Permian reception is mixed

By LANA CUNNINGHAM R-T Staff Writer

Reaction by Midland oil and gas producers on the Senate's passage Wednesday of President Carter's energy program has been mixed, with the overall feeling being one of reluctant acceptance

Al Dillard, president of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association, gave some explanation about the

"The passage of the Natural Gas Act of 1978, the so-called Gas Compromise Report to accompany HR 5289 which was passed by the Senate Wednesday by a vote of 57 for and 42

" The effect on the state of Texas beyond 1980 or 1981 will be more severe than most people have been led to believe

against, apparently is a vote just to get this bill out of the way and send it to the House

This bill is in essence a companion bill passed in August 1978 by the Senate giving the eastern states and Michigan entitlements on foreign crude and refined products," he

That is, they pay less for these items and the people of the rest of the United States pay more because of this amendment. This is basically what will happen to gas. People of Texas will pay more and actually have less supply because of the allocation provisions in the gas bill

In one report of the vote, foes to the measure blamed it's success on the lobbying efforts of the administration Dillard agreed, saying, "Without knowing at this time the individual senator's vote, I would venture that the 'goodies' passed out by the administration were much more effect tive than the efforts of the oil and gas producer who will have to live by this bill and the thousands of rules and regulations that have yet to be written and implemented

The effect on the state of Texas beyond 1980 or 1981 will be more severe than most people have been led to believe, and the intrusion by the federal agency into the state regulatory process is unprecedented, Dillard added

As to any long range effect on Midland producers, Ike Lovelady, a Midland independent operator who thinks it is a bad bill, said he believes "we can dig our way out of it

Considering the industry in Midland, Charles Canfield, vice president of Texas Oil and Gas Corp., said, "I don't believe it will have an adverse

How does a roving Englishman find the States?

Hospitable, impressive and, in in stances, a bit disappointing

At least, that's how a congenial clean-cut chap named Chris Letch ford found his American cousins and their land in his stint as a friendly hitchhiker who "settled down" to a banking job for six weeks in Mid-

Actually, Letchford, a 20-year-old quantity surveying (project management) student at the University of Reading near London, came overseas last June to do clerical work in a Midland bank (He plans to be a pilot for British Airways after college.) He and a chum, Jonathan Somper, 20, made the night flight from the Isles to New York last June And to best get the feel of the land and its people, they strapped on their back packs and hitched down the East Coast to Midland by way of New Orleans

They planned ahead

They had connections

Twenty-one-year-old Robin Yeager. an American friend of theirs, who happened to be attending Reading in finishing her degree work at Southern Methodist University turned out to be the daughter of Midland bank President Wilbur A. Yeager Jr. They would need money and, hence, work, to stay over here for the summer. Robin, to their chagrin and delight, arranged it.

And so they came. Hitching?

That was no problem for the handsome pair.

Some said if we had beards, they (motorists) wouldn't have picked us up once." Letchford said on the rainy day he was to leave Midland - his 'second home" - for England by way of Los Angeles. (Somper was there visiting a cousin.) "We would make an effort to clean up before we went out (to hitch a ride).

Letchford recounted his impressions of America in the home of Robin Yeager's grandparents, Midland oilman Wilbur Arthur Yeager Sr. and his wife Patsy. He and Somper lived in a house behind the Yeager homeplace and fended for themselves.

"I think he thinks this is his second home now," Mrs. Yeager remarked (Continued on Page 2A)

Bill backers press action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional backers pressed for quick action on minor parts of President Carter's energy program today after breaking through the major barrier of natural gas pricing.

The Senate's 57-42 approval Wednesday of the natural gas bill proposed allowing gas prices to rise through continued regulation instead of decontrol but later endorsed the compromise as the best middle ground that could be achieved. And it was achieved only after months of

The bill would lift price controls from most natural gas in 1985 and permit the regulated price to double between now and then.

Sponsors say it will cost consumers who heat with natural gas an average of $20 to $25 more a year by 1985 than they would have otherwise paid. But liberal opponents contend homeowners will be hit with increases of $100 to $200 a year because of the

The bill now goes to the House, and although a pitched battle is expected there, supporters appear to have an

Meanwhile, backers of Carter's five-part energy plan hope to push through as much of it as possible before the scheduled mid-October congressional adjournment - even including some of the plan's long-neglected tax proposals.

The five parts deal with natural gas pricing, industrial coal conversion, energy conservation, electric rate setting and energy taxes. House-Senate energy negotiators slated today's meeting to wrap up loose ends on the relatively minor energy-conservation and electric-rate sections, sending those bills to the floor of each chamber for final ac-

The coal conversion bill, aimed at forcing gas- and oil-burning utilities and industries to switch to coal, has already passed the Senate and is awaiting final House action.

In addition, conferees on the fifth part — energy taxes — plan to meet Friday to approve proposed tax credits for home insulation. They may also agree to watered-down versions of taxes on cars with poor fuel economy and on inefficient industrial use of oil and natural gas.

The big tax in Carter's plan — one designed to make U.S. oil as expensive as imported oil - has been abandoned for the year by even its most ardent supporters, but chances seem good for approval of the other tax proposals.

The natural-gas deregulation compromise took House-Senate negotiators nearly a year to frame, and Carter indicated he was optimistic it would make it through the House after Senate approval. Rep. Philip R. Sharp, D-Ind., head of a task force named by House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill to rally House support for the compromise, said. "The Senate vote was a very strong one. It will help.

"I'm confident but we're a long way to the end and there's a battle to be Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger, who helped draft the compromise, said, "I think the bill's chances in the House are excellent." Then he grinned and added, "You won't have the natural gas bill to kick around

Israel prepares tor peace talks

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Israeli government began preparations today for peace negotiations with Egypt, its largest Arab foe, after the Israeli Parliament voted by an overwhelming margin to ratify the Camp David accords and withdraw all Jewish settlers from the Sinai peninsula if Egypt makes peace.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin said negotiations could start as early as next week on the peace treaty which he and President Anwar Sadat pledged at Camp David to complete within three months

Egypt's acting foreign minister. Butros B Ghali, said in Cairo that Israeli and Egyptian delegations would meet either in Ismailia, on the Suez Cana', or in El Arish, the Sinai capital

An advance Israeli party was going to Cairo today to re-establish the direct links Egyptian President Anwar Sadat severed in July

The 120 members of the Knesset, Israel's one-house parliament, put peace with Egypt in exchange for the Sinai settlements to a vote early today following more than 17 hours of emotional debate. The vote of 84-19 with 17 abstentions showed wide acceptance for the two frameworks for peace drafted at Camp David and the painful settlement resolution demanded as a condition for further negotiations by Sadat.

Winding up the debate, Begin said a peace treaty between Israel and Egypt would be "the great turning point in the history of the Middle East.

"The circle of wars would be closed for five years, perhaps 10 years, perhaps 50," he said. "Syria can't attack us because it knows that would be suicide. Jordan can't attack because the Hasehmite king (Hussein) would lose his crown President Carter hailed the Knesset vote as "a great step forward" and sure proof of the tremendous courage of Prime Minister Begin and the

Israeli Knesset The sharpest opposition in the Knesset came from Begin's Likud bloc, the mainstay of his parlimentary coalition. Eight of the 20 members of Herut, Begin's own faction, voted against the accords or abstained along with the eight-member Laam faction because they believe abandonment of the Sinai settlements will set a precedent for the settlements Israel has established in the West Bank and on the Syrian Golan Heights

Trooper White hangs it up after 41 years By GUY SULLIVAN "It's been enjoyable because I was dedicated," he said. "I like to treat that way, you have few regrets.'

"I'm laying down my weapon," declared John White, 65, of Odessa. The warrant officer for the Department of Public Safety will retire Friday with 41 years of state employment behind him.

The last 22 years White, well-known in both Midland and Odessa since he worked in both cities, has served warrants on citizens. At 23, the former cotton picker and drug store employee decided he would seek a "good steady job." He found it and stayed with it, winning many friends and carving out an interesting career. Captain Hugh Shaw of the Midland Texas Highway Patrol graduated with White in the DPS Academy Class of 1937 in Austin, considered one of the largest graduating classes at that time.

"If it hadn't been for that Class of 1937 the DPS would have went under," quipped White earlier this week as he prepared warrants to be served on Midland residents

"The DPS has never had a harder working, more loyal and dedicated employee than John White," said Shaw. Shaw recalled White serving a warrant to a Midland woman in a beauty parlor years ago. "He thought he served warrants on her before, but it was her twin sister this time!" declared Shaw as he and White laughed at the memory. White said, "I'm a senior citizen now. Bought my hunting license for $1.25 and I get to go fishing for free — that's after you reach age 65." Shaw and White were two of 133 graduates of the Class of 1937 at the DPS Academy in Austin. At that time, Shaw recalled, there were only 100 troopers in the Texas Highway Patrol, compared to the 1,400-plus who now work the state. Except for a 2 1/2 year hitch with the U.S. Coast Guard, White has worked his entire life in West Texas with the DPS.

people just like I would like to be treated myself, too. When you operate White recalled once earning 75-cents a day pulling cotton after graduation in 1930 from high school in Wichita Falls. Then he took a job in a drug store earning $23 per week. 'I learned the value of a dollar" he said. "A dollar back then would buy what $10 does today.

In August of 1937 White took a test for a job with the newly-created Department of Public Safety, and he was accepted. Rookie White earned $125 per month initially, learned how to shoot a pistol, ride motorcycles, weigh trucks and everything else a highway patrolman will need to know at one time or another during his career. As a warrant officer the past 22 years, White said he has tracked down people charged with traffic violations.

And, like most lawmen, White has worn a gun. But, he said, "I've never had to use it. Closest to it was letting some air out of some tires."

He admitted his career has been interesting. As an example, he recalled that in February of 1958 an Ector County Sheriff's Department deputy was killed. "I received some information the killer was holed up in a house. I and some other officers chased the man and his cohorts down. The killer was shot dead.'

Said Shaw, a longtime friend of White, "John White got that informa tion because of his being around here many years."

Another time, White drove his 1939 Ford patrol car 800 miles one night tracking down another man who had shot an officer near Morton, halfway between Midland and Lubbock. "We caught him near Goldsmith," said White, smiling.

"There were ten of us officers when we caught up with D.W. Mann. The guy apparently had killed a sheriff's deputy," he said. Now, White said, as of Friday, he intends to "go fishing."

Warm weather is expected today through Friday morning from Southern California through the South and lower Midwest to Florida. Cooler weather is forecast for the Northwest, the Northern Plains, the Great Lakes and the Northeast. Rain and showers are likely in the central Gulf and upper Great Lakes areas. (AP Laserphoto Map)

A wide band of clouds stretching from Texas across the South to Georgia is seen in today's satellite cloud photo, recorded at 3 a.m. Other cloud bands extend from Pennsylvania across New York and into Canada, stretch from Idaho northeastward, and skirt the Pacific coast. (AP Laserphoto) cut bill approved Wednesday night by the Senate Finance Committee.

Most of the changes would become effective next Jan. 1.

INDIVIDUALS

-The current $750-per-person exemption, which reduces income subject to taxation, would be raised to $1,000. (Totally disabled persons under 65 who get no government welfare-type benefit would ge allowed an extra $500 exemption.) The existing individual credit of $35 per person or 2 percent of the first $9,000 of taxable income, whichever is higher, would

-The zero-bracket amount, formerly known as the standard deduction, would be increased, from $2,200 to $2,300 for single persons and from $3,200 to $3,400 for couples filing a joint return. Single persons who qualify as head of a household (usually widows or divorced women with children) would get a $3,000 deduction.

-The deduction allowed for state and local gasoline taxes would be repealed. This change, also approved by the House, would affect only taxpayers who itemize deductions.

The earned-income credit, which provides up to $400 a year for working families with earnings under $8,000, would be expanded. The maximum benefit would rise to $600 and some benefits would be available to families with incomes under $11,000.

The main fallacy is that the media has reported that by 1985 most natural gas will be decontrolled. This is abolsutely in error based on today's market.

"The approximate amount of gas controlled today is 60 percent which is the interstate market. Forty percent is uncontrolled, being the intrastate market. According to the best estimate possible by 1985 the federal government will control at least 63 percent of the gas produced, and those categories that could be decontrolled in 1985 and 1987 can be extended to 1989.

He went on to say, "The only category of gas that is mandated to be decontrolled, which is feasibly possi-

City officials in Big Spring hope for Lockheed deadline

BIG SPRING - Big Spring officials, who are banking on Lockheed Aircraft Corp. getting the multi-million-dollar Navy contract to modify the F-4 Phantom II jet fighter, may know Dec. 15 if Lockheed will be setting up "shop" here, Mayor Wade Choate said Wednesday

The base acreage was turned over to the city

Aircraft service companies bidding for the contract include Lockheed World, North American Rockwell, Ling-Temco-Vought and McDonnell

Last December, Lockheed and Big Spring officials signed an agreement whereby the aircraft company would do modification work on the aircraft here. At that time, Lockheed was bidding on modifying the Air Force version of the McDonnell F-4 Phantom II. which was the "workhorse" of U.S. air power in the Vietnam War.

However, Lockheed lost out to McDonnell Douglas in the bidding. Since then, the Navy issued offers on bids to modify its Phantom aircraft.

The modification program would take about 41/2 years and would call for a work force of 550, Choate said. Col. Harry Spannaus, former commander of Webb AFB and now manager of Big Spring Air Industrial Park, said the modification program likely would entail installing new electronic gear and strengthening the aircraft's structure for stress and lon-and still keep on flying. Spannaus said between 6,000 and 8,000 of the attack fighters have been built since 1961, when McDonnell (which later merged with Douglas) first produced the Mach 2-plus speed Navy. He said the Air Force was so ble to be developed today, is that gas produced below 15,000 feet. "On the surface, it would seem in the best interest to the natural gas industry and customer," he said.

stream for years to come in quantities

Dillard said that while the bill has been touted as a phased deregulation act to help the consumer and producer, "as time passes, both the producer and consumer are going to have a different opinion. The interference by the federal agency in charge is going to be greater and more costly to the industry and the consumer.

'This bill creates more, not less, regulation," Dillard said. "It extends into areas heretofore left to the state regulatory bodies where it should remain, but will not under this bill.'

Ted Collins, vice president of American Quasar Petroleum, described the bill "as an administrative nightmare as far as paperwork. But I think it is better to have something settled. We will get a little higher price on new gas, but I do not like the intrastate regulation.

Collins added that he was against the bill, but he has become reconciled to the fact it was going to pass.

To Loyd, it appears on the surface to be in the best interest to natural gas industry and the customer.'

Collins added a positive note, saying "Hopefully, some people sitting on the sidelines will go ahead now and drill wells. While the Texas producers are worried about their futures, Collins said New Mexico economics will be enhanced. "It will have a positive effect on gas prices in New Mexico. They have been allowed $1.49 per thousand and I think they could receive $1.94 a on a new well.

"This energy bill is a hodgepodge o compromises and the end product is not what anyone wanted." Collins added. "Total deregulation would have been the preferred route.

A unique provision would make this credit available at the time a working person picks up his or her paycheck each pay period. Just as most persons have taxes withheld from their checks, some poor beneficiaries would have their checks increased by the government aid.

CAPITAL GAINS

Capital gains are profits from the sale of assets owned for a year or longer, including stocks and real estate. Current law subjects half a capital gain to the same tax rate applied to the individual's other income. After a $10,000 exemption, the other half is subject to a 15-percent "minimum tax.

Together, those taxes result in a theoretical maximum tax of 49.1 percent, although the average paid is about 16 percent.

The House voted to retain the 50-50 split but to exempt capital gains from the "minimum tax," resulting in a top tax of 35 percent.

The Finance Committee would subject 30 percent to the regular income tax. After a $20,000 exclusion, a new "minimum tax" ranging from 10 to 25 percent would be applied to the other 70 percent. But this tax would be paid only if it exceeded the taxpayer's regular income tax.

This would result in a maximum tax of 21 percent on capital gains.

Capital gains from the sale of a person's principal home would get more generous treatment. Under the Finance Committee plan, the profit from the first $50,000 of sales price would be tax-free. When the selling price is above $50,000, the tax-free portion would be determined by dividing $50,000 by the sales price and multiplying by the profit.

As under current law, a person could continue to defer any capitalgains tax on home sales by buying a new home costing at least as much as the old one. A person 65 or older could take advantage of both this "rollover" provision and the new tax break; those under 65 would have to choose one or the other.

The provision affecting the sale of a home would be effective retroactive to July 27, 1978. The other capitalgains cuts would take effect next Jan-

Rep. John J. Flynt Jr., D-Ga., ethics committee chairman, said he hoped to bring the Roybal and Wilson matters to the floor of the House for a vote within a week. An ethics committee recommendation would take precedence over all other business.

Flynt added that action on these and two other Korean-related cases, involving Reps. John J. McFall, D-Calif., and Edward J. Patten, D-N.J., would be completed before Congress adjourns in mid-October.

Meanwhile, Rep. Bruce Caputo, R-N.Y., a committee member, complained that the panel was moving only against the "short hitters" and - lacking key testimony - may never get to congressmen who accepted larger amounts of South Korean cash.

Flynt, who maintains that the four pending cases are not necessarily the end of the committee's 20-month-old investigation, said he may have a statement on Friday about future developments in the case.

Flynt refused to list how committee members voted. The votes were in secret session.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congressional candidates this year have already spent nearly $80 million in their campaigns, the Federal Elections Commission said today. One dollar of every six they raised came from donors of $500 or more.

The commission's study found that 1,812 candidates raised $92.2 million in the 18-month period beginning Jan. 1, 1977. Incumbents raised half again as much money as challengers.

It's the United Way

The United Way is a way of life in the Tall City of Midland, due primarily to the fact that this is a caring, sharing community.

And once again Midlanders are called upon to prove that they really do care by meeting and, hopefully, oversubscribing the Midland United Way's record goal of $928,686 for next year.

The annual finance campaign for 1979 operations was launched Wednesday with much fanfare, unique entertainment, brief speech making and tremendous enthusiasm.

This was all that was needed to get the fund-raising effort off to a fast start, with hundreds of volunteer solicitors participating. It was a thrilling occasion, with confidence in the success of the campaign uppermost in the minds of everyone present.

President Joe Pevehouse, Campaign Chairman Tom Brown and their associates had done their homework, and done it well, in advance of the launching. They have put together an effective campaign organization which knows the score and is determined to get the job done in prompt order.

But the volunteer workers can't do the job without the all-out support and cooperation of business firms, individuals and organizations of the community.

The record goal presents a challenge, certainly, but it is a community challenge and undoubtedly Midlanders will rise to meet it, It is the Midland way of doing things. And when "VIC-TORY" is sounded on or before Oct. 27, the Tall City will stand even taller as a result of United Way achievement.

Victory well may be expected because Midlanders are sold on the United Way of giving to support the 20 participating agencies operating under the United Way banner. It hasn't always been this way, but several years ago residents of the community realized the benefits of United Way giving, and they made up their minds then and there to adopt and support the program community-wide. Since then, the goals each year have been met and oversubscribed. It is felt that this year will be no

Midlanders also appreciate the distribution of their United Way contributions: 46 percent to youth services; 25 percent, family rehabilitation services; 8 percent. child care services: 3 percent recreational services; 4 percent educational services; 5 percent health and rehabilitation; 5 percent, campaign, and 4 percent community organization and administration.

The agencies involved are American Red Cross, Boys Club of Midland, Boy Scouts of America, Camp Fire Girls, Casa de Amigos, Community Day Nursery, Council on Alcoholism, Family Services, Inc., La Florecita Day Nursery, Midland-Lee Youth Centers, Midland Tape Lending Library, Permian Basin Girl Scouts, Permian Basin Planned Parenthood, Salvation Army, United Service Organization, Alamo Y.M.C.A., Central Y.M.C.A., Metropolitan Y.M.C.A., Park Center Y.M.C.A., and Washington Y.M.C.A.

Surely every resident of the community benefits in multiple ways from one or more of the programs sponsored and conducted by the various agencies. And everyone appreciates the fine work they are doing, with their programs and projects reaching into every segment of community

The United Way campaign presents each and every one of us an opportunity to join in this community-wide effort to support these needed, vital agencies in their programs of service. And they should be adequately financed in order to do the jobs residents expect of them.

So, the time is at hand for giving - the United Way.

And remember, please, that "You're the one who makes it work" - through your financial support and cooperation.

The anomalies of the two-party system discussed

WASHINGTON - Republicans must live with paradox. Since around 1966 the majority of Americans have, in various surveys, expressed views close to those pushed by most GOP candidates and elected officials. Still, the same majority feels that Democrats can better handle the "most important problems" bothering them - a paradox which mocks Republicans more than it comforts them.

Some recent Gallup Polls reaffirmed this political verity. Dr. Gallup reports that 49 percent of registered voters "likely to vote" regard themselves as "conservative," with 29 percent "liberal" and the rest in the "middle" or nowhere.

This sounds encouraging for Republican candidates until they read another Gallup Poll showing 57 percent of the people leaning toward Democrats in the upcoming congressional elections, with only 43 percent favoring the GOP.

Somehow, Democrats are better at selling themselves and their promises than Republicans are. Democrats benefit from people's forgetfulness. It is easier, I guess, to promise an end to poverty (L.B.J.) or to no more secret negotiations in foreign policy (Carter) than it is for Republicans to remind voters.

And just when Republicans are ready to score with arguments they have been making for years on the needs to cut government spending, pare the federal debt, reduce government programs, stop inflation and clean up the bureaucracy along come Democrats promising to do all this. From Maine to California, candidates from dog catcher to the Senate are outshouting each other this autumn on how they will cut the cost of gov-

Consequently, GOP National Chairman William Brock is pushing hard on his "local elections" department to make gains or at least hold the fort this fall. Reason: Legislatures will redistrict in 1980, and if partisan Democrats have their way, 50 Republican seats in the U.S. Congress will

Back in 1966, Republicans held only 140 seats in the House, but the citizenry was against L.B.J.'s Vietnam war and the Great Society as well. The GOP gained a whopping 47 seats that fall, and picked up five more when Nixon squeaked by in 1968. By 1972, Republicans held 192, but Watergate and the demise of Nixon-Agnew helped Democrats win 56 seats in 1974. So now the GOP is about back where it started 12 years ago.

In the meantime, however, the advantages of incumbency have been assessed to be worth hundreds of thousands of dollars in campaign clout to incumbents up for reelection. A senator or congressman uses newsletters, free media exposure, district offices and thousands of franked letters to tell how great he is.

Moreover, the Democratic hold on Congress is almost tyrannical. Though one in three senators or House members is a Republican that doesn't mean this ratio holds in committee appointments or staff hirings. Democrats, particularly in the House run by Tip O'Neill, the most partisan Speaker in memory, take their twothirds and then some.

According to one Democratic staffer I know, the Carter presidential campaign was able to get the free services of many Democratic-appointed staffers on Capitol Hill to do research all on the taxpayer.

It should be remembered that Wayne Hays was powerful not for his charm but because he was able to dispense congressional goodies from his Committee on House Administration. Republicans took crumbs and

One of the great political myths is that business and rich people favor Republican candidates. A study of the 1976 election showed that 53 percent of campaign contributions from political action committees (PACs) representing business went to Democrats. Business, big and small, thinks of bottom line, and the bottom line in this town is that Democrats run it. Still, the political action committees of labor unions donate nearly all their money to Democrats, too. In 1976, these union PACs gave Carter $11 million and Ford only a few

Consequently, the Republican National Committee and various conservative PACs have conducted massive direct-mail fund-raising efforts with so-called "Middle Americans" and succeeded. At this point, the Republicans will spend about $6 million for congressional races this fall, compared to the Democrats' $2 million. At last reading the conservative PACs have raised far more money than union and "liberal" PACs.

Even with the financial advantage the GOP is expected to do only so-so this fall, and one wonders about the efficacy of the two-party system. In this Congress there has been more disputation between the Democratic White House and the Democratic majority than there has! been between Democrats and Republicans.

Connally, campaigning for Lacy, won't discuss 1980

By LINDA HILL R-T Staff Writer

Former Texas Gov. John Connally came to Midland Wednesday to campaign for Railroad Commission candidate Jim Lacy - even though Connally conceded such appearances have "limited impact in terms of the number of votes.

Lacy, a Midland oilman, is the Republican nominee for the commission seat currently held by Democrat John Poerner, who also is seeking election to the job. The former governor appeared with Lacy at a press conference at Midland Regional Airport.

Connally said, thus far this year, campaigning for Republican candidates has taken him to 51 cities in 31 states, and he is scheduled to visit 24 more cities before the November election.

How many candidates does that involve?

"I haven't even counted them,"

said the former Nixon cabinet offi-

His campaigning in an area for a candidate serves three purposes, Connally said: getting the candidates supporters "fired up," calling attention to the race and lending "limited persuasion" for "people who are un-certain or undecided" about who to

Connally was asked about a television advertisement in which he endorses Republican gubernatorial candidate Bill Clements over Democratic Attorney General John Hill, who was a Connally appointee.

"I appointed him secretary of state. He's not running for secretary of state.... That's my only comment," Connally responded.

During the press conference, Connally, who has been mentioned as a possible 1980 presidential candidate, said he hasn't made up his mind yet about whether to run.

It would be "unfair to those running for office this year...to inject presidential politics into the 1978 elections. We'll have plenty of time.... Everybody's going to get sick and tired of presidential politics before we're through," he said.

On the topic of recent hearings before a U.S. House committee on the Kennedy assassination, Connally, who was a witness at the hearings, predicted the committee would conclude Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone in the assassination.

He said he was "impressed" with the testimony of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, who denied any involvement with the assassination.

Connally said he thinks the hearings may alleviate some doubts and suspicions about the assassination, but it is a "difficult task of trying to prove a negative. How do you prove there was no conspiracy?"

Connally and Lacy both were critical of the energy bill passed by the U.S. Senate Wednesay.

"I think it's a bad bill...from its inception.... It's been improved some, but it's still a bad bill," Connally said.

He called provisions of the bill for intrastate price regulation "vicious," and criticized the Department of Energy's $10.6 billion budget, "more than the profits of all the major oil companies combined" in 1976. Lacy said the worst part of the bill is the burden created by some of the regulations, such as the many price levels it creates. Although opposed to the bill, he said it has "some good features.... We don't even have much quarrel with the price." Lacy and Connally both said the Railroad Commission needs a member with experience in the oil busi-

Both decried what Connally called the philosophy of "if a man knows something about a subject, he's not qualified for the job." Lacy said he would put his oil and gas holdings in a blind trust and disqualify himself from considering anything but administrative questions regarding companies in which he holds substantial stock. Before the press conference, Lacy said, in order to win he will "have to have a lot of coattail vote. That's just the facts of life. This is a low-visibility race. But he predicted he will help the Republican ticket in areas where the oil and gas industry is important.

Odessa woman sentenced for smothering her children

ODESSA, Texas (AP) - A 20-yearold Odessa woman has been given life sentences for the smothering deaths of two of her infant children in the past two years.

Emma Jean Berry pleaded guilty Wednesday to two murder charges, stemming from the deaths in Odessa of a 2-month-old son in September of 1976 and a 2-week-old daughter last month.

After pronouncing sentence on the two charges, State District Judge C.B. Milburn said prosecutors were dropping a third murder charge against her, stemming from the death of a 10-month-old son in Houston in 1974, when Mrs. Berry was 16 years

Each of the children had a different father, and each of the deaths were reported by the woman to have been mysterious "crib deaths."

Hance campaign trying to prevent Bush from carrying Midland by 2-1

The Kent Hance congressional campaign is working to keep Republican George Bush from carrying Midland County by more than a 2-1 margin in the November election, a campaign spokesman said Wednes-

Johnny Collins, speaking to the executive committee on behalf of Democratic candidate Hance, said the campaign is "going real well so far, except in Midland County, and I'm sure you can understand that." Collins said the campaign raised $25,000 in the small city of Dimmitt last week.

Collins spoke to the committee because it was thought Hance would not be able to make a personal appear-

Hance did address the committee, however, pledging "not only (to be) effective in Washington. We will be effective in Midland," with at least two full-time staff people based here, Hance said.

The candidate said it is not true that Democrats as a whole are against the oil and gas industry. "That is more of a sectional or regional fight" than a party one, he told the group.

Hance praised the Midland Democratic organization and county Democratic candidates, quipping to County Chairman Darrell Smith, "I know you'll get us 98 percent of the vote in this county."

Also at the meeting were Democratic County Judge Blake Hansen and County Commissioner Charlie Welch, both candidates for re-election.

Hansen said he is conducting "a very personalized campaign," spending much of his time going door-todoor meeting people.

The committee appointed several vice chairmen to hold what Smith described as "honorary," non-voting committee positions. Gary Askins was named vice chairman for organization and strategy; Bob Hellman, vice chairman for finance; Harris Kerr, vice chairman for clubs, and Ralph Williamson, vice chairman for organizing primaries. Clarence Rankin was named executive vice chair-

Smith said the purpose for the new positions was to assure "that we're always training people and always opening up to people.

The group also approved a request from Smith to "resurrect this beast" and re-create a political action com-

Value of Stacy Reservoir assessment disputed

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN - An attorney for a Lake Travis citizens group argued Wednesday that an environmental assessment of the proposed Stacy Reservoir Project in Concho, Runnels and Coleman counties failed in its purpose because of its limited scope.

Thomas George, representing the Lake Travis Improvement Assn., pressed Epsey, Huston and Associates scientist Jack C. Nelson to explain why the assessment he prepared for the Stacy applicant, Colorado River Municipal Water District, apparently failed to consider the impact of the proposed reservoir on tha area from the dam to the mouth of the river.

George's insistence at one point drew a reprimand from Texas Water Commission member Joe Carroll who suggested that the attorney's questions were redundant and "wasting the commission's time."

"I believe we'll have affirmative testimony to show the environmental assessment report fails because it does not take into account the area below the dam," George argued.

Nelson, who supervised prepara-tion of the report, maintained the document was prepared according to guidelines provided by the Texas Department of Water Resources. The document focuses on the immediate area of the project and on its possible effect on the Colorado River bays and estuaries.

Nelson formerly headed the water agency's environmental division. George argued that nothing in the guidelines "prevented" the consultant group from considering the impact of the project between the proposed dam and the bays and es-

The Lake Travis group attorney also complained the environmental assessment fails to adequately explore the possibility of destroying the habitat of the Concho River watersnake, which is on a private environmental group's list of Texas endangered species. The snake recently was added to the list of animals pro-tected by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Deliver of the contract of the

Although Nelson said the snake is not on the federal endangered species list, George produced a letter from San Angelo University professor Terry Maxwell to the U.S. Department of Interior listing reasons to add the snake to the list.

Nelson indicated he was aware of that request and that it had been rejected, with the federal agency saying more studies are needed. He added that in his two visits to the proposed reservoir site, neither he nor any of his staff members had seen the snake.

Lower Colorado River Authority attorney Larry Smith challenged Nelson's statement in the report that no downstream water rights would be compromised by the project.

Nelson said that statement should be regarded in the context of an environmental review which assumes the reservoir is in place. "And it couldn't be in place unless this commission had issued a permit" and resolved that only unappropriated water would be captured by the reservoir, he added.

Nelson said the construction of the reservoir should provide a "stimulus to local economies" and that this would be a favorable environmental impact. The primary favorable impact, however, would be the "establishment of an additional source of reliable surface water for the CRMWD's service area." He also cited the recreational benefits as a plus for the area.

The Stacy Dam project's adverse effects include inundation of 19,000 acres of wildlife habitat, Nelson noted. He added only 1 percent of that area, the wooded bottomland along the river, is "considered a sensitive wildlife habitat."

The report notes "Construction of the reservoir will reduce downstream unappropriated water. However, this reduction will not impinge upon the water rights of any downstream users. The reduction will primarily be limited to immediately below the dam. Intervening flows will progressively increase the flow down-

AUSTIN — Courses in real estate will be offered in eight Texas cities this October by the Texas Realtors Insitutes under sponsorship of the Texas Association of Realtors.

The "challenges of the marketplace" and "a demanding list of re-quirements" of the Texas Real Estate License Law are leading to climbing enrollment in the insitutues.

National Cancer Institute reveals plans to make some Laetrile tests

WASHINGTON (AP) The National Cancer Institute announced Wednesday it will seek to test Laetrile on patients with advanced cancers. Dr. Arthur C. Upton, the institute's director, said he decided to follow the recommendation of a tors and scientists who recommended testing the controversial sub-

Syrian shellfire hits Lebanese presidential palace

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Shellfire hit the Lebanese presidential palace and the courtyard of the premier's office today as Syrian gunners and Christian militiamen dueled in their heaviest exchanges since the Camp David summit ended nearly two weeks ago.

Fashion world: Young designers dominate it

By NATALIE BEST Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD - Youth is dictating milady's wardrobe. More than at any time in the past three decades designers not yet 28 are telling the world's women what to wear. And Ms. America is loving it.

Take for instance Donna Karan who, at 24, fell into the job of designing Anne Klein clothing, now commands some of the highest prices and lists some of the world's most distinguished fashionalities as her Karan's success is due in part to her choice of line and design. But she says today's young women have more money than they've ever had before.

"And they don't care what they spend to look nice," said Donna. "So we use great fabrics - a treasure in attracting the price and the customer.

"Average young career women will buy a $200 pure silk blouse to wear to work. Price is not all that important.' Donna took over the top designer's job when famous designer Klein died four years ago. She and her partner, Louis Del Olio, 29, have created more than 500 pieces of women's sportswear for the New York fashion firm's fall line, which is expected to top the $26 million reportedly earned by the company last year.

Before Karan the Klein company directed its designs toward women over 40. Today Karan's $200 blouses, $400 dresses and all her couture designs are directed to and purchased by women of all ages.

Another youthful name in the fashion world is Jeanne-Marc — no, not a short Frenchman transplanted to California; rather two tall young Californians who learned their trade in Europe and returned home to shake up the industry.

Just four years ago Marc Grant, a master in graphics, and his beautiful blonde partner, Jeanne Allen, a master in arts, set up their cottage fashion industry in San Francisco,

Then in their middle twenties, Jeanne and Marc were considered upstarts. Today they are sold out six months in advance, own a half million dollar design business and ship daily to high fashion stores like Saks and Henri Bendel from Yountsville, Calif., to Paris.

Angelina's doing fine

CHICAGO (AP) — Tiny Angelina Donatello beat the odds.

She had a one in 45,000 chance of being born alive, because she developed inside her mother's abdominal cavity instead of her womb.

But she made it, weighing 3 pounds, 8 ounces at birth.

And Angelina's doing fine, although she will remain in the nursery at Chicago's Resurrection Hospital for about a month.

Her 25-year-old mother, Catherine, went to the hospital emergency room Sept. 15 because she was bleeding.

Doctors there discovered the unusual placement of her baby, and took Mrs. Donatello to surgery, where the baby was removed from her abdominal cavity. "This is a distinct rarity and a difficult situation to manage," said Dr. Warren Pearce, executive director of the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecologists. "This has to be God's miracle baby," said Mrs. Donatello, who had difficulty with two other pregnancies but was reported in good condition after surgery. "We really wanted a

Doctors said pregnancies occurring outside the uterus can cause death to the mother or the fetus, or both.

In Mrs. Donatello's case, doctors said, the ovum was fertilized before entering the Fallopian tube or the uterus, and wandered into the abdominal cavity. It then formed a placenta, attaching itself to the intestine and other organs during development, the doctors said.

reversible. Jeanne and Marc have been called the youngest couple to reach the stellar ranks in fashion in such a short time. They credit their success to creating couture designs "that hang on to comfort."

"We don't design with any age or type of customer in mind," said Marc. "We produce the garment we like - a true body shape with lots of color and find it gratifying that so many women agree with us.'

Carol Clark, who has directed cafeteria operations at Trinity School for three years and is one working hard at making the school's "healthy

Students eat naturally headmaster Doug Peterson.

By SUSAN RUTHERFORD R-T Lifestyle Writer

When they banished the coke and candy machines at Trinity School this summer, the object was not to start grumbling among the older students, although that did happen.

The object was to replace Cokes, candy and doughnuts with nutritious foods such as fruit juices, fresh fruit. granola cookies and protein-rich, sugar-free "Un-Candy.

In doing so, according to Marsha French, a Trinity parent, former board of trustee member and one instrumental in the change, children can better their grades by increasing their ability to concentrate.

Mrs. French wrote Trinity parents a letter urging support for the new lunch program. The program was designed to provide food free of refined sugar, nitrates and nitrites used as preservatives in meats and white flour. "We've gotten rid of everything in the junk food department," she said, "and we're supplying the children with healthy substitutes."

From all indications the support is there, according to Mrs. French and others in the school, but in varying degrees of enthusiasm.

'I'm not doctrinaire about it," said

"This is not a 'health food' program, but a 'healthy food' program," he said, adding that the program is still in the trial stages. "Health food implies exotic, tasteless food that you eat only because it's good for you. We are interested in healthy, nourishing, good tasting food, taking into account some recent discoveries of the effects of food on the human system. "The thing that persuaded me to go ahead was a preliminary survey of the parents which found that the greatest number were interested in getting rid of junk food at school.

"It is true that there is too much sugar in a lot of foods today and kids do get bad eating habits. But we are only providing one meal a day--not a whole diet. And we can't stop the older kids from stopping off at 7-ll after school.'

One concern of the parents was whether there would be an increase in cost, according to Ellen Bell, board member who did the initial telephone survey of about half the parents at Trinity. But the cost increase has been minimal, she said, since the foods are being ordered through a local health food store at close to

Peterson said, "We've tried in previous years to cut the cost of our food down. We're not trying to make money, but to lose as little as possible. We don't want to price ourselves out of the market. With two or three children at Trinity, the food cost could mount up."

He also agrees the cost has been minimal. For a child in the lower school (grades one through five) the average is $1.25 a day, and for a child in the upper school where there is a snack break as well as lunch, the average is $2 to $2.50. This only amounts to a 25 cent increase over lastyear.

The lunch selection is not extensive at Trinity. The cafeteria offers daily a sandwich, soup and salad lunch with one hot entree, which includes such items as grilled cheese sandwiches, tacos, individual pizzas and tamales. Now all are made with healthy ingredients. All breads. crusts, crackers and noodles are of whole wheat. All chips are natural and salted with soy sauce. Some seniors get state help

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)-Until this year, the choice for 80-year-old Bridie

Brennan often was food or medicine. The bedridden grandmother of five takes more than a dozen pills a day for arthritis, hypertension, hardening of the arteries and other ailments.

"It was pretty grim," said her son, Jack, with whom she lives. "We had to cut into the food budget, because she couldn't handle the drug expenses on her own.

But since the first of the year, Mrs. Brennan and about 255,000 other older residents of New Jersey have been beneficiaries of a novel $1 discount drug program now threatened by runaway costs-because it is too popular.

'The program is wonderful, but I don't know what I would do if it was cut off," said Mrs. Brennan, who has only a modest income from Social Security.

The program, which began Jan. 1. authorizes eligible senior citizens to obtain prescription drugs for $1, with the state paying the rest. Its estimated $5 million first-year cost is. expected to zoom to more than $37

"This program is vitally needed and we don't want anyone trying to do a hatchet job on us now," said Eugene Zoppo of Paterson, president of the New Jersey Federation of Senior Citizens, which has 494 groups representing nearly 100,000 seniors.

"Before this, there were a lot of people who were forced to use their food money to pay for prescriptions," he

State officials estimated there would be about 50,000 annual participants, but more than 255,000 were enrolled by the end of August. In addition, at least 3,000 had not been pro-

"We were wrong about the estimates," said the state's deputy human services commissioner, Gerald J. Reilly. "The original application form was very cumbersome, but when access was made easier, the original estimates stayed the same." To make things worse, there have been reports that senior citizens from the neighboring states of New York and Pennsylvania are trying to get discount drugs through relatives or by setting up fake New Jersey residences.

Under the Pharmaceutical Assistance Act, seniors living alone are eligible if their annual income does not exceed $9,000. Couples may have income up to $12,000

Other states are watching the program to see how New Jersey officials balance the goal to help seniors on fixed incomes in the face of public outcries against increased government spending. Gov. Brendan T. Byrne, who used the program to woo older voters in a successful re-election bid last year, has urged legislative leaders to adopt modifications immediately. "The governor recognizes the program will run out of money unless changes are made," said Joseph Santangelo, Byrne's top spokesman.

I went to a mental health clinic and the doctor there was considerate and understanding. He ordered complete physical checkups for the whole family. We were then referred to an endocrinologist who examined us further and discovered that both my husband and I had low blood sugar-or hypoglycemia. Worse yet, our child was found to have diabetes!

The doctor told us to go home and throw everything out of the house that had sugar in it. We learned a lot about nutrition, and now we are doing well on whole grains, fresh fruit and vegetables, plenty of protein and very little fat. they worth all the fuss and bother. I felt the same way when a few months ago I observed this couple. Their dog (another Yorkshire) had just been killed and frankly, they were a psychological mess. During the interview, they kept calling me "Harry" (the deceased dog's name) and the woman kept swooping me off the floor and crying into my fur. They would take a lot of training. First nights are generally a disaster. At 11 o'clock at night just when things are beginning to cook, they turn off the lights and go to bed. (I had been warned by other person owners that this would happen.) I tried to keep them on their feet all night but things like this happen. Old habits are hard to break.

Another thing you have to know about people is that you have to keep them busy or they drive you crazy. Every time I ate a houseplant, they were there. When I chewed on shoes, they were there. They were smothering me. Once when I went into the white living room to go to the bathroom, she came in, swooped me up, ran around hysterically finding a key to the back door, opened it and

The hardest part of training a person, however, is discipline. You have to be firm with people or they'll run all over you. When they want to play by grabbing your nose, at first you just walk off, but when they pursue it, you just sink your teeth into their hands. They may look shocked at first, but you'll eventually have a person you don't have to be ashamed to take places.

And lastly, be careful the first time you take them out in public. They wander away from you. I don't recommend a leash, but leave them in the car a few times and they'll shape

Powell, 27, was convicted Wednesday in the May 18 machine-gunning of Patrolman Ralph Ablanedo.

With the jury out, Powell took the stand and was asked by attorney Edith Roberts if he had given any instructions to his lawyers

"Yes. Not to make any arguments in my behalf," Powell said. He said he was "not at all" pleased with his defense. "If my family had the money they could have bought my defense on the order of Percy Foreman and I could have won," Powell said.

Ms. Roberts later said that she had put Powell on the stand "to protect the record — that he had instructed us but we were going to disregard his instructions.

The seven-woman, five-man jury who convicted Powell of capital murder Wednesday returns today to hear evidence on whether his punishment should be life imprisonment or death.

If jurors find the slaying was unprovoked and deliberate and that Powell would present a continuing danger to society, the death penalty would be automatic.

Powell, 27, took the guilty verdict with no sign of emotion, but his mother sobbed loudly after State District Judge Tom Blackwell read it and while his clerk polled the jury.

Jurors rejected psychiatric testimony that Powell was a paranoid schizophrenic, beset by delusions, who imagined himself in a "Vietnamstyle fire fight" when he shot Ablane-

Powell was arrested about six hours later, hiding under a bush on the nearby campus of Travis High

WASHINGTON (AP) - Reputed mob leader Santo Trafficante told Congress today he participated in a CIA assassination plot against Fidel Castro because "I thought I was helping the United States government.' Testifying before the House assassinations committee under a grant of immunity, Trafficante denied that he served as anything more than an interpreter providing English and Spanish translations for the others involved in the 1960 plot against the Cuban president.

He said he knows nothing about any attempt by Castro to retaliate.

The committee subpoenaed Trafficante to testify on the final day of a month of hearings examining whether there was a conspiracy behind the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963.

Some conspiracy theorists have speculated that organized crime figures plotted Kennedy's murder because of his administration's crackdown on the Mafia.

SAVE 15¢

Trafficante, a hunched, gray-haired man of 63, has been identified by law enforcement authorities as the long-time boss of Florida crime syndicate operations. Until Castro came to power in 1959, he ran gambling casinos in Havana.

As Trafficante began his testimony, committee Chairman Louis F. Stokes, D-Ohio, asked the routine opening questions about place of residence and place of birth.

Trafficante declined to say where he was born, citing his Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination. The committee then presented him with a federal court order granting immunity from prosecution for anything he might say, and he agreed to

He conceded that he lost thousands of dollars when the Castro government closed down the casinos and he acknowledged that he was detained along with other casino operators in 'sort of a concentration camp" for about two months in 1959.

But he said he believes Castro's brother Raoul interceded in his behalf and he was released and allowed to remain in Cuba. He said he left voluntarily in mid-1960 and settled in Miami.

Late that year, gangster Johnny Roselli approached him about joining in the plot against Fidel Castro, Trafficante said.

"At that time, I thought it was a good thing," he testified. "He had established a communist base 90 miles from the United States. I go along with it because I figured it was like a war."

LUFKIN, Texas (AP) - Many letters pouring into the U.S. Forest Service office for its survey on the wilderness areas discuss clearcutting and cannot be considered, a service spokesman said today.

He said Roselli "told me the CIA and the United States government" wanted Castro killed. An internal CIA report in 1967 de scribed Trafficante as the courier who delivered poison pills to a Cuban contact to place in Castro's food.

Trafficante said the conspirators did decide to use poison pills but he denied that he ever delivered them. The intelligence agency report said the Cuban who received the pills returned them after two weeks because he "got cold feet."

Unlike today, Trafficante was not granted immunity when he refused to answer questions before the committee during an early stage of its investigation in 1977.

The committee hopes to establish whether Trafficante had ties to Jack Ruby, the Dallas nightclub operator who shot and killed Lee Harvey Oswald in the Dallas police station. The Warren Commission concluded Oswald killed Kennedy and neither he nor Ruby was part of a conspiracy.

The committee on Wednesday produced a deposition from retired CIA official James O'Connell, who said he was the CIA's liaison with Trafficante and other mob leaders recruited to assassinate Castro in 1960.

O'Connell said Trafficante smuggled poison pills into Cuba to be put in Castro's food, but the plot collapsed.

The committee also asked Jose Aleman, a leader of anti-Castro Cubans in Miami, about his statements that Trafficante told him in the summer of 1963 that Kennedy "was going to be hit." A "hit" is mob slang for a contract murder.

The committee said Aleman quoted Trafficante the same way to a committee attorney last year.

Lead short suit into strong hand

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

It's dangerous to lead away from a king up to a hand that has shown general strength by an opening bid of one notrump. You may get much better results in such cases by leading a singleton or even the top card of a doubleton.

top spades and then lead a spade for West to ruff, but this hands South his game contract.

After West ruffs he can lead a diamond to force out the ace, but South promptly draws trumps and discards diamonds on the extra spades. South ruffs dummy's losing diamond, and then dummy is good.

CONTROL

East must keep control of the spades to defeat the contract. After taking the first trick with the king of spades, East must immediately return a low spade for West to ruff.

West returns a diamond to force out the ace, and South can draw trumps but cannot discard his diamonds because the spades are not yet established. If South leads a spade to drive out the ace, East can take the setting trick with a diamond.

After drawing trumps South's only chance is to try the club finesse since he will be able to discard dummy's losing diamond if East has the king of clubs. When the club finesse loses, South is down two.

Crane takes on big trouble Friday

R-T Sports Writer

Crane takes to the road in their fourth appearance of the season and when they get on those Greyhounds Friday night they're going to know there's trouble waiting at the end of

That's because the end of the line is Tahoka, Texas, and in Tahoka trouble wears jersey number 30.

The player inside that jersey has been causing plenty of trouble for Bulldog opponents. His name is Clifford Bailey and he may be the best running back in Texas.

The 6-3, 200 pound speed merchant rushed for over 2,000 yards a year ago and is on a similar pace this season. The Bulldogs have played only a pair of games so far, but in the season opener at Stanton Bailey rushed for 198 yards and scored three times as Tahoka won easily, 34-7.

AS BAILEY GOES, so go the Tahoka Bulldogs. Last year when Bailey was piling up all those gaudy statis-tics the Bulldogs won a regional championship. This year they're the No. 3 ranked team in Class AA.

So, it's easy to see the Golden Cranes will have their work cut out for them. After rushing off to a 2-0 start, Crane lost it's first game of the season last week to Coahoma. It was a disappointing loss for Crane as two lost fumbles spelled the difference in a 10-9 ballgame.

Though Crane will go into the game a decided underdog, they've got plenty of reason for optimism. At this stage, Crane is the top defensive team in District 7-AA and they're number two in offense. The Crane defenders have limited opponents to only 125 yards per game while the offense has been good for 277.6 each outing.

CRANE'S CARL GIBBS is the league's number two rusher, picking up 232 yards on 39 carries and scoring a pair of touchdowns. Rocky Rives has shown Crane can move the ball in the air when they have to and he stands second on the district list of passers. Rives has completed 13 of 29 passes for 244 yards and two scores.

Just about half of those passing marks have come on hookups with senior split end Andrew Hannon. Hannon has caught six of Rives' tosses for 112 yards and one touchdown. Slotback Rodney Roussarie has been the breakaway threat. He's caught only three passes but they've gone for an average of 31.3 yards.

Andrews will be out to keep pace with District 2-AAA counterparts Pecos and Fort Stockton when they entertain Snyder Friday. Fort Stockton and Pecos, who entered the Class AAA polls this week in the number seven and nine positions, respectively, are both unbeaten as is Andrews, the defending district champion.

THE MUSTANGS will find Snyder a more than worthy opponent. After big wins in all threee contests so far, Andrews can expect more of a dogfight this time. Snyder stands 2-1 on the season, their only loss coming to powerful Midland Lee in the opener. With Hobbs, N.M., coming into town the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes are hoping that wins, like shoes, come in pairs. After being shut out in their first two contests, Lamesa rode Dennis Borland's shirttail to a 14-12 win over favored Levelland last week. Borland turned the tide for Lamesa with a 90-yard kickoff return in the Hobbs found out last week that playing before the home folks sure isn't enough to secure a win. Odessa High was Hobbs's guest a week ago and the Bronchos left town with a 20-0

REAGAN COUNTY COACH Melvin Burns must have taken a special interest in Sonora's 37-7 thrashing of Mason last week. Burns' Owls; who are 2-1 in the coach's first year, have the dubious honor of playing the part of unbeaten Sonora's guest this

But there are other reason's for Burns' attention. He was the coach at Mason for several years before going Reagan County this year. Also, Mason is a District 9-A foe the Owls will have to meet on down the line. While Sonora, 2-0-1 on the season. was enjoying a big win last week Reagan County was looking at things from the opposite end. The Owls lost their first game, 36-0, to powerful McCAMEY WILL try to get back on the winning track when they travel to Eldorado this week. After winning their opener McCamey has lost two straight, the latest an 8-0 heartbreaker in Stanton.

Eldorado, on the other hand, broke into the win column for the first time this year last week, edging winless Ozona, 7-0. The game's only score came on a third quarter pass from quarterback Randy Morrison to John Cheatam. The play covered 13 yards and not only gave the Eagles their first win of the season, but also their first touchdown of the year.

Yanks retain one game edge in AL

By FRED ROTHENBERG AP Sports Writer

One game - it could have been the loss to Cleveland in April, Toronto in May, Oakland in June, Minnesota in July or Seattle in August. Reverse the outcome in any of those games, and the Boston Red Sox would be in much better shape today.

They have been one game behind the New York Yankees in the American League East since Saturday and each day that one game looms

Boston beat Detroit 5-2 Wednesday night, while the Yankees were defeating Toronto 5-1, so the Red Sox are still running, albeit running in place.

"It's never over until you're out of it, and we're not out of it - not in any way," said Boston's George Scott. "We're only one game out with four left to play. You can't call that being

"It's the same thing I've been saying for the last few days," said Manager Don Zimmer. "We've got to win tomorrow night (tonight) and hope for help. Here we are with 95 wins, four games to play, and we're fighting

THAT'S BECAUSE the Yankees keep winning, although they would prefer a little more breathing room.

"This is the tightest race I've been in," said Reggie Jackson, who played for three straight world champion-ship teams at Oakland. "I don't like Those A's teams took the AL West five straight times, winning the division races more comfortably than the 2½ games by which New York won last year and the slim one-game edge they hold going into the final four games of this season.

"Last year was close enough for me," said Jackson.

Red Sox 5, Tigers 2 The Red Sox, helped by a three-run first inning keyed by Carlton Fisk's two-run triple, posted their fourth consecutive victory and eighth in the last 10 games.

Scott, fighting a season-long slump, knocked in a pair of runs with a single and his 12th homer of the year. Luis Tiant, Andy Hassler and Bob

Stanley combined for a five-hitter, with Stanley picking up his 10th Tiant, 12-8, allowed homers by

Rusty Staub and Ron LeFlore before leaving after six innings because of a slight muscle pull behind his left

Yankees 5, Blue Jays 1 Jackson and his old Oakland teammate Catfish Hunter helped reduce the Yankees' magic number to four in pursuit of their third straight division

Hunter, 12-5, won his ninth game in the last 10 decisions with a six-hitter. He gave up his usual homer, this one to Roy Howell, who committed a key error in the Yanks' three-run second

"Cat was super tonight, completely in charge," said Jackson. "But I've seen him better. I've seen him win Cy Young awards. I've seen him 21-5 when you'd get him two or three runs early and the game was over."

The three second-inning runs were enough, but Jackson and Graig Nettles belted booming solo homers for good measure.. Orioles 3, Indians 1

Ruppert Jones slashed a two-run triple, highlighting a three-run ninth inning that rallied Seattle over Kansas City and prevented Paul Splittorff from gaining his 20th victory.

Byron McLaughlin, 4-8, pitched a seven-hitter.

Rick Miller's second double knocked in two runs in the fifth, breaking a scoreless tie. Ken Landreaux hit his fifth homer for California in the seventh.

Midland gives UNM offense new punch

A couple of years ago, Brad Wright was quarterbacking Midland Lee to a District 5-4A football championships and last year, like most dutiful freshmen forced to bide their time, he was riding the bench for the University of New Mexico as the Lobos went 4-7. With veteran Noel Mazzone in front of him, Brad seemed destined for more of the same this season, especially since his one play last season against Colorado didn't exactly constitute an auspicious collegiate debut. Brad got in for the last play of the game and threw an end zone interception. Hardly anyone no-ticed since the Buffs had the Lobos draped over the ropes, 42-17, at the time.

Still, to Brad, the interception wasn't a comforting memory to take through the off-season. Sure, all quarterbacks throw interceptions, but they can usually recall something positive to blur the memory.

MAZZONE WAS at the helm in the opener when Hawaii upset the Lobos and the Midlander didn't even get into the game and it was beginning to look like his sophomore year might be a replay of his freshman year. Then, along came Wichita

Reeves gets starting nod for Red Raiders

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

Freshmen quarterbacks could decide Saturday night's Southwest Con-ference football clash between the sixth-ranked Texas Longhorns and the surprising Texas Tech Red

Tech Coach Rex Dockery said Ron Reeves, who engineered the Red Raiders' 42-26 come-from-behind victory over Arizona, will start against the rugged Texas defense which has eight starters back from last year.

Texas Coach Fred Akers will likely start either Randy McEachern or Mark McBath but freshman quarterback Donnie Little will be on call. "You'll start seeing more of him," said Akers after Texas struggled to a 17-3 victory over Wyoming last point favorite over the Red Raiders, who scared Southern California be-fore falling 17-9 in their opener.

ODDSMAKERS rate Texas a 14-

Texas will be missing All-SWC defensive end Tim Campbell who is out for the season with torn ligaments in his left knee.

"Texas has a great defense," said Dockery. "It will be a big test for our offense.

A sellout crowd of 50,000 plus was expected for the 7:30 p.m. kickoff. In intersectional games involving SWC teams, Texas Christian was a three-touchdown underdog to unbeaten Penn State on the road; Baylor was a 14-point underdog at Ohio State; Houston was a six-point underdog at Florida State; Arkansas was a three-touchdown pick over Tulsa; and nod over Rice in Houston. The SWC is 9-7 against outside competition. The league was 14-6 after three weeks last year when it went on to lead the nation in non-conference winning percentage.

Louisiana State was a four-touchdown

THERE CAN be no more a frustrated team than the Baylor Bears who have lost by two points to Georgia and four points to Kentucky.

"I said before the season that we could be a good or great football team," said Baylor Coach Grant Teaff. "Right now I'd say we are a good team. The difference between good and great is being able to do what it takes to win."

Penn State had to charge from a 21-12 deficit to beat Southern Methodist last week while TCU is on the upswing with a 14-10 victory over Oregon.

The Pittsburgh Pirates have won 22 games in a row at their home park, Three Rivers Stadium. If they don't stretch the streak to 26, they can forget about winning the National League East title - and the Philadelphia Phillies will be division champions for the third straight year.

The Phillies, leading the NL East by 3½ games, and the Pirates, in second place, begin a crucial fourgame series at Pittsburgh Friday night with a double-header. They play single games Saturday and Sunday.

Philadelphia needs only one victory to capture the championship. However, if the Pirates sweep the series, they would be one-half game ahead of the Phillies and would have to play a makeup game against Cincinnati Monday.

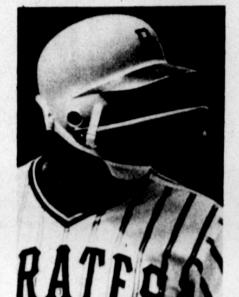

A VICTORY in that game would make the Pirates champions. A loss would deadlock them with Philadelphia and the two teams would meet in a one-game showdown.

'If we don't win one out of four in Pittsburgh, we don't deserve to win it,"! said sparkplug shortstop Larry Bowa, voted the Phillies' most valuable player by the team's fans.

Philadelphia Manager Danny Ozark agreed with Bowa. "If we can't win one, we don't deserve to win," he said after the Phillies had edged the Montreal Expos 5-4 Wednesday night.

The Pirates, however, are not giving up easily.

Dave Parker...pokes No. 30.

"The law of averages is with us," said Manager Chuck Tanner after Pittsburgh's 8-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs. "We're due to beat the Phillies because they've beaten us 10 times this season and we've beaten them four. We're a relaxed group.'

"It's going to be a heck of a weekend," said Pirates right fielder Dave Parker, the National League's leading batter with a .332 average.

THE TEAMS have met five times in Three Rivers Stadium this season, with the Phillies winning four games - one in April and three out of four last month, shortly before the Pirates began their amazing home winning

Should Pittsburgh win all four games against Philadelphia over the weekend, they would equal the longest home winning streak in major league history—26 games by the 1916 New York Giants.

Philadelphia's pitchers for the big series will be Dick Ruthven and Steve Carlton Friday night, Randy Lerch Saturday and Larry Christenson Sunday. Pittsburgh will counter with Bruce Kison and Bert Blyleven Friday, Don Robinson Saturday and John Candelaria Sunday.

"The pitchers that got us here are going to keep us going," Tanner said optimistically.

Phillies 5, Expos 4 Jerry Martin broke an 0-for-12 slump with four hits, drove in one run and scored another, helping the Phillies beat Montreal and reducing their magic number for clinching to two.

"I hadn't hit the ball hard since Moby Dick was a minnow," quipped Martin, who had not had a hit since

Pirates 8, Cubs 3 Phil Garner's bases-loaded triple highlighted a six-run Pittsburgh uprising in the sixth inning and Parker slugged his 30th homer, backing the seven-hit pitching of Jerry Reuss against Chicago.

Despite Pittsburgh's victory and Tanner's enthusiasm, Chicago Manager Herman Franks doesn't believe the Pirates can overtake the Phil-"I don't think they can do it," said

Cincinnati clung to second place in the West, one game ahead of San Francisco, rallying for four runs in the eighth inning and beating Los Angeles, the division champion.

Phillies infielder Ted Sizemore grimaces in pain as Montreal's Gary Carter slides into second on Yankees win on field lose in courts

NEW YORK (AP) - The first-place New York Yankees would be out of the American League East pennant race by now if their record on the field was as bad as their record in the courts.

As it is, the world champions keep winning games and losing decisions. They are dressing down the opposition and undressing in front of women reporters. On Wednesday, U.S. District Judge Constance Baker Motley denied a request by the Yankees and baseball Commisioner Bowie Kuhn that she temporarily suspend her earlier order admitting women reporters to Yankee Stadium locker rooms. Attorney Jesse Climenko said the appeal was lodged because Kuhn viewed her earlier decision as "inimicable, by his standards, to the welfare of organized baseball."

He also said Yankee players viewed the decision as a violation of their privacy, though some players said they did not object to the order.

THE APPLICATION for a stay was opposed by attorney Robert Joffe representing Melissa Ludtke, the Sports Illustrated reporter whose successful sex discrimination lawsuit resulted in Judge Motley's decision that cleared the way for women reporters in the Yankee dressing room.

In turning down the latest request the commissioner and the Ya kees, the judge asked why the club could not use one of her alternate suggestions to protect player privacy. Those included swinging doors, curtains or a practice of the Yankee players using towels to cover themselves.

Climenko contended that the play-ers did not think their privacy would be protected by such measures.

'We feel a player who has to resort to using a towel has lost his right to privacy," Climenko said.

Plano has shut out three opponents thus far, beating South Garland, Dallas Kimball and Sherman thus far. In fact, the Widlcats blanked Sherman's Bearcats, 24-0, last week. The National Football League is proudly proclaiming an increase in scoring this season. There's also an increase in the gnashing of teeth by defensive coaches.

The problem, more than a couple of them seem to feel, is that it's their department that gets picked on every time somebody looks for a scapegoat to explain a dip in attendance or excitement, and that sometimes changes are made simply for the sake baseball every time the hitters find themselves overmatched.

IN THE most recent off-season the league decided that, offensively, more is better. So it voted to eliminate contact against a potential receiver more than 5 yards downfield and to permit greater use of the hands and arms by linemen protecting quarter-

"It's kind of frustrating to defensive coaches, seeing all these changes working against them," says Joe Colthe sake of making changes.

"It's been going this way for the last three or four years because it seems the more conservative coaches, the ones who run the ball more, are the ones who get to the Super Bowl. It's been that way ever since Vince Lombardi and then Don Shula. They won titles with good, sound running games."

Sam Rutigliano, Cleveland's firstyear head coach, disagrees with that.

BUT CHUCK Noll of Pittsburgh, a defense-oriented head coach (he spent nine years as a defensive assistant with San Diego and Baltimore), agrees with one of Collier's points. "I feel that tinkering with the rules doesn't particularly aid the offense," he says. "I think it's a good game and should stay the way it's been."

And George Perles, Noll's defensive coordinator with the Steelers, adds: "The thing they end up doing that they don't want to do when they make ers play the game down on the field.
"From talking to one official, I found out they don't want it either," Perles said. "This year it's been magnified by a few controversial calls. You can't believe how many things they have to look for. Naturally they can't see everything. The guy I talked to, heck, he sounded a bit depressed over the things he has to do."

AND JOHN Mazur, the New York Jets' defensive backfield coach,

"Besides, every time they put rule in, we sit down on defense and study it, see what we can get away with, not to break the rules but to at least level things off again."

Which is sort of how Jim Carr, San Francisco's defensive backfield coach, views things. "The offense is always working to catch up to the defense. It's the defense that does something the offense has to try and

Pastorini back at practice

HOUSTON (AP) - If O.A. "Bum" Phillips knows his Houston Oiler football team, and he says he does, problems of the past week will be put aside Sunday for an important American Football Conference Central Division game at Cleveland. But Phillips is a confirmed optimist. "There's no problem with this team," Phillips said. "We're not a junior high team where they say if this guy doesn't come out or this guy doesn't do that, you'll have a prob-

Phillips referred to a Tuesday walkout by starting quarterback Dan Pastorini, angered when he was criticized in public by offensive coordinator Ken Shipp for his play selection in Sunday's 10-6 loss to Los Angeles.

Pastorini also was unhappy that Phillips told his weekly news conference before he told Pastorini that the Oiler coaching staff would start calling plays in clutch situations.

Phillips said he'd bet his job that Pastorini would be back at Wednesday's workout and sure enough, the controversial quarterback showed up and worked out. Phillips termed the case closed

"The situation with Pastorini was touchy but he is a grown man and I am a grown man and we've kissed and made up - not literally," Phillips said.

With the emotional problems apparently settled, Phillips still faces physical problems — those of two key players, rookie Earl Campbell and kick-return ace Billy Johnson.

Campbell suffered a strained hamstring in the fourth quarter against the Rams and Johnson, who missed the early season with a knee injury, injured the knee again in Wednesday's workout.

Both are expected to play but whether they will be at full speed is not known.

looked as though the Wheatshockers had more of the same in mind for the Lobos and Mazzone wasn't helping matters. In the second period, he fumbled the ball away and then threw an interception that led to a TD.

Coach Bill Mondt decided to take a chance with his young quarterback, after all things couldn't get much worse and Mazzone did hurt his hand. Maybe the idea was to restore the concentration of his veteran quarterback. Whatever the intent, it didn't turn out that

WRIGHT ARRIVED in the second quarter and got the Lobos' offense moving and while the stubbron Shockers twice repelled the Lobos at the lip of the end zone, Brad finally beat the clock with a 33-yard drive, personally taking it in from the two to give New Mexico a 16-14 win.

One bad game isn't enough to bench a three-year starter, but Brad got a chance to start against the University of Nevada-Las Vegas because of a bonechip in Mazzone's right hand. Mazzone was available for duty if needed, but as it turned out he wasn't needed.

Wright started out with a bang, tossing a 52-yard scoring strike to split end Ricky Martin on the fifth play of the game and the Lobos never looked back

It wound up 24-0. It could have been worse. Wright had one pass intercepted in the end zone and an offside penalty wiped out a 19-yard scoring pass. A fumble aborted another scoring threat.

Brad completed nine of 20 passes, which isn't that spectacular, but the results were. With 214 aerial yards, he averaged over 20 yards a completion.

After a performance like that, Mazzone may have that injured hand ready to go in a hurry, but chances are Brad will be starting again this week. However, he'll have to be at his best for the key WAC contest against Brigham Young, which has Marc Wilson, one of the nation's top

WEST TEXAS OUTDOORS

Heavy rains put damper on dove season opening

The South Zone dove season opened over the weekend and up until last Thursday I thought that this would be the chance to finally get in on some outstanding shooting.

I have been all over South Texas for the last couple of weeks and have seen 10 times as many doves as we currently have in the West Texas area. I had thought that over the weekend I would try some hunting down around LaPrvor, as the North Zone opener was a real wash out. That was until the monsoon hit Thursday and inundated most of my hunting

It now seems that the South Zone opening was just as wet and unroductive as was our opener in the West Texas area. The cool weather has moved a lot of birds into our area and into the South Zone, but the rains have just about eliminated any chance for some real good shooting.

I thought that maybe my old standby, a stock tank out of Snyder. would be a good alternative to hunting in South Texas, but then Snyder got four inches of rain last Thursday. As a result, my plans were changed and the opening of the South Zone was spend watching TV and cleaning my shotguns and fishing tackle. Probably some hunters got their kill limits in both the North and South zones over the weekend, but, if so, it was due more to luck than an abundance of birds and I just didn't feel lucky at the

Paperwork draws official frowns

By JEANIE ESAJIAN

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) - When people hand City Councilman Harry Kullijian a lengthy or superfluous report, he says, "they have a twinkle in their eye and a smile on their lips.' They know the report will end up in a stack of about 84,000 pages, more than 14 feet high, that Kullijian has collected in three years as a councilman in this Central California city of 100,000.

He's even written his own report about all the reports, "The Political Paper Pollution." It's five Kullijian, 58, blames government regulations and their resulting paperwork for everything from unemployment and inflation to personal frustration and lack of initiative. And he says many share his

"The public reaction was overwhelming," he says of newspaper publicity for his report.

"People commented to me about the oppression of overregulation, not being able to understand their tax forms, keeping up with the constant changes and amendments in the law," the councilman says.
"Not being able to interpret what's being said in the simplest form has made people antagonistic toward any kind of regulation. Paperwork requirements have taken over too much of peoples' jobs, pulling them away from services they should be providing, he says. Kullijian, who runs a nursing home, says required paperwork has made his staff "more concerned about what goes on paper than having time during the day to spend with the care of patients, which should be the first priority."

Unemployment is a dangerous ripple effect of paperwork, he complains, citing another personal example. Paperwork delayed projects and caused the Southern California petro-chemical company his son works for to lay off a quarter of its 4,000

Paperwork also limits initiative and innovation, as Kullijian found when he contended that a new type of sewer drainage system for a subdivision was inade-

'The city staff informed me that if I was successful in pursuing the argument, we would have to go through 52 agencies to change the type of drainage system proposed," he says.

"Many people took my report seriously because they couldn't believe the figures, the costs of report-ing and the data collected by government," he says. "But I don't think they realize or recognize that their individual participation ... is cumulative. They feel that what little they contribute certainly is not part

He says the federal government estimates it would be easy to cut 10 percent from the $100 billion, or $500 per person, spent annually on federal paperwork, but nothing has been done.

A federal report shows the worst offenders are the Internal Revenue Service, the Environmental Protection Agency and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, Kullijian says.

It is humanly impossible for elected officials to assimilate and understand the amount of data they are given, he contends.
"My great fear is that the bureaucrat introduces his own bias and I merely react. It is a horrifying experience in a position of responsibility."

DR. NEIL SOLOMON Drugs better

Dear Dr. Solomon: I've heard that it's possible to learn how to lower your blood pressure with the 18 "biofeedback" technique. Does this really work?-

Dear D.K.W.: There have been cases where people to with mild hypertension have been taught to lower on their blood pressure. The instruction was done in a laboratory, where they were hooked up to an apparatus that told them at any time what their blood pressure was doing. They learned how to lower—or raise—it in an instinctive hit or miss way, a little like learning how to ride a bike. And they were able to apply these remarkable skills at home too.

However, in a recent experiment along similar lines the biofeedback technique didn't do nearly so well. So for the time being, it should be thought of as at an interesting experimental method, not as an is alternative to the drug regime your husband is of

Medication to lower blood pressure is very effective—it is, in fact, the main method of treating this serious problem. The important thing is for the patient to stick to the regime worked out by the doctor, as hypertension can only be controlled, not cured. Unless it is simply a symptom of some underlying trouble-and one that can be dealt with

So just make sure your husband continues doing what the doctor ordered.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Who are you trying to kid? 16 Nobody gets those childhood diseases you are always 32 writing about any more.—Mrs. H.N.

Dear Mrs. H.N.: Oh yes they do. And some of the diseases are actually on the rise. In recent years, to small outbreaks of polio and not-so-small outbreaks of measles have caught neighborhoods, schools, and, in some cases, larger areas, by surprise. The other diseases, too, are still taking their toll. Overall, the percentages of vaccinated children have fallen so low that experts warn that we once again face the danger of epidemics.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I've been reading your articles about vaccinating children. I'm not sure I know what to do. What do you suggest?-Mrs. D.O.

Dear Mrs. D.O.: Check your children's medical "1 records. If one of your children has not received all his vaccinations for all the diseases, arrange with your doctor to have the vaccinations completed without further delay. If your records are incomplete or if you aren't sure that your children have been fully vaccinated, ask your doctor. Immunization is vital protection for your children. Don't put it off.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Do the polio vaccines provide protection against all types of polio?—Mrs. A.S.

Dear Mrs. A.S.: Yes, the vaccines provide immunity against all three forms if all of the recommended doses of vaccine are given.

(If you have a medical problem, see your doctor. If you have a medical question, write to Neil Solomon M.D., 1726 Reisterstown Road, Baltimore, Md. 21208. Dr. Solomon cannot give personal replies but will answer as many questions as possible in his column.)

JIMMY'S WHITE HOUSE

JIF PEANUT BUTTER Barbecue buff uses tree house

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) - Bill Sanderson can brag to all his friends that he spent a night at the White House — in Amy Carter's tree house.

No fooling.

Sanderson, a local computer worker whose hobby is barbecue cooking, was enlisted to prepare woodsmoked pork and beef for an outdoor White House party Monday night for youthful Carter campaign workers and the offspring of Congress members.

A dedicated barbecue chef, Sanderson ignited his supply of wood at 11 p.m. Sunday. Since he had to put the meat on the fire at 3 a.m. Monday, and turn the meat at two-hour intervals thereafter, he needed a resting place close to his work.

Solution: He spent the night in the tree house, close to his barbecue grills set up on the White House south

By all accounts, President Carter is comfortable with the "town meeting" format that finds him fielding questions from citizens.

And with questions like the following, who can

"My first question is I would like to ask you if you add think you will run for a second term?" said a young woman at Aliquippa, Pa., last Saturday. And also, I would like to ask you, if possible, and if Rosalynn wouldn't mind, could I please give you a

The president allowed himself to be hugged, ob- X serving, "That is the nicest question I have had so They're not all that easy, of course. At the Aliquip-pa town meeting, for example, Carter was asked: "We want to know why your administration has not had the courage to stand up to Menachem Begin

(Israel's prime minister) and to the American Jew-ish community by simply cutting off all foreign aid to the Israelis until they give back all territories stolen from the Orthodox Christians and others in occupied

Carter retorted, "I thank you for your very objec-tive and unbiased question." He then paused for laughter and applause before launching into an extended discourse on the Palestinian issue

One Pennsylvania woman, after telling Carter she would leave "all the big questions" to others, came at him with the following:

"How would you like to be the first president of the United States to honor us by being a member of the Beaver Castle Girl Scouts?"

Carter was invested on the spot. When Begin left the Oval Office after announcement of the Camp David summit results, the president presented him with a small blue plaque. It

"Shalom, Y'all."

Ever since the summit, Carter has been joking about that marathon negotiating session.

Teaching Bible school at the First Baptist Church here on his first post-summit Sunday, the president announced to his class, "It's always nice to come back from a two-week vacation at Camp David."

In a more serious vein, he confided that the summit provided some of the most unpleasant moments of his life - "and, of course, some of the most Noted currency authority, Sherman Unkefer, III, will show who's really responsible for our inflation. (You can't blame greedy corporations, labor demands or even Arab oil sheiks for this one.) Next,

Neland Nobel, author of North American Client Advisory, examines today's most important economic indicators and what they portend for the future. You'll learn why gold is considered the ultimate store of value. And why other hard money assets, whose supply cannot be increased, provide solid protection from double digit inflation. You'll also have the opportunity to ask questions and get direct unhedged answers and specific recommendations. You'll learn how Carter's fiscal policies, the political turmoil in South Africa and other fundamental issues can affect gold's performance. North American's FREE Gold Seminar gives you solid facts and the steps you can take to protect yourself from inflation. Learn them now-while you can still do something

The Rev. C. Gordon Clews delivers a sermon from the concession stand of a drive-in movie lot to car-bound passengers.

Minister brings early sermons to drive-in audience on wheels

By ROBERT F. LEVEY The Washington Post

OXON HILL, Md. - The heathen hordes are still buried in their beds when Teresa Reeder arrives. It is 5:30 on a Sunday morning, yet Teresa and her teen-age cleanup crew are busy as bees. Up one row, down the next they go, picking up beer cans and stray popcorn. They are just finishing when the blue pickup truck zooms up.

Four men get out. For the next few minutes, they unload things, more things than it would seem the truck could hold: a portable organ, a lectern, chairs, a sound system. Then they spend a few more minutes arranging it all just so.

By now, 34 cars of all description have congregated. All simply park. Not a soul gets out. And not a flicker of disbelief is visible when organist Nan Burke plays a few bars, and C. Gordon Clews declares: "Father, we thank Thee for the freedom to assemble as we are this morning.

Yup, you guessed it, it's church. But there are no steeples or pews, few suits or dresses, no ushers, no hymnals, no stained glass or candles. For this is church in a drive-in movie theater.

In a what? There could hardly be a setting less pastoral, what with the giant, empty silver screen staring blankly down on everyone, and last night's unfinished orange drink moldering around the

"All I can say is, I've never believed much in ceremony or ritual," says the Rev. Gordon Clews, who devised the service on wheels. All one can reply

Where "Bingo Long" and "Jaws 2" fill the ABC Drive-In in Oxon Hill, Md., with sound and fury each evening, Rev. Clews takes over on Sunday mornings, as he has for the last four summers.

The hymns, the solos and Clews' sermon are given from a makeshift platform atop the drive-in's concession booth. Parishioners come as they are, and listen to the service by hanging the theater's sound boxes on their car windows. All faiths are wel-

In almost every respect, the service is the same as the one Clews gives 3 1-2 hours later at home base: the Providence United Methodist Church in Friendly, Md. The only difference is the way the offering is collected. When someone knocks on your car window and hands you a basket, it is much more difficult to say you gave at the office. With a parish of only slightly more than 300, Clews noticed a severe attendance drop on summer Sundays when he first took over in Friendly four years

The reason, he reasoned, was that his largely young congregation was choosing to take the kids to King's dominion instead of the Lord's. The solution: Give them an early service, in an offbeat place, with free coffee and doughnuts afterward. The result: a church service that Clews says is "rated G for God" - and which parishioners say they wouldn't miss for all the tea in China. "It's different; that's most of it," said Linda Patterson, 26, a nurse, who comes every week with her husband in their bronze Chevy van. "It's less formal, and I love anything less formal. If you go to church, you've got to put your dress on and all that Religion's all in our head, anyway. You get the same thing out of it here as at church.'

For Grace Mullinix, of Clinton, Md., the 7:30 a.m. starting hour overrides any negative feeling she may have about the location.

'This is the prettiest time of the morning, even if this may not be the prettiest place to appreciate it,' she said. "It's a little rough sometimes getting up for this service, but for some reason or other, the birds seem to chirp here."

When Clews first decided to fuse celuloid with salvation was in 1975, he wasn't sure the idea would work. The amount of space and location of the theater were perfect. But if Fred Wineland, the owner of the theater and Maryland's secretary of state, demanded a rental fee, Clews wasn't sure he Wineland did just the opposite. Not only did he charge nothing, but he built Clews' makeshift pulpit atop the concession stand for nothing. Wineland has not attended a Sunday service at his theater, but two of his employees are regulars: Herb Barger and his son Harold, both projectionists at the ABC at one time or another. Although the ABC congregation is the only one on wheels in the Washington area, the idea has long been popular in Florida and California. And it is not the first time Clews has tried it with his own ministry. As a young minister in the 1950s in western Maryland, he did the same thing. "I can't claim it's unique or original," he said. "It just seems to work.'

It also seems to grow. Where 10 cars were regulars the first summer, 25 or 30 (containing about 75 people) can now be expected just about every summer Sunday. In addition, word of mouth has occasionally brought travelers from as far away as the Midwest to worship from behind their steering

Sewers keep Indiana town in dirty water

By JAN CARROLL

GRANDVIEW, Ind. (AP) - "Welcome to Grandview," proclaims the sign on the outskirts of this Ohio River community, "Home of the broken sewer system."

This wistful greeting reflects the frustration of the town's 600 residents with a boondoggle of a sewer project that has been in the works since

In the middle of the controversy is Harold F. Schroeder, the town clerktreasurer who also serves as manager of the municipal water and gas utilities. He has overseen the project since the town first got word in 1966 that it must build a sewer system to replace its network of septic tanks.

"I was here and it seemed to fall that I was the guy to look over the job," Schroeder said with a shrug of his shoulders

To hear Schroeder tell it, the Grandview sewer system is the story of broken pipes, ill-fitting seals, inadequate installation and faulty workmanship by the contractors hired to

"In short," he said, "it's a mess." In Schroeder's office in the town hall building are posters plastered with color snap-shots of the sewer system's failings. If those aren't enough, Schroeder has a suitcase full of other photos.

One shows brown water flooding out of a manhole cover like a gusher. "When we have heavy rains, it's always like that," he said. "We got sewage running in the creeks and ditches. It bubbles up in the back yards. We'd be better off with the septic tanks.'

Besides problems with the sewer collection system, Schroeder says the treatment facility is flawed, too.

'We've tried to pump out the lagoon. We'd gather all this sewage to redistribute it all through the county," he said. "It still runs into the

The town's problem dates back to 1966, when the state Stream Pollution Control Board revised its water quality standards. It informed the town that it must provide adequate sanitary sewers and a treatment facility.

In 1971 the town began letting bids for two parts of the project - a collection system and a treatment facility, including a lift station, lagoons and a sewer line from the lagoons to the Ohio River. The lowest bids were rejected because they exceeded the engineer's estimate.

not want to lead India again, but "I have the public The town directed the engineer to revise his plans and the bid letting with me ... and our party will come back to began anew in 1972. The contracts In an interview in the Bordeaux newspaper Sudwent to Gale Smith Excavating Co., Ouest, she said: "If I can help it I will not be prime Inc., of Warsaw, to put in the collecminister. Now we are the opposition and I have the Inc. of New Harmony, for the treatment facility. The total cost of the project was set at $503,000.

A grant covered $115,000 of the cost, and the town issued $388,000 in bonds for the balance, payable from the revenues of the sewage system. When no bids were received for the bonds they were purchased by the Farmers Home Administration, a division of the Department of Agriculture.

Construction began in August 1972 "and the first load of materials they brought in, I rejected," Schroeder said. "I told them the materials were rejected and I wouldn't pay for it. It wasn't paid for and that's when the trouble started."

Schroeder's biggest complaint was that the contractor used a material similar to roofing tar to seal the manhole joints, instead of the water-tight ring joints called for in the project specifications. Schroeder said that about 90 manholes were installed with insufficient seals.

"We stopped paying them in 1972 or early 1973," he said.

Eventually, the contractors went to court to force the town to pay. In 1974, the Parker firm received a monetary judgment and was released from its contract. Schroeder said the town never hired another company to take over construction of the sewage treatment facilities.

The Smith firm, which went to an arbitrator to settle its claim, eventually was ordered by a court to return and finish the work. "They're still obligated, as far as we're concerned, but they haven't been on the job for a couple of years," Schroeder said. The result was that the town had a sewer system that Schroder felt was inoperable.

"We're trying to get things going. The town board was on me because the FHA was on them. The FHA is raising hell. They want their Interest has been accruing on the town's loan since the FHA issued it in 1972. And until the sewer system begins to operate, the town cannot collect user fees to pay off the loan.

"We would like for them to turn it on and start using it," said Jim Stall, community programs loan specialist for the FHA in Indianapolis. "It's been built for at least four years.

"We think it'll work. The EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) thinks it'll work. Everybody who knows anything about it says it'll work, except Harold, and Harold's in

If the town refuses to run the system, Stall said the government could take it into receivership. That alternative was considered before but "we it," Stall said.

Season soars on winning note

The Midland-Odessa Symphony launched its 1978-79 season on a successful note - or on many successful notes -

The season-opening programs (in Odessa Monday night and in Midland's Lee High School Tuesday night) were certainly rousing events, featuring famed jazz pianist and composer Dave Brubeck and the New Brubeck Quartet as guest artists. The guest performers and the orchestra's instrumentalists combined to provide really splendid concerts that obviously pleased audiences of both cities.

According to Brubeck, "the first challenge of a jazz performer is to unify the audience so that it becomes an entity; once this unity of feeling is established we can begin to share a creative experience.

Indeed, it appeared that Brubeck and sons Darius, Chris and Dan quite effectively worked their musical magic to unify the audience each night and provide a very definite creative experience. The program was, for me, one of the most enjoyable musical events I have encountered in a long while. It obviously was so for a good many others as

brought home in PBS series

By TOM JORY

NEW YORK (AP) - It sounds a bit like the plot from one of those paperback-only thrillers: Burmese guerrillas offer to sell the United States 300 tons of opium, to take the drug off the market; instead, the U.S. government supports an attack on the rebels in an attempt to cut the supply line.

"The government decided to supply the Burmese with airplanes and helicopters to attack the source," says British journalist Adrian Cowell of the true-life operation, "and that strategy not only did not stop one bit from getting through, it annoyed the farmers, virtually all of whom have turned to the Commu-

"The result is the opium crop is bigger than ever, and the stuff is pouring through.

Cowell and cameraman Chris Menges endured 16 months in the remote Golden Triangle bordered by Burma, Thailand and Laos, where a third of the world's opium crop is produced. They had rare access to policy-making in Washington, as the rebels' offer was considered. And they spent five months studying drug addition in Hong Kong, a small colony with a huge heroin problem.

The result of their work is a fascinating three-part examination of the opium trade, to be broadcast Sunday, Monday and Tuesday on many Public Broadcasting Service stations. Program dates and times may vary, so check local listings.

"Opium." says Cowell of the documentary, examines the business as logically as possible in the three segments, "The Warlords," "The Politicians" and 'The White Powder Opera."

We were not trying to suggest solutions to this huge problem," Cowell says, "rather we wanted to analyze the situation and determine why it just gets

The problem in Burma is extremely complex, Cowell says, involving almost incessant fighting among local armies and government forces. The rebels in the region, he says, control the farmers who grow much of the world's opium.

Cowell says he was allowed by guerrilla leaders in opium-rich Shan State to record their story on film as part of their plan to raise money from the United

The proposal, Cowell says, was rejected by the Nixon administration, but later revived by rebel leaders. Cowell accompanied a congressional staff group to the Golden Triangle for a secret meeting with the warlords, and the plan was submitted again

Peter Bourne, at the time President Carter's chief adviser on drug abuse, objected to the political implications, Cowell says, and advocated instead the supply of helicopters and airplanes to the Burmese government to eradicate the source.

Cowell concedes there were "good reasons not to go ahead" with the plan, but says he believes the only place to cut off the flow of heroin into the United States is at the source, and one way to do that is to get farmers to plant other crops.

Cowell says because of his role in the attempted opium deal, he felt compelled to testify in later congressional hearings, to deliver as a journalist information available only to him.

"The United States is the only country trying to do anything about the international heroin problem,' Cowell says, "but it's a nightmare in Washington. You've got all these guys with the CIA and not one who's been in the Shan area since 1962, and they don't really know what's happening there.

"Every step they've taken has only made the situation worse."

The concluding "White Powder Opera" segment is an examination of the world's worst heroin addiction problem, and the effort by Hong Kong's narcotics bureau to control the drug trade.

Tales of shipwreck, treasure coming here

A true-life tale of shipwreck and sunken treasure unfolds in Midland this weekend.

The story comes to Midland's Museum of the Southwest in a special exhibition of sunken treasure recovered in recent years from Spanish ships that were lost off the Texas coast in the 16th Century. The exhibition, titled "Treasure, People, Ships and Dreams," will open to the public this weekend in the museum's Turner Memorial Gallery, 1705 W. Missouri Ave., continuing through Oct. 19. The exhibition, which unexpectedly was made available to the Midland museum, comes here through the courtesy of the Texas Antiquities Committee and the Institute of Texan Cultures at San During the years 1972 to 1976, the committee employed crews of professional archaeologists and divers to investigate some of the earliest Spanish shipwrecks in the New World. A treasure-trove of antiquities as well as historical data has been recovered from these ancient shipwrecks and permanently preserved for the people of Texas. The new show at the Museum of the Southwest is the result of the committee's activities during the last

CBS's 'Kaz': not just another lawyer show

By JERRY BUCK AP Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Like many lawyers, Martin Kazinski has had lots of experience with criminals. But his is from the wrong side of the bars. Kazinski is the unorthodox hero of the new CBS

Sunday night series "Kaz," which is not just another lawyer show. Kaz learned his law from the inside he studied and passed the bar while in prison.

The concept of the show, which plunges a streetwise ex-con into the staid world of a prestigious law firm, was created by actor Ron Leibman, who plays Kaz with unusual energy and intensity.

Leibman is married to Linda Lavin, whose series

"Alice" immediately precedes "Kaz."

"Kaz" could be one of the few new series to survive in a competitive atmosphere where rookie shows have as much chance as kamikaze pilots. In a preview showing Sunday, Sept. 10, "Kaz" more than held its own against the conclusion of ABC's 'Roots." The final chapter of the rerun of "Roots" placed first in the ratings, while "Kaz" tied for 18th with 29 percent of the audience.

It appears to be just the right show to harness the talents of Leibman, who starred on Broadway and in such movies as "Slaughterhouse Five," "Where's Poppa?," "Hot Rock," "Super Cops" and the up-coming "Norma Rae." The series resulted partly from the failure of another pilot he made for CBS

They liked him very much, they even liked the pilot, but in the end they didn't put it on," said executive producer Marc Merson. In that pilot, Leibman played an individualistic policeman whose behavior gets him into trouble, in the mold of "Baretta." Leibman brought his idea for "Kaz" to Merson and Lorimar Productions. The characters and story were developed by Leibman and Merson, the script written by Sam H. Rolfe, who became the producer. Merson said, "We've had people ask us if it's possible to become a lawyer while in prison. It is possible. There are some examples from real life and there is even one judge here who became a lawyer after a record as a juvenile offender." The opening episode has Kaz fresh out of "law school" and hoping to sign on with a major law firm. He picks one headed by Patrick O'Neal, who shares star billing with Leibman, and gets into O'Neal's private office through a combination of guile and O'Neal is captivated by such presumptuousness and assigns him a case as a test. Naturally, Kaz turns a routine case of plea bargaining into something more intriguing.

The suave and impeccable O'Neal is a perfect foil for Leibman, who dresses as though the warden picked out his suit and tucked a $10 bill into the breast pocket. When O'Neal takes him to an expensive restaurant Leibman orders smoked salmon and tartar sauce. O'Neal tries to ignore the gaffe.

"It gives Ron such a range to play," Merson said. "He can play a man ill at ease, as in the restaurant or the the courtroom when the judge catches him unprepared and you can almost see his mind frantically searching for an out.

'Or he can be tough. Here's a guy trying to make it in a world he's totally unfamiliar with. He doesn't know how to dress, how to talk, how to order in a restaurant, to say nothing of being in court. He got his law degree from a correspondence school. He's a man who's tough in a street way, a toughness you normally wouldn't find in a lawyer."

Cullen Aiken of Odessa, co-chairman of the Parade Committee, said entries still are being accepted for the gigantic parade that will move through downtown Odessa. "We already have 70 entries, not including the marching units," Aiken said. "We have 13 bands entered, with 11 of them coming from Odessa schools. We are hoping that more area cities will send their high school and junior high school bands to Odessa for the

The parade will start moving at 11 a. m. Oct. 20.

Jay Alvey of Odessa, general manager of the oil show, said he expects approximately 500,000 persons to walk through the show gates by the time they close Oct. 21.

Although all exhibit space has been assigned for months, prospective exhibitors are still clamoring for booths. Many new spaces were added this year, but they were quickly snapped up, Alvey said.

"I wish we could take care of every oil company that wanted in the show," he said, "but the Ector County Coliseum area is just so big and we are using every square foot of Another space problem also faces this edition of the oil show, just as it has in most oil shows of the past. That is a shortage of hotel and motel rooms. Most accomodations in all cities surrounding Odessa and Midland have been booked for months, and oil show visitors and exhibitors are staying as far away as Big Spring, San Angelo and Hobbs, N. M.

Alvey and the oil show staff are appealing for anyone in the surrounding area having rooms or apartments or houses available for rent during the oil show to contact the oil show office in Odessa.

"Because of the shortage of housing in the Permian Basin," Alvey said "we will see more motor homes around the oil show grounds this year then every before, and we could run into a space problems as to where we

"The board of directors will do everything possible to make this oil show as beneficial as possible for the exhibitor and the potential buyers and visitors," Byrd said. "It is very expensive for the exhibitors to come here year after year and support the Permian Basin Oil Show, so the directors will make every attempt to see they come in contact with the people they want to meet and do business

To insure that the exhibitors do get a chance to meet potential buyers of their products and services, the first two days of the show, Oct. 18-19, are

Helms, R-N.C. Texans holding key

By MILLER BONNER

WASHINGTON (AP) - Texans hold the key for House passage of the natural gas compromise bill, says Lufkin Democrat Charles Wilson, who suggests that a little political arm twisting may be in order.

House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill Jr. and House majority leader Jim Wright of Fort Worth should "be calling in all the people that should vote for the bill...and make it clear that folks who voted for the bill would be treated a little differently than folks who didn't.

"The speaker's prestige is totally on the line. The president's is totally on the line. And the majority leader is going to be awfully embarassed if he doesn't get any Texas votes," added

The Carter administration-backed compromise, which calls for deregulation of most natural gas by 1985 and gradual price increases in the interim, passed the Senate on Wednesday as expected — by a 57-42 vote.

"Right now it does not look by any means that it will pass the House, warned Wilson late Wednesday afternoon. "The Republicans are maintaining a pretty solid front...the Northeast liberals are holding pretty firm and we're not getting any significant breakthrough with producingstate Democrats.

An unusual coalition of liberals, who feel the compromise is too much a price for consumers to pay, and conservatives, who feel it doesn't deregulate prices quick enough, hope to defeat the measure when the House votes in mid October.

Wilson, a member of the House-Senate conference committee that hammered out the compromise, was named earlier this week to a 37-member task force by O'Neill and instructed to drum up support for the com-

"My job (on the task force) is to work with the producing-state Democrats," said Wilson. "That includes Colorado and Utah where I'm having some luck. Where I'm having no luck at all is Oklahoma and Louisiana."

Wilson admitted that right now only "six or seven" Texans will line up with the president and the House lead-

"In the last analysis, when the speaker, majority leader and the president put the full-court press on them, I think we'll get half of the Texas Democrats, maybe more," continued Wilson. "I'll be very disappointed if we don't get 11 or 12.

"But if we don't have more than six or seven, which is what we've got now, then the bill will not pass."

Opponents to the bill can oppose the bill on "idealogical grounds, saying it's not deregulation and on practical political grounds, which is really cause they don't want Carter to get the credit for resolving the issue," added Wilson.

The House leadership plans to lump the natural gas pricing compromise with three less controversial energy measures and stage one vote on the entire package.

"A lot of congressmen don't want to go before the voters in November without having passed an energy bill," said Wilson who noted that the 'ones we're having the problems with are the real idealogues and that argument doesn't carry a lot of weight with them sometimes.

Wilson said he hoped that five "leaning" Texans — whom he refused to name - would be invited to meet with the secretary of the Treasury and the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board to "talk about the international implications of the bill."

Wilson said he believed the oft-repeated White House agruments on behalf of a comprehensive energy bill. Passage of such a measure would improve the dollar abroad and disprove "the general percepton in Western Europe and Japan that the U.S. does not have the capacity to come to terms with a divisive regional issue,'

Should the measure pass, Texas consumers are "going to have an emotional reward because for the first time in ten years, they're going to be paying the same as everyboby else...they'll know the yankees are paying the same that they do which has been a bone of contention for some time."

The intrastate gas market in Texas has supported higher prices, thus producers balked at selling to interstate customers. The compromise would extend federal regulation to the intrastate markets, which will increase prices in most states.

China line completed

TOKYO (AP) - China's first northsouth oil pipeline has been completed between Linyi, in Shantung, and Nanking, the official Hsinhua new agency reports. It is more than 600 miles long.

The line carries crude oil from the Shengli field in northern China. Tankers take the crude from Nanking down the Yangtze River to Shanghai, Chekiang and Wuhan.

Their departure Wednesday brought the total of Pakistani deportees from West Berlin to 2,000. Most of them had come via East Berlin, sent by agents who for a fee promised them residence permits in West Ber-

House expected to put sections of bill together

WASHINGTON (AP) - Here is a rundown on the current status of President Carter's 17-month-old energy program now that the Senate has passed a compromise version of the crucial natural-gas pricing section.

The package, which Carter presented as "the moral equivalent of. war," contains five sections: energy taxes, coal conversion, energy conservation, and electric rate-setting.

Although the Senate has treated the sections as separate pieces of legislation, the House intends to put the sections back together and to pass as much of the package as possible before Congress' scheduled mid-October adjournment.

NATURAL GAS PRICING

Carter proposed keeping federal price controls on natural gas but at higher than current levels and extending them to now-unregulated markets within the borders of producing states.

The House went along but the Senate voted instead to deregulate gas over a two-to-five year period.

After nearly a year of intense negotiations, House-Senate conferees produced the compromise lifting the controls on new gas in 1985 but ex-tending them in the meantime to the intrastate markets in producing

Carter backed the compromise as the best that could be negotiated and the Senate passed it on Wednesday. A battle is expected in the House, but the administration is now believed to have the momentum needed to pre-

ENERGY TAXES

Carter proposed four separate taxes aimed at conserving scarce fuels by making them more expensive - taxes on domestically produced crude oil, on excessive gasoline use, on industrial use of oil and natural gas and on cars that get poor fuel econ-

The gasoline tax was killed early in House committee consideration of the energy program. And the crude oil tax, which Carter once called the "centerpiece" of his energy program, was killed in the Senate Finance Committee.

Although the White House once hoped the crude oil tax could be revived in a House-Senate conference committee, this goal has been abandened

But the House-Senate conferees on tax aspects of the plan are expected to meet later this week to talk about approving watered-down versions of the so-called "gas guzzler" tax and the tax on industrial use of oil and

They are also likely to approve and send to the floor of both houses for final action proposed tax credits of up to $400 for home insulation and storm windows and up to $2,000 for solar heating devices.

ENERGY CONSERVATION The administration recommended programs, ranging from new energyefficiency standards for home appliances to low-interest loans and grants for home insulation. The House passed most of these proposals and so did the Senate, but in slightly different versions. A ban on fuel-inefficient cars, starting in 1980 with cars that go less than 16 miles a gallon, was added by the Senate.

Senate conferees are expected to drop their insistence on this ban in a meeting later this week, which will clear the energy-conservation bill for final action in both houses.

The energy conservation legislation would require utilities to have programs to help consumers insulate their homes, including direct loans made by the utility of up to $400, which could be paid back on a customer's monthly heating bill.

Larger energy conservation and solar energy loans, up to $8,000, would be available to consumers at low, government-subsidized interest rates and direct government grants of up to $800 for home insulation would be available to those families generally earning less than $7,000 an8nually Similar grants would also be available to schools and hospitals.

COAL CONVERSION Carter proposed legislation to bar new utilities from burning oil and natural gas and to force existing ones. along with industrial plants, to convert to coal over a period of time.

Both chambers passed the major thrust of the president's program, but the Senate version contained looser standards and provided a greater number of exemptions. Compromise legislation agreed to by conferees was approved on July 18 by the Senate and awaits final House action. It would: - Prohibit oil and natural gas from being used in new power plants unless switching to coal would violate environmental laws or if coal was unavailable in the area at reasonable - Give the government the power to order existing power plants and large factories using these fuels to convert to coal, with a mandatory natural gas ban by 1990. - Ban outdoor gas lights by Jan. 1. 1982. Exceptions are lamps that provide the only illumination on a street, are needed for safety or have historic or cultural significance. ELECTRIC RATE SETTING The president proposed requiring electric utilities to revamp their rate structures to offer lower rates for electricity used at night or during other "off peak" times and to end the practice under which big industrial users pay less for power as they consume more - unless such socalled "declining block rates" can be justified economically.

The president also proposed giving the Department of Energy the power to intervene in state rate-making cases when these standards are not

The House approved most of the president's plan, but the Senate diluted it, voting only to give the government the power to make recommendations to state regulatory agencies on rate-setting matters. The Senate also approved an amendment to require utilities to offer lower rates

The conference committee dropped the Senate proposal for cheaper rates for the elderly and did away with the House-passed, administration propos-al that would require an overhaul of utility rate structures.

Instead, it voted to establish a set of energy conservation guidelines - including lower rates for off-peak consumption - and instructed state regulatory agencies to consider them in determining rates. However, the guidelines would not have to be fol-

This measure is ready to be signed by House-Senate conferees. It then goes to the Senate for a final vote, and then to the House, where leaders hope to combine it with the other four parts of Carter's program and to send the whole package to the White House.

Oil price hike talked

OLSO, Norway (AP) - Saudi Arabia's deputy oil minister said today a 5 percet increase in world oil prices at the end of this year would be "reasonable" and that the global economy could not take a bigger one-shot

Abdul Hadi Taher, who is also head of Saudi Arabia's state-owned Petromin oil company, was here to participate in a three-day seminar on Scandinavian-Arab oil cooperation. Because of its North Sea oil deposits, Norway has become a major petroleum producer.

Ministers of the 13-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, who at a June meeting continued a freeze on crude oil prices, will meet again in December to set prices for 1979. They have agreed that prices must be raised.

Taher told Norwegian reporters: "All the talk and speculations here about a major price increase in December are unrealistic because the world economy and the world market cannot absorb a too-high price in-

"A 5 percent price increase in December would be reasonable. Such a moderate price increase could be followed up later with more frequent increases in the range of some 2 to 3 percent the next few years."

MNB OFFERS HIGHER INTEREST MONEY MARKET CD'S & IRA'S

NEW HIGHER INTEREST CD'S

Effective Thursday, June 1, The Midland National Bank is offering two newly authorized certificates of deposit. These will permit MNB customers to earn higher interest rates than were previously available from commercial banks.

6-MONTH MONEY MARKET CD

The first CD is a short-term money market certificate with a ceiling interest rate which will be set weekly. The money market certificate can only be issued in denominations of $10,000 or more with a six-month (26 week) maturity. For example, Money Market CD rates between August 8th and September 21st ranged from 7.172% to 7.979%. This is an annual rate and is subject to change at renewal. Of course, these rates will vary week to week according to money market forces. Presently, banks can pay 5 1/2% on CD's under $10,000 for 90 days to one year. The new market certificates are nonnegotiable, but can be pledged as collateral for a loan.

8-YEAR 7 3/4% CD

The second CD is a long-term certificate issued in minimum denominations of $1,000 at maturities of eight years or more at a maximum rate 7 3/4%.

NEW DEPOSITS TO IRAS EARN 8%

Since June 1, Midland National has paid 8% on all deposits to Individual Retirement Accounts. This rate is the highest rate a federally insured bank or savings and loan may pay on time deposits of maturities of more than six months. Rates on existing IRA accounts reflect the new maximum rate. With daily compounding, the effective annual yield on 8% IRA deposits will be 8.33%.

Federal law and regulation prohibit the payment of a time deposit prior to maturity unless three months of the interest thereon is forfeited and interest on the amount withdrawn is reduced to the passbook rate. Accounts for each person are insured for up to $40,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.
