairman of the chamber's farm and ranch committee, did the same on bus No. 2, and Fort Stockton's George Sultemeier, a range specialist from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service (TAEX), gave the facts and ramblings on bus No. 3.

One by one, here's an accounting of the stops.

—No. 1, Honey Bees: "Honey bees play a major role for mankind," TAEX entomologist Charles Neeb of House digs into Oswald's ties

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Assassinations Committee is investigating whether the late George de Mohrenschildt knew in advance that Lee Harvey Oswald would try to shoot retired Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker.

The committee displayed a photograph Thursday of Oswald with a rifle and pistol and writing on the back indicating he sent it to De Mohrenschildt five days before he tried to shoot Walker on April 10, 1963.

De Mohrenschildt, a Russian-American who befriended the Oswalds in Dallas, committed suicide in Palm Beach, Fla., last year after a House committee investigator tried to interview him.

Oswald's widow, Marina Oswald Porter, testified she heard De Mohrenschildt "make a joking remark about 'You missed him, Lee.'"

She said she could not tell whether De Mohrenschildt really knew that Oswald had tried to shoot Walker or was only joking.

She said Oswald, who boasted to her that he had tried to kill Walker, looked at her as though he thought she might have told De Mohrenschildt about the attempt.

There was no indication from her testimony when or where De Mohrenschildt made the remark.

Walker told authorities at the time of the shooting he was seated at his desk when a gunshot shattered a window. Walker was not hit.

A handwriting expert testified Thursday that Oswald wrote on the back of the photograph "to my friend George, Lee Oswald. 5-IV-63." The figures represent April 5, 1963.

Another notation on the back of the picture, "Copyright G. de M.," was apparently in connection with a book De Mohrenschildt was writing about Oswald before he died.

The handwriting expert, Joseph P. McNally, said Oswald did not write a phrase in Russian at the top of the photograph reading, "Hunter of fascists. Ha. Ha. Ha."

McNally said that appears to have been written by someone not familiar with Russian tracing over someone else's handwriting.

Rep. Floyd J. Fithian, D-Ind., said it is clear from his study of Russian that the phrase might in fact have been written by two people.

Fithian said he thinks "hunter" was written by one person and someone else might have added the other words later.

"If other words were added to 'hunter' we might take away an entirely different historical interpretation," Fithian said.

Mrs. Porter told the committee Oswald had told her he shot at Walker because he considered him a fascist.

Carter, Sadat get approval, but not Begin

NEW YORK (AP) — A majority of Americans surveyed about the Middle East peace talks will fail and that war will break out there within the next year or so, the Roper Poll reported Thursday.

Although those polled disapproved of Begin's handling of his responsibilities, they said they feel that Israel has been properly cautious in the negotiations.

The latest "Roper Reports" interviewed a national cross-section of 2,001 adults in their homes between Aug. 19 and 16, after the Camp David meeting had been scheduled but before it began.

Asked about prospects for a peace settlement, 60 percent said they were fairly or extremely unlikely, while 26 percent said they were fairly or extremely likely.

Among those polled, 45 percent held it fairly or extremely likely that war would break out between Israel and the Arabs "during the next year or so." Thirty-seven percent found such a prospect fairly or extremely unlikely.

Carter drew the approval of 44 percent of Americans, while 33 percent disapproved of his Camp David efforts.

Sadat's handling of his responsibilities won acclaim from 43 percent, while 25 percent disapproved.

Nicaraguan guerrillas flee to Panama safety

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — Fifteen members of the guerrilla group fighting to overthrow the Nicaraguan government arrived Thursday from Costa Rica, to which they fled after a skirmish with troops at a border post.

They were greeted by Panama's chief of immigration and two members of a group called the Panamanian Committee of Solidarity with Nicaragua.

The guerrillas, members of the Sandinista National Liberation Front, flew here from Costa Rica, where they said they were detained briefly after crossing Nicaragua's southern border into Costa Rica.

Guerrilla spokesman Plutarco Elias Hernandez said they left Costa Rica to avoid involving that country in an international incident with Nicaragua.

Hernandez said he and his men would return to Nicaragua as soon as possible to rejoin the fight against President Anastasio Somoza's government.

Hernandez told a news conference that Eden Pastora, the guerrilla leader known as Commander Zero who led the Aug. 22 raid and then flew here after Somoza bowed to his demands, has returned to Nicaragua and is fighting there.

The guerrillas who arrived Thursday apparently were part of a group that attacked a national guard outpost near Nicaragua's border with Costa Rica on Wednesday. They fled across the border when rebel reinforcements failed to arrive.

Negative withholding proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A "negative withholding" proposal that would add money to — rather than take taxes from — the paychecks of qualifying workers is part of a Senate Finance Committee tax cut plan for low- and middle-income Americans.

Negative withholding would apply only to workers from families earning less than $12,000 a year. But the committee indicates it will vote a tax cut large enough to ensure that, even with inflation and higher Social Security taxes, most people pay no more federal tax next year than they do in 1978.

The committee approved the first part of its tax cut package Thursday but delayed until early next week a vote on how to tailor cuts in tax rates to focus relief on those with yearly incomes below $50,000.

The committee is certain to vote to cut taxes more than the House did in approving a $16.3 billion tax reduction last month.

Environment key to obesity

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Fat people can't blame their problem entirely on their ancestors anymore, according to medical researchers. They say environment is more of a factor than heredity in obesity.

"People want to hear that it's all genetic so they can go out and eat their cake," Alfred A. Rimm said. "The study shows that you can't use your heredity as an excuse."

Rimm, a professor of preventive medicine at the Medical College of Wisconsin, referred to an extensive three-year study that he undertook with assistant professor Arthur J. Hartz and mathematician Eldred E. Giefer.

They said the discovery that environment — including the diet of people when they are young — plays the major role in determining obesity runs counter to the idea that weight is governed by genes.

"There is a genetic component," Rimm said, "but in most cases, it is minor compared to the environmental factor."

Parental guidance in selecting foods accounted for about 32 percent of the variations in the obesity of children in thousands of families monitored by the researchers, they said, while only 12 percent appeared to have been influenced by heredity.

"These results suggest there should be a modification of child-rearing techniques of obese women," Hartz said. "This involves guiding children in the choice of food, feeding in infancy, the introduction of solid foods or breast feeding, the kinds of snack foods, and encouraging activity in children."

The conclusions are drawn from a study that the researchers say was probably the biggest of its kind ever undertaken.

waukee-based weight-reducing organization, TOPS Club Inc. (Take Off Pounds Sensibly). The researchers said they concentrated on families having at least two children each, ages 4 to 11. Data included the parents' height, weight, number of children and obesity history.

All women studied were white, "but I believe the results would be similar if we had studied just blacks, Chicanos or Chinese — in this country," Rimm said.

It involved collecting statistics on 254 families with 546 adopted or otherwise non-related children, and comparing them with 10,337 having 25,554 biologically related children.

The subjects were drawn from a list of 73,532 women who, in 1969-70, had enrolled in a Mil-

A group of Wichita policemen gather in the City Hall parking lot late Thursday night to sign a strike petition. One hundred of the city's 391 officers joined a strike by

Firefighters' strike moves to police

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A strike by Wichita firefighters has spread to the city's police department where 40 patrolmen have been fired for refusing to work.

More than a quarter of the city's 391-man police force signed a strike petition Thursday supporting the walkout by the Wichita firefighters.

By early today, 37 police officers had turned in their badges and were fired by Police Chief Richard LaMunyon, who said others would be fired if they failed to rejoin the strike.

The policemen planned to gather at City Hall today when the next shift of officers reports and attempt to convince them to join their action.

"We have ample police officers on the street and ample police protection for the city" of 265,000 population, LaMunyon said.

If necessary, he added, the department could call on other law enforcement agencies such as the state highway patrol for assistance.

The department implemented an emergency call-back of supervisory personnel, who have been split into 12-hour shifts. LaMunyon said three times the normal number of officers would be patrolling the city's streets and that he did not foresee the need for National Guard assistance for police functions.

The guardsmen, activated by Gov. Robert F. Bennett when 250 firefighters walked off their jobs and were fired, were assigned to protect seven fire stations closed during the strike.

Since the firefighters went on strike Monday night in a contract dispute, they have attempted to sway police to join in their action.

LaMunyon blamed "outside organizers" in the firefighters' strike for influencing his men to strike, but said the police action was not a surprise. Both the police and firemen are unhappy with the city's contract offer for 1979 that calls for a pay raise of 6 percent and $40 a month.

The city's offer would represent a 10.8 percent increase for the lowest-paid policeman or fireman making $9,887. The firemen were seeking an 8 percent increase, the policemen 9 percent, in addition to the $40 a month.

Both groups staged a similar job action in early August when a group of police officers called in sick and most of the 315 union-represented firemen walked out for 20 hours.

Kansas law prohibits public employees from engaging in a strike.

In Manchester, N.H., negotiations continued between city officials and firefighters while the school board voted to keep schools open today despite promises that teachers would not cross picket lines.

The firefighters strike, already disrupting services in New Hampshire's largest city, threatened to spread to increasing numbers of public workers and involve the city's 900 teachers.

Ronald Philibert, International Association of Firefighters Local 856 president, refused to comment on the negotiations that began Thursday and went past midnight.

Vowing to "pull all stops," the firefighters said Thursday they would picket Manchester's 28 public schools today. The teachers union said immediately that most of the teachers probably would honor the pickets.

Picket lines set up around the city by the 200 firefighters have kept off the job about 500 other municipal workers, American Federation of State County and Municipal Employees Local 298 members, crippling the highway and parks and recreation departments, and garbage collections. Manchester's fire stations have been manned for the past week by National Guardsmen, but Gov. Meldrim Thomson said he would begin withdrawing guardsmen Saturday because of a court order that firemen return to work.

Pope visits with cousin

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul I met Thursday with his American cousin, Silvio Luciani, who had come to Rome for the pontiff's installation.

The 79-year-old Luciani, a retired bricklayer from Marysville, Mich., was received in an audience along with other relatives before their return home.

Luciani, first cousin of the pope, emigrated to the United States more than 50 years ago.

Court gets evidence on letter from 'Costa Rica gentleman'

NEW YORK (AP) — Evidence submitted in federal court Thursday indicated that, around the time President Carter assumed office, attempts were made to contact two of his closest advisers about helping "a Costa Rican gentleman." A court witness said she believed the man was fugitive Robert Vesco.

Columnist Jack Anderson reported earlier this week that Vesco directed "a high pressure lobbying campaign" at the pair — Hamilton Jordan and Charles Kirbo — in an attempt to end his legal problems.

Jordan called Anderson's story "an incredible fabrication and despicable lie." Kirbo called it "an absolute lie by an irresponsible reporter."

Both denied having made any effort to intercede on Vesco's behalf, and said they had not even been asked to do so.

Vesco fled to Costa Rica in 1973 to avoid trial on five indictments charging he stole millions of dollars from a publicly held corporation. He was also accused of offering a $200,000 contribution to the 1972 campaign of former President Richard M. Nixon in order to win favorable treatment from the administration.

The U.S. attorney's office has been unsuccessful despite years of efforts to extradite Vesco. A few months ago, Vesco left Costa Rica and is believed to be living in the Bahamas.

A pair of letters submitted during a Securities and Exchange Commission action in U.S. District Court showed that letters were written to Kirbo and Jordan, although there was no evidence that they either received the letters or intervened on anyone's behalf.

The documents were produced by SEC lawyer Gregory Glynn, who was seeking to have U.S. District Judge Charles E. Stewart cite Vesco for contempt for violating a 1973 order forbidding Vesco and others from dealing in certain stock issues including the PRL issue mentioned in the letter to Jordan.

The letters were submitted as Gerolyn Hobbs of Albany, Ga., former secretary for businessman R.L. Herring, testified that she received frequent "personal" calls during 1977 and this year about an unidentified man in Costa Rica she believed was Vesco.

Both documents included the typed name of a Herring associate, Spencer Lee IV.

The letter to Kirbo, dated Jan. 14, 1977, read: "Dear Charlie. Enclosed is a copy of how the Costa Rican gentleman wishes to have his matter resolved. I had a long talk with him and I feel that the plan we discussed will be successful and also fruitful..."

Briscoe said part of concerted effort to kill Raza Unida Party

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe wasn't just acting out of pique when he persuaded President Carter to block a million-dollar grant for Zavala County, two Raza Unida Party officials said Thursday.

They said Briscoe's successful run at the Zavala County Economic Development Corp. grant was just one part of a "concerted effort" by Democrats and Republicans to kill the Raza Unida Party in Texas. Zavala County and the economic development organization are dominated by Raza Unida.

Party treasurer Paul Velez of Austin and state executive committeeman Robert Maggiani, also of Austin, said at a news conference the major parties are using the courts and the Legislature in their alleged effort to wipe out Raza Unida.

"We feel there is a planned, concentrated effort to destroy the Raza Unida Party and its power base among the Mexican-American community," said Robert Maggiani of Austin, a member of the state executive committee.

Velez said in some counties Raza Unida candidates are arrested, then the charges are dropped after election day.

He also said the Legislature stacked the deck in 1973 by raising the percentage of votes a party must get in order to have a primary from 2 percent to 20 percent.

"This was a direct effort to stultify our efforts, and it did. We appealed to the Justice Department and it took resources we couldn't afford," Velez told a news conference.

Maggiani said that at one time there were 30 lawsuits against Raza Unida activists in Zavala County, where the party controls local government in Crystal City but not the district court.

He said the attorney general kept a three-man staff in Crystal City full time for more than a year in an attempt to find evidence of wrongdoing. He said three persons were indicted but all were acquitted or the charges against them were dropped.

Briscoe's action against the U.S. Community Development Administration grant to the Zavala County organization was another example, he said. Briscoe portrayed the grant's purpose as creation of a "Little Cuba" in South Texas. It was intended to purchase land for cultivation and start an import-export business to provide employment.

Martha Nause has big birdie day.

Nause fires 68 to lead women

ALAMO, Calif. (AP) — Martha Nause, an all-round athlete who was beginning to have second thoughts about her choice of golf as a profession, posted eight birdies Thursday and finished with a 5-under-par 68 to become the opening round leader in the $100,000 women's tour event here.

"It's the best start I've ever had in a tournament," she said, making a definite understatement about her rookie season which hasn't included many strong finishes, either.

"It's only the second time in my life I've broken par," she added.

Nause went into the tournament at the Round Hill Country Club course ranked 101st on the Ladies Professional Golf Association money-winning list, with her best finish a tie for 28th in last week's tournament in Denver.

Her birdie total on the 6,324-yard, par-73 course was one off the LPGA all-time record shared by several players. The 24-year-old from Sheboygan, Wis., was steady on the tees and fairways and made three birdie putts of 10 feet or longer.

She took a two-stroke lead over the field, which includes most of the tour's leading money-winners. The tournament's defending champion, Jane Blalock, was at 70 with four other established tour players — Sharon Miller, Cathy McMullen, Vivian Brownlee and Sally Little.

Also under par were Susan O'Connor, who had a 71, and Donna Young and Betty Burfeindt at 72.

Kathy Whitworth, the winner at Denver, was in a group at 73. The year's runaway money leader, Nancy Lopez, and U.S. Open champion Hollis Stacy were tied with several others at 75.

Medrado knocks off 3rd-seeded Newberry

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Taking early notice that her opponent was limping, Pat Medrado amended her strategy to play short balls and it paid off with "the biggest win of my career," a 2-6, 6-1, 6-4 decision over Janet Newberry in the second round of the Women in Tennis International here Thursday.

The third-seeded Newberry had been off the tour for a month prior to the $35,000 event because of ankle trouble and her long match with Jeanne Evert Wednesday made her vulnerable from the early stages of her match against Medrado.

"I think the turning point may have been the second game of the second set," Medrado said. "It was a very long game in which I had five or six advantage points before I finally broke her serve. After that, it seemed like she was pretty tired. She didn't quit but she couldn't move as well."

Medrado built the lead up to 4-0, traded service breaks with Newberry, then closed out on her serve in the seventh game. There was only one service break on either side in the final set, Medrado winning four consecutive points on Newberry's serve in the first game.

With Newberry's departure, the highest ranked player left in the draw was fifth seed Yvonne Vermaak of South Africa.

Vermaak defeated former Wimbledon champion Karen Susman by 7-5, 2-6, 6-3, in a match lasting nearly two hours on the sweltering McFarlin Tennis Center courts.

Laura DuPont, at No. 6, is the only other seed to make it to the quarterfinals. She beat Francoise Durr 2-6, 6-3, 7-6P(7-1), and faces Southern California senior Barbara Hallquist Friday.

knave and lead Pittsburgh over St. Louis.

Garner's grand slam, the first of his major league career, came in the sixth inning when the Pirates broke a scoreless tie with five runs off losing pitcher Bob Forsch, 11-17. Rooker improved his record to 9-10.

Nets 7, Expos 6

Ed Kranepool's three-run pinch homer in the sixth enabled New York to come back from a six-run deficit and defeat Montreal.

Kranepool's homer off loser Randy Miller, 9-1, was his third of the season, all as a pinch-hitter. It was also the second time he had beaten Montreal with a pinch homer this year.

and he is 25. You've got a 36-year-old fighter in condition and you've got a 25-year-old fighter in condition. Who would you take?"

The answer will come in, oh, the 14th round Friday night. More than anything else, Ali is motivated by self-made drama. It is important to him to be the first man ever to win the championship three times. When that superficial goal is added to the immense courage he has shown time and again, it will be enough to get him through a difficult 14th round and into the 15th, where he will win it strongly.

Berry urges change in pro football rules

Raymond Berry wouldn't pay money to watch a second-string or third-string quarterback, and he doesn't think fans should either.

"They can change the rules, but the way to put more offense in the game is to protect quarterbacks," says Berry, a Hall of Fame receiver now a New England Patriots assistant coach.

"Quarterbacks are valuable to owners. They put points on the board.

But they are completely unprotected. You see quarterbacks with their arms in slings and their knees in casts. If I was a fan and saw those guys on the sidelines, I'd demand my money back."

IF THAT happened, the Patriots would be flooded with refund demands Monday night when they play the Baltimore Colts on national television. Bert Jones will be on the sidelines with a shoulder separation.

Penn State, Missouri to find out the facts

By TOM CANAVAN AP Sports Writer P Joe Paterno, Lou Holtz and Warren Powers are going on fact-finding expeditions Saturday. Paterno will be trying to discover if his Penn State offense is really as bad as it has looked the past two weeks; Holtz will be finding out if he'll be needing sleeping pills this season at Arkansas, while Powers will be trying to learn if Missouri's win over Notre Dame last week was a fluke.

IN OTHER action Saturday, No. 3 Oklahoma hosts West Virginia; it is Illinois at No. 4 Michigan; No. 7 Texas at Rice; No. 8 Southern California at Oregon and No. 9 UCLA at Tennessee. In games involving other ranked teams, it is Hawaii at No. 12 Nebraska; Indiana at No. 13 LSU; No. 14 Pittsburgh at Tulane; Oklahoma State at No. 16 Florida State; South Carolina at No. 17 Kentucky; Kansas at No. 18 Washington; San Diego State at No. 19 Iowa State and No. 20 Maryland at Louisville.

"You lay there wondering what if they do this or what if they do that. It's like chasing ghosts." ARKANSAS didn't chase too many spirits last season as it posted an 11-1 record, including a 31-6 victory over Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl. Meanwhile, Vanderbilt finished in the cellar in the Southeastern Conference last year. So Holtz may not lose much sleep after all, unless he remembers Vanderbilt dropped its season opener last year 25-23 to Oklahoma, which was ranked No. 1 Powers and the No. 11 ranked Missouri Tigers are one down and counting.

Wade wins over Duvall in Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Top-seeded Virginia Wade of Great Britain brushed off a challenge from 19-year-old Jeanne Duvall of the United States 7-5, 4-6, 6-1 today in the quarter-finals of the $100,000 Toray Sillook women's tennis tournament. Wade, 1977 Wimbledon champion, is seeking her second consecutive tournament title at Tokyo's Yoyogi indoor venue.

Prospects brighten for amateur sports bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prospects seemed brighter today for a bill that would provide $30 million to help implement reforms in the U.S. Olympic movement through the reorganization of the U.S. Olympic Committee. The full House will get the measure after the Judiciary Committee takes a vote on it next Tuesday, shortly after taking up an amendment by Rep. Jim Santini, D-Nev., who wants to assure that athletes receive fair treatment when dealing with sports organization. The committee leadership overcame a major hurdle Thursday when it garnered enough support to defeat a proposal to delete the $30 million from the Senate-passed bill. Before the 18-13 vote to defeat the amendment by Rep. Romano L. Mazzoli, D-Ky., several members, most of them Democrats, opposed the proposal.

Newcombe, Stockton upset in doubles meet

THE WOODLANDS, Texas (AP) — Woody Blocher and Dave Bohnstedt upset sixth-seeded John Newcombe and Dick Stockton, 7-5, 2-6, 7-6 Thursday in the $125,000 World of Doubles tennis tournament. In another upset, Cliff Drysdale and Anand Amritraj of India beat the number-three seeds, Raul Ramirez of Mexico and Freddie McNaire, 3-6, 6-2, 6-1. The second seeds, Tom Okker of the Netherlands, and Wojtek Fibak of Poland were not in serious trouble, but were trailing Mike Fishbach and Bernie Mitton of South Africa in the second set when Fishbach aggravated a strained muscle in his lower back. The match was retired at 6-3, 3-4, with Okker and Fibak winning.

Quantico wildlife flourishes

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — It sounds like a sportsmen's paradise out of Field and Stream: 55,000 wooded acres teeming with deer and turkey, and streams stocked with brown and rainbow trout.

But this hunting preserve, a favorite of congressmen, generals and foreign dignitaries, is never advertised in any magazine.

It is Quantico Marine Base, home to 7,000 Marines assigned to the major infantry and artillery training facility.

Blackstone and Fort A.P. Hill in Bowling Green, it has become one of Virginia's major game preserves, according to a spokesman for the Virginia Game Commission.

West German military and civilian personnel attached to the embassy in Washington are among the most frequent hunters on the base.

Marines find 'erroneous enlistments'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Marine Corps said Thursday an investigation of its recruiting system disclosed about 2,500 "erroneous enlistments" over the past two years and promised corrective action.

While saying this was only 3.3 percent of the nearly 74,900 enlistments during that period, Gen. Louis H. Wilson said, "the investigation...has disclosed deficiencies in our personnel procedures that we are capable of correcting."

Of the total, 716 recruits were discharged for fraudulent enlistment, which the corps said "requires proof of deliberate misrepresentation by an applicant of information he knows to be disqualifying."

Periodic war games are conducted on the base during which more than 40,000 rounds of blank ammunition are fired, tear gas grenades exploded, and hundreds of pounds of high explosives detonated.

Wilson said the Marine Corps tries to double-check at several stages after enlistment, but that "many schools and police jurisdictions...will not verify information submitted by the applicant" because of the privacy act, other laws or what he called "community policy."

Toxic chemical discovered in many mothers' milk

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A nationwide sampling of mothers' milk by the Environmental Protection Agency in 1975 found a widespread presence of the toxic chemical PCB, the San Francisco Chronicle reported Thursday.

The women involved in the study were not identified. Women from 45 states volunteered the samples while hospitalized for childbirth. In general, the milk of women from Kansas, Michigan, New York, Texas and Wisconsin contained the highest levels, the newspaper said.

In the age 19 and over group Dianne Grizzle won first, Wanda Bibby picked up second and Mary Cloyd nabbed third.

Trees not Park Service's suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Christmas trees just might not be the National Park Service's strong suit.

For the second time in as many years, the Park Service has been forced to find a replacement for the living blue spruce that stands on the Ellipse, a park behind the White House grounds, and serves as the nation's official Christmas tree. The latest casualty, like its predecessor, has died.

The 30-foot Colorado blue spruce was transplanted on the Ellipse last fall to replace an earlier tree that had died.

The new tree fell victim to the elements, knocked down twice last winter by heavy winds. The tree — or what's left of it — will be cut down this week.

Mao's legend lives, but some of his ideas have died

The Washington Post

HONG KONG — When the powerful Chinese general was called to Mao Tse-tung's vacation home in Hanchow that summer of 1965, he found the chairman worried and preoccupied. "What's to be done if revisionism emerges in the central authorities?" Mao asked. The general said he would march on Peking to stop it.

The chairman smiled. "That will be too late," he said. Exactly two years after Mao's death, and a decade after his last great effort to leave his philosophical stamp on China, it does seem too late to save some of the ideas that were so dear to him.

But Mao's legend remains. It may be whittled and twisted to suit his more practical-minded successors, but it is still unblemished by the sort of indignities heaped on other deceased revolutionaries. Mao's thought, in its many contradictory forms, is still cited. It lends legitimacy to, but may create future trouble for, a new, intensely competitive post-Mao society that has gone against the grain of some of the chairman's strong egalitarian notions.

Since the purges that closely followed Mao's death Sept. 9, 1976, only the late chairman's more pragmatic disciples are left in power. In a lengthy reminiscence released recently by the official New China News Agency, Canton commander Hsu Shih-yu, the general who saw the chairman in Hangchow in 1965, paints a picture of Mao the moderate.

Echoing other recent official accounts, Hsu focuses on the occasions when Mao was cleaning up the mess created by one or another of his social and political experiments. At those times Mao assumed a cautious outlook and relied on the advice and support of party chiefs who had not thought much of his experiments.

This is a clever, selective way to use the rich Maoist archive. The new Chinese government, committed to building a modern economy and army, simply has no time for Mao's more radical notions, such as eliminating the privileges of the educated elite or turning factory administration over to ordinary workers. But to Chinese who committed themselves to those experiments, and who remember his support for them, the new image of Mao must seem a sham.

The frequent, sometimes tortuous analyses of Mao's thought carried nowadays in the official press indicate that debate of sorts is still going on between Mao admirers who emphasize different parts of his voluminous writings. While Mao's reputation remains high, those who favor his more radical sayings have a chance of using his words to regain power someday. That day, however, seems far off.

A commentator in the official army newspaper recently argued that all ideas, even Mao's, have to be discarded when they don't work out in practice. He admitted that some people challenge his view and ask: "If practice is put in the first place and regarded as the sole criterion for testing the truth, then where are you putting Mao Tse-tung's thought and Chairman Mao's utterances?"

The commentator threw another Mao quote back at his critics: "The only yardstick of the truth is the revolutionary practice of millions of people."

This is the usual refrain of any debater faced with damaging quotes from a respected authority. Mao's words must be put in context. Today's leaders of China vehemently attack the Little Red Book of Mao thoughts that was everywhere in the late 1960s when Mao launched his great Cultural Revolution.

The little book is blamed on former defense Minister Lin Biao, who said: "Every sentence Chairman Mao says is truth and carries as much weight as 10,000 ordinary sentences." Lin died in 1971 after an alleged attempt to overthrow Mao, so his case is a convenient foil to use against those who quote Mao too much.

When Mao's thought "is split and fragmented into separate phrases and sentences which are not related to each other," the official People's Daily said late week, "it is no longer a science correctly reflecting the laws of the development of the objective world and is no longer truth."

Executives suffer 'people ineptness'

By JOHN CUNIFF NEW YORK (AP) — Ineptness in dealing with people is emerging in recent years as the fatal flaw for corporate chief executives...

The assessment comes from an analysis of top executive changes in the nation's 500 largest industrial concerns by Eugene Jennings...

A chief executive fired for "people ineptness" also has the most difficulty finding another job, Jennings found...

Being fired for this reason was almost unheard of in the 1960s, said Jennings, who has spent more than 30 years studying corporations and executives...

In recent years, he observes, respect for authority has diminished in the corporation as in some other institutions, while respect has grown for executives who lead by cooperation and team-building.

The problem isn't uncommon, and it isn't necessarily limited to the corporate institution. "If Jimmy Carter were a corporate president he'd get fired," said Jennings.

Jennings, a Michigan State professor, came to his conclusions about chief executives after studying the annual 12 percent egression rate of top people in the nation's 500 largest industrial companies.

About half left involuntarily, he estimates, although various reasons were given for their departure. Jennings grouped the firings into six categories, of which people-ineptness was the most serious.

Such people, he said, cannot understand how to build a cohesive team or resolve conflict. In fact, they have "a marvelous capacity for offending everyone eventually, and then claiming they get no support."

When dismissed, such a person also spends the most time finding another job, takes the biggest pay cut, and is more likely than others to be forced into accepting a position at a much smaller company.

In contrast to being people-inept, those fired because of conflicts over corporate strategy, in effect because of their strong convictions, find little difficulty in landing on their feet.

"It's the classiest way to go," said Jennings. "It's almost a sign of competency."

Dismissing the publicly stated reasons and instead examining the actual reasons, Jennings found four additional categories of dismissals:

—Bad chemistry, usually with the board. A simple happenstance that, rather than being something personal, merely reflects a personality mismatch between the chief executive and the board of directors.

—Disparate social and political philosophies. The category involves the external environment of the corporation in regard to questions such as "Should we be the first to implement environmental standards?"

—Succession disputes. Who succeeds the chief executive? He might have one idea, the board another. The category also includes disputes over the nature of the chief's post-retirement association with the concern.

But nothing stands out as a greater tragedy than the firing for being inept in dealing with people. A person so branded, said Jennings, never loses the reputation and sometimes slides toward oblivion.

Their problem is not one of general ineptness, and in authoritarian times they succeeded. Their firing, Jennings stated, "reflects the importance now placed on people management and team effectiveness."

The problem of those termed people-inept, he concluded, "is not a problem of managing business as a business but of managing it as a people institution."

Executives suffer 'people ineptness'

By JOHN CUNIFF NEW YORK (AP) — Ineptness in dealing with people is emerging in recent years as the fatal flaw for corporate chief executives...

The assessment comes from an analysis of top executive changes in the nation's 500 largest industrial concerns by Eugene Jennings...

A chief executive fired for "people ineptness" also has the most difficulty finding another job, Jennings found...

Being fired for this reason was almost unheard of in the 1960s, said Jennings, who has spent more than 30 years studying corporations and executives...

In recent years, he observes, respect for authority has diminished in the corporation as in some other institutions, while respect has grown for executives who lead by cooperation and team-building.

The problem isn't uncommon, and it isn't necessarily limited to the corporate institution. "If Jimmy Carter were a corporate president he'd get fired," said Jennings.

Jennings, a Michigan State professor, came to his conclusions about chief executives after studying the annual 12 percent egression rate of top people in the nation's 500 largest industrial companies.

About half left involuntarily, he estimates, although various reasons were given for their departure. Jennings grouped the firings into six categories, of which people-ineptness was the most serious.

Such people, he said, cannot understand how to build a cohesive team or resolve conflict. In fact, they have "a marvelous capacity for offending everyone eventually, and then claiming they get no support."

When dismissed, such a person also spends the most time finding another job, takes the biggest pay cut, and is more likely than others to be forced into accepting a position at a much smaller company.

In contrast to being people-inept, those fired because of conflicts over corporate strategy, in effect because of their strong convictions, find little difficulty in landing on their feet.

"It's the classiest way to go," said Jennings. "It's almost a sign of competency."

Dismissing the publicly stated reasons and instead examining the actual reasons, Jennings found four additional categories of dismissals:

—Bad chemistry, usually with the board. A simple happenstance that, rather than being something personal, merely reflects a personality mismatch between the chief executive and the board of directors.

—Disparate social and political philosophies. The category involves the external environment of the corporation in regard to questions such as "Should we be the first to implement environmental standards?"

—Succession disputes. Who succeeds the chief executive? He might have one idea, the board another. The category also includes disputes over the nature of the chief's post-retirement association with the concern.

But nothing stands out as a greater tragedy than the firing for being inept in dealing with people. A person so branded, said Jennings, never loses the reputation and sometimes slides toward oblivion.

Declarer was Ron Anderson, of New York, who set a new record in 1977 for master points won in a single year. When West continued trumps Anderson won the second trick with the king of hearts in order to lead spades from his hand.

West put up the queen, forcing out dummy's ace. Declarer then led dummy's jack of spades, discarding a club from his hand.

VALUABLE SEVEN

West won and led a club to dummy's ace. Declarer then led dummy's nine of spades and discarded his last club. West won with the ten of spades, but now dummy's seven of spades was good. South eventually used it to discard a diamond and could ruff the other diamonds in dummy to make his contract.

If West hadn't started with two rounds of trumps Anderson would have lost the chance for brilliant play since he could easily ruff three diamonds in dummy and three spades in his hand to make sure of ten tricks.

Cairo housing at crisis level

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Eighteen families fled their collapsing apartment building in the mid-water taps. "We have lost hope of the government doing anything after all this live. "It is in the landlord's interest to have a building collapse because he can then build a new one for a handsome profit," one expert said.

Government officials say if the artificially low rents were suddenly ended it would create further hardships for poor families. They also fear it would have the same destabilizing effect as the January 1977 riots, which were triggered by a sudden lifting of food subsidies.

As a compromise, the government has permitted landlords to raise rents up to 12 percent if they make repairs and maintain existing buildings.

But government officials concede little else is being done to reverse the steady decline of buildings in the center city. A U.S.-financed study said the problem had reached critical proportions in Cairo with nearly one of every three buildings crumbling away without proper maintenance. It also said 7 million urban Egyptians in the nation of 40 million had inadequate housing.

The study also estimated the 12,000 housing units, mostly apartments, were lost every year because of building collapses. In the last 18 months, more than 160 people were killed by falling buildings as well.

"Upgrading the existing slums would cost billions of dollars that we cannot afford with existing resources," Salah Eldin Fahmy, first under-secretary of housing, said in an interview.

Instead the government sees the long-range solution in new cities built far out in the desert. A half-dozen of these new towns have been planned but only one — between Cairo and the Suez Canal — is under construction.

In the meantime, the Ministry of Housing is battling to keep pace with the exploding population and the continuing migration from the countryside that is causing the nation's capital to grow at the rate of 4 percent a year. It has quadrupled in size since 1947.

This growth has meant an increased demand of about 100,000 new housing units a year. But last year the government was able to build only about 70,000 units.

The desert cities are not expected to make an impact on the housing problem before 1985 and Fahmy said, "I have no idea when we will catch up."

Some build mudbrick houses on the edge of this sprawling city of 8 million people while others live on the roofs of apartment buildings. A few live in tents and 100,000 call the city's cemetery home.

de of the night three years ago and took shelter in a centuries-old mosque in Cairo's teeming center city.

Today, with little hope of finding new quarters, the 162 refugees still live jammed together on the second floor of the Giny Said el Saleh Mosque inside the towering gray walls of medieval Cairo.

They are the victims of Cairo's burgeoning housing crisis, the most serious in a country with a shortage of about 1.1 million housing units.

The influx of job-seeking farmers from the countryside, a population explosion that adds a new Egyptian every 45 seconds and rapidly deteriorating housing forces thousands into makeshift dwellings.

Some build mudbrick houses on the edge of this sprawling city of 8 million people while others live on the roofs of apartment buildings. A few live in tents and 100,000 call the city's cemetery home.

The toll in terms of human suffering is great, as witnessed by the plight of the mosque-dwellers. Cloth and cardboard partitions divide the refugees into family groups but provide little privacy.

"Look in here," said a middle-aged woman named Saadiya, pulling back a drape that serves as a door. Her cardboard cubicle was crowded with possessions rescued from the collapsed building.

"We all sleep here," she said, pointing to a sagging double bed, "my husband, his other wife and our 10 children."

Food is cooked on portable stoves next to piles of clothing, television antennas are wired to bedposts and electric wires snake across the tops of cardboard partitions.

Ducks and chickens wander freely and the 18 families must share three toilets and two time," said 18-year-old

Mona Nazir. Her words were echoed by Mahmoud Ahmed, 35, a primary school teacher who lives with his wife and three children in one of 32 closet-sized rooms on the roof of a five-story apartment building.

"I would like better for my children," he said. "But I don't have much hope."

Many of the rooftop dwellers earn below the $260 average annual wage and can afford to live nowhere else. Western experts say down-payments on the most economic low-income housing, public or private, would amount to nearly a year's wages and monthly payments beyond the reach of many urban "squatters."

Existing housing, if available, is even more expensive. Mahmoud said a two-bedroom apartment downstairs in the same building recently changed hands for the equivalent of more than $20,000 in "key money," an illegal payment frequently demanded by the landlord to compensate for stringent rent controls that hold most rents under $5 a month.

Western experts blame the rent control for the steady decline of the housing stock in the center city, where 3 million of the 8 million Cairenes

DR. NEIL SOLOMON
Skin bleaching helps liver spots

Dear Dr. Solomon: I have some liver spots on my hands that I would like to do something about. Are skin bleaches you can get at the drugstore safe? And do they work?—F.L.

Dear F.L.: According to an expert panel of the Food and Drug Administration, the only skin bleaching agent now being used, hydroquinone, is safe and effective. But only for the gradual lightening of so-called "age spots" or "liver spots," freckles, and melasma. (Melasma is the skin discoloration that often happens during pregnancy—the "mask of pregnancy"—or sometimes when a woman is on the Pill.)

What a hydroquinone ointment does is to cut down abnormal pigmentation in the skin, usually in about a month and a half, although it may take longer.

One thing that is very important is, of course, to avoid exposure to the sun because this would have just the opposite effect, and also because skin bleaches make the skin especially sensitive to the sun's rays. The FDA experts recommended that skin exposure be avoided indefinitely by using an effective sunscreen or sun block, or protective clothing.

I should like to add that hyperpigmentation (too much pigment in areas of the skin) may indicate some underlying health problem, so it is always a good idea to check with your doctor before undertaking any self-treatment.

(If you have a medical problem, see your doctor. If you have a medical question, write to Neil Solomon, M.D., 1726 Reisterstown Road, Baltimore, Md. 21208. Dr. Solomon cannot give personal replies but will answer as many questions as possible in his column.)

Father would approve
SACRAMENTO (AP) — Jerry Brown's dad says he would approve of Linda Ronstadt as a daughter-in-law. But former Gov. Pat Brown says he has no reason to expect that his son, the current governor, is about to marry the popular country-rock singer. "I haven't the slightest idea about Jerry's intentions of marriage with Linda Ronstadt or anybody else," Brown said in a telephone interview. "I've never discussed his love life with him in any shape or manner."

Filibusters present real Senate threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's getting so a senator has to get in line if he wants to stage a filibuster.

As the 95th Congress slogs toward its last hurrah, at least four filibusters are a very real threat in the Senate.

When Capitol veterans try to figure out why filibusters — or at least the threat of them — seem more commonplace these days, they often point to the more gentlemanly approach to filibustering that has evolved during the past few years.

They also note the time pressures members of Congress feel when they see election day closing in, as it is this year.

Opponents of the natural gas bill now being debated in the Senate are threatening to use their right of unlimited debate to hold the floor and block a final vote on the measure.

Lined up behind them are threats to try to talk to death bills that would extend the deadline for ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment, designate millions of acres of Alaska as park and wilderness and implement a $931 million settlement of shipbuilding claims by two defense contractors. Talk is a cherished pastime in the Senate chamber. And the filibuster is honored as the minority's defense against the majority.

However, the majority is not defenseless against a filibuster. A limit can be placed on debate by invoking cloture, which requires the support of 60 of the 100 senators.

It all sounds very orderly, but there's a feeling around the Capitol that something has gone wrong with the system.

Students of the rules, like the late Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., made a mockery of cloture by managing to prolong debate for days even after the majority had mustered 60 votes. An effort to tighten the rules to prohibit that was blocked. By a filibuster, of course.

'Battlestar Galactica' proves TV not total waste

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Americans will be divided in debate Monday. At issue will be whether "Star Wars" is better than the "Battlestar Galactica" making a three-hour ABC debut this Sunday night.

To quote Billy Martin, I take no sides. I just say "Battlestar" proves all is not lost in TV, that some in it still care enough to do their very best and that this is it in all areas.

Produced by "Star Wars" special-effects whiz John Dykstra, the saga doesn't have earthlings seeking new planets. Instead, humans of all creeds and colors set out to find planet Earth. What starts their voyage is a space-age Pearl Harbor attack on their home planets by the wicked Cylons, mechanical giants bent on exterminating humanity and replacing it with technology.

As at Pearl Harbor, peace talks precede the sneak attack, the humans' guard is down and the only leader worried by the Cylons is Lorne Greene, cast as Cmdr. Adama, head of the good ship Galactica.

That his fears are justified is tragically shown when one of his two sons (both are fighter pilots) dies in the first round of good vs. evil, the latter depicted by sinister Darth Vader types.

As with "Star Wars," this and other aerial — pardon me, space — jousting offers brilliant special effects, painstaking attention to detail and realistic-sounding pilot chatter.

And the combat sequences — the good guys' ships resemble an F-100 up front, a four-barrel Phantom jet in back — are so beautifully executed even current or former aerial gunners will applaud.

Besides Greene, who winds up leading a rag-tag, 220-ship collection of survivors after the attack, other good thespians abound in the show.

The standouts are Richard Hatch, as his surviving son; Dirk Benedict as raffish, lady-chasing Lt. Starbuck; Maren Jensen as Greene's daughter, for whom Starbuck has big eyes, and Herb Jefferson as Starbuck's reliable wingman, Lt. Boomer.

To chronicle events after the sneak attack is like trying to put the Johnstown Flood in an eyeroller. The film is so rich in plot twists, turns and well-edited scenes it defies brief description.

But rest assured it is industrial-strength entertainment, its moments of great drama and doom nicely mixed with sly bits of humor, such as an outer-space resort scene involving a trio of lady singers. Starbuck thinks they're great, even though each has four eyes and two mouths. He could get rich were he their agent, he says. Sighs his wingman:

"Every creature in the universe is out to exterminate us and you want to hire a vocal group."

Skateboarding is more fun says, Kim Eby, 16, sharing a ride with someone who doesn't have a board. Here she gives her dog, Inca, a ride at nearby Shoreline Park. (AP Laserphoto)

'The Death Freak' journeys into world of good reading

THE DEATH FREAK. By John Luckless. Summit. 250 Pages. $8.95.

Writers Clifford Irving and Herbert Burkholz have teamed up under the pseudonym "John Luckless" to write a spoof of the thriller novel so much in evidence these days and with "The Death Freak" they have — to a large extent — succeeded.

Excess is the book's major flaw. In their desire to satirize the thriller genre they often go too far and instead of satire they serve up silliness. But "The Death Freak" does have enough good satire and enough substance to make it worth the reading.

The plot — and it's most wild — concerns two top intelligence agents. Both have been developing "Unusual Killing Devices" for 20 years and now they want to retire. The twist is that Eddie Mancuso works for American intelligence and Vasily Borgneff works for Russian intelligence. Both know that they will not be allowed to retire, that they will be killed instead. So they get together — an arrangement made by Chalice, a lovely woman who loves both men — and decide the only way they can get out is to work together at killing all the Russian and American agents who won't let them retire.

How they go about this makes up the bulk of the book. The methods and implements the two defectors use to get rid of their former comrades are often ingenious, sometimes amusing, and always quite bloody.

Most of the time the plot of "The Death Freak" clips along at a goodly pace — although some unneeded sex scenes tend to bog it down at times — and if the reader doesn't concern himself overly much with the lack of a sense of reality it's entertaining enough reading.

Youths file lawsuit

BUTLER, Mo. (AP) — The punishment of two students for carrying cigarettes at the junior high school in Hume two years ago has resulted in a multimillion-dollar lawsuit.

A suit on file in Bates County Circuit Court Thursday seeks more than $2.3 million from the school district and several past and present school officials.

The suit was filed by the mothers of Bill Adkins and Terry Weatherman, who allegedly became ill in September 1976 after they opted to eat nearly a whole pack of cigarettes when they were caught with cigarettes on the school grounds.

The school policy at the time was to give students the option of accepting a paddling or eating the tobacco in their possession. The policy was later abandoned.

The suit accused the school district of negligence and seeks $1 million in punitive damages for each of the boys plus damages for court costs and personal injury.

The American Civil Liberties Union had threatened a suit against the school district last year but dropped its plans when the tobacco policy was rescinded.

The Adkins family has moved from Hume. Weatherman no longer attends school there.

Abilene has reputation to defend

By MICHAEL GRANT
Copley News Service

Just about everyone who grew up between the Mississippi and the Rockies has a town to hold up as the Christian citadel whose municipal limits Demon Rum is least likely to breach, legally. Reminisces of these communities tend to the superlative rhetoric, as in, "Shoot, you'll be able to ice-skate down the Panama Canal the day Anson goes wet," until it begins to resemble an argument in behalf of official sobriety as a test, along with hard-nosed football and cheerleader pulchritude, of a town's superiority. But the debaters seldom mean it that way. They are only more immovable than the next guy's, even if both are agreed it is the 19th century in which their towns are mired.

I never made the slightest connection between abstinence and virtue when, if ever moved to my own town's defense, I stood up to announce that Abilene would go wet the day that Paris, France, went dry.

Nor was I ever taunted by second thoughts, even though Abilene also was known as the wettest little dry town in Texas.

There were "private clubs" all over town, where you could join for a dollar and drink all you could hold. There was one such club downtown from which you could step into the night and, with a well-thrown shot glass, hit city hall, where the town was held to be as arid as the plains of the moon; it would rain in the one place before booze poured in the other.

Abilene was not unique for this spiritual mix; Texas liquor laws, which may have been drawn up by Groucho Marx, gave rise to consumption phenomena, some of them quite remarkable, all over the state.

But the mix was found in its purest form in Abilene where, after all, Impact and Hardin-Simmons University existed side-by-side.

H-SU, one of three denominational learning institutions in a city of 100,000, is owned and operated by the Baptist Church, whose attitude toward strong water is rather fundamentally dry.

About three miles up Grape Street from H-SU is Impact, a watch-charm community that represents the ultimate deployment of Texas liquor laws.

These laws provide for "local option;" it is left to the voters of the various precincts whether their precincts will be wet or dry. Generally, blocs of precincts are involved, so the vote affects an entire town or county.

But Impact is a single precinct, measurable in acres. It was an unincorporated patch of brown earth in the north part of Abilene in the early '60s when its citizens, under the leadership of an astute businessman named Dallas Perkins, voted to incorporate themselves as a town. In its first breath of official will, the town voted itself wet.

Business at Impact's two liquor stores has been brisk since. Perkins was elected mayor.

Impact may have been thought a lance to the heart of a city that would go wet over its dead body. But Abilene held firm as Impact prospered, like a pearl, in its belly. There was some snuffing among the city leaders of lost tax revenue, but what was a little money compared to a deficit of the soul?

Impact, in fact, might well have served to strengthen its parent city's official resolve.

A fellow in a position of civic sensitivity could now preserve his image in the community (which once was estimated to possess a church for every 75 or 80 of its inhabitants) by voting dry, without inviting on himself the inconvenience of driving clear to Mingus (or later Stamford, as the wet nose tightened) to obtain his supply.

This implies the presence of some hypocrisy in the wettest little dry town in Texas. Few would argue that the soil was at least fertile for it. And there is an old joke of which another former Abilenian reminded me recently:

"Heaven is a place where Catholics can have a steak on Friday, Jews can eat pork anytime, and Baptists and church of Christ people can drink in front of each other."

So Abilene remained dry, and Impact enforced my belief that it always would. The question came up now and again, but the referenda always went to the drys. Parisians went about their wines, and the earth stayed in its orbit.

Perhaps, having prefaced it thus, I can more easily convey the sense I now have of being cut adrift in an infirm firmament, because word has come that Paris has gone dry. The vote was close — 11,591 to 11,460 — but Abilene has gone wet. (It is to be sure, being contested.)

Of course, my emotions are mixed. I take it as a defeat, and a victory. A giant, pitching forward into the 20th century, has fallen. I am no longer so certain that there is anything that may be taken as certain.

A San Antonio columnist who knows Abilene noted that an earthquake — an event as rare as bartenders in West Texas — occurred in the Abilene area about the time of the election. He attributed it to the thousands of late Baptists, Methodists and Church of Christ people rolling over in their graves.

Could be, though I suspect another source: The spirits of Dallas Perkins and the people of Impact, as they came crashing down.

Serves 'em right. They overcharged us, all these years.

Scientist says ozone tale based on unreliable data

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ominous warnings that mankind is destroying the ozone layer — the earth's vital atmospheric shield — are based on unreliable data and cannot be confirmed, a scientist contends.

Yet those warnings are leading to major political and economic decisions such as opposition to supersonic transport planes and to the use of aerosol sprays, said Dr. J.V. Dave of the IBM Scientific Center in Palo Alto.

"I'm not saying anything about whether the ozone is actually being destroyed or not," Dave said in an interview. "What my research says is that we do not have sufficiently accurate data...to say what we are doing to it."

The problem, he said, is that instruments used to measure ozone do not take into account such variables as atmospheric dust, clouds and natural changes in the concentration of ozone.

Therefore, he said, "You cannot really say that the ozone is being depleted. This may be a pseudo-result caused by any number of factors."

Dave has designed computer models to measure the effect of atmospheric variables on ozone measurements. He said the computer simulations indicate existing data could be off by 8 percent or more.

Dave's research, funded in part by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, was published recently in the Journal of Atmospheric Sciences.

Ozone, a form of oxygen mostly concentrated 8 to 15 miles overhead, acts as a translucent shield that allows most sunlight to filter through while it blocks hazardous ultraviolet rays.

Without the shield, some scientists believe, skin cancer would reach epidemic proportions, the earth's climate could change radically, plants could die and animals might be blinded.

The controversy began about 1971, when research showed that exhausts from supersonic transports flying through the ozone layer cause chemical reactions that destroy ozone. Later research incriminated fluorocarbons used in aerosol sprays and nitrogen oxides from artificial fertilizers.

Dave does not question the destructive power of the chemical reactions. But he said a better measurements must be made because "the problem of atmospheric ozone has moved from an area of academic interest into the arena of political, economic and environmental interests."

"Laws have to be passed and decisions involving billions of dollars must be made," he said. "But how can we make these decisions if we cannot say what we are doing to the ozone? We must have more data and better data."

The man most often credited with the first warnings of ozone damage is Dr. Harold Johnston of the University of California at Berkeley.

Johnston agreed that "questions of how well can we look" need to be explored in greater detail.

"This gets pretty interesting," he said, "because all the theories on the fluorocarbons say that a long-term reduction is to be expected and the theories are beginning to say that we ought to begin seeing the impact."

Johnston also said fluorocarbon damage to the ozone seems to be a delayed-reaction — a sort of ecological time bomb.

Campaign makes use of seal

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN—If you can walk into a jewelry store and buy cufflinks engraved with the Great Seal of the state of Texas, why can't Sen. John Tower's re-election campaign solicit contributions on paper bearing a similar mark?

It can, says a Tower campaign spokesman, because politics isn't conducted for a profit.

A recent mailout from Tower's campaign office asks for an "investment" to ensure conservatives like Tower "are not replaced in the Senate by liberals who will support (President) Carter's proposals."

And on the letter, the envelope that contained it, and on a related contribution card, are copies of the Great Seal.

Although Texas law makes it a misdemeanor to use a representation of the seal to advertise a commercial undertaking or for a commercial purpose, Tower press aide Bruce Neely says the statute probably would not apply to a political campaign.

"Most probably, 'political' is not considered 'commercial,' because it's not for profit...Any case brought up on that point would probably be laughed out of court because politicians are the ones who wrote the law," he said.

Robert Heath, chairman of the Attorney General's Opinions Committee, agrees, saying, "I doubt that anyone would be misled that this was for an official purpose."

Graduate Center offers two industry courses

The Permian Basin Graduate Center will offer a Drilling Fluids School from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. and from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Wednesday in the PBGC Building, 105 W. Illinois St., Midland.

The fee for the school is $275, with a set of notes and materials included. Registration is limited.

The three-day course is designed for engineers, drilling foremen or mud engineers. It will discuss the basis of drilling fluids and their purposes. Also included will be mud systems, mud additives, mud problems, hole deterioration, stuck pipe, lost circulation and formation damage.

The instructor, Neal Adams, associate of Prentice & Records, Inc., is an honor graduate from Northeast Louisiana University.

His experience in the drilling fluids industry has given him an extensive knowledge about drilling fluid techniques and problems. He has worked as a consultant for Drilling Well Control. He participates in the Gulf Coast School of Drilling Practices, and is the instructor for the Well Control School offered by Petroleum Training Service.

The center also will offer "Applied Carbonate Petrology" in the PBGC classrooms from 7 to 10 p.m. Mondays, starting next week. The course will continue through Dec. 11.

Registration is limited and the fee is $300.

This 12-session course is designed for persons with a basic background in carbonate description and classification. It will include the types and characteristics of carbonate reservoir rocks, carbonate source rocks, critical evaluation of methods of kerogen analysis, microfacies analysis applied to environment and energy at time of deposition, comparative lithostratigraphy, genetic porosity classification, metasomatic and stratiform ore deposits in carbonates, and practical examination of important carbonate reservoirs.

Registrants will provide their own microscopes for transmitted and reflected light.

The instructor is Dr. Karl W. Klement, Midland consulting geologist. He received his Ph.D. degree in Geology-Paleontology from the University of Tuebingen in West Germany in 1959.

He started his career as a research associate, then was a post-doctoral fellow at Scripps Institute of Oceanography in California. He was a senior research scientist at Amoco Research Center in Oklahoma three years and associate professor of Geology at Texas Tech from 1964 to 1969. He was chairman and professor of Geology at the University of Texas at El Paso from 1969 to 1977.

Voting lineup on gas bill

Compromise opponents start rally for new plan

By TOM RAUM
WASHINGTON (AP) — Opponents of a natural gas compromise, having yielded their right to filibuster and having agreed to a showdown vote next Tuesday, now say their strategy is to rally senators behind a rival plan.

But Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., Senate manager of President Carter's energy proposals, contends the extra time opponents won in exchange for agreeing not to filibuster won't help them.

"You can draw your own conclusions," he said. "But they just don't have the votes."

Jackson predicted that enough additional uncommitted senators would announce their support for the plan today to put the White House over the top.

After days of delicate negotiations, the Senate unanimously agreed on Thursday to a timetable for voting on the legislation, averting the possibility of a filibuster.

The schedule calls for a vote at 3 p.m. EDT Tuesday on an opposition motion seeking to return the gas pricing plan to a House-Senate conference committee for redrafting.

If that motion fails — as Senate leaders and the administration are predicting — there would be a final vote on the compromise Sept. 27.

That is the first anniversary of an all-night session the Senate held in 1977 during another filibuster on natural gas deregulation.

Opponents of the compromise said next Tuesday's motion would include instructions to the conference committee on what to include in the re-drafted bill.

One proposal is to replace the compromise with a plan that simply would give the president emergency powers to deal with natural gas shortages. Supporters of the motion say they're flexible and may suggest some other plan — if it means more votes.

If the motion fails Tuesday, opponents say they may offer other re-drafting motions — lasting until the final Sept. 27 deadline.

The Senate leadership says any scheme to return the compromise to conference committee will doom the legislation this late in Congress.

The gas compromise, the sole surviving major part of President Carter's battered 17-month old energy program — would lift price controls from most natural gas in 1985 and allow a steady increase in prices between now and then.

After Thursday's agreement, each side was claiming a victory. Opponents said it gave them needed extra time to strengthen their forces, and supporters claimed they no longer had to worry about mustering the 60 votes needed to break a filibuster.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, a leader of that September 1977 filibuster and a staunch opponent of the current bill, said his side, like Jackson's, "never really wanted a filibuster."

An Associated Press survey now shows 47 senators supporting or leaning in favor of the plan, 40 against or leaning against it and 13 undecided.

Bentsen sees more tape

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen believes President Carter "will be looking for another scapegoat to explain the weakening of the dollar" should the Senate pass the administration-backed natural gas compromise.

"The root cause of our economic problems are inflation, a huge federal deficit — which adds to the $600 billion already held in foreign hands — too much government regulation, a tax structure that discourages investment and a growth rate that exceeds that of our trading partners," began the Texas Democrat in a Senate speech delivered late Thursday afternoon.

"These factors, when combined with policies that discriminate against American exports, are primarily responsible for our balance of trade problems," he added.

Bentsen also noted that the Department of Energy (DOE) has asked for an increase of $87 million in its regulatory budget in anticipation of the bill's passage.

The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission would "literally cave in under the weight of all that new red tape," should the Senate approve the compromise, Bentsen told his colleagues.

The controversial compromise, which would deregulate most newly discovered natural gas by 1985, was hammered out during the past 10 months in a House-Senate conference committee. The measure has been the subject of intense lobbying by top administration officials including Carter, Vice President Walter Mondale, DOE Secretary James Schlesinger and Chief Trade Negotiator Robert Strauss.

Bentsen, who co-authored along with Sen. James B. Pearson, R-Kansas, the natural gas pricing bill that passed the Senate in October, claimed the compromise bill "actually deregulates less gas in 1985 than would be deregulated under current law."

"Projections made by the Energy Information Administration, an independent branch of DOE, shows that in 1985 the compromise bill will deregulate 37 percent of all flowing natural gas but under the status quo 55 percent would be deregulated. Under the Bentsen-Pearson bill 73 percent of all gas would be freed from federal control," continued Bentsen.

Explorer sites staked

Wildcat operations have been announced in Eddy and Lea counties in New Mexico, and a field extender has been completed in Crosby County.

Coquina Oil Corp. of Midland No. 1 W. M. Snyder will be drilled as the Eddy wildcat, 18 miles east of Malaga.

Scheduled for a 4,600-foot bottom, it is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 23-24-31e.

The drillsite is four miles west of the Double X (Delaware) pool.

Amoco Production Co. No. 3 Saunders Wildcat will be drilled as a 3,500-foot wildcat in Lea County. It is adjacent to the east city limit of Jal and 660 feet from north and west lines of section 28-25-37e. There are several depleted shallow producers in the area.

CROSBY WELL
United Energy Corp. No. 1 Montgomery has been completed to extend the Hoople (Clear Fork) field 3/4 mile northeast in Crosby County.

The well, 10 miles south of Lorenzo, finished for a daily pumping potential of 45 barrels of 30-gravity oil, plus 105 barrels of water, through perforations from 4,376 to 4,421 feet.

The gas-oil ratio was not reported. Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 1069, EL&RR survey.

Midlander stakes tests

David Fasken of Midland announced locations for four projects in the Cemetery (Morrow gas) area of Eddy County, N. M.

No. 3 Ross-Federal Communitized is 1,641 feet from north and 460 feet from west lines of section 4-21s-24e.

No. 3 Shell-Federal Communitized is 1,835 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 5-21s-24e.

Fasken No. 2 Shell-Federal Communitized is 3,300 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 5-21s-24e.

No. 2 Ross-Federal Communitized will be drilled 3,300 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 4-21s-24e.

Scheduled on 9,900-foot contracts, the tests are 11 miles southwest of Lakewood.

LUSK WELL
Amoco Production Co. No. 2-DR State is a new filler in the Lusk, East area of Lea County, N. M.

It finished for a daily flow of 647 barrels of oil, through a 28/64-inch choke and Wolfcamp perforations from 10,721 to 10,744 feet. Taping pressure is 550 pounds.

Location is 1,650 feet from north and 990 feet from east lines of section 16-19s-32e and 14 miles southwest of Maljamar.

Total depth is 11,003 feet.

GULF OILER
Gulf Oil Corp. No. 2-ED State (NCT-A) has been finished in the Quail Ridge (Morrow area of Lea County, 21 miles northwest of Monument.

It completed for a daily flow of 20 barrels of 51-gravity oil, through perforations from 13,236 to 13,330 feet. Gas-oil ratio was not reported. The pay section was acidized with 8,000 gallons.

SEVEN WILDCAT SITES

Seven more wildcat operations have been staked in West Texas counties.

Mitchell Energy Corp. of Houston will test an unreported zone as a wildcat in its No. 1-26 University, project in Martin County, 27 miles north of Midland.

It will be plugged back from the Dean section in the Hutex field. It is one mile southwest of the Block 1 multipay field.

Location is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 26, block 7, University Lands survey.

TERRY WILDCAT
Getty Oil Co., operating from Midland, staked No. 1 W. C. Hefflinger as a 12,850-foot rank wildcat in Terry County, seven miles southwest of Gomez.

Location is 467 feet from north and 2,173 feet from west lines of section 140, block D-11, D&P survey.

CROCKETT WILDCAT
Exxon Corp. of Midland No. 1-ED State University is to be dug as a 9,500-foot Ellenburger wildcat in Crockett County, six miles southeast of Barnhart.

Drillsite is 2,200 feet from north and 1,400 feet from west lines of section 30, block 40, University Lands survey and 4.5 miles northwest of the Big Fire (Ellenburger) gas field.

It also is 4.5 miles northwest of the discovery well of the Block 38 (Ellenburger) oil pool.

RUNNELS TESTERS
A pair of wildcats have been staked in Runnels County by Hamco Exploration & Development Co. of Dallas.

Each of the tests will be drilled to 4,450 feet.

No. 1 V. L. Rodgers is one location southeast of the depleted Kendrick (Morris) field and 467 feet from north and 3,006 feet from west lines of Total depth is 13,528 feet and five-inch liner is set at 13,528 feet. The plugged back depth is 13,478 feet.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 16-19s-34e.

LEA STEP-OUT

Atlantic Richfield Co. No. 1 Langley Greer-Communitized is a new test in the Langley (Ellenburger oil) pool of Lea County, seven miles southwest of Eunice.

Three-fourths mile north of the lone well in the pool, it is 1,650 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 21-22s-36e. It is contracted to drill to 15,650 feet.

Ground elevation is 3,525 feet.

RIAL WELLS

Rial Oil Co. of Midland No. 1-11-B University has been potentialized in Hutex (Dean) pool of Andrews County, 21 miles northeast of Andrews.

Operator reported a daily flowing potential of 162 barrels of 41-gravity oil, through a 1/4-inch choke and perforations from 9,580 to 9,582 feet after 30,000 gallons of acid. Gas-oil ratio is 750-1.

Total depth is 10,044 feet and 4.5-inch casing is set at 10,044 feet.

Location is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 11, block 7, University Lands survey.

The same operator completed No. 1 Cluck in the Ackerly (Dean) pool of Dawson County.
